To the extent the third party's records come within a statutory privilege, additional considerations must be balanced, for example, the existence of the privilege and questions of waiver [Sehlmeyer v. Department of General Services (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 1072, 1081, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 840] .

[b] Dissolution of Marriage Proceedings

In a marriage dissolution proceeding, when one spouse seeks discovery from a third party, the court must balance the spouse's need for discovery against the privacy interests of the third party. In weighing the spouse's need, the court should consider how the requested information would help resolve the issues that remain between the spouses, any relationship between either spouse and the third party, the information that the other spouse or the third party has already provided or agreed to provide, and any specific reasons to distrust the adequacy or reliability of the information already obtained or offered. In weighing the privacy interests of the third party, the court should consider the nature of the information sought, its inherent intrusiveness, and any specific showing of a need for privacy, including any specific harm that disclosure of the information might cause [Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 704, 714, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 854 P.2d 1117] .

On request, the court should review the information in camera before production to assess its value to the requesting spouse and the harm disclosure might cause to the third party. The court should carefully tailor any discovery order to protect the interests of the requesting spouse in obtaining a fair resolution of the issues, while not unnecessarily invading the third party's privacy. The court should also consider appropriate protective orders on request [Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 704, 714, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 854 P.2d 1117] .

[1] Consumer Records

The privacy interests that individuals or certain entities have in records containing private information about them, which are maintained by third-party professionals or businesses with whom they have had business transactions or from whom they have received services, are protected to some extent by statutory safeguards that apply when such records are the subject of a subpoena duces tecum.

Thus, Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3 contains certain protections for consumers (as defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(a)(2)) when their personal records are the subject of a subpoena duces tecum, including a deposition subpoena under Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.020.

Personal records are books, documents, other writings, or electronic data maintained by any witness that is a physician, dentist, ophthalmologist, optometrist, chiropractor, physical therapist, acupuncturist, podiatrist, veterinarian, veterinary hospital, veterinary clinic, pharmacist, pharmacy, hospital, medical center, clinic, radiology or MRI center, clinical or diagnostic laboratory, state or national bank, state or federal association as defined under Fin. Code § 5102, state or federal credit union, trust company, anyone authorized by the state to make or arrange loans that are secured by real property, security brokerage firm, insurance company, underwritten title company, title insurance company, escrow agent (either licensed under Fin. Code § 17000 et seq. or exempt from licensing), attorney, accountant, institution of the Farm Credit System as specified in 12 U.S.C. § 2002, telephone corporation that is a public utility as defined in Pub. Util. Code § 216, psychotherapist, as defined in Evid. Code § 1010, or a private or public preschool, elementary school, secondary school, or post secondary school as described in Educ. Code § 76244 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(a)(1)].

The protections set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3 also apply to records containing personal information pertaining to public employees and other natural persons that are maintained by specified public agencies and are exempt from required disclosure under the Public Records Act (Gov. Code § 6250 et seq.), to the extent that they constitute private information [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.4; see Gov. Code § 6254(c) (disclosure exemption for private information)].

Code Civ. Proc. § 1987.1 provides for an order to protect a consumer or witness from oppressive demands in a subpoena duces tecum, including unreasonable violations of the right of privacy [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1987.1(a)]. However, nothing in Code Civ. Proc. § 1987.1 requires a person to move to quash, modify, or condition any subpoena duces tecum of personal records of any consumer served under Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(b)(1) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1987.1(c)].

For further discussion of deposition subpoenas generally, see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions . For further discussion and forms relating to the notice requirements and objection procedures when personal consumer records are subpoenaed, see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

[2] Employee Records

The privacy interests that employees have in records concerning them, which are maintained by their employers, are protected in much the same fashion as the interests of consumers discussed in [1], above. Thus, Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6 contains certain protections for employees when employment records are the subject of a subpoena duces tecum [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6; see generally Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3]. An "employee" is any individual who is or has been employed by a witness subject to a subpoena duces tecum [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6(a)(2)]. "Employee" also means any individual who is or has been represented by a labor organization that is a witness subject to a subpoena duces tecum [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6(a)(2); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6(a)(4) ("labor organization" defined)].

The term "employment records" is defined as the original or any copy of books, documents, other writings or electronic data pertaining to the employment of any employee maintained by the current or former employer of the employee, or by a labor organization that has represented or currently represents the employee [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6(a)(3); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6(a)(4) ("labor organization" defined)]. Any employee whose employment records are sought by a subpoena duces tecum under Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6 may bring a motion to quash or modify the subpoena under Code Civ. Proc. § 1987.1 [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6(f)(1); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1987.1(a)]. However, nothing in Code Civ. Proc. § 1987.1 requires a person to move to quash, modify, or condition any subpoena duces tecum of employment records of any employee served under Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6(b)(1) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1987.1(c)].

The protections under Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6 for employment records extend to deposition subpoenas [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.410(d), 2020.510(c), (d)].

For further discussion and forms relating to employment records, see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

[3] In Connection With Actions Involving Free Speech Rights

A person whose personally identifying information is sought in connection with an action involving that person's free speech rights may bring a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 1987.1(a) to quash or modify the subpoena [Code Civ. Proc. § 1987.1(a)]. For this purpose, "personally identifying information" includes the following [Civ. Code § 1798.79.8]:

- First and last name or last name only.

- Home or other physical address, including, but not limited to, a street name or ZIP Code, other than an address obtained pursuant to the California Safe At Home program or a business mailing address for the victim service provider.

- Electronic mail address or other online contact information such as an instant messaging user identifier or a screen name that reveals an individual's electronic mail address.

- Telephone number, other than a business telephone number for a victim service provider.

- Social security number.
- Date of birth, with the exception of the year of birth.
- Internet protocol address or host name that identifies an individual.
- Any other information, including, but not limited to, the first and last names of children and relatives, racial or ethnic background, or religious affiliation, that, in combination with any other nonpersonally identifying information, would serve to identify any individual.

For further discussion and forms relating to protection of this information when it is sought in connection with an action involving a person's free speech rights, see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

§ 191.122 News Reporter's Qualified First Amendment Privilege

In addition to the newsperson's shield of immunity from contempt, discussed in § 191.123, the Supreme Court has recognized that a reporter, editor, or publisher has a qualified privilege to withhold disclosure of the identity of confidential sources and of unpublished information supplied by those sources. This privilege arises under the constitutional protections for freedom of the press (U.S. Const., amend. I; Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(a)) [Mitchell v. Superior Court (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 268, 274, 279, 283-284, 208 Cal. Rptr. 152, 690 P.2d 625 ; see also Anti-Defamation League of B'Nai B'rith v. Superior Court (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 1072, 1083, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 597 ; Shoen v. Shoen (9th Cir. 1993) 5 F.3d 1289, 1292-1296 ; KSDO v. Superior Court (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 375, 384-386, 186 Cal. Rptr.211] . The privilege is available to online journalists [O'Grady v. Superior Court (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 1423, 1468, 44 Cal. Rptr.3d 72] . Each case should be determined by balancing the following considerations:

- The nature of the litigation and whether the newsperson is a party [Mitchell v. Superior Court (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 268, 279-280, 208 Cal. Rptr. 152, 690 P.2d 625 (disclosure generally appropriate when newsperson is defendant in defamation action)]. If the newsperson is not a party, consideration of the qualified privilege may be unnecessary in view of the separate contempt immunity afforded under Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(b), and Evid. Code § 1070 [see Playboy Enterprises, Inc. v. Superior Court (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 14, 23-29, 201 Cal. Rptr. 207] .

- The degree of relevance of the information sought to the plaintiff's cause of action. Disclosure should be denied unless the information goes to the heart of the plaintiff's claim [Mitchell v. Superior Court (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 268, 280-282, 208 Cal. Rptr. 152, 690 P.2d 625 (discovery of information relating to alleged libel may be essential to prove actual malice)].

- Whether the party seeking discovery has exhausted all alternative sources of obtaining the needed information, because compulsory disclosure of sources is a last resort, permissible only if there is no other practical means of obtaining the information [Mitchell v. Superior Court (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 268, 282, 208 Cal. Rptr. 152, 690 P.2d 625 ; see, e.g., O'Grady v. Superior Court (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 1423, 1468-1480, 44 Cal. Rptr.3d 72 (applying Mitchell's balancing process to conclude that dis- covery of petitioner online news magazines' sources was barred by news reporter's qualified first amendment privilege against compulsory disclosure of confidential sources, because real party in interest failed to show that it had exhausted alternative avenues of investigation)].

- The importance of protecting confidentiality in the case at bench [Mitchell v. Superior Court (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 268, 282-283, 208 Cal. Rptr. 152, 690 P.2d 625 (nondisclosure proper if information of great public importance and risk of harm to source substantial)].

- In a defamation action in which a newsperson is a defendant, the court may, before permitting discovery, require plaintiff first to make a prima facie showing that the alleged defamatory statements are false [Mitchell v. Superior Court (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 268, 283, 208 Cal. Rptr. 152, 690 P.2d 625] .

The newsperson's qualified privilege protects freedom of the press by protecting confidential sources. Consequently, the privilege is properly used as a "shield," not as a "sword." In other words, a newsperson is not entitled to assert the privilege as plaintiff or cross complainant when placing in issue the veracity or existence of the confidential news source [see Dalitz v. Penthouse International, Ltd. (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 468, 477, 214 Cal. Rptr. 254 (dismissal of publisher's action appropriate after reporters refused to reveal sources essential to defense)].

§ 191.123 Newsperson's Immunity From Contempt

[1] "Shield Law" Protection Against Disclosure of Sources or Unpublished Information

To protect the free flow of information, the California Legislature enacted the "shield law" [Evid. Code § 1070] to provide news reporters with immunity against being held in contempt for refusing to answer questions concerning information sources or unpublished information [Evid. Code § 1070; see Rosato v. Superior Court (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 190, 217, 124 Cal. Rptr. 427] . The California Constitution was amended in 1980 to add essentially the same provision that is contained in Evid. Code § 1070 [see Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(b); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1986.1, discussed in [5], below].

Evid. Code § 1070(a) protects publishers, editors, or other persons connected with or employed either on a newspaper, magazine, or other periodical publication or by a press association or wire service, or persons who have been so connected or employed, by providing that such persons cannot be adjudged in contempt by a judicial, legislative, or administrative body, or by any other body having the power to issue subpoenas, for refusing to disclose in a proceeding [see Evid. Code § 901] the source of any information procured while so connected or employed for publication in a newspaper, magazine, or other periodical publication or for refusing to disclose unpublished information obtained or prepared in the gathering, receiving, or processing of information for communication to the public [Evid. Code § 1070(a); see Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(b); see New York Times Co. v. Superior Court (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 453, 458, 273 Cal. Rptr. 98, 796 P.2d 811 ; Delaney v. Superior Court (1990) 50 Cal. 3d 785, 796-797, 268 Cal. Rptr. 753, 789 P.2d 934] . One court of appeal has held that the phrase "newspaper, magazine, or other periodical publication" includes online news "magazines" [O'Grady v. Superior Court (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 1423, 1460-1466, 44 Cal. Rptr.3d 72 (online news publishers were protected by shield law)].

Evid. Code § 1070(b) affords the same protection to radio or television news reporters, or other persons connected with or employed by radio or television stations, or persons who have been so connected or employed, by providing that such persons cannot be adjudged in contempt for refusing to disclose the source of any information procured while so connected or employed for news or news commentary purposes on radio or television or for refusing to disclose any unpublished information obtained or prepared in the gathering, receiving, or processing of information for communication to the public [Evid. Code § 1070(b); see Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(b)].

[2] Scope of Immunity

[a] Limited to Protection From Contempt Proceedings

Although the California newsperson's "shield law" is codified under Evid. Code § 1070 in the same division of the Evidence Code that sets outstatutory privileges, it is not actually an evidentiary privilege. The "shield law" of Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(b) and Evid. Code § 1070 provides only immunity from contempt [New York Times Co. v. Superior Court (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 453, 458, 273 Cal. Rptr. 98, 796 P.2d 811 ; Delaney v. Superior Court (1990) 50 Cal. 3d 785, 797 n.6, 268 Cal. Rptr. 753, 789 P.2d 934 (disapproving, to the extent they suggest the contrary, Hammarley v. Superior Court (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 388, 153 Cal. Rptr. 608 , and CBS, Inc. v. Superior Court (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 241, 149 Cal. Rptr. 421)].

This immunity from contempt grants to nonparty witnesses virtually absolute protection against compelled disclosure, because contempt is generally the only effective remedy against nonparty witnesses [Mitchell v. Superior Court (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 268, 274, 208 Cal. Rptr. 152, 690 P.2d 625 ; see also Playboy Enterprises, Inc. v. Superior Court (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 14, 23-28, 201 Cal. Rptr. 207 ; Rosato v. Superior Court (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 190, 217-219, 124 Cal. Rptr. 427] . However, the immunity does not provide protection against sanctions other than contempt that may be invoked against a party to civil litigation [Mitchell v. Superior Court (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 268, 274, 208 Cal. Rptr. 152, 690 P.2d 625 ; KSDO v. Superior Court (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 375, 383, 186 Cal. Rptr. 211] .

For discussion of a separate, qualified news reporter's privilege, which may be applicable in civil litigation, see § 191.122.

The scope of the newsperson's immunity from prosecution for contempt contained in Evid. Code § 1070(a), (b) extends to unpublished information which includes information not disseminated to the public by the reporter from whom disclosure is sought, whether or not related information has been disseminated. The immunity also includes, but is not limited to, all notes, out takes, photographs, tapes, or other data of whatever sort not itself disseminated to the public through a medium of communication, whether or not published information based on or related to such material has been disseminated [Evid. Code § 1070(c); see Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(b); see Delaney v. Superior Court (1990) 50 Cal. 3d 785, 799, 268 Cal. Rptr. 753, 789 P.2d 934] .

Thus, "unpublished information" includes a news reporter's unpublished, nonconfidential eyewitness observations of an occurrence in a public place, and is not restricted to information obtained in confidence by a newsperson [Delaney v. Superior Court (1990) 50 Cal. 3d 785, 797-800, 268 Cal. Rptr. 753, 789 P.2d 934 (disapproving CBS, Inc. v. Superior Court (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 241, 149 Cal. Rptr. 421 , to the extent it holds or suggests that the shield law protects only confidential information); see also New York Times Co. v. Superior Court (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 453, 461, 273 Cal. Rptr. 98, 796 P.2d 811] .

"Unpublished information," however, does not include information relating to paid advertisements or "advertorials," expressing the views of thosewho paid for the advertisements, when the newspaper or other entity in which the paid advertisements were published has not shown that it obtained the advertisements for the journalistic purpose of communicating information to the public. A newspaper or other entity asserting the shield law must make a threshold showing of intent to publish such advertisements as part of its editorial process or as a communication of news or commentary on matters of public interest [Rancho Publications v. Superior Court (1999) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1538, 1546, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 274 (basing its holding on fact that publisher relinquished any newsgathering function, sold its editorial prerogatives, and "acted as nothing more than a paid mouthpiece," but emphasizing that it did not reach the issue of what legitimate journalistic activities are encompassed by the shield law's phrase "information for communication to the public")].

Direct testimony regarding published information does not constitute a waiver of the right to refuse to discuss related unpublished information, because the shield law explicitly provides that unpublished information remains protected whether or not related information has been disseminated [Fost v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 724, 735, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 620] .

If a trial court holds a journalist in contempt of court in a criminal proceeding notwithstanding the constitutional immunity of Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(b), the court must set out findings, either in writing or on the record, stating, at a minimum, why the information will be of material assistance to the party seeking evidence, and why alternate sources of the information are not sufficient to satisfy the defendant's right to a fair trial under the Sixth Amendment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1986.1(c); see also discussion in [5], below].

[c] Identity of Source

The shield law's contempt immunity extends not only to the identity of the source but, in the absence of any constitutional or other limitation on the exercise of the immunity, to the disclosure of any information, in whatever form, which may tend to reveal the source of the information. As in the case of the privilege against self-incrimination, the burden is on the reporter claiming the privilege to show that the testimony may tend to lead to that source. However, this burden is not a heavy one [Rosato v. Superior Court (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 190, 217-218, 124 Cal. Rptr. 427] .

[3] Determining When Shield Law Applies

In determining whether a news reporter may invoke the immunity in response to a question, the court must consider not only the questioner's offered evidence but the matters disclosed in argument, the implication of the question, the setting in which it is asked, and all other relevant factors [Rosato v. Superior Court (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 190, 218, 124 Cal. Rptr. 427] .

[4] Limitations on Contempt Immunity

[a] Criminal Activity

Evid. Code § 1070(a) and (b) may not be used to shield news reporters from testifying about criminal activity in which they have participated or which they have observed. In this respect, the protection afforded news reporters by Evid. Code § 1070(a), (b), as well as the rights guaranteed by the U.S. Const., amend. I, do not reach so far as to override the interest of the public in insuring that neither reporter nor source is invading the rights of other citizens through reprehensible conduct forbidden to all other persons [Rosato v. Superior Court (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 190, 218-219, 124 Cal. Rptr. 427 (quoting in part from Branzburg v. Hayes (1972) 408 U.S. 665, 691-692, 92 S. Ct. 2646, 33 L. Ed. 2d 626); see also Hammarley v. Superior Court (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 388, 400-401, 153 Cal. Rptr. 608 (privilege does not exclude evidence required to enforce defendant's constitutional right meaningfully to confront and cross-examine primary accuser with benefit of all evidence reasonably available); disapproved to the extent the court characterizes the protection afforded news reporters by Evid. Code § 1070(a), (b) as a "privilege" in Delaney v. Superior Court (1990) 50 Cal. 3d 785, 797 n.7, 268 Cal. Rptr. 753, 789 P.2d 934] .

Since the newsperson's contempt immunity is a constitutional as well as a statutory protection, the court must balance the immunity against a criminal defendant's right to a fair trial, to consider whether the latter right may be compromised if the newsperson fails to disclose his or her source [In re Willon (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 1080, 1090, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 245] . The court's balancing test should encompass two principal considerations [In Willon (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 1080, 1099, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 245] :

- Whether there is a "substantial probability of future violations or 'leaks' " that will impair defendant's right to a fair trial; and

- Whether there are reasonable alternatives to disclosure.

Shield-law immunity is not overcome by the prosecutor's need for evidence in a criminal prosecution. The prosecution's right to due process is not equivalent to a criminal defendant's right to due process and, therefore, does not carry the same weight as the federal rights enjoyed by a criminal defendant [Miller v. Superior Court (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 883, 896-897, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 834, 986 P.2d 170 (prosecution in criminal proceeding does not have constitutional interest sufficient to require disclosure of information otherwise protected by shield law)]. Consequently, prosecutors are not entitled to unpublished information because they can show that it is relevant to their case [Miller v. Superior Court (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 883, 897, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 834, 986 P.2d 170 (unbroadcast portion of interview with criminal defendant by newsperson is "unpublished information" within meaning of Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(b) and is thus protected by that constitutional provision)]. Rather, a newsperson's protection under the shield lawis absolute and yields only to a "conflicting federal or, perhaps, state constitutional right" [Miller v. Superior Court (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 883, 901, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 834, 986 P.2d 170 ; see, e.g., Fost v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 724, 733-734, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 620 (when defense witness in criminal proceeding resists cross-examination on the basis of shield law, court may properly strike that witness's direct testimony, unless defendant can show that to do so would deprive defendant of the constitutional right to fair trial and that defendant's right, under the circumstances of the case, transcends that of the witness under the shield law; on such showing the court may admit the witness' direct testimony and the witness may be held in contempt for refusing to respond to proper cross-examination seeking information otherwise be protected under shield law)].

[b] Violation of Court Order

Evid. Code § 1070(a) and (b) may not be used as a shield against being required to answer any question which may tend to identify who, if anyone, among those subject to a court's order, may have violated that order. This second limitation springs from the inherent power of the judiciary as a separate and coequal branch of the tripartite governmental structure to control its own proceedings and officers. Thus, a court has the necessary power to explore the violation of its orders by those subject thereto as a means of enforcing its own orders, such as orders fulfilling its constitutional obligation to prevent prejudicial publicity from emanating from its officers [Rosato v. Superior Court (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 190, 221, 222, 224, 124 Cal. Rptr. 427 ; Farr v. Superior Court (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 60, 68-71, 99 Cal. Rptr. 342] .

[c] Newsperson Not Engaged in News Gathering

The immunity provides no protection for information obtained by a newsperson not directly engaged in gathering, receiving, or processing news. When a newsperson is not on the job, he or she is no different from any other citizen [Delaney v. Superior Court (1990) 50 Cal. 3d 785, 797-798 n.8, 268 Cal. Rptr. 753, 789 P.2d 934 ; see O'Grady v. Superior Court (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 1423, 1459, 44 Cal. Rptr.3d 72 ("open and deliberate" publication on news-oriented Web site of news gathered for that purpose by site's operators was indistinguishable from publishing a newspaper with respect to application of shield law)].

[5] Related Subpoena Procedures

One of the subpoena statutes, Code Civ. Proc. § 1986.1, provides additional protections and procedures with respect to the news reporter's contempt immunity set out in Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(b), as follows:

- No testimony or other evidence given by a journalist under subpoena may be construed as a waiver of the immunity rights provided by Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(b) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1986.1(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1986.1(d) (defining "journalist" as person specified in Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(b))].

- Except in exigent circumstances, a journalist who is subpoenaed must be given at least five days' notice that his or her appearance will be required [Code Civ. Proc. § 1986.1(b)].

- If a trial court holds a journalist in contempt of court in a criminal proceeding despite the constitutional provision [see discussion in [4][a], above], the court must set out findings, either in writing or on the record, stating, at a minimum, why the information will be of material assistance to the party seeking evidence, and why alternate sources of the information are not sufficient to satisfy the defendant's right to a fair trial under the Sixth Amendment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1986.1(c)].

For detailed discussion and forms relating to general subpoena procedures, see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

[6] Appellate Review

Because the shield law (Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(b); Evid. Code § 1070) provides only an immunity from contempt, and not a privilege, a newsperson may not seek extraordinary writ relief from an adverse trial court ruling under the shield law before the newsperson is adjudged in contempt. Thus, a newsperson's petition for extraordinary relief is premature until a judgment of contempt has been entered [New York Times Co. v. Superior Court (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 453, 458-460, 273 Cal. Rptr. 98, 796 P.2d 811 (disapproving the contrary holding in CBS, Inc. v. Superior Court (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 241, 247, 149 Cal. Rptr. 421 .

To avoid confinement under a contempt judgment that may subsequently be set aside, a trial court should stay its judgment to allow the contemner newsperson sufficient time to seek writ relief if the trial court believes there is any colorable argument the contemner can make against the judgment. If the trial court nevertheless declines to issue a stay, the reviewing court should do so pending its decision [New York Times Co. v. Superior Court (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 453, 460, 273 Cal. Rptr. 98, 796 P.2d 811] .

§ 191.124 Tax Returns

[1] Protected Documents and Information

Various statutes have been interpreted as providing a privilege not to disclose tax returns or the information that they contain [Wilson v. Superior Court (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 825, 828, 134 Cal. Rptr. 130] . This privilege applies to the following:

- Federal and state income taxes [see Webb v. Standard Oil Co. (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 509, 513-514, 319 P.2d 621 ; King v. Mobile Home Rent Review Bd. (1990) 216 Cal. App. 3d 1532, 1538, 265 Cal. Rptr. 624 (cases construing former Rev. & Tax. Code § 19282; now see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19542 et seq.)].

- Individual income tax returns submitted to a bank for the purpose of obtaining a loan [see Fortunato v. Superior Court (2003) 114 Cal. App 4th 475, 480-482, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 82 (reasoning that compliance with bank's requirement of submitting tax returns with loan application is not "entirely voluntary relinquishment," and noting that bank customer also has reasonable expectation of privacy in confidential information submitted with loan application and that when waiver of confidentiality of tax returns is argued, court should conduct in camera inspection to balance need for discovery against interests in privacy)].

- Estate tax returns [see Deary v. Superior Court (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1072, 1077-1078, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 132 (statutory tax return privilege protected estate tax returns from disclosure, given that defendants had not waived privilege and plaintiffs did not demonstrate any supervening public policy)].

- W-2 forms [Brown v. Superior Court (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 141, 142-144, 139 Cal. Rptr. 237] .

- Corporate income taxes [see Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 704, 718-722, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 854 P. 2d 1117] ;[see Aday v. Superior Court (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 789, 796-797, 13 Cal. Rptr. 415, 362 P.2d 47 (cases construing former Rev. & Tax. Code § 26451 et seq.; now see Rev. & Tax.

Code § 19542 et seq.)].

- Employment taxes [see Unemp. Ins. Code §§ 1094, 2111; Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 704, 718-722, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 854 P. 2d 1117 (payroll taxes); Crest Catering Co. v. Superior Court (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 274, 276-277, 42 Cal. Rptr. 110, 398 P.2d 150] .

- Sales taxes [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 7056; Sav-On Drugs, Inc. v. Superior Court (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 1, 607, 123 Cal. Rptr. 283, 539 P.2d 739] .

[2] Waiver or Inapplicability of Protection

The discovery privilege for tax information is not absolute [Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 704, 721, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 854 P.2d 1117] . The privilege against disclosing state or federal income tax returns may be waived or does not apply under any of the following circumstances:

- When there is an intentional relinquishment [Crest Catering Co. v. Superior Court (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 274, 278, 42 Cal. Rptr. 110, 398 P.2d 150 ; National Football League Properties, Inc. v. Superior Court (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 100, 106-107, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 893] .

- The gravamen of the lawsuit is so inconsistent with the continued assertion of the taxpayer's privilege as to compel the conclusion that the privilege has in fact been waived [Wilson v. Superior Court (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 825, 830, 134 Cal. Rptr. 130] .

- A public policy greater than that of confidentiality of tax returns is involved [Miller v. Superior Court (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 145, 149, 139 Cal. Rptr. 521 (proceedings to enforce child support obligations); see In re Marriage of Sammut (1980) 103 Cal. App. 3d 557, 560, 163 Cal. Rptr. 193 (summarizing of decisions)]. The public-policy exception is construed narrowly, and only applies if warranted by a legislatively declared public policy [Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 704, 721, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 854 P.2d 1117] . For example, the tax privilege was inapplicable when the record showed that defendant in a civil suit engaged in conduct precluding plaintiffs from obtaining relevant nonprivileged financial information necessary to support plaintiffs' punitive damages claim, and there was no less intrusive alternative for plaintiffs to obtain the information [Weingarten v. Superior Court (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 268, 271, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 371 (requiring that defendant's husband receive notice and opportunity to be heard before court could compel disclosure of joint tax returns)]. Further, the privilege does not extend to foreign tax returns [Firestone v. Hoffman (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1408, 1420, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 534 (neither Civ. Code § 1799.1a nor Bus. & Prof. Code § 17530.5 creates privilege shielding litigant from discovery of litigant's own tax returns or making those returns inadmissible at trial, and neither statute applies to foreign tax returns; although California case law does create privilege for tax returns, that privilege does not apply to foreign taxes)].

In addition, statutory provisions may preclude application of the privilege against disclosure of state and federal tax returns. For example, state and federal tax returns of a party to any proceeding involving child or spousal support are specifically discoverable [Fam. Code § 3552; see Thomas B. v. Superior Court (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 255, 261-263, 220 Cal. Rptr. 577 (former Civ. Code § 4700.7, now see Fam. Code § 3552, applies only when parentage has been conclusively established); see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 19548 (FTB disclosure to California Parent Locator Service)].

In a marital dissolution proceeding, a spouse is entitled to discovery of tax records involving the other spouse, since the Legislature has established a strong policy of full disclosure in dissolution proceedings. Thus, for example, a spouse is entitled to discovery of the corporate tax returns of a close corporation in which the other spouse has an interest, since such returns are related to the parties' interest in determining the value of the corporation and in ascertaining their financial status. The spouse is also entitled to discovery of the corporation's quarterly payroll tax returns regarding the other spouse, but is not entitled to discovery of the corporation's quarterly payroll tax returns identifying third persons absent a specific showing of relevance or need for those returns [Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 704, 722-723, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 854 P.2d 1117 ; see also discussion in § 191.120[6][b]].

§ 191.125A Mediation Efforts

[1] Protected Communications

Evid. Code § 1115 et seq. governs all mediation proceedings except Family Conciliation Court proceedings under Fam. Code § 1800 et seq., Mediation of custody and visitation issue proceedings under Fam. Code § 3160 et seq., and mandatory settlement conferences under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1380 [Evid. Code § 1117].

Evidence of anything said, or of any admission made, in the course of the mediation is inadmissible, not subject to discovery, and disclosure of the evidence may not be compelled [Evid. Code § 1119(a)]. In addition, any writing, as defined in Evid. Code § 250, prepared for the purpose of, in the course of, or pursuant to the mediation is inadmissible, not subject to discovery, and its disclosure may not be compelled [Evid. Code § 1119(b)].

Communications between an attorney and the attorney's client cannot be considered "for the purpose of, in the course of, or pursuant to" a mediation under Evid. Code § 1119(a) [Porter v. Wyner (2010) 183 Cal. App. 4th 949, 961, 107 Cal. Rptr. 3d 653 , modified, 5/10/2010 ("A mediation is not conducted to resolve a dispute between a lawyer and the client the attorney represents.")]. Thus, for example, in a case in which plaintiff clients alleged that their attorneys had promised, during a mediation of a lawsuit in which the attorneys had represented them, to pay the clients certain proceeds from their attorney's fees, evidence of those communications was not protected by the mediation privilege. The disputants in mediation are not the attorney and the attorney's client; they are the parties who file the lawsuit. Thus, the communications at issue were not communications between disputants and a mediator within the meaning of Evid. Code § 1115(a), and were not inadmissible under Evid. Code, § 1119(a) [Porter v. Wyner (2010) 183 Cal. App. 4th 949, 961-962, 107 Cal. Rptr. 3d 653 , modified, 5/10/2010].

Under Evid. Code § 1119(b), photographs, videotapes, witness statements, and raw test data from physical samples, prepared "for the purpose of, in the course of, or pursuant to, a mediation," are protected by the mediation privilege, and therefore are not admissible at trial and not subject to discovery [Rojas v. Superior Court (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 407, 423, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 643, 93 P. 3d 260 (court of appeal's contrary conclusion that so-called "non-derivative" materials (raw test data, photographs, and witness statements taken for purposes of mediation) are not protected under Evid. Code § 1119 is directly at odds with plain language of mediation confidentiality provisions and inconsistent with legislative history and intent)]. Moreover, there is no "good cause" exception to Evid. Code § 1119(b)'s protection [Rojas v. Superior Court (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 407, 423-424, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 643, 93 P. 3d 260 (rejecting court of appeal's conclusion that "derivative" materials, such as charts, diagrams, information compilations, and expert opinions and reports, are still discoverable under Evid. Code § 1119(b) "upon a showing of good cause")]. Similarly, estoppel cannot be applied to prevent a defendant from tardily claiming mediation confidentiality [Simmons v. Ghaderi (2008) 44 Cal. 4th 570, 584, 80 Cal. Rptr. 3d 83, 187 P.3d 934 (legislative intent was to promote mediation by ensuring confidentiality, not to adopt scheme to ensure good behavior in mediation and litigation process)]. Thus, disclosure of communications made during mediation is "unqualifiedly bar[red]," absent express statutory exception [Foxgate Homeowners Assn. v. Bramalea Cal. (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 1, 15, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 642, 25 P.3d 1117 ; see, e.g., Wimsatt v. Superior Court (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 137, 142, 158-163, 61 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200 (rejecting nonstatutory "good cause" exception even if strict limitations of mediation confidentiality shielded perjury and inconsistent statements)].

Additionally, all communications, negotiations, or settlement discussions by and between participants or mediators in the mediation are confidential [Evid. Code § 1119(c)]. Thus, no evidence of communications made during the mediation may be admitted or considered in support of an assertion that a party to the mediation engaged in conduct that warrants sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5(a) [Foxgate Homeowners Ass'n. v. Bramalea California (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 1, 15, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 642 (assuming, without deciding, that court that ordered mediation may impose sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5(a) based on conduct during mediation, but declining to create judicial exception for reporting bad faith conduct or for imposition of sanctions under that section when doing so would require disclosure of communications or mediator's assessment of party's conduct)]. Moreover a party cannot impliedly waive mediation confidentiality through litigation conduct, because Evid. Code § 1122 requires waiver to be express, not implied [Simmons v. Ghaderi (2008) 44 Cal. 4th 570, 587-588, 80 Cal. Rptr. 3d 83, 187 P.3d 934 (mediation confidentiality statutes precluded plaintiffs from proving existence of oral settlement agreement between plaintiffs and defendant during mediation, even though defendant had relied on mediation confidentiality to shield from the court facts she had stipulated to be true and had extensively litigated without raising that defense); Eisendrath v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 351, 360-361, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 716 (mediation participants cannot impliedly waive confidentiality by raising claim about agreement reached through mediation, relying on Foxgate].

[2] Communications Subject to Discovery

Evid. Code § 1122 provides that a communication or writing [see Evid. Code § 250], made or prepared for during the course of a mediation, is admissible, and subject to discovery, if either of the following conditions is satisfied:

- All persons who conduct or otherwise participate in the mediation expressly agree in writing, or orally in accordance with Evid. Code § 1118, to disclosure of the communication, document, or writing [Evid. Code § 1122(a)(1)].

- The communication, document, or writing was prepared by or on behalf of fewer than all the mediation participants, those participants expressly agree in writing, or orally in accordance with Evid. Code § 1118, to its disclosure, and the communication, document, or writing does not disclose anything said or done or any admission made in the course of the mediation [Evid. Code § 1122(a)(2)].

Evid. Code § 1122(a)(2) prevents the disclosure of admissions even by the party who made them [Doe 1 v. Superior Court (Roman Catholic Archbishop of Los Angeles) (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 1160, 1168, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 248] . Thus, for example, the Los Angeles Archbishop, the principal defendant in some 500 lawsuits, could not disclose written summaries made of the personnel records of numerous priests accused of sexually molesting minors. Because those summaries were prepared for purposes of an ongoing mediation process, contained admissions of liability by the Archdiocese, and revealed something about the mediation discussion, their disclosure would violate Evid. Code § 1122(a)(2) [Doe 1 v. Superior Court (Roman Catholic Archbishop of Los Angeles) (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 1160, 1163, 1168, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 248] . Although Evid. Code § 1122(a)(1) permitted disclosure of mediation communications if all participants agreed to the disclosure, that provision did not apply because petitioners were mediation participants [Doe 1 v. Superior Court (Roman Catholic Archbishop of Los Angeles) (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 1160, 1169, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 248] .

In addition, all or any part of a written settlement agreement made during the course of mediation is admissible, and subject to discovery, to show fraud, duress, or illegality if relevant to an issue in dispute [Evid. Code § 1123(d)], provided the agreement is signed by the settling parties and provides that it is admissible, or enforceable, or "words to that effect," and all parties to the agreement expressly agree in writing, or orally in accordance with Evid. Code § 1118, to its disclosure [Evid. Code § 1123(a)-(c)]. There is no requirement that the agreement regarding disclosure be made at or after the time of the settlement [Estate of Thottam (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 1331, 1339, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 856 (mediation and confidentiality agreement satisfied exception to mediation confidentiality, even though it was executed before parties allegedly entered into settlement agreement); see Evid. Code § 1123(c)].

A settlement agreement is admissible under Evid. Code § 1123 and is not rendered unenforceable simply because it has not been signed personally by each of the litigants, provided that the written waiver was signed by each of the settling parties or their respective counsel [Stewart v. Preston Pipeline Inc. (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 1565, 1569, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 901 (rejecting plaintiff's contention that settlement agreement signed after mediation was inadmissible in subsequent action to enforce settlement, because parties' counsel (as opposed to the parties themselves) signed mediation-confidentiality waiver)].

However, a settlement agreement prepared in mediation that includes an arbitration provision is not deprived of confidentiality under Evid. Code § 1123(b)--which provides that such an agreement is not protected from disclosure if it is signed by the settling parties and the "agreement provides that it is enforceable or binding or words to that effect"--simply by including the arbitration provision [Fair v. Bakhtiari (2006) 40 Cal. 4th 189, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 871, 147 P.3d 653] . To satisfy Evid. Code § 1123(b), a settlement agreement must include "a statement that it is 'enforceable' or 'binding,' or a declaration in other terms" that makes clear that it reflects an agreement and is not simply a memorandum of terms to be included in a future agreement [Fair v. Bakhtiari (2006) 40 Cal. 4th 189, 199-200, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 871, 147 P.3d 653 (observing that the "statute leaves room for various formulations")]. Although the writing need not be in "finished form" to be admissible under Evid. Code § 1123(b), it must be signed by the parties and include a "direct statement to the effect that it is enforceable or binding" [Fair v. Bakhtiari (2006) 40 Cal. 4th 189, 192, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 871, 147 P.3d 653 ; see, e.g., Estate of Thottam (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 1331, 1340, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 856 (chart designating specific allocations of listed assets in decedent's estate was "written settlement agreement" within meaning of Evid. Code § 1123; items on chart, while "lacking in formality," were sufficiently clear to determine obligations to which parties agreed).]. However, "arbitration clauses, forum selection clauses, choice of law provisions, terms contemplating remedies for breach, and similar commonly employed enforcement provisions typically negotiated in settlement discussions" do not qualify an agreement for admission under Evid. Code § 1123(b) [Fair v. Bakhtiari (2006) 40 Cal. 4th 189, 200, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 871, 147 P.3d 653 (arbitration clause included in handwritten single-page memorandum captioned "settlement terms," signed after mediation session, did not satisfy Evid. Code § 1123(b)'s requirement that written settlement agreement "provides that it is enforceable or binding or words to that effect," and thus settlement memorandum was inadmissible)].

Finally, evidence otherwise admissible or subject to discovery outside of mediation cannot be made inadmissible or protected from disclosure solely by reason of its introduction or use in a mediation [Evid. Code § 1120(a); see, e.g., Cassel v. Superior Court (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 152, 164, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 501 (communications between client and his law firm, two weeks before trial, were for trial strategy preparation, not just for mediation of underlying lawsuit, and therefore were not protected by either Evid. Code § 1119(a), (b), or Evid. Code § 1119(c); firm failed to demonstrate sufficiently close link between communications and mediation to require application of mediation confidentiality protection)].

For general discussion of mediation, including confidentiality, see Ch. 31, Mediation .

Records and proceedings of the following committees organized to evaluate and improve the quality of health care are not subject to discovery under certain circumstances:

- Committees of medical, dental, pediatric, dietetic, psychological, or veterinary staffs in hospitals that evaluate or improve the quality of care rendered in the hospital [Evid. Code § 1157(a); see Fox v. Kramer (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 531, 540-548, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 497, 994 P.2d 374 (hospital's peer-review committee records are immune from discovery under Evid. Code § 1157(a), and defendants could not obtain the equivalent of discovery of contents of hospital peer-review committee records by subpoenaing state investigator to give expert testimony or refer at trial to his draft preliminary report when his conclusions were based on hospital peer-review committee records reviewed in course of his official duties for public agency); County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 8, 14-15, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 390 (documents pertaining to review of medical and mental health care complaints by quality assurance committee for county's jail mental health services agency were exempt from disclosure because they met criteria of Evid. Code § 1157 for documents generated by peer review bodies, and of Evid. Code § 1157.6 for correctional treatment quality assurance committees)].

- Review committees of state or local medical, dental, dental hygenist, pediatric, dietetic, psychological, marriage and family therapist, licensed clinical social worker, chiropractic, acupuncturist, or veterinary societies or associations that evaluate or improve the quality of care [Evid. Code § 1157(a)].

- Committees of nonprofit medical care foundations or professional standards review organizations that review professional competence in relation to medical necessity, quality of care, charges for, or level of care [Evid. Code § 1157.5].

- Local government agency committees established to monitor the necessity, quality, and level of specialty health services [Evid. Code § 1157.7].

- Committees established by statute to evaluate and improve county mental health care [Evid. Code § 1157.6; see County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 8, 14-15, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 390 (documents pertaining to review of medical and mental health care complaints by quality assurance committee for county's jail mental health services agency were exempt from disclosure because they met criteria of Evid. Code § 1157.6 for correctional treatment quality assurance committees, as well as of Evid. Code § 1157); see also Evid. Code §§ 1156, 1156.1 (records and proceedings of certain committees subject to discovery but inadmissible under certain circumstances)].

- Committees of health care plans, and nonprofit hospital service plans issuing comprehensive health care contracts that review the quality of care, performance of medical personnel, utilization of services and facilities, and costs [Health & Safety Code § 1370].

- Peer review bodies (defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 805) that evaluate and improve the quality of care rendered by their members [Evid. Code § 1157(a)].

For further discussion of protection against discovery under Evid. Code § 1156 et seq., see Ch. 295, Hospitals .

A similar statutory protection exists in favor of records pertaining to treatment of a pharmacist under the Pharmacists Recovery Program (Bus. & Prof. Code § 4360 et seq.) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4372; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 156.1(b) (records pertaining to treatment of persons who are impaired by alcohol or dangerous drugs and who are subject to licensing governed by Department of Consumer Affairs are not subject to discovery)].

Evid. Code § 1157 exempts from discovery the proceedings, written evaluations and related records of a "Resident Evaluation Committee" that evaluated physician-residents enrolled in a post-graduate surgical training program [University of Southern California v. Superior Court (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 1283, 1289, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260] .

§ 191.127 Information Pertaining to AIDS Blood Test

Except as provided in Health & Safety Code § 1603.1 (required tests and reports for AIDS and viral hepatitis), 1603.3 (notice to donors of AIDS test and disclosure to local public health officer), or Health & Safety Code § 121022 (required reporting of cases of HIV infection to local health officers and to state Department of Health Services using patient names), no person will be compelled in any state, county, city, or other local, civil, criminal, administrative, legislative, or other proceeding to identity or provide identifying characteristics that would identify any individual who is the subject of a blood test to detect antibodies to HIV [Health & Safety Code § 120975; see also Health & Safety Code §§ 120980 (civil and criminal liability for wrongful disclosure of HIV test results), 121010 (permissible disclosure without written authorization), discussed in Ch. 429, Privacy, § 429.60 et seq.].

In keeping with its purpose of protecting the privacy of individuals who are the subject of blood testing for antibodies to HIV, Health & Safety Code § 120975 is construed in strict accordance with protecting an individual's identity [see, e.g., Irwin Memorial Blood Bank v. Superior Court (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 151, 279 Cal. Rptr. 911 (construing former Health & Safety Code § 199.20)]. For example, in a negligence action against a blood bank brought by individuals who had become infected with AIDS through transfusions of blood collected by the blood bank, the court of appeal denied the plaintiffs access to any information that might reveal the identity of any possible donor of the contaminated blood. The trial court had issued orders permitting discovery under very limited conditions that were carefully crafted to preserve the anonymity of each donor. The court of appeal found the procedures inadequate in light of former Health & Safety Code § 199.20 [now see Health & Safety Code § 120975]. The donor would be seen or heard during discovery, by at least the referee and the reporter, and a person's appearance and voice are obviously identifying characteristics. Moreover, the very production of a donor for deposition is an identification, in that until the donor arrivesto be deposed, he or she is a number unconnected to a person. Once the association between the number and person is made, the person has become identified [Irwin Memorial Blood Bank v. Superior Court (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 151, 156-157, 279 Cal. Rptr. 911] .

Although the court in Irwin found former Health & Safety Code § 199.20 to be determinative, and specifically did not address the issue of the donors' constitutional right to privacy, in some AIDS blood test cases privacy may be an issue [Irwin Memorial Blood Bank v. Superior Court (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 151, 153, 279 Cal. Rptr. 911 ; see discussion in

§ 191.128 Litigation Documents of Public Agency

The Public Records Act (Gov. Code § 6250 et seq.), modeled initially on the federal Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. § 552) provides procedures for obtaining information maintained in state public records. As such it is useful investigative tool that may be used outside the provisions of the Civil DiscoveryAct of 1986 [see discussion in Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.14[1]].

Gov. Code § 6254(b) provides one of more common exemptions from disclosure under the Public Records Act. Under this provision a public agency need not disclose records pertaining to pending litigation to which the agency is a party. This exemption applies to litigation-related documents the parties to the litigation do not intend to be revealed outside the litigation, when sought by non-party persons or entities [Board of Trustees of California State Univ. v. Superior Court (The Copley Press, Inc.) (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 889, 894, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 82 (parties intended that correspondence between them not be disclosed to third parties)]. However, deposition transcripts are not subject to the pending litigation exemption because they are available to the public under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.570 [Board of Trustees of California State Univ. v. Superior Court (The Copley Press, Inc.) (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 889, 894, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 82] .

This exemption essentially provides to public agencies a protection similar to the attorney-client privilege and attorney work product protection, which applies for a limited period while there is ongoing litigation.

Once the litigation is concluded, however, the exemption does not apply, and an individual may utilize the Public Records Act (Gov. Code § 6250 et seq.) to obtain documents generated in the litigation [see City of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 1083, 1085, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 35] .

The pending litigation exemption of Gov. Code § 6254(b) applies only to records created specifically for the purpose of pending litigation, and not to records created beforehand in the ordinary course of business [see 71 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 235, 238-239 (1988) ; Hansen, Using the Public Records Act to Supplement Discovery, 22 Civil Litigation Reporter 201 (Cal. CEB2000)]. The latter documents, not subject to the exemption, may thus be obtained by an individual under the Public Records Act, notwithstanding the fact that the individual is a party to pending litigation involving the public agency [see, e.g., County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 819, 826-830, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 564] .

For further discussion and forms relating to the Public Records Act generally, see Ch. 470C, Public Records Act .

§ 191.153 Decisions

[1] Discovery Permitted If Matter Is Relevant and Unprivileged

Information is discoverable under discovery statutes if unprivileged and either relevant to subject matter of action or reasonably calculated to reveal admissible evidence. Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 704, 711, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 854 P.2d 1117 ; Valley Bank of Nevada v. Superior Court (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 652, 655-656, 125 Cal. Rptr. 553, 542 P.2d 977 (interpreting statutes prior to 1986 enactment of Discovery Act)

[2] Privileges Generally

Courts are precluded from creating exceptions to privileges not specified by statute by policy of Evid. Code § 911 (limiting privileges to those specified by statute). Dickerson v. Superior Court (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 93, 99, 185 Cal. Rptr. 97

Trial court has authority to hold in camera hearing to determine (1) validity of assertion of attorney-client privilege by attorney suspected of criminal activity, and (2) whether work-product privilege applies to seized client files. People v. Superior Court (Bauman & Rose) (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 1757, 1767, 44 Cal. Rptr. 2d 734

[3] Privilege Against Self Incrimination

Although permitted to be called as witness, person in any proceeding is able to refuse to testify regarding any criminal conduct engaged in or concerning any other matter implicating criminal activity. Cramer v. Tyars (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 131, 138, 151 Cal. Rptr. 653, 588 P.2d 793

Ex-husband could not invoke privilege against self-incrimination in judgment debtor proceeding, because silence about his income would not have incriminated him, but instead, would have prevented him from defending against contempt charges for failure to comply with support orders. In re the Marriage of Sachs (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1144,

1161-1162, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 273

Plaintiff who refused to answer questions or produce documents at deposition on grounds of self-incrimination privilege is properly precluded from introducing evidence at trial or supporting or opposing designated claims or defenses to which deposition questions or documents related. Dwyer v. Crocker National Bank (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 1418, 1431-1432, 240 Cal. Rptr. 297

Civil defendants facing possible criminal prosecution based on same facts as civil case are able to assert privilege against self-incrimination. Brown v. Superior Court (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 701, 708, 711, 226 Cal. Rptr. 10

Privilege against self-incrimination is not applicable to matters that will subject witness to civil rather than criminal liability. Warford v. Medeiros (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 1035, 1039 n.1, 207 Cal. Rptr. 94

Order striking part of answer and proceeding to default is excessively harsh penalty for civil defendant's exercise of constitutional privilege against self-incrimination; appropriate penalty depends on whether party is plaintiff ordefendant. Alvarez v. Sanchez (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 709, 712-713, 715, 204 Cal. Rptr. 864

Availability of privilege against self-incrimination turns on degree of likelihood of claimant's undergoing punishment following conviction based on answers to interrogatories. Gonzales v. Superior Court (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 57, 68, 358 Cal. Rptr. 178

[4] Attorney-Client Privilege

[a] Claiming the Attorney-Client Privilege

Attorney-client privilege attaches to confidential communication between attorney and client and bars discovery of communication irrespective of whether it includes unprivileged material. Costco Wholesale Corp. v. Superior Court (2009) 47 Cal. 4th 725, 734, 219 P.3d 736

When there is a prima facie claim of attorney-client privilege, trial judge must accord a full hearing, with oral argument, before ordering revelation of client confidences. Titmas v. Superior Court (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 738, 740, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 803

Non-party had standing to make motion to assert attorney-client privilege to prevent disclosure of privileged material sought to be disclosed by party; non-party could not, however, move to intervene as party solely to assert privilege. Mylan Lab., Inc. v. Soon-Shiong (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 71, 73-74, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 111

Determination of whether particular employee statement was that of independent witness, and not related to scope of employee's duties, rests with trial court. Martin v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 333, 346-347, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 138 (remand to W.C.A.B. with directions to return case to workers' compensation judge for evidentiary hearing); overruled on other grounds, Costco Wholesale Corp. v. Superior Court (2009) 47 Cal. 4th 725, 739, 219 P.3d 736

[b] Corporation or Unincorporated Association as Client

Successor corporation was holder of attorney-client privilege of merged client corporation, and absent waiver by successor corporation, legal advice to client merged corporation was protected. Venture Law Group v. Superior Court (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 96, 105-106, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 656

Confidential occurrence reports prepared by hospital were protected by attorney-client privilege in wrongful death medical malpractice case because dominant purpose of reports was not accident prevention but rather was for transmittal to attorney in course of professional attorney-client relationship under circumstances in which hospital expected confidentiality. Scripps Health v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 529, 534-536, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 126

Because shareholders are not holders of attorney-client privilege, they do not effect waiver of that privilege by filing derivative suit; shareholder derivative suit for legal malpractice against corporation's outside counsel, brought inequity, could not proceed because shareholders could not waive privilege and absent waiver by corporate client, third-party attorney was effectively foreclosed from mounting any meaningful defense. McDermott, Will & Emery v. Superior Court (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 378, 383-385, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 622

Condominium association that brought construction defect lawsuit on its own behalf is holder of attorney-client privilege; individual condominium owners, who are not individually named as plaintiffs in the litigation, are not holders of privilege and cannot demand production of privileged documents. Smith v. Laguna Sur Villas Community Assn. (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 639, 643, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 321

Issue of ex parte communication prohibited by Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 2-100, and attorney-client privilege frequently arises in same case; scope and applicability of each to former corporate employee are not necessarily identical. Nalian Truck Lines, Inc. v. Nakano Warehouse & Transportation Corp. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1256, 1261-1265, 8 Cal Rptr. 2d 467

Ex parte contact by governmental authorities with employees and certain former employees of corporate defendant in civil and criminal proceedings involving alleged illegal dumping of hazardous waste did not violate privilege, when information sought concerns witnesses' nonprivileged observations occurring outside any attorney-client relationship; mere possibility that authorities may inadvertently or improperly obtain privileged information is insufficient basis for injunction preventing such contact. Triple A Machine Shop, Inc. v. State of California (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 131, 143-144, 261 Cal. Rptr. 493

Former employees who were not officers or agents responsible for directing company's actions in response to legal advice are third-party witnesses who may be contacted ex parte by opposing counsel; corporate party is entitled to seek protective order if it knew or suspected former employee was privy to privileged information and believed there was danger of disclosure in ex parte interview. Bobele v. Superior Court (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 708, 713-714, 245 Cal. Rptr. 144

Telephone conversations between members of redevelopment agency and its counsel were not privileged under attorney-client privilege, but constituted meeting in violation of Brown Act (Gov. Code §§ 54950-54961), because communications were not legal consultation regarding threatened or pending lawsuit and were not genuine occasion for attorney-client confidentiality. Stockton Newspapers, Inc. v. Redevelopment Agency (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 95, 104-105, 214 Cal. Rptr. 561

Attorney-client privilege exists for all corporations with no exception for shareholders of closely held corporations. Hoiles v. Superior Court (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 1192, 1198-1199, 204 Cal. Rptr. 111

No exception to attorney-client privilege exists under state law when client is corporation sued by shareholder in derivative suit. Dickerson v. Superior Court (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 93, 99, 185 Cal. Rptr. 97

[c] Crime or Fraud Exception

Probable cause sufficient for issuance of search warrant is not sufficient to establish prima facie crime-fraud exception to attorney-client privilege. Geilim v. Superior Court (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 166, 174-175, 285 Cal. Rptr. 602

[d] Disclosure to Third Persons

Statements made by minor to guardian ad litem are protected by attorney-client privilege when statements made at request of minor's attorney for purpose of preparing minor's answers to interrogatories or to assist attorney in preparing for trial. De Los Santos v. Superior Court (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 677, 682-685, 166 Cal. Rptr. 172, 613 P.2d 233

Corporate attorney-client privilege can extend to confidential communications between client's employees regarding legal advice and strategy, even though corporation's attorneys were directly involved and communications did not include excerpts of direct communications from attorneys, provided that employees involved were third persons to whom disclosure was reasonably necessary to further purpose of legal consultation. Zurich Am. Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 1485,1502-1505, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 833

Attorney-client privilege is inapplicable when defendant speaks in a way that enables third persons to overhear his comment and see his gesture, even if defendant's attorney is seated right next to him and defendant intended communication to be confidential. People v. Urbano (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 396, 403, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 871

Supplemental incident reports prepared by police officers and transmitted to law firm for review and legal advice were not privileged materials, because reports were public records, prepared in performance of official duties. Green & Shinee v. Superior Court (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 532, 537, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 886

Pursuant to Evid. Code § 952, attorney-client communications disclosed to clerks, secretaries, interpreters, physicians, spouses, parents, business associates, or joint clients, when reasonably necessary to accomplish purpose of consultation, remain privileged. Insurance Co. of N. America v. Superior Court (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 758, 771, 166 Cal. Rptr. 880

[e] Joint Client Exception

Common interest doctrine allowed defense attorneys, in action alleging personal injuries caused by workplace exposure to toxic chemical products, to share reasonably necessary communications about the case with counsel for other defendants, as authorized by case management conference order, without waiving their attorney-client privilege and work product protection. Meza v. H. Muehlstein & Co., Inc. (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 969, 982-983, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 422

Joint client exception attaches to insurer-insured relationship only if insurer has employed attorney to defend its insured. State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 1428, 1432, 254 Cal. Rptr. 543

Evid. Code § 962 is intended to provide joint clients access to communications with jointly related attorney which touch on matters affecting both clients; only matters involving purely private or personal interests of one of partners are privileged. Hecht v. Superior Court (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 560, 566-567, 237 Cal. Rptr. 528 ; Wortham & Van Liew v. Superior Court (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 927, 932, 233 Cal. Rptr. 725

Joint client exception is not available regarding communications by insurance company to attorney prior to time that company accepted obligations under policy. Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. v. Superior Court (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 467, 474, 200 Cal. Rptr. 471

When insurer employs counsel to defend insured, as required by contract of insurance, any communication with attorney concerning handling of claim against insured is matter of common interest under Evid. Code § 962. Glacier Gen. Assurance Co. v. Superior Court (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 836, 842, 157 Cal. Rptr. 435

[f] Initial Consultation

California attorney-client privilege applied to Internet questionnaires completed by four plaintiffs, in tort action against drug manufacturer, even though plaintiffs filled out questionnaires before law firm represented them and with no assurance that it would; law firm's disclaimer of attorney-client relationship was not disclaimer of confidentiality, and "prospective clients' communications with a view to obtaining legal services are plainly covered by the attorney-client privilege under California law, regardless of whether they have retained the lawyer, and regardless of whether they ever retain the lawyer." Barton v. United States District Court (9th Cir. 2005) 410 F.3d 1104, 1111

Attorney-client privilege applies to videotaped communication between personal injury victim and her attorney brother made while she was in hospital following accident; although record did not indicate whether plaintiff believed attorney-client relationship existed or whether she considered their communication confidential, such beliefs could be inferred from circumstances surrounding their videotaped communication. Hiott v. Superior Court (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 712, 717-718, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 157

Person claiming privilege has burden of proof that materials sought constitute or contain information transmitted between party and attorney during course of attorney-client relationship. Schaff v. Superior Court (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 921, 925, 194 Cal. Rptr. 546

Discussion with attorney for purpose of obtaining legal advice is privileged even though no actual employment ensued and most or all of relevant disclosures or communications came from attorney instead of client. Benge v. Superior Court (1982) 131 Cal. App. 3d 336, 347, 182 Cal. Rptr. 275

[g] Legal Malpractice Action

In disciplinary hearing against client's original attorney, communications between that client and second attorney pertaining to that matter are not within exception of Evid. Code § 958 (communication relevant to breach). Brockway v. State Bar (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 51, 63-64, 278 Cal. Rptr. 836, 806 P.2d 308

Communications between client and attorney representing client in malpractice action against former attorney are privileged; privilege is not limited by Evid. Code § 958 (communication relevant to breach), nor waived by tendering issue on which requested information may be relevant. Schlumberger Ltd. v. Superior Court (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 386, 392-393, 171 Cal. Rptr. 413

[h] Matter Put in Issue

Implied waiver of privilege occurs when plaintiff has placed in issue communication going to heart of claim in controversy. Chicago Title Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 1142, 1149 220 Cal. Rptr. 507

Privilege is unavailable with respect to matters regarding attorney competence put in issue in habeas corpus proceeding. In re Gray (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 614, 616, 176 Cal. Rptr. 721

[i] Public Entity Client

In action brought by real party in interest irrigation district to challenge local agency formation commission's denial of district's application to provide retail electric service, deliberative process privilege protected from discovery the commissioners' reasoning process and evidence they relied on in rejecting district's application. San Joaquin Cty. Local Agency Formation Comm'n v. Superior Court (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 159, 172, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 93

Documents relating to legislators' mental processes or reasons for enacting ordinance that imposed limits on operation of card rooms were irrelevant and not discoverable; even assuming that ulterior purpose behind ordinance were relevant to its validity, that discovery would violate "mental processes principle." Sutter's Place Inc. v. Superior Court (2008) 161 Cal. App. 4th 1370, 1376, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 9

Challengers of reapportionment legislation were not entitled to depose legislative staff member on legislators' subjective motivations; evidence relating to individual legislators' mental processes is irrelevant and not discoverable, because validity of legislation does not depend on its drafters' subjective motivation. Nadler v. Schwarzenegger (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 1327, 1336-1337, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 92

Brown Act, Gov. Code § 54956.9, which permits legislative body of local agency to hold closed-session meetings with its legal counsel to discuss litigation to which it is a party, did not allow nonprofit corporation created by city to hold closed-session meetings with legal counsel for the city Redevelopment Agency to discuss Agency's pending litigation to which non-profit corporation was not a party. Shapiro v. Board of Directors of the Centre City Dev. Corp. (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 170, 185, 35 Cal. Rptr. 3d 826

Pending litigation exemption of Gov. Code § 6254(b) applies to litigation-related documents parties to litigation do not intend to be revealed outside litigation, when sought by nonparty persons or entities; however, deposition transcripts are not subject to this exemption because they are available to the public under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.570. Board of Trustees of California State Univ. v. Superior Court (The Copley Press, Inc.) (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 889, 894, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 82

Brown Act, California's open meeting law, did not require disclosure of closed session minutes pursuant to subpoena in civil discovery proceeding. County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (Union of American Physicians and Dentists) (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 1099, 1102, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 708

Public entities has right to assert attorney-client privilege. Roberts v. City of Palmdale (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 363, 370-371, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 330, 853 P.2d 496

Public Records Act (Gov. Code § 6250 et seq.) did not require disclosure of letter that city attorney prepared for city council in which attorney expressed legal opinions concerning resident's pending appeal of parcel map; although letter was "public record" within meaning of act, it was also confidential communication within attorney-client privilege; city was entitled to assert privilege without alleging that letter was document pertaining to pending litigation. Roberts v. City of Palmdale (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 363, 373, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 330, 853 P.2d 496

Brown Act (Gov. Code § 54950 et seq.) did not require disclosure of letter that city attorney prepared for city council; this act broadly preserves attorney-client privilege for local governing bodies; language in Gov. Code § 54956.9 abrogating privilege applied to open meeting requirements only and does not regulate transmission of documents such as city attorney's letter. Roberts v. City of Palmdale (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 363, 373-381, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 330, 853 P.2d 496

[j] Scope of Privilege

Attorney-client privilege applies to communications made in course of professional employment that are intended to be confidential. Roberts v. City of Palmdale (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 363, 371, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 330, 853 P.2d 496

Privilege applies not only to communications made in anticipation of litigation, but also to legal advice when no litigation is threatened. Roberts v. City of Palmdale (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 363, 371, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 330, 853 P.2d 496

Privilege has strong basis in public policy and administration of justice in that it seeks to ensure the right of every person to freely and fully confer andconfide in attorney so that person may have adequate legal advice. Roberts v. City of Palmdale (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 363, 380, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 330, 853 P.2d 496

Attorney-client privilege is not limited to judicial proceedings, and applies in administrative law setting; when agency has power to compel testimony, this power is tempered by attorney-client privilege absent unambiguous statutory directive to contrary. Southern Cal. Gas Co. v. Public Utilities Com. (1990) 50 Cal. 3d 31, 38, 265 Cal. Rptr. 801, 784 P.2d 1373

Attorney-client privilege protects client's identity when known facts concerning attorney's representation of anonymous client operate to implicate that client in unlawful activities, and disclosure of client's name might expose client to criminal or civil liability. Hays v. Wood (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 772, 785, 160 Cal. Rptr. 102, 603 P.2d 19

Attorney-client privilege does not protect against disclosure of underlying facts on which communications are based. Coy v. Superior Court (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 210, 219-220, 23 Cal. Rptr. 393, 373 P.2d 457 ; Benge v. Superior Court (1982) 131 Cal. App. 3d 336, 349, 182 Cal. Rptr. 275

Compelling disclosure of identities of putative class members who contacted plaintiff's counsel did not violate attorney-client privilege because no personal, confidential information was sought; however, discovery would violate class members' privacy rights. Tien v. Superior Court (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 528, 540-541, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 121

When fiduciary retains attorney for advice or assistance in discharge of his or her fiduciary obligations, attorney-client relationship exists between fiduciary and attorney; those communications are absolutely protected from disclosure to everyone, including persons who are ultimate beneficiaries of fiduciary's actions. Shannon v. Superior Court (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 986, 993-995, 266 Cal. Rptr. 242 (receiver)

Persons encompassed within scope of attorney-client privilege are not necessarily equivalent to those encompassed within California Rules of Professional Conduct, Rule 2-100, with whom ex parte communication is barred. Triple A Machine Shop, Inc. v. State of California (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 131, 141, 261 Cal. Rptr. 493

Statement made by insured to his or her liability insurance company, concerning event that might be basis of covered claim, is privileged communication if policy requires insurer to defend insured through its attorney, and communication is intended to assist attorney in that defense. Soltani-Rastegar v. Superior Court (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 424, 427, 256 Cal. Rptr. 255

Attorney-client privilege only protects against disclosure of communications; it does not protect against disclosure of underlying facts by those who communicated with attorney. Bobele v. Superior Court (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 708, 713-714, 245 Cal. Rptr. 144

Attorney-client privilege is applicable to confidential communications during preliminary negotiations with attorney, even if employment is denied. Rosso, Johnson, Rosso & Ebersold v. Superior Court (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1514, 1518, 237 Cal. Rptr. 242

In action between partners in which partnership information is sought from attorney representing partnership, attorney-client privilege protects from disclosure only information representing purely private or personal interests of

Attorney-client privilege is not designed to afford client protection against diversion of his or her attorney's resources. People v. Superior Court (Keuffel & Esser Co.) (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 785, 789, 227 Cal. Rptr. 13

Interrogatory in action between former law partners seeking facts concerning allegation that client files were kept confidential by agreement between parties did not impinge on attorney-client privilege when it did not attempt to discover information contained in any client's file and when it was primarily concerned with mutual claims that each of former associates was diverting clients in derogation of other's rights. Willis v. Superior Court (1980) 112 Cal. App. 3d 277, 293-294, 169 Cal. Rptr. 301

Interrogatories in action between former law partners requiring disclosure of clients was not protected when information sought was relevant and when plaintiff made no showing that information was protected confidential communication. Willis v. Superior Court (1980) 112 Cal. App. 3d 277, 294-295, 169 Cal. Rptr. 301

[k] Trustee

Trustee may assert attorney-client privilege to withhold privileged communications or documents from trust beneficiaries, regardless of their subject matter; thus, in action for accounting, beneficiaries were not entitled to privileged documents relating to trust administration or to petitioner trustee's personal liability. Wells Fargo Bank v. Superior Court (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 201, 206, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 716, 990 P.2d 591

Law firm's disclaimer of representation on its Internet questionnaire did not act as waiver of confidentiality afforded under attorney-client privilege; therefore, questionnaires completed by four plaintiffs, before their representation by law firm in class action suit against drug manufacturer, were not discoverable, in order to compare questionnaire to what same individual said at deposition. Barton v. United States District Court (9th Cir. 2005) 410 F.3d 1104, 1111

If attorney accidentally discloses privileged material, such as by erroneously including documents that were not intended to be among those produced to opponent, attorney-client privilege may not be waived; rather, court must take into account privilege holder's subjective intent and relevant surrounding circumstances in order to decide whether privilege is waived. Rico v. Mitsubishi Motors Corp. (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 807, 810, 819-820, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 758, 171 P.3d 1092

Disclosure by client of fact and conclusion of communication to attorney is not waiver of privilege when there is no disclosure of significant part of communications concerning litigation. Southern Cal. Gas Co. v. Public Utilities Com. (1990) 50 Cal. 3d 31, 39-42, 46-49, 265 Cal. Rptr. 801, 784 P.2d 1373

No implied waiver of privilege occurs, even though conclusion of consultation with attorney was revealed, unless attorney's advice or state of mind is placed in issue. Southern Cal. Gas Co. v. Public Utilities Com. (1990) 50 Cal. 3d 31, 39-42, 46-49, 265 Cal. Rptr. 801, 784 P.2d 1373

Mere disclosure of fact that privileged communication has occurred does not amount to disclosure of content of that communication, and does not necessarily constitute waiver of privilege. Mitchell v. Superior Court (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 591, 601-603, 208 Cal. Rptr. 886, 691 P.2d 642

Defendant county's disclosure to codefendant developers of documents sent by outside law firm retained to provide advice on California Environmental Quality Act compliance issues did not waive attorney-client privilege, because common interest doctrine codified in Evid. Code § 912(d) applied; county and developers both sought to defend environmental impact report in litigation, and disclosure of advice was reasonably necessary to further purpose of original legal consultation. California Oak Foundation v. County of Tehama (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 1217, 1222, 94 Cal. Rptr. 3d 902

Award of sanctions against defense attorney who unilaterally copied allegedly privileged material plaintiffs had inadvertently produced and sent it to arbitration panel affirmed; in keeping with rule first enunciated in State Compensation Ins. Fund v. WPS, Inc. (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 644, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 799 and approved in Rico v. Mitsubishi Motors Corp. (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 807, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 758, 171 P.3d 1092 , attorney should have sought guidance from panel. Bak v. MCL Financial Group, Inc. (2009) 170 Cal. App. 4th 1118, 1126-1127, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 800

Implied waiver is established by showing that "the client put the otherwise privileged communication directly at issue and that disclosure is essential for a fair adjudication of the action"; thus, in writ proceeding challenging trial court's discovery order compelling attorney to answer deposition questions about legal advice given to law firm's corporate client regarding merger, individual defendants (collectively, majority shareholders of merged corporation) could not impliedly waive attorney-client privilege by asserting advice of counsel defense because they were not holders of merged corporation's privilege. Venture Law Group v. Superior Court (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 96, 105-106, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 656

Corporation that was target of government investigation regarding improperly recorded revenues waived attorney-client privilege and work product protection when it shared privileged documents with government, despite confidentiality agreements that accompanied disclosures; "common interest" doctrine did not preclude disclosure because there was no real alignment of interests between government and corporation under investigation for securities law violations. McKesson HBOC, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 1229, 1237-1241, 9 Cal. Rptr. 3d 812, 818-821

When parties negotiating business transaction entered into joint defense agreement in anticipation of litigation by a third party, in camera review was required to determine whether disclosure of documents in course of transaction waived attorney-client privilege. Joint defense agreement was not void as matter of public policy; agreement evidenced expectation of confidentiality necessary to avoid waiver by disclosure to someone outside attorney-client relationship, but could not protect documents from disclosure, unless they contained or reflected attorney-client communications or attorney work product. OXY Resources California LLC v. Superior Court (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 874, 891-895, 9 Cal. Rptr. 3d 621

Designation of party as expert trial witness is not in itself implied waiver of party's attorney-client privilege; if designation is withdrawn before party discloses significant part of privileged communication, or before it is known with reasonable certainty that party will actually testify as expert, privilege is secure, but if party produces privileged documents or testifies as expert, privilege is waived. Shooker v. Superior Court (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 923, 930, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 334

Inadvertent disclosure of privileged material by client's attorney does not constitute waiver of attorney-client privilege under Evidence Code § 912 if client or privilege holder clearly did not consent or intend to disclose privileged matter. State Comp. Ins. Fund v. WPS, Inc. (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 644, 652-654, 656-657, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 799 (also providing standard for attorney conduct on receipt of inadvertently disclosed privileged matter)

Inadvertent disclosure during discovery of information protected by attorney-client privilege was not waiver of privilege, and information could be excluded at trial. O'Mary v. Mitsubishi Electronics America (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 563, 577, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 389

Defendant in defamation action does not waive attorney-client privilege by alleging that statements were made in anticipation of litigation, and were therefore protected by litigation privilege. Aronson v. Kinsella (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 254, 268-269, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 305

Personal injury plaintiff waives attorney-client privilege with respect to videotaped conversation between plaintiff and her attorney made while she was in hospital; in verified response to defendant's discovery request, plaintiff revealed videotape's existence and indicated that defendant was welcome to copy; plaintiff's verified response to request while represented by three attorneys constituted express consent to disclosure within the meaning of Evid. Code § 912. Hiott v. Superior Court (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 712, 719-720, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 157

Client's waiver of attorney-client privilege regarding one aspect of protected attorney-client relationship does not necessarily waive privilege as to other aspects; disclosure of client's privileged psychological report pursuant to court order does not waive privilege regarding deleted section containing client's remarks to psychologist concerning offenses with which he had been charged. Rodriguez v. Superior Court (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1260, 1270, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 120

When insurer provides insured with independent counsel in liability action against insured, if insured later brings bad faith action against insurer for denial of coverage, confidential communications between adjuster and insurer's coverage counsel are privileged and are not discoverable by insured. State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. v. Superior Court (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 1222, 1228, 265 Cal. Rptr. 372

Evid. Code § 912 is exclusive means by which attorney-client privilege may be waived; forced waiver for some technical shortfall under discovery statutes is at odds with Evid. Code § 912 and is excessive sanction when there was timely assertion of privilege. Blue Ridge Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 339, 347, 248 Cal. Rptr. 346

Waiver occurs through actual disclosure or consent to disclose; consent to disclose is required to be voluntary and knowing, with sufficient awareness of relevant circumstances and likely consequences. Maas v. Municipal Court (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 601, 606-607, 221 Cal. Rptr. 245

Determination of whether implied waiver has occurred requires need to reach evidence sought to be shielded, showing of relevance and materiality of that evidence, and showing by fair preponderance of evidence that information cannot be secured from any less intrusive source. Chicago Title Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 1142, 1153, 220 Cal. Rptr. 507

Failure to provide timely factual basis for claim of attorney-client privilege does not constitute waiver of privilege. Motown Record Corp. v. Superior Court (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 482, 492, 202 Cal. Rptr. 227

[5] Clergy-Penitent Privilege

Trial court abused its discretion because it failed to apply correct legal standard in determining that clergy-penitent privilege did not apply; fact that term "incident" in discovery requests was not ambiguous, and that statements at issue would be disclosed subject to protective order, were irrelevant to whether communications were penitential. Doe 2 v. Superior Court (Mark Calkins) (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 1504, 1517, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 458

In grand jury investigation of allegations of child sexual assault against two priests, documents generated in the course of "troubled-priest interventions" were not privileged as penitential communications under Evid. Code § 1032 because both parties to the original communications knew they would be transmitted to third persons. Roman Catholic Archbishop of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (People) (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 417, 445, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 209

Absolute clergy-penitent privilege (Evid. Code §§ 1030-1034) is inapplicable to nonpenitential pastoral consultations by woman who sought guidance and counseling from priest regarding her embezzling of moneys. People v. Edwards (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1358, 1365, 248 Cal. Rptr. 53

Communication is privileged by clergy-penitent privilege only when it meets all requirements of penitential communication: (1) it must be intended to be in confidence; (2) it must be made to member of clergy who in course of his or her religious discipline or practice is authorized or accustomed to hear such communications; and (3) that member of clergy has duty under discipline or tenets of church, religious denomination, or organization to keep such communications secret. People v. Edwards (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1358, 1362-1363, 248 Cal. Rptr. 53

[6] Marital Privileges

[a] Confidential Marital Communication

Defendant's wife was properly permitted to testify regarding incriminating statements made to her by her husband while he was severely beating her; statements were not made under mantle of confidentiality in that husband's beating of wife was also abuse of relationship on which privilege was based. People v. Johnson (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 425, 437-438, 284 Cal. Rptr. 579

Evid. Code § 980 marital privilege is applicable to written as well as oral communications; fact of communicating, as opposed to substance of communication, is not privileged; privilege is not applicable to communications in hands of third party, even eavesdropper. Rubio v. Superior Court (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1343, 1347-1348, 249 Cal. Rptr. 419

Marital communication privilege is inapplicable when information sought relates to existence of assets of married couple, not to confidential communications between married couple. Troy v. Superior Court (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 1006, 1013, 231 Cal. Rptr. 108

Presumption that communication to spouse is confidential is overcome when criminal defendant repeatedly made communication to spouse in presence of others, continued to make communication to spouse after separation, and made identical communication to other persons. People v. Gomez (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 874, 879, 185 Cal. Rptr. 155

Privilege protecting communications between spouses is not extended to unmarried persons living together or in status tantamount to marriage. People v. Hunt (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 543, 559, 184 Cal. Rptr. 197

[b] Privilege Not to Testify Against Spouse

Court may compel spousal testimony under Evid. Code § 972(e)(2), even if no accusatory pleading charges defendant with crime against his or her spouse, "whenever the crime against the third person and the crime against the spouse (1) are part of a continuous course of criminal conduct, and (2) bear some logical relationship to each other." People v. Sinohui (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 205, 212, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 783, 47 P. 3d 629

Petitioner wife could properly assert marital testimonial privilege, even though she had not seen her husband in 17 years and her assertion of privilege might deprive government of crucial evidence in double murder case, because bright line of divorce is necessary to terminate privilege, absent any express statutory exception under Evid. Code § 972. Jurcoane v. Superior Court (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 886, 897, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 483

In action for dissolution and accounting of partnership assets, plaintiff's spouse who is not named as party, signatory to partnership agreement, or record holder of any real property in issue, is not person for whose immediate benefit action was brought; exception under Evid. Code § 973(b) does not apply to compel spouse's deposition. Duggan v. Superior

Court (1981) 127 Cal. App. 3d 267, 269-272, 179 Cal. Rptr. 410

[7] Medical or Other Health Care Committee Records

Staff privilege exception of Evid. Code § 1157(c), permitting discovery of hospital staff review committee records to persons requesting hospital staff privileges, is not applicable in action for damages. California Eye Institute v. Superior Court (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1477, 1481, 264 Cal. Rptr. 83

[8] Newsperson's Immunity From Contempt

[a] In General

Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(b) and Evid. Code § 1070 provide only immunity from contempt; until newsperson has been adjudged in contempt, there is nothing from which to seek relief and newsperson's petition for extraordinary relief is premature. New York Times Co. v. Superior Court (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 453, 459-461, 273 Cal. Rptr. 98, 796 P.2d 811

Shield law protections are not waived if newsperson consents to in camera review of unpublished material while expressly reserving its right to choose between complying with order to disclose material or to suffer judgment of contempt. SCI-Sacramento, Inc. v. Superior Court (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 654, 662, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 868

Court must balance news reporter's immunity against possibility that defendant's constitutional right to a fair trial will be compromised if the news reporter fails to disclose his or her source, and court's balancing test should encompass two principal considerations: (1) whether there is a "substantial probability of future violations or 'leaks' " that will impair defendant's right to a fair trial and (2) whether there are reasonable alternatives to disclosure. In re Willon (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 1080, 1099, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 245

News reporter's immunity under Evid. Code § 1070 is merely immunity from contempt and not privilege against disclosure. KSDO v. Superior Court (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 375, 383-384, 186 Cal. Rptr. 211

Evid. Code § 1070 is intended to protect free flow of information and to provide news reporters with privilege against being held in contempt for refusing to answer questions concerning sources of their information. Rosato v. Superior Court (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 190, 217, 124 Cal. Rptr. 427

[b] Limitations on Scope of Immunity

Prosecution in criminal proceeding does not have constitutional interest sufficient to require disclosure of information otherwise protected by shield law; thus unbroadcast portion of interview with criminal defendant by newsperson is protected by Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(b). Miller v. Superior Court, 21 Cal. 4th 883, 896-897, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 834, 986 P.2d 170

News reporter's privilege does not override public's interest in ensuring that neither reporter nor source invades rights of other citizens through reprehensible conduct forbidden to all other persons. Rosato v. Superior Court (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 190, 219, 124 Cal. Rptr. 427 (quoting Branzburg v. Hayes (1972) 408 U.S. 665, 691-692, 92 S. Ct. 2646, 33 L. Ed. 2d 626)

News reporter's privilege does not shield news reporters from testifying about criminal activity in which they have participated or which they have observed. Rosato v. Superior Court (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 190, 218-219, 124 Cal. Rptr. 427 (quoting Branzburg v. Hayes (1972) 408 U.S. 665, 691-692, 92 S. Ct. 2646, 33 L. Ed. 2d 626)

Key to court's power to compel news reporter to answer in face of Evid. Code § 1070 is the necessity for exploring violation of court's orders as means of enforcing court's constitutional obligation to prevent prejudicial pretrial publicity from emanating from its officers. Rosato v. Superior Court (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 190, 221, 222, 124 Cal. Rptr. 427 ; Farr v. Superior Court (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 60, 68-71, 99 Cal. Rptr. 342

Limitation on protection afforded by shield law is applicable only when questions asked may tend to identify who, if anyone, among those subject to court's order, may have violated it. Rosato v. Superior Court (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 190, 224, 124 Cal. Rptr. 427

Evid. Code § 1070 does not grant reporter immunity from contempt for refusal to name sources of information when sources were earlier identified by reporter as judicial officers subject to court's order banning publicity during notorious murder trial. In re Farr (1974) 36 Cal. App. 3d 577, 582, 111 Cal. Rptr. 649

[c] Scope of Contempt Immunity

Immunity from contempt under Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(b), and Evid. Code § 1070 grants to nonparty witnesses virtually absolute protection against compelled disclosure, because generally contempt is only effective remedy against these witnesses; however, immunity does not constitute privilege against disclosure, because it does not provide protection against sanctions other than contempt which may be invoked against party to civil litigation. Mitchell v. Superior Court (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 268, 274, 208 Cal. Rptr. 152, 690 P.2d 625

Immunity extends not only to identity of source but also, in absence of constitutional or other limitation, to disclosure of information which may tend to reveal source of information. Rosato v. Superior Court (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 190, 217-218, 124 Cal. Rptr. 427

Burden, though not heavy, is on reporter to show that his or her testimony may tend to reveal source. Rosato v. Superior Court (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 190, 218, 124 Cal. Rptr. 427

In determining applicability of news reporter's immunity, court as considering not only offered evidence but also matters disclosed in argument, implication of the question, setting in which it is asked, and other relevant factors. Rosato v. Superior Court (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 190, 218, 124 Cal. Rptr. 427

[9] News Reporter's Qualified First Amendment Privilege

Review of factors to be weighed in applying journalist's qualified First Amendment privilege to refuse to disclose news sources; analysis of scope journalistic activities protected by the privilege. Anti-Defamation League of B'Nai B'rith v. Superior Court (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 1072, 1080, 1092-1093, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 597 ; KSDO v. Superior Court (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 375, 385-386, 186 Cal. Rptr. 375

[10] Official Information Privilege

Veh. Code § 1808.5 does not create a privilege, independent of Evid. Code § 1040, to withhold information in DMV records required to be produced by subpoena; although information relating to real party in interest's driver'slicense involved "official information" within meaning of Evid. Code § 1040, Veh. Code § 1808.5 does not forbid disclosure of that official information within meaning of Evid. Code § 1040(b)(1); and, under Evid. Code § 1040(b)(2), necessity for disclosure of complete copies of real party in interest's driving records outweighed DMV's interest in preserving confidentiality. Dep't of Motor Vehicles v. Superior Court (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 363, 366, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 504

Where party seeking discovery of county records was father at risk of losing custody of his child because of alleged acts of violence against another child, court erred by not conducting an in camera review of county records related to the investigation of the child's death; the juvenile court was required to examine the investigative files in camera and carefully weigh the parties' respective, colliding interests in disclosure and confidentiality as to each item petitioner sought to discover, before ruling on the applicability of the conditional privilege under Evid. Code § 1040(b)(2) to that item. Michael P. v. Superior Court (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 1036, 1045-1046, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 11

Where plaintiff was a discharged police officer seeking damages and injunctive relief based on County's releasing allegedly false information to other potential employers (law enforcement agencies), officer's legitimate need for reports summarizing the County's background check and polygraph examination on him outweighed any possible need for confidentiality under the official information privilege. County of Riverside v. Superior Court (2000) 86 Cal. App. 4th 211, 216-217, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 62

Police files in ongoing criminal investigation into child's murder were held to be privileged under Evid. Code § 1040(b)(2) when weighed against need for discovery in suspect-parents' civil suit, based on their public identification by police as suspects; however, trial court could later determine that investigation had not progressed sufficiently to justify continued protection of most of the files. County of Orange v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 759, 768-769, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 261

In defamation action based on public charges by minor's father that plaintiff had raped minor, police reports containing minor's statements about alleged rape were not absolutely protected from discovery by Evid. Code § 1040; plaintiff's interest in preserving reputation against charges outweighed minor's interest in sexual privacy, particularly when disclosure of reports would not involve intrusion into minor's sexual experiences beyond that already revealed. Rider v. Superior Court (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 278, 282-287, 244 Cal. Rptr. 770

Evid. Code § 1040 is exclusive means by which public entity may assert claim of governmental privilege based on necessity for secrecy; Evid. Code § 1040 authorizes exclusion of privileged official information, not dismissal of action. Rubin v. City of Los Angeles (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 560, 583, 235 Cal. Rptr. 516

California Public Records Act (Gov. Code § 6250 et seq.) does not serve as basis of absolute privilege under Evid. Code § 1040. Rubin v. City of Los Angeles (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 560, 585, 235 Cal. Rptr. 516

Proceeding to establish paternity and recover support funds paid to child's mother under AFDC program was directly connected with administrationof program, and Welf. & Inst. Code § 10850 did not prohibit production of related welfare records. Nevada County v. Kinicki (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 357, 165 Cal. Rptr. 57

[11] Peer Review Records of Hospitals and Medical Organizations

Hospital's peer review committee records are immune from discovery under Evid. Code § 1157(a), and defendants could not obtain the equivalent of discovery of contents of hospital peer review committee records by subpoenaing state investigator to give expert testimony or refer at trial to his draft preliminary report when his conclusions were based on hospital peer review committee records reviewed in course of his official duties for a public agency. Fox v. Kramer (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 531, 540-548, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 497, 994 P.2d 374

Documents pertaining to review of medical and mental health care complaints by quality assurance committee for county's jail mental health services agency were exempt from disclosure because they met criteria of Evid. Code §§ 1157 and 1157.6, for documents generated by peer review bodies and correctional treatment quality assurance committees. County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 8, 14-15, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 390

[12] Physician-Patient Privilege

In marital dissolution action, husband waived physician-patient privilege with respect to certain medical records because wife was present during his intake exam and he consented to disclosure of his communications with neurologist on that date; husband's filing of another physician's declaration, stating that he had treated father for past nine years, also waived privilege with respect to those records, but disclosure of husband's communications with his current physicians did not relate back to his communications to another doctor who had treated him as teenager. Manela v. Superior Court (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1146-1148, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 736

Although, as a rule of evidence, physician-patient privilege protects patients from forced disclosure in course of litigation, it may not be extended to cover dissemination of information already know outside litigation; thus, privilege did not apply to non-party patients' confidential medical information obtained independently of discovery, because, in these circumstances, privilege constituted improper restraint of free speech. Hurvitz v. Hoefflin (2001) 84 Cal. App. 4th 1232, 1243, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 558

Evid. Code § 999 exception to physician-patient privilege (action for damages for conduct of patient) permitted disclosures concerning plaintiff when his or her conduct was relevant to proximate causation, as might arise when defendant alleges contributory negligence or files cross complaint. Slagle v. Superior Court (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1309, 1315, 260 Cal. Rptr. 122

Physician-patient privilege requires physician-patient relationship; individual who contacted physician as part of group health study to determine effect of waste facility on public health is not a patient communicating with physician for purpose of securing diagnosis or treatment. Kizer v. Sulnick (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 431, 439, 248 Cal. Rptr. 712

Physician-patient privilege is unavailable to plaintiff in personal injury suit based on alleged damage to neighborhood caused by waste facility, since pursuit of such a claim is inconsistent with reasonable expectation of privacy concerning plaintiff's medical condition. Kizer v. Sulnick (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 431, 439, 248 Cal. Rptr. 712

Photographs of patient's physical condition taken by physician for sole purpose of obtaining confidential information regarding patient's condition to assist in rendering proper diagnosis and treatment are "confidential communication" and protected by physician-patient privilege. Binder v. Superior Court (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 893, 897, 242 Cal. Rptr. 231

In action for injuries allegedly caused when plaintiff's mother ingested drug while pregnant with plaintiff, exceptions to physician-patient privilege contained in Evid. Code §§ 996(b), (c), and 999 are inapplicable to deposition of mother, although she waived privilege by testifying freely. Jones v. Superior Court (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 534, 544-546, 174 Cal. Rptr. 148

Husband asserting right to visitation in marriage dissolution proceeding did not tender his mental or emotional condition under Evid. Code § 996 so as to waive his physician-patient privilege. Simek v. Superior Court (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 169, 176, 172 Cal. Rptr. 564

Patient-litigant exception under Evid. Code § 996 was not applicable to permit discovery of mother's medical records in proceeding to modify custody order when mother never tendered her medical condition as issue. Koshman v. Superior Court (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 294, 298, 168 Cal. Rptr. 558

[13] Police Officer Personnel Records

Trial court's erroneous denial of Pitchess motion is not reversible per se; failure to disclose relevant information in confidential personnel files, like other discovery errors, is reversible only if there were reasonable probability of different result had that information been disclosed. People v. Gaines (2009) 46 Cal. 4th 172, 176, 92 Cal. Rptr. 3d 627, 205 P.3d 1074

After counsel won second Pitchess disclosure, involving same officer and same complainant information, counsel could then refer to derivative information uncovered as part of earlier followup investigation without violating Evid. Code § 1045(e) protective order; purpose of Evid Code § 1045(e) protective order to safeguard confidential police officer personnel records is not served by requiring counsel to perform a duplicate investigation before using, at trial, derivative information counsel already possesses. Chambers v. Superior Court (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 673, 681, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 43, 170 P.3d 617

Names and salaries of public employees earning $100,000 or more per year, including peace officers, are not exempt from public disclosure under California Public Records Act (Gov. Code §§ 6250 et seq.); Penal Code §§ 832.7 and 832.8 do not mandate that peace officer salary information be excluded from disclosure under Act. International Federation of Professional & Technical Engineers v. Superior Court (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 319, 64 Cal. Rptr. 3d 693, 165 P.3d 488 , disapproving City of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 883, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 915

California Public Records Act, Gov. Code § 6254(c), does not exempt from disclosure names and salaries of public employees earning $100,000 or more per year, including peace officers, because disclosure does not constitute "an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy." Internat'l Federation of Professional and Technical Engineers v. Superior Court (Contra Costa Newspapers, Inc.) (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 319, 329, 346, 64 Cal. Rptr. 3d 693, 165 P.3d 488

California Public Records Act, Gov. Code § 6254(c), does not protect from disclosure to newspaper publisher of names, employing departments, and hiring and termination dates of California peace officers included in database of Commission on Peace Officer Standards and Training; privacy and safety interests of peace officers in general did not outweigh public's interest in disclosure. Comm'n on Police Officer Standards and Training v. Superior Court (Los Angeles Times Communications, LLC) (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 278, 299-303, 64 Cal. Rptr. 3d 661, 165 P.3d 462

Criminal defendant is entitled to file sealed declaration in support of Pitchess motion on grounds that it contains information protected from disclosure by attorney-client privilege and attorney work protection; if trial court concludes that supporting declaration contains privileged information that must remain confidential, that information must be redacted and redacted version served on opposing counsel. Garcia v. Superior Court (City of Santa Ana) (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 63, 73, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 948, 163 P.3d 939

California Public Records Act did not require disclosure to newspaper publisher of county civil service commission disciplinary records related to peace officer's administrative appeal; these files were confidential files of "employing agency" under Pen. Code, §§ 832.5, 832.8, because commission was authorized by statute and by county charter to hear those appeals, and officer's identity was confidential under Pen. Code § 832.7. Copley Press, Inc. v. Superior Court (2006) 39 Cal. 4th 1272, 1286, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 183, 141 P.3d 288

Showing of good cause under Evid. Code § 1043(b)(3), which is measured by "relatively relaxed standards that serve to insure the production for trial court review of all potentially relevant documents," to obtain in-chambers review of relevant documents or information in personnel records of police officer accused of misconduct against defendant, requires only that defendant demonstrate that scenario of alleged officer misconduct could or might have occurred. Warrick v. Superior Court (City of Los Angeles Police Dep't) (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 1011, 1016, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 2

Supreme Court outlined procedure trial courts should use to keep a record of evidence considered when ruling on Pitchess motion, because without any record of documents examined by trial court, party's ability to obtain review of trial court's decision, whether to disclose or not to disclose, is nonexistent. People v. Mooc (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 1216,

Evid. Code § 1043 permits access to police officer personnel records to discover discipline imposed after investigation based on citizen complaints; disclosure exemption of Evid. Code § 1045(b)(2) only excludes disclosure of investigating officer's conclusions, not discipline imposed. City of San Jose v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 47, 54-57, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 73, 850 P.2d 621 (juvenile proceeding)

Evid. Code § 1043 does not require that affidavit accompanying criminal defendant's motion for discovery of prior complaints of excessive force filed against arresting officer be based on personal knowledge of material facts or of existence of particular prior complaints; use of affidavits based on information and belief are sufficient. City of Santa Cruz v. Municipal Court (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 74, 84-93, 94, 260 Cal. Rptr. 520, 776 P.2d 222

Good cause for Pitchess discovery requires "a logical link between the defense proposed and the pending charge," and describing with some specificity how discovery would support that defense or impeach officer's version of events; here, defendant's version of events was not plausible. People v. Sanderson (2010) 181 Cal. App. 4th 1334, 1340, 105 Cal. Rptr. 3d 326

Defendant's bare assertion, "the officer lied and will do so again" failed to show a plausible factual scenario of officer misconduct sufficient to require Pitchess review of officer's personnel file. Eulloqui v. Superior Court (2010) 181 Cal. App. 4th 1055, 1069, 105 Cal. Rptr. 3d 248

Trial court properly denied defendant's Pitchess motion to discover police officers' personnel records under standard enunciated in Warrick v. Superior Court, because defendant failed to present specific factual scenario of officer misconduct that was plausible when read in light of pertinent documents. People v. Galan (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 6, 13, 100 Cal. Rptr. 3d 103

City was entitled to proper notice under Evid. Code § 1043 and Code Civ. Proc. § 1005 before any additional information could be disclosed based on real party in interest's second Pitchess motion; although second motion flowed from original Pitchess motion, it was more than "a mere continuation" and therefore was subject to safeguards of properly noticed motion. City of Tulare v. Superior Court (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 373, 383-384, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 707

Police review commission's (PRC) investigative and public hearing process violated confidentiality of police officer personnel records under Penal Code § 832.7; PRC's records and findings were protected from disclosure under Penal Code § 832.7(a), as records maintained by any state or local agency pursuant to Penal Code § 832.5 and as personnel records. Berkeley Police Assn. v. City of Berkeley (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 385, 404-405, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 130

Although res judicata and collateral estoppel effectively preclude relitigation of issues that were or could have been decided in first appeal, defendant retains right to appeal from judgment for limited purpose of challenging Pitchess findings. People v. Wycoff (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 410, 415, 78 Cal. Rptr. 3d 907

Defendant's Pitchess motion met Warrick's "relatively low threshold" for establishing good cause necessary to compel trial court review by presenting scenario that was plausible because it asserted specific police misconduct that was internally consistent and supported defense to charges of resisting arrest. Uybungco v. Superior Court (2008) 163 Cal. App. 4th 1043, 1049-1051, 78 Cal. Rptr. 3d 30

Pitchess does not apply to Commission on Judicial Performance; therefore, judge's statements to Commission in response to criminal defendant's complaint about judge's handling of motion to suppress evidence were not subject to discovery by means of Pitchess motion or subpoena duces tecum. Comm'n on Judicial Performance v. Superior Court (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 617, 623, 67 Cal. Rptr. 3d 434

Because Pitchess motion must "set forth the materiality [of the desired personnel records] to the subject matter involved in the pending litigation" defendant was required to show that requested records were material to his new trial claiming ineffective assistance of counsel, not to his defense to the underlying prosecution. People v. Nguyen (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 1473, 1478, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 773 (italics in original)

Trial court remanded for new hearing on defendant's Pitchess motion in conformance with procedures described in People v. Mooc, because record was insufficient to determine whether trial court properly denied discovery; records custodian, did not produce entire personnel file for trial court's review, did not establish on the record what documents were included in complete personnel file, and did not explain his decision to withhold them. People v. Guevara (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 62, 68-69, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 581

Citizen complaints against husband, a former sheriff's deputy, were discoverable under Pitchess statutes in wife's marital dissolution action, because complaints, which were made by women and could include evidence of husband's violence or brutality, were potentially relevant to custody dispute, to bolster wife's claims of domestic violence or otherwise reflect on husband's fitness as parent. Slayton v. Superior Court (2006) 146 Cal. App. 4th 55, 61, 52 Cal. Rptr. 3d 731

Under Warrick standard, trial court reasonably concluded that defendant failed to show good cause for discovery because he did not present specific factual scenario of officer misconduct that was plausible when read in light of pertinent documents and undisputed circumstances. People v. Thompson (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 1312, 1318-1319, 46 Cal. Rptr. 3d 884

Defendant could file sealed affidavit in support of Pitchess motion on grounds that it contains privileged information; if, after ex parte in camera review, trial court concludes supporting declaration contains privileged information, that information must be redacted, and redacted version served on opposing counsel, to avoid revealing privileged material to prosecution and police. Williams v. Superior Court (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1422, 1434-1435, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 452

Trial court correctly denied defendant's Pitchess motion because defendant did not demonstrate specific factual scenario of officer misconduct that was plausible when read in light of pertinent documents. People v. Hill (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 1089, 1098-1099, 31 Cal. Rptr. 3d 891 ; overruled on other grounds by People v. French (2008) 43 Cal. 4th 36, 48, 73 Cal. Rptr. 3d 605, 178 P.3d 1100

Limited release to individual officer of information contained in his own file, absent Pitchess motion, would not disturb balance between petitioner's right to a fair trial and officer's right to privacy; because officer had right to obtain and then share that information with prosecution, in preparation for trial, officer practically could give to prosecution that which it could not get directly. Beccarada v. Superior Court (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 409, 415, 31 Cal. Rptr. 3d 735

Whether defendant's account of his interaction with officer was less believable than officer's account did not bear on whether defendant established "materiality" under Evid. Code § 1043(b)(3); rather, defendant satisfied materiality for discovery of arresting officer's disciplinary records relating to dishonesty or filing false reports by establishing sufficient factual foundation showing that officer's truthfulness was material to his defense, and trial court committed reversible error when it denied defendant's Pitchess motion without in camera hearing in accordance with Evid. Code § 1045(b). Johnson v. Superior Court (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 292, 303-304, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 885

Sheriff's department internal affairs report was relevant, and therefore discoverable, in civil action against deputy alleging use of excessive force, after portions of report reflecting investigating officer's analysis and conclusions were redacted; court did not abuse its discretion in refusing to limit Pitchess discovery to names, addresses, and telephone numbers of witnesses identified in internal affairs report. Haggerty v. Superior Court (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 1079, 1089-1090, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 467

Trial court abused its discretion in failing to find materiality and good cause for information sought under hybrid Brady/Pitchess motion. Abatti v. Superior Court (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 39, 60, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 767

District attorney properly had access to information in confidential peace officer personnel files to investigate conduct of off-duty officers, but that information may not be publicly disclosed or disseminated absent compliance with Code Civ. Proc. § 1043 et seq., including judicial determination of relevance of that information in civil or criminal action and need for protective order. Fagan v. Superior Court (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 607, 618-619, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 239

Defendant failed to demonstrate good cause required for discovery under Evid. Code § 1043 (disclosure of police officer personnel records), because there was insufficient similarity between defendant's allegation of excessive force and prior officer misconduct consisting of filing false police report and of time card irregularities. California Highway Patrol v. Superior Court (2001) 84 Cal. App. 4th 1010, 1025 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 379

There are no substantive or procedural obstacles to governmental agency and its attorney conducting contained and limited review of peace officer personnel files within custody and control of agency, for some relevant purpose. Michael v. Gates (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 737, 745, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 163

Privilege accorded police officer personnel records extend to protect all information in those files without regard to whether information could also be obtained from another source. Hackett v. Superior Court (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 96, 99-101, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 405

Evid. Code §§ 1043-1045 (discovery of peace officer personnel records) are not abrogated by criminal discovery provisions of Proposition 115; Penal Code § 1054(e), enacted by Proposition 115, contains language excluding Evid. Code §§ 1043-1045. Albritton v. Superior Court (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 961, 962-963, 275 Cal. Rptr. 314

Evid. Code § 1043 procedures take precedence over general discovery rules of Code of Civil Procedure; party's noncompliance with requirements of Evid. Code § 1043 is not excused by waiver provision generally applicable to discovery method that party used. County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 1605, 1611, 269 Cal. Rptr. 187

Evid. Code § 1045 provides that when issue in litigation concerns policies or patterns of conduct of employing agency, trial court is required to consider availability of comparable information from sources other than personnel records. City of Azusa v. Superior Court (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 693, 696, 236 Cal. Rptr. 621

Parties seeking discovery of files on citizen complaints are only entitled to names and addresses of complainants unless good cause is shown; complainants' unavailability for interviews or failure to remember details of events complained of are good cause. City of Azusa v. Superior Court (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 693, 696-697, 236 Cal. Rptr. 621

Penal Code §§ 832.7 and 832.8, which protect police officer personnel records and information contained in them from discovery, also bar discovery of identical information from police officers' personal recollection. City of San Diego v. Superior Court (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 236, 239, 186 Cal. Rptr. 112

Good cause under Evid. Code § 1043 shown for discovery limited to records of citizens' complaints against arresting officers and for names and addresses of complainants and witnesses. Arcelona v. Municipal Court (1980) 113 Cal. App. 3d 523, 530-532, 169 Cal. Rptr. 877

Motion under Evid. Code § 1043 for disclosure of police officer personnel records or records maintained under Penal Code § 832.5 (citizen's complaints against police officers) is subject to balancing test of Evid. Code § 1040(b)(2). Dominguez v. Superior Court (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 6, 11-13, 161 Cal. Rptr. 407

[14] Privacy

Search of plaintiffs' text messages violated their Fourth Amendment and California constitutional privacy rights because they had reasonable expectation of privacy in content of those messages, given employer's informal policy of not auditing messages on payment of usage overages; even assuming that plaintiffs' text messages were public records as defined by California Public Records Act, that Act did not diminish public employee's (and text message recipients') reasonable expectation of privacy. Quon v. Arch Wireless Operating Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 2008) 529 F.3d 892, 907 , cert. granted, City of Ontario v. Quon (Dec. 14, 2009) 175 L. Ed. 2d 617

Opt-out notice was sufficient to protect privacy rights of potential class members, who had already voluntarily disclosed their contact information to DVD seller, and named plaintiff's interest in obtaining this information outweighed possibility that some customers might fail to receive their notice and thus lose opportunity to object to disclosure. Pioneer Electronics (USA), Inc. v. Superior Court (2007) 40 Cal. 4th 360, 372-374, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 513, 150 P.3d 198

Discovery of identities of husband's previous sexual partners and admissions concerning his "lifestyle" were properly excluded, in a suit brought by a wife against her husband for infecting her with HIV, as overly broad and speculative; however, within specified temporal limitations, discovery of other evidence that husband knew or should have known that he had HIV was allowed, because this issue was fundamental to causes of action for intentional and negligent infliction of emotional distress, fraud, and negligence. John B. v. Superior Court (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 1177, 1200-1201, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 316, 137 P.3d 153

In marital dissolution action brought by father against mother to determine whether father should be granted joint custody over couple's 4-year-old son, father's constitutional right to privacy in medical records was outweighed by state's compelling interest in protecting child's best interests. Manela v. Superior Court (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1150, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 736

Plaintiff in action for sexual harassment and intentional infliction of emotional distress waives right to privacy concerning alleged mental ailments, but does not implicitly waive privacy right concerning her sexual history and practices. Vinson v. Superior Court (1987) 43 Cal. 3d 833, 842, 239 Cal. Rptr. 292, 740 P.2d 404

Violation of employees' right to privacy did not outweigh right to discover class members' names, addresses, and telephone numbers in pending litigation to enforce their statutory wage and overtime rights through class action lawsuit, and plaintiffs were entitled to employees' contact information using opt-out notice. Crab Addison, Inc. v. Superior Court (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 958, 974-975, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 400

Trial court erred by denying motion to compel disclosure of independent contractor names and addresses using opt-out procedure in class action lawsuit alleging improper reclassification of class members from employees to independent contractors; discovery of potential class members' contact information should not be restricted unless trial court can identify privacy concerns or potential discovery abuses that outweigh plaintiff's right to discovery. Lee v. Dynamex, Inc. (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 1325, 1338, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 241

In consolidated class action by petitioner television writers asserting industry-wide pattern and practice of age discrimination, trial court erred in denying access to all requested information from third-party objectors on privacy grounds, without considering whether "a more nuanced approach" to different categories of data would satisfy balance between privacy interests and litigants' need for discovery. Alch v. Superior Court (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 1412, 1422, 82 Cal. Rptr. 3d 470

In appeal arising from denial of anonymous Internet poster's motion to quash plaintiff's subpoena served on California message-board host seeking poster's identity, plaintiff could not make required prima facie showing of elements of libel necessary to overcome defendant's First Amendment right to speak anonymously; accordingly, court quashed subpoena. Krinsky v. Doe 6 (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 1154, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 231

Original plaintiff who lacked standing in Code Civ. Proc. § 382 class action should be allowed to obtain precertification discovery of identities of potential plaintiffs with standing, subject to balancing test weighing danger of potential abuses against parties's rights. Cashcall, Inc. v. Superior Court (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 273, 286, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 441

Opt-in notice, requiring class action petitioners to obtain non-party potential witnesses' affirmative consent to disclosure of their addresses and phone numbers, exceeded protections necessary to safeguard witnesses' legitimate privacy interests in their contact information. Puerto v. Superior Court (2008) 158 Cal. App. 4th 1243, 1259, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 701

Opt-out notice requiring potential class members to object in writing in order to prevent their names and contact information from being disclosed to real party in interest employees in putative class action lawsuit alleging wage and hour violations was sufficient to protect potential class members' privacy rights. Belaire-West Landscape, Inc. v. Superior Court (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 554, 561-562, 57 Cal. Rptr. 3d 197

In putative class action alleging wage and hour violations, privacy rights of putative class members who contacted plaintiffs' counsel outweighed employer's need for disclosure of their identities, because class members had significant interest in maintaining their privacy, particularly in the employment context, and employer had no compelling need to learn their identities. Tien v. Superior Court (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 528, 540-541, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 121

Letter to non-parties requesting information about whether they were subject to inaccurate credit reporting was relevant to plaintiff's claim for punitive damages under Fair Credit Reporting Act and thus was permissible, provided that letter protected privacy rights of recipients by requiring their written consent to be contacted and limiting contact to those who gave signed authorization. Experian Info. Solutions, Inc. v. Superior Court (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 122, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 219

Using neutral third party to facilitate class action precertification communications helps protect recipients' privacy rights. Best Buy Stores, L.P. v. Superior Court (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 772, 778-779, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 575

Patient did not waive his right to privacy, in suit to enforce administrative subpoena by California Medical Board against patient's physician, by showing physician's letter to park rangers as proof that he was a qualified patient entitled to protection from prosecution for using marijuana; and Medical Board failed to produce evidence sufficient to support finding of good cause to invade patient's right to privacy in his medical records. Bearman v. Superior Court (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 463, 472-474, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 644, 652-653

Order compelling deposition testimony, in wrongful termination suit, of one member of termination review board established pursuant to employment agreement did not violate member's state constitutional right to privacy because information sought by former employee did not relate to private affairs of any other employee, and parties had not anticipated that review board proceeding would be confidential. Saeta v. Superior Court (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 261, 273-274, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 610

Right of associational privacy was not implicated, in employment discrimination case, by deposition questions posed to union representative that generally related to names of employees who allegedly used racial slurs toward real party in interest and whose arbitration testimony was allegedly coerced, and that did not ask him to reveal any private associational affiliations and activities. American Airlines v. Superior Court (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 881, 895, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 146

Bank customer has reasonable expectation of privacy in confidential information submitted with loan application, and when waiver of confidentiality of tax returns is argued, court should conduct in camera inspection to balance need for discovery against interests in privacy. Fortunato v. Superior Court (2003) 114 Cal. App 4th 475, 483, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 82

In employment discrimination case, disciplinary records of nonparty employees were protected by their privacy rights, when interrogatories listing disciplinary acts by type and race would accomplish plaintiff's objective. Perez v. County of Santa Clara (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 671, 678, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 867

When crime victim sued alleged perpetrator and perpetrator's criminal defense attorney for invasion of victim's constitutional right of privacy based on their unauthorized reading of victim's mental health records, victim's claim was barred because they obtained victim's medical and psychiatric records through court's normal processes, including a court order. Mansell v. Otto (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 265, 277, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 276

Bank customer has both reasonable expectation of privacy and right to notice and opportunity to be heard when bank records are subpoenaed. Athearn v. State Bar (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 232, 235, 142 Cal. Rptr. 171, 571 P.2d 628

Nonparty patients' right of privacy did not justify restrictions on dissemination of confidential information obtained outside of discovery process. Hurvitz v. Hoefflin (2001) 84 Cal. App. 4th 1232, 1244-1245, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 558

Judgment creditor did not make sufficient showing of need to obtain names of judgment debtor attorney's undisclosed clients or client-specific information regarding funds held by attorney in his client trust account to overcome privacyrights of undisclosed clients; although disclosure might lead to discovery of information helpful to creditor in her collection efforts, alternative, less intrusive methods existed to determine whether clients had paid fees to attorney, without sacrificing clients's privacy rights. Hooser v. Superior Court (2001) 84 Cal. App. 4th 997, 1007-1009, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 341

Rights to freedom of association and to residential privacy of defendant abortion clinic's nonparty staff and volunteers outweighed plaintiff anti-abortionist's rights to discover their names, residential addresses, and telephone numbers, given that disclosure would threaten nonparties' peace and safety, while plaintiff failed demonstrate any real need that would justify this intrusive order, and state's interest in preserving residential privacy and in protecting individuals who provide lawful services in connection with pregnancy was strong. Planned Parenthood Golden Gate v. Superior Court (2001) 83 Cal. App. 4th 347, 367, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 627

Real parties' legitimate interest in ensuring that attorney fees were not awarded when statutory requirements set forth in California's "private attorney general" stature (Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5) had not been met, and state's compelling interest in promoting truth in litigation, outweighed the associational privacy interests of contributors to plaintiff nonprofit organization's legal fund. Save Open Space Santa Monica Mountains v. Superior Court (2001) 84 Cal. App. 4th 234, 252-254, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 725

State's interests in truth in court proceedings, compliance with subpoenas and discovery orders, and insuring that injured receive full redress for injuries based on actionable conduct, and petitioner parents' interest in obtaining medical information directly relevant to their litigation against sperm bank which allegedly transmitted serious kidney disease to their child outweighed anonymous sperm donor's privacy interests. Johnson v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 1050, 1067-1072, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 864

Hospital's mere conjecture that authors of nondefamatory advertisements critical of hospital's affiliation with for-profit HMO were also authors of defamatory statements alleged in hospital's defamation action complaint was not enough to overcome right to privacy, or warrant shutting off political discourse on important public issues, when advertisements were not directly relevant to defamation action. Rancho Publications v. Superior Court (1999) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1538, 1551, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 274

Confidential agreement in settlement of class-action litigation is entitled to same level of privacy protection as other personal financial matters, such as bank accounts or tax information. Hinshaw, Winkler, Draa, Marsh & Still v. Superior Court (1996) 51 Cal. App. 4th 233, 241, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 791

Public need for ascertainment of truth in connection with legal claims was outweighed by right of privacy of those participating in meetings, during which plaintiff claimed that admission was made that she had been treated unfairly, because communications related to private affairs of employees and were maintained in confidence, and discussions were conducted appropriately to resolve workplace dispute. Garstang v. Superior Court (1995) 39 Cal. App. 4th 526, 532, 536-537, 46 Cal. Rptr. 2d 84

Psychotherapist-patient privilege and right of privacy are both interrelated and separate; communications with psychotherapist are within zone of privacy. Davis v. Superior Court (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 1008, 1013, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 331

Person residing with child support-paying parent does not waive right to privacy of his or her financial records; in proceedings to increase amount of child support, monetary contributions made by third person are discoverable in assessing parent's ability to pay increased support due to reduced living expenses. Harris v. Superior Court (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 661, 664-665, 667-668, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 564

Defendant's medical records are protected by right to privacy from discovery in support of plaintiff's motion for trial preference based on defendant's ill health; although defendant changed location of deposition based on his poor health and admitted to heart attacks and bypass surgery, these admissions did not constitute waiver of privacy right. Heda v. Superior Court (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 525, 528-529, 275 Cal. Rptr. 136

Court properly conducted in camera review of videotape of couple engaged in sexual activities in order to weigh their right of privacy against competing due process rights of defendant accused of molesting their daughter when defendant claimed daughter made up molestation story after viewing that videotape. Rubio v. Superior Court (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1343, 1349-1351, 249 Cal. Rptr. 419

Right to privacy did not support blanket denial of subpoena duces tecum for records of group health study when records were relevant to investigation of waste facility's impact on public health, but did support deletion of named medical records and information that identified individual participants. Kizer v. Sulnick (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 431, 438-439, 248 Cal. Rptr. 712

Discovery order requiring defendant in workplace sexual harassment action to answer deposition questions regarding identities of all female coworkers with whom he had sexual contact was impermissibly intrusive into sexual privacy of defendant and unknown women. Boler v. Superior Court (1987) 201 Cal. App. 3d 467, 474-475, 247 Cal. Rptr. 185

In defamation action based on public charges by minor's father that plaintiff had raped minor, minor's interest in sexual privacy was outweighed by plaintiff's interest in preserving reputation. Rider v. Superior Court (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 278, 282-287, 244 Cal. Rptr. 770

Corporation's confidential customer list constituted "sensitive information" entitled to qualified protection depending on balancing of factors for and against disclosure. Hofmann Corp. v. Superior Court (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 357, 362-363, 218 Cal. Rptr. 355

Protective order limiting disclosure of discovered financial information to attorney and prohibiting disclosure to discovering party was permissible, but good cause was not presumed when information went to heart of cause of action itself and was not merely needed for punitive damages. GT, Inc. v. Superior Court (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 748, 754-755, 198 Cal. Rptr. 892 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 2019(b) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(i)))

Party against whom financial information is sought is presumptively entitled to protective order restricting dissemination to persons for whom information isnecessary for trial preparation. Moskowitz v. Superior Court (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 313, 317-318, 187 Cal. Rptr. 4

Court is required to balance interest of private litigant to discover relevant facts against conflicting right of others to maintain reasonable privacy regarding financial affairs. Rifkind v. Superior Court (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 1045, 1050-1051, 177 Cal. Rptr. 82 , disapproved on other grounds in Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 704, 723, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 854 P.2d 1117

In defamation action against university and faculty members, compelled disclosure of defendant faculty member's personnel files was wrongfulinvasion of privacy right, when files had no direct relevance to issues in action and no compelling state interest requiring disclosure existed. Board of Trustees v. Superior Court (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 516, 526-527, 174 Cal. Rptr. 160

Interrogatories in action between former law partners seeking marginally private information as to client identification, final disposition of cases, and amount of fees awarded did not violate nonlitigant clients' rights of privacy. Willis v. Superior Court (1980) 112 Cal. App. 3d 277, 297-298, 169 Cal. Rptr. 301

Names and addresses of nonlitigant church members are protected from discovery by right of associational privacy absent waiver of right, showing of illegal activities, and demonstration of compelling state interest. Church of Hakeem, Inc. v. Superior Court (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 384, 387-390, 168 Cal. Rptr. 13

In action alleging conspiracy to defame, First Amendment right to associational privacy is not impinged by compelling limited discovery of individual defendants' affiliation with defendant organization. Bodenheimer v. Superior Court (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 885, 888-890, 167 Cal. Rptr. 26

Right to privacy in sexual matters is not limited to marital relationship. Morales v. Superior Court (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 283, 290, 160 Cal. Rptr. 194

[15] Psychotherapist-Patient Privilege

Evid. Code § 1012 (defining nature of psychotherapist-patient privilege) and Evid. Code § 1024 (providing exception to privilege when psychotherapist believes patient to be dangerous to himself or another) did not authorize parole authority to require parolee's waiver of psychotherapist-patient privilege to allow his privately retained psychotherapist to communicate with parole authority. In re Corona (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 315, 322, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 736

Discussing case law illustrating disclosures to third persons that are "reasonably necessary" to accomplish purpose for which psychotherapist was consulted, and holding, in grand jury investigation of allegations of child abuse against two priests, that only one of several documents prepared by Archbishop's staff was protected by psychotherapist-patient privilege, because this document supplied troubled priest's therapeutic team with information about his personal history as an aid to diagnosis and treatment. Roman Catholic Archbishop of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (People) (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 417, 450-455, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 209

Evid. Code § 1017, providing that psychotherapist-patient privilege applies to court-appointed expert in a criminal proceeding, does not apply in Sexually Violent Predator Act (SVPA) proceeding, because proceeding is deemed "criminal" for these purposes; therefore, court-appointed psychological evaluations performed at defendant's request in SVPA case were not confidential. Because evaluations were relevant under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2017(a) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010) and were not privileged, they were discoverable. People v. Angulo (2005) 129 Cal. App. 4th 1349, 1364-1367, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 189

Probation conditions that required all records related to juvenile defendant's treatment be made available on request to court and probation department were reasonable and did not violate juvenile's right of privacy or his psychotherapist-patient privilege, given state's legitimate countervailing interest in protecting public against defendant's violent, anti-social conduct and in determining whether he was fully complying with his probation conditions. In re Christopher M. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 684, 695, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 61

When psychotherapist, pursuant to Evid. Code § 1024, warned potential victim of patient's threats, psychotherapist is permitted to testify in later trial or proceeding about both substance of warning and patient's statements that caused or prompted warning. People v. Wharton (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 522, 554, 563, 280 Cal. Rptr. 631, 809 P. 2d 290

Exception to psychotherapist-patient privilege for reports of suspected child abuse under Penal Code § 11171(b) (now see Penal Code § 11171.2(b)) did not extend to disclosures already reported. People v. Stritzinger (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 505, 514, 194 Cal. Rptr. 431, 668 P.2d 738

Fact that defendant was motivated to participate in psychotherapy as condition of probation did not bar application of psychotherapist-patient privilege to records of that psychotherapy; therefore, records of psychotherapy ordered as condition of probation were protected from disclosure in subsequent criminal action when prosecution sought evidence regarding defendant's commission of a previous sexual offense. Story v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1007, 1016-1019, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 532

In juvenile dependency context, psychotherapist-patient privilege protected minor's confidential communications and the details of his therapy, but did not preclude his therapist from giving "circumscribed information to accomplish the information-gathering goal of therapy." In re Mark L. (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 573, 583-584, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 499

In juvenile dependency context, psychotherapist-patient privilege permitted limited disclosure of matters that would reasonably assist court in evaluating whether further orders are necessary for minor's benefit, while preserving the confidentiality of details of her therapy. In re Kristine W. (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 521, 528-529, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 369

In action alleging insurer's bad faith termination of benefits under disability policy, plaintiff was not entitled to discover names and addresses of other claimants whose psychiatric disability claims had been denied, because disclosure of claimants' names would reveal not only their identity but also nature of their psychiatric disability. Pollock v. Superior Court (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 817, 821, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 453

Defendant patient was entitled to prevent disclosure of any confidential communication she had with her psychiatrist, even though she revealed, both in her deposition in this case and in her previous workers' compensation claims for stress-related anxiety due to previous work-related incident, that she was seeing a psychiatrist; however, under Evid. Code § 1024, she could not prevent disclosure of any warning defendant employer received about her. San Diego Trolley, Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1083, 1096-1097, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 476

Psychotherapist-patient privilege did not preclude therapist from testifying concerning juvenile offender's participation and progress in court-ordered treatment plan. In re Pedro M. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 550, 554-555, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 839

Evid. Code § 1017 exception to psychiatrist-patient privilege (court-appointed psychiatrist) is for purpose of determining, for patient's or court's information, patient's mental or emotional condition; this exception is inapplicable when psychiatrist is appointed by the court for some reason other than gathering such information. In re Eduardo A. (1989) 257 Cal. Rptr. 23

Mere disclosure of patient's identity violates psychotherapist-patient privilege; policy requiring psychotherapist to warn of proclivities of dangerous patients in order to prevent harm to others is not implicated when persons sought to be identified are not sources of danger to public. Scull v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 784, 789, 792-793, 254 Cal. Rptr. 24

Group therapy participants are persons who are present to further interest of patient and reasonably necessary to accomplish purpose for which psychotherapist was consulted, and confidential communications with them are within psychotherapist-patient privilege. Farrell L. v. Superior Court (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 521, 527, 250 Cal. Rptr. 25

Plaintiffs who received Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3 notice that psychiatrist had been served with subpoena duces tecum requiring production of their psychotherapeutic records and that they had right to object waived psychotherapist-patient privilege by failing to take action to prevent unwanted disclosure. Inabnit v. Berkson (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1230, 1236-1239, 245 Cal. Rptr. 525

Communications between patient and unlicenced clinical social worker were privileged under Evid. Code § 1012, because communication by patient was to person reasonably necessary to transmit information to or assist psychotherapist in treatment. Luhdorff v. Superior Court (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 485, 489-492, 212 Cal. Rptr. 516

If psychotherapist reasonably believed that patient was dangerous within meaning of Evid. Code § 1024, then psychotherapist-patient privilege does not protect communications, and psychotherapist's records are subject to discovery. Mavroudis v. Superior Court (1980) 102 Cal. App. 3d 594, 603-604, 162 Cal. Rptr. 724 ; see also Lemelle v. Superior Court (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 148, 157-162, 143 Cal. Rptr. 450

[16] Sealed Court Records

When juvenile court records are sealed under Welf. & Inst. Code § 781, juvenile's privacy rights are subject to constitutional confrontation rights of criminal defendant in event of conflict, but civil party's ability to establish constitutional right to sealed information is doubtful. Parmett v. Superior Court (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1261, 1269, 262 Cal. Rptr. 387

[16A] Settlement or Mediation Efforts

Party cannot impliedly waive mediation confidentiality through litigation conduct, because Evid. Code § 1122 requires waiver to be express, not implied; and estoppel could not be applied to prevent defendant from tardily claiming mediation confidentiality, given that estoppel is not express statutory exception to mediation confidentiality. Simmons v. Ghaderi (2008) 44 Cal. 4th 570, 584-588, 80 Cal. Rptr. 3d 83, 187 P.3d 934

Under Evid. Code § 1119(b), photographs, videotapes, witness statements, and raw test data from physical samples, prepared "for the purpose of, in the course of, or pursuant to, a mediation" are protected by mediation privilege, and therefore are not admissible at trial and not subject to discovery; moreover, there is no "good cause" exception to statute's protection. Rojas v. Superior Court (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 407, 423-424, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 643, 93 P. 3d 260

Court assumed, without deciding, that court that ordered mediation may impose sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5(a) based on conduct during mediation, but declined to create judicial exception for reporting bad faith conduct or for imposition of sanctions under that section when doing so would require disclosure of communications or mediator's assessment of party's conduct. Foxgate Homeowners Ass'n v. Bramalea Cal. (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 1, 15, 108 Cal. Rptr.

Communications between an attorney and client are not within mediation confidentiality. Porter v. Wyner (2010) 183 Cal. App. 4th 949, 961-962, 107 Cal. Rptr. 3d 653 , modified, 5/10/2010

Communications between client and his law firm, two weeks before trial, were for trial strategy preparation, not just for mediation of underlying lawsuit, and therefore were not protected by either Evid. Code § 1119(a), (b), or by Evid. Code § 1119(c); firm failed to demonstrate sufficiently close link between communications and mediation to require application of mediation confidentiality protection. Cassel v. Superior Court (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 152, 164, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 501

Mediation confidentiality statutes protect mediation briefs and related e-mails; there is no nonstatutory "good cause" exception, even if strict limitations of mediation confidentiality shielded perjury and inconsistent statements. Wimsatt v. Superior Court (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 137, 142, 158-163, 61 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200

Settlement agreement signed after mediation was admissible in subsequent action to enforce settlement, even though parties' counsel (as opposed to the parties themselves) signed mediation-confidentiality waiver; settlement agreement is admissible under Evid. Code § 1123 and is not rendered unenforceable simply because it has not been signed personally by each of the litigants, provided that the written waiver was signed by each of the settling parties or their respective counsel. Stewart v. Preston Pipeline Inc. (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 1565, 1569, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 901

Evid. Code § 1122(a)(2) prevented defendant Los Angeles Archbishop from disclosing written summaries made of personnel records of priests accused of sexually molesting minors, because those summaries were prepared for purposes of ongoing mediation process, contained admissions of liability by the Archdiocese, and revealed something about mediation discussion; further, although Evid. Code § 1122(a)(1) permitted disclosure of mediation communications if all participants agreed, that provision did not apply because petitioners were mediation participants. Doe 1 v. Superior Court (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 1160, 1163

Termination review proceeding, held pursuant to an employment contract, was neither an arbitration nor a mediation, therefore Evid. Code §§ 703.5 and 1119, privileges applicable to those proceedings, did not apply. Saeta v. Superior Court (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 261, 267, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 610, 612

Mediation participants cannot waive their confidentiality rights in implied manner, by raising claim about agreement reached through mediation; thus, absent suitable express waivers from husband and wife, evidence of confidential conversations between them was inadmissible. Eisendrath v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 351, 364-365, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 716

[17] State Secret Privilege

State secrets privilege is available only to federal government to block discovery of any information that, if disclosed, would adversely affect national security; privilege is applied to prevent discovery relating to nation's defense capabilities, intelligence gathering methods, and diplomatic foreign relations. Rubin v. City of Los Angeles (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 560, 576-577, 235 Cal. Rptr. 516

[18] Tax Returns

Neither Civ. Code § 1799.1a nor Bus. & Prof. Code § 17530.5 creates privilege shielding litigant from discovery of litigant's own tax returns or making those returns inadmissible at trial, and neither statute applies to foreign tax returns; although California case law does create privilege for tax returns, that privilege does not apply to foreign taxes.

Firestone v. Hoffman (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1408, 1420, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 534

Submitting individual income tax return to bank to obtain loan does not effect waiver of privilege against forced disclosure of tax returns, because compliance with bank's requirement of submitting tax returns with loan application is not "an entirely voluntary relinquishment." Bank customer also has reasonable expectation of privacy in confidential information submitted with loan application, and when waiver of confidentiality of tax returns is argued, court should conduct in camera inspection to balance need for discovery against interests in privacy. Fortunato v. Superior Court (2003) 114 Cal. App 4th 475, 482-483, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 82

Tax privilege was inapplicable when record showed that defendant in civil suit engaged in conduct precluding plaintiffs from obtaining relevant nonprivileged financial information necessary to support plaintiffs' punitive damages claim, and there was no less intrusive alternative for plaintiffs to obtain the information, but requiring that defendant's husband receive notice and opportunity to be heard before court could compel disclosure of joint tax returns. Weingarten v. Superior Court (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 268, 271, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 371

Statutory tax return privilege protected estate tax returns from disclosure, given that defendants had not waived privilege and plaintiffs did not demonstrate any supervening public policy. Deary v. Superior Court (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1072, 1077-1078, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 132

Former Civ. Code §§ 4700.7, 4721(d) (now see Fam. Code § 3552) requiring production of state income tax returns in action for child support, is inapplicable until parent-child relationship is conclusively established. Thomas B. v. Superior Court (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 255, 261-263, 220 Cal. Rptr. 577

[19] Vehicle Accident Reports

Veh. Code § 20012 (confidentiality of accident reports) does not preclude state's discovery of data regarding prior accidents at certain location, provided data does not reveal identities or compromise privacy interests of reporting parties. Davies v. Superior Court (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 291, 300, 204 Cal. Rptr. 154, 682 P.2d 349 (disapproving prior inconsistent case law); see People v. Ansbro (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 273, 278, 200 Cal. Rptr. 210 (withholding relevant accident report information in criminal case as denial of due process)

California Highway Patrol accident investigation reports are within class of reports expressly declared by Veh. Code § 20014 to be for confidential use of designated state and local entities having jurisdiction over highway matters, and are not discoverable by private litigants, even though they contain information that is not confidential. Nelson v. Superior Court (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 444, 450-451, 229 Cal. Rptr. 94

[20] Waiver of Privilege Generally

Corporations' production of documents to government did not waive attorney-client privilege and work product protection when production was coerced by threat of indictment if corporations failed to cooperate. Regents of Univ. of Cal. v. Superior Court (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 672, 675, 683-684, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 186

Sending letters containing attorney's work product to auditors of defendant public agency, at defendant's direction, did not waive right to assert work product privilege with respect to those letters; letters themselves made clear that attorney did not intend to waive protection, he sent letters only to comply with defendant's request, and third party auditors had an interest in maintaining confidentiality of work product. Laguna Beach County Water Dist. v. Superior Court (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 1453, 1459-1461, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 387

Employer did not waive attorney-client privilege or work product protections by pleading adequacy of its prelitigation investigation as defense to action for sexual discrimination and harassment or by providing claimants substantial discovery of employer's nonattorney in-house investigation report, unless it could be established through other discovery that significant part of any particular communication had already been disclosed to third parties. Kaiser Found. Hospitals v. Superior Court (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1217, 1227, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 543

Under Evid. Code § 919(b) (improperly compelling disclosure), failure to seek review of prior court order compelling discovery was not waiver of privileges so as to prevent seeking relief from subsequent order requiring production. Schlumberger Ltd. v. Superior Court (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 386, 391-392, 171 Cal. Rptr. 413

[21] Trade Secrets Privilege

Public inspection provision of 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2646.6, which requires insurance companies to provide certain statistical data relating to insurer's California business to Insurance Commissioner, is valid, and trade secret privilege does not exempt that information from disclosure. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Garamendi (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 1029, 1037, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 343, 88 P.3d 71

While trade secret identification does not require "every minute detail" or "the greatest degree of particularity possible[,]" trade secret claimant's Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.210 trade secret statement was insufficient, in light of its broad language, surplusage, and voluminous attachments. Perlan Therapeutics, Inc. v. Superior Court (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 1333, 1350-1352, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 211

If trade secret designation is adequate to permit defendant to investigate whether plaintiff's alleged trade secrets were within public domain and to prepare a defense, and to permit trial court to determine scope of relevant discovery, plaintiff is not required to particularize how alleged secret differs from matters already known to skilled persons in the field. Brescia v. Angelin (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 133, 143, 90 Cal. Rptr. 3d 842

Identity of defendant's suppliers was protectable trade secret, because it was information that derived economic value from not being generally known, defendant had taken reasonable efforts to maintain secrecy of its sources, and less burdensome alternatives were available to plaintiff to establish that jeans sold by defendant were stolen. Citizens of Humanity, LLC v. Costco Wholesale Corp. (2009) 171 Cal. App. 4th 1, 13, 15-16, 89 Cal. Rptr. 3d 455

Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.210 is not limited in its application to causes of action under Uniform Trade Secrets Act, Civ. Code § 3426 et seq., for misappropriation of the trade secret, but extends to any cause of action that relates to the trade secret; trade secret has been described with "reasonable particularity" sufficient to permit discovery to begin when plaintiff makes a showing that is "reasonable"--that is, "fair, proper, just, rational." Advanced Modular Sputtering, Inc. v. Superior Court (Sputtered Films, Inc.) (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 826, 903, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 901

When plaintiffs' proper invocation of trade secret privilege, and blanket protective order they obtained, prevented defendant from examining key evidence which formed basis of plaintiffs' damage claim, trial court properly barred plaintiffs' damage evidence at trial. Steiny & Co. v. California Electric Supply Co. (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 285, 288, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 920

Employer's affirmative action plan and self-critical analyses prepared in compliance with federal contractor regulations are not protected by trade secrets privilege in employment discrimination litigation. Cloud v. Superior Court (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 1552, 1560, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 365

[22] Work Product Protection

Notes that contained defense counsel's thoughts and impressions were absolutely protected work product, and plaintiffs' attorney acted unethically by examining document more closely than was necessary to determine that its contents were confidential, failing to notify defense that he had a copy, and surreptitiously using it to plaintiffs' gain; disqualification was proper under these circumstances. Rico v. Mitsubishi Motors Corp. (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 807, 815, 817, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 758, 171 P.3d 1092

Work product did not lose its protection when it was disclosed to auditor in audit response letters, when letters themselves made clear that attorney did not intend to waive protection; he sent letters only to comply with defendant's request, and third party auditors had an interest in maintaining confidentiality of work product. Laguna Beach County Water Dist. v. Superior Court (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 1453, 1459-1461, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 387

Appellant attorney retained by two trustees of inter vivos trust waived right to claim work product privilege with respect to successor trustee because appellant attorney disclosed those documents to another attorney who was an agent of one, if not both, predecessor trustees; thus, appellant attorney effectively disclosed the documents to predecessor trustees, thereby waiving privilege with respect to both predecessor trustees and successor trustee. Eddy v. Fields (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 1543, 1549-1550, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 487

Corporation that was target of government investigation regarding improperly recorded revenues waived attorney-client privilege and work product protection when it shared privileged documents with government, despite confidentiality agreements that accompanied disclosures; "common interest" doctrine did not preclude disclosure, because there was no real alignment of interests between government and corporation under investigation for securities law violations. McKesson HBOC, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 1229, 1240, 9 Cal. Rptr. 3d 812, 818-821

When parties negotiating business transaction entered into joint defense agreement in anticipation of litigation by a third party, in camera review was required to determine whether disclosure of documents in course of transaction waived work product protection or attorney-client privilege. Joint defense agreement was not void as matter of public policy; agreement evidenced expectation of confidentiality necessary to avoid waiver by disclosure to someone outside attorney-client relationship, but could not protect documents from disclosure, unless they contained or reflected attorney-client communications or attorney work product. OXY Resources California LLC v. Superior Court (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 874, 891-895, 9 Cal. Rptr. 3d 621

Qui tam plaintiff who entered into joint prosecution agreement with government entity had work product interest in reports of expert retained as consultant, but not designated as witness, that counsel for government entity could not waive; no substantial evidence supported trial court's conclusion that denial of access to expert's information would unfairly prejudice defendant. Armenta v. Superior Court (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 525, 535-536, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 273 (2002)

Law firm that had represented corporation in merger transaction waived any right to protect its absolute work product created during merger from disclosure to corporation by undertaking to represent majority shareholders in separate action by corporation against shareholders arising from merger transaction. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 242, 246-249, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 371

Work product protection "is not waived except by a disclosure wholly inconsistent with the purpose of the privilege, which is to safeguard the attorney's work product and trial preparation." Raytheon Co. v. Superior Court (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 683, 689, 256 Cal. Rptr. 425

Crime-fraud exception to attorney-client privilege is not applicable to absolute work product; absolute work product protection continues to protect contents of writing delivered to client in confidence, and is not restricted to only those writings in attorney's possession. BP Alaska Exploration, Inc. v. Superior Court (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1240, 1249-1251, 1253-1260, 245 Cal. Rptr. 682

Work product protection is not applicable to attorney's notes made while attorney acted as business agent of client in real estate contract negotiations. Watt Indus., Inc. v. Superior Court (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 802, 805, 171 Cal. Rptr. 503

Work product protection extends beyond termination of litigation for which documents were prepared. Fellows v. Superior Court (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 55, 63, 166 Cal. Rptr. 274 ; Popelka, Allard, McCowan & Jones v. Superior Court (1980) 107 Cal. App. 3d 496, 502, 165 Cal. Rptr. 748 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 2106 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq.))

Party claiming conditional work product protection has initial burden of establishing that matter comes within protection, but party seeking disclosure has burden of establishing that denial of disclosure will unfairly prejudice preparation of claim or defense. Fellows v. Superior Court (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 55, 67, 166 Cal. Rptr. 274 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 2017 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq.))

Law firm's interoffice memoranda concerning previous action were writings reflecting attorney's impressions, conclusions, opinions, legal research, or theories, and as such were absolutely privileged from discovery. Popelka, Allard, McCowan & Jones v. Superior Court (1980) 107 Cal. App. 3d 496, 500, 165 Cal. Rptr. 748

Chapter 192 DISCOVERY: SANCTIONS FOR DISCOVERY MISUSE
PART I. SCOPE

§ 192.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses discovery sanctions under the Civil Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq.]. It includes general forms for motions, together with proposed orders, for use in seeking an issue, evidence, or terminating sanction [see §§ 192.50 -192.53], or a contempt sanction [see §§ 192.60, 192.61].

The Civil Discovery Act includes numerous provisions for the imposition of sanctions in the context of particular proceedings involving a particular discovery method. For further discussion of these provisions, and forms for use in seeking specific discovery orders that include the imposition of sanctions authorized in that specific proceeding, see the chapters relating to the specific methods of discovery [see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions , through Ch. 198, Discovery: Exchange of Expert Witness Information].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-192 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 192.10

§ 192.10 Governing Law

Discovery sanctions are governed generally by Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq., which provides a nonexclusive list of discovery misuses, and lists the types of sanctions that may used to prevent and correct such misuses, and specifies general requirements for a motion seeking discovery sanctions. Provisions authorizing the imposition of sanctions in specific situations are also found throughout the Civil Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq.; see discussion in §§ 192.14[1] and 192.15[1]].

The statewide rules of court include provisions applicable to discovery motions in which sanctions are authorized or sought. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348, authorizes the imposition of sanctions in favor or a party who seeks an order compelling discovery even when no opposition was filed, opposition was withdrawn, or requested discovery was provided after the filing of the motion, although it also provides that such conduct by the opposing party is not to be deemed an admission that the motion was proper or that sanctions should be awarded. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a), requires the filing of a separate statement with any motion seeking an issue or evidentiary sanction [see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c) (contents of separate statement)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-192 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 192.11

§ 192.11 Discovery Sanctions: To Prevent and Correct Discovery Misuses

The purpose of discovery sanctions is not to provide a weapon for punishment, forfeiture, or avoidance of trial on the merits. Rather, the sanctions are designed to prevent abuses in the discovery process and to correct the problem presented in a specific case. The penalty imposed should not exceed that which is required to protect the interest of the party entitled to, but denied, discovery. The sanction should not operate to put the prevailing party in a better position than that party would have been in if he or she had obtained the discovery sought and it had been completely favorable to the party's case [McGinty v. Superior Court (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 204, 210-216, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 292] .

Discovery sanctions should be appropriate to the dereliction and should not exceed that which is required to protect the interests of the party entitled to but denied discovery. The court may not impose sanctions which are designated not to accomplish the objects of discovery but to impose punishment [Vallbona v. Springer (1996) 43 Cal. App. 4th 1525, 1545, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 311] .

Chapter 192 DISCOVERY: SANCTIONS FOR DISCOVERY MISUSE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-192 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 192.12

§ 192.12 Discovery Misuses Defined

Misuses of the discovery process include, but are not limited to, the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010]:

- Persisting, over objection and without substantial justification, in an attempt to obtain information or materials that are outside the scope of permissible discovery.

- Using a discovery method in a manner that does not comply with its specified procedures.

- Employing a discovery method in manner or to an extent that causes unwarranted annoyance, embarrassment, or oppression, or undue burden and expense.

- Failing to respond or submit to an authorized method of discovery.

- Making, without substantial justification, an unmeritorious objection to discovery.

- Making an evasive response to discovery.

- Disobeying a court order to provide discovery.

- Making or opposing, unsuccessfully and without substantial justification, a motion to compel or to limit discovery.

- Failing to confer in person, by telephone, or by letter with an opposing party or attorney in a reasonable and good faith attempt to resolve informally any dispute concerning discovery, if the section governing a particular discovery motion requires the filing of a declaration stating facts showing that the attempt has been made. Notwithstanding the outcome of the particular discovery motion, the court must impose a monetary sanction ordering that any party or attorney who fails to confer as required pay the reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, incurred by anyone as a result of that conduct [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.020].

Sanctionable misconduct not specifically listed includes attorney's participating in discovery for corporate client that attorney knew was a suspended corporation and therefore disabled from litigation [Palm Valley Homeowners Assoc., Inc. v. Design MTC (2001) 85 Cal. App. 4th 553, 563-564, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 350 (example of sanctions imposed for conduct not specifically listed); see also Mattco Forge, Inc. v. Arthur Young & Co. (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1429, 1437-1438, 273 Cal. Rptr. 262] .

§ 192.13 Types of Discovery Sanctions

[1] In General

To the extent authorized by the section governing any particular discovery method or any other provision of the Civil Discovery Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq.), the trial court, after notice to any affected party, person, or attorney, and after opportunity for hearing, may impose the following sanctions against anyone engaging in conduct constituting a misuse of the discovery process [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030]:

- A monetary sanction [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a); see [2], below].
- An issue, evidence, or terminating sanction [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(b)-(d); see [3], below].
- A contempt sanction [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(e); see [4], below].

For discussion of what constitutes a discovery "misuse," see § 192.12. For discussion of specific provisions of the Discovery Act that authorize the imposition of one or more of the foregoing sanctions, see §§ 192.14 and 192.15.

[2] Monetary Sanction

[a] Defined

To the extent authorized by a specific provision of the Civil Discovery Act, after notice and an opportunity for hearing [see [1], above, and § 192.14], the trial court may impose a monetary sanction against one who engages in a misuse of the discovery process, or any attorney advising that conduct, or both [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a)]. The court also may impose a monetary sanction against one who unsuccessfully asserts that another has engaged in the misuse of the discovery process, or on any attorney who advised that assertion, or on both [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a)].

Many particular motions for a discovery order must be supported by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of any issue presented by the motion [see discussion in Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1]]. In these situations, a monetary sanction must be imposed against one who fails to confer with an opposing party or attorney concerning the dispute, regardless of the outcome of the motion [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.020, discussed in § 192.12]. When appropriate, the court also may impose monetary sanctions on a party who made some effort to obtain informal resolution when it was required by statute, but whose effort is found to be inadequate [see Obregon v. Superior Court (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 424, 435, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 62 ; but see Clement v. Alegre (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 1277, 1293-1294, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 791 (fact that defendant "never compromised his position" that interrogatories were proper did not constitute failure to meet and confer, and plaintiff's argument that defendant failed to properly engage in meet and confer process was without merit when exchange of letters reflected that parties were at an impasse that could not be resolved through meet and confer)].

[b] Monetary Sanction Is Generally Required When Authorized

If a monetary sanction is authorized by any provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq., the court must impose that sanction unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a)].

This requirement effectively shifts the burden of showing substantial justification on the party against whom sanctions are sought [see Reporter's Notes to Proposed (former) Code Civ. Proc. § 2023(b); cf. former Code Civ. Proc. § 2034 (authorizing imposition of monetary sanction only on finding of lack of substantial justification); see also Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.13[2]].

Most of the provisions in the Discovery Act that specifically authorize a monetary sanction also require the sanction to be imposed, absent a showing of substantial justification or other mitigating circumstances, either for unsuccessfully making or opposing a particular motion [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2017.220(b), 2019.030(c); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 (discussed in § 192.12)], or for other conduct [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(c)(1)]. For further discussion of this issue, see § 192.15[2].

The court may award sanctions in favor of a party who files a motion to compel discovery, even though no opposition to the motion was filed, or opposition to the motion was withdrawn, or the requested discovery was provided to the moving party after the motion was filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348]. The court may not, however, deem the opposing party's failure to file written opposition, failure to appear at a hearing, or voluntary provision discovery to be an admission that the motion was proper or that sanctions should be awarded [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348].

The fact that a party is not represented by counsel is not, by itself, necessarily sufficient reason for the court to find that imposition of a monetary sanction against that party would be unjust [see Midwife v. Bernal (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 57, 65, 249 Cal. Rptr. 708 (decided under prior law)].

Although Code Civ. Proc. § 1283.05(b) gives arbitrators the power to enforce the rights, remedies, procedures, duties, liabilities, and obligations of discovery, the arbitrator retains certain discretion and flexibility in ruling on discovery motions, and therefore is not required to impose sanctions, even if a trial court would be required to do so in the same circumstances [Alexander v. Blue Cross of California (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 1082, 1089, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 431] .

[c] Amount of Monetary Sanction Equals Reasonable Expenses Incurred

An order imposing a monetary sanction directs the person against whom the sanction is imposed to pay the reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, incurred by anyone as a result of the discovery misuse [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a)].

The amount of a monetary sanction must reflect the actual amount of attorney's fees and costs incurred by the party in whose favor the sanction is awarded, for example, in an attempt to obtain compliance with a discovery request. Moreover, the trial court must determine that such amount spent or incurred was reasonable [In re Marriage of Niklas

For example, an attorney who is party to an action acting in propria persona does not actually "incur" attorney's fees, because he or she does not become liable to pay compensation for legal representation. Such a party is therefore not entitled to an award of monetary sanctions under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023(b)(1) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a)) when the amount is based on attorney's fees that he or she purportedly incurred in compelling compliance with a discovery request [Argaman v. Ratan (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 1173, 1180, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 917 (reasoning that awarding sanctions under these circumstances would result in disparate treatment between self-represented lawyer-litigants and self-represented non-lawyers involved in discovery disputes)]. Even if the value of this pro se litigant's time and effort were considered a "reasonable expense" [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a)], it would not be compensable under the statute because it has not actually been incurred [Argaman v. Ratan (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 1173, 1179-1180, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 917] .

One court of appeal, however, has held that a party represented by pro bono counsel was entitled to an award of sanctions under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(j)(3) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(c)) and former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq.). The opposing party twice failed to appeal at a noticed deposition. Even though the party did not actually "incur" additional fees as a result of the opposing party's conduct, there was no finding that the failure to appeal was "with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust" [Do v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1210, 1213, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 855] . The court distinguished Argaman, in which the court of appeal concluded that awarding sanctions in the form of fees for discovery abuses by their opponents to lawyers representing themselves would result in disparate treatment between self-represented lawyer-litigants and self-represented non-lawyers. Rather, in this case, the court reasoned that "to permit lawyers who do not charge their clients to obtain monetary discovery sanctions in the form of fees does not result in disparate treatment; rather, the opposite is true" [Do v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1210, 1217, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 855] . The court noted that to hold that parties represented by lawyers who provide their services free of charge are not entitled to sanctions, while parties who have to pay fees are, would be unfair, in effect creating two separate classes of discovery and granting different rights and remedies to each [Do v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1210, 1217-1218, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 855] .

[d] Monetary Sanctions Against Attorney

Unlike monetary sanctions against a party, which are based on the party's misuse of the discovery process, monetary sanctions against a party's attorney require a finding that the attorney advised the conduct [Ghanooni v. Super Shuttle (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 256, 261, 24 Cal.Rptr.2d 501 (unrebutted declarations of plaintiff's counsel were sufficient to establish that plaintiff's refusal to submit to X-rays was not based on counsel's advice)].

When monetary sanctions are sought against an attorney for his or her advice to a client engaging in a discovery abuse, the attorney, rather than the party seeking sanctions, has the burden of proving that the discovery misuse was not based on his or her advice [see Corns v. Miller (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 195, 200, 226 Cal. Rptr. 247 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 2034(b)(2)(D); now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a))].

[e] Written Findings Regarding Monetary Sanctions

Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. does not require the trial court to make findings before it issues monetary sanctions [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq.; Ghanooni v. Super Shuttle (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 256, 261, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 501] . Nor do any of the provisions specifically authorizing monetary sanctions [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.410(d), 2025.420(d), 2025.450(c), 2025.480(f), 2025.520(h) (deposition), 2028.040(c) (deposition by written questions), 2030.090(d), 2030.290(c), 2030.300(d), 2030.310(d) (interrogatory), 2031.060(h), (i), 2031.300(c), (d), 2031.310(h), (j), 2031.320(b), (d) (inspection, copying, testing, sampling of documents, tangible things, places, or electronically stored information), 2032.240(c), 2032.250(b), 2032.410, 2032.420, 2032.510(f), 2032.620(b), 2032.650(b) (physical or mental examination), 2033.080(d), 2033.280(c), 2033.290(d) (requests for admissions), 2034.250(d), 2034.470(g), 2034.630, 2034.730 (exchange of expert witness information)].

The court's failure to make written findings when issuing monetary sanctions against a party whose discovery misuse consisted of taking an unsuccessful position on a motion that provided for monetary sanctions against the unsuccessful party is not a violation of procedural due process [see Estate of Ruchti (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1593, 1603-1604, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 151] .

On the other hand, written findings are necessary when the trial court determines that monetary sanctions are not to be imposed when they otherwise required, because it has found that their imposition would be unjust under the circumstances, for example, in that the person subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification [Estate of Ruchti (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1593, 1603, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 151 (monetary sanctions under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(i) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(d)); Mattco Forge, Inc. v. Arthur Young & Co. (10) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1429, 1438, 273 Cal. Rptr. 262 (monetary sanctions under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(e)(6); see now Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(h))].

If an party subject to monetary sanctions desires written findings, he or she is not precluded from requesting them from the trial court [see Estate of Ruchti (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1593, 1604, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 151 (noting that unsuccessful party failed to request findings from the trial court, and thus waived any entitlement to successfully raise the issue on appeal)].

A party who seeks sanctions must file a noticed motion [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030; [a]-[b], above]. For practical purposes, the notice of intent to seek sanctions ordinarily is included in the body of the discovery motion [see, e.g., § 192.50[1]]. However, one court of appeal has held that a separate motion for discovery monetary sanctions may be made after an underlying motion to compel further response to an inspection demand is litigated [London v. Dri-Honing Corp. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1001, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 240 (employee's separate motion for sanctions was legally authorized, properly noticed, and timely made)]. While the better practice may be to include the request for monetary sanctions in the motion to compel further response, there is no legal requirement to do so [London v. Dri-Honing Corp. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1008, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 240] . The timeliness of a separate motion for sanctions is subject to the trial court's discretion, rather than the 45-day limit from the time of the initial service of the response under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310(c) [London v. Dri-Honing Corp. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1009, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 240] .

Discovery sanctions may not be ordered ex parte, and an order purporting to do so is void [Parker v. Wolters Kluwer United States, Inc. (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 285, 296, 57 Cal. Rptr. 3d 18 ; Sole Energy Co. v. Hodges (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 199, 208, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 823] . For further discussion of the notice requirements of the discovery statute and due process considerations, see § 192.19.

[g] Monetary Sanctions Under Non-Discovery Act Provisions

Sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 (governing pleading abuses) may not be sought in connection with abuses of the discovery process [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(g)]. The California Supreme Court has clarified that former Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 (allowing sanctions for frivolous actions or delaying tactics to be sought in connection with misuses of the discovery process) does not authorize trial courts to impose sanctions for any form of litigation misconduct arising "from a complaint filed, or a proceeding initiated" after December 31, 1994. The Court held that Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 and former Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 establish mutually exclusive sanctions regimes, with Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 controlling in proceedings initiated before January 1, 1995, and Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 controlling after that date [Olmstead v. Arthur J. Gallagher & Co. (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 804, 811-812, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 298, 86 P.3d 354 (rejecting court of appeal's interpretation that former Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 applies after 1994 to sanctions for conduct not involving pleadings)].

A trial court also has general authority to impose monetary sanctions for a violation of the applicable statewide rules of court [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30(b); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2 (authorizing trial courts to adopt local rules providing for the imposition of sanctions for violation of local rules)].

For further discussion of provisions under general law relating to monetary sanctions, see Ch. 510, Sanctions .

[3] Issue, Evidence, and Terminating Sanctions

[a] Defined

[i] Issue Sanction

To the extent authorized by a specific provision of the Discovery Act, after notice and an opportunity for hearing [see [1], above, and § 192.14], the trial court may impose an issue sanction [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(b)].

An order imposing an issue sanction directs that designated facts be taken as established in the action in accordance with the claim of the party adversely affected by a misuse of the discovery process. Such an order may also direct that a party engaging in a misuse of the discovery process be prohibited from supporting or opposing designated claims or defenses [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(b)].

[ii] Evidence Sanction

To the extent authorized by a specific provision of the Discovery Act, after notice and an opportunity for hearing [see [1], above, and § 192.14], the trial court may impose an evidence sanction [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(c)].

An evidence sanction is an order prohibiting any party engaging in a misuse of the discovery process from introducing designated matters in evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(c)].

[iii] Terminating Sanction

To the extent authorized by a specific provision of the Discovery Act, after notice and an opportunity for hearing [see [1], above, and § 192.14], the trial court may impose a terminating sanction [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(d)].

An order imposing a terminating sanction is one of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(d)]:

- An order striking out the pleadings or parts of the pleadings of a party engaging in a misuse of the discovery process.

- An order staying further proceedings by a party engaging in a misuse of the discovery process until an order for discovery is obeyed.

- An order dismissing the action, or any part of the action, of a party engaging in a misuse of the discovery process.

- An order rendering a judgment by default against a party engaging in a misuse of the discovery process.

This power to impose evidentiary sanctions under the Civil Discovery Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq.) as a remedy for litigation misconduct supplements, but does not supplant, a court's inherent power to deal with litigation abuse [Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. v. Superior Court (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 272, 285-291, 245 Cal. Rptr. 873] . Thus, in a case of first impression, one court of appeal has held that a trial court, when faced with pervasive, deliberate, and egregious misconduct--abuse that makes lesser sanctions inadequate to ensure a fair trial--may use its inherent judicial power to dismiss the action [Stephen Slesinger, Inc. v. The Walt Disney Co. (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 736, 758, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 268] . In that case, the trial court properly terminated litigation for discovery misconduct "run riot," including plaintiff's employment of an investigator to steal confidential documents from defendant's secure facilities and trash receptacles, altering those documents with the intent to mislead, and lying about the source and number of the stolen documents in its verified discovery responses [Stephen Slesinger, Inc. v. The Walt Disney Co. (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 736, 744-756, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 268 ; compare New Albertsons, Inc. v. Superior Court (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 1403, 1431-1434, 1426, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 457 (imposition of evidence and issue sanctions based on court's inherent power to control litigation, absent defendant's failure to obey order compelling discovery, was abuse of discretion when there was no order compelling defendant to produce video recordings, and real parties had waived right to compel further response or inspection; sanctions based on court's inherent power are reserved for egregious violations of discovery process)].

[b] Determining Whether Issue, Evidence, or Terminating Sanction Is Proper

[i] Court Has Discretionary Power to Make Determination

Issue, evidence, and terminating sanctions generally are authorized to be imposed against a party who fails to obey an order compelling discovery [see also discussion in § 192.15[3]]. In these situations the court is expressly empowered to make any order that is just, including the imposition of an issue, evidence, or terminating sanction, or in addition to or in lieu of these, a monetary sanction [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.450(d), 2025.480(g), 2030.290(c), 2030.300(e), 2031.300(c), (d), 2031.310(i), (j), 2031.320(c), (d)].

Although the provisions authorizing issue, evidence, or terminating sanctions typically involve a refusal to comply with an order compelling discovery, these sanctions may be appropriate absent a prior order compelling discovery, or its equivalent, if the misconduct is sufficiently egregious [see New Albertsons, Inc. v. Superior Court (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 1403, 1408, 1426, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 457 (collecting cases); Karlsson v. Ford Motor Co. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1202, 1214-1215, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 265 (violation of discovery order was not prerequisite to issue and evidentiary sanctions based on pattern of discovery abuse that effectively led to loss of evidence, citing Vallbona and Do It Urself Moving & Storage, Inc.); Vallbona v. Springer (1996) 43 Cal. App. 4th 1525, 1545, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 311 (evidence and issue sanctions were properly imposed without violation of order compelling production of documents, when requiring requesting party to seek order would have been futile, given responding party's claim that requested documents had been stolen); Do It Urself Moving & Storage, Inc. v. Brown, Leifer, Slatkin & Berns (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 27, 35-37, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 396 (evidence sanctions were appropriate despite absence of order compelling discovery, when sanctioned party concededly could not provide audit it had promised)].

The court's discretionary power in determining which sanction to impose in these situations appears to remain limited, as under prior law, by the principle that discovery sanctions are remedial rather than punitive [see Kahn v. Kahn (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 372, 381, 137 Cal. Rptr. 332] . That is, the discretionary imposition of a sanction is proper when it is suitable and necessary to enable the party seeking discovery to obtain the objects of the discovery sought, but not when it places the prevailing party in a better position than if discovery had been obtained [see Wilson v. Jefferson (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 952, 958, 210 Cal. Rptr. 464 ; Caryl Richards, Inc. v. Superior Court (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 300, 303-304, 10 Cal. Rptr. 377] .

Thus, imposition of an issue, evidence, or terminating sanction must be appropriate to the dereliction and must not exceed that required to protect the interests of the party wrongfully denied discovery [In re Marriage of Economou (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1466, 1475, 274 Cal. Rptr. 473 ; see In re Marriage of Michaely (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 802, 810, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 56 (sanctions, in form of factual findings, were properly imposed on husband in marital dissolution proceeding, based on his egregious abuse of discovery process, both in his document production and in his answers to questions)]. For example, one court of appeal declined to impose an issue preclusion sanction against a party for its failure to produce, as specified in deposition notices, and to answer at appropriate depositions, absent violation of an order to compel [Maldonado v. Superior Court (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1390, 1399, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 137] . Although the court noted that some courts have imposed more serious sanctions under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq.), even when no specific order was violated, those cases involved repeated and willful refusals to permit discovery or produce documents over a lengthy period of time, resulting in evidence becoming unavailable [Maldonado v. Superior Court (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1390, 1398-1399, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 137 (noting, however, that monetary sanctions might well be warranted under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(o) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480))].

For forms for use in seeking the imposition of issue, evidence, or terminating sanctions for failure to obey a discovery order, see §§ 192.50 -192.53.

[ii] When Issue or Evidence Sanction Proper

An issue or evidence sanction may be appropriate when a party repeatedly and willfully fails to provide relevant, non-privileged evidence to the opposing party as required by the discovery rules, even if the sanction proves determinative in terminating the plaintiff's case [see Karlsson v. Ford Motor Co. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1202, 1215-1216, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 265 (evidence preclusion sanctions against manufacturer on issues of warnings and technical feasibility of safer, alternative seat belt design in minivan were proper under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030, in product liability suit, because manufacturer's repeated pattern of abuse led to loss of evidence on failure to warn); Juarez v. Boy Scouts of America, Inc. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 377, 385, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 12 (in action alleging sexual abuse of plaintiff by employee of defendant, court upheld evidence sanctions against plaintiff, conclusively establishing that no information was available to defendants to cause them to suspect that scoutmaster had propensity to molest children before he was accused of molesting plaintiff, following plaintiff's repeated failures to comply with discovery orders to produce any tangible evidence which would have put defendants on notice that scoutmaster was predisposed toward misconduct); Wells Fargo Bank v. DiLeonardo (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 873, 878-879, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 16 (issue sanctions properly applied to beneficiary's objections to trustee's account after beneficiary refused to comply with court order compelling production of documents); Waicis v. Superior Court (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 283, 287, 276 Cal. Rptr. 45 (testimony of uncooperative deponent was excluded); Deyo v. Kilbourne (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 771, 792, 149 Cal. Rptr. 499 ; see also Young v. Rosenthal (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 96, 117-118, 260 Cal. Rptr. 369 (when party had repeatedly failed to comply with discovery requests and with order enforcing stipulation for discovery, court properly deemed established facts solicited by unanswered interrogatories, precluded noncomplying party from using requested documents that were never identified or produced, and prohibited noncomplying party from testifying); Sauer v. Superior Court (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 213, 228-229, 240 Cal. Rptr. 489 (order precluding plaintiff in wrongful discharge action from proving economic damages is proper when he willfully failed to obey order compelling production of financial records)].

The rationale behind these cases is "that a persistent refusal to comply with an order for the production of evidence is tantamount to an admission that the disobedient party really has no meritorious claim" [Juarez v. Boy Scouts of America, Inc. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 377, 390, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 12 (quoting Kahn v. Kahn (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 372, 382, 137 Cal. Rptr. 332)]. This rationale, however, did not justify imposition of an evidence sanction based on the failure to supplement a response promptly, when no order compelling further answers had been sought or entered, and the trial court made no finding that the initial responses were willfully false [see Biles v. Exxon Mobil Corp. (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 1315, 1327, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 282] .

[iii] When Terminating Sanction Proper

Of the terminating sanctions, default and dismissal were held under prior law to be drastic remedies to be used only sparingly [see Garza v. Delano Union Elementary School Dist. (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 303, 315, 167 Cal. Rptr. 629 (dismissal improper when lesser sanction would have been sufficient); Kaplan v. Eldorado Ins. Co. (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 587, 591, 127 Cal. Rptr. 699 (default)]. Under current law, dismissal is considered a proper sanction for failure to comply with a rule or an order only if the court's authority "cannot be vindicated through the imposition of a less severe alternative" [Rail Serv. of Am. v. State Comp. Ins. Fund (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 323, 331-332, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 700] . The trial court may impose sanctions that "are suitable and necessary to enable the party seeking discovery to obtain the objects of the discovery he [or she] seeks but the court may not impose sanctions which are designed not to accomplish the objects of the discovery but to impose punishment" [Rail Services of America v. State Comp. Ins. Fund (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 323, 331-332, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 700 (italics in original)]. In other words, discovery sanctions exist "not to provide a weapon for punishment for past violations or penalty for past conduct but to secure compliance with orders of the court" [Welgoss v. End (1967) 252 Cal. App. 2d 982, 992, 61 Cal. Rptr. 52 , quoted with approval in Electronic Funds Solutions, LLC v. Murphy (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 1161, 1183, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 663] .

A trial court generally will impose a terminating sanction after considering the totality of the circumstances: conduct of the party to determine if the action is willful; the detriment to the propounding part; and the number of formal and informal attempts to obtain the discovery [see Lang v. Hochman (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 1225, 1246, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 322 (citing cases imposing terminating sanctions when offending party spent months avoiding or evading discovery)].

One situation in which dismissal is appropriate is when a party has persistently failed to provide information; that conduct gives rise to a presumption that party's cause of action is without merit [see Kahn v. Kahn (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 372, 383, 137 Cal. Rptr. 332 ; see also Lang v. Hochman (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 1225, 1246-1247, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 322 (terminating sanctions under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023(b)(4) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(d)) and $22 million default judgment against defendants were appropriate when substantial record showed that defendants failed to turn over all documents requested or to respond to interrogatories and requests for admission after numerous discovery requests and court orders); Laguna Auto Body v. Farmers Ins. Exchange (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 481, 486-491, 282 Cal. Rptr. 530 (dismissal sanction was appropriate, even without imposition of prior monetary sanctions, when it was culmination of history of acts in which sanctioned party obstructed discovery, failed to honor stipulation with opposing counsel that it would comply, and defied court; disapproved by Garcia v. McCutchen (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 469, 478 n.4, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 319, 940 P.2d 906 , to extent it suggests in dicta that Gov. Code § 68608(b) controls over Code Civil Proc. § 575.2(b) to allow terminating sanction in fast track matters when attorney, but not party, has violated local rules)].

Destroying evidence in response to a discovery request after litigation has begun is a misuse of the discovery process with the meaning of Code Civil Proc. § 2023.101, as is destruction in anticipation of a discovery request [see Cedars-Sinai Med. Ctr. v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1, 12, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 248, 954 P.2d 511 (examining broad range of sanctions available under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq.) as deterrents to litigant's spoliation of evidence)]. Thus, for example, a court may properly apply a terminating sanction for repeated violations of stipulations and court orders, for the forging of a document offered as true, and for the deliberate destruction of evidence pertinent to exposing that fact of forgery [R.S. Creative, Inc. v. Creative Cotton, Ltd. (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 486, 496, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 353] . A terminating sanction also was merited under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010(d) and 2023.030(d) when plaintiff had intentionally allowed material unfavorable to his legal malpractice claims to be destroyed [Williams v. Russ (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 1215, 1224-1225, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 813].

Similarly, a terminating sanction was appropriate under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023(b)(4)(A) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(d)(1)) for "pervasive and consistent" misuse of the discovery process, including failure to comply with any discovery orders regarding plaintiffs' document inspection demands and specially prepared interrogatories, and the intentional, "brazen" destruction of data on the hard drives of several computers [Electronic Funds Solutions, LLC v. Murphy (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 1161, 1183-1184, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 663] .

In an action for violation of the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act (Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.), breach of express warranty, breach of implied warranty, and fraud, the trial court abused its discretion by failing to impose terminating sanctions against defendant for its consistent and serious misuse of the discovery process. Defendant had engaged in repeated and egregious violations of the discovery laws--including failure to timely produce relevant and properly demanded, but potentially damaging, documents--that "not only impaired plaintiff's rights, but threatened the integrity of the judicial process" [Doppes v. Bentley Motors, Inc. (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 967, 971, 993, 94 Cal. Rptr. 3d 802] .

In contrast, dismissal is not appropriate when it is ordered as punishment for failure to pay a monetary sanction [Newland v. Superior Court (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 608, 615, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 24 ; Hurtado v. Western Medical Center (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1198, 1204, 272 Cal. Rptr. 324] . Dismissal under those circumstances constitutes a violation of the plaintiff's due process rights [Hurtado v. Western Medical Center (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1198, 1204, 272 Cal. Rptr. 324] . The dismissal sanction is based on a party's disobedience of a court order compelling discovery, and will not be imposed in the absence of such an order [Ruvalcaba v. Government Employees Ins. Co. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1579, 1581, 272 Cal. Rptr. 541 (dismissal inappropriate sanction against party who, despite two extensions to respond, failed to comply with repeated demands for production of documents because there had been no court order compelling discovery)]. However, one court of appeal found the trial court was justified in imposing terminating sanctions without evidence of violation of a court order. In that case, a stipulation signed by both parties waived the right to insist on formal order compelling responses to specific interrogatories and requests for production of documents as a precursor to imposing terminating sanctions, given that plaintiff's discovery violations were willful, preceded by a history of abuse, and evidence showed that less severe sanctions would not produce compliance [Mileikowsky v. Tenet Healthsystem (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 262, 279-280, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 831 ("the stipulation can be seen as tantamount to the requisite order"); see Garber & Assoc. v. Eskandarian (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 813, 821-822, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 (imposition of terminating sanctions was appropriate, even though defendants claimed that they had had no contact with their attorney and thus had no notice of trial court's orders; defendants "could not disappear in the midst of a pending case and avoid the consequences of such a tactic")]. Further, default as a sanction for defendant's extreme misuse of the discovery process does not apply when defendant simply fails to appear at trial [Heidary v. Yadollahi (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 857, 864, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 695] .

A terminating sanction is an appropriate sanction for a defendant's repeated abuses of the discovery process. For example, it is entirely appropriate for a court to strike the defendants' answer to the complaint and to enter their default when they have repeatedly attempted to thwart the plaintiff's legitimate attempts to obtain information from them [Reedy v. Bussell (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 1272, 1293, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 216 (terminating sanctions were appropriate based on defendants' recalcitrance "in virtually every aspect of discovery," including repeated willful failure to produce documents or provide answers to discovery and to complete depositions as ordered); Collisson & Kaplan v. Hartunian (1994) 21 Cal. App. 4th 1611, 1617-1620, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 786 (defendants failed to respond entirely, responded in stock phrases, or made meritless objections to plaintiff's interrogatories, requests for documents, and requests for admissions; numerous formal and informal attempts to secure requested information were unavailing); see also Electronic Funds Solutions, LLC v. Murphy (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 1161, 1183-1184, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 663 (striking defendants' answer as sanction for "pervasive and consistent" misuse of discovery process, including failure to comply with any discovery orders regarding plaintiffs' document inspection demands and interrogatories, intentional, "brazen" destruction of data on hard drives of several computers, violation of discovery stay, interference with service of subpoena, and failure to respond to supplemental inspection demand)].

Similarly, a trial court does not abuse its discretion by dismissing a plaintiff's complaint, based on the plaintiff's continued refusal to cooperate with discovery with respect to the complaint against the defendant [Parker v. Wolters Kluwer United States, Inc. (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 285, 297, 57 Cal. Rptr. 3d 18 (terminating sanctions were justified after plaintiff refused to testify at his first deposition, disrupted and unilaterally terminated his second deposition, violated order to appear for his third deposition, and violated order to provide verified supplemental answers to interrogatories); see R.S. Creative, Inc. v. Creative Cotton, Ltd. (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 486, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 353 (dismissing plaintiffs' complaint appropriate sanction for repeated violations of stipulations and court orders, forgery of document offered as true, and deliberate destruction of evidence pertinent to exposing forgery)].

If a default judgment is entered as a terminating sanction, the judgment cannot exceed the relief demanded in the complaint [Electronic Funds Solutions, LLC v. Murphy (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 1161, 1175, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 663 (affirming that Code Civ. Proc. § 580, limiting award of compensatory damages to amount specified in complaint, continues to govern amount of damages available on default judgment entered as discovery sanction); Greenup v. Rodman (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 822, 830, 231 Cal. Rptr. 220, 726 P.2d 1295] . This rule applies if the default is entered as a result of discovery sanctions [Reedy v. Bussell (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 1272, 1294, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 216 , citing Greenup v. Rodman (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 822, 826, 231 Cal. Rptr. 220, 726 P.2d 1295] . However, if the complaint fails to specify the amount of damages sought, the trial court may impose a more limited discovery sanction that precludes litigation of other aspects of the case, while leaving the parties to have a contested trial on damages [Reedy v. Bussell (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 1272, 1294, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 216 (trial court erred in granting default judgments on two petitions that did not specify amount of damages, remanding to reconsider whether limited sanctions, relating to liability only, would be appropriate)].

Similarly, before the defendant's answer may be stricken and a default judgment entered as a discovery sanction, notice of the amount of damages sought in a personal injury or wrongful death action, as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11, must be given [Morgan v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 976, 986, 237 Cal. Rptr. 756 , disapproved, to extent it suggests damages in amount of court's jurisdictional minimum may be awarded absent notice of amount sought in complaint or statement of damages, by Schwab v. Rondel Homes, Inc. (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 428, 434, 280 Cal. Rptr. 83, 808 P.2d 226] .

The terminating sanction of dismissal of the complaint may be imposed for refusal to comply with an order of production made pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq. Moreover, a plaintiff may not avoid a dismissal by voluntarily dismissing without prejudice before the hearing on the motion to dismiss [Hartbrodt v. Burke (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 168, 174-176, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 562] .

[c] Relief From Terminating Sanction

A party may seek relief from a dismissal or default under Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b) on grounds of mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect [see, e.g., Crummer v. Beeler (1960) 185 Cal. App. 2d 851, 860, 8 Cal. Rptr. 698 (default)]. The mandatory provision for relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b), however, applies only when the client is innocent and the attorney is solely at fault for the discovery misconduct. Thus, while a court may grant relief on grounds of mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect under Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b), it is not required to do so under the mandatory relief provision when it finds that both the attorney and the client were at fault for the discovery misconduct [Lang v. Hochman (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 1225, 1251-1252, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 322] .

Further, the mandatory provision for relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b) applies only to those situations in which the attorney's mistake causes a total failure to oppose a dismissal motion or a failure to appear [Gotschall v. Daley (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 479, 484, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 882] . Thus, mandatory relief was not available when counsel mistakenly believed it was unnecessary, under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2034 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2034.010 et seq.), to name treating physicians who would give expert opinion testimony in the expert witness disclosure, and the trial court dismissed the case for lack of proof of causation. In that situation, the appellate court observed that applying Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b) to this case, in which counsel simply failed to present evidence of causation properly, would allow plaintiffs to circumvent the expert witness disclosure requirements,knowing any resulting dismissal could be undone. Such an approach would be contrary to public policy considerations and would provide attorneys with a "perfect escape hatch" for any and all tactical errors and mistaken judgments [Gotschall v. Daley (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 479, 484-485, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 882] .

Relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b) also may be properly denied for neglect the trial court finds to be inexcusable. This is true even if the order imposing the sanction is subject to reversal on appeal for being inexcusably harsh [see Carroll v. Abbott Laboratories, Inc. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 892, 898, 900-901, 187 Cal. Rptr. 592, 654 P.2d 775 ; see also Cornwall v. Santa Monica Dairy Co. (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 250, 252, 135 Cal. Rptr. 761 (dismissal as discovery sanction held to be appealable judgment)].

For detailed discussion and forms relating to relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b), see Ch. 489, Relief From Judgments and Orders .

[4] Contempt Sanction

To the extent authorized by a specific provision of the Civil Discovery Act, after notice and an opportunity for hearing [see [1], above and § 192.14], the trial court may impose a contempt sanction [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(e)].

An order imposing a contempt sanction is one that treats a misuse of the discovery process as a contempt of court [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(e)].

The specific provisions authorizing a contempt sanction do so when a nonparty witness refuses to obey a deposition subpoena or discovery order [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.240 (deposition subpoena), 2025.480(g) (deponent); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.440(b)]. Under cases interpreting prior law, this was the only manner in which a court could proceed against a disobedient nonparty witness [see Lund v. Superior Court (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 698, 713, 39 Cal. Rptr. 891, 394 P.2d 707 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 2034 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2034.010 et seq.)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.240 now provides, however, that anyone who fails to appear pursuant to a deposition subpoena or a court order is also subject to the penalty and damages provisions under Code Civ. Proc. § 1992, which penalty and damages may be recovered in a separate civil action. Further, the court may issue a warrant for contempt [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.240] or, in the alternative, issue a warrant for the arrest of the witness or person who fails to appear [Code Civ. Proc. § 1993(a)(1); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1993(a)(2), (b), 1993.1-1993.2 (procedures); see also Ch. 535, Subpoena].

The imposition of a contempt sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(g) is not limited to nonparty deponents; the failure of any deponent to obey an order compelling discovery under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(g) may be treated as a contempt of court.

It is unclear whether an attorney is subject to a contempt sanction for advising conduct that subjects his or her client to a contempt sanction. This was apparently the case under prior law [In re Bongfeldt (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 465, 476, 99 Cal. Rptr. 428 (dictum)]. Although an attorney is expressly subject to monetary sanctions for advising conduct that constitutes a misuse of the discovery process pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a), there is no corresponding provision expressly subjecting an attorney to a contempt sanction for giving advice to a client.

For forms for use in seeking the imposition of a contempt sanction, see §§ 192.60, 192.61.

Chapter 192 DISCOVERY: SANCTIONS FOR DISCOVERY MISUSE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-192 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 192.14

§ 192.14 Discovery Sanctions May Be Imposed Only When Specifically Authorized

[1] General Rule

To the extent authorized by the section governing any particular discovery method or any other provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq., the court, after notice to any affected party, person, or attorney, and after opportunity for hearing, may impose a monetary sanction, issue sanction, evidence sanction, terminating sanction, or contempt sanction against anyone engaging in conduct constituting a misuse of the discovery process [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030].

Consequently, the availability of and procedure for sanctions in any given instance is specifically determined by the statute governing the particular method of discovery involved [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.240 (deposition subpoena), 2025.410(d), 2025.420(d), 2025.450(c), 2025.480(f), 2025.520(h) (deposition), 2028.040(c) (deposition by written questions), 2030.290(c), 2030.310(d) (interrogatory), 2031.060(h), (i), 2031.300(c), (d), 2031.310(h)-(j), 2031.320(b)-(d) (inspection, copying, testing, sampling of documents, tangible things, places, or electronically stored information), 2032.240(c), 2032.250(b), 2032.410, 2032.420, 2032.510(f), 2032.620(b), 2032.650(b) (physical or mental examination), 2033.080(d), 2033.280(c), 2033.290(d) (requests for admission), 2034.250(d), 2034.470(g), 2034.630, 2034.730 (exchange of expert witness information)].

[2] Exception When Misconduct Precludes Seeking Specifically Authorized Sanction

At least one court has created an exception to the rule that sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. must be authorized by another more specific provision of the Civil Discovery Act [see discussion in [1], above]. In this case, the applicable discovery statute authorized monetary sanctions only in the context of a motion to compel further responses to a demand for the production of documents [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq.]. Nevertheless, the court ruled that a motion to compel was not a prerequisite for monetary sanctions when defendant's misconduct essentially precluded plaintiffs from making the motion [Sherman v. Kinetic Concepts, Inc. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 1152, 1157-1158, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 641 (in response to plaintiff's demand for production of documents under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq.) seeking records of all complaints regarding product in issue in product liability action, defendants provided only three of some 20 complaints and lied at trial, saying there were no others)].

In effect, the defendant's deceptive conduct made it impossible for the plaintiffs to determine that defendant's original responses were incomplete or evasive and that a motion to compel further response was needed. Plaintiffs had no reason even to suspect that the original responses were incomplete and evasive until they fortuitously received information from a nonparty after the conclusion of the case. Because the case was over, sanctions other than monetary sanctions, such as issue, evidence, or terminating sanctions, were not available. It was therefore appropriate for plaintiffs to seek monetary sanctions under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq.) in connection with a motion for new trial [Sherman v. Kinetic Concepts, Inc. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 1152, 1162-1163, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 641] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 192.15 Specific Provisions Authorizing Discovery Sanctions

[1] General Categories of Authorizing Provisions

As discussed in § 192.14[1], a court generally may impose sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. only when they are specifically authorized by another provision of the Discovery Act. These specific sanction provisions are found throughout the Act, and are tailored to particular proceedings involving particular methods of discovery. Most specific sanction provisions, fall into one of three general categories:

- A monetary sanction in the context of a motion proceedings [see discussion in [2], below].

- An issue, evidence, or terminating sanction in the context of a party's failure to obey an order compelling discovery (with a monetary sanction also authorized in lieu or in addition to such sanction) [see discussion in [3], below].

- A contempt sanction in the context of disobeying a deposition subpoena or an order compelling deposition testimony or evidence [see discussion in [4], below].

In a number of instances provisions authorizing a sanction are unique to the particular situation or method of discovery [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.620(c), 2032.650(c) (authorizing evidence sanction in form of exclusion at trial of testimony of examiner or practitioner whose report has not been provided by a party ordered to do so), 2033.280(c), 2033.290(e) (authorizing issue sanction in form of deeming matters to be admitted on failure to provide response or failure to obey order requiring further response related to request for admissions), 2034.300 (authorizing evidence sanction in form of exclusion at trial of party's expert testimony on that party's failure to comply with demand for exchange of expert witness information)].

Each of the specific authorizing provisions is discussed further in the chapters dealing with the particular discovery methods authorized by the Act [see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions , through Ch. 198, Discovery: Exchange of Expert Witness Information].

[2] Provisions Authorizing Monetary Sanction

Monetary sanctions are authorized in the context of almost all of the motion proceedings under the Civil Discovery Act [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2017.020(b), 2019.030(c) (protective orders generally), 2024.050(c) (motion to hear discovery motion closer to trial date or to reopen discovery), 2025.260(d), 2025.410(d), 2025.420(d), 2025.450(c)(1), 2025.480(f), 2025.520(h) (depositions), 2028.040(c) (deposition by written questions), 2030.090(d), 2030.290(c) 2030.300(d) (interrogatories), 2031.060(h), (i), 2031.300(c), (d), 2031.310(h), (j), 2031.320(b), (d) (inspection, copying, testing, sampling of documents, tangible things, places, or electronically stored information), 2032.250(b), 2032.410, 2032.420, 2032.620(b), 2032.650(b) (physical or mental examinations), 2033.080(d), 2033.290(d) (requests for admission), 2034.250(d), 2034.470(g), 2034.630, 2034.730 (exchange of expert witness lists)].

Generally, these provisions require the trial court to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against a party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion for a discovery order, unless the court finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2017.020(b), 2019.030(c); see also discussion in § 192.13[2][b]].

The provisions authorizing sanctions of this type are by far the most common. They are designed generally to encourage self-executing discovery proceedings by discouraging recourse to the trial court through the unmeritorious making or opposing of discovery motions [see also discussion in Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33].

For further discussion of this type of sanction, see § 192.13[2].

[3] Provisions Authorizing Issue, Evidence, or Terminating Sanction

An issue, evidence, or terminating sanction is authorized in the context of a party's failure to obey an order compelling discovery (with a monetary sanction also authorized in lieu or in addition to such sanction) [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.450(d), 2025.480(g) (depositions), 2030.290(c), 2030.300(e) (interrogatories), 2031.300(c), (d), 2031.310(i), (j), 2031.320(c), (d) (inspection, copying, testing, sampling of documents, tangible things, places, or electronically stored information), 2032.240(d), 2032.410, 2032.420, 2032.620(c), 2032.650(c) (physical or mental examinations)].

For further discussion of these types of sanctions, see § 192.13[3]. For a form for a motion seeking to impose an issue, evidence, or terminating sanction, see § 192.50.

[4] Provisions Authorizing Contempt Sanction

A contempt sanction is authorized in the context of disobeying a deposition subpoena or an order compelling deposition testimony or evidence [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.240, 2025.440(b), 2025.480(g)].

For further discussion of this type of sanction, see § 192.13[4]. For a form for a motion seeking to impose a contempt sanction, see § 192.60.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-192 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 192.16

§ 192.16 Willfulness or Intent as Element of Sanctionable Conduct

Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. does not include the term "willful," either in its list of acts constituting misuse of the discovery process [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010] or in its list of the types of sanctions available for these misuses [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030]. Accordingly, some courts have stated that willfulness is not a prerequisite for the imposition of sanctions [see Clement v. Alegre (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 1277, 1286-1287, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 791 ; Ghanooni v. Super Shuttle (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 256, 260, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 501 ; Kohan v. Cohan (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 967, 971 (interpreting imposition of monetary sanctions under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023(b)(1) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a))]. However, other courts have stated that the failure to comply must be willful [see Vallbona v. Springer (1996) 43 Cal. App. 4th 1525, 1545, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 311 (only two facts are absolutely prerequisite to imposition of sanctions: (1) there must be a failure to comply and (2) the failure must be wilful) (awarding evidence sanctions based on futility of obtaining court order when responding party, after willfully refusing to provide documents, claimed that documents were nonexistent or missing); Do It Urself Moving & Storage, Inc. v. Brown, Leifer, Slatkin & Berns (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 27, 36, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 396 (citing a 1983 case); cf. Mileikowsky v. Tenet Healthsystem (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 262, 279-280, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 831 (stipulation signed by both parties waived right to insist on formal order compelling responses as precursor to imposing terminating sanctions when discovery violation was willful, preceded by history of abuse, and evidence showed that less severe sanctions would not produce compliance)].

Even if willfulness is not a statutory prerequisite, it is relevant as it indicates the intent or state of mind of the party to be sanctioned. Intent may indicate that the party acted with substantial justification, and thereby eliminate the imposition of a monetary sanction [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a)]. Additionally, the lack of a malicious intent may influence the trial court when it decides whether or not to impose an issue, evidence, terminating, or contempt sanction [see generally Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a)-(e)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 192.17 Sanctions for Continuing Discovery Misuse

Under some circumstances, sanctions may be imposed more than once when the misuse of the discovery process is continuing [see e.g., Mattco Forge, Inc. v. Arthur Young & Co. (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1429, 1437-1438, 273 Cal. Rptr. 262] . For example, when a defendant moved for reconsideration of the monetary sanctions imposed on it for its improper objections to a request for production of documents, but did not seek reconsideration of the court's order that the requested documents be produced, the court ordered additional monetary sanctions, concluding that the motion for reconsideration was merely a continuation of the defendant's earlier unmeritorious objections, constituting misuse of the discovery process [Mattco Forge, Inc. v. Arthur Young & Co. (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1429, 1437-1438, 273 Cal. Rptr. 262] .

Chapter 192 DISCOVERY: SANCTIONS FOR DISCOVERY MISUSE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-192 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 192.18

§ 192.18 Standing to Seek Sanctions

In one case, the standing to seek monetary sanctions is expressly stated [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(c)(2) (monetary sanctions for expenses incurred by parties attending deposition)]. Otherwise it appears that any party has standing to seek monetary sanctions when they are authorized, to the extent that he or she has incurred expenses as a result of the opposing party's conduct [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a) and discussion in § 192.13[2]]. Courts of appeal are divided on the issue of sanctions in the form of fees for discovery abuses. For example, in Kravitz v. Superior Court (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 1015, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 385 , the court of appeal held that self-represented litigants, whether lawyers or not, cannot recover fees as discovery sanctions, although they may recover reasonable expenses incurred, including photocopying, computer-assisted legal research, and other identifiable and allocable costs [Kravitz v. Superior Court (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 1015, 1017, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 385] . In contrast, Do v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1210, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 855 held that a party represented by pro bono counsel was entitled to an award of sanctions under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(j)(3) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(c)) and former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq.) against the opposing party, who twice failed to appeal at a noticed deposition. Even though the party did not actually "incur" additional fees as a result of the opposing party's conduct, there was no finding that the failure to appeal was "with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust" [Do v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1210, 1213, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 855 (reasoning that to hold otherwise would create two separate classes of discovery litigants); see § 192.13[2][b]].

With regard to other sanctions, for example, issue, evidence, or terminating sanctions for failure to obey an order compelling discovery, standing is not expressly stated [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(g)]. In these situations, it appears that a party not seeking discovery may nonetheless seek sanctions based on an opposing party's failure to obey an order obtained by the party seeking discovery [see Trail v. Cornwell (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 477, 483 n.4, 207 Cal. Rptr. 679 ; Calvert Fire Ins. Co. v. Cropper (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 901, 905, 190 Cal. Rptr. 593 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 2034)].

Chapter 192 DISCOVERY: SANCTIONS FOR DISCOVERY MISUSE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 192.19 Requirements for Motions Seeking Discovery Sanctions

The statute authorizing sanctions for abuse or misuse of discovery requires notice [former Code Civ. Proc., § 2023(b) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030) ("To the extent authorized by the section governing any particular discovery method or any other provision of this article, the court, after notice to any affected party, person, or attorney, and after opportunity for hearing, may impose the following sanctions against anyone engaging in conduct that is a misuse of the discovery process")].

The statute also provides specific guidelines on what the notice of motion must contain:

- A request for sanctions must identify, in the notice of motion, every person, party, and attorney against whom the sanction is sought, and specify the type of sanction sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040].

- A notice of motion requesting sanctions must be supported by a memorandum of points and authorities, and by a declaration setting for facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040].

- A motion involving the content of a discovery request or the responses to such a request must be accompanied by a separate statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)]. This includes a motion for issue or evidentiary sanctions [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(7)]. The separate statement is a separate document that sets forth all the information necessary to understand each discovery request and all the responses to it that are in issue. It must be full and complete so that no reference to any other document will be necessary to determine the motion; material may not be incorporated into the statement by reference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]. For further discussion, see § 192.52[3].

Discovery sanctions may not be ordered ex parte, and an order purporting to do so is void [Sole Energy Co. v. Hodges (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 199, 208, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 823] . For example, in Alliance Bank v. Murray (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 1, 207 Cal. Rptr. 233 , the appellate court concluded the portion of a discovery order conditionally authorizing a party to apply ex parte for monetary sanctions and conditionally ordering the award of those sanctions violated the notice requirements of the discovery statute and due process [Alliance Bank v. Murray (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 1, 6, 207 Cal. Rptr. 233] .

Similarly, in O'Brien v. Cseh (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 957, 196 Cal. Rptr. 409 , the court of appeal reversed an order awarding sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 because the order had been issued based on an ex parte application. "Adequate notice prior to imposition of sanctions is mandated not only by statute, but also by the due process clauses of both the state and federal Constitutions" [O'Brien v. Cseh (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 957, 961, 196 Cal. Rptr. 409] . "Plaintiff's rush to compel sanctions against defendant on an ex parte basis was a flagrant violation of due process principles. The California Supreme Court has ruled that due process requires fair warning and an opportunity to respond before penalties can be imposed for prosecution of a frivolous appeal. ... Ex parte imposition of sanctions by a superior court, as in the case at bench, is equally offensive" [O'Brien v. Cseh (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 957, 962, 196 Cal. Rptr. 409] .

In Sole Energy Co. v. Hodges (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 199, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 823 , the court of appeal reversed a $27 million default judgment against defendants because they did not receive notice their defaults might be entered as a discovery sanction and were not provided an opportunity to be heard on the matter. Thus, defendants were denied due process because sanctions for the abuse or misuse of discovery may not be awarded ex parte [Sole Energy Co. v. Hodges (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 199, 208, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 823 (citing former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023(b) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030) and holding that notice of motion for discovery sanctions was also deficient under former Code Civ. Proc. 2023(c) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040)].

§ 192.20 Imposition of Sanction in Absence of Opposition to Motion to Compel

The trial court may award sanctions under the Discovery Act in favor of a party who files a motion to compel discovery, even though no opposition to the motion was filed, or opposition to the motion was withdrawn, or the requested discovery was provided to the moving party after the motion was filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(a)]. On the other hand, failure to file written opposition, or failure to appear, or the voluntary provision of discovery after a motion to compel is filed is not to be deemed an admission that the motion was proper or that sanctions should be awarded [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(b)].

§ 192.34 Decisions

[1] Contempt Sanction

Commitment order based on contempt is required to demonstrate on its face that citee is guilty of contempt and to recite specific facts giving rise to contempt and finding of present ability to perform; lack of recitals requires annulment of order. In re de la Parra (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 139, 144, 228 Cal. Rptr. 864

Court is able to impose contempt sanctions against attorney as well as client when attorney advised disobedience of trial court's order. In re Bongfeldt (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 465, 476, 99 Cal. Rptr. 428

Alleged condemner is able to appear as directed through order to show cause by counsel instead of in person. Morelli v. Superior Court (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 262, 268-270, 68 Cal. Rptr. 572

[2] Issue, Evidence, and Terminating Sanctions

Trial court abused its discretion by failing to impose terminating sanction under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.450(d), 2023.030, for defendant's flagrant discovery misconduct under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010(d)-(g). Doppes v. Bentley Motors, Inc. (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 967, 971, 993, 94 Cal. Rptr. 3d 802

Imposition of evidence and issue sanctions based on court's inherent power to control litigation, absent defendant's failure to obey order compelling discovery, was abuse of discretion when there was no order compelling defendant to produce video recordings and real parties had waived right to compel further response or inspection; sanctions based on court's inherent power are reserved for egregious violations of the discovery process. New Albertsons, Inc. v. Superior Court (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 1403, 1431-1434, 1426, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 457

A terminating sanction was appropriate under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010(d) and 2023.030(d) when plaintiff had intentionally allowed material unfavorable to his legal malpractice claims to be destroyed. Williams v. Russ (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 1215, 1224-1225, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 813

Terminating sanctions were appropriate in light of defendant's months-long, willful lack of cooperation in providing straightforward information, witnesses, and documents to support its claims, as well as its failure to meet and confer. Liberty Mutual Fire Ins. Co. v. LcL Administrators, Inc. (2008) 163 Cal. App. 4th 1093, 1101, 78 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200

When faced with pervasive, deliberate, and egregious misconduct--abuse that makes lesser sanctions inadequate to ensure fair trial--trial court need not rely on inherent authority to impose evidentiary sanctions as remedy for litigation misconduct, but may use its inherent judicial power to dismiss the action. Stephen Slesinger, Inc. v. The Walt Disney Co. (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 736, 758, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 268

Terminating sanctions were appropriate, even though defendants claimed that they had had no contact with their attorney and thus had no notice of trial court's orders. Garber & Assoc. v. Eskandarian (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 813, 821-822, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1

Sanctions, in form of factual findings, were properly imposed on husband in marital dissolution proceeding, based on his egregious abuse of discovery process. In re Marriage of Michaely (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 802, 810, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 56

Terminating sanctions were justified after plaintiff's repeated abuse of discovery process. Parker v. Wolters Kluwer United States, Inc. (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 285, 297, 57 Cal. Rptr. 3d 18

If complaint fails to specify amount of damages sought, trial court may impose more limited discovery sanction that precludes litigation of other aspects of case, while leaving parties to have contested trial on damages. Reedy v. Bussell (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 1272, 1293, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 216

Evidence preclusion sanctions against manufacturer on issues of warnings and technical feasibility of safer, alternative seat belt design in minivan were proper under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030, in product liability suit, because manufacturer's repeated pattern of abuse led to loss of evidence on failure to warn. Karlsson v. Ford Motor Co. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1202, 1215-1216, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 265

Trial court did not abuse its discretion by striking defendants' answer as terminating sanction for "pervasive and consistent" misuse of discovery process, including failure to comply with any discovery orders, intentional, "brazen" destruction of data on hard drives of several computers, violation of discovery stay, interference with service of subpoena, and failure to respond to supplemental inspection demand. Electronic Funds Solutions, LLC v. Murphy (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 1161, 1183-1184, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 663

Stipulation signed by both parties waived right to insist on formal order compelling responses as precursor to imposing terminating sanctions when plaintiff's discovery violation was willful, preceded by history of abuse, and evidence showed that less severe sanctions would not produce compliance. Mileikowsky v. Tenet Healthsystem (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 262, 279-280, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 831

Opportunity to be heard to defendants that their defaults might be entered as discovery sanction violated notice requirements of former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023(b) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030) and due process, because sanctions for abuse or misuse of discovery may not be awarded ex parte. Sole Energy Co. v. Hodges (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 199, 208, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 823

Failure to supplement an interrogatory answer promptly did not constitute grounds for excluding evidence under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2030(k), (l) [now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2030.290(c), 2030.300(e)], when no order compelling further answers had been sought or entered, and trial court made no finding that initial responses were willfully false. Biles v. Exxon Mobil Corp. (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 1315, 1325, 1327, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 282

Former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023(b)(4) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(d)(4)), authorizing default as sanction for defendant's extreme misuse of discovery process, does not apply when defendant simply fails to appear at trial. Heidary v. Yadollahi (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 857, 864, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 695

Mandatory relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b) is available only if the attorney's mistake causes a total failure to oppose a dismissal motion or a failure to appear; thus, mandatory relief was not available when counsel mistakenly believed it was unnecessary, under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2034 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2034.010 et seq.), to name treating physicians, who would give expert opinion testimony in the expert witness disclosure, and the trial court dismissed the case for lack of proof of causation. Gotschall v. Daley (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 479, 484, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 882

Issue sanctions were not justified, even though real party in interest failed to produce as specified in deposition notices, and to answer at appropriate depositions, when no specific court order had been violated, because party's attitude, although "cavalier," did not involve repeated and willful refusals to permit discovery or produce documents over a lengthy period of time. Maldonado v. Superior Court (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1390, 1398-1399, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 137

Mandatory relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b) is not available when attorney and client are both responsible for discovery misconduct that results in default judgment or dismissal; such mandatory relief is available only when attorney is solely at fault. Lang v. Hochman (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 1225, 1246-1247, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 322

Trial court did not abuse its discretion in dismissing plaintiffs' complaint as sanction for repeated violations of stipulations and court orders, forgery of document offered as true, and deliberate destruction of evidence pertinent to exposing forgery. R.S. Creative, Inc. v. Creative Cotton, Ltd. (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 486, 496, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 353

No abuse of discretion to apply evidence sanction against party who repeatedly assured opposing party that all relevant documents had been obtained, but then attempted to introduce undisclosed documents during trial; trial court properly disallowed any evidence relating to undisclosed documents because party had made a deliberate attempt to thwart discovery for purpose of obtaining tactical advantage and no other sanction would have served useful purpose at trial stage. Pate v. Channel Lumber Co. (1997) 51 Cal. App. 4th 1447, 1454-1455, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 919

Issue sanction designating certain facts as established leads to consequential results such as precluding arguments based on those facts. Kuhns v. State of California (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 982, 987-988, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 773

Imposition of evidence sanction is permissible without prior court order when formal order to comply would be futile. Do It Urself Moving & Storage, Inc. v. Brown, Leifer, Slatkin & Berns (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 27, 35-37, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 396

Issue sanctions in marital dissolution proceeding precluding husband from offering any evidence, making any objections, or conducting cross examination at trial on any issue except dissolution, custody, or visitation is proper when husband failed to comply with series of discovery orders, thereby frustrating wife's efforts to obtain information about community assets that he had concealed, and provided no evidence supporting reasons for his noncompliance. In re Marriage of Economou (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1466, 1476, 274 Cal. Rptr. 473

Dismissal is inappropriate terminating sanction in absence of prior court order compelling plaintiff to comply with demand for production of documents. Ruvalcaba v. Government Employees Ins. Co. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1579, 1583, 272 Cal. Rptr. 541

Court's use of ultimate sanction of dismissal of action, following late arrival of plaintiff's attorney at hearing on cross-defendant's motion to strike complaint, is manifestly excessive when defendant's attorney had neglected to inform court that plaintiff's attorney would be late and plaintiff's attorney expressed willingness to produce client for deposition demanded by cross-defendant and to pay previously imposed sanctions. Brown v. Presley of So. California (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 612, 620, 261 Cal. Rptr. 779

Under egregious circumstances of case, flagrant and repeated violations by party of terms of discovery order issued pursuant to stipulation justified "death knell" evidentiary sanctions leading to entry of summary judgment against party. Young v. Rosenthal (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 96, 116-117, 260 Cal. Rptr. 369

Default judgment is inappropriate sanction to impose against defendants for failure to appear at deposition ordered pursuant to Civ. Code § 3295 in light of purpose of deposition (discovery of defendant's financial condition) and minimal potential prejudice to plaintiff. McArthur v. Bockman (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 1076, 1080-1081, 256 Cal. Rptr. 522

Issue sanction precluding plaintiff in wrongful discharge action from proving economic damages was proper when plaintiff willfully failed to obey order compelling production of financial records. Sauer v. Superior Court (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 213, 228-229, 240 Cal. Rptr. 489

[3] Monetary Sanction

Sanctions were warranted when plaintiffs' objection to term "economic damages" was without "substantial justification" and their responses to interrogatories propounded by defendants were evasive, citing Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.030(a), 2023.010(e), (f). Clement v. Alegre (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 1277, 1286-1287, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 791

Monetary sanctions were properly awarded under former Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020(a), 2023(a)(4), (5), (6) (now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.010(a), 2023.010(d), (e), (f)) because evidence showed appellant attorney, in fact, knew he was obliged to produce documents to respondent's attorneys and repeatedly failed to do so; and appellant's contention that he complied with respondent's subpoenas by producing the documents to himself was "preposterous," even though subpoenas mistakenly identified appellant as deposition officer to whom he should deliver subpoenaed documents. Sears, Roebuck and Co. v. Nat'l Union Fire Ins. Co. (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 1342, 1350-1351, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 717

Separate motion for discovery monetary sanctions may be made after underlying motion to compel further response to an inspection demand is litigated, even though better practice may be to include request for monetary sanctions in motion to compel further response; timeliness of this separate motion for sanctions is subject to trial court's discretion, rather than 45-day limit from time of initial service of the response under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(m) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310(c)). London v. Dri-Honing Corp. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1008-1009, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 240

Party represented by pro bono counsel was entitled to award of sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(j)(3) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450) and former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq.) against opposing party, who twice failed to appeal at noticed deposition, even though party did not actually "incur" additional fees as result of opposing party's conduct, when there was no finding that the failure to appeal was "with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust." Do v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1210, 1213, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 855

Sanctions pursuant to former Code Civ. Proc. § 2033(o) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.420), which provides for reasonable expenses and attorney fees when an opposing party fails to admit the genuineness of any document or the truth of any matter when requested to do so, are available to a party that prevails upon the issues at summary judgment. Barnett v. Penske Truck Leasing Co. (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 494, 497-499, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 821

Trial court did not abuse its discretion in imposing sanctions pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 (frivolous actions taken in bad faith) and former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq.) (discovery abuses), based on law firm's conduct in litigating on behalf of defendant client knowing that defendant was a suspended corporation, even though law firm did not engage in any abuse of the discovery process itself. Palm Valley Homeowners Assoc., Inc. v. Design MTC (2001) 85 Cal. App. 4th 553, 563-564, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 350

Motion to compel under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.300) was not a prerequisite for monetary sanctions under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq.) when defendant's misconduct essentially precluded plaintiffs from making the motion; court authorized sanctions in context of motion for a new trial. Sherman v. Kinetic Concepts, Inc. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 1152, 1162-1163, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 641

Imposition of sanctions under former Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 against party and his attorneys was proper when motions, insisted upon by party, reargued matters already determined in previously issued order for sanctions for discovery abuses, and falsely accused opposing counsel of fraud in connection with execution of stipulation for discovery; party and attorney are joint debtors for purposes of right to contribution under Code Civ. Proc. § 882 when sanctions under former Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 are imposed against them jointly and severally. Young v. Rosenthal (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 96, 127-128, 130, 260 Cal. Rptr. 369

Imposition of monetary sanctions under former Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 for bringing motion for protective order to prevent taking of defendant's initial deposition was improper when motion was "arguably meritorious." Weisman v. Bower (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 1231, 1238-1239, 238 Cal. Rptr. 756

Imposition of monetary sanctions under former Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 against attorney for advising his client's wife, who was not represented by counsel, that she need not testify at deposition because of marital privilege not to testify was improper. Sabado v. Moraga (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1, 9-10, 234 Cal. Rptr. 249

[4] Purpose of Discovery Sanctions

Purpose of discovery sanctions is to prevent abuse of discovery process and to correct problem presented in a specific case, not to provide weapon for punishment, forfeiture, or avoidance of trial on merits; penalty imposed should not exceed that which is required to protect interests of party entitled to, but denied, discovery. McGinty v. Superior Court (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 204, 210-216, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 292

Sanctions are not properly for use to put prevailing party in better position than if discovery had been obtained, nor as form of punishment. Kahn v. Kahn (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 372, 381, 137 Cal. Rptr. 332 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 2034(b), (d) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a)))

Court may impose sanctions that are suitable and necessary to obtain objects of discovery sought but may not impose sanctions designed to impose punishment rather than obtain objects of discovery. Caryl Richards, Inc. v. Superior Court (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 300, 303-304, 10 Cal. Rptr. 377

[5] Pro Per Litigants

Litigant proceeding in forma pauperis held to same standard of conduct in conducting litigation as any other party, and sanctions as equally available against such litigants. Midwife v. Bernal (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 57, 65, 249 Cal. Rptr. 708 (decided under prior law)

[2] Use of Form

The notice of motion and declaration in [1], above, is for use by a party to impose an issue, evidence, or terminating sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(b)-(d) against another party, and also to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a) against that other party or his or her attorney, for the latter party's failure to obey an order compelling discovery under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.450(c) or 2025.480(g) (depositions), 2030.290(c) or 2030.300(e) (interrogatories), 2031.060(h), (i), 2031.300(c), (d), 2031.310(h)-(j), 2031.320(b)-(d) (inspection, copying, testing, sampling of documents, tangible things, places, or electronically stored information), or 2032.240(d), 2032.410, 2032.420, 2032.620(c), or 2032.650(c) (physical or mental examinations). The motion must be brought in the court in which the action is pending [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.020].

Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.410 similarly provides for the imposition of sanctions against a party, not only for failure to obey an order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.240(d) or 2032.250(b), but also for failure to obey a stipulation for an examination under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.320(c). For forms for use in seeking sanctions for failure to obey such a stipulation, see Ch. 197, Discovery: Physical and Mental Examinations .

Requests for the specific orders authorized as issue, evidence, or terminating sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(b)(d) are set out in § 192.51, and may be inserted in line eight of the first paragraph of the notice of motion in this form, in accordance with the instruction to specify the order being requested.

A request for a sanction must identify, in the notice of motion, every person, party, and attorney against whom the sanction is sought, and specify the type of sanction sought. The notice of motion must be supported by a memorandum and accompanied by a declaration setting forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040; see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a) (memorandum)]. For discussion and forms relating to memoranda generally, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities . For memoranda relating to motions for discovery sanctions generally, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 82, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse (Matthew Bender).

The declaration supporting a request for monetary sanctions should be detailed. In particular, it should contain more than a cursory description of the services for which the requested fees and costs were incurred [In re Marriage of Niklas (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 28, 37-38, 258 Cal. Rptr. 921 (criticizing declaration in motion under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(o) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480) containing itemized entries supported by general descriptions such as "research," "review," and "lette r"); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040 (declaration must set forth facts supporting amount of any monetary sanctions sought), and discussion in §§ 192.13[2][c], 192.19].

One court of appeal has held that a separate motion for discovery monetary sanctions may be made after an underlying motion to compel further response to an inspection demand is litigated [London v. Dri-Honing Corp. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1001, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 240] . Even though the better practice may be to include the request for monetary sanctions in the motion to compel further response, there is no legal requirement to do so [London v. Dri-Honing Corp. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1008, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 240] . The timeliness of a separate motion for sanctions is subject to the trial court's discretion, rather than the 45-day limit from the time of the initial service of the response under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(m) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310(c)) [London v. Dri-Honing Corp. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1009, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 240] . For further discussion, see Ch. 195, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence, § 195.20[3][a].

If the motion seeks an issue or evidence sanction, as distinguished from a terminating sanction, the motion must be accompanied by a separate statement that sets forth all the informtion necessary to understand and determine the motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(7), (c)]. For further discussion and a form for a separate statement, see § 192.52.

[3] Imposition of Sanctions Against Party

The court may make those orders that are just, including the imposition of an issue sanction, an evidence sanction, or a terminating sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against a party who fails to obey an order requiring the following:

- Attendance, testimony, and production of specified documents or things by a party deponent or a party-affiliated deponent [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(d); see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions].

- An answer to a question or production of a document or thing by a party deponent or a party-affiliated deponent [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(g); see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions].

- Response or further response to interrogatories [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2030.290(c), 2030.300(e); see Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories].

- Response or further response to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, sampling of documents, tangible things, places, or electronically stored information [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.300(c), (d), 2031.310(i), (j); see Ch. 195, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence].

- Compliance in accordance with a party's response to a demand for, copying, testing, sampling documents, tangible things, places, or electronically stored information [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.320(c), (d); see Ch. 195, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence].

- Response and compliance by a plaintiff with a demand for a physical examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.240(d); see Ch. 197, Discovery: Physical and Mental Examinations].

- Submission to an examination or production of another for examination [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.410, 2032.420; see Ch. 197, Discovery: Physical and Mental Examinations].

- Delivery of medical reports regarding examinations [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.620(c), 2032.650(c); see Ch. 197, Discovery: Physical and Mental Examinations].

In lieu of or in addition to an issue, evidence, or termination sanction, the court may impose a monetary sanction pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a) against the following:

- A party deponent or party-affiliated deponent [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.450(d), 2025.480(g)].

- A party [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2030.290(c), 2030.300(e), 2031.300(c), 2031.310(i), 2031.320(c)].

- An attorney who advised a client to engage in a misuse of the discovery process [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a)].

For further discussion of issue, evidence, terminating, and monetary sanctions generally, see §§ 192.13[3], 192.15[3]. For discussion and forms relating to the discovery orders enumerated above, see the chapter covering the particular discovery method involved.

[4] Imposition of Sanctions for Conduct of Party-Affiliated Deponent

In the context of depositions, a party is subject to the sanctions sought by the foregoing form not only for his or her own failure or refusal to obey, but also for the failure of any deponent that is affiliated with that party as its officer, director, managing agent, employee, or designated representative [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.450(d), 2025.480(g); for further discussion, see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions].

[5] Imposition of Contempt Sanction

A party deponent or party-affiliated deponent who disobeys an order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480 may be held in contempt of court [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(g)]. The contempt sanction is also available, in lieu of other sanctions, against a nonparty deponent who disobeys an order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(g). For further discussion and forms relating to a contempt sanction, see §§ 192.13[4], 192.15[4], 192.60, 192.61.

[6] Showing for Default Judgment

Code Civ. Proc. § 585(b) requires the plaintiff to present evidence as the basis for a default judgment if a defendant has not answered or otherwise responded to a complaint in an action that is not subject to default by clerk. Counsel seeking a default judgment as a discovery sanction might therefore consider presenting evidence required under Code Civ. Proc. § 585(b). For further discussion and related forms, see Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments .

[2] Use of Form

The clauses set out in [1], above, are adapted from the list of orders expressly defining issue, evidence, and terminating sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(b)-(d), and are intended to be inserted, when appropriate, in the first paragraph of the notice of motion for a order imposing sanctions set out in § 192.50[1], in accordance with the instruction in that form to specify the order requested.

For further discussion of the specific orders enumerated in Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(b)-(d), see § 192.13[3][a].

[2] Use of Form

The separate statement set out in [1], above, is required to accompany a motion, such as that set out in § 192.50, seeking the imposition of an issue or evidence sanction [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(7)].

[3] Contents of Separate Statement

Any motion involving the content of a discovery request or the responses to such a request must be accompanied by a separate statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345]. The motions that require a separate statement include a motion for issue or evidentiary sanctions [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(7)].

This separate statement is a separate document filed and served with the motion. It must set forth all the information necessary to understand each discovery request (in this instance each inspection demand) and all the responses to it that are at issue [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345]. It must be full and complete, so that no person is required to review any other document in order to determine the full request and the full response. Material may not be incorporated into the separate statement by reference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)].

The separate statement must include, for each discovery request (in this instance each inspection demand) to which a further response is requested, the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]:

- The text of the request, and the text of each response, answer, or objection, and any further responses or answers [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(1), (2)].

- A statement of the factual and legal reasons for compelling further responses, answers, or production as to each matter in dispute [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(3)].

- If necessary, the text of all definitions, instructions, and other matters required to understand each discovery request and the responses to it [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(4)].

- If the response to a particular discovery request is dependent on the response given to another discovery request, or if the reasons a further response to a particular discovery request is deemed necessary are based on the response to some other discovery request, the other request and the response to it must be set forth [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(5)].

- If the pleadings, other documents in the file, or other items of discovery are relevant to the motion, a summary of each relevant document by the party relying on the document [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(6)].

In most instances the separate statement is required when seeking a motion to compel discovery [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(1)-(6)], and the information described above assists the court in determining whether it is proper to compel discovery in a particular instance. In contrast, a motion seeking an issue or evidence sanction usually follows a proceeding for an order compelling discovery, once that order has been issued and a party has failed to obey it [see § 192.15[3]]. The purpose of a separate statement in this instance is to demonstrate, by reference to specific requests for discovery, why it is appropriate in the absence of this discovery to impose a sanction that requires certain facts to be deemed established or prohibits a party from introducing certain matters into evidence.

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The proposed order set out in [1], above, is for use when the court has granted or denied a motion by a party to impose an issue, evidence, or terminating sanction pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.450(d) or 2025.480(g), 2030.290(c) or 2030.300(e), 2031.300(c), (d), 2031.310(i), (j), 2031.320(c), (d), or 2032.240(d), 2032.410, 2032.420, or 2032.650(c). Optional language is included stating the basis for the court's ruling. Although there is no express requirement that the court state its findings, cases construing prior law have held that, when a trial court imposes the ultimate sanction of dismissal, it should state its reasons so that the order can be subject to meaningful review [Deyo v. Kilbourne (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 771, 797, 149 Cal. Rptr. 499] . This reasoning appears to apply equally to other terminating sanctions such as an order striking pleadings or directing entry of a default judgment.

[3] Monetary Sanction

The provisions providing for the imposition of an issue, evidence, or terminating sanction also provide that, "[i]n lieu of or in addition to this sanction, the court may impose a monetary sanction" [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.450(d), 2030.290(c), 2030.300(e), 2031.060(h), (i), 2031.300(c), (d), 2031.310(h), (j), 2031.320(b), (d), 2032.240(d), 2032.410, 2032.420, 2032.620(c), 2032.650(c)]. These provisions are apparently designed to provide a court with discretion to impose a monetary sanction as an alternate, or even additional, sanction. As such, there appears to be some conflict with Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a), which requires a court to impose a monetary sanction whenever one is "authorized," unless it finds that the party or person subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust. Thus, the last two paragraphs in this form provide either for the imposition of a monetary sanction in addition to or in lieu of any other sanction imposed, or, alternatively, in compliance with Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a), that no monetary sanction should be imposed on a finding of mitigating circumstances.

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The form of declaration and order to show cause set out in [1], above, is for use by a party seeking discovery to bring a person, typically a nonparty deponent, before the court to answer why that person should not be adjudged in contempt of court.

A contempt sanction, that is, an order that a misuse of the discovery process be treated as a contempt of court [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(e)], is expressly authorized to be imposed against a deponent for disobedience of a deposition subpoena [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.240]. The deponent may be punished for contempt without the necessity of a prior court order directing compliance by the witness [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.240]. Disobedience of a deposition subpoena includes, specifically, any failure (1) to attend and testify, if so commanded by the deposition subpoena; (2) to comply with any specified production, inspection, testing, or sampling; or (3) to appear at a court session to consider any issue arising out of the refusal to be sworn, to answer any question, to produce specified items, or to permit inspection or photocopying, if the subpoena so specifies, or specified testing and sampling of the items produced [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.220(c), 2020.240; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.440(b) (deponent served with a deposition subpoena who fails to attend a deposition, or refuses to be sworn as witness, is subject to imposition of the sanctions described in Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.240)].

A deponent's failure to obey an order compelling an answer or production of a writing or tangible thing may also be treated as a contempt of court [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(g)]. Although Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(g) does not expressly refer to a contempt sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(e), it would nonetheless appear to be appropriate to refer to Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(e) in requesting a contempt sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(g), in view of the similarity of language in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.030(e) and 2025.480(g) [see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010(d), (g) (failure to respond or submit to authorized discovery method and disobedience of court order to provide discovery as abuse of discovery process)].

If a deponent is a party or is affiliated with a party, he or she, or the party with whom he or she is affiliated, may be subject to an additional issue, evidence, or terminating sanction, as well as a monetary sanction, for disobedience of an order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(g). For forms for imposing these sanctions, see § 192.50 et seq. A person who fails to appear pursuant to a deposition subpoena or a court order is also subject to the penalty and damages set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 1992 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.240; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.440(b)], but these must be sought in a separate civil action [Code Civ. Proc. § 1992]. As an alternative to a contempt warrant [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.240] the court may issue a warrant for the arrest of the witness or person who fails to appear [Code Civ. Proc. §

1993(a)(1); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1993(a)(2), (b), 1993.1-1993.2 (procedures); see also Ch. 535, Subpoena].

For further discussion of contempt sanctions in discovery proceedings, see §§ 192.13[4], 192.15[4]. For further discussion and forms relating to general indirect contempt proceedings, see Ch. 135, Contempt .

For memoranda of points and authorities relating to contempt proceedings, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 47, Contempt (Matthew Bender). For forms of memoranda of points and authorities relating to motions for contempt sanctions in discovery proceedings, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 82, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse (Matthew Bender).

[3] Personal Service of Order to Show Cause

A court may not punish a contempt committed out of its presence without a full hearing at which the alleged condemner appears by reason of arrest under a warrant or through personal service of an order to show cause [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1211, 1212; see also Lund v. Superior Court (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 698, 713, 39 Cal. Rptr. 891, 394 P.2d 707] .

A court may direct service to be made on the attorney of record for an alleged condemner if it appears that he or she is concealing himself or herself to avoid service of the order to show cause or is remaining outside the state for that purpose [Kroneberger v. Superior Court (1961) 196 Cal. App. 2d 206, 210, 16 Cal. Rptr. 339 ; see also Ch. 135, Contempt].

[4] Declaration for Issuance of OSC

Before an order to show cause will issue in a general proceeding for indirect contempt, the party initiating the contempt proceeding must file an affidavit (or declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) that states facts constituting the contempt [Code Civ. Proc. § 1211; see also Arthur v. Superior Court (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 404, 408, 42 Cal. Rptr. 441, 398 P.2d 777 ; Lund v. Superior Court (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 698, 713, 39 Cal. Rptr. 891, 394 P.2d 707] . Because the discovery provisions do not establish any distinct procedure for contempt proceedings in the discovery context, the foregoing form of declaration sets forth facts necessary to establish a general contempt for disobedience of a court order or other lawful process [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1209(a)(5)]. For example, the facts must show that the condemner willfully disobeyed the order, in that he or she disobeyed notwithstanding the capacity to obey and actual knowledge of the order or process [see In re Liu (1969) 273 Cal. App. 2d 135, 140, 78 Cal. Rptr. 85 (willful disobedience of order as one of facts essential to establish jurisdiction for contempt proceeding); Warner v. Superior Court (1954) 126 Cal. App. 2d 821, 824, 826, 273 P.2d 89 (affidavit fatally defective for failure to allege willfulness)].

An alleged condemner, when directed to appear by an order to show cause, may do so by counsel instead of in person [Morelli v. Superior Court (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 262, 268-270, 68 Cal. Rptr. 572] .

IT IS ORDERED that _____ [name of condemner] is in contempt of this court and _____ [specify punishment, e.g., the Sheriff of _____ County is hereby directed to take into his/her custody the person of _____ [name of condemner] and commit him/her to _____ [specify place] until that time that he/she purges himself/herself of contempt by _____ [specify acts to be done, e.g., attending the taking of his deposition at time and place agreed to by the plaintiff and condemner].

_____ [signature]
Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The form of proposed order set out in [1], above, is for use when a court has adjudged a person in contempt of court for misuse of the discovery process [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.240, 2025.440(b) (deposition subpoena), 2025.480(g) (depositions)].

[3] Requirements of Order of Contempt

A record in an indirect contempt proceeding must contain findings on which the order is based [In re Morelli (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 819, 850-851, 91 Cal. Rptr. 72] . Moreover, a contempt order under Code Civ. Proc. § 1219(a) (confinement until act performed) must specify the act to be performed and must include a finding that the act is within the power of the condemner to perform [see Lake County v. Superior Court (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 815, 817, 136 Cal. Rptr. 830] .

Chapter 193 DISCOVERY: DEPOSITIONS
PART I. SCOPE

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.01

§ 193.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter covers discovery under the Civil Discovery Act using the discovery methods of oral deposition and deposition by written questions.

Part II includes discussion of deposition proceedings in the following subparts:

- Subpart A [see § 193.10 et seq.] covers oral depositions. This subpart includes coverage of the requirements relating to notice, time, and place of a deposition [see § 193.20 et seq.], deposition subpoenas [see § 193.30 et seq.], conduct of the depositions [see § 193.40 et seq.], motions for a protective order [see § 193.50 et seq.] or order compelling compliance [see § 193.60 et seq.], recording, transcribing, and certifying a deposition [see § 193.70 et seq.], and using a deposition at trial [see § 193.90 et seq.].

- Subpart B [see § 193.100 et seq.] covers depositions by written questions.

- Subpart C [see § 193.120 et seq.] covers the taking of depositions in a foreign state or nation.

- Subpart D [see § 193.130 et seq.] covers proceedings to take a deposition in California, when the deposition relates to an action pending outside California.

- Subpart E [see § 193.140 et seq.] covers special requirements applicable to the taking of a prisoner's deposition.

The procedural checklists in Part IV include the following:

- Subpart A includes checklists for oral deposition proceedings, for the party taking a deposition [see § 193.170 et seq.] and for the deponent or a party opposing discovery [see § 193.180 et seq.].

- Subpart B includes checklists for use by a party taking a deposition on written questions [see § 193.190 et seq.], and a party or other person responding to a notice of deposition on written questions [see § 193.200 et seq.].

- Subpart C includes checklists for use by a party to a proceeding pending in a foreign jurisdiction when seeking to depose a person within California [see § 193.210 et seq.].

The forms in Part V include the following:

- Subpart A includes forms for obtaining orders permitting a plaintiff to take a deposition at an earlier time than is permitted without a court order [see § 193.220 et seq.], forms for obtaining an order permitting a deposition to be taken at a place more distant from the deponent's residence than that permitted without leave of court [*see § 193.223*et seq.], a form for a deposition notice [see § 193.225], forms for deposition subpoenas [see § 193.226 et seq.], a form for written objection to a deposition notice [see § 193.229], forms for obtaining an order to quash a deposition notice [see § 193.230 et seq.], forms for obtaining protective orders [see § 193.232 et seq.], forms for obtaining an order compelling compliance with deposition notice or subpoena [see § 193.238 et seq.], forms for obtaining a monetary sanction for a deposition proponent's failure to attend or to serve the deponent with a deposition subpoena [see § 193.244 et seq.], forms for obtaining an order suppressing a deposition [see § 193.246 et seq.], and forms for obtaining an order granting leave to take a subsequent deposition [see § 193.248 et seq.].

- Subpart B includes a form for notice of a written deposition [see § 193.260], forms to be used for propounding direct, cross, redirect, or recross written questions [see § 193.261], a form for objecting to written questions [see § 193.262], forms to be used in proceedings for obtaining an order sustaining or overruling an objection to a written question [see § 193.263 et seq.], and a form containing clauses to be included in a motion for a protective order concerning a written deposition [see § 193.265].

- Subpart C includes forms to be used in proceedings to take a deposition in another state or nation: forms for obtaining issuance of a commission or letters rogatory or letter of request [see § 193.270 et seq.], a form for a commission and instructions to the Commissioner [see § 193.272], a form for letters rogatory [see § 193.273], and a form for a letter of request [see § 193.274].

- Subpart D includes forms to be used in actions pending outside California relating to discovery subpoenas, include an application to request a discovery subpoena, a discovery subpoena for personal appearance only, and a discovery subpoena for personal appearance and production of documents and things [see §§ 193.280 -193.282].

- Subpart E includes a form for a motion to be used in proceedings for obtaining an order authorizing the deposition of a prisoner [see § 193.290].

1. General Provisions

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.10

§ 193.10 Governing Law

Oral depositions taken in California for use in a state civil action are governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.010-2025.620. In addition, oral depositions are subject to the general provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.010-2019.030, 2023.010-2024.060 (scope, limitations, regulation, timing, and other provisions governing discovery generally).

The extent of discovery permitted under the Civil Discovery Act is restricted in limited civil cases by the Economic Litigation provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 94 and 95. The use of depositions in such cases is limited specifically by Code Civ. Proc. § 94(b). For further discussion, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, §§ 190.11[2], 190.23[2][b].

Deposition subpoenas are governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.010 et seq. Deposition subpoenas in actions pending outside California are governed by the Interstate and International Depositions and Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.100 et seq.; see Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.500]. The provisions governing subpoenas generally, Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985-1997 and Evid. Code §§ 1560-1566, apply to deposition subpoenas to the extent that these provisions are not superseded by more specific provisions in Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.010 et seq.

Statewide rule provisions relating to the format and content of discovery papers and motions, the service of discovery papers on nonparty deponents, and discovery sanctions, are set out in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1000, 3.1345, 3.1346, 3.1347, 3.1348, and 3.768.

1. General Provisions

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.11

§ 193.11 General Scope and Availability of Discovery by Oral Deposition

Discovery by oral deposition must be within the scope delimited by Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010 et seq., and is subject to the restrictions set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.010]. For discussion concerning the general scope and restrictions on discovery under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2017.010 et seq. and 2019.010 et seq., see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.20 et seq. and § 190.30 et seq.

Discovery by oral deposition is available to any party, and may be taken of "any person," including any party to the action. The person deposed may be a natural person, an organization such as a public or private corporation, a partnership, an association, or a governmental agency [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.010]. When a party deposes a person who is an expert witness designated under Code Civ. Proc. § 2034.010 et seq., special rules apply [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2034.410-2034.470, discussed in Ch. 198, Discovery: Exchange of Expert Witness Information].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Oral Depositions
1. General Provisions

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.12

§ 193.12 Subsequent Deposition of Natural Person Limited

Generally, once any party has taken the deposition of any natural person, including that of a party to the action, neither the party who gave nor any other party who received notice of the deposition may take a subsequent deposition of that deponent without leave of court [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.610; for discussion concerning notice of deposition, see § 193.21]. However, this rule does not apply to the subsequent deposition of a natural person whose previous deposition was due to his or her designation to testify on behalf of a nonnatural deponent under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.230. In addition, one subsequent deposition may be taken, pursuant to a court order under Code Civ. Proc. § 485.230, for the limited purpose of discovering, under Code Civ. Proc. § 485.230, the identity, location, and value of property in which the deponent has an interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.610(c)(2); see discussion in § 193.21[3][b]].

PRACTICE TIP:

Subsequent Deposition by Later Appearing Party. The limit of subsequent depositions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.610 applies only to the party taking the deposition and parties receiving notice of the deposition. Notice of the deposition, in turn, is required to be given to other parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.240(a); see § 193.21]. A party making a late appearance in the action is therefore not precluded from deposing a natural person whose previous deposition was noticed before that party's appearance.

The court may grant leave to take a subsequent deposition of a natural person for good cause shown [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.610(b)]. Good cause might include, for example, a showing that the previous deposition was taken before the existence of the fact that the party now seeks to examine [see Carlson v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 431, 439, 15 Cal. Rptr. 132, 364 P.2d 308 (under prior law, fact that prior deposition had been taken was not valid ground for protective order precluding oral examination on issue of fact not previously existing)]. For forms for use in obtaining an order permitting a subsequent deposition, see §§ 193.248, 193.249.

Additionally, the parties, with the consent of any deponent who is not a party, may stipulate that a subsequent deposition be taken [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.610(b); see also discussion in § 193.14].

The practice of taking the deposition of opposing counsel is severely restricted and permitted only on a showing of extremely good cause [Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 786, 790, 140 Cal. Rptr. 677 ; Trade Center Properties, Inc. v. Superior Court (1960) 185 Cal. App. 2d 409, 411, 8 Cal. Rptr. 345] . The circumstances under which opposing counsel may be deposed are limited to those when (1) no other means exist to obtain the information than to depose opposing counsel, (2) the information sought is relevant and not privileged, and (3) the information is crucial to the preparation of the case [Estate of Ruchti (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1593, 1600-1601, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 151 ; Spectra-Physics, Inc. v. Superior Court (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1487, 1496, 244 Cal. Rptr. 258] .

2. Time, Place, and Notice Requirements

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.20

§ 193.20 Time Requirements

[1] Initiating Discovery by Oral Deposition

Subject to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.270 and 2025.610, the parties may take an oral deposition as follows [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210]:

- A defendant may serve a deposition notice without leave of court at any time after that defendant has been served or has appeared in the action, whichever occurs first [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210(a)].

- A plaintiff may serve a deposition notice without leave of court on any date that is 20 days after the service of the summons on, or appearance by, any defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210(b)].

Use of the term "any defendant" suggests that service on or appearance by any one defendant is sufficient to start this 20-day period, even if plaintiff is noticing either a deposition of another defendant who has not been served or who has not appeared more than 20 days prior to the dateon which service of the notice of deposition is desired, or a deposition of a nonparty [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210(b); see also Waters v. Superior Court (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 885, 892, 27 Cal. Rptr. 153, 377 P.2d 265 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2016)].

On motion with or without notice, the court, for good cause shown, may grant leave to a plaintiff to serve a deposition notice on an earlier date [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210(b); see the procedural checklist set out in § 193.170[3], and the forms set out in § 193.220 et seq.].

"Good cause" for leave to serve a deposition notice before a defendant has been served or has appeared may well be lacking when the plaintiff's purpose in taking the deposition is merely to initiate a "fishing expedition" to find potential defendants [see Pearlson v. Does 1 to 646 (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 1005, 1011-1012, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787 (plaintiff failed to show good cause under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210(b) to conduct discovery on unnamed third parties, for purpose of learning identity of unnamed defendants in complaint, when plaintiff failed to identify any particular defendant or subset of viable defendants or to demonstrate that requested discovery was anything other than fishing expedition; court not only denied leave but properly dismissed action under Code Civ. Proc. § 583.150)].

For discussion of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.270 and 2025.610, see respectively [2], below, and § 193.12.

[2] Scheduling Oral Deposition

An oral deposition generally must be scheduled for a date at least 10 days after service of the deposition notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270(a)], with the following exceptions:

- In an unlawful detainer action or other proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), an oral deposition must be scheduled for a date at least five days after service of the deposition notice, but not later than five days before trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270(b)].

- Second, if the party giving notice is the subpoenaing party [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985.3, 1985.6 (applicable definitions)], and the deponent is a witness commanded to produce a consumer's personal records or an employee's employment records, the deposition must be scheduled for at least 20 days after issuance of that subpoena [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270(a); see discussion in § 193.21[2] and general discussion and forms relating to the production of a consumer's personal records under Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3 in Ch. 535, Subpoena].

When the deposition notice is served by mail, the minimum scheduling periods set out above are extended by five calendar days, upon service by mail, if the place of address and the place of mailing is within the state of California, 10 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside the state of California but within the United States, and 20 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside the United States [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.050 (incorporating by reference provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a))].

On motion or ex parte application of any party or deponent, for good cause shown, the court may shorten or extend the time for scheduling a deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270(d); see § 193.220 et seq.]. For discussion and forms relating to shortening and extending time periods generally, see Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time .

For discussion and forms relating to the general time requirements for completing discovery under Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.010 et seq., see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.50 et seq.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Oral Depositions
2. Time, Place, and Notice Requirements

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.21

§ 193.21 Notice Requirements

[1] General Requirements

A party desiring to take the oral deposition of any person must give written notice to every other party who has appeared in the action. However, when, under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.410-2020.440, only the production by a nonparty of business records for copying is desired, a copy of the deposition subpoena serves as the notice of deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.240]. For a discussion of the process by which a nonparty is required only to produce business records for copying, see § 193.31.

The notice must include the time and place of the deposition, information identifying the deponent and any material to be produced by the deponent, and any other information required under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220 [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.220-2025.240]. The notice, or the accompanying proof of service, must also include a list of all the parties or attorneys for parties on whom it is served [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.240(a)]. For further discussion of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.220-2025.240 and a form for a deposition notice, see § 193.225.

[2] Special Requirements When Subpoenaing Consumer or Employee Records

If the party giving notice is the subpoenaing party [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985.3, 1985.6 (applicable definitions)], and the deponent is a witness commanded by a deposition subpoena to produce personal records of a consumer or employment records of an employee, the subpoenaing party is required to serve on that consumer or employee (1) a notice of the deposition, (2) a notice of privacy rights specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(e), or Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6(e), and (3) a copy of the deposition subpoena (discussed in § 193.31) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.240(b); for discussion and a form of notice of privacy rights under Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(e) (personal records) and Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6 (employment records), see Ch. 535, Subpoena].

[3] Effect of Deposition Notice

[a] Duty of Party Deponent to Attend

Service of the deposition notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220 is effective to require any deponent who is a party to the action or who is an officer, director, managing agent, or employee of a party to attend and testify at the deposition, as well as to produce any document or tangible thing for inspection and copying [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.280(a); see also Waters v. Superior Court (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 885, 895-896, 27 Cal. Rptr. 153, 377 P.2d 265 (subpoena need not also be served; "managing agent" under prior law construed to be person who may exercise judgment and discretion in dealing with corporate matters, and who can be expected to comply with employer's directive to appear for pretrial examination and to identify self with interests of corporation)].

In a case construing Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.280(a) in the context of deposition notices served on the state of California to obtain documents and witnesses from nonparty state agencies, the court of appeal held that to obtain documents and witnesses from state agencies, other than documents reflecting an agency's investigation related to the litigation, the party seeking discovery is required to serve subpoenas directly on the agencies that have the information they seek. The court reasoned that service on the state was insufficient, because a nonparty state agency could not be considered an "officer, director, managing agent, or employee" of the state by prosecuting an action [People ex rel. Lockyer v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1060, 1076-1077, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 324] . For discussion of the process by which a nonparty deponent is required to attend, see § 193.30 et seq.

[b] Duty of Nonnatural Deponent to Designate Agent

If the deponent named is not a natural person, the deposition notice must describe with reasonable particularity the matters on which examination is requested. The deponent must then designate and produce at the deposition those of its officers, directors, managing agents, employees, or agents who are most qualified to testify on its behalf as to those matters to the extent of any information known or reasonably available to the deponent [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.230]. Thus, a party seeking discovery may name an organization as the deponent when he or she wishes to obtain testimony concerning matters known by someone connected with a public or private corporation, a partnership, an association, or a governmental agency, but does not know who the particular person is or has no preference as to who testifies.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Oral Depositions
2. Time, Place, and Notice Requirements

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.22

§ 193.22 Place Requirements

[1] When Deponent Is Natural Person

When the deponent is a natural person, whether or not a party to the action, his or her deposition must be taken at a place that is, at the option of the party seeking discovery, either within 75 miles of the deponent's residence, or within the forum county and within 150 miles of the deponent's residence, unless the court orders otherwise under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.250(a)].

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260, the party seeking discovery may move for an order that the deposition be taken at a place that is more distant than that permitted under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.250(a), if the deponent is a natural person who is a party to the action or who is an officer, director, managing agent, or employee of a party. For further discussion and a form for a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260, see § 193.223.

[2] When Deponent Is Organization

When the deponent is an organization that is a party to the action, the deposition must be taken at a place that is, at the option of the party seeking discovery, either within 75 miles of the organization's principal executive or business office in California, or in the forum county and within 150 miles of that office [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.250(b)].

When the deponent is an organization that is not a party, the deposition must be taken within 75 miles of the organization's principal executive or business office in California, unless the organization consents to a more distant place [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.250(c)].

If a deponent organization has not designated a principal executive or business office in California, the deposition must be taken at a place that is, at the option of the party seeking discovery, either within the forum county, or within 75 miles of any executive or business office of the organization in California [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.250(d)].

[3] Deposition by Telephone, Videoconference or Remote Electronic Means

A person may take, and any person other than the deponent may attend, a deposition by telephone, videoconference, or other remote electronic means [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.310(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1010(c), (d)]. Any party may take an oral deposition by telephone, videoconference or other remote electronic means, provided [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1010(a)]:

- Notice is served with the notice of deposition or the subpoena.

- That party makes all arrangements for any other party to participate in thedeposition in an equivalent manner. However, each party soappearing must pay all expenses incurred by it or properly allocated to it.

- Any party may be personally present at the deposition without giving prior notice.

Any party (other than the deponent) may appear and participate in an oral deposition by telephone, videoconference, or other remote electronic means, provided [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.100(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.310(a) (deponent must appear in person)]:

- Written notice of the appearance is served by personal delivery or fax at least three court days before the deposition.

- The party appearing by telephone, videoconference, or other electronic means makes all arrangements and pays all expenses incurred for the appearance.

The court may expressly provide that a nonparty deponent may appear at his or her deposition by telephone if it finds there is good cause and no prejudice to any party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.310(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1010(d)]. The nonparty deponent must be sworn in the presence of the deposition officer or by any other means stipulated to by the parties or ordered by the court. Any party may be personally present at the deposition [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1010(d)]. A party deponent, however, must appear at his or her deposition in person and be in the presence of the deposition officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.310(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1010(c)].

The court in a specific action may make other orders as appropriate to implement an appearance by telephone, videoconference or other remote electronic means [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1010(e); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.310].

The notice of intention to take an oral deposition by telephone, videoconference or other remote electronic means may not be filed with the court, unless offered as relevant under a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(6)]. Instead, the serving party retains the original and the proof of service until six months after final disposition of the cause, unless otherwise ordered by the court for cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)].

2. Time, Place, and Notice Requirements

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.23

§ 193.23 Opposing Deposition for Failure to Satisfy Time, Notice, and Place Requirements

Any party served with a deposition notice that does not comply with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.210-2025.270 (discussed in §§ 193.20 -193.22) may serve a written objection, specifying any error or irregularity, on the party seeking to take the deposition and on any other attorney or party on whom the deposition notice was served [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410]. For a form of written objection, see § 193.229.

The objection must be served no less than three calendar days before the date on which the deposition is scheduled, or the party served with the deposition notice waives the error or irregularity [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410(a); for further discussion of service requirements, see § 193.229[3]].

In addition to serving a written objection to the deposition notice, a party may also move for an order staying the taking of the deposition and quashing the deposition notice. The motion is required to be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of any issue presented by the motion. The taking of the deposition is stayed pending the determination of this motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410(c)]. For forms for use in obtaining an order quashing a deposition notice and staying the taking of the deposition, see §§ 193.230, 193.231.

The court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to quash a deposition notice, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410(d)]. For further discussion of monetary sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

Unless the objecting party moves for a stay of the deposition and to quash the deposition notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410, the deposition will proceed to take place [see, e.g., Snyder v. Superior Court (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 579, 586, 89 Cal. Rptr. 534 (holding under prior law that objection is not substitute for protective order)]. Any party, however, who has timely served written objection to the notice of deposition may then raise the objection if an attempt is made to use the deposition in court. If the objecting party did not attend the deposition, and if the court determines that the written objection was a valid one, the deposition shall not be used against the objecting party under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.620 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410(b)].

§ 193.30 Deposition Subpoena

[1] Required for Nonparty Deponent

Except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.280(a), the process by which anonparty is required to provide discovery is deposition subpoena [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.010 et seq.]. Thus, to require the attendance and testimony of a nonparty deponent, as well as his or her production of any document or tangible thing for inspection and copying, the party seeking discovery must serve on that deponent a deposition subpoena under Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.280(b)]. For discussion of procedure under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.280(a), for requiring the attendance of nonparty who is an employee, agent, or officer of a party, see § 193.21[3][a]].

In a case of first impression, one court of appeal considered whether defendant could demand, through requests for production of documents under Code of Civil Procedure Section 2031.010 et seq., that the state produce items in the possession of state agencies that were not parties to the litigation. The court held that those discovery requests are not proper, unless the propounding party is requesting documents related to an investigation by that state agency related to the litigation at issue [People ex rel. Lockyer v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1060, 1076-1077, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 324] . The court also concluded that the state, merely by prosecuting an action, was not considered to have possession, custody, or control over documents of any state agency [People ex rel. Lockyer v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1060, 1078, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 324] . Accordingly, defendant was required to serve subpoenas directly on the state agencies to obtain their documents or witnesses [People ex rel. Lockyer v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1060, 1078, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 324] .

Personal service of any deposition subpoena is effective to require of any deponent who is a resident of California at the time of service (1) personal appearance and testimony, if the subpoena so specifies; (2) any specified production, inspection, testing, and sampling; and (3) the deponent's attendance at a court session to consider any issue arising out of the deponent's refusal to be sworn, to answer any question, to produce specified items, or to permit inspection or photocopying, if the subpoena so specifies, or specified testing and sampling of the items produced [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.220(c)].

For illustrative forms of deposition subpoena adopted by the Judicial Council for mandatory use, together with related discussion concerning issuance, contents, service, and accompanying witness fees, see §§ 193.226 -193.228.

If the party giving notice of the deposition fails to serve a required subpoena on a nonparty deponent and, as a result, the deponent fails to appear for the deposition, any party who, in person or by attorney, attended the deposition at the specified time and place in the expectation that the deponent's testimony would be taken should seek the imposition of a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a) against the noticing party or the attorney for that party, or both [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.440(a)]. For a form of motion for imposition of sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.440, see § 193.244.

[2] Application of General Subpoena Provisions

Subpoenas requiring attendance at a civil trial or other court proceeding are governed generally by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985-1997 and Evid. Code § 1560 et seq. These provisions also apply to a deposition subpoena requiring attendance at a deposition held pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.010 et seq., except as modified by Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.030].

Discussion of deposition subpoenas in this subpart focuses on the specific provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.010 et seq. For detailed discussion of the more general provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985-1997 and Evid. Code § 1560 et seq., see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

§ 193.31 Types of Deposition Subpoena

[1] For Personal Appearance Only, for Appearance and Production of Tangible Evidence, or for Production Only of Business Records

The deposition subpoena may command any of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.020]:

- Only the attendance and testimony of the deponent under Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.310.
- Only the production of business records for copying under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.410-2020.440.
- Both the attendance and testimony of the deponent as well as the production of business records, other documents, and tangible things under Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.510.

For further discussion concerning the contents of a deposition subpoena required under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.310 or 2020.510, see respectively § 193.226[3][b] and § 193.227[3][b]. For further discussion concerning the contents of deposition subpoena required under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.410-2020.440, see § 193.228[3][a]. For further discussion relating to the copying of business records under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.410-2020.440, see [2], below, and § 193.32. For discussion of special service requirements applicable if a deposition subpoena under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.410-2020.440 or 2020.510 commands the production of personal records of a consumer see [3], below.

[2] Business Records Defined

Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.410-2020.440, relating to the production only of business records for copying [see [1], above], do not define "business record." One court that had occasion to consider the matter stated that a "business record" means an item, collection, or grouping of information about a business entity. It does not include documents that constitute the product of a business entity [Urban Pacific Equities Corp. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 688, 692-693, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 635] .

Accordingly, a party could not utilize a deposition subpoena for business records in order to compel production of a deposition transcript that had been made by an employee of the reporter service that had been served with the subpoena [Urban Pacific Equities Corp. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 688, 694, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 635 (noting that use of the subpoena in this circumstance was a "creative" but unfortunately improper, use by which the subpoenaing party sought to avoid paying clearly excessive copying fees charged by the reporter service)].

[3] Service of Subpoena Commanding Production of Consumer or Employee Records

If the subpoenaed individual or entity is a witness commanded to produce business records that are personal records pertaining to a consumer or employee, as defined under Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3 or Code Civ. Proc. § 1895.6, the service of the deposition subpoena must be accompanied by either one of the following [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.410(d), 2020.510]:

- A copy of proof of service on the consumer or employee of the notice regarding his or her privacy rights required under Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(e) (consumer) or Code Civ. Proc. § 1895.6(b) (employee).

- The consumer's or employee's written authorization to release the personal records under Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(c)(2) (consumer), or Code Civ. Proc. § 1895.6(c)(2) (employee) [see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(f) (consumer's authorization only is sufficient in the case of telephone records)].

The language of Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.410(d) refers only to the "personal records pertaining to a consumer," and to the necessity of showing, when serving the subpoena, either proof of service of notice to the "consumer" or that "consumer's" authorization to release records. This provision was, however, amended in 1999 to refer not only to the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1895.3 (personal records of consumer), but also to those of Code Civ. Proc. § 1895.6, which impose almost identical requirements relating to the employment records of an employee when a subpoena seeks their production from an employer. Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.410(d) should therefore be read, as indicated above, to provide that, when a deposition subpoena is directed to a witness seeking the production of "employment records" maintained by that witness (as defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6(a)), the service of that subpoena must be accompanied by proof of service of notice to the employee whose records are sought, described in Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6(b), or by the employee's written authorization to release the records, as described in Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6(c)(2).

For further discussion and forms relating to subpoenas requesting personal consumer or employee records, see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

§ 193.32 Special Requirements for Copying Business Records

[1] Qualifications of Deposition Officer

The officer for a deposition at which only business records are to be copied, that is, a deposition for which a subpoena has been issued in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.410-2020.440, is required to be a professional photocopier registered under Bus. & Prof. Code § 22450 et seq. or a person exempted from those registration requirements under Bus. & Prof. Code § 22451. This deposition officer must not be financially interested in the action or be a relative or employee of any attorney of the parties. Objections to the qualifications of the deposition officer must be made before the date of production or as soon thereafter as the ground for that objection becomes known or could be discovered by reasonable diligence. Otherwise, any objection to the qualifications is waived [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.420].

[2] Compliance With Subpoena

Unless directed to make the records available for inspection or copying by the subpoenaing party's attorney or a representative of that attorney at the witness's business address under Evid. Code § 1560(e), the custodian of the records, or other qualified person, is required, either personally, by messenger, or by mail, to deliver only to the deposition officer (1) a true, legible, and durable copy of the records, and (2) an affidavit complying with Evid. Code § 1561 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.430(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.430(f) (Evid. Code § 1562 concerning admissibility of custodian's affidavit as applicable)]. For further discussion of Evid. Code §§ 1560(e) and 1561 and a form of affidavit or declaration under Evid. Code § 1561, see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

If the delivery is made to the office of the deposition officer, the copy of the records is required to be enclosed, sealed, and directed as described in Evid. Code § 1560(c) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.430(b); for discussion of Evid. Code § 1560(c), see Ch. 535, Subpoena].

If the delivery is made at the office of the business whose records are the subject of the deposition subpoena, the custodian of those records or other qualified person must permit the deposition officer specified in the deposition subpoena to make a copy of the originals of the designated business records during normal business hours as defined in Evid. Code § 1560(e). Alternatively, the custodian or other qualified person must deliver to that deposition officer a true, legible, and durable copy of the records on receipt of payment in cash or by check, by or on behalf of the party serving the deposition subpoena, of the reasonable costs of preparing that copy, and an itemized statement for the cost of preparation, as determined under to Evid. Code § 1563(b). This copy need not be delivered in a sealed envelope [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.430(c); for discussion of Evid. Code § 1563(b), see the procedural checklists set out in § 193.180[4] and Ch. 535, Subpoena].

Unless the parties, and a consumer or employee if the records are those of a consumer or employee as defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3 or Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6, stipulate to an earlier date, the custodian of the records must not deliver to the deposition officer the business records that are the subject of the deposition subpoena prior to the date and time specified in the deposition subpoena [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.430(d) (form for deposition subpoena contains warning of this requirement); see § 193.228].

Promptly on or after the deposition date and after the receipt or the making of a copy of business records under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.410-2020.440, the deposition officer is required to provide that copy to the party at whose instance the deposition subpoena was served, and a copy of those records to any other party to the action who then or subsequently, within a period of six months following the settlement of a case, notifies the deposition officer that the party desires to purchase a copy of those records [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.440].

A deponent who disobeys a deposition subpoena in any manner described in Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.220(c) (discussed in § 193.30[1]) may be punished for contempt under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 without the necessity of a prior order of court directing compliance by the witness [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.240; see Gregori v. Bank of America (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 291, 311, 254 Cal. Rptr. 853 (decided under prior law)]. That deponent is also subject to the forfeiture and the payment of damages set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 1992 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.240]. As an alternative to a contempt sanction, the court may issue a warrant for the arrest of witness or person who fails to appear [Code Civ. Proc. § 1993(a)(1); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1993(a)(2), (b), 1993.1-1993.2 (procedures); Ch. 535, Subpoena].

§ 193.35 Objection to Deposition Subpoena

[1] By Motion to Quash or Modify

The court, on motion reasonably made by a party, a witness, a consumer under Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3, an employee under Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6, or a person whose personally identifying information [see Civ. Code § 1798.79.8 (definition)] is sought in connection with an action involving that person's free speech rights, or on its own motion after giving counsel notice and opportunity to be heard, may make an order quashing the deposition subpoena entirely, an order modifying the subpoena, or other appropriate protective order [Code Civ. Proc. § 1987.1(a)]. For further discussion and forms, see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

[2] By Objection at Time of Testimony or Production

A deposition subpoena is effective to require (1) personal attendance, (2) specified production, testing, inspection, or sampling, or (3) attendance at a court session to consider any issue arising from the deponent's refusal to be sworn, refusal to answer any questions, or refusal to produce items or permit copying, testing, inspection or sampling of items as specified in the subpoena [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.220(c), discussed in § 193.30[1]]. Disobedience of these requirements subjects a nonparty deponent to contempt sanctions without any prior order directing compliance [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.240, discussed in § 193.34]. To avoid potential contempt sanctions, the safer and more typical course for nonparty deponents is to challenge or object to a deposition subpoena by a motion to quash or modify the subpoena under Code Civ. Proc. § 1987.1(a), as discussed in [1], above.

A nonparty deponent is not necessarily required to file a motion to quash, however, in order to preserve and raise objections. For example, a nonparty deponent named in a records-only deposition subpoena may appear and comply with the subpoena by producing some items but refusing, for stated objections such as privilege, to produce others [see Monarch Healthcare v. Superior Court (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 1282, 1284-1290, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 619 (as matter of first impression, petitioner nonparty's objection based on privilege was not waived by failure to move to quash or modify subpoena, but was sufficient and timely when made at the time specified for production)]. The court in Monarch reasoned that discovery procedures are generally designed to be less onerous to nonparties, who are less likely to be represented by counsel, familiar with the issues, or able to react promptly before responses are due. Thus, a nonparty deponent having partial objections to matters specified in a deposition subpoena is not required to move to quash or modify, but may simply wait and object, placing the onus on the proponent to move to compel [Monarch Healthcare v. Superior Court (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 1282, 1287, 1289-1290, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 619 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480 (procedure for motion to compel when "deponent fails to answer any question or to produce any document or tangible thing under the deponent's control that is specified in ... a deposition subpoena")]. The deponent remains safe from contempt sanctions, to the extent that he or she complies with the requirement of "attendance at a court session to consider any issue arising out of the deponent's refusal" to answer any question or produce items specified in the subpoena [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.220(c)].

§ 193.40 Qualifications of Deposition Officer

Except as provided under Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.420 (discussed in § 193.32[1]), an oral deposition must be conducted under the supervision of an officer who is authorized to administer an oath [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.320].

This deposition officer is subject to the following qualifications and requirements:

- The officer must not be financially interested in the action and must not be a relative or employee of any attorney of the parties, or of any of the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.320(a)].

- The services and products offered or provided by the deposition officer or by the entity providing the services of the deposition officer to any party, or to any party's attorney or third party who is financing all or part of the action, must be offered in turn to all other parties or their attorneys attending the deposition. No service or product may be offered or provided by the deposition officer or by the entity providing the services of the deposition officer to any party, or to any party's attorney or third party who is financing all or part of the action, unless it is also offered or provided to all other parties or their attorneys attending the deposition. All services and products offered or provided must be made available at the same time to all parties or their attorneys [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.320(b)].

- The deposition officer or the entity providing the services of the deposition officer must not provide to any party, nor to any party's attorney or third party who is financing all or part of the action, any service or product that consists of the deposition officer's notations or comments regarding the demeanor of any witness, attorney, or party present at the deposition. The deposition officer or entity providing the services of the deposition officer must not collect any personal identifying information about the witness as a service or product to be provided to any party or third party who is financing all or part of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.320(c)].

- On the request of any party or any party's attorney attending a deposition, any party or any party's > attorney attending the deposition must enter in the record of the deposition all services and products that are being made available by the deposition officer or by the entity providing the services of the deposition officer to that party, or to that party's attorney or third party who is financing all or part of the action. A party in the action who is not represented by an attorney must be informed by the noticing party or the party's attorney that the unrepresented party may request this statement [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.320(d)].

Violation of these requirements by any person may result in a civil penalty of up to $5,000 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.320(f)].

Any objection to the qualifications of the deposition officer is waived unless it is made before the deposition begins or as soon thereafter as the ground for that objection becomes known or could be discovered by reasonable diligence [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.320(e)].

§ 193.41 Taking Deponent's Testimony

[1] In General

The deposition officer must put the deponent on oath. Examination and cross examination of the deponent then proceeds as permitted at trial under the provisions of the Evidence Code [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.330; see Evid. Code §§ 760-778 (examination of witness at trial) and discussion in Ch. 551, Trial].

[2] Examination by Written Questions

In lieu of participating in the oral examination, parties may transmit written questions in a sealed envelope to the party taking the deposition for delivery to the deposition officer, who shall unseal the envelope and propound them to the deponent after the oral examination has been completed [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.330(e)]. For discussion and forms relating to depositions by written questions only under Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.010 et seq., see § 193.100 et seq.

[3] Recording Testimony

[a] Stenographic Record

Unless the parties agree or the court orders otherwise, the testimony, as well as any stated objections, must be taken stenographically by a person certified in accordance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 8020 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.330(b)]. A verbatim record of an oral deposition may ordinarily be made only by a certified shorthand reporter [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 8016, 8017]. For discussion of the preparation of a transcript from the stenographic recording, see § 193.70 et seq.

If the deposing party has indicated in the deposition notice an intention to do so, the testimony may be recorded by stenographic method, through the instant visual display of the testimony [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(a)(5)]. Any offer to provide the instant visual display of the testimony or to provide rough draft transcripts to any party which is accepted before, or offered at, the deposition must also be made by the deposition officer at the deposition to all parties in attendance [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(a)(5)]. Any party or attorney requesting the instant visual display of the testimony, or rough draft transcripts, must pay the reasonable cost of those services, which may be no greater than the costs charged to any other party or attorney [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(a)(5)].

[b] Additional Record by Audio or Video Technology

[i] By Notice or Agreement

In addition to recording testimony stenographically, the party noticing the deposition may record the testimony by means of audio or video technology, if that party has stated an intention to also record the testimony by either of those methods in the deposition notice, or if all the parties have so agreed [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.330(c)].

Any other party, at his or her expense, may make a simultaneous audio or video record of the deposition, provided that the other party promptly, and in no event less than three calendar days before the date for which the deposition is scheduled, serves a written notice of this intention to record the deposition testimony by means of audio or video technology on the party or attorney who noticed the deposition, on all other parties or attorneys on whom the deposition notice was served under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.240, and on any deponent whose attendance is compelled by deposition subpoena under Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.330(c)]. The notice of intention to record testimony by audio or video technology may not be filed with the court, unless offered as relevant under a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(5)]. Instead, the serving party retains the original and the proof of service until six months after final disposition of the cause, unless otherwise ordered by the court for cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)]. For a form for a deposition notice that may be adapted to provide such notice of another party's intent to record a deposition by video or audio technology, see § 193.225.

For discussion concerning the viewing, hearing, or copying of audio or video recordings, see § 193.42[1]. For discussion of the requirements for offering the recordings into evidence, see § 193.42[2].

[ii] Making Audio or Video Recordings

The following procedures must be observed if the deposition is being recorded by means of audio or video technology [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340]:

- The area used for recording the deponent's oral testimony is required to be suitably large, adequately lighted, and reasonably quiet [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(a)].

- The operator of the recording equipment is required to be competent to set up, operate, and monitor the equipment in the manner prescribed in Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340. The operator may be an employee of the attorney taking the deposition unless the operator is also the deposition officer. However, if a video recording of deposition testimony of a treating or consulting physician or expert witness to be used under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.620(d) (discussed in § 193.94), the operator of the recording equipment is required to be a person who is authorized to administer an oath, and may not be financially interested in the action or be a relative or employee of an attorney of any of the parties, unless all parties attending the deposition agree on the record to waive these qualifications and restrictions [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(b), (c); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(a)(6)].

- Services and products offered or provided by the deposition officer or operator, or by the entity that is providing the services of the deposition officer or operator, to any party, or to that party's attorney or a third party who is financing all or part of the action, must be offered to all other parties or their attorneys attending the deposition. No service or product may be offered or provided by the deposition officer or operator, or by the entity providing the services of the deposition officer or operator, unless it is offered or provided to all parties or their attorneys attending the deposition. All services and products offered or provided must be made available at the same time to all parties or their attorneys [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(d)]. The deposition officer or operator, or the entity providing the services of the deposition officer or operator, must not provide to any party, nor to any party's attorney or third party who is financing all or part of the action, any service or product consisting of the deposition officer's notations or comments regarding the demeanor of any witness, attorney, or party present at the deposition. The deposition officer or entity providing the services of the deposition officer also may not collect any personal identifying information about the witness as a service or product to be provided to any party or to any third party who is financing all or part of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(e)].

- On the request of any party or any party's attorney attending a deposition, any party or any party's attorney attending the deposition must enter in the record of the deposition all services and products that are being made available to that party or party's attorney or third party who is financing all or part of the action by the deposition officer or operator or by the entity providing the services of the deposition officer. A party in the action who is not represented by an attorney must be informed by the noticing party or that party's attorney that the unrepresented party may request this statement [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(f)].

- The operator may not distort the appearance or the demeanor of participants in the deposition by the use of camera or sound recording techniques [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(g)].

- The deposition is required to begin with an oral or written statement on camera or on the audio recording that includes the operator's name and business address, the name and business address of the operator's employer, the date, time, and place of the deposition, the caption of the case, the name of the deponent, a specification of the party on whose behalf the deposition is being taken, and any stipulations by the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(h)].

- Counsel for the parties are required to identify themselves on camera or on the audio recording [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(i)].

- The deposition officer is required to administer the oath or affirmation to the deponent on camera or on the audio recording [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.330(a), 2025.340(j)].

- If the length of a deposition requires the use of more than one unit of tape or electronic storage, the end of each unit and the beginning of each succeeding unit is required to be announced on camera or on the audio recording [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(k)].

- At the conclusion of a deposition, a statement shall be made on camera or on the audio recording that the deposition is ended. A statement shall be made on camera or on the audio tape setting forth any stipulations made by counsel concerning the custody of the audio tape or video recording and the exhibits, or concerning other pertinent matters [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(l)].

§ 193.42 Subsequent Use of Audio or Video Record

[1] Availability to Other Parties

At the request of any other party to the action, including a party who did not attend the taking of the deposition testimony, any party who records or causes the recording of testimony at a deposition by means of audio or video technology is required to promptly permit that other party to hear the audio or to view the video recording [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510(f)].

Notwithstanding Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.320(b) (discussed in § 193.40), the recording party must furnish a copy of the audio or video recording to that other party, on receipt of payment of the reasonable cost of making the copy of the tape [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510(f)(2)].

[2] Prerequisites for Use at Trial

A party may offer an audio or video recording of a deposition in evidence under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.620 (discussed in § 193.90 et seq.) if that party has notified the court and all parties in writing of (1) the intent to offer into evidence, and (2) the parts of the deposition to be offered. The notice must be given within sufficient time for objections to be made and ruled on by the judge to whom the case is assigned for trial or hearing, and for any editing of the recording [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(m)].

The offer is required to be accompanied by a stenographic transcript prepared from the recording, if no stenographic record of the deposition testimony has previously been made [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(m); see discussion in § 193.70 et seq.].

Objections to all or part of the deposition must be made in writing. The court may permit further designations of testimony and objections, as justice may require. With respect to those portions of an audio or video record of deposition testimony that are not designated by any party or that are ruled to be objectionable, the court may order that the party offering the recording of the deposition at the trial or hearing suppress those portions, or that an edited version of the deposition recording be prepared for use at the trial or hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(m)].

Regardless of whether an edited version of the recording is prepared, the original audio or video recording of the deposition is required to be preserved unaltered [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(m)].

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.43

§ 193.43 Objections During Oral Deposition

[1] Privilege, Work Product, or Other Protection Against Disclosure

A specific objection to the disclosure of information, on the ground that it is privileged or that it is protected work product under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq., is waived unless timely made [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.460(a); see Monarch Healthcare v. Superior Court (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 1282, 1284, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 619 (as matter of first impression, petitioner nonparty deponent's objection to records-only discovery request for privileged information was timely and sufficient when made at time and place for production of records; nonparty deponent was not required to file a motion to quash)].

One court of appeal has suggested that the waiver rule applies only to matters of evidentiary privilege and attorney work product, and that a privacy right, such as sexual privacy, is not waived by failure to state that ground as a basis for objecting to a deposition question [Boler v. Superior Court (1987) 201 Cal. App. 3d 467, 472 n.1, 247 Cal. Rptr. 185] .

For discussion of evidentiary privileges, attorney work product protection, and other protections against disclosure such as that based on the constitutional right of privacy, see Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations .

[2] Error or Irregularity in Deposition Proceeding

An objection based on any error or irregularity of any kind that occurs at the oral examination, and that might be cured if the objection is promptly presented, is waived unless a specific objection to the error or irregularity is made during the deposition. These errors and irregularities include, but are not limited to, those relating to the manner of taking the deposition, to the oath or affirmation administered, to the conduct of a party, attorney, deponent, or deposition officer, or to the form of any question or answer [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.460(b)].

Unless the objecting party demands that the taking of the deposition be suspended pending a motion for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470, the deposition will proceed subject to the objection [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.460(b); for discussion of the motion procedure under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470, see § 193.45].

[3] Competency, Relevancy, Materiality, or Admissibility of Matter Sought

It is not necessary to object to the competency of the deponent, or to the relevancy, materiality, or admissibility at trial of the testimony or of the materials produced. Failure to make these objections before or during the deposition does not waive the objection [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.460(c)]. In fact, deponent's counsel should not even raise an objection to a question counsel believes will elicit irrelevant testimony at a deposition. Relevance objections should be held in abeyance until an attempt is made to use the testimony at trial [Stewart v. Colonial W. Agency, Inc. (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1006, 1014, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115] . The fact that suspension of the deposition under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470 is available only when an interrogation reveals bad faith or an underlying purpose to harass, annoy, embarrass, or oppress indicates that witnesses are expected to endure an occasional irrelevant question without disrupting the deposition process [see Stewart v. Colonial W. Agency, Inc. (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1006, 1014-1015, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115 (relevancy objections at deposition are unnecessary and improper, unless deposing counsel's insistence on inquiring into irrelevant areas could arguably justify suspension under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470 based on counsel's intent to harass, annoy, embarrass, or oppress)].

[4] "Legal Contention" Questions or Requests for Demonstrations

A deponent's counsel should object to any "legal contention" questions, for example, to state all facts, list all witnesses, and identify all documents that support or pertain to a particular contention in the deponent's pleadings. These questions, while entirely appropriate for written interrogatories, are not proper at a party's deposition [Rifkind v. Superior Court (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 1255, 1259-1263, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 822] . Questions asking a deponent about the basis for, or information concerning, a factual conclusion or assertion, however, are appropriate questions for a deposition. For example, if a party states that a certain event happened at a particular time or place, it is entirely proper to ask the party at deposition how he or she became aware of the event, his or her knowledge about the event, and for similar information of a factual nature [Rifkind v. Superior Court (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 1255, 1259, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 822] .

The 1993 holding of Stermer v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 777, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 577 formerly allowed counsel also to object to their deponent's responding to any request for a demonstration, diagram, or reenactment performance. This holding, however, was expressly disapproved by the Supreme Court in Emerson Electric Co. v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 1101, 1106-1107, 1113, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 883, 946 P.2d 841 , with respect to such requests when made during a videotaped deposition. The court in Emerson ruled that such requests for non-verbal reenactment were consistent with former Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(l)(1) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.330), which provides that deposition examinations are to proceed as permitted under the Evidence Code. Under the Evidence Code a witness may be required to perform a physical reenactment or demonstration of an incident at trial [Emerson Electric Co. v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 1101, 1107, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 883, 946 P.2d 841 , citing e.g., DiRosario v. Havens (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1224, 1230-1233] . The court also concluded that such reenactment or demonstration was consistent with the legislative purpose and history underlying the enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480 [Emerson Electric Co. v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 1101, 1107-1109, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 883, 946 P.2d 841 (decided under prior law)]. Thus, Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480 should be construed to allow nonverbal as well as verbal responses at a videotaped deposition, which may require a deponent to perform a demonstration or reenactment at the request of a party [Emerson Electric Co. v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 1101, 1111-1112, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 883, 946 P.2d 841 (decided under prior law)]. Refusal to comply with such a request may subject the reusing party to discovery sanctions [Emerson Electric Co. v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 1101, 1112, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 883, 946 P.2d 841] .

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.45

§ 193.45 Suspension of Deposition Pending Motion for Protective Order

The deposition officer must not suspend the taking of testimony, without stipulation of all parties present, unless any party attending the deposition, including the deponent, demands that the deposition officer suspend taking the testimony to enable that deponent or party to move for a protective order on the ground that the examination is being conducted in bad faith or in a manner that unreasonably annoys, embarrasses, or oppresses that deponent or party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470; see also Stewart v. Colonial W. Agency, Inc. (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1006, 1014-1015, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115 (fact that suspension is available under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470 only when interrogation into improper matters reveals bad faith or underlying purpose to annoy, harass, embarrass, or oppress indicates that witnesses are expected to endure occasional irrelevant questions without disrupting deposition process)]. This motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(a); see also St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 82, 86, 202 Cal. Rptr. 571 (proper notice and hearing required for similar motion under prior law)].

The court, for good cause shown, may order the examination terminated, or it may limit the scope and manner of taking the deposition by means of a protective order authorized under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420 (discussed in § 193.50 et seq.). If the order terminates the examination, the deposition shall not thereafter be resumed, except on order of the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(16)].

The court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion for this protective order, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [*Code Civ. Any party, any deponent, or any other affected natural person or organization may promptly move for a protective order before, during, or after a deposition. This motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(a)].

If the motion for a protective order is made before the deposition is taken, the moving party or deponent may also move, and the court may so order, that the taking of the deposition be stayed pending determination of the motion for the protective order [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270(d) (deposition may also be stayed as result of ex parte application made after motion for protective order)]. If it is made during a deposition, the deposition officer must suspend the taking of the deposition pending determination of the motion on demand by the moving party or deponent [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470; for further discussion, see § 193.45].

§ 193.51 Burden of Proof

[1] Generally on Moving Party

The moving party has the burden of showing good cause for a protective order. This burden arises out of the deposing party's general right to obtain discovery without prior court approval [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210; Southern California Edison Co. v. Superior Court (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 832, 843, 103 Cal. Rptr. 709, 500 P.2d 621] . Such a showing calls for a factual exposition of a reasonable ground for the order sought [Goodman v. Citizens Life & Cas. Ins. Co. (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 807, 819, 61 Cal. Rptr. 682] .

[2] Exception When Corporate Officer Defendant Is Deponent

When a plaintiff seeks to depose a president or other official at the highest level of management within a defendant corporation, and that official moves for a protective order to prohibit the deposition, the trial court should first determine whether the plaintiff has shown good cause that the official has unique or superior personal knowledge of discoverable information. If not, as is often the case in the instance of a large national or international corporation, the trial court should issue the protective order and require the plaintiff to first obtain the necessary discovery through less-intrusive methods [Liberty Mutual Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1282, 1289, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 363] .

Should less-intrusive methods of discovery be exhausted, and the plaintiff make a colorable showing of good cause that the high-level official possesses information necessary to the case, the trial court then may lift the protective order and allow the deposition to proceed [Liberty Mutual Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1282, 1289, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 363] .

Such a shifting of the burden will not frustrate a plaintiff's ability to penetrate high levels of corporate management in a search for information. It only applies with high-level officials, and may be overcome by showing that the high-level official does possess pertinent knowledge. Moreover, lower-level corporate officials with some probable connection to theplaintiff's case are not permitted to avoid being deposed through filing conclusory affidavits of ignorance [Liberty Mutual Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1282, 1289-1290, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 363] .

[3] Ruling on Motion

In ruling on the motion, the court, on a showing of good cause, may make any protective order that justice requires to protect any party, deponent, or other natural person or organization from unwarranted annoyance, embarrrassment, or oppression, or undue burden and expense [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b); for discussion of specific types of orders, see § 193.52].

If the court denies the motion in whole or in part, it may order that the deponent provide or permit the discovery against which protection was sought on those terms and conditions that are just [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(c)].

The court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion for a protective order, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(d); for further discussion of monetary sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2]].

For forms for use in obtaining a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.420 and 2025.470, see §§ 193.232 -193.235.

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.52

§ 193.52 Types of Protective Orders

A protective order issued in the context of oral deposition proceedings may include, but is not limited to, one or more of the following directions [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)]:

- That the deposition not be taken at all [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(1)].

- That the deposition be taken at a different time [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(2)].

- That a video recording of the deposition of a treating or consulting physician or of any expert witness, intended for possible use at trial under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.620(d) be postponed until the moving party has had an adequate opportunity to prepare, by discovery deposition of the deponent, or other means, for cross-examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(3); for further discussion see § 193.94].

- That the deposition be taken at a place other than that specified in the deposition notice, if it is within a distance permitted by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.250 and 2025.260 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(4)].

- That the deposition be taken only on certain specified terms and conditions [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(5)].

- That the deponent's testimony be taken by written, instead of oral, examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(6)].

- That the method of discovery be interrogatories to a party instead of an oral deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(7)].

- That the testimony be recorded in a manner different from that specified in the deposition notice [

Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(8)].

- That certain matters not be inquired into [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(9)].

- That the scope of the examination be limited to certain matters [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(10)].

- That all or certain of the writings or tangible things designated in the deposition notice not be produced, inspected, or copied [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(11)].

- That designated persons, other than the parties to the action and their officers and counsel, be excluded from attending the deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(12)].

- That a trade secret or other confidential research, development, or commercial information not be disclosed or be disclosed only to specified persons or only in a specified way [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(13)].

- That the parties simultaneously file specified documents enclosed in sealed envelopes to be opened as directed by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(14)].

- That the deposition be sealed and thereafter opened only on order of the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(15)].

- That the examination of the deponent be terminated [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(16)].

6. Orders to Compel Compliance

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.60

§ 193.60 Order Compelling Compliance by Deponent

[1] On Failure of Party or Party-Affiliated Deponent to Appear, Proceed, or Produce Item

If, after service of a deposition notice, a party to the action or an officer, director, managing agent, or employee of a party, or a person designated by an organization that is a party under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.230 (discussed in § 193.21[3][b]), fails to appear for examination, to proceed withit, or to produce for inspection any document or tangible thing described in the deposition notice, without having served a valid objection under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410 (discussed in § 193.23), the party giving the notice may move for an order compelling the deponent's attendance and testimony, and the production for inspection of any document or tangible thing described in the deposition notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(a)].

The motion must set forth specific facts showing good cause justifying the production for inspection of any document or tangible thing described in the deposition notice. The motion must also be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by it or, when the deponent fails to attend the deposition and produce the documents or things described in the deposition notice, by a declaration stating that the petitioner has contacted the deponent to inquire about the nonappearance [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(b)]. One court has held that implicit in the requirement of former Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(j)(3)(B) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(b)(2)) that counsel contact the deponent about a nonappearance is the requirement that counsel listen to the reasons offered and make a good faith attempt to resolve the issue. Thus, either declaration submitted with a motion of compel under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(b)(2) must show a reasonable and good faith attempt to resolve each issue presented, including those relating to a nonappearance [Blago Leko v. Cornerstone Home Inspection (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1109, 1124, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 858 (attorney sanctioned under former Code Civ. Proc. § 20223(a)(3), (9) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010(c), (i)) for improperly filing motion to compel attendance when attorney completely disregarded his obligation to attempt to informally resolve discovery issue)]. For forms for use in obtaining this order, see § 193.238 et seq. For discussion concerning sanctions for failure to obey an order to compel under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450, see § 193.61[3].

In certain circumstances, the motion must also be accompanied by a separate statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.145(a)(4) (separate statement required for motion to compel answers at deposition); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.145(a)(5) (separate statement required for motion to compel, or quash, production of documents or tangible things at deposition); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.145(b) (separate statement not required when no response provided to discovery request)]. The separate statement is a separate document, with prescribed contents, filed and served with the motion to compel [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.145(c)]. For further discussion of this separate statement requirement and a form, see § 193.239.

If the motion is granted, the court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against the deponent or the party with whom the deponent is affiliated, unless the court finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc.§ 2025.450(c)(1)]. The court is also required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030, on motion of any other party who, in person or by attorney, attended at the time and place specified in the deposition notice in the expectation that the deponent's testimony would be taken, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(c)(2); for further discussion of these general provision, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]].

The court may award sanctions in favor of a party who files a motion to compel discovery, even though no opposition to the motion was filed, or opposition to the motion was withdrawn, or the requested discovery was provided to the moving party after the motion was filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(a)]. The court may not, however, deem the opposing party's failure to file written opposition, failure to appear at a hearing, or voluntary provision discovery to be an admission that the motion was proper or that sanctions should be awarded [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(b)].

For more detailed discussion of monetary sanctions generally, including requirements generally applicable in proceedings to impose such sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

For forms that may be adapted for use in obtaining an order imposing monetary sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450, see § 193.244 et seq.

[2] On Failure of Deponent to Answer Question or Produce Item During Deposition

If a deponent fails to answer any question or to produce any document or tangible thing under the deponent's control that is specified in the deposition notice or a deposition subpoena, the party seeking that answer or production may move for an order compelling that answer or production [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(a); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.460(d), discussed in § 193.44]. The motion must be made no later than 60 days after the completion of the record of the deposition, and must also be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(b); see Unzipped Apparel, LLC v. Bader (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 123, 132-135, 67 Cal. Rptr. 3d 111 (60-day period for filing motion to compel under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(b) applies to subpoenas for business records, as well as to subpoenas for oral or written depositions)].

Although depositions are different from other methods of discovery in that the presence of counsel for both parties permits instantaneous discussion of an objection or other disputed issue and attempts at informal resolution, a reasonable and good faith attempt at informal resolution entails something more than argument. Counsel are required to attempt to talk the matter over, compare their views, consult, and deliberate [Townsend v. Superior Court (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 1431, 1434-1438, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 333 ; see, e.g., Stewart v. Colonial W. Agency, Inc. (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1006, 1016-1017, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115 (counsel's efforts to meet and confer were adequate when counsel engaged in off-the-record discussion with opposing counsel at deposition, in an attempt to resolve one simple relevancy issue, in light of imminent trial date and cut-off dates for discovery, and opposing counsel's announced unavailability before trial)].

The declaration also should state facts showing a reasonable relationship between the materials sought to be produced and the issues involved in the case, particularly when the motion seeks to compel document discovery from a non-party deponent under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2020(d) (now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.410-2020.440) [Calcor Space Facility, Inc. v. Superior Court (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 216, 218-219 ; 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 567] .

For a form for a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480, see § 193.241.

If the court determines that the answer or production sought is subject to discovery, it orders that the answer be given or the production be made on the resumption of the deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(e); see § 193.243].

[3] Monetary Sanctions

The court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to compel answer or production, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(f); for further discussion of these general provisions, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]].

The appellate courts are split on whether discovery sanctions can be awarded in favor of parties who did not propound the discovery that triggered the sanctions. For example, in Calvert Fire Ins. Co. v. Cropper (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 901, 190 Cal. Rptr. 593 , the court relied on former Code Civ. Proc. § 2034(b), (d) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300(e)), which, the court concluded, empowered the trial court to sanction a party who "refuses to obey" and a party who "willfully fails" to comply with discovery orders without any limitation on who may request the sanction [Calvert Fire Ins. Co. v. Cropper (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 901, 905, 190 Cal. Rptr. 593 (decided under prior law)]. In contrast, in Townsend v. Superior Court (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 1431, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 333 , the court relied exclusively on the language in former Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(o) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(a)), stating that "the party seeking discovery may move the court for an order compelling [an] answer," to conclude that "outsiders [are] not entitled to be awarded sanctions" [Townsend v. Superior Court (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 1431, 1438, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 333] . In Parker v. Wolters Kluwer United States, Inc. (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 285, 57 Cal. Rptr. 3d 18 , the court struck a middle ground, relying on Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.480(g) and 2030.300(e)--which instruct the trial court to "make those orders that are just" when imposing discovery sanctions--to hold that an award of sanctions in favor of a party who did not propound the discovery is justified only if the nonpropounding party shows that it suffered a detriment as the result of the sanctioned party's misuse of the discovery process [Parker v. Wolters Kluwer United States, Inc. (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 285, 301-302, 57 Cal. Rptr. 3d 18 (trial court erred in imposing terminating sanctions in favor of parties who did not propound discovery or show how they were prejudiced by plaintiff's failure to comply with discovery requests propounded by others)]. The court clarified that it did not hold that a nonpropounding party should never be awarded discovery sanctions. Rather, the trial court has discretion to determine whether, in a particular case, the interests of the propounding party and a coparty "are sufficiently aligned so that a sanction award to both would be just" [Parker v. Wolters Kluwer United States, Inc. (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 285, 301-302, 57 Cal. Rptr. 3d 18 (discovery interests of propounding party and a coparty may be so closely aligned it would be "a useless duplication of effort for both parties to pursue the same discovery and invoke the same remedies against an opposing party")].

The court may award sanctions in favor of a party who files a motion to compel discovery, even though no opposition to the motion was filed, or opposition to the motion was withdrawn, or the requested discovery was provided to the moving party after the motion was filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(a)]. The court may not, however, deem the opposing party's failure to file written opposition, failure to appear at a hearing, or voluntary provision discovery to be an admission that the motion was proper or that sanctions should be awarded [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348].

For more detailed discussion of monetary sanctions generally, including requirements generally applicable in proceedings to impose such sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

For discussion concerning sanctions for failure to obey an order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480, see § 193.61[3].

§ 193.61 Order Imposing Sanctions

[1] Against Party Giving Notice for Failure to Proceed With Deposition or to Serve Subpoena

If the party giving notice of the deposition fails to attend or to proceed with it, the court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against that party, the attorney for that party, or both, and in favor of any party attending in person or by attorney, unless the court finds thatthe one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.430].

If a deponent does not appear for a deposition because the party giving notice of the deposition failed to serve a required deposition subpoena, the court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against that party, the attorney for that party, or both, and in favor of any other party who, in person or by attorney, attended at the time and place specified in the deposition notice in the expectation that the deponent's testimony would be taken, unless the court finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.440(a)].

For forms for use in obtaining an order imposing monetary sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.430 or 2025.440, see §§ 193.244, 193.245. For further discussion of monetary sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq., see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

[2] Against Nonparty Deponent for Failure to Attend or Be Sworn

If a deponent on whom a deposition subpoena has been served fails to attend a deposition or refuses to be sworn as a witness, the court may impose on the deponent the sanctions described in Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.240 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.440(b)]. For further discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.240, see § 193.34.

[3] Against Party Deponent or Deponent-Affiliated Party for Failure to Obey Order Compelling Compliance

If a party or party-affiliated deponent fails to obey an order compelling compliance under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450 (discussed in § 193.60[1]), the court may make those orders that are just, including the imposition of an issuesanction, an evidence sanction, or a terminating sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against that party deponent or against the party with whom the deponent is affiliated. The court may also impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a) in lieu of or in addition to this sanction, against that deponent or against the party with whom the deponent is affiliated, and in favor of any party who, in person or by attorney, attended in the expectation that the deponent's testimony would be taken pursuant to that order [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(d)].

If any deponent, whether or not a party, fails to obey an order compelling compliance under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480 (discussed in § 193.60[2]), the failure may be considered a contempt of court. In addition, if the disobedient deponent is a party to the action, or is an officer, director, managing agent, or employee of a party, the court may make those orders that are just against the disobedient party, or against the party with whom the disobedient deponent is affiliated, including the imposition of an issue sanction, an evidence sanction, or a terminating sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030. The court may also impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a) in lieu of or in addition to this sanction, against that party deponent or against any party with whom the deponent is affiliated [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(g); see, e.g., In re Marriage of Niklas (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 28, 37-38, 258 Cal. Rptr. 921] .

For further discussion regarding issue, evidence, and terminating sanctions, and general forms for use in seeking such sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[3], 192.15[3], and 192.50 et seq. § 193.70 Transcript of Deposition Testimony

The testimony at any deposition recorded by stenographic means must be transcribed, unless the parties agree otherwise [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510(a); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.330(b) (deposition required to be recorded stenographically absent contrary order or stipulation)]. If no transcript is produced, the stenographic notes of the deposition must be kept by the reporter for at least eight years from the date of the deposition; if a transcript is produced, stenographic notes must be kept by the reporter for at least one year from the date of the deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510(e)].

The party noticing the deposition bears the cost of this transcription, unless the court, on motion and for good causeshown, orders that the cost be borne or shared by another party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510(b)]. In addition, the requesting attorney or a party representing himself or herself has the obligation to timely pay the deposition officer or entity providing those services for that transcription, and to timely pay for any other deposition products or services [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510(i) (definition)] requested, unless responsibility for the payment is otherwise provided by law or the deposition officer or entity is notified in writing that the party or another identified person will be responsible for payment [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510(h)(1), (2)]. However, these statutory provisions do not prohibit or supersede an agreement between an attorney and a party allocating responsibility for the payment of deposition costs to the party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510(h)(3)].

Notwithstanding Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.320(b) (discussed in § 193.40), any other party, at his or her expense, may obtain a copy of the transcript [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510(c); see also discussion in § 193.76]. Further, the trial court in a pending action has the authority to require a deposition reporter to provide a copy of a transcript to a nonnoticing party for a reasonable fee [Serrano v. Stefan Merli Plastering Co. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1014, 1035, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 559 (court's failure to determine whether amounts that plaintiffs were required to pay for copies of deposition transcripts were reasonable was reversible error)]. In the event of a dispute, the trial court may determine the amount of the reasonable fee [Serrano v. Stefan Merli Plastering Co. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1014, 1038, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 559 (assuming no controlling contractual relationship between reporter and nonnoticing party relating to cost of deposition copy)].

If the deposition officer receives a request from a party for an original or a copy of the deposition transcript, or a portion of the transcript, and that document will be available to that requesting party before the time the original or copy would be available to any other party, the deposition officer must immediately notify all other parties who attended the deposition of the receipt of this request. Upon request by any party so notified, the deposition officer must make the requested full or partial transcript copy available to parties at the same time [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510(d)].

For discussion concerning the availability or copying of audio or video recordings of depositions, see § 193.42[3].

§ 193.72 Notice of Availability of Transcript or Tape Recording

When the deposition testimony is stenographically recorded, the deposition officer is required to send written notice to the deponent and to all parties attending the deposition when the original transcript of the testimony for each session of the deposition is available for reading, correcting, and signing. The written notice is not required, however, if the deponent and attending parties agree on the record to waive the reading, correcting, and signing of the transcript, or to read, correct, and sign the transcript after the entire deposition has been concluded or at some other specific time [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.520(a)].

When no stenographic transcription of the deposition is made, the deposition officer is required to send written notice to the deponent and to all parties attending the deposition that the recording is available for review, unless the deponent and all these parties agree on the record to waive the hearing or viewing of an audio or video recording of the testimony [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.530(a)].

§ 193.73 Change of Transcript or Recording by Deponent

For 30 days following each such notice of the availability of the transcript for reading, correcting, and signing (discussed in § 193.72), unless theattending parties and the deponent agree on the record or otherwise in writing to a longer or shorter time period, the deponent may change the form or the substance of the answer to any question, and may either approve the transcript of the deposition by signing it, or refuse to approve the transcript by not signing it [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.520(b)]. Alternatively, within this same period, the deponent may change the form or the substance of the answer to any question and may approve or refuse to approve the transcript by means of a letter to the deposition officer signed by the deponent that is mailed by certified or registered mail with return receipt requested. A copy of that letter must be sent by first-class mail to all parties attending the deposition. For good cause shown, the court may shorten the 30-day period for making changes, approving, or refusing to approve the transcript [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.520(c), (d); see Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time].

If there is no stenographic transcription, for 30 days following the notice of the availability of the tape recording for review, the deponent, either in person or by a signed letter to the deposition officer, may change the substance of the answer to any question [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.530(b)].

If the notice of availability of the transcript or recording was served by mail, the response period is extended five days, upon service by mail, if the place of address and the place of mailing is within the state of California, 10 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside the state of California but within the United States, and 20 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside the United States [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.050 (incorporating by reference provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a))].

In the case of a transcript, the deposition officer must indicate on the original of the transcript, if the deponent has not already done so at the office of the deposition officer, any action taken by the deponent and indicate on the original of the transcript, the deponent's approval of, or failure or refusal to approve, the transcript. The deposition officer must also notify in writing the parties attending the deposition of any changes that the deponent timely made in person [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.520(e)]. In the case of an audio or video recording, the deposition officer must set forth in writing to accompany the recording any changes made by the deponent, as well as either the deponent's signature identifying the deposition as his or her own, or a statement of the deponent's failure to supply that signature, or to contact the officer within the allotted period [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.530(c)].

In the case of a transcript, when the deponent fails or refuses to approve the transcript within the allotted period, the deposition is given the same effect as though it had been approved, subject to any changes timely made by the deponent [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.520(f); see Chavez v. Zapata Ocean Resources, Inc. (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 115, 121-122, 201 Cal. Rptr. 887 (failure of deponent to review, correct, and sign, does not preventparty from using unsigned deposition of unavailable witness, decided under prior law)]. In the case of an audio or video recording, when a deponent fails to contact the officer within the allotted period, or expressly refuses by a signature to identify the deposition as his or her own, the deposition will be given the same effect as though signed [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.530(d)]. With either type of recording, however, the court may grant a motion to suppress the deposition (discussed in § 193.74) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.520(g), 2025.530(e)].

Perjury is committed by every person who, having taken an oath that he or she will testify, declare, depose, or certify truly before any competent tribunal, officer, or person, in any of the cases in which the oath may by law of the State of California be administered, willfully and contrary to the oath, states as true any material matter which he or she knows to be false [Pen. Code § 118].

For purposes of establishing the crime of perjury, Pen. Code § 124 provides that the making of a deposition, affidavit or certificate is deemed to be complete from the time when it is delivered by the accused to any other person, with the intent that it be uttered or published as true. For depositions, affidavits, and certificates, it is the finality of the writing and its delivery, and not merely speaking the false words, which constitutes an essential element of the crime of perjury. The mere making of the affidavit or giving testimony at a deposition cannot constitute the crime of perjury [People v. Post (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 467, 480-484, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 356 (rejecting government's argument that more flexible deposition procedures adopted by Civil Discovery Act of 1986, now contained in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.520 and 2032.010 et seq., deleted delivery and signature requirement of Pen. Code § 124 for purposes of perjury liability, and holding that unless deposition transcript in a workers' compensation proceeding was executed by deponent, crime of perjury could not be committed; recommending, however, that legislature revise definition of perjury to eliminate over 129-year old signature and delivery requirements under Pen. Code § 124 and adopt federal standard that crime of perjury is complete once a materially false statement is spoken at a deposition); Collins v. Superior Court (2001) 89 Cal App. 4th 1244, 1248-1249, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 123 (without executed deposition transcript, defendant could not be convicted of completed offense of perjury, explaining that pertinent question was not whether appellant's deposition could be used in civil matter, in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.520, but whether document had been completed and delivered as required by Pen. Code § 124); cf. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.520(f), 2025.530(d) (deponent's failure to sign and correct transcript or tape recording within 30 days renders it legally conclusive in civil case); see § 193.73].

§ 193.74 Motion to Suppress Deposition

On a seasonable motion to suppress the deposition, the court may determine that the reasons given for the deponent's failure or refusal to approve the transcript or for the deponent's refusal to sign the writing identifying the deposition as his or her own require rejection of the deposition in whole or in part. The motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.520(g), 2025.530(e) (Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.520(g) refers to a "seasonable" motion to suppress a stenographic transcript, whereas Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.530(e) refers to a "reasonable" motion to suppress a nonstenographic transcript--these provisions are otherwise analogous)].

The court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to suppress a deposition, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.520(h), 2025.530(f); for further discussion of monetary sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq., see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2]].

The deposition officer must certify on the transcript of the deposition, or in the writing accompanying an audio or video record of deposition testimony as described in *Code Civ. When prepared as a rough draft transcript, the transcript of the deposition may not be certified and may not be used, cited, or transcribed as the certified transcript of the deposition proceedings. The rough draft transcript may not be cited or used in any way or at any time to rebut or contradict the certified transcript of the deposition proceedings that are provided by the deposition officer [*Code Civ. § 193.76 Availability of Copies of Deposition Transcript or Recording Notwithstanding Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.320(b) (discussed in § 193.40), and unless the court issues an order to the contrary, a copy of the transcript of the deposition testimony, made by, or at the direction of, any party, or an audio or video recording of the deposition testimony, if still in the possession of the deposition officer, must be made available by the deposition officer to any person requesting a copy, upon payment of a reasonable charge set by the deposition officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.570(a)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Obtaining Deposition Transcripts or Recordings. Note that deposition recorders, unlike official court reporters, are privately engaged, and the "reasonable charge" of providing copies by deposition recorders therefore is not subject to the fee limits applicable to official court reporters (i.e., those who prepare reporter's transcripts of trial proceedings) under Gov. Code §§ 69950, 69951.

However, in Serrano v. Stefan Merli Plastering Co., one appellate court held that the trial court in a pending action has the authority to require a deposition reporter to provide a copy of a transcript to a nonnoticing party for a reasonable fee [Serrano v. Stefan Merli Plastering Co. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1014, 1035, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 559]. In the event of a dispute, the trial court may determine the amount of the reasonable fee [Serrano v. Stefan Merli Plastering Co. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1014, 1038, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 559]. This rule applies only if (1) there is no relevant contractual relationship between the deposition reporter and the nonnoticing party relating to the cost of a copy of the deposition transcript, and (2) court intervention is required to ensure that the deposition reporter provides a copy of a deposition transcript to a nonnoticing party in a pending action in which the reporter has either refused to provide a copy or is willing to do so only on the condition that the nonnoticing party pay what it believes to be an unreasonable fee [Serrano v. Stefan Merli Plastering Co. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1014, 1038, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 559]. In this case, the trial court's failure to determine whether the amounts plaintiffs were required to pay for copies of the deposition transcripts were reasonable was reversible error [Serrano v. Stefan Merli Plastering Co. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1014, 1039, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d

The court in Serrano rejected the suggestion in Urban Pacific Equities Corp. v. Superior Court [Urban Pacific Equities Corp. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 688, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 635] that the trial court has no authority to limit to a reasonable amount the amount a party is required to pay to obtain a copy of a transcript in a pending action [Serrano v. Stefan Merli Plastering Co. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1014, 1037, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 559]. Urban Pacific held that a deponent's attorney could not use a business records deposition subpoena to compel a certified shorthand reporter to make a deposition transcript in a pending action available for copying, rather than paying the reporter what the court characterized as an "unconscionable" fee for a copy [Urban Pacific Equities Corp. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 688, 692-694, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 635]. The court in Urban Pacific reasoned that the transcript was not a "business record[]" within the meaning of former Code Civ. Proc. § 2020(d) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.410(a)) [Urban Pacific Equities Corp. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 688, 692-693, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 635]. The court stated further, "[a]lthough the fees charged by court-retained reporters are fixed by statute (Gov. Code, §§ 69947, 69948, 69950), there is no statute regulating the fees charged by private reporting firms, and deposition reporters are free to charge all the market will bear" [Urban Pacific Equities Corp. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 688, 691-692, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 635].

The Serrano court observed that the Urban Pacific reference to the "market" had little relevance to the factual context presented by this case in which a party with no contractual relationship with the reporter could be placed at the mercy of the reporter's arbitrary pricing policy, absent timely judicial intervention. The Serrano court found support for its conclusion that the trial court has the authority to act in these circumstances in the language of Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510(c), discussed above, and of Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.570(a), which expressly requires that the fee charged by a deposition officer to "any person requesting a copy" of the transcript be "reasonable," and in Code Civ. Proc. § 128(a), which confirms some of the court's inherent powers to control the conduct of ministerial officers in pending actions in order to protect the administration of justice [Serrano v. Stefan Merli Plastering Co. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1014, 1034-1035, 1037, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 559].

If a copy is requested from the deposition officer, the deposition officer must mail a notice to all parties attending the deposition and to the deponent at his or her last known address advising them that (1) the copy is being sought, (2) the name of the person requesting the copy, and (3) the right to seek a protective order pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420 (discussed in § 193.50)]. If a protective order is not served on the deposition officer within 30 days of the mailing of the notice, the deposition officer must make the copy available to the person requesting the copy [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.570(b), (c)].

Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.570 applies only to recorded testimony taken at depositions occurring on or after January 1, 1998 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.570(d)].

The certified transcript of a deposition is not filed with the court. Instead, the deposition officer must securely seal the transcript in an envelope orpackage, endorsed with the title of the action, and marked: "Deposition of (here insert name of deponent)." Then, the deposition officer must promptly transmit the sealed transcript to the attorney for the party who noticed the deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.550(a)].

This attorney must, in turn, store the sealed transcript under conditions that will protect it against loss, destruction, or tampering. He or she must retain custody of it until six months after final disposition of the action. At that time, the transcript may be destroyed, unless the court, on motion of any party and for good cause shown, orders that the transcript be preserved for a longer period [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.550].

[2] Audio or Video Record

An audio or video recording of deposition testimony, including a certified recording made by an operator qualified under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340, is not to be filed with the court. Instead, the operator must retain custody of that recording, and store it under conditions that will protect it against loss, destruction, or tampering, and preserve as far as practicable the quality of the recording and the integrity of the testimony and the images it contains [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.560(a)].

At the request of any party to the action, including a party who did not attend the taking of the deposition testimony, or at the request of the deponent, the operator must promptly permit the one making the request to hear or to view the recording on receipt of payment of a reasonable charge for providing the facilities for hearing or viewing the recording. The operator must also promptly furnish a copy of the audio or the video recording to the one making the request on receipt of payment of the reasonable cost of making that copy of the tape [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.560(b); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510, discussed in §§ 193.42[1], 193.70].

The attorney or operator who has custody of an audio or video recording of deposition testimony is required to retain custody of it until six months after final disposition of the action. At that time, the audio or video recording may be destroyed or erased, unless the court, on motion of any party and for good cause shown, orders that the recording be preserved for a longer period [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.560(c)].

§ 193.90 Admissibility of Deposition Into Evidence Generally

At the trial or any other hearing in the action, any part or all of a deposition may be used against any party who was present or represented at the taking of the deposition, or who had due notice of the deposition and did not serve a valid objection under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410, sofar as is admissible under the rules of evidence applied as though the deponent were then present and testifying as a witness, in accordance with the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.620 (discussed in §§ 193.91 -193.94) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.620; for general discussion of rules of evidence, see California Trial Guide (Matthew Bender)].

Subject to the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.620, a party may offer in evidence all or any part of a deposition. If the party introduces only part of the deposition, any party may introduce any other parts that are relevant to the parts introduced [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.620(e)].

The first page of any deposition used as an exhibit must state the name of the deponent and the date of the deposition. Other than the title page, the exhibit should contain only the relevant pages of the transcript. The original page number of any deposition page must be clearly visible. The relevant portion of any testimony in the deposition must be marked in a manner that calls attention to the testimony [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1116].

For discussion of requirements for offering audio or video recordings into evidence, see § 193.42[2].

§ 193.92 Use of Party's Deposition by Adverse Party

An adverse party may use, for any purpose, a deposition of a party to the action, or of anyone who at the time of taking the deposition was an officer, director, managing agent, employee, agent, or designee under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.230 of a party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.620(b)]. When a party to the action seeks to use the deposition of an adverse party under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.620(b), it is not ground for objection that the deponent is available, has testified, or will testify, at the trial or other hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.620(b)].

If part of a party's deposition has been introduced by an adverse party, other portions of the deposition may be introduced by the party deposed. For example, the other portions may be admissible under Evid. Code § 356 when they are relevant to or necessary for an understanding of the part already admitted, or under Evid. Code § 791(a) as a prior consistent statement [see Sprague v. Equifax, Inc. (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 1012, 1035-1036, 213 Cal. Rptr. 69] .

Any party may use for any purpose the deposition of any person or organization, including that of any party to the action, if the court finds any of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.620(c)]:

(A) The deponent resides more than 150 miles from the place of the trial or other hearing;

(B) The deponent, without the procurement or wrongdoing of the proponent of the deposition for the purpose of preventing testimony in open court, is: (i) exempted or precluded on the ground of privilege from testifying concerning the matter to which the deponent's testimony is relevant, (ii) disqualified from testifying, (iii) dead or unable to attend or testify because of existing physical or mental illness or infirmity, (iv) absent from the trial or other hearing and the court is unable to compel the deponent's attendance by its process, or (v) absent from the trial or other hearing and the proponent of the deposition has exercised reasonable diligence but has been unable to procure the deponent's attendance by the court's process; or

(C) Exceptional circumstances exist that make it desirable to allow the use of any deposition in the interests of justice and with due regard to the importance of presenting the testimony of witnesses orally in open court.

§ 193.103 Service of Written Questions

[1] Direct Questions

The questions to be propounded to the deponent by direct examination must accompany the notice of written deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.030(a)]. For a form that may be used in propounding direct questions, see § 193.261.

[2] Cross, Redirect, and Recross Questions

A party who seeks to cross examine the deponent must serve his or her cross questions on all other parties entitled to notice of the deposition within 30 days after service of the deposition notice and direct questions [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.030(b)].

The proponent of the deposition must serve any redirect questions on all other parties entitled to notice of the deposition within 15 days after service of the cross questions [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.030(c)].

A party who seeks further cross examination of the deponent must serve any recross questions on all other parties entitled to notice of the deposition within 15 days after service of the redirect questions [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.030(d)].

The time periods for the interchange of cross, redirect, and recross questions are extended under Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a) when the service triggering the period is by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.050]. Specifically, they are extended by five calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a)]. The period is extended two court days if service is by Express Mail or Fax [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)].

The court may, for good cause shown, extend or shorten the time periods for the interchange of cross, redirect, and recross questions [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.030(e)]. For discussion and forms relating to extending or shortening time periods generally, see Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time .

For a form that may used in propounding written cross, redirect, or recross questions, see § 193.261.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Depositions on Written Questions

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.104

§ 193.104 Objections to Written Questions

A party may object to the form of any question, or may object to any question on the ground that it calls for information that is privileged or is protected work product under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq., by serving a specific objection to that question on all parties entitled to notice of the deposition within 15 days after service of the question [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2028.040, 2028.050]. This 15-day response period is extended under Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a) when service of the question is by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.050; for discussion of provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a), see § 193.103[2]], and is extended under Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e) when service is by Express Mail or by fax, respectively.

A party who fails to serve a timely objection to the form of a question, or an objection on the grounds that the question calls for information that is privileged or protected work product under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq., waives that objection [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2028.040, 2028.050]. For a form of objection, see § 193.262.

If an objection is based on the form of a question, the objecting party must promptly move the court to sustain it [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.040(b)]. If it is based on privilege or work product protection, the party propounding the question may then move the court for an order overruling the objection [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.050(b)]. In either case, the motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the objection and motion. In ruling on the motion, the court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to sustain or to overrule an objection, unless the court finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2028.040(c), 2028.050(c); for further discussion of monetary sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq., see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2]]. For a form of motion to sustain or overrule an objection under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2028.040 and 2028.050, see § 193.263.

If an objection is based on the form of the question, the deposition officer must propound the question objected to subject to that objection, unless the court has sustained the objection [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.040(b)]. On the other hand, if the objection is based on privilege or work product protection, the deposition officer must not propound any question to which a written objection on those grounds has been served, unless the court has overruled the objection [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.050(b)].

For discussion concerning objections to discovery on the basis of privilege or work product protection, see Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations . For discussion concerning evidentiary objections generally, see Ch. 551, Trial .

- That the deponent's testimony be taken by oral, instead of written, examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.070(a)].

- That one or more of the parties receiving notice of the written deposition be permitted to attend in person or by attorney and to propound questions to the deponent by oral examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.070(b)].

- That objections under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2028.040 and 2028.050 be sustained or overruled (discussed in § 193.104) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.070(c)].

- That the deposition be taken before an officer other than the one named or described in the deposition notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.070(d)].

The taking of oral depositions outside of California for use in California, is governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2026.010 (another state or territory of United States) and 2027.010 (foreign nation).

The provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.010 et seq. (oral depositions in California) also apply, except as modified by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2026.010 and 2027.010 [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2026.010(a), 2027.010(a)].

C. Taking Depositions Outside California

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.121

§ 193.121 Oral Depositions Outside of California

[1] In General

Any party may obtain discovery by taking an oral deposition, as described in Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.010, in another state of the United States, in a territory or an insular possession subject to its jurisdiction [Code Civ. Proc. § 2026.010(a)], or in a foreign nation [Code Civ. Proc. § 2027.010(a)]. For discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.010, see § 193.11.

Except as modified by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2026.010 and 2027.010, the procedures for taking oral depositions in California set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.010 et seq. apply to an oral deposition taken outside of California [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2026.010(a), 2027.010(a)]. For discussion relating to the taking of oral depositions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.010 et seq., see Subpart A, § 193.10 et seq.

[2] When Deponent Is Party

If a deponent is a party to the action or is an officer, a director, a managing agent, or an employee of a party, service of a deposition notice is effective to compel him or her to attend and to testify at a deposition to be taken outside of California for use in an action in California, as well as to produce at that deposition any document or tangible thing for inspection and copying [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2026.010(b), 2027.010(b)].

If the deposition is to be taken in another state, territory or insular possession of the United States, the deposition notice must specify, as the place for taking the deposition, a place that is within 75 miles of the residence or a business office of the deponent [Code Civ. Proc. § 2026.010(b)]. There is no similar provision or requirement regarding the location of a deposition to be taken in a foreign nation [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2027.010].

Otherwise, the requirements for a deposition notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.010 et seq. apply [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2026.010(a), 2027.010(a)]. For further discussion relating to deposition notices, see § 193.21. For a form of deposition notice that may be adapted for use in providing notice of deposition outside of California, see § 193.225.

As an alternative to proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 2026.010, counsel may follow the procedures described by Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260 (deposition of party at more distant location) and obtain an order to depose an out-of-state resident in California [Glass v. Superior Court (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1048, 1052-1053, 251 Cal. Rptr. 690 (decided under prior law); for a form for use in seeking a deposition at a more distant place, see § 193.223].

[3] When Deponent Is Nonparty

If the deponent is neither a party to the action nor an officer, a director, a managing agent, or an employee of a party, the party serving a deposition notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 2026.010 or 2027.010 (see [2], above) must use any process and procedure required and available under the laws of the state, territory, insular possession, or foreign nation in which the deposition is to be taken in order to compel the deponent's attendance, testimony, and production of documents and things at the deposition [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2026.010(c), 2027.010(c)]. For further discussion concerning steps to obtain foreign process to compel the attendance and testimony of a nonparty deponent, see § 193.123.

Although the laws of the place govern the process for compelling the nonparty deponent to attend, testify, and produce documents, those processes are the only things relating to the deposition that are governed by such law [see International Ins. Co. v. Montrose Chemical Corp. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1367, 1370-1371, 282 Cal. Rptr. 783] . Thus, when a plaintiff sought from the defendant the production of documents that had been used to refresh the memory of a nonparty deponent, California law governed that production request. The defendant was not the deponent, and the request directed to it to produce documents was not within the parameters of Code Civ. Proc. § 2026.010(c) [International Ins. Co. v. Montrose Chemical Corp. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1367, 1370-1371, 282 Cal. Rptr. 783] .

§ 193.122 Deposition Officer

A deposition taken in another state, territory, or possession of the United States under Code Civ. Proc. § 2026.010 must be conducted either (1) under the supervision of a person who is authorized to administer oaths by the laws of the United States or those of the place in which the examination is to be held, and who is not otherwise disqualified under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.320 or Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340, or (2) before a person appointed by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 2026.010(d)]. An appointment by the court is effective to authorize that person to administer oaths and to take testimony [Code Civ. Proc. § 2026.010(e)].

A deposition taken in a foreign nation under Code Civ. Proc. § 2027.010 must be conducted under the supervision of (1) a person who is authorized to administer oaths or their equivalent by the laws of the United States or of the foreign nation, and who is not otherwise disqualified under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.320, or Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340, (2) a person or officer appointed by commission or under letters rogatory, or (3) any person agreed to by all the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 2027.010(d)].

For discussion of the requirements under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.320, see § 193.40. For discussion of commission and letters rogatory, see § 193.123.

§ 193.123 Commission, Letters Rogatory, or Letters of Request

[1] Definitions

A commission authorizes a designated individual to take the deposition of a named witness, while a letter rogatory is a judicial request, addressed to a foreign court, that a witness be examined within the latter's territorial jurisdiction by written questions, or, if the foreign court permits, by oral questions. The commission is entirely under the control of the court that issues the commission. However, when letters rogatory are used, the deposition is under the control of the foreign tribunal whose assistance is sought in the administration of justice [see Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft v. Superior Court (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 503, 506-507, 109 Cal. Rptr. 219 , overruled on other grounds, American Home Assurance Co. v. Societe Commerciale Toutelectric (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 406, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 430] . While common law nations generally regard the deposition of a willing witness as a private matter in which their courts have no interest, in civil law nations a deposition in aid of a foreign proceeding is a public matter requiring the participation and consent of their own courts. Thus, in a civil law nation, a letter rogatory is the usual and accepted method of taking depositions [see Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft v. Superior Court (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 503, 507, 109 Cal. Rptr. 219 , overruled on other grounds, American Home Assurance Co. v. Societe Commerciale Toutelectric (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 406, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 430] .

A letter of request is a method of international discovery provided under the Hague Convention on the Taking of Evidence Abroad in Civil or Commercial Matters [23 UST 2555, TIAS No. 7444, set forth in the Note to 28 U.S.C.A. § 1781], which has many signatories including Barbados, Cyprus, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Finland, France, Federal Republic of Germany, Israel, Italy, Luxemburg, Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Singapore, Sweden, United Kingdom, and the United States [see [2], below, for discussion of when obtaining discovery under the Hague Convention may be required]. The letter of request is transmitted to the foreign nation's central authority, requesting an appropriate judicial authority in that country to obtain evidence or perform some other judicial act [Convention, Article 1]. The letter of request must include specified information concerning the parties, the proceedings, and the evidence to be obtained [see Convention, Article 3], and may be written in English unless the contracting state has reserved otherwise [Convention, Article 4]. However, counsel should be forewarned that some countries [e.g., France, Germany, Italy, and the United Kingdom; see Convention, ns. 4, 5, 6a, 13] limit the use of letters of request and, in signing the Convention, have adopted a policy of refusing to execute letters of request "issued for the purpose of obtaining pretrial discovery of documents as known in Common Law countries" [see Convention, Article 23].

For further discussion of commissions, letters rogatory, and letters of request, see DeMeo, California Deposition and Discovery Practice, Ch. 6, Discovery Outside California (Matthew Bender) [see also 1 Deposition Strategy, Law and Forms, Ch. 2, Deposition Law, § 2.05 (Matthew Bender); Bender' S Forms of Discovery, Ch. 2, Depositions, §§ 2.05, 2.06 (Matthew Bender) (commissions and letters rogatory in proceedings under Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 28)]. For forms of commission, letters rogatory, and letter of request, see §§ 193.272 -193.274.

[2] When Necessary

The United States Supreme Court has held that the Hague Convention was intended to establish optional procedures that would facilitate the taking of evidence abroad [Societe Nationale Industrielle Aerospatiale v. United States District Court (1987) 482 U.S. 522, 544, 107 S. Ct. 2542, 96 L. Ed. 2d 461] . The Supreme Court noted that in "many situations, the Letter of Request procedure authorized by the Hague Convention would be unduly time consuming and expensive, as well as less certain to produce needed evidence than direct use of the Federal Rules" [Societe Nationale Industrielle Aerospatiale v. United States District Court (1987) 482 U.S. 522, 542, 107 S. Ct. 2542, 96 L. Ed. 2d 461] . However, the Court also observed that "in other instances a litigant's first use of the Hague Convention procedures can be expected to yield more evidence abroad more promptly than use of the normal procedures governing pre-trial civil discovery. In those instances, the calculations of the litigant will naturally lead to a first-use strategy" [Societe Nationale Industrielle Aerospatiale v. United States District Court (1987) 482 U.S. 522, 542 n.26, 107 S. Ct. 2542, 96 L. Ed. 2d 461] . Accordingly, a court must conduct a case-by-case balancing of facts, sovereign interests, and the likelihood that resort to Convention procedures will prove effective before requiring resort to those procedures [Societe Nationale Industrielle Aerospatiale v. United States District Court (1987) 482 U.S. 522, 543-544, 107 S. Ct. 2542, 96 L. Ed. 2d 461] .

In American Home Assurance Co. v. Societe Commerciale Toutelectric (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 406, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 430 , the First District Court of Appeal held that the balancing test provided in Societe Nationale Industrielle Aerospatiale has superseded the rule of first resort to the Hague Convention announced in Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft v. Superior Court (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 840, 858, 176 Cal. Rptr. 874 [American Home Assurance Co. v. Societe Commerciale Toutelectric (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 406, 423, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 430 (trial court properly refused to apply Hague Convention discovery procedures in a suit against French corporation, after performing Aerospatiale's prescribed case-by-case balancing of facts, sovereign interests, and likelihood of successful discovery)]. (Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft held that, even when a foreign defendant is subject to California jurisdiction, a California litigant must, as a matter of international comity, attempt to comply with the provisions of the Convention before attempting any discovery in the signatory nation). The party seeking to utilize the Hague Convention procedures has the burden of convincing the trial court that they are justified by considerations of international comity [American Home Assurance Co. v. Societe Commerciale Toutelectric (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 406, 427, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 430] . Moreover, because Hague Convention procedures are only an optional method of pursuing discovery abroad, they may be waived by failing to properly raise the issue [American Home Assurance Co. v. Societe Commerciale Toutelectric (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 406, 429, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 430 , overruling Pierburg GmbH & Co. KG v. Superior Court (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 238, 186 Cal. Rptr. 876] . However, a party's neglect of its right to request application of the Hague Convention procedures must be substantial to support a finding of waiver [American Home Assurance Co. v. Societe Commerciale Toutelectric (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 406, 430, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 430 (trial court properly found party responding to discovery had waived its right to insist on Hague Convention procedures because party's tactics were inconsistent with those procedures)].

Issuance of a commission, letters rogatory, or a letter of request does not appear to be necessary to compel a party or party-affiliated deponent to attend, testify, or produce documents at a deposition under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2026.010 or 2027.010, because those sections provide that service of the deposition notice is effective to compel that deponent to give the deposition [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2026.010(b), 2027.010(b); see also Snyder v. Superior Court (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 579, 582, 89 Cal. Rptr. 534 (commission not required to take deposition of party outside California but within United States under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2024)].

In cases in which discovery will be obtained under the Hague Convention, a commission, letters rogatory, or a letter or request may be necessary to compel the attendance and deposition of a nonparty deponent. These devices give the jurisdiction in which the deposition is to be taken official evidence of the pending action and thus a foundation for a subpoena or other process to compel the nonparty or nonparty-affiliated deponent to give the deposition.

[3] Issuance by Court

A commission, letters rogatory, or letter of request is issued by the court in which the action is pending. In the case of a deposition in another state, territory, or insular possession of the United States, the clerk of the court, upon request, will issue a commission authorizing the deposition, requesting that process issue in the place where the examination is to be held, and requiring attendance and enforcing the obligations of the deponents to produce documents and answer questions [Code Civ. Proc. § 2026.010(f)]. Any party in any action pending in the court's venue may obtain issuance of the commission without a noticed motion or court order [Code Civ. Proc. § 2026.010(f)]. The commission may contain such terms as are required by the foreign jurisdiction to initiate the process [Code Civ. Proc. § 2026.010(f)]. If a court order is required by the foreign jurisdiction, an order for a commission may be obtained by ex parte application [Code Civ. Proc. § 2026.010(f)].

Similarly, in the case of a deposition in a foreign nation under Code Civ. Proc. § 2027.010, the court issues a commission, letters rogatory, or a letter of request, including any terms and directions that are just and appropriate, after determining that one is necessary or convenient on motion of the party seeking to take the deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2027.010(e)]. In the latter instance, the deposition officer may be designated by name or by descriptive title in the deposition notice and in a commission, while letters rogatory or a letter of request may be addressed, "To the Appropriate Judicial Authority in [name of foreign nation]" [Code Civ. Proc. § 2027.010(e)].

§ 193.124 Deposition by Written Questions Outside of California

Any party may obtain discovery by taking a deposition by written questions instead of by oral examination. Depositions by written questions are governed generally by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2028.010-2028.080. The procedures for taking oral depositions set forth in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.010 et seq., 2026.010, and 2027.010 apply to written depositions taken outside California for use in California, except as modified by Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.010 et seq. In some instances a deposition by written questions may be the only practical method of discovery.

A party seeking a commission, letters rogatory, or letter of request in order to take an out-of-state deposition on written questions should schedule the hearing on the motion to allow sufficient time, as required under Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.030, for the parties to present cross, redirect, and recross questions prior to the hearing on that motion. For detailed discussion of the depositions by written questions, see § 193.100 et seq.

Effective January 1, 2010 [Stats. 2008 ch. 231, § 3; Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.900], the Interstate and International Depositions and Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.100 et seq.] governs depositions in California for out-of-state actions. The Act applies to requests for discovery in cases pending on or after its effective date [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.800].

The Act is California's version of the Uniform Interstate Depositions and Discovery Act [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.700]. In applying and construing the Act, consideration must be given to the "need to promote uniformity of the law with respect to its subject matter among the states that enact it" [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.700(b)].

Code Civ. Proc., Title 3, [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985 et seq. (means and manner of production) and Code Civ. Proc., Title 4 [The Civil Discovery Act, Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq.], and any other California law or court rule governing a deposition, a production of documents or other tangible items, or an inspection of premises, including any law or court rule governing payment of court costs or sanctions, apply to discovery under the Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.500].

For purposes of the Act, "foreign jurisdiction" is either a state other than California or a foreign nation [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.200(a)].

A "foreign subpoena" is a subpoena issued under authority of a court of record of a foreign jurisdiction [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.200(b)].

A "person" is an individual, corporation, business trust, estate, trust, partnership, limited liability company, association, joint venture, public corporation, government, or governmental subdivision, agency, or instrumentality, or any other legal or commercial entity [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.200(c)].

A "state" means a state of the United States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, a federally recognized Indian tribe, or any territory or insular possession subject to the jurisdiction of the United States [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.200(d)].

A "subpoena" means a document, however denominated, issued under authority of a court of record requiring a person to do any of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.200(e)]:

- Attend and give testimony at a deposition.

- Produce and permit inspection and copying of designated books, documents, records, electronically stored information, or tangible things in the possession, custody, or control of the person.

- Permit inspection of premises under the control of the person.

§ 193.132 Procedure for Obtaining Subpoena

To request issuance of a subpoena under the Interstate and International Depositions and Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.100 et seq.], a party must submit the original or a true and correct copy of a foreign subpoena to the clerk of the superior court in the California county in which discovery is sought to be conducted [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300(a)]. A request for the issuance of a subpoena in these circumstances does not constitute making an appearance in the California courts [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300(a)].

In addition to submitting a foreign subpoena, as described above, a party seeking discovery must do both of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300(b)]:

- Submit an application requesting that the superior court issue a subpoena with the same terms as the foreign subpoena. The application must be on a form prescribed by the Judicial Council [see § 193.280 (form)].

- Pay the specified fee [see Gov. Code § 70626].

When these requirements are satisfied, the court clerk must promptly issue a subpoena for service on the person to which the foreign subpoena is directed [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300(c)].

If a dispute arises relating to discovery under the Interstate and International Depositions and Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.100 et seq.], any request for a protective order, to enforce, quash, or modify a subpoena, or for other relief may be filed in the superior court in the county in which discovery is to be conducted [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.600(a)]. In these circumstances, the request for relief (the "petition") must comply with the applicable California rules or statutes [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.600(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.600(b) (request for relief is a "petition," regardless of whether request for relief would be referred to as a motion, or by another term, if it were brought in proceeding pending in this state); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.610(a), (c) (fees); Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.610(d) (content requirements)].

If a petition has been filed under Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.600 and another dispute later arises relating to discovery being conducted in the same county for purposes of the same out-of-state proceeding, the deponent or other disputant may file a petition for appropriate relief in the same superior court as the previous petition [*Code Civ. A petition under Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.600 or § 2029.620 is subject to the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1005, relating to notice and to filing and service of papers [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.630].

If a party to a proceeding pending in a foreign jurisdiction seeks discovery from a witness in California by properly issued notice or by agreement, that party is not required to obtain a subpoena under the Act to be able to seek relief under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2029.600 or 2029.620. The deponent or any other party may also seek relief under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2029.600 or 2029.620 in those circumstances, regardless of whether the deponent was subpoenaed under the Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.640].

A party may appeal a court order in connection with a dispute by extraordinary writ to the appropriate court of appeal [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.650]. No other court order or action is appealable under the Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.650].

§ 193.141 Deposition of Prisoner in State Prison

The deposition of a prisoner confined in a state prison may be taken in a civil action as provided for in Penal Code § 2623. A motion for an order for the prisoner to be examined in the state prison is made to the court in which the action is pending, unless it is pending in a small claims court. In that case, the motion is made in the superior court of the county in which the action is pending [Penal Code § 2623]. The motion must be made on an affidavit (or declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) showing the nature of the action, the testimony expected from the witness, and its materiality [Penal Code § 2623].

The deposition, when ordered, is taken pursuant to Penal Code § 2622, which relates to the taking of the deposition of a prisoner in state prison for use in a criminal case [Penal Code § 2623].

§ 193.142 Deposition of Prisoner in County Jail

The deposition of a prisoner confined to a jail within California, such as a county jail, may be taken pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1995-1997. A motion for an order for the examination of the prisoner in the jail, or for the prisoner's temporary removal or production before a court or officer, is made to the court in which the action is pending, unless it is pending in a small claims court. In that case, the motion is made before a justice of the Supreme Court, or in the superior court of the county in which the action is pending [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1995, 1996]. The motion must be made on an affidavit (or declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) showing the nature of the action, the testimony expected from the witness, and its materiality [Code Civ. Proc. § 1996].

The examination of a prisoner confined to a jail may only be taken on a deposition, unless the prisoner is in a jail in the county in which the action is pending. In that case, production of the prisoner may be required [Code Civ. Proc. § 1997]. It appears that Code Civ. Proc. § 1997 refers to production of a prisoner for appearance and testimony at trial.

PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.156

§ 193.156 Decisions

[1] Oral Depositions

[a] Class Actions

Good cause was shown by defendants for taking depositions of unnamed class members when plaintiffs had previously referred to such members in more significant capacity than other unnamed members (decided under prior law, now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(a)(3) permitting deposition notice to set forth general description sufficient to identify particular class). Spoon v. Superior Court (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 735, 747-748, 182 Cal. Rptr. 44

[b] Compelling Answers

Trial court erred by denying plaintiffs' motions to compel, after finding that plaintiffs had the right, under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(d)(4), (o) (now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.220(a)(4), 2025.480), to ask person most knowledgeable to bring in all supporting documents, finding that defendant should have been ordered to bring their witnesses back to depositions with requested documents and with proof that witnesses had undertaken some effort to familiarize themselves with the areas of their supposed "knowledge." Maldonado v. Superior Court (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1390, 1397, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 137

Although private investigator cannot be compelled to divulge information acquired during investigation, he or she can be compelled to answer deposition questions concerning identity of his or her client. Flynn v. Superior Court (1997) 57 Cal.App. 4th 990, 993-995, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 491

Order compelling deponent to answer questions propounded is required to apprise deponent of specific questions that he or she is compelled to answer, and may be successfully challenged as being vague and overbroad if it does not do so. BP Alaska Exploration, Inc. v. Superior Court (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1240, 1270, 245 Cal. Rptr. 682

Trial court's denial of motion for further responses had no basis when responses were not either by intelligible answer or appropriate objection or when objection was made that question was previously answered but no indication was made of previous answer. Fuss v. Superior Court (1969) 273 Cal. App. 2d 807, 818, 78 Cal. Rptr. 583

Purpose of award of deponent's expenses of defending motion to compel is to compensate witness for having to defend when answers clearly could not be compelled, that is, when matter was clearly privileged or not relevant to subject matter of pending action. Ascherman v. Superior Court (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 506, 514, 62 Cal. Rptr. 547

In order compelling answers, trial court was justified in assessing attorney's fees against counsel who without justification invoked rules patently not on point (decided under prior law, now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.030(a), 2025.430-2025.450, 2025.480). Wilson v. Superior Court (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 715, 724, 38 Cal. Rptr. 255

[c] Documents Used to Refresh Memory

Requirement of Evid. Code § 771(a) to produce documents used to refresh memory of witness is applicable to depositions. International Ins. Co. v. Montrose Chemical Corp. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1367, 1372-1373, 282 Cal. Rptr. 783

[d] Objections

Fact that opposing counsel, not deposition officer, gave plaintiff oral notice of motion to compel and directed his attendance was harmless error, because plaintiff clearly heard and understood notice and responded that he would not be there. Parker v. Wolters Kluwer United States, Inc. (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 285, 295-296, 57 Cal. Rptr. 3d 18

Relevancy objections at deposition are unnecessary and improper, unless deposing counsel's insistence on inquiring into irrelevant areas could arguably justify suspension under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(n) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470) based on counsel's intent to harass, annoy, embarrass, or oppress. Stewart v. Colonial W. Agency, Inc. (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1006, 1014-1015, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115

Petitioner nonparty's timely objection to records only discovery request for privileged information was sufficient; nonparty was not required to file a motion to quash to object to request. Monarch Healthcare v. Superior Court (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 1282, 1284, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 619

Objection that notice of taking deposition was not served on nonparty witness or his attorney was waived when both appeared at and willingly participated in deposition, and when witness demanded, received, and cashed check for fee. In re Marriage of Lemen (1980) 113 Cal. App. 3d 769, 779, 170 Cal. Rptr. 642

Pre-1986 Code Civ. Proc. § 2021(a) (objections to errors and irregularities in notice; now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410) was not intended as alternative or substitute for protective order procedure of pre-1986 Code Civ. Proc. § 2019(b)(1) (now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.420, 2025.470), but was referring to certain errors and irregularities which are waived after attempt to use deposition in court. Snyder v. Superior Court (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 579, 586, 89 Cal. Rptr. 534

[e] Protective Orders

Pre-1986 Code Civ. Proc. § 2019(b)(1) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420) is construed as granting court discretion in limiting discovery which, while it may come within rules established by other code sections, offends sense of justice and reason. Greyhound Corp. v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 355, 379, 15 Cal. Rptr. 90, 364 P.2d 266

Court's broad authority under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(i)(9) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(9)) to order that certain matters not be inquired into protects party from being compelled to disclose identity of whistle-blower or informant whose safety would be jeopardized by disclosure. John Z. v. Superior Court (1991) 1 Cal. App. 4th 789, 791-792, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 556

Modified protective order allowing one officer, in addition to deponent, to be present at each deposition of each officer of small, closely held corporation was appropriate exercise of judicial discretion, since court was unable to exclude all officers, yet presence of all of them at each deposition would lead to abuse. Lowy Development Corp. v. Superior Court (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 317, 321-322, 235 Cal. Rptr. 401

Provision of former Code Civ. Proc. § 2019(b)(1) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(12)), that protective order may exclude persons from attending deposition except parties to action and their officers or counsel, expressly precluded order prohibiting party from attending deposition. Willoughby v. Superior Court (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 890, 892-893, 218 Cal. Rptr. 486

Order terminating deposition must be made pursuant to noticed motion. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 82, 85-86, 202 Cal. Rptr. 571

Defendant county in suit to overturn ordinance on grounds of unconstitutionality was entitled to protective order under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2019(b)(1) (annoyance and oppression; now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420) when constitutionality of identical ordinance had already been upheld in other counties. County of Sacramento v. Superior Court (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 448, 455, 187 Cal. Rptr. 154

In cross action against insurance company for wrongful refusal to settle, blanket protective order preventing depositions of attorneys for insured and quashing subpoena duces tecum for records of attorneys' firm was improper. Meritplan Insurance Co. v. Superior Court (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 237, 240-242, 177 Cal. Rptr. 236

Party seeking protective order to prevent taking of deposition in civil action has burden of establishing good cause for such an order. Department of Health Services v. Superior Court (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 80, 83-84, 163 Cal. Rptr. 414

When inquiry into confidential relationship between psychotherapist and patient takes place during discovery, patient or psychotherapist is able to apply to trial court for protective order to limit scope of inquiry or to regulate procedure of inquiry so as to best preserve rights of patient. In re Lifschutz (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 415, 437, 85 Cal. Rptr. 829, 467 P.2d 557

Good cause for protective order under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2019(b)(1) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420) calls for factual exposition of reasonable ground for order sought; declaration in support of motion for protective order which contains no facts except for conclusion of necessity for order and other statements made on information and belief is not sufficient basis for court to grant protective order on basis of annoyance, embarrrassment, or oppression. Goodman v. Citizens Life & Cas. Ins. Co. (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 807, 819-820, 61 Cal. Rptr. 682

Order of court ostensibly made under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2019(b)(1) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420) for payment of counsel's expenses in attending deposition out of town, when made in absence of any facts tending to prove annoyance, embarrassment, or oppression, was abuse of court's discretion. Goodman v. Citizens Life & Cas. Ins. Co. (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 807, 820, 61 Cal. Rptr. 682

Fact that affidavits or declarations containing facts that will be sought in deposition already exist was not ground for prohibiting taking of deposition; allegations in declaration in support of motion to prohibit taking of depositions which merely state declarant's opinion or conclusion that depositions are being taken for purposes of harassment had no probative value. Carlson v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 431, 439-440, 15 Cal. Rptr. 132, 364 P.2d 308

[f] Sanctions

Payment of sanctions for failure to appear at deposition is payable to party who made appearance; direct payment to attorney of party who appeared, as compensation for his or her expenses, is improper because former Code Civ. Proc. § 2019(g)(1) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.430) specifies payment to party. Poe v. Diamond (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1394, 1398-1399, 237 Cal. Rptr. 80

[g] Subpoena

Plaintiff's deposition subpoena, requesting defense expert to provide precise information about number of cases in which he had testified and amount of compensation he had received relating to his defense and plaintiff-related medical-legal work was unnecessarily burdensome; court, instead, directed expert to provide more limited information. Stony Brook I Homeowners Ass'n v. Superior Court (2001) 84 Cal. App. 4th 691, 699-700, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 67

Party against whom discovery sought is entitled to protective order quashing subpoena duces tecum when same or substantially same information as that sought can be obtained through less obtrusive means of discovery, such as questions at deposition. Allen v. Superior Court (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 447, 453, 198 Cal. Rptr. 737

Strict compliance with Code Civ. Proc. § 1987(a), requiring personal service of subpoena, is prerequisite to punishment for disobedience to process, and thus service of subpoena duces tecum on attorney for nonparty witness was insufficient to support contempt finding. In re Abrams (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 685, 689-695, 166 Cal. Rptr. 749

[h] Subsequent Deposition

Good cause to take subsequent deposition was shown when previous deposition was taken before existence of facts which have since given rise to new issue. Carlson v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 431, 439, 15 Cal. Rptr. 132, 364 P.2d 308

[i] Time Requirements

Under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2016(a), providing that plaintiff may serve a deposition notice without leave of court on any date that is 20 days after service of summons on or appearance by defendant, 20-day period runs from date when any one defendant has been served, not date when all defendants have been served. Waters v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 885, 892-893, 27 Cal. Rptr. 153, 377 P.2d 265 (Note that this rule subsequently was codified in Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210(b), which provides that the period is 20 days after service of summons on, or appearance by, any defendant.)

60-day period for filing motion to compel under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(b) applied to subpoena for business records (as distinguished from subpoena for oral or written deposition); therefore, motion to compel filed more than 60 days after date set for production was untimely, because objections served in response to business records subpoenas constituted "a record of the deposition," for purposes of determining when to bring motion to compel. Unzipped Apparel, LLC v. Bader (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 123, 132-135, 67 Cal. Rptr. 3d 111

Motions by defendant to depose expert witness during direct examination was properly denied under former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 222 (now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2024.020, 2024.030), when defendant failed to exercise due diligence in conducting pretrial discovery and when granting motions would have caused undue interruption in orderly progression of trial. Grimshaw v. Ford Motor Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 757, 784-785, 174 Cal. Rptr. 348

Deposition testimony of witness alleged to be unavailable under Evid. Code § 240(a)(3) requires proper foundation of unavailability. Ritter v. State Bar (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 595, 601, 221 Cal. Rptr. 134, 709 P.2d 1303

Trial court did not abuse its discretion in refusing to admit deposition of unavailable witness that was introduced by defendant when evidence submitted by plaintiff in his motion to exclude deposition showed that he did not have fair opportunity to complete his cross-examination of deponent. Sprague v. Equifax, Inc. (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 1012, 1041-1042, 213 Cal. Rptr. 69

Even if trial court erroneously excludes deposition testimony, error does not warrant reversal on appeal unless it is shown to be prejudicial. Sprague v. Equifax, Inc. (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 1012, 1042-1044, 213 Cal. Rptr. 69

[k] Nonappearance

Implicit in requirement under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(j)(3)(B) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(b)(2)) that counsel contact deponent to inquire about nonappearance is requirement that counsel make a good faith effort to resolve the issue. Blago Leko v. Cornerstone Home Inspection (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1109, 1124, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 858

[l] Fees for Deposition Transcripts

Trial court in pending action has authority to require deposition reporter to provide copy of transcript to nonnoticing party for reasonable fee; if in dispute, trial court may determine amount of reasonable fee. Serrano v. Stefan Merli Plastering Co. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1014, 1035, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 559

Deponent's attorney could not use business records deposition subpoena to compel certified shorthand reporter to make deposition transcript in pending action available for copying, rather than paying the reporter what court characterized as "unconscionable" fee. Urban Pacific Equities Corp. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 688, 692-694, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 635

[2] Written Depositions

Although party initiating proceeding has choice of designating that deposition be taken on either oral examination or written questions, trial court is vested with discretion after hearing to direct whether questions will be oral or written and elements of convenience and expense may, among others, be properly considered. Beverly Hills Nat. Bank & Trust Co. v. Superior Court (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 861, 867, 16 Cal. Rptr. 236 (decided under prior law)

[3] Depositions in Foreign State or Nation

Discovery in foreign country subscribing to Hague Convention is not required to proceed first under Hague Convention before discovery is attempted under federal rules, specifically rejecting rule of first resort announced in Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft v. Superior Court (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 840, 176 Cal. Rptr. 874 ; rather, interests of international comity demand "a more particularized analysis" involving "prior scrutiny in each case of the particular facts, sovereign interests, and likelihood that resort to [Hague Convention] procedures will prove effective." Societe

Nationale Industrielle Aerospatiale v. United States District Court (1987) 482 U.S. 522, 544, 107 S. Ct. 2542, 96 L. Ed. 2d 461

Rule of first resort to the Hague Convention enunciated in Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft v. Superior Court (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 840, 858, 176 Cal. Rptr. 874 has been superseded by the balancing test provided in Societe Nationale Industrielle Aerospatiale; thus, trial court properly refused to apply Hague Convention discovery procedures in suit against French corporation, after performing Aerospatiale's prescribed case-by-case balancing of facts, sovereign interests, and likelihood of successful discovery; and terminating sanction for discovery abuses was not abuse of discretion. American Home Assurance Co. v. Societe Commerciale Toutelectric (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 406, 436-437, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 430

Party seeking to utilize Hague Convention procedures has burden of convincing trial court that those procedures are justified by considerations of international comity. American Home Assurance Co. v. Societe Commerciale Toutelectric (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 406, 427, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 430

Because Hague Convention procedures are only an optional method of pursuing discovery abroad, they may be waived by failing to properly raise the issue, overruling Pierburg GmbH & Co. KG v. Superior Court (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 238, 186 Cal. Rptr. 876 ; however, party's neglect of its right to request application of Hague Convention procedures must be substantial to support finding of waiver. American Home Assurance Co. v. Societe Commerciale Toutelectric (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 406, 430, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 430

Mandamus is proper remedy to require issuance of commission to take testimony out of California and burden as on petitioner to make clear showing in appellate court of trial court's abuse of discretion in refusing to issue commission. Dow Chemical Co. v. Superior Court (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 1, 8, 82 Cal. Rptr. 288

[4] Depositions of Prisoners

Prisoner is not entitled to appear personally in civil action to which he or she is party. Wood v. Superior Court (1974) 36 Cal. App. 3d 811, 813, 112 Cal. Rptr. 157 , disapproved on other grounds in Payne v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 908, 923 n. 7, 132 Cal. Rptr. 405, 553 P.2d 565 ; In re Bagwell (1938) 26 Cal. App. 2d 418, 419-421, 79 P.2d 395

Chapter 193 DISCOVERY: DEPOSITIONS
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS
A. Oral Depositions
1. Checklists for Party Seeking Discovery

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.170

§ 193.170 Initiating Deposition and Requiring Deponent's Attendance, Testimony, and Production

[1] Stipulation

1. Obtain agreement of other parties, by telephone or letter to their attorney, as to: (a) person before whom deposition is to be taken, (b) time or place of deposition, (c) notice, and/or (d) manner of taking deposition.

2. Prepare written stipulation setting forth agreed terms [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1021; see generally forms in Ch. 533, Stipulations].

3. Submit original stipulation to all counsel involved for their signatures.

4. Sign stipulation on behalf of party seeking deposition.

5. Keep original until six months after final disposition of the cause, and do not file with court unless offered as relevant to a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(7), (18), (b)].

6. Send copies of signed stipulation to all counsel for their files.

[2] Notice Without Court Order

1. Prerequisites.

a. If plaintiff serves deposition notice, 20 days must have passed since service of summons on, or appearance by, any defendant in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210(b)].

b. If defendant serves deposition notice, defendant must have been served or have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210(a)].

2. Place of deposition.

a. If deponent is a natural person, set the deposition to take place either [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.250(a)]:
(1) Within 75 miles of the deponent's residence, or

(2) Within the county in which the action is pending and within 150 miles of the deponent's residence.

b. If deponent is an organization that is a party to the action, set the deposition to take place either [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.250(b)]:

(1) Within 75 miles of the organization's principal executive or business office in California, or if none designated, within 75 miles of any of its executive or business offices in California, or

(2) In the county in which the action is pending, and within 150 miles of the principal executive or business office if one has been designated.

c. If deponent is an organization that is not a party to the action, set the deposition to take place [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.250(c), (d)]:

(1) Within 75 miles of the organization's principal executive or business office in California,

(2) If none designated, within 75 miles of any of its executive or business offices in California, or within the county in which the action is pending, or

(3) At a more distant place, if the organization consents.

3. Select time for deposition.

NOTE:
The deposition must be held at least 10 days after service of notice of deposition, or 15, 20, or 30 days if the deposition notice is served by mail. If the deponent is a witness commanded by a deposition subpoena to produce personal records of a consumer, the time must at least 20 days after issuance of that subpoena, or 25, 30, or 40 days if the deposition notice is served by mail [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.050, 2025.270; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(a)].

NOTE:
In unlawful detainer actions or other proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), an oral deposition must be scheduled for a date at least five days after service of the deposition notice, but not later than five days before trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270(b)]. For discussion, forms, and a procedural guide relating to unlawful detainer proceedings, see Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions].

4. Prepare notice for taking deposition, including:

NOTE:

If, under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.410-2020.440, only the production by a nonparty of business records for copying is desired, a copy of the deposition subpoena serves as the notice of deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(b); see discussion of the deposition subpoena in [6], below].

a. Address, date, and time of deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(a)(1), (2)], b. List of all parties or attorneys for parties on whom the notice is being served [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.240(a) (alternatively, list can appear on proof of service accompanying deposition notice); see Paragraph 6, below],

c. Name of each deponent, and address and telephone number, if known, of any nonparty deponent or general description of deponent if not known [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(a)(3)], d. If deponent is not a natural person, description of matters to be examined [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.230],

e. Specification of materials to be produced by deponent [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(a)(4)],

f. Any intention to record testimony by audio or video technology [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.220(a)(5), 2025.330],

g. Any intention to record the testimony by stenographic method through the instant visual display of the testimony [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(a)(5) (if so, give copy of deposition notice to deposition officer)], and

h. Any intention to reserve right to use video recording of deposition of physician or other expert witness at trial [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.220(a)(6), 2025.620(d)].

i. Any intention to take oral deposition by telephone, videoconference or other remote electronic means [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1010(a)(1); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.310].

For a form for notice of taking a deposition, see § 193.225.

5. Serve notice on every party who has appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.240(a)].

If deponent is neither a party nor affiliated with a party to the action and deposition subpoena is necessary to require attendance, serve copy of subpoena with notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.240(c)]. For discussion of further requirements, see [6], below.

6. Proof of service.

Prepare or have proof of service prepared and executed, being sure to include any orders served with notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a; see Ch. 518. Service of Summons and Papers]. If not included in the notice of deposition, list in proof of service all parties or attorneys for parties on whom deposition notice is served [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.240(a); see Paragraph 4, above].

7. Filing.

Keep original of deposition notice and proof of service until six months after final disposition of the cause. Do not file deposition notice with the court, unless offered as relevant to a law andmotion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(9), (b)].

[3] Order Permitting Plaintiff to Serve Deposition Notice Earlier Than 20 Days After Service of Summons on or Appearance by Any Defendant

NOTE:

An order is required to permit a plaintiff to serve a deposition notice on any date earlier than 20 days after the service of the summons on, or appearance by, any defendant. The order is obtained on motion with or without notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210(b)].

To shorten the time between service of the notice of deposition and the date of the deposition, plaintiff will need to obtain an additional order, shortening time for scheduling the deposition [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270 (order may be obtained by motion or ex parte application); see discussion of proper time period before the scheduled deposition in [2], above]. For the procedure in obtaining the order shortening time, see Paragraph [4], below.

Plaintiff may combine the motions for earlier deposition and to shorten time. For forms combining the two, see § 193.220 et seq.

1. Order is necessary only if 20 days have not elapsed since service of the summons on or appearance by any defendant.

2. Showing of good cause is required [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210(b)].

3. Without notice.

NOTE:

For requirements for granting ex parte applications, see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1200-3.1207 and § 193.221.

a. Prepare an application for ex parte order, which includes declarations [§ 193.221]; prepare supporting memorandum; and prepare order [see § 193.222].

b. Present application and order to court in which action is pending, for judge's signature.

NOTE:

In some courts the proper judge to sign the order will be the presiding judge of the court. In other superior courts, however, the proper judge to sign the order may, by local court rule, be the judge assigned to discovery or law and motion matters. Counsel, if unfamiliar with local court practices, should contact the clerk of court.

c. File originals, including signed order.

d. Serve each party with copy of order permitting early service ofnotice of deposition at same time notice of deposition is served [see [2], above].

e. File original of proof of service.

4. With notice.

a. Prepare notice of motion, declaration, and supporting memorandum as required by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a) [§ 193.220; for discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities], and proof of service of these documents [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a; see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

b. Serve documents.

NOTE:
These documents must be served at least 16 court days before the date set for hearing of the motion or any longer period as required by local court rule, or by Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) when the notice of motion is being served by mail [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)]. Every party to the action or proceeding must be served with copies of the documents listed in Paragraph a, above [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020; see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

c. File documents.

NOTE:
File the signed originals of the notice of motion, supporting declaration, memorandum, and proof of service with the court [see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders].

File the signed originals of the notice of motion, supporting declaration, memorandum, and proof of service with the court.

d. Proceed as usual for noticed motion [see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders].

e. Order.

(1) Prepare order [§ 193.222] if the court grants motion or as otherwise directed by the court.

(2) If required by local court rule or practice, have opposing party approve the order as to form.

(3) Present order to judge for signature.

(4) File original signed order and serve each party with copy of order stamped "endorsed filed."

(5) Give each party notice of the court's order (see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders) granting or denying the motion, in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020 (see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers), unless notice is waived [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1019.5].

(6) Serve copy of notice of deposition at same time as order permitting early service of notice on all parties, along with any other orders or related papers.

[4] Order Shortening Time Between Service of Notice of and Taking Deposition

NOTE:
§ 193.220 et seq. are for use in obtaining this order concurrently with the order discussed in [3], above. Those forms may be modified for use in obtaining this order alone.

1. Showing of good cause is required [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270(d)].

2. Without notice.

NOTE:
Follow the procedure set out in [3], above, making any necessary modifications.

3. With notice.

Follow the procedure set out in [3], above , making any necessary modifications.

[5] Order for Deposition of Natural Person Who Is Party or Party-Affiliate to Be Taken at More Distant Place Than Otherwise Permitted

NOTE:
This order is necessary to take the deposition of a natural person who is a party to the action, or is an officer, director, managing agent, or employee of a party, at a place more distant than that permitted under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.250. The order may not be obtained for any other deponent.

Unsuccessfully making or opposing a motion, without substantial justification, to increase travel limits for a party or party-affiliated deponent will result in the imposition of a monetary sanction unless the court finds circumstances making imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260(d)].

1. Showing that the interests of justice will be served by granting the motion is required [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260(b)].

2. Prepare notice of motion [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(a)(8), 2023.030, 2023.040, 2025.260].

NOTE:
See § 193.223 to prepare a notice of motion. See [3], above, for procedures that may be adapted for use in making this motion.

3. Prepare declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of any issue presented by the motion [§ 193.223].

4. Prepare declaration setting forth facts supporting the amount of monetary sanction sought [§ 193.223].

5. Arrange for advancement of the reasonable expenses and costs to the deponent for travel to the place of deposition, if the court so conditionsthe order.

6. Use form in § 193.224 to prepare the order.

[6] Deposition Subpoena

NOTE:

A deposition subpoena is required to compel the attendance and testimony of, and production of documents or tangible things by, a deponent who is not a party to the action, and is not an officer, director, managing agent, or employee of a party [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.010(b), 2020.410, 2025.280(b)]. The subpoena is not required, however, for a party or party-affiliated deponent, because the service of the deposition notice is alone sufficient to compel his or her attendance, testimony, and production [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.280(a)].

The deposition subpoena is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.010 et seq., and by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985-1997 and Evid. Code §§ 1560-1566 as modified by Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.030]. For further discussion of procedures regarding subpoenas in general, see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

Unless the parties stipulate otherwise pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.030, the location of the deposition must comply with the distance provisions in Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.250 [see [2], above]. Additionally, a witness is not obliged to attend as a witness before any court, judge, justice, or any other officer unless the witness is a resident within the state at the time of service [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1989].

The manner of compelling the attendance at a deposition by subpoena of certain persons such as employees in the Department of Justice who are peace officers or analysts in a technical field, peace officers of the Department of the California Highway Patrol, sheriffs, city police officers, or fire fighters, is governed by Gov. Code §§ 68097.1-68097.5 [Gov. Code § 68097.6].

1. Ascertain whether one of the other parties is willing and able to produce the witness at the deposition. If so, prepare a stipulation instead of a subpoena and follow the procedure in [1], above.

2. Prepare a notice of deposition as required by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.220-2025.240 to give notice in writing of the deposition to every other party [see § 193.225] using applicable procedures set out in [1] and [5], above.

3. Have a deposition subpoena issued [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.010 et seq.; § 193.226 et seq.], by either of the following methods [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.210]:

a. If party to the action, request the clerk of the court in which the action is pending to issue a deposition subpoena signed and sealed, but otherwise in blank, or

b. If attorney of record in the action, sign and issue a deposition subpoena, which need not be sealed; the attorney may serve a copy of the subpoena on the nonparty deponent and retain the original.

4. Fill in deposition subpoena, to include the following information:

a. If deposition subpoena commands the attendance and testimony of the deponent [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.310; see § 193.226]:

(1) The time and place of the deposition,

(2) A summary of the nature of a deposition, the deponent's rights and duties, and the penalties for disobedience of the subpoena,

(3) If applicable, that the deposition will be recorded using audio or video technology;

(4) If applicable, that the deposition testimony will be conducted using instant visual display; and

(5) If the deponent is an organization, a description with reasonable particularity of the matters on which examination is requested and an advisement of the organization's duty to designate those employees or agents who will attend the deposition.

b. If deposition subpoena commands both the attendance and testimony of the deponent as well as the production of business records, documents, and tangible things, it need not be accompanied by an affidavit or declaration showing good cause for the production of the documents and things designated [Code Civ. Proc. 2020.510(b); see § 193.227]:

(1) The items specified in Paragraph a, above,

(2) Specific description of each individual item or reasonable particularization of each category of item to be produced, and

(3) Specification of any testing or sampling, if any.

c. If deposition subpoena commands the production of business records for copying [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.410; see § 193.228]:

NOTE:
A deposition subpoena that commands only the production of business records for copying must be directed to the custodian of those records or another person qualified to certify the records. It need not be accompanied by an affidavit or declaration showing good cause for the production of the documents and things designated [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.410(c)].

(1) Specific description of each individual item or reasonable particularization of each category of item to be produced (specific information identifiable only to the deponent's record system, such as a policy number or the date the consumer interacted with the witness, is not required).

(2) Command of compliance with Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.430 on a date that is no earlier than 20 days after the issuance, or 15 days after the service, of the deposition subpoena, whichever date is later.

5. Serve deponent with the deposition subpoena [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.220].

a. If deponent is a natural person, personally deliver to that person.

b. If deponent is an organization, personally deliver to any officer, director, custodian of records, or agent or employee authorized by the organization to accept service of a subpoena.

c. Accompany service with payment of witness fees, unless fees will be paid at the time the deponent attends the depositionto testify. For the amount of fees to be paid to a deponent whose personal attendance is required, see Gov. Code § 68070 et seq.; for those to be paid to a deponent whose personal attendance is not required, see Evid. Code § 1563(b)(6). If an expert witness, see Ch. 198, Discovery:

Exchange of Expert Witness Information .

d. If, under Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3 or 1985.6, subpoena commands witness to produce business records that are personal records of consumer or employment records of employee, accompany service with either proof of service or written authorization described in [7], below [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985.3(c)(2), (e), 1985.6(c)(2), (e), 2020.410(d), 2020.510].

NOTE:
If the records sought are personal records maintained by a telephone corporation which is a public utility, the subpoena must be accompanied by a consent to release, signed by the consumer whose records are requested, as required by Pub. Util. Code § 2891 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(f)].

e. Serve within sufficient time in advance of deposition to provide deponent with reasonable opportunity to locate and produce documents, and/or to travel to place of deposition, and within time period described in [2], above.

f. Do not file subpoena unless it is offered as relevant to law and motion proceeding or other hearing or is ordered filed for good cause; instead, retain original and original proof of service until six months after final disposition of the cause [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(1), (2), (b)].

[7] Notices Pertaining to Personal Records of Consumer or Employment Records of Employee

NOTE:
When, under Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3 or Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6, the deposition subpoena commands a witness to produce personal records of a consumer or employment records of an employee, the party noticing the deposition must follow additional procedures, described in [6], above.

1. Serve following on consumer [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.240(b)]:

a. Copy of deposition notice,

b. Copy of deposition subpoena, and

c. Notice of privacy rights under Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(e) (personal records) and Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6(e) (employment records).

NOTE:
For forms for notices of privacy rights, see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

2. Serve a copy of the proof of service of the notice of privacy rights [see Paragraph (1)(c), above] with the deposition notice and the deposition subpoena, on all parties [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985.3(e), 1985.6, 2020.410(d), 2020.510]. Retain original of notice of privacy rights and proof of service until six months after final disposition of the cause. Do not file with court, unless offered as relevant to a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(4), (b)].

NOTE:
An alternative to serving a copy of the proof of service is to obtain a written authorization to release the records, signed by the consumer or employee or by his or her attorney of record [Code

Civ. Proc. §§ 1985.3(c)(2), 1985.6(c)(2), 2020.410(d), 2020.510*]. However, because the consumer or employee will already be served with a notice of privacy rights, this alternative requires an additional step.

[8] Obtaining Items From Party Before Deposition

1. Obtain any necessary documents or other items from other parties before deposition [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq.].

NOTE:
For discussion, procedures, and forms for requesting documents under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq., see Ch. 195, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence .

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS
A. Oral Depositions
1. Checklists for Party Seeking Discovery

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.171

§ 193.171 Conduct of Deposition Hearing

[1] Oath

Have deposition officer administer oath to deponent [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.330; see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2094 (form of oath)]. See [2], below, regarding administering oath in a taped proceeding.

[2] Recording Deposition

1. Have testimony and stated objections recorded stenographically, by person certified in accordance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 8020 et seq., unless the parties agree or the court orders otherwise [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.330(b)].

2. If deposition notice stated an intention to do so, or if the parties so agree, have testimony recorded by audio or video technology. If another party has properly served notice of the intent to so record as well, permit that party to make a simultaneous audio or video record of the deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.330(c)]. In conducting the recording, use the following procedure:

a. Use area for recording that is suitably large, adequately lighted, and reasonably quiet [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(a)].

b. Use operator of recording equipment who is properly qualified and who will not distort the appearance or demeanor of participants [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(b), (g)].

c. Begin deposition with oral or written statement on camera or audio recording, including [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(h)]:
(1) Name and business address of operator and operator's employer,

(2) Date, time, and place of deposition,

(3) Caption of case,

(4) Name of deponent,

(5) Specification of party on whose behalf deposition is being taken, and

(6) Any stipulations by the parties.

d. Have counsel for all parties identify themselves on camera or audio recording [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(i)].

e. Have deposition officer administer oath to deponent on camera or audio recording [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(j)].

f. Announce on camera or audio recording the end of each unit of tape or electronic storage and the beginning of each succeeding unit [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(k)].

g. At conclusion of deposition, make statement on camera or audio recording that the deposition is ended, and set forth any stipulations made by counsel concerning the custody of the audio or video recording and the exhibits, or concerning other pertinent matters [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(l)].

h. Within sufficient time for objections to be made and ruled on by judge to whom case is assigned for trial or hearing, and for any editing of recording, notify the court and all parties in writing of any intent to offer the recording in evidence under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.620, and of those parts of the deposition intended to be offered. Objections to all or part of deposition must be made in writing [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(m)].

[3] Stipulations

Read into the record any stipulations, such as stipulations relating to the following:

1. Waiving objections to qualifications of the deposition officer;

2. Preparing and marking of exhibits;

3. Instructing the witness not to answer; or

4. Noticing of the deposition or production of the deponent pursuant to stipulation.

If the deposition is recorded by means of audio or video technology, follow procedure discussed in [2], above.

[4] Examination of Deponent

Examination and cross examination of the deponent are to proceed as permitted at trial under the Evidence Code [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.330(d); see Evid. Code §§ 760-778 (examination of witnesses at trial) and Ch. 551, Trial; see also California Trial Guide (Matthew Bender)].

[5] Objections

Make sure that all stated objections are recorded stenographically, and by means of audio or video technology, if being so recorded [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.330]. Note that objections to all or part of audio or video recording ofdeposition intended to be offered in evidence must be made in writing [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340(m); see also [2], above].

Unless the objecting party demands that the deposition be suspended to permit a motion for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470 [see § 193.183], or moves the court for a stay of the deposition pending the determination of a motion for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270; see also § 193.182], the deposition will proceed subject to these objections [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.460(b), 2025.470].

Attorneys may object to:

1. The qualifications of the deposition officer taking the examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.320(e)].

NOTE:
The objection is waived unless made before the deposition begins or as soon thereafter as the ground for that objection becomes known or could be discovered with reasonable diligence [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.320(e)].

2. Errors and irregularities of any kind occurring at the oral examination that might be cured if promptly presented, e.g., those relating to the manner of taking the deposition; the oath or affirmation administered; the conduct of a party, attorney, deponent, or deposition officer; the form of any question or answer [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.460(b)].

NOTE:
These objections are waived unless timely made during the deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.460(b)].

3. The disclosure of privileged information or protected work product under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.460(a); see Evid. Code §§ 900-1070 (privilege); Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq. (work product); see also discussion in Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations].

NOTE:
These objections are waived unless timely made during the deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.460(a)].

4. The competency of the deponent, or the relevancy or materiality or admissibility at trial of the testimony or of the materials produced [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.460(c)].

NOTE:
These objections are not necessary, and are not waived by failure to make them before or during the deposition [Code Civ. Proc.§ 2025.460(c)]. In fact, deponent's counsel should not even raise an objection to a question counsel believes will elicit irrelevant testimony at a deposition. Relevance objections should be held in abeyance until an attempt is made to use the testimony at trial [Stewart v. Colonial W. Agency, Inc. (2007) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1006, 1014, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115] . The fact that suspension of the deposition under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470 is available only when an interrogation reveals bad faith or an underlying purpose to harass, annoy, embarrass, or oppress indicates that witnesses are expected to endure an occasional irrelevant question without disrupting the deposition process [see Stewart v.

Colonial W. Agency, Inc. (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1006, 1014-1015, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115* (relevancy objections at deposition are unnecessary and improper, unless deposing counsel's insistence on inquiring into irrelevant areas could arguably justify suspension under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(n) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470) based on counsel's intent to harass, annoy, embarrass, or oppress)].

[6] Written Questions

After the oral examination has been completed, have the deposition officer propound to deponent any written questions transmitted to the deposition officer pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.330(e) by a party who did not participate in the oral examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.330(e)].

[7] Refusal by Deponent to Answer Question or Produce Items

Follow procedures set out in § 193.172.

[8] Protective Order

Follow procedures set out in §§ 193.182, 193.183, adapting them as necessary.

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS
A. Oral Depositions
1. Checklists for Party Seeking Discovery

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.172

§ 193.172 Compelling Appearance, Answers, and Production

NOTE:

Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450*, providing for a motion to compel a deponent to appear for or proceed with examination, and/or produce for inspection any document or thing, only applies to a deponent who is a party to the action, or a party's officer, director, managing agent, employee, or designee of an organization, and who has not served a valid objection to the deposition notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410.

However, Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480, providing for a motion to compel an answer or production, applies to any deponent who has been served with a deposition notice or a deposition subpoena. If the deponent is served with a deposition subpoena and fails to attend or refuses to be sworn as a witness, punishment by contempt or forfeiture and damages may be imposed pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.240 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.440].

[1] Motion Against Party or Party-Affiliated Deponent

NOTE:

The procedure outlined below is for use by the proponent of the deposition. However, any other party who, in person or by attorney, attended at the time and place specified in the deposition notice in the expectation that the deponent's testimony would be taken may also make a motion to obtain a monetary sanction pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.030(a) and 2025.450, in which case the procedure below should be modified accordingly [see also Note accompanying Paragraph 8, below].

1. Preliminary Determinations

a. Whether the deponent is a party or party-affiliated deponent served with a deposition notice.

b. Whether the deponent failed to serve a valid objection to the deposition notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410.

c. Whether the deponent failed to appear.

d. Whether the deponent failed to proceed with the examination.

e. Whether the deponent failed to produce for inspection the document or tangible thing described in the deposition notice.

f. Proper court for motion is the court in which the action is pending [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.020(b), 2025.450].

2. Motion is noticed, because a monetary sanction is sought [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.030, 2023.040, 2025.450; § 193.238[4]]. See procedure outlined in [3], above.

3. Prepare papers.

a. Notice of motion [§ 193.238]. Be sure to include request for imposition of monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.030(a), 2023.040, and 2025.450.

b. Supporting declaration [§ 193.238].

NOTE:
The supporting declaration must state facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at informal resolution of each issue presented by motion or, when the deponent fails to attend the deposition and produce documents or things described in deposition notice, showing that the petitioner has contacted the deponent to inquire about the nonappearance. It must also set forth specific facts showing good cause justifying the production for inspection of any document or tangible thing described in the deposition notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450]. One court has held that implicit in the requirement of former Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(j)(3)(B) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(b)(2)) that counsel contact the deponent about a nonappearance is the requirement that counsel listen to the reasons offered and make a good faith attempt to resolve the issue. Thus, either declaration submitted with a motion of compel under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(b)(2) must show a reasonable and good faith attempt to resolve each issue presented, including those relating to a nonappearance [Blago Leko v. Cornerstone Home Inspection (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1109, 1124, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 858 (attorney sanctioned under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010(c), (i), 2023.020 for improperly filing motion to compel attendance when attorney completely disregarded his obligation to attempt to informally resolve discovery issue)].

In addition, a separate statement must accompany a motion to compel answers at a deposition or to compel the production of documents or tangible things at a deposition [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(4), (5)], essentially providing all the information necessary to determine the issues presented by the motion [see § 193.239]

c. Supporting Memorandum [see § 193.238].

NOTE:
A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with a notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; see also discussion and forms in Ch. 417, Points and Authorities].

d. Proof of service.

4. Serve papers on parties to action pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020.

5. File papers.

6. Proceed as for usual noticed motion. See Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

7. File and serve order.

a. When appropriate, prepare order granting motion [§ 193.239].

b. File original and serve copies of order on attorneys for all parties.

8. Obtain sanction if deponent fails to obey order, by moving for issue, evidence, terminating sanction, or any other just order, against the party deponent or the party with whom the deponent is affiliated, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ and 2025.450. For forms for use in obtaining these sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, § 192.50 et seq. Follow basic procedure outlined above for bringing the motion.

NOTE:
In lieu of or in addition to this sanction, the court may impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a) against the deponent or against the party with whom the deponent is affiliated, and in favor of any party who, in person or by attorney, attended in the expectation that the deponent's testimony would be taken pursuant to that order [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450].

[2] Motion Against Any Deponent

NOTE:
Unsuccessfully making or opposing a motion to compel, without substantial justification, will result in the imposition of a monetary sanction unless the court finds circumstances making imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(f)].

1. Preliminary Determinations

a. Whether the deponent failed to answer a question propounded on examination during the taking of a deposition;

b. Whether the deponent failed to produce any document or tangiblething under his or her control as specified in the deposition notice or deposition subpoena;

c. Whether no more than 60 days have passed since the completion of the record of the deposition; and

NOTE:

The 60-day period for filing a motion to compel under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(b) applies to subpoenas for business records, as well as to subpoenas for oral or written depositions [Unzipped Apparel, LLC v. Bader (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 123, 132-135, 67 Cal. Rptr. 3d 111].

d. Whether the moving party has made a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of any issue to be presented by the motion, e.g., by attempting to confer in person, by telephone, or by letter with opposing party or attorney to resolve the dispute informally [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010(g); see also Stewart v. Colonial W. Agency, Inc. (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1006, 1016-1017, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 115 (counsel's efforts to meet and confer were adequate when he engaged in off-the-record discussion with opposing counsel at deposition, in attempt to resolve one simple relevancy issue, in light of imminent trial date and cut-off dates for discovery, and opposing counsel's announced unavailability for lengthy periods before trial)].

e. Proper court for motion is the court in which the action is pending [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.020(b), 2025.480].

2. Complete Examination on Other Matters or Adjourn Deposition

NOTE:
If the deponent fails to answer any question or to produce any document or tangible thing under the deponent's control that is specified in the deposition notice or deposition subpoena, the party seeking that answer or production has the choice of either adjourning the deposition and moving for an order compelling the answer or production pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480, or completing the examination on other matters and moving for the order at a later time [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.460(d)].

3. Give Notice of Motion to Compel

a. Give notice to deponent, by either of the following methods:

(1) Notify deponent orally at the examination that proponent will apply to the court for an order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480, and have the deposition officer direct the deponent to attend a session of the court at the time specified in the oral notice [see Paragraph c, below]; or

(2) Serve written notice on deponent.

NOTE:
If the moving party is seeking a monetary sanction, written notice of both the motion to compel and the request for imposition of a sanction should be given to deponent, and to any other person or attorney against whom the sanction is sought [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.030, 2023.040 (notice and hearing requirement for imposition of sanction)]. This notice can be in lieu of or in addition to oral notice of the motion to compel.

b. Give timely notice to all parties.

NOTE:

Use the form in § 193.241 to prepare the notice of motion. If written notice is given, serve it at least 16 court days before the time of the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)].

c. Prepare motion.

NOTE:
The motion must be made no later than 60 days after the completion of the record of the deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(b)].

d. Schedule hearing.

NOTE:
The hearing must be held at least five days after a certified copy of a stenographic and/or audio/video transcript of the relevant parts of the deposition can be prepared and lodged with the court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(d)].

4. Prepare Papers

a. Notice of motion [§ 193.241].

b. General supporting declaration [§ 193.241].

c. Declaration stating facts showing reasonable and good faith attempt at informal resolution of each issue presented by motion [§ 193.241].

d. Declaration setting forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought [§ 193.241].

e. Accompanying papers.

NOTE:
A motion to compel answers to questions propounded at a deposition or to compel production of documents or tangible things at a deposition must be accompanied by a separate document that sets forth all the information relating to questions and responses in issue, so that no reference to another document is necessary to determine the motion. Material must not be incorporated by reference [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c); § 193.242].

f. Supporting Memorandum [see § 193.241].

NOTE:
A supporting memorandum must be served and filed with a notice of motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.240; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a)]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

g. Prepare proof of service of appropriate papers listed in Paragraphs a-f on parties, deponent, and on any other person against whom monetary sanction is sought.

5. Lodge Transcript

a. Direct reporter to prepare stenographic transcript of the relevant parts of the deposition proceedings.

b. If deposition is recorded by audio or video technology, have certified copy of relevant parts of transcript prepared.

c. Lodge, or have reporter lodge, original transcript or transcripts with court at least five days prior to hearing on motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(d)].

NOTE:

Counsel may wish to include a stamped, self-addressed envelope when lodging a deposition transcript with the court, so that the clerk can return the transcript to the submitting party. Some courts, such as Los Angeles County Superior Court, require counsel to submit a return envelope. Counsel should check with the clerk to ascertain any further local requirements, such as a cover letter to identify the use of the transcript.

6. Serve Papers

a. On parties to the action pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020.

b. Personally, on nonparty deponent.

c. Personally, on any attorney of party against whom monetary sanction is sought.

7. File papers, including notice of motion, supporting documents, and proof of service.

File notice of motion, supporting documents, and proof of service.

8. Proceed as for Usual Noticed Motion [see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders].

9. File and Serve Order

a. When appropriate, prepare order granting motion [§ 193.243].

b. File original and serve copies of order on attorneys for all parties and personally serve copy of order on nonparty deponent, and on any attorney of party against whom monetary sanction is awarded.

10. Obtain Sanctions for Failure to Obey Order Compelling Answer or Production

NOTE:

Unsuccessfully making or opposing a motion for a protective order, without substantial justification, will result in the imposition of a monetary sanction unless the court finds circumstances making imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(d), 2025.480(f), (g)]. For discussion of monetary sanctions, see § 193.241. For discussion of imposition of issue, evidence, or terminating sanctions against the party deponent or the party with whom the deponent is affiliated, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse .

§ 193.173 Opposing Motion for Protective Order

[1] Before, During, or After Deposition Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420

NOTE:

Notwithstanding any other provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 1005, all papers opposing a motion and all reply papers must be served by personal delivery, facsimile transmission, express mail, or other means consistent with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010, 1011, 1012, and 1013, and reasonably calculated to ensure delivery to the other party or parties not later than the close of the next business day after the time the opposing papers or reply papers, as applicable, are filed. The court, or a judge thereof, may prescribe a shorter time [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(c)].

1. Serve and file memorandum and declaration in opposition to motion, including applicable facts and arguments such as the following:

NOTE:

Serve and file a memorandum and declaration in opposition at least nine court days before the time appointed for the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)].

a. Moving party did not file declaration that stated facts showing reasonable and good faith attempt at informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion, and that opposing party engaged in unsuccessful but reasonable and good faith attempt at informal resolution, e.g., by attempting to confer in person, by telephone, or by letter with moving party or attorney to informally resolve the dispute [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010(i), 2023.020, 2025.420].

b. Moving party did not show good cause for granting motion.

c. Moving party did not show that justice requires granting of requested order to protect a party, deponent, or other natural person or organization from unwarranted annoyance, embarrassment, or oppression, or undue burden and expense.

d. Opposing party has priority by prior service of notice of deposition [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.020].

e. Lesser or different limitation on deposition than one requested in motion is proper.

2. Request monetary sanctions, as appropriate.

[2] During Deposition Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470

NOTE:

Notwithstanding any other provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 1005, all papers opposing a motion and all reply papers must be served by personal delivery, facsimile transmission, express mail, or other means consistent with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010, 1011, 1012, and 1013, and reasonably calculated to ensure delivery to the other party or parties not later than the close of the next business day after the time the opposing papers or reply papers, as applicable, are filed. The court, or a judge thereof, may prescribe a shorter time [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(c)].

1. Serve and file memorandum and declaration in opposition to motion, including applicable facts and arguments such as the following:

NOTE:

Serve and file a memorandum and declaration in opposition at least nine court days before the time appointed for the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)].

a. Moving party did not file declaration that stated facts showing reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by motion, and that opposing party engaged in unsuccessful but reasonable and good faith attempt at informal resolution, e.g., by attempting to confer in person, by telephone, or by letter with moving party or attorney to resolve the dispute informally [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010(i), 2023.020, 2025.420].

b. The examination was not being conducted in bad faith.

c. The examination was not being conducted in manner that unreasonably annoys, embarrasses, or oppresses the deponent or party.

d. Moving party did not show good cause for granting motion.

§ 193.174 Transcription of Testimony

[1] Agreement for No Stenographic Transcription

1. Contact all other parties and enter into a written agreement, if you do not want stenographic transcription to be the official record.

NOTE:
Attorneys sometimes prefer that audio or video recording of the deposition be the official record, rather than a stenographic transcription.

2. Be aware that if you take no action, stenographic recording will be transcribed and will be official record for purposes of trial and any subsequent hearing or appeal [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510(a), (g)].

[2] Access of Other Party to Audiotape or Video Recordings

1. On request of any other party, permit other party to hear audio recording or view video recording [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510(f)].

2. On receipt of payment of the reasonable cost of copying, furnish copy of recording to requesting party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510(f)].

[3] Motion for Cost to Be Borne by Other Party

1. Bring motion for order that cost of stenographic transcription be borne or shared by another party.

NOTE:
Absent such a motion, you will bear the cost of the transcription [Code Civ. Proc. §

2025.510(b)*; see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510(h) (defining responsibilities for payment)].

2. Follow normal motion procedure [see § 193.170[3]].

[4] Review of Transcript or Recording

1. Carefully review stenographic transcript, as soon as you receive notice from deposition officer that it is available for review [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.520, 2025.530].

2. Carefully review recording, if no stenographic transcript has been prepared, as soon as you receive notice from the deposition officer that it is available for review [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.530].

§ 193.175 Motion to Take Subsequent Deposition of Natural Person

NOTE:

Once any party has taken the deposition of a natural person, neither the party who gave nor any party who received notice of the deposition may take a subsequent deposition of that deponent without leave of the court or agreement of the parties. However, a party may take one subsequent deposition of (1) a natural person who was previously deposed as a designee of an organization pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.230, or (2), pursuant to a court order under Code Civ. Proc. § 485.230, for the limited purpose of discovering, under Code Civ. Proc. § 485.230, the identity, location, and value of property in which the deponent has an interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.610].

[1] Obtaining Leave of Court to Take Subsequent Deposition

1. Make motion, following basic motion procedure [see, e.g., § 193.170[3], making any necessary modifications]. Use § 193.248 to prepare the necessary documents.

2. Make showing of good cause.

[2] Obtaining Stipulation to Take Subsequent Deposition

1. Obtain stipulation of all parties to take subsequent deposition.

§ 193.180 General Responses to Deposition Notice or Deposition Subpoena

[1] Attendance and Testimony at Deposition Pursuant to Deposition Notice or Deposition Subpoena

1. To stay taking of deposition before it begins, either:

a. Serve objections to deposition notice, and move to quash deposition notice and stay taking of deposition, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410 [see § 193.181[2]]; and/or

b. Seek order staying taking of deposition, and simultaneously move for protective order pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270; § 193.192].

2. To challenge deposition subpoena, move to quash deposition subpoena, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1987.1, 2020.010-2020.030 [see § 193.181[3]].

3. If the deposition is not stayed, attend and testify as directed in the deposition notice or deposition subpoena, or be subject to sanctions [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.240, (failure to obey deposition subpoena), 2025.450 (failure to obey deposition notice); see § 193.172[1]; see also § 193.239 et seq.]. If appearing pursuant to deposition subpoena, be sure that witness fees have been paid at time of service of subpoena or at time of attendance to testify [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.230].

4. If necessary, demand that deposition officer suspend the taking of testimony during the deposition, and move for protective order pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470 [see § 193.183].

[2] Production of Documents and Other Tangible Things Pursuant to Deposition Notice

1. To procedurally challenge the deposition notice, serve objections to deposition notice and move to quash pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410 [see § 193.181[2]].

2. To challenge the substance of the deposition notice, seek a protective order pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420 [see § 193.182].

3. If notice is not to be challenged, then comply with deposition notice and produce specified writings and other tangible things.

[3] Production of Documents and Other Tangible Things Pursuant to Deposition Subpoena

1. To challenge deposition subpoena, move to quash deposition subpoena, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1987.1, 2020.010-2020.030 [see § 193.181[3]].

2. To challenge deposition notice as well, follow procedure outlined in [2], above.

3. If neither is challenged, comply with deposition subpoena. If deposition subpoena does not compel your personal attendance, follow the procedure described in [4], below.

[4] Compliance With Deposition Subpoena That Requires Only Production of Business Records for Copying

1. Be sure that the service of the subpoena is accompanied by cash or check for the witness fee required by Evid. Code § 1563(b)(6) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.230].

2. Unless directed otherwise, decide whether to deliver the records to the office of the deposition officer, or to make delivery at the office of the business whose records are the subject of the deposition subpoena (presumably your office).

3. If delivery is to be made at the deposition officer's office [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.430]:

a. Prepare a true, legible, and durable copy of the records.

b. Prepare an affidavit in compliance with Evid. Code § 1561 [for form of affidavit, see Ch. 535, Subpoena].

c. Enclose and seal these in envelopes, and direct the outer envelope, in compliance with Evid. Code § 1560(c).

d. Prepare an itemized statement for the costs of preparation, submit to the party requesting the production, and demand that payment of the costs be made simultaneously with the actual delivery of the records [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.010-2020.030; Evid. Code § 1563(b)(1)-(3)]. Until the payment of costs is made, you will not be under obligation to deliver the records [Evid. Code § 1563(b)(2)].

If you do not make the demand, you will have to recover the costs at a later time [see Evid. Code § 1563(b)(1)], and you will be under obligation to comply with the subpoena within the required time period [Evid. Code § 1563(b)(2)].

e. Deliver, or have other qualified person deliver, the records and the affidavit to the deposition officer:

(1) Either in person, by messenger, or by mail.

(2) Within 20 days after the issuance of the subpoena, or within 15 days after its service, whichever is later [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.410].

4. If delivery is made at the office of the business whose records are the subject of the deposition subpoena [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.430]:

a. Comply with either Paragraph b or c, below, 20 days after the issuance of the subpoena, or 15 days after its service, whichever is later [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.410].

b. Permitting deposition officer to copy originals.

(1) Personally, or have other qualified person, permit the deposition officer to make a copy of the originals of the designated business records during normal business hours [see Evid. Code § 1560(e) (defining "normal business hours" for this purpose)].

(2) Prepare an affidavit in compliance with Evid. Code § 1561 [for form of affidavit, see Ch. 535, Subpoena], and deliver to officer at the time he or she makes the copy.

c. Delivery copy on payment of preparation costs.

(1) Prepare a true, legible, and durable copy of the records. It is optional whether or not to place in a sealed envelope.

(2) Prepare an affidavit in compliance with Evid. Code § 1561 [for form of affidavit, see Ch. 535, Subpoena].

(3) Prepare itemized statement for cost of preparation, as determined by Evid. Code § 1563(b)].

(4) Submit itemized statement for the costs [see Evid. Code § 1563(b)(3)] to the party serving the deposition subpoena, who is required to pay those costs either by cash or check at the time of delivery.

(5) When the cash or check is received, make delivery of the copy and the affidavit to the deposition officer, at the office of the business records.

[5] Party's Intention to Record Deposition by Audio or Video Technology

1. Party Noticing Deposition.

a. Party noticing deposition stated intention to so record in the deposition notice, or

b. All parties agree that the party noticing the deposition will so record the deposition.

Audio or video recording will be simultaneous with like recording by party noticing deposition.

2. Other Parties.

No less than three calendar days before deposition date, serve a written notice of the intention to make an audio or video record of the deposition testimony on the party or attorney who noticed the deposition, on all other parties or attorneys on whom the deposition notice was served under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.240, and on any nonparty deponent whose attendance is compelled by deposition subpoena. Notice given three calendar days before deposition date must be personally served under Code Civ. Proc. § 1011.

Keep original of notice of intention and proof of service until six months after final disposition of the cause. Do not file with court, unless offered as relevant to a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(5), (b)].

3. If the party noticing the deposition is not going to make an audio or video record of the deposition testimony, or if you did not timely serve the written notice of intention, you might still be able to record the deposition using audio or video technology, if you can obtain the written stipulation of all parties pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.030 [see Ch. 533, Stipulations].

4. At and after deposition, follow procedures outlined in § 193.171[2], above.

[6] Party's Participation by Transmission of Written Questions

If you would prefer to participate by having the deposition officer propound your questions which would be written, rather than to participate in the oral examination, transmit your written questions in a sealed envelope to the party taking the deposition. That party will deliver the questions to the deposition officer, who will unseal the envelope and propound the questions to the deponent after the oral examination is completed.

NOTE:

If you would prefer that the entire deposition be taken on written questions [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.010 et seq.; § 193.190 et seq., below], that would be submitted to the deponent and the parties before the deposition, move for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(6). If the deponent is a party, you might consider moving for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(b)(7) that the method of discovery be by written interrogatories [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2028 .010 et seq.; Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories]. For the procedure for moving for a protective order, see § 193.182.

§ 193.181 Objections and Motions to Quash

[1] Party's Objection to Notice of Deposition

NOTE:
Any party served with a deposition notice that does not comply with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.210-2025.270 waives any error or irregularity unless that party timely serves a written objection [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410(a)].

1. Prepare papers.

a. Objections to errors and irregularities in deposition notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210-2025.270; § 193.229].

b. Proof of service of objections [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a; Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

2. Serve papers.

a. Promptly serve the party seeking to take the deposition at least three calendar days before the scheduled deposition.

If objecting three calendar days before the scheduled deposition date, personally serve the noticing party, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1011.

b. Serve any other attorney or party on whom the deposition notice was served, no less than three calendar days before the scheduled deposition date.

3. Keep original and proof of service until six months after final disposition of the cause, and do not file with court unless offered as relevant to a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(3), (b)].

NOTE:

If the deposition proceeds to be taken, the court may still later determine that the objection was valid, and the deposition will then not be used against the objecting party under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.620, if that party did not attend the deposition. However, to prevent this, the objecting party should move for an order staying the deposition and quashing the deposition notice, described in [2], below.

[2] Party's Motion to Stay Deposition and Quash Deposition Notice

NOTE:

The taking of the deposition is stayed pending the determination of a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410.

Before bringing the motion, make a reasonable and good faith attempt to resolve informally the dispute [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010(i), 2023.020, 2025.410].

Unsuccessfully making or opposing a motion to quash a deposition notice, without substantial justification, will result in the imposition of a monetary sanction unless the court finds circumstances making imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410].

1. Make motion in addition to serving timely objection to deposition notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410 [see [1], above].

NOTE:

Failure to timely object will result in waiver of the error or irregularity in the deposition notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410].

2. Motion is made with notice, because monetary sanction is sought [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.030, 2025.410]. See procedure outlined in § 193.170[3].

3. Prepare papers.

a. Notice of motion [§ 193.230]. Be sure to include request for imposition of monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.030(a) and 2025.410.

b. General supporting declaration [§ 193.230].

c. Declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of any issue presented by the motion [§ 193.230].

d. Declaration setting forth facts supporting the amount of monetary sanction sought [§ 193.230].

e. Supporting Memorandum [see § 193.230].

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with a notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; see also discussion and forms in Ch. 417, Points and Authorities].

f. Proof of service.

4. Serve papers on parties to action pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020, and on any nonparty or attorney against whom a sanction is sought.

5. File papers.

6. Proceed as for usual noticed motion. See Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

7. File and serve order.

a. When appropriate, prepare order granting motion [§ 193.231].

b. File original and serve copies of order on attorneys for all parties. Serve copy on any nonparty or attorney against whom a sanction is imposed.

[3] Motion by Party, Deponent, or Consumer to Quash or Modify Deposition Subpoena

1. Motion may be made by:

a. Any party;

b. Deponent;

c. Consumer described in Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3, if deposition subpoena requires production of that consumer's personal records; or

d. The court, sua sponte.

2. Follow the procedures set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 1987.1(a). For the forms for the notice of motion, declaration, and order for use in quashing or modifying a subpoena or subpoena duces tecum (which should be modified to be a motion to quash or modify a "deposition subpoena"), see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

NOTE:

Although a person served with a deposition subpoena may make a motion to quash or modify, he or she is not required to do so, but may simply refuse to attend, and then oppose any motion seeking to compel attendance, testimony, answers, or production [see, e.g., Johnson v. Superior Court (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 829, 837-839, 66 Cal. Rptr. 134 (prior law; motion to compel production)]. Counsel should note, however, that under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.220(c) and 2020.240, a person who fails to appear pursuant to a deposition subpoena or a court order, by failing to attend and testify; produce or allow inspection or photocopying, if the subpoena so specifies, testing, and sampling; or attend court session to consider any issue arising out of deponent's refusal to comply with a deposition subpoena may be punished for contempt without the necessity of a prior court order directing compliance, and is subject to a civil action under Code Civ. Proc. § 1992 to recover a $500 forfeiture and damages, if any, incurred as a result of the disobedience. If, after a refusal to attend or to be sworn, the party who served the deposition subpoena seeks to impose a contempt sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.240 without first moving for an order to compel compliance, he or she must present an initiating affidavit or declaration and obtain an order to show cause under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1211, 1212, and counsel must oppose this contempt proceeding. For general forms and discussion relating to a motion to quash or modify a subpoena under Code Civ. Proc. § 1987.1, and relating to indirect contempt proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1211, 1212, see respectively Ch. 535, Subpoena , and Ch. 135, Contempt . As an alternative to ordering that a misuse of discovery process be treated as contempt of court, the court may use issue a warrant of arrest [Code Civ. Proc. § 1993(a)(1); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1993(a)(2), (b), 1993.1-1993.2 (procedures)].

[4] Objections During Deposition

For the procedures to be followed in making other objections during the taking of the deposition, see § 193.171[5].

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.182

§ 193.182 Protective Order Before, During, or After Deposition Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420

NOTE:

Any party, deponent, or other affected natural person or organization may promptly move for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420 before, during, or after a deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(a)].

If the deposition is in progress, a party or deponent may make a motion for a protective order pursuant to either or both of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.420 and 2025.470. For discussion and procedureconcerning the motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470, see § 193.183.

Before bringing the protective order motion, make a reasonable and good faith attempt to informally resolve the dispute [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010(i), 2023.020, 2025.420].

Unsuccessfully making or opposing a motion for a protective order, without substantial justification, will result in the imposition of a monetary sanction unless the court finds circumstances making imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420, 2025.470].

[1] Order Staying Deposition

NOTE:

A motion for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420 does not automatically stay the taking of a deposition. Instead, you must make a motion for an order granting a stay pending determination of the motion for the protective order [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270].

If time is of the essence, you might additionally file an ex parte motion for order shortening time for notice of motion of the protective order [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)]. See Ch. 372, Motions and Orders , and Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time **.

1. Motion may be with or without notice. However, because in most instances the deposition must be immediately stayed, it is preferable to proceed ex parte, as described below. If proceeding with noticed motion, adapt the procedure outlined in § 193.181[2].

2. Ex parte procedure.

NOTE:
For requirements for granting ex parte applications, see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1200-3.1207. See also Comments to § 193.221.

a. Prepare application for ex parte order staying deposition combined with the order and a supporting memorandum [§ 193.232].

b. Have declaration portion of application signed by the person who has personal knowledge of facts stated therein.

c. Present combined application and order to court in county in which action is pending for judge's signature on order.

NOTE:
This may be done at time of filing papers for motion for protective order [see [2], below], if counsel gives reasonable notice to the parties and to the deponent that the deposition is being stayed.

d. File original application and order and have clerk stamp copies as "endorsed filed".

e. Serve endorsed-filed copies on the parties, on the deponent if he or she is not a party, and on the deposition officer [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020; Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

NOTE:
Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1019.5(a), when a motion is granted or denied, unless the court otherwise orders, notice of the court's decision or order (see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders) must be given by the prevailing party to all other parties or their attorneys, in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020 (see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers), unless notice is waived by all parties in open court and is entered in the minutes.

[2] Motion for Protective Order

1. Preliminarily determine:

a. Whether justice requires an order to protect any party, deponent, or other natural person or organization from unwarranted annoyance, embarrrassment, or oppression, or undue burden and expense.

b. If deposition is in progress, whether examination is being conducted in bad faith or in a manner that unreasonably annoys, embarrrasses, or oppresses the deponent or party; if so, you should combine your motion with a motion for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470 [see § 193.183].

c. Whether you can meet your burden of showing good cause for the protective order [see, e.g., Southern California Edison Co. v. Superior Court (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 832, 843, 103 Cal. Rptr. 709, 500 P.2d 621 ; Goodman v. Citizens Life & Cas. Ins. Co. (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 807, 819, 61 Cal. Rptr. 682] .

d. Whether you have engaged in a reasonable and good faith attempt to resolve informally the issues involved.

2. Prepare papers.

a. Motion is made with notice, because monetary sanction is sought [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.030, 2025.420]. Use general form of notice of motion for protective order [§ 193.233], filling in request for particular order from either § 193.234 or other particular order in interests of justice as allowed by Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420. The motion is to be made in the court in which the action is pending [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.020(b), 2025.420].

Be sure to include request for imposition of monetary sanction pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a).

b. General supporting declaration [§ 193.233].

c. Declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion [§ 193.233].

d. Declaration setting forth facts supporting amount of monetary sanction sought [§ 193.233].

e. Supporting memorandum required by Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040 and Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a) [§ 193.233; for discussion and forms, see, Ch. 417, Points and Authorities and California Points and Authorities , Ch. 83, Discovery: Depositions (Matthew Bender)].

f. Proof of service of documents listed in Paragraphs a.-e., above [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a; Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

3. Serve and file documents as for usual noticed motion [see § 193.233], except that less than 16 court days' (or longer period required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) if notice served by mail) notice of motion will be given if an order shortening time for notice of motion [see NOTE in [1], above] has been obtained.

4. Prepare order.

Prepare order [§ 193.235] if court grants motion, and follow procedures set out in § 193.170[3], above.

§ 193.183 Protective Order During Deposition Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470

NOTE:

Any party or deponent may make a motion for a protective order pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470 while a deposition is in progress.

This motion might be properly combined with a motion for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420. For discussion and procedure concerning the motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420, see § 193.182.

Before bringing the protective order motion, make a reasonable and good faith attempt to informally resolve the dispute [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010(i), 2023.020, 2025.420(a)].

Unsuccessfully making or opposing a motion for a protective order, without substantial justification, will result in the imposition of a monetary sanction unless the court finds circumstances making imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(d)].

[1] Suspend Examination

During the examination, either have all parties present stipulate to suspend the taking of testimony, or have any party attending the deposition, including the deponent, demand that the deposition officer suspend the taking of testimony, to enable you to move for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470.

[2] Preliminarily Determine

1. Whether examination is being conducted in bad faith or in a manner that unreasonably annoys, embarrrasses, or oppresses the deponent or party.

2. Whether justice requires an order to protect any party, deponent, or other natural person or organization from unwarranted annoyance, embarrrassment, or oppression, or undue burden and expense; if so, you should combine your motion with a motionfor a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420 [see § 193.182].

3. Whether you can meet your burden of showing good cause for the protective order.

4. Whether you have engaged in a reasonable and good faith attempt to informally resolve each issue involved.

[3] Prepare Papers

NOTE:
A motion for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470 is made in the court in which the action is pending [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.020(b), 2025.420].

1. Motion is made with notice, because monetary sanction is sought [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.030, 2025.420, 2025.470]. Use § 193.236 to request an order:

a. Either terminating the examination, or

b. Limiting the scope and manner of taking the deposition as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420; and

c. Imposing a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a).

2. General supporting declaration [§ 193.236]

3. Declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion [§ 193.236].

4. Declaration setting forth facts supporting amount of monetary sanction sought [§ 193.236].

5. Supporting memorandum [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); § 193.236; see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities ; for forms of memoranda see also California Points and Authorities , Ch. 83, Discovery: Depositions (Matthew Bender)].

6. Proof of service of papers listed in Paragraphs 1-4, above [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a; Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

[4] Serve and File Papers

Serve and file the original papers using usual procedure [see § 193.170[3]; Ch. 372, Motions and Orders].

[5] Serve and File Order

1. Prepare order [§ 193.237]. If court grants motion, follow procedures in Paragraph I(C)(4)(e), above.

2. File the signed original and have the clerk certify one copy of the order and stamp the remaining copies as "endorsed filed" [see Gov. Code §§ 26833 (fee for certifying copy), 26837 (fee for comparing copy with original)].

3. Personally serve the certified copy of the protective order on the deposition officer and prepare and execute an affidavit or declaration showing that service.

4. Serve endorsed-filed copies on the parties to the action, and on any nonparty (including an attorney) against whom monetary sanction is awarded.

§ 193.184 Opposition to Motion to Compel Appearance, Answer, or Production

[1] Opposition to Motion Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450

Serve and file a memorandum and a declaration in opposition to the motion showing that the motion should be denied. Include facts and arguments, e.g., that you had served a valid objection to the deposition notice pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410, or that the deposition failed to proceed because of the behavior of the proponent rather than that of the deponent.

[2] Opposition to Motion Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480

NOTE:

Unsuccessfully opposing a motion to compel, without substantial justification, will result in the imposition of a monetary sanction unless the court finds circumstances making imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(f)].

1. As a preventative measure in expectation that such a motion might be brought, establish a record at the deposition of all of your objections during the examination. For discussion of these objections, see § 193.171[5].

In making an objection at the deposition, be sure to state the grounds on which the objection is made, or the objection may not be considered by the court.

2. After other party files motion to compel, serve and file a memorandum and a declaration in opposition to the motion showing that the motion should be denied, and showing either substantial justification for opposing motion or existence of other circumstances that would make imposition of monetary sanction unjust. Include facts and arguments showing, when applicable, the following:

a. The evidence called for is not relevant to the subject matter of the action, or is not otherwise subject to discovery [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2017.010 et seq. (scope of discovery), 2025.480].

b. A factual basis exists for application of an evidentiary privilege or the work product doctrine [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.460(a); see also discussion of privileges and work product in Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations].

§ 193.185 Motion for Monetary Sanction for Failure of Deposition to Proceed Because of Fault of Proponent

[1] Party Noticing Deposition Fails to Attend or Proceed

NOTE:
This motion may be brought by any party who attended the deposition in person or by attorney.

When the party noticing the deposition fails to attend or proceed with the deposition, bring a noticed motion for the imposition of a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a). Use § 193.244 to prepare the necessary documents. Follow usual noticed motion procedure [see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders].

[2] Party Noticing Deposition Fails to Serve Deponent With Deposition Subpoena, and Deponent Fails to Appear for Deposition

NOTE:
This motion may be brought by any party who attended the deposition in person or by attorney, in the expectation that the deponent's testimony would be taken.

When the deponent fails to appear at the deposition because he or she was not served with a deposition subpoena, bring a noticed motion for the imposition of a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a). Use §§ 193.244, 193.245 to prepare the necessary documents. Follow usual noticed motion procedure [see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders].

§ 193.186 Transcription of Testimony and Motion to Suppress

[1] Agreement for No Stenographic Transcription

If you have reason not to wish a stenographic transcription to be the official record, contact all other parties and enter into a written agreement. Otherwise, the stenographic recording will be transcribed and will be the official record for purposes of trial and any subsequent hearing or appeal [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510].

[2] Access to Audio or Video Recordings

If the proponent records the deposition using audio or video technology, request that party to promptly permit your party to hear or view the recording, and request a copy of the recording. When you deliver payment of the reasonable cost of making that copy of the recording, the proponent will give you the copy [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510(f)].

If you have made an audio or video recording of the deposition, any other party may request that you permit that party to hear or view the recording,and to furnish that party with a copy on delivery of payment of the reasonable cost of copying [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510(f); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.510(h) (defining responsibilities for payment)].

[3] Review of Transcript

Carefully read or review the stenographic transcript, or the recording if no stenographic transcript has been prepared, as soon as you receive notice from the deposition officer that it is available for reading or review [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.520, 2025.530].

[4] Motion to Suppress Deposition

NOTE: Unsuccessfully making or opposing a motion to suppress, without substantial justification, will result in the imposition of a monetary sanction unless the court finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that there are other circumstances making imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025 .520(h), 2025.530(f)].

1. Prerequisites:

a. Deponent has failed or refused to approve the transcript [Code Civ.Proc. § 2025.520] or statement identifying deposition as his or her own [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.530].

b. You have engaged in reasonable and good faith attempt to resolve dispute [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010(i), 2023.020, 2025.520(g), 2025.530(e)].

2. Make seasonable motion. Follow normal motion procedure, adapting that outlined in § 193.170[3]. Use §§ 193.246, 193.247 to prepare the necessary documents.

a. Be sure to accompany motion with declaration stating facts showing reasonable and good faith attempt at informal resolution of each issue presented by motion [§ 193.246].

b. Include declaration setting forth facts supporting amount of monetary sanction sought [§ 193.246].

c. Include in motion a request for a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030.

§ 193.190 Noticing Deposition

[1] When Court Order Required

A plaintiff must obtain leave of the court if he or she wishes to serve a notice of written deposition within 20 days of service of summons on orappearance by any defendant [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.210(b), 2028.010]. For the procedure to obtain such an order, see § 193.170[3]. The forms in § 193.220 et seq. may be adapted for use when the deposition is to be taken on written questions. After obtaining the order, follow the procedure in [2], below, serving a copy of the order with the other papers.

[2] Notice Without Court Order

1. Prepare notice of written deposition [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.220, 2028.020; see § 193.260].

Include in the notice the contents set forth in § 193.170[2], except [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.020]:

a. State the name or descriptive title of the deposition officer and his or her address.

b. The date, time, and place for commencement of the deposition may be left for future determination by the deposition officer. If you decide to include a date and time in the notice, allow sufficient time for service of cross (30 days), redirect (15 days), and recross questions (15 days), plus additional time to allow for any extensions or for court hearings on any objections or motions for protective orders [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.030-2028.050, 2028.070]. If the service triggering these time periods is by mail, the time period is extended five calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050]. The time period is extended two court days if service is by Express Mail or Fax [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)].

2. Prepare written direct questions to be attached to notice of deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.030; § 193.261].

3. If deponent is not a party or an employee or agent of a party, obtain deposition subpoena, serve subpoena on deponent, and prepare copies of subpoena to be served with each deposition notice [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.010(b), 2025.220, 2025.240, 2025.280, 2025.310, 2028.010; see § 193.170[6] and § 193.226 et seq.].

4. Prepare proof of service of above documents [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

5. Serve each other party who has appeared in the action with copy of deposition notice, copy of deposition subpoena if served, direct questions, and proof of service [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.220-2025.240, 2028.010, 2028.030 and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers]. Keep originals and original proofs of service until six months after final disposition of the cause, and do not file withcourt unless offered as relevant to a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(1)-(3), (b)].

§ 193.191 Response to Cross Questions or Recross Questions

NOTE:
A party served with direct questions may, within 30 days, serve cross questions on the other parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.030; see § 193.200[1]; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.050 (extension of time periods when service is by mail pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a), (c), (e); by five calendar days if address is in California, 10 calendar days if address is out-of-state but in United States, 20 calendar days if address is outside United States, or two court days when service is by Express Mail or fax)].

[1] Redirect Questions

NOTE:
These questions are in response to cross questions.

1. Prepare redirect questions [§ 193.261].

2. Serve redirect questions on all other parties entitled to deposition notice within 15 days after cross questions are served (or within 20, 25, or 35 days, respectively, if cross questions served by mail and place of address is within California, outside California but within the United States, or outside the United States) [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.050, 2028.030]. If necessary, obtain extension of time to serve redirect questions, either by stipulation or by court order for good cause shown [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.030 and Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time].

3. Keep copy of questions, cross questions, redirect questions, and recross questions in response to redirect questions for transmittal to officer taking deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.080; see § 193.192[2]].

[2] Objections to Cross and Recross Questions

1. Prepare written objection to any cross or recross question, specifying objection to form of question or objection based on privilege or work product protection [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2028.040, 2028.050; § 193.262].

2. Serve objection on all parties entitled to notice of the deposition within 15 days after service of question to which objection is made (or within 20, 25, or 35 days, respectively, if objection served by mail and place of address is within California, outside California but within the United States, or outside the United States) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.050, 2028.040, 2028.050].

3. Engage in reasonable and good faith attempt to resolve informally each issue presented by the objection.

NOTE:
Failure to do so will not only preclude bringing a motion to sustain an objection based on the form of the question [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.040], but may also result in the imposition of monetary sanctions [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010(i), 2023.020, 2023.030(a)].

4. If attempt at informal resolution is unsuccessful, promptly move to sustain any objection based on the form of the question, and to impose a monetary sanction against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully opposes the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.040; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010(i), 2023.020, 2023.030(a), 2023.040].

NOTE:
If the court does not sustain the objection, the deposition officer will propound the question subject to the objection based on form [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.040]. With respect to any objection based on privilege or work product protection, the party who propounds the question must bring a motion to overrule the objection, and the deposition officer cannot propound the question unless the court overrules the objection [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.050].

a. Prepare notice of motion, supporting declaration including a statement of facts showing attempt at informal resolution of each issue presented by objection and motion, and supporting amount of monetary sanction requested, and memorandum of points and authorities [§ 193.263].

b. Prepare and execute, or have prepared and executed, a proof of service of the above documents [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

c. Serve copies of above documents on all affected parties, persons, or attorneys.

d. If court grants motion, prepare order [§ 193.264].

[3] Opposition to Objections to Direct or Redirect Questions

1. Engage in a reasonable and good faith attempt at informal resolution of each issue presented by the objection.

NOTE:
Failure to engage in the attempt at informal resolution may result in imposition of monetary sanction [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010(i), 2023.020, 2028.040, 2028.050].

2. When attempt at informal resolution is unsuccessful.

a. Oppose any motion by objecting party to sustain objection to form of question. Include points and authorities and declarations showing substantial justification for conduct, or existence of other circumstances that make imposition of monetary sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.040].

NOTE:
If the court does not sustain the objection, the deposition officer will propound the question subject to the objection based on form [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.040].

b. Make motion to overrule any objection based on privilege or work product protection, and to impose a monetary sanction against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully opposes the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.050; see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a), 2023.040].

(1) Prepare notice of motion, supporting declaration including a statement of facts showing attempt at informal resolution of each issue presented by objection and motion, and supporting amount of monetary sanction requested, and supporting memorandum [§ 193.263].

(2) Prepare and execute, or have prepared and executed, a proof of service of the above documents [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

(3) Serve copies of above documents on all affected parties, persons, or attorneys.

(4) If court grants motions, prepare order [§ 193.264].

NOTE:
If the court does not overrule the objection, the deposition officer may not propound the question [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.050].

§ 193.192 Taking Deposition

[1] Nonparty Deponent

1. Require attendance of nonparty deponent by service of deposition subpoena [see § 193.190[2]].

2. Preview of questions by deponent.

If desired, forward to any nonparty deponent a copy of the direct questions for study prior to the deposition. However, do not forward copies of any cross, redirect, or recross questions to the deponent [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.060].

NOTE:
Any party deponent will receive a copy of the direct questions with the deposition notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.030].

[2] Deliver Notice and Questions to Deposition Officer

1. Deliver copies of the deposition notice and all questions to the deposition officer [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.080].

2. Although not specified in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2028.010-2028.080, it is advisable to deliver to the deposition officer copies of objections to questions based on privilege or work product protection that have not been overruled by the court, because questions to which objections on these grounds have not been overruled may not be propounded by the deposition officer [see Code Civ. Proc.§ 2028.050]. Also, deliver a copy of a court order sustaining objections to the form of certain questions, because questions to which objections on this ground have been sustained also may not be propounded by the deposition officer [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.040].

[3] Conduct Deposition Hearing

1. Have the officer before whom the deposition is to be taken put the deponent under oath or have the deponent affirm to tell the truth [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.330, 2028.010].

2. Have testimony and objections recorded stenographically, unless the parties agree or the court orders otherwise [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.330, 2028.010].

If the deposition is to be recorded by another method in addition to stenography, follow the procedures outlined in § 193.171[2].

3. Have the officer before whom the deposition is being taken propound, in the following order, the questions contained in:

a. The written questions prepared by you.

b. The cross questions submitted by other parties.

c. The redirect questions prepared by you.

d. The recross questions submitted by other parties.

§ 193.201 Motion for Protective Order

[1] Attempt to Resolve Issue Informally

Engage in reasonable and good faith attempt to resolve informally each issue presented by the motion.

NOTE:

Failure to do so will preclude bringing a motion for a protective order [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.420, 2028.010, 2028.070], and may result in imposition of monetary sanction [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010(i), 2023.020, 2025.420(a)].

[2] Motion for Protective Order

If unable to informally resolve the issues, bring motion for protective order [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.420, 2028.010, 2028.070; see also § 193.182 (checklist) and §§ 193.233, 193.265 (forms)].

16-193 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 193.210

§ 193.210 Checklists for Party Seeking to Take Depositions

[1] Preliminary Determinations

Consider preliminary matters, including (1) selection of California counsel to assist in setting up deposition and compelling attendance of deponent; (2) selection of place in California at which deposition is to be taken [see discussion in § 193.32]; (3) selection of time for taking deposition [see discussion in § 193.20]; (4) selection of deposition officer and reporter before whom deposition is to be taken [see discussion in § 193.40].

NOTE:

For depositions taken in 2009, attorneys should be aware that a degree of uncertainty exists regarding the applicable law in light of the inadvertent repeal of Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.010 as of January 1, 2009 [see Stats 2008 ch. 231, § 2], a year earlier than was intended. For discussion of the repeal, and a summary of the provisions of the successor statute, the Interstate and International Depositions and Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.100 et seq. (operative January 1, 2010)], see § 193.130. Until the successor statute becomes effective, it is advisable to confirm whether or not the appropriate local court will continue to follow the former procedure.

[2] Prepare Documents

[a] Stipulation

NOTE:

It appears that if the deponent agrees to appear voluntarily, a deposition subpoena will not be necessary, so long as the stipulation is adequate under the laws of the jurisdiction in which the action is pending to permit use of the deposition testimony in that jurisdiction [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.030].

If the deponent and parties are agreeable, prepare a stipulation for taking the deposition, including the following information [see also discussion in § 193.170[1]]:

1. The names of the parties.

2. The title of the action or proceeding, the court or other body before which it is pending, and the general nature of the action or proceeding.

3. The name and address of the witness whose testimony is to be taken by deposition and a description of documents or things sought to be produced at the deposition.

4. The time, place, and manner of taking the deposition and the deposition officer before whom it is to be taken.

5. An agreement for the use of the testimony or documents in the action or proceeding.

[b] Writ, Letters Rogatory, Letter of Request, or Commission

In lieu of a stipulation between the parties for taking the deposition [see [a], above], prepare those papers required by the law of the jurisdiction in which the action or proceeding is pending to authorize the taking of the deposition in California.

[c] Deposition Subpoena

The Judicial Council forms for deposition subpoenas [see § 193.226 et seq.] may be adapted by changing the caption at the top of the form to show that the action is pending in another jurisdiction [see, e.g., caption in § 193.280[1]].

Counsel may also wish to prepare affidavit or declaration in support of issuance of deposition subpoena [§ 193.280].

[3] Issuance and Service of Deposition Subpoena

Follow the procedures set out in § 193.170[6]. If affidavit or declaration in support of issuance of deposition subpoena was prepared, present it toclerk of superior court of county in which deposition is to take place [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1986(b)].

[4] Conduct of Deposition

The deposition should be conducted in the same manner as a deposition taken by oral or written examination for use in a California action [see former Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.010 (repealed 1/1/09 by Stats. 2208 ch. 231 § 2; see also discussion in § 193.130)]. For discussion of the procedures applicable to oral and written depositions, see respectively § 193.171 and § 193.192[3]].

[2] Use of Form

The notice of motion and motion set out in [1], above, is for use by a plaintiff to obtain leave of court to serve a deposition notice at an earlier date than 20 days after service of summons on, or appearance by, any defendant pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210(b), and to obtain an order shortening the time for scheduling a deposition.

Unless the time for scheduling a deposition is shortened by court order, a deposition must be scheduled for a date at least 10 days after service of the deposition notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270(a)]. In unlawful detainer proceedings, or other proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), a deposition must be scheduled at least five days after service of the deposition notice, but not later than five days before trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270(b)]. If the personal records of a consumer or the employment records of an employee, are being subpoenaed, the deposition must be scheduled for a date at least 20 days after issuance of that subpoena [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270(c); see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985.3(l), 1985.6(k) (when notice to consumer or employee and delivery of documents specified in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985.3(b) or 1985.6(b) is not required); Ch. 535, Subpoena.].

The time requirements for scheduling the deposition are extended in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a) when service of the deposition notice is by mail (that is, five calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.050].

A plaintiff wishing to serve a deposition notice within 20 days of the service of summons on or appearance by any defendant will usually have to move the court also to shorten the time for scheduling the deposition as well. For further discussion, see § 193.20. For discussion of additional requirements under Code Civ. Proc. and 2020.510 that may affect the timefor taking a deposition when business records are being subpoenaed, see §§ 193.21[2], 193.227[3][c], and 193.228[3][b].

This motion is to be made before the court in which the action is pending [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.020(b)].

The motion may be granted on a showing of good cause [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.210(b), 2025.270(d)].

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with the notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010]. For general discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[3] Notice of Motion

Due to time constraints, this notice of motion will usually be combined with an application for an order under Code Civ. Proc. § 1005 shortening the time required for giving the notice of motion. For forms of applications and orders shortening the time for notice of motions, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders , and Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time .

In lieu of this form and notice procedure, however, counsel may wish to use the application without notice set out in § 193.221. A motion for leave under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210(b) is expressly permitted to be made with or without notice; an order shortening time under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270(d) may be on motion or ex parte application.

ORDER

[Insert body of proposed order set out in § 193.222[1].]

[2] Use of Form

The application for ex parte orders set out in [1], above, is for use by a plaintiff to obtain leave of court to serve a deposition notice at an earlier date than 20 days after service of summons on, or appearance by, any defendant pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210(b), and to obtain an order shortening the time for scheduling a deposition pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270(d). The ex parte application may be used in lieu of the noticed motion set out in § 193.220 [see also discussion in §§ 193.20[1], 193.220[2] -[4]].

[3] Ex Parte Application

[a] Notice Requirements

Although Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210(b) provides that the court may grant a plaintiff leave to notice an early deposition on a motion made "with or without notice," it appears that an ex parte application made for that purpose must nevertheless conform to the requirements applicable to ex parte applications generally under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1200-3.1207. Thus, the ex parte application will not be granted unless one of the following appears by declaration [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(b)]:

- The notice given, including the date, time, manner, and name of the party informed, the relief sought, any response, and whether opposition is expected and that, within the applicable time under Rule 3.1203, the applicant informed the opposing party where and when the application would be made;

- The applicant in good faith attempted to inform the opposing party but was unable to do so, specifying the efforts made to inform the opposing party;

- That, for reasons specified, the applicant should not be required to inform the opposing party.

This form of application, as well as the supporting declaration incorporated from § 193.220, should therefore be modified as necessary to satisfy the requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1201, as discussed in [b], below.

[b] Form and Content Requirements

A request for ex parte relief must be in writing and must include all of the following:

- Required documents [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1201]:

  - An application containing the case caption and stating the relief requested;

  - A declaration in support of the application making the factual showing required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1202(c) (see Contents of Application, below);

  - A declaration based on personal knowledge of the notice given under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204;

  - A memorandum; and

  - A proposed order.

In this case, a supporting memorandum should simply state that, under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210(b), the court is authorized to grant leave to a plaintiff to notice a deposition at an earlier date on a motion made with or without notice, on a showing of good cause, and provide argument why the facts in the supporting declarations demonstrate good cause for granting the order requested. For a form of order that may be adapted for use as a proposed order granting the ex parte application, see § 193.222.

The application must include [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1202]:

- Identification of attorney of party: The name, address, and telephone number of any attorney known to the applicant to be an attorney for any party or, if no such attorney is known, the name, address, and telephonenumber of the party if known to the applicant.

- Disclosure of previous applications: If an ex parte application has been refused in whole or in part, any subsequent application of the same character or for the same relief, although made upon an alleged different state of facts, must include a full disclosure of all previous applications and of the court's actions.

- Affirmative factual showing: An affirmative factual showing in a declaration containing competent testimony based on person knowledge of irreparable harm, immediate danger, or any other statutory basis for granting relief ex parte. In this case, the supporting declaration should state the relevant statutory bases, for example, the court's authority under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270(d) to grant the relief for "good cause" even if the request is made by an ex parte application or motion "without notice." The declaration should also present the facts showing "good cause."

A party seeking an ex parte order must notify all parties [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1203(a)]. Notice must be given no later than 10:00 a.m. the court day before the ex parte appearance, absent a showing of exceptional circumstances that justify a shorter time for notice [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1203(a); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1203(b) (time of notice in unlawful detainer proceedings)]. However, if the applicant fails to comply with the requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1203, the clerk must not reject an ex parte application for filing and must promptly present the application to the appropriate judicial officer for consideration [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1205].

The notice must [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(a)]:

- State with specificity the nature of the relief to be requested and the date, time, and place for the presentation of the application; and

- Attempt to determine whether the opposing party will appear to oppose the application.

A declaration regarding notice must accompany the ex parte application [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(b)]. The declaration regarding the notice must state, as applicable [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(b)]:

- The notice given, including the date, time, manner, and name of the party informed, the relief sought, any response, and whether opposition is expected and that, within the applicable time under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1203, the applicant informed the opposing party where and when the application would be made;

- That the applicant in good faith attempted to inform the opposing party but was unable to do so, specifying the efforts made to inform the opposing party; or

- That, for reasons specified, the applicant should not be required to inform the opposing party.

If notice was provided later than 10:00 a.m. the court day before the ex parte appearance [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1203(a)], the declaration regarding notice must explain [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(c)]:

- The exceptional circumstances that justify the shorter notice; or

- In unlawful detainer proceedings, why the notice given is reasonable.

[c] Service Requirements

Parties appearing at the ex parte hearing must serve their application (or written opposition) on all other appearing parties at the first reasonable opportunity. Absent exceptional circumstances, such service must be made before the hearing will be conducted [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1206].

[d] Presenting Application to Judge

An ex parte motion or application is made to the judge of the court, when there is only one judge. In a court with more than one judge, an ex parte application or motion is made to the judge or commissioner before whom the matter is pending [see, e.g., Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.20(a)]. If the case has not yet been assigned to a judge or department, local court rules should be consulted to determine whether the application should be made to the presiding judge or to the law and motion judge.

An ex parte application seeking leave to notice an early deposition will not be considered without a personal appearance of the applicant [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1207 (ex parte application will be considered without a personal appearance only in application either to file memorandum in excess of applicable page limits, applications for extensions of time to serve pleadings, application to set hearing date on alternative writ or order to show cause, or stipulations by the parties for an order of the court)].

[Add memorandum supporting motion.]

Respectfully submitted,
_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [party's status and name]

[2] Use of Form

The form of notice of motion and motion set out in [1], above, is for use by a party desiring to take a deposition of a natural person who is a party or a party-affiliate, to obtain an order that the deponent attend for deposition at a place that is more distant than that permitted under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.250(a), and to obtain an order imposing a monetary sanction against any party, person, or attorney opposing the motion [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260]. For further discussion, see § 193.22.

The motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of any issue presented by the motion (Paragraph 5 of Supporting Declaration) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260]. When monetary sanctions are sought, an accompanying declaration must also set out facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought (Paragraph 6 of Supporting Declaration) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040].

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with the notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities ; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040]. For memoranda of points and authorities relating to a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260, see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 83, Discovery: Depositions (Matthew Bender).

For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 193.220[4].

[3] Notice

Written notice, as prescribed in Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b), must be given for a motion for an order to take a deposition under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260 [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(a)(8)].

Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) provides generally that all moving and supporting papers must be served and filed at least 16 court days before the time appointed for the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(a)]. If, however, the notice is served by mail, the required 16-day period of notice before the time appointed for the hearing must be increased by five calendar days if the place of mailing and the place of address are within the State of California, by 10 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside the State of California but within the United States, or by 20 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside the United States [Code Civ. Proc.§ 1005(b); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(c) (proof of service of notice to be filed at least five court days before time set for hearing)]. The court, or a judge of the court, may prescribe a shorter time for notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(b); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(c) (service of papers opposing motion and reply papers)].

No paper may be rejected for filing on the ground that it was untimely submitted. If the court, in its discretion, refuses to consider a late-filed paper, the minutes or order must so indicate [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(d)]. A paper submitted before the close of the clerk's office to the public on the day the paper is due is deemed timely filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(e)].

[4] Court's Exercise of Discretion to Grant or Deny Motion

In exercising its discretion to grant or deny this motion, the court shall take into consideration any factor tending to show whether the interests of justice will be served by requiring the deponent's attendance at that more distant place, including, but not limited to, the following [see Glass v. Superior Court (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1048, 1053-1054, 251 Cal. Rptr. 690 (trial court ordered to set aside and vacate its orders denying motion and assessing sanctions)]:

- Whether the moving party selected the forum [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260(b)(1)].

- Whether the deponent will be present to testify at the trial of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260(b)(2)].

- The convenience of the deponent [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260(b)(3)].

- The feasibility of conducting the deposition by written questions pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.010 et seq., or of using a discovery method other than a deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260(b)(4)].

- The number of depositions sought to be taken at a place more distant than that permitted under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.250(a) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260(b)(5)].

- The expense to the parties of requiring the deposition to be taken within the distance permitted under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.250(a) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260(b)(6)].

- The whereabouts of the deponent at the time for which the deposition is scheduled [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260(b)(7)].

The supporting declaration in this form should therefore state facts showing that, in consideration of all the circumstances, including those enumerated in Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260(b), it is in the interest of justice to grant the order (Paragraph 4 of Supporting Declaration).

[5] Order Conditioned on Advancement of Expenses and Costs

If the court grants the motion, it may issue an order that is conditioned on the advancement by the moving party of the reasonable expenses andcosts to the deponent for travel to the place of deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260(c)].

[6] Monetary Sanctions

The court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to increase travel limits for a party-deponent, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260(d)]. For further discussion of monetary sanctions, including notice and hearing requirements for motions seeking the imposition of a monetary sanction, see § 193.230[4] [see also Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2]].

[2] Use of Form

The notice of deposition set out in [1], above, is for use by a party to notice the taking of a deposition [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.220-2025.240; see § 193.21]. A deposition notice is required for the taking of a deposition of any person, except when the deposing party seeks only the production of business records by a nonparty pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.410-2020.440. It the latter event, a copy of the deposition subpoena serves as the notice of deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(b); for a form for a deposition subpoena for the production of business records only, see § 193.228].

For procedural checklists that may be used in noticing a deposition and in compelling the attendance of the deponent, see § 193.170.

[3] Contents of Deposition Notice

This deposition notice includes a list of all parties or the attorneys of parties on whom the notice is to be served, that is, all those parties or their attorneys who have appeared in the action. This list may be contained in either the deposition notice or the accompanying proof of service [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.240(a)]. In addition, the form includes the following required information:

- The address where the deposition will be taken [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(a)(1); see discussion in § 193.22; see also § 193.223 (form of motion to take deposition at place more distant than permitted without leave of court)].

- The date of the deposition, selected under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270, and the time it will commence [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(a)(2); see discussion in [4], regarding selection of date)].

- The name of each deponent, and the address and telephone number, if known, of any deponent who is not a party to the action. If the name of the deponent is not known, the notice must provide a general description sufficient to identify the person or particular class to which the person belongs [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(a)(3)].

- The specification with reasonable particularity of any materials or category of materials to be produced by the deponent [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(a)(4)].

- The intention, if any, to record the deposition by audio or video technology, in addition to stenographic recording [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(a)(5); see discussion in § 193.41[3][b]].

- The intention, if any, to record the testimony by stenographic method, through instant visual display of testimony [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(a)(5); see discussion in § 193.41[3][a]].

- The intention, if any, to reserve the right to use a video recording of a treating or consulting physician or other expert witness under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.620(d) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(a)(6); see discussion in § 193.94].

If the deponent is not a natural person, the notice also must include a description with reasonable particularity of the matters on which examination is requested [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.230]. This triggers the deponent's duty to designate persons who are qualified to testify as to these matters, to attend and testify on its behalf [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.230 and discussion in § 193.21[3][a]]. Optional language is included in the form to advise the deponent of this duty; such language is mandatory in a deposition subpoena served on a nonparty deponent organization [see §§ 193.226[1], 193.227[1]]. Optional language is also included in the form requesting a deponent organization to provide the noticing party with information concerning the designated person. The form also includes information identifying the deposition officer, if desired [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.320 and discussion in § 193.40].

[4] Scheduled Date of Deposition

The scheduled date of the deposition depends on the date of service of the deposition notice. It may also by affected by the date of issuance of a deposition subpoena requiring the production of personal records of a consumer or employment records of an employee [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.220(a)(2), 2025.270]. For further discussion, see §§ 193.20[2] and 193.220[2].

[5] Service of Notice and Copy of Deposition Subpoena

The party noticing the deposition must serve the deposition notice on all parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.240(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020]. If the deponent is not a party or a party-affiliate, a copy of the deposition subpoena commanding his or her attendance must be served with the deposition notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.240(c); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.010, 2020.020, 2025.280]. For a form for a deposition subpoena commanding personal appearance, or appearance plus the production of documents or things, see §§ 193.226, 193.227.

If the deponent is a witness commanded by subpoena to produce personal records of a consumer or employment records of an employee, the deposition notice must also be served on that consumer or employee, together with a copy of the deposition subpoena and a notice of privacy rights under Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(e) (personal records) or Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6(e) (employment records) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.240(b); for further discussion, see § 193.21[2]].

If the party noticing the deposition intends to record the testimony by stenographic method, through instant visual display of testimony, a copy of the deposition notice must also be given to the deposition officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(a)(5); see discussion in § 193.41[3][a]].

Neither the deposition notice nor the notice to the consumer or employee may be filed with the court, unless offered as relevant to a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause. Instead, the serving party retains the original and the original proof of service until sixmonths after final disposition of the cause, unless otherwise ordered by the court for cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(3), (4), (b)].

For discussion and forms relating to the earliest time for serving a deposition notice, see §§ 193.20[1] and 193.220[2]. For discussion and forms relating to the latest time for service, that is, relating to the time requirements for completing discovery, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.50 et seq. and § 190.90 et seq.

[2] Use of Form

The deposition subpoena set out in [1], above, is a reproduction of Cal. Judicial Council Form SUBP-015, adopted by the Judicial Council for mandatory use [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Appendix, Div. A]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

The form is for use in requiring a nonparty witness to make a personal appearance and testify at a deposition, or, if the nonparty witness is not a natural person, to designate one or more persons to appear and testify on behalf of the witness [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.010-2020.030, 2020.310, 2020.510, 2025.280(b); see also discussion in § 193.30 et seq.]. If the witness is a party, service of the deposition notice alone is sufficient to require attendance and testimony [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.280(a)].

For separate deposition subpoena forms for use in requiring the production of records or tangible things in addition to a personal attendance, or requiring only the production of business records, see respectively § 193.227 and § 193.228.

For a discussion and forms for subpoenas generally, see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

[3] Deposition Subpoena

[a] Issuance

The clerk of the court in which the action is pending issues a signed and sealed deposition subpoena, but otherwise blank, to a party requesting it, who fills it in before service. In lieu of the court-issued deposition subpoena, an attorney of record for any party may sign and issue a deposition subpoena; the deposition subpoena in that case need not be sealed, and the attorney may retain the original and serve a copy on the nonparty [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.210].

[b] Contents: Deposition Subpoena Commanding Only Attendance and Testimony

A deposition subpoena that commands only the attendance and testimony of the nonparty deponent is required to contain the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.310]:

- A specification of the time when and the place where the deponent is commanded to attend the deposition.

- A summary of (1) the nature of a deposition, (2) the rights and duties of the deponent, and (3) the penalties for disobedience of a deposition subpoena described in Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.240 (discussed in § 193.34).

- If the deposition testimony will be conducted using instant visual display, a statement that it will be conducted in that manner [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.310(d)].

- If the deposition is to be recorded using audio or video technology by, or at the direction of, the noticing party under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340, a statement that it will be recorded in that manner [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.310(c), 2025.330(c)].

- If the deposition testimony will be recorded by stenographic method using instant visual display, a statement that it will be recorded in that manner [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.220(a)(5)].

- If the deponent is an organization, a description with reasonable particularity of the matters on which examination is requested and an advisement to the organization of its duty to make the designation of employees or agents who will attend described in Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.310(e) (discussed in § 193.21[3][b]).

[c] Service

The party noticing the deposition must effectuate service of the deposition subpoena on the nonparty deponent in advance of the deposition within a reasonable time to travel to the place of deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.220(a)].

Any person may serve the subpoena by personal delivery of a copy of it to the deponent if the deponent is a natural person. If the deponent is an organization, service may be by personal delivery of a copy of the subpoena to any officer, director, or custodian of records or to any agent or employee authorized by the organization to accept service of a subpoena [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.220(b)]. Service may be accompanied by payment of witness fees [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.230], as discussed in [d], below.

Personal service of any deposition subpoena is effective to require the personal attendance and testimony of any deponent who is a resident of California at the time of service or any production, inspection, testing, and sampling if the subpoena so specifies. Personal service is also effective to require that deponent's attendance at a court session to consider any issue arising out of the deponent's refusal to be sworn, to answer any questions, to produce specified items, or to permit inspection or specified testing and sampling of the items produced [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.220(c)].

If the party giving notice of the deposition fails to serve a required subpoena on a nonparty or non-party-affiliated deponent and, as a result, the deponent fails to appear for the deposition, any party who, in person or by attorney, attended the deposition at the specified time and place in theexpectation that the deponent's testimony would be taken should seek the imposition of a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a) against the noticing party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.440(a); see § 193.244].

[d] Witness Fees

If a deposition subpoena requires the personal attendance of the deponent, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.310 et seq. and 2020.510 et seq., the party noticing the deposition is required to pay to the deponent in cash or by check the same witness fee and mileage required by Gov. Code § 68070 et seq., for attendance and testimony before the court in which the action is pending. This payment, whether or not demanded by the deponent, must be made, at the option of the party noticing the deposition, either at the time of service of the deposition subpoena or at the time the deponent attends for the taking of testimony [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.230(a)].

[e] Location of Deposition

Unless the court orders otherwise [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260] or the witness otherwise agrees, the deposition of a witness being deposed as an individual (whether or not a party to the action) must take place within 75 miles of the deponent's residence, or within 150 miles of the deponent's residence, if the deposition is taken within the county of the court in which the action is pending [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.250(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.250(b)-(d) (deposition of organization)].

[2] Use of Form

The deposition subpoena set out in [1], above, is a reproduction of Cal. Judicial Council Form SUBP-020, adopted by the Judicial Council for mandatory use [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Appendix, Div. A]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

The form is analogous to a civil subpoena duces tecum, and is for use in requiring a nonparty witness to make a personal appearance and testify at a deposition and also to produce specified documents or other tangible things, or, if the nonparty witness is not a natural person, to designate one or more persons to appear on behalf of the witness to testify and produce the documents or things specified in the subpoena [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.010-2020.030, 2020.310, 2020.510, 2025.280(b); see also discussion in § 193.30 et seq.]. If the witness is a party, service of the deposition notice alone is sufficient to require attendance, testimony, and the production of specified documents or things [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.280(a)].

For separate forms for deposition subpoenas for use in requiring personal attendance and testimony only, or requiring only the production of business records without any personal appearance, see §§ 193.226 and § 193.228, expectively.

For a discussion and forms for subpoenas duces tecum generally, see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

[3] Deposition Subpoena

[a] Issuance

The clerk of the court in which the action is pending issues a signed and sealed deposition subpoena, but otherwise blank, to a party requesting it, who fills it in before service. In lieu of the court-issued deposition subpoena, an attorney of record for any party may sign and issue a deposition subpoena; the deposition subpoena in that case need not be sealed, and the attorney may retain the original and serve a copy on the nonparty witness [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.210].

[b] Contents: Deposition Subpoena Commanding Appearance and Production of Documents or Things

A deposition subpoena that commands both the attendance and testimony of the nonparty deponent, as well as the production of businessrecords, documents, and tangible things, is required to include the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.510(a)]:

- The content required to be included in a deposition subpoena commanding only personal appearance and testimony under Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.310 [see § 193.226[3][b]].

- A designation of the business records, documents, and tangible things to be produced either by specifically describing each individual item or by reasonably particularizing each category of item.

- A specification of any testing or sampling that is being sought.

The deposition subpoena need not be accompanied by an affidavit or declaration showing good cause for the production of the documents and things designated [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.510(b)].

[c] Subpoena for Production of Consumer or Employee Records

If the deposition subpoena commands the production of personal records of a consumer or the employment records of an employee, the subpoenaing party must serve that consumer or employee with a notice of privacy rights specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(e) and in Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6(e), as well as with a deposition notice and a copy of the deposition subpoena [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.240(b); see discussion in §§ 193.21[2] and 193.225[5]]. In addition, the deposition subpoena must be served on the deponent with either a proof of service on the consumer or employee of this notice of privacy rights or a written authorization by the consumer or employee to release the records [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.410(d), 2020.510(c), (d); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985.3(e), 1985.6(e); see also discussion in § 193.31[3]]. For forms for notices of privacy rights under Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(e) and Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6, see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

[d] Service

The party noticing the deposition must effectuate service of the deposition subpoena on the nonparty deponent in advance of the deposition within a time sufficient to provide the deponent with a reasonable opportunity to locate and produce any designated business records, documents, and tangible things as described in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.410-2020.440 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.220(a)].

Any person may serve the subpoena by personal delivery of a copy of it to the deponent if the deponent is a natural person. If the deponent is an organization, service may be by personal delivery of a copy of the subpoena to any officer, director, or custodian of records or to any agent or employee authorized by the organization to accept service of a subpoena [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.220(b)]. Service may be accompanied by payment of witness fees [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.230], as discussed in [e], below.

deponent who is a resident ofCalifornia at thetime of service or any production, inspection, testing, and sampling if the subpoena so specifies. Personal service is also effective to require that deponent's attendance at a court session to consider any issue arising out of the deponent's refusal to be sworn, to answer any questions, to produce specified items, or to permit inspection or photocopying, if the subpoena so specifies, or specified testing and sampling of the items produced [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.220(c)].

If the party giving notice of the deposition fails to serve a required subpoena on a nonparty or non-party-affiliated deponent and, as a result, the deponent fails to appear for the deposition, any party who, in person or by attorney, attended the deposition at the specified time and place in the expectation that the deponent's testimony would be taken should seek the imposition of a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a) against the noticing party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.440(a); see § 193.244].

[e] Witness Fees

If a deposition subpoena requires the personal attendance of the deponent, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.310 et seq. or 2020.510 et seq., the party noticing the deposition is required to pay to the deponent in cash or by check the same witness fee and mileage required by Gov. Code § 68070 et seq., for attendance and testimony before the court in which the action is pending. This payment, whether or not demanded by the deponent, must be made, at the option of the party noticing the deposition, either at the time of service of the deposition subpoena or at the time the deponent attends for the taking of testimony [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.230(a)].

[f] Location of Deposition

Unless the court orders otherwise [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.260] or the witness otherwise agrees, the deposition of a witness being deposed as an individual (whether or not a party to the action) must take place within 75 miles of the deponent's residence, or within 150 miles of the deponent's residence, if the deposition is taken within the county of the court in which the action is pending [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.250(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.250(b)-(d) (deposition of organization)].

[2] Use of Form

The deposition subpoena set out in [1], above, is reproduction of Cal. Judicial Council Form SUBP-010, adopted by the Judicial Council for mandatory use [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Appendix, Div. A]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

The form is for use in requiring a nonparty witness to produce business records designated in the subpoena for the purpose of copying or, alternatively, to provide the copies [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.010-2020.030, 2020.410-2020.440, 2020.510, 2025.280(b); Evid. Code § 1560 et seq.; see also discussion in § 193.32]. If the witness is a party, service of the deposition notice alone is sufficient to require attendance, testimony, and the production of specified records [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.280(a)].

For deposition subpoena forms for use in requiring personal attendance and testimony only, or requiring personal attendance as well as the production of documents or other things, see respectively §§ 193.226 and 193.227.

[3] Deposition Subpoena for Copying Business Records

[a] Contents

A deposition subpoena that commands only the production of business records for copying is directed to the custodian of those records or another person qualified to certify the records [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.410(c)].

The subpoena is required to designate the business records to be produced either by specifically describing each individual item or by reasonably particularizing each category of item. However, specific information identifiable only to the deponent's record system, such as a policy number or the date the consumer interacted with the witness, is not required [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.410(a), (b)]. The subpoena is also required to command compliance in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.430 within 20 days of issuance, or within 15 days after service, of the deposition subpoena, whichever date is later [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.410(c)]. As required by Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.430(d), the form includes a warning that the custodian must not deliver records before date and time specified.

For further discussion of requirements for producing and copying records in compliance with a deposition subpoena under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.410-2020.440, see § 193.32.

[b] Accompanying Papers

A deposition subpoena that commands only the production of business records for copying need not be accompanied by an affidavit or declaration showing good cause for the production of the designated business records [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.410(c)].

If the deposition subpoena commands the production of personal records of a consumer or an employee, the service of the deposition subpoena must be accompanied by either a copy of the proof of service of the notice required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(e), or Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.6(b), as applicable, or the consumer's written authorization for release [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.410(d); see § 193.31[3] and § 193.227[3][c]; see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985.3(l), 1985.6(k) (when notice to consumer or employee and delivery of documents specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(b) or 1985.6(b) is not required); Ch. 535, Subpoena].

[c] Service

A deposition subpoena that commands only the production of business records for copying is directed to the custodian of those records or another person qualified to certify the records [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.410(c)]. Because a copy of a deposition subpoena under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.410-2020.440 serves as the notice of deposition, copies must be served on every other party who has appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.220(b), 2025.240(a)].

The "deposition hold" specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210(b) applies to deposition subpoenas issued under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.410-2020.440. Thus, a plaintiff may not serve a nonparty witness with a deposition subpoena seeking discovery of business records before serving the summons and complaint on the only named defendant, and without notice of the deposition to any defendant [California Shellfish, Inc. v. United Shellfish Co. (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 16, 25, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 797 ; see § 193.20[1]].

For further discussion of service of a deposition subpoena, see §§ 193.226[3][c] and 193.227[3][d].

[d] Fees

A deposition subpoena that commands only the production of business records for copying must be accompanied, whether or not demanded by the deponent, by a payment by cash or by check of the witness fee required by Evid. Code § 1563(b)(6) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.230(b)].

If the custodian prepares a copy of the records, he or she will be entitled to receive payment in cash or by check for the reasonable costs of preparing that copy, as determined by Evid. Code § 1563, in addition to the witness fee [see Evid. Code § 1563(b)]. For further discussion of payment for reasonable costs, see the procedural checklist in § 193.180[4].

[2] Use of Form

The form of objection set out in [1], above, is for use by a party to serve a specific written objection to any error or irregularity in deposition notice that does not comply with the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.210-2025.270. This type of objection is waived absent timely service [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410; see discussion in [3], below]. For discussion of the deposition notice requirements of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.210-2025.270, see § 193.20 et seq. and § 193.225[2] -[5]. For further discussion of a written objection under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410, including its effect on subsequent use of the deposition, see § 193.23.

This form may served in conjunction with a motion for an order staying the taking of the deposition and quashing the deposition notice [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410 and the form of motion set out in § 193.230].

Objections to matters that technically comply with Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.210-2025.270, such as, for example, a request that the deposition be taken at a different time or place that is otherwise permissible, should be made by way of a motion for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420 [see § 193.232 et seq.].

[3] Service of Objection

The objection must be served promptly, and in no event less than three calendar days before the date for which the deposition is scheduled, or it is waived. If the objection is made three calendar days before the deposition date, the objecting party must make personal service of that objection, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1011, on the party who gave notice of the deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410(a), (b)].

A response to a deposition notice may not be filed with the court, unless offered as relevant to a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause. Instead, the responding party retains the original and the original proof of service until six months after final disposition of the cause, unless otherwise ordered by the court for cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(3), (b)].

To _____ [identify party, e.g., defendant] _____ [name] and to his/her attorney of record:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____, [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], _____ [identify party, e.g., plaintiff] will, and hereby does, move for an order that the deposition of _____ [name] be stayed and that the notice of the taking of that deposition be quashed, and will further move for the imposition of a monetary sanction against _____ [identify opposing party and/or his/her attorney, e.g, defendant _____ (name) and his/her attorney _____ (name)] in the amount of $_____. The motion for stay and to quash will be made on the ground that _____ [specify, e.g., the deposition notice, attached hereto as Exhibit A, contains errors and irregularities (, as described in the written objection that was timely served on the parties and is attached hereto as Exhibit B,) which warrant the quashing of the notice and which the _____ (identify party noticing deposition, e.g., defendant), who noticed the deposition, has failed to correct].

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, on the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)] and the memorandum served and filed herewith, on the records and file herein, and on such evidence as may be presented at the hearing of the motion.
Dated: _____.

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name]

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for _____ (specify party, e.g., plaintiff) in the above-described action].

2. _____ [Identify moving party, e.g., Plaintiff] _____ [name] is seeking an order of this court that the taking of the deposition of _____ [name] be stayed and that the notice of the taking of the deposition of _____ [name] be quashed.

3. On _____, [date], _____ [identify party noticing deposition, e.g., defendant] served a notice to take the deposition of _____ [name] on _____, [date], at _____ [place]. A true and correct copy of this notice is attached as Exhibit _____ to the motion of _____ [identify moving party, e.g., plaintiff] for an order staying the taking of the deposition and quashing the deposition notice and made a part hereof.

[4. On _____, [date], _____ (identify moving party, e.g., plaintiff) timely served a written objection to the deposition notice on _____ (identify party noticing deposition, e.g., defendant) (and on all other parties or their attorneys on whom the deposition notice was served). A true and correct copy of this objection is attached as Exhibit _____ to the motion of _____ (identify moving party, e.g., plaintiff) for an order staying the taking of the deposition and quashing the deposition notice and made a part hereof.]

5. The motion of _____ [identify moving party, e.g., plaintiff] for an order staying the taking of the deposition and quashing the deposition notice should be granted for the following reasons: _____ [set forth specific facts personally known to declarant showing that errors or irregularities objected to have not been corrected].

6. _____ [Provide statement of facts showing reasonable and good faith attempt to resolve informally issues presented by motion, including description of conferring or attempting to confer with other parties in person, by telephone, or by letter].

7. _____ [Identify moving party, e.g., Plaintiff] has incurred expenses as follows in making this motion: _____ [itemize reasonable expenses incurred, including attorney's fees, and explain basis of computing each expense], for a total of $_____.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

[2] Use of Form

The form of notice of motion and motion set out in [1], above, is for use by a party to move for an order staying the taking of a deposition and quashing the deposition notice, and for imposition of a monetary sanction [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410; see § 193.23 and § 193.229[2],[3]]. The motion is made before the court in which the action is pending [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.020(b)].

The supporting declaration must include facts showing that the moving party unsuccessfully attempted, reasonably and in good faith, to resolve informally any issue presented by the motion (Paragraph 6 of Supporting Declaration) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410(c)]. The declaration must also set forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought (Paragraph 7 of Supporting Declaration) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040].

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with the notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; see also discussion and forms in Ch. 417, Points and Authorities]. For memoranda relating to a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 83, Discovery: Depositions (Matthew Bender). For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 193.220[4].

[3] Notice

Although Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410 does not specifically require that the foregoing motion be noticed, the imposition of a monetary sanction requires notice and an opportunity for hearing [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030; see discussion in [4], below].

[4] Monetary Sanctions

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410, the court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to quash a deposition notice, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410(d); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a) (monetary sanction)].

Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010(i), 2023.020, the court is required to impose a monetary sanction against any party or attorney who fails to confer in an at tempt to resolve informally any dispute concerning discovery, in favor of anyone who incurs expenses, including attorney's fees, as a result of that conduct, when the section of the Civil Discovery Act governing a particular discovery motion requires a declaration showing that an attempt has been made. This sanction is to be imposed regardless of the outcome of the particular discovery motion [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010(i), 2023.020].

A monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 is an order that one who engaged in a misuse of the discovery process or any attorney advising that conduct, or both, pay the reasonable expenses, including attorney fees, incurred by anyone as a result of that conduct [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a)].

A monetary sanction may only be imposed after notice to any affected party, person, or attorney, and after opportunity for hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030].

A request for a sanction must, in the notice of motion, identify every party, person, and attorney against whom the sanction is sought, and specify the type of sanction sought. The notice of motion must be supported by a memorandum, and accompanied by adeclaration setting forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040].

For further discussion of monetary sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

DECLARATION

I _____ [name of attorney], declare:

I am an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for _____ [identify moving party or person, e.g., defendant] _____ [name].

The deposition of _____ [name] has been noticed for taking by _____ [identify party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] on _____, [date], at _____ [time] A copy of this notice is attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part hereof.

A motion by _____ [identify party or person seeking protective order, e.g., defendant] _____ [name] for a protective order _____ [specify nature of order sought, e.g., limiting the scope of the examination of _____ (name of deponent)] has been set for hearing by this court on _____, [date].

_____ [Specify facts showing that moving party or person informed opposing party of intent to apply for order, attempt to so inform opposing party, or reasons why moving party or person should be excused from such attempt, e.g. On _____, [date], I requested that _____ (name), counsel for _____ (identify party noticing deposition, e.g., plaintiff) _____ (name), stipulate that the above-described deposition be stayed pending the hearing and determination of the above-described motion for a protective order, but he/she refused to enter into that stipulation. I then informed him/her that I would apply for an ex parte order staying the deposition until the hearing and determination of the motion for a protective order].

There is good cause for granting this application in that _____ [specify facts showing good cause].

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

DECLARATION RE NOTICE

[Add declaration concerning notice given to other parties or why notice should not be required. If notice was provided later than 10:00 a.m. the court day before the ex parte appearance, explain exceptional circumstances that justify shorter notice. See discussion in Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions, § 193.221[3][b].]

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

[Add memorandum supporting motion.]

ORDER STAYING DEPOSITION
[Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270]

Proof having been made to the satisfaction of the court, and good cause appearing therefor,

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the deposition of _____ [name] set on notice to be taken on _____, [date], be and hereby is stayed and may not be taken, if at all, until after the determination of _____ [identify moving party or person, e.g., defendant] _____'s [name] motion for a protective order which is set for hearing on _____, [date].
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The form of application for ex parte order set out in [1], above, includes a supporting declaration and a place for inserting the supporting memorandum. It also includes a proposed order granting the application. It is for use by a party or a deponent who has filed or is concurrently filing a motion for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420 prior to the taking of the deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.270; see § 193.233]. The form should be presented to the judge of the court in which the action is pending [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.020(b)] for his or her signature on the portion of the form which constitutes the order staying the deposition.

The declaration regarding the notice must state, as applicable [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(b)]:

- The notice given, including the date, time, manner, and name of the party informed, the relief sought, any response, and whether opposition is expected and that, within the applicable time under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1203, the applicant informed the opposing party where and when the application would be made;

- That the applicant in good faith attempted to inform the opposing party but was unable to do so, specifying the efforts made to inform the opposing party; or

- That, for reasons specified, the applicant should not be required to inform the opposing party.

A party seeking an ex parte order must notify all parties [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1203(a)]. Notice must be given no later than 10:00 a.m. the court day before the ex parte appearance, absent a showing of exceptional circumstances that justify a shorter time for notice [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1203(a); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1203(b) (time of notice in unlawful detainer proceedings)]. However, if the applicant fails to comply with the requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1203, the clerk must not reject an ex parte application for filing and must promptly present the application to the appropriate judicial officer for consideration [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1205].

For more detailed discussion of the requirements applicable to ex parte applications under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1200-3.1207, including discussion of required contents of the application and supporting declarations, other accompanying, service, and appearance, see § 193.221[3].

Instead of applying for an ex parte order staying the deposition as provided for in this form, the party filing the notice of motion for protective order might also present the court with an ex parte application for an order shortening the time for the notice of the motion for a protective order to allow the court to hear the motion before the deposition. However, counsel should consult local court rules and procedures for requirements.

[2] Use of Form

The form of notice of motion and motion set out in [1], above, is for use by any party, deponent, or other affected natural person or organization, to obtain a protective order before, during, or after a deposition, and to impose a monetary sanction against any party, person, or attorney opposing the motion. The motion must be brought "promptly" [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420]. For a form of ex parte application to stay the taking of a deposition pending determination of a motion for a protective order, see § 193.232. If the deposition is already in progress, a party or deponent may either bring a motion for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470 [§ 193.236], or may combine that motion with this form, to seek a protective order under both Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.420 and2025.470. The motion is made before the court in which the action is pending [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.020(b)].

Requests for the specific protective orders authorized under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420 are set out in § 193.234, and may be inserted in line eight of the first paragraph of the notice of motion in this form, in accordance with the instruction to specify the order being sought [see also § 193.265 (forms of clauses for use when protective order is sought in context of deposition on written questions)].

The motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion (Paragraph 4 of Supporting Declaration) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420]. It must also be accompanied by a declaration setting forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought (Paragraph 5 of Supporting Declaration) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040].

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with the notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; see also discussion and forms in Ch. 417, Points and Authorities]. For memoranda relating to protective orders, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 83, Discovery: Depositions (Matthew Bender).

For further discussion of protective orders, see § 193.50 et seq. For a procedural checklist to be used when seeking a protective order, see § 193.182. For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 193.220[4].

[3] Notice

Although Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420 does not specifically require notice to be given of the foregoing motion, notice of a motion for the imposition of a monetary sanction pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a) and opportunity for hearing must be given to any affected party, person, or attorney [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030; see also discussion in [4], below].

[4] Monetary Sanctions

The court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes the motion, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(d)]. For further discussion of monetary sanctions, see § 193.230[4] [see also Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2]].

[5] Court's Discretion to Order That Which Justice Requires

On a showing of good cause, the court may make any order that justice requires to protect any party, deponent, or other natural person or organization from unwarranted annoyance, embarrassment, or oppression, or undue burden and expense. If the court denies the motion in whole or in part, it may nevertheless order that the deponent provide or permit the discovery against which protection was sought on those terms and conditions that are just [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420]. For further discussion see § 193.50 et seq. For clauses illustrating the types of orders that may be granted, see § 193.234[1].

For discussion and forms relating to procedure for obtaining or restricting discovery of defendant's financial condition for purposes of claim for punitive damages, see Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.40 et seq. [see also Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations, § 191.129].

[2] Use of Form

The clauses set out in [1], above, are adapted from the list of protective orders expressly enumerated in Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420, and are intended to be inserted, when appropriate, in the first paragraph of the notice of motion for a protective order set out in § 193.233[1], in accordance with the instruction in that form to specify the order requested. Note that a protective order is not limited to those expressly enumerated [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420]. For further discussion of the orders enumerated in Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420, see § 193.52. With regard to protective orders relating to trade secret disclosures, see also discussion Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations, § 191.82.

[2] Use of Form

The form of notice of motion and motion set out in [1], above, is for use by a party or other deponent in obtaining an order limiting or terminating a deposition on oral examination that is currently in progress, on theground that it is being conducted in bad faith or in a manner that unreasonably annoys, embarrrasses, or oppresses the party or deponent, and an order imposing a monetary sanction against any party, person, or attorney opposing the motion. The deposition officer must suspend the taking of testimony on stipulation of all parties present, or if any party attending the deposition, including the deponent, demands that the deposition officer suspend taking the testimony pending determination of the motion [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470]. For further discussion, see § 193.45. The motion is made before the court in which the action is pending [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.020(b)].

The court may limit the scope and manner of the taking of the deposition as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470]. If good cause also exists for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420, counsel may combine this form with those set out in §§ 193.233 and 193.234 to bring a motion under both Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.420 and 2025.470.

The motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion (Paragraph 5 of Supporting Declaration) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470(a)]. It must also be accompanied by a declaration setting forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought (Paragraph 6 of Supporting Declaration) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040].

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with the notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; see also discussion and forms in Ch. 417, Points and Authorities]. For memoranda in support of motions for orders limiting or terminating depositions which have begun, see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 83, Discovery: Depositions (Matthew Bender).

For further discussion of protective orders, see § 193.50 et seq. For a procedural checklist to be used when seeking a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470, see § 193.183. For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 193.220[4].

[3] Notice

Although Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.470 does not specifically require notice to be given of the foregoing motion, notice of a motion for the imposition of a monetary sanction pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a) and opportunity for hearing must be given to any affected party, person, or attorney [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030; see discussion in [4], below].

[4] Monetary Sanctions

The court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes the motion, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.420(d); for further discussion of these general provision, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]].

For more detailed discussion of monetary sanctions, including requirements generally applicable in proceedings to impose such sanctions, see § 193.230[4] and Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

[5] Transcript

The moving party should be sure that the original transcript of the deposition proceedings is filed with the court prior to the hearing of the motion.

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

[Add memorandum supporting motion.]

Respectfully submitted,
_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [party's status and name]

[2] Use of Form

The notice of motion and motion set out in [1], above, is for use by a party noticing a deposition to compel the attendance and testimony of, and production of documents and tangible things by, a party deponent, a party-affiliated deponent, or a deponent designated by a party deponent organization under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.230, who, in the absence of a valid objection to the deposition notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.410, has failed to appear and proceed or produce as specified in the deposition notice. It is also for use to obtain an order, if the motion to compel is granted, imposing a monetary sanction against the party deponent or the party with whom the deponent is affiliated, against the attorney for either the party deponent or the party with whom the deponent is affiliated, if the attorney advised the conduct, or both [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.030(a), 2025.450]. With appropriate modifications, the form may also be used by a party other than the one who served notice of the deposition, to obtain an order imposing a monetary sanction only against the party deponent or the party with whom the deponent is affiliated, on the ground that the moving party incurred expenses in attending the deposition at which the deponent failed to attend or produce items [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450]. For further discussion, see [5], below, and § 193.60[1].

The motion is made before the court in which the action is pending [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.020(b)].

The motion must set forth specific facts showing good cause justifying the production for inspection of any document or tangible thing, if any, described in the deposition notice (Paragraph 7 of Supporting Declaration) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(b)(1)].

The motion also must be accompanied by a declaration showing that the moving party unsuccessfully attempted, reasonably and in good faith, to informally resolve each issue presented by the motion or, if the deponent failed to attend the deposition and produce the documents or things described in the deposition notice, showing that the petitioner has contacted the deponent to inquire about the nonappearance (Paragraph 8 of Supporting Declaration), as well as by a declaration setting forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought (Paragraph 9 of Supporting Declaration) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450]. If the deponent failed to appear but there were also efforts made to resolve the issues, then counsel may wish to include both the statement regarding nonappearance and a description of those efforts [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(b)(2)]. One court has held that implicit in the requirement of Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(b)(2) that counsel contact the deponent about a nonappearance is the requirement that counsel listen to the reasons offered and make a good faith attempt to resolve the issue. Accordingly, either declaration submitted with a motion to compel under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(j)(3)(B) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(b)(2)) must show a reasonable and good faith attempt to resolve each issue presented, including those relating to a nonappearance [Blago Leko v. Cornerstone Home Inspection (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1109, 1124, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 858 (attorney sanctioned under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023(a)(3) (now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010(c), (i), 2023.020) for improperly filing motion to compel attendance when attorney completely disregarded his obligation to attempt to informally resolve discovery issue)]. Thus, if the deponent fails to appear, it appears that the better, if not the required, practice is to make a good faith effort to resolve the issue, and to include a description of those efforts in the supporting declaration [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(b)(2)].

A supporting memorandum must be served and filed with the notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; see also discussion and formsin Ch. 417, Points and Authorities]. For memoranda relating to a motion to compel under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450, see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 83, Discovery: Depositions . (Matthew Bender).

For further discussion of motions to compel, see § 193.60 et seq. For a procedural checklist to be used when seeking an order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450, see § 193.172. For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 193.220[4].

[3] Separate Statement

A motion to compel answers to questions propounded at a deposition or to compel the production of documents or tangible things at a deposition must be accompanied by a separate statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(4), (5)]. This is a separate document filed and served with the motion that sets out all the information necessary to understand all the questions and responses that are in issue [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]. For a form for the separate statement, together with further discussion of its requirements, see § 193.239. A separate statement is required expressly to support motions seeking further response to a discovery request, that is, when a response has been made but is deemed insufficient. It is not required when "no response has been provided to the request for discovery" [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(b)]. It appears, therefore, that no separate statement is required to accompany a motion to compel under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450, at least in those instances in which the deponent has made no response, through a complete failure to appear, proceed, or produce items. The notice of motion in [1], above, includes optional language indicating that a separate statement is among the papers on which the motion is to be based, for use when there has been some response, but the response is coupled with a categorical failure to respond, for example, when the deponent appeared, but failed to produce any documents or things, or refused to proceed. For a motion to compel a further response in relation to individual questions or items to be produced, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480, see § 193.241.

[4] Notice

Although Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450 does not specifically require that this motion be noticed, the imposition of a monetary sanction requires notice and an opportunity for hearing [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030; see discussion in [5], below].

[5] Monetary Sanctions

If the motion to compel is granted, the court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against the deponent or the party with whom the deponent is affiliated, unless the court finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust. The court also must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a), on motion of any other party who, in person or by attorney, attended at the time and place specified in the deposition notice in the expectation that the deponent's testimony would be taken, unless the court finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450; for further discussion of these general provision, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]].

The court may award sanctions in favor of a party who files a motion to compel discovery, even though no opposition to the motion was filed, or opposition to the motion was withdrawn, or the requested discovery was provided to the moving party after the motion was filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(a)]. However, the court may not deem the opposing party's failure to file written opposition, failure to appear at a hearing, or voluntary provision discovery to be an admission that the motion was proper or that sanctions should be awarded [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(b)].

For more detailed discussion of monetary sanctions, including requirements generally applicable in proceedings to impose such sanctions, see § 193.230[4] and Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

[2] Use of Form

The separate statement set out in [1], above, must accompany any motion, such as that set out in § 193.238, to compel a deponent to testify or produce documents or other things at a deposition [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(4),(5)].

[3] Contents of Separate Statement

Any motion involving the content of a discovery request or the responses to such a request must be accompanied by a separate statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)]. The motions that require a separate statement include a motion to compel answers at a deposition [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(4)] and one to compel or quash the production of documents or tangible things at a deposition [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(5)]. A separate statement is not required, however, when no response has been provided to the request for discovery [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345 (b)]. Thus, this statement would not be necessary when a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450 seeks to compel attendence by a deponent who failed completely to appear and testify or produce things.

This separate statement is a separate document filed and served with the motion. It must set forth all the information necessary to understand each discovery request (in this instance a request to appear and testify and/or produce items) and all the responses to it that are at issue [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]. It must be full and complete, so that no personis required to review any other document in order to determine the full request and the full response. Material may not be incorporated into the separate statement by reference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)].

The separate statement must include, for each discovery request to which a further response is requested, the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345 (c)]:

- The text of the request, and the text of each response, answer, or objection, and any further responses or answers [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(1), (2)].

- A statement of the factual and legal reasons for compelling further responses, answers, or production as to each matter in dispute [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(3)].

- If necessary, the text of all definitions, instructions, and other matters required to understand each discovery request and the responses to it [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(4)].

- If the response to a particular discovery request is dependent on the response given to another discovery request, or if the reasons a further response to a particular discovery request is deemed necessary are based on the response to some other discovery request, the other request and the response to it must be set forth [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(5)].

- If the pleadings, other documents in the file, or other items of discovery are relevant to the motion, a summary of each relevant document by the party relying on the document [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(6)].

The primary function of the separate statement appears to be that of providing a summary, in a single document, of all matters, taken from all pleadings and all other papers, that may be necessary to determine the motion. By including a statement of the factual and legal reasons for compelling further responses to each matter in dispute [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(3)], it appears that a separate statement, when required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c), also serves the same function as the supporting memorandum [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(b) (memorandum consists of statement of facts and statement of law, evidence and argument, discussing the statutes, cases, and textbooks cited as support)].

[2] Use of Form

The proposed order set out in [1], above, is for use when the court has granted or denied a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450 for an order compelling the attendance and testimony of, and production of documents and tangible things by, a party or party-affiliated deponent who has failed to appear and proceed or to produce as specified in the deposition notice, and has ordered that a monetary sanction be, or not be, imposed on that party deponent or the party with whom that deponent is affiliated [see § 193.238].

If the deponent fails to obey an order compelling attendance, testimony, or production of items under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450, the court may make a further order imposing an issue, evidence, or terminating sanctions, or a monetary sanction in lieu of or in addition to these sanctions [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450(d)]. For further discussion of these sanctions and forms for use in seeking them following a failure to obey an order compelling discovery, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[3], 192.15[3], and 192.50 et seq.

[2] Use of Form

The notice of motion and motion set out in [1], above, is for use by the party seeking discovery to obtain an order compelling a deponent to answer questions at a deposition and/or produce documents and other tangible things under the deponent's control as specified in the deposition notice or subpoena, and an order imposing a monetary sanction against any party, person, or attorney opposing the motion. The motion must be made no later than 60 days after the completion of the record of the deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480; for further discussion, see § 193.60[2]]. It is to be made before the court in which the action is pending [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.020(b)]. The 60-day period for filing a motion to compel under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(b) applies to subpoenas for business records, as well as to subpoenas for oral or written depositions. The deadline is mandatory [Unzipped Apparel, LLC v. Bader (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 123, 132-135, 67 Cal. Rptr. 3d 111].

A supporting declaration must include facts showing that the moving party unsuccessfully attempted, reasonably and in good faith, to resolve informally each issue presented by the motion (Paragraph 11 of Supporting Declaration). It must also set forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought (Paragraph 12 of Supporting Declaration) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040].

A supporting memorandum must be served and filed with this notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; see also discussion and forms in Ch. 417, Points and Authorities]. For memoranda relating to a motion to compel under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480, see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 83, Discovery: Depositions . (Matthew Bender).

For further discussion of motions to compel, see § 193.60 et seq. For a procedural checklist to be used when seeking an order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480, see § 193.172. For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 193.220[4].

[3] Separate Statement

A motion to compel answers to questions propounded at a deposition or to compel the production of documents or tangible things at a deposition must be accompanied by a separate statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(4), (5)]. This is a separate document filed and served with the motion that sets out all the information necessary to understand all the questions and responses that are in issue [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]. For a form for this separate statement, together with further discussion of its requirements, see § 193.242.

[4] Notice

Notice of the motion must be given to all parties. In addition, notice of motion must be given to the deponent, either orally at the examination or by subsequent service in writing [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(c)]; see Parker v. Wolters Kluwer United States, Inc. (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 285, 295-296, 57 Cal. Rptr. 3d 18 (fact that opposing counsel, not deposition officer, gave plaintiff oral notice of motion to compel and directed his attendance was harmless error, because plaintiff clearly heard and understood notice and responded he would not be there)]. If the notice of the motion is given orally, the deposition officer must direct the deponent to attend a session of the court at the time specified in the notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(c)]. If notice to a nonparty deponent is given in writing, the written notice and all moving papers supporting the motion must be personally served on the nonparty deponent unless that deponent agrees to accept service by mail at an address specified on the deposition record [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1346].

When the motion includes a request for the imposition of a monetary sanction pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030, notice and opportunity for hearing must be given to any affected party, person, or attorney [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030; see discussion in [6], below].

[5] Lodging Transcript With Court

Not less than five days prior to the hearing on the motion, the moving party must lodge with the court a certified copy of any parts of the stenographic transcript of the deposition that are relevant to the motion. If a deposition is recorded by audio or video technology, the moving party is required to lodge a certified copy of a transcript of any parts of the deposition that are relevant to the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(d)]. Counsel may wish to attach copies of the pertinent pages of the deposition as exhibits to the above form; unless a large number of pages is involved, this method provides the court with more convenient access to the relevant portions of the deposition.

[6] Monetary Sanctions

The court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes the motion, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(f); for further discussion of this general provision, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]].

The court may award sanctions in favor of a party who files a motion to compel discovery, even though no opposition to the motion was filed, or opposition to the motion was withdrawn, or the requested discovery was provided to the moving party after the motion was filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(a)]. The court may not, however, deem the opposing party's failure to file written opposition, failure to appear at a hearing, or voluntary provision discovery to be an admission that the motion was proper or that sanctions should be awarded [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(b)].

For more detailed discussion of monetary sanctions generally, including requirements generally applicable in proceedings to impose such sanctions, see § 193.230[4] and Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

This separate statement is submitted in support of the motion by _____ [identify moving party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] to compel _____ [specify party from whom testimony and/or production is sought, e.g., defendant] _____ [name] to answer questions or produce documents or things specified in the deposition notice. As required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345, it provides information relating to the discovery request and the responses at issue in the motion, as follows:

1. Text of Question: _____ [specify text of question].

2. Text of Response(s): _____ [specify text of response].

3. Related Definitions and Instructions: _____ (specify, if necessary, the text of all definitions, instructions, and other matters required to understand the specific question and the response to it.)]

4. Related Requests and Responses: _____ (if the response to the specific discovery request is dependent on the response given to another discovery request, or if the reasons a further response is deemed necessary are based on the response to some other discovery request, specify the text of the other request and the reponse to it.)]

[2] Use of Form

The separate statement set out in [1], above, must accompany a motion, such as that set out in § 193.241, to compel a deponent to testify or produce documents or other things at a deposition [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(4), (5)].

[3] Contents of Separate Statement

Any motion involving the content of a discovery request or the responses to such a request must be accompanied by a separate statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)]. The motions that require a separate statement include a motion to compel answers at a deposition [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(4)] and one to compel or quash the production of documents or tangible things at a deposition [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(5)]. A separate statement is not required when no response has been provided to the request for discovery [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(b)].

This separate statement is a separate document filed and served with the motion. It must set forth all the information necessary to understand each discovery request (in this instance each question at a deposition or item to be produced at a deposition) and all the responses to it that areat issue [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]. It must be full and complete, so that no person is required to review any other document in order to determine the full request and the full response. Material may not be incorporated into the separate statement by reference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)].

The separate statement must include, for each discovery request to which a further response is requested, the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]:

- The text of the request, and the text of each response, answer, or objection, and any further responses or answers [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(1), (2)].

- A statement of the factual and legal reasons for compelling further responses, answers, or production as to each matter in dispute [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(3)].

- If necessary, the text of all definitions, instructions, and other matters required to understand each discovery request and the responses to it [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(4)].

- If the response to a particular discovery request is dependent on the response given to another discovery request, or if the reasons a further response to a particular discovery request is deemed necessary are based on the response to some other discovery request, the other request and the response to it must be set forth [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(5)].

- If the pleadings, other documents in the file, or other items of discovery are relevant to the motion, a summary of each relevant document by the party relying on the document [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(6)].

The primary function of the separate statement appears to be that of providing a summary, in a single document, of all matters, taken from all pleadings and all other papers, that may be necessary to determine the motion. By including a statement of the factual and legal reasons for compelling further responses to each matter in dispute [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(3)], it appears that a separate statement, when required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c), also serves the same function as the supporting memorandum [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(b) (memorandum consists of statement of facts and statement of law, evidence and argument, discussing the statutes, cases, and textbooks cited as support)].

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The proposed order set out in [1], above, is for use when the court has granted or denied a motion by the party seeking discovery to compel a deponent to answer questions at a deposition, to produce documents and other tangible things under the deponent's control as specified in the deposition notice or subpoena, or both, and has ordered that a monetary sanction be, or not be, imposed against the losing party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480; see § 193.241].

In the event that the deponent fails to obey an order compelling responses under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480, the court may impose a contempt sanction. If the deponent is a party or party-affiliated, it may also make a further order imposing an issue, evidence, or terminating sanctions, or a monetary sanction in lieu of or in addition to these sanctions [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.480(g)]. For further discussion of these sanctions and forms for use in seeking them following a failure to obey an order compelling discovery, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[3], [4], 192.15[3], [4], 192.50 et seq., and 192.60 et seq.

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name]

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for _____ (identify party, e.g., defendant) in the above-described action].

2. _____ [Identify moving party, e.g., Defendant] _____ [name] is seeking an order of this court to impose a monetary sanction on _____ [identify party who served deposition notice and/or his/her attorney, e.g., plaintiff _____ (name) and his/her attorney _____ (name)], and in favor of _____ [identify moving party, e.g., defendant], to pay to _____ [identify moving party, e.g., defendant] the reasonable expenses, including reasonable attorney's fees, incurred by him/her in attending the scheduled deposition of _____ [name] at the time and place stated in the notice of deposition.

3. On _____, [date], _____ [identify party who served deposition notice, e.g., plaintiff] served _____ [identify moving party, e.g., defendant] with a notice of the taking of the deposition of _____ [name] on _____, [date], at _____ [time], at _____ [place]. A true copy of this notice is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

4. On _____, [date], at _____ [time], _____ [identify moving party or other person attending deposition, e.g., I, as attorney for defendant _____ (name),] appeared at _____ [place] for the taking of the deposition of _____ [name], as specified in the deposition notice, in the expectation that the testimony of the deponent, _____ [name] would be taken.

[EITHER, if party noticing deposition did not appear and proceed]

5. The deposition did not proceed as specified in the deposition notice, because neither _____ [identify party who served deposition notice, e.g., plaintiff] nor his/her attorney attended the deposition at the specified time and place.

[OR, if party noticing deposition failed to serve deponent with deposition subpoena]

5. The deposition did not proceed as specified in the deposition notice, because _____ [name of deponent], who is neither a party to the action nor affiliated with a party to the action, failed to appear at the specified time and place, never having been properly served by _____ [identify party who served deposition notice, e.g., plaintiff] with a deposition subpoena as shown by _____ [state facts showing that deponent was never properly served with deposition subpoena, such as, that a copy of deposition subpoena was not served to moving party with deposition notice, and any other facts known to declarant].

[CONTINUE]

6. [2] Use of Form

The form of notice of motion and motion set out in [1], above, is for use by a party to obtain an order imposing a monetary sanction against the party who served the deposition notice, or the attorney for that party, or both, for that party's failure to appear or proceed with the deposition, or for his or her failure to insure the appearance of a nonparty deponent by serving a deposition subpoena [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.430, 2025.440]. For further discussion, see § 193.61[1].

This form may be used, with appropriate modifications, by a party other than the party who noticed the deposition notice, to impose a monetary sanction against a party deponent who failed to appear at, proceed with, or produce items at a deposition as required by the deposition notice, when the moving party attended in the expectation that the deponent's testimony would be taken [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.030(a), 2025.450]. For further discussion, see § 193.60[1].

The motion is made before the court in which the action is pending [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.020(b), 2025.430-2025.450].

The imposition of a monetary sanction is designed to enable the moving party to recover reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, incurred as a result of the opposing party's conduct [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a); see discussion in § 193.230[4], see also Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2]]. Therefore, the supporting declaration must state facts supporting the amount of the sanction sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040]; this amount should equal the expenses incurred by the moving party (Paragraph 6 of Supporting Declaration).

A supporting memorandum of is required to be served and filed with the foregoing notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; see also discussion and forms in Ch. 417, Points and Authorities]. For memoranda relating to a motion to compel under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.430 or 2025.440, see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 83, Discovery: Depositions . (Matthew Bender).

For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 193.220[4].

[3] Notice

Notice of a motion for the imposition of a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a) and opportunity for hearing must be given to any affected party, person, or attorney [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.030, 2023.040].

[2] Use of Form

The form of proposed order set out in [1], above, is for use when the court grants or denies a motion for the imposition of a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.430 or 2025.440 [see § 193.244].

With appropriate modifications, it may be used when the court grants a motion for the imposition of a monetary sanction against a party deponent, or the party with whom the deponent is affiliated, under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.450.

The court is required to grant a motion for the imposition of a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.440(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a)].

[2] Use of Form

The form of notice of motion and motion set out in [1], above, is for use by a party to obtain an order suppressing a deposition, and an order imposing a monetary sanction against any party, person, or attorney opposing the motion, when the deponent has failed or refused to approve the transcript [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.520] or has refused to sign a paper identifying a recording of a deposition as his or her deposition [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.530]. The motion is made before the court in which the action is pending [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.020(b), 2025.520, 2025.530].

The supporting declaration must include facts showing that the moving party unsuccessfully attempted reasonably and in good faith, to resolve informally each issue presented by the motion (Paragraph 5 of Supporting Declaration) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.520(g), 2025.530(e)]. It must also be accompanied by a declaration setting forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought (Paragraph 6 of Supporting Declaration) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040].

For further discussion of a motion to suppress, see § 193.74.

A memorandum of points and authorities is required to be served and filed with the foregoing notice of motion. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 193.220[4].

[3] Notice

Although Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.520 and 2025.530 do not specifically require notice to be given of this motion, notice of a motion for the imposition of a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a) and opportunity for hearing must be given to any affected party, person, or attorney [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.030, 2023.040; see discussion in [4], below].

[4] Monetary Sanctions

The court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes the motion, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.520(h), 2025.530(f)]. For further discussion of monetary sanctions, see § 193.230[4] [see also Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2]].

[2] Use of Form

The form of objection set out in [1], above, is for use by a party in submitting specific objections to written questions pursuant, either to the form of the question [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.040], or on the ground that it calls for privileged information or protected work product [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.050].

An objection not timely served is waived [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2028.040(a), 2028.050(a)]. For further discussion concerning service of an objection and the subsequent procedures for sustaining or overruling an objection, see § 193.104. For a form of motion to sustain or to overrule an objection, see § 193.263.

[2] Use of Form

The form of notice of motion and motion set out in [1], above, is for use by a party in bringing a motion to sustain or overrule an objection to a question to be propounded at a written deposition on direct, cross, redirect, or recross examination. The form is also for use in requesting the imposition of a monetary sanction against any party, person, or attorney unsuccessfully opposing the motion [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2028.040(c), 2028.050(c)].

If the objection is to the form of the question, it is the responsibility of the objecting party to move promptly for the court to sustain it; unless sustained, the question is propounded subject to the objection [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.040(b)]. On the other hand, if the objection is on the ground that the question calls for privileged information or protected work product, it is the responsibility of the party propounding the question to move for the court to overrule it; unless overruled, the question cannot be propounded [Code Civ. Proc. § 2028.050(b)]. For further discussion, see § 193.104.

The supporting declaration must state facts showing that the moving party made a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of any issue presented by the objection and motion (Paragraph 5 of Supporting Declaration). It must also be accompanied by a declaration setting forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought (Paragraph 6 of Supporting Declaration) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040].

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with the notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; see also discussion and forms in Ch. 417, Points and Authorities].

For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 193.220[4].

[3] Notice

Although Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2028.040 and 2028.050 do not specifically require notice to be given of the foregoing motion, notice of a motion for the imposition of a monetary sanction pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a) and opportunity for hearing must be given to any affected party, person, or attorney [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030; see discussion in [4], below].

[4] Monetary Sanctions

The court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes the motion, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2028.040, 2028.050]. For further discussion of monetary sanctions, see § 193.230[4] [see also Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2]].

[2] Use of Form

The form of notice of motion and motion set out in [1], above, is for use by a party to obtain issuance of a commission, letters rogatory, or a letter of request for the purpose of taking a deposition outside of California for use in a California action [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2026.010(f), 2027.010(e)].

If the party seeks to take a deposition in another state, territory, or possession of the United States, he or she may obtain issuance of a commission only [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2026.010(f)]. If, however, the party seeks to take a deposition in a foreign nation, he or she may obtain issuance of a commission, letters rogatory, or letter of request [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2027.010(e)]. For further discussion, see § 193.123.

There does not appear to be any statutory requirement that the deponent be a material witness. However, counsel may wish to include the bracketed language concerning materiality in Paragraph 6 in this form of declaration, as various court forms of commissions include that language [see, e.g., court forms from Los Angeles County Superior Court and San Diego County Superior Court].

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with the notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; see also discussion and forms in Ch. 417, Points and Authorities].

For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 193.220[4].

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The form of proposed order set out in [1], above, is for use when the court has granted a motion by a party noticing a deposition, for issuance of a commission, letters rogatory, or a letter of request to take the deposition outside of California for use in an action in California [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2026.010(f), 2027.010(e) and § 193.270].

For depositions to be conducted in the United States or its territories, but outside California, a commission is issued by the clerk on the request of a party, without a court order; however, if a court order is required by a foreign jurisdiction, it may be obtained by ex parte application [Code Civ. Proc. § 2026.010(f)].

For depositions in foreign countries, the commission, letters rogatory, or letter of request may be issued on any terms and directions that are just and appropriate [Code Civ. Proc. § 2027.010(e)]. The last paragraph of this order may be used to specify these terms and/or conditions.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is is an illustration of California Judicial Council Form DISC-030, adopted by the Judicial Council for optional use when the court has granted a motion for issuance of a commission for taking a deposition outside California [Code Civ. Proc. § 2026.010(f)]. This form is available in electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms. The form may also be viewed, and an interactive version accessed (for an individual or monthly charge) at www.lexis.com or www.lexisone.com.

Prior to the creation of this form, a number of trial courts used their own printed forms for commissions; however, the Judicial Council form reproduced here is required to be accepted by all courts [see Cal. Rules of Court, § 1.35(a) (optional Judicial Council forms must be accepted for filing by all courts)].

[3] Issuance by Court

On request, the clerk of the court will issue a commission authorizing the deposition in another state or place, to any party in an action pending in the court's venue, without a noticed motion or court order. The commission will request that process issue in the place where the examination is to be held, requiring attendance and enforcing the obligations of the deponents to produce documents and answer questions. The commission may contain terms that are required by the foreign jurisdiction to initiate the process. If a court order is required by the foreign jurisdiction, an order for a commission may be obtained by ex parte application [Code Civ. Pro. § 2026.010(f)].

Counsel who obtained the commission should have the clerk of the court issue the commission and certify one copy of the commission to take the deposition and stamp all other copies as endorsed filed [see Gov. Code §§ 26833 (fee for certification), 26837 (fee for comparing copy with original for certification)]. Counsel then should forward the certified copy of the commission to the person named in the commission.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA

To the Appropriate Judicial Authority in _____ [name of foreign nation]:

It has been determined by this court that the testimony of _____ [name of prospective deponent] who now _____ [resides or is temporarily] in your jurisdiction, is _____ [necessary and/or convenient] in the above-described action now pending in this court in which the above-described plaintiff and defendant(s) are parties. [2] Use of Form

The form of proposed letters rogatory, set out in [1], above, is for use in taking a deposition outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2027.010(e)]. It is issued by the trial court, and directed to the judicial authority in a jurisdiction which requires letters rogatory for taking a deposition in that jurisdiction for use in an action pending elsewhere [see discussion in § 193.123].

Counsel who obtained the letters rogatory should have the judge sign and issue them, and have the clerk certify one copy and stamp the other copies as endorsed filed [see Gov. Code §§ 26833, 26837 (certification)]. Counsel should forward the certified copy of the letters to the court named therein and have proceedings started for the appointment of a person to take the deposition or any proceedings for recognition of the letters. Once the person taking the deposition is appointed, arrangements can be made for the time and place of the deposition.

This form includes a request that the deposition be forwarded to the clerk of the court. Although Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.550(a) provides that a deposition is not filed with the court but instead is stored by the attorney for the party who noticed the deposition, it appears to be appropriate that a deposition taken under the auspices of a foreign tribunal should be first returned to the court that requested such exercise of judicial authority [cf. 28 U.S.C. § 1781 (providing that Department of State has power to transmit letter rogatory or request to foreign tribunal and to receive it after execution, but that tribunal in United States is not precluded from transmitting letter rogatory or request to foreign tribunal and from return in same manner)].

[2] Use of Form

The proposed letter of request set out in [1], above, is for use as a letter of request issued by the trial court pursuant to the Hague Convention on the Taking of Evidence Abroad in Civil or Commercial Matters [23 UST 2555, TIAS No. 7444; see also Note to 28 U.S.C.A. § 1781]. It is issued by the trial court and directed to a foreign nation that is a signatory to the Convention [see discussion in § 193.123].

This form may be set forth in English, unless the foreign nation to which the letter is directed has reserved otherwise pursuant to Article 33 of the Convention. Alternatively, the letter must be drafted in the language of the foreign nation or accompanied by a translation into that language [Convention, Article 4].

This form includes the following information, as required by Article 3 of the Convention:

- The authority requesting its execution and the authority requested to execute it, if known to the requesting authority.
- The names and addresses of the parties to the proceedings and their representatives, if any.
- The nature of the proceedings for which the evidence is required, including all necessary information in regard thereto.
- The evidence to be obtained or other judicial act to be performed.
- The names and addresses of the persons to be examined.

- The questions to be put to the persons to be examined or a statement of the subject matter about which they are to be examined.

- The documents or other property, real or personal, to be inspected.

- Any requirement that the evidence is to be given on oath or affirmation, and any special form to be used.

- Any special method or procedure to be followed under Article 9.

The letter is sent by the court in which the action is pending, directly to the Central Authority of the foreign nation, who will then forward it to the proper judicial authority [see 28 U.S.C. § 1781; Convention, Article 2].

[2] Use of Form

This form is an application for a discovery subpoena in an action pending outside California. It is a reproduction of Cal. Judicial Council Form SUBP-030, adopted by the Judicial Council for mandatory use [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Appendix, Div. A]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

This form must be used to request issuance of a subpoena for discovery under the Interstate and International Depositions and Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.100 et seq.].

For discussion and a form for a deposition subpoena for personal appearance only, see § 193.281. For discussion and a form for a deposition subpoena for personal appearance and production of documents and things in an action pending outside California, see § 193.282. For a discussion and forms for subpoenas to compel attendance at a deposition in an action pending in California, see §§ 193.30 -193.35, 193.226 -193.228 (forms).

For general information on subpoenas and subpoenas duces tecum, see Ch. 535, Subpoena, §§ 535.60, 535.61.

[3] Procedure for Obtaining Subpoena

To request issuance of a subpoena under the Interstate and International Depositions and Discovery Act [Code Civ.

Proc. § 2029.100 et seq.], a party must submit the original, or a true and correct copy, of a foreign subpoena to the clerk of the superior court in the California county in which discovery is sought to be conducted [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300(a)]. A request for the issuance of a subpoena in these circumstances does not constitute making an appearance in the California courts [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300(a)].

In addition to submitting a subpoena, as described above, a party seeking discovery must do both of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300(b)]:

- Submit an application requesting that the superior court issue a subpoena with the same terms as the foreign subpoena. The application must be on a form prescribed by the Judicial Council [see § 193.180[1] (Judicial Council Form SUBP-030)]. No civil coversheet is required.

- Pay the specified fee [see Gov. Code § 70626].

When these requirements are satisfied, the court clerk must promptly issue a subpoena for service on the person to which the foreign subpoena is directed [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300(c)].

[2] Use of Form

This form is a deposition subpoena for a personal appearance in an action pending outside California. It is a reproduction of Cal. Judicial Council Form SUBP-040, adopted by the Judicial Council for mandatory use [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Appendix, Div. A]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

The form is to used to require a nonparty witness to make a personal appearance and testify at a deposition in an action pending outside California, or if the nonparty witness is not a natural person, to designate one of more witnesses to appear and testify on behalf of the entity [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2029.200(c), (e); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.220(b); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.500 (making Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq. applicable to discovery in actions pending outside California)].

For detailed discussion of the Interstate and International Depositions and Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.100 et seq.], governing discovery in actions outside California, see § 193.30 et seq.

For a form for an application for a discovery subpoena in an action pending outside California, see § 193.280. For a form for a deposition subpoena for personal appearance and production of documents and things in an action pending outside California, see § 193.282. For a form for a subpoena for production of business records in an action pending outside California, see § 535.85. For discussion and forms for subpoenas generally, see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

[3] Procedure for Obtaining Subpoena

To request issuance of a subpoena under the Interstate and International Depositions and Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.100 et seq.], a party must submit the original, or a true and correct copy, of a foreign subpoena to the clerk of the superior court in the California county in which discovery is sought to be conducted [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300(a)]. A request for the issuance of a subpoena in these circumstances does not constitute making an appearance in the California courts [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300(a)].

In addition to submitting a subpoena, as described above, a party seeking discovery must do both of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300(b)]:

- Submit an application requesting that the superior court issue a subpoena with the same terms as the foreign subpoena. The application must be on a form prescribed by the Judicial Council [see § 193.180[1] (Judicial Council Form SUBP-030)]. No civil coversheet is required.

- Pay the specified fee [see Gov. Code § 70626].

When these requirements are satisfied, the court clerk must promptly issue a subpoena for service on the person to which the foreign subpoena is directed [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300(c)].

[4] Subpoena Form and Contents

A deposition subpoena issued under Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300 must do all of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300(d)]:

- Incorporate the terms used in the foreign subpoena.

- Contain or be accompanied by the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of all counsel of record in the proceeding to which the subpoena relates and of any party not represented by counsel.

- Bear the caption and case number of the out-of-state case to which it relates.

- State the name of the court that issues it.

- Be on the official Judicial Council Form [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.390; § 193.181[1] (Judicial Council Form SUBP-040).

[5] Party Not Required to Retain Local Attorney

A party is not required to retain a local attorney to depose a witness in these circumstances. An active member of the California State Bar who is retained by a party to an out-of-state court proceeding may issue a deposition subpoena [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.350(a)]. A deposition subpoena that issues under Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.350(a) must do all of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.350(b)]:

- Incorporate the terms used in the foreign subpoena.

- Contain or be accompanied by the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of all counsel of record in the proceeding to which the subpoena relates and of any party not represented by counsel.

- Bear the caption and case number of the out-of-state case to which it relates.

- State the name of the superior court of the county in which the discovery is to be conducted.

- Be on a form prescribed by the Judicial Council [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.390; § 193.181[1] (Judicial Council Form SUBP-040).

[6] Service of Subpoena

A discovery subpoena issued under the Act must be personally served in compliance with California law, including, without limitation, Code Civ. Proc. § 1985 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.400].

The party noticing the deposition must effectuate service of the deposition subpoena on the nonparty deponent in advance of the deposition within a reasonable time to travel to the place of deposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.220(a)].

Any person may serve the subpoena by personal delivery of a copy of it to the deponent if the deponent is a natural person. If the deponent is an organization, service may be by personal delivery of a copy of the subpoena to any officer, director, or custodian of records or to any agent or employee authorized by the organization to accept service of a subpoena [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.220(b)]. Service may be accompanied by payment of witness fees [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.230].

Personal service of any deposition subpoena is effective to require the personal attendance and testimony of any deponent who is a resident of California at the time of service, if the subpoena so specifies, and any production, inspection, testing, and sampling. Personal service is also effective to require that deponent's attendance at a court session to consider any issue arising out of the deponent's refusal to be sworn, to answer any questions, to produce specified items, or to permit inspection or specified testing and sampling of the items produced [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.220(c)].

For discussion of the service of subpoenas generally, see Ch. 535, Subpoena, § 535.17.

If the party giving notice of the deposition fails to serve a required subpoena on a nonparty or non-party-affiliated deponent and, as a result, the deponent fails to appear for the deposition, any party who, in person or by attorney, attended the deposition at the specified time and place in the expectation that the deponent's testimony would be taken should seek the imposition of a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a) against the noticing party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.440(a); see § 193.244].

[7] Witness Fees

If a deposition subpoena requires the personal attendance of the deponent, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.310, the party noticing the deposition is required to pay to the deponent in cash or by check the same witness fee and mileage required by Gov. Code § 68070 et seq., for attendance and testimony before the court in which the action is pending. This payment, whether or not demanded by the deponent, must be made, at the option of the party noticing the deposition, either at the time of service of the deposition subpoena or at the time the deponent attends for the taking of testimony [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.230(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.500 (making Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq. applicable to discovery in actions pending outside California)].

[3] Affidavit Supporting Subpoena Duces Tecum

A discovery subpoena issued under the Act must be personally served in compliance with California law, including, without limitation, Code Civ. Proc. § 1985 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.400]. Service of the deposition subpoena is discussed in § 193.281[6].

A copy of an affidavit must be served with a subpoena duces tecum issued before trial, showing good cause for the production of the matters and things described in the subpoena, specifying the exact matters or things desired to be produced, setting forth in full detail the materiality of those matters to the issues involved in the case, and stating that the witness has the desired matters or things in his or her possession or under his or her control [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.500 (making Code Civ Proc. § 1985 et seq. applicable to discovery in actions pending outside California)].

For further discussion of the affidavit supporting the subpoena, see Ch. 535, Subpoena, § 535.16. For discussion of service of subpoenas generally, see Ch. 535, Subpoena, § 535.17.

Chapter 194 DISCOVERY: INTERROGATORIES
PART I. SCOPE

16-194 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 194.01

§ 194.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter covers discovery under the Civil Discovery Act using the discovery method of written interrogatories.

Part II (see § 194.10 et seq.) has detailed discussion of the requirements and procedures relating to discovery by interrogatories.

Part IV provides procedural checklists in the following subparts:

- Subpart A (see § 194.60 et seq.) provides checklists for use by a party propounding interrogatories or seeking discovery.

- Subpart B (see § 194.70 et seq.) provides checklists for use by a party responding to interrogatories.

Part V provides forms relating to discovery by written interrogatories, including the following:

- Forms relating to early service of interrogatories and response, including relief from the requirement to serve interrogatories on all parties (see §§ 194.80, 194.81).

- Forms for interrogatories, including a form for specially drafted interrogatories (see § 194.82) as well as illustrative reproductions of form interrogatories approved by the Judicial Council (see §§ 194.83, 194.84).

- Forms for use in motion proceedings to extend the time for response to interrogatories (see §§ 194.90, 194.91).

- Forms for use in motion proceedings for relief from waiver of objections for failure to serve a timely response (see §§ 194.92, 194.93).

- A form for a response to interrogatories (see § 194.94).

- Forms for use in motion proceedings for a protective order in relation to discovery by interrogatories (see §§ 194.95, 194.96).

- Forms for use in motion proceedings to compel a response or further response to interrogatories, and related orders imposing sanctions (see §§ 194.100 -194.104).

- Forms for use in motion proceedings to obtain an order to deem initial answers to interrogatories binding (see §§ 194.105, 194.106).

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-194 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 194.10

§ 194.10 Governing Law

Discovery by interrogatories pursuant to the Civil Discovery Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq.) is governed generally by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2030.010-2030.410. Related provisions of the Civil Discovery Act include the provision for form interrogatories, set out in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2033.710-2033.740 and the provisions governing discovery generally, set out in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.010-2019.030, 2023.010-2024.060.

The extent of discovery permitted under the Civil Discovery Act is restricted in limited civil cases by the Economic Litigation provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 94 and 95. The use of interrogatories in such cases is limited specifically by Code Civ. Proc. § 94(a). For further discussion, see § 194.14[4] [see also Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, §§ 190.11[2], 190.23[2][a]; Ch. 345A, Limited Civil Cases, §§ 345A.16, 345A.17].

Statewide rule provisions relating to the format, content, and service of discovery papers and motions, and to discovery sanctions, are set out in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1000, 3.1345, 3.1346, 3.1347, 3.1348, and 3.768.

The general effect of an answer to an interrogatory is to bind immediately and conclusively the answering party to the facts set forth in the reply [Coy v. Superior Court (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 210, 219, 23 Cal. Rptr. 393, 373 P.2d 457 (purpose of interrogatory different from deposition); *see Campain v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (1972) 29 Cal. Chapter 194 DISCOVERY: INTERROGATORIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-194 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 194.12

§ 194.12 Matters Discoverable by Interrogatory

[1] In General

Any party may obtain discovery within the scope fixed by Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010 et seq., and subject to the restrictions set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.010 et seq., by propounding to any other party to the action written interrogatories to be answered under oath [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.010(a)].

The general scope of discovery permits the discovery of any matter that is not privileged so long as it is relevant to the subject matter [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010]. For detailed discussion of scope under Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010 et seq., and the general restrictions or regulatory provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.010 et seq., see respectively Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing , § 190.20 et seq. and § 190.30 et seq. For detailed discussion of privileges and other protections against disclosure, such as the attorney work product protection of Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq., see Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations .

[2] Contentions and Facts

An interrogatory may relate to whether another party is making a certain contention, or to the facts, witnesses, and writings on which a contention is based. An interrogatory is not objectionable because an answer to it involves an opinion or contention that relates to fact or the application of law to fact, or would be based on information obtained or legal theories developed in anticipation of litigation or in preparation for trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.010(b), codifying holding in Burke v. Superior Court (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 276, 284-285, 78 Cal. Rptr. 481, 455 P.2d 409] .

However, interrogatories calling for a defendant to state legal arguments, conclusions, or opinions, such as an explanation of how a complaint failed to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, how there was misjoinder of defendants, and how the complaint was ambiguous and unintelligible, are improper [Flora Crane Serv., Inc. v. Superior Court (1965) 234 Cal. App. 2d 767, 781, 45 Cal. Rptr. 79] .

[3] Witnesses

[a] Nonexpert Witnesses

Interrogatories requesting names and addresses of persons having knowledge of relevant facts or of percipient witnesses are proper. However, a complete list of nonexpert witnesses designated by the attorney to testify at trial is a derivative product developed as a result of the initiative of counsel in preparing for trial. Forced revelation of the list would violate the work product doctrine because counsel's decision in this respect is strategic and necessarily reflects counsel's evaluation of the strengths and weaknesses of the case [City of Long Beach v. Superior Court (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 65, 72-73, 134 Cal. Rptr. 468] . Moreover, requiring the attorney to describe the extent of the expected testimony of the witnesses clearly calls for production of a writing reflecting the attorney's impressions, conclusions, and opinions. The material therefore is protected absolutely from disclosure under the attorney work product doctrine [City of Long Beach v. Superior Court (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 65, 80, 134 Cal. Rptr. 468 ; see also discussion of work product protection in Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations, § 191.100 et seq.].

[b] Expert Witnesses

Discovery concerning expert witnesses is available through a procedure for simultaneous exchange of expert witness information [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2034.010 et seq.]. For discussion and forms relating to this exchange procedure, see Ch. 198, Discovery: Exchange of Expert Witness Information .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-194 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 194.13

§ 194.13 Time for Propounding Interrogatories

A defendant may propound interrogatories to a party to the action without leave of court at any time [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.020(a)].

A plaintiff may propound interrogatories to a party without leave of court at any time that is 10 days (five days in unlawful detainer proceedings or other proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq., governing forcible entry and detainer) after the service of the summons on, or appearance by, that party, whichever occurs first. However, on motion with or without notice, the court, for good cause shown, may grant leave to a plaintiff to propound interrogatories at an earlier time [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.020]. For forms for use in obtaining an order authorizing early service of interrogatories, see §§ 194.80, 194.81. For a procedure checklist relating to this proceeding, see § 194.60[2].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-194 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 194.14

§ 194.14 Number of Interrogatories

[1] General Restriction on Number

A party may propound to another party 35 specially prepared interrogatories, and any additional number of official form interrogatories, as described in Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.710 et seq., that are relevant to the subject matter of the pending action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.030(a)]. Except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.070 (supplemental interrogatories), no party may, as a matter of right, propound to any other party more than 35 specially prepared interrogatories. If the initial set of interrogatories does not exhaust this limit, the balance may be propounded in subsequent sets. Unless a declaration as described in Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.050 has been made, a party need only respond to the first 35 specially prepared interrogatories served, if that party states an objection to the balance, under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.240, on the ground that the limit has been exceeded [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.030(b), (c)].

[2] Greater Number When Warranted

Subject to the right of the responding party to seek a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090, any party who attaches a supporting declaration as described in Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.050 may propound a greater number of specially prepared interrogatories to another party if this greater number is warranted because of any of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.040(a)]:

- The complexity or the quantity of the existing and potential issues in the particular case.
- The financial burden on a party entailed in conducting the discovery by oral deposition.
- The expedience of using this method of discovery to provide to the responding party the opportunity to conduct an inquiry, investigation, or search of files or records to supply the information sought.

Any party who is propounding, or has propounded, more than 35 specially prepared interrogatories to any other party must attach to each set of interrogatories a declaration for additional discovery [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.050; see § 194.82].

[3] Supplemental Interrogatories

In addition to the number of interrogatories permitted by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2030.030 and 2030.040, a party may propound a supplemental interrogatory to elicit any later-acquired information bearing on all answers previously made by any party in response to interrogatories [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.070(a)]. The party may propound such supplemental interrogatories as follows [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.070(b)]:

- Twice prior to the initial setting of a trial date.

- Once after the initial setting of a trial date, subject to the time limits on discovery proceedings and motions provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.010 et seq.

On motion, for good cause shown, the court may grant leave to a party to propound an additional number of supplemental interrogatories [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.070(c)].

For discussion and forms relating to the general time provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.010 et seq., see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.50 et seq. and § 190.90 et seq.

[4] Restriction on Number in Limited Civil Cases

The number of interrogatories or sets of interrogatories is further restricted in limited civil cases [see Code Civ. Proc. § 91]. In these cases, a party may use, as to any adverse party, a combination of 35 of the following forms of discovery [Code Civ. Proc. § 94(a)]:

- Interrogatories (with no subparts) under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.010 et seq.

- Demands to produce documents, things, or electronically stored information under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq. [see generally Ch. 195, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence].

- Requests for admission (with no subparts) under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.010 et seq. [see Ch. 196, Discovery: Requests for Admission].

For further discussion of discovery in limited civil cases, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, §§ 190.11[2], 190.23.

Reference to other materials or documents or incorporation by reference of those materials is prohibited if the effect is to undermine the rule of 35 [*Catanese v. Superior Court (1996) 46 Cal. § 194.15 Service of Interrogatories

The party propounding interrogatories must serve a copy of them on the party to whom they are directed [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.080(a)].

The party propounding interrogatories must also serve copies on all other parties who have appeared in the action, unless the court on motion with or without notice has relieved that party from this requirement on its determination that service on all other parties would be unduly expensive or burdensome [*Code Civ. For a form for an application by a plaintiff for an order shortening the time within he or she may first serve interrogatories on another party, which includes a request to be relieved of the requirement of serving copies on all other parties, see § 194.80.

In a class action, a party may not serve interrogatories on a member of a class who is not a party representative or who has not appeared without a court order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.768].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-194 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 194.16

§ 194.16 Response to Interrogatories

[1] Content of Response

The party to whom interrogatories have been propounded must respond in writing, under oath [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.210(a); for further discussion of oath requirement, see [5], below].

Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.210(a) requires a responding party to respond "separately to each interrogatory." Unlike Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210(a)(2), which permits a party to respond to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling with a representation that the party lacks the ability to comply with the demand, Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.210(a) requires a party responding to interrogatories to provide either an answer containing the information sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.210(a)(1); see § 194.16[2]], an exercise of the party's option to produce writings from which the answer can be ascertained [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.210(a)(2); see § 194.16[3]], or an objection to the particular interrogatory [Code Civ. Proc., § 2030.210(a)(3); see § 194.16[4]]. Accordingly, a party generally may not respond to interrogatories simply by asserting its inability to respond [Sinaiko Healthcare Consulting, Inc. v. Pacific Healthcare Consultants (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 390, 406, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 751] .

In the first paragraph of the response, immediately below the title of the case, there must appear the identity of the responding party, the set number, and the identity of the propounding party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.210(b)].

The responding party must respond separately to each interrogatory by providing one of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.210(a)]:

- An answer containing the information sought to be discovered [see also further discussion of answers in [2], below].

- An exercise of the party's option to produce writings [see also further discussion of this option in [3], below].

- An objection to the particular interrogatory [see also further discussion of objections in [4], below, and in § 194.17].

Each answer, exercise of option, or objection in the response must bear the same number and be in the same sequence as the corresponding interrogatory, but the text of that interrogatory need not be repeated [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.210(c)].

For a form for a response, see § 194.94. For procedural checklists relating to the preparation and service of a response to interrogatories, see § 194.70 et seq.

[2] Response by Answer

Each answer in the response must be as complete and straightforward as the information reasonably available to the responding party permits. If an interrogatory cannot be answered completely, it must be answered to the extent possible. If the responding party does not have personal knowledge sufficient to respond fully to an interrogatory, that party must so state, but must make a reasonable and good faith effort to obtain the information by inquiry to other natural persons or organizations, except when the information is equally available to the propounding party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.220; see West v. Johnson & Johnson Products, Inc. (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 831, 874, 220 Cal. Rptr. 437 (decided under prior discovery act)].

A responding party has no duty to supplement his or her responses to interrogatories on the receipt of new information, absent an order compelling further answers, regardless of whether the party reserved the right to amend or supplement his or her earlier responses [Biles v. Exxon Mobil Corp. (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 1315, 1328, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 282] (failure to supplement interrogatory answer promptly did not constitute grounds for excluding evidence under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2030(k), (l) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290(c), 2030.300(e)], when no order compelling further answers had been sought or entered, and trial court made no finding that initial responses were willfully false); accord Browne v. Turner Constr. Co. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 1334, 1349, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 433 ("There is no statutory duty in California to supplement interrogatory responses... . Even if plaintiff had violated a duty to supplement his responses it would not ordinarily justify the exclusion of evidence in the absence of a willful violation of an order for disclosure," citing Biles)].

[3] Response by Referral to Specific Writings

If the answer to an interrogatory would necessitate the preparation or the making of a compilation, abstract, audit, or summary of or from the documents of the party to whom the interrogatory is directed, and if the burden or expense of preparing or making it would be substantially the same for the party propounding the interrogatory as for the responding party, referring to Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.230 and specifying the documents from which the answer may be derived or ascertained is a sufficient answer [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.230].

This specification must be in sufficient detail to permit the propounding party to locate and to identify, as readily as the responding party can, the documents from which the answer may be ascertained. The responding party then must afford to the propounding party a reasonable opportunity to examine, audit, or inspect these documents and to make copies, compilations, abstracts, or summaries of them [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.230].

By specifying the records from which an answer may be derived or ascertained, the answering party in essence declares that the information in the records is true, accurate, and complete and that no other information is available to the answering party [Deyo v. Kilbourne (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 771, 784, 149 Cal. Rptr. 499 ; Kaiser Foundation Hosp. v. Superior Court (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 801, 805, 80 Cal. Rptr. 263 (prior law)].

[4] Response by Objection

If only a part of an interrogatory is objectionable, the remainder of the interrogatory must be answered. If an objection is made to an interrogatory or to a part of an interrogatory, the specific ground for the objection must be set forth clearly in the response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.240].

If an objection is based on a claim of privilege, the particular privilege invoked must be clearly stated. If an objection is based on a claim that the information sought is protected work product under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq., that claim must be expressly asserted [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.240(b)]. A responding party may object to an interrogatory that seeks privileged information by clearly stating the objection and the particular privilege invoked. However, the existence of a document containing privileged information is not privileged [Hernandez v. Superior Court (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 285, 293, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 883 (plaintiffs had no right to refuse to identify documents in response to interrogatories, even though trial court's order to compel further responses incorrectly characterized required response as "privilege log," when court adequately explained its ruling in oral proceedings)].

Note that Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290 does not authorize a waiver of a claim of privilege or work product protection based on the use of boilerplate objections, provided the response to interrogatories is timely filed and complies with Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.240 [Best Products, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 1181, 1189, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 154 (defendant's failure to provide a privilege log did not constitute waiver of its right to assert attorney-client privilege and work product protection in regard to interrogatories propounded by plaintiff, when defendant provided timely, albeit boilerplate, response); see Korea Data Systems v. Superior Court (1997) 51 Cal. App. 4th 1513, 1517, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 925 (construing pre-1986 Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(k), now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.300); see, e.g., People ex rel. Lockyer v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1060, 1075, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 324 (relying on Best Product and Korea Data to hold that in discovery dispute, deficient objections or claims of privilege are not grounds for waiver, so long as party raised timely objections under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(g)(3) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.240) on grounds of privilege in its original response)].

If an objection is made to an interrogatory on the ground that it exceeds the limit on the number of specially prepared interrogatories specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.030, the objection need only state that the propounding party has exceeded that limit [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.030].

For further discussion of specific objections, see § 194.17.

[5] Signature Under Oath

The party to whom the interrogatories are directed must sign the response under oath, unless the response contains only objections. If that party is a public or private corporation, or a partnership, association, or governmental agency, one of its officers or agents must sign the response under oath on behalf of that party. If the officer or agent signing the response on behalf of that party is an attorney acting in that capacity for the party, that party waives any lawyer-client privilege and any protection for work product under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq. during any subsequent discovery from that attorney concerning the identity of the sources of the information contained in the response. The attorney for the responding party must sign any responses that contain an objection [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.250]. For discussion of work product protection, see Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations, § 191.100 et seq.

When the party to whom the interrogatories have been directed is incompetent and represented by a guardian ad litem, that guardian has the authority, subject to the court's ultimate supervision, to verify proper responses to those interrogatories on behalf of the ward [Regency Health Services, Inc. v. Superior Court (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 1496, 1504-1505, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 95] .

[6] Service of Response

[a] General Service Requirements

Within 30 days after service of interrogatories, the party to whom the interrogatories are propounded must serve the original of the response on the propounding party, unless on motion of the propounding party the court has shortened the time for response, or on motion of the responding party, the court has extended the time for response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260(a)].

In unlawful detainer actions or other proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (governing forcible entry and detainer), the party to whom the interrogatories are propounded has five days from the date of service to respond, unless on motion of the propounding party the court has shortened the time for response, or unless on motion of the responding party the court has extended the time for response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260(b)].

If the interrogatories were served by mail, the response period is extended by five calendar days if the place of address is within California, by 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or by 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050]. The response period is extended two court days if service is by Express Mail or by fax [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)].

The party to whom the interrogatories are propounded must also serve a copy of the response on all other parties who have appeared in the action, unless the court, on motion with or without notice, has relieved that party from this requirement on its determination that service on all other parties would be unduly expensive or burdensome [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260(c)].

For a form for a motion for use to extend the time for response, see § 194.90. For a procedural checklist relating to this motion, see § 194.70[1]. For a form for a request for relief from the requirement to serve all parties with a copy of interrogatories, which may be adapted for use in requesting similar relief from the requirement to serve all parties with a copy of the response, see § 194.80.

[b] Agreement to Extend Time for Service of Response

In lieu of the motion proceeding for an extension of time in serving a response, discussed in [a], above, the party propounding interrogatories and the responding party may agree to extend the time for service of a response to a set of interrogatories, or to particular interrogatories in a set, to a date beyond that provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260. The agreement may be informal, but it must be confirmed in a writing that specifies the extended date for service of a response. Unless this agreement expressly states otherwise, it is effective to preserve to the responding party the right to respond to any interrogatory to which the agreement applies in any manner specified in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2030.210-2030.240 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.270].

An agreement to extend the time for response to interrogatories may not be filed unless it is offered as relevant to the determination of an issue in a law and motion proceeding or other hearing, or is ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(7)]. The original of the agreement must be retained until six months after final disposition of the case, unless the court on motion of any party and for good cause shown orders the agreement preserved for a longer period [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)].

[7] Retention of Responses or Objections to Interrogatories

Responses or objections to interrogatories may not be filed with the court, unless offered as relevant under a law and motion proceeding orother hearing or ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(8)]. Instead, the serving party retains the original and the proof of service until six months after final disposition of the cause, unless otherwise ordered by the court for cause [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.280; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-194 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 194.17

§ 194.17 Specific Proper or Improper Objections

[1] Interrogatory Onerous or Oppressive

Although it appears that the proper procedure to be followed to protect a party from annoyance, expense, embarrassment, or oppression in interrogatories is a motion for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090, the courts will apparently consider objections to interrogatories on the grounds of oppression or burden in some situations. Objections that interrogatories are oppressive and burdensome are valid only if a burden results in injustice. The trial court does not have power to sustain the objection unless that is the only method of rendering substantial justice [see West Pico Furniture Co. v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 407, 417-418, 15 Cal. Rptr. 119, 364 P.2d 295 ; Pantzalas v. Superior Court (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 499, 504, 77 Cal. Rptr. 354 (necessary to show work required to answer interrogatory)].

[2] Interrogatory Not Relevant

An objection that a question calls for information not relevant to the subject matter of an action and not likely to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence is proper [Deaile v. General Telephone Co. of California (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 841, 851, 115 Cal. Rptr. 582 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010 (relevance requirement for discovery generally)]. However, irrelevance or immateriality to issues of a case are not proper objections [Coy v. Superior Court (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 210, 217, 23 Cal. Rptr. 393, 373 P.2d 457] . The test is relevance to the subject matter [Darbee v. Superior Court (1962) 208 Cal. App. 2d 680, 685, 25 Cal. Rptr. 520] .

For detailed discussion of relevance to the subject matter as it relates to the general scope of discovery, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.20 et seq.]. For discussion of evidentiary relevance generally, see California Trial Guide, Ch. 22 (Matthew Bender).

[3] Answer to Interrogatory Given Previously

A party may not refuse to answer interrogatories solely because the requested information was given in previous depositions or trials, unless requiring a reply would be unjust and inequitable [Bunnell v. Superior Court (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 720, 723-724, 62 Cal. Rptr. 458] .

[4] Interrogatory Calls for Hearsay

Discoverable evidence does not have to be admissible; hence an objection that an interrogatory calls for hearsay evidence is improper [Smith v. Superior Court (1961) 189 Cal. App. 2d 6, 12, 11 Cal. Rptr. 165] .

[5] Interrogatory Calls for Opinion or Conclusion

The fact that an interrogatory calls for an opinion or conclusion is not a proper objection if it prevents the propounding party from obtaining information leading to probative facts [West Pico Furniture Co. v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 407, 417, 15 Cal. Rptr. 119, 364 P.2d 295 ; Sheets v. Superior Court (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 1, 13, 64 Cal. Rptr. 753] .

§ 194.18 Effect of Failure to Serve Timely Response

[1] Waiver of Objections

If a party to whom interrogatories have been directed fails to serve a timely response, that party waives any right to exercise the option to produce writings under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.230, as well as any objection to the interrogatories, including one based on privilege or on the protection for work product under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290; see also discussion in Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations, § 191.15[1]].

[2] Motion for Relief From Waiver

The court, on motion, may relieve a party from the waiver of an objection due to an untimely response, on its determination of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290(a)]:

- That the party subsequently served a response to the interrogatories in substantial compliance with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2030.210-2030.240.

- That the party's failure to serve a timely response to the interrogatories was the result of mistake, inadvertence, or excusable neglect.

For a form for a motion for use in obtaining an order for relief from waiver of an objection for untimely response, see § 194.92. For a procedural checklist relating to this motion, see § 194.72.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-194 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 194.19

§ 194.19 Motion to Compel Response

The party propounding the interrogatories may move for an order compelling response to the interrogatories. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290(b)]. Unlike a motion to compel further responses (see § 194.20), a motion to compel responses is not subject to a 45-day time limit, and the propounding party does not have to demonstrate either good cause or that it satisfied a "meet-and-confer" requirement [Sinaiko Healthcare Consulting, Inc. v. Pacific Healthcare Consultants (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 390, 411, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 751 (monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2030.290(c), 2023.030 was proper for violation of order compelling responses; neither a 45-day limit nor meet-and-confer requirement applied); cf. Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290 with Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300].

Thus, once a party has failed to serve timely interrogatory responses, the trial court has the authority to hear a propounding party's motion to compel responses under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290(b), regardless of whether a party serves an untimely response [Sinaiko Healthcare Consulting, Inc. v. Pacific Healthcare Consultants (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 390, 408, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 751 (trial court was not divested of authority to hear and grant motion to compel responses under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290(b) by untimely service of incomplete interrogatories)]. Moreover, a response to some interrogatories does not divest a trial court of authority under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290 to compel answers to those interrogatories for which there was no appropriate response [Sinaiko Healthcare Consulting, Inc. v. Pacific Healthcare Consultants (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 390, 406, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 751] .

Any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to compel a response to interrogatories will be subject to a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 unless the court finds that the one subject to the sanctionacted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290]. In addition, if that party subsequently disobeys the court's order compelling a response, the trial court may then "make those orders that are just," including the imposition of an issue sanction, an evidence sanction, or a terminating sanction. "In lieu or in addition" to any of those sanctions, the trial court "may impose a monetary sanction under" Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2030.290(c) 2031.300(c); see § 194.21].

For a form for a motion to compel a response to interrogatories, see § 194.100. For a procedural checklist for use in making the motion, see § 194.61[1]. For further discussion of monetary sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030, to be imposed on a party who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a discovery motion such as a motion to compel responses to interrogatories, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-194 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 194.20

§ 194.20 Motion to Compel Further Response

[1] Grounds

The propounding party, on receipt of a response to interrogatories, may move for an order compelling a further response when that party deems the response to include one or more of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300(a)]:

- An answer to a particular interrogatory that is evasive or incomplete [for further discussion of response by answer, see § 194.16[1], [2]].

- An exercise of the option to produce documents under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.230 that is unwarranted or a required specification of documents that is inadequate [for further discussion of response by referral to documents, see § 194.16[1], [3]].

- An objection to an interrogatory that is without merit or too general [for further discussion of response by objection, see §§ 194.16[1], [4], 194.17].

The motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts that show a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of any issue presented by it [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300(b); for further discussion of this requirement, see generally Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1]]. The motion must also be accompanied by a separate statement that provides all the information necessary to determine the issues presented, without reference to other documents [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345; see § 194.103].

For a form for a motion to compel a further response to interrogatories, see § 194.102. For a procedural checklist for use in making the motion, see § 194.61[3].

[2] Time Limit for Motion to Compel Further Response

Unless notice of motion is given within 45 days of the service of the response, or any supplemental response, or on or before any specific later date to which the propounding party and the responding party have agreed in writing, the propounding party waives any right to compel a further response to the interrogatories [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300(c); see, e.g., O'Brien v. Superior Court (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 388, 391, 43 Cal. Rptr. 815 (construing similar language under pre-1986 Code Civ. Proc. § 2030 and holding that party making untimely service of motion to compel further response waived right to such order)].

If a response or any supplemental response was served by mail, this 45-day period is extended five calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a)]. The period is extended two court days if service is by Express Mail or by fax [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.050 (Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 applies to service of discovery motions)].

The 45-day time limit applies to the time for giving notice of a motion to compel a further response. Thus it imposes a deadline for serving notice of the motion, and not a deadline for filing the motion [see Karz v. Karl (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 637, 646-647, 187 Cal. Rptr. 183 (construing similar language in pre-1986 Code Civ. Proc. § 2030)].

A party may not avoid the consequences of failing to meet the notice requirement of former Code Civ. Proc. § 2030(1) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300) by propounding the same question again in a later set of interrogatories [Professional Career Colleges, Magna Institute, Inc. v. Superior Court (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 490, 493-494, 255 Cal. Rptr. 5] .

[3] Burden of Proof

On a motion to compel further response, the responding party has the burden of establishing a valid objection [Coy v. Superior Court (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 210, 220, 23 Cal. Rptr. 393, 373 P.2d 457] .

[4] Monetary Sanction Imposed by Order on Motion

The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to compel a further response to interrogatories, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300(d); for further discussion of this general provision, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]].

The court may award sanctions in favor of a party who files a motion to compel discovery, even though no opposition to the motion was filed, or opposition to the motion was withdrawn, or the requested discovery was provided to the moving party after the motion was filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348]. The court may not, however, deem the opposing party's failure to file written opposition, failure to appear at a hearing, or voluntary provision discovery to be an admission that the motion was proper or that sanctions should be awarded [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348].

For more detailed discussion of monetary sanctions generally, including requirements generally applicable in proceedings to impose such sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

§ 194.21 Issue, Evidence, or Terminating Sanction on Failure to Comply With Order Compelling Response or Further Response

If a party fails to obey an order compelling response or further response to interrogatories, the court may make those orders that are just, including the imposition of an issue, evidence, or terminating sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. In lieu of, or in addition to, that sanction, the court may impose a monetary sanction pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2030.290(c) (failure to obey order compelling response), 2030.300(e) (failure to obey order compelling further response); Sinaiko Healthcare Consulting, Inc. v. Pacific Healthcare Consultants (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 390, 411-412 (violation of order compelling responses was proper basis for monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2030.290(c), 2023.030, citing Laguna Auto Body); Laguna Auto Body v. Farmers Ins. Exchange (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 481, 486-489, 282 Cal. Rptr. 530 , disapproved on other grounds in Garcia v. McCutchen (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 469, 478, n.4, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 319, 940 P.2d 906 (no abuse of discretion in ordering dismissal as sanction when appellants willfully obstructed discovery, failed to honor their stipulation with opposing counsel that they would comply with discovery, and defied court order to answer all interrogatories and produce documents)].

However, the failure to supplement an interrogatory answer promptly did not constitute grounds for excluding evidence under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2030(k), (l) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290(c), 2030.300(e)], when no order compelling further answers had been sought or entered, and trial court made no finding that the initial responses were willfully false [Biles v. Exxon Mobil Corp. (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 1315, 1325, 1327, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 282 ; accord Browne v. Turner Constr. Co. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 1334, 1349, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 433 (citing Biles as debunking that "urban legend" that "a responding party has an affirmative duty to supplement responses to interrogatories if and when new information comes into that party's possession")].

For further discussion regarding issue, evidence, and terminating sanctions, and general forms for use in seeking such sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[3], 192.15[3], and 192.50 et seq. For further discussion regarding monetary sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2]. § 194.23 Protective Orders

[1] Motion by Responding Party or Other Affected Person

When interrogatories have been propounded, the responding party and any other party or affected natural person or organization may promptly move for a protective order [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090(a)]. The types of protective orders that a court may issue in the context of interrogatories are discussed in [2], below.

The motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of any issue presented by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090(a); for further discussion of this requirement, see generally Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1]].

For a form for a motion for a protective order, see § 194.95. For procedural checklists for use in connection with such motions, see § 194.71.

[2] Types of Protective Orders

The court, for good cause shown, may make any order that justice requires to protect any party or other natural person or organization from unwarranted annoyance, embarrassment, or oppression, or from undue burden and expense. The protective order may include, but is not limited to, one or more of the following directions [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090(b)]:

- That the set of interrogatories, or particular interrogatories in the set, need not be answered [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090(b)(1)].

- That, contrary to the representations made in a declaration for additional discovery submitted under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.050, the number of specially prepared interrogatories is unwarranted [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090(b)(2); for discussion of burden in seeking such order, see [3], below; for discussion regarding declaration for additional discovery, see § 194.14[2]].

- That the time specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260 to respond to the set of interrogatories, or to particular interrogatories in the set, be extended [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090(b)(3)].

- That the response be made only on specified terms and conditions [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090(b)(4)].

- That the method of discovery be an oral deposition instead of interrogatories to a party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090(b)(5)].

- That a trade secret or other confidential research development or commercial information not be disclosed or be disclosed only in a certain way [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090(b)(6); see, e.g., Fireman's Fund Insurance Co. v. Superior Court (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 1138, 1140-1141, 286 Cal. Rptr. 50 (issue raised in response to motion to compel rather than by motion seeking protective order)].

- That some or all of the answers to interrogatories be sealed and thereafter opened only on order of the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090(b)(7)].

[3] Burden of Justifying Number of Specially Prepared Interrogatories

If the responding party seeks a protective order on the ground that the number of specially prepared interrogatories is unwarranted, the propounding party shall have the burden of justifying the number of these interrogatories [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.040].

[4] Terms of Discovery on Denial of Motion for Protective Order

If the motion for a protective order is denied in whole or in part, the court may order that the party provide or permit the discovery against which protection was sought on terms and conditions that are just [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090(c)].

[5] Monetary Sanction Imposed by Order on Motion

The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion for a protective order, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances made the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090(d)].

For further discussion of monetary sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030, to be imposed on a party who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a discovery motion such as a motion for protective order, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

Without leave of court, a party may serve an amended answer to any interrogatory that contains information discovered subsequent to, inadvertently omitted from, or mistakenly stated in the initial answer to the interrogatory [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.310(a)].

[2] Use of Amended Answer at Trial

At the trial of the action, the propounding party or any other party may use the initial answer pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.410, and the responding party may then use the amended answer [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.310(a)]. For further discussion of the use of an initial answer at trial, see § 194.26.

§ 194.25 Motion to Deem Initial Answer Binding

[1] Grounds

The party who propounded an interrogatory to which an amended answer has been served may move for an order that the initial answer to that interrogatory be deemed binding on the responding party for the purpose of the pending action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.310(b)].

This motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.310(b); for further discussion of this requirement, see generally Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1]].

The court must grant this motion if it determines all of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.310(c)]:

- The initial failure of the responding party to answer the interrogatory correctly has substantially prejudiced the party who propounded the interrogatory.

- The responding party has failed to show substantial justification for the initial answer to that interrogatory.

- The prejudice to the propounding party cannot be cured either by a continuance to permit further discovery or by the use of the initial answer pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.410 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.310(c); see discussion in § 194.26].

For a form for a motion that an initial answer be deemed binding, see § 194.105. For a procedural checklist for use in making this motion, see § 194.62[2].

[2] Monetary Sanction Imposed by Order on Motion

The court may impose a monetary sanction pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to deem binding an initial answer to an interrogatory, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.310(d)].

For further discussion of monetary sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq., to be imposed on a party who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a discovery motion, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

16-194 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 194.44

§ 194.44 Decisions

[1] Class Actions

Defendant in class action has due process right to reasonable discovery, precluding blanket immunity to unnamed class members from obligation to respond to proper interrogatories. Spoon v. Superior Court (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 735, 746, 182 Cal. Rptr. 44

[2] Compelling Response to Interrogatories

Though nothing in discovery statutes requires trial court to make findings as basis of order granting or refusing right to have information disclosed, careful trial judge faced with questionable request for discovery should show basis of judge's determination. Greyhound Corp. v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 355, 384, 15 Cal. Rptr. 90, 364 P.2d 266

Trial court properly denied motion to compel further answers to interrogatories that sought information equally or more readily available to party seeking it than to party from whom it was sought. Schaefer v. Manufacturers Bank (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 70, 75, 163 Cal. Rptr. 402

Motion to compel further answers is properly denied if interrogatories stray too far and seek information that cannot reasonably serve acknowledged purpose of pretrial discovery. Columbia Broadcasting Sys., Inc. v. Superior Court (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 12, 19, 69 Cal. Rptr. 348

Order postponing party's answers relating to one issue until other party has first established another issue was improper. Coffelt v. Superior Court (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 884, 887, 62 Cal. Rptr. 636

[3] Protective Orders

Protective order granted in part when information requested in interrogatories would reveal details of licensing agreements and possibly cause competitive injury to answering party. Maritime Cinema Serv. Corp. v. Movies en Route, Inc. (S.D. N.Y. 1973) 60 F.R.D. 587, 589-590

To protect party from annoyance, expense, embarrassment, or oppression, court properly issued order that interrogatories be rephrased. West Pico Furniture Co. v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 407, 417-419, 15 Cal. Rptr. 119, 364 P.2d 295

In making protective orders, trial court properly makes such order as justice requires, and does not necessarily deny disclosure in every case in which annoyance or oppression may be shown. Greyhound Corp. v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 355, 380, 15 Cal. Rptr. 90, 364 P.2d 266

Good faith actions of party against whom protective order made does not preventing award of expenses of motion. Flynn v. Superior Court (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 491, 497, 152 Cal. Rptr. 796

[4] Relief From Waiver of Objections

Attorney's unawareness of duty caused by employee's misplacement of papers constituted excusable neglect. Elston v. City of Turlock (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 227, 234, 211 Cal. Rptr. 416, 695 P.2d 713

Showing of excusable neglect after counsel has knowingly allowed time to respond to interrogatories to expire necessarily includes not only reasonable excuse for delay, but also reasonable explanation for failure to seek further extension from counsel or enlargement of time from court. Mannino v. Superior Court (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 776, 779, 191 Cal. Rptr. 163

[5] Response to Interrogatories

[a] Requirement That Response With Answers Be Signed Under Oath

When response to interrogatories directed to client is prepared by attorney who attaches verification form previously signed by client, and does not first consult client to ensure that any assertions of fact were true, requirement that interrogatories be signed under oath is violated. Drociak v. State Bar (1991) 52 Cal. 3d 1085, 1090, 278 Cal. Rptr. 86, 804 P. 2d 711 (decided under prior law)

Trial court erred in finding incomplete answer to have been false, known to be false, and made in bad faith, when evidence was that answer to interrogatory was incomplete and defendant so informed plaintiff as soon as error was discovered. Gaffney v. Downey Savings and Loan Assn. (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1154, 1170-1171, 246 Cal. Rptr. 421

[b] Objections

On objection to interrogatory on grounds of burden and oppression, trial court must properly balance equities, including costs, by balancing purposes and need for information against burden entailed in its production. West Pico Furniture Co. v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 407, 418, 15 Cal. Rptr. 119, 364 P.2d 295

Because interrogatories did not arguably exceed limit of 35 specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.030(b), referring to another answer did not violate requirement of Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.060(d) that questions be full and complete, or prohibition of Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.060(f) against compound, conjunctive, or disjunctive questions. Clement v. Alegre (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 1277, 1287-1291, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 791

Responding party has no duty to supplement responses to interrogatories on receipt of new information, absent order compelling further answers, regardless of whether party reserved right to amend or supplement his or her earlier responses. Failure to supplement interrogatory answer promptly did not constitute grounds for excluding evidence under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2030(k), (l) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290(c), 2030.300(e)], when no order compelling further answers had been sought or entered, and trial court made no finding that initial responses were willfully false. Biles v. Exxon Mobil Corp. (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 1315, 1327-1328, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 282 ; accord Browne v. Turner Constr. Co. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 1334, 1349, 26 Cal. Rptr.3d 433

In discovery dispute, deficient objections or claims of privilege are not grounds for waiver, so long as party raised timely objections under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.240) on grounds of privilege in its original response. People ex rel. Lockyer v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1060, 1075, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 324

Defendant's failure to provide a privilege log did not constitute waiver of its right to assert attorney-client privilege and work product protection in regard to interrogatories propounded by plaintiff, when defendant providedtimely, albeit boilerplate, response. Best Products, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 1181, 1189, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 154

Plaintiffs had no right to refuse to identify documents in response to interrogatories; a responding party may object to an interrogatory that seeks privileged information by clearly stating the objection and the particular privilege invoked, but the existence of a document containing privileged information is not privileged. Hernandez v. Superior Court (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 285, 293, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 883

Interrogatories are objectionable if requesting disclosure of matters so remote from subject matter that disclosure would be of little or no practical benefit to propounding party; interrogatories as objectionable if framed to require disclosure of irrelevant as well as relevant matter. Deaile v. General Telephone Co. of California (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 841, 850-851, 115 Cal. Rptr. 582 , citing Columbia Broadcasting Sys., Inc. v. Superior Court (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 12, 19, 69 Cal. Rptr. 348

Objection to interrogatory is not equivalent to motion for protective order. Columbia Broadcasting Sys., Inc. v. Superior Court (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 12, 23, 69 Cal. Rptr. 348 ; but see Ryan v. Superior Court (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 813, 817-820, 9 Cal. Rptr. 147 (relief granted from annoyance and expense by sustaining objections and refusing to order that interrogatories be answered)

Objection to interrogatory on ground that it calls for confidential information is not the equivalent to a motion for protective order, which is the proper procedure. Columbia Broadcasting Sys., Inc. v. Superior Court (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 12, 23, 69 Cal. Rptr. 348 (interpreting pre-1986 Code Civ. Proc. § 2030)

Burden is on objecting party to show that interrogatories were interposed for improper purposes, directed to irrelevant subject matter, or, in spite of relevance, not reasonably calculated to lead to discovery of admissible evidence. Darbee v. Superior Court (1962) 208 Cal. App. 2d 680, 686, 25 Cal. Rptr. 520

[6] Scope of Discovery by Interrogatories

[a] Contentions and Facts

Party may properly use discovery to test pleadings by calling for facts on which adverse party is relying to support contentions. Burke v. Superior Court (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 276, 281, 78 Cal. Rptr. 481, 455 P.2d 409 ; Sheets v. Superior Court (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 1, 13 , 64 Cal. Rtpr. 753

Interrogatories calling for all facts that a party intends to produce at trial is possibly overbroad, but those limited to facts currently known are proper. Singer v. Superior Court (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 318, 325-326 , 5 Cal. Rtpr. 697, 353 P.2d 305

Plaintiff is required to attempt to obtain certain information from mother in order to respond to interrogatories when mother is cooperating closely in lawsuit, inquiry poses no discernible burden on plaintiff, and response might provide useful basis for more focused questioning. Jones v. Superior Court (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 534, 552-553, 174 Cal. Rptr. 148

Scope of interrogatories is permissible if relevant to subject matter, including questions that might lead to discovery of admissible evidence or information helpful in preparing for trial. Deyo v. Kilbourne (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 771, 781, 149 Cal. Rptr. 499

Interrogatory may properly ask whether party asserts certain contention, but may not compel disclosure of legal reasoning or theories. Sav-On Drugs, Inc. v. Superior Court (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 1, 5, 123 Cal. Rptr. 283, 538 P.2d 739

[b] Documents and Tangible Things

Overbroad request is properly restricted by trial court to allow requesting party reasonable opportunity to discover admissible evidence. Borse v. Superior Court (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 286, 289, 86 Cal. Rptr. 559

When interrogatory calls for information recorded in public documents that are as readily available to proponent of interrogatory as they are to party answering, court's order compelling answer was improper. Alpine Mut. Water Co. v. Superior Court (1968) 259 Cal. App. 2d 45, 54, 66 Cal. Rptr. 250

Party is entitled to information that will allow proper description of things in seeking their production and inspection. Flora Crane Service, Inc. v. Superior Court (1965) 234 Cal. App. 2d 767, 777-778, 45 Cal. Rptr. 79

Existence of document is discoverable when document itself is privileged. Smith v. Superior Court (1961) 189 Cal. App. 2d 6, 12, 11 Cal. Rptr. 165

[c] Relevance

Order requiring plaintiffs to disclose their entire medical histories was improper. Britt v. Superior Court (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 844, 862-864, 143 Cal. Rptr. 695, 574 P.2d 766

Trial court properly refused to compel response to interrogatories that would place undue burden and expense on responding party or require disclosure of relevant as well as irrelevant matter. Columbia Broadcasting Sys., Inc. v. Superior Court (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 12, 19, 69 Cal. Rptr. 348

Although purpose of discovery statutes is to permit party to prepare for trial and to discover relevant admissible evidence on matters reasonably calculated to lead to discovery of admissible evidence, Civil Discovery Act does not require one party to prepare opponent's case. Ryan v. Superior Court (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 813, 819, 9 Cal. Rptr. 147 (prior law)

[7] Service of Interrogatories on Defendant After Appearance in Action

"Appearance" under pre-1986 Code Civ. Proc. § 2030(a) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.020) is not limited to general appearance, but party who appeared on motion to quash as not required to answer interrogatories that are not relevant to subject matter of motion. 1880 Corp. v. Superior Court (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 840, 842-843, 22 Cal. Rptr. 209, 371 P.2d 985

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS
A. Checklists for Party Seeking Discovery

16-194 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 194.60

§ 194.60 Preparing and Serving Interrogatories

NOTE:
The following checklists set out procedures commonly involved in obtaining discovery through the use of interrogatories to parties; they are not intended to be exhaustive.

[1] Preliminary Determinations

1. Whether the action or proceeding has been commenced [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.020].

2. If plaintiff is the party propounding the interrogatories, whether at least 10 days have elapsed since the party to be served with the interrogatories was served with the summons, or made an appearance--or, in an unlawful detainer action or other proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), whether five days has elapsed since the party to be served with the interrogatories was served with the summons, or made an appearance--whichever occurred first [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.020(b), (c)]. If not, see [2], below.

3. Whether party is an unnamed representative of a class or has not appeared [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.768]. If so, see [3A], below.

[2] Motion for Order Authorizing Early Service

NOTE:
This order must be obtained by a plaintiff who wishes to serve interrogatories on a party within 10 days after service of summons on, or appearance by, that party, whichever occurs first, or in an unlawful detainer action or other proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), within five days after service of the summons on, or appearance by, that party, whichever occurs first [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.020(b), (c)]. A motion for this order may be combined with a motion for an order shortening the time for the service of responses to interrogatories [see § 194.80 and [3], below]. It may also be combined with a motion for an order for relief from the requirement to serve a copy of the interrogatories on all parties to the action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.080 and § 194.80].

1. Without notice.

NOTE:
Counsel must attempt to give the opposing party notice of an ex parte application or give reasons why the opposing party should not be informed [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204; see also § 194.80[3]].

a. Prepare an application for ex parte order including supporting declarations, a supporting memorandum of points and authorities, and a proposed order granting the application [see §§ 194.80, 194.81].

b. Present application and order to court in which action or proceeding is pending, for judge's signature.

NOTE:
In some trial courts the proper judge to sign the order will be the presiding judge of the court. In others, however, the proper judge to sign the order may, by local court rule, be the judge assigned to the Deposition and Discovery Department or the Law and Motion Department. If unfamiliar with local court practices, counsel should inquire of the court clerk as to the proper practice.

c. File originals, including signed order.

d. Serve copies of order with the interrogatories [see [5], below].

2. With notice.

a. Prepare documents.

Prepare notice of motion, supporting declarations, and supporting memorandum as required by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1113(a), and proof of service of these documents [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a; for a form of ex parte application that may be adapted for use, see § 194.80; see also Ch. 417, Points and Authorities , and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

b. Serve documents.

If documents are to be served less than 16 court days before the date set for hearing of motion, or any longer period as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) if service is by mail, fax, or overnight delivery, obtain an order shortening the time for notice of the motion, and then serve every party to the action or proceeding with copies of the documents listed in Paragraph a., above [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020; see also Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time , and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

c. File documents.

File the signed originals of the documents listed in Paragraph b., above, with the court.

d. Proceed as for usual noticed motion [see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders].

e. Order.

(1) Prepare order if court grants motion or as otherwise directed by the court. See § 194.81, which may be adapted for use after a hearing on noticed motion.

(2) If required by local court rule or practice, have opposing party approve order as to form.

(3) Present order to judge for signature.

(4) File original signed order and keep copies of order stamped "endorsed filed" to be served with the interrogatories.

NOTE:
Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1019.5(a), when a motion is granted or denied, unless the court otherwise orders, notice of the court'sdecision or order must be given by the prevailing party to all other parties or their attorneys, in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020, unless notice is waived by all parties in open court and is entered in the minutes (see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders* , and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers).

[3] Motion for Order Shortening Time for Response

Responding party must serve responses to the interrogatories within 30 days after service of the interrogatories, or in unlawful detainer proceedings within five days after service of interrogatories, unless on motion of the propounding party the court has shortened the time for response, or on motion of the responding party the court has extended the time for response [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260(a)]. In an unlawful detainer action or other proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), the responding party has five days from the date of service to respond, unless on motion of the propounding party the court has shortened the time for response or unless on motion of the responding party the court has extended the time for response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260(b)].

If the responses were served by mail, the response period is extended five calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050]. The period is extended two court days if service is by Express Mail, other overnight delivery, or by fax [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)]. A motion by the propounding party to shorten the time for response may be combined with a motion for an order shortening the time for service of the interrogatories [see [2], above, and § 194.80]. It may also be combined with a motion for an order for relief from the requirement to serve a copy of the interrogatories on all parties to the action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.080 and § 194.80]. In making this motion, counsel may adapt the procedures set out in [2], above, regarding early service of interrogatories by plaintiff.

[3A] Motion for Interrogatories From Unnamed Class Members in Class Action

In class action suits, a party may not serve interrogatories on a member of a class who is not a party representative or who has not appeared without a court order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.768(c)]. In making it's decision whether to allow such discovery, the court must consider the timing of the request, the subject matter to be covered, the materiality of the information being sought, the likelihood that class members have such information, the possibility of reaching factual stipulations that eliminate the need for such discovery, whether class representatives are seeking discovery on the subject to be covered, and whether discovery will result in annoyance, oppression, or undue burden or expense for the members of the class [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.768(d)].

[4] Preparation of Interrogatories and Proof of Service

1. Format of interrogatories.

The interrogatories must follow the format set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.060. For a form setting out the general format to be followed, see § 194.82. For an illustration of Judicial Council form interrogatories, see § 194.83 et seq.

2. Additional interrogatories.

NOTE:

A party may propound to another party 35 specially prepared interrogatories, and any additional number of official form interrogatories, as described in Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.710 et seq., that are relevant to the subject matter of the pending action. With the exception of supplemental interrogatories under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.070, no party may, as a matter of right, propound to any other party more than 35 specially prepared interrogatories. Unless a declaration for additional discovery, as described in Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.050, has been made, a party need only respond to the first 35 specially prepared interrogatories served, if that party states an objection to the balance, under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.240, on the ground that the limit has been exceeded [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.030; see discussion in § 194.14].

If more than 35 specially prepared interrogatories are desired, attach a declaration for additional discovery to each set containing more than 35 specially prepared interrogatories [see § 194.82]. Any party may propound a greater number of interrogatories to another party if the greater number is warranted because of statutorily enumerated factors [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.050 and discussion in § 194.14[2]].

3. To whom addressed.

The interrogatories should be addressed to the party who is to respond to them, and not to an officer, agent, or employee of the party [see Mowry v. Superior Court (1962) 202 Cal. App. 2d 229, 233-235, 20 Cal. Rptr. 698 , disapproved on other grounds in San Diego Professional Asso. v. Superior Court (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 194, 203-204, 23 Cal. Rptr. 384, 373 P.2d 448] .

4. Proof of service

Prepare proof of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

[5] Service of Interrogatories

1. Serve the party to whom the interrogatories are directed [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.080(a)].

2. Serve all other parties who have appeared in the action.

a. Either serve all other parties who have appeared [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.080(b)]; or

b. Obtain waiver of the requirement of service on all parties who have appeared [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.080(b); see §§ 194.80, 194.81].

The court on motion with or without notice may relieve the propounding party from this requirement on its determination that service on all other parties would be unduly expensive or burdensome [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.080(b)].
(1) Proceed by motion without notice, adapting procedures set out in Paragraph (B)(1), above; or

(2) Proceed by motion with notice, adapting procedures set out in Paragraph (B)(2), above.

3. When serving interrogatories or copies of interrogatories, also serve endorsed-filed copies of any related orders, such as a. Order shortening the time for service of interrogatories by plaintiff [see [2], above].

b. Order shortening time for service of responses [see [3], above].

[6] Preparation of Supplemental Interrogatories

If desired, propound supplementary interrogatories to elicit any later acquired information bearing on answers previously made by the responding party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.070; see also discussion in § 194.14[3]].

1. Supplemental interrogatories may be propounded twice prior to the initial setting of a trial date and subject to the time limits on discovery proceedings and motions provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.010 et seq., once after the initial setting of a trial date. On motion for good cause shown, the court may grant leave to propound an additional number of supplemental interrogatories [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.070; for discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.010 et seq. time limits, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.50 et seq.].

2. Prepare and serve documents, following the procedures in [4], above, labeling the interrogatories as "supplemental."

[7] Disposition of Documents

Retain the original of the interrogatories, with the original proof of service affixed to them, and the original of the response until six months after final disposition of the action. Then, the documents may be destroyed unless the court, on motion of any party and for good cause shown, orders that they be preserved for a longer period [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.280(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)].

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS
A. Checklists for Party Seeking Discovery

16-194 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 194.61

§ 194.61 Enforcement of Discovery by Interrogatories

[1] Motion to Compel Response and for Monetary Sanctions

1. Determine whether responding party has failed to submit a timely response.

The party to whom the interrogatories are propounded must serve a response within 30 days after service, except in an unlawful detainer action or other proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), in which case the responding party has five days from the date of service to respond, unless on the court has modified the time limitation or the parties have stipulated otherwise [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260(b) and discussion in § 194.16[6]]. If the interrogatories were served by mail, the response period is extended five calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050]. The period is extended two court days if service is by Express Mail, other overnight delivery, or by fax [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)].

2. Time for Noticing Motion.

Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290 does not specify a time limit in which to bring a motion to compel response to interrogatories, although a reasonable time is probably 45 days after the last day that the response, or any supplemental response, could have been served, analogous to the requirement of Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300 for a motion to compel further answers to interrogatories [see discussion in § 194.20[2]; see also [3], below].

3. Prepare documents.

a. Notice of motion and supporting declaration [§ 194.100].

b. Supporting memorandum as required by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a). For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

c. Proof of service of documents listed in Paragraphs a. and b., above [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

4. Serve documents.

At least 16 court days before the date set for hearing of the motion or any longer period as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) if service is by mail, overnight delivery, or fax, serve every party to the action or proceeding with copies of the documents listed in Paragraph 3, above [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020 and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

5. File documents.

File the signed originals of the notice of motion, supporting declaration, memorandum of points and authorities, and proof of service with the court.

6. Order.

a. Prepare order if court grants motion or as otherwise directed by the court [§ 194.101].

b. If required by local court rule or practice, have opposing party approve order as to form.

c. Present order to judge for signature.

d. File original signed order and serve copies of order stamped "endorsed filed" on the other parties.

NOTE:
Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1019.5(a), when a motion is granted or denied, unless the court otherwise orders, notice of the court's decision or order must be given by the prevailing party to all other parties or their attorneys, in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020, unless notice is waived by all parties in open court and is entered in the minutes [see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders* , and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

[2] Motion for Sanctions for Failure to Comply With Order Compelling Response

The procedures set out in [1], above may be adapted for use in obtaining an order for sanctions for failure to comply with an order compelling a response [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300; see also § 194.21 and Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[3], 192.15[3], and 192.50 et seq.].

[3] Motion to Compel Further Response

1. Preliminarily determine

a. Whether responding party has submitted an evasive or incomplete answer [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300(a)(1)];

b. Whether responding party exercised an option to produce documents under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.230 that was unwarranted, or whether the required specification of those documents was inadequate [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300(a)(2)];

c. Whether responding party made an objection that was without merit or too general [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300(a)(3)];

d. Whether another procedure would be better for obtaining the information, such as deposing either the person who answered the interrogatories or some other person [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.010 et seq.].

2. Make a good faith attempt at informal resolution [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300(b)].

3. Time for noticing motion.

A motion to compel further answers to interrogatories under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300 must be noticed within 45 days from the date of service of the response, or any supplemental response, unless a. The response was served by mail, which extends the time for filing the motion by five calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050]. The period is extended two court days if service is by Express Mail, other overnight delivery, or by fax [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)].

b. The propounding and responding parties have agreed in writing to a specific later date.

4. Prepare documents.

a. Notice of motion and supporting declaration, including declaration of good faith attempt at informal resolution [see § 194.102; for further discussion of this requirement, see generally Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1]].

b. A separate document that sets forth each request, its response, the factual and legal reasons for compelling further response, and any other information that may be necessary to understand or determine the motion. Material is not to be incorporated by reference into the statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(2), (c); see § 194.103].

c. Supporting memorandum as required by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a). For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

d. Proof of service of documents listed in Paragraphs a.-c., above [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

5. Serve and file documents, and obtain order [§ 194.104].

The procedures for obtaining an order set out in [1], above, may be adapted for use in obtaining an order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300.

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS
A. Checklists for Party Seeking Discovery

16-194 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 194.62

§ 194.62 Use of Answers to Interrogatories

[1] Use Against Party Giving Answer

The propounding party may use any answer or part of an answer to an interrogatory at the trial or any other hearing in the action, pursuant to the rules of evidence, only against the responding party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.410; see discussion in § 194.26].

[2] Motion for Order to Deem Initial Answer Binding

1. Grounds [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.310; see discussion in § 194.25[1]].

a. The initial failure of the responding party to answer the interrogatory correctly has substantially prejudiced the party who propounded the interrogatory.

b. The responding party has failed to show substantial justification for the initial answer to that interrogatory.

c. The prejudice to the propounding party cannot be cured either by a continuance to permit further discovery or by the use of the initial answer pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.410 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.310(c)].

2. Good faith attempt at informal resolution.

The motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.310(b); see also further discussion of this requirement in Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1]].

3. Procedure.

The procedure for obtaining an order set out in § 194.61[1] may be adapted for use for obtaining a order to deem an initial answer binding, using §§ 194.105, 194.106.

B. Checklists for Responding Party

16-194 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 194.70

§ 194.70 Preparing and Serving Responses to Interrogatories

NOTE:

A party that determines that responding to any set of interrogatories, or particular interrogatories in a set, would cause unwarranted annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or undue burden and expense may move for a protective order [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090; see § 194.71].

[1] Extending Time for Response

1. By stipulation.

a. Obtain agreement of the propounding party to extend the time to respond to a set of interrogatories, or to particular interrogatories in a set, to a date beyond that provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.270; see discussion in § 194.16[6]].

b. If the agreement is obtained orally, confirm it in a writing that specifies the extended date by either a letter or formal stipulation for signature of the propounding party. Counsel who obtain a stipulation by letter may also wish to obtain a signed formal stipulation.

c. The written agreement or stipulation may not be filed unless it is offered as relevant to the determination of an issue in a law and motion proceeding or other hearing, or is ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(7)]. Counsel must retain the original of the agreement until six months after final disposition of the cause, unless the court on motion of any party and for good cause shown orders it preserved for a longer period [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)].

NOTE:

Unless the agreement expressly states otherwise, it preserves the responding party's right to respond to any interrogatory to which it applies [Code Civ. Proc. §

2030.270(c)*; *see discussion in § 194.16[6]].

2. On motion.

a. Without notice.

NOTE:
There is no requirement under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260 that the motion be noticed. However, counsel should consult local court rules to ascertain whether stricter requirements apply.

On motion of the responding party, the court may extend the time for response [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260]. Adapt the procedures set out in § 194.60[2] [see § 194.90 (form of noticed motion for use in obtaining this order)].

b. By noticed motion.

Follow the procedures for obtaining an order set out in § 194.61[1], using § 194.90 (notice of motion and declaration) and § 194.91 (order).

c. Pursuant to motion for protective order.

A responding party may obtain a protective order that the time specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260 to respond to the set of interrogatories, or to particular interrogatories in the set, be extended [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090(b)(3)]. This procedure may be used either just to extend the time to respond or in combination with other requests to limit or prevent the compelling of responses to the set of interrogatories or to particular interrogatories in the set [see § 194.71].

[2] Preparing Responses

1. Time for responding.

Unless there is a stipulation or order shortening or extending time [see [1], above, and § 194.60[3]], responses to interrogatories must be served within 30 days after service of the interrogatories, or, in an unlawful detainer action or other proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), within five days from the date of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260(b)]. If the interrogatories were served by mail, the 30-day response period is extended five calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050]. The period is extended two court days if service is by Express Mail, other overnight delivery, or by fax [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)]. For discussion of relief from waivers resulting from failure to timely serve response, see § 194.72.

2. Format [see § 194.94].

The party to whom interrogatories have been propounded must respond in writing under oath separately to each interrogatory. In the first paragraph of the response immediately below the title of the case, there must appear the identity of the responding party, the set number, and the identity of the propounding party. Each answer, exercise of option, or objection in the response must bear the same number and be in the same sequence as the corresponding interrogatory, but the text of the interrogatory need not be repeated [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.210; for discussion of content of response, see § 194.16[1]].

3. Types of responses [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.210(a); see discussion in § 194.16[1] -[4]].

a. An answer containing the information sought.

b. An exercise of the party's option to produce writings.

c. An objection to the particular interrogatory.

4. Verification.

The party to whom the interrogatories are directed must sign the response under oath, unless the response contains only objections [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.250(a); for discussion of signatures of agents and officers, see § 194.16[5]; see also Ch. 572, Verification].

[3] Service of Response

1. Time.

See [1] and [2], above.

2. Procedure.

The responding party must serve the original of the response on the propounding party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260(a)]. The procedure set out in § 194.60[5] for serving interrogatories may be adapted for service of the response.

[4] Amended Answers

After interrogatories have been answered, if information is subsequently discovered, was inadvertently omitted, or mistakenly stated, serve an amended answer [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.310].

NOTE:
Leave of court is not required. The propounding party may still use the initial answer, and may move to make the initial answer binding [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.310(b); see also § 194.62[2]].

1. Determine if protective order is necessary to protect against annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or undue burden and expense [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090].

2. Determine if good cause exists for order [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090(b) and § 194.23].

[2] Procedure

1. Make a reasonable and good faith attempt at informal resolution of the issue [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090(a); for further discussion of this requirement, see generally Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1]].

NOTE:
The notice of motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing this attempt to resolve the issues [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090(a)].

2. Prepare, serve, and file documents [see §§ 194.95, 194.96].

Adapt the procedures for obtaining an order set out in § 194.61[1]. For forms and procedures for obtaining protective orders generally, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.30 et seq. and § 190.80 et seq.

NOTE:

If the propounding party has served a notice of motion to compel response, the responding party may wish to notice a motion for relief from waiver for hearing either prior to or concurrently with that motion [see § 194.73[1]].

[1] Grounds for Motion

If a party to whom interrogatories have been directed fails to serve a timely response, that party waives any right to exercise the option to produce writings under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.230 as well as any objection to the interrogatories, including one based on privilege or on the protection for work product under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq., unless the responding party is granted relief by motion on both the following grounds [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290]:

1. The responding party subsequently served a response to the interrogatories that is in substantial compliance with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2030.210-2030.240 [see § 194.70[2]].

2. The responding party's failure to serve a timely response to the interrogatories was the result of mistake, inadvertence, or excusable neglect.

[2] Procedure

Follow the procedure for obtaining an order set out in § 194.61[1], using the forms set out in §§ 194.92 and 194.93.

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS
B. Checklists for Responding Party

16-194 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 194.73

§ 194.73 Opposing Motions to Enforce Discovery by Interrogatories

[1] Opposing Motion to Compel Response

1. Service and filing of memorandum.

Serve and file a memorandum opposing the motion at least nine court days before the time appointed for the hearing, showing that the motion should be denied [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b), (c) (time for serving opposing papers)].

a. Opposition to motion to compel response.

Although Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290 does not specify grounds on which the court should grant or deny a motion to compel response, if the responding party served a response subsequent to service of the motion, counsel should so state [see § 194.72[1]].

b. Opposition to motion for sanctions.

Counsel should oppose the imposition of sanctions by showing that the responding party acted with substantial justification or by describing other circumstances that make the sanction unjust [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.030(a), 2030.290].

2. Time for hearing motion for relief from waiver.

If counsel is also moving for relief from waiver to produce writings and to raise objections after failure to serve timely response, counsel may wish to have that motion heard prior to or concurrently with the motion to compel response, because the grounds for respondent's motion would support opposition to the propounding party's motion [see § 194.72].

[2] Opposing Motion to Compel Further Answers and for Monetary Sanctions

Serve and file a memorandum and declaration opposing the grounds for the motion at least nine court days before the time appointed for the hearing [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b), (c)]. If appropriate, show that the moving party failed to make a reasonable and goodfaith attempt at an informal resolution of any issue presented in the motion [see § 194.61[3]].

Attorney for Plaintiff

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name]

In support of this application I declare that:

1. I am an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for plaintiff _____ [name].

[EITHER]

2. The summons in this action was served on defendant _____ [name] on _____ [date].

[OR]

2. _____ [Specify party, e.g., Defendant] _____ [name] appeared in this action on _____ [date], by _____ [specify, e.g., filing a motion to quash service of summons].

[CONTINUE]

3. It is necessary that plaintiff _____ [name] obtain an order permitting the service of interrogatories on _____ [specify party, e.g., defendant] _____ [name] within _____ [10 days or, in unlawful detainer proceedings, 5 days] after _____ [service of summons on him/her or his/her appearance] in this action, and requiring response thereto within _____ [specify number less than normal time for response] days after service on him/her of those interrogatories. The shortened time limitations requested are necessary because _____ [specify supporting facts, e.g., defendant's attorney Anthony Kruger told me that defendant is planning to leave the country on _____ (date), for an unspecified length of time, and plaintiff requires response to his/her interrogatories before that time to prepare his/her case properly].

4. It is necessary that plaintiff _____ [name] obtain an order for relief from the requirement to serve all parties that have appeared in the action in that _____ [set forth facts, e.g., numerous other parties have appeared in the action, and effecting service on all of them would be unduly expensive. Plaintiff is under extreme time contraints to proceed with his/her discovery process, and the additional service requirement would be unduly burdensome].

5. MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

[Set forth memorandum supporting application]

Respectfully submitted,
_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [party's status and name]

[2] Use of Form

The ex parte application and declaration set out in [1], above, is for use by plaintiff to seek an order allowing service of interrogatories within 10 days after service of summons, on that party, or appearance by that party, whichever occurs first; or, in an unlawful detainer action or other proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), within five days since service of the summons on, or appearance by, that party, whichever occurs first [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.020(b), (c)]. In addition, the form may be used to require service of response to the interrogatories within less than the 30-day, or in unlawful detainer proceedings or other proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), five-day limit after service of interrogatories [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260; see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050 (extension of 30-day limit when service is by mail); Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e) (service by Express Mail or by fax)].

The form also may be used to obtain relief from the requirement to serve all parties that have appeared in the action with copies of the interrogatories [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.080].

Motions to obtain the relief sought by this form may made with or without notice [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2030.020, 2030.260, 2030.080; for general forms for notices of motion, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders].

[3] Ex Parte Application Requirements

Paragraph 4 of the Declaration is for use to set forth facts regarding notice procedures required by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1200-3.1207 [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204].

A supporting memorandum is required to accompany the ex parte application [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1201(4); for discussion and forms relating to supporting memoranda generally, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities].

A proposed order must also accompany the application [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1201(5) and § 194.81].

For more detailed discussion of the general requirements for ex parte applications in pretrial proceedings, see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions, § 193.221[3] and Ch. 372, Motions and Orders, § 372.19.

2. I am propounding to _____ [identify party, e.g., the defendant _____ (name)] the attached set of interrogatories.

3. This set of interrogatories will cause the total number of specially prepared interrogatories propounded to the party to whom they are directed to exceed the number of specially prepared interrogatories permitted by Section 2030.030 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

4. I have previously propounded a total of _____ interrogatories to this party, of which _____ interrogatories were not official form interrogatories.

5. This set of interrogatories contains a total of _____ specially prepared interrogatories.

6. I am familiar with the issues and previous discovery conducted by all parties in this case.

7. I have personally examined each of the questions, including any subparts, in this set of interrogatories.

8. This number of questions is warranted under Section of the Code of Civil Procedure because _____ [state each factor described in Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.040 that is relied on, as well as the reasons why any factor relied on is applicable to the instant lawsuit].

9. None of the questions or subparts in this set of interrogatories is being propounded for any improper purpose, such as to harass the party, or the attorney for the party, to whom it is directed, or to cause unnecessary delay or needless increase in the cost of litigation.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

[2] Use of Form

The specially prepared interrogatories set out in [1], above, is for use by any party for service on any other party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.010 et seq.]. It may be used for initial interrogatories, or for supplemental interrogatories if the questions elicit any later-acquired information bearing on answers previously made [see discussion in § 194.14[3]]. It contains a Declaration for Additional Discovery, for use if more than 35 specially prepared interrogatories are being propounded [see discussion in § 194.14[1] and [2]]. For discussion of further limitations on the availability of interrogatories in limited civil cases, see § 194.14[4].

For additional interrogatories approved by the Judicial Council, see § 194.83 et seq. For forms of interrogatories for use in actions relating to motor vehicles, see Ch. 85, Automobiles: Discovery . For form interrogatories for use under particular fact situations in various kinds of cases, see Bender's Forms of Discovery, Vols. 1-10.

[3] Numbering Interrogatories

A party propounding interrogatories must number each set of interrogatories consecutively. The first paragraph immediately below the title of the case must set forth the identity of the propounding party, the set number, and the identity of the responding party. Each interrogatory in a set must be separately set forth and identified by number or letter [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.060].

[4] Format of Interrogatories

Each interrogatory must be full and complete in and of itself. No preface or instruction must be included with a set of interrogatories unless it has been approved under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.710 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.060(d); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.710 (Judicial Council authorized to develop and approve official form interrogatories for optional use in any civil action in a state court based on personal injury, property damage, wrongful death, unlawful detainer, breach of contract, family law, or fraud, and for any other civil actions the Council deems appropriate)].

Any term specially defined in a set of interrogatories shall be typed with all letters capitalized whenever that term appears. No specially prepared interrogatory shall contain subparts or a compound, conjunctive, or disjunctive question [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.060(e), (f)].

For a more detailed discussion of format requirements, see § 194.14A.

[5] Service of Interrogatories

For discussion of when plaintiff and defendant may serve interrogatories, see § 194.13. For a form of application for use in obtaining an order authorizing early service of interrogatories, see § 194.80. For discussion of the parties on whom interrogatories must be served, see § 194.15.

[6] Retention of Interrogatories

The interrogatories, and the responses and objections thereto, are not to be filed with the court, but must be retained by the propounding party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.280; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(8); for further discussion, see § 194.16[7]].

[7] Filing and Retention of Declaration for Additional Discovery

A declaration for additional discovery, whether offered separately or as an attachment to another document, may not be filed unless offered as relevant to the determination of an issue in a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or is ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(17)]. The declaration must be retained until six months after final disposition of the cause, unless the court on motion of any party and for good cause shown orders the declaration preserved for a longer period [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)].

[2] Use of Form

The interrogatories set out in [1], above, is an illustrative reproduction of Cal. Judicial Council Form DISC-001, approved by the Judicial Council for optional use in any civil action in superior court based on personal injury, property damage, wrongful death, or fraud [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.710; see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 1.30(b), 1.35; Cal. Rules of Ct., Appendix, Div. A]. The Judicial Council is authorized to develop and approve interrogatories for any other civil actions it deems appropriate [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.710]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge. The form also is available on the Internet at www.courtinfo.ca.gov/forms/.

Definitions and instructions are included in the form. The interrogatories do not change existing law relating to interrogatories, nor do they affect an answering party's right to assert any privilege [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2017.010 et seq., 2018.010 et seq.] or objection [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.240; see also Section 1(b) of the illustrative form].

[3] Other Judicial Council Form Interrogatories

There is a separate Judicial Council approved set of form interrogatories for use in under the economic litigation procedures in limited civil cases (Cal. Judicial Council Form DISC-004), set out in § 194.84.

There are also separate form interrogatories approved by the Judicial Council for use in unlawful detainer proceedings (Cal. Judicial Council Form DISC-003/UD-106), economic litigation (Cal. Judicial Council Form DISC-004), employment law (Cal. Judicial Council Form DISC-002), and family law proceedings (Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-145). For illustrations of these forms, see Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions , Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories , Ch. 294, Employment Law: Termination and Discipline , in this publication and California Family Law, Ch. 110, Trial Preparation and Discovery, § 110.33 (2d ed. Matthew Bender). These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge. The forms are also available at www.courtinfo.ca.gov/forms/.

[4] Filling in Form

[a] Caption

In the block at the top of the first page, fill in the name, address, and telephone number of the asking (propounding) party's attorney if that party is represented by counsel, and the name of that party. If the asking (propounding) party is not represented by counsel, then fill in the name, address, and telephone number of that party. Including fax numbers and e-mail addresses is optional. Fill in the name of the court in the second block. The short title of the case, which is entered in the third block, usually consists of the last name of the first plaintiff and the last name of the first defendant. In the bottom two blocks, fill in the names of the asking (propounding) and answering (responding) parties; the set number, which indicates the number of this set of interrogatories relative to the total number of sets of interrogatories that have been served in the proceeding; and the case number [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1000(a)].

[b] Choice of Interrogatories

The text of the interrogatories appears on the form, with each interrogatory preceded by a blank square box and a number. Counsel should determine which of the interrogatories he or she wishes to ask (propound) and check the box before the appropriate number on the form. The illustrative form in [1], above, has been filled out as it might be used by a defendant in a case arising out of a motor vehicle accident giving rise to alleged personal injury, property damage, and loss of income and earning capacity.

[5] Instructions for Answering or Responding Party

Whenever an interrogatory may be answered by referring to a document, the document may be attached as an exhibit to the response and referred to in the response. If the document has more than one page, refer to the page and section in which the answer to the interrogatory can be found [see Section 3(e) of the form].

Whenever an address and telephone number for the same person are requested in more than one interrogatory, the answering (responding) party must furnish them in answering only the first interrogatory asking for that information [see Section 3(f) of the form].

In answering these interrogatories, the answering (responding) party is not limited to his or her own personal knowledge, but must furnish all information available to him or her or to anyone acting on his or her behalf [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.220].

Answers to these interrogatories must be verified, dated, and signed [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.250].

[6] Definitions

Section 4 of the form interrogatories sets out a number of definitions to words that appear throughout the interrogatories in boldface, all-capital type. In section 4(a), the attorney has the option of checking the Judicial Council's definition of "incident" for purposes of the interrogatories, or of providing a different definition drafted by the attorney.

[2] Use of Form

The form of interrogatories set out in [1], above, is an illustration of Cal. Judicial Council Form DISC-004, approved by the Judicial Council for optional use in a limited or unlimited civil case subject to the economic litigation provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 90 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.710 et seq.; see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 1.30(b), 1.35; Cal. Rules of Ct., Appendix, Div. A]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge. The form is also available on the Internet at www.courtinfo.ca.gov/forms/.

When used in limited civil cases, these interrogatories are subject to the general restrictions on discovery in those cases set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 94, including the limitation on the number of interrogatories that may be requested [see Code Civ. Proc. § 94(a)(1)]. Additionally, some of these interrogatories are similar to questions in the case questionnaire and may be omitted if the information sought has already been provided in a completed case questionnaire. For discussion of the procedures applicable to economic litigation in limited civil cases, including the restrictions on discovery, and an illustration of the Judicial Council's form of case questionnaire, see Ch. 345A, Limited Civil Cases .

For general instructions in completing the form, see § 194.83[4]. See also discussion in § 194.83[2], [3], [5], and [6].

[2] Use of Form

The form set out in [1], above, is for use when a party wishes to serve interrogatories on a member of a class who is not a party representative or who has not appeared under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.768(c). Proposed interrogatories and a memorandum of supporting the factors listed in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.768(d) accompany the pleading.

In making its decision whether to allow such discovery, the court must consider the timing of the request, the subject matter to be covered, the materiality of the information being sought, the likelihood that class members have such information, the possibility of reaching factual stipulations that eliminate the need for such discovery, whether class representatives are seeking discovery on the subject to be covered, and whether discovery will result in annoyance, oppression, or undue burden or expense for the members of the class [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.768(d)].

[2] Use of Form

The notice of motion and motion, with supporting declaration, set out in [1], above, is for use by a party who has been served with interrogatories to seek a court order extending the time to serve a response to the interrogatories beyond the 30-day limit allowed from the date of service of the interrogatories [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260(a); see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050 (automatic extension of 30-day limit when service by mail); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e) (service by Express Mail or by fax)]. This form may also be used by a party in an unlawful detainer action, or other proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), who has been served with interrogatories to seek a court order extending the time to serve a response beyond the five day period allowed from the date of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260(b)].

The motion may be made with or without notice [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260]. For a form of ex parte application and supporting declaration that may be adapted for use to extend time to serve a response to interrogatories, see § 194.80.

A supporting memorandum must be served and filed with the form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 194.80[4].

[3] Stipulation to Extend Time to Serve Response

Prior to preparing this notice of motion, counsel should attempt to obtain a stipulation between the propounding and responding parties to extend the time for service of a response [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.270].

[4] Previous Extensions

The applicant for an order extending time must disclose in writing the nature of the case and what, if any, previous extensions have been granted by court order or by stipulation [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.20(b)].

[5] Protective Order

If the responding party can establish that the extension of time is needed for protection from unwarranted annoyance, embarrassment, or oppression, or from undue burden and expense, he or she may move for a protective order, which may include an order extending time. In that event, a monetary sanction may be available to the prevailing party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090; see § 194.95].

Attorney for _____ [moving party's status and name]

[2] Use of Form

The form of notice of motion and motion with supporting declaration set out in [1], above, is for use by a party who failed to serve a timely response to interrogatories to obtain an order for relief from the waivers imposed by Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290, which prevent a responding party from exercising the option to produce writings under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.230 or objecting to the interrogatories.

The grounds for the motion are that the party subsequently served a response in substantial compliance with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2030.210-2030.240, and that the failure to serve the response on time was the result of mistake, inadvertence, or excusable neglect [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290(a)]. These grounds are also available, among others, in support of a motion for relief from default under Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b). Consequently, cases interpreting the sufficiency of a showing under Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b) may be useful with respect to obtaining an order of relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290. For further discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b), see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanction for Discovery Misuse, § 192.13[3][c]. For detailed discussion and forms relating to relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b), see Ch. 489, Relief from Judgments and Orders .

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with the form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010; see also discussion and forms in Ch. 417, Points and Authorities]. For forms of memoranda relating to a motion for relief from waiver under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290, see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 84, Discovery: Interrogatories (Matthew Bender).

For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 194.80[4].

I have read the foregoing Response to Interrogatories and know the contents thereof.

Based on information available to _____[name of responding party], I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]
_____ [signature of agent or officer]
_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, sets out the basic format to be used in responding to written interrogatories served under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.010 et seq. It includes examples of an answer, an objection, and an answer under referring the propounding party to specific documents of the answering party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.230].

[3] Format

In each set of responses to interrogatories, the first paragraph immediately below the title of the case must show the identity of the responding party, the set number, and the identity of the propounding party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.210(b)]. If the response is a supplemental response, an amended answer, or a further response, the first paragraph must also include the nature of the paper [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1000(a)]. Each answer, exercise of option, or objection in the response must bear the same identifying number or letter and be in the same sequence as the corresponding interrogatory, but the text of that interrogatory need not be repeated [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.210(c); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1000(b) (format of supplemental responses, further responses, and amended answers)].

[4] Content of Response

Each answer in the response must be as complete and straightforward as the information reasonably available to the responding party permits [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.220(a); see discussion in § 194.14[2]]. If only a part of an interrogatory is objectionable, the remainder of the interrogatory must be answered [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.240(a); see discussion in §§ 194.16[4] and 194.17].

[5] Service of Response

Within 30 days after service of interrogatories, the party to whom the interrogatories are propounded must serve the original of the response on the propounding party, or in unlawful detainer actions or other proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), within five days from the date of service, unless on motion of the propounding party, the court has shortened the time for response, or on motion of the responding party, the court has extended the time for response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260(a), (b)]. If the interrogatories were served by mail, the 30-day response period is extended five calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050]. The period is extended two court days if service is by Express Mail or by fax [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)]. The parties may also agree to extend the time [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.270; see §§ 194.16[6] and 194.18]. Absent a court order to the contrary, the responding party must also serve all other parties who have appeared [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.260(c)]. The form in § 194.80, which includes a request for relief from the requirement to serve a copy of interrogatories on all parties, may be adapted to seek an order for relief from the requirement to serve a copy of the response on all parties.

[6] Verification

The party to whom the interrogatories are directed must sign the response under oath, unless the response contains only objections. If that party is a public or private corporation, or a partnership, association, or governmental agency, one of its officers or agents must sign the response under oath on behalf of that party. The attorney for the responding party must sign any responses that contain an objection [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.250; for further discussion, see § 194.16[5]].

[7] Retention of Responses or Objections to Interrogatories

Responses or objections to interrogatories may not be filed with the court, unless offered as relevant under a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(8)]. Instead, the serving party retains the original and the proof of service until six months after final disposition of the cause, unless otherwise ordered by the court for cause [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.280; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)].

To _____ [identify party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] and to his/her attorney of record:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], _____ [identify party, e.g., defendant] will, and hereby does, move for an order that _____ [describe interrogatories, e.g., Interrogatories No. 10-25 of the first set of interrogatories served by plaintiff _____ (name) on defendant _____ (name) need not be answered], and will further move this court for an order requiring _____ [identify party or attorney or both, e.g., plaintiff and/or his/her attorney _____ (name)] to pay a monetary sanction in the amount of $_____ to _____ [identify moving party, e.g., defendant]. The motion will be made on the grounds that _____ [specify, e.g., the interrogatories call for commercial information that could harm defendant's business if the information becomes public], and that _____ [identify movingparty, e.g., defendant] made a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of the issues presented by this motion.

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, on the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)] and the memorandum set forth below, on the records and file herein, and on such evidence as may be presented at the hearing of the motion.

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name]

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. [Identity of declarant. See § 194.90[1], Supporting Declaration Paragraph 1.]

2. On _____ [date], _____ [identify party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] served his/her _____ [specify, e.g., first] set of interrogatories on _____ [identify party, e.g., defendant] _____ [name]. A copy of _____ [that set of interrogatories or interrogatories No. _____ of that set] are attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

3. There is good cause for the order sought by _____ [identify party, e.g., defendant] _____ [name] in that _____ [set forth facts showing good cause, e.g., Interrogatories No. 10-25 refer to secret commercial information relating to licensing agreements entered into by defendant, including licensing fees. Defendant's business is highly competitive, and its competitors have systematically attempted to persuade defendant's customers to patronize them instead of defendant. Divulging the terms of defendant's licensing arrangements would enable defendant's competitors to offer better terms and thereby to take away these customers].

4. On _____ [date], _____ [specify actions taken to confer with opposing party in a reasonable and good faith attempt to informally resolve the issues covered by the motion, including any narrowing of the areas of disagreement achieved by the negotiations, e.g., I sent a letter to plaintiff's attorney _____ (name) asking that plaintiff withdraw the interrogatories that are the subject of this motion. A copy of the letter is attached as Exhibit A and made a part hereof. To date, I have not received an answer to that letter, nor have my subsequent telephone calls to _____ (name of opposing party's attorney) been returned].

5. _____ [Identify moving party, e.g., Defendant] bases his/her request for the imposition of a sanction in the amount of $_____ on _____ [itemize and explain, in as many paragraphs as necessary, the basis of the computation of the monetary amount of sanction requested].

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

[2] Use of Form

The notice of motion and motion with supporting declaration set out in [1], above, is for use by a party on whom interrogatories have been served, to seek an order preventing or limiting response to the interrogatories and to obtain monetary sanctions against the propounding party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090]. For discussion of protective orders relating to interrogatories, see § 194.23.

A supporting memorandum must to be served and filed with the foregoing form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code C iv. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; see also discussion and forms in Ch. 417, Points and Authorities]. For forms for memoranda relating to motions for protective orders regarding interrogatories, see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 84, Discovery: Interrogatories (Matthew Bender).

Any motion concerning interrogatories must identify the interrogatories or requests by set and number [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(d)].

For discussion and forms relating to discovery of financial records in an action in which the plaintiff seeks punitive damages, see Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.40 et seq.

For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 194.80[4].

[3] Sanctions

The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion for a protective order, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090(d)].

For further discussion of monetary sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030, to be imposed on a party who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a discovery motion, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

[4] Supporting Declaration

Declaration Paragraph 4 of this form provides facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090(a). For further discussion of this requirement, see generally Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1].

Declaration Paragraph 5 sets forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040; for discussion of this requirement, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.19].

Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The proposed order set out in [1], above, is for use when the court grants or denies a motion by a party to whom interrogatories have been served to prevent or limit response to interrogatories and to obtain monetary sanctions against the propounding party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.090].

Optional Paragraph 3 of the findings is for use when the party who did not prevail on the motion has failed to show that it acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances would make the imposition of the monetary sanction unjust. Paragraph 3 of the order provides language to award a monetary sanction against the responding attorney.

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

[Add memorandum supporting motion.]

Respectfully submitted,
_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [party's status and name]

[2] Use of Form

The notice of motion and motion with supporting declaration set out in [1], above, is for use by a party who has propounded interrogatories to seek an order compelling response and imposing a monetary sanction when the party on whom they were served failed to serve a timely response to them [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290]. If the responding party has served inadequate answers or improper objections, the party propounding the interrogatories should use § 194.102 instead of this form, to seek an order compelling a further response.

Any motion concerning interrogatories must identify the interrogatories by set and number [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(d)].

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with this form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; see also discussion and forms in Ch. 417, Points and Authorities]. For forms for memoranda relating to motions to compel response to interrogatories, see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 84, Discovery: Interrogatories (Matthew Bender).

For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 194.80[4].

[3] Time for Noticing Motion

Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290 does not contain a provision requiring a motion to compel response to interrogatories to be filed and served within a particular time. Unless otherwise ordered or specifically provided by law, all moving and supporting papers must be served and filed at least 21 calendar days before the time appointed for the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(a)]. The 21-day period may be extended depending on the method of service used [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)]. For further discussion regarding the service and filing of motions and other papers, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders , and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

[4] Sanctions

The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030, against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfullymakes or opposes a motion to compel a response to interrogatories, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.290(d); for further discussion of this general provision, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]].

The court may award sanctions in favor of a party who files a motion to compel discovery, even though no opposition to the motion was filed, or opposition to the motion was withdrawn, or the requested discovery was provided to the moving party after the motion was filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(a)]. However, the court may not deem the opposing party's failure to file written opposition, failure to appear at a hearing, or voluntary provision discovery to be an admission that the motion was proper or that sanctions should be awarded [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(b)].

For more detailed discussion of monetary sanctions generally, including requirements generally applicable in proceedings to impose such sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

[Add memorandum supporting motion.]

Respectfully submitted,
_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [moving party's status and name]

[2] Use of Form

The notice of motion and motion with supporting declaration set out in [1], above, is for use by a party who has propounded interrogatories after responses to them have been served to seek an order to compel further responses. A motion to compel further response may be based on any one, or a combination of, the following grounds [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300(a)]:

- An answer to a particular interrogatory is evasive or incomplete.

- An exercise of the option to produce documents under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.230 is unwarranted or the required specification of those documents is inadequate.

- An objection to an interrogatory is without merit or too general.

Any motion concerning interrogatories must identify the interrogatories by set and number [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(d)].

This motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by it [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300(b)]. For further discussion of this requirement, see generally Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1].

A supporting memorandum must be served and filed with this motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; see also discussion and forms in Ch. 417, Points and Authorities]. For memoranda relating to motions to compel further answers to interrogatories, see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 84, Discovery: Interrogatories (Matthew Bender).

For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 194.80[4].

[3] Separate Statement

A motion to compel further responses to interrogatories must be accompanied by a separate statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(2), (c)]. This is a separate document filed and served with the motion that sets out all the information necessary to understand all the questions and responses that are in issue [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]. For a form for this separate statement, together with further discussion of its requirements, see § 194.103.

[4] Notice

Unless notice of motion is given within 45 days of the service of the response, or any supplemental response, or by any specific later date towhich the propounding party and the responding party have agreed in writing, the propounding party waives any right to compel a further response to the interrogatories [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300(c)]. If the responses were served by mail, the 45-day period is extended five calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050]. The period is extended two court days if service is by Express Mail or by fax [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)]. For further discussion of notice requirements, see discussion in § 194.20[2].

[5] Burden of Proof

On the propounding party's motion to compel further response, the responding party has the burden of establishing a valid objection [Coy v. Superior Court (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 210, 220, 23 Cal. Rptr. 393, 373 P.2d 457] .

[6] Monetary Sanction

The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to compel a further response to interrogatories, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300(d); for further discussion of this general provision, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]].

The court may award sanctions in favor of a party who files a motion to compel discovery, even though no opposition to the motion was filed, or opposition to the motion was withdrawn, or the requested discovery was provided to the moving party after the motion was filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(a)]. The court may not, however, deem the opposing party's failure to file written opposition, failure to appear at a hearing, or voluntary provision discovery to be an admission that the motion was proper or that sanctions should be awarded [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(b)].

For more detailed discussion of monetary sanctions generally, including requirements generally applicable in proceedings to impose such sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

[7] Sanctions for Failure to Obey Order Compelling Further Response

If a party fails to obey an order compelling further response to interrogatories, the court may make those orders that are just, including the imposition of an issue, evidence, or terminating sanction under Code Civ.Proc. § 2023.030. In lieu of or in addition to that sanction, the court may impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.300(e)]. For further discussion, see § 194.21. For a form for a motion for an order imposing such sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, § 192.50.

Attorney for _____ [propounding party's status and name]

[2] Use of Form

The separate statement set out in [1], above, is required to accompany a motion, such as that set out in § 194.102, to compel further responses to interrogatories [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(2)].

[3] Contents of Separate Statement

Any motion involving the content of a discovery request or the responses to such a request must be accompanied by a separate statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)]. The motions that require a separate statement include a motion to compel further responses to interrogatories [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(2)]. A separate statement is not required when no response has been provided to the request for discovery [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(b)].

This separate statement is a separate document filed and served with the motion. It must set forth all the information necessary to understand each discovery request (in this instance each inspection demand) and all the responses to it that are at issue [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]. It must be full and complete, so that no person is required to review any other document in order to determine the full request and the full response. Material may not be incorporated into the separate statement by reference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)].

The separate statement must include, for each discovery request (in this instance each inspection demand) to which a further response is requested, the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]:

- The text of the request, and the text of each response, answer, or objection, and any further responses or answers [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(1), (2)].

- A statement of the factual and legal reasons for compelling further responses, answers, or production as to each matter in dispute [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(3)].

- If necessary, the text of all definitions, instructions, and other matters required to understand each discovery request and the responses to it [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(4)].

- If the response to a particular discovery request is dependent on the response given to another discovery request, or if the reasons a further response to a particular discovery request is deemed necessary are based on the response to some other discovery request, the other request and the response to it must be set forth [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(5)].

- If the pleadings, other documents in the file, or other items of discovery are relevant to the motion, a summary of each relevant document by the party relying on the document [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(6)].

The primary function of the separate statement appears to be that of providing a summary, in a single document, of all matters, taken from all pleadings and all other papers, that may be necessary to determine the motion. By including a statement of the factual and legal reasons for compelling further responses to each matter in dispute [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(3)], it appears that a separate statement, when required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c), also serves the same function as the supporting memorandum [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(b) (memorandum consists of statement of facts and statement of law, evidence and argument, discussing the statutes, cases, and textbooks cited as support)].

[2] Use of Form

The form of notice of motion and motion with supporting declaration set out in [1], above, is for use by a party who propounded interrogatories, after the responding party has served an amended answer, to seek an order that the initial answer be deemed binding for the purpose of the pending action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.310]. The court shall grant this motion if it determines that (1) the initial failure of the responding party to answer the interrogatory correctly has substantially prejudiced the party who propounded the interrogatory; (2) the responding party has failed to show substantial justification for the initial answer to that interrogatory; and (3) the prejudice to the propounding party cannot be cured either by a continuance to permit further discovery or by the use of the initial answer pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.410 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.310(c)]. For further discussion, see § 194.25[1].

Paragraph 6 of the form provides facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.310(b). For further discussion of this requirement, see generally Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1].

A supporting memorandum is also required to be served and filed with the form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; see also discussion and forms in Ch. 417, Points and Authorities]. For forms of memoranda relating to a motion to obtain an order to deem an initial answer binding, see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 84, Discovery: Interrogatories (Matthew Bender).

For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see §

194.80[4].

[3] Sanctions

The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030, against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to deem binding an initial answer to an interrogatory, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.310(d)].

For further discussion of monetary sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030, to be imposed on a party who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a discovery motion, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

Chapter 195 DISCOVERY: INSPECTION OF TANGIBLE EVIDENCE
PART I. SCOPE

16-195 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 195.01

§ 195.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter covers discovery under the Civil Discovery Act using the discovery method of demands for the production for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of documents and other tangible evidence, and demands for entry onto real property for inspection.

Part II (see § 195.10 et seq.) has detailed discussion of the requirements and procedures relating to discovery by inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of tangible evidence.

Part IV provides procedural checklists:

- Subpart A (see § 195.40 et seq.) provides checklists for use by a party seeking discovery by demanding production or entry for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling.

- Subpart B (see § 195.50 et seq.) provides checklists for use by a responding party.

Part V provides forms relating to discovery by demand for production or entry for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling including the following:

- Forms for demands for production for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of documents or tangible things (see § 195.60) and for entry onto real property for inspection (see § 195.61).

- A form for a response to a demand for production or entry for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling (see § 195.62).

- Forms for use in motion proceedings for a protective order in relation to discovery by demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of tangible evidence (see §§ 195.63, 195.64).

- Forms for use in motion proceedings to compel compliance with a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of tangible evidence (see §§ 195.65 -195.69).

- A form for a subpoena for inspection of premises in an action pending outside California, under the Interstate and International Depositions and Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.100 et seq.] (see § 195.70).

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-195 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 195.10

§ 195.10 Governing Law

Discovery by demand for the production for inspection of documents, things, land, and electronically stored information pursuant to the Civil Discovery Act (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.010-2036.050) is governed generally by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.010-2031.510.

Discovery subpoenas for the inspection of premises, and for any testing, sampling, or other activity to take place during the inspection, in an action pending outside California are governed by the Interstate and International Depositions and Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.100 et seq.; see Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.500 (other applicable law)].

Related provisions of the Civil Discovery Act include the provisions governing discovery generally, set out in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.010-2019.030, 2023.010-2023.040.

The extent of discovery permitted under the Civil Discovery Act is restricted in limited civil cases by the economic litigation provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 94 and 95. The use of demands for the production or inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of tangible evidence is limited specifically by Code Civ. Proc. § 94(a). For further discussion, see § 195.15 [see also Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, §§ 190.11[2], 190.23[2][a]].

Statewide rule provisions relating to the format, content, and service of discovery papers and motions, and to discovery sanctions, are set out in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1000, 3.1345, 3.1346, 3.1347, and 3.1348.

Case management requirements relating to discovery of electronically stored information are set out in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.724, 3.728(13). For detailed discussion of these requirements, see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery), § 195A.14.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-195 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 195.11

§ 195.11 Means by Which Inspection, Copying, Testing, or Sampling May Be Procured

The principal procedure by which production and inspection, copying, testing, or sampling may be obtained, discussed in this chapter, is set out in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.010-2031.510. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010, a party may serve a demand, without a prior court order, on another party for the production of documents, tangible things, or electronically stored information, and to allow entry and inspection on land or other property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010]. In addition, under specified conditions a party may serve a supplemental demand to inspect any later acquired or discovered documents, tangible things, or electronically stored information or to permit entry and inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of any later acquired or discovered land or other property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.050(a)].

A party also may be required to produce documents or other things at his or her deposition, if the notice of deposition provides for such production [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.220(a)(4), 2025.280(a)]. A nonparty similarly may be required, by service of a deposition subpoena, to produce documents or other things at a deposition [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.020(b)]. For discussion of this method of inspecting or copying documents and inspecting other things, see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions .

Finally, the opportunity to inspect and copy writings may be given to a party propounding interrogatories. A party responding to interrogatories has the option of specifying writings from which an answer may be derived if the answer would require a compilation, abstract, audit, or summary of, or from the documents of the answering party, and if the burden or expense of preparing or making it would be substantially the same for either party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.230]. For further discussion relating to this discovery method, see Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories .

Note, too, that in some circumstances a party may conduct an inspection as a matter of informal investigation, outside the Discovery Act procedures entirely [see, e.g., Pullin v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1161, 1164-1165, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 447 (upholding informal inspection by plainiff's expert of floor of defendant's store in slip-and-fall case, when inspection was carried out during time that store premises were open to the public)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.14.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-195 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 195.12

§ 195.12 Discovery by Inspection, Copying, Testing, or Sampling of Item or Entry on Property

[1] Scope of Demand

A party may demand that any other party produce documents, tangible things, or electronically stored information, or allow entry onto property for inspection or related activities, or both [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010]. A party also may serve on another party a supplemental demand to inspect any later acquired or discovered documents, tangible things, land or other property, or electronically stored information [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.050(a)].

A party's demand for production and inspection of documents, tangible things, land, or other property, or electronically stored information is subject to both the scope of discovery generally delimited by Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010 et seq. and also the restrictions set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010(a)]. For detailed discussion relating to the general scope of discovery under Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010 et seq. and the general restrictions of Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.010 et seq., see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing .

[2] Property Subject to Production or Entry, and Inspection, Copying, Testing, or Sampling

A party may demand that any other party produce documents, tangible things, land, or other property, and electronically stored information in the possession, custody, or control of the party on whom the demand is made, or that any other party allow entry on land or other property in the possession, custody, or control of the party on whom the demand is made [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010].

As used in Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq., the term "document" includes handwriting, typewriting, printing, photostating, photographing, photocopying, transmitting by electronic mail or facsimile, and every other means of recording upon any tangible thing, any form of communication or representation, including letters, words, pictures, sounds, or symbols, or combinations thereof, and any record thereby created, regardless of the manner in which the record has been stored [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.020(c); Evid. Code § 250]. "Electronically stored information" is information that is stored in an electronic medium [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.020(e)].

Production of electronic information presents thorny issues, often based on the shear volume of information or on the fact that the data is not readily accessible because of undue burden or cost [see Playboy Enters. v. Welles (S.D. Cal 1999) 60 F. Supp. 2d 1050, 1055 ; Maldonado v. Superior Court (2002) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1390, 1396, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 137]. For discussion of e-discovery, including the duty to preserve and produce electronic evidence, see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery).

[3] Inspection and Related Activities That May Be Conducted

A party may demand production or entry for the following purposes:

- To inspect, copy, test, or sample documents, tangible things, land or other property, and electronically stored information in the possession, custody, or control of any other party to the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010(a)].

- To inspect and copy a document that is in the possession, custody, or control of the party on whom the demand is made [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010(b)].

- To inspect and photograph, test, or sample any tangible things that are in the possession, custody, or control of the party on whom the demand is made [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010(c)].

- To enter on any land or other property that is in the possession, custody, or control of the party on whom the demand is made, inspect and measure, survey, photograph, test, or sample the land or other property, or any designated object or operation on it [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010(d)].

- To inspect, copy, test, or sample electronically stored information in the possession, custody, or control of the party on whom demand is made [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010(e)].

The photographing of tangible things may include even the face and body of a person [Shepherd v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 107, 118, 130 Cal. Rptr. 257, 550 P.2d 161 (construing pre-1986 Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(a))]. It does not, however, include visually recording a reenactment of a particular event. Compliance with an order for inspection must be of a purely nontestimonial form because the deposition is the exclusive mechanism for testimonial forms of discovery [Bailey v. Superior Court (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 444, 447, 144 Cal. Rptr. 875 (prior law)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-195 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 195.13

§ 195.13 Demand for Inspection, Copying, Testing, or Sampling

Production and inspection, copying, testing, or sampling under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 is initiated by a demand served by any party on any other party [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.010, 2031.040]. The demand may be served on the plaintiff, without leave of court, at any time [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.020(a)]. A plaintiff may make a demand without leave of court at any time that is at least 10 days after the service of the summons on, or appearance by, the party to whom the demand is directed, whichever occurs first [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.020(b)]. In unlawful detainer actions or other proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq., governing forcible entry and detainer, a plaintiff may make a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling without leave of the court at any time that is five days after service of the summons on, or appearance by, the party to whom the demand is directed, whichever occurs first [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.020(c)].

The formal demand procedure outlined in Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq. is a mandatory prerequisite to seeking a court order compelling production and inspection, copying, testing, or sampling [see People ex rel. Dept. of Transportation v. Superior Court (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 352, 358, 131 Cal. Rptr. 476 (prior law; disapproved on other grounds, Davies v. Superior Court (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 291, 301, 204 Cal. Rptr. 154, 682 P.2d 349); see also Schaefer v. Manufacturers Bank (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 70, 74, 163 Cal. Rptr. 402 (prior law)].

For forms for demands and further discussion of requirements relating to the format, content, and service of a demand under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq., see §§ 195.60 and 195.61. For the procedure to be used in making a demand, see § 195.40.

§ 195.14 Supplemental Demand

Any party may propound a supplemental demand to inspect, copy, test, or sample any later acquired or discovered documents, tangible things, land or other property, or electronically stored information in the possession, custody, or control of the party on whom the demand is made [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.050(a)].

Supplemental demands may be made as follows [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.050(b)]:

- Twice before the initial setting of the trial date.

- Subject to the time limits on discovery proceedings and motions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.010 et seq., once after the initial setting of the trial date [for discussion relating to the limits under Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.010 et seq., see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.50 et seq.].

On motion for good cause shown, the court may allow a party to propound additional supplemental demands for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.050(c)].

For forms for demands that may be adapted for use in making a supplemental demand, see §§ 195.60 and 195.61 [see also § 195.40].

§ 195.15 Restriction on Number in Limited Civil Cases

The number of demands for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling or sets of demands, is restricted in limited civil cases [see Code Civ. Proc. § 91]. In these cases, a party may use, as to any adverse party, a combination of no more than 35 of the following forms of discovery [Code Civ. Proc. § 94(a)]:

- Interrogatories (with no subparts) under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.010 et seq. [see generally Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories].

- Demands to produce documents or things or electronically stored information under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq.

- Requests for admission (with no subparts) under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.010 et seq. [see generally Ch. 196, Discovery: Requests for Admission].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-195 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 195.16

§ 195.16 Response to Demand

[1] Content of Response

The party to whom a demand for inspecting, copying, testing, or sampling, has been directed must respond separately to each item or category of item by any of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210(a)]:

- A statement that the party will comply with the particular demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling, by the date set for inspection under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(c) [see § 195.60[4]] and any related activities.

- A representation that the party lacks the ability to comply with the demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling, of a particular item or category of item.

- An objection to the demand.

For a form for a response, and more detailed discussion of the types of responses, see § 195.62. For a procedural checklist for providing a response, see § 195.50.

Note that a waiver does not occur when the response is timely filed but inadequate. The use of boilerplate objections based on privilege or attorney work product protection may warrant other sanctions, but Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.300 does not authorize a waiver of the objections for such insufficiency [Korea Data Systems v. Superior Court (1997) 51 Cal. App. 4th 1513, 1517, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 925 (construing pre-1986 Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(k), now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.300); see, e.g., People ex rel. Lockyer v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1060, 1074-1075, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 324 (relying on Best Product and Korea Data to hold that in discovery disputes, deficient objections or claims of privilege are not grounds for waiver, so long as party raised timely objections under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031 on grounds of privilege in its original response); Best Products, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 1181, 1189, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 154 (party that timely answered interrogatories and request for inspection and production of documents with repetitive, boilerplate attorney-client and work product privileges did not waive right to assert those privileges for failure to file privilege log as part of its opposition to plaintiff's motion to compel further discovery)].

[2] Verification of Response

The party must sign the response under oath unless the response only contains objections [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.250(a)].

An objection in an unverified "hybrid" response, consisting of both objections and other statements, is effective [Blue Ridge Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 339, 344, 248 Cal. Rptr. 346] .

[3] Service and Timing of Response

Within 30 days after service of the demand, the party must serve the original of the response on the demanding party and a copy of the response on all other parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.260(a)]. However, in unlawful detainer actions or other proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq., governing forcible entry and detainer, the party has at least five days from the date of service of the demand to respond [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.260(b)].

If demand was served by mail, this response period is extended five calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050]. The period is extended two court days if service is by express mail or by fax [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)].

On motion of the demanding party, the court may shorten the time for response, or on motion of the responding party, the court may extend the time for response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.260(a); for forms for extending time to respond to interrogatories which may be adapted for this purpose, see Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories, § 194.90 et seq.].

In unlawful detainer proceedings, or other proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), on motion of the demanding party, the court may shorten the time for response, or, on motion of the responding party, the court may extend the time for response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.260(b)].

For discussion and a form for use in making an ex parte application, declaration in support of, and order extending time for response, see California Deposition and Discovery Practice, Ch. 8, General Procedures for Discovery Motions and Shortening or Extending Time (Matthew Bender). For additional discussion and forms that may be adapted for use in making an ex parte application or a motion to shorten the time for response, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders , and Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time .

[4] Agreement to Extend Time for Response

The demanding and responding parties may agree to extend the time for service of a response to a set of demands, or to particular items or categories of items in a set, to a date beyond that provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.260. The agreement may be informal, but it must be confirmed in a writing that specifies the extended date for service of a response. Unless the agreement expressly states otherwise, it is effective to preserve to the responding party the right to respond to any item or category of item in the demand in any manner specified in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.030, 2031.210, 2031.260, or 2031.280 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.270]. In other words, no waiver of the right to respond in the form of an objection is to be read into such an agreement [see Reporter's Notes to Proposed Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(j); (now Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.270);see also Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.13[2]].

An agreement to extend time for response to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling, whether offered separately or as an attachment to another document, may not be filed unless offered as relevant to the determination of an issue in a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or is ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(7)]. The original of the agreement must be retained until six months after final disposition of the cause, unless the court on motion of any party and for good cause shown orders the original papers preserved for a longer period [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-195 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 195.17

§ 195.17 Protective Orders

[1] Motion for Protective Order

When inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of documents, tangible things, places, or electronically stored information has been demanded, the party to whom the demand has been directed, and any other party or affected person or organization, may promptly move for a protective order [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(a)]. A motion for protective order must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable good faith attempt at an informal resolution of any issue presented by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(a); for further discussion of this general requirement, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1]].

For a motion for protective order, see § 195.63. For a procedural checklist for this motion proceeding, see § 195.51. For discussion of monetary sanctions to be imposed in this motion proceeding on the party who unsuccessfully makes or opposes the motion, see § 195.20[1].

For discussion relating to protective orders restricting discovery under the general provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.010 et seq., see Ch. 190, Discovery: Purpose, Scope, and Timing, § 190.30 et seq.

[2] Types of Protective Orders

On a motion for protective order in inspection, copying, testing, or sampling demand proceedings, the court, for good cause shown, may make any order that justice requires to protect any party or other person from unwarranted annoyance, embarrassment, or oppression, or undue burden and expense . A protective order may include but is not limited to the following directions [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(b)]:

- That all or some of the items or categories of items in the demand need not be produced or made available at all [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(b)(1)].

- That the time specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.260, for serving a response to a set of demands, or to a particular item or category in a set of demands, be extended [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(b)(2)].

- That the place of production be other than that specified in the demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(b)(3)].

- That the inspection, copying, testing, or sampling be made only on specified terms and conditions [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(b)(4)].

- That a trade secret or other confidential research, development, or commercial information not be disclosed, or be disclosed only to specified persons or only in a specified way [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(b)(5)].

- That the items produced be sealed and thereafter opened only on court order [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(b)(6)].

The party or affected person who seeks a protective order regarding the production, inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of electronically stored information on the basis that the information is from a source that is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or expense bears the burden of demonstrating inaccessibility [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(c)]. However, even if the party or affected person makes that showing, the court may still order discovery if the demanding party shows good cause [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(d); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(e) (allocation of discovery expense), (f) (limitations on frequency or extent of discovery of ESI)]. For a detailed discussion of protective orders in the context of e-discovery, see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery), § 195A.17.

If the motion for a protective order is denied in whole or in part, the court may order the responding party to provide or permit the discovery against which the protection was sought on terms and conditions that are just [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(g); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(i) (exception for electronically stored information)].

For a form for a proposed order granting or denying a motion for protective order, see § 195.64.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-195 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 195.18

§ 195.18 Effect of Failure to Respond

If a party to whom a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling has been directed fails to serve a timely response to it, that party waives any objection to the demand, including one based on privilege or on the protection for work product under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.300(a); see also Ruvalcaba v. Government Employees Ins. Co. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1579, 1580-1581, 272 Cal. Rptr. 541 (failure to respond does not waive party's ability to appeal subsequent imposition of sanctions for failure to respond)].

However, the court, on motion, may relieve that party from this waiver on the court's determination that (1) the party has subsequently served a response that is in substantial compliance with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.210-2031.260 and 2031.280, and (2) the party's failure to serve a timely response was the result of mistake, inadvertance, or excusable neglect [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.300(a); for discussion of requirements for response under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210 et seq., see § 195.16].

In deciding whether or not the failure to serve a timely response was the result of mistake, inadvertence, or excusable neglect, the court will apply the same standard as that used in Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b). Counsel's mistake of law on a relatively simple and undebatable matter is not a valid ground for relief. Further, the press of an attorney's practice does not warrant relief [City of Fresno v. Superior Court (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1459, 1467, 253 Cal. Rptr. 296] . Similarly, tactical choices by counsel do not warrant relief. For example, counsel's failure to assert the attorney-client privilege in reliance on the potential relief from an ultimately unsuccessful motion for a protective order was inexcusable neglect. Counsel's actions were based not on a mistake of law, but on the choice to pursue one course of action without complying with clear legal requirements [Scottsdale Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 263, 274-276, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 112] . Moreover, mandatory relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b) is available only in those situations in which the attorney's mistake causes a total failure to oppose a dismissal motion or a failure to appear [Gotschall v. Daley (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 479, 484, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 882] . Thus, mandatory relief was not available when counsel mistakenly believed it was unnecessary, under Code Civ. Proc. § 2034.010 et seq., to name treating physicians who would give opinion testimony as experts in the expert witness disclosure, and the trial court dismissed the case for lack of proof of causation [Gotschall v. Daley (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 479, 484, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 882] . For discussion and forms relating to relief from default under Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b), see Ch. 489, Relief From Judgments and Orders .

Note that a waiver does not occur when the response filed is timely but inadequate. The use of boilerplate objections based on privilege or attorney work product protection may warrant other sanctions, but Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.300 does not authorize a waiver of the objections for such insufficiency [People ex rel. Lockyer v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1060, 1074-1075, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 324 (relying on Best Product and Korea Data to hold that in discovery disputes, deficient objections or claims of privilege are not grounds for waiver, so long as party raised timely objections on grounds of privilege in its original response); Best Products, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 1181, 1189, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 154 (defendant's failure to provide a privilege log did not constitute waiver of its right to assert attorney-client privilege and work product protection in regard to interrogatories propounded by plaintiff, when defendant provided timely, albeit boilerplate, response); Korea Data Systems Co. v. Superior Court (1997) 51 Cal. App. 4th 1513, 1517, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 925 (construing pre-1986 Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(k), now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.300)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-195 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 195.19

§ 195.19 Compelling Compliance With Demand

[1] On Failure to Respond

If the responding party fails to serve a timely response to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling, the demanding party may move for an order compelling a response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.300(b); for discussion of deadline for serving response, see § 195.16[3]].

A party seeking an order requiring production or entry for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling must first have made a proper demand for production or entry [see People ex rel. Dept. of Transportation v. Superior Court (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 352, 358, 131 Cal. Rptr. 476 , disapproved on other grounds, Davies v. Superior Court (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 291, 301, 204 Cal. Rptr. 154, 682 P.2d 349 (prior law); see also § 195.13].

For a form for a motion to compel a response, see § 195.65. For a procedural checklist for this motion proceeding, see § 195.42. For discussion of monetary sanctions to be imposed in this motion proceeding on the party who unsuccessfully makes or opposes the motion, see § 195.20[1]. For discussion of sanctions to be imposed on the responding party for failure to obey an order compelling a response, see § 195.20[2].

[2] On Service of Inadequate Response

On receipt of a response to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling, if the demanding party deems that (1) a statement of compliance with the demand is incomplete, (2) a representation of inability to comply is inadequate, incomplete, or evasive, or (3) an objection in the response is without merit or too general, that party may move for an order compelling a further response to the demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310(a); see Standon Co. v. Superior Court (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 898, 902-903, 275 Cal. Rptr. 833 (distinguishing motion to compel further response under what is now Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310 from motion to compel compliance with response under what is now Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.320)].

A motion to compel a further response to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling must do the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310(b)]:

- Set forth specific facts showing good cause justifying the discovery sought by the demand.

- Include an accompanying declaration stating facts showing a reasonable good faith attempt at an informal resolution of any issue presented by the motion [for further discussion of this general requirement, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1]].

For a form for a motion to compel a further response and further discussion of requirements relating to the motion, including time requirements, see § 195.66. For a form for a separate statement setting out all information necessary to determine the motion, as required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345, see § 195.67. For a procedural checklist for this motion proceeding, see § 195.42.

For discussion of monetary sanctions to be imposed in this motion proceeding on the party who unsuccessfully makes or opposes the motion, see § 195.20[1]. For discussion of sanctions to be imposed on the responding party for failure to obey an order compelling a further response, see § 195.20[2].

[3] On Failure to Permit Inspection, Copying, Testing, or Sampling

If a party who has responded to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210 et seq. afterwards fails to permit an inspection, copying, testing, or sampling in accordance with the statement of compliance in that party's response, the demanding party may move for an order compelling compliance [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.320(a)].

For a form for a motion to compel a further response and further discussion of requirements relating to the motion, including time requirements, see § 195.67. For a procedural checklist for this motion proceeding, see § 195.42.

For discussion of monetary sanctions to be imposed in this motion proceeding on the party who unsuccessfully makes or opposes the motion, see § 195.20[1]. For discussion of sanctions to be imposed on the responding party for failure to obey an order compelling compliance, see § 195.20[2].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-195 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 195.20

§ 195.20 Sanction Provisions

[1] Monetary Sanction for Unsuccessfully Making or Opposing Motion

In motion proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq., either for a protective order or an order directing a response, further response, or compliance, the court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes the motion, unless the court finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.060(h), (i), 2031.300(c), (d), 2031.310(h), (j), 2031.320(b), (d); for further discussion of this general provision, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]].

The court may award sanctions in favor of a party who files a motion to compel discovery, even though no opposition to the motion was filed, or opposition to the motion was withdrawn, or the requested discovery was provided to the moving party after the motion was filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(a)]. The court may not, however, deem the opposing party's failure to file written opposition, failure to appear at a hearing, or voluntary provision discovery to be an admission that the motion was proper or that sanctions should be awarded [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(b)].

For more detailed discussion of monetary sanctions generally, including requirements generally applicable in proceedings to impose such sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

[2] Sanctions for Failure to Obey Order Compelling Response, Further Response, or Compliance

If a party fails to obey an order compelling a response, a further response, or compliance with a response, the court may make those orders that are just, including the imposition of an issue sanction, an evidence sanction, or a terminating sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against the disobedient party [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.300(c), (d), 2031.310(i), (j), 2031.320(c), (d)]. In lieu of, or in addition to, those sanctions, the court may impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against the disobedient party [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.060(h), (i), 2031.300(c), (d), 2031.310(h), (j), 2031.320(b), (d); see, e.g., Sauer v. Superior Court (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 213, 228-229, 240 Cal. Rptr. 489 (imposition of issue sanction for willful failure to obey order compelling production of financial records)].

Thus, for example, the terminating sanction of dismissal of the complaint may be imposed against a plaintiff after failure to comply with an order of production made under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq., and the plaintiff may not avoid such involuntary and prejudicial dismissal by voluntarily dismissing the complaint prior to the hearing on the motion seeking dismissal as a sanction [Hartbrodt v. Burke (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 168, 174, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 562] .

For detailed discussion of evidence, issue, and terminating sanctions, and forms of motions seeking the imposition of such sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[3], 192.15[3], and 192.50 et seq.

[3] Sanctions Following Completion of Discovery

[a] Monetary Sanctions Imposed Post Trial

Under some circumstances, a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 may be imposed post-trial. For example, a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 may properly be imposed for failure to produce to evidence for inspection, even when the demanding party never made a motion to compel under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq.

In a products liability case, defendants, in response to a demand under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq. for the production of customer complaints relating to the product in issue, improperly withheld most of the complaints they had received. Thereafter, defendants lied at trial when questioned about the existence of any complaints other than those they had actually produced. Plaintiffs only learned of the existence of other complaints after trial, through a third party, and, because of defendant's deception, had had no way knowing during the discovery stage that there were grounds for seeking an order compelling a further response to their demand for production. In these circumstances, the court of appeal held that it was proper to award monetary sanctions under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq.), even though the plaintiffs as demanding parties had never moved to compel a further response. The court noted that, at this post trial stage, other discovery sanctions were no longer available, and monetary sanctions therefore were proper not only to punish the misconduct but also to reimburse the plaintiffs for their expenses incurred in prosecuting the first trial [Sherman v. Kinetic Concepts, Inc. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 1152, 1162-1163, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 641] .

A separate motion for monetary sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 may be made after an underlying motion to compel further response to an inspection demand is litigated [London v. Dri-Honing Corp. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1001, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 240 (decided under the predecessor statute, former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023(b), repealed 2005)]. In one wrongful termination case, the trial court granted the former employee's motion for discovery monetary sanctions after he had successfully litigated the underlying motion to compel further response to his inspection demand. On appeal, the employer argued that the employee's motion was untimely because it was not set forth in the motion to compel further response [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310]. The court of appeal disagreed, holding that the employee's separate motion was legally authorized, properly noticed, and timely made [London v. Dri-Honing Corp. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1009, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 240] . The court found support for its decision in Sherman v. Kinetic Concepts (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 1152, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 641 (discussed above), in which the court concluded that a motion for discovery monetary sanctions was appropriate even after the verdict. "[C]ommon sense dictates sanctions cannot be pursued before the affected party finds out about the alleged discovery dereliction of his or her opponent. The true facts may not emerge until the end of trial" [London v. Dri-Honing Corp. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1007, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 240] . While the better practice may be to include the request for monetary sanctions in the motion to compel further response, there is no legal requirement to do so [London v. Dri-Honing Corp. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1008, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 240] . Moreover, the timeliness of a separate motion for sanctions is subject to the trial court's discretion, rather than the 45-day limit from the time of the initial service of the response under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310(c) [London v. Dri-Honing Corp. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1009, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 240 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023, 2031(m) repealed 2005)].

[b] Monetary Sanctions Imposed by Reviewing Court

Unmeritorious challenges to trial court rulings that direct compliance may result in the imposition of monetary sanctions by the reviewing court. For example, sanctions were imposed on a petitioner's attorney following two unmeritorious mandate petitions that objected to a legitimate demand for inspection of property and trial court rulings that correctly directed compliance with this demand [Manzetti v. Superior Court (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 373, 378-381, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 857 (petitioner's reliance on former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(c)(4) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(c)(4)), relating to specification in demand of activities in addition to inspection, was without merit and motivated solely for delay)]. For discussion of sanctions on appeal generally, see Ch. 49, Appeal: Sanctions .

Chapter 195 DISCOVERY: INSPECTION OF TANGIBLE EVIDENCE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-195 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 195.21

§ 195.21 Discovery Sanctions and Other Factors Preclude Tort Remedy for Spoliation of Tangible Evidence

In some instances, tangible evidence subject to discovery pursuant to a demand under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq. cannot be produced for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling because it has been lost or destroyed. In this situation, the Supreme Court has held that there is no tort cause of action in California for intentional spoliation of evidence.

The Court first came to this conclusion in the context of "first-party" spoliation, when both the injured party and the alleged "spoliator" were parties to the underlying litigation, and the injured party knew or reasonably should have known of the alleged loss or destruction of evidence before the trial or other decision on the merits of the underlying cause of action [see Cedars-Sinai Medical Center v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1, 17-18, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 248, 954 P.2d 511] .

One of the major reasons for the Court's decision was that, in these situations, there is a strong policy in favor of using nontort remedies for such "litigation misconduct." Such nontort remedies include discovery sanctions under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq.) when a party destroys evidence in response to a discovery request after litigation has commenced, or has destroyed evidence in anticipation of a discovery request [Cedars-Sinai Medical Center v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1, 12, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 248, 954 P.2d 511 ; see Hassoldt v. Patrick Media Group, Inc. (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 153, 167-169, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 662 (reversing award of damages for spoliation of evidence tort based on retroactive application of Cedars-Sinai); cf.; Dale v. Dale (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1172, 1185-1187, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 513 (holding that public policy reasons enumerated in Cedars-Sinai against creating tort remedies for litigation-related misconduct did not prohibit spouse from pursuing tort action against former spouse for concealment of community assets, absent pending dissolution proceeding; tort action based on several theories other than spoliation, including fraud and conversion)].

The Supreme Court later extended this rationale to "third-party" spoliation, holding there is likewise no tort remedy for intentional spoliation by one who was not a party to the underlying litigation to which the spoliated evidence related [Temple Community Hospital v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 464, 466, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 852, 976 P. 2d 223] . The Court recognized that the salient distinction between first- and third-party spoliation of evidence is the disparity in sanctions available within the confines of the underlying litigation. The Court noted, however, that the victim of third-party spoliation is not entirely helpless, in that some discovery sanctions are available against a nonparty who flouts the discovery process by suppressing or destroying evidence, and are also available against another party to the action in those instances in which it is possible to establish a connection between that party and the non-party spoliator. The Court concluded, in any event, that the distinction between the sanctions available to victims of first-party and third-party spoliation did not justify employing the burdensome and inaccurate instrument of derivative tort litigation in the case of third-party spoliation [Temple Community Hospital v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 464, 477, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 852, 976 P. 2d 223] .

The decisions in Cedars-Sinai and Temple did not address the issue of whether tort liability may be available for negligent spoliation of evidence [Temple Community Hospital v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 464, 471 n.3, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 852, 976 P. 2d 223 ; Cedars-Sinai Medical Center v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1, 18 n.4, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 248, 954 P. 2d 511] . Subsequent court of appeal decisions have, however, concluded that there is no tort remedy for either first-party or third-party negligent spoliation of evidence [Lueter v. State (2002) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1285, 1295, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 68 (third-party negligent spoliation of evidence); Coprich v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 1081, 1089-1090, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 884 (first- and third-party spoliation of evidence); Farmers Ins. Exchange v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 1400, 1407, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 51 (third-party negligent spoliation of evidence)].

The court of appeal panels in both Coprich and Farmers Ins. concluded that the policy considerations concerning tort actions for intentional spoliation, discussed by the Supreme Court in Cedars-Sinai and Temple Community, applied with equal force to negligent actions for spoliation. The burden to litigants, witnesses, and the judicial system outweighed the benefits of recognizing a tort cause of action to deter negligent spoliation of evidence and compensate spoliation victims [Coprich v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 1081, 1085, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 884 ; Farmers Ins. Exchange v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 1400, 1407-1408, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 51] . These burdens included potentially endless litigation over speculative losses, significant potential for jury confusion and inconsistency when trying spoliation claims, either as a separate action or jointly with the underlying action, and the cost to society of promoting onerous record and evidence retention policies [Coprich v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 1081, 1085, 1088-1089, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 884 ; Farmers Ins. Exchange v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 1400, 1407-1408, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 51] . These courts additionally noted the legal absurdity of holding a party liable for negligent conduct when the same party could not be held liable for similar conduct that was intentional [Coprich v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 1081, 1085, 1089, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 884 ; Farmers Ins. Exchange v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 1400, 1407, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 51] .

The court of appeal in Coprich distinguished several earlier court of appeal decisions, most of which predated Cedars-Sinai and Temple Community, which had recognized a limited cause of action for negligent spoliation against a third party. Examples cited by the court in Coprich included the following: Johnson v. United Services Automobile Assn. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 626, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 234 (negligent spoliation not precluded by Cedars-Sinai), overruled by Lueter v. State (2002) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1285, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 68 ; Velasco v. Commercial Bldg. Maintenance Co. (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 874, 876-877, 215 Cal. Rptr. 504 (assuming, without deciding, that negligent spoliation survives as tort cause of action, holding that janitorial service had no duty to preserve evidence); Hernandez v. Garcetti (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 675, 680, 80 Cal.Rptr. 2d 443 (assuming, without deciding, that negligent spoliation survives as tort cause of action, holding that government tort claim for negligent spoliation was untimely); Galanek v. Wismar (1999) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1417, 1425, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 236 (legal malpractice claim based on negligent spoliation of evidence). The court in Coprich declined to follow Velasco and the cases it cited because they did not adequately address the compelling policy considerations discussed in Cedars-Sinai and Temple Community [Coprich v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 1081, 1085, 1090-1091, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 884] . The Coprich court also found cases such as Hernadez and Galanek inapposite, in that the former assumed without deciding that a cause of action for negligent spoliation existed, and the latter was premised on a breach of a fiduciary duty [Coprich v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 1081, 1085, 1091, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 884] . Finally, the court in Coprich rejected the conclusion of the court of appeal panel in Johnson, that is, its conclusion that the burdens and costs of a tort remedy for negligent third-party spoliation did not justify precluding such a cause of action [Johnson v. United Services Automobile Assn. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 626, 631-632, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 234 , overruled by Lueter v. State (2002) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1285, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 68] . The Coprich court deemed this conclusion to be contrary to the Supreme Court's decision in Temple Community, which emphasized the need for "finality of adjudication" in the third-party context, the uncertainty of the fact of harm and causation, the potential for arbitrary and inconsistent results, and other costs and burdens [Coprich v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 1081, 1091, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 884] .

In Lueter v. State (2002) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1285, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 68 , the Third Appellate District panel agreed with the results in Farmers Ins. Exchange and Coprich, overruling Johnson v. United Services Automobile Assn. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 626, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 234 . The court of appeal panel found that the factors identified by the Supreme Court in Temple Community, in rejecting a tort of intentional third party spoliation, militated against the recognition of a tort of negligent spoliation of evidence [Lueter v. State (2002) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1285, 1295, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 68] . The court acknowledged that a limited cause of action for negligent spoliation of evidence by a third party spoliator, based on a special relationship rising out of an undertaking, agreement, or specific request to preserve evidence, or a relationship based on contract, statute, or regulation, as espoused in Johnson v. United Services Automobile Assn., might tend to restrain the "endless spiral of lawsuits" that Temple feared. However, the appellate court found the amorphous requirement of a "special relationship" insufficient to overcome the concerns expressed in Temple [Lueter v. State (2002) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1285,1296-1297, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 68] . Because the Lueter court refused to recognize the tort of negligent spoliation of evidence against a private party, it rejected the argument that defendant state agency, which "prevented [plaintiffs] from taking [their] own tire tread from the accident scene" had a duty to preserve the evidence. Absent a statute specifically imposing liability, a public entity and its employees are not liable for causes of action in tort that cannot be pursued against a private party. Thus, any liability for spoliation against a public entity and its employees would have to be created by statute, not judicially [Lueter v. State (2002) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1285, 1300, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 68] .

Similarly, in Forbes v. County of San (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 48, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 721 , the Fourth Appellate District panel held that plaintiffs, adversaries in a prior civil action, had no tort cause of action against the county or the state for intentional or negligent destruction of trial records from that action, after the judgment was vacated on appeal and a new trial ordered, in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 914 [Forbes v. County of San (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 48, 58-59, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 721] . (Code Civ. Proc. § 914 provides, in relevant part, that when it is impossible to obtain a reporter's transcript on appeal due to the loss or destruction of the reporter's notes, the court may vacate the judgment appealed and order a new trial.) The court of appeal panel concluded that the statutory duty to preserve evidence is not enough by itself to warrant tort liability [Forbes v. County of San Bernardino (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 48, 57, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 721] . In reaching its decision, the panel relied on the Supreme Court's decisions in Cedars-Sinai and Temple Community, as well as on Coprich, Lueter, and its own decision in Farmers Ins., all of which establish "beyond reasonable dispute" that there is no tort cause of action against a litigant or third party for intentional or negligent destruction of evidence. The court rejected plaintiffs' argument that the spoliation cases were inapposite because they involved parties who, unlike defendants here, had no statutory duty to maintain records. Rather, under California law, the fact a public entity has a statutory duty to act or refrain from acting is not enough to create tort liability for a violation of that duty. Instead, the plaintiff also must show the resulting injury would be actionable against a private person. The spoliation cases established that the plaintiffs' alleged injuries for intentional destruction of court records and negligence did not meet that requirement [Forbes v. County of San Bernardino (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 48, 57, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 721] . The Lueter decision further supported the conclusion there should be no tort liability notwithstanding a public entity's duty to preserve evidence. This court of appeal panel agreed with the Lueter court that the existence of a statutory duty is an inadequate basis for tort liability in the absence of a statute expressly creating that liability, if the injury giving rise to the claim would not be actionable against a private party [Forbes v. County of San Bernardino (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 48, 57-59, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 721] . Finally, the court noted that it would have reached the same conclusion based on the public policy considerations that led the Supreme Court to reject tort liability in Cedars-Sinai and Temple Community. The concerns applicable here included potentially endless litigation, the existence of non-tort remedies to address the problem of destruction of records, and the impossibility of proving causation and damages [Forbes v. County of San Bernardino (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 48, 59, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 721] .

At least one court, citing dictum in Temple Community, has held that the absence of a tort cause of action for spoliation does not preclude a possible action for contract damages, when there is a breach of a contract duty to preserve evidence and the underlying contract is not shown to be illegal, unconscionable, or otherwise unenforceable [Coprich v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 1081, 1085, 1091-1092, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 884 ; see Lueter v. State (2002) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1285, 1299 n.3, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 68 (dictum that "the decisional authorities do not foreclose an action in contract where the defendant is under a contractual obligation to preserve evidence")].

16-195 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 195.34

§ 195.34 Decisions

[1] Description of Tangible Evidence

Description is required such that would apprise person of ordinary intelligence of document desired. Union Trust Co. v. Superior Court (1938) 11 Cal. 2d 449, 458, 81 P.2d 150 (prior law)

[2] Informal Inspection

Property open to the public may be examined without recourse to former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq.) or Civil Discovery Act generally, so long as examination is lawful. Pullin v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1161, 1164-1165, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 447

[2A] Inspection and Related Activities

Former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(g)(1) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(c)] automatically shifts to demanding party reasonable expense of translating data compilation into usable form, absent finding that translation is not necessary or that former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(g)(1)) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(c)] does not apply for some other reason. Toshiba Am. Electronics Components, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 762, 769, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532

Neither court's inherent power to exercise reasonable control over discovery matters nor any California statute authorized trial court to order litigants before trial to pay for destructive testing or any other discovery they did not wish to pursue; thus, trial court abused its discretion, in a construction defect case, by requiring defendants to share in cost of destructive testing that defendants did not want. San Diego Unified Port Dist. v. Barnhart (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1400, 1405, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 65

[3] Possession and Control of Tangible Evidence

When liability insurer defending action under terms of policy, material that is under custody and control of insurance company or its general counsel is deemed in possession and control of defendant and obtainable under pre-1986 Code Civ. Proc. § 2031. Clark v. Superior Court (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 577, 579, 2 Cal. Rptr. 375

[4] Protective Orders

Request for production of documents is oppressive when the ultimate burden is incommensurate with result sought; it is oppressive to require an insurer to produce files of all claims made over a five-year period that were similar in nature to the claim in issue, when to do so would require individual evaluation of over 13,000 claims. Mead Reinsurance Co. v. Superior Court (1986) 188 Cal. App. 3d 313, 320-321, 232 Cal. Rptr. 752 (prior law)

In granting discovery of names and addresses of particular claimants of insurer, trial court's denial of protective order that would prohibit insured's counsel from seeking employment from claimants or encouraging claimants to file suits is not abuse of court's discretion. Colonial Life & Accident Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 785, 793-795, 183 Cal. Rptr. 810, 647 P.2d 86 (prior law)

Service on party's attorney of order for discovery of corporate records as proper under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(b) (now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.300-2031.320). Thrasher v. Thrasher (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 23, 29, 103 Cal. Rptr. 618 (prior law)

[5] Response to Demand

Because petitioner raised timely objections under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq. on grounds of privilege to real party in interest's request for production of documents and served privilege log, petitioner preserved its objections, regardless of whether objections were sufficiently detailed in their response or privilege log; thus, trial court erred by finding waiver under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.300. People ex rel. Lockyer v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1060, 1074-1075, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 324

Party that timely answered request for inspection and production of documents with repetitive, boilerplate attorney-client and work product privileges did not waive right to assert those privileges for failure to file privilege log as part of its opposition to plaintiff's request to inspect and product; Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.300 does not include as authorized sanction a judicial order that privilege has been waived. Best Products, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 1181, 1187-1188, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 154

Provision in former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(g) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.250), that response to request for production consisting solely of objections need not be verified, mandates that objection in unverified "hybrid" response, consisting of both objections and other statements, is effective. Blue Ridge Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 339, 344, 248 Cal. Rptr. 346

Objection to request for production not made within time for response set out in former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.260) is not permitted to be considered on motion for order to compel; informal letter stating that documents sought were privileged, which was mailed before formal request was made, is not proper response to request or basis for relief from default. Schaff v. Superior Court (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 921, 923-924, 194 Cal. Rptr. 546

[6] Sanctions

Separate motion for discovery monetary sanctions may be made after underlying motion to compel further response to an inspection demand is litigated, even though better practice may be to include request for monetary sanctions in motion to compel further response. London v. Dri-Honing Corp. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1001, 1008, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 240

[7] Scope of Demand

Photographing of face and body of person is within terms "objects or tangible things" subject to production for photographing under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010(c)). Shepherd v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 107, 118, 130 Cal. Rptr. 257, 550 P.2d 161 (prior law)

Production and inspection of "objects or tangible things" does not encompass human remains. Holm v. Superior Court (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1241, 1247, 232 Cal. Rptr. 432 (prior law)

In mandate proceeding to compel payments pursuant to city ordinance, city attorney's tentative opinion draft concerning ordinance's legality is neither relevant admissible evidence nor reasonably calculated to lead to such evidence when ordinance's language is clear and individual legislator's intent is inadmissible. City and County of San Francisco v. Superior Court (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 481, 484-486, 181 Cal. Rptr. 775 (prior law)

Discovery order authorizing claimant's representative to inspect and copy writings that plaintiffs designate as bearing on crashworthiness of vehicle is too broad by empowering claimants to resolve discovery disputes. Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft v. Superior Court (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 840, 848-849, 176 Cal. Rptr. 874 (prior law)

Discovery order requiring defendant to permit claimants to conduct informal interviews of its employees is beyond scope of Discovery Act of 1957. Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft v. Superior Court (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 840, 849, 176 Cal. Rptr. 874 (prior law)

Party is not required to first seek inspection of premises and documents by nonjudicial request when it is clear that party repeatedly but vainly sought production sufficient to persuade him or her and court that complete disclosure had been made, when motion for discovery not an unreasonable burden on court, and when opposing party had ample opportunity to interpose objections. Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft v. Superior Court (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 840, 851, 176 Cal. Rptr. 874 (prior law)

Former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq.) does not authorize compelled reenactment of event for any means of visual recordation, as such reenactment is of testimonial nature and outside scope of former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031. Bailey v. Superior Court (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 444, 447, 144 Cal. Rptr. 875 (prior law); but see Emerson Electric Co. v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 1101, 1106-1113, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 883, 946 P. 2d 841 (deponent may be required to perform nonverbal reenactment during videotaped deposition)

Formal request procedure outlined in former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031 is mandatory prerequisite to seeking court order for production of documents. People ex rel. Dept. of Transportation v. Superior Court (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 352, 358, 131 Cal. Rptr. 476 , disapproved on other grounds, Davies v. Superior Court (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 291, 301, 204 Cal. Rptr. 154, 682 P.2d 349

In absence of jurisdiction over foreign corporation, California courts are unable to compel officer over whom only personal and not representative jurisdiction has been acquired to produce corporate records. Coopman v. Superior Court (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 656, 661, 47 Cal. Rptr. 131 (prior law)

[8] Tort Action for Spoliation of Tangible Evidence

There is no tort action in California for intentional spoliation of evidence by a third party, that is, by person not a party to underlying litigation to which spoliated evidence related. Temple Community Hospital v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 464, 466, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 852, 976 P.2d 223

There is no tort action in California for intentional spoliation of evidence, when both injured party and alleged "spoliator" were parties to underlying litigation, and injured party knew or reasonably should have known of alleged loss or destruction of evidence before trial or other decision on the merits of underlying cause of action. Cedar-Sinai Medical Center v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1, 17-18, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 248, 954 P.2d 511

Plaintiffs, adversaries in prior civil action, had no tort cause of action against county or state for intentional or negligent destruction of trial records from that action, after judgment was vacated on appeal and new trial ordered; statutory duty to preserve evidence is not enough to warrant tort liability, absent statute expressly creating such liability when injury giving rise to claim would not be actionable against private party. Forbes v. County of San Bernardino (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 48, 57-59, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 721

There is no tort remedy for first-party or third-party negligent spoliation of evidence. Lueter v. State (2002) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1285, 1295, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 68 (third-party negligent spoliation of evidence); Coprich v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 1081, 1089-1090, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 884 (first and third party spoliation of evidence); Farmers Ins. Exchange v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 1400, 1407, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 51 (third party negligent spoliation of evidence)

16-195 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 195.40

§ 195.40 Demand for Production or Inspection, Copying, Testing, or Sampling

[1] Ascertain Whether Leave of Court Required

1. Service by plaintiff.

a. If service is to be made on a party within 10 days after service of summons or appearance of that party, or is service is to be made within five days after service of summons in an unlawful detainer action or other proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), obtain leave of court either with or without notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.020(d); for forms to allow early service of interrogatories that may be adapted for use, see Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories, § 194.80 et seq.].

b. No leave of court is required if served on the other party more than 10 days after service of summons or appearance of that party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.020(b)].

2. Service by defendant may be made without leave of court at any time [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.020(a)].

[2] Prepare Demand

1. Demand for production of documents or tangible things for inspection, copying, photographing, testing, and sampling [see § 195.60].

2. Demand for permission to enter on land or other property for inspection and related activities [see § 195.61].

[3] Prepare Proof of Service

Prepare proof of service of the demand [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013a, 2031.290; see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

[4] Serve Documents

Serve demand on party to whom it is directed, and copies of demand and proof of service on all parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.040].

[5] Supplemental Demands

1. Prepare and serve supplemental demand in same manner as initial demand [see [2]-[4], above and §§ 195.60, 195.61], to inspect later acquired or later discovered documents, tangible things, land or other property, or electronically stored information in possession, control, or custody of party on whom demand is made. Supplemental demands may be made (1) twice before the initial setting of the trial date and (2) subject to time limits on discovery proceedings and motions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.010 et seq., once after the initial setting of the trial date [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.050; for discussion relating to time limits under Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.010 et seq., see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing § 190.50 et seq.].

2. On motion for good cause shown, the court may also allow the demanding party to propound an additional number of supplemental demands [Code Civ. Proc. 2031.050(c)].

[6] Disposition of Documents

Retain the original of the demand, with the original proof of service affixed, and the original of the response until six months after final disposition of the action. Then, the documents may be destroyed unless the court, on motion of any party and for good cause shown, orders that they be preserved for a longer period [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.290(b)].

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS
A. Checklists for Party Seeking Discovery

16-195 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 195.41

§ 195.41 Motion for Order for Early Response

If the requesting party wants a response to the request in less than the amount of time allowed under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.260 to reply, file a motion to shorten time with the court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.260 (30-day time limit for response, except in an unlawful detainer action or other proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), which has a five-day time limit); see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050 (extension of time limit when demand served by mail); Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e) (extension when service is by express mail or by fax)]. For a form for an ex parte application to shorten the time for responding to interrogatories (as well as the time for serving them), which may be adapted for this purpose, and a related procedural checklist, see Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories, §§ 194.60[3] and 194.80 et seq. For discussion and forms relating to proceedings to shorten time requirements generally, see Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time .

NOTE:

In unlawful detainer actions or other proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), unless the court has issued an order shortening the time for response, the responding party has at least five days from the date of service of the demand to respond [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.260; for discussion, forms, and a procedural guide relating to unlawful detainer proceedings generally, see Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions].

A. Checklists for Party Seeking Discovery

16-195 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 195.42

§ 195.42 Proceedings for Order Compelling Compliance and Sanctions

[1] Prepare Documents

1. Prepare notice of motion for order compelling response, further response, or compliance with response to demand [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.300, 2031.310, or 2031.320; see respectively forms of motion set out in §§ 195.65, 195.66, or 195.68]. A motion to compel further response must (1) set out specific facts showing good cause for the discovery sought by the demand and (2) be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of any issue presented by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310(b); see form for motion set out in § 195.66]. A motion to compel a further response must also be accompanied by a separate statement under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345 [see § 195.67].

NOTE:
A separate motion for monetary sanctions may be made after an underlying motion to compel further response to an inspection demand is litigated, even though the better practice may be to place the request for monetary sanctions in its motion to compel further response [see London v. Dri-Honing Corp. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1001, 1008, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 240 ; § 195.20[3][a]].

2. Prepare memorandum supporting motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); for further discussion of memorandum requirements and a skeletal form for a memorandum, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities ; for forms for memoranda supporting a motion to compel a response, further reponse, or compliance with a response to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.300, 2031.310, or 2031.320, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 85, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence (Matthew Bender)].

3. Prepare proof of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

[2] Serve Documents

At least 16 court days before the date set for hearing of the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)], or any longer time required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) if service of the notice of motion is to be by mail, overnight delivery, or fax, serve every party to the action or proceeding with a copy of the notice of motion, supporting declaration and memorandum, and proof of service.

[3] File Documents

File the signed original notice of motion, supporting papers, and proof of service.

[4] Order

1. If the court grants the motion, prepare an order granting motion [see § 195.69].

2. If required by local court rule or practice, have opposing party approve order as to form.

3. Present order to judge for signature.

4. File original.

5. Serve copies of order stamped "endorsed filed." Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1019.5(a), when a motion is granted or denied, unless the court otherwise orders, notice of the court's decision or order [see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders] must be given by the prevailing party to all other parties or their attorneys in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020 [see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers], unless notice is waived by all parties in open court and is entered in the minutes.

B. Checklists for Responding Party

16-195 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 195.50

§ 195.50 Written Response

[1] Time for Response

Respond within applicable time period:

1. Within 30 days from date of service of demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.260(a)].

2. If service was made by mail, within 30 days plus 5 calendar days from date of service of demand if the place of address is within California, 30 days plus 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 30 days plus 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a), 2016.050]. The period is extended two court days if service is by express mail, other overnight delivery, or by fax [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)].

3. Within the time as shortened or extended by court order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.260 [for forms for extending time to respond to interrogatories which may be adapted for this purpose, see Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories, § 194.90 et seq.]. If the responding party can establish that an extension of time is needed for protection from unwarranted annoyance, embarrassment, or oppression, or undue burden and expense, he or she may move for a protective order, which may include an order extending time. In that event, a monetary sanction may be available to the prevailing party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060; see also discussion in § 195.51 and form set out in § 195.63].

4. Within the time as extended (or shortened) by stipulation of counsel under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.270. Counsel who obtain stipulations by telephone must confirm them in writing, either by letter or by written stipulation to be signed by the attorneys involved [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.270(b)]. The written stipulation, whether offered separately or as an attachment to another document, may not be filed unless it is offered as relevant to the determination of an issue in a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or is ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(7), (9)]. The original written stipulation must be retained until six months after final disposition of the cause, unless the court on motion of any party and for good cause shown orders the stipulation preserved for a longer period [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)].

NOTE:
In unlawful detainer actions or other proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), unless the court has issued an order shortening the time for response, the responding party has at least five days from the date of service of the demand to respond [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.260; for discussion, forms, and a procedural guide relating to unlawful detainer proceedings generally, see Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions].

[2] Prepare Response

Respond separately to each item or category of item in any of the following manners [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210 et seq.; for form of response, see § 195.62].

1. Object to the demand in whole or in part [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.210(a)(3), 2031.240].

a. Specify the extent of, and specific grounds for, the objection.

b. If objecting in part, specify the objectionable part or parts of an item, or categories of items, and include a statement of compliance, or representation of inability to comply, with respect to remainder of the items or categories.

c. If objecting based on privilege, state the particular privilege invoked.

d. Expressly assert any claim that information sought is protected work product under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq.

2. Grant permission to inspect, copy, test, sampling, or enter [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.210(a)(1), 2031.220].

a. State that inspection copying, testing, or sampling, will be allowed by date set under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(c) [see § 195.60[4]], and that other related activities will be allowed in whole or in part; and

b. State that all documents or items in demanded category that are in possession, custody, or control of party, and to which no objection is being made, will be included in production.

NOTE:
Documents are to be produced as they are kept in the usual course of business, or organize and label them to correspond with the categories in the demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(a)]. A party demanding inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of electronically stored information may specify the form or forms in which each type of electronically stored information is to be produced [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(a)(2)].

The documents must be produced on the date specified in the demand, in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(c)(2), unless an objection has been made to that date. If the demand has been extended, in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.270, the documents must be produced on the date agreed on [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(b)].

If a party responding to a demand for production of electronically stored information objects to a specified form for producing the information, or if no form is specified in the demand, the responding party must state in its response the form in which it intends to produce each type of information [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(c)]. Further, unless the parties otherwise agree or the court otherwise orders, if a demand for production does not specify a form or forms for producing a type of electronically stored information, the responding party must produce the information in the form or forms in which it is ordinarily maintained or in a form that is reasonably usable [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(d)(1)]. Unless the parties otherwise agree or the court otherwise orders, a party need not produce the same electronically stored information in more than one form [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(d)(1)]. If necessary, the responding party must translate, through detection devices, any data compilations included in the demand into reasonably usable form.

The reasonable expense of such translation will be paid by the demanding party [see*Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(e)*]. Former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(g)(1) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(e)] is a legislatively determined exception to the general rule that the responding party bear the cost of responding to discovery. When there is no dispute about the application of the statute, former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(g)(1) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(e)] automatically shifts the expense of translating a data compilation into usable form to the demanding party [Toshiba Am. Electronics Components, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 762] (compelling production of all responsive documents contained in backup tapes without also requiring demanding party to pay any expenses involved in translating those tapes into usable form was abuse of discretion, absent finding that translation was not necessary or that former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(g)(1) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(e)] otherwise did not apply)]. However, the demanding party is expected to pay only its reasonable expense for a necessary translation [Toshiba Am. Electronics Components, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 762 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(e)]. Reasonableness and necessity are factual issues, that, if disputed, are to be determined by the trial court. When a demanding party is asked to pay for translations that the party does not believe are necessary, or when the party disputes the reasonableness of the expenses alleged, the party may seek a protective order or move to compel production, and the trial court then may make whatever orders justice requires [see Toshiba Am. Electronics Components, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 762 ; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.060(a), 2031.300(b)].

For further discussion of production of electronically stored information, see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery).

3. Make representation of inability to comply with the demand [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.210(a)(2), 2031.230].

a. Affirm that a diligent search and a reasonable inquiry was made in an effort to comply with the demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.230].

b. Specify whether the item has never existed; has been destroyed; has been lost, misplaced, or stolen; or has never been, or is no longer in, the responding party's possession, custody, or control.

c. Give the name and address of any person or organization known or believed to have possession, custody, or control of the item or category of item.

d. If party objects to discovery of electronically stored information on grounds that it is from source that is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or expense and that responding party will not search source absent agreement with demanding party or court order, identify types or categories of sources of electronically stored information that are not reasonably accessible [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210(d)].

NOTE:
By objecting and identifying information of a type or category of source or sources that are not reasonably accessible, the responding party preserves any objections it may have relating to that electronically stored information [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210(d)].

[3] Proof of Service

Prepare proof of service of response [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a, 2031.290; see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

[4] Serve Documents

Serve original response on demanding party and copies of response on all other parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.260(a)].

[2] Use of Form

The demand set out in [1], above, is for use to demand the production of documents or tangible things for inspection and copying, photographing, testing, or sampling. The demand may be served by any party to an action or proceeding on any other party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010]. The party making the demand must serve a copy of the demand on the party to whom it is directed and on all other parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.040]. If the requesting party also wishes to request permission to enter upon land or other property for inspection, measuring, surveying, photographing, testing, or sampling, this demand may be combined with that set out in § 195.61.

For a demand for production of electronically stored information under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010, see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery) , § 195A.62.

For further discussion of demands for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling, see §§ 195.12 -195.14. For discussion of restrictions on the number of individuals demands that may be made in a limited civil case, see § 195.15.

For discussion and forms relating to an alternative procedure for commanding the production of documents and things in the context of an oral deposition, see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions .

[3] Time for Serving Demand

A defendant may make a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling, without leave of court, at any time. If a plaintiff wishes to make a demand within 10 days after the service of the summons on, or appearance by, the party to whom the demand is directed, whichever occurs first, or if the plaintiff wishes to make a demand within five days after the service of summons in an unlawful detainer action or other proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), the plaintiff must obtain leave of court to do so. However, at any later time, the plaintiff may make a demand without leave of court. Further, on a motion with or without notice, the court, for good cause shown, may grant leave to the plaintiff to make demand at an earlier time [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.020]. For forms for early service of interrogatories that may be adapted for this purpose, see Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories, § 194.80 et seq.].

For discussion and forms relating to time requirements for completing discovery generally, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Purpose, Scope, and Timing, § 190.50 et seq.

[4] Content of Demand

A demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling must be in writing, and must do all of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030]:

- Designate the documents, tangible things, or land or other property, or electronically stored information to be inspected, copied, tested, or sampled, either by specifically describing each individual item, or by reasonably particularizing each category of item [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(c)(1)].

- Specify a reasonable time for the inspection, copying, testing, or sampling that is at least 30 days after service of the demand, unless the court, for good cause shown, has granted leave to specify an earlier date [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(c)(2)]. In an unlawful detainer action or other proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), specify a reasonable time for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling that is at least five days after service of the demand, unless the court, for good cause shown, has granted leave to specify an earlier date [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(c)(2)].

- Specify a reasonable place for making the inspection, copying, testing, or sampling [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(c)(3)].

- Specify any inspection, copying, testing, or sampling, or related activity, as well as the manner in which that related activity will be performed, and whether that activity will permanently alter or destroy the item involved [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(c)(4)].

If the requests were served by mail, the 30-day period mentioned in Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(c)(2) is extended five calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050]. The period is extended two court days if service is by express mail or by fax [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)].

For a form for an ex parte application to shorten the time for responding to interrogatories (as well as the time for serving them), which may be adapted for this purpose, and a related procedural checklist, see Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories, §§ 194.60[3] and 194.80 et seq. For discussion and forms relating to proceedings to shorten time requirements generally, see Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time .

[5] Format of Demand

A party demanding an inspection, copying, testing, or sampling must number each set of demands consecutively [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(a)]. The first paragraph immediately below the title of the case must state the identity of the demanding party, the set number, and the identity of the responding party. Each demand in a set must be separately set forth, and identified by number or letter [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(b)].

[6] Supplemental Demand

This form may be adapted for use in making a supplemental demand. Any party may propound a supplemental demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of any later acquired or discovered documents, tangible things, land or other property, or electronically stored information that are in the possession, custody, or control of the person on whom the demand is made. Supplemental demands may be made (1) twice before the initial setting of the trial date, and (2) subject to the time limits of Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.010 et seq., once after the initial setting of the trial date [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.050; for discussion relating to limits under Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.010 et seq., see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.50 et seq.]. On motion for good cause shown, the court may allow a party to propound an additional number of supplemental demands for inspection [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.050(c)].

[7] Filing and Retention of Demand

A demand for production or inspection copying, testing, or sampling of tangible things, land or other property, or electronically stored information (and responses or objections to this demand) may not be filed with the court, unless offered as relevant under a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(9)]. Instead, the serving party retains the original and the proof of service until six months after final disposition of the cause, unless otherwise ordered by the court for cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)].

[2] Use of Form

The demand set out in [1], above, is for use to demand permission to enter upon land or other property, or any designated object or operation on it for the purpose of inspecting, measuring, surveying, photographing, testing, or sampling [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010(d)]. If the requesting party also wishes to request the production of documents or other tangible things, this demand may be combined with that set out in § 195.60. If the requesting party also wants to request the production of electronically stored information, this demand may be combined with the demand in Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery), § 195A.62.

[3] Format, Contents, and Service of Demand

The requirements for this type of demand are the same as those for a demand for production of documents or tangible things for inspection under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010(b), (c). For discussion of these requirements, see § 195.60[3] -[5].

[4] Supplemental Demand

This form may be adapted for use in making a supplemental demand for permission to enter upon land or other property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.050 and discussion in § 195.60[6]].

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

The response set out in [1], above, is for use by a party who has been served with either a demand or a supplemental inspection demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210 et seq.]. For the procedure to be followed in responding to either type of demand, see § 195.50.

For a form for a response to a demand for production of electronically stored information (ESI) under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210 et seq., see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery), § 195A.62. For detailed discussion of issues that arise in responding to a demand for ESI, see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery), § 195A.16.

[3] Time for Response

The response must be made within 30 days after service of the demand, or in unlawful detainer actions or other proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), within five days of demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.260]. If the demand was served by mail, the response period is extended five days if the place of address is within California, 10 days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 days if the place of address is outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050].

Note that the periods specified above govern the time for response, as distinguished from the time for compliance with the response, for example, by production of documents or other things for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling. The time for production or allowing entry for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling is a reasonable time specified in the demand, which must be at least 30 days, or in unlawful detainer actions or other proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. §

1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), at least five days, after service of the demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(c)(2); see § 195.60[4]]. If the demand was served by mail, this minimum period is extended five days if the place of address is within California, 10 days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 days if the place of address is outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050].

[4] Contents of Response

[a] Types of Responses

A separate response to each item or category of item is required. The response may be any of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210(a)]:

- A statement that the party will comply with the particular demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling by the date set under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(c) [see § 195.60[4]], and that other related activities will be allowed in whole or in part [see [b], below].

- A representation that the party lacks the ability to comply with the demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of a particular item or category of item [see [c], below].

- An objection to the particular demand [see [d], below].

Each statement of compliance, each representation, and each objection in the response must bear the same number and be in the same sequence as the corresponding item or category in the demand. The text of each of item or category need not be repeated in the response, however [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210(c); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1000(b)].

[b] Statement of Compliance

A statement that the responding party will comply with a particular demand must state both of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.220]:

- That the production, inspection, copying, testing, sampling, and related activity demanded will be allowed either in whole or in part.

- That all documents or things in a demanded category that are in the possession, custody, or control of that party, and to which no objection is being made, will be included in the production.

Any documents demanded must either be produced as they are kept in the usual course of business, or be organized and labeled to correspond with the categories in the demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(a)]. The documents must be produced on the date specified in the demand, in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(c)(2), unless an objection has been made to that date. If the demand has been extended, in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.270, the documents must be produced on the date agreed on [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(b)]. If necessary, the responding party, at the reasonable expense of the demanding party, must, through detection devices, translate any data compilations included in the demand into reasonably usable form [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(c)].

If a party responding to a demand for production of electronically stored information objects to a specified form for producing the information, or if no form is specified in the demand, the responding party must state in its response the form in which it intends to produce each type of information [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(c)]. Unless the parties otherwise agree or the court otherwise orders, if a demand for production does not specify a form or forms for producing a type of electronically stored information, the responding party must produce the information in the form or forms in which it is ordinarily maintained or in a form that is reasonably usable [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(d)(1)].

Further, unless the parties otherwise agree or the court otherwise orders, a party need not produce the same electronically stored information in more than one form [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(d)(1)].

In a case of first impression, one court of appeal held that when there is no dispute about the application of former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(g)(1) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(e)], the statute automatically shifts the expense of translating a data compilation into usable form to the demanding party [Toshiba Am. Electronics Components, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 762, 772, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532] (former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(g)(1) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(e)] is "a legislatively determined exception to the general rule that the responding party bear the cost of responding to discovery")]. However, the demanding party is expected to pay only its reasonable expense for a necessary translation [Toshiba America Electronics Components, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 762, 773, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(e)]. Reasonableness and necessity are factual issues, that, if disputed, are left to the trial court's discretion. When a demanding party is asked to pay for translations that the party does not believe are necessary, or when the party disputes the reasonableness of the expenses alleged, the party may seek a protective order or move to compel production, and the trial court then may make whatever orders justice requires [see Toshiba Am. Electronics Components, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 762, 772-773, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532 ; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.060(a), 2031.300(b)].

[c] Representation of Inability to Comply

A representation of inability to comply with a particular demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling must do the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.230]:

- Affirm that a diligent search and a reasonable inquiry has been made in an effort to comply with the demand.

- Specify whether the inability to comply is because the particular item or category of item has never existed, has been destroyed, has been lost, misplaced, or stolen, or has never been, or is no longer, in the possession, custody, or control of the responding party.

- Specify the name and address of any natural person or organization known or believed by the party to have possession, custody, or control of the item or category of item.

[d] Objection

An objection to an item, or category of item, in a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling must do the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.240(b)]:

- Identify with particularity any document, tangible thing, land, or electronically stored information falling within any category of item in the demand to which an objection is being made.

- Clearly set forth the extent of, and the specific ground for, the objection. Thus, if an objection is based on a claim of privilege, the objection must state the particular privilege invoked. Similarly, an objection based on a claim of the attorney work product protections of Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq. must expressly assert that claim.

If only a part of an item, or category of item, in a demand is objectionable, the response must set out a statement of compliance, or a representation of inability to comply, with respect to the remainder of that item or category [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.240(a); see [b] and [c], above].

[5] Format of Response

A response to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling must include the following identifying data in the first paragraph immediately below the title of the case: (1) the identity of the responding party, (2) the set number, and (3) the identity of the demanding party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210(b)]. If the response is a further response, the first paragraph must also include the nature of the paper [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1000(a)].

[6] Verification

The responding party must sign the response under oath unless the response contains only objections. If that party is a public or private corporation or a partnership or association or governmental agency, one of its officers or agents must sign the response under oath on behalf of that party. If the officer or agent signing the response on behalf of that party is an attorney acting in that capacity for a party, that party waives any lawyer-client privilege and any protection for work product under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq. during any subsequent discovery from that attorney concerning the identity of the sources of information contained in the response. The attorney for the responding party must sign any responses that contain an objection [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.250(c)].

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

[Add memorandum supporting motion.]

[2] Use of Form

The notice of motion and motion, with supporting declaration, set out in [1], above, is for use by a party to whom a demand or a supplemental demand for production and inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of documents, things, or places has been directed, and to move for a protective order against unwarranted annoyance, embarrassment, or oppression, or undue burden and expense [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060].

The motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(a); for further discussion of this general requirement, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1]]. The declaration included with this form includes statements designed to satisfy this requirements, as well as factual statements supporting the grounds for the motion, and facts supporting the amount of monetary sanctions that might be awarded in favor of the moving party. For further discussion of the grounds for a protective order, including a list of orders expressly authorized under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060, see § 195.17. For further discussion of monetary sanctions, see [4], below.

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with this form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; for further discussion of memorandum requirements and a skeletal memorandum, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities ; for memoranda supporting a motion for a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 85, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence (Matthew Bender)].

For further discussion of protective orders, including protective orders for electronically stored information, see § 195.17[2]. For a detailed discussion of protective orders in the context of e-discovery, see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery).

[3] Time for Motion

Although Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060 does not provide for any express time limit within which to make a motion for a protective order, it does provide that the motion must be made "promptly" [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(a)]. Moreover, the party to whom a demand has been directed waives any objection to the demand if that party fails to serve a timely response to it [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.300(a); see discussion in § 195.18].

Thus, it appears that a party to whom a demand is directed should move for a protective order as soon as possible, but in any event no later than the time for serving a response. For discussion of the time for response under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.260, see § 195.62[3].

[4] Monetary Sanctions

The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes this motion for a protective order, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(h); see also discussion of this general provision in Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]].

As discussed in [2], above, this motion must be accompanied by a declaration showing of a reasonable and good faith attempt at informal resolution of the issues raised by the motion. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010(i) and 2023.020, the court is also required to impose a monetary sanction against any party or attorney who fails to confer in an attempt to resolve informally any dispute concerning discovery, in favor of anyone who incurs expenses, including attorney's fees, as a result of that conduct, when the section of the Civil Discovery Act governing a particular discovery motion requires a declaration showing that an attempt has been made. This sanction is to be imposed regardless of the outcome of the particular discovery motion [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010(i), 2023.020].

A monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 is an order that one who engaged in a misuse of the discovery process, his or her attorney if the attorney advised the conduct, or both, pay the reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, incurred by anyone as a result of that conduct [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a)].

A monetary sanction may only be imposed after notice to any affected party, person, or attorney, and after opportunity for hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030].

A request for a sanction, in the notice of motion, must identify every party, person, and attorney against whom the sanction is sought, and specify the type of sanction sought. The notice of motion must be supported by a memorandum, and accompanied by a declaration setting forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040]. The notice of motion and supporting declaration in this form include language designed to satisfy these requirements.

For further discussion of monetary sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

[Add memorandum supporting motion.]

[2] Use of Form

The notice of motion and motion, with supporting declaration, set out in [1], above, is for use to obtain an order compelling a response to a demand or a supplemental demand for production and permission to inspect and copy, photograph, test, or sample documents, tangible things, or electronically stored information. The form also may be used for an order compelling response to enter on property for inspection, measurement, or other activities relating to the property or an object or operation on the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.300; see discussion in § 195.19[1]].

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with this form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; for further discussion of memorandum requirements and a skeletal form for a memorandum, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities ; for forms for memoranda supporting a motion to compel under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.300, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 85, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence (Matthew Bender)].

For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 195.63[5].

For detailed discussion and forms relating to a response to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling electronically stored evidence, see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery).

[3] Time for Motion

No time is fixed for giving notice of a motion to compel an initial response to a demand under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.300. Generally, however, the motion and supporting papers must be served and filed at least 16 court days before the time appointed for the hearing unless otherwise ordered or specifically provided by law [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(a)]. The 16-day period may be extended depending on the method of service used [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)]. For further discussion regarding the service and filing of motions and other papers, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders , and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

[4] Identification of Demands

A motion concerning demands for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling must identify the demands by set and number [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(d)].

[5] Supporting Declaration

The supporting declaration in this form includes factual statements supporting the grounds for the motion. In this respect a supporting declaration should include facts showing the subject matter of the action, so that moving party can show that the material sought is relevant to the subject matter of the action, or will lead to admissible evidence and is therefore within the scope of discovery permitted by Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010. The subject matter of the action has been defined as the circumstances and facts out of which the cause of action arises, that is, the property, contract, or other thing involved in the dispute; it is not the act or acts that constitute the cause of action but the physical facts in relation to which the suit is prosecuted [Darbee v. Superior Court (1962) 208 Cal. App. 2d 680, 688, 25 Cal. Rptr. 520 (prior law)].

The supporting declaration should also contain facts showing that (1) a demand for production and inspection, copying, testing, sampling, or entry and inspection, was served on the party from whom production was sought; (2) a response to the demand was or was not received; and (3) the items are in the custody, possession, or control of the party from whom they are sought [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010].

If the motion includes a requests for monetary sanctions, a supporting declaration must set out facts showing the amount sought [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040 and discussion in [6], below].

[6] Monetary Sanctions

The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to compel a response to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, sampling, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.300(c); see also discussion of this general provision in Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]].

The court may award sanctions in favor of a party who files a motion to compel discovery, even though no opposition to the motion was filed, or opposition to the motion was withdrawn, or the requested discovery was provided to the moving party after the motion was filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(a)]. The court may not, however, deem the opposing party's failure to file written opposition, failure to appear at a hearing, or voluntary provision discovery to be an admission that the motion was proper or that sanctions should be awarded [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(b)].

A request for a sanction must, in the notice of motion, identify every party, person, and attorney against whom the sanction is sought, and specify the type of sanction sought. The notice of motion must be supported by a memorandum, and accompanied by a declaration setting forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040]. The notice of motion and supporting declaration in this form include language designed to satisfy these requirements.

For further discussion of monetary sanctions, see § 195.63[4] and Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

[7] Additional Sanctions on Failure to Obey Order Granting Motion

If the court grants this motion, the responding party will be subject to evidence, issue, or terminating sanctions, as well as additional monetary sanctions, if that party thereafter fails to obey the order compelling a response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.300(c), (d)]. For further discussion, see § 195.20[2].

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

[Add memorandum supporting motion.]

[2] Use of Form

The notice of motion with supporting declaration set out in [1], above, is for use to obtain an order compelling a further response to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling demand when the demanding party deems the initial response to be inadequate [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310; see discussion in § 195.19[2]].

This motion must set forth specific facts showing good cause justifying the discovery sought by the demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310(b)(1)]. It must also be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of any issue presented by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310(b)(2); see also discussion in [6], below, and general discussion in Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1]].

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with this form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; for further discussion of memorandum requirements and a skeletal form for a memorandum, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities ; for forms for memoranda supporting a motion to compel under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 85, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence (Matthew Bender)].

For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 195.63[5].

[3] Separate Statement

A motion to compel further responses to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling must be accompanied by a separate statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(3), (c)]. This is a separate document filed and served with the motion that sets out all the information necessary to understand all the questions and responses that are in issue [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]. For a form for the separate statement, together with further discussion of its requirements, see § 195.67.

[4] Time for Motion

A notice of motion to compel a further response to a demand must be made within 45 days of the service of the initial response, any supplemental response, or any specific later date to which the parties have agreed in writing. If the demand was served by mail, the 45-day period is extended 5 calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050]. The 45-day period is extended two court days if service is by express mail or by fax [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)].

If notice is not given within the appropriate period, the demanding party waives any right to compel a further response to the demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310(c)].

The 45-day limitation period is mandatory and jurisdictional in that it renders the court without authority to rule on an untimely motion other than to deny it [Sexton v. Superior Court (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 1403, 1408-1410, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 708 (party did not raise untimeliness of motion in opposition papers, but raised it at commencement of hearing on motion)]. This 45-day period commences with the date of response, rather than the date set for actual production or inspection [Standon Co. v. Superior Court (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 898, 902-903, 275 Cal. Rptr. 833 (also stating that, if responding party refuses to comply with promises made in response, demanding party should bring motion to compel compliance under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2031(n) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.320); see § 195.68].

[5] Identification of Demands

The motion must identify the demands by set and number [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(d)]. For discussion of additional requirements applicable when requesting monetary sanctions, see [6], below.

[6] Opposing Production of Electronically Stored Evidence

The party or affected person opposing a motion to compel further response to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling electronically stored information (ESI) under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310(a), on the basis that the information is from a source that is not reasonably accessible because of the undue burden or expense, bears the burden of demonstrating that the information is from a source that is not reasonably accessible [Code Civ. Proc. § 3021.310(d)]. However, even if the party or affected person makes such a showing, the court may still order discovery if the demanding party shows good cause [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310(e); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310(f) (allocation of discovery expense); Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310(g) (limitations on frequency or extent of discovery of ESI)]. For a detailed discussion of motions for orders compelling further response in the context of e-discovery, see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery), § 195A.17.

[7] Monetary Sanctions

The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to compel a response to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310(h); see Standon Co. v. Superior Court (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 898, 904, 275 Cal. Rptr. 833 (court not required to award sanctions merely because motion was unsuccessful; may exercise its discretion by considering whether exceptions indicate no sanction is appropriate); see also discussion of this general provision in Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]].

As discussed in [2], above, this motion must be accompanied by a declaration showing of a reasonable and good faith attempt at informal resolution of the issues raised by the motion. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010(i) and 2023.020, the court is also required to impose a monetary sanction against any party or attorney who fails to confer in an attempt to resolve informally any dispute concerning discovery, in favor of anyone who incurs expenses, including attorney's fees, as a result of that conduct, when the section of the Civil Discovery Act governing a particular discovery motion requires a declaration showing that an attempt has been made. This sanction is to be imposed regardless of the outcome of the particular discovery motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.020].

The court may award sanctions in favor of a party who files a motion to compel discovery, even though no opposition to the motion was filed, or opposition to the motion was withdrawn, or the requested discovery was provided to the moving party after the motion was filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(a)]. The court may not, however, deem the opposing party's failure to file written opposition, failure to appear at a hearing, or voluntary provision discovery to be an admission that the motion was proper or that sanctions should be awarded [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(b)].

A request for a sanction, in the notice of motion, must identify every party, person, and attorney against whom the sanction is sought, and specify the type of sanction sought. The notice of motion must be supported by a memorandum, and accompanied by a declaration setting forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040]. The notice of motion and supporting declaration in this form include language designed to satisfy these requirements.

One court of appeal has held that a separate motion for monetary sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 may be made after an underlying motion to compel further response to an inspection demand is litigated [London v. Dri-Honing Corp. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1001, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 240] . Even though the better practice may be to include the request for monetary sanctions in the motion to compel further response, there is no legal requirement to do so [London v. Dri-Honing Corp. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1008, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 240] . The timeliness of a separate motion for sanctions is subject to the trial court's discretion, rather than the 45-day limit from the time of the initial service of the response under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310(c) [London v. Dri-Honing Corp. (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1009, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 240] .

For further discussion of monetary sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

[8] Additional Sanctions on Failure to Obey Order Granting Motion

If the court grants this motion, the responding party will be subject to evidence, issue, or terminating sanctions, as well as additional monetary sanctions, if that party thereafter fails to obey the order compelling a response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310(i)]. For further discussion, see § 195.20[2].

[2] Use of Form

The separate statement set out in [1], above, is required to accompany a motion, such as that set out in § 195.66, to compel further responses to a demand for inspection of documents or tangible things [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(3)].

For detailed discussion and forms relating to a response to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling electronically stored evidence, see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery).

[3] Contents of Separate Statement

Any motion involving the content of a discovery request or the responses to such a request must be accompanied by a separate statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)]. The motions that require a separate statement include a motion to compel further responses to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of documents, tangible things, or electronically stored information [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(3)]. A separate statement is not required when no response has been provided to the request for discovery [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(b)].

This separate statement is a separate document filed and served with the motion. It must set forth all the information necessary to understand each discovery request (in this instance each inspection demand) and all the responses to it that are at issue [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]. It must be full and complete, so that no person is required to review any other document in order to determine the full request and the full response. Material may not be incorporated into the separate statement by reference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)].

The separate statement must include, for each discovery request (in this instance each inspection demand) to which a further response is requested, the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]:

- The text of the request, and the text of each response, answer, or objection, and any further responses or answers [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(1), (2)].

- A statement of the factual and legal reasons for compelling further responses, answers, or production as to each matter in dispute [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(3)].

- If necessary, the text of all definitions, instructions, and other matters required to understand each discovery request and the responses to it [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(4)].

- If the response to a particular discovery request is dependent on the response given to another discovery request, or if the reasons a further response to a particular discovery request is deemed necessary are based on the response to some other discovery request, the other request and the response to it must be set forth [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(5)].

- If the pleadings, other documents in the file, or other items of discovery are relevant to the motion, a summary of each relevant document by the party relying on the document [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(6)].

The primary function of the separate statement appears to be that of providing a summary, in a single document, of all matters, taken from all pleadings and all other papers, that may be necessary to determine the motion. By including a statement of the factual and legal reasons for compelling further responses to each matter in dispute [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(3)], it appears that a separate statement, when required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c), also serves the same function as the supporting memorandum [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(b) (memorandum consists of statement of facts and statement of law, evidence and argument, discussing the statutes, cases, and textbooks cited as support)].

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

[Add memorandum supporting motion.]

[2] Use of Form

The notice of motion and motion, with supporting declaration, set out in [1], above, is for use to obtain an order compelling a party to permit inspection, copying, testing, or sampling in accordance with that party's statement of compliance in his or her response to an inspection demand, when that party has refused to do so [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.320(a); see discussion in § 195.19[3]].

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with this form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; for further discussion of memorandum requirements and a skeletal form of memorandum, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities ; for forms for memoranda supporting a motion to compel under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.320, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 85, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence (Matthew Bender)].

For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 195.63[5].

For detailed discussion and forms relating to a response to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling electronically stored evidence, see Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery).

[3] Time for Motion

No time is fixed for giving notice of a motion to compel compliance with a statement in the response under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.320. Unless otherwise ordered or specifically provided by law, all moving and supporting papers must be served and filed at least 16 court days before the time appointed for the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(a)]. The 16-day period may be extended depending on the method of service used [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)]. For further discussion regarding the service and filing of motions and other papers, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders , and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

[4] Identification of Demands

A motion concerning demands for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling must identify the demands by set and number [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(d)].

[5] Monetary Sanctions

The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to compel compliance with a response to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.320(b); see also discussion of this general provision in Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]].

The court may award sanctions in favor of a party who files a motion to compel discovery, even though no opposition to the motion was filed, or opposition to the motion was withdrawn, or the requested discovery was provided to the moving party after the motion was filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(a)]. The court may not, however, deem the opposing party's failure to file written opposition, failure to appear at a hearing, or voluntary provision discovery to be an admission that the motion was proper or that sanctions should be awarded [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(b)].

A request for a sanction must, in the notice of motion, identify every party, person, and attorney against whom the sanction is sought, and specify the type of sanction sought. The notice of motion must be supported by a memorandum, and accompanied by a declaration setting forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040]. The notice of motion and supporting declaration in this form include language designed to satisfy these requirements.

For further discussion of monetary sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

[6] Additional Sanctions on Failure to Obey Order Granting Motion

If the court grants this motion, the responding party will be subject to evidence, issue, or terminating sanctions, as well as additional monetary sanctions, if that party thereafter fails to obey the order compelling compliance with a response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.320(c)]. For further discussion, see § 195.20[2].

§ 195.70 Subpoena for Inspection of Premises in Action Pending Outside California [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.100 et seq.; Cal. Judicial Council Form SUBP-050]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

This form is a subpoena for inspection of premises in an action pending outside California. It is a reproduction of Cal. Judicial Council Form SUBP-050, adopted by the Judicial Council for mandatory use [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Appendix, Div. A]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

The form is used to require a nonparty witness to permit an inspection of the premises specified in the subpoena, and to allow testing, sampling, or other activity as described in the subpoena, in an action pending outside California.

For detailed discussion of the Interstate and International Depositions and Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.100 et seq.], governing discovery in actions outside California, see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions, § 193.30 et seq.

For a form for an application for a discovery subpoena in an action pending outside California, see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions, § 193.280. For a form for a deposition subpoena for personal appearance only in an action pending outside California, see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions, § 193.281. For a form for a deposition subpoena for personal appearance and production of documents and things in an action pending outside California, see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions, § 193.282. For a form for a subpoena for production of business records in an action pending outside California, see Ch., 535, Subpoena, § 535.85.

For discussion and forms for subpoenas generally, see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

[3] Procedure for Obtaining Subpoena

To request issuance of a subpoena under the Interstate and International Depositions and Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.100 et seq.], a party must submit the original, or a true and correct copy, of a foreign subpoena to the clerk of the superior court in the California county in which discovery is sought to be conducted [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300(a)]. A request for the issuance of a subpoena in these circumstances does not constitute making an appearance in the California courts [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300(a)].

In addition to submitting a subpoena, as described above, a party seeking discovery must do both of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300(b)]:

- Submit an application requesting that the superior court issue a subpoena with the same terms as the foreign subpoena. The application must be on a form prescribed by the Judicial Council [see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions, § 193.180[1] (Judicial Council Form SUBP-030)]. No civil coversheet is required.

- Pay the specified fee [see Gov. Code § 70626].

When these requirements are satisfied, the court clerk must promptly issue a subpoena for service on the person to which the foreign subpoena is directed [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300(c)].

[4] Subpoena Form and Contents

A subpoena issued under Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300 must [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.300(d)]:

- Incorporate the terms used in the foreign subpoena.

- Contain or be accompanied by the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of all counsel of record in the proceeding to which the subpoena relates and of any party not represented by counsel.

- Bear the caption and case number of the out-of-state case to which it relates.

- State the name of the court that issues it.

- Be on the prescribed Judicial Council form [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.390; see [1], above].

[5] Party Not Required to Retain Local Attorney

A party is not required to retain a local attorney to depose a witness in these circumstances. An active member of the California State Bar who is retained by a party to an out-of-state court proceeding may issue a subpoena under the Interstate and International Depositions and Discovery Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.100 et seq.) [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.350(a)].

A subpoena issued under Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.350(a) must [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.350(b)]:

- Incorporate the terms used in the foreign subpoena.

- Contain or be accompanied by the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of all counsel of record in the proceeding to which the subpoena relates and of any party not represented by counsel.

- Bear the caption and case number of the out-of-state case to which it relates.

- State the name of the superior court of the county in which the discovery is to be conducted.
- Be on the prescribed Judicial Council form [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.390; see [1], above].

[6] Service of Subpoena

A discovery subpoena issued under the Interstate and International Depositions and Discovery Act must be personally served in compliance with California law, including, without limitation, Code Civ. Proc. § 1985 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.400].

Any person may serve the subpoena by personal delivery of a copy of it to the deponent if the deponent is a natural person. If the deponent is an organization, service may be by personal delivery of a copy of the subpoena to any officer, director, or custodian of records or to any agent or employee authorized by the organization to accept service of a subpoena [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.220(b)]. Service may be accompanied by payment of witness fees [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.230].

Personal service of any deposition subpoena is effective to require the personal attendance and testimony of any deponent who is a resident of California at the time of service, if the subpoena so specifies, and any production, inspection, testing, and sampling. Personal service is also effective to require that deponent's attendance at a court session to consider any issue arising out of the deponent's refusal to be sworn, to answer any questions, to produce specified items, or to permit inspection or specified testing and sampling of the items produced [Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.220(c)].

A copy of an affidavit must be served with a subpoena duces tecum issued before trial, showing good cause for the production of the matters and things described in the subpoena, specifying the exact matters or things desired to be produced, setting forth in full detail the materiality of those matters to the issues involved in the case, and stating that the witness has the desired matters or things in his or her possession or under his or her control [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2029.500 (making Code Civ. Proc. § 1985 et seq. applicable to discovery in actions pending outside California)]. For further discussion of the affidavit supporting the subpoena, see Ch. 535, Subpoena, § 535.16.

For discussion of service of subpoenas generally, see Ch. 535, Subpoena, § 535.17.

§ 195A.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter covers discovery of electronically stored information under the Civil Discovery Act, as amended in 2009 by the California Electronic Discovery Act [Stats. 2009, ch. 5], which provides specific rules and procedures governing electronic discovery ("e-discovery").

Part II [see § 195A.10 et seq.] discusses the special issues, requirements and procedures relating to discovery of electronically stored information ("ESI").

Part IV provides procedural checklists:

- Subpart A [§ 195.40 et seq.] provides checklists for use by a party seeking discovery of electronically stored information.

- Subpart B [see § 195.50 et seq.] provides checklists for use by a responding party.

Part V provides forms relating to discovery of electronically stored information, including the following:

- A form for a sample preservation letter instructing opposing parties to preserve electronic evidence [see § 195.60].

- A form for a sample electronically stored information protocol that can be negotiated between parties [see § 195.61].

- A form for a demand for production of electronically stored information [see § 195.62].

- A form for a response to a demand for production of electronically stored information [see § 195.63].

§ 195A.10 Governing Law

Discovery of electronically stored information pursuant to the Civil Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.010-2036.050] is governed generally by the Electronic Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985.8, 2031.010-2031.510], which was enacted in 2009 and became effective as an urgency measure on June 29, 2009 [Stats. 2009 Ch. 5].

Related provisions of the Civil Discovery Act include the provisions governing discovery generally, set out in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.010-2019.030, 2023.010-2023.040.

The extent of discovery permitted under the Civil Discovery Act is restricted in limited civil cases by the economic litigation provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 94 and 95. The use of demands for the production or inspection of tangible evidence is limited specifically by Code Civ. Proc. § 94(a). For further discussion, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, §§ 190.11[2], 190.23[2][a]].

Case management requirements regarding discovery of electronically stored information are set out in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.724, 3.728(13). Statewide rule provisions relating to the format, content, and service of discovery papers and motions, and to discovery sanctions, are set out in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1000, 3.1020, 3.1025, and 3.1030.

Because of the newness of the California electronic discovery statutes, and the infrequency with which e-discovery issues were considered in published California court opinions under the prior law, federal and out-of-state authority is more important in e-discovery cases than in other California cases dealing with general discovery issues. In particular, federal court decisions under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure are important sources for guidance on the treatment of e-discovery issues. The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure were revised in 2006 to deal specifically with e-discovery issues [see Fed. R. Civ. P., Rules 16(b)(3)(B)(iii), (iv), 26(b)(2)(B), (b)(5), (f), 34, 37]. This was before most states (including California) had established their own rules governing e-discovery in state proceedings. As a result, state courts throughout the United States have often looked to federal judicial decisions--primarily in the federal district courts--for guidance on how to deal with similar e-discovery issues under state law [see also § 195A.11].

For further discussion of the governing law in e-discovery, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence, Ch. 2, Governing Law in Electronic Discovery.

§ 195A.11 Overview of Electronic Discovery

"[E]lectronic evidence is no less discoverable than paper evidence" [Advante Int'l Corp. v. Mintel Learning Tech. (N.D. Cal. 2006) 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 45859, at *3 , quoting Zubulake v. UBS Warburg LLC (S.D.N.Y. 2003) 217 F.R.D. 309, 317] . However, the computer age has generated "new and challenging" issues for attorneys, clients, and courts during the civil discovery process [Advante Int'l Corp. v. Mintel Learning Tech. (N.D. Cal. 2006) 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 45859, at *3] . "As individuals and corporations increasingly do business electronically--using computers to create and store documents, make deals, and exchange e-mails--the universe of discoverable material has expanded exponentially" [Zubulake v. UBS Warburg LLC (S.D.N.Y. 2003) 217 F.R.D. 309, 311] . Electronic data in discovery presents particular problems with respect to preservation and production or spoliation of evidence, privacy, and privilege.

For many years before the passage of the Electronic Discovery Act, California courts allowed discovery and often admission of electronically stored information into evidence under the prior discovery statutes [see, e.g., People v. Lugashi (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 632, 640, 252 Cal. Rptr. 434 (allowing admission of bank computer records); R.S. Creative v. Creative Cotton (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 486, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 353 (terminating sanctions for actions including spoliation of evidence on computers)].

In 2009, the California legislature passed the Electronic Discovery Act [Stats. 2009, ch. 5] to address the problems created by application of the general Discovery Act rules to the specific issues that typically arise in e-discovery. The Electronic Discovery Act took effect immediately on June 29, 2009, as an urgency measure.

The Electronic Discovery Act is modeled on federal rules governing e-discovery that took effect December 1, 2006 [see Fed. R. Civ. P., Rules 16(b)(3)(B)(iii), (iv), 26(b)(2)(B), (b)(5), (f)(3)(c), 34(b)(1)(C), (b)(2)(D), (b)(2)(E), 37(e)]. The federal rules were one of the first attempts nationally to address e-discovery in a comprehensive manner, and as a result state courts have often looked to these rules in attempting to resolve e-discovery issues in the absence of state law. As a result, California courts may be expected to look to federal decisions construing the federal rules for guidance at least until California courts have had a chance to interpret its Electronic Discovery Act.

The Judicial Council proposal that ultimately became the Electronic Discovery Act also contained conforming amendments to the California Rules of Court. These rules ultimately were adopted as a revision of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.724, and became effective August 14, 2009.

For a master checklist for an attorney conducting e-discovery in California, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence, Master Checklist for California E-Discovery.

§ 195A.12 Definition of "Electronically Stored Information" (ESI)

The Electronic Discovery Act defines "electronically stored information" (commonly referred to as "ESI") as "information that is stored in an electronic medium" [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.020(e)]. "Electronic" is defined as "relating to technology having electrical, digital, magnetic, wireless, optical, electromagnetic, or similar capabilities" [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.020(d)]. Some common types of electronically stored information are e-mail, word processing documents or spreadsheets, instant messages, text messages, database information, digital photographs, digital video, electronic voice mail, temporary files, metadata, and even fragments of deleted files. ESI can be found in many locations, including computer hard drives, network servers, cell phones, personal digital assistants (PDAs), back-up tapes, CD-ROMs, DVD ROMs, and internet storage sites, among other areas.

Some discoverable ESI may not be apparent to the reader. For example, computer programs may retain draft language, editorial comments, and other deleted matter (sometimes referred to as "embedded data" or "embedded edits") in an electronic file but not make them apparent to the reader. The same is true of information describing the history, tracking, or management of an electronic file (sometimes called "metadata") [see Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(f), advisory committee's note]. Federal courts generally have ordered the production of metadata when it is sought in an initial document request and the producing party has not yet produced the documents in any form [see Aguilar v. Immigration & Customs Enforcement Div. of U.S. Dep't of Homeland Sec. (S.D.N.Y. 2008) 255 F.R.D. 350, 354, 357 (detailed discussion of production of metadata)]. Metadata was also used in California state courts before the Electronic Discovery Act [People v. Hawkins (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 1428, 1450, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 627 (allowing use of computer clock access times)]. However, the production of metadata increases the scope and cost of review before production, and this increased burden may allow a producing party to object to a metadata request as unreasonable [see, e.g., comments to Fed. R. Civ. Proc. 26, noting that metadata requires additional privilege review, and that the topics at the initial case management conference can include whether metadata should be produced].

§ 195A.13 Document Preservation

A party's duty to preserve electronic evidence is triggered when the party has notice that the evidence is relevant to litigation or when the party should have known that the evidence might be relevant to litigation [Zubulake v. UBS Warburg LLC (S.D.N.Y. 2003) 220 F.R.D. 212, 216 ; see UMG Recordings, Inc. v. Hummer Winblad Venture Partners (In re Napster Copyright Litig.) (N.D. Cal. 2006) 462 F. Supp. 2d 1060, 1069 (defendant's duty to preserve evidence attached when defendant "should reasonably have believed that litigation against it was probable")]. This duty ensures that potentially relevant evidence is not lost or destroyed [Cedars-Sinai Med. Ctr. v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1, 12, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 248, 954 P.2d 511] .

Once a party reasonably anticipates litigation, it must suspend its routine document retention/destruction policy and put a "litigation hold" in place to ensure the preservation of relevant documents [Cedars-Sinai Medical Center v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 248, 954 P.2d 511 (court discusses litigation hold procedures in dicta in holding that a spoliation tort was unnecessary); Zubulake v. UBS Warburg LLC (SDNY 2003) 220 FRD 212, 218 ; see UMG Recordings, Inc. v. Hummer Winblad Venture Partners (In re Napster, Inc. Copyright Litig.) (N.D. Cal. 2006) 462 F. Supp. 2d 1060, 1070 (imposing sanctions against defendant for failing to stop its policy of deleting e-mails once the duty to preserve attached)]. The duty to preserve extends to those employees likely to have relevant information--the "key players" in the case [Zubulake v. UBS Warburg LLC (S.D.N.Y. 2003) 220 F.R.D. 212, 218] .

Destroying evidence in anticipation of a discovery request or in response to a discovery request constitutes a misuse of discovery in violation of CCP §§ 2023.010 and 2023.030 [Cedars-Sinai Med. Ctr. v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1, 12, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 248, 954 P.2d 511 ; R.S. Creative, Inc. v. Creative Cotton, Ltd. (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 486, 495, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 353 (affirming order resulting in terminating sanctions for forging contract and destroying evidence by use of computers in violation of stipulation not to use the computers pending examination by expert)].

Under extraordinary circumstances such as evidence spoliation, the court may enter a preservation order and/or allow mirror imaging of computer disks by a forensics expert [Dodge, Warren & Peters Ins. Services, Inc. v. Riley, 105 Cal. App. 4th 1414, 1417-1418, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 385] .

§ 195A.14 Requirement to Meet and Confer

Under the Rules of Court implementing the Electronic Discovery Act, the parties must meet and confer, in person or by telephone, no later than 30 calendar days before the date set for the initial case management conference (unless the court orders another time period) to consider e-discovery issues, in addition to other general pre-trial civil procedure issues [Cal Rules of Ct, Rule 3.724]. The parties must consider the following specific issues related to e-discovery [Cal Rules of Ct, Rule 3.724(8)]:

- Any issues relating to the preservation of discoverable ESI.
- The form or forms in which information will be produced.
- The time within which the information will be produced.
- The scope of discovery of the information.
- The method for asserting or preserving claims of privilege or attorney work product, including whether such claims may be asserted after production.
- The method for asserting or preserving the confidentiality, privacy, trade secrets, or proprietary status of information relating to a party or person not a party to the civil proceedings.
- How the cost of production of ESI is to be allocated among the parties.
- Any other issues relating to the discovery of ESI, including developing a proposed plan relating to the discovery of the information.

The court's case management order may include appropriate orders relating to the discovery of ESI [Cal. Rules of Ct.,

Rule 3.728(13)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Counsel should consider whether ESI is likely to be relevant and used in the litigation as soon as possible. Cases without any use of ESI are already rare, and are likely to become more infrequent as the importance of ESI and the familiarity of courts and practitioners with ESI grows. If ESI will likely be sought by either side, the attorneys should attempt to agree upon reasonable limits on ESI that will provide the necessary information but limit the costs of the litigation. Such agreements may be easier to reach if the burdens of e-discovery will be approximately equally shared by the parties--e.g., in a dispute between two companies of equal size. If limits cannot be agreed upon, the attorney advocating these limits should document the efforts to seek agreement, and then seek to persuade the court to set the limits in a case management order or in rulings on discovery motions. By Michael F. Kelleher.

§ 195A.15 Demanding Electronically Stored Information

[1] Right to Demand Discovery of Electronically Stored Information

Any party may demand that any other party produce ESI for inspecting, copying, testing, or sampling [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010(a), (e)]. A party demanding the production of ESI may specify the form or forms in which each type of ESI is to be produced [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(a)(2)].

For a form for a demand for production of ESI, see § 195A.62. For the procedure to be used in making a demand, see § 195A.42.

For further guidance on preparing a demand for electronically stored evidence, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence, Ch. 6, Demanding Production of Electronically Stored Evidence in California Court.

[2] Testing and Sampling

The traditional means of obtaining information from documents under the Civil Discovery Act was through inspection and copying. The Electronic Discovery Act also allows a party to test and sample electronically stored information in addition to inspecting and copying it [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010(a), (e)]. Under this provision, a party may review a small sample of electronically stored information for relevant information and based on the results, request broader access [see, e.g., AAB Joint Venture v. United States (Fed. Cl. 2007) 75 Fed. Cl. 432, 444 (court ordered defendant to restore a portion of backup tapes from time periods specified by plaintiff, after which the parties would have an opportunity to argue whether or not additional restoration of back-up tapes was likely to lead to production of relevant evidence); Toshiba America Electronics Components v. Superior Court (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 762, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532 (court suggested sampling to determine if backup tapes contained relevant data)].

§ 195A.16 Responding to Demand for Electronically Stored Information

[1] Objection That Source Is Not Reasonably Accessible

In its response to a demand for discovery of electronically stored information, a party may object on the grounds that the ESI is from a source that is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or expense. The responding party must identify in its response the types or categories of sources of ESI that it asserts are not reasonably accessible. By objecting and identifying the type or category of sources that are not reasonably accessible, the responding party preserves its objections relating to that ESI [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210(d)].

Whether a source is "reasonably accessible" is a factual question for the court that depends upon many factors, including the media on which the ESI is stored, the volume of the ESI, the time and cost required to restore, search and review the ESI, the amount at issue in the case, whether the ESI is cumulative and/or available from other sources, and the relevance of the ESI to key issues in the case [Best Buy Stores, L.P. v. Developers Diversified Realty Corp. (D. Minn. 2007) 247 F.R.D. 567, 570 (database was not reasonably accessible because it would have to be restored from original sources at a cost of at least $124,000 plus a monthly storage cost of over $27,000); see Parkdale Am., LLC v. Travelers Cas. & Sur. Co. of Am. (W.D.N.C. Nov. 2007) 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 88820 (e-mails in LotusNotes format were reasonably accessible when cost of producing them was no more than $20,000)].

[2] Objection to Specified Form for Production

If the responding party objects to the specified form for producing ESI, it may state in its response the form in which it intends to produce each type of information [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(c)]. ESI should be produced in the form or forms in which it is ordinarily maintained or in a form that is reasonably usable. "Reasonably usable" likely requires that the ability to search and sort the ESI is maintained in the form in which it is produced [see, e.g., L.H. v. Schwarznegger (C.D. Cal. 2008) 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 86829 (sanctions for producing non-searchable PDF versions of electronic documents)].

[3] Translation of Data Compilations

If necessary, the responding party, at the reasonable expense of the demanding party, must use detection devices to translate any data compilations included in the demand into reasonably usable form [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(e); Toshiba America Electronics Components v. Superior Court (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 762, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532 (cost shifting for translation of backup tapes)].

For a form for a response to a demand for production of ESI, see § 195A.63. For a procedural checklist, see § 195A.52. For more detailed discussion of responding to demands for inspection of tangible evidence, see Ch. 195, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence, § 195.16.

§ 195A.17 Production of Electronically Stored Information That Is Not Reasonably Accessible

[1] Responding Party's Options

If electronically stored information is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or expense, the respondent may either object [see [2], below] and force the requesting party to file a motion to compel [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210(a)(3); see [4], below], or, alternatively, seek a protective order on the basis that the information is from a source that is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or expense [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.60(a); see [3], below].

The provisions governing protective orders [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060; see [3], below] and motions to compel [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310; see [4], below] contain parallel provisions with respect to the court's powers to grant or limit discovery, as discussed in the remainder of this section and § 195A.18.

[2] Objection

A party to whom a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling has been directed may respond by objecting to the particular demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210(a)]. If a party objects to the discovery of electronically stored information on the grounds that it is from a source that is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or expense and that the responding party will not search the source in the absence of an agreement with the demanding party or court order, the responding party must identify in its response the types or categories of sources of electronically stored information that it asserts are not reasonably accessible [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210(d)]. By objecting and identifying information of a type or category of source or sources that are not reasonably accessible, the responding party preserves any objections it may have relating to that electronically stored information [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210(d)]. As an alternative to objecting and waiting for a motion to compel, as discussed in [3], below, a party may seek a protective order.

For a discussion of strategy and a step-by-step guide to opposing demand for production of ESI, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence, Ch. 10, Opposing Demands for Electronic Evidence in California Court.

[3] Protective Orders

Instead of objecting and waiting for the requesting party to file a motion to compel discovery [see [2], above], a party from whom electronically stored information is sought may seek a protective order on the basis that the information is from a source that is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or expense. The party seeking the protective order bears the burden of demonstrating that the information is from a source that is not reasonably accessible [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(c); see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(2) (similar provision under federal rules regarding ESI that is not reasonably accessible)].

A responding party claiming that ESI is inaccessible must present the court with detailed information demonstrating undue burden or cost; a mere cost estimate and conclusory characterizations of their ESI as inaccessible will not suffice [*see Mikron Indus. v. Hurd Windows & Doors, Inc. (W.D. Wash. 2008) 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 35166, 6] ; OpenTV v. Liberate Techs. (N.D. Cal. 2003) 219 F.R.D. 474 (in cost shifting analysis, criticizing conclusory statements without supporting evidence on cost of production)].

For a procedural checklist for seeking a protective order, see § 195A.53. For more detailed discussion of protective orders, see Ch. 195, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence, § 195.17. For a step-by-step guide to seeking (or opposing) a protective order, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence, Ch. 11, Seeking or Opposing Protective Order.

[4] Motion to Compel

On receipt of a response to a demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling, the demanding party may move for an order compelling further response to the demand if the demanding party deems that any of the following apply [Code Civ. Proc § 2031.310(a)]:

- A statement of compliance with the demand is incomplete.
- A representation of inability to comply is inadequate, incomplete, or evasive.
- An objection in the response is without merit or too general.

A motion to compel must set forth specific facts showing good cause justifying the discovery sought by the demand. The motion must be accompanied by a meet and confer declaration [Code Civ. Proc § 2031.310(b); see Code Civ. Proc § 2016.040 (meet and confer declaration)]. Notice of this motion must be given within 45 days of the service of the response (or any supplemental response), unless the demanding party and the responding party have agreed in writing to a specific later date. Otherwise, the demanding party waives any right to compel a further response to the demand [Code Civ. Proc § 2031.310(c)].

For step-by-step guide to obtaining (or opposing) a motion to compel, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence, Ch. 12, Obtaining or Opposing Motion to Compel.

[5] Burden of Proof

The party or affected person objecting to or opposing the production, inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of electronically stored information on the basis that the information is from a source that is not reasonably accessible because of the undue burden or expense has the burden of demonstrating that the information is from a source that is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or expense [Code Civ. Proc §§ 2031.60(c) (protective order), 2031.310(d) (motion to compel)].

[6] Discovery Allowed on Showing of Good Cause

Even if the responding party establishes that the information is from a source that is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or expense, the court nevertheless may order discovery if the demanding party shows good cause, subject to limitations on frequency and extent [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.060(d) (protective orders), 2031.310(e) (motions to compel)].

The court may set conditions for the discovery of the ESI, including allocation of the expense of discovery. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060(e) (protective orders), 2031.310(f) (motions to compel)].

Although Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.060(d) and 2031.310 contain no definition of good cause, the 2006 advisory committee note to federal counterpart Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(2) lists seven factors that may be appropriate in determining whether good cause exists:

- The specificity of the discovery request.
- The quantity of information available from other and more easily accessed sources.
- The failure to produce relevant information that seems likely to have existed but is no longer available on more easily accessed sources.
- The likelihood of finding relevant, responsive information that cannot be obtained from other, more easily accessed sources.
- Predictions as to the importance and usefulness of the further information.
- The importance of the issues at stake in the litigation.
- The parties' resources.

In determining whether good cause exists, federal courts have considered these factors, along with the cost of the proposed discovery [see Peskoff v. Faber (D.D.C. 2008) 251 F.R.D. 59, 60-61 (in $2.5 million case, good cause existed for $33,000 forensic examination because information sought was highly relevant, not duplicative, and could not be obtained from other sources); *Petcou v. C.H. Robinson Worldwide, Inc. (N.D. Ga. 2008) 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13723, at 2-5 (cost of retrieving e-mails from backup tapes outweighed its likely benefit when requests were overbroad and a response would cost hundreds of thousands of dollars)].

[7] Allocation of Expense

A court that orders discovery of electronically stored information from a source that is not reasonably accessible may allocate the expense of discovery. [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.060(e) (protective orders), 2031.310(f) (motions to compel)].

Federal courts also have been unwilling to shift costs to the requesting party when the costs resulted from the responding party's inadequate efforts to search for and preserve ESI [see, e.g., Peskoff v. Faber (D.D.C. 2008) 251 F.R.D. 59, 62 (refusing to shift cost of forensic examination when it was necessitated by responding party's inadequate search for ESI and failure to deactivate network maintenance tools that automatically delete ESI); *Henry v. Quicken Loans (E.D. Mich. 2008) 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11417, at 17 (refusing to shift costs to the requesting party when those costs directly resulted from the responding party's under-inclusive search)].

For a procedural checklist for seeking allocation of the expense of discovery, see § 195A.54.

§ 195A.18 Limits on Frequency and Extent of Discovery

The court must limit the frequency or extent of discovery of ESI, even from a source that is reasonably accessible, if the court determines that any of the following conditions exists [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.060(f) (protective orders), 2031.310(g) (motions to compel)]:

- It is possible to obtain the information from some other source that is more convenient, less burdensome, or less expensive.
- The discovery sought is unreasonably cumulative or duplicative.
- The party seeking discovery has had ample opportunity by discovery in the action to obtain the information sought.
- The likely burden or expense of the proposed discovery outweighs the likely benefit, taking into account the amount in controversy, the resources of the parties, the importance of the issues in the litigation, and the importance of the requested discovery in resolving the issues.

Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(2)(C) contains a similar provision [see Grand River Enters. Six Nations, Ltd. v. King (S.D.N.Y. 2009) 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12940, 33-34 (citing Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(2)(C), court declined to compel production of econometric data, in part because plaintiffs' expert had already calculated the same information, making it available from another source)].

§ 195A.19 Form of Production

[1] Specification of Form of Production

The party demanding the production of ESI may specify the form of production for each type of ESI [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(a)(2)]. The responding party may object to the specified form and may state in its response the form in which it intends to produce each type of information [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(c)].

[2] Ordinarily Maintained or Reasonably Usable

Unless the parties otherwise agree or the court otherwise orders, if a demand for production does not specify a form or forms for producing a type of ESI, the responding party must produce the information in the form or forms in which it is ordinarily maintained or in a form that is reasonably usable. A party need not produce the same ESI in more than one form [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(d)].

If the responding party ordinarily maintains the information it is producing in a way that makes it searchable by electronic means, the information should not be produced in a form that removes or significantly degrades this feature [*see L.H. v. Schwarzenegger (E.D. Cal. 2008) 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 86829, 10-11 (quoting FRCP 34 Advisory Committee Notes to the 2006 amendment); defendants improperly converted documents from their original format which had been searchable and sortable, into PDF files that did not have these capabilities)].

For a procedural checklist for the form of production, see § 195A.55.

For a sample ESI protocol containing detailed instructions regarding the format in which electronic evidence will be produced, see § 195A.61.

For further discussion of the various forms of electronically stored information, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence, Ch. 1, Understanding Electronic Evidence. For discussion of the form in which electronically stored information will be produced, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence, Ch. 9, Gathering and Producing Electronically Stored Information.

PRACTICE TIP:

Different types of ESI may be most convenient to review in varying formats. For example, e-mail is commonly exchanged and reviewed as images linked to a database containing searchable and/or sortable data from the e-mails such as from/to/cc/subject/date, etc. While such images are easy to use for e-mail, they are often difficult to review for an Excel spreadsheet because the images do not show the underlying calculations of the spreadsheet and often print out over many pages--for such a spreadsheet, production in the native Excel format can be more useful. Counsel should think carefully about what formats to request and what formats to provide. If possible, counsel should agree on formats for production in advance. One useful approach may be to agree to production in image format linked to a database, but with an agreement that the parties may request native file copies when necessary (such as with the spreadsheet example). By Michael F. Kelleher.

§ 195A.20 Electronically Stored Information In Possession of Nonparties

[1] Subpoena for Electronically Stored Information

The rules governing subpoenas of electronically stored information from nonparties are similar to those governing discovery of ESI from parties. A party may serve a subpoena on a nonparty allowing the party to inspect, copy, test or sample ESI [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.8(a)(1)].

For more discussion of demanding ESI, see § 195A.15.

For a checklist and further guidance on obtaining ESI from a nonparty, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence, Ch. 6, Demanding Production of Electronically Stored Evidence in California Court, § 6.14 et seq.

[2] Form of Production

A party serving a subpoena requiring production of electronically stored information may specify the form or forms in which each type of information is to be produced [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.8(b)]. If a subpoena requiring production of electronically stored information does not specify a form or forms for producing a type of ESI, the person subpoenaed may produce the information in the form or forms in which it is ordinarily maintained or in a form that is reasonably usable [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.8(c)(1)]. A subpoenaed person need not produce the same ESI in more than one form [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.8(c)(2)].

If necessary, the subpoenaed person, at the reasonable expense of the subpoenaing party, must use detection devices to translate any data compilations included in the subpoena into reasonably usable form [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.8(g)].

For more discussion of the form of production of ESI, see § 195A.19.

[3] Opposing Production

A subpoenaed person may oppose the production, inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of ESI on the basis that the information is from a source that is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or expense. The subpoenaed person bears the burden of demonstrating that the information is from a source that is not reasonably accessible [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.8(d)]. Carrying this burden requires an evidentiary showing; the statement of a lawyer in a memorandum that the electronic information is not readily accessible or that it would be unduly burdensome to comply with the request is not sufficient [*see Auto Club Family Ins. Co. v Ahner (E.D. La. 2007) 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 63809, at 8-9 (under Fed. R. Civ. P. 45(d)(1)(D))].

For more discussion of opposing production of ESI that is not reasonably accessible, see § 195A.16[1].

[4] Good Cause for Production

Even if the responding party establishes that the information is from a source that is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or expense, the court may nonetheless order discovery if the demanding party shows good cause, subject to limitations on frequency and extent [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.8(e)]. The court may set conditions for the discovery of the ESI, including allocation of the expense of discovery. [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.8(f)].

For more discussion of showing good cause for production of ESI, see § 195A.17[2].

[5] Limitations on Frequency and Extent of Discovery

The court must limit the frequency or extent of discovery of electronically stored information, even from a source that is reasonably accessible, if the court determines that any of the following conditions exists [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.8(h)]:

- It is possible to obtain the information from some other source that is more convenient, less burdensome, or less expensive.

- The discovery sought is unreasonably cumulative or duplicative.

- The party seeking discovery has had ample opportunity by discovery in the action to obtain the information sought.

- The likely burden or expense of the proposed discovery outweighs the likely benefit, taking into account the amount in controversy, the resources of the parties, the importance of the issues in the litigation, and the importance of the requested discovery in resolving the issues.

For more discussion of limiting the frequency or extent of discovery of ESI, see § 195A.18.

[6] Protections Against Undue Burden and Expense

The Civil Discovery Act provides a nonparty served with a subpoena for electronically stored information additional protections against undue burden and expense not extended to parties from whom ESI is sought. First, a party serving a subpoena requiring the production of ESI must take reasonable steps to avoid imposing undue burden or expense on a person subject to the subpoena [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.8(j)]. Second, a court order requiring compliance with a subpoena for ESI must protect a person who is neither a party nor a party's officer from undue burden or expense resulting from compliance subpoena [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.8(k)].

§ 195A.21 Inadvertent Production of Privileged Electronically Stored Information

[1] Retrieving Privileged Electronically Stored Information

If a party discovers that privileged (or attorney work product protected) ESI was produced in discovery, the party making the claim may notify any party that received the information of the privilege claim and the basis for the claim [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.285(a), (d)(1)]. After being notified, the receiving party must immediately sequester the information and either return it (and any copies) or within 30 days present the information to the court conditionally under seal for a determination of the claim [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.285(b)]. Until resolution, the receiving party must preserve the information and keep it confidential and is precluded from using or disclosing the information [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.285(c), (d)(2)]. If a party disclosed the information before being notified of the privilege claim, the party must immediately take reasonable steps to retrieve the information [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.285(c)(2)]. These rules apply also to subpoenas [Code Civ. Proc. § 1985.8(i)].

For a procedural checklist for retrieving inadvertently disclosed information, see § 195A.56.

[2] Duties of Counsel Who Receive Inadvertent Productions

Although Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.285 does not impose any affirmative obligations on counsel who receive inadvertent productions of privileged information until notified by producing counsel, the California Supreme Court has spelled out such obligations. In Rico v. Mitsubishi Motors Corp. (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 807, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 758, 171 P.3d 1092 , the Court held that when a lawyer receives materials subject to attorney-client privilege, and it is reasonably apparent that they were inadvertently disclosed by another attorney, the recipient attorney should refrain from examining them any more than is essential to ascertain whether they are privileged. The recipient should then immediately notify the sender. The parties should resolve the situation by agreement or with court assistance, if necessary. An attorney who violates this rule by using the privileged information faces possible disqualification.

For a procedural checklist for an attorney who receives inadvertent disclosure, see § 195A.43. For further discussion of the ethical duty of an attorney who receives inadvertent disclosure, see Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations, § 191.15[7][b]. For a more detailed discussion of counsel's duties in the context of production of ESI, including inadvertent production, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence, Ch. 3, Ethical Issues for Attorneys in E-Discovery.

§ 195A.22 Sanctions

[1] Sanctions for Losing on Motion to Compel or Protective Order

The court is required, subject to the safe harbor exception discussed in [4], below, to impose a monetary sanction against any party, person, or attorney who makes or opposes a motion to compel or a motion for a protective order, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.010(h) (protective orders), 2031.310(h) (motions to compel)].

[2] Refusal to Comply With Order Compelling Further Response

The court is authorized to impose a variety of sanctions on a party that fails to obey an order compelling further response, including the imposition of an issue sanction, an evidence sanction, or a terminating sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. In lieu of or in addition to that sanction, the court may impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.310[i]]. For more detailed discussion of these various types of sanctions, see Ch. 510, Sanctions .

For a step-by-step guide, as well as forms to use to seek (or oppose) sanctions for noncompliance, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence, Ch. 13, Seeking or Opposing Sanctions for Noncompliance.

[3] Sanctions for Spoliation of Evidence

Sanctions are available for "misuses of discovery," including altering or destroying electronic evidence [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010, 2023.030; Cedars-Sinai Med. Ctr. v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1, 12, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 248, 954 P.2d 511 ; R.S. Creative, Inc. v. Creative Cotton, Ltd. (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 486, 495, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 353 (affirming order resulting in terminating sanctions for forging contract and destroying evidence by use of computers in violation of stipulation not to use the computers pending examination by expert)]. Sanctions may include money, issue, evidence, adverse inference, and terminating sanctions.

For example, in a case involving destruction of electronic data, the court of appeal found a terminating sanction was appropriate under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2023(b)(4)(A) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(d)(1)), after defendants repeatedly failed to comply with discovery orders and intentionally destroyed evidence requested by plaintiffs by running a program to erase e-mails from computer hard drives [Electronic Funds Solutions, LLC v. Murphy (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 1161, 1183-1184, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 663] .

An attorney may be subject to discipline, including suspension and disbarment, for participating in the suppression or destruction of evidence [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6106 (act of moral turpitude, dishonesty or corruption is cause for disbarment or suspension); Cal. Rules of Prof. Conduct, Rules 5-200 (lawyer may not seek to mislead court by false statement of fact or law), 5-220 (lawyer may not suppress evidence that the lawyer or the lawyer's client has legal obligation to reveal or to produce), 3-210 (lawyer may not advise violation of any law)]. For example, in a patent infringement case, plaintiff failed to produce more than 46,000 e-mails and documents that were requested in discovery. The court found that the plaintiff's outside attorneys had assisted their client in committing this incredible discovery violation by intentionally hiding or recklessly ignoring relevant documents, ignoring or rejecting numerous warning signs that the plaintiff's document search was inadequate, and blindly accepting the plaintiff's unsupported assurances that its document search was adequate. The attorneys then used the lack of evidence to repeatedly and forcefully make false statements and arguments to the court and jury. The court therefore referred the attorneys to the State Bar for potential discipline for violations of Rules 5-200 and 5-220 [*Qualcomm Inc. v. Broadcom Corp. (S.D. Cal. 2008) 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 911, 64 , vacated in part, Qualcomm Inc. v. Broadcom Corp. (S.D. Cal. 2008) 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 16897] .

For detailed discussion of monetary, issue, evidence, and terminating sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions . For further discussion of spoliation of evidence, including sanctions for spoliation and protective orders against spoliation, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence, Ch. 13, Seeking or Opposing Sanctions for Noncompliance.

[4] Safe Harbor from Sanctions

Absent exceptional circumstances, a court may not impose sanctions on a person or any attorney of a person for failure to provide ESI that has been lost, damaged, altered, or overwritten as the result of the routine, good faith operation of an electronic information system [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.060(i) (protective orders), 2031.310; see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985.8(l), 2031.300(d), 2031.310(j) (motions to compel)].

A similar safe harbor exists under federal law [see Fed. R. Civ. P. 37(e)]. Under that rule, the good faith requirement has been interpreted to mean "that a party is not permitted to exploit the routine operation of an information system to thwart discovery obligations by allowing that operation to continue in order to destroy specific stored information that it is required to preserve" [Keithley v. Home Store.com, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 2008) 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 61741 (quoting Fed. R. Civ. P. 37 Advisory Committee Notes (2006 Amendment))].

Courts have found that parties who fail to impose a litigation hold and continue to destroy electronic documents after receiving notice of litigation are not acting in good faith and cannot take advantage of the safe harbor [see, e.g., Doe v. Norwalk Community College (D. Conn. 2007) 248 F.R.D. 372, 379 (defendants' failure to place a litigation hold and to preserve e-mails and hard drives relevant to litigation was at least grossly negligent, if not reckless)].

§ 195A.33 Decisions

[1] Allocation of Expense of Discovery

Court-ordered cost-shifting is inappropriate when electronic data is accessible. *Cason-Merenda v. Detroit Med. Ctr. (E.D. Mich. 2008) 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 51962, 11-12 (interpreting Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(2)(B))

Court refused to shift cost of forensic examination when it was necessitated by responding party's inadequate search for electronically stored information and failure to deactivate network maintenance tools that automatically delete electronically stored information. Peskoff v. Faber (D.D.C. 2008) 251 F.R.D. 59, 62

Court refuses to shift costs to requesting party when those costs directly resulted from responding party's under-inclusive search. *Henry v. Quicken Loans (E.D. Mich. 2008) 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11417, at 17

Under former Code Civ. Proc. 2031(g)(1) (now see Code Civ. Proc. 2031.280(b), when responding to an e-discovery request requires responding party to translate electronic data compilations in order to obtain usable information, expense of translation shifts to demanding party, but demanding party is expected to pay only its reasonable expense for a necessary translation; reasonableness and necessity are factual issues, that, if disputed, are left to trial court's discretion. Toshiba America Electronics Components v. Superior Court (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 762, 771-773, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532 (rejecting parties' reliance on cost-shifting analyses in cases from other jurisdictions, including Zubulake v. UBS Warburg (S.D.N.Y. 2003) 217 F.R.D. 309 , on the ground that Code of Civil Procedure was controlling)

[2] Document Preservation

A party's duty to preserve electronic evidence is triggered when the party has notice that the evidence is relevant to litigation or when the party should have know that the evidence might be relevant to litigation. Zubulake v. UBS Warburg LLC (S.D.N.Y. 2003) 220 F.R.D. 212, 216

The duty to preserve evidence extends to those employees likely to have relevant information--the "key players" in the case. Zubulake v. UBS Warburg LLC (S.D.N.Y. 2003) 220 F.R.D. 212, 218

Destroying evidence in anticipation of a discovery request or in response to a discovery request constitutes a misuse of discovery in violation of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.010 and 2023.030. Cedars-Sinai Med. Ctr. v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1, 12, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 248, 954 P.2d 511

Preliminary injunction prohibiting destruction of files in trade secret misappropriation case and appointing neutral forensics expert to copy files affirmed. Dodge, Warren & Peters Ins. Services, Inc. v. Riley (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 1414, 1417-1418, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 385

Court declined to disturb order for production of computer with accounting records when records had not been produced in compliance with ruling on motion to compel. Oved & Assocs. Constr. Servs. v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (2003) 2003 Cal. App. Unpub. LEXIS 12172

Defendant sanctioned for destroying computer form of payroll evidence sought by plaintiff after plaintiff had sent letters demanding preservation of evidence. Lombardo v. Broadway Stores (2002) 2002 Cal. App. Unpub. LEXIS 4700, 1-2

[3] Electronically Stored Information

Federal courts generally have ordered the production of metadata when it is sought in an initial document request and the producing party has not yet produced the documents in any form. Aguilar v. Immigration & Customs Enforcement Div. of U.S. Dep't of Homeland Sec. (S.D.N.Y. 2008) 255 F.R.D. 350, 357

Information held in a computer's random access memory (RAM) is"electronically stored information" under Fed. R. Civ. Proc. 34. Columbia Pictures, Inc. v. Bunnell (C.D. Cal. 2007) 245 F.R.D. 443

Sanctions for failure to produce electronic copies of voicemails. In Re Seroquel Products Liability Litigation (M.D. Fl. 2007) 244 F.R.D. 650

Computer printouts of prior convictions were admissible as official records. People v. Martinez (2000) 22 C4th 106, 126-134, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 687, 990 P. 2d 563

Printouts from website and message board were not hearsay because they were not offered for the truth, and were self-authenticating as computer printouts. Ampex Corp. v. Cargle (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 1569, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 863

Computer clock access times in trade secret case were admissible non-hearsay. People v. Hawkins (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 1428, 1450, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 627

Computer printout of lottery winners was admissible in dispute about whether a missing lottery ticket was ever issued. Proper foundation as to computer records by lottery manager. Aguimatang v. Cal. State Lottery (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 769, 805, 286 Cal. Rptr. 57

Bank's computer records were properly admitted as business record despite asserted lack of foundational testimony as to how the computer system worked. People v. Lugashi (1988) 205 CA3d 632, 640, 252 Cal. Rptr. 434

Trial court properly excluded lengthy and complex computer printout of costs that would be incomprehensible to lay juror and would be unduly prejudicial and confusing because costs caused by wrongful acts were not segregated. Huber, Hunt & Nichols, Inc. v. Moore (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 278, 296-297, 136 Cal. Rptr. 603

[4] Form of Production

Sanctions for producing ESI in TIFF format when metadata was requested. Bray & Gillespie Mgmt. LLC v. Lexington Ins. Co. (M.D. Fla. 2009) 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 21250

If responding party ordinarily maintains information it is producing in a way that makes it searchable by electronic means, the information should not be produced in a form that removes or significantly degrades this feature. *L.H. v. Schwarzenegger (E.D. Cal. 2008) 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 86829, 10-11

Party's print production of over 170 boxes of printed documents should be produced again in electronic format. 3M Co. v. Kanbar (N.D. Cal. 2007) 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 45232

Production in TIFF form without metadata was insufficient. In re Verisign Sec. Litig. (N.D. Cal. 2004) 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 22467

Party that destroyed electronic form of records and produced paper copies was sanctioned. Lombardo v. Broadway Stores (2002) 2002 Cal. App. Unpub. LEXIS 4700, 1-2

[5] Inadvertent Production of Privileged Material

When a lawyer receives materials subject to attorney-client privilege, and it is reasonably apparent that they were inadvertently disclosed by another attorney, recipient attorney should refrain from examining them any more than is essential to ascertain whether they are privileged, and must immediately notify the sender. Rico v. Mitsubishi Motors Corp. (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 807, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 758, 171 P.3d 1092

[6] Limits on Frequency and Extent of Discovery

Court declined to compel production of econometric data, in part because plaintiffs' expert had already calculated the same information, making it available from another source. Grand River Enters. Six Nations, Ltd. v. King (S.D.N.Y. 2009) 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12940, 33-34 (Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(2)(C))

[7] Not Reasonably Accessible

In $2.5 million case, good cause exists for $33,000 forensic examination because information sought is highly relevant, not duplicative, and cannot be obtained from other sources. Peskoff v. Faber (D.D.C. 2008) 251 F.R.D. 59, 60-61

Responding party claiming that electronically stored information is inaccessible must present court with detailed information demonstrating undue burden or cost; mere cost estimate and conclusory characterizations of electronically stored information as inaccessible will not suffice. *Mikron Indus. v. Hurd Windows & Doors, Inc. (W.D. Wash. 2008) 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 35166, 6

Cost of retrieving e-mails from backup tapes outweighs its likely benefit when requests are overbroad and a response will cost hundreds of thousands of dollars. *Petcou v. C.H. Robinson Worldwide, Inc. (N.D. Ga. 2008) 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13723, at 2-5

Meeting burden of showing that information is from a source that is not reasonably accessible requires an evidentiary showing; statement of a lawyer in a memorandum that the electronic information is not readily accessible or that it would be unduly burdensome to comply with request is not sufficient. *Auto Club Family Ins. Co. v Ahner (E.D. La., 2007) 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 63809, at 8-9 (under Fed. R. Civ. P. 45(d)(1)(D))

Database is not reasonably accessible when it would have to be restored from original sources at cost of at least $124,000, plus monthly storage cost of over $27,000. Best Buy Stores, L.P. v. Developers Diversified Realty Corp. (D. Minn. 2007) 247 F.R.D. 567, 570

E-mails in LotusNotes format are reasonably accessible when cost of producing them is no more than $20,000. Parkdale Am., LLC v. Travelers Cas. & Sur. Co. of Am. (W.D.N.C. 2007) 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 88820

Court ordered parties to equally share cost of extracting requesting source code from defendant's database, and defendant was to solely bear cost of copying source code once it was extracted. OpenTV v. Liberate Techs. (N.D. Cal. 2003) 219 F.R.D. 474

[8] Sanctions

When plaintiff's outside attorneys assisted their client's discovery violations by intentionally hiding or recklessly ignoring relevant documents, ignoring or rejecting numerous warning signs that plaintiff's document search was inadequate, and blindly accepting plaintiff's unsupported assurances that its document search was adequate, court referred the attorneys to the State Bar for potential discipline for violations of Rules 5-200 and 5-220. *Qualcomm Inc. v. Broadcom Corp. (S.D. Cal. 2008) 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 911, 64 , vacated in part, Qualcomm Inc. v. Broadcom Corp. (S.D. Cal. 2008) 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 16897

Good faith requirement in *Fed. R. Civ. [1] Preserve Client's Evidence

1. When future litigation is probable, instruct client to suspend any document destruction policy and put in place litigation hold to ensure preservation of relevant documents.

a. Put litigation hold in writing and communicate it to all employees who might be considered "key players" in actual or anticipated litigation.

b. Periodically remind employees of need to continue to preserve relevant documents and electronically stored information.

[2] Seek Preservation of Evidence by Opponent

1. As soon as litigation is imminent, notify opposing party of its duty to preserve evidence [for sample preservation letter, see § 195A.60].

2. Consider whether extraordinary circumstances such as evidence spoliation provide grounds for a motion requesting that court enter a preservation order and/or allow mirror imaging of computer disks by forensics expert. *Dodge, Warren & Peters Ins. 1. Meet and confer with other party, in person or by telephone, no less than 30 calendar days before date set for initial case management conference (unless court orders another time period) to consider the following e-discovery issues [Cal. Rules of Ct, Rule 3.724(8)]:

a. Any issues relating to the preservation of discoverable ESI.

b. Form or forms in which information will be produced.

c. Time within which the information will be produced.

d. Scope of discovery of the information.

e. Method for asserting or preserving claims of privilege or attorney work product, including whether such claims may be asserted after production.

f. Method for asserting or preserving confidentiality, privacy, trade secrets, or proprietary status of information relating to a party or person not a party to the civil proceedings.

g. How cost of production of ESI is to be allocated among parties.

h. Any other issues relating to discovery of ESI, including developing a proposed plan relating to discovery of information.

2. Consider negotiating an ESI protocol regarding format in which different types of ESI are to be produced [see 195A.61].

§ 195A.42 Demand for Inspection, Copying, Testing, or Sampling of Electronically Stored Information

[1] Prepare Demand

1. Prepare demand that a party produce ESI for inspecting, copying, testing, or sampling [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010(a), (e); for form for demand, see 195A.62].

2. Specify the form or forms in which each type of ESI is to be produced [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(a)(2)].

[2] Prepare Proof of Service

Prepare proof of service of the demand [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013a, 2031.290; see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

[3] Serve Documents

Serve demand on party to whom it is directed, and copies of demand and proof of service on all parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.040].

[4] Supplemental Demands

1. Prepare and serve supplemental demand in same manner as initial demand [see [1]-[3], above], to inspect, copy, test, or sample later acquired or later discovered ESI in possession, control, or custody of party on whom demand is made.

NOTE:
Supplemental demands may be made (1) twice before the initial setting of the trial date, and (2) subject to time limits on discovery proceedings and motions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2024.010 et seq., once after the initial setting of the trial date [*Code Civ. NOTE: For a more detailed discussion of counsel's duties in the context of production of ESI, including inadvertent production, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence, Ch. 3, Ethical Issues for Attorneys in E-Discovery.

[1] Before Notification

1. Upon receipt of any document in course of discovery that appears to be protected by the attorney-client privilege or is protected attorney work product, if it is apparent that the materials were provided or made available through inadvertence, take following steps [Rico v. Mitsubishi Motors Corp. (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 807, 817, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 758, 171 P.3d 1092] :

a. Refrain from examining materials any more than is essential to ascertain whether they are privileged.

b. Immediately notify sender.

c. Resolve situation by agreement or with court assistance, if necessary.

[2] After Notification

1. Upon receipt of any notification from another party that privileged (or attorney work product protected) ESI was inadvertently produced in discovery, take following steps [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.285]:

a. Immediately sequester the information and either:
(1) Return the information (and any copies), or

(2) Within 30 days, present information to court conditionally under seal for determination of claim.

b. Until resolution of claim, do not use or disclose the information.

c. If recipient of privileged information further disclosed the information before being notified of privilege claim, immediately take reasonable steps to retrieve the information.

[1] Preserve Client's Evidence

1. As soon as future litigation is probable, suspend any document destruction policy and put in place litigation hold to ensure preservation of relevant documents.

a. Put litigation hold in writing and communicate it to all employees who might be considered "key players" in actual or anticipated litigation.

b. Periodically remind employees of need to continue to preserve relevant documents and ESI.

2. If informed by any other party in writing that the discovery of ESI is reasonably likely to be sought, meet and confer at least 45 days before the date set for initial case management conference regarding any issues related to preservation of discoverable ESI [*Cal. [2] Seek Preservation of Evidence by Opponent

1. When litigation is imminent, notify opposing party of its duty to preserve evidence [for sample preservation letter, see § 195A.60].

2. Consider requesting a preservation order, forensic inspection of computer disks, and sanctions if opponent has altered or destroyed evidence in anticipation of a discovery request or in response to a discovery request [*Dodge, Warren & Peters Ins. § 195A.52 Response to Demand for Inspection, Copying, Testing, or Sampling of Electronically Stored Information

[1] Time for Response

1. Respond within applicable time period:

a. Within 30 days from date of service of demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.260(a)].

b. If service was made by mail, within 30 days plus five calendar days from date of service of demand if place of address is within California, 30 days plus 10 calendar days if place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 30 days plus 20 calendar days if place of address is outside United States [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050].

NOTE:
The period is extended two court days if service is by express mail, other overnight delivery, or by fax [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)].

c. Within time as shortened or extended by court order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.260 [for forms for extending time to respond to interrogatories which may be adapted for this purpose, see Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories, § 194.90 et seq.].

NOTE:
If the responding party can establish that an extension of time is needed for protection from unwarranted annoyance, embarrassment, or oppression, or undue burden and expense, he or she may move for a protective order, which may include an order extending time. In that event, a monetary sanction may be available to the prevailing party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.060; see also

Ch. 195, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence, § 195.51].

d. Within the time as extended (or shortened) by stipulation of counsel under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.270.

NOTE:

Counsel who obtain stipulations by telephone must confirm them in writing, either by letter or by written stipulation to be signed by the attorneys involved [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.270(b)]. The written stipulation, whether offered separately or as an attachment to another document, may not be filed unless it is offered as relevant to the determination of an issue in a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or is ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(7), (9)]. The original written stipulation must be retained until six months after final disposition of the cause, unless the court on motion of any party and for good cause shown orders the stipulation preserved for a longer period [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)].

[2] Prepare Response

1. Respond separately to each item or category of item in any of the manners listed in [2]-[4], below [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210 et seq.; for form for response, see § 195A.52].

2. Object to demand in whole or in part [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.210(a)(3), 2031.240].

a. Specify extent of, and specific grounds for, objection.

b. If objecting in part, specify objectionable part or parts of item, or categories of items, and include a statement of compliance, or representation of inability to comply, with respect to remainder of items or categories.

c. If objecting based on privilege, state particular privilege invoked.

d. Expressly assert any claim that information sought is protected work product under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq.

e. If ESI is from a source that is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or expense, identify types or categories of sources of ESI that are not reasonably accessible [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210(d)].

f. If objecting to specified form for producing ESI, state in response form in which respondent intends to produce each type of information [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(c)].

3. Grant permission to inspect, copy, test, or sample [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.210(a)(1), 2031.220].

a. State that inspection, copying, testing, or sampling will be allowed by date set for inspection under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(c) and that other related activities will be allowed in whole or in part; and

b. State that all documents or things in demanded category that are in possession, custody, or control of party, and to which no objection is being made, will be included in production.

4. Make representation of inability to comply with demand [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2031.210(a)(2), a. Affirm that diligent search and reasonable inquiry was made in an effort to comply with demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.230].

b. Specify whether item never existed; has been destroyed; has been lost, misplaced, or stolen; or has never been, or is no longer in, responding party's possession, custody, or control.

c. Give name and address of any person or organization known or believed to have possession, custody, or control of item or category of item.

[3] Proof of Service

1. Prepare proof of service of response [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a, 2031.290; see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

[4] Serve Documents

1. Serve original response on demanding party and copies of response on all other parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.260(a)].

§ 195A.60 Sample Preservation Letter

[1] FORM 195A.60.1 Sample Preservation Letter

TO: _____ [name]:

You are hereby given notice to immediately take all steps necessary to prevent the destruction, loss, concealment, or alteration of any paper, document, or electronically stored information ("ESI") and other data or information generated by and/or stored on your computers and storage media (e.g., hard disks, floppy disks, backup tapes, etc.), and e-mail related to (1) _____ [subject matter of lawsuit]; (2) the events and causes of action described in Plaintiffs' Complaint; and (3) ESI and documents you may use to support any defenses you may claim to have in this action.

You should anticipate that much of the information subject to disclosure and responsive to discovery in this action is stored on your current or former computer systems and other media and devices, including personal digital or data assistants, voice-messaging or voice-mail systems, online repositories, and cell phones.

ESI should be afforded the broadest possible definition and includes, but is not limited to, all digital communications (e.g., e-mail, voice mail, instant messaging), word processed documents (e.g., Word and WordPerfect documents and drafts), spreadsheets and tables (e.g., Excel and Lotus 123 worksheets), accounting application data (such as QuickBooks, Money, or Peachtree), image and facsimile files (including PDF, TIFF, JPG, and GIF images), sound recordings (including WAV and MP3 files), video recordings, all databases, all contact and relationship management data, calendar and diary application data, online access data (including temporary, Internet files, history, and cookies), all presentations (including PowerPoint and Corel), all network access and server activity logs, all data created with the use of any cell phone or Personal Data Assistant (PDA) devices, all CAD files, and all backup and archival files.

Adequate preservation of ESI requires more than simply refraining from efforts to destroy or dispose of such evidence. You must also intervene to prevent loss due to routine operations and employ proper techniques to safeguard all such evidence.

Because hard copies do not preserve electronic searchability or metadata, they are not an adequate substitute for ESI. If information exists in both electronic and paper form, you should preserve them both.

LITIGATION HOLD

You are requested to immediately initiate a litigation hold for potentially relevant ESI, documents, and tangible things, and to act diligently and in good faith to secure and audit compliance with that litigation hold. You are also requested to preserve and not destroy all passwords, decryption procedures (including, if necessary, the software to decrypt the files), network access codes, ID names, manuals, tutorials, written instructions, decompression or reconstruction software, and any and all other information and things necessary to access, view, and (if necessary) reconstruct any ESI. You should not pack, compress, purge, or dispose of any file or any part thereof.

You are further requested to immediately identify and modify or suspend features of your operations, information systems, and devices that, in routine operations, operate to cause the loss of documents, tangible items, or ESI. Examples of such features and operations include, but are not limited to, purging the contents of e-mail repositories by age, capacity, or other criteria; using data or media wiping, disposal, erasure, or encryption utilities or devices; overwriting, erasing, destroying, or discarding backup media; re-assigning, re-imaging or disposing of systems, servers, devices, or media; running antivirus or other programs that alter metadata; using metadata stripper utilities; and destroying documents or any ESI by age or other criteria.

SERVERS

With respect to servers like those used to manage electronic mail and network storage, the entire contents of each user's network share and e-mail account should be preserved and not modified.

STORAGE

With respect to on-line storage and/or direct access storage devices attached to your mainframe computers and/or minicomputers, in addition to the above, you are not to modify or delete any ESI, "deleted" files, and/or file fragments existing on the date of this letter's delivery that contain potentially relevant information.

With regard to all electronic media used for off-line storage, including magnetic tapes and cartridges, optical media, electronic media, and other media or combinations of media containing potentially relevant information, you are requested to stop any activity which may result in the loss of any ESI, including rotation, destruction, overwriting and erasure in whole or in part. This request is intended to cover all media used for data or information storage in connection with your computer systems, including magnetic tapes and cartridges, magneto-optical disks, floppy diskettes, and all other media, whether used with personal computers, minicomputers, mainframes or other computers, and whether containing backup and/or archival ESI.

PERSONAL COMPUTERS

You should take immediate steps to preserve all ESI on all personal computers used by your officers, directors and employees, including all secretaries and assistants, that in any way relate to the [subject matter of action], and the events and causes of action described in the Complaint. As to fixed devices, (1) a true and correct copy is to be made of all such ESI, including all active files and completely restored versions of all deleted electronic files and file fragments; (2) full directory listings (including hidden files) for all directories and subdirectories (including hidden directories) on such fixed devices should be written; and (3) all such copies and listings are to be preserved until this litigation is ended. As to floppy diskettes, CDs, DVDs, tapes, and other non-fixed media relating to this matter, they are to be collected and stored pending resolution of this litigation.

PORTABLE SYSTEMS

In addition to your immediate preservation of ESI, documents and tangible items in your business, on servers and workstations, you should also determine if any home or portable systems may contain potentially relevant data or information. To the extent that officers, board members, or employees have sent or received potentially relevant e-mails or created or reviewed potentially relevant documents away from the office, you must preserve the contents of systems, devices, and media used for these purposes (including not only potentially relevant data from portable and home computers, but also from portable thumb drives, CD-R discs, PDAs, smart phones, voice mailboxes, or other forms of ESI storage). Additionally, if any employees, officers, or directors used online or browser-based e-mail accounts or services to send or receive potentially relevant messages and attachments, the contents of these account mailboxes should be preserved.

EVIDENCE CREATED OR ACQUIRED IN THE FUTURE

With regard to documents, tangible things, and ESI that are created or come into your custody, possession, or control subsequent to the date of delivery of this letter, potentially relevant evidence is to be preserved. You should take all appropriate action to avoid destruction of potentially relevant evidence.

Please forward a copy of this letter to all persons and entities possessing or controlling potentially relevant evidence. Your obligation to preserve potentially relevant evidence is required by law.

[2] Use of Form

The preservation letter set out in [1], above, directs an opposing party to preserve electronic evidence. For discussion of preservation of evidence, see § 195A.13.

§ 195A.61 Sample Electronically Stored Information Protocol

[1] FORM 195A.61.1 Sample Electronically Stored Information Protocol

ESI PRODUCTION PROTOCOL

1. Obligation to Produce Electronically Stored Information . The parties acknowledge and agree that to the extent they possess electronically stored information ("ESI") responsive to a document request, that ESI is within the scope of matters subject to discovery in this case.

2. Load Files. Except for ESI described in sections 3(b) and (c) below, ESI will be produced in electronic format, with files suitable for loading into a litigation support database. The load files will define document breaks, attachments and other information identified below.

(a) Document Cross-Reference File. The producing party will provide a cross-reference file that identifies the start and end of the document, its attachments and its corresponding metadata.

(b) Cross-Reference or Linking File. The producing party will also provide a cross-reference file that facilitates the linking of the produced image or native file with the litigation database. This cross-reference file will contain fields such as the unique document ID (i.e., BegBates) and the file path of the corresponding image or native file. The producing party may provide this information either in a litigation database format or as a standard delimited ASCII text file.

3. Categories of Production of ESI. ESI will be produced as follows, depending on its classification.

(a) Production of ESI as TIFF Images With Metadata and Extracted Text. Documents created in standard office automation file formats (including but not limited to Microsoft Word or WordPerfect documents) and ESI that can practicably be converted into TIFF format will be produced as single-page TIFF Group IV images, with any available fielded metadata and text searchable information extracted from the native documents.

(i) Bates Numbering. The producing party will brand all TIFF images in the lower right-hand corner with its corresponding bates number, using a consistent font type and size. The Bates number must not obscure any part of the underlying image.

(ii) File Names. Image file names will be identical to the corresponding bates numbered images, with a ".tif" file extension.

(iii) Confidentiality Endorsements. The producing party will brand any confidentiality or similar endorsements in a corner of the TIFF image. Those endorsements must be in a consistent font type and size, and must not obscure any part of the underlying image or Bates number.

(iv) Production of Extracted Full Text. The producing party will provide extracted full text (i.e., text extracted from ESI) for all material originating as ESI in a text file corresponding to a single page of a document. The full text file name will be composed of the Bates number of the associated document, with a ".txt" file extension. When a party is unable to produce extracted full text, it will provide an explanation of that inability with its document production.

(v) Production of Metadata. The producing party will provide the following metadata, as applicable, for all ESI: start bates, end bates, start attachment, end attachment, custodian or source, original file path, original file name, file type/file extension, MD-5 hash value, title, creation date, creation time, page count, last modification date, last modification time, and last saved by name.

(vi) Metadata for E-Mail. In addition to the metadata to be produced for all ESI, for all e-mail, the producing party will also produce the following as fielded metadata: subject, author, recipients, from, to, copyees, blind copyees, date sent, time sent, date received, time received, MD-5 hash value, attachment file name, begin attachment, and end attachment. Family relationships among email and attachments will be maintained by ensuring that attachments immediately follow their parent e-mail, and setting the "begin attachment" and "end attachment" metadata fields appropriately.

(vii) Explanation of Inability to Produce Metadata. When a party is unable to produce metadata for a particular field, it will provide an explanation of that inability with its document production.

(viii) Redaction. If a file that originates in ESI needs to be redacted before production, the file will be rendered in TIFF, and the TIFF will be redacted and produced. However, to the extent that the text is searchable in the native format, the producing party will still provide searchable text for those portions of the document that have not been redacted.

(b) Production of Native Format Documents That Are Impractical to Convert to TIFF. ESI that is not practical to convert to TIFF may be produced using one of the two following methods, which method will be subject to meet and confer between the parties.

(i) Spreadsheets that are Impractical to Convert to TIFF. ESI that is not practical to convert to TIFF (for example, spreadsheets) may be produced in electronic format suitable for loading to a litigation support database with links to the native files.

(A) Identification. ESI produced in native file format will be assigned a unique DocID number within the litigation database.

(B) File Names. File names will be identical to the DocID number, followed by the original file name and file extension.

(C) Authentication. The producing party will provide a litigation database load file with separately fielded data, which will contain, as one of the fields, the MD-5 hash value of each file produced in native format.

(ii) ESI That Is Impractical to Produce with Links to a Database. The parties understand and acknowledge that certain categories of ESI are structurally complex and do not lend themselves to production as native format documents with links to a litigation database. For example, in some instances renaming and/or linking a native document comprised of subparts will render the document unusable. After meet and confer, the parties may agree to produce these types of documents in native form, accompanied with a Bates number and MD-5 hash value, but separate from a litigation support database. In those instances, if a propounding party or its experts lack access to proprietary software needed to review the producing party's ESI in native format, the parties will meet and confer to obtain a resolution which allows that party to view the affected documents.

(iii) Encrypted or Password-Protected ESI. For any ESI that exists in encrypted format or is password-protected, the producing party will provide the propounding party a means to gain access to those native files (for example, by supplying passwords).

(c) Reports in Lieu of Native Production. If a party believes that it would be impractical to produce ESI in native format because of complexities associated with certain scheduling programs (such as Primavera), accounting systems, mapping systems, and/or other databases (such as MS Access, Oracle, and Microsoft SQL Server), it will so notify the propounding party and will inform the propounding party whether it has generated reports in the normal course of business using those programs or systems. In any such instance, the parties will meet and confer concerning the manner of production of those reports.

(d) Production of Pictures/Images. Any photographic images created and/or maintained in electronic format will be produced in that format.

4. Production Media. The producing party will use the appropriate electronic media (CD, DVD or hard drive) for its ESI production, and will cooperate in good faith to use the highest-capacity available media to minimize associated overhead. The producing party will label the physical media with the producing party, production date, media volume name, and document number range.

5. Avoidance of Duplicate Production. Each producing party will take all reasonable steps to reduce duplication of ESI. De-duplication will be performed within a custodian. The producing party will maintain references to all removed duplicate files.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a sample protocol (agreement of the parties) governing the production of electronically stored information in connection with discovery. When the parties to litigation recognize that issues concerning electronically stored information are present, it is often helpful to negotiate an ESI protocol such as the one set out in [1], above. Parties are required to meet and confer regarding such issues [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.724(8)]. The sample protocol here should be modified as appropriate for the kinds of ESI at issue in the particular case.

For discussion of preservation of ESI, see § 195A.13. For a discussion of the format of production, see § 195A.19.

To _____ [identify party, e.g., defendant] _____ [name] and to _____ [name], his/her attorney of record:

_____ [Identify party serving demand, e.g., Plaintiff] _____ [name] demands that you produce and permit the inspection and _____ [specify related activity, e.g., copying and/or testing and/or sampling] by or on behalf of himself/herself of the items described below.

_____ [Identify party serving request, e.g., Plaintiff] _____ [name] demands that the items described below be produced on _____ [date], at _____ [time], at _____ [specify, e.g., the law offices of _____ (name of law firm)] located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], California, for the purpose of inspection [and _____ (specify related activity, such as testing or sampling, the manner in which the activity will be performed, and whether it will permanently alter or destroy the item or items)].

DEFINITIONS

1. "DOCUMENTS" means any and all writings as defined in California Evidence Code § 250. This includes without limitation all communications and writings of every kind, letters, telegrams, telexes, memoranda, reports, studies, calendar or diary entries, telephone logs, maps, pamphlets, drafts, notes, graphs, charts, tabulations, analyses, statistical or informational accumulations, accounting records of any kind, audio recordings, photographs, film impressions, videotapes, microfilm, microfiche, vu-graphs, computer disks, computer programs, software, magnetic tapes, or any medium containing computer programs, software, or data, and sounds or mechanical reproductions, and all compilations of the foregoing.

2. "ELECTRONIC" means relating to technology having electrical, digital, magnetic, wireless, optical, electromagnetic, or similar capabilities.

3. "ELECTRONICALLY STORED INFORMATION" means information that is stored in an ELECTRONIC medium, including without limitation disks, including hard disks and floppy disks, CD-ROMs, DVDs, network servers, shared servers, computers, magnetic tape, back-up tape, voicemail, and PDAs, whether currently on your premises or otherwise (e.g., at an employee's home or remote office).

INSTRUCTIONS

When a request specifically seeks DOCUMENTS in ELECTRONIC form, such DOCUMENTS shall be produced (i) with a load file suitable for loading the data into a litigation database that defines document breaks, attachments, metadata, and other information (identified below) and (ii) with a cross-reference file that facilitates the linking of the produced TIFF or native file with a litigation database; specifically, production to be as follows:

(a) Spreadsheets--To be produced (i) as a native file, and (ii) with a load file suitable for linking it to a litigation support database that (for authentication) identifies the MD-5 hash value of each file.

(b) Standard Office File Forms (e.g. E-mails, Word Processing Documents, Presentations)--To be produced (i) in TIFF format, and (ii) with metadata and text searchable information extracted from the native file and produced as fielded metadata. Family relationships among email and attachments are to be maintained.

When any such DOCUMENTS cannot be provided in one of the above manners, as in the case of certain scheduling, accounting, contact management, and database programs (e.g. Primavera, MS Access, Oracle, Microsoft SQL Server), or if Plaintiffs and each Defendant otherwise agree, Plaintiffs and each Defendant will determine another acceptable electronic form for production.

DEMANDS FOR INSPECTION

1. All DOCUMENTS, including ELECTRONICALLY STORED INFORMATION, that relate or refer to _____ [describe subject of dispute].

Dated: _____

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [demanding party's status and name]

[2] Use of Form

The demand set out in [1], above, is for use to demand the production of all electronically stored information relevant to the litigation for inspection, copying, testing or sampling [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010(a), (e)]. For further discussion of inspection demands for electronically stored information, see § 195A.15. For discussion of strategic considerations and a step-by-step guide to demanding production of electronic evidence in California courts, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence, Ch. 6, Demanding Production of Electronically Stored Evidence in California Court.

[3] Content of Demand

A party demanding the production of electronically stored information may specify the form or forms in which each type of ESI is to be produced [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(a)(2)].

[2] Use of Form

The response set out in [1], above, is for use by a party who has been served with either a demand for production of ESI [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210 et seq.]. For the procedure to be followed in responding to a demand, see § 195A.51.

For discussion of strategic considerations and a step-by-step guide to responding to e-discovery demands, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence, Ch. 8, Responding to Electronic Discovery Demands in California Court. For guidance on gathering and producing ESI, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence, Ch. 9, Gathering and Producing Electronically Stored Information.

[3] Content of Response

[a] Types of Responses

A separate response to each item or category of item is required. The response may be any of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210(a)]:

- A statement that the party will comply with the particular demand for inspection by the date set for inspection under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.030(c).

- A representation that the party lacks the ability to comply with the demand for inspection of a particular item or category of item.

- An objection to the particular demand [see [b], below].

Each statement of compliance, each representation, and each objection in the response must bear the same number and be in the same sequence as the corresponding item or category in the inspection demand. The text of each of item or category need not be repeated in the response, however [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210(c); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1000(b)].

[b] Objections

An objection to an item, or category of items, in an inspection demand must do the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.240(b)]:

- Identify with particularity any ESI falling within any category of item in the demand to which an objection is being made.

- Clearly set forth the extent of, and the specific ground for, the objection.

If only a part of an item, or category of item, in a demand is objectionable, the response must set out a statement of compliance, or a representation of inability to comply, with respect to the remainder of that item or category [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.240(a); see [a], above].

A party may object to a demand for discovery of ESI on the grounds that the ESI is from a source that is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or expense. The responding party must identify in its response the types or categories of sources of ESI that it asserts are not reasonably accessible. By objecting and identifying the type or category of sources that are not reasonably accessible, the responding party preserves its objections relating to that ESI [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.210(d)].

A responding party may object to the specified form for producing ESI and state the form in which it intends to produce each type of information [Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.280(c)].

Chapter 196 DISCOVERY: REQUESTS FOR ADMISSIONS
PART I. SCOPE

16-196 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 196.01

§ 196.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter covers discovery under the Civil Discovery Act using the discovery method of requests for admissions.

Part II [see § 196.10 et seq.] has detailed discussion of the requirements and procedures relating to discovery by requests for admissions.

Part IV provides procedural checklists in the following subparts:

- Subpart A [see § 196.40 et seq.] provides checklists for use by a party propounding requests for admissions.

- Subpart B [see § 196.50] provides checklists for use by a responding party.

Part V provides forms relating to discovery by requests for admissions, including the following:

- Forms for requests for admissions, including a form for specially drafted requests [see § 196.60], a reproduction of Judicial Council form requests [see § 196.61], and a reproduction of a Judicial Council form of request for statement of witnesses and evidence for limited civil cases [see § 196.61A].

- A form for a response to requests for admissions [see § 196.62].

- Forms for use in motion proceedings for a protective order in relation to discovery by requests for admissions [see §§ 196.63, 196.64].

- Forms for use in motion proceedings to compel a further response to requests for admissions [see §§ 196.65 -196.67].

- Forms for use in motion proceedings to withdraw or amend responses to a request for admissions [see §§ 196.68, 196.69].

- Forms for use in motion proceedings for an order directing that matters be deemed admitted following a party's failure to respond or provide further response to requests for admissions [see §§ 196.70 -196.73].

- Forms for use in motion proceedings for an order directing a party to pay the moving party's costs of proving an issue not properly admitted in response to requests for admission [see §§ 196.74, 196.75].

16-196 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 196.10

§ 196.10 Governing Law

Discovery by requests for admissions pursuant to the Civil Discovery Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq.) is governed generally by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2033.010-2033.420. Related provisions of the Civil Discovery Act include the provision for form requests, set out in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2033.710-2033.740 and the provisions governing discovery generally, set out in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.010-2019.030, 2023.010-2023.040.

The extent of discovery permitted under the Civil Discovery Act is restricted in limited civil cases by the Economic Litigation provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 94 and 95. The use of requests for admissions in such cases is limited specifically by Code Civ. Proc. § 94(a). For further discussion, see § 196.13[2][b] [see also Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, §§ 190.11[2], 190.23[2][a], Ch. 345A, Limited Civil Cases, §§ 345A.16, 345A.17].

Statewide rule provisions relating to the format, content, and service of discovery papers and motions, and to discovery sanctions, are set out in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1000, 3.1345, 3.1346, 3.1347, and 3.1348.

Chapter 196 DISCOVERY: REQUESTS FOR ADMISSIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-196 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 196.11

§ 196.11 Nature and Purpose of Requests for Admissions

While most discovery procedures are aimed primarily at assisting counsel to prepare for trial, requests for admissions under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2033 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.010 et seq.) are aimed primarily at setting a triable issue to rest so that it will not have to be litigated [Cembrook v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 423, 429, 15 Cal. Rptr. 127, 364 P.2d 303] . Their fundamental purpose is to limit the triable issues and to spare the parties the burden and expense of litigating undisputed issues [Brigante v. Huang (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1569, 1576-1581, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 354 , disapproved on other grounds, Wilcox v. Birtwhistle (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 973, 983 n.12, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260, 987 P.2d 727] .

A request for admissions differs fundamentally from the other five discovery methods (depositions, interrogatories, inspection demands, medical examinations, and witness exchanges), which have as their main thrust the uncovering of factual data that may be used in proving things at trial. The request for admissions is a device that seeks to eliminate the need for proof in certain areas of the case [Brigante v. Huang (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1569, 1576-1581, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 354 , disapproved on other grounds, Wilcox v. Birtwhistle (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 973, 983 n.12, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260, 987 P.2d 727] .

Requests for admissions, however, should not be used as a substitute for the trial of genuinely disputed facts [Hillman v. Stults (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 848, 885, 70 Cal. Rptr. 295] , or as a substitute for discoveryprocedures to uncover evidence, such as an adversary's knowledge of the existence of certain facts [International Harvester Co. v. Superior Court (1969) 273 Cal. App. 2d 652, 655, 78 Cal. Rptr. 515] .

Chapter 196 DISCOVERY: REQUESTS FOR ADMISSIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-196 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 196.12

§ 196.12 Matters Subject to Requests for Admission

Any party may serve a written request that any other party admit the genuineness of documents or the truth of any specified matters of fact, opinion relating to fact, or application of law to fact set forth in the request [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.010]. A request for admission may relate to a matter that is in controversy between the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.010].

The requested matter must be within the general scope of discovery as provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010 et seq. and as limited by Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.010]. The general scope of discovery under Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010 et seq. permits the discovery of any matter that is not privileged so long as it is relevant to the subject matter [Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010]. Thus, requests for admission are generally authorized in regard to all matters relevant to the subject matter or reasonably calculated to lead to admissible evidence [see Cembrook v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 423, 429, 15 Cal. Rptr. 127, 364 P.2d 303 (prior law); Cembrook v. Sterling Drug, Inc. (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 52, 62, 41 Cal. Rptr. 492 (prior law)]. For detailed discussion of scope under Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010 et seq., and the general restrictions or regulatory provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.010 et seq., see respectively Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.20 et seq. and § 190.30 et seq. For detailed discussion of privileges and other protections against disclosure, such as the attorney work product protection of Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq., see Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations .

Because requests are aimed at expediting trial, a request is not improper merely because it requests the admission of a controversial matter or one involving complex facts. If the litigant is able to make the admission, the time for making it is during discovery procedures and not at trial [Cembrook v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 423, 429, 15 Cal. Rptr. 127, 364 P.2d 303 (prior law)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-196 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 196.13

§ 196.13 Procedure for Requests

[1] Time for Making Requests

A defendant may make requests for admission by a party without leave of court at any time [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.020(a)]. A plaintiff may make requests for admission by a party without leave of court at any time that is 10 days after the service of the summons on, or, in unlawful detainer actions or other proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq., (forcible entry and detainer), five days after service of the summons on, or appearance by, that party, whichever occurs first [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.020(b), (c)].

However, on motion with or without notice, the court, for good cause shown, may grant leave to a plaintiff to make requests for admission at an earlier time [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.020(d)]. For a form for a notice of motion and motion to shorten the time for response, see § 196.62A. For a form for an order, see § 196.62B.

[2] Number of Requests

[a] Unlimited Civil Cases

No party is permitted to request, as a matter of right, any other party to admit more than 35 matters that do not relate to the genuineness of documents [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.030(a)]. Unless a declaration for additional discovery as described in Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.050 has been made, a party need only respond to the first 35 admission requests served that do not relate to the genuineness of documents, if that party states an objection to the balance under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.230 on the ground that the limit has been exceeded [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.030(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.230, discussed in § 196.16[4]].

The number of requests for admission of the genuineness of documents is not limited, except as justice requires to protect the responding party from annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or undue burden and expense [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.030(c); for discussion of protective orders, see § 196.14].

Subject to the right of the responding party to seek a protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080, any party who attaches a declaration for additional discovery as described in Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.050 may request a greater number of admissions by another party if the greater number is warranted by the complexity or the quantity of the existing and potential issues in the particular case [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.040(a)].

Any party who is requesting or who has already requested more than 35 admissions not relating to the genuineness of documents by any other party must attach to each set of requests for admissions a declaration for additional discovery as set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.050. For a form for a request for admissions that includes a declaration for additional discovery, see § 196.60.

[b] Limited Civil Cases

The number of requests for admissions is further restricted in limited civil cases [see Code Civ. Proc. § 91]. In these cases, a party may use, as to any adverse party, a combination of 35 of the following forms of discovery [Code Civ. Proc. § 94(a)]:

- Interrogatories (with no subparts) under Code Civ. Proc. § 2030.010 et seq. [see generally Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories].

- Demands to produce documents or things under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq. [see generally Ch. 195, Discovery: Inspection of Tangible Evidence].

- Demands to produce electronically stored information under Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010 et seq. [see generally Ch. 195A, Discovery: Discovery of Electronically Stored Evidence (E-Discovery)].

- Requests for admission (with no subparts) under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.010 et seq.

For further discussion of discovery in limited civil cases, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, §§ 190.11[2], 190.23.

[3] Form of Requests

A request for admission must be written [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.010]. It should not contain questions to be answered, but should consist of statements of facts to be admitted [Lieb v. Superior Court (1962) 199 Cal. App. 2d 364, 367, 18 Cal. Rptr. 705] .

The request may not be combined in a single document with any other method of discovery [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.060(h)].

For forms and further discussion of the format and contents of a request for admissions, see §§ 196.60 and 196.61.

[4] Attachment of Copies of Documents

A party requesting an admission of the genuineness of any documents must attach copies of those documents to the requests, and make the original of those documents available for inspection on demand by the party to whom the requests for admission are directed [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.060(g)].

[5] Service of Requests

The party requesting admissions must serve a copy of them on the party to whom they are directed and on all other parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.070].

[6] Retention of Requests

A request for admissions may not be filed with the court, unless offered as relevant under a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(10)]. Instead, the serving party retains the original and the proof of service until six months after final disposition of the cause, unless otherwise ordered by the court for cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-196 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 196.14

§ 196.14 Protective Orders

[1] Motion for Protective Order

When requests for admission have been made, the responding party may promptly move for a protective order [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080(a)]. The motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080(a); see also general discussion of good faith attempt requirements in Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1]]. For a form for a motion for a protective order in the context of requests for admissions, see § 196.63.

[2] Types of Protective Order

The court, for good cause shown, may make any order that justice requires to protect any party from annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or undue burden and expense [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080(b)]. This protective order may include, but is not limited to, one or more of the following directions [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080(b)]:

- That the set of admission requests, or particular requests in the set, need not be answered at all [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080(b)(1)].

- That, contrary to the representations made in a declaration for additional discovery, the number of admission requests is unwarranted [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080(b)(2)].

- That the time specified to respond to the set of admission requests, or to particular requests in the set, be extended [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080(b)(3)].

- That a trade secret or other confidential research, development, or commercial information not be admitted or be admitted only in a certain way [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080(b)(4)].

- That some or all of the answers to requests for admission be sealed and thereafter opened only on order of the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080(b)(5)].

[3] Determination of Motion

If the responding party seeks a protective order on the ground that the number of requests for admission is unwarranted [see [2], above], the propounding party has the burden of justifying the number of requests for admission [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.040(b)].

The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion for a protective order, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080(d); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq.]. For further discussion of this general provision for monetary sanctions, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2] and Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.12, 192.14.

If the motion for a protective order is denied in whole or in part, the court may order that the responding party provide or permit the discovery against which protection was sought on terms and conditions that are just [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080(c)].

For responses by answer or by objection, see respectively § 196.16[1] and [2].

The response must be in writing [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.210(a)]. It must be signed under oath by the responding party unless it consists entirely of objections [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2033.210(a), 2033.240; for further discussion see [3], below].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-196 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 196.16

§ 196.16 Procedure for Responding to Request

[1] Response by Answer

[a] Types of Answers

Each answer in the response to a request for admissions must do all of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.220(b)]:

- Admit as much of the matter involved in the request as is true, either as expressed in the request itself or as reasonably and clearly qualified by the responding party [see also [b] and [d], below].

- Deny as much of the matter involved in the request as is untrue [see also [c] and [d], below].

- Specify as much of the matter involved in the request as to the truth of which the responding party lacks sufficient information or knowledge [see also [c], below].

[b] Content of Answer

Each answer in a response must be as complete and straightforward as the information reasonably available to the responding party permits [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.220(a)].

[c] Answer by Denial or Statement of Inability to Admit or Deny

If a litigant has denied a particular matter, the court cannot force him or her to admit it even if the matter clearly appears to be true [see Holguin v. Superior Court (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 812, 820, 99 Cal. Rptr. 653] . However, by denying the facts for which admissions were requested and thereby putting the requesting party to its proof, the responding party risks being surcharged with costs pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.420 if the requesting party ultimately proves the fact involved [see Chodos v. Superior Court (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 318, 324, 30 Cal. Rptr. 303 (prior law)]. For discussion concerning recovery of expenses of proof under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.420, see § 196.21.

If a responding party gives lack of information or knowledge as a reason for a failure to admit all or part of a request for admission, that party must state in the answer that a reasonable inquiry concerning the matter in the particular request has been made and that the information known or readily obtainable is insufficient to enable that party to admit the matter [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.220(c); see Lindgren v. Superior Court (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 743, 746-747, 47 Cal. Rptr. 298 (prior law); Chodos v. Superior Court (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 318, 323, 30 Cal. Rptr. 303 (under prior law, responding party must make reasonable investigation to determine at time of responding whether it will dispute matters involved at trial)].

[d] Answer on Information and Belief

A party may answer a request for admission by stating that he or she has been informed and believes in either the truth or the falsity of the requested matters [Chodos v. Superior Court (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 318, 322-323, 30 Cal. Rptr. 303 ; Cohen v. Superior Court (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 184, 187, 133 Cal. Rptr. 575] .

[2] Response by Objection

If an objection is made to a request or to a part of a request, the specific ground for the objection must be set forth clearly in the response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.230(b)].

If an objection is based on a claim of privilege, the particular privilege invoked must be clearly stated. If an objection is based on a claim that the matter as to which an admission is requested is protected work product under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq., that claim must be expressly asserted [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.230(b)]. For detailed discussion of privileges and attorney work product protection, see Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations .

If only a part of a request for admission is objectionable, the remainder of the request must be answered [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.230(a)].

Courts have held that the following are not proper grounds for objecting to a request for admissions [see Cembrook v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 423, 429, 15 Cal. Rptr. 127, 364 P.2d 303 ; Hillman v. Stults (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 848, 885, 70 Cal. Rptr. 295] :

- The request calls for opinions, conclusions, and interpretations of the litigant.
- The request call for answers to intricate and controversial matters.
- The request relates to matters that cannot be clearly admitted or denied.
- The request calls for admissions of the truth of matters included in previously taken deposition testimony or of which the party already knows the truth.

For discussion of waiver for failure to make a timely objection, see § 196.17.

[3] Signature Under Oath

The party to whom the requests for admission are directed must sign the response under oath, unless the response contains only objections [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.240(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5 (use of declaration under penalty of perjury)].

If the responding party is a public or private corporation, a partnership or association, or a governmental agency, one of its officers or agents must sign the response under oath on behalf of that party. If the officer or agent signing the response on behalf of that party is an attorney acting in that capacity for the party, that party waives any lawyer-client privilege and any protection for work product under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq. during any subsequent discovery from that attorney concerning the identity of the sources of the information contained in the response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.240(b)].

The response of an individual party to the request for admissions must be personally verified by the party. Although Code Civ. Proc. § 446 allows verification by the attorney when his or her client is out of the county, it applies only to pleadings and not to a request for admissions, because a central purpose of a sworn statement under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2033 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.010 et seq.) is to establish unequivocally those matters admitted in the response [Steele v. Totah (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 545, 550-551, 225 Cal. Rptr. 635 (prior law)].

If the responses are verified by defendant's counsel because the defendant cannot be located, a court should not automatically deem all of the request for admissions to be admitted without exercising its discretion to determine whether a less drastic remedy is appropriate. In such a case, the court has the power to fashion a remedy that will do justice, such as deeming only some requests admitted or relieving the defense from admitting or denying requests on a showing of efforts made to locate the defendant [Brigante v. Huang (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1569, 1582-1588, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 354 , disapproved on other grounds, Wilcox v. Birtwhistle (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 973, 983 n.12, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260, 987 P.2d 727 (defendant's counsel may raise issue of oppression by opposing motion to have requests deemed admitted, without filing separate motion for protective order)].

An unsworn statement may be considered as no response at all [Zorro Inv. Co. v. Great Pac. Sec. Corp. (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 907, 914, 138 Cal. Rptr. 410] . For example, in a case in which the plaintiffs made objections to a request for admissions but failed to provide any answers and did not verify their response, the unsworn response was held to be no response at all [Appleton v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 632, 634-636, 253 Cal. Rptr. 762] .

[4] Time for Responding

The party to whom the requests are directed normally must serve the response within 30 days [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.250(a)].

If the requests were served by mail, the 30-day response period is extended 5 calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050]. The period is extended two court days if service is by express mail or fax [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)].

On motion of the requesting party the court may shorten the time for response and, on motion of the responding party, the court may extend the time for response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.250(a)]. For a form for a notice of motion and motion for leave to shorten the time for response, see § 196.62A.

In unlawful detainer actions or other proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), the party to whom the request is directed has at least five days from the date of service to respond, unless on motion of the requesting party, the court has shortened the time for response, or unless on motion of the responding party, the court has extended the time for response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.250(b)].

The party requesting admissions and the responding party may agree to extend the time for service of a response to a set of admission requests, or to particular requests. This agreement may be informal, but it must be confirmed in a writing that specifies the extended date for service of a response. Unless this agreement expressly states otherwise, it is effective to preserve to the responding party the right to respond to any request for admission to which the agreement applies in any authorized manner. Notice of this agreement must be given by the responding party to all other parties who were served with a copy of the request [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.260]. An agreement to extend time for response may not be filed unless offered as relevant to the determination of an issue in a law and motion proceeding or other hearing, or is ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(7)]. The original of the agreement must be retained until six months after final disposition of the cause, unless the court on motion of any party and for good cause shown orders the original papers preserved for a longer period [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)].

[5] Service of Response

The party to whom the requests are directed must serve the original of the response to them on the requesting party and a copy of the response on all other parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.250(a)].

[6] Amendment or Withdrawal of Responses

A party may amend or withdraw an admission made in response to a request for admission but only on leave of court granted after notice to all parties. The court may permit withdrawal or amendment of an admission only if it determines that the admission was the result of mistake, inadvertence, or excusable neglect and that the party who obtained the admission will not be substantially prejudiced in maintaining that party's action or defense on the merits [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.300]. Any doubts in ruling on a motion to withdraw or amend an admission must be resolved in favor of the moving party [New Albertsons, Inc. v. Superior Court (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 1403, 1408, 1420, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 457 (policy in favor of trial on merits required granting motion to withdraw admission, because defendant's mistake in admitting matter was not inexcusable, and withdrawal would not substantially prejudice plaintiffs)]. For a form for a motion to amend or withdraw an admission, see § 196.68.

The court may impose conditions on the granting of the motion that are just, including, but not limited to, an order that (1) the party who obtained the admission be permitted to pursue additional discovery related to the matter involved in the withdrawn or amended admission, and (2) the costs of any additional discovery be borne in whole or in part by the party amending or withdrawing the admission [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.300(c)].

Relief under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2033(m) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.300) is available for all admissions, and thus permits withdrawal or amendment not only of actual admissions included in a response, but also of those admissions that are "deemed" due to a failure to respond [Wilcox v. Birtwhistle (1999), 21 Cal. 4th 973, 983, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260, 263, 987 P.2d 727] . The Supreme Court, in adopting this position, concluded that applying former Code Civ. Proc. § 2033(m) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.300) to all admissions, including deemed admissions, was more consistent with both the statutory language and legislative history of Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.300 [Wilcox v. Birtwhistle (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 973, 978-983, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260, 263-266, 987 P.2d 727] , and in so holding rejected the majority view of prior court of appeal decisions, which had held that former Code Civ. Proc. § 2033(n) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.300) applies only to actual admissions included in a response and not to deemed admissions [see, e.g., Courtesy Claims Service, Inc. v. Superior Court (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 52, 268 Cal. Rptr. 30 , disapproved, Wilcox v. Birtwhistle (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 973, 983 n.12, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260, 987 P.2d 727] .

Aside from the motion procedure of Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.300, under which an original admission may be corrected or withdrawn due to mistake, inadvertence, or excusable neglect, there is no other mechanism for updating responses to requests for admission, and no ongoing duty do so. Thus, the admitting party's "informal notification to the opposing party of a change in case theory does not obviate the conclusive effect of judicial admissions" [Valerio v. Andrew Youngquist Constr. (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 1264, 1272-1274, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 436 (plaintiff was not entitled to recover in quantum meruit when he admitted existence of written contract in response to request for admissions, and failed to take necessary procedural steps under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2033(m) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.300) to remove these conclusive judicial admissions)]. Further, when an admission is based on present knowledge, and there is nothing mistaken, inadvertent, or neglectful about this admission, the admitting party has no duty to update the admission to reflect subsequently discovered evidence [Burch v. Gombos (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 352, 356, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 119 ; see also discussion in § 196.19].

[7] Retention of Responses or Objections

Responses or objections to a request for admissions may not be filed with the court, unless offered as relevant under a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(10)]. Instead, the serving party retains the original and the proof of service until six months after final disposition of the cause, unless otherwise ordered by the court for cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-196 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 196.17

§ 196.17 Consequences of Failure to Serve Timely Response

If a party to whom requests for admission have been directed fails to serve a timely response, that party thereby waives any objection to the requests, including one based on privilege or on the protection for work product under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.280]. On motion by the responding party, however, the court may relieve that party from this waiver on its determination that (1) the party has subsequently served a response that is in substantial compliance with the requirements for a valid response, and (2) the party's failure to serve a timely response was the result of mistake, inadvertence, or excusable neglect [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.280].

The requesting party, after a responding party has failed to serve a timely response, may move for an order directing that the genuineness of any documents and the truth of any matters specified in the request be deemed admitted. The motion may also request a monetary sanction [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.280(b)].

The court is required to grant this motion unless it finds that the party to whom the requests for admission have been directed has served, before the hearing on the motion, a proposed response to the requests for admission that is in substantial compliance with the requirements for a valid response. It is mandatory that the court impose a monetary sanction on the party whose failure to serve a timely response to requests for admission necessitated the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.280(c); see Allen-Pacific, Ltd. v. Superior Court (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 1546, 1550-1552, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 804 , disapproved on other grounds, Wilcox v. Birtwhistle (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 973, 983 n.12, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260, 987 P.2d 727 ; Appleton v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 632, 635, 253 Cal. Rptr. 762] . For a form of motion that matters be deemed admitted under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.280, see § 196.70.

A court may not grant an order deeming the genuineness of any documents and the truth of any matters specified in the requests for admission if a proposed response is served before the hearing date and there has been no finding that the responses are not in substantial compliance with former Code Civ. Proc. § 2033(f)(1) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.220) [Tobin v. Oris (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 814, 828, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 736 , disapproved on other grounds, Wilcox v. Birtwhistle (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 973, 983 n.12, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260, 987 P.2d 727] .

A proposed response that is in substantial compliance is the only reason for the court not to issue an order deeming the matters raised in the request admitted [Allen-Pacific, Ltd. v. Superior Court (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 1546, 1550-1551, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 804 , disapproved on other grounds, Wilcox v. Birtwhistle (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 973, 983 n.12, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260, 267, 987 P.2d 727] . The court has no authority to make an exception on any other basis. Thus, an order that denied a request that matters be deemed admitted in "the interests of justice" and gave the responding party an additional 20 days to respond was improper [Courtesy Claims Service, Inc. v. Superior Court (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 52, 55, 268 Cal. Rptr. 30 , disapproved on other grounds, Wilcox v. Birtwhistle (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 973, 983 n.12, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260, 267, 987 P.2d 727] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-196 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 196.18

§ 196.18 Compelling Further Response

[1] Motion to Compel

If the party requesting admissions, on receipt of the response, deems that (1) an answer to a particular request is evasive or incomplete or (2) an objection to a particular request is without merit or is too general, the requesting party may move for an order compelling a further response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.290(a)]. The motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by it [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.290(b); see general discussion of good faith attempt requirements in Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1]].

For a form for a motion to compel a further response, see § 196.65.

[2] Time for Making Motion; Waiver

Unless notice of the motion for an order compelling a further response is given within 45 days of the service of the response, or of any supplemental response, or by any specific later date to which the requesting party and the responding party have agreed in writing, the party requesting admissions waives any right to compel further response to the requests for admission [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.290(c)].

If the response was served by mail, the 45-day deadline is extended 5 calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050]. The period is extended two court days if service is by express mail or fax [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c),(e)].

[3] Accompanying Separate Statement

A motion to compel further responses to requests for admission must be accompanied by a separate statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(1)]. This statement is to consist of a separate document that sets out all the information necessary to understand each discovery request and all the responses to it that are in issue. It must be full and complete so that no person is required to review any other document in order determine the full request and the full response.

Material may not be incorporated by reference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]. For a form of separate statement and further discussion of the required contents as to each request in issue, see § 196.66.

[4] Sanctions

The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to compel further response, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.290(d); for further discussion of this general provision, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]].

The court may award sanctions in favor of a party who files a motion to compel discovery, even though no opposition to the motion was filed, or opposition to the motion was withdrawn, or the requested discovery was provided to the moving party after the motion was filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(a)]. The court may not, however, deem the opposing party's failure to file written opposition, failure to appear at a hearing, or voluntary provision discovery to be an admission that the motion was proper or that sanctions should be awarded [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(b)].

For further discussion of monetary sanctions generally, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.12, 192.14.

If a party fails to obey an order compelling further response to requests for admission, the court may order that the matters involved in the requests be deemed admitted. In lieu of or in addition to this order, the court may impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.290(e)]. For a form of motion for an order directing that matters be deemed admitted, and sanctions imposed, for failure to obey an order requiring a further response, see § 196.72.

Chapter 196 DISCOVERY: REQUESTS FOR ADMISSIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-196 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 196.19

§ 196.19 Effect of Admissions

Any matter admitted in response to a request for admission is conclusively established against the party making the admission in the pending action, unless the court has permitted withdrawal or amendment of that admission [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.410(a); see discussion in § 196.16[6]]. However, any admission made in the response is binding only on the responding party and only for the purposes of the pending action. It is not an admission by that party for any other purpose, and it may not be used in any manner against that party in any other proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.410(b)].

Because the admission of a fact may be deceptive when the fact admitted may have different meanings, not all of which reflect the admitting party's reasonable understanding, the trial court has the discretion to admit evidence to elucidate and explain an admission. Through its discretion, the court may ensure that the request for admission is not misused as a device to hide or confuse issues [Fredericks v. Kontos Industries, Inc. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 272, 277-278, 234 Cal. Rptr. 395 (prior law)]. In Fredericks, for example, one party admitted to having agreed to make contract payments in a certain manner. The court of appeal in that case held that the trial court could properly admit evidence offered by the admitting party, to the effect that the agreement to pay in a certain manner was contingent on certain work taking place first [Fredericks v. Kontos Industries, Inc. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 272, 277, 234 Cal. Rptr. 395 (prior law); cf. Valerio v. Andrew Youngquist Constr. (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 1264, 1273, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 436 (finding Fredericks v. Kontos Industries, Inc. inapplicable when there was no ambiguity in plaintiff's understanding at the time he responded to requests for admissions and plaintiff simply filed a mistaken response that he never later moved to amend or withdraw)].

In another case, one party made an admission, several months before trial, that it had no evidence of public recreational use prior to 1972 of a particular property. A few weeks after making this admission, however, the admitting party discovered new evidence of such recreational use, and successfully presented this evidence at trial. The trial court, relying on Fredericks, found that the party's admission was limited to its knowledge at the time the admission was made; it was not some sort of promise that the admitting party would not locate evidence in the future. The court of appeal held that the trial court properly limited the effect of the admission and properly admitted the subsequently discovered evidence [Burch v. Gombos (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 352, 359-360, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 119] . The court of appeal noted that the case should act as a "cautionary tale" to parties propounding requests for admission: they should take care to seek admissions addressing matters of historical fact as distinguished from those regarding a matter of the party's present knowledge. Because an admitting party has no duty to update admissions to reflect newly discovered evidence [see discussion in § 196.16[6]], a propounding party must in this way frame its requests so as to avoid being "sandbagged" by the admission at trial of evidence on an issue it had deemed to be eliminated by the admission [Burch v. Gombos (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 352, 360, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 119] .

Because an admission is for the purpose of the pending action only and a complaint and cross complaint have been held to be separate actions in other contexts, an admission made by a defendant to a plaintiff may not be binding on the defendant in a cross action against a third party. For example, in a personal injury action by a carpenter against a general contractor, the defendant's responses to the plaintiff's request for admissions regarding the cause of a construction accident were not binding on the defendant in its cross action against a subcontractor for indemnity [Shepard & Morgan v. Lee & Daniel, Inc. (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 256, 259-262, 182 Cal. Rptr. 351, 643 P.2d 968] . However, because one party in a case may enjoy the benefits of discovery obtained by other parties in that same case, admissions, whether express or by operation of law, may be used by all parties to a single action [Swedberg v. Christiana Community Builders (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 138, 143-144, 220 Cal. Rptr. 544] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-196 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 196.20

§ 196.20 Use of Admissions

A motion for summary judgment may be supported by an admission [see Code Civ. Proc. § 437c(b)(1); Gribin Von Dyl & Associates, Inc. v. Kovalsky (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 653, 662-663, 230 Cal. Rptr. 50] .

The Discovery Act does not specify how the response may be used at trial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.410]. If matters in an unlimited civil case have been admitted or deemed admitted, counsel for the propounding party may wish to request a case management conference if one has not been ordered,so that the judge may limit the issues to be tried [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.722].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-196 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 196.21

§ 196.21 Sanctions for Unjustified Denial

[1] Motion for Expenses Incurred in Proving Matter Not Properly Admitted

If a party fails to admit the genuineness of any document or the truth of any matter when requested to do so under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.010 et seq., and if the party requesting that admission thereafter proves the genuineness of the document or the truth of the matter, the requesting party may move the court for an order requiring the responding party to pay reasonable expenses incurred in making that proof, including reasonable attorney's fees [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.420(a)].

The requesting party need not be the prevailing party in the action to be entitled to this type of sanction [see Smith v. Circle P Ranch Co. (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 267, 275, 150 Cal. Rptr. 828 (prior law)].

For a form for a motion for expenses of proof, see § 196.74.

[2] Factors in Determining Motion

The court is required to make this order unless it finds that (1) an objection to the request was sustained or a response to it was waived, (2) the admission sought was of no substantial importance, (3) the party failing to make the admission had reasonable ground to believe that that party would prevail on the matter, or (4) there was other good reason for the failure to admit [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.420(b); see also further discussion in [3] and [4], below].

Thus, in determining whether sanctions are appropriate, the factors the court should consider include the following [Brooks v. American Broadcasting Co. (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 500, 509-511, 224 Cal. Rptr. 838] :

- Whether at the time the request was denied it was reasonably possible for the party making the denial to have appreciated that the requested admission involved a central issue in the case.

- The degree to which the party making the denial attempted in good faith to reach a reasonable resolution of the matters involved.

- Whether at the time the request was denied the party making the denial held a reasonably entertained good faith belief that the party would prevail on the issue at trial.

If a party justifiably denies a request for admission based on the information available at the time of the denial, but later acquires information indicating that the request should have been admitted, the court should consider whether that party later advised the proponent that the denial was in error or should be modified or whether that party let the initialdenial stand [Brooks v. American Broadcasting Co. (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 500, 509-511, 224 Cal. Rptr. 838 ; but see Burch v. Gombos (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 352, 356, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 119 and discussion in § 196.16[6]].

Although expenses of proof may not be awarded merely because the response to a request for admissions was that the party could not truthfully admit or deny, the sanctions is proper if the party had access to the information at the time the request was propounded, because the responding party has a duty to investigate [see Smith v. Circle P. Ranch Co. (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 267, 275, 276-277, 150 Cal. Rptr. 828 (prior law)]. The sanction also is proper if the evidence establishes that a statement of lack of information was false [see, e.g., Allen v. Pitchess (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 321, 332, 111 Cal. Rptr. 658 (prior law)].

[3] Good Cause for Denial

For the court to properly award sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.420, there must have been no good reason for the failure to admit [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.420(b); see Hillman v. Stults (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 848, 886, 70 Cal. Rptr. 295 (prior law); see also [2], above].

A party has good cause for denying a matter within the meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.420 if there is a serious and real contest as to the subject matter of the requested admission [see Chodos v. Superior Court (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 318, 324, 30 Cal. Rptr. 303 (prior law)]. However, the fact that a party "hotly contests" an issue does not necessarily mean that the party had a good faith belief that he or she would prevail on the issue [Brooks v. American Broadcasting Co. (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 500, 511, 224 Cal. Rptr. 838 (prior law)].

The fact that the matters that were denied were later proved by uncontradicted evidence does not mean that the denial was unreasonable per se. Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.420 is calculated only to compel admissions as to all things that cannot reasonably be controverted [see Haseltine v. Haseltine (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 48, 61, 21 Cal. Rptr. 238 (prior law)].

[4] Issue of Substantial Importance

For the court to award sanctions properly under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.420, the admission sought must have been of substantial importance [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.420(b)(2); see [2], above].

A request for admission will be of substantial importance when the subject of the matter requested for admission has at least some direct relationship to one of the central issues in the case. A central issue in the case is one that, if not proven, would have altered the results in the case [Wimberly v. Derby Cycle Corp. (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 618, 634-635, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 532 ; see Brooks v. American Broadcasting Co. (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 500, 509, 224 Cal. Rptr. 838 (prior law)].

For example, in a strict product liability action, it was obvious that the plaintiff's requests for admissions that the product was defectively manufactured and that the defect was a proximate cause of the plaintiff's injuries involved issues of substantial importance. Thus, when the defendant denied those requests, but failed to produce any witness at trial regarding those issues, the plaintiff should be awarded the expenses in proving those issues [Wimberly v. Derby Cycle Corp. (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 618, 638, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 532] .

[5] Amount of Expense of Proof Award

Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.420 does not provide a penalty, but provides for reimbursement of the expenses of going to trial as a result of unfounded and unjustified denials [see Hillman v. Stults (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 848, 884, 70 Cal. Rptr. 295 ; Brooks v. American Broadcasting Co. (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 500, 509, 224 Cal. Rptr. 838 (prior law)].

The statute authorizes only expenses incurred in proving the matters denied by the opposing party, and not expenses incurred in trial preparation for areas not covered in the request for admissions [Wimberly v. Derby Cycle Corp. (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 618, 638, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 532 (reversed order denying expenses); Garcia v. Hyster Co. (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 724, 736-737, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 283 (award remanded to redetermine costs and fees); see Smith v. Circle P Ranch Co. (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 267, 280, 150 Cal. Rptr. 828 ; Hillman v. Stults (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 848, 889-890, 70 Cal. Rptr. 295] .

PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

16-196 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 196.34

§ 196.34 Decisions

[1] Purpose and Scope

While most discovery procedures are aimed primarily at assisting counsel to prepare for trial, requests for admissions are primarily aimed at setting at rest a triable issue so that it will not have to be tried. Cembrook v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 423, 429, 15 Cal. Rptr. 127, 364 P.2d 303

[2] Deemed Admissions

Any doubts in ruling on motion to withdraw or amend an admission must be resolved in favor of the moving party. New Albertsons, Inc. v. Superior Court (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 1403, 1408, 1420, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 457

Relief under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2033(m) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.300) is available to amend or withdraw deemed admissions resulting from failure to respond as well as to amend or withdraw actual admissions included in a response. Wilcox v. Birtwhistle (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 973, 983, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260, 987 P.2d 727 (decided under prior law)

[3] Form of Request

Proper form of requests contemplated by former Code Civ. Proc. § 2033 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.010 et seq.) are not questions to be answered, but statements of facts to be admitted. Lieb v. Superior Court (1962) 199 Cal. App. 2d 364, 367, 18 Cal. Rptr. 705 (prior law)

[4] Response to Request

Relief under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2033(m) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.300) is available to amend or withdraw deemed admissions resulting from failure to respond as well as to amend or withdraw actual admissions included in a response. Wilcox v. Birtwhistle (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 973, 983, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260, 987 P.2d 727

Trial court which finds, in its discretion, that repetitious requests for admissions impose unfair burden on responding party has power to sustain objections to repetitive portions; court also has power to order ambiguous requests to be rephrased; "shotgun requests" criticized. Cembrook v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 423, 428, 430, 15 Cal. Rptr. 127, 364 P.2d 303

When admission is merely based on admitting party's present knowledge and is not mistaken, inadvertent, or neglectful, the admitting party has no duty to update the admission to reflect knowledge based on evidence subsequently discovered by the admitting party. Burch v. Gombos (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 352, 356, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 119

When co-parties have been served with identical, but separate, sets of requests for admission, single joint document containing identical responses is proper, as long as it is verified under penalty of perjury by both co-parties. Tobin v. Oris (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 814, 829, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 736 , disapproved on other grounds, Wilcox v. Birtwhistle (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 973, 983 n.12, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 260, 987 P.2d 727

Blanket order sustaining objections to requests for admissions and barring disclosure in toto, under circumstances of case, is abuse of discretion. Metalworking Machinery, Inc. v. Superior Court (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 791, 794, 138 Cal. Rptr. 369

Unsworn statements in response are equivalent to no response at all. Zorro Inv. Co. v. Great Pac. Sec. Corp. (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 907, 914, 138 Cal. Rptr. 410 (prior law)

Declaration in support of motion for protective order that contains no facts except for conclusion of necessity for order and other statements made on information and belief are not a sufficient basis for court to grant protective order on basis of annoyance, embarrassment, or oppression. Goodman v. Citizens Life & Cas. Ins. Co. (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 807, 819-820, 61 Cal. Rptr. 682

Absent contrary showing, trial court, under circumstances of case, should have accepted petitioners' sworn statement of reasons why he could not truthfully admit or deny; response to request for admissions is proper when it states an express and unequivocal disclaimer of any knowledge concerning facts or matters involved in all portions of the request for admissions and states that responding party has no means of ascertaining truth of matter. Lindgren v. Superior Court (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 743, 747-748, 47 Cal. Rptr. 298 (prior law)

If there is legal question as to fact which party is being requested to admit, that party should set forth in detail reasons why party cannot truthfully admit or deny requests, but may not, by simply asserting that requests call for conclusions of law, successfully object to them. Lieb v. Superior Court (1962) 199 Cal. App. 2d 364, 368, 18 Cal. Rptr. 705 (prior law)

[5] Sanctions

When plaintiff merely prepared to offer proof of liability, but defendants' concession immediately prior to trial made such proof unnecessary, plaintiff did not put on any evidence, and the question of whether she would have been able to prove the point at issue at trial could only be answered by resort to pure speculation; therefore, the trial court did not abuse its discretion in determining that plaintiff was not entitled to an order of costs and fees under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2033(o) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.420) on the ground that the issue had not been proved. Stull v. Sparrow (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 860, 866, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 239

Expenses are recoverable under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2033(o) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.420) only if party requesting admission "proves" truth of matter, in this case, defendants' negligence. Wagy v. Brown (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 1, 4-6, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 48

In determining whether sanctions under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2034(c) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.420) are appropriate, trial court has discretion to decide whether there were no good reasons for denial, whether requested admission was of substantial importance, and amount of expenses to be awarded; once court determines statutory requirements for sanctions are met, reasonable expenses are required to be awarded. Brooks v. American Broadcasting Co. (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 500, 508, 224 Cal. Rptr. 838

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS
A. Checklists for Party Propounding Requests

16-196 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 196.40

§ 196.40 Preparing and Serving Requests for Admissions

[1] Preliminary Determinations

1. Whether the party serving the request has appeared in the action or been served with summons [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.010].

2. If defendant is the party propounding the request for admissions, whether the party to be served with the request has been served with a summons or appeared in the action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.010].

3. If plaintiff is the party serving the request, whether at least 10 days, or in an unlawful detainer action or other proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer) whether at least five days, have elapsed since the party to be served with the request was either served with summons or made an appearance [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.020(b), (c)]. If not, see [2], below.

[2] Motion for Order Authorizing Early Service

NOTE:
This order must be obtained if plaintiff seeks to serve a request for admissions on a party within 10 days, or in an unlawful detainer action or other proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer) within five days, after service of summons on, or appearance by, that party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.020(b), (c)]. It may be obtained with or without giving notice [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.020(d)]. When necessary, a motion for this order may be combined with a motion for an order shortening the time for the service of a response to the request [see § 196.40[3], below].

For a form for a notice of motion and motion to authorize early service of requests for admission, see § 196.62A. For a form for an order, see § 196.62B.

[3] Motion for Order Shortening Time for Response

On motion of a party requesting admissions, the court may shorten the time by which the responding party must serve the response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.250(a)]. This motion may be combined with a motion for an order authorizing early service of the request for admissions [see [2], above]. In making a motion shortening the time for response, counsel should follow the usual procedures for a noticed motion, such as those set out in § 196.41[1]. Counsel will most likely also need to obtain an order shortening the time for the notice of motion [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(b); see also Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time]. For a form for a notice of motion and motion to shorten the time for response, see § 196.62A. For a form for an order, see § 196.62B.

[4] Prepare Request for Admissions and Proof of Service

1. Format of request.

The request must follow the format set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.060 [see §§ 196.60, 196.61].

2. Attach copies of any documents which are the subject of the request.

If an admission of the genuineness of documents is being sought, copies of the documents must be attached to the request [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.060(g)].

3. Prepare proof of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

[5] Serve Request for Admissions

1. Serve in the manner provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 1010 et seq. [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.070; see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

2. Serve on the party who is to respond [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.070].

3. Serve copies of request on all parties to the action who have appeared [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.070].

4. When serving requests for admissions or copies of the requests, also serve endorsed-filed copies of any related orders, such as:

a. Order authorizing early service of request by plaintiff [see § [2], above].

b. Order shortening time for service of response to request for admissions [see [3], above].

[6] Retain Original Request and Responses

The party responding to a request for admissions must serve the original responses made under oath on the party serving the request. The requesting party must retain the original request with the original proof of service attached to it and the original responses for at least six months after the judgment has become final. These documents are not to be filed with the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.270].

16-196 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 196.41

§ 196.41 Enforcement of Requests for Admissions

[1] Motion That Matters Be Deemed Admitted

1. Time for noticing motion.

A motion that matters in the request for admissions be deemed admitted pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.280 may be brought after the time for response has lapsed [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.280; for time deadlines for service of response, see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2033.250, 2033.260 and discussion in § 196.50[3]].

2. Prepare documents.

a. Notice of motion and supporting declaration [§ 196.70].

b. Supporting memorandum [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); for general discussion and skeletal form, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities ; for forms for supporting memoranda, see also California Points and Authorities, Ch. 86, Discovery: Requests for Admissions (Matthew Bender)].

c. Proof of service of the documents listed in Paragraphs a. and b., above [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a; see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

3. Serve documents.

At least 16 court days before the date set for hearing of the motion [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)], or any longer period as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) if service of the notice motion was made by mail, Express Mail, other overnight delivery, or fax, serve every party to the action or proceeding with copies of the documents listed in Paragraphs 2(a)-(c), above [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020; see also

Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

4. File documents.

File the signed originals of the notice of motion, supporting declaration and memorandum of points and authorities, and proof of service, with the court.

5. Order.

a. Prepare order [§ 196.71] if court grants motion or as otherwise directed by court.

b. If required by local court rule or practice, have opposing party approve order as to form.

c. Present order to judge for signature.

d. File original signed order and serve copies of order stamped "endorsed-filed" on the other parties.

[2] Motion to Compel Further Responses

1. Attempt to resolve issue with responding party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.290(b)].

2. Time for noticing motion.

A motion to compel further responses pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.290 must be noticed within 45 days from the date of service of the response or any supplemental response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.290(c)]. If service was by mail, this 45-day period is extended five calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050]. The period is extended two court days if service is by Express Mail, other overnight delivery, or by fax [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)].

3. Prepare documents: in addition to the notice of motion and supporting memorandum [see [1], above and form set out in § 196.65], a separate statement providing all information necessary to determine the motion is required [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345 and form set out in § 196.66].

4. Serve and file documents [see [1], above].

5. Order [see [1], above, and form set out in § 196.67].

[3] Motion That Matters Be Deemed Admitted on Failure to Comply With Order Compelling Further Response

1. A motion for deemed admissions may be filed if responding party fails to obey a court order requiring a further response within the time directed by the court in that order [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.290(e)].

2. Prepare, serve, and file documents [see forms of motion and order set out in §§ 196.72, 196.73].

Follow motion procedures set out in [1], above.

[4] Motion to Recover Expenses of Proof

1. A motion to recover the expense incurred in proving a matter is proper when another party was requested to admit the matter, and thus eliminate the need for proving it, but unjustifiably failed to do so [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.420 and discussion in § 196.21]. Preliminarily determine the following:

a. That the matter requiring proof was one of substantial importance, and that, if denied, it was denied without good reason.

b. The amount of expense incurred in proving the matter.

2. Prepare, serve, and file documents [see form of motion set out in § 196.74].

Follow motion procedures set out in [1], above.

§ 196.50 Preparing and Serving Responses to Requests for Admissions

[1] Extending Time for Response

1. By stipulation.

NOTE:
For discussion of and procedures relating to stipulations generally, see Ch. 533, Stipulations .

a. Obtain agreement in writing to extend the time for you to respond to the request for admissions from the party who served request. The agreement must specify the extended date for service of the response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.260].

b. If the agreement is initially reached by telephone conversation, obtain written confirmation, preferably by sending a formal stipulation for signature of the party who served the request for admissions [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.260(b)].

NOTE:
The written agreement may not be filed unless offered as relevant to the determination of an issue in a law and motion proceeding or other hearing, or is ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(7)]. It must be retained until six months after final disposition of the cause, unless the court on motion of any party and for good cause shown orders the original papers preserved for a longer period [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)].

c. Give notice of agreement to all other parties who were served with copy of request [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.260(d)].

2. By application or motion to extend time, with or without notice.

NOTE:

There is no requirement under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.250 that the motion be noticed. An application without notice, however, must comply with general requirements for ex parte applications [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1200-3.1207 ; for general discussion and form of application, see Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions, § 193.221[3] and Ch. 372, Motions and Orders].

The court may allow, on motion of the responding party, a longer period of time to respond to the request for admissions [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.250 ; for a form for a noticed motion to extend the time for response to interrogatories, which may be adapted for use in this situation, see Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories , § 194.90].

3. By motion for protective order.

NOTE:

A responding party may obtain a protective order that the time specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.250 to respond to the set of interrogatories, or to particular interrogatories in the set, be extended [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080(b)(3)]. This motion procedure is useful when the responding party wishes to include other particular requests for limiting responses in combination with a request for an extension of time to respond. For this procedure see [2], below.

[2] Motion for Protective Order

1. Determine if protective order is necessary to protect against annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or undue burden and expense [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080(b)].

2. Determine if good cause exists for order [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080(b)].

3. Make a reasonable and good faith attempt to resolve the issue [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080(a)].

4. Prepare, serve, and file documents [see form set out in § 196.63].

Follow motion procedures set out in § 196.41[1].

[3] Prepare Response to Request for Admissions

1. Time for responding.

NOTE:

Unless there is a stipulation or an order extending the time for response [see § 196.50[1] , above], a party must respond within 30 days, or in unlawful detainer actions or other proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), within five days, of the date of service of the request [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.250]. If the request was served by mail, the response period is extended five calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a) , 2016.050]. The period is extended two court days if service is by Express Mail, other overnight delivery, or by fax [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c) , (e)].

2. Request for original documents.

NOTE:
If a request for the admission of the genuineness of document has been made, responding party may request that the original documents be made available for inspection [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.060(g)].

3. Format of response.

NOTE:
The responses must follow the format set out in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2033.060 and 2033.210-2033.230 [see form set out in § 196.62 ; see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1000 (concerning format of further responses)].

4. Type of responses:

NOTE:
The responding party must respond in writing under oath separately to each request [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.210(a)].

a. Admitting the request in whole or in part, either as expressed in the request itself or as reasonably and clearly qualified by the responding party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.220(b)(1)].

b. Denying the request in whole or in part [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.220(b)(2)].

c. Stating that the responding party lacks sufficient information or knowledge to admit or deny the request in whole or in part [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.220(b)(3)].

NOTE:
To fail to admit for lack of knowledge, the responding must make a reasonable inquiry concerning the matter in a particular request [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.220(c)].

d. Written objections including the following:

(1) That the number of requests exceed the statutory limit [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2033.030, 2033.050].

(2) That some or all of the requested admissions need not be answered due to a clearly identified privileged [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.230].

(3) That a matter for which an admission is request is not within the scope of discovery or is otherwise improper in whole or in part [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.230].

5. Verification.

NOTE:
A party to whom the requests for admission are directed must sign the response under oath, unless the response contains only objections [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2033.210-2033.240 ; Steele v.

Totah (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 545, 550-551, 225 Cal. Rptr. 635 (any sworn statement or verification must be made by the party himself or herself); see also general discussion and forms in Ch. 572, Verification **].

[4] Serve Responses

1. Time for service.

See [3], above.

2. Procedure.

NOTE:
The responding party must serve the original responses on the requesting party. In addition, all parties to the action must be served with a copy [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.250(a) ]. The procedure for serving responses to requests for admissions is the same as the procedure for serving the request for admissions, which is set out in § 196.40[5] **.

[5] Amendment or Withdrawal of Admission

1. Determine if grounds for amendment or withdrawal exist consisting of mistake, inadvertence, or excusable neglect [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.300].

2. Determine that no substantial prejudice to opposing party exists [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.300(b)].

3. Prepare, serve, and file documents [for form for motion to amend or withdraw response to admission, see § 196.68]. Follow motion procedures set out in § 196.41[1].

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [a party to this action or proceeding appearing in propria persona or presently the attorney for _____, a party to this action or proceeding].

2. I am propounding to _____ [name of party to whom request is directed], the attached set of requests for admission.

3. This set of requests for admission will cause the total number of requests propounded to the party to whom they are directed to exceed the number of requests permitted by the Code of Civil Procedure Section 2033.030.

4. I have previously propounded a total of _____ [number] requests for admission (including subparts) to this party.

5. This set of requests for admission contains a total of _____ requests.

6. I am familiar with the issues and the previous discovery conducted by all the parties in this case.

7. I have personally examined each of the requests, in this set of requests for admissions.

8. This number of requests for admission is warranted under Code of Civil Procedure Section 2033.040 because _____ [state reasons why the complexity or the quantity of issues in the instant lawsuit warrant this number of requests for admission].

9. None of the requests in this set of requests is being propounded for any improper purpose, such as to harass the party, or the attorney for the party, to whom it is directed, or to cause unnecessary delay or needless increase in the cost of litigation.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]
_____ [signature]

Attorney for _____ [requesting party]

[2] Use of Form

The requests for admissions set out in [1], above, is for use by a party to obtain admissions from another party regarding the genuineness of documents or the truth of matters of fact or opinions relating to fact, or both [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.010]. The form includes an optional declaration for additional discovery, to be used if the requesting party wishes to propound more than 35 admissions not relating to the genuineness of documents [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.050; for further discussion, see [5], below].

[3] Format of Requests

Each set of written requests for admissions served pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.010 et seq. must be numbered consecutively by the propounding party. In the first paragraph immediately below the title of the case, the request must show (1) the identity of the requesting party, (2) the set number, and (3) the identity of each party who is directed to answer. Furthermore, each request in a set is to be separately set forth and identified by letter or number [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.060].

Each request for admission must be full and complete in and of itself. No preface or instruction shall be included with a set of admission requests unless it has been approved by the Judicial Council under its mandate to develop an optional form for requests for admissions under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.710 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.060(d)]. Any term specially defined in a request for admission must be typed with all letters capitalized whenever the term appears. No request for admission may contain subparts, or a compound, conjunctive, or disjunctive request unless it has been approved by the Judicial Council [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.060(f)].

The request for an admission of fact should be set out as a statement of fact, not as a question to be answered [Lieb v. Superior Court (1962) 199 Cal. App. 2d 364, 367, 18 Cal. Rptr. 705] .

For further discussion, see § 196.13[3].

[4] Service of Requests

A party preparing a set of requests for admissions must serve a copy on the party to whom the requests are directed, and must also serve copies on all other parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.070]. The original, with the original proof of service affixed, must be kept by the requesting party until six months after final disposition of the action unless the court, on motion of any party and for good cause shown, orders that the originals be preserved for a longer period [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.270]. For further discussion, see § 196.13[5].

[5] Declaration for Additional Discovery

If the requesting party is requesting, or has already requested, more than 35 admissions not relating to the genuineness of documents by any other party, the requesting party is required to attach to each set of requests for admissions a declaration in substantial compliance with the statutory language set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.050 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.050].

A declaration for additional discovery is not to be filed with the court unless it is offered as relevant to the determination of an issue in a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or is ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(17)]. The original of the declaration must be retained until six months after final disposition of the cause, unless the court on motion of any party and for good cause shown orders the original papers preserved for a longer period [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)].

For further discussion of the limits on the number of requests as to matters not relating to the genuineness of documents, see § 196.13[2].

[6] Attachments for Requests Regarding Genuineness of Documents

If admission of the genuineness of any document is requested, a copy of that document must be attached to the request. In addition, the party requesting admission must make the original of the documents available for inspection on demand by the party to whom the requests for admission are directed [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.060(g)].

For further discussion, see § 196.13[4].

[7] Retention of Requests

A request for admissions may not be filed with the court, unless offered as relevant under a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(10)]. Instead, the serving party retains the original and the proof of service until six months after final disposition of the cause, unless otherwise ordered by the court for cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)].

196.61A Request for Statement of Witnesses and Evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 96]--Judicial Council Form DISC-015

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

The request for a statement of witnesses and evidence in [1], above, has been adopted by the Judicial Council for use by a party in a limited civil case subject to the economic litigation provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 90-100 [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 1.30(b), 1.31; Cal. Rules of Ct., Appendix, Div. A; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 91(a) (actions coming under economic litigation procedure); Ch. 345A, Limited Civil Cases, § 345A.12]. Use of this form is mandatory [Gov. Code § 68511; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.31]. Although not entitled a request for admissions, this form is the economic litigation equivalent of a standard request for admission.

A request for an evidentiary statement may be served on any other party to the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 96(a)]. The form is self-explanatory.

Copies of this form must be furnished by the court clerk [Code Civ. Proc. § 96(f)]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also available at www.lexisone.com at no charge. The form is also available on the Internet at http://www.courtinfo.ca.gov/forms/.

For detailed discussion of requests for evidentiary statements, including the consequences of failure to comply with a request, see Ch. 345A, Limited Civil Cases, §§ 345A.16, 345A.17, 345A.101.

[3] Service of Requests and Statements

A request for an evidentiary statement must be served no more than 45 days or less than 30 days before the date first set for trial, unless otherwise ordered [Code Civ. Proc. § 96(b)]. A statement responding to the request must be served within 20 days from the service of the request [Code Civ. Proc. § 96(c)]. The time for serving and responding to requests is computed as provided by law, including extensions of time for service by mail under Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 [Code Civ. Proc. § 96(g)].

No additional, amended, or late statement is permitted except by written stipulation or unless ordered for good cause on noticed motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 96(d)].

[4] No Filing Unless Ordered

Requests or statements served under Code Civ. Proc. § 96 are not filed, unless otherwise ordered by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 96(e)].

_____ [date]
_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

The form set out in [1], above, provides the general format for responding to a set of requests for admissions and includes examples of various types of responses.

For the procedures to be followed in preparing and serving the response, see §§ 196.16 and 196.50.

[3] Format of Response

The first paragraph of the response immediately below the title of the case must include the identity of the responding party, the set number, and the identity of the requesting party. If the response is a further response, this paragraph must also include the nature of the paper [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.210(c); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1000(a) (similar requirements for further responses)].

Each answer or objection must bear the same number and be in the same sequence as the corresponding request, but the text of the particularrequest need not be repeated [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.210(d); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1000(b) (similar requirements for further responses, but providing that text of request "need not" be repeated)].

See also discussion in § 196.15.

[4] Types of Responses

A response may be in the form of an answer. An answer must be as straightforward as the information available to the responding party permits. It must admit so much of the matter in the request as is true, deny so much as is untrue, and specify so much as to the truth of which the responding party lacks sufficient knowledge [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.220]. For further discussion of response by answer, see § 196.16[1].

Alternatively, a response may be in the form of an objection to so much of the matter in the request as is objectionable. If only a part of a request is objectionable, the remainder must be answered. The ground for any objection must be clearly set forth. If it is based on a claim of privilege, the particular privilege invoked must be clearly stated. If it is based on a claim of attorney work product protection of Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq., that claim must be expressly asserted [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.230]. For further discussion of response by objection, see § 196.16[2].

[5] Signature

The party to whom the requests for admissions are directed must sign the response under oath, unless the response contains only objections. If that party is a public or private corporation, or a partnership or association or governmental agency, one of its officers or agents must sign the response on behalf of that party. If the officer or agent signing the response on behalf of a party is an attorney acting in that capacity for the party, that party waives any lawyer-client privilege and any protection for work product under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq. during any subsequent discovery from that attorney concerning the identity of the sources of the information contained in the response. The attorney for the responding party must sign any response that contains an objection [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.240(c)]. For further discussion, see § 196.16[3].

[6] Service of Response

In the absence of a stipulation or court order shortening or extending the time for serving the response on the requesting party, it must be served within 30 days, or in unlawful detainer actions or other proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), within five days, after the service of the request [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.250]. If the request was served by mail, the response period is extended five calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050]. The period is extended two court days if service is by Express Mail, other overnight delivery, or by fax [see Code Civ. Proc. §

1013(c), (e)].

The responding party must serve the original response on the requesting party, and copies on all other parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.250].

For further discussion, see § 196.16[4] and [5].

[7] Retention of Responses or Objections

Responses or objections to a request for admissions may not be filed with the court, unless offered as relevant under a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(10)]. Instead, the serving party retains the original and the proof of service until six months after final disposition of the cause, unless otherwise ordered by the court for cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)].

[2] Use of Form

This form for a notice of motion, motion, supporting memorandum, and supporting declaration is for use by a plaintiff to seek an order authorizing early service of requests for admission, that is, within 10 days after service of summons, or in an unlawful detainer action or other proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), within five days after service of summons, or the appearance of another party, whichever occurs first [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.020(b), (c); § 193.13[1] (time for making requests)]. In addition, the form may be used to shorten the statutory time within which a response is due, by requiring service of response to the requests for admission within less than the 30-day, or in unlawful detainer action or other proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), five-day limit after service of the requests for admission [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.250 (time for responding)].

Any motion concerning admissions must identify the requests by set and number [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(d)].

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with this motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040]. For general discussion of memoranda requirements and a skeletal form of memorandum, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

This notice of motion and declaration usually will be combined with an application for an order under Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b), shortening the time required for giving notice of the motion, since this form will be used when there is a need to proceed quickly. For a sample application and a form for an order shortening time, see Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time, § 524.54 (Application and Declaration for Ex Parte Order Shortening Time for Service of Notice of Motion and Accompanying Papers [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005] and § 524.55 [Ex Parte Order Shortening Time for Service of Notice of Motion and Accompanying Papers [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)].

For a form for an order for use if this motion is granted, see § 196.62B.

Motions to obtain relief sought by this form may be made with or without notice [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2033.020(d), 2033.250].] for general forms for notices of motion, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders . For procedures to be followed in preparing and serving this motion, see § 196.41[1].

For cross-references to additional forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 193.63[4].

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The proposed order set out in [1], above, is for use by a plaintiff to allow service of requests for admission within 10 days after service of summons, or in unlawful detainer actions or other proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer), within five days after service of the summons, or after the appearance by another party, whichever occurs first. It is also for use to require that service of the response occur prior to the expiration of 30 days, or in unlawful detainer actions or other proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1159 et seq. (forcible entry and detainer) prior to the expiration of five days, after service of the requests for admission [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2033.020(b), (c), 2033.250; see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050 (extension of 30-day limit when service by mail); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e) (service by express mail or by fax)].

For further discussion of this proceeding, see §§ 196.13[1], 196.16[4], and 193.62A. For cross-references, see § 193.63[4].

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

[Add memorandum supporting motion.]

[2] Use of Form

The notice of motion with supporting declaration set out in [1], above, is for use by a party, on whom a request for admissions was served, to obtain a protective order concerning the response pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080; for discussion of the various types of protective orders available under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080, see § 196.14[2]]. The motion also seeks a monetary sanction in the amount of costs and attorney's fees incurred in bringing the motion [see [3], below].

The motion must be made in the court in which the action is pending [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.020(b)], and should be made promptly after the request for admissions has been served [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080(a)].

Any motion concerning admission requests must identify the requests by set and number [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(d)].

The motion must be accompanied by a supporting declaration that makes a factual showing of a reasonable and good faith attempt to resolve informally the issues presented by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080(a); see discussion in § 196.14[1], above].

A memorandum is required to be served and filed with this motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040]. For general discussion of memoranda requirements and a skeletal form of memorandum, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities . For memoranda supporting a motion for protective order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 86, Discovery: Requests for Admissions (Matthew Bender).

For the procedures to be followed in preparing and serving this motion, see § 196.50[2].

[3] Monetary Sanctions

The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion for a protective order, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.080(d); for further discussion of monetary sanctions in this context, see § 196.14[3]].

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

[Add memorandum supporting motion.]

[2] Use of Form

The notice of motion with supporting declaration set out in [1], above, is for use by a party who served requests for admissions and wishes to compel a further response to those requests because the responding party's initial response was evasive, incomplete, or contained an objection to a particular request that was meritless or too general [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.290, discussed in the § 196.18, above].

Any motion concerning admission requests must identify the requests by set and number [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(d)].

The motion must be accompanied by a supporting declaration that makes a factual showing of a reasonable and good faith attempt to resolve informally the issues presented by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.290(b); see further discussion in § 196.18[1]].

A memorandum is required to be served and filed with this motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040]. For general discussion of memoranda requirements and a skeletal form of memorandum, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities . For forms of memoranda supporting a motion to compel responses under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.290, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 86, Discovery: Requests for Admissions (Matthew Bender).

For the procedures to be followed in preparing and serving this motion, see § 196.41[2].

For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 196.63[4].

[3] Separate Statement

A motion to compel further responses to requests for admissions must be accompanied by a separate statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(1), (c)]. This is a separate document filed and served with the motion that sets out all the information necessary to understand all the questions and responses that are in issue [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]. For a form for this separate statement, together with further discussion of its requirements, see § 196.66.

[4] Notice Requirements

The notice of the motion for an order compelling a further response must be given within 45 days of the service of the response, or of any supplemental response, or by any specific later date to which the requesting party and the responding party have agreed in writing. If the party requesting admissions fails to make the motion within the appropriate time, he or she waives any right to compel further response to the requests for admission [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.290(c)].

If the response was served by mail, the 45-day deadline is extended five calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050]. The period is extended two court days if service is by Express Mail, other overnight delivery, or by fax [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)].

[5] Monetary Sanctions

The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to compel further responses, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.290(d); for further discussion, see § 196.18[4]].

This separate statement is submitted in support of the motion by _____ [identify moving party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] to compel _____ [specify party from whom admissions are sought, e.g., defendant] _____ [name] to serve a further response to the [supplemental] request for admissions of _____ (specify requesting party, e.g., plaintiff)]. As required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345, this statement provides information relating to the requests for admissions and the responses thereto that are at issue in the motion, as follows:

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION _____ [identify request by set number and the number or letter of the individual request]

1. Text of Request: _____ [specify].

2. Text of Response(s): _____ [specify text of response, and any further responses, to the specific request].

[3. Related Definitions and Instructions: _____ (specify, if necessary, the text of all definitions, instructions, and other matters required to understand the specific request and the responses to it.)]

[4. Related Requests and Responses: _____ (if the response to the specific request is dependent on the response given to another discovery request, or if the reasons a further response is deemed necessary are based on the response to some other discovery request, specify the text of the other request and the response to it.)]

[5. Related Pleadings and Other Documents: _____ (summarize any pleadings or other documents in the file, if any, that are relevant to the motion and are relied on by the moving party.)]

6. Statement of Reasons for Compelling Further Response(s): _____ [state factual and legal reasons for compelling further responses to the specific request]. _____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [requesting party's status and name]

[2] Use of Form

The separate statement set out in [1], above, must to accompany a motion, such as that set out in § 196.65, to compel further responses to requests for admissions [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(1)].

[3] Contents of Separate Statement

Any motion involving the content of a discovery request or the responses to such a request must be accompanied by a separate statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)]. The motions that require a separate statement include a motion to compel further responses to requests for admissions [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(1)]. A separate statement is not required when no response has been provided to the request for discovery [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(b)].

This separate statement is a separate document filed and served with the motion. It must set forth all the information necessary to understand each discovery request (in this instance each request for admission) and all the responses to it that are at issue [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]. It must be full and complete, so that no person is required to review any other document in order to determine the full request and the full response. Material may not be incorporated into the separate statement by reference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)].

The separate statement must include, for each discovery request (in this instance each request for admission) to which a further response is requested, the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]:

- The text of the request, and the text of each response, answer, or objection, and any further responses or answers [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(1), (2)].

- A statement of the factual and legal reasons for compelling further responses, answers, or production as to each matter in dispute [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(3)].

- If necessary, the text of all definitions, instructions, and other matters required to understand each discovery request and the responses to it [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(4)].

- If the response to a particular discovery request is dependent on the response given to another discovery request, or if the reasons a further response to a particular discovery request is deemed necessary are based on the response to some other discovery request, the other request and the response to it must be set forth [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(5)].

- If the pleadings, other documents in the file, or other items of discovery are relevant to the motion, a summary of each relevant document by the party relying on the document [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(6)].

The primary function of the separate statement appears to be that of providing a summary, in a single document, of all matters, taken from all pleadings and all other papers, that may be necessary to determine the motion. By including a statement of the factual and legal reasons for compelling further responses to each matter in dispute [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(3)], it appears that a separate statement, when required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c), also serves the same function as the supporting memorandum [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(b) (memorandum consists of statement of facts and statement of law, evidence and argument, discussing the statutes, cases, and textbooks cited as support)].

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

[Add memorandum supporting motion.]

[2] Use of Form

This notice of motion and supporting declaration is for use by a party, who served a request for admissions on another party and did not receive a response, to bring a motion that the matters in the request be deemed admitted [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.280; see discussion in § 196.17]. It may be brought after the party to whom the request was directed failed to respond within the time limits specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.250 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.280; for discussion of this time requirement, see § 196.16[4]].

Any motion concerning admission requests must identify the requests by set and number [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(d)].

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with this motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040]. For general discussion of memoranda requirements and a skeletal form of memorandum, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities . For forms of memoranda supporting a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.280, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 86, Discovery: Requests for Admissions (Matthew Bender).

For the procedures to be followed in preparing and serving this motion, see § 196.41[1].

For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 196.63[4].

[3] Monetary Sanction

It is mandatory that the court impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030 against the party or attorney, or both, whose failure to serve a timely response to requests for admission necessitates a motion to deem admitted the genuineness of any documents and the truth of any matters specified in the requests [Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.280(b), (c); Appleton v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 632, 635, 253 Cal. Rptr. 762 (decided under prior law)]. Thus, the supporting declaration includes facts showing the actual amount of expenses and fees incurred as a result of the necessity that requesting party bring the motion. For further discussion, see § 196.17 and general discussion of monetary sanctions in Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.12, 192.14.

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

[Add memorandum supporting motion.]

[2] Use of Form

The notice of motion with supporting declaration set out in [1], above, is for use by a party who obtained an order requiring another party to make further responses to a request for admissions when the party who was ordered to make the further responses failed to do so. The motion requests that matters contained in the order requiring further response be deemed admitted under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2033.290, and requests an award of the expenses of making the motion as a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2023.030 and 2033.290 [see also discussion in § 196.18[4]].

Any motion concerning admission requests must identify the requests by set and number [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(d)].

A memorandum is required to be served and filed with this motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040]. For general discussion of memoranda requirements and a skeletal form for a of memorandum, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities . For forms of memoranda supporting a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.290, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 86, Discovery: Requests for Admissions (Matthew Bender).

For the procedures to be followed in preparing and serving this motion, see § 196.41[3].

For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 196.63[4].

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

[Add memorandum supporting motion.]

[2] Use of Form

The notice of motion with supporting declaration set out in [1], above, is for use by a party to obtain the expenses, including reasonable attorney's fees, incurred in proving the genuineness of documents or matters of fact, or both, when the opposing party has unjustifiably failed to admit to such matters in response to a request for admission [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.420]. It is not necessary for the moving party to have prevailed in the action for him or her to recover these expenses [see Smith v. Circle P Ranch Co. (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 267, 275, 150 Cal. Rptr. 828 (prior law)]. For further discussion, see § 196.21.

Any motion concerning admission requests must identify the requests by set and number [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(d)].

A suppoting memorandum is required to be served and filed with this motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040]. For general discussion of memoranda requirements and a skeletal form of memorandum, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities . For forms of memoranda supporting a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.420, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 86, Discovery: Requests for Admissions (Matthew

[2] Use of Form

The form of proposed order set out in [1], above, is for use when the court grants or denies a motion for an award of the expenses, including reasonable attorney's fees, incurred in proving the genuineness of documents or matters of fact or both, following another party's sworn denials served in response to moving party's requests for admissions. Although Code Civ. Proc. § 2033.420 does not require the court to make written findings disclosing its reasons for granting the order, it appears to be the better practice to include those reasons, thereby making meaningful appellate review possible [see Smith v. Circle P Ranch Co. (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 267, 278-279, 150 Cal. Rptr. 828 (prior law)].

Chapter 197 DISCOVERY: PHYSICAL AND MENTAL EXAMINATIONS
PART I. SCOPE

16-197 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 197.01

§ 197.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter covers discovery under the Civil Discovery Act using the discovery method of demand or motion for the physical or mental examination of a party or party affiliated person whose physical or mental condition is in issue in the action.

Part II (see § 197.10 et seq.) has detailed discussion of the requirements and procedures relating to discovery by physical or mental examination.

Part IV provides procedural checklists in the following subparts:

- Subpart A (see § 197.40 et seq.) provides checklists for use by a party seeking an examination.

- Subpart B (see § 197.50 et seq.) provides checklists for use by a responding party.

Part V provides forms relating to discovery by demand for physical or mental examination, including the following:

- A form for a stipulation for a physical or mental examination (see § 197.60).

- A form for a demand that a personal injury plaintiff submit to an initial physical examination (§ 197.61), and a response to that demand (see § 197.62).

- Forms for use in motion proceedings to compel and response to, or compliance with, or both, a demand that a personal injury plaintiff submit to an initial physical examination (see §§ 197.63 -197.66).

- Forms for use in motion proceedings for relief from waiver of objections by a personal injury plaintiff, following failure to file a timely response to a demand for initial physical examination (see §§ 197.67, 197.68).

- Forms for use in motion proceedings for an order directing a physical or mental examination other than the initial physical examination of a personal injury plaintiff (see §§ 197.69 -197.71).

- Forms for use in demanding the delivery of copies of examination reports (see § 197.72), obtaining an order requiring delivery of copies of examination reports (see §§ 197.73, 197.74), and obtaining an order requiring a reciprocal delivery of copies of examination reports (see §§ 197.75, 197.76).

- Forms for use in motion proceedings for sanctions following a failure to submit to, or produce another for, an examination in compliance with a demand for the initial physical examination of a personal injury plaintiff, or in complaince with a stipulation (see §§ 197.77, 197.78).

§ 197.10 Governing Law

Discovery by demand or motion for a physical or mental examination of a party or party affiliated person, pursuant to the Civil Discovery Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq.) is governed generally by Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq.

Related provisions of the Civil Discovery Act include the provisions governing discovery generally, set out in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2016.010 et seq.-2019.010 et seq., 2023.010 et seq.

The extent of discovery permitted under the Civil Discovery Act is restricted in limited civil cases by the economic litigation provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 94 and 95. The use of discovery under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq., however, is authorized without restriction by Code Civ. Proc. § 94(d). For further discussion of discovery in limited civil cases generally, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, §§ 190.11[2], 190.23[2][a].

Statewide rule provisions relating to the format, content, and service of discovery papers and motions, and to discovery sanctions, are set out in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1000, 3.1345, 3.1346, 3.1347, and 3.1348.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-197 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 197.11

§ 197.11 Discovery by Physical or Mental Examination

[1] Scope of Discovery by Examination

Any party may obtain discovery, subject to the restrictions set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.010 et seq., by means of a physical or mental examination of a party or party affiliated person [see [2], below], in any action in which the mental or physical condition (including the blood group) of that party or party affiliated person is in controversy [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.020(a)]. For further discussion of who may be examined, see § 197.12. For discussion of what constitutes a condition in controversy, see § 197.14.

The restrictions of Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.010 et seq. are those applicable to discovery generally, and permit a party or other affected person to seek a protective order limiting the frequency or extent of use of any of the discovery methods, including discovery by examination, when th discovery sought is unduly burdensome or expensive, when it is cumulative or duplicative, or when it is obtainable from another source that is more convenient, less burdensome, or less expensive [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.030; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.020 (general regulation of sequence and timing of discovery)]. For more detailed discussion and forms relating to Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.010 et seq., see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.30 et seq.

[2] Discovery by Examination More Limited Than Other Discovery Methods

The Discovery Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq.) generally permits discovery to proceed on the service of a demand, request, or notice seeking discovery by means of a particular method. Under this overall design, the trial court intervenes only when there is some dispute that the parties cannot resolve informally [see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33]. Given, however, the peculiar intrusiveness of physical and mental examinations, discovery by examination is not generally available on demand. A party may make a demand for an examination only in the case of an initial physical examination of a plaintiff seeking damages for personal injuries [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220]. In all other situations, absent a stipulation of the parties, a party seeking a physical or mental examination must apply for a court order, which may only be granted for good cause [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.310, 2032.320]. For discussion of a demand for an initial physical examination of a personal injury plaintiff, see § 197.16. For discussion of examination by court order on showing of good cause, see § 197.17. For discussion of examination on stipulation of the parties, see § 197.15.

Similarly, the Discovery Act generally permits discovery of any matter not privileged so long as it is relevant to the subject matter involved in the action or proceedings, not only as admissible evidence but also if it appears reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010 and discussion in Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.20]. A party is entitled to discovery by examination, however, only when the physical or mental condition of the party or party affiliated person is in controversy in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.020(a)]. The application of this narrower standard is in keeping with the view that discovery by examination is a "drastic and intrusive" form of discovery in comparison with the other methods, which generally apply the more liberal standard of Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010 [see Reporter's Notes to Proposed Code Civ. Proc. § 2032(a); see also Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.13[2]]. For further discussion of the requirement that physical or mental condition be in controversy, see § 197.14.

[3] Genetic Paternity Testing Not Affected

The provisions for discovery by examination under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq. do not affect genetic testing conducted under the Uniform Act on Blood Tests to Determine Paternity (Fam. Code § 7550 et seq.) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010(a)]. For discussion and forms relating to genetic testing in an action or proceeding in which paternity is a relevant fact, see Ch. 412, Paternity .

§ 197.13 Who May Perform Examination

[1] Physical Examination

A physical examination conducted under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq. may be performed only by a licensed physician or other appropriate licensed health care practitioner [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.020(b); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2000 et seq. (Medical Practice Act)].

The meaning of the term "other appropriate licensed health care practitioner" is unclear. This language was not part of the original language of the proposed Discovery Act of 1986, but was added by the Legislature in the process of enactment. Other appropriate licensed health care practitioners might include chiropractors [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 1000-5 et seq.], physical therapists [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2600 et seq.], speech pathologists and audiologists [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2530 et seq.], optometrists [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 3000 et seq.], and respiratory therapists [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 3700 et seq.].

[2] Mental Examination

A mental examination conducted under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq. can only be performed by a licensed physician or by a licensed clinical psychologist with a doctoral degree in psychology and at least five years of postgraduate experience in the diagnosis of emotional and mental disorders [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.020(c)]. A psychologist who is not authorized to perform the examination by Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.020(c) may do work under the general direction of a licensed physician (or by analogy, under the direction of a psychologist) who is authorized to conduct the examination under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.020(c) [see Reuter v. Superior Court (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 332, 338, 155 Cal. Rptr. 525] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-197 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 197.14

§ 197.14 Physical or Mental Condition in Controversy

A party may obtain discovery by the physical or mental examination of another party or party affiliated person only when the physical or mental condition of that person is in controversy in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.020(a)].

The United States Supreme Court has stated some general rules in considering the "in controversy" requirement of Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 35, on which former Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq. was originally based. It has distinguished between those situations in which a party places his or her own physical or mental condition in controversy in the pleadings, and situations in which one party seeks to show that another's condition is in controversy. Thus, for example, the pleadings are sufficient to show that a particular condition is in controversy when a plaintiff in a personal injury action alleges mental or physical injury involving that condition, or when a defendant asserts his or her own mental or physical condition as a defense [Schlagenhauf v. Holder (1964) 379 U.S. 104, 119, 85 S. Ct. 234, 13 L. Ed. 2d 152 ; Vinson v. Superior Court (1987) 43 Cal. 3d 833, 839-840, 239 Cal. Rptr. 292, 740 P.2d 404 ; see also Reuter v. Superior Court (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 332, 341, 155 Cal. Rptr. 525] .

On the other hand, when one party attempts to place another's physical or mental condition in controversy when the pleadings have not done so, the party seeking the examination must make an affirmative showing that the mental or physical condition is in controversy [Schlagenhauf v. Holder (1964) 379 U.S. 104, 119-120, 85 S. Ct. 234, 13 L. Ed. 2d 152] . Such an affirmative showing has been established, for example, in a statutory proceeding to terminate employment, when the petitioner employer alleged that its dismissal of respondent employee was due to the respondent's mental condition, and petitioner sought authorization for a mental examination of the respondent [see Board of Trustees v. Superior Court (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 377, 379-380, 79 Cal. Rptr. 58] . Similarly, a plaintiff showed that defendant's physical condition was in controversy, in an action based on defendant's willful misconduct as a driver, after eliciting from defendant an admission that he had an eye defect and blurred vision [Harabedian v. Superior Court (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 26, 31, 15 Cal. Rptr. 420 (proper order for opthalmological examination could have been made)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-197 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 197.15

§ 197.15 Examination on Stipulation

In lieu of the procedures and restrictions specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq. for obtaining an examination, the parties may arrange and carry out any physical or mental examination by written agreement or stipulation [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.030].

The stipulation should cover all the terms and conditions that would be required in a demand for examination under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220 [see § 197.16] or a motion for a court-ordered examination under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.310 [see § 197.17]. Specifically, it should cover the time, place, manner, conditions, scope, and nature of the examination, as well as the identity and specialty, if any, of the person who is to conduct the examination [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.220(c), 2032.310(b)]. For a form of stipulation, see § 197.60].

A party who enters into a stipulation for examination but thereafter fails to comply with the stipulation may be compelled to do so and is also subject to sanctions [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.410, 2032.420].

Parties are encouraged to enter a stipulation for examination, particularly with respect to any examination that would otherwise require a court order under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.310. A motion for a court-ordered examination must be accompanied by a declaration showing a reasonable and good faith attempt to arrange for the examination by agreement [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.310(b)]. Thus, even if the parties cannot agree on a complete stipulation pertaining to all aspects of the examination, every effort should be made to negotiate as many terms of examination as possible, in order satisfy the requirements of this declaration when seeking a order requiring the examination.

The provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.610-2032.650, relating to the exchange of medical reports and waiver of privilege [see § 197.19], apply if the examination is pursuant to stipulation [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.610-2032.650; see also Grover v. Superior Court (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 644, 648-649, 327 P.2d 212] .

Chapter 197 DISCOVERY: PHYSICAL AND MENTAL EXAMINATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-197 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 197.16

§ 197.16 Initial Physical Examination of Personal Injury Plaintiff

[1] Demand for Examination

[a] Defendant May Demand One Physical Examination

In any case in which a plaintiff is seeking recovery for personal injuries, any defendant may demand one physical examination of the plaintiff, provided that the examination does not include any diagnostic test or procedure that is painful, protracted, or intrusive, and is conducted at a location within 75 miles of the residence of the examinee. A defendant may make this demand without leave of court after that defendant has been served or has appeared in the action, whichever occurs first [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.210 ("plaintiff" includes a cross complainant, and "defendant" includes a cross defendant)]. For a form of demand, see § 197.61.

It is not clear whether each defendant or only one of several defendants may demand a physical examination under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220. Proposed language describing the examination as "an initial routine physical examination," was changed on enactment to "one physical examination" [see Reporter's Notes to Proposed Code Civ. Proc. § 2032(c)(1) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220(a)); see also Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.13[2]]. Arguably the change of this term, together with use of the term "any defendant" rather than "each defendant," together imply that, while "any" defendant may make a demand under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220(a), the demand may only be made once as to a particular plaintiff. For discussion of subsequent examinations of a personal injury plaintiff pursuant to court order on a showing of good cause, see § 197.17[4].

[b] Contents of Demand

The demand shall specify the time, place, manner, conditions, scope, and nature of the examination, as well as the identity and the specialty, if any, of the physician who will perform it [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220(c)]. The physical examination must be scheduled for a date at least 30 days after service of the demand for it, unless on motion of the party demanding the examination the court has shortened this time [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220(d)].

If the demand was served by mail, the 30-day minimum period for scheduling the examination is extended 5 calendar days after service if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside

California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050]. The 30-day period is extended by two court days if service is by Express Mail, other overnight delivery, or by Fax [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)].

[c] Service of Copies and Disposition of Original Demand

Copies of the demand for this physical examination must be served on the plaintiff and on all other parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220(e)]. The original of the demand is not filed with the court, but is to be preserved by the defendant, together with the original proof of service and the original response, until six months after final disposition of the action. At that time, the original may be destroyed, unless the court, on motion of any party and for good cause shown, orders that the original be preserved for a longer period [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.260].

[2] Response to Demand

[a] Statement of Compliance, Modified Compliance, or Refusal

The plaintiff to whom this demand for initial physical examination has been directed must respond to the demand by a written statement that the examinee will comply with the demand as stated, will comply with the demand as specifically modified by the plaintiff, or will refuse, for reasons specified in the response, to submit to the demanded physical examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.230(a)].

For a form of response, see § 197.62.

[b] Service of Response

Plaintiff's response to the demand must be served within 20 days after service of the demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.230(b)]. If the demand was served by mail, this 20-day deadline is extended by five calendar days if the place of address is within California, by 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or by 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050]. The response period is extended two court days if service of the demand was by Express Mail, other overnight delivery, or by Fax [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a), (c), (e)].

On motion by the demanding defendant, the court may order the time for response to be shortened. Conversely, on motion by the responding plaintiff, the court may extend the time for response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.230(b)]. The original of the response must be served on the defendant making the demand, and a copy of the response must be served on all other parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.230(b)].

[c] Effect of Untimely Response: Waiver of Objections

If a plaintiff to whom a demand for a physical examination has been directed fails to serve a timely response to it, that plaintiff waives any objection to the demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.240(a)]. On motion, however, the court may relieve that plaintiff from this waiver if it determines that the plaintiff has subsequently served a response that is in substantial compliance with Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.240(a)(1) [see [a], above], and that the plaintiff's failure to serve a timely response was the result of mistake, inadvertence, or excusable neglect [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.240(a)(2)]. For a motion for relief from waiver of objections, see § 197.67.

[3] Motion to Compel Response and Compliance

[a] After Failure to Serve Timely Response

If a plaintiff fails to serve a timely response to a demand for a physical examination, the demanding defendant may move for an order compelling a response and compliance with the demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.240(b)]. The motion may seek an order directing not only a response, but also compliance with the demand, because the plaintiff, by failing to serve a timely response in the first place, waived all objections on which he or she might have based a response other than one consisting of a statement of compliance [see [2][c], above (waiver and relief from waiver)].

For a form of motion seeking response to and compliance with a demand, see § 197.63.

[b] Monetary Sanctions for Unsuccessfully Making or Opposing Motion

The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to compel compliance with a demand for a physical examination, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.240(c); for further discussion of this general provision, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]].

The court may award sanctions in favor of a party who files a motion to compel discovery, even though no opposition to the motion was filed, or opposition to the motion was withdrawn, or the requested discovery was provided to the moving party after the motion was filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(a)]. The court may not, however, deem the opposing party's failure to file written opposition, failure to appear at a hearing, or voluntary provision discovery to be an admission that the motion was proper or that sanctions should be awarded [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(b)].

For more detailed discussion of monetary sanctions generally, including requirements generally applicable in proceedings to impose such sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

[c] Sanction Proceedings Following Failure to Obey Order Compelling Response

If a demanding defendant succeeds in obtaining an order directing a plaintiff to respond and comply with the demand, and the plaintiff thereafter fails to obey that order, the court may make those orders that are just, including the imposition of an issue sanction, an evidence sanction, or a terminating sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. In lieu of or in addition to that sanction, the court may impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.240(d)]. For detailed discussion of evidence, issue, and terminating sanctions, and forms for motions seeking the imposition of such sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[3], 192.15[3], and 192.50 et seq.

[4] Motion to Compel Compliance With Demand

[a] After Response With Unwarranted Refusal or Modification

If a defendant who has demanded a physical examination pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220 deems that plaintiff's modification of the demand or refusal to submit to the physical examination is unwarranted, that defendant may move for an order compelling compliance with the demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.250(a)].

A motion to compel compliance under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.250(a) must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of any issue presented by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.250(a); for further discussion of this general requirement, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1]].

For a form for a motion seeking compliance with a demand following an unwarranted response, see § 197.64. For a form for the separate statement required to accompany this motion under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(6), see § 197.65.

Monetary sanctions normally imposed in connection with this motion proceeding are discussed in [b], below. For discussion of further sanctions following a plaintiff's subsequent failure to obey an order compelling compliance with a demand, see § 197.20.

[b] Monetary Sanction for Unsuccessfully Making or Opposing Motion

The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to compel compliance under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.250(a), unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.250(b)].

For further discussion of this general provision, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]. For more detailed discussion of monetary sanctions generally, including requirements generally applicable in proceedings to impose such sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

Chapter 197 DISCOVERY: PHYSICAL AND MENTAL EXAMINATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-197 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 197.17

§ 197.17 Court Ordered Examination

[1] Court Order Required for All Examinations Other Than Initial Physical Examination of Personal Injury Plaintiff

If any party desires to obtain discovery by a physical examination other than pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220 [see § 197.16 (initial physical examination of personal injury plaintiff)], or by a mental examination, that party must obtain leave of court [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.310(a)].

[2] Motion for Court Ordered Examination

A motion for court ordered examination under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.310 must be accompanied by declaration stating facts that show that the moving party first made a reasonable a good faith attempt to arrange for the examination by stipulation under Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.030 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.310(b)]. For discussion of examinations on stipulation, see § 197.15. For further discussion of the general requirement of a reasonable good faith attempt at informal resolution prior to bringing a discovery motion, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1].

The motion must specify the time, place, manner, conditions, scope, and nature of the examination, as well as the identity and the specialty, if any, of the person or persons who will perform the examination. Generally, the place of examination must be within 75 miles of the residence of the person to be examined. If the place specified is more distant, the court will grant the order only after determining that there is good cause for the travel involved, and will condition the order on the advancement by the moving party of reasonable expenses and costs for the examinee to travel to the place of examination [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.310(b), 2032.320(e)]. For discussion of good cause required to be shown for examination generally, see [3], below.

Notice of the motion must be served on the person to be examined and on all parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.310(c)].

For a form for a notice of motion and motion for a court ordered examination, see § 197.69.

[3] Court May Grant Motion Only on Good Cause Shown

The court may a grant a motion for a court ordered examination only for good cause shown [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.320(a); see, e.g., Vinson v. Superior Court (1987) 43 Cal. 3d 833, 840-844, 239 Cal. Rptr. 292, 740 P.2d 404 (good cause shown for physical examination but not for mental examination; decided under prior law)].

The requirement of good cause may be satisfied by the very nature of the claim or proceeding involved. For example, in a statutory proceeding to dismiss a teacher on the grounds that she was mentally unfit, the court found that there was good cause shown by the very nature of the proceedings because they could not be determined without the aid of an expert in the mental health field [Board of Trustees v. Superior Court (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 377, 380, 79 Cal. Rptr. 58] . Usually, however, specific facts must be shown, such as the moving party's inability to obtain the information by other means [see Schlagenhauf v. Holder (1964) 379 U.S. 104, 118, 85 S. Ct. 234, 13 L. Ed. 2d 152 (interpretation of Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 35, on which former Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 was originally based)].

[4] Multiple Court Ordered Examinations

There is nothing in the language of Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq. that expressly limits the number of mental or physical examinations. Thus, for example, defendants, on a showing of good cause, may obtain multiple examinations of a personal injury plaintiff in addition to the initial physical examination that may be demanded without court order in such cases [see Shapira v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1249, 1256, 274 Cal. Rptr. 516] . Depending on the injury alleged by the plaintiff, multiple examinations by medical specialists in different fields pertinent to a plaintiff's injury may be very appropriate [Shapira v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1249, 1256, 274 Cal. Rptr. 516 (dictum)].

Although permissible, multiple examinations are not to be ordered routinely. The potential for harassment of plaintiffs by repetitive examinations should be eliminated by the good cause requirement [Shapira v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1249, 1255, 274 Cal. Rptr. 516 (citing federal case suggesting court should require stronger showing of good cause for a second examination than for the first)]. Moreover, Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.020 specifically subjects examinations to the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.030, which provide for protective orders to limit discovery that is unreasonably cumulative or duplicative or otherwise unduly burdensome [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.020(a); see § 197.11[1]].

When the issue of multiple examinations is raised, the trial court is required to exercise its discretion when determining whether good cause exists for the requested examination [see Shapira v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1249, 1254-1256, 274 Cal. Rptr. 516 (mental examination)].

[5] Restrictions on Court Ordered Examinations

[a] Stipulation Precluding Mental Examination of Personal Injury Plaintiff

If a party seeking recovery for personal injuries stipulates that (1) no claim is being made for mental and emotional distress over and above that usually associated with the physical injuries claimed, and (2) no expert testimony regarding this usual mental and emotional distress will be presented at trial in support of the claim for damages, the court will not order a mental examination of the person for whose personal injuries the recovery is being sought absent a showing of exceptional circumstances [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.320(b), (c)]. For a form of stipulation to preclude a court ordered mental examination under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.310, see § 197.70. For discussion and forms relating to proof of mental and emotional suffering as a component of general damages for personal injury, see Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.40 et seq., and Ch. 362, Mental Suffering and Emotional Distress .

[b] Radiological Tests (X-Rays)

If the examinee submits or authorizes access to X-rays of any area of his or her body for inspection by the examining physician, no additional X-rays of that area may be taken by the examining physician except with consent of the examinee or on order of the court for good cause shown [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.520; see Ghanooni v. Super Shuttle (1993) 20 Cal.App. 4th 256, 260-261, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 501 (trial court properly imposed monetary sanctions against plaintiff when she failed to provide substantial justification for her refusal to submit to defendants' demand for X-rays, and when her attorney's argument that the X-rays were unnecessary because only soft tissue injuries were involved was not supported by any expert medical opinion and was, in fact, contradicted by plaintiff's treating physician)].

[c] Other Restrictions Based on Opposition to Motion

Discovery under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq. is subject to the restrictions of Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.020(a)]. A party or person opposing a court ordered examination may therefore seek to have the examination limited to the extent it is unduly burdensome or cumulative within the meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 2019.030 [see further discussion in § 197.11[1] and in Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.30 et seq.].

Moreover, the general provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.020 provide that a party or other affected person may seek to limit discovery when its intrusiveness or burdensomeness outweighs the likelihood of obtaining admissible evidence [see further discussion in Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.30]. Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq. do not incorporate the general provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010 et seq. and § 2017.710 et seq. by reference, as do most other discovery methods. It appears, however, that this omission was not intended to exclude the protections of Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.020. Rather, this omission was designed to exclude consideration of the broader scope of discovery under Code Civ. Proc. § 2017.010 in favor of a scope more narrowly and more specifically based on a person's physical or mental condition being an issue in controversy [see further discussion in §§ 197.11[2], 197.14].

In any event, an order granting an examination under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.320 must specify the terms and conditions of the examination [see [6], below]. It is therefore recommended that a party or person seeking to limit an examination provide, in the opposition to the motion, such evidence and argument as will enable to the court to determine and articulate any desired conditions deemed necessary to protect the examinee.

The party requesting or objecting to a specific condition for the examination generally has the burden of establishing that it is or is not necessary [see Edmiston v. Superior Court (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 699, 703-704, 150 Cal. Rptr. 276, 586 P.2d 590 (videotaping not permitted when examinee failed to show why less intrusive audio recording would not sufficiently protect integrity of examination); Edwards v. Superior Court (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 905, 913, 130 Cal. Rptr. 14, 549 P.2d 846 (unsupported objections which do not question qualification of examiner given little weight; length of proposed examination not shortened when examinee failed to show complete examination could be conducted in less time)].

[6] Order Granting Motion for Examination

An order granting a physical or mental examination is made only on a determination of good cause [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.320(a); for further discussion, see [3], above]. It must, in addition, specify the person or persons who may perform the examination, the time and place of the examination, and the manner, scope, and nature of the examination, including the diagnostic tests and procedures authorized [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.320(d). Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.320, the court must "describe in detail who will conduct the examination, where and when it will be conducted, the conditions, scope and nature of the examination, and the diagnostic tests and procedures to be employed" [Carpenter v. Superior Court (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 249, 260, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 821 (italics in original); cf. Bittle v. Superior Court (1961) 55 Cal. App. 3d 489, 494-495, 127 Cal. Rptr. 574 (under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2032(a), governing physical examinations, trial court's order was not fatally defective when missing information was supplied in notice of motion)]. In addition, the requirement that the court specify the "diagnostic tests and procedures" imposes something more than identification of the general "types" or categories of tests. Rather, "the way to describe these 'diagnostic tests and procedures'--fully and in detail-- is to list them by name" (italics in original) [Carpenter v. Superior Court (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 249, 260-262, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 821 (trial court failed to comply with requirement of Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.320 by ordering "standardized written psychological tests" of "emotional and cognitive functioning")].

For discussion of additional determinations and conditions required when the place of examination is more distant that 75 miles from the examinee's residence, see [2], above. For discussion of other possible restrictions, see [5], above. For discussion of conduct of the examination and requirements relating to observation or recordation of an examination, see § 197.18.

For an order granting a court ordered examination, see § 197.71.

Chapter 197 DISCOVERY: PHYSICAL AND MENTAL EXAMINATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

16-197 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 197.18

§ 197.18 Conduct of Examination

[1] Physical Examinations

[a] Presence of Examinee's Attorney or Representative

[i] For Observation and Recording

The attorney for the examinee or for a party producing the examinee, or that attorney's representative, is permitted to attend and observe any physical examination conducted for discovery purposes [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.510(a); see, e.g., Mercury Casualty Co. v. Superior Court (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 1027, 1034, 225 Cal. Rptr. 100 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2032(a)) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.020(a))]. If an attorney's representative is to serve as the observer, the representative must be authorized to so act by a writing subscribed by the attorney that identifies the representative [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.510(c)].

That attorney or representative may also record, stenographically or by audio technology, any words spoken to or by the examinee during any phase of the examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.510(a)]. Videotaping is not authorized because it is too intrusive and because the need for a record of the examination can be met by audio recording or transcription [see Edmiston v. Superior Court (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 699, 702-704, 150 Cal. Rptr. 276, 586 P.2d 590 (decided under prior law); accord Ramirez v. MacAdam (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 1638, 1640-1641, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 911] .

It is not clear whether Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.510(a) allows the presence of both an attorney and a reporter. Although Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.510(a) is worded in the disjunctive, cases decided under the 1956 Discovery Act held that the court should grant permission at the request of either party for the presence of a reporter [Gonzi v. Superior Court of San Francisco (1959) 51 Cal. 2d 586, 589, 335 P.2d 97] , but that the presence of a reporter was not a substitute for the presence of the attorney for the party to be examined [Munoz v. Superior Court (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 643, 645, 102 Cal. Rptr. 686] .

The observer may monitor the examination, but must not participate in or disrupt it [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.510(b)].

[ii] Suspension of Examination Pending Motion for Protective Order

If, in the judgment of the observer [see [i], above], the examiner becomes abusive to the examinee or undertakes to engage in unauthorized diagnostic tests and procedures, the observer may suspend the examination to enable the party being examined or producing the examinee to make a motion for a protective order. Conversely, if the observer begins to participate in or disrupt the examination, the person conducting the physical examination may suspend the examination to enable the party at whose instance it is being conducted to move for a protective order [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.510(d), (e)].

The court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion for a protective order, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.510(f)]. For further discussion of this general provision, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]. For more detailed discussion of monetary sanctions generally, including requirements generally applicable in proceedings to impose such sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

[b] Presence of Examinee's Physician

California cases have not established the right of an examinee to have his or her own physician present at a physical examination conducted on behalf of the opposition [Long v. Hauser (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 490, 493, 125 Cal. Rptr. 125 (decision of arbitrator to that effect upheld)]. If, however, the examinee's physician were there as the attorney's representative of the examinee's attorney, referred to in Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.510(a), it does not seem that there could be any objection [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.510(a)].

[c] Presence of Interpreter

When an insurer or the defendant requests the medical examination of a person who is a party to a civil action for the purpose of determining damages and the person to be examined does not proficiently speak or understand English, an interpreter must be present to interpret the examination in a language that the person understands [Evid. Code § 755.5(a)]. The interpreter's fees must be paid by the insurer or defendant requesting the medical examination [Evid. Code § 755.5(b)].

The record of, or testimony concerning, any examination conducted in violation of Evid. Code § 755.5(a) is inadmissible in any civil action [Evid. Code § 755.5(c)]. Evid. Code § 755.5 does not prohibit the presence of any other person to assist a party [Evid. Code § 755.5(d)].

[2] Mental Examinations

The examiner and examinee both have the right to record a mental examination on audio tape [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.530(a)]. The entire examination, not simply the examinee's responses, must be recorded, because recording only the examinee's responses would defeat main purposes of audio recording, which are to ensure that the examiner does not overstep the bounds set by court for the mental examination, that the context of the responses can be judged for purposes of trial, that the examinee's interests are protected, especially since the examinee's counsel ordinarily will not be present and that any evidence of abuse can be presented to the court [Golfland Entertainment Ctrs., Inc. v. Superior Court (2003) 108 Cal App. 4th 739, 750-751, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 828] . Videotaping is not authorized [Baqleh v. Superior Court (People)(2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 478, 492, 122 Cal Rptr. 2d 673 ; see Edmiston v. Superior Court (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 699, 702-704, 150 Cal. Rptr. 276, 586 P.2d 590 (physical examination, decided under prior law); Ramirez v. MacAdam (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 1638, 1640-1641, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 911 (physical examination)]. Nor is the presence of a court reporter permitted [Golfland Entertainment Ctrs., Inc. v. Superior Court (2003) 108 Cal App. 4th 739, 750-751, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 828 (reasoning that differences between physical examination statute, allowing presence of counsel or counsel's representative to record exam by audio technology or stenography as matter of right, Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.510(a), and mental examination statute, permitting presence of counsel or counsel's representative only by agreement or court order, and providing only for right of examiner or examinee to record exam by means of audio technology, Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.530, indicate legislature's intent that court reporters should not attend mental examinations and that those examinations should be audio recorded; decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2032(g)(1)-(2))]. The provisions of the Discovery Act are not, however, to be construed to alter, amend, or affect existing case law with respect to the presence of theattorney for the examinee or other persons during a mental examination by agreement or by court order [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.530(b)].

Under prior case law that remains unaltered by the provisions of the current Discovery Act, persons other than the examiner and examinee are not permitted in a mental examination, at least absent agreement of the parties. The absence of people other than the examiner and examinee is considered essential to the special and private rapport necessary between the examiner and examinee. The purposes of a mental examination are best served by not permitting plaintiff's counsel to be present at the examination, since the examination will only be effective and lead to a fair and objective evaluation of the examinee's mental and emotional condition if conducted on a one-to-one basis [Vinson v. Superior Court (1987) 43 Cal. 3d 833, 844-846, 239 Cal. Rptr. 292, 740 P.2d 404 ; Edwards v. Superior Court (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 905, 909-912, 130 Cal. Rptr. 14, 549 P.2d 846 ; see, e.g., Golfland Entertainment Ctrs., Inc. v. Superior Court (2003) 108 Cal App. 4th 739, 748, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 828 (reaffirming Edwards and Vinson holdings that attorney's presence is not required during mental examination, although "trial courts retain the power to permit the presence of counsel or to take other prophylactic measures when needed," but finding no evidence in this case to justify exception to standard rule barring counsel)].

§ 197.19 Examination Reports

[1] Option to Demand Report of Examination

A party who submits to, or produces another for, a physical or mental examination in compliance with a demand under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220, an order of court under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.320, or an agreement under Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.030 has the option of making a written demand that the party at whose instance the examination was made deliver to the demanding party (1) a copy of a detailed written report setting out the history, examinations, findings, including the results of all tests made and the diagnoses, prognoses, and conclusions of the examiner; and (2) a copy of reports of all earlier examinations of the same condition of the examinee made by that or any other examiner [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610(a)].

If this option is exercised, a copy of these reports must be delivered within 30 days after service of the demand, or within 15 days of trial, whichever is earlier [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610(b)]. If the demand is served by mail, the 30-day period is extended by five calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050]. The 30-day period is extended by two court days if the demandis Express Mail, other overnight delivery, or by Fax [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e)].

A party who has submitted to a physical examination under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220 is entitled to a report of that examination on demand, even if the examining physician has not prepared one [Kennedy v. Superior Court (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 674, 678, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 373] . The report may be seen as a trade off: if one party to a personal injury litigation is required by his or her opponent to submit to a medical examination, at the very least that party is entitled to a report of the information obtained by his or her adversary in litigation [Kennedy v. Superior Court (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 674, 678, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 373 (court contrasted Legislature's use of term "existing" written report in former Code Civ. Proc. § 2032(j) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.640)) as additional support for holding that existence of report is not determinative of Code Civ. Proc. § 2032(h) requirement (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610))].

The protection for work product under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq. is waived, both for the examiner's writings and reports and to the taking of the examiner's testimony [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610(c)]. Thus a party submitting to an examination may not only demand a report but also depose the examining physician with regard to the examination, whether or not the party requesting the examination has withdrawn the physician as an expert witness [Kennedy v. Superior Court (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 674, 678-679, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 373] . A party may generally "hide" an expert from deposition by withdrawing that expert and designating him or her as "consultant," and thereby reinstate the work product protection. When, however, an expert is also the examining physician under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq., the specific terms of that section control, and Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610(c) explicitly waives the work product protection with regard to an examination [Kennedy v. Superior Court (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 674, 679, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 373 (interpreting former Code Civ. Proc. § 2032(h))].

One significant consequence of exercising the option to demand examination reports under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610, is that the demanding party must provide reciprocal copies of reports of any examination of the same condition, and waives any privilege or work product protection with respect to such reports [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.630, 2032.640, 2032.650 and discussion in [2], below].

For a form of demand requesting delivery of an examination reports, see § 197.72.

[2] Right of Party Providing Report to Receive Reciprocal Reports

A party receiving a demand for a report under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610 is entitled, at the time of compliance with that demand, to receive in exchange a copy of any existing written report of any examination of thesame condition by any other physician, psychologist, or licensed health care practitioner. In addition, that party is entitled to receive, promptly after it has been prepared, any later report of any previous or subsequent examination of the same condition by any other physician, psychologist, or licensed health care practitioner [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.640].

By demanding and obtaining a report of a physical or mental examination under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610 or 2032.620, or by taking the deposition of the examiner, other than under Code Civ. Proc. § 2034.410 et seq., the party who submitted to, or produced another for a physical or mental examination waives in the pending action, and in any other action involving the same controversy, any privilege, as well as any protection for work product under Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.010 et seq., that that party or other examinee may have regarding reports and writings as well as the testimony of every other physician, psychology, or licensed health care practitioner who has examined or may thereafter examine the party or other examinee in respect of the same physical or mental condition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.630]. Nothing in Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq., however, requires the disclosure of the identity of an expert consulted in actions for professional negligence in order to make the certification required in such actions under Code Civ. Proc. § 411.30 or 411.35 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010(b)].

[3] Motions to Compel Delivery of Reports

If the party at whose instance the examination was made fails to make a timely delivery of examination reports when these are demanded under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610, the demanding party may move for an order compelling their delivery [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.620]. Similarly, if a party demands and receives reports under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610, but fails to deliver existing or later reciprocal reports of previous or subsequent examinations under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.640, the party who is entitled to receive reciprocal reports may move for an order compelling their delivery [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.650].

For a form of motion to compel delivery of examination reports under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.620, see § 197.73. For a form of motion to compel delivery of reciprocal reports under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.640, see § 197.75.

Both motions must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.620(a), 2032.650(a); for further discussion of this general requirement, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1]].

The court is required to impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes either of these motions, unless it findsthat the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.620(b), 2032.650(b); for further discussion of this general provision, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]].

The court may award sanctions in favor of a party who files a motion to compel discovery, even though no opposition to the motion was filed, or opposition to the motion was withdrawn, or the requested discovery was provided to the moving party after the motion was filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(a)]. The court may not, however, deem the opposing party's failure to file written opposition, failure to appear at a hearing, or voluntary provision discovery to be an admission that the motion was proper or that sanctions should be awarded [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(b)].

For more detailed discussion of monetary sanctions generally, including requirements generally applicable in proceedings to impose such sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

If a party fails to obey an order compelling delivery of medical reports under either Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.620 or 2032.650, the court may make those orders that are just, including the imposition of an issue sanction, an evidence sanction, or a terminating sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. In lieu of or in addition to those sanctions, the court may impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.620(c), 2032.650(c); for detailed discussion and forms relating to evidence, issue, and terminating sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[3], 192.15[3], 192.50 et seq.]. In addition, the court must exclude at trial the testimony of any examiner or health care practitioner whose report has not been provided by a party when ordered to do so under either Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.620 or 2032.650 [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.620(c), 2032.650(c)].

If a party is required by Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220, 2032.310, or 2016.030 to submit to a physical or mental examination or to produce another for a physical or mental examination but fails to do so, the court, on motion of the party entitled to the examination, may make those orders that are just, including the imposition of an issue sanction, an evidence sanction, or a terminating sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.410, 2032.420]. In lieu of or in addition to that sanction, the court may, on motion of the party, impose a monetary sanction under *Code Civ. PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

§ 197.34 Decisions

[1] Condition Must Be in Controversy

Moving party is required to make affirmative showing that each condition to be examined is genuinely in controversy and that good cause exists; ability to obtain information sought by other means is relevant. Schlagenhauf v. Holder (1964) 379 U.S. 104, 118, 85 S. Ct. 234, 13 L. Ed. 2d 152 (former Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 35, on which former Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 is based)

Allegation of past emotional distress does not put plaintiff's mental condition "in controversy" for purposes of former Code Civ. Proc. § 2032(a) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.020(a)); plaintiff in sexual harassment suit who amended complaint to allege that she ceased to suffer emotional distress several months after harassment ended was not required to submit to mental examination. Doyle v. Superior Court (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 1878, 1886, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 476

In dissolution proceeding, trial court's denial of psychiatric examination of mother and child was proper when mother's mental condition was not in issue and when trial court exercised its discretion in considering burden and inconvenience of examination on child, probable irrelevance since husband was not natural father, and doubtful benefit of examining child under two years of age. In re Marriage of Halpern (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 297, 315-316, 184 Cal. Rptr. 740

Under conditions of case, mental condition of guardian ad litem was not in controversy under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.020(a)). Reuter v. Superior Court (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 332, 340-345, 155 Cal. Rptr. 525

Even though pleadings fail to disclose that plaintiff's mental condition is in controversy, if parties allege in course of proceedings that one major issue presented is emotional damage to plaintiff who has been under care of psychiatrist for trauma occasioned by accident, plaintiff's mental condition then appears to be in controversy within meaning of former Code Civ. Proc. § 2032. Whitfield v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 81, 83, 54 Cal. Rptr. 505

[2] Court Ordered Examination

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.320, trial court must "specify the ... diagnostic tests and procedures" of mental examination by naming the tests and procedures to be performed; ordering "standardized written psychological tests" of "emotional and cognitive functioning" failed to meet statutory requirements. Carpenter v. Superior Court (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 249, 260-262, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 821

Trial court may order criminal defendant to submit to mental examination by expert designated by prosecution in order to evaluate mental competence under Pen. Code § 1369, but order must comply with Civil Discovery Act, specifying time, place, manner, conditions, scope and nature of examination, and identity and specialty of persons performing examination, in accordance with former Code Civ. Proc. § 2032(d) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.320(d)). Baqleh v. Superior Court (People) (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 478, 122 Cal Rptr. 2d 673

Order under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2032(a) not stating specific time or place for examination or name of doctor as not defective per se when written notice of motion set forth particulars required by former Code Civ. Proc. § 2032(a) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.320(d)). Bittle v. Superior Court (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 489, 494-495, 127 Cal. Rptr. 574 (lack of specificity in order resulted from request by party opposing motion who had not objected to order until filing of writ)

Order which did not specify time, place, manner, conditions, and scope of examination and person making examination as failing to comply with former Code Civ. Proc. § 2032(a) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.320(d)) and as defective. Harabedian v. Superior Court (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 26, 33-34, 15 Cal. Rptr. 420

[3] Examination by Stipulation

Unless otherwise expressly provided, stipulation for medical examination incorporates all provisions of former Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 et seq. (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq.), including those for exchange of medical reports and waiver of privilege. Grover v. Superior Court (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 644, 649, 327 P.2d 212 (prior law)

[4] Examination of Living Persons Only

Former Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 does not authorize exhumation and examination of corpse, but only allows physical examination of living persons. Holm v. Superior Court (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1241, 1248, 232 Cal. Rptr. 432

[5] Examination Proper

Procedure held not painful, protracted, or intrusive when uncontradicted medical evidence indicated that procedure was necessary to determine etiology of growth, and that there would be little cosmetic damage, and minimal pain and risks, and examination was properly ordered. Abex Corp. v. Superior Court (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 755, 758, 257 Cal. Rptr. 498

[6] Examiner

Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.210 et seq.), allowing defendant in personal injury action to have plaintiff examined by physician of defendant's choosing, as adversarial and physician need not be independent and disinterested expert as required by Evid. Code § 730, which allows court appointment of expert. Mercury Casualty Co. v. Superior Court (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 1027, 1032-1033, 225 Cal. Rptr. 100

Because vocational rehabilitation counselor is not licensed physician, no affirmative authority existed under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2032, or otherwise, for such person to conduct physical examination. Browne v. Superior Court (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 610, 615, 159 Cal. Rptr. 669

[7] Stipulation of Personal Injury Plaintiff Precluding Mental Examination

The "pain and suffering" usually associated with physical injury is a convenient label for pain, fright, nervousness, grief, anxiety, worry, mortification, shock, humiliation, indignity, embarrassment, apprehension, terror, or ordeal; pain and suffering need not be established by expert medical testimony; it is usually established by plaintiff's testimony, but may be established by lay witness observing suffering; even in the absence of explicit testimony showing pain, an inference of pain is proper if the injury is one normally accompanied by pain. Capelouto v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 889, 892, 895-897, 103 Cal. Rptr. 856, 500 P.2d 880

§ 197.41 Examination By Stipulation

NOTE:

An examination under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq. can and ordinarily should be obtained pursuant to stipulation [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.250(b) (prevailing party on motion to enforce demand for examination as entitled to monetary sanctions unless one subject to sanctions acted with substantial justification, or other circumstances make imposition of sanctions unjust), 2032.310(b) (motion for order for examination as required to show reasonable and good faith attempt to arrange for examination by agreement)]. If the examination is taken on stipulation, the provisions on exchanging reports [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.610, 2032.640] and waiver of privilege [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.630] are applicable unless the parties agree otherwise [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.610-2032.650].

1. Arrange with physician for examination.

2. Prepare Stipulation, setting forth all terms to which counsel have agreed [§ 197.60].

NOTE:

The power of an attorney to enter into a stipulation is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 283. For a general discussion of and forms for stipulation, see Ch. 533, Stipulations .

3. Have stipulation executed.

4. Prepare proof of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

5. Serve copies of the stipulation and proof of service on all the parties and on the person to be examined [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020 and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

6. Keep original of stipulation until six months after final disposition of the cause; do not file it with court unless offered as relevant to a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(11), (b)].

7. For motion for sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.410, 2032.420 based on failure to submit to examination or produce another for examination pursuant to stipulation, see form set out in § 197.77, procedure in § 197.45[3], and general motion procedures set out in § 197.43[2] -[4].

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS
A. Checklists for Party Seeking Examination

16-197 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 197.42

§ 197.42 Examination by Demand

[1] Preliminary Determinations

1. Whether examination sought is one which can be made on demand [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220(a) and discussion in § 197.16]:

a. Is it the initial physical examination of a personal injury plaintiff?

b. Will it be conducted at a location within 75 miles of the residence of the examinee?

c. Will any painful, protracted, or intrusive diagnostic test or procedure be necessary as part of the examination?

2. Whether the condition you are seeking to have examined is in controversy in the action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.020(a) and discussion in § 197.14].

3. Whether the person to be examined proficiently speaks or understands the English language. If not, arrange for an interpreter to be present [see Evid. Code § 755.5(a) and discussion in § 197.18[1][c]].

[2] Arrange With Physician for Examination

The date of examination must be at least 30 days after service of demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220(d)]. If the demand was served by mail, the 30-day period is extended 5 calendar days if the place of address is within California, 10 calendar days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States, or 20 calendar days if the place of address is outside the United States [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050].

[3] Prepare Documents

1. See § 197.61 for form of demand for initial physical examination of personal injury plaintiff.

2. Set forth time, place, manner, conditions, scope and nature of examination, as well as identity and specialty, if any, of the physician or other appropriate health professional who will perform the examination.

[4] Serve Demand

NOTE:
The demanding party must retain the original of the demand for six months after final disposition of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 .260(b)].

1. Prepare proof of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

2. Serve copies of the demand and proof of service on plaintiff and on all the parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220(e); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020 and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

3. Keep the original demand, together with the original proof of service and the original response, until six months after final disposition of the cause; do not file it with court [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.260].

[5] Negotiate any Differences Arising From Plaintiff's Response

NOTE:
If a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 .250(a) to compel compliance with the demand is necessary, it will have to be supported by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt to informally resolve the issues presented by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 .250(a)].

[6] Seek Court Order to Compel Response or Compliance

If a plaintiff fails to respond to a demand in a timely manner, or if a defendant deems that a plaintiff's response to or modification of a demand is unwarranted, that defendant may move for an order compelling compliance with the demand [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.240(b), 2032.250(a); see discussion in § 197.16[3], [4]]. Follow the motion and order procedure as described in § 197.43[2]-[4]. See forms of motion set out in §§ 197.63 and 197.64.

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS
A. Checklists for Party Seeking Examination

16-197 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 197.43

§ 197.43 Court Ordered Examination

[1] Preliminary Determinations

1. Whether the person sought to be examined is a party, an agent of a party, or a person in the custody or under the legal control of a party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.020(a)].

2. Whether you are seeking an initial physical examination of a personal injury plaintiff which can be made by demand under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220 or some other physical examination or a mental examination.

NOTE:
In paternity cases, certain genetic tests may be sought under Fam. Code § 7550 et seq., the Uniform Act on Blood Tests to Determine Paternity. Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 .010 et seq. does not affect these tests [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 .010(a); see § 197.11[3] and Ch. 412, Paternity].

3. Whether the condition you are seeking to have examined is in controversy in the action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.020(a) and discussion in § 197.14].

4. Whether there is good cause for the examination [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.320(a), 2036.020].

5. If you are representing a defendant and there are multiple defendants, whether you have contacted them concerning the examination.

6. Whether the examination can be made pursuant to stipulation.

NOTE:
A motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 .310 to require a physical or mental examination must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt to arrange for the examination by stipulation [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 .310(b)].

7. Whether the person to be examined proficiently speaks or understands the English language. If not, arrange for an interpreter to be present [see Evid. Code § 755.5(a) and discussion in § 197.18[1][c]].

8. Arrange with physician or other practitioner for examination.

[2] Prepare, Serve, and File Documents

1. Prepare notice of motion for order for examination, with a supporting declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.310; see § 197.69].

2. Prepare supporting memorandum [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1113(a); for discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities ; see also California Points and Authorities , Ch. 87, Discovery: Physical and Mental Examinations (Matthew Bender)].

3. Prepare proof of service of documents listed above [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a; see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

4. Serve documents.

NOTE:
Notice of the motion must be given to the person to be examined and to all parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 .310(c)].

a. Service on parties of notices, motions, and orders made under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.310 may be made on any party or his or her attorney in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020 [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020].

b. At least 16 court days before date set for hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)], or within any longer period as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1005 if notice of motion is to be served by mail, Express Mail, other overnight delivery, or by fax serve documents listed above, on every party who has appeared and on the person to be examined [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020, 2032.310(c); see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

5. File signed originals of documents listed above, with the court.

[3] Proceed as for Usual Noticed Motion

See Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

[4] Prepare and File Order

1. Prepare order if court grants motion or as directed by court [see § 197.71].

2. If required by local court rule or practice, have opposing party approve order as to form.

3. Present order to judge for signature.

4. File original signed order and serve endorsed-filed copies of order on other parties.

NOTE:

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1019.5(a), when a motion is granted or denied, unless the court otherwise orders, notice of the court's decision or order (see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders) must be given by the prevailing party to all other parties or their attorneys in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020 (see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers), unless notice is waived by all parties in open court and is entered in the minutes.

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS
A. Checklists for Party Seeking Examination

16-197 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 197.44

§ 197.44 Procedure Following Request for Examination Reports

NOTE:

The following procedures are designed to be used by the party who originally requested the examination after he or she receives a demand under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 .610 for copies of reports from the party who was examined or who produced another for examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 .020(a)]. If the examination was taken pursuant to a court order or a stipulation which did not waive the parties' rights under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 .610, the party examined may demand and receive a report of the examination together with reports of all earlier examinations of the same condition [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 .610(a))].

[1] Obtain Reports

1. Request the physician(s), psychologist(s), or other licensed health care professional(s) who conducted the examination to prepare detailed written report(s) setting out their findings and conclusions [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610(a)(1)].

2. When such report(s) have been requested, have the examiner(s) who performed earlier examinations of the same condition prepare detailed written report(s) setting out their findings and conclusions [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610(a)(2)].

[2] Deliver Reports

Deliver the reports to the party who demanded them.

[3] Request Reports of Past and Future Examinations

NOTE:

After a demand for a report or reports of the examination is made by the party examined, and after comply ing with that request, the party who sought the examination is entitled to copies of any existing written report of any examination of the same condition as well as any later report of any previous or subsequent examination of the same condition [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.640 and discussion in § 197.19[2]]. Although Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.640 does not specify that a request is necessary, the better practice seems to be to use a written request which can then be used as the basis for a motion to compel delivery (see [4], below) if the request is not honored.

1. Prepare a request that the party who was examined or who produced another for examination deliver to you (the party who sought the examination) reports of previous or subsequent examinations of the same condition as well as any later report of any previous or subsequent examination of the same condition [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.640].

2. Serve copies of the request described above [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020, 2032.640; see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

3. Keep the original request and proof of service until six months after final disposition of the cause; do not file it or the response to request with court unless offered as relevant to a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(12), (b)].

4. Negotiate for delivery of reports from party who was examined.

NOTE:

If a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 .650 to compel delivery of reports or disclosure of examiners is necessary, it will have to be supported by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt to informally resolve the issues presented by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 .650(a)].

[4] Compel Delivery by Motion

NOTE:

If the party who was examined or who produced another for examination refuses to deliver the reports or to disclose the identities of examiners as requested [see [3], above], the examining party may move for an order requiring delivery [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 .650].

1. Prepare notice of motion and supporting declaration [§ 197.75], supporting memorandum [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); for discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities ; see also California Points and Authorities, Ch. 87, Discovery: Physical and Mental Examinations (Matthew Bender)], and proof of service of these documents [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013a, 2032.650(a); see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

2. Serve documents.

> At least 16 court days before date set for the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)], or within any longer period as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1005 if service of the notice of motion is to be made by mail, Express Mail, other overnight delivery, or by fax serve documents listed above on every party who has appeared and on the person from whom the documents are requested if he or she is not a party [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020, 2032.220(e); see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

3. File documents.

File signed originals of the documents listed above with the court.

4. Proceed as for the usual noticed motion [see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders].

5. Order [see § 197.76].

Proceed as in § 197.43[4].

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS
A. Checklists for Party Seeking Examination

16-197 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 197.45

§ 197.45 Sanctions

[1] Sanction for Failure by Physician or Party to Deliver Reports

If a party who has demanded and received delivery of medical reports under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610 fails to deliver existing or later reports of previous or subsequent examinations, the party who has complied with Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610 may notice a motion for an order compelling delivery. The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes the motion, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.650(a), (b)]. Follow the procedures for a noticed motion as set forth in § 197.43[2] -[4]. For a form of notice of motion to compel delivery and for a monetary sanction, see § 197.75.

If a physician or party then fails or refuses to deliver a report after being ordered to do so, the party who sought the original examination may [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.650(c)]:

1. Seek any order that is just including the imposition of an issue sanction, an evidence sanction, a terminating sanction, and/or a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. Follow the procedures for a noticed motion as set forth in § 197.43[2] -[4]. For a form that may be used to obtain an order imposing an issue, evidence, or terminating sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.650(c), see § 197.77.

2. Give notice of a motion for an order excluding that health care practitioner's (i.e., one who made previous or later examinations) testimony at trial, adapting procedures on noticed motion in § 197.43.

3. Make a motion in limine, immediately prior to trial, requesting that the health care practitioner's testimony be excluded [see Ch. 373, Motions in Limine].

4. Orally move the court at the time of trial to exclude the testimony of the health care practitioner.

[2] Sanctions for Failure to Respond to Demand for Examination

If a plaintiff to whom a demand for a physical examination has been directed fails to serve a timely response to it, the defendant may notice a motion for an order compelling response and compliance with the demand. The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes a motion to compel compliance with a demand for a physical examination, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.240(c); see § 197.63]. Follow the procedures for a noticed motion as set forth in § 197.43[2] -[4].

[3] Sanctions for Failure to Appear at Examination

If a party required by demand, stipulation, or order to submit to a physical or mental examination or to produce another for examination fails to do so, the party entitled to the examination may notice a motion for those orders that are just, including the imposition of an issue sanction, an evidence sanction, a terminating sanction, and/or a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.410, 2032.420]. Follow the procedures for a noticed motion as set forth in § 197.43[2] -[4]. For general forms that may be used to obtain an order imposing an issue, evidence, or terminating sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.410 and § 2032.420, see §§ 197.77, 197.78.

[4] Other Sanctions

The various sanctions available for disobedience of orders made under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq. are discussed in § 197.20.

[1] Extending Time for Response

Plaintiff must respond to the demand within 20 days after it was served on him or her, or within 25 days if it was served by mail. However, plaintiff may move to extend the time for response [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.230(b); for a form of notice of motion to extend time to respond to interrogatories that may be adapted for use, see Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories, § 194.90].

[2] Preliminary Determinations

1. Whether examination sought is one which can be made on demand [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220(a) and discussion in § 197.16]:

a. Will it be conducted at a location within 75 miles of the residence of the examinee?

b. Will any painful, protracted, or intrusive diagnostic test or procedure be necessary as part of the examination?

c. Does the entire examination relate to the condition in controversy, or is the scope of the examination too broad?

2. Whether examination should be taken in the manner requested; whether scope and manner of examination are reasonable considering condition in controversy.

3. Is examiner qualified physician or other appropriate health care practitioner [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.020(b)]?

4. Consider requests for, and facts supporting, imposition of certain conditions at the examination, such as the presence of examinee's attorney or a court reporter at a physical examination, a tape recording of the examination, etc. [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.510, 2032.530].

[3] Prepare Written Response

1. Prepare written response to defendant's demand for initial physical examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.230; see § 197.62].

[4] Serve Response

1. Prepare proof of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

2. Serve original of response on defendant making demand. Serve copies on all parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.230(b); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020 and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS
B. Checklists for Responding Party

16-197 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 197.52

§ 197.52 Opposition to Motion for Examination

[1] Prepare Stipulation Regarding Limited Recovery for Emotional Distress

1. If a mental examination is being sought of a personal injury plaintiff who is not seeking recovery for mental and emotional distress over and above that usually associated with the physical injuries claimed and who will not present expert testimony regarding this usual mental and emotional distress at trial, prepare stipulation to that effect [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.320 and discussion in § 197.17[5][a]; see § 197.70].

NOTE:
It is unclear whether or not the stipulation may be filed with the court [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(11) (providing that an "agreement for physical and mental examinations" may not be filed unless offered as relevant to the determination of an issue in a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause)]. A stipulation under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 .320 might or might not be considered an "agreement for physical and mental examinations." Thus, counsel should consult local practice to determine whether to file or to retain the original stipulation until six months after final disposition of the cause [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(b)].

2. If stipulation will require execution by counsel for the party seeking mental examination, obtain execution.

[2] Prepare Opposing Declaration

1. Include any facts showing that the condition is not in controversy.

2. If applicable, show how good cause for the examination has not been shown [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.320(a)].

NOTE:

A motion for a physical or mental examination may only be granted for good cause and requires a showing that a reasonable and good faith attempt has been made to arrange for the examination by agreement. If a mental examination is being sought of a personal injury plaintiff who has made the stipulation referred to in [1], above, the mental examination can only be ordered on a showing of exceptional circumstances [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.320(b)].

3. Include any facts showing that the person to be examined is not a party, an agent of a party, or in the legal custody or control of a party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.020(a)].

4. Include facts showing that the examination should not be taken in the manner requested, such as that the examiner is not qualified or that the procedures requested are extraordinary, unnecessary, and/or unduly painful [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.020(b), 2032.220(a)].

5. Include requests for, and facts supporting, a limitation of the scope of the examination or the imposition of certain conditions at the examination, such as the presence of examinee's attorney or a court reporter at a physical examination, a tape recording of examination, etc. [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.310, 2032.530].

[3] Prepare Memorandum Opposing Motion

Opposing party should include in this memorandum any requests for conditions to be put on the examination or limitations or changes in the scope and manner in which it is to be taken.

[4] Serve Documents

Serve copies of any stipulation regarding limited recovery for emotional suffering, opposing declaration, and memorandum as well as proof of service of those documents on all parties [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020, 2032.220(e); see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

[5] File Documents

File original signed stipulation, opposing declaration, memorandum, and proof of service with the court within the time required by local rule.

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS
B. Checklists for Responding Party

16-197 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 197.53

§ 197.53 Copies of Reports

[1] Request Copies of Reports

A party who was examined or who produced another for examination has the option of making a written demand that the party who requested the examination deliver the report written by the examiner, as well as copies of reports of all earlier examinations of the same condition of the examinee made by that or any other examiner, to the party who was examined or who produced another for examination, or to such party's attorney [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610(a)].

NOTE:
This right to obtain a copy of the report and consequent waiver of privileges applies when one has been examined pursuant to stipulation unless the stipulation expressly waives the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.610-2032.650 [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.610-2032.650].

1. Prepare demand [§ 197.72].

2. Serve a copy of the request on the party who caused the examination to be taken [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020, 2032.610(a)].

3. Keep the original request and proof of service until six months after final disposition of the cause; do not file the request or the response to it with the court unless offered as relevant to a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(12), (b)].

[2] Compel Delivery by Motion

1. Negotiate for delivery of reports by the party who caused the examination.

NOTE:
If a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 .620 to compel delivery of reports is necessary, it will have to be supported by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt to informally resolve the issues presented by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032 .620(a)].

2. Follow the motion and order procedure as described in § 197.43[2]-[4], and use the form in § 197.73.

16-197 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 197.60

§ 197.60 Stipulation for Physical or Mental Examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.030]

[1] FORM Stipulation for Physical or Mental Examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.030]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	STIPULATION FOR _____
_____ [name],	)	[PHYSICAL or MENTAL or BLOOD] EXAMINA-Defendant.	)	TION OF

It is hereby stipulated between the parties through their respective counsel that _____ [specify name and status of person to be examined e.g., plaintiff], _____ [name], _____ [submit to or produce _____ (name) for] a _____ [physical or mental] examination to be conducted by Dr. _____ [name] on _____ [date], at _____ [time] at _____ [place] to determine _____ [specify condition in question, e.g., the extent and nature of any skeletal, muscular, soft tissue, or nerve damage or injury to, or abnormality of, plaintiff's neck, arms, shoulders, and back, including, in particular, any evidence of loss of normal range of motion].

It is further stipulated that the nature, scope, conditions, and manner of the examination are to be as follows:

[Specify, in as many separately numbered subparagraphs as necessary, the nature, manner, scope, and conditions of the examination demanded. See examples in form of order for examination set out in § 197.71[1].]

It is further stipulated that _____ [set forth other items to which counsel have stipulated, such as agreement for payment of costs of the examination, e.g., _____ (specify party, e.g., defendant) _____ (name) shall pay _____'s [specify examinee's name] fees and all related costs of the examination, including all diagnostic procedures utilized].

It is further stipulated that _____ [set forth other items to which counsel have stipulated, such as agreement for exchange of reports, e.g., the examining physician shall deliver on the same date to each of the attorneys signing this stipulation copies of all reports of the examination, including a history, examinations, findings, results of all tests or procedures done by him/her or at his/her instance, diagnoses, prognoses, and conclusions. There shall be no further exchange or delivery of reports of examinations by reason of, or based on, the provisions of Section 2032.610 or 2032.640 of the Code of Civil Procedure, and this stipulation is not a demand pursuant to Section 2032.610 of the Code of Civil Procedure. This agreement, however, is not intended to be construed to preclude the disclosure of such reports pursuant to other provisions of Sections 2016.010 et seq.--2036.010 et seq. of the Code of Civil Procedure].

It is further stipulated that _____ [set forth any further agreement, such as one relating to existence of good cause for the examination and issuance of an order for the examination, e.g., good cause exists for this examination and that an order may be entered in accordance with the terms of this stipulation on the presentation thereof to the court].
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Attorney for _____ [identify party]
_____ [signature]
Attorney for _____ [identify party]

[2] Use of Form

The form of stipulation set out in [1], above, is for use by parties to stipulate to an examination under Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.030 and may be adapted to reflect the particular agreement of the parties. Courts prefer that such examinations be taken on stipulation [see discussion in § 197.15]. If the parties cannot agree, a defendant seeking the initial physical examination of a personal injury plaintiff must proceed by demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220; see § 197.61], and all others must proceed on motion for a court ordered examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.310; see § 197.69].

[3] Exchange of Reports and Waiver of Privilege

A party who submits to or produces another for an examination pursuant to stipulation has the election to demand delivery of the report of the examination and all attendant test results as well as copies of reports of all earlier examinations of the same condition of the examinee made by the same or any other examiner [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610; see § 197.19[1]]. A party who complies with a demand for examination reports under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610 is, in turn, entitled to receive reciprocal reports [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.640; see § 197.19[1]].

By demanding and obtaining a report pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610 or by deposing the examiner, the party who submitted to, or produced another for, examination waives all privileges, as discussed in the Introduction under--Waiver of Privilege [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.630]. Thus, counsel should specify whether the stipulation incorporates a demand under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610 or is intended as a substitute for or waiver of those rights [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.030 (parties may modify procedures by stipulation)].

[4] Service of Stipulation

It is recommended that a copy of the final stipulation be served on the party to be examined and a declaration of proof of service be made and retained.

The original stipulation is retained by the parties until six months after final disposition of the cause, and may not be filed with the court unless it is offered as relevant to a law and motion proceeding or other hearing, or it is ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)(11), (b)].

[5] Sanctions

If a party required by stipulation to submit to an examination or produce another for an examination fails to do so, an opposing party may seek an order imposing an issue, evidence, or terminating sanction. The court in granting such a motion may also impose a monetary sanction in lieu of or in addition to these sanctions [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2032.410, 2032.420; see discussion in § 197.20].

Attorney for Defendant

[2] Use of Form

The form of demand set out in [1], above, is for use by a defendant in a personal injury action to request a physical examination of the plaintiff. One such examination may be demanded without first obtaining a court order. The demand may be made at any time after the defendant has been served or has appeared in the action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220(b)].

The examination must be conducted at a place within 75 miles of the residence of the examinee and it cannot include any diagnostic test or procedure that is painful, protracted, or intrusive. Unless the party demanding the examination has obtained an order shortening time, the physical examination must be scheduled for a date at least 30 days after the service of the demand [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.220; see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(a), 2016.050 (extension of minimum period when service is by mail, etc.)].

For further discussion, including discussion of service of copies and retention of the original demand, see § 197.16.

[2] Use of Form

The form of response set out in [1], above, is for use by a plaintiff in a personal injury action to reply to a defendant's demand for initial physical examination [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.230; for form of demand, see § 197.61]. The plaintiff may respond that he or she will comply with the demand as stated, or will comply with the demand as modified, or to specify reasons for refusing to comply [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.230(a)]. If the defendant believes the modification or refusal to comply is unwarranted, he or she may move for an order compelling compliance after he or she has first made a reasonable and good faith attempt to informally resolve the matter [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.250(a)].

For further discussion, including discussion of service deadlines and requirements and the effect of untimely service of the response, see § 197.16.

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for defendant or other statement as appropriate].

2. Defendant _____ [name] is seeking an order from this court compelling plaintiff to respond to and comply with its demand for an initial physical examination of plaintiff _____ [name] at the time and place and in the manner set forth in his/her/its demand of _____ [date]. A copy of that demand was served on plaintiff on _____ [date], by _____ [specify how service was effected, e.g., personal delivery to plaintiff's attorney's office]. A true and correct copy of the demand and proof of service thereof are attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

3. [Nature of action. See § 197.64[1], Declaration Paragraph 3.]

4. [Physical condition in controversy. See § 197.64[1], Declaration Paragraph 4.]

5. Plaintiff has failed to serve a response to the demand for an initial physical examination, although more than _____ [20 or other number of days within which plaintiff was required to respond to demand] days have elapsed since he/she/it was served with it. As a result of plaintiff's failure to make a timely response to the demand, plaintiff has waived any objections he/she/it may have to it, pursuant to Section 2032.240(a) of the Code of Civil Procedure.

6. [Good cause for physical examination. See § 197.64[1], Declaration Paragraph 6.]

7. On _____ [date], _____ [specify efforts made to compel plaintiff to respond to

After five days had elapsed and I still had not received a response from plaintiff's attorney, I telephoned his/her office on _____ [date], and left a message with the secretary to have him/her return my call to discuss his/her failure to respond to the demand. I did not receive a call back and still have not received a response to the demand.]

8. Defendant bases his/her request for the imposition of a sanction in the amount of $_____ on _____ [itemize and explain, in as many paragraphs as necessary, the basis of the computation of the monetary amount of sanction requested].

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]
_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

[Add memorandum supporting motion]

[2] Use of Form

The form of notice of motion and motion with supporting declaration set out in [1], above, is for use by a defendant in a personal injury action to compel a response to and compliance with a demand for an initial physical examination of a personal injury plaintiff, after the plaintiff has failed to make a timely response to the demand [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.240]. The time and manner of service should be set forth in the declaration, and a copy of the proof of service should be attached as an exhibit.

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with this form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; for further discussion of memorandum requirements and a skeletal form of memorandum, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities ; for forms of memoranda for use in proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq., see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 87, Discovery: Physical and Mental Examinations (Matthew Bender)].

For further discussion, see § 197.16[3]. For procedural checklists, see §§ 197.42[6], 197.45.[2].

[3] Monetary Sanctions

The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes this motion, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.240(c); see also discussion of this general provision in Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]].

A monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. is an order that one who engaged in a misuse of the discovery process, his or her attorney if the attorney advised the conduct, or both, pay the reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, incurred by anyone as a result of that conduct [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a)].

A monetary sanction may only be imposed after notice to any affected party, person, or attorney, and after opportunity for hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030].

A request for a sanction must, in the notice of motion, identify every party, person, and attorney against whom the sanction is sought, and specify the type of sanction sought. The notice of motion must be supported by a memorandum of points and authorities, and accompanied by a declaration setting forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040]. The notice of motion and supporting declaration in this form include language designed to satisfy these requirements.

For further discussion of monetary sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name]

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for defendant in the above-described action].

2. Defendant _____ [name] is seeking an order from this court compelling its initial physical examination of plaintiff _____ [name] at the time and place and in the manner set forth in his/her/its demand of _____ [date]. A copy of that demand was served on plaintiff on _____ [date]. A true and correct copy of the demand (and proof of service thereof) is/are attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference.

3. This is an action brought by plaintiff _____ [name] for personal injuries which he/she allegedly sustained in _____ [specify, e.g., an automobile accident which allegedly occurred on _____ (date)].

4. The particular physical condition of the plaintiff which is in controversy is _____ [specify, e.g., the extent, if any, to which his/her eyesight was impaired as a result of the automobile accident(, as alleged in the complaint)].

[EITHER]

5. Plaintiff refused to comply with the defendant's demand for an initial physical examination on the grounds that _____ [specify, e.g., sufficient records of examinations by plaintiff's physicians have been made available to this defendant]. A true and correct copy of plaintiff's response to the demand is attached as Exhibit B and incorporated by reference.

[OR]

5. Plaintiff's response to defendant's demand for initial physical examination modified the demand by _____ [specify, e.g., limiting the time allowed for the examination to one hour]. A true and correct copy of plaintiff's response to the demand is attached as Exhibit B and incorporated by reference.

6. Good cause exists to compel the physical examination of plaintiff of the nature and scope, in the manner, and under the conditions set forth in defendant's demand in that _____ [set forth facts showing good cause, e.g., although defendant has obtained medical records showing examinations made by plaintiff's treating physician two weeks after the accident, those records are inconclusive. Over time, different indications would ordinarily develop which would clarify the cause, if any, of plaintiff's complaint. Defendant is entitled to have plaintiff examined by a physician of defendant's choice and the records of previous examinations do not reflect the effect, if any, of healing and therapy occurring after the date of those early examinations. As more fully described in the accompanying declaration of Dr. _____, all component procedures enumerated in defendant's demand are standard and necessary to determine the extent of an injury of the type alleged by plaintiff; none of them are painful, protracted, or intrusive. Two to three hours is not an uncommon or taxing length of time for an examination of this sort].

7. MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

[Add memorandum supporting motion.]

[2] Use of Form

The notice of motion and motion with supporting declaration set out in [1], above, is for use by a defendant in a personal injury action to compel an initial physical examination of the plaintiff when the plaintiff has responded to defendant's demand for a physical examination, either by refusing to comply, or by agreeing to comply subject to unwarranted modifications [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.250(a)]. Any modifications of the original demand that the parties have agreed to should be set forth in the declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.250(a)].

The form may be modified for use by a cross defendant to compel a cross plaintiff to comply with a demand for an examination by changing the designation of the parties [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.210].

The motion must be accompanied by a declaration stating facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt at an informal resolution of each issue presented by the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.250(a); for further discussion of this general requirement, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1]]. The declaration included with this form includes statements designed to satisfy this requirements, as well as factual statements supporting the grounds for the motion, and facts supporting the amount of monetary sanctions that might be awarded in favor of the moving party. For further discussion of monetary sanctions, see [4], below.

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with this form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; for further discussion of memorandum requirements and a skeletal form of memorandum, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities ; for forms for memoranda for use in proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq., see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 87, Discovery: Physical and Mental Examinations (Matthew Bender)].

For further discussion, see § 197.16[4]. For a procedural checklist, see § 197.42[6]. For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 197.63[4].

[3] Separate Statement

A motion to compel compliance after a plaintiff has responded to a demand with objections must be accompanied by a separate statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(6), (c)]. This is a separate document filed and served with the motion that sets out all the information necessary to understand all the questions and responses that are in issue [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]. For a form for the separate statement, together with further discussion of its requirements, see § 197.65.

[4] Monetary Sanctions

The court must impose a monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. against any party, person, or attorney who unsuccessfully makes or opposes this motion, unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.250(b); see also discussion of this general provision in Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[2]].

The court may award sanctions in favor of a party who files a motion to compel discovery, even though no opposition to the motion was filed, or opposition to the motion was withdrawn, or the requested discovery was provided to the moving party after the motion was filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(a)]. The court may not, however, deem the opposing party's failure to file written opposition, failure to appear at a hearing, or voluntary provision discovery to be an admission that the motion was proper or that sanctions should be awarded [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1348(b)].

As discussed in [2], above, this motion must be accompanied by a declaration showing of a reasonable and good faith attempt at informal resolution of the issues raised by the motion. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010(i), the court is also required to impose a monetary sanction against any party or attorney who fails to confer in an attempt to resolve informally any dispute concerning discovery, in favor of anyone who incurs expenses, including attorney's fees, as a result of that conduct, when the section of the Civil Discovery Act governing a particular discovery motion requires a declaration showing that an attempt has been made. This sanction is to be imposed regardless of the outcome of the particular discovery motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.020].

A monetary sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. is an order that one who engaged in a misuse of the discovery process, his or her attorney if the attorney advised the conduct, or both, pay the reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, incurred by anyone as a result of that conduct [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030(a)].

A monetary sanction may only be imposed after notice to any affected party, person, or attorney, and after opportunity for hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030].

A request for a sanction, in the notice of motion, must identify every party, person, and attorney against whom the sanction is sought, and specify the type of sanction sought. The notice of motion must be supported by a memorandum, and accompanied by a declaration setting forth facts supporting the amount of any monetary sanction sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.040]. The notice of motion and supporting declaration in this form include language designed to satisfy these requirements.

For further discussion of monetary sanctions, see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Misuse, §§ 192.13[2], 192.15[2].

[2] Use of Form

The separate statement set out in [1], above, is required to accompany a motion, such as that set out in § 197.64, to compel compliance with a demand for physical examination of a personal injury plaintiff [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(6)].

[3] Contents of Separate Statement

Any motion involving the content of a discovery request or the responses to such a request must be accompanied by a separate statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)]. The motions that require a separate statement include a motion to compel further responses to a demand for inspection of documents or tangible things [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(a)(3)]. A separate statement is not required when no response has been provided to the request for discovery [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(b)].

This separate statement is a separate document filed and served with the motion. It must set forth all the information necessary to understand each discovery request (in this instance each inspection demand) and all the responses to it that are at issue [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]. It must be full and complete, so that no person is required to review any other document in order to determine the full request and the full response. Material may not be incorporated into the separate statement by reference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)].

The separate statement must include, for each discovery request to which a further response is requested, the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)]:

- The text of the request, and the text of each response, answer, or objection, and any further responses or answers [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(1), (2)].

- A statement of the factual and legal reasons for compelling further responses, answers, or production as to each matter in dispute [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(3)].

- If necessary, the text of all definitions, instructions, and other matters required to understand each discovery request and the responses to it [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(4)].

- If the response to a particular discovery request is dependent on the response given to another discovery request, or if the reasons a further response to a particular discovery request is deemed necessary are based on the response to some other discovery request, the other request and the response to it must be set forth [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(5)].

- If the pleadings, other documents in the file, or other items of discovery are relevant to the motion, a summary of each relevant document by the party relying on the document [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(6)].

The primary function of the separate statement appears to be that of providing a summary, in a single document, of all matters, taken from all pleadings and all other papers, that may be necessary to determine the motion. By including a statement of the factual and legal reasons for compelling further responses to each matter in dispute [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c)(3)], it appears that a separate statement, when required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1345(c), also serves the same function as the supporting memorandum [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(b) (memorandum consists of statement of facts and statement of law, evidence and argument, discussing the statutes, cases, and textbooks cited as support)].

[2] Use of Form

The form of proposed order set out in [1], above, is for use when the court has granted a defendant's motion to compel a response to and compliance with, or compliance with a demand for the initial physical examination of a personal injury plaintiff under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.240 or 2032.250 [see §§ 197.63, 197.64].

A plaintiff who fails to submit a timely response to the demand waives any objections to it [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.240(a)]. Therefore an order granting a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.240 will direct both response and compliance because plaintiff's only possible response will be a statement of compliance, unless plaintiff has sought and obtained relief from the waiver of objections [see further discussion in § 197.16[2][c], [3][a]; see also form of motion for relief from waiver set out in § 197.67].

[2] Use of Form

The form of notice of motion and motion with supporting declaration set out in [1], above, is for use by a plaintiff to obtain relief from his or her waiver of objections to a demand for an initial physical examination. A plaintiff who fails to file a timely response to such a demand is deemed to have waived any objection to it; however, on motion, the court may grant relief from waiver on a determination that (A) the plaintiff has subsequently served a response in substantial compliance with Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.230; and (B) the failure to serve a timely response was the result of mistake, inadvertence, or excusable neglect [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.240(a); for a form of response, see § 197.62].

A plaintiff may also use this form in combination with his or her responsive papers to a motion by defendant for an order compelling response to and compliance with a demand for an initial physical examination under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.240(b) [see § 197.63].

The form may be modified for use by a cross plaintiff to seek relief from a waiver with respect to a demand made by a cross defendant by changing the designation of the parties [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.210].

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with this form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; for further discussion of memorandum requirements and a skeletal form of memorandum, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities ; for forms of memoranda for use in proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq., see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 87, Discovery: Physical and Mental Examinations (Matthew Bender)].

For further discussion, see § 197.16[2][c]. For a procedural checklist, see § 197.51. For cross references to additional discussion and forms relating to law and motion proceedings generally, see § 197.63[4].

6. Good cause exists to compel the physical examination of plaintiff of the nature and scope, in the manner, and under the conditions set forth in the notice of motion in that _____ [set forth facts showing good cause, e.g., although a previous examination has been made by a general practitioner, that examination is obsolete and does not reflect the effect, if any, of healing and therapy occurring after the date of the initial examination. As more fully described in the accompanying declaration of Dr. _____, all component procedures enumerated in the notice of motion are standard and necessary to determine the extent of an injury of the type alleged by plaintiff; none of them are painful, protracted, or intrusive. Two to three hours is not an uncommon or taxing length of time for an examination of this sort. Defendant is unable to adequately or safely prepare for or proceed to trial in this action without current information ascertained and evaluated by a physician of his/her choice, respecting plaintiff's current manifestations of injury, the nature and extent thereof, and the prognosis therefor].

7. Dr. _____ [name of physician whom moving party has chosen to perform the examination] is a duly licensed and practicing physician in the State of California with offices at _____ [place], and is fully qualified to conduct the examination requested by _____ [identify party, e.g., defendant] _____ [name]. His/Her examination of _____ [identify, e.g., plaintiff _____ (name)] will consist of the following: _____ [statements as to manner, scope, and conditions of the examination].

[8. The party sought to be examined has not stipulated, as provided in Section 2032.320(c) of the Code of Civil Procedure, that (1) no claim is being made for mental and emotional distress over and above that usually associated with the physical injuries claimed, and (2) no expert testimony regarding this usual mental and emotional distress will be presented at trial in support of the claim for damages.]

9. [Reasonable and good faith attempt to resolve issues presented by motion. See § 197.64[1], Declaration Paragraph 7.]

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

[Add memorandum supporting motion.]

[2] Use of Form

The form of notice of motion and motion with supporting declaration set out in [1], above, is for use by a party to obtain a court order either to require a party to submit to a physical or mental examination, other than the initial physical examination of a personal injury plaintiff, or to produce the party's agent or a person in the party's custody or legal control to submit to such an examination [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.310].

For detailed discussion of proceedings for an order directing a physical or mental examination, see § 197.17.

For a form of stipulation that may be used in lieu an order pursuant to noticed motion, see § 197.60 [see also discussion in § 197.15]. Before making this motion, the moving party must at least have tried to arrange for the examination by stipulation. The motion is required to be supported by a declaration which states facts showing a reasonable and good faith attempt to arrange for the examination by stipulation [Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.310(b); for further discussion of this requirement, see Ch. 190, Discovery: Scope, Regulation, and Timing, § 190.33[1]].

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with this form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010, 2023.040; for further discussion of memorandum requirements and a skeletal form of memorandum, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities ; for forms of memoranda for use in proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.010 et seq., see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 87, Discovery: Physical and Mental Examinations (Matthew Bender)].
