To comport with due process concerns in calculating a proper amount of punitive damages, a plaintiff may not litigate the merits of hypothetical claims of other parties [State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Campbell (2003) 538 U.S. 408, 422-423, 123 S. Ct. 1513, 155 L. Ed. 2d 585] . However, in determining the degree of reprehensibility of the defendant's conduct, evidence that the defendant committed acts of misconduct against other parties may be considered, although the other misconduct must be similar to the misconduct that was perpetrated against the plaintiff [State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Campbell (2003) 538 U.S. 408, 422-423, 123 S. Ct. 1513, 1523, 155 L. Ed. 2d 585] .

The California Supreme Court has interpreted this to mean that a state may, to further its legitimate goal in deterring future misconduct, consider whether the type of misconduct perpetrated against the particular plaintiff was an isolated event or was but one instance in a pattern of similar misconduct, in determining the reprehensibility of the defendant's conduct, which in turn will necessarily affect the amount of punitive damages awarded [Johnson v. Ford Motor Co. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 1191, 1206-1207, 29 Cal. Rptr.3d 401]. Evidence of other misconduct by the defendant is inadmissible to prove either a right to or amount of punitive damages if that other misconduct is not sufficiently similar to the misconduct that allegedly damaged the plaintiff [Holdgrafer v. Unocal Corp. (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 907, 928-932, 73 Cal. Rptr. 3d 216 (oil company's denials and concealments in relation to other oil spills and contaminations was inadmissible in suit involving amount of damage from subsurface contamination that was not denied or concealed)].

The United States Supreme Court has cautioned that while harm caused to nonparties may be considered when evaluating the reprehensibility of a defendant's conduct, such as when the evidence shows that the conduct that harmed the plaintiff also posed a substantial risk of harm to the general public, an award of punitive damages specifically intended to punish for harm allegedly caused to nonparties violates due process [Philip Morris USA v. Williams (2007) 549 U.S. 346, 127 S. Ct. 1057, 166 L. Ed. 2d 940, 951] , on remand, 344 Ore. 45 (2008) .

In addition, assuming the evidence has probative value for a relevant issue, conduct that took place in another jurisdiction may be considered even if the conduct was legal in the jurisdiction in which it took place, although out-of-state conduct, if legal, cannot be punished through punitive damages in a state in which it is tortious [State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Campbell (2003) 538 U.S. 408, 422-423, 123 S. Ct. 1513, 1523, 155 L. Ed. 2d 585] .

The U.S. Supreme Court has also rejected the contention that punitive damages awards in civil cases can violate the prohibition of U.S. Const. amend. VIII, on excessive fines, and also has held that punitive damages do not constitute a criminal penalty warranting special scrutiny for vagueness under the Fourteenth Amendment Due Process Clause [Browning-Ferris v. Kelco Disposal (1989) 492 U.S. 257, 272-277, 109 S. Ct. 2909, 106 L. Ed. 2d 219 ; see also Shore v. Gurnett (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 166, 173, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 583] . The California court of appeal has also rejected the argument that an award of punitive damages to a private party violates the constitutional prohibition on double jeopardy if the defendant has previously been punished by the state in a criminal action for the same conduct [Shore v. Gurnett (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 166, 172, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 583] . Similarly, because an award of punitive damages in a civil claim does not constitute a criminal punishment, a statute reviving the limitations period for a common law tort cause of action, thus allowing a plaintiff to seek punitive damages after the time for filing the action had originally expired, does not violate the prohibition against ex post facto laws [Roman Catholic Bishop of Oakland v. Superior Court (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 1155, 1165, 28 Cal. Rptr. 3d 355 (revival of claims for childhood sexual abuse under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.1 did not implicate ex post facto doctrine)].

[b] Awards to Public Entity Plaintiffs

There is conflicting authority concerning the constitutionality of an award of punitive damages to a plaintiff public entity. One court has held that public policy prohibits the recovery of punitive damages by a public entity because a public entity has at its command the full force of its police power by which it may impose fines or other penal remedies. To allow public entities to recover punitive damages from private tortfeasors and yet prohibit a private party's recovery of those damages from a public entity [see Gov. Code § 818; see § 177.51[9])] also raises the specter of a denial of equal protection of the laws [City of Los Angeles v. Shpegel-Dimsey, Inc. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1009, 1023, 1026, 244 Cal. Rptr. 507] .

However, subsequent California court of appeal opinions have rejected City of Los Angeles in all regards, including statutory interpretation, public policy, and constitutional concerns [see City of Glendale v. Superior Court (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1266, 1270-1272, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 16 ; City of Sanger v. Superior Court (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 444, 448-451, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 436] . Under those opinions, nothing in Civ. Code § 3294, nor any other statute, evinces a legislative intent to limit the class of plaintiffs who may recover punitive damages to private parties [City of Glendale v. Superior Court (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1266, 1270, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 16 ; City of Sanger v. Superior Court (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 444, 448-449, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 436] . Furthermore, the public policy behind punitive damages is advanced even if the defendant could have been punished through the exercise of police power; that is, the punishment and deterrent effects of punitive damages do not depend on the capacity of the victim [City of Glendale v. Superior Court (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1266, 1270-1271, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 16 ; City of Sanger v. Superior Court (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 444, 449, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 436] . Finally, these court opinions find no equal protection bar, in that there is a rational basis for any lack of symmetry in allowing public entities to recover but not be liable for punitive damages [City of Glendale v. Superior Court (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1266, 1271-1272, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 16 ; City of Sanger v. Superior Court (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 444, 449-450, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 436] .

The federal Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has also refused to apply the rationale of City of Los Angeles in a case involving a public water district as plaintiff. This court also found no constitutional impediment to allowing public entities to recover punitive damages while denying recovery from a public entity [see Westlands Water Dist. v. Amoco Chem. Co. (9th Cir. 1991) 953 F.2d 1109, 1111-1113] .

[6] Oppression, Fraud, and Malice

[a] Definitions

"Malice" means either (1) conduct that is intended by the defendant to cause injury to the plaintiff or (2) despicable conduct that is carried on by the defendant with a willful and conscious disregard of the rights or safety of others [Civ. Code § 3294(c)(1)].

"Oppression" means despicable conduct that subjects a person to cruel and unjust hardship in conscious disregard of that person's rights [Civ. Code § 3294(c)(2)].

"Fraud" means an intentional misrepresentation, deceit, or concealment of a material fact known to the defendant with the intention on the part of the defendant of thereby depriving a person of property or legal rights or otherwise causing injury [Civ. Code § 3294(c)(3)].

These definitions reflect 1987 amendments to Civ. Code § 3294(c) [see Stats. 1987, ch. 1498, § 5]. These amendments apply in any action in which the initial trial did not commence prior to January 1, 1988 [Civ. Code § 3294(e); see Code Civ. Proc. § 581(a)(6) (when trial is deemed to commence for purposes of dismissal)]. The definitions in effect under prior law therefore would apply in any action in which the trial commenced before this date [see § 177.51[6][b]]. For discussion of the effect of the 1987 amendments on case law decided on the basis of definitions under prior law, see § 177.51[6][c].

[b] Definitions Under Prior Law Compared

The existing definitions of oppression, fraud, and malice under Civ. Code § 3294(c) reflect 1987 amendments that apply only to actions in which the initial trial is commenced on or after January 1, 1988 [see Civ. Code § 3294(e) and § 177.51[6][a]]. Thus, definitions in effect under prior law apply in actions in which the initial trial commenced before that date.

Under prior law, the definition of "fraud" is the same as that currently set out in Civ. Code § 3294(c)(3) [compare Stats. 1983, ch. 408, with Civ. Code § 3294(c)(3)]. "Malice" and "oppression" are, however, defined somewhat differently. "Malice," under prior law, is defined as either (1) conduct intended by the defendant to cause injury to the plaintiff or (2) conduct that is carried on by the defendant with a conscious disregard for the rights or safety of others [see Stats. 1983, ch. 408]. In contrast, Civ. Code § 3294(c)(1) now defines the second type of malice as "despicable conduct" that is carried on by the defendant with a "willful and conscious disregard" of the rights and safety of others. Similarly, "oppression" under prior law is defined as subjecting a person to cruel and unjust hardship in conscious disregard of that person's rights [see Stats. 1983, ch. 408], whereas it is now defined under Civ. Code § 3294(c)(2) to mean "despicable conduct" subjecting a person to cruel and unjust hardship in conscious disregard of that person's rights.

[c] Effect of 1987 Amendments

The 1987 amendments to Civ. Code § 3294(c) [discussed in § 177.51[6][b]], by the addition of such words as "despicable" and "willful," are intended to provide narrower definitions of "oppression" and "malice" to provide greater assurance that punitive damages will be awarded only to punish conduct that is truly blameworthy and reprehensible [see Mock v. Michigan Millers Mut. Ins. Co. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 306, 331, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 594] . It is consistent with this view that the 1987 amendments did not change either the definition of "fraud" or the definition of "malice" in which there is intent to injure, because both of these definitions involve intentional conduct that is inherently blameworthy. This interpretation is also supported by the fact that Civ. Code § 3294(a) was simultaneously amended to require that proof of oppression, fraud, or malice be made by "clear and convincing evidence" [see § 177.51[7][a]]. Therefore, cases decided under prior law, which uphold either a finding of "oppression" or a finding of "malice" not involving actual intent to injure, should be used with caution, and are cited in this chapter only as persuasive authority to the extent that they appear to remain consistent with the new definitions.

[d] Conscious Disregard

"Oppression" and "malice" sufficient to support an award of punitive damages do not require an intent to injure in all cases. Rather, either can be found if the defendant acts with a "conscious disregard" of the rights of others [see Civ. Code § 3294(c)(1), (2); see also § 177.51[6][a]]. Thus, punitive damages are recoverable in some cases in connection with nonintentional torts [Peterson v. Superior Court (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 147, 158, 181 Cal. Rptr. 784, 642 P.2d 1305 ; SKF Farms v. Superior Court (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 902, 907, 200 Cal. Rptr. 497] .

The parameters of what constitutes "conscious disregard" are not fully established. The generally accepted view, as set forth by the California Supreme Court, is that the plaintiff must establish that the defendant was aware of the probable dangerous consequences of the conduct and willfully and deliberately failed to avoid those consequences [Hasson v. Ford Motor Co. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 388, 402, 185 Cal. Rptr. 654, 650 P.2d 1171 ; Taylor v. Superior Court (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 890, 895-896, 157 Cal. Rptr. 693, 598 P.2d 854 ; see Mock v. Michigan Millers Mut. Ins. Co. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 306, 329, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 594 ; Penner v. Falk (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 858, 867, 200 Cal. Rptr. 661] . This standard is considered as "subjective awareness," in that actual knowledge of the risk is required in all cases [see Bell v. Sharp Cabrillo Hosp. (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1034, 1045-1046, 260 Cal. Rptr. 886] . Under it, grossly negligent or reckless conduct is insufficient to support punitive damages unless the element of deliberate failure to avoid the risk can be shown [G.D. Searle & Co. v. Superior Court (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 22, 32, 122 Cal. Rptr. 218 ; see Flyer's Body Shop Profit Sharing Plan v. Ticor Title Ins. Co. (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1149, 1155, 230 Cal. Rptr. 276 ; see also Lee v. Bank of Am. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 914, 267 Cal. Rptr. 387 ; Krusi v. Bear, Stearns & Co. (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 664, 679, 192 Cal. Rptr. 793] .

Other courts, including the California Supreme Court in dicta on one occasion, have phrased the meaning of "conscious disregard" somewhat differently. Under this language, nonintentional conduct may support an award of punitive damages if the defendant intentionally performs an act for which he or she knows, or should know, that it is highly probable that harm will result [Peterson v. Superior Court (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 147, 158-159, 181 Cal. Rptr. 784, 642 P.2d 1305 ; see SKF Farms v. Superior Court (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 902, 907, 200 Cal. Rptr. 497 ; Ford Motor Co. v. Home Ins. Co. (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 374, 381, 172 Cal. Rptr. 59] . This standard is considered as "constructive awareness," in that actual knowledge of the risk is not required in all cases [see Bell v. Sharp Cabrillo Hosp. (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1034, 1045-1046, 260 Cal. Rptr. 886] . Under it, wanton or reckless misconduct may support an award of punitive damages, even in absence of a showing of actual knowledge of the consequences, if the defendant's conduct is of such severity and such shocking character that it warrants the same treatment as that accorded willful misconduct [Nolin v. National Convenience Stores, Inc. (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 279, 286, 157 Cal. Rptr. 32] .

Whether these two varying explanations of "conscious disregard" are actually in conflict, and, if so, which should prevail, has not been resolved [see Bell v. Sharp Cabrillo Hosp. (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1034, 1046 n.11, 260 Cal. Rptr. 886] . The effect of the 1987 amendment that changed the term "conscious disregard" to "willful and conscious disregard" in the statutory definition of malice must also be considered [see Civ. Code § 3294(c)(1)].

[e] Despicable Conduct

Nonintentional conduct constituting oppression or malice so as to support an award of punitive damages must be "despicable" [see Civ. Code § 3294(c)(1), (2)]. Despicable conduct has been defined as conduct that is so vile, base, contemptible, miserable, wretched, or loathsome that it would be looked down on and despised by ordinary decent people [BAJI No. 14.72.1; see Mock v. Michigan Millers Mut. Ins. Co. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 306, 331, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 594 ; see also Stewart v. Truck Ins. Exch. (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 468, 483, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 338 (evidence of insurer's policy of delaying claims of elderly claimants insufficient to establish malice)]. It is error if the court fails at least to include the term "despicable" in jury intructions regarding the meaning of oppression or malice [Mock v. Michigan Millers Mut. Ins. Co. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 306, 331, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 594] .

[7] Proof of Oppression, Fraud, and Malice

[a] In General

The words "oppression," "fraud," and "malice" as used in Civ. Code § 3294(a) are disjunctive, and proof of any of them will support an award of punitive damages [Oakes v. McCarthy Co. (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 231, 262-263, 73 Cal. Rptr. 127] . Malice and oppression may be inferred from the circumstances of a defendant's conduct. Evidence indicating that the defendant was aware of the probable consequences of his or her acts and willfully and deliberately failed to avoid those consequences is sufficient to establish conscious disregard of plaintiff's rights [J. R. Norton Co. v. General Teamsters, Warehousemen & Helpers Union, Local 890 (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 430, 444-445].

[b] Clear and Convincing Evidence Required

Civ. Code § 3294(a) was amended in 1987 to provide that punitive damages are allowable only if it is proven by "clear and convincing evidence" that defendant is guilty of oppression, fraud, or malice.

Under prior law, the standard of proof was not expressly stated and was therefore the same as that generally applicable in civil actions: proof by a preponderance of the evidence [see Evid. Code § 115]. Thus, the requirement of proof by clear and convincing evidence essentially imposes a higher standard of proof [see People v. Reynolds (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 357, 367, 127 Cal. Rptr. 561 (clear and convincing evidence means proof by more than a preponderance of the evidence)].

Proof by clear and convincing evidence has been defined in other contexts as "clear, explicit, and unequivocal" proof, "so clear as to leave no substantial doubt," and "sufficiently strong to demand the unhesitating assent of every reasonable mind" [People v. Martin (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 822, 833 n.14, 87 Cal. Rptr. 709, 471 P.2d 29 ; see Mock v. Michigan Millers Mut. Ins. Co. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 306, 331, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 594 ; see also In re Marriage of Weaver (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 478, 487 n.8, 273 Cal. Rptr. 696 (criticizing BAJI No. 2.62 as misleading and unnecessarily limited, and as setting forth evidentiary test significantly less rigorous than that propounded by the California Supreme Court)]. The addition of this requirement is part of a broader design to limit punitive damage awards to those cases in which the defendant's conduct is clearly blameworthy [Mock v. Michigan Millers Mut. Ins. Co. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 306, 332-333, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 594 ; see § 177.51[6][c]].

If the plaintiff fails to request, during the liability portion of trial, that the jury be instructed to determine whether there is clear and convincing evidence of oppression, malice, or fraud, the plaintiff is not entitled to a subsequent trial phase on punitive damages [Westrec Marina Mgmt., Inc. v. Jardine Ins. Brokers Orange County, Inc. (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 1042, 1050, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 673] .

[c] Malice in Particular Actions

In an action involving personal injury, an award of punitive damages usually depends on proof of malice. In the case of an intentional tort, malice usually consists of the defendant's intent to injure plaintiff [see Civ. Code § 3294(c)(1); see also § 177.154]. In the case of a nondeliberate act, malice usually consists of defendant's willful and conscious disregard of plaintiff's safety [see Civ. Code § 3294(c)(1) and see also § 177.155; G.D. Searle & Co. v. Superior Court (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 22, 32, 122 Cal. Rptr. 218 (decided before the 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294(c)(1))]. For example, the act of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated may constitute an action of malice under Civ. Code § 3294 if performed under circumstances disclosing a willful and conscious disregard of the probable dangerous consequences [see Taylor v. Superior Court (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 890, 892, 157 Cal. Rptr. 693, 598 P.2d 854 (decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294(c)(1))].

In a products liability action, malice sufficient to support punitive damages may be found if the defendant placed the defective product on the market in willful and conscious disregard of the safety of consumers and others. Thus, plaintiff must establish that the defendant was aware of the probable dangerous consequences of its conduct and that it willfully and deliberately failed to avoid those consequences [see Ehrhardt v. Brunswick, Inc. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 734, 741-742, 231 Cal. Rptr. 60 (decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294(c)(1))]. However, punitive damages are not ordinarily recoverable in a products liability action when the injury threatened is merely economic injury, rather than personal injury [Gawara v. United States Brass Corp. (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1341, 1360-1363, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 663] .

In an insurance bad faith action, evidence that the insurer has violated its duty of good faith and fair dealing is not necessarily sufficient to establish that it has acted with the requisite malice to justify an award of punitive damages [Mock v. Michigan Millers Mut. Ins. Co. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 306, 328, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 594 ; Patrick v. Maryland Cas. Co. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1566, 1575, 267 Cal. Rptr. 24 ; Travelers Ins. Co. v. Lesher (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 169, 200, 231 Cal. Rptr. 791] . Punitive damages are warranted to punish a consistent and unremedied pattern of egregious insurer practices in disregard of the insured's rights. Mere inept and negligent handling of a claim may constitute bad faith, but is insufficient to support an award of punitive damages [compare Campbell v. Cal-Gard Sur. Servs., Inc. (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 563, 570-571, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 64 (evidence that insurer had established practice of not investigating claims and delaying payment was sufficient to support punitive damages award); with Patrick v. Maryland Cas. Co. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1566, 1576, 267 Cal. Rptr. 24 (characterizing insurer's claims-handling as "shoddy," "witless," and "infected with symptoms of bureaucratic inertia and inefficiency," but denying punitive damages)].

For discussion of the effect of 1987 amendments to Civ. Code § 3294(c)(1) on case law decided under prior law, see § 177.51[6][c].

For discussion and forms relating punitive damages in a tort action for fraud, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit .

[8] Claim for Punitive Damages May Not State Amount

No claim for punitive damages may state an amount or amounts [Civ. Code § 3295(e), (f); see Code Civ. Proc. § 581(a)(6) (when trial is deemed to commence for purposes of dismissal)]. Despite the statute, punitive damages may not be recovered from a defaulting defendant on the basis of a general allegation in the complaint of entitlement to them. Due process requires that some form of notice be given regarding the amount of punitive damages sought [Wiley v. Rhodes (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1470, 1471-1474, 273 Cal. Rptr. 279 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11 (statement of special and general damages sought required before default may be entered; discussed in § 177.43)]. For a form for use to give notice of the amount of punitive damages sought, see § 177.167. For further discussion of requirements relating to pleading punitive damages, see §§ 177.154 and 177.155.

[9] Persons Exempt From Liability

A number of statutes exempt certain persons or entities from liability for exemplary or punitive damages.

A person of unsound mind or a minor is not liable for exemplary damages unless, at the time of the wrongful act, he or she was capable of knowing that it was wrongful [Civ. Code § 41]. In an action brought against the estate of the tortfeasor, an award may not be made for damages under Civ. Code § 3294, or other damages imposed, primarily for the sake of example and to punish defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.42].

An owner, bailee of an owner, or personal representative of a decedent is not liable under Veh. Code §§ 17000-17463 (civil liability of owners and operators of vehicles) for exemplary damages awarded against the operator of the vehicle [Veh. Code § 17151]. Also, no person is liable for such damages under Veh. Code § 17707 (negligence of minor in driving motor vehicle) or 17708 (liability of parent or guardian for negligence of minor in driving motor vehicle) [Veh.

Code § 17709].

A public entity also is not liable for damages awarded under Civ. Code § 3294 or other damages imposed primarily for the sake of example and to punish the defendant notwithstanding any other provisions of law [Gov. Code § 818; but see Notrica v. State Comp. Ins. Fund (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 911, 950, 83 Cal. Rptr. 2d 89 (unique status and purpose of Fund did not protect it from liability for punitive damages, although policy considerations were relevant to question of whether award was excessive)]. Nor is the United States liable for punitive damages under the Federal Tort Claims Act [28 U.S.C. § 2674; see Molzof v. United States (1992) 502 U.S. 301, 305-307, 112 S. Ct. 711, 116 L. Ed. 2d 731 ("punitive damages" under FTCA to be understood according to established common law meaning)].

Unlike the federal government, a federal instrumentality, such as a federal credit union, is not entitled to immunity from punitive damages merely by virtue of its status as a federal instrumentality. If Congress has provided that the instrumentality may sue and be sued, immunity from punitive damages is generally deemed to have been waived as an incident of suit [McGee v. Tucoemas Federal Credit Union (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 1351, 1359, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 808 (federal credit union not immune from liability for punitive damages)]. Three exceptions to this presumption of waiver exist, however, if it can be shown that (1) punitive damages are inconsistent with the statutory or constitutional scheme; (2) an implied restriction of punitive damages is necessary to avoid grave interference with the performance of a governmental function; or (3) for other reasons, Congress plainly intended to use the "sue or be sued" clause in a narrow sense [McGee v. Tucoemas Federal Credit Union (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 1351, 1359-1360, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 808 (quoting Loeffler v. Frank (1988) 486 U.S. 549, 554, 108 S. Ct. 1965, 100 L. Ed. 2d 549)].

Unless otherwise provided by statute, public employees, as individuals, may be liable for punitive damages if their conduct meets the requisite standard [see Gov. Code § 820 (public employees liable for their acts and omissions to same extent as private persons)]. However, the governing body of a public entity other than the State of California is authorized, after making specified findings, to indemnify punitive damage judgments against its public employees [Gov. Code § 825(b)].

Gov. Code § 818 does not bar assessment of civil statutory penalties [§ 177.51[3]] against a public entity [Kizer v. County of San Mateo (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 139, 147-148, 279 Cal. Rptr. 318, 806 P.2d 1353] .

[10] Liability of Employer

Although an employer may be liable for an employee's tortious acts under the doctrine of respondeat superior, the employer is ordinarily not liable for punitive damages awarded for an employee's acts. However, an employer may be liable for such damages if the employer had advance knowledge of the unfitness of the employee and employed him or her with conscious disregard of the safety or rights of others or if the employer authorized or ratified the wrongful conduct for which the punitive damages were awarded. The employer may also be liable if he or she was personally guilty of oppression, fraud or malice [Civ. Code § 3294(b) Greenfield v. Spectrum Inv. Corp. (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 111, 118-121, 219 Cal. Rptr. 805 (advance knowledge and ratification); see Seymour v. Summa Vista Cinema, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 809 F.2d 1385, 1388 (deciding California law; citing Krusi v. Bear, Stearns & Co. (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 664, 678-679, 192 Cal. Rptr. 793 , for reckless disregard theory and Greenfield v. Spectrum Inv. Corp. (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 111, 118, 219 Cal. Rptr. 805 , and Hobbs v. Bateman, Eichler, Hill Richards, Inc. (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 174, 193-194, 210 Cal. Rptr. 387 , for ratification theory)]. This statutory rule also applies to the principal-agent relationship [see Liberty Transp., Inc. v. Harry W. Gorst Co. (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 417, 439, 280 Cal. Rptr. 159 , disapproved on other grounds, Adams v. Murakami (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 105, 115-116, 284 Cal. Rptr. 318, 813 P.2d 1348] . The plaintiff must prove these facts by clear and convincing evidence [Barton v. Alexander Hamilton Life Ins. Co. of Am. (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1640, 1644, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 258] .

A finding that the employer was guilty of malice, oppression, or fraud is not required in order to justify an award of punitive damages when either of the other requirements are met [Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 1153, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510] . Additionally, the statutory liability of an employer for punitive damages based on the knowing employment of an unfit employee with a conscious disregard of the rights or safety of others does not impose a duty on the employer to fire an unfit employee to avoid liability for punitive damages. Rather, the employer's duty is to take reasonable measures to prevent a known harasser from committing future acts of harassment [Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 1157, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510] .

An employer cannot be liable for punitive damages based solely on its liability for the acts of its employee under the doctrine of respondeat superior [College Hosp., Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 704, 723, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 882 P.2d 894] . However, if the employee is determined to have acted under the direction of the employer, the employer participated in the act; and the employer's liability is based not on the acts of the employee, but on its own separate culpability. In such a case, punitive damages may be awarded against the employer even if none are assessed against the employee [Roberts v. Ford Aerospace & Commc'ns Corp. (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 793, 800-802, 274 Cal. Rptr. 139] . Thus, the award of punitive damages against the employer may be greater than the punitive damages award, if any, assessed against the offending employee [Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 1154-1155, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510] .

For an employer to be liable for punitive damages, the agent of the employer must have been acting as the organization's representative, not in some other capacity, in performing, ratifying, or approving the malicious conduct [College Hosp., Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 704, 723, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 882 P.2d 894] . Thus, an employer can be liable for punitive damages only if the individual whose conduct is the basis of the liability was acting in a corporate or employment capacity when the conduct occurred [College Hosp., Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 704, 723, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 882 P.2d 894] . Civ. Code § 3294(b) does not intend to punish an employer for an employee's conduct that is wholly unrelated to its business or to the employee's duties therein [College Hosp., Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 704, 723-724, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 882 P.2d 894] .

With respect to a corporate employer, the conduct that constitutes a statutory ground for punitive damages must be that of an officer, director, or managing agent of the corporation [Civ. Code § 3294(b)]. The standard applicable to a corporation has been found to apply as well to an unincorporated association [J. R. Norton Co. v. General Teamsters, Warehousemen & Helpers Union, Local 890 (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 430, 445 (labor union)].

A "managing agent" of a corporation, for purposes of establishing an entitlement to punitive damages under these provisions, includes only those corporate employees who exercise substantial independent authority and judgment in their corporate decisionmaking so that their decisions ultimately determine corporate policy [White v. Ultramar, Inc. (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 563, 566-567, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 19, 981 P.2d 944 ; see, e.g., Wysinger v. Automobile Club of Southern California (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 413, 428-429, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 (vice-president of district office operations for offices in four states was managing agent); but see Cruz v. HomeBase (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 160, 168, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 435 (supervisor for security at single outlet of multi-store chain was not managing agent of corporate chain as matter of law)]. In one case, for example, the California Supreme Court held that an employee who supervised four employees in a company that employed over 20,000 was not a managing agent for purposes of establishing a punitive damages claim against the company [Roby v. McKesson Corp. (2009) 47 Cal. 4th 686, 714, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 773, 219 P.3d 749] . The mere ability of a supervisory employee to hire and fire employees does not, by itself, render a corporate employer liable for punitive damages under this standard [White v. Ultramar, Inc. (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 563, 566, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 19, 981 P.2d 944] .

Authorization and ratification are questions of fact that may be proved by direct or circumstantial evidence demonstrating adoption or approval of the employee's actions by the employer [Fisher v. San Pedro Peninsula Hosp. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 590, 621, 262 Cal. Rptr. 842 ; Hartman v. Shell Oil Co. (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 240, 249-250, 137 Cal. Rptr. 244 ; see Storage Services v. Oosterbaan (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 498, 516, 262 Cal. Rptr. 689 (ratification or approval inferred from employer's (1) close supervision of employee; (2) familiarity with transaction; (3) awareness of meetings between parties; and (4) subsequent discussions with employee about acts giving rise to tort)].

Proof that the employee whose conduct meets the standard for punitive damages was operating within the scope of employment at the time and with the consent of the employer is sufficient to prove the employer's authorization or approval of the employee's acts [Kiseskey v. Carpenters' Trust for So. California (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 222, 235, 192 Cal. Rptr. 492] .

Ratification requires actual knowledge of the wrongful act and cannot be based merely on the fact that a corporate officer, director, or managing agent could have learned of the misconduct [Cruz v. HomeBase (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 160, 168, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 435] . Ratification may be inferred from the fact that the employer, after learning of the employee's acts, does not fully investigate and fails to repudiate the employee's conduct by redressing the harm done and punishing or discharging the employee [StreetScenes v. ITC Entm't Group, Inc. (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 233, 242, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 754 ; Roberts v. Ford Aerospace & Commc'ns Corp. (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 793, 801, 274 Cal. Rptr. 139 ; Fisher v. San Pedro Peninsula Hosp. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 590, 621, 262 Cal. Rptr. 842] . However, retention of the employee in service after knowledge of the facts does not always constitute ratification of the employee's conduct [see Sullivan v. Matt (1955) 130 Cal. App. 2d 134, 144, 278 P.2d 499 (employee's special skill and experience was necessary to employer's business)].

[11] Death and Survival Actions

Punitive damages generally are not recoverable in wrongful death actions [see Ford Motor Co. v. Superior Court (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 748, 751-753, 175 Cal. Rptr. 39] . Punitive damages are recoverable by, but not against, the decedent's personal representative in a survival action [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.34, 377.42]. In either a wrongful death action under Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 et seq. or a survival action under Code Civ. Proc. § 377.20 et seq., based on a death that resulted from a homicide for which the defendant was convicted of a felony, punitive damages may be recovered under Civ. Code § 3294(d). The procedures contained in Code Civ. Proc. § 377.62 for joinder and consolidation of actions under the two statutes must be applied to prevent multiple recoveries of punitive damages based on the same wrongful act [Civ. Code § 3294(d)]. For further discussion of punitive damages in wrongful death and survival actions, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions .

[12] Actual Damages Required

Punitive damages cannot be awarded unless actual damages are suffered [Mother Cobb's Chicken Turnovers, Inc. v. Fox (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 203, 205, 73 P.2d 1185 ; Esparza v. Specht (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 1, 6, 127 Cal. Rptr. 493] . However, the requirement of actual damages is merely a requirement that a tortious act be proved. A plaintiff may have suffered actual damages justifying an award of punitive damages even though no monetary award is made for the wrongful suffering [Wayte v. Rollins Int'l, Inc. (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 1, 16, 215 Cal. Rptr. 59 ; Weiss v. Blumencranc (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 536, 543, 131 Cal. Rptr. 298 ; Esparza v. Specht (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 1, 6, 127 Cal. Rptr. 493 ; see Gagnon v. Continental Cas. Co. (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1598, 1605, 260 Cal. Rptr. 305 (if no compensatory damages are awarded, jury must be instructed that punitive damages must bear reasonable relation to injury, harm, or damage actually suffered)]. Thus, a plaintiff may recover exemplary damages when the actual damages were only nominal in amount [Aweeka v. Bonds (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 278, 281, 97 Cal. Rptr. 650] , such as when the trier of fact is unable to determine the extent of the actual damages [Sterling Drug, Inc. v. Benatar (1950) 99 Cal. App. 2d 393, 400-401, 221 P.2d 965] , or when at least nominal damages are conclusively presumed from the violation of a technical legal right [Clark v. McClurg (1932) 215 Cal. 279, 282, 9 P.2d 505 (libel per se); Civic W. Corp. v. Zila Indus., Inc. (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 1, 18-19, 135 Cal. Rptr. 915 (trespass); see also James v. Public Fin. Corp. (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 995, 999-1006, 121 Cal. Rptr. 670] .

However, if suffering actual loss or damages is an element of the tort, a finding of breach of duty alone without actual damages cannot support an award of punitive damages [Jackson v. Johnson (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1350, 1355-1359, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 482 (legal malpractice)]. In addition, if compensatory damages for the only actual injury alleged are precluded by statute, then there may be no basis for an award of punitive damages [Berkley v. Dowds (2007) 152 Cal.

App. 4th 518, 530-532, 61 Cal. Rptr. 3d 304] . For example, if a decedent's representative files a survival action seeking to recover for injury sustained by the decedent before death, but the only injury alleged is emotional distress, there appears to be no basis for an award of punitive damages because the representative is precluded by statute from recovering for the decedent's pain and suffering [Berkley v. Dowds (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 518, 530-532, 61 Cal. Rptr. 3d 304 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34]. Some court of appeal opinions have allowed punitive damages under these circumstances, however, so long as the amount of damages bears some reasonable relation to the amount of harm suffered by the decedent before death [see, e.g., Gagnon v. Continental Casualty Co. (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1598, 1602-1605, 260 Cal. Rptr. 305] .

[13] Discretion to Award Punitive Damages

Both the award and amount of punitive damages are within the discretion of the trier of fact, subject to the rule that the verdict must be supported by the evidence and that the damages must be in some reasonable proportion to the actual damages suffered [Weisenburg v. Molina (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 478, 490, 129 Cal. Rptr. 813] . Even though an act is shown to be malicious, it is still within the discretion of the jury to determine whether or not an award of punitive damages should be made [see, e.g., Sumpter v. Matteson (2008) 158 Cal. App. 4th 928, 936 (defendant's admission that he was under influence of drugs and knowingly failed to stop at red light did not entitle plaintiff to punitive damages as matter of right)]. A jury may properly conclude that a defendant has been punished enough and not award punitive damages Browand v. Scott Lumber Co. (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d 68, 74-75, 269 P.2d 891 (jury could determine that defendant who had been convicted and fined in justice court had been punished enough)]. For a defendant to attack a punitive damage award on the ground that other such awards have already sufficiently punished the defendant for the same conduct, evidence of the other awards must be presented to the jury [Stevens v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1996) 49 Cal. App. 4th 1645, 1665, 57 Cal. Rptr. 2d 525] .

Although a jury has a great deal of discretion in the awarding of punitive damages, a trial court may determine that such an award is improper if not supported by the evidence. In such a situation, the court may grant a new trial on the issue of damages [Silberg v. California Life Ins. Co. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 452, 463, 113 Cal. Rptr. 711, 521 P.2d 1103 ; see § 177.19].

On appeal, an award of punitive damages will be reversed as excessive only if the entire record, viewed most favorably to the judgment, indicates that the award was the result of passion and prejudice [Downey Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Ohio Casualty Ins. Co. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1072, 1099, 234 Cal. Rptr. 835 ; but see Adams v. Murakami (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 105, 118-119 n.9, 284 Cal. Rptr. 318, 813 P.2d 1348 (expressing concern regarding whether this standard of review satisfies constitutional due process requirements)]. Nonetheless, the appellate court must ascertain whether the record indicates that there is substantial evidence to support a punitive damages award [Liberty Transp., Inc. v. Harry W. Gorst Co. (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 417, 435-436, 280 Cal. Rptr. 159 , disapproved on other grounds, Adams v. Murakami (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 105, 115-116, 284 Cal. Rptr. 318, 813 P.2d 1348); Mouchette v. Board of Educ. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 303, 316, 266 Cal. Rptr. 1 ; see Egan v. Mutual of Omaha Ins. Co. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 809, 821, 169 Cal. Rptr. 691, 620 P.2d 141] .

[14] Relevant Factors in Determining Amount of Damages

Certain established principles guide the determination of the amount of punitive damages to be awarded. These principles arise from the fact that the purpose of punitive damages is to punish wrongdoers and thereby deter the commission of wrongful acts.

One factor is the particular nature of the defendant's acts in light of the whole record. The more reprehensible the act, the greater the appropriate punishment, assuming all other factors are equal. In fact, in considering the amount of punitive damages to impose, the United States Supreme Court has stated that the reprehensibility of the defendant's conduct is the most important consideration [State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Campbell (2003) 538 U.S. 408, 419,

123 S. Ct. 1513, 155 L. Ed. 2d 585] .

The Supreme Court has also provided its own factors to consider in evaluating the reprehensibility of a defendant's conduct for purposes of determining whether a punitive damages award comports with constitutional due process. Those factors include: whether the harm caused was physical rather than economic; whether the tortious conduct evinced an indifference to or reckless disregard for the health and safety of others; whether the target of the conduct was financially vulnerable; whether the conduct involved repeated actions or was a single incident; and whether the harm was the result of intentional malice, trickery, or deceit, rather than merely being an accident [State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Campbell (2003) 538 U.S. 408, 419, 123 S. Ct. 1513, 155 L. Ed. 2d 585] . The mere fact that one of these factors weighs in favor of the punitive damages award may not be enough to sustain the award, and if all weigh against it, the award must be considered suspect [State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Campbell (2003) 538 U.S. 408, 419, 123 S. Ct. 1513, 155 L. Ed. 2d 585] .

After considering this guidance provided by the United States Supreme Court, the California Supreme Court has concluded that a state may, to further its legitimate goal in deterring future misconduct, consider whether the type of misconduct perpetrated against the particular plaintiff was an isolated event or was but one instance in a pattern of similar misconduct, in determining the reprehensibility of the defendant's conduct, which in turn will necessarily affect the amount of punitive damages awarded [Johnson v. Ford Motor Co. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 1191, 1206-1207]. However, evidence of other misconduct by the defendant is inadmissible to prove either a right to or amount of punitive damages if that other misconduct is not sufficiently similar to the misconduct that allegedly damaged the plaintiff [Holdgrafer v. Unocal Corp. (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 907, 928-932, 73 Cal. Rptr. 3d 216 (oil company's denials and concealments in relation to other oil spills and contaminations was inadmissible in suit involving amount of damage from subsurface contamination that was not denied or concealed)].

The United States Supreme Court has cautioned that while harm caused to nonparties may be considered when evaluating the reprehensibility of a defendant's conduct, such as when the evidence shows that the conduct that harmed the plaintiff also posed a substantial risk of harm to the general public, an award of punitive damages specifically intended to punish for harm allegedly caused to nonparties violates due process [Philip Morris USA v. Williams (2007) 127 S. Ct. 1057, 166 L. Ed. 2d 940, 949950] , on remand, 344 Ore. 45 (2008) . To this end, when there exists in a particular case a significant risk that the jury may be confused as to how evidence of harm to nonparties may be used, a court, upon request, must take steps to alleviate the confusion [Philip Morris USA v. Williams (2007) 127 S. Ct. 1057, 166 L. Ed. 2d 940, 951 , on remand, 344 Or. 45 (2008) ; see, e.g., Bullock v. Philip Morris USA, Inc. (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 655, 693 (error for trial court to refuse to instruct jury not to impose punishment for harms suffered by persons other than plaintiff)].

In addition to the reprehensibility of the defendant's conduct, another factor relevant to the amount of punitive damages is the amount of compensatory damages awarded. In general, even if an act is considerably reprehensible, it will not justify a proportionally higher amount of punitive damages if the actual harm suffered thereby is small [Neal v. Farmers Ins. Exch. (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 910, 928, 148 Cal. Rptr. 389, 582 P.2d 980 ; see § 177.51[15]].

The United States Supreme Court has also suggested that a reviewing court, in determining whether an award of punitive damages comports with due process, should consider the difference between the punitive damages award and any civil penalties that are authorized or imposed in comparable cases [State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Campbell (2003) 538 U.S. 408, 416-418, 123 S. Ct. 1513, 155 L. Ed. 2d 585] . However, this guideline is only for reviewing courts and need not be included in jury instructions [Century Sur. Co. v. Polisso (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 922, 959-960, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 468] .

Another consideration is the wealth of the particular defendant. The traditional view has been that the function of deterrence cannot be served if the wealth of the defendant allows him or her to absorb the award with little or no discomfort. Conversely, the function of punitive damages is not served by an award that, in light of defendant's wealth and the gravity of the particular act, exceeds the level necessary to properly punish and deter [Adams v. Murakami (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 105, 110, 284 Cal. Rptr. 318, 813 P.2d 1348 ; Neal v. Farmers Ins. Exch. (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 910, 928, 148 Cal. Rptr. 389, 582 P.2d 980 ; Devlin v. Kearny Mesa AMC/Jeep/Renault, Inc. (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 381, 389, 202 Cal. Rptr. 204 ; Pistorius v. Prudential Ins. Co. (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 541, 554, 176 Cal. Rptr. 660 ; see § 177.51[16]].

However, under the United States Supreme Court's current constitutional jurisprudence, the defendant's wealth may not be used to justify an award of punitive damages that is otherwise unconstitutional [State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Campbell (2003) 538 U.S. 408, 427, 123 S. Ct. 1513, 155 L. Ed. 2d 585] . In light of these pronouncements, the California Supreme Court has concluded that although the wealth of a defendant alone cannot justify a high punitive damages award and cannot substitute for tailoring the award to the reprehensibility of the defendant's conduct or to the amount of compensatory damages, the state has a legitimate interest in deterring future misconduct and may still allow juries to consider the wealth of the defendant in awarding punitive damages. For example, if the amount of compensatory damages is relatively small, the wealth of a defendant in combination with a high degree of reprehensibility assigned to that defendant's conduct may justify a ratio between compensatory damages and punitive damages that is well beyond the single-digit ratios that are normally acceptable [Simon v. San Paolo U.S. Holding Co., Inc. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 1159, 1186, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 379, 113 P.3d 63] .

One court has included in an opinion a chart analyzing the relationship between the amount of punitive damages and the wealth of a defendant and the relationship between punitive and compensatory damages in 16 California cases [see Devlin v. Kearny Mesa AMC/Jeep/Renault, Inc. (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 381, 393-396, 202 Cal. Rptr. 204] . Another court, in analyzing this chart, found that punitive damages are generally not allowed to exceed 10 percent of the defendant's net worth, and that significantly lower percentages are the norm [Storage Services v. Oosterbaan (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 498, 515, 262 Cal. Rptr. 689] .

The importance of the policy violated by the defendant's conduct is also relevant to the appropriate amount of punitive damages [Zhadan v. Downtown L.A. Motors (1976) 66 Cal. App. 3d 481, 499, 136 Cal. Rptr. 132] . Acts that are part of a conscious course of conduct, firmly grounded in established companypolicy, may often call for punitive damages to deter socially unacceptable corporate conduct and to discourage theperpetuation of the objectionable policies [Hughes v. Blue Cross of N. Cal. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 832, 847, 263 Cal. Rptr. 850] .

[15] Reasonable Relationship to Actual Damages Required

Punitive damages must bear a reasonable relationship to actual damages for the purpose of guarding against excessive damages [Liodas v. Sahadi (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 278, 284, 137 Cal. Rptr. 635, 562 P.2d 316 ; Finney v. Lockhart (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 161, 164, 217 P.2d 19] . To ensure that there is a reasonable relationship between punitive and actual damages, punitive damages must be assessed at the same time as actual damages [Liodas v. Sahadi (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 278, 284, 137 Cal. Rptr. 635, 562 P.2d 316 (when new trial is granted on issue of compensatory damages, amount of punitive damages must be redetermined concurrently)].

If compensatory damages are reduced on appeal, it may be appropriate for the appellate court to reduce punitive damages as well, in order to maintain the ratio established by the jury [see Las Palmas Associates v. Las Palmas Center Associates (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1220, 1255, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 301] . However, a reduction in compensatory damages will not necessarily mandate a corresponding reduction in punitive damages. For example, a trial court may issue a remittitur as to compensatory damages, but refuse to grant a reduction in punitive damages, so long as the punitive damage award still bears a reasonable relation to the reduced compensatory damage award and the award is not otherwise excessive [McGee v. Tucoemas Federal Credit Union (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 1351, 1362, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 808] .

A reasonable relationship involves more than a simple mathematical comparison between the two amounts [Zhadan v.

Downtown L.A. Motors (1976) 66 Cal. App. 3d 481, 499, 136 Cal. Rptr. 132] . Consequently, there is no fixed ratio by which to determine the proper proportion of punitive to actual damages [Liodas v. Sahadi (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 278, 284, 137 Cal. Rptr. 635, 562 P.2d 316 ; see Castaic Clay Mfg. Co. v. Dedes (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 444, 450, 240 Cal. Rptr. 652] . However, if the ratio is grossly disproportionate, the award of punitive damages may be reversed or reduced [Little v. Stuyvesant Life Ins. Co. (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 451, 469-470, 136 Cal. Rptr. 653 (reversing judgment where ratio in excess of 14 to one and punitive damages exceeded compensatory damages by over $2 million)].

The reasonableness of the relation between actual and punitive damages is not evaluated by any rigid formula, but rather by a fluid process of adding and subtracting different considerations [Betts v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 688, 711-712, 201 Cal. Rptr. 528] . It carries more weight if the ratio is extremely high and the conduct is somewhat less reprehensible. The proper consideration is whether the punitive damage award bears a reasonable relationship to its principal purpose of punishment and deterrence [Betts v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 688, 711-712, 201 Cal. Rptr. 528 (affirmance when ratio was six to one and punitive award exceeded compensatory award by $2.5 million)]. If no compensatory damages are awarded (§ 177.102[15][a]), the jury must be instructed that the punitive damages must bear a reasonable relation to the injury, harm, or damage actually suffered [Gagnon v. Continental Cas. Co. (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1598, 1605, 260 Cal. Rptr. 305] .

Recognizing that there is no bright-line ratio between compensatory and punitive damages that must be met to meet federal constitutional dueprocess requirements [see § 177.51[5][a]], the United States Supreme Court has suggested that single-digit ratios, such as 4 to 1 or 5 to 1, are more likely to comport with due process than larger ratios [State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Campbell (2003) 538 U.S. 408, 425, 123 S. Ct. 1513, 155 L. Ed. 2d 585] . The Court admitted, however, that larger ratios may be acceptable in cases involving especially egregious conduct that results in a relatively small amount of economic damage. Conversely, a smaller ratio may be all that will be constitutionally tolerated if the defendant's conduct has resulted in a substantial award of compensatory damages [State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Campbell (2003) 538 U.S. 408, 425, 428-429, 123 S. Ct. 1513, 155 L. Ed. 2d 585 (award with ratio of 145 to 1 was reversed because substantial compensatory damages award of $1 million fully compensated plaintiffs for emotional distress caused by failure of insurance company to settle third-party claim); see, e.g., Diamond Woodworks, Inc. v. Argonaut Ins. Co. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1020, 1055-1057, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 736 (under Campbell, punitive damages award of $1,000,000 would be appropriate in action for bad faith and fraud against insurer because compensatory damages were reduced on appeal to $258,570)]. The California Supreme Court has interpreted these statements to mean that absent special justification, ratios between punitive damages and plaintiff's actual or potential compensatory damages that are greater than nine or 10 to one are constitutionally suspect and cannot survive appellate scrutiny under the due process clause [Simon v. San Paolo U.S. Holding Co., Inc. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 1159, 1182, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 379, 113 P.3d 63] .

Applying these principles, the California court of appeal in one case reduced a punitive damages award from $7 million to $1.5 million. In that case, the plaintiff was awarded compensatory damages of $165,000. The court concluded that a punitive damages-to-compensatory damages ratio of just over 9 to 1 was justified because the defendant's conduct, which consisted of fraud and breach of fiduciary duties inflicted against other members of a business partnership, was highly reprehensible and because the amount of compensatory damages did not fully reflect the outrageousness of that conduct. The court also noted that given the defendant's estimated worth of between $600 million and $800 million, a lesser amount of punitive damages would not be sufficiently punitive [Bardis v. Oates (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 1, 26-27, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 89] .

Similarly, in reducing a punitive damages award against a tobacco company from $100 million to $50 million, in a case in which the compensatory damages award was $5.5 million, the court of appeal concluded that a 9-to-1 ratio was warranted. The court noted the extreme reprehensibility of the company's longstanding conduct in adding substances to its cigarettes to increase their addictiveness, gaining smokers by fraud and through its long denial of the dangers of smoking, and marketing a product that was more dangerous than consumers expected [Boeken v. Philip Morris, Inc. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 1640, 1703, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 638 , aff'd, Boeken v. Philip Morris USA, Inc. (2010) 48 Cal.

4th 788, 108 Cal. Rptr. 3d 806, 230 P.3d 342].

The California Supreme Court held that a 1-to-1 ratio was the appropriate maximum in an employment harassment and termination case in which most of the actionable conduct was committed by a low-level supervisor and the conduct of the corporate employer in not responding to a single complaint brought by the employee was not very reprehensible. In that case, the Supreme Court noted that the plaintiff was awarded almost $2 million in compensatory damages, which included an award of $1.3 million in non-economic damages that may have included a punitive component reflecting the jury's indignation at the way the plaintiff was treated by her employer [Roby v. McKesson Corp. (2009) 47 Cal. 4th 686, 718-719, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 773, 219 P.3d 749] .

In some rare circumstances, it may be appropriate to proportion punitive damages to some measure of harm other than the actual amount of compensatory damages awarded. For example, punitive damages might be proportioned to uncompensated harm, or to potential damages that were not--but could have been--inflicted, if these potential damages are a truer measure of the risk created by the defendant's conduct [Simon v. San Paolo U.S. Holding Co., Inc. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 1159, 1173-1174, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 379, 113 P.3d 63] . However, the use of potential harm as a measure must be limited to potential harm that was actually intended by the defendant or was reasonably likely to occur from the defendant's conduct [see Simon v. San Paolo U.S. Holding Co., Inc. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 1159, 1177, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 379, 113 P.3d 63] . In addition, there must be a causal connection between the conduct for which punitive damages were awarded and any uncompensated harm to use that harm as the basis for establishing a proper amount of punitive damages [Simon v. San Paolo U.S. Holding Co., Inc. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 1159, 1175-1176, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 379, 113 P.3d 63] .

[16] Evidence of Defendant's Wealth

In determining the amount necessary to impose the appropriate punitive effect, the court must consider the wealth of the defendant [Adams v. Murakami (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 105, 109-116, 284 Cal. Rptr. 318, 813 P.2d 1348] . However, the United States Supreme Court has cautioned that the wealth of a defendant may not be used to justify an award of punitive damages that is otherwise unconstitutional [State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Campbell (2003) 538 U.S. 408, 427, 123 S. Ct. 1513, 155 L. Ed. 2d 585] . In light of these pronouncements, the California Supreme Court has concluded that although the wealth of a defendant alone cannot justify a high punitive damages award and cannot substitute for tailoring the award to the reprehensibility of the defendant's conduct or to the amount of compensatory damages, the state has a legitimate interest in deterring future misconduct and may still allow juries to consider the wealth of the defendant in awarding punitive damages [Simon v. San Paolo U.S. Holding Co., Inc. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 1159, 1186, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 379, 113 P.3d 63 ; see also Century Sur. Co. v. Polisso (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 922, 961, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 468 (no error for jury to consider evidence of defendant's wealth in determining amount of punitive damages necessary to punish and deter); see generally § 177.51[14]].

The plaintiff bears the burden of presenting evidence of the defendant's financial condition [Adams v. Murakami (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 105, 119-123, 284 Cal. Rptr. 318, 813 P.2d 1348 ; see Evid. Code § 500, which includes showing not just the defendant's financial assets, but financial liabilities as well [Baxter v. Peterson (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 673, 680-681, 58 Cal. Rptr. 3d 686 (punitive damages award reversed when plaintiff failed to present evidence of defendant's financial liabilities)]. This burden cannot be waived by the defendant's failure to object to a plaintiff's inadequate showing, because of the public interest in meaningful judicial oversight of punitive damages awards [Tomaselli v. Transamerica Ins. Co. (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1269, 1283, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 433] . However, a defendant waives the right to complain about the plaintiff's lack of evidence of the defendant's financial condition if the defendant disobeys a lawful court order to provide financial records and if these records are the only means by which the plaintiff could meet the burden of proof [Mike Davidov Co. v. Issod (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 597, 608-609, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 897 ; see also StreetScenes v. ITC Entm't Group, Inc. (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 233, 243-244, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 754 (defendant ordered to produce evidence of net worth could not complain of lack of authentication of own documents)]. In addition, evidence that a defendant has systematically and deceitfully manipulated and concealed assets and net worth and provided evasive or knowingly false testimony on the issue at trial provides a fact-finder or trial court with wide latitude to make inferences unfavorable to the defendant when setting an amount of punitive damages [County of San Bernardino v. Walsh (2007) 158 Cal. App. 4th 533, 546-547].

A defendant's net worth is generally considered the best measure of wealth for the purpose of assessing punitive damages [Downey Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Ohio Casualty Ins. Co. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1072, 1100, 234 Cal. Rptr. 835 ; but see Adams v. Murakami (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 105, 116 n.7, 284 Cal. Rptr. 318, 813 P.2d 1348 (noting argument in favor of different measure of ability to pay, but without reaching issue)]. Evidence of the financial condition of the defendant is not limited to the defendant's financial condition as it relates to California, but properly includes the defendant's overall worth [Buell-Wilson v. Ford Motor Co. (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 525, 566, 46 Cal. Rptr. 3d 147] .

However, net worth is too easily manipulated to be the sole standard for measuring a defendant's ability to pay. For example, a punitive damages award of $300,000 against a corporation was upheld despite the fact that the corporation technically had a current net worth of negative $6.3 million [Zaxis Wireless Commc'ns, Inc. v. Motor Sound Corp. (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 577, 579-580, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 308] . The negative net worth was calculated only on the strength of accumulated depreciation of $4.9 million and a note to the corporation's sole shareholder of $6 million, although the corporation actually had annual revenues well in excess of $200 million, had cash on hand and a checking account balance of $19 million, and had a line of credit of $50 million, of which over $5 million was still available [Zaxis Wireless Commc'ns, Inc. v. Motor Sound Corp. (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 577, 582-583, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 308] .

It may also be appropriate to measure a defendant's financial condition by the profits gained by the defendant's misconduct [Adams v. Murakami (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 105, 116 n.7, 284 Cal. Rptr. 318, 813 P.2d 1348 ; Cummings Med. Corp. v. Occupational Med. Corp. (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1291, 1299-1300, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 585] . If the only evidence considered is the profitability of the defendant's misconduct, the award of punitive damages must be in line with that evidence [Cummings Med. Corp. v. Occupational Med. Corp. (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1291, 1299-1300, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 585 ; but see Stevens v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1996) 49 Cal. App. 4th 1645, 1660, 57 Cal. Rptr. 2d 525 (sales of asbestos insulation product to which decedent was exposed approximated only two percent of defendant's total sales, and even smaller percentage of its total profits; thus, defendant's profits did not prove accurate indication of its financial condition or likely punitive and deterrent impacts of punitive damage award)]. If no monetary gain flowed from a defendant's misconduct, evidence of that defendant's net income, standing alone, is not adequate evidence of a defendant's financial condition [Lara v. Cadag (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 1061, 1063-1066, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 811 (evidence of net income, without evidence of assets and liabilities, provided insufficient bas for reviewing court to determine whether award was excessive)].

The evidence must show the financial condition of the defendant, not defendant's corporate parent. If the alter ego doctrine is not established at trial (at which the party alleged to be the alter ego participated in the litigation, as due process requires) the parent's financial condition is not relevant to the determination of the proper amount of punitive damages to be awarded against the subsidiary [Tomaselli v. Transamerica Ins. Co. (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1269, 1284-1286, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 433] . Moreover, a plaintiff may have a difficult time showing that the alter ego doctrine applies, given the requirement that plaintiff establish that failure to apply the doctrine would work an injustice. Courts have questioned whether such a showing can be made regarding punitive damages [see Tomaselli v. Transamerica Ins. Co. (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1269, 1285-1286, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 433 ; Institute of Veterinary Pathology, Inc. v. California Health Labs., Inc. (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 111, 120, 172 Cal. Rptr. 74] .

The inquiry regarding the defendant's financial condition examines that condition at the time of trial (or retrial), rather than at the time of injury [Washington v. Farlice (1991) 1 Cal. App. 4th 766, 777, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 607 ; see, e.g., Kelly v. Haag (2006) 145 Cal. App. 4th 910, 917, 52 Cal. Rptr. 3d 126] . However, competent evidence of the defendant's future earning potential may also be considered in awarding punitive damages [Rufo v. Simpson (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 573, 621, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 492 (evidence of present value of celebrity defendant's ability to exploit name and likeness could be considered in calculating punitive damages award)].

To encourage the voluntary filing of accurate tax returns, California courts have recognized a privilege against disclosing tax returns [Weingarten v. Superior Court (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 268, 274, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 371] . In light of this privilege, the mere fact that a plaintiff seeks to recover punitive damages, or a fact finder has found a basis for imposing such damages, does not constitute a basis for compelling the disclosure of tax returns [Weingarten v. Superior Court (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 268, 274-275, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 371] .

However, disclosure of tax returns may be ordered if: (1) a defendant that has been found liable for punitive damages refuses to produce relevant, nonprivileged financial records, or has produced only meaningless and unreliable financial information in response to punitive damages discovery; (2) that defendant has engaged in a pattern of improperly obstructing efforts to obtain financial records through means that do not implicate the privilege, and it is reasonable to assume that this pattern of conduct will continue; and (3) less intrusive methods to obtain the financial records have been unsuccessful [Weingarten v. Superior Court (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 268, 275-277, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 371] .

For discussion of bifurcation of the issue of a defendant's financial condition, see § 177.51[17].

[17] Protective Orders re Punitive Damages Evidence

In the trial of an action in which punitive damages are claimed, the court, for good cause, may grant any defendant a protective order requiring theplaintiff to produce evidence of a prima facie case of liability for punitive damages prior to the introduction of evidence of either (1) the profits the defendant has gained by virtue of the wrongful course of conduct of the nature and type shown by the evidence or (2) the financial condition of the defendant [Civ. Code § 3295(a)]. Although the statute does not indicate the procedural requirements for making a motion for such a protective order, it is probably to be presented orally at the pretrial conference, or as a motion in limine at the outset of the trial. In both instances, other counsel probably will be present. In any case, an order probably will not be granted on an ex parte application, because the rights of the adverse party will be affected if a protective order is made pursuant to Civ. Code § 3295(a) [see Consolidated Constr. Co. v. Pacific E. Ry. Co. (1920) 184 Cal. 244, 246, 193 P. 238] . For discussion and forms relating to motions in limine, see Ch. 373, Motions in Limine .

In addition, Civ. Code § 3295 provides that there may be no pretrial discovery of either the profits the defendant has gained by means of the wrongful course of conduct, or the financial condition of the defendant, unless the court makes an order permitting that discovery. However, the plaintiff may subpena documents or witnesses to be available at the trial for the purpose of establishing the profits or financial condition of defendant, and the defendant may be required to identify documents in the defendant's possession that are relevant and admissible for that purpose and the witnesses employed by or related to the defendant who would be most competent to testify to those facts [Civ. Code § 3295(c)].

An order permitting discovery must be made on plaintiff's motion supported by appropriate affidavits (or declaration under penalty of perjury) and after a hearing if the court deems that a hearing is necessary. An order is granted only if, after weighing the evidence submitted by both sides, the court finds that the plaintiff has established that there is a substantial probability that he or she will prevail on the punitive damages claim [Civ. Code § 3295(c)]. A mere finding that the plaintiff has made a prima facie showing sufficient to avoid summary judgment onthe punitive damages claim is an insufficient basis for an order [Jabro v. Superior Court (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 754, 758, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 843] . An order is not a determination on the merits of the claim or any defense thereto and cannot be given in evidence or referred to at the trial [Civ. Code § 3295(c)].

In actions in which the initial trial has not commenced prior to January 1, 1988, the court must, on application of any defendant, preclude the admission of evidence of that defendant's profits or financial condition until after the trier of fact returns a verdict for the plaintiff awarding actual damages and finds that a defendant is guilty of malice, oppression, or fraud in accordance with Civ. Code § 3294. Evidence of profit and financial condition is admissible only as to the defendant or defendants found to be liable to the plaintiff and to be guilty of malice, oppression, or fraud. Evidence of profit and financial condition must be presented to the same trier of fact that found for the plaintiff and found one or more defendants guilty of malice, oppression, or fraud [Civ. Code § 3295(d)].

A request for bifurcation is essentially a motion in limine and should be made before trial. Despite the statute's mandatory language, the failure to make a timely motion may constitute a waiver of the right to bifurcation. The motion may be denied if, in the court's discretion, it would be prejudicial to the other party [Las Palmas Associates v. Las Palmas Center Associates (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1220, 1240-1242, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 301 (motion made after months of pretrial proceedings and five days of testimony (including some evidence of defendant's wealth), and as plaintiff was about to call out-of-town witness to present evidence on issue)].

The requirement that the same jury decide liability and punitive damages may be waived if the defendant fails to object to separate juries [Medo v. Superior Court (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 64, 68-70, 251 Cal. Rptr. 924] . In the absence of a clear understanding that two juries will be employed (in other words, if the defendant has not waived the statutory right to have all of the evidence heard by a single jury), plaintiffs must put on their entire case, including evidence relevant to the amount of punitive damages, before the jury is discharged. Failure to do so results in a forfeiture of the right to punitive damages [City of El Monte v. Superior Court (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 272, 277, 280, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 490 (defendant had no obligation to inform plaintiff or court that discharge of jury would preclude punitive damages award)].

The same-trier-of-fact restriction [Civ. Code § 3295(d)] is intended to require the same jury to resolve all the issues when a defendant has requested and obtained bifurcation, thereby promoting judicial economy and avoiding delay [Torres v. Automobile Club of S. Cal. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 771, 778, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 859, 937 P.2d 290]. Section 3295(d) does not strip appellate courts of their authority to order retrials limited to the issue of punitive damages or entitle a defendant to a new trial on liability and compensatory damages following a reversal of a punitive damage award [Torres v. Automobile Club of S. Cal. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 771, 779-780, 782, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 859, 937 P.2d 290 ; Bullock v. Philip Morris USA., Inc. (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 655, 700-701 (appellate court ordered retrial on amount of punitive damages only, as compensatory damages and oppression, fraud, or malice had been determined by jury in original trial)]. Similarly, a trial court has the authority to order a retrial limited to the issues of malice and, if necessary, punitive damages, without a retrial of all issues relating to liability and compensatory damages, if the original jury deadlocks on the issue of malice [Barmas, Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 372, 374-377, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 71] .

[18] Insurance Coverage

Punitive damages must be paid by the party against whom they are assessed and may not be indemnified by insurance. Insurance coverage for punitive damages contravenes California public policy that prohibits indemnity for willful wrongs [City Prods. Corp. v. Globe Indem. Co. (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 31, 36-42, 151 Cal. Rptr. 494 ; see Ins. Code § 533]. The prohibition applies whether or not the underlying conduct is otherwise insurable or actually insured against [Ford Motor Co. v. Home Ins. Co. (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 374, 382, 172 Cal. Rptr. 59] . An insurer's duty to defend, however, is separate from its duty to indemnify, and thus an insurer may have an obligation to defend a suit against its insured in which punitive damages are sought [Ohio Cas. Ins. Co. v. Hubbard (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 939, 943-947, 208 Cal. Rptr. 806] .

The California rule precluding insurance coverage of punitive damages awards may raise a conflict of laws issue if the insurance contract is arguably governed by the law of a state that permits indemnification for punitive damages. For example, in Stonewall Surplus Lines Ins. Co. v. Johnson Controls, Inc. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 637, 649, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 713 , a manufacturer of automobile batteries was headquartered in Wisconsin, a state that does not preclude coverage of punitive damages awards. However, a battery that it manufactured and sold in California injured a California resident, who recovered compensatory and punitive damages from the manufacturer in a California state court. The manufacturer's insurer brought a declaratory relief action asserting that it had no duty to indemnify the portion of the judgment imposed as punitive damages; the manufacturer argued that, because its corporate headquarters were located in Wisconsin, the laws of that state permitting indemnification of punitive damages awards should govern.

The trial court entered summary judgment for the insurer, and the court of appeal affirmed. The appellate court found the existence of a true conflict between California and Wisconsin, and proceeded to apply the governmental interest analysis in order to determine which law should apply [Stonewall Surplus Lines Ins. Co. v. Johnson Controls, Inc. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 637, 645, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 713] . The court balanced the interests of the parties and the states involved, and concluded that the determinative factor was the location of the risk covered by the policy. The court adopted the "multiple risk" analysis, under which a multiple risk policy insuring against risks located in several states will be viewed as if it involved separate policies, each insuring an individual risk, and the law of the state of principal location of the particular risk involved will be applied [Stonewall Surplus Lines Ins. Co. v. Johnson Controls, Inc. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 637, 646-647, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 713 ; see also Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws, § 193, cmt. f]. Because the risk involved was located in California, the court concluded that the manufacturer should reasonably have expected California law to apply to the battery it manufactured and sold in California, and that this expectation meant that application of the California rule would not seriously impair the Wisconsin interest in protecting the expectations of the parties to the insurance contract [Stonewall Surplus Lines Ins. Co. v. Johnson Controls, Inc. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 637, 648-649, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 713] .

The court stressed that it undertook this analysis because the insurance contract did not include a choice of law provision, and that such a provision in the contract is usually enforced [Stonewall Surplus Lines Ins. Co. v. Johnson Controls, Inc. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 637, 645-646, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 713] . Although dictum, the court's statement suggests that a choice of law provision specifying the law of a jurisdiction reasonably related to the policy might be given effect, even if the effect of the provision is to permit indemnification of a punitive damages award.

It is not clear if a conflict of interest that would require independent counsel to be appointed under Civ. Code § 2860 may ever arise as a result of a claim for punitive damages. A conflict does not exist in a case in which the insurer cannot control the outcome of a coverage issue that was the basis of a reservation of rights, but only denies liability for punitive damages [Civ. Code § 2860(b); see also Foremost Ins. Co. v. Wilks (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 251, 259-263, 253 Cal. Rptr. 596 (decided under law in effect before effective date of Civ. Code § 2860; insurer's notification to insured that it would not indemnify insured for any punitive damages award pursuant to Civ. Code § 1668 and Ins. Code § 533 did not create conflict of interest)].

[19] Pretrial Determinations

The sufficiency of a plaintiff's showing regarding punitive damages may be raised by a defendant before trial, as in a motion for nonsuit [see Code Civ. Proc. § 581c] or a motion for summary judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 437c]. A pretrial determination on the merits of a claim for punitive damages can also be required if the action is against a health care provider or a religious corporation [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.13 (prima facie case for punitive damages must be shown before complaint may be amended to allege claim against health care provider), 425.14 (similar requirement for actions against religious corporations); see also § 177.51[20][a],[b]].

Because the standard of proof for punitive damages requires proof by clear and convincing evidence [see Civ. Code § 3294(a); see also § 177.51[7][b]], the court must utilize different standards than it would in a motion involving the ordinary preponderance of the evidence standard. A court of appeal has set forth the standard to be applied in nonsuit motions: the nonsuit motion should be granted only if no reasonable jury could find that the plaintiff has presented clear and convincing evidence on the disputed issue [Hoch v. Allied-Signal, Inc. (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 48, 60, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615] . A nonsuit is not appropriate merely because the trial court finds the plaintiff's evidence less than clear and convincing; instead the focus must be on the "reasonable jury" [see Hoch v. Allied-Signal, Inc. (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 48, 59-61, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615] .

It seems clear that a similar standard will apply to summary judgment motions. Cases that have applied the clear and convincing evidence standard in other contexts have required the trial court to take the higher standard into account in deciding the summary judgment motion [see Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc. (1986) 477 U.S. 242, 254-256, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 91 L. Ed. 2d 202 (clear and convincing evidence standard applied to proof of actual malice in defamation actions by public figures must be considered in summary judgment motion); Planned Protective Servs., Inc. v. Gorton (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1, 8-9, 245 Cal. Rptr. 790 (same)].

[20] Special Procedures for Punitive Damages Claim in Specific Actions

[a] Action Against Health Care Provider

[i] Motion to Amend Complaint Required

In any action for damages arising out of the professional negligence of a health care provider, no claim for punitive damages may be included in a complaint or other pleading unless the court enters an order allowing an amended pleading that includes a claim for punitive damages to be filed. The court may allow the filing of an amended pleading claiming punitive damages on a motion by the party seeking the amended pleading and on the basis of the supporting and opposing affidavits presented that the plaintiff has established that there is a substantial probability that the plaintiff will prevail on the claim under Civ. Code § 3294. The court may not grant a motion allowing the filing of an amended pleading that includes a claim for punitive damages if the motion for such an order is not filed within two years after the complaint or initial pleading is filed or not less than nine months before the date the matter is first set for trial, whichever is earlier [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a)]. The date the matter is first set for trial is the initial trial date, not the date of the trial setting conference [Brown v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 989, 992-994, 274 Cal. Rptr. 442] .

An implied exception to the requirement in Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a) permits the motion to be granted even if it is brought less than nine months before the assigned trial date if it is necessary to protect a plaintiff's right to a preferential trial date and the defendant receives or has had a reasonable opportunity to conduct discovery regarding the punitive damage claim [Looney v. Superior Court (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 521, 536, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 182 (nine-month requirement was rendered impossible by entitlement to trial preference under Code Civ. Proc. § 36(d))].

A similar exception has been allowed when a "fast track" trial court sets trial to begin in less than nine months [see Goodstein v. Superior Court (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 1635, 1645, 50 Cal. Rptr. 2d 459]. In those cases, a trial court may relieve a plaintiff from complying with the nine-month limitation period if the plaintiff can show by a preponderance of the evidence that: (1) plaintiff was unaware of facts or evidence necessary to make a proper motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13 more than nine months prior to the first trial date; (2) plaintiff made a diligent, reasonable, and good-faith effort to discover such necessary facts or evidence more than nine months prior to the first assigned trial date; (3) after the trial date was assigned, plaintiff made a diligent, reasonable, and good-faith effort to complete necessary discovery; (4) plaintiff filed a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13 as soon as reasonably practicable after completing such discovery, but within two years after filing the original complaint; and (5) defendant will suffer no surprise or prejudice by reason of the shortened time period and will be given every reasonable opportunity to complete all necessary discovery in order to prepare to meet the punitive damages allegations [Goodstein v. Superior Court (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 1635, 1645, 50 Cal. Rptr. 2d 459]. In order to apply this narrow exception, a trial court must make specific findings showing that plaintiff has met each of the five steps [Goodstein v. Superior Court (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 1635, 1645, 50 Cal. Rptr. 2d 459 ; see, e.g., Freedman v. Superior Court (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 198, 206-207, 82 Cal. Rptr. 3d 563 (assuming test applied, plaintiff failed to meet either of first two steps)].

[ii] Actions to Which Requirement Applies

The language in Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a) making the provisions of the section applicable to actions "arising out of the professional negligence of a health care provider" does not make the provisions inapplicable to causes of action identified as intentional torts rather than as negligence. If an injured party seeks punitive damages for an injury that is directly related to the professional services provided by a health care provider acting in its capacity as such, the action is one arising out of professional negligence, and the party must comply with Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a) [Central Pathology Serv. Med. Clinic, Inc. v. Superior Court (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 181, 191-192, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 208, 832 P.2d 924 (disapproving Bommareddy v. Superior Court (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1017, 272 Cal. Rptr. 246)]. Thus, a cause of action against a health care provider for battery predicated on treatment exceeding or different from that to which plaintiff consented is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13 because the injury arose out of the manner in which professional services are provided [Central Pathology Serv. Med. Clinic, Inc. v. Superior Court (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 181, 192, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 208, 832 P.2d 924 (contrasting situation in which cause of action is for sexual battery; in most such cases, defendant's conduct would not be directly related to manner in which professional services were rendered); see also Davis v. Superior Court (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 623, 629, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 6 (allegations that misrepresentations were product of conspiracy in context of workers' compensation system did not take action outside Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13)]. The Court held that the clear intent of the legislature was that any claim for punitive damages in an action against a health care provider be subject to the statute if the injury was caused by conduct directly related to the rendition of professional services [Central Pathology Serv. Med. Clinic, Inc. v. Superior Court (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 181, 192, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 208, 832 P.2d 924] .

The test of whether a health care provider's negligence constitutes professional negligence is whether the negligence occurred in rendering services for which the health care provider is licensed [Williams v. Superior Court (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 318, 325, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 112 ; Murillo v. Good Samaritan Hosp. (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 50, 57, 160 Cal. Rptr. 33] . For example, a cause of action alleging that plaintiff was injured when she attempted to draw blood from a patient that the defendant knew was violent, but that defendant negligently failed to warn plaintiff of that known danger, was held to be within the statute notwithstanding plaintiff's argument that defendant could be held liable under a premises liability theory. The court held that the injury was directly related to the manner in which the defendant rendered its professional services, given the professional duty of a hospital to provide a safe environment for diagnosis, treatment, and recovery, as well as plaintiff's allegations that defendant's knowledge of the danger was based on its treatment of the patient [Williams v. Superior Court (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 318, 325-327, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 112] . Similarly, despite the absence of an actual physician-patient relationship, the statute applied to a claim brought against a sperm bank and the doctors that performed the genetic screening on the donor, because the collection, processing, and testing of sperm for use in artificial insemination requires the exercise of professional expertise and judgment [Johnson v. Superior Court (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 869, 885-886, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 650] .

The statute also applied to claims against a medical group made up of licensed physicians that provided health facility outpatient services under contract with a health care service plan, even though the allegedly actionable conduct occurred while the medical group was reviewing the medical necessity of the plaintiff's request for new prosthetics. The court rejected the plaintiff's argument that the medical group's conduct did not arise out of professional negligence because it was performing its contractual duties as a utilization review organization for the health care service plan at the time. The court noted that the medical group was required to exercise medical judgment and apply clinical standards in performing those duties [Palmer v. Superior Court (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 953, 966-967, 972, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 252] .

The statute applies whether or not a cause of action for professional negligence is pleaded along with the claim that is asserted to be based on a theory other than professional negligence [see Central Pathology Service Medical Clinic, Inc. (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 181, 192, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 208, 832 P.2d 924] .

As used in Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13, health care provider means any person licensed or certified pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 500-4998.7, or licensed pursuant to the Osteopathic Initiative Act or the Chiropractic Initiative Act, or licensed pursuant to Health & Safety Code §§ 1440-1498; and any clinic, health dispensary, or health facility licensed pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 1200 et seq., and includes the legal representatives of a health care provider [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(b); see, e.g., Cryolife, Inc. v. Superior Court (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1145, 1159-1160, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 396 (tissue bank constituted "health dispensary" under statute); Johnson v. Superior Court (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 869, 883, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 650 (sperm bank constituted "health dispensary"].

For further discussion and forms for obtaining an order under Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13, see Ch. 415, Physicians: Medical Malpractice .

[iii] Substantive Requirements

Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a) achieves its purpose of protecting health care providers from the burden of defending against meritless punitive damages claims by requiring the plaintiff to both state and substantiate a legitimate, triable punitive damages claim [College Hosp., Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 704, 709, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 882 P.2d 894] . However, the statute does not authorize a trial court to reject a well pled and factually supported punitive damages claim simply because the court believes the evidence is not strong enough for probable success before a jury [College Hosp., Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 704, 709, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 882 P.2d 894] . Under the statute, the trial court does not weigh evidence or make an independent assessment of the relative strength of the evidence [College Hospital, Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 704, 719, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 882 P.2d 894 ; see Aquino v. Superior Court (1994) 21 Cal. App. 4th 847, 854-856, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 477 ; Looney v. Superior Court (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 521, 539, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 182] . The statute also does not contemplate a mini-trial, at which witness testimony is introduced; instead, like a summary judgment motion, the motion is decided entirely on an "affidavit" showing [College Hosp., Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 704, 719-720, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 882 P.2d 894] .

The court must deny the Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a) motion if the facts asserted in the proposed amended complaint are legally insufficient to support a punitive damages claim. The court must also deny the motion if the evidence provided in the "supporting and opposing affidavits" either negates or or fails to reveal the existence of a triable claim [College Hosp., Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 704, 719, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 882 P.2d 894] . The motion may be granted only if the plaintiff demonstrates that both requirements are met [College Hosp., Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 704, 719, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 882 P.2d 894] .

The requisite substantiation of a punitive damages claim occurs only if the factual recitials are made under penalty of perjury and set forth competent admissible evidence within the personal knowledge of the declarant [College Hosp., Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 704, 719-720, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 882 P.2d 894] .

[b] Action Against Religious Corporation or Religious Corporation Sole

No claim for punitive or exemplary damages against a religious corporation or religious corporation sole may be included in a complaint or other pleading unless the court enters an order allowing an amended pleading that includes a claim for punitive or exemplary damages to be filed. The court may allow the filing of an amended pleading that claims punitive or exemplary damages on a motion by a party seeking the amended pleading if, based on the supporting and opposing affidavits or declarations under penalty of perjury presented, the plaintiff has established evidence that substantiates that he or she will meet the clear and convincing standard under Civ. Code § 3294 [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.14; see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5 (declaration under penalty of perjury sufficient when affidavit required by statute)]. The statute does not require that the plaintiff satisfy the "clear and convincing" burden of proof at the time the motion is heard. Instead, the plaintiff need only demonstrate the existence of sufficient evidence to establish a prima facie case for punitive damages, having in mind the higher standard of proof [Rowe v. Superior Court (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 1711, 1723, 1735, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 625] .

For further discussion relating to religious corporations and religious corporations sole, and for forms to obtain an order under Code Civ. Proc. § 425.14, see Ch. 110, Churches and Religious Organizations .

[21] Award in Contractual Arbitration

If parties to a contract intend to substitute arbitration for judicial dispute resolution and intend to present potential tort claims to arbitration, they are presumed to also have intended that the usual judicial remedies, including punitive damages, be available in arbitration. The crucial question is whether the arbitration agreement contemplates arbitration of claims giving rise to punitive damages. If the contract provides for arbitration of "any controversy" arising out of or relating to the contract, the arbitration agreement is sufficiently broad to include tort claims that have their roots in the relationship between the parties that was created by the contract. In absence of a clear expression in the arbitration agreement to the contrary, the arbitrator may award punitive damages under the same standards as would apply to a judicial resolution of the controversy [Tate v. Saratoga Sav. & Loan Ass'n (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 843, 854-855, 265 Cal. Rptr. 440 ; see Baker v. Sadick (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 618, 622-623, 208 Cal. Rptr. 676 ; Bos Material Handling, Inc. v. Crown Controls Corp. (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 99, 105, 186 Cal. Rptr. 740 ; see also J. Alexander Sec., Inc. v. Mendez (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 1083, 1090, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 826 (federal policy supports vesting arbitrators with authority to award punitive damages if parties' agreement contemplates it)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsDamagesPunitive DamagesAvailabilityEmployersTortsDamagesPunitive DamagesAvailabilityGovernmental EntitiesTortsDamagesPunitive DamagesAward CalculationsConstitutional RequirementsTortsDamagesPunitive DamagesConduct Supporting AwardsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesPunitive Damages

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.52

§ 177.52 Attorney's Fees as Element of Damages

Under limited circumstances, attorney's fees may be recovered, not as an award of attorney's fees as such, but as an element of damages arising from tortious conduct. A person who has been required by the tort of one person to act in the protection of his or her interests by bringing or defending an action against a third person is entitled to recover compensation for the reasonably necessary attorney's fees incurred [Prentice v. North Am.. Title Guar. Corp. (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 618, 620, 30 Cal. Rptr. 821, 381 P.2d 645 ; Saunders v. Cariss (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 905, 910, 274 Cal. Rptr. 186 ; Heckert v. MacDonald (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 832, 837, 256 Cal. Rptr. 369] .

Because attorney's fees in such a situation are an element of compensatory damages, they must be pleaded and proved to the trier of fact, as with any other recovery of damages [Vacco Indus., Inc. v. Van Den Berg (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 34, 41, 56, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 602 (improper to tax as costs after posttrial motion)]. Further, all of the elements of a tort must be present between the tortfeasor and the person who incurred the attorney's fees, including duty if negligence is alleged as the basis for the damages [see Sooy v. Peter (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 1305, 1309-1314, 270 Cal. Rptr. 151 (rejecting right of nonclient to recover attorney's fees incurred as result of attorney's alleged professional negligence)]. Attorney's fees may be awarded as damages under this doctrine in an action against the negligent party [see Prentice v. North American Title Guaranty Corp. (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 618, 620-621, 530 Cal. Rptr. 821, 381 P.2d 645] , or pursuant to a cross complaint for indemnity in which one defendant is awarded complete indemnity from the other [see Heckert v. MacDonald (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 832, 838, 256 Cal. Rptr. 369] .

The fees must have been incurred with regard to a dispute with a third party, regardless of the parties who are technically involved in the litigation [see Golden W. Baseball Co. v. Talley (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1294, 1304, 284 Cal. Rptr. 53 (fact that another party was tangentially involved in dispute that was essentially between plaintiff and defendant did not make doctrine applicable); Schneider v. Friedman, Collard, Poswall & Virga (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1276, 1281-1282, 283 Cal. Rptr. 882 (presence of interpleading party is irrelevant)]. The rule cannot be applied to one of several joint tortfeasors on the basis that the conduct of the one required fees to be incurred with regard to the others [see Vacco Indus., Inc. v. Van Den Berg (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 34, 57, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 602] . Thus, an employee cannot be required to pay attorney's fees incurred in an action against the employer arising from the employee's conduct within the scope of employment [Golden W. Baseball Co. v. Talley (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1294, 1302, 284 Cal.

Rptr. 53] . Similarly, an attorney's former client who has incurred attorney's fees in defending against the attorney's attempt to collect or retain an unreasonable fee is not entitled to recover the fees from the attorney. In such a case, the attorney is not a "third party" and is therefore not subject to the exception [Schneider v. Friedman, Collard, Poswall & Virga (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1276, 1281-1282, 283 Cal. Rptr. 882] .

In an action for malicious prosecution, the measure of compensatory damages includes attorney's fees and court costs incurred in defending the prior action [Bertero v. National Gen. Corp. (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 43, 59, 118 Cal. Rptr. 184, 529 P.2d 608] . Recovery is similarly allowed in an action based on false arrest or false imprisonment [Nelson v. Kellogg (1912) 162 Cal. 621, 623-624, 123 P. 1115] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsDamagesCosts & Attorney FeesGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.53

§ 177.53 Prejudgment Interest

[1] At Discretion of Jury

In an action for the breach of an obligation not arising from contract and in every case of oppression, fraud, or malice, interest may be given in the discretion of the jury [Civ. Code § 3288]. An award of prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3288 is in the nature of damages [Michelson v. Hamada (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1566, 1586, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 343] . It does not constitute a granting of damages in excess of the losses incurred by a plaintiff but is merely a recognition of an element of a plaintiff's loss of the use of money or property [Nordahl v. Department of Real Estate (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 657, 665-666, 121 Cal. Rptr. 794 ; Greenfield v. Insurance Inc. (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 803, 813, 97 Cal. Rptr. 164 ; see Redke v. Silvertrust (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 94, 106, 98 Cal. Rptr. 293, 490 P.2d 805 (interest as properly awarded in action involving constructive fraud)]. The rate of prejudgment interest is the constitutional 7 percent rate [Michelson v. Hamada (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1566, 1585-1586, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 343 ; Continental Airlines Inc. v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 388, 433-434, 264 Cal. Rptr. 779 ; see Cal. Const. art. XV, § 1]. Compound interest may be awarded in cases involving a fiduciary relationship [Michelson v. Hamada (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1566, 1586, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 343] .

[2] By Trial Court Sitting as Trier of Fact

Although Civ. Code § 3288 only grants authority to the "jury," the trial court, when acting as the trier of fact, may award prejudgment interest under this statute [Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 801, 814 n.16, 148 Cal. Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109 ; Michelson v. Hamada (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1566, 1586-1587, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 343 ; Segura v. McBride (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1028, 1040 n.13, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 436] . A general prayer for "other relief as the court deems proper" is sufficient for the court to invoke its power to award prejudgment interest [Segura v. McBride (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1028, 1041, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 436] . Nevertheless, in a case tried to a jury, the court may not usurp the discretion conferred on the jury by the statute [Barry v. Raskov (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 447, 457, 283 Cal. Rptr. 463] .

[3] Relating to Unliquidated Damages

Discretionary interest under Civ. Code § 3288 is allowable on unliquidated claims. However, it is limited to interest on a specific sum of money or on property subject to specific valuation. Recovery is not allowed on nonpecuniary damages that are not readily subject to precise calculation, such as the intangible, noneconomic aspects of mental and emotional injury [Greater Westchester Homeowners Ass'n, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1979) 26 Cal. 3d 86, 102-103, 160 Cal. Rptr. 733, 603 P.2d 1329] .

[4] When Interest Commences Accruing

Prejudgent interest under Civ. Code § 3288 runs from the time when the plaintiff parted with the money or property for which damages are awarded. In a case of continuing loss over a period of time, it is error to compute the interest from the end of the period. Rather, the court should fashion an award that reasonably compensates the plaintiff for the loss of use of the money or property [see Michelson v. Hamada (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1566, 1588-1589, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 343 (using midpoint of divisible periods of loss); cf. Cassinos v. Union Oil Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1770, 1790, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 574 (prejudgment interest may be awarded from inception of occurrence, but permitted on facts of case only from date complaint was filed because basis for computing damages was set forth in complaint)].

If a judgment against some joint tortfeasors follows a good-faith settlement with other joint tortfeasors, the plaintiff may recover prejudgment interest from the nonsettling defendants up to the date of the settlement on the total judgment, and prejudgment interest after the date of the settlement on the amount of the total judgment reduced by the settlement sum paid [see Newby v. Vroman (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 283, 287-290, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 44] . Good faith settlement is discussed in Ch. 300, Indemnity and Contribution .

[5] Pursuant to Offer to Settle

Civ. Code § 3291 provides for an award of prejudgment interest to the plaintiff in a personal injury action in which the plaintiff made an offer to compromise and settle under Code Civ. Proc. § 998, and the defendant refused the offer. However, such an award is not considered to be in the nature of additional damages, but rather as part of the award of costs [see Mendez v. Kurten (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 481, 486-487, 215 Cal. Rptr. 924] . Prejudgment interest awarded under Civ. Code § 3291 is not an element of damages in a judgment [Steinfeld v. Foote-Goldman Proctologic Medical Group, Inc. (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 13, 18, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 41] . For further discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 998 offers and prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3291, see Ch. 520, Settlement and Release .

[6] On Damages Certain or Capable of Being Made Certain

A plaintiff who is entitled to recover damages in an amount that is certain (or capable of being made certain by calculation) is entitled to recover prejudgment interest from the date on which the right to recover is vested [Civ. Code § 3287(a)]. This statute is most commonly relied on to recover interest on damages arising from breach of contract and, therefore, is discussed principally in § 177.80[2]. Nevertheless, it may apply in certain tort actions if the amount of the plaintiff's loss and the date from which the interest should be computed are capable of being calculated [see Stein v. Southern Cal. Edison Co. (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 565, 571, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 907] .

Under this standard, prejudgment interest is most likely to be awarded on damages for injury to property or other economic loss [see Stein v. Southern Cal. Edison Co. (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 565, 571-573, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 907 (injury to property based on strict liability); Levy-Zentner Co. v. Southern Pac. Transp. Co. (1977) 74 Cal. App. 3d 762, 769, 770, 142 Cal. Rptr. 1 (property damaged by fire); Smith v. Rickards (1957) 149 Cal. App. 2d 648, 654, 308 P.2d 758 (fraud); Petersen v. Lyders (1934) 139 Cal. App. 307, 309, 310, 33 P.2d 1032 (conversion)]. Generally, prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3287(a) is not allowed on damages for personal injuryor wrongful death because the determination of the amount of damages requires consideration of subjective factors such as pain and suffering and loss of society [see Canavin v. Pacific Sw. Airlines (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 512, 524, 196 Cal. Rptr. 82 (wrongful death); Curtis v. State of California ex rel. Dept. of Transportation (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 668, 686, 180 Cal. Rptr. 843

(personal injury)].

[7] In Inverse Condemnation Actions

An award of damages for inverse condemnation must include interest computed from the date on which the taking or damaging was sustained, in order to fulfill the constitutional mandate for just compensation [Holtz v. San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit Dist. (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 648, 657, 131 Cal. Rptr. 646, 552 P.2d 430 ; Smith v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 266, 290, 262 Cal. Rptr. 754] . In the case of a continuing injury to property, a cause of action accrues, and interest is computed, from the date on which the damaging activity has reached a level that substantially interferes with the owner's use and enjoyment of the property [Smith v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 266, 291, 262 Cal. Rptr. 754 ; see Smart v. City of Los Angeles (1980) 112 Cal. App. 3d 232, 235, 169 Cal. Rptr. 174] .

Interest must be computed at the apportionment rate calculated by the state Controller as the rate of earnings by the Surplus Money Investment Fund for each calendar quarter [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1268.311, 1268.350]. This rate is required for interest calculations for periods after January 1, 1987, but may serve as evidence of what a prudent investor would have earned during periods prior to that date [Smith v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 266, 293-295, 262 Cal. Rptr. 754 (court did not commit error by using apportionment rate for periods prior to effective date of statutes)].

[8] Under Cartwright Act

Prejudgment interest may be awarded in an action for unfair competition under the Cartwright Act (Bus. & Prof. Code § 16700 et seq.) if the court finds that such an award is just in the circumstances [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 16750(a), 16760(a)(2), 16761]. The interest is calculated on the actual damages awarded at the rate of 10 percent per annum for the period beginning on the date of service of the plaintiff's complaint and ending on the date of judgment, or for any shorter period therein [Bus. & Prof. Code § 16761]. For a further discussion and forms relating to prejudgment interest in unfair competition actions, see Ch. 565, Unfair Competition .

[9] Waiver of Interest

Civ. Code § 3290 provides that accepting payment of the whole principal, as such, waives all claim to interest. This provision applies to all claimsto prejudgment interest as damages, but not to postjudgment interest [San Francisco Unified Sch. Dist. v. San Francisco Classroom Teachers Ass'n (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 146, 150, 272 Cal. Rptr. 38]. Presumably, it applies to all awards of interest under statutes found in Division 4, Part 1, Title 2, Chapter 1, Article 2, of the Civil Code (entitled "Interest as Damages"), including Civ. Code §§ 3287 and 3288 (discussed in § 177.53[1]), and Civ. Code § 3291 (discussed in § 177.53[5]) [see San Francisco Unified School Dist. v. San Francisco Classroom Teachers Assn. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 146, 150, 272 Cal. Rptr. 38 ; but see Mendez v. Kurten (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 481, 486, 215 Cal. Rptr. 924 (prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3291 pursuant to settlement offer under Code Civ. Proc. § 998 is not in nature of additional damages)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesJudgment InterestPrejudgment InterestGovernmentsCourtsAuthority to AdjudicateReal Property LawInverse CondemnationRemediesTortsDamagesInterestGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesInterestPrejudgment Interest

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.54

§ 177.54 Liens on Recovery

[1] Medi-Cal Lien

If medical expenses of the injured tort victim have been paid by the Medi-Cal program, the state Director of Health Services (the administrator of the Medi-Cal program) has a statutory first lien on any judgment against or settlement with the tortfeasor [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14124.74(a); Bonta v. Friedman (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 819, 823 (Medi-Cal lien applied to health care provided after child was born with birth defects and mother sued doctor for failing to warn that child would be born with defects)] . However, lien recovery is permitted only if the damages recovered from the third-party tortfeasor include damages for the cost of medical treatment or other benefits provided by Medi-Cal [Fitch v. Select Prods. Co. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 812, 820, 31 Cal. Rptr. 3d 591, 115 P.3d 1233] . Thus, for example, the Director may not assert a lien against a wrongful death recovery that does not include compensation for the decedent's medical expenses covered by Medi-Cal [Fitch v. Select Prods. Co. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 812, 819, 31 Cal. Rptr. 3d 591, 115 P.3d 1233] . In addition, the state's lien is limited to the amount of the recovery that is allocated to medical expenses [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14124.76(a); Ark. HHS v. Ahlborn (2006) 547 U.S. 268, 284-285, 126 S. Ct. 1752, 164 L. Ed. 2d 459] .

All reasonable efforts are to be made to get Medi-Cal's advance agreement as to what portion of a settlement, judgment, or award represents payment for medical expenses, but absent such advance agreement, the matter must be submitted to the court for decision [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14124.76(a); see also Lima v. Vouis (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 242, 260, 94 Cal. Rptr. 3d 183 (trial court erred in awarding entire lien amount to DHS without allocating settlement between past medical expenses and other damages); Espericueta v. Shewry (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 615, 626, 79 Cal. Rptr. 3d 517 (court approval of minor's compromise and settlement, as required by statute and rule of court, allocating payment in full of Medi-Cal lien, constituted valid court allocation of amount for past medical expenses)]. When making its allocation and reimbursement decisions, the trial court should take guidance from the United States Supreme Court's decision in Ark. Dep't of HHS v. Ahlborn, as well as from other relevant case and statutory law [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14124.76(a); see Ark. HHS v. Ahlborn (2006) 547 U.S. 268, 274-282, 126 S. Ct. 1752, 164 L. Ed. 2d 49 ; see, e.g., Bolanos v. Superior Court (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 744, 754-758, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 174 (trial court erred when refusing to allocate settlement amount attributable to past medical expenses)]. In Ahlborn, for example, the Supreme Court approved one possible reimbursement methodology under which an unallocated settlement amount was expressed as a percentage of the estimated total value of the claim. That same percentage was then applied to the lien, with the Director recovering only that percentage from the total amount of benefits provided [Ark. HHS v. Ahlborn (2006) 547 U.S. 268, 274-282, 126 S. Ct. 1752, 164 L. Ed. 2d 49]. That is only one possible reimbursement method, however, and will not necessarily be appropriate in every case [see Bolanos v. Superior Court (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 744, 754-755, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 174].

The California Welfare and Institutions Code also provides that a health care provider who has rendered services to the victim and who has received payment from Medi-Cal has a second lien for all fees for services provided if the provider fully reimburses Medi-Cal for all fees received for the services [Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 14124.74(a), 14124.791]. However, under federal law, a medical care provider who accepts Medi-Cal payments for a patient is prohibited from billing that patient, or any financially responsible relative or representative, for any fees in excess of those paid by Medi-Cal [see 42 U.S.C.S. § 1396a(a)(25); 42 C.F.R. § 447.15]. The California Supreme Court has ruled that these federal restrictions on the right of a provider to recover from a patient preempt the California statutes that allow for a health care provider's lien, making any asserted lien under the state statutes invalid and unenforceable [Olszewski v. Scripps Health (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 798, 819-821, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1, 69 P.3d 927] . The Court suggested, however, that a legislative amendment to restrict recovery by a provider to only that portion of a third-party recovery specifically allocated to medical expenses might cure the constitutional defect [see Olszewski v. Scripps Health (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 798, 821-823, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1, 69 P.3d 927] .

Notice must be given to Medi-Cal, and to any provider entitled to a lien, of any action or claim brought against the party responsible for the injury [Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 14124.73, 14124.791(b)]. This obligation is imposed not only on the beneficiary, but also on the attorney, if any [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14124.79]. A party who fails to provide notice to Medi-Cal may be required to bear the burden of proving any facts necessary to support a reduction in the amount of an asserted Medi-Cal lien [see McMillian v. Stroud (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 692, 702, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 261].

While the Department must be given notice of any lawsuit in order to have the opportunity to protect its lien rights, the statute does not give to the Department any particular rights with respect to participation in settlement negotiations [Lopez v. DaimlerChrysler Corp. (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 1373, 1387, 102 Cal. Rptr. 3d 285] . However, even without participating in settlement negotiations, when a plaintiff provides evidence supporting a particular allocation, such as declarations or other evidence providing the full value of the case in order to support an Ahlborn allocation as described above, the Department may be required by the court to provide evidence of its own to support a different allocation. In the absence of any such evidence from the Department, a trial court can properly adopt an allocation supported by the plaintiff's evidence [Lopez v. DaimlerChrysler Corp. (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 1373, 1387, 102 Cal. Rptr. 3d 285] .

It is sometimes possible to obtain a waiver or reduction of the Medi-Cal lien if the lien would result in undue hardship on the injured person or his or her heirs [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14124.71(b)(2); see also Wright v. Department of Benefit Payments (1979) 90 Cal. App. 3d 446, 449, 153 Cal. Rptr. 474 (lien may be waived for hardship in discretion of director)]. For example, Gov. Code § 985(g), which applies to defendants that are public entities, gives a trial court the authority to deny reimbursement of any collateral source if necessary to avoid undue financial hardship on the injured person, and this provision may be applied to deny the repayment of a Medi-Cal lien [Garcia v. County of Sacramento (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 67, 73-74, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 465 (lien properly denied because quadriplegic's recovery from county was insufficient to cover future medical expenses)].

In addition, if the beneficiary has incurred attorneys' fees and costs in obtaining the recovery, the Medi-Cal lien must be reduced by at least 25 percent to pay for attorneys' fees, and also by a share of the costs [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14124.72(d)]. However, pursuant to Welf. & Inst. Code § 14124.78, the Medi-Cal lien cannot exceed the amount that the tort victim recovers after deducting the attorney's fees and litigation costs paid for by the tort victim from the settlement, judgment, or award, and if the amount of the Medi-Cal lien is determined under Welf. & Inst. Code § 14124.78, the 25 percent reduction described above does not apply [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14124.78]. Medi-Cal recovery is limited to the amount derived from applying Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 14124.72, 14124.76, or 14124.78, whichever is less [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14124.785].

In an action by the state administrator to enforce the Medi-Cal lien against a settlement, the state does not have to prove the tortfeasor's liability [Kizer v. Hirata (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 841, 844, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 19] .

[2] County Lien

If a county furnishes hospital, medical, surgical, or dental care to an injured person, and a third person has tort liability for the injuries that required the care, the county has a right to recover the reasonable value of the care and treatment from the third person [Gov. Code § 23004.1(a)]. The county may enforce this right by bringing a direct action against the third person [Gov. Code § 23004.1(b)]. If the injured person (or his or her representative) brings an action, the right of the county to bring an action abates during the pendency of the injured person's action, but the county has a first lien on any judgment recovered by the injured person [Gov. Code § 23004.1(b)]. However, according to the court of appeal, this right to a lien against a judgment in an action brought by the injured person (or his or her representative) does not provide a right to a lien against the proceeds of a settlement that is not transformed into a judgment [Mares v. Baughman (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 672, 676-677, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 264] .

If the injured person recovers a judgment from a third-party tortfeasor, the county is entitled to full recovery of its lien without contribution or apportionment of attorneys' fees or litigation expenses [City & County of San Francisco v. Sweet (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 105, 124-125, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 42, 906 P.2d 1196 ; Lindsey v. County of Los Angeles (1980) 109 Cal. App. 3d 933, 936, 167 Cal. Rptr. 527] . The rationale for this result is that regardless of whether the injured person recovers from the third party, he or she has a debtor-creditor relationship with the county and is obligated to pay the county for the care and treatment received [City & County of San Francisco v. Sweet (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 105, 116-118, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 42, 906 P.2d 1196 ; Lindsey v. County of Los Angeles (1980) 109 Cal. App. 3d 933, 938-939, 167 Cal. Rptr. 527] . However, treating the lien simply as a matter of contract may be highly inequitable, for example if the entire recovery falls far short of providing the plaintiff with compensation for all losses, including medical expenses, and there would be nothing left after payment on the lien. For further discussion, see § 177.54[5].

The right to payment of the full amount of the lien specifically provided by Gov. Code § 23004.1 takes precedence over any court reduction of the lien that might result through application of any other statute of more general applicability [Tapia v. Pohlmann (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1126, 1132-1133, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 (relying also on county's right to recover for treatment under children's services provision, Health & Safety Code § 123982, reduction of lien under Prob. Code § 3601 reversed)].

[3] Hospital Emergency Lien

Any hospital licensed in California that furnishes emergency and ongoing medical services has a lien on the damages if the injured person asserts or maintains a claim against any third person responsible for the injuries [Civ. Code § 3045.1; see, e.g., Newton v. Clemons (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1, 12-13, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 90 (brief, unsuccessful attempt at treatment from other providers did not render subsequent follow-up treatment from county facilities something other than "ongoing" treatment, because treatment still stemmed from injury that county facility treated during emergency period)]. The lien does not apply if the injury resulted from an accident or wrongful act that is covered by the worker's compensation laws [see Civ. Code § 3045.1]. In addition, the lien does not apply in actions against certain common carriers [see Civ. Code § 3045.6]. The lienholder has one year from the date of payment to the patient to assert the lien [Civ. Code § 3045.5]. The lien applies whether damages are recovered or to be recovered by judgment, settlement, or compromise [Civ. Code § 3045.2].

This hospital lien act only provides for the creation of a lien against recovery from a third-party tortfeasor or his or her insurer. It does not provide for creation of a lien against recovery from the victim's own first-party insurer, even if the victim's recovery from his or her own insurer carries uninsured motorist coverage that substitutes for recovery from a third-party tortfeasor who does not carry appropriate insurance coverage [Weston Reid, LLC v. American Ins. Group, Inc. (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 940, 950-951, 94 Cal. Rptr. 3d 748] .

Although a defendant may be liable for payments made to the plaintiff after notice of the lien [see Civ. Code § 3045.4], the lien is not effective until the defendant receives written notice of the lien conforming to statutory requirements [see Civ. Code § 3045.3]. The court of appeal has concluded that this language means that the lien is not created until proper notice is given to the defendant. In addition, if a competing lien exists that was created prior to the hospital lien, that competing lien has priority [County of San Bernardino v. Calderon (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 1103, 1112-1113, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 333 (attorney's lien had priority due to date of creation)].

If proper notice of the lien is given, the hospital is entitled, at the time of disbursement of the funds of any judgment, compromise, or settlement, to the full amount of the lien claimed in the notice, or to as much as can be satisfied out of 50 percent of the recovery [Civ. Code § 2045.4]. If the hospital is not paid at the time of disbursement, the hospital's right to recover from the party making the disbursement is still limited to as much of the lien as can be satisfied from 50 percent of the recovery [Mercy Hosp. & Med. Ctr. v. Farmers Ins. Group of Cos. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 213, 216, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 638, 932 P.2d 210] . A hospital cannot avoid this 50 percent limitation by asserting the full amount of a lien against the patient rather than the third-party payor [Newton v. Clemons (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1, 13-18, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 90] .

A hospital's lien rights do not extend beyond the amount that the hospital agreed to receive as payment for the services provided to the particular plaintiff. For example, if a plaintiff (or the plaintiff's insurer) paid all amounts that were owed to the hospital under a reduced-rate managed health care contract, the hospital may not assert a lien on recovery from a third-party tortfeasor seeking compensation for the difference between the amount it agreed to receive from the plaintiff under its contract and the full-rate amount that the hospital would have charged to a patient not covered by the managed health care contract [Parnell v. Adventist Health Sys./W. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 595, 598, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 569, 109 P.3d 69 ; see also Nishihama v. City & County of San Francisco (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 298, 306-308, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 861] , overruled, Yanez v. SOMA Environmental Engineering, Inc. (2010) 185 Cal. App. 4th 1313, 1326-1327 . However, a hospital may recover these additional amounts through assertion of a hospital lien if it explicitly preserved the right to do so in the managed health care contract applicable to that particular plaintiff [see Parnell v. Adventist Health Sys./W. (2005) s35 Cal. 4th 595, 611, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 569, 109 P.3d 69] .

As with county liens filed under Gov. Code § 23004.1 [see § 177.54[2]], a plaintiff's attorney does not have a right to recover attorney's fees from a hospital asserting a lien under Civ. Code § 3045.1 [Day v. Alta Bates Med. Ctr. (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 243, 251-255, 119 Cal. Rptr. 2d 606] . This appears to be the case regardless of whether the attorney seeks to reduce the hospital's lien recovery by its apportioned share of attorney's fees or recover the fees directly from the hospital [see Day v. Alta Bates Med. Ctr. (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 243, 251-255, 119 Cal. Rptr. 2d 606] .

[4] Workers' Compensation Lien

An employer who has paid workers' compensation benefits to or on behalf of an injured employee has a right to seek reimbursement for these benefits from a third party claimed to be responsible for the injury [Lab. Code § 3852]. Reimbursement may be obtained by a direct action against the third party [Lab. Code § 3852] or by asserting a first lien against the amount of any judgment for damages awarded to the employee in the employee's action against a third party [Lab. Code § 3856(b)].

However, the parties may settle their claim "exclusive" of the workers' compensation lien, avoiding application of the lien to the settlement proceeds, and limiting the employer (or its insurer) to the remedy of direct action against the third party [see Lab. Code § 3859(b); Aetna Cas. & Sur. Co. v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1502, 1507-1508, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 301] .

The amount that the employer may recover under its lien is reduced by an amount sufficient to pay the fee of the employee's attorney on the employer's portion of the recovery to reflect the efforts of the employee's attorney that produced the recovery for the employer [Lab. Code § 3856(b); Quinn v. State of California (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 162, 175, 124 Cal. Rptr. 1, 539 P.2d 761] . Even if the employer files a complaint in intervention [see Lab. Code §§ 3852, 3853; Aetna Cas. & Sur. Co. v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1502, 1506-1507, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 301 (employer's right to seek reimbursement in action brought by employee)], the employee's attorney is entitled to a fee payable out of the employer's recovery if he or she did the work that produced the third-party recovery [Kaplan v. Industrial Indem. Co. (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 700, 709-711, 145 Cal. Rptr. 219 ; see Lab. Code § 3856(c)]. However, if the employer's attorney "actively participates" in the litigation, the employer is not a mere passive beneficiary, and the employee's attorney is not entitled to attorney's fees paid from the lien [see Walsh v. Woods (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1273, 1279, 232 Cal. Rptr. 629] .

If the employer and the employee are represented by the same attorney or by separate attorneys who both actively participate in achieving a settlement from a third-party tortfeasor, the settlement proceeds must be used first to pay litigation costs, including reasonable attorney's fees incurred by the employer and the employee, then to reimburse the employer for the cost of workers' compensation benefits provided to the employee, with the balance going to the employee [see Lab. Code § 3860(e)].

Under these circumstances, if the employer and the employee are represented by separate attorneys who both actively participate in gaining the settlement, the fees awarded to the employer's attorney and the employer's pro rata share of other litigation costs must be deducted from the amount paid to the employer out of the settlement proceeds as reimbursement for the employer's workers' compensation expenses [Summers v. Newman (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 1021, 1024, 1036, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 303, 978 P.2d 1225] .

In addition, if the amount of a settlement obtained through the efforts of separate attorneys is less than the amount of the employer's compensation lien, then the employee's amount of the recovery is zero and the employee's attorney is not entitled to fees payable from the settlement proceeds [Draper v. Aceto (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 1086, 1094-1095, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 61, 33 P.3d 479] .

If a settlement is effected, with or without suit, solely through the efforts of the employee's attorney, the reasonable expenses incurred in effecting the settlement must be deducted from the settlement amount, including a reasonable attorney's fee for the employee's attorney for the services performed in securing and effecting the settlement [Lab. Code § 3860(c)]. If the insurer's separate attorney participates in the case, but does not assist in effecting the settlement, the employee's attorney still has a right to fees [Luque v. Herrera (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 558, 562, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 853] . Moreover, assuming the employer's attorney does not assist in obtaining the settlement [see Draper v. Aceto (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 1086, 1094-1095, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 61, 33 P.3d 479] , the employee's attorney's right to fees is not affected by the fact that no actual benefit is conferred on the employee because the employer's lien amount happens to exceed the amount of the settlement [Luque v. Herrera (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 558, 562-563, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 853] .

The amount of the workers' compensation lien is also subject to reduction based on comparative negligence attributed to the employer [see Associated Constr. & Eng'g Co. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 829, 150 Cal. Rptr. 888, 587 P.2d 684] . If allegations of employer negligence are injected into the case, the mere filing of a lien is insufficient to protect the employer's claim for reimbursement. The employer must actively intervene and participate in the litigation [Aetna Cas. & Sur. Co. v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1502, 1507-1509, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 301] . This issue is also considered further in Ch. 577, Workers' Compensation.

[5] Contractual Liens

A health maintenance organization, health care plan, or medical provider may enter into an agreement with a member or patient to receive a lien against any subsequent judgment or settlement obtained from a third-party tortfeasor. Such an agreement is generally enforceable and not in violation of public policy [Samura v. Kaiser Found. Health Plan, Inc. (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 1284, 1292, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 20 ; Lee v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 458, 465-466, 129 Cal. Rptr. 271] . Enforcement is justified based on the assumption that the recovery from the party at fault will create a fund from which medical costs may be paid without burdening the injured party [Samura v. Kaiser Found. Health Plan, Inc. (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 1284, 1296, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 20] .

Contractual medical lien holders are entitled to recovery of the lien without contribution or apportionment of attorney's fees or litigation expenses incurred by the injured party in seeking recovery from a third-party tortfeasor [Lovett v. Carrasco (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 48, 55-57, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 496 ("common fund" doctrine inapplicable to contractual medical lien)]. However, in the event the recovery is insufficient to cover the liens, an attorney lien for fees and costs has priority over a medical lien, regardless of which lien was created first [Gilman v. Dalby (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 606, 619, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 231].

The doctrine of contract unconscionability may limit the enforceability of the lien in certain factual situations. If the tort victim does not recover enough from the third party to compensate for lost wages, future loss of earning capacity, or uninsured future medical expenses, the victim will also bear the burden of paying medical expenses from the tort recovery. In such a case, enforcement of the medical lien may represent a heavy burden on the injured party by reducing recovery of actual economic losses, and the victim may be able to present a defense to enforcement on the ground of unconscionability. Unconscionability involves (1) an inequality of bargaining power resulting in no real negotiation and the absence of meaningful choice and (2) surprise, which occurs if the terms of the bargain are hidden in a printed form drafted by the party seeking to enforce the disputed terms [Samura v. Kaiser Found. Health Plan, Inc. (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 1284, 1296-1297, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 20 (but refusing to find that inclusion of lien rights in agreement undifferentiated between adequately and inadequately compensated members was unfair business practice per se)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawSecured TransactionsPerfection & PriorityPriorityLiensHealthcare LawInsuranceReimbursementGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 177.55-177.69

[Reserved]

§§ 177.55[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.70

§ 177.70 Governing Statutes

The measure of damages for breach of an obligation arising from contract is governed by Civ. Code § 3300 et seq. Civ. Code § 3353 et seq. establish general provisions relating to damages. Civ. Code §§ 3287, 3289, 3289.5, and 3290 govern interest on damages related to contracts. Liquidated damages are governed by Civ. Code § 1671.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesForeseeable DamagesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.71

§ 177.71 Nominal Damages

The maxim that a law will not be concerned with trifles does not ordinarily apply to a violation of a contractual right because a defendant's failure to perform a contractual duty is, in itself, a legal wrong that is fully distinct from the actual damages. Once a breach of contract has been proven, nominal damages are presumed to follow as a matter of law. Consequently, a plaintiff is entitled to recover nominal damages for a breach despite inability to show that actual damage was inflicted [Civ. Code § 3360; Sweet v. Johnson (1959) 169 Cal. App. 2d 630, 632, 337 P.2d 499 ; Ross v. Frank W. Dunne Co. (1953) 119 Cal. App. 2d 690, 700, 260 P.2d 104 ; see also § 177.14].

In contract actions, nominal damages are apt to be awarded when actual damages cannot be established, for example, if they are too speculative or conjectural [see, e.g., Ericson v. Playgirl, Inc. (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 850, 859, 140 Cal. Rptr. 921 ; Sweet v. Johnson (1959) 169 Cal. App. 2d 630, 634, 337 P.2d 499 ; see also § 177.14[2]]. However, because a judgment is not erroneous for failure to award nominal damages unless there is a permanent right involved or the judgment for nominal damages would carry costs, a plaintiff who can only allege speculative or remote damages and against whom judgment has been entered after a demurrer is sustained has no recourse [see Kenyon v. Western Union Tel. Co. (1893) 100 Cal. 454, 458-459, 35 P. 75 (no primiary right, judgment arffirmed); Colvig v. RKO General, Inc. (1965) 232 Cal. App. 2d 56, 68-70, 42 Cal. Rptr. 473 (primary right, judgment reversed to allow plaintiff to amend to plead special damages)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawRemediesNominal Damages

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.72

§ 177.72 Compensatory Damages

[1] Basic Measure of Damages

In a breach of contract action, except as otherwise provided by law, the aggrieved party may recover damages in an amount that will compensate him or her for all the detriment proximately caused by the breach, or that, in the ordinary course of things, would be likely to result from the breach [Civ. Code § 3300]. Damages awarded to an injured party for breach of contract seek to approximate the agreed-upon performance [Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 967, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 102 P.3d 257 ; Applied Equipment Corp. v. Litton Saudi Arabia Ltd. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 503, 515, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 475, 869 P.2d 454] . The goal is to put the plaintiff in as good a position as he or she would have occupied if the defendant had not breached the contract; in other words, the plaintiff is entitled to damages that are equivalent to the benefit of the plaintiff's contractual bargain [Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 967-968, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 102 P.3d 257] .

The injured party's damages cannot, however, exceed what it would have received if the contract had been fully performed on both sides [Civ. Code § 3358; Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 968, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 102 P.3d 257] . Damages cannot be recovered for a breach of contract, however, unless they are clearly ascertainable in both their nature and origin [Civ. Code § 3301; see, e.g., Vestar Development v. General Dynamics Corporation (9th Cir. 2001) 249 F.3d 958, 961-962 (action for breach of agreement to negotiate was properly dismissed when the only damages sought were lost profits, which could not be proven with reasonable certainty as required by Civ. Code § 3301); see also § 177.13[2]].

Damages recoverable for breach of contract are limited to those that were actually contemplated by or within the reasonable contemplation of the parties at the time they entered into the contract [Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 968-969, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 102 P.3d 257 ; Brandon & Tibbs v. George Kevorkian Accountancy Corp. (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 442, 457, 277 Cal. Rptr. 40] . Thus, the contract measure of damages is not as broad as the tort measure of damages, which allows recovery for all damages caused by defendant's action or omission, whether anticipated or not [see Civ. Code § 3333 (tort measure);

Weaver v. Bank of America (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 428, 434, 30 Cal. Rptr. 4, 380 P.2d 644 ; California Shoppers, Inc. v. Royal Globe Ins. Co. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 1, 59, 221 Cal. Rptr. 171] . The limitation placed on damages for breach of contract by the requirement that the breaching party have knowledge or notice of situations giving rise to special damages is based on the theory that a party is not and cannot assume limitless responsibilities for all consequences of his or her breach, and that, at the time of contracting, he or she must have been advised of the facts concering special harm that might result from a breach in order that he or she may determine whether to accept the risk of contracting [Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 968-969, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 102 P.3d 257 ; Martin v. U-Haul Co. of Fresno (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 396, 409, 251 Cal. Rptr. 17] .

Generally, damages awarded in a breach of contract action should give the injured party the benefit of his or her bargain and, insofar as possible, place plaintiff in the same position he or she would have been in had the contract been performed [Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 967-968, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 102 P.3d 257 Brandon & Tibbs v. George Kevorkian Accountancy Corp. (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 442, 459, 277 Cal. Rptr. 40] . Nevertheless, the plaintiff should not be awarded more than the benefit that he or she would have received had the promisor performed [Civ. Code § 3358; Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 968, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 102 P.3d 257 ; Coughlin v. Blair (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 587, 600, 262 P.2d 305 ; Glendale Fed. Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Marina View Heights Dev. Co. (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 101, 123-124, 135 Cal. Rptr. 802 ; Fisher v. Hampton (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 741, 752, 118 Cal. Rptr. 811] .

For further discussion of the nature and purpose of compensatory damages, see § 177.13[1]. For a form of allegation of general damages, see § 177.190.

[2] When More Than One Measure of Damages Is Applicable

There may be more than one rule for the measurement of damages in the same action. In those cases, the measure of damages that affords the better and more satisfactory means of reaching an accurate and certain result is preferred. If the facts show that either of two measures of damages will fully compensate plaintiff for his or her loss, that measure must be adopted that is less expensive to defendant [A.A. Baxter Corp. v. Colt Industries, Inc. (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 144, 160, 88 Cal. Rptr. 842 ; Rilovich. v. Raymond (1937) 20 Cal. App. 2d 630, 644, 67 P.2d 1062 ; but see GHK Associates v. Mayer Group, Inc. (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 856, 874, 274 Cal. Rptr. 168 (selection of measure of damages as within sound discretion of trier of fact and will not be reversed unless abuse of discretion is established)].

When there is a more specific measure of damages than the general measure provided by Civ. Code § 3300, the more specific measure prevails. For example, Civ. Code § 3306, relating to damages for breach of agreement to convey real property, is a specific provision and would be applied to that situation rather than Civ. Code §§ 3287 (interest on damages) and 3300, which are general provisions [Boshes v. Miller (1953) 119 Cal. App. 2d 332, 336, 259 P.2d 447] .

[3] Necessity of Distinguishing Total or Partial Breach

When a breach is partial, the aggrieved party may recover damages for nonperformance only up to the time of trial and not for anticipated future nonperformance. When the breach is total, the aggrieved party may recover all damages, past and prospective, in a single lawsuit, and the other party is absolved from any duty, continuing or otherwise, to perform the contract. Thus, when there is a total breach, an aggrieved party who fails to bring an action for all damages, general and special, is barred on the grounds of res judicata from bringing a subsequent action for additional damages [Coughlin v. Blair (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 587, 598, 599, 262 P.2d 305 ; Guntert v. City of Stockton (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 131, 150, 126 Cal. Rptr. 690] . For a discussion of total and partial breaches, see Ch. 140, Contracts .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesDamagesCompensatory DamagesContracts LawBreachPartial BreachContracts LawBreachTotal BreachContracts LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.73

§ 177.73 Limitation on Damages for Breach of Contract With Termination Option

Damages for breach of a contract that contains a provision allowing either party to terminate the contract without cause by giving notice are limited to those that could potentially accrue during the period of the required notice [see Civ. Code § 3358 (discussed in § 177.15[1]); Martin v. U-Haul Co. of Fresno (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 396, 409-411, 251 Cal. Rptr. 17 ; see also Cal. Bev. etc. Co. v. Distillers Distrib. Corp. (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 758, 766, 323 P.2d 517 (damages for loss of good will are not recoverable for breach of distributorship agreement during month after notice of termination had been given because distributor had no expectation of patronage continuing after that month; damages for lost profits would be limited to those expected to be earned in that last month)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.74

§ 177.74 Causation and Foreseeability

The damages that may be recovered in a breach of contract action are those "which, in the ordinary course of things, would be likely to result" from breach [Civ. Code § 3300; Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 968, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 102 P.3d 257] . Contract damages must be proximately caused by the breach, that is, they must immediately follow and be produced by the act or omission complained of, or must, in the ordinary course of things, be likely to result from the breach [Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 968, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 102 P.3d 257 ; Friend & Terry L. Co. v. Miller (1885) 67 Cal. 464, 466, 8 P. 40 ; McDonald v. John P. Scripps Newspaper (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 100, 104, 257 Cal. Rptr. 473 ; J. Breuner Co. v. Western Union Tel. Co. (1930) 108 Cal. App. 243, 255, 291 P. 445 ; see Civ. Code § 3300 (discussed in § 177.72[1])]. Because general damages are a natural and necessary consequence of a contract breach, they are often said to be within the contemplation of the parties, meaning that because their occurrence is sufficiently predictable the parties at the time of contracting are "deemed" to have contemplated them [Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 968, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 102 P.3d 257] .

For instance, a contestant in a spelling bee who misspelled a word could not recover damages for breach of contract on account of being defeated by another contestant who should not have been advanced under the contest rules. Plaintiff's loss did not result from the other contestant's advancement, but from plaintiff's own mistake [McDonald v. John P. Scripps Newspaper (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 100, 104, 257 Cal. Rptr. 473] . Similarly, gaming club patrons who lost money gambling could not recover damages for the club's alleged breach of implied contract or breach of covenant of good faith and fair dealing on account of other patrons' supposed cheating. Plaintiffs claimed that the club's failure to fulfill its implied promises of security from cheating enabled plaintiffs' competitors to cheat, which in turn caused plaintiffs' losses. The unpredictability of the outcome of games, however, places such contests outside the range of probabilities necessary for proof of actionable damages [Vu v. California Commerce Club, Inc. (1997) 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 31] .

To be entitled to a judgment for damages for breach of contract, a plaintiff must prove that but for defendant's breach, the plaintiff would have been able to perform. This issue usually arises after a defendant has repudiated or committed an anticipatory breach of a contract. A plaintiff who could not or would not perform the substantial equivalent of its obligations is not entitled to damages. The plaintiff does not have to allege its readiness or willingness to perform, but must prove its ability to perform [Ersa Grae Corp. v. Fluor Corp. (1991) 1 Cal. App. 4th 613, 625, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 288 (real estate sale; plaintiff did not have to actually form consortium or obtain financing to prove ability to perform); McDorman v. Moody (1942) 50 Cal. App. 2d 136, 140-141 ; Dickey v. Kuhn (1930) 106 Cal. App. 300, 304] .

Damages cannot be presumed to flow from the breach. The aggrieved party must establish the causal connection between the breach and his or her damages [Metzenbaum v. R.O.S. Associates (1986) 188 Cal. App. 3d 202, 211-212, 232 Cal. Rptr. 741 ; Never v. King (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 461, 479, 81 Cal. Rptr. 161] . Thus, if the aggrieved party's performance had become impossible, his or her damages would be caused by that impossiblity, not by the other party's repudiation or breach [see, e.g., Metzenbaum v. R.O.S. Associates (1986) 188 Cal. App. 3d 202, 211-212, 232 Cal. Rptr. 741 ; Never v. King (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 461, 471, 479, 81 Cal. Rptr. 161 (both exclusive loan broker agreements under which agreed financing could not have been obtained from broker's sources)]. In the context of a franchise relationship, a franchisee's failure to make past royalty payments is not a proximate or "natural and direct" cause of the franchisor's failure to receive future royalty payments after the franchisor terminated the franchise agreement as a result of the franchisee's failure to make past due payments [see Postal Instant Press v. Sealy (1996) 43 Cal. App. 4th 1704, 1713, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 365] .

On the other hand, defendant's breach need not be the sole cause of plaintiff's damages. Under the substantial-factor test, which is only seldom applied in breach of contract actions, the breaching party may be liable for all of the aggrieved party's damages even though other factors contributed. A plaintiff in that situation need not show the proportionate part played by defendant's breach among several factors causing injury. For instance, an escrow company sued for negligence and breach of contract because of its failure to forward preliminary title reports or any demand was held liable to the seller for attorney's fees and litigation expenses incurred in buyer's specific performance suit against the seller. The court reasoned that the escrow's failure to perform its duties with reasonable care and dispatch was a substantial factor in the collapse of the escrow and thus of seller's damages [Bruckman v. Parliament Escrow Corp. (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 1051, 1063-1064, 235 Cal. Rptr. 813] .

The foreseeability factor requires that the damages fairly and reasonably be considered to arise naturally from the breach of contract itself. The aggrieved party may recover for only those damages that may reasonably be supposed to have been in the contemplation of both parties at the time they made the contract, as the probable result of a breach [Overstreet v. Merritt (1921) 186 Cal. 494, 503, 200 P. 11 , quoting Hadley v. Baxendale (1854) 9 Ex. 341, 156 Eng. Rep. 145; California Shoppers, Inc. v. Royal Globe Ins. Co. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 1, 59, 221 Cal. Rptr. 171] . Thus, for example, it is not reasonable for the parties to have contemplated that an insured would go out of business and sell all its assets in response to its insurer's refusal to assume the defense of a third party's action against it [California Shoppers, Inc. v. Royal Globe Ins. Co. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 1, 60, 221 Cal. Rptr. 171] .

This rule does not require the parties to have actually contemplated the very consequence that occurred if the consequence was one that the parties, in the light of all the facts known, or which should have been known to them, may be reasonably supposed to have considered as likely to follow, in the ordinary course of things, from a breach [Hunt Bros. Co. v. San Lorenzo etc. Co. (1906) 150 Cal. 51, 56, 87 P. 1093 ; A.A. Baxter Corp. v. Colt Industries, Inc. (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 144, 155, 88 Cal. Rptr. 842] .

Foreseeability is determined as of the time the contract was entered into and not as of the time of the breach or some other subsequent event [Gerwin v. Southeastern Cal. Assn. of Seventh Day Adventists (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 209, 220, 92 Cal. Rptr. 111 ; see also Glendale Fed. Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Marina View Heights Dev. Co. (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 101, 125, 135 Cal. Rptr. 802 (applicable measure of damages also determined as of time contract was formed)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawRemediesForeseeable DamagesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesForeseeable DamagesBenefit of the Bargain

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.75

§ 177.75 General and Special Damages

[1] Distinguished

Contractual damages are of two types--general damages (sometimes called direct damages) and special damages (sometimes called consequential damages) [Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 968, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 102 P.3d 257] . If damages are sought for injuries that the breaching party actually foresaw or had reason to foresee as a probable result of the breach when the contract was made, they are termed "general damages" [Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 968, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 102 P.3d 257] . "Unlike general damages, special damages are those losses that do not arise directly and inevitably from any similar breach of any similar agreement. Instead, they are secondary or derivative losses arising from circumstances that are particular to the contract or to the parties. Special damages are recoverable if the special or particular circumstances from which they arise were actually communicated to or known by the breaching party (a subjective test) or were matters of which the breaching party should have been aware at the time of contracting (an objective test). Special damages 'will not be presumed from the mere breach' but represent loss that 'occurred by reason of injuries following from' the breach. Special damages are among the losses that are foreseeable and proximately caused by the breach of a contract' " [Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 969, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 102 P. 3d 257] . Special damages are suffered as a consequence but not necessarily the certain result of the breach [Automatic PoultryFeeder Co. v. Wedel (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 509, 514, 28 Cal. Rptr. 795 ; Brunvold v. Johnson (1939) 36 Cal. App. 2d 226, 230, 97 P.2d 489 ; see Glendale Fed. Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Marina View Heights Dev. Co. (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 101, 125, 135 Cal. Rptr. 802] . If special circumstances under which a contract is actually made are communicated by the aggrieved party to the breaching party, and thus known to both parties, the damages resulting from the breach of that contract, which they would reasonably contemplate, is the amount of injury that would ordinarily follow from the breach under these special circumstances so known and communicated [Overstreet v. Merritt (1921) 186 Cal. 494, 503, 200 P. 11 , quoting Hadley v. Baxendale (1854) 9 Ex. 341, 156 Eng. Rep. 145]. For discussion of general and special damages, see § 177.12[1].

[2] Requirement of Pleading Special Damages

To recover for damages not covered by the general liability for breach of contract, facts must be specially pleaded showing that the injury was one reasonably within the contemplation of the parties and that the conditions likely to result in the special injury complained of were brought to the attention of the defendant at the time the contract was made [Shook v. Pearson (1950) 99 Cal. App. 2d 348, 351-352, 221 P.2d 757 ; see Myers v. Stephens (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 104, 120, 43 Cal. Rptr. 420] . Thus, if the defendant knows of the special purpose plaintiff intended to be accomplished and that the failure to accomplish it would cause greater damage than would ordinarily follow from a breach by the defendant, the plaintiff must allege the facts showing the special purpose and the knowledge of the defendant [Mitchell v. Clarke (1886) 71 Cal. 163, 164, 168, 11 P. 882] . For further discussion of pleading special damages, see § 177.12[2] and [3].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsHeightened Pleading RequirementsSpecial DamagesCivil ProcedureRemediesDamagesSpecial DamagesContracts LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesConsequential DamagesContracts LawRemediesForeseeable DamagesGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

70 of 157 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.76

§ 177.76 Availability of Tort Damages in Breach of Contract Actions

[1] Fraudulent Inducement to Enter Contract

Some early cases stated that a person may recover all damages proximately caused by the breach of a contract, not just those that were foreseeable, if the breach was in bad faith or is deemed tortious [see Overstreet v. Merritt (1921) 186 Cal. 494, 505, 200 P. 11 ; Kline v. Guaranty Oil Co. (1914) 167 Cal. 476, 483, 140 P. 1 (referring to bad faith breach)]. Those cases, however, involved a contract that one of the parties had no intention of performing, and may be more properly characterized as actions for deceit [see Civ. Code § 1710(4); Walker v. Signal Companies, Inc. (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 982, 994-996, 149 Cal. Rptr. 119 ; for discussion of actions for deceit, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit].

The California Supreme Court has more recently restated the law governing recovery of tort damages in breach of contract cases [Robinson Helicopter Co., Inc. v. Dana Corp. (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 979, 989 ; Erlich v. Menezes (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 543, 551, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 886, 981 P. 2d 978] . Conduct amounting to breach of contract becomes tortious only when it also violates a duty independent of the contract arising from principles of tort law [Robinson Helicopter Co., Inc. v. Dana Corp. (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 979, 989, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 352, 102 P.3d 268 ; Erlich v. Menezes (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 543, 551, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 886, 981 P. 2d 978] . The duty that gives rise to the tort must either be completely independent of the contract or arise from conduct that is both intentional and intended to harm. [Robinson Helicopter Co., Inc. v. Dana Corp. (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 979, 989, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 352, 102 P.3d 268 ; Erlich v. Menezes (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 543, 552, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 886, 981 P.2d 978] . "Generally, outside the insurance context, 'a tortious breach of contract ... may be found when (1) the breach is accompanied by a traditional common law tort, such as fraud or conversion; (2) the means used to breach the contract are tortious, involving deceit or undue coercion; or (3) one party intentionally breaches the contract intending or knowing that such a breach will cause severe, unmitigable harm in the form of mental anguish, personal hardship, or substantial consequential damages' " [Robinson Helicopter Co., Inc. v. Dana Corp. (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 979, 991, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 352, 102 P.3d 268 , quoting Erlich v. Menezes (1999) 21 Cal. 4th at 553-554, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 886, 981 P. 2d 978] .

[2] Contract to Perform Services

A contract to perform services gives rise to a duty of care which requires that those services be performed in a competent and reasonable manner. If the negligent performance of services results in a foreseeable economic loss, the plaintiff may be entitled to recover under a negligence theory for injury solely to its economic interests without needing to allege or prove injury to person or property [North American Chemical Co. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 764, 774, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 466 (economic loss rule does not apply in cases involving the negligent performance of services which results in foreseeable economic loss)]. However, in order to do so plaintiff must be able to show facts demonstrating the existence of a special relationship between the parties to the contract as defined and required by J'Aire Corp. v. Gregory (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 799, 804, 157 Cal. Rptr. 407, 598 P.2d 60 . A special relationship is established by consideration of the following six factors [North American Chemical Co. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 764, 782, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 466 , citing J'Aire Corp. v. Gregory (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 799, 804, 157 Cal. Rptr. 407, 598 P.2d 60] :

(1) The extent to which the transaction was intended to affect the plaintiff;

(2) The foreseeability of harm to the plaintiff;

(3) The degree of certainty that the plaintiff suffered injury;

(4) The closeness of the connection between the defendant's conduct and the injury suffered;

(5) The moral blame attached to the defendant's conduct; and

(6) The policy of preventing future harm.

For example, a chemical manufacturer that contracted with a company to bag, containerize and transport its chemicals was entitled to pursue a negligence claim against the company based on its shipment of a contaminated product to one of the manufacturer's customers. The manufacturer alleged sufficient facts to demonstrate that the shipper had a legal duty to perform its contract in a reasonable and competent manner and that it negligently failed to do so. It also alleged, or asserted that it could allege facts demonstrating the existence of the special relationship defined and required by J'Aire so as to justify the recovery of the economic losses which it claimed legally resulted from the shipper's negligent acts [North American Chemical Co. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 764, 787, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 466] .

In a construction defect case brought by homeowners against a developer and contractors, however, the California Supreme Court, applying the J'Aire factors, found that they did not justify a broad rule permitting recovery of repair costs unaccompanied by property damage or personal injury. Therefore, the homeowners and homeowners association could not recover in negligence from the developer, contractor, and subcontractors who built their homes a money judgment representing the cost to repair, or the diminished value attributable to, construction defects that have not caused property damage [Aas v. Superior Court (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 627, 645-647, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 718, 12 P.3d 1125] (affirming trial court's grant of defense motions for orders in limine excluding evidence of alleged construction defects that have not caused property damage as to plaintiffs' tort claims).

[3] Same Facts Constitute Breach of Contract and Tort

When the same acts are both a breach of contract and a tort, the injured party may recover compensatory damages applicable under both theories, except that damages may not be duplicative [Bruckman v. Parliament Escrow Corp. (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 1051, 1060, 235 Cal. Rptr. 813 (negligence and breach of escrow agreement); Walker v. Signal Companies, Inc. (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 982, 993-996, 149 Cal. Rptr. 119 (tortious inducement to enter contract that was later breached)]. If the same act or omission constitutes both a tort and a breach of contract, the aggrieved party may elect whether to proceed in tort or on the contract [Jones v. Kelly (1929) 208 Cal. 251, 255, 280 P. 942] . Generally, the aggrieved party may proceed to the trier of fact on both theories and cannot be forced to an election until the verdict or judgment is returned [Weaver v. Bank of America (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 428, 432, 30 Cal. Rptr. 4, 380 P.2d

644] .

The danger in this approach is that the act may not be both a tort and a breach of contract [but see Bruckman v. Parliament Escrow Corp. (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 1051, 1057-1058, 235 Cal. Rptr. 813 (negligence was also breach of express terms of contract, so four-year limitation period applied)]. If the cause of action arises from the breach of a promise set forth in the contract, the action is ex contractu; but if it arises from the breach of a duty imposed by law or growing out of the contract, it is ex delicto [Eads v. Marks (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 807, 811, 249 P.2d 257 ; Peterson v. Sherman (1945) 68 Cal. App. 2d 706, 711, 157 P.2d 863] . If the cause of action arises from the breach of a contractual duty, the action is delictual, notwithstanding that it also involves a breach of contract [Eads v. Marks (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 807, 811, 249 P.2d 257 ; Jones v. Kelly (1929) 208 Cal. 251, 254-255, 280 P. 942] . A tort may grow out of or be coincident with a contract, and the existence of a contractual duty does not immunize the tortfeasor from tort liability for his or her wrongful acts in breach of contract [Eads v. Marks (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 807, 811, 249 P.2d 257 ; Jones v. Kelly (1929) 208 Cal. 251, 254-255, 280 P. 942] . To determine whether the action is one in tort or on the contract, it is sometimes necessary to consider the gravamen of the action [Basler v. Sacramento etc. Ry. Co. (1913) 166 Cal. 33, 35-36, 134 P. 993 (injury to passenger as tort; contract only of significance to establish plaintiff's status as passenger)]. Another rule provides that the character of the action is to be determined by the nature of the grievance, rather than by the form of the pleading, and when it is not clear, the action will be construed in contract rather than in tort [Peterson v. Sherman (1945) 68 Cal. App. 2d 706, 711, 157 P.2d 863] .

Thus, as long as no statute of limitations problem is involved, counsel may wish to plead both the contract and the tort claims to maximize the potential recovery [see, e.g., Bruckman v. Parliament Escrow Corp. (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 1051, 1057-1058, 235 Cal. Rptr. 813] .

[4] Bad Faith Breach of Implied Covenant

A breach of the implied covenant may support an award of tort damages if some special relationship exists between the parties to the contract [see Crisci v. Security Ins. Co. (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 425, 429, 58 Cal. Rptr. 13, 426 P.2d 173 (insurance); Wallis v. Superior Court (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 1109, 1116-1118, 207 Cal. Rptr. 123 (employment)]. This theory of action, however, is unlikely to be extended outside the context of insurance [see Freeman & Mills, Inc. v. Belcher Oil Co. (1995) 11 Cal. 4th 85, 102-103, 44 Cal. Rptr. 2d 420, 900 P.2d 669 (holding tort remedy no longer available for noninsurance contract breach, at least in absence of violation of independent duty arising from principles of tort law other than the bad faith denial of existence of, or liability under, breached contract); Foley v. Interactive Data Corp. (1988) 47 Cal. 3d 654, 688-693, 254 Cal. Rptr. 211, 765 P.2d 373 (holding tort remedy no longer applicable to employer-employee relationships); Gomez v. Volkswagen of America, Inc. (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 921, 924, 928-929 (denying tort remedy on finding statutory scheme adequately compensates plaintiff); see Copesky v. Superior Court (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 678, 694, 280 Cal. Rptr. 338 (same court reversing its holding in Commercial Cotton Co. v. United California Bank (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 511, 515-516, 209 Cal. Rptr. 551 , and finding that after Foley, bank-depositor relationship is not special enough to support tort damages)]. For further discussion of the California Supreme Court's holding in Freeman & Mills, Inc. v. Belcher Oil Co. (1995) 11 Cal. 4th 85, 44 Cal. Rptr. 2d 420, 900 P.2d 669 , in which the California Supreme Court abolished the tort cause of action that has been referred to as the "tort of bad faith denial of the existence of a contract," as well as discussion of the "special relationship" test in the context of insurance contracts, see Ch. 140, Contracts . Specific elements of the tort measure of damages are discussed in the chapters relating to relationships that have been found to support it, such as in Ch. 308, Insurance, Ch. 334, Landlord and Tenant: Damage Claims, and Ch. 249, Employment Law: Termination and Discipline.

[5] Punitive or Exemplary Damages

Punitive or exemplary damages under Civ. Code § 3294 are not recoverable in an action for breach of contract no matter how willful, malicious, or fraudulent the breach [Civ. Code § 3294(a); Haigler v. Donnelly (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 674, 680, 117 P.2d 331 ; Myers Building Industries, Ltd. v. Interface Technology, Inc. (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 949, 959, 17 Cal.

Rptr. 2d 242 ; Quigley v. Pet, Inc. (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 877, 887, 208 Cal. Rptr. 394 ; Walker v. Signal Companies, Inc. (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 982, 996, 149 Cal. Rptr. 119 ; see Crogan v. Metz (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 398, 405, 303 P.2d 1029] . The word "contract" in Civ. Code § 3294 is used in its ordinary sense to mean an agreement between the parties, not an obligation imposed by law despite the absence of an agreement. Thus, if an obligation does not arise from contract but is imposed by law, a judgment for exemplary damages may be made [Ward v. Taggart (1959) 51 Cal. 2d 736, 743, 336 P.2d 534 ; see Schroeder v. Auto Driveaway Co. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 908, 921-922, 114 Cal. Rptr. 622, 523 P.2d 662] .

Similarly, punitive damages are recoverable if the act or omission complained of involves both a breach of contract and a tort, and the aggrieved party establishes the other party's liability for tort damages and fraud, oppression, or malice sufficient to sustain the award of punitive damages [Haigler v. Donnelly (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 674, 680-682, 117 P.2d 331 (conversion and money had and received); Walker v. Signal Companies, Inc. (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 982, 996, 149 Cal. Rptr. 119 (fraudulent inducement to enter contract); Foster v. Keating (1953) 120 Cal. App. 2d 435, 454-455, 261 P.2d 529 (fraud, conversion, breach of fiduciary duty; breach of joint venture agreement)].

When a case proceeds to a jury on both tort and contract causes of action, it is the responsibility of the party seeking punitive damages to elicit a special verdict finding on the tort cause of action to support an award of punitive damages [see Myers Building Industries, Ltd. v. Interface Technology, Inc. (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 949, 961, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 242] . The jury in Myers was instructed on both a contract cause of action and a fraud cause of action, but the special verdict form used only provided for findings and itemization of damages on the contract claim and for a finding regarding whether there was any oppression, fraud, or malice in defendant's conduct towards plaintiff. Although there was an affirmative finding of oppression, fraud, or malice, that special verdict was presented in the disjunctive and did not constitute a finding on the fraud cause of action. Thus, there was no special verdict finding on a tort cause of action to support a punitive damage award [Myers Building Industries, Ltd. v. Interface Technology, Inc. (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 949, 960-961, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 242] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawContract InterpretationGood Faith & Fair DealingContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesForeseeable DamagesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesPunitive DamagesTortsDamagesGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.77

§ 177.77 Duty to Mitigate Damages

[1] Scope of Duty in Contract Actions

Ordinarily, a person injured by the breach of an obligation has the duty to minimize damages and avoid or reduce the loss suffered by the party who breached the contract [Seaboard Music Co. v. Germano (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 618, 622, 101 Cal. Rptr. 255] . This rule applies, for example, to (1) contracts for employment requiring a wrongfully discharged employee to seek employment comparable or substantially similar to that of which the employee has been deprived [see Parker v. Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 176, 182, 89 Cal. Rptr. 737, 474 P.2d 689] ; and (2) construction contracts requiring a plaintiff who has wrongfully been given notice to stop performance to discontinue performance and not attempt to maximize his or her damages by fully performing [see Bomberger v. McKelvey (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 607, 613-615, 220 P.2d 729] . The particular requirements of mitigation in the situations used in these examples are discussed in Ch. 249, Employment Law: Termination and Discipline , and Ch. 104, Building Contracts , respectively. In addition, mitigation in other specific situations is discussed in other chapters [see, e.g., Civ. Code § 1951.2 (governing real property leases, discussed in Ch. 332, Landlord and Tenant: The Tenancy); Com. Code §§ 10527-10530 (governing leases executed on or after January 1, 1990, discussed in Ch. 413, Personal Property Leases)].

The duty to mitigate the damages caused by a breach of a contract does not mean that the aggrieved party must take measures that are unreasonable or impractical, would involve expenditures disproportionate to the loss sought to be avoided, or that may be beyond his or her financial means. It is sufficient if the aggrieved party acts reasonably and with due diligence in the light of the situation confronting him or her at the time the loss is threatened [Green v. Smith (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 392, 396-397, 67 Cal. Rptr. 796 ; see also Berge v. International Harvester Co. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 152, 163, 190 Cal. Rptr. 815 (plaintiff financially unable to replace truck)]. The reasonableness of the aggrieved party's actions is not tested in hindsight or in retrospect. The fact that an alternative course of action is shown to have been feasible is not proof that the course of action actually pursued by the aggrieved party was unreasonable [Zanker Development Co. v. Cogito Systems, Inc. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1377, 1381, 264 Cal. Rptr. 76 ; Green v. Smith (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 392, 392, 398, 67 Cal. Rptr. 796] . Whether a particular course of conduct undertaken by an injured party in an attempt to mitigate his or her damages is reasonable is a question of fact. Thus, on review, an appellate court must sustain a finding of reasonableness if it is supported by substantial evidence [Brandon & Tibbs v. George Kevorkian Accountancy Corp. (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 442, 460, 277 Cal. Rptr. 40] .

The aggrieved party need not enter into other risky contracts, incur unreasonable inconvenience or expense, disorganize the business, or put himself or herself in a humiliating position or in one involving loss of honor and respect [Bomberger v. McKelvey (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 607, 613-615, 220 P.2d 729 ; see Restatement of Contracts § 336(1), comment a]. For example, it is generally not necessary for an aggrieved party to renegotiate new terms with the party who has repudiated or breached the original agreement [Zanker Development Co. v. Cogito Systems, Inc. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1377, 1382, 264 Cal. Rptr. 76] .

Moreover, it is not generally the duty of the aggrieved party to assume the burden that the breaching party has violated or to incur relatively large expenses on that account [Dutra v. Cabral (1947) 80 Cal. App. 2d 114, 122, 181 P.2d 26 (faced with defendant's refusal to provide water for irrigating plaintiff's crops, plaintiff was not required to procure water from another source at cost that was large compared to damages sustained)]. However, if the aggrieved party does expend sums in a reasonable effort to avoid losses resulting from a breach of contract, those expenses are recoverable as damages. For instance, if a seller breaches an agreement for the sale of a business, and the injured party's commencement of a competing business in the same location is a reasonable attempt to mitigate damages, any operating losses sustained by the injured party during the the early years of its competing business are recoverable as damages [Brandon & Tibbs v. George Kevorkian Accountancy Corp. (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 442, 460-461, 277 Cal. Rptr. 40] .

[2] Affirmative Defense

The failure to mitigate damages is a matter of affirmative defense that must be pleaded and proved by the defendant [Mayes v. Sturdy Northern Sales, Inc. (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 69, 86, 154 Cal. Rptr. 43 ; Baruh v. Kuhl (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 266, 273, 28 Cal. Rptr. 573] . For a form of affirmative defense alleging failure to mitigate damages, see § 177.199.

[3] When Mitigation Is Not Required

Mitigation of damages occassioned by a breach of contract is required because (1) ordinarily, a party to a contract is interested only in the profit to be made from the contract, and if he or she receives this, he or she obtains the full benefit of the bargain; and (2) performance by the aggrieved party might be useless to the other party, although he or she would have to pay the entire contract price if the aggrieved party were permitted to perform, and this would inflict damage on the other party without benefit to the aggrieved party. If these reasons are not applicable to the particular sitiation, the aggrieved party does not have to mitigate his or her damages. For example, if the aggrieved party is not interested solely in profit from the agreement but must proceed with the work in order to fulfill contract obligations to others, or if the aggrieved party has progressed so far in his or her performance that it would be impracticable to attempt to make a reasonable estimate of damages, or to complete the work would diminish damages or, at least, not enhance them, the aggrieved party may go forward and complete his or her performance [Bomberger v. McKelvey (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 607, 614, 220 P.2d 729 ; see Restatement of Contracts § 336, comment a].

An aggrieved party is not required to mitigate its damages when its performance of the contract that has been breached relates to a small portion of its capacity and it is already engaged in contemporaneous performance of other contracts [Seaboard Music Co. v. Germano (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 618, 622-623, 101 Cal. Rptr. 255 ; Gollaher v. Midwood Constr. Co. (1961) 194 Cal. App. 2d 640, 651, 15 Cal. Rptr. 292] .

Finally, the duty of mitigation has no application when the aggrieved party has fully performed his or her obligations under the contract at the time of the other party's breach [see Capaldi v. Levy (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 274, 282, 81 Cal.

Rptr. 629] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePleading & PracticeDefenses, Demurrers & ObjectionsAffirmative DefensesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesAvoidable Consequences

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.78

§ 177.78 Liquidated Damages

[1] Rule Before 1978

Under former Civ. Code § 1671, a liquidated damages provision was enforceable only if the party seeking to enforce the provision pleaded and proved facts showing that actual damages would be impracticable or extremely difficult to fix and the provision reflected a reasonable endeavor to estimate actual damages [see Garrett v. Coast & Southern Fed. Sav. & Loan Assn. (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 731, 738-739, 108 Cal. Rptr. 845, 511 P.2d 1197 ; McCarthy v. Tally (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 577, 586, 297 P.2d 981] . The judicial decisions interpreting and applying these requirements severely limited the use of liquidated damages provisions [see Sweet, Liquidated Damages in California, 60 Cal. L. Rev. 84 (1972)]. Cases decided under the former law may be helpful in dealing with liquidated damages clauses in consumer contracts [Beasley v. Wells Fargo Bank (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1383, 1399, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 446 (former common law rule codified in Civ. Code § 1671(d), discussed in § 177.78[5], is retained for consumer actions), disapproved on other grounds, Olson v. Automobile Club of So. Cal. (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 1142, 1153 n.6 ; see H.S. Perlin Co. v. Morse Signal Devices (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1289, 1298, 258 Cal. Rptr. 1] .

For an allegation of liquidated damages for use in an action based on a consumer contract or a contract made before July 1, 1978, along with related case law references, see § 177.196.

[2] Current Rule

With respect to nonconsumer contracts executed on or after July 1, 1978, unless another statute prescribes the rule or standard for determining the validity of a liquidated damages provision, a provision in a contract liquidating the damages for the breach of a contract is valid unless the party seeking to invalidate it establishes that the provision was unreasonable under the circumstances existing at the time the contract was made [Civ. Code § 1671(a), (b)].

Thus, under Civ. Code § 1671(b), when contracts involving consumer transactions or leases of dwellings are not involved, the burden of proof on the issue of reasonableness is on the party seeking to invalidate the liquidated damage provision. Moreover, the intent of the legislation is to judge the reasonableness of the provision in light of the circumstances confronting the parties at the time of the making of the contract and not by hindsight. Accordingly, the amount of damages actually suffered should have no bearing on the validity of the liquidated damages provision [see, e.g., Weber, Lipshie & Co. v. Christian (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 645, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 677, 679 (liquidated damages provision in partnership agreement, providing that damages to accounting firm for loss of fees from breach of covenant would be measured by doubling firm's time charges for clients lost due to breach for 12 months immediately preceding their loss, held to be enforceable); H.S. Perlin Co. v. Morse Signal Devices (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1289, 1298-1301, 258 Cal. Rptr. 1 (upholding $250 liquidated damages for $958,000 theft loss proximately caused by alarm company's failure to follow up on signal indicating service interruption); Hong v. Somerset Associates (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 111, 115-116, 207 Cal. Rptr. 597 ($25,000 or 2 percent liquidated damages clause reasonable in contract for sale of 36-unit apartment); see also Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Code Civ. Proc. § 1671(b)].

The change reflected by the 1978 amendments was designed to favor enforcement of liquidated damages clauses, except against a consumer [see Civ. Code § 1671(d) (discussed in § 177.78[5], below)], by shifting the burden of proof to parties who wish to invalidate the liquidated damage provision [H.S. Perlin Co. v. Morse Signal Devices (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1289, 1298, 258 Cal. Rptr. 1] . Such a liquidated damages provision should be enforceable, therefore, unless the party opposing it submits evidence proving (not merely permitting an inference) that the provision was unreasonable when the agreement was made [e.g., El Centro Mall, LLC v. Payless ShoeSource, Inc. (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 58, 64-65, 94 Cal. Rptr. 3d 43 (shopping center tenant's evidence, while permitting inference that provision in lease was arbitrary, did not "conclusively prove the point")].

The fact that a liquidated damages clause limits damages rather than predicts them does not remove the provision from Civ. Code § 1671 [H.S. Perlin Co. v. Morse Signal Devices (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1289, 1300, 258 Cal. Rptr. 1 ; see 13 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Rep. 1740-1741 (1976)].

For an allegation of liquidated damages for use in an action based on a contract made after July 1, 1978, see § 177.197.

[3] Factors Used in Determining Reasonableness

Although Civ. Code § 1671(b) does not provide specific factors to determine the reasonableness of a liquidated damages provision, the Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Civ. Code § 1671(b) states that the parties should be given considerable leeway in determining the damages for breach. All the circumstances existing at the time of the making of the contract are to be considered, including the relationship that the damages provided in the contract bear to the range of harm that reasonably could be anticipated at the time of the making of the contract. Other relevant considerations to determine if the amount is unreasonable include, but are not limited to, the relative equality of the bargaining power of the parties, whether the parties were represented by lawyers at the time the contract was made, the anticipation of the parties that proof of actual damages would be costly or inconvenient, the difficulty of proving causation and foreseeability, and whether the liquidated damages provision is included in a form contract [Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Civ. Code § 1671(b)].

When the parties do not have equal bargaining power, the liquidated damages clause should receive careful judicial scrutiny in an analysis that encompasses both procedural and substantive considerations [H.S. Perlin Co. v. Morse Signal Devices (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1289, 1297 n.5, 1299, 258 Cal. Rptr. 1] . The fact that the liquidated damages provision is found in a preprinted form drafted by the party in the stronger bargaining position, and thus offers no real negotiating opportunity over that term of the contract, does not in itself make the liquidated damages provision unreasonable. The meaningfulness of a party's choice is based not only on his or her relationship to the other party, but also on his or her ability to obtain the goods or services from others [H.S. Perlin Co. v. Morse Signal Devices (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1289, 1299, 258 Cal. Rptr. 1 (in evaluating liquidated damages provision in burglar alarm service contract, insurance against risks of theft as available alternative service)].

A liquidated damages provision will not be held unreasonable because the party in the weaker negotiating position did not read the contract if the liquidated damages provision or references to it would have been readily apparent to anyone who did read it [H.S. Perlin Co. v. Morse Signal Devices (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1289, 1299-1300, 258 Cal. Rptr. 1] .

In evaluating substantive reasonableness, it is appropriate to compare the compensation being charged under the contract for the goods or services with the allocation of the risks made by the liquidated damages clause. For instance, a clause liquidating damages payable by a burglar alarm service company to $250 in a contract under which the subscriber made an initial payment of $300 and paid monthly fees of $50 was not an objectively unreasonable or unexpected allocation of risk considering that insurance on $500,000 of inventory would have cost the subscriber $25,000 a year [H.S. Perlin Co. v. Morse Signal Devices (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1289, 1297, 1300, 258 Cal. Rptr. 1 (citing 13 Cal. Law Revision Com. Rep. 1737, 1741 (1976), for proposition that limitation on liability is acceptable if beneficiary of limitation is in high-risk enterprise)].

Finally, although the doctrine of unconscionability [see Civ. Code § 1670.5 (discussed in Ch. 140, Contracts)] applies to all contracts and thus to liquidated damages provisions, the reasonableness standard set forth in Civ. Code § 1671(b) provides for more judicial scrutiny than is allowed under the unconscionability standards. An unreasonable risk allocation could invalidate a liquidated damages clause without the clause being unconscionable; but a liquidated damages clause that is reasonable under Civ. Code § 1671(b) cannot be unconscionable [H.S. Perlin Co. v. Morse Signal Devices (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1289, 1301-1302, 258 Cal. Rptr. 1] .

[4] Late Payment Fees

Charges for late payment of loan installments may be held unenforceable if they bear no reasonable relationship to the injury the creditor might suffer from late payments. For example, a clause in a promissory note which imposed a charge of six months' interest if the borrowers prepaid the loan principal, and also provided that the charge would not be imposed six months after execution of the note unless the borrowers had made a late interest payment or otherwise defaulted, was held to be an unenforceable penalty for late payment. The California Supreme Court found the provision unenforceable because it bore no relationship to the potential damages defendant would incur from a late interest payment [Ridgley v. Topa Thrift and Loan Ass'n (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 970, 979-981, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 378, 953 P.2d 484] .

[5] Consumer Contracts and Leases for Dwellings

When liquidated damages are sought to be recovered from a consumer or residential lessee pursuant to a liquidated damages provision in a contract (1) for the retail purchase, or rental, of personal property or services, primarily for personal, family, or household purposes, or (2) for the lease of real property for use as a dwelling by a party to the lease or those dependent on the party for support, the validity of the liquidated damages provision is tested under Civ. Code § 1671(d) rather than under Civ. Code § 1671(b) [Civ. Code § 1671(c)]. A liquidated damages provision in a consumer contract or residential lease is void except that the parties may agree on an amount that is presumed to be the amount of damages sustained by a breach thereof if, from the nature of the case, it would be impracticable or extremely difficult to fix the actual damages [Civ. Code § 1671(d); see 13 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Rep. 1741 (1976)].

In other words, with respect to a liquidated damages provision in a consumer contract or a residential lease, the prior law under former Civ. Code §§ 1670 and 1671 [see § 177.78[1]] is continued in Civ. Code § 1671(d), and decisions interpreting those former code sections still apply in such a case [Utility Consumers' Action Network, Inc. v. AT&T Broadband of S. Cal., Inc. (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 1023, 1029, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 827] .

Thus, if a liquidated damages provision is included in a consumer contract or residential lease as described in Civ. Code § 1671(c), the nonconsumer plaintiff must plead and prove the following [McCarthy v. Tally (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 577, 586, 297 P.2d 981 (applying requirements of former Civ. Code § 1671, now limited to consumer contracts and leases of dwellings)]:

- At the time the contract was entered into, ascertaining the actual damages in the event of a breach would have been impracticable or extremely difficult;

- The sum agreed on represented a reasonable endeavor by the parties to ascertain what the actual damages would be; and

- A breach of the contract occurred.

No actual damages need to be proved in order to recover under the liquidated damages provision [McCarthy v. Tally (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 577, 586, 297 P.2d 981] . Note that, if a liquidated damages provision in a consumer contract or residential lease is to be enforced against the nonconsumer party, then the standard of Civ. Code § 1671(b) [see § 177.78[2]] is applicable to determine the validity of the provision [Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Civ. Code § 1671(c)].

The second requirement--that the sum agreed on as liquidated damages must represent a reasonable endeavor by the parties to ascertain what the actual damages would be--does not imply that there must always be bargaining between the parties, with the aim of settling on that sum. In the case of a standardized contract of adhesion offered to a very large number of consumers by a supplier of consumer services (for example, a contract for internet services), such bargaining is not practical with respect to small sums such as a late payment charge to a consumer. If the supplier endeavors reasonably to ascertain what the actual damages would be and the resulting amount specified in the contract is not unreasonable, then the requirement has been met and the liquidated damages provision is valid [Utility Consumers' Action Network, Inc. v. AT&T Broadband of S. Cal., Inc. (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 1023, 1035-1038, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 827] .

Civ. Code § 1671(d) represents a codification of common law and provides affirmative relief to a party who has paid sums in accordance with an invalid liquidated damages provision. The measure of the breaching party's recovery is the difference between the sums it paid under the invalid provision and the other party's actual damages for the four years (in the case of a written contract) prior to the commencement of the action [Beasley v. Wells Fargo Bank (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1383, 1398-1402, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 446 , disapproved on other grounds, Olson v. Automobile Club of So. Cal. (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 1142, 1153 n.6]. An action for affirmative relief was, and remains, an equitable action in which the breaching plaintiff has no right to a jury trial [Beasley v. Wells Fargo Bank (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1383, 1392-1393, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 446 (but defendant's cross complaint to recover sums owed from certain members of class as creating defensive claim for relief on which there was right to jury trial), disapproved on other grounds, Olson v. Automobile Club of So. Cal. (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 1142, 1153 n.6]. However, even in the context of a legal defense, the question of the validity of the liquidated damages provision--whether the sum to be paid in the event of breach is an unlawful penalty or a valid liquidated damages provision--is to be decided by the judge. Thus, the court should first decide whether it was impracticable or extremely difficult to fix actual damages, and whether the nonbreaching party made a reasonable endeavor to estimate a fair average compensation for its loss, and then the jury should decide the amount of actual damages suffered by the nonbreaching party [Beasley v. Wells Fargo Bank (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1383, 1393, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 446 , disapproved on other grounds, Olson v. Automobile Club of So. Cal. (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 1142, 1153 n.6].

[6] Deposit as Liquidated Damages

If parties provide for a deposit as security for the performance of a contractual obligation instead of promising to pay a fixed sum as liquidated damages in case of a breach, a court should determine if the parties intended the deposit to constitute liquidated damages or to be merely a fund to secure the payment of any actual damages. If the deposit was intended to be a liquidated damages provision, whether or not it may be enforced should be determined under the applicable provisions of Civ. Code § 1671 [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Civ. Code § 1671].

[7] Contracts to Purchase Real Property

The validity of a liquidated damages clause in a contract for the purchase and sale of real property, providing for liquidated damages to the seller on the buyer's failure to complete the purchase of the property, is governed by Civ. Code §§ 1675-1681. These sections apply to contracts for the purchase and sale of residential as well as nonresidential property, but do not apply to real property sales contracts as defined in Civ. Code § 2985(a) [Civ. Code § 1681]. Application of Civ. Code §§ 1675-1681 is limited to contractual clauses providing for liquidated damages to the seller on breach by the buyer. The validity of any other provision for liquidated damages in a contract to purchase and sell real property is governed by Civ. Code § 1671 [Civ. Code § 1679]. Nothing in Civ. Code §§ 1675-1681 affects any right a party to a contract for the purchase and sale of real property may have to obtain specific performance [Civ. Code § 1680]. For a detailed discussion of the provisions of Civ. Code §§ 1675-1681 and 2985, see Ch. 569, Vendor and Purchaser .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawRemediesLiquidated Damages

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.79

§ 177.79 Particular Elements of Recovery

[1] Damages for Physical and Mental Suffering

[a] Nature of Contract Makes Distress Foreseeable

Damages for physical suffering resulting from a breach of contract are generally not recoverable [Westwater v. Grace Church (1903) 140 Cal. 339, 341, 73 P. 1055 ; Cobler v. Stanley, Barber, Southard, Brown & Associates (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 518, 531, 265 Cal. Rptr. 868] . Nevertheless, if a person contracts to do a particular thing and the failure to do it may result in anguish and distress of mind on the part of other contracting party, he or she is presumed to have contracted with reference to the payment of damages for physical suffering or illness in the event that type of damages accrues because of his or her breach of contract [Cobler v. Stanley, Barber, Southard, Brown & Associates (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 518, 531, 265 Cal. Rptr. 868 ; Westervelt v. McCullough (1924) 68 Cal. App. 198, 207-209, 228 P. 734 ; but see Selden v. Dinner (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 166, 173-174, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 153 (discussed below, barring recovery for breach of contract to provide medical services)].

Application of this rule permits recovery of damages for mental or emotional suffering too, even when no physical injury is alleged [Ross v. Forest Lawn Memorial Park (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 988, 995, 203 Cal. Rptr. 468 ; Windeler v. Scheers Jewelers (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 844, 851, 88 Cal. Rptr. 39] . Consequently, when the terms of a contract relate to matters that directly concern the comfort, happiness, or personal welfare of one of the parties, or the subject matter of the contract directly affects or moves the affection, self-esteem, or tender feelings of that party so that it is apparent from the particular subject matter of the contract and in the contemplation of the parties that mental suffering or emotional distress is a foreseeable and contemplated result of the breach, the aggrieved party may recover damages for physical or emotional suffering or illness proximately caused by the breach [Chelini v. Nieri (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 480, 482, 196 P.2d 915 (physical illness occasioned by mortician's breach of contract to preserve body); Rogoff v. Grabowski (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 624, 633, 246 Cal. Rptr. 185 (emotional suffering when hired driver abandoned drunken party-goer in wet swim clothes); Wynn v. Monterey Club (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 789, 799-801, 168 Cal. Rptr. 878 (physical and emotional suffering due to breach of promise not to advance funds to allow spouse to gamble in defendant's establishment); State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 508, 527-528, 88 Cal. Rptr. 246 (physical and emotional suffering for failure to provide defense); Windeler v. Scheers

Jewelers (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 844, 851-852, 88 Cal. Rptr. 39 (physical suffering for breach of bailment contract involving cherished family rings; defendant knew of rings' sentimental value); Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 891, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181 (extending doctrine to allow recovery of damages for emotional distress by close family members as third party beneficiaries of contracts for funeral services)].

However, in a case to determine whether emotional distress damages were recoverable for the negligent breach of a contract to construct a house, the California Supreme Court held that when the contractor's negligence directly caused only economic injury and property damage, and breached no duty independent of the contract, the homeowners could not recover damages for emotional distress based on breach of the contract [Erlich v. Menezes (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 543, 548, 558-560, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 886, 981 P.2d 978] . The Court stated that the balance of policy considerations--the potential for significant increases in liability in amounts disproportionate to culpability, the court's inability to formulate appropriate limits on the availability of claims, and the magnitude of the impact on stability and predictability in commercial affairs--counseled against expanding contract damages to include mental distress claims in negligent construction cases [Erlich v. Menezes (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 543, 558-561, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 886, 981 P.2d 978] .

For a discussion of damages for mental suffering resulting from a breach of contract, see Ch. 362, Mental Suffering and Emotional Distress .

[b] Recovery Barred by Medical Standard of Care

Damages for emotional suffering as an element of a breach of contract claim arising from a physician's failure to provide promised medical services are not recoverable if the physician's failure to perform those services was consistent with his or her obligation to meet the professional standard of care in treating the plaintiff [Selden v. Dinner (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 166, 173-174, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 153] . Selden arose out of a contract to perform a preventative mastectomy and reconstructive surgery before plaintiff's medical coverage expired. On the day that surgery was scheduled, in a hospital where defendant's application for surgical privileges had not yet been approved, there was disagreement over whether the hospital would allow defendant to proceed. It was finally agreed that defendant could perform the surgery with another surgeon to monitor the operation, but by the time that agreement was reached, defendant felt too upset to perform the surgery properly, and postponed it for that reason. The court considered defendant's obligation to meet the standard of professional care critical, and was unwilling to create a substantial incentive that conflicts with that obligation. If the standard of care, which can only be established by way of expert medical testimony, required defendant to cancel the surgery because of defendant's emotional state, imposing liability for emotional distress damages on a breach of contract theory would create a powerful financial incentive for the physician to act below the standard of care [Selden v. Dinner (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 166, 173, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 153] .

[2] Lost Profits

[a] Nature of Contract

Lost profits can sometimes be used as the measure of general damages for breach of contract [Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 971, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 102 P.3d 257] . If loss of prospective profits is the natural and direct consequence of a breach of contract, they may be recovered [see, e.g., GHK Associates v. Mayer Group, Inc. (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 856, 876, 274 Cal. Rptr. 168 (development agreement under which plaintiff was to receive percent of profits from sales to third parties)]. Damages measured by lost profits expected to be earned on the contract at issue have been upheld when the breaching party's conduct prevented the other side from undertaking performance [see, e.g., Stark v. Shaw (1957) 155 Cal. App. 2d 171, 181, 317 P.2d 182 (contractor's delay in building subdivision prevented roofing subcontractor from performing); De Flavio v. Estell (1959) 173 Cal. App. 2d 226, 232-233, 343 P.2d 150 (lost profit damages below contractor's estimated profit upheld when owner repudiated contract)].

Lost profits from collateral transactions as a measure of general damages for breach of contract typically arise when the contract involves crops, goods intended for resale, or an agreement creating an exclusive sales agency [Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 971-972, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 102 P.3d 257 (collecting cases)]. In these types of cases the likelihood of lost profits from the related or derivative transactions is so obvious that the breaching party is deemed to have contemplated them at the inception of the contract [Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 972, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 102 P. 3d 257 ; Nelson v. Reisner (1958) 51 Cal. 2d 161, 171-172, 331 P.2d 17 (sharecrop lease for which consideration was percent of crop proceeds); James v. Herbert (1957) 149 Cal. App. 2d 741, 749, 309 P.2d 91 (real estate investment joint venture to share profits)].

Recovery of lost profits is subject to the general rule that they must have been foreseeable in that they must have been within the contemplation of the parties when they contracted, and is further limited to profit on sales in the ordinary course of business [Grupe v. Glick (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 680, 691-692, 160 P.2d 832 ; Fraser v. Bentel (1911) 161 Cal. 390, 396, 119 P. 509] . Loss of profits are recoverable if the breaching party had reason to know that such a loss would result. Actual knowledge is not required. If the seller knows the buyer is in the business of reselling, the seller is charged with knowledge of anticipated resales [Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 971-972, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 102 P.3d 257 ; Sun Maid Raisin Growers v. Victor Packing Co. (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 787, 791, 194 Cal. Rptr. 612 (based on Com. Code § 2715(2) standard for consequential damages); see Dunn, Recovery of Damages for Lost Profits in California, 9 U.S.F. L. Rev. 415 (1975) (arguing that despite language in some cases, foreseeability is no longer California law except in situations governed by Com. Code § 2715]. Conversely, when a person does not inform his or her vendor of the fact that he or she intends to resell, loss of resale profits are not recoverable [Fraser v. Bentel (1911) 161 Cal. 390, 396, 119 P. 509 (breach of covenant against encumbrances)].

In addition, to be recoverable, the loss of profits must have been reasonable, proximately caused by the breach, and not too remote [Grupe v. Glick (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 680, 688, 160 P.2d 832 ; California Shoppers, Inc. v. Royal Globe Ins. Co. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 1, 59-60, 221 Cal. Rptr. 171 ; see also § 177.74]. For instance, for a four-month delay in completing construction of a premises the builder knew would be used as a pharmacy, neither lost profits nor the salary of another pharmacist were recoverable because the particular arrangement of the business in that way was not reasonable. Recovery was limited to the reasonable rental value of the property during the period of delay [Sabraw v. Kaplan (1962) 211 Cal. App. 2d 224, 227-228, 27 Cal. Rptr. 81] .

In an action for breach of a contract to negotiate an agreement [see Copeland v. Baskin Robbins U.S.A. (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 1251, 1253, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 875 (holding that contract to negotiate agreement is distinguishable from so-called "agreement to agree," and can be formed and breached like any other contract); see also Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.22[6][c]], a plaintiff cannot recover for lost expectations (profits) because there is no way of knowing what the ultimate terms of the agreement would have been, or even if there would have been an ultimate agreement. Damages for such a breach are measured by the injury the plaintiff suffered in relying on the defendant to negotiate in good faith. This measure encompasses the plaintiff's out-of-pocket costs in conducting the negotiations, and may or may not include lost opportunity costs [Copeland v. Baskin Robbins U.S.A. (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 1251, 1260-1264, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 875 (defendant entitled to summary judgment in action for breach of agreement to negotiate when it showed that plaintiff could not establish reliance damages)].

In the context of a public contract, the California Supreme Court has held that bid preparation costs, but not lost profits, were available under a theory of promissory estoppel [Kajima/Ray Wilson v. Los Angeles MTA (2000) 23 Cal. 4th 305, 315-317, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 747 (permitting recovery of lost profits would unduly punish tax-paying public while providing unfair windfall to bidders)].

Both the occurrence of, and the extent of, lost profits damages must be proven with certainty, although the amount of lost profits need not be established with absolute certainty [Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona

Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 975, 22 Cal.Rptr.3d 340, 102 P.3d 257] . Demonstrating the reasonable probability that the profits would have been earned except for the breach of the contract is sufficient [Nelson v. Reisner (1958) 51 Cal. 2d 161, 171-172, 331 P.2d 17 ; California Shoppers, Inc. v. Royal Globe Ins. Co. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 1, 63, 221 Cal. Rptr. 171 ; Fisher v. Hampton (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 741, 747, 118 Cal. Rptr. 811 (limited partnership for oil drilling; venture considered too risky for profit to be certain)].

[b] Established Business

In cases involving the loss of prospective profits from an established business because the working experience of the business affords a reasonable method of determining the loss, the aggrieved party may recover compensation for whatever profit he or she shows was reasonably certain to have been realized [Overstreet v. Merritt (1921) 186 Cal. 494, 504, 200 P. 11 (joint venture; cattle); Hoag v. Jenan (1948) 86 Cal. App. 2d 556, 563-564, 195 P.2d 451 (lease of additional space to be rented to operator of parking garage)]. The occurrence and extent of the loss can be determined with reasonable certainty from the working experience of the business, from its past volume, and from other data reflecting probable future volume [Guntert v. City of Stockton (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 131, 143, 126 Cal. Rptr. 690 (commercial lease); see Stott v. Johnston (1951) 36 Cal. 2d 864, 876-877, 229 P.2d 348 (breach of warranty regard ing paint; plaintiff was paint decorator; single stipulated sum as damages for both lost profits and loss of good will)].

[c] Unestablished Business

Formerly, loss of profits growing out of a breach of contract involving an unestablished business were considered too uncertain to constitute a basis for the computation of damages for the breach. A new business was viewed as an adventure and its profits were too speculative and remote, existing only in anticipation [California Press Mfg. Co. v. Stafford Packing Co. (1923) 192 Cal. 479, 485, 221 P. 345, 211 P. 345 (fish processor claimed it could expand its capacity if machinery was not defective)]. Courts reasoned that without evidence of past profits on which to base an estimate of future profits, there was no other satisfactory way to establish the lost profits. The former rule, however, is now considered applicable only to determining if the fact of damage, as distinguished from the amount of damage, has been established with reasonable certainty [Fisher v. Hampton (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 741, 748, 118 Cal. Rptr. 811 ; Mahoney v. Founders' Ins. Co. (1961) 190 Cal. App. 2d 430, 436-437, 12 Cal. Rptr. 114 (mining)].

For example, in a breach of warranty action arising out of the sale of agricultural machinery for use in processing harvested tomatoes, after the machinery rendered the entire crop unmarketable, the plaintiff was allowed damages for anticipated profits from the sale of the entire crop even though the plaintiff had never grown tomatoes before, based on plaintiff's previous experience as a farmer and the fact that the crop was in good condition at the time it was harvested [A & M Produce Co. v. FMC Corp. (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 473, 493-494, 186 Cal. Rptr. 114] .

Similarly, if the parties were developing a new venture together under a contract that required them to share the profits, damages based on the actual income of the project are proper [GHK Associates v. Mayer Group, Inc. (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 856, 876, 274 Cal. Rptr. 168] .

[d] Measure and Proof of Damages

The measure of damages for loss of anticipated profits is the amount of net profits, not gross profits; otherwise, a plaintiff would be unjustly enriched [Gerwin v. Southeastern Cal. Assn. of Seventh Day Adventists (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 209, 222-223, 92 Cal. Rptr. 111 (sale of restaurant and bar equipment)]. In calculating the net profit, all the costs of producing the gross income should be deducted, including the value of labor, materials, rents, and all expenses, together with the interest of the capital employed [Gerwin v. Southeastern Cal. Assn. of Seventh Day Adventists (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 209, 222-223, 92 Cal. Rptr. 111 ; Carrey v. Boyes Hot Springs Resort, Inc. (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 618, 622, 54 Cal. Rptr. 199 (wrongful eviction from business premises)].

Fixed expenses and overhead costs are not taken into account if they would not have increased or decreased as a consequence of the nonperformance or performance of the contract [see Oakland Cal. Towel Co. v. Sivils (1942) 52 Cal. App. 2d 517, 520, 126 P.2d 651 (linen supply contract)].

In some cases, lost profits may be based on profitability of similar businesses operating under similar conditions. The aggrieved party may rely on data from other enterprises only if it is shown that his or her business is operated under similar conditions, such as in the same area and with the same equipment. For example, in a breach of warranty action, the gross revenues of other truckers were revelant, but the use of average profit percentages to calculate what plaintiff's net profits would have been if the defective truck had been operable was not because plaintiff did not show that there was a similarity of operations [Berge v. International Harvester Co. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 152, 162-163, 190 Cal. Rptr. 815] .

[e] Pleading

In cases involving breach of contract, loss of profits that were contemplated by the parties when they made the contract and that are the direct and natural result of the breach may be recovered as general damages without the necessity of pleading special allegations [Myers v. Stephens (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 104, 121, 43 Cal. Rptr. 420 (original complaint for specific performance was amended to plead conversion; evidence of lost profits was admissible even though not specially pleaded in amended complaint); Morello v. Growers Grape Prod. Ass'n (1947) 82 Cal. App. 2d 365, 375, 186 P.2d 463 (nature of business and right of first refusal made lost profits natural consequence of breach)]. Lost profits recoverable as special damages must be pled with particularity [Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 975, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 102 P.3d 257] . If there is any question regarding defendant's knowledge of plaintiff's business or intentions regarding resale, it would seem prudent to include specific allegations [see Fraser v. Bentel (1911) 161 Cal. 390, 396, 119 P. 509] .

For a form of allegation for use in a complaint to allege lost profits, see § 177.191.

[3] Loss of Good Will

Damages for loss of good will and injury to a business resulting from a breach of contract may be recovered [see Stott v. Johnston (1951) 36 Cal. 2d 864, 872, 229 P.2d 348 (action by decorator for breach of warranty regarding paint; single stipulated sum as damages for both lost profits and loss of good will); Gregory v. Spieker (1895) 110 Cal. 150, 154, 42 P. 576 (action for breach of contract for sale of business and covenant not to compete); Walpole v. Prefab Mfg. Co. (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 472, 489, 230 P.2d 36 (action for breach of contract to sell and deliver goods to plaintiff distributor)]. Loss of good will of a business conducted on premises taken by eminent domain is authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 1263.510, and is discussed in Ch. 247, Eminent Domain .

The good will of a business is defined as the expectation of continued patronage of it by the public and constitutes a form of property that may be valued [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14100; Baker v. Pratt (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 370, 380, 222 Cal. Rptr. 253 (corporate dissolution); Cal. Bev. etc. Co. v. Distillers Distrib. Corp. (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 758, 766, 323 P.2d 517 (damages for loss of good will is not recoverable for breach of distributorship agreement during month after notice of termination had been given because distributor had no exprectation of continuing patronage)]. A going business has a value over and above the aggregate value of the tangible property employed in it, and good will is an indispensable element of the fair market value of such a business [Baker v. Pratt (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 370, 380, 222 Cal. Rptr. 253] . Apparently, however, the fair market value approach is relevant only when a business is being sold or dissolved. When a business is sold for its fair market value, the sale price received implicitly compensates the seller for any expected future earnings; recovery of both fair market value plus damages for loss of future profits constitutes impermissible double recovery [California Shoppers, Inc. v. Royal Globe Ins. Co. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 1, 61, 221 Cal. Rptr. 171] . California Shoppers addressed damages for lost profits. Nevertheless, if good will is defined as the expectation of continued patronage, it is the source of future profits, and thus, arguably, the same reasoning may apply to establish that no good will is lost if a business is sold for its fair market value.

Good will results from the general public patronage and encouragement a business receives from constant or habitual customers because of its local position, common celebrity, reputation for skill or affluence, punctuality, or from other accidental circumstances, necessities, or even ancient partialities or prejudices. Stated in another way, it is the probability that the old customers will return to the old place and that the business will continue in the future as it did in the past, adding to the profits of the concern and contributing to the means of meeting its engagements as they come in. It is not a visible, tangible part of the business, but it is an element of strength and permanency that adds very much to the value of the business [Bell v. Ellis (1867) 33 Cal. 620, 624-625 (replevin); Piedmont Publishing Co. v. Rogers (1961) 193 Cal. App. 2d 171, 186, 14 Cal. Rptr. 133 (specific performance of stock option)]. In determining the value of the good will of a business, the court may take into consideration the situation of the business premises, the amount of patronage, the personality of the parties engaged in the business, the length of time the business has been established, and the habit of its customers in continuing to patronize the business [In re Marriage of Foster (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 577, 583, 117 Cal. Rptr. 49 (action for dissolution of marriage involving determination of value of good will of husband's medical practice)].

The fact that the detriment due to loss of good will cannot be measured with mathematical accuracy is not a sufficent reason for denying compensation. Damages for loss of good will may be determined by making the best estimate possible from the evidence presented [Johnson v. Snyder (1950) 99 Cal. App. 2d 86, 89-90, 221 P.2d 164 (constructive eviction of restaurant business)].

The measure of damages due to loss of good will occasioned by breach of a covenant not to compete (in a contract for the purchase and sale of a business) is the loss to the aggrieved party, not the profits earned by the breaching party [Gregory v. Spieker (1895) 110 Cal. 150, 155, 42 P. 576 ; see Laird v. Steinmann (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 781, 785-786, 218 P.2d 780 (affirming award of $5,200 when $18,000 of sale price had been allocated to customer list and good will)]. The validity of covenants not to compete is discussed in Ch. 565, Unfair Competition .

In other situations, damages for loss of good will are established much like damages for lost profits, on evidence of estimated profits that would likely have been earned except for the interruption in the business caused by the breach of the contract [see, e.g., Johnson v. Snyder (1950) 99 Cal. App. 2d 86, 89, 221 P.2d 164 (sustaining award of $500 for loss of good will of restaurant business after constructive eviction based on evidence of $200 monthly net profit)]. There is a distinction, however; loss of profits are not the same as loss of good will [Carrey v. Boyes Hot Springs Resort, Inc. (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 618, 622-623, 54 Cal. Rptr. 199 (combined award apparently based only on average annual profits reversed for retrial to separately assess damages for lost profits and for loss of good will; otherwise, defendant has no basis for attacking sufficiency of evidence for either award); see also Ross v. Frank W. Dunne Co. (1953) 119 Cal. App. 2d 690, 701-703, 260 P.2d 104 (awarding both lost profits, based on estimated profits on nine lost contacts in which plaintiff would have used defective product, and loss of good will, based on plaintiff/distributor's time and efforts promoting the business); Walpole v. Prefab Mfg. Co. (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 472, 481-484, 489-490, 230 P.2d 36 (sustaining award for lost profits based on expected net profit on limited number of specific contracts, but reversing and remanding for error in refusing to admit evidence of loss of good will)].

For a form of allegation for use in a complaint to allege loss of good will, see § 177.192.

[4] Loss of Publicity and Damage to Reputation

Unlike the concept of damage to the good will of a business, damages for injury to an individual's name, character, or personal reputation arising from a breach of contract are not generally recoverable because they are usually too uncertain, speculative, and remote [Walpole v. Prefab Mfg. Co. (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 472, 489, 230 P.2d 36] . Damages for loss of publicity caused by a breach of contract, however, may be recovered if they are related to the loss of publicity for some particular event or artistic work, such as a musical concert or composition, script, play, or a prize fight, or to the loss of publicity for some continuing activity such as the conduct of a specific business at a specific location or the practice of a particular skill or art [Ericson v. Playgirl, Inc. (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 850, 856, 140 Cal. Rptr. 921 (only nominal damages are recoverable for failure to feature little known actor's picture as one quarter of cover of annual "Best of Playgirl" magazine edition because publicity from magazine cover was not connected to plaintiff's profession as actor)].

When related to a particular work or business, damages for the loss of publicity do not present insuperable difficulties in calculation, because the artist's future earnings can be directly correlated to his or her box office appeal or known record of success [Ericson v. Playgirl, Inc. (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 850, 857, 140 Cal. Rptr. 921] . Still, such damages may be difficult to calculate and must be based on calculations, inferences, and observations that are reasonable [Tamarind Lithography Workshop, Inc. v. Sanders (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 571, 577, 193 Cal. Rptr. 409 (failure to give screen credit to author, director, production manager)]. For example, no damage results from the failure to give screen credit to an associate director of a motion picture that was a failure [Zorich v. Petroff (1957) 152 Cal. App. 2d 806, 811]. Awards given to a particular work are relevant, and expert testimony may provide a basis for damages [Tamarind Lithography Workshop, Inc. v. Sanders (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 571, 577, 577 n.6, 193 Cal. Rptr. 409] .

In situations involving failure to give credit in some copies of the work, the fact that the aggrieved party is awarded injunctive relief requiring credit to be given on all copies of the work distributed in the future does not preclude an award of monetary damages for failure to give credit on previously distributed copies [Tamarind Lithography Workshop, Inc. v. Sanders (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 571, 578-579, 193 Cal. Rptr. 409] .

Unfavorable or emotionally upsetting publicity resulting from unauthorized distribution or publication may also be compensated as a breach of contract or as an invasion of privacy [see Leavy v. Cooney (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 496, 498-501, 29 Cal. Rptr. 580 (emotional distress suffered by public prosecutor after unauthorized distribution of documentary film narrated by prosecutor, based on apprehension communicated to distributor when contract was signed that public would believe prosecutor was compensated for appearance, compensated as tort); see also Ch. 370, Motion Pictures , and Ch. 429, Privacy].

[5] Expenditures

[a] In Preparation for Performance of Contract

Reasonably necessary expenditures incurred in performing a contract and the value of services rendered by a contracting party not in default may be recovered as damages for breach of contract, if the aggrieved party also has not been awarded the full price or the value of the benefits expected under the contract. In addition to these expenses, the aggrieved party is entitled to the net profit he or she would have made on the entire contract, which is the contract price less the total amount of expenditures, including those already incurred, that the plaintiff would have made from the beginning to the end of the contract. If the plaintiff has recovered the full price or value of the benefits expected under the contract, he or she may not recover expenditures because he or she has already received the benefit of the bargain, it being presumed that he or she would pay the expenses for doing so [Patty v. Berryman (1949) 95 Cal. App. 2d 159, 172-173, 212 P.2d 937 ; see Corbin on Contracts, vol. 5, ch. 57, § 1036 (West 1963); see also Buxbom v. Smith (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 535, 541, 145 P.2d 305 ; Walpole v. Prefab Mfg. Co. (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 472, 482, 230 P.2d 36] . If the aggrieved party has established the amount that he or she has been induced to expend, the breaching party has the burden of establishing that those expenses were extravagant and unnecessary for the purpose of carrying out the contract [Mendoyoma, Inc. v. County of Mendocino (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 873, 879, 87 Cal. Rptr. 740] .

For a form of allegation for use in a complaint to allege expenses incurred in anticipation of performance, see § 177.193.

[b] Resulting From Breach

A person is entitled to recover all reasonable and necessary expenses that he or she was required to incur on account of a breach of contract if those expenses are proximately caused by the breach, in that they would not have been incurred but for the breach [Ross v. Frank W. Dunne Co. (1953) 119 Cal. App. 2d 690, 700, 260 P.2d 104 ; Walpole v. Prefab Mfg. Co. (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 472, 489, 230 P.2d 36 ; see Royer v. Carter (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 544, 550, 233 P.2d 539] . Additionally, if the aggrieved party incurs expenses that it would not otherwise have incurred in a good faith attempt to mitigate damages, and thereby succeeds in preventing a still greater loss, those expenses are recoverable [W.C. Cook & Co. v. White Truck etc. Co. (1932) 124 Cal. App. 721, 727, 13 P.2d 549 (costs of reconditioning damaged figs and fig paste, which was less than loss of merchandise would have been, were recoverable)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesConsequential DamagesContracts LawRemediesForeseeable DamagesLost Profits

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.80

§ 177.80 Interest

[1] Provided for by Contract

If a contract stipulates a legal rate of interest, that rate remains chargeable after a breach of the contract, as before, until the contract is superseded by a verdict or other new obligation [Civ. Code § 3289(a); see Reid v. Balter (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1186, 1196, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 287 (contract rate applied from date last installment of note was due until date of judgment); see also Roodenburg v. Pavestone Co., L.P. (2009) 171 Cal. App. 4th 185, 191, 89 Cal. Rptr. 3d 558 (Civ. Code § 3287(a), which requires, as condition for recovering prejudgment interest, that amount of damages must be certain or capable of being made certain by calculation, does not apply when prejudgment interest is part of amount owed)]. Under this provision, parties to a contract may stipulate in the contract the amount of interest to be paid in the event of a breach or in the case of nonpayment of an amount owed, and the party in default will be obligated to pay that rate of interest from the date of breach or the date that the money was due [Ansco Const. Co. v. Ocean View Estates, Inc. (1959) 169 Cal. App. 2d 235, 238-239, 337 P.2d 146] . The special agreement to pay interest gives a right of action to recover the interest whenever it becomes due under the contract. It is part of the contract and may be enforced either separately or in connection with other obligations of the same contract [City of Los Angeles v. City Bank (1893) 100 Cal. 18, 20, 34 P. 510] .

If a contract entered into after January 1, 1986, does not stipulate a legal rate of interest, the obligation bears interest at the rate of 10 percent per annum after breach. In this context, the term "contract" does not include a note secured by a deed of trust on real property [Civ. Code § 3289(b)]. If the contract was executed before January 1, 1986, the applicable rate of interest would be 7 percent per annum [Cal. Const. art. XV, § 1; see Green v. Future Two (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 738, 744, 225 Cal. Rptr. 3] .

A usurious rate of interest specified in a contract is void, but by application of Civ. Code § 3289(b), the party not in default is still entitled to recover interest at the rate of 10 percent per annum from the date of breach [Mark McDowell Corp. v. LSM 128 (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 1427, 1431-1433 , disapproved on other grounds, Southwest Concrete Products v. Gosh Construction Corp. (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 701, 704, 274 Cal. Rptr. 404, 798 P.2d 1247 (with respect to holding that interest rate was usurious)].

For purposes of Civ. Code § 3289, the rate of the contracted finance charge will be the legal rate of interest stipulated by a retail installment contract that is subject to Civ. Code § 1801 et seq. [Civ. Code § 3289.5]; see discussion of retail installment contracts in Ch. 501, Sales: Retail Installment Sales.

Interest is a form of compensation used to restore plaintiff for moneys that have been unavailable for a business or investment [see Southwest Concrete Products v. Gosh Construction Corp. (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 701, 708-709, 274 Cal. Rptr. 404, 798 P.2d 1247 (between merchants, late charge of 18 percent per annum as valid liquidated damages provision under Com. Code § 2207 and not payment for "loan or forbearance or money," and thus not subject to usury law; nonetheless, majority opinion characterized award as prejudment interest, a characterization disparaged by the dissent because if the charges are not interest of any kind, they are not prejudgment interest either); Bronco Wine Co. v. Frank A. Logoluso Farms (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 699, 714-715, 262 Cal. Rptr. 899] . The purpose of interest differs from that of a late fee or penalty. Thus, the two separate remedies may be awarded incident to the same principal breach [Bronco Wine Co. v. Frank A. Logoluso Farms (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 699, 714-715, 262 Cal. Rptr. 899] .

[2] Damages Certain

If the contract does not make any provision for interest, the right to recover prejudgment interest is governed by Civ. Code § 3287(a). That section states that any person entitled to recover damages certain, or capable of being made certain by calculation, and the right to recover is vested in him or her on a particular day, is entitled also to recover interest thereon from that day, except during any period the debtor is prevented by law or by an act of the creditor from paying the debt [Civ. Code § 3287(a)]. This section applies to recovery of damages and interest from any such debtor, including the state or any county, city, city and county, municipal corporation, public district, public agency, or any political subdivision of the state [Civ. Code § 3287(a)].

Damages are deemed certain or capable of being made certain within the provisions of Civ. Code § 3287(a) if the parties' essential dispute does not concern the basis of computation of damages, if any are recoverable, but rather concerns the issue of liability giving rise to damages [Olson v. Cory (1983) 35 Cal. 3d 390, 402, 197 Cal. Rptr. 843, 673 P.2d 720 ; National Farm Workers Service Center, Inc. v. M. Caratan, Inc. (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 796, 808-811, 194 Cal. Rptr. 617 ; Elliano v. Assurance Co. of America (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 170, 182, 119 Cal. Rptr. 653] . Damages are also considered capable of being made certain if they can be calculated by reference to well established, ascertainable market values [Burnett & Doty Development Co. v. Phillips (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 384, 391, 148 Cal. Rptr. 569 ; see Block v. Laboratory Procedures, Inc. (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 1042, 1046-1047, 87 Cal. Rptr. 778 (refusing to award prejudgment interest for breach of stock option contract when record disclosed no established market for shares)]. If the amount of damages cannot be ascertained, however, except by the resolution of conflicting evidence, interest may not be awarded under Civ. Code § 3287(a) [City of Salinas v. Souza & McCue Construction Co. (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 217, 230, 57 Cal. Rptr. 337, 424 P.2d 921 , disapproved on other grounds, Helfend v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 1, 14 ; Marine Terminals Corp. v. Paceco, Inc. (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 991, 995, 193 Cal. Rptr. 687] .

When damages are certain or capable of being made certain, the plaintiff is entitled to an award of prejudgment interest as a matter of right. The fact that there is a slight difference between the amount of the damages claimed and the amount of the award does not preclude an award of prejudgment interest [Marine Terminals Corp. v. Paceco, Inc. (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 991, 996-997, 193 Cal. Rptr. 687 (fact that invoices included some inapplicable charges as not precluding award of prejudgment interest if applicable charges were readily ascertainable); Block v. Laboratory Procedures, Inc. (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 1042, 1046-1047, 87 Cal. Rptr. 778 ; see Coleman Engineering Co. v. North American Aviation, Inc. (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 396, 407-409, 55 Cal. Rptr. 1, 420 P.2d 713] . Furthermore, the rule of Civ. Code § 3287(a), entitling the buyer to interest on deposits in escrow when the amount of advanced payments is fixed and certain, does not conflict with the rule that the nondefaulting party's damages are limited to the benefit of the bargain. Benefit-of-the-bargain compensatory damages do not apply to prejudgment interest on the compensatory damages [see

Al-Husry v. Nilsen Farms Mini-Market, Inc. (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 641, 648-650, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 28] . A buyer's right to recover interest on payments made toward a purchase price, as damages for breach of contract, is not limited to sales of real property but applies to sales in general [Al-Husry v. Nilsen Farms Mini-Market, Inc. (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 641, 648, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 28] .

The right to recover prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3287(a) does not vary in accordance with the particular fund out of which the underlying debt is payable [Olson v. Cory (1983) 35 Cal. 3d 390, 406, 197 Cal. Rptr. 843, 673 P.2d 720 (judges' retirement fund, a trust fund)].

The exception in Civ. Code § 3287(a), relating to nonaccrual of interest while the debtor is prevented by law from paying the debt, applies regardless of equitable considerations, such as the fact that the debtor gets to use the money while the litigation is pending [Olson v. Cory (1983) 35 Cal. 3d 390, 408, 197 Cal. Rptr. 843, 673 P.2d 720] . An order refusing to enforce settlement agreements based on a theory of lack of settlement authority is not a prevention by law from paying the debt and does not fall within this exception. Thus, when the settlement agreements were ultimately affirmed, an award of prejudgement interest on the amounts stipulated by the agreements was proper [Adams v. Johns-Manville Corp. (9th Cir. 1989) 876 F.2d 702, 710 (applying California law)].

When a plaintiff sues for a liquidated sum and the defendant establishes an offsetting claim, even one that is unliquidated, interest is properly allowed on the balance found to be due from the time it became due [Burnett & Doty Development Co. v. Phillips (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 384, 391, 148 Cal. Rptr. 569 ; Leaf v. Phil Rauch, Inc. (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 371, 376, 120 Cal. Rptr. 749] . The amount of the plaintiff's liquidated claim is to be offset against the defendant's unliquidated claim as of date the plaintiff's claim became due, and only the balance bears interest [Burnett & Doty Development Co. v. Phillips (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 384, 391, 148 Cal. Rptr. 569] . Similarly, a reduction in damages due to plaintiff's efforts to mitigate damages does not preclude an award of prejudgment interest [Coleman Engineering Co. v. North American Aviation, Inc. (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 396, 407-409, 55 Cal. Rptr. 1, 420 P.2d 713] . Requests for prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3287 by a successful plaintiff must be made by way of motion prior to entry of judgment, or the request must be made in the form of a motion for new trial no later than the time allowed for filing such a motion [North Oakland Medical Clinic v. Rogers (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 824, 829-831, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 743] .

[3] Unliquidated Amounts

Every person who is entitled under any judgment to receive damages based on a cause of action in contract and whose claim was unliquidated may recover interest on the claim from a date prior to the entry of judgment as the court may, in its discretion, fix, but not earlier than the date the action was filed [Civ. Code § 3287(b); see Gebert v. Yank (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 544, 555-556, 218 Cal. Rptr. 585 (upholding prejudgment interest awarded in judge's discretion even though jury verdict stated that no prejudgment interest should be awarded)]; see also Lewis C. Nelson & Sons, Inc. v. Clovis Unified School District (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 64, 73, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 715 (Civ. Code § 3287(b) is applicable to those public entities described in Civ. Code § 3287(a)); see generally § 177.80[2]]. Requests for prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3287 by a successful plaintiff must be made by way of motion prior to entry of judgment, or the request must be made in the form of a motion for new trial no later than the time allowed for filing such a motion [North Oakland Medical Clinic v. Rogers (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 824, 829-831, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 743 (in circumstances in which damages were awarded but no interest was included in verdict and neither court nor jury had determined whether damages were liquidated or unliquidated, this rule was applied retroactively to plaintiffs, who never sought prejudgment interest as part of damages and sought interest at last minute as part of order awarding costs)].

[4] Settlement Expenses

Prejudgment interest should not be awarded on the portion of the damages attributable to settlement expenses because these expenses obviously are not incurred until after the date of termination or breach. Interest on this portion of an award should date only from the judgment [Colemen Engineering Co. v. North American Aviation, Inc. (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 396, 409, 55 Cal. Rptr. 1, 420 P.2d 713] .

[5] Acceptance of Principal

Accepting payment of the whole principal, as such, waives all claims to interest [Civ. Code § 3290]. Civ. Code § 3290 applies only to interest claimed as damages for nonpayment or default in payment of a debt, not to interest claimed as part of a debt on the basis of a contract provision to pay interest, for example, when invoices remain unpaid 90 days after delivery of goods. When the obligation arises out of a contract to pay interest, the interest is part of the debt, an accretion to principal, it is not part of damages. In those situations, payment of less than the aggregate of principal and interest constitutes nothing more than a payment on account and does not extinguish the right to interest in the principal [Kawasho Internat. U.S.A., Inc. v. Lakewood Pipe Service, Inc. (1983) 152 Cal. App. 3d 785, 794-795, 201 Cal. Rptr. 640] .

Because application of Civ. Code § 3290 is limited to interest as damages, it is inapplicable to postjudgment interest [San Francisco Unified School Dist. v. San Francisco Classroom Teachers Assn. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 146, 150, 272 Cal. Rptr. 38 (cashing check in amount of judgment does not imply waiver of claim to postjudgment interest)].

[6] Tender of Sums Owed

Although an offer of payment stops the running of interest on an obligation, an offer to pay part of an amount owed will not stop the running of prejudgment interest if it is conditioned on the creditor's dropping a demand for other sums claimed [see Civ. Code §§ 1494, 1504; Klinger v. Realty World Corp. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1549, 1553-1554, 242 Cal. Rptr. 592] . Tender and deposit of the amount owing pursuant to Civ. Code § 1500, however, will stop the running of interest [Klinger v. Realty World Corp. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1549, 1554 n.2, 242 Cal. Rptr. 592 ; see discussion of Civ. Code § 1500 in Ch. 140, Contracts].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureSettlementsOffers of JudgmentGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureSettlementsSettlement AgreementsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesJudgment InterestPrejudgment InterestContracts LawPerformanceAccord & SatisfactionContracts LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesInterest

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.81

§ 177.81 Setoff Against Awarded Damages

[1] Each Party Has Claim Against Other on Same Contract

In an action for breach of contract, if the defendant pleads a claim against the plaintiff based on defective performance of the same contract, and damages are awarded to both parties on their claims against each other, then each party is entitled to have the two awards set off against each other, regardless of whether the defendant pleaded a tort claim (such as negligent performance) or a contract claim against the plaintiff [Great W. Drywall, Inc. v. Roel Constr. Co. (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 761, 770, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 235] .

[2] No Setoff for Tax Benefits Plaintiff Derived From Contract

The collateral source rule has never been extended to breach of contract actions [DePalma v. Westland Software House (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 1534, 1538, 276 Cal. Rptr. 214] . Nevertheless, in a matter of first impression in California, one court of appeal has concluded that it is not appropriate to allow a defendant a setoff to compensatory damages in the form of credit for income tax benefits that plaintiff may have derived from a breached or rescinded contract [DePalma v. Westland Software House (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 1534, 1539-1546, 276 Cal. Rptr. 214 (exclusion at trial of plaintiff's tax returns, on which plaintiff depreciated computer equipment purchased from defendant and took investment tax credits, upheld on appeal)]. The court based its decision on several grounds: (1) the federal "tax benefit rule" cancels out most windfalls to plaintiffs [DePalma v. Westland Software House (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 1534, 1541-1542, 276 Cal. Rptr. 214] ; (2) estimating tax benefits is not useful because it is speculative, time-consuming, and confusing; and (3) public policy is better served by having defendants pay the full amount of the damages they have caused by breaching their contracts [DePalma v. WestlandSoftware House (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 1534, 1540-1541, 276 Cal. Rptr. 214] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawBreachGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.82

§ 177.82 Damages Payable in Foreign Currencies

[1] Law Governing Currency Conversion

If the determination of damages requires a court to consider currencies that fluctuate with respect to each other, the date for conversion of the foreign currency can have a significant effect on the amount awarded [see, e.g., Levi Strauss & Co. v. Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1479, 237 Cal. Rptr. 473] . The parties to a transaction may agree, before or after commencement of an action or distribution proceeding or the entry of judgment, with regard to all or some aspects of the conversion calculation [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.3]. If the parties have not otherwise agreed on the proper money to be used for all or some aspects of the transaction, any action or distribution proceeding commenced or or after January 1, 1992, involving a foreign-money claim arising from the transaction is governed by the Uniform Foreign-Money Claims Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 676 et seq.) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 676.2(a), 676.16]. For the law governing currency conversion calculations in actions or distribution proceedings commenced before January 1, 1992, see § 177.82[3].

[2] Uniform Foreign-Money Claims Act

[a] Definitions

An "action" within the meaning of the Uniform Foreign-Money Claims Act is a judicial proceeding or arbitration in which a payment in money may be awarded or enforced with respect to a foreign-money claim [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.1(1)].

A "foreign-money claim" means a claim on an obligation to pay, or a claim for recovery of a loss, expressed in or measured by a foreign money [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.1(6)].

"Foreign money" is money other than money of the United States of America [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.1(5)].

A "distribution proceeding" is a judicial or nonjudicial proceeding for the distribution of a fund in which one or more foreign-money claims is asserted and includes an accounting, an assignment for the benefit of creditors, a foreclosure, the liquidation or rehabilitation of a corporation or other entity, and the distribution of an estate, trust, or other fund [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.1(4)].

[b] Partial Application to Different Aspects of Transaction

The parties may agree to terms other than those imposed by the Uniform Foreign-Money Claims Act. The parties to a transaction may agree on the money to be used in a transaction giving rise to a foreign-money claim and may agree to use different moneys for different aspects of the transaction. Stating the price in a foreign money for one aspect of a transaction does not alone require the use of that money for other aspects of the transaction [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.3(b)].

[c] Determining Currency in Which Claim Is Payable

The money in which the parties to a transaction have agreed that payment is to be made is the proper money of the claim for payment [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.4(a)].

If the parties to a transaction have not otherwise agreed, the proper money of the claim, as in each case may be appropriate, is one of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.4(b)]:

- The money regularly used between the parties as a matter of usage or course of dealing;
- The money used at the time of a transaction in international trade, by trade usage or common practice, for valuing or settling transactions in the particular commodity or service involved; or
- The money in which the loss was ultimately felt or will be incurred by the party claimant.

[d] Determining Appropriate Date for Conversion Calculation

If an amount contracted to be paid in a foreign money is measured by a specified amount of a different money, the amount to be paid is determined on the conversion date [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.5(a)]. The conversion date is the banking day next preceding the date on which money, in accordance with the Uniform Foreign-Money Claims Act, is [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.1(3)]:

- Paid to a claimant in an action or distribution proceeding;
- Paid to the official designated by law to enforce a judgment or award on behalf of a claimant; or
- Used to recoup, setoff, or counterclaim in different moneys in an action or distribution proceeding.

[e] Determining Rate of Exchange; Substitution of Market Rate After Default

The "rate of exchange" means the rate at which money of one country may be converted into money of another country in a free financial market convenient to or reasonably usable by a person obligated to pay or to state a rate of conversion. If separate rates of exchange apply to different kinds of transactions, the term means the rate applicable to the particular transaction giving rise to the foreign-money claim [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.1(10)].

If an amount contracted to be paid in a foreign money is to be measured by a different money at the rate of exchange prevailing on a date before default, that rate of exchange applies only to payments made within a reasonable time after default, not exceeding 30 days. Thereafter, conversion is made at the bank-offered spot rate on the conversion date [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.5(b)]. This has the effect of substituting the market conversion rate for the contract conversion rate on expiration of a reasonable time after default, and thus minimizes any unfortunate consequences of a bad choice of a contract conversion rate.

A "spot rate" is a rate of exchange at which foreign money is sold by a bank or other dealer in foreign exchange for immediate or next day availability or for settlement by immediate payment in cash or equivalent, by charge to an account, or by an agreed delayed settlement not exceeding two days [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.1(11); see Code Civ. Proc. § 676.1(2) ("bank-offered spot rate" is spot rate of exchange at which bank will sell foreign money at spot rate)].

A monetary claim is neither usurious nor unconscionable because the agreement on which it is based provided that the amount of the debtor's obligation to be paid in the debtor's money, when received by the creditor, will equal a specified amount of the foreign money of the country of the creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.5(c)].

The rate of exchange applied in a distribution proceeding is the rate of exchange prevailing at or near the close of business on the day the distribution proceeding is initiated [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.8].

[f] Amendment of Judgment or Award to Market Rate

If, because of unexcused delay in payment of a judgment or award, the amount received by the creditor does not equal the amount of the foreign money specified in the agreement, the court or arbitrator must amend the judgment or award accordingly [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.5(c)].

[g] Pleading Entitlement to Foreign-Money Judgment

A person may assert a claim in a specified foreign money. If a foreign-money claim is not asserted, the claimant makes the claim in United States dollars [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.6(a)]. A person may assert a defense, setoff, recoupment, or counterclaim in any money without regard to the money of other claims [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.6(c)]. A foreign-money claimant in a distribution proceeding must assert its claim in the named foreign money and show the amount of United States dollars resulting from a conversion as of the date the proceeding was initiated [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.8].

An opposing party may allege and prove that a claim, in whole or in part, is in a different money than that asserted by the claimant [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.6(b)].

The determination of the proper money of the claim is a question of law [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.6(d)].

[h] Form and Effect of Foreign-Money Judgment

Except that costs must be assessed in United States dollars, a judgment or award on a foreign-money claim must be stated in an amount of the money of the claim [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.7(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 676.1(8) ("money of the claim" as determined by agreement or under Code Civ. Proc. § 676.4(a), discussed in § 177.82[2][c])]. A statutory form of judgment that complies with this requirement is set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 676.7(f).

The debtor has the option of paying a judgment or award on a foreign-money claim in that foreign money or in the amount of United States dollars that will purchase that foreign money on the conversion date at a bank-offered spot rate [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.7(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 676.1(2), (3) (definitions of "bank-offered spot rate" and "conversion date," respectively, discussed in § 177.82[2][e])].

Each payment in United States dollars must be accepted and credited on a judgment or award on a foreign-money claim in the amount of the foreign money that could be purchased by the dollars at a bank-offered spot rate of exchange at or near the close of business on the conversion date for that payment [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.7(d); see Code Civ. Proc. § 676.1(2), (3)].

For a form for a judgment on a foreign-money claim and discussion of related calculations, see Ch. 318, Judgments .

[i] Substitution of New Money

If, after an obligation is expressed or a loss is incurred in a foreign money, the country issuing or adopting that money substitutes a new money in place of that money, the obligation or the loss is treated as if expressed or incurred in the new money at the rate of conversion the issuing country establishes for the payment of like obligations or losses denominated in the former money [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.12(a)]. If the issuing country makes the substitution after a judgment or award is entered on a foreign-money claim, the court or arbitrator must amend the judgment or award by a like conversion of the former money [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.12(b)].

[j] Interest on Foreign-Money Claims, Judgments, and Awards

With respect to a foreign-money claim, recovery of prejudgment or preaward interest and the rate of interest to be applied in the action or distribution proceeding are matters of the substantive law governing the right to recovery under the conflict-of-laws rules of California, except in the case of settlement offers, which are governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 676.9(b) [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.9(a)].

A judgment or award on a foreign-money claim bears interest at the rate applicable to judgments in California [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.9(c); see Ch. 318, Judgments].

[k] Law Merchant and Equity Incorporated; Rules of Construction

Unless displaced by particular provisions of the Uniform Foreign-Money Claims Act, the principles of law and equity, including the law merchant, and the law relative to capacity to contract, principal and agent, estoppel, fraud, misrepresentation, duress, coercion, mistake, bankruptcy, or other validating or invalidating causes supplement its provisions [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.13].

The Uniform Foreign-Money Claims Act is to be applied and construed to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the law with respect to the subject of this title among states enacting it [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.14; see generally Unif. Foreign-Money Claims Act, 13 U.L.A. 25 (Supp. 1991) (uniform act as approved by Nat. Conf. of Comrs. on Unif. State Laws)].

If any provision of the Uniform Foreign-Money Claims Act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, that invalidity does not affect other provisions or applications of the Act that can be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and to this end the provisions of the Uniform Foreign-Money Claims Act are severable [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.15].

[3] Conversion in Actions Commenced Before January 1, 1992

When the determination of damages in an action commenced before January 1, 1992, requires the conversion of foreign currency, courts generally apply the judgment-day rule or the breach-day rule [see Code Civ. Proc. § 676.16 (application of Uniform Foreign-Money Claims Act)]. Which rule is applicable depends on whether the obligation arose under foreign law or under American law. If the obligation arose under foreign law, the judgment-day rule applies, and damages incurred in foreign currency are converted into dollars at the rate prevailing on the date of final judgment [Levi Strauss & Co. v. Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1479, 1486-1487, 237 Cal. Rptr. 473] .

If the cause of action arises under American law, the breach-day rule applies, and the currency loss is determined using the rate in effect when the cause of action arose [Levi Strauss & Co. v. Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1479, 1487, 237 Cal. Rptr. 473 ; see Compania Engraw Com'l E. Ind. v. Schenley Dist. Corp. (9th Cir. 1950) 181 F.2d 876, 878-879 (accord, applying California law)]. The purpose of the breach-day rule is to restore the plaintiff to the position it would have enjoyed had the contract been performed. The rule may fail to compensate the plaintiff fully if the foreign currency has appreciated relative to the dollar, but a clearly defined rule is considered important in commercial transactions. Thus, to give the plaintiff the fullest possible recovery, the breach date selected should be the date on which the contract was broken and the loss incurred.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesInterestCriminal Law & ProcedureSentencingCruel & Unusual Punishment

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 177.83-177.99

[Reserved]

§§ 177.83[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.100

§ 177.100 Related Tort Actions

For discussion and forms relating to tort liability for abortion or sterilization procedures, see Ch. 4, Abortion and Birth Control Methods

For discussion and forms relating to tort liability for false advertising, see Ch. 14, Advertising

For discussion and forms relating to tort liability arising from the operation of airplanes and airports, see Ch. 16, Airplanes and Airports

For discussion and forms relating to tort liability of intoxicated persons, see Ch. 19, Alcoholic Beverages: Civil Liability

For discussion and forms relating to actions for injuries to animals, injuries to people by animals, and trespassing animals, see Ch. 23, Animals: Civil Liability

For discussion and forms relating to tort actions against architects, see Ch. 56, Architects

For discussion and forms relating to tort actions by members against associations and clubs, see Ch. 61, Associations and Clubs

For discussion and forms relating to malpractice actions against attorneys, see Ch. 76, Attorney Professional Liability

For discussion and forms relating to tort actions against auctions and auctioneers, see Ch. 77, Auctions and Auctioneers

For discussion and forms relating to tort actions arising from bailment contracts, see Ch. 93, Bailments

For discussion and forms relating to personal injury actions against beauty salons and barber shops, see Ch. 97,

Barbering and Cosmetology

For discussion and forms relating to negligence actions involving bicyclists, see Ch. 98, Bicycles

For discussion and forms relating to personal injuries involving bridges, see Ch. 102, Bridges

For discussion and forms relating to personal injury actions against carriers, see Ch. 109, Carriers

For discussion and forms relating to malpractice actions against dentists, see Ch. 209, Dentists

For discussion and forms relating to the tort liability of pharmacists, see Ch. 214, Drugs and Pharmacists

For discussion and forms relating to tort liability in actions involving elevators and escalators, see Ch. 244, Elevators and Escalators

For discussion and forms relating to tort liability for emergency vehicles, see Ch. 246, Emergency Vehicles

For discussion and forms relating to liability for torts committed by an employee, see Ch. 248, Employer's Liability for Employee's Torts

For discussion and forms relating to actions for wrongful discharge, see Ch. 249, Employment Law: Termination and Discipline

For discussion and forms relating to tort liability for explosives and explosions, see Ch. 256, Explosives

For discussion and forms relating to tort liability in actions involving the negligent setting or controlling of fires, see Ch. 267, Fires

For discussion and forms relating to tort liability in actions involving the use or consumption of defective food products, see Ch. 268, Food

For discussion and forms relating to tort liability for personal injuries to spectators and participants in sports activities, see Ch. 273, Games, Sports and Athletics

For discussion and forms relating to tort liability of garage and service station operators, see Ch. 274, Garages and Gas Stations

For discussion and forms relating to tort liability of gas and electric companies, see Ch. 277, Gas and Electricity

For discussion and forms relating to the tort liability of hospitals, see Ch. 295, Hospitals

For discussion and forms relating to tort liability involving hotels and motels, see Ch. 297, Hotels and Motels

For discussions and forms relating to tort actions brought by mental patients, see Ch. 304, Insane and Other Incompetent Persons

For discussion and forms relating to actions for the tortious breach of insurance contracts, see Ch. 308, Insurance

For discussion and forms relating to tort actions by and against minors, see Ch. 367A, Minors: Tort Actions

For discussion and forms relating to tort actions between parent and child, see Ch. 367A, Minors: Tort Actions

For discussion and forms relating to the tort liability of notaries for misconduct or nelgect, see Ch. 390, Notaries Public

For discussion, procedures, and forms relating to actions for nuisance, see Ch. 391, Nuisance

For discussion and forms relating to tort actions involving manufacturers and suppliers of oil and gas products, see Ch. 393, Oil and Gas

For discussion and forms relating to malpractice actions against physicians, see Ch. 415, Physicians: Medical Malpractice

For discussion and forms relating to tort actions against polluters, see Ch. 418, Pollution and Environmental Matters

For discussion and forms relating to tort actions based on personal injury or property damage arising out of the defenant's use or maintenance of real property, see Ch. 421, Premises Liability

For discussion, procedures, and forms relating to complaints in products liability actions, see Ch. 460, Products Liability

For discussion and form relating to the tort liability of public accountants, see Ch. 462, Public Accountants

For discussion and forms relating to tort claims against public entities, see Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act

For discussion and forms relating to tort actions involving railroads and injured employees, injured passengers, and collisions with persons or objects on tracks, see Ch. 485, Railroads

For discussion and forms relating to tort liability of sanitation and sewerage districts, see Ch. 511, Sanitation and Sewerage Districts

For discussion and forms relating to tort liability for injuries to pupils, see Ch. 513, Schools: Student Rights and Responsibilities .

For discussion and forms relating to personal injury actions by passengers and workers against shipowners, see Ch. 522, Ships and Shipping

For discussion and forms relating to actions for slip and fall, see Ch. 525, Slip and Fall

For discussion and forms relating to actions against taxicab owners and drivers for personal injuries, see Ch. 544, Taxicabs

For discussion and forms relating to tort liability of telephone and telegraph companies, see Ch. 545, Telephone and Telegraph Communication

For discussion and forms relating to tort actions against theater owners, see Ch. 547, Theaters, Shows, and Amusement Places

For discussion and forms relating to tort liability of title insurance companies, see Ch. 548, Title Insurance

For discussion and forms relating to personal injury actions against the owners and drivers of trucks and trailers, see Ch. 553, Trucks

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Business & Corporate LawUnincorporated AssociationsTortsDamagesCompensatory DamagesGeneral OverviewTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityAttorneysTortsPremises Liability & PropertyGeneral OverviewTortsStrict LiabilityHarm Caused by AnimalsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.101

§ 177.101 State Statutes

Prejudgment interest in unfair competition actions. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 16750(a), 16760(a)(2), 16761

Court must direct jury to find special verdict in writing separating punitive from compensatory damages in all cases in which punitive damages issue is presented to jury. Civ. Code § 625

Damages and attorney's fees and costs for unauthorized use of name, voice, signature, photograph or likeness of deceased personality. Civ. Code § 990

Recovery for future damages. Civ. Code § 3283

Interest at discretion of jury in tort actions. Civ. Code § 3288

Prejudgment interest in personal injury action. Civ. Code § 3291

Conditions warranting award of punitive damages. Civ. Code § 3294(a)

Liability of employer for punitive damages because of acts of employees. Civ. Code § 3294(b)

Oppression, fraud, and malice defined. Civ. Code § 3294(c)

Punitive damages for death resulting from homicide for which defendant was convicted of felony. Civ. Code § 3294(d)

Limited pretrial discovery of defendant's assets, and limited introduction of evidence thereon at trial, in case involving punitive damage. Civ. Code § 3295

Procedure for restricting discovery of defendant's financial condition until after actual damages awarded and defendant found guilty of malice, oppression, or fraud. Civ. Code § 3295(d)

Prohibition on stating amount in claim for punitive damages. Civ. Code § 3295(e)

Measure of damages in tort actions is proximately caused detriment. Civ. Code § 3333

Recovery for pain and suffering in medical malpractice cases is limited to $250,000. Civ. Code § 3333.2(b)

Damages and attorney's fees and costs for unauthorized use of name, voice, signature, photograph, or likeness of deceased personality. Civ. Code § 3344.1

Damages for property with peculiar value to plaintiff. Civ. Code § 3355

Damages recoverable in action surviving plaintiff's death are limited to loss or damage that decedent sustained or incurred before death, including any penalties or punitive damages, but not including damages for pain, suffering, or disfigurement. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34

Punitive or exemplary damages are not recoverable in survival action against deceased defendant. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.42

In wrongful death action, damages that are just under all circumstances of case are permissible, but cannot include damages recoverable under Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.61

In action for recovery of damages for personal injury or wrongful death, amount of damages not to be stated in complaint. Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)

Request for statement of nature and extent of damages sought. Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11

Procedure for claiming punitive damages from health care provider. Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a)

Claim for punitive damages against religious corporation or religious corporation sole is not permitted to be included in complaint or other pleading absent court order; procedure and grounds for obtaining order. Code Civ. Proc. § 425.14

Conditions warranting amendment of pleadings. Code Civ. Proc. § 473

Judge is permitted to allow amendment of pleadings at any stage of proceedings. Code Civ. Proc. § 576

Excessive or inadequate damages as grounds for granting of new trial. Code Civ. Proc. § 657(5)

Motion for new trial on grounds of excessive or inadequate damages must be made on minutes of court. Code Civ. Proc. § 658

Procedure for moving for new trial. Code Civ. Proc. § 659

Consent to addition to or reduction of damages awarded. Code Civ. Proc. § 662.5

Unlicensed person causing injury or damage as result of providing goods or performing services for which specified license is required is liable for award of treble amount of damages assessed, not to exceed $10,000. Code Civ. Proc. § 1029.8

Declaration under penalty of perjury. Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsDamagesCompensatory DamagesPain & SufferingGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesCompensatory DamagesPain & SufferingFuture Pain & SufferingTortsDamagesInterestPrejudgment InterestTortsDamagesPunitive DamagesGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.102

§ 177.102 Decisions

[1] Appeal

Point that damages are excessive must be raised in motion for new trial before trial court; not cognizable when raised for first time on appeal. Hanif v. Hous. Auth. (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 635, 645, 246 Cal. Rptr. 192

[2] Collateral Source Rule

Civ. Code § 3333.1(b), precluding collateral source which has provided medical expenses to plaintiff in medical malpractice case from obtaining reimbursement from medical malpractice defendant, is not unconstitutional as applied to city barred from seeking reimbursement for worker's compensation benefits paid to policeman who suffered heart attack while on duty and who subsequently sued hospital and doctors for negligently causing brain damage during heart surgery. Barme v. Wood (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 174, 179-182, 207 Cal. Rptr. 816, 689 P.2d 446

Question posed to witness by defense counsel during cross-examination suggesting possibility that plaintiff had insurance did not warrant new trial when court admonished jury to disregard question and twice instructed jury to disregard possibility that plaintiff had insurance. Bell v. Bayerische Motoren Werke Aktiengesellschaft (2010) 181 Cal. App. 4th 1108, 1123, 105 Cal. Rptr. 3d 485

In plaintiff's action against several defendants for separate torts, one defendant's settlement that includes assignment of that party's equitable indemnity claim against nonsettling codefendants based on comparative fault is collateral source in action against remaining defendants; recovery of damages plus assigned indemnity does not constitute double recovery. Bush v. Superior Court (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1374, 1384-1388, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 382

Plaintiff's recovery of special damages of amount paid for injury-related medical care and services is not affected by fact that payments were made by Medi-Cal on plaintiff's behalf; under collateral source rule, plaintiff is deemed to have personally paid or incurred liability for these services and is entitled to compensation accordingly; result is not unreasonable or unfair in light of Medi-Cal's subrogation and judgment lien rights. Hanif v. Hous. Auth. (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 635, 639-640, 246 Cal. Rptr. 192

Defense counsel's misconduct in mentioning collateral source of compensation is not prejudicial when damages appeared to have been calculated without deduction for collateral source and plaintiff failed to ask for curative instruction. Da Silva v. Pacific King, Inc. (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 1, 9-10, 240 Cal. Rptr. 395

Collateral source rule applies to exclude evidence of FHA-approved rent increases that would reduce damages sustained by purchaser of FHA-insured apartment complex as result of seller's fraudulent representations regarding building's state of repair. Philip Chang & Sons Assocs. v. La Casa Novato (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 159, 167-173, 222 Cal. Rptr. 800

Collateral source rule is judicial doctrine under which defendants are prohibited from entering evidence of collateral benefits for purpose of reducing personal injury damage awards against them. Miller v. Sciaroni (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 306, 310, 218 Cal. Rptr. 219

Civ. Code § 3333.1(a) abrogates collateral source rule in actions against health care providers for personal injury based on professional negligence. Miller v. Sciaroni (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 306, 310, 218 Cal. Rptr. 219

Civ. Code § 3333.1 is not unconstitutional as applied to bar plaintiff's employer from obtaining reimbursement for worker's compensation benefits paid to plaintiff, even though those benefits were not introduced in evidence, when defendant had entered other benefits in evidence in plaintiff's medical malpractice action against physician and hospital. Miller v. Sciaroni (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 306, 313-315, 218 Cal. Rptr. 219

Trial court properly did not apply Civ. Code § 3333.1 in medical malpractice action when injury occurred prior to effective date of Civ. Code § 3333.1, and did not abuse discretion in admitting evidence of plaintiff's receipt of Social Security disability benefits after carefully weighing potential prejudicial impact of evidence against its relevance and probative value. Lafayette v. County of Los Angeles (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 547, 552-553, 208 Cal. Rptr. 668

When collateral source provision of Civ. Code § 3333.1 did not encompass Medi-Cal payments paid to plaintiff, trial court erroneously concluded that statute abrogated state agency's right to lien in medical malpractice action. Brown v. Stewart (1982) 129 Cal. App. 3d 331, 333-340, 181 Cal. Rptr. 112

Civ. Code § 3333.1, abolishing collateral source rule in actions against health care providers for personal injury based on professional negligence, not applied retroactively. Robinson v. Pediatric Affiliates Med. Group, Inc. (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 907, 912, 159 Cal. Rptr. 791

[3] Compensatory Damages: Employment Discrimination

Fair Employment and Housing Commission not authorized to award compensatory damages in administrative proceeding under Fair Employment and Housing Act (Gov. Code § 12900 et seq.) for employment discrimination. Peralta Cmty. Coll. Dist. v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 40, 276 Cal. Rptr. 114, 801 P.2d 357

[4] Double Recovery Barred

Reduction of award against nonsettling tortfeasor by discounted value of note taken in settlement with joint tortfeasor proper when discount reflects probability of nonpayment. Seymour v. Summa Vista Cinema, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 809 F.2d 1385, 1389-1390

Bar against double recovery inapplicable when plaintiff receives compensation from collateral source wholly independent from tortfeasor. Salinas v. Souza & McCue Constr. Co. (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 217, 226-227, 57 Cal. Rptr. 337, 424 P.2d 921

Payments by one tortfeasor on account of harm for which tortfeasor and another were liable diminishes amount of claim against other tortfeasor whether or not so agreed at time of payment and whether or not made before judgment. Laurenzi v. Vranizan (1945) 25 Cal. 2d 806, 813, 155 P.2d 633

Bar against double recovery inapplicable when injured person's claim embraces separate injuries caused by independent tortfeasors. Ash v. Mortensen (1944) 24 Cal. 2d 654, 660, 150 P.2d 876

In plaintiff's action against several defendants for separate torts, one defendant's settlement that includes assignment of that party's equitable indemnity claim against nonsettling codefendants based on comparative fault was collateral source in action against remaining defendants; recovery of damages plus assigned indemnity not double recovery. Bush v. Superior Court (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1374, 1384-1388, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 382

Code Civ. Proc. § 887(a) mandates that award against nonsettling joint tortfeasors be reduced only by present cash value of structured settlement calling for periodic future payments. Franck v. Polaris E-Z Go Div. of Textron, Inc. (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 1107, 1120, 204 Cal. Rptr. 321

Compensatory damages for battery as well as damages for intentional infliction of emotional distress does not constitute impermissible double recovery in action arising out of rape when evidence that defendant abused and manipulated his position of trust as friend and his conduct following rape formed independent bases for jury to conclude that plaintiff suffered additional humiliation and emotional distress apart from rape. Delia S. v. Torres (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 471, 482-483, 184 Cal. Rptr. 787

Plaintiffs, who recovered for their losses from fire insurance company and entered into subrogation agreement with insurer, not entitled to additional recovery against tortfeasor. Ferraro v. Southern Cal. Gas Co. (1980) 102 Cal. App. 3d 33, 47, 162 Cal. Rptr. 238

Injured party entitled to only one satisfaction of judgment for single harm, so that if judgment was satisfied by one tortfeasor after federal court action, liability of concurrent tortfeasor must be discharged in later state court action. Fletcher v. California Portland Cement Co. (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 97, 99, 159 Cal. Rptr. 915

Code Civ. Proc. § 877, reducing plaintiff's claim against remaining tortfeasors by amount paid by one tortfeasor, prevents double recoveries for same wrong but is not applied to tortfeasors involved in separate torts when no danger of double recovery ordinarily exists. Carr v. Cove (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 851, 854, 109 Cal. Rptr. 449

[5] Elements of Compensatory Damages for Personal Injuries

[a] Future Damages

In personal injury action, evidence regarding plaintiff's citizenship properly excluded from determination of plaintiff's claim for future loss of earnings, when plaintiff had been gainfully employed in country, and speculation that he might be deported was so remote as to make issue of citizenship irrelevant to damages question. Clemente v. State of California (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 202, 220-221, 219 Cal. Rptr. 445, 707 P.2d 818

No error to submit jury instruction on recovery of loss of earning capacity even absent expert evidence on that loss. Gargir v. B'Nei Akiva (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1269, 1282, 78 Cal Rptr. 2d 557

Plaintiff entitled to recover for future pain and suffering in action for sexual harassment in workplace based on expert medical opinion that considered plaintiff's particular circumstances, expert's experience with similar cases, and plaintiff's life expectancy. Bihun v. AT&T Info. Sys., Inc. (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 976, 996, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787

Whenever plaintiff whose citizenship is challenged seeks to recover for loss of future earnings, plaintiff's status in United States is properly decided by trial court as preliminary question of law to be determined outside presence of jury. Rodriguez v. Kline (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 1145, 1148-1149, 232 Cal. Rptr. 157

In determining future damages for impaired earning capacity, test is not what plaintiff would have earned, but what plaintiff could have earned. Rodriguez v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 626, 656, 151 Cal. Rptr. 399

Plaintiff is entitled to recover for cost of future medical care when he or she shows that he or she is not fully recovered and will continute to need treatment and care. Augustus v. Shaffer (1959) 171 Cal. App. 2d 160, 170, 340 P.2d 37

Plaintiff is entitled to recover for future pain and suffering and for cost of future medical care. Mendoza v. Rudolf (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 633, 636-637, 295 P.2d 445

Plaintiff is entitled to recover for permanent loss of earning power as manual laborer resulting from severe injuries sustained in assault and battery. Dutro v. Castoro (1936) 16 Cal. App. 2d 116, 117, 60 P.2d 182

[b] Loss of Earnings

Damage award is not inadequate as matter of law for lack of compensation for loss of future earnings; award for future medical expenses possible without loss of future earnings. Da Silva v. Pacific King, Inc. (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 1, 10-11, 240 Cal. Rptr. 395

Issue of failure to distinguish loss of past earnings from loss of future earnings was not allowed to be raised for first time on appeal. Sharp v. Bragg Crane Serv., Inc. (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 993, 995-996, 214 Cal. Rptr. 620

[c] Loss of Profits

Award of damages for lost profits based on bank's wrongful conduct was supported by substantial evidence that bank's conduct caused plaintiff's inability to obtain financing for promising and profitable venture. Sanchez-Corea v. Bank of Am. (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 892, 907-908, 215 Cal. Rptr. 679, 701 P.2d 826

Award of damages for lost business profits arising from property damage to business was confined to period of time reasonably necessary to get business back into operation at former capacity. Blake v. E. Thompson Petroleum Repair Co. (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 823, 834, 216 Cal. Rptr. 568

In action against party breaching lease and against party who tortiously induced breach, when parties could have reasonably anticipated loss of profits as result of their action, that loss is proper measure of damage under either Civ. Code § 3300 (measure of damages for breach of contractual obligation) or 3333 (measure of damages for breach of obligation not arising from contract). Seaboard Music Co. v. Germano (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 618, 622, 101 Cal. Rptr. 255

[d] Medical Care and Treatment

Person injured by another's tortious conduct is entitled to recover reasonable value of medical care and services reasonably required and attributable to tort, but award of damages for past medical expenses in excess of what medical care and services actually cost constitutes overcompensation; hence, award of special damages of reasonable value of past medical care and services that exceeded actual amount paid by Medi-Cal on plaintiff's behalf was error. Hanif v. Hous. Auth. (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 635, 640, 641, 643-644, 246 Cal. Rptr. 192

When medical expenses were sought by minor and were part of settlement in prior action against defendant, parents were estopped from seeking damages from defendant for medical expenses incurred on behalf of minor child; indemnity from minor was proper source of those damages. Faitz v. Ruegg (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 967, 972, 171 Cal. Rptr. 149

Plaintiff was entitled to recover reasonable value of home nursing services gratuitously provided by spouse. Rodriguez v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 626, 662, 151 Cal. Rptr. 399

Plaintiff was permitted to recover damages for physical injuries and emotional disturbances resulting from defendant's tortious conduct, such as miscarriage resulting from fright and shock occasioned by defendant's outrageous conduct. Vargas v. Ruggiero (1961) 197 Cal. App. 2d 709, 717-718, 17 Cal. Rptr. 568

Plaintiff's recovery for medical expenses was limited to amount prayed for in complaint despite testimony that he had spent considerably more. Sills v. Soto (1954) 124 Cal. App. 2d 539, 546, 269 P.2d 98 (decided prior to enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b) prohibiting specifying amount of damages)

Injured person is entitled to recover money paid for professional services necessitated by injuries even though professional services rendered by unlicensed physician. Gastine v. Ewing (1944) 65 Cal. App. 2d 131, 143, 150 P.2d 266

Although parents of minor child ordinarily responsible for expenses of child's medical and hospital care, child is also responsible and is permitted to recover for these expenses in action against tortfeasor. Bauman v. San Francisco (1940) 42 Cal. App. 2d 144, 162-163, 108 P.2d 989

[e] Nursing Services

Reasonable value of nursing services required by defendant's tortious conduct may be recovered from defendant even though services were rendered by members of injured person's family and without agreement or expectation of payment; when attendance and nursing services are rendered by member of plaintiff's family, amount for which defendant is liable is amount for which reasonably competent nursing and attendance by others could have been obtained; fact that injured party had legal right to nursing services (as in case of spouse) does not generally prevent recovery of their value. Hanif v. Hous. Auth. (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 635, 644-645, 246 Cal. Rptr. 192

[f] Pain and Suffering

"Pain and suffering" is unitary concept under which plaintiff may recover for physical pain, fright, nevousness, grief, anxiety, worry, mortification, shock, humiliation, indignity, embarrassment, apprehension, terror, or ordeal. Capelouto v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 889, 892-893, 103 Cal. Rptr. 856, 500 P.2d 880 ; Huff v. Tracy (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 939, 943, 129 Cal. Rptr. 551

In absence of explicit evidence showing pain and suffering, jury is permitted to award damages therefor if it infers pain and suffering from injuries sustained. Capelouto v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 889, 895-896, 103 Cal. Rptr. 856, 500 P.2d 880

Plaintiff was permitted to employ per diem argument in suggesting damages for pain and suffering in particular case since argument constitutes permissible inference to be drawn from evidence presented. Beagle v. Vasold (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 166, 173, 176-177, 53 Cal. Rptr. 129, 417 P.2d 673

Trial court did not abuse discretion in medical malpractice action by admitting evidence that plaintiff's illegitimate child was born two months before surgery at issue, when existence and cause of plaintiff's depression, allegedly caused by surgery, were contested damage issues. Lafayette v. County of Los Angeles (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 547, 553, 208 Cal. Rptr. 668

Trial court is not permitted to instruct on loss of enjoyment of life in addition to or distinct from instruction on pain and suffering, since enjoyment of life instruction creates possibility of double recovery. Huff v. Tracy (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 939, 943-944, 129 Cal. Rptr. 551

[6] Excessive or Inadequate Damages

Use of remittitur under Code Civ. Proc. § 662.5 is strictly limited to those cases in which jury error is confined to issue of damages. Schelbauer v. Butler Mfg. Co. (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 442, 453, 198 Cal. Rptr. 155, 673 P.2d 743

Where notice of motion for new trial clearly states grounds on which it will be made, motion is not permitted to be denied solely on ground that it did not state whether it would be made on affidavits, minutes of the court, or both. Nichols v. Hast (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 598, 601, 43 Cal. Rptr. 641, 400 P.2d 753

Whether verdict is excessive is to be determined solely from consideration of evidence in case and whether it will fairly sustain conclusion of jury and not by showing of extrinsic facts, by affidavits, or otherwise. Harrison v. Sutter St. Ry. Co. (1897) 116 Cal. 156, 162, 47 P. 1019

In determining whether or not punitive damage award is excessive, comparison with awards in other cases and fact that award's size may set precedent are invalid considerations. Grimshaw v. Ford Motor Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 757, 818-819, 174 Cal. Rptr. 348

In deciding whether or not award of punitive damages is excessive as matter of law, following factors should be considered: degree of reprehensibility of defendant's conduct, wealth of defendant, amount of compensatory damages, and amount which would have deterrent effect. Grimshaw v. Ford Motor Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 757, 819, 174 Cal. Rptr. 348

Court's order granting new trial on issue of damages, when punitive damages are primary concern, was upheld when based on combination of considerations, including ratio of punitive to compensatory damages, degree of reprehensibility of defendant's conduct, wealth of defendant, defendant's profit generating capacity, magnitude of award, and amount by which it exceeded compensatory award. Grimshaw v. Ford Motor Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 757, 822, 174 Cal. Rptr. 348

Although retrial may be limited to issue of damages when evidence of liability is overwhelming, new trial on all issues is required when evidence on liability is in sharp conflict, and award is manifestly so inadequate as to suggest compromise verdict. Wilson v. R.D. Werner Co. (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 878, 883, 166 Cal. Rptr. 797

Notice of motion for new trial is required to set forth grounds for motion in order to apprise court and opposing counsel of basis of motion. Girch v. Cal-Union Stores, Inc. (1968) 268 Cal. App. 2d 541, 548, 74 Cal. Rptr. 125

[7] Fraud

Measure of damages for negligent or intentional misrepresentation is that provided by Civ. Code §§ 1709 and 3333, plus any punitive damages that may be awarded. Foggy v. Ralph F. Clark & Assocs., Inc. (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1204, 1214, 238 Cal. Rptr. 130

[8] General and Special Damages

Damages that necessarily result from act complained of are denominated general damages, and are proved under ad damnum clause or general allegation of damage, while those that are natural consequences of act complained of, and not necessary result of it, are termed special damages. Andalon v. Superior Court (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 600, 613, 208 Cal. Rptr. 899

General damages include physical pain, fright, nervousness, grief, anxiety, worry, mortification, humiliation, indignity, embarrassment, apprehension, terror, or ordeal, and mental suffering. Niles v. City of San Rafael (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 230, 244, 116 Cal. Rptr. 733

Damages that necessarily result from tort are general damages and damages that are natural consequence of tort, but do not necessarily result from tort, are special damages. Stoltz v. Converse (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 909, 914, 172 P.2d 78

[9] Injury to Property

Plaintiff was able to recover for loss of use of property whether property was injured or totally destroyed. Reynolds v. Bank of Am. (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 49, 50-51, 345 P.2d 926

If damaged property cannot be completely repaired, measure of damages is difference between value before injury and value after repairs have been made plus reasonable cost of making repairs. Merchant Shippers Ass'n v. Kellogg Express & Draying Co. (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 594, 600, 170 P.2d 923

Plaintiff whose real property has been injured is able to recover for loss of use of property during repair. Linforth v. San Francisco Gas & Elec. Co. (1909) 156 Cal. 58, 62, 103 P. 320

Recovery for unjust enrichment is inappropriate when plaintiff can obtain full redress for loss of profits under action for interference with contractual relations. Ramona Manor Convalescent Hosp. v. Care Enters. (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 1120, 1140, 225 Cal. Rptr. 120

Damages recoverable for destroyed real property are measured by value at time of destruction. Ferraro v. Southern Cal. Gas Co. (1980) 102 Cal. App. 3d 33, 48-49, 162 Cal. Rptr. 238

Where defendants repudiated joint venture agreement and appropriated joint venture property to their own use and benefit, court properly determined fair market value of property and price at which property could have been sold in order to determine profits lost by plaintiffs as result of defendants' actions. Gherman v. Colburn (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 544, 571-572, 140 Cal. Rptr. 330

Plaintiff is able to recover for loss of use of injured personal property. Story v. Gateway Chevrolet Co. (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 705, 709, 47 Cal. Rptr. 267

Where defendant has wrongfully injured personal property of plaintiff, plaintiff is able to recover difference between market value of property immediately before and immediately after injury or reasonable cost of repair if cost is less than depreciation in value. Smith v. Hill (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 374, 388, 47 Cal. Rptr. 49

No fixed rule exists for determining measure of damages for injury to or destruction of real property; formula most appropriate to compensate injured party for loss sustained in particular case is rule that will be adopted. Basin Oil Co. v. Baash-Ross Tool Co. (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d 578, 606, 271 P.2d 122

Measure of damages for destruction of personal property is reasonable market value of property at time of destruction and not cost of property nor money expended in replacing it. Lane v. Spurgeon (1950) 100 Cal. App. 2d 460, 463, 223 P.2d 889 ; Tatone v. Chin Bing (1936) 12 Cal. App. 2d 543, 544, 55 P.2d 933

[10] Interest

Prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3291 (interest from date of first rejected settlement offer under Code Civ. Proc. § 998) are available for both compensatory and punitive damages. Greenfield v. Spectrum Inv. Corp. (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 111, 124, 219 Cal. Rptr. 805

Neither Civ. Code § 3291 (judgment bears 10-percent rate of interest from date of first rejected settlement offer under Code Civ. Proc. § 998) nor Code Civ. Proc. § 685.010(a) (judgment bears 10 percent rate of interest from date judgment rendered) violates of Cal. Const. art. XV, § 1, because sections are not applied cumulatively to give 20 percent rate of interest, but are applied separately or conjunctively to permit recovery of no more than 10 percent rate of interest. Mendez v. Kurten (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 481, 487, 215 Cal. Rptr. 924

State of California is obligated by Cal. Const. art. XV, § 1, to pay interest on judgment obtained against it in tort action. Harland v. State of California (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 839, 841, 160 Cal. Rptr. 613 ; see Straughter v. State of California (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 412, 414-415, 169 Cal. Rptr. 471

[11] Interest as Damages

Award of prejudgment interest from date of unauthorized withdrawal of funds from bank by coexecutor of estate was proper under Civ. Code § 3288 in action against bank to recover funds misappropriated from account by coexecutor. Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 801, 813-815, 148 Cal. Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109

Plaintiff is entitled to recover prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3288 either for breach of obligation not arising from contract or for oppression, fraud, or malice; award of prejudgment interest is permitted even if plaintiff's damages are not liquidated. Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 801, 814, 148 Cal. Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109 (plaintiff need not prove both breach of noncontractual obligation and oppression, fraud, or malice)

In judgment against some joint tortfeasors after good faith settlement with other joint tortfeasors, prejudgment interest against nonsettling tortfeasors was computed from date of filing of complaint to date of settlement on total judgment amount, and after date of settlement on amount of total judgment minus settlement sum paid. Newby v. Vroman (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 283, 287-290, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 44

Trial court had power to award prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3288 for certain sums awarded against sole majority shareholder who breached fiduciary duties even though those sums were unliquidated. Baker v. Pratt (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 370, 377-380, 222 Cal. Rptr. 253

Civ. Code § 3291 (interest from date of first rejected settlement offer under Code Civ. Proc. § 998) is inapplicable to arbitration proceedings. Woodard v. Southern Cal. Permanente Med. Group (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 656, 666, 217

Cal. Rptr. 514

Prejudgment interest allowed by Civ. Code § 3291 is not considered itself to be in nature of damages. Mendez v. Kurten (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 481, 486, 215 Cal. Rptr. 924

In action for breach of contract and fraud, in which plaintiff recovered pursuant to liquidated damages clause which provided for payment of interest from date of breach, trial court, as trier of fact, did not abuse discretion under Civ. Code § 3288 by awarding interest from date of fraudulent inducement prior to date of breach, since judgment was based on finding of promissory fraud as well as breach of contract. Zlotoff v. Tucker (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 988, 994, 201 Cal. Rptr. 692

Civ. Code § 3291, authorizing prejudgment interest on amount of damages award exceeding first settlement offer by plaintiff, does not have retroactive application to judgments entered on or before statute's effective date of January 1, 1982. Gutierrez v. State Ranch Servs. (1983) 150 Cal. App. 3d 83, 88, 198 Cal. Rptr. 16

Propriety of award of interest under Civ. Code § 3288 was properly submitted to jury in action to recover damages to aircraft caused by negligence or strict product liability of defendant. Harsany v. Cessna Aircraft Co. (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 1139, 1144, 196 Cal. Rptr. 374

Trial court's failure to award prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3288 was permissible where trier of fact not shown to have abused discretion in considering circumstances of individual case. Pepitone v. Russo (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 685, 690, 134 Cal. Rptr. 709

When plaintiff deprived of money or property by defendant's fraud or breach of fiduciary duty and therefore obliged to resort to litigation to recover it, inclusion of interest in award of damages is necessary to make plaintiff whole. Nordahl v. Department of Real Estate (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 657, 665, 121 Cal. Rptr. 794

Civ. Code § 3288, allowing interest as damages, recognizes fact that one of elements of direct loss by person deprived of use of money or other property is value of its use in form of interest at legal rate. Nordahl v. Department of Real Estate (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 657, 666, 121 Cal. Rptr. 794

Civ. Code § 3288 authorizes interest in fraud actions at discretion of trier of fact. Greenfield v. Insurance Inc. (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 803, 813, 97 Cal. Rptr. 164

[12] Measure of Damages

Civ. Code § 3333 (measure of tort damages as detriment proximately caused by tort) does not authorize attorney's fees as element of compensatory damages awarded in judgment against fiduciary based on finding of fraud; "third-party tort" exception (attorney's fees incurred in prior action involving third party that was caused by tort deemed recoverable in later action against tortious party) is not applicable; Pederson v. Kennedy (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 976, 978-980, 180 Cal. Rptr. 740

Purpose of Civ. Code § 3333 (measure of tort damages as detriment proximately caused by tort) is to make successful plaintiff whole. Overgaard v. Johnson (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 821, 824, 137 Cal. Rptr. 412

Motion for leave to amend personal injury complaint to increase general damages allegation and prayer was properly granted when full nature and extent of plaintiff's injuries not known at time complaint filed but injuries subsequently became known together with medical recommendations for treatment. Campain v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 362, 365, 104 Cal. Rptr. 752

Damages under Civ. Code § 3333 are limited to those damages proximately caused by tort forming basis of action. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 508, 528, 88 Cal. Rptr. 246

Trial court did not abuse its discretion in permitting plaintiff in malpractice action to amend complaint to change date of termination of treatments by defendant physician. Burford v. Baker (1942) 53 Cal. App. 2d 301, 309, 127 P.2d 941

[13] Mitigation of Damages

In action for wrongful birth, mother, whether married or unmarried, is not required to undergo abortion or place unwanted child up for adoption in order to mitigate damages. Morris v. Frudenfeld (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 23, 30-32, 185 Cal. Rptr. 76

[14] Notification of Damages Amount

Default judgment was properly set aside when plaintiff failed to serve statement of damages before entry of clerk's default in compliance with Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11; complaint requesting unspecified general and special damages and $100,000 in punitive damages did not provide adequate notice of total amount of damages sought. Hamm v. Elkin (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1343, 1346, 242 Cal. Rptr. 545

Purpose of Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11 is to give notice of damages claim, and that notice is required to be reasonable to be effective. Connelly v. Castillo (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 1583, 1588-1590, 236 Cal. Rptr. 112

Default judgment for trespass, assault, conversion, intentional infliction of emotional distress, and wrongful repossession was properly set aside when plaintiff had failed to inform defendant of amount of damages sought were required by Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11; nonpersonal injury claims as so closely tied to personal injury claims as to require Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11 disclosure for all causes of action. Jones v. Interstate Recovery Serv. (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 925, 929-930, 206 Cal. Rptr. 924

Default judgment was improper when defendant was never notified of amount of damages, as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11. Petty v. Manpower, Inc. (1979) 94 Cal. App. 3d 794, 797, 798, 156 Cal. Rptr. 622 (holding that default judgment was erroneously entered on personal injury complaint in which there was no designation of amout of damages in compliance with Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10, and when defendant was not thereafter notified of amount of damages sought)

[15] Pleading Basis for Award

In legal malpractice action against attorney and his law firm, punitive damages allegation devoid of any factual assertions supporting conclusion that attorney acted with oppression, fraud, or malice, is subject to motion to strike. Smith v. Superior Court (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1033, 1041-1042, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 133

In tenant's action for negligence of landlords, complaint pleads malice sufficient to support award of punitive damages if it alleges facts showing landlords' lengthy awareness of conditions dangerous to tenants, their ability to take curative measures, and their failure to do so. Penner v. Falk (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 858, 867, 200 Cal. Rptr. 661

Complaint sufficiently stated malicious act punishable by assessment of punitive damages by alleging that defendants intentionally dusted their own crops in way that they knew or should have known would result in high probability of harm to others. SKF Farms v. Superior Court (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 902, 906-907, 200 Cal. Rptr. 497

Language in complaint that defendant acted "wrongfully and intentionally" or that defendant is guilty of "oppression, fraud, and malice" properly pleads claim for punitive damages if sufficient facts are also alleged. Perkins v. Superior Court (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 1, 6-7, 172 Cal. Rptr. 427

To support award of punitive damages, complaint must plead ultimate facts of defendant's oppression, fraud, or malice. Cyrus v. Haveson (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 306, 316-317, 135 Cal. Rptr. 246

If body of complaint sets forth facts supporting award of punitive damages, failure to expressly mention punitive damages in prayer of complaint does not preclude award. Weiss v. Blumencranc (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 536, 544, 131 Cal. Rptr. 298

If malice is basis of award of punitive damages and if plaintiff alleges intentional wrong, prayer for exemplary damages may be supported by pleading that wrong was committed willfully or with design to injure. G.D. Searle & Co. v. Superior Court (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 22, 29, 122 Cal. Rptr. 218

In pleading grounds for exemplary damages where nondeliberate tort is involved, allegation that defendant acted in conscious disregard of safety of others properly describes animus malus which may justify punitive damages award. G.D. Searle & Co. v. Superior Court (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 22, 32, 122 Cal. Rptr. 218

[16] Proof of Damages

Tortiously injured plaintiff is entitled to be compensated for harm and must establish by proof extent of harm and amount of money representing adequate compensation; law does not require proof with certainty if plaintiff's inability to prove damages is due to defendant's actions. Clemente v. State of California (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 202, 218-220, 219 Cal. Rptr. 445, 707 P.2d 818

"Day-in-the-life" videotape admissible to show extent of damages to plaintiff. Jones v. City of Los Angeles (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 436, 439-446, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 528 (also discussing probative value and admissibility generally)

[17] Punitive Damages

[a] Actual Damages Required

Punitive damages award reversed when jury specifically decided to award no compensatory damages. California v. Altus Finances S.A. (9th Cir. 2008) 540 F.3d 992, 1002

Punitive damages not recoverable unless actual damages suffered. Mother Cobb's Chicken Turnovers, Inc. v. Fox (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 203, 205, 73 P.2d 1185 ; Esparza v. Specht (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 1, 6, 127 Cal. Rptr. 493

Although punitive damages are not precluded as matter of law in asbestos litigation, neither market-share rule of liability, nor fraud-on-the-market doctrine, can be basis for liability in asbestos personal injury litigation. Stevens v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1996) 49 Cal. App. 4th 1645, 1668, 57 Cal. Rptr. 2d 525

Award of punitive damages precluded due to lack of actual damages only when plaintiff has sustained no actual damage; fact that plaintiff was awarded no actual damages not preclusive. Tan Jay Int'l, Ltd. v. Canadian Indem. Co. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 695, 706, 709, 243 Cal. Rptr. 907

Punitive damages recoverable if claimant proves actual damage due to alleged misconduct, even if there is no award, or nominal award, of compensatory damages. Carr v. Progressive Cas. Ins. Co. (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 881, 892, 199 Cal. Rptr. 835

Plaintiff entitled to recover punitive damages when nominal damages are awarded. Civic W. Corp. v. Zila Indus., Inc. (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 1, 18, 19, 135 Cal. Rptr. 915

To justify award of punitive damages, plaintiff must be shown to have suffered actual damages even though monetary award is not made for wrong suffered. Weiss v. Blumencranc (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 536, 543, 131 Cal. Rptr. 298 ; Esparza v. Specht (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 1, 6, 127 Cal. Rptr. 493

[b] Bad Faith by Insurer

Punitive damages recoverable in addition to compensatory damages in action against insurer for breach of duty of good faith and fair dealing if plaintiff has shown that defendant has acted with oppression, fraud, or malice. Downey Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Ohio Casualty Ins. Co. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1072, 1096-1097, 234 Cal. Rptr. 835 ; Delos v. Farmers Group Inc. (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 642, 656-657, 155 Cal. Rptr. 843 ; Merlo v. Standard Life & Accident Ins. Co. (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 5, 20, 130 Cal. Rptr. 416

In bad faith action, evidence that insurer violated its duty of good faith and fair dealing did not establish that it acted with requisite intent to justify award of punitive damages; insurer's unreasonable actions did not necessarily constituting malice. Travelers Ins. Co. v. Lesher (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 169, 200, 231 Cal. Rptr. 791 , disapproved on other grounds, Buss v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 35, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 366, 939 P.2d 766

Award of punitive damages proper in action against insurer for breach of covenant of good faith and fair dealing when insurer unreasonably and deliberately terminated and then delayed resumption of disability payments in disregard of plaintiff's established eligibility. Pistorius v. Prudential Ins. Co. (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 541, 552-553, 176 Cal. Rptr. 660

Punitive damage award of $150,000 against insurer for breach of implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing proper when insurer never informed insured of settlement offer, never allowed insured to contribute towards possible settlement, and exposed insured to damages of $11,000 when his claim could have been compromised for half that amount. Miller v. Elite Ins. Co. (1980) 100 Cal. App. 3d 739, 758, 161 Cal. Rptr. 322

Punitive damages awarded against insurer for bad-faith refusal of uninsured motorist coverage. Delos v. Farmers Group Inc. (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 642, 657-658, 155 Cal. Rptr. 843

Insured entitled to recover punitive damages when insurer makes fraudulent misrepresentations to him or her. Miller v. National Am. Life Ins. Co. (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 331, 338, 126 Cal. Rptr. 731 ; Wetherbee v. United Ins. Co. of Am. (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 266, 269, 95 Cal. Rptr. 678

[c] Discretion to Award

Jury determines both award and amount of award of punitive damages. Weisenburg v. Molina (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 478, 490, 129 Cal. Rptr. 813

Granting or withholding of award of punitive damages is wholly within discretion of trier of fact. Sullivan v. Matt (1955) 130 Cal. App. 2d 134, 143-144, 278 P.2d 499

Jury properly concluded that defendant had been punished enough by conviction and payment of fine and accordingly did not award punitive damages. Browand v. Scott Lumber Co. (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d 68, 74-75, 269 P.2d 891

[d] Effect of Prior Class Action Settlement

Plaintiff, who had previously opted out of class action suit against corporate defendant, not barred by prior settlement in class action from recovering punitive damages against same defendant. Lemer v. Boise Cascade, Inc. (1980) 107 Cal. App. 3d 1, 7-9, 165 Cal. Rptr. 555 (fraud in sale of real estate)

[e] Election Between Punitive and Treble Damages

Imposition of statutory treble damages for particular wrongful act did not preclude award of punitive damages in tort action when necessary malice and oppression shown. Marshall v. Brown (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 408, 418, 190 Cal. Rptr. 392

[f] Fraud

Fraud alone is adequate ground for awarding punitive damages. Orient Handel v. United States Fid. & Guar. Co. (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 684, 697, 237 Cal. Rptr. 667 (punitive damages award reversed because finding of fraud reversed)

[g] Insurance Coverage

Absent applicable and enforceable choice-of-law provision in policy, California public policy against indemnifying punitive damages applicable to out-of-state insured if insured risk is located in California; insurer not required to indemnify Wisconsin manufacturer for punitive damages awarded for personal injuries caused by exploding car battery made in California, sold to California retailer, and purchased by California resident who was injured in California. Stonewall Surplus Lines Ins. Co. v. Johnson Controls, Inc. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 637, 649

Insurance coverage for punitive damage awards contravenes California public policy that prohibits indemnity for willful wrongs. City Prods. Corp. v. Globe Indem. Co. (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 31, 36-42, 151 Cal. Rptr. 494 ; see Ins. Code § 533

[h] Nature and Purpose

Law does not favor punitive damages; punitive damages properly granted with greatest caution. Dyna-Med, Inc. v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1987) 43 Cal. 3d 1379, 1392, 241 Cal. Rptr. 67, 743 P.2d 1323

Punitive damages by definition intended not to compensate injured party, but rather to punish tortfeasor whose wrongful action was intentional or malicious, and to deter tortfeasor and others from similar extreme conduct. Dyna-Med, Inc. v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1987) 43 Cal. 3d 1379, 1387, 241 Cal. Rptr. 67, 743 P.2d 1323

Primary purpose of punitive damages is to deter wrongdoers and others from repeating wrongful conduct in future. Peterson v. Superior Court (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 147, 155, 181 Cal. Rptr. 784, 642 P.2d 1305

Deterrence is one function of punitive damages; function not served by award that exceeds level necessary properly to punish and deter in light of defendant's wealth and gravity of particular act. Goshgarian v. George (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 1214, 1226-1227, 208 Cal. Rptr. 321 (amount of punitive damages reduced on appeal due to jury passion and prejudice)

Punitive damages awarded to punish and deter sufficiently culpable conduct. Ford Motor Co. v. Home Ins. Co. (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 374, 380, 172 Cal. Rptr. 59

Punitive damages awarded to punish wrongdoer and make example of him or her, while compensatory damages awarded to compensate injured party for his or her injury. Merlo v. Standard Life & Accident Ins. Co. (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 5, 20, 130 Cal. Rptr. 416

[i] Nonintentional Torts

Nonintentional torts form basis for punitive damages if conduct constituted conscious disregard of rights or safety of others; nonintentional conduct is within definition of malicious acts punishable by assessment of punitive damages if party intentionally performed act from which he or she knew, or should have known, it was highly probable that harm would result. Peterson v. Superior Court (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 147, 158, 181 Cal. Rptr. 784, 642 P.2d 1305 ; Slaughter v. Legal Process & Courier Serv. (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 1236, 1252, 209 Cal. Rptr. 189

Com. Code § 4402 precludes award of punitive damages for bank's negligent dishonor of check. Lee v. Bank of Am. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 914, 920, 267 Cal. Rptr. 387 .

Violation of National Marine Fisheries Service regulation, enforcement of which had been suspended by Service pending reconsideration of its appropriateness, was not conscious disregard of safety of others sufficient to support punitive damages. Da Silva v. Pacific King, Inc. (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 1, 7, 240 Cal. Rptr. 395

[j] Protective Evidentiary Orders

Civ. Code § 3295 does not preclude discovery of defendant's financial records if information sought is fundamental to case and is only way plaintiff can prove case; protective order limiting access to financial information under Civ. Code § 3295 available if only reason for seeking that information is to give tactical edge to party obtaining discovery in form of pressure in settlement negotiations. Rawnsley v. Superior Court (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 86, 91, 227 Cal. Rptr. 806

[k] Public Entities

Recovery of punitive damages by public entity constitutional, and not precluded by Civ. Code § 3294(a) (rejecting contrary reasoning of City of Los Angeles v. Shpegel-Dimsey, Inc. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1009, 244 Cal. Rptr. 507). Westlands Water Dist. v. Amoco Chemical Co. (9th Cir. 1991) 953 F.2d 1109, 1111-1113 ; City of Glendale v. Superior Court (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1266, 1270-1272, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 16 ; City of Sanger v. Superior Court (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 444, 448-451, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 436

Punitive damages recoverable neither from nor by public entity; reasons for rule. City of Los Angeles v. Shpegel-Dimsey, Inc. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1009, 1023-1026, 244 Cal. Rptr. 507

[l] Reasonable Relation to Actual Damages

Punitive damages must bear reasonable relationship to actual damages. Liodas v. Sahadi (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 278, 284, 137 Cal. Rptr. 635, 562 P.2d 316

Punitive damages reduced to $1.5 million when compensatory damages were just in excess of $1.5 million, most of which was for emotional distress caused when insurance company refused to tender defense of claim. Walker v. Farmers Ins. Exchange (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 965, 974, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 507

1 to 1 ratio of punitive to compensatory damages was appropriate when harm was entirely economic in nature and involved business fraud perpetrated by fiduciary against experienced business, rather than against vulnerable victim, and substantial compensatory damages awarded were largely restitution. Jet Source Charter, Inc. v. Doherty (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 1, 11, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 176

Because no special justification existed, court adopted ratio of punitive-to-compensatory damages of just under 10-to-1, in case with compensatory damages award of approximately $18,000, in imposing punitive damages against large car manufacturer for policies designed to avoid lemon laws. Johnson v. Ford Motor Co. (2005) 135 Cal. App. 4th 137, 149-150, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 283

Punitive damages reduced on appeal to $360,000 in case in which compensatory damages were approximately $90,000. Textron Fin. Corp. v. Nat'l Union Fire Ins. Co. (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 1061, 1083-1085 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 586

Punitive damages award that was 70 times award of compensatory damages was not excessive when award was only five percent of defendant's net worth. Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 1166, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510

In bad faith insurance action brought by financial institution, punitive damages equal to 32 times award of compensatory damages are not unreasonable as matter of law; fact that plaintiff was solvent corporation with substantial assets belied defendant's contention that award was result of passion and prejudice. Downey Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Ohio Casualty Ins. Co. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1072, 1099, 234 Cal. Rptr. 835

Trial court reduction of punitive damages award of $5 million to $1 million was proper based on court's conclusion that punitive damages award was too great in relation to compensatory damages award of $100,000 and in relation to defendant's net income. Sprague v. Equifax, Inc. (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 1012, 1052, 213 Cal. Rptr. 69

No fixed ratio determines reasonable relationship between punitive damages and damages actually suffered; calculation of punitive damages involves fluid mathematical process depending on nature of acts, effect on parties, and worth of defendant; punitive damages 27 times compensatory damages was not unreasonable as matter of law. Devlin v. Kearny Mesa AMC/Jeep/Renault, Inc. (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 381, 390, 202 Cal. Rptr. 204

Award of punitive damages unsupportable when disproportionately high in relation to compensatory damages and harm suffered, even though underlying act was reprehensible. Burnett v. National Enquirer, Inc. (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 991, 1011, 193 Cal. Rptr. 206

Punitive damages award excessive when it does not reasonably relate to either compensatory damages or nature of defendant's conduct, and when it is so grossly disproportionate as to be indicative of passion and prejudice on part of jury. Rosener v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 740, 749-754, 168 Cal. Rptr. 237

Award of punitive damages reversed or reduced when ratio between punitive and actual damages is grossly disproportionate. Little v. Stuyvesant Life Ins. Co. (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 451, 469-470, 136 Cal. Rptr. 653

Reasonable relationship between actual and punitive damages involves more than simple mathematical comparison between two amounts. Zhadan v. Downtown L.A. Motors (1976) 66 Cal. App. 3d 481, 499, 136 Cal. Rptr. 132

[m] Relevant Factors in Awarding Punitive Damages

Either defendant's net worth or profit gained by defendant's misconduct was appropriate measure of defendant's financial condition in awarding punitive damages. Adams v. Murakami (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 105, 116 n.7, 284 Cal. Rptr. 318, 813 P.2d 1348 ; Cummings Med. Corp. v. Occupational Med. Corp. (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1291, 1299-1300, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 585

Award of exemplary damages must be based on sufficient evidence of defendant's financial condition to provide reviewing court with basis for determining whether award is excessive. Adams v. Murakami (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 105, 108-110, 116, 284 Cal. Rptr. 318, 813 P. 2d 1348

In action in which punitive damages are sought, defendant's financial condition is discoverable and relevant to such issues as "punishment" of defendant. Coy v. Superior Court (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 210, 223, 23 Cal. Rptr. 393, 373 P.2d 457 (prior law)

In notorious case involving sports celebrity found civilly liable for violently killing his former wife and her friend, punitive damages totaling $25 million were not excessive, even though amount exceeded current net worth, in light of heinousness of conduct, evidence that defendant was wealthy man with prospects to gain more wealth in future, and fact that defendant had pension funds worth $4.1 million that were exempt from execution to pay damages award, guaranteeing that he would continue to enjoy comfortable living. Rufo v. Simpson (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 573, 624-625, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 492

Punitive damages award amounting to 28 percent of net worth was excessive; 10 percent of net worth is usual maximum award. Michelson v. Hamada (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1566, 1596, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 343

Evidence of defendant's net profits and part-time earnings was inadequate proof of defendant's financial condition for purposes of supporting award of punitive damages. Lara v. Cadag (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 1061, 1063-1066, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 811

If defendant's misconduct did not result in monetary gain, evidence of defendant's income from net profits and part-time earnings insufficient to allow reviewing court to determine whether punitive damages award is excessive; net income, standing alone, is inadequate evidence of defendant's financial condition. Lara v. Cadag (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 1061, 1063-1066, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 811

Guiding factors in awarding punitive damages include nature of defendant's acts in light of whole record, amount of compensatory damages awarded, and wealth of particular defendant. Goshgarian v. George (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 1214, 1226-1227 (amount of punitive damages reduced on appeal due to jury passion and prejudice)

Punitive damages award of 10 percent of defendant's net worth was reasonable compromise between punishment and leniency; mere fact that punitive damages awarded equaled 10 percent of tortfeasor's net worth was not of itself grounds for reversal because excessive. Goshgarian v. George (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 1214, 1227-1228, 208 Cal. Rptr. 321 (amount of punitive damages reduced on appeal due to jury passion and prejudice)

Toleration level for damages is not different for business and individual in percentage of net worth. Goshgarian v. George (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 1214, 1228, 208 Cal. Rptr. 321 (amount of punitive damages reduced on appeal due to jury passion and prejudice)

Net income of corporation for purposes of determining punitive damages includes dividends, but excludes federal income taxes. Moore v. American United Life Ins. Co. (1984) 150 Cal. App. 3d 610, 637, 197 Cal. Rptr. 878

Factors determining amount of punitive damages are: (1) particular nature of defendant's acts in light of whole record; (2) amount of compensatory damages awarded; and (3) wealth of particular defendant; in libel action, award was excessive because amount constituted 35 percent of defendant's net worth and half its net income for period under consideration. Burnett v. National Enquirer, Inc. (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 991, 1011, 193 Cal. Rptr. 206

Nature of defendant's acts in light of record, amount of compensatory damages, and wealth of defendant are proper considerations in determining amount of punitive damages award. Pistorius v. Prudential Ins. Co. (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 541, 554, 176 Cal. Rptr. 660

To accomplish punitive and deterrent purpose of punitive damages, award must be assessed against party actually responsible for wrong, and amount of award must be related to wealth of responsible party. Ford Motor Co. v. Home Ins. Co. (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 374, 380, 172 Cal. Rptr. 59

Jury award of $5,260 compensatory damages and $90,000 punitive damages for violations of Business and Professions Code provisions which are designed to protect consumers from unauthorized and shoddy automobile repairs was not excessive because (1) award was less that 7 percent of defendant's net worth, (2) important public policy of consumer protection was effectuated, and (3) there is no set ratio between actual and punitive damages. Zhadan v. Downtown L.A. Motors Distribs., Inc. (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 821, 835-837, 161 Cal. Rptr. 225 (appeal from new trial granted in Zhadan v. Downtown L.A. Motors (1976) 66 Cal. App. 3d 481, 136 Cal. Rptr. 132)

Remittitur of $4 million punitive damages award was proper due to likelihood of several jury-imposed punitive damage awards, each of which would be sufficient to punish in entirety for misconduct involved. Delos v. Farmers Group Inc. (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 642, 667, 155 Cal. Rptr. 843

Importance of policy violated by defendant's conduct, and degree and extent, both qualitatively and quantitatively, of violation are considered in awarding punitive damages. Zhadan v. Downtown L.A. Motors (1976) 66 Cal. App. 3d 481, 499, 136 Cal. Rptr. 132

Because primary purpose of punitive damages is to punish defendant and make example of defendant, award of punitive damages must be larger when defendant is wealthy and smaller when defendant is poorer. Merlo v. Standard Life & Accident Ins. Co. (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 5, 18, 130 Cal. Rptr. 416

[n] Review of Award

In reviewing award of punitive damages, appellate court must apply substantial evidence test, reviewing record in light most favorable to judgment. Travelers Ins. Co. v. Lesher (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 169, 200, 231 Cal. Rptr. 791 , disapproved on other grounds, Buss v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 35, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 366, 939 P.2d 766

[o] Showing of Oppression, Fraud, or Malice

Rule of Taylor v. Superior Court (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 890, 892, 157 Cal. Rptr. 693, 598 P.2d 854 , that punitive damages are recoverable from intoxicated driver who causes personal injuries, applies retroactively to accidents that occurred and complaints that were filed prior to judicial decision establishing rule. Peterson v. Superior Court (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 147, 150, 152-158, 181 Cal. Rptr. 784, 642 P.2d 1305 (disapproving Mau v. Superior Court (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 875, 161 Cal. Rptr. 895 ; decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294)

Elements of punitive damages can be proven directly or by implication. Colonial Life & Accident Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 785, 792, 183 Cal. Rptr. 810, 647 P.2d 86 (pattern of unfair settlement practices by insurer may establish elements of punitive damages; decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294)

Punitive damages are recoverable from intoxicated automobile driver since person who voluntarily drinks to point of intoxication knowing he or she must drive motor vehicle demonstrates such conscious and deliberate disregard of others that his or her conduct is willful or wanton. Taylor v. Superior Court (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 890, 892, 157 Cal. Rptr. 693, 598 P.2d 854 (decided before 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294)

Under provisions of Civ. Code § 3294, permitting award of punitive damages, showing of oppression, fraud, or malice is required for award of punitive damages. Silberg v. California Life Ins. Co. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 452, 462, 113 Cal. Rptr. 711, 521 P.2d 1103 ; Mason v. Mercury Cas. Co. (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 471, 474, 134 Cal. Rptr. 545

Sexual harassment is conduct that subjects person to cruel and unjust hardship in conscious disregard of that person's rights, and therefore is sufficient to support punitive damages allegations. Fisher v. San Pedro Peninsula Hosp. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 590, 621, 262 Cal. Rptr. 842 (court reversed dismissal of complaint and remanded to permit plaintiffs to amend complaint)

Evidence of defendant's litigation conduct and plaintiff's attorney's fees is irrelevant to proving defendant's state of mind for award of punitive damages. Palmer v. Ted Stevens Honda, Inc. (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 530, 540, 238 Cal. Rptr. 363 (decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294)

To support award of punitive damages for malice under Civ. Code § 3294(c)(1) on basis of conscious disregard for safety of others, plaintiff must establish that defendant was aware of probable dangerous consequences of his or her conduct, yet willfully and deliberately failed to avoid those consequences. Travelers Ins. Co. v. Lesher (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 169, 200, 231 Cal. Rptr. 791 (decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294), disapproved on other grounds, Buss v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 35, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 366, 939 P.2d 766 ; Penner v. Falk (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 858, 867, 200 Cal. Rptr. 661 (decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294)

Title insurance company was not liable for punitive damages for negligently disbursing funds in breach of fiduciary duty when evidence failed to show conscious disregard for plaintiff's rights. Flyer's Body Shop Profit Sharing Plan v. Ticor Title Ins. Co. (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1149, 1153-1155, 230 Cal. Rptr. 276 (decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294)

Proof that tort was maliciously perpetrated does not require establishment of specific intent to injure person wronged. Ramona Manor Convalescent Hosp. v. Care Enters. (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 1120, 1141, 225 Cal. Rptr. 120 (decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294)

Allegations of sexual harassment under Fair Employment and Housing Act (Gov. Code § 12900 et seq.) are sufficient to plead recovery of punitive damages under Civ. Code § 3294 when complaint alleged that employer refused to investigate or correct harassment and engaged in systematic course of retaliation. Monge v. Superior Court (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 503, 510-512, 222 Cal. Rptr. 64 (decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294)

Manufacturer's intentional concealment of high level of formaldehyde fumes in mobilehome and its failure substantially to comply with express warranty justified award of exemplary damages on grounds of oppression, fraud, or malice. Troensegaard v. Silvercrest Indus., Inc. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 218, 226, 220 Cal. Rptr. 712 (decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294)

Punitive damages are not available in product liability case when sole basis of defendant's liability is based on market share theory; defendant product manufacturer is required to be actually identified as one furnishing product in order to show necessary malice, oppression, and fraud evidencing conscious disregard of rights and safety of general public and knowledge that product would cause serious injury; mere showing of defendant's share of market in production of DES was inadequate to justify punitive damages for personal injuries of daughter of woman ingesting DES. Magallanes v. Superior Court (1985) 167 Cal. App. 3d 878, 883-890 (decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294)

Plaintiff was entitled to have jury consider punitive damages claim based on substantial evidence that defendant was aware of probable dangerous consequences of its conduct in marketing product, and wilfully and deliberately failed to avoid those consequences. Hilliard v. A.H. Robins Co. (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 374, 397, 196 Cal. Rptr. 117 (decid ed prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294)

In libel action, malice for purposes of determining liability is malice in law to be distinguished from malice in fact or actual malice, which is proved by evidence of evil motive and intent, and which supports punitive damages under Civ. Code § 3294. Burnett v. National Enquirer, Inc. (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 991, 1006-1007, 193 Cal. Rptr. 206 (decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294)

Jury instruction that punitive damages are recoverable for defendant's fraud, malice, or oppression was proper without showing of actual fraud, when action in tort against insurance company for bad faith is proven. Pistorius v. Prudential Ins. Co. (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 541, 556, 176 Cal. Rptr. 660 (decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294)

Conduct is sufficiently culpable to warrant assessment of punitive damages only if it involves fraud, oppression, or malice. Ford Motor Co. v. Home Ins. Co. (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 374, 380, 172 Cal. Rptr. 59 (decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294)

[p] Unavailable in Contract Action

Punitive damages award is improper in action alleging both contract and tort violations when jury verdict is based only on contract cause of action. Myers Bldg. Indus., Ltd., v. Interface Tech., Inc. (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 949, 960, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 242

[q] When Awarded Against Employer of Tortfeasor

"Managing agent" of corporation for purposes of establishing entitlement to punitive damages under Civ. Code § 3294(b) includes only those corporate employees who exercise substantial independent authority and judgment in their corporate decisionmaking so that their decisions ultimately determine corporate policy; mere ability of supervisory employee to hire and fire employees is not, by itself, sufficient. White v. Ultramar, Inc. (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 563, 566-567, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 19, 981 P.2d 944 .

Employer was liable for punitive damages arising out of emotional distress intentionally inflicted by employee acting in managerial capacity. Agarwal v. Johnson (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 932, 947, 160 Cal. Rptr. 141, 603 P.2d 58 (decided prior to 1980 amendment to Civ. Code § 3294)

Fact that tortfeasor was plaintiff's supervisor was insufficient to establish liability of corporate employer; evidence that tortfeasor had no authority to make corporate policy established that he was not "managing agent" under Civ. Code § 3294(b). Kelly-Zurian v. Wohl Shoe Co. (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 397, 421-422, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 457

Punitive damages under Civ. Code § 3294 are available in judicial action for sex harassment pleaded under the Fair Employment and Housing Act (Gov. Code § 12900 et seq.). Bihun v. AT&T Info. Sys., Inc. (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 976, 996, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787 , disapproved on other grounds, Lakin v. Watkins Associated Indus. (1993) 6 Cal. 4th 644, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 109, 863 P.2d 179

In sexual harassment case, evidence of defendant's sexual misconduct with other female employees was relevant to issue of punitive damages available under Civ. Code § 3294(b) and not unduly prejudicial. Bihun v. AT&T Info. Sys., Inc. (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 976, 996, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787 , disapproved on other grounds, Lakin v. Watkins Associated Indus. (1993) 6 Cal. 4th 644, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 109, 863 P.2d 179

[r] Wrongful Death Actions

Rule prohibiting recovery of punitive damages in wrongful death actions does not violate equal protection provisions of United States and California Constitutions. Ford Motor Co. v. Superior Court (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 748, 751-753 ; Georgie Boy Mfg., Inc. v. Superior Court (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 217, 226, 171 Cal. Rptr. 382 ; In re Paris Air Crash (9th Cir. 1980) 622 F.2d 1315, 1318-1324

[s] Wrongful Discharge

Trial court's sustaining demurrer of employer to employee's cause of action for punitive damages was error when employee's action based on common law cause of action for wrongful discharge on basis of retaliatory firing and not on Lab. Code § 6312, which provided for Labor Commissioner to maintain suit. Hentzel v. Singer Co. (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 290, 304, 188 Cal. Rptr. 159

[18] Taxation

Any tax benefits enjoyed by class members resulting from partnership investment are irrelevant in restitution award of damages in action based on fraudulent misrepresentation and nondisclosure to induce investment. Danzig v. Jack Grynberg & Assocs. (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 1128, 1139-1140, 208 Cal. Rptr. 336

Instruction that personal injury damages are nontaxable is given or rejected within trial court's discretion. Fox v. Pacific Sw. Airlines (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 565, 571, 184 Cal. Rptr. 87

Trial court did not err in refusing to admit evidence of future tax consequences to affect determination of awards to personal injury plaintiffs. Rodriguez v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 626, 668, 151 Cal. Rptr. 399

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsDamagesCompensatory DamagesLost IncomeEarning CapacityTortsDamagesCompensatory DamagesMedical ExpensesTortsDamagesCompensatory DamagesPain & SufferingFuture Pain & SufferingTortsDamagesInterestPrejudgment InterestTortsDamagesMitigation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.103

§ 177.103 Law Reviews

[1] Allocation of Tort Damages

Dear and Zipperstein, Comparable Fault and Intentional Torts: Doctrinal Barriers and Policy Considerations, 24 Santa Clara L. Rev. 1 (1984)

Goldenberg and Nicholas, Comparative Liability Among Joint Tortfeasors: The Aftermath of Li v. Yellow Cab Co., 8 UWLA L. Rev. 23 (1976)

Note, Products Liability, Comparative Negligence, and the Allocation of Damages Among Multiple Defendants, 50 S. Cal. L. Rev. 73 (1976)

Nellis, California Government Tort Liability and the Collateral Source Rule, 9 Santa Clara Law. 227 (1969)

Fleming, The Collateral Source Rule and Loss Allocation in Tort Law, 54 Cal. L. Rev. 1478 (1966)

[2] Compensatory Damages

[a] Generally

Eisenberg, The Principle of Hadley v. Baxendale, 80 Cal. L. Rev. 563 (1992)

Comment, Playing the Percentages: A Re-Examination of Recovery for Loss of Chance, 26 Santa Clara L. Rev. 429 (1986)

Birnbaum, Tort Damages for Fear and Risk of Injury, 31(7) Prac. Law. 25 (1985)

Rabin, Tort Recovery for Negligently Inflicted Economic Loss: A Reassessment, 27 Stan. L. Rev. 1513 (1985)

Comment, Medical Malpractice: The Right to Recover for the Loss of a Chance of Survival, 12 Pepp. L. Rev. 973 (1985)

Diamond, Dillon v. Legg Revisited: Toward a Unified Theory of Compensating Bystanders and Relatives for Intangible Injuries, 35 Hastings L.J. 477 (1984)

Franz, Calculating Damages in Wrongful Pregnancy Cases, 30(5) Prac. Law. 79 (1984)

Fleming, The Collateral Source Rule and Contract Damages, 71 Cal. L. Rev. 56 (1983)

Nakamura, The Classification of Personal Injury Damages Under California Community Property Law: Proposals for Application and Reform, 14 Pac. L.J. 973 (1983)

Fischer, The Availability of Private Remedies for Acid Rain Damage, 9 Ecology L.Q. 429 (1981)

Hanke, How to Determine Lost Earning Capacity, 27(5) Prac. Law. 27 (1981)

King, Causation, Valuation, and Chance in Personal Injury Torts Involving Preexisting Conditions and Future Consequences, 90 Yale L.J. 1353 (1981)

King and Muto, Compensatory Damages for Newsgatherer Torts: Toward a Workable Standard, 14 U.C. Davis L. Rev. 919 (1981)

Moss and Brown, Dilemma in the Delivery Room, 16 Bev. Hills B.J. 35 (1981)

Comment, Loss of Enjoyment of Life as a Separate Element of Damages, 12 Pac. L.J. 965 (1981)

Note, Sindell v. Abbott Laboratories: Is Market Share Liability the Best Remedy to the DES Controversy, 18 Cal. W. L. Rev. 143 (1981)

Shoaf and Aklufi, A Summary of the Rules of Liability in Water Damages Cases, 55 Cal. St. B.J. 459 (1980)

Rabin, Dealing With Disasters: Some Thoughts on the Adequacy of the Legal System, 30 Stan. L. Rev. 281 (1978)

Eden, Estimating Human Life Values, 22 Prac. Law. 77 (1976)

Comment, Private Damage Actions Against Telephone Companies for Inadequate Service, 9 U.S.F. L. Rev. 561 (1975)

Note, Choice of Law --Wrongful Death Action-- Governmental Interest Analysis Requires Delineation of State Policies and Limitation on Damages Concerns Only Resident Defendants, 15 Santa Clara Law. 217 (1974)

Comment, Damages for Loss of Future Income: Accounting for Inflation, 6 U.S.F. L. Rev. 311 (1972)

[b] Per Diem Arguments

Note, Per Diem Damages: The Controversy Continues, 18 Hastings L.J. (1967)

Note, Jury Computation of Damages for Pain and Suffering--The Per Diem Argument, 13 Hastings L.J. 502 (1962)

Note, Per Diem Damages Argument for Pain and Suffering Approved in Personal Injury Case, 33 S. Cal. L. Rev. 214 (1960)

[3] Interest as Damages

Comment, The Availability of Prejudgment Interest in Personal Injury and Wrongful Death Cases, 16 U.S.F. L. Rev. 325 (1982)

[4] Lost Earning Capacity

Eden, The Use of Economists and Statisticians in Impaired Earning Capacity Cases, 30(4) Prac. Law. 35 (1984)

[5] Mitigation of Damages

Note, Medical Care, Freedom of Religion, and Mitigation of Damages, 87 Yale L.J. 1466 (1978)

[6] Punitive Damages

Comment, Adams v. Murakami--New Judicially Made Rules Affecting Punitive Damages in California, 25 Loy. L.A. L. Rev. 1441 (1992)

Olson, Constitutional Restraints on the Doctrine of Punitive Damages, 17 Pepp. L. Rev. 907 (1990)

Panzer, Punitive Damages and Evidence of the Defendant's Wealth, 10(11) Cal. Law. 67 (1990)

Comment, Punitive Damages and the Eighth Amendment: An Analytical Framework for Determining Excessiveness, 75 Cal. L. Rev. 1433 (1987)

Note, The California Tort of Bad Faith Breach, The Dissent in Seaman's v. Standard Oil, and the Role of Punitive Damages in Contract Doctrine, 60 S. Cal. L. Rev. 509 (1987)

Comment, Punitive Damages: The Burden of Proof Required by Procedural Due Process, 22 U.S.F. L. Rev. 99 (1987)

Comment, Formulating Standards for Awards of Punitive Damages in the Borderland of Contract and Tort, 74 Cal. L. Rev. 2033 (1986)

Comment, Punitive Damages and Nonprofit Corporations: To Make the Punishment Fit the Crime, 19 U.S.F. L. Rev. 377 (1985)

Note, Punitive Damages and Libel Law, 98 Harv. L. Rev. 847 (1985)

Nussbaum, Awarding Punitive Damages in Medical Malpractice Arbitration, 20 Cal. W.L. Rev. 312 (1984)

Note, Punitive Damages in California Under the Malice Standard: Defining Conscious Disregard, 57 S. Cal. L. Rev. 1065 (1984)

Borowsky and Nicolaisen, Punitive Damages in California: The Integrity of Jury Verdicts, 17 U.S.F. L. Rev. 147 (1983)

Love, Punishment and Deterrence: A Comparative Study of Tort Liability for Punitive Damages Under No-Fault Compensation Legislation, 16 U.C. Davis L. Rev. 231 (1983)

Ellis, Fairness and Efficiency in the Law of Punitive Damages, 56 S. Cal. L. Rev. 1 (1982)

Comment, Punitive Damages, the Common Question Class Action, and the Concept of Overkill, 13 Pac. L.J. 1273 (1982)

Comment, Economic Analysis of Punitive Damages, 56 S. Cal. L. Rev. 79 (1982)

Comment, Civil Punishment and the Public Good, 56 S. Cal. L. Rev. 103 (1982)

Comment, Punitive Damages and Enterprise Liability, 56 S. Cal. L. Rev. 123 (1982)

Comment, Deterrence and Punishment in the Common Law of Punitive Damages: A Comment, 56 S. Cal. L. Rev. 133 (1982)

Comment, Symposium Discussion, 56 S. Cal. L. Rev. 155 (1982)

Comment, Punitive Damages Under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, 33 Hastings L.J. 457 (1982)

Putz and Astiz, Punitive Damage Claims of Class Members Who Opt Out: Should They Survive? 16 U.S.F. L. Rev. 1 (1981)

Comment, Punitive Damages in Mass-Marketed Product Litigation, 14 Loy. L.A. L. Rev. 405 (1981)

Note, Pretrial Discovery of Net Worth in Punitive Damages Cases, 54 S. Cal. L. Rev. 1141 (1981)

Note, Taylor v. Superior Court: Punitive Damages for Nondeliberate Torts--The Drunk Driving Context, 68 Cal. L. Rev. 911 (1980)

Mallor and Roberts, Punitive Damages: Toward a Principled Approach, 31 Hastings L.J. 639 (1980)

Levine, Demonstrating and Preserving the Deterrent Effect of Punitive Damages in Insurance Bad Faith Actions, 13 U.S.F. L. Rev. 613 (1979)

Note, Punitive Damages and the Intoxicated Driver: An Approach to Taylor v. Superior Court, 31 Hastings L.J. 3997 (1979)

Comment, Punitive Damages in Admiralty for Bad Faith Refusal to Provide Maintenance and Cure: Robinson v. Pocahontas, Inc., 15 San Diego L. Rev. 309 (1978)

Comment, The Port of Oakland Decision: California Oil Spill Legislation Gets Watered Down, 7 Golden Gate L. Rev. 499 (1977)

Note, Recovery of Punitive Damages from Corporate Defendants for the Tortious Acts of Employees, 10 Lincoln L.

Rev. 207 (1977)

Comment, Punitive Damages in Products Liability Cases, 16 Santa Clara L. Rev. 895 (1976)

Note, Insurance for Punitive Damages: A Reevaluation, 28 Hastings L.J. 431 (1976)

Note, Punitive Damages--California Law Bars Recovery of Punitive Damages in Wrongful Death-Survival Type Actions, 15 Santa Clara Law. 507 (1975)

McClelland and Truett, Survival of Punitive Damages in Wrongful Death Cases, 8 U.S.F. L. Rev. 585 (1974)

Comment, Exemplary Damages in Medical Malpractice Actions: California's Requirement for Posting of a Cost Bond By Plaintiff, 4 Pacific L.J. 903 (1973)

[7] Tax Aspects

Moe, The Tax Effects of Tort Damages, 26(1) Prac. Law. 37 (1980)

Barnes, Taxation of Tort Recoveries, 48 L.A. B. 258 (1973)

Comment, Tax Treatment of Post-termination Personal Injury Settlements, 61 Cal. L. Rev. 1237 (1973)

Note, Personal Injury Damages and Inheritance and Gift Taxes-- Revenue and Taxation Code Section 13560 , 25 Hastings L.J. 329 (1973)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsDamagesCollateral Source RuleGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesCompensatory DamagesLost IncomeEarning CapacityTortsDamagesInterestGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesMitigationTortsDamagesPunitive DamagesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.104

§ 177.104 Text References

Personal Injury: Actions, Defenses, Damages, Vol. 9, Damages

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 6, Torts, § 1545 et seq. (10th ed. 2005)

Witkin, California Procedure, Vols. 5 and 6, Pleading, § 456, 457, 887, 888, 892, 893, 1113-1119, 1126-1148, Vol. 8, Attack on Judgment in Trial Court, § 18-20, 35-37 (4th ed. 1997)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsDamagesCompensatory DamagesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 177.105-177.119

[Reserved]

§§ 177.105[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.120

§ 177.120 State Statutes

[1] Generally

Damages must be proximately caused by breach. Civ. Code § 3300

Damages must be clearly ascertainable. Civ. Code § 3301

Method of estimating damages to property of seller or buyer. Civ. Code §§ 3353, 3354

Method of estimating value of written instrument. Civ. Code § 3356

[2] Attorney's Fees

Attorney's fees in contract actions. Civ. Code §§ 1717, 1717.5; Code Civ. Proc. § 1021

[3] Breach of Obligation to Pay Money

Damages for breach of obligation to pay money. Civ. Code § 3302

[4] Breach of Warranty of Agent's Authority

Damages for breach of warranty of agent's authority. Civ. Code § 3318

[5] Damages for Specific Actions Pertaining to Land

Liquidated damages to seller in contract for purchase and sale of real property on buyer's breach. Civ. Code § 1675 et seq.

Damages for breach of covenant of seisin, right to convey, warranty, or quiet enjoyment. Civ. Code § 3304

Damages for breach of covenant against encumbrances. Civ. Code § 3305

Damages for breach of agreement to convey estate in real property. Civ. Code § 3306

Damages for breach of agreement to execute and deliver quit-claim deed. Civ. Code § 3306a

Damages for breach of agreement to purchase estate in real property. Civ. Code § 3307

Agreement as to measure of damages for termination of lease, other than personal property lease governed by Com. Code §§ 10101 et seq. Civ. Code § 3308

Damages (trebled) for forged trust deed involving residential realty. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 749, 749.5

[6] Damages in Actions Involving Carriers

Damages for breach of carrier's obligation to accept passengers, freight, and messages. Civ. Code § 3315

Damages for breach of carrier's obligation to deliver freight. Civ. Code § 3316

Damages for carrier's delay in delivery of freight. Civ. Code § 3317

[7] Interest

Offer of payment or other performance stops accrual of interest on obligation. Civ. Code § 1504

Interest on amount certain or capable of being made certain. Civ. Code § 3287(a)

Interest in contract action on unliquidated claim. Civ. Code § 3287(b)

Stipulated interest on obligation after breach. Civ. Code §§ 3289, 3289.5

[8] Liquidated Damages

Charges for late payments on real property loan installments. Bus. & Prof. Code § 10242.5

Liquidated damages generally. Civ. Code § 1671

Liquidated damages provisions applicable under Division 2 of Commercial Code. Com. Code § 2718

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesCosts & Attorney FeesAttorney Expenses & FeesGeneral OverviewContracts

LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesInterestContracts LawRemediesLiquidated DamagesReal Property LawPurchase & SaleRemediesDamagesGeneral OverviewTransportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesDamages

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.121

§ 177.121 California Rules of Court

Inclusion of interest in judgment. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1802

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.122

§ 177.122 Decisions

[1] Breach of Contract as Tort

Breach of contract for professional career consultation is only that, not professional malpractice. Cobler v. Stanley, Barber, Southard, Brown & Associates (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 518, 532, 265 Cal. Rptr. 868

[2] Damages Not Recoverable

Action for breach of agreement to negotiate was properly dismissed when the only damages sought were lost profits, which could not be proven with reasonable certainty as required by Civ. Code § 3301. Vestar Development v. General Dynamics Corporation (9th Cir. 2001) 249 F.3d 958, 961-962

No cause of action for breach of contract is stated based on use of copyrighted work beyond scope of license agreement because any damages awarded to copyright holder on contract claim would duplicate those recoverable under copyright infringement claim. Frank Music Corp. v. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Inc. (9th Cir. 1989) 886 F.2d 1545, 1556

Under Civ. Code § 3294(a), punitive damages are not recoverable for breach of contract. Miller v. Fairchild Industries (9th Cir. 1989) 885 F.2d 498, 510 (wrongful termination)

Damages for lost profits not recoverable for breach of contract to negotiate agreement; plaintiff cannot recover for lost expectations because there is no way of knowing what ultimate terms of agreement, if any, would have been; defendant entitled to summary judgment when it showed that plaintiff could not establish reliance damages. Copeland v. Baskin Robbins U.S.A. (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 1251, 1260-1264, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 875

Damages for pain and suffering or medical expenses not ordinarily available for breach of commercial contract. Quigley v. Pet, Inc. (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 877, 887, 208 Cal. Rptr. 394

[3] Emotional Distress Damages

Damages for emotional distress were improper for negligent breach of contract to construct a house, when contractor's negligence directly caused only economic injury and property damage and breached no duty independent of the contract. Erlich v. Menezes (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 543, 548, 558-560, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 886, 981 P.2d 978

Unrelated person who contracts with crematorium for services regarding decedent is entitled to recover damages for emotional distress arising out of breach of contract. Saari v. Jongordon Corp. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 797, 802-804, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 82

Service contract for professional career consultation is not one for breach of which emotional distress damages may be awarded. Cobler v. Stanley, Barber, Southard, Brown & Associates (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 518, 531, 265 Cal. Rptr. 868

Damages for emotional distress were proper in action against insurance company for tortious breach of covenant of good faith and fair dealing. Pistorius v. Prudential Insurance Co. (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 541, 552, 176 Cal. Rptr. 660

Award of general damages to compensate plaintiff for insomnia and emotional distress caused by bank's breach of oral contract to obtain and maintain insurance on plaintiff's vehicles is improper. Sawyer v. Bank of America (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 135, 139, 145 Cal. Rptr. 623

Damages for emotional distress erroneously awarded for contractor's tortious breach of contract that did not cause any physical injuries but only psychological mental anguish. Fuentes v. Perez (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 163, 172, 136 Cal. Rptr. 275

[4] Exemplary Damages

In action for mortician's failure to preserve body of plaintiff's mother, exemplary damages are not recoverable because cause of action was based only on contract; however, exemplary damages might have been recoverable if cause of action had been pleaded based on fraud. Chelini v. Nieri (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 480, 487, 196 P.2d 915

Federal instrumentality immune from punitive damages in absence of express statutory authorization for punitive damages award. Woodland Production Credit Assn. v. Nicholas (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 123, 129, 130 n.13, 251 Cal. Rptr. 791 (federally chartered farm credit association; plaintiff prevailed on causes of action for breach of contract and negligent interference with prospective business advantage)

In action by insurance agency corporation against insurer based on commissions dispute, asserting breach of covenant of good faith and fair dealing and breach of contract, punitive damages award reversed because jury was inadequately instructed regarding elements of bad faith causes of action. Multiplex Ins. Agency, Inc. v. California Life Ins. Co. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 925, 937, 235 Cal. Rptr. 12

[5] Foreseeability

In action on contract to furnish water and install fire hydrant, until actual assumption of duty to protect against fire, damage by fire was not within contemplation of parties as possible consequence of breach and no damage may be held to have been caused by breach. Hunt Bros. Co. v. San Lorenzo etc. Co. (1906) 150 Cal. 51, 58-59, 87 P. 1093

Trial court need not question apparent concession of breaching party that he or she knew, because of his or her own education, training, information, circumstances of contracting, and nature of contract itself, that other party would suffer lost profits as result of breach. Brandon & Tibbs v. George Kevorkian Accountancy Corp. (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 442, 459, 277 Cal. Rptr. 40

Without any evidence that parties contemplated at time of contracting that plaintiff's performance would be financed through loans, plaintiff's obligation to pay interest on loans was not forseeable; thus, award of interest as part of damages was error. Mendoyoma, Inc. v. County of Mendocino (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 873, 880, 87 Cal. Rptr. 740

[6] Implied Contracts

Terms of unenforceable contract to which parties had agreed was evidence of reasonable value of services rendered under implied contract if agreed price either assigns dollar value to promised performance or provides formula by which ultimate sum is readily ascertainable. LuMetta v. U.S. Robotics, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 824 F.2d 768, 770 (diversity case applying California law); George v. Double-D Foods, Inc (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 36, 42, 201 Cal. Rptr. 870

Value of benefit conferred is evidence of reasonable value of services rendered under implied contract. LuMetta v. U.S. Robotics, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 824 F.2d 768, 770 (diversity case applying California law); Ferrier v. Commercial Steel Corp. (1956) 142 Cal. App. 2d 424, 426-427, 298 P.2d 555

[7] Interest

[a] When Request for Prejudgment Interest Must Be Made

Requests for prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3287 by successful plaintiff must be made by way of motion prior to entry of judgment, or request must be made in form of motion for new trial no later than time allowed for filing such a motion. North Oakland Medical Clinic (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 824, 829-831, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 743 (in circumstances in which damages were awarded but no interest was included in verdict and neither court nor jury had determined whether damages were liquidated or unliquidated, this rule was applied retroactively to plaintiffs who never sought prejudgment interest as part of damages and sought interest at last minute as part of order awarding costs)

[b] Discretionary Award on Unliquidated Damages

Discretionary award of prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3287(b) was proper because (1) over seven years passed until judgment was entered; (2) fact that length of time was not losing party's fault is irrelevant; (3) court was permitted to take cognizance of exceedingly higher market interest rates during that period; and (4) court was permitted to view losing party's offer of settlement as placing prejudgment interest at risk. A & M Produce Co. v. FMC Corp. (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 473, 495-497, 186 Cal. Rptr. 114

[8] On Sum Certain

[b] Generally

Parties' stipulation, which provided that calculation of net cash recovery and judgment remain open until resolution of litigation on related issues, to arbitrate one issue did not amount to waiver of interest under *Civ. Code § 3287(a)*on basic amount of arbitration award on that issue. FDIC v. Air Florida System, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 822 F.2d 833, 843

Invalid statute voluntarily enacted and promulgated by state did not provide defense (based on debtor's being prevented by law from paying underlying debt) against state's obligation to pay interest under Civ. Code § 3287(a) on back salary and pension payments awarded to state judicial employees. Olson v. Cory (1983) 35 Cal. 3d 390, 404, 197 Cal. Rptr. 843, 673 P.2d 720

In successful action for breach of fiduciary duty against plaintiff's former partners, when plaintiff's entitlement to damages for breach was established, amount of damages was calculable and requirement of *Civ. Code § 3287(a)*regarding certainty of damages was met, thus entitling plaintiff to prejudgment interest on sum awarded from time sum became due. Leff v. Gunter (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 508, 519-520, 189 Cal. Rptr. 377, 658 P.2d 740

Trial court erred in awarding interest from date action was brought because value of property on which extent of damages depended was not certain and could not be made certain by calculation, and parties did not stipulate to its value until 10 months after action was commenced. Caplan v. Schroeder (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 515, 521, 15 Cal. Rptr. 145, 364 P.2d 321

Civ. Code § 3287(a) is exception to general rule that interest cannot be recovered against state or municipality; damages are capable of being made certain within meaning of *Civ. Code § 3287(a)*when reviewing court orders county board to determine salaries in dispute. Santa Clara County Environmental Health Assn. v. County of Santa Clara (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 74, 84-85, 218 Cal. Rptr. 678

Damages in action for breach of lease agreement is not sum certain entitling plaintiff to award of prejudgment interest, because damages were in dispute and could not be computed with certainty by defendant. Polster, Inc. v. Swing (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 427, 434-436, 210 Cal. Rptr. 567

Court is unable to assign interest rate above legal rate of interest on implied loan agreement, even if sitting as court of equity. Armstrong v. Picquelle (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 122, 128-129, 203 Cal. Rptr. 552 (accounting on dissolution of partnership)

Award of prejudgment interest was error when defendant's liability was not ascertainable on information reasonably available to it at time claim was filed. Chesapeake Industries, Inc. v. Togova Enterprises, Inc. (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 901, 907, 197 Cal. Rptr. 348

In action for indemnity from liability, construction company and insurer were entitled to prejudgment interest from date they made payment in satisfaction of underlying personal injury judgment. E. L. White, Inc. v. City of Huntington Beach (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 366, 377, 187 Cal. Rptr. 879 , superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in Baur v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd., 176 Cal. App. 4th 1260, 1267, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 493

Defendant insurer not liable for interest because it was not clear whether failure to include in offer amount for additional living expenses or for cleanup was because amount of damages was disputed or because coverage was denied, when amounts involved in coverage aggregated only 15 percent of total amount offered by defendant, and when defendant made pretrial offer that was over one and three quarters times as much as plaintiff was awarded. Elliano v. Assurance Co. of America (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 170, 183, 119 Cal. Rptr. 653

Trial court properly concluded that defendants could not ascertain exact amount due although defendants had some records involved because liabilities of parties were in dispute and hinged on determination of number of complex factual and legal issues. Distefano v. Hall (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 380, 389, 69 Cal. Rptr. 691

Defendant who had been supplied by invoice or statement with data necessary to determine amount due was properly charged with interest for failure to pay plaintiff's claim. Maurice L. Bein, Inc. v. Housing Authority (1958) 157 Cal. App. 2d 670, 686, 321 P.2d 753

[b] Provided for by Contract

Award of interest provided for by contact was not duplicative of late charge penalty imposed in related administrative proceeding pursuant to Food & Agric. Code § 55881 because Food & Agric. Code § 55437 provides that penalty was cumulative. Bronco Wine Co. v. Frank A. Logoluso Farms (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 699, 713-715, 262 Cal. Rptr. 899

[9] Liquidated Damages

Credit card agreement encompasses convenience "services" in addition to extension of credit, and, thus, is consumer contract for retail purchase of services and is subject to Civ. Code § 1671(d), governing validity of liquidated damages provisions. Hitz v. First Interstate Bank (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 274, 287-288, 44 Cal. Rptr. 2d 890

Liquidated damages provision in burglar alarm system contract limiting damages payable by supplier in event of burglary during system malfunction to $250 upheld although jewelry store owner suffered $103,500 loss; causal connection between alarm malfunction and loss would be impossible to prove. Guthrie v. American Protection Industries (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 951, 953-955, 206 Cal. Rptr. 834 ; but see Helm v. K.O.G. Alarm Co. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 194, 201-203, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615 (fraud case, based on misrepresentation that alarm system would work if telephone to which it was connected was severed, criticizing Guthrie's (1) implication that cause required proof that system would have prevented burglary, and (2) failure to consider mitigation of loss likely to have been provided by operating alarm system)

Agreement by developer to deposit fees with city to participate in low-interest home financing program was not valid provision for liquidated damages under Civ. Code § 1671(b), absent expression of agreement to forfeit fees as liquidated damages for some breach of contract; provision for liquidated dameages normally including stipulation of preestimate of damages so that parties know with reasonable certainty extent of liability for breach. ABI, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 669, 684-685, 200 Cal. Rptr. 563

Liquidated damages clause in contract gives rise (under former Civ. Code § 1671 and Evidence Code) to rebuttable presumption that liquidated damages constitute actual loss, which imposes on party using presumption the burden of introducing evidence and proving foundational facts from which presumption will flow. Barbera v. Sokol (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 725, 732-733, 161 Cal. Rptr. 843

[10] Lost Profit Damages

Lost profits on unspecified potential future construction contracts did not qualify as general or special damages for breach of contract because they were neither within the parties' contemplation, nor actually foreseen or reasonably foreseeable to defendant at the time of contract formation. Lewis Jorge Construction Management, Inc. v. Pomona Unified School District (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 960, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 102 P.3d 257

Possibility of spontaneous rainfall destroying raisin crop as foreseeable for purpose of determining lost profits when such rains have always occurred at sporadic intervals. Sun Maid Raisin Growers v. Victor Packing Co. (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 787, 794, 194 Cal. Rptr. 612

In action by lessor of farm for damages for lessees' breach of contract to plant land and share crop, measure of damages was loss of profits that ordinarily and naturally in usual course of things would have been derived from defendant's performance of contract and rental value of land. Parkinson v. Langdon (1918) 36 Cal. App. 80, 87, 171 P. 710

[11] Measure of Damages

In action for damages for breach of limited partnership agreement to drill well, plaintiffs' damages not properly measured by cost of drilling well; proper measure is value of performance to promisee (or loss of anticipated profit from well); because profits were uncertain and venture speculative, denial of any relief was proper. Fisher v. Hampton (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 741, 752, 118 Cal. Rptr. 811

Without evidence that equipment owned by plaintiff and related personnel would or could have been used elsewhere or could have been rented if it had not been kept at job site in anticipa tion of delivery of item involved in breached contract, rental value of idled equipment and overhead for personnel was improper measure of damages. A.A. Baxter Corp. v. Colt Industries, Inc. (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 144, 159-160, 88 Cal. Rptr. 842

In action for damages for late delivery of truck scale being leased by subcontractor, hourly rate for delay stipulated in prime contract was not proper measure of damages; proper measure was either allowance for depreciation in value of equipment during period of delay, or return of interest on its value at reasonable rate together with payments made to idle personnel. A. A. Baxter Corp. v. Colt Industries, Inc. (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 144, 157-160, 88 Cal. Rptr. 842

In action for damages for breach of contract to manufacture soap, measure of damages was difference between plaintiff's actual expenditures in creating market for soap, including value of plaintiff's own services, and sum received from sales made of soap up to time market was destroyed by breach of contract when defendants knew that plaintiff intended to permanently establish market for soap of superior quality. Grosse v. Petersen (1916) 30 Cal. App. 482, 486, 158 P. 511

[12] Mitigation of Damages

Award of expenses incurred in reconditioning injured goods, which increased their value beyond expense of reconditioning, was proper because defendant has benefit of increased value. W.C. Cook & Co. v. White Truck, etc. Co. (1932) 124 Cal. App. 721, 727-728, 13 P.2d 549

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawRemediesForeseeable DamagesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesLiquidated DamagesTortsDamagesCompensatory DamagesPain & SufferingEmotional & Mental DistressGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesInterestGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesPunitive DamagesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.123

§ 177.123 Law Reviews

Note, The Uniform Foreign-Money Claims Act: No Solution to an Old Problem, 69 Tex. L. Rev. 1203 (1991)

Shropshire, Opportunistic Sports Franchise Relocations: Can Punitive Damages in Actions Based Upon Contract Strike a Balance? 22 Loy. L.A. L. Rev. 569 (1989)

Note, Contract Damages and Cross-Subsidization, 61 S. Cal. L. Rev. 1125 (1988)

Pettit, Private Advantage and Public Power: Reexamining the Expectation and Reliance Interests in Contract Damages, 38 Hastings L.J. 417 (1987)

Cooter and Eisenberg, Damages for Breach of Contract, 73 Cal. L. Rev. 1432 (1985)

Comment, Loss Sharing Among Contract Defendants: English Parts for the American Motorcycle, 12 Pac. L.J. 893 (1981)

Comment, Title 4.5: California Liquidated Damages, 16 San Diego L. Rev. 967 (1979)

Jackson, "Anticipatory Repudiation" and the Temporal Element of Contract Law: An Economic Inquiry Into Contract Damages in Cases of Prospective Nonperformance, 31 Stan. L. Rev. 69 (1978)

Tuohey, Negligent Infliction of Emotional Distress Arising From a Breach of Contract: Jarchow v. Transamerica Title Insurance Company, 8 Sw. U.L. Rev. 655 (1976)

Dunn, Recovery of Damages for Lost Profits in California, 9 U.S.F. L. Rev. 415 (1975)

Comment, Plaintiff's Measure of Recovery for Tortious Inducement of Breach of Contract--Profits or Losses? 19

Hastings L.J. 1119 (1968)

Note, Damages: Mental Suffering Arising From Breach of Contract, 49 Cal. L. Rev. 758 (1961)

Dresser, Procedural Control of Damages by Election of Remedies, 12 Hastings L.J. 171 (1960)

Note, Mitigation: Sources and Applications of Rule in California; Anticipatory Breach Cases, 12 Hastings L.J. 215 (1960)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawBreachAnticipatory RepudiationGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesElection of RemediesContracts LawRemediesForeseeable DamagesLost ProfitsContracts LawRemediesLiquidated DamagesTortsDamagesCompensatory DamagesPain & SufferingEmotional & Mental DistressGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.124

§ 177.124 Text References

California Breach of Contract Remedies, ch. 4, Recovery of Money Damages (Cal. C.E.B. 1980)

California Attorney's Damages Guide, ch. 1, Contract, §§ 1.2-1.36 (Cal. C.E.B. 1974)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, §§ 503-549 (10th ed. 2005)

Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 5, Pleading, §§ 887, 888, 896-898 (4th ed. 1997)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesCompensatory DamagesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 177.125-177.139

[Reserved]

§§ 177.125[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.140

§ 177.140 Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries--Pain and Suffering

[1] FORM Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries--Pain and Suffering

As a proximate result of the _____ [describe tortious conduct, e.g., negligence] of defendant[s, and each of them], plaintiff was hurt and injured in his/her health, strength, and activity, sustaining injury to his/her nervous system and person, all of which injuries have caused, and continue to cause, plaintiff great mental, physical, and nervous pain and suffering. [Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that such injuries will result in some permanent disability to him/her.] As a result of such injuries, plaintiff has suffered general damages according to proof.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use by a plaintiff in alleging compensatory damages for pain and suffering in a personal injury action. Damages which necessarily result from a tort are general damages and may be proved under a general allegation of damage [Stoltz v. Converse (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 909, 914, 172 P.2d 78] . General damages are recoverable for physical pain, fright, nervousness, grief, anxiety, worry, mortification, humiliation, indignity, embarrassment, apprehension, terror or ordeal, and mental suffering [Niles v. San Rafael (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 230, 244, 116 Cal. Rptr. 733] . For a discussion of damages pain and suffering, see § 177.45[1].

A plaintiff is not required to allege specifically each physical injury sustained or which may have resulted. It is sufficient if such injuries can be traced to the occurrence complained of and are such as might naturally result from the injury [Foster v. Hudson (1939) 33 Cal. App. 2d 705, 708, 92 P.2d 959] .

In an action for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

[3] Cross References

For discussion of damages for emotional distress, see Ch. 362, Mental Suffering and Emotional Distress

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.141

§ 177.141 Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries--Pain and Suffering From Injuries and From Medical Treatment

[1] FORM Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries--Pain and Suffering From Injuries and From Medical Treatment

Plaintiff was treated by doctors and nurses for the injuries sustained by him/her as hereinabove alleged, both during the time he/she was hospitalized and for a long period of months thereafter in his/her home. Throughout that time he/she suffered severe and excruciating pain both by reason of his/her injuries and by reason of the treatments thereof, [and hereafter he/she will suffer severe pain permanently because of his/her injuries and because of future treatment thereof] to his/her damage according to proof.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use by a plaintiff in a personal injury action in alleging pain and suffering both from injuries and from medical treatment received for the injuries.

In an action for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 177.140

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.142

§ 177.142 Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries--Future Damages [Civ. Code § 3283] for Pain and Suffering

[1] FORM Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injuries--Future Damages [Civ. Code § 3283] for Pain and Suffering

Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that he/she will continue to suffer extreme mental, physical, and nervous pain and suffering in the future as a result of the injuries alleged herein.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use by a plaintiff in an action for personal injuries in alleging damages for future pain and suffering. It should be used when plaintiff has separately alleged damages for past pain and suffering but he or she also wants to recover damages for any pain and suffering which might occur in the future. Damages may be awarded for detriment certain to result in the future [Civ. Code § 3283; Mella v. Hooper (1927) 200 Cal. 628, 631, 254 P. 256] . For a discussion of future damages, see § 177.13[4].

In an action for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 177.140

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.143

§ 177.143 Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injury--Medical Expenses

[1] FORM Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injury--Medical Expenses

[EITHER]

As a [further] proximate result of the _____ [describe tortious conduct, e.g., negligence] of defendants, plaintiff has been damaged in that he/she has been required to expend money and incur obligations for medical services, X rays, drugs, and sundries reasonably required in the treament and relief of the injuries herein alleged according to proof.

[OR]

As a [further] proximate result of the _____ [describe tortious conduct, e.g., negligence] of defendants, plaintiff has incurred, and will continue to incur, medical and related expenses.

[2] Use of Form

These allegations are for use by a plaintiff in alleging damages for medical expenses in a tort action. The first alternative alleges past medical expenses only. The second alternative alleges both past and future medical expenses.

In an action for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Damages that constitute the natural consequences of a tort but do not necessarily result from the commission of the tort are special damages and must be specially set forth in the complaint [Stoltz v. Converse (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 909, 914-915, 172 P.2d 78] . Medical expenses are special damages [see Miller v. San Diego Gas & Elec. Co. (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 555, 561, 28 Cal. Rptr. 126] .

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 177.140

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.144

§ 177.144 Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injury--General Damages for Lost Earning Capacity

[1] FORM Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injury--General Damages for Lost Earning Capacity

As a further proximate result of the acts of defendants, plaintiff's present and future earning capacity has been greatly impaired.

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use to allege general damages for lost earning capacity if the plaintiff's general ability to work has been diminished in any way as a result of the defendant's tortious conduct. It should be used in all cases in which any future disability is alleged, because lost earning capacity is not limited by actual employment at the time of injury [see, e.g., Flynn v. Grand Cent. Pub. Mkt. (1959) 176 Cal. App. 2d 243, 247-249, 1 Cal. Rptr. 237] . If plaintiff also has lost a specific amount of earnings from his or her employment or occupation, the allegation set forth in this form may be used in addition to that set forth in see § 177.146.

In an action for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

[3] General Damages for Lost Earning Capacity

Lost earning capacity is loss of the ability to work, as distinguished from lost earnings from actual employment [see McCormack v. City & County of San Francisco (1961) 193 Cal. App. 2d 96, 101, 14 Cal. Rptr. 79] . Loss of earning capacity is an element of general damages, which can be inferred from the nature of the injury [Connolly v. Pre-Mixed Concrete Co. (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 483, 489, 319 P.2d 343 ; Rodriguez v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 626, 656, 151 Cal. Rptr. 399] . General damages for lost earning capacity are measured from the date of injury and, thus, are allowed for the period between injury and trial, as well as for lost future capacity [see Tornell v. Munson (1947) 80 Cal. App. 2d 123, 125, 181 P.2d 112] . For further discussion, see § 177.45[4].

[4] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 177.140 and 177.145

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.145

§ 177.145 Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injury--Lost Past and Future Earnings

[1] FORM Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Personal Injury--Lost Past and Future Earnings

[EITHER]

As a further proximate result of the acts of defendants, plaintiff was prevented from attending to his/her usual occupation as a _____ [state occupation] for a period of _____ [specify, e.g., 2 months] and thereby lost earnings to his/her damage according to proof.

[OR]

As a further proximate result of the acts of defendants, plaintiff was prevented from attending to his/her usual occupation as a _____ [state occupation] for a period of _____ [specify, e.g., 2 months] as of the date of this complaint and continuing for an as yet undetermined period.

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use to allege actual lost earnings from employment. The first alternative alleges lost past earnings only. The second alternative alleges both past and future lost earnings.

In an action for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Actual lost earnings are distinct from lost earning capacity [McCormack v. City & County of San Francisco (1961) 193 Cal. App. 2d 96, 101, 14 Cal. Rptr. 79 ; see § 177.144]. Therefore, both this form and § 177.144 may be used together--for example, if the plaintiff had some actual lost earnings, but was not working full-time at the time of injury. For further discussion § 177.45[4].

[3] Characterization of Damages for Lost Actual Earnings

Numerous California cases characterize damages for lost actual earnings as special damages, which must be specifically pleaded to be recovered [see, e.g., Handelman v. Victor Equip. Co. (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 902, 906, 99 Cal. Rptr. 90] . Nevertheless, a few courts have stated that loss of earnings is an item of general damages [see, e.g., Gersick v. Shilling (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 641, 649, 218 P.2d 583] . For further discussion, see § 177.45[5].

[4] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 177.140 and 177.144

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.146

§ 177.146 Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Damage to Property--Reasonable Cost of Repairs

[1] FORM Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Damage to Property--Reasonable Cost of Repairs

As a [further] proximate result of the _____ [specify tortious conduct, e.g., negligence] of defendants, plaintiff's _____ [specify property, e.g., automobile] was damaged to such an extent that repairs were necessary [in the sum of $_____, which is the reasonable value of the repairs necessitated by the damage].

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use by a plaintiff in an action for personal injury and property damage or in an action for property damage in which plaintiff seeks to recover the reasonable cost of repairing the property damaged. This form may be used for injuries to either real and personal property, or both.

If the property injured can be entirely repaired at less expense than the diminution in value because of the injury, the measure of damages is the reasonable cost of repairs. Conversely, if the diminution in value is less than the cost of repairs, the measure of damages is the diminution in value. In both cases, the burden is on the defendant to show that the other measure of damages is less than the one under which the plaintiff is claiming [Mozzetti v. City of Brisbane (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 565, 576, 136 Cal. Rptr. 751] . For further discussion, see § 177.47.

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 177.140

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.147

§ 177.147 Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Damage to Property--Depreciation in Market Value

[1] FORM Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Damage to Property--Depreciation in Market Value

As a [further] proximate result of the _____ [specify tortious conduct, e.g., negligence] of defendants, plaintiff's _____ [specify property, e.g., automobile] was damaged and depreciated in value. [Immediately before the injury, it had a reasonable market value of $_____ and immediately after the injury, it had a reasonable market value of only $_____, to plaintiff's damage in the sum of $_____.]

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use by a plaintiff in action for personal injury and property damage or an action for property damage in which plaintiff seeks to recover the depreciation in market value of the property injured. This form may be used for injuries to either real and personal property, or both. For further discussion, see § 177.47.

[3] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 177.140 and 177.146

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.148

§ 177.148 Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Damage to Property--Reasonable Market Value of Destroyed Personal Property

[1] FORM Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Damage to Property--Reasonable Market Value of Destroyed Personal Property

As a [further] proximate result of the _____ [specify tortious conduct, e.g., negligence] of defendant's, plaintiff's _____ [specify personal property, e.g., automobile] was totally destroyed. [On _____ [date], this _____ (specify personal property, e.g., automobile) had a fair and reasonable market value of $_____; plaintiff was therefore damaged in the sum of $_____.]

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use by a plaintiff in an action for personal injury and property damage or in an action for property damage in which some personal property of plaintiff has been totally destroyed. The measure of damages for the destruction of personal property is the reasonable market value of the property at the time of destruction [Lane v. Spurgeon (1950) 100 Cal. App. 2d 460, 463, 223 P.2d 889] . For further discussion, see § 177.47[3].

[3] Cross References

See §§ 177.140 and 177.147

99 of 157 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.149

§ 177.149 Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Damage to Property--Destruction of Property With Special Value to Plaintiff--Item With Market Value [Civ. Code § 3355]

[1] FORM Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Damage to Property--Destruction of Property With Special Value to Plaintiff--Item With Market Value [Civ. Code § 3355]

As a [further] proximate result of _____ [specify tortious conduct, e.g., negligence] of defendants, the following property belonging to plaintiff was destroyed: _____ [specify, e.g., one registered Hereford cow]. This property had a market value [of $_____]. It had a special value to plaintiff in that _____ [set forth reason for special valuation]. _____ [Defendant had notice of this special value before he/she destroyed the property or Defendant's destruction of this property was willful]. [The destruction of the above-listed item has damaged plaintiff in the sum of $_____.]

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use by a plaintiff in an action for personal injury and property damage or in an action for property damage in which the property damaged had a market value and a special value to the plaintiff.

If property has a peculiar value to the person recovering damages for its destruction, that value is the amount the plaintiff can recover if the defendant had notice of its peculiar value before incurring the liability for damages [see Civ. Code § 3355].

In order to recover damages for the peculiar value of property under Civ. Code § 3355, the property must have some market value [Willard v. Valley Gas & Fuel Co. (1915) 171 Cal. 9, 14-15, 151 P. 286] .

[3] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 177.140 and 177.148

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.150

§ 177.150 Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Damage to Property--Destruction of Property With Special Value to Plaintiff--Item With No Market Value

[1] FORM Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Damage to Property--Destruction of Property With Special Value to Plaintiff--Item With No Market Value

As a [further] proximate result of _____ [specify tortious conduct, e.g., negligence] of defendants the following property of plaintiff's was destroyed: _____ [describe property, e.g., scrapbooks of newspaper clippings kept by plaintiff for 20 years]. Although this property had no market value, it had a special value to plaintiff in that _____ [set forth reason for special valuation] [, and its destruction resulted in plaintiff's damage in the sum of $_____].

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use by a plaintiff in an action for personal injury and property damage or in an action for property damage in which the property had a special value to plaintiff but no market value. If the property has no market value, the rule to be applied in measuring damages is that found in Civ. Code § 3333, which fixes the damages as the amount that compensates the owner for all detriment proximately caused by its destruction, whether it could have been anticipated or not [Willard v. Valley Gas & Fuel Co. (1915) 171 Cal. 9, 14-15, 151 P. 286] . Because the plaintiff, in this situation, does not need to plead notice by defendant of the special value to plaintiff, the pleading requirements are less stringent than in the case of injury to property with special value to plaintiff that also has a market value [see Civ. Code § 3355; see § 177.149].

[3] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 177.140 and 177.148

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.151

§ 177.151 Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Damage to Property--Lost Profits

[1] FORM Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Damage to Property--Lost Profits

As a further proximate result of the _____ [specify tortious conduct, e.g., negligence] of defendants and the _____ [injury to or destruction of] plaintiff's _____ [real or personal or real and personal] property as heretofore alleged, plaintiff was unable to conduct his/her/its business known as _____ [name of business] for a period of _____ days while the property was being _____ [repaired or replaced], and therefore, plaintiff lost business profits [in the sum of $_____].

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use as an allegation of lost business profits resulting from injury to or destruction of plaintiff's property. It should be used with an allegation of injury to or destruction of real or personal property [see §§ 177.146 -177.149.5]. This form may not be used together with an allegation of damages for loss of use of property (see § 177.152), as the two measures are mutually exclusive [Tremeroli v. Austin Trailer Equip. Co. (1951) 102 Cal. App. 2d 464, 227 P.2d 923] . For further discussion, see § 177.47[9].

[3] Cross References

See §§ 177.140 and 177.146

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.152

§ 177.152 Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Damage to Property--Loss of Use

[1] FORM Allegation of Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Damage to Property--Loss of Use

As a [further] proximate result of the _____ [specify tortious conduct, e.g., negligence] of defendants, plaintiff lost the use of plaintiff's _____ [specify property, e.g., automobile] for a period of _____ days while it was being _____ [repaired or replaced][, to plaintiff's damage in the sum of $_____].

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use by a plaintiff in an action for personal injury and property damage, or in an action for property damage only, in alleging damages for the loss of use of the property. For discussion, see § 177.47[8].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.153

§ 177.153 Judicial Council Trial Court Pleading Form [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.45(a)]--Exemplary Damages [Civ. Code § 3294] Attachment to Complaint or Cross Complaint [Cal. Judicial Council Form PLD-PI-001(6)]

[1] FORM Judicial Council Trial Court Pleading Form [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.45(a)]--Exemplary Damages [Civ. Code § 3294] Attachment to Complaint or Cross Complaint [Cal. Judicial Council Form PLD-PI-001(6)]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form illustrates the Judicial Council approved attachment for use in alleging exemplary damages [see Civ. Code § 3294; Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12; Cal. Judicial Council Form PLD-PI-001(6)]. This form of attachment may be attached to any approved form of complaint or cross complaint for which exemplary damages are appropriate [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.45(b)].

A complete set of Judicial Council trial court pleading forms is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge. For general information relating to the use of Judicial Council complaint forms, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints .

[3] Judicial Council Trial Court Forms

Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12 requires the Judicial Council to develop and approve official forms for use in California trial courts for any complaint, cross complaint, or answer in any action based on personal injury, property damage, wrongful death, unlawful detainer, breach of contract, or fraud. Use of the forms is optional [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12].

[4] Filling Out Exemplary Damages Attachment Form

[a] Attachment and Page Designation

Although the exemplary damages attachment form might be used in conjunction with other approved forms, the sample form presented here presumes its use with either the approved complaint or cross complaint form for a personal injury or property damage action. For samples of completed complaint and cross complaint forms for personal injury or property damage, and for comments related to filling out those forms, see Ch. 380, Negligence .

Counsel must check the box indicating the pleading to which the attachment refers. Counsel must also indicate the page number of the exemplary damages attachment as one of the pages of the complaint or cross complaint. The approved complaint and cross complaint forms for personal injury and property damage consist of three standard pages each. In addition, at least one cause of action form must be attached to the complaint form, and one or more cause of action forms may be attached to the cross complaint form. Thus, if the exemplary damages form is attached to a complaint, as in the example presented here, and if one cause of action attachment has been attached to the complaint, the exemplary damages attachment would be page number 5.

[b] Malice, Fraud, or Oppression (Paragraph EX-1)

In Paragraph EX-1, the name or names of defendant or defendants from whom exemplary damages are being sought must be indicated. Counsel must check at least one of the three boxes in Paragraph EX-1, since Civ. Code § 3294(a) requires that to be liable for punitive damages a defendant must have been guilty of oppression, fraud, or malice. Statutory definitions of oppression, fraud, and malice are set forth in Civ. Code § 3294(c) [see § 177.51[6]].

[c] Facts Supporting Claim (Paragraph EX-2)

The sample form presented contains allegations of defendant's malice [Civ. Code § 3294(c)(1)]. If alleging fraud and oppression instead of, or in addition to malice, counsel should modify the allegations accordingly [see Civ. Code § 3294(c)(2), (3); see also §§ 177.51[7], 177.154, 177.155]. For allegations of punitive damages in an action involving an intentional tort, see § 177.154. For allegations of punitive damages in an action involving a nondeliberate injury, see § 177.155.

If, in alleging facts, counsel requires more space than that provided on the form, he or she should prepare an additional attachment, labeled "EX-2. Attachment," and should cross refer to the attachment in the space provided for Paragraph EX-2. In preparing any attachment that is not an official approved form, counsel should follow the format requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule Title 2, Div. 2, Ch. 1, relating to the size of paper, pagination, spacing and so forth [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.45(c)]. For purposes of determining the amount of space required to allege facts, counsel should note that instructions on the form do not require that typed information on the form be double-spaced.

For additional discussion relating to pleading punitive damages, see § 177.154.

[d] Amount of Damages (Paragraph EX-3)

In Paragraph EX-3, box a has been checked to indicate that the action is one brought for personal injury or wrongful death, and therefore the amount of exemplary damages is not stated [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)]. Box b should be checked for other situations. In actions in which the initial trial has not commenced prior to January 1, 1988, no claim for punitive damages may state an amount or amounts [Civ. Code § 3295(e), (f); see Code Civ. Proc. § 581(a)(6) (when trial is deemed to commence for purposes of dismissal)].

For discussion relating to determining the amount of punitive damages to be awarded, see § 177.51[13] -[15].

[5] Cross References

For general comments relating to filling out the complaint and cross complaint forms to which this form would be attached, see Ch. 380, Negligence

For comments relating to filling out the exemplary damages attachment to a complaint in a products liability action, see Ch. 460, Products Liability

For a related form, see § 177.154

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.154

§ 177.154 Allegation of Punitive Damages [Civ. Code § 3294] in Action Involving Intentional Tort

[1] FORM Allegation of Punitive Damages [Civ. Code § 3294] in Action Involving Intentional Tort

The aforementioned conduct of defendant[s, and each of them] was willful and was intended to cause injury to the plaintiff. Plaintiff is therefore entitled to an award of exemplary or punitive damages.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use by a plaintiff in alleging punitive damages in an action for personal injuries resulting from an intentional tort. It alleges the ultimate fact of malice on the part of defendant, in that the defendant acted with the intent to cause injury to the plaintiff [see Civ. Code § 3294(c)(1); see also §§ 177.51[6], [7][c], [8]]. The amount of punitive damages is not stated, pursuant to Civ. Code § 3295(e) [see § 177.51[8]].

For discussion and forms relating to pleading punitive damages in an intentional tort action for fraud, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit .

[3] Pleading Basis for Award of Punitive Damages

To support an award of punitive damages, a complaint must plead the ultimate facts of a defendant's oppression, fraud, or malice [see Civ. Code § 3294(c) (defining oppression, fraud, and malice); see also § 177.51[6]]. The basis for the award cannot be pleaded in conclusory terms [Smith v. Superior Court (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1033, 1041-1042 ; Cyrus v. Haveson (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 306, 316-317, 135 Cal. Rptr. 246] . The facts and circumstances that set out the basis of the award must be set out clearly, concisely, and with particularity [Lehto v. Underground Constr. Co. (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 933, 944, 138 Cal. Rptr. 419] . Generally, however, if malice, oppression, or fraud is the basis of the award of punitive damages and the plaintiff alleges an intentional wrong, a prayer for exemplary damages may be supported by pleading that the wrong was committed willfully or with a design to injure [see G.D. Searle & Co. v. Superior Court (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 22, 29, 122 Cal. Rptr. 218] .

[4] Prayer for Punitive Damages

If the body of a complaint sets forth facts supporting an award of punitive damages, the failure expressly to mention punitive damages in the prayer of the complaint does not preclude an award of punitive damages in a contested trial [Godfrey v. Steinpress (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 154, 183, 180 Cal. Rptr. 95 ; Weiss v. Blumencranc (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 536, 544, 131 Cal. Rptr. 298 ; Forte v. Nolfi (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 656, 687, 102 Cal. Rptr. 455] . However, if defendant defaults, a prayer for general relief will not support an award of punitive damages [Gudarov v. Hadjieff (1952)38 Cal. 2d 412, 416-417, 240 P.2d 621] . Further, due process requires some form of notice of the amount of punitive damages sought must be given before punitive damages can be recovered from a defaulting defendant. A general allegation in the complaint of entitlement to punitive damages is insufficient [Wiley v. Rhodes (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1470, 1472-1474, 273 Cal. Rptr. 279] . For a form that may be used to give notice of the amount of punitive damages sought, see § 177.167.

[5] Cross References

For discussion of the requirement of a special verdict in all cases in which the issue of punitive damages is presented to a jury, see Ch. 326A, Jury Verdicts

For related forms, see §§ 177.140 and 177.155

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.155

§ 177.155 Allegation of Punitive Damages [Civ. Code § 3294] in Action Involving Nondeliberate Injury

[1] FORM Allegation of Punitive Damages [Civ. Code § 3294] in Action Involving Nondeliberate Injury

[EITHER]

At all times herein mentioned, defendant knew that _____ [allege knowledge by defendant of danger to plaintiff, e.g., the pipes carrying acid were in poor condition and the situation was unreasonably dangerous to personnel] and that _____ [allege additional knowledge by defendant of likelihood of danger occurring which would result in injury, e.g., it was likely that the pipe containing the acid would rupture resulting in a serious injury to personnel]. Notwithstanding this knowledge, defendant, in willful and conscious disregard of the safety of such persons and of plaintiff herein, _____ [specify action or omission, e.g., failed and refused to fix the pipes].

[OR]

At all times herein mentioned, defendant knew that _____ [specify knowledge by defendant of plaintiff's rights, e.g., plaintiff had a policy with the defendant insurance company pursuant to which defendant was subject to the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing]. Notwithstanding this knowledge, defendant subjected plaintiff to cruel and unjust hardship in conscious disregard of plaintiff's rights in that _____ [specify facts showing oppressive or cruel and unjust treatment by defendant, e.g., defendant breached its implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing by wrongfully refusing to settle within the insured's policy limit and, after a verdict had been rendered against plaintiff, defendant refused to accept any responsibility for the amount in excess of the policy limits and, contrary to advice of its own counsel, rejected an offer to settle the verdict even though it was aware that its plaintiff's assets would be unable to satisfy the excess verdict, thereby forcing him/her into bankruptcy].

[OR]

At all times herein mentioned, defendant knew _____ [specify defendant's knowledge of danger to plaintiff, e.g., that a man had raped several tenants of the apartment complex and that conditions indicated a likelihood that he would repeat his attacks]. Notwithstanding this knowledge, defendant, in willful and conscious disregard of plaintiff's safety, _____ [specify facts showing that defendant intentionally misled plaintiff in order to advance defendant's interest, e.g., assured plaintiff that the premises were safe and were patrolled at all times in order to advance his/her pecuniary interest in renting the apartment].

[2] Use of Form

These allegations are for use by a plaintiff in an action for damages involving a nondeliberate injury. The first alternative, for use when defendant was guilty of malice, will generally be used in personal injury actions [see Civ. Code § 3294(c)(1); see also § 177.51[7][c]]. The second alternative, for use when defendant was guilty of oppression, may be used in cases involving tortious breach of insurance contracts or in other situations in which one party has superior bargaining power [see Civ. Co de § 3294(c)(2)]. The third alternative is for use when defendant was guilty of fraud. [see Civ. Code § 3294(c)(3); see also Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit]. When all three bases for punitive damages--malice, fraud, and oppression--are present, the allegations should be used together since the presence of all three bases of punitive damages magnifies the harm done by defendant and consequently the award of punitive damages also may be increased.

[3] Pleading Punitive Damages for Nondeliberate Conduct

[a] In General

Failure to plead the statutory terms, such as malice, oppression, or fraud, in describing the defendant's conduct does not defeat a claim for punitive damages when the complaint alleges sufficient facts to apprise defendants of the basis on which relief is sought [Blegen v. Superior Court (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 959, 963, 178 Cal. Rptr. 470] .

Punitive damages may be awarded only on proof "by clear and convincing evidence" that the defendant is guilty of malice, oppression, or fraud [Civ. Code § 3294(a); see § 177.51[7]].

[b] Nondeliberate Conduct as "Malice"

Cases involving punitive damages based on nondeliberate conduct have typically relied on the standard that punitive damages are proper to punish and deter conduct that, while nondeliberate, is carried on with a conscious disregard of the rights or safety of others [see, e.g., G.D. Searle & Co. v. Superior Court (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 22, 32, 122 Cal. Rptr. 218] . This standard has essentially been codified under the statutory definition of malice [see Civ. Code § 3294(c)(1); see also § 177.51[7][c]], which is set out as the first alternative in this form.

The statutory definition of malice was amended in 1987 to define nonintentional malice as follows: despicable conduct carried on with a willful and conscious disregard of the rights or safety of others [Civ. Code § 3294(c)(1); see also § 177.51[6][b]]. This definition applies to actions in which the trial is commenced on or after January 1, 1988 [Civ. Code § 3294(e); see § 177.51[6][a]]. Because this amended definition appears to impose a somewhat more stringent standard in establishing nonintentional malice, cases relying on the prior standard should be used with caution, and are discussed below as persuasive, rather than controlling, authority [see also § 177.51[6][c]].

Under prior case law, when nondeliberate conduct is charged, allegations that the defendant's conduct was wrongful, willful, wanton, reckless, or unlawful do not support a claim for exemplary damages since such allegations do not charge malice, oppression, or fraud. In pleading the grounds for exemplary damages when a nondeliberate tort is involved, an allegation that the defendant acted in conscious disregard of the safety of others properly describes the animus malus which may justify an exemplary damage award [Cyrus v. Haveson (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 306, 316-317, 135 Cal. Rptr. 246 (decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294); G.D. Searle & Co. v. Superior Court (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 22, 32, 122 Cal. Rptr. 218 (decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294, and holding that award of punitive damages in wrongful eviction action was improper when plaintiff pleaded that defendant acted maliciously and in wanton disregard of plaintiff's rights but failed to allege that defendant intentionally disregarded plaintiff's right to possession or was aware that plaintiff had not received notice to quit premises)]. A conscious disregard of the safety of others means that the defendant has acted with conscious disregard of the probability that his or her conduct will result in injury to others. A conscious disregard of possible results is not a sufficiently accurate statement of the rule [Grimshaw v. Ford Motor Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 757, 809, 816-817, 174 Cal. Rptr. 348 (decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294)].

[c] Nondeliberate Conduct as "Oppression" or "Fraud"

The statement in G.D. Searle & Co. v. Superior Court [G.D. Searle & Co. v. Superior Court (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 22, 30, 122 Cal. Rptr. 218 (decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294)], that a plaintiff must prove that a defendant acted with conscious disregard of the plaintiff's safety, has been considered subse quently by the courts as the basis for an award of punitive damages on grounds other than malice, even though Searle addressed itself only to the issue of malice [see O' Hara v. Western Seven Trees Corp. (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 798, 806, 142 Cal. Rptr. 487 (decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294; relying on Searle even though plaintiff sought punitive damages based on misrepresentations as to safety of apartment complex); Cyrus v. Haveson (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 306, 316-317, 135 Cal. Rptr. 246 (decided prior to 1987 amendment of Civ. Code § 3294)]. Thus, this form includes alternative allegations based on "oppression" and "fraud" as well as nonintentional "malice."

[4] Action Against Health Care Provider

In an action against a health care provider, no complaint or other pleading may include a claim for punitive damages absent a court order permitting the claim to be filed as part of an amended pleading. The order may be granted on motion by the plaintiff when the supporting and opposing affidavits or declarations establish a substantial probability that the plaintiff will prevail on the claim. This motion must be filed within two years after the filing of the complaint or initial pleading or not less than nine months before the date the matter is first set for trial, whichever is earlier [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13(b) (definition of health care provider)]. For further discussion and forms for obtaining an order under Code Civ. Proc. § 425.13, see Ch. 415, Physicians: Medical Malpractice .

[5] Action Against Religious Corporation

In an action against a religious corporation or religious corporation sole, no complaint or other pleading may include a claim for punitive damages absent a court order permitting the claim to be filed as part of an amended pleading. The order may be granted on motion by the plaintiff when the supporting and opposing affidavits or declarations establish evidence that substantiates that the plaintiff will prevail on the claim [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.14]. For further discussion and forms for obtaining an order under Code Civ. Proc. § 425.14, see Ch. 110, Churches and Religious Organizations .

[6] Cross References

For an allegation of exemplary damages for use in a products liability action, see Ch. 460, Products Liability

For related forms, see §§ 177.140 and 177.154

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.156

§ 177.156 Allegation of Treble Damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 1029.8(a)]--Injury or Damage Caused by Unlicensed Person Providing Goods or Rendering Services for Which License Is Required

[1] FORM Allegation of Treble Damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 1029.8(a)]--Injury or Damage Caused by Unlicensed Person Providing Goods or Rendering Services for Which License Is Required

At all times herein mentioned, defendant did not have the license required by _____ [specify statute requiring license, e.g., Section 4110 of the Business and Professions Code] to _____ [provide _____ (specify goods provided, e.g., prescription drugs) or perform _____ (specify services performed, e.g., legal services)]. Plaintiff was _____ [injured or damaged] as a result of defendant's _____ [provision of goods or performance of services] in that _____ [describe injury or damage, e.g., plaintiff became ill as a result of taking the prescription drug _____ [name of drug] prepared by defendant].

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use by the plaintiff in a tort action when the plaintiff seeks treble damages. The ground asserted for the treble damages award is that the defendant was an unlicensed person who caused injury or damage as a result of providing goods or performing services for which a license is required by specified statutes [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1029.8(a)]. For detailed discussion of situations in which treble damages are available under Code Civ. Proc. § 1029.8(a), see Ch. 471B, Licensing by Public Agencies, § 471B.71[4].

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 177.140

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.157

§ 177.157 Prayer [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)] for General and Special Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333], Interest [Civ. Code § 3291], and for Punitive Damages [Civ. Code § 3294]--By Plaintiff in Tort Action for Personal Injuries and Property Damage

[1] FORM Prayer [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)] for General and Special Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333], Interest [Civ. Code § 3291], and for Punitive Damages [Civ. Code § 3294]--By Plaintiff in Tort Action for Personal Injuries and Property Damage

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant[s, and each of them,] as follows:

1. For general damages according to proof;

2. _____ [In this and as many subsequent paragraphs as needed, set forth special damages such as medical expenses or loss of profits];

3. _____ [In this and as many subsequent paragraphs as needed, set forth damages to property, e.g., to plaintiff's automobile];

4. For interest as allowed by law;

5. For punitive damages;

6. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

7. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[2] Use of Form

This prayer is for use by a plaintiff in a tort action when the plaintiff seeks general and special compensatory damages and punitive damages for personal injury and property damage. This prayer may not state a specific amount of general or special damages sought in connection with a cause of action for personal injury or wrongful death, although it must include the amount of damages sought in connection with other causes of action, such as for injury to property [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)]. The language in this prayer likewise reflects the prohibition against stating an amount of any claim for punitive damages, regardless of the cause of action or case [Civ. Code § 3295(e)].

[3] Cross References

For alternative forms for prayers, see Ch. 420, Prayers

For related forms, see §§ 177.140 and 177.155

[4] State Statutes

[5] Decisions

[6] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, vols. 5 and 6, Pleading, §§ 456, 457, 892, 893 (4th ed. 1997)

Witkin, Summary of California Procedure, vol. 6, Torts, §§ 1718-1719, 1727-1730 (10th ed. 2005)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.158

§ 177.158 Proceedings for Order Permitting Pretrial Discovery of Defendant's Profits and/or Financial Condition [Civ. Code § 3295(c)]--Notice of Motion--General Form

[1] FORM Proceedings for Order Permitting Pretrial Discovery of Defendant's Profits and/or Financial Condition [Civ. Code § 3295(c)]--Notice of Motion--General Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
_____[name],	)	NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION FOR OR-Plaintiff,	)	DER PERMITTING DISCOVERY OF DEFEND-
vs.	)	ANT'S PROFITS AND FINANCIAL CONDITION
_____[name],	)	[AND REQUEST FOR HEARING]
Defendant	)	Date: _____
	)	Time: _____
	)	Location: _____
	)	Judge: _____
		Date Action Filed: _____
		Trial Date: _____

_____

To the parties herein and to their attorneys of record:

NOTICE IS GIVEN that plaintiff hereby moves the court for an order authorizing discovery into _____ [defendant _____'s (name) financial condition or the profits which defendant _____ (name) has gained by the wrongful course of conduct or both]. This motion will be, and hereby is, made on the ground that there is a substantial probability that plaintiff will prevail on his/her punitive damages claim.

[Plaintiff further requests that the court set this motion for hearing, because _____ (specify facts showing necessity for hearing, e.g., the facts are complex, and thus better suited to oral presentation).]

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, on the declaration(s) of _____ [name] and the memorandum of points and authorities served and filed herewith, on the papers and records on file herein, and, if there is a hearing on this motion, on such evidence as may be presented at the hearing.
Dated: _____.

_____[firm name, if any]
By: _____[signature]
_____[typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____[name]

CAUTION:

A memorandum of points and authorities must be served and filed with this notice of motion [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005, 1010; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a)]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[2] Use of Form

This form of notice of motion is for use by a plaintiff who has claimed punitive damages in an action, and who wishes to conduct pretrial discovery into defendant's financial condition or profits gained by means of defendant's wrongful conduct. If plaintiff desires a hearing, the optional sentence requesting a hearing should be included, since Civ. Code § 3295(c) provides for a hearing if the court deems it necessary.

Once plaintiff has obtained an order pursuant to this motion, defendant may then move for a protective order to limit the discovery [see, e.g. Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420; see also Ch. 190, Depositions and Discovery].

This and the following forms may be modified for use by a cross complainant, or someone other than the plaintiff, if that party seeks punitive damages.

[3] Supporting Declarations and Affidavits

This motion should be supported by affidavits and declarations [Civ. Code § 3295(c)]. It is advisable that the supporting affidavits and declarations be as detailed as those which are used to support a motion for summary judgment. They should set forth the evidentiary facts which plaintiff can use to support his or her claim for punitive damages, including any statements of witnesses which are available in the form of deposition transcripts, answers to interrogatories, responses to requests for admissions, and the like. For an example, see § 177.159.

[4] Hearing

A hearing may be required if the court deems it necessary [Civ. Code § 3295(c)].

[5] Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to protective orders, see Ch. 190, Depositions and Discovery

For memoranda of points and authorities relating to protective orders, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 80, Discovery (Matthew Bender)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.159

§ 177.159 Proceedings for Order Permitting Pretrial Discovery of Defendant's Profits and/or Financial Condition [Civ. Code § 3295(c)]--Supporting Declaration

[1] FORM Proceedings for Order Permitting Pretrial Discovery of Defendant's Profits and/or Financial Condition [Civ. Code § 3295(c)]--Supporting Declaration

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____[name],	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff,	)	DECLARATION OF _____
vs.	)	[name] IN SUPPORT OF MOTION FOR ORDER
_____[name],	)	PERMITTING DISCOVERY OF DEFENDANT'S
Defendant.	)	PROFITS AND/OR FINANCIAL CONDITION
	)	Date: _____
	)	Time: _____
	)	Location: _____
	)	Judge: _____
		Date Action Filed: _____
		Trial Date: _____

_____

I _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for plaintiff, _____ (name)].

2. This is an action _____ [specify the subject matter and issues of the action, including the claim for punitive damages, specifically referring to pleadings or other documents on file, and summarizing or attaching portions of those pleading or documents as exhibits, where appropriate].

3. _____ [Set forth evidentiary sources from which plaintiff will claim that he/she has a substantial probability of prevailing on the punitive damages claim, e.g., On _____ [date], plaintiff received answers to his/her first set of interrogatories to defendant _____ (name), and on _____ [date], plaintiff received responses to his/her second set of requests for admissions to defendant _____ (name). Answers to interrogatories 70-75 of that first set (attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference), and responses to requests for admissions 12-27 of that second set (attached hereto as Exhibit B and made a part hereof) show that there is a substantial probability that plaintiff will prevail on his/her punitive damages claim].

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____[typed name]
_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

This declaration is for use in support of a motion to permit pretrial discovery of defendant's financial condition. This declaration should be accompanied by others which are given by plaintiff and potential witnesses, if any, for the purpose of setting forth facts which the plaintiff will use to show that he or she has a substantial probability of prevailing on the punitive damages claim. The argument that the facts which are set forth constitute malice, oppression, or fraud, which are the bases for an award of punitive damages [Civ. Code § 3294(a)], should be made in the accompanying memorandum of points and authorities. For discussion of the statutory definitions of malice, fraud, and oppression, in Civ. Code § 3294(c), see § 177.51[6][a].

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 177.158

110 of 157 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.160

§ 177.160 Proceedings for Order Permitting Pretrial Discovery of Defendant's Profits and/or Financial Condition [Civ. Code § 3295(c)]--Order Granting Motion

[1] FORM Proceedings for Order Permitting Pretrial Discovery of Defendant's Profits and/or Financial Condition [Civ. Code § 3295(c)]--Order Granting Motion

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____[name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____[name],	)	ORDER
Defendant.	)
	)
	)

_____

[EITHER]

The motion of plaintiff _____ [name] for an order authorizing discovery into _____ [the financial condition of defendant _____ (name) or the profits that defendant _____ (name) has gained by the wrongful course of conduct or both] was filed with the court on _____ [date].

[OR]

The motion of plaintiff _____ [name] for an order authorizing discovery into _____ [the financial condition of defendant _____ (name) or the profits that defendant _____ (name) has gained by the wrongful course of conduct or both] came on regularly for hearing on _____ [date]. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

Proof having been made to the satisfaction of the court, and good cause appearing therefor,

IT IS ORDERED THAT plaintiff _____ [name] may conduct discovery into [the financial assets of defendant _____ (name) and/or the profits gained by defendant _____ (name) by the virtue of the defendant's wrongful course of conduct]. Such discovery may be by way of depositions, interrogatories, requests for identification, production and inspection of documents and other tangible things, requests for admissions, and by any other appropriate means of discovery.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the _____Court

[2] Use of Form

This form of order is for use when the court has granted plaintiff's motion for discovery into defendant's financial condition or profits [see Civ. Code § 3295(c)]. It may be modified to mention only those methods of discovery which plaintiff's counsel is contemplating, if these methods are known at the time the order is granted.

If a hearing has been requested, and granted, the second paragraph should be used. If no hearing has been requested, the first paragraph, referring only to a written motion, should be used.

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 177.158

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.161

§ 177.161 Statement Reserving Right to Punitive Damages
[Code Civ. Proc. § 425.115(b)]

[1] FORM Statement Reserving Right to Punitive Damages
[Code Civ. Proc. § 425.115(b)]

NOTICE TO _____ [name of defendant or cross defendant]. _____ [Name of plaintiff or cross-complainant] reserves the right to seek $_____ in punitive damages when _____ [name of plaintiff or cross-complainant] seeks a judgment in the suit filed against you.

_____ [date]

_____
[name of attorney or party appearing in propria persona]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by a plaintiff or cross-complainant who is seeking punitive damages under Civ. Code § 3294 to notify the party from whom punitive damages are sought of the amount of punitive damages sought. The statement set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 425.115 or its substantial equivalent must be served on the defendant before a default may be taken, if the motion for a default judgment includes a request for punitive damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.115(f)]. A plaintiff who serves a statement on the defendant pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 425.115 will be deemed to have complied with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.10 and 580, and Civ. Code § 3295 [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.115(d)]. For further discussion and forms concerning the entry of default judgments, see Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments .

Although not required by Code Civ. Proc. § 425.115, counsel may wish to add information to this form, specifying the title of the action in which punitive damages are sought and the case number, in order to ensure that the notice is not later ruled inadequate for due process notice.

[3] Judicial Council Form

The Judicial Council has promulgated a mandatory form of statement of damages for use in a personal injury or wrongful death action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11(b); Cal. Judicial Council Form 982(a)(24); see § 177.167]. That form includes a reservation of the right to seek punitive damages [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11(e) (permitting statement of damages to be combined with reservation of right to seek punitive damages on default judgment)]. It is not clear whether the Judicial Council form will be considered mandatory in cases in which a statement of damages is not filed; in such a case the form would need substantial modification, and so it would seem that a form meeting the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 425.115 should suffice.

[4] Service of Notice

This form must be served by one of the following methods [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.115(g)]:

- If the party has not appeared in the action, the statement must be served in the same manner as a summons, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10 et seq.

- If the party has appeared in the action, the statement must be served on his or her attorney, or on the party if he or she has appeared without an attorney, either in the same manner as a summons, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10 et seq., or in the manner provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 1010 et seq.

The plaintiff may also serve the statement as part of the statement of damages pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11 [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11(e), 425.115(e)]. For a form for use in providing that statement of damages, see § 177.167.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.162

§ 177.162 Notice of Motion for Order Granting Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 473(a), 576] to State Fully Nature and Extent of Damages and to Increase Amount of Damages Being Sought

[1] FORM Notice of Motion for Order Granting Leave to Amend Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 473(a), 576] to State Fully Nature and Extent of Damages and to Increase Amount of Damages Being Sought

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
_____[name],	)	NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION TO Plaintiff,	)	AMEND COMPLAINT
vs.	)	Date: _____
_____[name],	)	Time: _____
Defendant.	)	Location: _____
	)	Judge: _____
	)	Date Action Filed: _____
	)	Trial Date: _____

_____

To defendant _____ [name], and to _____ [name], his/her attorney of record:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in the courtroom of [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court located at _____ [address], _____ [city], plaintiff will, and hereby does, move for an order allowing him/her to file the _____ [amended or amendment to the] complaint, a copy of which is attached hereto, for the purpose of fully and correctly stating the nature and extent of damages sustained by plaintiff. This motion will be made on the ground that the amendment is in the furtherance of justice in that _____ [specify, e.g., the full nature and extent of plaintiff's injuries and damages should be set forth to conform to the evidence developed in the discovery proceedings in this action, the injuries and damages as presently stated in Paragraph(s) _____ (-_____) do not fully and completely state the injuries and damages sustained by plaintiff, and the present amount of damages being sought in Paragraph(s) _____ (-_____) is inadequate to compensate plaintiff for the detriment suffered by him/her in view of the nature and extent of his/her injuries].

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, on the declaration of _____ [name] and the memorandum of points and authorities served and filed herewith, on the papers and records on file herein [, including the depositions and _____ (specify, e.g., medical) records produced in discovery proceedings in this action], and on such oral and documentary evidence as may be presented at the hearing of the motion.
Dated: _____.

_____[firm name, if any]
By: _____[signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____[name]

CAUTION:
A memorandum of points and authorities must be served and filed with this notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a)]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[2] Use of Form

This notice of motion is for use by a plaintiff in obtaining an order allowing him or her to amend the complaint in a tort action to allege and pray for increased damages [Campain v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 362, 365, 104 Cal. Rptr. 752 ; for discussion of the limitations on stating the amount of damages sought in actions for personal injury or wrongful death brought in superior court, see 177.16[3]]. A plaintiff may move for such an order at any time before or after commencement of the trial of the action even at the conclusion of trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 576; Soares v. Carter (1952) 114 Cal. App. 2d 325, 327, 250 P.2d 164 ; Burford v. Baker (1942) 53 Cal. App. 2d 301, 309, 127 P.2d 941] .

[3] Personal Injury or Wrongful Death Action

The complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded for any cause of action for personal injury or wrongful death [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)]. Further, the plaintiff may not subsequently amend the complaint to pray for a specific amount of damages [Austin v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 354, 359, 152 Cal. Rptr. 420] . However, this form may be used if it is necessary to amend the complaint to allege a category of special damages (for example, future medical expenses) that was not alleged or prayed for in the original complaint.

[4] Cross References

For discussion, procedures, and forms for use in amending pleadings generally, see Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings

For discussion, procedures, and forms for use in making motions generally, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders

[5] Decisions

[6] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, Vol. 5, Pleading, §§ 1113-1119, 1126-1148 (4th ed. 1997)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.163

§ 177.163 Ascertaining Amount of Damages Being Sought in Personal Injury or Wrongful Death Action in Superior Court [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11]--Request for Statement of Damages by Defendant

[1] FORM Ascertaining Amount of Damages Being Sought in Personal Injury or Wrongful Death Action in Superior Court [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11]--Request for Statement of Damages by Defendant

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____[name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____[name],	)	REQUEST FOR STATEMENT OF DAMAGES
Defendant.	)
	)
	)

_____

Defendant hereby requests that plaintiff serve on him/her a statement setting forth the nature and amount of damages being sought in _____ [this or, if there are multiple causes of action, plaintiff's _____ (specify, e.g., second) cause of] action.
Dated: _____.

_____[firm name, if any]
By: _____[signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Defendant _____[name]

[2] Use of Form

This request is for use by a defendant in an action for personal injury or wrongful death. With respect to these causes of action, the complaint in such an action may not state the amount of actual or punitive damages being sought, although the complaint must state the amount of damages sought for other causes of action, such as for injury to property [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)]. Thus, when Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b) applies to preclude a statement of the amount of damages in a complaint, the defendant may ascertain the omitted amounts by filing this request for a statement that sets out the nature and amount of damages being sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11].

This form of request may be modified for use by a cross defendant when damages are being sought in a cross complaint [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11].

[3] Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to wrongful death actions, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.164

§ 177.164 Ascertaining Amount of Damages Being Sought in Personal Injury or Wrongful Death Action in Superior Court [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11]--Notice of Motion for Order Compelling Responsive Statement--By Defendant

[1] FORM Ascertaining Amount of Damages Being Sought in Personal Injury or Wrongful Death Action in Superior Court [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11]--Notice of Motion for Order Compelling Responsive Statement--By Defendant

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
_____[name],	)	NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION TO COM-Plaintiff,	)	PEL RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR STATEMENT
vs.	)	OF DAMAGES
_____[name],	)	Date: _____
Defendant.	)	Time: _____
	)	Dept: _____
	)	Judge: _____
	)	Date Action Filed: _____
		Trial Date: _____

_____

To plaintiff _____ [name], and to _____ [name], his/her attorney of record:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in the courtroom of [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court located at _____ [address], _____ [city], defendant will, and hereby does, move for an order directing plaintiff to serve on defendant a responsive statement setting forth the nature and amount of damages being sought in _____ [this or, if there are multiple causes of action, plaintiff's _____ (specify, e.g., second) cause of] action. This motion will be made on the ground that on _____, [date] defendant served on plaintiff a written request for a statement as to the nature and amount of damages sought herein and plaintiff has not responded. Defendant does not know the nature and amount of damages sought and is unable _____ [specify, e.g., to prepare adequately for the trial of this action] until the same are ascertained.

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, on the declaration of _____ [name] and the memorandum of points and authorities served and filed herewith, on the papers and records on file herein, and on such oral and documentary evidence as may be presented at the hearing of the motion.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Defendant _____ [name]

CAUTION:
A memorandum of points and authorities must be served and filed with this notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[2] Use of Form

This notice of motion is for use in an action that is not a limited civil case for personal injuries or wrongful death when defendant has requested a statement setting forth the nature and amount of damages being sought and plaintiff has not served a responsive statement within 15 days [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11].

This notice of motion may be modified for use by a cross defendant when damages are being sought in a cross complaint [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11].

[3] Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to notice of motion, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders

For a related form, see § 177.163

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.165

§ 177.165 Ascertaining Amount of Damages Being Sought in Personal Injury or Wrongful Death Action in Superior Court [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11]--Declaration in Support of Motion for Order Compelling Responsive Statement--By Attorney for Defendant

[1] FORM Ascertaining Amount of Damages Being Sought in Personal Injury or Wrongful Death Action in Superior Court [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11]--Declaration in Support of Motion for Order Compelling Responsive Statement--By Attorney for Defendant

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
[name], _____[name],	)	DECLARATION OF _____ [name]
Plaintiff,	)	IN SUPPORT OF MOTION TO COMPEL REvs.	)	SPONSE TO REQUEST FOR STATEMENT OF
_____[name],	)	DAMAGES
Defendant.	)	Date: _____
	)	Time: _____
	)	Dept: _____
	)	Judge: _____
		Date Action Filed: _____
		Trial Date: _____

_____

I, _____ [name], declare:

I am an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record for _____ [name], defendant herein.

On _____ [date], I served on _____ [name], _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff's attorney herein], a written request for a statement setting forth the nature and amount of damages being sought herein by _____ [specify method of service, e.g., first-class mail].

Plaintiff has not responded to the foregoing written request.

Defendant is unable _____ [specify, e.g., to prepare adequately for the trial of this action] until the nature and amount of damages being sought is ascertained.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct _____ [date].

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Defendant _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

This declaration should be attached to a motion by defendant for an order compelling the plaintiff to serve a responsive statement setting forth the nature and amount of damages being sought in a personal injury or wrongful death action [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11].

[3] Cross References

For forms of affidavits and declarations under penalty of perjury, see Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations

For related forms, see §§ 177.163 and 177.164

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.166

§ 177.166 Ascertaining Amount of Damages Being Sought in Personal Injury or Wrongful Death Action in Superior Court [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11]--Order Compelling Plaintiff to Serve Responsive Statement

[1] FORM Ascertaining Amount of Damages Being Sought in Personal Injury or Wrongful Death Action in Superior Court [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11]--Order Compelling Plaintiff to Serve Responsive Statement

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
_____[name],	)	ORDER
Plaintiff,	)	Date: _____
vs.	)	Time: _____
_____[name],	)	Dept: _____
Defendant.	)	Judge: _____
	)	Date Action Filed: _____
	)	Trial Date: _____
	)

_____

The motion of defendant for an order compelling plaintiff to serve a responsive statement setting forth the nature and amount of damages sought in the above-entitled action came on regularly for hearing by the court on this date. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

Upon proof made to the satisfaction of the court that the motion ought to be granted,

IT IS ORDERED that the motion be, and it hereby is, granted and plaintiff is directed to serve on defendant a responsive statement setting forth the nature and amount of damages sought in the above-entitled action.

Dated: _____.

_____[signature]
Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

This order is for use in granting a motion to compel a plaintiff in a personal injury or wrongful death action to serve a responsive statement setting forth the nature and amount of damages being sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11].

[3] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 177.163 -177.165

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.167

§ 177.167 Ascertaining Amount of Damages Being Sought in Personal Injury or Wrongful Death Action in Superior Court [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11]--Statement of Damages by Plaintiff--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form CIV-050]

[1] FORM Ascertaining Amount of Damages Being Sought in Personal Injury or Wrongful Death Action in Superior Court [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11]--Statement of Damages by Plaintiff--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form CIV-050]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is an illustration of the mandatory Judicial Council form of a statement of damages for use in an action for personal injury or wrongful death [see Cal. Judicial Council Form CIV-050]. It is used if the defendant has requested a statement of damages, in which case plaintiff must serve the responsive statement within 15 days of the request. In addition, a plaintiff must use this form to give defendant notice of the amount of damages being sought before a default is taken if the defendant has not requested for a statement [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11]. For further discussion, see § 177.43.

This form may also be used to give defendant notice of the amount of punitive damages sought, if any [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11(e); see Civ. Code § 3295(e) (complaint may not state amount of punitive damages)]. Due process requires that this notice be given before punitive damages may be recovered from a defaulting defendant [Wiley v. Rhodes (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1470, 1472-1474, 273 Cal. Rptr. 279] . This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 177.163 -177.166

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.168

§ 177.168 Notice of Intention to Move for New Trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 659] on Ground of Excessive or Inadequate Damages
[Code Civ. Proc. § 657(5)]

[1] FORM Notice of Intention to Move for New Trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 659] on Ground of Excessive or Inadequate Damages
[Code Civ. Proc. § 657(5)]
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____[name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____[name],	)	NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MOVE FOR NEW Defendant.	)	TRIAL ON GROUND OF _____
	)	[EXCESSIVE or INADEQUATE] DAMAGES
	)

To _____ [name of adverse party, e.g., plaintiff], _____ [name], and to _____ [name], his/her attorney of record:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that _____ [moving party, e.g., defendant] intends to move the above-entitled court to vacate and set aside the _____ [verdict of the jury or decision of the court] rendered in this action in favor of _____ [adverse party, e.g., plaintiff] and against _____ [moving party, e.g., defendant] and to grant _____ [moving party, e.g., defendant] a new trial on the issue of damages. This motion will be made on the ground that the damages awarded by the _____ [jury or court] in this action are _____ [excessive or inadequate] in that _____ [specify, e.g., the punitive damages awarded are so grossly disproportionate to the wealth of the defendant and to the compensatory damages awarded that they suggest passion and prejudice on the part of the jury].

The motion will be based on this notice of intention to move for a new trial, on the minutes of the court, on the memorandum of points and authorities served and filed herewith, on the papers and records on file herein, and on such oral and documentary evidence as may be presented at the hearing of the motion.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [party's status]

CAUTION:
A memorandum of points and authorities must be served and filedwithin 10 days after filing this intention to move for a new trial [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1600]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities

[2] Use of Form

This notice of intention to move for a new trial on the issue of damages is for use by a party in whose favor or against whom a verdict or decision is rendered when that party seeks a new trial on the ground of excessive or inadequate damages.

When the ground of the motion is excessive or inadequate damages, the motion must be made on the minutes of the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 658]. Whether a verdict is excessive is to be determined solely from a consideration of the evidence in the case and not by a showing of extrinsic facts, by affidavits, or otherwise [Harrison v. Sutter St. Ry. Co. (1897) 116 Cal. 156, 162, 47 P. 1019] . For further discussion of excessive or inadequate damages, see § 177.19.

[3] Preparation of Order for New Trial

When a motion for a new trial is granted, the court must prepare the order and the specification of reasons and must not direct the attorney for a party to prepare either or both the order and the specification of reasons [Code Civ. Proc. § 657]. The fact that the order may be a conditional order for a new trial contingent on the plaintiff's failure to consent to remittitur or the defendant's failure to consent to additur does not excuse compliance with the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 657 merely because the subsequent entry of a plaintiff's or defendant's consent transforms the order into an unconditional denial of the motion for a new trial. The reasons underlying the requirement of specification of reasons--that is, encouraging careful deliberation by the trial court before ruling on the new trial motion and making a sufficiently precise record to permit meaningful appellate review--are equally applicable whether or not the plaintiff or defendant chooses to accede to the alteration of the jury's verdict [Neal v. Farmers Ins. Exch. (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 910, 930-931, 148 Cal. Rptr. 389, 582 P.2d 980] .

Although, generally, a motion for a new trial granted on the ground of excessive damages should indicate the respects in which the evidence dictated a less sizeable verdict, when the amount of punitive damages is the court's primary concern, the specification of reasons is sufficient if the order makes reference to those aspects of the trial proceedings which, in the court's view, improperly led the jury to inflate its award [Neal v. Farmers Ins. Exch. (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 910, 932, 148 Cal. Rptr. 389, 582 P.2d 980 ; Gerard v. Ross (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 968, 978, 251 Cal. Rptr. 604] . In such cases, the court's specification is adequate if it enables a reviewing court to determine whether or not there was a substantial basis, in law and fact, for the order [Grimshaw v. Ford Motor Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 757, 822, 174 Cal. Rptr. 348] .

[4] Cross References

For discussion, procedures, and forms relating to motions for new trial generally, see Ch. 371, Motions After Trial

For memoranda of points and authorities relating to motions for a new trial on the ground of excessive or inadequate damages, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 65, Damages

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.169

§ 177.169 Consent to Addition to Damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 662.5(a)]--By Defendant

[1] FORM Consent to Addition to Damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 662.5(a)]--By Defendant

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____[name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	No. _____
_____[name(s)],	)	CONSENT TO ADDITION TO DAMAGES
Defendant[s].	)
	)
	)

_____

Defendant[s, individually and jointly,] hereby consent(s) to an addition of damages from the sum of $_____ specified in the verdict in the above entitled action to the sum of $_____ provided that plaintiff's motion for a new trial on the issue of damages be denied.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Defendant _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

This form of consent is for use by a defendant against whom a verdict has been rendered when the trial court has granted the motion for a new trial on the issue of damages unless defendant consented to an addition to the amount of damages awarded in an amount fixed by the trial court [Code Civ. Proc. § 662.5(a)].

[3] State Statutes

[4] Cross References

For a related form, see § 177.169

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.170

§ 177.170 Consent to Reduction of Damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 662.5(b)]--
By Plaintiff

[1] FORM Consent to Reduction of Damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 662.5(b)]--
By Plaintiff

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF_____

_____[name(s)],	)
Plaintiff(s),	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____[name],	)	CONSENT TO REDUCTION OF DAMAGES
Defendant.	)
	)
	)

_____

Plaintiff[s, individually and jointly,] hereby consent(s) to a reduction of damages from the sum of $_____ specified in the verdict in the above entitled action to the sum of $_____ provided that defendant's motion for a new trial on the issue of damages be denied.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[2] Use of Form

This form of consent is for use by a plaintiff in whose favor a verdict has been rendered, if the trial court has granted a motion for a new trial on the issue of damages unless the plaintiff consents to a reduction of the amount of damages awarded in an amount fixed by the trial court [Code Civ. Proc. § 662.5(b)].

[3] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 177.168 and 177.169

121 of 157 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
A. Tort Damages

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 177.171-177.189

[Reserved]

§§ 177.171[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.190

§ 177.190 Allegation of Damages for Breach of Contract [Civ. Code § 3300]--General Damages

[1] FORM Allegation of Damages for Breach of Contract [Civ. Code § 3300]--General Damages

As a proximate result of defendant's breach of the contract as herein alleged, plaintiff has suffered damages in the sum of $_____.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use by plaintiff to allege general compensatory damages resulting from a breach of contract [see Civ. Code § 3300]. General damages are those that naturally arise from the breach or that might have been reasonably contemplated or foreseen by the parties at the time they contracted as the probable result of a breach [Glendale Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Marina View Heights Dev. Co. (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 101, 125, 135 Cal. Rptr. 802] . They need not be specially pleaded [Myers v. Stephens (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 104, 120, 43 Cal. Rptr. 420] . Moreover, it is not necessary to point out in detail the nature and extent of general damages. The question as to how they arose from the breach of contract, otherwise than as disclosed by the general allegation of damages, is the subject of evidence, rather than pleading [Colvig v. RKO General, Inc. (1965) 232 Cal. App. 2d 56, 68-69, 42 Cal. Rptr. 473] .

[3] State Statutes

Damages defined. Civ. Code § 3281

Detriment defined. Civ. Code § 3282

Damages awardable for future detriment. Civ. Code § 3283

Measure of damages for breach of contract. Civ. Code § 3300

[4] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 5, Pleading, § 896 (4th ed. 1997)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.191

§ 177.191 Allegation of Damages for Breach of Contract [Civ. Code § 3300]--Loss of Profits by Plaintiff Who Held Contract With Third Person

[1] FORM Allegation of Damages for Breach of Contract [Civ. Code § 3300]--Loss of Profits by Plaintiff Who Held Contract With Third Person

At the time of contracting, _____ [plaintiff told defendant or defendant knew, or had reason to know,] that plaintiff had a contract with _____ [name of third party], and that plaintiff's purpose in entering into the contract with defendant was to obtain _____ [specify the item(s) involved in the contract, e.g., Italian marble] so that plaintiff could perform his/her contract with _____ [name of third party]. As a result of defendant's breach, plaintiff was unable to carry out the contract with _____ [name of third party], and as a conse quence plaintiff lost the profits he/she was expecting to receive from that contract, all to his/her damage in the sum of $_____.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use by plaintiff in a complaint for damages for breach of contract when that plaintiff had entered into a contract with a third party, defendant knew or had reason to know of this contract, and defendant's breach rendered plaintiff unable to perform the contract with the third party. When a loss of profits is the direct and natural result of a breach, damages for such loss are recoverable without special allegations [Myers v. Stephens (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 104, 121, 43 Cal. Rptr. 420] . If, however, the loss of profits is not a direct and natural result of defendant's breach, special allegations of such loss apparently would need to be made, including the allegation that the parties contemplated such a loss in the event of a breach [Fraser v. Bentel (1911) 161 Cal. 390, 396, 119 P. 509] .

For a discussion of damages for lost profits, see § 177.79[3].

[3] Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, §§ 879-882 (10th ed. 2005)

[4] Cross References

See § 177.190

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.192

§ 177.192 Allegation of Damages for Breach of Contract [Civ. Code § 3300]--Loss of Good Will of Business

[1] FORM Allegation of Damages for Breach of Contract [Civ. Code § 3300]--Loss of Good Will of Business

1. At the time of contracting, the parties to the contract realized that any breach of the contract would result in a loss of good will to plaintiff's business in that _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff told defendant that it would be relying on the equipment to be supplied by defendant to provide the majority of its capacity, and if the equipment did not function properly or was not delivered on time, an interruption in plaintiff's business would result].

2. As a result of defendant's breach of the contract, plaintiff has suffered the loss of good will in that _____ [specify, e.g., a number of customers have stopped doing business with plaintiff because, during the time it took to repair the equipment, plaintiff could not give its customers same-day service], all to plaintiff's damage in the sum of $_____.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use by plaintiff in a complaint for damages for breach of contract when plaintiff's business has suffered a loss of good will as a result of defendant's breach. The facts with respect to damages to plaintiff's business and its good will should be alleged with particularity and should be sufficient to show that the loss of good will resulted directly and naturally in the ordinary course of events from the breach of contract [Walpole v. Prefab Mfg. Co. (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 472, 490, 230 P.2d 36] .

For a discussion of damages for the loss of good will, see § 177.79[3].

[3] State Statutes

Good will defined. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14100

[4] Decisions

Damages for loss of good will resulting from contract breach as recoverable. Stott v. Johnston (1951) 36 Cal. 2d 864, 872, 229 P.2d 348 ; Gregory v. Spieker (1895) 110 Cal. 150, 154, 42 P. 576 ; Walpole v. Prefab Mfg. Co. (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 472, 490, 230 P.2d 36

Fact that detriment due to loss of good will cannot be measured with mathematical accuracy is not sufficient for denial of compensation. Johnson v. Snyder (1950) 99 Cal. App. 2d 86, 89, 221 P.2d 164

[5] Cross References

See § 177.190

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.193

§ 177.193 Allegation of Damages for Breach of Contract [Civ. Code § 3300]--Expenses Incurred in Anticipation of Performance of Agreement by Defendant

[1] FORM Allegation of Damages for Breach of Contract [Civ. Code § 3300]--Expenses Incurred in Anticipation of Performance of Agreement by Defendant

In reliance on the promises and agreements of defendant as set forth in the [written] agreement, plaintiff incurred expenses in anticipation of defendant's performance of the contract in that _____ [specify expenses incurred, e.g., plaintiff became obligated under a contract to have a third party build an addition on to plaintiff's factory to house the equipment that defendant was to deliver], all to plaintiff's damage in the sum of $_____.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use by plaintiff in a complaint for damages for breach of contract when that plaintiff incurred expenses in anticipation of defendant's performance. For a discussion of expenses as damages, see § 177.79[5].

[3] Decisions

Amount and items giving rise to special damages must be pleaded with particularity. Shook v. Pearson (1950) 99 Cal. App. 2d 348, 352, 221 P.2d 757

[4] Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 883 (10th ed. 2005)

Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 5, Pleading, §§ 888, 897 (4th ed. 1997)

[5] Cross References

See § 177.190

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.194

§ 177.194 Allegation of Damages for Breach of Contract [Civ. Code § 3300]--Property Had Peculiar Value to Plaintiff [Civ. Code § 3355]

[1] FORM Allegation of Damages for Breach of Contract [Civ. Code § 3300]--Property Had Peculiar Value to Plaintiff [Civ. Code § 3355]

In entering into the contract, the parties agreed that _____ [specify item, e.g, the gas torches to be manufactured by defendant] had a peculiar value to plaintiff in the amount of $_____ [and that it/they could not be obtained on the open market]. As a result of defendant's breach of contract as herein alleged, plaintiff has suffered damage in the sum of $_____.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use by plaintiff in an action for damages for breach of contract if the subject matter of the contract had a peculiar value to plaintiff and defendant had notice of this value before entering into the contract. If property has a peculiar value to the aggrieved party, and the breaching party had notice of that special value before incurring liability with respect to that property, the special value applies to determine liability for damages for deprivation or injury of the property [see Civ. Code § 3355].

For allegations regarding Civ. Code § 3355 in the tort context, see §§ 177.149 and 177.149.5.

[3] State Statutes

Damages for deprivation of property with peculiar value to owner; necessity of notice to defendant of value. Civ. Code § 3355

[4] Decisions

Civ. Code § 3355 is applicable to determine damages for delay in delivering scenery for play. Artists' Embassy v. Hunt (1958) 157 Cal. App. 2d 371, 374-375, 320 P.2d 924

Complaint alleging that defendant had notice of peculiar value to plaintiffs before liability was incurred and that contract was executed with that understanding held to plead all elements necessary to bring case within Civ. Code § 3355. Forster v. Carouso (1931) 114 Cal. App. 303, 305, 299 P. 741 ; see Drinkhouse v. Van Ness (1927) 202 Cal. 359, 377-378, 260 P. 869

[5] Cross References

See §§ 177.190 and 177.193

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.195

§ 177.195 Allegation of Damages for Breach of Contract [Civ. Code § 3300]--Failure to Pay Money [Civ. Code § 3302]

[1] FORM Allegation of Damages for Breach of Contract [Civ. Code § 3300]--Failure to Pay Money [Civ. Code § 3302]

As a result of defendant's failure and refusal to pay plaintiff the money owed under the contract, or any part of it, plaintiff has been damaged in the sum of $_____, together with interest thereon at _____ [specify rate provided by contract, e.g., 10 percent per annum, as provided by the note or the legal rate] from and after the date payment was due, which was _____ [specify date].

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use by plaintiff in a complaint for damages for breach of a contract to pay money only. The detriment caused by the breach of an obligation to pay money only is the amount due by the terms of the obligation with interest thereon [Civ. Code § 3302; see also Civ. Code § 3289 (stipulated rate)].

If, however, the "obligation to pay money" is an obligation to pay interest-only installment payments on a note, Civ. Code §§ 3357 and 3358 prevent the award of prejudgment interest on the delinquent interest, unless there is an agreement that provides for compounding [Ninety Five Ten v. Crain (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 36, 39-41, 282 Cal. Rptr. 141 (disapproving Daum Development Corp. v. Yuba Plaza, Inc. (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 65, 89 Cal. Rptr. 458 , to extent it may be construed to sanction award of interest on interest in absence of agreement)].

[3] State Statues

Measure of damages for breach of obligation to pay money only. Civ. Code § 3302

[4] Decisions

If contract involves factors in addition to payment of money, Civ. Code § 3302 is not applicable. Venturi v. Zurich General A. & L. Co. (1936) 14 Cal. App. 2d 89, 90, 57 P.2d 1002

[5] Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 908 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.196

§ 177.196 Allegation of Liquidated Damages [Civ. Code § 1671]--Consumer Contract or Contract Made Before July 1, 1978

[1] FORM Allegation of Liquidated Damages [Civ. Code § 1671]--Consumer Contract or Contract Made Before July 1, 1978

At the time the parties entered into the contract, the parties realized that it would be extremely difficult or impracticable to ascertain damages in the event of a breach of the contract because _____ [specify why damages would be difficult to establish, e.g., the product being introduced and marketed was new and unique and, thus, its acceptance and inital sales volume would be difficult to predict]. Therefore, the parties agreed that, if a breach occurred, the sum of $_____ would be paid by the breaching party as liquidated damages. This sum represented a reasonable endeavor by the parties to ascertain what damages resulting from a breach would be. Because a breach has occurred, plaintiff is entitled to recover from defendant the liquidated damages in the sum of $_____.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use by plaintiff in a complaint for liquidated damages following breach of either (1) a contract entered into before July 1, 1978, or (2) a contract entered into after that date that is for the retail purchase or rental of personal property or services, primarily for personal, family, or household purposes, or for the lease of real property for use as a dwelling by a party to the lease or those dependent on the party for support [Civ. Code § 1671(c)]. In the case of a consumer contract or lease entered into after July 1, 1978, these allegations are only necessary when the liquidated damages provision is sought to be enforced against the consumer [see Cal. Law Revision Comm. Comment to Civ. Code § 1671(c)].

In all other situations not governed by specific statutes, a liquidated damages provision is presumed valid and, consequently, a special allegation need not be made [see Civ. Code § 1671; see also § 177.197].

For a discussion of liquidated damages, see § 177.78.

[3] Right to Jury Trial

At common law, a party in breach was not entitled to a jury trial in an action for affirmative relief from a penalty for breach; exclusive jurisdiction of affirmative recovery remained in equity courts. The right to a jury trial was limited to defensive relief in the form of assessment of actual damages when the nonbreaching party sued at law to recover the penalty [Beasley v. Wells Fargo Bank (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1383, 1392-1393, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 446 (but cross complaint by nonbreaching party may create defensive claim for relief for which there is right to jury trial), disapproved on other grounds, Olson v. Automobile Club of So. Cal. (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 1142, 1153 n.6]. For further discussion, see § 177.78.

[4] State Statutes

General liquidated damages provision. Civ. Code § 1671

[5] Decisions

Even after invalidating liquidated damages provision in consumer contract, nonbreaching party is entitled to recover its actual damages resulting from consumer's default; in context of late charges, measure of damages accounts for period of time money was wrongfully withheld plus administrative costs reasonably related to collecting and accounting for late payment. Garrett v. Coast & Southern Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 731, 741, 108 Cal. Rptr. 845, 511 P.2d 1197 ; Beasley v. Wells Fargo Bank (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1383, 1402, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 446 , disapproved on other grounds, Olson v. Automobile Club of So. Cal. (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 1142, 1153 n.6

Passing on of fees charged by collection agency, pursuant to agreement signed by patients requiring them to pay hospital's collection costs, was invalid attempt to collect liquidated damages, in that there was no advance agreement regarding amount, and no effort made to estimate fair compensation for plaintiffs' breach. Bondanza v. Peninsula Hospital & Medical Center (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 260, 266-268, 152 Cal. Rptr. 446, 590 P.2d 22 (contract made in 1973, 1974, thus former law or Civ. Code § 1671(c), (d) was applicable)

Provision in lease for liquidated damages for failure to pay rent is ordinarily not enforceable because there is no presumption that amount of damages that may result from tenant's breach of covenant to pay rent is impossible or extremely difficult to fix. McCarthy v. Tally (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 577, 583, 297 P.2d 981 (now see Civ. Code §§ 1671(c), (d), 1951.5)

After invalidating liquidated damages provision in consumer contract, nonbreaching party's actual damages do not properly include fees it paid to collection agency based on percentage of collected debts, even if nonbreaching party actually paid those fees, when they did not necessarily represent actual expense required to collect late balances. Beasley v. Wells Fargo Bank (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1383, 1405-1406, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 446 , disapproved on other grounds, Olson v. Automobile Club of So. Cal. (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 1142, 1153 n.6

Whether measure of nonbreaching party's actual damages includes its indirect costs is factual question turning on causation. Beasley v. Wells Fargo Bank (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1383, 1404-1405, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 446 , disapproved on other grounds, Olson v. Automobile Club of So. Cal. (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 1142, 1153 n.6

Liquidated damages clause in contract gives rise to rebuttable presumption (under former Civ. Code § 1671 and Evidence Code) that liquidated damages constitute actual loss, imposing on party using presumption burden of introducing evidence and proving foundational facts from which presumption will flow. Barbera v. Sokol (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 725, 732-733, 161 Cal. Rptr. 843

Provision in nonconsumer sales contract for excessive interest on upaid balance was invalid liquidated damages clause in that parties made no attempt to agree beforehand on amount that would constitute fair average compensation for losses sustained. Crestwood Lumber Co. v. Citizen's Sav. & Loan Ass'n (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 819, 826, 827, 148 Cal. Rptr. 129

[6] Law Reviews

Note, A Critique of the Penalty Limitation on Liquidated Damages, 50 S. Cal. L. Rev. 1055 (1977)

Note, Late-Payment Charges: Meeting the Requirements of Liquidated Damages, 27 Stan. L. Rev. 1133 (1975)

Comment, The High Cost of Borrowing--Late Fees, Alternative Performance, and Garrett v. Coast and Southern Federal Savings and Loan Association, 14 Santa Clara Law. 706 (1974)

Sweet, Liquidated Damages in California, 60 Cal. L. Rev. 84 (1972)

Comment, Liquidated Damages and the "No Harm Rule," 9 Stan. L. Rev. 381 (1957)

Note, Contracts: Liquidated Damages; Necessity of Actual Damages, 4 UCLA L. Rev. 126 (1956)

[7] Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, §§ 503-542 (9th ed. 1987)

13 Cal. Law Revision Comm. Rep. 1740

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.197

§ 177.197 Allegation of Liquidated Damages [Civ. Code § 1671]--Contract Made After July 1, 1978

[1] FORM Allegation of Liquidated Damages [Civ. Code § 1671]--Contract Made After July 1, 1978

[EITHER]

The parties agreed in Paragraph _____ of the contract that _____ [in the event of a breach by either party or specify conditions under which liquidated damages provision would apply, e.g., if the film was not ready for distribution by _____ (date)], plaintiff would be entitled to recover _____ [specify amount of damages and/or formula for determining amount, e.g, $_____ per week for every week thereafter until three hundred prints of the film had been delivered to the distributor].

[OR]

On entering into the contract with plaintiff, defendant provided a deposit of $_____ as security for the performance of his/her/its contractual obligations. The contract provided that this deposit would be liquidated damages in the event of a breach of the contract. Defendant has breached the contract as herein alleged, entitling plaintiff to the sum of $_____ as damages.

[2] Use of Form

Either of these allegations may be used by a plaintiff in a complaint for liquidated damages following a breach of a contract entered into after July 1, 1978, as long as the liquidated damages provision is not sought to be enforced against a consumer or residential lessee [see Civ. Code § 1671(c), (d) (consumer exceptions)]. These allegations may also be modified by insertion of an appropriate preamble for use as an affirmative defense to a complaint that seeks damages in excess of those provided for by the liquidated damage provision.

The party seeking to invalidate the liquidated damages provision has the burden of establishing that the provision was unreasonable under the circumstances existing at the time the contract was made [Civ. Code § 1671(a), (b); see also § 177.78[5]].

The first alternative should be used if a liquidated damages provision is included in the contract. The second alternative is for use when defendant has made a deposit which the contract stipulates will be liquidated damages in the event of a breach.

[3] Decisions

Clause in promissory note imposing charge of six months' interest if borrowers prepaid loan principal and providing that charge would not be imposed six months after execution of note unless borrowers made late interest payment or otherwise defaulted was held to be unenforceable penalty for late payment as it bore no relationship to potential damages defendant would incur from late interest payment. Ridgley v. Topa Thrift & Loan Assn. (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 970, 979-981, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 378, 953 P.2d 484

Defendant having failed to prove that interest of 1.5 percent per month on balance due for assembly work and remaining unpaid after 30 days was unreasonable, interest provision was validated liquidated damages provision under Civ. Code § 1671(b) and Com. Code § 2718; in addition, parties were merchants and bound to provision under Com. Code § 2718. O'Connor v. Televideo System, Inc. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 709, 718-719, 267 Cal. Rptr. 237

[4] Cross References

See § 177.196

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.198

§ 177.198 Prayer for Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] and Interest [Civ. Code § 3287]--By Plaintiff in Action for Damages for Breach of Contract

[1] FORM Prayer for Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] and Interest [Civ. Code § 3287]--By Plaintiff in Action for Damages for Breach of Contract

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant[s, and each of them,] as follows:

1. For compensatory damages, in the sum of $_____;

2. For interest at the _____ [legal rate or specify other rate provided for by the contract, e.g., rate of 8 percent per annum] on the sum of $_____ from and after _____ [date];

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[2] Use of Form

This prayer is for use in a complaint for damages for breach of a contract and for interest on the damages. A complaint for money damages generally must state the amount of damages demanded [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(a)(2); but see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b) (excepting any action in which damages are sought for personal injury or wrongful death)].

Attorney's fees recoverable under a contract provision or statute are an item of costs and need not be separately prayed for [Civ. Code §§ 1717, 1717.5 (contract); Code Civ. Proc. § 1033.5(a)(10), (c)(5) (statute); see Ch. 174, Costs and

Attorney's Fees].

[3] Cross References

For alternative forms of prayers, see Ch. 420, Prayers

[4] State Statutes

If damages are demanded, amount is required to be stated except in superior court action other than limited civil case to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death. Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(a)(2), (b)

[5] Decisions

If prejudgment interest is allowable, judgment can be rendered therefor even though not prayed for in complaint. Benson v. City of Los Angeles (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 355, 366, 33 Cal. Rptr. 257, 384 P.2d 649 ; Katz v. Enos (1945) 68 Cal. App. 2d 266, 278, 156 P.2d 461

Requests for prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3287 by successful plaintiff must be made by way of motion prior to entry of judgment, or request must be made in form of motion for new trial no later than time allowed for filing such a motion. North Oakland Medical Clinic v. Rogers (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 824, 829-831, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 743 (in circumstances in which damages were awarded but no interest was included in verdict and neither court nor jury had determined whether damages were liquidated or unliquidated, this rule was applied retroactively to plaintiffs who never sought prejudgment interest as part of damages and sought interest at last minute as part of order awarding costs)

Assignee for benefit of creditors entitled to prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3282(a) on amount of preference recovered from date of demand letter that requested exact amount awarded; demand letter set forth exact amounts and manner of their calculation. Credit Managers' Assn. v. Brubaker (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 1587, 1595, 285 Cal. Rptr. 417

If rate of interest specified in a contract is usurious, by application of Civ. Code § 3289(b), party not in default is entitled to recover interest at 10 percent per annum from date of breach. Mark McDowell Corp. v. LSM 128 (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 1427, 1431-1433 (disapproved in Southwest Concrete Products v. Gosh Construction Corp. (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 701, 704, 274 Cal. Rptr. 404, 798 P.2d 1247 , with respect to holding that interest rate was usurious)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 177 DAMAGES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Damages in Contract Action

15-177 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 177.199

§ 177.199 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Failure to Mitigate Damages

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Failure to Mitigate Damages

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges the following:

By the exercise of reasonable effort, plaintiff could have mitigated the amount of damages he/she/it suffered by _____ [specify ability to mitigate damages and means of doing so, e.g., renting another truck to use in his/her/its business; vehicles that would have satisfied plaintiff's requirements were available at rates that plaintiff could have afforded]; but plaintiff failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to exercise a reasonable effort to mitigate the damages.

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for use by a defendant in an action for damages for breach of contract to place in issue plaintiff's failure to use a reasonable effort to mitigate damages. The failure to mitigate damages is a matter of affirmative defense that must be pleaded and proved by the defendant [Mayes v. Sturdy Northern Sales, Inc. (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 69, 86, 154 Cal. Rptr. 43 , disapproved on other grounds, Applied Equipment Corp. v. Litton Saudi Arabia Ltd. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 503, 521, 869 P.2d 454 ; Baruh v. Kuhl (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 266, 273, 28 Cal. Rptr. 573] .

For a discussion of mitigation of damages, see § 177.77.

[3] Decisions

Duty to mitigate damages predicated on rule that person must use reasonable care to prevent unwarranted piling up of damages. Guerrieri v. Severini (1958) 51 Cal. 2d 12, 23, 330 P.2d 635

Burden of proving that losses could have been avoided by reasonable effort and expense as borne by breaching party. Brandon & Tibbs v. George Kevorkian Accountancy Corp. (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 442, 460, 277 Cal. Rptr. 40

Burden of proof is on party whose breach caused damage to establish matters relied on to mitigate damage. Healdsburg Police Officers Assn. v. City of Healdsburg (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 444, 456, 129 Cal. Rptr. 216

Defense of duty to mitigate damages required to be pleaded. Camrosa County Water Dist. v. Southwest Welding & Mfg. Co. (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 951, 956, 123 Cal. Rptr. 93

Rule of mitigation does not apply in all situations. Seaboard Music Co. v. Germano (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 618, 623, 101 Cal. Rptr. 255

In action for damages for breach of employment contract, defendant is required to plead as affirmative defense plaintiff's failure to mitigate if plaintiff did not obtain another job but could have done so with exercise of reasonable diligence and effort. Erler v. Five Points Motors, Inc. (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 560, 568, 57 Cal. Rptr. 516

[4] Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, §§ 914-921 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapters 178-179 [RESERVED]

15-178 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated Chapters 178-179

[RESERVED]

Chapters 178[RESERVED]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 180.syn

§ 180.syn Synopsis to Chapter 180: DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES

§ 180.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 180.02 Cross References

§§ 180.03-180.09 [Reserved]

§ 180.10 Governing Statutes

§ 180.11 Definitions

[1] Human Remains

[2] Cemeteries

[3] Burial Park, Mausoleum, Columbarium, Crematory

§ 180.12 Property Rights and Interment of Human Remains

[1] Nature of Quasi-Property Right

[2] Persons Entitled to Control Disposition of Remains

[a] Decedent by Means of Written Directions

[b] Next of Kin or Others

[3] Autopsy

[4] No Duty to Preserve Body as Evidence for Civil Discovery

[5] Tortious Interference With Right to Dispose of Remains

[6] Jurisdiction of Disputes Regarding Disposition of Remains

§ 180.13 Action for Breach of Contract

§ 180.14 Negligence in Performance of Funeral-Related Services

[1] Duty Owed to Close Family Members

[2] Nature of Tort

[3] Examples of Misconduct

[4] Willed Body Programs

§ 180.15 Disinterment

§ 180.16 Liability for Interment and Disinterment Expense

§ 180.17 Notice of Proposed Change of Cemetery Use

§§ 180.18-180.29 [Reserved]

§ 180.30 Related Matthew Bender Publications

§ 180.31 State Statutes

[1] Autopsy

[2] Bodies

[3] Cemeteries, Mausoleums, and Columbariums

[4] Contracts for Disposition of Remains

[5] Crematory

[6] Licensing

[7] Native American Burial Grounds

§ 180.32 Decisions

[1] Airlines

[2] Autopsy

[3] Contracts for Disposition of Remains

[4] Interment

[5] Liability of Coroner

[6] Mental Suffering

[7] Mortuary Operations

[8] Native American Burial Grounds

[9] Negligence

[10] Perpetual Care Gifts

[11] Private Cemeteries

[12] Property Rights in Human Remains

[13] Public Cemeteries

§ 180.33 Attorney General Opinions

§ 180.34 Law Reviews

§ 180.35 Text References

§§ 180.36-180.49 [Reserved]

§ 180.50 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Mental Anguish for Tortious Interference With Decedent's Remains--By Child of Decedent [Health & Safety Code § 7100] Against Decedent's Father

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Parties Plaintiff

[5] Specification of Damages

[6] Verification

[7] Jurisdiction

[8] Cross References

§ 180.51 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Mental Anguish for Tortious Interference With Decedent's Remains--By Widow [Health & Safety Code § 7100] Against Hospital and Doctor for Unauthorized Retention [Health & Safety Code § 7102], Autopsy [Health & Safety Code § 7113], and Mutilation of Husband's Remains

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Autopsy Authorization

[5] Form of Authorization

[6] Certificate of Religious Belief Limiting Autopsy

[7] Coroner's Immunity in Case of Autopsy of Infant Who Died Suddenly and Unexpectedly

[8] Cross References

§ 180.52 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] Based on Negligence--By Close Relative of Decedent, for Whose Benefit Funeral-Related Services Were Performed, Against Funeral Service Provider--Mishandling of Remains

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] "Close Relative" Requirement

[5] Causation Requirements

[6] Cross References

§ 180.53 Petition [Health & Safety Code § 7105] for Order Providing for Interment of Human Remains [Health & Safety Code § 7107]--By Cemetery or Relative--Persons With Right to Control Interment Cannot Agree on Disposition

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Jurisdiction and Venue

[4] Verification

§ 180.54 Petition for Permission of Court [Health & Safety Code § 7526] to Remove Remains [Health & Safety Code § 7525]--By Relation of Decedent Against Cemetery or Next of Kin Listed in Health & Safety Code § 7525

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Notice Requirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART I. SCOPE

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.01

§ 180.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses the rights and liabilities of parties with respect to the care and interment of human remains. It includes the following forms:

- Complaints for tortious interference with a decedent's remains [see §§ 180.50, 180.51].
- Complaint for negligence against a funeral service provider brought by a plaintiff who is a close relative of the decedent and for whose benefit funeral-related services were performed [see § 180.52].
- Petition to compel the interment of human remains [see § 180.53].
- Petition for permission to disinter human remains for reburial [see § 180.54].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART I. SCOPE

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.02

§ 180.02 Cross References

- For a discussion of procedure and forms relating to establishment of the fact of death, see Ch. 99, Birth and Death, Establishing Fact of.

- For a discussion of procedure and forms relating to actions for wrongful death, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions .

- For a discussion of procedure and forms relating to probate and administration of estates, see Ch. 442, Probate: Initiating Probate Administration .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawProbateGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsSurvival Actions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART I. SCOPE

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 180.03-180.09

[Reserved]

§§ 180.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.10

§ 180.10 Governing Statutes

Custody, care, and interment of dead bodies are governed by Health & Safety Code §§ 7000-7355. Disinterment and removal of dead bodies are governed generally by Health & Safety Code §§ 7051-8005.

Cemeteries generally are governed by Health & Safety Code §§ 8100-8115, and more specifically by the following:

- Private cemeteries are governed by Health & Safety Code §§ 8250-8829.

- Public cemetery districts are governed by Health & Safety Code §§ 9000-9093.

- Dedication of public lands, acquisition of land, and management of cemeteries are governed by Health & Safety Code §§ 8125-8136 (including general regulations concerning public cemeteries.

Operation of crematories is governed by Health & Safety Code §§ 8340-8347.

Licensing and regulation of cemetery operations and of funeral directors and embalmers are governed by Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 9600-9770, and 7600-7742, respectively.

Registration and regulation of cremated remains disposers are governed by Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 9607.6, 9740-9750, 9760.5, and 9760.6.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsProperty Rights

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.11

§ 180.11 Definitions

[1] Human Remains

Dead bodies are referred to in Health & Safety Code § 7001 as "human remains" or "remains." These remains are defined as the body of a deceased person, including the body in any stage of decomposition as well as cremated remains [Health & Safety Code § 7001]. "Cremated remains" means the ashes and bone fragments of a human body that are left after cremation in a crematory, and includes ashes from the cremation container, but does not include foreign materials, pacemakers, or prostheses [Health & Safety Code § 7002].

[2] Cemeteries

Cemeteries include burial parks, mausoleums, and crematories or columbariums, or any combination of these, when used, or intended to be used, and dedicated for cemetery purposes [Health & Safety Code § 7003]. Six or more human bodies buried in one place constitute a cemetery [Health & Safety Code § 7003].

[3] Burial Park, Mausoleum, Columbarium, Crematory

A burial park is a tract of land for the burial of human remains in the ground, used or intended to be used, and dedicated, for cemetery purposes [Health & Safety Code § 7004].

A mausoleum is a structure or building for the entombment of uncremated human remains in crypts or vaults located in a place used, or intended to be used,and dedicated for cemetery purposes [Health & Safety Code §§ 7005, 9504].

A columbarium is a structure, room, or other space, in a building or structure containing niches for the inurnment of cremated human remains, which is located in a place used, or intended to be used, and dedicated for cemetery purposes [Health & Safety Code §§ 7007, 9506]. A columbarium may be built within a mausoleum [Health & Safety Code § 9504].

A crematory is a building or structure containing one or more furnaces for the reduction of bodies of deceased persons to cremated remains [Health & Safety Code § 7006]. A cremation chamber is the enclosed space within which the cremation of human remains is performed [Health & Safety Code § 7006.3]. A cremation container is a combustible, closed container resistant to leakage of bodily fluids into which the body of a deceased person is placed prior to insertion in a cremation chamber for cremation [Health & Safety Code § 7006.5]. A cremated remains container is a receptacle in which cremated remains are placed after cremation [Health & Safety Code § 7006.7]. Pursuant to Health & Safety Code §§ 7003, 8340, a crematory is a cemetery and must have in conjunction with its operation either a mausoleum, a burial park, or a columbarium that is equipped at all times for the interment of remains of bodies cremated at the crematory [see 55 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 402 (1972) (this requirement is constitutional and reasonable exercise of state's police power)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsProperty Rights

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.12

§ 180.12 Property Rights and Interment of Human Remains

[1] Nature of Quasi-Property Right

There is a quasi-property right in the possession of a dead body, recognized for the limited purpose of determining who may have its custody for burial [Sinai Temple v. Kaplan (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 1103, 1110, 1110 n.13, 127 Cal. Rptr. 80]. Custody may be determined by testamentary disposition [see Health & Safety Code § 7150 et seq. (Uniform Anatomical Gift Act); Estate of Henderson (1936) 13 Cal. App. 2d 449, 453, 57 P.2d 212 (direction in will regarding place and manner of disposition)].

In the absence of testamentary disposition or other directions given by the decedent pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 7100.1, the next of kin has the statutory right and duty to preserve the decedent's remains and to bury the corpse and is entitled to the custody of the corpse for these purposes [Health & Safety Code §§ 7100, 7102]. Although the next of kin does not "own" the body of the deceased in the full proprietary sense, he or she does have property rights in the body that will be protected and is entitled to indemnification for a violation of those rights [see Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 890, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181 (quoting from O'Donnell v. Slack (1899) 123 Cal. 285, 289, 55 P. 906)].

[2] Persons Entitled to Control Disposition of Remains

[a] Decedent by Means of Written Directions

The primary right to dispose of a decedent's remains is held by the decedent, if the decedent leaves directions pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 7100.1 [see Health & Safety Code § 7100(a)]. Section 7100.1 provides that a person, prior to death, may give written directions for the disposition of the person's remains, and may specify funeral goods and services to be provided. Unless a statement to the contrary is signed and dated by the person, the directions may not be changed in any material way, except as required by law [Health & Safety Code § 7100.1(a)]. The directions must be faithfully carried out on the person's death, provided that [Health & Safety Code § 7100.1(a)]:

- The directions clearly and completely set forth the person's final wishes in sufficient detail so as to preclude any material ambiguity with regard to the instructions.

- Provision is made for the costs of disposition and funeral goods and services either by being held in trust pursuant to Bus. and Prof. Code § 7735, funded through insurance, or otherwise set aside in a designated fund or funds, so as to preclude the payment of any funds by any survivors who might otherwise retain the right to control disposition and funeral matters.

If only one of either the cost of disposition or of funeral goods and services are set aside, the decedent's remaining wishes must be carried out only to the extent possible using the decedent's assets, unless persons who have the right to control disposition and funeral matters agree to assume the costs [Health & Safety Code § 7100.1(b)].

If the directions are contained in a will, they must be immediately carried out regardless of the validity of the will in other respects, and regardless of whether the will is offered for or admitted to probate [Health & Safety Code § 7100.1(c)].

The right of a surviving spouse to control the disposition of a decedent's body is superseded by the terms of a written donation agreement executed by the decedent. The surviving spouse's actions in delivering the body to the donee are not cognizable as reliance for purposes of a claim of deceit, inasmuch as the decedent's gift was already irrevocable upon his death. The donee had the exclusive right to control the disposition of the body pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 7100.1(a), limited only by the donation agreement itself [Conroy v. Regents of the University of California (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 1244, 1257, 91 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532, 203 P.3d 1127] .

[b] Next of Kin or Others

If the decedent has not left directions pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 7100.1, the right to control the disposition of the remains of a deceased person and the location and conditions of interment, and the right to arrange for funeral goods and services, vests in, and the duty of disposition and the liability for the reasonable cost of disposition of the remains, devolves on the following persons in the order listed below [Health & Safety Code § 7100(a)]:

- An agent under a power of attorney for health care who has the right and duty of disposition under Division 4.7 (Prob. Code § 4600 et seq.), except that the agent is liable for the costs of disposition only if the agent makes a specific agreement to pay the costs of disposition or if, in the absence of a specific agreement, the agent makes decisions concerning disposition that incur costs, in which case the agent is liable only for the reasonable costs incurred as a result of the agent's decisions, to the extent that the decedent's estate or other appropriate fund is insufficient.

- The competent surviving spouse.

- The sole surviving competent adult child of the decedent, or if there is more than one competent adult child of the decedent, the majority of the surviving competent adult children. However, less than one-half of the surviving adult children are vested with these rights and duties if they have used reasonable efforts to notify all other surviving competent adult children of their instructions and are not aware of any opposition to those instructions on the part of more than one-half of all surviving competent adult children.

- The surviving competent parent or parents of the decedent. If one of the surviving competent parents is absent, the remaining competent parent is vested with these rights and duties after reasonable efforts to locate the absent surviving competent parent have been unsuccessful.

- The sole surviving competent adult sibling of the decedent, or if there is more than one surviving competent adult sibling, the majority of those siblings. Less than the majority of the surviving competent adult siblings are vested with these rights and duties if they have used reasonable efforts to notify all other surviving competent adult siblings of their instructions and are not aware of any opposition to those instructions by the majority of all surviving competent adult siblings.

- The surviving competent adult person or persons respectively in the next degrees of kindred, and if there is more than one surviving competent adult person of the same degree of kindred, the majority of those persons. Less than the majority of surviving competent adult persons of the same degree of kindred are vested with these rights and duties if those persons have used reasonable efforts to notify all other surviving competent adult persons of the same degree of kindred of their instructions and are not aware of any opposition to those instructions on the part of one-half or more of all surviving competent adult persons of the same degree of kindred.

- The public administrator, if the deceased has sufficient assets.

In applying these rules, "adult" means a person who has attained 18 years of age, "child" includes a natural or adopted child of the decedent, and "competent" means a person who has not been declared incompetent by a court of law or who has been declared to be competent following a declaration of incompetence [Health & Safety Code § 7100(g)].

If any of the above-listed persons with the right to control the disposition of the body fails to act, or fails to delegate his or her authority to act to some other person, within seven days after the date when the right to control devolved upon that person, or within 10 days after that date if the controlling person is a competent surviving spouse, the right to control the body is relinquished and passed on to the next person or persons in the priority provided by the list [Health & Safety Code § 7105(a)]. Similarly, if any of the above-listed persons with the right to control the disposition of the body cannot be found, after reasonable inquiry, within seven days after the date when the right to control devolved upon that person, or within 10 days after that date if the controlling person is a competent surviving spouse, the right to control the body is relinquished and passed on to the next person or persons in the priority provided by the list [Health & Safety Code § 7105(b)].

If the person to whom the right of control has vested pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 7100(a) has been charged with first or second degree murder or voluntary manslaughter in connection with the decedent's death and those charges are known to the funeral director or cemetery authority, the right of control will be relinquished and passed on to the next of kin in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 7100(a) [Health & Safety Code § 7100(b)(1)]. If the charges against the person are dropped, or if the person is acquitted of the charges, the right of control will be returned to the person [Health & Safety Code § 7100(b)(2)]. Nevertheless, a person who has been charged with first or second degree murder or voluntary manslaughter in connection with the decedent's death, and to whom the right of control has not been returned, has no right to control disposition pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 7100(a), to the extent the funeral director or cemetery authority know about the charges [Health & Safety Code § 7100(c)].

A funeral director or cemetery authority has complete authority to control the disposition of the remains, and to proceed under this chapter to recover usual and customary charges for the disposition, when both of the following apply [Health & Safety Code § 7100(c)]:

- The funeral director or cemetery authority has knowledge that none of the persons described in Health & Safety Code § 7100(a)(1)-(6) exists, or they cannot be found after reasonable inquiry, or contacted by reasonable means.

- The public administrator fails to assume responsibility for disposition of the remains within seven days after written notice of the facts. The notice may be delivered by hand, U.S. mail, facsimile transmission, or telegraph.

If any persons from the list who would otherwise have equal rights to control the disposition of the body, excluding a public administrator, fail to agree on disposition and funeral goods and services within seven days after the date on which control over the body passed to that group of persons, either the cemetery or funeral establishment with possession of the remains, or any person sharing inequal right to control disposition of the body, may petition the superior court in the county in which the decedent resided at the time of death, or in which the remains are located, to have the court determine who will have control over disposition and to direct that selected person to inter the remains [Health & Safety Code § 7105(c)]. In these circumstances, the court in its order must also establish an alternate order specifying who will have the right to control disposition of the body if the person first selected fails to act within seven days [Health & Safety Code § 7105(c)].

[3] Autopsy

In cases in which the coroner is required by law to investigate the cause of death, the coroner has a paramount right to custody, including the right to conduct an autopsy, until the conclusion of the autopsy or medical investigation by the coroner [Health & Safety Code § 7102; Gov. Code §§ 27491, 27491.4, 27491.41; Walsh v. Caidin (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 159, 162, 283 Cal. Rptr. 326] . In other cases, the person charged with the duty of interment and entitled to custody of the remains for the purpose of interment under Health & Safety Code § 7102 may, but is not required to, authorize an autopsy [see Health & Safety Code § 7113].

An exception to this rule applies if the decedent executed a written "certificate of religious belief" against autopsy, which precludes an autopsy except in limited circumstances [see Gov. Code § 27491.43; Walsh v. Caidin (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 159, 164, 283 Cal. Rptr. 326] .

After the coroner completes any autopsy or investigation, the right to control disposition of the remains of a deceased and the duty of interment devolve on the family of the deceased [see Health & Safety Code § 7100; People v. McNeill (1980) 112 Cal. App. 3d 330, 337-338, 169 Cal. Rptr. 313] . The coroner, however, may retain tissues removed at autopsy for scientific investigation [Gov. Code § 27491.45 (including consent requirement in case of persons dying in a state hospital)].

[4] No Duty to Preserve Body as Evidence for Civil Discovery

Neither the statutes relating to dead bodies nor the statutes relating to civil discovery authorize a court to order an autopsy for civil discovery purposes. A court has no inherent authority to make such an order in the absence of statute [Walsh v. Caidin (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 159, 162, 283 Cal. Rptr. 326 ; Holm v. Superior Court (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1241, 1248-1249, 232 Cal. Rptr. 432] . Thus, a person with the right to control disposition of a decedent's remains owes no duty to an opposing party in civil litigation to preserve the dead body as evidence [Walsh v. Caidin (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 159, 163, 283 Cal. Rptr. 326] . Additionally, courts have held that human corpses are different from other types of physical evidence and are not subject to civil discovery to the same extent as other types of physical evidence [see Walsh v. Caidin (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 159, 163, 283 Cal. Rptr. 326 ; People v. Vick (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 1058, 1064, 90 Cal. Rptr. 236] .

[5] Tortious Interference With Right to Dispose of Remains

A cause of action may be stated against a close relative, as well as against a mortician or cemetery, for tortious interference with the statutory right to dispose of a decedent's remains and improper burial procedures contrary to the beliefs of the statutory right holder that would constitute interference with that person's rights [see Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 890, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181 ; Sinai Temple v. Kaplan (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 1103, 1112, 127 Cal. Rptr. 80] . For a form of complaint alleging this cause of action, see § 180.50.

However, Health & Safety Code § 7100 limits the liability of a funeral director or cemetery authority that carries out instructions given by the decedent or by the person entitled to control the disposition of the decedent's remains [Health & Safety Code § 7100(f); see Health & Safety Code § 7100(a) (persons entitled to control disposition of decedent's remains when decedent has not given instructions pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 7100.1); for further discussion, see § 180.12[2]]. A funeral director or cemetery has complete authority to control the disposition of a decedent's remains if none of the decedent's relatives can be found and the public administrator has not assumed responsibility [Health & Safety Code § 7100(c)].

A cause of action may also be based on mutilation of the remains, as in a case in which the remains have been mutilated as a consequence of an unauthorized autopsy. For an action for damages based on an unauthorized autopsy to lie, the complaint must set forth the circumstances that make the autopsy illegal [Gray v. Southern Pac. Co. (1937) 21 Cal. App. 2d 240, 245, 68 P.2d 1011 ; see § 180.51].

In addition to the statutory right holder's cause of action against a person who has usurped that right, if misconduct in the provision of funeral-related services occurs in secret and its consequences are not apparent to members of the decedent's family, all close family members for whom mortuary services are performed may recover for the emotional distress they suffer when the misconduct comes to light, regardless of which family member held the statutory right or actually contracted for the services [Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 890, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181] . This cause of action is discussed under § 180.14.

Health & Safety Code § 7104 imposes a duty of interment on the coroner, if no other accommodations for interment of a decedent have been made and if the duty of interment has not devolved to another person who can be located with reasonable diligence within the state [Health & Safety Code § 7104(a)]. How ever, this statutory provision does not impose a duty on the person having custody of the remains of a decedent that is enforceable in tort by persons who in fact have the right to inter the remains [Spates v. Dameron Hosp. Ass'n (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 208, 218, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 597] . In one case, for example, a hospital that turned a decedent's remains over to the coroner for cremation was not liable to the decedent's daughter under Health & Safety Code § 7104 for failing to contact her. The hospital, which had taken custody of the decedent from a nursing home and had no preexisting relationship with the daughter, had tried unsuccessfully to locate the daughter before turning the decedent's remains over to the coroner. The court of appeal held that Health & Safety Code § 7104 creates a condition of last resort with respect to the expense of interment of an unclaimed decedent and was designed to protect the county treasury, not the decedent's family members [Spates v. Dameron Hosp. Ass'n (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 208, 219, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 597] .

[6] Jurisdiction of Disputes Regarding Disposition of Remains

Jurisdiction of disputes over disposition of remains is in the civil court, not in probate, when the decedent's will is silent regarding disposition of his or her remains [Estate of Jimenez (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 733, 741, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 710] . A person entitled to dispose of decedent's remains may state a civil cause of action under Health & Safety Code § 7100 or file a petition under Health & Safety Code § 7526 for removal of decedent's remains when decedent's wishes regarding funeral arrangements, as expressed outside the decedent's will, have not been carried out. [Estate of Jimenez (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 733, 740-742, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 710] . It is unclear whether the probate court is the proper venue to hear disputes when decedent's wishes regarding disposition of remains are contained in decedent's will [see Estate of Jimenez (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 733, 741, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 710] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJurisdictionSubject Matter JurisdictionJurisdiction Over ActionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsDuties of Coroners & Medical ExaminersHealthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsProperty RightsTortsNegligenceActionsInterference With Dead BodiesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.13

§ 180.13 Action for Breach of Contract

Health & Safety Code § 7100 specifies the right to control the disposition of a decedent's remains, and to arrange for funeral goods and services to be provided, unless other directions have been given by the decedent. Thus, the decedent and another person, such as a longtime companion, may contract with a funeral provider for the disposition of the decedent's remains, and that person may recover damages for breach of that contract [see Saari v. Jongordon Corp. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 797, 802, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 82] .

Although in the typical contract case, it is not foreseeable that a breach will cause emotional distress, and damages for these injuries are therefore generally not recoverable, some contracts, including mortuary and crematorium contracts, so affect the vital concerns of the contracting parties that severe emotional distress is a foreseeable result of a breach [see Saari v. Jongordon Corp. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 797, 803-804, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 82 (citing Chelini v. Nieri (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 480, 481-482, 196 P.2d 915 , and Allen v. Jones (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 207, 211, 163 Cal. Rptr. 445); see also Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 894-895, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181 (in dictum, Court noted that emotional distress damages have been permitted in actions for breach of contract for provision of services related to disposition of human remains, because of unique nature of services)]. Thus, emotional distress damages may be recovered in an action for breach of this type of contract [Saari v. Jongordon Corp. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 797, 803-804, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 82] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawBreachGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsGeneral OverviewTortsIntentional TortsIntentional Infliction of Emotional DistressGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.14

§ 180.14 Negligence in Performance of Funeral-Related Services

[1] Duty Owed to Close Family Members

The mortuary or other provider assumes a duty with regard to the disposition of remains, pursuant to its agreement to provide funeral or other related services. It thereby creates a special relationship obligating it to perform those services properly and nonnegligently [Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 886-888, 890, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181] . These services are performed for the benefit of the living family members. Thus, the duty extends to close family members who were aware that the services were being performed and on whose behalf or for whose benefit the services were rendered [Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 876-890, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181 (disapproving Cohen v. Groman Mortuary, Inc. (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 1, 41 Cal. Rptr. 481 , which held that liability for interference with dead bodies runs only to family members having statutory right to dispose of remains); see also Quesada v. Oak Hill Improvement Co. (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 596, 610, 261 Cal. Rptr. 769] .

The duty is not limited to the contracting party or to the holder of the statutory right to control the disposition of the decedent's remains [Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 887, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181 ; see Health & Safety Code § 7100 (setting forth classes of persons with statutory right to control disposition)]. For a form of complaint alleging a cause of action based on negligence, see § 180.52.

Close family members have been held to include relatives residing in the same household or parents, siblings, children, and grandparents of the victim [Thing v. La Chusa (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 644, 668 n.10, 257 Cal. Rptr. 865, 771 P.2d 814 ; see also Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 882 n.12, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181 (noting without comment that court of appeal had defined "close relative" to include categories listed in Thing plus grandchildren)]. Exceptional circumstances may enlarge the group to include other relatives [Thing v. La Chusa (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 644, 668 n.10, 257 Cal. Rptr. 865, 771 P.2d 814 ; see also Quesada v. Oak Hill Improvement Co. (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 596, 610,261 Cal. Rptr. 769 (allowing niece opportunity to prove that she was within group)].

[2] Nature of Tort

Although the "negligent mishandling of a corpse" has sometimes been viewed as a separate tort, the California Supreme Court pointed out that it is not an independent tort, but simply an application of the tort of negligence to facts involving the disposition of remains [see Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 884, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181] . The elements of duty, breach of duty, causation, and damages must be pleaded and proved [Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 882, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181] . Reports of a general pattern of misconduct are not sufficient, in and of themselves, to establish that defendants' misconduct included mishandling of the remains of each plaintiff's decedent; a generalized concern that the remains of a relative may have been involved, arising out of a media report of a pattern of misconduct, is insufficient to satisfy the requirement that there be a direct connection between a defendant's conduct and the injury suffered by the plaintiff [Conroy v. Regents of the University of California (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 1244, 1251, 91 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532, 203 P.3d 1127] .

[3] Examples of Misconduct

Mortuary misconduct has occurred in a variety of ways, including:

- Removing organs and body parts prior to cremation without permission, cremating more than one body at the same time and commingling the remains in containers presented to family members, and removing and selling gold from cremated remains [Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 879, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181 ; see also Health & Safety Code §§ 8343-8345, 8347].

- Losing remains in shipment [Allen v. Jones (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 207, 213-214, 163 Cal. Rptr. 445] .

- Preparing remains for burial in accordance with religious customs that are not those of the next of kin [Allen v. Jones (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 207, 214-215, 163 Cal. Rptr. 445] .

- Presenting another person's corpse to family member instead of decedent's [Quesada v. Oak Hill Improvement Co. (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 596, 605, 261 Cal. Rptr. 769] .

- Burying another person's corpse in decedent's place [Quesada v. Oak Hill Improvement Co. (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 596, 605, 261 Cal. Rptr. 769] .

- Failing to provide adequate protection for decedent's remains [Draper Mortuary v. Superior Court (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 533, 535, 185 Cal. Rptr. 396 ; see also Ross v. Forest Lawn Mem'l Park (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 988, 996-997, 203 Cal. Rptr. 468] .

While a mortuary that contracts to provide funeral services and arrange for the cremation of a decedent has a duty of due care to perform its services nonnegligently [Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 886-888, 890-891, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181] , the mortuary may delegate the duty to carry out the cremation in a respectful and dignified manner to a subcontractor crematory. Since a mortuary has no statutory right to perform or oversee cremations, so long as the mortuary fulfills its duty to use due care in selecting the crematory, the mortuary is not vicariously liable for the wrongful cremation practices of the crematory [Hansell v. Santos Robinson Mortuary (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 608, 612-617, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 361] .

[4] Willed Body Programs

While a mortuary or crematorium may be liable for emotional distress for negligent mishandling of a corpse [see [1]-[3], above], a research institution that obtains willed bodies for medical dissection, research, and teaching purposes, and does not purport to provide funeral-related services, does not owe the same duties to the family members of donated corpses [Melican v. Regents of University of California (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 168, 179, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 672] . A research institution that contractually agrees only to dispose of a decedent's remains in accordance with state law has no duty to return any remains to the decedent's family [see Conroy v. Regents of University of California (2009) 45 Cal.

4th 1244, 1253, 91 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532, 203 P.3d 1127] . It may voluntarily undertake to do so, however, although such a voluntary undertaking will not support the imposition of liability if the remains returned have been commingled with the remains of another corpse [Melican v. Regents of University of California (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 168, 180-181, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 672] . Evidence of a general pattern of mishandling of donated bodies by a willed-body program will not support liability for negligence absent evidence demonstrating to a "well-founded substantial certainty" that the body of plaintiff's decedent was actually mishandled [Conroy v. Regents of University of California (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 1244, 1251, 91 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532, 203 P.3d 1127] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceDutyAffirmative Duty to ActSpecial RelationshipsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.15

§ 180.15 Disinterment

A body may be disinterred as provided in Health & Safety Code §§ 7500, 7501, and 7525. A reasonable cause must be shown for the removal of a body. The following factors are considered in deciding to disinter a body [In re Terra (1952) 111 Cal. App. 2d 452, 458, 244 P.2d 921 ; In re Keck (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 846, 849, 171 P.2d 933] :

- The due interest of the public.
- The wishes of the decedent.
- The rights and feelings of those entitled to be heard by reason of relationship or association.
- The rights and principles of the religious body or other institution that granted the right to inter the body at the first place of burial.
- Whether consent was given to the burial in the first place of interment.

A presumption against removal grows stronger with remoteness of the connection with the decedent [In re Terra (1952) 111 Cal. App. 2d 452, 458, 244 P.2d 921 ; In re Keck (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 846, 849, 171 P.2d 933] .

The procedure for removal of a decedent's body from a cemetery by the person entitled by law to remove the remains appears to consist of applying to the local registrar of the county in which the cemetery premises are located for a removal permit. The local registrar must then issue a permit to the cemetery authority allowing removal of the interred remains [Health & Safety Code § 7501]. A written order from the health department having jurisdiction or by the superior court of the county in which the cemetery is located also must be issued in order for the remains of a decedent to be disinterred [Health & Safety Code § 7500]. Additionally, consent by the cemetery authority and the written consent of the nearest surviving relative of the decedent are mandatory [Health & Safety Code § 7525].

Permission of the court may be obtained by petition if the cemetery authority or the nearest surviving relative refuses to give consent [Health & Safety Code § 7526; for a form of petition, see § 180.54]. A greater showing must be made justifying disinterment than for the initial interment decision [see Estate of Jimenez (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 733, 739, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 710 (citing In re Keck (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 846, 851, 171 P.2d 933); see also Maffei v. Woodlawn Mem'l Park (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 119, 126-130, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 679 (no abuse of discretion for trial court to deny surviving spouse's disinterment request made 20 years after burial)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.16

§ 180.16 Liability for Interment and Disinterment Expense

The liability for the reasonable cost of final disposition devolves jointly and severally on all kin of the decedent in the same degree of kindred and on the decedent's estate. If, however, a person accepts the anatomical gift of an entire body under the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act, that person, subject to the terms of the gift, will be liable for the reasonable cost of final disposition of the decedent [Health & Safety Code § 7100(d)].

The decedent's estate is primarily liable for funeral and interment expenses; the decedent's next of kin are only secondarily liable [see Health & Safety Code § 7101 (estate liable for reasonable costs of funeral, plot, and interment); Walker v. Konitzer (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 654, 660, 31 Cal. Rptr. 906] . If authorized by ordinance, however, coroner's charges of up to $100 for the actual expenses of taking a dead body into custody may be collected from the person entitled to control the disposition of the remains or, if not paid by that person, from the decedent's estate as a funeral expense, unless either (1) the body is that of a child under the age of 14 or (2) the coroner ascribes the death to the criminal act of another, unless the coroner has reasonable grounds to believe that the deceased was involved in any criminal activity that contributed to his or her own death [Gov. Code § 27472].

By contrast, one who causes the disinterment and reburial of the body of a relative in a family plot is not entitled to recover the costs of reburial from the beneficiaries of the decedent's estate or from the decedent's next of kin [Walker v. Konitzer (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 654, 660-661, 31 Cal. Rptr. 906] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Duties & RightsDebt LiabilityHealthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsProperty Rights

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.17

§ 180.17 Notice of Proposed Change of Cemetery Use

A city or county is required to give notice pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 65091-65094 whenever a person applies to the city or county for a zoning variance, special use permit, conditional use permit, zoning ordinance amendment, general or specific plan amendment, or any entitlement for use that would permit all or any part of a cemetery to be used for other than cemetery purposes [Gov. Code § 65096].

Under these provisions, notice must be given to owners of real property located within a specified distance of the cemetery property, the cemetery property owner or his or her agent, and each public agency expected to provide essential facilities or services to the project [see Gov. Code § 65091]. Notice must also be given to any person who has filed a written request for notice pursuant to Gov. Code § 65092. The local agency may not, however, require annual renewal of the request [Gov. Code § 65096(c)]. For a discussion of the requirements of Gov. Code §§ 65091-65094, see Ch. 579, Zoning and Planning .

After 1989, the cemetery authority must provide written notice to each person who purchases or agrees to purchase interment rights of that person's ability to receive notice of a proposed change in the use of the cemetery for other than cemetery purposes. The written notice must be substantially as follows [Health & Safety Code § 8120]:

> "State law gives you the right to know about future plans to use this cemetery for any other purpose. If you want to receive information about a future change, you must contact the local planning office and pay a small fee."

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseSpecial Permits & Variances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 180.18-180.29

[Reserved]

§§ 180.18[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.30

§ 180.30 Related Matthew Bender Publications

For forms of interrogatories dealing with remedies and liabilities with respect to disposition and care of a body following death, see Bender's Forms of Discovery, Dead Bodies

For legal forms relating to a testator's disposition of his or her remains, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 69, Charitable Dispositions
Personal Injuries Actions Defenses Damages, Dead Bodies

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsInterrogatoriesFormHealthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.31

§ 180.31 State Statutes

[1] Autopsy

Coroner's inquest. Gov. Code § 27490

Coroner's autopsy. Gov. Code § 27491.4

Immunity for removal of corneal tissue by or at direction of coroner or medical examiner. Gov. Code §§ 27491.43, 27491.47

Authorization for autopsy. Health & Safety Code §§ 7113, 7114

[2] Bodies

Disposal of cremated remains. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 9607.6, 9740-9750, 9760.5, 9760.6

Interment and disinterment. Health & Safety Code §§ 7051-7055, 7500-7528

Prohibition of cremation of one person with another or scattering or commingling cremated remains of one person with another without permission; misdemeanor. Health & Safety Code § 7054.7

Right of control, duty, and liability for disposition of remains. Health & Safety Code §§ 7100-7112

Decedent's written instructions regarding disposition of remains and funeral goods and services to be provided, are required to be faithfully carried out on death. Health & Safety Code § 7100.1

Sea burial of cremated remains. Health & Safety Code §§ 7102, 7117, 7501, 10376

Uniform Anatomical Gift Act. Health & Safety Code § 7150 et seq.

Uniform Determination of Death Act. Health & Safety Code §§ 7180-7183

General acute care hospitals required to develop protocols for identifying potential organ and tissue donors. Health & Safety Code § 7184

Unclaimed dead. Health & Safety Code §§ 7200, 7202-7207

Embalming and transportation of dead bodies. Health & Safety Code §§ 7300-7355

Prohibition on sale of human organs. Penal Code § 367f

[3] Cemeteries, Mausoleums, and Columbariums

Cemetery lots and improvements as property exempt from execution. Code Civ. Proc. § 704.200

Notice of hearing requirements for proposed change of cemetery use. Gov. Code § 65096; Health & Safety Code § 8120

Cemeteries generally. Health & Safety Code §§ 8100-8115

Public cemeteries. Health & Safety Code §§ 8125-8136

Private cemeteries. Health & Safety Code §§ 8250-8829

Public cemetery districts. Health & Safety Code §§ 9000-9093

Mausoleums and columbariums. Health & Safety Code §§ 9501-9677

Malicious destructive acts in cemetery or interference with carrying of human remains or funeral service are misdemeanors. Penal Code § 594.35

[4] Contracts for Disposition of Remains

Funeral director who knowingly fails to present pre-need agreement to survivor of deceased, or to responsible party, is liable for civil fine. Bus. & Prof. Code § 7745

[5] Crematory

Crematory licensee who prohibits relatives or responsible party from viewing cremation process, must disclose that policy in writing to persons entitled to custody of remains, prior to signing of contract. Bus. & Prof. Code § 9784.5

[6] Licensing

Regulation of funeral directors and embalmers. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 7600-7742

Cemetery regulations. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 9600-9770

[7] Native American Burial Grounds

Records of Native American burial grounds exempted from disclosure under Public Records Act (Gov. Code §§ 6250-6267). Gov. Code § 6254(r)

Notification of Native American Heritage Commission of discovery of Native American burial ground. Health & Safety Code § 7050.5

Powers and duties of Native American Heritage Commission regarding burial grounds. Pub. Res. Code §§ 5097.94, 5097.98

Obtaining or possessing Native American artifacts from burial ground as unlawful. Pub. Res. Code § 5097.99

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawAnatomical GiftsHealthcare LawTreatmentBlood & Organ DonationsUniform Anatomical Gift ActHealthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsDuties of Coroners & Medical ExaminersHealthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsTribal Remains

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.32

§ 180.32 Decisions

[1] Airlines

Air carrier is entitled to limit its liability for loss or destruction of luggage only if it allows passenger to protect luggage by either carrying it on board or purchasing excess valuation insurance; ticket agent's refusal to allow widow to carry husband's cremated remains on board violated this rule and tariff requiring that valuables be personally carried by passesnger; limitation on airline's liability was therefore unenforceable. Coughlin v. Trans World Airlines, Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 847 F.2d 1432, 1433-1434

[2] Autopsy

Absent express statutory language, California courts are without legal authority, inherent or expressly conferred, to authorize or direct disinterment or autopsy of human remains for discovery purposes. Holm v. Superior Court (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1241, 1245, 1248-1249, 232 Cal. Rptr. 432

Coroner was not liable and no cause of action existed where allegations against coroner for wrongful performance of autopsy failed to show that coroner was not authorized to perform autopsy under the circumstances. Gray v. Southern Pac. Co. (1937) 21 Cal. App. 2d 240, 245-246, 68 P.2d 1011

[3] Contracts for Disposition of Remains

Under Health & Safety Code § 7100 et seq., decedent's surviving spouse was bound by contracts between cemetery and son and son-in-law of decedent, because two men acted as if they were chosen representatives of decedent's family. Sinai Mem'l Chapel v. Dudler (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 190, 198, 282 Cal. Rptr. 263 (also noting that spouse stated she had authorized contracts)

Contracts between cemetery and family of decedent are not vitiated by grief arising from death of close relative. Sinai

Mem'l Chapel v. Dudler (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 190, 199, 282 Cal. Rptr. 263

[4] Interment

Other relatives lack right or control to dispose of remains of deceased person if there is a surviving spouse since right to dispose of remains and duty of interment and liability therefor vest in surviving spouse. Cohen v. Groman Mortuary, Inc. (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 1, 5, 41 Cal. Rptr. 481

Duty of interment and liability of reasonable cost thereof devolves on surviving spouse, if any; but reasonable cost of interment is charged against estate if decedent leaves estate in California. Estate of Cornitius (1957) 154 Cal. App. 2d 422, 427, 316 P.2d 438

Charge for funeral expenses is not debt of decedent but of estate; when surviving spouse paid funeral expenses under compulsion of suit against her by undertaker, surviving spouse did not volunteer payment and was entitled to repayment from estate. Estate of Cornitius (1957) 154 Cal. App. 2d 422, 427-430, 316 P.2d 438

Wish of deceased and his widow do not affect court's power and jurisdiction to authorize executors to perform duty of seeking order fixing permanent place of interment for decedent's body when body was temporarily deposited in vault and court had duty to make such order. In re Estate of Seymour (1911) 15 Cal. App. 287, 293-294, 114 P. 1023

[5] Liability of Coroner

Although county coroner ordinarily has no duty to notify decedent's next of kin, failure to so notify may possibly give rise to cause of action for negligent infliction of emotional distress if county voluntarily assumes duty to assist in locating victim and then fails to act in careful and reasonably diligent manner in carrying out that duty. Bock v. County of Los Angeles (1983) 150 Cal. App. 3d 65, 72-73, 197 Cal. Rptr. 470

In action against county for allegedly hiring and retaining coroner who negligently performed autopsy on plaintiff's wife, causing plaintiff's wrongful charge with murder, deputy coroner was immune from liability under Gov. Code §§ 821.6 and 815.2 and that immunity also inured to benefit of county. Stearns v. County of Los Angeles (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 134, 138, 79 Cal. Rptr. 757

[6] Mental Suffering

Relatives of decedent who died while in constructive police custody at state-run hospital could not recover from hospital for emotional distress caused by hospital's failure to locate and notify relatives, because relevant statutory provisions placed duty to take charge of and dispose of remains on coroner, not hospital, and hospital had no special relationship with relatives that created any duty owed directly to them. Aguirre-Alvarez v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 1058, 1063-1070, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 580

Claim by deceased's mother for damages for mental suffering was compensable for defendant cemetery's alleged negligent breach of oral promise to exclude uninvited persons from funeral service, which was consequently disrupted by deceased's uninvited punk rocker friends. Ross v. Forest Lawn Mem'l Park (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 988, 992-995, 203 Cal. Rptr. 468

Recovery for mental distress is permitted for negligent breach of contract to prepare and ship dead body. Allen v. Jones (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 207, 213, 163 Cal. Rptr. 445

[7] Mortuary Operations

Mortuary and cemetery situated together may properly advertise that fact through paid advertisements and sign, and failure to make reference therein to separate corporate structures and details of separate licensing arrangement with state does not constitute misleading advertising in violation of Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500. State Bd. of Funeral Dirs. v. Mortuary in Westminster Mem'l Park (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 638, 643, 76 Cal. Rptr. 832

Mortuaries may be properly operated on cemetery premises. State Bd. of Funeral Dirs. v. Mortuary in Westminster Mem'l Park (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 638, 642, 76 Cal. Rptr. 832

[8] Native American Burial Grounds

Pub. Res. Code § 5097.99 is not constitutionally vague despite statute's failure to define terms "Native American" and "grave"; provisions prohibiting obtaining or possessing Native American artifacts taken from Native American grave do not violate defendant archeologists' rights to practice their profession and to due process. People v. Van Horn (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1378, 1402-1403, 267 Cal. Rptr. 804

[9] Negligence

Reports of a general pattern of misconduct are not sufficient, in and of themselves, to establish that defendants' misconduct included mishandling of the remains of each plaintiff's decedent; a generalized concern that the remains of a relative may have been involved, arising out of a media report of a pattern of misconduct, is insufficient to satisfy the requirement that there be a direct connection between a defendant's conduct and the injury suffered by the plaintiff. Conroy v. Regents of the University of California (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 1244, 1251, 91 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532, 203 P.3d 1127

Sister of decedent is foreseeable plaintiff in action alleging that negligent mishandling of remains by county and mortuary caused severe emotional distress; issue of fact existed regarding whether severe emotional distress to decedent's niece was foreseeable. Quesada v. Oak Hill Improvement Co. (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 596, 610, 261 Cal. Rptr. 769

Once mortuary undertakes to accept care, custody, and control of remains, duty of care is found running to members of decedent's family; whether or not duty has been breached by failure to lock premises so as to prevent access to remains by unauthorized persons was question of fact for jury. Draper Mortuary v. Superior Court (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 533, 538, 185 Cal. Rptr. 396

[10] Perpetual Care Gifts

Bequest to benevolent association for perpetual care of testator's lot in public cemetery was void as rule against perpetuities since bequest did not benefit sufficiently broad class of persons so as to constitute charitable gift nor come within exception to rule as in cases of bequests to cemetery authorities for care of plot in private cemetery. Estate of Pfund (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 444, 445-447, 209 P.2d 52

[11] Private Cemeteries

Absent fraud or collusion, interpretation of religious law by governing body of private cemetery is accepted in litigation before secular courts as conclusive, even if decision affects civil rights of decedent's surviving spouse and even if decision is arbitrary; prohibition of portraits from gravestones is reasonable exercise of authority granted by statutes to administer cemetery property for general good, and to make choices that are against wishes of some individuals. Sinai Mem'l Chapel v. Dudler (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 190, 199-200, 282 Cal. Rptr. 263

[12] Property Rights in Human Remains

The right of a surviving spouse to control the disposition of a decedent's body is superseded by the terms of a written donation agreement executed by the decedent, and a university to which the decedent had donated his remains for scientific and anatomical studies had the exclusive right to control the disposition of the body pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 7100.1(a), limited only by the donation agreement itself. Conroy v. Regents of the University of California (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 1244, 1257, 91 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532, 203 P.3d 1127

Deceased's mother's right of disposition of deceased's body includes power to exclude uninvited friends and relatives of deceased from funeral service. Ross v. Forest Lawn Mem'l Park (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 988, 994-995, 203 Cal. Rptr. 468

Law recognizes quasi-property right to possession of decedent's body for purposes of determining who shall have possession for burial, though no property right as such in body of decedent. Sinai Temple v. Kaplan (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 1103, 1110, 127 Cal. Rptr. 80 ; Gray v. Southern Pac. Co. (1937) 21 Cal. App. 2d 240, 246-247, 68 P.2d 1011

Removal of body from original burial place does not in itself constitute ground for recovery of damages since there is no property right in a dead body. Steen v. Whittington (1935) 9 Cal. App. 2d 445, 446-447, 50 P.2d 118

Person possesses certain elements of proprietary interest in his or her body which enable him or her to make valid directions as to place and manner of interment; directions are judicially enforceable if reasonable and appropriate. Estate of Henderson (1936) 13 Cal. App. 2d 449, 453-454, 57 P.2d 212

Where dispute between wishes of deceased and relatives as to manner or place of burial arises, court in accordance with principles of equity will attempt to carry out wishes of deceased where possible. Estate of Henderson (1936) 13 Cal. App. 2d 449, 454-455, 57 P.2d 212

[13] Public Cemeteries

In action to enjoin further excavation of Native American burial ground, trial court properly found that site was not public cemetery because there was no prescriptive use of land as public cemetery continuously and without interruption for five years subsequent to enactment of prescriptive use provision of former Political Code §§ 3105-3107 (now see Health & Safety Code 8100-9677). Wana the Bear v. Community Constr., Inc. (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 536, 541, 180 Cal. Rptr. 423

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsDuties of Coroners & Medical ExaminersHealthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsProperty RightsTortsDamagesCompensatory DamagesPain & SufferingEmotional & Mental DistressGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceActionsInterference With Dead BodiesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.33

§ 180.33 Attorney General Opinions

Cemetery authority cannot transfer endowment care fund to corporation that is not bank or trust company. 65 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 393 (1982)

Cost of moving body from place of death to mortuary on coroner's order to investigate cause of death, is not chargeable to deceased's estate or to person responsible for interment, unless transportation was also necessary in performance of coroner's duty to inter remains or unless person responsible for interment cost agreed to pay for transportation. 65 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 141 (1982)

Holding human bodies in cryonic suspension does not constitute operation of cemetery within meaning of Health & Safety Code § 7003 or 8100; Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Health & Safety Code § 7150 et seq.] requirements are not met by placing body in cryonic suspension. 63 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 879 (1980)

Coroner is required to take possession of infant's body and perform autopsy where suspected cause of death is sudden infant death syndrome, unless there is prior objection by parents or certification of sudden infant death syndrome by attending physician. 58 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 563 (1975)

Crematory is a cemetery and is mandated to have in conjunction with its operation either mausoleum, burial park, or columbarium equipped at all times for interment of remains of bodies cremated at crematory. 55 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 402 (1972)

County coroner violates Gov. Code § 1090 by assigning coroner cases to mortuaries in which coroner has financial interest. 42 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 151 (1963)

Coroner or autopsy surgeon are not civilly or criminally liable for body tissue or organs removed according to law and not returned prior to burial where retention is reasonably necessary to determine cause of death. 27 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 46 (1956)

Coroner is not authorized to investigate cause of death of person who was injured in his or her county but who dies outside county, though coroner must investigate every death occurring by violence or other circumstances mandating investigation in that county even if body is elsewhere. 27 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 75 (1956)

Coroner is obligated to sign death certificate if death occurs in county even if body has been removed. 27 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 75 (1956)

Coroner lacks official status beyond limits of own county and lacks authority beyond own county to call or question witnesses, though coroner may travel beyond county and base report on information gained outside county limits. 27 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 75 (1956)

Discretion as to need for autopsy is vested in coroner whose decision is subject to question only if grossly unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious. 20 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 143 (1952)

Coroner has right to immediate possession of body where death occurs without physician in attendance, even though there are no circumstances to suggest criminal cause, suicide, or accident; coroner may prohibit removal of body without his or her permission under these circumstances. 5 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 65 (1945)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsDuties of Coroners & Medical ExaminersHealthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsProperty Rights

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.34

§ 180.34 Law Reviews

Katz, Increasing the Supply of Human Organs for Transplantation: A Proposal for a System of Mandated Choice, 18 Bev. Hills B.J. (1984)

Bucklin, Forensic Pathology for Attorneys, 12 Cal. West. L. Rev. 197 (1976)

Richards, Medical--Legal Problems of Organ Transplantation; The Uniform Anatomical Gift Act, 21 Hastings L.J. 92 (1969)

Note, Special Treatment of Cemeteries, 40 S. Cal. L. Rev. 716 (1967)

Comment, Autopsy Laws--An Examination of Rules and Policies, 25 S. Cal. L. Rev. 68 (1951)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawAnatomical GiftsHealthcare LawTreatmentGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentBlood & Organ DonationsUniform Anatomical Gift ActHealthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentHuman RemainsDuties of Coroners & Medical Examiners

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.35

§ 180.35 Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 13, Personal Property, § 5 et seq. (10th ed. 2005)

25 C.J.S., Dead Bodies, §§ 1-9

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 180.36-180.49

[Reserved]

§§ 180.36[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART IV. FORMS

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.50

§ 180.50 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Mental Anguish for Tortious Interference With Decedent's Remains--By Child of Decedent [Health & Safety Code § 7100] Against Decedent's Father

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Mental Anguish for Tortious Interference With Decedent's Remains--By Child of Decedent [Health & Safety Code § 7100] Against Decedent's Father

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF_____

_____[name],	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff,	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
vs.	)	(Tortious Interference with Decedent's Remains)
_____ [name],	)	[Amount demanded _____
Defendant.	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is the surviving child of _____ [name of decedent], hereinafter referred to as "decedent."

2. Defendant _____ [name] is _____ [specify, e.g., the surviving father of the decedent] and resides in _____ [city], _____ County, California.

3. _____ [Name of decedent] died on _____ [date], in _____ [city], _____ County, California.

4. By reason of the relationship of plaintiff and decedent, plaintiff was at all times herein mentioned entitled to immediate custody and possession of the decedent's remains.

5. On or about _____ [date], defendant _____ [negligently or willfully] interfered with the plaintiff's right to dispose of and inter the remains of the decedent contrary to the wishes and beliefs of plaintiff by _____ [specify, e.g., conducting funeral services which contravene the beliefs of plaintiff and decedent in that _____ (specify manner in which services contravened plaintiff's religious beliefs)].

6. This interference was _____ [negligent or willful] in that _____ [specify, e.g., defendant failed to obtain the permission or authorization of plaintiff as _____ (specify, e.g., surviving child) of decedent and the person possessing the legal right to determine the disposition and burial of decedent's remains prior to defendant's tortious interference].

7. Defendant's disposition of the decedent's body is and was repugnant, offensive, and insulting to plaintiff and his/her beliefs and learning of defendant's disposition of decedent's body, and thereafter, caused the plaintiff extreme mental anguish and disgust and disturbed his/her peace of mind causing him/her to become permanently sick in mind and body.

8. By reason of defendant's acts plaintiff has been damaged.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For compensatory damages according to proof;

2. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use in an action by a decedent's child based on the tortious interference with decedent's remains by decedent's father who lacked the paramount right to dispose of and inter decedent's remains [see Health & Safety Code § 7100].

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges the following:

- Plaintiff's relationship to the decedent (Paragraph 1).
- Defendant's name, residence, and relationship to the decedent (Paragraph 2).
- Decedent's name and the date and place of his or her death. (Paragraph 3).
- Plaintiff's entitlement to the decedent's remains (Paragraph 4) [Health & Safety Code § 7100].
- Defendant's interference with plaintiff's right to dispose of the decedent's remains (Paragraph 5) [see Sinai Temple v. Kaplan (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 1103, 1112, 127 Cal. Rptr. 80 , Sinai Temple v. Kaplan (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 1103, 1112, 127 Cal. Rptr. 80] .
- Defendant's failure to obtain plaintiff's permission prior to interfering with decedent's remains (Paragraph 6).
- Injury and damages proximately caused as a result of defendant's tortious interference (Paragraphs 7, 8).

[4] Parties Plaintiff

The proper parties plaintiff are those persons with the paramount right to control disposition of the decedent's remains. The order of devolution, unless other instructions have been given by the decedent, is as follows [Health & Safety Code § 7100]:

- An attorney-in-fact under a durable power of attorney for health care executed pursuant to Probate Code § 4600 et seq.
- The surviving spouse.
- The sole surviving adult child of the decedent, or if there is more than one adult child of the decedent, one-half or more of the surviving adult children.
- The surviving parent or parents of the decedent.
- The surviving competent adult person or persons respectively in the next degrees of kindred.
- The public administrator if the deceased has sufficient assets.

If the proper plaintiff is a minor, he or she must be represented by a guardian ad litem for the purposes of prosecuting the action and appropriate modifications should be made in Paragraph 1 of the form [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 372-373; for discussion and forms, see Ch. 291, Guardians ad Litem].

[5] Specification of Damages

In an action to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages for anything other than personal injury or wrongful death (for example, property damage) must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)] or an equivalent statement must be included, for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

No claim for punitive damages may state an amount sought regardless of the nature of the case [Civ. Code § 3295(e)].

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought if they are not stated in the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115], see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments .

[6] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude the defendant from using a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[7] Jurisdiction

The superior court has jurisdiction of the action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less, in which case it will be classified as a limited civil case [Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(1)].

In limited civil cases, the caption must identify the case as a limited civil case and must state whether the demand exceeds or does not exceed $10,000 [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Gov. Code § 70613(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9), (10)].

[8] Cross References

For alternative allegations as to agency, capacity, and residence of parties, and fictitious name allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used

For alternative forms of captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions

For discussion and forms relating to the format of complaints, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints

For discussion and forms relating to damages and pleading damages, see Ch. 177, Damages

For discussion and forms relating to Fax service and filing of papers, see Ch. 264, Fax Service and Filing of Papers

For discussion of jurisdiction in California courts in general, see Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter Jurisdiction

For alternative forms of prayers, see Ch. 420, Prayers

For discussion and forms relating to service of summons generally, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers

For forms of allegations showing proper venue, see Ch. 571, Venue

For alternative forms of verification, see Ch. 572, Verification

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART IV. FORMS

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.51

§ 180.51 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Mental Anguish for Tortious Interference With Decedent's Remains--By Widow [Health & Safety Code § 7100] Against Hospital and Doctor for Unauthorized Retention [Health & Safety Code § 7102], Autopsy [Health & Safety Code § 7113], and Mutilation of Husband's Remains

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Mental Anguish for Tortious Interference With Decedent's Remains--By Widow [Health & Safety Code § 7100] Against Hospital and Doctor for Unauthorized Retention [Health & Safety Code § 7102], Autopsy [Health & Safety Code § 7113], and Mutilation of Husband's Remains

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____[name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____[names],	)	(Unauthorized Retention, Autopsy, and Mutilation of
[and DOES-I through _____,]	)	Human Remains)
Defendants.	)	[Amount demanded _____
	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is the widow and surviving spouse of _____ [name], referred to below as "decedent," who died on _____ [date], at _____ [time] in _____ [specify, e.g., _____ Hospital] in _____ [city], _____ County, California.

2. Defendant _____ [name of hospital] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California with its principal place of business in _____ [city], _____ County, California [or allege other capacity of defendant and basis of venue as appropriate].

3. Defendant _____ [name of doctor] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a physician and surgeon duly licensed to practice medicine and perform surgery in California with offices in _____ County, California.

[4. Defendants Doe I through Doe _____, inclusive, are sued herein under fictitious names. Their true names and capacities are unknown to plaintiff. When their true names and capacities are ascertained, plaintiff will amend this complaint by inserting their true names and capacities herein. (Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that each of the fictitiously named defendants is responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that plaintiff's damages as herein alleged were proximately caused by those defendants.)]

5. [Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that] [A]t all times herein mentioned each of the defendants was the agent and employee of the other defendant and, in doing the things hereinafter alleged, was acting within the course and scope of such agency.

6. By reason of the relationship of plaintiff and decedent, plaintiff was at all times herein mentioned entitled to immediate custody and possession of the decedent's remains.

7. The decedent's death was due to natural causes consisting of _____ [specify, e.g., coronary thrombosis as attested by decedent's attending physician]. While the decedent's remains were in the defendant's custody in _____ County, California, the defendants and each of them unlawfully, without any legal authorization as specified in Section 27491 of the Government Code or permission of the next of kin, and without plaintiff's knowledge or consent, and against her will, permitted, performed, and assisted in an autopsy on the decedent's remains, and in doing so mutilated, desecrated, violated, and outraged the remains of the decedent, as follows _____ [specify acts of defendants in performing autopsy].

8. When viewed by the plaintiff and thereafter, the mutilation, desecration, violation, and outraging of the _____ [specify, e.g., head and body] of the decedent were repugnant, offensive and insulting to the plaintiff, and the defendants' acts, and each of them, caused the plaintiff physical shock, mental anguish, and extreme disgust, and disturbed permanently her peace of mind causing her to become permanently sick in mind and body.

9. By reason of the acts of the defendants, plaintiff has been damaged.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. For compensatory damages according to proof;

2. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[Verification, if desired. See § 180.50]

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use in an action based on tort [see Huntly v. Zurich Gen. Accident & Liab. Ins. Co., (1929) 100 Cal. App. 201, 212-213, 280 P. 163] by a widow against a hospital and a doctor for the unauthorized retention, autopsy [Health & Safety Code § 7114], and mutilation [Health & Safety Code § 7052] of her husband's remains.

With appropriate modification, the form may be used by a surviving husband, parent, child, or other persons entitled to bring a cause of action pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 7100.

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges:

- The capacity of defendants (Paragraphs 2 and 3).

- The relationship of plaintiff to the decedent entitling plaintiff to decedent's remains (Paragraphs 1 and 6) [Health & Safety Code § 7100].

- Defendants' performance of an autopsy on decedent's remains under circumstances which did not warrant an autopsy [Gov. Code § 27491] and without permission to perform an autopsy (Paragraph 7).

- Injury and damages to plaintiff as a result of the unauthorized autopsy (Paragraphs 8 and 9).

[4] Autopsy Authorization

An autopsy may be authorized by the decedent by will or other written instrument or by the following living persons: (a) the surviving spouse, (b) a surviving child or parent, (c) a surviving brother or sister, (d) any other kin or person who has acquired the right to control the disposition of the remains [Health & Safety Code §§ 7100, 7102], (e) a public administrator, or (f) a coroner [Gov. Code §§ 27491, 27491.2, 27491.4] or any other duly authorized public officer [Health & Safety Code § 7113].

[5] Form of Authorization

Autopsy authorization, given by persons other than the decedent, may be written, by telegram, or obtained by telephone and recorded on tape or other recording device [Health & Safety Code § 7113]. Verbal authorization is not acceptable if it is made known to the physician who is to perform the autopsy that the deceased was at the time of his or her death a member of a religion, church, or denomination which relies solely on prayer for the healing of disease [Health & Safety Code § 7113].

A licensed hospital [Gov. Code § 815] or its authorized personnel [Gov. Code §§ 820-821.6] is not liable for permitting or assisting an autopsy, and a physician is not liable for performing an autopsy pursuant to authorization [see Division of Labor Law Enforcement v. Gifford (1955) 137 Cal. App. 2d 259, 263-264, 290 P.2d 281] unless he or she or it has actual notice that the person giving the authorization has represented his or her status falsely [Health & Safety Code § 7113].

A coroner's autopsy is subject to question only when grossly unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious [see 20 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 143, 145 (1952)] .

[6] Certificate of Religious Belief Limiting Autopsy

Despite any other provision of law, except as otherwise provided in Gov. Code § 27491.43, in any case in which the coroner, before beginning an autopsy, dissection, or removal of corneal tissue, pituitary glands, or any other organ, tissue, or fluid, has received a certificate of religious belief executed by the decedent as provided in Gov. Code § 27491.43(b) (form and content of certificate), that the procedure would be contrary to his or her religious belief, the coroner shall not perform that procedure on the body of the decedent. If, before beginning the procedure, the coroner is informed by a relative or a friend of the decedent that the decedent had executed a certificate of religious belief, the coroner shall not perform the procedure, except as otherwise provided in Gov. Code § 27491.43, for 48 hours. If the certificate is produced within 48 hours, the case shall be governed by Gov. Code § 27491.43. If it is not produced within that time, the case shall be governed by the other provisions of Gov. Code §§ 27490-27512 (inquests) [Gov. Code § 27491.43(a)].

Gov. Code § 27491.43 provides exceptions that allow the coroner to perform an autopsy or other procedure on a reasonable suspicion that the death was caused by a criminal act or by a contagious disease that is a public health hazard, and in other cases the coroner may petition the court to allow an autopsy or other procedure [see Gov. Code § 27491.43(c), (d)]. The coroner is not liable for damages in a civil action for any act or omission taken in compliance with Gov. Code § 27491.43 [Gov. Code §§ 27491.43(f), 27491.41(h)].

[7] Coroner's Immunity in Case of Autopsy of Infant Who Died Suddenly and Unexpectedly

The coroner may, and in some instances must, perform an autopsy in any case in which infant has died suddenly and unexpectedly [see Gov. Code § 27491.41(c)]. No consent of any person is required to authorize this autopsy [see Gov. Code § 27491.41(i)]. In addition, the coroner may take tissue samples for research in such cases without consent of a responsible adult if tissue removal is not likely to result in visible disfigurement [see Gov. Code § 27491.41(g)].

The coroner cannot be held liable for damages in a civil action for any act or omission done in compliance with Gov. Code § 27491.41 [see Gov. Code § 27491.41(h)].

[8] Cross References

For additional comments and cross references relating to complaints, see § 180.50[2] et seq.

155 of 157 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART IV. FORMS

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.52

§ 180.52 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] Based on Negligence--By Close Relative of Decedent, for Whose Benefit Funeral-Related Services Were Performed, Against Funeral Service Provider--Mishandling of Remains

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] Based on Negligence--By Close Relative of Decedent, for Whose Benefit Funeral-Related Services Were Performed, Against Funeral Service Provider--Mishandling of Remains

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____[name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [name],	)	(Negligence)
[and DOES-I through _____,]	)	[Amount demanded _____
Defendant.	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)

Plaintiff Alleges:

1. _____ [Allege capacity of each defendant and basis of venue as appropriate, e.g., Defendant _____ (name) is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of California, with its principle place of business in _____ (city), _____ County, California].

2. Defendant _____ [name] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, engaged in the business of _____ [specify, e.g., funeral director and cemetery].

[3. Defendants Doe I through Doe _____, inclusive, are sued herein under fictitious names. Their true names and capacities are unknown to plaintiff. When their true names and capacities are ascertained, plaintiff will amend this complaint by inserting their true names and capacities herein. (Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that each of the fictitiously named defendants is responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that plaintiff's damages as herein alleged were proximately caused by those defendants.)]

[4. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that) at all times herein mentioned each of the defendants was the agent and employee of each of the remaining defendants, and in doing the things hereinafter alleged, was acting within the scope of that agency.]

[EITHER, if plaintiff is a parent, sibling, child, or grandparent of decedent]

5. Plaintiff is the _____ [father or mother or brother or sister or son or daughter or grandfather or grandmother] of _____ [decedent's name] ("decedent").

[OR, if plaintiff is related to decedent, but not as a parent, sibling, child, or grandparent]

5. Plaintiff is the _____ [specify relationship, e.g., aunt] of _____ [decedent's name] ("decedent"). In addition, plaintiff _____ [set forth facts that tend to show a close relationship between the plaintiff and the decedent sufficient to make plaintiff's emotional distress foreseeable, e.g., lived with decedent at their residence at _____ (address), from _____ (date), until the time of decedent's death].

[Here and in as many subsequent paragraphs as necessary, identify any additional plaintiff, and specify his/her close family relationship to the decedent]

[CONTINUE]

6. On or about _____ [date], at defendant's facility located at _____ [address], defendant received possession and custody of _____ [decedent's name] ("the decedent") for the purpose of proper disposition of the decedent's remains.

7. At that time and place, defendant[s, and each of them,] undertook and agreed to provide funeral-related services, and to accomplish the _____ [burial or cremation] of the remains of decedent for the benefit of plaintiff, and with the dignity and respect due plaintiff in accordance with his/her wishes, in keeping with public sensibilities, and in accordance with the law.

8. Plaintiff, at all material times, was aware of the death of his/her decedent, and the nature of the funeral-related services that were to be performed.

9. On or about _____ [date], defendant[s, and each of them,] _____ [allege acts or omissions of defendant that would foreseeably cause mental suffering in plaintiff, e.g., mishandled and mutilated decedent's remains and commingled his/her remains with the remains of other persons; removed, harvested, and sold organs and body parts from decedent without authorization and permission; cremated decedent's remains in a disrespectful manner at a pottery kiln; took and sold gold and other metals from decedent's remains; and placed decedent's remains in containers without preserving the integrity and identity of the remains].

10. _____ [Allege facts showing how plaintiff learned of defendant's misconduct and that plaintiff knew or had substantial reason to believe that his/her particular decedent was a victim of defendant's misconduct].

11. As a proximate result of the negligence of defendant[s, and each of them], plaintiff was hurt and injured in his/her health, strength, and activity, sustaining injury to his/her nervous system and person, all of which injuries have caused, and continue to cause, plaintiff great mental, physical, and nervous pain and suffering. [Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that such injuries will result in some permanent disability to him/her.] As a result of such injuries, plaintiff has suffered general damages in an amount according to proof.

[12. As a further proximate result of the negligence of defendant(s, and each of them,) plaintiffs have incurred(, and will continue to incur,) medical and related expenses in an amount according to proof].

[13. As a further proximate result of the negligence of defendant[s, and each of them], plaintiff's earning capacity has been greatly impaired, both in the past and present, in an amount according to proof.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant's and each of them, as follows:

1. For general damages according to proof;

[2. For medical and related expenses according to proof;]

[3. For loss of earnings _____ according to proof;]

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[Verification, if desired. See § 180.50]

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use in an action by a close relative of a deceased person who was aware that funeral and/or crematory services were being performed, and on whose behalf or for whose benefit the services were rendered. The fact pattern set forth by way of example was adapted from the facts of Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181 [see also Quesada v. Oak Hill Improvement Co. (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 596, 610, 261 Cal. Rptr. 769] .

If the plaintiff himself or herself has contracted with the defendant for the disposition of the decedent's remains, or has the statutory right to direct disposition, the form may be modified to allege that relationship [see, e.g., Chelini v. Nieri

(1948) 32 Cal. 2d 480, 481, 196 P.2d 915 (award of general damages in action against mortician for breach of contract to preserve body of plaintiff's mother as proper); see also Carey v. Lima, Salmon & Tully Mortuary (1959) 168 Cal. App. 2d 42, 43, 335 P.2d 181] . However, the cause of action is no longer limited to those plaintiffs [see Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 886-891, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181] .

[3] Allegations

The form alleges:

- The status, capacity, residence or place of business, and business of the defendant (Paragraphs 1 and 2);

- The identification of any fictitiously named defendants, if applicable (Paragraph 3);

- The requisite agency relationship in order to establish vicarious liability, if applicable (Paragraph 4);

- Facts regarding plaintiff's relationship to the decedent (Paragraph 5). The "close relative" limitation on permissible plaintiffs is discussed under § 180.52[4] [see Thing v. La Chusa (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 644, 668 n.10, 257 Cal. Rptr. 865, 771 P.2d 814 ; see also Quesada v. Oak Hill Improvement Co. (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 596, 610, 261 Cal. Rptr. 769] .

- The circumstances that establish defendant's duty toward the plaintiff (Paragraphs 66-88). A defendant funeral-services provider owes a duty only to the close relatives of a decedent who were aware of both the death of the decedent, and of the nature of the funeral-related services that were to be performed on their behalf [Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 890, 896, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181] .

- Actions or omissions of defendant that constitute the breach of duty (Paragraph 9).

- Facts showing how plaintiff learned of defendant's misconduct and that plaintiff knew or had substantial reason to believe that their particular decedent was a victim of defendant's misconduct, or that the alleged continuing emotional distress each plaintiff suffers is based on knowledge that his or her decedent's remains have been mishandled (Paragraph 10) [Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 901, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181] . The requirements regarding pleading and proof of causation are discussed under § 180.52[8].

- The defendant's negligence proximately caused plaintiff's damages (Paragraphs 11-13). Note that the misconduct alleged is not the negligent mishandling of human remains, but rather lies in causing emotional distress to the plaintiff [Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 884 n.14, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181 , see also Johnson v. American Airlines, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 834 F.2d 721, 723-724].

[4] "Close Relative" Requirement

In Christensen, the Supreme Court stressed that the class of persons who could recover was limited in number, as it encompassed only "close relatives" [Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 900, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181]. "Close relatives" has been defined, in the context of actions for negligent infliction of emotional distress based on a "bystander" theory, to include parents, siblings, children, and grandparents of the victim, and other relatives who reside in the same household [Thing v. La Chusa (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 644, 668 n.10, 257 Cal. Rptr. 865, 771 P.2d 814]. In adopting this definition as a factor limiting the permissible number of plaintiffs in an action to recover damages for emotional distress caused by misconduct involving a corpse, the California Supreme Court implied that grandchildren may also be proper plaintiffs [Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 882 n.12, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181 (noting without comment that court of appeal had defined "close relative" to include categories listed in Thing plus grandchildren)]. Exceptional circumstances may enlarge the group to include other relatives [Thing v. La Chusa (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 644, 668 n.10, 257 Cal. Rptr. 865, 771 P.2d 814 ; see also Quesada v. Oak Hill Improvement Co. (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 596, 610, 261 Cal. Rptr. 769 (allowing niece opportunity to prove that she was within group)].

[5] Causation Requirements

In Christensen, the California Supreme Court emphasized that a plaintiff may recover damages only for an injury resulting from defendant's breach of a duty owed to the plaintiff [Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 901, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181] . The Court stated that media reports of a general pattern of misconduct are not sufficient, in and of themselves, to establish that a defendant's misconduct included mishandling of the remains of each plaintiff's decedent [Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 901, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181] . However, an allegation that plaintiff learned from media reports that "his" or "her" decedent had been improperly treated has been held to be sufficient to allege the direct causation required [Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 901, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181] . The Court noted that the plaintiffs' ability to prove either that he or she knew, or had substantial reason to believe, at the time he or she learned of the misconduct that his or her decedent was a victim of the defendants' misconduct, or that the alleged continuing emotional distress each plaintiff suffers is based on knowledge that his or her decedent's remains have been mishandled, were not before the Court [Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 901, 901 n.27, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181 (also noting that trial court had discretion to permit amendment of complaint to allege that new evidence permits identification of decedents whose remains were mishandled, and that some plaintiffs suffer emotional distress due to inability to ascertain whether or not their decedents' remains were mishandled)].

Although the Court did not make clear the precise requirements for pleading and proving causation, counsel should allege with as much specificity as possible that plaintiff's emotional distress was caused by defendant's breach of the duty toward the specific decedent with whom plaintiff had the requisite relationship.

[6] Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to negligence actions, see Ch. 380, Negligence

For additional comments and cross references relating to complaints, see §§ 180.50[2] et seq. and, 180.51[2] et seq.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART IV. FORMS

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.53

§ 180.53 Petition [Health & Safety Code § 7105] for Order Providing for Interment of Human Remains [Health & Safety Code § 7107]--By Cemetery or Relative--Persons With Right to Control Interment Cannot Agree on Disposition

[1] FORM Petition [Health & Safety Code § 7105] for Order Providing for Interment of Human Remains [Health & Safety Code § 7107]--By Cemetery or Relative Persons With Right to Control Interment Cannot Agree on Disposition

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	PETITION FOR ORDER OF INTERMENT
_____ [name],	)	(Failure to Inter Remains) Respondent.	)
	)
	)

Petitioner alleges:

1. Petitioner is, and at all times herein mentioned was, _____ [specify, e.g., son of the decedent, with a share of the right to control the disposition of the decedent's remains, or a (nonprofit) corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, with its principal place of business in _____ (city), _____ County, California, for the purpose of engaging in and transacting the business of a cemetery known as _____ (specify, e.g., Memorial Park Cemetery) located within the boundaries of _____ County, California].

2. Respondent is _____ [specify, e.g., the daughter of the decedent who shares in the duty of, and liability for, the interment of decedent's remains].

3. _____ [Name of decedent] died on _____ [date], in _____ [city], _____ County, California.

4. _____ [Decedent at the time of his/her death was a resident of _____ County, California or The remains of decedent are located in _____ (city), _____ County, California].

5. _____ [If petitioner is a relative of decedent, allege: The remains of the decedent are in the possession of _____ (name of cemetery, mortuary, etc.) or if petitioner is a cemetery authority, allege: Petitioner has possession of the remains of the decedent].

6. _____ [Specify parties who have right to control disposition of remains, e.g., if petitioner is relative of decedent, Petitioner and respondent] acquired the right to control the disposition of the remains of the decedent on _____ [date], when _____ [specify how right to control disposition devolved to parties, e.g., the decedent died].

7. _____ [Specify parties who have right to control disposition of remains, e.g., if petitioner is relative of decedent, Petitioner and respondent] have failed to agree on the disposition of the decedent's remains and failed to agree on funeral goods and services within seven days after acquiring the right to control the disposition of the decedent's remains, and the remains of the decedent have not been interred.

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays judgment as follows:

1. For an order giving to one party the right to control the disposition of the decedent's remains and directing that party to make interment of the remains.

2. For an alternate order giving to another party the right to control disposition of the remains if the first selected party fails to act within seven days after the court's original order.

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

[Verification, if desired. See § 180.50]

[2] Use of Form

This form of petition is for use by a cemetery or funeral home, or a relative of the decedent, in commencing a proceeding to assign one relative to take control over the disposition of a decedent's remains if a group of relatives share equal right to control, but cannot agree on disposition plans, and to compel the assigned relative to then inter the remains [Health & Safety Code § 7105(c)]. If any persons from the list provided in Health & Safety Code § 7100 who would otherwise have equal rights to control the disposition of the body, excluding a public administrator, fail to agree on disposition and funeral goods and services within seven days after the date on which control over the body passed to that group of persons, either the cemetery or funeral establishment with possession of the remains, or any person sharing in equal right to control disposition of the body, may petition to have a court determine who will have control over disposition and to direct that selected person to inter the remains [Health & Safety Code § 7105(c)].

In these circumstances, the court in its order must also establish an alternate order specifying who will get the right to control disposition of the body if the person first selected fails to act within seven days [Health & Safety Code § 7105(c)].

[3] Jurisdiction and Venue

The petition must be filed in superior court and is not a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 85; Health & Safety Code § 7105(c); for further discussion of jurisdiction, see § 180.12[6]].

Venue lies in the county in which the decedent resided at the time of death or in which the remains are located [Health & Safety Code § 7105(c), see also Health & Safety Code § 7107].

[4] Verification

Verification of this petition is not required, but assuming the same rules apply as in the case of a complaint, verification of the petition will require the defendant to file a verified answer [see Code Civ. Proc. § 446] and will preclude the respondent from making a general denial [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26, Answers .

157 of 157 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 180 DEAD BODIES AND CEMETERIES
PART IV. FORMS

15-180 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 180.54

§ 180.54 Petition for Permission of Court [Health & Safety Code § 7526] to Remove Remains [Health & Safety Code § 7525]--By Relation of Decedent Against Cemetery or Next of Kin Listed in Health & Safety Code § 7525

[1] FORM Petition for Permission of Court [Health & Safety Code § 7526] to Remove Remains [Health & Safety Code § 7525]--By Relation of Decedent Against Cemetery or Next of Kin Listed in Health & Safety Code § 7525

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	PETITION FOR PERMISSION TO REMOVE AND Respondent.	)	REINTER REMAINS
	)
	)

Petitioner alleges:

1. Petitioner is, and at all times herein mentioned was _____ [specify, e.g., a surviving brother of the decedent].

[EITHER]

2. Respondent is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, with its principal place of business in _____ [city], _____ County, California, for the purpose of engaging in and transacting the business of a cemetery within _____ County, California. The cemetery is known as _____ [specify, e.g., Memorial Park Cemetery] and is located within the boundaries of _____ County, California.

[OR]

2. Respondent[s] is/are the surviving _____ [spouse or child(ren) or parent(s) or brother(s) or sister(s)] of the decedent.

3. _____ [Name of decedent], died on _____ [date], in _____ [city], _____ County, California and was buried in _____ Cemetery in _____ [city], California.

4. _____ [Specify reasons that petitioner wants decedent's remains disinterred, e.g., Respondent breached its contract with petitioner for the perpetual care of the grave by allowing the grave to become overgrown with weeds and, although it has been notified of the condition of the grave, respondent has failed and refused to remedy the condition].

5. On _____ [date], petitioner secured from _____ [specify, e.g., the Registrar of Vital Statistics, Registration District No. _____] a permit for the removal of the remains of decedent from the cemetery to _____. A copy of the permit is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

6. On _____ [date], petitioner obtained from the health department having jurisdiction an order for the removal of decedent's remains.

[EITHER]

7. The closest surviving next of kin has/have consented in writing to the removal of the body of decedent.

[OR]

7. The cemetery has consented to the removal of the body of decedent.

8. Thereafter, on _____ [date], the petitioner signed a written demand and request to the _____ [cemetery or specify surviving kin] requesting the removal of the remains of decedent. A copy of the request is attached hereto as Exhibit B and made a part hereof.

Notwithstanding this demand, respondent has failed and refused and still fails and refuses to consent to or allow the removal of the remains of decedent from the cemetery.

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays that this court make its order fixing the time and place for the hearing of this petition and the person or association on whom service of notice of the hearing shall be given, and that at the hearing an order be made by this court authorizing the removal of the remains of the decedent from the cemetery for interment in _____ [name of cemetery where remains are to be interred].

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner_____ [name]

[Verification, if desired. See § 180.50.]

[2] Use of Form

This form of petition is for use by a relative of a decedent in a proceeding to compel the cemetery or next of kin to permit the petitioner to disinter the decedent's remains for reinterment in another place.

The remains of a decedent can only be removed with the consent of the cemetery and the written consent of the deceased's next of kin [Health & Safety Code § 7525, see also Health & Safety Code § 7980 (rules for religious cemeteries) and In re Terra (1952) 111 Cal. App. 2d 452, 459-460, 244 P.2d 921] . If the cemetery's consent or the consent of the closest next of kin cannot be obtained, this petition may be used to obtain permission from the superior court of the county in which the cemetery is situated [Health & Safety Code §§ 7500, 7526; for further discussion of jurisdiction, see § 180.12[6]].

This form assumes that the persons listed in Health & Safety Code § 7100 as having the right to control the remains of a deceased person for purposes of interment (see § 180.50[4]) are the only persons entitled to bring a petition for permission to disinter the body. However, no statute limits the persons entitled to bring the petition, and a close friend was permitted to appeal the denial of a petition, although the court admitted there might be some doubt about the friend's legal right to maintain the appeal [In re Keck (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 846, 849, 171 P.2d 933] .

For further discussion of disinterment, see § 180.15.

[3] Notice Requirements

The petitioner must give personally at least 10 days prior notice to the cemetery authority or other person not consenting to disinterment or at least 15 days prior notice if by mail [Health & Safety Code § 7527].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 181.syn

§ 181.syn Synopsis to Chapter 181: DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS

§ 181.01 Scope of Chapter

§§ 181.02-181.09 [Reserved]

§ 181.10 Governing Law

§ 181.11 Definitions

§ 181.12 Wrongful Death Action

[1] Nature

[2] Separate Action From Decedent's Action

[3] Effect of Decedent's Negligence

[4] Effect of Decedent's Assumption of Risk

[5] Effect of Decedent's Agreement to Arbitrate

[6] Res Judicata Effect of Judgment in Decedent's Action

[7] Action as Joint, Single, and Indivisible

[8] Omitted Heirs

[9] Prior Adjudication of Issue of Liability

§ 181.13 Elements of Wrongful Death Action

§ 181.14 Plaintiffs

[1] In General

[2] Statutory Categories of Plaintiffs

[3] Personal Representation

§ 181.15 Defendants

[1] In General

[2] Joinder of Unwilling Plaintiffs as Defendants

§ 181.16 Award of Damages

[1] In General

[2] Distinct From Survival Damages

[3] Punitive Damages Generally Not Allowed

[4] Punitive Damages in Actions Based on Felony Homicide

§ 181.17 Damages Limited to Pecuniary Loss

[1] In General

[2] Present Value of Future Contributions

[3] Value of Personal Service, Advice, or Training

[4] Loss of Society and Companionship

[5] Funeral Expenses

[6] Prejudgment Interest

§ 181.18 Damages Determined at Time Decedent Died

[1] General Rule and Burden of Proof

[2] Decedent's Life Expectancy Considered

§ 181.19 Recovery of Lump Sum Damages

§ 181.20 Distribution of Damages

§ 181.21 Limitation on Recovery in Medical Malpractice Cases

§ 181.22 Limitation on Attorney's Fees in Medical Malpractice Cases

§ 181.23 Statute of Limitations for Wrongful Death Action

[1] Two-Year Period and Tolling

[2] Actions Against Health Care Providers

§ 181.24 Vicarious Liability of Parent for Death Caused by Minor

§§ 181.25-181.39 [Reserved]

§ 181.40 Governing Statutes

§ 181.41 Definitions

§ 181.42 Survival Action

[1] Availability

[2] In Family Law Matters

[3] Invasion of Privacy and Defamation

[4] Injury to Child or Ward

[5] Action to Establish Decedent's Insured Liability

[6] Cause of Action Accruing Before Plaintiff's Death

§ 181.43 Cause of Action Commenced or Continued by Decedent's Successor in Interest

§ 181.44 Statute of Limitations

[1] Decedent's Cause of Action

[2] Cause of Action Against Decedent

§ 181.45 Damages Recoverable in Survival Action

[1] In General

[2] Medical Expenses

[3] Loss of Earnings

[4] Punitive Damages

§ 181.46 Recovery of Damages Against Deceased Defendant

[1] Availability

[2] Punitive Damages Not Recoverable

§§ 181.47-181.59 [Reserved]

§ 181.60 Governing Statutes

§ 181.61 Joinder and Consolidation of Wrongful Death and Survival Actions

§§ 181.62-181.79 [Reserved]

§ 181.80 State Statutes

§ 181.81 Decisions

[1] Actions of Decedent

[2] Amendment of Complaint

[3] Award of Damages

[a] Amount Discretionary

[b] Authority

[c] Damages Limited to Pecuniary Loss

[d] Detriment Suffered by Decedent Before Death Not Recoverable

[e] Distinct From Survival Damages

[f] Emotional Distress Damages Not Allowed

[g] Interest

[h] No Recovery Without Loss

[4] Defenses

[5] Distribution of Damages

[a] Determination

[b] Loss to Each Wrongful Death Plaintiff

[6] Elements of Pecuniary Loss

[a] Funeral Expenses as Recoverable

[b] Grief, Wounded Feelings, and Sorrow Not Basis for Recovery

[c] Medical Expenses as Not Recoverable

[d] Present Value of Future Contributions

[e] Reasonably Expected Benefits

[f] Value of Personal Service, Advice, or Training

[g] Value of Society and Companionship

[7] Nature of Cause of Action

[a] In General

[b] Action Entirely Statutory

[c] Arising From Tortious Conduct

[d] Effect of Judgment in Decedent's Action

[e] New Cause of Action

[f] Wrongful Death and Survival Actions

[8] Plaintiffs

[a] In General

[b] Characterization of Action With Respect to Plaintiffs

[c] Compulsory Joinder of Wrongful Death Plaintiffs

[d] Dependency on Decedent

[e] Guardian ad Litem for Minor Plaintiffs

[f] Personal Representative Acts Only on Behalf of Others

[g] Parents

[h] Waiver of Joinder Requirement

[9] Proof of Damages

[10] Recovery of Lump Sum Damages

[11] Statute of Limitations

[12] Statutory Remedies Exclusive

[13] Time at Which Loss Measured

§§ 181.82-181.99 [Reserved]

§ 181.100 State Statutes

§ 181.101 Decisions

[1] Action by or Against Personal Representative

[2] Cause of Action Accruing Before Death

[3] Nonsurvivable Causes of Action

[a] Invasion of Privacy

[b] Libel and Slander

[c] Marriage

[4] Recovery of Damages for Deceased Plaintiff

[a] Availability

[b] Loss of Earnings

[c] Medical Expenses

[d] Pain and Suffering Damages Not Recoverable

[e] Punitive Damages

[f] Wrongful Death Damages Additional

[5] Survivable Causes of Action

[6] Wrongful Death and Survival Actions

§§ 181.102-181.119 [Reserved]

§ 181.120 State Statutes

§ 181.121 Decisions

§§ 181.122-181.139 [Reserved]

§ 181.140 Judicial Council Trial Court Pleading Form [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.45(a)]--Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Wrongful Death Based on Negligence [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60; Cal. Judicial Council Forms PLD-PI-001, PLD-PI-001(1), PLD-PI-001(2), MC-025]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Filling Out Wrongful Death Complaint

[a] In General

[b] Caption

[c] Venue (Paragraph 8)

[d] Relationship to Deceased and Damages (Paragraph 12)

[e] Damages Suffered (Paragraph 11)

[f] Causes of Action Attached (Paragraph 10)

[g] Specification of Damages (Paragraph 14)

[4] Verification

[5] Filling Out General Negligence Cause of Action

[6] Trial Court Delay Reduction Considerations

§ 181.141 Complaint for Damages for Wrongful Death [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Personal Representative of Decedent

[5] Verification

[6] Venue

[7] Specification of Damages

[8] Trial Court Delay Reduction Considerations

[9] Cross References

[10] State Statutes

[11] Decisions

[a] Allegation of Capacity as Personal Representative

[b] Allegation of Existence of Entitled Persons

[c] Allegations of Damages

[d] Cause of Action

[e] Guardian ad Litem

[12] Text References

[13] Cross References

§ 181.142 Allegation--Plaintiff Is Person Entitled to Assert Wrongful Death Cause of Action--Plaintiff Is Decedent's Surviving Spouse, Child, or Issue of Deceased Child [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Text References

[5] Cross References

§ 181.143 Allegation--Plaintiff Is Person Entitled to Assert Wrongful Death Cause of Action--Plaintiff Would Be Entitled to Property of Decedent by Intestate Succession, and There Exists No Surviving Spouse, Child, or Issue of Deceased Child of Decedent [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Text References

[5] Cross References

§ 181.144 Allegation--Plaintiff Is Person Entitled to Assert Wrongful Death Cause of Action--Plaintiff Is Putative Spouse, Child of Putative Spouse, Stepchild, or Parent of Decedent Who Was Dependent on Decedent [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(b)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Decisions

[5] Text References

[6] Cross References

§ 181.145 Allegation--Plaintiff Is Person Entitled to Assert Wrongful Death Cause of Action--Plaintiff Is Minor

Who Resided With Decedent and Who Was Dependent on Decedent for One Half or More of Minor's Support [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(c)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Text References

[5] Cross References

§ 181.146 Allegation--Person Entitled to Assert Wrongful Death Action, Who Has Not Consented to Joining Action as Plaintiff, Should Be Joined as Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 382]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Text References

[4] Cross References

§ 181.147 Demurrer [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30(a)] to Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Wrongful Death [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]--Failure to Join All Entitled Persons as Parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(d)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Objection to Nonjoinder of Plaintiffs

[4] Cross References

[5] State Statutes

[6] Decisions

[7] Text References

§ 181.148 Demurrer [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30(a)] to Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Wrongful Death [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]--Statute of Limitations [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 335.1, 430.10(e)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

[4] State Statutes

[5] Decisions

[6] Text References

§ 181.149 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)] to Action for Wrongful Death [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]--Action Estopped by Judgment in Prior Action Brought by Decedent [Code Civ. Proc. § 1908]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

[4] State Statutes

[5] Decisions

[6] Text References

§ 181.150 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] in Interpleader [Code Civ. Proc. § 386]--Adverse Claims Made on Attorney by Wrongful Death Plaintiffs for Distribution of Damages Received in Settlement of Wrongful Death Claim or Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

[4] State Statutes

[5] Decisions

[6] Text References

§§ 181.151-181.169 [Reserved]

§ 181.170 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Surviving Cause of Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30] by Personal Representative or Successor in Interest of Decedent--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Cross References

[5] State Statutes

[6] Decisions

[a] Recoverable Damages

[i] Medical and Related Expenses

[ii] Punitive Damages

[b] Survival of Plaintiff's Action

[9] Text References

§ 181.171 Caption and Introduction of Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Surviving Cause of Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.40] With Allegations of Capacity--Against Decedent's Personal Representative or Successor in Interest

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Decisions

[5] Cross References

§§ 181.172-181.189 [Reserved]

§ 181.190 Captions, Introduction, Format, and Prayer of Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Wrongful Death by Plaintiff [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60] and Surviving Cause of Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30]--By Decedent's Personal Representative or Successor in Interest

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 181.191 Notice of Motion for Order Consolidating Wrongful Death [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60] and Survival [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30] Actions Arising From Same Wrongful Act or Neglect [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.62(b), 1048]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

[4] State Statutes

[5] Decisions

[6] Text References

§ 181.192 Notice of Motion for Order to Consolidate Wrongful Death Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60] and Surviving Action for Injuries to Minor Child [Code Civ. Proc. § 376]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

[4] State Statutes

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART I. SCOPE

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.01

§ 181.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses actions by a decedent's surviving spouse, child, or grandchild, and other persons specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 for the wrongful death of the decedent.

This chapter includes the Judicial Council form of complaint for personal injury, property damage, or wrongful death to which the Judicial Council general negligence cause of action has been attached [see § 181.140], a general form of complaint for wrongful death [see § 181.141], forms of allegation regarding who may be a plaintiff in a wrongful death action and who should be joined [see §§ 181.142 -181.146], forms of demurrer [§§ 181.147, 181.148] and affirmative defense [see § 181.149] to a complaint for wrongful death, and a form of complaint in interpleader for distribution of wrongful death damages [see § 181.150].

This chapter also discusses actions by or against a decedent's personal representative based on causes of action the decedent held prior to his or her death or causes of action for which a decedent would have been liable and which survived his or her death under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.20-377.43. This chapter includes a general form of complaint in a survival action brought by the personal representative or successor in interest of a deceased plaintiff [see § 181.170], and a form of caption and introduction for a complaint in a cause of action against a defendant who has died [see § 181.171].

This chapter discusses permissive joinder or consolidation of wrongful death and survival actions that arise out of the same wrongful act or neglect. This chapter includes a form of caption, introduction, and prayer for use in a complaint for damages that joins a wrongful death action by a qualified wrongful death plaintiff and a survival action by a decedent's personal representative or successor in interest [see § 181.190] and forms of notice of motion for consolidation of wrongful death and surviving causes of action [§§ 181.191, 181.192].

For discussion of procedure for consolidation of actions, generally, and applicable forms, see Ch. 125, Consolidation, Severance, and Coordination of Actions .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART I. SCOPE

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 181.02-181.09

[Reserved]

§§ 181.02[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.10

§ 181.10 Governing Law

Wrongful death actions are governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.60-377.62. A parent's vicarious liability for wrongful death caused by a minor's willful misconduct is governed by Civ. Code § 1714.1(a). The requirement that a claim be submitted before filing a wrongful death action against a government entity is governed by Gov. Code § 911.2.

A two-year (one-year, prior to January 1, 2003) statute of limitations governs most wrongful death actions [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 312, 335.1; see also former Code Civ. Proc. § 340(3); Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions, § 345.14]. However, the limitations period may be tolled in some circumstances [see Code Civ. Proc. § 352]. If a wrongful death action survives the death of a potential wrongful death plaintiff, a special statute of limitations provision applies [see Code Civ. Proc. § 366.1]. In addition, special limitations rules may apply for certain types of harm [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 340.2 (death caused by asbestos), 340.5 (action against health care provider)].

The leading case stating the general rule that all wrongful death plaintiffs should join in a single action or be joined as defendants is Cross v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 690, 694, 36 Cal. Rptr. 321, 388 P.2d 353 .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawFamily Relationships & TortsTort LiabilityChild TortsGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsDefensesStatutes of Limitations

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.11

§ 181.11 Definitions

Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 limits a claim for wrongful death to the death of "a person." A person is legally dead if brain functions or circulatory and respiratory functions have irreversibly ceased [see Health & Safety Code § 7180; Dority v. Superior Court (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 273, 277, 193 Cal. Rptr. 288] . An unborn fetus is not a person under Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 [Justus v. Atchison (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 564, 580, 139 Cal. Rptr. 97, 565 P.2d 122 ; Reyna v. City & County of San Francisco (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 876, 880, 138 Cal. Rptr. 504 (interpreting former Code of Civ. Proc. § 377 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60))].

Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 creates an action for wrongful death only when the death "is caused by the wrongful act or neglect of another." The phrase "wrongful act" has been construed to mean "tortious act," and includes actions based on either negligence or intentional wrongful conduct [see Barrett v. Superior Court (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1176, 1183, 1191, 272 Cal. Rptr. 304 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60))]. It appears, however, that a wrongful death action cannot be based solely on a breach of contract [Kaiser Found. Hosps. v. Superior Court (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 327, 334-335, 62 Cal Rptr. 330 ; Moxon v. County of Kern (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 393, 399, 43 Cal. Rptr. 481].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.12

§ 181.12 Wrongful Death Action

[1] Nature

A wrongful death action is an action for damages for the death of one person when that death is caused by the wrongful act or neglect of another [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]. In California, the action is considered entirely a creature of statute [Justus v. Atchison (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 564, 571-575, 139 Cal. Rptr. 97, 565 P.2d 122] . Although the statute is remedial and should be liberally construed, the action itself exists only so far and in favor of such person as the legislature may declare [Justus v. Atchison (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 564, 575, 579-580, 139 Cal. Rptr. 97, 565 P.2d 122 ; Steed v. Imperial Airlines (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 115, 119-120, 115 Cal. Rptr. 329, 524 P.2d 801 ; see Moxon v. County of Kern (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 393, 397, 43 Cal. Rptr. 481] . Thus, for example, because the legislature did not intend that a fetus be considered a person within the meaning of former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60), a wrongful death action cannot be maintained for the death of an unborn child [Justus v. Atchison (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 564, 580, 139 Cal. Rptr. 97, 565 P.2d 122] . The action is personal to those persons authorized by statute to maintain it, and it may not be assigned [Mayo v. White (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 1083, 1090, 224 Cal. Rptr. 373 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc § 377 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60))].

The purpose of the action is to compensate persons who have a relationship with the decedent that is delineated by statute for the pecuniary loss suffered by them as a result of the death of the decedent [see Estate of Riccomi (1921) 185 Cal. 458, 461, 197 P. 97 ; Pease v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 450, 460-461, 113 Cal. Rptr. 416] and to deter the conduct by defendants that wrongfully takes life [see Hurtado v. Superior Court (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 574, 583, 114 Cal. Rptr. 106, 522 P.2d 666] .

[2] Separate Action From Decedent's Action

A wrongful death action is not an asset in the estate of the decedent [Mayo v. White (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 1083, 1091, 224 Cal. Rptr. 373] . It is a new cause of action and is not a continuation or revival of an old action or an action that subsisted prior to a decedent's death. A plaintiff entitled to sue under the statute has a new right, entirely distinct from any right vesting in the injured person before his or her death [see Norman v. Murphy (1954) 124 Cal. App. 2d 95, 98, 268 P.2d 178 ; Secrest v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1943) 60 Cal. App. 2d 746, 747-748, 141 P.2d 747 ; see also Schwarder v. United States (9th Cir. 1992) 974 F.2d 1118, 1123 (decedent's settlement of personal injury action did not preclude heirs' recovery of damages in wrongful death action); Coe v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 981, 992, 136 Cal. Rptr. 331 (decedent's settlement of claim as not barring wrongful death action)].

Because the action is distinct and not derivative, a plaintiff's compliance with certain procedures that are a prerequisite to the filing of the personal injury suit, such as the filing of a tort claim against a governmental entity, does not excuse persons entitled to a wrongful death cause of action from compliance with the same procedures prior to filing a wrongful death action arising out of the same personal injuries [see Lewis v. City & County of San Francisco (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 339, 341, 98 Cal. Rptr. 407 (claim filed prior to personal injury action did not satisfy requirement of filing claim for wrongful death)]. Conversely, a rule that restricts or prohibits the filing of a personal injury action may not necessarily apply to a wrongful death action for the same injuries [see Garcia v. State of California (1967) 247 Cal. App. 2d 814, 816-817, 56 Cal. Rptr. 80 (state's immunity from liability for injuries to prisoner did not exclude wrongful death plaintiffs from filing wrongful death action against state)].

Although a wrongful death action is separate and not derivative, a defendant may have a right, as noted in the subsections that follow, to assert a defense that could have been asserted against the decedent had he or she lived. However, each case must be examined within its particular context [Horwich v. Superior Court (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 272, 283, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 222, 980 P.2d 927] . If a statutory defense is being asserted against a wrongful death plaintiff on the grounds that it could have been asserted against the decedent, courts will generally treat the issue as one of statutory construction, allowing the defense or not according to the express terms of the statute, while respecting the independent status of a wrongful death action [Horwich v. Superior Court (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 272, 286, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 222, 980 P.2d 927] .

For example, the exclusive remedy doctrine of the workers' compensation statute may be asserted as a defense against a wrongful death plaintiff because the language of the statute leads to that result [see Horwich v. Superior Court (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 272, 286, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 222, 980 P.2d 927 ; Lab. Code § 3600]. By contrast, a wrongful death plaintiff whose decedent was the uninsured operator of a motor vehicle involved in a fatal accident is not precluded by Civ. Code § 3333.4 from recovering nonpecuniary damages for loss of care, comfort, and society, because the statutory language suggests that this particular nonpecuniary damages limitation was intended to apply only to the actual uninsured owner or operator of the vehicle [Horwich v. Superior Court (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 272, 276-283, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 222, 980 P.2d 927 ; see Civ. Code § 3333.4].

[3] Effect of Decedent's Negligence

The plaintiff in a wrongful death action stands in the shoes of the decedent for many purposes [Argonaut Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 320, 324]. For example, an award for wrongful death must be reduced by the proportionate share of the decedent's negligence [see Cavallaro v. Michelin Tire Corp. (1979) 96 Cal. App. 3d 95, 109-110, 157 Cal. Rptr. 602 ; cf. Willis v. Gordon (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 629, 636-638, 143 Cal. Rptr. 723, 574 P.2d 794 (Mosk, J., concurring, arguing that wrongful death award should not be reduced by decedent's negligence)]. The contributory negligence of a wrongful death plaintiff reduces his or her recovery proportionately [Southern Pac. Transp. Co. v. State of California (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 116, 119-121, 171 Cal. Rptr. 187] , but it does not affect the award to which any other wrongful death plaintiff is entitled [Perkins v. Robertson (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 536, 544, 295 P.2d 972 (decided under former law that made contributory negligence bar to recovery).]

[4] Effect of Decedent's Assumption of Risk

In executing a preinjury waiver and release by which he or she assumes all the risks of a particular activity, one may not effectively waive a cause of action for wrongful death, because that cause of action lies not in the releasor but in persons designated in wrongful death statute [Madison v. Superior Court (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 589, 596, 250 Cal. Rptr. 299 ; Scroggs v. Coast Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 1399, 1402-1403, 239 Cal. Rptr. 916] . This results from the fact that a wrongful death action is not derivative but, rather, a separate and distinct right belonging to the entitled persons set forth by statute that does not arise until the decedent dies. Thus, any provision in a written waiver and release that waives or purports to waive a cause of action for wrongful death is legally ineffective to bar a wrongful death action by or on behalf of those persons entitled to sue under the wrongful death statute [Madison v. Superior Court (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 589, 596, 250 Cal. Rptr. 299 ; see also Scroggs v. Coast Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 1399, 1402, 239 Cal. Rptr. 916] .

However, as noted in § 181.12[2], a wrongful death action may be subject to defenses that could have been asserted against the decedent had he or she lived [Paralift, Inc. v. Superior Court (1993) 23 Cal. App. 4th 748, 755, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 177 ; Madison v. Superior Court (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 589, 597, 600, 250 Cal. Rptr. 299 ; Scroggs v. Coast Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 1399, 1402-1403, 239 Cal. Rptr. 916] . Such defenses include an express agreement by the decedent to waive and release a defendant from liability for future negligence and to assume all risks of an activity [Saenz v. Whitewater Voyages, Inc. (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 758, 763-764, 276 Cal. Rptr. 672] , provided that the activity is not one affecting the public interest (making the release invalid pursuant to Civ. Code § 1668) [see Tunkl v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 92, 101-104, 32 Cal. Rptr. 33, 383 P.2d 441 (release from liability for future negligence imposed as a condition for admission to a charitable research hospital is invalid)]. In other words, a distinction must be made between the legal ineffectiveness of a decedent's preinjury release of a subsequent wrongful death action available under the wrongful death statute and the legal effectiveness of an express release of negligence by a decedent, provided the activity is not one affecting the public interest. Thus, although a preinjury release and express assumption of the risk cannot bar a wrongful death action, it may provide a complete defense to it [see Madison v. Superior Court (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 589, 597, 600, 250 Cal. Rptr. 299 (release and waiver provisions of an agreement, involving a scuba diving training class that did not affect the public interest, whereby the decedent assumed all risks of injury or death, whether caused by defendants' negligence or otherwise, provided a complete defense to the wrongful death action); see also Scroggs v. Coast Cmty. Coll. Dist. (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 1399, 1404, 239 Cal. Rptr. 916 (reversing summary judgment for defendants in a wrongful death action in which the release, also involving a scuba diving training class, contained no language indicating decedent intended to assume all risks of activity involved and did not encompass waiver of defendants' negligence)].

For further discussion of the defense of assumption of risk based on express or implied consent and forms of defenses based on assumption of risk, including a defense based on a preinjury waiver and release agreement not affecting the public interest, which may be included in an answer to acomplaint for damages for wrongful death, see Ch. 380, Negligence .

[5] Effect of Decedent's Agreement to Arbitrate

Court of appeal opinions are in disagreement over whether a person before his or her death may legally bind other family members to arbitrate subsequent wrongful death claims. One line of cases holds that an enforceable agreement requiring the arbitration of claims, if covering the tortious act that is the basis of the wrongful death action, requires that the wrongful death action be submitted to arbitration even if the plaintiffs were not signatories to the arbitration agreement [see, e.g., Herbert v. Superior Court (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 718, 722-727, 215 Cal. Rptr. 477 ; Hawkins v. Superior Court (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 413, 416-419, 152 Cal. Rptr. 491].

However, another line of cases holds that, while a person may have the authority to bind minor children to arbitrate claims brought after the person's death, a person does not generally have the authority to bind a spouse or adult children to arbitrate their claims, including wrongful death claims [see, e.g., Ruiz v. Podolsky (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 227, 238-247, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 828 (review granted Oct. 14, 2009; adult children not bound); Rhodes v. California Hospital Medical Center (1978) 76 Cal. App. 3d 606, 608-610, 143 Cal. Rptr. 59 (spouse not bound); see also Baker v. Birnbaum (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 288, 291-294, 248 Cal. Rptr. 336 (husband's loss of consortium claim not subject to arbitration)]. Those cases note that a wrongful death action in California is separate and distinct from any cause of action that the decedent may have had had he or she survived, and a decedent generally has no authority to bind adult family members to arbitrate their personal claims [see, e.g., Ruiz v. Podolsky (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 227, 238-247, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 828 (review granted Oct. 14, 2009)].

In addition, if some but not all plaintiffs are bound to arbitrate, a wrongful death defendant may be deemed to have waived the right to a single action by compelling arbitration of those claims that are covered by the arbitration agreement [Ruiz v. Podolsky (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 227, 236, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 828 (review granted Oct. 14, 2009)].

The issue is currently pending before the California Supreme Court [see Ruiz v. Podolsky (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 227, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 828 (review granted Oct. 14, 2009)].

[6] Res Judicata Effect of Judgment in Decedent's Action

Although the wrongful death action is distinct from the decedent's personal injury action, a judgment rendered in a personal injury action, in which a person entitled to a wrongful death cause of action was also a plaintiff, that is adverse to that person is binding on him or her, and estops a wrongful death action against the same defendant based on the same facts and circumstances [Secrest v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1943) 60 Cal. App. 2d 746, 749-751, 141 P.2d 747] . Persons entitled to a wrongful death cause of action who were not parties to the decedent's action are also collaterally estopped from relitigating issues of liability determined adversely to the decedent in a prior action. The requirement of privity is satisfied as long as the wrongful death plaintiffs' interests were adequately protected in the prior action. Privity is not defeated because the parties raise a different theory or cause of action in support of their rights of recovery [Brown v. Rahman (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1458, 1461-1464, 282 Cal. Rptr. 815 ; Evans v. Celotex Corp. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 741, 743-747, 238 Cal. Rptr. 259 ; see Aguilar v. Los Angeles County (9th Cir. 1985) 751 F.2d 1089, 1093 ; but see Kaiser Found. Hosps. v. Superior Court (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 327, 333-334, 62 Cal. Rptr. 330 (plaintiff is not bound by prior judgment to which he or she was not party, unless actual privity established)].

If an injured person recovers a judgment for personal injury and then dies from the injury, the persons who have a wrongful death cause of action are not precluded from bringing that action against the same defendants. The damages of the wrongful death plaintiffs on account of the person's death are distinct from those recovered by the decedent for the injury [Blackwell v. American Film Co. (1922) 189 Cal. 689, 693-694, 209 P. 999 (but holding that recovery of lost income in decedent's action bars recovery by heir of lost support)]. In such a case, the wrongful death plaintiffs may assert collateral estoppel against the defendant on the issue of liability [Brown v. Rahman (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1458, 1460-1461 n.3, 282 Cal. Rptr. 815] .

[7] Action as Joint, Single, and Indivisible

An action for wrongful death is considered joint, single, and indivisible. It is joint in that (1) all the potential wrongful death plaintiffs should join in the action or be joined as defendants, even though no relief may be demanded of them and no judgment taken against them, and (2) a single verdict should be rendered for all recoverable damages [see Cross v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 690, 694, 36 Cal. Rptr. 321, 388 P.2d 353 ; Watkins v. Nutting (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 490, 498-499, 110 P.2d 384] . It is single in that only one action may be brought for the wrongful death, regardless of whether the action is instituted by all or one of the persons entitled to a wrongful death cause of action or by the personal representative on behalf of the wrongful death plaintiffs. It is indivisible because there cannot be a series of suits by the entitled persons for their individual damages [Cross v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 690, 694, 36 Cal. Rptr. 321, 388 P.2d 353] . However, there are several qualifications and exceptions to this characterization of the action as joint, single, and indivisible.

First, the requirement that all entitled persons be joined is not jurisdictional but procedural [Cross v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 690, 692, 36 Cal. Rptr. 321, 388 P.2d 353 ; Helling v. Lew (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 434, 437, 104 Cal. Rptr. 789] . It may be waived by a defendant's failure to object by demurrer, answer, or at trial that all the persons entitled to a wrongful death cause of action have not been made parties [see Knott v. McGilvray (1899) 124

Cal. 128, 129-130, 56 P. 789 ; Helling v. Lew (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 434, 437, 104 Cal. Rptr. 789] . Furthermore, it may be waived if the defendant voluntarily settles an action brought by only some of the entitled persons, knowing of the existence, identity, and status of an omitted plaintiff, whom the defendant failed to join [Valdez v. Smith (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 723, 731, 212 Cal. Rptr. 638] . Moreover, if a defendant has knowledge that an additional potential plaintiff exists and that defendant could reasonably have discovered that this additional potential party was in fact a dependent of the decedent, knowledge of the potential plaintiff's status as a dependent of the decedent may be imputed to the defendant [Gonzales v. Southern Cal. Edison Co. (1999) 77 Cal. App. 4th 485, 490-491, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 530] . In any event, nonjoinder is not reversible error if the complaining party has not been prejudiced by the nonjoinder [see Walker v. Etcheverry (1941) 42 Cal. App. 2d 472, 475, 109 P.2d 385 (defendant not prejudiced by nonjoinder of heir who neither claimed nor sustained any damages as result of decedent's death)].

Second, it has generally been stated that a persons entitled to a wrongful death cause of action, who is not a party to the action, is precluded from bringing an independent action against the defendant [see Rabe v. Western Union Tel. Co. (1926) 198 Cal. 290, 299, 244 P. 1077 ; Mayerhoff v. Kaiser Found. Health Plan, Inc. (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 803, 806-807, 138 Cal. Rptr. 319] . However, a plaintiff who knows of excluded entitled persons and fails to join them is liable for the resulting damage [Watkins v. Nutting (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 490, 499, 110 P.2d 384 ; Helling v. Lew (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 434, 437 n.2, 104 Cal. Rptr. 789] . Moreover, it has been held, without discussion of the general rule, that in the case of illegitimate minors who were not made parties to a wrongful death action brought by the surviving spouse and whose interests were not otherwise represented, a judgment in favor of the surviving spouse did not collaterally estop these excluded plaintiffs from asserting their claims in a subsequent wrongful death action [see Arizmendi v. System Leasing Corp. (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 730, 739, 93 Cal. Rptr. 411 ; see also Valdez v. Smith (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 723, 731 , 212 Cal. Rptr. 638 (settlement and dismissal made with knowledge that another heir was not party to action did not bar subsequent action by omitted heir)].

Third, there is no requirement that the plaintiffs must join all causes of action and all potential defendants in a single action. The general rule that joint tortfeasors may be sued either jointly or severally applies to wrongful death actions. However, the plaintiffs are precluded from recovering damages in a subsequent action if the amount they received by settlement or judgment in a prior action constitutes complete satisfaction of all damages sustained as a result of the decedent's death [Helling v. Lew (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 434, 438-439, 104 Cal. Rptr. 789 (amount of prior settlement obtained in action against one defendant should be reduced from verdict obtained in subsequent action against second defendant)].

Finally, each wrongful death plaintiff is regarded as having a personal and separate cause of action. Thus, although the damages recovered should be in a lump sum, each wrongful death plaintiff is required to prove his or her own right to take as a plaintiff and his or her damages as a plaintiff [Changaris v. Marvel (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 308, 312, 41 Cal. Rptr. 774 ; see Helling v. Lew (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 434, 438, 104 Cal. Rptr. 789] .

The cases that have articulated exceptions to the so-called "one action rule" fully recognize the individual nature of each plaintiff's cause of action for wrongful death. The concern in each case is the fairness, under unusual circumstances, of permitting wrongful death plaintiffs to assert their separate wrongful death claims individually rather than in one joint action, a concern that both reflects the procedural nature of the one-action rule and acknowledges the separateness of each wrongful death plaintiff's cause of action. Therefore, nothing in the rule requires a person entitled to a wrongful death action to bring an action; nor does it prevent a wrongful death plaintiff from abandoning an action before trial. However, the rule does require a wrongful death plaintiff who wishes to pursue a claim for wrongful death to bring his or her action jointly with all other potential plaintiffs, thereby protecting a defendant from having to defend several cases [National Metal & Steel Corp. v. Colby Crane & Mfg. Co. (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1111, 1116, 246 Cal. Rptr. 435] .

If some of the plaintiffs are contractually obligated to arbitrate their wrongful death claim, the other plaintiffs may be required to join the arbitration in order to keep the action consolidated. However, plaintiffs cannot be forced to arbitrate their wrongful death claim if none of the plaintiffs are contractually obligated to arbitrate the claim, and the fact that the decedent would have been required to arbitrate any claims against the defendant will not obligate the decedent's heirs to arbitrate their wrongful death action [see Fitzhugh v. Granada Healthcare & Rehabilitation Center, LLC (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 469, 474-475, 58 Cal. Rptr. 3d 585] .

[8] Omitted Heirs

Omitted heirs are necessary parties, and plaintiff heirs have a mandatory duty to join all known omitted heirs in a single action for wrongful death. Proper joinder requires satisfying the statutory requirements for service. Naming a defendant as a nominal defendant in a wrongful death action is legally insufficient to accomplish joinder, as is providing the named defendant with actual notice of the lawsuit. A wrongfully omitted heir has a remedy against the wrongful death plaintiffs who received the proceeds of a wrongful death suit: the heir is entitled to sue the plaintiffs who failed to join him or her for damages [Ruttenberg v. Ruttenberg (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 801, 808-809, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 78] .

If an actual plaintiff joins a potential plaintiff as a nominal defendant, but fails to serve that nominal party with a summons and complaint, that nominal defendant is not a party to the action and he or she is not barred from bringing a separate wrongful death action if the initial action is settled. It is not a defense to the one-action rule that the defendant was unaware that a known heir joined as a nominal defendant was not properly served. The defendant has the burden and means of determining whether an heir has been served [Romero v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 211, 218-219, 67 Cal. Rptr. 3d 236] .

Although an omitted heir may have an action against an actual plaintiff for failing to join the omitted heir, the omitted heir does not have an action against the actual plaintiff's attorney for the omission, because the attorney owes no duty to a non-client under those circumstances [Hall v. Superior Court (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 706, 714-715, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 806] . Should the omitted heir recover from the actual plaintiff, however, the actual plaintiff may have an action for indemnity or contribution against the attorney [see Hall v. Superior Court (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 706, 715, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 806] .

[9] Prior Adjudication of Issue of Liability

The doctrine of collateral estoppel may be used to prevent a wrongful death defendant from litigating his or her liability, if the identical issue was litigated and decided against the defendant in a prior proceeding. In one case, for example, a wrongful death defendant filed for bankruptcy in an attempt to have all debts discharged, including the potential debt of a judgment in a pending wrongful death action. The defendant chose to have the judge in the bankruptcy court rule on whether a wrongful death judgment would be dischargeable. After discovery and a bench trial, the bankruptcy judge concluded that the judgment would not be dischargeable, which required a finding that the defendant's conduct in causing the deaths was intentional and malicious. The trial court in the wrongful death action subsequently held that the doctrine of collateral estoppel prevented the defendant from relitigating the issue of his liability. Despite the fact that the defendant was not afforded a jury trial in the bankruptcy court, the trial court in the wrongful death action concluded that the defendant had a full and fair opportunity to litigate his liability before the bankruptcy court, and the court of appeal agreed [Roos v. Red (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 870, 878-888 , cert. denied, 126 S. Ct. 1341].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsEstoppelCollateral EstoppelCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsRes JudicataTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsDefensesComparative & Contributory NegligenceTortsWrongful

Death & Survival ActionsJoinder Requirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.13

§ 181.13 Elements of Wrongful Death Action

Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60, applicable to wrongful death actions arising on or after January 1, 1993, creates a cause of action for wrongful death if the death is "caused by the wrongful act or neglect of another." The term "wrongful act" has been construed to mean "tortious act" and includes theories of recovery based on strict products liability, as well as negligence and intentional wrongful conduct [Barrett v. Superior Court (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1176, 1183, 1185-1186, 272 Cal. Rptr. 304] . Thus, the commission of a tortious act and a resulting death causing pecuniary loss to persons entitled to a cause of action under the wrongful death statute are the necessary elements in a cause of action for wrongful death [Moxon v. County of Kern (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 393, 398-399, 43 Cal. Rptr. 481] . The action does not lie if the only affirmative duty shown to have been breached was wholly contractual [Moxon v. County of Kern (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 393, 399, 43 Cal. Rptr. 481] .

If defendant's tortious conduct is a substantial cause of death, the existence of a nontortious concurrent cause, such as disease or congenital defect, does not absolve the defendant from liability for the death [Bird v. Saenz (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 167, 177, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 131 (triable issue of fact existed as to whether defendant's negligence was substantial factor in death)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsIntentional TortsGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceActionsGeneral OverviewTortsProducts LiabilityStrict LiabilityTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsCausation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.14

§ 181.14 Plaintiffs

[1] In General

Only those persons described in Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60, or a personal representative on behalf of those persons, may maintain a wrongful death action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60; see §§ 181.142 -181.145]. The right to bring a wrongful death action is strictly limited to those persons described by the statute [Von Batsch v. American Dist. Tel. Co. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 1111, 1119, 222 Cal. Rptr. 239 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60))]. However, Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 specifically provides that its enactment in 1992 was not intended to eliminate the standing of persons who had standing under former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(e)].

Under prior law, a complaint for wrongful death had to show that the decedent left heirs at law [Carr v. Progressive Cas. Ins. Co. (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 881, 887 n.2, 199 Cal. Rptr. 835 ; Estate of Bright v. Western Air Lines (1951) 104 Cal. App. 2d 827, 830, 232 P.2d 523 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60))].

A person who feloniously and intentionally kills a decedent may not bring a wrongful death action or benefit from an action brought by the decedent's personal representative [Prob. Code § 258 (effective January 1, 1993)]. Before 1993, the Probate Code generally prohibited a person who feloniously and intentionally killed a decedent from succeeding to benefits, interest, or property accruing due to the decedent's death [see Prob. Code §§ 250-253].

[2] Statutory Categories of Plaintiffs

For the purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60, there are three categories of persons entitled to bring a wrongful death action. The first category consists of the decedent's surviving spouse, domestic partner, children, and issue of deceased children or, if there is no surviving issue of the decedent, the persons, including the surviving spouse or domestic partner, who would be entitled to the property of the decedent by intestate succession [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a); see Prob. Code § 6400 et seq. (governing acquisition of title to property of one who dies without disposing of it by will)]. A person survives the decedent for these purposes if the person outlives the decedent, even if that person dies before actually filing a wrongful death action, in which case the cause of action survives and may be brought by that person's personal representative or successor in interest [Chavez v. Carpenter (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 1433, 1441-1444, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 534 (because daughter outlived decedent, but died one month later before suit was filed, decedent's parents had no standing as heirs to bring wrongful death suit)].

The right to sue as a surviving domestic partner, which was added as a plaintiff class effective in 2002, is limited to members of the same sex over the age of 18 and opposite-sex couples in which at least one person is over the age of 62 and meets the eligibility criteria for old-age social security benefits [Fam. Code § 297(a), (b)(4), (5); see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(f)]. In addition, those partners who meet the criteria for a formal domestic partnership must still register as a domestic partnership with the Secretary of State to acquire the rights of a recognized domestic partnership [Fam. Code § 297(b)], although domestic partners otherwise meeting the statutory criteria may sue for wrongful death, even without registration, if the death occurred prior to 2002 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(f)(2), (3)]. A party must register with the Secretary of State to acquire rights under the Domestic Partnership Act [Armijo v. Miles (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 1405, 1414, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 623] .

One court of appeal decision has held that domestic partners who have failed to comply with the registration requirements, but who held a reasonable, good-faith belief that they had registered with the Secretary of State, are entitled under the putative spouse doctrine, discussed below, to the same rights granted to domestic partners who have properly registered [In re Domestic Partnership of Ellis & Arriaga (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1000, 1008-1009, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 401]. The court in that case distinguished an earlier decision in which the court of appeal held that the putative spouse doctrine could not be applied when the domestic partners had registered only with the city and had made no attempt to register with the Secretary of State [In re Domestic Partnership of Ellis & Arriaga (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1000, 1009-1012, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 401 (distinguishing holding in Velez v. Smith (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 1154, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 642)].

The statutory right to sue for deaths occurring prior to January 1, 2002, which was added by legislative amendment effective January 1, 2005, has been applied retroactively by the court of appeal to actions filed prior to the amendment that were not yet finalized by the effective date of the amendment [Armijo v. Miles (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 1405, 1409, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 623 ; Bouley v. Long Beach Mem'l Med. Ctr. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 601, 607-608, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 813] .

Unmarried cohabitants who do not meet these criteria do not have standing to sue for wrongful death [Holguin v. Flores (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 428, 435-437, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 749] . The legislative decision not to provide the right to sue for wrongful death to all opposite-sex couples who cohabit is justified by the fact that other opposite-sex couples have the right to marry, thus establishing their status as spouses, and will not suffer adverse social security consequences for doing so. The court of appeal has upheld this distinction against a constitutional equal protection challenge [Holguin v. Flores (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 428, 437-443, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 749] .

Under prior law, all persons entitled to the decedent's property by intestate succession were included in this category, without distinguishing the decedent's surviving spouse, children, and issue of deceased children from other potential heirs by intestate succession [see former Code Civ. Proc. § 377(b)(1); California State Auto. Ass'n, Inter-Ins. Bureau v. Jacobson (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 850, 853, 101 Cal. Rptr. 366 ; Kunakoff v. Woods (1958) 166 Cal. App. 2d 59, 62, 332 P.2d 773] . To be an heir by intestate succession, a person must show that he or she was entitled to succeed to some part of the estate at the time decedent died. For example, the mother of a deceased son was held not to be an heir under former Code Civ. Proc. § 377(b)(1) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a)), because the son left a surviving spouse and living children who would succeed to his estate under the succession statutes before the estate devolved to the mother [Evans v. Shanklin (1936) 16 Cal. App. 2d 358, 362, 60 P.2d 554] . Further, a more remote relative may not rely on other provisions of the Probate Code to discount the otherwise-entitled heir under intestacy and to step up as the person entitled to bring the wrongful death action [see Lewis v. Regional Ctr.of E. Bay (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 350, 352-355, 220 Cal. Rptr. 89 (disclaimer of decedent-child's parents and siblings to all interest in estate does not elevate grandparents as heirs entitled to bring wrongful death action)].

Despite somewhat ambiguous statutory language, under the current provisions enacted effective January 1, 1993, the laws of intestate succession still determine whether standing to bring a wrongful death action exists under the first category described above [Cheyanna M. v. A.C. Nielsen Co. (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 855, 864-865, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 335] . The purpose of the 1992 amendment was to clarify that a decedent's children and issue of deceased children may maintain a wrongful death action even if the decedent's entire estate passes to a surviving spouse under community property laws [Cheyanna M. v. A.C. Nielsen Co. (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 855, 864-865, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 335] . California laws of intestate succession govern who may bring a wrongful death action in California, even if a foreign plaintiff is an heir under foreign law [Rosales v. Battle (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 1178, 1184-1185, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 13] .

Under the laws of intestate succession found in the Probate Code, a relationship of parent and child exists between a person and the person's natural parents, regardless of the marital status of the natural parents [Prob. Code § 6450(a)]. If a paternity dispute exists, paternity may be established by clear and convincing evidence that the father has openly held out the child as his own [Prob. Code § 6453(b)(2)]. If it was impossible for the father to have held the child out as his own, the paternity of the biological father may be established by any clear and convincing evidence [Prob. Code § 6453(b)(3)]. For purposes of establishing the paternity of a child born after the death of the alleged father, it is deemed to be impossible for the decedent to have held the as-yet-unborn child out as his own, and thus, the child may subsequently attempt to prove paternity through any clear and convincing evidence [Cheyanna M. v. A.C. Nielsen Co. (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 855, 874, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 335] . The Probate Code also specifies procedures for establishing the paternity of a child who is conceived, after the death of the father, with the father's preserved genetic material [see Prob. Code §§ 249.5, 6453(c)].

If a child is born out of wedlock, a natural parent may not inherit from or through the child on the basis of the parent-child relationship unless the parent acknowledged the child, and contributed to the child's support or care [Prob. Code § 6452]. Thus, to bring a wrongful death action for a child born out of wedlock, a father must have acknowledged the child, but the acknowledgment need not be after the child's birth, nor in a written and witnessed document [see Lozano v. Scalier (1996) 51 Cal. App. 4th 843, 844, 848, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 346 (plaintiff, who signed medical form identifying himself as child's father five months before child's birth, and who orally represented himself as child's father after child's birth, was entitled to maintain wrongful death action)].

If a court order finally and conclusively terminates the relationship between a birth parent and his or her child, that child loses standing to sue for the wrongful death of that parent, regardless of whether the child has been adopted by another at the time of the birth parent's death [Jackson v. Fitzgibbons (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 329, 335, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 478 ; see also Phraner v. Cote Mark, Inc. (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 166, 171, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 740 (because adoption severs relationship between child and birth parent, adopted child has no standing to sue for wrongful death of birth parent)].

If a court order has terminated the parental rights of a child's biological parents, a biological grandparent has standing to bring a wrongful death action after the death of the child, at least if the termination order had no effect on the legal rights of the grandparent with respect to the child and the child had not been adopted at the time of death [see Fraizer v. Velkura (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 942, 946-947, 110 Cal. Rptr. 2d 918] .

The second category of persons entitled to bring a wrongful death action includes, if they were dependent on the decedent, a decedent's putative spouse, children of the decedent's putative spouse, stepchildren of the decedent, and parents of the decedent, whether or not these persons were qualified under Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a) [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(b); see § 181.144]. For the purpose of this provision, "putative spouse" means the surviving spouse of a void or voidable marriage who is found by the court to believe in good faith that the marriage to the decedent was valid [Code Civ. Proc. § 337.60(b)]. To establish dependency, it appears that, at least with respect to parents, the person must have been actually dependent to some extent on the decedent for the necessities of life at the time the decedent died. It is not sufficient that the parent relied on the decedent for comfort and affection and for support and pecuniary advantages to which he or she may have been entitled in the future [Hazelwood v. Hazelwood (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 693, 698, 129 Cal. Rptr. 384 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 377(b)(2) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(b)))]. A former spouse, even if dependent on the deceased for support, is not entitled to bring a wrongful death action [Villacampa v. Russell (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 906, 910, 224 Cal. Rptr. 73] .

The third category of persons entitled to bring a wrongful death cause of action includes any minor, whether or not qualified as a plaintiff under Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a) or (b), who resided for the 180 days prior to a decedent's death in the decedent's household and who was dependent on the decedent for one-half or more of his or her support [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(c) (restating former Code Civ. Proc. § 377(b)(3))].

A wrongful death action may not be brought by or on behalf of persons who are merely potential heirs under the laws of intestate succession [see Prob. Code § 6402] if actual heirs at law exist [see Mayo v. White (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 1083, 1090, 224 Cal. Rptr. 373 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 377(b)(1) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a)); entitled persons include, but are not limited to, certain heirs)]. Any attempted renunciation of heirship or disclaimer of interest in the decedent's estate [see Prob. Code § 275 et seq.] by the actual wrongful death plaintiffs who are heirs does not alter this rule because (1) the action for wrongful death is not an asset in the decedent's estate and hence is not affected by the disclaimer; and (2) if it were affected by the disclaimer, the disclaimer would be an invalid attempt to assign a nonassignable cause of action [Mayo v. White (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 1083, 1088-1091, 224 Cal. Rptr. 373 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 377(b)(1) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a)); entitled persons include, but are not limited to, certain heirs)].

For further discussion of actions by minors and by parents for injuries to their minor children, see Ch. 367A, Minors: Tort Actions , and Ch. 394, Parent and Child .

[3] Personal Representation

If decedent's personal representative (executor or administrator) brings the action, he or she acts solely in the capacity of a statutory trustee to recover damages for the benefit of persons entitled to a wrongful death cause of action based on their relationship to the decedent, and as such, has no interest in the matter [Jones v. Leonardt (1909) 10 Cal. App. 284, 286, 101 P. 811] . No prejudice to defendants occurs if the entitled persons themselves are substituted as plaintiffs in lieu of the personal representative [Everett v. Howard Buick Co. (1936) 15 Cal. App. 2d 544, 545-546, 59 P.2d 506] or if a general administrator or executor is substituted for a special administrator who had commenced the wrongful death action [Ruiz v. Santa Barbara Gas & Elec. Co. (1912) 164 Cal. 188, 193, 128 P. 330] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawProbatePersonal RepresentativesDuties & PowersGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsPotential Plaintiffs

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.15

§ 181.15 Defendants

[1] In General

The action is brought against the person causing the death by his or her wrongful act or neglect. If the wrongdoer dies, whether before or after the death of the person injured by him or her, the action may be brought against his or her personal representative or his or her successor in interest [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.20, 377.40, see also § 181.42].

If the defendant dies after commencement of the action, the court on motion must allow the action to be continued against his or her personal representative or successor in interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.41, see § 181.42; see generally Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings].

[2] Joinder of Unwilling Plaintiffs as Defendants

Defendants may also include those persons who should have been joined as plaintiffs but refused to consent to joinder as plaintiffs [see Estate of Kuebler v. Superior Court (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 500, 503-504, 146 Cal. Rptr. 481 , and see § 181.146; see also Valdez v. Smith (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 723, 731, 212 Cal. Rptr. 638] . Although designated as defendants, unwilling plaintiffs are treated as actual plaintiffs. For example, they are not barred from proceeding with the action if the designated plaintiffs settle, and they have standing to request a new trial [Watkins v. Nutting (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 490, 499, 110 P.2d 384 ; Estate of Kuebler v. Superior Court (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 500, 504, 146 Cal. Rptr. 481] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsJoinder Requirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.16

§ 181.16 Award of Damages

[1] In General

Code Civ. Proc. § 377.61 restates former Code Civ. Proc. § 377, providing that in every wrongful death action, such damages may be given as are just under all the circumstances of the case. This is the only statutory authority for an award of damages in a wrongful death action [Carr v. Pacific Tel. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 537, 544, 103 Cal. Rptr. 120 (decided before amendment of Civ. Code § 3294 to allow punitive damages if defendant was convicted of felony homicide)]. Thus, the amount of damages to be awarded in a particular case is within the broad discretion of the trier of fact and depends on the circumstances presented by the evidence [Dickinson v. Southern Pac. Co. (1916) 172 Cal. 727, 731, 158 P. 183 ; Syah v. Johnson (1966) 247 Cal. App. 2d 534, 547, 55 Cal. Rptr. 741] . A judgment for damages having substantial support in the evidence will not be disturbed on appeal as excessive unless it clearly appears to be the result of passion, prejudice [Foerster v. Direito (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 323, 333, 170 P.2d 986] , or corruption [Mize v. Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Ry. Co. (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 436, 453, 120 Cal. Rptr. 787] on the part of the jurors that may be said to shock the conscience of the court [Swails v. General Elec. Co. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 82, 87, 70 Cal. Rptr. 143] .

The limitations on the recovery of damages for noneconomic loss in actions for medical malpractice [see Civ. Code § 3333.2(b)] also apply to actions against medical practitioners for wrongful death [Yates v. Pollock (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 195, 199]. For discussion of these limitations, see Ch. 414, Physicians: Medical Malpractice .

[2] Distinct From Survival Damages

Damages awarded in a wrongful death action may not include those damages recoverable in a survival action under Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34 [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.61; see § 181.45[1]]. The actions are conceptually separate: a wrongful death action is a statutory action based on the death of the decedent, while a survival action is merely a continuation of a cause of action that the decedent had before he or she died [see Grant v. McAuliffe (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 859, 864, 264 P.2d 944] . For example, medical expenses incurred for the treatment of the injured decedent and punitive damages are generally not recoverable in a wrongful death action [Tarasoff v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 425, 450, 131 Cal. Rptr. 14, 551 P.2d 334 (punitive damages); Follansbee v. Benzenberg (1954) 122 Cal. App. 2d 466, 474, 265 P.2d 183 (medical expenses)], while both items may be recovered in a survival action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34 (permitting recovery of damages for loss decedent sustained or incurred before death, including punitive damages, but not including damages for pain, suffering, or disfigurement); see Stencel Aero Eng'g Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 978, 985, 128 Cal. Rptr. 691 (punitive damages recoverable in survival action, not in wrongful death action); Patterson v. Sharp (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 990, 1000-1001, 89 Cal. Rptr. 396 (medical expenses recoverable in survival action, not in wrongful death action)]. For further discussion of punitive damages in wrongful death actions, see § 181.16[3]; for discussion of punitive damages in survival actions, see § 181.45[4].

Damages for the pain and suffering of a decedent are not available in either a survival action or a wrongful death action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34 (damages for pain, suffering, or disfigurement not available in survival action); Carr v. Pacific Tel. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 537, 545, 103 Cal. Rptr. 120 ; Love v. Wolf (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 822, 840, 58 Cal. Rptr. 42 (both cases applying substantially similar provision of former Prob. Code 573(c)); see also Parsons v. Easton (1921) 184 Cal. 764, 770, 195 P. 419 (damages for pain and suffering of decedent not available in wrongful death action)]. Although a federal district court purporting to apply California law has held that damages for pre-death pain and suffering are available in a wrongful death action because they are expressly precluded from recovery in survival actions [see In re Air Crash Disaster at Sioux City, Iowa (N.D. Ill. 1991) 760 F. Supp. 1283, 1285] , the analysis used by that court should be viewed as unsupported by California courts.

[3] Punitive Damages Generally Not Allowed

Punitive damages are generally not available in a wrongful death action [see Tarasoff v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 425, 450, 131 Cal. Rptr. 14, 551 P.2d 334 ; Lange v. Schoettler (1896) 115 Cal. 388, 391, 47 P. 139 ; Pease v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 450, 461-462, 113 Cal. Rptr. 416 ; but see Civ. Code § 3294(d) (permitting punitive damages in wrongful death action based on homicide if defendant has been convicted of felony); see generally § 181.16[4]]. This is true even if there is no survival action under which they may be recovered [Pease v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 450, 459-462, 113 Cal. Rptr. 416] . Thus, conduct causing death may support a claim for punitive damages under Civ. Code § 3294 [see Ch. 177, Damages] only in a survival action, when the victim died after he or she had a cause of action based on that conduct [see Grimshaw v. Ford Motor Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 757, 833, 174 Cal. Rptr. 348 ; see also § 181.45[4]]. Despite this often arbitrary result, the bar on the recovery of punitive damages in wrongful death actions has been held constitutional [see Ford Motor Co. v. Superior Court (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 748, 751-753, 175 Cal. Rptr. 39 ; Georgie Boy Mfg., Inc. v. Superior Court (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 217, 224-226, 171 Cal. Rptr. 382 ; see also In re Paris Air Crash (9th Cir. 1980) 622 F.2d 1315, 1318-1324] .

[4] Punitive Damages in Actions Based on Felony Homicide

Punitive damages pursuant to Civ. Code § 3294 may be recovered in an action under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.10-377.62 based on a death that resulted from a homicide for which the defendant has been convicted of a felony, whether the decedent died instantly or survived the fatal injury for some period of time [Civ. Code § 3294(d)]. The procedures for joinder and consolidation contained in Code Civ. Proc. § 377.62 apply to prevent multiple recoveries of punitive damages based on the same wrongful act [Civ. Code § 3294(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsDamagesCompensatory DamagesPain & SufferingEmotional & Mental DistressGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesPunitive DamagesTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsSurvival Actions

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.17

§ 181.17 Damages Limited to Pecuniary Loss

[1] In General

Recovery for the wrongful death of a decedent is limited to the pecuniary losses suffered by the plaintiffs [Krouse v. Graham (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 59, 67, 137 Cal. Rptr. 863, 562 P.2d 1022] . A wrongful death plaintiff who has not suffered a loss cannot recover damages; the fact of his or her relationship to the decedent is not sufficient to establish a pecuniary loss [Cross v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 690, 692, 36 Cal. Rptr. 321, 388 P.2d 353 ; Burk v. Arcata & Mad River R.R. Co. (1899) 125 Cal. 364, 367, 57 P. 1065] . Furthermore, a wrongful death plaintiff may not recover damages for the pain and suffering of a decedent [Parsons v. Easton (1921) 184 Cal. 764, 770, 195 P. 419] , even though these damages are not available in a survival action brought on behalf of a decedent [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34 (damages for pain, suffering, or disfigurement not available in survival action); Carr v. Pacific Tel. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 537, 545, 103 Cal. Rptr. 120 ; Love v. Wolf (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 822, 840 (both cases applying substantially similar provision of former Prob. Code 573(c))].

[2] Present Value of Future Contributions

The present value of future contributions from a decedent to a wrongful death plaintiff is one of the elements of pecuniary loss [Carr v. Pacific Tel. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 537, 544-545, 103 Cal. Rptr. 120] . It includes the loss arising from the deprivation of something to which the wrongful death plaintiffs would have been legally entitled if the decedent had lived [Parsons v. Easton (1921) 184 Cal. 764, 770, 195 P. 419] , such as the right to direct financial support [Mize v. Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Ry. Co. (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 436, 453, 120 Cal. Rptr. 787 (decedent parent's legal obligation to provide monthly support payments to two minor children)].

When a spouse sues for the wrongful death of his or her spouse, the chief element of damages to be considered in awarding damages is the present value of the earnings the deceased spouse would have contributed to the family during the period of his or her life expectancy [Riley v. California Erectors, Inc. (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 29, 32, 111 Cal. Rptr. 459] . The same is true when a child sues for the death of a parent [see Syah v. Johnson (1966) 247 Cal. App. 2d 534, 547, 55 Cal. Rptr. 741] . In proving these damages, it is presumed that the decedent's earning capacity would have increased [Foerster v. Direito (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 323, 333, 170 P.2d 986] and, correspondingly, that the contributions of the decedent to the plaintiffs would also have increased [Karwoski v. Grant (1938) 30 Cal. App. 2d 171, 180, 85 P.2d 944] .

The present value of future contributions also includes the loss arising from the deprivation of benefits reasonably expected by the wrongful death plaintiffs but not based solely on a legal right to support. The expectation of benefits may originate in a purely moral obligation on the part of the decedent [Swails v. General Elec. Co. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 82, 86, 70 Cal. Rptr. 143] . For example, a sister was entitled to recover the anticipated future contributions that she could have reasonably expected from her deceased brother, who had supported her during his lifetime, because she showed the moral obligation undertaken by the deceased brother to provide for her support and her reasonable belief that she would continue to be the recipient of his bounty and support [Wilson v. City & County of San Francisco (1951) 106 Cal. App. 2d 440, 444, 235 P.2d 81 ; see also Karwoski v. Grant (1938) 30 Cal. App. 2d 171, 180, 85 P.2d 944 (parents' recovery of contributions they reasonably expected from son)].

[3] Value of Personal Service, Advice, or Training

Wrongful death plaintiffs may recover for the pecuniary loss of the value of any personal service, advice, or training that they reasonably expected to be given by the decedent [Mize v. Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Ry. Co. (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 436, 453, 120 Cal. Rptr. 787 ; Carr v. Pacific Tel. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 537, 545, 103 Cal. Rptr. 120] . Such recovery may include, for example, the loss of a spouse's household services, such as cooking, cleaning, and general management of the family's affairs, as well as the loss of a parent's care and counseling of an adolescent child [Torres v. Los Angeles (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 35, 54, 22 Cal. Rptr. 866, 372 P.2d 906 ; see also McKinney v. California Portland Cement Co. (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 1214, 1228-1229, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 849] .

[4] Loss of Society and Companionship

Although the damages recoverable in a wrongful death action are generally limited to pecuniary losses, a wrongful death plaintiff may recoverreasonable compensation for the loss of the decedent's love, companionship, comfort, affection, society, solace, or moral support, any loss of enjoyment of sexual relations, and any loss of the decedent's physical assistance. Thus, the services of children, elderly parents, or nonworking spouses that do not result in measurable net income to the family unit nevertheless represent a substantial injury to the family, for which just compensation should be paid. In proving such damages, evidence of the closeness of the family unit, the warmth of feeling between family members, and the character of the deceased is admissible [Krouse v. Graham (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 59, 67-68, 137 Cal. Rptr. 863, 562 P.2d 1022 ; Wright v. City of Los Angeles (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 318, 355, 268 Cal. Rptr. 309] .

However, no damages may be recovered for grief, wounded feelings, or sorrow attendant on the death of a loved one [Krouse v. Graham (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 59, 69, 137 Cal. Rptr. 863, 562 P.2d 1022 ; see Zeller v. Reid (1938) 26 Cal. App. 2d 421, 424, 79 P.2d 449] . In addition, the amount awarded for loss of society or companionship must not be excessive under the facts of the case--for example, if the evidence shows that the plaintiffs had not seen the decedent or relied on him or her for many years [see Nelson v. County of Los Angeles (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 783, 793-794, 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 650] . Similarly, evidence that a decedent's marriage was strained and unhappy at the time of death may suffice to negate or minimize a surviving spouse's damages for loss of the decedent's society, comfort, and protection. However, mere declarations made by the decedent that he or she was unhappy in his or her marriage and was considering divorce are insufficient evidence to support a finding that the marriage was in fact about to end, although such declarations may be used to corroborate other evidence [see Corder v. Corder (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 644, 665-666, n.12, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 660].

Mental retardation does not necessarily render a child less able to suffer loss of companionship damages in a wrongful death action than a child with no such mental disability [Knowles v. Superior Court (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 1290, 1302, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 700] . California courts have rejected the notion that mental retardation necessarily limits a person's capacity to appreciate parental comfort and support [Knowles v. Superior Court (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 1290, 1303, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 700] .

[5] Funeral Expenses

In a wrongful death action, funeral expenses are an element of recovery [Francis v. Sauve (1963) 222 Cal. App. 2d 102, 124, 34 Cal. Rptr. 754 ; Wilson v. City & County of San Francisco (1951) 106 Cal. App. 2d 440, 445, 235 P.2d 81] . Recovery of such damages is proper whether the plaintiffs have paid or are liable for the burial or funeral expenses [Adams v. Southern Pac. Co. (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 731, 743, 53 P.2d 121 ; Little v. Yanagisawa (1924) 70 Cal. App. 303, 308, 233 P. 357] , or the decedent's estate has paid the expenses [Robison v. Leigh (1957) 153 Cal. App. 2d 730, 733, 315 P.2d 42 ; Gibson v. State (1960) 184 Cal. App. 2d 6, 11, 7 Cal. Rptr. 315] . Damages for funeral expenses are not recoverable if it would permit a double recovery to the wrongful death plaintiffs [Patterson v. Sharp (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 990, 1000, 89 Cal. Rptr. 396 (award including decedent's burial expenses properly reduced when burial expenses were paid by workers' compensation insurer prior to wrongful death trial)].

[6] Prejudgment Interest

A plaintiff may recover prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3288 on those damages attributable to an ascertainable economic value, such as loss of household services or earning capacity, as well as funeral and related expenses [Canavin v. Pacific Sw. Airlines (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 512, 527, 196 Cal. Rptr. 82] . Interest may be awarded only regarding damages that represent past economic losses, and not to the extent that an award of damages is for future earnings after the date of the verdict [Canavin v. Pacific Southwest Airlines (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 512, 528]. However, an award of prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3288 cannot be based on damages for noneconomic losses such as lost comfort, society, companionship, care, and protection [Canavin v. Pacific Sw. Airlines (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 512, 527, 196 Cal. Rptr. 82 ; see also Greater Westchester Homeowners Ass'n v. City of Los Angeles (1979) 26 Cal. 3d 86, 102-103, 160 Cal. Rptr. 733, 603 P.2d 1329 (prejudgment interest award improperly included interest on intangible, noneconomic damages)].

Prejudgment interest may also be awarded under Civ. Code § 3291 pursuant to an offer to settle under Code Civ. Proc. § 998 if a more favorable judgment is obtained [McKinney v. California Portland Cement Co. (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 1214, 1230-1232, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 849 ; see Ch. 520, Settlement and Release]. However, each wrongful death plaintiff must make a separate 998 offer [Gilman v. Beverly Cal. Corp. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 121, 124-126, 283 Cal. Rptr. 17] . For consideration of particular problems caused by this rule in medical malpractice cases, see N. Levy, M. Golden & L. Sacks, eds., California Torts, Ch. 55 (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesCompensatory DamagesConsortiumTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesCompensatory DamagesFinancial ContributionsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesCompensatory DamagesFuneral ExpensesTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesCompensatory DamagesLoss of Services

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.18

§ 181.18 Damages Determined at Time Decedent Died

[1] General Rule and Burden of Proof

Each plaintiff in a wrongful death action has the burden of proving his or her own damages with reasonable certainty [see Helling v. Lew (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 434, 437, 104 Cal. Rptr. 789 ; Fields v. Riley (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 308, 313, 81 Cal. Rptr. 671] . The pecuniary loss is determined by the conditions existing at the time the deceased died because each plaintiff is being compensated for the destruction of his or her expectations of what he or she would have received from the deceased if the deceased had lived [Riley v. California Erectors, Inc. (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 29, 33, 111 Cal. Rptr. 459] . Accordingly, damages are not measured by events occurring after the death of the deceased [Riley v. California Erectors, Inc. (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 29, 32, 111 Cal. Rptr. 459] . For example, the probability of a surviving spouse's remarriage is not a proper basis for mitigating damages [Wood v. Alves Serv. Transp., Inc. (1961) 191 Cal. App. 2d 723, 727, 13 Cal. Rptr. 114] nor is the subsequent marriage of a parent of a deceased child [Riley v. California Erectors, Inc. (1973) 111 Cal. Rptr. 459] . However, a jury may consider the pecuniary loss to plaintiffs in light of the probability of the reduced purchasing power of the dollar as well as the inflation in wages that may continue into the future [Mize v. Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Ry. Co. (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 436, 454, 120 Cal. Rptr. 787 ; Tyson v. Romey (1948) 88 Cal. App. 2d 752, 758, 199 P.2d 721] .

[2] Decedent's Life Expectancy Considered

In compensating plaintiffs for the wrongful death of a decedent, a jury may consider the remaining life expectancy of the decedent as one of thevariables it considers in arriving at an award of damages [see Torres v. Los Angeles (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 35, 54, 22 Cal. Rptr. 866, 372 P.2d 906 ; Syah v. Johnson (1966) 247 Cal. App. 2d 534, 547, 55 Cal. Rptr. 741] . For this purpose, tables of mortality may be introduced into evidence, although they are not conclusive on the issue of a decedent's life expectancy [Sumrall v. Butler (1951) 102 Cal. App. 2d 515, 522-523, 227 P.2d 881] . If no evidence is offered to show the probable life expectancy of a decedent, a trial court may take judicial notice of tables of mortality in common use [Dickinson v. Southern Pac. Co. (1916) 172 Cal. 727, 730, 158 P. 183] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesAward CalculationsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.19

§ 181.19 Recovery of Lump Sum Damages

Lump sum damages are required in a wrongful death action regardless of whether the action has gone to trial or is settled without a trial. This sum is computed by adding together the awards made to each of the plaintiffs in the action [Changaris v. Marvel (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 308, 312, 41 Cal. Rptr. 774] . The total recovery is the aggregate of the various plaintiffs' separate interests in the deceased's life [Cross v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 690, 692, 36 Cal. Rptr. 321, 388 P.2d 353] . There can be no substantial recovery for plaintiffs who have not suffered substantial pecuniary injury, and their recovery is limited to nominal damages only [see Estate of Riccomi (1921) 185 Cal. 458, 461, 197 P. 97 ; Burk v. Arcata & Mad River R.R. Co. (1899) 125 Cal. 364, 369, 57 P. 1065 (collateral heirs)].

In calculating the lump-sum award appropriate to compensate the plaintiffs for future lost support, the total lost support must be reduced by an appropriate formula to a present lump sum that, when invested to yield the highest rate of return consistent with reasonable security, will pay the equivalent of lost future benefits at the times, in the amounts, and for the period that the future benefits would have been received [Canavin v. Pacific Sw. Airlines (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 512, 521, 196 Cal. Rptr. 82] . In making this calculation, it is error for the court to allow evidence of the estimated amount of income tax the decedent would have had to pay on his or her income [Canavin v. Pacific Sw. Airlines (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 512, 522, 539-543, 196 Cal. Rptr. 82 (concurring and dissenting opinions constitute majority holding on this point)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesAward CalculationsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.20

§ 181.20 Distribution of Damages

Each wrongful death plaintiff is entitled to share in the award of damages in the proportion that his or her personal damages bear to the damages suffered by the other plaintiffs [Changaris v. Marvel (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 308, 313, 41 Cal. Rptr. 774] . The respective rights of the plaintiffs in any award of damages must be determined by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.61] in an appropriate proceeding [Rose v. San Diego Elec. Ry. Co. (1933) 133 Cal. App. 646, 651, 24 P.2d 838] . Their rights can be determined by means of special interrogatories submitted to jurors inquiring into how they arrived at the total amount of damages [Bowen v. Kizirian (1930) 105 Cal. App. 286, 289, 287 P. 570 ; see Ch. 322, Juries and Verdicts]. They can also be determined in an interpleader action brought by the personal representative to apportion damages resulting from a compromise or settlement worked out between plaintiffs and the tortfeasor [see Changaris v. Marvel (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 308, 313, 41 Cal. Rptr. 774 ; see § 181.150 and Ch. 314, Interpleader].

However, an interpleader action is not always required. For example, if a wrongful death action has been brought to trial against non-settling defendants, that trial court has jurisdiction to apportion the proceeds from a settlement with other defendants when the plaintiff heirs cannot agree to an allocation [Corder v. Corder (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 644, 654, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 660] . In allocating settlement proceeds between adverse plaintiffs, the assessments and intentions of the settling defendant in settling the case for the amount it did are irrelevant [Corder v. Corder (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 644, 659, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 660] .

Apportionment of damages among wrongful death plaintiffs by a court does not deprive the plaintiffs of the right to a jury trial, even if the plaintiffs are not members of the same family. An action for apportionment is a special proceeding raising an equitable issue, and as such, no right to a jury trial exists [Kim v. Yi (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 543, 548-550, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 841 (apportionment made after settlement with wrongful death defendant)].

In any case involving the compromise of a minor's claim in the proceeds of a settlement of a wrongful death claim or action, the guardian of the estate, or the minor's parents if there is no such guardian, must petition the proper court for approval of the compromise [see Code Civ. Proc. § 372 (action pending); Prob. Code § 3500 (no action pending); Hazelwood v. Hazelwood (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 693, 696, 129 Cal. Rptr. 384] . For further discussion and forms for use in petitioning a court to approve the compromise of a minor's claim, see Ch. 366, Minors: Claims and Property of Minors .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePartiesInterpleadersGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesApportionmentTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesAward CalculationsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.21

§ 181.21 Limitation on Recovery in Medical Malpractice Cases

The Medical Injury Compensation Reform Act of 1975 (MICRA) limits recovery of noneconomic losses to compensate for nonpecuniary damage to $250,000 in an action against a health care provider for professional negligence [Civ. Code § 3333.2(b)]. This limitation applies to damages in a wrongful death action for loss of society, companionship, protection, care, and other similar damages [Yates v. Pollock (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 195, 199-200, 239 Cal. Rptr. 383] . MICRA is discussed further in Ch. 414, Physicians: Medical Malpractice.

It has been held that the $250,000 limitation applies in the aggregate, regardless of the number of wrongful death plaintiffs joining in a wrongful death action, so that the total recovery may not exceed $250,000 [Yates v. Pollock (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 195, 200-201, 239 Cal. Rptr. 383 ; but see Cross v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 690, 693, 36 Cal. Rptr. 321, 388 P.2d 353 ; Gilman v. Beverly Cal. Corp. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 121, 126, 283 Cal. Rptr. 17 (each plaintiff in wrongful death action should be regarded as having personal and separate cause of action); see also §§ 181.19 and 181.20]. For further discussion of the implications of this rule, see N. Levy, M. Golden & L. Sacks, eds., California Torts, Ch. 55 (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersDoctors & PhysiciansTortsDamagesCompensatory DamagesPain & SufferingEmotional & Mental DistressGeneral OverviewTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityHealthcare ProvidersTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesAward CalculationsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.22

§ 181.22 Limitation on Attorney's Fees in Medical Malpractice Cases

Attorney's fees in a wrongful death action based on professional medical negligence are limited by Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146, which allows a fee of 40 percent of the first $50,000 recovery, and lesser percentages of greater amounts. This statute is discussed in Ch. 414, Physicians: Medical Malpractice . The percentage limitations are to be applied to the lump-sum recovery, not to the separate amounts apportioned to each wrongful death plaintiff [Yates v. Law Offices of Samuel Shore (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 583, 588-590, 280 Cal. Rptr. 316] . Apportionment of damages among plaintiffs is discussed in § 181.19. Damage limitations in medical malpractice actions are discussed in § 181.21.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesCosts & Attorney FeesAttorney Expenses & FeesStatutory AwardsLegal EthicsClient RelationsAttorney FeesExcessive FeesTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityHealthcare ProvidersTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.23

§ 181.23 Statute of Limitations for Wrongful Death Action

[1] Two-Year Period and Tolling

The statute of limitations for a wrongful death action is two years (one year, prior to January 1, 2003) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 312, 335.1; see former Code Civ. Proc. § 340(3); Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions, § 345.14]. The statute begins to run on the date that the decedent died, not the date the decedent was injured [Walton v. Southern Pac. Co. (1935) 8 Cal. App. 2d 290, 304, 48 P.2d 108 ; Tann v. Western Pac. Ry. Co. (1919) 39 Cal. App. 377, 379-380, 178 P. 971] .

Even though each wrongful death plaintiff must join in a single action [see § 181.12[7]], the claim of each plaintiff is for a separate and personal loss. Thus, the running of the statute of limitations as to one plaintiff does not bar the cause of action of another [Cross v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 690, 692-694, 36 Cal. Rptr. 321, 388 P.2d 353 ; see Washington v. Nelson (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 47, 52, 160 Cal. Rptr. 644] . Conversely, because each wrongful death plaintiff has a separate and personal cause of action against which the period of limitations will run, if an attempt is made to add a plaintiff to a timely-filed wrongful death action, the limitations period runs to the time of amendment or intervention for that plaintiff and the "relation back" doctrine does not apply. Thus, a plaintiff attempting to join the suit after the limitations period has run may be barred from doing so even though the original complaint was timely filed [San Diego Gas & Elec. Co. v. Superior Court (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 1545, 1552-1553, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 722 ; Andersen v. Barton Mem'l Hosp., Inc. (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 678, 681-685, 212 Cal. Rptr. 626] . However, as wrongful death and loss of consortium claims do not relate back to personal injury claims brought by a decedent before his or her death, time limits applicable to the original personal injury action would not apply to the subsequent wrongful death and loss of consortium claims [Brumley v. FDCC California, Inc. (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 312, 326, 67 Cal. Rptr. 3d 292 (five-year limit for bringing decedent's case to trial under Code Civ. Proc. § 583.310 inapplicable to wrongful death and loss of consortium claims)].

If a plaintiff is below the age of majority at the time the action accrues, the statute is tolled for the time of the disability even though adult plaintiffs are barredin the same action by the running of the statute [Cross v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 690, 693, 36 Cal. Rptr. 321, 388 P.2d 353 ; Helling v. Lew (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 434, 438, 104 Cal. Rptr. 789] . The statute may also be tolled if the plaintiff does not discover the allegedly tortious conduct due to the defendant's misrepresentations [see Baker v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 315, 324-325, 114 Cal. Rptr. 171 ; Wohlgemuth v. Meyer (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 326, 330-331]. For complete discussion of statutes of limitation and the various doctrines that may toll a statute of limitation, see Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions .

[2] Actions Against Health Care Providers

If the wrongful death action is against a health care provider and is based on professional negligence, the more specific statute of limitations contained in Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 controls [Washington v. Nelson (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 47, 52, 160 Cal. Rptr. 644] . In such a case, the time for commencement of the action is three years after the date of injury or one year after the plaintiff discovers, or through the use of reasonable diligence should have discovered, the injury, whichever occurs first. In no event is the time for commencement of the legal action to exceed three years unless tolled for any of the following: (1) proof of fraud, (2) intentional concealment, or (3) the presence of a foreign body, which has no therapeutic or diagnostic purpose or effect, in the person of the injured person [Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5; see Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5(1) (health care provider defined), (2) (professional negligence defined)]. Even though the statute of limitations for professional negligence provides that the time begins to run from the "injury," this does not change the general rule in wrongful death cases that the statute of limitations begins to run from death. The word "injury" in Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 has been construed to refer to the wrongfully caused death of the plaintiff's decedent [Larcher v. Wanless (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 646, 659, 135 Cal. Rptr. 75, 557 P.2d 507] . The limitation period of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 also applies to the individual claim of a person seeking to intervene in a wrongful death action that is otherwise filed within the period. If the complaint in intervention asserts a new cause of action, the application for leave to intervene must be filed within the limitation period [Anderson v. Barton Mem'l Hosp. (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 678, 682, 685, 212 Cal. Rptr. 626] .

The statute of limitations applicable to actions against health care providers based on professional negligence, set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5, is tolled for 90 days if the plaintiff gives the 90-day notice of intent to sue required by Code Civ. Proc. § 364 in the last 90 days of the period of limitation [Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 315, 328, 279 Cal. Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455] .

Actions by minors against health care providers based on professional negligence must be commenced within three years from the date of the alleged wrongful action, except that an action by a minor under the full age of six years must be commenced within three years or prior to his or her eighth birthday, whichever provides a longer period. This time limitation is tolled for a minor for any period during which a parent or guardian and a defendant's insurer or health care provider have committed fraud or collusion in the failure to bring an action on behalf of the injured minor for professional negligence [Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5]. The statute of limitations runs from the death of the malpractice victim that qualifies the minor as a wrongful death plaintiff rather than from the time the malpractice occurred [Ferguson v. Dragul (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 702, 708-709, 232 Cal. Rptr. 79] .

For further discussion of actions against health care providers, see Ch. 414, Physicians: Medical Malpractice .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTollingTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityHealthcare ProvidersTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsDefensesStatutes of Limitations

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.24

§ 181.24 Vicarious Liability of Parent for Death Caused by Minor

Any act of willful misconduct of a minor that results in another person's death is imputed to the parent or guardian having custody or control of the minor for all purposes of civil damages. The parent or guardian is jointly and severally liable with the minor for any damages resulting from the willful misconduct [Civ. Code § 1714.1(a)]. The liability of a parent or guardian may not exceed $25,000 for each tort of the child [Civ. Code § 1714.1(a)]; however, insurer liability is limited to $10,000 [Civ. Code. § 1714.1(e)]. For discussion and forms related to parental liability for the torts of their children, see Ch. 367A, Minors: Tort Actions .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawFamily Relationships & TortsTort LiabilityChild TortsFamily LawParental Duties & RightsDutiesLiability for Minor's Actions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 181.25-181.39

[Reserved]

§§ 181.25[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.40

§ 181.40 Governing Statutes

Survival actions are generally governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.20-377.50. An action to establish an insured decedent's liability is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 377.50 and Prob. Code §§ 550-555. The statute of limitations governing survival actions generally is set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 366.1.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsDefensesStatutes of LimitationsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsSurvival Actions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.41

§ 181.41 Definitions

As used in this part, the term "decedent's successor in interest" means the beneficiary of a decedent's estate or another successor in interest who succeeds to a decedent's cause of action or to property of a decedent that is the subject of a cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.32(a); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 377.10 (definition of beneficiary of decedent's estate)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawEstate AdministrationGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsSurvival Actions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.42

§ 181.42 Survival Action

[1] Availability

A survival action is an action that, by virtue of the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.20-377.43 (substantially restating former Prob. Code § 573), may be maintained or continued by or against the personal representative or, in some cas es, a successor in interest, based on a cause or causes of action that accrued in the lifetime of the decedent. A survival action may be brought or continued by a decedent's successor in interest if there is no personal representative and if the successor in interest files an affidavit or declaration including specified information [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.30, 377.32(a)]. A survival action may be brought or continued against a decedent's successor in interest if another statute provides for direct liability of the successor [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.40].

A survival action is not a new cause of action created for the benefit of the persons who qualify as wrongful death plaintiffs by their relationship to the decedent but is, instead, a continuation of the cause of action the decedent held [see Grant v. McAuliffe (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 859, 864, 264 P.2d 944 (interpreting former Prob. Code § 573 (now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.30, 377.31))]. Indeed, a complaint for wrongful death cannot be amended to state a survival cause of action if the statute of limitations applicable to the survival cause of action has run. Given the distinctions between the actions, the amendment does not relate back to the filing of the original complaint [Parker v. Superior Court (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 1082, 1088, 223 Cal. Rptr. 292 ; see § 181.44].

Generally, a cause of action is not lost because of the death of a person. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.20(a) (restating former Proc. Code § 573(a)) states a comprehensive rule of survivability. The former distinction between survivable and nonsurvivable causes of actions, often turning on the issue of whether or not the cause of action was assignable [see Estate of Blair (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 728, 731-732, 269 P.2d 612] , is now largely an historical one. Today, virtually all causes of action that a decedent held at the time he or she died may be maintained by his or her personal representative [Poon v. Poon (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 746, 753, 53 Cal. Rptr. 365 (interpreting former Prob. Code § 573(a) (now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.20-377.31))].

[2] In Family Law Matters

The death of one spouse abates a cause of action for dissolution of marriage, and if a spouse dies before the marriage is dissolved, the court has no further jurisdiction to determine property matters [Estate of Blair (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 161, 167, 244 Cal. Rptr. 627 ; see In re Marriage of Hilke (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 215, 220-221, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 371, 841 P.2d 891] . However, if a judgment of dissolution of marriage as to status only has been entered, the subsequent death of a spouse does not deprive the court of jurisdiction to determine collateral property rights [In re Marriage of Hilke (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 215, 220, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 371, 841 P.2d 891 ; see also Poon v. Poon (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 746, 750-751, 53 Cal. Rptr. 365 (interspousal causes of action to recover property and set aside fraudulent transfer do not abate on death of one spouse)].

It has been held that the death of a married person abates an action for nullity of the marriage brought by a third person [Greene v. Williams (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 559, 563, 88 Cal. Rptr. 261 (action by parent to annul child's marriage after child's death)]. However, death does not abate a pending action for nullity brought by one of the putative spouses during his or her lifetime [In re Marriage of Goldberg (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 265, 268-277, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 298 (finding no "precedential tension" with Greene, but declining to follow it, if apposite)].

[3] Invasion of Privacy and Defamation

Before 1984, The California Supreme Court held that a decedent's heirs had no protectable interest in the decedent's name or likeness if the decedent did not exercise the right on his or her own behalf during lifetime [Lugosi v. Universal Pictures (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 813, 818-824, 160 Cal. Rptr. 323, 603 P.2d 425] . This rule was abrogated by statute [see Civ. Code § 3344.1; see generally Ch. 429, Privacy]; however, the holding rested on the premise that rights of privacy are personal and do not survive the death of the person [see Lugosi v. Universal Pictures (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 813, 818-824, 160 Cal. Rptr. 323, 603 P.2d 425 ; see also Flynn v. Higham (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 677, 683, 197 Cal. Rptr. 145 ; Hendrickson v. California Newspapers, Inc. (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 59, 62, 121 Cal. Rptr. 429 (both involving actions by decedents' families for invasion of their privacy based on information about decedent published after death)]. There is a similar rule that defamation of a deceased person does not give rise to a right of action in favor of the surviving family members of the decedent [see Flynn v. Higham (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 677, 680, 197 Cal. Rptr. 145] .

Whether an action for invasion of privacy that accrued and was commenced by the decedent during his or her lifetime would abate on death has not been directly addressed. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 377.21, a pending action will abate on the death of a party if the cause of action does not survive [but see Lugosi v. Universal Pictures (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 813, 824, 160 Cal. Rptr. 323, 603 P.2d 425 (suggesting that rule of nonsurvival might not apply with regard to rights actually exercised by decedent during lifetime)]. If the decedent took no action whatsoever to assert the right during his or her lifetime, it would seem that the personal representative could not maintain the suit as a survival action.

[4] Injury to Child or Ward

In addition to the general survival action authorized under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.20 and 377.30 (restating former Prob. Code § 573), a parent's or guardian's cause of action for injuries sustained by their legitimate or illegitimate unmarried minor child or ward who is injured as a result of the wrongful act or neglect of another is not abated by the child's or ward's death [Code Civ. Proc. § 376; see generally Ch. 394, Parent and Child].

[5] Action to Establish Decedent's Insured Liability

An action to establish a decedent's liability for claims covered by insurance may be commenced or continued against the decedent's estate [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.50; Prob. Code §§ 550-555] without joining the decedent's personal representative [see Prob. Code § 550(a)]. If the limitation period otherwise applicable to the action has not expired at the time of the decedent's death, an action under these provisions may be commenced within one year after the expiration of the limitation period otherwise applicable [see Prob. Code § 551]. This limitations provision applies notwithstanding Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2 (time for commencing survival action if prospective defendant dies before expiration of statute of limitations), which normally overrides the statute of limitations otherwise applicable to provide that the action must be commenced within one year after the decedent's death [see Prob. Code § 551]. This action may be pursued concurrently with other remedies available [Prob. Code § 550(b)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 454, Probate: Claims Against the Estate .

[6] Cause of Action Accruing Before Plaintiff's Death

Generally, the survival of a cause of action in favor of a deceased plaintiff does not depend on whether or not the decedent instituted a lawsuit before his or her death. Thus, an action survives whether or not a decedent has commenced suit at the time of his or her death [Dunwoody v. Trapnell (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 367, 370, 120 Cal. Rptr. 859 (interpreting former Prob. Code § 573 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30))].

A surviving "cause of action" has been construed to include a thing in action, including a right that, although accruing before the decedent's death, is not a mature, actionable claim at that time. Thus, a third-party claim against an insurer under Ins. Code § 790.03(h)(5) (requiring insurer to make good faith attempt to settle third-party claim when liability is reasonably clear) was held to survive under former Prob. Code § 573 [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30]. The alleged misconduct occurred before the claimant's death, although the claim itself did not become actionable until after his death, at the conclusion of the claimant's action against the insured [Carr v. Progressive Cas. Ins. Co. (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 881, 888-891, 199 Cal. Rptr. 835 ; but see Moradi-Shalal v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Cos. (1988) 46 Cal. 3d 287, 297-305, 250 Cal. Rptr. 116, 758 P.2d 58 (prospectively abrogating cause of action based on violation of Ins. Code § 790.03(h))]. Subsequently, one court has held that, if immature rights can ripen into a cause of action following death, it must also be true that they can also ripen into an action at death [Granquist v. Sandberg (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 181, 187, 268 Cal. Rptr. 109 (claim for legal malpractice for failure to seek preferential trial setting for elderly and ill plaintiff under Code Civ. Proc. § 36(a) ripened when plaintiff died before trial)].

In cases in which the same tortious conduct causes both death and another potentially actionable loss such as property damage, the action survives only if the other loss occurs before death, however briefly [see Grimshaw v. Ford Motor Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 757, 829, 833, 174 Cal. Rptr. 348] . For further discussion, see § 181.45[4].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJusticiabilityAbatement on Death of PartyGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsTortsIntentional TortsInvasion of PrivacyGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsDefensesStatutes of LimitationsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsSurvival Actions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.43

§ 181.43 Cause of Action Commenced or Continued by Decedent's Successor in Interest

A cause of action that survives the death of a person entitled to bring an actionpasses to the decedent's successor in interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30]. Generally, a survival action is commenced or continued by the decedent's personal representative. However, if the decedent has no personal representative, the survival action may be commenced or continued by the successor in interest [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.30, 377.31], who must execute and file an affidavit or declaration providing information required by law [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.32].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePartiesSubstitutionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePartiesSubstitutionsDeath of PartyTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsSurvival Actions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.44

§ 181.44 Statute of Limitations

[1] Decedent's Cause of Action

A survival action on behalf of a decedent may be brought six months after the decedent's death or within the limitation period that would have applied if the person had not died, whichever is later [Code Civ. Proc. § 366.1].

A survival action only provides damages for injury to the decedent, while a wrongful death action provides damages for injury caused to the surviving heirs. Because the two actions seek recovery for different injuries, a survival action does not "relate back" to a previously-filed cause of action for wrongful death, and a plaintiff must state any survivor action within the applicable limitations period or it will not be timely [Quiroz v. Seventh Ave. Ctr. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1256, 1278-1279, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 222] .

[2] Cause of Action Against Decedent

A survival action against a decedent's estate generally may be brought within a year after the decedent's death, without regard to the limitation period that would have applied if the decedent had not died [Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2(a)]. An action is timely if it is commenced against the decedent within the applicable period; it does not have to be commenced against the personal representative within that time. The subsequent amended complaint substituting the personal representative for the decedent relates back to the initial time of filing, provided that it seeks recovery on the same general set of facts as the original complaint [Burgos v. Tamulonis (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 757, 762-764, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 728 (plaintiff had no notice of decedent's death at time action was filed)]. The limitations period of Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2 applies to a claim filed in California even if the decedent's personal representative resides outside of California or the estate is in probate in another state [Farb v. Superior Court (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 678, 684, 94 Cal. Rptr. 3d 586] .

The survival action statute provides that its limitation period is not tolled or extended for any reason [Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2(b)]. Nevertheless, it also provides that it is subject to the requirements on filing creditor claims against a decedent's estate, to the requirements on payment of claims, debts, and expenses from revocable trust of deceased settlor, and to the requirements of no contest clauses as they existed before repeal in 2008 [Code Civ. Proc. §

366.2(b)(2)-(4); see Prob. Code §§ 9000 et seq. (creditors' claims), 19000 et seq. (payments from deceased settlor's revocable trust), former 21300 et seq. (no contest clauses)]. Each of these statutes contains limitations-tolling provisions [see Prob. Code §§ 9353 (time for commencing action against estate after rejection of claim), 9370 (claim against estate prerequisite to continuation of action), 19100 (time for filing claim against revocable trust), former 21308 (tolling statute of limitations to determine if beneficiary's act constitutes contest within terms of no contest clause)]. In addition, the statute of limitations may be extended if the last day of the limitations period is a holiday [Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2(b)(1); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 12B]. As it is not listed in the statutory exceptions, this statute of limitations is not tolled due to the minority of the plaintiff [Farb v. Superior Court (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 678, 683, 94 Cal. Rptr. 3d 586] . For further discussion, see Ch. 345, Limitiation of Actions .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawEstate AdministrationClaims Against EstatesTime LimitationsGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsDefensesStatutes of LimitationsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsSurvival Actions

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.45

§ 181.45 Damages Recoverable in Survival Action

[1] In General

Generally, in the case of a person who dies before judgment, the damages recoverable by his or her personal representative or successor in interest are limited to loss or damages that the decedent sustained or incurred prior to his or her death, including any penalties or punitive or exemplary damages that the decedent would have been entitled to had he or she lived [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34 (restating former Prob. Code § 573(c)); § 181.170[7][b]]. The damages recoverable in favor of such a decedent do not include damages for pain, suffering, or disfigurement [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34; see Carr v. Pacific Tel. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 537, 545, 103 Cal. Rptr. 120 ; Love v. Wolf (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 822, 840, 58 Cal. Rptr. 42 (both cases applying substantially similar provision of former Prob. Code § 573(c); court in Love also noted Law Revision Commission's report that damages for loss of life expectancy may not be recovered)]. However, a specific statute may permit such a recovery [see, e.g., Welf. & Inst. Code § 15657(b) (permitting recovery of decedent's pain and suffering damages in action for elder abuse notwithstanding limits of former Prob. Code § 573(c) (now Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34)); see also ARA Living Ctrs.-Pac., Inc. v. Superior Court (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 1556, 1563-1565, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 224 (amendment permitting recovery of decedent's pain and suffering damages not applied retroactively)].

The limitation on damages in Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34 applies whenever the decedent dies "before judgment," which refers to a final judgment. Thus, for example, the limitation applies to a plaintiff who dies after a trial court grants a motion for a new trial on the issue of damages [Love v. Wolf (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 822, 840, 58 Cal. Rptr. 42] . However, judgment may be entered nunc pro tunc if the plaintiff dies after the jury verdict, or after the close of evidence, but before judgment is rendered [Cadlo v. Metalclad Insulation Corp. (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 1311, 1321-1323, 61 Cal. Rptr. 3d 104 (plaintiff died two days after jury verdict); [see Williamson v. Plant Insulation Co. (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 1406, 1414, 1415-1417, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 751 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 669 (court may render judgment if party dies before judgment, but after trial and submission of case to judge sitting without jury, or after verdict on any issue of fact)]. In such cases, the plaintiff is responsible for requesting that the trial court exercise its nuncpro tunc authority [Kellogg v. Asbestos Corp. Ltd. (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 1397, 1405, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 256] .

Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34 does not bar recovery for pain and suffering damages awarded in a judgment if the plaintiff dies after that judgment is rendered but while an appeal is pending [Sullivan v. Delta Air Lines, Inc. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 288, 305, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 74, 935 P.2d 781] . In Sullivan, the Supreme Court traced the statutory history of survival law and determined that the current statute, Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34, did not apply to bar pain and suffering awards under those circumstances [Sullivan v. Delta Air Lines, Inc. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 288, 305, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 74, 935 P.2d 781] .

[2] Medical Expenses

The damages recoverable in favor of a decedent include medical expenses he or she incurred [Follansbee v. Benzenberg (1954) 122 Cal. App. 2d 466, 474, 265 P.2d 183 (referring to former Civ. Code § 956)]. It is immaterial if the medical expenses are paid by one other than the decedent unless that person was under statutory obligation to do so [see Fifield Manor v. Finston (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 632, 635, 637, 7 Cal. Rptr. 377, 354 P.2d 1073] . For example, a surviving spouse cannot recover medical expenses he or she paid for the deceased spouse because he or she is under a legal obligation to pay these expenses. Nevertheless, the surviving spouse may prosecute an individual claim for the expenses, which is separate from the claim prosecuted by the decedent's estate [see Follansbee v. Benzenberg (1954) 122 Cal. App. 2d 466, 475-476, 265 P.2d 183] .

[3] Loss of Earnings

The damages recoverable in a survival action include the loss of earnings the decedent suffered prior to death [see DeMeo v. St. Francis Hosp. (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 174, 176, 114 Cal. Rptr. 280] . These damages include temporary disability indemnity related to a decedent's loss of earnings while he or she lived [Patterson v. Sharp (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 990, 1000-1001, 89 Cal. Rptr. 396] .

[4] Punitive Damages

Because punitive damages are recoverable in a survival action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34; see also § 181.45], but generally not in a wrongful death action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.61; see also § 181.16[3]], there is a significant advantage to being able to bring both a survival action and a wrongful death action for tortious conduct that led to the death of the victim, if the defendant's conduct meets the standard for punitive damages [see Ch. 177, Damages]. Cases interpreting former Prob. Code § 573 [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34] have held that, if an interval of time, no matter how brief, elapses between the injury to the person or to his or her or property and the death, the claim for punitive damages survives [Grimshaw v. Ford Motor Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 757, 829, 833, 174 Cal. Rptr. 348 (victim survived for three days); Stencel Aero Eng'g Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 978, 986-988, 128 Cal. Rptr. 691 ($10-million punitive damage claim proper on allegation that decedent airplane pilot suffered $200 property damages on ejection, and died seconds later onstriking ground)]. If the victim dies simultaneously with the infliction of the other potentially actionable injury, however, the cause of action does not survive and punitive damages may not be recovered from the tortfeasor [Pease v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 450, 459-462, 113 Cal. Rptr. 416 (personal property destroyed in same plane crash in which victims died)]. Thus, entitlement to punitive damages depends on whether it can be proved that the decedents suffered some injury other than death, such asproperty damages, before (albeit only instantly before) death resulting from the tortious conduct [see Stencel Aero Eng'g Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 978, 987-988 n.6, 128 Cal. Rptr. 691] . The constitutionality of this distinction has been questioned on equal protection grounds [see Grimshaw v. Ford Motor Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 757, 832-836, 174 Cal. Rptr. 348] .

Punitive damages may be recovered in a survival action in which the decedent's death resulted from a homicide for which the defendant has been convicted of a felony, whether or not the decedent died instantly or survived the fatal injury for some period of time [Civ. Code § 3294(d)].

Under certain circumstances, a personal representative in a survival action may be able to recover punitive damages but no compensatory damages. For example, the decedent's damages may have consisted entirely of damages for pain, suffering, or disfigurement, which are not recoverable in a survival action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34 (restating former Prob. Code § 573(c))]. At least one court of appeal opinion has allowed recovery of punitive damages under these circumstances, provided the amount of punitive damages bears some reasonable relation to the actual harm or injury suffered by the decedent during lifetime [Gagnon v. Continental Cas. Co. (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1598, 1602-1605, 260 Cal. Rptr. 305] . However, another court opinion has rejected the right to recover punitive damages when the decedent's only actual injury was emotional distress [Berkley v. Dowds (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 518, 530-532, 61 Cal. Rptr. 3d 304] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsDamagesCompensatory DamagesMedical ExpensesTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesCompensatory DamagesFinancial ContributionsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesCompensatory DamagesPain & SufferingTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesPunitive DamagesTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsSurvival Actions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.46

§ 181.46 Recovery of Damages Against Deceased Defendant

[1] Availability

In an action brought or continued against a personal representative or the decedent's successor in interest under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.40, 377.41, all damages may be awarded that could have been recovered against the decedent if he or she had lived, except punitive damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.42]. In addition, in an action maintained by the parents or guardian of a minor child or ward for injuries sustained as a result of a decedent's wrongful act or neglect, thedamages recoverable against the personal representative or successor in interest of the person causing the injury are governed by the provisions of Prob. Code § 377.42 [Code Civ. Proc. § 376(g)(2)].

[2] Punitive Damages Not Recoverable

Ordinarily, recoverable damages in an action against a decedent's personal representative or successor in interest do not include damages recoverable under Civ. Code § 3294 (punitive damages for oppression, fraud, or malice), or other punitive or exemplary damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.42 (restating former Prob. Code § 573(b))]. Thus, a claim for punitive damages against a deceased defendant based on a breach of fiduciary duty does not survive the defendant's death [Bancroft-Whitney Co. v. Glen (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 327, 357, 49 Cal. Rptr. 825, 411 P.2d 921] . However, the right to punitive damages is extinguished only if the defendant dies before judgment is entered. If the defendant dies before an appeal becomes final, the plaintiff may enforce a money judgment for punitive damages [Whelan v. Rallo (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 989, 992, 996, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 876] .

For further discussion and forms for use in bringing an action against an estate, see Ch. 454, Probate: Claims Against the Estate .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Estate, Gift & Trust LawEstate AdministrationClaims Against EstatesGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesCompensatory DamagesGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesPunitive DamagesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 181.47-181.59

[Reserved]

§§ 181.47[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Joinder and Consolidation of Wrongful Death and Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.60

§ 181.60 Governing Statutes

Joinder of wrongful death and survival actions arising out of the same wrongful act or neglect is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 377.62(a). Consolidation of these actions is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 377.62(b). The consolidation provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 377.62(b) specifically apply to survival actions against a defendant convicted of a felony based on the same wrongful act [Civ. Code. § 3294(d)]. Consolidation of an action brought under the basic wrongful death provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60, and an action brought under the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 376 regarding a surviving action for injuries to a minor child, is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 376(h).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePartiesJoinderGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePretrial MattersConsolidation of ActionsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsJoinder RequirementsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsSurvival Actions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Joinder and Consolidation of Wrongful Death and Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.61

§ 181.61 Joinder and Consolidation of Wrongful Death and Survival Actions

Any survival action brought by the personal representative or successor in interest of a decedent pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30 may be joined or consolidated for trial with any action for wrongful death arising out of the same wrongful act or neglect brought pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.62]. Joinder or consolidation is proper even though the actions are separate and distinct and the damages to be awarded mutually exclusive [see Herrero v. Atkinson (1964) 227 Cal. App. 2d 69, 76, 38 Cal. Rptr. 490 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 377(a) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.62))].

An action that may be brought by a parent or guardian based on an injury to aminor child under Code Civ. Proc. § 376 may be consolidated for trial with a wrongful death action arising out of the same wrongful act or neglect [Code Civ. Proc. § 376(h); see Code Civ. Proc. § 376(f) (death of child does not abate action for damages accruing before child's death)]. In a survival action pursuant to Civ. Code § 3294(d) for punitive damages against a defendant convicted of a felony based on the same wrongful act, the joinder and consolidation provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 377.62 apply to prevent multiple recoveries of punitive damages [Civ. Code § 3294(d)]. For discussion of procedure for consolidation of actions and applicable forms, see Ch. 125, Consolidation, Severance, and Coordination of Actions .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePartiesJoinderGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePretrial MattersConsolidation of ActionsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsJoinder RequirementsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsSurvival Actions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Joinder and Consolidation of Wrongful Death and Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 181.62-181.79

[Reserved]

§§ 181.62[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.80

§ 181.80 State Statutes

Parent's vicarious liability for death caused by minor's willful misconduct. Civ. Code § 1714.1(a)

Punitive damages available for death resulting from homicide for which defendant was convicted of felony. Civ. Code § 3294(d)

Two years in which to bring action for death of one caused by the wrongful act or neglect of another. Code Civ. Proc. § 335.1; see former Code Civ. Proc. § 340(3) (one-year period prior to 2003)

Tolling of statute of limitations if plaintiff below age of majority at time action accrues. Code Civ. Proc. § 352

Action for damages for injury to child or ward by parent or guardian. Code Civ. Proc. § 376

Wrongful death action as brought by decedent's surviving spouse, domestic partner, child, or grandchild, by other persons defined by statute, or by decedent's personal representative. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60

Proper county in which to bring action for death from wrongful act or neglect. Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a)

Wrongful death actions against government entities as requiring timely filing of claim for damages with entity. Gov. Code § 911.2

Person who feloniously and intentionally kills decedent as prohibited from bringing wrongful death action or benefiting from an action brought by decedent's personal representative. Prob. Code § 258

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

TortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsDefensesStatutes of LimitationsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesPunitive DamagesTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsSurvival Actions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.81

§ 181.81 Decisions

[1] Actions of Decedent

Decedent's assumption of risk as binding on wrongful death plaintiffs; assumption of all risks as authorizing otherwise wrongful behavior, and wrongful death action as not able to be predicated on authorized behavior. Coates v. Newhall Land & Farming, Inc. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1, 8-9, 236 Cal. Rptr. 181

[2] Amendment of Complaint

Amendment of complaint to name individual wrongful death plaintiffs as allowed in wrongful death action brought by administrator of decedent's estate. Mayo v. White (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 1083, 1092, 224 Cal. Rptr. 373

When amended complaint for wrongful death does not attempt to state new cause of action but merely attempts to add matters essential to make original cause of action complete, amendment, though made after expiration of period of limitations, as relating back to time action was commenced. Mayo v. White (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 1083, 1092, 224 Cal. Rptr. 373

[3] Award of Damages

[a] Amount Discretionary

Amount of damages to be awarded in particular case as discretionary with trier of fact and dependent on circumstances presented by evidence. Dickinson v. Southern Pac. Co. (1916) 172 Cal. 727, 731, 158 P. 183 ; Syah v. Johnson (1966) 247 Cal. App. 2d 534, 547, 55 Cal. Rptr. 741

Amount awarded in wrongful death action as sufficient if it appears to bear reasonable relation to elements of loss entitled to be considered by jury, and amount fixed was within sound discretion of jury, and of trial court in determining motion for new trial. Fagerquist v. Western Sun Aviation, Inc. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 709, 728, 236 Cal. Rptr. 633

Judgment for damages for wrongful death having substantial support in evidence as not disturbed on appeal as excessive unless it clearly appears to reviewing court that judgment resulted from passion or prejudice on part of jury. Fagerquist v. Western Sun Aviation, Inc. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 709, 727, 236 Cal. Rptr. 633 (citing Seffert v. Los Angeles Transit Lines (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 498, 506-507, 15 Cal. Rptr. 161, 364 P.2d 337 ; Foerster v. Direito (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 323, 333, 170 P.2d 986)

[b] Authority

Former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.61] as providing only statutory authority for award of damages in wrongful death action. Carr v. Pacific Tel. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 537, 544, 103 Cal. Rptr. 120

[c] Damages Limited to Pecuniary Loss

Damages as properly recoverable only for pecuniary loss suffered by wrongful death plaintiffs. Krouse v. Graham (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 59, 67, 137 Cal. Rptr. 863, 562 P.2d 1022

Loss to wrongful death plaintiffs caused by decedent's death as basis for recovery in wrongful death action. Burk v. Arcata & Mad River R.R. Co. (1899) 125 Cal. 364, 368, 57 P. 1065

Damages for lost value of (1) economic contributions, (2) personal service, advice, or training that would probably have been given, and (3) society, comfort, care, protection, and companionship as required to be monetarily quantified. Fox v. Pacific Sw. Airlines (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 565, 569, 184 Cal. Rptr. 87

Damages for wrongful death as required to be reduced to present value. Fox v. Pacific Sw. Airlines (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 565, 569, 184 Cal. Rptr. 87

Damages for wrongful death as not limited to compensation for losses with ascertainable economic value, but as including value of benefits plaintiffs could reasonably expect to receive from deceased if he or she had lived, including personal services, advice, and training plaintiffs would have received from deceased, and value of his or her society and companionship. Allen v. Toledo (1980) 109 Cal. App. 3d 415, 423, 167 Cal. Rptr. 270

[d] Detriment Suffered by Decedent Before Death Not Recoverable

Damages for pain and suffering of decedent are not recoverable by wrongful death plaintiff. Parsons v. Easton (1921) 184 Cal. 764, 770, 195 P. 419

[e] Distinct From Survival Damages

Recovery of punitive damages as barred in wrongful death actions. Tarasoff v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 425, 450, 131 Cal. Rptr. 14, 551 P.2d 334 ; Grimshaw v. Ford Motor Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 757, 829, 174 Cal. Rptr. 348

Cause of action under survival statute as separate and distinct from cause of action under former Code Civ. Proc § 377 [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 (plaintiffs as not permitted to amend wrongful death cause of action to seek punitive damages)]. Parker v. Superior Court (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 1082, 1088, 223 Cal. Rptr. 292 ; Grimshaw v. Ford

Motor Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 757, 831, 174 Cal. Rptr. 348

Plaintiffs barred from seeking punitive damages in wrongful death action as not denied equal protection, because avoidance of double punishment and double recovery is rational basis for distinction of wrongful death actions from survival actions. Grimshaw v. Ford Motor Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 757, 835-836, 174 Cal. Rptr. 348

Damages awarded in wrongful death action as in addition to recovery sought by decedent's estate pursuant to former Prob. Code § 573 [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30]. Carr v. Pacific Tel. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 537, 545, 103 Cal. Rptr. 120

[f] Emotional Distress Damages Not Allowed

Emotional distress damages as not recoverable in wrongful death action. Westfield Ins. Co. v. DeSimone (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 598, 604, 247 Cal. Rptr. 291

[g] Interest

Interest awarded in jury's discretion as proper, even when no oppression, malice, or fraud is found, under Civ. Code § 3288 in wrongful death action as to damages attributable to ascertainable economic value such as loss of household services or earning capacity, as well as funeral and related expenses. Canavin v. Pacific Sw. Airlines (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 512, 526-527, 196 Cal. Rptr. 82 (rejecting contrary conclusion of Fox v. Pacific Sw. Airlines (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 565, 573, 184 Cal. Rptr. 87)

Absent oppression, fraud, or malice, prejudgment interest pursuant to Civ. Code § 3288 as generally not awarded in wrongful death action. Fox v. Pacific Sw. Airlines (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 565, 573, 184 Cal. Rptr. 87

[h] No Recovery Without Loss

Wrongful death plaintiff as not entitled to recover damages in absence of proof of pecuniary damage. Helling v. Lew (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 434, 437, 104 Cal. Rptr. 789

Jury as properly failing to award damages to father for wrongful death of child when it concluded that father suffered no pecuniary loss through child's death. Fields v. Riley (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 308, 314, 81 Cal. Rptr. 671

[4] Defenses

Facts that establish justifiable homicide under Penal Code [see Penal Code §§ 196, 197] as constituting privileged conduct, and defense to civil liability for wrongful death. Gilmore v. Superior Court (1990) 230 Cal. App. 3d 416, 422, 281 Cal. Rptr. 343

[5] Distribution of Damages

[a] Determination

Respective rights of wrongful death plaintiffs in award of damages as determined by court in appropriate proceeding. Rose v. San Diego Elec. Ry. Co. (1933) 133 Cal. App. 646, 651, 24 P.2d 838

Respective rights of wrongful death plaintiffs in award of damages as determined by means of special interrogatories to jurors inquiring into how jury arrived at total amount of damages. Bowen v. Kizirian (1930) 105 Cal. App. 286, 289, 287 P. 570

[b] Loss to Each Wrongful Death Plaintiff

Trial court as not erring in apportioning compromise award as provided by laws of succession when trial judge had heard evidence bearing on relative damage to each plaintiffs. Hernandez v. Fujioka (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 294, 301, 114 Cal. Rptr. 844

Each wrongful death plaintiff as required to prove his or her own damages. Helling v. Lew (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 434, 437, 104 Cal. Rptr. 789

Each wrongful death plaintiff as entitled to share in award of damages in proportion that his or her personal damages bears to damages suffered by other plaintiffs. Changaris v. Marvel (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 308, 313, 41 Cal. Rptr. 774

Damages as not distributed as provided by laws of succession but shared on basis of pecuniary loss to each wrongful death plaintiff. Bowen v. Kizirian (1930) 105 Cal. App. 286, 289, 287 P. 570

[6] Elements of Pecuniary Loss

[a] Funeral Expenses as Recoverable

Funeral expenses as recoverable when plaintiffs are liable for such expenses. Adams v. Southern Pac. Co. (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 731, 743, 53 P.2d 121

Funeral expenses as not recoverable if double recovery would result. Patterson v. Sharp (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 990, 1000, 89 Cal. Rptr. 396

Funeral expenses as element of recovery in wrongful death actions. Francis v. Sauve (1963) 222 Cal. App. 2d 102, 124, 34 Cal. Rptr. 754 ; Wilson v. City & County of San Francisco (1951) 106 Cal. App. 2d 440, 445, 235 P.2d 81

[b] Grief, Wounded Feelings, and Sorrow Not Basis for Recovery

Sorrow attendant on death of loved one as not basis for recovery of damages. Krouse v. Graham (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 59, 69, 137 Cal. Rptr. 863, 562 P.2d 1022

Trial court as not required to give pecuniary loss instruction to jury for sole purpose of excluding elements of grief, wounded feelings, and sorrow from jury's consideration. Krouse v. Graham (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 59, 69, 137 Cal. Rptr. 863, 562 P.2d 1022

[c] Medical Expenses as Not Recoverable

Medical expenses incurred for treatment of injured decedent as not recoverable in wrongful death action. Follansbee v. Benzenberg (1954) 122 Cal. App. 2d 466, 474, 265 P.2d 183

[d] Present Value of Future Contributions

Chief element of damages recoverable by surviving spouse in wrongful death action as present value of earnings deceased spouse would have contributed to family during period of his or her life expectancy. Riley v. California Erectors, Inc. (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 29, 32, 111 Cal. Rptr. 459

Chief element of damages recoverable by child of decedent in wrongful death action as present value of earnings deceased parent would have contributed to family during period of his or her life expectancy. Syah v. Johnson (1966) 247 Cal. App. 2d 534, 547, 55 Cal. Rptr. 741

Trier of fact as permitted to presume that decedent's earning capacity would have increased. Foerster v. Direito (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 323, 333, 170 P.2d 986

[e] Reasonably Expected Benefits

Sister as entitled to recover anticipated future contributions from deceased brother when she showed moral obligation undertaken by brother to provide for her support and her reasonable belief that he would continue to so provide. Wilson v. City & County of San Francisco (1951) 106 Cal. App. 2d 440, 444, 235 P.2d 81

Parents as entitled to recover anticipated future contributions from deceased minor son when they showed that son had helped them by contributing to maintenance of their home and to liquidation of mortgage on home, and that they had reasonable belief that son's contributions would continue for full period of expectancy of life common to son and parents. Karwoski v. Grant (1938) 30 Cal. App. 2d 171, 180, 85 P.2d 944

[f] Value of Personal Service, Advice, or Training

Recovery as allowed for spouse's household services, such as cooking, cleaning, and general management of family affairs, as well as for parental care and counseling of adolescent child. Torres v. Los Angeles (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 35, 54, 22 Cal. Rptr. 866, 372 P.2d 906

Personal service, advice, and training as part of plaintiff's reasonable expectations of benefits from deceased, and therefore proper basis of damages award. Mize v. Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Ry. Co. (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 436, 453, 120 Cal. Rptr. 787

[g] Value of Society and Companionship

Only pecuniary value of loss of decedent's society, comfort, and protection as proper element of damages. Krouse v. Graham (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 59, 68, 137 Cal. Rptr. 863, 562 P.2d 1022

Assessing loss of companionship or society in pecuniary terms in wrongful death action as similar to assessment in action for loss of consortium. Priola v. Paulino (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 380, 387 n.1, 140 Cal. Rptr. 186

[7] Nature of Cause of Action

[a] In General

Fetus as not "person" within meaning of former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60] and, thus, no wrongful death action maintainable for death of unborn child. Justus v. Atchison (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 564, 580, 139 Cal. Rptr. 97, 565 P.2d 122

Purpose of wrongful death action as compensation of decedent's heirs for pecuniary loss suffered by them as result of decedent's death. Estate of Riccomi (1921) 185 Cal. 458, 461, 197 P. 97 ; Pease v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 450, 461, 113 Cal. Rptr. 416

[b] Action Entirely Statutory

Cause of action for wrongful death as wholly statutory. Steed v. Imperial Airlines (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 115, 119-120, 115 Cal. Rptr. 329, 524 P.2d 801 ; Von Batsch v. American Dist. Tel. Co. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 1111, 1119, 222 Cal. Rptr. 239 ; Moxon v. County of Kern (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 393, 397, 43 Cal. Rptr. 481 ; Jones v. Leonardt (1909) 10 Cal. App. 284, 286, 101 P. 811

Wrongful death action as completely within jurisdiction of legislature to grant, withhold, or restrict as it sees fit. Moxon v. County of Kern (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 393, 397, 43 Cal. Rptr. 481

[c] Arising From Tortious Conduct

Former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60] as authorizing wrongful death action only for tortious acts, and as contemplating liability based only on tortious acts. Moxon v. County of Kern (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 393, 399-400, 43 Cal. Rptr. 481

Commission of tortious act and resulting death causing pecuniary loss to potential wrongful death plaintiffs as necessary elements in cause of action for wrongful death. Moxon v. County of Kern (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 393, 398-399, 43 Cal. Rptr. 481

Cause of action for intentional infliction of mental distress as sufficient to sustain action for wrongful death, provided mental distress is alleged to be substantial factor in causing decedent to commit suicide. Tate v. Canonica (1960) 180 Cal. App. 2d 898, 909, 5 Cal. Rptr. 28

Cause of action in negligence as sufficient to sustain action for wrongful death provided complaint alleges what was done negligently. Potter v. Richards (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 380, 384, 282 P.2d 113

[d] Effect of Judgment in Decedent's Action

Cause of action for wrongful death as not necessarily precluded by decedent's settlement with defendant of personal-injury action. Coe v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 981, 992, 136 Cal. Rptr. 331 ; Robison v. Leigh (1957) 153 Cal. App. 2d 730, 732, 733, 315 P.2d 42

When plaintiff in wrongful death action was stranger to prior personal injury action brought by decedent, defense of estoppel as not available against plaintiff. Kaiser Found. Hosp. v. Superior Court (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 327, 333-334, 62 Cal. Rptr. 330

When issue of liability determined adversely to decedent and spouse in personal injury action due to contributory negligence of spouse, spouse estopped from bringing wrongful death action on same facts and circumstances. Secrest v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1943) 60 Cal. App. 2d 746, 747, 751, 141 P.2d 747

If decedent had established defendant's liability in personal-injury action, defendant's liability in wrongful death action based on same facts as established by collateral estoppel. Secrest v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1943) 60 Cal. App. 2d 746,

751, 141 P.2d 747

[e] New Cause of Action

Wrongful death plaintiffs as failing to render substantial compliance with statutes requiring claims for damages to be submitted to governmental entities [see Gov. Code § 911.2] when plaintiffs failed to file claim after death of decedent; claim based on decedent's injuries, filed before death, as not encompassing wrongful death action. Lewis v. City & County of San Francisco (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 339, 341, 98 Cal. Rptr. 407

Wrongful death action as new cause of action, not continuation or revival of old action or action that subsisted prior to decedent's death. Norman v. Murphy (1954) 124 Cal. App. 2d 95, 98, 268 P.2d 178 ; Secrest v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1943) 60 Cal. App. 2d 746, 747-748, 141 P.2d 747

[f] Wrongful Death and Survival Actions

Former Prob. Code § 573 [now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.20-377.43] as not creating new cause of action but as preventing abatement of decedent's cause of action for enforcement by or against decedent's personal representative. Grant v. McAuliffe (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 859, 864, 264 P.2d 944

Joinder of wrongful death and survival actions as permitted, even though actions are separate and distinct and damages to be awarded are mutually exclusive. Herrero v. Atkinson (1964) 227 Cal. App. 2d 69, 76, 38 Cal. Rptr. 490

[8] Plaintiffs

[a] In General

Right to bring wrongful death action as limited to those persons described in statute. Steed v. Imperial Airlines (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 115, 119, 115 Cal. Rptr. 329, 524 P.2d 801 (applying former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60)); Von Batsch v. American Dist. Tel. Co. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 1111, 1119, 222 Cal. Rptr. 239 (same); Knowlton v. Pacific Sw. Airlines (1980) 113 Cal. App. 3d 152, 154, 169 Cal. Rptr. 668 (same)

"Concubine" under Mexico law has no standing to file wrongful death action in California, because relationship, although conferring some legal rights, does not confer all rights and duties of marriage. Rosales v. Battle (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 1178, 1184, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 13

Plaintiff who made no attempt to comply with procedural requirements for lawful California marriage, despite having been married and divorced twice before, could not show objectively reasonable belief in validity of marriage to decedent and thus could not maintain wrongful death action. Welch v. State of California (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 1374, 1379, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 430

Surviving parent as required to establish that decedent had no issue in order to bring wrongful death action under former Code Civ. Proc. § 377(b)(1) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a)]. Coats v. K-Mart Corp. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 961, 969, 264 Cal. Rptr. 12 ; see Prob. Code § 6402(a),(b) (governing intestate succession)

Even though one-action rule required widow to pursue claim for wrongful death of husband with all other plaintiffs, rule as not precluding her from waiving claim and abandoning action, even though remaining plaintiffs continued to pursue claims to settlement, because plaintiff's claim was separate, personal right. National Metal & Steel Corp. v. Colby Crane & Mfg. Co. (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1111, 1116-1117, 246 Cal. Rptr. 435

Man who was given legal custody of boy "pending adoption" by English court and who raised him for 17 years but never formally adopted him as not permissible plaintiff in wrongful death action for that boy's death; equitable adoption as not creating right in alleged "parent" to bring wrongful death action. Reynolds v. City of Los Angeles (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 1044, 1050-1053, 222 Cal. Rptr. 517

Summary judgment against mother of decedent as plaintiff in wrongful death action as error when based on claims of alleged natural child of decedent; triable issue of material fact regarding existence of that parent-child relationship as precluding summary judgment against mother. Gabehart v. Simonsen (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 672, 676-678, 222 Cal. Rptr. 336

Complaint for wrongful death as fatally defective if it fails to allege existence of heirs. Carr v. Progressive Cas. Ins. Co. (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 881, 887 n.2, 199 Cal. Rptr. 835 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 377; but see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a) (statute now requires existence not of heirs, but of entitled persons, including certain heirs))

Plaintiff who met all elements of definition of putative spouse under former Code Civ. Proc. § 377(b)(2) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(b)] as not required to show she and decedent participated in marriage solemnization ceremony as prerequisite to wrongful death action; statute as requiring only that plaintiff had good faith belief in validity of marriage to decedent. Wagner v. County of Imperial (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 980, 983, 193 Cal. Rptr. 820 ; but see Centinela Hosp. Med. Ctr. v. Superior Court (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 971, 975-976, 263 Cal. Rptr. 672 (holding, as matter of law, that belief in validity of common-law marriage cannot be in good faith, in that common-law marriages were abolished in California in 1895)

Former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60], which includes spouses and putative spouses within class of persons having standing to bring action for wrongful death, but excludes unmarried cohabitant, as bearing rational relationship to legitimate state purpose and as not denying equal protection to unmarried cohabitant. Nieto v. City of Los Angeles (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 464, 469-472, 188 Cal. Rptr. 31

Meretricious spouse as not proper plaintiff within meaning of former Code Civ. Proc. § 377(b)(1) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]; fiance and cohabitant of decedent not proper party to death action instituted by decedent's heirs. Garcia v. Douglas Aircraft Co. (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 890, 893-895, 184 Cal. Rptr. 390

Meretricious spouse (unmarried cohabitant) as not permitted to bring action for wrongful death under former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(b)]. Harrod v. Pacific Sw. Airlines, Inc. (1981) 118 Cal. App. 3d 155, 157, 173 Cal. Rptr. 68 ; see Centinela Hosp. Med. Ct. v. Superior Court (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 971, 974-976, 263 Cal. Rptr. 672

Mother of decedent as not "heir" under succession statutes [see former Code Civ. Proc. § 377(b)(1) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a), permitting persons who would be entitled to decedent's property by intestate succession to bring action if decedent left neither surviving spouse, children, or issue of deceased child)], and therefore not entitled to sue for wrongful death of son, when son left surviving spouse and living children who would succeed to his estate under succession statutes before estate devolved to mother. Evans v. Shanklin (1936) 16 Cal. App. 2d 358, 362, 60 P.2d 554

[b] Characterization of Action With Respect to Plaintiffs

Action for wrongful death as considered joint in that all entitled persons should join in action or be joined, with single verdict rendered for all recoverable damages. Cross v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 690, 694, 36 Cal. Rptr. 321, 388 P.2d 353 ; Perkins v. Robertson (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 536, 543, 295 P.2d 972

Action for wrongful death as considered single in that only one action may be brought for wrongful death regardless of who institutes the suit, and indivisible in that there cannot be series of suits by plaintiffs against tortfeasor for their individual damages. Cross v. Pacific Gas Elec. Co. (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 690, 694, 36 Cal. Rptr. 321 ; Perkins v. Robertson (1956) 295 P.2d 972

When tortfeasor is insured by liability policy containing "per person" liability limitation, plaintiffs in wrongful death action under former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 [now see Code Civ. Proc § 377.60] as jointly entitled to that limit, constituting separate elements of damages arising from bodily injury to decedent; each plaintiff's claim as not constituting a separate bodily injury to him or her under policy. Westfield Ins. Co. v. DeSimone (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 598, 601-602, 247 Cal. Rptr. 291 ; see United Servs. Auto. Ass'n v. Lilly (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1396, 1399-1404, 266 Cal. Rptr. 691

One-action rule as not requiring plaintiffs to join all causes of action and all potential defendants in single action. Helling v. Lew (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 434, 438, 104 Cal. Rptr. 789

[c] Compulsory Joinder of Wrongful Death Plaintiffs

All entitled persons as required to be made parties to action in some capacity so that their rights can be determined. Watkins v. Nutting (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 490, 498, 110 P.2d 384

Plaintiff knowing of excluded potential plaintiffs, who fails to join them, as liable for resulting damage. Watkins v. Nutting (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 490, 499, 110 P.2d 384 ; Helling v. Lew (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 434, 437 n.1, 104 Cal. Rptr. 789

Settlement of wrongful death action brought by some persons entitled to wrongful death cause of action, and subsequent dismissal of action with prejudice, as not preventing omitted plaintiff from bringing independent action if defendant knew of omitted plaintiff's existence, identity, and status, and failed to join omitted plaintiff as party to action. Valdez v. Smith (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 723, 731, 212 Cal. Rptr. 638

Potential plaintiff not made a party to wrongful death action in some capacity as thereafter precluded from bringing independent action against defendant. Helling v. Lew (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 434, 437, 104 Cal. Rptr. 789

When separate interests of excluded entitled persons not before court in wrongful death action, judgment as not barring claims of those persons. Arizmendi v. System Leasing Corp. (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 730, 739, 93 Cal. Rptr. 411

Potential plaintiff refusing to join as plaintiff as required to be made defendant in action with reason stated in complaint. Rose v. San Diego Elec. Ry. Co. (1933) 133 Cal. App. 646, 652, 24 P.2d 838

[d] Dependency on Decedent

Whether groceries and $50 a month provided mother by deceased son made her dependent on son, in light of her $400 per month income, as triable issue of fact not properly determinable on summary judgment motion. Perry v. Medina (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 603, 608, 610, 237 Cal. Rptr. 532

[e] Guardian ad Litem for Minor Plaintiffs

Interests of any minor plaintiffs in wrongful death action as required to be represented by guardian ad litem. Redfield v. Oakland Consol. St. Ry. Co. (1895) 110 Cal. 277, 291, 42 P. 822

Guardian ad litem for minor heirs as permitted to be party plaintiff in same action. See Hernandez v. Fujioka (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 294, 297-303, 114 Cal. Rptr. 844

[f] Personal Representative Acts Only on Behalf of Others

Personal representative plaintiff as acting solely in capacity of statutory trustee. Estate of Riccomi (1921) 185 Cal. 458, 461, 197 P. 97

Personal representative as having no interest in matter and as bringing wrongful death action only because authorized to do so by statute. Jones v. Leonardt (1909) 10 Cal. App. 284, 286, 101 P. 811

[g] Parents

In proving standing as proper plaintiff, uncontradicted testimony by nondependent parent of decedent that decedent had no children is sufficient to meet parent's burden of proving that fact. Nelson v. County of Los Angeles (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 783, 788-790, 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 650

Legislation including dependent parents within class of persons who can sue for wrongful death as enacted to remedy situation in which parent, although not otherwise entitled to wrongful death cause of action, has depended on deceased child for support and maintenance. Perry v. Medina (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 603, 609, 237 Cal. Rptr. 532 (construing amendment to former Code Civ. Proc. § 377(b)(2) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(b)))

Financial, not emotional, dependency as test for parents who are not otherwise entitled to wrongful death cause of action to maintain action for wrongful death under former Code Civ. Proc. § 377(b)(2) [now see Code Civ. Proc. 377.60(b)]; however, once financial dependency is shown, parent as able to recover for loss of child's comfort and society and subsequent protections that child may afford to parent, provided these elements are considered in reasonable relation to primary loss. Perry v. Medina (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 603, 608, 237 Cal. Rptr. 532

Dependency as determined on case-by-case basis; parents as required to show that they were actually dependent, to some extent, on decedent for necessaries of life (such things as shelter, clothing, food, and medical treatment that one cannot and should not do without) and not merely for financial support that makes available to them some niceties of life they might not otherwise be able to afford. Perry v. Medina (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 603, 608, 237 Cal. Rptr. 532

[h] Waiver of Joinder Requirement

Requirement of joinder as procedural, not jurisdictional. Cross v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 690, 692, 36 Cal. Rptr. 321, 388 P.2d 353 ; Helling v. Lew (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 434, 437, 104 Cal. Rptr. 789

Joinder requirement as waived by defendant's failure to make objection that all persons entitled to wrongful death cause of action as result of decedent's death must be made parties. Salmon v. Rathjens (1907) 152 Cal. 290, 295-296, 92 P. 733

Defendant who voluntarily settled action brought by only some persons entitled to wrongful death cause of action, knowing of existence, identity, and status of omitted plaintiff whom defendant failed to join, as waiving right to insist on single wrongful death action. Valdez v. Smith (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 723, 731, 212 Cal. Rptr. 638

[9] Proof of Damages

In wrongful death action, life expectancy of deceased as question of fact for jury to decide considering all relevant factors including deceased's health, lifestyle, and occupation; life expectancy figures from mortality tables as admissible but not conclusive. Allen v. Toledo (1980) 109 Cal. App. 3d 415, 424, 167 Cal. Rptr. 270

Plaintiff in wrongful death action as having burden of proving damages with reasonable certainty even when presenting prima facie case of negligence against defendant. Fields v. Riley (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 308, 313, 81 Cal. Rptr. 671

Jury as properly considering remaining life expectancy of decedent as one of variables in arriving at award of damages. Syah v. Johnson (1966) 247 Cal. App. 2d 534, 547, 55 Cal. Rptr. 741

Trial court as permitted to take judicial notice of estimated life expectancy of person of decedent's age and sex as contained in almanac citing to United States Bureau of Census. Foerster v. Direito (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 323, 333

[10] Recovery of Lump Sum Damages

Recovery in wrongful death action as aggregate of various plaintiffs' separate interests in deceased's life. Cross v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 690, 692, 36 Cal. Rptr. 321, 388 P.2d 353 ; see Helling v. Lew (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 434, 437, 104 Cal. Rptr. 789

Lump sum damages as computed by adding together awards made to each of claimants in action. Changaris v. Marvel (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 308, 312, 41 Cal. Rptr. 774

[11] Statute of Limitations

Assuming, without so holding, that discovery rule may be applied when determining when statute of limitations begins to run in wrongful death action, action filed six years after death of plaintiffs' daughter was not timely; when applying discovery rule, date of accrual is date on which plaintiff comes at least to suspect, or have reason to suspect, factual basis for elements of cause of action. Norgart v. Upjohn Co. (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 383, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 453, 981 P.2d 79

Wrongful death action required to be brought within one year by former Code Civ. Proc. § 340(3) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 335.1 (within two years, beginning in 2003)]. Ruiz v. Santa Barbara Gas & Elec. Co. (1912) 164 Cal. 188, 190, 128 P. 330 ; Moxon v. County of Kern (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 393, 397, 43 Cal. Rptr. 481

Amendment of wrongful death complaint to state survival cause of action as not allowed when survival action barred by statute of limitation. Parker v. Superior Court (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 1082, 1088, 223 Cal. Rptr. 292

Amended complaint adding emotional distress causes of action to wrongful death causes of action as relating back to date of original complaint, and therefore as avoiding bar of statute of limitations, because amendment seeks recovery for same accident, i.e., electrocution of decedent, and for same injury, i.e., loss of plaintiff's son. Rowland v. Superior Court (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 1214, 1218, 217 Cal. Rptr. 786

Limitation period of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 (actions for wrongful death brought against health care provider based on professional negligence) as applying to individual claim of plaintiff seeking to intervene in wrongful death action otherwise filed within limitations period; application for leave to intervene as required to be filed within limitations period if complaint in intervention asserts new cause of action. Anderson v. Barton Mem'l Hosp. (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 678, 682, 685, 212 Cal. Rptr. 626 .

When both claim of individual plaintiff, and claim by all potential plaintiffs, have been filed and rejected, statute of limitations of Gov. Code § 945.6(a)(1) runs from denial of claim filed by all plaintiffs. Norwood v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 741, 744, 211 Cal. Rptr. 6

Amended complaint for wrongful death filed after statute of limitations has run as relating back to plaintiff's timely action for loss of consortium, when both actions based on same set of facts. Lamont v. Wolfe (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 375, 377-379, 190 Cal. Rptr. 874

Plaintiff's delayed wrongful death action against manufacturer based on negligence or products liability as not barred by statute of limitations where plaintiff was blamelessly ignorant of cause of action at time of decedent's death; one-year period in which to bring wrongful death suit as commencing on date on which plaintiff discovers or should have discovered cause of action. Frederick v. Calbio Pharms. (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 49, 53, 54, 152 Cal. Rptr. 292

Statute of limitations for wrongful death actions as calculated from date of death, rather than from date of injury. Tann v. Western Pac. Ry. Co. (1919) 39 Cal. App. 377, 379-380, 178 P. 971

[12] Statutory Remedies Exclusive

Former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 and remedies contained therein [now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.60-377.62] as completely occupying field of wrongful death to exclusion of any other action or remedy and as prevailing over Pub. Util. Code § 2106 (authorizing award of exemplary damages to "persons affected" by public utility's willful acts or omissions); award of exemplary damages to parents of child killed by speeding train as improper. Vander Lind v. Superior Court (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 358, 364-367, 194 Cal. Rptr. 209

[13] Time at Which Loss Measured

Pecuniary loss to wrongful death plaintiffs as determined by conditions existing at time of death of deceased. Riley v. California Erectors, Inc. (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 29, 33, 111 Cal. Rptr. 459

Subsequent marriage of parent of deceased child as not proper basis for mitigating damages. Riley v. California Erectors, Inc. (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 29, 33, 111 Cal. Rptr. 459

Finder of fact as permitted to consider prospect of inflation or deflation in arriving at verdict in wrongful death action. Tyson v. Romey (1948) 88 Cal. App. 2d 752, 758, 199 P.2d 721

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesApportionmentTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesCompensatory DamagesConsortiumTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesCompensatory DamagesFinancial ContributionsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesCompensatory DamagesPain & Suffering

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 181.82-181.99

[Reserved]

§§ 181.82[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.100

§ 181.100 State Statutes

Statute of limitations for survival action as later of six months after plaintiff's death or the limitations period that would have applied if plaintiff had not died. Code Civ. Proc. § 366.1

Survival of cause of action and recovery of damages by or against personal representative of decedent. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.20-377.43

Cause of action for or against a person as surviving that person's death, subject to the applicable limitations period. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.20

Decedent's personal representative or successor in interest as authorized to commence cause of action that survived death of person entitled to bring it. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30

Court as required to continue action that survives death of plaintiff on motion of decedent's personal representative or successor in interest. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.31

Decedent's successor in interest as required to file affidavit or declaration including certain information in order to commence or continue survival action. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.32(a)

Recovery of damages in survival action as limited to damages sustained before plaintiff's death, including punitive or exemplary damages, but not including damages for pain, suffering, or disfigurement. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34

Cause of action that survives death of wrongdoer as permitted to be brought against decedent's personal representative or successor in interest. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.40

Court as required, on motion, to allow action that survives death of wrongdoer to be continued against decedent's personal representative or successor in interest. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.41

Recovery of damages in survival action brought or continued against decedent's personal representative or successor in interest as allowed to the extent allowed had decedent lived except for punitive or exemplary damages. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.42

Action to establish insured decedent's liability as authorized to be commenced or continued against decedent's estate under Prob. Code §§ 550-555. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.50

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePartiesSubstitutionsDeath of PartyTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsDefensesStatutes of LimitationsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesPunitive DamagesTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsSurvival Actions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.101

§ 181.101 Decisions

[1] Action by or Against Personal Representative

Cause of action as maintained against executors and administrators of persons who would have been defendants if they had lived. Hunt v. Authier (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 288, 292, 169 P.2d 913

Wrongful death action against an estate, arising after the death of testator, as a claim required to be filed in a timely manner with estate pursuant to former Prob. Code § 707 (repealed effective July 1, 1988; see Prob. Code §§ 9350-9399) prior to maintenance of action. Nunez v. Superior Court (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 476, 481, 191 Cal. Rptr. 893

Cause of action as maintained by executors and administrators of persons who would have been plaintiffs if they had lived. Follansbee v. Benzenberg (1954) 122 Cal. App. 2d 466, 473, 265 P.2d 183

[2] Cause of Action Accruing Before Death

Cause of action as not surviving in favor of decedent if it arises simultaneously with decedent's death. Stencel Aero Eng'g Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 978, 987, 128 Cal. Rptr. 691 ; Pease v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 450, 460, 113 Cal. Rptr. 416

Cause of action as arising in favor of decedent only if it accrues during decedent's lifetime. Pease v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 450, 459-460, 113 Cal. Rptr. 416

[3] Nonsurvivable Causes of Action

[a] Invasion of Privacy

Cause of action for invasion of privacy does not survive death of person whose privacy was allegedly invaded; right to privacy is personal right that cannot be asserted by anyone except person whose privacy is invaded. Flynn v. Higham (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 677, 683, 197 Cal. Rptr. 145 ; Hendrickson v. California Newspapers, Inc. (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 59, 62, 121 Cal. Rptr. 429

[b] Libel and Slander

Defamation of deceased person does not give rise to cause of action for spouse or relatives who are not themselves defamed. Flynn v. Higham (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 677, 680-681, 197 Cal. Rptr. 145

[c] Marriage

General rule of survivability of causes of action under former Prob. Code § 573 [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.20] does not apply to matrimonial causes of action. Greene v. Williams (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 559, 563, 88 Cal. Rptr. 261 (annulment); Poon v. Poon (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 746, 751, 53 Cal. Rptr. 365 (dissolution)

[4] Recovery of Damages for Deceased Plaintiff

[a] Availability

Damages recoverable under former Prob. Code § 573 [now see Code Civ. Proc. 377.34] are awarded to decedent's "executor or administrator" only. Stencel Aero Eng'g Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 978, 985, 128 Cal. Rptr. 691

Term "dies before judgment" in former Prob. Code § 573(c) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34] does not condition survivability of decedent's claim for damages on decedent's having commenced action before death. Dunwoody v. Trapnell (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 367, 369-370, 120 Cal. Rptr. 859

Term "before judgment" in former Prob. Code § 573 [now see Code Civ. Proc. 377.34] refers to final judgment and applies when plaintiff dies after trial court grants motion for new trial on issue of damages. Love v. Wolf (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 822, 840, 58 Cal. Rptr. 42

[b] Loss of Earnings

Recoverable damages under former Prob. Code § 573 [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34] include temporary disability indemnity relating to decedent's loss of earnings while alive. Patterson v. Sharp (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 990, 1000-1001, 89 Cal. Rptr. 396

[c] Medical Expenses

Decedent's estate is permitted to recover cost of medical expenses and treatment paid for by other than decedent unless person paying expenses is under legal obligation to do so. Fifield Manor v. Finston (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 632, 635, 637, 7 Cal. Rptr. 377, 354 P.2d 1073

Medical expenses recoverable in survival action brought under former Prob. Code § 573 [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34]. Patterson v. Sharp (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 990, 1000-1001, 89 Cal. Rptr. 396

[d] Pain and Suffering Damages Not Recoverable

Prohibition on recovery of damages for decedent's pain and suffering found in Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34 applies to civil rights action brought in state court under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, at least if plaintiff's death was unrelated to alleged civil rights violation. County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 292, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 441, 981 P.2d 68

Recoverable damages do not including damages for pain and suffering. Kellogg v. Asbestos Corp. Ltd. (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 1397, 1407, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 256 ; Carr v. Pacific Tel. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 537, 545, 103 Cal. Rptr. 120 ; Love v. Wolf (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 822, 840, 58 Cal. Rptr. 42

[e] Punitive Damages

Administrator entitled to plead and prove punitive damages arising from decedent's loss of certain personal property shortly before death. Stencel Aero Eng'g Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 978, 987, 128 Cal. Rptr. 691

[f] Wrongful Death Damages Additional

Damages awarded in wrongful death action are in addition to any damages awarded in favor of decedent's estate pursuant to former Prob. Code § 573 [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34]. Carr v. Pacific Tel. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 537, 545, 103 Cal. Rptr. 120

[5] Survivable Causes of Action

Action for money due as family allowance to widow does not survive death of widow when no order granting money issued before widow's death and, hence, there is no assignable right to money in widow. Estate of Blair (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 728, 733, 269 P.2d 612

Former Prob. Code § 573 [now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.20 through 377.50] as general survival statute. Estate of Denton (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 1070, 1075, 95 Cal. Rptr. 347

Because former Prob. Code § 573 [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.20] is a comprehensive rule of survivability, classification of survivable and nonsurvivable causes of action is not generally required. Poon v. Poon (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 746, 753, 53 Cal. Rptr. 365

Action to recover property and to set aside fraudulent conveyance survived death of plaintiff even though cause of action arose and was pleaded in conjunction with nonsurviving cause of action for dissolution. Poon v. Poon (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 746, 752, 754, 53 Cal. Rptr. 365

Cause of action for wrongful death survives death of plaintiff bringing action. Johnson v. Key Sys. Transit Lines (1962) 210 Cal. App. 2d 440, 442, 26 Cal. Rptr. 574

[6] Wrongful Death and Survival Actions

Former Prob. Code § 573 [now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.20 through 377.43] as not creating new cause of action but as preventing abatement of decedent's cause of action for enforcement by or against decedent's personal representative. Grant v. McAuliffe (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 859, 864, 264 P.2d 944

Complete cause of action not required to exist at time of decedent's death in order for rights, which may later mature into actionable claim, to survive under former Prob. Code § 573 [now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.20-377.43]. Carr v. Progressive Cas. Ins. Co. (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 881, 888-891, 199 Cal. Rptr. 835

Joinder of wrongful death and survival actions is permitted even when actions are separate and distinct and damages to be awarded are mutually exclusive. Herrero v. Atkinson (1964) 227 Cal. App. 2d 69, 76, 38 Cal. Rptr. 490

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJusticiabilityAbatement on Death of PartyTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesCompensatory DamagesPain & SufferingTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsRemediesPunitive DamagesTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsSurvival Actions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 181.102-181.119

[Reserved]

§§ 181.102[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Joinder and Consolidation of Wrongful Death and Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.120

§ 181.120 State Statutes

Application of consolidation provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 377.62(b) to preclude double recovery of punitive damages from defendant convicted of a felony based on wrongful act resulting in death. Civ. Code § 3294(d)

Permissive consolidation of basic wrongful death action with surviving action for injuries to a minor child. Code Civ. Proc. § 376(h)

Permissive joinder of wrongful death and survival actions arising out of same wrongful act or neglect. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.62(a)

Permissive consolidation of wrongful death and survival actions arising out of same wrongful act or neglect. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.62(b)

Provisions regarding consolidation of civil actions generally are set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 1048

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePretrial MattersConsolidation of ActionsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsJoinder RequirementsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsSurvival Actions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Joinder and Consolidation of Wrongful Death and Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.121

§ 181.121 Decisions

Consolidation of wrongful death and survival actions as permitted even when actions are separate and distinct and damages to be awarded are mutually exclusive. Herrero v. Atkinson (1964) 227 Cal. App. 2d 69, 76, 38 Cal. Rptr. 490 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 377(a) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.62))

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePretrial MattersConsolidation of ActionsTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsGeneral OverviewTortsWrongful Death & Survival ActionsSurvival Actions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Joinder and Consolidation of Wrongful Death and Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 181.122-181.139

[Reserved]

§§ 181.122[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.140

§ 181.140 Judicial Council Trial Court Pleading Form [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.45(a)]--Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Wrongful Death Based on Negligence [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60; Cal. Judicial Council Forms PLD-PI-001, PLD-PI-001(1), PLD-PI-001(2), MC-025]

[1] FORM Judicial Council Trial Court Pleading Form [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.45(a)]--Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Wrongful Death Based on Negligence [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60; Cal. Judicial Council Forms PLD-PI-001, PLD-PI-001(1), PLD-PI-001(2), MC-025]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This complaint may be used in any action for wrongful death under Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60. It consists of the Judicial Council complaint for personal injury, property damage, or wrongful death, to which a Judicial Council general negligence cause of action has been attached [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12; Cal. Judicial Council Forms PLD-PI-001, PLD-PI-001(2)]. These forms have been approved by the Judicial Council for optional use [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.45(a)], and must be accepted for filing by all courts [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.35(a)].

These forms areavailable in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge. For general information relating to the use of Judicial Council complaint forms, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints .

[3] Filling Out Wrongful Death Complaint

[a] In General

For a detailed explanation of filling out the Judicial Council form of complaint for personal injury, property damage, or wrongful death generally, see the Comments to that form in Ch. 380, Negligence . Information particularly applicable to filling out the complaint form in wrongful death actions is set out in these Comments. For a detailed discussion of filling out the general negligence cause of action, see the Comments to that form of cause of action in Ch. 380, Negligence.

[b] Caption

In the heading of the complaint form, boxes are provided for designating the type of action being brought. In addition, counsel should designate the appropriate cause of action by checking the box marked "Motor Vehicle" in automobile actions [see Ch. 83, Automobiles: Bringing the Action], or by checking the box marked "Other" and designating the appropriate cause of action; for example, "Negligence" was inserted in the sample form. When using the complaint form in an action for wrongful death, counsel should check the box marked "Wrongful Death."

[c] Venue (Paragraph 8)

Counsel should check the appropriate box in Paragraph 8 stating that the proper court for venue purposes has been selected. In an action for death from wrongful act or negligence, the proper county for trial of the action is either the county in which the injury causing death occurred, or the county in which the defendants or some of them reside at the commencement of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a)].

[d] Relationship to Deceased and Damages (Paragraph 12)

When preparing a wrongful death action, counsel should check the box for Paragraph 12 and state the damages claimed for wrongful death and the relationships of plaintiff to the deceased. The information may be alleged either in the space allowed for Paragraph 12 or on a separate sheet of paper labeled "Complaint--Attachment 12."

In a wrongful death action, damages may be given as are just under all the circumstances of the case, but an award may not include damages recoverable in a survival action under Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34 [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.61; see § 181.81[3][e]]. Recovery for wrongful death is limited to pecuniary losses suffered by the plaintiffs, including loss of earnings, society, and companionship, as well as funeral expenses [see § 181.81[3][c]].

Persons who are entitled to bring a wrongful death action include the following [see § 181.81[8]]:

- The decedent's surviving spouse, domestic partner, children, and issue of deceased children [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a)];

- If the decedent has no surviving issue, persons, including the surviving spouse or domestic partner, entitled to property of the decedent by intestate succession [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a); see Prob. Code § 6400 et seq. (governing acquisition of property of person who dies without disposing of it by will)];

- A putative spouse, children of the putative spouse, stepchildren, and parents, if they were dependent on the decedent [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(b)]; and

- A minor who resided in the decedent's household for the previous 180 days and who was dependent on the decedent for one-half or more of his or her support [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(c)].

The relationships to the deceased of persons who are plaintiffs or represented by a plaintiff must be listed in Paragraph 12 or in Complaint--Attachment 12.

[e] Damages Suffered (Paragraph 11)

Paragraph 11 provides boxes for designating the damages being requested by plaintiff. Although it is included as a mandatory paragraph, Paragraph 11 appears unnecessary in wrongful death actions because the damages are stated in Paragraph 12. Thus, it appears that counsel may merely cross refer in Paragraph 11 to the damage allegations contained in Paragraph 12.

[f] Causes of Action Attached (Paragraph 10)

Counsel must check the box or boxes in Paragraph 10 stating the causes of action that have been attached to the complaint. The box for "General Negligence" is marked in the sample form. Other causes of action for which forms are available are Motor Vehicle [see Ch. 83, Automobiles: Bringing the Action], Intentional Tort [see Ch. 58, Assault and Battery], Premises Liability [see Ch. 380, Negligence , and Ch. 421, Premises Liability], and Products Liability [see Ch. 460, Products Liability].

The attachment states "Use a separate cause of action form for each cause of action." If there is more than one plaintiff in the action, each one has a separate cause of action. If this direction is strictly adhered to, a separate general negligence attachment for each plaintiff would have to be attached to the complaint. It is not clear if this is what is intended by the direction at the top of the attachment; although the complaint form refers to "plaintiff" (singular) in the caption, it seems intended for use by more than one plaintiff due to the wording of Paragraph 3 of the General Complaint Form.

[g] Specification of Damages (Paragraph 14)

Paragraph 14 of the form is the prayer for damages, filled out to indicate that compensatory damages are being sought, in whatever amount is justified by proof. No dollar amount may be alleged in an action to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

[4] Verification

Counsel may attach a verification of the complaint, if desired. Verification of the complaint is not required, but verification of the complaint requires the defendant to file a verified answer in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude the defendant from using a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[5] Filling Out General Negligence Cause of Action

The facts supporting a cause of action for negligence have been omitted from this example of a general negligence cause of action attached to a wrongful death complaint. For a completed example and a detailed explanation of filling out the Judicial Council form of general negligence cause of action, see that form, and the Comments thereto, in Ch. 380, Negligence.

[6] Trial Court Delay Reduction Considerations

Counsel should note that some counties throughout the state have implemented local court rules designed to achieve the objectives of the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act [see Gov. Code § 68600 et seq.]. For example, some of these rules require that counsel file with a complaint information that will facilitate discovery [see, e.g., Alameda Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 4.2(2)(b)]. Counsel should be aware of any similar rules in the county in which he or she plans to file the action.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.141

§ 181.141 Complaint for Damages for Wrongful Death [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]--General Form

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages for Wrongful Death [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]--General Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name(s)],	)
[Individually, and	)
_____(name(s)), (a) Minor(s),	)
by _____(name), his/her/	)
their Guardian ad Litem,]	)	NO. _____
[_____(name) as	)	COMPLAINT FOR _____	)	DAMAGES FOR
(specify capacity, e.g., Adminis-	)	WRONGFUL DEATH
trator of the Estate or Executor of	)	[Amount demanded _____
the Will) of _____ (name),	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
Deceased]	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
Plaintiff(s),	)
vs.	)
_____ [name(s)],	)
Defendant(s).	)
	)

_____

Plaintiff(s), _____ [name(s)], allege(s):

1. _____ [Allegations of capacity. See §§ 181.142 -181.145. If more than one paragraph is used, renumber succeeding paragraphs of this complaint accordingly.]

[2. If one or more plaintiffs are minors, allege capacity of guardian as litem, e.g., For the purpose of this action, _____ (name) was duly appointed guardian ad litem of plaintiff(s) _____ (name(s)) by order of the above-captioned court on _____ (date).]

[3. If action is brought by decedent's personal representative on behalf of entitled plaintiffs, allege capacity of personal representative, e.g., On or about _____ (date), plaintiff was issued letters _____ (specify, e.g., of administration of the estate or testamentary of the will) of _____ (name), deceased, by the Superior Court of California, County of _____. Plaintiff brings this action as the duly appointed, qualified, and acting personal representative of the estate of _____ (name) on behalf persons entitled to a cause of action for the wrongful death of _____ (name), the decedent, as follows: _____ (specify names and qualifying relationship to decedent; see §§ 181.142 -181.145).]

4. Defendant _____ [name] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of _____ County, California [or allege capacity and other basis of venue as appropriate].

[5. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as DOES 1- _____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of said fictitiously named defendants is negligently responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that the injuries herein alleged were proximately caused by said negligence.)]

6. _____ [Allege specific facts showing tortious conduct of defendant that caused decedent's death.]

7. _____ [Allege decedent's death as a result of such tortious conduct, e.g., As a proximate result of the _____ (specify, e.g., negligence) or defendant(s)(, and each of them), decedent died on _____ (date)].

8. _____ [Describe relationship of decedent and wrongful death plaintiffs, e.g., Prior to the death of decedent, plaintiffs lived with decedent and were totally dependent on him/her for their support and maintenance. At all times prior to his/her death, decedent was a faithful and dutiful _____ (specify, e.g., husband and father) to these plaintiffs.]

9. As a proximate result of the _____ [specify, e.g., negligence] of defendant[s, and each of them,] and of the death of decedent, plaintiffs have sustained pecuniary loss resulting from the loss of the society, comfort, attention, services, and support of decedent.

10. As a further proximate result of the _____ [specify, e.g., negligence] of defendant[s, and each of them], and of the death of decedent, _____ [name], _____ [specify, e.g., name of plaintiff(s) or decedent's personal representative], has incurred funeral and burial expenses.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff(s) pray(s) judgment as follows:

1. For general damages according to proof;

2. For funeral and burial expenses for _____ [name], _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff(s) or decedent's personal representative], according to proof;

3. For interest on all economic damages in the legal amount from _____ (date of death of decedent), to the date of judgment;

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Plaintiff(s)

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use by a decedent's personal representative or persons entitled to a wrongful death cause of action in bringing a wrongful death action arising from a defendant's tortious conduct.

[3] Allegations

This form of complaint alleges capacity (Paragraph 1) [see §§ 181.142 -181.145; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60], the existence of a guardian ad litem if one or more of the plaintiffs is a minor (Paragraph 2) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 372(a)], the capacity of a personal representative who brings an action on behalf of entitled plaintiffs (Paragraph 3) [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60, the basis of venue (Paragraph 4) [Code Civ. Proc. § 395], and any fictitious names (Paragraph 5).

It also alleges defendant's commission of a tortious act, either negligence or another wrongful act, and decedent's resulting death (Paragraphs 6, 7) [Moxon v. County of Kern (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 393, 398-399, 43 Cal. Rptr. 481] . In addition, this complaint alleges the relationship of decedent and plaintiffs (Paragraph 8) and the pecuniary loss suffered by the plaintiffs as a result of decedent's death (Paragraph 9) [Moxon v. County of Kern (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 393, 398-399, 43 Cal. Rptr. 481] . Although a complaint is not required to allege specifically the loss of decedent's society, comfort, protection, or services [Bond v. United R.R. (1911) 159 Cal. 270, 286, 113 P. 366] , and is not required to allege specifically a pecuniary loss on the part of a plaintiff occasioned by the decedent's death [Ward v. Southern Pac. Co. (1919) 42 Cal. App. 182, 189-190, 183 P. 594] , it must allege damages generally [Bond v. United R.R. (1911) 159 Cal. 270, 286, 113 P. 366] .

When applicable, the complaint may also allege the decedent's funeral or burial expenses as damages and that such expenses were reasonable (Paragraph 10) [Adams v. Southern Pac. Co. (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 731, 743, 53 P.2d 121 ; Francis v. Sauve (1963) 222 Cal. App. 2d 102, 124, 34 Cal. Rptr. 754 ; see § 181.17[5]].

The prayer seeks prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3288, awarded in the discretion of the jury, on economic damages such as loss of household services or earning capacity, as well as funeral and related expenses [Canavin v.

Pacific Sw. Airlines (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 512, 527, 196 Cal. Rptr. 82 ; see § 181.17[6]].

[4] Personal Representative of Decedent

A wrongful death action may be brought by the personal representative of a decedent on behalf of the persons who are entitled to a wrongful death cause of action under the statute [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]. The personal representative may be a general or special administrator [Dominguez v. Galindo (1953) 122 Cal. App. 2d 76, 80-81, 264 P.2d 213 ; see Prob. Code § 8540 (special administrator)], or the executor of a decedent's estate [see Prob. Code § 8420], an administrator with will annexed [see Prob. Code § 8440], or an administrator appointed due to intestacy [see Prob. Code § 8460]. Similarly, the personal representative may be a foreign administrator or executor [Wallan v. Rankin (9th Cir. 1949) 173 F.2d 488, 493] .

[5] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude the defendant from using a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[6] Venue

In an action for death from a wrongful act or negligence, either the county where the injury causing death occurs or the county where the defendants, or some of them, reside at the commencement of the action is a proper county for the trial of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 395].

[7] Specification of Damages

In an action to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded for this cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)] or an equivalent statement must be included, for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought when they are not stated in the complaint, see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115].

[8] Trial Court Delay Reduction Considerations

Counsel should note that some counties throughout the state have implemented local court rules designed to achieve the objectives of the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act [see Gov. Code § 68600 et seq.]. For example, some of these rules require that counsel file with a complaint information that will facilitate discovery [see, e.g., Alameda Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 4.2(2)(b)]. Counsel should be aware of any similar rules in the county in which he or she plans to file the action.

[9] Cross References

For discussion and forms for use in wrongful death actions involving airplane accidents, see Ch. 16, Airplanes and Airports

For discussion and forms for use in wrongful death actions involving passengers and nonpassengers on buses and streetcars, see Ch. 106, Buses and Streetcars

For discussion, procedures, and forms relating to the appointment of guardians ad litem, see Ch. 291, Guardians ad Litem

For discussion, procedures, and forms relating to the appointment of executors, administrators, and administrators with will annexed, see Ch. 442, Probate: Initiating Probate Administration

[10] State Statutes

Appointment and powers of guardian ad litem. Code Civ. Proc. § 372

Persons entitled to assert wrongful death cause of action. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60

Damages recoverable in wrongful death actions. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.61

Executors. Prob. Code §§ 8420-8425

Administrators with will annexed. Prob. Code §§ 8440-8442

Administrators. Prob. Code §§ 8460-8468

Special administrators. Prob. Code §§ 8540-8547

[11] Decisions

[a] Allegation of Capacity as Personal Representative

Allegation of official capacity as administrator as sufficient if it states that plaintiff is the duly appointed, qualified, and acting administrator of the decedent's estate. Collins v. O'Laverty (1902) 136 Cal. 31, 33, 68 P. 327

Allegation of official capacity as executor as sufficient if it states that letters testamentary issued to executor who is duly qualified and acting executor of decedent's will. Vragnizan v. Savings Union Bank & Trust Co. (1916) 31 Cal. App. 709, 715

[b] Allegation of Existence of Entitled Persons

Personal representative as required to plead that there are heirs of decedent in order to maintain wrongful death action. Guidera v. Lapiana (1921) 52 Cal. App. 460, 462, 199 P. 557 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 (now see Code Civ. Proc. 377.60))

[c] Allegations of Damages

Complaint as not required to allege specifically loss of society, comfort, protection, or services of decedent so long as allowance is made therefor under general allegation of damages. Bond v. United R.R. (1911) 159 Cal. 270, 286, 113 P. 366

Allegation that funeral and burial expenses incurred as sufficient to support award of damages that included funeral expenses, even when bill not paid by plaintiffs in wrongful death action. Koehl v. Carpenter (1920) 47 Cal. App. 642, 646, 191 P. 43

Surviving spouse's allegation that he or she was damaged through defendant's negligence and death of spouse as sufficient even though he or she did not positively allege pecuniary loss. Ward v. Southern Pac. Co. (1919) 42 Cal. App. 182, 189-190, 183 P. 594

[d] Cause of Action

Elements of cause of action for wrongful death as (1) tort, (2) resulting death, and (3) damages consisting of pecuniary loss suffered by plaintiffs. Moxon v. County of Kern (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 393, 398-399, 43 Cal. Rptr. 481 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60); entitled persons include, but are not limited to, certain heirs)

[e] Guardian ad Litem

Guardian ad litem for minor heirs in wrongful death action as not affecting interest of minor heirs in judgment nor as vesting any interest in such judgment in himself or herself. Redfield v. Oakland Consol. St. Ry. Co. (1895) 110 Cal. 277, 291, 42 P. 822

Heir bringing wrongful death action only as guardian ad litem for other persons as estopped from thereafter bringing action in his or her own right. Walker v. Etcheverry (1941) 42 Cal. App. 2d 472, 476, 109 P.2d 385

[12] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, Vol. 4, Pleading, §§ 537-576 (4th ed. 1997)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 6, Torts, § 1385-1402 (10th ed. 2005)

[13] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 181.142 -181.145

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.142

§ 181.142 Allegation--Plaintiff Is Person Entitled to Assert Wrongful Death Cause of Action--Plaintiff Is Decedent's Surviving Spouse, Child, or Issue of Deceased Child [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a)]

[1] FORM Allegation--Plaintiff Is Person Entitled to Assert Wrongful Death Cause of Action--Plaintiff Is Decedent's Surviving Spouse, Child, or Issue of Deceased Child [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a)]

Plaintiff(s) _____ [name(s)] is/are the sole surviving [spouse, domestic partner, children, and/or issue of deceased children] of _____ [name], deceased (hereinafter referred to as "decedent"). His/Her/Their relationship(s) to decedent is/are as follows:

Name	Relationship to Decedent
_____	_____
_____	_____
_____	_____

[2] Use of Form

This form of allegation is for use in a complaint for wrongful death brought by the sole surviving spouse, domestic partner, children, or issue of deceased children of a decedent. If not all of the persons entitled to bring the action are plaintiffs, counsel should use the allegation in see § 181.146 to join those potential plaintiffs as defendants in the action.

[3] State Statutes

Surviving spouse, domestic partner, children, and issue of deceased children entitled to bring wrongful death action. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a) (eliminating requirement of former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 that all plaintiffs must be entitled to succeed to decedent's property under laws of intestate succession)

[4] Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 6, Torts, §§ 1388, 1389, 1394, 1397 (10th ed. 2005)

[5] Cross References

For a related form, see § 181.141

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.143

§ 181.143 Allegation--Plaintiff Is Person Entitled to Assert Wrongful Death Cause of Action--Plaintiff Would Be Entitled to Property of Decedent by Intestate Succession, and There Exists No Surviving Spouse, Child, or Issue of Deceased Child of Decedent [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a)]

[1] FORM Allegation--Plaintiff Is Person Entitled to Assert Wrongful Death Cause of Action--Plaintiff Would Be Entitled to Property of Decedent by Intestate Succession, and There Exists No Surviving Spouse, Child, or Issue of Deceased Child of Decedent [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a)]

1. Plaintiff(s) would be entitled to the property of _____ [name], deceased (hereinafter referred to as "decedent"), under the laws of intestate succession. His/Her/Their relationship to decedent is/are as follows:

Name	Relationship to Decedent
_____	_____
_____	_____
_____	_____

Persons of this degree of kinship would be entitled to the property of the decedent by intestate succession pursuant to the provisions of _____ [specify applicable Probate Code provision, e.g., Probate Code Section 6402(d)].

2. The decedent has no surviving spouse, domestic partner, children, or issue of deceased children.

[2] Use of Form

This form of allegation is for use in a complaint for wrongful death brought by a person or persons who would be entitled to the property of the decedent by intestate succession. Those persons are entitled to assert a wrongful death action on that basis only if there is no surviving spouse, domestic partner, children, or issue of deceased children [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a)].

[3] State Statutes

Persons who would be entitled to property of decedent by intestate successions as permitted to assert wrongful death cause of action if decedent has no surviving spouse, domestic partner, children, or issue of deceased children. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a)

Succession to property. Prob. Code §§ 6400-6414, 6450-6455

[4] Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 6, Torts, § 1388 (10th ed. 2005)

[5] Cross References

For a related form, see § 181.141

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.144

§ 181.144 Allegation--Plaintiff Is Person Entitled to Assert Wrongful Death Cause of Action--Plaintiff Is Putative Spouse, Child of Putative Spouse, Stepchild, or Parent of Decedent Who Was Dependent on Decedent [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(b)]

[1] FORM Allegation--Plaintiff Is Person Entitled to Assert Wrongful Death Cause of Action--Plaintiff Is Putative Spouse, Child of Putative Spouse, Stepchild, or Parent of Decedent Who Was Dependent on Decedent [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(b)]

[EITHER]

1. Plaintiff _____ [name] was the putative spouse of the decedent and was dependent on decedent for his/her support. _____ [Specify factual basis for status as putative spouse, e.g., Plaintiff _____ (name) and decedent were married in a ceremony that took place on or about _____ (date), but the marriage was voidable because decedent was already married, although the spouse had not been present for over five years and plaintiff had no knowledge of this prior marriage. Plaintiff believed in good faith that the marriage with decedent was valid.]

[OR]

1. Plaintiff(s) _____ [name(s)] was/were the _____ [child or children] of _____ [name], decedent's putative spouse. _____ [If decedent's putative spouse is not also a plaintiff to the action, allege facts supporting his/her status as putative spouse, as set forth in previous paragraph.]

[OR]

1. Plaintiff(s) _____ [name(s)] was/were the _____ [stepchild or stepchildren] of the decedent.

[OR]

1. Plaintiff(s) _____ [name(s)] was/were the parent(s) of decedent.

[CONTINUE]

2. Plaintiff(s) _____ [name(s)] _____ was/were dependent on the decedent for the necessities of life.

[2] Use of Form

These allegations are for use in a complaint for wrongful death brought by a putative spouse, child of putative spouse, stepchild, or parent of decedent, who was dependent on the decedent [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(b)].

[3] State Statutes

Persons entitled to bring wrongful death action if they were dependent on decedent. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(b)

[4] Decisions

To bring wrongful death action under former Code Civ. Proc. § 377(b)(2) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(b)], parent as required to have been actually dependent on decedent to some extent for necessities of life at time decedent died. Hazelwood v. Hazelwood (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 693, 698, 129 Cal. Rptr. 384

[5] Text References

55 Cal. Jur. 2d, Wrongful Death, § 30

[6] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 181.141 and 181.142

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.145

§ 181.145 Allegation--Plaintiff Is Person Entitled to Assert Wrongful Death Cause of Action--Plaintiff Is Minor Who Resided With Decedent and Who Was Dependent on Decedent for One Half or More of Minor's Support [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(c)]

[1] FORM Allegation--Plaintiff Is Person Entitled to Assert Wrongful Death Cause of Action--Plaintiff Is Minor Who Resided With Decedent and Who Was Dependent on Decedent for One Half or More of Minor's Support [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(c)]

1. [Guardian ad litem allegation. See § 181.141, Paragraph 2.]

2. Plaintiff(s) _____ (name(s) of minor(s)) resided for the 180 days prior to the date decedent died as herein alleged in the household of decedent and was/were dependent on decedent for at least one-half or more of his/her/their support.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use in a complaint for wrongful death brought by a minor who has resided for 180 days in the decedent's household and was dependent on decedent for one-half or more of his or her support [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(c)].

[3] State Statutes

Minors meeting dependency and residence requirements as entitled to bring wrongful death action. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(c)

Appointment and powers of guardian ad litem. Code Civ. Proc. § 372

[4] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, Vol. 4, Pleading, §§ 61-73 (4th ed. 1997)

35 Cal. Jur. 3d, Pt. 2, Guardianship and Conservatorship, §§ 195-199

[5] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 181.141 and 181.142

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.146

§ 181.146 Allegation--Person Entitled to Assert Wrongful Death Action, Who Has Not Consented to Joining Action as Plaintiff, Should Be Joined as Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 382]

[1] FORM Allegation--Person Entitled to Assert Wrongful Death Action, Who Has Not Consented to Joining Action as Plaintiff, Should Be Joined as Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 382]

Although defendant(s) _____ [name(s)] is/are [a] person[s] entitled to bring this action pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure Section 377.60, he/she/they is/are named as defendant(s) in this action pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure Section 382 because he/she/they is/are unwilling to be joined as plaintiff(s) in this action for the following reason(s): _____ [specify, e.g., _____ (defendant's or defendants') consent to be joined was sought and refused].

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use in a complaint for wrongful death brought by plaintiffs entitled to bring an action for wrongful death of a decedent, and joining as defendants the qualified potential plaintiffs who do not consent to be joined as plaintiffs.

If the consent of any person who should have been joined as a plaintiff cannot be obtained, he or she should be made a defendant, and the reason therefor should be stated in the complaint [see Code Civ. Proc. § 382; Salmon v. Rathjens (1907) 152 Cal. 290, 294-295, 92 P. 733 ; Estate of Kuebler v. Superior Court (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 500, 503-504, 146 Cal. Rptr. 481] . Although this requirement has been applied only to those heirs qualified under prior law [see former Code Civ. Proc. § 377(b) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60)] to succeed to the decedent's estate under the succession statutes [Prob. Code § 6400 et seq.], it would appear that any person entitled to bring a wrongful death action under Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 who is unwilling to join as a plaintiff in the action should be joined as a defendant [see Watkins v. Nutting (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 490, 499, 110 P.2d 384 (action by some but not all of heirs not authorized by former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60)).

[3] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, Vol. 4, Pleading, § 158 (4th ed. 1997)

66 Cal. Jur. 3d, Wrongful Death, §§ 17-19

[4] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 181.141 and 181.142

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.147

§ 181.147 Demurrer [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30(a)] to Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Wrongful Death [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]--Failure to Join All Entitled Persons as Parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(d)]

[1] FORM Demurrer [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30(a)] to Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Wrongful Death [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]--Failure to Join All Entitled Persons as Parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(d)]

[Caption. As on papers previously filed in action. See, e.g., § 181.141.]

Defendant demurs to the complaint herein on the following ground:

There is a defect or misjoinder of parties in this action for wrongful death in that plaintiff has failed to name in his/her complaint all proper plaintiffs as parties to the action.

WHEREFORE, defendant prays that this demurrer be sustained [without leave to amend], that plaintiff take nothing by his/her complaint, that defendant have judgment for his/her costs, and for all other proper relief.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Defendant

CAUTION:
A party filing a demurrer must serve and file therewith a notice of hearing and a memorandum of points and authorities in support of each ground thereof [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1103(c), 3.1113(a), 3.1320(c)]. For discussion and forms regarding a supporting memorandum, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[2] Use of Form

This form of demurrer is for use by a defendant in a wrongful death action when the plaintiff has failed to name all of the persons entitled to a wrongful death cause of action as parties to the wrongful death action.

[3] Objection to Nonjoinder of Plaintiffs

If it appears on the face of the complaint that there are other potential plaintiffs who are not joined, the defendant may demur. If it does not appear on the face of the complaint that there are other potential plaintiffs, the nonjoinder of such persons can be alleged in the answer. If the defendant fails to object to the nonjoinder of potential plaintiffs by either demurrer or answer, the defendant is deemed to have waived the objection [Knott v. McGilvray (1899) 124 Cal. 128, 129-130, 56 P. 789] . When a timely objection is made by a defendant, the action for wrongful death must be abated or the other potential plaintiffs joined as parties [Salmon v. Rathjens (1907) 152 Cal. 290, 295, 92 P. 733] .

An alternative procedure to demurring to the complaint is to move directly for an order compelling the plaintiff to join the omitted plaintiff under Code Civ. Proc. § 382. For discussion and forms for use in compelling a plaintiff to join an omitted party, see Ch. 395, Parties .

[4] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 181.140 -181.146

For discussions, procedures, and forms relating to demurrers, see Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings

[5] State Statutes

Defect or misjoinder of parties as ground for objection to complaint. Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(d)

Objection by demurrer when ground appears on face of complaint. Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30(a)

Time in which to demur to complaint. Code Civ. Proc. § 430.40(a)

Demurrer as taken to all or part of complaint. Code Civ. Proc. § 430.50(a)

Demurrer as required to specify ground for objection. Code Civ. Proc. § 430.60

Objections as waived by failures to object. Code Civ. Proc. § 430.80

[6] Decisions

When timely objection by defendant to nonjoinder of heirs, action for wrongful death as required to be abated or other heirs joined as parties. Salmon v. Rathjens (1907) 152 Cal. 290, 295, 92 P. 733 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60); entitled persons include, but are not limited to, certain heirs)

Defendant as permitted to demur when it appears on face of complaint for wrongful death that there are other heirs who are not joined. Knott v. McGilvray (1899) 124 Cal. 128, 129, 56 P. 789 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60); entitled persons include, but are not limited to, certain heirs)

[7] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, Vol. 5, Pleading, §§ 900-903, 921, 925, 932-935 (4th ed. 1997)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 6, Torts, § 1385, 1386 (10th ed. 2005)

66 Cal. Jur. 3d, Wrongful Death, §§ 17, 18, 53

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.148

§ 181.148 Demurrer [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30(a)] to Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Wrongful Death [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]--Statute of Limitations [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 335.1, 430.10(e)]

[1] FORM Demurrer [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30(a)] to Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Wrongful Death [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]--Statute of Limitations [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 335.1, 430.10(e)]

[Caption. As on papers previously filed in action. See, e.g., § 181.141.]

Defendant demurs to the complaint herein on the following ground:

The complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action for wrongful death in that a cause of action for wrongful death is barred by Code of Civil Procedure Section 335.1 if it is not brought within two year.

WHEREFORE, defendant prays that this demurrer be sustained [without leave to amend], that plaintiff take nothing by his/her complaint, that defendant have judgment for his/her costs, and for all other proper relief.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Defendant

CAUTION:
A party filing a demurrer must serve and file therewith a notice of hearing and a memorandum of points and authorities in support of each ground thereof [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1103(c), 3.1113(a), 3.1320(c)]. For discussion and forms regarding a supporting memorandum, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[2] Use of Form

This form of demurrer is for use by a defendant in a wrongful death action when the adult plaintiff bringing the action has not brought it within one year of the decedent's death. For a discussion of when a wrongful death action must be brought, see § 181.23.

[3] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 181.140 -181.147

For discussion and forms relating to statutes of limitations, see Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions

[4] State Statutes

Two years in which to bring action for wrongful death. Code Civ. Proc. § 335.1; see former Code Civ. Proc. § 340(3) (one-year period prior to 2003)

Failure to state facts sufficient to state cause of action as ground for objection to complaint. Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(e)

[5] Decisions

Day of decedent's death as earliest day from which cause of action for wrongful death can run. Vecchione v. Carlin (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 351, 357, 168 Cal. Rptr. 571

Demurrer raising statute of limitations as bar to wrongful death action as erroneously sustained when complaint based on medical malpractice could have been amended to allege doctor's misrepresentations to plaintiff and plaintiff's reliance on misrepresentations. Wohlgemuth v. Meyer (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 326, 330-331, 293 P.2d 816

Statute of limitations on cause of action for wrongful death as running from date of death, not date of accident. Walton v. Southern Pac. Co. (1935) 8 Cal. App. 2d 290, 304, 48 P.2d 108

[6] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, Vol. 5, Pleading, §§ 906, 914-915 (4th ed. 1997)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 6, Torts, § 1379 (10th ed. 2005)

66 Cal. Jur. 3d, Wrongful Death, §§ 2, 50

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.149

§ 181.149 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)] to Action for Wrongful Death [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]--Action Estopped by Judgment in Prior Action Brought by Decedent [Code Civ. Proc. § 1908]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)] to Action for Wrongful Death [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]--Action Estopped by Judgment in Prior Action Brought by Decedent [Code Civ. Proc. § 1908]

AS A SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges:

1. On _____ [date], and prior to the filing of the complaint herein, Action No. _____ was commenced against _____ [name], the defendant herein, in the Superior Court of _____ County, California.

2. The prior action against the defendant herein was brought by _____ [name][, a plaintiff in the present action, and by _____ (name), the decedent herein]. The prior action was for _____ [specify, e.g., damages] for _____ [describe basis for prior action, e.g., personal injuries arising from the alleged negligence of the defendant herein in the operation of his/her motor vehicle].

3. In the prior action, a verdict was rendered in favor of _____ [name], the defendant herein, and judgment was entered in accordance with the verdict on _____ [date]. The judgment is final in that it has _____ [not been appealed from and the time for appeal has expired or been appealed and the judgment affirmed on _____ (date)]. The judgment has never been vacated or modified. A copy of the judgment is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

4. The present action is one for the wrongful death of _____ [name][, who was a plaintiff in the prior action]. The liability of defendant in the present action is predicated on his/her alleged _____ [specify, e.g., negligence] as adjudicated in the prior action.

5. By reason of the foregoing, plaintiff is estopped from asserting defendant's liability for _____ [specify, e.g., negligence in the operation of his/her motor vehicle] and is estopped from maintaining this action.

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense may be used in a wrongful death action when the issue to be decided has been adjudicated in a prior action with judgment in favor of the defendant. It may be inserted in the Judicial Council form of answer for use in wrongful death actions [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12; for a sample form, see Ch. 380, Negligence]. For a discussion of the res judicata effect of a judgment in a prior personal injury brought by the decedent, see § 181.12[6]. This form is based on the factual situation in Secrest v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1943) 60 Cal. App. 2d 746, 141 P.2d 747 .

[3] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 181.140 -181.146

For discussion and forms relating to actions estopped by prior adjudications on the same issues, see Ch. 491, Res Judicata

[4] State Statutes

Judgment as conclusive to issue adjudicated. Code Civ. Proc. § 1908

[5] Decisions

Adverse judgment in personal injury action brought by injured plaintiff prior to death as collaterally estopping heirs from any new lawsuit for wrongful death arising from same injury. Evans v. Celotex Corp. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 741, 744-747, 238 Cal. Rptr. 259

Res judicata as not applicable against claims of minors who were natural children of decedent and not represented in successful suit by decedent's surviving spouse against tortfeasor for wrongful death because their separate interests and losses suffered by them were not before court in surviving spouse's action. Arizmendi v. System Leasing Corp. (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 730, 739, 93 Cal. Rptr. 411

Res judicata as not applicable against person bringing wrongful death action who was not a party, in privity with, or a successor to the interests of the person bringing an action for personal injuries on identical issues. Kaiser Found. Hosp. v. Superior Court (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 327, 333-335, 62 Cal. Rptr. 330 ; but see Aguilar v. Los Angeles County (9th Cir. 1985) 751 F.2d 1089, 1093 (suggesting that Kaiser no longer valid under California law)

When issues in action for wrongful death identical to issues determined adversely to plaintiffs in prior personal injury action, defense of estoppel by judgment as required to be sustained. Secrest v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1943) 60 Cal. App. 2d 746, 751, 141 P.2d 747

[6] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, Vol. 5, Pleading, §§ 1009, 1053-1054 (4th ed. 1997)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 6, Torts, § 1402 (10th ed. 2004)

66 Cal. Jur. 3d, Wrongful Death, § 27

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.150

§ 181.150 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] in Interpleader [Code Civ. Proc. § 386]--Adverse Claims Made on Attorney by Wrongful Death Plaintiffs for Distribution of Damages Received in Settlement of Wrongful Death Claim or Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]

[1] FORM Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] in Interpleader [Code Civ. Proc. § 386]--Adverse Claims Made on Attorney by Wrongful Death Plaintiffs for Distribution of Damages Received in Settlement of Wrongful Death Claim or Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name]	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT IN INTERPLEADER
_____ [names],	)	[Amount demanded _____
Defendants.	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is, and at all times herein mentioned was, an attorney-at-law duly licensed to practice in California and acting in such representative capacity [for defendants, and each of them].

2. _____ [Capacity and residence of defendants. See § 181.141, Paragraph 3.]

3. At all times herein mentioned, plaintiff acted as the attorney for defendants _____ [names] in their _____ [claim or action] for the wrongful death of _____ [name], deceased

(hereinafter referred to as "decedent"). [On _____ (date), plaintiff commenced Action No. _____ against _____ (name(s)) in the Superior Court of _____ County, California.]

4. On or about _____ [date], defendants' _____ [claim or action] for wrongful death was settled and compromised for the total sum of $_____. Each and every defendant agreed that the sum was a just and fair settlement under all the circumstances of the case and no defendant attacked the claim of any other defendant.

5. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff received a negotiable draft in the sum of $_____ in full settlement and payment of defendants' _____ [claim or action]. Thereafter, plaintiff executed and delivered to _____ [name of alleged tortfeasor] in the wrongful death _____ [claim or action] a _____ [specify, e.g., dismissal with prejudice and a release of all claims].

6. _____ [State defendants' conflicting claims that have been made on plaintiff with respect to amount of settlement, e.g., Defendant(s) _____ (name(s)) assert(s) that defendant _____ (name) is not entitled to recover any part of the settlement proceeds in that _____ (specify, e.g., he/she was neither validly married to the decedent and, thus, not a surviving spouse entitled to recover damages for the wrongful death of decedent nor dependent on decedent as provided in Code of Civil Procedure Section 377.60(b))].

7. Plaintiff is indifferent with respect to which defendant or defendants plaintiff should pay the sum of money and claims no interest in such sum.

8. The respective claims made by defendants are adverse and conflicting and are made without plaintiff's collusion. Plaintiff is unable to decide the validity of _____ [any or either] of the claims and to whom he/she should pay the sum of money.

9. Plaintiff has deposited the sum of $_____, being the _____ [describe, e.g., entire amount in dispute or amount of defendants' settlement less plaintiff's fees and costs] _____ [specify, e.g., with the clerk of this court on the filing of this complaint or in plaintiff's trustee account pending the resolution of defendants' various claims by this court].

[10. Plaintiff has incurred attorney's fees and costs as a result of these proceedings.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. That defendants be ordered to interplead and litigate their respective rights to the sum of money described above;

2. That plaintiff be discharged from any and all liability on account of the claims of each of the defendants;

[3. That plaintiff be awarded costs and reasonable attorney's fees to be determined by the court and to be paid out of the sum of money _____ (deposited with the court or in dispute);] and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 181.141.]

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint in interpleader is for use by an attorney when wrongful death plaintiffs dispute the distribution of funds obtained by the attorney in settlement of the plaintiffs' claim or action for the decedent's wrongful death.

[3] Cross References

For discussion and alternative forms relating to interpleader, see Ch. 314, Interpleader

[4] State Statutes

Complaint in interpleader. Code Civ. Proc. § 386

Deposit of funds in interpleader. Code Civ. Proc. § 386.1

Costs and attorney's fees in interpleader. Code Civ. Proc. § 386.6

[5] Decisions

Participation in settlement negotiations contributing to achievement of acquiesced-in settlement as not estopping wrongful death plaintiff from attacking claims of other plaintiffs to share in settlement when adverse claim of plaintiff was heard and determined at time compromise was approved. Hazelwood v. Hazelwood (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 693, 698-699, 129 Cal. Rptr. 384

Interpleader action by attorney against wrongful death plaintiffs in death of decedent to determine distribution of money paid by tortfeasor in compromise of wrongful death action. Changaris v. Marvel (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 308, 310, 41 Cal. Rptr. 774

In interpleader action for distribution of wrongful death settlement among wrongful death plaintiffs, trial court as properly receiving evidence of damage suffered by each party whose rights were compromised and as properly rejecting evidence as to wrongful death plaintiff's right to recover from tortfeasor. Changaris v. Marvel (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 308, 313, 41 Cal. Rptr. 774

[6] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, Vol. 4, Pleading, §§ 341-365 (4th ed. 1997)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 6, Torts, § 1380 (10th ed. 2005)

66 Cal. Jur. 3d, Wrongful Death, §§ 69, 70

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Wrongful Death Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 181.151-181.169

[Reserved]

§§ 181.151[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS
B. Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.170

§ 181.170 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Surviving Cause of Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30] by Personal Representative or Successor in Interest of Decedent--General Form

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Surviving Cause of Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30] by Personal Representative or Successor in Interest of Decedent--General Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name]	)
as _____ [specify, e.g.,	)
Administrator of the Estate or	)
Executor of the Will, Successor in	)	NO. _____
Interest] of _____ [name],	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES FOR deceased,	)	_____ [specify, e.g., PERSONAL
Plaintiff,	)	INJURIES]
vs.	)	[Amount demanded _____
_____ [name(s)],	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
Defendant(s).	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)
	)

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

[EITHER]

1. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff was issued letters _____ [specify, e.g., of administration of the estate or testamentary of the will] of _____ [name], deceased, by the Superior Court of California, County of _____.

2. Plaintiff is the personal representative of the estate of _____ [name].

[OR]

1. Plaintiff is a successor in interest of [name] and succeeds to this cause of action because there is no personal representative of the estate of _____ [name]. He/she brings this complaint in the capacity of successor in interest. Plaintiff has executed and filed the [affidavit or declaration under penalty of perjury] required by Code of Civil Procedure Section 377.32.

2. [Venue allegation. See § 181.141, Paragraph 3.]

[CONTINUE]

3. [Fictitious name allegation, if desired. See § 181.141, Paragraph 4].

4. _____ [Allege specific facts showing defendant's acts or omissions giving rise to cause of action.]

5. _____ [Allege decedent's death as occurring after cause of action arose in his/her favor, e.g., On or about _____ (date), after the foregoing cause of action arose in his/her favor, _____ (name), who would have been the plaintiff in this action if he/she had lived.]

[6. Allege loss or damage sustained by decedent before his/her death, e.g., As a proximate result of the _____ (specify, e.g., negligence) of defendant(s, and each of them), decedent was required to and did employ physicians and surgeons to examine, treat, and care for him/her, and did incur medical and incidental expenses.]

[7. Allege any property loss sustained prior to decedent's death, e.g., On or about _____ (date), and (immediately) prior to decedent's death, personal property of decedent valued at $_____ was destroyed as approximate result of defendant's _____ (specify, e.g., negligent design and manufacture of the aircraft in which decedent was a passenger).]

[8. Allege any additional loss or damage sustained by decedent before his or her death, e.g., At the time of the events described herein decedent was gainfully employed as _____ (specify). As a further proximate result of the _____ (specify, e.g., negligence) of defendant(s, and each of them), decedent was prevented from attending to his/her usual occupation for the period of _____ (specify, e.g., the date of his/her injury to the date of his/her death), all to his/her damage in loss of earnings.]

[9. Allege basis for any punitive damages sought by plaintiff, e.g., In doing the acts herein alleged, defendant(s, and each of them,) acted with oppression, fraud, and malice, and plaintiff is entitled to punitive damages.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

[1. For medical and related expenses according to proof;]

[2. For loss of earnings according to proof;]

[3. For damages to personal property (in the sum of $_____);]

[4. For punitive damages;]

5. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

6. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 181.141.]

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use by a decedent's personal representative or successor in interest in bringing a survival action. It is a general form of complaint, which may be adapted for use in any action that survives the death of a person who would have been a plaintiff if he or she had lived.

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges:

- The basis of venue (First Alternative Paragraph 1, Second Alternative Paragraph 2) [Code Civ. Proc. § 395].

- The capacity in which the plaintiff brings the action (First Alternative Paragraph 2, Second Alternative Paragraph 1) [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30].

- Any fictitious names (Paragraph 3).

- The elements of a cause of action not lost by reason of the death of a person (Paragraph 4) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.20].

- The decedent's death after the alleged cause of action arose (Paragraph 5) [see Pease v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 450, 459-460, 113 Cal. Rptr. 416] .

In addition the complaint alleges a right to damages sustained or incurred by the decedent prior to his or her death [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34]. Damages recoverable in a survival action include:

- Medical expenses a decedent incurred (Paragraph 6) [Follansbee v. Benzenberg (1954) 122 Cal. App. 2d 466, 474, 265 P.2d 183] .

- Damages for loss of personal property (Paragraph 7) [Stencel Aero Eng'g Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 978, 986-987, 128 Cal. Rptr. 691] .

- Loss of earnings the decedent sustained (Paragraph 8) [see Patterson v. Sharp (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 990, 1000-1001, 89 Cal. Rptr. 396 (temporary disability indemnity)].

- Punitive damages that the decedent would have been entitled to recover if he or she had lived (Paragraph 9) [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34; see Civ. Code § 3295(e) (no claim for punitive damages may state an amount)].

It is essential that decedent have sustained some loss prior to his or her death for the action to survive and to sustain a recovery for punitive damages [see Stencel Aero Eng'g Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 978, 986-987].

[4] Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to pleadings to abate an action, see Ch. 3, Abatement of Actions

For discussion, procedures, and forms for use in substituting personal representatives for decedents, see Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings

[5] State Statutes

Deceased person's cause of action passes to successor in interest; action is properly commenced by decedent's personal representative, or successor in interest if no personal representative. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30

Successor in interest required to execute and file affidavit or declaration under penalty of perjury, containing specified information, in order to commence or continue surviving cause of action. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.32

Damages recoverable in survival action. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34

[6] Decisions

[a] Recoverable Damages

[i] Medical and Related Expenses

In medical malpractice action brought by decedent's surviving spouse and administrator, damages include medical expenses and loss of earnings incurred by decedent prior to death. See DeMeo v. St. Francis Hosp. (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 174, 176, 114 Cal. Rptr. 280 (action was barred, however, by statute of limitations)

Damages for decedent's pain and suffering not recoverable. Carr v. Pacific Tel. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 537, 545, 103 Cal. Rptr. 120

Decedent's cause of action for expenditures made by him or her for medical expenses survives death. Follansbee v. Benzenberg (1954) 122 Cal. App. 2d 466, 474

[ii] Punitive Damages

Former Prob. Code § 573(c) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34] permits personal representative to recover punitive damages on decedent's cause of action if cause of action arose in decedent's lifetime, survived decedent, and decedent could have recovered punitive damages on cause of action if he or she had lived. Stencel Aero Eng'g Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 978, 983, 128 Cal. Rptr. 691

Although no cause of action survives in favor of decedent whose death occurs simultaneously with loss or damage to personal property, cause of action for such loss is survivable when pleaded as occurring prior to decedent's death.

Stencel Aero Eng'g Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 978, 986-987, 128 Cal. Rptr. 691 (applying former Prob Code § 573(d) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.20(b)))

Former Prob. Code § 573(c) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.20] expressly provides for survival of decedent's punitive damage claims whether or not decedent filed suit on claim before his or her death. Dunwoody v. Trapnell (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 367, 370, 120 Cal. Rptr. 859

[b] Survival of Plaintiff's Action

Plaintiff's death does not abate any cause of action that may have rested in plaintiff. Barnes v. Hartman (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 215, 219, 54 Cal. Rptr. 514 (applying former Prob. Code § 573(a) (now see Code Civ. Proc. 377.20(a)))

Cause of action survives in favor of executors and administrators of deceased persons who would have been plaintiffs if they had lived. Follansbee v. Benzenberg (1954) 122 Cal. App. 2d 466, 473, 265 P.2d 183 (interpreting prior law to add that successor in interest may bring survival action if there is no personal representative; now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30)

[9] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, Vol. 3, Actions, §§ 64-69 (4th ed. 1996)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS
B. Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.171

§ 181.171 Caption and Introduction of Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Surviving Cause of Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.40] With Allegations of Capacity--Against Decedent's Personal Representative or Successor in Interest

[1] FORM Caption and Introduction of Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] for Surviving Cause of Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.40] With Allegations of Capacity--Against Decedent's Personal Representative or Successor in Interest

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name(s)],	)
Plaintiff(s),	)
vs.	)
_____ [name]	)
as	)	NO. _____
_____ [specify capacity,	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES FOR e.g., Administrator of the Estate,	)	_____ [specify, e.g., PERSONAL Executor of the Will, or Successor	)	INJURIES]
in Interest] of _____ [name],	)	[Amount demanded _____
deceased,	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
Defendant	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)
	)

_____

Plaintiff(s) allege(s):

[EITHER]

1. On or about _____ [date], defendant was issued letters _____ [specify, e.g., of administration of the estate or testamentary of the will] of _____ [name], deceased, by the Superior Court of California, County of _____.

2. Defendant is the personal representative of the estate of _____.

[OR]

1. Defendant is a successor in interest of [name] and succeeds to property that is the subject of this cause of action. This complaint is brought against him/her in that capacity.

2. There is no personal representative of the estate of _____ [name].

[2] Use of Form

This form of caption, introduction, and allegations is for use in a complaint brought against a decedent's personal representative or successor in interest. If the decedent, who was originally named as the defendant in the action, has died after the action was commenced against him or her, the proper procedure to follow is to move to substitute the decedent's personal representative as the defendant in the action. For discussion and forms for use in substituting a personal representative for a deceased party, see Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings

[3] State Statutes

Cause of action against deceased person may be maintained against decedent's personal representative or, if there is no personal representative, against decedent's successor in interest. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.40

[4] Decisions

Cause of action survives against executors and administrators of deceased persons who would have been defendants if they had lived. Hunt v. Authier (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 288, 292, 169 P.2d 913 (action brought under former Prob. Code § 574 against personal representative of tortfeasor's estate)

[5] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 181.141 -181.170

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS
B. Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 181.172-181.189

[Reserved]

§§ 181.172[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS
C. Joinder and Consolidation Of Wrongful Death and Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.190

§ 181.190 Captions, Introduction, Format, and Prayer of Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Wrongful Death by Plaintiff [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60] and Surviving Cause of Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30]--By Decedent's Personal Representative or Successor in Interest

[1] FORM Captions, Introduction, Format, and Prayer of Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Wrongful Death by Plaintiff [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60] and Surviving Cause of Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30]--By Decedent's Personal Representative or Successor in Interest

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name of wrongful death plaintiff] and _____ [name] as _____ [specify capacity, e.g., Administrator of the Estate, Executor of the Will, or Successor in Interest] of _____ [name], deceased, Plaintiffs, vs. _____ [name(s)], Defendant(s).	)	NO. _____ COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES FOR WRONGFUL DEATH AND FOR _____ [specify, e.g., PERSONAL INJURIES] [Amount demanded _____ (exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000] [LIMITED CIVIL CASE]

CAUSE OF ACTION OF _____ [name of wrongful death plaintiff]
(Wrongful Death)

Plaintiff _____ [name of wrongful death plaintiff] alleges:

1. _____ [Allegations establishing cause of action for wrongful death. See § 181.141.]

CAUSE OF ACTION OF _____ [name of personal representative or successor in interest] (_____ (specify, e.g., Personal Injuries))

Plaintiff as _____ [specify capacity, e.g., Administrator of the Estate, Executor of the Will or successor in interest] of _____ [name], deceased, alleges:

2. _____ [Allegations establishing cause of action surviving decedent's death. See § 181.170.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiffs pray judgment as follows:

On the CAUSE OF ACTION of _____ [name of wrongful death plaintiff]:

1. For general damages according to proof;

2. For funeral and burial expenses according to proof;

On the CAUSE OF ACTION of _____ [name of personal representative]:

3. For medical and related expenses according to proof;

4. For loss of earnings according to proof;

5. For punitive damages;

On both CAUSES OF ACTION:

6. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

7. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[2] Use of Form

This form of caption, introduction, format, and prayer is for use in an action brought by a proper wrongful death plaintiff for damages for the wrongful death of the decedent, and by the decedent's personal representative or successor in interest for cause of action surviving in favor of the decedent.

[3] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 181.141 -181.170

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS
C. Joinder and Consolidation Of Wrongful Death and Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.191

§ 181.191 Notice of Motion for Order Consolidating Wrongful Death [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60] and Survival [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30] Actions Arising From Same Wrongful Act or Neglect [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.62(b), 1048]

[1] FORM Notice of Motion for Order Consolidating Wrongful Death [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60] and Survival [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30] Actions Arising From Same Wrongful Act or Neglect [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.62(b), 1048]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name(s)],	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff(s),	)	NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION TO CON-
vs.	)	SOLIDATE [FOR TRIAL] WRONGFUL DEATH
_____ [name(s)],	)	ACTION AND SURVIVING CAUSE OF ACTION
Defendant(s).	)	IN _____ [specify]
	)	Date: _____
	)	Time: _____
	)	Dept: _____
	)	Name of Judge: _____
		Date Action Filed: _____
		Trial Date: _____

_____

To _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] and to _____ [name], his/her attorney of record:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [address], _____ [city], _____ [moving party, e.g., defendant] will move, and hereby does, for an order consolidating the above-captioned action [for trial] with Action No. _____, brought under the provisions of Code of Civil Procedure Section 377.62(b) in the Superior Court of _____ County, California, by the [personal representative or successor in interest] of _____ [name], deceased. The motion will be made on the grounds that the above-captioned action and Action No. _____ are separate actions arising from the same [allegedly] wrongful act or neglect.

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, on the declaration of _____ [name] and the attached memorandum of points and authorities in support of motion, the papers and records on file, and such oral and documentary evidence as may be presented at the hearing on this motion.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [party's status and name]

CAUTION:
A party filing a notice of motion must serve and file therewith a memorandum of points and authorities to be relied on [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[2] Use of Form

This form of notice is for use in a wrongful death action to move for the consolidation of that action with a surviving cause of action arising from the same wrongful act or neglect. For forms of a declaration in support of the motion and an order to consolidate, see Ch. 125, Consolidation, Severance, and Coordination of Actions .

[3] Cross References

For alternative forms of notices for motions, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders

[4] State Statutes

Permissive consolidation for trial of wrongful death and survival actions arising out of same wrongful act or neglect. Code Civ. Proc. § 377.62(b)

Notice of motion. Code Civ. Proc. § 1005

Consolidation of actions generally. Code Civ. Proc. § 1048.

[5] Decisions

Wrongful death and survival actions as permitted to be consolidated for trial. Herrero v. Atkinson (1964) 227 Cal. App. 2d 69, 76, 38 Cal. Rptr. 490 (interpreting former Prob. Code § 573 and former Code Civ. Proc. § 377(a) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.62(b)))

No abuse of discretion when trial court directed consolidation, over objection of defendants, of cause of action for wrongful death brought by decedent's surviving spouse and sister as heirs at law and cause of action for personal injuries brought by decedent's surviving spouse that arose from same airplane crash and involved similar testimony. Johnson v. Western Air Express Corp. (1941) 45 Cal. App. 2d 614, 621-622, 114 P.2d 688 (interpreting prior law; now see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.62(b))

[6] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, Vol. 4, Pleading, §§ 305, 306, 308 (4th ed. 1997)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 181 DEATH AND SURVIVAL ACTIONS
PART IV. FORMS
C. Joinder and Consolidation Of Wrongful Death and Survival Actions

15-181 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 181.192

§ 181.192 Notice of Motion for Order to Consolidate Wrongful Death Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60] and Surviving Action for Injuries to Minor Child [Code Civ. Proc. § 376]

[1] FORM Notice of Motion for Order to Consolidate Wrongful Death Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60] and Surviving Action for Injuries to Minor Child [Code Civ. Proc. § 376]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF_____

_____ [name(s)],	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff(s),	)	NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION TO CON-
vs.	)	SOLIDATE FOR TRIAL WRONGFUL DEATH
_____ [name(s)],	)	ACTION AND SURVIVING CAUSE OF ACTION
Defendant(s).	)	FOR INJURY TO _____ [CHILD
	)	or WARD]
	)	Date: _____
	)	Time: _____
	)	Dept: _____
		Name of Judge: _____
		Date Action Filed: _____
		Trial Date: _____

_____

To _____ [moving party, e.g., defendant] _____ [name] and to _____ [name], his/her attorney of record:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [address], _____ [city], _____ [moving party, e.g., plaintiff] will move, and hereby does, for an order consolidating the above-captioned action for trial with Action No. _____, brought under the provisions of Code of Civil Procedure Section 377.62(b) in the _____ Superior Court of _____ County, California, by the _____ [heirs or personal representative] of _____ [name], deceased. The motion will be made on the grounds that the above-captioned action and Action No. _____ are separate actions arising from the same [allegedly] wrongful act or neglect.

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, on the declaration of _____ [name] and the attached memorandum of points and authorities insupport of motion, the papers and records on file, and such oral and documentary evidence as may be presented at the hearing on this motion.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [party's status and name]

CAUTION:
A memorandum of points and authorities must be served and filed with this notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[2] Use of Form

This form of notice is for use in an action for injuries to a child or ward to move for the consolidation of that action with a wrongful death action arising from the same wrongful act or neglect. For forms of a declaration in support of the motion and of an order to consolidate, see Ch. 125, Consolidation, Severance, and Coordination of Actions .

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 181.191

For discussion and forms relating to parents' recovery for injuries to their child, see Ch. 394, Parent and Child

[4] State Statutes

Surviving cause of action for injury to child or ward and wrongful death action arising out of same wrongful act or neglect as permitted to be consolidated for trial. Code Civ. Proc. § 376(h)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 182.syn

§ 182.syn Synopsis to Chapter 182: DECLARATORY RELIEF

§ 182.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 182.02 Cross References

§§ 182.03through 182.09 [Reserved]

§ 182.10 Governing Statutes

§ 182.11 Nature of Action

§ 182.12 Purpose of Remedy

§ 182.13 When Action Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 Lies

[1] Declaration of Rights or Duties

[2] Examples

[3] To Test Validity of Administrative Regulation

[4] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

[5] To Test Validity of Precedent Decision of Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board

[6] Resolution of Unsettled Issue of California Law Following Federal Court Abstention

[7] Immunity of Public Entity or Officer as Defense

§ 182.14 Actual Controversy Required

[1] Justiciability

[2] Effect of Defendant's Inability to Grant Affirmative Relief

[3] Ripeness and Standing

[4] Past Wrongs or Speculative Dispute

§ 182.15 Seeking Other Relief in Same or Subsequent Action

§ 182.16 Jurisdiction

[1] Subject Matter

[2] Not Enlarged by Declaratory Relief Statute

[3] Response to Lack of Jurisdiction

§ 182.17 Sufficiency of Complaint

§ 182.18 Statute of Limitations

§ 182.19 Res Judicata

§ 182.20 Discretion of Court to Refuse Relief

[1] General Rule

[2] Specific Grounds for Refusing Relief

[3] Staying Action Pending Determination of Related Case

[4] Court's Action After Determining to Refuse Relief

[5] Statutes and Ordinances

[a] General Rule

[b] Penal Statutes or Ordinances

§ 182.21 Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings by Defendant

§ 182.22 Precedence of Action on Trial Calendar

§ 182.23 Jury Trial

§ 182.24 Judgment on the Merits

§ 182.25 Actions in Federal Courts

§§ 182.26-182.39 [Reserved]

§ 182.40 Related Matthew Bender Publications

§ 182.41 Federal Statutes and Rules

§ 182.42 State Statutes

[1] Declaratory Relief

[2] Related Actions and Proceedings

§ 182.43 Decisions

[1] Appeal

[2] Attorney's Fees

[3] Availability of Declaratory Relief on Denial of Certiorari

[4] Complaint

[5] Controversy

[6] Cross Complaint

[7] Defenses

[8] Demurrer

[9] Enforcement of Judgment

[10] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

[11] Failure to Seek Coercive Relief in Declaratory Action

[12] Improper Actions

[13] Injunctive Relief

[14] Judgment

[15] Jurisdiction

[16] Jury and Nonjury Trial

[17] Limitation of Actions

[18] Nature of Action

[19] Parties

[20] Past Wrongs Providing No Basis for Relief

[21] Power and Function of Court

[22] Proper Actions

[a] Constitution, Statutes, Ordinances, and Regulations

[b] Charges and Fees

[c] Contract

[d] Indemnity

[e] Insurance

[f] Legality of Proposed Plan

[g] Liability for Test

[h] Pension

[i] Real Property

[j] Resolution of Issue Following Abstention by Federal Court

[k] Review of Administrative Agency Policy

[23] Purpose and Function of Action

[24] Refusing Declaratory Relief

[25] Ripeness

[26] Standing to Sue

[27] Summary Judgment

[28] Use of Mandate

§ 182.44 Law Reviews

§ 182.45 Text References

§§ 182.46-182.59 [Reserved]

§ 182.60 Complaint for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Complaint

[a] Caption

[b] Essential Allegations

[i] Proper Matter for Declaratory Relief

[ii] Existence of Actual Controversy

[iii] Request for and Necessity of Declaration

[c] Legal Capacity

[d] Standing to Sue Distinguished

[e] Venue

[4] Failure to State Cause of Action

[5] Verification

[6] Costs and Attorneys' Fees

[7] Cross References

[8] Text References

§ 182.61 Allegations in Complaint for Declaration as to Validity of Written Instrument [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--Existence of Controversy Relating to Validity

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 182.62 Allegations in Complaint for Declaration Construing Written Instrument [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--Existence of Controversy Relating to Interpretation

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 182.63 Allegations in Complaint for Declaration as to Validity of Defendant's Claim Against Plaintiff [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--Existence of Controversy Relating to Creation of Rights in Defendant as Result of Transaction

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 182.64 Complaint for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--To Determine Validity of Ordinance--By Individual Against Public Entity and Enforcement Officer

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Caption

[4] Cross References

§ 182.65 Complaint for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--To Declare State Statutes Unconstitutional--By City and Affected Public Officials Against District Attorney

[1] FORM

[2] Source of Form

[3] Use of Form

[4] Cross References

§ 182.66 Complaint for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--To Declare Special Legislative Act Constitutional--By City and City Department

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 182.67 Complaint for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--To Determine Validity of Administrative Regulation [Gov. Code § 11350]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART I. SCOPE

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.01

§ 182.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses the judicial remedy of declaratory relief and contains forms for use in declaratory relief actions. The forms include:

- A general form of complaint [see § 182.60] which may be adapted for use in any declaratory relief action.
- Alternative allegations for use in such a complaint [see §§ 182.61 -182.63].
- Complaints for use in specific cases:
  - To determine the validity of an ordinance [see § 182.64].
  - To declare a statute unconstitutional [see § 182.65].
  - To declare a special legislative act constitutional [see § 182.66].
  - To determine the validity of an administrative regulation [see § 182.67].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART I. SCOPE

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.02

§ 182.02 Cross References

For forms of complaints for declaratory relief and judgments for use in specific cases see:

- Ch. 60, Assignments
- Ch. 61, Associations and Clubs
- Ch. 72, Attorney Practice and Ethics
- Ch. 88, Automobiles: Automobile Insurance
- Ch. 95, Banks, Deposits, and Checks, § 95.310 et seq.,
- Ch. 104, Building Contracts, § 104.10 et seq.,
- Ch. 122, Community Property
- Chs. 160, Corporations: Capacity, 166, Corporations: Shareholders' Meetings and Votings, and 167, Corporations: Directors and Management
- Ch. 189, Deeds
- Ch. 265, Federal Courts: Jurisdiction and Removal,;
- Ch. 270, Fraudulent Conveyances, § 270.70 et seq.;
- Ch. 278, Gifts
- Ch. 300, Indemnity and Contribution, § 300.30 et seq.;

- Ch. 307, Insolvency
- Ch. 308, Insurance, § 308.190 et seq.;
- Ch. 316, Joint Tenancy and Tenancy in Common
- Ch. 334, Landlord and Tenant: Claims for Damages
- Ch. 359, Marriage
- Ch. 401, Partnerships: Actions Between General Partners and Partnership
- Ch. 412, Paternity
- Ch. 470B, Public Agency Meetings
- Ch. 471B, Licensing by Public Agencies,
- Ch. 472B, Review of Agency Rulemaking
- Ch. 520, Settlement and Release
- Ch. 527, Social Services,
- Ch. 536, Subrogation
- Ch. 538, Suretyship, Bonds, and Undertakings, § 538.40 et seq.,
- Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts.
- Ch. 569, Vendor and Purchaser
- Ch. 575, Waters, Pts. I(E), II
- Ch. 579, Zoning and Planning, § 579.30 et seq.

For forms of cross complaints for declaratory relief for use in specific cases, see:

- Ch. 244, Elevators and Escalators
- Ch. 270, Fraudulent Conveyances, § 270.30 et seq.,
- Ch. 300, Indemnity and Contribution, § 300.60 et seq.,
- Ch. 308, Insurance, § 308.10 et seq., and
- Ch. 460, Products Liability
- For a form of demand for jury trial, see Ch. 322, Juries and Jury Selection

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART I. SCOPE

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 182.03through 182.09

[Reserved]

§§ 182.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.10

§ 182.10 Governing Statutes

Declaratory relief is authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 and the action is governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1060-1062.5. These provisions are found in Part Two of the Code of Civil Procedure entitled "Civil Actions" and, hence, a declaratory relief action under Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 is a civil action [see also Code Civ. Proc. § 30 (defining civil action, among other things, as an action prosecuted by one party against another for the declaration of a right); Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 733, 146 P.2d 673] , and not a special proceeding of a civil nature. Being a civil action, it is subject to the other applicable provisions of Part Two of the Code of Civil Procedure, that is, to the applicable provisions in Code Civ. Proc. § 307 et seq.

The action authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 is the most common form of judicial proceeding for declaratory relief. But there are many other statutes authorizing declaratory relief for specific purposes. Examples include:

- A civil action to determine and declare the validity of a marriage [Fam. Code § 309].

- A civil action to declare the existence or nonexistence of a parent-child relationship [Fam. Code § 7630 et seq.].

- A civil action to determine adverse interests in real property arising out of any public improvement assessment or bond [Code Civ. Proc. § 801.1 et seq.].

- A civil action to determine the validity of various acts of public agencies [Code Civ. Proc. § 860 et seq.].

- A civil action to determine adverse claims for money or property on an alleged obligation [Code Civ. Proc. § 1050].

- A civil action to determine the validity of the election or appointment of a director of a corporation [Corp. Code § 709].

- A proceeding to judicially establish the fact, time, and place of birth, death, or marriage [Health & Safety Code § 103450 et seq.].

- A civil action by an individual claiming to be a nonresident of California for the purposes of the Personal Income Tax Law to determine the fact of residence [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060.5 (requiring the action to be brought in the Superior Court of Sacramento County, Los Angeles County, or the City and County of San Francisco)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.11

§ 182.11 Nature of Action

By statute, declaratory relief is a form of specific relief [see Civ. Code § 3367(3)], and does not involve strictly preventive [see Civ. Code §§ 3274, 3366, 3368, 3420-3423] or compensatory relief [see Civ. Code §§ 3274, 3281-3360].

Although the action is said to be equitable in nature [see, e.g., Westerholm v. 20th Century Ins. Co. (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 628, 632], it is neither strictly legal nor equitable but is sui generis in nature [Transamerica Occidental Life Ins. Co. v. DiGregorio (9th Cir. 1987) 811 F.2d 1249, 1251 ; Moss v. Moss (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 640, 643, 128 P.2d 526] . That is, it may involve both legal and equitable issues.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.12

§ 182.12 Purpose of Remedy

The purpose of declaratory relief is to eliminate uncertainties and controversies that may result in future litigation [Marina Development Co. v. County of Los Angeles (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 435, 443, 202 Cal. Rptr. 377 ; Fagerstedt v. Continental Ins. Co. (1968) 266 Cal. App. 2d 370, 372, 72 Cal. Rptr. 126] and, hence, to quiet or stabilize an uncertain or disputed legal relations [City of Tiburon v. Northwestern Pac. R.R. Co. (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 160, 173, 84 Cal. Rptr. 469] by permitting a prompt adjudication of the respective rights and obligations of the parties [Lortz v. Connell (1969) 273 Cal. App. 2d 286, 301, 78 Cal. Rptr. 6] . It enables the parties to shape their future conduct so as to avoid the breach of an obligation [see Babb v. Superior Court of Sonoma County (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 841, 848, 92 Cal. Rptr. 179, 479 P.2d 379 ; Watson v. Sansone (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 1, 3, 96 Cal. Rptr. 387] . While declaratory relief statutes necessarily deal with present rights, the present right contemplated is the right to have immediate judicial assurance that advantages will be enjoyed or liabilities escaped in the future [see Eye Dog Foundation v. State Board of Guide Dogs for the Blind (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 536, 541 n.2, 63 Cal. Rptr. 21, 432 P.2d 717] .

The declaratory procedure operates prospectively, and not merely for the redress of past wrongs. By serving to set controversies at rest, the remedy is to be used in the interest of preventive justice, to declare rights rather than to execute them [County of San Diego v. State (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 580, 607-608, 79 Cal. Rptr. 3d 489 ("The portion of the judgment awarding the Counties the amount of their reimbursement claims as declaratory relief does not operate prospectively to declare future rights; it redresses the State's 'past wrongs' in failing to meet its constitutional obligations ... ." (emphasis in original)); Travers v. Louden (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 926, 931, 62 Cal. Rptr. 654 ; see also Babb v. Superior Court of Sonoma County (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 841, 848, 92 Cal. Rptr. 179, 479 P.2d 379 ; Watson v. Sansone (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 1, 3, 96 Cal. Rptr. 387 ; LePage v. Oakland (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 689, 692, 91 Cal. Rptr. 806] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.13

§ 182.13 When Action Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 Lies

[1] Declaration of Rights or Duties

Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 presently allows any person "interested under a written instrument, excluding a will or trust, or under a contract, or who desires a declaration of his or her rights or duties with respect to another, or in respect to, in, over or upon property, or with respect to the location of the natural channel of a watercourse" to seek a judicial declaration of his, her, or its rights and duties in the premises, including a determination of any question of construction or validity arising under the instrument or contract [see § 182.60].

The section uses the disjunctive, "or," between the phrases "written instrument" and "under a contract." Hence, there is no requirement that the contract referred to in the section be written, and an action to resolve a controversy relating to oral contracts and obligations is authorized [Zimmer v. Gorelnik (1941) 42 Cal. App. 2d 440, 445, 109 P.2d 34] .

Prior to amendments that became operative January 1, 1995, Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 expressly permitted, among others, any person interested under "a deed, will, or other written instrument, or under a contract ... " to seek declaratory relief under the statute [see former Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]. As of January 1, 1995, the reference to "deed" has been omitted, but the statute permits a person interested under a "written instrument, excluding a will or trust, or under a contract. ... " to seek a declaration of rights [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 (emphasis added)]. The intent of this amendment is unclear. Because deeds are a form of written instrument and are not specifically excluded from consideration, an action seeking a declaration of rights regarding a deed would still appear to be permitted under the statute, although this remains subject to further statutory or judicial clarification. For a complete discussion of the validity and interpretation of deeds, see Ch. 184, Deeds .

Although wills and trusts are now expressly excluded from the statutory scheme for a declaration of rights under Code Civ. Proc. § 1060, note that a determination of rights under these instruments can be obtained by various Probate Code proceedings [see generally Prob. Code §§ 11700 et seq. (petitions to determine heirship), 17200 et seq. (proceedings concerning trusts), 21320 et seq. (proceedings to determine if act constitutes violation of no contest clause of will)]. Interpretation of the terms of a "will, trust, deed, and any other instrument" is subject to the rules set forth in Prob. Code § 21101 et seq. "[u]nless the provision or context otherwise requires" [Prob. Code § 21101]. For a complete discussion of these proceedings, see Chs. 444, Probate: Will Contests and 458, Probate: Determination of Heirship , and Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts .

[2] Examples

Under the express wording of Code Civ. Proc. § 1060, declaratory relief actions are proper to secure an adjudication of rights and duties between parties interested under a written instrument, excluding a will or trust, and a number of actions filed involve such matters. The section also authorizes declaratory relief to secure an adjudication of rights and duties between the parties under a contract, and there are many cases declaring the rights and duties of the parties to a written or oral contract, lease, insurance policy, and so forth [see, e.g., §§ 182.61 -182.63].

Declaratory relief actions are also proper under Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 to secure an interpretation of city charter provisions [see, e.g., LePage v. Oakland (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 689, 692-693, 91 Cal. Rptr. 806] , statutes, and ordinances [see, e.g., Walker v. County of Los Angeles (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 626, 637, 12 Cal. Rptr. 671, 361 P.2d 247 ; Cristmat, Inc. v. County of Los Angeles (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 590, 594, 93 Cal. Rptr. 325 ; see § 182.64], and to test the constitutionality of initiative measures [see, e.g., Weaver v. Jordan (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 235, 240, 49 Cal. Rptr. 537, 411 P.2d 289 , cert. denied, 385 U.S. 844] , statutes [see, e.g., Nevada County v. MacMillen (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 662, 666, 114 Cal. Rptr. 345, 522 P.2d 1345 ; see §§ 182.65, 182.66], and ordinances [see, e.g., Pennell v. City of San Jose (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 365, 367, 228 Cal. Rptr. 726, 721 P.2d 1111 , aff'd, 485 U.S. 1 ; State v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 251, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 ; Subriar v. Bakersfield (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 175, 194-195, 130 Cal. Rptr. 853] . The challenge may be to the constitutionality of a statute or ordinance on its face or as applied to a particular party or situation [Pennell v. City of San Jose (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 365, 367, 228 Cal. Rptr. 726, 721 P.2d 1111 , aff'd, 485 U.S. 1 ; State v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 251-252, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 ; Eye Dog Foundation v. State Board of Guide Dogs for the Blind (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 536, 541, 63 Cal. Rptr. 21, 432 P.2d 717] .

A controversy regarding the status of one claiming membership in a corporation has also been held to be a proper subject of a declaratory judgment, and the nature of the controversy is essentially the same whether it is presented by the claimant or by the corporation [Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 731, 146 P.2d 673] . For additional examples of proper declaratory relief actions under Code Civ. Proc. § 1060, see the entries in § 182.43[22] below .

[3] To Test Validity of Administrative Regulation

In addition to Code Civ. Proc. § 1060, Gov. Code § 11350(a), relating to administrative regulations, expressly authorizes any "interested person" who desires to obtain a judicial declaration as to the validity of any "regulation" to bring an action for declaratory relief "in accordance with the Code of Civil Procedure," that is, in accordance with the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 et seq. Also, Gov. Code § 11350.3 authorizes any interested person who wishes to obtain a judicial declaration as to the validity of a regulation which the Office of Administrative Law has disapproved or ordered repealed pursuant to Gov. Code § 11349.3, 11349.6, or 11349.7, to bring an action for declaratory relief to do so in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure. For a form of allegation to determine the validity of an administrative regulation, see § 182.67. For forms of complaint for declaratory relief under Gov. Code § 11350 or 11350.3, see Ch. 472B, Review of Agency Rulemaking .

As used in Gov. Code §§ 11350 and 11350.3, "regulation" means "every rule, regulation, order or standard of general application or the amendment, supplement or revision of any such rule, regulation, order or standard adopted by any state agency to implement, interpret, or make specific the law enforced or administered by it, or to govern its procedure." The term does not mean or include legal rules of counsel issued by the Franchise Tax Board or State Board of Equalization, or any form prescribed by a state agency or any instructions relating to the use of that form, but this provision is not a limitation on any requirement that a regulation be adopted when one is needed to implement the law under which the form is issued [Gov. Code § 11342(g)]. Moreover, case law has established that the term "regulation" does not include an administrative order, ruling, or decision reviewable by administrative mandate (Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5), and declaratory relief may not be used to attack such order or decision [see State v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 249, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 (denial by California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission of permit to develop coastal properties); Scott v. City of Indian Wells (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 541, 546, 99 Cal. Rptr. 745, 492 P.2d 1137 (order granting zoning variance but holding that complaint by adjoining landowner for declaratory relief to review order should have been regarded as petition for writ of mandate for purposes of ruling on general demurrer)].

Rules, regulations, orders, and general standards. relating only to the internal management of state agencies are also excepted from the definition of "regulation" [Gov. Code § 11342(g)]. However, this exception should be regarded narrowly so as to encompass only accounting techniques and the like [Poschman v. Dumke (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 932, 943, 107 Cal. Rptr. 596 (overruled on other grounds in Armistead v. State Personnel Board (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 198, 204, 149 Cal. Rptr. 1, 583 P.2d 744)]. For further discussion of the adoption of administrative regulation and a form of complaint for declaratory and injunctive relief to test the validity of an administrative regulation, see Ch. 472B, Review of Agency Rulemaking .

[4] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

A party aggrieved by the application of a statute or ordinance must normally invoke and exhaust any administrative remedies provided before he or she may resort to the courts for relief [Pan Pacific Properties, Inc. v. County of Santa Cruz (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 244, 249, 146 Cal. Rptr. 428 ; but see Greener v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 6 Cal. 4th 1028, 1045-1046, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 539 (discussing use of writ of mandate from appellate court as alternative to administrative exhaustion in challenging constitutionality of statute)]. This rule, the exhaustion of administrative remedies doctrine, is jurisdictional [McHugh v. County of Santa Cruz (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 533, 538-539, 109 Cal. Rptr. 149] and applies to actions for declaratory relief [see Honeywell, Inc. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 907, 911-912, 122 Cal. Rptr. 243 ; Pacific MotorTransp. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 230, 235, 104 Cal. Rptr. 558 ; Walker v. Munro (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 67, 71, 2 Cal. Rptr. 737] .

Thus, if the party chooses to violate a statute, ordinance, or regulation before seeking declaratory relief and a criminal action or administrative proceeding is pending as a result of the violation, declaratory relief normally will be denied on the ground that the validity of the proceeding, such as its constitutionality, can be adjudicated in the criminal action or administrative proceeding; that is, the criminal action or administrative proceeding constitutes another available remedy providing speedy and adequate relief and justifying a refusal to grant declaratory relief [see Miller v. California (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 202, 204-205, 85 Cal. Rptr. 801 (criminal action pending); Holden v. Arnebergh (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 87, 91-92, 71 Cal. Rptr. 401 ; California Water & Tel. Co. v. Los Angeles County (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 16, 25, 61 Cal. Rptr. 618] . On the other hand, if the ordinance or law provides the party with no mechanism for resolving his or her constitutional challenge to the entire structure under which the ordinance or law operates, then the exhaustion doctrine does not apply [Andal v. City of Stockton (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 86, 91-94, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 34] . For discussion of the conditions for the application of the rule and the various exceptions to its application, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions .

The exhaustion of administrative remedies doctrine does not require that a party exhaust all possible alternative remedies before seeking declaratory relief. For example, a party alleging that a county department of social services has a policy of ignoring statutory deadlines in juvenile dependency proceedings need not pursue habeas corpus relief before seeking declaratory relief [Imperial County Dep't of Soc. Servs. v. J.E. (In re Claudia E.) (2008) 163 Cal. App. 4th 627, 635-636, 77 Cal. Rptr. 3d 722 (because alleged policy of department would result in recurring violations, declaratory relief was more efficient than case-by-case adjudication of habeas petitions)].

[5] To Test Validity of Precedent Decision of Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board

Any interested person or organization may bring an action for declaratory relief in superior court in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure to obtain a judicial declaration as to the validity of any precedent decision of the Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board issued under Unemp. Ins. Code § 409 or 409.1 [Unemp. Ins. Code § 409.2]. For further discussion and forms for use in such a proceeding, see Ch. 564, Unemployment and Disability Insurance, § 564.30 et seq.

[6] Resolution of Unsettled Issue of California Law Following Federal Court Abstention

Under the federal court practice of abstention, a federal court will defer consideration of an action properly before it to allow a state court to decide important issues of state law [see Colorado River Water Cons. Dist. v. U.S. (1976) 424 U.S. 800, 814, 96 S. Ct. 1236, 47 L. Ed. 2d 483 ; see also Ch. 265, Federal Courts: Jurisdiction and Removal]. When a federal court has abstained from resolution of an issue in deference to the state court, a declaratory relief action seeking to resolve the issue is a proper exercise of the jurisdiction of the court. As long as the action is not collusive, or seeking to resolve a purely hypothetical dispute, justiciability will be found. This is especially true when the dispute is on a subject of great public importance, as in those situations any doubts as to justiciability will be resolved in favor of justiciability [National Audubon Society v. Superior Court (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 419, 432-433 n.14, 189 Cal. Rptr. 346, 658 P.2d 709] .

[7] Immunity of Public Entity or Officer as Defense

The state or any public agency may be sued in declaratory relief only where governmental immunity does not exist or is waived [see California Physicians' Serv. v. Garrison (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 790, 800, 172 P.2d 4 ; Lord v. Garland (1946) 27 Cal. 2d 840, 852, 168 P.2d 5 ; Grier v. Alameda-Contra Costa Transit Dist. (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 325, 333, 127 Cal. Rptr. 525] . If governmental immunity does apply, it is a defense to the declaratory relief action [see People v. Buellton Dev. Co. (1943) 58 Cal. App. 2d 178, 185, 136 P.2d 793] . However, governmental immunity does not apply generally to declaratory relief actions brought against public officials to adjudge and declare the obligations of their office with respect to a given fact situation [Los Angeles County v. State Dep't of Public Health (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 425, 444, 322 P.2d 968] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsScopeConstitutional LawThe JudiciaryCase or ControversyConstitutional QuestionsAbstentionLabor & Employment LawDisability & Unemployment InsuranceUnemployment CompensationReviewTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunityGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.14

§ 182.14 Actual Controversy Required

[1] Justiciability

An action for declaratory relief is authorized only when an actual controversy relating to the legal rights and duties of the respective parties exists [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]. Thus, it is improper for a court to issue a "declaratory" judgment that merely specifies the amount of money the defendant owes the plaintiff, when the parties do not dispute the amount owed [County of San Diego v. State (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 580, 605-607, 79 Cal. Rptr. 3d 489 (plaintiff counties did not seek declaration of amount owed them by state, which was undisputed, but rather declaration that state was constitutionally and statutorily required to pay promptly and fully)].

The controversy must be of a character that admits of specific and conclusive relief by a judgment within the field of judicial determination, as distinguished from an advisory opinion on a particular or hypothetical state of facts. The fact that an issue raised in a declaratory relief action is of broad general interest does not justify the granting of such relief in the absence of a true justiciable controversy [Zetterberg v. State Dept. of Public Health (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 657, 662, 118 Cal. Rptr. 100] . A justiciable controversy must be definite, concrete, and touching the legal relations of parties having adverse interests [LePage v. Oakland (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 689, 692, 91 Cal. Rptr. 806] . The judgment must decree, not suggest, what the parties may or may not do [BKHN, Inc. v. Department of Health Services (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 301, 308, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 188 ; Sherwyn v. Department of Social Services (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 52, 58, 218 Cal. Rptr. 778] .

There need not, however, have been any breach of the obligation in respect to which the declaration is sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]. Thus, a court may issue declaratory relief to resolve an actual controversy over the parties' obligations under their contract, even if the declaratory judgment does not resolve any particular cause of action for a coercive remedy [Supervalu, Inc. v. Wexford Underwriting Managers, Inc. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 64, 81, 96 Cal. Rptr. 3d 316 (Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 "permits a declaration of the parties' rights and duties even if no other relief is requested, and even if there has not been a breach of contract")].

A trial court may properly grant declaratory relief on a question that is not in dispute when it is necessary for the court to determine that question before it can decide the issue in dispute for which declaratory relief is proper [see

Application Group, Inc. v. Hunter Group, Inc. (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 881, 893-894, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 73] .

[2] Effect of Defendant's Inability to Grant Affirmative Relief

At least one court has indicated that the element of a justiciable actual controversy is lacking when the complaint seeks a declaratory judgment against a party who has no power to grant plaintiff any affirmative relief. In Pinnacle Holdings, Inc. v. Simon (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1430, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 778 , a landlord that had unsuccessfully sought authority for a rent increase from a county rent control board brought a proceeding for mandate and for declaratory relief against the rent control board. In the declaratory relief action, the plaintiff landlord also sought to join as defendants four tenants who had spoken in opposition to the proposed rent increase during proceedings before the board. The court of appeal affirmed the dismissal of the action as to the tenants following the trial court's sustaining of their demurrers. The court noted that a declaratory relief action requires the existence of an actual, present controversy over a proper subject and concluded that this requirement was lacking because the action sought no affirmative relief from the tenants and because the tenants had no power to grant plaintiff the relief it sought (i.e., approval for the rent increase) [see Pinnacle Holdings, Inc. v. Simon (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1430, 1436-1437, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 778] .

[3] Ripeness and Standing

The concept of justiciability involves the intertwined criteria of ripeness and standing. The controversy is ripe when it has reached but has not passed the point that the facts have sufficiently congealed to permit an intelligent and useful decision to be made. A plaintiff has standing to raise the controversy if he or she, or those whom he or she properly represents, has a real interest in the ultimate adjudication, that is, if he or she has suffered or is about to suffer an injury of sufficient magnitude reasonably to assure that all of the relevant facts and issues will be adequately presented [California Water & Tel. Co. v. Los Angeles County (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 16, 22-23, 61 Cal. Rptr. 618] .

A plaintiff may bring an action for declaratory relief before an actual invasion of rights has occurred. However, the action must be based on an actual controversy with known parameters [see, e.g., Environmental Def. Project v. County of Sierra (2008) 158 Cal. App. 4th 877, 886-887, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 474 (probable future controversy over whether defendant county's streamlined zoning procedure complied with Planning and Zoning Law was ripe for adjudication, because defendant's past conduct clearly delineated how defendant would interpret and apply that law in future)]. If the parameters are as yet unknown, the controversy is not yet ripe for declaratory relief, and any decision a court might render would be an impermissible advisory opinion [Sanctity of Human Life Network v. California Highway Patrol (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 858, 872, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 708] .

For example, an injured party generally may not obtain declaratory relief against an insurer to establish that the injury is covered under the alleged tortfeasor's liability insurance policy, if the injured party's suit against the tortfeasor is still pending. Until the claim against the alleged tortfeasor is adjudicated, any controversy between the injured party and the insurer is not ripe for adjudication, because it remains unknown whether the injured party will ultimately be able to make a claim against the proceeds of the liability insurance policy as a judgment creditor. Declaratory relief is therefore inappropriate, since the injured party's interests in the policy are contingent upon his or her prevailing against the insured, and until such liability is settled, the court cannot be certain that a controversy will arise between the injured party and the insurer [Otay Land Co. v. Royal Indemnity Co. (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 556, 565-567, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 408] .

Although the issues of justiciability may involve whether a court has jurisdiction to entertain the action [see California Water & Tel. Co. v. Los Angeles County (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 16, 23 n.11, 61 Cal. Rptr. 618] , as well as whether the complaint states a cause of action [see discussion in § 182.17 below], the concepts of ripeness and standing have also been stated to be guidelines for the exercise of judicial discretion in granting or withholding declaratory relief [see California Water & Tel. Co. v. Los Angeles County (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 16, 23, 61 Cal. Rptr. 618 ; see discussion in § 182.20 below].

[4] Past Wrongs or Speculative Dispute

Because declaratory relief actions deal with present rights to have immediate judicial assurance that advantages will be enjoyed or liabilities escaped in the future, when only past wrongs are involved there is no basis for declaratory relief [County of San Diego v. State (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 580, 607-608, 79 Cal. Rptr. 3d 489 ("The portion of the judgment awarding the Counties the amount of their reimbursement claims as declaratory relief does not operate prospectively to declare future rights; it redresses the State's 'past wrongs' in failing to meet its constitutional obligations ... ." (emphasis in original)); Baldwin v. Marina City Properties, Inc. (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 393, 405, 145 Cal. Rptr. 406] . If the possibility of a future dispute is speculative, it does not present an actual controversy that can be resolved by means of a declaratory judgment [Cardellini v. Casey (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 389, 396-397, 226 Cal. Rptr. 659] . But if there is a reasonable expectation that the past wrong or wrongs will be repeated in the future, the controversy does not present mere academic questions resulting from mootness or other considerations and declaratory relief should not be denied [Southern Counties Gas Co. v. Ventura Pipeline Constr. Co. (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 372, 381, 96 Cal. Rptr. 825 ; see also Mascarin Professional Pharmacy v. Hart (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 462, 465, 91 Cal. Rptr. 560] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsFactorsCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsScopeConstitutional LawThe JudiciaryCase or ControversyGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawThe JudiciaryCase or ControversyRipenessConstitutional LawThe JudiciaryCase or ControversyStandingGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.15

§ 182.15 Seeking Other Relief in Same or Subsequent Action

The remedy of declaratory relief is cumulative and does not restrict any other remedy, provisional or otherwise, provided by law for the benefit of any party to the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 1062]. That is, the remedy is in addition to, and not in lieu of, other legal remedies [Walker v. Munro (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 67, 72, 2 Cal. Rptr. 737] .

Plaintiff may seek declaratory relief either alone or with other relief in the same action [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060], for example, with damages for past wrongs [see Southern Counties Gas Co. v. Ventura Pipeline Constr. Co. (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 372, 380, 96 Cal. Rptr. 825 ; Travers v. Louden (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 926, 931, 62 Cal. Rptr. 654] , or with injunctive relief [see, e.g., Eye Dog Foundation v. State Board of Guide Dogs for the Blind (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 536, 544, 63 Cal. Rptr. 21, 432 P.2d 717 ; Subriar v. Bakersfield (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 175, 194-195, 130 Cal. Rptr. 853] . However, additional or other relief in a declaratory relief action is considered consequential or incidental, and the failure to seek such relief is not a bar to proceeding either by petition filed in the declaratory action or by a separate and independent suit or action subsequently filed that is predicated on the declaration of rights contained in the declaratory judgment [see Lortz v. Connell (1969) 273 Cal. App. 2d 286, 300, 78 Cal. Rptr. 6 ; see also Southern Counties Gas Co. v. Ventura Pipeline Constr. Co. (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 372, 382, 96 Cal. Rptr. 825] .

The rule is stated in Code Civ. Proc. § 1062, which provides that the declaratory judgment does not "preclude any party from obtaining additional relief based on the same facts." This rule enables a party to get a prompt adjudication of rights and duties without a dispute over, for example, the damages suffered. In many cases further proceedings will beunnecessary because the right of the party who might claim damages is not established, or because if his or her right is established no damages ensue, or, if ensuing, damages may be established without further litigation [Lortz v. Connell (1969) 273 Cal. App. 2d 286, 301, 78 Cal. Rptr. 6] .

Code Civ. Proc. § 1062, which carves out an exception to the bar of res judicata (claim preclusion), applies only if the plaintiff's initial action seeks purely declaratory relief. Thus, if the plaintiff decides to seek any additional coercive relief in a declaratory relief action, the ordinary rules of res judicata apply, and the judgment will bar a subsequent action for any further coercive relief arising from the same cause of action [Mycogen Corp. v. Monsanto Co. (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 888, 897-904, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 432, 51 P.3d 297 (applying exception to res judicata principles in case involving request for coercive relief would create uncertain preclusion rules and would threaten to swallow rule against claim splitting)]. Moreover, even if the initial action sought purely declaratory relief, a judgment in that action would have a res judicata effect as to those issues and claims expressly and unambiguously declared in the judgment [Aerojet-General Corp. v. American Excess Ins. Co. (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 387, 401-414, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 427] .

The court's ability to combine otherwise appropriate declaratory relief with other forms of relief does not justify the issuance of a "declaratory" judgment that merely specifies the amount of money the defendant owes the plaintiff, when there is no actual controversy as to the amount owed [County of San Diego v. State (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 580, 608, 79 Cal. Rptr. 3d 489 (plaintiff counties did not seek declaration of amount owed them by state, which was undisputed, but rather declaration that state was constitutionally and statutorily required to pay promptly and fully)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsFactorsCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsScope

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.16

§ 182.16 Jurisdiction

[1] Subject Matter

An original action or cross complaint for declaratory relief may be brought in the superior court; it may be brought as a limited civil case in the superior court to the extent allowed by Code Civ. Proc. § 85 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580(b)(4), 1060; see Gov. Code §§ 11350, 11350.3; Unemp. Ins. Code § 409.2; see also Cal. Const., art. VI, §§ 5(e), 10 (superior court's jurisdiction)]. Superior courts have jurisdiction of actions that are limited civil cases for declaratory relief when brought pursuant to either of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 86(a)(7)]:

> (A) By way of cross complaint regarding a right of indemnity with respect to the relief demanded in the complaint or a cross complaint in an action or proceeding that is otherwise a limited civil case; or
>
> (B) To conduct a trial after a nonbinding fee arbitration between an attorney and client, pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 6200 et seq., when the amount in controversy is $25,000 or less.

[2] Not Enlarged by Declaratory Relief Statute

The declaratory relief statute [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060] involves matters of practice and procedure only and is not intended in any way to enlarge the jurisdiction of the courts over parties and subject matter. The statue is intended merely to provide an additional procedure for utilizing the existing jurisdiction of the courts [San Ysidro Irrigation Dist. v. Superior Court of San Diego County(1961) 56 Cal. 2d 708, 715, 16 Cal. Rptr. 609, 365 P.2d 753 ; Hoyt v. Board of Civil Service Commrs. (1942) 21 Cal. 2d 399, 403, 132 P.2d 804 ; Independent Laundry v. Railroad Comm'n (1945) 70 Cal. App. 2d 816, 821, 161 P.2d 827] .

Consequently, if a particular statute limits the class of persons who may raise certain issues by judicial action, that statute is not superseded by Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 and may not be circumvented by a declaratory relief action brought by a person who is not within the class. For example, a declaratory relief action may not be used by a private individual to challenge the exercise of a franchise in an attempt to circumvent the statutory provisions [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 803, 811] authorizing such actions to be brought only by the Attorney General or by a county or municipality [see San Ysidro Irr. Dist. v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 708, 715-716, 16 Cal. Rptr. 609, 365 P.2d 753] . Nor may such an action be used to interfere in the intermediate states of an administrative proceeding [Imperial Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Caminetti (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 501, 505, 139 P.2d 691] , or when administrative remedies provided by statute have not been exhausted [Walker v. Munro (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 67, 71, 2 Cal. Rptr. 737 ; see discussion § 182.13[4] above].

[3] Response to Lack of Jurisdiction

If the court's lack of subject matter jurisdiction appears from the face of the complaint or cross complaint or from matters of which the court must or may take judicial notice [see Evid. Code §§ 451, 452], the pleading is subject to a general demurrer on that ground [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.10(a), 430.30(a); see generally Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings]. If the defect does not so appear, the objection may be taken by answer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.30(b), 431.30(b)(2); see generally Ch. 26, Answers] and separate trial of that issue [see Code Civ. Proc. § 597] or by a motion to dismiss [see Code Civ. Proc. § 396; see generally Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter]. But if there is any court in California having jurisdiction of the subject matter, statute requires that the case be transferred to that court rather than be dismissed [Code Civ. Proc. § 396]. If there is no court in California having jurisdiction of the subject matter, the court's only power is to dismiss the action [Watson v. Sansone (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 1, 4-5, 96 Cal. Rptr. 387] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJurisdictionSubject Matter JurisdictionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticeDefenses, Demurrers & ObjectionsDemurrersCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsAnswersCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewEvidenceJudicial NoticeGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.17

§ 182.17 Sufficiency of Complaint

A complaint for declaratory relief is legally sufficient if it sets forth facts showing the existence of an actual controversy relating to the legal rights and duties of the respective parties under a written instrument or contract and requests that these rights and duties be adjudged by the court [Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 728, 146 P.2d 673 ; see also Bennett v. Hibernia Bank (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 540, 549-550, 305 P.2d 20 ; Southern Counties Gas Co. v. Ventura Pipeline Constr. Co. (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 372, 377, 96 Cal. Rptr. 825 ; City of Tiburon v. Northwestern Pac. R.R. Co. (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 160, 170, 84 Cal. Rptr. 469] . A complaint is sufficient if a decree would serve in a practical way to stabilize a dispute that otherwise may lead to disastrous results or, if it involves a contract, defer the realization of the purposes of the contract [Southern Counties Gas Co. v. Ventura Pipeline Constr. Co. (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 372, 377, 96 Cal. Rptr. 825 (quoting from Ralphs Grocery Co. v. Amalgamated Meat Cutters (1950) 98 Cal. App. 2d 539, 543, 220 P.2d 802); see § 182.60].

Because Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 contains no suggestion that the plaintiff must allege facts entitling him or her to a favorable decision [Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 730, 146 P.2d 673] , if the complaint meets these requirements, the court must declare the rights of the parties whether or not the facts alleged establish that plaintiff is entitled to a favorable judgment [Bennett v. Hibernia Bank (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 540, 550, 305 P.2d 20 ; Southern Counties Gas Co. v. Ventura Pipeline Constr. Co. (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 372, 377, 96 Cal. Rptr. 825 ; City of Tiburon v. Northwestern Pac. R.R. Co. (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 160, 170, 173, 84 Cal. Rptr. 469 ; see also Zeitlin v. Arnebergh (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 901, 908, 31 Cal. Rptr. 800, 383 P.2d 152] . If the plaintiff is not entitled to a favorable determination, the court should render a judgment embodying such determination and not merely dismiss the action [Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 731, 146 P.2d 673 ; Patel v. Athow (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 727, 734, 110 Cal. Rptr. 460] . To sustain a demurrer to such a complaint without leave to amend or to enter judgment on the pleadings dismissing the action is error [Wilson v. Board of Retirement (1957) 156 Cal. App. 2d 195, 200, 319 P.2d 426 ; see Safeway Stores, Inc. v. Royal Indem. Co. (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 44, 47, 98 Cal. Rptr. 234 ; City of Tiburon v. Northwestern Pac. R.R. Co. (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 160, 172 n.5, 84 Cal. Rptr. 469] . In such a case, if the issue is purely one of law, and the appellate court agrees with the trial court's resolution of the issue against the plaintiff, the appellate court need not reverse the trial court's dismissal and remand the case for a trial. Instead, the appellate court may consider the merits, and its judgment will constitute the declaration of the parties' rights concerning the matter in controversy [Taxpayers for Improving Pub. Safety v. Schwarzenegger (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 749, 769, 91 Cal.

Rptr. 3d 370 ("[T]he issue presented in this matter is one of law, which we may resolve without reference to evidence. Therefore, it would be an idle act to reverse the order sustaining defendants' demurrers."); Levi v. O'Connell (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 700, 706, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 691] .

If justiciable issues are presented and can be disposed of as a matter of law, they may be resolved by summary judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 437c; see generally Ch. 537, Summary Judgment] with an express declaration of the rights of the parties [City of Tiburon v. Northwestern Pac. R.R. Co. (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 160, 172 n.5, 84 Cal. Rptr. 469 ; see also Siemon v. Russell (1961) 194 Cal. App. 2d 592, 595, 15 Cal. Rptr. 218 ; Spencer v. Hibernia Bank (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 702, 712, 9 Cal. Rptr. 867] . Summary adjudication of a properly pleaded claim for declaratory relief is not precluded merely because other claims are asserted in the same action, or because the issues subject to declaratory relief are present in other causes of action [Supervalu, Inc. v. Wexford Underwriting Managers, Inc. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 64, 81-83, 96 Cal. Rptr. 3d 316 ; Southern Cal. Edison Co. v. Superior Court (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 839, 845-846, 44 Cal. Rptr. 2d 227]. However, once the parties are engaged in litigation over claims for coercive remedies, a party cannot select issues (other than duty and punitive damages) implicated in one or more causes of action, amend its pleading to add a claim for declaratory relief as to those issues, and then obtain a summary adjudication of the declaratory relief claim. This would subvert Code Civ. Proc. § 437c(f)(1), which requires that a summary judgment dispose of an entire cause of action or affirmative defense (or the issues of duty or punitive damages) [Hood v. Superior Court (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 319, 321-324, 39 Cal. Rptr. 2d 296 (declaratory relief cause of action was unnecessary and superfluous, as issues invoked in that cause of action were already fully engaged by other causes of action); see Supervalu, Inc. v. Wexford Underwriting Managers, Inc. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 64, 82-83, 96 Cal. Rptr. 3d 316].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJusticiabilityCase or Controversy RequirementsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsComplaintsRequirementsCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.18

§ 182.18 Statute of Limitations

If declaratory relief is sought with reference to an obligation that has been breached, and the right to commence an action for "coercive" relief on the cause of action arising from the breach is barred by the statute of limitations, then the right to declaratory relief is likewise barred [Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 734, 146 P.2d 673 ; Pena v. Los Angeles (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 257, 262-263, 87 Cal. Rptr. 326 ; see generally Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions].

On the other hand, if declaratory relief is sought before there has been a breach of the obligation in respect to which the declaration is sought or within the statutory period after the breach, the right to relief is not barred by lapse of time [Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 734, 146 P.2d 673 ; United Pacific/Reliance Ins. Co. v. DiDomenico (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 673, 674-677, 219 Cal. Rptr. 119] .

In the case of local ordinances, local law may prescribe a period of limitations on when an action arising under the ordinance may be brought [see Pan Pacific Properties, Inc. v. County of Santa Cruz (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 244, 252, 146 Cal. Rptr. 428 (action challenging zoning ordinance as untimely when it was filed 180 days after the enactment of the ordinance and local ordinance provided 90-day period of limitation)].

If the action is barred by the statute of limitations and that fact appears from the face of the complaint or from matter of which the court must or may take judicial notice [see Evid. Code §§ 451, 452], the objection may be raised by general demurrer to the complaint (or by motion for judgmenton the pleadings) on the ground that the complaint fails to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.10(e), 430.30(a)] in that it appears that the action is barred by the statute of limitations [see Bennett v. Hibernia Bank (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 540, 550, 305 P.2d 20 ; Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 733-735, 146 P.2d 673 ; see generally Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings].

If the bar of the statute does not so appear, the objection may be taken by answer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.30(b), 431.30(b)(2); see generally Ch. 26, Answers] and separate trial of that defense [see Code Civ. Proc. § 597] or raised by motion for summary judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 437c; see generally Ch. 537, Summary Judgment].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime Limitations

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.19

§ 182.19 Res Judicata

When the entire controversy between the parties has been settled by a prior judgment, the action is subject to the defense of res judicata [see generally Ch. 491, Res Judicata]. When the prior settlement appears from the face of the complaint, or from matter of which the court must or may take judicial notice [see Evid. Code §§ 451, 452; Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30(a)], the complaint is subject to a general demurrer (or to a motion for judgment on the pleadings) on the ground that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action in that it appears that the action is res judicata, unless facts are alleged that will justify setting the prior judgment aside [Bennett v. Hibernia Bank (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 540, 550, 554, 305 P.2d 20] .

When the defense of res judicata exists but does not appear from the face of the complaint or from judicially noticed matter, the objection may be raised by answer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.30(b), 431.30(b)(2)] and separate trial of that issue [see Code Civ. Proc. § 597] or by a motion for summary judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 437c].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsRes Judicata

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.20

§ 182.20 Discretion of Court to Refuse Relief

[1] General Rule

Code Civ. Proc. § 1061 provides that the court may refuse to exercise the power to grant declaratory relief in any case in which its declaration or determination is not necessary or proper at the time under all the circumstances. Thus, the trial court has discretion to refuse to make a binding declaration of rights and duties, including a determination of any question of construction or validity arising under a written instrument or contract [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1060], when its declaration or determination is not necessary or proper at the time under all the circumstances [see International Ass'n of Fire Fighters v. City of Palo Alto (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 295, 301, 32 Cal. Rptr. 842, 384 P.2d 170 ; BKHN, Inc. v. Department of Health Services (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 301, 308 ; State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Superior Court of San Francisco (1956) 304 P.2d 13 ; Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 730, 146 P.2d 673] .

Whether a determination is proper is a matter within the trial court's discretion and its decision to grant or deny relief will not be disturbed on appeal unless it be clearly shown that the discretion was abused [Farmers Ins. Exchange v. Adams (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 712, 723, 216 Cal. Rptr. 287 (overruled on other grounds in Garvey v. State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 395, 411, 257 Cal. Rptr. 292, 770 P.2d 704); Fagerstedt v. Continental Ins. Co. (1968) 266 Cal. App. 2d 370, 372, 72 Cal. Rptr. 126 ; see also Zetterberg v. State Dept. of Public Health (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 657, 665, 118 Cal. Rptr. 100 ; CJL Construction, Inc. v. Universal Plumbing (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 376, 391, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 360 (defendant may be precluded from asserting declaratory relief claim by way of cross-complaint when claim could have been asserted as affirmative defense); Allstate Ins. Co. v. Fisher (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 391, 395, 107 Cal. Rptr. 251] . But, although the court has a measure of discretion in determining whether to grant declaratory relief in any particular case, it may not refuse to assume jurisdiction when the complaint sets forth facts showing that a declaratory adjudication is entirely appropriate [Columbia Pictures Corp. v. DeToth (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 753, 762, 161 P.2d 217 ; AICCO, Inc. v. Insurance Co. of N. Am. (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 579, 590, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 359 (abuse of discretion for trial court to decline to exercise jurisdiction when legally sufficient complaint sets forth facts showing that declaratory adjudication is appropriate)].

The court has considerable discretion to deny declaratory relief when such relief would have little practical effect in terms of altering the parties' behavior [Meyer v. Sprint Spectrum L.P. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 634, 646-648, 88 Cal. Rptr.

3d 859, 200 P.3d 295 ("[D]eclaratory relief is designed in large part as a practical means of resolving controversies, so that parties can conform their conduct to the law and prevent future litigation.")]. For example, in a case involving an actual controversy regarding the enforceability of a contractual arbitration provision, the California Supreme Court concluded that the trial court had not abused its discretion in denying declaratory relief. The Court found it significant that the parties' current controversy was primarily over the enforceability of certain contractual remedies should a future dispute over substantive contractual rights arise. Because no dispute had arisen that would cause those remedial provisions to come into play, and the plaintiffs had not alleged that the continuation of the contractual relationship depended on the resolution of the current controversy, the denial of declaratory relief was within the trial court's discretion [Meyer v. Sprint Spectrum L.P. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 634, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 859, 200 P.3d 295] . The Supreme Court did acknowledge, however, that under different circumstances the settlement of questions of the validity of contractual remedies may have practical consequences, such as when a party's decision to enter into a contract reasonably turns on the answer to those questions, or when a party alleges with sufficient particularity that the continuation of a contractual relationship plausibly hinges on the answers to those questions [Meyer v. Sprint Spectrum L.P. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 634, 648, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 859, 200 P.3d 295 ; see, e.g., Baker Pac. Corp. v. Suttles (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 1148, 1154, 269 Cal. Rptr. 709 (parties' decision to enter contract depended on whether contract provision releasing other party from liability for fraud and intentional acts was valid)].

[2] Specific Grounds for Refusing Relief

The fact that the party seeking judicial aid has unclean hands may justify the trial court in concluding that its adjudication would not be proper. In addition, the availability of another adequate remedy may condition the necessity for declaratory relief, although before the court may properly exercise its discretion to refuse relief on this ground, it must clearly appear that the asserted alternative remedies are available to the plaintiff and that they are speedy and adequate or as well suited to plaintiff's needs as declaratory relief [Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 730-732, 146 P.2d 673 ; see also City of Tiburon v. Northwestern Pac. R.R. Co. (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 160, 177, 84 Cal. Rptr. 469 ; London Assur. Co. v. Anderson (1961) 194 Cal. App. 2d 418, 422, 15 Cal. Rptr. 13 ; Broffman v. Klassman (1960) 183 Cal. App. 2d 117, 126, 6 Cal. Rptr. 717] .

If the Legislature has specified an exclusive procedure for litigating particular disputes, it is an abuse of discretion for the superior court to bypass the statutory procedure and hear an ordinary declaratory relief action. For example, the California Public Records Act (CPRA) specifies the exclusive procedure for litigating disputes regarding a person's right to obtain disclosure of public records under the CPRA [see Gov. Code § 6250 et seq.]. The CPRA provides, among other things, that only a person seeking disclosure--not the public agency in possession of the records--may seek a judicial declaration regarding the agency's obligation to disclose a document [Gov. Code § 6258]. Therefore, a superior court has no discretion to bypass this statutory procedure and grant declaratory relief in an action initiated by a public agency under Code of Civil Procedure Section 1060 [Filarsky v. Superior Court (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 419, 429-435, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 844, 49 P.3d 194] . Similarly, a court may properly refuse declaratory relief if a local ordinance provides a procedure to resolve the dispute that is simpler and more affordable than a declaratory-relief action [DeLaura v. Beckett (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 542, 545-547, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 253 (local rent ordinance provided procedure for determining whether tenant was entitled to protected status under that ordinance)].

The existence of a statutory scheme that generally governs a particular kind of proceeding does not preclude the issuance of otherwise appropriate declaratory relief in such a proceeding, if the statutory scheme does not expressly bar such relief. For example, juvenile dependency proceedings are governed, in general, by the Welfare and Institutions Code [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 300 et seq.], but that Code does not expressly restrict the availability of declaratory relief. Therefore, the juvenile court may grant declaratory relief in a case in which it is alleged that a county department of social services has a policy of ignoring statutory deadlines in juvenile dependency proceedings [Imperial County Dep't of Soc. Servs. v. J.E. (In re Claudia E.) (2008) 163 Cal. App. 4th 627, 634-637, 77 Cal. Rptr. 3d 722 (declaratory relief may be granted under Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 as well as juvenile court's inherent power)].

That a plaintiff abuses leave to amend a complaint, for example by failing to make averments called for by demurrers sustained to earlier complaints, is not a ground for the exercise of a trial court's discretion to refuse declaratory relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 1061. Instead, the trial court may refuse to permit the filing of the amendment or may strike the amended pleading from the files, as it may in any type of action [Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 732, 146 P.2d 673] .

[3] Staying Action Pending Determination of Related Case

The court properly stays an action for declaratory relief pending the determination of an underlying action when the issue in the declaratory relief action turns on factual issues that will necessarily be determined in the underlying action [California Ins. Guarantee Assn. v. Superior Court (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1617, 1623-1624, 1628, 283 Cal. Rptr. 104] . For example, the court must stay a declaratory judgment action between an insurer and insured to adjudicate coverage issues under a liability policy if factual issues presented in the declaratory judgment action will necessarily be resolved in the underlying action brought by a third party against the insured [Great Am. Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 221, 235, 100 Cal. Rptr. 3d 258 ; see California Ins. Guarantee Assn. v. Superior Court (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1617, 1621-1622, 1628, 283 Cal. Rptr. 104] . But if the declaratory judgment action can be resolved on legal issues or factual issues unrelated to those in the underlying action, whether to stay the declaratory judgment action is a matter within the trial court's discretion. In exercising its discretion, the trial court should consider the possible prejudice to the insured if the declaratory judgment action is not stayed, as well as the possible prejudice to the insurer if the action is stayed [Great Am. Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 221, 235-237, 100 Cal. Rptr. 3d 258] .

[4] Court's Action After Determining to Refuse Relief

When facts appear from the face of the complaint (or from matter of which the court must or may take judicial notice [see Evid. Code §§ 451, 452]) that would justify the trial court in concluding that its determination is not necessary or proper, the court may sustain a general demurrer [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.10(e), 430.30(a)] to the complaint for declaratory relief [Moss v. Moss (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 640, 642, 128 P.2d 526] or grant a motion for judgment on the pleadings. If those facts do not so appear, the objection may be taken by answer [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.30(b), 431.30(b)(2)] and a separate trial of that issue [see Code Civ. Proc. § 597] or, if there is no dispute as to the facts, that is, if there is no triable issue as to any material fact in the case, by motion for summary judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 437c].

When the court refuses to exercise its power to grant declaratory relief, it should enter a judgment decreeing expressly that the party is not entitled to that relief rather than dismissing the case [see International Ass'n of Fire Fighters v. City of Palo Alto (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 295, 302, 32 Cal. Rptr. 842, 384 P.2d 170 (involving cross complaint for declaratory relief)], that is, that the court's declaration or determination is not necessary or proper at the time under all the circumstances [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1061].

[5] Statutes and Ordinances

[a] General Rule

The factors affecting exercise of judicial discretion to grant declaratory relief in regard to statutes and ordinances include the penal character of the statute or ordinance attacked, the need for a present determination of its validity, the character of the interest of the parties and the public in the subject matter, and the existence of any alternative remedies [California Water & Tel. Co. v. Los Angeles County (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 16, 24, 61 Cal. Rptr. 618] .

Although statutes and ordinances are inherently proper subjects for declaratory relief, a declaratory judgment may not be rendered in disregard of the customary limitations on the granting of relief, and a difference in opinion as to the interpretation of a statute between a citizen and a governmental agency does not constitute a justiciable controversy subject to declaratory relief [Zetterberg v. State Dept. of Public Health (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 657, 661-662, 118 Cal. Rptr. 100] . Any doubt as to the justiciability of a controversy must be resolved in favor of present adjudication when the public is interested in settlement of the dispute [Stocks v. City of Irvine (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 520, 533, 170 Cal. Rptr. 724 ; California Water & Tel. Co. v. Los Angeles County (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 16, 26, 61 Cal. Rptr. 618] .

[b] Penal Statutes or Ordinances

Declaratory relief is not foreclosed simply because the subject matter of the action is a penal statute or ordinance, but declaratory relief is properly denied if the factual matrix is insufficiently set to permit a useful and intelligent adjudication to be made or if the issues can be better decided in a criminal proceeding. The character of the challenged statute or ordinance is merely one factor to be considered with all the other circumstances to determine the propriety of granting declaratory relief [California Water & Tel. Co. v. Los Angeles County (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 16, 24, 61 Cal. Rptr. 618] . A person need not violate or plan to violate a penal statute or ordinance before he or she can obtain a declaration construing it and deciding its application to him or her [California Water & Tel. Co. v. Los Angeles County (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 16, 24, 61 Cal. Rptr. 618] .

When the applicant for declaratory relief seeks interpretation of a penal statute or ordinance and a determination that it does or does not apply to him or her, but no constitutional issue is raised, relief has been denied when the applicant's activity was undertaken purely for personal pleasure, but granted when the activity was business related [compare Manchel v. County of Los Angeles (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 501, 507-511, 54 Cal. Rptr. 53 (whether or not card game played for pleasure was game of chance within meaning of ordinance) with Finster v. Keller (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 836, 847, 96 Cal. Rptr. 241 (whether or not distribution of blank horse racing forms involved lottery)].

Declaratory relief is proper to determine whether material is obscene within the meaning of a penal statute when the plaintiff contends that the matter is not obscene and that he or she wishes to sell it, but the defendant intends to prosecute anyone who sells the material [Zeitlin v. Arnebergh (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 901, 904-908, 31 Cal. Rptr. 800, 383 P.2d 152] . Once criminal charges have been brought, however, there is a speedy and adequate method available in the criminal proceeding for determining whether the material in question is obscene, and declaratory judgment is not necessary [Miller v. State of California (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 202, 204-205, 85 Cal. Rptr. 801] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsDiscretionCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsStays of ProceedingsMultiple Claims & PartiesContracts LawRemediesEquitable ReliefUnclean HandsGovernmentsLegislationTypes of Statutes

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.21

§ 182.21 Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings by Defendant

A defendant may move for a judgment on the pleadings on the grounds either that (1) the court has no jurisdiction of the subject of the cause of action alleged in the complaint, or (2) the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 438(c)(1)(B); see generally Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings]. The grounds for the motion must appear on the face of the challenged pleading or from any matter of which the court is required to take judicial notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 438(d); see Evid. Code §§ 451, 453]. The motion may granted with or without leave to amend [Code Civ. Proc. § 438(h)(1)].

Under common law, a motion for judgment on the pleadings may admit as true all the well-pleaded facts alleged in it and seek, as a matter of law, particular declarations of the rights and duties of the parties as set forth in the notice of motion with respect to the admitted allegations. The motion may be granted without giving plaintiff an opportunity to amend, in which case a judgment on the merits declaring the rights of the parties may be entered [Wilson v. Board of Retirement (1957) 156 Cal. App. 2d 195, 199-200, 319 P.2d 426 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 438(h)(3) (granting statutory motion without leave to amend)].

Thus, a motion for judgment on the pleadings may be used in an action for declaratory relief to obtain a declaratory judgment on the merits in the defendant's favor rather than a dismissal of the plaintiff's suit [Fisher v. City of Berkeley (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 644, 679 n.31, 209 Cal. Rptr. 682, 693 P.2d 261 ; Vehicular Residents Assn. v. Agnos (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 996, 998, 272 Cal. Rptr. 216] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJurisdictionSubject Matter JurisdictionJurisdiction Over ActionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticeDefenses, Demurrers & ObjectionsFailures to State ClaimsCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePretrial JudgmentsJudgment on the Pleadings

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.22

§ 182.22 Precedence of Action on Trial Calendar

Except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1062.3(b) (discussed below) actions for declaratory relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 are required to be set for trial at the earliest possible date and to take precedence of all other cases, except older matters of the same character and matters to which special precedence may be given by law [Code Civ. Proc. § 1062.3(a)]. In order for an action to come within the purview of this requirement, however, it must, in fact and in substance, be one for declaratory relief. If an action is mistitled as one for declaratory relief for the sole purpose of obtaining a preference on the calendar, the court has power to prohibit the preference [Kessloff v. Pearson (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 609, 613-614, 233 P.2d 899] . Undeserving cases should be disposed of in a summary manner, as on demurrer [Travers v. Louden (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 926, 932, 62 Cal. Rptr. 654] .

If plaintiff seeks relief in addition to a declaration of rights and duties, the action will take precedence only on noticed motion and a showing that the action requires a speedy trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 1062.3(b); see discussion and forms in Ch. 425, Pretrial Proceedings].

Code Civ. Proc. § 1062.3 does not purport to override the discretionary power given the trial court to deny declaratory relief in any case when its declaration or determination is not necessary or proper at the time under all the circumstances [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1061; see also discussion in § 182.20 above]. It also does not compel the trial court to delay the trial of coercive actions until after trial of the declaratory relief action merely because coercive actions might involve the determination of the same or a somewhat similar issue [State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 428, 433, 304 P.2d 13] . However, a trial court must stay a declaratory judgment action if resolution of that action would require determination of factual issues that will necessarily be determined in the underlying coercive action [see Great Am. Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 221, 235, 100 Cal. Rptr. 3d 258 ; California Ins. Guarantee Assn. v. Superior Court (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1617, 1623-1624, 1628, 283 Cal. Rptr. 104 ; see also § 182.20[3]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsDiscretionCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsDiscretionCivil ProcedurePretrial MattersConferencesCase Management

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.23

§ 182.23 Jury Trial

Whether a right to jury trial [see Cal. Const., Art I, § 16] exists depends on whether the issues to be tried in the declaratory relief action are equitable or legal in nature [Interinsurance Exchange v. Savior (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 691, 694, 124 Cal. Rptr. 239]. This may be determined from the relief sought as well as from the nature of the facts stated in the complaint [Dills v. Delira Corp. (1956) 145 Cal. App. 2d 124, 128, 302 P.2d 397]. If the issues to be tried are legal and there was a common law right to trial of those issues by jury in 1850 when California became a state, the right to trial by jury exists [Interinsurance Exchange v. Savior (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 691, 693-694, 124 Cal. Rptr. 239 ; Dills v. Delira Corp. (1956) 145 Cal. App. 2d 124, 128, 302 P.2d 397 ; see generally Ch. 322, Juries and Jury Selection]. For example, if the declaratory relief action is in effect a substitute for an action at law for breach of contract, the parties are entitled to a jury trial as a matter of right [Interinsurance Exchange v. Savior (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 691, 694, 124 Cal. Rptr. 239 ; Patterson v. Insurance Co. of North America (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 310, 315, 85 Cal. Rptr. 665 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 592; Evid. Code § 312].

Although the gist of the action may be equitable, particular significant and separate issues that were actionable at common law must be heard by a jury if there is an appropriate demand [Dills v. Delira Corp. (1956) 145 Cal. App. 2d 124, 128, 302 P.2d 397 ; see State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 428, 431, 304 P.2d 13] . The equitable issues are tried first since they may determine the lawsuit and prevent a more costly jury trial [Dills v. Delira Corp. (1956) 145 Cal. App. 2d 124, 129, 302 P.2d 397] .

If the action is addressed solely to the equity powers of the court, the matter is one for the trial court, alone or sitting with an advisory jury [Dills v. Delira Corp. (1956) 145 Cal. App. 2d 124, 128, 302 P.2d 397] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsRight

to Jury Trial

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.24

§ 182.24 Judgment on the Merits

The court may make a binding declaration of the rights and duties of the parties whether further relief is or could be claimed at the time, and such declaration may be had before there has been any breach of the obligation in respect to which the declaration is sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060; see also Zeitlin v. Arnebergh (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 901, 905-906, 31 Cal. Rptr. 800, 383 P.2d 152 ; Chas. L. Harney, Inc. v. Contractors' Bd. (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 561, 564, 247 P.2d 913 ; Walker v. Munro (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 67, 74-75, 2 Cal. Rptr. 737] . The declaration may be either affirmative or negative in form and effect and has the force of a final judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060].

The court is under a duty to make a complete determination and disposition of the controversy. Hence, it should resolve all questions actually involved in the case as between the respective parties and make a full and complete declaration, disposing of all questions of rights, status, or other legal relations encountered in construing the instrument or other matter before it [see Amerson v. Christman (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 811, 823, 68 Cal. Rptr. 378 ; see also Anderson v. Southern Pac. Co. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 230, 234, 70 Cal. Rptr. 389] . Jurisdiction to completely settle all questions includes legal as well as equitable issues [Anderson v. Southern Pac. Co. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 230, 234, 70 Cal. Rptr. 389] . In addition to declaring the rights of the parties, the court may grant any relief consistent with the evidence and the pleadings [Kroepsch v. Muma (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 467, 474, 77 Cal. Rptr. 348] .

The judgment must decree, and not suggest, what the parties may or may not do [Zetterberg v. State Dept. of Public Health (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 657, 661, 664, 118 Cal. Rptr. 100] . But that does not preclude any party from obtaining additional relief based on the same facts [Code Civ. Proc. § 1062; see discussion in § 182.15, above]. That is, one who obtains a declaratory judgment has not thereby forfeited the right to obtain coercive relief in the same or a subsequent action, although a litigant who is determined not to have any rights may not relitigate the claim in quest of different relief [Dills v. Delira Corp. (1956) 145 Cal. App. 2d 124, 130-131, 302 P.2d 397] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.25

§ 182.25 Actions in Federal Courts

In a case of actual controversy within its jurisdiction, except with respect to taxes, any federal court may, on the filing of an appropriate pleading, declare the rights and other legal relations of any interested party seeking such determination, whether or not further relief is or could be sought [28 U.S.C. § 2201; see Ch. 265, Federal Courts: Jurisdiction and Removal]. Further necessary or proper relief based on a declaratory judgment may be granted, after notice and hearing, against any adverse party whose rights have been determined by such a judgment [28 U.S.C. § 2202]. The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure contain a rule implementing these provisions [see Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 57].

For detailed discussion of declaratory relief actions in federal courts, see Moore's Federal Practice, Third Edition, Ch. 57, Declaratory Judgments (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJusticiabilityCase or Controversy RequirementsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsFederal JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsFederal JudgmentsScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 182.26-182.39

[Reserved]

§§ 182.26[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.40

§ 182.40 Related Matthew Bender Publications

For memoranda of points and authorities relating to forms in this chapter, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 67, Declaratory Relief

For discussion of declaratory relief actions in federal courts, see Moore's Federal Practice, Third Edition, Ch. 57, Declaratory Judgments

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsFederal JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.41

§ 182.41 Federal Statutes and Rules

Declaratory relief in federal courts. 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201, 2202; Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 57

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsFederal JudgmentsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.42

§ 182.42 State Statutes

[1] Declaratory Relief

Jurisdiction of cross actions. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 86(a)(7), 1060

Jurisdiction of action. Code Civ. Proc. § 1060; Gov. Code § 11350; Unemp. Ins. Code § 409.2

When action lies. Code Civ. Proc. § 1060

Generally. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1060-1062.5

Power of court to refuse. Code Civ. Proc. § 1061

Nature of remedy as cumulative. Code Civ. Proc. § 1062

Precedence of action on calendar. Code Civ. Proc. § 1062.5

Action to test validity of administrative regulation. Gov. Code § 11350

Action to test validity of regulation ordered repealed or disapproved by Office of Administrative Law. Gov. Code § 11350.3

Action to test validity of precedent decision of Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board. Unemp. Ins. Code § 409.2

[2] Related Actions and Proceedings

Action to determine adverse interests in real property arising out of public improvement assessment or bond. Code Civ. Proc. § 801.1 et seq.

Action to determine validity of bonds, warrants, contracts, obligations, and evidences of indebtedness of public agency. Code Civ. Proc. § 860 et seq.

Action to determine residence or nonresidence for personal income tax purposes. Code Civ. Proc. § 1060.5

Action to declare rights, duties, and obligations under policy of professional liability insurance issued to health care provider. Code Civ. Proc. § 1062.5

Action by public entity or nonprofit organization owning property sought to be condemned for state highway purposes to determine which public use is best and most necessary public use for property. Code Civ. Proc. § 1240.690

Action by regional park district when lands are sought to be condemned for city or county road, street, or highway purposes to determine which public use is best and most necessary public use for such property. Code Civ. Proc. § 1240.700

Escheat proceeding. Code Civ. Proc. § 1410 et seq.

Action to determine validity of election or appointment of director of corporation. Corp. Code § 709

Action to determine and declare validity of marriage. Fam. Code § 309

Action to declare existence or nonexistence of parent-child relationship. Fam. Code § 7630 et seq.

Proceeding to judicially establish fact, time, and place of birth, death, or marriage. Health & Safety Code § 103450 et seq.

Proceeding to determine heirship. Prob. Code § 11700 et seq.

Proceeding to establish and report fact of death affecting interest in real or personal property. Prob. Code § 200 et seq.

Action for declaration of rights in jointly used conduits, wells, or pumping plants. Water Code § 7005 et seq.

Action to determine validity of water district assessment. Water Code § 30066

Action for declaratory and equitable relief to restrain violation of Coastal Act, cease and desist order, or restoration order. Pub. Res. Code § 30803

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency RulemakingState ProceedingsCivil ProcedureJurisdictionSubject Matter JurisdictionJurisdiction Over ActionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsDiscretionCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.43

§ 182.43 Decisions

[1] Appeal

Appellate court has authority to determine as matter of law whether declaratory relief is proper remedy when facts are undisputed, even though "abuse of discretion" standard ordinarily applies to trial court's demurrer-dismissal of declaratory relief action. CJL Construction, Inc. v. Universal Plumbing (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 376, 391, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 360

Review of trial court's decision in declaratory relief action as limited to abuse of discretion from which it appears that injury resulting from wrong is sufficiently grave to amount to manifest miscarriage of justice. Interstate Marina Development Co. v. County of Los Angeles (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 435, 443-444, 202 Cal. Rptr. 377

Although appeal in declaratory relief action presenting only abstract or academic questions should as general rule be dismissed as moot, appeal as not moot or subject to dismissal if question to be decided is of general public interest or if there is likelihood of recurrence of controversy between same parties or others, or if there remain material questions for court's determination. Grier v. Alameda-Contra Costa Transit Dist. (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 325, 330, 127 Cal. Rptr. 525

Judgment dismissing cross complaint for declaratory relief after trial court improperly sustained demurrer thereto as affirmed when reversal of judgment inevitably will result in judgment adverse to appellant as matter of law. Pylon, Inc. v. Olympic Ins. Co. (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 643, 657, 77 Cal. Rptr. 72

Judgment in declaratory relief action that fails to determine all rights between parties under lease as subject to modification on appeal to supply that which should have been determined by trial court, under rule of liberal construction of constitutional and statutory provisions empowering reviewing court to affirm, modify, or direct entry of final judgment, toward end that cause may be disposed of on single appeal. Cinmark Investment Co. v. Reichard (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 498, 502, 54 Cal. Rptr. 810

[2] Attorney's Fees

Mutuality of remedy provision under Civ. Code § 1717 as entitling nonsigning defendant, who is sued as if party to contract, to recover attorney's fees if he or she prevails, when contract provides for recovery of fees by prevailing party. Reynolds Metals Co. v. Alperson (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 124, 128, 158 Cal. Rptr.1 ; Milman v. Shukhat (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 538, 543, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 526

Attorney's fees incurred by insured, whether in capacity of plaintiff seeking declaration of rights under insurance policy or as defendant in declaratory relief action brought by insurer as being burden of insured, and in absence of some special statute or particular provision in policy as being required to be borne by insured. Carroll v. Hanover Insurance Co. (1968) 266 Cal. App. 2d 47, 49-51, 71 Cal. Rptr. 868 ; see also Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. v. Harbor Ins. Co. (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 105, 112-115, 149 Cal. Rptr. 313 (and cases there discussed)

[3] Availability of Declaratory Relief on Denial of Certiorari

Judgment of superior court affirming judgment of conviction in justice court under admittedly unconstitutional statute as not subject to attack by writ of certiorari in court of appeal or Supreme Court for reason that superior court has jurisdiction to decide appeal wrongly as well as rightly; availability of declaratory relief to challenge constitutionality of statute or ordinance as sufficient answer to claim that nonavailability of certiorari deprives persons whose rights have been prejudiced by action of tribunals of inferior jurisdiction under unconstitutional statutes of all recourse to higher courts. Portnoy v. Superior Court (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 375, 378, 125 P.2d 487

[4] Complaint

Sufficiency of complaint for declaratory relief. Bennett v. Hibernia Bank (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 540, 549-550, 305 P.2d 20 ; Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 728, 730, 146 P.2d 673 ; Southern Counties Gas Co. v. Ventura Pipeline Constr. Co. (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 372, 377, 96 Cal. Rptr. 825 Jones v. Daly (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 500, 511, 176 Cal. Rptr. 130

Action for declaratory relief as not requiring plaintiff to allege damages in complaint. Twain Harte Homeowners Assn. v. Patterson (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 184, 188, 239 Cal. Rptr. 316

Declaratory relief as required to be granted when facts justifying that course are sufficiently alleged. Walker v. County of Los Angeles (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 626, 636 ; Columbia Pictures Corp. v. DeToth (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 753, 762, 161 P.2d 217 ; LePage v. Oakland (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 689, 693, 91 Cal. Rptr. 806

Declaratory relief complaint challenging constitutionality of ordinance as not required to plead specifics. Subriar v. Bakersfield (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 175, 212, 130 Cal. Rptr. 853

To state cause of action for declaratory relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 1060, one invoking that remedy as required to allege facts from which court may determine that actual controversy relating to legal rights and duties of respective parties exists. Lord v. Garland (1946) 27 Cal. 2d 840, 851, 168 P.2d 5

Existence of actual controversy between parties as required to be alleged. Alturas v. City of Gloster (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 46, 48, 104 P.2d 810 ; Escondido Mut. Water Co. v. George A. Hillebrecht, Inc. (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 410, 412-413, 50 Cal. Rptr. 495

Complaint alleging actual controversy as to ordinance as entitling plaintiff to declaratory relief. C. Dudley De Velbiss Co. v. Kraintz (1951) 101 Cal. App. 2d 612, 615, 225 P.2d 969

Failure to allege facts in complaint from which court may assume that actual controversy exists between parties and alleging mere bare conclusion to that effect as insufficient. Alturas v. Gloster (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 46, 48, 104 P.2d 810 ; see American Mission Army Inc. v. Lynwood (1956) 138 Cal. App. 2d 817, 819, 292 P.2d 533

Party seeking declaratory relief as required to plead facts rather than conclusions of law and as required to show a controversy of concrete actuality as opposed to one which is merely academic or hypothetical. Hagan v. Fairfield (1965) 238 Cal. App. 2d 197, 202, 47 Cal. Rptr. 600 ; Auberry Union School Dist. v. Rafferty (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 599, 603, 38 Cal. Rptr. 223

Complaint seeking declaratory relief as required to allege facts which justify declaration of rights or obligations in respect of matter of "controversy," the controversy being "actual" within purview of Code Civ. Proc. § 1060, and involving justiciable rights. Wilson v. Los Angeles County Civ. Serv. Com. (1951) 106 Cal. App. 2d 572, 577, 235 P.2d 620 (adding that requirement is met by allegations showing controversy respecting rights of parties to written instrument, accompanied by request that these rights be determined and declared)

Complaint for declaratory relief by sublessor against sublessee alleging that owner of premises claims leased premises were damaged in amount in excess of $2,400 during defendant's and its predecessor's subtenancy, that owner has made demand on plaintiff for payment of such damages, that if damages were done, defendant is liable for it, that defendant denies such liability, and praying for declaration as to whether damage was done and if so whether defendant is liable for it as good against general demurrer. Schafer v. Wholesale Frozen Foods, Inc. (1959) 171 Cal. App. 2d 232, 235, 340 P.2d 308

Complaint seeking declaration that by reason of federal price freeze under federal legislation, defendant's option to renew lease, with renewal rental subject to agreement or arbitration, had become impossible to perform as stating cause of action for declaratory relief. Patel v. Athow (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 727, 731-734, 110 Cal. Rptr. 460

Rule that complaint is to be liberally construed as particularly applicable to one for declaratory relief. City of Tiburon v. Northwestern Pac. R.R. Co. (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 160, 170, 84 Cal. Rptr. 469 ; Strozier v. Williams (1960) 187 Cal. App. 2d 528, 531, 9 Cal. Rptr. 683

[5] Controversy

In action by third party under Ins. Code § 790.03(h) (duty to settle insurance claim in good faith), absence of prior final determination of civil action between insured and insurers, as required, rendered any declaration advisory only; declaratory relief not available based on speculative and hypothetical contingencies. Green v. Travelers Indemnity Co. (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 544, 557, 230 Cal. Rptr. 13 ; but see Moradi-Shalal v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Companies (1988) 46 Cal. 3d 287, 297-305, 250 Cal. Rptr. 116, 758 P.2d 58 (abrogating private third-party claims under Ins. Code § 790.03)

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1060, action in declaratory relief as required to be based on "actual controversy" between parties. State v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 249, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 ; see Pittenger v. Home Sav. & L. Ass'n (1958) 166 Cal. App. 2d 32, 36, 332 P.2d 399

Fact that issue raised in declaratory relief action is of broad general interest as no ground for courts to grant such relief in absence of true justiciable controversy. Zetterberg v. State Dept. of Public Health (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 657, 662, 118 Cal. Rptr. 100

Justiciable controversy as required to be definite, concrete, and touching legal relations of parties having adverse interests. LePage v. Oakland (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 689, 692, 91 Cal. Rptr. 806

Whether justiciability exists in jurisdictional sense in declaratory relief action as within sound discretion of trial court. Tehachapi-Cummings County Water Dist. v. Armstrong (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 992, 998, 122 Cal. Rptr. 918

Citizen's mere dissatisfaction with performance of either legislative or executive branch of government or disagreement with its policies, or difference of opinion as to interpretation of a statute between citizen and governmental agency, as not giving rise to a justiciable controversy. Zetterberg v. State Dept. of Public Health (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 657, 662, 118 Cal. Rptr. 100

Justiciable controversy as existing in declaratory relief action by lessee against lessor in determining duty of lessor under lease to replace worn out elevator where dispute presents question to which there is more than one answer. Western Motors Corp. v. Land Dev. & Inv. Co. (1957) 152 Cal. App. 2d 509, 511-512, 313 P.2d 927

Action for declaratory relief as dismissed where it appears that no justiciable controversy exists. Pittenger v. Home Sav. & L. Ass'n (1958) 166 Cal. App. 2d 32, 36, 332 P.2d 399

[6] Cross Complaint

Defendant precluded from bringing declaratory relief claim by way of a cross complaint that could have been asserted as affirmative defense. C.J.L. Construction, Inc. v. Universal Plumbing (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 376, 391, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 360

Cause of action solely for declaratory relief as permitted to be set up by cross complaint. Sattinger v. Newbauer (1954) 123 Cal. App. 2d 365, 370, 266 P.2d 586 ; see also People ex rel. Dept. of Parks and Recreation v. West-A-Rama, Inc. (1973) 35 Cal. App3d 786, 789, 111 Cal. Rptr. 197 ; Pylon, Inc. v. Olympic Ins. Co. (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 643, 647, 77 Cal. Rptr. 72

[7] Defenses

In declaratory relief action by former husband seeking determination of his obligations under property settlement agreement where complaint on its face shows agreement was illegal, doctrine of in pari delicto (unclean hands) as element properly considered by trial court in concluding that declaratory relief was not proper under facts of case. Moss v. Moss (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 640, 644, 128 P.2d 526

When statute of limitations bars action for declaratory relief. Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 734, 146 P.2d 673 ; Pena v. Los Angeles (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 257, 262-263, 87 Cal. Rptr. 326 ; see also Bennett v. Hibernia Bank (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 540, 559, 305 P.2d 20

When action for declaratory relief is barred by laches. Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 735-737, 146 P.2d 673

When action for declaratory relief is barred by res judicata. Bennett v. Hibernia Bank (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 540, 550, 554, 305 P.2d 20

Fact that governmental immunity applies to liability on which declaratory relief action is based as defense to latter action. People v. Buellton Dev. Co. (1943) 58 Cal. App. 2d 178, 185, 136 P.2d 793

[8] Demurrer

General demurrer is not appropriate means of testing merits of controversy in declaratory relief action, because plaintiff is entitled to declaration of rights even if it is adverse; however, if issue is purely one of law, reviewing court may consider merits of legal controversy on appeal from judgment of dismissal following order sustaining demurrer, and opinion of reviewing court will constitute declaration of legal rights and duties of parties concerning matter in controversy. Taxpayers for Improving Pub. Safety v. Schwarzenegger (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 749, 769, 91 Cal. Rptr. 3d 370

In action for declaratory relief under Ins. Code § 790.03(h) (duty to settle third party insurance claim in good faith), which requires prior final determination of insured-insurer litigation, demurrer as properly sustained when underlying action was not finally determined, because no present and actual controversy exists between parties. Green v. Travelers Indemnity Co. (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 544, 557, 230 Cal. Rptr. 13 ; but see Moradi-Shalal v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Companies (1988) 46 Cal. 3d 287, 297-305, 250 Cal. Rptr. 116, 758 P.2d 58 (abrogating private third-party claims under Ins. Code § 790.03)

Trial court's error in sustaining general demurrer to complaint that satisfied requirements for declaratory relief as not prejudicial when it is clear on face of complaint that plaintiff's position was untenable and matter would be ended by declaration adverse to plaintiff despite Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 provision entitling party to declaration of rights and duties even if eventual declaration is adverse to party's interests. Jones v. Daly (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 500, 511, 176 Cal. Rptr. 130

Trial court as properly sustaining general demurrer to complaint where facts pleaded by plaintiff justify refusal of relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 1061, authorizing court to refuse relief where its declaration or determination is not necessary or proper at time under all the circumstances. Lord v. Garland (1946) 27 Cal. 2d 840, 852, 168 P.2d 5

Complaint for declaratory relief that shows on its face that action is barred by statute of limitations as subject to general demurrer. See Bennett v. Hibernia Bank (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 540, 550, 305 P.2d 20 ; Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 733-735, 146 P.2d 673

Complaint for declaratory relief that shows on its face that entire controversy has been settled by prior judgment as subject to general demurrer on ground of res judicata. Bennett v. Hibernia Bank (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 540, 550, 305 P.2d 20

Trial court as acting within its discretion in sustaining without leave to amend demurrer to plaintiffs' complaint seeking declaratory relief with respect to enforcement of police commission regulation requiring every officer, when off duty or on duty in civilian dress, to be equipped with revolver, notwithstanding plaintiffs' contention that complaint for declaratory relief is not vulnerable to demurrer if actual controversy is well stated where no controversy about meaning of regulation exists. Stribling v. Mailliard (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 470, 475, 85 Cal. Rptr. 924

Declaratory relief complaint of store and its employee, sued as third-party tortfeasors following accident in which trucking company operator was injured during unloading operations at store, seeking adjudication that defendant insurance company was obligated to defend and pay any judgment in tort action brought by employee of defendant's insured as sufficient against general demurrer. Safeway Stores, Inc. v. Royal Indem. Co. (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 44, 48-50

Demurrer to complaint for declaratory relief as not to be sustained without leave to amend where, although complaint is indefinitely or defectively drawn, it reflects that plaintiff has a cause of action and is subject to amendment. London Assur. Co. v. Anderson (1961) 194 Cal. App. 2d 418, 422-423, 15 Cal. Rptr. 13 ; see Strozier v. Williams (1960) 187 Cal. App. 2d 528, 531, 9 Cal. Rptr. 683

[9] Enforcement of Judgment

Jurisdiction of court to enforce its decrees as coextensive with its jurisdiction to determine rights of parties. Klinker v. Klinker (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 687, 694, 283 P.2d 83

[10] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

Requirement that party aggrieved by application of statute or ordinance must invoke and exhaust administrative remedies provided before resorting to courts for relief. Pan Pac. Properties, Inc. v. Santa Cruz County (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 244, 249, 146 Cal. Rptr. 428

Exhaustion of administrative remedies as jurisdictional prerequisite to court review. McHugh v. County of Santa Cruz (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 533, 538-539, 109 Cal. Rptr. 149 ; see also Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 280, 292-293, 109 P.2d 942 ; Mountain View Chamber of Commerce v. City of Mountain View (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 82, 88, 143 Cal. Rptr. 441

Fact some of plaintiffs are proceeding via class action as not per se making an exception to exhaustion doctrine. Mountain View Chamber of Commerce v. City of Mountain View (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 82, 96, 143 Cal. Rptr. 441

Fact that statute is challenged on constitutional grounds as not excusing failure to exhaust administrative remedies. Subriar v. Bakersfield (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 175, 193, 130 Cal. Rptr. 853

California law as settled that doctrine of exhaustion of administrative remedies applies to constitutional challenges of zoning ordinances. Mountain View Chamber of Commerce v. City of Mountain View (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 82, 93, 143 Cal. Rptr. 441

Exceptions to exhaustion of administrative remedies doctrine. Ogo Associates v. City of Torrance (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 830, 834, 112 Cal. Rptr. 761 ; see also Mountain View Chamber of Commerce v. City of Mountain View (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 82, 88-98, 143 Cal. Rptr. 441

[11] Failure to Seek Coercive Relief in Declaratory Action

Failure in declaratory relief action to seek coercive relief which plaintiff may then possess as part of application for declaratory judgment as not barring future proceedings to enforce rights determined by declaratory judgment. Southern Counties Gas Co. v. Ventura Pipeline Constr. Co. (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 372, 382, 96 Cal. Rptr. 825 ; Lortz v. Connell (1968) 273 Cal. App. 2d 286, 300, 78 Cal. Rptr. 6

[12] Improper Actions

Superior court lacked subject matter jurisdiction to grant declaratory relief in form of determination that Workers' Compensation statute (Lab. Code § 5955) is invalid, given statutory scheme for review of these statutes, which recognizes that such invalidation would interfere with ability of Workers' Compensation Appeals Board to comply with its duties. Greener v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 6 Cal. 4th 1028, 1040, 1042-1043, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 539

Cause of action for declaratory relief is improper when it is pleaded as alternate means of recovering damages from defendant who is shielded by statutory immunity. Tokeshi v. State of California (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 999, 1008-1009, 266 Cal. Rptr. 255

Declaratory relief actions brought by firefighters' union and individuals were not maintainable to determine validity of local propositions adopted by city electorate that amended city charter, because exclusive method of attack on city charter amendments lies in quo warranto action that may only be brought by Attorney General. International Assn. of Firefighters v. City of Oakland (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 687, 694-698

Declaratory relief is not appropriate method of judicial review of administrative order or decision. State of Cal. v. Superior Court (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 249, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 ; Selby Realty Co. v. City of San Buenaventura (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 110, 127, 109 Cal. Rptr. 799, 514 P.2d 111

Declaratory relief action is not maintainable to determine validity and construction of proposed, as opposed to existing, contract. Escondido Mut. Water Co. v. George A. Hillebrecht, Inc. (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 410, 412, 50 Cal. Rptr. 495

Declaratory relief action is improper where only matters raised are constitutional points in which plaintiff has no interest greater than that of public generally. Rowland School Dist. v. State Bd. of Educ. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 589, 593, 70 Cal. Rptr. 504

Dispute which is subject of another action pending between same parties is not subject to independent action for declaratory relief. Taliaferro v. Taliaferro (1960) 179 Cal. App. 2d 787, 791, 4 Cal. Rptr. 689

Court lacks jurisdiction to declare terms and conditions of dissolution of corporation to occur at some future time. Escondido Mut. Water Co. v. George A. Hillebrecht, Inc. (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 410, 415-416, 50 Cal. Rptr. 495

Dismissal of automobile liability insurer's action seeking declaration that insured's employee was not acting as insured's agent or driving insured vehicle with permission at time of accident was proper where previous action for damages for personal injury and property damage was pending and issue sought to be determined was same as that involved in pending action. Allstate Ins. Co. v. Fisher (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 391, 394-398, 107 Cal. Rptr. 251

Declaratory relief that book is not obscene was not available to publisher where book has already been distributed and criminal complaint against plaintiff is already on file. Miller v. California (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 202, 203-205, 85 Cal. Rptr. 801

Dismissal of action for declaration that Penal Code § 311.2, which prohibits exhibition and sale of obscene material, is unconstitutional and that plaintiffs had constitutional right to judicial determination respecting obscenity of items seized was proper where plaintiffs had adequate remedy at law [see Penal Code §§ 1538.5-1540] to test validity of seizures of property claimed to be obscene. Holden v. Arnebergh (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 87, 91-92, 71 Cal. Rptr. 401

Declaratory relief action is not available to challenge existence of de facto or de jure municipal corporations where party seeking relief is one who could not maintain quo warranto action in own name and statutory remedy provided is action in quo warranto. Cooper v. Leslie Salt Co. (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 627, 634, 75 Cal. Rptr. 766, 451 P.2d 406

Declaratory relief to determine collectibility of tax is improper where tax statute provides that no injunction, writ of mandate, or other legal or equitable process shall issue to prevent or enjoin collection of tax and demurrer to complaint was properly sustained without leave to amend. Casey v. Bonelli (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 253, 254-255, 208 P.2d 723 ; see also Honeywell, Inc. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 907, 912, 122 Cal. Rptr. 243 (and cases there cited)

[13] Injunctive Relief

Where plaintiff has failed to prove any facts which would entitle him to any affirmative relief beyond declaration of his rights, issuance of injunction as error. California Water & Tel. Co. v. Los Angeles County (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 16, 32, 61 Cal. Rptr. 618

[14] Judgment

Proof of contract produced by defendant rather than of contract alleged by plaintiff as matter of variance of proof, not fatal failure of proof, because defendant was not surprised or prejudiced and contracts covered same subject matter; thus, judgment could be entered in plaintiff's favor; cause of action for breach of contract and declaratory relief as not so different that court cannot grant latter based on evidence actually produced at trial of action for breach of contract and accounting. Fineberg v. Niekerk (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 935, 939-941, 221 Cal. Rptr. 106

Judgment on the merits after granting motion for judgment on the pleadings seeking particular declaration of rights of parties. Wilson v. Board of Retirement (1957) 156 Cal. App. 2d 195, 199-201, 319 P.2d 426

Court as properly granting any relief consistent with evidence and pleadings. Kroepsch v. Muma (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 467, 474, 77 Cal. Rptr. 348

Damages as proper part of judgment holding plaintiff aggrieved by action of municipality in discharging plaintiff civil service employee under unconstitutional statute prohibiting political activity. Kinnear v. City & County of San Francisco (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 341, 343-344, 38 Cal. Rptr. 631, 392 P.2d 391 ; see also Southern Counties Gas Co. v. Ventura Pipeline Constr. Co. (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 372, 380, 96 Cal. Rptr. 825 ; Travers v. Louden (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 926, 931, 62 Cal. Rptr. 654

[15] Jurisdiction

Jurisdiction of court to render money judgment in action for declaratory relief. California Bank v. Diamond (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 387, 390, 301 P.2d 60

Court as assuming jurisdiction of entire controversy where complaint for declaratory relief pleads facts sufficient to entitle plaintiff to some equitable relief. Mills v. Mills (1956) 147 Cal. App. 2d 107, 116, 305 P.2d 61 ; see also Klinker v. Klinker (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 687, 694, 283 P.2d 83

[16] Jury and Nonjury Trial

If declaratory relief action is addressed to equity powers of court, matter as one for trial court alone or sitting with an advisory jury. Dills v. Delira Corp. (1956) 145 Cal. App. 2d 124, 128, 302 P.2d 397

Where declaratory relief action is in effect substitute for action at law for breach of contract, parties as entitled to jury trial as matter of right. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Superior Court of San Francisco (1956) 304 P.2d 13 (disapproving Kaliterna v. Wright (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 926, 212 P.2d 32); Interinsurance Exchange v. Savior (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 691, 694, 124 Cal. Rptr. 239 ; Patterson v. Insurance Co. of North America (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 310, 315, 85 Cal. Rptr. 665

[17] Limitation of Actions

Action on contract for declaratory relief, brought before any breach of contract, as not barred by statute of limitations because no cause of action for coercive remedy has yet accrued and no statute of limitations has yet been set in motion. United Pacific/Reliance Ins. Co. v. DiDomenico (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 673, 676-677, 219 Cal. Rptr. 119

Declaratory relief sought before breach of obligation in respect to which declaration is sought or within statutory period after breach as not barred by lapse of time. Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 734, 146 P.2d 673

Right to declaratory relief as barred by statute of limitations where relief sought is in reference to obligation which has been breached and right to commence action for coercive relief on cause of action arising from breach is barred by statute of limitations. Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 734, 146 P.2d 673 ; Pena v. Los Angeles (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 257, 262-263, 87 Cal. Rptr. 326 ; Leahey v. Department of Water & Power (1946) 76 Cal. App. 2d 281, 286, 173 P.2d 69

[18] Nature of Action

Equitable nature of action for declaratory relief. Westerholm v. 20th Century Ins. Co. (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 628, 632 ; Hollenbeck Lodge v. Wilshire Blvd. Temple (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 469, 476, 346 P.2d 422 ; Mills v. Mills (1956) 147 Cal. App. 2d 107, 116, 305 P.2d 61

Declaratory relief as not strictly legal or equitable, but as sui generis in nature. Moss v. Moss (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 640, 643, 128 P.2d 526 ; Patterson v. Insurance Co. of N. America (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 310, 315, 85 Cal. Rptr. 665

Nature of action as determinable from relief sought and nature of facts stated in complaint. Dills v. Delira Corp. (1956) 145 Cal. App. 2d 124, 128, 302 P.2d 397

[19] Parties

Declaratory relief actions against public officials to adjudge and declare obligations of their office with respect to given factual situation as authorized. Los Angeles County v. State Dep't of Public Health (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 425, 444, 322 P.2d 968 ; see also Bess v. Park (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 49, 52-53, 281 P.2d 556

Specific consent as not requisite to action for declaratory relief brought against public officials and designed to adjudge and declare obligations of their office with respect to given factual situation. Los Angeles County v. State Dep't of Public Health (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 425, 444, 322 P.2d 968

Declaratory relief actions against state or any public agency as permitted where governmental immunity does not exist or is waived. California Physicians' Service v. Garrison (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 790, 800, 172 P.2d 4 ; Hoyt v. Board of Civil Service Commrs. (1942) 21 Cal. 2d 399, 401, 132 P.2d 804 ; Grier v. Alameda-Contra Costa Transit Dist. (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 325, 333, 127 Cal. Rptr. 525

"Interested person" as used in Gov. Code § 11440 [repealed, now see Gov. Code § 11350] and Unemp. Ins. Code § 409.2, authorizing declaratory relief actions to test validity of administrative regulations and predecent decisions of Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board, respectively, as including "interested organization." Pacific Legal Foundation v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1977) 74 Cal. App. 3d 150, 154, 141 Cal. Rptr. 474

"Interested party" entitled under Gov. Code § 11440 [repealed, now see Gov. Code § 11350] to obtain judicial declaration as to validity of administrative regulation. Pacific Motor Transp. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 230, 237-238, 104 Cal. Rptr. 558 (comparing language of Gov. Code § 11440 and Code Civ. Proc. § 1060)

When declaratory relief action is brought against very agency charged with duty of administering or enforcing law and merely challenges validity of agency's ruling, plaintiff as not required to join everyone who may ultimately be affected by court's decision. City of San Joaquin v. State Bd. of Equalization (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 365, 374, 88 Cal. Rptr. 12

[20] Past Wrongs Providing No Basis for Relief

Declaratory relief as operating prospectively, and not merely to redress past wrongs. Sych v. Insurance Co. of North America (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 321, 329 n.5, 220 Cal. Rptr. 692

[21] Power and Function of Court

Broad power of court to grant declaratory relief. Adams v. Cook (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 352, 362, 101 P.2d 484

Proper function of trial court in declaratory relief action as being to make full and complete declaration disposing of all questions of rights, status, or other legal relations encountered in construing instruments before it. Anderson v. Southern Pac. Co. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 230, 234, 70 Cal. Rptr. 389

Gov. Code § 11440 [repealed, now see Gov. Code § 11350] authorizes courts, among other things, to declare emergency regulation invalid on ground that facts recited in statement of emergency do not constitute an emergency within meaning of Gov. Code § 11421(b). Poschman v. Dumke (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 932, 941, 107 Cal. Rptr. 596 (overruled on other grounds in Armistead v. State Personnel Board (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 198, 204, 149 Cal. Rptr. 1, 583 P.2d 744); California Medical Assn. v. Brian (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 637, 649, 106 Cal. Rptr. 555

Function of court in reviewing administrative regulations as being to inquire into their legality, not their wisdom. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. v. Superior Court (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 392, 411, 128 Cal. Rptr. 183, 546 P.2d 687 ; California Medical Assn. v. Brian (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 637, 641, 106 Cal. Rptr. 555 ; Pacific Motor Transp. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 230, 239, 104 Cal. Rptr. 558 .

Court in declaratory relief action as required to do complete justice once jurisdiction has been assumed, and relief thus granted as encompassing future and contingent legal rights. Eye Dog Foundation v. State Board of Guide Dogs for the Blind (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 536, 541, 63 Cal. Rptr. 21, 432 P.2d 717

Determination of future rights as proper when declaration of present and actual controversy is dependent on adjudication of such future rights. Klinker v. Klinker (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 687, 693, 283 P.2d 83

When party comes into court pleading facts entitling him or her to equitable relief, court as assuming jurisdiction of entire controversy and granting relief which proof warrants though it may not be the same as that prayed for. Zimmer v. Gorelnik (1941) 42 Cal. App. 2d 440, 448, 109 P.2d 34

Trial court, in declaratory relief action, as having power to determine disputed questions of fact. Zimmer v. Gorelnik (1941) 42 Cal. App. 2d 440, 446, 109 P.2d 34

To construe regulatory statutes to determine whether business enterprise is subject to them. California Physicians' Serv. v. Garrison (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 790, 800-801, 172 P.2d 4

To determine validity of ordinances. State v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 251, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 ; Walker v. County of Los Angeles (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 626, 636, 12 Cal. Rptr. 671, 361 P.2d

247 ; Abbott v. City of Los Angeles (1960) 53 Cal. 2d 674, 677-678, 3 Cal. Rptr. 158, 349 P.2d 974 (questioned on another point in Bishop v. San Jose (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 56, 62 n. 5, 81 Cal. Rptr. 465, 460 P.2d 137); McCarthy v. Manhattan Beach (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 879, 882, 264 P.2d 932 ; La Franchi v. Santa Rosa (1937) 8 Cal. 2d 331, 332, 65 P.2d 1301 ; Mountain View Chamber of Commerce v. City of Mountain View (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 82, 85-86, 143 Cal. Rptr. 441 ; Subriar v. Bakersfield (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 175, 194-195, 130 Cal. Rptr. 853

[22] Proper Actions

[a] Constitution, Statutes, Ordinances, and Regulations

In action to determine validity of municipal initiative ordinance, party challenging its constitutionality as having burden of showing that it is not reasonably related to promoting public health, safety, comfort, and welfare or that means adopted to accomplish that promotion are not reasonably appropriate for purpose. Higgins v. Santa Monica (1964) 62 Cal. 2d 24, 30-31, 41 Cal. Rptr. 9, 396 P.2d 41

Regulation, adopted by state administrative agency pursuant to delegation of rulemaking authority by Legislature, as having force and effect of statute. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. v. Superior Court (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 392, 401, 128 Cal. Rptr. 183, 546 P.2d 687

To determine validity of statutes. Nevada County v. MacMillen (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 662, 666, 114 Cal. Rptr. 345, 522 P.2d 1345 ; City of Carmel-by-the-Sea v. Young (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 259, 263, 85 Cal. Rptr. 1, 466 P.2d 225 ; Eye Dog Foundation v. State Bd. of Guide Dogs for the Blind (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 536, 541, 63 Cal. Rptr. 21, 432 P.2d 717 ; Zeitlin v. Arnebergh (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 901, 904-907, 31 Cal. Rptr. 800, 383 P.2d 152 ; Lord v. Garland (1946) 27 Cal. 2d 840, 852, 168 P.2d 5 ; Portnoy v. Superior Court (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 375, 378, 125 P.2d 487 ; Sandelin v. Collins (1934) 1 Cal. 2d 147, 149, 33 P.2d 1009 ; Hetherington v. State Personnel Bd. (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 582, 586, 147 Cal. Rptr. 300 ; California Teachers Assn. v. Board of Trustees (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 249, 251, 146 Cal. Rptr. 850 ; Holden v. Arnebergh (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 87, 91-92, 71 Cal. Rptr. 401 Gay Law Students Assn. v. Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 458, 464, 474, 475 (holding discrimination against homosexuals unconstitutional and unlawful, as contravening Cal. Const., art. I, § 7(a), and Pub. Util. Code § 453)

By privately owned water utilities to determine validity of county water ordinance where constitutional amenability of utilities to local regulations has continuing effect on conduct and plans of their business. California Water & Tel. Co. v. Los Angeles County (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 16, 26, 61 Cal. Rptr. 618

To secure interpretation of statutes and ordinances. Walker v. County of Los Angeles (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 626, 637, 12 Cal. Rptr. 671, 361 P.2d 247 ; Finster v. Keller (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 836, 847, 96 Cal. Rptr. 241 ; see also Zeitlin v. Arnebergh (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 901, 905-906, 31 Cal. Rptr. 800, 383 P.2d 152 ; Wollam v. Palm Springs (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 276, 279, 29 Cal. Rptr. 1, 379 P.2d 481

To secure interpretation of city charter provisions. Le Page v. City of Oakland (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 689, 693, 91 Cal. Rptr. 806 ; Squire v. City & County of San Francisco (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 974, 979, 91 Cal. Rptr. 347

To determine validity of administrative regulation. Chas. L. Harney, Inc. v. Contractors' Bd. (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 561, 564, 247 P.2d 913 ; California Optometric Assn. v. Lackner (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 500, 505-506, 131 Cal. Rptr. 744 ; Honeywell, Inc. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 907, 912, 122 Cal. Rptr. 243 ; Antoine v. Department of Public Health (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 215, 220, 108 Cal. Rptr. 689

Statute [Gov. Code § 11440 (repealed, now see Gov. Code § 11350)] as authorizing any interested party to secure judicial declaration as to validity of administrative regulation. Chas. L. Harney, Inc. v. Contractors' Bd. (1952) 39

Cal. 2d 561, 564, 247 P.2d 913 ; California Optometric Assn. v. Lackner (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 500, 505-506, 131 Cal. Rptr. 744 ; Honeywell, Inc. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 907, 912, 122 Cal. Rptr. 243

Declaratory relief as available to determine validity of administrative regulation without performing any act which subjects plaintiff to criminal or disciplinary proceedings. Chas. L. Harney, Inc. v. Contractors' Bd. (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 561, 564, 247 P.2d 913 ; see also Honeywell, Inc. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 907, 912, 122 Cal. Rptr. 243

By municipal employee claiming he was entitled to certain civil service rating that had been denied him; such employee as permitted to seek declaratory judgment of his rights, apply for writ of mandate to compel civil service commission to admit him to position to which he claims he was entitled, or seek both forms of relief concurrently. Leahey v. Department of Water & Power (1964) 76 Cal. App. 2d 281, 285, 173 P.2d 69

To test validity of senatorial reappointment. Yorty v. Anderson (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 312, 317, 33 Cal. Rptr. 97, 384 P.2d 417

To test constitutionality of initiative measure relating to free television. Weaver v. Jordan (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 235, 240, 49 Cal. Rptr. 537, 411 P.2d 289

To challenge validity of county ordinance imposing gross receipts tax. Franklin v. Peterson (1948) 87 Cal. App. 2d 727, 729-730, 197 P.2d 788 (upholding validity)

To test validity of municipal zoning ordinance. Andrews v. City of Piedmont (1929) 100 Cal. App. 700, 700-701, 281 P. 78

[b] Charges and Fees

To resolve controversy over charge imposed on county by Water District in connection with county's use of district's sewerage facilities. County of Riverside v. Idyllwild County Water Dist. (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 655, 657, 148 Cal. Rptr. 650

[c] Contract

To determine controversy based on oral contract. Zimmer v. Gorelnik (1941) 42 Cal. App. 2d 440, 445, 109 P.2d 34 ; see also Columbia Pictures Corp. v. DeToth (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 753, 760-761, 161 P.2d 217

To determine existence of oral contract. Howard v. Howard (1955) 131 Cal. App. 2d 308, 313, 280 P.2d 802

By owner of gasoline service station for declaratory relief and damages against oil corporation for latter's failure to honor clause in its gasoline purchasing contract guaranteeing plaintiff discount on purchase of gasoline for 10 years where such was agreement of parties but written contract without plaintiff's knowledge substituted for 10-year clause a clause giving defendant right to decrease or terminate discount at any time. Steiner v. Mobil Oil Corp. (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 90, 93-94, 141 Cal. Rptr. 157, 569 P.2d 751

[d] Indemnity

Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 as authorizing court to declare party's rights or duties in controversy before breach of obligation with respect to which declaration is sought; cross complaint for equitable indemnity as proper subject for declaratory relief action; cross complainant's right to file cross complaint as arising when complaint is filed. Allen v. Southland Plumbing, Inc. (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 60, 64, 246 Cal. Rptr. 860

By franchisor for declaration that one of franchisee's insurers and insurer of automobile involved in accident between automobile being used by franchisee (but not owned by franchisee) and pedestrian had, as a result of their failure to defend franchisor in action by pedestrian against car driver and franchisor, become liable to indemnify franchisor for its contribution to settlement. Chicken Delight of Cal., Inc. v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 841, 843, 111 Cal. Rptr. 79 (trial court's rejection of franchisor's contention affirmed on appeal)

To secure determination of duty to indemnify where basic action is pending and undecided. Mascarin Professional Pharmacy v. Hart (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 462, 465, 91 Cal. Rptr. 560

By cross complaint in wrongful death action by defendant third-party tortfeasor against decedent's employer for declaration of defendant's right to indemnity from cross defendant pursuant to written indemnity agreement drafted before decedent's death but not signed until after commencement of wrongful death action. Solano Concrete Co. v. Lund Constr. Co. (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 572, 573-574, 134 Cal. Rptr. 552

By city against water district to resolve dispute over which party would have to bear cost of relocating district's pipelines made necessary by city's construction of undercrossing for street under railroad right of way. Anaheim v. Metropolitan Water Dist. of So. Cal. (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 763, 765, 147 Cal. Rptr. 336

[e] Insurance

In a declaratory relief action, an insured seeking to establish that "property damage" caused by asbestos-containing building material falls within policy's coverage may rely upon allegations of injury without evidence of such injury. For the purpose of a declaratory relief action, the court may assume injury even though that assumption may ultimately be disproved in a trial against the insured. Armstrong World Industries, Inc. v Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 1, 88-89, 93-94, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 690

To secure declaration of validity of endorsement to life insurance policy. Estate of Murphy (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 304, 306, 147 Cal. Rptr. 258

By insurer for construction of its policy with insured after insured denied request to defend negligence action for destruction of private plane a few days after insured sold it. Insurance Co. of N. America v. Sam Harris Constr. Co. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 409, 411, 149 Cal. Rptr. 292, 583 P.2d 1335

To determine whether automobile liability policy, providing coverage to members of insured's household, covered insured's wife where spouse had agreed to trial separation and insured was living in apartment at time of accident but family home was still a residence of insured. Reserve Insurance Co. v. Apps (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 228, 230, 149 Cal. Rptr. 223

Between insurance companies to determine obligations under Ins. Code § 11580.9 where each company's policy covered same motor vehicle involved in accident out of which liability arose. Zurich-American Ins. Co. v. Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 481, 483, 149 Cal. Rptr. 472 ; see also Ohio Cas. Ins. Co. v Aetna Ins. Co. (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 521, 522, 149 Cal. Rptr. 562

To secure adjudication as to whether union members remained insured under group life insurance policy after cancellation of policy by union and subsequent cancellation of coverage by insurer. Garage Employees Union v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 706, 711, 82 Cal. Rptr. 821

To determine whether employer's amendment to employees' pension plan and its conduct pursuant to amendment resulted in wrongful diversion of pension trust funds, for actual damages, and for exemplary damages for fraudulent concealment of amendment from employees. Werschkull v. United California Bank (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 981, 985-986, 149 Cal. Rptr. 829

[f] Legality of Proposed Plan

By wholesale distributor of horse-racing publications and liquor store owner who was his customer to determine their right to possess and distribute blank application forms for a "5-10" scheme operated by race track in Mexico for last six races on regular racing days where they alleged threat of prosecution and seizure of forms; defendant district attorney and Attorney General as entitled to affirmative ruling on specially pleaded issue that distribution of such forms was violation of law. Finster v. Keller (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 836, 847-851, 96 Cal. Rptr. 241

By corporate jeweler to determine whether its diamond sales promotional plan constituted sale of securities within meaning of Corp. Code § 25019 where Department of Corporations contended that it did. Hamilton Jewelers v. Department of Corps. (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 330, 332, 112 Cal. Rptr. 387

[g] Liability for Test

By person seeking to have prior default judgment set aside on ground of extrinsic fraud, to have judgment in that action entered in his favor, and to obtain declaration that earlier suit had been maliciously prosecuted where parties stipulated in joint pretrial statement that if default judgment were set aside and an opposite judgment entered, one of issues to be decided was whether former action had been maliciously prosecuted. Munson v. Linnick (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 589, 594-595, 63 Cal. Rptr. 340 (explained and disapproved on another point in Babb v. Superior Court (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 841, 849-850, 92 Cal. Rptr. 179, 479 P.2d 379)

[h] Pension

By retired union employees against trustees of their pension fund to determine validity of termination of benefits. Lix v. Edwards (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 573, 576, 147 Cal. Rptr. 294

[i] Real Property

To secure determination of rights under final decree of distribution to sell property. Talcott v. Talcott (1942) 54 Cal. App. 2d 743, 747-748, 129 P.2d 946

By vendee of real property against beneficiary of trust deed to declare that exercise of "due-on-sale" clause in trust deed, without any showing that beneficiary's security had been impaired as result of sale of property to plaintiff, constituted an unreasonable restraint on alienation in violation of California law. Wellenkamp v. Bank of America (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 943, 947, 148 Cal. Rptr. 379, 582 P.2d 970

[j] Resolution of Issue Following Abstention by Federal Court

Declaratory relief action is proper when federal court has abstained from considering state law issue of public importance and action is not collusive or hypothetical. National Audubon Society v. Superior Court (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 419, 432-433 n.14, 189 Cal. Rptr. 346, 658 P.2d 709

[k] Review of Administrative Agency Policy

Declaratory relief is available under Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 to challenge an administrative agency policy of ignoring or violating applicable laws and regulations, even though no specific agency decision is challenged. Californians for Native Salmon etc. Assn. v Department of Forestry (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1419, 1429-1431, 271 Cal. Rptr. 270

In a declaratory relief action to challenge an administrative agency policy, trial court may consider evidence of agency's policies and practices beyond the record that would have been before an administrative agency if a particular administrative action had been challenged by administrative mandamus. East Bay Mun. Utility Dist. v Department of Forestry & Fire Protection (1996) 43 Cal. App. 4th 1113, 1122-1124, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 299

[23] Purpose and Function of Action

Purpose of declaratory relief. Lachman Bros. v. Muenzer (1956) 143 Cal. App. 2d 520, 524, 300 P.2d 295

Purpose of declaratory judgment as being to serve some practical end in quieting disputed jural relation. American Mission Army Inc. v. Lynwood (1956) 138 Cal. App. 2d 817, 819, 292 P.2d 533

Purpose of action as being to liquidate uncertainties and controversies which might result in future litigation. Interstate Marina Development Co. v. County of Los Angeles (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 435, 443, 202 Cal. Rptr. 377 ; Fagerstedt v. Continental Ins. Co. (1968) 266 Cal. App. 2d 370, 372, 72 Cal. Rptr. 126

Salutary purpose of declaratory relief provisions as being to permit prompt adjudication of respective rights and obligations of parties in order to relieve them from uncertainty and insecurity with respect to rights, status, and other legal relations. Lortz v. Connell (1969) 273 Cal. App. 2d 286, 301, 78 Cal. Rptr. 6

Purpose of judicial declaration of rights in advance of actual tortious incident as being to enable parties to shape their conduct so as to avoid breach. Babb v. Superior Court (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 841, 848, 92 Cal. Rptr. 179, 479 P.2d 379 ; Watson v. Sansone (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 1, 3, 96 Cal. Rptr. 387

Declaratory procedure as operating prospectively and not merely for redress of past wrongs; remedy as used in interests of preventive justice to declare rights rather than to execute them. Travers v. Louden (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 926, 931, 62 Cal. Rptr. 654 ; see also Babb v. Superior Court (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 841, 848, 92 Cal. Rptr. 179, 479 P.2d 379

Function of declaratory relief action as being to determine rights and duties of parties on existing state of facts, although this may include, where necessary, declaration of contingent future rights; action as not having function to declare in advance earliest possible date on which indefinite future event must necessarily occur. Sugarman v. Federal Ins. Co. (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 563, 567, 71 Cal. Rptr. 542

[24] Refusing Declaratory Relief

If parties' controversy is primarily over enforceability of certain contractual remedies should future dispute over substantive rights arise, and declaratory relief would have little practical effect in terms of altering parties' behavior, denial of declaratory judgment is within court's discretion. Meyer v. Sprint Spectrum L.P. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 634, 646-648, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 859, 200 P.3d 295

If Legislature has specified exclusive procedure for litigating particular disputes, it is abuse of discretion for superior court to bypass statutory procedure and hear ordinary declaratory relief action. Filarsky v. Superior Court (2002) 28

Cal. 4th 419, 429-435, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 844, 49 P.3d 194

Court may properly refuse declaratory relief if local ordinance provides procedure to resolve dispute that is simpler and more affordable than declaratory-relief action. DeLaura v. Beckett (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 542, 545-547, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 253

Whether to grant or deny declaratory relief as within discretion of trial court. Fagerstedt v. Continental Ins. Co. (1968) 266 Cal. App. 2d 370, 372, 72 Cal. Rptr. 126 ; see also Zetterberg v. State Dept. of Public Health (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 657, 665, 118 Cal. Rptr. 100 ; Allstate Ins. Co. v. Fisher (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 391, 395, 107 Cal. Rptr. 251

Whether determination is necessary and proper as matter within discretion of trial court. California Physicians' Serv. v. Garrison (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 790, 801, 172 P.2d 4 ; Bess v. Park (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 49, 52, 281 P.2d 556

Discretion defined. Columbia Pictures Corp. v. DeToth (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 753, 762, 161 P.2d 217 ; Wilson v. Los Angeles County Civ. Serv. Com. (1951) 106 Cal. App. 2d 572, 577, 235 P.2d 620

Factors affecting trial court's exercise of judicial discretion to grant or deny declaratory relief seeking determination of validity of penal ordinance. California Water & Tel. Co. v. Los Angeles County (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 16, 23-24, 61 Cal. Rptr. 618

Declaration of rights as unnecessary where complaint shows on its face that all relief is barred by statute of limitations. Bennett v. Hibernia Bank (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 540, 550, 305 P.2d 20

Declaration of rights as unnecessary where complaint shows on its face that entire controversy has been settled by prior judgment. Bennett v. Hibernia Bank (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 540, 550, 305 P.2d 20

Propriety or necessity for declaratory relief as not dependent on which party to controversy seeks judicial aid. Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 731, 146 P.2d 673

Declaratory relief as refused in discretion of trial court if it appears that determination is not necessary or proper at the time under all the circumstances; but this rule as inapplicable where, under facts stated, plaintiff is entitled to some relief in connection with matter which occasioned controversy. Lord v. Garland (1946) 27 Cal. 2d 840, 852, 168 P.2d 5 ; see Wilson v. Los Angeles County Civ. Serv. Com. (1951) 106 Cal. App. 2d 572, 578, 235 P.2d 620 ; Zimmer v. Gorelnik (1941) 42 Cal. App. 2d 440, 448, 109 P.2d 34

Trial court as not permitted to refuse to assume jurisdiction of declaratory relief action where complaint sets forth facts showing that declaratory adjudication is entirely appropriate. Cinmark Investment Co. v. Reichard (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 498, 501, 54 Cal. Rptr. 810 ; Columbia Pictures Corp. v. DeToth (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 753, 762, 161 P.2d 217 ; Wilson v. Los Angeles County Civ. Serv. Com. (1951) 106 Cal. App. 2d 572, 577-578, 235 P.2d 620

Fact that plaintiff may not be entitled to favorable declaration as not a proper ground for refusing declaratory relief. Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 728-729, 731, 146 P.2d 673 ; see also Southern Counties Gas Co. v. Ventura Pipeline Constr. Co. (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 372, 377, 96 Cal. Rptr. 825

Dismissal of complaint for declaratory relief on ground that relief is neither necessary nor proper at time under all circumstances pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1061 as abuse of discretion where complaint shows controversy as to meaning and operation of city charter and civil service commission rules as they relate to civil service promotional lists. Wilson v. Los Angeles County Civ. Serv. Com. (1951) 106 Cal. App. 2d 572, 576, 578, 235 P.2d 620

Fact that party has another remedy available as not depriving court of power to grant declaratory relief under the law. Bess v. Park (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 49, 53, 281 P.2d 556 ; Jones v. Robertson (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 813, 819, 180 P.2d 929

Availability of another form of relief that is adequate as usually justifying refusal to grant declaratory relief. Allstate Ins. Co. v. Fisher (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 391, 395, 107 Cal. Rptr. 251

For court to refuse to grant declaratory relief on ground other adequate remedy exists, asserted alternative remedy as required to clearly appear and be as speedy and adequate or as well suited to plaintiff's needs as declaratory relief. Maguire v. Hibernia S. & L. Soc. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 730-732, 146 P.2d 673 ; City of Tiburon v. Northwestern Pac. R.R. Co. (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 160, 177, 84 Cal. Rptr. 469

Decision of trial court to grant or deny declaratory relief as not disturbed on appeal absent clear showing of abuse of discretion. California Physicians' Serv. v. Garrison (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 790, 801, 172 P.2d 4 ; Fagerstedt v. Continental Ins. Co. (1968) 266 Cal. App. 2d 370, 372, 72 Cal. Rptr. 126 ; see also Zetterberg v. State Dept. of Public Health (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 657, 665, 118 Cal. Rptr. 100 ; Allstate Ins. Co. v. Fisher (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 391, 395, 107 Cal. Rptr. 251

[25] Ripeness

Tort plaintiff whose action against alleged tortfeasor has not yet been adjudicated may not obtain declaratory relief against alleged tortfeasor's insurer to establish whether there should be insurance coverage for potential tort liability; as long as plaintiff's action against alleged tortfeasor is still pending, any controversy between plaintiff and insurer is not ripe for adjudication, because it remains unknown whether plaintiff will ultimately be able to make claim against proceeds of liability-insurance policy as judgment creditor. Otay Land Co. v. Royal Indemnity Co. (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 556, 565-567, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 408

Ripeness doctrine as primarily based on recognition that judicial decisionmaking is best conducted in context of actual set of facts so that issues will be framed with sufficient definiteness to enable court to make decree finally disposing of controversy. Sherwyn v. Department of Social Services (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 52, 57, 218 Cal. Rptr. 778

[26] Standing to Sue

Plaintiff who lacks standing as not able to state valid cause of action; contention based on plaintiff's lack of standing as not subject to waiver under Code Civ. Proc. § 430.80 (failure to object to pleadings), and therefore, may be raised at any time in proceeding. Sherwyn v. Department of Social Services (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 52, 58, 218 Cal. Rptr. 778

One who invokes judicial process as not having standing if he or those whom he properly represents does not have real interest in ultimate adjudication because actor has neither suffered nor is about to suffer any injury of sufficient magnitude reasonably to assure that all relevant facts and issues will be adequately presented. Zetterberg v. State Dept. of Public Health (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 657, 662, 118 Cal. Rptr. 100 ; California Water & Tel. Co. v. Los Angeles County (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 16, 22-23, 61 Cal. Rptr. 618

Nonprofit civic corporation, membership of which consists of families residing in geographical area of city, as having standing to sue city for declaratory relief as to validity of variance granted which would, as alleged, result in destroying existing residential community of plaintiffs' members by requiring removal of their homes. Residents of Beverly Glen, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 117, 121-127, 109 Cal. Rptr. 724

Nonprofit corporations active in, and having important, valid, and legitimate interests in welfare of prison inmates, prison reform, and assistance to prison inmates and parolees and their families has standing to maintain proceeding in mandate to compel Department of Corrections and Adult Authority, in formulating their rules and regulations, to comply with Administrative Procedure Act. American Friends Service Committee v. Procunier (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 252, 255-256 (overruled on other grounds in Engelmann v. State Bd. of Education (1991) 2 Cal. App. 4th 47, 59, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 264)

[27] Summary Judgment

Summary judgment with express declaration of rights of parties as proper to resolve justiciable issues presented by complaint for declaratory relief which can be disposed of as matter of law. City of Tiburon v. Northwestern Pac. R.R. Co. (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 160, 172 n. 5, 84 Cal. Rptr. 469 ; Siemon v. Russell (1961) 194 Cal. App. 2d 592, 595, 15 Cal. Rptr. 218 ; Spencer v. Hibernia Bank (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 702, 712, 9 Cal. Rptr. 867

[28] Use of Mandate

Mandate is remedy to test validity of school district's rules affecting employees in case of present and actual controversy between employees and district as to validity of those rules. California Sch. Employees Assn. v. Los Angeles City Unified Sch. Dist. (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 848, 851-852, 134 Cal. Rptr. 424

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJusticiabilityCase or Controversy RequirementsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticeDefenses, Demurrers & ObjectionsDemurrersCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsComplaintsRequirementsCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime Limitations

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.44

§ 182.44 Law Reviews

Doernberg and Mushlin, History Comes Calling: Dean Griswold Offers New Evidence About the Jurisdictional Debate Surrounding the Enactment of the Declaratory Judgment Act, 37 UCLA L. Rev. 139 (1989)

Comment, "Steffel v. Thompson: Federal Declaratory Relief and the State Criminal Process--A Compromise of Comity and Primacy," 9 U.S.F. L. Rev. 87 (1974)

Note, "The Res Judicata Effect of Declaratory Relief in the Federal Courts," 6 So. Cal. L. Rev. 803 (1973)

Note, "The Role of Declaratory Relief and Collateral Estoppel in Determining the Insurer's Duty to Defend and Indemnify," 21 Hastings L.J. 191 (1969)

Note, "Administrative Declaratory Orders," 13 Stan. L. Rev. 307 (1961)

Note, "Procedure: Declaratory Relief: Controversy Requirement for Declaratory Relief," 41 Cal. L. Rev. 341 (1953)

Note, "Declaratory Judgments: Patent Litigation: Justiciable Controversy," 37 Cal. L. Rev. 506 (1949)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJusticiabilityCase or Controversy RequirementsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsFederal JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsEstoppelCollateral EstoppelCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsRes Judicata

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.45

§ 182.45 Text References

California Civil Procedure Before Trial, Vol. 2, Ch. 42, Declaratory Relief (Cal. CEB 3d ed 2000)

Witkin, California Procedure, Vol. 5, Pleading, §§ 805-833 (4th ed. 1997)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral Overview

85 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 182.46-182.59

[Reserved]

§§ 182.46[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART IV. FORM

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.60

§ 182.60 Complaint for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--General Form

[1] FORM Complaint for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--General Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY RELIEF
Defendant.	)
	)
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of _____ County, California [or allege other capacity and residence].

2. _____ [Set out essential facts of transaction giving rise to the adverse contentions of the parties, e.g., execution of written agreement between parties].

3. An actual controversy has arisen and now exists between plaintiff and defendant concerning their respective rights and duties in that plaintiff contends _____ [plaintiff's contentions as to legal consequences resulting from facts alleged in preceding paragraph], whereas defendant disputes these contentions and contends that _____ [defendant's contentions].

4. Plaintiff desires a judicial determination of his/her/its rights and duties, and a declaration as to _____ [specify, e.g., whether the written agreement is valid or which party's interpretation of the agreement is correct].

5. A judicial declaration is necessary and appropriate at this time under the circumstances in order that plaintiff may ascertain his/her/its rights and duties _____ [specify, e.g., under the written agreement]. [_____ (Allege facts showing that declaratory relief would have practical effect, for example, by informing parties' future conduct or by lessening financial or other burden being caused plaintiff by the unsettled state of affairs).]

[6. _____ (Allege detriment and damages incurred, if any, to date if damages are sought).]

[7. _____ (Allege exhaustion of administrative remedies, if such is the fact, and steps taken by plaintiff showing that administrative remedies have been exhausted. Copies of administrative rulings may be attached to the complaint as exhibits, each being separately identified by a letter and incorporated in the pleading by reference).]

[Allege any additional causes of action plaintiff may have and wish to include. Statute does not require that the causes of action be separately stated, but the better practice is to separately state them where there are multiple defendants not all of whom are defendants in both or all the causes of action alleged or where failure to do so might subject the complaint to a demurrer for misjoinder (Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(d)) or uncertainty (Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(f)). If causes of action are separately stated, they must be separately numbered (Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.112; see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints).]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For a declaration that _____ [state the determination the court is requested to render, e.g., the written instrument hereinabove described is void and of no force or effect];

[2. For damages in the sum of $_____; (This relief should be requested only where the complaint contains allegations stating a cause of action for damages, whether or not separately stated.)]

[3. For issuance of a temporary restraining order, preliminary injunction, and permanent injunction restraining and enjoining defendant from _____ (specify); (This relief should be requested only where the complaint contains allegations stating a cause of action for injunctive relief, whether or not separately stated.)]

[4. _____ (State any other relief desired to which plaintiff is entitled by the facts alleged in the complaint, whether in the declaratory relief action or in a separately stated cause of action);]

5. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

6. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

The general skeletal form of complaint in [1], above, may be adapted for use in any declaratory relief action under the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1060. See also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1061-1062. For alternative forms of complaints, see §§ 182.64 -182.67.

[3] Complaint

[a] Caption

The caption should clearly identify the relief sought, for example, COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY RELIEF, or COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY AND INJUNCTIVE RELIEF, or COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY RELIEF AND DAMAGES, etc. [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(6)]. If the action is joined with a petition for writ of mandate, the caption would read: COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY RELIEF AND PETITION FOR WRIT OF MANDATE. In such a case, the parties would be uniformly referred to as "plaintiff" and "defendant" [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 308, 1063].

[b] Essential Allegations

[i] Proper Matter for Declaratory Relief

A complaint for declaratory relief must allege facts showing that the subject of the actions is a proper matter for declaratory relief, that is, that the matter is proper for declaratory relief under the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1060, or of some special statute authorizing declaratory relief, or that declaratory relief in the particular fact situation has been held proper by case law. The fact situation suggested in this complaint (Paragraph 2) involves a written contract and hence brings the action within the express provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1060. Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 does not, however, require that the contract be written and, hence, an action may be brought to determine a controversy based on an oral contract as well [Zimmer v. Gorelnik (1941) 42 Cal. App. 2d 440, 445, 109 P.2d 34] .

[ii] Existence of Actual Controversy

The complaint must allege the existence of an actual controversy between the parties [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1060; Alturas v. City of Gloster (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 46, 48, 104 P.2d 810 ; Escondido Mut. Water Co. v. George A. Hillebrecht, Inc. (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 410, 412-413, 50 Cal. Rptr. 495 ; Fairchild v. Bank of America (1961) 192 Cal. App. 2d 252, 261-262, 13 Cal. Rptr. 491] .

For the court to exercise its discretion to declare rights, the controversy involved must be a justiciable one which permits specific and conclusive relief by judgment within the field of judicial determination, rather than a mere difference or dispute of a hypothetical or abstract character or a controversy that is academic or moot [see Southern Cal. Edison Co. v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 744, 747, 76 Cal. Rptr. 909 ; Hagan v. Fairfield (1965) 238 Cal. App. 2d 197, 202, 47 Cal. Rptr. 600 ; Auberry Union School Dist. v. Rafferty (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 599, 602-603, 38 Cal. Rptr. 223] .

The pleading requirement may be satisfied by alleging that an actual controversy exists between the parties and setting forth the parties' conflicting contentions (Paragraph 3) showing that an actual justiciable controversy exists. A mere allegation that a controversy exists is insufficient [see Alturas v. Gloster (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 46, 48, 104 P.2d 810 ; American Mission Army Inc. v. Lynwood (1956) 138 Cal. App. 2d 817, 819, 292 P.2d 533 ; see also Hagan v. Fairfield (1965) 238 Cal. App. 2d 197, 202, 47 Cal. Rptr. 600] , and a complaint that shows on its face that no actual controversy exists is subject to a general demurrer for failure to state a cause of action [see State v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 249, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281] .

[iii] Request for and Necessity of Declaration

An allegation that plaintiff desires a declaration of his, her, or its rights under the circumstances (Paragraph 4) should be included [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1060], as well as an allegation that such declaration is necessary and appropriate at the time (Paragraph 5) under all the circumstances to enable plaintiff to ascertain his, her, or its legal position in the premises [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1060, 1061]. The complaint should also allege specific facts showing that declaratory relief would have practical consequences, such as by informing the plaintiff's decision whether to enter into or continue a contractual relationship, or by lessening financial or other burdens suffered by the plaintiff because of uncertainty about the parties' rights and duties [see Meyer v. Sprint Spectrum L.P. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 634, 646-648, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 859, 200 P.3d 295 (court has considerable discretion to deny declaratory relief when such relief would have little practical effect in terms of altering parties' behavior)].

[c] Legal Capacity

This complaint assumes that the parties are adult persons suing and being sued in their individual capacities, and hence the separate legal capacity of the parties is not alleged. That defendant is an adult, competent person being sued in his or her individual capacity is, nevertheless, implied by the residence allegation in Paragraph 1.

But, as with other complaints, a complaint for declaratory relief should allege the capacities of the parties if they are other than adult persons suing or being sued in their individual capacity (e.g., a corporation, unincorporated association, public entity or official, executor or administrator, or a trustee of an express trust). For forms of such allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used .

The objection that plaintiff lacks legal capacity to sue may be raised by special demurrer [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(b)] where that fact appears onthe face of the complaint or from any matter of which the court must or may take judicial notice [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.30(a), 430.70; Evid. Code §§ 451-456]. Where the lack of legal capacity does not so appear but nonetheless exists, the objection may be taken by answer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.30(b), 431.30(b)(2)]. The objection is a mere plea in abatement, however, not favored by the law. Consequently, defendant's failure to raise it by demurrer or answer constitutes a waiver of the objection [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.80(a)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 3, Abatement of Actions , and Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings .

[d] Standing to Sue Distinguished

Lack of legal capacity to sue, that is, the legal disability of the plaintiff to maintain a cause of action which he or she or it has, must be distinguished from lack of standing to sue, that is, the statement of a cause of action in someone other than plaintiff. Whether or not plaintiff has standing to sue is normally a question of law and will be determined from the allegations of the complaint showing the relationship of the parties to each other and to the subject of the action. Objection to a complaint on the ground that plaintiff lacks standing to sue is taken by general, rather than by special, demurrer [for discussion, see § 182.60[4], below].

[e] Venue

The complaint should contain one or more allegations showing that the action has been commenced in the proper county for trial [see generally Code Civ. Proc. §§ 392-396b; Civ. Code §§ 1812.10, 2984.4]. This complaint lays venue on the basis of defendant's residence (Paragraph 1), although, since it assumes the action arises out of contract, other counties might in a particular case be a proper place of trial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395; Civ. Code §§ 1812.10, 2984.4; see also Ch. 571, Venue].

[4] Failure to State Cause of Action

Failure to state a cause of action for declaratory relief renders the complaint subject to a general demurrer (or to a nonstatutory motion for judgment on the pleading) on that ground [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(e); Orloff v. Metropolitan Trust Co. (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 484, 489, 110 P.2d 396 ; Rowland School Dist. v. State Bd. of Educ. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 589, 594-595, 70 Cal. Rptr. 504 ; San Martin Vineyards v. R. & W. Floor Coverings, Inc. (1962) 204 Cal. App. 2d 677, 679, 22 Cal. Rptr. 628] where the objection appears on the face of the complaint or from matter of which the court must or may take judicial notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30(a)]. Matter of which the court must or may take judicial notice is listed in Evid. Code §§ 451 and 452, and the manner of raising and determining the issue is provided for in Code Civ. Proc. § 430.70 and Evid. Code §§ 453-456.Where the objection does not so appear, it may be raised by answer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.30(b), 431.30(b)(2)]. Failure to raise the objection by demurrer or answer does not constitute a waiver of the objection [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.80(a)].

With respect to a plaintiff's standing to sue, the general rule makes clear that lack of standing is a lack of a right to relief and goes to the existence of a cause of action. Thus, where the complaint states a cause of action in someone but not in the plaintiff, a general demurrer, or a nonstatutory motion for judgment on the pleadings, will be sustained [Klopstock v. Superior Court (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 13, 19, 108 P.2d 906 (distinguishing lack of standing to sue from lack of legal capacity to sue); Oakland Municipal Improvement League v. City of Oakland (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 165, 170, 100 Cal. Rptr. 29] . Nevertheless, as a practical matter, failure to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action and lack of standing should be distinguished to avoid unnecessary ambiguity. For example, in a case in which the trial court in its minute order granting a defendant's motion for judgment on the pleadings stated the basis to be the plaintiff's lack of standing but in its formal judgment stated the basis to be the complaint's failure to state facts sufficient to state a cause of action, the court of appeal found sufficient ambiguity to require it to review the allegations of the complaint to decide in addition to the standing issue whether or not sufficient facts for a cause of action were alleged [see Pacific Legal Foundation v. Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (1977) 74 Cal. App. 3d 150, 157, 141 Cal. Rptr. 474] .

If, for some reason, plaintiff's lack of standing to sue does not appear from the face of the complaint or from matter of which the court must or may take judicial notice, the objection may be raised by answer [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.30(b), 431.30(b)(2)], or by a motion for summary judgment provided there is no triable issue as to any material fact with respect to plaintiff's lack of standing [see Code Civ. Proc. § 437c].

[5] Verification

Verification of this complaint is not required, but verification of the complaint requires verification of the answer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446], and precludes a general denial Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. Verification may be required, however, when the complaint seeks relief in addition to a declaratory judgment [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a), (c) (relating to preliminary injunctions and temporary restraining orders)].

If the optional language in the form seeking injunctive relief is used, verification will be required if plaintiff seeks a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction on a complaint instead of on affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If relying on a verified complaint instead of affidavits (or declarations), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff to the relief sought [see E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; Finnie v. Town of Tiburon (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1, 15, 244 Cal. Rptr. 581] . For discussion, a procedural checklist, and additional forms necessary in order to obtain a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

[6] Costs and Attorneys' Fees

The award of costs is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1021 et seq. For when costs must or may be awarded to the prevailing party, see Code Civ. Proc. § 1032(b). Costs may be awarded against the state or public entity or agency or any officer thereof in his or her official capacity on the same basis as against any other party [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1028, 1029; see generally Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees]. Absent a special statute or contract provision, attorney's fees are normally not recoverable from the other side in declaratory relief actions [see Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. v. Harbor Ins. Co. (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 105, 112-115, 149 Cal. Rptr. 313 ; Carroll v. Hanover Insurance Co. (1968) 266 Cal. App. 2d 47, 49-51, 71 Cal. Rptr. 868] .

[7] Cross References

For listing of other chapters in this publication containing forms of complaints and cross complaints for declaratory relief, see § 182.02, above.

[8] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, Vol. 5, Pleading, § 809 (4th ed. 1997)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART IV. FORM

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.61

§ 182.61 Allegations in Complaint for Declaration as to Validity of Written Instrument [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--Existence of Controversy Relating to Validity

[1] FORM Allegations in Complaint for Declaration as to Validity of Written Instrument [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--Existence of Controversy Relating to Validity

An actual controversy has arisen and now exists relating to the rights and duties of the parties herein in that plaintiff contends that the _____ [instrument, e.g., contract] is valid [and enforceable] in all respects, whereas defendant contends that the _____ [instrument, e.g., contract] is invalid [and unenforceable] for the reason that _____ [state reason]. Plaintiff disputes defendant's contention and asserts that the reason asserted by defendant does not affect the _____ [validity or enforceability] of the _____ [instrument, e.g., contract].

[2] Use of Form

The form of allegation in [1], above, is for insertion in the complaint set out in § 182.60[1] in lieu of Paragraph 3 in that form. A breach of obligationneed not be established before it may be included in a declaratory relief action [London Assur. Co. v. Anderson (1961) 194 Cal. App. 2d 418, 422, 15 Cal. Rptr. 13] . Declaratory relief exists to enable party to contract to determine rights and liabilities before he or she has incurred costs and subjected himself or herself to risk [Rubin v. Toberman (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 319, 326, 38 Cal. Rptr. 32] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART IV. FORM

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.62

§ 182.62 Allegations in Complaint for Declaration Construing Written Instrument [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--Existence of Controversy Relating to Interpretation

[1] FORM Allegations in Complaint for Declaration Construing Written Instrument [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--Existence of Controversy Relating to Interpretation

An actual controversy has arisen and now exists relating to the rights and duties of the parties herein in that plaintiff contends that the words "_____" in the _____ [instrument, e.g., contract] were intended by _____ [names of parties to agreement or person executing document] to mean: _____ [state plaintiff's interpretation]; whereas defendant contends that these words were intended to mean: _____ [state defendant's interpretation].

[2] Use of Form

The form of allegation in [1], above, is for insertion in the complaint set out in § 182.60[1] in lieu of Paragraph 3 in that form.

[3] Cross References

For additional comments, see § 182.61[2]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART IV. FORM

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.63

§ 182.63 Allegations in Complaint for Declaration as to Validity of Defendant's Claim Against Plaintiff [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--Existence of Controversy Relating to Creation of Rights in Defendant as Result of Transaction

[1] FORM Allegations in Complaint for Declaration as to Validity of Defendant's Claim Against Plaintiff [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--Existence of Controversy Relating to Creation of Rights in Defendant as Result of Transaction

An actual controversy has arisen and now exists relating to the rights and duties of the parties herein in that defendant contends that the transaction referred to in Paragraph _____ hereof gave rise to a _____ [specify, e.g., contract between the parties] and created in defendant the right to _____ [specify], whereas plaintiff contends that the transaction did not give rise to any _____ [specify, e.g., contract] of any nature nor create any rights in defendant.

[2] Use of Form

The form of allegation in [1], above, is for insertion in the complaint set out in § 182.60[1] in lieu of Paragraph 3 in that form. The court has theright to determine whether an oral contract was made [see Howard v. Howard (1955) 131 Cal. App. 2d 308, 313, 280 P.2d 802] .

[3] Cross References

For additional comments and cross references, see § 182.60[2] et seq.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART IV. FORM

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.64

§ 182.64 Complaint for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--To Determine Validity of Ordinance--By Individual Against Public Entity and Enforcement Officer

[1] FORM Complaint for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--To Determine Validity of Ordinance--By Individual Against Public Entity and Enforcement Officer

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)
_____	)	NO. _____
[name and description of public entity]	)	COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY RELIEF and _____	)	(To Determine Validity of Ordinance)
[name and title of enforcement officer],	)
Defendants.	)
	)
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant _____ [municipality or county or administrative agency of municipality or county] is _____ [a municipal corporation organized and existing under the constitution and laws of the State of California, or a county, or a political subdivision of the state, or an administrative agency of a _____ (municipality or county) or other as appropriate]. Defendant _____ [name] is the _____ [title, e.g., Director of _____ (agency)] and the person charged by law with _____ [duties, e.g., administering the ordinance hereinafter specified].

2. On _____ [date], _____ [specify legislative body or quasi-judicial agency as appropriate] enacted an ordinance entitled _____ [title], _____ [providing as follows: "_____" or a true copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof]. The ordinance has since its enactment been, and now is, in full force and effect and is enforced by defendants herein.

3. _____ [Set out facts showing that ordinance is being applied by municipality, county, or agency to activity of plaintiff, to plaintiff's detriment, and, where appropriate, facts showing that plaintiff has exhausted available administrative remedies or is excused from doing so].

4. An actual controversy has arisen and now exists between plaintiff and defendants relative to their respective rights and duties in that plaintiff contends that the ordinance is invalid and unenforceable, both on its face and as construed by defendants, in that _____ [allege facts whichshow invalidity of enactment as applied to plaintiff's activity, e.g., it violated the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution and of Article I, Section 7 of the California Constitution]. Defendants dispute _____ [this or these] contention(s) and contend that the ordinance and its application to plaintiff's above-described activity are valid.

5. Plaintiff desires a declaration as to the validity of the ordinance, both on its face and as applied to plaintiff's activities, and if it is found to be valid, whether plaintiff's above-described activities are violative of it. A judicial declaration is necessary and appropriate at this time so that plaintiff may ascertain his/her/its rights and duties in the premises without first subjecting himself/herself/itself to liability by violating the ordinance. [_____ (Allege any additional facts which show that irreparable injury will result to plaintiff unless the declaration is made).]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays for a declaratory judgment as follows:

1. Declaring the respective rights and duties of the parties under the ordinance in question, that the ordinance is unconstitutional, invalid, and void on its face or as applied to plaintiff, or, if the ordinance is found to be valid, it does not apply to plaintiff's activities hereinabove described.

[Prayer for costs, injunctive, and general relief. See § 182.60.]

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification. See § 182.60.]

[2] Use of Form

The form of complaint in [1], above, is for use to secure a judicial declaration [Walker v. County of Los Angeles (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 626, 637, 12 Cal. Rptr. 671, 361 P.2d 247 ; Finster v. Keller (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 836, 847, 96 Cal. Rptr. 241] as to the construction and validity [State v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 251, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 ; Mountain View Chamber of Commerce v. City of Mountain View (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 82, 85-86, 143 Cal. Rptr. 441;] of an ordinance. For a complaint for declaratory relief to determine the validity of a statute or an administrative regulation, see §§ 182.65 and 182.67, respectively [see also Code Civ. Proc. §

459].

[3] Caption

The caption should clearly identify the relief sought, for example, COM PLAINT FOR DECLARATORY RELIEF or COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY AND INJUNCTIVE RELIEF [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(6)]. If theaction is joined with a petition for writ of mandate, the caption would read: COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY RELIEF AND PETITION FOR WRIT OF MANDATE. In such a case, the parties would be uniformly referred to as "plaintiff" and "defendant" [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 308, 1063].

[4] Cross References

For additional comments and cross references relating to complaints for declaratory relief, see § 182.60

For a form of complaint for declaratory and injunctive relief to declare a local licensing ordinance invalid and to restrain its enforcement, see Ch. 471B, Licensing by Public Agency

For a discussion of some common grounds on which the constitutionality of statutes and ordinances may be attacked, see Ch. 531, Statutes and Ordinances

For a form of complaint for declaratory and injunctive relief declaring a county regulatory ordinance unconstitutional as applied to plaintiff and enjoining its enforcement, see Ch. 575, Waters, § 565.190 et seq., Form 67.

For a form of complaint for declaratory relief declaring a zoning ordinance unconstitutional and revocation of a building permit ineffectual, see Ch. 579, Zoning and Planning , Form 94

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART IV. FORM

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.65

§ 182.65 Complaint for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--To Declare State Statutes Unconstitutional--By City and Affected Public Officials Against District Attorney

[1] FORM Complaint for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--To Declare State Statutes Unconstitutional--By City and Affected Public Officials Against District Attorney

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name], a Municipal Corporation, and [names of public officials],	)	NO. _____
Plaintiffs,	)	COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY RELIEF
vs.	)	(To Determine Validity of State Statutes)
_____ [name], District Attorney of the County of _____,	)
Defendant.	)

Plaintiffs allege:

1. Plaintiff _____ [name], hereinafter referred to as the "city," is a municipal corporation organized and existing under the Constitution and laws of the State of California. Plaintiffs _____ [names] are duly elected or appointed officials of plaintiff city.

2. Defendant _____ [name] is the District Attorney of the County of _____ and the person charged by law with the duty of enforcing the statutes hereinafter referred to.

3. _____ [On _____ (date), or In _____ (year), operative _____ (date)], the Legislature of the State of California enacted Sections _____ [specify, e.g., 3600-3704] of the _____ Code, known as the _____, hereinafter referred to as the "statutes[,]" [a true copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof]. The statutes since their adoption have been, and now are, in full force and effect.

4. On _____ [date], the City Council of the city unanimously adopted Resolution No. _____, a true copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit [B] and made a part hereof. The resolution directs and authorizes the filing and prosecution of this action.

5. The statutes provide, inter alia, _____ [state, e.g., "that every public officer shall file, as a public record, a statement describing the nature and extent of his or her investments, including the ownership in shares of any corporation or the ownership of a financial interest in any business entity, which is subject to regulation by any state or local public agency, if such investment is in excess of $10,000.00 in value at the time of the statement." The statutes also provide that "public officer" means "any officer of a public agency." This phrase is not defined, but apparently includes, although it is not clear, all councilmembers, planning commissioners, boards of supervisors, school boards, department heads, and all other elected and appointed officials and all boards and commissions].

6. Any person who violates the statutes with knowledge of the unlawfulness of such act or omission is guilty of a felony; the statutes have received considerable notoriety and all public officers of the city have knowledge of them.

7. Within the government of the city _____ [allege adverse effect of statute, e.g., three councilmembers, four planning commissioners, three library board members, and one department head will resign rather than file the statement of assets disclosing their financial affairs. (See Declaration of City Clerk attached hereto as Exhibit (C) and made a part hereof.)]

[8. No formal action was taken prior to the date of this complaint because plaintiffs believed that the California Legislature intended to enact legislation ameliorating or at least postponing the effect of the statutes and plaintiffs did not wish to burden the courts with unnecessary litigation.]

[9. Resignation of the above-enumerated public officers of the city will have a crippling effect on the affairs of municipal government; important rights of citizens will be jeopardized by the inability of the city to act due to the impossibility of convening a quorum of the various governmental bodies.]

10. Plaintiffs contend that the statutes are unconstitutional in that _____ [specify, e.g.:

a. The statutes are unconstitutionally vague; men and women of common intelligence must necessarily guess at their meaning and differ as to their application, under pain of a felony conviction for failure to guess properly.

b. The statutes are unconstitutionally overbroad in that they invade the fundamental right of privacy without serving a reasonable legislative objective or purpose.

c. The statutes are unconstitutional in that they impose excessive fines and cruel and unusual punishment; an improper interpretation of this ambiguous law, or an honest insistence on retaining the right of privacy in one's personal affairs incurs felony punishments, including arrest, fines, imprisonment, forfeiture of public office and private trust, and civil death.

d. The statutes are an unconstitutional delegation of power to a private individual; the individual public officer or candidate for public office must decide, at peril of prosecution for a felony, the meaning of terms (such as "nature and extent of his or her investments") that even municipal law authorities are unable to agree on.]

11. Defendant contends that the statutes are constitutional, and defendant will enforce them and will prosecute any violation of them by virtue of defendant's contentions and that of plaintiffs aforesaid in Paragraph 10 above, an actual controversy has arisen and now exists between plaintiffs and defendant concerning their respective rights, duties, and responsibilities.

12. Plaintiffs desire a declaration of their rights with respect to the constitutionality and application or nonapplication of the statutes and ask the court to make a declaration of such rights, duties, and responsibilities, and to make a declaration as to the validity and constitutionality of the statutes. Such a declaration is necessary and appropriate at this time in order that plaintiffs may proceed under the law. There are no administrative remedies available to plaintiffs.

13. A timely declaration by this court is urgent for the following reasons: _____.

14. Plaintiffs [and numerous other public bodies] will suffer irreparable and lasting injury unless declaratory relief is granted. [See Declarations in re Disclosure of Assets Law, attached hereto as Exhibit (D) and made a part hereof.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiffs pray for a declaratory judgment as follows:

1. That the court declare the respective rights, duties, and responsibilities of plaintiffs and defendant under the statutes in question and that by its declaration and judgment the court declare that the statutes have no application to plaintiffs in this matter, and that the statutes are unconstitutional, invalid, and void;

2. That defendant and all others acting in his/her office, be enjoined from enforcing the provisions of the statutes against plaintiffs or any of the city's public officers;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court deems proper.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[2] Source of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is based on the one filed in City of Carmel-by-the-Sea v. Young (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 259, 85 Cal. Rptr. 1, 466 P.2d 225 , in which the Supreme Court held the 1969 Financial Disclosure Law [former Gov. Code §§ 3600-3704] unconstitutional as an overbroad intrusion into the right of privacy of public officers and candidates and as invalidly restricting the right to seek or hold public office or employment. The constitutionality of subsequent legislation enacted by the state to replace the Financial Disclosure Law of 1969 was upheld in Nevada County v. MacMillen (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 662, 666, 114 Cal. Rptr. 345, 522 P.2d 1345 .

[3] Use of Form

The form of complaint in [1], above, is for use by a municipality and public officials to secure [Walker v. County of Los Angeles (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 626, 637, 12 Cal. Rptr. 671, 361 P.2d 247 ; Finster v. Keller (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 836, 847, 96 Cal. Rptr. 241] a judicial declaration as the constitutionality [Hetherington v. State Personnel Bd. (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 582, 586, 147 Cal. Rptr. 300 ; California Teachers Assn. v. Board of Trustees (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d

249, 251, 146 Cal. Rptr. 850] of a state statute. Evid. Code § 451(a) requires courts take judicial notice of state statutes.

[4] Cross References

For a discussion of some common grounds on which the constitutionality of statute and ordinances may be attacked, see Ch. 531, Statutes and Ordinances

For additional comments and cross references, see § 182.60[2] et seq.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART IV. FORM

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.66

§ 182.66 Complaint for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--To Declare Special Legislative Act Constitutional--By City and City Department

[1] FORM Complaint for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--To Declare Special Legislative Act Constitutional--By City and City Department

[Caption, introduction. See § 182.65.]

1. Plaintiff City of _____, hereinafter referred to as the "plaintiff city," is now, and was at all times herein mentioned, a municipal corporation, duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of California.

2. Plaintiff Department of _____ [specify, e.g., Water and Power] of the City of _____, hereinafter referred to as the "plaintiff department," is now, and was at all times herein mentioned, a department of plaintiff city, created and existing under and by virtue of the _____ [specify, e.g., Charter of plaintiff city].

3. Plaintiff department has the power and duty _____ [specify, e.g., to construct, operate, maintain, extend, manage, and control works and property for the purpose of supplying plaintiff city and its inhabitants with water, and to acquire and take, by purchase, lease, condemnation, or otherwise, and to hold, in the name of plaintiff city, any and all property situated within or without plaintiff city and within or without the State of California, that may be necessary or convenient for such purpose].

4. Pursuant to the foregoing power, plaintiff department constructed and put into operation the _____ Reservoir located in the City of _____ and adjacent to the _____ Oil Field. This reservoir was operated by plaintiff department until _____ [date], as a facility for the storage and distribution of water to the inhabitants of plaintiff city.

5. At all times herein mentioned, defendant _____ [name] was and is _____ [specify, e.g., a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of _____ (state or county), and is authorized to transact and is transacting business in the State of California].

6. At all times herein mentioned, defendant _____ [name] was and is an individual _____ [specify, e.g., doing business in California under the name of _____ Oil Company].

[7. Defendants named herein as DOES I-_____, inclusive, are sued under fictitious names because their true names and capacities, corporate or otherwise, are not known to plaintiffs at this time. Plaintiffs will amend this complaint to insert their true names and capacities when ascertained.]

[8. Defendants DOES _____ (specify) have participated, aided, and encouraged, and have received profits resulting from, the acts of defendants hereinafter described.]

[9. Defendants DOES _____ (specify) were and are the owners and holders of property interests in the real property which is contained in the _____ Oil Field.]

10. On _____ [date], _____ [allege acts of defendants bringing them within purview of statute, e.g., oil was discovered in the area known as the _____ Oil Field. This area encompasses approximately _____ surface acres and is located partially in plaintiff city and partially outside plaintiff city but within the County of _____].

[11. Plaintiffs are informed and believe and thereon allege that the defendants named in Paragraphs 5 and 6 and DOES _____ (specify), have, since the time oil was discovered, extracted petroleum, water, and natural gas from the _____ Oil Field by means of wells bored to depths ranging from _____ feet to _____ feet below the surface, and during the period from _____ [date] to _____ [date], injected fluids into the earth underlying the _____ Oil Field through abandoned or nonproducing oil wells in an effort to increase the production of petroleum, water, and natural gas from the other wells.]

[12. Plaintiffs are informed and believe and thereon allege that these defendants extracted a net volume of approximately _____ barrels of petroleum and water from the earth beneath the _____ Oil Field and surrounding properties in the period between _____ (year oil discovered) and _____ (year of injury); plaintiffs are further informed and believe and thereon allege that these same defendants also withdrew about _____ cubic feet of natural gas from the earth beneath the _____ Oil Field during the same period.]

[13. As a direct and proximate consequence of defendants' extraction of petroleum, water, and natural gas from the subsurface strata of the _____ Oil Field, and as a direct and proximate consequence of their injection of fluids into the same subsurface strata, the surface area of the oil field and surrounding properties on or about _____ (date), subsided and compression and tension forces and strains resulted in numerous cracks in the earth's surface in this region.]

[14. On _____ (date), the subsidence resulted in a sudden downward and horizontal movement in a portion of the earth's surface underlying the _____ Reservoir and Dam. This movement caused a crack in the earth's surface which ruptured the lining of the _____ Reservoir and precipitated the collapse of the _____ Dam. The water from the dam thus escaped from the reservoir and flooded hundreds of dwellings and commercial buildings, caused severe damage to real and personal property of more than _____ property owners, caused the death of at least _____ persons, and resulted in personal injuries to numerous others.]

15. Plaintiffs contend that _____ [specify, e.g., the subsidence, earth movement, cracking in the earth underlying the _____ Reservoir, rupture of the reservoir lining, and failure of the reservoir dam, the subsequent flooding and damage to persons and property, were each the direct and proximate consequence of the extraction of petroleum, water, and natural gas from the subsurface strata of the _____ Oil Field by the defendants as described herein].

16. _____ [Allege acts of plaintiffs done pursuant to statute, e.g., In doubt as to whether they would be held liable for the damage to persons and property caused by the escape of water from the _____ Reservoir, and being aware that, as bodies politic, they had an interest in mitigating the loss, hardship, and suffering to a substantial number of the members of the public and that litigation to determine the parties responsible for the losses would have required extended periods of time and would have frustrated prompt settlement of the claims of the persons, corporations, and entities damaged by the flood, plaintiffs paid a reasonable amount in settlement of these claims. The present aggregate amount of claims so paid exceeds $_____].

17. Plaintiffs contend that _____ [specify, e.g., in the event that plaintiffs are held jointly liable for such damages that plaintiffs are entitled to contribution from the defendants pursuant to the following statute: _____ (set forth statute in full, e.g.:

"Chapter I

"An act relating to contribution among joint and several tortfeasors, and declaring the urgency thereof, to take effect immediately.

"Section 1. This act is applicable only to injuries to persons or property and wrongful deaths resulting from the failure of the _____ Reservoir and Dam in the City of _____ on _____ [date].

"Section 2. The right of contribution provided by this act is in addition to any other rights of contribution, and any other remedies that exist.

"Section 3. (a) Where two or more persons become jointly or severally liable in tort for the same injury to person or property or for the same wrongful death, there is a right of contribution among them which shall arise when one tortfeasor has discharged by payment the common liability or has paid more than his or her pro rata share thereof, although judgment has not been rendered against all or any of them in an action on the tort.

"(b) Such right of contribution shall be administered _____ (continue, quoting statute in full")].

18. Defendants contend that the foregoing _____ [statute or act] is unconstitutional in that _____ [specify, e.g.:

a. It violates the constitutional guarantees against special and arbitrary legislation because it provides for a different right of contribution among tortfeasors who may be liable for injuries caused by the _____ Dam disaster from that appliable to tortfeasors in general.

b. It cannot be justified as disaster relief legislation because that purpose is not reflected in its title].

19. Plaintiffs contend that _____ [specify, e.g.:

a. The _____ (statute or act) is general, and not special, legislation, since a law, to be general in its scope, need not include all classes of individuals in the state, nor need it embrace within it every other class which might be included.

b. The title of the _____ (statute or act) indicates that it concerns contribution among tortfeasors and is an urgency measure, and hence suggests the field of legislation which is included in the text of the _____ (statute or act), and therefore complies with the constitutional requirement that the subject of a _____ (statute or act) be expressed in its title. Moreover, the purpose of the _____ (statute or act) to afford disaster relief is amply shown by the recitals and declarations in the text of the _____ (statute or act)].

WHEREFORE, plaintiffs pray judgment against defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. For a declaration by this court that the foregoing quoted _____ [statute or act] is constitutional;

2. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court deems proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiffs

[Verification, if desired. See § 182.60]

[2] Use of Form

The illustrative form in [1], above, is for use where a public entity, or a private person or entity, which has a beneficial interest, seeks a judicial declaration of the constitutionality of a special legislative act.

The form is based on the complaint filed in City of Los Angeles v. Standard Oil Co. (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 118, 68 Cal. Rptr. 512 , to declare the constitutionality of an enactment relating to contribution among joint and several tortfeasors with respect to the Baldwin Hills Dam disaster of 1963.

[3] Cross References

For additional comments and cross references, see §§ 182.60[2] et seq. and 182.65[3], [4]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 182 DECLARATORY RELIEF
PART IV. FORM

15-182 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 182.67

§ 182.67 Complaint for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--To Determine Validity of Administrative Regulation [Gov. Code § 11350]

[1] FORM Complaint for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--To Determine Validity of Administrative Regulation [Gov. Code § 11350]

[Caption, introduction. See § 182.65]

1. Defendant _____ [name of administrative agency], hereinafter referred to as the "defendant agency," is an agency of _____ [state, county, or municipality], duly organized and existing under the _____ [Constitution and/or laws] of _____ [political entity]. Defendant _____ [name] is the _____ [title, e.g., director] of defendant agency and the person charged by law with administering defendant agency and the rules and regulations thereof.

2. On _____ [date], defendant agency duly adopted Regulation No. _____, hereinafter referred to as the "regulation," _____ [providing as follows: "_____" or a true copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof]. The regulation has since its adoption been, and now is, in full force and effect.

3. _____ [Set out specific facts showing that regulation is being applied by agency to activity of plaintiff, to plaintiff's detriment].

4. An actual controversy has arisen and now exists between plaintiff and defendants relating to their respective rights and duties in that plaintiff contends that the regulation is invalid and unenforceable, both on its face and as construed by defendants, in that _____ [allege facts showing invalidity of regulation or of its application of regulation to plaintiff's activity], whereas defendants dispute this contention and contend that the regulation and its application to plaintiff are valid.

5. Plaintiff desires a declaration of his/her/its rights with respect to the application or nonapplication of the regulation to plaintiff, with particular reference as to the legality of _____ [specify plaintiff's activity that defendant threatens].

6. Such a declaration is necessary and appropriate at this time under the circumstances in order that plaintiff may ascertain his/her/its rights and duties in the premises. [_____ (Allege any financial or other burden that is being caused plaintiff by unsettled state of affairs and facts showing that any and all administrative remedies have been exhausted, if such is the case, or facts showing plaintiff is excused from doing so).]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays for declaratory judgment as follows:

1. That the court declare the respective rights and duties of plaintiff and defendants under the regulation in question and that by its declaration and judgment the court declare that the regulation has no application to plaintiff in this matter or that, if it does, it is unconstitutional, invalid, and void.

[Prayer for costs and general relief. See §§ 182.65, 182.66.]

[Verification. See § 182.60]

[2] Use of Form

The form of complaint in [1], above, is for use to test the validity of an administrative regulation pursuant to Gov. Code § 11350. With appropriate modifications, it may also be used to test the validity of a precedent decision of the Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board pursuant to Unemp. Ins. Code § 409.2 [see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1060-1062a].

[3] Cross References

For a discussion of the allegations of the complaint, see § 182.60[2] et seq.

For discussion and an alternative form of complaint for declaratory and injunctive relief to determine the validity of an administrative regulation, see Ch. 472B, Review of Agency Rulemaking .

For a form of class action complaint for declaratory and injunctive relief to enjoin state cutbacks in Medical Assistance Program for failure to have complied with Administrative Procedure Act, see Ch. 527, Social Services .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 183.syn

§ 183.syn Synopsis to Chapter 183: DEDICATION

§ 183.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 183.02 Cross References

§§ 183.03through 183.09 [Reserved]

§ 183.10 Governing Statutes

§ 183.11 Common Law Dedication

[1] "Dedication" Defined

[2] Offer of Dedication

[a] Intent to Dedicate

[b] Express Grant

[c] Description in Conveyance

[d] Map or Plat

[3] Dedication by Public Use

[a] Acquiescence in Public Use

[b] Adverse Public Use

[4] Statutory Protection Against Dedication By Adverse Use (Civ. Code § 1009)

[a] No Right to Continue Use in Absence of Written Offer of Dedication

[b] Exception for Coastal and Tidal Property; Preventing Dedication Under This Exception

[i] 1000 Yards Inland of High Tide Line

[ii] Preventing Dedication Under This Exception

[c] Exception for Publicly Improved or Maintained Property; Preventing Dedication Under This Exception

[i] Improvements or Clearing Puts Owner on Notice of Public Use

[ii] Preventing Dedication Under This Exception

[d] Permissible Public Use

[5] Revocation of Offer

[6] Acceptance

[a] Essential Element of Dedication; Express or Implied

[b] No Public Liability for Road Maintenance Prior to Acceptance

[c] Conditions Triggering Conclusive Presumption of Nonacceptance

[7] Abandonment

[a] Power to Abandon

[b] Reversion of Title or Other Disposition of Property

[c] Effect on Easements or Other Rights in Property

§ 183.12 Statutory Dedication

[1] Dedication Under Gov. Code § 7050

[2] Dedication Under Subdivision Map Act

[a] Dedication When Land Is Subdivided

[b] Ordinance Requiring Street Dedication

[c] Acceptance, Termination, and Abandonment

[i] Acceptance or Rejection on Approval of Final Map

[ii] Acceptance, Termination, or Abandonment After Initial Rejection

[3] Dedication Under Open-Space Easement Act of 1974

[4] Comprehensive Index of Conservation Easements by County Recorder

§ 183.13 Title to Dedicated Property

[1] Fee or Easement

[2] Title Under Subdivision Map Act

§ 183.14 Actions to Determine Title

§ 183.15 Change in Dedicated Use

[1] Restrictions on Use

[2] Remedies

§§ 183.16through 183.19 [Reserved]

§ 183.20 Related Matthew Bender Publications

§ 183.21 State Statutes

[1] Abandonment and Vacation

[2] Acceptance

[3] Adverse Possession of Dedicated Land

[4] Implied Dedication

[5] Statutory Dedication

[a] Dedication Under Gov. Code § 7050

[b] Dedication Under Open-Space Easement Act of 1974

[c] Dedication Under Subdivision Map Act

[6] Use of Dedicated Land

§ 183.22 Decisions

[1] Abandonment

[2] Acceptance

[3] Implied Dedication

[4] Offer of Dedication

[5] Title to Dedicated Property

[6] Use of Dedicated Land

§ 183.23 Attorney General Opinions

§ 183.24 Law Reviews

§ 183.25 Text References

§§ 183.26through 183.29 [Reserved]

§ 183.30 Complaint to Quiet Title to Real Property--By Purchaser From Dedicating Owner Against City--Nonacceptance of Dedication By Nonuse for 25 Years [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 771.010, 771.020]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Required Allegations

[4] Who Must Be Defendants

[5] Verification

[6] Jurisdiction and Venue

[7] Service of Summons

[8] Lis Pendens

[9] Cross References

§ 183.31 Complaint for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. § 527], and Permanent Injunction [Civ. Code § 3422; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 526a]--Taxpayer's Suit Against City and Public Officers to Restrain Nonconforming Use of Dedicated Land and Illegal Expenditure of Public Funds

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Plaintiff's Identity and Capacity

[5] Cause of Action Required for Preliminary Injunction

[6] Service Required Before Hearing

[7] Verification

[8] Jurisdiction

[9] Venue

[10] Cross References

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION
PART I. SCOPE

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 183.01

§ 183.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses common law and statutory dedication [see §§ 183.11[1] (common law "dedication" defined), 183.12 (statutory dedication)]. The chapter contains forms of complaints for use in the following actions:

- An action to quiet title to land when a conclusive presumption of nonacceptance applies under Code Civ. Proc. § 748.5 [see § 183.30].

- A taxpayer's action to enjoin diversion of dedicated land to a use inconsistent with the terms of the dedication as well as expenditures in connection with the diversion [see § 183.31].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationGeneral OverviewReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationElementsReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationProcedure

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION
PART I. SCOPE

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 183.02

§ 183.02 Cross References

- For discussion of the requirements for a valid deed and interpretation of deeds, and for forms that may be adapted for use in canceling a deed containing an offer of dedication and quieting title to the affected land, see Ch. 184, Deeds .

- For discussion and forms for use in eminent domain and condemnation proceedings, see Ch. 247, Eminent Domain .

- For discussion and forms for use in actions involving gifts of real property to individuals, see Ch. 278, Gifts .

- For discussion and forms for use in actions involving injuries sustained on public land, see Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act .

- For general discussion, procedures, and forms for use in actions to quiet title to real property, see Ch. 482, Quieting Title .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawPersonal GiftsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawDeedsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawEminent Domain ProceedingsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawTitle QualityAdverse Claim ActionsQuiet Title ActionsTortsPublic Entity LiabilityLiabilityState Tort Claims ActsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION
PART I. SCOPE

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 183.03through 183.09

[Reserved]

§§ 183.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 183.10

§ 183.10 Governing Statutes

Statutory dedication is governed by Gov. Code § 7050, the Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.], and the Open-Space Easement Act of 1974 [Gov. Code § 51070 et seq.].

Dedication implied by use is governed by Civ. Code § 1009.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationGeneral OverviewReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationElements

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 183.11

§ 183.11 Common Law Dedication

[1] "Dedication" Defined

Common law dedication is a voluntary transfer of an interest in land effected by (1) an offer, clearly and unequivocally indicated by the landowner's words or acts, to dedicate the land to a public use [see [2], below], and (2) an acceptance by the public of the offer [Union Transp. Co. v. Sacramento County (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 235, 240, 267 P.2d 10 ; Ackley v. City & County of San Francisco (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 108, 112, 89 Cal. Rptr. 480 ; see [6], below]. The offer of dedication and acceptance by the public may be express or implied in fact.

In addition, a distinct type of dedication, which does not depend on the owner's intent, may be implied in law when the owner fails to interrupt a continuous public use of the land for more than five years [see County of Orange v. Chandler-Sherman Corp. (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 561, 563, 564, 126 Cal. Rptr. 765 ; Cherokee Valley Farms, Inc. v. Summerville Elementary School Dist. (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 579, 585, 106 Cal. Rptr. 467 ; see also [3], below].

An attempted statutory dedication [see § 183.12] that fails may nevertheless qualify as a common law dedication [People v. County of Marin (1894) 103 Cal. 223, 229, 37 P. 203 ; see Hanshaw v. Long Valley Road Assn. (2004) 116 Cal. App. 4th 471, 477, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 357 ; Tischauser v. City of Newport Beach (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 138, 144, 37 Cal. Rptr. 141 ; City of Sacramento v. Jensen (1956) 146 Cal. App. 2d 114, 118, 303 P.2d 549] .

[2] Offer of Dedication

[a] Intent to Dedicate

To establish dedication of land for a public use, an unequivocal and clear manifestation of the owner's intent to dedicate must be shown [Faus v. County of Los Angeles (1967) 256 Cal. App. 2d 604, 610, 64 Cal. Rptr. 181] . The intent need not be evidenced by express words or documents but instead can be manifested by the acts or conduct of the owner, including a knowing acquiescence in the long and open public use of the property [Cherokee Valley Farms, Inc. v. Summerville Elementary School Dist. (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 579, 585, 106 Cal. Rptr. 467 ; see [3], below].

[b] Express Grant

An offer of dedication may be made by an express grant to a public or governmental agency [City of Los Angeles v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1959) 168 Cal. App. 2d 224, 232, 335 P.2d 1042] . The conveyance may be in the form of a grant in fee simple [see, e.g., County of Sacramento v. Lauszus (1945) 70 Cal. App. 2d 639, 644, 645, 161 P.2d 460] , a transfer for a specific purpose [see, e.g., Slavich v. Hamilton (1927) 201 Cal. 299, 303, 304, 257 P. 60] , or a grant of an easement [see, e.g., Los Angeles v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1959) 168 Cal. App. 2d 224, 227-233, 335 P.2d 1042] . A defeasible fee can be acquired by dedication if the express language in the deed or other evidence clearly shows that such a limitation on the fee is intended [Cherokee Valley Farms, Inc. v. Summerville Elementary School Dist. (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 579, 587, 106 Cal. Rptr. 467] . The conveyance may also expressly reserve specified uses to the grantor [see, e.g., City of Palos Verdes Estates v. Willett (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 394, 398, 399, 171 P.2d 26] .

[c] Description in Conveyance

An offer to dedicate land may be evidenced in a deed to adjacent property by a reference to the land as belonging to the public [Smith v. Kraintz (1962) 201 Cal. App. 2d 696, 700, 20 Cal. Rptr. 471 (reservation); see Eureka v. Gates (1902) 137 Cal. 89, 90-93, 69 P. 850 (boundary description)]. In determining whether the owner intended to make an offer of dedication, such a reference will be considered in light of the circumstances and conditions existing at the time it was made [see, e.g., Santa Ana v. Santa Ana Valley Irrigation Co. (1912) 163 Cal. 211, 218, 219, 124 P. 847 (reservation in deed of strip of land for "road purposes" when part of strip was being used by public as road, and subsequent references to land as reserved for "streets," warranted finding of offer of dedication of land); but see Flavio v. McKenzie (1963) 218 Cal. App. 2d 549, 552-555, 32 Cal. Rptr. 535 (when strip of land has been referred to as private road in several deeds and posted as such, reference to it as public highway in a single deed is not sufficient to show offer of dedication)].

[d] Map or Plat

Although an unrecorded map may constitute evidence of an intent to dedicate land for public use [see Morse v. Miller (1954) 128 Cal. App. 2d 237, 239, 247, 275 P.2d 545] , the mere making of a map designating certain areas for public or common use does not, of itself, constitute an offer of dedication [People v. Reed (1889) 81 Cal. 70, 77, 78, 22 P. 474] . However, the act of filing for record a map showing lots separated by defined areas named as streets or parks operates as an offer to dedicate those areas to public use, and sales of lots by reference to the recorded map will repeat and reinforce the offer [Archer v. Salinas City (1892) 93 Cal. 43, 49, 50, 28 P. 839 (park); Tischauser v. Newport Beach (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 138, 144, 37 Cal. Rptr. 141 (streets)].

[3] Dedication by Public Use

[a] Acquiescence in Public Use

Except as provided in Civ. Code § 1009 [see [4], below], the public use of private property can result in a common law dedication by acquiescence of the owner in the use of the land in circumstances negating a conclusion that the use is under a license [Gion v. City of Santa Cruz (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 29, 38, 84 Cal. Rptr. 162, 465 P.2d 50] . This type of dedication is implied in fact and called dedication by acquiescence in public use [Union Transp. Co. v. Sacramento County (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 235, 241, 267 P.2d 10] .

When dedication by acquiescence for a period less than five years is claimed, the owner's actual consent to the dedication must be shown [Gion v. City of Santa Cruz (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 29, 38, 84 Cal. Rptr. 162, 465 P.2d 50] .

[b] Adverse Public Use

Alternatively, the public use of private property can result in a common law dedication by open and continuous use of the land by the public for five years [Gion v. City of Santa Cruz (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 29, 38, 84 Cal. Rptr. 162, 465 P.2d

50] . This type of dedication is implied in law and termed dedication by adverse user [Union Transp. Co. v. Sacramento County (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 235, 241, 267 P.2d 10] .

When a litigant seeks to prove dedication by adverse use, the inquiry shifted from the intent and activities of the owner to those of the public. The question is whether the public used the land for more than five years with the owner's full knowledge, without asking or receiving permission to do so and without objection being made by anyone [Gion v. City of Santa Cruz (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 29, 38, 84 Cal. Rptr. 162, 465 P.2d 50] .

[4] Statutory Protection Against Dedication By Adverse Use (Civ. Code § 1009)

[a] No Right to Continue Use in Absence of Written Offer of Dedication

Civ. Code § 1009 protects owners from the threat of loss of their lands through dedication inferred from public recreational use [see Civ. Code § 1009(a); see also [3], above].

Generally, no use of private real property by the public after March 4, 1972, will ever confer on the public or any governmental body or unit a vested right to continue that use permanently in the absence of an express written irrevocable offer of dedication of the property to that use and acceptance of the offer by the county, city, or other public body to which it was made [Civ. Code § 1009(b); for exceptions, see [b] and [c], below].

An irrevocable offer of dedication may be made, accepted, or terminated in the manner prescribed in Gov. Code § 7050 or by any procedure authorized by law and not prohibited by Civ. Code § 1009 [Civ. Code § 1009(c); see § 183.12[1] (coverage of Gov. Code § 7050); see also California Legal Forms, Ch. 27A, Dedication, § 27A.200 (Matthew Bender) (irrevocable offer of dedication form)].

Although Civ. Code § 1009(b) refers to "use" of the property by the public, it is clear from the provisions of Civ. Code § 1009(a) that the statute was intended to apply solely to public recreational use of property [see Civ. Code § 1009(a)(1) (it is in best interests of state to encourage owners of private real property to make their lands available for public recreational use), (2) (owners of private real property are confronted with threat of loss of rights in their property if they allow public to use, enjoy, or pass over their property for recreational purposes)].

Civ. Code § 1009 and a related amendment of Civ. Code § 813 [see [c][ii], [d], below] prospectively abrogated the holding in Gion v. City of Santa Cruz (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 29, 84 Cal. Rptr. 162, 465 P.2d 50 . There is no public policy manifest in the statutory enactment restricting the application of Gion to claims preceding March 4, 1972, which was the operative date of the foregoing legislation [Friends of the Trails v. Blasius (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 810, 823, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 193] .

[b] Exception for Coastal and Tidal Property; Preventing Dedication Under This Exception

[i] 1000 Yards Inland of High Tide Line

The general rule of Civ. Code § 1009 does not apply to any coastal property within 1,000 yards inland of the mean high tide line of the Pacific Ocean, and harbors, estuaries, bays, and inlets of that ocean, but not including any property lying inland of the Carquinez Straits bridge and not including property between the mean high tide line and the nearest public road or highway, whichever distance is less [Civ. Code § 1009(e)].

[ii] Preventing Dedication Under This Exception

An owner of coastal or tidal property may prevent dedication under this exception by granting to the public permission to use the property. This permission may be granted by any of the following means [Civ. Code § 1009(f)]:

- Posting signs, as provided in Civ. Code § 1008, and renewing them, if they are removed, at least once a year [for further discussion of this procedure, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 27A, Dedication, § 27A.122 (Matthew Bender)].

- Publishing annually, pursuant to Gov. Code § 6066, in a newspaper of general circulation in the county or counties in which the land is located, a statement describing the property and reading substantially as follows: "Right to pass by permission and subject to control of owner: Section 1008, Civil Code."

- Recording a notice of consent to use of the land, as provided in Civ. Code § 813 [for such a notice, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 28A, Easements and Licenses, § 28A.234 (Matthew Bender)].

- Entering into a written agreement with any federal, state, or local agency providing for the public use of the land [for such an agreement, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 27A, Dedication, § 27A.203 (Matthew Bender)].

For additional discussion of the permission required to prevent dedication, see [d], below,

[c] Exception for Publicly Improved or Maintained Property; Preventing Dedication Under This Exception

[i] Improvements or Clearing Puts Owner on Notice of Public Use

The general rule of Civ. Code § 1009 notwithstanding, a governmental entity may, after five years, acquire a vested right to continue to use land for the purpose for which it was making use of the land, when the entity has used private land by an expenditure of public funds on visible improvements on or across the land or on the cleaning or maintenance related to the public use of the lands in a manner so that the owner knew or should have known that the public was making that use of the land, and the owner did not give express permission to continue the use nor take reasonable steps to enjoin, remove, or prohibit the use [Civ. Code § 1009(d)].

[ii] Preventing Dedication Under This Exception

To prevent dedication under this exception, the owner of real property may record a notice of consent to use of the land, as provided in Civ. Code § 813 [see California Legal Forms, Ch. 28A, Easements and Licenses, § 28A.234 (Matthew Bender) (sample notice of consent)]. In any judicial proceeding involving the issue of whether or not all or any portion of the land has been dedicated to public use, such a recorded notice is conclusive evidence that subsequent use of the land by the public during the time the notice is in effect, other than a use expressly allowed by a written or recorded map, agreement, deed, or dedication, is permissive and with consent [Civ. Code § 813; see [4][a], above (Civ. Code §§ 813 and 1009 prospectively abrogated holding in Gion v. Santa Cruz (1970) 84 Cal. Rptr. 162, 465 P.2d 50)].

For additional discussion of the permission required to prevent dedication, see [d], below,

[d] Permissible Public Use

After taking any of the actions provided to prevent dedication under either of the two exceptions discussed in [b] and [c], above, and during the time the action is effective, the owner of coastal or other real property must not prevent, by physical obstruction, notice, or otherwise, any public use that is appropriate under the permission granted [Civ. Code §§ 813, 1009(f)].

The permission for public use may be conditioned on reasonable restrictions on the time, place, and manner of public use. No use in violation of reasonable restrictions will be considered public use for purposes of a finding of implied dedication [Civ. Code §§ 813, 1009(g)].

[5] Revocation of Offer

A common law offer of dedication must be accepted within a reasonable time. Until it is accepted, the owner or a successor in interest may expressly or implicitly revoke it [Eltinge v. Santos (1915) 171 Cal. 278, 282-283, 152 P. 915 (successor in interest); People v. Reed (1889) 81 Cal. 70, 80, 22 P. 474 (owner)].

An implicit revocation may be evidenced by acts inconsistent with the use for which the land was allegedly dedicated, such as filing a map or plat on which the property is delineated as private property, conveying the property to a third person without recognizing the public's easement [Myers v. City of Oceanside (1907) 7 Cal. App. 87, 92, 93 P. 686] , applying the property to an inconsistent use, or changing the offer of dedication. The dedicator's death may also effect a revocation [County of Orange v. Cole (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 163, 170, 215 P.2d 41] .

[6] Acceptance

[a] Essential Element of Dedication; Express or Implied

The public's acceptance of the offer of dedication within a reasonable time after the offer was made is an essential element of dedication [Union Transp. Co. v. Sacramento County (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 235, 240, 267 P.2d 10 (elements of dedication); City of Santa Clara v. Ivancovich (1941) 47 Cal. App. 2d 502, 511, 118 P.2d 303 (acceptance must be made within reasonable time)], except in the case of a formal dedication by the state or a municipality [Mills v. City of Los Angeles (1891) 90 Cal. 522, 531, 27 P.354 (city); California v. United States (9th Cir. 1948) 169 F.2d 914, 921-922] .

Acceptance may be express or implied. It is express when formal acceptance is made by the proper authorities [County of Inyo v. Given (1920) 183 Cal. 415, 418, 191 P. 688] . Acceptance may be implied by official acts of dominion over the property, such as performance of maintenance and repair work, or from public use [Tischauser v. Newport Beach (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 138, 145, 37 Cal. Rptr. 141 ; see [4], above].

In another case, a city ordinance did not constitute or memorialize an unconditional acceptance of a donation deed with a park use restriction, when acceptance was expressly subject to execution of an agreement between the parties regarding certain matters, the parties continued to negotiate the terms of the dedication and acceptance after the ordinance was enacted, and there was no evidence that the agreement as contemplated by the ordinance was ever executed [Baldwin v. City of Los Angeles (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 819, 839, 83 Cal. Rptr. 2d 178] .

[b] No Public Liability for Road Maintenance Prior to Acceptance

No city or county will be held liable for failure to maintain any road unless and until it has been accepted into the county road or city street systems, whichever is applicable, by resolution of the board of supervisors of the county or governing body of the city [Sts. & Hy. Code §§ 941, 1806; see Hanshaw v. Long Valley Road Assn. (2004) 116 Cal. App. 4th 471, 479-480, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 357 (common law dedication does not result in public liability for road maintenance or damages caused by poor maintenance; there is no liability unless dedication is unconditionally accepted by public entity)].

[c] Conditions Triggering Conclusive Presumption of Nonacceptance

A conclusive presumption that the offered dedication was not accepted arises when all of the following conditions are satisfied [Code Civ. Proc. § 771.010; see § 183.30]:

- The offer to dedicate land for public improvement was made by map only.
- No acceptance of the dedication was made and recorded within 25 years after the offer.

- The land was not used for the purpose for which the dedication was offered, for 25 years.

- The land was sold to a third person after the filing of the map and was used as if free of the dedication.

In a suit to quiet title to the land [see § 183.30], the governmental agency to which the dedication was made by map must be a defendant, and the decree in favor of the plaintiff will clear the title and remove the cloud created by the offered dedication [Code Civ. Proc. § 771.020].

A roadway that was depicted on a subdivision map and was formally accepted into the city's system of public streets in 1935 but never used as a public street or for any other public purpose did not come within the conclusive presumption of nonacceptance in Code Civ. Proc. § 771.010. First, the city accepted the dedication 20 years before the predecessor statute to § 771.010 was enacted, and there was no indication the statute was intended to operate retroactively. In addition, the complaint did not allege that the street was used "as if free of the dedication." To the contrary, it alleged that the street had not been used for any purpose, public or private, since the 1888 offer to dedicate was made. Thus, abutting property owners who were seeking to quiet title in a portion of the dedicated street did not meet the fourth criteria essential for the statute's application [Wright v. City of Morro Bay (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 767, 771-772, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 719] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Presumption Used in Other Actions. The presumption may be used in other types of actions, such as an action in inverse condemnation [Paris v. Santa Clara County (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 691, 699, 76 Cal. Rptr. 66] .

[7] Abandonment

[a] Power to Abandon

The appropriate governmental authority, acting in its legislative capacity, has the power to abandon the rights of the public in dedicated property [see Gov. Code § 38440 (abandonment of park owned by city); Gov. Code § 38501 (power of legislative body of city to abandon city park); Health & Safety Code § 5400 (power of board of supervisors to abandon easements for sewage or drainage); Sts. & Hy. Code §§ 901, 954, 954.5 (power of board of supervisors to abandon county highways), § 8320 (city counsel's power to vacate streets)].

[b] Reversion of Title or Other Disposition of Property

On abandonment of an easement for streets or highways, title reverts to the owner of the underlying fee; or, if the public owns the property, the appropriate governmental authority may dispose of the property as provided by statute [Sts. & Hy. Code §§ 118, 8355-8357 (streets); Safwenberg v. Marquez (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 301, 308, 123 Cal. Rptr. 405 (abandonment of easement for city streets)]. If there is no express or implied reservation of a right of reversion in the dedication or instrument of purchase, park lands abandoned pursuant to the Municipal Park Abandonment Law of 1939 [Gov. Code § 38501 et seq.] will not revert to private ownership [Gov. Code § 38510; see Gov. Code § 38501 (situations in which park may be abandoned)].

[c] Effect on Easements or Other Rights in Property

An abandonment or sale of a park pursuant to the Municipal Park Abandonment Law of 1939 [Gov. Code § 38501 et seq.] does not affect any private easement or other right in lands acquired or owned by any private person or corporation, or any right, easement, or interest owned or under the control of any other governmental agency for public use other than park purposes [Gov. Code § 38510].

The vacation of a street or highway extinguishes all private easements in it claimed by reason of the purchase of a lot by reference to a map or plat on which the street or highway is shown, other than a private easement of ingress and egress to the lot from or to the street or highway [Sts. & Hy. Code § 8353(a)]. Such a private easement is not extinguished if within two years after the date the vacation is complete, the claimant records a verified notice describing the easement [Sts. & Hy. Code § 8353(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawAdverse PossessionClaims By & Against Governmental EntitiesReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationGeneral OverviewReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationElementsReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationProcedureReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationTermination

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 183.12

§ 183.12 Statutory Dedication

[1] Dedication Under Gov. Code § 7050

With the consent of the city, county, or city and county, an offer of dedication of real property for any public purpose may be executed, acknowledged, and recorded in the manner of a conveyance of real property. Such an offer of dedication, when recorded in the office of the county recorder, is irrevocable and may be accepted at any time by the city council of the city within which the real property is located, or if the property is located in an unincorporated territory, by the board of supervisors of the county within which the property is situated. This procedure is an alternative to any other procedure authorized by law [Gov. Code § 7050].

Such an offer of dedication may be terminated, and the right to accept it may be abandoned, in the same manner prescribed for abandonment or vacation of streets and highways [Gov. Code § 7050; see Sts. & Hy. Code §§ 901, 954-960.5 (abandonment of county highways); Sts. & Hy. Code § 8300 et seq. (vacation of city streets)].

[2] Dedication Under Subdivision Map Act

[a] Dedication When Land Is Subdivided

The Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.] sets out the procedure and requirements for dedication of land for streets or other public purposes when a tract of land is subdivided [see Gov. Code § 66424 (subdivision defined)].

Dedications of or offers to dedicate interests in real property for specified public purposes are made by a statement on the final map, signed and acknowledged by all persons having any record title interest in the real property being subdivided, subject to Gov. Code § 66436 (requirement of statement of consent to final map) [Gov. Code § 66439(a)]. If any street shown on a final map is not offered for dedication, the certificate may contain a statement to this effect. If such a statement appears on the map, and if the map is approved by the legislative body, the use of any such street or streets by the public will be permissive only. An offer of dedication of real property for street or public utility easement purposes will be deemed not to include any public utilities facilities located on or under the real property unless, and only to the extent that, an intent to dedicate the facilities is expressly declared in the statement [Gov. Code § 66439(b), (c)].

If a subdivider is required to make a dedication for specified public purposes on a final map, the local agency must specify whether the dedication is to be in fee or as an easement [Gov. Code § 66439(d)(1)], and the subdivider must include specified language in the dedication clause on the final map or any separate instrument--"The real property described below is dedicated [in fee or as an easement] for public purposes:"--preceding a description of the dedicated property or easement that is adequate to convey it [Gov. Code § 66439(d)(2), (3)].

Acceptance by the public may operate as a common-law dedication following an incomplete or rejected dedication under the Subdivision Map Act. The provisions of the Act do not supercede or bar application of common-law dedication principles [Hanshaw v. Long Valley Road Assn. (2004) 116 Cal. App. 4th 471, 477-478, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 357 ; see § 183.11 for coverage of common-law dedication].

[b] Ordinance Requiring Street Dedication

A local ordinance may require dedication or an irrevocable offer of dedication of real property within a subdivision for streets, alleys, including access rights and abutter's rights, drainage, public utility easements, and other public easements [Gov. Code § 66475; see Gov. Code § 66475 et seq.].

Land dedicated after 1989 for any purpose other than for open space, parks, and schools must be returned to the subdivider if the public entity determines that the public purpose for which it was dedicated no longer exists [Gov. Code § 66477.5(a), (c), (e)].

[c] Acceptance, Termination, and Abandonment

[i] Acceptance or Rejection on Approval of Final Map

At the time the legislative body or the official designated pursuant to Gov. Code § 66458 approves a final map, the legislative body or designated official must also accept, accept subject to improvement, or reject any offer of dedication [Gov. Code § 66477.1; see Gov. Code § 66458(d)].

[ii] Acceptance, Termination, or Abandonment After Initial Rejection

If, when the final map is approved, any offers of dedication of land for storm drainage easements or for streets, paths, alleys, public utility easements, or transit rights-of-way that directly benefit the residents of the subdivision are rejected, the offer of dedication will remain open, and the legislative body may by resolution at any later date and without further action by the subdivider rescind its rejection and accept any such offers [Gov. Code § 66477.2(a)]. However, the rejected offers may be terminated and abandoned in the manner prescribed for abandonment or vacation of streets and highways [Gov. Code § 66477.2(c); see Sts. & Hy. Code § 8300 et seq. (vacation of city streets)].

Before revocation, an offer of dedication can be accepted in two ways. If the offeror engages in acts sufficient to revoke the offer under common law principles [see § 183.11], then the offer is revoked as to the public at large, such that it cannot be implicitly accepted by further public use. The offer continues to remain open, however, for formal acceptance by the public entity [Biagini v. Beckham (2008) 163 Cal. App. 4th 1000, 1016, 78 Cal. Rptr. 3d 171].

There are time limits for acceptance of offers of dedication of specific easements in subdivisions fronting the ocean or a bay shoreline, any public waterway, river, or stream, or any lake or reservoir owned in part or entirely by any public agency [see Gov. Code § 66477.2(b)]. Such an offer of dedication that is not accepted within the specified time limit will be deemed abandoned [Gov. Code § 66477.2(d)]. Additionally, a conclusive presumption of nonacceptance may arise when the land has not been used for its dedicated purpose for 25 years [see Code Civ. Proc. § 771.010(b); Paris v. County of Santa Clara (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 691, 695-698, 76 Cal. Rptr. 66 ; see also § 183.11[6][c]].

Except as provided in Gov. Code §§ 66499.16-66499.18 (regarding findings and conditions necessary to, and the effect on dedication and offers of, a reversion of acreage), if a resubdivision or reversion to acreage of the tract is subsequently filed for approval, any offer of dedication previously rejected will be deemed terminated on the approval of the map by the legislative body. The map must contain a notation identifying the offer or offers of dedication deemed terminated [Gov. Code § 66477.2(e)].

[3] Dedication Under Open-Space Easement Act of 1974

Under the Open-Space Easement Act of 1974 [Gov. Code § 51070 et seq.], any county or city that has an adopted open-space plan may accept or approve a grant of an open-space easement on privately owned land within its boundaries [Gov. Code § 51080].

The execution and acceptance of a deed or other instrument granting any right or interest in perpetuity or for a term of years in open-space land and imposing restrictions that, through limitation of future use, will effectively preserve for public use or enjoyment the natural or scenic character of the open-space land, constitutes a dedication to the public of the open-space character of the land for the term specified [Gov. Code §§ 51075(d), 51081].

[4] Comprehensive Index of Conservation Easements by County Recorder

Each county recorder must develop and maintain, within the county's existing indexing system, a comprehensive index of conservation easements and Notices of Conservation Easements on land within the county. This index must include all conservation easements, as defined, recorded on or after January 1, 2002 [Gov. Code § 27255(a), (f)]. In addition, a conservation easement recorded before January 1, 2002, may be included in the index if a party to the easement fills out and records a Notice of Conservation Easement for the previously recorded easement, and files the notice in the county in which the affected real property is located [Gov. Code § 27255(c), (d)].

For purpose of inclusion in the comprehensive index, a "conservation easement" means any limitation in a recorded instrument that [Gov. Code § 27255(b)]:

- Contains an easement, restriction, covenant, condition, or offer to dedicate, which is or has been executed by or on behalf of the owner of the land subject to that limitation.

- Is binding on successive owners of the land.

- Has as its purpose to retain land predominantly in its natural, scenic, historical, agricultural, forested, or open-space condition.

Included in the definition of "conservation easement" for these purposes are conservation easements as defined in Civ. Code § 815.1 [see Ch. 240, Easements], open-space easements as defined in Gov. Code § 51075 [see § 183.12[3]], and agricultural conservation easements as defined in Pub. Res. Code § 10211 [Gov. Code § 27255(b); see Ch. 579, Zoning and Planning].

For additional information on the county recorder's comprehensive index of conservation easements, as well as an example of the required statutory form to file the notice of a conservation easement, see Ch. 240, Easements .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawLimited Use RightsEasementsConservation EasementsReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationElementsReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By

DeedDedicationProcedureReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationTerminationReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 183.13

§ 183.13 Title to Dedicated Property

[1] Fee or Easement

Whether the property interest acquired by the public by a common law dedication is a fee or an easement depends on the facts of the particular case [see Cherokee Valley Farms, Inc. v. Summerville Elementary School Dist. (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 579, 586, 587, 106 Cal. Rptr. 467] .

When land is dedicated for use as a street or highway, the public ordinarily acquires only an easement for the right of way for purposes of travel, with any incidents that are appurtenant or necessary for reasonable enjoyment, construction, or maintenance. Title to the underlying fee remains in the original owner and, in absence of a clear expression to the contrary in the deed, passes to the successors in ownership of the abutting land [Safwenberg v. Marquez (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 301, 307, 308, 123 Cal. Rptr. 405] .

When land is dedicated for use as a park, the public generally acquires a fee simple [Morse v. E.A. Robey & Co. (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 464, 469, 29 Cal. Rptr. 734] .

[2] Title Under Subdivision Map Act

Title to land dedicated under the Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.] passes when the final map or a resolution of acceptance by the legislative body is filed in the office of the county recorder [Gov. Code § 66477.3]. The Subdivision Map Act does not specify the interest acquired at that time; however, by analogy to cases involving offers of dedication made by the filing of a subdivision map and accepted by the public, the same general rules set forth in [1], above, may apply [Elliott v. McIntosh (1919) 41 Cal. App. 763, 766, 183 P. 692 (streets); see Washington etc. Co. v. Los Angeles (1940) 38 Cal. App. 2d 135, 138, 100 P.2d 828 (parks)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawLimited Use RightsEasementsPublic EasementsReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationElementsReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By

DeedDedicationProcedureReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 183.14

§ 183.14 Actions to Determine Title

Questions as to whether land has been dedicated to the public use and questions regarding the extent of the interest acquired by the public are generally litigated in actions to quiet title to the real property [see, e.g., Safwenberg v. Marquez (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 301, 304, 123 Cal. Rptr. 405 (quiet title action to determine title to portion of abandoned street); Cherokee Valley Farms, Inc. v. Summerville Elementary School Dist. (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 579, 582, 584-586, 106 Cal. Rptr. 467 (quiet title action to determine title to property used for school purposes)].

For a form of complaint to quiet title for use when a conclusive presumption of nonacceptance of an offer of dedication has arisen pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 771.010 [see § 183.11[6][c]], see § 183.30.

These issues may also arise in an action against a public entity for damages for personal injuries based on a dangerous condition of land allegedly dedicated to the public use [see, e.g., Union Transp. Co. v. Sacramento County (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 235, 238-245, 267 P.2d 10 ; Ackley v. City & County of San Francisco (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 108, 112-114, 89 Cal. Rptr. 480] . For general forms suitable for use in such a case, see Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationGeneral OverviewReal Property LawTitle QualityAdverse Claim ActionsQuiet Title Actions

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 183.15

§ 183.15 Change in Dedicated Use

[1] Restrictions on Use

Generally, when a tract is dedicated with a restriction on its use, a governmental authority cannot change the use of the property to purposes inconsistent with the terms of the dedication [Spinks v. City of Los Angeles (1934) 220 Cal. 366, 368, 31 P.2d 193 ; Big Sur Properties v. Mott (1976) 62 Cal. App. 3d 99, 103, 104, 132 Cal. Rptr. 835] .

The uses to which the property may be devoted depend to some extent on whether it was dedicated by a private donor or by public use. Dedications by private donors are strictly construed according to the terms of the grant [see, e.g., Big Sur Properties v. Mott (1976) 62 Cal. App. 3d 99, 103, 132 Cal. Rptr. 835 (when private dedication of land exclusively for park purposes was involved, public trust on which state held that land prohibited private access rights-of-way authorized by Pub. Res. Code § 5003.5)], while less strict constructions are adopted regarding dedications by public use [Slavich v. Hamilton (1927) 201 Cal. 299, 303, 257 P. 60 ; see, e.g., Spinks v. City of Los Angeles (1934) 220 Cal. 366, 368, 369, 31 P.2d 193 (in case involving public dedication for park purposes, city was allowed to extend street across park in order to meet changing conditions)].

[2] Remedies

Diversion of dedicated land to purposes inconsistent with the terms of the dedication may be enjoined [see City of Hermosa Beach v. Superior Court (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 295, 300, 41 Cal. Rptr. 796 ; for a form of complaint, see § 183.31].

When the deed provides for a reversion of the property if conditions as to use are not satisfied, the dedicator or successors in interest may, on breach of those conditions, sue to quiet title and recover the property [see, e.g., Abbot Kinney Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1963) 223 Cal. App. 2d 668, 669, 674, 36 Cal. Rptr. 113 ; see also Civ. Code § 826].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesInjunctionsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawEstatesFuture InterestsReverter &

ReversionsReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationGeneral OverviewReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationTermination

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 183.16through 183.19

[Reserved]

§§ 183.16[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 183.20

§ 183.20 Related Matthew Bender Publications

For transactional forms relating to dedication, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 27A, Dedication (Matthew Bender)

For discussion of statutory dedication under the Subdivision Map Act, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 290, The Subdivision Map (Matthew Bender)

For discussion of common law dedication of real property, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 361, Dedication (Matthew Bender)

For discussion of the use of dedication to obtain an inter vivos transfer of land, see Powell & Rohan, Powell on Real Property, Ch. 84, Inter Vivos Transfer of Land Otherwise Than by Deed (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationGeneral OverviewReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 183.21

§ 183.21 State Statutes

[1] Abandonment and Vacation

Abandonment of park owned by city. Gov. Code § 38440

Municipal Park Abandonment Law of 1939. Gov. Code § 38501 et seq.

Abandonment of county highways. Sts. & Hy. Code §§ 901, 954, 954.5, 960.5

Vacation of public streets, highways, and service easements. Sts. & Hy. Code § 8300 et seq.

[2] Acceptance

Conclusive presumption of nonacceptance when land is not used for dedicated purpose for 25 years. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 771.010, 771.020

Acceptance of road into county road system and liability for maintenance. Sts. & Hy. Code § 941

Acceptance of road or street by governing body of city and liability for maintenance. Sts. & Hy. Code § 1806

[3] Adverse Possession of Dedicated Land

Property dedicated to public use is exempt from acquisition of title by adverse possession or prescription. Civ. Code § 1007

[4] Implied Dedication

Recording notice of consent to use of land. Civ. Code § 813

Dedication implied from public use. Civ. Code § 1009

Route of travel used by public is not permitted to become county highway by use. Sts. & Hy. Code § 904

[5] Statutory Dedication

[a] Dedication Under Gov. Code § 7050

Irrevocable offer of dedication is made by execution, acknowledgment, and recordation of offer in same manner as conveyance. Gov. Code § 7050

[b] Dedication Under Open-Space Easement Act of 1974

Open-Space Easement Act of 1974. Gov. Code § 51070 et seq.

"Open-space easement" defined. Gov. Code § 51075(d)

County or city that has adopted open-space plan is entitled to accept or approve grant of open-space easement. Gov. Code § 51080

Dedication of open-space easement. Gov. Code § 51081

[c] Dedication Under Subdivision Map Act

Subdivision Map Act. Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.

Statement of consent requirements and exceptions. Gov. Code § 66436

Statement of dedication and offers to dedicate. Gov. Code § 66439

Certificate of dedication and offers to dedicate. Gov. Code § 66440

Requirement of dedication or irrevocable offer of dedication imposed by local ordinance. Gov. Code § 66475

Bicycle paths. Gov. Code § 66475.1

Local transit facilities. Gov. Code § 66475.2

Waiver of direct access rights. Gov. Code § 66476

Dedications for park and recreational purposes. Gov. Code § 66477

Acceptance or rejection of offers of dedication. Gov. Code § 66477.1

Continuation of offer of dedication after rejection, termination, and abandonment. Gov. Code § 66477.2

When acceptance of offer of dedication is effective. Gov. Code § 66477.3

Dedication for school purposes. Gov. Code § 66478

Necessity of provision for dedication of public easement along portion of bank of public waterway, river, or stream. Gov. Code § 66478.5

Necessity of provision for dedication of public easement for access to coastline or shoreline in plan not approved by local agency before 1969. Gov. Code § 66478.11

Necessity of provision for dedication of public easement for access to lake or reservoir owned in part or entirely by public agency. Gov. Code § 66478.12

Necessity of provision for reasonable public access to coastline, shoreline, lake, or reservoir when parcel to be developed is in excess of 40 acres and was created as such parcel after 1969. Gov. Code § 66478.13

[6] Use of Dedicated Land

Authorization of private access rights-of-way across state parks. Pub. Res. Code § 5003.5

Dedication of county park land for highway purposes. Pub. Res. Code § 5160

Lease by city of dedicated land for extraction of minerals, oil, or gas. Pub. Res. Code § 7057

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawAdverse PossessionClaims By & Against Governmental EntitiesReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationGeneral OverviewReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationElementsReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationTermination

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 183.22

§ 183.22 Decisions

[1] Abandonment

Abandonment of easement or public use of property acquired by grant to public authorities requires clear manifestation of intention to abandon. Humboldt County v. Van Duzer (1920) 48 Cal. App. 640, 644, 192 P. 192

Mere nonuse of easement acquired by grant to public authorities does not amount to abandonment. Humboldt County v. Van Duzer (1920) 48 Cal. App. 640, 644, 192 P. 192

[2] Acceptance

Ordinance accepting all offers of dedication of streets and alleys within city is sufficient formal acceptance of specific street when offer of dedication had been made by reference to street in recorded deed; acceptance need not mention street by name. City of Eureka v. Armstrong (1890) 83 Cal. 623, 625, 22 P. 928

City ordinance did not constitute or memorialize unconditional acceptance of donation deed with park use restriction, because acceptance was expressly subject to execution of agreement between the parties regarding certain matters, parties continued to negotiate terms of dedication and acceptance after ordinance was enacted, and there was no evidence that agreement as contemplated by ordinance was ever executed. Baldwin v. City of Los Angeles (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 819, 839, 83 Cal. Rptr. 2d 178

Acceptance of dedication in recorded map, which was conditional on improvement of road that never occurred, did not create public easement for road. Mikels v. Rager (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 334, 352-354, 284 Cal. Rptr. 87

When offer of dedication for public road in recorded map is accepted by public use, entire width shown in map is dedicated, not just part used. Hays v. Vanek (1989) 217 Cal. App. 3d 271, 284-286, 266 Cal. Rptr. 856

[3] Implied Dedication

Gion-Dietz rule of implied dedication was applied retroactively to implied dedication based on facts arising before Gion-Dietz decision. County of Los Angeles v. Berk (1980) 26 Cal. 3d 201, 212-216, 161 Cal. Rptr. 742, 605 P.2d 381

Civ. Code § 1009 barred claim for recreational easement based on creation and use of network of trails on undeveloped private property. Bustillos v. Murphy (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 1277, 1281, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 895

Continuous, regular, and open use by public of irrigation canal road from 1940's to 1971 was sufficient to establish dedication to public use; Civ. Code § 1009, which operated prospectively only, did not abrogate doctrine established in Gion v. Santa Cruz (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 29, 84 Cal. Rptr. 162 P.2d 50. Friends of the Trails v. Blasius (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 810, 825-826, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 193

Showing necessary for public dedication is only that persons using property believed public had right to such use; required showing is not same as for easement by prescription. Bess v. County of Humboldt (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 1544, 1549-1550, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 399

Public use and county maintenance of road for seven years before acceptance of road into county system of highways was implied-in-fact dedication of land as public road. Brumbaugh v. County of Imperial (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 556, 561-563, 184 Cal. Rptr. 11

Public use that is adverse and under claim of legal right must be shown when open fields and hillsides of inland areas are involved. Richmond Ramblers Motorcycle Club v. Western Title Guar. Co. (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 747, 754-759, 121 Cal. Rptr. 308

[4] Offer of Dedication

Reference in deed to map showing proposed subdivision and streets did not indicate grantor's intent to dedicate streets when reference was only for purpose of description of land conveyed, map was prepared by others, and grantor expressly repudiated map for all other purposes and prevented recordation of map. City of Eureka v. Fay (1895) 107 Cal. 166, 171, 40 P. 235

Mere statement of owner of land that it is part of street, while not being offer to dedicate, is probative fact of value in determining whether owner had previously dedicated land. Cerf v. Pfleging (1892) 94 Cal. 131, 136, 29 P. 417

[5] Title to Dedicated Property

Owner of fee in land over which public highway has been laid retains right in land for all purposes that are consistent with full enjoyment of easement acquired by public. Wright v. Austin (1904) 143 Cal. 236, 239, 76 P. 1023

[6] Use of Dedicated Land

Lease of park land for subsurface parking lot was not inconsistent with dedication by public authority for park purposes when revenue was to go to park fund and public would suffer only temporary deprivation of park use during construction and permanent deprivation of only 6.5 percent of park surface used for entrances and exits. San Francisco v. Linares (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 441, 444-448, 106 P.2d 369

Whether particular use amounts to diversion from purpose for which dedication was made depends on circumstances of dedication and intention of party making it. Wattson v. Eldridge (1929) 207 Cal. 314, 320, 278 P. 236

Dedicator is presumed to have intended dedicated property to be used in such way by public as will be most convenient and comfortable, and according to not only proprieties and usages known at time of dedication but also those justified by lapse of time and change in conditions. Wattson v. Eldridge (1929) 207 Cal. 314, 320, 278 P. 236

When property was dedicated for public library, proposed use of property as patio for neighboring commercial development did not directly contribute to library purposes and was subject to injunction. Save the Welwood Murray Memorial Library v. City Council (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1003, 1014-1016, 263 Cal. Rptr. 896

Filling of park area with rubbish for purpose of providing level land on which to build play facilities was not inconsistent with dedicator's intent. Griffith v. City of Los Angeles (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 331, 339, 340, 346 P.2d 49

Public must strictly comply with terms of offer of dedication if dedication is accepted, and public is thereafter barred from substantially impairing or destroying reservation of rights in dedicated land without dedicator's consent or payment of just compensation. Hill v. City of Oxnard (1920) 46 Cal. App. 624, 628, 189 P. 825 ; see Wofford Heights Associates v. County of Kern (1963) 219 Cal. App. 2d 34, 40-42, 32 Cal. Rptr. 870

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationGeneral OverviewReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationElementsReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationTermination

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 183.23

§ 183.23 Attorney General Opinions

Requirement of signature of trustee under deed of trust that encumbers property being subdivided as condition of approval of final map is not permitted to be suspended or modified by local legislative body when there has been dedication or offer of dedication in connection with parcel map. 59 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 386 (1976)

Termination of offer of dedication of land. 54 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 230 (1971)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationElementsReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationTerminationReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 183.24

§ 183.24 Law Reviews

Comment, Fear and Loathing on the California Coastline: Are Coastal Commission Property Exactions Constitutional? 14 Pepperdine L. Rev. 357 (1987)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 183.25

§ 183.25 Text References

Miller & Starr, Current Law of California Real Estate, ch. 21, Dedication (2d ed., 1989)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 12, Real Property, §§ 239-253 (10th ed. 2005)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 183.26through 183.29

[Reserved]

§§ 183.26[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION
PART IV. FORMS

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 183.30

§ 183.30 Complaint to Quiet Title to Real Property--By Purchaser From Dedicating Owner Against City--Nonacceptance of Dedication By Nonuse for 25 Years [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 771.010, 771.020]

[1] FORM Complaint to Quiet Title to Real Property--By Purchaser From Dedicating Owner Against City--Nonacceptance of Dedication By Nonuse for 25 Years [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 771.010, 771.020]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT TO QUIET TITLE TO REAL PROP-
_____ [name],	)	ERTY
Defendant.	)	(Nonacceptance of Dedication)
	)
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant _____ [name of city] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a municipal corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of California and situated in the County of _____ [or allege other capacity of defendant as appropriate].

2. Plaintiff is the sole owner of real property located in the County of _____ and described as follows: _____ [set forth legal description and street address or common designation, if any].

3. Plaintiff was _____ [seised or possessed] of the property in question within five years before the commencement of this action.

4. On _____ [date more than 25 years past], plaintiff's predecessor in title offered the above-described property to defendant, dedicating the tract for _____ [set forth public purpose, e.g., park purposes]. That offer of dedication was made by map, and recorded in the Official Records of the County of _____, California, Book/Reel _____, page/image _____. A copy of that map is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof. Defendant's claim, against which plaintiff is seeking to quiet title, is based on that offer of dedication.

5. No acceptance of that offer of dedication has been recorded, and the offer of dedication has not been accepted.

6. From _____ [date more than 25 years past], to the date of the filing of this complaint, the above real property has not been used for the purpose for which the dedication was proposed, but has been used for the purpose of _____ [specify purpose, e.g., growing crops].

7. On _____ [date], plaintiff purchased the property from _____ [name] by deed, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit B and made a part hereof. Since this purchase, the property has been used as if free of the proposed dedication and for the purpose of _____ [specify, e.g., growing crops].

8. Plaintiff seeks to quiet title against the claim of defendant based on the attempted dedication described in Paragraph 4 of this complaint. This claim is without any right, and defendant has no right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the above real property.

9. Plaintiff seeks to quiet title as of _____ [date] _____ [for the reason that _____ (if date is other than date complaint is filed, allege why determination as of that date is sought)].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays for judgment as follows:

1. That plaintiff is the _____ [specify interest claimed e.g., owner in fee simple] of the property and that defendant has no interest in the property adverse to plaintiff;

2. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters that are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

The form of complaint in [1], above, is for use in an action to quiet title to real property based on the conclusive presumption that arises in certain cases in which, after an offer of dedication is made by map alone, the land has not been accepted or used for its dedicated purpose for a period of 25 years [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 771.010, 771.020; Paris v. County of Santa Clara (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 691, 698, 76 Cal. Rptr. 66 (county was unable to avoid effect of conclusive presumption of nonacceptance merely by undertaking to accept offer of dedication more than 25 years after it was made but before commencement of suit by property owner); see also § 183.11[6][c]].

[3] Required Allegations

The complaint must include the following allegations [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020]:

- A description of the property that is the subject of the action (Paragraph 2), including both the legal description and the street address or common designation, if any.

- The plaintiff's title as to which a determination is sought and the basis of the title (Paragraph 7).

- The adverse claims to the plaintiff's title against which a determination is sought (Paragraphs 4 and 8).

- The date as of which the determination is sought (Paragraph 10). If the determination is sought as of a date other than the date the complaint is filed, the complaint must include a statement of the reasons why a determination as of that date is sought.

[4] Who Must Be Defendants

The plaintiff must name as defendants the persons having adverse claims to the plaintiff's title against which a determination is sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.010]. In this form, there is only one actual defendant: the city (or other public entity) to which the offer of dedication was made. Additional defendants who might normally be sued in quiet title actions [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 762.060, 763.010(c), 764.030 (unknown claimants); see Ch. 482, Quieting Title] would not be sued in the present case.

[5] Verification

The complaint must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020].

[6] Jurisdiction and Venue

Quiet title actions are in the jurisdiction of the superior court and are not limited civil cases [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86, 580(b)(3), 760.040(a)]. Subject to the power of the court to transfer actions, the proper county for the trial of an action to quiet title to real property is the county in which the real property, or some of it, is located [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.050(a)].

[7] Service of Summons

The form, content, and manner of the service of summons is the same as in civil actions generally [Code Civ. Proc. § 763.010(a)]. If unknown defendants are named, there must also be service by publication and posting [Code Civ. Proc. § 763.010(b)]. The requirements for service by publication and posting are discussed in Ch. 482, Quieting Title . The procedure for service of summons is set forth in Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

[8] Lis Pendens

Immediately on the commencement of a quiet title action, the plaintiff must file a lis pendens in the office of the county recorder of each county in which any real property described in the complaint is located [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.010(b)]. The lis pendens gives constructive notice of the pendency of the action to subsequent purchasers or encumbrancers [Code Civ. Proc. § 405.24]. For further discussion of lis pendens, see Ch. 348, Lis Pendens .

[9] Cross References

For alternative allegations as to agency, capacity, and residence of parties, as well as fictitious name allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used

For alternative forms of captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions

For discussion and forms relating to the format of complaints, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints

For a discussion and forms for use in actions for inverse condemnation, see Ch. 247, Eminent Domain

For discussion and forms relating to fax service and filing of papers, see Ch. 264, Fax Filing and Service of Papers

For discussion of jurisdiction in California courts in general, see Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter

For alternative forms of prayers, see Ch. 420, Prayers

For discussion and forms relating to quiet title actions, see Ch. 482, Quieting Title

For discussion and forms relating to service of summons generally, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers

For forms of allegations showing proper venue, see Ch. 571, Venue

For alternative forms of verification, see Ch. 572, Verification

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 183 DEDICATION
PART IV. FORMS

15-183 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 183.31

§ 183.31 Complaint for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. § 527], and Permanent Injunction [Civ. Code § 3422; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 526a]--Taxpayer's Suit Against City and Public Officers to Restrain Nonconforming Use of Dedicated Land and Illegal Expenditure of Public Funds

[1] FORM Complaint for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction [Code Civ. Proc. § 527], and Permanent Injunction [Civ. Code § 3422; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 526a]--Taxpayer's Suit Against City and Public Officers to Restrain Nonconforming Use of Dedicated Land and Illegal Expenditure of Public Funds

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAIN FOR TEMPORARY RESTRAINING
_____ [names],	)	ORDER AND PRELIMINARY AND PERMANENT
Defendants.	)	INJUNCTIONS
	)	(Nonconforming Use of Dedicated Land)
	)

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
(Against _____ (city)),
(To Enjoin Nonconforming Use)

1. Plaintiff _____ [name] _____ [has been assessed for and is liable to pay and/or within one year before the commencement of this action has paid] a tax in _____ [city], _____ County, California. [Plaintiff is a resident of _____ (city), California.]

2. Defendant City of _____ (the City) is, and at all times mentioned in this complaint was, a municipal corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California and situated in the County of _____.

3. On _____ [date], _____ [name of grantor] granted by deed to the City real property situated in the City and described as follows (the Dedicated Land): _____ [set forth legal description of property]. By the provisions of the deed, the Dedicated Land was conveyed on condition that _____ [specify conditions as to dedicated uses, e.g., it be used exclusively and in perpetuity as a public park, that it be held in perpetuity as one contiguous parcel of land, and that no street, road, or highway be constructed on or across it. The deed further provides that, on breach of these conditions, the Dedicated Land is to revert to the grantor or his/her heirs].

4. _____ [Allege facts showing acceptance of offer of dedication, e.g., On _____ (date), by adoption of Resolution No. _____, the City Council of the City expressly accepted the deed, set apart and dedicated the Dedicated Land for the use of the public as a public park, placed it under the supervision and control of the Department of Parks of the City, and provided that it be designated "City Park"].

5. _____ [Allege facts showing that defendant city is diverting dedicated land to nonconforming use, e.g., At its regular meeting on _____ (date), the City Council adopted Resolution No. _____, by which it granted permission to the Board of Public Works to construct a street across City Park].

[EITHER]

6. On _____ [date], plaintiff demanded that _____ [specify official or agency with responsibility and authority to stop nonconforming use of dedicated land, e.g., the City Council of the City] take appropriate steps to stop and prevent the nonconforming use of the Dedicated Land; however, _____ [specify, e.g., the City Council] refused and failed, and continues to refuse and fail, to take any steps to stop and prevent the nonconforming use of the Dedicated Land.

[OR]

6. For plaintiff to make a demand of _____ [specify official or agency with responsibility and authority to stop nonconforming use of dedicated land, e.g., the City Council of the City] to take appropriate steps to stop and prevent the nonconforming use of the Dedicated Land would be unavailing in that _____ [state facts, e.g., the City Council, by adoption of Resolution No. _____, appropriated funds to be used to construct the street, and the Department of Public Works is preparing to begin construction imminently].

[CONTINUE]

7. Unless and until enjoined and restrained by order of this court, the [threatened] nonconforming use of the Dedicated Land will cause great and irreparable injury to plaintiff in that _____ [specify facts, e.g., if a street is constructed across City Park, plaintiff and the inhabitants of the City will be permanently deprived of the use of that portion of the park, and by the provision in the deed for reversion of the property to the grantor and the grantor's heirs on breach of the conditions in the deed, plaintiff may be permanently deprived of the use of the entire park].

8. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law for the injuries _____ [currently being suffered or that are threatened] in that _____ [specify facts to show inadequacy of any legal remedy, e.g., it will be impossible to compensate plaintiff for the threatened injury by any payment of damages].

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(Against _____ (names)),
(To Enjoin Illegal Expenditure of Public Funds)

9. Plaintiff refers to and incorporates Paragraphs 1 and 3-8, inclusive, of the First Cause of Action.

10. Defendants _____ [names] (the Officers) are public officials of the City who are charged with the duty of disbursing its funds.

11. The Officers have expended funds of the City and threaten and will continue to spend funds for the illegal purpose of _____ [specify, e.g., constructing a street across City Park in contravention of the terms of the dedication of the park].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays for judgment as follows:

On the First Cause of Action:

1. For a temporary restraining order, a preliminary injunction, and a permanent injunction, all enjoining the City and its agents, servants, and employees, and all persons acting under, in concert with, or for it, from diverting the Dedicated Land from use for _____ [specify dedicated use, e.g., park purposes] to use as _____ [specify proposed use, e.g., a city street];

On the Second Cause of Action:

2. For a temporary restraining order, a preliminary injunction, and a permanent injunction, all enjoining the Officers and each of them, and their agents, servants, and employees, and all persons acting under, in concert with, or for them, from expending the funds of the City for the _____ [specify, e.g., construction of a street across the Dedicated Land];

3. For reasonable attorney's fees in the sum of $_____;

On all causes of action:

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification. See § 183.30[1].]

[2] Use of Form

The form of complaint in [1], above, is for use in an action to enjoin a city from diverting dedicated land to a use inconsistent with the terms of the dedication and to enjoin public officials from illegal expenditures of public funds in the performance of acts that contravene the terms of the dedication.

[3] Allegations

The First Cause of Action alleges:

- Plaintiff's taxpayer status [see Code Civ. Proc. § 526a] (Paragraph 1).

- The defendant city's identity and capacity (Paragraph 2).

- The terms and conditions of the deed offering to dedicate the land (Paragraph 3).

- The city's acceptance of the dedication (Paragraph 4).

- Facts showing that the city is engaging or threatening to engage in diverting the dedicated land to a use not conforming with the terms of the dedication [Griffith v. City of Los Angeles (1947) 78 Cal. App. 2d 796, 800, 804, 178 P.2d 793] (Paragraph 5).

- A statement that a demand was made on the city council to stop and prevent the nonconforming use and that the city council refused [see Schaefer v. Berinstein (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 278, 292, 293, 295 P.2d 113] , or a statement that such a demand would be unavailing [see Briare v. Matthews (1927) 202 Cal. 1, 8, 9, 258 P. 939 ; Citizens' Comm. for Old Age Pensions v. Board of Supervisors (1949) 91 Cal. App. 2d 658, 660, 205 P.2d 761] (Paragraph 6).

- Facts showing that the city's conduct will produce great and irreparable harm [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526(a)(2), 527(c)(1); see also E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1] (Paragraph 7).

- Facts showing that the plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law [see Civ. Code § 3422(1)-(3); Code Civ. Proc. § 526(a)(4)-(6)] (Paragraph 8).

The Second Cause of Action incorporates appropriate allegations of the First Cause of Action and further alleges:

- Identities and capacities of the defendants who are public officials (Paragraph 10).

- Those officials' expenditure of public funds in the performance of acts that contravene the terms of the dedication and are therefore illegal [see City of Hermosa Beach v. Superior Court (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 295, 300, 41 Cal. Rptr. 796] (Paragraph 11).

For further discussion of taxpayer's suits, inlcuding discussion of the recovery of attorney's fees, see Ch. 466, Public Entities and Officers: Taxpayers' Actions .

For discussion of the procedure and additional forms for obtaining a temporary restraining order and a preliminary injunction, as well as discussion of permanent injunctive relief, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

[4] Plaintiff's Identity and Capacity

If the plaintiff is not a natural person, the complaint should allege the plaintiff's identity as an existing legal entity entitled to come into court [see Parker v. Bowron (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 344, 351, 254 P.2d 6] . The plaintiff's status as a taxpayer of the city named as defendant or on behalf of which the defendant public officers are acting must also be alleged [see Code Civ. Proc. § 526a]. An individual resident or nonresident taxpayer or a corporate taxpayer may bring suit under Code Civ. Proc. § 526a [Irwin v. Manhattan Beach (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 13, 18-20, 51 Cal. Rptr. 881, 415 P.2d 769] .

[5] Cause of Action Required for Preliminary Injunction

A preliminary injunction is warranted only if a complaint is on file that states a sufficient cause of action for injunctive relief of the character embraced in the preliminary injunction. The essential conditions for granting temporary injunctive relief are that the complaint must allege facts that appear to be sufficient to constitute a cause of action for an injunction and that the injunction is reasonably necessary to protect the legal rights of the plaintiff during the pending litigation [Moreno Mut. Irrigation Co. v. Beaumont Irrigation Dist. (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 766, 778, 211 P.2d 928] .

[6] Service Required Before Hearing

The party who obtained the temporary restraining order must, within five days after the date the order is issued or two days before the hearing, whichever is earlier, serve the following on the opposing party [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(d)(2)]:

- A copy of the complaint, if not previously served.
- The order to show cause, which must state the date, time, and place of the hearing.
- Any affidavits to be used in the application.
- A copy of the points and authorities in support of the application.

The court, for good cause on the applicant's motion or on its own motion, may shorten the time required for service on the opposing party [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(d)(2)]. When the matter first comes up for hearing, if service has not been effected as stated above, the court will dissolve the temporary restraining order [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(d)(3)]. However, on the filing of an affidavit by which the applicant swears that the opposing party could not be served within the required time, the court may reissue any temporary restraining order previously issued [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(d)(5)].

For further discussion and forms relating to the procedures governing a temporary restraining orders, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

[7] Verification

A complaint seeking preliminary injunctive relief must be either verified or accompanied by affidavits (or declarations under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) in support of the allegations of the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If relying on a verified complaint instead of affidavits (or declarations), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff to the relief sought [see E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; Finnie v. Town of Tiburon (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1, 15, 244 Cal. Rptr. 581] . For discussion, a procedural checklist, and additional forms necessary in order to obtain a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

A public entity need not verify its answer even though the complaint is verified [see Code Civ. Proc. § 446]. The verification of a complaint against a public entity does, however, preclude a general denial in superior court and some limited civil cases [see Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)].

[8] Jurisdiction

An action seeking permanent injunctive relief is in the jurisdiction of the superior court and may not be a limited civil case except as otherwise authorized by statute [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86, 580(b)(2)]. When title or right to possession is to be tired, or permanent injunctive relief is sought, the case will be classified as an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 88].

The granting of either a provisional or final injunction requires personal jurisdiction over the person enjoined [see Comfort v. Comfort (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 736, 741, 112 P.2d 259 (permanent injunction); Rothschild v. Erda (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 750, 753, 66 Cal. Rptr. 209 (preliminary injunction)].

[9] Venue

The proper county in which to bring an action against a city (or county, city and county, or local agency) to enjoin an improper use of land dedicated for a particular purpose is the county in which the defendant is situated, unless the action is brought by a county, city, city and county, or local agency, in which case the action may be tried in any county, or city and county, not a party to the action and in which the plaintiff city or local agency is not situated [see Code Civ. Proc. § 394].

The proper county in which to bring an action against a public officer for an act performed by virtue of the office is the county in which the cause of action, or some part of it, arose [Code Civ. Proc. § 393(b)], which in the present case would be the county in which the illegal expenditure was made [see Code Civ. Proc. § 526a].

[10] Cross References

For cross references relating to complaints generally, see § 183.30[9]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 184.syn

§ 184.syn Synopsis to Chapter 184: DEEDS

§ 184.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 184.02 Cross References

§§ 184.03-184.09 [Reserved]

§ 184.10 Governing Statutes

§ 184.11 Definitions

§ 184.12 Principal Types of Deeds

[1] Grant Deed

[2] Quitclaim Deed

[3] Warranty Deed

§ 184.13 Property Transferred

[1] Estates Subject to Transfer

[2] Exceptions and Reservations

[a] Distinctions

[b] Interpretation

[c] Creation of Reservation

[3] After-Acquired Title

[a] In General

[b] Instruments Passing After-Acquired Title

[c] Effect of Sale to Bona Fide Purchaser

§ 184.14 Requisites of Valid Deed

§ 184.15 Statute of Frauds

§ 184.16 Designation of Parties

[1] Identification of Grantor; Designation of Grantee

[2] Assumed or Fictitious Names

[3] Subsequent Name Changes

§ 184.17 Capacity of Grantor

[1] In General

[2] Intoxication

[3] Minors

§ 184.18 Capacity of Grantee

§ 184.19 Description of Property

[1] Requirements

[2] Parol Evidence

§ 184.20 Words of Conveyance

§ 184.21 Execution

[1] Requirements

[2] Deed Executed in Blank

§ 184.22 Delivery

[1] Intent to Transfer Title, Generally

[2] Conditional Delivery

[3] Intention to Transfer Title

[a] Mutual Intention

[b] Escrows

[c] Death or Survivorship as Condition

[4] Proof of Delivery

[5] Acceptance

[6] Presumptions and Inferences

§ 184.23 Matters Not Essential to Validity

[1] Consideration

[2] Acknowledgment and Recordation

[3] Documentary Transfer Tax

§ 184.24 Interpretation of Deeds

[1] In General

[2] Parol and Extrinsic Evidence

§ 184.25 Theories of Action

§§ 184.26-184.39 [Reserved]

§ 184.40 Governing Statutes

§ 184.41 Implied Covenants

[1] Covenants Implied From Grant Deed

[2] Covenant Against Prior Conveyances

[3] Covenant Against Encumbrances

[4] Damages for Breach of Implied Covenants

§ 184.42 Express Covenants

[1] Covenant of Warranty

[2] Covenant for Quiet Enjoyment

[3] Covenant for Further Assurance

[4] Covenant of Seisin

[5] Covenant of Right to Convey

[6] Covenant Against Encumbrances

[7] Damages for Breach of Express Covenants

§ 184.43 Additional Remedies for Failure of Title

§§ 184.44-184.59 [Reserved]

§ 184.60 Governing Law

§ 184.61 Restrictions on Use of Property

[1] Methods Available

[2] On Individual Lots

[3] On Lots in Subdivision

[4] Enforceability Against Successive Owners of Property

§ 184.62 Restrictive Covenant

[1] Defined

[2] Personal Covenants

[3] Covenants Running With Land

[a] Nature

[b] Covenants That Run Under Civ. Code § 1468

[i] Agreements Before 1969

[ii] Deed or Agreement in 1969

[iii] Deed or Agreement After 1969

[c] Covenants That Run Under Civ. Code § 1471

[d] Persons Bound

[4] Enforcement as Easements, Liens, or Equitable Servitudes

§ 184.63 Equitable Servitudes

[1] Nature and Purpose

[2] Use as Subdivision Restrictions

[3] Method of Creation

[a] Citizens Rule Regarding Recordation of Subdivision CC&Rs

[b] Overview of Relationship of Citizens Rule to Other Equitable Servitude Cases

[c] Rule in Werner v. Graham

[d] Rule in Riley v. Bear Creek Planning Committee

[4] Enforcement

§ 184.64 Judicial Interpretation of Restrictive Covenants

§ 184.65 Particular Types of Restrictions

[1] Limits on Trade or Business

[2] Approval of Improvements

§ 184.66 Modification and Termination of Restrictions

[1] By Agreement

[2] By Operation of Law

[a] Foreclosure of Senior Lien

[b] By Recording Modification Document

[i] Procedures

[ii] Duty to Inform Persons That Unlawful Restrictions Are Removable

[c] By Judicial Action

§ 184.67 Enforcement of Restrictive Covenants

[1] Actions Available

[a] Injunctions

[b] Damages

[2] Standing to Enforce Equitable Servitude

§ 184.68 Action for Violation of Restriction--Statute of Limitation

§ 184.69 Defenses

[1] Acquiescence or Waiver

[2] Changed Conditions

[3] Conflict With Zoning

[4] Statute of Limitations

[a] Restrictive Covenants

[b] Equitable Servitudes

[5] Laches or Waiver

[6] Unclean Hands

[7] Discriminatory Restrictions

[a] In General

[b] Age

[c] Number of Residents

[8] Change in Public Policy

§ 184.70 Condition Subsequent

[1] Defined

[2] Construed as Covenant to Avoid Forfeiture

[3] Power of Termination

[a] Retained by Grantor

[b] Duration

[c] Transition Provisions

[d] Exercise by Self-Help

[e] Exercise by Bringing Action

[4] Defenses to Enforcement

[a] Expiration of Power by Passage of Time

[b] Expiration of Power by Obsolescence

[c] Statute of Limitations Applicable to Restrictions

§ 184.90 California Points and Authorities

§ 184.91 Forms of Discovery

§ 184.92 California Legal Forms

§ 184.93 California Real Estate Law and Practice

§ 184.94 State Statutes

[1] Acknowledgment and Recordation

[2] After-Acquired Title

[3] Capacity of Parties

[4] Definitions

[5] Delivery and Acceptance

[6] Designation of Parties

[7] Documentary Evidence

[8] Documentary Transfer Tax

[9] Estates Subject to Transfer

[10] Execution

[11] Interpretation of Deeds

[12] Principal Types of Deeds

[13] Property Transferred

[14] Statute of Frauds

[15] Statute of Limitations

§ 184.95 Decisions

[1] After-Acquired Title

[2] Capacity of Parties

[3] Delivery and Acceptance

[4] Description of Property

[5] Effect of Fraud

[6] Execution

[7] Interpretation of Deeds

[8] Marketable Record Title Act

[9] Merger of Prior Agreements

[10] Parol and Extrinsic Evidence

[11] Reservations

§ 184.96 Law Reviews

§ 184.97 Text References

§§ 184.98-184.109 [Reserved]

§ 184.110 State Statutes

[1] Covenant Running With Land

[2] Express Covenants

[3] Damages

[4] Implied Covenants

§ 184.111 Decisions

[1] Express Covenants

[2] Implied Covenants

§ 184.112 Law Reviews

§ 184.113 Text References

§§ 184.114-184.129 [Reserved]

§ 184.130 California Points and Authorities

§ 184.131 California Legal Forms

§ 184.132 California Real Estate Law and Practice

§ 184.133 State Statutes

[1] Restrictions in General

[2] Conditions

[3] Covenants

[4] Discrimination

[5] Miscellaneous

[6] Power of Termination

§ 184.134 Decisions

[1] Changed Conditions

[2] Conditions Subsequent

[3] Covenants Running With Land

[4] Equitable Servitudes

[5] Homeowners' Associations

[6] Interpretation of Restrictive Covenants

[7] Restrictive Covenant as Property Right

[8] Types of Restrictions Enforced

[9] Violation of Civil and Constitutional Rights

§ 184.135 Law Reviews

§ 184.136 Text References

§§ 184.137-184.149 [Reserved]

§ 184.150 Complaint for Cancellation [Civ. Code § 3412] of Deed and to Quiet Title [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.010-764.080] to Real Property--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[a] Single Cause of Action

[b] Cancellation

[i] Elements

[ii] Multiple Grounds of Invalidity

[iii] Restoration of Value Received

[iv] Rescission of Underlying Contract

[v] Damages

[c] Quieting Title

[i] Elements

[ii] Required Defendants

[iii] Unknown Defendants

[4] Statute of Limitations and Laches

[5] Verification

[6] Jurisdiction and Venue

[7] Service of Summons

[8] Lis Pendens

[9] Cross References

[10] Decisions

[a] Jurisdiction

[b] Quieting Title

[c] Statute of Limitations and Laches

[d] Venue

[11] Text References

§ 184.151 Allegation--Grantor Incompetent to Execute Deed [Civ. Code § 39]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Decisions

[5] Cross References

§ 184.152 Allegation--Deed Procured by Fraud [Civ. Code §§ 1571-1574]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Strict Pleading Requirement

[5] Elements of Fraud

[6] State Statutes

[7] Decisions

[a] Allegations

[b] Cancellation for Fraudulent Inducement

[c] Elements of Fraud

[d] Quieting Title

[8] Text References

[9] Cross References

§ 184.153 Allegation--Deed Procured by Undue Influence--Confidential Relationship [Civ. Code § 1575(1)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Confidential Relationship

[a] Existence Of

[b] Trustee-Beneficiary Transactions

[4] Undue Influence

§ 184.154 Allegation--Deed Procured by Mistake of Fact [Civ. Code § 1577]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Mistake

[a] In General

[b] Materiality

[c] Neglect of Legal Duty

[4] State Statutes

[5] Decisions

[a] Cancellation for Mistake

[b] Neglect of Legal Duty

[c] Quieting Title

[6] Cross References

§ 184.155 Allegation--Deed Procured by Mistake of Law [Civ. Code § 1578]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Decisions

[5] Cross References

§ 184.156 Allegation--No Valid Delivery [Civ. Code § 1054]--No Intent to Deliver--Attempted Testamentary Disposition

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Decisions

[5] Cross References

§ 184.157 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Declaration of Rights Under Deed [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Jurisdiction

[4] Allegations

[5] Venue

[6] Cross References

[7] State Statutes

[8] Decisions

[9] Text References

§§ 184.158-184.169 [Reserved]

§ 184.170 Complaint for Damages for Breach of Implied Covenant Against Encumbrances [Civ. Code § 1113]--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Verification

[5] Jurisdiction and Venue

[6] Limitations

§§ 184.171-184.189 [Reserved]

§ 184.190 Complaint for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction, Permanent Injunction, and Damages to Enforce Equitable Servitudes Against Lot in Subdivision--Subdivider Inserted Use in Recorded CC&Rs

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Verification

[5] Jurisdiction

[6] Venue

[7] Statute of Limitations

[8] Class Action

[9] Damages

[10] Cross References

[11] California Points and Authorities

[12] California Real Estate Law and Practice

§ 184.191 Allegation--Grantor and Grantee Created Statutory Covenant Restricting Use of Grantee's or Grantor's Property [Civ. Code § 1468]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Amendments to Civ. Code § 1468

[5] Parties

[6] State Statutes

[7] Decisions

[8] Cross References

§ 184.192 Allegation--Landowners Created Statutory Covenant Restricting Use of One Landowner's Property [Civ. Code § 1468]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

§ 184.193 Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction, and Permanent Injunction to Prevent Violation of Tract Restrictions--Waiver or Laches

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Limitations Period for Actions Commenced After January 1, 2001

§ 184.194 Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction, and Permanent Injunction to Prevent Violation of Tract Restrictions--Acquiescence in Similar Violations

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Decisions

[4] Cross References

§ 184.195 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060] and to Quiet Title [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.010-764.080] to Cancel Use Restrictions--Changed Conditions in Neighborhood

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Changed Conditions as Defense

[4] Allegations

[a] Declaratory Relief

[b] Quiet Title

[5] Statute of Limitations

[6] Verification

[7] Jurisdiction and Venue

[8] Cross References

[9] State Statutes

[10] Decisions

[a] Declaratory and Quiet Title Actions

[b] Changed Conditions

§ 184.196 Allegation--Change in Public Policy

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Decisions

[5] Cross References

§ 184.197 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] to Compel Reconveyance of Real Property for Breach of Condition Subsequent [Civ. Code § 1109] and to Quiet Title [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.010-764.080]--By Grantor's Successor in Interest Against Grantee

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Limitation of Action

[5] Cross References

§ 184.198 Affirmative Defense Allegation--Power of Termination Expired [Civ. Code §§ 885.030, 885.040(a), 885.060(b)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART I. SCOPE

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.01

§ 184.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses and contains forms for use in actions for cancellation of a deed and to quiet title to real property [see §§ 184.150 -184.156], and includes a form for use in obtaining a declaration of rights under a deed [see § 184.157].

This chapter also discusses implied and express covenants of title and contains a form for use in an action for damages for breach of an implied covenant against encumbrances [see § 184.170].

This chapter also discusses covenants and conditions that restrict the use of real property. It contains the following forms:

- A form of compliant to enjoin a violation of subdivision restrictions that are enforceable as equitable servitudes [see § 184.190].

- Forms of allegation for use in a complaint to enjoin violation of covenants running with the land [see §§ 184.191, 184.192].

- Allegations of affirmative defense based on waiver or laches [see § 184.193] and on acquiescence in violations [see § 184.194].

- A form of complaint for declaration that restrictions are unenforceable and to quiet title [see § 184.195].

- A form of affirmative defense based on violation of public policy [see § 184.196].

- A form of complaint to quiet title and compel reconveyance of real property for breach of a condition subsequent [see § 184.197].

- A form of affirmative defense based on the expiration or obsolescence of a power of termination [see § 184.198].

Covenants, conditions, and restrictions relating to condominiums, community apartment projects, and planned developments managed by homeowners' associations are discussed in Ch. 124, Condominiums and Other Common Interest Developments . Covenants for easements made by an owner of real property to a city or county under Gov. Code § 65870 et seq. are discussed in Ch. 240, Easements .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawDeedsCovenants of TitleReal Property LawDeedsRemediesCancellation & RescissionReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsCovenants Running With LandReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsEnforcementReal Property LawTitle QualityAdverse Claim ActionsQuiet Title Actions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART I. SCOPE

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.02

§ 184.02 Cross References

For a discussion and forms of certificates of acknowledgment, and for a discussion, forms, and procedures for proving proper execution of unacknowledged instruments, see Ch. 9, Acknowledgments

For a discussion and forms relating to the rights of adjoining landowners, see Ch. 22, Adjoining Landowners

For a discussion and forms for use in actions involving acquisition of title by adverse possession, see Ch. 13, Adverse Possession

For a discussion and forms relating to boundary disputes and construction of boundary descriptions, see Ch. 101, Boundaries

For a discussion and forms relating to transfers of community real property, see Ch. 122, Community Property

For a discussion of the interpretation of contracts, see Ch. 140, Contracts

For a discussion and forms for use in actions involving property held in escrow, see Ch. 253, Escrows

For a discussion of the nature of title acquired at an execution sale of real property and related forms, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments

For a discussion and form for use in an action to establish a boundary and quiet title to real property, for a permanent injunction against construction and maintenance of a fence, and for damages, see Ch. 266, Fences

For a discussion and forms for use in actions to set aside fraudulent conveyances, see Ch. 270, Fraudulent Conveyances

For a discussion and forms for use in actions involving gifts of real property, see Ch. 278, Gifts

For a discussion and forms for use in actions involving conveyance of realty by guardians and conservators, see Ch. 287, Guardianship and Conservatorship: General Management Powers

For a discussion and forms for use in a proceeding for adjudication of the identity of a person in the record chain of title where a discrepancy exists between the name in which the person acquired an interest in real property and the name in which the person transferred or left the property on death, see Ch. 299, Identity, Establishment of

For a discussion and forms for use in actions involving deeds creating joint interests, see Ch. 316, Joint Tenancy and Tenancy in Common

For a discussion of creation of life estates by deed, see Ch. 344, Life Estates and Remainders

For a discussion and forms for use in filing expunging notices of lis pendens, see Ch. 348, Lis Pendens

For a discussion and forms for use in an action to restore destroyed land records, see Ch. 356, Lost Papers

For a discussion and forms relating to the sale of estate property by court confirmation, see Ch. 455, Probate: Sale of Estate Property

For forms for use in an action for reformation of a deed, see Ch. 488, Reformation of Instruments

For a discussion and forms for use in actions involving trust deeds, see Ch. 555, Trust Deeds and Real Property Mortgages

For a discussion and forms for use in actions involving trusts of real property, see Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts

For a discussion and forms for use in actions involving contracts for the sale of real property, see Ch. 569, Vendor and Purchaser

For a discussion of transfers of condominiums, see Ch. 579, Zoning and Planning

For a discussion and forms for use in actions involving title insurance, see Ch. 548, Title Insurance

For forms relating to covenants for use in actions involving leases, see Ch. 93, Bailments , Ch. 332, Landlord and Tenant: The Tenancy , and Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions

For forms relating to covenants for use in actions involving condominiums and other common interest developments, see Ch. 124, Condominiums and Other Common Interest Developments

For discussion of covenants relating to easements, see Ch. 240, Easements and Ch. 579, Zoning and Planning

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawAdjoining LandownersBoundariesReal Property LawAdverse PossessionGeneral OverviewReal Property LawEstatesConcurrent OwnershipJoint TenanciesReal Property LawEstatesConcurrent OwnershipTenancies in CommonReal Property LawPriorities & RecordingLis Pendens

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART I. SCOPE

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 184.03-184.09

[Reserved]

§§ 184.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.10

§ 184.10 Governing Statutes

Statutes governing the transfer of real property by deed are contained in Civ. Code §§ 1039-1112.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawDeedsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.11

§ 184.11 Definitions

A "deed" is a written instrument, signed by the grantor, by which title to realty is transferred from one person to another [Black's Law Dictionary (4th ed), p. 502]. A "transfer" is an act of the parties, or of the law, by which the title to property is conveyed from one living person to another [Civ. Code § 1039]. A transfer in writing is called a grant, conveyance, or bill of sale. As used in the statutes contained in the Civil Code relating to mode of transfer, interpretation of grants, and effect of transfer, the term "grant" includes all these instruments, unless the term is specially applied to real property [Civ. Code § 1053]. The terms "grant" and "convey" or "conveyance" are used interchangeably in this chapter.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawDeedsGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.12

§ 184.12 Principal Types of Deeds

[1] Grant Deed

A grant deed is one in which the word "grant" is used as the operative word of transfer [see Klamath Land & Cattle Co. v. Roemer (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 613, 618, 91 Cal. Rptr. 112, 37 O.&G.R. 194 ; see also Civ. Code § 1092]. In the absence of an exception, limitation, or reservation, a grant deed is presumed to convey the grantor's entire interest in the property [American Enterprise, Inc. v. Van Winkle (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 210, 220, 246 P.2d 935] . A fee simple title is presumed to be intended to pass by the grant deed, unless it appears from the deed that a lesser estate was intended [Civ. Code § 1105].

Generally, covenants against prior conveyances and against encumbrances are implied from the grantor's use of a grant deed [Civ. Code § 1113].

[2] Quitclaim Deed

A quitclaim deed is one in which the grantor transfers or does "remise, release, and forever quitclaim" all "right, title, and interest" in real property [see, e.g., Dunn v. Carroll (1929) 101 Cal. App. 209, 210-211, 281 P. 506 ; Lombardi v. Sinanides (1925) 71 Cal. App. 272, 276, 235 P. 455] . It operates to convey whatever present right or interest the grantor has in the property, including legal, equitable, and inchoate rights [Leggio v. Haggerty (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 873, 880, 42 Cal. Rptr. 400 ; Soares v. Steidtmann (1955) 130 Cal. App. 2d 401, 404, 278 P.2d 953]. Since a quitclaim deed is not necessarily or even usually a "grant of real property," the presumption that a fee simple title is intended to pass is not applicable [Winchell v. Lambert (1956) 146 Cal. App. 2d 575, 579, 304 P.2d 149 ; see Civ. Code § 1105].

Since a quitclaim deed does not purport to grant an estate of inheritance or a fee simple, no covenants are implied when a quitclaim deed is used, even if the word "grant" appears in the deed [Southern Pac. Co. v. Dore (1917) 34 Cal. App. 521, 522-523, 168 P. 147 ; see Civ. Code § 1113].

[3] Warranty Deed

A warranty deed is a deed that contains an express covenant of warranty [Black's Law Dictionary (4th ed), p. 1759]. It usually contains other express covenants as well, such as a covenant for quiet possession or enjoyment, a covenant of seisin, a covenant for further assurance, and a covenant of right to convey [see § 184.42]. Warranty deeds are seldom used in California because purchasers rely instead on title insurance for protection as to the title conveyed [see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 80, Deeds and Transfer of Title, § 80.22 (Matthew Bender)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawDeedsTypesBargain & SaleReal Property LawDeedsTypesQuit Claim DeedsReal Property LawDeedsTypesWarranty

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.13

§ 184.13 Property Transferred

[1] Estates Subject to Transfer

Generally, property of any kind may be transferred [Civ. Code § 1044], including future interests [Civ. Code § 699] and a right of reentry or of repossession for breach of a condition subsequent [Civ. Code § 1046]. However, a mere possibility, not coupled with an interest, cannot be transferred [Civ. Code § 1045].

[2] Exceptions and Reservations

[a] Distinctions

Although the terms "reservation" and "exception" are frequently used interchangeably and while in a conveyance each detracts from what a grantee would otherwide receive, there are material differences between them [Main v. Legnitto (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 667, 677, 41 Cal. Rptr. 223] . A reservation allows a grantor's whole interest in the property to pass to the grantee, but revests a newly created interest in the grantor or in a third party. In contrast, an exception prevents some part of the grantor's interest from passing to the grantee. Thus, an exception cannot vest an interest in a third party, and the excepted interest remains in the grantor [Willard v. First Church of Christ, Scientist (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 473, 476-479, 102 Cal. Rptr. 739, 498 P.2d 987] .

[b] Interpretation

While a definite and important distinction exists between a reservation and an exception, the question of whether a particular provision in a deed is an exception or a reservation is not conclusively determined by the use of the terms alone and depends on the real intention of the parties as ascertained from the whole conveyance [Main v. Legnitto (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 667, 677-678, 41 Cal. Rptr. 223] . Thus, for example, words of reservation may be construed to create an exception when appropriate to effect the intent of the parties [Caffroy v. Fremlin (1961) 198 Cal. App. 2d 176, 182, 17 Cal. Rptr. 668, 16 O.&G.R. 1 ; see § 184.24].

[c] Creation of Reservation

A reservation may be made in the deed [see, e.g., Willard v. First Church of Christ, Scientist (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 473, 475, 102 Cal. Rptr. 739, 498 P.2d 987] or through an instrument collateral to the deed [Caffroy v. Fremlin (1961) 198 Cal. App. 2d 176, 182, 17 Cal. Rptr. 668, 16 O.&G.R. 1] . A reservation may also be implied, but when the owner of land conveys it by deed purporting to convey it fully and without reservations, rights should be held to be reserved in the grantor by implication only when the circumstances very clearly indicate that the grantee knew or should have known that such was the grantor's real intention [Holmes v. Nay (1921) 186 Cal. 231, 237, 199 P. 325] .

[3] After-Acquired Title

[a] In General

A deed purporting to convey a greater interest in real property than is owned by the grantor is valid only to the extent of the grantor's interest in the land [Goldman v. Goldman (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 227, 242, 253 P.2d 474] . However, when a person purports by proper instrument to grant real property in fee simple, and subsequently acquires any title, or claim of title to the property, the title or claim of title passes by operation of law to the grantee or the grantee's successors [Civ. Code § 1106]. Additionally, regardless of whether a grant of a fee simple or of a lesser estate is involved, the grantor and those in privity with him or her may be estopped to assert an after-acquired title. Thus, if the grantor sets forth on the face of the instrument, by way of recital or averment, that the grantor owns a particular estate in the land, and the deed purports to convey that estate, or if the ownership or possession of a particular estate is affirmed in the deed, either in express terms or by necessary implication, the grantor and all persons in privity with the grantor will be estopped from denying that the grantor owned that estate at the time the conveyance was made [Clark v. Baker (1860) 14 Cal. 612, 629 ; see also Barberi v. Rothchild (1936) 7 Cal. 2d 537, 540, 541, 61 P.2d 760] .

An after-acquired title passes to the grantee only so long as the grantee has some estate, interest, or claim in or to the property granted [Garabaldi v. Shattuck (1886) 70 Cal. 511, 513, 11 P. 778]. If the grantor subsequently acquires an independent title by adverse possession or at an execution sale, the doctrine of after-acquired title does not apply [Garabaldi v. Shattuck (1886) 70 Cal. 511, 512, 513, 11 P. 778 (adverse possession); McCune v. McCune (1937) 23 Cal. App. 2d 295, 297, 72 P.2d 883 (execution sale)].

[b] Instruments Passing After-Acquired Title

A grant deed operates to transfer an after-acquired title [Klamath Land & Cattle Co. v. Roemer (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 613, 618, 91 Cal. Rptr. 112, 37 O.&G.R. 194] . A warranty deed that purports to convey a fee simple or is presumed to pass a fee simple [Civ. Code § 1105] transfers an after-acquired title [see Civ. Code § 1106], and the grantor and those in privity with the grantor are estopped from asserting an after-acquired title [Barberi v. Rothchild (1936) 7 Cal. 2d 537, 540-541, 61 P.2d 760] . In addition, the doctrine of after-acquired title applies to mortgages [Civ. Code § 2930] and deeds of trust [Barberi v. Rothchild (1936) 7 Cal. 2d 537, 538-540, 61 P.2d 760] .

Since by a quitclaim deed the grantor does not purport to convey a fee simple or a particular estate in land, but merely to transfer whatever present interest the grantor has in the property, a quitclaim deed generally does not operate to transfer an after-acquired title [see Civ. Code § 1106; Taylor v. Coachella Valley Water Dist. (1952) 108 Cal. App. 2d 743, 745, 239 P.2d 454] . However, when the quitclaim deed conveys only the grantor's equitable interest, a later legal title vested in the grantor is deemed to be transferred [Klamath Land & Cattle Co. v. Roemer (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 613, 618-619, 91 Cal. Rptr. 112, 37 O.&G.R. 194] . If there are recitals or covenants in the deed showing an intention not to limit the interest conveyed merely to that which the grantor had at the time, or expressly or impliedly affirming the existence of a particular estate which the parties intended should pass by the conveyance, the grantor may also be estopped from asserting an after-acquired title or interest in contradiction of the terms or implications of the deed, even though the granting clause is in the form of a quitclaim [Estate of Wilson (1941) 40 Cal. App. 2d 229, 232-233, 104 P.2d 716] .

[c] Effect of Sale to Bona Fide Purchaser

A grantor may purport to convey a fee simple estate before acquiring title, and after acquiring title sell the same estate to a bona fide purchaser for value. Under the doctrine of after-acquired title, the title acquired by the grantor would pass immediately to the first grantee [Civ. Code § 1106], so that the grantor would have no title to convey to the subsequent purchaser. However, if the first grantee records before the grantor acquires title, the record would not be constructive notice to the subsequent purchaser of the first grantee's title, since a deed made before the grantor acquires title is not in the purchaser's chain of title [see Ludy v. Zumwalt (1927) 85 Cal. App. 119, 129, 133, 259 P. 52] . Rather, the grantor would be the record title holder, and under the recording statutes the first grantee's deed would seem to be void as against the bona fide purchaser for value [see Civ. Code §§ 1107, 1214; Ludy v. Zumwalt (1927) 85 Cal. App. 119, 129, 133, 259 P. 52 ; see also Comment, Titles: Estoppel by Deed: Priority Under the Recording Acts, 16 Cal. L. Rev. 341, 341-346 (1928)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawEstatesFuture InterestsReverter & ReversionsReal Property LawEstatesPresent EstatesGeneral OverviewReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedAcquisition by After-Acquired TitleReal Property LawPriorities & RecordingBona Fide Purchasers

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.14

§ 184.14 Requisites of Valid Deed

The features that are essential to make an instrument operative as a deed are as follows:

- The grant must be in writing and must be subscribed by the grantor or by an authorized agent of the grantor [see § 184.15].
- The instrument must be delivered to and accepted by the grantee [see § 184.22].
- The grantor must be in existence and must have the mental capacity to convey [see § 184.17].
- The grantor and grantee must be identified by name or by a sufficient description in the deed [see § 184.16].
- The grantee must be another person, in existence, and capable of taking and holding title to real property [see § 184.18].
- The instrument must contain words indicating an intent to convey [see § 184.20].
- The instrument must contain a description of the property sufficient to identify it [see § 184.19].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawDeedsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawDeedsExecution FormalitiesReal Property LawDeedsProperty DescriptionsReal Property LawDeedsStatutes of Frauds

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.15

§ 184.15 Statute of Frauds

An estate in real property, other than an estate at will or for a term not exceeding one year, can be transferred only by operation of law or by an instrument in writing [Civ. Code § 1091; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1971]. Redelivering the deed to the grantor, or canceling it, does not operate to retransfer the title [Civ. Code § 1058], because redelivery would be an attempted reconveyance of the property to the grantor, which requires that the grantee execute and deliver a new deed [Shelton v. Vance (1951) 106 Cal. App. 2d 194, 197, 234 P.2d 1012] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawDeedsExecution FormalitiesReal Property LawDeedsRemediesCancellation & RescissionReal Property LawDeedsStatutes of Frauds

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.16

§ 184.16 Designation of Parties

[1] Identification of Grantor; Designation of Grantee

To be valid, a deed must identify the grantor. When the grantor is not named in the deed, this requirement may be met if the grantor's identity is ascertainable with certainty from a consideration of the entire instrument, such as when the grantor signs and acknowledges the deed as the owner of the interest to be conveyed [Childs v. Newfield (1934) 136 Cal. App. 217, 222-223, 28 P.2d 924] .

Similarly, a deed must designate a grantee [Green v. MacAdam (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 481, 485, 346 P.2d 474] . However, the grantee need not be mentioned by name in the deed. A description or designation is sufficient if it affords the means for identifying the grantee [Whitson v. Goudeseune (1955) 137 Cal. App. 2d 445, 447-448, 290 P.2d 590] . Thus, a grant to the heirs or devisees of a decedent is valid [California Trust Co. v. Kerckhoff-Cuzner Mill & Lbr. Co. (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 628, 629-630, 55 P.2d 865] .

[2] Assumed or Fictitious Names

A natural person may assume any name in which to receive title to property, and a subsequent conveyance under the assumed name passes good title [Knaugh v. Baender (1927) 84 Cal App 142, 148, 257 P. 606 ; see Civ. Code § 1096]. When a partnership acquires an interest in real property in the partnership name, the title so acquired can be conveyed only in the partnership name [Corp. Code §§ 15008(3) (Uniform Partnership Act), 16302 (Uniform Partnership Act of 1994); see Corp. Code § 16111 (applicability of these Acts); see also Corp. Code §§ 15010 (Uniform Partnership Act), 16302 (Uniform Partnership Act of 1994) (effect of conveyances by partners)].

[3] Subsequent Name Changes

When a party changes his or her name after acquiring title to real property, any subsequent deed of the property must set forth the name in which title was taken. If the grantor fails to include the name in which title was obtained, recording the deed will not impart constructive notice of its contents, but the deed is valid as between the parties and those who have notice of the deed [Civ. Code § 1096].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawDeedsExecution Formalities

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.17

§ 184.17 Capacity of Grantor

[1] In General

A person entirely without understanding has no power to make a contract of any kind [Civ. Code § 38], and a deed made by such a person is void [Mattos v. Kirby (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d 649, 653, 285 P.2d 56] . Similarly, a deed executed after the grantor has been judicially declared incompetent is void, not merely voidable [Gibson v. Westoby (1953) 115 Cal. App. 2d 273, 276, 251 P.2d 1003 ; see Civ. Code § 40].

A conveyance by a person of unsound mind, but not entirely without understanding, made before incapacity is judicially determined, is subject to rescission [Civ. Code § 39] and cancellation [see Peterson v. Ellebrecht (1962) 205 Cal. App. 2d 718, 720-721, 23 Cal. Rptr. 349 ; see also Civ. Code §§ 1692, 3412]. A rebuttable presumption affecting the burden of proof that a person is of unsound mind exists for purposes of Civ. Code § 39 if the person is substantially unable to manage his or her own financial resources or resist fraud or undue influence. Substantial inability may not be proved solely by isolated incidents of negligence or improvidence [Civ. Code § 39(b)].

Cases decided prior to the 1995 enactment of the above statutory presumption held that relief under Civ. Code § 39 does not require a showing of incompetence to enter into any kind of contract or to transact any business. Rather, the test is whether or not the party is mentally competent to deal with the subject matter with a full understanding of his or her rights [Peterson v. Ellebrecht (1962) 205 Cal. App. 2d 718, 721, 23 Cal. Rptr. 349] . If the grantor can comprehend the nature of his or her act, the character of his or her property, and the grantor's relation to the natural objects of his or her bounty, the grantor has the capacity to dispose of real property [Marback v. Marback (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 354, 356, 45 Cal. Rptr. 341] .

[2] Intoxication

Because one deprived of his or her reason and understanding by reason of drunkenness is as unable to consent to the terms of a contract as is one who lacks mental capacity by reason of mental illness or mental retardation, a deed may be set aside on the grounds of the grantor's mental incapacity due to voluntary intoxication [Guidici v. Guidici (1935) 2 Cal. 2d 497, 502, 503, 41 P.2d 932] .

[3] Minors

A minor cannot make a contract relating to real property or any interest in real property [Fam. Code § 6701]. A deed executed by a minor is void and the minor is under no legal duty on disaffirming the deed to restore the consideration received for the property [Sparks v. Sparks (1950) 101 Cal. App. 2d 129, 137, 225 P.2d 238] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawFormationCapacity of PartiesAgeContracts LawFormationCapacity of PartiesMental CapacityReal Property LawDeedsEnforceabilityReal Property LawDeedsRemediesCancellation & Rescission

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.18

§ 184.18 Capacity of Grantee

The grantee must be a living person [Civ. Code § 1039] capable of taking and holding title to real property [Rixford v. Zeigler (1907) 150 Cal. 435, 437-438, 88 P. 1092] . A child conceived, but not yet born, is deemed an existing person, so far as may be necessary for its interests, including the child's interest in inheritance or property rights in the event of the child's subsequent birth [Civ. Code § 43.1; Scott v. McPheeters (1939) 33 Cal. App. 2d 629, 631-632, 92 P.2d 678, 93 P.2d 562] . Legally existing corporations [Cavin Memorial Corp. v. Requa (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 345, 354, 85 Cal. Rptr. 107 ; see also Corp. Code § 207], partnerships [Corp. Code §§ 15008(3) (Uniform Partnership Act), 16302 (Uniform Partnership Act of 1994); see Corp. Code § 16111 (applicability of these Acts)], and unincorporated associations may also acquire title to real property [Corp. Code §§ 18105, 18110; see Corp. Code § 21200 (capacity of unincorporated association that is organized as medical society)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Business & Corporate LawUnincorporated AssociationsContracts LawFormationCapacity of PartiesAgeContracts LawFormationCapacity of PartiesMental CapacityReal Property LawDeedsEnforceability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.19

§ 184.19 Description of Property

[1] Requirements

For a deed to be valid, the description of the property conveyed must either (1) identify the property or (2) afford a means for its identification [Podd v. Anderson (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 660, 665, 30 Cal. Rptr. 345 ; see also Civ. Code § 1092]. A vague and uncertain description renders the deed void [Du Bois v. Larke (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 737, 748-749, 346 P.2d 830] .

[2] Parol Evidence

When an ambiguity in the description of the property appears on the face of the deed, parol evidence is admissible to determine the intention of the parties [Hixson v. Jones (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 860, 864, 61 Cal. Rptr. 883] . For example, parol evidence is admissible to explain the description of the land that constitutes the subject matter of the deed, or to show that the land described by some name or designation is generally known by that name [Corona Unified School Dist. v. Vejar (1958) 165 Cal. App. 2d 561, 564-567, 332 P.2d 294] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidenceDocumentary EvidenceParol EvidenceReal Property LawDeedsProperty Descriptions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.20

§ 184.20 Words of Conveyance

A valid deed must contain words indicative of an intent to transfer an interest in the described property from one person to another [Cordano v. Wright (1911) 159 Cal. 610, 618, 115 P. 227] . However, no precise words are required as long as the language used discloses an intent to make a present conveyance [Carman v. Athearn (1947) 77 Cal. App. 2d 585, 596, 175 P.2d 926] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawDeedsEnforceabilityReal Property LawDeedsExecution Formalities

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.21

§ 184.21 Execution

[1] Requirements

A deed must be subscribed by the grantor or the grantor's agent, authorized in writing to do so [Civ. Code § 1091]. However, a subscription is valid if the grantor orally requests a third party to sign the deed for the grantor and the signature is written in the presence of the grantor, or if the third party aids the grantor in signing the deed and the signature is acknowledged by words or acts [Rich v. Ervin (1948) 86 Cal. App. 2d 386, 395, 194 P.2d 809] .

In executing a deed, one acting under a power of attorney must sign both the grantor's name and his or her own name as attorney in fact [Civ. Code § 1095]. Failure to comply with this requirement invalidates the transaction [Hodge v. Hodge (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 31, 33-36, 64 Cal. Rptr. 587] . Notwithstanding the above, when one person is authorized to execute a deed for another, a failure to sign as attorney in fact does not invalidate the deed against a third party who reasonably relied on the signature [In re Nelson (9th Cir. 1985) 761 F.2d 1320, 1322-1323 ; Foote v. Posey (1958) 164 Cal. App. 2d 210, 216-217, 330 P.2d 651] .

[2] Deed Executed in Blank

A deed executed in blank, without designation of a grantee, is generally void and cannot be made the foundation of good title, even under the equitable doctrine of bona fide purchaser [Bryce v. O'Brien (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 615, 616, 55 P.2d 488] . However, the grantor may be estopped from attacking the validity of the deed against an innocent purchaser when the grantor is guilty of negligence or other misconduct that contributed to the purchaser's taking a void deed [Trout v. Taylor (1934) 220 Cal. 652, 656, 32 P.2d 968 ; Green v. MacAdam (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 481, 485, 486, 346 P.2d 474 ; see Civ. Code § 3543].

A deed delivered in blank to an escrow holder with escrow instructions in writing specifically giving authority to the escrow agent to insert the name of the grantee is not within this general rule. A grantee who accepts the blank deed and fulfills the conditions of the escrow may at any time instruct the escrow holder to insert the name of the grantee [Tumansky v. Woodruff (1936) 14 Cal. App. 2d 279, 283, 57 P.2d 1372] .

The name of the grantor or grantee or a description of the property cannot be validly inserted by an agent for the grantor, in the grantor's absence, unless the agent has written authorization to do so [Green v. MacAdam (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 481, 486, 346 P.2d 474 ; see Civ. Code § 1091]. However, a deed that is void because it was executed in blank and the blanks later filled in by a third party without the required written authorization may be ratified in writing by the grantor [see Jones v. Coulter (1925) 75 Cal. App. 540, 551-552, 243 P. 487 ; see also Civ. Code § 2310].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawDeedsEnforceabilityReal Property LawDeedsExecution Formalities

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.22

§ 184.22 Delivery

[1] Intent to Transfer Title, Generally

A deed takes effect, so as to vest the interest intended to be transferred, only on its delivery by the grantor with the intent to transfer title [Civ. Code § 1054; Perry v. Wallner (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 218, 221, 23 Cal. Rptr. 352] .

Actual manual tradition or change of possession of a deed is not required [Lavely v. Nonemaker (1931) 212 Cal. 380, 387, 298 P. 976] . The deed is deemed constructively delivered when (1) by agreement of the parties at the time of execution, the deed is understood to be delivered, and the grantee is entitled to immediate delivery; or (2) the deed is delivered to a stranger for the benefit of the grantee, and the grantee's assent is shown or may be presumed [Civ. Code § 1059]. To establish constructive delivery, it must be shown that the grantor manifested, either by words or conduct, that the grantor considered the deed completely executed and the title conveyed [Perry v. Wallner (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 218, 222, 23 Cal. Rptr. 352] .

When a deed was delivered before an abstract of judgment was recorded, the transfer was complete when the deed was delivered without regard to whether the deed was recorded, and there was nothing to which the later-recorded abstract could attach [Casey v. Gray (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 611, 614, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 538] .

[2] Conditional Delivery

A deed cannot be conditionally delivered to the grantee [Civ. Code § 1056]. When a deed, absolute in form, is delivered to the grantee, title vests in the grantee, discharged of any condition on which the delivery was made [Civ. Code § 1056; Ivancovich v. Sullivan (1957) 149 Cal. App. 2d 160, 165, 307 P.2d 989] . However, this rule applies only when there has been a delivery, which requires an intent that the deed become operative, either absolutely or conditionally [Estate of Pieper (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 670, 687, 37 Cal. Rptr. 46] . Additionally, although the condition is discharged as far as vesting of title is concerned, if the condition comprised part of an agreement made by the parties, an action for damages for breach of the agreement may lie [Ivancovich v. Sullivan (1957) 149 Cal. App. 2d 160, 166, 307 P.2d 989] .

If the deed contains express conditions precedent, title passes only on performance of the conditions [Civ. Code § 1110].

[3] Intention to Transfer Title

[a] Mutual Intention

To constitute a valid delivery, there must be a mutual intention on the part of the parties, and particularly on the part of the grantor, to immediately pass title to the property. Thus, for example, if the deed is manually delivered, but the evidence shows that the parties or the grantor intended it to become operative only on the grantor's death, the document is testamentary in character and void as a deed [Meyer v. Wall (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 24, 27, 75 Cal. Rptr. 236] .

[b] Escrows

A deed may be deposited by the grantor with a third person, to be delivered on performance of a condition, and the deed will take effect on its delivery by the depositary. In this case, while the deed is in the possession of the third person, and subject to condition, it is called an escrow [Civ. Code § 1057].

[c] Death or Survivorship as Condition

Manual delivery of a deed to the grantee with the intent that it become operative only on the grantor's death constitutes an attempted testamentary disposition, and the deed is void [Meyer v. Wall (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 24, 27, 75 Cal. Rptr. 236] . However, deposit of a deed granting a fee simple with a third person, with instructions that it be transmitted to the grantee on the death of the grantor, conveys a remainder interest in fee simple with a life estate reserved in the grantor, if the grantor intends the deposit to be irrevocable [Osborn v. Osborn (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 358, 362, 267 P.2d 333] .

Delivery of a deed to a third person with instructions to deliver it to the grantee only if the grantee survives the grantor, and to otherwise return it to the grantor, indicates an intention to retain title rather than to pass an immediate and irrevocable title. Therefore, delivery is not accomplished, and the deed is invalid [Stone v. Daily (1919) 181 Cal. 571, 574-577, 185 P. 665 ; Rothney v. Rothney (1940) 41 Cal. App. 2d 566, 571-573, 107 P.2d 294] .

[4] Proof of Delivery

Delivery and intent to pass title, an essential element of delivery, are questions of fact [Meyer v. Wall (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 24, 27, 75 Cal. Rptr. 236]. Evidence of the circumstances surrounding the transaction is admissible on this issue [Coffey v. Cooper (1960) 185 Cal. App. 2d 464, 468, 8 Cal. Rptr. 358] . Declarations of the alleged grantor made before and after the making of the deed are admissible as an exception to the hearsay rule for the limited purpose of showing the grantor's intent, and it is immaterial that the declarations are self-serving [Mecchi v. Picchi (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 470, 478, 54 Cal. Rptr. 1 ; see Evid. Code § 1251(b)]. However, if the statements, written instructions, or acts of the grantor at the time of physical delivery are undisputed, and clearly and unambiguously show an intent to pass title, evidence of the grantor's subsequent acts or declarations is not admissible [Mecchi v. Picchi (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 470, 486, 54 Cal. Rptr. 1 ; Hodges v. Lochhead (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 199, 202, 31 Cal. Rptr. 879] .

[5] Acceptance

Acceptance of the deed by the grantee or the grantee's representative is necessary to make a delivery effective and the deed operative [Perry v. Wallner (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 218, 222, 23 Cal. Rptr. 352 ; Steitz v. Irwin (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 871, 875, 211 P.2d 919] . Actual acceptance need not be formal or express but may be shown by the acts and conduct of the parties [Steitz v. Irwin (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 871, 876, 211 P.2d 919 ; Canal Oil Co. v. National Oil Co. (1937) 19 Cal. App. 2d 524, 536, 66 P.2d 197 (corporate grantee)]. Constructive acceptance of a deed may be presumed, even if the grantee has no knowledge of the deed, if the conveyance is beneficial to the grantee and the deed is delivered to a third party for the benefit of the grantee [Steitz v. Irwin (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 871, 875, 211 P.2d 919 ; Windiate v. Moore (1962) 201 Cal. App. 2d 509, 515, 19 Cal. Rptr. 860 ; see Civ. Code § 1059(2)].

If the debtor records a deed to the creditor and the creditor does not want to accept the deed, the creditor may record a notice of nonacceptance. The notice must identify the security interest, contain a legal description of the property, and properly identify the parties to the deed, the date the deed is recorded, the county in which the project is located, and the county assessor's parcel number referenced in the deed [Civ. Code § 1058.5(a)].

[6] Presumptions and Inferences

The grantee's possession of the deed raises a rebuttable inference of delivery [Meyer v. Wall (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 24, 28, 75 Cal. Rptr. 236 ; see Jones v. Jones (1960) 183 Cal. App. 2d 468, 472, 6 Cal. Rptr. 819 (acceptance)]. Circumstances considered in refuting this inference may include various acts of dominion inconsistent with delivery, such as the grantor's retention of possession of the property, payment of taxes and insurance, collection of rents, and attempted second conveyances [Meyer v. Wall (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 24, 29, 75 Cal. Rptr. 236 ; Mecchi v. Picchi (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 470, 484, 54 Cal. Rptr. 1] .

The grantor's possession of the deed raises a presumption that the deed was never delivered, unless actual delivery is established and it is further shown that the grantor's possession is merely for safekeeping or a similar purpose [Miller v. Jansen (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 473, 477, 478, 132 P.2d 801 ; Condencia v. Nelson (1960) 187 Cal. App. 2d 300, 303, 9 Cal. Rptr. 759] .

Recordation is prima facie evidence of execution and delivery [Evid. Code § 1600]. This is a rebuttable presumption affecting the burden of proof [see Evid. Code §§ 601, 602, 1601(b); see also Evid. Code § 606].

A duly executed deed is presumed to have been delivered at its date [Civ. Code § 1055]. Because a deed is deemed duly executed when it has been subscribed and delivered, this presumption arises only as to the date, not the fact of delivery [Code Civ. Proc. § 1933; Miller v. Jansen (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 473, 132 P.2d 801] .

A beneficial conveyance to a person incapable of accepting, such as an infant or one who is mentally incompetent, is conclusively presumed to be accepted [Estate of Kalt (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 807, 813, 108 P.2d 401] . In the case of an adult donee, a rebuttable presumption of acceptance of a gift deed arises when the conveyance is beneficial [Herman v. Mortensen (1945) 72 Cal. App. 2d 413, 419-421, 164 P.2d 551] . Acceptance by one joint owner raises a presumption of acceptance by the other joint owners when the grant is beneficial to them, even though they have no knowledge of the deed [Blackburn v. Drake (1963) 211 Cal. App. 2d 806, 816, 27 Cal. Rptr. 651] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawPersonal GiftsElements of Valid GiftsAcceptanceReal Property LawDeedsConstruction & InterpretationReal Property LawDeedsTypesGift DeedsReal Property LawDeedsDelivery

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.23

§ 184.23 Matters Not Essential to Validity

[1] Consideration

A deed does not require consideration to be valid [Freeman v. LaMorte (1957) 148 Cal. App. 2d 670, 673, 307 P.2d 734 ; see Civ. Code § 1040]. Therefore, the deed generally may not be rescinded on the ground of failure of consideration, unless performance or payment of the consideration is made a condition subsequent [Lavely v. Nonemaker (1931) 212 Cal. 380, 383, 298 P. 976] . For example, the deed may be rescinded or cancelled or a reconveyance compelled when the grant is conditioned on performance of a promise to maintain and support the grantor [Teel v. Bank of Eureka (1941) 42 Cal. App. 2d 807, 809-811, 110 P.2d 78] .

One acting under a power of attorney conferred for the benefit of the principal cannot make a conveyance without consideration, for a consideration of love and affection, for a nominal consideration, or for a consideration running to the agent [Bertelsen v. Bertelson (1942) 49 Cal. App. 2d 479, 484, 122 P.2d 130] .

[2] Acknowledgment and Recordation

Acknowledgment of the deed is not essential to the deed's validity [Osterberg v. Osterberg (1945) 68 Cal. App. 2d 254, 262, 156 P.2d 46] . In addition, recordation is not a prerequisite to the validity of a deed if the rights of innocent third persons are not involved [Devereaux v. Frazier Mountain Park & Fisheries Co. (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 323, 328, 56 Cal. Rptr. 345 ; see Civ. Code § 1217]. If a deed is delivered before an abstract of judgment is recorded, the transfer is complete when the deed is delivered without regard to whether the deed was recorded, and there is nothing to which the later-recorded abstract can attach [Casey v. Gray (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 611, 614, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 538] . However, a deed must be acknowledged before it may be recorded [Gov. Code § 27287; see also Gov. Code § 27288]. If the deed is acknowledged or proved and certified and recorded, it constitutes constructive notice of its contents to subsequent purchasers and mortgagees [Civ. Code § 1213].

[3] Documentary Transfer Tax

Any county or city and county may impose a tax on transfers of real property [Rev. & Tax. Code § 11911]. The recorder may not record a deed subject to a transfer tax unless the tax is paid at the time of recording. However, if the deed is recorded anyway, failure to collect the tax due does not affect constructive notice otherwise imparted by recording the deed [Rev. & Tax. Code § 11933].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawConsiderationGeneral OverviewReal Property LawDeedsEnforceabilityReal Property LawDeedsExecution FormalitiesReal Property LawPriorities & RecordingBona Fide PurchasersReal Property LawPriorities & RecordingRecording Acts

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.24

§ 184.24 Interpretation of Deeds

[1] In General

The primary objective in construing a deed is to give effect to the intention of the parties as shown by the language they used [Willard v. First Church of Christ, Scientist (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 473, 476, 102 Cal. Rptr. 739, 498 P.2d 987 ; Rousselot v. Spanier (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 238, 243, 131 Cal. Rptr. 438, 55 O.&G.R. 12] . Therefore, deeds are generally to be interpreted in the same way as contracts [Civ. Code § 1066; City of Manhattan Beach v. Superior Court (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 232, 238, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 82, 914 P.2d 160 , cert. denied, 519 U.S. 1008, 117 S. Ct. 511, 136 L. Ed. 2d 400 ; City and County of San Francisco v. Union Pacific R.R. Co. (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 987, 994, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 ; for a discussion of the interpretation of contracts, see Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.30 et seq.].

There are, however, certain statutory rules of interpretation specifically applicable to deeds. A deed is to be interpreted in favor of the grantee, except that a reservation in any grant and every grant by a public officer or body, as such, to a private party, is to be interpreted in favor of the grantor [Civ. Code § 1069]. If the operative words of a deed are doubtful, recourse may be had to its recitals to assist in construction [Civ. Code § 1068; see City and County of San Francisco v. Union Pacific R.R. Co. (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 987, 995, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 (granting clause that did not contain the words fee, easement, or right-of-way conveyed fee simple title in light of other deed provisions reserving certain rights to grantors)]. A clear and distinct limitation in a deed is not controlled by other words less clear and distinct [Civ. Code § 1067]. If several parts of a grant are absolutely irreconcilable, the former part prevails [Civ. Code § 1070].

[2] Parol and Extrinsic Evidence

The intention of the parties to a deed is to be gathered, if possible, from the language itself and is determined by a proper construction of the language used rather than by resorting to extrinsic evidence [White v. State of California (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 738, 757, 99 Cal. Rptr. 58] . Therefore, if the language of a deed is plain, certain, and unambiguous, neither parol nor extrinsic evidence will be considered to add to, detract from, or vary its terms [French v. Brinkman (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 547, 552, 35 Cal. Rptr. 289, 387 P.2d 1 ; Safwenberg v. Marquez (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 301, 309, 123 Cal. Rptr. 405] . However, extrinsic evidence is admissible to determine whether the deed's language is reasonably susceptible of an interpretation contrary to its "plain meaning." If the trial court then decides that the language of the deed in light of all the circumstances is susceptible of either one of the two interpretations contended for, extrinsic evidence relevant to prove either of the meanings is admissible [Murphy Slough Assn. v. Avila (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 649, 653-655, 104 Cal. Rptr. 136 ; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1856, 1860]. Parol evidence is also admissible to show fraud or mistake [French v. Brinkman (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 547, 552, 553, 35 Cal. Rptr. 289, 387 P.2d 1 (mutual mistake); Kent v. First Trust & Savings Bank (1950) 101 Cal. App. 2d 361, 370, 225 P.2d 625 (fraud); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1856].

When the terms of a deed are ambiguous, the actual conduct of the parties may be used to establish their intention. Thus, when a deed for a railroad right-of-way was ambiguous regarding whether it granted a fee interest or an easement, the grantor's subsequent conduct was admissible to indicate its intention to convey a fee interest [City of Manhattan Beach v. Superior Court (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 232, 246, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 82, 914 P.2d 160 , cert. denied, 519 U.S. 1008, 117 S. Ct. 511, 136 L. Ed. 2d 400] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidenceDocumentary EvidenceParol EvidenceReal Property LawDeedsConstruction & Interpretation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.25

§ 184.25 Theories of Action

Generally, when one of the requisites of a valid deed is lacking and the deed is not void on its face, it is subject to cancellation and the plaintiff may have his or her title quieted with respect to the adverse claim made under the deed [see Civ. Code § 3412; Code Civ. Proc. § 760.010 et seq.; see also §§ 184.150 -184.157]. A deed's validity as well as matters of interpretation appear to also be determinable in an action for declaratory relief [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1060; see also § 184.157].

When, through fraud or a mutual mistake of the parties, or a mistake of one party, the deed does not truly express the intention of the parties, it may be revised or reformed so as to express that intention so far as it can be done without prejudice to rights acquired by third persons, in good faith, and for value [see Civ. Code § 3399 and Ch. 488, Reformation of Instruments].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawDeedsConstruction & InterpretationReal Property LawDeedsEnforceabilityReal Property LawDeedsRemediesCancellation & RescissionReal Property LawDeedsRemediesReformation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 184.26-184.39

[Reserved]

§§ 184.26[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Covenants of Title

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.40

§ 184.40 Governing Statutes

Implication of covenants in a grant deed is governed by Civ. Code § 1113. Damages for breach of covenants of title are governed by Civ. Code §§ 3304 and 3305. Statutes governing covenants running with the land are contained in Civ. Code §§ 1460 through 1471.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawTypes of ContractsCovenantsReal Property LawDeedsCovenants of TitleReal Property LawDeedsRemediesDamages

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Covenants of Title

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.41

§ 184.41 Implied Covenants

[1] Covenants Implied From Grant Deed

From the use of the word "grant" in any deed by which an estate of inheritance or fee simple is to be passed, the following covenants, and none other, on the part of the grantor for the grantor and the grantor's heirs to the grantee and the grantee's heirs and assigns are implied, unless restrained by express terms contained in the deed [Civ. Code § 1113]:

- That previous to the time of the execution of the deed, the grantor has not conveyed the same estate, or any right, title, or interest in the estate, to any person other than the grantee; and

- That the estate is at the time of the execution of the deed free from encumbrance done, made, or suffered by the grantor, or any person claiming under him or her.

Thus, a grant deed generally carries with it implied covenants against prior conveyances and encumbrances by the grantor [see Civ. Code § 1113; Snyder v. Pine Grove Lbr. Co. (1940) 40 Cal. App. 2d 660, 663-664, 105 P.2d 369] . However, these covenants are not implied if the deed in which the word "grant" is used is a gift deed, that is, a deed given without consideration [Estate of Porter (1930) 138 Cal. 618, 624-625, 72 P. 173] or a quitclaim deed [Southern Pac. Co. v. Dore (1917) 34 Cal. App. 521, 522-523, 168 P. 147 ; see § 184.12[2]].

These implied covenants may be sued on in the same manner as if they had been expressly inserted in the conveyance [Civ. Code § 1113].

[2] Covenant Against Prior Conveyances

The implied covenant against prior conveyances [Civ. Code § 1113] is personal to the grantee and does not run with the land. It is breached, if at all, at the time the deed is executed [Lawrence v. Montgomery (1869) 37 Cal. 183, 188-189] .

[3] Covenant Against Encumbrances

An encumbrance is any right to or interest in land that may subsist in another to the diminution of the value of the land, but which is consistent with the passing of the fee. An encumbrance may include whatever charges, burdens, obstructs, or impairs the use of an estate in land or impedes its transfer [American Title Co. v. Anderson (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 255, 258, 259, 125 Cal. Rptr. 24] . The term "encumbrances" also includes taxes, assessments, and all liens on real property [Civ. Code § 1114].

There are two categories of encumbrances, those that affect title, such as a mortgage or lien, and those that affect only the physical condition of the property, such as a public road or right of way. If an encumbrance affecting title exists at the time of transfer, and was done, made, or suffered by the grantor, the implied covenant against encumbrances is breached. In this case, the vendee's prior knowledge or notice of the encumbrance is immaterial. However, if the encumbrance consists of a physical burden on the land, permanent in character, of an open and notorious nature, and affecting only the physical condition of the property, it is not an encumbrance that breaches the implied covenant against encumbrances [Civ. Code § 1113; Evans v. Faught (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 698, 709, 42 Cal. Rptr. 133] .

The implied covenant against encumbrances imposes a personal obligation on the grantor, and where there are two or more grantors, the obligation is joint and several [Evans v. Faught (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 698, 712, 42 Cal. Rptr. 133] . The covenant is also personal to the grantee, and does not run with the land. Thus, a succeeding grantee may not maintain an action in his or her own name for breach [Babb v. Weemer (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 546, 550, 551, 37 Cal. Rptr. 533] .

[4] Damages for Breach of Implied Covenants

The implied covenant against prior conveyances [Civ. Code § 1113(1)] seems to be a statutory modification of the covenant of seisin [Comment, Covenants of Title Running With the Land in California, 49 Cal. L. Rev. 931, 933 (1961)]. The measure of damages for breach of a covenant of seisin and, by analogy, for breach of the implied covenant against prior conveyances is (1) the price paid to the grantor or, if the breach is only partial, such proportion of the price as the value of the property affected by the breach bore at the time of the grant to the value of the whole property; (2) interest on this amount for the time during which the grantee derived no benefit from the property, not exceeding five years; and (3) any expenses properly incurred by the covenantee in defending his or her possession [Civ. Code § 3304].

The usual measure of damages for breach of the implied covenant against encumbrances [Civ. Code § 1113(2)] is the amount which has been actually expended by the covenantee in extinguishing either the principal or interest of the encumbrance. However, if the principal is extinguished, this sum must not exceed a proportion of the price paid to the grantor equivalent to the relative value at the time of the grant of the property affected by the breach, as compared with the whole, or if the interest is extinguished, this sum is not to exceed interest on a like amount [Civ. Code § 3305].

This rule refers to encumbrances such as mortgages and other liens which may be satisfied by the payment of money. It is not applicable to encumbrances such as easements or restrictions on the use of land which cannot be extinguished at the will of the owner by the payment of any sum. In the latter instance, the measure of damages is based on the natural and proximate consequences to the plaintiff of the existence and continuance of the encumbrance, and just compensation for the breach is estimated by the amount by which the existence of the encumbrance reduces the market value of the land [Evans v. Faught (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 698, 712-713, 42 Cal. Rptr. 133] . However, since the covenant against encumbrances is merely one of indemnity, no more than nominal damages can be recovered on account of an encumbrance that has inflicted no actual injury on the grantee [Fraser v. Bentel (1911) 161 Cal. 390, 394, 119 P. 509] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawDeedsCovenants of TitleReal Property LawDeedsRemediesDamages

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Covenants of Title

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.42

§ 184.42 Express Covenants

[1] Covenant of Warranty

A covenant of warranty in a deed is an undertaking by the covenantor that on the total or partial failure of the title which the deed purports to convey by setting up a superior title, the covenantor will compensate the covenantee in money for the loss sustained by the failure of title [Tropico Land & Improvement Co. v. Lambourn (1915) 170 Cal. 33, 38, 148 P. 206] . A grantor who warrants the title purportedly conveyed also covenants to defend such title against all lawful claims [Barberi v. Rothchild (1936) 7 Cal. 2d 537, 540, 61 P.2d 760] .

The covenant of warranty is made for the direct benefit of the property and runs with the land [Civ. Code §§ 1462, 1463]. The covenant is breached only when the covenantee or his or her assignee is actually or constructively evicted, and the covenantor's liability runs directly to the person evicted [see Civ. Code § 1460; McGary v. Hastings (1870) 39 Cal. 360, 364-367 ; Blackwell v. Atkinson (1859) 14 Cal. 470, 471] .

[2] Covenant for Quiet Enjoyment

A covenant for quiet enjoyment is similar to the covenant of warranty. It also runs with the land [Civ. Code § 1463], and is breached when the covenantee or his or her assignee is actually evicted or when one holding a paramount title asserts it in such manner that the covenantee is compelled to yield possession or buy the outstanding superior title [see McCormick v. Marcy, (1913) 165 Cal. 386, 389, 132 P. 449 ; see also Civ. Code § 1460].

[3] Covenant for Further Assurance

A covenant for further assurance is a covenant by the grantor to perform further acts or execute additional deeds for the purpose of perfecting the grantee's title [see, e.g., Wholey v. Cavanaugh (1891) 88 Cal. 132, 135, 25 P. 1112] . The covenant runs with the land [Civ. Code § 1463], and is breached when the additional acts required are not performed within a reasonable time [Vance v. Pena (1871) 41 Cal. 686, 692, 693] . The covenant may be specifically enforced [Powell on Real Property, Ch. 81, Intervivos Transfer by Deed, P 910; Comment, Covenants of Title Running With the Land in California, 49 Cal. L. Rev. 931, 936 (1961)].

[4] Covenant of Seisin

A covenant of seisin is a covenant that the grantor owns or is seised with the estate purportedly conveyed [see McCormick v. Marcy (1913) 165 Cal. 386, 388, 132 P. 449] . The covenant is personal to the covenantee, and is breached, if at all, at the time of transfer [Lawrence v. Montgomery (1869) 37 Cal. 183, 188, 189] .

[5] Covenant of Right to Convey

The covenant of right to convey is similar to the covenant of seisin, but protects the covantee in situations in which, regardless of ownership, the grantor does not have the right to convey the property [see Powell on Real Property, Ch. 81, Intervivos Transfer by Deed, P 906]. The covenant is personal, and is breached, if at all, at the time of transfer [Lawrence v. Montgomery (1869) 37 Cal. 183, 188, 189] .

[6] Covenant Against Encumbrances

An express covenant against encumbrances is similar to that implied by the use of the word "grant," but is greater in scope, generally warranting against all existing encumbrances, not just those made or suffered by the grantor [Curtis, Title Assurance in Sales of California Residential Realty: A Critique of Title Insurance and Title Covenants With Suggested Reforms, 7 Pacific L.J. 1, 23 (1976); see also § 184.41[2] and [3]]. The covenant is personal to the covenantee, and is breached, if at all, at the time of transfer [Lawrence v. Montgomery (1869) 37 Cal. 183, 188, 189] .

[7] Damages for Breach of Express Covenants

Damages for breach of a covenant of seisin, right to convey, warranty, or quiet enjoyment are the same as for breach of the implied covenant against prior conveyances, and damages for breach of an express covenant against encumbrances are the same as for breach of the implied covenant against encumbrances [see Civ. Code §§ 3304, 3305; see also § 184.41[3]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawDeedsCovenants of TitleReal Property LawDeedsRemediesDamages

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Covenants of Title

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.43

§ 184.43 Additional Remedies for Failure of Title

When a deed purporting to convey a greater estate than the grantor owns is executed pursuant to a purchase agreement, the grantee may recover on the theory of failure of consideration or breach of agreement to convey real property. Alternatively, the grantee may seek rescission on the ground of mistake as to the status of the grantor's title, whether the grantor also mistakenly believed in the validity of his or her title or knew of the defect and failed to disclose it [American Title Co. v. Anderson (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 255, 259, 125 Cal. Rptr. 24 ; see Civ. Code §§ 1577, 1578; see also § 184.154].

The grantee may also be able to collect on his or her title insurance policy. When the title insurance company pays or settles the grantee's claim, the company may be subrogated to the rights of the grantees, and sue the grantor for damages for breach of covenant or proceed against the grantor on one or more of the theories mentioned above [American Title Co. v. Anderson (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 255, 258-260, 125 Cal. Rptr. 24] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawBreachCauses of ActionBreach of WarrantyInsurance LawProperty InsuranceTitle InsuranceReal Property LawDeedsRemediesCancellation & RescissionReal Property LawDeedsRemediesDamagesReal Property LawPurchase & SaleContracts of SaleEnforceabilityMistake

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Covenants of Title

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 184.44-184.59

[Reserved]

§§ 184.44[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.60

§ 184.60 Governing Law

Restrictive covenants are governed generally by Civ. Code §§ 1460-1471, which set forth the prerequisites for binding legal covenants between private parties to restrict the use of land. Discriminatory covenants are governed by Civ. Code §§ 51.2, 51.3, 53, 782, and 782.5. Enforcement of restrictive covenants as equitable servitudes is governed by common law [see Werner v. Graham (1919) 181 Cal. 174, 179-186, 183 P. 945] .

Conditions, including conditions subsequent, are generally governed by Civ. Code § 1434 et seq. Civ. Code § 707 et seq. specifically govern conditions affecting ownership of land. Remedies for breach of conditions subsequent are generally governed by Civ. Code §§ 791, 793 (notice before action or reentry), Civ. Code § 1046 (right of reentry as transferable), and Civ. Code § 1109 (duty to reconvey property on breach of condition). The duration and exercise of the power of termination, or right of reentry, are governed by Civ. Code § 880.020 et seq. and Civ. Code § 885.010 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawTypes of ContractsCovenantsReal Property LawEstatesFuture InterestsRight of EntryReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.61

§ 184.61 Restrictions on Use of Property

[1] Methods Available

The use and enjoyment of property may be restricted by several methods. The restrictions are often imposed for the benefit of another parcel of property, but may also be for the mutual benefit of the property restricted and other property, or may not be for the benefit of property at all. Restrictions are commonly imposed by the following methods:

- Personal covenants, created in agreements or deeds, binding only the immediate parties to them [see, e.g., Lyford v. North Pac. Coast R.R. Co. (1891) 92 Cal. 93, 95-96, 28 P. 103] ;

- Covenants that run with the land, created in agreements or deeds, and binding some or all successors in interest to the burdened and benefited properties [see, e.g., Oceanside Community Assn. v. Oceanside Land Co. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 166, 172-175, 195 Cal. Rptr. 14] ;

- Equitable servitudes, which also bind successors in interest [see, e.g., Sain v. Silvestre (1978) 78 Cal. App. 3d 461, 466, 144 Cal. Rptr. 478 (disapproved on other grounds in Reynolds Metals Co. v. Alperson (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 124, 129, 158 Cal. Rptr. 1, 599 P.2d 83)]; and

- Conditions subsequent, which afford the grantor and the grantor's heirs and assigns (as opposed to successors to the grantor's interest in property) the power to terminate the grantee's or grantee's successor's estate in the property conveyed if the condition occurs [see Civ. Code §§ 885.010, 885.020, 1109].

[2] On Individual Lots

Restrictions on the use of or benefiting individual lots, as opposed to lots in a subdivision, may be accomplished by a covenant, which may or may not run with the land, or by the imposition of a condition subsequent [see, e.g., Carlson v. Lindauer (1953) 119 Cal. App. 2d 292, 297-299, 304-305, 259 P.2d 925, 2 O.&G.R. 1363 (covenant by holder of mineral rights to execute quitclaim deed to owner of surface rights if production in paying quantities was not attained in five-year period); Rosecrans v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 602, 603-605, 134 P.2d 245 (condition subsequent providing that on grantee's cessation of use of right of way for passenger trains, grantors, or grantors' heirs or assigns, have right to enter and take possession)]. The theory of equitable servitudes may also apply [see MacDonald Properties, Inc. v. Bel-Air Country Club (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 693, 696-697, 699-700, 140 Cal. Rptr. 367 ; see also Marra v. Aetna Construction Co. (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 375, 378, 101 P.2d 490] .

With respect to covenants, a grantor and grantee may execute an agreement in which either party promises to do or refrain from doing some act on his or her own land for the benefit of the land of the other [see Civ. Code § 1468; see, e.g., Doo v. Packwood (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 752, 753, 71 Cal. Rptr. 477 (grantee covenanted not to use property conveyed for retail sale of groceries)]. Similarly, two landowners not in the relationship of grantee-grantor can execute an agreement imposing restrictions on the use of one or both of their properties [see Civ. Code § 1468; see, e.g., Oceanside Community Assn. v. Oceanside Land Co. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 166, 174-175, 195 Cal. Rptr. 14 (agreement by developer with home owners to maintain land adjacent to subdivision as golf course)].

[3] On Lots in Subdivision

Covenants may be used to establish use restrictions in a subdivision, most commonly by restricting all the lots in the subdivision to residential use, and by imposing a variety of restrictions for aesthetic purposes [see, e.g., Seligman v. Tucker (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 691, 693-694, 86 Cal. Rptr. 187] . This is usually accomplished by incorporating covenants restricting use in a "Declaration of Covenants, Conditions, and Restrictions," also commonly known as "CC&Rs," a declaration of restrictions, or a declaration. In Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314] , the California Supreme Court held that if a declaration establishing a common plan for the ownership of property in a subdivision and containing restrictions on the use of the property as part of the common plan is recorded before the execution of a contract for the sale of any lot in the subdivision, describes the property it is to govern, and states that it is intended to bind all purchasers and their successors, then subsequent purchasers who have constructive notice of the recorded declaration are deemed to intend and agree to be bound by, and to accept the benefits of, the common plan. The restrictions need not be additionally cited in a deed or other document at the time of the sale of parcels in the subdivision [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 355, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314 ; for further discussion of this opinion, see § 184.63[3]].

The Citizens Court noted that the issue before it was narrow and involved how a covenant is created. It saw no difference regarding this issue between covenants that run with the land and equitable servitudes, and held that the rule it adopted applies equally to both [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 355, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314] . However, the Court also provided a brief overview of the doctrines of the two doctrines, and noted that California courts have traditionally analyzed CC&Rs under the doctrine of equitable servitudes, at least before the 1968 and 1969 amendments of Civ. Code § 1468 [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 353-354, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314 , citing Scaringe v. J.C.C. Enterprises, Inc. (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1536, 1544, 253 Cal. Rptr. 344 ; Richardson v. Callahan (1931) 213 Cal. 683, 686, 3 P.2d 927 ; for discussion of the development of Civ. Code § 1468, see § 184.134[3]].

[4] Enforceability Against Successive Owners of Property

Subdivision CC&Rs will be binding on subsequent purchasers if the CC&Rs are recorded prior to the sale of any lots in the subdivision and otherwise satisfy the requirements set forth in Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 355, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314] . When the Citizens rule does not apply, the requirements set forth below will determine whether use restrictions are enforceable against subsequent owners.

The enforceability of the benefit or burden of a covenant by or against subsequent owners of the property in addition to the parties to the deed or agreement that contains the covenant, depends on whether or not the "covenant runs with the land" or is a mere personal covenant, which does not fulfill the requisites of a covenant running with the land [see Taormina Theosophical Community, Inc. v. Silver (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 964, 972, 190 Cal. Rptr. 38 ; Anthony v. Brea Glenbrook Club (1976) 58 Ca App3d 506, 510, 130 Cal. Rptr. 32] . A personal covenant, as opposed to one that runs with the land, is enforceable only between the two parties to the covenant [Lyford v. North Pac. Coast R.R. Co. (1891) 92 Cal. 93, 95-96, 28 P. 103 (grantee's covenant to maintain railroad on easement in contract granting easement held to be personal and unenforceable by plaintiff who did not hold assignment from grantor); see Barrows v. Jackson (1952) 112 Cal. App. 2d 534, 538, 247 P.2d 99] .

Whether or not a covenant runs with the land is governed by statute. Prior to 1969, both the benefit and burden of a covenant could run with the land under Civ. Code § 1468 when the covenant was in an agreement between two landowners. Civ. Code § 1468, however, did not apply to covenants between a grantee and grantor, and under Civ. Code § 1462, a covenant made in a deed could only run with the land if it benefited the land conveyed in the deed [Marra v. Aetna Construction Co. (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 375, 377-378, 101 P.2d 490 ; see Oceanside Community Assn. v. Oceanside Land Co. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 166, 174-175, 195 Cal. Rptr. 14 (covenant referred to in deeds did not run under Civ. Code § 1462 because it burdened land, but covenant was made between landowners and met other criteria so as to run under Civ. Code § 1468)]. Since 1969, both the benefit and the burden of a covenant made by a grantor in a conveyance has run with the land under Civ. Code § 1468, and since 1970, grantees' covenants have been similarly enforceable [for further discussion, see § 184.134[3]].

Even though a covenant will not run with the land, it may nonetheless be enforceable against successors in interest as an equitable servitude [see Marra v. Aetna Construction Co. (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 375, 378, 101 P.2d 490 ; see also § 184.63].

By its nature, a condition subsequent is enforceable against successors in interest to the grantee [see Civ. Code § 1109]. However, the power of termination used to enforce such a condition may expire by the passage of time or due to obsolescence [see Civ. Code § 885.010 et seq.; for discussion, see § 184.70].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawEstatesFuture InterestsRight of EntryReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsCovenants Running With LandReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsCreationReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsEnforcementReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsSubdivisions

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.62

§ 184.62 Restrictive Covenant

[1] Defined

A covenant is a promise respecting the use of land, whether in the affirmative to use the land in a particular manner or in the negative to refrain from doing certain things in regard to its use. A restrictive covenant is a covenant restricting the use of the land, and has been described as a negative easement [Sackett v. Los Angeles City School Dist. (1931) 118 Cal. App. 254, 257, 5 P.2d 23] . Restrictions are construed to be covenants rather than conditions when that can reasonably be done, but that construction will not be adopted contrary to the parties' intention [Rosecrans v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 602, 605, 134 P.2d 245 ; but see MacDonald Properties, Inc. v. Bel-Air Country Club (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 693, 699, 140 Cal. Rptr. 367 ; for further discussion, see § 184.70[2]]. A covenant may be personal and enforceable only by the parties to the agreement, or it may run with the land and be binding and enforceable by the successive owner of the dominant and servient tenements [see § 184.134[3]]. The covenantee, or person benefited by a restriction on the use of land, holds a property interest in the land [see Southern Cal. Edison Co. v. Bourgerie (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 169, 171, 107 Cal. Rptr. 76, 507 P.2d 964 ; Redevelopment Agency v. Tobriner (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 367, 374-375, 200 Cal. Rptr. 364] .

[2] Personal Covenants

A personal covenant is one that by its nature is a mere personal undertaking, and not intended to have any binding effect beyond the immediate parties to the instrument [Oceanside Community Assn. v. Oceanside Land Co. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 166, 175, 195 Cal. Rptr. 14] .

Determination of whether a covenant is personal, runs with the land, or is enforceable as an equitable servitude rests on the resolution of factual matters such as intent, notice, and equitable factors [McCaffrey v. Preston (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 422, 436, 201 Cal. Rptr. 252] . The express terms of the restrictions, the length of the restrictions on the land, and testimony as to the understanding of the original covenanting parties are all relevant to whether a covenant was intended to be personal or intended to bind later grantees [see Oceanside Community Assn. v. Oceanside Land Co. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 166, 175, 195 Cal. Rptr. 14] .

[3] Covenants Running With Land

[a] Nature

Both the liability of a covenant that runs with the land and the power to enforce it pass with the transfer of the estate in the property so that the covenant remains binding on subsequent transferees of the property even though they have not contractually assumed any responsibility for its performance [see Civ. Code § 1460; Anthony v. Brea Glenbrook Club (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 506, 510, 130 Cal. Rptr. 32] . Only those covenants specified by statute, and those that are incidental thereto, run with the land [Civ. Code § 1461]. The two most important statutes that are applicable to determine whether a covenant runs with the land to bind subsequent purchasers of that land are Civ. Code §§ 1462 and 1468 [see Oceanside Community Assn. v. Oceanside Land Co. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 166, 174, 195 Cal. Rptr. 14] . Civ. Code § 1462 provides that a covenant contained in a grant of an estate in real property, which is made for the direct benefit of the property conveyed, or some part of it then in existence, runs with the land. Under California decisions narrowly applying Civ. Code § 1462, a restrictive covenant that burdens, rather than benefits, property does not run with the land to bind successors under that section [Oceanside Community Assn. v. Oceanside Land Co. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 166, 174, 195 Cal. Rptr. 14 ; see Marra v. Aetna Construction Co. (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 375, 377-378, 101 P.2d 490] .

Even though a restrictive covenant will not run under Civ. Code § 1462 because it burdens land, it may run with the land if it satisfies the requirements of Civ. Code § 1468, under which both burdens and benefits may be enforced [Oceanside Community Assn. v. Oceanside Land Co. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 166, 174, 195 Cal. Rptr. 14] .

A third statute, Civ. Code § 1471, applies notwithstanding Civ. Code § 1468 or any other provision of law and governs covenants running with the land that impose environmental restrictions intended to protect present or future human health or safety or the environmental as a result of hazardous materials [see § 194.62[3][c]].

Whether or not a covenant runs with the land and binds subsequent purchasers is determined by the statutes in effect when the covenant was created [see Taormina Theosophical Community, Inc. v. Silver (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 964, 968, 190 Cal. Rptr. 38 (amendments of Civ. Code § 1468 not applied retroactively); Oceanside Community Assn. v. Oceanside Land Co. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 166, 174 n. 4, 195 Cal. Rptr. 14] . Civ. Code § 1462 has not been amended since 1872. However, Civ. Code § 1468, enacted in 1905, was amended in 1968 and 1969, as discussed in § 184.62[3][b].

A special rule, applicable to both covenants that run with the land and equitable servitudes, governs the creation of a general plan of restrictions for a subdivision that is to bind all purchasers and successors. In Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314] , the California Supreme Court held that if a declaration establishing a common plan for the ownership of property in a subdivision and containing restrictions on the use of the property as part of the common plan is recorded before the execution of a contract for the sale of any lot in the subdivision, describes the property it is to govern, and states that it is intended to bind all purchasers and their successors, then subsequent purchasers who have constructive notice of the recorded declaration are deemed to intend and agree to be bound by, and to accept the benefits of, the common plan. The restrictions need not be additionally cited in a deed or other document at the time of the sale of parcels in the subdivision [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 355, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314 ; for further discussion of this opinion, see § 184.63[3]].

If a covenant does not run with the land, it may nonetheless be enforceable against successors in interest under another theory, as discussed in § 184.62[4].

[b] Covenants That Run Under Civ. Code § 1468

[i] Agreements Before 1969

Civ. Code § 1468 was enacted in 1905, and prior to its amendment, effective January 1, 1969, provided that a covenant made by the owner of land with the owner of other land to do or refrain from doing some act on his or her own land, which doing or refraining was expressed to be for the benefit of the land of the covenantee, and which was made by the covenantor expressly for his or her assigns or to the assigns of the covenantee, ran with both parcels of land [Civ. Code § 1468 (1905 Stats., ch. 450)]. To enforce a legal covenant running with the land created prior to 1968, a plaintiff must show that (1) the covenant concerns some act on the covenantor's property, (2) the covenant is for the benefit of the covenantee, (3) the covenant states it is binding on the assigns of the covenantor, and (4) the covenantor and covenantee were owners of the land at the time the covenant was made [Oceanside Community Assn. v. Oceanside Land Co. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 166, 174-175, 195 Cal. Rptr. 14] .

Because former Civ. Code § 1468 applied only to covenants between landowners, and did not encompass covenants between a grantor and a grantee, restrictions referred to in a pre-1969 deed cannot be enforced against remote grantees unless they satisfy the requirements of Civ. Code § 1462. That is, the restrictions must benefit rather than burden the grantee's land [Taormina Theosophical Community, Inc. v. Silver (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 964, 968, 972, 972 n. 3, 190 Cal. Rptr. 38 ; for further discussion of Civ. Code § 1462, see § 184.134[3]].

[ii] Deed or Agreement in 1969

In 1969, Civ. Code § 1468, as amended by 1968 Stats., ch. 680, § 1, was in effect. This amendment expanded the enforceability of covenants against successive owners by providing that in addition to covenants between landowners, a covenant made by a grantor of land with a grantee, for the benefit of the land conveyed to the grantee, would run with both the grantor's and grantee's land, if specified requirements, which were also added to the statute, were met [Civ. Code § 1468 (1968 Stats., ch. 680, § 1); for a form of allegation to enforce a covenant restricting the use of a grantor's property, see § 184.191]. In addition, the 1968 amendment imposed the same new requirements on covenants made between landowners as it imposed on covenants between a grantor and grantee [Civ. Code § 1468 (1968 Stats., ch. 680, § 1); for discussion of those requirements, see § 184.62[3][b][iii]].

[iii] Deed or Agreement After 1969

Effective January 1, 1970, Civ. Code § 1468 was amended again to provide that a grantee can covenant with a grantor, for the expressed benefit of land belonging to either the grantee or the grantor, to do or refrain from doing certain acts relating to the use of the land, its maintenance, repair, or improvement, or the payment of taxes and assessments on the land or some part of it [see Civ. Code § 1468; 1969 Stats., ch. 245, § 1]. Such an agreement can be enforced as a covenant running with both the land of the grantee and grantor [Civ. Code § 1468].

For a covenant to run with the land under Civ. Code § 1468, benefiting successive owners of the benefited land and binding successive owners of the burdened land, the following requirements must be met [Civ. Code § 1468]:

- The land of the covenantor that is to be affected by the covenants, and the land of the covenantee to be benefited, are particularly described in the instrument containing the covenants;

- The successive owners of the land are, in the instrument containing the covenants, expressly bound by the covenants for the benefit of the land owned by, granted by, or granted to the covenantee;

- Each act that the covenantor is to do or refrain from doing relates to the use, repair, maintenance or improvement of, or payment of taxes and assessments on, the land or some part of the land, or, if the land owned by or granted to each consists of undivided interests in the same parcel or parcels, to the suspension of the right of partition or sale in lieu of partition for a period that is reasonable in relation to the purpose of the covenant (the express reference to partition or sale in lieu of partition was added in 1973, but was expressed by the Legislature to be declaratory of existing law in 1973 Stats., ch. 474, §§ 1, 2); and

- The instrument containing the covenants is recorded in the office of the recorder of each county in which the land or some part of the land is situated.

Despite Civ. Code § 1465, which provides that a covenant running with the land binds only those who acquire the whole estate of the covenantor in some part of the property, a covenant meeting the requirements of Civ. Code § 1468 benefits and is binding on (1) each successive owner, during his or her ownership, of any portion of the land affected by the covenant; and (2) each person having any interest therein derived through any owner of the land, unless the instrument creating the covenant specifically provides otherwise [Civ. Code § 1468].

When several persons are subject to the burden of a covenant under Civ. Code § 1468, the burden must be apportioned among them according to the value of the burdened property held by them respectively, if this value can be ascertained, and if not, then according to their respective interests in point of quantity, except that when only a portion of the land is burdened by the covenant, the apportionment must be only among the several owners of that portion [see Civ. Code §§ 1467, 1468]. A mortgagee, trustee, or beneficiary of a mortgage or deed of trust on land or any part of land affected by a covenant under Civ. Code § 1468 is subject to the provisions of Civ. Code § 1468, but only for the period during which he or she is in possession of the land in his or her capacity as mortgagee, trustee, or beneficiary [Civ. Code § 1468].

For a form of allegation for use in a complaint to enforce a covenant restricting the use of a grantee's property, or a covenant restricting the use of a grantor's or landowner's property under Civ. Code § 1468 as amended in 1969, see §§ 184.191 and 184.192.

[c] Covenants That Run Under Civ. Code § 1471

A covenant imposing land use restrictions that are reasonably necessary to protect human health or safety or the environment from hazardous materials present on the land will run with the land if the conditions set forth in Civ. Code § 1471 are satisfied. Under § 1471, if an owner or grantee of land makes a covenant to do or refrain from doing some act on his or her own land, and the doing or refraining from doing of the act is expressed to be for the benefit of the covenantee, the covenant runs with the land owned or granted to the covenantor when all of the following requirements are met [Civ. Code § 1471(a)]:

- The covenantor's land that is to be affected by the covenant is particularly described in the instrument containing the covenant.

- The instrument containing the covenant provides that the successive owners of the land are bound by the covenant for the benefit of the covenantee.

- Each act described in the covenant relates to the use of land, and each such act is reasonably necessary to protect present or future human health or safety or the environment as a result of the presence on the land of hazardous materials, as defined in Health & Safety Code § 25260.

- The instrument containing the covenant is recorded in the office of the recorder of each county in which the land or some portion of it is situated, and the instrument includes in its title the following words: "Environmental Restriction."

Except as provided in Civ. Code § 1466 (relating to breaches of covenants occurring before acquisition or after relinquishment of land) [see § 184.62[3][d]] or as specifically provided in the instrument creating the covenant, such a covenant will be binding on each successive owner, during his or her ownership, of any portion of the land affected thereby and on each person having any interest in the land derived through any owner of it [Civ. Code § 1471(b)].

When several persons are subject to the burden of any such covenant, it must be apportioned among them pursuant to Civ. Code § 1467 [see § 184.62[3][b][iii]], except that when only a portion of the land is so affected by the covenant, the apportionment must be only among the several owners of that portion [Civ. Code § 1471(c)].

Civ. Code § 1471 applies notwithstanding Civ. Code § 1468 or any other provision of law [Civ. Code § 1471(a)]. Further, it applies regardless of whether or not it is for the benefit of land owned by the covenantee. Finally, it applies to the mortgagee, trustee, or beneficiary of a mortgage or deed of trust on the land or any part of it, but only while he or she, in this capacity, is in possession of the land [Civ. Code § 1471(d)].

If an instrument containing a covenant is recorded in accordance with Civ. Code § 1471(e)(1) as an "Environmental Restriction," the office of the county recorder may send a certified copy of the instrument to the California Environmental Protection Agency, for posting on its Web site, for informational purposes only, pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 57012, unless the instrument indicates that it is required by a board or department specified in Health & Safety Code § 57012(d)(1)-(3) [Civ. Code § 1471(e)(1)]. The county recorder's office may assess a reasonable fee, as determined by resolution of its governing body, to cover the costs of taking these actions [Civ. Code § 1471(f)]. In any case, however, the county recorder's office and its employees are not subject to liability under any state law or in any action for damages if the office of the recorder does not send a certified copy of the instrument pursuant to Civ. Code § 1471(e)(1) [Civ. Code § 1471(e)(2)].

[d] Persons Bound

A covenant running with the land binds the assigns of the covenantor and vests in the assigns of the covenantee, in the same manner as if they had personally entered into them [Civ. Code § 1460]. However, no one, merely by reason of acquiring an estate subject to a covenant running with the land, is liable for a breach of covenant before he or she acquired the estate, or after he or she has parted with or ceased to enjoy its benefits [Civ. Code §§ 1466, 1468]. To part with property or cease to enjoy its benefits within the meaning of Civ. Code § 1466, a property owner must not only vacate the property but voluntarily relinquish it with the intention of terminating his or her ownership, possession, and control and without vesting ownership in another person [Cerro de Alcala Homeowners Assn. v. Burns (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 1, 4, 216 Cal. Rptr. 84].

[4] Enforcement as Easements, Liens, or Equitable Servitudes

Covenants that do not meet the requirements of covenants running with the land may be enforceable as liens or easements on property. The easement theory has been used to enforce a landowner's promise to furnish water to an adjacent parcel when a subsequent owner of the parcel brought an action against the landowner's transferee who had notice of the agreement but refused to continue supplying water [Relovich v. Stuart (1931) 211 Cal. 422, 424, 428-429, 295 P. 819] . If, however, the easement claimed is not one recognized at law, such as an easement for light and air, the covenant must meet requirements of either a statutory covenant or an equitable servitude to be enforceable against subsequent transferees [see Sher v. Leiderman (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 867, 876-877, 885-888, 226 Cal. Rptr. 698] . For discussion and forms relating to easements, see Ch. 240, Easements .

A recorded covenant has also been construed to create an equitable lien on land in the amount that the covenantee's successors would have benefited had the covenant not been violated [see Oceanside Community Assn. v. Oceanside Land Co. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 166, 174-178, 195 Cal. Rptr. 14] .

Restrictive covenants that fall short of the statutory requirements and do not run with the land may also be enforceable against remote grantees if the facts support imposition of the covenant's burden and benefit under the theory of equitable servitudes [see, e.g., MacDonald Properties, Inc. v. Bel-Air Country Club (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 693, 699-700, 140 Cal. Rptr. 367 ; see also § 184.63].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawLimited Use RightsEasementsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsCovenants Running With LandReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsCreationReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsEnforcementReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.63

§ 184.63 Equitable Servitudes

[1] Nature and Purpose

Like a covenant running with the land, an equitable servitude restricts the use of one parcel of land for the benefit of another parcel, not merely between the original parties to a covenant but also between their respective grantees [see Werner v. Graham (1919) 181 Cal. 174, 180, 183 P. 945] . The doctrine of equitable servitudes, however, does not rest on the technical form of the covenant but on the equitable notion that one who takes property with notice of a valid agreement concerning it cannot refuse to be bound by that agreement [Richardson v. Callahan (1931) 213 Cal. 683, 687, 3 P.2d 927] . When a restrictive covenant is unenforceable because of a failure to comply with the recording statutes or some other essential requirement of a covenant running with the land, a court has the power in the appropriate case to enforce the restriction in equity against the covenantor's successor in interest who took the burdened land with knowledge of the terms of the use restrictions [Hudson Oil Co. v. Shortstop (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 488, 493-494, 168 Cal. Rptr. 801 (enforcement in equity of restriction when covenant in lease restricting use of lessor's contiguous land was not enforceable against successive owner under Civ. Code § 1470); see § 184.134[3]].

Equitable servitudes are most commonly used to impose restrictions on subdivisions, but can also be created between two parcels of property [see MacDonald Properties, Inc. v. Bel-Air Country Club (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 693, 696-701, 140 Cal. Rptr. 367 ; for further discussion, see § 184.63[2]]. Although equitable servitudes in land are usually created by CC&Rs or a deed conveying the land, use restrictions contained in a lease are also enforceable against assignees who take with notice of the restrictions [see Hudson Oil Co. v. Shortstop (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 488, 491, 493-495, 168 Cal. Rptr. 801] .

[2] Use as Subdivision Restrictions

When a tract is subdivided, ordinarily a general plan of restrictions is recorded by the subdivider-grantor for the purpose of ensuring the uniform and orderly development and use of the entire tract by all the original purchasers as well as their successors in interest [see Sain v. Silvestre (1978) 78 Cal. App. 3d 461, 466, 144 Cal. Rptr. 478 (disapproved on other grounds in Reynolds Metals Co. v. Alperson (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 124, 129, 158 Cal. Rptr. 1, 599 P.2d 83)]. The plan usually takes the form of a "Declaration of Covenants, Conditions, and Restrictions," also known as "CC&Rs" [see

Diamond Bar Dev. Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 330, 332, 131 Cal. Rptr. 458] , a declaration of restrictions, or a declaration [see Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 349, 350 n.1, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314] . The restrictions are imposed on each parcel within the tract and are used to limit the type of activity permitted on the property, prohibiting such things as commercial use or development within the tract, limiting the height of buildings or landscaping, imposing setback restrictions, protecting views, or imposing similar restrictions [see Atlas Terminals, Inc. v. Sokol (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 191, 193-194, 21 Cal. Rptr. 293 (commercial use); Mock v. Shulman (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 263, 265-266, 38 Cal. Rptr. 39 (landscaping); Seligman v. Tucker (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 691, 693-694, 86 Cal. Rptr. 187 (view); Zabrucky v. McAdams (2005) 129 Cal. App. 4th 618, 629, 28 Cal. Rptr. 3d 592 (view)].

If equitable servitudes are properly created and recorded, the tract restrictions are enforceable not only by the original subdivider but by subsequent owners of lots within the same tract [see Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 349, 350 n.1, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314 ; Werner v. Graham (1919) 181 Cal. 174, 177, 180, 183 P. 945 ; see § 184.63[3]].

[3] Method of Creation

[a] Citizens Rule Regarding Recordation of Subdivision CC&Rs

In Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314] , the California Supreme Court considered the issue of how a general plan of restrictions for a subdivision is created in the first place [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 349, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P. 2d 1314] . It adopted the following rule, which applies whether the restrictions are considered to be equitable servitudes or covenants that run with the land: If a declaration establishing a common plan for the ownership of property in a subdivision and containing restrictions on the use of the property as part of the common plan is recorded before the execution of a contract of sale for land in the subdivision, describes the property it is to govern, and states that it is intended to bind all purchasers and their successors, then subsequent purchasers who have constructive notice of the recorded declaration are deemed to intend and agree to be bound by, and to accept the benefits of, the common plan. Thus, the restrictions are not unenforceable merely because they are not additionally cited in a deed or other document at the time of the sale [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 349, 355, 363, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314] .

The mere recording of subdivision restrictions does not create mutual servitudes because a developer cannot unilaterally make an agreement. The mutual servitudes are not effective, that is, they do not spring into existence, until an actual conveyance subject to them is made [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 365, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P. 2d 1314 ; Werner v. Graham (1919) 181 Cal. 174, 183, 183 P. 945] . The purchase of property subject to such recorded restrictions, with knowledge of the restrictions, evinces the buyer's intent to accept their burdens and benefits. Thus, mutual servitudes are created at the time of the conveyance of the property, and the property is subject to the previously recorded restrictions, even if there is no additional reference to them in the deed [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 363, 365, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P. 2d 1314] .

[b] Overview of Relationship of Citizens Rule to Other Equitable Servitude Cases

The Court in Citizens for Covenant Compliance noted that no prior decision by the Court invalidating restrictions involved a written plan that was applicable to an entire tract and was recorded before conveyancing [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 359, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P. 2d 1314] . In particular, it noted that neither Werner v. Graham [Werner v. Graham (1919) 181 Cal. 174, 183 P. 945 ; see § 184.63[3][c]] nor Riley v. Bear Creek Planning Committee [Riley v. Bear Creek Planning Committee (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 500, 131 Cal. Rptr. 381, 551 P.2d 1213 ; see § 184.63[3][d]] involved such a prior recorded document [Citizens for Covenant

Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 359, 363, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P. 2d 1314] . However, the Court also noted that some intermediate appellate decisions had held that recorded uniform restrictions do not take effect unless they are at least referenced in a deed or other instrument at the time of an actual conveyance [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 359, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P. 2d 1314 , citing Stell v. Jay Hales Development Co. (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1214, 1229-1230, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 220 ; Scaringe v. J. C. C. Enterprises, Inc. (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1536, 1543, 253 Cal. Rptr. 344 ; Trahms v. Starrett (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 766, 770-772, 110 Cal. Rptr. 239 ; Anderson v. Pacific Avenue Inv. Co. (1962) 201 Cal. App. 2d 260, 262-264, 19 Cal. Rptr. 829 ; Murry v. Lovell (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 30, 281 P.2d 316] . These decisions required some reference in the deed, however vague, to the recorded restrictions. The Citizens for Covenant Compliance Court disapproved the inconsistent language and holdings of these other cases [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 355, 363, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P. 2d 1314] .

The Citizens for Covenant Compliance Court found that its holding should operate retrospectively because it is consistent with the rationale of prior California Supreme Court cases and would undermine no legal or policy concerns expressed in those cases [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 367-368, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P. 2d 1314] . Further, it is not inconsistent with the statutes governing covenants that run with the land because neither the current nor former versions of these statutes directly answer the narrow question the Court was considering (that is, how a covenant is created) [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 368, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P. 2d 1314] .

The laws in effect prior to Citizens for Covenant Compliance continue to apply, to the extent they are is not inconsistent with that decision. For coverage of these laws, see the remaining subsections.

[c] Rule in Werner v. Graham

The Supreme Court noted that the rule it established in Citizens for Covenant Compliance is consistent with the rationale of prior cases, including Werner v. Graham [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 359, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P. 2d 1314 ; see Werner v. Graham (1919) 181 Cal. 174, 181-184, 183 P. 945] . Werner involved a subdivision that was not subject to a recorded declaration of restrictions. It held that a parcel in the subdivision was not subject to restrictions that appeared in a deed to a previous owner of the parcel because the deed to the current plaintiff-owner did not contain the restrictions [Werner v. Graham (1919) 181 Cal. 174, 184-185, 183 P. 945] . The Citizens rule is fully consistent with the facts of Werner because Werner did not involve a prior recorded document providing a common plan and stating that restrictions were to apply to every parcel. Instead, the only documents from which the mutual intent and agreement of the parties in Werner could be discerned were the deeds themselves [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 359, 367, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P. 2d 1314 ; see Werner v. Graham (1919) 181 Cal. 174, 184, 183 P. 945] . Consequently, Werner continues to apply to cases that do not involve pre-recorded declarations.

Under Werner and its line of cases, a court will find that mutual equitable servitudes exist in a subdivided tract only if the court makes certain findings, including the following [Werner v. Graham (1919) 181 Cal. 174, 181-184, 183 P. 945 ; Terry v. James (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 438, 442, 140 Cal. Rptr. 201] :

- Both the grantor and grantee intended that the land conveyed was to be restricted pursuant to a general plan [see Fig Garden Etc. Assn. v. Assemi Corp. (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 1704, 1710, 285 Cal. Rptr. 303 ; see also Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 349, 363, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P. 2d 1314] .

- The dominant and servient tenements were adequately shown [see Martin v. Ray (1946) 76 Cal. App. 2d 471, 479, 173 P.2d 573 ; Kent v. Koch (1958) 166 Cal. App. 2d 579, 586-588, 333 P.2d 411 ; see also Marra v. Aetna Construction Co. (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 375, 378, 101 P.2d 490 (the servitude must be appurtenant to other benefited property; it cannot exist in gross); Chandler v. Smith (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 118, 120, 338 P.2d 522 (a covenant that does not run with the land must restrict the use of one parcel [the servient tenement] for the benefit of another [the dominant tenement])].

Werner also appeared to require that the servitude be created by deed [Werner v. Graham (1919) 181 Cal. 174, 181-184, 183 P. 945] , but the Citizens for Covenant Compliance Court noted that this language has been disregarded. Servitudes may be created in other types of documents, including leases and prior recorded uniform plans of development [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 376, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314 ; see Hudson Oil Co. v. Shortstop (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 488, 495, 168 Cal. Rptr. 801 (creation by lease)].

The Werner Court also held that mutual servitudes "spring into existence" as between the first subdivided parcel conveyed and the balance of the parcels at the time of the first conveyance [Werner v. Graham (1919) 181 Cal. 174, 183, 183 P. 945] . The Citizens Court agreed that mutual servitudes spring into existence only on an actual conveyance [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 365, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314] .

[d] Rule in Riley v. Bear Creek Planning Committee

In Riley v. Bear Creek Planning Committee [Riley v. Bear Creek Planning Committee (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 500, 131 Cal. Rptr. 381, 551 P.2d 1213] , a developer conveyed property by a grant deed that contained no restrictions. Nine months later, the developer recorded a declaration of covenants, conditions, restrictions, and reservations that purported to establish restrictions on the previously conveyed property and other lots. The Court held that the acknowledgment and recordation of a declaration of restrictions by the grantor after a conveyance cannot affect property in which the grantor no longer has any interest [Riley v. Bear Creek Planning Committee (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 500, 507, 131 Cal. Rptr. 381, 551 P.2d 1213] . Further, the Court determined that parol evidence was not admissible to establish that the mutual intention of the parties was that the conveyance be subject to restrictions identical to those contained in the declaration subsequently recorded by the grantor [Riley v. Bear Creek Planning Committee (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 500, 507-512, 131 Cal. Rptr. 381, 551 P.2d 1213] .

The Citizens for Covenant Compliance Court found that the rule stated in that opinion [see § 184.63[3]] was fully consistent with the facts of Riley because the restrictions in Riley (unlike those in Citizens) were recorded after the sale [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 367, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314] . The Citizens Court also noted, however, that language in Riley appearing to require that a servitude be created by deed has been disregarded [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 376, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314] .

[4] Enforcement

Once it is determined that an equitable servitude was properly created, it will be enforced only against those subsequent transferees who have actual or constructive notice of the restrictions [MacDonald Properties, Inc. v. Bel-Air Country Club (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 693, 699-700, 140 Cal. Rptr. 367] . If the covenant is properly recorded prior to the sale of a subdivided parcel, subsequent purchasers will have constructive notice and will be bound by the covenant [Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 349, 363, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P. 2d 1314 ; see Wayt v. Patee (1928) 205 Cal. 46, 52, 269 P. 660] . However, a declaration recorded after the conveyance of specific subdivision lots is not enforceable against the grantees of those lots even though they had actual knowledge of the plan of mutual restrictions [Riley v. Bear Creek Planning Committee (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 500, 507, 131 Cal. Rptr. 381, 551 P.2d 1213] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Real Property LawLimited Use RightsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsEnforcementReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsSubdivisions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.64

§ 184.64 Judicial Interpretation of Restrictive Covenants

Restrictive covenants are construed strictly against the person seeking to enforce them and in favor of the unencumbered use of the property [Terry v. James (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 438, 443, 140 Cal. Rptr. 201 ; Biagini v. Hyde (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 877, 880, 83 Cal. Rptr. 875] . The primary object, however, in construing restrictive covenants, as in construing all contracts, is to effectuate the legitimate desires of the covenanting parties [Hannula v. Hacienda Homes (1949) 34 Cal. 2d 442, 444-445, 211 P.2d 302] . The intent of the parties and the object of the deed or restriction should govern, giving the instrument a just and fair interpretation [Lincoln Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Riviera Estates Assn. (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 449, 463, 87 Cal. Rptr. 150] . A tract restriction, for example, that prohibits any improvement that would "unreasonably obstruct" the view from other lots is not necessarily too vague or uncertain for judicial enforcement [Seligman v. Tucker (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 691, 693, 697-699, 86 Cal. Rptr. 187] .

The restrictive covenant document must be construed as a whole so as to give effect to every part, and particular words or clauses will be subordinated to general intent [Ezer v. Fuchsloch (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 849, 861, 160 Cal. Rptr. 486] . In ascertaining the intent of the language expressing the covenant, the court will look to the purpose for which the restriction was imposed [Smith v. North (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 245, 248, 53 Cal. Rptr. 94] . One court, for example, interpreted a restriction on trees or structures that obstructed views from any other lots as a limitation on height of trees to roof-top level, in view of all the restrictions contained in a declaration of restrictions, the topography of the tract, the elevation of the lots, and a limitation on structures to single-family dwellings one story in height [Ezer v. Fuchsloch (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 849, 862, 160 Cal. Rptr. 486] .

For general principles governing interpretation of deeds, see § 184.24.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawTypes of ContractsCovenantsReal Property LawDeedsConstruction & InterpretationReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsEnforcement

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.65

§ 184.65 Particular Types of Restrictions

[1] Limits on Trade or Business

A restrictive covenant is unenforceable if it is intended to create a monopoly in violation of public policy [Burdell v. Grandi (1907) 152 Cal. 376, 383, 92 P. 1022] . However, courts will enforce a covenant prohibiting certain commercial uses of property when the covenant is intended to protect the grantor in the operation of a business, it does not set up a monopoly, and it does not restrain the grantee from pursuing an entire business, trade, or profession [Doo v. Packwood (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 752, 756, 71 Cal. Rptr. 477] . Residential-only restrictions, which prohibit all forms of commercial activity in a subdivision, are regularly upheld as valid [see Biagini v. Hyde (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 877, 880, 83 Cal. Rptr. 875 (beauty parlor); see County of Butte v. Bach (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 848, 857-858, 218 Cal. Rptr. 613 (law practice)]. For a discussion of restraint of trade, see Ch. 565, Unfair Competition .

It is not uncommon for restrictions on business or trade to appear in commercial leases, and when the developer of an industrial park retains right to disapprove projects that would adversely affect or compete with existing projects, such a covenant is valid [Samuelson National v. Kaiser-Aetna (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 553, 557-559, 160 Cal. Rptr. 395] . For a discussion of covenants not to compete in commercial leases, see Ch. 332, Landlord and Tenant: The Tenancy .

[2] Approval of Improvements

Restrictions that require a grantee to obtain the approval of the grantor or a homeowner's association before improving or landscaping a lot are enforceable as long as the approval or disapproval is reasonable [Palos Verdes Homes Assn. v. Rodman (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 324, 328, 227 Cal. Rptr. 81 (homeowner's association); Samuelson National v. Kaiser-Aetna (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 553, 557, 160 Cal. Rptr. 395 (grantor)].

A homeowners' association must exercise its authority to approve or disapprove an individual homeowner's construction or improvement plans in conformity with the declaration of restrictions, and in good faith [Hannula v. Hacienda Homes (1949) 34 Cal. 2d 442, 447, 211 P.2d 302] . A court will review the association's decision to insure that it was neither arbitrary nor in violation of the restrictions [Cohen v. Kite Hill Community Assn. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 642, 652, 191 Cal. Rptr. 209 ; see also Ironwood Owners Assn. IX v. Solomon (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 766, 771-773, 224

Cal. Rptr. 18] .

A lot owner cannot directly enjoin other owners in a development from violating a construction restriction if the grantor or a homeowner's association reserves the sole right to determine whether proposed construction violates the restrictions and the construction was approved [see Trahms v. Starrett (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 766, 769-772, 110 Cal. Rptr. 239 (grantor)]. If the approval was arbitrary or unreasonable, however, a lot owner may be able to state a cause of action against a homeowner's association for breach of covenants, breach of fiduciary duty, breach of duty of good faith and fair dealing, negligence, and intentional misconduct [see Cohen v. Kite Hill Community Assn. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 642, 647, 191 Cal. Rptr. 209] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawRestrictive CovenantsCovenants Running With LandReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsEnforcementReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsSubdivisions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.66

§ 184.66 Modification and Termination of Restrictions

[1] By Agreement

Owners of lots in a subdivided tract can by mutual agreement remove or modify restrictions [Hirsch v. Hancock (1959) 173 Cal. App. 2d 745, 760, 343 P.2d 959, 11 O.&G.R. 167] . Typically a declaration of covenants, conditions, and restrictions will provide for modification or termination by written instrument duly executed by a stated percentage of the then owners of lots in the subdivision [see Diamond Bar Dev. Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 330, 332-333, 131 Cal. Rptr. 458] . Restrictive covenants may be modified by less than all the affected landowners when the original scheme of restrictions contains a provision so authorizing and the procedure established is followed [Taormina Theosophical Community, Inc. v. Silver (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 964, 970, 190 Cal. Rptr. 38] .

For a discussion and forms for use in amending a declaration of a common interest development, see Ch. 124, Condominiums and Other Common Interest Developments .

[2] By Operation of Law

[a] Foreclosure of Senior Lien

When subdivided property is subject to a deed of trust recorded before any tract restrictions are recorded, the deed of trust is a senior lien on the tract and, in the event of a default, the purchaser at a foreclosure sale acquires title free from the restrictions whether or not the purchaser has knowledge of them [Sain v. Silvestre (1978) 78 Cal. App. 3d 461, 471-475, 144 Cal. Rptr. 478 (disapproved on other grounds in Reynolds Metals Co. v. Alperson (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 124, 129, 158 Cal. Rptr. 1, 599 P.2d 83)]. Similarly, the restrictions cannot be enforced against any grantees who receive the lot from that purchaser [Sain v. Silvestre (1978) 78 Cal. App. 3d 461, 471, 144 Cal. Rptr. 478 (disapproved on other grounds in Reynolds Metals Co. v. Alperson (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 124, 129, 158 Cal. Rptr. 1, 599 P.2d 83)].

Mere knowledge on the part of a lender that restrictions and a general plan have been created is not enough to evidence an intent or consent to be bound by the restrictions or an intent to pass the restrictions on to its grantee. However, consent to the establishment of restrictions, such as by approving or consenting to the recording of the restrictions or any subdivision map or general plan, might be grounds for enforcing the mutual equitable servitudes against the lender or beneficiary of a deed of trust and their grantees, because under these circumstances a court would not withhold equitable relief [Sain v. Silvestre (1978) 78 Cal. App. 3d 461, 473, 144 Cal. Rptr. 478 (dictum; case disapproved on other grounds in Reynolds Metals Co. v. Alperson (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 124, 129, 158 Cal. Rptr. 1, 599 P.2d 83)].

[b] By Recording Modification Document

[i] Procedures

A person who holds an ownership interest of record in property and believes that the interest is the subject of an unlawfully restrictive covenant in violation of Gov. Code § 12955(l) may record a document titled "Restrictive Covenant Modification." The county recorder may choose to waive the fee prescribed for recording and indexing instruments [see Gov. Code § 27361] in the case of the modification document. The modification document must include a complete copy of the original document containing the unlawfully restrictive language with the unlawfully restrictive language struck out [Gov. Code § 12956.2(a)].

Before recording the modification document, the county recorder must submit the modification document and the original document to the county counsel, who must determine whether the original document contains an unlawful restriction based on race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, familial status, marital status, disability, national origin, source of income [see Gov. Code § 12955(p) (definition)], or ancestry. The county counsel must return the documents and inform the county recorder of the determination. The county recorder must refuse to record the modification document if the county counsel finds that the original document does not contain an unlawful restriction [Gov. Code § 12956.2(b)].

The modification document must be indexed in the same manner as the original document being modified. It must contain a recording reference to the original document in the form of a book and page or instrument number and the date of the recording [Gov. Code § 12956.2(c)].

Subject to covenants, conditions, and restrictions that were recorded after the recording of the original document that contains the unlawfully restrictive language and subject to covenants, conditions, and restrictions that will be recorded after the modification document, the restrictions in the modification document, once recorded, are the only restrictions having effect on the property. The effective date of the terms and conditions of the modification document must be the same as the effective date of the original document [Gov. Code § 12956.2(d)].

The county recorder must make available to the public "Restrictive Covenant Modification" forms [Gov. Code § 12956.2(e)].

If the holder of an ownership interest of record in property causes a modified document to be recorded that contains modifications not authorized by Gov. Code § 12956.2, the county recorder will not incur liability for recording the document. Any liability that may result from the unauthorized recordation is the sole responsibility of the holder of the ownership interest of record who caused the document to be recorded [Gov. Code § 12956.2(f)].

Gov. Code § 12956.2 does not apply to persons holding an ownership interest in property that is part of a common interest development [see Civ. Code § 1351(c) (definition)] if the board of directors of that common interest development is subject to the requirements of Civ. Code § 1352.5(b), which proscribes restrictive covenants in any declaration or other governing document for the development [Gov. Code § 12956.2(g)].

Any person who records a document for the express purpose of adding a racially restrictive covenant is guilty of a misdemeanor. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a prosecution for a violation must commence within three years after the discovery of the recording of the document. The county recorder will not incur any liability for recording the document [Gov. Code § 12956.1(c)].

[ii] Duty to Inform Persons That Unlawful Restrictions Are Removable

A county recorder, title insurance company, escrow company, real estate broker, real estate agent, or association that provides a copy of a declaration, governing document, or deed to any person must place a cover page or stamp on the first page of the previously recorded document or documents stating, in at least 14-point boldface type, the following [Gov. Code § 12956.1(a), (b)(1); see Civ. Code § 1351 (definitions of "association," "governing document," and "declaration")]:

> If this document contains any restriction based on race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, familial status, marital status, disability, national origin, source of income as defined in subdivision (p) of Section 12955, or ancestry, that restriction violates state and federal fair housing laws and is void, and may be removed pursuant to Section 12956.2 of the Government Code. Lawful restrictions under state and federal law on the age of occupants in senior housing or housing for older persons shall not be construed as restrictions based on familial status.

However, this requirement does not apply to documents being submitted for recordation to a county recorder [Gov. Code § 12956.1(b)(2)].

[c] By Judicial Action

A property owner may test the enforceability of covenants or servitudes asserted against his or her property in a judicial action and is not required to violate the restrictions at the risk of suffering the penalties that might result from such a breach in order to ascertain his or her legal rights [see Marra v. Aetna Construction Co. (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 375, 377, 101 P.2d 490] . A declaratory relief action is an appropriate means to test the enforceability of covenants or servitudes asserted against the plaintiff's property [Marra v. Aetna Construction Co. (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 375, 377, 101 P.2d 490 ; Ross v. Harootunian (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 292, 294, 64 Cal. Rptr. 537 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]. A quiet title may also lie to remove a cloud on title created by unenforceable restrictions [Marra v. Aetna Construction Co. (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 375, 377, 101 P.2d 490] . For a discussion of the elements of valid covenants, see § 184.62; for discussion of the elements of valid equitable servitudes, see § 184.63.

Restrictions in the form of otherwise valid equitable servitudes may be terminated by a court's determination that, for equitable reasons, the restrictions should no longer be enforced [see Hess v. Country Club Park (1931) 213 Cal. 613, 614-616, 2 P.2d 782 (declaratory judgment); Marra v. Aetna Construction Co. (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 375, 377, 101 P.2d 490 (quiet title)]. For discussion of equitable grounds on which courts hold restrictions to be unenforceable, see § 184.70[4]. For forms for use in an action for declaratory relief and to quiet title to cancel use restrictions based on changed conditions and violation of public policy, see §§ 184.195 and 184.196.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawFinancingMortgages & Other Security InstrumentsForeclosuresGeneral OverviewReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsEnforcementReal Property LawTitle QualityAdverse Claim ActionsQuiet Title Actions

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.67

§ 184.67 Enforcement of Restrictive Covenants

[1] Actions Available

[a] Injunctions

To obtain injunctive relief, the plaintiff normally will have to establish one of the grounds for relief set forth in Civ. Code § 3422 (permanent relief) or Code Civ. Proc. § 526 (preliminary relief) (for discussion of these grounds, see Ch. 303, Injunctions). For example, when an improvement that will block a plaintiff's view in violation of a restriction is under construction, the plaintiff may be able to obtain preliminary injunctive relief to halt construction and mandatory injunctive relief requiring removal or redesign of the structure to remove the violation [see Seligman v. Tucker (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 691, 695, 86 Cal. Rptr. 187 (finding that interference with plaintiff's enjoyment was an irreparable injury that money damages could not compensate)]. However, it has been held that when an injunction or other equitable relief is sought to enforce a building restriction, the establishment of a violation is all that is required. It is not necessary to prove actual or substantial injury to the owner enforcing the covenant [Morgan v. Veach (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 682, 690-691, 139 P.2d 976 ; Joyce v. Krupp (1927) 83 Cal. App. 391, 398-399, 257 P. 124] .

A mandatory injunction to dismantle an improvement may be denied when the violation is slight and made innocently on the ground that the damage to the owner of the buildings by their removal would be greatly disproportionate to the plaintiff's injury (balancing the relative conveniences of the parties) [Morgan v. Veach (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 682, 689-690, 139 P.2d 976 ; see Seligman v. Tucker (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 691, 696, 86 Cal. Rptr. 187 (recognizing issue, which was not raised)]. However, willfulness on the part of the defendant in continuing the violation of the restrictions after warning by the complainant, especially after suit is brought, is a ground for equitable relief by mandatory injunction even when the loss caused by it will be disproportionate to the good accomplished by the injunction [Morgan v. Veach (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 682, 689-690, 139 P.2d 976 (house substantially completed)]. A court also has the power to issue a mandatory injunction as an alternative, ordering that a party who constructed improvements in violation of building restrictions either tear down the construction or, in the alternative, pay damages to the plaintiff [see Morgan v. Veach (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 682, 692-694, 139 P.2d 976] . For further discussion of balancing the conveniences of the parties, see Ch. 11, Adjoining Landowners .

For a form for use in obtaining a temporary restraining order, preliminary injunction, and permanent injunction to enforce equitable servitudes against a lot owner in a subdivision, see § 184.190.

[b] Damages

An action for damages will lie for breach of a restrictive covenant [Atlas Terminals, Inc. v. Sokol (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 191, 208, 21 Cal. Rptr. 293 ; see Doo v. Packwood (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 752, 758-759, 71 Cal. Rptr. 477 (both injunctive relief and damages based on previous violation of noncompetition covenant as proper)]. The action may be based on a breach of contract theory if the litigants are the original parties to a covenant [see Atlas Terminals, Inc. v. Sokol (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 191, 208, 21 Cal. Rptr. 293] . A lot owner who brings an action to enforce equitable servitudes against another lot in a subdivision may recover damages based on the defendant's interference with a property right [Mock v. Shulman (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 263, 265-266, 269-270, 38 Cal. Rptr. 39] .

The measure of damages is the amount of depreciated value sustained by plaintiff's land as a result of the violation [Joyce v. Krupp (1927) 83 Cal. App. 391, 399, 257 P. 124] . In addition to damages resulting from past violation of restrictions, a plaintiff may also pray for injunctive relief enjoining defendants from further violations [see Knox v. Streatfield (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 565, 569, 576, 145 Cal. Rptr. 39] .

For a form for use in obtaining damages for a violation of subdivision restrictions, see § 184.190.

[2] Standing to Enforce Equitable Servitude

Standing to enforce an equitable servitude [see § 184.63] depends on the intention of the persons creating the covenant, as well as on the equitable factors involved. If the covenants, conditions, and restrictions (or CC&R's) imposed on property located in a multi-unit subdivision make it clear that the developer and its successors in interest may enforce the covenants, the developer's successor in interest may bring an action for enforcement even if it no longer owns an interest in the dominant tenant, as it is unreasonable to require individual landowners to assume the burden of enforcement [B.C.E. Development, Inc. v. Smith (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1142, 1148-1150, 264 Cal. Rptr. 55 ; but see La Mancha Dev. Corp. v. Sheegog (1978) 78 Cal. App. 3d 9, 14, 144 Cal. Rptr. 59 (grantor of property lacks standing to enforce restriction on use of property when he or she has not retained an interest in any property benefited by the restriction)]. If, however, the CC&R's do not evidence a clear intention of the parties allowing enforcement by a nonowner, the developer does not have standing to bring an enforcement action if it no longer owns any lots in the subdivision [see Kent v. Koch (1958) 166 Cal. App. 2d 579, 583-588, 333 P.2d 411] . If a homeowners association is granted enforcement rights by the CC&R's, it may bring an equitable enforcement action [Russell v. Palos Verdes Estates (1963) 218 Cal. App. 2d 754, 764-765, 32 Cal. Rptr. 488] .

When an equitable servitude exists in favor of several lot owners and some, but not all, the lot owners bring an action to enforce the restrictions, the other lot owners are not necessary parties to the action, and need not be joined [Burkhardt v. Lofton (1944) 63 Cal. App. 2d 230, 237, 146 P.2d 720] .

If many lot owners are affected by the violation of lot restrictions, however, one or several lot owners may be able to bring a class action to enforce the restrictions. A class action can be maintained when an ascertainable class of lot owners are affected by the defendant's breach of the restrictive covenants and when there exists a well-defined community of interest in common questions of law and fact involved in the litigation [see Code Civ. Proc. § 382; Daar v. Yellow Cab Co. (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 695, 704, 63 Cal. Rptr. 724, 433 P.2d 732] . On the other hand, a class action is improper if the interests of the named plaintiff or plaintiffs are in direct conflict with those of the remaining lot owners [Horton v. Citizens Nat. etc. Bank (1948) 86 Cal. App. 2d 680, 681, 685, 195 P.2d 494] . For example, when a plaintiff sued on behalf of all lot owners in a tract to enforce certain procedures for appointing members of a tract's architectural committee, a court found that the underlying controversy arose between different groups of owners, some of whom already had received the committee's approval for their improvements, some of whom wanted more burdensome restrictions on improvements, and others whose lots were still unimproved; therefore, the court found a class action inappropriate and required instead that all the lot owners be brought in as parties to the action [see Horton v. Citizens Nat. etc. Bank (1948) 86 Cal. App. 2d 680, 683-684, 195 P.2d 494] . While an action brought on behalf of all owners in a subdivision except those who allegedly committed violations will satisfy the requirement that there be an ascertainable class, the common questions requirement is not met when each plaintiff's recovery depends on the characteristics of his or her particular parcel of land, such as the distance from the lots where the alleged violations occurred and whether the particular plaintiff tried to sell his or her parcel [Knox v. Streatfield (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 565, 571-574, 145 Cal. Rptr. 39] . For discussion and forms relating to class actions in general, see Ch. 120, Class Actions .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesInjunctionsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawDeedsRemediesDamagesReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsEnforcement

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.68

§ 184.68 Action for Violation of Restriction--Statute of Limitation

An action for violation of a restriction, as defined in Civ. Code § 784, must be commenced within five years [Code Civ. Proc. § 336(b)]. Under § 784, "restriction" means a limitation on, or provision affecting, the use of real property in a deed, declaration, or other instrument, whether in the form of a covenant, equitable servitude, condition subsequent, negative easement, or other form of restriction [Civ. Code § 784].

This five-year period runs from the time the person seeking to enforce the restriction discovered or, through the exercise of reasonable diligence, should have discovered the violation. A failure to commence an action within this period does not result in a waiver of the right to commence an action for any other violation of the restriction, and does not, in itself, create an implication that the restriction is abandoned, obsolete, or otherwise unenforceable [Code Civ. Proc. § 336(b)].

Code Civ. Proc. § 336(b) will not bar commencement of an action for violation of a restriction before January 1, 2001, and, until that date, any other applicable statutory or common law limitation will continue to apply to that action [Code Civ. Proc. § 336(b)]. For discussion of other applicable limitations, see § 184.195[5].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.69

§ 184.69 Defenses

[1] Acquiescence or Waiver

It is a law of equity that landowners in a subdivided tract waive any right they may have to enforce building restrictions when they acquiesce in similar breaches by other owners of land in the subdivision [Johnstone v. Bettencourt (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 538, 542, 16 Cal. Rptr. 6] . The defense of acquiescence or waiver may invalidate a restriction when there has been a pattern of noncompliance with the restriction so that it was no longer in force due to disregard [Seligman v. Tucker (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 691, 699-700, 86 Cal. Rptr. 187 (pattern not established)]. A plaintiff's prior acquiescence in the breach of a covenant may also give rise to a defense of laches [see § 184.69[5]]. Enforcement of a restriction will not be precluded by showing a pattern of violation of an unrelated restriction [Seligman v. Tucker (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 691, 700, 86 Cal. Rptr. 187 (pattern of violations of restriction against television antennas did not prevent enforcement of view restriction)]. For a form of affirmative defense based on acquiescence in violations, see § 184.194.

Some cases have analyzed the failure to include restrictions in all the original deeds to lots in a tract as a waiver by the original owner of any right to enforce the restrictions against those lot owners who have restrictions in their deeds [see Hanna v. Rodeo-Vallejo Ferry Co. (1928) 89 Cal. App. 462, 467, 265 P. 287 (no general plan appeared in deeds); see also Maderis v. Pattavina (1941) 46 Cal. App. 2d 615, 617, 116 P.2d 495 (no general plan appeared in deeds)]. However, the better analysis in such a case is that the failure to insert restrictions in some deeds means the original grantor did not intend to create a common plan and so no equitable servitude was ever created [see Terry v. James (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 438, 444-445, 140 Cal. Rptr. 201 ; Moe v. Gier (1931) 116 Cal. App. 403, 409-410, 2 P.2d 852] . Once the intent to create a general plan has been expressed in the first deed, restrictions are enforceable against owners of lots subsequently severed from the tract [see Martin v. Holm (1925) 197 Cal. 733, 738-740, 745-748, 242 P. 718 ; see also § 184.61[3]].

[2] Changed Conditions

Equity courts will not enforce restrictive covenants by injunction when, by reason of a change in the character of the surrounding neighborhood, not resulting from any breach of the covenants, it would be oppressive and inequitable to give the restriction effect, such as when the enforcement of the covenant would have no other result than to harass or injure the defendant, without benefiting the plaintiff [Hurd v. Albert (1931) 214 Cal. 15, 17, 23, 3 P.2d 545 (residential restriction)].

In determining whether there has been such a change of conditions as to warrant a refusal to enforce, or a cancellation of, restrictions, the courts give greater weight to the changes occurring within the restricted area than to those occurring outside the area, because changes within the tract are more likely to render the original purposes of the restriction obsolete [see County of Butte v. Bach (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 848, 868, 218 Cal. Rptr. 613] . Nevertheless, changes outside the tract, coupled with substantial evidence that enforcement of the covenant would cause irreparable injury to the defendant, without materially benefiting the plaintiff, are sufficient to sustain a judgment denying injunctive relief [Hurd v. Albert (1931) 214 Cal. 15, 23, 3 P.2d 545 (trial court found lots no longer had any market value for residential purposes)]. Although increased traffic and congestion alone are not sufficient to warrant releasing affecting property from covenants restricting it to residential use, these changes can be properly considered by the trial court in determining whether or not they should be enforced [Hurd v. Albert (1931) 214 Cal. 15, 22, 3 P.2d 545] .

Courts have denied enforcement of single-family residence use restrictions based on evidence that the property was no longer "suitable" for residential use [see Key v. McCabe (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 736, 737-738, 8 Cal. Rptr. 425, 356 P.2d 169 ; Wolff v. Fallon (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 695, 696-697, 284 P.2d 802] . However, the more recent trend suggests that the fact that a residential lot has become less desirable for residential use and more desirable for commercial use because of adjacent commercial development is not sufficient to preclude enforcement of a covenant for residential uses based on changed conditions [County of Butte v. Bach (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 848, 868-869, 218 Cal. Rptr. 613] . One court has held, for example, that when property subject to a residential restriction had become less desirable for use as a single-family dwelling because of increased traffic, litter, and unsightly views of neighboring commercial uses, and had a value of $150,000 if free for a commercial use as compared to $80,000 as a residential lot, the restrictions remained enforceable because the purpose of the restrictive covenant was still attainable [County of Butte v. Bach (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 848, 868-869, 218 Cal. Rptr. 613 ; cf. Hurd v. Albert (1931) 214 Cal. 15, 23-25, 3 P.2d 545 (refusing to enforce restriction when property had no market value for residential purposes)].

In addition, when the perimeter of a residential tract becomes commercial, either through relinquishment or removal of conditions, enforcement of the restrictions may nevertheless continue to benefit and effectuate the purposes of the restrictions with respect to the other lots in the tract as a buffer between business and residential use, even though enforcement on those particular lots will not be of any value of benefit to them [Atlas Terminals, Inc. v. Sokol (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 191, 193-194, 201-202, 21 Cal. Rptr. 293] . The decisive question is whether the continued enforcement of the restrictions would be of substantial benefit to the remaining properties in the tract [Atlas Terminals, Inc. v. Sokol (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 191, 193-194, 203, 204-205, 21 Cal. Rptr. 293] .

For a form of complaint for declaratory relief and to quiet title for use by the owner of a subdivision lot who is seeking to cancel a use restriction due to changed conditions in the neighborhood, see § 184.195.

[3] Conflict With Zoning

Land use in violation of a restrictive covenant can be enjoined even though the use is permissible under the applicable zoning ordinance [Mullally v. Ojai Hotel Co. (1968) 266 Cal. App. 2d 9, 11-12, 71 Cal. Rptr. 882 ; see Wilkman v. Banks (1954) 124 Cal. App. 2d 451, 455, 269 P.2d 33] . Although the mere fact that a change in the zoning of an area occurs after restrictions have been placed on the property does not abrogate the restrictions, the zoning change may have some evidentiary value to show the change in character of the surrounding area [see Wolff v. Fallon (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 695, 696-698, 284 P.2d 802 ; cf. Wilkman v. Banks (1954) 124 Cal. App. 2d 451, 455, 269 P.2d 33 ; see also § 184.69[2]].

[4] Statute of Limitations

[a] Restrictive Covenants

An action for violation of a covenant or other "restriction" (as defined in Civ. Code § 784) must be commenced within five years. This limitations period does not bar commencement of an action for violation of a restriction before January 1, 2001, and, until that date, any other applicable statutory or common law limitation will continue to apply to the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 336(b)]. For further discussion of this limitations period, see § 184.68.

Under a statutory limitation applicable to actions commenced before January 1, 2001, an action for damages for breach of a written covenant must be brought by an original party to the covenant within four years after the breach [Code Civ. Proc. § 337(1); see Lawrence Barker, Inc. v. Briggs (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 654, 661, 248 P.2d 897] .

[b] Equitable Servitudes

An action for violation of an equitable servitude or other "restriction" (as defined in Civ. Code § 784) must be commenced within five years. This limitations period does not bar commencement of an action for violation of an equitable servitude before January 1, 2001, and, until that date, any other applicable statutory or common law limitation will continue to apply to the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 336(b)]. For further discussion of this limitations period, see § 184.68.

Under a statutory limitation that applies to actions commenced before January 1, 2001, any action for relief not provided for in the Code of Civil Procedure, such as equitable enforcement of a covenant when there is no privity of contract, must be commenced within four years after the cause of action has accrued [Code Civ. Proc. § 343].

[5] Laches or Waiver

Laches is an unreasonable delay in asserting a right that causes prejudice to an adverse party that renders the granting of relief inequitable [Butler v. Holman (1956) 146 Cal. App. 2d 22, 28, 303 P.2d 573] . A court will not find a plaintiff seeking to enforce a restriction guilty of laches when there is no evidence that plaintiff was put on notice of the violation [Wilkman v. Banks (1954) 124 Cal. App. 2d 451, 456-457, 269 P.2d 33] . Notice includes actual notice of circumstances sufficient to put a prudent person on inquiry as to a particular fact, or constructive notice of the fact [Wilkman v. Banks (1954) 124 Cal. App. 2d 451, 456-457, 269 P.2d 33 ; see Civ. Code § 19].

Some courts have considered the argument that a plaintiff's delay in enforcing restrictions constitutes a waiver of the alleged violations [see, e.g., Morgan v. Veach (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 682, 689, 139 P.2d 976] . In this context, however, visible repairs or alterations do not require the plaintiff to scrutinize a neighbor's activities to ascertain whether restrictions are being violated and, until the fact of a violation is ascertained, there can be no waiver of a violation [Morgan v. Veach (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 682, 689, 139 P.2d 976] .

For a form of affirmative defense allegation for use by a defendant in an action to enjoin the violation of subdivision restrictions when the plaintiff has been guilty of laches or has waived the violations, see § 184.193.

[6] Unclean Hands

A party cannot enforce equitable restrictions against another property owner within the tract if the party seeking enforcement has materially violated the restriction [Bryant v. Whitney (1918) 178 Cal. 640, 642-643, 174 P. 32 ; Diederichsen v. Sutch (1941) 47 Cal. App. 2d 646, 650, 118 P.2d 863] . In an action brought by multiple plaintiffs, however, even if some of the plaintiffs have violated building restrictions, the other plaintiffs would not be by that reason prevented from obtaining injunctive relief if they were otherwise entitled to it and had no knowledge that the restrictions had been violated by any person other than the defendants [Morgan v. Veach (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 682, 685, 692, 139 P.2d 976] .

[7] Discriminatory Restrictions

[a] In General

Private covenants that directly foster an unconstitutional and invidious form of discrimination, most commonly racial discrimination, are denied judicial enforcement [Shelley v. Kraemer (1948) 334 U.S. 1, 12-21, 68 S. Ct. 836, 92 L. Ed. 1161 ; Abstract Investment Co. v. Hutchinson (1962) 204 Cal. App. 2d 242, 245-247, 22 Cal. Rptr. 309] . The same rule applies to covenants that violate state laws, such as the Unruh Civil Rights Act (Civ. Code § 51) or the California Fair Employment and Housing Act (Gov. Code § 12900 et seq.).

Any restriction or prohibition, whether by way of covenant, condition on use or occupation, or on transfer of title to real property, is void if it directly or indirectly limits the acquisition, use, or occupation of that property because of sex, race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, disability, medical condition, marital status, or sexual orientation [Civ. Code §§ 51(b), 53; see Civ. Code § 51(e) (definitions); see also Civ. Code § 782.5 (restrictions based on invidious discrimination are deemed omitted from covenants, conditions, and restrictions)]. For example, a restrictive covenant limiting sale and occupancy to one who has been a member of a Theosophical Society for three years and who is over 50 years of age has been held unenforceable and a violation of Civ. Code § 53(b) [Taormina Theosophical Community, Inc. v. Silver (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 964, 974-976, 190 Cal. Rptr. 38] .

Under Gov. Code § 12956.1, any person who holds an ownership interest of record in property that he or she believes is the subject of a restrictive covenant, as defined, may file an application with the Department of Fair Employment and Housing (Department) requesting a determination of whether the restrictive covenant violates fair housing laws and is void [Gov. Code § 12956.1(c)(1); see Gov. Code § 12956.1(b)(1)]. The Department must process the application within 90 days of receipt [Gov. Code § 12956.1(c)(2)]. If the Department determines that a document contains an unlawful restrictive covenant, it must provide the applicant with a written statement entitled "RACIALLY OR OTHERWISE UNLAWFULLY RESTRICTIVE COVENANT MODIFICATION" [Gov. Code § 12956.1(c)(2); see Gov. Code § 12956.1(c)(3)]. The applicant may then strike out the void restrictive covenant, complete, sign, and attach a copy of the Department's statement to the front of the document, and have the modified document recorded [Gov. Code § 12956.1(c)(3)]. For additional coverage of this procedure, see § 184.66[2][b].

Any person who holds an ownership interest of record in property that he or she believes is the subject of an unlawfully restrictive covenant in violation of Gov. Code § 12955(l) may submit a modified document striking out the unlawfully restrictive covenant to the county recorder of the county in which the property is located for recordation [Gov. Code § 12956.1(g)(1)]. Under Gov. Code § 12955(l), it is unlawful to have a restrictive covenant that discriminates and makes housing opportunities unavailable because of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, familial status, marital status, disability, national origin, source of income, or ancestry. The existence of a restrictive covenant, regardless of whether it is accompanied by a statement that the restrictive covenant is repealed or void, constitutes unlawful discrimination [Gov. Code § 12955(l); see § 184.66[2][c]].

For a discussion of the Unruh Civil Rights Act, see Ch. 116, Civil Rights: Discrimination in Business Establishments .

[b] Age

The Unruh Civil Rights Act (Civ. Code § 51 et seq.) prohibits covenants that exclude minors from residency except in a senior citizen housing development [see Civ. Code §§ 51.2-51.3; Marina Point, Ltd. v. Wolfson (1982) 30 Cal. 3d 721, 736-745, 180 Cal. Rptr. 496, 640 P.2d 115 , cert. denied, 459 U.S. 858, 103 S. Ct. 129, 74 L. Ed. 2d 111 ; see also Stats. 2005, ch. 420, § 2(d) (Marina Point holding is not affected by Civil Rights Act of 2005)]. In the case of such a development, the Act requires the covenants, conditions, and restrictions (and other documents and written policy) to set forth the limitations on occupancy, residency, or use on the basis of age. Any such limitation must not be more exclusive than to require that one person in residence in each dwelling unit be a senior citizen and that each other resident in the same dwelling unit be a qualified permanent resident, a permitted health care resident, or a person under 55 years of age whose occupancy is permitted under Civ. Code § 51.3(h) (authorizing continuing occupancy by a person who had the right to occupy on January 1, 1985) or under Civ. Code § 51.4(b) (authorizing continuing occupancy by someone who had the right, prior to January 1, 1990, to occupy a dwelling in a development that relied on the exemption to the special design requirement provided by § 51.4). The limitation may be less exclusive, but must at least require that the persons commencing any occupancy of a dwelling unit include a senior citizen who intends to reside in the unit as his or her primary residence on a permanent basis [Civ. Code § 51.3(c)]. Further, the covenants, conditions, and restrictions, or other documents or written policy, must permit temporary residency, as a guest of a senior citizen or qualified permanent resident, by a person of less than 55 years of age for periods of time, not less than 60 days in any year, that are specified in the covenants, conditions, and restrictions or other documents or written policy [Civ. Code § 51.3(d)]. Several of the terms used above, including "senior citizen" and "senior citizen housing development," are defined in Civ. Code § 51.3(b).

For discussion of the legality of excluding families with children from owning condominiums, see Ch. 124, Condominiums and Other Common Interest Developments .

[c] Number of Residents

Restrictive covenants that limit the number of residents in a household, without any reference to square footage and absent any showing that these personal living arrangements adversely impact the neighborhood, violate a resident's right of privacy in choosing living companions under Cal. Const., art. I, § 1, and can be voided if the restrictions involve state action [Park Redlands Covenant Control Committee v. Simon (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 87, 95-99, 226 Cal. Rptr. 199 ; see City of Santa Barbara v. Adamson (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 123, 131-137, 164 Cal. Rptr. 539, 610 P.2d 436 (covenants required by city for approval of conditional use permit)].

[8] Change in Public Policy

Courts refuse to enforce restrictive covenants that directly violate those constitutional and statutory provisions that express public policy concerning civil rights [see § 184.69[7]]. A court also may deny enforcement of a restrictive covenant against uses favored by public policy as expressed in a statute, even when that statute does not by its terms directly prohibit enforcement of the covenant [see Welsch v. Goswick (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 398, 405-407, 181 Cal. Rptr. 703] .

For example, a portion of the Community Care Facilities Act (Health & Safety Code § 1566 et seq.) was passed to regulate zoning interference with residential care facilities and, for purposes of private restrictive covenants entered into after January 1, 1979, the legislation defined "residential use" to include operation of residential care facilities for six or fewer residents [see Welsch v. Goswick (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 398, 406, 181 Cal. Rptr. 703] . Finding that the policy of the legislation was to encourage development of residential care facilities for disabled people and seniors, a court applied that policy to a covenant entered into before January 1, 1979, and held that a lot owner in a residential subdivision could not be enjoined from operating a care facility because there was a strong statement of public policy in favor of a broad interpretation of single family residential use in the area of community care [Welsch v. Goswick (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 398, 401, 406-408, 181 Cal. Rptr. 703] . Therefore, when the issue is one of changed circumstances in a rapidly developing area of social concern, a court will not enjoin a use of property in a residential subdivision if the use is no longer inconsistent with single-family residential purposes [Welsch v. Goswick (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 398, 401, 407 n.7, 407-408, 181 Cal. Rptr. 703] . However, at least one other court has reached a contrary result, holding that the community care legislation cannot be applied retroactively to pre-January 1, 1979, private covenants [Barrett v. Lipscomb (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 1524, 1533, 240 Cal. Rptr. 336] . The court did not discuss the Welsch court's changed circumstances analysis but instead reasoned that the Legislature's express intent, codified in Health & Safety Code § 1566.5 (prospective application to private covenants), cannot be overridden by the Legislature's broad statement of public policy [Barrett v. Lipscomb (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 1524, 1531-1532, 240 Cal. Rptr. 336] .

For a form of allegation for use in a complaint for declaratory relief and to quiet title to cancel use restrictions when the restrictions violate a public policy expressed in a statute, see § 184.196.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil Rights LawContractual Relations & HousingFair Housing RightsGeneral OverviewContracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsWaiversGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.70

§ 184.70 Condition Subsequent

[1] Defined

A condition is a provision contained in the instrument of conveyance that tends to modify or rescind the conveyance in the event of the failure of the grantee or the grantee's successors to fulfill the provision [Pedro v. Potter (1926) 197 Cal. 751, 758-759, 242 P. 926] . A fee simple subject to a condition subsequent is an estate that may be terminated by the grantor or the grantor's successors if a stated event occurs [People ex rel. Dept. of Public Works v. City of Fresno (1962) 210 Cal. App. 2d 500, 504-505, 26 Cal. Rptr. 853] . If the grant is defeated by the nonperformance of the condition subsequent, the person otherwise entitled to hold the grant must reconvey the property to the grantor, or to his or her successors, by a recorded grant [Civ. Code § 1109]. A breach of a condition on which an estate is granted works a forfeiture of the estate, while a breach of a covenant is merely grounds for the recovery of damages [Knight v. Black (1912) 19 Cal. App. 518, 522, 126 P. 512 (disapproved on other grounds in Green v. Superior Court (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 616, 633 n. 19, 111 Cal. Rptr. 704, 517 P.2d 1168)].

Conditions subsequent, like equitable servitudes, have been used to restrict the improvement and use of lots in subdivisions [see Strong v. Shatto (1919) 45 Cal. App. 29, 30-31, 187 P. 159 ; see also § 184.63]. However, while valid tract restrictions may be created by conveyances subject to the condition that title will revert on breach of the restrictions, the right to forfeit title on breach of the restrictions originates in each separate deed and, being vested only in the grantor and his or her assigns, cannot be exercised by owners of other lots in the same subdivision [Girard v. Miller (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 266, 271, 29 Cal. Rptr. 359 ; see Civ. Code § 1046 (right of repossession for breach of condition subsequent as transferable)]. These conditions may also be inserted in grants of land made for charitable purposes [see City of Palm Springs v. Living Desert Reserve (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 613, 622, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 859 (when deed conveyed gift of land to city to be used as nature reserve and stated that if land were not so used, city would forfeit its interest in favor of a third party, deed granted fee simple subject to a condition subsequent rather than create a charitable trust); Civ. Code § 885.040 (exemption of gift grants from certain rules governing powers of termination)].

[2] Construed as Covenant to Avoid Forfeiture

A condition involving a forfeiture must be strictly interpreted against the party for whose benefit it is created [Civ. Code

§ 1442]. Whenever possible, the law favors construing conditions as personal covenants to avoid forfeiture [Mac Donald Properties, Inc. v. Bel-Air Country Club (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 693, 697, 699, 140 Cal. Rptr. 367 ; Rosecrans v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 602, 605, 134 P.2d 245] . For example, when grantors conveyed a right-of-way for the purpose of running a railway, using a deed which stated that the grant was made on the "express condition" that railway service be maintained, and when the deed further stated that the condition was "declared to be a condition and not a personal covenant" and that on breach "the right of way hereby granted shall revert to the first party, his heirs or assigns ... [who] shall have the right to enter upon said right of way and take possession thereof," the court found that the deed contained a condition subsequent [see Rosecrans v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 602, 603-605, 134 P.2d 245] . In contrast, another court held that building restrictions in a grant of residential property adjoining a golf course, intended by the parties to be maintained as a "rough" for golfers, constituted a covenant rather than a condition subsequent even when the deed stated that the "restrictions constitute express conditions subsequent, breach of which gives rise to a right of reverter in the grantor" [see MacDonald Properties, Inc. v. Bel-Air Country Club (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 693, 696-697, 699, 140 Cal. Rptr. 367] . Therefore, no condition in a deed relied on to create a condition subsequent will be so interpreted if the language of the provision will bear any other reasonable construction [Hawley v. Kafitz (1905) 148 Cal. 393, 394-395, 83 P. 248 ; Springmeyer v. City of South Lake Tahoe (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 375, 380, 382, 183 Cal. Rptr. 43] . However, a covenant instead of a condition will not be implied contrary to the clear intent of the parties [Knight v. Black (1912) 19 Cal. App. 518, 522-523, 126 P. 512 (disapproved on other grounds in Green v. Superior Court (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 616, 633 n. 19, 111 Cal. Rptr. 704, 517 P.2d 1168); but see MacDonald Properties, Inc. v. Bel-Air Country Club (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 693, 699, 140 Cal. Rptr. 367] .

Before enforcing language in a deed that purports to be a condition subsequent, a court will require that the deed both clearly express the grantor's intent to create a condition and plainly express the precise event that triggers a forfeiture of the estate [Springmeyer v. City of South Lake Tahoe (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 375, 380-381, 183 Cal. Rptr. 43] . Extrinsic evidence may not be considered in resolving a latent ambiguity in the terms of a reversion condition [Springmeyer v. City of South Lake Tahoe (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 375, 381, 183 Cal. Rptr. 43] . In the case of a patent ambiguity, however, the question of the parties' intent must be resolved on the basis of evidence of what the parties said, both orally and in writing, and from evidence of the circumstances surrounding the conveyance [Mason v. Superior Court (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 989, 998-999, 210 Cal. Rptr. 63 ; Mission Valley East, Inc. v. County of Kern (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 89, 97-99, 174 Cal. Rptr. 300] .

For example, in a deed containing no provision for reverter in the event defendant should fail to perform, the language "This deed is given subject to the provision that Grantee shall, at the expense of Grantee ..." gives rise to a patent ambiguity sufficient to preclude summary judgment on the issue of whether the deed creates a condition subsequent or a mere covenant [Mason v. Superior Court (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 989, 997-999, 210 Cal. Rptr. 63] . On the other hand, the language "the continuance of any such breach may be enjoined, abated or remedied by appropriate proceedings by such grantors, their heirs or assigns" has been held to create a covenant rather than a condition subsequent [see McCaffrey v. Preston (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 422, 435 n.5, 435-436, 201 Cal. Rptr. 252] .

[3] Power of Termination

[a] Retained by Grantor

The future interest retained by a grantor who conveys a fee simple subject to a restriction in the form of a condition subsequent is a power of termination, regardless of whether the power is characterized in the instrument that creates or evidences it as a power of termination, right of entry or reentry, right of possession or repossession, reserved power of revocation, or otherwise [Civ. Code § 885.010(a)]. Civ. Code § 885.010 was enacted in 1982 as part of a substantial revision of the law relating to reversionary interests [see Civ. Code § 885.010 et seq.]. The Legislature abolished fees simple determinable and possibilities of reverter. Every estate that would be at common law a fee simple determinable is deemed to be a fee simple subject to a restriction in the form of a condition subsequent, and every estate that would be a possibility of reverter at common law is deemed to be and is enforceable as a power of termination [Civ. Code §§ 885.010(b), 885.020]. Code Civ. Proc. § 885.010 et seq. affect all powers of termination executed or recorded before, on, or after the date they became operative [Civ. Code § 885.070(a)]. Reversionary interests conditioned on the continued production or removal of oil, gas, or other minerals are expressly excluded from these provisions, as are reversionary interests in separately owned improvements or fixtures conditioned on the continued leasehold or possessory interest in the underlying land [Civ. Code § 885.015].

Statutes referring to "right of reentry," "right of repossession for breach of condition subsequent," or comparable terms now apply to powers of termination [Civ. Code § 885.010(b); see Civ. Code §§ 791, 793, 1046].

The power of termination is an interest in the fee simple estate, consisting of the power to terminate the fee should the stated condition occur, and is transferable [Civ. Code § 885.010; see Civ. Code § 1046].

[b] Duration

A power of termination of record will normally expire 30 years after the date the instrument reserving, transferring, or otherwise evidencing the power is recorded [Civ. Code § 885.030(a)(1)]. However, the expiration date may be extended for up to 30 years at a time by recordation of a notice of intent to preserve the power [Civ. Code § 885.030(a)(2); see Civ. Code § 880.340 (form of notice of intent to preserve interest)]. When extended past the ordinary statutory period, a power of termination expires at the later of the following times:

- Thirty years after the date the notice of intent to preserve the power of termination is recorded, if the notice is recorded within 30 years after the date the instrument reserving, transferring, or otherwise evidencing the power is recorded [Civ. Code § 885.030(a)(2)]; or

- Thirty years after the date an instrument reserving, transferring, or otherwise evidencing the power of termination or a notice of intent to preserve the power of termination is recorded, if the instrument or notice is recorded within 30 years after the date such an instrument or notice was last recorded [Civ. Code § 885.030(a)(3)].

If the instrument or other recorded document provides an earlier expiration date than that provided by statute, the power of termination expires on the earlier date [Civ. Code § 885.030(b)].

Conservation easements are not subject to the 30-year expiration provisions [Civ. Code § 880.240(d)].

[c] Transition Provisions

If a power of termination would have expired by operation of Civ. Code §§ 885.030, 885.040 before, on, or within five years after the operative date of the legislation, January 1, 1983, the holder was afforded a five-year grace period, until January 1, 1988, during which he or she could record an effective notice of intent to preserve the power [Civ. Code §§ 885.070, 880.370]. If the exercise of a power of termination would have been barred by the absolute-limitation period for enforcement established by Civ. Code § 885.050, the holder had a grace period in which to exercise the power, amounting to either the time allowed under the law in effect prior to 1982 or five years, whichever was earlier [Civ. Code § 885.070(b)]. Under prior law, the grantor, or the grantor's successor, was required to take positive action, within a reasonable time, to regain possession of the property [Lincoln v. Narom Development Co. (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 619, 624, 89 Cal. Rptr. 128 ; People ex rel. Dept. of Public Works v. City of Fresno (1962) 210 Cal. App. 2d 500, 504-505, 26 Cal. Rptr. 853 ; City of Santa Monica v. Jones (1951) 104 Cal. App. 2d 463, 470, 232 P.2d 55 ; but cf. Code Civ. Proc. § 320 (five-year statute of limitation for action to enforce right of entry); Sanders v. East Bay Mun. Utility Dist. (1992) 16 Cal. App. 4th 125, 130-132, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 (Section 320 applicable to actions to enforce power of termination)].

[d] Exercise by Self-Help

After a breach of a condition subsequent, the grantor may physically reenter and take possession of the premises [see Lincoln v. Narom Development Co. (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 619, 624, 89 Cal. Rptr. 128] . Before exercising the right of reentry, however, the person holding the power of termination must give a three-day notice to quit in the same manner as a landlord seeking an eviction for nonpayment of rent [Civ. Code § 791; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1161, 1162]. The required notice must be given within five years after breach of the restriction to which the fee simple estate is subject [Civ. Code § 885.050]. A longer period may be agreed to by the parties by a waiver or extension recorded before expiration of the five-year period [Civ. Code § 885.050].

For a discussion and forms of notice for exercise of right of reentry, see Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions .

[e] Exercise by Bringing Action

Once a condition subsequent is breached and the duty to reconvey the estate arises, the right of reentry may be enforced by an action to forfeit title [see Girard v. Miller (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 266, 269, 29 Cal. Rptr. 359] . An action for declaratory relief will also lie to secure a judgment declaring forfeiture [Lincoln v. Narom Development Co. (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 619, 624, 89 Cal. Rptr. 128] . An injunction can be obtained to prevent a breach of the condition subsequent or an owner can bring an action requesting forfeiture if the injunction is disobeyed [Johnston v. City of Los Angeles (1917) 176 Cal. 479, 485-487, 168 P. 1047 ; Arrowhead Mut. Service Co. v. Faust (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 567, 578-580, 67 Cal. Rptr. 325] .

No notice need be given before filing an action to enforce a right of reentry [Civ. Code § 793]. The civil action must be commenced within five years after breach of the restriction to which the fee simple estate is subject [Civ. Code § 885.050]. A longer period may be agreed to by the parties by a waiver or extension recorded before expiration of the five-year period [Civ. Code § 885.050].

For a form of complaint to compel reconveyance of real property for breach of a condition subsequent, see § 184.197.

[4] Defenses to Enforcement

[a] Expiration of Power by Passage of Time

Restrictions appearing in a condition subsequent are unenforceable once the power of termination held by the grantor, or the grantor's successors, expires [Civ. Code § 885.060]. The power of termination expires automatically after 30 years from the date it is recorded, unless extended by recording of the proper notice [Civ. Code § 885.030; see § 184.70[3][b]].

Once a power of termination expires, the restriction to which the fee simple was subject becomes unenforceable and no action for injunction or damages will lie [Civ. Code § 885.060(b)]. Record title to the property becomes cleared by operation of law because the expiration is, for all purposes, equivalent to a termination of the power of record and a quitclaim of the power to the owner of the fee simple estate. No execution and recording of a termination and quitclaim is necessary to terminate or evidence the termination of the power [Civ. Code § 885.060(a)]. However, the termination of the restriction does not apply to a restriction for which a power of termination has expired pursuant to Civ. Code § 885.010 et seq. if the restriction is also an equitable servitude alternatively enforceable by injunction. Such an equitable servitude remains enforceable by injunction and any other available remedies but is not enforceable by a power of termination. This provision may not be construed to make enforceable any illegal restriction [Civ. Code § 885.060(c)].

For a form of affirmative defense allegation based on the expiration of a power of termination due to the passage of time and for use in an action to compel reconveyance of property for breach of condition subsequent, see § 184.198.

[b] Expiration of Power by Obsolescence

If a power of termination becomes obsolete, the power expires, the restriction to which the fee simple was subject becomes unenforceable, and no action for injunction or damages will lie [Civ. Code §§ 885.040(a), 885.060(b)]. Record title to the property is also cleared by operation of law when a power of termination expires due to obsolescence [Civ. Code §§ 885.040(a), 885.060(a)]. A power of termination is obsolete if any of the following circumstances apply:

- The relevant restriction is of no actual and substantial benefit to the holder of the power. Reversionary interests will not be enforced if the restriction does not benefit the holder of the interests [Civ. Code § 885.040(b)(1); see Young v. Cramer (1940) 38 Cal. App. 2d 64, 69, 100 P.2d 523 (holder of "reversion" no longer owner of property in tract)].

- Enforcement of the power would not effectuate the purpose of the restriction [Civ. Code § 885.040(b)(2)].

- It would be otherwise inequitable to enforce the power because of changed conditions or circumstances [Civ. Code § 885.040(b)(3); see Arrowhead Mut. Service Co. v. Faust (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 567, 576-577, 581-582, 67 Cal. Rptr. 325 ; Shields v. Bank of America (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 330, 334-335, 338, 37 Cal. Rptr. 360 ; Townsend v. Allen (1952) 114 Cal. App. 2d 291, 294-295, 250 P.2d 292 (defenses applicable to equitable servitudes apply to conditions subsequent)].

If, however, the power of termination arises from a grant by a natural person without consideration to a public entity or to a tax-exempt organization, the power will not expire due to obsolescence during the life of the grantor [Civ. Code § 885.040(c)].

In addition to the defenses specifically set out by statute, the principles of waiver and estoppel, laches, and other equitable defenses apply in actions to exercise a power of termination [Civ. Code § 880.030(a); see City of Santa Monica v. Jones (1951) 104 Cal. App. 2d 463, 470, 232 P.2d 55 ; Wedum-Aldahl Co. v. Miller (1937) 18 Cal. App. 2d 745, 751-753, 64 P.2d 762] .

For a form of affirmative defense allegation based on the expiration of a power of termination due to obsolescence and for use in an action to compel reconveyance of property for breach of condition subsequent, see § 184.198.

[c] Statute of Limitations Applicable to Restrictions

An action for violation of a condition subsequent or other "restriction" (as that term is defined in Civ. Code § 784) must be commenced within five years. This limitations period does not bar commencement of an action for violation of a restriction before January 1, 2001, and, until that date, any other applicable statutory or common law limitation will continue to apply to the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 336(b)]. For further discussion of this limitations period, see § 184.68.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsReal Property LawDeedsConstruction & InterpretationReal Property LawEstatesFuture InterestsRight of EntryReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.90

§ 184.90 California Points and Authorities

For memoranda of points and authorities relating to cancellation of an instrument executed by an insane or incompetent person, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 117, Insane and Incompetent Persons (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawFormationCapacity of PartiesGeneral OverviewReal Property LawDeedsEnforceabilityReal Property LawDeedsRemediesCancellation & Rescission

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.91

§ 184.91 Forms of Discovery

For forms of interrogatories for use in actions involving assertion of a claim under a deed, see Bender's Forms of Discovery, Ch. 62, Deeds (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsInterrogatoriesGeneral OverviewReal Property LawDeedsGeneral Overview

153 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.92

§ 184.92 California Legal Forms

For legal forms relating to this chapter, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawDeedsGeneral Overview

154 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.93

§ 184.93 California Real Estate Law and Practice

For discussion of the transfer of real property by deed and of evidentiary problems involved in actions concerning deeds, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 80, Deeds and Transfer of Title (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawDeedsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawOwnership & TransferGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.94

§ 184.94 State Statutes

[1] Acknowledgment and Recordation

Constructive notice afforded by recorded deed. Civ. Code § 1213

Instruments subject to requirement of acknowledgment of execution before recordation. Gov. Code § 27287

Requirement of acknowledgment or proof of agreement affecting interest in real property. Gov. Code § 27288

[2] After-Acquired Title

After-acquired title vests on acquisition. Civ. Code § 1106

After-acquired title of mortgagor. Civ. Code § 2930

[3] Capacity of Parties

Minor's incapacity to contract as to real property. Fam. Code § 6701

Persons entirely without understanding. Civ. Code § 38

Deed made before incapacity judicially determined. Civ. Code § 39

Deed made after incapacity judicially determined. Civ. Code § 40

Capacity to take, hold, and dispose of property, generally. Civ. Code § 671

Corporate powers. Corp. Code § 207

Authority to mortgage corporation's real property. Corp. Code § 1000

Certificate of secretary on conveyance by corporation, Corp. Code § 1002

Powers of unincorporated associations regarding property. Corp. Code §§ 18105-18125

Powers of medical associations regarding property. Corp. Code § 21200

Contracts for acquisition of real property by state. Gov. Code § 11005

Conveyance of interest of state in real property. Gov. Code § 11005.2

[4] Definitions

"Transfer" defined. Civ. Code § 1039

"Voluntary transfer" defined. Civ. Code § 1040

Transfer in writing as grant, conveyance, or bill of sale. Civ. Code § 1053

"Execution" defined. Code Civ. Proc. § 1933

[5] Delivery and Acceptance

Deed as taking effect on delivery. Civ. Code § 1054

Deed as presumed to be delivered at its date. Civ. Code § 1055

Delivery as required to be absolute. Civ. Code § 1056

Delivery in escrow. Civ. Code § 1057

Regulations of escrow agents. Civ. Code § 1057.5

Redelivery or cancellation ineffective as retransfer. Civ. Code § 1058

Constructive delivery. Civ. Code § 1059

When incidents pass. Civ. Code § 1084

Recordation as prima facie evidence of execution and delivery. Evid. Code § 1600

Certificate or resolution consenting to conveyance to political corporation or governmental agency for public purposes. Gov. Code § 27281

[6] Designation of Parties

Conveyance after owner's name is changed. Civ. Code § 1096

Persons bound by deed. Civ. Code § 1107

Acquisition and conveyance of real property by partnership. Corp. Code §§ 15008(3) (Uniform Partnership Act), 16302 (Uniform Partnership Act of 1994); see Corp. Code § 16111 (applicability of these acts)

Effect of conveyance by partners. Corp. Code §§ 15010 (Uniform Partnership Act), 16302 (Uniform Partnership Act of 1994)

[7] Documentary Evidence

Record of deed as prima facie evidence of existence and content of original. Evid. Code § 1600

Abstract of title to prove contents of lost or destroyed public records. Evid. Code § 1601

Deeds executed pursuant to legal process as prima facie evidence of conveyance. Evid. Code § 1603

Certificate of purchase or location of lands as prima facie evidence of ownership. Evid. Code § 1604

Admissibility of copies of Spanish title papers. Evid. Code § 1605

[8] Documentary Transfer Tax

Recordation subject to payment of tax. Rev. & Tax. Code § 11933

Authorization for documentary transfer tax. Rev. & Tax. Code § 11911

[9] Estates Subject to Transfer

Transfer of future interests. Civ. Code § 699

Property that may be transferred. Civ. Code § 1044

Mere possibility as unable to be transferred. Civ. Code § 1045

Transfer of right of reentry. Civ. Code § 1046

Transfer by person claiming title by adverse possession. Civ. Code § 1047

[10] Execution

Execution by attorney in fact. Civ. Code § 1095

Transfer fee limitation. Civ. Code § 1097

Delivery of structural pest control inspection report before transfer of title. Civ. Code § 1099

Sale of community real property. Fam. Code § 1102

Disposition of community property when one or both spouses are incompetent. Fam. Code § 1103

Validity of deed signed by certain corporate officers. Corp. Code § 313

Execution and recordation of deeds by unincorporated associations. Corp. Code §§ 18115-18120

[11] Interpretation of Deeds

Presumption of ownership free of trust unless beneficiary designated in deed. Prob. Code § 18104

Prob. Code § 21101 et seq. applies to deed and any other instrument, unless provision or instrument requires otherwise. Prob. Code § 21101

Deeds construed in same way as contracts. Civ. Code § 1066

Clear limitation as prevailing over words less clear. Civ. Code § 1067

Use of recitals to assist construction. Civ. Code § 1068

Interpretation in favor of grantee or if deed by public officer or body, in favor of grantor. Civ. Code § 1069

Prior parts as prevailing over later conflicting clauses. Civ. Code § 1070

Words of inheritance or succession as unnecessary to transfer fee. Civ. Code § 1072

[12] Principal Types of Deeds

Statutory form for grant deed. Civ. Code § 1092

[13] Property Transferred

Transfer of real property as passing all easements attached. Civ. Code § 1104

Fee simple presumptively granted. Civ. Code § 1105

Lesser estate as vesting on grant of fee. Civ. Code § 1108

Breach of condition subsequent. Civ. Code § 1109

Effect of conditions precedent. Civ. Code § 1110

Grants of rents, remainders, or reversions. Civ. Code § 1111

Grants bordering highways. Civ. Code § 1112

[14] Statute of Frauds

Writing necessary for transfer of estate in real property. Civ. Code § 1091

Transfer, trust, or power over realty as required to be in writing and subscribed by grantor. Code Civ. Proc. § 1971

[15] Statute of Limitations

Limitations on action founded on guaranty of title of real property. Code Civ. Proc. § 339(1)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawDeedsDeliveryReal Property LawDeedsEnforceabilityReal Property LawDeedsExecution FormalitiesReal Property LawEstatesFuture InterestsRight of EntryReal Property LawPurchase & SaleEscrow

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.95

§ 184.95 Decisions

[1] After-Acquired Title

Agreement reserving mineral rights met essential requirements of grant deed and transferred after-acquired title pursuant to Civ. Code § 1106. Klamath Land & Cattle Co. v. Roemer (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 613, 618-619, 91 Cal. Rptr. 112, 37 O.&G.R. 194

[2] Capacity of Parties

Deed executed to oneself is void because transfer of property requires that title be conveyed by one living person to another [Civ. Code § 1039]. Clark v. Carter (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 291, 295, 296, 70 Cal. Rptr. 923

Test of mental capacity to execute deed is whether grantor can comprehend nature of his or her act, character of his or her property, and grantor's relation to natural objects of his or her bounty. Marback v. Marback (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 354, 356, 45 Cal. Rptr. 341

Degree of mental competency required to sustain validity of deed is same as that required to execute will. Marback v. Marback (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 354, 356, 45 Cal. Rptr. 341

[3] Delivery and Acceptance

Valid delivery requires mutual intention of parties to immediately pass title to property. Meyer v. Wall (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 24, 27, 75 Cal. Rptr. 236 ; Henneberry v. Henneberry (1958) 164 Cal. App. 2d 125, 129, 330 P.2d 250

Proof of physical delivery of deed establishes prima facie case of delivery. Smith v. Carey (1965) 238 Cal. App. 2d 438, 440, 48 Cal. Rptr. 12

Delivery to one joint owner constitutes delivery to both. Belli v. Bonavia (1959) 167 Cal. App. 2d 275, 280, 334 P.2d 196

Delivery by escrow agent to grantee related back to delivery by grantor to agent when valid escrow agreement existed and death of grantor intervened prior to delivery by escrow agent to grantee. Brunoni v. Brunoni (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 215, 219, 208 P.2d 1028

Formal acceptance of deed by corporation by written consent or resolution is unnecessary. Canal Oil Co. v. National Oil Co. (1937) 19 Cal. App. 2d 524, 536, 66 P.2d 197

[4] Description of Property

Reference to map in description of property incorporates map into deed. Ramirez v. Mookini (1962) 207 Cal. App. 2d 42, 48, 24 Cal. Rptr. 354

[5] Effect of Fraud

Quitclaim deed that was executed and delivered but altered before it was recorded validly transferred property interest to, and vested title in, original transferee. Lee v. Lee (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 1553, 1558, 97 Cal. Rptr. 3d 516

Deed obtained by fraud and duress is voidable, not void, and rights of bona fide encumbrancer for value are protected. Fallon v. Triangle Management Services, Inc. (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 1103, 1106, 215 Cal. Rptr. 748

[6] Execution

Deed executed in blank without designation of grantee is void. Bryce v. O'Brien (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 615, 616, 55 P.2d 488

Corporate executive officer does not require written authorization to sell corporation land because officer is representative of corporation rather than mere agent. Monteleone v. Southern California Vending Corp. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 798, 806, 70 Cal. Rptr. 703

Proof that deed at time of execution lacked data such as designation of grantee raises presumption that authority of agent subsequently filling in blanks was not in writing. Alton v. Haywood (1934) 136 Cal. App. 191, 193, 28 P.2d 385

Party claiming that in absence of written authorization, changes and additions to deed were made in immediate presence of principal has burden of affirmatively establishing this fact. Alton v. Haywood (1934) 136 Cal. App. 191, 193, 28 P.2d 385

[7] Interpretation of Deeds

When terms of deed are ambiguous, actual conduct of parties may be used to establish their intention; thus, when deed for railroad right-of-way was ambiguous regarding whether it granted fee interest or easement, grantor's subsequent conduct was admissible to indicate its intention to convey fee interest. City of Manhattan Beach v. Superior Court (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 232, 246, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 82, 914 P.2d 160 , cert. denied, 519 U.S. 1008, 117 S. Ct. 511, 136 L. Ed. 2d 400

Conduct of parties acting under deed is factor in determining construction to be placed on deed. People v. Ocean Shore Railroad (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 406, 414, 196 P.2d 570

Conduct of parties is admissible to interpret deed when deed is ambiguous, but conduct is not admissible when deed is not ambiguous, such as when it refers to subdivision map. Baker v. Ramirez (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 1123, 1133-1134, 235 Cal. Rptr. 857

Requirement of Evid. Code § 662, requiring clear and convincing evidence to overcome presumption that owner of legal title has beneficial title, is not changed by fact that confidential relationship is alleged to exist between parties. Toney v. Nolder (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 791, 794-796, 219 Cal. Rptr. 497

Nontechnical words in deed to be given their ordinary and plain meaning unless context shows they are used in different sense. Welch v. Kai (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 374, 380, 84 Cal. Rptr. 619

Actual uses of property at time of conveyance as well as uses within reasonable contemplation of parties are factors in determining intent of parties. Everett v. Bosch (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 648, 653, 50 Cal. Rptr. 813

Every part of deed is to be given effect if reasonably practicable and consistent with evident purpose of grant, each clause helping to interpret others. City of Los Angeles v. Savage (1958) 165 Cal. App. 2d 1, 5, 331 P.2d 211

[8] Marketable Record Title Act

Amendments to Civ. Code § 882.020 enacted in 2007 codified holding in Ung v. Koehler (2005) 135 Cal. App. 4th 186, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 311 that notice of default is not part of the record for purposes of determining applicable statute of limitations under MRTA. Schmidli v. Pearce (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 305, 315-316, 100 Cal. Rptr. 3d 343

Notice of default did not trigger new 10-year statute of limitations when notice was recorded after 10-year period had expired. Ung v. Koehler (2005) 135 Cal. App. 4th 186, 190-191, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 311

Under Civ. Code § 880.260 (real property interest does not expire or expire of record when action is timely commenced and notice of action recorded), running of limitations period under Marketable Record Title Act is reset and new 10-year limitations period commences on date of recording of lis pendens. Slintak v. Buckeye Retirement Co., LLC, Ltd. (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 575, 587, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 131

Conveyance to railroad in 1901 that provided right-of-way would revert to grantors or their assigns if railroad operations ceased for six months conveyed fee interest subject to condition subsequent rather than easement; because successor in interest failed to record intent to preserve future interest as required by Marketable Record Title Act [Civ. Code § 880.020 et seq.], power of termination expired and owner's quiet title action was barred. Severns v. Union Pacific Railroad (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 1209, 1220-1221, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 100

Marketable Record Title Act [Civ. Code § 880.020 et seq.], requiring recordation to preserve certain types of interest, including power of termination, does not effect unconstitutional impairment of contracts or take property in violation of due process. Severns v. Union Pacific Railroad (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 1209, 1222, 1228, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 100

[9] Merger of Prior Agreements

Deed executed in consummation of agreement between parties merges all prior negotiations and agreements, and therefore prevails over inconsistent contract pursuant to which it was executed. Cochran v. Union Lumber Co. (1972)

26 Cal. App. 3d 423, 429, 102 Cal. Rptr. 632

[10] Parol and Extrinsic Evidence

When terms of deed are ambiguous, actual conduct of parties may be used to establish their intention; thus, when deed for railroad right-of-way was ambiguous regarding whether it granted fee interest or easement, grantor's subsequent conduct was admissible to indicate its intention to convey fee interest. City of Manhattan Beach v. Superior Court (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 232, 246, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 82, 914 P.2d 160 , cert. denied, 519 U.S. 1008, 117 S. Ct. 511, 136 L. Ed. 2d 400

Parol evidence is admissible to resolve patent ambiguity as to whether clause in deed is covenant or condition. Mason v. Superior Court (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 989, 998-999, 210 Cal. Rptr. 63

Test of admissibility of extrinsic evidence to explain deed is whether or not offered evidence is relevant to prove meaning to which language of instrument is reasonably susceptible. Murphy Slough Assn. v. Avila (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 649, 653-655, 104 Cal. Rptr. 136

Erroneously admitted parol evidence was unable to support a judgment, even though admitted without objection. White v. State of California (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 738, 757, 99 Cal. Rptr. 58

[11] Reservations

Common law rule that one cannot reserve interest in real property to stranger to title is abandoned. Willard v. First Church of Christ, Scientist (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 473, 476-479, 102 Cal. Rptr. 739, 498 P.2d 987

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawDeedsDeliveryReal Property LawDeedsEnforceabilityReal Property LawDeedsExecution FormalitiesReal Property LawDeedsProperty DescriptionsReal Property LawDeedsRemediesAfter-Acquired Property

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.96

§ 184.96 Law Reviews

Note, Avoiding the Un-Real Estate Deal: Has the Uniform Electronic Transactions Act Gone Too Far? 35 J. Marshall L. Rev. 311 (2002)

Note, Property Transfers Under Section 727 of the Bankruptcy Code: Defining the Moment of Transfer, 72 S. Cal. L. Rev. 1179 (1999)

Bernhardt, Teaching Real Property Law as Real Estate Lawyering, 23 Pepp. L. Rev. 1099 (1996)

Knox, Procedures to Delay Real Property Foreclosures, 23 W. St. U.L. Rev. 303 (1996)

Seavey, Formalizing Interspousal Transfers of Real and Personal Property in California, 30 San Diego L. Rev. 425 (1993)

Murray, Deeds in Lieu of Foreclosure: Practical and Legal Considerations, 26 Real Prop. Prob. & Tr. J. 459 (1991)

Jones, Structuring the Deed in Lieu of Foreclosure Transaction, 19 Real Prop. Prob. & Tr. J. 58 (1984)

Brussack, Reform of American Conveyancing Formality, 32 Hastings L.J. 561 (1981)

Note, The Use of Extrinsic Evidence to Interpret Real Property Conveyances: A Suggested Limitation, 65 Cal. L. Rev. 897 (1977)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Duties & RightsProperty RightsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawBankruptcySalesReal Property

LawDeedsConstruction & InterpretationReal Property LawFinancingMortgages & Other Security InstrumentsDeed in Lieu of ForeclosureReal Property LawFinancingMortgages & Other Security InstrumentsForeclosuresGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.97

§ 184.97 Text References

Powell on Real Property, vols. 1-4, 6 (Matthew Bender)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 12, Real Property, §§ 254-335 (10th ed. 2005)

Miller & Starr, California Real Estate, vol. 3, Ch. 8, Deeds (3d ed., West Group 2000).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawDeedsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 184.98-184.109

[Reserved]

§§ 184.98[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Covenants of Title

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.110

§ 184.110 State Statutes

[1] Covenant Running With Land

Appurtenant covenants as running with land. Civ. Code § 1460

Covenants running with land. Civ. Code § 1461

"Covenant running with land" defined. Civ. Code § 1462

Covenants of warranty, for quiet enjoyment, and for further assurance as running with land. Civ. Code § 1463

[2] Express Covenants

When warranties binding on heirs and devisees. Civ. Code § 1115

[3] Damages

Damages for breach of covenant of seisin, right to convey, warranty, or quiet enjoyment. Civ. Code § 3304

Damages for breach of covenant against encumbrances. Civ. Code § 3305

[4] Implied Covenants

Covenants implied from use of word "grant." Civ. Code § 1113

"Encumbrances" defined. Civ. Code § 1114

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawDeedsCovenants of TitleReal Property LawDeedsRemediesDamagesReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsCovenants Running With Land

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Covenants of Title

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.111

§ 184.111 Decisions

[1] Express Covenants

Covenant for quiet enjoyment is not breached until there has been eviction by true owner, or assertion by him or her of paramount right in such manner that holder through covenantor is compelled to yield possession or buy outstanding superior title. McCormick v. Marcy (1913) 165 Cal. 386, 389, 132 P. 449

Covenant of warranty is breached only when covenantee actually or constructively evicted. McGary v. Hastings (1870) 39 Cal. 360, 364-367

Covenants of seisin, right to convey, and against encumbrances are personal to covenantee, and breached, if at all, at time of transfer. Lawrence v. Montgomery (1864) 37 Cal. 183, 188, 189

Liability of vendor under covenant of warranty is directly to person evicted and not exclusively to immediate vendee. Blackwell v. Atkinson (1859) 14 Cal. 470, 471

[2] Implied Covenants

Covenants against encumbrances are personal, not running with land, do not run with the land, and do not entitle succeeding grantee to maintain action in own name for breach. Babb v. Weemer (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 546, 550, 37 Cal. Rptr. 533

Encumbrance consisting of physical burden on land, permanent in character, of open and notorious nature, and affecting only physical condition of property is not encumbrance that breaches implied covenant against encumbrances. Evans v. Faught (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 698, 709, 42 Cal. Rptr. 133

Trust deed is encumbrance. Babb v. Weemer (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 546, 551, 37 Cal. Rptr. 533

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawDeedsCovenants of Title

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Covenants of Title

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.112

§ 184.112 Law Reviews

Note, Termination of Servitudes: Expanding the Remedy for "Changed Conditions," 31 UCLA L. Rev. 226 (1983)

Curtis, Title Insurance In Sales of California Residential Realty: A Critique of Title Insurance and Title Covenants With Suggested Reforms, 7 Pacific L.J. 1 (1976)

Comment, Covenants of Title Running With the Land in California, 49 Cal. L. Rev. 931 (1961)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Insurance LawProperty InsuranceTitle InsuranceReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsCovenants Running With Land

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Covenants of Title

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.113

§ 184.113 Text References

Powell on Real Property, Ch. 60, Covenants as to Property Use (Matthew Bender)

Miller and Starr, Current Law of California Real Estate, Vol. 2, Ch. 14, Deeds, §§ 14:3-14:9

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawDeedsCovenants of TitleReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsCovenants Running With Land

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Covenants of Title

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 184.114-184.129

[Reserved]

§§ 184.114[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.130

§ 184.130 California Points and Authorities

For a form of points and authorities in support of an application to enjoin violation of a restrictive covenant, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 116, Injunctions (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawRestrictive CovenantsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsEnforcement

166 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.131

§ 184.131 California Legal Forms

For a form of declaration of restrictions for a residential subdivision, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 28C, Covenants, Conditions, and Restrictions, § 28C.200 (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawRestrictive CovenantsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.132

§ 184.132 California Real Estate Law and Practice

For a discussion of covenants, conditions, and restrictions relating to subdivisions, see California Real Estate Law & Practice, Ch. 470, Subdivisions (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawRestrictive CovenantsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsSubdivisions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.133

§ 184.133 State Statutes

[1] Restrictions in General

Definition of "restriction." Civ. Code § 784

Limitations period for action for violation of restriction. Code Civ. Proc. § 336(b)

[2] Conditions

Condition on enjoyment of property defined. Civ. Code § 707

Conditions are either precedent or subsequent. Civ. Code § 708

Illegal conditions are void. Civ. Code § 709

Conditions restraining marriage are generally void; exception for minors. Civ. Code § 710

Conditions restraining alienation are void; exception for public housing loans. Civ. Code §§ 711-711.5

Restrictions on right of property owner to display "for sale" sign are void. Civ. Code §§ 712, 713

Duty to reconvey property on breach of condition subsequent. Civ. Code § 1109

Conditional obligations generally. Civ. Code § 1434 et seq.

Conditions involving forfeiture are strictly construed. Civ. Code § 1442

[3] Covenants

Covenants running with land defined. Civ. Code § 1460

Covenants running with land are only those specified in Civ. Code §§ 1460-1471, and those incidental thereto. Civ. Code § 1461

Covenant made for direct benefit of granted property runs with land. Civ. Code § 1462

Covenants of warranty, and other specified covenants running with land. Civ. Code § 1463

Persons bound by covenant running with land. Civ. Code § 1465

No liability for breach of covenant running with land before acquisition or after relinquishment. Civ. Code § 1466

Apportionment of joint benefit or burden of covenant running with land. Civ. Code § 1467

Covenants running with land of both covenantor and covenantee. Civ. Code § 1468

Environmental covenants. Civ. Code § 1471

Limitations Period for Action for Violation of Covenant or Other Restriction. Code Civ. Proc. § 336(b)

County recorders and certain other real estate related persons, when providing copy of already recorded document, also must provide cover page, or must stamp copy, with statement that restrictions based on specified invidious discrimination are void and may be removed from recorded documents. Gov. Code § 12956.1(a), (b)

Obtaining recordation of any document for express purpose of adding racially restrictive covenant is misdemeanor. Gov. Code § 12956.1(c)

Owner may record "Restrictive Covenant Modification" for purpose of removing unlawfully restrictive covenant. Gov. Code § 12956.2

[4] Discrimination

Age discrimination by business establishment in sale or rental of housing is generally prohibited. Civ. Code § 51.2

Age restrictions are allowable in certain senior citizen housing developments. Civ. Code § 51.3

Restrictions on ownership or use of property based on invidious discrimination (because of sex, race, color, religion, etc.) are void. Civ. Code § 53

Restrictions in deeds based on invidious discrimination are void. Civ. Code § 782

Covenants containing restrictions based on invidious discrimination are deemed revised to omit provisions. Civ. Code § 782.5(a)

[5] Miscellaneous

Covenant, restriction, or condition restricting or prohibiting installation or use of solar energy system are unenforceable; allowable reasonable restrictions defined. Civ. Code § 714

Covenants, conditions, restrictions, or other management documents cannot prohibit sale, lease, or use of property on basis that structure intended for occupancy is constructed offsite and moved to property in sections or modules. Civ. Code § 714.5

Benefit of condition or covenant allowed to vest in unnamed person. Civ. Code § 1085

Condominium covenants and restrictions. Civ. Code § 1354

Procedure for owners to extend term of covenants, conditions, and restrictions that do not provide for their own extension. Civ. Code § 1357

Quiet title. Code Civ. Proc. § 760.010 et seq.

[6] Power of Termination

Three-day notice required before exercising right of reentry. Civ. Code § 791

Notice under Civ. Code § 791 is not prerequisite to action to enforce right of reentry. Civ. Code § 793

Civ. Code § 880.020 et seq. do not limit application of equitable principles and recording statutes. Civ. Code § 880.030

Interests not subject to Civ. Code § 880.020 et seq. Civ. Code § 880.240

Times prescribed for expiration, enforcement, bringing action, or other required act is not extended by any disability, lack of knowledge, tolling provisions, or statute of limitations. Civ. Code § 880.250

Real property interest does not expire or expire of record when action is timely commenced and notice of action recorded. Civ. Code § 880.260

Recordation of notice of intent to preserve interest. Civ. Code § 880.310

Persons who may record notice. Civ. Code § 880.320

Contents of notice. Civ. Code § 880.330

Form of notice. Civ. Code § 880.340

Place and manner of recording. Civ. Code § 880.350

Notice recorded to slander title prohibited; availability of costs, attorney fees, and damages. Civ. Code § 880.360

Time to record notice is extended when prescribed period expires before, on, or within five years after operative date of prescribing statute. Civ. Code § 880.370

Power of termination defined. Civ. Code § 885.010

Power of termination is transferable. Civ. Code §§ 885.010, 1046

Civ. Code § 885.010 et seq. are not applicable to certain reversionary interests. Civ. Code § 885.015

Fees simple determinable and possibilities of reverter abolished and deemed to be powers of termination. Civ. Code § 885.020

Expiration of power of termination after 30-year period; extension of period. Civ. Code § 885.030

Expiration of power of termination by obsolescence. Civ. Code § 885.040

Exercise of power of termination by notice or civil action. Civ. Code § 885.050

Restrictions as unenforceable after expiration of power of termination. Civ. Code § 885.060

Duty to reconvey property on breach of condition subsequent. Civ. Code § 1109

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil Rights LawContractual Relations & HousingFair Housing RightsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawCommon Interest CommunitiesCondominiumsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsCovenants Running With LandReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsSubdivisions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.134

§ 184.134 Decisions

[1] Changed Conditions

Restrictive covenant is unenforceable when change in neighborhood has been such that enforcement would have no other result than to harass or injure defendant, without benefiting plaintiff. Hurd v. Albert (1931) 214 Cal. 15, 17, 23, 3 P.2d 545 (residential restriction)

Cancellation of residential-only restriction is unjustified when purpose of covenant is still attainable. County of Butte v. Bach (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 848, 868-869, 218 Cal. Rptr. 613

Enforcement of residential-only restrictions is proper when they would serve as buffer against business area and therefore be of substantial benefit to other lots in tract. Atlas Terminals, Inc. v. Sokol (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 191, 194, 201-204, 21 Cal. Rptr. 293

[2] Conditions Subsequent

When deed conveyed gift of land to city to be used as nature reserve and stated that if land were not so used, city would forfeit its interest in favor of a third party, deed granted fee simple subject to a condition subsequent rather than create a charitable trust. City of Palm Springs v. Living Desert Reserve (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 613, 622, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 859

Right of reentry if property used for other than residential use was personal when it did not specify land to be benefited and did not meet statutory standards for creation of covenant running with land or contain a common neighborhood plan. McCaffrey v. Preston (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 422, 436-437, 201 Cal. Rptr. 252

Extrinsic evidence is not admissible to clarify latent ambiguity in terms of reversion condition; thus, showing of latent ambiguity is insufficient to survive demurrer in action by party asserting reversion provision; if language in deed will bear reasonable construction that will avoid reversion, that construction must be adopted. Springmeyer v. City of South

Lake Tahoe (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 375, 381-382, 183 Cal. Rptr. 43

Clear expression of intent as to when reversion occurs is required, and interpretation avoiding reversion is favored. Springmeyer v. City of South Lake Tahoe (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 375, 380-381, 183 Cal. Rptr. 43

Restriction drafted as condition subsequent with power of termination in grantor is normally enforceable on behalf of grantor or grantor's transferee unless it is shown that changed circumstances make such enforcement inequitable. MacDonald Properties, Inc. v. Bel-Air Country Club (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 693, 699, 140 Cal. Rptr. 367

Common law rule that one cannot reserve interest in property to stranger to title has been abandoned; although in some cases balancing of competing interests may warrant application of common law rule to presently existing deeds, it could not defeat reservation in favor of church of easement for parking purposes during church hours. Willard v. First Church of Christ, Scientist (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 473, 476-479, 102 Cal. Rptr. 739, 498 P.2d 987

[3] Covenants Running With Land

If declaration establishing common plan for ownership of property in subdivision and containing restrictions on use of property as part of the common plan is recorded before execution of sales agreement for any land in subdivision and satisfies other specified requirements, subsequent purchasers who have constructive notice of recorded declaration are deemed to intend and agree to be bound by common plan; rule applies to covenants running with the land and equitable servitudes. Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 349, 355, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314

Deed restriction recorded with final subdivision map requiring all the units in housing projects to be affordable to very low, low, and moderate income households provided constructive notice to subsequent purchasers that their properties, if sold, had to be affordable to persons of very low to moderate incomes. Alfaro v. Community Housing Improvement System & Planning Assn., Inc. (2009) 171 Cal. App. 4th 263, 281, 89 Cal. Rptr. 3d 659

Covenant was not enforceable against bona fide purchaser with no knowledge of covenant, even though covenant was recorded after purchase. Reiner v. Danial (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 682, 689-690, 259 Cal. Rptr. 570

Covenant running with land as required to meet statutory requirements in effect when covenant was created; Civ. Code § 1468 as not applicable retroactively. Oceanside Community Assn. v. Oceanside Land Co. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 166, 174-175, 195 Cal. Rptr. 14 ; Taormina Theosophical Community, Inc. v. Silver (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 964, 972 n. 3, 190 Cal. Rptr. 38

Deed restrictions burdening grantee's land as not enforceable against remote grantees because restrictions were created before 1969 amendment to Civ. Code § 1468; preamendment statute as authorizing running covenants only when they burden grantor's land or were made between two landowners. Taormina Theosophical Community, Inc. v. Silver (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 964, 968, 972 n. 3, 190 Cal. Rptr. 38

[4] Equitable Servitudes

If declaration establishing common plan for ownership of property in subdivision and containing restrictions on use of property as part of the common plan is recorded before execution of sales agreement for any land in subdivision and satisfies other specified requirements, subsequent purchasers who have constructive notice of recorded declaration are deemed to intend and agree to be bound by common plan; rule applies to equitable servitudes and covenants running with the land. Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 349, 355, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314

Formal requirements of restrictions that operate to create equitable servitudes. Werner v. Graham (1919) 181 Cal. 174, 179-186, 183 P. 945 (no valid servitudes created); Terry v. James (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 438, 442-443, 140 Cal. Rptr. 201

Condition that landscaping be approved by lessor was unenforceable by lessee who was allegedly damaged by another lessee's trees blocking sunlight. Sher v. Leiderman (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 867, 885-888, 226 Cal. Rptr. 698

Restrictive covenant enforceable was equitable servitude even though not in deed when purchaser had actual notice of covenant. Mackinder v. OSCA Development Co. (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 728, 735-737, 198 Cal. Rptr. 864

Unenforceable restrictive covenant in lease enforceable was equitable servitude when in written lease and party against whom it was to be enforced had actual notice of covenant. Hudson Oil Co. v. Shortstop (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 488, 493, 496-497, 168 Cal. Rptr. 801

Equitable servitude or building restriction is encumbrance that is eliminated by foreclosure of senior lien. Sain v. Silvestre (1978) 78 Cal. App. 3d 461, 475, 144 Cal. Rptr. 478 (disapproved on another point in Reynolds Metals Co. v. Alperson (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 124, 129, 158 Cal. Rptr. 1, 599 P.2d 83)

Third-party beneficiary theory is no substitute for creation of mutual equitable servitudes pursuant to general plan of building development. Terry v. James (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 438, 445-446, 140 Cal. Rptr. 201 ; Trahms v. Starrett (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 766, 772, 110 Cal. Rptr. 239

Action to enjoin other owners of development from violating restriction relating to interference with view does not state cause of action when restriction reserved to grantor sole right to determine whether proposed structure would constitute interference with view. Trahms v. Starrett (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 766, 770, 110 Cal. Rptr. 239

Deed lacking language to indicate it was part of general plan for common benefit of designated larger tract did not create equitable easement either in lands retained by seller or those later to be conveyed. Ross v. Harootunian (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 292, 295, 64 Cal. Rptr. 537

[5] Homeowners' Associations

Covenants, conditions, and restrictions requiring that addition of eight trees to lot be submitted to architectural review committee were enforceable on showing by homeowner's association that it followed its own standards and procedures, that procedures were fair, and that substantive decision was made in good faith and was reasonable. Ironwood Owners Assn. IX v. Solomon (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 766, 771-773, 224 Cal. Rptr. 18

Summary judgment was properly granted in favor of subdivision homeowners challenging assessment by corporation authorized to enforce declaration of protective restrictions when assessment was for purpose of financing action against city to abate noise from nearby airport and restrictions were concerned only with activities carried on property. Spitser v. Kentwood Home Guardians (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 215, 218-220, 100 Cal. Rptr. 798

[6] Interpretation of Restrictive Covenants

Covenants, conditions, and restrictions in contracts of members of homeowners association are interpreted to give effect to main purpose of contract; when contract is susceptible of two meanings, courts are required to construe contract to make it lawful, operative, definite, reasonable, and capable of being carried into effect. Battram v. Emerald Bay Community Ass'n (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 1184, 1189, 204 Cal. Rptr. 107 (provision allowing change of method in membership fee assessment only by unanimous vote conflicted with main purpose of contract due to effect of Cal. Const., art. XIIIA, § 1)

Reasonable interpretation of restrictive covenant was suspect to change with time, circumstances, and evolution of public policy; subsequent legislative enactment signaled change in public policy justifying change in reasonable interpretation of covenant despite fact that legislation did not directly affect covenant. Welsch v. Goswick (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 398, 405-407, 181 Cal. Rptr. 703

Restrictive covenant is interpreted against person seeking enforcement, but intent of parties governs so as to give instrument just and fair interpretation. White v. Dorfman (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 892, 897, 172 Cal. Rptr. 326

Split-level dwelling did not violate of restrictive covenant that proscribed dwelling with more than one floor above ground because ground floor was not basement garage but was low split-level [Smith v. North (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 245, 247-249, 53 Cal. Rptr. 94] .

[7] Restrictive Covenant as Property Right

Restrictive covenant is property for purposes of eminent domain and therefore condemning agency is required to compensate landowners for any use of condemned property that violates covenant. Southern Cal. Edison v. Bourgerie (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 169, 170-171, 107 Cal. Rptr. 76, 507 P.2d 964

Private use restriction is not taken into account when determining property tax assessment even if it adversely affects property value. Carlson v. Assessment Appeals Bd. I (1985) 167 Cal. App. 3d 1004, 1008-1010, 213 Cal. Rptr. 555

[8] Types of Restrictions Enforced

Deed restriction that ensured residential property would remain affordable to very low, low, and moderate income households as long as restriction was beneficial was reasonable restraint on alienation. Alfaro v. Community Housing Improvement System & Planning Assn., Inc. (2009) 171 Cal. App. 4th 263, 286, 89 Cal. Rptr. 3d 659

Provision in development's CC&Rs that "No fences or hedges exceeding three feet in height shall be erected or permitted to remain between the street and the front set-back line nor shall any tree, shrub or other landscaping be planted or any structures erected that may at present or in the future obstruct the view from any other lot ..." prohibited homeowners from building additions on homes that would unreasonably interfere with other homeowners' views. Zabrucky v. McAdams (2005) 129 Cal. App. 4th 618, 629, 28 Cal. Rptr. 3d 592

Covenants, conditions, and restrictions that impose reasonable restrictions on solar energy systems are valid under Civ. Code § 714 if restrictions do not significantly increase cost of system or significantly decrease its effectiveness. Palos Verdes Homes Assn. v. Rodman (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 324, 327-328, 227 Cal. Rptr. 81

Covenants, conditions, and restrictions requiring that addition of eight trees to lot be submitted to architectural review committee were enforceable on showing by homeowner's association that it followed its own standards and procedures, that procedures were fair, and that substantive decision was made in good faith and was reasonable. Ironwood Owners Assn. IX v. Solomon (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 766, 771-773, 224 Cal. Rptr. 18

Recorded covenant restricting land to use as golf course for benefit of neighboring development was enforceable as covenant and as equitable servitude by imposing equitable lien on land in amount of benefits lost by inhabitants of development. Oceanside Community Assn. v. Oceanside Land Co. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 166, 174-178, 195 Cal. Rptr. 14

Restrictive covenant by which developer of industrial park retained right to disapprove projects that would adversely affect or compete with existing projects was valid. Samuelson National v. Kaiser-Aetna (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 553, 557-559, 160 Cal. Rptr. 395

Restriction prohibiting any improvement that would "unreasonably obstruct" view from other lots was not so vague or uncertain as to preclude enforcement of restriction. Seligman v. Tucker (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 691, 693, 697-699, 86 Cal. Rptr. 187

Part-time use of home for operation of beauty parlor in violation of residential restrictive covenants was properly enjoined even though there was no advertisement of services, external evidence of activities, or inconvenience caused to any of the neighbors. Biagini v. Hyde (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 877, 880-881, 83 Cal. Rptr. 875

[9] Violation of Civil and Constitutional Rights

Health & Safety Code § 1597.40(c), providing that family day care centers are residential uses and permitted in all areas zoned for residential use, bars restrictive covenants made prior to enactment of statute. Barrett v. Dawson (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 1048, 1054, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899

Enforcement of covenant whose intent is simply to prohibit commercial uses, rather than to bar particular users, does not constitute age discrimination under Unruh Civil Rights Act (Civ. Code § 51) or violation of constitutional right of privacy. Barrett v. Lipscomb (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 1524, 1533-1534, 240 Cal. Rptr. 336 (upholding application of residential-only restriction against operator of residential care facility for disabled people and seniors)

Public policy in favor of community care facilities does not constitute grounds to prevent enforcement of "private residences" restriction against operator of commercial residential care facility because Health & Safety Code § 1566.5 expressly preserves validity of preexisting covenants. Barrett v. Lipscomb (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 1524, 1526-1527, 1531-1532, 240 Cal. Rptr. 336 (questioning Welsch v. Goswick (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 398, 181 Cal. Rptr. 703)

Covenants, conditions, and restrictions that limited number of residents to three without reference to square footage violated owner's right to privacy; requisite state action existed when CC&Rs were required for conditional use permit by city. Park Redlands Covenant Control Committee v. Simon (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 87, 95-99, 226 Cal. Rptr. 199

Covenants, conditions, and restrictions that discriminate against persons under 45 in facilities not designed for elderly persons violate Civ. Code § 53. Park Redlands Covenant Control Committee v. Simon (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 87, 93-95, 226 Cal. Rptr. 199

Restrictive covenant limiting sale to one who had been member of Theosophical Society for 3 years and who was over 50 years of age as not enforceable because it was unreasonable restraint on alienation and violated Civ. Code § 53. Taormina Theosophical Community, Inc. v. Silver (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 964, 970-977, 190 Cal. Rptr. 38

Even though Health & Safety Code § 1566.5 (operation of residential care facilities) expressly preserves validity of pre-existing covenants, enforcement of residential-only restriction to prevent operation of care facility in housing developments was properly withheld on public policy grounds; statute constituted strong statement of public policy in favor of broad interpretation of single-family residential use in area of community care facilities Welsch v. Goswick (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 398, 406-407, 181 Cal. Rptr. 703

Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 5115, 5116, providing that use of property for care of six or fewer mentally retarded persons is residential use for purposes of zoning, did not impair enforceability of recorded deed restriction limiting tract to single-family dwellings for residential use; enforcement of restriction did not unconstitutionally discriminate against mentally retarded because restrictions aimed at commercial aspect of defendant's activity. Seaton v. Clifford (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 46, 50-52, 100 Cal. Rptr. 779

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil Rights LawContractual Relations & HousingFair Housing RightsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawEstatesFuture InterestsRight of EntryReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsCovenants Running With LandReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsSubdivisions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.135

§ 184.135 Law Reviews

Korngold, Single Family Use Covenants: For Achieving a Balance Between Traditional Family Life and Individual Autonomy, 22 U.C. Davis L. Rev. 951 (1989)

Comment, Termination of Servitudes: Expanding the Remedies for Changed Conditions, 31 UCLA L. Rev. 226 (1983)

French, Toward a Modern Law of Servitudes: Reweaving the Ancient Strands, 55 So. Cal. L. Rev. 1261 (1982)

Reichman, Toward a Unified Concept of Servitudes, 55 So. Cal. L. Rev. 1177 (1982)

Comment, Equitable Servitudes: A Rule of Property in Need of a Rule of Reason, 10 Pacific L.J. 905 (1979)

Note, Covenants and Equitable Servitudes in California, 29 Hastings L.J. 545 (1978)

Alessio, Cazares, Lowell and Prahl, Land Use and Operational Controls in the Planned Development, 9 San Diego L. Rev. 28 (1972)

Newman and Losey, Covenants Running With the Land, and Equitable Servitudes; Two Concepts, or One, 21 Hastings L.J. 1319 (1970)

Comment, Covenants: California's New Legislative Approach to Covenants Running With the Land, 9 Santa Clara Lawyer 285 (1969)

Note, Real Property: Restrictive Covenants: Equitable Servitudes and Changing Conditions, 2 Santa Clara Lawyer 86 (1962)

Burby, Land Burdens in California: Equitable Land Burdens, 10 So. Cal. L. Rev. 281 (1937)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawRestrictive CovenantsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsCovenants Running With LandReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsEnforcementReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsSubdivisions

171 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.136

§ 184.136 Text References

Powell on Real Property, Vol. 5, Ch. 60, Covenants Respecting the Use of Land, §§ 672, 676 (Matthew Bender)

Bowman, Ogden's Revised California Real Property Law (Cal CEB 1975), Vol. 2, Ch. 23, Covenants, Conditions, and Restrictions

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 12, Real Property, §§ 18-21, 431-457 (10th ed. 2005)

Miller & Starr, Current Law of California Real Estate, Chs. 22, 25, Covenants, Conditions, and Restrictions (Bancroft-Whitney 2nd ed. 1990)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawRestrictive CovenantsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawRestrictive CovenantsCovenants Running With Land

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 184.137-184.149

[Reserved]

§§ 184.137[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.150

§ 184.150 Complaint for Cancellation [Civ. Code § 3412] of Deed and to Quiet Title [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.010-764.080] to Real Property--General Form

[1] FORM Complaint for Cancellation [Civ. Code § 3412] of Deed and to Quiet Title [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.010-764.080] to Real Property--General Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name(s) of known defendant(s)] [if unknown defendants are included, add:; and all persons unknown, claiming any legal or equitable right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the property described in the complaint adverse to Plaintiff's title, or any cloud on Plaintiff's title thereto] [; and DOES I-_____, inclusive],	)	COMPLAINT FOR CANCELLATION OF DEED AND TO QUIET TITLE TO REAL PROPERTY
Defendant(s).

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

FIRST COUNT

(Cancellation of Deed)

[1. Plaintiff, _____ (name), is, and at all times herein mentioned was, _____ (specify entity if other than natural person, e.g., a national banking association incorporated under the laws of the United States, engaged in doing business as a trust company in the State of California with its principal place of business in the County of _____,) _____ (specify special capacity, if any, in which plaintiff sues, e.g., and executor of the estate of _____ (name), deceased).]

[2. Defendant, _____ (name), is, and at all times mentioned in this complaint was, _____ (specify entity if any defendant is other than natural person, e.g., a national banking association incorporated under the laws of the United States, engaged in doing business as a trust company in the State of California with its principal place of business in the County of _____,) _____ (specify special capacity, if any, in which defendant is sued, e.g., and executor of the estate of _____ (name), deceased).]

[3. Defendants DOES I-_____, inclusive, are sued in this complaint under fictitious names. Their true names and capacities are unknown to plaintiff. When their true names and capacities are ascertained, plaintiff will amend this complaint by inserting their true names and capacities in this complaint. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of these fictitiously named defendants claim some right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the described property adverse to plaintiff's title; that each of them is responsible in some manner for the (threatened) wrongful conduct alleged; and that their claims, and each of them, constitute a cloud on plaintiff's title to that property.]

4. There is in existence a certain written instrument that purports to be a deed to certain real property located in the County of _____, described in the deed. The form and contents of the purported deed are _____ [as set out in the copy of it that is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part of this complaint or as follows: _____ (set out instrument verbatim, following its form as closely as possible)]. The purported deed is _____ [in the possession or under control] of defendant.

5. _____ [Allege facts making deed void or voidable against plaintiff, e.g., Plaintiff did not on _____ (date), or at any other time, make, sign, or acknowledge the purported deed or authorize any person or persons to do so. Plaintiff is, and at all times mentioned was, the owner of the land purported to be conveyed by the deed].

6. _____ [Allege facts showing a reasonable apprehension that if left outstanding the instrument may cause serious injury to plaintiff, e.g., On _____ (date), the purported deed was recorded in the Official Records of the County of _____, Book/Reel _____, page/image _____. On or about _____ (date), defendant _____ (name) listed the property with a licensed broker for sale. If the recorded deed is left outstanding, plaintiff may lose his/her/its property to a purchaser from defendant _____ (name) for value and without notice of the deed's invalidity].

[If offering to restore consideration, allege EITHER]

[7. Plaintiff offers to restore all consideration furnished by defendant _____ (name) for the purported deed, on condition that defendant _____ (name) deliver the deed to the court for cancellation.]

[OR]

[7. On or about _____ (date), plaintiff offered to restore to defendant _____ (name) all consideration given by him/her on condition that defendant _____ (name) reconvey to plaintiff the land described in the purported deed. Defendant _____ (name) refused, and continues to refuse, to reconvey the property.]

[CONTINUE]

[8. _____ (Allege facts establishing a basis for a claim for damages as additional relief, if any, e.g., On _____ (date), plaintiff was dispossessed of the above-described property by defendant _____ (name) claiming title under the deed that purportedly conveyed the property to defendant _____ (name). As a result of such dispossession, plaintiff was deprived of the rent on the premises at the rate of $_____ per month, from _____, to _____ (dates)).]

[9. _____ (Allege facts establishing a basis for a claim for exemplary damages, if any, e.g., The conduct of defendant(s, and each of them,) in procuring the (forged) deed (and dispossessing plaintiff of the property) was willful and was intended to injure plaintiff and to deprive plaintiff of the property purportedly conveyed by the deed. Plaintiff therefore seeks exemplary and punitive damages in the sum of $_____.]

SECOND COUNT

(Quiet Title)

10. Plaintiff refers to and herein incorporates Paragraphs 1-8, inclusive, of the First Count.

11. Plaintiff is, and at all times herein mentioned was, the owner in fee simple and in possession and control of that real property situated in _____ County, known as _____ [street address], _____ [city], California, and more particularly described as follows: _____ [legal description].

12. The basis of plaintiff's title is _____ [describe basis of plaintiff's title, e.g., a deed from _____ (name of grantor) granting the above-described property in fee simple to plaintiff dated _____ (date), and recorded in the Official Records of the County of _____, Book/Reel _____, page/image _____].

13. Plaintiff is seeking to quiet title against the claims of defendant(s) as follows: defendant(s) _____ [name(s) of the named defendant(s)], who claims/claim some right, title, estate, lien, or interest in and to the lands of plaintiff as described in this complaint, based on the purported deed described in Paragraph 4 [_____ (continue with whichever are applicable:; the claims of the successor defendants described in Paragraph _____; the claims of all unknown defendants described in Paragraph 14, whether or not the claim or cloud is known to plaintiff; and the unknown, uncertain, or contingent claim, if any, of _____ (name) more fully described in Paragraph 15)]. Defendant's (Defendants') claim(s) is/are without any right whatever and that/those defendant(s) has/have no right, title, estate, lien, or interest whatever in the above-described property, or any part of that property[, except the following: _____ (set forth any claims of which plaintiff admits the validity, e.g., the utility easement held by Pacific Gas and Electric Company)].

[14. If "all persons unknown" are named as defendants, allege: The defendants named as "all persons unknown, claiming any legal or equitable right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the property described in the complaint adverse to plaintiff's title, or any cloud on plaintiff's title thereto" (sometimes referred to as "the unknown defendants") are unknown to plaintiff. These unknown defendants, and each of them, claim some right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the previously described property adverse to plaintiff's title; and their claims, and each of them, constitute a cloud on plaintiff's title to that property.]

[15. If the claim of a named defendant is unknown, uncertain, or contingent, allege: The claim of _____ (name of defendant) is _____ (unknown or uncertain or contingent). If the lack of knowledge, uncertainty, or contingency is caused by a transfer to an unborn or unascertained person or class member, or by a transfer in the form of a contingent remainder, a vested remainder subject to defeasance, an executory interest, or a similar disposition, allege: _____ (Name), age _____, is the person who would be entitled to an adverse claim if _____ (describe contingency) had occurred prior to the commencement of this action. If the person is subject to a legal disability, allege: The person is subject to _____ (specify legal disability).]

[16. In a case governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 318, allege: Plaintiff was _____ (seized or possessed) of the above-described property within five years of the commencement of this action.]

17. Plaintiff seeks to quiet title as of _____ [date]. [If the date is a date other than the date the complaint is filed, allege why a determination as of that date is sought.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendants as follows:

On the FIRST COUNT:

1. For a declaration that the purported deed is void;

2. That defendant deliver the purported deed forthwith to the clerk of the court for cancellation;

[3. For damages in the sum of $_____;]

[4. For exemplary or punitive damages in the sum of $_____;]

On the SECOND COUNT:

5. For a judgment that plaintiff is _____ [specify interest claimed, e.g., the owner in fee simple] of the property and that defendant(s) has/have no interest in the property adverse to the plaintiff;

On all COUNTS:

6. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

7. For such other further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Plaintiff

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents of the complaint. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters that are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____[signature]

CAUTION:

This form does not contain any allegations regarding defendants who are personal representatives [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(a)] or heirs and intestate or testate successors [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)] of persons known or believed by the plaintiff to be deceased. If those defendants are necessary in your particular situation, use the appropriate allegations from Ch. 482, Quieting Title.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint that may be used to obtain cancellation of a deed that is void or voidable against the plaintiff and to determine the adverse claim asserted under the deed [see Civ. Code § 3412]. A "claim" includes a legal or equitable right, title, estate, lien, or interest in property or cloud on title [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.010(a)]. A plaintiff who intends to add a quiet title count naming unknown persons as defendants may wish to obtain a title report before commencing the action, because an examination of the record title and an inspection of the property will be necessary [see Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(b)]. Also, the court may order plaintiff to obtain a title report and keep it available for inspection and copying by the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.040(b)].

[3] Allegations

[a] Single Cause of Action

If there is a reasonable apprehension that a deed left outstanding may cause serious injury to a person against whom it is void or voidable, the deed may, on that person's application, be so adjudged and ordered to be delivered up or canceled [Civ. Code § 3412; see Zakaessian v. Zakaessian (1945) 70 Cal. App. 2d 721, 724-725, 161 P.2d 677 (sufficiency of allegations to state cause of action for cancellation of deed)].

An action to quiet title may be brought to establish title against adverse claims to real property [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.020(a)].

A complaint seeking both to quiet title and to cancel the deed under which the defendant claims an interest in and to realty states only one cause of action, even if set out as multiple counts in the complaint [Kejr v. Construction Engineers, Inc. (1952) 111 Cal. App. 2d 817, 819, 245 P.2d 21] . Further, when the count to quiet title depends on the factual allegations of the count to cancel a deed, as in this form, the complaint will stand or fall on the sufficiency of the allegations in the cancellation count [Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 214, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12 ; Ephraim v. Metropolitan Trust Co. (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 824, 833, 172 P.2d 501] .

For clarity, this form of complaint is set out as one cause of action in two counts, one for cancellation and one to quiet title. Although both forms of relief are generally sought, there may be situations in which counsel would not wish to seek the further relief to be obtained by the quiet title count. In that case, the second count may be omitted. Chapter 107,

Cancellation of Instruments, may be consulted for a general form for cancellation of a written instrument.

[b] Cancellation

[i] Elements

The first count of this complaint alleges all of the following:

- The identity and capacity of the plaintiff, to be included if the plaintiff is not a natural person suing in his or her own behalf (Paragraph 1) [see Parker v. Bowron (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 344, 350-352, 254 P.2d 6] ;

- The identity and capacity of the defendant, to be included if the defendant is not a natural person or is sued in a particular capacity (Paragraph 2) [see Katleman v. First Nat'l Bank of Nevada (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 520, 524, 28 Cal. Rptr. 135 (discharged executor is not subject to suit in representative capacity); Tanner v. Best (1940) 40 Cal. App. 2d 442, 445, 104 P.2d 1084 (requirement of naming existing entity as defendant)];

- Plaintiff's ignorance of the names of defendants designated by fictitious names (Paragraph 3) [Code Civ. Proc. § 474];

- The existence of the purported deed and that it is in the possession or under the control of the defendant (Paragraph 4) [see Consol. Concessions Co. v. McConnell (1919) 40 Cal. App. 443, 445, 180 P. 842] ;

- Facts showing the deed's actual invalidity (Paragraph 5) [Civ. Code § 3412; see Hughes v. Beekley (1927) 85 Cal. App. 313, 316, 259 P. 337] ;

- Facts showing a reasonable apprehension that if left outstanding the deed may cause serious injury to plaintiff (Paragraph 6) [Civ. Code § 3412];

- An offer to restore consideration received for the deed (Paragraph 7) [see § 184.150[3][b][iii]];

- Facts establishing a basis for a claim for damages as additional relief (Paragraph 8); and

- Facts establishing a basis for a claim for exemplary or punitive damages (Paragraph 9) [Civ. Code § 3294; see § 184.190[9]].

For further discussion of the allegations necessary to state a cause of action for cancellation of a written instrument, see Ch. 107, Cancellation of Instruments .

[ii] Multiple Grounds of Invalidity

If more than one ground of invalidity exists, each of them must be alleged in separate counts, even if inconsistent [Dryer v. Dryer (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 441, 446, 41 Cal. Rptr. 839 ; Little v. Smith (1920) 47 Cal. App. 8, 12-15, 189 P. 1059 ; see North Confidence Mining & Dev. Co. v. Morrice (1922) 56 Cal. App. 145, 147, 204 P. 851] . For additional forms of allegation relating to other grounds of invalidity, see §§ 184.151 -184.156.

[iii] Restoration of Value Received

As a condition of obtaining cancellation of a voidable deed, the party seeking relief is generally required to restore or offer to restore to the defendant everything of value received in the underlying transaction. However, if the deed is void, as in the case of fraud in the execution or forgery, restoration is not necessary [see Fleming v. Kagan (1961) 189 Cal. App. 2d 791, 796, 797, 11 Cal. Rptr. 737 (action to cancel note, deed of trust, and contract of sale)]. If the complaint clearly shows that the plaintiff has suffered damages in the transaction equal to or in excess of the sum that would have to be restored to the defendant, the plaintiff need not restore or offer to restore what was received from the defendant [Peterson v. Wagner (1921) 52 Cal. App. 1, 12, 198 P. 25 (action to cancel contracts of sale); see Ch. 107, Cancellation of Instruments].

[iv] Rescission of Underlying Contract

In some cases, the right to cancel the deed depends on the right to rescind the underlying contract [see, e.g., Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 211-216, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12] . In these situations, a cause of action for rescission should be included in the complaint. For a discussion and forms for use in an action to rescind a contract, see Ch. 490, Rescission and Restitution .

[v] Damages

In an action for cancellation, the court may grant any relief consistent with the case made by the plaintiff and embraced within the issues, including any monetary relief necessary to do complete equity between the parties [Wright v. Rogers (1959) 172 Cal. App. 2d 349, 367, 342 P.2d 447 ; see Oswald v. City of El Centro (1930) 211 Cal. 45, 52, 292 P. 1073 (damages of rental value for term that owner deprived of possession because coerced into executing lease)]. Exemplary or punitive damages may also be recovered if the defendant has been guilty of oppression, fraud, or malice [Civ. Code § 3294; Wright v. Rogers (1959) 172 Cal. App. 2d 349, 368, 342 P.2d 447 (exemplary or punitive damages available in action for cancellation when restitution would have little or no deterrent effect)].

[c] Quieting Title

[i] Elements

By statute, a quiet title complaint must include all of the following allegations:

- A description of the property that is the subject of the action. In the case of real property, the description must include both its legal description and its street address or common designation, if any (Paragraph 11) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(a)]. This requirement does not preclude the joinder of several properties or of real and personal property, if appropriate (Paragraph 11) [15 Calif. L. Rev. Comm. 1198 (1979)].

- The title of the plaintiff as to which a determination is sought and the basis of the title (Paragraphs 11, 12) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(b)].

- The adverse claims to the title of the plaintiff against which a determination is sought (Paragraphs 13-15) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(c)]. If the plaintiff admits the validity of any adverse claim, the complaint must so state (Paragraph 13) [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(c)]. If the claim or the share or quantity of the claim of a person required to be named as a defendant is unknown, uncertain, or contingent, the plaintiff must so state in the complaint. If the lack of knowledge, uncertainty, or contingency is caused by transfer to an unborn or unascertained person or class member, or by a transfer in the form of a contingent remainder, a vested remainder subject to defeasance, an executory interest, or a similar disposition, the plaintiff must also state in the complaint, so far as is known to the plaintiff, the name, age, and legal disability, if any, of the person in being who would be entitled to the claim had the contingency on which the claim depends occurred before the commencement of the action (Paragraph 15) [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.020(b)].

- The date as of which the determination is sought. If the determination is sought as of a date other than the date the complaint is filed, the complaint must include a statement of the reasons why a determination as of that date is sought (Paragraph 17) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(d)].

- A prayer for the determination of the title of the plaintiff against the adverse claims [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(e)].

Some cases consider a quiet title action to be one for the recovery of real property or its possession, and thus, subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 318, which requires the plaintiff to have been seized or possessed of the property within five years prior to commencement of the action (Paragraph 16) [see Kenney v. Parks (1902) 137 Cal. 527, 530, 70 P. 556 ; Schoenfeld v. Pritzker (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 117, 121, 64 Cal. Rptr. 592] . That limitation period does not run against a party in possession [Muktarian v. Barmby (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 558, 560, 47 Cal. Rptr. 483, 407 P.2d 659] . More importantly, when quiet title is merely incidental relief sought to remedy some other wrong, the action is governed by laches or the limitation period applicable to the basic cause of action giving rise to plaintiff's right to relief [Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 214, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12 ; see § 184.150[4]].

For a complete discussion of the allegations necessary to state a cause of action to quiet title to real property, see Ch. 482, Quieting Title .

[ii] Required Defendants

The plaintiff must name as defendants the persons having adverse claims to the title of the plaintiff against which a determination is sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.010]. If the name of a person required to be named as a defendant is not known to plaintiff, the plaintiff must so state in the complaint and must name as parties all persons unknown in the manner described in § 184.150[3][c][iii] [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.020(a)].

The court on its own motion may, and on motion of any party must, make any orders that appear appropriate for joinder of any additional parties as are necessary or proper [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.040(a)].

If a person required to be named as a defendant is dead and the plaintiff knows of a personal representative, the plaintiff must join the personal representative [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(a)]. If a person required to be named as a defendant is dead, or is believed by the plaintiff to be dead, and the plaintiff knows of no personal representative, the plaintiff must state these facts in an affidavit filed with the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)(1); see generally Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations]. When it is stated in the affidavit that such person is dead, the plaintiff may join as defendants "the testate and intestate successors of _____ (name of deceased person), deceased, and all persons claiming by, through, or under such decedent," naming them in that manner [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)(2)].

If a person required to be named as a defendant is believed by plaintiff to be deceased, the person believed to be deceased may be named as a defendant as may that person's successors. The successors must be denominated as follows: "the testate and intestate successors of _____ (name of person believed to be deceased), believed to be deceased, and all persons claiming by, through, or under such person" [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)(3)].

[iii] Unknown Defendants

In addition to the persons required to be named as defendants in the action, the plaintiff may name as defendants "all persons unknown, claiming any legal or equitable right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the property described in the complaint adverse to plaintiff's title, or any cloud upon plaintiff's title thereto," naming them in that manner (Paragraph 14) [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(a)]. If unknown defendants are named, the plaintiff must name as defendants the persons having adverse claims that are of record or known to the plaintiff or reasonably apparent from an inspection of the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(b)]. Naming unknown defendants and serving them by publication [see § 184.150[7]] will entitle plaintiff to a judgment against all persons known and unknown who were parties to the action and all persons not parties to the action and unknown to plaintiff who had a claim that was not recorded when the lis pendens was filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 764.030], except that a person who is in open and actual possession of the property cannot be named as an unknown defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 763.010(c)].

Some people also additionally designate testate and intestate successors and "all persons unknown" as DOES. That is not recommended because it differs from the statutory language of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 762.030(b)(2), (3) and 762.060, by which those defendants are to be designated, and because it may limit the in rem effect of the judgment by limiting the number of adverse claimants in those classes [see Code Civ. Proc. § 763.030(b)]. However, fictitious defendants may be named as DOES pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 474 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 760.060 (rules governing civil actions generally as applicable in quiet title actions unless they are inconsistent with quiet title provisions)].

[4] Statute of Limitations and Laches

Various statutes of limitation have been held to apply to quiet title actions: Code Civ. Proc. § 318 has been applied when the action is essentially one to recover real property or possession of real property; the four-year limitation of Code Civ. Proc. § 434 has been applied when the action was to cancel a deed; and Code Civ. Proc. § 338(d) has been held applicable to an action for cancellation and recovery of real property on the theory that the gravamen of the action was considered fraud [Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 212, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12] . The current view is that it is ordinarily necessary to refer to the underlying theory of relief to determine which statute applies [Muktarian v. Barmby (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 558, 560, 47 Cal. Rptr. 483, 407 P.2d 659 ; Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 214, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12] . When the right to quiet title depends on the right to cancellation, as in this form, the court will look to the basis of the right to cancellation to determine the appropriate statute of limitations [Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 211-216, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12] . For example, if the gravamen of the action is fraud, the three-year provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 338(d) applies, even if the relief prayed for is cancellation and the recovery of real property [Turner v. Milstein (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 651, 659, 230 P.2d 25] . If the right to cancellation depends on the right to rescind the underlying contract, the action must be brought promptly after discovery of the facts that entitle the plaintiff to rescind [Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 215, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12 ; see Civ. Code § 1691].

If the party seeking to quiet title is in possession of the land, it is unnecessary to determine which statute would otherwise apply, because no statute of limitations runs against a party seeking to quiet title while the party is in possession of the property [Muktarian v. Barmby (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 558, 561, 47 Cal. Rptr. 483, 407 P.2d 659] . However, the one-year period of limitation on an action to set aside a deed to any taxing agency by reason of a tax delinquency [Rev. & Tax. Code § 175] applies even if the plaintiff is in possession [Sears v. County of Calaveras (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 518, 521, 522, 289 P.2d 425] . Additionally, the doctrine of laches may still bar the action to quiet title if the plaintiff's delay in bringing the action has prejudiced the adverse claimant [Muktarian v. Barmby (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 558, 561, 47 Cal. Rptr. 483, 407 P.2d 659] .

For the foregoing reasons, it may be necessary to insert additional allegations to establish that the action is not barred. For instance, it may be necessary to allege when the plaintiff discovered a particular fraud or mistake or other facts to show that the plaintiff acted soon after discovering the problem.

[5] Verification

The complaint must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020].

[6] Jurisdiction and Venue

Because only the superior court has jurisdiction in quiet title actions [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.040(a)], a combined action to cancel a deed and quiet title must be brought in superior court. The action is not a limited civil case [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86, 580(b)(3)]. Jurisdiction over actions for cancellation is discussed in Ch. 107, Cancellation of Instruments . Subject to the power of the court to transfer actions, the superior court in the county where the real property, or some part of it, is situated is the proper court for the trial of an action to cancel a deed and to quiet title to real property [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 392(a), 760.050(a)]. When title or right to possession is to be tried, or permanent injunctive relief is sought, the case will be classified as an unlimited civil case [see Code Civ. Proc. § 88].

[7] Service of Summons

The form, content, and manner of the service of summons in quiet title actions is the same as in civil actions generally [Code Civ. Proc. § 763.010(a)]. If unknown defendants are named, there must also be service by publication and posting [Code Civ. Proc. § 763.010(b)]. The requirements for service by publication and posting are discussed in Ch. 482, Quieting Title . The procedure for service of summons is set forth in Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

[8] Lis Pendens

Immediately on the commencement of a quiet title action, which occurs by filing the complaint, the plaintiff must file a lis pendens in the office of the county recorder of each county in which any real property described in the complaint is located [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.010(a)]. The lis pendens gives constructive notice of the pendency of the action to subsequent purchasers or encumbrancers [Code Civ. Proc. § 405.24]. For forms of lis pendens, see Ch. 348, Lis Pendens .

[9] Cross References

For a discussion and forms relating to amendment of pleadings for use when an unknown defendant is sued by a fictitious name, see Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings

For a discussion and procedures for use in an action for cancellation of a written instrument, and for forms of allegations for use in such an action where the rescission of the underlying transaction is sought or where facts are discovered making the deed voidable, as well as of a form of judgment for cancellation of a deed, see Ch. 107, Cancellation of Instruments

For a discussion and alternative forms of captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions

For a discussion of and forms for use in seeking injunctive relief in connection with an action for cancellation of a deed, see Ch. 303, Injunctions

For a discussion and procedures for use in actions to quiet title, and for forms of complaints for use in actions to quiet title to tax-deeded property and to quiet title against the United States and of an answer and judgment for use in quiet title actions, see Ch. 482, Quieting Title

[10] Decisions

[a] Jurisdiction

Actions to try title to real property are within jurisdiction of superior court. Martin v. Pacific S.W. Royalties (1940) 41 Cal. App. 2d 161, 167, 106 P.2d 443

[b] Quieting Title

General rule that fraud must be specifically pleaded applies to quiet title actions. Moss Estate Co. v. Adler (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 581, 584, 261 P.2d 732

[c] Statute of Limitations and Laches

No statute of limitations runs against party seeking to quiet title while party is in possession of property, although doctrine of laches may still bar action. Muktarian v. Barmby (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 558, 560, 561, 47 Cal. Rptr. 483, 407 P.2d 659

When right to quiet title depends on right to rescind, plaintiff must act promptly or is barred under Civ. Code § 1691. Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 214, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12

Plaintiff is required to prove seisin or possession pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 318 when action for reformation of deed is merely incidental to action to quiet title based on plaintiff's adverse possession. Safwenberg v. Marquez (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 301, 310, 311, 123 Cal. Rptr. 405

Action to cancel deed on ground of nondelivery is governed by four-year period of limitation provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 343. Estate of Pieper (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 670, 689, 37 Cal. Rptr. 46

Action to cancel deed is generally governed by four-year period of limitation provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 343. Zakaessian v. Zakaessian (1945) 70 Cal. App. 2d 721, 725, 161 P.2d 677

Action to cancel deed is governed by three-year period of limitation provided in former Code Civ. Proc. § 338(4) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 338(d)) when gravamen of action stated involves fraud or mistake. Zakaessian v. Zakaessian (1945) 70 Cal. App. 2d 721, 725, 161 P.2d 677 ; see Turner v. Milstein (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 651, 659, 230 P.2d 25

[d] Venue

Action is transitory and proper county for trial is county in which defendants, or some of them, reside when primary purpose of action is to cancel note and deed of trust securing it, and action to quiet title is merely incidental thereto. Nelson v. Crocker Nat'l Bank (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 536, 540, 541, 124 Cal. Rptr. 229 ; Vaughan v. Roberts (1941) 45 Cal. App. 2d 246, 253, 113 P.2d 884

County in which real property or some part of it is situated as proper county for trial of action for cancellation of recorded contract conveying timber and to quiet title to real property. Kejr v. Construction Engineers, Inc. (1952) 111 Cal. App. 2d 817, 819, 245 P.2d 21

Action for cancellation of deed as involving determination of right or interest of plaintiff in real property, and venue as therefore in county in which real property or part of it is situated. Stanley v. Barney (1932) 123 Cal. App. 139, 140-142, 10 P.2d 1022

[11] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 3, Actions, §§ 344-388, 459, 618 (4th ed. 1996); vol. 5, Pleading, §§ 613, 633 (4th ed. 1997)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.151

§ 184.151 Allegation--Grantor Incompetent to Execute Deed [Civ. Code § 39]

[1] FORM Allegation--Grantor Incompetent to Execute Deed [Civ. Code § 39]

At the time the deed was executed, _____ [name of grantor and designation, if any, e.g., plaintiff] was substantially unable to manage his or her own financial resources or resist fraud or undue influence and was otherwise of unsound mind.

[2] Use of Form

This form of allegation may be used to plead the invalidity of a deed due to the grantor's incapacity to execute it [see § 184.17]. The allegation in this form may be substituted for Paragraph 5 of § 184.150 or included in a separate count.

[3] State Statutes

Conveyance by person of unsound mind but not entirely without understanding is subject to rescission. Civ. Code § 39(a)

Rebuttable presumption affecting burden of proof that person is of unsound mind exists if person is substantially unable to manage his or her own financial resources or resist fraud or undue influence. Code Civ. Proc. § 39(b)

[4] Decisions

Deed by grantor without mental capacity to execute conveyance as subject to cancellation. Peterson v. Ellebrecht (1962) 205 Cal. App. 2d 718, 720, 721, 23 Cal. Rptr. 349

[5] Cross References

For a related form, see § 184.150.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.152

§ 184.152 Allegation--Deed Procured by Fraud [Civ. Code §§ 1571-1574]

[1] FORM Allegation--Deed Procured by Fraud [Civ. Code §§ 1571-1574]

1. On or about _____ [date], defendant falsely and fraudulently represented to plaintiff that _____ [allege in exact language or as close to exact language as possible the statements of material fact or legal effect of the deed claimed by plaintiff to be false, e.g., by executing the deed it would not be necessary to probate plaintiff's estate in order to make defendant the owner of the property in the event of plaintiff's death before the death of defendant; that notwithstanding the execution of the grant deed, plaintiff would remain the owner of the property; and that defendant would not cause the deed to be recorded prior to plaintiff's death].

2. The representations made by defendant were in fact false. The true facts were: _____ [specify].

3. When defendant made these representations he/she knew them to be false, and these representations were made by defendant with the intent to defraud and deceive plaintiff and with the intent to induce plaintiff to execute the deed _____ [described above or attached hereto as Exhibit A].

[4. _____ (Allege facts showing that defendant stood in a relation of trust and confidence to plaintiff or purported to have expert knowledge concerning the matter, e.g., Prior to and at the time the representations were made by defendant and the deed executed by plaintiff, defendant was plaintiff's wife and a practicing attorney, and plaintiff relied on defendant for business and legal advice).]

5. At the time these representations were made by defendant and at the time plaintiff executed the deed, plaintiff was ignorant of the falsity of defendant's representations and believed them to be true. In reliance on these representations, plaintiff was induced to and did execute the deed. Had plaintiff known the actual facts, he/she would not have executed the deed. Plaintiff's reliance on defendant's representations was justified because _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff had made no prior real estate transactions, was unfamiliar with the effect of a deed, had relied on defendant's expertise as an attorney, trusted defendant as plaintiff's wife and a knowledgeable attorney to truthfully advise plaintiff as to the effect of the deed, and believed that defendant would not cause the deed to be recorded prior to plaintiff's death].

6. As a result of these representations, plaintiff has been and continues to be wrongfully deprived of the real property purportedly conveyed by the deed.

[2] Use of Form

This form of allegation may be used to plead actual fraud in the form of an intentional misrepresentation of fact or of the legal effect of a deed as grounds for cancellation of a deed. The allegation in this form may be substituted for Paragraph 5 of § 184.150 or included in a separate count. When the misrepresentation involves the legal effect of the deed, the bracketed allegation regarding the parties' relation of trust and confidence or that the defendant purported to have expert knowledge concerning the matter should be included [see Steiner v. Steiner (1958) 160 Cal. App. 2d 665, 669, 670, 325 P.2d 109 ; cf. Seeger v. Odell (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 409, 414, 115 P.2d 977 (action to set aside mortgage foreclosure sale and rescind oil lease procured by fraud)].

For a discussion and forms of allegations of fraud involving negligent misrepresentation of fact, suppression of fact, or a promise made without intention to perform, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit . These forms may be adapted for use in alleging such alternate types of fraud as grounds for cancellation of a deed.

For a discussion and forms of allegations of constructive fraud, duress, menace, and mistake, see Ch. 215, Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake .

[3] Allegations

The form alleges: (1) the false representations made by the defendant (Paragraph 1); (2) the falsity of the statements and the true facts (Paragraph 2); (3) that defendant knew of the falsity of the representations (Paragraph 3); (4) that the misrepresentations were made with the intent to deceive and defraud plaintiff and to induce plaintiff to execute the deed (Paragraph 3) [cf. Vasquez v. Superior Court (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 800, 811, 94 Cal. Rptr. 796, 484 P.2d 964 (tort action for fraud)]; (5) that defendant stood in a relationship of trust and confidence to plaintiff or purported to have expert knowledge concerning the legal effect of the deed, to be included if misrepresentations as to the legal effect of the deed are involved (Paragraph 4) [see Steiner v. Steiner (1958) 160 Cal. App. 2d 665, 669, 670, 325 P.2d 109 ; cf. Seeger v. Odell (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 409, 414, 115 P.2d 977 (action to set aside mortgage foreclosure sale and rescind oil lease procured by fraud)]; (6) actual and justifiable reliance by plaintiff on the misrepresentations (Paragraph 5); and (7) that plaintiff has been wrongfully deprived of the real property as a result of defendant's misrepresentations (Paragraph 6) [cf. Seeger v. Odell (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 409, 414, 415, 417, 115 P.2d 977 (action to set aside mortgage foreclosure sale and rescind oil lease procured by fraud)].

For further discussion of the allegations necessary to plead fraud, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit .

[4] Strict Pleading Requirement

Facts and circumstances which constitute actual fraud must be set forth with particularity in order to enable the court to determine whether, on the facts pleaded, there is any foundation for the charge [La Vista Cemetery Ass'n v. American Sav. & L. Ass'n (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 365, 369, 90 Cal. Rptr. 722].

[5] Elements of Fraud

A deed secured by fraud is invalid and subject to cancellation [Steiner v. Steiner (1958) 160 Cal. App. 2d 665, 668, 669, 325 P.2d 109 ; see Civ. Code §§ 1040, 1565-1568, 1571, 1572]. Actual fraud consists of any of the following acts, committed by a party to the deed, or with such party's connivance, with intent to deceive another party or to induce the party to make the deed: (1) the suggestion, as a fact, of that which is not true, by one who does not believe it to be true;

(2) the positive assertion, in a manner not warranted by the information of the person making it, of that which is not true, though the person believes it to be true; (3) the suppression of that which is true, by one having knowledge or belief of the fact; (4) a promise made without any intention of performing it; or (5) any other act fitted to deceive [see Civ. Code §§ 1040, 1572].

The elements of actual fraud are: (1) a false representation or concealment of a material fact (or, in some cases, an opinion) susceptible of knowledge, (2) made with knowledge of its falsity or without sufficient knowledge on the subject to warrant a representation, (3) with the intent to induce the person to whom it is made to act on it; and such person must (4) act in reliance upon the representation (5) to his or her damage [South Tahoe Gas Co. v. Hofmann Land Improvement Co. (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 750, 765, 102 Cal. Rptr. 286] .

For further discussion, procedures, and forms for use in actions involving fraud in the sale of land, and for a form for use in alleging a reason for failure to discover fraud before the running of the period of limitation, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit .

[6] State Statutes

Essential elements of consent to contract. Civ. Code § 1565

Contract entered into without free consent as voidable. Civ. Code § 1566

Apparent consent as not free when obtained through fraud. Civ. Code § 1567

When consent deemed to have been obtained through fraud. Civ. Code § 1568

Types of fraud. Civ. Code § 1571

Actual fraud. Civ. Code § 1572

Constructive fraud. Civ. Code § 1573

Actual fraud as question of fact. Civ. Code § 1574

[7] Decisions

[a] Allegations

Allegation that plaintiff has been wrongfully deprived of certain property by misrepresentation without details of extent to which plaintiff has been damaged as sufficient allegation of damages in action for rescission based on fraud. Seeger v. Odell (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 409, 417, 115 P.2d 977

Facts and circumstances which constitute actual fraud as required to be set forth with particularity in order to enable court to determine whether, on facts pleaded, there is any foundation for charge. La Vista Cemetery Assn. v. American Sav. & L. Ass'n (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 365, 369, 90 Cal. Rptr. 722

[b] Cancellation for Fraudulent Inducement

Person who has been induced by fraudulent misrepresentations to make a conveyance as able to have conveyance set aside and secure restitution of benefits lost by transaction. Seeger v. Odell (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 409, 414, 115 P.2d 977

Deed secured by fraud as invalid and subject to cancellation. Steiner v. Steiner (1958) 160 Cal. App. 2d 665, 668, 669, 325 P.2d 109

Cancellation of deed as proper when a person standing in relation of trust and confidence to grantor obtains deed through false representations as to legal effect of deed. Steiner v. Steiner (1958) 160 Cal. App. 2d 665, 669, 670, 325 P.2d 109

[c] Elements of Fraud

Elements of actual fraud. Vasquez v. Superior Court (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 800, 811, 94 Cal. Rptr. 796, 484 P.2d 964 ; South Tahoe Gas Co. v. Hofmann Land Improvement Co. (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 750, 765, 102 Cal. Rptr. 286

Plaintiff as not able to justifiably rely on mere statements of opinion, including legal conclusions drawn from true statement of facts, unless person expressing opinion purports to have expert knowledge concerning matter or occupies position of confidence and trust. Seeger v. Odell (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 409, 414, 115 P.2d 977

[d] Quieting Title

Grantor may have his or her title quieted against interest obtained by a fraudulent misrepresentation of extent of grantor's ownership. Jay v. Dollarhide (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 1001, 1029, 84 Cal. Rptr. 538

[8] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 3, Pleading, §§ 667-689 (4th ed. 1997)

[9] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 184.150 and 184.153.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.153

§ 184.153 Allegation--Deed Procured by Undue Influence--Confidential Relationship [Civ. Code § 1575(1)]

[1] FORM Allegation--Deed Procured by Undue Influence--Confidential Relationship [Civ. Code § 1575(1)]

1. Defendant occupied the position of _____ [describe confidential relationship, e.g., friend and business adviser] to _____ [name or designation of grantor, e.g., plaintiff] for a period of approximately _____ [specify number of months or years] before, up to, and including the time the deed was executed.

2. During this period and at the time the deed was executed, _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff] reposed great trust and confidence in defendant and defendant exercised a controlling influence over the mind and actions of _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff].

3. Taking advantage of this trust, confidence, and influence, defendant [had the deed prepared for _____ (specify, e.g., plaintiff's) signature, and] induced and persuaded _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff] to execute the deed conveying his/her property to defendant. _____ [specify, e.g., Plaintiff] would not have executed the deed had defendant not taken advantage of the trust and confidence reposed in him/her by _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff], and had defendant not induced and persuaded _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff] to execute the deed.

[4. Defendant gave and _____ (specify, e.g., plaintiff) received no consideration for the deed.]

[2] Use of Form

This form of allegation may be used to plead the invalidity of a deed on the ground that it was procured by the exercise of undue influence by a grantee who had a confidential relationship with the grantor. The allegation in this form may be substituted for Paragraph 5 of § 184.150 or included in a separate count.

For a discussion and form for use in actions involving undue influence consisting of taking an unfair advantage of another's weakness of mind, see Ch. 215, Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake .

[3] Confidential Relationship

[a] Existence Of

While the mere fact that a relationship is friendly and intimate does not necessarily amount to a confidential relationship, a confidential relationship may be said to exist whenever trust and confidence is reposed by one person in the integrity and fidelity of another. The existence of a confidential relationship is a question of fact that must be determined on a case by case basis [O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 147, 153, 119 Cal. Rptr. 245] .

[b] Trustee-Beneficiary Transactions

A transaction between the trustee and a beneficiary that occurs during the existence of the trust or while the trustee's influence with the beneficiary remains and by which the trustee obtains an advantage from the beneficiary is presumed to be a violation of the trustee's fiduciary duties, unless the transaction relates to the hiring or compensation of the trustee [Prob. Code § 16004(c); but see Prob. Code § 16015 (compensated services provided by regulated financial institution or its affiliates not violation)]. The presumption affects the burden of proof [Prob. Code § 16004(c)]. Whether decisional law interpreting the predecessor statute has relevance to Prob. Code § 16004(c) is unclear [see former Civ. Code § 2235 (presumption of undue influence); see, e.g., Rebmann v. Major (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 684, 688, 85 Cal. Rptr. 399 (trustee has burden of proof as to nonexistence of presumed undue influence)].

[4] Undue Influence

Undue influence consists of the following: (1) the use, by one in whom a confidence is reposed by another or who holds a real or apparent authority over another, of this confidence or authority for the purpose of obtaining an unfair advantage over the other person; (2) taking an unfair advantage of another's weakness of mind; or (3) taking a grossly oppressive and unfair advantage of another's necessities or distress [Civ. Code § 1575].

For the purposes of applying this presumption, everyone who voluntarily assumes a relation of personal confidence with another is deemed a trustee, not only as to the person who reposes this confidence, but also as to all persons of whose affairs the trustee thus acquires information that was given to the trustee in like confidence or over whose affairs the trustee, by this confidence, obtains any control [Civ. Code § 2219; Connor v. Stanley (1887) 72 Cal. 556, 559, 14 P. 306] . Accordingly, the presumption of undue influence applies to relationships such as attorney-client [Rebmann v. Major (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 684, 688, 85 Cal. Rptr. 399] , agent-principal, broker-client [Smith v. Zak (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 785, 792, 793, 98 Cal. Rptr. 242 ; see Civ. Code § 2322(c)], parent-minor child [Morgan v. Morgan (1963) 220 Cal. App. 2d 665, 679, 680, 34 Cal. Rptr. 82] , guardian-ward [Alvez v. Toprahanian (1940) 39 Cal. App. 2d 126, 132, 102 P.2d 566 ; see Prob. Code § 2351], and spiritualist-advisee [Connor v. Stanley (1887) 72 Cal. 556, 559, 14 P. 306] .

When a confidential relationship exists between the parties to a deed, and the one in whom confidence is reposed actively participates in a transaction whereby he or she obtains a gift from, or advantage over, the other, a presumption of undue influence arises and casts on the party who has gained the gift or advantage the burden of rebutting it and showing fairness and good faith [Krug v. Meeham (1952) 109 Cal. App. 2d 274, 278, 279, 240 P.2d 732]. If the grantee fails to meet this burden, the presumption will support a finding of undue influence [O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 147, 154, 155, 119 Cal. Rptr. 245 ; Sparks v. Mendoza (1948) 83 Cal. App. 2d 511, 514, 189 P.2d 43] .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.154

§ 184.154 Allegation--Deed Procured by Mistake of Fact [Civ. Code § 1577]

[1] FORM Allegation--Deed Procured by Mistake of Fact [Civ. Code § 1577]

1. At the time the deed was executed [and physically delivered] by _____ [grantor's name and designation, if any, e.g., plaintiff], he/she believed that _____ [specify material mistake of fact, e.g., he/she was signing formal instruments required to close escrow].

2. The true fact was that _____ [state fact about which grantor was mistaken, e.g., plaintiff was signing a deed conveying the property to defendant].

3. _____ [Allege facts showing that mistake of fact was not caused by the neglect of a legal duty on part of party making mistake, e.g., At the time the deed was executed, defendant was acting as plaintiff's broker with regard to the sale of the property purportedly conveyed by the deed to defendant. Plaintiff had had previous dealings with defendant and reposed great trust and confidence in him/her. Plaintiff executed the deed and gave it to defendant in reliance on defendant's false representations that it was merely a formal document required to close escrow, that plaintiff need not read it, and that defendant would protect plaintiff's interests].

4. _____ [Specify grantor, e.g., Plaintiff] would not have executed [and physically delivered] the deed had he/she not believed the facts to be as stated in Paragraph 1.

[2] Use of Form

This form of allegation may be used to plead the invalidity of a deed on the ground that it was executed or delivered under a mistake of fact vitiating consent. The allegation in this form may be substituted for Paragraph 5 of § 184.150 or included in a separate count.

For a form that may be adapted for use when a party is unconsciously ignorant or forgetful of a past or present fact that is material to the deed, see Ch. 215, Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake .

[3] Mistake

[a] In General

Because a deed's validity depends in part on the grantor's intent to make a present transfer, a deed is subject to cancellation when it would not have been executed or delivered had the grantor not been acting under a mistake of law or fact vitiating consent [see Civ. Code §§ 1040, 1565-1568, 1576; Hotaling v. Hotaling (1924) 193 Cal. 368, 382, 224 P. 455 ; Taylor v. Taylor (1944) 66 Cal. App. 2d 390, 398, 152 P.2d 480 ; see §§ 184.21, 184.22.

A mistake of fact vitiating consent is one that is not caused by the neglect of a legal duty on the part of the person making the mistake, and consists of: (1) an unconscious ignorance or forgetfulness of a past or present fact that is material to the deed; or (2) a belief in the present existence of a thing material to the deed which does not exist, or in the past existence of a thing that has not existed [Civ. Code § 1577]. A mistake of foreign laws is also a mistake of fact [Civ. Code § 1579].

[b] Materiality

The mistake must affect the execution and a material element of the transaction, not merely some collateral matter [Civ. Code § 1577; cf. Bellwood Discount Corp. v. Empire Steel Buildings Co. (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 432, 435, 346 P.2d 467 (action to rescind building contract)]. It must be shown that consent to the deed would not have been given had the mistake not existed [Civ. Code § 1568].

[c] Neglect of Legal Duty

Ordinary negligence does not constitute the neglect of legal duty as that term is used in Civ. Code § 1577 [Goldner v. Jaffe (1959) 171 Cal. App. 2d 751, 755, 341 P.2d 354] . However, neglect of a legal duty may be found when the mistake is caused by a party's gross negligence [see White v. Berrenda Mesa Water Dist. (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 894, 903-904, 87 Cal. Rptr. 338] . For example, neglect of legal duty will be found when, in the absence of fraud and imposition, a person with the capacity of reading and understanding an instrument signs it without reading it [see Goldner v. Jaffe (1959) 171 Cal. App. 2d 751, 755, 341 P.2d 354] .

[4] State Statutes

Mistake may be of fact or law. Civ. Code § 1576

Mistake of fact defined. Civ. Code § 1577

Mistake of law defined. Civ. Code § 1578

Mistake of foreign law is mistake of fact. Civ. Code § 1579

[5] Decisions

[a] Cancellation for Mistake

Deed is subject to cancellation when grantor signs it without reading it in reliance on false representations as to its contents and confidential relation exists between parties. Kane v. Mendenhall (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 749, 758, 56 P.2d 498

Mistake in opinion or conclusion concerning an uncertain future occurrence is no ground for cancellation. Taylor v.

Taylor (1944) 66 Cal. App. 2d 390, 397, 152 P.2d 480

Mutual mistake or mistake attended by fraud of adversary party is basis for cancellation. Taylor v. Taylor (1944) 66 Cal. App. 2d 390, 398, 152 P.2d 480

[b] Neglect of Legal Duty

Person with capacity of reading and understanding instrument is bound by its contents when, in absence of fraud and imposition, person signs instrument. Goldner v. Jaffe (1959) 171 Cal. App. 2d 751, 755, 341 P.2d 354

Complainant is denied relief in equity if only showing is his or her own inexcusable neglect or if complainant has failed to make inquiry or had within his or her reach true statement of facts. Taylor v. Taylor (1944) 66 Cal. App. 2d 390, 398, 152 P.2d 480

[c] Quieting Title

Grantor may have his or her title quieted against interest obtained due to mutual mistake of law and fact. Jay v. Dollarhide (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 1001, 1029, 84 Cal. Rptr. 538

Defendant is entitled to have title to disputed strip of land quieted in him or her without first adjudging that deed be reformed when, due to mutual mistake of parties, deed did not include entire block. Mings v. Compton City School Dist. (1933) 129 Cal. App. 413, 419, 18 P.2d 967

[6] Cross References

For a related form, see § 184.150.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.155

§ 184.155 Allegation--Deed Procured by Mistake of Law [Civ. Code § 1578]

[1] FORM Allegation--Deed Procured by Mistake of Law [Civ. Code § 1578]

1. At the time the deed was executed [and physically delivered] by _____ [grantor's name and designation, if any, e.g., plaintiff], he/she believed that _____ [specify material mistake of law, e.g., the deed would not have any effect as a conveyance until plaintiff's signature was acknowledged].

[EITHER]

2. At that time, all parties to the deed supposed that they knew and understood the law as to _____ [specify nature of law about which parties were mistaken, e.g., the effect of the lack of acknowledgment of plaintiff's signature on the validity and effect of a deed], and they all believed the law to be substantially as stated in Paragraph 1.

[OR]

2. At that time, the defendant was aware of _____ [specify grantor, e.g., plaintiff's] mistake as to _____ [specify nature of law about which party was mistaken, e.g., the necessity of acknowledgment of plaintiff's signature to the validity and effect of the deed], but did not rectify the mistake.

3. _____ [Specify grantor, e.g., Plaintiff] would not have executed [and physically delivered] the deed had he/she not believed and understood the law to be as stated in Paragraph 1.

[2] Use of Form

This form contains an allegation that may be substituted for Paragraph 5 of § 184.150 or included in a separate count to plead the invalidity of a deed on the ground that it was executed or delivered under a mistake of law vitiating consent.

A mistake of law constitutes a mistake vitiating consent only when it arises from (1) a misapprehension of the law by all parties, all supposing that they knew and understood it, and all making substantially the same mistake as to the law; or (2) a misapprehension of the law by one party, of which the others are aware at the time of execution, but which they do not rectify [Civ. Code § 1578].

[3] State Statutes

Mistake of law defined. Civ. Code § 1578

[4] Decisions

Deed is voidable when grantee was aware of grantor's mistake of law and takes advantage of it to procure beneficial conveyance. Hotaling v. Hotaling (1924) 193 Cal. 368, 384, 224 P. 455

Deed is invalid and subject to cancellation when grantor signed and manually delivered deed to grantee under mistaken belief, shared by all parties, that deed would be of no effect whatever until recorded. Hotaling v. Hotaling (1924) 193 Cal. 368, 382, 224 P. 455

[5] Cross References

For a related form, see § 184.154.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.156

§ 184.156 Allegation--No Valid Delivery [Civ. Code § 1054]--No Intent to Deliver--Attempted Testamentary Disposition

[1] FORM Allegation--No Valid Delivery [Civ. Code § 1054]--No Intent to Deliver--Attempted Testamentary Disposition

1. When the deed [described above or attached as Exhibit A] was signed by _____ [name or designation of grantor, e.g., plaintiff] on _____ [date], it was his/her intention that the deed would have no effect [and would not be physically delivered to the grantee(s) named in the deed] [until after _____ (specify event on which deed was to become operative or be delivered, e.g., plaintiff's death)].

[2. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff told defendant that he/she intended to execute the deed for testamentary purposes on condition that the deed would not be recorded until after plaintiff's death, and that plaintiff would continue to own the property (and _____ (specify acts of dominion, e.g., live on the property)) as long as plaintiff lived.]

[2] Use of Form

This form contains an allegation that may be used to plead invalidity of a deed due to the grantor's lack of intent to make a present transfer and, if applicable, to physically deliver the deed [see § 184.22]. The allegation in this form may be substituted for Paragraph 5 of § 184.150 or included in a separate count.

[3] State Statutes

Deed takes effect on delivery by grantor. Civ. Code § 1054

[4] Decisions

Manual delivery of deed to grantee with intent that it become operative only on grantor's death constitutes attempted testamentary disposition and void. Meyer v. Wall (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 24, 27, 75 Cal. Rptr. 236

[5] Cross References

For a related form, see § 184.150.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.157

§ 184.157 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Declaration of Rights Under Deed [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--General Form

[1] FORM Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Declaration of Rights Under Deed [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]--General Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY RELIEF
Defendant.	)
	)
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. Capacity and residence of plaintiff, if appropriate. See § 184.150, Paragraph 1.]

[2. Capacity and residence of defendant, if appropriate. See § 184.150, Paragraph 2.]

[3. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 184.150, Paragraph 3.]

4. On _____ [date], _____ [grantor's name or designation, if a party, e.g., defendant] executed and delivered a deed to plaintiff. [The deed was recorded on _____ [date], in Volume _____ of Deeds at page _____ in the office of the County Recorder of _____ County.] A copy of the deed is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

[5. _____ (If grantor is deceased, allege that defendant is the successor in interest, e.g., Defendant is the heir at law and successor in interest to _____ (specify grantor)).]

6. An actual controversy has arisen and now exists between plaintiff and defendant concerning their respective rights and duties under the deed in that plaintiff contends that the provision _____ [set forth the provision in the deed requiring judicial interpretation and plaintiff's contentions regarding its interpretation, e.g., "... subject however to the right of first party to purchase the land herein described, if it is abandoned for school purposes, for the consideration herein mentioned" created a right personal only to grantor that terminated on his/her death, whereas defendant disputes these contentions and contends that _____ [set forth defendant's contentions regarding its interpretation, e.g., the provision is valid and will be enforceable if plaintiff abandons use of the property for school purposes, as plaintiff plans to do].

7. Plaintiff requests a judicial determination of his/her rights and duties under the deed, and a declaration as to _____ [state type of declaration desired, e.g., which party's interpretation of the deed is correct].

8. Such a declaration is necessary and appropriate at this time so that plaintiff may ascertain his/her rights and duties under the deed. [_____ (Allege any financial or other burden that is being caused plaintiff by the unsettled state of affairs and, if appropriate, the fact that administrative remedies have been exhausted).]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For a declaration by the court of the rights and duties of the parties to this action under the above-described deed, and specifically for a declaration that _____ [specify declaratory judgment sought, e.g., the provision in the deed described above created a right personal only to the grantor that terminated on his/her death or, in the alternative, that the provision was void at its inception];

2. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 184.150.]

[2] Use of Form

This form may be used to obtain a declaration of the rights and duties of the parties under a deed in which the plaintiff was designated the grantee when the deed's interpretation is at issue. The form may also be adapted for use when the deed's validity is questioned, by altering Paragraphs 6 and 7 accordingly.

Before amendments that became operative January 1, 1995, Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 expressly permitted, among others, any person interested under "a deed, will, or other written instrument, or under a contract ... " to seek declaratory relief under the statute [see former Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]. As of January 1, 1995, the reference to "deed" has been omitted. However, the statute still permits a person interested under a " written instrument, excluding a will or trust, or under a contract. ... " to seek a declaration of rights [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 (emphasis added)]. The intent of this amendment is unclear. Because deeds are a form of written instrument and are not specifically excluded from consideration, seeking a declaration of rights regarding a deed would still appear to be permitted under the statute, though this remains subject to further statutory or judicial clarification.

For discussion and forms for use in an action for declaratory relief to be relieved from restrictive covenants in a deed, see §§ 184.62, 184.195.

[3] Jurisdiction

An action for declaratory relief is within the jurisdiction of the superior court and is not a limited civil case [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. § 1060; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(7), 580(b)(4)]. When title or right to possession is to be tried, or permanent injunctive relief is sought, the case will be classified as an unlimited civil case [see Code Civ. Proc. § 88].

[4] Allegations

A complaint for declaratory relief is sufficient if it sets forth facts showing the existence of a controversy relating to the legal rights and duties of the parties under a written instrument and requests that those rights and duties be adjudicated [Taschner v. City Council (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 48, 57, 107 Cal. Rptr. 214 (municipal ordinance), disapproved on other grounds in Assoc. Home Builders of the Greater East Bay v. City of Livermore (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 582, 593, 135 Cal. Rptr. 41, 557 P.2d 473 ; Strozier v. Williams (1960) 187 Cal. App. 2d 528, 531, 532, 9 Cal. Rptr. 683 (deed)]. Accordingly, the complaint alleges the following:

- The execution and delivery of a deed to plaintiff by defendant or defendant's predecessor in interest (Paragraphs 4, 5).

- The provision in the deed requiring judicial interpretation and the existence of an actual, present controversy between the parties as to its proper interpretation (Paragraph 6).

- A request that the rights and duties of the parties be adjudicated (Paragraph 7).

- A statement that declaratory relief is necessary and appropriate at this time, supported by allegations of any financial or other burden that is being caused plaintiff by the fact that he or she does not know his or her legal rights and duties under the deed (Paragraph 8).

For a complete discussion of the allegations required to state a cause of action for declaratory relief, see Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief .

[5] Venue

When the plaintiff does not seek to recover possession of, to quiet the title to, or to enforce a lien on realty, but merely seeks a declaration of rights in the property between the parties to the action, the decree does not operate directly on the property or affect the title. Therefore, the action is transitory and need not be brought in the county in which the property is situated [Mills v. Mills (1956) 147 Cal. App. 2d 107, 118, 305 P.2d 61 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 392; see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 393-395.5 (proper venue in transitory actions)].

[6] Cross References

For a related form, see § 184.150.

For a discussion, procedure, and forms relating generally to actions for declaratory relief, and for a form of judgment, see Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief

[7] State Statutes

Limited civil cases. Code Civ. Proc. § 86

Existence of statute relating to authority of court in limited civil case or unlimited civil case, does not, by itself, imply that same authority does or does not exist in other type of civil case. Code Civ. Proc. § 89

Action for declaration of rights and duties in premises, including determination of questions of construction and validity of written instrument. Code Civ. Proc. § 1060

Action for declaratory relief involving real property in which state has remainder or undivided fractional interest. Gov. Code § 956

[8] Decisions

An action for a declaration of rights of parties to out-of-state realty is transitory and properly maintainable in county where defendants reside. Mills v. Mills (1956) 147 Cal. App. 2d 107, 118, 305 P.2d 61

[9] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1997), Vol. 5, Pleading, §§ 805-836

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Transfer By Deed

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 184.158-184.169

[Reserved]

§§ 184.158[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
B. Covenants of Title

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.170

§ 184.170 Complaint for Damages for Breach of Implied Covenant Against Encumbrances [Civ. Code § 1113]--General Form

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages for Breach of Implied Covenant Against Encumbrances [Civ. Code § 1113]--General Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES FOR BREACH OF
_____ [name],	)	IMPLIED COVENANT AGAINST ENCUM-
[; and DOES I through _____,]	)	BRANCES
Defendant.	)	[Amount demanded _____
	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. Capacity and residence of plaintiff, if appropriate. See § 184.150, Paragraph 1.]

[2. Capacity and residence of defendant, if appropriate. See § 184.150, Paragraph 2.]

[3. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 184.150, Paragraph 3.]

4. On _____ [date], in consideration of the sum of $_____ paid to defendant, defendant executed and delivered a grant deed conveying to plaintiff a _____ [specify interest conveyed, e.g., fee simple title] in real property in _____ County, California, more particularly described as follows: _____ [set forth legal description of property]. A copy of the deed is attached to this complaint as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

5. Pursuant to Civil Code Section 1113, defendant covenanted that the estate granted was at the time of execution of the deed free from any encumbrance done, made, or suffered by defendant, or any person claiming under him/her.

6. All relevant conditions precedent to _____ [occur and/or be performed by plaintiff] under the deed have _____ [occurred and/or been performed].

7. At the time of execution of the deed, the property was [, and continues to be,] subject to _____ [specify outstanding encumbrance, e.g., a county tax duly assessed and levied on the property by the Assessor for the County of _____, California, for the fiscal year _____ [specify]. The tax due and unpaid at the time of execution of the deed was the sum of $_____, including penalties and costs].

[EITHER]

8. On _____ [date], in order to extinguish the _____ [principal and/or interest] on the above encumbrance, plaintiff paid to _____ [name or authority, e.g., the Office of the Assessor for the County of _____, California,] the sum of $_____.

[OR]

8. As a result of the existence of the above encumbrance and of defendant's breach of his/her covenant against encumbrances, the fair market value of the property conveyed to plaintiff has been reduced by the sum of $_____.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For damages [in the sum of $_____];

2. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 184.150.]

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use by a grantee to recover damages from his or her grantor for breach of an implied covenant against encumbrances.

[3] Allegations

An action for breach of covenant is essentially an action on a contract [Barrows v. Jackson (1952) 112 Cal. App. 2d 534, 538, 247 P.2d 99 (racial restrictive covenant)]. Accordingly, this complaint alleges the following:

- Execution and delivery of the deed for consideration (Paragraph 4);
- The covenant against encumbrances implied pursuant to Civ. Code § 1113 (Paragraph 5);
- Performance or occurrence of conditions precedent to plaintiff's rights under the deed (Paragraph 6);
- The existence of an encumbrance at the time of execution of the deed, in breach of the implied covenant (Paragraph 7) [see Civ. Code § 1113]; and
- The sum expended by plaintiff in extinguishing either the principal, interest, or both, of the encumbrance, or alternatively, the sum by which the value of the property has been decreased by the existence of an encumbrance that cannot be extinguished by the payment of money (Paragraph 8) [see Civ. Code § 3305; Evans v. Faught (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 698, 712, 713, 42 Cal. Rptr. 133] .

[4] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude the defendant from using a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[5] Jurisdiction and Venue

The superior court has jurisdiction of the action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less, in which case it will be classified as a limited civil case [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86]. When title or right to possession is to be tried, or permanent injunctive relief is sought, the case will be classified as an unlimited civil case [see Code Civ. Proc. § 88].

In limited civil cases, the first page of the first paper must state that it is a limited civil case and whether the amount demanded exceeds or does not exceed $10,000 [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Gov. Code § 70613(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9), (10)].

An action for damages for breach of covenant is transitory, and venue generally lies in the county in which the defendants or some of them reside [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 394-395.5; Hannon v. Nuevo Land Co. (1910) 14 Cal. App. 700, 705, 112 P. 1103 ; cf. Platner v. Vincent (1921) 187 Cal. 443, 448, 449, 202 P. 655] .

[6] Limitations

An action for damages for breach of covenant must be brought within four years after the breach [Civ. Code § 337; cf. Lawrence Barker, Inc. v. Briggs (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 654, 661, 248 P.2d 897 (action for breach of covenant in lease)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
B. Covenants of Title

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 184.171-184.189

[Reserved]

§§ 184.171[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.190

§ 184.190 Complaint for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction, Permanent Injunction, and Damages to Enforce Equitable Servitudes Against Lot in Subdivision--Subdivider Inserted Use in Recorded CC&Rs

[1] FORM Complaint for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction, Permanent Injunction, and Damages to Enforce Equitable Servitudes Against Lot in Subdivision--Subdivider Inserted Use in Recorded CC&Rs

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	COMPLAINT FOR TEMPORARY RESTRAINING
[and DOES I through_____,]	)	ORDER, PRELIMINARY AND PERMANENT IN-Defendant(s).	)	JUNCTIONS[, AND DAMAGES]
	)	(Equitable Servitudes)
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. Capacity and residence of plaintiff, if appropriate. See § 184.150, Paragraph 1.]

[2. Capacity and residence of defendant, if appropriate. See § 184.150, Paragraph 2.]

3. Plaintiff is, and at all times herein mentioned was, _____ [specify plaintiff's interest in estate, e.g., the owner in fee simple] of a lot numbered _____ in that tract of land situated in _____ County, California, and known as _____ [name of subdivision]. Plaintiff's lot is known as _____ [street address], _____ [city], California, and is more particularly described as follows: _____ [legal description].

4. Defendant is the owner of, or claims some interest in, a lot numbered _____ in the tract of land described above, which lot is known as _____ [street address], _____ [city], California, and is more particularly described as follows: _____ [legal description].

[5. Defendants DOES I through _____, inclusive, are sued herein under fictitious names. Their true names and capacities are unknown to plaintiff. When their true names and capacities are ascertained, plaintiff will amend this complaint by inserting their true names and capacities herein. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of the fictitiously named defendants claims some right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the property described above and that each of them is responsible in some manner for the [threatened] wrongful conduct herein alleged.]

6. A Declaration of Restrictions for _____ [name of subdivision] was executed by _____ [name of original owner who had document prepared] on _____ date, and recorded in the office of the County Recorder of _____ County, on _____ date, in Book _____, page _____, a copy of which is attached to this complaint as Exhibit "_____" and made a part of this complaint. This recordation took place prior to the sale of any lots in the tract.

7. The Declaration of Restrictions established a common plan for the ownership of property in the tract described above and contains restrictions on the use of the property as a part of the common plan. It was recorded by the original owner[s] in order to induce the purchase of lots for _____ [state general contents of restrictions, e.g., one-story, single-family residences], and to maintain the tract as _____ [state general purpose of plan, e.g., a desirable residential district of single-family homes enjoying unobstructed views of the ocean]. In addition to setting forth restrictions on the use of the above tract as part of the common plan, the Declaration of Restrictions describes the tract and states that it is intended to bind all purchasers and their successors.

[8. The deed by which defendant obtained title or interest in the lot numbered _____ was executed by _____ (name of defendant's immediate predecessor in interest) on _____ (date), and referred to the recorded Declaration of Restrictions. The deed was recorded in the office of the County Recorder of _____ County, on _____ (date), in Book _____, page _____, a copy of which is attached to this complaint as Exhibit "_____" and made a part of this complaint.]

9. Defendant had constructive notice of the restrictions set forth in the Declaration of Restrictions, in that the Declaration of Restrictions was recorded prior to the sale of any of the lots in the tract [, and Defendant's deed referred to the Declaration of Restrictions, as stated in Paragraph 8].

10. Paragraph _____ of the Declaration of Restrictions _____ [reads or reads in part] as follows: _____ [set out verbatim those restrictions alleged to be violated].

11. Despite the existence of the restrictions described above, under which defendant acquired title or interest to his/her lot, defendant _____ [allege facts showing defendant is doing, threatening to do, or permitting to be done, activities in violation of tract restrictions, e.g., has partially constructed on his/her lot a building which will, unless its construction is enjoined by this Court, obstruct the view from plaintiff's lot toward _____ (specify direction or subject of view)].

12. Defendant's [threatened] wrongful conduct, unless and until enjoined and restrained by order of this court, will cause great and irreparable injury to plaintiff in that _____ [specify particular facts that will constitute great and irreparable injury, e.g., the view from plaintiff's lot will be substantially obstructed, greatly decreasing plaintiff's enjoyment of his/her property and the value thereof].

13. Plaintiff has no plain, speedy, or adequate remedy at law for the injuries _____ [currently being suffered or that are threatened] in that _____ [allege facts showing that plaintiff has no remedy at law, or that the remedy at law is inadequate, e.g., it will be impossible for plaintiff to determine the precise amount of damages that he/she will suffer if defendant's conduct is not restrained or plaintiff will be forced to institute a multiplicity of suits to obtain adequate compensation for his/her injuries].

[14. _____ (Allege facts establishing a basis for a claim for damages as additional relief, if any, e.g., From the commencement of defendant's construction through the date of this complaint, plaintiff has suffered annoyance, inconvenience, discomfort, and interference with his/her rightful use and enjoyment of his/her property, constituting damages in the sum of $_____).]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For an order requiring defendant to show cause, if any he/she has, why he/she should not be enjoined as set forth in this complaint, during the pendency of this action;

2. For a temporary restraining order, a preliminary injunction, and a permanent injunction, all enjoining defendant and his/her agents, servants, and employees, and all persons acting under, in concert with, or for them, from _____ [specify each of the acts defendant is to be prohibited from doing, commencing, or maintaining, e.g., erecting or constructing on lot numbered _____ any structure or addition that, when completed, will exceed in height the roof of a single-story residence];

[3. For damages in the sum of $_____;]

[4. For reasonable attorney's fees (in the amount of $_____ or according to proof);]

5. For costs of suit incurred in this action; and

6. For such other and further relief as the court deems proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[Verification. See § 184.150.]

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use by a lot owner to bring an action to enjoin another lot owner's violation of tract restrictions based on the theory of equitable servitudes. It may be used when the subdivider included the restrictions in a declaration and recorded it before the execution of a sales agreement for any land in the subdivision [see Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 355, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314] .

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges the following:

- Plaintiff's and defendant's ownership of lots in the same subdivided tract (Paragraphs 3, 4) [see Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 349, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314] .

- The ownership interest of fictitiously named defendants sued pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 474 (optional Paragraph 5).

- Recordation, prior to the execution of any contract of sale for land in the subdivision, of a declaration of restrictions that (1) establishes a common plan for the ownership of property in the subdivided tract, (2) contains restrictions on the use of the property as part of the common plan, (3) describes the property it is to govern, and (4) states that it is intended to bind all purchasers and their successors (Paragraphs 6, 7) [see Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 349, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314 ; Werner v. Graham (1919) 181 Cal. 174, 184, 183 P. 945] .

- The inclusion in defendant's deed of a reference to the recorded declaration of restrictions (optional Paragraph 8; this language is optional because a deed to a subdivided lot need not refer to the type of recorded declaration described above) [see Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 349, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314] .

- Defendant's constructive notice of the restrictions (Paragraph 9) [see Citizens for Covenant Compliance v. Anderson (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 345, 349, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 898, 906 P.2d 1314] .

- Defendant's violation of the restrictions (Paragraphs 10, 11) [see Morgan v. Veach (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 682, 691, 139 P.2d 976] .

- A basis for preliminary and permanent injunctive relief to enjoin defendant's continuing violation, as well as a basis for damages, if appropriate (Paragraphs 12, 13) [Civ. Code § 4322; Code Civ. Proc. § 526(a)(2), (4); see Knox v. Streatfield (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 565, 569, 145 Cal. Rptr. 39 ; see generally Ch. 303, Injunctions].

- Facts establishing a basis for a claim for damages, if any (Paragraph 14) [see Mock v. Shulman (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 263, 269-270, 38 Cal. Rptr. 39] .

[4] Verification

Verification [Code Civ. Proc. § 446] is required if the plaintiff seeks a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction on a complaint instead of on an affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. Otherwise, verification is not required, but verification of the complaint requires the defendant to file a verified answer in an action other than a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446] and precludes a general denial in superior court and some limited civil cases [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[5] Jurisdiction

An action seeking permanent injunctive relief is in the jurisdiction of the superior court and is not a limited civil action [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86]. When title or right to possession is to be tried, or permanent injunctive relief is sought, the case will be classified as an unlimited civil case [see Code Civ. Proc. § 88].

[6] Venue

The benefit of a restrictive covenant running with the land is an estate in the land [Redevelopment Agency v. Tobriner (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 367, 374-375, 200 Cal. Rptr. 364 ; Southern Cal. Edison Co. v. Bourgerie (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 169, 171, 107 Cal. Rptr. 76, 507 P.2d 964] . An action for the determination of a right or interest in real property, or for injury to real property, is local and must be tried in the superior court in the county in which the real property is situated [Code Civ. Proc. § 392(a)(1)]. For a discussion of local and transitory actions, see Ch. 571, Venue .

[7] Statute of Limitations

An action for violation of a "restriction" (as defined in Civ. Code § 784) must be commenced within five years. This limitations period does not bar commencement of an action for violation of a restriction before January 1, 2001, and, until that date, any other applicable statutory or common law limitation will continue to apply to the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 336(b)]. For further discussion of this limitations period, see § 184.68.

Under a statutory limitation applicable to actions commenced before January 1, 2001, an action for damages for breach of a written covenant must be brought within four years after the breach [Code Civ. Proc. § 337(1) (written contracts)]. Any action for relief not provided for in the Code of Civil Procedure, such as equitable enforcement of a covenant, must be commenced within four years after the cause of action has accrued [Code Civ. Proc. § 343].

[8] Class Action

Plaintiff, as sole representative or together with other owners of lots in the tract, may be able to maintain the action as a class action on behalf of all other property owners in the tract who are benefited by the restrictions plaintiff seeks to enforce [Code Civ. Proc. § 382; see Horton v. Citizens Nat. etc. Bank (1948) 86 Cal. App. 2d 680, 681, 685, 195 P.2d 494] . Similarly, when the class of owners violating the restrictions is sufficiently numerous, defendants may also be sued individually or as representatives of a class. For the requirements of an ascertainable class and common questions, see § 184.67[2]. For discussion and forms relating to class actions in general, see Ch. 120, Class Actions .

[9] Damages

Damages may be recovered in an action to enjoin the violation of tract restrictions if plaintiff proves that there has been past interference with plaintiff's rightful use and enjoyment of his or her property [Mock v. Shulman (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 263, 269-270, 38 Cal. Rptr. 39] . For discussion of general principles of interference with a property right, see Ch. 391, Nuisance .

[10] Cross References

For a discussion, procedure, and forms relating generally to actions for injunctive relief, see Ch. 303, Injunctions

[11] California Points and Authorities

For points and authorities in support of an application for a temporary restraining order and a preliminary injunction to enforce a restrictive covenant, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 116, Injunctions (Matthew Bender)

[12] California Real Estate Law and Practice

For a discussion of covenants, conditions, and restrictions relating to subdivisions, see California Real Estate Law & Practice, Ch. 470, Subdivisions (Matthew Bender)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.191

§ 184.191 Allegation--Grantor and Grantee Created Statutory Covenant Restricting Use of Grantee's or Grantor's Property [Civ. Code § 1468]

[1] FORM Allegation--Grantor and Grantee Created Statutory Covenant Restricting Use of Grantee's or Grantor's Property [Civ. Code § 1468]

[EITHER, if the restrictions burden the grantee's land]

[1. On or about _____ [date on or after November 11, 1969] [the predecessors in title of] plaintiff [grantor whose land was or is benefited by the restrictive covenant] and [the predecessors in title of] defendant, in consideration of the mutual benefit to themselves and to their respective properties, executed _____ [name of agreement, e.g., an "Agreement Imposing Restrictions"]. The Agreement was recorded in the office of the County Recorder of _____ County, on _____ [date], in Book _____, page _____, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit "_____" and made a part hereof.]

[OR, if the restrictions burden the grantor's land]

[1. On or about _____ [date on or after November 14, 1968] [the predecessors in title of] plaintiff [grantee whose land was or is benefited by the restrictive covenant] and [the predecessors in title of] defendant, in consideration of the mutual benefit to themselves and to their respective properties, executed _____ [name of agreement, e.g., an "Agreement Imposing Restrictions"]. The Agreement was recorded in the office of the County Recorder of _____ County, on _____ [date], in Book _____, page _____, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit "_____" and made a part hereof.]

2. The Agreement particularly described the real property of [the predecessors in title of] defendant, which was to be burdened by the restrictions, as follows: _____ [legal description as it appears in agreement].

3. By the terms of the Agreement, each of the signors agreed in writing to bind the signor and all successive owners of their respective real properties by a continuing covenant for the express benefit of the real property of plaintiff['s predecessor in title], which was particularly described in the agreement as follows: _____ [legal description of plaintiff's property as it appears in the agreement]. The covenant related to the use of defendant's [predecessor in title's] land in the following particulars: _____ [set out restriction, e.g., that no part of defendant's real property, described therein, should ever be used ex-residential purposes]. The Agreement was agreed to be a covenant to run with the land of plaintiff['s predecessor in title] and with the land of defendant['s predecessor in title].

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for insertion in § 184.190 in lieu of Paragraphs 6 through 10 in that form. The allegation is for use by a grantor, or his or her successor in interest, in a complaint to enjoin a violation of a restrictive covenant created to burden the land of a grantee pursuant to Civ. Code § 1468, as amended in 1969 [see Stats. 1969, ch. 245, § 1 (effective January 1, 1970)]. It can also be used by a grantee, or by his or her successor in interest, to enforce a restriction imposed on the grantor's land pursuant to Civ. Code § 1468, as amended in 1968 [see Stats. 1968, ch. 680, § 1 (effective January 1, 1969)].

[3] Allegations

This form alleges the following:

- An agreement was executed by a grantor of land with the grantee of the land conveyed on or after January 1, 1970, or was executed by the grantee of land conveyed with the grantor of the land on or after January 1, 1969, (Paragraph 1) [Civ. Code § 1468];

- The land of the covenantor, which was to be affected by the covenants, and the land of the covenantee, which was to be benefited, were particularly described in the instrument (Paragraphs 2, 3) [Civ. Code § 1468(a);

- The successive owners of the land affected by the covenant were, in the instrument, expressed to be bound for the benefit of the land granted by or to the covenantee (Paragraph 3) [Civ. Code § 1468(b)]; and

- The agreement was recorded (Paragraph 1) [Civ. Code § 1468(d).

In addition, the complaint must show that the restrictive covenant was violated during the period of the time the defendant owned the land burdened by the restrictions [see Civ. Code §§ 1466, 1468].

[4] Amendments to Civ. Code § 1468

As provided by the 1968 amendment to Civ. Code § 1468, which took effect on January 1, 1969, a grantor may covenant with a grantee to do or refrain from doing some act on the grantor's own land, for the benefit of the land conveyed to the grantee [Civ. Code § 1468; see Stats. 1968, ch. 680, § 1]. Such a covenant runs with both the land of the covenantor and the covenantee [Civ. Code § 1468]. The 1969 amendment to Civ. Code § 1468, which took effect on January 1, 1970, provided that a grantee can also make a similar promise, enforceable as a covenant running with the land, to a grantor [Civ. Code § 1468; see Stats. 1969, ch. 245, § 1].

For a discussion of the requirements for creation of a valid statutory covenant under the various amendments to Civ. Code § 1468, see § 184.62[3][b].

[5] Parties

Unless the agreement specifically provides otherwise, an action to enforce a valid covenant under Civ. Code § 1468 can be brought by or against the owner of any portion of the land affected by the covenant, and by or against any person who derives some interest in the land through an owner of the land [Civ. Code § 1468]. In addition, a mortgagee or trustee who is in possession of land in his or her capacity as mortgagee or trustee may be joined in an action to enjoin violation of a restrictive covenant [see Civ. Code § 1468].

When several persons are made defendants in an action to enforce a statutory covenant, the burden of the covenant will be apportioned among them according to the value of the burdened property held by them respectively, if this value can be ascertained, and if not, then according to their respective interests in point of quantity [see Civ. Code §§ 1467, 1468].

[6] State Statutes

Covenants running with land defined. Civ. Code § 1460

Covenants running with land are only those specified in Civ. Code §§ 1460-1470, and incidental thereto. Civ. Code § 1461

Covenant made for direct benefit of granted property run with land. Civ. Code § 1462

Persons bound by covenant running with land. Civ. Code § 1465

No liability for breach of covenant running with land before acquisition or after relinquishment. Civ. Code § 1466

[7] Decisions

Covenant running with land must meet statutory requirements in effect when covenant was created; Civ. Code § 1468 is not applicable retroactively. Taormina Theosophical Community, Inc. v. Silver (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 964, 968, 972, 972 n. 3, 190 Cal. Rptr. 38 ; see Oceanside Community Assn. v. Oceanside Land Co. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 166, 174 n. 4, 195 Cal. Rptr. 14 (dictum); McCaffrey v. Preston (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 422, 436, 201 Cal. Rptr. 252 (applying Civ. Code § 1468 as it read before amendments)

[8] Cross References

For a related form, see § 184.190.

186 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.192

§ 184.192 Allegation--Landowners Created Statutory Covenant Restricting Use of One Landowner's Property [Civ. Code § 1468]

[1] FORM Allegation--Landowners Created Statutory Covenant Restricting Use of One Landowner's Property [Civ. Code § 1468]

[EITHER, if restrictive covenant was created on or after January 1, 1969]

1. On or about _____ [date], [the predecessors in title of] plaintiff [owner whose land was or is benefited by the restrictive covenant] and [the predecessors in title of] defendant were owners, respectively, of the real property described above and, in consideration of the mutual benefit to themselves and to their respective properties, executed _____ [name of agreement, e.g., an "Agreement Imposing Restrictions"]. The Agreement was recorded in the office of the County Recorder of _____ County, on _____ [date], in Book _____, page _____, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit "_____" and made a part hereof.

2. [Allegation that agreement particularly described burdened property. See § 184.191, Paragraph 2.]

3. [Allegation that restrictions benefited plaintiff's property and ran with the land. See § 184.191, Paragraph 3.]

[OR, if restrictive covenant was created before January 1, 1969]

1. On or about _____ [date], [the predecessors in title of] plaintiff [owner whose land was or is benefited by the restrictive covenant] and [the predecessors in title of] defendant were owners, respectively, of the real property described above and, in consideration of the mutual benefit to themselves and to their respective properties, executed _____ [name of agreement, e.g., an "Agreement Imposing Restrictions"]. The Agreement was recorded in the office of the County Recorder of _____ County, on _____ [date], in Book _____, page _____, a copy of which is attached to this complaint as Exhibit "_____" and made a part hereof.]

2. By the terms of the Agreement, defendant['s predecessor in interest] promised to do or refrain from doing some act on his/her own property, in the following particulars: _____ [set out restriction, e.g., that no part of defendant's real property, described in the Agreement, should ever be used to conduct a retail grocery business].

3. By the terms of the Agreement, defendant['s predecessor in interest] agreed to bind himself/herself and all his/her assigns by a continuing covenant, enforceable by plaintiff['s predecessor in interest] and his/her assigns, for the express benefit of the property of plaintiff['s predecessor in title].

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for insertion in § 184.190 in lieu of Paragraphs 6 through 10 in that form. The allegation can be used by one landowner, or by his or her successor in interest, in a complaint to enjoin a violation of a restrictive covenant created to burden the property of another landowner, whether the restrictive covenant was created prior or subsequent to the 1968 amendments to Civ. Code § 1468.

[3] Allegations

For those covenants created on or after January 1, 1969, the form alleges that an agreement was executed by an owner of land with the owner of other land, and provides those further allegations required by Civ. Code § 1468 [see § 184.191].

For those covenants created before January 1, 1969, when the statutory requirements were not as strict, the form alleges that (1) a covenant was made by the owner of land with the owner of other land (Paragraph 1), (2) the covenator promised to do or refrain from doing some act on his or her own land (Paragraph 2), (3) the doing or refraining was expressed to be for the benefit of the land of the covenantee (Paragraph 3), and (4) the covenant was made by the covenantor expressly for his or her assigns or to the assigns of the covenantee (Paragraph 3) [former Civ. Code § 1468 (Stats. 1905, ch. 450, § 1); see Oceanside Community Assn. v. Oceanside Land Co. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 166, 174-175, 195 Cal. Rptr. 14] .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.193

§ 184.193 Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction, and Permanent Injunction to Prevent Violation of Tract Restrictions--Waiver or Laches

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction, and Permanent Injunction to Prevent Violation of Tract Restrictions--Waiver or Laches

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], DEFENDANT ALLEGES that:

1. As of _____ [date], plaintiff had _____ [actual notice of or actual notice of circumstances sufficient to put a prudent person on inquiry concerning] those actions of defendant alleged to be in violation of the restrictions. After the time plaintiff had notice of the _____ [violations or actions] described above, _____ [number] months elapsed before defendant notified plaintiff that defendant objected to those actions of defendant alleged to be in violation of the restrictions. By so failing to object, defendant waived the violations alleged in the complaint.

2. After the time plaintiff had notice of the _____ [violations or actions] described above, plaintiff delayed an unreasonable time before filing this action.

3. Enforcement of the restrictions described above would severely prejudice defendant, in that _____ [specify injury resulting from enforcement, e.g., construction of defendant's patio improvement has been substantially completed and its removal would damage defendant in the amount of $_____], and the prejudice is of such a degree that it would be unjust, oppressive, and inequitable to enforce them.

[2] Use of Form

This form of affirmative defense is for use by a lot owner in an answer to a complaint to enjoin the violation of tract restrictions when, due to the passage of time, plaintiff has either waived the restrictions or is guilty of laches. The form may also be used as a defense in an action to reconvey property for breach of condition subsequent [see Wedum-Aldahl

Co. v. Miller (1937) 18 Cal. App. 2d 745, 746, 752-753, 64 P.2d 762 ; see also § 184.198].

This form alleges (1) the date that plaintiff had actual or constructive notice of the violations [see Wilkman v. Banks (1954) 124 Cal. App. 2d 451, 456-457, 269 P.2d 33 (laches); Morgan v. Veach (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 682, 689, 139 P.2d 976 (waiver)] (Paragraph 1); (2) that plaintiff delayed an unreasonable time after notice in notifying defendant of objection [see Butler v. Holman (1956) 146 Cal. App. 2d 22, 28, 303 P.2d 573 (laches)] (Paragraph 2); and (3) that enforcement of the restrictions would work an inequitable burden on defendant [Butler v. Holman (1956) 146 Cal. App. 2d 22, 28, 303 P.2d 573 (laches); Morgan v. Veach (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 682, 689, 139 P.2d 976 (waiver)] (Paragraph 3).

[3] Limitations Period for Actions Commenced After January 1, 2001

An action for violation of a "restriction" (as that term is defined in Civ. Code § 784) must be commenced within five years. However, this limitations period does not bar commencement of an action for violation of a restriction before January 1, 2001, and, until that date, any other applicable statutory or common law limitation will continue to apply to the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 336(b)]. This form, and others in this chapter, do not reflect this statutory limitations period due to the restriction on its applicability prior to the year 2001. For further discussion of the statutory limitations period, see § 184.68.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.194

§ 184.194 Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction, and Permanent Injunction to Prevent Violation of Tract Restrictions--Acquiescence in Similar Violations

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction, and Permanent Injunction to Prevent Violation of Tract Restrictions--Acquiescence in Similar Violations

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], DEFENDANT ALLEGES that, since taking title to his/her lot, and more particularly within the last _____ [number] years, plaintiff has acquiesced while violations similar to those violations of the restrictions described in the complaint have been committed by other owners of land within the subdivision, and more particularly: _____ [specify facts showing that other violations have occurred within tract]. The number and type of breaches described above are such that the purpose of the restriction has been undermined and abandoned.

[2] Use of Form

This form of affirmative defense is for use by a lot owner in an answer to a complaint to enjoin the violation of tract restrictions. The defense can be used when the tract restrictions have become unenforceable due to numerous violations of the same restrictions by other lot owners within the tract, constituting a pattern of noncompliance [see Seligman v. Tucker (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 691, 699 n.7, 700, 86 Cal. Rptr. 187 ; see also Restatement of Property, Cal. Annot. (1950) § 561 (defense of acquiescence arises when plaintiff has failed to enforce restriction against other violators and now seeks to enforce same type of restriction against defendant)]. The form alleges that plaintiff has acquiesced while violations similar to those violations of the restrictions described in the complaint have been committed by other owners of land within the subdivision [see Johnstone v. Bettencourt (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 538, 542, 16 Cal. Rptr. 6] , and that the number and type of breaches described above are such that the purpose of the restriction has been undermined and abandoned [see Bryant v. Whitney (1918) 178 Cal. 640, 643, 174 P. 32 ; Seligman v. Tucker (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 691, 699 n.7, 700, 86 Cal. Rptr. 187] .

[3] Decisions

Acquiescence precludes enforcement when there has been no uniform observance of restriction, substantially all owners have so conducted themselves as to indicate abandonment of the right to enforce restriction, enforcement will not tend to materially restore character imposed on district by general scheme, and violation does not diminish value of other lots. Bryant v. Whitney (1918) 178 Cal. 640, 641-643, 174 P. 32 (setback restriction violated on eight other lots in 28-lot tract)

Acquiescence or waiver is defense to action to enforce tract restrictions only when there have been so many violations that purpose of the general plan is undermined. Seligman v. Tucker (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 691, 699 n.7, 700, 86 Cal. Rptr. 187

Right to enforce building restrictions is waived by lot owners who acquiesce in similar breaches by other owners of land in the subdivision. Johnstone v. Bettencourt (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 538, 542, 16 Cal. Rptr. 6 (building breakwater)

[4] Cross References

For a related form, see § 184.190.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.195

§ 184.195 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060] and to Quiet Title [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.010-764.080] to Cancel Use Restrictions--Changed Conditions in Neighborhood

[1] FORM Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060] and to Quiet Title [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.010-764.080] to Cancel Use Restrictions--Changed Conditions in Neighborhood

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name(s)	)	COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY RELIEF of known defendant(s)] [if unknown defendants are	)	AND TO QUIET TITLE included, add:; all persons unknown, claiming any	)
legal or equitable right, title, estate, lien, or interest in	)
the property described in the complaint adverse to	)
Plaintiff's title, or any cloud on Plaintiff's title thereto]
[; and DOES I-_____, inclusive],
Defendant(s).

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

FIRST COUNT
(Declaration That Restrictions Are Unenforceable)

[1. Capacity and residence of plaintiff, if appropriate. See § 184.150, Paragraph 1.]

[2. Capacity and residences of known defendant(s), if appropriate. See § 184.150, Paragraph 2.]

3. Defendant(s) is/are _____ [the only or all] known owner(s) of, and claimant(s) to, the property comprising that tract of land situated in _____ County, California, known as _____ [name of subdivision], and more particularly described as _____ [legal description of subdivision].

[4. Fictitious defendants. See § 184.150, Paragraph 3.]

[5. Allegation of ownership of plaintiff's lot. See § 184.190, Paragraph 3.]

[6. Allegation of existence and terms of Declaration of Restrictions. See § 184.190, Paragraphs 6-7.]

7. At the time the Declaration of Restrictions was recorded, the property was in _____ [describe neighborhood prior to change, e.g., an unincorporated rural area devoted to agricultural uses].

8. Since the date of recording of the Declaration of Restrictions, the use of property in the neighborhood of plaintiff's property has changed in that _____ [state facts showing change in surrounding neighborhood, e.g., Ventura Street, on which plaintiff's lot fronts, has grown from a two-lane street to a six-lane thoroughfare on which there are now numerous places of business to both the East and West within two blocks of plaintiff's lot].

9. As a result of the changed circumstances and conditions of the neighborhood in which plaintiff's property is located, plaintiff's property is no longer suitable for _____ [specify use to which property is restricted, e.g., single-family residential purposes] and its value is greatly diminished as long as it is restricted to that use. Moreover, the original purpose of the restrictions, _____ [specify purpose that was originally served by restrictions, e.g., to maintain the tract as a residential district free from proximity to commercial activity] has been destroyed by acts for which plaintiff and defendants are not responsible and is no longer attainable. Enforcement of the restrictions against plaintiff's lot would no longer serve to benefit and effectuate the purposes of the restrictions with respect to the other lots in the tract, nor would it be of any substantial benefit to the remaining properties in the tract.

10. Continued enforcement of the restrictions described above against plaintiff's lot is unjust, oppressive, and inequitable, in that such enforcement will not materially benefit any of defendants yet will greatly diminish the value of plaintiff's property and furthermore cause irreparable injury to plaintiff, in that _____ [specify facts showing injury, e.g., plaintiff is ready, able, and willing to improve his/her lot for business purposes and, if prevented from doing so, will be deprived of a unique commercial opportunity].

11. An actual controversy has arisen and now exists between plaintiff and defendants in that plaintiff contends that the restrictions described above are no longer binding or enforceable in equity, whereas defendants dispute these contentions and contend that the restrictions are valid and enforceable.

SECOND COUNT
(Quiet Title)

12. Plaintiff refers to and herein incorporates Paragraphs 1-10, inclusive, of the First Count.

[13. If "all persons unknown" are named as defendants, allege: The defendants herein named as "all persons unknown, claiming any legal or equitable right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the property described in the complaint adverse to plaintiff's title, or any cloud on plaintiff's title thereto" (hereinafter sometimes referred to as "the unknown defendants") are unknown to plaintiff. These unknown defendants, and each of them, claim some right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the above-described property adverse to plaintiff's title; and their claims, and each of them, constitute a cloud on plaintiff's title to that property.]

14. [Allegation of basis of plaintiff's title. See § 184.150, Paragraph 12.]

15. Plaintiff is seeking to quiet title against the claims of all defendant(s)[, including the named defendant(s); _____ (continue with whichever are applicable: successor defendants described in Paragraph _____; the unknown defendants described in Paragraph 13; _____ (name), whose unknown, uncertain, or contingent claim, if any, is fully described in Paragraph 16)]. Each of the defendants[, except _____ (insert name of any defendants with claims other than those based on the servitude, e.g., Pacific Gas and Electric Company,)] claims some right, title, estate, lien, or interest in and to the real property of plaintiff described above, based on the Declaration of Restrictions described in Paragraph 6, above, and consisting of equitable servitudes that burden the property of plaintiff for the benefit of the lot of each defendant named herein, and with the right of enforcement of the restrictions contained in the Declaration of Restrictions, and each of them, vested in each defendant named herein. Defendants' claims, and each of them, are without any right whatever and defendants, and each of them, have no right, title, estate, lien, or interest whatever in the above-described property, or any part of that property[, except the following: _____ (set forth any adverse claims of which plaintiff admits the validity, e.g., the utility easement held by Pacific Gas and Electric Company)].

[16. Allegation of unknown, uncertain, or contingent claims of named defendants. See § 184.150, Paragraph 15.]

17. Plaintiff seeks to quiet title as of _____ [date]. [If the date is a date other than the date the complaint is filed, allege why a determination as of that date is sought.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendants as follows:

On the FIRST COUNT:

1. For a declaration by the court that the covenant, conditions, and restrictions described above are, by reason of the changed conditions set forth in this complaint, no longer binding or enforceable;

2. For a declaration that plaintiff holds the real property free of any cloud, equitable servitude, or reversionary interest based on the unenforceable restrictions described above;

On the SECOND COUNT:

3. For a judgment quieting plaintiff's title to the real property as against defendants, and all persons claiming under defendants, and determining those adverse claims to, and clouds on, plaintiff's real property consisting of covenants, conditions, and restrictions that are no longer binding or enforceable;

On all COUNTS:

4. For costs of suit incurred herein; and

5. For such other further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[Verification. See § 184.150.]

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use by the owner of a lot in a subdivision to bring an action to cancel a use restriction, in the form of an equitable servitude, when enforcement has become inequitable due to changed conditions in the neighborhood [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 (declaratory action); Marra v. Aetna Construction Co. (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 375, 377, 101 P.2d 490 (quiet title); Hess v. Country Club Park (1931) 213 Cal. 613, 615-616, 2 P.2d 782 (declaratory relief)].

A plaintiff who intends to add a quiet title count naming unknown persons as defendants should obtain a title report before commencing the action, because an examination of the record title and an inspection of the property will be necessary [see Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(b)]. Also, the court may order plaintiff to obtain a title report and keep it available for inspection and copying by the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.040(b)].

[3] Changed Conditions as Defense

The allegations in Paragraphs 7-10 of this form of complaint may be used as an affirmative defense for insertion in an answer to a complaint seeking to enjoin a violation of tract restrictions, when those restrictions have become unenforceable due to changed conditions [see § 184.190]. Those allegations may also serve as an affirmative defense [see Townsend v. Allen (1952) 114 Cal. App. 2d 291, 294-296, 250 P.2d 292 ; see also § 184.196].

[4] Allegations

[a] Declaratory Relief

In the first count, for declaratory relief, this form alleges the following:

- The capacity of the parties, if appropriate (Paragraphs 1, 2, 4);

- The ownership of lots in a tract by defendant and by plaintiff (Paragraphs 3, 5) [see Trahms v. Starrett (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 766, 771, 110 Cal. Rptr. 239] ;

- Recordation of a declaration of restrictions pursuant to a general plan (Paragraph 6) [see Werner v. Graham (1919) 181 Cal. 174, 184, 183 P. 945] ;

- The change in neighborhood from the time when restrictions were recorded to the present (Paragraphs 7-8) [see Hess v. Country Club Park (1931) 213 Cal. 613, 614-616, 2 P.2d 782] ;

- That the changes have made the purpose of the restrictions unattainable (Paragraph 9) [see County of Butte v. Bach (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 848, 868-869, 218 Cal. Rptr. 613] ;

- That enforcement of restrictions is inequitable (Paragraph 10) [see Hurd v. Albert (1931) 214 Cal. 15, 23, 3 P.2d 545] ; and

- That an actual controversy exists relating to the legal rights and duties of the parties under a deed containing restrictions (Paragraph 11) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1060; Hess v. Country Club Park (1931) 213 Cal. 613, 614-616, 2 P.2d 782] .

For a complete discussion of the allegations required to state a cause of action for declaratory relief, see Ch. 182 Declaratory Relief .

[b] Quiet Title

In Paragraph 12 of the second count, this form incorporates the allegations of Paragraphs 1-10 of the first count, most importantly (1) the identity of known defendants having adverse claims to the title of plaintiff against which a determination is sought (Paragraph 3) [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.010], and (2) the legal description and street address of the property that is the subject of the action (Paragraph 5) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(a)]. In addition, it alleges the following:

- The title of the plaintiff regarding which a determination is sought and the basis of the title (Paragraph 14) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(b)];

- The adverse claims to plaintiff's title against which a determination is sought, including unknown, uncertain, or contingent claims, if appropriate (Paragraphs 15, 16) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 761.020(c), 762.020(a); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030 (when person known or believed to be deceased is required defendant in quiet title action) and § 184.150[3][c][ii], [iii]], as well as any claims that plaintiff admits are valid (Paragraph 15) [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.060(c)]; and

- The date as of which the determination is sought (Paragraph 17) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(d)].

The quiet title count in this form does not contain any allegations regarding defendants who are personal representatives [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(a)] or heirs and intestate or testate successors [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)] of persons known or believed by the plaintiff to be deceased. If those defendants are necessary in a particular case [see § 184.150[3][c]], counsel should use the appropriate allegations from Ch. 482, Quieting Title.

[5] Statute of Limitations

No statute of limitations commences to run against a claim for declaratory relief before there has been a breach of the obligation in respect to which the declaration is sought; the controversy may be an ancient one, but the action may nevertheless be maintained [Maguire v. Hibernia Sav. & L. Soc'y (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 719, 734, 146 P.2d 673 ; United Pacific/Reliance Ins. Co. v. DiDomenico (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 673, 676-677, 219 Cal. Rptr. 119] .

There is no statute of limitations governing quiet title actions as such and so ordinarily it is necessary to refer to the underlying theory of relief to determine which statute applies [Muktarian v. Barmby (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 558, 560, 47 Cal. Rptr. 483, 407 P.2d 659 ; but see Code Civ. Proc. § 318 (which does not run against a plaintiff who is in possession)]. For a discussion of the limitations period for enforcement of a restrictive covenant, see § 184.190[7].

[6] Verification

A complaint seeking to quiet title to real property must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020].

[7] Jurisdiction and Venue

The superior court has jurisdiction of a quiet title action [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.040(a)]. Jurisdiction of an action for declaratory relief is also in the superior court. Neither action is a limited civil case [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86, 580(b)(3), (4)]. Therefore, a combined action for declaratory relief and to quiet title must be brought in superior court and is not a limited civil case. Subject to the power of the court to transfer actions, the proper county for the trial of a quiet title action is the county in which the real property, or some part thereof, is located [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.050(a)]. In any case, the existence of a statute relating to the authority of the court in a limited civil case does not, by itself, imply that the same authority does or does not exist in an unlimited civil case. Similarly, the existence of a statute relating to the authority of the court in an unlimited civil case does not, by itself, imply that the same authority does or does not exist in a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 89].

[8] Cross References

For a related form, see § 184.150.

For a discussion, procedure, and forms relating generally to actions for declaratory relief, and for a form of judgment, see Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief

For a discussion, procedure, and forms relating generally to actions to quiet title, see Ch. 482, Quieting Title

[9] State Statutes

Court's refusal to grant declaratory relief when declaration or determination not necessary or proper. Civ. Code § 1061

Procedure for quieting title and effect of judgment. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.010-764.080

Declaratory relief actions generally. Code Civ. Proc. § 1060

[10] Decisions

[a] Declaratory and Quiet Title Actions

Quiet title action is properly brought to remove cloud created by unenforceable restrictions. Marra v. Aetna Construction Co. (1940) 15 Cal. 2d 375, 377, 101 P.2d 490

Declaratory judgment is proper when residential tract restrictions are no longer enforceable because of change in character of neighborhood. Hess v. Country Club Park (1931) 213 Cal. 613, 614-616, 2 P.2d 782

Declaratory relief action is appropriate means to test enforceability of covenants or servitudes asserted against property. Ross v. Harootunian (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 292, 294, 64 Cal. Rptr. 537

[b] Changed Conditions

Change in zoning that occurs after restrictions have been placed on property has evidentiary value to show change in character of surrounding area. Wolff v. Fallon (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 695, 698, 284 P.2d 802

Restrictions that are not enforceable as to every lot in tract as possibly may be enforced on part of tract if such part is of sufficient extent and so located that original purpose of restrictions can be accomplished. Fairchild v. Raines (1944) 24 Cal. 2d 818, 828, 151 P.2d 260

Changes outside tract, coupled with substantial evidence that to enforce the covenant would cause irreparable injury to defendant, without materially benefiting the plaintiff, is sufficient to sustain judgment denying injunctive relief. Hurd

v. Albert (1931) 214 Cal. 15, 22-25, 3 P.2d 545

Restrictive covenant is unenforceable when change in neighborhood has been such that enforcement would have no other result than to harass or injure defendant, without benefiting plaintiff. Hurd v. Albert (1931) 214 Cal. 15, 23, 3 P.2d 545 (residential restriction)

Cancellation of residential-only restriction is unjustified when purpose of covenant is still attainable. County of Butte v. Bach (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 848, 868-869, 218 Cal. Rptr. 613

Enforcement of residential-only restrictions is proper when it would serve as buffer against business area and therefore be of substantial benefit to other lots in tract. Atlas Terminals, Inc. v. Sokol (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 191, 193-194, 201-203, 21 Cal. Rptr. 293

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.196

§ 184.196 Allegation--Change in Public Policy

[1] FORM Allegation--Change in Public Policy

1. Since _____ [date], plaintiff has _____ [engaged or desired to engage] in _____ [specify activity proscribed by tract restrictions, e.g., the operation of a licensed residential care facility for six or fewer persons].

2. As applied to the activities described above, the restrictions alleged in Paragraph 6 of this complaint are in conflict with the public policy expressed in _____ [specify statute], that is, _____ [describe legislative purpose of statute, e.g., to encourage development of community residential care facilities for disabled people and seniors].

3. Defendant's activities are not inconsistent with the contemporary purposes of the restrictions.

4. Enforcement of the restrictions so as to proscribe the activities of defendant would conflict with a strong statement of public policy in favor of a broad interpretation of restrictions such as those alleged in Paragraph 6 of this complaint.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for insertion in § 184.195 in lieu of Paragraphs 7 through 10 in that form. The allegation is for use when application of the tract restrictions to defendant's use of the property conflicts with public policy as expressed in a statute, even though the statute does not directly prohibit enforcement of the restrictions [see Welsch v. Goswick (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 398, 405-407, 181 Cal. Rptr. 703 ; but see Barrett v. Lipscomb (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 1524, 1531-1532, 240 Cal. Rptr. 336] .

[3] Allegations

The form alleges that (1) plaintiff is engaged in or wishes to engage in activities that may be violative of the restrictions (Paragraph 1) [see Welsch v. Goswick (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 398, 402, 181 Cal. Rptr. 703 ; see also Code Civ. Proc.

§ 1060; Hess v. Country Club Park (1931) 213 Cal. 613, 615-616, 2 P.2d 782] ; (2) a statute expresses public policy with which the restrictions, as applied to defendant's activities, conflict (Paragraph 2) [see Welsch v. Goswick (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 398, 406-407, 181 Cal. Rptr. 703] ; (3) defendant's activities are not inconsistent with the purposes of the restrictions (Paragraph 3) [see Welsch v. Goswick (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 398, 407 n.7, 408, 181 Cal. Rptr. 703] ; and (4) enforcement of the restrictions against defendant's activities would conflict with a strong statement of public policy in favor of a broad interpretation of the restrictions (Paragraph 4) [see Welsch v. Goswick (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 398, 407, 181 Cal. Rptr. 703] .

[4] Decisions

Public policy in favor of community care facilities does not constitute grounds to prevent enforcement of "private residences" restriction against operator of commercial residential care facility because Health & Safety Code § 1566.5 expressly preserves validity of preexisting covenants. Barrett v. Lipscomb (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 1524, 1526-1527, 1531-1532, 240 Cal. Rptr. 336 (questioning Welsch v. Goswick (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 398, 181 Cal. Rptr. 703)

Reasonable interpretation of restrictive covenant is subject to change with time, change in circumstances, and evolution of public policy; subsequent legislative enactment is able to signal change in public policy justifying change in reasonable interpretation of covenant despite fact that legislation does not directly affect covenant. Welsch v. Goswick (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 398, 405-407, 181 Cal. Rptr. 703

[5] Cross References

For a related form, see § 184.195.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.197

§ 184.197 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] to Compel Reconveyance of Real Property for Breach of Condition Subsequent [Civ. Code § 1109] and to Quiet Title [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.010-764.080]--By Grantor's Successor in Interest Against Grantee

[1] FORM Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] to Compel Reconveyance of Real Property for Breach of Condition Subsequent [Civ. Code § 1109] and to Quiet Title [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.010-764.080]--By Grantor's Successor in Interest Against Grantee

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name(s)	)	COMPLAINT TO COMPEL RECONVEYANCE of known defendant(s)] [if unknown defendants are	)	OF REAL PROPERTY FOR BREACH OF CONDI-
included, add:; all persons unknown, claiming any	)	TION SUBSEQUENT AND TO QUIET TITLE
legal or equitable right, title, estate, lien, or interest in	)
the property described in the complaint adverse to	)
Plaintiff's title, or any cloud on Plaintiff's title thereto]
[; and DOES I-_____, inclusive],
Defendant(s).

_____

Petitioner alleges:

[1. Capacity and residence of plaintiff, if appropriate. See § 184.150, Paragraph 1.]

[2. Capacity and residence of defendant, if appropriate. See § 184.150, Paragraph 2.]

[3. Fictitious defendants, if appropriate. See § 184.150, Paragraph 3.]

[4. Allegations regarding "all persons unknown," if named as defendants. See § 184.150, Paragraph 14.]

[5. Allegation of unknown, uncertain, or contingent claims of named defendants, if appropriate. See § 184.150, Paragraph 15.]

6. Plaintiff is the transferee, grantee, and successor in interest in and to all of the right, title, and interest of _____ [defendant's grantor] to the real property described below and to all of the restrictions, reservations, conditions, covenants, and reversionary interests appertaining to the real property, by virtue of a deed dated _____ [date], which was duly recorded in the office of the County Recorder of _____ County, on _____ [date], in Book/Reel _____, page/image _____. A copy of the deed with the endorsements of record is attached as Exhibit "_____" and made a part of this complaint.

7. Prior to _____ [date], _____ [defendant's grantor] was the owner fee simple of that certain real property situated in _____ County, known as _____ [street address], _____ [city], California, and more particularly described as follows: _____ [legal description].

8. On _____ [date], _____ [defendant's grantor] executed and delivered a grant deed to the property described above to _____ [defendant]. On _____ [date], the deed was duly recorded in the office of the County Recorder of _____ County, on _____ [date], in Book/Reel _____, page/image _____, a copy of which is attached as Exhibit "_____" and made a part of this complaint.

9. Defendant's deed contained the following conditions: _____ [set forth verbatim conditions, including those alleged to be breached].

10. Defendant's deed was, on delivery of the deed, accepted by defendant on the conditions described above.

11. [Allege acts by defendant constituting breach of conditions.]

12. Defendant's acts constitute a breach of the conditions, the estate of defendant in the property has terminated and become void, and the land has reverted to plaintiff in fee simple absolute, without any claim, right, title, or interest therein or thereto in favor of defendant.

[13. After the breach of the conditions described above, plaintiff exercised his/her right of reentry, reversion, and forfeiture. On or about _____ (date), and before the commencement of this action, plaintiff demanded of defendant the possession of the premises. Defendant failed and refused and does still fail and refuse, to deliver the premises to plaintiff.]

14. Plaintiff is seeking to quiet title against the claims of all defendant(s)[, including the named defendant(s); _____ (continue with whichever are applicable: successor defendants described in Paragraph _____; the unknown defendants described in Paragraph 4; and _____ (name), whose unknown, uncertain, or contingent claim, if any, is fully described in Paragraph 5)]. Defendants' claims, and each of them, are without any right whatever and defendants, and each of them, have no right, title, estate, lien, or interest whatever in the above-described property, or any part of that property[, except the following: _____ (set forth any adverse claims of which plaintiff admits the validity, e.g., the utility easement held by Pacific Gas and Electric Company)].

15. [Date as of which plaintiff seeks to quiet title. See § 184.195, Paragraph 17.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For a judgment declaring that the real property has reverted to plaintiff;

2. For a judgment quieting plaintiff's title to the real property as against defendant, and all persons claiming under defendant, and that the defendant be perpetually enjoined from asserting any claim whatsoever against the real property;

3. For a judgment commanding defendant to convey the real property to plaintiff and to give plaintiff possession of the real property;

[4. For reasonable attorney's fees (in the amount of $_____ or according to proof).]

5. For costs of suit incurred herein; and

6. For such other further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification. See § 184.150.]

CAUTION:

A complaint seeking to quiet title to real property must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020]. Immediately on the commencement of a quiet title action, plaintiff must file a notice of pendency of action (lis pendens) in the office of the county recorder of the county in which the real property described in the complaint is located [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.010(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 405.20; for further discussion see § 184.195]. Moreover, if a lis pendens has been filed, the right of reentry, or power of termination, will not expire or expire of record once the action has been brought [see Civ. Code § 880.260; see also Civ. Code § 885.010]. Also, note that this form does not contain any allegations regarding defendants who are personal representatives [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(a)] or heirs and intestate or testate successors [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)] of persons known or believed by the plaintiff to be deceased. If those defendants are necessary in a particular situation, the complaint should include the appropriate allegations from Ch. 482, Quieting Title.

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use by the holder of a power of termination against a property owner who has breached a condition subsequent appearing in the deed that created the power of termination [Thornton v. Middletown Educational Corp. (1937) 21 Cal. App. 2d 707, 710, 70 P.2d 234 ; see Civ. Code § 1109 (duty to reconvey property on breach of condition subsequent); Rosecrans v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 602, 603-605, 134 P.2d 245 (quiet title); see also Civ. Code § 885.010 (power of termination defined)].

A plaintiff who intends to add "all persons unknown" as defendants should obtain a title report before commencing the action, because an examination of the record title and an inspection of the property will be necessary [see Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(b)]. Also, the court may order plaintiff to obtain a title report and to keep it available for inspection and copying by the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.040(b)].

[3] Allegations

This form of complaint alleges (1) the capacity of the plaintiff, if appropriate (Paragraph 1); (2) the capacity of the defendant, if appropriate (Paragraph 2); (3) plaintiff's succession in interest to defendant's grantor (Paragraph 6) [see Civ. Code § 1109; People ex rel. Dept. of Public Works v. City of Fresno (1962) 210 Cal. App. 2d 500, 504-505, 26 Cal. Rptr. 853] ; (4) conveyance of a deed to defendant containing a condition subsequent (Paragraphs 7-10) [see Pedro v. Potter (1926) 197 Cal. 751, 758-759, 242 P. 926] ; (5) defendant's breach of the conditions and termination of the estate (Paragraphs 11, 12) [see Knight v. Black (1912) 19 Cal. App. 518, 522, 126 P. 512 (disapproved on other grounds in Green v. Superior Court (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 616, 633 n.19, 111 Cal. Rptr. 704, 517 P.2d 1168)]; (6) plaintiff's notice to defendant of right of reentry, if appropriate (Paragraph 13) [see Civ. Code § 885.050; Lincoln v. Narom Development Co. (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 619, 624, 89 Cal. Rptr. 128] ; (7) the adverse claims against which plaintiff seeks to quiet title (Paragraph 14) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(c)] as well as any claims that plaintiff admits are valid [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(c)]; and (8) the date as of which plaintiff wishes title quieted (Paragraph 15) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(d)].

For discussion of allegations for use in a complaint to quiet title, see §§ 184.150 and 184.195.

[4] Limitation of Action

There is no statute of limitations governing quiet title actions as such and so ordinarily it is necessary to refer to the underlying theory of relief to determine which statute applies [Muktarian v. Barmby (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 558, 560, 47 Cal. Rptr. 483, 407 P.2d 659] . To exercise a power of termination by bringing a civil action, the action must be commenced within five years after breach of the restriction, or within a longer period agreed on by the parties if they record a waiver or extension before expiration of the five-year period [Civ. Code § 885.050].

[5] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 184.190 and 184.195.

For a procedural guide and alternative forms, see Ch. 482, Quieting Title

192 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapter 184 DEEDS
PART IV. FORMS
C. Restrictive Covenants

15-184 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 184.198

§ 184.198 Affirmative Defense Allegation--Power of Termination Expired [Civ. Code §§ 885.030, 885.040(a), 885.060(b)]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense Allegation--Power of Termination Expired [Civ. Code §§ 885.030, 885.040(a), 885.060(b)]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], DEFENDANT ALLEGES that:

[EITHER, if power of termination expired by passage of time]

The action is barred by Civil Code Sections 885.030 and 885.060(b) in that _____ [state facts showing that plaintiff's power of termination has expired by the passage of time under Civ. Code § 885.030, e.g., 30 years have passed after the date the instrument _____ (reserving or transferring or specify manner in which the recorded instrument otherwise evidenced the power) to plaintiff the power he/she is seeking to assert was recorded and no notice of intent to preserve the power of termination has been recorded or thirty years have passed after the date a notice of intent to preserve plaintiff's power of termination was recorded and no further notice of intent to preserve the power of termination has been recorded or the plaintiff's power of termination has expired by its own terms].

[AND/OR if power of termination expired by obsolescence]

The action is barred by Civil Code §§ 885.040 and 885.060(b) in that _____ [state facts showing that plaintiff's power of termination has become obsolete under Civ. Code § 885.040, e.g., the restriction is of no actual and substantial benefit to plaintiff or enforcement of plaintiff's power of termination would not effectuate the purpose of the restriction or it would be inequitable to enforce the power because of changed conditions or circumstances, in that _____ (state facts showing changed conditions sufficient to deny enforcement of condition subsequent

)].

[2] Use of Form

This form of affirmative defense is for use by a property owner in an answer to a complaint to quiet title and reconvey the property for breach of a condition subsequent. The form alleges either or both that the plaintiff's power of termination has expired either due to the passage of time [see Civ. Code § 885.030] or due to obsolescence [see Civ. Code § 885.040] and therefore is no longer enforceable [Civ. Code § 885.060(b)].

Civ. Code § 885.040 (obsolescence) codifies equitable defenses that existed in common law, and therefore, cases that antedate the statute may still be persuasive in indicating when it is inequitable to enforce a condition subsequent [see 16 Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Rep. 2163 (1982) (Senate Report Comment to Civ. Code § 885.040; also noting that the section imposes a limitation on equitable principles denying enforcement in the case of public or charitable donations); see, e.g., Arrowhead Mut. Service Co. v. Faust (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 567, 576-577, 581-582, 67 Cal. Rptr. 325 (changed conditions); Hess v. Country Club Park (1931) 213 Cal. 613, 614-616, 2 P.2d 782 (changed conditions); Wedum-Aldahl Co. v. Miller (1937) 18 Cal. App. 2d 745, 746, 749, 751-753, 64 P.2d 762 (changed conditions and waiver); for further discussion of changed conditions, see § 184.195].

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 184.197.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 15: Costs and Attorney's Fees thru Deeds-Chs. 174-189
Chapters 185-189 [RESERVED]

15-185 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated Chapters 185-189

[RESERVED]

Chapters 185[RESERVED]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 190.syn

§ 190.syn Synopsis to Chapter 190: DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING

§ 190.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 190.02 Cross References

[1] Related Discovery Chapters

[2] Discovery in Particular Proceedings

[3] Other Related Chapters

§§ 190.03-190.09 [Reserved]

§ 190.10 Governing Law

[1] Discovery Act

[2] Related Statutes

[a] Rules of Court

[b] Evidentiary Privileges and Other Protections Against Disclosure

[c] Provisions Governing Subpoenas Generally

§ 190.11 Application of Discovery Act

[1] Civil Actions and Proceedings Generally

[2] Limited Civil Cases

[3] Particular Proceedings

[a] Enforcement of Money Judgments

[b] Judicial Arbitration Proceedings

[c] Sexually Violent Predators Act

[d] Competency Determination Under Penal Code § 1367 et seq.

[e] Other Proceedings

§ 190.12 Purpose of Discovery Act

§ 190.13 Interpretation of Discovery Act

[1] Liberal Construction to Further Purpose of Act

[2] Reporter's Notes to Proposed Discovery Act

[3] Case Law Interpreting Prior Acts

[4] Case Law Interpreting Federal Discovery Rules

[5] Definitions Generally Applicable in Construing Discovery Act Provisions

§ 190.14 Effect of Discovery Act on Informal Investigation

[1] Lawful Informal Investigation Not Precluded

[2] Illegal "Self-Help" Precluded

§ 190.15 Effect of Trial Delay Reduction Programs

§§ 190.16-190.19 [Reserved]

§ 190.20 General Scope of Civil Discovery

[1] Matter That Is Relevant

[a] General Rule

[b] Relevance to Subject Matter

[c] Matter Need Not Be Admissible at Trial

[2] Matter That Is Not Privileged

§ 190.21 Specific Limits on General Scope

[1] Insurance Coverage

[2] Defendant's Financial Condition

[3] Civil Action Involving Sexual Misconduct

§ 190.22 Particular Methods of Discovery Authorized Under Discovery Act

§ 190.23 Discovery in Limited Civil Cases

[1] Limited Civil Cases Subject to Economic Litigation Provisions

[2] Discovery Act Modified by Economic Litigation Provisions

[3] Restrictions on Discovery Under Economic Litigation Provisions

[a] Notice and Format Requirements of Discovery Act Apply

[b] Interrogatories, Demands for Production and Inspection of Tangible Evidence, and Requests for Admissions

[c] Depositions

[d] Subpoena Duces Tecum

[e] Physical and Mental Examinations

[f] Exchange of Expert Witness Information

[4] Authorization for Additional Discovery

[a] By Motion

[b] By Stipulation

[5] Motion to Withdraw Action From Limited Civil Case Procedures

§ 190.24 Discovery of Electronically Stored Information

[1] Governing Law

[2] Electronic Discovery Act

§ 190.25 Discovery in Actions Pending Outside California

§§ 190.26-190.29 [Reserved]

§ 190.30 Proceeding to Limit General Scope When Hardship Outweighs Usefulness

§ 190.31 Proceeding to Restrict Frequency or Extent of Use of Discovery Methods

§ 190.32 Proceeding to Establish Manner, Sequence, or Timing of Discovery

[1] General Rule

[2] Electronic Filing and Service Generally

[a] Rules for Electronic Filing

[b] Rules for Electronic Service

[3] Use of Technology in Certain Cases

§ 190.33 General Provisions for Regulating Discovery Proceedings

[1] Requirement of Good-Faith Effort at Informal Resolution of Disputes

[2] Discovery Sanctions

§ 190.34 Protective Orders in Context of Particular Discovery Proceedings

§ 190.35 Regulating Discovery by Stipulation

§ 190.36 Limiting Disclosure of Discovered Matter for Nonlitigation Purposes

§ 190.37 Procedure to Seal Confidential Records

§ 190.38 Stay of Discovery

[1] Pending Determination of Validity of Cause of Action

[2] Pending Parallel Criminal Action

§ 190.39 Delegation of Discovery Matters by Discovery Referee

[1] Referee Appointment and Challenge Procedures

[2] Trial Court Acceptance of Referee's Report

[3] Allocating Costs of Reference

§§ 190.40-190.49 [Reserved]

§ 190.50 Requirements for Completing Discovery Before Trial

[1] General Requirements

[2] Requirements Applicable to Judicial Arbitration Proceedings

[3] Inapplicability to Proceedings for Eminent Domain or Possession of Real Property

§ 190.51 Extending, Shortening or Modifying Time Requirements

[1] Motion Proceeding

[2] Stipulation

[3] Automatic Extension of Time

[4] Time Extensions When Service Is by Mail

§§ 190.52-190.59 [Reserved]

§ 190.60 Matthew Bender Publications

§ 190.61 California Constitution

§ 190.62 State Statutes

[1] Discovery Act Provisions

[2] Other Statutes Relating to Civil Discovery

§ 190.63 California Rules of Court

§ 190.64 Decisions

[1] General Principles of Discovery

[2] Insurance Coverage

[3] International Discovery

[4] Juveniles

[5] Limitations on Discovery Generally

[6] Protective Orders

[7] Relevance to Subject Matter

[8] Stay of Discovery

§ 190.65 Attorney General Opinions

§ 190.66 Law Reviews

§ 190.67 Text References

§§ 190.68-190.79 [Reserved]

§ 190.80 Proceedings for Protective Order Limiting Scope of Discovery [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.020] or Restricting Extent or Use of Discovery Methods [Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.030]--Motion and Supporting Declaration

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Monetary Sanction

§ 190.81 Proceedings for Protective Order Limiting Scope of Discovery [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.020] or Restricting Extent or Use of Discovery Methods [Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.030]--Order

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§§ 190.82-190.89 [Reserved]

§ 190.90 Proceedings for Order Extending Time for Discovery or Reopening Discovery Proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050]--Motion and Supporting Declaration

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Notice

[4] Monetary Sanction

§ 190.91 Proceedings for Order Extending Time for Discovery or Reopening Discovery Proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050]--Order

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART I. SCOPE

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.01

§ 190.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter introduces the coverage of civil discovery continued in Chapters 191-200.

Part II includes discussion of general provisions of the Civil Discovery Act and related law in the following subparts:

- Subpart A (see § 190.10 et seq.) covers the general applicability, purpose, and interpretation of the Civil Discovery Act.

- Subpart B (see § 190.20 et seq.) discusses the general provisions of the Civil Discovery Act that delineate the permissible scope of discovery, the methods of discovery that may be utilized, and the limits on the extent of discovery imposed by the economic litigation provisions that generally govern limited civil cases. Also included is coverage of the Interstate and International Depositions and Discovery Act, Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.100 et seq., governing civil discovery in actions pending outside California.

- Subpart C (see § 190.30 et seq.) discusses the general provisions of the Civil Discovery Act and related law by which the trial court may regulate civil discovery proceedings that are otherwise conducted informally by the parties.

- Subpart D (see § 190.50 et seq.) discusses the general provisions of the Civil Discovery Act that set out the deadlines for completing civil discovery as well as procedures for reopening or conducting late discovery.

The forms in Part IV include the following:

- A motion and related papers for use in obtaining a protective order that generally limits the scope of discovery in a particular case or that generally establishes the manner, sequence, and timing of discovery in a particular case [see §§ 190.80, 190.81].

- A motion and related papers for use in obtaining leave to reopen discovery or to conduct discovery beyond the general deadlines for completing discovery [see §§ 190.90, 190.91].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART I. SCOPE

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.02

§ 190.02 Cross References

[1] Related Discovery Chapters

- For detailed discussion of evidentiary privileges and other statutory or constitutional protections against disclosure, see Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations .

- For discussion and forms relating to discovery sanctions generally, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse .

- For detailed discussion of discovery of electronically stored evidence (e-discovery), see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery).

- For discussion and forms relating to the use of particular discovery methods authorized by the Civil Discovery Act, see the following chapters covering each method:

  - Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions.

  - Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories.

  - Ch. 195, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence.

  - Ch. 196, Discovery: Requests for Admissions.

  - Ch. 197, Discovery: Physical and Mental Examinations.

  - Ch. 198, Discovery: Exchange of Expert Witness Information.

- For discussion and forms relating to the use of specified discovery methods for the purpose of preserving testimony or other evidence prior to the commencement of an action or pending an appeal, see Ch. 199, Discovery: Preservation of Evidence .

- For discussion and forms relating to the review of interlocutory discovery orders in certain circumstances by petition for writ of mandate or prohibition, see Ch. 200, Discovery: Review of Discovery Orders .

[2] Discovery in Particular Proceedings

For discussion and forms relating to discovery in particular actions or proceedings, see the following:

- Ch. 7, Accounting, Action for (discussion of discovery in an action for accounting).

- Ch. 33, Contractual Arbitration: Appointment of Arbitrator and Conduct of Proceeding (discussion of discovery in arbitration proceedings).

- Ch. 70, Attorney Admission and Ch. 71, Attorney Discipline (discussion of discovery in State Bar disciplinary proceedings).

- Ch. 85, Automobiles: Discovery (discussion and forms relating to discovery in vehicle collision actions).

- Ch. 295, Hospitals (discussion of discovery of hospital records).

- Ch. 345A, Limited Civil Cases (additional discussion and forms relating to the Economic Litigation procedures under Code Civ. Proc. § 90 et seq. applicable in limited civil cases).

- Ch. 473B, Discovery in Agency Adjudications (discussion forms relating to discovery in administrative trials under the Administrative Procedure Act of Gov. Code § 11340 et seq.).

- Ch. 577, Workers' Compensation (discussion and forms relating to discovery in workers' compensation proceedings).

[3] Other Related Chapters

- For discussion of and general forms relating to law and motion procedures generally, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

- For discussion of and forms for stipulation and orders shortening and extending time generally, see Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time .

- For discussion and forms relating to subpoenas and subpoena duces tecum generally, see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresDiscoveryMisconductCivil ProceduresDiscoveryPrivileged MattersGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPretrial MattersSubpoenas

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART I. SCOPE

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 190.03-190.09

[Reserved]

§§ 190.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Discovery Act and Related Law

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.10

§ 190.10 Governing Law

[1] Discovery Act

Civil discovery is generally governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.010 et seq. These provisions are otherwise known as the Civil Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010].

Code Civ. Proc. §§ 94 and 95, part of the provisions entitled Economic Litigation for Limited Civil Cases (Code Civ. Proc. § 90 et seq.), apply in limited civil cases to limit the discovery otherwise permitted under the Discovery Act [see § 190.23].

[2] Related Statutes

[a] Rules of Court

Statewide rule provisions relating to the format of discovery papers and motions, the service of discovery papers on nonparty deponents, and discovery sanctions are set out in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1000, 3.1345, 3.1346, 3.1347, and 3.1348.

Case management requirements relating to discovery of electronically stored information are set out in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.724(8). For detailed discussion of these requirements, see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery), § 195A.14.

Local rules of court relating to the field of pretrial civil discovery are preempted by the Judicial Council, and any such rule is void unless permitted or required by statute or statewide rule [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.20].

[b] Evidentiary Privileges and Other Protections Against Disclosure

Evidentiary privileges are governed by Evid. Code §§ 900-1070. The protection against disclosure of an attorney's work product is set out in the Discovery Act under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq. Various other statutory provisions also provide protection against disclosure of certain matters. For example, Civ. Code § 3295(c) sets out a procedure protecting against unrestricted pretrial discovery of a defendant's financial information in an action seeking punitive damages.

Evidentiary privileges and similar protections against disclosure are covered in detail in Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations .

[c] Provisions Governing Subpoenas Generally

Deposition subpoenas are governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.010 et seq. Discovery subpoenas in actions pending outside California are governed by the Interstate and International Depositions and Discovery Act, Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.100 et seq. Subpoenas in discovery proceedings are also governed by the provisions applicable to subpoenas generally, Code Civ. Proc. § 1985 et seq., to the extent these are not superseded by more specifically applicable provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.010 et seq. For detailed coverage of Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.010 et seq. and Code Civ. Proc. § 1985 et seq., see respectively Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions , and Ch. 535, Subpoena .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPleading & PracticeMotion PracticeGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresDiscoveryPrivileged MattersGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPretrial MattersSubpoenas

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Discovery Act and Related Law

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.11

§ 190.11 Application of Discovery Act

[1] Civil Actions and Proceedings Generally

In view of the definition of "action" [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.020(a) and § 190.13[4]], discovery under the Civil Discovery Act is available in special civil proceedings as well as in civil actions. Counsel should consult the provisions governing a particular special proceeding to determine if they modify, in the context of that proceeding, the application of Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq. [see, e.g., discussion in [3], below].

The Civil Discovery Act governs all discovery proceedings filed on or after its operative date, July 1, 2005 [Stats. 2004, ch. 182, § 64].

[2] Limited Civil Cases

Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq. applies to limited civil cases only to the extent provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 94 and 95 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 94]. Limited civil cases are those cases involving a limited amount in controversy, formerly in the jurisdiction of the municipal courts and now within the jurisdiction of the unified superior courts [see Code Civ. Proc. § 86; see also Ch. 345A, Limited Civil Cases].

For more detailed discussion of the restrictions imposed on the extent of discovery in limited civil cases, see § 190.23.

[3] Particular Proceedings

[a] Enforcement of Money Judgments

Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq. apply to discovery in aid of enforcement of a money judgment only to the extent provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.010-708.020 (written interrogatories to judgment debtor) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.070]. For further discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 708.010 et seq., see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments .

[b] Judicial Arbitration Proceedings

Parties to judicial arbitration under Code Civ. Proc. § 1141.10 et seq. are entitled to obtain discovery in accordance with the Discovery Act, except that all discovery must be completed no later than 15 days before the date set for the arbitration absent an order extending the time [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.822]. Other modifications of the general discovery provisions include, for example, a prohibition of discovery after an arbitration award, absent a stipulation or court order to the contrary [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1141.24; but see McMillan v. Superior Court (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 1014, 1019, 194 Cal. Rptr. 670 (Code Civ. Proc. § 1141.24 not applicable when plaintiff has requested expedited arbitration); see also Roe v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 642, 645-647, 273 Cal. Rptr. 745 (discovery permissible after arbitration proceedings have been completely vacated)].

In any judicial arbitration proceeding, no party may require the production of evidence specified in Civ. Code § 3295(a) (regarding a claim for punitive damages) at the arbitration, unless the court enters an order permitting pretrial discovery of that evidence pursuant to Civ. Code § 3295(c) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1141.19.5].

All discovery disputes involving an arbitration proceeding must be submitted first to the arbitrator, not to the court [Berglund v. Arthroscopic & Laser Surgery Center of San Diego, L.P. (2008) 44 Cal. 4th 528, 532, 79 Cal. Rptr. 3d 370, 187 P.3d 86 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1283.05]. While a party is entitled to only limited judicial review of arbitrator discovery orders, a nonparty is entitled to full judicial review of an arbitrator's adverse discovery order [Berglund v. Arthroscopic & Laser Surgery Ct. of San Diego (2008) 44 Cal. 4th 528, 532, 534-536, 79 Cal. Rptr. 3d 370, 187 P.3d 86].

For further discussion of the rules and procedures for discovery in judicial arbitration proceedings, see § 190.50[2] and Ch. 36, Judicial Arbitration .

[c] Sexually Violent Predators Act

The Third and Sixth Appellate Districts have held that the Discovery Act applies to proceedings under the Sexually Violent Predators Act (SVPA) (Welf. & Inst. Code § 6600 et seq.). The Third Appellate District held the trial court erred denying a motion to compel exchange of expert witness information based on its erroneous conclusion that the civil discovery procedures did not apply [Leake v. Superior Court (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 675, 682, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 767 , overruled on other grounds, People v. Yartz (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 529, 537, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 328, 123 P.3d 604] . The Sixth Appellate District agreed that the Civil Discovery Act (Code of Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq.) applies to proceedings under the SVPA, including the right to notice depositions; however, the court noted that the right to discovery in SVPA proceedings is also subject to those provisions of the Civil Discovery Act which expressly authorize the trial court to manage discovery and to prevent misuse of discovery procedures; accordingly, in managing discovery in SVPA proceedings, the trial court must keep in mind both the narrow scope of permissible discovery and the need for expeditious adjudication. The scope of discovery in SVPA proceedings is circumscribed by the two narrow issues presented at trial: (1) whether the person sought to be committed has been convicted of a sexually violent offense against two or more victims, and (2) whether the person has a diagnosed mental disorder that makes the person a danger to the health and safety of others in that it is likely that he or she will engage in sexually violent criminal behavior [Lee v. Superior Court (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 1108, 1128, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 712 (scope of appropriate discovery in SVPA proceedings is limited, citing Cheek); People v. Superior Court (Cheek) (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 980, 987-991, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 760] .

However, the Fourth Appellate District, Division Three, held, as a matter of first impression, that requests for admissions may not be propounded in SVPA proceedings because their use would eviscerate the SVPA's requirement that the state prove its case beyond a reasonable doubt and, when the case is tried to a jury, obtain a unanimous verdict before a person may be committed. To relieve the state of this burden would deprive a person of liberty interests in violation of the right to due process [Murillo v. Superior Court (2006) 143 Cal. App. 4th 730, 739-740, 49 Cal. Rptr.

3d 511] . The Fourth Appellate District, Division Two, held that a civil commitment proceeding under the SVPA requires application of the civil discovery rules, because it is a special proceeding of a civil nature [People v. Dixon (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 414, 443, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 33]. However, the court did not address whether all of the specific procedures afforded under the Civil Discovery Act apply to SVPA proceedings, noting Division Three's holding that, in SVPA proceedings, the use of requests for admission under Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.010(e) would violate defendant's due process rights [People v. Dixon (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 414, 442 n.2, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 33 ; see Murillo v. Superior Court (2006) 143 Cal. App. 4th 730, 740, 49 Cal. Rptr. 3d 511].

[d] Competency Determination Under Penal Code § 1367 et seq.

The First Appellate District has held that the Discovery Act applies to competency hearings under Penal Code § 1369 [Baqleh v. Superior Court (People) (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 478, 122 Cal Rptr. 2d 673 ; see Penal Code § 1367 et seq. (mentally incompetent immune from trial or punishment; determination of competency)]. The appellate court ruled the trial court may order a criminal defendant to submit to a mental examination by an expert designated by the prosecution in order to evaluate mental competence under Pen. Code § 1369, but the order must comply with Discovery Act, specifying the time, place, manner, conditions, scope and nature of the examination, and the identity and specialty of persons performing the examination, in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.310(b) [Baqleh v. Superior Court (People) (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 478, 506, 122 Cal Rptr. 2d 673 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2032(d))].

[e] Other Proceedings

Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq. apply to discovery in probate proceedings except as otherwise provided by the Probate Code or by the rules adopted by the Judicial Council [Prob. Code § 1000; see, e.g., Mota v. Superior Court (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 351, 353, 67 Cal. Rptr. 3d 303 (petitioner was entitled to conduct discovery relevant to her objections to distribution petition)]. They apply in uninsured motorist proceedings as provided for and limited by Ins. Code § 11580.2(f) [see Miranda v. 21st Century Ins. Co. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 913, 926 (superior court has exclusive jurisdiction under uninsured motorist law to hear discovery matters arising in uninsured motorist arbitrations; thus, court had power to dismiss case as terminating sanction)].

The Discovery Act also applies in a formal State Bar proceeding as adopted or limited by the Rules of Procedure of the State Bar of California, such as Rule 300 et seq. [Rules of Procedure, Rule 315; see Ch. 70, Attorney Admission , and Ch. 71, Attorney Discipline].

Depositions are available under some circumstances in proceedings before the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board [see Lab. Code § 5710]. Discovery procedures, except those provided for by Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.010 et seq. (interrogatories), may be authorized to apply if deemed appropriate in proceedings by the New Motor Vehicle Board [Veh. Code §§ 3050.1, 3050.2; see, e.g., Nader Automotive Group, LLC v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 1478, 1486, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 152 (dismissing plaintiffs' protests under Veh. Code § 3050.2(b), based on plaintiffs' failure to comply with authorized discovery without substantial justification)].

Family law litigants are entitled to all the discovery provided by the Civil Discovery Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq.) [Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 704, 711, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 854 P.2d 1117] . For example, Fam. Code § 3666 specifically makes the usual practices of civil discovery applicable to the enforcement of expedited family law discovery [Fam. Code § 3666; see In re Marriage of Loh (2002) 93 Cal. App. 4th 325, 327, 330-331, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 893 (reversing child support order based on "lifestyle" evidence consisting of photos of ex-spouse at his girlfriend's home and with different cars, because such evidence "is not a cheap substitute for proper discovery of income reported on tax returns," when ex-wife made no motions to compel production of those documents)].

The family court, like any other court presiding over a civil proceeding, also has discretion to limit discovery [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Hixson (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 1116, 1121, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 483 (family court did not abuse its discretion in preventing unnecessary discovery with respect to parties' stock)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsExpert Witness DiscoveryEstate, Gift & Trust LawProbateProcedures in ProbateGeneral OverviewFamily LawGeneral OverviewLegal EthicsSanctionsDisciplinary ProceedingsInvestigations

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Discovery Act and Related Law

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.12

§ 190.12 Purpose of Discovery Act

The Civil Discovery Actis intended, among other things, to accomplish the following [Province v. Center for Women's Health & Family Birth (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1673, 1683-1684, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 667 , disapproved on other grounds in Heller v. Norcal Mutual Ins. Co. (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 30, 41, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 876 P.2d 999 ; Beverly Hospital v. Superior Court (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 1289, 1294-1296, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 238] :

- Assist the parties and the trier of fact in ascertaining the truth.
- Encourage settlement by educating the parties as to the strengths of their claims and defenses.
- Expedite and facilitate preparation and trial.
- Prevent delay.
- Safeguard against surprise.

In addition, the current Act was intended to reduce the voluminous litigation generated by the former Discovery Act of 1956 [Beverly Hospital v. Superior Court (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 1289, 1296, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 238] .

The Supreme Court interpreted the former Discovery Act to accomplish similar goals: primarily to educate the parties concerning their claims and defenses so as to encourage settlements and to expedite and facilitate trial. Other related goals included the following [Greyhound Corp. v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 355, 376, 15 Cal. Rptr. 90, 364 P.2d 266] :

- Prevent perjury.
- Detect and expose false, fraudulent, and sham claims and defenses.

- Make available facts that otherwise could not be proved except with great difficulty.
- Simplify and narrow the issues.

The Supreme Court has since stated that its conclusions in Greyhound apply equally to the Discovery Act, which retains the same expansive scope as the former act [Emerson Electric Co. v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 1101, 1107-1108, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 883, 946 P.2d 841 ; see also § 190.13[1]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Discovery Act and Related Law

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.13

§ 190.13 Interpretation of Discovery Act

[1] Liberal Construction to Further Purpose of Act

Courts held that the former Discovery Act of 1956 was to be construed liberally in favor of disclosure, and that disclosure is a matter of right unless statutory or public policy considerations clearly prohibit it [see Shepherd v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 107, 118, 130 Cal. Rptr. 257, 550 P.2d 161 ; Greyhound Corp. v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 355, 377-378, 15 Cal. Rptr. 90, 364 P.2d 266] . They also held that, as a matter of general statutory construction, the interpretation of any one discovery section should be determined in context with the entire Discovery Act [Greyhound Corp. v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 355, 371, 15 Cal. Rptr. 90, 364 P.2d 266] .

These general propositions of liberal construction apply equally to the Civil Discovery Act [see Emerson Electric Co. v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 1101, 1107-1108, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 883, 946 P.2d 841 (affirming that its conclusions in prior landmark decision of Greyhound apply equally to Discovery Act, which retains expansive scope of former act, and that Discovery Act must similarly be construed liberally in favor of disclosure)].

[2] Reporter's Notes to Proposed Discovery Act

A State Bar-Judicial Council Joint Commission on Discovery proposed the Civil Discovery Act of 1986 (the predecessor to the current Civil Discovery Act) to the Legislature. This commission also published the notes of its Reporter, Professor James Hogan, which explained many of the proposed sections. These "Reporter's Notes to Proposed Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016-2036" are sometimes cited as a guide in interpreting the 1986 Act, whenever they appear to remain consistent with the Act as it is currently constituted. For the full text of the Reporter's Notes, together with text of the Discovery Act as proposed by the Joint Commission, see Hogan and Weber, California Civil Discovery, Appendix C (Matthew Bender).

[3] Case Law Interpreting Prior Acts

The Civil Discovery Act was passed in 2004 and became effective July 1, 2005. It repealed and renumbered the Civil Discovery Act of 1986 but did not substantively change the law of civil discovery [Stats. 2004, ch. 182 §§ 22, 23, 61].

Thus cases decided under the Civil Discovery Act of 1986 remain controlling authority. The 1986 Act repealed and replaced the Discovery Act of 1956 and related statutes (former Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016-2037.9) [see Stats. 1986, chs. 1334, 1336, as amended by Stats. 1987, ch. 86]. Although the 1986 Act implemented numerous changes in the prior law, in many instances it also continued provisions of the prior law or codified decisions construing prior law. Decisions construing the 1956 Discovery Act are thus sometimes cited in this chapter as persuasive, rather than controlling, authority to the extent that they appear to remain consistent with the provisions of the 1986 and 2004 Acts.

[4] Case Law Interpreting Federal Discovery Rules

The Discovery Act of 1956 essentially adapted the federal rules relating to civil discovery existing at that time [see Report of the Committee on Administration of Justice, 31 State BJ 204-231 (1956)]. Thus, courts held that the Act had the same meaning, force, and effect as that which the federal courts gave to the federal rules on which the Act was based [see Gorman Rupp Industries, Inc. v. Superior Court (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 28, 30, 97 Cal. Rptr. 377 ; see also Kahn v. Kahn (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 372, 387, 137 Cal. Rptr. 332 (federal interpretations made after adoption of Act deemed persuasive but not binding authority)].

The state and federal discovery provisions have since diverged in a number of particulars. Nevertheless, the Civil Discovery Act of 1986 in some instances adopted or continued provisions that reflect the federal rules [see Reporter's Notes to Proposed Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2017(a), (b), 2019(a), (b), (d), 2021, 2023(b), 2025(l), 2028(a), 2030(f), (m), (n), 2031(a), (c), (g), 2033(m)-(o); see also [2], above]. Thus, federal case law may sometimes be useful as persuasive authority in interpreting provisions of the current Discovery Act, to the extent it construes federal rules that are substantially identical. For further discussion comparing the state and federal discovery provisions, see DeMeo, California Deposition and Discovery Practice, Ch. 7, Discovery in Federal Actions Compared (Matthew Bender).

[5] Definitions Generally Applicable in Construing Discovery Act Provisions

The following definitions apply to the Civil Discovery Act:

- "Action" includes a civil action and any special proceeding of a civil nature [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.020(a)].

- "Court" means the trial court in which the action is pending, unless otherwise specified [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.020(b)].

- "Document" and "writing" mean a writing as defined in Evid. Code § 250 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.020(c); see Rubio v. Superior Court (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1343, 1347, 249 Cal. Rptr. 419 (Evid. Code § 250 definition of "writing" includes videotapes)].

- "Electronic" means relating to technology having electrical, digital, magnetic, wireless, optical, electromagnetic, or similar capabilities [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.020(d)].

- "Electronically stored information" is information that is stored in an electronic medium [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.020(e)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Discovery Act and Related Law

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.14

§ 190.14 Effect of Discovery Act on Informal Investigation

[1] Lawful Informal Investigation Not Precluded

Informal discovery techniques, such as interviews and investigations, remain a viable and often important alternative or adjunct to formal discovery under the Discovery Act [see Pillsbury, Madison & Sutro v. Schectman (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 1279, 1289, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 698 (dictum); see also Pullin v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1161, 1164-1165, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 447 (noting that there is little authority on the distinction between formal discovery and informal investigation, "with everyone apparently assuming that everyone else knows the difference"; citing examples)].

For example, one court has held that there is nothing in the Discovery Act to prevent a party from conducting a unilateral investigation without resort to any statutory discovery device, provided that the investigation is otherwise lawful. In that case, a plaintiff's expert in a slip-and-fall case successfully conducted tests on the floor of defendant store, when the store was open to the public during business hours, without recourse to a formal demand to inspect the premises under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq.) [Pullin v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1161, 1164-1165, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 447 (defendant had denied prior formal demand for inspection)]. The court in Pullin noted also that, since a lawful investigation of this type does not constitute "discovery" within the meaning of the Discovery Act, it is immaterial to the conduct of the investigation that the cut-off date may have passed for completing formal discovery prior to trial [Pullin v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1161, 1165 n.4, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 447] .

Similarly, a plaintiff in an action against a public agency may, either directly or indirectly through a representative such as his or her counsel, file a request under the Public Records Act (Gov. Code § 6250 et seq.) to obtain public records for use in the plaintiff's civil action. The requested documents must be produced unless one of the statutory exemptions set forth in the Public Records Act applies or the documents are otherwise privileged [County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 819, 826-830, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 564 (holding that plaintiff could seek discovery of public records under Public Records Act, even though previous motions for formal discovery of the identical documents had been denied, when not all elements of collateral estoppel doctrine were present)].

Public agencies have argued that they need not comply with requests for documents under the Public Records Act when the requests originate from litigants, because of an exemption applicable to records pertaining to pending litigation [see Gov. Code § 6254(b)]. This exemption, however, applies only to records prepared specifically for the purpose of the pending litigation, and not to records created in the ordinary course of business before the pending litigation began [see Fairley v. Superior Court (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1414, 1419-1421, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 648 ; Wilder v. Superior Court (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 77, 83, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 629 ; 71 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 235, 238-239 (1988) ; Hansen, Using the Public Records Act to Supplement Discovery, 22 Civil Litigation Reporter 201 (Cal. CEB 2000); § 191.128]. For further discussion of the Public Records Act and its procedures and exemptions, see Ch. 470C, Public Records Act .

Informal discovery using online sources may be particularly useful in finding and investigating corporate and business records and filings. For further discussion of these options, see Matthew Bender [(R)] Practice Guide: California Civil Discovery, Ch. 5, Discovery of Electronic Information . For discussion of electronic discovery ("e-discovery") generally, see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery).

[2] Illegal "Self-Help" Precluded

The fact that counsel still conduct much pretrial preparation and discovery without judicial assistance does not mean parties to litigation can operate outside the applicable parameters of the Discovery Act or may violate other laws or common law strictures in their zeal to pursue litigation [Pillsbury, Madison & Sutro v. Schectman (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 1279, 1288, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 698] . Any "self-help" discovery that violates ownership or privacy interests, or that is unjustified by any exception to the jurisdiction of the courts to administer the orderly resolution of disputes, is not permitted. For example, any litigant or potential litigant who, acting outside the legal process, converts, interdicts, or otherwise purloins documents in the pursuit of litigation does so without the general protections afforded by the laws of discovery. That litigant risks being found to have violated protected rights [Pillsbury, Madison & Sutro v. Schectman (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 1279, 1289, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 698] . Thus, self-help evidence gathering by employees for use in contemplated litigation against their soon-to-be former employer, through the unauthorized removal of confidential personnel documents from the employer's offices, was wrong. Discovery in the litigation context presupposes ownership of documents will remain with whomever holds title, while allowing access to the trier of fact, and litigants, in specifically delineated legal proceedings [Pillsbury, Madison & Sutro v. Schectman (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 1279, 1284-1289, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 698 (injunction requiring return to status quo existing at time documents were taken was least severe sanction)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewGovernmentsCourtsCourt RecordsLabor & Employment LawEmployment RelationshipsEmployment ContractsConditions & TermsTrade Secrets & Unfair CompetitionTrade Secrets

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Discovery Act and Related Law

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.15

§ 190.15 Effect of Trial Delay Reduction Programs

Under the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act (Gov. Code § 68600 et seq.), many local courts have adopted delay reduction or "fast track" programs for non-complex cases. The Discovery Act, however, continues to govern discovery in cases subject to these programs, except in arbitration proceedings. Local rules are not allowed to shorten time periods set forth in the Discovery Act [Gov. Code § 68616(f); see, e.g., Wagner v. Superior Court (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1314, 1317-1320, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 534 (trial court erred when it set discovery cutoff date when no trial date had been set, in conflict with former Code Civ. Proc. § 2024(a) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.020)]. In limited civil cases, discovery is governed in addition by the economic litigation provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 94 and 95, and discovery subject to these provisions is also not affected by the provisions of a trial court delay reduction program [Gov. Code § 68620(c)].

Nonetheless, local delay reduction programs may include rules providing for the court to regulate all discovery, consistent with these laws [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.730 (allowing use of technology); Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.020(b) (court may make order establishing particular sequence and timing for discovery in interests of justice); see also § 190.32]. In such cases, the trial court may, for example, inquire of the parties at status conferences as to the nature and extent of discovery remaining [Los Angeles Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 7.9(b)(2)].

For further coverage of the trial delay reduction programs and rules, see Ch. 552, Trial Court Delay Reduction .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePretrial MattersConferencesCase Management

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Discovery Act and Related Law

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 190.16-190.19

[Reserved]

§§ 190.16[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Scope of Civil Discovery

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.20

§ 190.20 General Scope of Civil Discovery

[1] Matter That Is Relevant

[a] General Rule

Except when limited by a court order in accordance with the Discovery Act, any party may obtain discovery regarding any matter, not privileged, that is relevant to the subject matter involved in the pending action or to the determination of any motion made in that action if the matter either is itself admissible in evidence or appears to be reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010]. For discussion relating to the admissibility of evidence generally, see Ch. 551, Trial .

Discovery may relate to [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010]:

- The claim or defense of the party seeking discovery or of any other party to the action.
- The identity and location of persons having knowledge of any discoverable matter.
- The existence, description, nature, custody, condition, and location of any document, tangible thing, or land or other property.

[b] Relevance to Subject Matter

The "subject matter" of the action is the circumstances and facts out of which the cause of action arises. It is the property, contract, or other thing involved in the dispute, and describes physical facts in relation to which the suit is prosecuted [Darbee v. Superior Court (1962) 208 Cal. App. 2d 680, 688, 25 Cal. Rptr. 520] . Subject matter is therefore broader than the precise issues presented by the pleading, and relevance to the subject matter, for the purpose of determining whether an unprivileged matter is subject to discovery, is a broader concept than relevance to the issues [see Pettie v. Superior Court (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 680, 687, 3 Cal. Rptr. 267 ; see also Reporter's Notes to Proposed Code Civ. Proc. § 2017 and discussion in § 190.13[2]]. Thus, for example, relevance to the subject matter includes relevance to potential as well as to actual issues in the case [see Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Superior Court (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 161, 172-173, 84 Cal. Rptr. 718, 465 P.2d 854 ; Union Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1978) 80 Cal. App. 3d 1, 10, 145 Cal. Rptr. 316] . For discovery purposes, information is relevant if it might reasonably assist a party in evaluating the case, preparing for trial, or facilitating settlement [Lipton v. Superior Court (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 1599, 1616, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 341] .

On the other hand, a court should sustain an objection to discovery based on lack of relevance to the subject matter when the information sought relates to matters of little or no practical benefit to the party seeking disclosure [Covell v. Superior Court (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 39, 42-43, 205 Cal. Rptr. 371] . For example, an attorney's profit margin is not relevant to the issue of whether the attorney's fee is unconscionable; what is relevant is whether the client received the services he or she paid for, as measured in the marketplace [Shaffer v. Superior Court (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 993, 1000-1003, 39 Cal. Rptr. 2d 506 (case of first impression)].

The question of relevance to subject matter is determined in each case according to reason and judicial experience [Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Superior Court (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 161, 172, 84 Cal. Rptr. 718, 465 P.2d 854 ; Morris Stulsaft Foundation v. Superior Court (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 409, 416, 54 Cal. Rptr. 12] . The standard of relevance to the subject matter must be reasonably applied according to the liberal policies in favor of discovery, and any doubts are generally to be resolved in favor of permitting discovery [Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Superior Court (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 161, 173, 84 Cal. Rptr. 718, 465 P.2d 854] .

Courts take the view that, whenever possible, objections to discovery should be resolved by protective orders addressing the specific harm shown by the objecting party, as opposed to a more general attack on the relevancy of the information the proponent seeks to discover [Norton v. Superior Court (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 1750, 1761, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 217] .

[c] Matter Need Not Be Admissible at Trial

A determination of "admissibility" is not a prerequisite to determining whether a discovery request is proper. At this early stage of a case, it is difficult to define exactly what evidence is needed, and the party seeking discovery is entitled to substantial leeway [Norton v. Superior Court (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 1750, 1761, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 217] . The possibility that the material a party seeks to discover might be excluded at trial pursuant to an evidentiary objection is not a proper consideration for the trial court in ruling on a discovery motion [Volkswagen of Am., Inc. v. Superior Court, (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th. 1481, 1497, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 723 (trial court erroneously limited discovery on basis that documents might be inadmissible at trial or because they were prepared or signed by plaintiff's attorney rather than plaintiff; accordingly, discovery order had to be reevaluated based on whether requested information was reasonably calculated to lead to admissible evidence, as provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010); Norton v. Superior Court (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 1750, 1760-1761, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 217 (evidence inadmissible under collateral source rule was discoverable for purpose of determining plaintiff's motive in bringing malpractice action)].

[2] Matter That Is Not Privileged

As discussed in [1], above, relevant matter is discoverable so long as it is "not privileged" [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010]. Thus, the evidentiary privileges and related provisions protecting against disclosure are the chief means of resisting discovery. For detailed discussion of privileges, see Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryRelevance

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Scope of Civil Discovery

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.21

§ 190.21 Specific Limits on General Scope

[1] Insurance Coverage

A party may obtain discovery of the existence and contents of any agreement under which any insurance carrier may be liable to satisfy in whole or in part a judgment that may be entered in the action or to indemnify or reimburse for payments made to satisfy the judgment. The discovery may include the identity of the carrier and the nature and limits of the coverage. A party may also obtain discovery concerning whether that insurance carrier is disputing the agreement's coverage of the claim involved in the action, but not concerning the nature and substance of the dispute. Information concerning the insurance agreement is not by reason of disclosure admissible in evidence at trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.210; see also Smith v. Superior Court (1961) 189 Cal. App. 2d 6, 11, 11 Cal. Rptr. 165 ; Pettie v. Superior Court (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 680, 683, 3 Cal. Rptr. 267] .

A party does not have the same broad right to discover an insurance company's reinsurance agreements. Reinsurance is a "contract ... by which an insurer procures a third person to insure him against loss or liability by reason of such original insurance" [Ins. Code § 620]. A reinsurance contract is a contract of indemnity for the benefit of the insurance company. The original "insured" has no interest in it [Ins. Code § 623; Ascherman v. Gen. Reinsurance Corp. (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 307, 312, 228 Cal. Rptr. 1 ("The reinsurance contract is not with the insured/policyholder. When a valid claim is made, the insurance company pays the first level insured, and the reinsurance company pays the insurance company. The reinsurance company's obligation is to the insurance company, and the insurance company vis-a-vis the reinsurer is thus the insured, or more appropriately, the 'reinsured.' ")]. Accordingly, Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.210 does not authorize discovery of reinsurance policies by an injured plaintiff to facilitate settlement of the underlying tort action [Catholic Mut. Relief Soc'y v. Superior Court (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 358, 372-374, 64 Cal. Rptr. 3d 434, 165 P.3d 154 (nonparty insurer's reinsurance information generally is irrelevant to plaintiff in tort actions brought against liability insurance policyholder and could lead to burdensome discovery requests directed at nonparties)].

The California Supreme Court has observed in dicta that there may be "unusual circumstances" in which the discovery of reinsurance agreements would be appropriate, as when, for example, those agreements are "directly on the risk to satisfy a judgment" or are the subject matter of the litigation, as in a coverage dispute between a liability insurer and its reinsurer [Catholic Mut. Relief Soc'y v. Superior Court (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 358, 374, 64 Cal. Rptr. 3d 434, 165 P.3d 154 (dicta)]. However, in the only reported California decision to allow the discovery of an insurer's reinsurance information [Lipton v. Superior Court (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 1599, 1611-1612, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 341] , discoverability turned on whether the requested information was relevant to an issue in the case. In that case, the discovery was allowed because the insurer was the defendant in a bad faith action and the information was relevant to the issues in the case. Discovery was limited to unprivileged communications between the insurer and reinsurer concerning coverage issues and potential liability. That discovery was allowed under the general relevancy test of former Code Civ. Proc. § 2017(a) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010), without reference to former Code Civ. Proc. § 2017(b) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.210) [Lipton v. Superior Court (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 1599, 1617-1618, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 341 (observing that before ordering production of any such documents, trial court should conduct in camera review and tailor its order based on their contents); see Fireman's Fund Insurance Co. v. Superior Court (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 1138, 1141, 286 Cal. Rptr. 50 (because case involved request for production of documents, court premised its discussion on requirements of protective order authorized by former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(e)(5), (6) (now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.060(b)(5), 2031.060(b)(6)))].

[2] Defendant's Financial Condition

In an action for damages, a plaintiff generally is entitled to seek information directly relevant to the issue of damages even though the issue of defendant's liability has not been tried and determined [Columbia Broadcasting Sys., Inc. v. Superior Court (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 12, 22, 69 Cal. Rptr. 348] . Thus, he or she may discover information relating to defendant's financial condition in an action in which plaintiff is seeking punitive damages because that condition is relevant to the issue of punitive damages [Coy v. Superior Court (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 210, 223, 23 Cal. Rptr. 393, 373 P.2d 457 ; cf. Doak v. Superior Court (1968) 257 Cal. App. 2d 825, 828, 838, 65 Cal. Rptr. 193 (defendant's assets not discoverable absent claim for punitive damages)].

Pretrial discovery of a defendant's financial condition or the profits that he or she has gained by means of the wrongful course of conduct, is, however, regulated by statute. The plaintiff seeking discovery must obtain an order permitting discovery, based on a showing of substantial probability that he or she will prevail on the punitive damages claim under Civ. Code § 3294 [Civ. Code § 3295(c); but see Rawnsley v. Superior Court (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 86, 90-91, 227 Cal. Rptr. 806 (Civ. Code § 3295(c) not applicable when financial information sought is fundamental to establish plaintiff's case)]. For further discussion and forms relating to a motion for an order permitting discovery under Civ. Code § 3295(c), see Ch. 177, Damages § 213.10 et seq.

Before a trial court may enter an order allowing discovery of financial condition information under Civ. Code § 3295(c), it must weigh the evidence presented by both sides, and make a finding that it is very likely the plaintiff will prevail on his or her claim for punitive damages [Jabro v. Superior Court (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 754, 755, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 843] .

[3] Civil Action Involving Sexual Misconduct

In any civil action alleging conduct that constitutes sexual harassment, sexual assault, or sexual battery, any party seeking discovery concerning the plaintiff's sexual conduct with individuals other than the alleged perpetrator is required to establish specific facts showing good cause for that discovery, and that the matter sought to be discovered is relevant to the subject matter of the action and reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.220(a); see Barrenda L. v. Superior Court (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 794, 800-803, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 727 (discovery solely for impeachment purposes is improper)].The sexual conduct protected from discovery includes nonconsensual, as well as consensual, sexual activity [Knoettgen v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 11, 13-14, 273 Cal. Rptr. 636] . This showing must be made by noticed motion and shall not be made or considered by the court at an ex parte hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.220(a); Mendez v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 557, 567-574, 253 Cal. Rptr. 731 (good cause not shown)]. The motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion.

The court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion for a protective order, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.220(b); for discussion of monetary sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq., see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2]].

If an action for sexual harassment, sexual assault, or sexual battery is combined with a related cause of action such as intentional infliction of emotional distress, the individual may waive some of his or her privacy rights in view of the importance of allowing necessary discovery, although any waiver will be very narrowly drawn. Thus, in a case involving an action for sexual harassment and intentional infliction of severe emotional distress, since the plaintiff's mental and emotional condition was directly relevant to her emotional distress claim and essential to a fair resolution of her suit, she waived her right to privacy in that respect, and discovery of those issues was allowed. However, she did not waive her right to privacy with respect to her sexual history and practices since she had made no contention that the alleged acts were detrimental to her present sexuality, and neither her sexual history nor practices were relevant, and discovery was not permitted [see Vinson v. Superior Court (1987) 43 Cal. 3d 833, 840-844, 239 Cal. Rptr. 292, 740 P.2d 404 (decided under prior law)].

A patient may have a cause of action against his or her psychotherapist or former psychotherapist for injury caused by sexual contact with the psychotherapist [see Civ. Code § 43.93; for discussion and forms relating to actions for sexual contact, see Ch. 414, Physicians: Licensing and Discipline]. In an action for sexual contact, evidence of the plaintiff's sexual history is not subject to discovery and is not admissible as evidence unless the plaintiff claims damage to sexual functioning, or the defendant requests a hearing prior to conducting discovery and makes an offer of proof of the relevancy of the history, and the court finds that the history is relevant and the probative value of the history outweighs its prejudicial effect. The court will allow the discovery or introduction as evidence only of specific information or examples of the plaintiff's conduct that are determined by the court to be relevant. The court's order must detail the information or conduct that is subject to discovery [Civ. Code § 43.93(d)].

Courts do not have the power to expand the methods of discovery beyond those authorized by statute. Similarly, the courts' power to compel discovery is circumscribed by statute. A court has no jurisdiction to compel a party to perform acts that are beyond the scope of the Discovery Act [Stermer v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 777, 781, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 577 (disapproved on other grounds in Emerson Electric Co. v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 1101, 1113, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 883, 946 P.2d 841)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryDisclosuresMandatory DisclosuresCivil ProcedureDiscoveryRelevanceTortsIntentional TortsAssault & BatteryGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Scope of Civil Discovery

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.22

§ 190.22 Particular Methods of Discovery Authorized Under Discovery Act

The available methods of discovery are [Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.010]:

- Oral and written depositions [see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions].
- Interrogatories to a party [see Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories].
- Inspections of documents, things, and land [see Ch. 195, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidences].
- Requests for admissions [see Ch. 196, Discovery: Requests for Admissions].
- Physical and mental examinations [see Ch. 197, Discovery: Physical and Mental Examinations].
- Exchange of expert witness information [see Ch. 198, Discovery: Exchange of Expert Witness Information].

In general, any of these methods is available to obtain discovery from another party in a pending action. By contrast, only (1) oral and written depositions, (2) inspections of documents, things, and places, and (3) physical and mental examination are available for the purpose of perpetuating testimony or preserving evidence before an action has been filed or pending appeal [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2035.020, 2036.020; for further discussion, see Ch. 199, Discovery: Preservation of Evidence]. The methods available to obtain discovery from a nonparty are further limited to oral and written depositions and to depositions limited to or including the production of documents or things [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.010; for further discussion, see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsExpert Witness DiscoveryCivil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsInterrogatoriesGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsPerpetuation of TestimonyCivil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsRequests for Production & InspectionCivil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsWritten Depositions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Scope of Civil Discovery

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.23

§ 190.23 Discovery in Limited Civil Cases

[1] Limited Civil Cases Subject to Economic Litigation Provisions

An limited civil case is one in which the following apply [Code Civ. Proc. § 85]:

- The amount in controversy does not exceed $25,000, that is, the amount of the demand, the recovery sought, the value of the property, or the amount of the lien, exclusive of attorney's fees, interest, and costs.

- The relief sought is a type that may be granted in a limited civil case, and is exclusively of a type described in one or more statutes that classify an action or special proceeding as a limited civil case or that provide that an action or special proceeding is within the original jurisdiction of the municipal court.

Thus, a limited civil cases is one involving a limited amount in controversy, which was formerly within the jurisdiction of the municipal courts and now within the jurisdiction of the unified superior courts [see Code Civ. Proc. § 86; see also Ch. 345A, Limited Civil Cases].

Limited civil cases, with certain exceptions, are subject to the provisions entitled Economic Litigation for Limited Civil Cases (Code Civ. Proc. § 90 et seq.) [Code Civ. Proc. § 91(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 91(b) (economic litigation provisions do not apply to small claims actions or unlawful detainer proceedings)].

[2] Discovery Act Modified by Economic Litigation Provisions

The economic litigation provisions (see [1], above) modify the application of the Discovery Act in limited civil cases. Parties to limited civil cases that are subject to these provisions may conduct discovery only to the extent permitted by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 94 and 95 [Code Civ. Proc. § 94(a); see discussion in [3] and [4], below].

[3] Restrictions on Discovery Under Economic Litigation Provisions

[a] Notice and Format Requirements of Discovery Act Apply

Discovery in a limited civil case must comply with the notice and format requirements of the particular method of discovery as provided in the Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 94].

[b] Interrogatories, Demands for Production and Inspection of Tangible Evidence, and Requests for Admissions

In a limited civil case, each party, as to each adverse party, may use any combination of 35 of the following forms of discovery [Code Civ. Proc. § 94(a)]:

- Interrogatories (with no subparts) under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.010 et seq. [see Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories].

- Demands to produce documents, things, and electronically stored information under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq. [see Ch. 195, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence].

- Requests for admissions (with no subparts) under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.010 et seq. [see Ch. 196, Discovery: Requests for Admissions].

[c] Depositions

In a limited civil case, each party, as to each adverse party, may use one oral or written deposition under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.010 et seq.-2028.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 94(b); see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions].

[d] Subpoena Duces Tecum

In a limited civil case, each party, as to each adverse party, may serve on any person a deposition subpoena duces tecum requiring the person served to mail copies of documents, books or records to the party's counsel at a specified address, along with an affidavit complying with Evid. Code § 1561 [Code Civ. Proc. § 94(c)]. The party who issues the deposition subpoena must mail a copy of the response to any other party who tenders the reasonable cost of copying it [Code Civ. Proc. § 94(c)]. For discussion and forms relating to deposition subpoenas, see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions .

[e] Physical and Mental Examinations

In a limited civil case, each party, as to each adverse party, may obtain discovery by means of physical and mental examinations under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 94(d); see Ch. 197, Discovery: Physical and Mental Examinations].

[f] Exchange of Expert Witness Information

In a limited civil case, each party, as to each adverse party, may obtain discovery relating to the identity of expert witnesses under Code Civ. Proc. § 2034.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 94(e); see Ch. 198, Discovery: Exchange of Expert Witness Information].

[4] Authorization for Additional Discovery

[a] By Motion

The court, on noticed motion and subject to just terms and conditions, may authorize a party to conduct additional discovery, but only on a showing that the moving party will be unable to prosecute or defend the action effectively without the additional discovery. In making the determination, the court must take into account whether the moving party has used all applicable discovery in good faith, and has attempted to secure the additional discovery by stipulation or by means other than formal discovery [Code Civ. Proc. § 95(a)]. For a general discussion and forms relating to noticed motions, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

[b] By Stipulation

The parties may stipulate to additional discovery [Code Civ. Proc. § 95(b)]. For a general discussion and forms relating to stipulations, see Ch. 533, Stipulations .

[5] Motion to Withdraw Action From Limited Civil Case Procedures

A limited civil case may, on noticed motion, be withdrawn from the economic litigation provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 90 et seq., on a showing that it is impractical to prosecute or defend the action within the limitations of these provisions [Code Civ. Proc. § 91(c); for general discussion and forms relating to noticed motions, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders]. If the action is withdrawn, it becomes subject to the provisions of the Discovery Act for purposes of discovery.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsAdmissionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsInterrogatoriesGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsMental & Physical ExaminationsCivil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsOral DepositionsCivil ProcedurePretrial MattersSubpoenas

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Scope of Civil Discovery

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.24

§ 190.24 Discovery of Electronically Stored Information

[1] Governing Law

Discovery of electronically stored information (ESI) pursuant to the Civil Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.010-2036.050] is governed generally by the Electronic Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985.8, 2031.010-2031.510], which was enacted in 2009.

Related provisions of the Civil Discovery Act include the provisions governing discovery generally, set out in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.010-2019.030, 2023.010-2023.040.

The extent of discovery permitted under the Civil Discovery Act is restricted in limited civil cases by the economic litigation provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 94 and 95. The use of demands for the production or inspection of tangible evidence is limited specifically by Code Civ. Proc. § 94(a). For further discussion, see §§ 190.11[2], 190.23[2][a].

Case management requirements regarding discovery of electronically stored information is set out in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.724(8). Statewide rule provisions relating to the format, content, and service of discovery papers and motions, and to discovery sanctions, are set out in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1000, 3.1020, 3.1025, and 3.1030.

"[E]lectronic evidence is no less discoverable than paper evidence" [*Advante Int'l Corp. v. Mintel Learning Tech. (N.D. Cal. 2006) 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 45859, at 3 , quoting Zubulake v. UBS Warburg LLC (S.D.N.Y. 2003) 217 F.R.D. 309, 317 ; see [2], below]. However, the computer age has generated "new and challenging" issues for attorneys, clients, and courts during the civil discovery process [*Advante Int'l Corp. v. Mintel Learning Tech. (N.D. Cal. 2006) 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 45859, at 3]. "As individuals and corporations increasingly do business electronically--using computers to create and store documents, make deals, and exchange e-mails--the universe of discoverable material has expanded exponentially" [Zubulake v. UBS Warburg LLC (S.D.N.Y. 2003) 217 F.R.D. 309, 311]. Electronic data in discovery presents particular problems with respect to preservation and production or spoliation of evidence, privacy, and privilege.

[2] Electronic Discovery Act

For many years before the passage of the Electronic Discovery Act, California courts allowed discovery and often admission of electronically stored information into evidence under prior discovery statutes [see, e.g., People v. Lugashi (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 632, 640, 252 Cal. Rptr. 434 (allowing admission of bank computer records); R.S. Creative v. Creative Cotton (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 486, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 353 (terminating sanctions for actions including spoliation of evidence on computers)]. However, there are few reported California state court decisions on this topic, and trial courts had to apply general discovery principles to electronic evidence on a case by case basis.

In 2009, the California legislature passed the Electronic Discovery Act to address the problems created by application of the general Discovery Act rules to the specific issues that typically arise in e-discovery. The Electronic Discovery Act is modeled on federal rules governing e-discovery that took effect December 1, 2006 [see Fed. R. Civ. P., Rules 16(b)(3)(B)(iii), (iv), 26(b)(2)(B), (b)(5), (f)(3)(c), 34(b)(1)(C), (b)(2)(D), (b)(2)(E), 37(e)]. The federal rules were one of the first attempts nationally to address e-discovery in a comprehensive manner, and as a result state courts have often looked to these rules in attempting to resolve e-discovery issues in the absence of state law. As a result, California courts may be expected to look to federal decisions construing the federal rules for guidance, at least until California courts have had a chance to interpret its Electronic Discovery Act.

For more detailed discussion of the Electronic Discovery Act and related cases, see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery).

For a detailed step-by-step guide to the discovery of electronic evidence, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Scope of Civil Discovery

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.25

§ 190.25 Discovery in Actions Pending Outside California

Effective January 1, 2010 [Stats. 2008 ch. 231, § 3; Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.900], the Interstate and International Depositions and Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.100 et seq.] governs depositions in California for out-of-state actions. The Act is California's version of the Uniform Interstate Depositions and Discovery Act [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.700]. The Act governs depositions for the production of tangible items and inspection of premises, in addition to those requiring testimony [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.200(e)]. The Act broadens the range of documents issued by an out-of-state court pursuant to which a California court may issue a subpoena, and includes electronically stored information [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.200(e)(2)]. The Act clarifies that a request for the issuance of a subpoena does not constitute an appearance in a California court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300(a)].

The Act specifies the process for obtaining a subpoena--requiring payment of a fee, to be deposited in the Trial Court Trust Fund, and submitting the subpoena of the out-of-state court with a specified application [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300]. A party is not required to retain a local attorney to depose a witness in these circumstances. The Act permits an active member of the California State Bar who is retained by a party to an out-of-state court proceeding to issue a deposition subpoena [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.350(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.350(b) (content and format requirements)].

The Act provides a dispute resolution process for discovery conducted in California in connection with an out-of-state proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2029.600-2029.630]. It permits a party to appeal court orders in connection with a dispute by extraordinary writ to the court of appeal [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.650].

For a detailed discussion of the Act, see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions, § 193.130 et seq. Judicial Council forms (application and subpoenas) for use under the Interstate and International Depositions and Discovery Act are reproduced in Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions, §§ 280-282, Ch. 195, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence, § 195.70, and Ch. 535, Subpoena, § 535.85.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Scope of Civil Discovery

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 190.26-190.29

[Reserved]

§§ 190.26[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. General Regulatory Provisions and Procedures

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.30

§ 190.30 Proceeding to Limit General Scope When Hardship Outweighs Usefulness

The court is required to limit the scope of discovery if it determines that the burden, expense, or intrusiveness of that discovery clearly outweighs the likelihood that the information sought will lead to the discovery of admissible evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.020(a); see Calcor Space Facility, Inc. v. Superior Court (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 216, 223, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 567] .

The court may make this determination pursuant to a motion for protective order by a party or other affected person [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.020(a); see also Greyhound Corp. v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 355, 383-384, 15 Cal. Rptr. 90, 364 P.2d 266] .

This motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion. The court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion for a protective order, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.020(b)]. For further discussion of these general provisions for a declaration regarding attempt at informal resolution and for monetary sanctions, see § 190.33 and Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

For a form for a motion for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.020, see § 190.80.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryProtective OrdersCivil ProcedureDiscoveryUndue BurdensCriminal Law & ProcedureDiscovery & InspectionDiscovery MisconductGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. General Regulatory Provisions and Procedures

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.31

§ 190.31 Proceeding to Restrict Frequency or Extent of Use of Discovery Methods

The court, on motion for a protective order by a party or other affected person, must restrict the frequency or extent of use of the discovery methods if it determines either of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.030(a)]:

- The discovery sought is unreasonably cumulative or duplicative, or is obtainable from some other source that is more convenient, less burdensome, or less expensive.

- The selected method of discovery is unduly burdensome or expensive, taking into account the needs of the case, the amount in controversy, and the importance of the issues at stake in the litigation.

This motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion. The court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion for a protective order, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.030(c)]. For further discussion of these general provisions for a declaration re attempt at informal resolution and for monetary sanctions, see § 190.33 and Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

The trial court has considerable discretion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.030 [Carter v. Superior Court (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 994, 998, 267 Cal. Rptr. 290 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 2019(b))]. This discretion may, however, be limited to the extent that a more specific provision limiting discovery applies. For example, if a party propounding interrogatories fails to follow the procedure for obtaining further responses, he or she waives any right to compel further responses under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300. In this situation, the court essentially has no discretion to permit the propounding party to avoid the waiver under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300(c) by serving the same questions in a second set of interrogatories [see Professional Career Colleges, Magna Institute, Inc. v. Superior Court (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 490, 493-494, 255 Cal. Rptr. 5] .

On the other hand, a specific provision limiting one method of discovery does not apply to the use of other methods. For example, if a party has waived its right to compel further inspection of documents under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310(c), that party is not automatically barred from employing another method to obtain disclosure of those documents, such as a deposition at which the deponent is required to produce the records. In this situation the court may exercise its discretion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.030 to determine whether use of the second method of discovery is burdensome or duplicative [see Carter v. Superior Court (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 994, 996-998, 267 Cal. Rptr. 290 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 2019(b))].

For a form for a motion for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.030, see § 190.80.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudicial OfficersJudgesDiscretionCivil ProcedureDiscoveryProtective OrdersCivil ProcedureDiscoveryUndue BurdensCriminal Law & ProcedureDiscovery & InspectionDiscovery MisconductGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. General Regulatory Provisions and Procedures

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.32

§ 190.32 Proceeding to Establish Manner, Sequence, or Timing of Discovery

[1] General Rule

As a general rule, the methods of discovery may be used in any sequence, and the fact that a party is conducting discovery, whether by deposition or another method, will not operate to delay the discovery of any other party. This is the rule unless there is a Judicial Council or local court rule or local uniform written policy to the contrary [Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.020(a)].

However, on motion and for good cause shown, the court may establish the sequence and timing of discovery for the convenience of parties and witnesses and in the interests of justice [Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.020(b)].

For a form for a motion that may be modified for use as a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.020(b), see § 190.80.

[2] Electronic Filing and Service Generally

[a] Rules for Electronic Filing

Electronic filing and service are governed by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250 et seq. In general, a court may permit electronic filing of a document in any action or proceeding, unless the rules in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250 et seq. or other legal authority expressly prohibit electronic filing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.252(a)]. In a proceeding that requires the filing of an original document, an electronic filer may file a scanned copy of a document if the original document is then filed with the court within 10 calendar days [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.252(b)]. The court may file electronically any notice, order, minute order, judgment, or other document prepared by the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.252(d)].

A document that the court or a party files electronically under these rules has the same legal effect as a document in paper form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.252(e)(1)]. Moreover, filing a document electronically does not alter any filing deadline [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.252(e)(2)].

In specified actions, a court, on the motion of any party or on its own motion, after finding that such an order would not cause undue hardship or significant prejudice to any party, may order all parties to file all documents electronically. These actions include any class action, a consolidated action, a group of actions, a coordinated action, or an action that is complex under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.403 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.253(a)(2), (3)]. Filing in paper format may be allowed when it is not feasible to convert a document to electronic form [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.253(c)].

A document that is filed electronically with the court must be in a format specified by the court unless it cannot be created in that format [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.256(b)].

Additional rules concerning signature requirements and payment of filing fees are covered in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.257 and Rule 2.258, respectively.

[b] Rules for Electronic Service

In specified types of actions, the court, on the motion of any party or on its own motion, after finding that such an order would not cause undue hardship or significant prejudice to any party, may order all parties to serve all documents electronically, unless personal service is required by statute or rule [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.253(a)(1), (3)]. These actions include any class action, a consolidated action, a group of actions, a coordinated action, or an action that is complex under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.403 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.253(a)]. The court also may order that when the court sends confirmation of filing to all parties, receipt of the confirmation constitutes service of the filing, if the filed document is available electronically [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.253(b)(2)].

When a notice may be served by mail, express mail, overnight delivery, or fax transmission, electronic service of the notice is permitted when authorized by the rules governing electronic service and filing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(a)(1); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250 et seq. (electronic filing and service rules)]. A party indicates that he or she agrees to accept electronic service by [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(a)(2)]:

- Filing and serving a notice that the party accepts electronic service; or
- Electronically filing any document with the court.

The notice also must include the electronic notification address at which the party agrees to accept service [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(a)(2)].

A party that has consented to electronic service and has used an electronic filing service provider to file and serve documents in a case consents to service on that electronic filing service provider as the designated agent for service for the party in the case, until the party designates a different agent for service [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(a)(3)].

Electronic service is complete at the time of transmission [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(e)(1)]. If a document is served electronically, any period of notice, or any right or duty to act or respond within a specified period or on a date certain after service of the document, is extended by two court days [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(e)(2); see Cal. Rules of Ct., 2.260(e)(3) (this extension does not extend time for filing (1) notice of intent to move for new trial, (2) notice of intent to move to vacate judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 663a; or (3) notice of appeal)]. Service that occurs after the close of business is deemed to have occurred the next court day [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(e)(4)].

Proof of electronic service may be by any of the methods provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 (see § 190.51[4]), except that the proof of service must state [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(f)(1)]:

- The electronic notification address of the person making the service, in addition to that person's residence or business address;

- The date and time of the electronic service, instead of the date and place of deposit in the mail;

- The name and electronic notification address of the person served, in place of that person's name and address as shown on the envelope; and

- That the document was served electronically, in place of the statement that the envelope was sealed and deposited in the mail with postage fully prepaid.

Proof of electronic service may be in electronic form and may be filed electronically with the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(f)(2)]. Proof of service of the moving papers must be filed at least five calendar days before the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(f)(3); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(c) (proof of service of moving papers must be filed no later than five court days before time of hearing)]. The party filing the proof of electronic service must maintain the printed form of the document bearing the declarant's original signature and must make the document available for inspection and copying on the request of the court or any party to the action or proceeding in which it is filed, in the manner provided in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.257(a) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(f)(4)].

The court may serve electronically any notice, order, judgment, or other document prepared by the court in the same manner as parties may serve documents by electronic service [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(g)].

[3] Use of Technology in Certain Cases

In certain cases under Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.730(a) (cases designated as complex pursuant to Section 19 of the Judicial Administration Standards, cases ordered to be coordinated pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 404 et seq., exceptional cases exempt from case disposition time goals pursuant to Gov. Code § 68600 et seq., or cases assigned to Plan 3 pursuant to Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule § 2105(b)(3)), the court may enter orders for the use of technology in conducting discovery. Technology includes such devices as telephone, e-mail, CD-ROM, Internet web sites, electronic documents, electronic document depositories, Internet depositions and storage, videoconferencing, and other electronic technology [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.710]. The technology service provider must be appointed by the court under a contract approved by the court. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.730(c), the court must find, or the parties must stipulate, that the procedures adopted in the order do all of the following:

- Promote cost-effective and efficient discovery or related motions.

- Do not impose or require undue expenditures of time or money.

- Do not create an undue economic burden or hardship on any person.

- Promote open competition among vendors and providers of services in order to facilitate the highest quality service at the lowest reasonable cost to the litigants.

- Do not require parties or counsel to purchase exceptional or unnecessary services, hardware, or software.

The court may prescribe procedures relating to the use of electronic technology in conducting discovery, including orders for the service of requests for discovery and responses, service and presentation of motions, production, storage, and access to information in electronic form, and the conduct of discovery in electronic media [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.730(d)].

The court must appoint any technology provider agreed upon by the parties, and must approve the contract agreed upon by the parties and the service provider. If the parties do not agree on a provider, each party must submit to the court up to three nominees together with a contract acceptable to the nominee and the court will make an appointment from among the nominees. If there are no nominees, the court will appoint the provider. The court may condition its appointment on the acceptance of modifications in the terms of the contract. Pursuant to noticed motion at any time and upon a showing of good cause, the court may order the removal of the service provider or vacate any agreement between the parties and the service provider, or both, effective as of the date of the order. The continued service of the service provider is subject to review periodically, as agreed by the parties and the service provider, or annually if they do not agree. Any disputes involving the contract or the duties, rights, and obligations of the parties or service providers may be determined on noticed motion in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.740(b)].

The rights and duties of the parties must not be diminished by the use of technology [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.720(a)], and allowing its use has no bearing on the appointment or requirement for a stenographic court reporter [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.720(b), (c); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.330(b)].

For a detailed discussion of electronic discovery (e-discovery), see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryProtective OrdersCivil ProcedureDiscoveryUndue Burdens

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. General Regulatory Provisions and Procedures

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.33

§ 190.33 General Provisions for Regulating Discovery Proceedings

[1] Requirement of Good-Faith Effort at Informal Resolution of Disputes

The Discovery Act is designed so that civil discovery will be self-executing, that is, that it will be conducted as much as possible by the parties without assistance from the courts. A party may always obtain the trial court's assistance or intervention by making a motion for a discovery order, but the Discovery Act utilizes two general devices to discourage unmerited recourse to motion proceedings.

The first device requires that a moving party generally show that he or she has initiated a motion proceeding only after making an attempt to resolve the discovery dispute informally. In most instances in which the Civil Discovery Act provides for a particular motion for a discovery order, particularly those which compel or limit discovery, the motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts that show a "reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion" as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.040 [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2017.020(a), 2019.030(b) (protective orders generally), 2024.050(a) (motion to hear discovery motion closer to trial date or to reopen discovery), 2025.260(a), 2025.410(c), 2025.420(a), 2025.450(b)(2), 2025.480(b), 2025.520(g) (depositions), 2028.040(b) (deposition by written questions), 2030.090(a), 2030.300(b), 2030.310(a) (interrogatories), 2031.060(a), 2031.310(b)(2) (inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of documents, tangible things, places, or electronically stored information), 2032.250(a), 2032.310(b), 2032.620(a), 2032.650(a) (physical or mental examinations), 2033.080(a), 2033.290(b) (requests for admission), 2034.250(a), 2034.470(b), 2034.610(c), 2034.710(c) (exchange of expert witness lists)]. In the case of a party who is served a notice of deposition and fails to attend the deposition or produce the documents or things described in the deposition notice without serving a valid objection, a motion to compel must be accompanied by a declaration showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution or by a declaration stating that the petitioner contacted the deponent to inquire about the nonappearance [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(b)(2)]. One court has held that implicit in the requirement of former Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(j)(3)(B) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(b)(2)) that counsel contact the deponent about a nonappearance is the requirement that counsel listen to the reasons offered and make a good faith attempt to resolve the issue. Accordingly, either declaration submitted with a motion of compel under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(b)(2) must show a reasonable and good faith attempt to resolve each issue presented, including those relating to the nonappearance [

Blago Leko v. Cornerstone Home Inspection (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1109, 1124, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 858 (attorney sanctioned under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023(a)(3), (9) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010(c), (i)) for improperly filing motion to compel attendance when attorney completely disregarded his obligation to attempt to informally resolve discovery issue)].

For discussion of monetary sanctions for failure to attempt an informal resolution as a misuse of the discovery process, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.020, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

[2] Discovery Sanctions

Of the two general devices designed to make discovery proceedings self-executing [see [1], above], the second is the provision for monetary sanctions in most motion proceedings. The trial court in a discovery motion proceeding generally is required to impose such sanctions against the losing party, that is, the party who unsuccessfully brought or opposed the motion. The court may decline to impose the sanction only if it finds explicitly that the party subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances exist that would make imposition of the sanction unjust [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2017.020(b), 2019.030(c) (protective orders generally), 2024.050(c) (motion to hear discovery motion closer to trial date or to reopen discovery), 2025.260(d), 2025.410(d), 2025.420(d), 2025.450(c), 2025.420(d), 2025.480(f), 2025.520(h) (depositions), 2028.040(c), 2028.050(c) (deposition by written questions), 2030.090(d), 2030.300(d), 2030.310(d) (interrogatories), 2031.060(h), (i), 2031.300(c), (d), 2031.310(h), (j), 2031.320(b), (d) (inspection, copying, testing, sampling of documents, tangible things, places, or electronically stored information), 2032.250(b), 2032.620(b), 2032.650(b) (physical or mental examinations), 2033.080(d), 2033.290(d) (requests for admission), 2034.250(d)), 2034.470(g), 2034.630, 2034.730 (exchange of expert witness lists)].

For further discussion of these provisions for monetary sanctions for unsuccessful prosecution of or opposition to a discovery motion, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, § 192.15[2].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryMisconductCivil ProcedureDiscoveryMotions to Compel

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. General Regulatory Provisions and Procedures

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.34

§ 190.34 Protective Orders in Context of Particular Discovery Proceedings

In addition to the protective orders available under the general provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2017.020 and 2019.030 [see §§ 190.30, 190.31], the code sections governing each particular discovery method also provide for a motion for a protective order within the context of that particular method. These generally provide that the court, for good cause shown, may make any order that justice requires to protect any party or person from unwarranted annoyance, embarrassment, or oppression, or undue burden and expense. They also enumerate specific orders that are included within, but which do not exclusively limit, the court's power to fashion an order as justice requires [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.420, 2025.470, 2028.070 (depositions), 2030.090(b) (interrogatories), 2031.060(b) (inspection, copying, testing, sampling of documents, tangible things, places, or electronically stored information), 2033.080(b) (requests for admission), 2034.250(b) (exchange of expert witness information); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.510 (protective order during physical or mental examination)]. For further discussion of these provisions, see the chapter discussing the pertinent discovery method [see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions , through Ch. 198, Discovery: Exchange of Expert Witness Information].

Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq., governing attorneys' work product protection, also authorizes a protective order on good cause shown to ensure the confidentiality of an attorney's work product that is relevant to issues of breach of duty by the attorney in a disciplinary hearing [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.070(b); see also discussion in § 190.11[3][c]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryProtective Orders

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. General Regulatory Provisions and Procedures

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.35

§ 190.35 Regulating Discovery by Stipulation

Unless the court orders otherwise, the parties may by written stipulation (1) provide that depositions may be taken before any person, at any time or place, on any notice, and in any manner, and when so taken may be used like other depositions; and (2) modify the procedures provided under Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq. for other methods of discovery [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.030].

Stipulations relating to discovery, and notices of these stipulations, are not to be filed with the court unless offered as relevant to the determination of an issue in a law and motion proceeding or other hearing, or ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(7), (18); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b) (retention of originals)].

For discussion and forms relating to stipulations generally, see Ch. 533, Stipulations .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsStipulations

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. General Regulatory Provisions and Procedures

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.36

§ 190.36 Limiting Disclosure of Discovered Matter for Nonlitigation Purposes

A litigant's right of freedom of speech under U.S. Const., amend. I, does not include an absolute right to use information obtained by discovery for nonlitigation purposes. A protective order does not violate U.S. Const., amend. I, if it prohibits the dissemination, publication, or use of discovered information for any purpose other than the litigation at hand, when that order has been entered on a showing of good cause, is limited to the context of pretrial discovery, and does not restrict the dissemination of the information if gained from other sources [Seattle Times Co. v. Rhinehart (1984) 467 U.S. 20, 36-37, 104 S. Ct. 2199, 81 L. Ed. 2d 17 (upholding order issued in libel action that prohibited defendant publisher from making use of specified information obtained by court ordered discovery); see also Coalition Against Police Abuse v. Superior Court (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 888, 896-906, 216 Cal. Rptr. 614 (relying on Seattle Times in upholding order issued after litigation requiring return of documents not already disseminated that had been discovered subject to protective orders)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryProtective Orders

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. General Regulatory Provisions and Procedures

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.37

§ 190.37 Procedure to Seal Confidential Records

Court records of a civil proceeding generally are available to the public unless otherwise provided by law [see NBC Subsidiary (KNBC-TV), Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 1178, 1212, 1217-1218, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 778, 980 P.2d 337] . Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.550-2.551 establish a procedure for obtaining a court order to seal otherwise public court records when there is an overriding interest that overcomes the general right of public access to court records [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(d)]. "Overriding interests" that support such an order may include privileges, trade secrets, contractual nondisclosure obligations, privacy interests, and other similar protections against the disclosure of confidential material [see NBC Subsidiary (KNBC-TV), Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 1178, 1222 n.46, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 778, 980 P.2d 337 ; see, e.g., Huffy Corp. v. Superior Court (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 97, 105-111, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 823 (documents in insurance coverage dispute, including settlement agreement with confidentiality clause which contained exception for court-ordered disclosure; papers revealing sources of payments to settle claims; documents containing admissions that defendant may have violated pollution laws; papers revealing identity of witnesses to possible violations of laws; and documents disclosing identity of other entities that may have violated laws, could not remain sealed, absent Rule 243.1 showing of prejudice to an overriding interest); see also Advisory Committee Comment to Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550].

The procedure for sealing court records under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.550-2.551, does not apply to discovery motions, nor to records filed or lodged in court in connection with discovery motions or proceedings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(a)(3)]. Thus, the presumed right of public access discussed in NBC Subsidiary, discussed above, and Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.550-2.551, did not apply to discovery materials designated confidential under a protective order and later filed with the court and not used at trial or submitted as a basis for adjudication [Mercury Interactive Corp. v. Klein (2007) 158 Cal. App. 4th 60, 103-108, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 88 (stressing that "the issue we decide here is a rather narrow one" and acknowledging that "there may exist instances in which an attachment to a complaint to which a demurrer is interposed may constitute a document submitted as a basis for adjudication and thereby fall within the presumption of public access," such as "a challenged complaint in which a contract is attached and in which the demurrer concerns the viability of the contract"; remanding case to allow defendants to challenge plaintiff's confidentiality designations by following procedures in stipulated protective order)]. Accordingly, the procedures under the Discovery Act for obtaining protective orders remain the chief means of protecting against public disclosure of sensitive or confidential materials during pretrial discovery.

The procedure for sealing records under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.550-2.551, does apply to discovery materials, however, once a party seeks to use them at trial or otherwise submit them to the court as a basis for adjudication [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(a)(3); see also Advisory Committee Comment to Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550, citing NBC Subsidiary (KNBC-TV), Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 1178, 1208-1209 n.25, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 778, 980 P.2d 337] . For detailed discussion and forms relating to the procedure for sealing records under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.550-2.551, see Ch. 551, Trial .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryProtective OrdersGovernmentsCourtsCourt RecordsTrade Secrets LawCivil ActionsDiscovery

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. General Regulatory Provisions and Procedures

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.38

§ 190.38 Stay of Discovery

[1] Pending Determination of Validity of Cause of Action

If a potential plaintiff is unable to state a viable cause of action on the basis of the facts already available to him or her, that individual will be unable to employ any of the discovery methods in order to ascertain the facts essential to state a cause of action [see generally Terminals Equipment Co. v. City and County of San Francisco (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 234, 247, 270 Cal. Rptr. 329] . This is in keeping with the general purpose of discovery, that of clarifying the underlying facts and the contentions of the parties in litigation [see discussion in § 190.12]. Indeed, most of the methods of discovery link the timing of permissible discovery to the service of summons on, or appearance by, the party from whom discovery is sought [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.210 (oral deposition), 2030.020 (written interrogatories), 2031.020 (inspection, copying, testing, or sampling), 2032.220(b) (physical examination), 2033.020 (request for admission)]. Thus, unless and until a plaintiff files a viable complaint stating at least one triable cause of action, permitting discovery of the purported defendant would only be an unnecessary and burdensome expense to that individual [see Terminals Equipment Co. v. City and County of San Francisco (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 234, 247, 270 Cal. Rptr. 329] .

Frequently, however, discovery is sought after the validity of the cause of action alleged in the plaintiff's complaint has been challenged, and before a determination of validity has been made. In such a case, a stay of discovery is an appropriate method of preserving the rights of both parties. For example, in an inverse condemnation action, during the course of discovery, the plaintiffs filed a far-reaching demand for inspection of documents. After the defendant city responded, the plaintiffs sought to have the city produce additional materials, and filed a motion to compel production of those documents. The city refused to produce them, asserting that they were confidential documents protected by Evid. Code § 1040, and demurred on the ground that the complaint failed to state a cause of action. The trial court stayed the plaintiffs' motion to compel production, pending resolution of the demurrer, which was eventually sustained with leave to amend. After a hearing on the plaintiff's motion to compel production, the court ordered that the discovery stay remain in effect until the plaintiffs filed an amended complaint that was not subject to demurrer. The court of appeal upheld the continuance of the stay. It said that if the plaintiffs were unable to state a viable cause of action on the basis of the facts already available, nothing in the disputed documents could do anything to change that. Once it is recognized that a complaint shows that a plaintiff has no claim, all concerned should be spared the expense of further proceedings [Terminals Equipment Co. v. City and County of San Francisco (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 234, 247, 270 Cal. Rptr. 329 (plaintiffs elected to stipulate to judgment and appealed that judgment to the court of appeal)].

The party resisting discovery may choose to file an application for a stay either as an initial response to the discovery request, or in response to a motion to compel discovery. In either case, it is advisable to make a good faith attempt at some sort of dispute resolution with the other party in order to avoid sanctions [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.020, discussed in Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2]; see also § 190.33[1]]. When the discovery is sought through the use of an oral deposition, and the notice of deposition is not in statutory compliance, there is specific authority for imposing a stay on the taking of that deposition and the quashing of that deposition notice [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410, discussed in Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions].

As an alternative to seeking a stay of discovery, the party resisting discovery may seek a protective order that limits the scope or the extent of discovery [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2017.020, 2019.030; see discussion in §§ 190.30, 190.31].

[2] Pending Parallel Criminal Action

In Avant! Corp. v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 876, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 505 , one court of appeal considered, as an issue of first impression in California, whether a corporation that is a defendant in related criminal and civil actions may obtain stay of discovery in a civil action while the criminal action is pending. In this case, petitioner corporation sought a writ of mandate to vacate an order denying its motion to stay civil proceedings or to stay discovery in respondent's suit for defamation, intentional infliction of emotional distress, and other torts, pending the disposition of a related criminal case [Avant! Corp. v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 876, 878-879, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 505] . Petitioner argued that the Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination of the corporation's employees compelled a stay. The court denied the writ of mandate, holding that the trial court did not abuse its discretion in denying the stay because a corporation has no right against self-incrimination and the employees' Fifth Amendment rights were protected by the trial court's discovery order, which provided that the corporation's officers, employees, and agents were required to provide only non-privileged information in their custody or control [Avant! Corp. v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 876, 886-887, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 505] .

The court articulated the standard to be applied in deciding whether to stay civil proceedings until disposition of the criminal matter. In the discovery context, the trial court's decisions on these matters are reviewed under the abuse of discretion standard, not on Fifth Amendment grounds [Avant! Corp. v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 876, 886, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 505] . The court explained that the weight of authority holds that while the implication of the right against self-incrimination must be given serious consideration, staying a civil discovery process to await the outcome of a related criminal case does not implicate constitutional issues, even when the defendant raising the question is an individual defendant [Avant! Corp. v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 876, 882-886, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 505 (citing cases)]. A court, however, has discretion to stay civil proceedings, to postpone discovery, or to impose protective orders and conditions when the interests of justice seem to require such action. In making that decision, the court should consider five factors, including the plaintiff's interest in proceeding expeditiously with the litigation, the burden on the defendants, the court's convenience in managing its cases, the interests of nonparties to the civil litigation, and the interest of the public in the pending civil and criminal litigation [Avant! Corp. v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 876, 885, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 505] .

In another case, plaintiffs sued for tort damages based on an alleged beating by store security guards and sought to depose defendant guards. Fearing criminal prosecution, these defendants sought a stay until the criminal statute of limitations expired. The stay was denied, in that it would run counter to the courts' interest in expeditious and efficient resolution of cases, and expose both sides of the litigation to the risk of diminished memory and lost records. Instead, during the defendants' depositions, they could claim their privilege against self-incrimination and the trial court could then fashion whatever protective order it deemed reasonable to balance the interests of the parties and the judicial system [Fuller v. Superior Court (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 299, 302, 309-310, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 525] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryProtective OrdersEvidencePrivilegesSelf-Incrimination PrivilegeScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. General Regulatory Provisions and Procedures

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.39

§ 190.39 Delegation of Discovery Matters by Discovery Referee

[1] Referee Appointment and Challenge Procedures

A trial court, on a determination that it is necessary, may appoint a referee in any pending action in order to hear and determine any and all discovery motions and disputes relevant to discovery in the action and to report findings and make a recommendation on them [Code Civ. Proc. § 639(a)(5); see Taggares v. Superior Court (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 94, 104, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 387 (emphasizing use of word "necessary" in former Code Civ. Proc. § 639(e) (see now Code Civ. Proc. § 639(a)(5))]. The court may appoint a referee on the written motion of any party, or on its own motion, when the parties do not consent to it [Code Civ. Proc. § 639(a); see, e.g., Sauer v. Superior Court (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 213, 216, 225-226, 240 Cal. Rptr. 489] .

When a referee is appointed under Code Civ. Proc. § 639(a)(5), the order must indicate whether the referee is being appointed for all discovery purposes in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 639(c); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 639(d) (required contents of written order)].

The court may appoint a referee even in the absence of a current discovery dispute. Such an appointment may be very helpful because complex cases will invariably involve complex discovery disputes, and unless managed, a case with many separately represented parties has the potential for burdensome and duplicative discovery. Even in the unlikely absence of disputes, the referee can work with the attorneys in developing a discovery plan and scheduling discovery in the most efficient, rational, and least oppressive manner [Lu v. Superior Court (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 1264, 1269-1270, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 561] .

A peremptory challenge under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 may be made against a discovery referee [Autoland, Inc. v. Superior Court (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 857, 859-862, 252 Cal. Rptr. 662] . If a discovery referee has been appointed for all discovery purposes, any motion to disqualify the referee by peremptory challenge under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 must be made to the court by a party either (1) within 10 days after notice of the appointment or (2) within 10 days after the party's appearance if the party had not yet appeared in the action at the time of notice of appointment [Code Civ. Proc. § 639(b)(A)]. If the discovery referee has been assigned only for limited discovery purposes and the referee assigned is known at least 10 days before the date set for hearing, a motion to disqualify the referee by peremptory challenge under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 must be made at least five days before the date set for hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 639(b)(B)].

For forms that may be adapted for use in obtaining the appointment of a referee, see Ch. 38, Reference . For discussion and forms relating to disqualification under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 generally, see Ch. 317, Judges .

[2] Trial Court Acceptance of Referee's Report

A trial court may accept a discovery referee's report without holding a hearing. Although the report is advisory rather than determinative, and the trial court must independently consider the referee's findings before acting on his or her recommendations, the trial court is not required to hold a hearing as a matter of law. If the court's order demonstrates a considered and careful review, not only of the referee's report, but also of the transcript of the proceedings before the referee, and of the objections, replies, and other papers filed after the referee's report was submitted, the court fulfills its judicial responsibilities [Marathon Nat. Bank v. Superior Court (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 1256, 1260-1261, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 40] .

[3] Allocating Costs of Reference

The prevailing party may not recover the costs of a discovery referee as a matter of right [Baker-Hoey v. Lockheed Martin Corp. (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 592, 594, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 593 (rejecting defendant's argument that it was entitled to recover costs of discovery referee as expert witness fees under Code Civ. Proc. § 1033.5(a)(8))].

The trial court may order the party who requests the referee to pay the referee's fees [Marathon Nat. Bank v. Superior Court (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 1256, 1261-1262, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 40] . However, it is the trial court's responsibility to form a fair means of discovery dispute resolution that considers the parties' financial status. If appointment of a discovery referee is inappropriate because of the costs that would be incurred by the parties, the trial court should consider alternatives, including a pro bono referee, a retired judge of the superior court sitting by assignment, or retention of the matter by the trial court [Solorzano v. Superior Court (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 603, 616, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 401 (abuse of discretion to order indigent plaintiffs to pay half of referee's fee)].

It is an abuse of discretion for a trial court to order discovery disputes to be heard by a private referee, with the parties sharing the costs equally, without considering the economic impact on the parties. If the issue of economic hardship is raised by a party before the referee commences work, the referring court must determine a fair and reasonable apportionment of the reference costs before issuing its order [McDonald v. Superior Court (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 364, 368-370, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 310 (plaintiff's declaration was competent evidence of her ability to pay referee's fees)]. "Fair and reasonable" does not necessarily mean, however, that the court should impose the entire cost of reference on an objecting party that is financially able to pay because the other party is indigent [Taggares v. Superior Court (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 94, 104, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 387] .

In determining whether a party has established an inability to pay the referee's fees [see Code Civ. Proc. § 639(d)(6)(A) (requiring that court to make this determination)], the court must consider only the ability of the party, not the party's counsel, to pay these fees. If a party is proceeding in forma pauperis, the party must be deemed by the court to have an economic inability to pay the referee's fees. However, a determination of economic inability to pay the fees is not limited to parties that proceed in forma pauperis. For those parties who are not proceeding in forma pauperis, the court, in determining whether a party has established an inability to pay the fees, must consider, among other things, the estimated cost of the referral and the impact of the proposed fees on the party's ability to proceed with the litigation [Code Civ. Proc. § 639(d)(6)(B)]. For discussion and forms relating generally to proceedings in forma pauperis, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees .

The allocation of the referee's fees must be made by the court and not by the referee [McDonald v. Superior Court (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 364, 370, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 310] .

One court, in dictum, has suggested that, in a proper case, the burden of paying referee's fees may be placed on an erring attorney under the sanction provisions of the Discovery Act [see Andrews v. Superior Court (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 779, 782-783, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 426 (holding, however, that trial court erred in imposing such sanctions on attorney under Code Civ. Proc. § 128 rather than under relevant discovery statutes)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudicial OfficersRefereesAppointmentsCivil ProcedureJudicial OfficersReferencesCivil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesCosts & Attorney FeesCostsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. General Regulatory Provisions and Procedures

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 190.40-190.49

[Reserved]

§§ 190.40[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. General Timing Requirements

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.50

§ 190.50 Requirements for Completing Discovery Before Trial

[1] General Requirements

Any party is entitled as a matter of right to complete discovery proceedings on or before the 30th day, and to have motions concerning discovery heard on or before the 15th day, before the date initially set for the trial of the action, except as otherwise provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.020(a)]. When either of these deadline dates falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or holiday, the deadline date in that instance becomes the next court day closer to the trial date [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.060; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 10 (designated holidays)].

A given instance of discovery is considered completed on the day a response is due or on the day a deposition begins. Except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050 (discussed in § 190.51), a continuance or postponement of the trial date does not operate to reopen discovery proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.020(b)].

Any party is entitled as a matter of right to complete discovery proceedings pertaining to a witness identified under Code Civ. Proc. § 2034.010 et seq. on or before the 15th day, and to have motions concerning that discovery heard on or before the 10th day, before the date initially set for the trial of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.030]. If either of those days falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or holiday, the last day becomes the next court day closer to the trial date [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.060; see Code Civ. Proc. § 10 (designated holidays); see also Ch. 198, Discovery: Exchange of Expert Witness Information].

The deadlines for completing discovery proceedings and motions are determined by reference to the "date initially set for the trial of the action" [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.020(a)]. When a new trial or retrial has been ordered, this refers to date initially set for the new trial or retrial, and not to the date initially set for the original trial. Thus, in the case of mistrial, an order granting a new trial, or remand for new trial after reversal of judgment on appeal, the last day for completing discovery is 15 days before the date initially set for the new trial [Fairmont Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 245, 247-249, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 70, 991 P.2d 156] .

[2] Requirements Applicable to Judicial Arbitration Proceedings

The time limit on completing discovery in an action to be arbitrated under Code Civ. Proc. § 1141.10 et seq. is subject to Judicial Council Rule [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.040(a); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.822]. When all arbitration proceedings have been completely vacated by the striking of the at-issue memorandum, discovery is permissible following the vacation. The timing of that discovery is then limited only by any new dates set either for trial or arbitration [Roe v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 642, 645-647, 273 Cal. Rptr. 745] . After an award in a case ordered to judicial arbitration, completion of discovery is limited by Code Civ. Proc. § 1141.24 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.040(a)]. For further discussion, see § 190.11[3][b].

[3] Inapplicability to Proceedings for Eminent Domain or Possession of Real Property

The time limits for completing discovery under Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.010 et seq. do not apply to summary proceedings for obtaining possession of real property governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq., in which discovery must be completed on or before the fifth day before the date set for trial except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2024.050 and 2024.060; or eminent domain proceedings governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1230.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.040(b)]. For discussion relating to these proceedings generally see respectively Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions , and Ch. 247, Eminent Domain .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureAlternative Dispute ResolutionArbitrationsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePretrial MattersConferencesCase ManagementReal Property LawEminent Domain ProceedingsProcedureReal Property LawLandlord & TenantLandlord's Remedies & RightsEviction ActionsForcible Entry & Detainer

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. General Timing Requirements

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.51

§ 190.51 Extending, Shortening or Modifying Time Requirements

[1] Motion Proceeding

On motion of any party, the court may grant leave to complete discovery proceedings, or to have a motion concerning discovery heard, closer to the initial trial date, or to reopen discovery after a new trial date has been set. The motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050(a); see Pelton-Shepherd Industries, Inc. v. Delta Packaging Products, Inc. (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 1568, 1587, 82 Cal. Rptr. 3d 64 (trial court erred by granting defendant's motion to compel discovery filed after discovery motion cutoff date, because defendant failed to file motion to reopen discovery under Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050 before or simultaneously with filing its motion to compel)].

In exercising its discretion to grant or to deny the motion, the court must take into consideration any relevant matter, including, but not limited to, the following: [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050(b)]:

- The necessity and the reasons for the discovery;

- The diligence or lack of diligence of the moving party, and the reasons that the discovery was not completed or that the discovery motion was not heard earlier;

- Any likelihood that granting the motion will prevent the case from going to trial on the date set, or otherwise interfere with the trial calendar, or result in prejudice to any other party; and

- The length of time that has elapsed between any date previously set, and the date presently set, for the trial of the action; see Pelton-Shepherd Industries, Inc. v. Delta Packaging Products, Inc. (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 1568, 1571, 1587-1588, 82 Cal. Rptr. 3d 64 (trial court abused its discretion by granting defendant's motion to compel discovery filed after discovery motion cutoff date, without requiring defendant to file motion to reopen discovery under Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050; trial court should have considered all relevant circumstances in determining whether to hear motion after cutoff date, including plaintiff's reasons for seeking discovery, and its diligence or lack of diligence)].

For example, death or serious illness of a trial attorney or a party should, under normal circumstances, be considered good cause for granting the continuance of a trial date, as well as good cause to reopen discovery after a trial date has been continued [Hernandez v. Superior Court (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 1242, 1247-1248, 9 Cal. Rptr. 3d 821 ; see Cal. Stds. Jud. Admin., § 9, Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050(b)].

The court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to extend or reopen discovery, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050(c)]. For further discussion of these general provisions for monetary sanctions, see § 190.33[2] and Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

For a form for a motion for use in obtaining leave to extend the time completing discovery, or to reopen discovery, see § 190.90.

[2] Stipulation

The parties to the action may agree to extend the time for the completion of discovery proceedings or for the hearing of motions concerning discovery, or to reopen discovery after a new date for trial of the action has been set. The agreement may be informal, but it must be confirmed in a writing that specifies the extended date, and must be consented to by any party affected by it. The agreement does not under any circumstances require a court to grant a continuance or postponement of the trial of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.060]. For discussion and forms relating to stipulations generally, see Ch. 533, Stipulations .

[3] Automatic Extension of Time

When the last day to perform or complete any act provided for in the California Civil Discovery Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq.), falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or holiday, the time limit is extended until the next court day closer to the trial date that is not a Saturday, Sunday, or holiday [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.060; see Code Civ. Proc. § 10 (definition of holiday)].

[4] Time Extensions When Service Is by Mail

The provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a) that relate to extensions of time when service is made by mail apply to any discovery method or motion in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.010-2036.010 et seq. [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.050]. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a), any period of notice prescribed by statute or court rule and any right or duty to do any act or make any response is extended by five calendar days, upon service by mail, if the place of address and the place of mailing is in California, 10 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside California but within the United States, and 20 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside the United States. This extension applies in the absence of a specific exception provided for by any statute or court rule [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a)]. The period is extended two court days if service is by Express Mail or by fax [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)]. For further discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 1013, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPleading & PracticePleadingsTime LimitationsComputationCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticePleadingsTime LimitationsExtensionsCivil ProceduresDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresDiscoveryDisclosuresSanctionsCivil ProceduresDiscoveryMethodsStipulations

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. General Timing Requirements

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 190.52-190.59

[Reserved]

§§ 190.52[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.60

§ 190.60 Matthew Bender Publications

For comprehensive discussion and forms relating to discovery under the California Civil Discovery Act and related California law, see DeMeo, California Deposition and Discovery Practice (Matthew Bender), and Hogan & Weber, California Civil Discovery (Matthew Bender)

For memoranda relating to discovery under the California Civil Discovery Act and related California law, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 80, Discovery: Scope, Regulation and Timing , through Ch. 89A, Discovery: Review of Discovery Orders (Matthew Bender)

For discussion of and forms relating to civil discovery, see Bender's Forms of Discovery, vols. 1-16 (Matthew Bender)

For detailed discussion, procedural checklists, practice tips, and forms covering all aspects of the discovery of electronically stored information (e-discovery), see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.61

§ 190.61 California Constitution

Right to privacy. Cal. Const., art. I, § 1

Immunity from contempt for press and media for refusal to disclose source or unpublished information. Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(b)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureSanctionsContemptCivil ContemptEvidencePrivilegesJournalist's PrivilegeGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.62

§ 190.62 State Statutes

[1] Discovery Act Provisions

Reference of discovery matters. Code Civ. Proc. § 639

Scope of discovery. Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010 et seq.

Work product protection. Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq.

Methods of discovery. Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.010 et seq.

Stipulation modifying procedures. Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.030

Sanctions. Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq.

Time limitations. Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.010 et seq.

Depositions. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.010 et seq.

Discovery subpoenas in actions pending outside California. Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.100 et seq.

Interrogatories. Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.010 et seq.

Inspection of documents, tangible things, land, and electronically stored information. Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq.

Physical, mental, and blood examinations. Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq.

Requests for admission of matters of fact or genuineness of documents. Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.010 et seq.

Exchange of expert lists. Code Civ. Proc. § 2034.010 et seq.

Perpetuation of testimony. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2035.010 et seq., 2036.010 et seq.

[2] Other Statutes Relating to Civil Discovery

Records pertaining to treatment of persons who are impaired by alcohol or dangerous drugs and who are subject to licensing governed by Departmentof Consumer Affairs are not subject to discovery. Bus. & Prof. Code § 156.1(b)

Records pertaining to treatment of pharmacist under Pharmacists Recovery Program (Bus. & Prof. Code § 4360 et seq.) are not discoverable. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4372

Written offer or required communication of settlement offer are discoverable by either party in action where existence or communication of offer is issue. Bus. & Prof. Code § 6103.5(b)

Records of video recording sales or rental services are discoverable without written consent of individual who is subject of records when disclosure is made pursuant to proper use of discovery. Civ. Code § 1799.3(b)(2)

Restrictions on application of Discovery Act in limited civil cases. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 94-95

Subpoenas. Code Civ. Proc. § 1985 et seq.

Privileges. Evid. Code §§ 900-1170

Evidence of anything said or admission in course of mediation or mediation consultation is not admissible or discoverable and disclosure of evidence cannot be compelled. Evid. Code § 1119(a)

Records and proceedings of specified committees organized to evaluate quality of health care are not discoverable. Evid. Code §§ 1157-1157.7

Special procedure to obtain inexpensive discovery of income and expenses prior to action to modify order for child or spousal support. Fam. Code § 3660 et seq.

Assets of public employer are not discoverable in action in which it is alleged that public employee is liable for punitive damages. Gov. Code § 825(b)

Public Records Act. Gov. Code § 6250 et seq.

Court is authorized to limit discovery by person initiating false claims action under Gov. Code § 12652. Gov. Code § 12652(h), (i)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryDisclosuresSanctionsCivil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsAdmissionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsOral DepositionsCivil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsRequests for Production & InspectionCivil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsStipulations

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.63

§ 190.63 California Rules of Court

Filing records under seal. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.550-2.551

Format of supplemental and further interrogatories and responses. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1000

Format of discovery motions; separate statement required to accompany motion to compel. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345

Service of motion papers on nonparty deponent. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1346

Discovery motions in summary proceedings (unlawful detainer or other actions brought under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq.) involving possession of real property. Cal. Rules of Court, Rule 3.1347

Discovery sanctions; effect of lack of opposition to motion to compel. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348

Filing and retention of specified discovery papers. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(1)-(19), (b)

Case management requirements, including those relating to e-discovery. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.724, 3.728

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryDisclosuresMotions to CompelCivil ProcedureDiscoveryDisclosuresSanctionsCriminal Law & ProcedureDiscovery & InspectionDiscovery MisconductGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.64

§ 190.64 Decisions

[1] General Principles of Discovery

In case of mistrial, order granting new trial, or remand for new trial after reversal of judgment on appeal, last day for completing discovery is 15 days before date initially set for the new trial, not the date initially set for the original trial. Fairmont Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 245, 247, 249, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 70, 991 P.2d 156 (construing language in former Code Civ. Proc. § 2024(a) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.020(a)) referring to date action was "initially" set for trial in calculating discovery cutoff)

Information is discoverable under discovery statutes if unprivileged and either relevant to subject matter of action or reasonably calculated to reveal admissible evidence. Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 704, 711, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 854 P.2d 1117 ; Valley Bank of Nevada v. Superior Court (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 652, 655-656, 125 Cal. Rptr. 553, 542 P.2d 977 (interpreting statutes before enactment of Discovery Act of 1986)

California discovery statutes are liberally construed in favor of disclosure. Shepherd v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 107, 118, 130 Cal. Rptr. 257, 550 P.2d 161 ; Greyhound Corp. v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 355, 377-378, 15 Cal. Rptr. 90, 364 P.2d 266

Trial court erred reversibly by granting defendant's motion to compel discovery filed after discovery motion cutoff date, without requiring defendant to file motion to reopen discovery under Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050; trial court should have considered all relevant circumstances in determining whether to hear motion after cutoff date, including plaintiff's reasons for seeking discovery, and its diligence or lack of diligence. Pelton-Shepherd Industries, Inc. v. Delta Packaging Products, Inc. (2007) 165 Cal. App. 4th 1568, 1571, 1587-1588, 82 Cal. Rptr. 3d 64

As a special proceeding of a civil nature, civil commitment proceeding under SVPA requires application of civil discovery rules. People v. Dixon (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 414, 443, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 33

In SVPA proceedings, use of requests for admission under Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.010(e) would violate defendant's due process rights. Murillo v. Superior Court (2006) 143 Cal. App. 4th 730, 740, 49 Cal. Rptr. 3d 511

Trial court erroneously limited discovery on basis that documents might be inadmissible at trial or because they were prepared or signed by plaintiff's attorney rather than plaintiff; accordingly, discovery order had to be reevaluated based on whether requested information was reasonably calculated to lead to admissible evidence, as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010. Volkswagen of Am., Inc. v. Superior Court (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th. 1481, 1497, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 723

Trial court did not abuse its discretion in permitting discovery to ascertain suitable class representative, provided that letter to be sent to prospective class action plaintiffs protected their privacy interests by stating that recipients were free to ignore information request and that neutral third party sender would not disclose their identities. Best Buy Stores, L.P. v. Superior Court (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 772, 779, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 575

Appellant attorney's false assurances that he would produce documents after they were due, along with other delaying conduct, estopped him from relying on discovery motion cut-off date specified in former Code Civ. Proc. § 2024(a) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.020(a)). Sears, Roebuck and Co. v. Nat'l Union Fire Ins. Co. (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 1342, 1351-1352, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 717

In determining whether to grant to party responding to summary judgment motion a continuance for discovery under Code Civ. Proc. § 437c(h), trial court may consider whether that party has been diligent in completing discovery. Cooksey v. Alexakis (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 246, 257, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 810

Death or serious illness of trial attorney or party should, under normal circumstances, be considered good cause for granting the continuance of trial date, as well as good cause to reopen discovery after a trial date has been continued. Hernandez v. Superior Court (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 1242, 1247-1248, 9 Cal. Rptr. 3d 821 (attorney suffered from pancreatic cancer during closing phases of discovery and died five days after initial trial date)

Trial court has inherent power to issue injunction to prevent potential destruction of evidence pending discovery, based on trial court's inherent power to make orders facilitating discovery and presentation of evidence, when Discovery Act does not provide an adequate remedy at law. Dodge, Warren & Peters Ins. Serv., Inc. v. Riley (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 1414, 1419-1420, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 385 (in action by employer against terminated employees for misappropriation of trade secrets, unfair business practices, breach of fiduciary duty and breach of contract, trial court properly issued preliminary injunction against defendants, requiring preservation of electronic evidence by prohibiting defendants from destroying, deleting or secreting from discovery any of their electronic storage media)

Discovery Act applies to competency hearings under Penal Code § 1369; thus, trial court may order criminal defendant to submit to mental examination by expert designated by prosecution in order to evaluate mental competence under Pen. Code § 1369, but order must comply with Discovery Act, specifying time, place, manner, conditions, scope and nature of examination, and identity and specialty of persons performing examination, in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.310(b). Baqleh v. Superior Court (People) (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 478, 506, 122 Cal Rptr. 2d 673 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 2032(d))

Discovery Act applies to proceedings under Sexually Violent Predators Act (Welf. & Inst. Code § 6600 et seq.), including right to notice depositions. People v. Superior Court (Cheek) (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 980, 987-991

Discovery Act applies to Sexually Violent Predators Act (Welf. & Inst. Code § 6600 et seq.); trial court erred in concluding that civil discovery procedures do not apply to SVPA proceedings and in denying petitioner's motion to compel exchange of expert witness information. Leake v. Superior Court (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 675, 682, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 767 , overruled on other grounds, People v. Yartz (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 529, 537, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 328, 123 P.3d 604

Implicit in requirement under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(b)(2) that counsel contact deponent to inquire about nonappearance is requirement that counsel make a good faith effort to resolve the issue. Blago Leko v. Cornerstone Home Inspection (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1109, 1124, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 858 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(j)(3)(B))

Initial burden of determining whether potentially relevant documents exist should lie with the party demanding the information. While it may be necessary to take a preliminary deposition of a records custodian prior to issuing a subpena for documents or making a request under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq., this procedure is preferable to serving unduly burdensome document requests accompanied by lengthy lists of definitions and instructions. Calcor Space Facility, Inc. v. Superior Court (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 216, 223-223, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 567 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031)

Pleading deficiencies does not affect right to discovery and defendant is obliged to comply with discovery request despite defendant's pending demurrer to complaint. Mattco Forge, Inc. v. Arthur Young & Co. (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1429, 1436, 1436 n.3, 273 Cal. Rptr. 262

Discovery is not permitted in either small claims action itself or de novo proceeding on appeal. Bruno v. Superior Court (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 1359, 1362-1364, 269 Cal. Rptr. 142

Even though discovery remains to be done, granting of summary judgment is not premature unless discovery is relevant to issues on summary judgment. Korens v. R.W. Zukin Corp. (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1054, 1061-1062, 261 Cal. Rptr. 137

Discovery statutes are designed to educate parties before trial about real value of their claims and defenses, thereby encouraging settlements. Lehman v. Superior Court (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 558, 564, 224 Cal. Rptr. 572

When demurrer with leave to amend has been granted, plaintiff is entitled to reasonable discovery, even to disclose facts essential to stating cause of action. Budget Fin. Plan v. Superior Court (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 794, 797-798, 110 Cal. Rptr. 302

[2] Insurance Coverage

In a legal malpractice action brought by real party in interest client against attorneys who represented him in obtaining settlement from another law firm that had represented him in real estate deal, non-party law firm's subpoenaed business records, including information about its financial condition and liability insurance polices, were discoverable, subject to protective order, because information was relevant and material to prove that better result should have been obtained for him by current attorney defendants. Hecht, Solberg, Robinson, Goldberg & Bagley LLP v. Superior Court (2006) 137 Cal App. 4th 579, 595, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 446

In suit alleging bad faith based on unpleaded theory that defendant insurer had pattern and practice of discriminatory claims handling practice for auto theft claims filed by Hispanic, African-American, and/or low income insured, plaintiff could discover theft claim files because they could lead to information supporting plaintiff's discrimination theory, but she could do so only after obtaining authorizations from all of the insureds whose claims files were to be produced. Permanent Gen. Assurance Corp. v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1493, 1495, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 597

In insurance bad faith claim, insurer's loss reserves could be discoverable; state law requires insurers to set aside funds sufficient to cover all pending claims, and loss reserves established for particular claim may be evidence of how insurer viewed potential obligations to insured, whether it had conducted proper investigation, and whether it recognized likelihood that the insured could face excess verdict. Lipton v. Superior Court (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 1599,

1613-1618, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 341

[3] International Discovery

Discovery in foreign country subscribing to Hague Convention is not required to proceed first under Hague Convention before discovery is attempted under federal rules, specifically rejecting rule of first resort announced in Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft v. Superior Court (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 840, 176 Cal. Rptr. 874 ; rather, interests of international comity demand "a more particularized analysis" involving "prior scrutiny in each case of the particular facts, sovereign interests, and likelihood that resort to [Hague Convention] procedures will prove effective." Societe Nationale Industrielle Aerospatiale v. United States District Court (1987) 482 U.S. 522, 544, 107 S. Ct. 2542, 96 L. Ed. 2d 461

Trial court properly refused to apply Hague Convention discovery procedures in suit against French corporation, after performing Aerospatiale's prescribed case-by-case balancing of facts, sovereign interests, and likelihood of successful discovery, disapproving Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft v. Superior Court (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 840, 858, 176 Cal. Rptr. 874 ; and terminating sanction for discovery abuses was not abuse of discretion. American Home Assurance Co. v. Societe Commerciale Toutelectric (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 406, 436-437, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 430

Party seeking to utilize Hague Convention procedures has burden of convincing the trial court that they are justified by considerations of international comity. American Home Assurance Co. v. Societe Commerciale Toutelectric (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 406, 427, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 430

[4] Juveniles

When juvenile court records are sealed under Welf. & Inst. Code § 781, juvenile's privacy rights are subject to constitutional confrontation rights ofcriminal defendant in event of conflict, but civil party's ability to establish constitutional right to sealed information is doubtful. Parmett v. Superior Court (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1261, 1269, 262 Cal. Rptr. 387

[5] Limitations on Discovery Generally

Neither California nor federal law recognizes union representative-union member evidentiary privilege that would prevent disclosure of relevant information in civil action, and court was not free to create new privilege as matter of judicial policy, unless constitutionally compelled. American Airlines v. Superior Court (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 881, 891-895, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 146

Courts are precluded from creating exceptions to privileges not specified by statute by policy of Evid. Code § 911 (limiting privileges to those specified by statute). Dickerson v. Superior Court (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 93, 99, 185 Cal. Rptr. 97

[6] Protective Orders

Preexisting secrecy agreement between parties is extinguished when incorporated into protective order and violation of agreement will not support a breach of contract action. Westinghouse Electric Corp. v. Newman & Holtzinger (1995) 39 Cal. App. 4th 1194, 1206, 46 Cal. Rptr. 2d 151

Superior court was within its discretion in issuing protective order providing that certain discovery produced by defendants (1) may be designated by defendants as confidential or trade secret, (2) may be used by plaintiffs solely for purposes of this litigation, and (3) may be disclosed by plaintiff's counsel to counsel in other pending similar litigation if plaintiff's counsel notifies defense counsel. Raymond Handling Concepts Corp. v. Superior Court (1995) 39 Cal. App. 4th 584, 588-590, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 885

Declaration in support of motion for protective order that contains no facts except for conclusion of necessity for order and other statements made on information and belief is not a sufficient basis for court to grant protective order on basis of annoyance, embarrassment, or oppression. Goodman v. Citizens Life & Cas. Ins. Co. (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 807, 819-820, 61 Cal. Rptr. 682 (decided under prior law)

[7] Relevance to Subject Matter

Even assuming non-party petitioner law firm had protectible financial privacy rights, those rights did not preclude discovery that was relevant to essential issues, such as collectibility, in this legal malpractice action brought by real party in interest client against other attorneys, because malpractice plaintiff could show that requested financial and insurance information was relevant and material to prove that better result should have been obtained for him by current attorney defendants (or would lead to admissible evidence). Hecht, Solberg, Robinson, Goldberg & Bagley LLP v. Superior Court (2006) 137 Cal App. 4th 579, 595, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 446

Trustee beneficiary was not entitled to conduct discovery related to trustees' accounting, without first filing "response and objections" under Prob. Code § 1043(a). Absent specific objections, there was no contested proceeding that would require assignment for trial and conduct of discovery, and no way to determine what discovery, if any, was "relevant to the subject matter involved in the pending action" (quoting former Code Civ. Proc. § 2017(a) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010), italics added). Forthmann v. Boyer (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 977, 985, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 715

In wrongful termination action for violation of employer's policy against misuse of office equipment, trial court erred in denying production of employee's employer-provided home computer; computer was indisputably relevant, as its hard drive could confirm that employee had accessed sexually explicit web-sites at home, thereby undermining his story that, at work, such sites "popped up" involuntarily. TBG Ins. Serv. Corp. v. Superior Court (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 443, 449, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 155

Transcripts of testimony given before the SEC in the course of an investigation were relevant and discoverable in a civil litigation where the party from whom discovery was sought failed to show that any parties to the testimony believed the SEC investigation to be private or confidential, and the party had possession and ready access to the documents and transcripts. Kirkland v. Superior Court (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 92, 97-99, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 279

Objections to discovery should be resolved by protective orders addressing the specific harm shown by the objecting party, as opposed to a more general attack on the relevancy of the information the proponent seeks to discover. Norton v. Superior Court (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 1750, 1761, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 217

Research and opinions of city attorney concerning intent in drafting ordinance as neither relevant nor calculated to lead to discovery of admissible evidence on issue of interpretation of ordinance. City of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 744, 752-753, 216 Cal. Rptr. 311

[8] Stay of Discovery

Security guards who feared criminal prosecution arising from alleged beating incident that formed basis of civil suit against them were not entitled to stay of discovery in civil action until the criminal statute of limitations expired; such a stay would run count to courts' interest in expeditious and efficient resolution of cases, and expose both side of litigation to risk of diminished memory and lost records. Fuller v. Superior Court (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 299, 302, 309-310, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 525

Corporation that was defendant in related criminal and civil actions could not obtain stay of discovery in civil action while criminal action was pending; however, trial court has discretion to stay civil proceedings, to postpone discovery, or to impose protective orders and conditions when interests of justice so require. Avant! Corp. v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 876, 885, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 505

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudicial OfficersJudgesDiscretionCivil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryDisclosuresMandatory DisclosuresCivil ProcedureDiscoveryProtective OrdersCivil ProcedureDiscoveryRelevance

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.65

§ 190.65 Attorney General Opinions

With respect to employment discrimination complaint filed against county employee who is a peace officer, county affirmative action officer may not lawfully furnish copy of completed investigation report to complainant who is not a peace officer. 73 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 90 (1990)

Person appointed as referee to hear and determine discovery motions and paid by parties is not entitled by statute to defense and indemnification by county against claims or actions seeking monetary damages in connection with duties as referee. 72 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 94 (1989)

City attorney's advice to city council member regarding whether or not official action taken by that member violates Political Reform Act is protected by attorney-client privilege. 71 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 255 (1988)

Confidentiality and disclosure provisions of Penal Code § 832.7 bar public agency from compiling or releasing statistical information regarding types of citizen complaints and from releasing summary of records maintained pursuant to Penal Code § 832.5. 71 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 247 (1988)

Lawyer-client privilege and work product rule, when relied on by public officer, do not automatically terminate with settlement or adjudication of underlying claim. 71 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 5 (1988)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudicial OfficersRefereesAppointmentsGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsLabor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionCourt & Government Imposed PlansLabor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionDiscrimination

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.66

§ 190.66 Law Reviews

Stuart, Inadvertent Disclosure of Confidential Information: What Does a California Lawyer Need to Know? 37 Santa Clara L. Rev. 547 (1997)

Frank, Discovery Made Easier by Computer, 22 Colorado Lawyer 2419(2) (1993)

Comment, The California Discovery Act of 1986: Discovery the New-Fashioned Way! 18 Sw. U.L. Rev. 233 (1990)

Comment, Judicial Misapplication of State of Mind Discovery in Media Libel Cases: The Actual Malice Standard Betrayed, 26 Santa Clara L. Rev. 643 (1986)

Lay, Plaintiff's Practical Uses of Discovery Techniques, 30(5) The Practical Lawyer 61 (1984)

Underwood, The New Federal Civil Procedure Rules: Greater Attorney Responsibility and More Judicial Control, 29 The Practical Lawyer 13 (l983)

Note, A Balanced Approach to Affirmative Action Plan Discovery in Title VII Suits, 32 Hastings L.J. 1013 (1981)

Note, Pretrial Discovery of Net Worth in Punitive Damages Cases, 54 So. Cal. L. Rev. 1141 (1981)

Levine, Using the Freedom of Information Act as a Discovery Device, 36 The Business Lawyer 45 (1980)

Note, Discovery of Internal Corporate Investigations, 32 Stan. L. Rev. 1163 (1980)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudicial OfficersRefereesGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersAttorney-Client

PrivilegeCivil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductGeneral OverviewGovernmentsCourtsCourt RecordsGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsEmployees & Officials

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.67

§ 190.67 Text References

California Civil Discovery Practice, Ch. 1, Planning Discovery, Ch. 2, Understanding Key Discovery Principles (3d ed. Cal. CEB 2000)

Witkin, California Evidence, Ch. X, Discovery, §§ 1-28 (4th ed. 2000)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 190.68-190.79

[Reserved]

§§ 190.68[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART IV. FORMS

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.80

§ 190.80 Proceedings for Protective Order Limiting Scope of Discovery [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.020] or Restricting Extent or Use of Discovery Methods [Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.030]--Motion and Supporting Declaration

[1] FORM Proceedings for Protective Order Limiting Scope of Discovery [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.020] or Restricting Extent or Use of Discovery Methods [Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.030]--Motion and Supporting Declaration

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
	)	NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION FOR PRO-)	TECTIVE ORDER RESTRICTING DISCOVERY,
_____ [name],	)	SUPPORTING
Plaintiff,	)	DECLARATION OF
vs.	)	_____ [name], AND MEMOR-
_____ [name],	)	ANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES
Defendant.	)	(Limiting Scope of Discovery
	)	or Restricting Extent or Use of Discovery Method)
	)	Date: _____
	)	Time: _____
	)	Location: _____
	)	Judge: _____
		Date Action Filed: _____
		Trial Date: _____

_____

To _____ [identify party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] and to his/her attorney of record:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], _____ [identify moving party or other affected person, e.g., Defendant] will, and hereby does, move for a protective order _____ [limiting the scope of discovery or restricting the frequency and extent of use of discovery methods], specifically, that _____ [specify order sought, e.g., the deposition of Defendant, which was to be taken on _____ (date), at _____ (time), at _____ (place), pursuant to notice served on _____ (date), not be taken at all]. _____ [Identify moving party, e.g., Defendant] will also move for the imposition of a monetary sanction against _____ [identify opposing party and/or his/her attorney, e.g., Plaintiff _____ (name) and his/her attorney _____ (name)]. The motion for protective order will be made on the ground that _____ [specify, grounds, e.g., the selected method of discovery is unduly burdensome or expensive, taking into account the needs of the case, the amount in controversy, and the importance of the issues at stake in the litigation].

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, on the declaration(s) of _____ [name (s)] and the memorandum of points and authorities served and filed herewith, on the papers and records on file herein, and on such oral and documentary evidence as may be presented at the hearing of the motion.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [moving party's status and name]

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name]

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for _____ (identify party or other affected person, e.g., Defendant) in the above-described action].

2. Good cause exists for the protective order sought by _____ [identify moving party or person, e.g., Defendant] in that _____ [set forth facts showing good cause for particular order sought, e.g., the amount in controversy is less than $7,000, and the sole question in issue is whether _____ (name) was employed by defendant at the time of the alleged accident].

3. _____ [State facts showing reasonable and good faith attempt to resolve informally issues presented by motion, including description of conferring or attempting to confer with other parties in person, by telephone, or by letter.]

4. [Statement of expenses incurred as result of opposing party's conduct. See Form 1, Paragraph 7.]

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

[Add memorandum supporting motion.]

[2] Use of Form

The motion and supporting declaration set out in [1], above, is for use by any party or other affected person, to obtain a protective order that either limits the scope of discovery under Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.020, or restricts the frequency or extent of use of a particular discovery method or methods under Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.030. The motion must be made in the court in which the action is pending [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.030].

For discussion of the bases for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.020 or Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.030, see §§ 190.30 and 190.31, respectively.

The motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion (Paragraph 3 of Supporting Declaration) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2017.020(a), 2019.030(b)]. The declaration must also set forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought (Paragraph 4 of Supporting Declaration) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040].

Usually this form may be combined with a motion for a protective order authorized under the more specific provisions governing each particular method of discovery [see discussion in § 190.34]. For further discussions and forms, see the Chapter discussing the pertinent discovery method [see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions , through Ch. 198, Discovery: Exchange of Expert Witness Information].

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with this form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; see also discussion and forms in Ch. 417, Points and Authorities].

[3] Monetary Sanction

The court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes this motion, unless the court finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2017.020(b), 2019.030(c); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a) (monetary sanction)].

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.020, the court is required to impose a monetary sanction against any party or attorney who fails to confer in an attempt to resolve informally any dispute concerning discovery, in favor of anyone who incurs expenses, including attorney's fees, as a result of that conduct, when the section of the Civil Discovery Act governing a particular discovery motion requires a declaration showing that an attempt has been made. This sanction is to be imposed regardless of the outcome of the particular discovery motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.020].

A monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. is an order that one who engaged in a misuse of the discovery process, his or her attorney if the attorney advised the conduct, or both, pay the reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, incurred by anyone as a result of that conduct [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a)].

A monetary sanction may only be imposed after notice to any affected party, person, or attorney, and after opportunity for hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030].

A request for a sanction, in the notice of motion, must identify every party, person, and attorney against whom the sanction is sought, and specify the type of sanction sought. The notice of motion must be supported by a memorandum of points and authorities, and accompanied by a declaration setting forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040].

For further discussion of monetary sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART IV. FORMS

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.81

§ 190.81 Proceedings for Protective Order Limiting Scope of Discovery [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.020] or Restricting Extent or Use of Discovery Methods [Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.030]--Order

[1] FORM Proceedings for Protective Order Limiting Scope of Discovery [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.020] or Restricting Extent or Use of Discovery Methods [Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.030]--Order

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	ORDER
Plaintiff,	)	Date: _____
vs.	)	Time: _____
_____ [name],	)	Location: _____
Defendant.	)	Judge: _____
	)	Date Action Filed: _____
	)	Trial Date: _____
	)

_____

The motion of _____ [identify moving party or person, e.g., Defendant] for a protective order directing that the _____ [scope of discovery be limited or frequency or extent of use of discovery methods be restricted], specifically, that _____ [describe motion, e.g., the deposition of _____ (name), set to be taken on _____ (date), not be taken], came on regularly for hearing by the court on _____ [date]. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

[EITHER]

On proof made to the satisfaction of the court that the motion ought to be denied,

IT IS ORDERED that the motion be, and hereby is, denied.

[OR]

On proof made to the satisfaction of the court, and good cause appearing therefor, that the motion ought to be granted,

IT IS ORDERED that the motion be, and it hereby is, granted and that _____ [describe order, e.g., the deposition of _____ (name), set to be taken on _____ (date), is hereby directed not to be taken].

[EITHER, if imposing sanctions]

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that _____ [identify unsuccessful party, person, or attorney, e.g., Plaintiff _____ (name) and his/her attorney _____ (name)] pay forthwith to _____ [identify successful party, e.g., Defendant] _____ [name] the sum of $_____ as reasonable expenses and attorney's fees.

[OR, if not ordering sanctions]

On further proof made to the satisfaction of the court that _____ [identify unsuccessful party, person, or attorney, e.g., pPlaintiff _____ (name) and his/her attorney _____ (name)] _____ [acted with substantial justification or specify other circumstances making imposition of a sanction unjust],

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that no monetary sanction be imposed on _____ [identify unsuccessful party, person, or attorney, e.g., plaintiff _____ (name) and his/her attorney _____ (name)].
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The proposed order set our in [1], above, is for use when the court has granted or denied a motion by a party or other person for a protective order pursuant to the general provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2017.020 and 2019.030 [see § 190.80].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART IV. FORMS

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 190.82-190.89

[Reserved]

§§ 190.82[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART IV. FORMS

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.90

§ 190.90 Proceedings for Order Extending Time for Discovery or Reopening Discovery Proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050]--Motion and Supporting Declaration

[1] FORM Proceedings for Order Extending Time for Discovery or Reopening Discovery Proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050]--Motion and Supporting Declaration

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff,	)	NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION FOR ORDER _____
vs.	)	[EXTENDING TIME FOR DISCOVERY or REOPENING DISCOVERY PROCEEDINGS], SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____
_____ [name],	)	[name], AND SUPPORTING MEMORANDUM
Defendant.	)	Date: _____
	)	Time: _____
	)	Location: _____
	)	Judge: _____
		Date Action Filed: _____
		Trial Date: _____

_____

To _____ [identify party, e.g., Defendant] _____ [name] and to his/her attorney of record:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], _____ [identify party, e.g., Plaintiff] will, and hereby does, move for an order granting him/her leave to _____ [complete discovery proceedings after _____ (date), or have a motion concerning discovery heard after _____ (date), or reopen discovery after the setting of the new trial date on _____ (date). _____ [Identify moving party, e.g., Plaintiff] will also move for the imposition of a monetary sanction against _____ [identify opposing party and/or his/her attorney, e.g., Defendant _____ (name) and his/her attorney _____ (name)]. The motion will be made on the ground that _____ [specify ground (s), e.g., Defendant's amended answer to Interrogatory No. _____ in Plaintiff's first set of interrogatories to Defendant has raised issues of which Plaintiff was previously unaware. Plaintiff requires the additional discovery to learn facts and determine issues relevant to the subject matter involved in the pending action prior to trial].

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, on the declaration(s) of _____ [name (s)] and the memorandum served and filed herewith, on the records and file herein, and on such evidence as may be presented at the hearing of the motion.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [party's status and name]

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name]

1. I _____ [name], declare:

2. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for _____ (identify moving party, e.g., Defendant) _____ (name)].

3. _____ [Set forth basis for motion, e.g., On _____ (date), Plaintiff _____ (name) served his first set of interrogatories on Defendant _____ (name). A copy of Interrogatory No. _____ is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference. On _____ (date), Defendant _____ (name) served plaintiff _____ (name) with his initial response to the interrogatories, a copy of which is attached as Exhibit B and incorporated by reference; and on _____ (date), served plaintiff _____ (name) with his amended answer to Interrogatory No. _____, a copy of which is attached as Exhibit C and incorporated by reference].

4. The trial in the above-entitled action is set for _____ [date].

5. There is good cause for the order sought by _____ [identify party, e.g., Plaintiff] _____ [name] in that _____ [set forth facts, e.g., Defendant's amended answer to Interrogatory No. _____ of the above-described set of interrogatories sets forth facts relating to several accidents involving a vehicle manufactured by Defendant that are relevant to the above-entitled action in that plaintiff was injured by a similar vehicle and in a similar manner as those described in the amended answer. Plaintiff requires additional time for discovery regarding those accidents, in order to ascertain whether any issues may be resolved with respect thereto prior to trial]. Therefore, justice requires that _____ [identify, e.g., plaintiff] be allowed to _____ [continue or reopen] discovery after _____, [date].

6. _____ [State facts showing reasonable and good faith attempt to resolve informally issues presented by motion, including description of conferring or attempting to confer with other parties in person, by telephone, or by letter.]

7. _____ [Identify moving party, e.g., Plaintiff] has incurred expenses as follows in making this motion: _____ [itemize reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, and explain basis of computing each expense], for a total of $_____.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]
_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

[Add memorandum supporting motion.]

[2] Use of Form

The notice of motion and motion set out in [1], above, is for use by a party to seek an order granting leave to complete discovery proceedings or to have a motion concerning discovery heard closer to the initial trial date than otherwise allowed, or to reopen discovery after a new trial date has been set [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050]. The motion must be brought in the court in which the action is pending [Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.030].

For further discussion, including the factors to be considered in granting or denying a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050, see § 190.51.

The supporting declaration in this form includes a statement of facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of any issue presented by the motion, as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050(a) (Paragraph 6 of Supporting Declaration). The declaration must also set forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought (Paragraph 7 of Supporting Declaration) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040]. For discussion of a stipulation to the relief sought in this form, see § 190.51[2].

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with this form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; see also discussion and forms in Ch. 417, Points and Authorities].

[3] Notice

Although Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050 does not specifically require that this motion be noticed, the imposition of a monetary sanction requires notice and an opportunity for hearing [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030; see [4], below].

Generally, Code Civ. Proc. § 1013, regarding methods of service, applies to any method of discovery or service of a motion for discovery in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.010 et seq.-2036.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.050]. However, the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a) that relate to extensions of time when service is made by mail apply only in the absence of a specific exception provided for by any statute or court rule [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a)]. For example, the extensions do not apply to the 16-court-day notice period of Code Civ. Proc. § 1005 because that section specifically states that Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 does not apply [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)]. For further discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.050, see § 190.51[4]. For general discussion of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b) and 1013(a), see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

[4] Monetary Sanction

The court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes this motion, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050(c); see further discussion in § 190.80[4]].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 190 DISCOVERY: SCOPE, REGULATION, AND TIMING
PART IV. FORMS

16-190 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 190.91

§ 190.91 Proceedings for Order Extending Time for Discovery or Reopening Discovery Proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050]--Order

[1] FORM Proceedings for Order Extending Time for Discovery or Reopening Discovery Proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050]--Order

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	ORDER _____
Defendant.	)
	)
	)

The motion of _____ [identify party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] for an order granting him/her leave to _____ [complete discovery proceedings after _____ (date) or have a motion concerning discovery heard after _____ (date), or reopen discovery after the setting of the new trial date on _____ (date)], came on regularly for hearing on _____ (date). Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

[EITHER]

On proof made to the satisfaction of the court that the motion ought to be denied,

IT IS ORDERED that the motion be, and hereby is, denied.

[OR]

On proof made to the satisfaction of the court, and good cause appearing therefor, that the motion ought to be granted,

IT IS ORDERED that the motion be, and it hereby is, granted, and that _____ [identify party, e.g., Plaintiff] is permitted to _____ [complete discovery proceedings until _____ (date) or have a motion concerning discovery heard until _____ (date) or reopen discovery after the setting of the new trial date on _____ (date)].

[EITHER, if imposing sanctions]

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that _____ [identify unsuccessful party, person, or attorney, e.g., Defendant _____ (name) and his/her attorney _____ (name)] pay forthwith to _____ [identify successful party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] the sum of $_____ as reasonable expenses and attorney's fees.

[OR, if not ordering sanctions]

On further proof made to the satisfaction of the court that _____ [identify unsuccessful party, person, or attorney, e.g., Defendant _____ (name) and his/her attorney _____ (name)] _____ [acted with substantial justification or specify other circumstances making imposition of a sanction unjust],

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that no monetary sanction be imposed on _____ [identify unsuccessful party, person, or attorney, e.g., defendant _____ (name) and his/her attorney _____ (name)].
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The proposed order set out in [1], above, is for use by a party to grant or deny leave to complete discovery proceedings or to have a motion concerning discovery heard closer to the initial trial date than otherwise allowed, or to reopen discovery after a new trial date has been set [Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.050; see § 190.90].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 191.syn

§ 191.syn Synopsis to Chapter 191: DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS

§ 191.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 191.02 Cross References

[1] Related Discovery Chapters

[2] Discovery in Particular Proceedings

[3] Other Related Chapters

§§ 191.03-191.09 [Reserved]

§ 191.10 Governing Law

[1] Civil Discovery Act

[2] Evidentiary Privileges and Other Protections Against Disclosure

§ 191.11 General Scope of Discovery Limited by Privileges and Other Protections

§ 191.12 Privileges Exist Only by Express Statutory Provision

[1] General Rule

[2] Exception for Privilege Required by Constitutional Law

§ 191.13 Burden of Proof Relating to Privilege

[1] Burden on Claiming Party to Show Existence of Privilege

[2] Burden on Opposing Party to Show Lack of Confidentiality or Exception to Privilege

§ 191.14 Standing of Non-Party to Assert Privilege

§ 191.15 Waiver of Privileges Generally

[1] Waiver for Failure to Make Timely Objection or Response to Discovery Demand

[2] Waiver by Disclosure or Consent to Disclosure

[a] Applicable to Confidential Communications

[b] Statement or Conduct Must Indicate Consent to Effect Waiver

[3] Waiver Implied by Placing Privileged Matter in Issue

[a] General Rule

[b] Scope of Implied Waiver Narrowly Construed

[4] Disclosure by One of Two or More Joint Holders

[5] Necessary Disclosure Does Not Constitute Waiver

[6] Disclosure That Is Privileged Does Not Waive Privilege

[7] Inadvertent Disclosure Absent Consent Does Not Waive Privilege

[a] General Rule

[b] Ethical Duty of Attorney Who Receives Inadvertent Disclosure

§ 191.16 Presumptions Involving Confidential Relationship Privileges

§§ 191.17-191.29 [Reserved]

§ 191.30 Privilege Against Self-Incrimination

§ 191.31 Privilege Limited to Matters Subjecting Holder to Criminal, Not Civil, Liability

§ 191.32 Privilege May Be Asserted Only in Reference to Particular Questions or Demands for Disclosure

§ 191.33 Plaintiff May Not Use Privilege to Avoid Discovery Relevant to His or Her Action

§ 191.34 Personal Nature of Privilege

§ 191.35 Compelling Disclosure During Civil Discovery

§§ 191.36-191.39 [Reserved]

§ 191.40 Attorney-Client Privilege

[1] Purpose of Privilege: To Foster Open Communications With Counsel

[2] Privilege Held by Client to Prevent Disclosure of Confidential Communications

[3] Protected Communications

§ 191.41 Claiming the Attorney-Client Privilege

[1] General Rule

[2] When Attorney Must Claim Privilege

[3] Claim of Privilege by Non-Party

[4] Claim of Privilege in Conjunction With Attorney Work Product Claim

§ 191.42 Privilege Held by Client Corporation or Similar Entity

[1] Shareholder of Corporate Client May Not Claim or Waive Privilege

[2] Members of Client Unincorporated Association May Not Claim or Waive Privilege

§ 191.43 Situations in Which Privilege Does Not Exist

§ 191.44 Termination of Privilege Subsequent to Death of Client

§ 191.45 Application of Privilege to Recipient of Paralegal Services

§ 191.46 Application of Privilege to Client of Tax Practitioner

[1] Statutory Extension of Privilege

[2] Extension Under Case Law

§ 191.47 Application of Privilege to Welfare Recipient

§ 191.48 Application of Privilege to Trustee

[1] Privilege Held by Office of Trustee Rather Than by Individual Trustee

[2] Trustee's Confidential Communications to Attorney Are Privileged Against Trust Beneficiaries

§§ 191.49-191.59 [Reserved]

§ 191.60 Physician-Patient Privilege

[1] Privilege Held by Patient to Prevent Disclosure of Confidential Communications

[2] Protected Communications

§ 191.61 Claiming the Physician-Patient Privilege

[1] General Rule

[2] When Physician Must Claim Privilege

[3] Claim of Privilege by Parent as Guardian of Child Patient

[4] Claim of Privilege by Third-Party Recipient of Confidential Communication

§ 191.62 Situations in Which Privilege Does Not Exist

[1] When Patient Is Litigant

[a] General Rule

[b] Exception to Privilege Narrowly Construed

[2] Other Situations When Privilege Does Not Exist

§ 191.63 Subpoena of Confidential Communication for Coroner's Inquest

§§ 191.64-191.69 [Reserved]

§ 191.70 Psychotherapist-Patient Privilege

[1] Privilege Held by Patient to Prevent Disclosure of Confidential Communications

[2] Protected Communications

[3] Scope of Privilege

§ 191.71 Claiming the Psychotherapist-Patient Privilege

[1] General Rule

[2] When Psychotherapist Must Claim Privilege

[3] Existence of Privilege Subsequent to Death of Client

[4] Burden of Proving Claim of Privilege

[a] Claimant Has Burden

[b] Dominant Purpose Test

[c] Effect When Burden Met

§ 191.72 Situations in Which Privilege Does Not Exist

[1] When Patient Is Litigant

[2] Other Situations When Privilege Does Not Exist

§§ 191.73-191.79 [Reserved]

§ 191.80 Other Confidential Relationship Privileges

[1] Confidential Relationship Privileges Generally

[2] Confidential Marital Communications

[3] Privilege Not to Testify Against Spouse

[4] Clergy-Penitent Privilege

[5] Sexual Assault Counselor-Victim Privilege

[6] Domestic Violence Counselor-Victim Privilege

[7] Human Trafficking Caseworker-Victim Privilege

§ 191.81 Official Information Privilege

[1] Definition

[2] When Privilege Is Absolute

[3] When Privilege Is Conditional

[4] Waiver of Conditional Official Information Privilege

§ 191.82 Trade Secret Privilege

[1] General Rule

[2] Effect of Privilege in Action for Misappropriation of Trade Secret

[3] Limiting Disclosure After Waiver of Privilege

§§ 191.83-191.99 [Reserved]

§ 191.100 Attorney Work Product Protection

§ 191.101 Policy Considerations Underlying Work Product Protection

§ 191.102 Definition of Work Product

§ 191.103 Discovery of Work Product

[1] General Rule of Conditional Protection

[2] Expert Consultants

[3] Attorney's Written Opinions and Legal Theories

§ 191.104 State Bar Disciplinary Investigations

§ 191.105 Action Involving Client

§ 191.106 Standing to Claim Work Product Protection

§§ 191.107-191.119 [Reserved]

§ 191.120 Right to Privacy

[1] Nonstatutory Privilege Based on Constitutional Guarantee of Privacy

[2] Examples of Matters Protected From Disclosure

[3] Balancing of Privacy Interest With State Interest in Disclosure

[4] Disclosure Required by Compelling State Interest May Be Limited by Protective Order or Similar Measures

[5] Waiver of Privacy Right

[6] Assertion of Third Person's Privacy Rights

[a] Availability and Balancing Conflicting Interests

[b] Dissolution of Marriage Proceedings

§ 191.121 Statutory Protections Relating to Subpoenaed Records Containing Personal Information

[1] Consumer Records

[2] Employee Records

[3] In Connection With Actions Involving Free Speech Rights

§ 191.122 News Reporter's Qualified First Amendment Privilege

§ 191.123 Newsperson's Immunity From Contempt

[1] "Shield Law" Protection Against Disclosure of Sources or Unpublished Information

[2] Scope of Immunity

[a] Limited to Protection From Contempt Proceedings

[b] Unpublished Information

[c] Identity of Source

[3] Determining When Shield Law Applies

[4] Limitations on Contempt Immunity

[a] Criminal Activity

[b] Violation of Court Order

[c] Newsperson Not Engaged in News Gathering

[5] Related Subpoena Procedures

[6] Appellate Review

§ 191.124 Tax Returns

[1] Protected Documents and Information

[2] Waiver or Inapplicability of Protection

§ 191.125 Settlement Efforts

§ 191.125A Mediation Efforts

[1] Protected Communications

[2] Communications Subject to Discovery

§ 191.126 Medical or Other Health Care Committees

§ 191.127 Information Pertaining to AIDS Blood Test

§ 191.128 Litigation Documents of Public Agency

§ 191.129 Defendant's Financial Information in Action Seeking Punitive Damages

§§ 191.130-191.149 [Reserved]

§ 191.150 Matthew Bender Publications

§ 191.151 California Constitution

§ 191.152 State Statutes

[1] Disclosure Limits Under Discovery Act and Evidence Code

[2] Other Statutes Relating to Disclosure Limitations

§ 191.153 Decisions

[1] Discovery Permitted If Matter Is Relevant and Unprivileged

[2] Privileges Generally

[3] Privilege Against Self Incrimination

[4] Attorney-Client Privilege

[a] Claiming the Attorney-Client Privilege

[b] Corporation or Unincorporated Association as Client

[c] Crime or Fraud Exception

[d] Disclosure to Third Persons

[e] Joint Client Exception

[f] Initial Consultation

[g] Legal Malpractice Action

[h] Matter Put in Issue

[i] Public Entity Client

[j] Scope of Privilege

[k] Trustee

[l] Waiver

[5] Clergy-Penitent Privilege

[6] Marital Privileges

[a] Confidential Marital Communication

[b] Privilege Not to Testify Against Spouse

[7] Medical or Other Health Care Committee Records

[8] Newsperson's Immunity From Contempt

[a] In General

[b] Limitations on Scope of Immunity

[c] Scope of Contempt Immunity

[9] News Reporter's Qualified First Amendment Privilege

[10] Official Information Privilege

[11] Peer Review Records of Hospitals and Medical Organizations

[12] Physician-Patient Privilege

[13] Police Officer Personnel Records

[14] Privacy

[15] Psychotherapist-Patient Privilege

[16] Sealed Court Records

[16A] Settlement or Mediation Efforts

[17] State Secret Privilege

[18] Tax Returns

[19] Vehicle Accident Reports

[20] Waiver of Privilege Generally

[21] Trade Secrets Privilege

[22] Work Product Protection

§ 191.154 Attorney General Opinions

§ 191.155 Law Reviews

§ 191.156 Text References

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART I. SCOPE

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.01

§ 191.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses the evidentiary privileges set out in Evid. Code § 900 et seq., the attorney work-product protection of Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq., and similar statutes and provisions that protect against disclosure and therefore limit the scope of matters otherwise subject to civil discovery.

The legal background is divided into subparts discussing:

- General principles applicable to evidentiary privileges [see § 191.10 et seq.].
- The privilege against self-incrimination [see § 191.30 et seq.].
- The attorney-client privilege [see § 191.40 et seq.].
- The physician-patient privilege [see § 191.60 et seq.].
- The psychotherapist-patient privilege [see § 191.70 et seq.].
- Other evidentiary privileges [see § 191.80 et seq.].
- The attorney work product protection [see § 191.100].
- Other miscellaneous protections against disclosure [see § 191.120 et seq.].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART I. SCOPE

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.02

§ 191.02 Cross References

[1] Related Discovery Chapters

- For discussion and forms relating to the general provisions of the Civil Discovery Act, including the provisions relating to the purpose, general scope, general regulation, and timing of civil discovery, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing .

- For discussion and forms relating to discovery sanctions generally, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse .

- For detailed discussion of discovery of electronically stored evidence (e-discovery), including the special rules governing inadvertent disclosure of privileged electronically stored information, see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery).

- For discussion and forms relating to the use of particular discovery methods authorized by the Civil Discovery Act, see the following chapters covering each method:

  - Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions.

  - Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories.

  - Ch. 195, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence.

  - Ch. 196, Discovery: Requests for Admissions.

  - Ch. 197, Discovery: Physical and Mental Examinations.

  - Ch. 198, Discovery: Exchange of Expert Witness Information.

- For discussion and forms relating to the use of specified discovery methods for the purpose of preserving testimony or other evidence prior to the commencement of an action or pending an appeal, see Ch. 199, Discovery: Preservation of Evidence .

- For discussion and forms relating to the review of interlocutory discovery orders in certain circumstances by petition for writ of mandate or prohibition, see Ch. 200, Discovery: Review of Discovery Orders .

[2] Discovery in Particular Proceedings

- For discussion and forms relating to discovery and privileges or other protections against disclosure in particular actions or proceedings, see the following:

  - Ch. 71, Attorney Discipline (discussion of discovery in State Bar disciplinary proceedings).

  - Ch. 295, Hospitals (discussion of discovery of hospital records).

  - Ch. 473B, Discovery in Agency Adjudications (discussion forms relating to discovery in administrative trials under the Administrative Procedure Act of Gov. Code § 11340 et seq.).

  - Ch. 577, Workers' Compensation (discussion and forms relating to discovery in workers' compensation proceedings).

[3] Other Related Chapters

- For discussion and forms relating to subpoenas and subpoenas duces tecum generally, including discussion of the notice and objection provisions that provide procedural protections in the disclosure, by production pursuant to subpoena duces tecum, of business records containing personal information about consumers or employees, see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsAdmissionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsInterrogatoriesGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsOral DepositionsCivil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsRequests for Production & InspectionCivil ProcedurePretrial MattersSubpoenas

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART I. SCOPE

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 191.03-191.09

[Reserved]

§§ 191.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Privileges in General

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.10

§ 191.10 Governing Law

[1] Civil Discovery Act

Civil discovery is generally governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.010-2036.050. These provisions are otherwise known as the Civil Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010]. The protection against disclosure of an attorney's work product is set out in the Civil Discovery Act under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq.

The recovery of privileged electronically stored information that was inadvertently disclosed in the course of discovery is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.285. For discussion, see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence, § 195A.21. The obligations of counsel who receive inadvertent disclosures of privileged produced in discovery is governed by the California Supreme Court's decision in Rico v. Mitsubishi Motors Corp. [Rico v. Mitsubishi Motors Corp. (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 807, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 758, 171 P.3d 1092 ; see discussion in § 191.15[7]].

[2] Evidentiary Privileges and Other Protections Against Disclosure

Evidentiary privileges are governed by Evid. Code §§ 900-1070. Various other statutory or constitutional provisions also provide protection against disclosure of certain matters. For example, the right to privacy under Cal. Const., art. I, § 1, has been construed by courts to limit discovery in some instances [see Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 844, 852-856, 143 Cal. Rptr. 695, 574 P.2d 766] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawSubstantive Due ProcessPrivacyGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Privileges in General

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.11

§ 191.11 General Scope of Discovery Limited by Privileges and Other Protections

The general scope of discovery is limited not only to matters that are relevant to subject matter of the action, but also to matters that are "not privileged" [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010; see also Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.20 et seq., for discussion relating to relevancy and to specific provisions of the Discovery Act that qualify the general scope of discovery].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryRelevance

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Privileges in General

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.12

§ 191.12 Privileges Exist Only by Express Statutory Provision

[1] General Rule

Statutory privileges against disclosure are set out in primarily in Division 8 of the Evidence Code [see Evid. Code § 900 et seq.]. Generally, unless there is such a statutory provision to the contrary, no person has a privilege to (1) refuse to be a witness, (2) refuse to disclose any matter or to produce any writing, object, or other thing, or (3) prevent another from being a witness, disclosing any matter, or producing any writing, object, or other thing [Evid. Code § 911].

Evid. Code § 911 codifies a legislative determination that evidentiary privileges are available only as defined by statute. Consequently, courts may neither add to the statutory privileges, nor imply unwritten exceptions to existing statutory privileges [Roberts v. City of Palmdale (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 363, 373, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 330, 853 P.2d 496] . The statutory privileges are exclusive, and courts may not create new privileges as a matter of judicial policy [Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 704, 711-712, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 854 P.2d 1117] .

Miscellaneous statutes, in addition to the evidentiary privileges set out in Evid. Code § 900 et seq., also protect against discovery. These confer various types of protection against disclosure to specified matter. One of the more significant examples is the protection of an attorney's work product under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq., which is discussed in § 191.100 et seq. Another example is found in the portion of the Evidence Code that provides for the exclusion of evidence based on extrinsic policies: the provisions of Evid. Code § 1156 et seq. protect against discovery of certain health care committee records and proceedings. For discussion of a number of these miscellaneous statutory protections, see § 191.120.

[2] Exception for Privilege Required by Constitutional Law

Under the general rule set out in [1], above, courts may not add to the statutory privileges. The one exception to this are privileges that courts have necessarily implied from a constitutional provision. In other words, courts have recognized nonstatutory privileges required by state or federal constitutional law [Roberts v. City of Palmdale (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 363, 373, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 330, 853 P.2d 496] . Thus, for example, courts have interpreted the right to privacy under Cal. Const., art. I, § 1, to limit discovery in certain instances [see Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 844, 852-856, 143 Cal. Rptr. 695, 574 P.2d 766 , discussed in § 191.120[1]]. Similarly, the right of a free press under U.S. Const., amend. I and Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(a) gives rise to a qualified privilege against disclosure of a confidential news source [see Mitchell v. Superior Court (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 268, 274, 279, 283-284, 208 Cal. Rptr. 152, 690 P.2d 625 , discussed in § 191.122].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Privileges in General

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.13

§ 191.13 Burden of Proof Relating to Privilege

[1] Burden on Claiming Party to Show Existence of Privilege

Under Evidence Code sections 900-1070, the party claiming a privilege has the burden of proof on the preliminary facts [San Diego Professional Assn. v. Superior Court (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 194, 199, 23 Cal. Rptr. 384, 373 P.2d 448 ; Chronicle Pub. Co. v. Superior Court (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 548, 565, 7 Cal. Rptr. 109, 354 P.2d 637] .

[2] Burden on Opposing Party to Show Lack of Confidentiality or Exception to Privilege

The opponent of the claim of privilege based on a confidential communication has the burden of proof to establish that the communication was not confidential [Evid. Code § 917]. In other words, to overcome the presumption of confidentiality, the opposing party must persuade the presiding officer that the communication was not made in confidence. The fact that the communication was made under circumstances in which others could easily overhear is a strong indication that the communication was not intended to be confidential and is, therefore, unprivileged [Assembly Judiciary Comm. Comment to Evid. Code § 917; see also discussion in § 191.16].

The opposing party also has the burden of proof on any preliminary fact necessary to show that an exception to the privilege is applicable [Assembly Judiciary Comm. Comment to Evid. Code § 405; but see Abbott v. Superior Court (1947) 78 Cal. App. 2d 19, 21, 177 P.2d 317 (suggesting that a prima facie showing by the opposing party is sufficient when the issue is whether a communication between attorney and client was made in contemplation of crime)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeGeneral OverviewEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofAllocation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Privileges in General

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.14

§ 191.14 Standing of Non-Party to Assert Privilege

A holder of a privilege generally has standing to assert a privilege in a proceeding to prevent disclosure of privileged material, even though not a party to the proceeding. For example, if a party to a proceeding seeks to disclose privileged material, a non-party holder of the privilege may make a motion in that proceeding to prevent its disclosure [Mylan Laboratories Inc. v. Soon-Shiong (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 71, 80-81, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 111 (holding that non-party client should properly make motion to assert privilege, but need not and may not move to intervene as party to proceeding solely to obtain "standing" to prevent disclosure); see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.020(a) (motion for protective order to limit discovery generally may be made either by party or "other affected person")].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJusticiabilityStandingGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawThe JudiciaryCase or ControversyStandingGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Privileges in General

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.15

§ 191.15 Waiver of Privileges Generally

[1] Waiver for Failure to Make Timely Objection or Response to Discovery Demand

The Civil Discovery Act expressly provides in a number of instances that a failure to make a timely and specific objection to discovery, on the ground that the matter sought to be discovered is privileged or subject to attorney work product protection, constitutes a waiver of the privilege or protection [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.460(a) (waiver for failure to object during oral deposition); Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.050(a) (waiver for failure to object to written deposition question); Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290(a) (waiver for failure to make timely response to interrogatory); Code Civ. Proc. 2031.300(a) (waiver for failure to make timely response to demand for production of tangible evidence); see Monarch Healthcare v. Superior Court (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 1282, 1284, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 619 (petitioner nonparty deponent's objection to records-only discovery request for privileged information was timely and sufficient when made at time and place for production of records; nonparty deponent was not required to file a motion to quash)].

[2] Waiver by Disclosure or Consent to Disclosure

[a] Applicable to Confidential Communications

Generally, the right of any person to claim the following privileges for a protected communication is waived if any holder of the privilege has, without coercion, disclosed a significant part of the communication or has consented to such disclosure made by anyone [Evid. Code § 912(a)]:

- Attorney-client privilege under Evid. Code § 954.
- Privilege for confidential marital communications under Evid. Code § 980.
- Physician patient privilege under Evid. Code § 994.
- Psychotherapist-patient privilege under Evid. Code § 1014.

- Penitent's privilege under Evid. Code § 1033.
- Clergy's privilege under Evid. Code § 1034.
- Sexual assault counselor-victim privilege under Evid. Code § 1035.8.
- Domestic violence counselor-victim privilege under Evid. Code § 1037.5.

[b] Statement or Conduct Must Indicate Consent to Effect Waiver

Consent to a disclosure is manifested by any statement or other conduct by the holder of the privilege that indicates consent, including failure to claim the privilege when the holder has the standing and opportunity to claim it [Evid. Code § 912(a)]. Consent may also be inferred. For instance, consent of an attorney's client may be inferred from a disclosure by the attorney for the client's benefit during negotiations on behalf of the client [Klang v. Shell Oil Co. (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 933, 938, 95 Cal. Rptr. 265] .

Mere disclosure of the fact that a privileged communication has occurred does not amount to a disclosure of the specific content of that communication, and does not necessarily constitute a waiver of the privilege [Southern Cal. Gas Co. v. Public Utilities Com. (1990) 50 Cal. 3d 31, 49, 265 Cal. Rptr. 801, 784 P.2d 1373 (attorney-client privilege); Mitchell v. Superior Court (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 591, 601-602, 208 Cal. Rptr. 886, 691 P.2d 642 (attorney-client privilege)]. Nor does testifying about facts that might have been discussed in confidential conversations waive a privilege, because it is not equivalent to disclosure of the actual content of those conversations [Maas v. Municipal Court (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 601, 606, 221 Cal. Rptr. 245 (attorney-client privilege)].

[3] Waiver Implied by Placing Privileged Matter in Issue

[a] General Rule

Implied waiver is established by showing that "the client put the otherwise privileged communication directly at issue and that disclosure is essential for a fair adjudication of the action" [Venture Law Group v. Superior Court (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 96, 105, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 656 (attorney-client privilege)]. A communication goes to the heart of the claim in controversy when [Chicago Title Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 1142, 1149, 220 Cal. Rptr. 507 (attorney-client privilege)]:

- There is a legitimate need to reach the evidence.
- The evidence is relevant and material to the issue before the court.
- The information cannot be secured from any less intrusive source.

[b] Scope of Implied Waiver Narrowly Construed

The scope of the implied waiver is narrowly defined and the information required to be disclosed must fit strictly within the confines of the waiver [Transamerica Title Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 1047, 1052, 233 Cal. Rptr. 825 (attorney-client privilege)].

For example, in one case, an attorney who had been sued for malpractice by a former client filed a cross complaint against the client's successor attorney for comparative equitable indemnity. The defendant and cross complainant argued that the client's commencement of a malpractice action impliedly waived any privilege with respect to communications between the client and defendant, but also with respect to those between the client and the successor attorney, at least as to communications relevant to the joint representation [Kroll & Tract v. Paris & Paris (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1537, 1544, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 78] . The appellate court held that communications with the successor attorney were not impliedly waived, because the client, as holder of the privilege, expressly preserved it as to its successor attorney by choosing not to sue that attorney for malpractice [Kroll & Tract v. Paris & Paris (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1537, 1540-1544, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 78 (affirming demurrer to cross complaint, noting that if the indemnity action were allowed, the successor attorney would be unable to defend to the extent the defense depended on privileged client communications)].

One court stated that a waiver might be shown in an employment discrimination action alleging a hostile work environment if the employer, hoping to prevail by showing that it had its attorney investigate an employee's complaint, and took action appropriate to the findings of that investigation, places the adequacy of that investigation directly at issue. When the adequacy of such an investigation is directly at issue, the attorney-client privilege and attorney work product protection regarding that investigation are waived [Wellpoint Health Networks, Inc. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 110, 125-129, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 844 (remanding for determination as to waiver, which could not be determined on appeal from dismissal following order sustaining demurrer to second amended complaint)].

The attorney-client privilege and work product protection are not, however, waived in every case in which an employer puts the adequacy of its prelitigation investigation at issue. For example, waiver does not occur when an employer conducts its investigation using non-attorney personnel, produces documents disclosing the substance of the investigation, and seeks to protect only specified communications between those personnel and the client's attorney, because disclosure of these privileged communications is not essential to determine the adequacy of the investigation [Kaiser Found. Hospitals v. Superior Court (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1217, 1227, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 543 (remanding for inspection of employer's privilege log and for in camera inspection of documents for which work product protection was claimed to evaluate extent of protection)].

Moreover, in a case in which plaintiff alleged defective construction of a reservoir near her home, documents dealing with defendant's post-construction investigation were irrelevant to plaintiff's claim that defendant waived the work product privilege by placing its pre-construction investigation at issue, and therefore were not discoverable [Laguna Beach County Water Dist. v. Superior Court (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 1453, 1458, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 387] .

In a case construing waiver of the psychotherapist-patient privilege, arising out of plaintiff's injury while crossing defendant trolley company's tracks, the court of appeal held that defendant trolley driver did not waive her privilege by revealing, both in her deposition in this case and in her previous workers' compensation claims for stress-related anxiety due to a previous work-related incident, that she was seeing a psychiatrist. The driver's willingness to put her psychotherapeutic relationship somewhat at risk in the workers' compensation proceedings, and any resulting limited disclosure, did not support the inference that she meant her relationship with her psychiatrist could continue to be put at risk following the disposition of her claims [San Diego Trolley, Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1083, 1094, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 476] . Moreover, in her testimony in this case, the driver disclosed only the fact that she was being treated for anxiety by a psychiatrist and the medications the psychiatrist prescribed. Nothing in this testimony could be construed as disclosing any significant part of her communications with her psychiatrist [San Diego Trolley, Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1083, 1094, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 476] .

In a case construing the physician-patient privilege, a real party in interest, the father in a marital dissolution and custody action, waived the physician-patient privilege under Evid. Code §§ 912(a) and 992 with respect to certain medical records, because the mother was present during the father's intake exam with his neurologist and the father consented to disclosure of a significant part of his communications with the neurologist on that date [Manela v. Superior Court (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1146-1147, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 736]. Further, the father's filing of another physician's declaration, stating that he had treated the father for the past nine years, waived the privilege with respect to those records [Manela v. Superior Court (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1147-1148, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 736]. However, in keeping with the fact that the scope of the waiver of a privilege generally is construed narrowly, the disclosure of the father's communications with his current physicians did not relate back to father's communications to another doctor who had treated him for seizures as a teenager. Access to the earlier records would undermine the father's interest in disclosing all necessary information to his current treating physician. Therefore, the father's waiver of the physician-patient privilege with respect to his two current physicians did not waive the privilege with respect to the doctor who treated him as a child [Manela v. Superior Court (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1148, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 736].

[4] Disclosure by One of Two or More Joint Holders

If two or more persons are joint holders of a attorney-client privilege, physician-patient privilege, psychotherapist-patient privilege, sexual assault counselor-victim privilege, or domestic violence counselor-victim privilege, the waiver of the right to claim the privilege by one joint holder does not affect the right of another joint holder to claim the privilege [Evid. Code § 912(b); see, e.g., American Mut. Liab. Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 579, 591, 595-596, 113 Cal. Rptr. 561 (insured unable to waive insurer's privilege of confidential communications with mutual attorney)]. Similarly, a waiver by one spouse of the privilege for confidential marital communications does not affect the right of the other spouse to claim the privilege [Evid. Code § 912(b)].

[5] Necessary Disclosure Does Not Constitute Waiver

A disclosure in confidence of a communication that is protected by the attorney-client, physician-patient, psychotherapist-patient, or sexual assault counselor-victim privilege is not a waiver of that privilege if the disclosure is reasonably necessary to accomplish the purpose of the consultation [Evid. Code § 912(d)].

Thus, the "[attorney-client] privilege extends to communications which are intended to be confidential, if they are made to attorneys, to family members, business associates, or agents of the party or his attorneys on matters of joint concern, when disclosure of the communication is reasonably necessary to further the interest of the litigant" [Ins. Co. of N. Am. v. Superior Court (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 758, 767, 166 Cal. Rptr. 880] . While the involvement of "an unnecessary third person" in attorney-client communications destroys confidentiality, involvement of third persons to whom disclosure is reasonably necessary to further the purpose of the legal consultation preserves the confidentiality of the communication [Ins. Co. of N. Am. v. Superior Court (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 758, 765, 166 Cal. Rptr. 880 (italics in original)]. For example, a disclosure made at the request of defense counsel for purposes of evaluation in preparation of the defense case is reasonably necessary, and remains protected by the attorney-client privilege [Rodriguez v. Superior Court (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1260, 1266, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 120] .

Similarly, sending letters containing an attorney's work product to auditors of defendant public agency, at the agency's direction, did not waive the right to assert the work product privilege with respect to those letters [Laguna Beach County Water Dist. v. Superior Court (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 1453, 1461, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 387] . The letters themselves made clear that the attorney did not intend to waive protection; he sent the letters only to comply with defendant's request, and the third party auditors had an interest in maintaining the confidentiality of the work product [Laguna Beach County Water Dist. v. Superior Court (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 1453, 1459-1461, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 387] .

Similarly, a disclosure made to promote a patient's treatment is reasonably necessary [Blue Cross v. Superior Court (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 798, 801, 132 Cal. Rptr. 635 ; see also Rudnick v. Superior Court (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 924, 930-931, 114 Cal. Rptr. 603, 523 P.2d 643] .

Disclosure of confidential legal advice and strategy among an insurer's employees can be protected by the attorney-client privilege, even if the insurer's attorneys were not directly involved and the documents at issue did not include excerpts of direct communications from the attorneys, provided that the employees involved were third persons to whom disclosure was reasonably necessary to further the purpose of the legal consultation [Zurich Am. Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 1485, 1503, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 833 (remanding to make this determination)].

One court of appeal has held that production of documents to the government by energy suppliers under criminal and regulatory investigation did not waive the attorney-client privilege and work product protection when production was coerced by the threat of indictment if the corporations failed to cooperate [Regents of Univ. of Cal. v. Superior Court (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 672, 675, 683-684, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 186 (Evid. Code § 919 anticipates that privilege holder will not have to make strenuous efforts to resist disclosure; only reasonable efforts are required)].

Under some circumstances, disclosure to codefendants might be reasonably necessary [see Raytheon Co. v. Superior Court (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 683, 689, 256 Cal. Rptr. 425] . For example, when parties negotiating a business transaction entered into a joint defense agreement in anticipation of litigation by a third party, in camera review was required to determine whether the disclosure of the documents in the course of the transaction waived attorney-client privilege. While the joint defense agreement was not void as matter of public policy, it could not serve as sole ground for withholding the documents [OXY Resources California LLC v. Superior Court (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 874, 879, 893, 9 Cal. Rptr. 3d 621] .

However, disclosures from an attorney to an expert that are reasonably necessary to further the attorney's representation of the client's interests are not protected by the attorney-client privilege once the expert is designated a trial witness. The decision to use the expert as a witness manifests the client's consent to the disclosure of the information [Shadow Traffic Network v. Superior Court (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 1067, 1078-1079, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 693 ; see also discussion in § 191.103[2]].

[6] Disclosure That Is Privileged Does Not Waive Privilege

A disclosure that is privileged is not a waiver of any privilege [Evid. Code § 912(c)].

[7] Inadvertent Disclosure Absent Consent Does Not Waive Privilege

[a] General Rule

Inadvertent disclosure of a privileged communication does not necessarily constitute waiver of the privilege. In determining whether waiver has occurred, the trial court must examine the subjective intent of the privilege holder and the relevant surrounding circumstances for any manifestation of holder's consent to disclose. If the client or privilege holder clearly did not consent or intend to disclose privileged matter, the accidental, inadvertent disclosure of such matter by another, such as the holder's attorney, does not constitute a waiver under Evidence Code § 912 [State Comp. Ins. Fund v. WPS, Inc. (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 644, 652-654, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 799 (attorney-client privilege)].

[b] Ethical Duty of Attorney Who Receives Inadvertent Disclosure

The California Supreme Court has adopted an "objective standard," to be applied prospectively when an attorney inadvertently receives obviously confidential or privileged material [Rico v. Mitsubishi Motors Corp. (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 807, 817, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 758, 171 P.3d 1092] . Under this standard, when an attorney receives materials obviously subject to attorney-client privilege, or otherwise clearly confidential and privileged, and it is reasonably apparent that they were made available through inadvertence, that attorney should refrain from examining them any more than is essential to ascertain if they are privileged, and must immediately notify the sender that he or she has possession of materials that appear to be privileged. The attorney must also notify the party entitled to the privilege. The parties then may proceed to resolve the situation by agreement or may resort to the court for guidance with the benefit of protective orders and such other judicial intervention as may be justified [Rico v. Mitsubishi Motors Corp. (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 807, 817, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 758, 171 P.3d 1092 ; State Comp. Ins. Fund v. WPS, Inc. (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 644, 656-657, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 799 ; see, e.g., Bak v. MCL Financial Group, Inc. (2009) 170 Cal. App. 4th 1118, 1126-1127, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 800 (affirming award of sanctions against defense attorney who should have sought guidance from arbitration panel, rather than unilaterally copying allegedly privileged material plaintiffs had inadvertently produced and sending it to panel)].

In applying the preceding rule, courts must consider whether reasonably competent counsel, knowing the circumstances of the litigation, would have concluded the materials were privileged, how much review was reasonably necessary to draw that conclusion, and when counsel's examination should have ended [Rico v. Mitsubishi Motors Corp. (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 807, 818, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 758, 171 P.3d 1092 (standard was "properly and easily" applied in this case, and disqualification was appropriate)].

When seeking to hold an attorney accountable for misuse of privileged materials received through inadvertence, the complaining attorney has the burden to demonstrate persuasively the inadvertence. Otherwise, an attorney might attempt to gain an advantage by sending privileged matter deliberately and then moving to disqualify the recipient. Mere exposure to the material alone does not warrant disqualification, although disqualification may be proper for an attorney who violates the standard now set for handling inadvertently disclosed privileged matter [State Comp. Ins. Fund v. WPS, Inc. (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 644, 656-657, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 799] .

For general discussion of an attorney's ethical obligations with respect to privileged materials, see Ch. 72, Attorney Practice and Ethics (Matthew Bender). For discussion of inadvertent disclosure in the context of electronic discovery (e-discovery), see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery), § 195A.21. For a detailed discussion of counsel's duties in the context of production of electronically stored information (e-discovery), including inadvertent production, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence, Ch. 3, Ethical Issues for Attorneys in E-Discovery.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeWaiverEvidencePrivilegesClergy CommunicationsWaiverEvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeWaiverEvidencePrivilegesMarital PrivilegesConfidential CommunicationsWaiverLegal EthicsClient RelationsConfidentiality of Information

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Privileges in General

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.16

§ 191.16 Presumptions Involving Confidential Relationship Privileges

When a claim of privilege is made on the ground that the matter is a confidential communication made in the course of the attorney-client, physician-patient, psychotherapist-patient, clergyman-penitent, spousal relationship, sexual assault counselor-victim relationship, or domestic violence counselor-victim relationship, the communication is presumed to have been made in confidence [Evid. Code § 917(a)]. Moreover, the opponent of the claimant of the privilege has the burden of proving that the communication was not confidential [Evid. Code § 917(a); Palay v. Superior Court (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 919, 926 n.7, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 839] .

A communication between persons in a relationship listed in Evid. Code § 917(a) does not lose its privileged character for the sole reason that it is communicated by electronic means or because persons involved in the delivery, facilitation, or storage of electronic communication may have access to the content of the communication [Evid. Code § 917(b); see Evid. Code § 917(c); Civ. Code § 1633.2 ("electronic" defined)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidenceInferences & PresumptionsPresumptionsEvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesClergy CommunicationsGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeGeneral OverviewEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Privileges in General

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 191.17-191.29

[Reserved]

§§ 191.17[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Privilege Against Self-Incrimination

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.30

§ 191.30 Privilege Against Self-Incrimination

To the extent that the privilege exists in the United States Constitution and California Constitution, every person has the privilege to refuse to disclose any matter that may tend to incriminate him or her [Evid. Code § 940; see U.S. Const., amends. V, XIV; Cal. Const., art. I, § 15; see also People v. Berry (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1449, 1453-1454, 281 Cal Rptr. 543 (burden of claiming privilege is on person seeking its protection, although when judge would be aware from circumstances of case of potential for self-incrimination, he or she should act to protect witness)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Constitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsProcedural Due ProcessSelf-Incrimination PrivilegeEvidencePrivilegesSelf-Incrimination PrivilegeGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesSelf-Incrimination PrivilegeScopeEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Privilege Against Self-Incrimination

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.31

§ 191.31 Privilege Limited to Matters Subjecting Holder to Criminal, Not Civil, Liability

The privilege in Evid. Code § 940 may be asserted in a civil as well as in a criminal proceeding, but is limited to matters that would incriminate the person in the commission of a punishable crime [People v. Whelchel (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 455, 460, 65 Cal. Rptr. 258 ; see also Black v. State Bar (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 676, 685, 103 Cal. Rptr. 288, 499 P.2d 968] . A witness invoking the privilege in a civil proceeding must demonstrate that the fear of incrimination is reasonable and not fanciful or merely imagined, because the privilege protects against real dangers, not remote or speculative possibilities [Warford v. Medeiros (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 1035, 1043-1044, 207 Cal. Rptr. 94 ; see, e.g., In re the Marriage of Sachs (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1144, 1161-1162, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 273 (ex-husband could not invoke privilege against self-incrimination in judgment debtor proceeding, because silence about his income would not have incriminated him, but instead, would have prevented him from defending against contempt charges for failure to comply with support orders)]. The reasonableness of the fear must be demonstrated by some nexus between the information requested and the risk of criminal prosecution and conviction [Troy v. Superior Court (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 1006, 1012-1013, 231 Cal. Rptr. 108] .

The privilege against self-incrimination is not applicable to matters that will subject the witness only to civil liability. While the privilege of a criminal defendant is absolute, in civil case a witness or party may be required to waive the privilege or accept the civil consequences of silence if he or she exercises the privilege [Blackburn v. Superior Court (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 414, 425-426, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 204] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesSelf-Incrimination PrivilegeScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Privilege Against Self-Incrimination

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.32

§ 191.32 Privilege May Be Asserted Only in Reference to Particular Questions or Demands for Disclosure

There is no blanket right to refuse to answer questions in a civil proceeding, and a person claiming the privilege against self-incrimination must do so with specific reference to particular questions asked or other evidence sought. The trial court should inquire about each specific claim of privilege to determine whether the claimant has sustained the burden of showing justification for the claim [Warford v. Medeiros (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 1035, 1045, 207 Cal. Rptr. 94] . Thus, the privilege may not be asserted with respect to potential questions that have not yet been asked [see Fuller v. Superior Court (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 299, 308, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 525 (denying writ of prohibition that would have preclude witness from testifying on matters as to which the witness might invoke the privilege; testimony preclusion premature and court could not ascertain whether or not claim of privilege was well founded)]. It is within the trial court's discretion to make the inquiry in camera or in open court [Warford v. Medeiros (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 1035, 1045-1048, 207 Cal. Rptr. 94] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureTrialsExamination of WitnessesGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesSelf-Incrimination PrivilegeElementsEvidencePrivilegesSelf-Incrimination PrivilegeScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Privilege Against Self-Incrimination

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.33

§ 191.33 Plaintiff May Not Use Privilege to Avoid Discovery Relevant to His or Her Action

A party seeking civil relief in the courts is not able to refuse to testify on matters relevant to his or her recovery on the ground of privilege against self-incrimination [Shepherd v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 107, 117, 130 Cal. Rptr. 257, 550 P.2d 161 ; Newson v. Oakland (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 1050, 1055-1057, 112 Cal. Rptr. 890] . A plaintiff may not avoid discovery by relying on the privilege against self-incrimination, but may be required to choose between waiver of the privilege and dismissal of the action [Fremont Indemnity Co. v. Superior Court (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 554, 560, 187 Cal. Rptr. 137 ; see also Dwyer v. Crocker National Bank (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 1418, 1431-1432, 240 Cal. Rptr. 297 (plaintiff who refused to answer questions or produce documents at deposition on basis of self-incrimination privilege was prohibited from introducing evidence at trial or supporting or opposing designated claims or defenses to which deposition questions or documents related) and discussion in § 191.35].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesSelf-Incrimination PrivilegeScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Privilege Against Self-Incrimination

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.34

§ 191.34 Personal Nature of Privilege

The privilege against self-incrimination is personal in nature. Thus, it may not be asserted by a corporation or other artificial entity [see People v. Superior Court (Keuffel & Esser Co.) (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 785, 788, 227 Cal. Rptr. 13 (corporation)]. Moreover, it may not be asserted by an individual with respect to papers or effects unless they are his or her personal property, or at least in his or her possession in a purely personal capacity. The latter rule applies even though the evidence might incriminate the holder personally [see People ex rel. Clancy v. Superior Court (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 740, 745, 218 Cal. Rptr. 24, 705 P.2d 347 (employee not entitled to assert privilege with respect to property possessed in representative capacity as employee of artificial entity)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesSelf-Incrimination PrivilegeScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Privilege Against Self-Incrimination

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.35

§ 191.35 Compelling Disclosure During Civil Discovery

A witness who refuses to answer questions on the ground of the constitutional privilege against self-incrimination may be compelled to answer if granted immunity against prosecutorial use of the answers, or evidence derived therefrom, in subsequent criminal proceedings against the witness [Daly v. Superior Court (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 132, 142-143, 137 Cal. Rptr. 14, 560 P.2d 1193] . A request from a prosecuting agency is not a prerequisite to a judicial grant of immunity [Daly v. Superior Court (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 132, 146, 137 Cal. Rptr. 14, 560 P.2d 1193] . However, the party seeking to obtain a protective order granting immunity must first give adequate notice to the appropriate prosecuting official, and afford it an opportunity to object to the granting of the order, in order sufficiently to establish the absence of any unduly detrimental effect of a proposed immunity order on future criminal proceedings [Daly v. Superior Court (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 132, 147-148, 137 Cal. Rptr. 14, 560 P.2d 1193 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 2019, now superseded by various provisions for protective orders particularized to each discovery method, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420 regarding depositions)].

However, when a civil defendant faces possible criminal prosecution on the basis of the same facts involved in the civil action, but immunity is denied due to objection by the criminal prosecutors, it is improper to punish the defendant for invoking the privilege against self-incrimination and refusing to disclose evidence. One way the court may properly protect both parties to the civil action is to stay discovery until disposition of the criminal matter or expiration of the criminal statute of limitations [Pacers, Inc. v. Superior Court (1985) 162 Cal. App. 3d 686, 688-690, 208 Cal. Rptr. 743] . In contrast, sanctions may be imposed, and no stay need be granted, when a plaintiff is seeking damages in a civil action refuses to respond to discovery on the basis of the privilege against self-incrimination [Dwyer v. Crocker National Bank (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 1418, 1431-1432, 240 Cal. Rptr. 297] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryDisclosuresMotions to CompelCivil ProcedureDiscoveryDisclosuresSanctionsCivil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryProtective OrdersEvidencePrivilegesSelf-Incrimination PrivilegeScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Privilege Against Self-Incrimination

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 191.36-191.39

[Reserved]

§§ 191.36[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Attorney-Client Privilege

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.40

§ 191.40 Attorney-Client Privilege

[1] Purpose of Privilege: To Foster Open Communications With Counsel

The fundamental purpose behind the attorney-client or lawyer-client privilege is to promote full and open discussion of the facts and tactics surrounding individual legal matters [Mitchell v. Superior Court (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 591, 599, 208 Cal. Rptr. 886, 691 P.2d 642 ; People v. Godlewski (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 940, 945, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 796] . It has been held that the nature of the privileged communication between attorney and client is broad [see American Mut. Liab. Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 579, 593, 113 Cal. Rptr. 561 ; see also Evid. Code § 917 (presumption of confidentiality)].

However, the Supreme Court has stated that the attorney-client privilege is to be strictly construed because it tends to suppress relevant facts [Greyhound Corp. v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 355, 396-397, 15 Cal. Rptr. 90, 364 P.2d 266] .

[2] Privilege Held by Client to Prevent Disclosure of Confidential Communications

As a general rule, a client, whether or not a party, has a privilege to refuse to disclose, and to prevent another from disclosing, a confidential communication between client and attorney, subject however to waiver under Evid. Code § 912, and except as otherwise provided in Evid. Code §§ 950-962 [Evid. Code § 954]. For discussion of waiver under Evid. Code § 912, see § 191.15.

A "client" is a person who, directly or through an authorized representative, consults an attorney for the purpose of retaining the attorney or securing legal service or advice from the attorney in the latter's professional capacity. "Client" includes both an incompetent who directly consults an attorney as well as a guardian or conservator who so consults an attorney on behalf of an incompetent [Evid. Code § 951].

An attorney or "lawyer" for purposes of the privilege refers to a person authorized, or reasonably believed by the client to be authorized, to practice law in any state or nation [Evid. Code § 950].

[3] Protected Communications

The privilege attaches to a confidential communication between the attorney and the client and bars discovery of the communication. A "confidential communication" is defined as information transmitted between a client and attorney in the course of their relationship and in confidence by a means that, so far as the client is aware, does not disclose the information to any third person other than those present to further the interest of the client in the consultation, or those to whom disclosure is reasonably necessary to transmit the information or accomplish the purpose for which the attorney is consulted. It includes legal opinions formed and advice given by the attorney in the course of that relationship [Evid. Code § 952]. The privilege applies irrespective of whether or not the communication also includes unprivileged material [Costco Wholesale Corp. v. Superior Court (2009) 47 Cal. 4th 725, 734, 219 P.3d 736 ("[w]hen the communication is a confidential one between attorney and client, the entire communication, including its recitation or summary of factual material, is privileged"); see Mitchell v. Superior Court (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 591, 600, 208 Cal. Rptr. 886, 691 P.2d 642 ("[n]either the statutes articulating the attorney-client privilege nor the cases which have interpreted it make any differentiation between 'factual' and 'legal' information")].

Confidential communications between an insurer's employees regarding legal advice and strategy can be privileged, because confidential communications under Evid. Code § 952 includes information transmitted to persons to whom disclosure was reasonably necessary to further the interest of the litigant. Thus, even if the insurer's attorneys were not directly involved, and the documents did not include excerpts of direct communications from the attorneys, communications reflecting a discussion of litigation strategy and expressing that the strategy was in response to advice of counsel would come within the privilege [Zurich Am. Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 1485,1502-1505, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 833 (remanding to determine whether employees with whom advice of counsel was shared came within these principles)].

The attorney-client privilege is inapplicable when the defendant speaks in a way that enables third persons to overhear his or her comment and see his or her gesture, even if defendant's attorney is seated right next to the defendant and the defendant intended that the communication be confidential [People v. Urbano (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 396, 403, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 871] .

A communication between a client and his or her attorney does not lose its privileged character for the sole reason that it is communicated by electronic means or because persons involved in the delivery, facilitation, or storage of electronic communication may have access to the content of the communication [see Evid. Code § 917(b); see also Evid. Code § 917(c); Civ. Code § 1633.2 ("electronic" defined)].

When the communication between an attorney and possible client proceeds "beyond initial or peripheral contacts" to the attorney's acquisition of information that would be confidential were there to be representation, the privilege applies [People ex rel. Dep't of Corporations v. SpeeDee Oil Change Sys., Inc. (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 1135, 1148, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 816, 980 P.2d 371 (Cal. 1999) (attorney's involvement rose to level at which fiduciary duties of confidentiality and loyalty could be imposed); see Barton v. United States District Court (9th Cir. 2005) 410 F.3d 1104, 1111 (California attorney-client privilege applied to Internet questionnaires completed by four plaintiffs, in tort action against drug manufacturer, even though plaintiffs filled out questionnaires before law firm represented them and with no assurance that it would; law firm's disclaimer of attorney-client relationship was not disclaimer of confidentiality, and "prospective clients' communications with a view to obtaining legal services are plainly covered by the attorney-client privilege under California law, regardless of whether they have retained the lawyer, and regardless of whether they ever retain the lawyer")]. Thus, the privilege applies to confidential communications during preliminary negotiations with a attorney, even if employment is declined [Rosso, Johnson, Rosso & Ebersold v. Superior Court (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1514, 1518, 237 Cal. Rptr. 242] .

The privilege encompasses not only oral or written statements, but also actions, signs, or other means of communicating information. It covers the transmission of documents that are available to the public, and not merely information in the sole possession of the attorney or client, because discovery of the transmission of specific public documents might very well reveal the attorney's intended strategy. It also covers the communication of factual information as well as legal advice [Mitchell v. Superior Court (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 591, 600-601, 208 Cal. Rptr. 886, 691 P.2d 642] . The identity of an attorney's clients is not generally protected by the attorney-client privilege. However, when so much is already known of the attorney-client relationship that to disclose a client's name would betray a confidential communication, the identity of a client may be treated as a privileged information [Tien v. Superior Court (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 528, 537-541, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 121 (compelling disclosure of identities of putative class members who contacted plaintiff's counsel did not violate attorney-client privilege because no personal, confidential information was sought; however, discovery would violate class members' privacy rights); Rosso, Johnson, Rosso & Ebersold v. Superior Court (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1514, 1518-1519, 237 Cal. Rptr. 242 (names of clients who were injured by intrauterine device were protected because nature of medical problem was confidential communication)].

Not all information that passes privately between an attorney and client is entitled to remain confidential. The identification of potential witnesses, for example, may be subject to disclosure in response to discovery requests. The privilege only protects against disclosure of communications, not against disclosure of the underlying facts on which communications are based [Aerojet-General Corp. v. Transport Indemnity Insurance (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 996, 1004, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 862] .

Forwarding nonprivileged material to counsel will not render that material privileged if no privilege existed previously [see Sullivan v. Superior Court (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 64, 71, 105 Cal. Rptr. 241 ; see, e.g., Green & Shinee v. Superior Court (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 532, 537, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 886 (supplemental incident reports prepared by police officers and transmitted to law firm for review and legal advice were not privileged materials, because reports were public records, prepared in performance of official duties)].

For discussion of the confidentiality in the context of electronic discovery (e-discovery), see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery), § 195A.21.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Attorney-Client Privilege

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.41

§ 191.41 Claiming the Attorney-Client Privilege

[1] General Rule

The privilege may be claimed by the holder [Evid. Code § 954]. It may also be claimed by either of the following [Evid. Code § 954]:

- A person authorized by the holder to claim the privilege.

- The person who was the attorney at the time of the confidential communication, unless the holder is no longer in existence or the attorney has been otherwise instructed by a person authorized to permit disclosure.

The "holder of the privilege" is generally the client. If the client has a guardian or conservator, the latter is the holder. If the client is dead, his or her personal representative is the holder. If the client is a corporation or other entity no longer in existence, its successor, assign, trustee in dissolution, or similar representative (including a personal representative appointed pursuant to Prob. Code § 12252 if subsequent administration of an estate is necessary after the personal representative has been discharged) is the holder [see Evid. Code § 953; see, e.g., Venture Law Group v. Superior Court (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 96, 105-106, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 656 (successor corporation was holder of attorney-client privilege of merged client corporation, and absent waiver by successor corporation, legal advice to client merged corporation was protected)].

When there is a prima facie claim of attorney-client privilege, the trial judge must accord a full hearing, with oral argument, before ordering disclosure of client confidences and, in effect, compelling attorney testimony against a client [Titmas v. Superior Court (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 738, 740, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 803 (shareholder derivative action)].

Generally, a court may not require disclosure of matter claimed to be privileged in order to rule on the privilege, [Evid. Code § 915(a)], subject to exceptions when the communication sought to be disclosed is official information, the identity of an informer, trade secrets, or attorney work product [Evid. Code § 915(b)]. However, after the court has determined the privilege is waived or an exception applies generally, the court--to protect the claimant's privacy--may conduct or order an in camera review of the communication at issue to determine if some protection is warranted notwithstanding the waiver or exception [Costco Wholesale Corp. v. Superior Court (2009) 47 Cal. 4th 725, 740, 219 P.3d 736] . [Evid. Code § 915(a)].

[2] When Attorney Must Claim Privilege

The attorney who received or made a communication subject to the privilege must claim the privilege whenever that attorney is present when the communication is sought to be disclosed and the attorney is authorized to claim the privilege under Evid. Code § 954(c) [Evid. Code § 955].

[3] Claim of Privilege by Non-Party

The client is holder of the privilege whether or not the client is a party to the proceeding in which the disclosure of privileged material is sought [see Evid. Code § 954]. Thus, a client, though not a party to a proceeding, has standing to assert the privilege in that proceeding to prevent disclosure of privileged material. For example, if a party to a proceeding seeks to disclose privileged material, a non-party holder of the privilege may make a motion in that proceeding to prevent its disclosure [Mylan Laboratories Inc. v. Soon-Shiong (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 71, 80-81, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 111 (holding that non-party client should properly make motion to assert privilege, but need not and may not move to intervene as party to proceeding solely to obtain "standing" to prevent disclosure); see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.020(a) (motion for protective order to limit discovery generally may be made either by party or "other affected person")].

[4] Claim of Privilege in Conjunction With Attorney Work Product Claim

The attorney-client privilege is often claimed in conjunction with the work product protection [see, e.g., Kaiser Found. Hospitals v. Superior Court (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1217, 1227, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 543 ; Wellpoint Health Networks, Inc. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 110, 125-129, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 844] . For discussion of work product protection, see § 191.100 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeElementsEvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeScopeLegal EthicsClient RelationsConfidentiality of Information

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Attorney-Client Privilege

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.42

§ 191.42 Privilege Held by Client Corporation or Similar Entity

[1] Shareholder of Corporate Client May Not Claim or Waive Privilege

There is no shareholder exception to the corporate attorney-client privilege [see McDermott, Will & Emery v. Superior Court (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 378, 383-385, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 622 ; National Football League Properties, Inc. v. Superior Court (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 100, 107, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 893)]. Although shareholders have some rights to corporate information that are not enjoyed by the general public, they do not have unfettered access to corporate confidences and secrets, and they are not entitled to claim attorney-client privilege to discover otherwise protected information [National Football League Properties, Inc. v. Superior Court (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 100, 107-108, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 893] . Because shareholders are not the holder of the privilege, they cannot effect a waiver of that privilege merely by initiating their own derivative action on behalf of the corporation [McDermott, Will & Emery v. Superior Court (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 378, 383, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 622] . One court held that, for this reason, shareholders could not proceed with their derivative suit for malpractice brought against outside counsel retained by the corporation. If such a suit were allowed to proceed, a third-party attorney would be effectively foreclosed from mounting any meaningful defense, since any waiver of the privilege would have to be made not by the shareholder litigants but by the holder of the privilege, the corporation [McDermott, Will & Emery v. Superior Court (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 378, 383-385, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 622] .

[2] Members of Client Unincorporated Association May Not Claim or Waive Privilege

Unincorporated associations, like corporations, enjoy the benefit of the attorney-client privilege when the entity (rather than its individual members) has retained the attorney to act on its behalf [see Smith v. Laguna Sur Villas Community Assn. (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 639, 644, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 321] . For example, a condominium association that brings a construction defect lawsuit on its own behalf is the holder of the attorney-client privilege and the individual condominium owners, who are not individually named as plaintiffs in the litigation, cannot demand production of privileged documents [Smith v. Laguna Sur Villas Community Assn. (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 639, 643, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 321 (likening relationship between individual members of condominium association and association itself to that of shareholders to their corporation, and refusing to create condominium-owners exception to attorney-client privilege)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Business & Corporate LawCorporationsGeneral OverviewBusiness & Corporate LawUnincorporated AssociationsEvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeScopeEvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeWaiver

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Attorney-Client Privilege

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.43

§ 191.43 Situations in Which Privilege Does Not Exist

The privilege does not exist in the following situations:

- When the client sought or obtained the attorney's services to aid anyone to commit or plan to commit a crime or a fraud [Evid. Code § 956].

- When the attorney reasonably believes that disclosure of a confidential communication relating to the representation of a client is necessary to prevent the client from committing a criminal act that the attorney believes is likely to result in death or substantial bodily harm [Evid. Code § 956.5]. Effective July 1, 2004, the statute instead makes this exception applicable if the lawyer reasonably believes disclosure is necessary to prevent any criminal act that the lawyer reasonably believes is likely to result in death or substantial bodily harm to an individual [Evid. Code § 956.5; see 2003 Stats., ch. 765 § 2].

- When the confidential communication is relevant to an issue between parties who all claim the privilege through a deceased client, whether the claims are by testate or intestate succession , nonprobate transfer, or inter vivos transaction [Evid. Code § 957]. This provision refers to communications between the decedent and the decedent's attorney [Fletcher v. Superior Court (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 773, 779, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 65] .

- When the confidential communication is relevant to an issue of breach, by either the client or the attorney, of a duty arising from the attorney-client relationship [Evid. Code § 958].

- When the confidential communication is relevant to an issue concerning the intention or competence of a client executing a document to which the attorney was an attesting witness, or concerning the execution or attestation of such a document [Evid. Code § 959].

- When the confidential communication is relevant to an issue concerning the intention of a deceased client regarding a deed of conveyance, will, or other writing executed by the client that purports to affect an interest in property, or concerning the validity of such a deed, will, or other writing [Evid. Code §§ 960, 961].

- When two or more clients retained or consulted an attorney on a matter of common interest, and the confidential communication is offered in a civil proceeding between two such clients or their successors [Evid. Code § 962].

The attorney-client privilege has also been statutorily abrogated in other situations, such as in specified types of meetings of state or local bodies subject to the Bagley-Keene Open Meeting Act (Gov. Code § 11120 et seq.) and the Brown Act (Gov. Code § 54950 et seq.), respectively [see Gov. Code §§ 54956.9, 11126; for further discussion, see Ch. 470B, Public Agency Meetings].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeExceptionsEvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Attorney-Client Privilege

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.44

§ 191.44 Termination of Privilege Subsequent to Death of Client

If the client is dead, his or her personal representative is the holder of the privilege [Evid. Code § 953(c); see Swidler & Berlin v. United States (1998) 524 U.S. 399, 405 n.2, 118 S. Ct. 2081, 141 L. Ed. 2d 379 (under federal rules of evidence, attorney-client privilege survives client's death and may be asserted by client's attorney in subsequent criminal proceeding)]. For this purpose, "personal representative" includes a personal representative appointed pursuant to Prob. Code § 12252 [Evid. Code § 953(c)]. The court must appoint a personal representative under Prob. Code § 12252 if subsequent administration of an estate is necessary after the personal representative has been discharged [see Prob. Code § 12252(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Attorney-Client Privilege

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.45

§ 191.45 Application of Privilege to Recipient of Paralegal Services

A paralegal is subject to the same duty as an attorney under Bus. & Prof. Code § 6068(e), to maintain inviolate the confidentiality, and at every peril to himself or herself to preserve the attorney-client privilege, of a consumer for whom the paralegal has provided any of the services described in Bus. & Prof. Code § 6450(a) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6453]. Under Bus. & Prof. Code § 6450(a), a paralegal may perform services that include but are not limited to case planning, development, and management, legal research, interviewing clients, fact gathering and retrieving information, drafting and analyzing legal documents, collecting, compiling, and utilizing technical information to make an independent decision and recommendation to a supervising attorney, and representing clients before agencies when such representation is permitted by statute, rule, or regulation.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Attorney-Client Privilege

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.46

§ 191.46 Application of Privilege to Client of Tax Practitioner

[1] Statutory Extension of Privilege

The attorney-client privilege under Evid. Code § 950 et seq. extends to communications regarding tax advice between a client-taxpayer and a federally authorized tax practitioner [Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(a)(1), 21028(a)(1); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(a)(1); see I.R.C. § 7525 (similar extension of common law attorney-client privilege under federal income tax law)].

A "federally authorized tax practitioner" means any individual who is authorized under federal law to practice before the IRS [Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(a)(3)(A), 21028(a)(3)(A); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(a)(3)(A)]. This may include certified public accountants, enrolled agents, and enrolled actuaries [see 31 U.S.C. § 330; 31 C.F.R. § 10.3].

"Tax advice" means advice given by an individual with respect to a state tax matter. Tax advice may include federal tax advice related to a state tax matter [Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(a)(3)(B), 21028(a)(3)(B); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(a)(3)(B) ("federal tax advice" means advice given by individuals within scope of their authority to practice before Internal Revenue Service on noncriminal matters)].

The privilege may be asserted only in noncriminal tax proceedings before the State Board of Equalization, the Franchise Tax Board, or the Employment Development Department [Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(a)(2), 21028(a)(2); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(a)(2)]. The privilege does not apply to written communications between tax practitioners and certain corporate representatives regarding the promotion of corporate tax shelters [Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(b), 21028(b); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(b); see Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(a)(3)(C), 21028(a)(3)(C) ("tax shelter" defined); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(a)(3)(C) (same)]. In addition, the privilege may not be asserted to prevent the disclosure of information in any proceeding to revoke or otherwise discipline any license or right to practice by any governmental agency [Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(b), 21028(b); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(b)].

The privilege is effective with regard to communications made on or after January 1, 2001 until its repeal on January 1, 2009 [Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(c), (d), 21028(c), (d); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(c), (d)]. The privilege also is effective for communications made on or after October 11, 2009 [Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(c), 21018(c); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(c); see Stats. 2009, ch. 411 (urgency legislation effective October 11, 2009)]. This leaves a (presumably unintended) gap from January 1, 2009, through October 10, 2009, under which communications made during that time period apparently were not protected under the privilege.

Under the privilege, the same statutory protections of confidentiality which apply to a communication between a taxpayer and an attorney under Evid. Code § 950 et seq. apply to a communication between a taxpayer and any federally authorized tax practitioner [Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(a)(1), 21028(a)(1); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(a)(1)]. This privilege does not modify the attorney-client privilege, other than to extend it to tax practitioners. Accordingly, communications between a taxpayer and an authorized tax practitioner are privileged only if the communications would have been privileged between an attorney and the attorney's client. For example, information disclosed to an attorney for the purpose of preparing a tax return generally is not privileged under present law [see United States v. Arthur Young & Co. (1984) 465 U.S. 805, 817, 104 S. Ct. 1495, 79 L. Ed. 2d 826 (rejecting work-product immunity for independent auditor's tax workpapers; creation of privilege was "misplaced" and in conflict with "clear intent of Congress")].

[2] Extension Under Case Law

Communications to an accountant or other tax practitioner will be protected under the attorney-client relationship if it can be shown that the accountant was employed, preferably by the attorney, to assist the attorney in the attorney's rendition of legal services [see United States v. Judson (9th Cir. 1963) 322 F.2d 460, 462 (statement of client's net worth and related work papers prepared by accountant were protected by attorney-client privilege when they were "prepared at the [client's] attorney's request, in the course of an attorney-client relationship, for the purpose of advising and defending his clients"].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesAccountant-Client PrivilegeElementsEvidencePrivilegesAccountant-Client PrivilegeScopeEvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeElementsEvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Attorney-Client Privilege

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.47

§ 191.47 Application of Privilege to Welfare Recipient

A privilege comparable to that between attorney and client impliedly exists between an authorized representative of a welfare recipient and the recipient, during a hearing on discontinuation of the recipient's welfare benefits [Welfare Rights Organization v. Crisan (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 766, 772, 190 Cal. Rptr. 919, 661 P.2d 1073 ; see Welf. & Inst. Code § 10950 (fair hearing with representation by counsel or other authorized representative)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client PrivilegeScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Attorney-Client Privilege

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.48

§ 191.48 Application of Privilege to Trustee

[1] Privilege Held by Office of Trustee Rather Than by Individual Trustee

An attorney-client relationship may exist between a trustee and an attorney consulted on behalf of the trust [Moeller v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 1124, 1129-1130, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 317, 947 P.2d 279] . The privilege vests in the office of the trustee and not in any particular individual or entity who at one time is the trustee. When a successor trustee takes over administration of the trust, the predecessor trustee loses, and the successor trustee acquires, the privilege to refuse to disclose confidential attorney-client communications regarding the predecessor trustee's administration of the trust [Moeller v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 1124, 1130-1133, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 317, 947 P.2d 279] .

Thus, when a successor trustee objected to the predecessor trustee's accounting and settlement petition and formally demanded production and inspection of certain documents and records related to the predecessor trustee's administration of the trust, the predecessor trustee was not permitted to refuse to produce those documents on the basis of attorney-client privilege [Moeller v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 1124, 1139, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 317, 947 P.2d 279] .

[2] Trustee's Confidential Communications to Attorney Are Privileged Against Trust Beneficiaries

A trustee may assert the attorney-client privilege to withhold privileged communications or documents from the trust beneficiaries, regardless of their subject matter [Wells Fargo Bank v. Superior Court (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 201, 206, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 716, 990 P. 2d 591] . Thus, in an action for an accounting, the beneficiaries were not entitled to privileged documents relating to trust administration or to petitioner trustee's personal liability [Wells Fargo Bank v. Superior Court (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 201, 206, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 716, 990 P.2d 591] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawTrustsTrusteesDuties & PowersGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesAttorney-Client

PrivilegeScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Attorney-Client Privilege

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 191.49-191.59

[Reserved]

§§ 191.49[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Physician-Patient Privilege

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.60

§ 191.60 Physician-Patient Privilege

[1] Privilege Held by Patient to Prevent Disclosure of Confidential Communications

As a general rule, a patient, whether or not a party to the litigation, has a privilege to refuse to disclose, and to prevent another from disclosing, a confidential communication between patient and physician, subject to waiver under Evid. Code § 912, and except as otherwise provided in Evid. Code §§ 991-1007 [Evid. Code § 994]. For discussion of waiver under Evid. Code § 912, see § 191.15.

A "patient" is a person who consults a physician or submits to an examination by a physician for the purpose of securing a diagnosis or preventive, palliative, or curative treatment of a physical, mental, or emotional condition [Evid. Code § 991; cf. Johnson v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 1050, 1063, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 864 (physician-patient relationship was not established when sperm donor consulted sperm bank's physicians and medical personnel for sole purpose of selling his sperm)].

A "physician" for purposes of the privilege refers to a person authorized or reasonably believed by the patient to be authorized to practice medicine in any state or nation [Evid. Code § 990].

[2] Protected Communications

A "confidential communication" subject to the protection of the physician-patient privilege is information, including information obtained by an examination of the patient, transmitted in confidence between a patient and physician in the course of the physician-patient relationship. The communication is considered confidential if it is transmitted by a means which, as far as the patient is aware, does not disclose the information to any third person other than one who is present to further the patient's interest in the consultation or to whom disclosure is reasonably necessary for the transmission of the information or the accomplishment of the purpose for which the patient consulted the physician. A confidential communication includes a diagnosis made and the advice given by the physician in the course of the relationship [Evid. Code § 992; see Manela v. Superior Court (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1146-1147, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 736 (in marital dissolution and custody action brought by father against mother, father waived physician-patient privilege under Evid. Code §§ 912(a) and 992 with respect to specified medical records because mother was present during father's intake exam with neurologist and father consented to disclosure of significant part of his communications with neurologist on that date)].

Photographs of a patient's physical condition taken by a physician for the sole purpose of obtaining confidential and private information regarding the patient's condition to assist in rendering a proper diagnosis and treatment are confidential communications [see Binder v. Superior Court (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 893, 897, 242 Cal. Rptr. 231] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeElementsEvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Physician-Patient Privilege

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.61

§ 191.61 Claiming the Physician-Patient Privilege

[1] General Rule

The privilege may be claimed by the holder [Evid. Code § 994(a)]. The "holder of the privilege" is generally the patient. If the patient has a guardian or conservator, the latter is the holder. If the patient is dead, his or her personal representative is the holder [see Evid. Code § 993].

The privilege may also be claimed by either of the following:

- A person authorized by the holder to claim the privilege [Evid. Code § 994(b)].

- The person who was the physician at the time of the confidential communication, unless the holder is no longer in existence or the physician has been otherwise instructed by a person authorized to permit disclosure [Evid. Code § 994(c)].

For purposes of determining the "person who was the physician" at the time of the communication, a physician-patient relationship exists between a patient and a medical or podiatry corporation (as defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2000 et seq.). It also exists between a patient and a licensed physician or surgeon who is employed by such a corporation to render services to the patient [Evid. Code § 994(c)]. A "person who was the physician" under Evid. Code § 994(c) also includes partnerships, limited liability companies, corporations, associations, and other groups and entities [Evid. Code § 994(c)].

[2] When Physician Must Claim Privilege

The physician who received or made a communication subject to the physician-patient privilege must claim the privilege on behalf of the holder whenever he or she is present when disclosure is sought and he or she is authorized to claim the privilege under Evid. Code § 994(c) [Evid. Code § 995].

The privilege is the patient's privilege, and the physician does not have the power to waive it [Roberts v. Superior Court (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 330, 341, 107 Cal. Rptr. 309, 508 P.2d 309 ; City & County of San Francisco v. Superior Court (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 227, 233, 231 P.2d 26 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 1881(4))].

[3] Claim of Privilege by Parent as Guardian of Child Patient

As noted in [1], above, if the patient has a guardian or conservator, the guardian or conservator is the holder of the privilege [Evid. Code § 993(b)]. Although a parent's right to assert the privilege as guardian on behalf of his or her child is generally unquestioned, that right is not absolute, and under certain circumstances, such as when the interests of the parent and child conflict, the parent may not possess the right [see In re Troy D. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 889, 900, 263 Cal. Rptr. 869 (dictum)].

For example, in a juvenile dependency proceeding in which it was alleged that the child was born under the influence of dangerous drugs and that his parents were unable to protect him, the court of appeal questioned the appropriateness of the mother asserting the privilege to prevent disclosure of the child's medical records, since the interests of the mother and child were potentially conflicting [In re Troy D. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 889, 900-901, 263 Cal. Rptr. 869 ; see also In re Fred J. (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 168, 178-179, 152 Cal. Rptr. 327 (expressing doubt that mother had ability to claim child's privilege to prevent psychiatrist from testifying about examination of child in dependency hearing)].

[4] Claim of Privilege by Third-Party Recipient of Confidential Communication

A third-party recipient of privileged matter has standing to claim the privilege on behalf of an absent patient who does not consent to disclosure [Board of Medical Quality Assurance v. Gherardini (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 669, 675, 156 Cal. Rptr. 55 (privilege claimed by hospital); see also Rudnick v. Superior Court (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 924, 932, 114 Cal. Rptr. 603, 523 P.2d 643 (privilege claimed by drug manufacturer)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Physician-Patient Privilege

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.62

§ 191.62 Situations in Which Privilege Does Not Exist

[1] When Patient Is Litigant

[a] General Rule

There is no physician-patient privilege regarding a communication relevant to an issue concerning the condition of the patient if the condition was tendered by any of the following [Evid. Code § 996; Palay v. Superior Court (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 919, 928, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 839 (issue tendered by filing personal injury action)]:

- The patient.
- A party claiming through or under the patient.
- A party claiming the privilege as a beneficiary of the patient through a contract to which the patient was or is a party.
- The plaintiff in an action brought under Code Civ. Proc. § 376 (action for injury to minor child) or former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 (wrongful death) for damages for injury or death of the patient (former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 has been repealed and replaced by Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 et seq.).

In a medical malpractice action, a nonparty physician who formerly treated the plaintiff was permitted to testify as an expert for the defense by reviewing factual information about the diagnosis and treatment delivered by the defendant physician and render an expert opinion on whether medical negligence occurred. This was not because the patient-litigant exception of Evid. Code § 996 meant that the privilege did not exist as to communications between the plaintiff and this physician. Rather, the physician's testimony was conditioned on the fact it would not require a violation of the privilege through the consideration and disclosure of confidential communications obtained in the earlier treatment [see Torres v. Superior Court (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 181, 184-187, 270 Cal. Rptr. 401 , disapproved on other grounds in Heller v. Norcal Mutual Ins. Co. (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 30, 41, 8332 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 876 P.2d 999] . The court noted that in this type of situation, to ensure that the information protected by the privilege remained protected, a trial court may restrict ex parte communications between the expert physician and the defense during the course of discovery [Torres v. Superior Court (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 181, 188, 270 Cal. Rptr. 401 , disapproved on other grounds in Heller v. Norcal Mutual Ins. Co. (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 30, 41, 8332 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 876 P.2d 999] .

[b] Exception to Privilege Narrowly Construed

The courts have placed a narrow interpretation on Evid. Code § 996, the patient-litigant exception to the physician-patient privilege discussed in [a], above. Although a litigant seeking recovery for physical injuries waives his or her physician-patient privilege regarding the medical conditions that the litigant has put in issue and that are in question, all of the litigant's past medical history is not open to scrutiny [Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 844, 864, 143 Cal. Rptr. 695, 574 P.2d 766] .

For example, in one case, petitioner sought relief from an order of a workers' compensation judge directing her to answer questions relating to her general past medical history, asserting that the information was protected by her privacy rights and by the physician-patient privilege. Citing Britt, the court of appeal declined to determine with precision which portion of the requested discovery information was privileged and which was not, because the discovery authorized by the challenged order was clearly too broad. The court held that on remand, the defendant would bear responsibility for framing narrower, more precisely tailored discovery that did not improperly impinge on privileged information, noting that defendant's own medical expert's analysis of plaintiff's workers' compensation claim, based on injury to her wrist, narrowed the scope of discovery to something far less broad than a general inquiry into plaintiff's hospitalization history prior to 1965 [Allison v. Workers Comp. Appeals Bd. (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 654, 661, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 915] . The court added, for the guidance of the parties, that an attorney claiming a privilege on behalf of his or her client does not have a right unilaterally to determine the validity of the claim, but must advise opposing counsel so that opposing counsel can bring the matter before a workers' compensation appeals judge for determination of the validity of the claim [Allison v. Workers Comp. Appeals Bd. (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 654, 661, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 915] .

[2] Other Situations When Privilege Does Not Exist

Situations in which the privilege does not exist, other than the patient-litigant exception discussed in [1], above, include the following:

- When the patient sought or obtained the physician's services to aid anyone to commit or plan to commit a crime or a tort or to escape detection or apprehension after the commission of a crime or a tort [Evid. Code § 997].

- In a criminal proceeding [Evid. Code § 998].

- When the confidential communication is relevant to an issue concerning the condition of the patient in a proceeding to recover damages on account of the conduct of the patient if good cause for disclosure of the communication is shown [Evid. Code § 999].

- When the confidential communication is relevant to an issue between parties who all claim the privilege through a deceased patient, regardless of whether the claims are by testate or intestate succession or by inter vivos transaction [Evid. Code § 1000].

- When the confidential communication is relevant to an issue of breach, by either the patient or the physician, of duty arising out of the physician-patient relationship [Evid. Code § 1001].

- When the confidential communication is relevant to an issue concerning the intention of a deceased patient regarding a deed of conveyance, will, or other writing executed by the patient that purports to affect an interest in property, or concerning the validity of such a deed, will, or other writing [Evid. Code §§ 1002, 1003].

- In a proceeding to commit the patient, or place the patient, or the patient's protperty, or both, under the control of another because of the patient's alleged mental or physical condition, or in a competency proceeding brought by or on behalf of a patient [Evid. Code §§ 1004, 1005].

- With regard to information that the physician or patient is required to report to a public employee, or information required to be recorded in a public office, if the report or record is open to public inspection [Evid. Code § 1006].

- In a proceeding by a public entity to determine whether a right, authority, license, or privilege should be revoked, suspended, terminated, limited, or conditioned [Evid. Code § 1007].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeExceptionsEvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Physician-Patient Privilege

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.63

§ 191.63 Subpoena of Confidential Communication for Coroner's Inquest

When the coroner seeks a confidential communication of a deceased person that is privileged under the physician-patient privilege or the psychotherapist-patient privilege, by means of a subpoena or subpoena duces tecum, for the purpose of inquiry into and determination of the circumstances, manner, and cause of death as set forth in Gov. Code § 27491 (death requiring coroner's inquest), or for the sole purpose of being introduced as evidence at a coroner's inquest proceeding, the coroner must provide notice to the decedent's personal representative appointed by the court, if any. If no personal representative has been appointed by the court, the coroner must provide notice to the decedent's personal representative. This notice must be served personally or at the representative's last known address not less than 15 days before the date the records are to be delivered to the court. The notice must inform the personal representative that he or she may present to the court written objection to any disclosure on or before the date specified for delivery [Gov. Code § 27491.8(a); for further discussion of Gov. Code § 27491 and related provisions, see Ch. 180, Dead Bodies and Cemeteries].

The custodian must deliver the records to the presiding judge of the superior court in a confidential manner. The judge must examine the records in camera, and, if there is good cause, must direct the custodian to disclose to the coroner those portions of the records that are relevant to the coroner's inquiry or inquest [Gov. Code § 27491.8(a)]. A communication made available to the coroner under these circumstances is confidential and may not be distributed or made available to any other person, agency, firm, or corporation, except when introduced into evidence at a coroner's inquest proceeding [Gov. Code § 27491.8(b)]. Additionally, the communication is not admissible as former testimony pursuant to Evid. Code § 1290 et seq. [Gov. Code § 27491.8(c)].

After the investigation or inquest has terminated, the court must order these records sealed to protect the confidentiality of the decedent's medical or mental health information [Gov. Code § 27491.8(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeExceptionsEvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Physician-Patient Privilege

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 191.64-191.69

[Reserved]

§§ 191.64[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Psychotherapist-Patient Privilege

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.70

§ 191.70 Psychotherapist-Patient Privilege

[1] Privilege Held by Patient to Prevent Disclosure of Confidential Communications

As a general rule, a patient, whether or not a party, has a privilege to refuse to disclose, and to prevent another from disclosing, a confidential communication between patient and psychotherapist, subject to waiver under Evid. Code § 912, and except as otherwise provided in Evid. Code §§ 1010-1027 [Evid. Code § 1014]. For discussion of waiver under Evid. Code § 912, see § 191.15.

A "patient" is a person who consults a psychotherapist or submits to an examination by a psychotherapist for the purpose of securing a diagnosis or preventive, palliative, or curative treatment of a mental, or emotional condition, or who submits to an examination of his or her mental or emotional condition for the purpose of scientific research on mental or emotional problems [Evid. Code § 1011].

A "psychotherapist" for purposes of the privilege may be any one of the following:

- A person authorized, or reasonably believed by the patient to be authorized, to practice medicine in any state or nation who devotes, or is reasonably believed by the patient to devote, a substantial portion of his or her time to the practice of psychiatry [Evid. Code § 1010(a)].

- A licensed psychologist [Evid. Code § 1010(b)].

- A licensed clinical social worker engaged in nonmedical applied psychotherapy [Evid. Code § 1010(c)].

- A school psychologist who is credentialed to provide such service [Evid. Code § 1010(d)].

- A licensed marriage and family therapist [Evid. Code § 1010(e)].

- A person registered as a psychological assistant who is under the supervision of an appropriately licensed psychologist or board-certified psychiatrist, or a person registered as a marriage and family therapist intern who is under the supervision of a licensed marriage and family therapist, clinical social worker, psychologist, or physician certified in psychiatry [Evid. Code § 1010(f)].

- A person registered as an associate clinical social worker who is under the supervision of a licensed clinical social worker, psychologist, or a board-certified psychiatrist [Evid. Code § 1010(g)].

- A person exempt from the Psychology Licensing Law (Bus. & Prof. Code § 2900 et seq.) pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 2909, who is under the supervision of a licensed psychologist or board-certified psychiatrist [Evid. Code § 1010(h)].

- A psychological intern as defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2911, who is under the supervision of a licensed psychologist or board-certified psychiatrist [Evid. Code § 1010(i)].

- A marriage and family counseling trainee, fulfilling his or her required supervised practicum under the supervision of a licensed psychologist, board-certified psychiatrist, licensed clinical social worker, or a licensed marriage and family therapist [Evid. Code § 1010(j)].

- A licensed registered nurse who has a master's degree in psychiatric-mental health nursing and is listed as a psychiatric-mental health nurse by the Board of Registered Nursing [Evid. Code § 1010(k)].

- An advanced practice registered nurse who is certified as a clinical nurse specialist and who participates in expert clinical practice in the specialty of psychiatric-mental health nursing [Evid. Code § 1010(l)].

- A person rendering mental health treatment or counseling services as authorized by Fam. Code § 6924 (mental health treatment or counseling of minor) [Evid. Code § 1010(m)].

The term may also be applied, as a practical matter, to a licensed educational psychologist [see Evid. Code § 1010.5 (application to educational psychologist-patient communications)].

[2] Protected Communications

A "confidential communication" subject to the protection of the psychotherapist-patient privilege is information, including information obtained by an examination of the patient, transmitted in confidence between a patient and psychotherapist in the course of the psychotherapist-patient relationship. The communication is considered confidential if it is transmitted by a means which, as far as the patient is aware, does not disclose the information to any third person other than one who is present to further the patient's interest in the consultation or to whom disclosure is reasonably necessary for the transmission of the information or the accomplishment of the purpose for which the patient consulted the psychotherapist [Evid. Code § 1012; see, e.g., Roman Catholic Archbishop of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (People) (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 417, 450-454, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 209 , modified, 2005 Cal. App. LEXIS 1274 (discussing case law illustrating disclosures to third persons that are "reasonably necessary" to accomplish purpose for which psychotherapist was consulted, and finding only one document prepared by Archbishop's staff was protected by privilege, in grand jury investigation of allegations of child sexual abuse by two priests because this document supplied troubled priest's therapeutic team with information about his personal history as an aid to diagnosis and treatment)]. A confidential communication includes a diagnosis made and the advice given by the psychotherapist in the course of the relationship [Evid. Code § 1012].

Some courts, primarily in the juvenile dependency context, have relied on Evid. Code § 1012 (defining "confidential communications to exclude "those to whom disclosure is reasonably necessary for the transmission of the information or the accomplishment of the purpose for which the psychotherapist is consulted") to permit limited disclosure of matters that would reasonably assist the court in evaluating whether further orders are necessary for the minor's benefit, while preserving the confidentiality of the details of the minor's therapy [see, e.g., In re Mark L. (2001) 94 Cal.App. 4th 573, 583-584, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 499 ; In re Kristine W. (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 521, 528-529, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 369 ; see also In re Christopher M. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 684, 695, 26 Cal. Rptr.3d 61 , amended 2005 Cal. App. LEXIS 382 (probation conditions that required all records related to juvenile defendant's treatment be made available on request to court and probation department were reasonable and did not violate juvenile's right of privacy or his psychotherapist-patient privilege, given state's legitimate countervailing interest in protecting public against defendant's violent, anti-social conduct and in determining whether he was fully complying with his probation conditions); In re Pedro M. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 550, 554-555, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 839 (psychotherapist-patient privilege did not preclude therapist from testifying concerning juvenile offender's participation and progress in court-ordered treatment plan)].

The psychotherapist-patient privilege does not require that the communication be and remain confidential to be protected. It encompasses a communication that was never, in fact, confidential so long as it was made in confidence. The communication need only comprise information transmitted between a patient and a psychotherapist in the course of their relationship and in confidence by a means which, so far as the patient is aware, discloses the information to no outside third person. Similarly, the privilege can cover a communication that has lost its confidential status [Menendez v. Superior Court (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 435, 447, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 92, 834 P.2d 786] .

[3] Scope of Privilege

Because of the unique nature of the psychotherapist-patient relationship, the privilege provides a greater degree of protection than that afforded the physician-patient relationship [Smith v. Superior Court (1981) 118 Cal. App. 3d 136, 139-140, 173 Cal. Rptr. 145] . For example, the privilege protects against disclosure of the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of a psychotherapist's patients [Smith v. Superior Court (1981) 118 Cal. App. 3d 136, 141, 173 Cal. Rptr. 145] , and of the fact that a party has obtained psychiatric treatment [City of Alhambra v. Superior Court (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 513, 518, 168 Cal. Rptr. 49 ; see Pollock v. Superior Court (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 817, 821, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 453 (names of insurance company's psychiatric disability claimants were not discoverable because disclosure of claimants' names would reveal not only their identity but also nature of their psychiatric disability)].

However, the Smith rule, declaring the patient's identity to be a privileged communication, should not rigidly apply in every case. In extraordinary cases of need for disclosure, a court retains discretion to order the patients' identity revealed. When the need for disclosure is crucial to the cause of action and to the ability to conduct meaningful discovery, disclosure may be compelled [County of Alameda v. Superior Court (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 254, 261, 263-264, 239 Cal. Rptr. 400 (this is narrow limitation on privilege; trial court properly ordered disclosure of name of mental patient who raped plaintiff, another mental patient in county hospital)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesPsychotherapist-Patient PrivilegeElementsEvidencePrivilegesPsychotherapist-Patient PrivilegeScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Psychotherapist-Patient Privilege

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.71

§ 191.71 Claiming the Psychotherapist-Patient Privilege

[1] General Rule

The privilege may be claimed by the holder [Evid. Code § 1014(a)]. The "holder of the privilege" is generally the patient. If the patient has a guardian or conservator, the latter is the holder. If the patient is dead, his or her personal representative is the holder [see Evid. Code § 1013].

The privilege may also be claimed by either of the following:

- A person authorized by the holder to claim the privilege [Evid. Code § 1014(b)].

- The person who was the psychotherapist at the time of the confidential communication, unless the holder is no longer in existence or the psychotherapist has been otherwise instructed by a person authorized to permit disclosure [Evid. Code § 1014(c)].

For purposes of determing the "person who was the psychotherapist" at the time of the communication, a psychotherapist-patient relationship exists between a patient and a psychological corporation (as defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2995 et seq.), a marriage, family, and child counseling corporation (as defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 4987.5 et seq.), a licensed clinical social workers corporation (as defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 4998 et seq.). It also exists between a patient and a psychotherapist who is employed by such a corporation to render services to the patient [Evid. Code § 1014(c)]. A "person" under Evid. Code § 1014(c) also includes partnerships, limited liability companies, corporations, associations, and other groups and entities [Evid. Code § 1014(c)].

[2] When Psychotherapist Must Claim Privilege

The psychotherapist who received or made a communication subject to the privilege must claim the privilege whenever he or she is present when the communication is sought to be disclosed and is authorized to claim the privilege under Evid. Code § 1014(c) [Evid. Code § 1015]. The privilege belongs to the patient, and the psychotherapist has no power to waive it [Roberts v. Superior Court (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 330, 341, 107 Cal. Rptr. 309, 508 P.2d 309 ; see Evid. Code §

1013 (defining holder of privilege)].

[3] Existence of Privilege Subsequent to Death of Client

The psychotherapist-patient privilege was intended to survive the death of the patient, to be exercised or waived as the interests of the estate of the deceased patient might warrant [see Boling v. Superior Court (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 430, 439, 164 Cal. Rptr. 432 ; cf. discussion in § 191.44].

[4] Burden of Proving Claim of Privilege

[a] Claimant Has Burden

The party claiming the psychotherapist-patient privilege has the burden of proving the preliminary facts to show that the privilege exists [People v. Cabral (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 820, 827, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 866 ; see also discussion in § 191.13].

[b] Dominant Purpose Test

If the purpose for a consultation is in issue, a "dominant purpose" test is applied. If the dominant purpose of the communication is for transmittal to a psychotherapist in the course of professional counseling, that communication is within the privilege. Whether a particular communication is predominantly in furtherance of the psychotherapist-patient relationship is a question of fact [People v. Cabral (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 820, 828, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 866 (unsolicited letter from man accused of molesting his daughter in which he admitted charges and requested admittance into rehabilitation program for admitted sex offenders failed dominant purpose test and was not privileged); see also Menendez v. Superior Court (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 435, 454, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 92, 834 P.2d 786 (motive for psychotherapy is generally immaterial in that participants do not participate in psychotherapy for its own sake)].

One court of appeal has rejected the dominant purpose test of Cabral "to the extent the test would automatically preclude the application of the psychotherapist-privilege to records generated as the result of psychotherapy attended by a defendant as a condition of probation" [Story v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1007, 1016, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 532] . In that case, the court held that the fact that defendant was motivated to participate in psychotherapy as a condition of probation did not bar application of the psychotherapist-patient privilege to records of that psychotherapy [Story v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1007, 1016-1017, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 532 (explaining that dominant purpose of probation-conditioned psychotherapy must always be therapeutic, regardless of defendant's motive, because Pen. Code § 1203.1(j) expressly provides that the general purpose of all probation conditions is "the reformation and rehabilitation of the probationer")]. Accordingly, records of psychotherapy ordered as a condition of probation were protected from disclosure in a subsequent criminal action when the prosecution sought evidence regarding defendant's commission of a previous sexual offense [Story v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1007, 1019, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 532] . The court noted, however, that the psychotherapy records of an adult probationer may be disclosed under Evid. Code § 1012 to the extent necessary for the court to monitor the defendant's participation and progress in the psychotherapy ordered as a condition of probation [Story v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1007, 1018-1019, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 532 (citing In re Pedro M. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 550, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 839 , discussed in § 191.70[2])].

[c] Effect When Burden Met

Once the requisite psychotherapist-patient relationship has been established, it is liberally construed in favor of the patient. This conforms to the basic policy behind the privilege, which is to promote the relationship by safeguarding the confidential disclosures of the patient and the advice given [People v. Cabral (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 820, 827, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 866] . Moreover, it is a recognition that compelled disclosure could encroach on constitutionally protected rights of privacy [Roberts v. Superior Court (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 330, 337, 107 Cal. Rptr. 309, 508 P.2d 309 ; In re

Lifschutz (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 415, 423, 431-432, 437, 85 Cal. Rptr. 829, 467 P.2d 557] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesPsychotherapist-Patient PrivilegeElementsEvidencePrivilegesPsychotherapist-Patient PrivilegeScopeEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Psychotherapist-Patient Privilege

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.72

§ 191.72 Situations in Which Privilege Does Not Exist

[1] When Patient Is Litigant

The privilege does not apply to a communication relevant to the patient's mental or emotional condition when that issue was tendered by any of the following [Evid. Code § 1016]:

- The patient.
- A party claiming through or under the patient.
- A party claiming the privilege as a beneficiary of the patient through a contract to which the patient was or is a party.
- The plaintiff in an action brought under Code Civ. Proc. § 376 (action for injury to minor child) or former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 (wrongful death) for damages for injury or death of the patient (former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 has been repealed and replaced by Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 et seq.).

The abrogation of the privilege under this exception is limited, and authorizes disclosure only of matters directly relevant to the nature of the specific emotional or mental condition that the patient voluntarily disclosed and tendered in the pleadings or in answer to discovery inquiries [In re Lifschutz (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 415, 431, 435, 85 Cal. Rptr. 829, 467 P.2d 557 ; see San Diego Trolley, Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1083, 1094, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 476 (neither defendant trolley driver's workers' compensation claims for stress-related anxiety due to previous work-related accident nor her voluntary disclosure of any confidential communications with her psychiatrist during those proceedings supported access to her confidential communications with her psychiatrist in this suit for personal injuries; driver's willingness to put her psychotherapeutic relationship somewhat at risk in workers' compensation proceedings, and resulting limited disclosure, did not support inference that she meant her relationship with her psychiatrist could continue to be put at risk following disposition of her claims)]. In determining whether disclosure should be required under this section, the court must heed the patient's basic interests in privacy and construe the privilege liberally, in favor of the patient [In re Lifschutz (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 415, 437, 85 Cal. Rptr. 829, 467 P.2d 557] .

[2] Other Situations When Privilege Does Not Exist

Situations in which the privilege does not exist, other than the patient-litigant exception discussed in [1], above, include the following:

- When the patient sought or obtained the psychotherapist's services to aid anyone to commit or plan to commit a crime or a tort or to escape detection or apprehension after the commission of a crime or a tort [Evid. Code § 1018].

- When the confidential communication is relevant to an issue between parties who all claim the privilege through a deceased patient, regardless of whether the claims are by testate or intestate succession or by inter vivos transaction [Evid. Code § 1019].

- When the confidential communication is relevant to an issue of breach, by either the patient or the psychotherapist, of duty arising out of the psychotherapist-patient relationship [Evid. Code § 1020].

- When the confidential communication is relevant to an issue concerning the intention of a deceased patient regarding a deed of conveyance, will, or other writing executed by the patient that purports to affect an interest in property, or concerning the validity of such a deed, will, or other writing [Evid. Code §§ 1021, 1022].

- In a proceeding initiated by a criminal defendant to determine his or her sanity [Evid. Code § 1023].

- When the psychotherapist has reasonable cause to believe that the patient is in such mental or emotional condition as to be dangerous to self or to the person or property of another and that disclosure is necessary to prevent the threatened danger [Evid. Code § 1024].

- In a competency proceeding brought by or on behalf of a patient [Evid. Code § 1025].

- With regard to information that the psychotherapist or patient is required to report to a public employee, or information required to be recorded in a public office, if the report or record is open to public inspection [Evid. Code § 1026].

- When the patient is child under the age of 16 years and the psychotherapist has reasonable cause to believe that the patient has been a victim of a crime and that disclosure is in the best interest of the child [Evid. Code § 1027].

- When the psychotherapist was appointed by court order to examine the patient (except when appointed on request of a defendant's attorney in a criminal proceeding to provide the attorney with information needed to advise the defendant regarding a please based on insanity, or regarding a defense based on mental condition), or when the psychotherapist was appoint by the Board of Prison Terms to examine a patient under Penal Code § 2960 et seq. [Evid. Code § 1017].

For discussion of procedures by which a coroner may subpoena confidential communications otherwise protected by the psychotherapist-patient privilege for the limited purpose of an inquest into the patient's cause of death, see § 191.63.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesPsychotherapist-Patient PrivilegeExceptionsEvidencePrivilegesPsychotherapist-Patient PrivilegeScope

84 of 148 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Psychotherapist-Patient Privilege

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 191.73-191.79

[Reserved]

§§ 191.73[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Other Evidence Code Privileges

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.80

§ 191.80 Other Confidential Relationship Privileges

[1] Confidential Relationship Privileges Generally

Like the evidentiary privileges previously discussed in detail [see 191.40 et seq. (attorney-client privilege), § 191.60 et seq. (physician-patient-privilege), § 191.70 et seq. (psychotherapist-patient privilege)], the privileges summarized in [2]-[6], below, are based on the existence of relationships of a confidential nature, in which communications made in confidence are protected as a matter of public policy. The provisions governing these "confidential relationship" privileges are for the most part similar to those discussed previously. For discussion of these privileges in greater detail, see DeMeo, California Deposition and Discovery Practice Ch. 20 et seq. (Matthew Bender).

[2] Confidential Marital Communications

Under the privilege for confidential marital communications, set forth in Evid. Code § 980 et seq., a spouse, whether or not a party, has a privilege to refuse to disclose, and to prevent another from disclosing, a confidential communication made between him or her and the other spouse when the spouses were married, subject to waiver under Evid. Code § 912, and except as otherwise provided in Evid. Code §§ 980-987 [Evid. Code § 980]. For discussion of waiver under Evid. Code § 912, see § 191.15.

Situations in which the privilege does not apply include communications in furtherance of a crime or a fraud, in proceedings to establish competence or incompetence of either spouse, in proceedings between the spouses or those claiming through them, in juvenile court proceedings, and in certain criminal proceedings [Evid. Code §§ 981-987].

[3] Privilege Not to Testify Against Spouse

Under the privilege of one spouse not to testify against the other, set out in Evid. Code § 970 et seq., a married person has a privilege not to testify against his or her spouse in any proceeding, and a privilege not be called as a witness by the adverse party in a proceeding to which his or her spouse is a party [Evid. Code §§ 970, 971]. The privilege contains no limitation requiring that a viable marital relationship exist [Jurcoane v. Superior Court (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 886, 889, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 483 ; see Evid. Code § 972 (exceptions to privilege)]. Thus, the bright line of divorce is necessary to terminate the privilege [Jurcoane v. Superior Court (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 886, 897, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 483 (upholding claim of privilege, even though petitioner had not seen her husband in 17 years and her assertion of privilege might deprive government of crucial evidence in double murder case)].

Situations in which the privilege does not apply include proceedings in which the spouses are adverse parties, proceedings to establish competence or incompetence of the spouse, juvenile court proceedings, certain proceedings involving spousal or child support, and certain criminal proceedings [Evid. Code § 972].

[4] Clergy-Penitent Privilege

Under the clergy-penitent privilege, set forth in Evid. Code § 1030 et seq., a penitent, whether or not a party, has a privilege to refuse to disclose, and to prevent another from disclosing, a penitential communication, subject to waiver under Evid. Code § 912 [Evid. Code § 1033]. The clergyperson also has a privilege not disclose a penitential communication, subject to waiver under Evid. Code § 912 [Evid. Code § 1034].

A "penitent" is any "person who has made a penitential communication to a member of the clergy" [Evid. Code § 1031]. The penitent is not required to be a member of any particular church or to be of the same faith as the clergy member to whom he or she makes the penitential communication, unless the discipline of that church limits the clergy member's authority to receive penitential communications to church members only [Doe 2 v. Superior Court (Mark Calkins) (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 1504, 1517, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 458 (reasoning that Evid. Code § 1032 et seq. make no other requirements regarding the penitent; remanding to determine whether clergy-penitent privilege may apply to communications to Methodist pastor by persons who were not members of United Methodist Church)].

A penitential communication is a confidential communication made to a clergy person who is authorized to hear and obligated to keep secret that communications [Evid. Code § 1032]. However, not every statement made to a member of the clergy is privileged. "In order for a statement to be privileged, it must satisfy all of the conceptual requirements of a penitential communication: (1) it must be intended to be in confidence; (2) it must be made to a member of the clergy who in the course of his or her religious discipline or practice is authorized or accustomed to hear such communications; and (3) such member of the clergy has a duty under the discipline or tenets of the church, religious denomination or organization to keep such communications secret" [People v. Edwards (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1358, 1362-1363, 248 Cal. Rptr. 53] . This definition does not require, however, that the communication in question be a "confession" [Doe 2 v. Superior Court (Mark Calkins) (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 1504, 1517, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 458 (quoting Cal. Law Revision Comm'n comment to Evid. Code § 1032, "Section 1032 extends the protection that traditionally has been provided only to those persons whose religious practice involves 'confessions' ")].

Thus, for example, documents generated in the course of "troubled-priest interventions," subpoenaed from the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Los Angeles and two priests for an investigation into allegations that the priests sexually assaulted children, were not protected by the clergy-penitent privilege because both parties to the original communications knew they likely would be transmitted to a third person [Roman Catholic Archbishop of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (People) (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 417, 444-445, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 209 , modified, 2005 Cal. App. LEXIS 1274] . Furthermore, the subpoenaed documents themselves demonstrated that communications to and from the individual priests were routinely shared by other Archdiocese employees. This sharing of information vitiated any privilege under Evid. Code § 1032, or, alternatively, constituted a waiver of the privilege under Evid. Code § 912(a) [Roman Catholic Archbishop of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (People) (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 417, 445, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 209 , modified, 2005 Cal. App. LEXIS 1274] .

For discussion of waiver under Evid. Code § 912, see § 191.15.

[5] Sexual Assault Counselor-Victim Privilege

Under the sexual assault counselor-victim privilege, set out in Evid. Code § 1035 et seq., a victim of sexual assault, whether or not a party, has a privilege to refuse to disclose, and to prevent another from disclosing, a confidential communication made between the victim and his or her sexual assault counselor [Evid. Code § 1035.8; see Evid. Code § 1035.2 ("sexual assault counselor" defined)].

[6] Domestic Violence Counselor-Victim Privilege

Under the domestic violence counselor-victim privilege, set out in Evid. Code § 1037 et seq., a victim of domestic violence, whether or not a party, has a privilege to refuse to disclose, and to prevent another from disclosing, a confidential communication made between the victim and his or her counselor [Evid. Code § 1037.5].

[7] Human Trafficking Caseworker-Victim Privilege

Evid. Code § 1038 et seq. establishes a human trafficking victim-caseworker privilege. A trafficking victim, whether or not a party to the action, has a qualified privilege to refuse to disclose, or to prevent another from disclosing, a confidential communication between the victim and the caseworker [Evid. Code § 1038(a); see Evid. Code § 1038.1 (compelled disclosure)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesClergy CommunicationsElementsEvidencePrivilegesClergy CommunicationsScopeEvidencePrivilegesMarital PrivilegesConfidential CommunicationsExceptionsEvidencePrivilegesMarital PrivilegesConfidential CommunicationsScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Other Evidence Code Privileges

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.81

§ 191.81 Official Information Privilege

[1] Definition

Official information is information acquired in confidence by a public employee in the course of the employee's duty and not openly or officially disclosed to the public prior to the time the claim of privilege is made [Evid. Code § 1040(a)].

[2] When Privilege Is Absolute

A public entity has an absolute privilege to refuse to disclose official information if the privilege is claimed by a person authorized by the public entity to do so and disclosure is forbidden by an act of the United States Congress or by a California statute [see Evid. Code § 1040(b)(1); Shepherd v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 107, 123, 130 Cal. Rptr. 257, 550 P.2d 161] .

[3] When Privilege Is Conditional

Evid. Code § 1040(b)(2) provides a conditional privilege against disclosure of official information that attaches when the court determines that disclosure of official information, other than under Evid. Code § 1040(a), is against the public interest because the need to preserve the confidentiality of the information outweighs the need for disclosure in the interest of justice [see Shepherd v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 107, 123, 130 Cal. Rptr. 257, 550 P.2d 161] . In determining whether disclosure is against the public interest, the interest of the public entity as a party in the outcome of the proceeding may not be considered [Evid. Code § 1040(b)(2)]. If a court denies discovery, it must find that disclosure would be against the public interest within the meaning of Evid. Code § 1040(b)(2) [Parnes v. Superior Court (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 831, 836, 146 Cal. Rptr. 818 ; see also Shepherd v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 107, 125, 130 Cal. Rptr. 257, 550 P.2d 161] .

In weighing the necessity for preserving confidentiality against the need for disclosure, a court may tailor its discovery order to the unique facts of the situation. For example, when a hospital denied designation as a regional trauma center sought to discover documents connected with the review process, a court found that the raw data examined by the review committee was discoverable, whereas informal notes and memoranda of actual deliberations were not [County of San Diego v. Superior Court (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 1009, 1025-1027, 222 Cal. Rptr. 484 ; see also Rider v. Superior Court (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 278, 287, 244 Cal. Rptr. 770 (order limiting use of police records regarding alleged rape of minor in defamation action)].

Other examples involving the conditional privilege include the following:

- Police files in an ongoing criminal investigation into a child's murder were held to be conditionally privileged when weighed against the need for discovery in the suspect-parents' civil suit, which was based on their public identification by police as suspects. The appropriate remedy was for the trial court to stay discovery of the investigative information in the civil action in order to allow the police the necessary time to investigate; in the future, the trial court could determine that there has not been enough progress in the investigation to justify continued protection [County of Orange v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 759, 768-769, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 261 (also suggesting that trial court look for guidance from trade secret cases in determining what parts of file to disclose when passage of time reversed balance of competing interests)].

- Memoranda from state agency to governor's office were held to be conditionally privileged when sought by a defendant in pending civil litigation. The trial court was required to consider the defendant's need for disclosure in the interest of justice, and determine whether that interest was outweighed by the public interest in preserving confidentiality [Marylander v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1119, 1126, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 439 (rejecting trial court's conclusion that correspondence to Governor was exempt from disclosure under Public Records Act and by common law "deliberative process" privilege)].

[4] Waiver of Conditional Official Information Privilege

The conditional privilege under Evid. Code § 1040(b)(2) may not be claimed if any person authorized to claim the privilege consented to the disclosure of the information in the proceeding [Evid. Code § 1040(b)(2); see, e.g., People ex rel. Dept. of Public Works v. McNamara Corp. Ltd. (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 641, 651, 104 Cal. Rptr. 822 (state submitted data to state engineer performing adjudicatory function)]. Furthermore, under the definition of "official information," information is neither conditionally nor absolutely privileged if it was not acquired in confidence or if it was officially disclosed to the public prior to the time the claim of privilege was made [see Evid. Code § 1040(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesGovernment PrivilegesOfficial Information PrivilegeGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesGovernment PrivilegesOfficial Information PrivilegeDeliberative Process PrivilegeEvidencePrivilegesGovernment PrivilegesOfficial Information PrivilegeReports PrivilegeEvidencePrivilegesGovernment PrivilegesWaiver

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Other Evidence Code Privileges

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.82

§ 191.82 Trade Secret Privilege

[1] General Rule

If a trade secret's owner, or an agent or employee of the owner, claims the privilege, the owner has a privilege to refuse to disclose the trade secret and to prevent another from disclosing it if the allowance of the privilege will not tend to conceal fraud or otherwise work injustice [Evid. Code § 1060].

The party claiming the trade secret privilege has the burden of establishing its existence. Then, the party seeking discovery must make a prima facie, particularized showing that the information sought is relevant and necessary to the proof of, or defense against, a material element of one or more causes of action presented in the case and that it is reasonable to conclude that the information is essential to a fair resolution of the lawsuit. The trial court should then balance the interests of both sides and should consider the feasibility of discovery under the terms of a protective order as well as any less intrusive alternatives to disclosure proposed by the parties [Bridgestone/Firestone, Inc. v. Superior Court (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 1384, 1393, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 709 ; see, e.g., Citizens of Humanity, LLC v. Costco Wholesale Corp. (2009) 171 Cal. App. 4th 1, 13, 15-16, 89 Cal. Rptr. 3d 455 (identity of defendant's suppliers was protectable trade secret and less burdensome alternatives were available to plaintiff to establish that jeans sold by defendant were stolen)].

The holder of the privilege must then demonstrate any claimed disadvantages of a protective order. Either party may propose or oppose less intrusive alternatives to disclosure of the trade secret. The claimant of the privilege has the burden of demonstrating that an alternative to disclosure will not be unduly burdensome to the opposing side and that it will maintain the same fair balance in the litigation that would have been achieved by disclosure [Bridgestone/Firestone, Inc. v. Superior Court (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 1384, 1393, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 709] .

In one case, plaintiffs forfeited the right to proceed with their claim by insisting on an absolute withholding of all privileged information when they could have agreed to a more typical, less extreme protective order, which would have allowed defendant to obtain the needed information while strictly confining its use [Steiny & Co. v. California Electric Supply Co. (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 285, 292, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 920] . Although plaintiffs had the right to stand on the privilege, they did not have the right to proceed on their claim while at the same time insisting on withholding key evidence from their adversary [Steiny & Co. v. California Electric Supply Co. (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 285, 288, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 920 (trial court properly barred plaintiffs' damage evidence at trial when plaintiffs' proper invocation of trade secret privilege, and blanket protective order they obtained, prevented defendant from examining key evidence needed to test reasonableness of settlement which formed the basis for plaintiffs' damage claim)].

Evid. Code §§ 1061-1063 set forth procedures for the owner of a trade secret to assert his or her trade secret privilege under Evid. Code § 1060 in a criminal proceeding. For general discussion of these procedures, see Ch. 565, Unfair Competition, § 565.100 et seq.

[2] Effect of Privilege in Action for Misappropriation of Trade Secret

In any action alleging the misappropriation of a trade secret under the Uniform Trade Secrets Act (Civ. Code § 3426 et seq.), before beginning discovery relating to the trade secret, the party alleging the misappropriation must identify the trade secret with reasonable particularity subject to any orders that may be appropriate under Civ. Code § 3426.5 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.210]. A trade secret has been described with "reasonable particularity" sufficient to permit discovery to begin when the plaintiff makes a showing that is "reasonable"--that is, "fair, proper, just, rational" [Advanced Modular Sputtering, Inc. v. Superior Court (Sputtered Films, Inc.) (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 826, 903, 907-908, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 901 (observing that sufficient showing of "reasonable particularity" is "a flexible inquiry"); cf. Perlan Therapeutics, Inc. v. Superior Court (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 1333, 1350-1352, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 211 (while trade secret identification does not require "every minute detail" or the "greatest degree of particularity possible[,]" trade secret claimant's Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.210 trade secret statement was insufficient, in light of its broad language, surplusage, and voluminous attachments)]. If the trade secret designation is adequate to permit a defendant to investigate whether plaintiff's alleged trade secrets were within the public domain and to prepare a defense, and to permit the trial court to determine the scope of relevant discovery, plaintiff is not required to particularize how the alleged trade secrets differ from matters within the general knowledge of skilled persons in the field [Brescia v. Angelin (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 133, 143, 90 Cal. Rptr. 3d 842].

In a trade secret civil discovery case of first impression, one appellate court held that Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.210 is not limited in its application to a cause of action under the Uniform Trade Secrets Act, for misappropriation of the trade secret, but extends to any cause of action that relates to the trade secret [Advanced Modular Sputtering, Inc. v. Superior Court (Sputtered Films, Inc.) (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 826, 903, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 901] . The court reasoned that, by its express terms, Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.210 is not "cause of action" specific, but instead refers to "any 'action,' i.e. the entire lawsuit. " The court noted that it made no sense to bar discovery on the cause of action for misappropriation but permit it on others, when every cause of action was dependent on the misappropriation allegation [Advanced Modular Sputtering, Inc. v. Superior Court (Sputtered Films, Inc.) (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 826, 907, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 901] .

Under Civ. Code § 3426.5, a court is required to preserve the secrecy of an alleged trade secret by reasonable means, which may include granting protective orders in connection with discovery proceedings, holding in camera hearings, sealing the records of the action, and ordering any person involved in the litigation not to disclose an alleged trade secret without prior court approval.

For general discussion and forms relating to actions under Civ. Code § 3426 et seq., see Ch. 565, Unfair Competition, § 565.100 et seq.

[3] Limiting Disclosure After Waiver of Privilege

If the trade secret privilege is waived by a failure to assert the privilege in response to a demand for the production of documents [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.240(b)], the party waiving the privilege may still seek a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(b)(5), in order to set terms and conditions on the disclosure of its trade secrets that were subject to discovery [Stadish v. Superior Court (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 1130, 1144, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 350 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(f)(5)]. In determining whether there was good cause for an protective order in such a case, a trial court should refer to the procedures for a protective order set out in Evid. Code § 1061. These detailed procedures, although applicable to the disclosure of trade secrets in a criminal proceeding, "have a utility in a civil action and should be followed" [Stadish v. Superior Court (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 1130, 1145, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 350 ; for further discussion regarding demands for the production of documents, see Ch. 195, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence]. For discussion of procedures under Evid. Code § 1061, see Ch. 565, Unfair Competition, § 565.100 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidencePrivilegesTrade SecretsElementsEvidencePrivilegesTrade SecretsExceptionsEvidencePrivilegesTrade SecretsScopeEvidencePrivilegesTrade SecretsWaiverEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Other Evidence Code Privileges

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 191.83-191.99

[Reserved]

§§ 191.83[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Attorney Work Product Protection

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.100

§ 191.100 Attorney Work Product Protection

The provisions in the Civil Discovery Act relating to attorney work product protection, set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq., are a restatement or codification of case law doctrine. They are not intended to expand or reduce the extent to which work product is discoverable under existing law in any action, with one exception. Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.050 eliminates work product protection when an attorney is suspected of knowingly participating in a crime or fraud in any official investigation, proceeding, or action brought by a public prosecutor on behalf of the People of the State of California, if the attorney's services were sought or obtained to enable or aid anyone to commit or plan to commit a crime or fraud [Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.050].

These provisions generally provide for conditional protection of an attorney's work product. That is, it is protected from discovery absent a showing of special circumstances supporting discovery [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.030(b); see also City of Long Beach v. Superior Court (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 65, 71, 134 Cal. Rptr. 468] .

An exception is provided for an attorney's written impressions or legal research. These are absolutely protected from discovery [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.030(a); see also Williamson v. Superior Court (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 829, 834, 148 Cal. Rptr. 39, 582 P.2d 126] .

For further discussion of conditional and absolute protections, see § 191.103. For discussion of the claim of work product protection in the context of e-discovery, see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery), § 195A.21.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductOpinion Work ProductCivil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Attorney Work Product Protection

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.101

§ 191.101 Policy Considerations Underlying Work Product Protection

Work product protection under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq. is designed (1) to preserve the rights of attorneys to prepare cases for trial with that degree of privacy necessary to encourage them to prepare their cases thoroughly and to investigate not only the favorable but the unfavorable aspects of those cases; and (2) to prevent attorneys from taking undue advantage of their adversary's industry and efforts [Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.020].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Attorney Work Product Protection

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.102

§ 191.102 Definition of Work Product

Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq. provides no general definition of work product [see Reporter's Notes to Former Code Civ. Proc. § 2018(b) (work product not expressly defined because of conclusion that its meaning is still evolving under case law); see also discussion in Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.13[2]].

Case law generally defines work product as including certain materials prepared by an attorney acting for his or her client in anticipation of litigation [PSC Geothermal Services Co. v. Superior Court (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1697, 1709-1710, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 213] . For example, work product may include a list of nonexpert trial witnesses [In re Jeanette H. (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 25, 34-37] , or material of a derivative character such as diagrams prepared for trial, audit reports, appraisals, and other expert opinions developed as a result of the initiative of counsel in preparing for trial [Williamson v. Superior Court (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 829, 834, 148 Cal. Rptr. 39, 582 P.2d 126 , citing Mack v. Superior Court (1968) 259 Cal. App. 2d 7, 10, 66 Cal. Rptr. 280] .

On the other hand, information regarding events provable at trial or the identity and location of physical evidence is not deemed to be work product simply because it has been transmitted to the attorney [Long Beach v. Superior Court (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 65, 72, 134 Cal. Rptr. 468 , quoting from Mack v. Superior Court (1968) 259 Cal. App. 2d 7, 10, 66 Cal. Rptr. 280] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Attorney Work Product Protection

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.103

§ 191.103 Discovery of Work Product

[1] General Rule of Conditional Protection

Subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.030(a) (discussed in [3], below), the work product of an attorney is not discoverable unless the court determines that denial of discovery will unfairly prejudice the party seeking discovery in preparing that party's claim or defense or will result in an injustice [Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.030(b)].

There is no crime-fraud exception that allows discovery of work product. However, when an attorney is suspected of knowingly participating in a crime or fraud, there is no work product protection under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq. in any official investigation by a law enforcement agency, proceeding, or action brought by a public prosecutor in the name of the People of the State of California, if the attorney's services were sought or obtained to enable or aid anyone to commit or plan to commit a crime or fraud [Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.050]. There is no limitation, however, on an attorney's ability to request an in camera hearing as provided for in People v. Superior Court (Laff) (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 703, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 323, 23 P. 3d 563 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.060; see People v. Superior Court (Laff) (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 703, 709, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 323, 23 P. 3d 563 (superior court has an obligation to determine claims of privilege regarding materials seized from attorneys, whether or not attorneys are suspected of criminal conduct, and court properly may conduct a hearing to resolve these claims)].

In addition, absolute work product protection continues to protect the contents of a writing delivered to the client in confidence, and is not restricted to only those writings in the attorney's possession [BP Alaska Exploration, Inc. v. Superior Court (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1240, 1249-1251, 1253-1260, 245 Cal. Rptr. 682] .

[2] Expert Consultants

Expert services rendered in an advisory capacity, that is, developed as a result of the initiative of counsel in preparing for trial, clearly constitute attorney work product that is subject to the conditional or qualified protection under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.030(b) (discussed in [1], above) [Williamson v. Superior Court (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 829, 834, 148 Cal. Rptr. 39, 582 P.2d 126 ; Scotsman Mfg. Co. v. Superior Court (1966) 242 Cal. App. 2d 527, 531, 51 Cal. Rptr. 511] .

Expert services that qualify the expert as a witness are, however, subject to discovery under Code Civ. Proc. § 2034.010 et seq. when they are severable from those services that are protected under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq. [see National Steel Products Co. v. Superior Court (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 476, 488-492, 210 Cal. Rptr. 535] .

Thus, under the work product doctrine, reports prepared by the expert as a consultant are protected if the expert is not designated as a witness [Shadow Traffic Network v. Superior Court (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 1067, 1079, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 693] . However, once it becomes reasonably certain that an expert will give a professional opinion as a witness on a material matter in dispute, the opinion becomes a factor in the cause, subject to evaluation by appropriate pretrial discovery [Williamson v. Superior Court (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 829, 835, 148 Cal. Rptr. 39, 582 P.2d 126 , citing Swartzman v. Superior Court (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 195, 203, 41 Cal. Rptr. 721 ; see Sanders v. Superior Court (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 270, 279, 109 Cal. Rptr. 770 (discussing attorney-client privilege and work product protection)].

A party may withdraw a consultant-expert who has been named as a potential witness at any time prior to the expert's deposition [County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 647, 656, 271 Cal. Rptr. 698 (withdrawal does not require noticed motion)]. In that event, the work product protection is revived with respect to that expert's knowledge or opinion previously made discoverable because it was relevant to his or her expected testimony [County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 647, 655-658, 271 Cal. Rptr. 698 ; see Williamson v. Superior Court (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 829, 835, 148 Cal. Rptr. 39, 582 P. 2d 126 (decided under prior law; dicta)]. Materials generated as a result of the expert's advisory services, protection of which was not withdrawn due to the expert's designation as a potential witness, remain protected work product [see County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 647, 655, 271 Cal. Rptr. 698] .

Advisory services are those that are designed to assist the attorney in such matters as preparation of pleadings, the manner of presentation of proof, and cross examination of opposing expert witnesses; that is, matters that are often reflective of the mental processes of the attorney under whose direction the expert works. Services that qualify a person as an expert witness are those that contain findings and opinions of the expert that go to the establishment or denial of a principal fact in issue [see National Steel Products Co. v. Superior Court (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 476, 488-492, 210 Cal. Rptr. 535] .

Similarly, the designation of a party as an expert trial witness is not in itself an implied waiver of the party's attorney-client privilege. If the designation is withdrawn before the party discloses a significant part of a privileged communication, or before it is known with reasonable certainty that the party will actually testify as an expert, the privilege is secure. However, if the party produces privileged documents or testifies as an expert (such as by stating an opinion in a declaration or at a deposition), the privilege is waived [Shooker v. Superior Court (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 923, 930, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 334 (party did not waive his attorney-client privilege by designating himself as expert witness, when, at deposition, he asserted attorney-client privilege and did nothing more than identify his charts and previously disclosed documents, and no confidential information was disclosed); see Lohman v. Superior Court (1978) 81 Cal. App.3d 90, 95, 146 Cal. Rptr. 171 ("the intent to disclose does not operate as a waiver, waiver comes into play after a disclosure has been made"); see also Tennenbaum v. Deloitte & Touche, 77 F.3d 337, 341 (9th Cir. (1996) (in determining whether privilege has been waived, "triggering event is disclosure, not a promise to disclose")].

Code Civ. Proc. § 2034.010 et seq. governs the discovery of expert witnesses, providing for the exchange of names and expected testimony, as well as certain expert witnesses' discoverable reports and writings concerning proposed testimony and preparations to testify. For further discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 2034.010 et seq., see generally Ch. 198, Discovery: Exchange of Expert Witness Information .

[3] Attorney's Written Opinions and Legal Theories

Any writing that reflects an attorney's impressions, conclusions, opinions, or legal research or theories is not discoverable under any circumstances [Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.030(a); see Rico v. Mitsubishi Motors Corp. (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 807, 815, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 758, 171 P.3d 1092]. Thus, the work product rule creates an absolute privilege for the attorney against disclosure of such writings, whereas there is only a qualified privilege against discovery of general work product [see BP Alaska Exploration, Inc. v. Superior Court (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1240, 1250, 245 Cal. Rptr. 682] .

Apparently, Evidence Code exceptions to the attorney-client rule are not applicable to documents protected by the absolute work product rule [see, e.g., BP Alaska Exploration, Inc. v. Superior Court (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1240, 1249-1251, 245 Cal. Rptr. 682 (Evid. Code § 956 crime-fraud exception to attorney-client privilege is not applicable to absolute work product); but see Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.050 (eliminating work product protection when attorney is suspected of knowingly participating in crime or fraud in any official criminal investigation, proceeding, or action brought by a public prosecutor, if attorney's services were sought or obtained to enable or aid anyone to commit or plan to commit a crime or fraud)].

Absolute work product protection continues concerning the contents of a writing after it is delivered to a client in confidence; the protection is not restricted to only those writings in the attorney's possession [BP Alaska Exploration, Inc. v. Superior Court (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1240, 1253-1260, 245 Cal. Rptr. 682] .

An attorney who inadvertently receives work product has the ethical duty not to examine the material any more closely than is necessary to ascertain that it is privileged. Once it appears that the document is privileged, the attorney should immediately notify opposing counsel and try to resolve the situation, by agreement or with the court's guidance [see Rico v. Mitsubishi Motors Corp. (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 807, 817, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 758, 171 P.3d 1092 (finding disqualification proper when plaintiffs' attorney, who inadvertently obtained privileged work product, used it during deposition to impeach defense expert); see also § 191.15[7][b]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductOpinion Work ProductCivil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Attorney Work Product Protection

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.104

§ 191.104 State Bar Disciplinary Investigations

The State Bar may discover the work product of an attorney against whom disciplinary charges are pending when it is relevant to issues of breach of duty by the attorney. This discoverability is subject to applicable client approval and to a protective order, when requested and for good cause, to ensure the confidentiality of work product except for its use by the State Bar in disciplinary investigations and its consideration under seal in State Bar Court proceedings. For these purposes, whenever a client has initiated a complaint against an attorney, the requisite client approval is deemed to have been granted [Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.070(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductScopeCivil ProcedureDiscoveryProtective OrdersLegal EthicsSanctionsDisciplinary ProceedingsInvestigations

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Attorney Work Product Protection

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.105

§ 191.105 Action Involving Client

In an action between an attorney and a client or former client, no work product protection under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq. exists if the work product is relevant to an issue of breach by the attorney of a duty to his or her client arising out of the attorney-client relationship [Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.080].

For purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq., "client" means a person who, directly or through an authorized representative, consults an attorney for the purpose of retaining the attorney or securing legal service or advice from that attorney in his or her professional capacity. Client includes an incompetent (1) who himself or herself so consults the attorney or (2) whose guardian or conservator so consults the attorney on behalf of the incompetent [Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010; Evid. Code § 951].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Attorney Work Product Protection

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.106

§ 191.106 Standing to Claim Work Product Protection

Work product protection, unlike the attorney-client privilege, protects the attorney in preparing a case for trial by protecting the fruits of the attorney's labor from discovery [Lohman v. Superior Court (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 90, 100-101, 146 Cal. Rptr. 171 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 2016; now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.020, discussed in § 191.101)]. Therefore, statutory work product protection has been interpreted to provide a type of "privilege" that is held by the attorney and, accordingly, may be claimed or waived by the attorney [Lohman v. Superior Court (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 90, 100, 101, 146 Cal. Rptr. 171 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 2016; now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq.); see also American Mut. Liab. Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 579, 594, 113 Cal. Rptr. 561] .

A litigant acting in propria persona may assert the statutory work product protection [Dowden v. Superior Court (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 126, 136, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 180] . The court of appeal that reached this conclusion reasoned that the use of the word "attorney" in former Code Civ. Proc. § 2018 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq.) is ambiguous: The statute does not define the term, and it has been applied to other statutes without distinguishing between attorneys and unrepresented litigants [Dowden v. Superior Court (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 126, 129-130, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 180] . Further, the stated purpose of and the underlying reasons for Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq. emphasize the need to limit discovery to promote diligence in preparing one's own case, rather than depending on an adversary's efforts. This policy is important not only for attorneys representing clients, but also for litigants acting in propria persona [Dowden v. Superior Court (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 126, 133, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 180] . Finally, allowing litigants appearing in propria persona to assert the privilege furthers the statute's intended purpose of promoting the adversary system [Dowden v. Superior Court (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 126, 134, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 180] .

There is also case authority holding that the protection was created for the client as well as for the attorney [see Mack v. Superior Court (1968) 259 Cal. App. 2d 7, 10, 66 Cal. Rptr. 280] . The apparently contradictory holdings were reconciled by the view that although work product protection belongs to the attorney, it may be claimed by the client on behalf of the attorney. Consequently, in the attorney's absence, the client has standing to assert work product protection on behalf of the attorney, who is the only holder of the privilege. If the attorney waives the privilege, however, a former client may not object [Fellows v. Superior Court (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 55, 64-65, 166 Cal. Rptr. 274] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersWork ProductScope

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Attorney Work Product Protection

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 191.107-191.119

[Reserved]

§§ 191.107[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 16: Depositions and Discovery-Chs. 190-204
Chapter 191 DISCOVERY: PRIVILEGES AND OTHER DISCOVERY LIMITATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
H. Other Protections Against Disclosure

16-191 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 191.120

§ 191.120 Right to Privacy

[1] Nonstatutory Privilege Based on Constitutional Guarantee of Privacy

The right to privacy guaranteed by Cal. Const., art. I, § 1, may be invoked by a litigant to justify refusing to answer questions that unreasonably intrude on that right [Vinson v. Superior Court (1987) 43 Cal. 3d 833, 239 Cal. Rptr. 292, 740 P.2d 404 ; Boler v. Superior Court (1987) 201 Cal. App. 3d 467, 473, 247 Cal. Rptr. 185 ; Rider v. Superior Court (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 278, 282-287, 244 Cal. Rptr. 770 ; Kahn v. Superior Court (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 752, 769-770, 233 Cal. Rptr. 662] .

As a general rule, the privilege based on privacy is conditional. Answers to questions that fall in an established zone of privacy, such as associational privacy, personal financial affairs, medical history, personnel files, or sexual relations, may not be required absent a compelling state interest [Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 704, 712, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 854 P.2d 1117] . For discussion of the balancing of state interests against the right to privacy, see [3], below.

The privilege based on the right to privacy is the chief example of the exception to general rule against nonstatutory privileges, that is, of a privilege necessarily implied from a constitutional provision [see Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 844, 852-856, 143 Cal. Rptr. 695, 574 P.2d 766 ; see discussion in § 191.12[2]; see also discussion of qualified privilege based on constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press in § 199.122].

[2] Examples of Matters Protected From Disclosure

Courts have upheld nondisclosure based on the right to privacy in instances including the following:

- Information the disclosure of which would compromise an individual's right to associational privacy [see Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 844, 859-862, 864-865, 574 P.2d 766 (associational privacy)].

- Personal financial affairs [see Valley Bank of Nevada v. Superior Court (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 652, 656-658, 125 Cal. Rptr. 553, 542 P.2d 977 ; Fortunato v. Superior Court (2003) 114 Cal. App 4th 475, 480-482, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 82 (bank customer has reasonable expectation of privacy in confidential information submitted with loan application, and when waiver of confidentiality of tax returns is argued, court should conduct in camera inspection to balance need for discovery against interests in privacy)].

- Medical records [Heda v. Superior Court (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 525, 529-530, 275 Cal. Rptr. 136] .

- HIV-positive status under appropriate circumstances when patient has reasonable expectation of privacy [see Urbaniak v. Newton (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1128, 1135-1136, 1140-1141, 277 Cal. Rptr. 354)].

- Disciplinary records of nonparty employees, when interrogatories listing disciplinary acts by type and race would accomplish plaintiff's objective [Perez v. County of Santa Clara (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 671, 678, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 867] .

[3] Balancing of Privacy Interest With State Interest in Disclosure

As noted in [1], above, matters that fall within an established zone of privacy are protected from disclosure absent a compelling state interest. The state's compelling interest must be carefully balanced against the fundamental right of privacy [Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 704, 712, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 854 P.2d 1117 ; Lantz v. Superior Court (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 1839, 1857, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 358 (case remanded because trial court determined merely that medical records were relevant, and failed to balance privacy interests against state's needs for records)].

The state's interest in facilitating ascertainment of the truth in connection with legal proceedings is a compelling state interest [Save Open Space Santa Monica Mountains v. Superior Court (2001) 84 Cal. App. 4th 234, 255, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 725 ; Fults v. Superior Court (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 899, 904, 152 Cal. Rptr. 210] . However, even though a compelling state interest is present, an adequate foundation must be laid from which it can be inferred that the inquiry will likely be productive, not merely relevant, and any compelled disclosure must be precise and narrowly drawn to ensure maximum protection of the constitutional right [Save Open Space Santa Monica Mountains v. Superior Court (2001) 84 Cal. App. 4th 234, 252-253, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 725 ; Fults v. Superior Court (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 899, 904-905, 152 Cal. Rptr. 210] .

Examples involving this balancing of privacy interests with the state's interest in disclosure of relevant evidence include the following:

- In a marital dissolution action brought by father against mother to determine whether the father should be granted joint custody over the couple's 4-year-old son, the court rejected the father's claim that his medical records were protected by his constitutional right to privacy. That right is not absolute and, in this case, the father's privacy interests were outweighed by the state's compelling interest in protecting the child's best interests [Manela v. Superior Court (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1150, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 736].

- In a case addressing whether an opt-out notice was sufficient to protect the privacy rights of potential class members (customers who had complained to seller that its DVD players were defective), the Supreme Court held that as a matter of policy, requiring an affirmative waiver from persons whose personal identifying information is sought by others could hamper litigation designed to remedy social problems, including consumer rights litigation, and reduce the effectiveness of class actions in securing consumer relief. It seemed unlikely that these customers, who already had voluntarily disclosed their identifying information to the seller in hopes of gaining some relief, would have a reasonable expectation that their information would be kept private and withheld from a class action plaintiff, unless they expressly consented to such disclosure. Moreover, the proposed disclosure was not particularly sensitive, because it did not involve disclosing personal medical history or current medical condition or details about personal finances or other financial information. Thus, the trial court could reasonably conclude that, on balance, the named plaintiff's interest in obtaining the customers' contact information outweighed the possibility that some customers might fail to receive their notice and thus lose the opportunity to object to disclosure [Pioneer Electronics (USA), Inc. v. Superior Court (2007) 40 Cal. 4th 360, 372-374, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 513, 150 P.3d 198 ; see Belaire-West Landscape, Inc. v. Superior Court (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 554, 561-562, 57 Cal. Rptr. 3d 197 (applying Pioneer analysis to conclude that opt-out notice requiring potential class members to object in writing in order to prevent their names and contact information from being disclosed to real party in interest employees in putative class action lawsuit alleging wage and hour violations was sufficient to protect potential class members' privacy rights); Puerto v. Superior Court (2008) 158 Cal. App. 4th 1242, 1259, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 701 (applying Pioneer and Belaire to conclude that opt-in notice, requiring class action petitioners to obtain non-party potential witnesses' affirmative consent to disclosure of their addresses and phone numbers, exceeded protections necessary to safeguard witnesses' right to privacy in their contact information)].

- In a writ proceeding addressing the permissibility of discovery aimed at uncovering petitioner husband's HIV status, a divided Supreme Court allowed discovery, with specified limitations, of evidence that the husband knew or should have known that he had HIV, because this issue was fundamental to the causes of action for intentional and negligent infliction of emotional distress, fraud, and negligence. After balancing the wife's right to discover relevant evidence against the husband's right to privacy, the Court concluded that the wife was entitled to discovery concerning husband's sexual history and HIV status. The wife had "amply" established good cause for disclosure of the husband's medical records concerning HIV and AIDS. Discovery might reasonably lead to evidence of husband's awareness of his HIV status. Discovery would also serve "the historically important state interest of facilitating the ascertainment of truth in connection with legal proceedings," as well as the state's compelling interest in preventing the spread of AIDS. While the wife's interrogatories and requests for admission sought information that fell within the zone of the husband's right to sexual privacy, he had a diminished privacy interest in his HIV status, since he had admitted his status in court filings and informally. Moreover, the husband also alleged in the complaint that the wife infected him. By thus putting his own medical condition at issue, the husband had a "substantially lowered" expectation of privacy. The Court agreed that the court of appeal had appropriately limited, as overly broad and speculative, the wife's discovery of the identities of the husband's previous sexual partners and admissions concerning his "lifestyle." However, the Court further narrowed discovery in light of husband's negative HIV test on August 17, 2000, which restricted the window period of possible infection to the six months preceding the negative test. Accordingly, the Court reversed the court of appeal's order compelling responses to plaintiff's discovery requests to the extent they sought information about the husband's sexual history outside the six-month time frame. On remand, however, the wife could overcome this temporal limitation by offering some basis to question the accuracy or reliability of the husband's negative HIV test [John B. v. Superior Court (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 1177, 1182, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 316, 137 P.3d 153] .

- In employment law cases, fundamental policy considerations tip the balance of opposing interests toward permitting access to relevant information necessary to pursue the litigation. For example, in a case alleging wage and hour violations, an order restricting the disclosure of potential witnesses' contact information through the use of an opt-in letter exceeded the protections necessary to safeguard the legitimate privacy interests in the addresses and telephone numbers of the witnesses, and as such was an abuse of discretion [Puerto v. Superior Court (2008) 158 Cal. App. 4th 1242, 1258, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 701] . In a class action lawsuit alleging improper reclassification of class members from employees to independent contractors, a trial court committed reversible error by denying a motion to compel disclosure of independent contractor names and addresses using an opt-out procedure in [Lee v. Dynamex, Inc. (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 1325, 1338, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 241 (discovery of potential class members' contact information should not be restricted unless trial court can identify privacy concerns or potential discovery abuses which outweigh plaintiff's right to discovery)]. And in a pending class action litigation to enforce employees' statutory wage and overtime rights, the violation of the employees' right to privacy did not outweigh plaintiffs' right to discover the class members' names, addresses, and telephone numbers, using an opt-out notice [Crab Addison, Inc. v. Superior Court (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 958, 974-975, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 400] . Moreover, the fact that employees had signed forms indicating they did not want their contact information disclosed did not compel a different result. Public policy concerns weighed against enforcing a release form that had the effect of waiving an employee's right to notice of a pending class action lawsuit concerning the employer's alleged violations of overtime and wage statutes. In this case, the employees who had indicated that they did not want their contact information disclosed were unaware of the litigation [Crab Addison, Inc. v. Superior Court (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 958, 974, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 400] .

- In deciding a motion for attorneys' fees and expenses under Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5, the court of appeal balanced real parties' interest in discovering the donors to petitioner nonprofit organization's litigation fund, which implicated the right of privacy and a derivative right of confidentiality, with the interests compelling disclosure. Real parties in this case had a legitimate interest in ensuring that attorney fees were not awarded when the statutory requirements set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5 had not been met. A trial court ruling on a motion for attorney fees could not realistically assess the interests of a fee applicant if the applicant (and thus the nature and extent of the applicant's interest) could be hidden behind a public interest organization. Moreover, because attorney fee awards paid by the County were necessarily paid from taxpayer funds, county taxpayers had an interest in limiting unwarranted attorney fee awards. The state (and thus all taxpayers) had an interest in ensuring that charitable contributions are not shams--and that the donated funds truly became the property of the charity that received them. Equally as important as these interests was the state's compelling interest, as reflected in its broad discovery statutes, in facilitating the ascertainment of truth in connection with legal proceedings. The court concluded that real parties demonstrated a need for the discovery that would justify an invasion of the privacy interests involved, since the evidence sought by real parties was crucial to the court's thorough analysis of petitioner's attorney fee request [Save Open Space Santa Monica Mountains v. Superior Court (2001) 84 Cal. App. 4th 234, 252-254, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 725] .

- In a writ proceeding, an abortion clinic challenged a superior court discovery ruling that required it to disclose, pursuant to a protective order, to active participants in the anti-abortion movement, the names, residential addresses, and telephone numbers of staff and volunteers with knowledge relevant to the litigation. The court of appeal held that disclosure violated the non-parties' rights to freedom of association and their rights to residential privacy, and concluded that their privacy interests were strong because disclosure would threaten their peace and safety. In contrast, the state's interest in promoting truth in litigation was weak. Real parties failed to demonstrate any real need for the discovery that justified this intrusive order. Precluding discovery of the information furthered the state's interest in preserving residential privacy and advanced the state's strong interest in protecting individuals who provide lawful services in connection withpregnancy [Planned Parenthood Golden Gate v. Superior Court (2001) 83 Cal. App. 4th 347, 367, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 627] .

- In an action in which plaintiff alleged that he was molested while a member of a boy scout troop, plaintiff sought discovery of certain confidential records maintained by the Boy Scouts, which identified individuals unrelated to the action who had been determined to be "unfit" to serve as scouting volunteers and documenting this determination of ineligibility. The trial court appointed a referee, who conducted an in camera review of the requested records and determined that they were subject to protection from disclosure by the right of privacy. The court of appeal affirmed the trial court's protective order issued on the basis of this determination, holding that plaintiff had not shown that the files were relevant to any disputed issue in the litigation, nor that there was a compelling need for disclosure of this information that would outweigh the right of privacy of the many individuals who were not parties to the lawsuit [Juarez v. Boy Scouts of America, Inc. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 377, 384-385, 391-392, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 12] .

- In an action against a sperm bank on behalf of child born with a congenital birth defect, the court of appeal considered the privacy interest of the anonymous sperm donor in his medical history, and that of the state in evidence directly relevant to the action, and ordered the donor's deposition to proceed, subject to a protective order to be fashioned by the trial court that would protect the confidentiality of the identity of the donor and that of his family [Johnson v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 1050, 1067-1072, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 864 ; see also Allison v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 654, 661, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 915 (defendant seeking disclosure of plaintiff's general past medical history required on remand to frame narrower, more precisely tailored discovery)].

[4] Disclosure Required by Compelling State Interest May Be Limited by Protective Order or Similar Measures

One method of ensuring that compelled disclosure is narrowly drawn is to permit those individuals whose privacy rights may be threatened to seek a protective order prior to disclosure. For example, in an action for injunctive relief under the Unruh Civil Rights Act [Civ. Code § 51] against a club based on its allegedly racially discriminatory membership practices, the prosecuting city asked the club for a list of the names and business addresses of those applicants who had been recently rejected for membership. The club resisted, citing the applicants' right of associational privacy. The court weighed those rights against the important, compelling interest the state has in upholding fundamental societal principles, such as nondiscrimination. It held that disclosure was appropriate, but that prior to that disclosure, the applicants should be informed that their identities were sought, and advised that they should petition the court for protective orders if they sought anonymity. The names of those applicants who obtained protective orders would be removed from the list ultimately furnished by the club to the city [Olympic Club v. Superior Court (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 358, 364, 282 Cal. Rptr. 1 ; see Harris v. Superior Court (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 661, 668, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 564 (person living with child-support-paying parent is presumptively entitled to protective order limiting disclosure of financial information in rare circumstances in which this information is at all discoverable)]. For discussion of Civ. Code § 51, see Ch. 116, Civil Rights: Discrimination in Business Establishments .

[5] Waiver of Privacy Right

Privacy rights are subject to waiver in much the same way as are privileges, except that waivers of constitutional rights are not lightly found. The court may consider the standards of Evid. Code § 912 (waiver of privileges) in deciding whether an individual has waived the right to privacy by disclosure [see Heda v. Superior Court (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 525, 530, 275 Cal. Rptr. 136 ; see also Urbaniak v. Newton (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1128, 1135-1136, 1140-1141, 277 Cal. Rptr. 354 (patient's HIV-positive status protected if status only disclosed to ensure that proper precautions were taken to sterilize medical equipment)].

The scope of any waiver of a privacy right must be narrowly rather than expansively construed so that plaintiffs are not unduly deterred from instituting lawsuits because of fear of exposure of their private associational affiliations and activities. Any implied waiver of a party's constitutional rights encompasses only discovery directly relevant to the plaintiff's claim and essential to the fair resolution of the lawsuit. For example, the mere initiation of a sexual harassment suit, even with an extreme mental and emotional damage claim, does not waive all the plaintiff's privacy interests, but it may implicitly bring about a partial waiver of his or her constitutional right of associational privacy [

Vinson v. Superior Court (1987) 43 Cal. 3d 833, 841-842, 239 Cal. Rptr. 292, 740 P.2d 404] . Because sexual misconduct civil cases are governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.220, which requires a showing of good cause prior to discovery of the plaintiff's sexual conduct with individuals other than the alleged perpetrator, a separate weighing of privacy interests against discovery in determining the scope of a waiver is not generally necessary. It should normally suffice for the court, in ruling on whether good cause exists for probing into the intimate life of a victim of sexual misconduct, to evaluate the showing of good cause in light of the legislative purpose in enacting Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.220 and the plaintiff's constitutional right to privacy [see Vinson v. Superior Court (1987) 43 Cal. 3d 833, 844, 239 Cal. Rptr. 292, 740 P.2d 404 (decided under prior law)].

Similarly, the filing of a personal injury lawsuit, even with a claim for pain and suffering, does not waive the plaintiff's privacy interests in all of her medical records. For example, the privacy interests in records of a personal injury plaintiff's psychotherapy were not waived when the plaintiff limited the damages claimed for pain and suffering to those resulting from injuries sustained in the automobile accident generating the lawsuit [Davis v. Superior Court (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 1008, 1013, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 331 (records of psychotherapy pertained to substance abuse); see also Allison v. Workers Comp. Appeals Bd. (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 654, 661, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 915 (in action by plaintiff for injury to wrist, defendant, seeking disclosure of plaintiff's general past medical history, required on remand to frame discovery requests more narrowly)]. The mere speculation by a defendant that the records requested might contain relevant material is not sufficient to overcome the privacy protection [Davis v. Superior Court (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 1008, 1017-1018, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 331] .

However, when a party to litigation affirmatively places his or her medical condition in controversy, that party does have a "substantially lowered" expectation of privacy in medical records relating to that condition [John B. v. SuperiorCourt (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 1177, 1199, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 316, 137 P.3d 153 . Thus, for example, a husband waived his privacy interests in information concerning his HIV status and in information contained in his medical records within the six-month timeframe in which he could have been infected, in a suit brought by his wife for infecting her with HIV, by relying on what he claimed were negative test results in support of a summary judgment motion and by alleging in the complaint that his former wife infected him [John B. v. Superior Court (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 1177, 1197-1198, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 316, 137 P.3d 153] . The husband could not affirmatively rely on his HIV test results, while at the same time prevent discovery that could refute the truthfulness of his contentions [John B. v. Superior Court (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 1177, 1200-1201, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 316, 137 P.3d 153] .

A patient did not waive his right to privacy, in a suit to enforce an administrative subpoena by the California Medical Board against the patient's physician, by showing park rangers the letter as proof that he was a qualified patient entitled to protection from prosecution for marijuana use [Bearman v. Superior Court (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 463, 473-474, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 644, 652-653] . Moreover, the Medical Board failed to produce evidence sufficient to support a finding of good cause to invade the patient's right to privacy in his medical records. Rather, the accusations that the physician indiscriminately recommended the medicinal use of marijuana to this patient were unsupported speculations and conclusory statements drawn solely from the physician's letter and the simple fact that he recommended using marijuana [Bearman v. Superior Court (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 463, 472, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 644, 650] .

When an actress's suit for various employment related claims based on pregnancy discrimination included a claim for damages for mental and emotional anxiety and distress, the court of appeal likewise held that she had waived only some of her privacy rights. She was found to have waived her right of privacy concerning her psychological condition, but only as it related to termination of the employment contract. Before the defendants could obtain information regarding any emotional distress from her marital relationship, they had to identify the specific emotional injuries allegedly the result of the contract termination and demonstrate a nexus between damages from termination and those that might arise out of the marital relationship. Similarly, questions regarding the actress's pregnancy fell directly within her right to privacy, and the defendants had to demonstrate a compelling public interest for the information for it to be discoverable [Tylo v. Superior Court (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 1379, 1386-1390, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 731] .

[6] Assertion of Third Person's Privacy Rights

[a] Availability and Balancing Conflicting Interests

Litigants who are the recipients of discovery demands affecting the privacy rights of third persons not present may assert the privacy rights of those persons [Denari v. Superior Court (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1488, 1498-1499, 264 Cal. Rptr. 261 (county properly asserted privacy rights of arrestees when civil rights plaintiff sought to discover their names, addresses, and telephone numbers); see Valley Bank of Nevada v. Superior Court (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 652, 125 Cal. Rptr. 553, 542 P.2d 977 (when customer sued bank and sought financial records of other customers, bank properly asserted privacy rights of its other customers)].

A court has a duty to reconcile the conflicting interests of litigants in obtaining necessary discovery and of third parties in maintaining privacy. In evaluating claims for the protection of third parties, the court is vested with the same discretion that it generally exercises in passing on other confidentiality claims. The court must consider the following factors [Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 704, 712, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 854 P.2d 1117 ; see Tien v. Superior Court (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 528, 540-541, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 121 (privacy rights of putative class members who contacted employees' counsel outweighed employer's need to discover their identities, citing Hooser); Hooser v. Superior Court (2001) 84 Cal. App. 4th997, 1004, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 341 (citing Schnabel); Sehlmeyer v. Department of General Services (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 1072, 1081, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 840 (same factors applied in administrative proceedings)]:

- The purpose of the information sought.
- The effect that disclosure will have on the parties and on the trial.
- The nature of the objections urged by the party resisting disclosure.
- The court's ability to make an alternative order that may grant partial disclosure, disclosure in another form, or disclosure only in the event that the party seeking the information undertakes certain specified burdens that appear just under the circumstances.

For example, in a defamation action by a hospital against a physician and an organization whose members were anonymous, the hospital served a deposition subpoena on a local newspaper which had published paid advertisements that were critical of the hospital, seeking disclosure of the authors. The newspaper, asserting the associational privacy rights of the anonymous authors of the "advertorials," sought to quash the subpoena. Applying the balancing test, the court of appeal noted that the "advertorials" involved core political speech. One admitted purpose of the hospital in seeking the names was to add potential new defamation claims against additional defendants. The court found this to be a classic first amendment example of why the speakers may have chosen anonymity in the first place: to avoid being swept into litigation purely out of spite for speaking out on hotly contested issues. The court deemed the impact of the proposed discovery on protected constitutional rights to be severe.

The hospital argued that the authors of the advertisements were the same as those who authored the defamatory statements alleged in hospital's complaint, due to thematic and stylistic similarities between the two sets of materials. The court concluded that this conjecture was not enough to overcome the qualified privilege of associational privacy, and the relationship between the advertisements and the defamatory statements were too attenuated to justify shutting off political discourse on an important public issue [Rancho Publications v. Superior Court (1999) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1538, 1546-1551, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 274] .

In another case, a consolidated class action suit by television writers asserting an industry-wide pattern and practice of age discrimination, the writers served subpoenas on third parties, seeking disclosure of their personal information--beyond contact information--from which the writers could prepare a statistical analysis to support their claims of age discrimination. Approximately 7,700 individuals filed objections to the disclosure on privacy grounds. The writers moved to overrule the objections, but the trial court sustained the objections in their entirety. The court of appeal issued a writ of mandate directing the trial court to vacate its orders and to enter a new and different order granting the writers access to the requested information. The court concluded that the trial court abused its discretion when it sustained all objections to the disclosure of the requested information on privacy grounds. The trial court used a "broad brush to deny the writers access to all data about the objectors out of hand," without considering whether "a more nuanced approach" to the different categories of data would satisfy the balance between privacy interests and the litigants' need for discovery [Alch v. Superior Court (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 1412, 1421-1422, 82 Cal. Rptr. 3d 470]. The writers could not prove their disparate impact claims without access to the directly relevant evidence from which they could perform a statistical analysis. The trial court erred in its purported balancing of the objectors' privacy rights and the countervailing interests of the litigants and the state, erred in failing to analyze the types of information requested, failing to consider the state's interest in preventing discrimination, and erroneously concluding the writers could proceed with a statistical analysis without information from the objectors [Alch v. Superior Court (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 1412, 1428-1438, 82 Cal. Rptr. 3d 470].

The court should impose partial limitations rather than an outright denial of discovery when it is possible to do so. For example, the court may conduct an in camera hearing to further accommodate the conflicting interests [Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 704, 712, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 854 P.2d 1117 ; see, e.g., Alch v. Superior Court (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 1412, 1422, 82 Cal. Rptr. 3d 470 (trial court erred, in consolidated class action by petitioner television writers asserting industry-wide pattern and practice of age discrimination, in denying access to all requested information from third party objectors on privacy grounds, without considering whether "a more nuanced approach" to different categories of data would satisfy balance between privacy interests and litigants' need for discovery); Save Open Space Santa Monica Mountains v. Superior Court (2001) 84 Cal. App. 4th 234, 252-254, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 725 (in motion for attorneys' fees under private attorney general doctrine, public interest organization would be required to provide, in increments and in camera, information about amounts donated to its litigation fund and, if needed, names of donors)].

A judge also may consider making an alternative order granting partial discovery, disclosure in another form, or disclosure only in the event theparty seeking the information undertakes certain specified burdens that appear just under the circumstances [Sehlmeyer v. Department of General Services (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 1072, 1081, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 840 ; see, e.g., Perez v. County of Santa Clara (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 671, 678, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 867 (in employment discrimination case, disciplinary records of nonparty employees were protected by their privacy rights, when interrogatories listing disciplinary acts by type and race would accomplish plaintiff's objective); Planned Parenthood Golden Gate v. Superior Court (2001) 83 Cal. App. 4th 347, 350, 358-359, 367, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 627 (disclosure of nonparty identity denied in favor of alternative procedure that would party access to potential nonparty witnesses without invading their privacy rights); Hooser v. Superior Court (2001) 84 Cal. App. 4th 997, 1007-1009, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 341 (identity of nonparty clients not disclosed in favor of alternative means of obtaining information needed from judgment debtor attorney)].

