By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

CAUTION:

Petition Must Be Verified. A petition for writ of mandate must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086] on the personal knowledge of the affiant or declarant and not on information and belief [Star Motor Imports, Inc. v. Superior Court (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 201, 204, 151 Cal. Rptr. 721 ; see also City of Santa Cruz v. Municipal Court (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 74, 87, 260 Cal. Rptr. 520, 776 P.2d 222] . It must also, when presented for filing, be accompanied by proof of service of a copy of the petition on the respondent and real party in interest (except when the court, in its discretion and for good cause, grants the application for thewrit ex parte) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. For the method of serving the petition, see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020, 1107.

The petition must be accompanied by a memorandum [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.486(a)(5)]. The form, content, page limitations, and other requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.204 apply to petitions writ of mandate or prohibition [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.486(a)(6)]. If the petition seeks review of trial court proceedings that are also the subject of a pending appeal, the notice "Related Appeal Pending" must appear on the cover of the petition and the first paragraph of the petition must state the appeal's title, trial court docket number, and any reviewing court docket number [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.486(a)(3)].

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use to petition a reviewing court for a writ of mandate to compel the trial court to enter an order dismissing the action for delay in prosecution, after the trial court has denied petitioner's motion to do so [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(c); see § 212.83[1]]. For a form of petition for a writ of mandate to review denial of a motion to quash service of summons, a motion to stay or dismiss based on inconvenient forum, or both, which may be combined with this petition, see Ch. 323, Jurisdiction: Personal .

[3] Transcript

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.486(b) requires one of the alternative Paragraphs 6 and the appended declaration of counsel to be included when the petition is to be filed in a court of appeal or the Supreme Court. If the petition is to be filed in a superior court, counsel should check the local rules to determine whether similar or other requirements are imposed on the writ petition. Even absent such rules, however, counsel may wish to follow the requirements of a petition filed in an appellate court to show that the petition is meritorious, because, without such a showing, the petition may be denied out of hand without a hearing. For further discussion, see § 212.29[4].

[4] Requirements When Petition Is Filed in Appellate Court

Whenever a writ petition filed in a court of appeal or the Supreme Court seeks review of a trial court ruling, it must be accompanied by a record adequate to permit the review, including the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.486(b); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.486(c) (format for documents and exhibits)]:

- A copy of the order from which relief is sought.
- Copies of all documents and exhibits.
- Copies of all other documents submitted to the trial court that are necessary for a complete understanding of the case and the ruling.
- A transcript of the proceedings leading to the order below or a declaration by counsel that a transcript has been ordered and is expected to be filed on a certain date, or, if no transcript is available, a declaration by counsel explaining why it is unavailable and fairly summarizing the proceedings, including counsels' arguments and the basis of the trial court's decision, if stated.

[5] Notice of Filing Petition

The defendant must serve notice of this petition on the opposing parties and file it with the trial court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(c); see § 212.292].

[6] California Points and Authorities

For memoranda of points and authorities supporting and opposing a petition for writ of mandate generally, see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 150, Mandate and Prohibition

[7] State Statutes

Mandate as remedy to review trial court order denying motion to dismiss action for delay in prosecution when defendant has not made general appearance in action. 418.10(a)(3), (c)

Mandate generally. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1084 et seq., 1107 et seq.

[8] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 212.291 and 212.292.

For further discussion of mandate proceedings generally, including procedure, format requirements, and essential allegations, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 212 DISMISSAL
PART V. FORMS
B. Involuntary Dismissal For Delay In Prosecution

17-212 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 212.292

AUTHOR: HON. PATTI S. KITCHING BARBARA A. REEVES CHARLES PEREYRA-SUAREZ EDITORIAL CONSULTANTS Justice Kitching, an Associate Justice of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, Division Three, was formerly a Judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court, where her assignments included the law and motion department. Barbara A. Reeves is a partner with Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson, Los Angeles, California. Her areas of litigation expertise include intellectual property, securities, fraud, contract, international trade, antitrust, environmental coverage, and white-collar criminal defense. Charles Pereyra-Suarez is a partner in McKenna & Cuneo and heads the Litigation Department in the Los Angeles office. He also has served as a judge pro tem of the Los Angeles County Municipal and Superior Courts since 1986. This article was adapted from California Practice Handbook: Pretrial Disposition (Matthew Bender), Litigation Section, Los Angeles County Bar Associate, Handbook Editor; Hon. Patti S. Kitching, Barbara A. Reeves, Charles Pereyra-Suarez, Contributing Editors.

§ 212.292 Proceedings for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086] to Compel Lower Court to Enter Order Dismissing Action for Delay in Prosecution [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(c)]--Notice of Filing of Petition

[1] FORM Proceedings for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086] to Compel Lower Court to Enter Order Dismissing Action for Delay in Prosecution [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(c)]--Notice of Filing of Petition
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	NOTICE OF FILING OF PETITION FOR WRIT OF Defendant.	)	MANDATE
	)
	)

To _____ [name], plaintiff, and to _____ [name], his/her attorney of record:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that defendant has filed a petition in the _____ [title of court] for a writ of mandate to compel the above-named court to enter its order dismissing the above-entitled action for delay in prosecution pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure Sections 418.10(a)(3) and _____ [specify relevant section or sections of Code Civ. Proc. § 583.110 et seq., e.g., 583.210 et seq.] on the ground(s) that _____ [summons and complaint were not served on this defendant within three years after the complaint was filed]. The petition was filed on _____ [date].
Dated: _____

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Defendant _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use to give plaintiff notice of the filing of the petition for writ of mandate set out in see § 212.291 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(c); see discussion in Introduction, Subpart B, Motion to Dismiss Prior Prior to Answering, under--Notice Extends Time to Respond,].

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 212.291.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 212 DISMISSAL
PART V. FORMS
B. Involuntary Dismissal For Delay In Prosecution

17-212 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 212.293

AUTHOR: HON. PATTI S. KITCHING BARBARA A. REEVES CHARLES PEREYRA-SUAREZ EDITORIAL CONSULTANTS Justice Kitching, an Associate Justice of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, Division Three, was formerly a Judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court, where her assignments included the law and motion department. Barbara A. Reeves is a partner with Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson, Los Angeles, California. Her areas of litigation expertise include intellectual property, securities, fraud, contract, international trade, antitrust, environmental coverage, and white-collar criminal defense. Charles Pereyra-Suarez is a partner in McKenna & Cuneo and heads the Litigation Department in the Los Angeles office. He also has served as a judge pro tem of the Los Angeles County Municipal and Superior Courts since 1986. This article was adapted from California Practice Handbook: Pretrial Disposition (Matthew Bender), Litigation Section, Los Angeles County Bar Associate, Handbook Editor; Hon. Patti S. Kitching, Barbara A. Reeves, Charles Pereyra-Suarez, Contributing Editors.

§ 212.293 Proceedings for Mandatory Dismissal of Action by Defendant or Interested Party for Failure to Complete Service Three Years and/or File Proof of Service Within 60 Days Thereafter [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.210, 583.250(a)(2)]--Notice of Motion and Declaration

[1] FORM Proceedings for Mandatory Dismissal of Action by Defendant or Interested Party for Failure to Complete Service Three Years and/or File Proof of Service Within 60 Days Thereafter [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.210, 583.250(a)(2)]--Notice of Motion and Declaration

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION TO DIS-
Plaintiff,	)	MISS ACTION, SUPPORTING DECLARATION
vs.	)	OF _____ [name], AND SUP-
_____ [name],	)	PORTING MEMORANDUM
Defendant.	)	Date: _____

) Time: _____
) Location: _____
) Judge: _____
Date Action Filed: _____
Trial Date: _____

_____

To _____ [identify party, e.g., plaintiff or (defendant and) cross complainant] _____ [name] and to _____ [name], his/her attorney of record:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], _____ [specify party, e.g., defendant or (plaintiff and) cross defendant] _____ [name] will, and hereby does, move for an order to dismiss the above-entitled action pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure Sections 583.210 and 583.250(a)(2). The motion is made on the ground that service of the _____ [summons and complaint or (summons and) cross complaint] in the above-entitled action was not made within three years after the filing of the _____ [complaint or cross complaint] and the proof of service of the summons was not filed within 60 days after the time that the _____ [summons and complaint or (summons and) cross complaint] was required to be served.

The motion is based on this notice of motion, on the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)] and the supporting memorandum served and filed with it, on the records and file in this action, and on any evidence that may be presented at the hearing of the motion.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [party's status and name]

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name]

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., the moving party and defendant in the above-entitled action or other statement as appropriate].

[SET FORTH, in successively numbered paragraphs, facts showing that the mandatory period for completing service has elapsed, even when taking into account any known stipulated extensions of time or time excluded from calculation, and that this delay is unexcused or unreasonable under the circumstances (e.g., because the defendant or cross defendant was amenable to process throughout the statutory period), e.g.:]

2. I was served with summons and a copy of the complaint in the above-entitled action on _____ [date], after a period of more than three years from the commencement of this action on _____ [date

].

3. I was amenable to process throughout the period between commencement of the above-entitled action and service of the summons and complaint, as follows:

a. I was regularly employed as a _____ [specify occupation] at _____ [specify place of employment] prior to _____ [date of filing], and until _____ [date].

b. From _____ [date], until _____ [date], I resided with my family continually and uninterruptedly at _____ [address or other location], California, having left my forwarding address with _____ [name of employer] on terminating my employment.

c. I have owned several automobiles since _____ [date], all of which were registered in my name in the records of the Department of Motor Vehicles showing my residence as set forth above.

d. I have had a telephone at this address which is listed in my name in the telephone book.

e. At that address I have continually received the service provided by _____Gas Company, _____ Water Company, and _____ Electric Company and I am the named subscriber.

f. I have been a regularly licensed _____ [specify occupation] since prior to _____ [date], and have yearly renewed my license asrequired by the state, which license is and always has been a matter of record with the State of California.

g. Since _____ [date], I have not been out of the state and have never secreted myself in any manner to avoid identification, location, or process of the court.

[CONTINUE]

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

SUPPORTING MEMORANDUM

[Add memorandum supporting motion]

CAUTION:

Points and Authorities Required. A memorandum must be filed and a copy served with the notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005, 1010].

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use to give notice of a motion for mandatory dismissal of an action under Code Civ. Proc. §§

583.210-583.250 on the grounds that the defendant or cross defendant was not served within three years after the filing of the complaint or cross complaint and that the proof of service of the summons was not filed within 60 days thereafter [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.210, 583.250(a)(2); see Code Civ. Proc. § 583.110(a) (action includes cross complaint)].

The attached form of declaration is for use to support a motion to dismiss an action as provided in the notice of motion. It may also be used to support a motion to dismiss under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410(a), 583.420(a)(1) and Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1342 (discretionary dismissal for delay in prosecution, which cannot be granted until one of several enumerated conditions has occurred, one of which is failure to serve process and file the return within two years after the action was commenced against the defendant or cross defendant) [see § 212.296]. The form may also be used to support defendant's response to plaintiff's opposition to the motion [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1300(a), 3.1342(c)].

A declaration may be used to support a motion in lieu of an affidavit [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5].

For a description of the steps to be followed in undertaking this motion, see the Procedural Checklist, above. For a form of proposed order for use with the foregoing form, see § 212.303.

[3] Contents of Form

[a] Notice of Motion

The form of notice of motion is based on the grounds that the defendant or cross defendant was not served within three years after the filing of the complaint or cross complaint and that the proof of service of the summons was not filed within 60 days thereafter [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.210, 583.250(a)(2)]. Because mandatory dismissal may be premised on either of these grounds, the form may be modified, for example, to seek dismissal of an action on the sole ground that the proof of service of the summons was not filed within 60 days after the mandatory three-year period for service of the summons and complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.210(b), 583.250(a)(2)]. Dismissal under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.210-583.250 is discussed in § 212.100 et seq.

[b] Supporting Declaration

The attached declaration establishes that no time should be excluded in computing the applicable time period for service on the ground that the defendant or cross defendant was not amenable to process [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.240(a), 583.420(b); see also § 212.104[1]].

If the declaration is made in support of a motion for discretionary dismissal under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410(a), 583.420(a)(1), additional facts should be provided, in this or in additional declarations, to show that the delay was unreasonable and justifies dismissal under all the circumstances of the case [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1342(e); for further discussion see §§ 212.152 -212.153].

[c] Format of Supporting Papers

The form illustrates supporting papers attached to the notice of motion. If the supporting papers not attached to notice of motion, they must have conforming captions [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(b), 3.1115].

[4] Alternative Notice of Motion for Discretionary Dismissal

This form may be coupled with a notice of motion for discretionary dismissal under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410-583.430 [see § 212.150 et seq. and § 212.296], thus giving the trial court the option to grant a discretionary dismissal if it finds that dismissal is not yet mandatory.

[5] Motion by Nonparty

A motion for dismissal of an action under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.210-583.250 may be made by any party interested in the action whether named as a party or not [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.250(a)(2)]. Thus, this form may be modified for use by an interested person other than a defendant or crossdefendant, such as, for example, a person who is potentially subject to being named in an action by the substitution of his or her true name in place of a fictitiously named defendant, but who was never actually named or served before the expiration of the mandatory period for service [see § 212.194[8][e][iii] above].

[6] Service and Filing

The notice and supporting papers must be filed and copies served at least 16 court days before the hearing, subject to the following extensions. If service is by mail, the required 16-day period is increased by five calendar days if the place of mailing and of address are in California, by 10 calendar days if either the place of mailing or of address is outside California but in the United States, and by 20 calendar days if either the place of mailing or of address is outside the United States. If service is by fax or by Express Mail or other method of overnight delivery, the 16-day period is increased by two calendar days. The court, or judge of the court, may prescribe a shorter time [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.250(a)(2), 1005(a)(13), (b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(b)]. An extension period of two court days may apply in the case of electronic service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6); for discussion, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers, § 518.41[8]].

[7] Cross References

For additional forms of notice of motion, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders

[8] California Points and Authorities

For memoranda of points and authorities in support of a motion to dismiss, see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 90, Dismissal

[9] State Statutes

Defendant as required to be served within three years. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.210(a)

Proof of service of the summons must be filed within 60 days after the time the summons and complaint must be served upon a defendant. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.210(b)

Time requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 583.210 as not applicable if defendant so stipulates or makes general appearance. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.220

Extension of Code Civ. Proc. § 583.210 time requirements by written stipulation or oral agreement entered in minutes of court or transcript. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.230

Suspension of Code Civ. Proc. § 583.210 time requirements. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.240

Mandatory dismissal when Code Civ. Proc. § 583.210 time requirements are not met. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.250(a)

Requirements of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.210-583.250 as mandatory and as not subject to extension, excuse, or exception except as provided by statute. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.250(b)

[10] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 6, Proceedings Without Trial, § 309 (4th ed. 1997)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 212 DISMISSAL
PART V. FORMS
B. Involuntary Dismissal For Delay In Prosecution

17-212 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 212.294

AUTHOR: HON. PATTI S. KITCHING BARBARA A. REEVES CHARLES PEREYRA-SUAREZ EDITORIAL CONSULTANTS Justice Kitching, an Associate Justice of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, Division Three, was formerly a Judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court, where her assignments included the law and motion department. Barbara A. Reeves is a partner with Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson, Los Angeles, California. Her areas of litigation expertise include intellectual property, securities, fraud, contract, international trade, antitrust, environmental coverage, and white-collar criminal defense. Charles Pereyra-Suarez is a partner in McKenna & Cuneo and heads the Litigation Department in the Los Angeles office. He also has served as a judge pro tem of the Los Angeles County Municipal and Superior Courts since 1986. This article was adapted from California Practice Handbook: Pretrial Disposition (Matthew Bender), Litigation Section, Los Angeles County Bar Associate, Handbook Editor; Hon. Patti S. Kitching, Barbara A. Reeves, Charles Pereyra-Suarez, Contributing Editors.

§ 212.294 Proceedings for Mandatory Dismissal of Action by Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.360(a)]--Failure to Bring Action to Trial Within Five Years [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.310]--Notice of Motion and Declaration

[1] FORM Proceedings for Mandatory Dismissal of Action by Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.360(a)]--Failure to Bring Action to Trial Within Five Years [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.310]--Notice of Motion and Declaration
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff,	)	NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION TO DISMISS ACTION, SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name], AND SUPPORTING MEMORANDUM
vs.	)
_____ [name],	)
Defendant.	)	Date: _____
	)	Time: _____
	)	Location: _____

) Judge: _____
Date Action Filed: _____
Trial Date: _____

_____

To _____ [plaintiff or (defendant and) cross complaint] _____ [name] and to _____ [name], his/her attorney of record:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], _____ [defendant or (plaintiff and) cross defendant] _____ [name] will, and hereby does, move for an order to dismiss the above-entitled action pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure Sections 583.310 and 583.360(a). The motion is made on the ground that _____ [plaintiff or cross complainant] has failed to prosecute the above-entitled action and to bring it to trial within five years after it was commenced against the _____ [defendant or cross defendant].

The motion is based on this notice of motion, on the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)] and the supporting memorandum served and filed with it, on the records and file in this action, and on any evidence that may be presented at the hearing of the motion.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [party's status and name]

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name]

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for _____ (moving party) or other statement as appropriate].

2. _____ [State facts showing that the applicable mandatory period for bringing the action to trial has elapsed, even when taking into account any known stipulated extensions of time or time excluded from calculation, e.g., This action was commenced against defendant in the above-entitled court on _____ (date). This court lacked jurisdiction to proceed with this action from _____ (date) until _____ (date), pending plaintiff's appeal from the order of _____ (date), sustaining defendant's demurrer without leave to amend. The action was not brought to trial on or before _____ (date), a period of more than five years from the date that the action was commenced, excluding the period of time during which the court lacked jurisdiction over the action. No stipulation to continue this action beyond that time has been filed].

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

[Add memorandum of points and authorities supporting motion]

CAUTION:
Points and Authorities Required. A memorandum of points and authorities must be filed and a copy served with the notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005, 1010].

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use to give notice of a motion by a defendant or cross defendant for mandatory dismissal for failure to bring an action to trial within five years [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.310, 583.360(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 583.110(a) (action includes cross complaint)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.360(a) requires notice to be given to the parties on a motion by defendant to dismiss under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.310-583.360. Dismissal under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.310-583.360 is discussed in § 212.120 et seq.].

The attached form of declaration is for use to support a motion to dismiss an action as provided in the notice of motion. The declaration shows thatthe applicable time period, after which dismissal is required, has elapsed, even after accounting for any statutory period of extension or exclusion which may have applied under the particular circumstances of the case [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.360(b); see discussion in Introduction, Subpart D, particularly under Extension of Time for Trial by Stipulation and Exclusions From Computation of Time Period,]. A declaration may be used to support the motion in lieu of an affidavit [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5].

For a description of the steps to be followed in undertaking this motion, see the Procedural Checklist, above. The form may be coupled with a notice of motion for discretionary dismissal under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410-583.430 [see Introduction, Subpart D, above, and see § 212.296], thus giving the trial court the option to grant a discretionary dismissal if it finds that dismissal is not yet mandatory.

For a form of proposed order for use with the foregoing form, see § 212.304.

[3] Service and Filing

The notice and supporting papers must be filed and copies served at least 16 court days before the hearing, subject to the following extensions. If service is by mail, the required 16-day period is increased by five calendar days if the place of mailing and of address are in California, by 10 calendar days if either the place of mailing or of address is outside California but in the United States, and by 20 calendar days if either the place of mailing or of address is outside the United States. If service is by fax or by Express Mail or other method of overnight delivery, the 16-day period is increased by two calendar days. The court, or judge of the court, may prescribe a shorter time [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.360(a), 1005(a)(13), (b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(b)]. An extension period of two court days may apply in the case of electronic service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6); for discussion, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers, § 518.41[8]].

[4] State Statutes

Action as required to be brought to trial within five years. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.310

Extension of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.310-583.360 time requirements as subject to extension by written stipulation or oral agreement entered in minutes of court or transcript. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.330

Suspension of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.310-583.360 time requirements. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.340, 583.350

Dismissal as required on court's or defendant's motion when time requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 583.310 are not met. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.360(a)

Requirements of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.310-583.360 as mandatory and as not subject to extension, excuse, or exception except by statute. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.360(b)

Limited tolling of Code Civ. Proc. § 583.310 period by judicial arbitration. Code Civ. Proc. § 1141.17

[5] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 6, Proceedings Without Trial, § 330 et seq. (4th ed. 1997)

[6] Cross References

For a related form, see § 212.293.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 212 DISMISSAL
PART V. FORMS
B. Involuntary Dismissal For Delay In Prosecution

17-212 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 212.295

AUTHOR: HON. PATTI S. KITCHING BARBARA A. REEVES CHARLES PEREYRA-SUAREZ EDITORIAL CONSULTANTS Justice Kitching, an Associate Justice of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, Division Three, was formerly a Judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court, where her assignments included the law and motion department. Barbara A. Reeves is a partner with Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson, Los Angeles, California. Her areas of litigation expertise include intellectual property, securities, fraud, contract, international trade, antitrust, environmental coverage, and white-collar criminal defense. Charles Pereyra-Suarez is a partner in McKenna & Cuneo and heads the Litigation Department in the Los Angeles office. He also has served as a judge pro tem of the Los Angeles County Municipal and Superior Courts since 1986. This article was adapted from California Practice Handbook: Pretrial Disposition (Matthew Bender), Litigation Section, Los Angeles County Bar Associate, Handbook Editor; Hon. Patti S. Kitching, Barbara A. Reeves, Charles Pereyra-Suarez, Contributing Editors.

§ 212.295 Proceedings for Mandatory Dismissal of Action by Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.360(a)]--Failure to Bring Action to New Trial Within Three Years [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.320(a)]--Notice of Motion and Declaration

[1] FORM Proceedings for Mandatory Dismissal of Action by Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.360(a)]--Failure to Bring Action to New Trial Within Three Years [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.320(a)]--Notice of Motion and Declaration
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION TO DIS-
Plaintiff,	)	MISS ACTION, SUPPORTING DECLARATION
vs.	)	OF _____ [name], AND SUP-
_____ [name],	)	PORTING MEMORANDUM
Defendant.	)	Date: _____
	)	Time: _____

) Location: _____
) Judge: _____
Date Action Filed: _____
Trial Date: _____

_____

To _____ [plaintiff or (defendant and) cross complainant] _____ [name] and to _____ [name], his/her attorney of record:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], _____ [defendant or (plaintiff and) cross defendant] _____ [name] will, and hereby does, move for an order to dismiss the above-entitled action pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure Sections 583.320(a) and 583.360(a). The motion is made on the ground that _____ [plaintiff or cross complainant] has failed to prosecute the above-entitled action and to bring it again to trial within three years after the date _____ [of entry herein of the _____ (disagreement of the jury or order declaring mistrial or order granting new trial) or on which remittitur was filed by the clerk of the trial court after an appeal in which _____ (the judgment was reversed and the cause remanded for a new trial or an order granting a new trial was affirmed)].

The motion is based on this notice of motion, on the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)] and the supporting memorandum served and filed with it, on the records and file in this action, and on any evidence that may be presented at the hearing of the motion.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [party's status and name]

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name]

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for _____ (moving party) or other statement as appropriate].

2. _____ [State facts showing that the applicable mandatory period for bringing the action to trial has elapsed, even when taking into account any known stipulated extensions of time or time excluded from calculation, e.g., This action was commenced against defendant in the above-entitled court on _____ (date). This court lacked jurisdiction to proceed with this action from _____ (date) until _____ (date), pending plaintiff's appeal from the order of _____ (date), sustaining defendant's demurrer without leave to amend. The action was not brought to trial on or before _____ (date), a period of more than three years from the date that the action was commenced, excluding the period of time during which the court lacked jurisdiction over the action. No stipulation to continue this action beyond that time has been filed].

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

SUPPORTING MEMORANDUM

[Add memorandum supporting motion]

CAUTION:
Points and Authorities Required. A memorandum be filed and a copy served with the notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005, 1010].

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use to give notice of a motion by a defendant or cross defendant for mandatory dismissal for failure to bring an action again to trial within three years [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.320(a), 583.360(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 583.110(a) (action includes cross complaint)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.360(a) requires notice to be given to the parties on a motion by defendant to dismiss under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.310-583.360.Dismissal under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.310-583.360 is discussed in § 212.120 et seq.

The attached form of declaration is for use to support a motion to dismiss an action as provided in the notice of motion. The declaration shows that the applicable time period, after which dismissal is required, has elapsed, even after accounting for any statutory period of extension or exclusion which may have applied under the particular circumstances of the case [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.360(b); see § 212.120 et seq., particularly §§ 212.123 and 212.125]. A declaration may be used to support the motion in lieu of an affidavit [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5].

For a description of the steps to be followed in undertaking this motion, see the Procedural Checklist, above. For a form of proposed order for use with the form, see § 212.305.

The form may be coupled with a notice of motion for discretionary dismissal under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410-583.430 [see § 212.150 et seq. and § 212.296], thus giving the trial court the option to grant a discretionary dismissal if it finds that dismissal is not yet mandatory.

[3] Service and Filing

The notice and supporting papers must be filed and copies served at least 16 court days before the hearing, subject to the following extensions. If service is by mail, the required 16-day period is increased by five calendar days if the place of mailing and of address are in California, by 10 calendar days if either the place of mailing or of address is outside California but in the United States, and by 20 calendar days if either the place of mailing or of address is outside the United States. If service is by fax or by Express Mail or other method of overnight delivery, the 16-day period is increased by two calendar days. The court, or judge of the court, may prescribe a shorter time [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.360(a), 1005(a)(13), (b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(b)]. An extension period of two court days may apply in the case of electronic service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6); for discussion, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers, § 518.41[8]].

[4] State Statutes

Action as required to be brought again to trial within three years after mistrial, grant of new trial, or remand for new trial. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.320

[5] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 212.293 and 212.294.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 212 DISMISSAL
PART V. FORMS
B. Involuntary Dismissal For Delay In Prosecution

17-212 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 212.296

AUTHOR: HON. PATTI S. KITCHING BARBARA A. REEVES CHARLES PEREYRA-SUAREZ EDITORIAL CONSULTANTS Justice Kitching, an Associate Justice of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, Division Three, was formerly a Judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court, where her assignments included the law and motion department. Barbara A. Reeves is a partner with Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson, Los Angeles, California. Her areas of litigation expertise include intellectual property, securities, fraud, contract, international trade, antitrust, environmental coverage, and white-collar criminal defense. Charles Pereyra-Suarez is a partner in McKenna & Cuneo and heads the Litigation Department in the Los Angeles office. He also has served as a judge pro tem of the Los Angeles County Municipal and Superior Courts since 1986. This article was adapted from California Practice Handbook: Pretrial Disposition (Matthew Bender), Litigation Section, Los Angeles County Bar Associate, Handbook Editor; Hon. Patti S. Kitching, Barbara A. Reeves, Charles Pereyra-Suarez, Contributing Editors.

§ 212.296 Proceedings for Discretionary Dismissal of Action by Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410(a), 583.420(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1340, 3.1342]--Notice of Motion and Declaration

[1] FORM Proceedings for Discretionary Dismissal of Action by Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410(a), 583.420(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1340, 3.1342]--Notice of Motion and Declaration

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff,	)	NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION TO DISMISS ACTION, SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name], AND SUPPORTING MEMORANDUM
vs.	)
_____ [name],	)
Defendant.	)	Date: _____
	)	Time: _____
	)	Dept: _____

) Judge: _____
Date Action Filed: _____
Trial Date: _____

_____

To _____ [identify party, e.g.,] _____ [name] and to his/her attorney of record:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], _____ [defendant or (plaintiff and) cross defendant] _____ [name] will, and hereby does, move for an order to dismiss the above-entitled action pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure Sections 583.410(a) and 583.420(a) _____ [(1) or (2) or (3)]. The motion is made on the ground that _____ [plaintiff or cross complainant] has failed to exercise reasonable diligence in prosecuting the above-entitled action and _____ [specify elapse of minimum period of delay, as applicable, under Code Civ. Proc. § 583.420(a)(1), (2), or (3), e.g., has failed to make service within two years after the action was commenced against the _____ (defendant or cross defendant)].

The motion is based on this notice of motion, on the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)] and the supporting memorandum served and filed with it, on the records and file in this action, and on any evidence that may be presented at the hearing of the motion.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [party's status and name]

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name]

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for the _____ [defendant or cross defendant] _____ [name, if more than one defendant or cross defendant] in the above-entitled action.

2. The _____ [specify subject matter of action, e.g., accident] that is the subject matter of the [cross] complaint occurred on _____ [date]; the [cross] complaint in this matter was filed on _____ [date]; summons and [cross] complaint were served on [this] _____ [defendant or cross defendant] on _____ [date]; at all times during the years _____ through _____, [this] _____ [defendant or cross defendant] was present, residing, and maintaining his/her usual place of business in _____ [city], _____ County, California, and was at all times open and accessible to service of process.

[SET FORTH facts showing prejudice such as those in Paragraphs 3-6]

3. Following the advice received from _____ [plaintiff's or cross complainant's] counsel on _____ [date], I assigned an investigator to locate two witnesses and certain documentary evidence, indicating that the sole and proximate cause of the injuries and resultant damage to _____ [plaintiff or cross complainant] was his/her own negligence. I have a statement from one of the witnesses concerning the complained of repairs to the vehicle owned by _____ [plaintiff or cross complainant] which indicates that this _____ [defendant or cross defendant] could not be responsible for injury, if any, or damage, if any, suffered. [A copy of this statement is attached as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.]

4. I am informed and believe and, therefore, declare that the second witness was the sole eyewitness to the occurrence out of which the alleged injuries and damage, if any, were occasioned.

5. The documentary evidence referred to is the accident investigation report made out by the California Highway Patrol, which report has been destroyed as a matter of regular producer by the California Highway Patrol as more than _____ years have passed since the accident occurred.

6. Because of the destruction of this evidence, the investigator I assigned has informed me that he/she is now unable to locate [either of] the witness(es) referred to above or the documentary evidence.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

SUPPORTING MEMORANDUM

[Add memorandum supporting motion]

CAUTION:
Points and Authorities Required. A memorandum must be filed and a copy served with the notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005, 1010].

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use to give notice of a motion by a defendant or cross defendant for discretionary dismissal of an action under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410-583.430 on the ground that the opposing party has failed to use reasonable diligence, resulting in a delay in prosecution which justifies dismissal under the circumstances [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.410(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 583.110(a) (action includes cross complaint)].

The attached form of declaration is for use to support a motion to dismiss an action as provided in the notice of motion. The declaration establishes the loss of evidence, prejudicing the defendant's or cross defendant's defense of the action, as a factor supporting a grant of discretionary dismissal [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1342(e); for further discussion see Introduction, Subpart E, under §§ 212.152, and 212.153]. A declaration may be used to support the motion in lieu of an affidavit [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5].

The criteria and procedure for discretionary dismissal under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410-583.430 is further discussed in the Introduction, Subpart E, above. For an outline of the steps to be followed in undertaking this motion, see the Procedural Checklist, above.

For a form of proposed order for use with the foregoing form, see § 212.306.

[3] When Motion May Be Made

The motion may be made only after one of the following periods of minimum delay has elapsed:

- Service has not been completed within two years after the action was filed against the defendant or cross defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.420(a)(1)].

- The action has not been brought to trial or conditionally settled within two years after the action was commenced [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.420(a)(2)(B); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1340(a)].

- The action has not been brought to new trial within two years [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.420(a)(3)].

[4] Service and Filing

The notice must be served and filed at least 45 days before the date set for hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1342(a)].

[5] State Statutes

Court's discretionary power to dismiss action for delay in prosecution. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.410

Time before which court cannot dismiss action under Code Civ. Proc. § 583.410. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.420(a)

Time periods under Code Civ. Proc. § 583.420(a) as computed in same manner as comparable periods under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.210-583.360. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.420(b)

Conditional grant or denial of discretionary dismissal under Code Civ. Proc. § 583.410. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.430.

[6] California Rules of Court

Discretionary dismissal by court on its own motion or on motion of defendant for failure to bring action to trial or to conditional settlement within two years after action was commenced against defendant; notice required for dismissal by court on its own motion. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1340(a)

Procedures and criteria governing discretionary dismissal. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1342

[7] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 6, Proceedings Without Trial, § 425 et seq. (4th ed. 1997)

[8] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 212.293 -212.295.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 212 DISMISSAL
PART V. FORMS
B. Involuntary Dismissal For Delay In Prosecution

17-212 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 212.297

AUTHOR: HON. PATTI S. KITCHING BARBARA A. REEVES CHARLES PEREYRA-SUAREZ EDITORIAL CONSULTANTS Justice Kitching, an Associate Justice of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, Division Three, was formerly a Judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court, where her assignments included the law and motion department. Barbara A. Reeves is a partner with Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson, Los Angeles, California. Her areas of litigation expertise include intellectual property, securities, fraud, contract, international trade, antitrust, environmental coverage, and white-collar criminal defense. Charles Pereyra-Suarez is a partner in McKenna & Cuneo and heads the Litigation Department in the Los Angeles office. He also has served as a judge pro tem of the Los Angeles County Municipal and Superior Courts since 1986. This article was adapted from California Practice Handbook: Pretrial Disposition (Matthew Bender), Litigation Section, Los Angeles County Bar Associate, Handbook Editor; Hon. Patti S. Kitching, Barbara A. Reeves, Charles Pereyra-Suarez, Contributing Editors.

§ 212.297 Proceedings for Discretionary Dismissal of Action by Plaintiff or Defendant Under Nonstatutory Inherent Power to Dismiss for Delay in Prosecution at Trial Under Nonstatutory Inherent Power to Dismiss--Notice of Motion

[1] FORM Proceedings for Discretionary Dismissal of Action by Plaintiff or Defendant Under Nonstatutory Inherent Power to Dismiss for Delay in Prosecution at Trial Under Nonstatutory Inherent Power to Dismiss--Notice of Motion

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff,	)	NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION TO DIS-
vs.	)	MISS ACTION, SUPPORTING DECLARATION
_____ [name],	)	OF _____ [name], AND SUP-
Defendant.	)	PORTING MEMORANDUM
	)	Date: _____

) Time: _____
) Location:
) Judge: _____
Date Action Filed: _____
Trial Date: _____

_____

To plaintiff _____ [name]
and to plaintiff's attorney of record:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter can be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], defendant _____ [name] will, and hereby does, move for an order to dismiss the above-entitled action. The motion will be made on the ground that _____ [specify ground showing that there is an absence of diligent prosecution and that no applicable dismissal statute exists or that the period for compliance specified in the applicable mandatory dismissal statute has not yet expired, e.g., plaintiff has failed to prosecute diligently the above-entitled action during trial].

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, on the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)] and the supporting memorandum served and filed herewith, on the records and file herein, and on such evidence as may be presented at the hearing of the motion.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [party's status and name]

CAUTION:

A supporting memorandum must be filed and a copy served with the notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005, 1010].

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use to give notice of a motion for dismissal based on the inherent discretionary power of the trial court to dismiss an action for lack of prosecution. The authority for dismissal on this basis is discussed in the Introduction, Subpart A, under § 212.62.

[3] Decisions

Inherent power without aid of legislation to dismiss action for lack of prosecution. Overaa v. Keeney (1915) 169 Cal. 628, 630-631, 147 P. 466 ; Blue Chip Enterprises, Inc. v. Brentwood Sav. & Loan Assn. (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 706, 712-713, 139 Cal. Rptr. 651

Discretionary dismissal after trial commences. Karras v. Western Title Ins. Co. (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 753, 757, 76

Cal. Rptr. 141

[4] Text References

Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 6, Proceedings Without Trial, § 429 et seq. (4th ed. 1997)

[5] Cross References

For a related form, see § 212.293.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 212 DISMISSAL
PART V. FORMS
B. Involuntary Dismissal For Delay In Prosecution

17-212 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 212.298

AUTHOR: HON. PATTI S. KITCHING BARBARA A. REEVES CHARLES PEREYRA-SUAREZ EDITORIAL CONSULTANTS Justice Kitching, an Associate Justice of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, Division Three, was formerly a Judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court, where her assignments included the law and motion department. Barbara A. Reeves is a partner with Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson, Los Angeles, California. Her areas of litigation expertise include intellectual property, securities, fraud, contract, international trade, antitrust, environmental coverage, and white-collar criminal defense. Charles Pereyra-Suarez is a partner in McKenna & Cuneo and heads the Litigation Department in the Los Angeles office. He also has served as a judge pro tem of the Los Angeles County Municipal and Superior Courts since 1986. This article was adapted from California Practice Handbook: Pretrial Disposition (Matthew Bender), Litigation Section, Los Angeles County Bar Associate, Handbook Editor; Hon. Patti S. Kitching, Barbara A. Reeves, Charles Pereyra-Suarez, Contributing Editors.

§ 212.298 Stipulation Extending Time Within Which Action Must Be Brought to Trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.330]

[1] FORM Stipulation Extending Time Within Which Action Must Be Brought to Trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.330]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	STIPULATION EXTENDING TIME WITHIN Defendant.	)	WHICH ACTION MUST BE BROUGHT TO TRI-)	AL
	)

It is hereby agreed and stipulated to by all of the parties to this action as follows:

1. This action shall be brought to trial on or before _____ [date].

2. The date specified above constitutes an extension of time within which this action must be brought to trial beyond that otherwise provided for under _____ [Code of Civil Procedure Section 583.310 or Code of Civil Procedure Section 583.320].

3. This action may not be dismissed under the provisions of _____ [Code of Civil Procedure Section 583.310 or Code of Civil Procedure Section 583.320] prior to the date specified in Paragraph 1.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]
_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Defendant _____ [name]

[CONTINUE with signature line for attorney for each defendant who has appeared in action]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use as a stipulation extending the time within which an action must be brought to trial beyond the five-year limitation of Code Civ. Proc. § 583.310 or the three-year limitation of Code Civ. Proc. § 583.320(a) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 583.330].

The form is set up with a caption for filing. Filing is not required, but if the stipulation is not filed, it must be brought to the court's attention when it is relevant to a motion for dismissal [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.330(a)].

A stipulation may also be made by oral agreement in open court, if entered in the minutes of the court or a transcript is made [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.330(b)].

[3] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 212.294 and 212.295.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 212 DISMISSAL
PART V. FORMS
B. Involuntary Dismissal For Delay In Prosecution

17-212 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 212.299

AUTHOR: HON. PATTI S. KITCHING BARBARA A. REEVES CHARLES PEREYRA-SUAREZ EDITORIAL CONSULTANTS Justice Kitching, an Associate Justice of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, Division Three, was formerly a Judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court, where her assignments included the law and motion department. Barbara A. Reeves is a partner with Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson, Los Angeles, California. Her areas of litigation expertise include intellectual property, securities, fraud, contract, international trade, antitrust, environmental coverage, and white-collar criminal defense. Charles Pereyra-Suarez is a partner in McKenna & Cuneo and heads the Litigation Department in the Los Angeles office. He also has served as a judge pro tem of the Los Angeles County Municipal and Superior Courts since 1986. This article was adapted from California Practice Handbook: Pretrial Disposition (Matthew Bender), Litigation Section, Los Angeles County Bar Associate, Handbook Editor; Hon. Patti S. Kitching, Barbara A. Reeves, Charles Pereyra-Suarez, Contributing Editors.

§ 212.299 Opposition [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1342(b)] to Motion for Discretionary Dismissal of Action by Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.410] for Failure to Complete Service, Bring Action to Trial, or Bring Action to New Trial Within Two Years [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.420(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1340]--Written Statement

[1] FORM Opposition [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1342(b)] to Motion for Discretionary Dismissal of Action by Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.410] for Failure to Complete Service, Bring Action to Trial, or Bring Action to New Trial Within Two Years [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.420(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1340]--Written Statement
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	OPPOSITION TO MOTION FOR DISMISSAL
Plaintiff,	)	Date: _____
vs.	)	Time: _____
_____ [name],	)	Location: _____
Defendant.	)	Judge: _____

) Date Action Filed: _____
) Trial Date: _____
)
_____

_____ [Plaintiff or Cross Complainant] hereby opposes _____ [defendant's or cross defendant's] motion to dismiss the above-entitled action on the ground that _____ [plaintiff or cross complainant] failed to _____ [specify, e.g., bring the case to trial or to conditional settlement within two years after it was commenced], and requests that the motion be denied, on the following ground(s):

[SET FORTH, in successively numbered paragraphs, each ground of opposition, e.g. :]

1. The two-year period has not expired for the following reasons:

a. The period from _____ [date] to _____ [date] must be excluded from calculation of the period because it was impossible to bring the action to trial during that period because there was no judge available to rule on _____ [plaintiff's or cross complainant's] necessary discovery motions in that the only judge of this court had died, the Governor did not appoint a successor until _____ [date], and the Chief Justice of California did not assign a judge from another court until _____ [date].

b. The period from _____ [date] to _____ [date] must be excluded from the period because it represents the period of the continuance granted to the _____ [defendant or cross defendant], despite the objection of _____ [plaintiff or cross complainant], who was then, andnow is, ready to proceed to trial, that the continuance would extend commencement of the trial until after expiration of the two-year period.

2. Any other delay by _____ [plaintiff or cross complainant] in bringing this action to trial is justified by the extensive periods of time consumed in responding to _____ [defendant's or cross defendant's] numerous unsuccessful pretrial motions, by extensive discovery proceedings, and by subsequent lengthy settlement negotiations.

[CONTINUE]

This statement of opposition is based on the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)] and the memorandum served and filed herewith and on the court's records and file herein.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [party's status and name]

[2] Use of Form

This form of written opposition is for use to oppose a motion for discretionary dismissal under Code Civ. Proc. §

583.410(a) for delay in prosecution made after the lapse of one of the time periods specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 583.420(a) [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.410(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1342(b); see § 212.194[3]]. The factors which may be significant in opposing a motion for discretionary dismissal are discussed in §§ 212.152, 212.153 above].

In addition, the applicable time period under Code Civ. Proc. § 583.420(a) may be extended by the same means as is the comparable mandatory time period, discussed in the Introduction, under Subparts C and D, above [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.420(b); see, e.g., § 212.125[4]].

[3] Service and Filing

This statement of opposition must be filed and a copy served within 15 days after service of the notice of motion to dismiss and should be accompanied by a memorandum and a supporting affidavit or declaration [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1342(b); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010.6(a)(6), 1013 (extensions of time)].

Failure to serve and file written opposition may be construed by the court as an admission that the motion is meritorious and permits the court to grant the motion without a hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1342(b); see Introduction, Subpart E, under--Burden of Proof, above]. For a description of the steps to be taken in making and opposing a motion on these grounds, see the Procedural Checklist, above.

[4] California Points and Authorities

For memoranda of points and authorities in opposition to a motion for dismissal for failure to bring an action to trial, see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 90, Dismissal

[5] California Rules of Court

Opposition to motion for discretionary dismissal. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1342(b)

[6] Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to the format of law and motion papers, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders , and Ch. 417, Points and Authorities

For a related form, see § 212.296

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 212 DISMISSAL
PART V. FORMS
B. Involuntary Dismissal For Delay In Prosecution

17-212 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 212.300

AUTHOR: HON. PATTI S. KITCHING BARBARA A. REEVES CHARLES PEREYRA-SUAREZ EDITORIAL CONSULTANTS Justice Kitching, an Associate Justice of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, Division Three, was formerly a Judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court, where her assignments included the law and motion department. Barbara A. Reeves is a partner with Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson, Los Angeles, California. Her areas of litigation expertise include intellectual property, securities, fraud, contract, international trade, antitrust, environmental coverage, and white-collar criminal defense. Charles Pereyra-Suarez is a partner in McKenna & Cuneo and heads the Litigation Department in the Los Angeles office. He also has served as a judge pro tem of the Los Angeles County Municipal and Superior Courts since 1986. This article was adapted from California Practice Handbook: Pretrial Disposition (Matthew Bender), Litigation Section, Los Angeles County Bar Associate, Handbook Editor; Hon. Patti S. Kitching, Barbara A. Reeves, Charles Pereyra-Suarez, Contributing Editors.

§ 212.300 Opposition to Motion for Dismissal of Action by Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.360(a), 583.410(a)] for Failure to Bring Action to Trial Within Five Years [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.310] or New Trial Within Three Years [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.320(a)], or for Discretionary Dismissal for Delay in Prosecution [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410(a), 583.420] Based on Estoppel and/or Extraordinary Court Congestion--Declaration

[1] FORM Opposition to Motion for Dismissal of Action by Defendant [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.360(a), 583.410(a)] for Failure to Bring Action to Trial Within Five Years [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.310] or New Trial Within Three Years [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.320(a)], or for Discretionary Dismissal for Delay in Prosecution [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410(a), 583.420] Based on Estoppel and/or Extraordinary Court Congestion--Declaration

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____	)
	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	DECLARATION OF _____ Plaintiff,	)	[name] IN OPPOSITION TO MOTION FOR DIS-
vs.	)	MISSAL

_____ [name],	)	Date: _____
Defendant.	)	Time: _____
	)	Location: _____
	)	Judge: _____
	)	Date Action Filed: _____
		Trial Date: _____

_____

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am an attorney at law duly licensed to practice in California and the attorney of record for _____ [name of opposing party] in the above-entitled action.

2. _____ [Specify background facts concerning the initial setting of the trial date and the deadline for bringing the case to trial, e.g., On March 12, 1995, I participated in a trial setting conference at which the case was set for trial on May 6, 1995, a date which was _____ (specify, e.g., three) days before expiration of the period within which the case was required to be brought to trial pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure Section 583.310].

[EITHER]

3. _____ [Establish basis for estoppel by describing facts which show (1) conduct by defendant (or cross defendant) including action which is comparable to a written stipulation (2) on which plaintiff (or cross complainant) reasonably relied and which (3) reasonably induced the plaintiff (or cross complainant) to believe that the defendant (or cross defendant) would not attempt to dismiss the action for lack of prosecution, e.g., On May 6, 1995, _____ (name), attorney of record for (defendant or cross defendant) _____ (name) appeared and requested a continuance of 10 days until May 16, 1995. Although I was prepared to go to trial, I acquiesced in the request of _____ (defendant's or cross defendant's) counsel. The minute order of the court for that date establishes the request of _____ (defendant's or cross defendant's) counsel and the new trial date of May 16, 1995].

[OR]

3. _____ [Specify facts which establish exceptional court congestion, e.g., On May 6, 1995, when defendant's counsel and I appeared for trial, we were informed that no trial courts were available. Again, on May 7, the case was trailed for lack of a judge or court room. On May 8, we were informed that no courtroom would be available until May 10 and defendant filed a notice of motion for dismissal. This delay in bringing the action to trial from May 6 to May 10 was exceptional in that in my seven years of practice in this court, I have never experienced the trailing of a case for more than one day].

[CONTINUE]

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

This form of declaration may be used in opposition to a motion to dismiss an action under Code Civ. Proc. § 583.360(a) or 583.410(a) for failure to bring the action to trial or new trial as required under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.310-583.430. A declaration may be used to oppose the motion in lieu of an affidavit [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5].

The theory of estoppel used as an example in the form is that plaintiff acted with diligence in attempting to bring the action to trial and succeeded in setting the case for trial before expiration of the statutory period. The continuance requested by the defendant and entered in the minute order estopped the defendant from requesting dismissal during that 10-day period [see Woley v. Turkus (1958) 51 Cal. 2d 402, 408-409, 334 P.2d 12 (prior law); for further discussion see § 212.129 above].

The example of court congestion used in the declaration is that exceptional, unanticipated court congestion tolls the running of the statutory period because it makes it impossible to go to trial [see Bennett v. Bennett Cement Contractors, Inc. (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 673, 677-678, 178 Cal. Rptr. 633 (prior law); for further discussion see § 212.125[4][c][i] above].

[3] State Statutes

Principles of waiver and estoppel as not abrogated or affected by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.110-583.430. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.140

Time during which it is impossible, impracticable, or futile to bring action to trial as excluded from computation of periods for bringing action to trial. Code Civ. Proc. § 583.340(c)

[4] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 212.294, 212.295, 30, and 50.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 212 DISMISSAL
PART V. FORMS
B. Involuntary Dismissal For Delay In Prosecution

17-212 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 212.301

AUTHOR: HON. PATTI S. KITCHING BARBARA A. REEVES CHARLES PEREYRA-SUAREZ EDITORIAL CONSULTANTS Justice Kitching, an Associate Justice of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, Division Three, was formerly a Judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court, where her assignments included the law and motion department. Barbara A. Reeves is a partner with Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson, Los Angeles, California. Her areas of litigation expertise include intellectual property, securities, fraud, contract, international trade, antitrust, environmental coverage, and white-collar criminal defense. Charles Pereyra-Suarez is a partner in McKenna & Cuneo and heads the Litigation Department in the Los Angeles office. He also has served as a judge pro tem of the Los Angeles County Municipal and Superior Courts since 1986. This article was adapted from California Practice Handbook: Pretrial Disposition (Matthew Bender), Litigation Section, Los Angeles County Bar Associate, Handbook Editor; Hon. Patti S. Kitching, Barbara A. Reeves, Charles Pereyra-Suarez, Contributing Editors.

§ 212.301 Order of Dismissal [Code Civ. Proc. § 581d]--General Form

[1] FORM Order of Dismissal [Code Civ. Proc. § 581d]--General Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	ORDER
Defendant.	)
	)
	)

The motion of _____ [defendant or (plaintiff and) cross defendant] _____ [name] to dismiss the above-entitled cause pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure Section(s) _____ [state statutory authority], on the ground that _____ [state ground, e.g., (plaintiff or cross complainant) failed to bring the action to trial within three years of its commencement against _____ (defendant or cross defendant)], came on regularly for hearing by the court on _____ [date]. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

Good cause for such dismissal having been shown,

IT IS ORDERED that this cause be, and hereby is, dismissed [with prejudice] and that defendant have and recover costs in the sum of $_____.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

This order is for use to dismiss an action and may be used when there has been a motion by a defendant or cross defendant for dismissal pursuant to some statutory authority. The form may be modified for use when the motion for dismissal was made by the plaintiff under Code Civ. Proc. § 581(d) or (e), by an interested party other than a defendant under Code Civ. Proc. § 583.250(a)(2), by the court under Code Civ. Proc. § 581(f), 583.250(a)(2), 583.360(a), or 583.410(a), or by the defendant on the basis of the court's inherent nonstatutory power to dismiss.

For forms of orders granting a motion for dismissal under particular statutes, see the following forms:

see § 212.303 (dismissal under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.210-583.250 for plaintiff's delay in service).

see § 212.304 (dismissal under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.310, 583.360 for plaintiff's delay in bringing action to trial).

see § 212.305 (dismissal under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.320, 583.360 for plaintiff's delay in bringing action to new trial).

see § 212.306 (discretionary dismissal under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410(a), 583.420(a) for plaintiff's delay in prosecution).

The submission and content of proposed orders such as that set forth in this form are often subject to local court rules, which should therefore be consulted [see, e.g., Orange Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 400]. Local courts may also provide a form of dismissal order itself [see § 212.302].

[3] Written Order as Judgment

Dismissals ordered by the court must be in the form of a written order signed by the court, which, when filed, constitutes a judgment effective for all purposes. The clerk of the trial court is required to note these judgments in the register of actions in the case [Code Civ. Proc. § 581d].

[4] Notice of Order

The prevailing party is generally required to serve notice of the order on all parties and file the original of the notice with proof of service [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1019.5]. For further discussion and forms of such notice and proof of service, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders , and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 212 DISMISSAL
PART V. FORMS
B. Involuntary Dismissal For Delay In Prosecution

17-212 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 212.302

AUTHOR: HON. PATTI S. KITCHING BARBARA A. REEVES CHARLES PEREYRA-SUAREZ EDITORIAL CONSULTANTS Justice Kitching, an Associate Justice of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, Division Three, was formerly a Judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court, where her assignments included the law and motion department. Barbara A. Reeves is a partner with Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson, Los Angeles, California. Her areas of litigation expertise include intellectual property, securities, fraud, contract, international trade, antitrust, environmental coverage, and white-collar criminal defense. Charles Pereyra-Suarez is a partner in McKenna & Cuneo and heads the Litigation Department in the Los Angeles office. He also has served as a judge pro tem of the Los Angeles County Municipal and Superior Courts since 1986. This article was adapted from California Practice Handbook: Pretrial Disposition (Matthew Bender), Litigation Section, Los Angeles County Bar Associate, Handbook Editor; Hon. Patti S. Kitching, Barbara A. Reeves, Charles Pereyra-Suarez, Contributing Editors.

§ 212.302 Order of Dismissal [Code Civ. Proc. § 581d]--Los Angeles County Superior Court Form

[1] FORM Order of Dismissal [Code Civ. Proc. § 581d]--Los Angeles County Superior Court Form

Click here to view image.

[2] Source of Form

This form is a reproduction of Form CIV 123 04-02 available at the office of the clerk of Los Angeles County Superior Court, or on the court's website at www.lasuperiorcourt.org.

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 212.301.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 212 DISMISSAL
PART V. FORMS
B. Involuntary Dismissal For Delay In Prosecution

17-212 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 212.303

AUTHOR: HON. PATTI S. KITCHING BARBARA A. REEVES CHARLES PEREYRA-SUAREZ EDITORIAL CONSULTANTS Justice Kitching, an Associate Justice of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, Division Three, was formerly a Judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court, where her assignments included the law and motion department. Barbara A. Reeves is a partner with Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson, Los Angeles, California. Her areas of litigation expertise include intellectual property, securities, fraud, contract, international trade, antitrust, environmental coverage, and white-collar criminal defense. Charles Pereyra-Suarez is a partner in McKenna & Cuneo and heads the Litigation Department in the Los Angeles office. He also has served as a judge pro tem of the Los Angeles County Municipal and Superior Courts since 1986. This article was adapted from California Practice Handbook: Pretrial Disposition (Matthew Bender), Litigation Section, Los Angeles County Bar Associate, Handbook Editor; Hon. Patti S. Kitching, Barbara A. Reeves, Charles Pereyra-Suarez, Contributing Editors.

§ 212.303 Order of Dismissal [Code Civ. Proc. § 581d]--Mandatory Dismissal for Failure to Complete Service of Complaint or Cross Complaint Within Three Years and 60 Days [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.210, 583.250(a)(2)]

[1] FORM Order of Dismissal [Code Civ. Proc. § 581d]--Mandatory Dismissal for Failure to Complete Service of Complaint or Cross Complaint Within Three Years and 60 Days [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.210, 583.250(a)(2)]
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	ORDER
Defendant.	)
	)
	)

The motion of _____ [defendant or cross defendant] _____ [name] to dismiss the above-entitled action pursuant to Sections 583.210, 583.250(a)(2) of the Code of Civil Procedure on the ground that _____ [specify ground stated in motion, e.g., the summons and complaint were not served within three years after the commencement of the action] came on regularly for hearing by the court on _____ [date]. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

Good cause for such dismissal having been shown,

IT IS ORDERED that this cause be, and hereby is, dismissed [with prejudice] and that defendant have and recover costs in the sum of $_____.
Dated: _____

_____ [signature]
Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing order is for use to dismiss an action commenced by complaint or cross complaint on the ground that the summons and complaint was not served within three years after commencement of the action [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.210(a), 583.250(a)(2)].

The form may be modified for use to dismiss an action on the alternative or additional ground that proof of service of the summons was not filed within 60 days after the three-year period for serving the summons and complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.210(b), 583.250(a)(2)]. It may also be modified for use when the motion for dismissal was made by an interested party other than a defendant or cross defendant [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.250(a)(2)]. For a form of order dismissing an action under the court's discretionary power to dismiss for unreasonable delay in prosecution under the circumstances, as reflected, in part, by a failure to complete service within two years [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410(a), 583.420(a)(1)], see § 212.306.

[3] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 212.293 and 212.301.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 212 DISMISSAL
PART V. FORMS
B. Involuntary Dismissal For Delay In Prosecution

17-212 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 212.304

AUTHOR: HON. PATTI S. KITCHING BARBARA A. REEVES CHARLES PEREYRA-SUAREZ EDITORIAL CONSULTANTS Justice Kitching, an Associate Justice of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, Division Three, was formerly a Judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court, where her assignments included the law and motion department. Barbara A. Reeves is a partner with Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson, Los Angeles, California. Her areas of litigation expertise include intellectual property, securities, fraud, contract, international trade, antitrust, environmental coverage, and white-collar criminal defense. Charles Pereyra-Suarez is a partner in McKenna & Cuneo and heads the Litigation Department in the Los Angeles office. He also has served as a judge pro tem of the Los Angeles County Municipal and Superior Courts since 1986. This article was adapted from California Practice Handbook: Pretrial Disposition (Matthew Bender), Litigation Section, Los Angeles County Bar Associate, Handbook Editor; Hon. Patti S. Kitching, Barbara A. Reeves, Charles Pereyra-Suarez, Contributing Editors.

§ 212.304 Order of Dismissal [Code Civ. Proc. § 581d]--Failure to Bring Action to Trial Within Five Years [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.310, 583.360(a)]

[1] FORM Order of Dismissal [Code Civ. Proc. § 581d]--Failure to Bring Action to Trial Within Five Years [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.310, 583.360(a)]
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	ORDER
Defendant.	)
	)
	)

The motion of _____ [defendant or cross defendant] _____ [name] for an order dismissing the above-entitled action for failure to bring it to trial within five years after it was commenced came on regularly for hearing by the court this date. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

On proof made to the satisfaction of the court that the motion ought to be granted,

IT IS ADJUDGED, ORDERED, AND DECREED that the motion be, and hereby is, granted and that the action be, and hereby is, dismissed and that defendant recover from plaintiff costs in the sum of $_____.
Dated: _____

_____ [signature]
Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

This form of order is for use to dismiss an action commenced by complaint or cross complaint on the ground of a delay in bringing the action to trial which required dismissal under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.310, 583.360(a). For a form of order dismissing an action under the court's discretionary power to dismiss for unreasonable delay in prosecution under the circumstances, as reflected, in part, by a failure to bring the action to trial within three years [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410(a), 583.420(a)(2)], see § 212.305.

[3] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 212.294, 212.295, and 60.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 212 DISMISSAL
PART V. FORMS
B. Involuntary Dismissal For Delay In Prosecution

17-212 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 212.305

AUTHOR: HON. PATTI S. KITCHING BARBARA A. REEVES CHARLES PEREYRA-SUAREZ EDITORIAL CONSULTANTS Justice Kitching, an Associate Justice of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, Division Three, was formerly a Judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court, where her assignments included the law and motion department. Barbara A. Reeves is a partner with Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson, Los Angeles, California. Her areas of litigation expertise include intellectual property, securities, fraud, contract, international trade, antitrust, environmental coverage, and white-collar criminal defense. Charles Pereyra-Suarez is a partner in McKenna & Cuneo and heads the Litigation Department in the Los Angeles office. He also has served as a judge pro tem of the Los Angeles County Municipal and Superior Courts since 1986. This article was adapted from California Practice Handbook: Pretrial Disposition (Matthew Bender), Litigation Section, Los Angeles County Bar Associate, Handbook Editor; Hon. Patti S. Kitching, Barbara A. Reeves, Charles Pereyra-Suarez, Contributing Editors.

§ 212.305 Order of Dismissal [Code Civ. Proc. § 581d]--Failure to Bring Action Again to Trial Within Three Years [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.320(a), 583.360(a)]

[1] FORM Order of Dismissal [Code Civ. Proc. § 581d]--Failure to Bring Action Again to Trial Within Three Years [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.320(a), 583.360(a)]
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	ORDER
Defendant.	)
	)
	)

The motion of _____ [defendant or cross defendant] _____ [name] for an order dismissing the above-entitled action for failure to bring it again to trial within three years after the _____ [filing of the remittitur by the clerk of the trial court or entry of _____ (the order declaring a mistrial or the disagreement of the jury or the order granting a new trial)] came on regularly for hearing by the court this date. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

On proof made to the satisfaction of the court that the motion ought to be granted,

IT IS ADJUDGED, ORDERED, AND DECREED that the motion be, and hereby is, granted and that the action be, and hereby is, dismissed and that defendant recover from plaintiff costs in the sum of $_____.
Dated: _____

_____ [signature]
Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

This form of order is for use to dismiss an action commenced by complaint or cross complaint on the ground of a delay in bringing the action again to trial which required dismissal under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.320(a), 583.360(a). For a form of order dismissing an action under the court's discretionary power to dismiss for unreasonable delay in prosecution under the circumstances, as reflected, in part, by a failure to bring the action again to trial within two years [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410(a), 583.420(a)(3)], see § 212.306.

[3] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 212.294, 212.295, and 60.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 212 DISMISSAL
PART V. FORMS
B. Involuntary Dismissal For Delay In Prosecution

17-212 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 212.306

AUTHOR: HON. PATTI S. KITCHING BARBARA A. REEVES CHARLES PEREYRA-SUAREZ EDITORIAL CONSULTANTS Justice Kitching, an Associate Justice of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, Division Three, was formerly a Judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court, where her assignments included the law and motion department. Barbara A. Reeves is a partner with Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson, Los Angeles, California. Her areas of litigation expertise include intellectual property, securities, fraud, contract, international trade, antitrust, environmental coverage, and white-collar criminal defense. Charles Pereyra-Suarez is a partner in McKenna & Cuneo and heads the Litigation Department in the Los Angeles office. He also has served as a judge pro tem of the Los Angeles County Municipal and Superior Courts since 1986. This article was adapted from California Practice Handbook: Pretrial Disposition (Matthew Bender), Litigation Section, Los Angeles County Bar Associate, Handbook Editor; Hon. Patti S. Kitching, Barbara A. Reeves, Charles Pereyra-Suarez, Contributing Editors.

§ 212.306 Order of Dismissal [Code Civ. Proc. § 581d]--For Unreasonable Delay in Prosecution [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410(a), 583.420(a)]

[1] FORM Order of Dismissal [Code Civ. Proc. § 581d]--For Unreasonable Delay in Prosecution [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410(a), 583.420(a)]
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	ORDER
Defendant.	)
	)
	)

The motion of _____ [defendant or cross defendant] _____ [name] for an order dismissing the above-entitled action for failure to exercise reasonable diligence in prosecuting the above-entitled action and _____ [specify elapse of minimum period of delay, as applicable, under Code Civ. Proc. § 583.420(a)(1), (2), or (3), e.g., for failure to make service within two years after the action was commenced against the _____ (defendant or cross defendant)] came on regularly for hearing by the court this date. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

On proof made to the satisfaction of the court that the motion ought to be granted,

IT IS ORDERED that the motion be, and hereby is, granted and that the action be, and hereby is, dismissed and that defendant recover from plaintiff costs in the sum of $_____.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

This form of order is for use to dismiss an action commenced by complaint or cross complaint under the court's discretionary power to dismiss for unreasonable delay in prosecution under the circumstances [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.410(a)]. The court's discretionary power to dismiss arises only after a two-year delay in completing service, a two-year delay in bringing the action to trial, or a two-year delay in bringing the action again to trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.420(a)].

[3] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 212.296 and 212.301.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 213.syn

§ 213.syn Synopsis to Chapter 213: DOCUMENTS OF TITLE

§ 213.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 213.02 Cross References

§§ 213.03-213.09 [Reserved]

§ 213.10 Governing Statutes

§ 213.11 Definitions

§ 213.12 Documents of Title

[1] Defined

[2] Bills of Lading

[3] Dock Warrants and Receipts

[4] Gin Tickets and Compress Receipts

[5] Warehouse Receipts

§§ 213.13-213.29 [Reserved]

§ 213.30 Negotiable and Nonnegotiable Documents of Title

§ 213.31 Electronic and Tangible Documents

[1] Tangible Document Superseded by Electronic Document

[2] Electronic Document Superseded by Tangible Document

[3] Control of Electronic Document

§ 213.32 Negotiation

[1] Indorsement and Delivery

[a] Tangible Document

[b] Electronic Document

[c] Indorsement of Nonnegotiable Document

[2] When Document Is "Duly Negotiated"

[3] Effect of Due Negotiation

§ 213.33 Duly Negotiated Document of Title Not Defeated by Stoppage, Breach of Duty, or Tortious Deprivation of Possession

§ 213.34 Document of Title Defeated by Person With Prior Interest in Goods

§ 213.35 Transfer Without Due Negotiation

[1] Effect

[2] Transfer of Nonnegotiable Documents of Title

§ 213.36 Nonnegotiable Document of Title Defeated by Diversion

§ 213.37 Delivery Under Documents of Title

[1] General Obligation

[2] Good Faith Delivery

[3] Excuses for Nondelivery

[4] Excuse Because of Conflicting Claims

§§ 213.38-213.49 [Reserved]

§ 213.50 Form of Warehouse Receipt

[1] Essential Terms

[2] Terms Limiting Liability for Loss or Damage

[3] Terms Specifying Claims Procedures

[4] Liability for Nonreceipt or Misdescription

§ 213.51 Duty of Care

213.52 Warehouse's Lien

[1] Defined

[2] Security Interest

[3] Person Against Whom Lien Is Effective

[4] Loss of Lien

§ 213.53 Enforcement of Lien

[1] Against Merchants

[2] Against Persons Other Than Merchants

[3] Satisfaction of Lien Prior to Sale

§ 213.54 Failure to Comply With Enforcement Provisions

§§ 213.55-213.69 [Reserved]

§ 213.70 Carriers as "Public Utilities"

§ 213.71 Form of Bills of Lading

[1] Essential Terms

[2] Terms Specifying Claims Procedures

[3] Terms Limiting Liability for Loss and Damage

[4] Liability for Misdating, Nonreceipt, or Misdescription

[5] Immunity From Liability for Nondelivery in Case of Diversion or Change of Instructions

§ 213.72 Duty of Care

§ 213.73 Carrier's Lien

[1] Defined

[2] Persons Against Whom the Lien Is Effective

[3] Loss of the Lien

§ 213.74 Enforcement of Lien

§ 213.75 Failure to Comply With Enforcement Provisions

§§ 213.76-213.89 [Reserved]

§ 213.90 State Statutes

[1] Duty to Deliver

[2] Liability for Nondelivery

[3] Negotiable Documents of Title

[4] Negotiation and Delivery

§ 213.91 Decisions

[1] Duty to Deliver

[2] Negotiation and Delivery

§§ 213.92-213.109 [Reserved]

§ 213.110 State Statutes

[1] Duty of Care

[2] Liability for Omission of Essential Terms

[3] Warehouse's Lien

[4] Warehouse Receipts

§ 213.111 Decisions

[1] Warehouse and Warehouse Receipts

[2] Duty of Care

[3] Terms of Warehouse Receipts

[4] Warehouse's Lien

§§ 213.112-213.129 [Reserved]

§ 213.130 Related Matthew Bender Publications

§ 213.131 State Constitution

§ 213.132 State Statutes

§ 213.133 Decisions

§§ 213.134-213.149 [Reserved]

§ 213.150 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Failure to Deliver Goods Covered by Document of Title [Com. Code § 7403]--By Person Entitled Under Document

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Verification

[5] Jurisdiction

[6] Venue

[7] State Statutes

[8] Decisions

[9] Cross References

§ 213.151 Affirmative Defense--Statutory Excuse for Nondelivery [Com. Code § 7403(a)]--Goods Damaged or Destroyed by Fire Not Caused by Negligence of Carrier or Warehouse [Com. Code § 7403(a)(2)]--By Carrier or Warehouse

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Alternative Procedures

[4] State Statutes

[5] Cross References

§ 213.152 Complaint in Interpleader [Code Civ. Proc. § 386]--Conflicting Claims to Goods in Possession of Carrier or Warehouse [Com. Code § 7603]--By Carrier or Warehouse

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] State Statutues

[5] Cross References

§§ 213.153-213.169 [Reserved]

§ 213.170 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300]--For Omission of Essential Term From Warehouse Receipt

[Com. Code § 7202]--By Person Entitled to Goods Under Warehouse Receipt

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Essential Terms

[5] Optional Terms

[6] State Statutes

[7] Cross References

§ 213.171 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300]--For Damages Caused by Misdescription of Goods [Com. Code § 7203]--By Person Entitled to Goods Under Warehouse Receipt

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] State Statutes

[5] Cross References

§ 213.172 Proceedings to Enforce Warehouse's or Carrier's Lien--Notice to Persons Known to Claim Interest in Goods of Proposed Sale of Goods--Lien on Goods Stored by Merchant or Other Person [Com. Code §§ 7210(a), (b), 7308(a), (g)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Contents of Notice

[a] Warehouse's Lien on Goods Stored by Merchant

[b] Warehouse's Lien on Goods Other Than Goods Stored by Merchant

[c] Carrier's Lien

[4] State Statutes

[5] Decisions

[6] Cross References

§ 213.173 Proceedings to Enforce Warehouse's Lien--Advertisement of Sale for Publication or Posting--Lien on Goods Not Stored by Merchant [Com. Code §§ 7210(b)(5), 7308(g)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Publication Requirement

[4] Contents of Advertisement

[5] Cross References

§ 213.174 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code §§ 3333, 3336]--For Willful or Negligent Failure to Comply With Requirements of Notice and Sale [Com. Code §§ 7210(i), 7308(h)]--By Owner of Goods Against Carrier or Warehouse

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] State Statutes

[5] Decisions

[6] Cross References

§§ 213.175-213.189 [Reserved]

§ 213.190 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333]--Breach of Duty by Carrier or Warehouse Resulting in Loss or Damage to Goods [Com. Code §§ 7204, 7309]--By Person Entitled to Goods Under Bill of Lading or Warehouse Receipt

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Duty of Care

[5] State Statutes

[6] Decisions

[7] Cross References

§ 213.191 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Failure to Follow Claims Procedures [Com. Code §§ 7204(c), 7309(c)]--By Carrier or Warehouse

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Decisions

[5] Cross References

§ 213.192 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Limitation of Liability [Com. Code §§ 7204(b), 7309(b)]--By Carrier or Warehouse

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Decisions

[5] Cross References

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART I. SCOPE

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.01

§ 213.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses the parties' rights and liabilities under negotiable and nonnegotiable documents of title. It includes forms for a complaint [see § 213.150] and an affirmative defense [see § 213.151] for use in an action for failure to deliver goods. This chapter also includes a complaint [see § 213.152] for an action in interpleader when there are conflicting claims to goods in a carrier's or warehouse's possession.

This chapter discusses terms in warehouse receipts, the warehouse's duty of care for the goods in its possession, and liens of warehouses. It includes forms for complaints [see §§ 213.170, 213.171] for use when a warehouse fails to include essential terms in the warehouse receipt. It also includes forms for notice [see § 213.172] and advertisement [see § 213.173] of sale to satisfy the warehouse's lien. In addition, there is a form for a complaint [see § 213.174] for use in an action for damages when the warehouse has not complied with the statutory requirements for enforcing its lien.

This chapter also discusses bills of lading, the carrier's duty of care with respect to the goods covered by them, and the carrier's lien on the goods for charges based on transportation and storage. It includes forms for a complaint [see § 213.190] and an affirmative defenses [see §§ 213.191, 213.192] for use in an action for breach of the duty of care.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Definitions & InterpretationDocument of TitleCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Bills of LadingCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Warehouse ReceiptsLiens

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART I. SCOPE

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.02

§ 213.02 Cross References

For a discussion and forms for use in actions and cross actions in interpleader generally, see Ch. 314, Interpleader .

For discussion and forms for use in bailment of personal property, see Ch. 93, Bailments .

For discussion and forms for use in actions for conversion of personal property, see Ch. 150, Conversion .

For discussion of general provisions of the Civil Code which regulate liens, and for forms for use in enforcing miscellaneous liens, see Ch. 342, Liens and Wage Preferences .

For discussion and forms for damages for personal injury based on negligence on business premises generally, see Ch. 421, Premises Liability .

For discussion of litigation arising out of transactions secured by personal property, see Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions .

For discussion and forms relating to agreements for rental or lease of space in self-service storage facilities, and attachment and enforcement ofliens on personal property stored at self-service storage facilities, see Ch. 517, Self-Service Storage Facilities .

For discussion and forms for use in bailment of personal property, see Ch. 93, Bailments .

For discussion of intrastate inland carriage of freight, and forms for use against carriers for nondelivery, delayed delivery, and loss or injury to freight, see Ch. 109, Carriers .

For discussion and forms for use in action for conversion of personal property, see Ch. 150, Conversion .

For discussion of general provisions of the Civil Code which regulate liens, and for forms for use in enforcing various miscellaneous liens, see Ch. 342, Liens and Wage Preferences .

For discussion of litigation arising out of transactions secured by personal property, see Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePartiesInterpleadersGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)General OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsBailmentsTortsIntentional TortsConversionGeneral OverviewTransportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesBills of Lading

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART I. SCOPE

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 213.03-213.09

[Reserved]

§§ 213.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. In General

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.10

§ 213.10 Governing Statutes

Documents of title are governed by Division 7 of the Uniform Commercial Code, as enacted in the California Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 7101 et seq.]. Division 7 is subject to any treaty or statute of the United States or any California regulatory statute to the extent that the treaty, federal statute, or regulatory statute is applicable [Com. Code § 7103(a)].

Division 7 does not modify or repeal any law prescribing the form or content of a document of title or the services or facilities to be afforded by a bailee, or otherwise regulating a bailee's business in respects not specifically treated in Division 7. However, violation of such a law does not affect the status of a document of title that otherwise is within the definition of a document of title [Com. Code § 7103(b)].

Division 7 modifies, limits, and supersedes the Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act [15 U.S.C. § 7001 et seq.] (the E-SIGN Commerce Act) but does not modify, limit, or supersede 15 U.S.C. § 7001(c) or authorize electronic delivery of any of the notices described in 15 U.S.C. § 7003(b) [Com. Code § 7103(c)].

Division 7 governs to the extent that there is a conflict between the Uniform Electronic Transactions Act [Civ. Code § 1633.1 et seq.] and Division 7 [Com. Code § 7103(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)General OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Application & ConstructionComputer & Internet LawInternet BusinessContractsDigital Signatures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. In General

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.11

§ 213.11 Definitions

A "bailee" under Division 7 is a person who, by a document of title, acknowledges possession of goods and contracts to deliver them [Com. Code § 7102(a)(1)]. However, actual possession of the goods is not required. If a bailee acknowledges possession when he or she does not have it, the bailee is bound by the obligations of Division 7 [UCC Comment 1 to Com. Code § 7102].

A "bearer" is the person in possession of a document of title [Com. Code § 1201(b)(5)].

A "carrier" is a person that issues a bill of lading [Com. Code § 7102(a)(2)].

A "consignee" is the person named in a bill of lading to whom or to whose order the document promises delivery [Com. Code § 7102(a)(3)].

A "consignor" is the person named in a bill of lading as the person from whom goods have been received for shipment [Com. Code § 7102(a)(4)].

A "delivery order" is a record that contains an order to deliver goods directed to a warehouse, carrier, or other person that in the ordinary course of business issues warehouse receipts or bills of lading [Com. Code § 7102(a)(5)]. "Delivery" with respect to documents of title means voluntary transfer of possession of the document [Com. Code § 1201(b)(15)].

"Good faith" means honesty in fact and the observance of reasonable commercial standards of fair dealing [Com. Code § 7102(a)(6)].

The "holder" with respect to a document of title means the person in possession if the goods are deliverable to bearer or to the order of the person in possession [Com. Code § 1201(b)(21)]. The "holder" with respect to a negotiable instrument means the person in possession if the instrument is payable to bearer, or, in the case of an instrument payable to an identified person, if the identified person is in possession [Com. Code § 1201(b)(21)].

An "issuer" is a bailee that issues a document of title or, in the case of an unaccepted delivery order, the person that orders the possessor of goods to deliver. The term includes a person for whom an agent or employee purports to act in issuing a document if the agent or employee has real or apparent authority to issue documents, even if the issuer did not receive any goods, the goods were misdescribed, or in any other respect the agent or employee violated the issuer's instructions [Com. Code § 7102(a)(8)].

A "person entitled under the document" is the holder, in the case of a negotiable document of title, or the person to whom delivery of the goods is to be made by the terms of, or pursuant to instructions in a record under, a nonnegotiable document of title [Com. Code § 7102(a)(9)].

"Receipt" of goods means taking physical possession of them [Com. Code §§ 2103(1)(c), 7102(b)(3)].

A "record" is information that is inscribed on a tangible medium or that is stored in an electronic or other medium and is retrievable in perceivable form [Com. Code § 7102(a)(10)].

To "sign" means to do one of the following, with present intent to authenticate or adopt a record [Com. Code § 7102(a)(11)]:

- Execute or adopt a tangible symbol.
- Attach to or logically associate with the record an electronic sound, symbol, or process.

A "shipper" is a person that enters into a contract of transportation with a carrier [Com. Code § 7102(a)(12)].

A "warehouse" is a person engaged in the business of storing goods for hire [Com. Code § 7102(a)(13)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Definitions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. In General

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.12

§ 213.12 Documents of Title

[1] Defined

Documents of title include bills of lading, dock warrants, dock receipts, warehouse receipts, gin tickets, compress receipts, and any other document which in the regular course of business or financing is treated as adequately evidencing that the person entitled under the document has the right to receive, hold and dispose of the document and the goods it covers. Documents of title must purport to be issued by a bailee and to cover goods in the bailee's possession which are either identified or are fungible portions of an identified mass [Com. Code § 1201(b)(16); Chartered Bank of London v. Chrysler Corp. (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 755, 761, 171 Cal. Rptr. 748] .

[2] Bills of Lading

A bill of lading is a document evidencing the receipt of goods for shipment issued by a person engaged in the business of transporting or forwarding goods and which, by its terms, evidences the intention of the issuer that the person entitled under the document has the right to receive, hold, and dispose of the document and the goods it covers. Designation of the document by the issuer as a "bill of lading" is conclusive evidence of that intention. "Bill of lading" includes an airbill. "Airbill" means a document serving for air transportation as a bill of lading does for marine or rail transportation; the term includes an air consignment note or air waybill [Com. Code § 1201(b)(6)].

[3] Dock Warrants and Receipts

A dock warrant or receipt is a kind of interim certificate issued by steamship companies on delivery of the goods at the dock, entitling a designated person to have a bill of lading issued to him or her at the company's office [UCC Comment 15 to Com. Code § 1201].

[4] Gin Tickets and Compress Receipts

A gin ticket and compress receipt are issued by a bailee (the cotton gin or compress, as the case may be) and purport to cover cotton in the bailee's possession. The person in possession of such documents is entitled to receive, hold and dispose of the documents and the goods represented [UCC Comment 15 to Com. Code § 1201].

[5] Warehouse Receipts

A "warehouse receipt" is a document evidencing the receipt of goods for storage issued by a warehouse [Com. Code § 7102], which by its terms evidences the intention of the issuer that the person entitled under the document [Com. Code § 7102(a)(9)] has the right to receive, hold, and dispose of the document and the goods it covers. Designation of a document by the issuer as a "warehouse receipt" is conclusive evidence of such an intention [Com. Code § 1201(b)(42); Chartered Bank of London v. Chrysler Corp. (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 755, 761, 171 Cal. Rptr. 748] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Definitions & InterpretationDocument of TitleCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)General OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Bills of LadingCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Warehouse ReceiptsGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsBailments

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. In General

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 213.13-213.29

[Reserved]

§§ 213.13[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Rights and Obligations Created by Documents of Title

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.30

§ 213.30 Negotiable and Nonnegotiable Documents of Title

A document of title is negotiable if:

- By its terms, the goods covered by it are to be delivered to the bearer or to the order of a named person [Com. Code § 7104(a)]; and

- When it was issued, it did not have a conspicuous legend, however expressed, that it is nonnegotiable [Com. Code § 7104(c)].

Any other document is nonnegotiable [Com. Code § 7104(b)].

A document of title is negotiable only if it satisfies the requirements of Com. Code § 7104 as stated above. Even the endorsement and return of a nonnegotiable document will not render it negotiable. A document is nonnegotiable only if written instructions providing for delivery to order or bearer are given by a named person [Com. Code § 7104, Official UCC Comment].

A negotiable document more nearly represents the goods, and a bailee may not deliver the goods without receiving the document [Com. Code § 7104, Cal. Code Comment 1; see Com. Code § 7403(c); § 213.37].

Further, the holder of a negotiable document may acquire more rights than the transferor had [Com. Code § 7104, Official UCC Comment]. For a discussion of the rights acquired by the holder of a negotiable document, see § 213.32[3].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Negotiation & Transfer

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Rights and Obligations Created by Documents of Title

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.31

§ 213.31 Electronic and Tangible Documents

[1] Tangible Document Superseded by Electronic Document

On request of a person entitled under a tangible document of title, the issuer of the tangible document may issue an electronic document of title as a substitute for the tangible document if [Com. Code § 7105(c)]:

- The person entitled under the tangible document surrenders possession of the document to the issuer; and

- The electronic document when issued contains a statement that it is issued in substitution for the tangible document.

On issuance of an electronic document of title in substitution for a tangible document of title as described above, the following occur [Com. Code § 7105(d)]:

- The tangible document ceases to have any effect or validity; and

- The person that procured issuance of the electronic document warrants to all subsequent persons entitled under the electronic document that the warrantor was a person entitled under the tangible document when the warrantor surrendered possession of the tangible document to the issuer.

[2] Electronic Document Superseded by Tangible Document

On request of a person entitled under an electronic document of title, the issuer of the electronic document may issue a tangible document of title as a substitute for the electronic document if [Com. Code § 7105(a)]:

- The person entitled under the electronic document surrenders control of the document to the issuer; and

- The tangible document when issued contains a statement that it is issued in substitution for the electronic document.

On issuance of a tangible document of title in substitution for an electronic document of title as described above, the following occur [Com. Code § 7105(b)]:

- The electronic document ceases to have any effect or validity; and

- The person that procured issuance of the tangible document warrants to all subsequent persons entitled under the tangible document that the warrantor was a person entitled under the electronic document when the warrantor surrendered control of the electronic document to the issuer.

[3] Control of Electronic Document

A person has control of an electronic document of title if a system employed for evidencing the transfer of interests in the electronic document reliably establishes that person as the person to whom the electronic document was issued or transferred [Com. Code § 7106(a)]. A system meets that requirement, and a person is deemed to have control of an electronic document of title, if the document is created, stored, and assigned in such a manner that all of the following conditions are satisfied [Com. Code § 7106(b)]:

- A single authoritative copy of the document exists which is unique and identifiable.

- The authoritative copy identifies the person asserting control as either the person to whom the document was issued or, if the authoritative copy indicates that the document has been transferred, the person to whom the document was most recently transferred.

- The authoritative copy is communicated to and maintained by the person asserting control or that person's designated custodian.

- The authoritative copy is unalterable, except as otherwise allowed by the conditions stated below.

- Copies or amendments that add or change an identified assignee of the authoritative copy can be made only with the consent of the person asserting control.

- Each copy of the authoritative copy and any copy of a copy is readily identifiable as a copy that is not the authoritative copy.

- Any amendment of the authoritative copy is readily identifiable as authorized or unauthorized.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Application & ConstructionComputer & Internet LawInternet BusinessContractsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Rights and Obligations Created by Documents of Title

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.32

§ 213.32 Negotiation

[1] Indorsement and Delivery

[a] Tangible Document

A negotiable tangible document of title running to the order of a named person is negotiated by that person's indorsement and delivery. If the document is indorsed in blank or to the bearer, any person can negotiate it by delivery alone [Com. Code § 7501(a)(1)]. The indorsed document can be negotiated by any holder no matter how he or she acquired possession of it [Com. Code § 7501, Official UCC Comment 2].

If, by its original terms, a document of title runs to its bearer, it is negotiated by delivery alone [Com. Code § 7501(a)(2)]. If the document is delivered to the named person to whom it runs, the effect is the same as if it had been negotiated. [Com. Code § 7501(a)(3)]. For example, a negotiation results if the bailor delivers the document to a banker or buyer to whose order the document has been taken [Com. Code § 7501, Official UCC Comment 3]. When a document has been indorsed to a specified person, negotiation requires both the indorsement of the special indorsee and delivery [Com. Code § 7501(a)(4)].

[b] Electronic Document

In the case of an electronic document of title, if the document's original terms run to the order of a named person or to bearer, the document is negotiated by delivery of the document to another person. Indorsement by the named person is not required to negotiate the document. If the document's original terms run to the order of a named person and the named person has control of the document [see Com. Code § 7106], the effect is the same as if the document had been negotiated [Com. Code § 7501(b)].

[c] Indorsement of Nonnegotiable Document

Indorsement of a nonnegotiable document has no effect [Com. Code § 7501(c)]. A nonnegotiable document of title cannot be negotiated, and its indorsement gives the transferee no additional rights [Com. Code § 7501, Cal. Code

Comment 5]. For discussion of the transfer of nonnegotiable documents, see § 213.35[2].

[2] When Document Is "Duly Negotiated"

A negotiable document of title is "duly negotiated" when it is negotiated in the manner stated in Com. Code § 7501 [see [1], above] to a holder who purchases it in good faith, without notice of any defense against or claim to it on the part of any person, and for value, unless it is established that the negotiation is not in the regular course of business or financing or involves receiving the document in settlement or payment of a monetary obligation [Com. Code § 7501(a)(5),(b)(3)].

[3] Effect of Due Negotiation

Subject to Com. Code § 7503 [see § 213.34] and to the provisions of Com. Code § 7205 dealing with fungible goods, when a negotiable document of title has been duly negotiated to the holder, he or she acquires title to the document, title to the goods, and all rights accruing under the law of agency or estoppel, including rights to goods delivered to the bailee after the document was issued [Com. Code § 7502(a)(1)-(3)]. This means that the holder to whom a document has been negotiated acquires such title to the goods covered as the person negotiating the document had or had the ability to convey, and also such title to the goods as the person to whose order the goods were to be delivered had or had the ability to convey [Com. Code § 7502, Cal. Code Comment 1].

The holder also acquires the direct obligation of the issuer to hold or deliver the goods according to the terms of the document free of any defense or claim except those arising under the terms of the document or under Division 7, but in the case of a delivery order [see Com. Code § 7102(a)(5) (definition); § 213.11)], the bailee's obligation accrues only on the bailee's acceptance of the delivery order, and the obligation acquired by the holder is that the issuer and any indorser will procure the acceptance of the bailee [Com. Code § 7502(a)(4)]. In other words, the bailee is obliged to hold possession of the goods for the person to whom the document was negotiated as fully as if the bailee had contracted directly with him or her [Com. Code § 7502, Cal. Code Comment 1]. For discussion of the bailee's obligation to deliver under documents of title, see § 213.37.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Application & ConstructionCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Negotiation & TransferComputer & Internet LawInternet BusinessContractsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Rights and Obligations Created by Documents of Title

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.33

§ 213.33 Duly Negotiated Document of Title Not Defeated by Stoppage, Breach of Duty, or Tortious Deprivation of Possession

Subject to Com. Code § 7503 [see § 213.34], title and rights acquired by due negotiation are not defeated by any stoppage of the goods represented by the document, or by surrender of the goods by the bailee. They also are not impaired even if [Com. Code § 7502(b); see § 213.34]:

- The negotiation or any prior negotiation constituted a breach of duty;

- Any person has been deprived of possession of a negotiable tangible document or control of a negotiable electronic document by misrepresentation, fraud, accident, mistake, duress, loss, theft or conversion; or

- A previous sale or other transfer of the goods or document has been made to a third person.

In other words, negotiation is not impaired by a breach of duty by the person negotiating the document or by the fact that the true owner of the document was wrongfully deprived of its possession, as long as the person to whom the document is negotiated is a good faith purchaser for value [Com. Code § 7502, Cal. Code Comment 2].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Title, Creditors & Good Faith PurchasersGood Faith Purchases & TitleCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Negotiation & TransferContracts LawTypes of ContractsBona Fide Purchasers

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Rights and Obligations Created by Documents of Title

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.34

§ 213.34 Document of Title Defeated by Person With Prior Interest in Goods

A document of title confers no right in goods against a person who, before issuance of the document, had a legal interest or a perfected security interest in the goods, if that person did not acquiesce in the procurement of any document by the bailor or the bailor's nominee [Com. Code § 7503(a)(2)], or if that person did not deliver or entrust the goods or any document of title covering the goods to the bailor or the bailor's nominee with actual or apparent authority to ship, store, or sell, or with power to obtain delivery under Com. Code § 7403 [see § 213.37], or with power of disposition under any statute or rule of law [Com. Code § 7503(a)(1); see generally Com. Code § 7503(a)(1)(c) (selected list of such statutes in Commercial Code)].

In other words, a good faith purchaser of the document for value acquires only such title as the true owner, by entrusting the goods or the document to the transferor, has actually or apparently given the transferor the authority to convey [Com. Code § 7503, Cal. Code Comment 1]. For example, a thief cannot acquire the power to transfer the goods to a good faith purchaser, but a factor or an agent may have the apparent authority to confer a right in the goods to the purchaser [Com. Code § 7503, Cal. Code Comment 1].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Title, Creditors & Good Faith PurchasersGood Faith Purchases & TitleCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Title, Creditors & Good Faith PurchasersReservation for SecurityCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)General OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Secured Transactions (Article 9)Security AgreementsEffectivenessContracts LawTypes of ContractsBona Fide Purchasers

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Rights and Obligations Created by Documents of Title

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.35

§ 213.35 Transfer Without Due Negotiation

[1] Effect

When a negotiable or nonnegotiable document of title is delivered but not duly negotiated to a transferee, the transferee acquires the title and rights that the transferor possessed or had actual authority to convey [Com. Code § 7504(a)]. Although the transferee's rights are not subject to defeat by attachment of the goods covered by the document or surrender of them to the transferor, the transferee cannot acquire enforceable rights to control or receive the goods over the bailee's objection merely by giving notice to the bailee [Com. Code § 7504, Official UCC Comment 1; see § 213.35[2]].

[2] Transfer of Nonnegotiable Documents of Title

The transferee of a nonnegotiable document of title acquires the rights that the transferor possessed or had actual authority to convey [Com. Code § 7504(a)]. However, until the bailee receives notice of the transfer, the transferee's rights may be defeated in several ways:

- The transferor's creditors could treat the sale of the goods covered by the document as void if retention of the goods by the transferor was fraudulent (see Com. Code § 2402(2)) [Com. Code § 7504(b)(1)].

- A buyer from the transferor in the ordinary course of business may defeat the transferee's rights if the bailee has delivered the goods to the buyer or received notification of the buyer's rights [Com. Code § 7504(b)(2)].

- A lessee from the transferor in the ordinary course of business may defeat the transferee's rights if the bailee has delivered the goods to the lessee or received notification of the lessee's rights [Com. Code § 7504(b)(3)].

- The transferee's rights as against the bailee may be defeated by good faith dealings of the bailee with the transferor [Com. Code § 7504(b)(4)].

Once the bailee receives notice of the transfer of a nonnegotiable document of title, the transferee's rights can no longer be defeated [Com. Code § 7504(b)]. Thus, the transferee of a nonnegotiable document may acquire rights greater in some respects than those of the transferor by giving notice of the transfer to the bailee [Com. Code § 7504, Official UCC Comment 2].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)General OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Negotiation & TransferCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)ObligationsContracts LawSales of GoodsTitle, Creditors & Good Faith PurchasersPassing of Title

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Rights and Obligations Created by Documents of Title

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.36

§ 213.36 Nonnegotiable Document of Title Defeated by Diversion

When the consignor diverts goods covered by a nonnegotiable bill of lading or changes the shipping instructions so that the goods are not delivered to the consignee, the consignee's title to the goods is defeated if they are delivered to a buyer or lessee in the ordinary course of business, and in any event the consignee's rights against the bailee are defeated [Com. Code § 7504(c)]. This protects both the carrier and the new buyer. The carrier is immune from liability for nondelivery if it honors the consignor's instructions to divert, and the title of the substituted consignee is protected if he or she is a buyer in the ordinary course of business [Com. Code § 7504, Official UCC Comment 3].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Bills of LadingCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)ObligationsContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceBuyer's Rights

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Rights and Obligations Created by Documents of Title

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.37

§ 213.37 Delivery Under Documents of Title

[1] General Obligation

Unless the bailee establishes a lawful excuse or defense for not making delivery, he or she must deliver the goods to the person entitled under the document [Com. Code § 7403(a); for a form for a complaint for failure to deliver, see § 213.150]. However, before the carrier is required to make delivery, the person entitled must satisfy the bailee's lien either if requested to do so or if the goods cannot lawfully be delivered until the lien is paid [Com. Code § 7403(b)]. Unless the person claiming is one against whom the document confers no right under Com. Code § 7503(a), concerning a person with a prior legal interest or perfected security interest in goods [see § 213.34], he or she also must surrender to the bailee possession or control of any outstanding negotiable document either for cancellation or for notation that only partial delivery has been made [Com. Code § 7403(c); see, e.g., BII Finance Co. v. U-States Forwarding Services Corp. (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 111, 123-125, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 312 (carrier found liable to shipper's assignee for delivering goods to purchaser, who had not paid for goods, without requiring surrender of original negotiable bills of lading)].

For a discussion of the carrier's and warehouse's lien, see §§ 213.52 and 213.73. For a discussion of negotiable and nonnegotiable documents of title, see § 213.30.

[2] Good Faith Delivery

A bailee who in good faith, including observance of reasonable commercial standards, has received goods and delivered them according to the terms of the document of title, or pursuant to Division 7, will not be liable for misdelivery. This rule applies even though the person from whom the bailee received the goods had no authority to procure the document or to dispose of the goods. It also applies even though the person to whom the bailee delivered the goods had no authority to receive them [Com. Code § 7404]. Com. Code § 7404 applies to delivery to a fraudulent holder of a valid document as well as to delivery to the holder of an invalid document [Com. Code § 7404, Official UCC Comment].

[3] Excuses for Nondelivery

The bailee must deliver the goods to a person entitled under the document who complies with Com. Code § 7403(b) and (c) [see § 213.37[1]], unless and to the extent that the bailee establishes any of the following [Com. Code § 7403(a)]:

- Delivery of the goods to a person whose receipt was rightful as against the claimant;

- Damage to or delay, loss, or destruction of the goods for which the bailee is not liable [see § 213.151];

- Previous sale or other disposition of the goods in lawful enforcement of a lien or on warehouse's lawful termination of storage;

- The seller's exercise of the right to stop delivery pursuant to Com. Code § 2705 when the buyer is insolvent, or repudiates, or fails to make a payment due before delivery [see Ch. 500, Sales: Sales Under the Commercial Code], or a lessor's exercise of the same right under Com. Code § 10526;

- A diversion, re-consignment, or other disposition pursuant to Com. Code § 7303 [see § 213.71[5]] or tariff regulating that right;

- Release, satisfaction, or any other fact affording a personal defense against the claimant; or

- Any other lawful excuse.

Com. Code § 7403(a)(1) covers delivery to a person whose title is paramount to the rights represented by the document. For example, a bailee is not liable on a negotiable document if he or she delivers stolen goods to the rightful owner which were deposited by a thief even if the document is held by a good faith purchaser. On the other hand, the bailee would not have a defense against a good faith purchaser if the rightful owner had entrusted the goods to a person with the power of disposition and the document was duly negotiated to the good faith purchaser [Com. Code § 7403; see § 213.34, Official UCC Comment 2].

Com. Code § 7403(a)(1) is also the one exception to the requirement of Com. Code § 7403(c) that possession or control of the document be surrendered or a notation of partial delivery be made on the document [Com. Code § 7403, Official UCC Comment 5; see § 213.37].

[4] Excuse Because of Conflicting Claims

If there is more than one claim to title or possession of the goods covered by a document, the bailee may postpone delivery for a reasonable time to ascertain the validity of the adverse claims or bring an action in interpleader [Com. Code § 7603; see § 213.152]. This enables a bailee faced with conflicting claims to the goods to compel the claimants to litigate their claims with each other rather than with the bailee [Com. Code § 7603, Official UCC Comment]. For discussion of interpleader actions, see Ch. 314, Interpleader .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Bills of LadingCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)ObligationsContracts LawTypes of ContractsBailmentsTransportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesBills of Lading

159 of 196 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Rights and Obligations Created by Documents of Title

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 213.38-213.49

[Reserved]

§§ 213.38[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Warehouses and Warehouse Receipts

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.50

§ 213.50 Form of Warehouse Receipt

[1] Essential Terms

A "warehouse" is a person engaged in the business of storing goods for hire [Com. Code § 7102(a)(13)]. Any warehouse may issue a warehouse receipt [Com. Code § 7201(a)]. A receipt issued for goods, including distilled spirits and agricultural commodities, stored under a statute requiring a bond against withdrawal or a license for the issuance of receipts in the nature of warehouse receipts, has the same effect as a warehouse receipt, even if the receipt is issued by a person who is the owner of the goods, but who is not a warehouse [Com. Code § 7201(b)].

A warehouse receipt does not have to be in any particular form [Com. Code § 7202(a)]. However, the warehouse is liable for damages for omission unless a receipt provides for each of the following [Com. Code § 7202(b); see § 213.170]:

- A statement of the location of the warehouse facility where the goods are stored.
- The date of issue of the receipt.
- The unique identification code of the receipt.
- A statement whether the goods received will be delivered to the bearer, to a named person, or to a named person or the person's order.
- The rate of storage and handling charges (but if goods are stored under a field warehousing arrangement, a statement of that fact is sufficient on a nonnegotiable receipt).
- A description of the goods or the packages containing them;
- The signature of the warehouse or its agent.

- If the receipt is issued for goods that the warehouse owns, either solely, jointly, or in common with others, a statement of the fact of that ownership.

- A statement of the amount of advances made and of liabilities incurred for which the warehouse claims a lien or security interest (but if the precise amount of advances made or liabilities incurred, at the time of the issue of the receipt, is unknown to the warehouse or to its agent that issued the receipt, then a statement of the fact that advances have been made or liabilities incurred and the purpose of the advances or liabilities is sufficient).

Com. Code § 7202 does not require that a warehouse receipt be issued, but states formal requirements for those that are issued [Com. Code § 7202, Official UCC Comment]. It covers both negotiable and nonnegotiable receipts [Com. Code § 7202, Cal. Code Comment 4]. Further, if the receipt does not comply with the provisions of Com. Code § 7202, the issuer is nevertheless subject to the same obligations as if it were in the correct form [Com. Code § 7202, Cal. Code Comment 3; see Com. Code § 7401(1) (Division 7 applies even though document of title does not conform to requirements of division)]. For forms for warehouse receipts, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 54A, Storage of Goods, § 54A.200 (Matthew Bender).

A warehouse may insert any other provisions in the receipt that are not contrary to the Commercial Code and do not impair the obligation of delivery under Com. Code § 7403 or the duty of care under Com. Code § 7204. Any contrary provisions are ineffective [Com. Code § 7202(c); Page v. Ace Van & Storage Co. (1948) 87 Cal. App. 2d 294, 297-298, 196 P.2d 816] . For a discussion of warehouse receipt clauses limiting liability, see § 213.50[2]. For a discussion of the obligation to deliver, see § 213.37.

[2] Terms Limiting Liability for Loss or Damage

Liability for loss or damage may be limited by terms in the warehouse receipt. Liability may be increased by a written request from the bailor at the time he or she signs the receipt, or within a reasonable time after its receipt, and the bailee may charge increased rates for the increase in liability. However, no increase is permitted if it is contrary to a lawful limitation of liability contained in the warehouse's tariff, if any, nor permit recovery in excess of the actual value of the goods. The damages limitation does not apply to a warehouse's liability for conversion [Com. Code § 7204(b)]. Com. Code § 7204(b) is in accord with prior California case law [Com. Code § 7204, Cal. Code Comment 2; see George v. Bekins Van & Storage Co. (1949) 33 Cal. 2d 834, 845-848, 205 P.2d 1037 (clause in warehouse receipt limiting warehouse's liability to declared value of goods was valid)]. For an affirmative defense allegation based on limited liability for use by a warehouse or carrier, see § 213.192.

Terms of limitation are binding on a bailor who is an experienced businessperson, whether or not he or she had actual knowledge of those terms, absent any evidence of unfair dealing or any departure from the ordinary course of business. Therefore, for example, a bailor who accepts a warehouse receipt that limits the liability of the warehouse pursuant to public utility tariffs, without declaring an increased value in order to obtain a higher liability, cannot assert that he or she did not have full knowledge and understanding of the terms of liability in seeking to avoid the stated limitation if the goods become damaged [see Hischemoeller v. Nat. Ice etc. Storage Co. (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 318, 320-329, 294 P.2d 433] .

[3] Terms Specifying Claims Procedures

The warehouse receipt may include reasonable provisions as to the time and manner of presenting claims or instituting actions based on bailment [Com. Code § 7204(c); Home Ins. Co. v. L.A. Warehouse Co. (1936) 16 Cal. App. 2d 737, 740, 61 P.2d 510] . For an affirmative defense allegation based on failure to follow claims procedures for use by a warehouse or carrier, see § 213.191.

[4] Liability for Nonreceipt or Misdescription

A party to, or purchaser for value in good faith of, a document of title other than a bill of lading, who relies on the description of the goods in the document, may recover from the issuer damages caused by the nonreceipt or misdescription of the goods. The party or purchaser may not recover damages, however, to the extent that either [Com. Code § 7203; see § 213.171]:

- The document conspicuously indicates that the issuer does not know whether any part or all of the goods in fact were received, or whether they conform to the description; or

- The party or purchaser otherwise has notice of the nonreceipt or misdescription.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Warehouse ReceiptsGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Warehouse ReceiptsLiabilityContracts LawTypes of ContractsBailmentsContracts LawTypes of ContractsBona Fide PurchasersTortsNegligenceDefensesExculpatory ClausesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Warehouses and Warehouse Receipts

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.51

§ 213.51 Duty of Care

A warehouse must exercise such care for goods under a warehouse receipt as a reasonably careful person would exercise under like circumstances [Com. Code § 7204(a); Runkle v. Southern Pacific Milling Co. (1921) 184 Cal. 714, 717, 195 P. 398] . However, Com. Code § 7204, which sets forth this requirement, does not impair or repeal Civ. Code § 1630, which requires that a limitation of liability must be conspicuously printed on a contract of bailment for parking or storage of a motor vehicle, or any of the provisions of the Public Utilities Code or the Food and Agricultural Code or any lawful regulations issued thereunder [Com. Code § 7204(d)]. Com. Code § 7204(d) permits the imposition of a higher standard of care by statute [Com. Code § 7204, Cal. Code Comment 4]. For a more detailed discussion of limitation of liability by motor vehicle bailees, see Ch. 274, Garages and Gas Stations .

Prior to enactment of the Commercial Code, proof of deposit and of failure of a bailee to redeliver goods in accordance with a warehouse receipt was a prima facie case, and the burden was on the warehouse to excuse the failure [Taussig v. Bode & Haslett (1901) 134 Cal. 260, 263, 66 P. 259 ; First Nat. Bank v. Crown T. & S. Co. (1928) 89 Cal. App. 243, 246, 264 P. 534 ; see Com. Code § 7403]. However, when a bailee showed a return of the goods stored and a loss had been caused by damage, the burden was on the plaintiff to prove affirmatively that the damage was caused by the fault of the bailee [see Taussig v. Bode & Haslett (1901) 134 Cal. 260, 263, 66 P. 259 (contents of barrels placed in storage lost due to leakage)].

To a large extent, the rules established by the case law discussed above have not been changed by Division 7. A bailee must deliver goods to a person entitled under a document of title unless the bailee establishes a lawful excuse for not doing so [Com. Code § 7403(a); see § 213.37[1]]. Thus, the burden is on the bailee to prove that failure to deliver is the result of damage to or delay, loss, or destruction of the goods for which the bailee is not liable. However, if the goods are damaged or destroyed by fire and as a result, cannot be delivered, the burden of establishing negligence is on the person entitled under the document [Com. Code § 7403(a)(2)].

Generally, Division 7 does not attempt to define the tort liability of bailees, except to hold certain classes of bailees to a minimum standard of care [Com. Code § 7101, Official UCC Comment]. In fact, the first clause of Com. Code § 7403(a)(2) amounts to a cross reference to all the tort law that determines the varying responsibilities and standards of care applicable to commercial bailees [Com. Code § 7403, Official UCC Comment 3]. It also is probably in basic accord with prior California law (that is, the Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act and the Uniform Bill of Lading Act) and the cases construing that law [Com. Code § 7403, Cal Code Comment 2]. Accordingly, the burden of establishing that the bailee was negligent if goods are delivered damaged apparently is still on the person entitled under the warehouse receipt [see Taussig v. Bode & Haslett (1901) 134 Cal. 260, 263, 66 P. 259] . For a complaint for use by a person entitled to goods against a warehouse or carrier who delivers the goods damaged, see § 213.190. For a detailed discussion of the plaintiff's burden of establishing negligence, see Ch. 380, Negligence .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Warehouse ReceiptsGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Warehouse ReceiptsLiabilityContracts LawTypes of ContractsBailmentsEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of Proof

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Warehouses and Warehouse Receipts

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 213.52

213.52 Warehouse's Lien

[1] Defined

A warehouse has a lien against the bailor on the goods covered by a warehouse receipt or storage agreement, or on the proceeds of the goods if in its possession, for charges for storage, processing incidental to storage, or transportation, including demurrage and terminal charges, insurance, labor, or other charges present or future in relation to the goods, and for expenses necessary for preservation of the goods or reasonably incurred in their sale pursuant to law. Further, if the person on whose account the goods are held is liable for like charges or expenses in relation to other goods whenever deposited, and it is stated in the warehouse receipt or storage agreement that a lien is claimed for charges and expenses in relation to other goods, then the warehouse also has a lien against the goods covered by the warehouse receipt or storage agreement or on the proceeds thereof in its possession for those charges whether or not the other goods have been delivered by the warehouse. However, against a person to whom a negotiable receipt was duly negotiated, the warehouse's lien is limited to the charges in an amount or at a rate specified on the receipt or, if no charges are specified, to a reasonable charge for storage of the specific goods covered by the receipt after the date of the receipt [Com. Code § 7209(a); American D. Co. v. Hollywood S. Co. (1938) 28 Cal. App. 2d 439, 441-442, 82 P.2d 711 ; San Angelo, Etc. v. S. End W. Co. (1936) 19 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 749, 754, 61 P.2d 1235] .

Com. Code § 7209 describes a specific lien that attaches automatically to goods stored under a nonnegotiable warehouse receipt. It also provides for a general lien extending to like charges in relation to other goods [Com. Code § 7209, Official UCC Comment 1; see Boas v. De Pue Warehouse Co. (1924) 69 Cal. App. 246, 250, 230 P. 980 (warehouse issuing nonnegotiable receipt was entitled to specific lien for charges as against stored goods)]. Further, the warehouse's lien applies whether or not the warehouse issues a receipt. If a receipt is issued, it extends to all enumerated charges [Com. Code § 7209, Cal. Code Comment 10]. For a discussion of liens in general, see Ch. 342, Liens and Wage Preferences .

[2] Security Interest

A warehouse also may reserve a security interest against the bailor for the maximum amount specified on the receipt for charges other than those specified in Com. Code § 7209(b), such as for money advanced and interest. If a receipt is issued for the goods, such a security interest is not valid as against third persons without notice unless the maximum amount of the interest is conspicuously specified on the receipt. This security interest is governed by the provisions of Division 9 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 7209(b); see Com. Code § 1201(b)(10) (defining "conspicuous")]. It arises out of relations between the parties other than bailment for storage or transportation, as when the bailee assumes the role of financer or performs a manufacturing operation, and extends credit in reliance on the goods covered by the warehouse receipt [Com. Code § 7209, Official UCC Comment 2]. For a detailed discussion of transactions secured by personal property or fixtures, see Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions .

[3] Person Against Whom Lien Is Effective

Com. Code § 7209(a) and (b) validate a warehouse's lien and security interest as against the bailor [UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 7209].

A warehouse's lien for charges and expenses under Com. Code § 7209(a) or a security interest under Com. Code § 7209(b) also is effective against any person who so entrusted the bailor with possession of the goods that a pledge of them by the bailor to a good-faith purchaser for value would have been valid. However, the lien or security interest is not effective against a person who, before issuance of a document of title, had a legal interest or a perfected security interest in the goods, if that person did not acquiesce in the procurement of any document by the bailor or the bailor's nominee [Com. Code § 7209(c)(2)], or if that person did not deliver or entrust the goods or any document of title covering the goods to the bailor or the bailor's nominee with actual or apparent authority to ship, store, or sell, or with power to obtain delivery under Com. Code § 7403 [see § 213.37], or with power of disposition under any statute or rule of law [Com. Code § 7209(c)(1); see generally Com. Code § 7209(c)(1)(c) (selected list of such statutes in Commercial Code)].

If the goods are household goods, the lien under Com. Code § 7209(a) is effective against all persons if the depositor was the legal possessor of the goods at the time of deposit. "Household goods" are defined as furniture, furnishings, and personal effects used by the depositor in a dwelling [Com. Code § 7209(d)].

To validate a warehouse's lien as against third parties, the owner must have entrusted the goods to the depositor. Thus, the owner's interest will not be subjected to a lien or security interest arising out of a deposit of the owner's goods by a thief [UCC Comment 3 to Com. Code § 7209; see Young v. Colyear (1921) 54 Cal. App. 232, 235, 201 P. 623] .

[4] Loss of Lien

When a warehouse voluntarily delivers the goods or unjustifiably refuses to deliver them, it loses the warehouse's lien [Com. Code § 7209(e); see American Distilling Co. v. Hollywood Storage Co. (1938) 28 Cal. App. 2d 439, 442, 82 P.2d 711 (warehouse's lien may be implicitly waived by acts or conduct inconsistent with it); see also Boas v. De Pue Warehouse Co. (1924) 69 Cal. App. 246, 250, 230 P. 980 (warehouse may deliver part of goods stored and retain lien for whole amount of charges)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Warehouse ReceiptsLiensContracts LawTypes of ContractsBailmentsContracts LawTypes of ContractsBona Fide Purchasers

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Warehouses and Warehouse Receipts

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.53

§ 213.53 Enforcement of Lien

[1] Against Merchants

A warehouse's lien may be enforced by private or public sale of the goods in bloc or in parcels. All persons known to claim an interest in the goods must be notified of the sale. The notice must include a statement of the amount due, the nature of the proposed sale, and the time and place of any public sale. The sale can be at any time or place, and on any terms that are commercially reasonable. A warehouse sells in a "commercially reasonable" manner if it does any of the following [Com. Code § 7210(a)]:

- Sells the goods in the usual manner in any recognized market for them.
- Sells the goods at the price current in any recognized market at the time of the sale.
- Otherwise sells the goods in conformity with commercially reasonable practices among dealers in the type of goods sold.

Excepting the preceding three cases, a sale of more goods than apparently necessary to be offered to ensure satisfaction of the obligation is not commercially reasonable. That a better price could have been obtained by a sale at a different time or in a different method from that selected by the warehouse is not in itself sufficient to establish that the sale was not made in a commercially reasonable manner [Com. Code § 7210(a)].

Com. Code § 7210(a), as discussed above, applies to commercial storage, that is, goods stored by a merchant [Com. Code § 7210, Cal. Code Comment]. However, a lien on goods stored by a merchant may be enforced in accordance with either Com. Code § 7210(a) or (b) [Com. Code § 7210(h); § 213.53[2]].

[2] Against Persons Other Than Merchants

If the goods are not stored by a merchant in the course of business, a warehouse's lien may only be enforced by the method provided in Com. Code § 7210(b) [see Com. Code § 7210(b)]. All persons known to claim an interest in the goods must be notified in person or by registered or certified letter to their last known address. The notice must include an itemized statement of the claim, a description of the goods, a demand for payment within a specified time, which cannot be less than 10 days after receipt of the notice, and a conspicuous statement that if the claim is not paid within that time, the goods will be advertised for sale and sold by auction at a specified time and place. The sale must conform to the terms of the notification, and must be held at the nearest suitable place to where the goods are located [Com. Code § 7210(b)(1)-(4)].

After the time given in the notice has expired, the sale must be advertised once a week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation published in the judicial district where the sale is to be held. The advertisement must include all of the following [Com. Code § 7210(b)(5)]:

- A description of the goods.
- The name of the person on whose account the goods are being held.
- The time and place of the sale.

The sale must take place at least 15 days after the date of the first publication of the advertisement. If there is no newspaper of general circulation, the advertisement must be posted at least 10 days before the sale in at least six conspicuous places in the neighborhood of the proposed sale [Com. Code § 7210(b)(5)]. For forms for the notice and advertisement of sale, see §§ 213.172 and 213.173.

[3] Satisfaction of Lien Prior to Sale

Before a sale under Com. Code § 7210, any person claiming a right in the goods may pay the amount necessary to satisfy the warehouse's lien and reasonable expenses incurred under Com. Code § 7210. In that event, the warehouse must not sell the goods, but must retain them pursuant to the terms of the warehouse receipt and Division 7 [Com. Code § 7210(c)].

The warehouse may satisfy the lien from the proceeds of the sale, but any balance must be held for delivery to the bailor on demand [Com. Code § 7210(f)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Warehouse ReceiptsLiens

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Warehouses and Warehouse Receipts

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.54

§ 213.54 Failure to Comply With Enforcement Provisions

If the warehouse fails to comply with the requirements for sale under Com. Code § 7210, it is liable for damages caused by the failure. If the violation is willful, the warehouse is liable for conversion [Com. Code § 7210(i); see George v. Bekins Van & Storage Co. (1949) 33 Cal. 2d 834, 837, 205 P.2d 1037 (tort of conversion committed when bailee having the power to do so refuses to redeliver goods to which bailor entitled); see also Fitch v. Bekins Van & Storage Co. (1937) 22 Cal. App. 2d 101, 102, 70 P.2d 670 (conversion action based on alleged failure to notify plaintiff of sale to satisfy warehouse's lien); § 213.174].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Warehouse ReceiptsLiensTortsIntentional TortsConversionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Warehouses and Warehouse Receipts

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 213.55-213.69

[Reserved]

§§ 213.55[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Carriers and Bills of Lading

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.70

§ 213.70 Carriers as "Public Utilities"

In California, a common carrier is a "public utility" [Cal. Const., art. XII, § 3] and is subject to the regulation of the Public Utilities Commission and the provisions of the Public Utilities Code [Pub. Util. Code § 216]. A "common carrier" is every person and corporation providing transportation for compensation to or for all or any portion of the public [Pub. Util. Code § 211]. A motor carrier of property [see Pub. Util. Code § 224.6; Veh. Code § 34601 (definition)], however, is not a "public utility" [Pub. Util. Code § 216.5]. For a detailed discussion of regulation of carriers and rate setting by the Public Utilities Commission, see Ch. 109, Carriers .

To the extent that any treaty, or federal or California statute, tariff, classification, or regulation is applicable, the provisions of Division 7 are subject to that authority [Com. Code § 7103(a)]. For example, statutes authorizing a commission to fix rates and prescribe services are not affected by Division 7, and are controlling on the matters that they cover [Com. Code § 7103, Official UCC Comment 2].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Transportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesState & Local Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Carriers and Bills of Lading

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.71

§ 213.71 Form of Bills of Lading

[1] Essential Terms

Division 7 makes no provision for formal requirements in the form of or terms of bills of lading, as it does for warehouse receipts [see Com. Code §§ 7201, 7202 (warehouse receipt need not be in any particular form, but must contain essential terms); see also § 213.50].

[2] Terms Specifying Claims Procedures

A carrier may include reasonable provisions in the bill of lading as to the time and manner of presenting claims and instituting actions based on the shipment [Com. Code § 7309(c); see Pioneer Fruit Co. v. Southern Pacific Co. (1920) 47 Cal. App. 44, 46, 190 P. 50 (written notice of claim given to general freight agent of delivering carrier at time of arrival of shipment at its destination sufficient)]. For a form for an affirmative defense allegation based on failure to follow claims procedures for use by a warehouse or carrier, see § 213.191.

[3] Terms Limiting Liability for Loss and Damage

If the carrier's rates are based on value, its liability may be limited by a term in the bill of lading or in a transportation agreement that states that liability will not exceed the value stated in the document. However, the consignor, by the carrier's tariff, must be afforded and advised of the opportunity to declare a higher value, or a value as lawfully provided in the tariff. When no tariff is filed, the consignor must be otherwise advised of that opportunity. This liability limitation does not apply to a carrier's liability for conversion to its own use [Com. Code § 7309(b)]. For a form for an affirmative defense based on limited liability for use by a warehouse or carrier, see § 213.192. Com. Code § 7309(b) applies to the carrier's liability as an insurer as well as to liability based on negligence [Com. Code § 7309, Official UCC Comment; see Civ. Code § 2194 (strict liability for loss or damage to freight); see also Civ. Code §§ 2174-2178 (limitation of liability by special contract)]. For a discussion of the Civil Code provisions regarding limitations on liability by common carriers, see Ch. 109, Carriers .

[4] Liability for Misdating, Nonreceipt, or Misdescription

Besides being a receipt for goods, a bill of lading is a contract for carriage of goods, and evidence of title to the goods. The latter is true only as to negotiable bills of lading [Com. Code § 7301, Cal. Code Comment 1]. For discussion of bills of lading as receipt for goods, see § 213.12[2]. For forms of bills of lading, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 54, Storage of Property (Matthew Bender).

When a consignee of a nonnegotiable bill of lading gives value in good faith, or when a holder to whom a negotiable bill of lading has been duly negotiated relies on the description of the goods or the date on the bill of lading, the consignee or holder may recover damages from the issuer caused by the misdating of the bill of lading or the nonreceipt or misdescription of the goods. However, the consignee or holder may not recover damages to the extent that the document indicates that the issuer does not know whether any part or all of the goods in fact were received or conform to the description. For example, the description may be in terms of marks or labels of kind, quantity, or condition, or the receipt or description may be qualified by "contents or condition of contents of packages unknown," "said to contain," "shippers weight, load and count," or words of similar import, if that indication is true [Com. Code § 7301(a); see § 213.171].

If the issuer of the bill of lading is a common carrier, and the carrier is the one who loads the goods, the carrier must count individual packages, or ascertain the kind and quality of bulk freight [Com. Code § 7301(b), (c)]. However, the carrier will not be liable for damages caused by improper loading if the goods were loaded by the shipper. The carrier may insert the words "shipper's weight, load and count" or similar words on the bill of lading to indicate that this is the case [Com. Code § 7301(d)]. If the shipper loads the goods, he or she is deemed to have guaranteed the accuracy of the information he or she supplies to the carrier with respect to the goods, and the shipper indemnifies the carrier against damage caused by inaccuracies [Com. Code § 7301(e)].

[5] Immunity From Liability for Nondelivery in Case of Diversion or Change of Instructions

Unless the bill of lading otherwise provides, a carrier may deliver the goods to a person or destination other than that stated in the bill of lading or may otherwise dispose of the goods on instructions from [Com. Code § 7303(a)]:

- The holder of a negotiable bill of lading;

- The consignor on a nonnegotiable bill of lading notwithstanding contrary instructions from the consignee;

- The consignee on a nonnegotiable bill of lading in the absence of contrary instructions by the consignor, if the goods have arrived at the billed destination or if the consignee is in possession of the tangible bill of lading or in control of the electronic bill of lading; or

- The consignee on a nonnegotiable bill of lading if the consignee is entitled as against the consignor to dispose of the goods.

Unless instructions from such a person are noted on a negotiable bill of lading, a person to whom the bill of lading is duly negotiated can hold the bailee according to the original terms [Com. Code § 7303(b)].

Com. Code § 7303 provides only an immunity for carriers against liability for misdelivery. It does not, for example, defeat the title to the goods which the consignee-buyer may have acquired from the consignor-seller on delivery of the goods to the carrier under a nonnegotiable bill of lading [UCC Comment 2 to Com. Code § 7303]. For a discussion of delivery of goods, and the effect of transfer of nonnegotiable documents of title covering them, see § 213.35.

Subject to Com. Code § 7303, the carrier must comply with the directions of the consignor or consignee [Civ. Code §

2115]. The carrier must deliver the goods to the consignee at the place to which they are addressed, in the manner usual at that place [Civ. Code § 2118]. The goods must be personally delivered to the consignee or the consignee's agent if either can be found with reasonable diligence [Civ. Code § 2119].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Bills of LadingCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)ObligationsTortsNegligenceDefensesExculpatory ClausesGeneral OverviewTransportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesBills of Lading

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Carriers and Bills of Lading

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.72

§ 213.72 Duty of Care

A carrier who issues a negotiable or nonnegotiable bill of lading must exercise such care for the goods as a reasonable person would exercise under like circumstances [Com. Code § 7309(a)]. For a complaint for use by a person entitled to goods against a warehouse or carrier who delivers the goods damaged, see § 213.190. Com. Code § 7309(a) does not impair any rule of law imposing the liability of an insurer on a common carrier in intrastate commerce [Com. Code § 7309, Official UCC Comment; see Civ. Code § 2194 (common carrier strictly liable, subject to certain limited exceptions, for loss or injury to freight from the time he or she accepts the freight until delivery)]. For a discussion of the Civil Code provisions establishing strict liability on the part of common carriers for loss or injury to freight, see Ch. 109, Carriers .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Bills of LadingTortsNegligenceStandards of CareGeneral OverviewTortsTransportation TortsGeneral OverviewTransportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesBills of Lading

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Carriers and Bills of Lading

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.73

§ 213.73 Carrier's Lien

[1] Defined

A carrier has a lien on the goods covered by a bill of lading, or on the proceeds of those goods in its possession, for charges after the date of the carrier's receipt of the goods for storage or transportation (including demurrage and terminal charges) and for expenses necessary for preservation of the goods incident to the transportation or reasonably incurred in their sale pursuant to law. However, if a negotiable bill of lading has been purchased for value, the carrier's lien against the purchaser is limited to the charges stated in the bill of lading or applicable tariffs, or if no charges are stated then to a reasonable charge [Com. Code § 7307(a)].

Civ. Code § 2144 also provides for a carrier's lien for the following [Civ. Code § 2144]:

- Freightage and services rendered at the request of the shipper or consignee in and about the transportation of the property;

- Care and preservation of the property;

- Money advanced at the request of the shipper or consignee to discharge a prior lien; and

- Subject to the limitations specified in Civ. Code § 3051.6, any fines, penalties, costs, expenses, and interest arising from the provision of false or erroneous certifications of gross cargo weight [see 49 U.S.C. § 5902(b) (requirements governing certifications of gross cargo weight)].

Civ. Code § 2144 was not repealed as a result of the adoption of the Commercial Code. However, it would be subordinate to the specific provisions of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 7307, Cal. Code Comment 1].

[2] Persons Against Whom the Lien Is Effective

When a carrier is required by law to receive goods for transportation, a lien for charges and expenses under Com. Code § 7307(a) is effective against the consignor or any person entitled to the goods unless the carrier had notice that the consignor lacked authority to subject the goods to those charges and expenses. Any other lien under Com. Code § 7307(a) is effective against the consignor and any person who permitted the bailor to have control or possession of the goods unless the carrier had notice that the bailor lacked that authority [Com. Code § 7307(b)].

[3] Loss of the Lien

When the carrier voluntarily delivers the goods or unjustifiably refuses to deliver them, the carrier loses the lien [Com. Code § 7307(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Bills of LadingContracts LawSecured TransactionsPerfection & PriorityPriorityLiensTransportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesBills of Lading

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Carriers and Bills of Lading

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.74

§ 213.74 Enforcement of Lien

A carrier's lien may be enforced by public or private sale of the goods, in bloc or in parcels, at any time or place and on any terms that are commercially reasonable, after notifying all persons known to claim an interest in the goods. The notification must include a statement of the amount due, the nature of the proposed sale, and the time and place of any public sale.

The fact that a better price could have been obtained by a sale at a different time or in a different method from that selected by the carrier is not of itself sufficient to establish that the sale was not made in a commercially reasonable manner. If the carrier either sells the goods in the usual manner in any recognized market for those goods, or if the carrier sells at the price current in the market at the time of the sale or if the carrier has otherwise sold in conformity with commercially reasonable practices among dealers in the type of goods sold, the carrier has sold in a commercially reasonable manner. A sale of more goods than apparently necessary to be offered to ensure satisfaction of the obligation is not commercially reasonable except in cases covered by the preceding sentence [Com. Code § 7308(a)]. The lien may be enforced in accordance with either Com. Code § 7308(a) or the procedure set forth in Com. Code § 7210(b), pertaining to goods other than those stored with a warehouse by a merchant [Com. Code § 7308(g)]. For a notice of sale, see § 213.172.

The scope of Com. Code § 7308(a) is difficult to determine. Although Com. Code § 7308(a) is substantially the same as Com. Code § 7210(a) (relating to goods stored with a warehouse by a merchant), it contains no phrase limiting its application to goods given to the carrier by a merchant as does Com. Code § 7210(a) [see Com. Code § 7308, Cal. Code Comments 1 and 2; see also Com. Code § 7210(a) (enforcement procedure for warehouse's lien except as provided by Com. Code § 7210(b) which governs noncommercial storage); for discussion of enforcement procedures for warehouse's liens, see § 213.52]. Thus, it may be that Com. Code § 7308(a) governs enforcement procedures for carrier's liens with respect to both commercial and noncommercial transportation of goods [see Com. Code § 7308, Official UCC Comment (procedure coextensive with that given warehouse in cases other than those covering noncommercial storage by warehouse)].

The carrier's rights to a lien under Civ. Code § 2144 are regulated by the title on liens in Civ. Code § 2872 et seq. [Civ.

Code § 2144; see Civ. Code § 3052 (enforcement procedure); see also Civ. Code §§ 3051, 3051.5 (special lien for compensation for services on personal property in carrier's possession; carrier's lien for charges owed by shipper on freight previously delivered); for a form and discussion of notice of sale of personal property in person's possession to satisfy lien, see Ch. 342, Liens and Wage Preferences]. However, in light of the possible application of Com. Code § 7308(a) to both commercial and noncommercial transportation, it is not clear when the carrier's lien in Civ. Code § 2144, or its enforcement provision in Civ. Code § 3052, actually apply. Although Civ. Code § 2144 has not been repealed, both Civ. Code §§ 2144 and 3052 (incorporated by reference in Civ. Code § 2144) are arguably subordinate to the specific provisions of Com. Code §§ 7307 and 7308(a) [see Cal. Code Comment 1 to Com. Code § 7307].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Admiralty LawMaritime LiensEnforcementCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Bills of LadingContracts LawSecured TransactionsPerfection & PriorityPriorityLiensTransportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesGeneral OverviewTransportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesBills of Lading

171 of 196 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Carriers and Bills of Lading

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.75

§ 213.75 Failure to Comply With Enforcement Provisions

If the carrier fails to comply with the requirements for sale under Com. Code § 7308, it is liable for damages caused by the failure, and if the violation is willful, the carrier is liable for conversion [Com. Code § 7308(h); see § 213.174].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Bills of LadingCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)ObligationsTortsIntentional TortsConversionGeneral OverviewTransportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesGeneral OverviewTransportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesBills of Lading

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Carriers and Bills of Lading

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 213.76-213.89

[Reserved]

§§ 213.76[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Rights and Obligations Created by Documents of Title

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.90

§ 213.90 State Statutes

[1] Duty to Deliver

Carrier is required to comply with directions of consignor or consignee. Civ. Code § 2115

Delivery to consignee. Civ. Code § 2118

Delivery to consignee or agent. Civ. Code § 2119

Seller is able to stop delivery of goods in transit if buyer insolvent or repudiates or fails to make payment due before delivery or for any other rightful reason. Com. Code § 2705(2)

Obligation of warehouse and carrier to deliver. Com. Code § 7403

Good faith delivery. Com. Code § 7404

[2] Liability for Nondelivery

General provisions for carrier limitation of liability. Civ. Code §§ 2174-2178

Carrier strict liability for failure to deliver. Civ. Code § 2194

Conflicting claims and interpleader. Com. Code § 7603

[3] Negotiable Documents of Title

"Conspicuous" defined. Com. Code § 1201(b)(10)

Negotiable document of title defined. Com. Code § 7104(a)

Nonnegotiable document of title defined. Com. Code § 7104(b)

Conspicuous marking of nonnegotiable document of title is required. Com. Code § 7104(c)

[4] Negotiation and Delivery

Form of negotiation and "due negotiation." Com. Code § 7501

Rights acquired by due negotiation. Com. Code § 7502

Documents of title defeated. Com. Code § 7503

Rights acquired in absence of due negotiation. Com. Code § 7504

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePartiesInterpleadersGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)DefinitionsCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Negotiation & TransferCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)ObligationsTransportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Rights and Obligations Created by Documents of Title

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.91

§ 213.91 Decisions

[1] Duty to Deliver

Carrier that delivered goods to purchaser who had not paid for goods, without requiring surrender of original negotiable bills of lading, was liable to shipper's assignee who was holder by due negotiation of bills of lading. BII Finance Co. v. U-States Forwarding Services Corp. (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 111, 123-125, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 312

Unauthorized delivery of goods covered by warehouse receipts to one other than person entitled to goods is conversion. Friednash v. Lawrence Warehouse Co (1953) 121 Cal. App. 2d 202, 204, 205, 263 P.2d 45

Warehouse is not liable for refusal to deliver goods covered by nonnegotiable warehouse receipt to party named therein when warehouse was justified in concluding that there was absolute sale of goods by named party to person to whom goods were delivered. Otis v. Overland Terminal Warehouse Co. (1936) 18 Cal. App. 2d 157, 161, 63 P.2d 831 ; see Com. Code § 7403

Warehouse acts at its peril in purporting to deliver goods to true owner if person is not in fact entitled to possession. Smith v. Miller (1935) 5 Cal. App. 2d 564, 572, 43 P.2d 347 ; see Com. Code § 7403

[2] Negotiation and Delivery

Transfer of negotiable warehouse receipts without due negotiation does not transfer title to covered goods to transferee as against transferor when parties expressly agreed that it would not. Mount Tivy Winery v. Lewis (9th Cir. 1943) 134 F.2d 120, 123-124 ; see Com. Code § 7504

Transfer of negotiable warehouse receipts is transfer of title to goods covered by them. Bishop v. Fulkerth (1886) 68 Cal. 607, 610, 10 P. 122

Indorsement of nonnegotiable bill of lading gives transferee no additional right. Ward- Lewis Lumber Co. v. Mahony (1925) 70 Cal. App. 708, 713, 234 P. 417 ; see Com. Code § 7501(c)

Transferee of nonnegotiable warehouse receipt acquires title to the covered goods as against transferor subject to any agreement with transferor. Boas v. De Pue Warehouse Co. (1924) 69 Cal. App. 246, 249, 230 P. 980 ; see Com. Code § 7504

Transfer of various bills of lading and nonnegotiable warehouse receipts to creditor as security for loans was sufficient delivery to constitute valid pledge, and was symbolic delivery of covered goods. Yokohama S. Bk. v. Trans-Oceanic Co. (1921) 54 Cal. App. 533, 535, 202 P. 346

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Bills of LadingCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Negotiation & TransferCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)ObligationsCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Warehouse ReceiptsLiabilityTortsIntentional TortsConversionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Rights and Obligations Created by Documents of Title

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 213.92-213.109

[Reserved]

§§ 213.92[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Warehouses and Warehouse Receipts

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.110

§ 213.110 State Statutes

[1] Duty of Care

Warehouse's duty of care. Com. Code § 7204(a)

Contractual limitations on warehouse's liability. Com. Code § 7204(b)

Reasonable provisions as to the time and manner of presenting claims are valid. Com. Code § 7204(c)

[2] Liability for Omission of Essential Terms

Essential and optional terms in warehouse receipt. Com. Code § 7202

Liability for nonreceipt and misdescription under a warehouse receipt. Com. Code § 7203

Termination of storage at warehouse's option. Com. Code § 7206

Goods covered by warehouse receipt, except fungible goods, must be kept separate. Com. Code § 7207

Effect of altered warehouse receipts. Com. Code § 7208

[3] Warehouse's Lien

Warehouse's lien. Com. Code § 7209

Security interest for money advanced and interest. Com. Code § 7209(b)

Enforcement of warehouse's lien. Com. Code § 7210

[4] Warehouse Receipts

Negotiable and nonnegotiable warehouse receipts. Com. Code § 7104

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Warehouse ReceiptsGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Warehouse ReceiptsLiabilityCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Warehouse ReceiptsLiens

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Warehouses and Warehouse Receipts

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.111

§ 213.111 Decisions

[1] Warehouse and Warehouse Receipts

Distillery was warehouse when it charged a monthly fee for storage plus separate fee for unloading delivery trucks. In re Hedgeside Distillery Corp. (N.D. Cal. 1952) 123 F. Supp. 933, 953 ; see Com. Code § 7102(a)(13)

Warehouse receipt is written contract between warehouse to store goods and owner to pay for that service. Sinsheimer v. Whitely (1896) 111 Cal. 378, 380, 43 P. 1109

[2] Duty of Care

Reasonable care under circumstances is required of warehouse. Grace & Co. v. City of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 1960) 278 F.2d 771, 775

Warehouse's duty of care was duty to exercise such care in safeguarding bailor's property as reasonably careful owner of similar goods would exercise. Runkle v. Southern Pacific Milling Co. (1921) 184 Cal. 714, 717, 195 P. 398 ; see Com. Code § 7204(a)

Proof of deposit and of failure of bailee to redeliver in accordance with warehouse receipt stated prima facie case, and burden was on warehouse to excuse failure to redeliver. Taussig v. Bode & Haslett (1901) 134 Cal. 260, 263, 66 P. 259 ; First Nat. Bank v. Crown T. & S. Co. (1928) 89 Cal. App. 243, 246, 264 P. 534 ; see Com. Code § 7403

[3] Terms of Warehouse Receipts

Declared valuation clause was valid term in warehouse receipt. George v. Bekins Van & Storage Co. (1949) 33 Cal. 2d 834, 845-848, 205 P.2d 1037 ; Rosenberg v. San Francisco Storage Co. (1927) 81 Cal. App. 715, 717, 254 P. 909 ;

McMullin v. Lyon Fireproof Storage Co. (1925) 74 Cal. App. 87, 95-100, 239 P. 422 ; see Com. Code § 7204(b)

Warehouse may insert any terms in receipt, not contrary to law, that do not impair obligation to exercise reasonable care. Page v. Ace Van & Storage Co. (1948) 87 Cal. App. 2d 294, 297-298, 196 P.2d 816 ; see Com. Code § 7202(c)

Requirement for prompt presentation of written claim is reasonable as designed to give warehouse timely opportunity to ascertain facts concerning asserted loss. Home Ins. Co. v. L.A. Warehouse Co. (1936) 16 Cal. App. 2d 737, 740, 61 P.2d 510 ; see Com. Code § 7204(c)

[4] Warehouse's Lien

Excise tax, bond premium, and attorney's fees advanced were proper basis for lawful claims on which warehouse's lien might be based. L.A. Warehouse Co. v. American Etc. Co. (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 402, 407, 139 P.2d 641 ; see Com. Code § 7209(a)

Nonnegotiable warehouse receipt containing recital that goods stored were subject to lien for charges was sufficient to support lien to extent of such charges even though amount was not stated in receipt. Sampsell v. Security-First Nat. Bank (1949) 92 Cal. App. 2d 648, 652, 207 P.2d 1088 ; Boas v. De Pue Warehouse Co. (1924) 69 Cal. App. 246, 250, 230 P. 980 ; see Com. Code § 7209(a)

Warehouse had lien on goods warehoused. American D. Co. v. Hollywood S. Co. (1938) 28 Cal. App. 2d 439, 441-442, 82 P.2d 711 ; San Angelo, Etc. v. S. End W. Co. (1936) 19 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 749, 754, 61 P.2d 1235 ; see Com. Code § 7209(a)

Sale of stored property to satisfy lien for storage charges was proper when notice was given of contemplated sale pursuant to law. Norton v. Lyon Van & Storage Co. (1935) 9 Cal. App. 2d 199, 203, 49 P.2d 311 ; see Com. Code § 7210

Fruit packer was entitled to warehouse's lien for services rendered in receiving, storing, processing, and packing. Golden State Orchards v. Harter (1928) 93 Cal. App. 390, 400, 269 P. 735 ; see Com. Code § 7209(a)

Warehouse was entitled to lien for charges made for and on account of resacking and reconditioning goods when warehouse receipts provided that such charges must be paid before delivery. Browning v. River Farms Co. (1927) 82 Cal. App. 361, 364-366, 255 P. 548 ; see Com. Code § 7209(a)

Warehouse's lien was inapplicable to property of which depositor had neither title nor right of possession. Young v. Colyear (1921) 54 Cal. App. 232, 235, 201 P. 623 ; see Com. Code § 7209(a)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Warehouse ReceiptsGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Warehouse ReceiptsLiabilityCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Warehouse ReceiptsLiens

178 of 196 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Warehouses and Warehouse Receipts

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 213.112-213.129

[Reserved]

§§ 213.112[Reserved]

179 of 196 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Carriers and Bills of Lading

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.130

§ 213.130 Related Matthew Bender Publications

For discussion of licensing of and rate setting by carriers, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 54, Shipment of Property (Matthew Bender)

For discussion and forms relating to the storage of commercial, noncommercial, and household goods, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 54A, Storage of Goods (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Warehouse ReceiptsGeneral OverviewTransportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesRates & TariffsTransportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesState & Local Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Carriers and Bills of Lading

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.131

§ 213.131 State Constitution

Common carriers as public utilities. Cal. Const., art. XII, § 3

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Carriers and Bills of Lading

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.132

§ 213.132 State Statutes

Carrier's liability for nonreceipt or misdescription. Com. Code § 7301

Delivery of goods to person or destination other than that stated in bill of lading. Com. Code § 7303

Effect of altered bills of lading. Com. Code § 7306

Carrier's lien. Com. Code § 7307

Enforcement of carrier's lien. Com. Code § 7308

Carrier's duty of care and contractual limitation of liability. Com. Code § 7309

Reasonable provisions in bill of lading as to time and manner of presenting claims. Com. Code § 7309(c)

Security interest in negotiable documents. Com. Code § 9304(2)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Bills of LadingCommercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)ObligationsCommercial Law (UCC)Secured Transactions (Article 9)Attachment of Security InterestsGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Secured Transactions (Article 9)Security AgreementsGeneral OverviewTransportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesBills of Lading

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Carriers and Bills of Lading

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.133

§ 213.133 Decisions

Value of goods is fixed by shipper, and shipper has privilege of securing full coverage by paying stipulated charge for protection. Franklin v. Southern Pacific Co. (1928) 203 Cal. 680, 687, 265 P. 936

When goods are consigned by vendor to vendee on negotiable bill of lading, attempt by vendor to stop goods in transit is unavailing against bona fide purchaser of bill of lading for value in usual course of business. Newhall v. Central Pac. R.R. Co. (1876) 51 Cal. 345, 349

In case arising out of interstate shipment of computer equipment by common carrier, plaintiff's conversion claim seeking monetary damages beyond limitation on liability in bill of lading was preempted under federal law [49 U.S.C. § 14706]. Dictor v. David & Simon, Inc. (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 238, 249-250, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 588

Bill of lading is contract of carriage between the parties. Kentner Truck Line v. Maier Brewing Co. (1960) 183 Cal. App. 2d 89, 93, 6 Cal. Rptr. 572 ; Pioneer Fruit Co. v. Southern Pacific Co. (1920) 47 Cal. App. 44, 46, 190 P. 50

Delivery to situs that is usual place for delivery is sufficient to support finding that goods were duly delivered. Southern Cal. Com. Co. v. Alberti (1922) 58 Cal. App. 84, 207 P. 1023

Fact of shipment makes prima facie case, and burden is on carrier to prove facts excusing nondelivery. American Fruit Distributors v. Hines (1921) 55 Cal. App. 377, 388-390, 203 P. 821

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Commercial Law (UCC)Documents of Title (Article 7)Bills of LadingContracts LawSales of GoodsDamages & RemediesBuyer's Damages & RemediesLimitation & ModificationGeneral OverviewEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofGeneral OverviewTransportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesBills of

LadingTransportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesDamages

183 of 196 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Carriers and Bills of Lading

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 213.134-213.149

[Reserved]

§§ 213.134[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Rights and Obligations Created by Documents of Title

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.150

§ 213.150 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Failure to Deliver Goods Covered by Document of Title [Com. Code § 7403]--By Person Entitled Under Document

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Failure to Deliver Goods Covered by Document of Title [Com. Code § 7403]--By Person Entitled Under Document

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [name],	)	[Amount demanded _____
[and DOES I through _____,]	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
Defendant(s).	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)
	)

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant _____[name] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, _____ [state capacity and residence of defendant or other basis of venue, e.g., a corporation existing under the laws of the State of California with its principal place of business in _____[city], _____ County, California. Defendant is, and at all times herein mentioned was, doing business as a _____[common carrier of freight or warehouse] for hire.

[2. Defendants Doe I through Doe _____, inclusive, are sued herein under fictitious names. Their true names and capacities are unknown to plaintiff. When their true names and capacities are ascertained, plaintff will amend this complaint by inserting their true names and capacities herein. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges, that each of the fictitiously named defendants is responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that plaintiff's damages as herein alleged were proximately caused by those defendants.)]

[3. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that) (A)t all time herein mentioned each of the defendants sued herein as DOES I- _____ (number less than all the Does) inclusive, was the agent and employee of each of the remaining defendants and was at all times acting within the course and scope of such agency and employment.]

4. On or about _____[date], bailor delivered to defendant[s, and each of them,] at _____[specify address] for _____[transportation or storage] by defendant[s, and each of them,] the goods described as follows: _____[specify goods]. On the same day, defendant[s, and each of them,] issued to bailor its/their _____[negotiable or nonnegotiable] _____[warehouse receipt or bill of lading]. Plaintiff _____ [specify plaintiff's interest, e.g., is the owner of the aforementioned goods, and is the holder of the aforementioned _____ (bill of lading or warehouse receipt) endorsed to him/her]. A copy of the _____[bill or receipt] is attached as Exhibit "_____" and incorporated by reference.

5. Thereafter, defendant[s, and each of them,] _____ [specify, e.g., transported the aforementioned goods to or stored the aforementioned goods at _____ (name of storage facility)]. On or about _____[date], plaintiff demanded that defendant[s, and each of them,] deliver the goods and tendered defendant's charges in the amount of $_____ and _____[the bill of lading or the warehouse receipt], properly endorsed, and offered to acknowledge delivery when it was made. Defendant[s, and each of them,] failed and refused, and continue(s) to fail and refuse, to deliver the goods.

6. The value of the goods at _____[specify destination] on or about _____[date], the time and place when the goods should have been delivered to plaintiff, was $_____.

7. As a proximate result of the failure of defendant[s, and each of them,] to deliver the goods, plaintiff suffered damages in the amount of $_____.

[8. In compliance with the claims procedure specified in Paragraph _____ of the _____ (bill of lading or warehouse receipt), plaintiff _____ (allege acts taken by plaintiff to comply with claims procedure, e.g., presented a written claim at defendant's main office at _____ (address, including city and state) stating that plaintiff did not receive the goods and specifying the damages plaintiff claims for nondelivery of them. (A copy of plaintiff's claim is attached as Exhibit _____ and incorporated by reference.)]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant[s, and each of them,] as follows:

1. For general damages in the amount of $_____;

2. For costs of suit incurred herein; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

VERIFICATION

I, _____[name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same istrue of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by a person entitled to delivery under a document of title to bring an action against a warehouse or carrier for damages for failure or refusal to deliver the goods covered by the document [Com. Code § 7403(a)].

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges:

- The defendant's capacity, if defendant is not an individual, and defendant's residence or other basis of venue (Paragraph 1) [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 395(a), 395.5].

- Fictitious defendants (Paragraph 2) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 474].

- That one or more of the fictitious defendants is the agent or agents of the remaining defendants (Paragraph 3).

- That the carrier or warehouse received the goods from the bailor for storage or delivery [see Com. Code § 7102(a)(1)], and that the plaintiff had an interest in the goods, either because of holding the negotiable bill of lading or warehouse receipt or because the goods were to be delivered to the plaintiff pursuant to a nonnegotiable document (Paragraph 4) [Com. Code §§ 1201(b)(6),(42), 7102(a)(9), 7201, 7202].

- That the goods were in the possession of the carrier or warehouse [Com. Code § 7102(a)(1)], which failed or refused to fulfill the duty to deliver the goods after the plaintiff demanded that they be delivered, surrendered the negotiable document of title, if any, and tendered the freight charges due, thereby satisfying the carrier's or warehouse's lien (Paragraph 5) [Com. Code § 7403(a)-(c)].

- The value of the goods at the time of delivery, or when delivery was to be made, and the detriment caused by the warehouse's or carrier's breach of duty (Paragraphs 6 and 7) [Civ. Code § 3316].

- That the plaintiff satisfied any obligation in the warehouse receipt or bill of lading requiring a written claim to be filed with the carrier or warehouse (Paragraph 8) [Com. Code §§ 7204(c), 7309(c)].

[4] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified if the action an unlimited civil case in the superior court [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446].

Verification will also preclude a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial in a limited civil case when the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion see Ch. 26, Answers .

[5] Jurisdiction

The superior court has jurisdiction of the action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less, in which case it will be classified as a limited civil case [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(1)].

In limited civil cases, the caption must identify the case as a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(10)], and the first page of the paper must state whether or not the demand exceeds $10,000 [Gov. Code § 70613(b); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9) (statement regarding amount of demand must appear "below the character of the action or proceeding")].

[6] Venue

In a breach of contract action, the proper venue is either in the county where the defendant resides, where the contract was to be performed, or where the contract was entered into [Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a)]. When the defendant is a corporation, the county where the breach arises, or the corporation's principal place of business is located are also proper places to institute the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5]. Similarly, an unincorporated association may be sued in the county in which the breach arises or the association's principal office is located [Code Civ. Proc. § 395.2]. When the basis for venue is other than the residence of the defendant, the fact relied on to establish venue, such as the place that the contract was entered into, should be alleged because the county in which defendant resides is the proper county for trial except as otherwise provided by law [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a)].

[7] State Statutes

Carrier must comply with directions of consignor or consignee. Civ. Code § 2115

Delivery to consignee. Civ. Code § 2118

Delivery to consignee or agent. Civ. Code § 2119

Obligation of warehouse and carrier to deliver, and excuses for nondelivery. Com. Code § 7403

Good faith delivery. Com. Code § 7404

Conflicting claims and interpleader. Com. Code § 7603

[8] Decisions

Proof of deposit and of failure of bailee to redeliver in accordance with warehouse receipt makes prima facie case, and burden is on warehouse to excuse failure to redeliver. Taussig v. Bode & Haslett (1901) 134 Cal. 260, 263, 66 P. 259 ; First Nat. Bank v. Crown T. & S. Co. (1928) 89 Cal. App. 243, 246, 264 P. 534 ; see Com. Code § 7403

Warehouse is not liable for refusal to deliver goods covered by nonnegotiable warehouse receipt to party named in it when warehouse is justified in concluding that there was absolute sale of goods by named party to person to whom goods were delivered. Otis v. Overland Terminal Warehouse Co. (1936) 18 Cal. App. 2d 157, 161, 63 P.2d 831 ; see

Com. Code § 7403

Warehouse acts at its peril in purporting to deliver goods to true owner and person in fact not entitled to possession. Smith v. Miller (1935) 5 Cal. App. 2d 564, 572, 43 P.2d 347 ; see Com. Code § 7403

[9] Cross References

For alternative allegations as to capacity and residence of parties, and fictitious name allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used .

For alternative forms for captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions .

For discussion and forms relating to the format of complaints, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints .

For a discussion and forms for use in actions and cross actions in interpleader generally, see Ch. 314, Interpleader .

For discussion of jurisdiction in California courts in general, see Ch. 323, Jurisdiction: Personal , and Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter .

For alternative forms for prayers, see Ch. 420, Prayers .

For discussion and forms relating to service of summons generally, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

For forms for allegations showing proper venue, see Ch. 571, Venue .

For alternative forms for verification, see Ch. 572, Verification .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Rights and Obligations Created by Documents of Title

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.151

§ 213.151 Affirmative Defense--Statutory Excuse for Nondelivery [Com. Code § 7403(a)]--Goods Damaged or Destroyed by Fire Not Caused by Negligence of Carrier or Warehouse [Com. Code § 7403(a)(2)]--By Carrier or Warehouse

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense--Statutory Excuse for Nondelivery [Com. Code § 7403(1)]--Goods Damaged or Destroyed by Fire Not Caused by Negligence of Carrier or Warehouseman [Com. Code § 7403(1)(b)]--By Carrier or Warehouseman

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], DEFENDANT ALLEGES that on or about _____[date], the goods described in the complaint on file herein were _____[destroyed or damaged] in a fire [of unknown origin] that burned defendant's warehouse.

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for use by a carrier or warehouse to answer a complaint alleging a breach of its duty to deliver goods covered by a bill of lading or warehouse receipt. A carrier or warehouse has a duty to deliver goods in its possession to a person who is entitled to them under a bill of lading or warehouse receipt, unless and to the extent that the carrier or warehouse can establish that it has a specifically enumerated statutory excuse for not doing so [Com. Code § 7403(a)]. For example, a carrier or warehouse will not be liable for nondelivery if it can establish that the goods were destroyed by some cause for which it was not liable. However, if the goods were destroyed by fire, the burden is on the person entitled to the goods under the document of title to establish that the fire was caused by the negligence of the carrier or warehouse [Com. Code § 7403(a)(2)].

If more than one affirmative defense is set forth in the answer, each defense must be separately stated [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(g)] and numbered [Cal. Rule of Ct., Rule 2.112]. If the complaint sets forth more than one cause of action, the affirmative defense must refer to the cause of action it is intended to answer [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(g)].

[3] Alternative Procedures

If the fact that a carrier or warehouse has a statutory excuse for its failure to deliver goods covered by a document of title appears on the face of the complaint or from matter of which the court must or may take judicial notice [see Evid. Code §§ 451, 452], the objection may be raised by demurrer [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30(a); see generally Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings]. Whether or not the fact so appears, if the defense can be indisputably established by affidavits, declarations, admissions, answers to interrogatories, or depositions, defendant may move for summary judgment on that ground [see Code Civ. Proc. § 437c; see also Ch. 537, Summary Judgment].

[4] State Statutes

Burden of establishing negligence in case of damage or destruction by fire is on person entitled under the document. Com. Code § 7403(a)(2)

[5] Cross References

See also § 213.190.

For discussion of plaintiff's burden of establishing negligence, see Ch. 380, Negligence .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Rights and Obligations Created by Documents of Title

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.152

§ 213.152 Complaint in Interpleader [Code Civ. Proc. § 386]--Conflicting Claims to Goods in Possession of Carrier or Warehouse [Com. Code § 7603]--By Carrier or Warehouse

[1] FORM Complaint in Interpleader [Code Civ. Proc. § 386]--Conflicting Claims to Goods in Possession of Carrier or Warehouseman [Com. Code § 7603]--By Carrier or Warehouseman

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT IN INTERPLEADER
_____ [name],	)	[Amount demanded _____
[and DOES I through _____,]	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
Defendant(s).	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)
	)

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff _____[name] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, _____ [state capacity of plaintiff which allows it to bring action, e.g., a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the state of _____ (specify state), and is authorized to do and is doing business in the State of California and engaged in the business of _____ (warehouse or intrastate transportation)].

2. Defendant _____[bailor's name] is, and at all times mentioned herein was, _____ [state capacity and residence of defendant or other basis of venue, e.g., a resident of _____ County, California].

3. Defendant _____[claimant's name] is, and at all times mentioned herein was, _____ [state capacity and residence of defendant or other basis of venue, e.g., a resident of _____ County, California].

[4. Defendants Doe I through Doe _____, inclusive, are sued herein under fictitious names. Their true names and capacities are unknown to plaintiff. When their true names and capacities are ascertained, plaintff will amend this complaint by inserting their true names and capacities herein. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges, that each of the fictitiously named defendants is making or has a claim to the goods herein described which is conflicting with the claims of the defendants herein and which may subject plaintiff to vexatious litigation with respect to such goods)].

5. On or about _____[date], defendant _____[bailor's name] delivered to plaintiff the following goods for _____[storage or transportation]: _____[description of goods]. These goods are in the approximate value of $_____. Plaintiff issued its _____[warehousereceipt or bill of lading] No. _____ to defendant _____[bailor's name] as a receipt for the goods. A copy of this receipt is attached as Exhibit "_____" and incorporated by reference.

6. Defendant _____[claimant's name] claims the goods delivered to plaintiff on the ground that _____[specify basis of claim, e.g., he/she is a good faith purchaser for value of the goods from the bailor].

7. Plaintiff is indifferent with respect to which of the defendants plaintiff should deliver the above-described goods, and plaintiff has no claim on or interest in the goods other than for the proper charges for _____[storage or transportation] thereof and is ready and willing to deliver the goods to the court or to such person as the court shall direct.

8. The respective claims made by defendants _____[names] are adverse and conflicting and are made without plaintiff's collusion. Plaintiff is unable to safely determine which of the claims is valid.

9. Plaintiff has incurred attorney fees and costs as a result of these proceedings in the amount of $_____.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. That defendants be ordered to interplead and litigate their respective rights to the above-described goods;

2. That plaintiff be discharged from any and all liability on account of the claims of each of the defendants;

3. That plaintiff be awarded costs and reasonable attorney fees to be determined by the court; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 213.150[1].]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by a carrier or warehouse to bring an action in interpleader when there is more than one claim to title or possession of goods covered by a bill of lading or warehouse receipt, and which were delivered to the carrier or warehouse. The carrier or warehouse is excused from its duty to deliver the goods to the person entitled to them under the document of title until it has had a reasonable time to ascertain the validity of the adverse claims or bring the interpleader action [Com. Code § 7603].

[3] Allegations

The form alleges:

- Plaintiff's capacity to bring suit (Paragraph 1) [see Corp. Code §§ 167, 207].
- Defendant's residence (Paragraphs 3 and 4) [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 395(a), 395.5].
- Fictitious defendants (Paragraph 4) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 474; see generally Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used].
- That the carrier or warehouse received goods for storage for or delivery to the person entitled to them under a bill of lading or warehouse receipt, thereby incurring a duty to deliver the goods (Paragraph 5) [see Com. Code §§ 7102(a)(1), 7403(a)].
- That conflicting claims have been made to the goods (Paragraphs 6 and 8) [Code Civ. Proc. § 386; Com. Code § 7603].
- That plaintiff has no interest in the goods (Paragraph 7) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 386].
- That attorney's fees and costs were incurred (Paragraph 9) [Code Civ. Proc. § 386.6].

[4] State Statutues

Conflicting claims and interpleader. Com. Code § 7603

[5] Cross References

See also § 213.150.

For discussion of interpleader generally, see Ch. 314, Interpleader .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Rights and Obligations Created by Documents of Title

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 213.153-213.169

[Reserved]

§§ 213.153[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART IV. FORMS
B. Warehouses and Warehouse Receipts

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.170

§ 213.170 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300]--For Omission of Essential Term From Warehouse Receipt [Com. Code § 7202]--By Person Entitled to Goods Under Warehouse Receipt

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300]--For Omission of Essential Term From Warehouse Receipt [Com. Code § 7202]--By Person Entitled to Goods Under Warehouse Receipt

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [name],	)	[Amount demanded _____
[and DOES I through _____,]	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
Defendant(s).	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)
	)

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant _____[name] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, _____ [state capacity and residence of defendant or other basis of venue, e.g., a corporation existing under the laws of the State of California with its principal place of business in _____[city], _____ County, California]. Defendant is, and at all times herein mentioned was, doing business as a warehouse for hire.

[2. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 213.150[1], Paragraph 2.]

[3. Agency allegation if appropriate. See § 213.150[1], Paragraph 3.]

4. On or about _____[date], _____ [specify person from whom warehouse received goods for storage and/or delivery, e.g., bailor _____ (name)] deposited with defendant[s, and each of them,] the goods described as follows: _____[specify goods]. On the same day, defendant[s, and each of them,] issued to _____ [specify person from whom warehouse received goods for storage and/or delivery, e.g., bailor _____ (name)] its/their warehouse receipt No. _____ as a receipt for the goods. A copy of this warehouse receipt is attached as Exhibit "_____," and incorporated by reference.

5. The warehouse receipt issued by defendant[s, and each of them,] failed to include within its terms _____[specify omitted term e.g., a statement of advances made by defendant(s, and each of them,) against the goods described in the warehouse receipt].

6. Plaintiff _____ [specify plaintiff's interest, e.g., purchased the receipt as issued from _____ (name of selle r) for $_____, the price determined by the charges specified in the warehouse receipt].

7. Plaintiff suffered damages as a result of the aforementioned omission _____[specify how damage occurred, e.g. in that defendant(s, and each of them,) refused to deliver the goods without payment of the advances made on the goods. Plaintiff paid the advances under protest].

8. As a proximate result of the omission of the term, plaintiff suffered damage in the amount of $_____.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant[s, and each of them,] as follows:

1. For general damages in the amount of $_____;

2. For costs of suit incurred herein; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 213.150[1].]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by a person entitled to goods covered by a warehouse receipt when he or she suffers damages as a result of the failure of a warehouse to include essential terms in the warehouse receipt [see Com. Code § 7202(b)].

[3] Allegations

The form alleges:

- That the warehouse received goods for storage and/or delivery to the person entitled to them under the warehouse receipt (Paragraph 4) [see Com. Code §§ 7102(a)(1), 7403(a)].

- The omission of an essential term in the warehouse receipt (Paragraph 5) [Com. Code § 7202(b)].

- Plaintiff's interest in the goods, that is, as the person entitled to them (Paragraph 6) [see Com. Code §§ 1201(b)(16),(21), 7102(a)(9)].

- The damages suffered by plaintiff because of the omission (Paragraphs 7 and 8) [Com. Code § 7202(b)].

[4] Essential Terms

Although a warehouse receipt does not have to be in any particular form, it must embody specified statutory terms, or the warehouse is liable for damages caused by their omission [Com. Code § 7202(a),(b)(1)-(9)]. These terms are listed in § 213.50[1].

[5] Optional Terms

A warehouse may insert any other terms in the warehouse receipt that are not contrary to the provisions of the Commercial Code and do not impair the warehouse's obligation of delivery under Com. Code § 7403 or its duty of care under Com. Code § 7204. Any contrary provisions will be ineffective [Com. Code § 7202(c)].

[6] State Statutes

Essential and optional terms in warehouse receipt. Com. Code § 7202

[7] Cross References

See also § 213.150.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART IV. FORMS
B. Warehouses and Warehouse Receipts

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.171

§ 213.171 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300]--For Damages Caused by Misdescription of Goods [Com. Code § 7203]--By Person Entitled to Goods Under Warehouse Receipt

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300]--For Damages Caused by Misdescription of Goods [Com. Code § 7203]--By Person Entitled to Goods Under Warehouse Receipt

SUPERIOR COURT OF

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [name],	)	[Amount demanded _____
[and DOES I through _____,]	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
Defendant(s).	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)
	)

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant(s). See § 213.150[1], Paragraph 1.]

[2. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 213.150[1], Paragraph 2.]

[3. Agency allegation if appropriate. See § 213.150[1], Paragraph 3.]

4. On or about _____[date], _____ [specify person from whom warehouse received goods for storage and/or delivery, e.g., bailor _____ (name)] deposited with defendant[s, and each of them,] the goods described as follows: _____[specify goods]. On the same day, defendant[s, and each of them,] issued to _____ [specify person from whom warehouse received goods for storage and/or delivery, e.g., bailor _____ (name)] its/their warehouse receipt No. _____ as a receipt for the goods. The aforementioned warehouse receipt described the goods as follows: _____[specify]. A copy of this warehouse receipt is attached as Exhibit "_____" and incorporated by reference.

5. On or about _____[date], the aforementioned warehouse receipt was _____[duly negotiated or transferred] to plaintiff for value in the sum of $_____. Plaintiff accepted the warehouse receipt in good faith and, without any notice or knowledge to the contrary, reasonably relied on the description of the goods on the receipt. Plaintiff is now the owner and holder of the warehouse receipt, and is entitled to the goods covered by it.

6. On or about _____[date], plaintiff demanded that defendant[s, and each of them,] deliver the goods and tendered to defendant(s) the charges itemized by defendant(s) together with the warehouse receipt, properlyendorsed, and offered to acknowledge delivery when it was made. Defendant[s, and each of them,] failed and refused, and continue(s) to fail and refuse, to deliver the goods. Instead, defendant[s, and each of them] offered the following described goods in satisfaction of the obligation contained in the warehouse receipt on the ground that the offered goods were, and are, in fact those deposited under the terms of the warehouse receipt: _____[describe goods offered]. Plaintiff refused to accept this offer, and defendant[s, and each of them,] has continued to fail and refuse to deliver the goods as described in the warehouse receipt.

7. The value of the goods described in the warehouse receipt was, and is, $_____, and as a proximate result of the failure of defendant[s, and each of them,] to deliver the goods, plaintiff has been damaged in that sum.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant[s, and each of them,] as follows:

1. For general damages in the amount of $_____;

2. For costs of suit incurred herein; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 213.150[1].]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by a person who is entitled to goods covered by a warehouse receipt because he or she is either a party to the receipt or a bona fide purchaser of the receipt, to bring an action against a warehouse for damages suffered as the result of a misdescription on the receipt of the goods covered by the receipt [see Com. Code § 7203].

[3] Allegations

The form alleges that:

- The warehouse received goods for storage and/or delivery to the person entitled to them under the warehouse receipt (Paragraph 4) [see Com. Code § 7102(a)(1)].

- The plaintiff is the person entitled to receive the goods covered by the receipt, and that he or she relied in good faith on the description of the goods in the receipt (Paragraph 5) [Com. Code §§ 7102(a)(9), 7203].

- The warehouse has failed or refused to fulfill its obligation to deliver the goods described in the receipt (Paragraph 6) [Com. Code §§ 7203, 7403(a)].

- Plaintiff suffered damages as a result of the misdescription of the goods (Paragraph 7) [Com. Code § 7203].

[4] State Statutes

Liability for nonreceipt and misdescription under a warehouse receipt. Com. Code § 7203

[5] Cross References

See also §§ 213.150 and 213.170.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART IV. FORMS
B. Warehouses and Warehouse Receipts

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.172

§ 213.172 Proceedings to Enforce Warehouse's or Carrier's Lien--Notice to Persons Known to Claim Interest in Goods of Proposed Sale of Goods--Lien on Goods Stored by Merchant or Other Person [Com. Code §§ 7210(a), (b), 7308(a), (g)]

[1] FORM Proceedings to Enforce Warehouseman's or Carrier's Lien--Notice to Persons Known to Claim Interest in Goods of Proposed Sale of Goods--Lien on Goods Stored by Merchant or Other Person [Com. Code §§ 7210(1), (2), 7308(1), (7)]

TO: _____[name of bailor or third party known to claim interest in the goods].

Notice is hereby given that _____[you or specify name of owner or lawful possessor if notice is being sent to other interested person] are in default of payment of the following itemized charges and expenses, for _____ [specify, e.g., (transportation and) storage of the goods described below, in the undersigned's _____ (warehouse or terminal)] located at _____[address] from _____[date], to _____[specify date, e.g., the present].

[This notice constitutes a demand for payment of all charges, expenses, and costs listed below. PAYMENT MUST BE MADE WITHIN 10 DAYS FROM THE TIME YOU RECEIVE THIS NOTICE, AND UNLESS PAYMENT IS RECEIVED BY THE UNDERSIGNED, THE LISTED GOODS WILL BE ADVERTISED FOR SALE AND SOLD BY AUCTION, PURSUANT TO COMMERCIAL CODE SECTION 7210(b), AT _____ [specify nearest suitable place to that where the goods are held or stored, e.g., THE _____ (WAREHOUSE or TERMINAL) LOCATED AT THE ADDRESS SPECIFIED ABOVE.]

The goods are described as follows: _____[specify in detail the goods that are subject to the lien and are to be sold].

The amounts now due and payable for storage of the goods are as follows: _____[specify in detail the amount due and the date when it became due, including the applicable rate].

In addition, the undersigned claims the amount of $_____, for _____[specify any additional charges claimed, e.g., processing incidental to storage, transportation, and insurance]; the amount of $_____, for storage of the goods, at the rate of $_____ per _____[specify unit, e.g., pound], from the date of this notice to the date of the aforementioned sale; and for the reasonable expenses of this proceeding to enforce the lien.
Dated: _____.

_____
[signature of warehouse or carrier]

[2] Use of Form

This forms is a notice of sale for use by a warehouse or carrier to enforce a lien on goods covered by a warehouse receipt or bill of lading [see Com Code §§ 7210(a), (b), 7308(a), (g)].

A warehouse has a lien on the goods, against the bailor or a third party who entrusted the goods to the bailor, for charges accrued in relation to the goods [Com. Code § 7209(a), (c)]. For further discussion of warehouse liens, see § 213.52.

A carrier has a similar lien, but the lien may be effective against the consignor or any person entitled to the goods only as long as the carrier did not have notice that the consignor lacked authority to subject the goods to the charges [Com. Code § 7307(a), (b)]. For further discussion of carriers' liens, see § 213.73.

[3] Contents of Notice

[a] Warehouse's Lien on Goods Stored by Merchant

If the goods were stored by a merchant, a warehouse's lien may be enforced by private or public sale of the goods after notifying all persons known to claim an interest in the goods. The sale must take place at a time or place, and on terms, that are commercially reasonable. The notice of sale must include a statement of the amount due, the nature of the proposed sale, and the time and place of any public sale [Com. Code § 7210(a)].

[b] Warehouse's Lien on Goods Other Than Goods Stored by Merchant

If the goods were stored by other than a merchant, stricter requirements govern the sale of the goods in satisfaction of a warehouse's lien [see Com. Code § 7210(b); see also § 213.53[2]]. All persons known to claim an interest in the goods must be notified of a sale. Notification may be made by mail, personal service, or verifiable electronic mail. The notice must be given to those persons either in person or by registered or certified mail at their last known address, and must include all of the following [Com. Code § 7210(b)]:

- An itemized statement of the claim.
- A description of the goods.
- A demand for payment within a specified time that cannot be less than 10 days after receipt of the notice.
- A conspicuous statement that if the claim is not paid within that time, the goods will be advertised for sale and sold by auction at a specified time and place.

The sale must conform to the terms of the notification, and must be held at the nearest suitable place to where the goods are located [Com. Code § 7210(b)].

[c] Carrier's Lien

Under Com. Code § 7308(g), a carrier's lien may be enforced pursuant to the methods set out in Com. Code § 7308(a) or 7210(b). The procedure set forth in Com. Code § 7308(a) is substantially similar to the method for enforcing a warehouse's lien under Com. Code § 7210(a), except that the procedure provided in Com. Code § 7308(a) is not restricted to liens on goods given to the carrier by merchants in the course of their business, as is Com. Code § 7210(a) [see Com. Code § 7308, Cal. Code Comments 1 and 2; see also Com. Code § 7210(a) (enforcement procedure for warehouse's lien except as provided by Com. Code § 7210(b) which governs noncommercial storage)]. In other words, the stricter regulation of enforcement of warehouse's liens on goods stored by nonmerchants, governed by Com. Code § 7210(b), apparently is not imposed on carriers, although a carrier may elect to proceed under that section [see Com. Code § 7308(a), (g); see also Com. Code § 7308, Official UCC Comment (section intended to give carrier enforcement procedure coextensive with that given warehouse in cases other than those covering noncommercial storage); see also Com. Code § 7210(a)].

It is not clear under what circumstances Civ. Code § 2144 (a carrier's lien for services rendered at the shipper's or consignee's request is regulated by Civ. Code § 2872 et seq.), and its corresponding enforcement procedure in Civ. Code § 3052, would apply. Civ. Code § 2144 has not been repealed by the Commercial Code, although it would be subordinate to the specific provisions in Division 7. Thus, Com. Code §§ 7307 and 7308 may prevail over Civ. Code §§ 2144 and 3205 [see Com. Code § 7307, Cal. Code Comment 1]. For discussion of the enforcement of a carrier's lien on goods covered by a bill of lading, see § 213.74.

[4] State Statutes

Warehouse's lien. Com. Code § 7209

Security interest for money advanced and interest. Com. Code § 7209(b)

Enforcement of warehouse's lien. Com. Code § 7210

Carrier's lien. Com. Code § 7307

Enforcement of carrier's lien. Com. Code § 7308

[5] Decisions

Warehouse had lien on goods warehoused. American D. Co. v. Hollywood S. Co. (1938) 28 Cal. App. 2d 439, 441-442, 82 P.2d 711 ; San Angelo, Etc. v. S. End W. Co. (1936) 19 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 749, 754, 61 P.2d 1235 ; see Com. Code § 7209(a)

Sale of stored property to satisfy lien for storage charges was proper when notice of contemplated sale was given. Norton v. Lyon Van & Storage Co. (1935) 9 Cal. App. 2d 199, 202-203, 49 P.2d 311 ; see Com. Code § 7210

Fruit packer was entitled to warehouse's lien for services rendered in receiving, storing, processing, and packing. Golden State Orchards v. Harter (1928) 93 Cal. App. 390, 400, 269 P. 735 ; see Com. Code § 7209(a)

Warehouse was entitled to lien for charges made for and on account of resacking and reconditioning goods when warehouse receipts provided that such charges must be paid before delivery. Browning v. River Farms Co. (1927) 82

Cal. App. 361, 364-366, 255 P. 548 ; see Com. Code § 7209(a)

Warehouse's lien was inapplicable to property of which the depositor had neither title nor right of possession. Young v. Colyear (1921) 54 Cal. App. 232, 235, 201 P. 623 ; see Com. Code § 7209(a)

[6] Cross References

See § 213.173.

For discussion of general provisions of the Civil Code which regulate liens, and for forms for use in enforcing various miscellaneous liens, see Ch. 342, Liens and Wage Preferences .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART IV. FORMS
B. Warehouses and Warehouse Receipts

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.173

§ 213.173 Proceedings to Enforce Warehouse's Lien--Advertisement of Sale for Publication or Posting--Lien on Goods Not Stored by Merchant [Com. Code §§ 7210(b)(5), 7308(g)]

[1] FORM Proceedings to Enforce Warehouseman's Lien--Advertisement of Sale for Publication or Posting--Lien on Goods Not Stored by a Merchant [Com. Code §§ 7210(2)(f), 7308(7)]

To whom it may concern:

Notice is hereby given that on _____[date], at _____[time], at _____[address], _____ County, California, the undersigned will sell at public auction for cash, in lawful money of the United States, to satisfy the lien thereon for _____[storage and/or hauling], the goods described below that were deposited by _____[name] with the undersigned at _____[specify or warehouse address].

The goods to be sold are: _____[itemize the goods].

The amount due on these goods is $_____. The auction will be made for the purpose of satisfying the lien on the goods to the extent of that amount, together with the cost of the sale.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature of warehouse]

[2] Use of Form

This form is the text of an advertisement for use by a warehouse to advertise the sale of goods to satisfy a warehouse's lien on goods not stored by a merchant in the ordinary course of business [see Com. Code § 7210(b)(5)].

[3] Publication Requirement

A warehouse's lien on goods other than goods stored by a merchant in the course of business may be only enforced by public sale of the goods [Com. Code § 7210(b)(5); see Com. Code § 7308(g) (carrier's lien also may be enforced by method set forth in Com. Code § 7210(b))].

The warehouse must give notice of sale to all persons known to claim an interest in the goods. The notice must specify a time after which the goods will be advertised for sale and sold if payment has not been made [Com. Code § 7210(b)(1), (3); see § 213.172]. After the time given in the notice of sale has expired, the sale to enforce the lien must be advertised once a week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation published in the judicial district where the sale is to be held. The sale must take place at least 15 days after the date of the first publication of the advertisement.

If there is no newspaper of general circulation, the advertisement must be posted at least 10 days before the sale in at least six conspicuous places in the neighborhood of the proposed sale [Com. Code § 7210(b)(5)].

[4] Contents of Advertisement

The advertisement must include all of the following [Com. Code § 7210(b)(5); see Com. Code § 7308(g) (application to sales to enforce carrier's lien)]:

- A description of the goods.
- The name of the person on whose account the goods are being held.
- The time and place of the sale.

[5] Cross References

See § 213.172.

192 of 196 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART IV. FORMS
B. Warehouses and Warehouse Receipts

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.174

§ 213.174 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code §§ 3333, 3336]--For Willful or Negligent Failure to Comply With Requirements of Notice and Sale [Com. Code §§ 7210(i), 7308(h)]--By Owner of Goods Against Carrier or Warehouse

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code §§ 3333, 3336]--For Willful or Negligent Failure to Comply With Requirements of Notice and Sale [Com. Code §§ 7210(9), 7308(8)]--By Owner of Goods Against Carrier or Warehouseman

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [name],	)	(Conversion)
[and DOES I through _____,]	)	[Amount demanded _____
Defendant(s).	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 213.171[1], Paragraph 1.]

[2. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 213.150[1], Paragraph 2.]

[3. Agency allegation if appropriate. See § 213.150[1], Paragraph 3.]

4. At all times herein mentioned, and in particular on or about _____[date of conversion], plaintiff was, and still is, the _____[describe plaintiff's interest in the goods, e.g., bailor] and was, and still is entitled to possession of the goods described as follows: _____[specify goods]. Plaintiff is entitled to possession of these goods by virtue of the fact that _____[specify reason e.g., he/she holds a negotiable warehouse receipt covering them].

5. On _____[date], _____ [plaintiff or, if the plaintiff is the consignor or some other interested party who did not deposit the goods, specify, e.g., the bailor _____ (name)] deposited the goods described above with defendant[s, and each of them,] at its/their _____[terminal or warehouse] located at _____[specify address]. On the same day, defendant[s, and each of them], for valuable consideration received and accepted the goods, and agreed to both store and safely keep the goods in its/their _____[terminal or warehouse] until they should be called for by plaintiff and delivered to plaintiff on demand. Defendant[s, and each of them], issued to _____[plaintiff or the bailor] its/their _____[bill oflading or warehouse receipt] No. _____ as a receipt for the goods. A copy of the document is attached as Exhibit "_____" and incorporated by reference.

6. On or about _____[date of failure to comply with notice requirements], at _____ County, California, the goods described above had a value of $_____.

7. On _____[date], defendant[s, and each of them] issued a notice or notices of its/their intent to sell the goods to satisfy its/their lien for _____[specify charges and/or expenses covered by lien, e.g., storage charges]. A copy of this notice is attached as Exhibit "_____" and incorporated by reference.

8. Plaintiff did not receive a notice of sale from [any of] the defendant(s).

[9. The failure of defendant(s, and each of them,) to send a notice to plaintiff was a willful violation of Section(s) _____ (7210(1) or 7210(2) or 7210(2) and 7308(7) or 7308(1)) of the California Uniform Commercial Code because defendant(s, and each of them,) had knowledge of plaintiff's claim of an interest in the goods in that _____ (allege facts showing knowledge, e.g., it/they were notified by the bailor of a sale of the goods and negotiation of the _____[bill of lading or warehouse receipt] to plaintiff. A copy of the letter from the bailor to defendant(s, and each of them,) notifying it/them of the sale is attached as Exhibit "_____" and incorporated by reference.)]

10. On _____[date], defendant[s, and each of them] sold the goods pursuant to the notice _____[specify method of sale, e.g., by public auction].

[11. If plaintiff is seeking damages under the alternative damage provision of Civ. Code § 3336, include the following allegation: As a proximate re sult of the conversion of the goods by the defendant(s, and each of them), plaintiff _____ (allege injuries suffered which are the natural, reasonable, and proximate results of the conversion), all to plaintiff's damage in the sum of $_____.]

[12. Between the time of the conversion of the goods described above and their proceeds by defendant(s, and each of them,) to its/their own use and the filing of this action, plaintiff _____ (set forth facts showing time and money properly expended in pursuit of the converted goods), all to plaintiff's further damage in the sum of $_____.]

[13. The aforementioned acts of defendant justify the awarding of punitive and exemplary damages in that they constitute _____ (specify conduct justifying award of punitive damages under Civ. Code § 3294, e.g., despicable conduct carried on in willful and conscious disregard of plaintiff's rights).]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant[s, and each of them,] as follows:

1. For the value of the goods converted in the sum of $_____;

2. For interest at the legal rate on the foregoing sum pursuant to Civil Code Section 3336, from and after _____[date];

[3. For damages for the proximate and foreseeable loss resulting from defendant's conversion in the sum of $_____;]

[4. For damages for time and money properly expended in pursuit of the converted property in the sum of $_____;]

[5. For punitive and exemplary damages;]

6. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

7. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[Verification if desired]

Dated: _____

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use by a person entitled to goods under a document of title to bring an action for damages based on a warehouse's or carrier's willful or negligent failure to notify the plaintiff of a sale to enforce its lien for storage and other charges. If the carrier or warehouse fails to comply with the notice provisions of Com. Code §§ 7210 and 7308, it will be liable for damages caused by the failure. If the violation is willful, the carrier or warehouse is liable for conversion [Com. Code §§ 7210(i), 7308(h)].

This form may be modified for use against a carrier or warehouse who fails to comply with any of the other requirements of Com. Code §§ 7210 and 7308 [see Com. Code §§ 7210(i), 7308(h)].

[3] Allegations

The form alleges the following:

- That the carrier or warehouse received goods for storage and/or delivery to the person entitled to them under the bill of lading or warehouse receipt (Paragraph 5) [see Com. Code § 7102(a)(1)].

- The value of the goods at the time of willful or negligent failure to comply with the notice provisions (Paragraph 6) [Civ. Code §§ 3333, 3336].

- That the carrier or warehouse sent notices of sale to satisfy a carrier's or warehouse's lien, but breached its duty to send a notice to plaintiff (Paragraph 7 and 8) [Com. Code §§ 7209, 7210, 7307, 7308

].

- That the goods were sold at public or private auction (Paragraph 10) [Com. Code §§ 7210, 7308].

Optional paragraphs are included for use if the defendant's failure to comply with Com. Code §§ 7210 and 7308 was willful. These paragraphs allege the following:

- The defendant's willful failure or refusal to send a notice to the plaintiff (Paragraph 9) [see Com. Code §§ 7210(i), 7308(h)].

- The measure of damages for conversion (Paragraphs 11 and 12) [Civ. Code § 3336].

- The basis for punitive damages (Paragraphs 9 and 13) [Civ. Code § 3294; see Ch. 177, Damages].

[4] State Statutes

Enforcement of warehouse's lien. Com. Code § 7210

Enforcement of carrier's lien. Com. Code § 7308

[5] Decisions

Conversion is committed when bailee having power to do so refuses to redeliver goods to which bailor is entitled. George v. Bekins Van & Storage Co. (1949) 33 Cal. 2d 834, 837, 205 P.2d 1037

Failure to notify plaintiff of sale to satisfy warehouse's is cause for conversion action. Fitch v. Bekins Van & Storage Co. (1937) 22 Cal. App. 2d 101, 104, 70 P.2d 670

Sale of stored property to satisfy lien for storage charges was proper when notice of contemplated sale was given pursuant to law. Norton v. Lyon Van & Storage Co. (1935) 9 Cal. App. 2d 199, 202-203, 49 P.2d 311

[6] Cross References

See also §§ 213.150, 213.172, and 213.173.

For discussion and forms for use in action for conversion of personal property, see Ch. 150, Conversion .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART IV. FORMS
B. Warehouses and Warehouse Receipts

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 213.175-213.189

[Reserved]

§§ 213.175[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART IV. FORMS
C. Carriers and Bills of Lading

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.190

§ 213.190 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333]--Breach of Duty by Carrier or Warehouse Resulting in Loss or Damage to Goods [Com. Code §§ 7204, 7309]--By Person Entitled to Goods Under Bill of Lading or Warehouse Receipt

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333]--Breach of Duty by Carrier or Warehouseman Resulting in Loss or Damage to Goods [Com. Code §§ 7204, 7309]--By Person Entitled to Goods Under Bill of Lading or Warehouse Receipt

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [name],	)	(Negligence)
[and DOES I through _____,]	)	[Amount demanded _____
Defendant(s).	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant(s). See § 213.171[1], Paragraph 1.]

[2. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 213.150[1], Paragraph 2.]

[3. [Agency allegation if appropriate. See § 213.150[1], Paragraph 3.]

4. On or about _____[date], _____ [specify person from whom carrier or warehouse received goods for storage and/or delivery, e.g., bailor _____ (name)] delivered to defendant[s, and each of them,] at _____[specify address] the goods described as follows: _____[specify goods]. On the same day, defendant[s, and each of them,] issued to _____ [specify person from whom carrier or warehouse received goods for storage and/or delivery, e.g., bailor _____ (name)] its/their _____[bill of lading or warehouse receipt] No. _____ as a receipt for the goods. Plaintiff _____ [specify plaintiff's interest, e.g. became the owner of the _____ (bill of lading or warehouse receipt) when it was negotiated to him/her by _____ (specify negotiator, e.g., bailor _____ [name]) for value on or about _____ (date)]. A copy of this _____[bill of lading or warehouse receipt] is attached hereto, marked as Exhibit "_____," and incorporated herein by reference.

5. On or about _____[date], defendant[s, and each of them,] _____ [specify disposition, e.g., stored the goods in a warehouseoperated by it/them at _____ (specify address)]. At the time the goods were delivered to defendant[s, and each of them], they were in good and proper condition, and were of a value of $_____.

6. While the goods were in their possession, defendant[s, and each of them,] negligently _____[allege acts or omissions by defendant(s) establishing negligence].

7. On or about _____[date], plaintiff demanded that defendant[s, and each of them,] deliver the goods to _____[specify address]. Delivery was made on _____[date], but the goods were in a damaged and injured condition in that they were _____[specify nature of damage].

8. As a proximate result of the negligence of defendant[s, and each of them,] plaintiff's goods were _____ [describe damage, e.g. destroyed beyond repair, all to plaintiff's damage in the sum of $_____ or damaged]. [If property was not completely destroyed, add: Plaintiff _____ (has expended or must expend) $_____ for repair of the (damaged) goods, which is a reasonable sum for such repair].

[9. In compliance with the claims procedure specified in Paragraph _____ of the _____ (bill of lading or warehouse receipt), plaintiff _____ (allege acts taken by plaintiff to comply with claims procedure, e.g., presented a written claim at defendant's main office at _____ (address, including city and state) stating that plaintiff received the goods in a damaged condition and specifying the damages plaintiff claims for injury to the goods. (A copy of plaintiff's claim is attached as Exhibit "_____," and incorporated herein by reference.)]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant[s, and each of them,] as follows:

1. For general damages [in the sum of $_____];

2. For costs of suit incurred herein; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 213.150[1].]

[2] Use of Form

This for is a complaint for use by a person entitled to goods under a bill of lading or warehouse receipt to bring an action for damages against a carrier or warehouse that breached its duty of care by delivering goods in a damaged condition [Com. Code §§ 7204(a), 7309(a)].

[3] Allegations

This form alleges that:

- The carrier or warehouse received goods for storage and/or delivery to the person entitled to them under the bill of lading or warehouse receipt (Paragraph 4) [see Com. Code § 7102(a)(1)].

- The goods were in good condition when received by the carrier or warehouse (Paragraph 5).

- While the goods were in the carrier's or warehouse's possession, they were damaged due to its negligence (Paragraph 6) [Com. Code §§ 7204(a), 7309(a); see Ch. 380, Negligence].

- The goods were delivered to plaintiff (Paragraph 7) [Com. Code § 7403(a)].

- As a result of the negligence of the carrier or warehouse, plaintiff suffered damages (Paragraph 8) [Civ. Code §§ 3316, 3333].

- The plaintiff complied with the carrier's or warehouse's claims procedure, if any (Paragraph 9) [Com. Code §§ 7204(c), 7309(c)].

[4] Duty of Care

A carrier or warehouse must exercise such care for goods under a bill of lading or warehouse receipt as a reasonably careful person would exercise under like circumstances [Com. Code §§ 7204(a), 7309(a)]. Once goods are deposited with a carrier or warehouse, they must be delivered to the person entitled to them under the bill of lading or warehouse receipt, unless the carrier or warehouse can establish a lawful excuse for not doing so [Com. Code § 7403(a)]. For example, the carrier or warehouse may be excused if it can establish that failure to deliver is the result of damage to or delay, loss, or destruction of the goods for which it is not liable [Com. Code § 7403(a)(2)]. However, ordinary tort principles apply to liability for goods that are delivered damaged, and the burden of establishing that the carrier or warehouse was negligent is on the plaintiff [Com. Code §§ 7101; Taussig v. Bode & Haslett (1901) 134 Cal. 260, 263, 66 P. 259 ; see Com. Code § 7403(a)(2) (burden of establishing negligence in case of damage or destruction by fire is on person entitled to receive goods)].

[5] State Statutes

Warehouse's duty of care. Com. Code § 7204(a)

Carrier's duty of care. Com. Code § 7309

Obligation of warehouse and carrier to deliver, and excuses for nondelivery. Com. Code § 7403

[6] Decisions

Reasonable care under circumstances is required of warehouse. Grace & Co. v. City of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 1960) 278 F.2d 771, 775

Warehouse's duty of care is duty to exercise such care in safeguarding bailor's property as reasonably careful owner of similar goods would exercise. Runkle v. Southern Pacific Milling Co. (1921) 184 Cal. 714, 717, 195 P. 398 ; see Com. Code § 7204(a)

Requirement for prompt presentation of written claim is reasonable as designed to give warehouse timely opportunity to ascertain facts concerning asserted loss. Home Ins. Co. v. L.A. Warehouse Co. (1936) 16 Cal. App. 2d 737, 740, 61 P.2d 510 ; see Com. Code § 7204(c)

[7] Cross References

See also § 213.150.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART IV. FORMS
C. Carriers and Bills of Lading

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.191

§ 213.191 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Failure to Follow Claims Procedures [Com. Code §§ 7204(c), 7309(c)]--By Carrier or Warehouse

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Failure to Follow Claims Procedures [Com. Code §§ 7204(3), 7309(3)]--By Carrier or Warehouseman

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], DEFENDANT ALLEGES:

1. The _____[warehouse receipt or bill of lading] provides in part _____[specify provision of warehouse receipt or bill of lading that requires filing of a claim with the carrier or warehouse for loss or damage within a specified time].

2. Defendant, after delivery of the goods to plaintiff, delivered a claim form to plaintiff that he/she was to complete as proof of loss or damage. Defendant has not received the aforementioned proof of loss, nor has defendant received any other statement of plaintiff's claim.

[2] Use of Form

This form is an affirmative defense is for use by a warehouse or carrier to include in an answer to a complaint seeking damages based on injury to or destruction of goods when the plaintiff failed to file a claim for loss or damage as required by the warehouse receipt or bill of lading covering the goods. Reasonable provisions in a bill of lading or warehouse receipt as to the time and manner of presenting claims or instituting actions based on bailment are valid [Com. Code §§ 7204(c), 7309(c)].

[3] State Statutes

Validity of reasonable provisions in warehouse receipt as to the time and manner of presenting claims. Com. Code §

7204(c)

Validity of reasonable provisions in bill of lading as to the time and manner of presenting claims. Com. Code § 7309(c)

[4] Decisions

Provision requiring prompt presentation of written claim is reasonable because it is designed to give warehouse timely opportunity to ascertain facts concerning asserted loss. Home Ins. Co. v. L. A. Warehouse Co. (1936) 16 Cal. App. 2d 737, 740, 61 P.2d 510

[5] Cross References

See also § 213.151.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 213 DOCUMENTS OF TITLE
PART IV. FORMS
C. Carriers and Bills of Lading

17-213 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 213.192

§ 213.192 Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Limitation of Liability [Com. Code §§ 7204(b), 7309(b)]--By Carrier or Warehouse

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense Allegation [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)]--Limitation of Liability [Com. Code §§ 7204(2), 7309(2)]--By Carrier or Warehouseman

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], DEFENDANT ALLEGES that plaintiff agreed to accept the valuation in the _____[warehouse receipt or bill of lading] covering the goods to be _____[stored or transported], which provides _____[specify provision in warehouse receipt or bill of lading limiting liability to fixed value].

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for use by a carrier or warehouse to include in an answer to a complaint seeking damages based on injury to or destruction of goods when the plaintiff claims damages in excess of a limited value stated in the warehouse receipt or bill of lading covering the goods. Damages for loss or damage to goods covered may be limited by a term in the warehouse receipt setting forth a specific liability per article or item, or value per unit of weight. However, the limitation on damages does not apply to a warehouse's liability for conversion [Com. Code §§ 7204(b), 7309(b)].

[3] State Statutes

General provisions for carrier limitation of liability. Civ. Code §§ 2174-2178

Contractual limitations on warehouse's liability. Com. Code § 7204(b)

Carrier's contractual limitation of liability. Com. Code § 7309(b)

[4] Decisions

Declared valuation clause is valid term in warehouse receipt. George v. Bekins Van & Storage Co. (1949) 33 Cal. 2d 834, 845-848, 205 P.2d 1037 ; Rosenberg v. San Francisco Storage Co. (1927) 81 Cal. App. 715, 717, 254 P. 909 ; McMullin v. Lyon Fireproof Storage Co. (1925) 74 Cal. App. 87, 95-100, 239 P. 422 ; see Com. Code § 7204(b)

Warehouse may insert any terms in receipt that are not contrary to law and that do not impair obligation to exercise reasonable care. Page v. Ace Van & Storage Co. (1948) 87 Cal. App. 2d 294, 297-298, 196 P.2d 816 ; see Com. Code § 7202(c)

[5] Cross References

See also § 213.151.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 214.syn

§ 214.syn Synopsis to Chapter 214: DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS

§ 214.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 214.02 Cross References

§ 214.03 Governing Law

§ 214.04 Definitions

[1] Dangerous Drug

[2] Device

[3] Drug

[4] Manufacture

[5] Pharmacy

[6] Prescription

§ 214.05 Agencies Regulating Pharmacists and Drugs

[1] State Board of Pharmacy

[2] Department of Health Services

[3] Medical Board

§§ 214.06-214.09 [Reserved]

§ 214.10 Certificate Required for Pharmacy Practice

§ 214.11 Application Requirements

§ 214.12 Refusal of Application for Unprofessional Conduct

§ 214.13 Scope of Pharmacist's Practice

§ 214.14 Related Licenses and Applications

§§ 214.15-214.19 [Reserved]

§ 214.20 License or Other Permit Subject to Suspension or Revocation

§ 214.21 Initiation of Disciplinary Conduct by Board

[1] Mandatory Action by Board for Fraudulent Procurement of License or Unprofessional Conduct

[2] Discretionary Action Against Holder of Probationary Certificate

§ 214.22 Unprofessional Conduct Generally

§ 214.23 Acts Considered Unprofessional Conduct

[1] Violation of the Pharmacy Law or Other Federal and State Law

[2] Conviction of Crime Related to Pharmacy Practice

[3] Conviction for Violations Regarding Controlled Substance, Dangerous Drugs or Alcohol

[4] Gross Immorality, Incompetence, or Gross Negligence

[5] Fraud and Moral Turpitude

[6] False Representations in Writing

[7] Dangerous Use of Drugs or Alcohol

[8] Providing Controlled Substance to Addict

[9] Conduct That Would Have Warranted Denial of License

[10] Excessive Furnishing of Controlled Substances

[11] Cash Compromise of Controlled Substances Charge

[12] Failure to Comply with Order to Cease and Desist Compounding Injectable Sterile Drug Products

[13] Other Acts

§ 214.24 Activity on Premises Is Not Ordinary Activity

§ 214.25 Unfair Competition

§ 214.26 Discipline by Another State

§ 214.27 Misconduct Need Not Be Intentional

§ 214.28 Responsibility for Acts of Employees

§ 214.29 Actions Board May Take

[1] Imposing Discipline

[2] Awarding Costs, Including Attorney's Fees

§ 214.30 Modification of Board Decision

§ 214.31 Reinstatement of License

[1] May File Petition for Reinstatement After One Year

[2] Facts to Be Considered by Board

§ 214.32 Judicial Review

[1] Review by Writ of Mandate Filed in Superior Court

[2] Standard of Review

[a] Independent Judgment by Superior Court

[b] Credible, Competent Evidence Standard in Appellate Court

§ 214.33 Disposition of Drugs After License Voided or Revoked or Business Discontinued

§§ 214.34-214.39 [Reserved]

§ 214.40 Persons Qualified to Dispense Prescriptions

[1] Registered Pharmacist

[2] Exempted Manufacturers, Wholesalers, and Other Medical Providers

[3] Exempted Medical Licensees

§ 214.41 Drugs That Require Prescription

§ 214.42 Contents of Prescriptions

§ 214.43 Falsification of Prescriptions for Controlled Substance

§ 214.44 Proper Records for Prescriptions and Drug Sales

§ 214.45 Dispensing of Prescriptions

[1] Dispensing Without License

[2] Use of Generic Drugs for Prescriptions

[3] Adulteration of Drug or Device Prohibited

[4] Controlled Substance Not Dispensed for Legitimate Purpose

[a] Substance Not Issued in Usual Course of Treatment or Legitimate Research

[b] Substance Dispensed for Addict or Habitual User

[c] Penalty for Knowing Violation

[5] Selling, Dispensing, or Compounding Drug While Under the Influence

[6] Compounding of Injectable Sterile Drug Products

§ 214.46 Labeling and Packaging of Prescriptions

[1] Labeling Defined

[2] Prescription Must Be Dispensed With Correct Label in Correct Container

[3] Repackaging of Drugs Previously Dispensed

§ 214.47 Misbranding of Prescriptions

§ 214.48 Delivery of Controlled Substance to Pharmacy

§ 214.49 Advertising Prescription Drugs

§ 214.50 Penalties and Sanctions

§ 214.51 Quality Assurance Program

§§ 214.52-214.59 [Reserved]

§ 214.60 Strict Liability in Tort Generally

§ 214.61 Strict Liability for Distribution of Defective Drug Product

§ 214.62 Strict Liability for Defective Warning of Dangerous Drug

[1] Doctrine Applies to Defective Warning

[2] Duty to Warn

[a] Manufacturer's Duty to Warn

[b] Pharmacist's Duty to Warn

[i] Harmful Effects or Impairment of Ability to Drive

[ii] Adequacy of Warning

§ 214.63 Negligence

§ 214.64 Causation

§ 214.65 Assumption of Risk

§ 214.66 Punitive Damages for Intentional, Malicious, and Reckless Conduct

§§ 214.67-214.79 [Reserved]

§ 214.80 "Prescription Drug Claims Processor" Defined

§ 214.81 Duty to Prepare Pharmaceutical Fee Studies

[1] Studies Must Have Been Conducted on or Before January 1, 1984

[2] Compliance Required to Continue Processing

§ 214.82 Duty to Transmit Studies to Clients

§ 214.83 Action by Pharmacy Owner for Failure to Prepare Studies

[1] Statutory Damages

[2] Standing to Bring Suit

[3] Notice of Violation With Opportunity to Comply

§§ 214.84-214.89 [Reserved]

§ 214.90 Related Matthew Bender Publications

§ 214.91 State Statutes

[1] Controlled Substances

[2] Definitions

[3] Licenses and Applications

[4] Offenses and Disciplinary Proceedings

[5] Pharmacists and Pharmacies

[6] Prescriptions

[7] Regulatory Scheme

[8] Special Entities

§ 214.92 Administrative Regulations

§ 214.93 Decisions

[1] Issuance, Suspension, and Revocation of Pharmacy License

[2] Selling, Dispensing, and Compounding Prescription Drugs or Devices

[3] Civil Liability for Distribution of Defective Drugs or Devices

[a] Strict Liability in Tort

[b] Negligence

[c] Fraud

[4] Civil Actions

§ 214.94 Attorney General Opinions

§ 214.95 Law Reviews

§ 214.96 Text References

§§ 214.97-214.109 [Reserved]

§ 214.110 Petition to State Board of Pharmacy for Reinstatement of License to Practice Pharmacy [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4309]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§§ 214.111-214.114 [Reserved]

§ 214.115 Complaint for Damages for Personal Injuries Based on Negligence--By Purchaser-User of Prescription Drug Against Pharmacist--General Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Contents of Form

[4] Specifying Amount of Damages

[5] Verification

[6] Notice Prior to Commencing Action

[7] Cross References

§§ 214.116-214.119 [Reserved]

§ 214.120 Complaint for Declaratory Relief, Permanent Injunction, and Damages for Violation in Preparing of Pharmaceutical Fee Study--Against Prescription Drug Claims Processor by Pharmacy Owner [Civ. Code § 2528]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Contents of Form

[4] Verification

[5] Notice Prior to Commencing Action

[6] Jurisdiction

[7] Costs and Attorney's Fees

[8] Cross References

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART I. SCOPE

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.01

§ 214.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses and contains forms for use in proceedings related to the manufacture and sale of drugs, including the registration of pharmacists and requirements relating to pharmaceutical fee studies by prescription drug claims processors. It also discusses the liability of manufacturers and pharmacists for injuries resulting from defects in drugs and drug prescriptions.

The chapter contains the following forms:

- Form of petition to the Board of Pharmacy for reinstatement of a suspended or revoked certificate to practice pharmacy [see § 214.110].

- Form of complaint by a purchaser-user of drugs for damages for personal injury based on the negligence of the pharmacist [see § 214.115].

- Form of complaint by a pharmacy owner against a prescription drug claims processor for failure to prepare and transmit pharmaceutical fee studies [see § 214.120].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesControlled SubstancesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & SuspensionTortsProducts LiabilityStrict Liability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART I. SCOPE

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.02

§ 214.02 Cross References

- For a form of complaint against a drug manufacturer for compensatory and punitive damages based on false advertising, see Ch. 14, Advertising .

- For forms alleging entitlement to treble damages when defendant is not licensed, see Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.40 et seq.

- For forms of complaint and allegations that may be used in an action brought by a plaintiff who purchased and used a defective drug against the manufacturer and distributor of the drug for damages based on strict liability, see Ch. 460, Products Liability .

- For forms of petitions of writs of mandate that may be used in proceedings to compel the issuance of a pharmacist's license, see Ch. 471B, Licensing by Public Agencies .

- For a form of petition of a writ of mandate to review an administrative decision that may be used in proceedings to review an order of the State Board of Pharmacy revoking, suspending, or modifying a pharmacist's license, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , et seq.

- For a form of notice required by Code Civ. Proc. § 364 of intention to commence action against health care provider, see Ch. 415, Physicians: Medical Malpractice .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesGeneral OverviewTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityHealthcare ProvidersTortsProducts LiabilityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART I. SCOPE

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.03

§ 214.03 Governing Law

The principle statutes that regulate the profession of pharmacy are Bus. & Prof. Code § 4000 et seq. (known as the Pharmacy Law) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4000]. These statutes are supplemented by 16 Cal. Code Reg §§ 1700-1794.

The provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 4000 et seq. generally do not apply to:

- The retail sale of drugs packaged or bottled in the manufacturer's or distributor's containers and labeled in accordance with federal and state drug labeling requirements;

- The sale of dangerous devices, hypodermic needles and syringes, and other specified solutions under specified conditions, to a licensed home health agency or hospice;

- The storage of devices in secure supply areas of licensed hospitals and clinics; or

- The retail sale of vitamins, mineral products, foods, supplements, or nutrients [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4057 (exception does not apply to drugs or devices subject to Bus. & Prof. Code § 4022)].

Regardless of whether the ingredient of a prescription is trademarked or not, a registered pharmacist must compound or dispense a prescription of a medical practitioner [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4051; see also § 214.10].

The duty of prescription drug claims processors to prepare and transmit pharmaceutical fee studies and pharmacy owners' right to enforce that duty are governed by Civ. Code §§ 2527 and 2528.

The Uniform Controlled Substances Act [Health & Safety Code § 11000 et seq.], and those provisions contained in the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Law [Health & Safety Code § 109875 et seq.] may also affect the manufacture and sale of prescription and other drugs. Liability of manufacturers and pharmacists for damages resulting from personal injuries caused by defects in drugs and prescriptions is governed by case law.

The Pharmacy Law was reorganized in 1996. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4000 et seq., enacted at that time, are to be construed as a continuation of the previous version of the law [1996 Stats, ch. 890, § 4].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesControlled SubstancesManufactureGeneral OverviewGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsPolice PowerHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART I. SCOPE

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.04

§ 214.04 Definitions

[1] Dangerous Drug

The term "dangerous drug" as used in this article means any drug unsafe for self-use in humans or animals, and includes the following [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4022]:

- Any drug bearing the legend: "Caution: federal law prohibits dispensing without prescription," "Rx only," or words of similar import.

- Any other drug that by federal or state law can be lawfully dispensed only on prescription or furnished pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 4006.

[2] Device

The term "device" means any instrument, apparatus, machine, implant, in vitro reagent, or contrivance, including any component, part, product or byproduct of a device, and accessory, that is, any of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4023; Health & Safety Code § 109920(b), (c)]:

- Intended for use in the diagnosis of disease or other condition, or in the cure, mitigation, treatment, or prevention of disease in humans or any other animal.

- Intended to affect the structure or any function of the body of humans or any other animal.

It does not include contact lenses, or any prosthetic or orthopedic device that does not require a prescription [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4023].

[3] Drug

The term "drug" means [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4025; Health & Safety Code § 109925]:

- Articles recognized in the official United States Pharmacopoeia, official Homeopathic Pharmacopoeia of the United States, or official National Formulary, or any supplement to any of them.

- Articles intended for use in the diagnosis, cure, mitigation, treatment, or prevention of disease in humans or other animals.

- Articles (other than food) intended to affect the structure or any function of the body of humans or other animals.

- Articles intended for use as a component of any of the foregoing articles.

[4] Manufacture

The term "manufacture" means the preparation, compounding, propagation, processing, or fabrication of any drug or device including repackaging or otherwise changing the container, wrapper, or labeling of any drug or device in furtherance of its distribution, but excluding repackaging from a bulk container by a retailer at the time of sale to its ultimate consumer [Health & Safety Code § 109970].

"Manufacturer" means and includes everyone who prepares, derives, produces, compounds, or repackages any drug or device except a pharmacy that manufactures on the immediate premises where the drug or device is sold to the ultimate consumer [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4033(a)(1)]. It does not mean a pharmacy compounding a drug for parenteral therapy, pursuant to a prescription, for delivery to another pharmacy for the purpose of delivering or administering the drug to the patient(s) named in the prescription, provided that neither the components for the drug nor the drug are compounded, fabricated, packaged, or otherwise prepared prior to receipt of the prescription [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4033(a)(2)]. It also does not mean a pharmacy that, at a patient's request, repackages a drug previously dispensed to the patient or to the patient's agent pursuant to a prescription [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4033(a)(3)].

"Manufacturer" also means a person who prepares, derives, manufactures, produces, or repackages a dangerous drug [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4022], device, or cosmetic. It includes the holders of a new drug application, an abbreviated new drug application, or a biologics license application, provided that the application has been approved; a manufacturer's third party logistics provider; a private label distributor (including colicensed partners) for whom the private label distributor's prescription drugs are originally manufactured and labeled for the distributor and have not been repackaged; or the distributor agent for the manufacturer, contract manufacturer, or private label distributor, whether the establishment is a member of the manufacturer's affiliated group (regardless of whether the member takes title to the drug) or is a contract distributor site [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4033(b)].

[5] Pharmacy

The term "pharmacy" as used in the Pharmacy Law means an area, place, or premises licensed by the board in which the profession of pharmacy is practiced and where prescriptions are compounded. It includes, but is not limited to, any area, place, or premises described in a license issued by the board where controlled substances, dangerous drugs, or dangerous devices are stored, possessed, prepared, manufactured, derived, compounded, or repackaged and from which the controlled substances, dangerous drugs, or dangerous devices are furnished, sold, or dispensed at retail [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4037(a); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4112(a) (nonresident pharmacy that delivers dangerous drugs or dangerous devices to California)].

"Pharmacy" does not include any area in a facility licensed by the State Department of Health Services where floor supplies, ward supplies, operating room supplies, or emergency room supplies of dangerous drugs or dangerous devices are stored or possessed solely for treatment of patients registered for treatment in the facility or for treatment of patients receiving emergency care in the facility [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4037(b)].

[6] Prescription

"Prescription" means an oral, written, or electronic transmission order given individually for the person or persons for whom ordered and issued by a physician, dentist, optometrist, podiatrist, veterinarian, or naturopathic doctor pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 3640.7 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 3640.7 is operative only until January 1, 2013, and repealed on January 1, 2014, unless Legislature changes those dates], or, if a drug order is issued pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 2746.51, 2836.1, 3502.1, or 3460.5, by a certified nurse-midwife, nurse practitioner, physician assistant, or naturopathic doctor licensed in California, or pursuant to either Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052(a)(4)(D) or (5)(A)(iv) by a pharmacist licensed in California [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4040(a); Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052(a)(4), (5) were amended to refer to permitted functions of a pharmacist in performing procedures or functions in a licensed health care facility as authorized by Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.1, and in performing procedures or functions as part of the care provided by a health care facility, a licensed home health agency, a licensed clinic in which there is a physician oversight, a provider who contracts with a licensed health care service plan with regard to the care or services provided to the enrollees of that health care service plan, or a physician, as authorized by Bus. & Prof. § 4052.2, respectively, but Bus. & Prof. Code § 4040(a) was not amended, so it continues to refer to outdated provisions in § 4052(a)]. The prescription must include the information specified in Bus. & Prof. Code § 4040(a)(1).

Notwithstanding Bus. & Prof. Code § 4040(a), a written order of the prescriber of a dangerous drug, except for a Schedule II controlled substance, containing at least the information specified in Bus. & Prof. Code § 4040(b) may be treated as a prescription by the dispensing pharmacist as long as any additional information required by § 4040(a) is readily retrievable in the pharmacy [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4040(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsPolice PowerHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentMedical DevicesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART I. SCOPE

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.05

§ 214.05 Agencies Regulating Pharmacists and Drugs

[1] State Board of Pharmacy

The Board of Pharmacy of the State of California in the Department of Consumer Affairs has responsibility for administering and enforcing the Pharmacy Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4001(a) (§ 4001(a) is operative only until July 1, 2010, and repealed on January 1, 2011, unless the Legislature changes those dates); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4018 ("Board" defined)]. Among its responsibilities are the following:

- Licensing pharmacists [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4200 et seq.].
- Disciplining pharmacists [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4300 et seq.].
- Operation of pharmacies [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4110 et seq.; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4112 (nonresident pharmacies that deliver controlled substances, dangerous drugs, or dangerous devices to California)].
- Sale of dangerous drugs or devices [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4080 et seq.].

It also oversees wholesalers and manufacturers [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4160 et seq.] and veterinary food-animal drug retailers [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4196 et seq.]. The Board is composed of registered pharmacists and public members [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4001(b), (c) (operative only until July 1, 2010, and repealed on January 1, 2011, unless Legislature changes those dates)].

The Board has authority to make rules and regulations as necessary for the protection of the public [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4005(a), (c); see 16 Cal. Code Reg § 1761 et seq. (rules of professional conduct)].

[2] Department of Health Services

The Department of Health Services licenses the manufacturer of a drug or device [Health & Safety Code § 111615]. This licensing requirement does not apply to a pharmacy that does not manufacture drugs or devices for sale other than in the regular course of conducting a retail business [Health & Safety Code § 111655(a)].

[3] Medical Board

The Medical Board of California, the State Board of Optometry, the Bureau of Naturopathic Medicine, the Dental Board of California, the Osteopathic Medical Board of California, the Board of Registered Nursing, the Veterinary Medical Board, and the Physician Assistant Committee have authority, with the Board of Pharmacy, to assure compliance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 4170(a) (dispensing of prescription drugs or dangerous devices by prescriber in office or place of practice). Additionally, these boards arespecifically charged with the enforcement of the Pharmacy Law, relative to their respective licensees [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4170(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsPolice PowerHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART I. SCOPE

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 214.06-214.09

[Reserved]

§§ 214.06[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
1. Issuance of License Certificate

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.10

§ 214.10 Certificate Required for Pharmacy Practice

No person may manufacture, compound, furnish, sell, or dispense any dangerous drug or device, or dispense or compound any prescription pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 4040 unless he or she is a pharmacist [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4051; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4036 ("pharmacist" defined); see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 4110 (pharmacy license)]. This requirement does not apply to a person who is qualified for an exemption or otherwise specifically excepted [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4053-4057].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
1. Issuance of License Certificate

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.11

§ 214.11 Application Requirements

An applicant for a pharmacist's license must establish on a prescribed form [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4201] that he or she meets all of the following requirements [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4200(a)]:

- Is at least 18 years old.

- Has graduated from a college of pharmacy or department of pharmacy of a university recognized by the Board, or, if the applicant graduated from a foreign pharmacy school, the foreign-educated applicant has been certified by the Foreign Pharmacy Graduate Examination Committee.

- Has completed at least 150 semester units of collegiate study in the United States, or the equivalent in a foreign country, with no less than 90 of those semester units completed while in resident attendance at a school or college of pharmacy.

- Has earned at least a baccalaureate degree in a course of study devoted to the practice of pharmacy.

- Has completed 1,500 hours of pharmacy practice experience or the equivalent in accordance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 4209.

- Has passed a written and practical examination given by the board prior to December 31, 2003, or has passed the North American Pharmacist Licensure Examination and the California Practice Standards and Jurisprudence Examination for Pharmacists on or after January 1, 2004.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
1. Issuance of License Certificate

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.12

§ 214.12 Refusal of Application for Unprofessional Conduct

The Board may refuse a license to any applicant guilty of unprofessional conduct. It may, in its sole discretion, issue a probationary license, subjectto any terms or conditions not contrary to public policy, to any applicant who is guilty of unprofessional conduct and who has met all other requirements for licensure [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4300(c); see discussion regarding unprofessional conduct in § 214.21[1]].

In addition, under the general provisions regulating licensed professions under the Business and Professions Code [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 475 et seq.], an applicant for certification may be denied a license if he or she has committed any of the fraudulent or criminal acts listed in Bus. & Prof. Code § 480 [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 475, 4202(c)].

For a detailed discussion of these acts and forms of petitions for writs of mandate that may be used in proceedings to compel the issuance of a pharmacist's certificate, see Ch. 471B, Licensing by Public Agencies .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsMandamusHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
1. Issuance of License Certificate

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.13

§ 214.13 Scope of Pharmacist's Practice

By statute, the Legislature has declared the practice of pharmacy to be a profession [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4050(a)]. It has also defined the scope of a pharmacist's practice to include:

- Furnishing to a prescriber a reasonable quantity of compounded drug product for prescriber office use [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052(a)(1)].

- Transmitting a valid prescription to another registered pharmacist [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052(a)(2)].

- Administering, orally or topically, drugs and biologicals pursuant to a prescriber's order [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052(a)(3)].

- Performing procedures or functions in a licensed health care facility as authorized by Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.1 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052(a)(4)], which requires that those procedures or functions be performed in accordance with policies, procedures, or protocols developed by health professionals, including physicians, pharmacists, and registered nurses, with the concurrence of the facility administrator [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.1(a)], and requires that the pharmacist has received appropriate training as prescribed in the policies and procedures of the facility prior to performing any procedure authorized by § 4052.1 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.1(b)].

- Performing procedures or functions as part of the care provided by a health care facility, a licensed home health agency, a licensed clinic in which there is a physician oversight, a provider who contracts with a licensed health care service plan with regard to the care or services provided to the enrollees of that health care service plan, or a physician, as authorized by Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.2 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052(a)(5)], which requires that the procedures or functions be performed in accordance with the policies, procedures, or protocols of the facility, agency, clinic, plan, or physician, and in accordance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.2(c) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.2(a); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.2(c)

(requiring that policies, procedures, or protocols referred to in § 4052.2(c) be developed by health care professionals, including physicians, pharmacists, and registered nurses and meet specific requirements)], and that before performing any procedure authorized by § 4052.2, a pharmacist has either successfully completed clinical residency training or demonstrated clinical experience in direct patient care delivery [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.2(d)].

- Manufacturing, measuring, fitting to the patient, or selling and repairing, dangerous devices or furnishing instructions to the patient or the patient's representative concerning the use of those devices [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052(a)(6)].

- Providing consultation to patients and professional information, including clinical or pharmacological information, advice, or consultation to other health care professionals [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052(a)(7)].

- Furnishing emergency contraception drug therapy as authorized by Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.3 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052(a)(8)], which requires that a pharmacist furnish emergency contraception drug therapy in accordance with either standardized procedures or protocols developed by the pharmacist and an authorized prescriber acting within his or her scope of practice or standardized procedures or protocols developed and approved by both the Board and the Medical Board of California in consultation with the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, the California Pharmacist Association, and other appropriate entities [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.3(a)], and that before furnishing emergency contraception drug therapy, a pharmacist complete a specified training program on emergency contraception [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.3(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
1. Issuance of License Certificate

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.14

§ 214.14 Related Licenses and Applications

"License" means and includes any license, permit, registration, certificate or exemption issued by the board. It also includes the process or applying for and renewing any such document [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4032].

All applications under the Pharmacy Law are subject to general rules [see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4207 (investigation of applicant), 4300 (grounds for denial of application or revocation of license)]. Applications for specific types of licenses are also subject to some specific rules [see, e.g., pharmacists, discussed in § 214.11; conduct of pharmacy, wholesaler, medical device retailer, or veterinary food-animal drug retailer (see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4201); nonprofit community clinic or free clinic (see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4180, 4203); and surgical clinic (see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4190, 4204)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
1. Issuance of License Certificate

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 214.15-214.19

[Reserved]

§§ 214.15[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
2. Revocation or Suspension of Pharmacist License

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.20

§ 214.20 License or Other Permit Subject to Suspension or Revocation

Every license issued may be suspended or revoked [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4300(a)]. For discussion of the various modes of discipline that may be imposed by the Board, see § 214.29.

The proceedings under the Pharmacy Law are conducted in accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act (Gov. Code § 11500 et seq.) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4300(e)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
2. Revocation or Suspension of Pharmacist License

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.21

§ 214.21 Initiation of Disciplinary Conduct by Board

[1] Mandatory Action by Board for Fraudulent Procurement of License or Unprofessional Conduct

The Board must take take action against any holder of a license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4301]:

- Who is guilty of unprofessional conduct.
- Whose license has been procured by fraud or misrepresentation or issued by mistake.

The Board's duty to take action is mandatory. What may be considered "unprofessional conduct" is discussed in §§ 214.22, 214.23.

[2] Discretionary Action Against Holder of Probationary Certificate

The Board may initiate disciplinary proceedings, conducted in accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act (Gov. Code § 11500 et seq.), to revoke or suspend any probationary certificate of licensure for any violation of the terms or conditions of probation [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4300(d), (e); for discussion of procedures under the Administrative Procedure Act, see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication , et seq.].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
2. Revocation or Suspension of Pharmacist License

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.22

§ 214.22 Unprofessional Conduct Generally

Unprofessional conduct is described in many sections of the Business and Professions Code. Section 4301 provides a partial list of what may be considered unprofessional conduct [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4301].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
2. Revocation or Suspension of Pharmacist License

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.23

§ 214.23 Acts Considered Unprofessional Conduct

[1] Violation of the Pharmacy Law or Other Federal and State Law

Unprofessional conduct includes, but is not limited to, the violating or attempting to violate, directly or indirectly, or assisting in or abetting the violation of or conspiring to violate any provision or term of the Pharmacy Law (Bus. & Prof. Code § 4000 et seq.) or of the applicable federal and state laws and regulations governing pharmacy, including regulations established by the Board or by any other state or federal regulatory agency [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4301(o)].

Unprofessional conduct also includes engaging in any conduct that subverts or attempts to subvert an investigation of the Board [Bus. & Prof. § 4301(q)].

[2] Conviction of Crime Related to Pharmacy Practice

Conviction of a crime substantially related to the qualifications, functions, and duties of a licensee constitutes unprofessional conduct under the Pharmacy Law. The record of conviction of a violation of 21 U.S.C. § 801 et seq., regulating controlled substances, or of a violation of California statutes regulating controlled substances or dangerous drugs is conclusive evidence of unprofessional conduct. In all other cases, the record of conviction is conclusive evidence only of the fact that the conviction occurred. The Board may inquire into the circumstances surrounding the commission of the crime to fix the degree of discipline or, in the case of a conviction not involving controlled substances or dangerous drugs, to determine if the conviction is of an offense substantially related to the qualifications, functions, and duties of a licensee. A plea or verdict of guilty or a conviction following a plea of nolo contendere is deemed to be a conviction [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4301(l)].

[3] Conviction for Violations Regarding Controlled Substance, Dangerous Drugs or Alcohol

The violation of any California statutes, of any other state, or of the United States regulating controlled substances and dangerous drugs constitutes unprofessional conduct under the Pharmacy Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4301(j)]. The conviction of more than one misdemeanor or any felony involving the use, consumption, or self-administration of any dangerous drug or alcoholic beverage, or any combination of those substances, also constitutes unprofessional conduct under the Pharmacy Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4301(k)].

Unprofessional conduct also includes the cash compromise of a charge of violation of 21 U.S.C. § 801 et seq. (drug abuse and prevention control) regarding controlled substances or of Welf. & Inst. Code § 14000 et seq. relating to the Medi-Cal program. The record of the compromise is conclusive evidence of unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. § 4301(m)].

[4] Gross Immorality, Incompetence, or Gross Negligence

Unprofessional conduct includes gross immorality, incompetence, or gross negligence [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4301(a)-(c)].

[5] Fraud and Moral Turpitude

Unprofessional conduct includes the commission of any act involving moral turpitude, dishonesty, fraud, deceit, or corruption, whether the act is committed in the course of relations as a licensee or otherwise, and whether the act is a felony or misdemeanor or not [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4301(f)].

[6] False Representations in Writing

Knowingly making or signing any certificate or other document that falsely represents the existence or nonexistence of a state of facts constitutes unprofessional conduct within the meaning of the Pharmacy Law [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4301(g)].

[7] Dangerous Use of Drugs or Alcohol

The administering to oneself of a controlled substance, or the use of a dangerous drug or of alcoholic beverages to the extent or in a manner as to be dangerous or injurious to oneself, to a person holding a pharmacist's license, or to any other person or to the public, or to the extent that the use impairs the ability of the person to conduct with safety to the public the practice authorized by the license constitutes unprofessional conduct under the Pharmacy Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4301(h)]. Selling, trading, transferring or furnishing drugs obtained pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 256b to a person the licensee knows or reasonably should have known is not a patient of a covered entity is unprofessional conduct under the Pharmacy Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4301(r)].

[8] Providing Controlled Substance to Addict

Except as otherwise authorized by law, knowingly selling, furnishing, giving away, or administering, or offering to sell, furnish, give away, or administer, any controlled substances to an addict constitutes unprofessional conduct under the Pharmacy Law [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4301(i)].

[9] Conduct That Would Have Warranted Denial of License

Actions or conduct that would have warranted denial of a license constitutes unprofessional conduct under the Pharmacy Law [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4301(p)].

[10] Excessive Furnishing of Controlled Substances

The clearly excessive furnishing of dangerous drugs by a wholesaler to a pharmacy that primarily or solely dispenses prescription drugs to patients of long-term care facilities constitutes unprofessional conduct under the Pharmacy Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4301(s) (further enumerating factors for determining whether furnishing of controlled substances is clearly excessive)].

[11] Cash Compromise of Controlled Substances Charge

The cash compromise of a charge of violation of 21 U.S.C. § 801 et seq., regulating controlled substances, constitutes unprofessional conduct under the Pharmacy Law. The record of the compromise is conclusive evidence of unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4301(m)].

[12] Failure to Comply with Order to Cease and Desist Compounding Injectable Sterile Drug Products

The failure to comply with an order to cease and desist from compounding injectable sterile drug products issued by the Board will be deemed unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4127.3(d); for discussion of the compounding of injectable sterile drug products generally, see § 214.45[6]].

[13] Other Acts

Unprofessional conduct for a pharmacist may also include any of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4306.5]:

- Acts or omissions that involve, in whole or in part, the inappropriate exercise of the pharmacist's education, training, or experience as a pharmacist, whether or not the act or omission arises in the course of the practice of pharmacy or the ownership, management, administration, or operation of a pharmacy or other entity licensed by the Board.

- Acts or omissions that involve, in whole or in part, the failure to exercise or implement the pharmacist's best professional judgment or corresponding responsibility with regard to the dispensing or furnishing of controlled substances, dangerous drugs, or dangerous devices, or with regard to the provision of services.

- Acts or omissions that involve, in whole or in part, the failure to consult appropriate patient, prescription, and other records pertaining to the performance of any pharmacy function.

- Acts or omissions that involve, in whole or in part, the failure to fully maintain and retain appropriate patient-specific information pertaining to the performance of any pharmacy function.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesControlled SubstancesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
2. Revocation or Suspension of Pharmacist License

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.24

§ 214.24 Activity on Premises Is Not Ordinary Activity

The Board may cancel the license of a wholesaler, pharmacy, or veterinary food-animal drug retailer if the activity on the licensed premises is not the ordinary activity for which the license has been issued for at least one day each calendar week during any 120-day period (other than by order of the board), or for a shorter period if good cause is shown [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4312(a), (e)].

To cancel a license for violation of Bus. & Prof. Code § 4312, the Board must first make a diligent, good faith effort to give notice to the licensee by personal service. If no written objection is received within 10 days after personal service is made or a diligent, good faith effort to give notice by personal service has failed, the Board may cancel the certificate, license, permit or registration without a hearing [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4312(a)].

If the licensee files a written objection, the Board must file an accusation based on the business remaining closed, and proceedings must beconducted in accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act (Gov. Code § 11500 et seq.) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4312(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
2. Revocation or Suspension of Pharmacist License

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.25

§ 214.25 Unfair Competition

Resale of drugs acquired at preferentially low prices pursuant to the federal Nonprofit Institutions Act (15 U.S.C. § 13c), with certain limited exceptions, is prohibited and constitutes unfair competition within the meaning of Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq. [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4380, 4381]. This behavior subjects one to injunction and to liability for treble damages [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4470; see also Ch. 565, Unfair Competition, § 565.10 et seq.].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Antitrust & Trade LawTrade Practices & Unfair CompetitionGeneral OverviewAntitrust & Trade LawTrade Practices & Unfair CompetitionState RegulationGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
2. Revocation or Suspension of Pharmacist License

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.26

§ 214.26 Discipline by Another State

Disciplinary action by another state concerning a license to practice pharmacy, to operate a pharmacy, or to do any other act for which a license is required under California law regulating and licensing pharmacists, constitutes unprofessional conduct, and is grounds for disciplinary action against a licensee or grounds for the denial of licensure of an applicant [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4301(n)].

If a pharmacist is licensed or otherwise authorized to practice pharmacy in another state or by a federal agency, and that license or authority is suspended or revoked, the pharmacist's license will be suspended automatically for the duration of the suspension or revocation [Bus. & Prof. § 4301.5(a)]. If an accusation for permanent discipline is not filed within 90 days of the suspension, it is automatically terminated [Bus. & Prof. § 4301.5(c)]. The Board must notify the pharmacist of this suspension and of the right to have the issue of penalty heard in an administrative proceeding [Bus. & Prof. § 4301.5(a), see Bus. & Prof. § 4301.5(c) (administrative procedure)].

Upon its own motion or for good cause shown, the Board may decline to impose or may set aside the suspension when it appears to be in the interest of justice to do so, with due regard to maintaining the integrity of and confidence in the pharmacy profession [Bus. & Prof. § 4301.5(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
2. Revocation or Suspension of Pharmacist License

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.27

§ 214.27 Misconduct Need Not Be Intentional

In disciplining an individual for violation of a law regulating pharmacy, the Board has authority to penalize a licensee for an employee's unlawful acts although unauthorized by and unknown to the licensee [Arenstein v. California State Bd. of Pharmacy (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 179, 192-193, 71 Cal. Rptr. 357 ; Randle v. Cal. State Bd. of Pharmacy (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 254, 261, 49 Cal. Rptr. 485] . Even under Bus. & Prof. Code § 4328, which prohibits permitting a person other than a registered pharmacist to dispense drugs, the permission need not be given knowingly [Brodskyv. Cal. State Bd. of Pharmacy (1959) 173 Cal. App. 2d 680, 688-689, 344 P.2d 68 (decided under former statute)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
2. Revocation or Suspension of Pharmacist License

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.28

§ 214.28 Responsibility for Acts of Employees

A person who maintains and conducts a pharmacy may be disciplined by the Board for the unlawful acts of his or her employees while engaged in the conduct and operation of the pharmacy. This rule applies even though the permittee does not authorize the unlawful acts and did not have actual knowledge of the activities [Arenstein v. California State Bd. of Pharmacy (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 179, 192-193, 71 Cal. Rptr. 357] .

A pharmacist-in-charge, although himself or herself an employee of the pharmacy owner, may have responsibilities similar to those of an owner for the unknown acts of the owner's employees [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4113(b); Smith v. State Bd. of Pharmacy (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 229, 243, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 532] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
2. Revocation or Suspension of Pharmacist License

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.29

§ 214.29 Actions Board May Take

[1] Imposing Discipline

The Board must discipline a holder of any license whose default has been entered or who has been heard by the Board and found guilty, by any of the following methods [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4300(b)]:

- Suspending judgment.
- Placing the holder on probation.
- Suspending the holder from practice for not more than one year.
- Revoking the license.
- Taking such other disciplinary action that in its discretion it deems proper.

On satisfactory completion of probation, the board must convert the probationary certificate to a regular certificate, free of conditions [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4300(d)].

[2] Awarding Costs, Including Attorney's Fees

The administrative law judge conducting the disciplinary hearing may order a disciplined pharmacist to pay the Board's investigation and enforcement costs, including its legal fees [Angelier v. State Board of Pharmacy (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 592, 599-602, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 213 (construing Bus. & Prof. Code § 125.3(c) and (j) so as to produce harmony among various statutory provisions for recovery of costs incurred in disciplinary proceedings)]. However, the Medical Board may not request nor obtain investigation and prosecution costs for a disciplinary proceeding against a licensed pharmacist [Bus. & Prof. Code § 125.3(k)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesCosts & Attorney FeesAttorney Expenses & FeesGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesCosts & Attorney FeesCostsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
2. Revocation or Suspension of Pharmacist License

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.30

§ 214.30 Modification of Board Decision

The choice of penalty by the Board is within its discretion and not modifiable on review unless the Board clearly abused its discretion by imposing an unreasonable hardship on the licensee [West Romaine Corp. v. Cal. State Bd. of Pharmacy (1968) 266 Cal. App. 2d 901, 905-906, 72 Cal. Rptr. 569 ; O'Mara v. State Bd. of Pharmacy (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 8, 12, 54 Cal. Rptr. 862 ; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4300(e) (action of Board final subject to review by superior court)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewStandards of ReviewAbuse of DiscretionHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
2. Revocation or Suspension of Pharmacist License

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.31

§ 214.31 Reinstatement of License

[1] May File Petition for Reinstatement After One Year

Any person whose license has been revoked or suspended by the Board may petition for reinstatement or modification of the penalty. A petition must state such facts as are required by the Board and be supported by two or more verified recommendations from two Board licensees as well as recommendations from two or more citizens who have personal knowledge of the penalty and the activities of the petitioner since the disciplinary penalty was imposed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4309(a), (b)]. When a petition is filed less than 24 months after a previous petition has been denied, the Board may deny the second petition summarily [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4309(g); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4309(a) (setting out requirements for times when petition may be filed)].

For a form of petition for reinstatement, see § 214.110.

[2] Facts to Be Considered by Board

In making its decision on the petition, the Board may consider factors including, but not limited to, all of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4309(d)]:

- All the petitioner's activities since the disciplinary action was taken.
- The offense for which the petitioner was disciplined.
- The petitioner's activities during the time the license was in good standing.
- The petitioner's documented rehabilitative efforts.
- The petitioner's general reputation for truth and professional ability.

The Board is required by law to take into account all competent evidence of rehabilitation that is provided to it [Bus. & Prof. Code § 482; see 16 Cal. Code Reg § 1769 (criteria for determining rehabilitation)].

The board may investigate any and all matters pertaining to the petition and documents submitted with or in connection with the application [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4309(i)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRequirementsHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
2. Revocation or Suspension of Pharmacist License

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.32

§ 214.32 Judicial Review

[1] Review by Writ of Mandate Filed in Superior Court

The action taken by the Board of Pharmacy is final except that the propriety of such action is subject to review by petition for a writ of mandate filed in the superior court under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4300(e); Grant v. Board of Medical Examiners (1965) 232 Cal. App. 2d 820, 826-827, 43 Cal. Rptr. 270] .

For forms of a petition for writ of mandate and an alternative writ of mandate for use in seeking review of a decision by the Board of Pharmacy to revoke, suspend, or otherwise modify a license, see Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing of Agency Decisions .

[2] Standard of Review

[a] Independent Judgment by Superior Court

In reviewing the decision of the Board, the superior court may exercise its independent judgment on the evidence [Angelier v. State Board of Pharmacy (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 592, 599, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 213 ; Arenstein v. California State Bd. of Pharmacy (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 179, 184-186, 71 Cal. Rptr. 357] .

[b] Credible, Competent Evidence Standard in Appellate Court

The role of the appellate court is solely to decide whether credible, competent evidence supports the trial court's judgment [Arenstein v. California State Bd. of Pharmacy (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 179, 184-186, 71 Cal. Rptr. 357 ; Randle v. Cal. State Bd. of Pharmacy (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 254, 256-257, 49 Cal. Rptr. 485] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Administrative LawJudicial ReviewStandards of ReviewGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsMandamusHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
2. Revocation or Suspension of Pharmacist License

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.33

§ 214.33 Disposition of Drugs After License Voided or Revoked or Business Discontinued

When the license of a wholesaler, pharmacist, or veterinary food-animal drug retailer is cancelled pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 4312(a) (temporary closure of business), or revoked pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 4300 et seq. (disciplinary proceedings), or a wholesaler, pharmacy, or veterinary food-animal drug retailer notifies the board of its intent to remain closed or to discontinue business, the licensee must, within 10 days, arrange for the transfer of all dangerous drugs and controlled substances or dangerous devices to another licensee authorized to possess such drugs and substances or dangerous devices. The licensee performing this transfer must immediately confirm in writing to the Board that the transfer has taken place [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4312(b)].

If a pharmacy, wholesaler, or veterinary food-animal drug retailer fails to comply with Bus. & Prof. Code § 4312(b), the Board may obtain an order from the superior court authorizing it to enter the pharmacy, wholesaler, or veterinary food-animal drug retailer and inventory and store, transfer, sell, or arrange for the sale of the drugs and substances or dangerous devices [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4312(c)].

When the Board sells or arranges for the sale of any dangerous drugs or controlled substances or dangerous devices pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 4312(c), it may retain from the proceeds of the sale an amount sufficient to cover its costs, including the costs of disposing of the drugs, substances, or devices, and return the remaining proceeds to the licensee or, if the licensee cannot be found, to the Pharmacy Board Contingent Fund [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4312(d)].

It is a misdemeanor for anyone to knowingly fail to comply with Bus. & Prof. Code § 4312(b) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4335].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesControlled SubstancesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration &

OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Regulation of Pharmacists
2. Revocation or Suspension of Pharmacist License

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 214.34-214.39

[Reserved]

§§ 214.34[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
1. Selling, Dispensing, and Compounding Prescription Drugs

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.40

§ 214.40 Persons Qualified to Dispense Prescriptions

[1] Registered Pharmacist

In general, it is unlawful for any person to manufacture, compound, sell, or dispense any dangerous drug or devices, or compound any prescription of a medical practitioner, unless that person is a registered pharmacist [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4051]. It is a misdemeanor for anyone who has a pharmacy to permit the compounding or dispensing of prescriptions or the furnishing of dangerous drugs by anyone other than a registered pharmacist or to fail to place a registered pharmacist in charge of the pharmacy [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4328, 4330(a)].

In addition, any nonpharmacist owner who commits any act that would tend to subvert the efforts of the pharmacist-in-charge to comply with the laws governing the operation of the pharmacy is guilty of a misdemeanor [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4330(b)].

A prescription for controlled substances is only to be issued for a legitimate medical purpose by an individual practitioner acting in the usual course of professional practice. The responsibility for the proper prescribing and dispensing of controlled substances is on the prescribing practitioner, but a corresponding responsibility rests on the pharmacist who fills the prescription [Health & Safety Code § 11153(a)]. For discussion of what is not considered a legitimate medical purpose, see § 214.45[4].

[2] Exempted Manufacturers, Wholesalers, and Other Medical Providers

The code grants exemptions to the rule discussed in [1], above, for manufacturers, wholesalers, medical licensees [see [3], below], sellers of certain trademark drugs and others [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4053, 4054, 4057].

Wholesalers and manufacturers, including their agents and employees, are prohibited from furnishing controlled substances for other than legitimate medical purposes [Health & Safety Code § 11153.5(a)]. The violation of this provision by anyone knowing, or having a conscious disregard for the fact, that the controlled substances are for other than a legitimate medical purpose is a crime [Health & Safety Code § 11153.5(b)].

[3] Exempted Medical Licensees

Even though licensed physicians, surgeons, optometrists, dentists, and podiatrists who are not registered pharmacists may dispense drugs or dangerous devices, they may do so only under the conditions specified in Bus. & Prof. Code § 4170(a). These conditions include the requirement that the physician, surgeon, optometrist, dentist, or podiatrist fulfill all labeling and recordkeeping requirements imposed on pharmacists by Bus. & Prof. Code § 4076 et seq. [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4170(a); see discussion in §§ 214.44 and 214.46].

Registered nurses functioning within certain licensed clinics may also dispense drugs [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4173; see also Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2725.1, 2836.1-2836.3].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesControlled SubstancesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
1. Selling, Dispensing, and Compounding Prescription Drugs

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.41

§ 214.41 Drugs That Require Prescription

Certain drugs and devices, when intended for use by humans, may be sold only with a written prescription or an oral prescription that is promptly reduced to writing [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4059; Health & Safety Code § 1150]. Generally, these are drugs and devices that are habit forming or involve sufficient danger to require that their use be under the supervision of a practitioner licensed to administer those drugs or devices [Health & Safety Code §§ 111225, 111350].

Under the California Uniform Controlled Substances Act [Health & Safety Code §§ 11000-11651], a controlled substance generally may not be dispensed without a prescription that meets the requirements of Health & Safety Code §§ 11150-11180 [Health & Safety Code § 11027; see Health & Safety Code §§ 11150-11207].

During a federal, state, or local emergency, a pharmacist may, in good faith, furnish a dangerous drug or a dangerous device in reasonable quantities without a prescription [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4062].

Under the Compassionate Use Act of 1996, seriously ill persons may obtain and use marijuana for medical purposes when that use is deemed appropriate and has been recommended by a physician who has determined that the person's health would benefit from the use of marijuana [Health & Safety Code § 11362.5]. Patients, primary caregivers, and physicians will not be subject to criminal prosecution or sanction for this activity. However, the Act specifically provides that it does not supersede laws prohibiting persons from engaging in conduct that endangers others or condone the use diversion of marijuana for nonmedical purposes [Health & Safety Code § 11362.5].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesControlled SubstancesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
1. Selling, Dispensing, and Compounding Prescription Drugs

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.42

§ 214.42 Contents of Prescriptions

Generally, prescriptions must contain the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4040(a)]:

- The name(s) and address(es) of the patient(s).
- The name and quantity of the drug or device prescribed and the directions for use.
- The date of issue.
- The name, address, and telephone number of the prescriber, his or her license classification, and his or her federal registry number, if a controlled substance is prescribed (this information may be rubber stamped, typed, printed by hand, or typeset).
- A legible, clear notice of the condition for which the drug is being prescribed, if requested by the patient(s).
- If the prescription is in writing, the signature of the prescriber issuing the order of the certified nurse-midwife, physician assistant, nurse practitioner, or naturopathic doctor who issues a drug order pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 2746.51, 2836.1, 3502.1, or 3640.5 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 3640.7 is operative only until January 1, 2013, and repealed on January 1, 2014, unless Legislature changes those dates], respectively, or the pharmacist who issues a drug order pursuant to either Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052(a)(4)(D) or (5)(A)(iv) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052(a)(4), (5) were amended to refer to permitted functions of a pharmacist in performing procedures or functions in a licensed health care facility as authorized by Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.1, and in performing procedures or functions as part of the care provided by a health care facility, a licensed home health agency, a licensed clinic in which there is a physician oversight, a provider who contracts with a licensed health care service plan with regard to the care or services provided to the enrollees of that health care service plan, or a physician, as authorized by Bus. & Prof. § 4052.2, respectively, but Bus. & Prof. Code § 4040(a) was not amended, so it continues to refer to outdated provisions in § 4052(a)].

Variations on these requirements are described in Bus. & Prof. Code § 4040(b), (c)]. In addition, there are separate and more stringent requirements for the contents of prescriptions for controlled substances [see Health & Safety Code §§ 11164, 11167].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesControlled SubstancesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
1. Selling, Dispensing, and Compounding Prescription Drugs

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.43

§ 214.43 Falsification of Prescriptions for Controlled Substance

The Uniform Controlled Substances Act prohibits the falsification of prescriptions for controlled substances [see Health & Safety Code § 11157].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesControlled SubstancesDelivery, Distribution & SaleGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
1. Selling, Dispensing, and Compounding Prescription Drugs

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.44

§ 214.44 Proper Records for Prescriptions and Drug Sales

When called on, the owner or manager of a pharmacy or other specified store must furnish the names of the owner, manager, and employees together with a brief statement of the capacity of these persons [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4082].

All prescriptions filled by a pharmacy and all other records required by Bus. & Prof. Code § 4081 must be maintained on the premises and available for inspection for at least three years. If the pharmacy discontinues business, the records must be maintained in a board-licensed facility for at least three years [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4333(a)]. Willful failure to comply is a misdemeanor punishable by a fine [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4333(b)]. The board may, on written request, waive the requirement that the records be maintained on the premises or, for a pharmacy that discontinues business, at a board-licensed facility [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4333(c)]. The pharmacist must also keep prescriptions of controlled substances on file for a period of three years from the date of filling [Health & Safety Code §§ 11158, 11179, 11205].

Any person who fails to maintain or produce required records relating to the sale and inventory of dangerous drugs or devices is guilty of amisdemeanor [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4332; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4081 (records requirements)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesControlled SubstancesDelivery, Distribution & SaleReportingGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
1. Selling, Dispensing, and Compounding Prescription Drugs

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.45

§ 214.45 Dispensing of Prescriptions

[1] Dispensing Without License

It is unlawful for any person to manufacture, compound, furnish, sell, or dispense any dangerous drug or devices, or to dispense or compound any prescription pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 4040 unless he or she is a registered pharmacist under the provisions of the Pharmacy Law, unless the Pharmacy Law provides otherwise [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4051].

[2] Use of Generic Drugs for Prescriptions

Unless the prescriber indicates otherwise, a pharmacist filling a prescription order for a drug product prescribed by its trade or brand name may select another drug product with the same active chemical ingredients of the same strength, quantity, and dosage form, and of the same generic drug type [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4073(a), (b)]. The pharmacist, in this instance, assumes the same responsibility for selecting the dispensed drug as would be incurred in filling a prescription for a drug product prescribed by generic name. The prescriber assumes no liability for an act or omission by the pharmacist in selecting, preparing, or dispensing the drug product [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4073(c); see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 4122(a) (requiring posted notice of possiblity of generic drug product selection)]. When such a substitution is made, the use of the cost-saving drug product dispensed must be communicated to the patient and the name of the dispensed drug indicated on the prescription label, except when the prescriber orders otherwise [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4073(e)].

In addition to the authority to select another product under Bus. & Prof. Code § 4073, a pharmacist may select a different form of medication with the same active chemical ingredients of equivalent strength and duration of therapy as the prescribed drug product when the change will improve the patient's ability to comply with the prescribed drug therapy, unless the prescriber indicates not to substitute for the prescribed drug [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.5(a), (b), (c)]. However, substitution between long-acting and short-acting forms of a medication with the same chemical ingredients or between one drug product and two or more drug products with the same chemical ingredients is not permitted [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.5(f)]. A pharmacist selecting a different form of medication assumes the same responsibility for the dispensed product as he or she would for filing a prescription using the prescribed form of medication, and the prescriber incurs no liability for an act by the pharmacist in so selecting, preparing or dispensing a product [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.5(c)]. A pharmacist substituting a different form of medication must communicate that to thepatient and indicate the name of the dispensed drug on the prescription label unless the prescriber orders otherwise [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.5(e)].

[3] Adulteration of Drug or Device Prohibited

It is unlawful for any person to adulterate a drug or device or to manufacture, receive in commerce, sell, deliver, hold, or offer for sale any drug or device that is adulterated [Health & Safety Code §§ 111295-111305]. The statute defines several forms of adulteration including the existence of any filthy, putrid, or decomposed substance in a drug or device [Health & Safety Code § 111250; see Health & Safety Code §§ 111255-111290].

[4] Controlled Substance Not Dispensed for Legitimate Purpose

[a] Substance Not Issued in Usual Course of Treatment or Legitimate Research

An order purporting to be a prescription that is not issued in the usual course of professional treatment or of legitimate and authorized research, is not a legal prescription, unless otherwise authorized by the California Uniform Controlled Substances Act [Health & Safety Code § 11153(a)].

[b] Substance Dispensed for Addict or Habitual User

An order for an addict or habitual user of controlled substances that is not issued in the course of professional treatment or as part of an authorized narcotic treatment program for the purpose of providing the user with controlled substances sufficient to keep him or her comfortable by maintaining customary use, is not a legal prescription, unless otherwise authorized by the California Uniform Controlled Substances Act [Health & Safety Code § 11153(a)].

[c] Penalty for Knowing Violation

A pharmacist who knowingly fills an order in violation of Health & Safety Code § 11153(a) is subject to imprisonment, a fine, or both [Health & Safety Code § 11153(b); see Health & Safety Code § 11156].

[5] Selling, Dispensing, or Compounding Drug While Under the Influence

It is a misdemeanor to sell, dispense, or compound any drug while under the influence of any dangerous drug or alcoholic beverage [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4327]. Forgery of a prescription is a crime [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4324(a)].

[6] Compounding of Injectable Sterile Drug Products

Contingent on the allocation of positions to the Board for the implementation of the provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 4127 et seq. governing the compounding of injectable sterile drug products [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4127.6], effective January 1, 2003 or the effective date or regulations adopted by the board for the compounding of injectable sterile drug products pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 4127 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4127.1(f)], a pharmacy may not compound injectable sterile drug products in California unless it has obtained a renewable, nontransferable license pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 4127.1 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4127.1(a)]. However, reconstitution of a sterile powder does not require a license if the powder was obtained from a manufacturer and the drug is reconstituted for administration to patients by a health care professional licensed to administer drugs by injection [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4127.1(e)]. A nonresident pharmacy may not compound injectable sterile drug products for shipment into California without a license [Bus. & Prof. § 4127.2(a)]. Violation of the statutory or regulatory provisions regarding injectable sterile drug products may subject the violator to a fine [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4127.4].

When the board has a reasonable belief that a pharmacy compounding injectable sterile drug products poses an immediate threat to the public health or safety, the board may issue a cease and desist order, which must provide that the owner may request a hearing, and a notice to the owner setting forth the acts or omissions with which the owner is charged [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4127.3]. Review of the decision of the Board's decision after the hearing may be sought to a writ of mandamus pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4127.3(c)]. Failure to comply with a cease and desist order is unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4127.3(d); see § 214.23[11]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesControlled SubstancesDelivery, Distribution & SaleGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
1. Selling, Dispensing, and Compounding Prescription Drugs

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.46

§ 214.46 Labeling and Packaging of Prescriptions

[1] Labeling Defined

Labeling means any label or other written, printed, or graphic matter on or accompanying a drug or device or its wrapper or container [Health & Safety Code §§ 109955-109960].

[2] Prescription Must Be Dispensed With Correct Label in Correct Container

A pharmacist, physician, surgeon, or podiatrist may not dispense any prescription except in a container correctly labeled with the manufacturer's trade name of the drug or the generic name and the name of the manufacturer, unless the prescriber or nurse practitioner who functions pursuant to a standardized procedure Bus. & Prof. Code § 2836.1, or protocol, the physician assistant who functions pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 3502.1, the naturopathic doctor who functions pursuant to a standardized procedure or protocol described in Bus. & Prof. Code § 3640.5, [Bus. & Prof. Code § 3640.7 is operative only until January 1, 2013, and repealed on January 1, 2014, unless Legislature changes those dates], or the pharmacist who functions pursuant to a policy, procedure, or protocol pursuant to either Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052(a)(4)(D) or (5)(A)(iv) orders otherwise. Commonly used abbreviations may be used. Preparations containing two or more active ingredients may be identified by the manufacturer's trade name or the commonly used name or the principal active ingredients [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4076].

In addition, the container must correctly label all of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4076; Health & Safety Code § 111480]:

- The directions for the use of the drug.
- The name(s) of the patient(s).
- The name of the prescriber or, if applicable, the name of the certified nurse-midwife who functions pursuant to a standardized procedure or protocol described in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2746.51, the nurse practitioner who functions pursuant to a standardized procedure described in Bus. & Prof. Code § 2836.1, or protocol, the physician assistant who functions pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 3502.1, the naturopathic doctor who functions pursuant to a standardized procedure or protocol described in Bus. & Prof. Code § 3640.5 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 3640.7 is operative only until January 1, 2013, and repealed on January 1, 2014, unless Legislature changes those dates], or the pharmacist who functions pursuant to a policy, procedure, or protocol pursuant to either Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052(a)(4)(D) or (5)(A)(iv).

- The date of issue.

- The name and address of the pharmacy, and prescription number or other means of identifying the prescription.

- The strength of the drug or drugs dispensed.

- The quantity of the drug or drugs dispensed.

- The expiration date of the effectiveness of the drug dispensed.

- The condition for which the drug was prescribed, if requested by the patient and the condition is indicated on the prescription.

- For outpatient pharmacies, commencing January 1, 2006, the physical description of the dispensed medication, including its color, shape, and any identification code that appears on the tablets or capsules, which may be printed on an auxiliary label affixed to the prescription container, except as follows [Note that the statute provides that this requirement would not become operative if the Board, prior to January 1, 2006, adopted regulations mandating the same labeling requirements (Bus & Prof. Code § 4076(a)(11)(D)); for current regulations, see 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1707.4(a)(2)(A) (refill pharmacies), 1710(b)(3) (hospital pharmacies)]:

  (i) Prescriptions dispensed by a veterinarian.

  (ii) A new drug for the first 120 days the drug is on the market and for the 90 days during which the national reference file has no description on file.

  (iii) Dispensed medications for which no physical description exists in any commercially available database.

A pharmacist may not dispense a prescription except in a container that meets the requirements of state and federal law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4076(a)]. Further, it is unlawful for any person to distribute in commerce any drug or device if its packaging or labeling does not conform to the requirements of Health & Safety Code §§ 110340-110385, that pertain to quantity and ingredients [Health & Safety Code § 110385]. The Uniform Controlled Substances Act also prohibits the falsification of labels affixed to a package that contains controlled substances [see Health & Safety Code § 11173].

[3] Repackaging of Drugs Previously Dispensed

At a patient's request, a pharmacy may repackage a drug previously dispensed to the patient or the patient's agent pursuant to a prescription [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.7(a)]. A pharmacy providing repackaging services must have in place policies and procedures for repackaging the drugs and must label the repackaged prescription container as specified in Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.7(b) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.7(b)]. The repackaging pharmacy and the pharmacy that initially dispensed the drug are only liable for its own actions in providing the drug to the patient or the patient's agent [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.7(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Antitrust & Trade LawConsumer ProtectionDeceptive Labeling & PackagingState RegulationHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
1. Selling, Dispensing, and Compounding Prescription Drugs

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.47

§ 214.47 Misbranding of Prescriptions

A drug or device is misbranded if its labeling is false or misleading in any particular or fails to contain adequate directions and warnings [Health & Safety Code §§ 111330, 111375; see also Health & Safety Code §§ 111335-111365, 111380-111435, 111490 (descriptions of misbranding)].

A habit forming drug that may not be sold without a prescription is misbranded if its label fails to contain a warning that it is habit forming [Health & Safety Code § 111350].

It is unlawful for any person to misbrand a drug or device or to manufacture, receive in commerce, sell, deliver, hold, or offer for sale a drug or device that is misbranded [Health & Safety Code §§ 111440-111450].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Antitrust & Trade LawConsumer ProtectionDeceptive Labeling & PackagingState RegulationHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
1. Selling, Dispensing, and Compounding Prescription Drugs

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.48

§ 214.48 Delivery of Controlled Substance to Pharmacy

No person may deliver Schedule II, III, or IV controlled substances [see Health & Safety Code §§ 11054-11056] to a pharmacy or pharmacy receiving area, nor may any person receive controlled substances on behalf of a pharmacy unless, at the time of delivery, a pharmacist or authorized receiving personnel signs a receipt showing the type and quantity of the controlled substances received. Any discrepancy between the receipt and the type or quantity of controlled substances actually received must be reported to the delivering wholesaler or manufacturer by the next business day after delivery to the pharmacy [Health & Safety Code § 11209(a)].

The delivery receipt and any record of discrepancy must be maintained by the wholesaler or manufacturer for a period of three years [Health & Safety Code § 11209(b)]. A violation of the provisions of Health & Safety Code § 11209 is a misdemeanor [Health & Safety Code § 11209(c)].

Nothing in Health & Safety Code § 11209 requires a common carrier to label a package containing controlled sustances in a manner contrary to federal law or regulation [Health & Safety Code § 11209(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Antitrust & Trade LawConsumer ProtectionDeceptive Labeling & PackagingState RegulationCriminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesControlled SubstancesDelivery, Distribution & SaleGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewTransportation LawCarrier Duties & LiabilitiesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
1. Selling, Dispensing, and Compounding Prescription Drugs

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.49

§ 214.49 Advertising Prescription Drugs

Prescription drugs or devices may be advertised [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4341]. Advertisements are subject to the general prohibitions against false and misleading advertising contained in Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500 [see Ch. 14, Advertising], as well as the specific prohibitions contained in Bus. & Prof. Code § 4121(a). This latter section provides that an advertisement of the retail price for a drug that requires a prescription must be limited to quantities of the drug that are consistent with good medical practice and must include the strength, dosage form, and the exact dates during which the advertised price will be in effect [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4121(a); see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 4122(a) requiring posted notice of price information].

The Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Law [Health & Safety Code § 109875 et seq.] also prohibits certain advertisements for drugs or devices. An advertisement is any representation, under the act including but not limited to statements, on a product and its container that is disseminated for the purpose of inducing or which is likely to induce the purchase or use of a drug or device [Health & Safety Code § 109885]. The prohibition contained in the act is in addition to that contained in Bus. & Prof. Code § 651 governing false and deceptive advertising by any licensed professional, including pharmacists.

Under the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Law, it is unlawful to manufacture, receive in commerce, sell, or offer to sell any drug or device which is falsely advertised or to disseminate any false advertisement of a drug or device [Health & Safety Code §§ 110390, 110395, 110400]. An advertisement is false if it is false or misleading in any particular [Health & Safety Code § 110390]. It is also unlawful to advertise any drug or device that is adulterated, misbranded, or represented to have an effect on a condition, disorder, or disease for which advertising is prohibited by Health & Safety Code § 110403 [see Health & Safety Code § 110398].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Antitrust & Trade LawConsumer ProtectionDeceptive Labeling & PackagingState RegulationHealthcare LawBusiness

Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
1. Selling, Dispensing, and Compounding Prescription Drugs

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.50

§ 214.50 Penalties and Sanctions

Both the Pharmacy Law (Bus. & Prof. Code § 4000 et seq.) and the Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Law (Health & Safety Code § 109875 et seq.), provide criminal penalties of fine, imprisonment, or both, for violation of provisions under those acts [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4320 et seq. (prohibitions and offenses); Health & Safety Code § 111825].

The Sherman Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Law also provides procedures to embargo suspected drugs or devices [Health & Safety Code § 111860] and authorizes proceedings leading to a temporary or permanent injunction against violations of the act or the condemnation and destruction of a drug or device that is adulterated, misbranded, falsely advertised, or otherwise prohibited from sale, as well as punitive fines [Health & Safety Code §§ 111860, 111880, 111885, 111900, 111915].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Antitrust & Trade LawConsumer ProtectionDeceptive Labeling & PackagingState RegulationCriminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesControlled SubstancesDelivery, Distribution & SalePenaltiesHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
1. Selling, Dispensing, and Compounding Prescription Drugs

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.51

§ 214.51 Quality Assurance Program

Effective January 1, 2002 [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4125(c)], every pharmacy must establish a quality assurance program that, at a minimum, documents medication errors attributable, in whole or in part, to the pharmacy or its personnel. The purpose of the program is to assess errors occurring in the pharmacy in dispensing or furnishing prescription medications so that the pharmacy can take appropriate action to prevent a recurrence [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4125(a)].

Records generated for and maintained as a component of a pharmacy's ongoing quality assurance program are peer review documents and not subject to discovery in an arbitration, civil proceeding or other proceeding, except that the board may review the quality assurance program and records as necessary to protect the public health and safety or if fraud is alleged by a government agency with jurisdiction over the pharmacy, and nothing in Bus. & Prof. Code § 4125 prevents a patient from accessing his or her own prescription records or affects the discoverability of records not solely generated for and maintained as a component of a pharmacy's ongoing quality assurance program [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4125(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryPrivileged MattersGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
1. Selling, Dispensing, and Compounding Prescription Drugs

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 214.52-214.59

[Reserved]

§§ 214.52[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
2. Civil Liability for Defective Drugs or Warning

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.60

§ 214.60 Strict Liability in Tort Generally

A manufacturer, or retailer who is an integral part of the overall producing and marketing enterprise is strictly liable in tort if it places an article on the market, with the knowledge that it is to be used without inspection for defects, and if it proves to have a defect that causes an injury to the plaintiff [Greenman v. Yuba Power Products, Inc. (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 57, 62-63, 27 Cal. Rptr. 697, 377 P.2d 897 ; see Vandermark v. Ford Motor Co. (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 256, 261, 37 Cal. Rptr. 896, 391 P.2d 168] .

This doctrine applies to drug manufacturers [see Grinnell v. Charles Pfizer & Co. (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 424, 433-434, 79 Cal. Rptr. 369] , and would appear to apply to retailers of drug products, as well, although no case has clearly stated the proposition [see Christofferson v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 75, 80, 92 Cal. Rptr. 825 (holding that when manufacturer was not strictly liable for drug that caused harmful side effects to plaintiff, failure to show that retailer had knowledge of side effects or means of knowledge beyond that of manufacturer as removing all basis for retailer's liability); see also People v. Stuart (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 167, 172, 302 P.2d 5 (applying strict criminal liability in cases involving violations of predecessors of Health & Safety Code §§ 111295-111305, 111440-111450, prohibiting sale of adulterated or misbranded drugs, since such violations entail great danger to public health and safety)].

The doctrine applies only to the sale of products and not to the rendition of services. If, by statute or decision, the administration of a particular drug is deemed a service, the principles of strict liability do not apply [see Fogo v. Cutter Laboratories, Inc. (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 744, 751-754, 137 Cal. Rptr. 417 (strict liability doctrine as not applying to blood transfusions since under Health & Safety Code § 1606 blood transfusions are deemed a service for all purposes)].

For further discussion of products liability actions based on strict liability in tort, see Ch. 460, Products Liability .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

TortsProducts LiabilityStrict Liability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
2. Civil Liability for Defective Drugs or Warning

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.61

§ 214.61 Strict Liability for Distribution of Defective Drug Product

The strict liability doctrine applies when the product was manufactured with a defect [see Grinnell v. Charles Pfizer & Co. (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 424, 436-438, 79 Cal. Rptr. 369 (polio vaccine that contained virulent particles as defective)].

For further discussion of products liability actions based on defect in the design or manufacture under the theory of strict liability in tort, see Ch. 460, Products Liability .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsProducts LiabilityStrict Liability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
2. Civil Liability for Defective Drugs or Warning

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.62

§ 214.62 Strict Liability for Defective Warning of Dangerous Drug

[1] Doctrine Applies to Defective Warning

A product may be deemed defective for the purposes of the doctrine of strict liability, although faultlessly made, if it would be unreasonably dangerous to place the product in the hands of the user without a suitable warning, and the product is actually supplied without such warning [see Grinnell v. Charles Pfizer & Co. (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 424, 435 n.7, 79 Cal. Rptr. 369 ; Toole v. Richardson-Merrell, Inc. (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 689, 710-711, 60 Cal. Rptr. 398] .

[2] Duty to Warn

[a] Manufacturer's Duty to Warn

A manufacturer who knows or has reason to know that a product is dangerous for the use for which it is supplied and has no reason to believe that those who will consume the product will realize its dangerous condition has a duty to warn of the possible risks of using the product [Stevens v. Parke, Davis & Co. (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 51, 64, 107 Cal. Rptr. 45, 507 P.2d 653 ; Carmichael v. Reitz (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 958, 987 n.32, 95 Cal. Rptr. 381] . This duty particularly applies to drugs that are unavoidably unsafe because, in the present state of human knowledge, it is not possible to make them safe for their intended use [Grinnell v. Charles Pfizer & Co. (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 424, 435-436 n.7, 79 Cal. Rptr. 369 ; see Fogo v. Cutter Laboratories, Inc. (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 744, 754, 137 Cal. Rptr. 417 (liability for hepatitus virus in blood plasma product as resolved by adequacy of warning)], or drugs that have known or documented dangerous effects on parts of the body that are not the object of treatment [see, e.g., Carmichael v. Reitz (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 958, 984, 989-991, 95 Cal. Rptr. 381 (warning to doctor as adequate in case of drug Enovid that caused embolisms); Toole v. Richardson-Merrell, Inc. (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 689, 709-710 , 60 Cal. Rptr. 398 (warning as required in case of drug for treating arteriosclerosis known to damage eyes)].

The duty to warn does not apply to side effects that include the following [see Christofferson v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 75, 78-80, 92 Cal. Rptr. 825 ; Magee v. Wyeth Laboratories, Inc. (1963) 214 Cal.

App. 2d 340, 352-354, 29 Cal. Rptr. 322] :

- Long delayed.
- Unforeseeable.
- Unrelated to the ailment for which the drug is designed to treat.
- Not suggested by careful laboratory procedures.
- The partial result of the consumer's unknown and unknowable allergies, sensitivities, and idiosyncrasies.

Nevertheless, when a danger is known or should be known to exist for some identifiable group of users, a warning must be given even though those endangered are few in number when compared with the total number of users of the drug [Love v. Wolf (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 822, 833, 58 Cal. Rptr. 42] .

Manufacturers of prescription drugs that fail to warn about known or reasonably scientifically knowable risks are subject to a strict liability standard. This standard requires a plaintiff to prove that the defendant did not adequately warn of a particular risk that was known or knowable in light of the generally recognized and prevailing best scientific and medical knowledge available at the time of manufacture and distribution. In appropriate cases, Food and Drug Administration action or inaction regarding a particular drug, though not dispositive, may be admissible to show whether a risk was known or reasonably scientifically knowable. However, a pharmaceutical manufacturer may not be held liable for failing to give a warning it has been expressly precluded by the FDA from giving [Carlin v. Superior Court (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 1104, 1108-1115, 56 Cal. Rptr. 162] . A failure-to-warn strict liability claim is not necessarily preempted if the FDA did not expressly preclude the warning requested by the plaintiff, even if the defendant utilized the label approved by the FDA [McKenney v. Purepac Pharmaceutical Co. (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 72, 85, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 810].

In the case of prescription drugs, the manufacturer's duty to warn runs to the physician, not to the patient. If the warning to doctors is adequate, absent special circumstances known or foreseeable in the exercise of due care by the manufacturer, there is no duty to warn the patient [Carlin v. Superior Court (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 1104, 1116, 56 Cal. Rptr. 162 ; Stevens v. Parke, Davis & Co. (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 51, 65, 107 Cal. Rptr. 45, 507 P.2d 653 ; Fogo v. Cutter Laboratories, Inc. (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 744, 754-755, 137 Cal. Rptr. 417] .

[b] Pharmacist's Duty to Warn

[i] Harmful Effects or Impairment of Ability to Drive

Under Bus. & Prof. Code § 4074(a), a pharmacist has a duty to inform a patient orally or in writing of the harmful effects of a drug dispensed by prescription if the drug poses substantial risk to the person consuming it when taken in combination with alcohol or if the drug may impair a person's ability to drive a motor vehicle. The disclosure requirement only applies to those drugs listed by the State Board of Pharmacy as the type of drug for which such warning is required [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4074(a)]. However, no case has considered the liability of a pharmacist for injury resulting from a failure to comply with this requirement. The board may by regulation require additional information or labeling [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4074(b)].

In any case, it would appear that a pharmacist is strictly liable for injuries that result from the pharmacist's failure to warn a buyer of defects in a manufactured drug when the pharmacist knew or had the means of knowing that the manufacturer's warning was inadequate [Christofferson v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 75,

80, 92 Cal. Rptr. 825] .

[ii] Adequacy of Warning

Whether a warning is adequate is a question of fact. Adequacy does not equal mere compliance with regulations or directives, such as those issued by the federal food and drug administration, since they may be only minimal in nature and the manufacturer may know of, or have reason to know of, greater dangers. Moreover, an adequate warning may be eroded or even nullified by over-promotion of the drug through a vigorous sales campaign that may have the effect of persuading doctors to disregard the warnings that are given [Stevens v. Parke, Davis & Co. (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 51, 65, 107 Cal. Rptr. 45, 507 P.2d 653 ; see Fogo v. Cutter Laboratories, Inc. (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 744, 755, 137 Cal. Rptr. 417] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsProducts LiabilityDuty to WarnTortsProducts LiabilityStrict Liability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
2. Civil Liability for Defective Drugs or Warning

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.63

§ 214.63 Negligence

A pharmacist may be liable for injuries resulting from a breach of the pharmacist's duty of ordinary care or skill in the performance of pharmaceutical services [Civ. Code § 1714(a)]. Thus, for example, a pharmacist may be liable for negligence for excessive furnishing of controlled substances [see Smith v. State Bd. of Pharmacy (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 229, 232, 243, 247, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 532] , and other lack of care in dispensing drugs [see Murphy v. Boericke and Runyon Co. (1925) 72 Cal. App. 132, 134, 236 P. 966] .

In addition, negligence per se principles apply to create a presumption of negligence for violation of statutes regulating pharmaceutical practice [Toole v. Richardson-Merrell Inc. (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 689, 703, 60 Cal. Rptr. 398] .

Pharmacists are "health care providers" under Civ. Code Proc. § 364(f)(1), which defines a "health care provider" as including any person licensed or certified pursuant to Division 2 (commencing with Section 500) of the Business and Professions Code. Pharmacists are licensed under Bus. & Prof. Code, § 4000 et seq., which is Chapter 9 of Division 2. Therefore, the provisions governing the commencement of actions based on a health care provider's professional negligence apply to actions against pharmacists [see Civ. Code Proc. §§ 364, 365]. For discussion of notice requirements for bringing a professional negligence action, see § 214.115[6], below.

For a form of complaint for damages for personal injuries based on negligence, by a purchaser-user of a prescription drug against a pharmacist, see § 214.115. For further discussion of and forms for use in negligence actions, see Ch. 380, Negligence . Forms of notice as a prerequisite to an action against a health care provider for professional negligence are provided in Ch. 415, Physicians: Medical Malpractice.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersGeneral OverviewTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityHealthcare Providers

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
2. Civil Liability for Defective Drugs or Warning

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.64

§ 214.64 Causation

The plaintiff must show that his or her injuries arising from the use of a defective product were caused by an act of the defendant or by an instrumentality under the defendant's control [Sindell v. Abbott Laboratories (1980) 26 Cal. 3d 588, 597-598, 163 Cal. Rptr. 132, 607 P.2d 924] .

In proving that the defective drug caused plaintiff's injuries, plaintiff may rely on circumstantial evidence. If the injuries could have been caused by the drug in question or by other drugs or separate diseases, the plaintiff is not required to negate the possibility that other drugs or separate diseases caused his or her injuries [Grinnell v. Charles Pfizer & Co. (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 424, 436, 79 Cal. Rptr. 369 (substantial circumstantial evidence of causation when some witnesses inferred a causal relationship while others testified that cause could not be determined); Thomsen v. Rexall Drug & Chemical Co. (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 775, 783, 45 Cal. Rptr. 642 (jury finding of causation supported when injury could have been caused by erroneously provided drug or by another drug that plaintiff was using)].

The plaintiff may also be relieved of the requirement of proving that a particular defendant was responsible for the defective drug if he or she joins in his or her action the manufacturers of a substantial share of the drug. In such a case, if the plaintiff cannot identify the particular defendant who was responsible for his or her injuries, the burden of proof shifts to such manufacturers. Each manufacturer will be held liable for the proportion of the judgment represented by its share of that market unless it demonstrates that it could not have made the product that caused plaintiff's injuries [Sindell v. Abbott Laboratories (1980) 26 Cal. 3d 588, 612, 163 Cal. Rptr. 132, 607 P.2d 924] .

The negligence of a physician in prescribing a drug or failing to be properly informed is not an intervening cause of injury that will exonerate a manufacturer from liability when the manufacturer's negligence in promotion and failing to provide adequate warnings made the physician's act foreseeable [Stevens v. Parke, Davis & Co. (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 51, 69, 107 Cal. Rptr. 45, 507 P.2d 653 ; Love v. Wolf (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 822, 837-838, 58 Cal. Rptr. 42] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersGeneral OverviewTortsMalpractice & Professional LiabilityHealthcare ProvidersTortsNegligenceCausationProximate CauseGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
2. Civil Liability for Defective Drugs or Warning

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.65

§ 214.65 Assumption of Risk

A defense to a claim based on strict liability applies when a user of a drug assumes the risk of the defect by discovering a defect and becoming aware of the danger of the defect but nevertheless proceeding to unreasonably use the drug to his or her injury [Carmichael v. Reitz (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 958, 991, 95 Cal. Rptr. 381] .

The doctrine of assumption of risk has merged into comparative fault analysis to the extent that one form of assumption of risk is no more than a variant of contributory negligence, a form that is usually referred to as implied unreasonable assumption of risk [Li v. Yellow Cab Co. (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 804, 824-825, 119 Cal. Rptr. 858, 532 P.2d 1226 ; see also Daly v. General Motors Corp. (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 725, 730, 144 Cal. Rptr. 380, 575 P.2d 1162 (comparative fault applies in strict liability actions)]. The doctrine remains a separate and complete defense when the plaintiff has expressly agreed to relieve the defendant of the obligation of reasonable conduct towards him or her [Li v. Yellow Cab Co. (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 804, 824-825, 119 Cal. Rptr. 858, 532 P.2d 1226] .

Secondary assumption of the risk, rather than a complete bar of primary, or express, assumption of risk, applies to a strict products liability claim [Milwaukee Electric Tool Corp. v. Superior Court (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 547, 562, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 24 ; see Knight v. Jewett (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 296, 309, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 2, 834 P.2d 696 (lead opinion concluded that terminology distinguishing between reasonable and unreasonable implied assumption by prior opinions in the courts of appeal was more misleading than helpful)]. Thus, the plaintiff's conduct in encountering a known risk imposed by a defendant's breach of its duty to produce a defect-free product can be the basis for reducing any award to plaintiff by the plaintiff's proportionate amount of fault [see Milwaukee Electric Tool Corp. v. Superior Court (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 547, 565-566, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 24] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawActions Against Healthcare WorkersGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceDefensesAssumption of RiskGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceDefensesComparative NegligenceGeneral OverviewTortsProducts

LiabilityStrict Liability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
2. Civil Liability for Defective Drugs or Warning

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.66

§ 214.66 Punitive Damages for Intentional, Malicious, and Reckless Conduct

Punitive damages based on actual malice under Civ. Code § 3294 may be recovered in an action for damages for injuries arising from the use of a defective drug when the manufacturer knew that the product was dangerous and that its explicit or implicit representations of safety were false and acted either with intention to injure the users of the drug or in willful and conscious disregard of their safety [see G.D. Searle & Co. v. Superior Court (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 22, 26-33, 122 Cal. Rptr. 218] .

ILLUSTRATION:

Falsifying Data and Instructing Sales Staff to Not Admit Danger. When there is evidence that the manufacturer falsified test data, omitted data from reports presented to the government, instructed its salesman to avoid admission of danger, and conducted a vigorous sales campaign despite the manufacturer's knowledge of the drug's danger, would these facts justify an award of punitive or exemplary damages? Yes--a court of appeal held that these facts were sufficient to support a finding of malice in fact by the jury as a foundation for an award of punitive damages [Toole v. Richardson-Merrell, Inc. (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 689, 714-715, 60 Cal. Rptr. 398] .

For a form of allegation for use by a purchaser-user of a product in a complaint against the product's manufacturer to recover punitive damages when the complaint is based on strict liability in tort, see Ch. 460, Products Liability .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
TortsDamagesPunitive DamagesGeneral OverviewTortsProducts LiabilityStrict Liability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Regulation of Prescription Drugs
2. Civil Liability for Defective Drugs or Warning

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 214.67-214.79

[Reserved]

§§ 214.67[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Regulation of Prescription Drug Claims Processors

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.80

§ 214.80 "Prescription Drug Claims Processor" Defined

The term "prescription drug claims processor" means any nongovernmental entity that has a contractual relationship with purchasers of prepaid or insured prescription drug benefits, and that processes, consults, advises on, or otherwise assists in the processing of prepaid or insured prescription drug benefit claims submitted by a licensed California pharmacy or its patrons. The term does not include insurers [see Ins. Code § 23], health care service plans [see Health & Safety Code § 1345(f)], pharmacy permit holders [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4110], employers, trusts, and other entities that assume the risks of pharmaceutical services for designated beneficiaries. The term also excludes insurers, health care service plans, and nonprofit hospital service plans that process claims on a nonrisk basis for self-insured clients [Civ. Code § 2527(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Regulation of Prescription Drug Claims Processors

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.81

§ 214.81 Duty to Prepare Pharmaceutical Fee Studies

[1] Studies Must Have Been Conducted on or Before January 1, 1984

On or before January 1, 1984, every prescription drug claims processor must have conducted or obtained the results of a study or studies that identifies the fees, separate from ingredient costs, of all, or of a statistically significant sample, of California pharmacies, for pharmaceutical dispensing services to private consumers. The study or studies must meet reasonable professional standards of the statistical profession [Civ. Code § 2527(c)].

The determination of the pharmacy's fees made for purposes of the study or studies must be computed by reviewing a sample of the pharmacy's usual charges for a random or other representative sample of commonly prescribed drug products, subtracting the average wholesale price of drug ingredients, and averaging the resulting fees by dividing the aggregate of the fees by the number of prescriptions reviewed [Civ. Code § 2527(c)].

A study report must include a preface, an explanatory summary of the results and findings including a comparison of the fees of California pharmacies by setting forth the mean fee and standard deviation, the range of fees, and fee percentiles (10th, 20th, 30th, 40th, 50th, 60th, 70th, 80th, 90th) [Civ. Code § 2527(c)].

This study or these studies must be conducted or obtained no less often than every 24 months [Civ. Code § 2527(c)].

The reporting requirement in Civ. Code § 2527 and the related penalty and enforcement provisions in Civ. Code § 2528 violate the free speech provision of the California Constitution because they violate the free speech rights guaranteed to prescription drug claims processors by compelling speech, and regulation is not narrowly tailored to achieve a governmental interest to encourage insurers to pay pharmacists fair rate for drug dispensing services [ARP Pharmacy Svcs., Inc. v. Gallagher Bassett Svcs., Inc. (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 1307, 1314-1322, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 256 ; see Cal. Const. art. I, § 2].

[2] Compliance Required to Continue Processing

On or after January 1, 1984, no prescription drug claims processor is to enter into or perform any provision of any new contract, or perform any provision of any existing contract, with a licensed California pharmacy, or process or assist in the processing of any prescription drug claim submitted by or otherwise involving a service of a licensed California pharmacy unless the processor is in compliance with the requirements for the preparation and transmittal of pharmaceutical studies as set forth in Civ. Code § 2527(c), discussed under [1], above, and (d), discussed in § 214.82 [Civ. Code § 2527(a)].

Effective January 1, 1986, a claims processor may comply with Civ. Code § 2527(c), discussed under [1], above, and (d), discussed in § 214.82, in the event no new study or studies meeting the criteria of Civ. Code § 2527(c) have been conducted or obtained subsequent to January 1, 1984, by transmitting the same study or studies previously transmitted, with notice of cost-of-living changes as measured by the Consumer Price Index of the United States Department of Labor [Civ. Code § 2527(d)].

The reporting requirement in Civ. Code § 2527 and the related penalty and enforcement provisions in Civ. Code § 2528 violate the free speech provision of the California Constitution because they violate the free speech rights guaranteed to prescription drug claims processors by compelling speech, and regulation is not narrowly tailored to achieve a governmental interest to encourage insurers to pay pharmacists fair rate for drug dispensing services [ARP Pharmacy Svcs., Inc. v. Gallagher Bassett Svcs., Inc. (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 1307, 1314-1322, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 256 ; see Cal. Const. art. I, § 2].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Regulation of Prescription Drug Claims Processors

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.82

§ 214.82 Duty to Transmit Studies to Clients

The study or reports must be transmitted by certified mail by each prescription drug claims processor to the chief executive officer or designee of each client for whom it performs claims processing services. The processor must transmit the study or studies to clients no less often than every 24 months. Nothing in Civ. Code § 2527 is to be construed, however, to require a processor to transmit to its clients more than two studies during any 24-month period [Civ. Code § 2527(d)].

The reporting requirement in Civ. Code § 2527 and the related penalty and enforcement provisions in Civ. Code § 2528 violate the free speech provision of the California Constitution because they violate the free speech rights guaranteed to prescription drug claims processors by compelling speech, and regulation is not narrowly tailored to achieve a governmental interest to encourage insurers to pay pharmacists fair rate for drug dispensing services [ARP Pharmacy Svcs., Inc. v. Gallagher Bassett Svcs., Inc. (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 1307, 1314-1322, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 256 ; see Cal. Const. art. I, § 2].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Constitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental FreedomsFreedom of SpeechScope of FreedomHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Regulation of Prescription Drug Claims Processors

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.83

§ 214.83 Action by Pharmacy Owner for Failure to Prepare Studies

[1] Statutory Damages

A violation of Civ. Code § 2527 by a prescription drug claims processor may result only in imposition of a civil remedy. The remedy includes, but is not limited to, imposition of statutory damages of not less than $1000 or more than $10,000 depending on the severity or gravity of the violation, plus reasonable attorney's fees, and costs, declaratory and injunctive relief, and any other relief that the court deems proper [Civ. Code § 2528].

The reporting requirement in Civ. Code § 2527 and the related penalty and enforcement provisions in Civ. Code § 2528 violate the free speech provision of the California Constitution because they violate the free speech rights guaranteed to prescription drug claims processors by compelling speech, and regulation is not narrowly tailored to achieve a governmental interest to encourage insurers to pay pharmacists fair rate for drug dispensing services [ARP Pharmacy Svcs., Inc. v. Gallagher Bassett Svcs., Inc. (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 1307, 1314-1322, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 256 ; see Cal. Const. art. I, § 2].

For a form of complaint for declaratory relief, permanent injunction, and damages, for violations in the preparing of a pharmaceutical fee study, see § 214.120.

[2] Standing to Bring Suit

Any owner of a licensed California pharmacy has standing to bring an action seeking a civil remedy if his or her pharmacy has a contractual relationship with, or renders pharmaceutical services to, a beneficiary of a client of the claims processor, against whom the action is brought [Civ. Code § 2528].

[3] Notice of Violation With Opportunity to Comply

The owner may not, however, commence such an action unless he or she has notified the processor in writing as to the nature of the alleged violation and the processor fails to remedy the violation within 30 days from the receipt of the notice or fails to undertake steps to remedy the violation within that period and complete the steps promptly thereafter [

Civ. Code § 2528].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Constitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental FreedomsFreedom of SpeechGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental FreedomsFreedom of SpeechScope of FreedomConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental FreedomsJudicial & Legislative RestraintsStandingHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Regulation of Prescription Drug Claims Processors

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 214.84-214.89

[Reserved]

§§ 214.84[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.90

§ 214.90 Related Matthew Bender Publications

For memoranda of points and authorities related to forms in this chapter, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 165, Negligence , Ch. 190, Products Liability , and Ch. 195, Public Administrative Law (Matthew Bender)

For discussion relating personal injury actions generally, see Personal Injury: Actions, Defenses, Damages, Drugs and Druggists, §§ 1-6 (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceGeneral OverviewTortsProducts LiabilityStrict Liability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.91

§ 214.91 State Statutes

[1] Controlled Substances

DMSO. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2078, 4077(d)

Controlled substances defined. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4021; Health & Safety Code § 11007

Hypodermic needles and syringes. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4140 et seq.

Poisons. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4240

Required warnings regarding anabolic steroids in athletic facilities and contracts. Civ. Code § 1812.97

Report of sales and transfers of controlled substances. Health & Safety Code §§ 11100, 11100.1, 11105

Penalties for sale, receipt, or possession of specified substances, apparatus, or chemicals for use in unlawful manufacture of controlled substance. Health & Safety Code §§ 11104, 11104.5, 11366.7

Manufacture of drug or device licensed by Department of Health Services. Health & Safety Code § 111615 et seq.

[2] Definitions

Controlled substance. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4021; Health & Safety Code § 11007

Dangerous device. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4022

Dangerous drug. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4022

Device. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4023; Health & Safety Code § 109920

Direct supervision and control. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4023.5

Drug. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4022; Health & Safety Code § 109925

Manufacturer. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4033; Health & Safety Code § 109970

New drug. Health & Safety Code § 109980

Pharmacist. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4036

Pharmacy. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4037

Prescriptions. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4040; Health & Safety Code § 110010

[3] Licenses and Applications

License defined. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4032

Application for pharmacist's license. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4200, 4201

Application for registration as pharmacy technician. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4202

Application for license as nonprofit or free clinic. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4203

Application for license as surgical clinic. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4204

License to sell hypodermic needles and syringes. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4205

Investigation of applicants. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4207

[4] Offenses and Disciplinary Proceedings

Disciplinary proceedings. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4300 et seq.

Every license as subject to revocation. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4300

Unprofessional conduct mandating discipline. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4301, 4306

Petition for reinstatement or modification of penalty. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4309

Suspension of license upon incarceration for felony. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4311

Cancelling of license for temporary closure of business. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4312

Prohibitions and offenses. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4320 et seq.

Permissible advertising of prescription drugs and devices. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4341; Health & Safety Code §§ 110390,

110395, 110400

Unfair trade practices. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4380 et seq.

Penalties for sale, receipt, or possession of specified substances, apparatus, or chemicals for use in unlawful manufacture of controlled substance. Health & Safety Code §§ 11104, 11104.5, 11366.7

Penalties and sanctions. Health & Safety Code § 111825 et seq.

[5] Pharmacists and Pharmacies

License required for pharmacists. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4051

Acts pharmacist may perform. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4052, 4052.1, 4052.2, 4052.3, 4052.4, 4103

Exceptions to license requirement. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4053-4057

Record keeping requirements. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4081, 4082; Health & Safety Code §§ 11205, 11206

License required for pharmacies. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4110

Nonresident pharmacies. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4112

Operation of pharmacy. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4113-4120

Prescription price information. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4121, 4122

Dispensing of replacement contact lenses. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4124

Pharmacy corporations. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4150 et seq.

Application for license as pharmacist. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4200, 4201

Continuing education for pharmacists. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4231 et seq.

Pharmacists Recovery Program. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4360 et seq.

Sign requirements. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4343

[6] Prescriptions

Substitution of different form of medication to improve patient's ability to comply with drug therapy. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.5

Repackaging of drugs previously dispensed pursuant to prescription. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052.7

Dangerous drug or dangerous device requires prescription. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4059; Health & Safety Code §§ 11027, 111225, 111350

Prescription not required during emergency. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4062

Prescription refills. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4063, 4064

Prescription requirements. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4070, 4072

Substitution of generic drug. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4073

Warning with prescription drug. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4074

Prescription container. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4076, 4077

Compounding injectable sterile drug products by pharmacy. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4127 et seq.

Contents, labeling and misbranding of prescription drugs. Health & Safety Code §§ 11164, 111350, 111480

Tamper-proof packaging. Health & Safety Code § 111465

Mislabeling, misbranding, and adulteration as prohibited. Health & Safety Code §§ 111295 et seq., 111330 et seq.

[7] Regulatory Scheme

Pharmacy Law. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4400 et seq.

Pharmacy Law administered and enforced by Board of Pharmacy. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4001 (operative only until July 1, 2010, and repealed on January 1, 2011, unless Legislature changes those dates)

Uniform Controlled Substances Act administered and enforced by Board of Pharmacy. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4011

Required quality assurance program to document medication errors at pharmacy. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4125

Fees and fines under Pharmacy Law. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4400 et seq.

Action for failure to comply with distribution of pharmaceutical fee studies requirement. Civ. Code §§ 2527, 2528

Treble damages as available against unlicensed person who causes injury while providing goods for which license is required. Code Civ. Proc. § 1029.8

Sherman Food, Drug and Cosmetic Law. Health & Safety Code § 109875 et seq.

Uniform Controlled Substances Act. Health & Safety Code § 11000 et seq.

County voluntary drug repository and distribution programs to distribute surplus medications to persons in need of financial assistance. Health & Safety Code § 150200 et seq.

[8] Special Entities

Wholesalers and manufacturers. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4160 et seq.

Prescriber dispensing. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4170 et seq.

Nonprofit or free clinics. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4180 et seq.

Surgical clinics. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4190 et seq.

Veterinary food-animal drug retailers. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4196 et seq.

Pharmacy technician. Bus. & Prof. Code § 4202

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Antitrust & Trade LawConsumer ProtectionDeceptive Labeling & PackagingState RegulationCriminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesControlled SubstancesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & SuspensionTortsProducts LiabilityDuty to Warn

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.92

§ 214.92 Administrative Regulations

Regulations of Board of Pharmacy. 16 Cal. Code Reg § 1700 et seq.

Regulations applicable to pharmacies. 16 Cal. Code Reg § 1707 et seq.

Regulations applicable to pharmacist candidates. 16 Cal. Code Reg § 1719 et seq.

Regulations applicable to dangerous drugs. 16 Cal. Code Reg § 1744 et seq.

Prohibitions and discipline. 16 Cal. Code Reg § 1760 et seq.

Regulations applicable to manufacturers and wholesalers. 16 Cal. Code Reg §§ 1780-1784

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Antitrust & Trade LawConsumer ProtectionDeceptive Labeling & PackagingState RegulationHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & Suspension

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.93

§ 214.93 Decisions

[1] Issuance, Suspension, and Revocation of Pharmacy License

Pharmacist-in-charge, although employee of pharmacy owner, may have responsibilities similar to those of owner for unknown acts of owner's employees. See Bus. & Prof. Code § 4054; Smith v. State Bd. of Pharmacy (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 229, 243, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 532 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 4054; now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4113(b))

In disciplining individual for violation of law regulating pharmacy, Board has authority to penalize licensee for employee's unlawful acts although unauthorized by and unknown to licensee. Arenstein v. California State Bd. of Pharmacy (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 179, 192-193, 71 Cal. Rptr. 357

[2] Selling, Dispensing, and Compounding Prescription Drugs or Devices

Virginia statute making advertisement of prices of prescription drugs by pharmacists unprofessional conduct is violative of United States Constitution. Va. Pharmacy Bd. v. Va. Consumer Council (1976) 425 U.S. 748, 773, 96 S. Ct. 1817, 48 L. Ed. 2d 346, 365

On appeal of sentence after conviction on drug charges, Ninth Circuit reversed decision of district court and remanded for resentencing, concluding that district court erred in determining that sentencing guidelines amendment that interpreted "mixture or substance" did not apply to defendant; court held guideline amendment to be retroactive and therefore applicable to defendant's case. United States v. Innie (9th Cir. 1996) 77 F.3d 1207, 1209

California-based veterinarian challenged Food and Drug Administration Compliance Policy Guides (CPGs) as exceeding the agency's statutory mandate by regulating veterinarians's extra-label drug use, alleging injury from fear of prosecution from prior conviction, lack of notice of, and opportunity to comment on, CPGs; challenge could not withstand motion to dismiss because veterinarian was unable to establish invasion of legally protected interest. Takhar v. Kessler (9th Cir. 1996) 76 F.3d 995, 1000

In federal prosecution for improper drug prescription practices involving anabolic steroids, physician was properly found in contempt of court for failure to produce records required to be maintained by former Bus. & Prof.Code §§ 4232 (records concerning dangerous drugs) and 4331 (records of prescriptions filled), despite physician's challenges to order based on privilege, privacy, and U.S. Const., amend. X. In re Grand Jury Proceedings (9th Cir. 1986) 801 F.2d 1164, 1168 (now see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 4081, 4333, respectively)

Pharmacy's Medi-Cal provisional provider license terminated when pharmacy allowed pharmacy technician to dispense medication without direct supervision and control of a pharmacist. Golden Drugs Co., Inc. v. Maxwell-Jolly (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 1455, 1465-1467, 102 Cal. Rptr. 3d 446

Trial court properly granted summary judgment to medical group whose physicians individually dispense drugs on for-profit basis to workers' compensation patients, on complaint by pharmacy that group was dispensing drugs in violation of Bus. & Prof. Code § 4170(a)(3), which prohibits physicians, as prescribers, from keeping a retail pharmacy, when legislature's intent was to prohibit physicians from dispensing drugs to general public. Park Medical Pharmacy v. San Diego Orthopedic Associates Medical Group, Inc. (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 247, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 858

When board accusation charged excessive furnishing of controlled substances and certain records violations, pharmacist was deprived of his right to procedural due process when board failed to inform him that it was charging or going to rely on negligence theory. Smith v. State Bd. of Pharmacy (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 229, 232, 243, 247, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 532

1982 amendment of Bus. & Prof. Code § 4350.5 (violation of federal law regulating pharmacy as unprofessional conduct) merely clarified existing law and made no substantive change. Banks v. Board of Pharmacy (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 708, 715, 207 Cal. Rptr. 835 (now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4301)

Limitations on compounding of prescriptions to registered pharmacists are constitutional. In re Gray (1926) 206 Cal. 497, 502, 274 P. 974

Pharmacist suspended from participation in Medi-Cal program for charging Medi-Cal customers greater price than other customers. Zimmerman v. Brian (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 563, 569-570, 116 Cal. Rptr. 211

Guilty plea to violation of federal dangerous drug statute is admission of violation of state statute. Arenstein v. California State Bd. of Pharmacy (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 179, 189-190, 71 Cal. Rptr. 357

Finding of trial court in proceeding for writ of mandamus that board's finding of violation was not supported by weight of evidence was upheld on appeal when record showed that 38,441 ampules of a dangerous drug were missing and unaccounted for but pharmacist testified unequivocally that he never sold the drug without prescription. Randle v. Cal. State Bd. of Pharmacy (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 254, 256-257, 49 Cal. Rptr. 485

Continuing jurisdiction to revoke license is retained when Board of Pharmacy grants probation. Goldsmith v. Cal. State Bd. of Pharmacy (1961) 191 Cal. App. 2d 866, 873, 13 Cal. Rptr. 139

[3] Civil Liability for Distribution of Defective Drugs or Devices

[a] Strict Liability in Tort

Statutory scheme requiring immunization for all school-age children against communicable childhood diseases (Health & Safety Code § 3380 et seq.) does not extend to vaccine manufacturers grant of immunity from negligence or strict liability in tort. Flood v. Wyeth Laboratories, Inc. (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1272, 1275-1277, 228 Cal. Rptr. 700

Under Health & Safety Code § 1606, private manufacturer of pharmaceuticals that distributes blood product is engaged in service rather than sale and is exempt from strict liability even though it obviously puts the product on the market in order to make a profit. Fogo v. Cutter Laboratories, Inc. (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 744, 753, 137 Cal. Rptr. 417

Physician is not liable as seller under strict liability doctrine. Carmichael v. Reitz (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 958, 977, 95 Cal. Rptr. 381

Hospital is not liable for use of defective product under strict liability doctrine. Silverhart v. Mount Zion Hospital (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 1022, 1028, 98 Cal. Rptr. 187

[b] Negligence

Statutory scheme requiring immunization for all school-age children against communicable childhood diseases (Health & Safety Code § 3380 et seq.) does not extend to vaccine manufacturers grant of immunity from negligence or strict liability in tort. Flood v. Wyeth Laboratories, Inc. (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1272, 1275-1277, 228 Cal. Rptr. 700

Presumption of negligence is created by violation of Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Law. Toole v. Richardson-Merrell Inc. (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 689, 703, 60 Cal. Rptr. 398

Liability for negligence in erroneously filling prescription. Thomsen v. Rexall Drug & Chemical Co. (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 775, 777, 45 Cal. Rptr. 642

Damages for negligently dispensing drugs. Murphy v. Boericke and Runyon Co. (1925) 72 Cal. App. 132, 134, 236 P. 966

[c] Fraud

Cause of action for fraud is sufficient against manufacturers, distributors, sellers, and dispensers of drugs. Wennerholm v. Stanford Univ. Sch. of Med. (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 713, 716, 128 P.2d 522

[4] Civil Actions

Repeated self-justification by manufacturer of defibrillator equipment for use with cardiac arrest victims was sufficient to show likelihood of further violation, and thus justified issuance of order permanently restraining manufacturer from directly or indirectly failing or refusing to furnish information required by medical device reporting regulations. U.S. v. Laerdal Mfg. Corp. (9th Cir. 1995) 73 F.3d 852, 856

Plaintiffs are entitled to learn identity of doctors preparing "drug reaction reports" for defendant drug manfacturer in action based on injuries sustained from ingestion of oral contraceptive. Henard v. Superior Court (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 129, 132-133, 102 Cal. Rptr. 721

In cases involving injury from drug ingestion, one-year period of limitation is not initiated until plaintiff discovers, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have discovered, that he or she was damaged. Warrington v. Charles Pfizer & Co. (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 564, 569-570, 80 Cal. Rptr. 130

Injured person's reliance on drug manufacturer's failure to give notice of dangerous effects of drug that were known to the manufacturer is reasonable explanation for person's failure to discover cause of injury within one year. Warrington v. Charles Pfizer & Co. (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 564, 572-573, 80 Cal. Rptr. 130

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesControlled SubstancesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesRevocation & SuspensionTortsNegligenceGeneral OverviewTortsProducts LiabilityStrict Liability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.94

§ 214.94 Attorney General Opinions

Physician generally may prescribe for patient medical device distributed by company in which physician has ownership interest, provided that any return on investment is based on physician's proportional ownership share and requisite disclosures are made; when physician may prescribe device for patient, company generally may solicit physicians as investors in the company. 89 Op. Atty Gen. 25 (2006)

Regulation of out-of-state mail order pharmacies under California law. 75 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 41 (1992)

Defining (1) "reasonable quantity," (2) "compound medication," and (3) "prescriber office use," as used in former Bus. & Prof. Code § 4046(c)(1) (concerning scope of pharmacist's practice). 73 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 103 (1990) (now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4052(a)(1))

Pharmacy operated by University of California is subject to licensure, inspection, and disciplinary provisions of Pharmacy Law. 72 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 119 (1989)

Pharmacist is permitted to dispense new drugs pursuant to physician's prescription as long as component elements of such drugs have not been banned. 61 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 192, 192-193 (1978)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Healthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawTreatmentMedical DevicesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.95

§ 214.95 Law Reviews

Comment, Professional-Client Sex: Is Criminal Liability an Appropriate Means of Enforcing Professional Responsibility, 40 UCLA L. Rev. 1275 (1993)

Frankford, Privatizing Health Care: Economic Magic to Cure Legal Medicine, 66 S. Cal. L. Rev. 1 (1992)

Moore, Comment k: A Prescription for the Over-the-Counter Drug Industry, 22 Pac. L.J. 43 (1990)

Comment, Prescription Drugs and Strict Liability: The Flaw in the Ointment, 19 Pac. L.J. 193 (1987)

Comment, Strict Liability for Prescription Drugs: Which Shall Govern--Comment K or Strict Liability Applicable to Ordinary Products? 16 Golden Gate U.L. Rev. 309 (1986)

Comment, The Application of Trade Secret Protection to Safety and Effectiveness Data of Patented Drugs, 16 U.C. Davis L. Rev. 463 (1983)

Comment, Prenatal Fraud: Untruth and the Consequences for the Drug Manufacturer, 13 Pac. L.J. 147 (1981)

Comment, Picking Your Poison: The Drug Efficacy Requirements and the Right of Privacy, 25 UCLA L. Rev. 577 (1978)

Rosoff and Dunfee, A "Fix" for the Retail Pharmacy: The Supreme Court Redefines Application of the Robinson-Patman Act to Drug Sales by Nonprofit Hospitals, 13 Cal. West L. Rev. 195 (1977)

Comment, Government Regulation of Health-Care Drugs of Questional Efficacy, 14 San Diego L. Rev. 388 (1977)

Article, Strict Liability in Tort: Its Applicability to Manufacturer of Prescription Drugs, 7 U.C. Davis L. Rev. 487 (1974)

Dolan, The Impact of Methadone Maintenance on Civil and Criminal Liability, 46 S. Cal. L. Rev. 713 (1973)

Note, Misfeasance in the Pharmacy: A Bundle of "Fun, Joy and Affection"?, 8 Cal. W. L. Rev. 341 (1972)

Note, Liability of Birth Control Pill Manufacturers, 23 Hastings L.J. 1526 (1972)

Keeton, Some Observations About the Strict Liability of the Maker of Prescription Drugs: The Aftermath of MER/29, 56 Cal. L. Rev. 149 (1968)

James, The Untoward Effects of Cigarettes and Drugs: Some Reflections on Enterprise Liability, 54 Cal. L. Rev. 1550 (1966)

Note, Manufacturer's Warranties and the Sales Act, 15 Stan. L. Rev. 381 (1963)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesSex CrimesSexual AssaultAbuse of AdultsGeneral OverviewHealthcare LawBusiness Administration & OrganizationLicensesGeneral OverviewTortsBusiness TortsUnfair Business PracticesGeneral OverviewTortsIntentional TortsInvasion of PrivacyGeneral OverviewTortsProducts LiabilityStrict Liability

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.96

§ 214.96 Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, Vol. 3 Sales, §§ 102, 103, 320; Vols. 5 and 6 Torts, §§ 358, 957, 1335, 1340; Vol. 8 Constitutional Law, § 880 (9th ed 1990)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 214.97-214.109

[Reserved]

§§ 214.97[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART IV. FORMS

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.110

§ 214.110 Petition to State Board of Pharmacy for Reinstatement of License to Practice Pharmacy [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4309]

[1] FORM Petition to State Board of Pharmacy for Reinstatement of License to Practice Pharmacy [Bus. & Prof. Code § 4309]

In the Matter of the Petition for Reinstatement of the Certificate of _____ [name], Petitioner.	)))))	NO. _____ BEFORE THE BOARD OF PHARMACY, DEPARTMENT OF PROFESSIONAL AND VOCATIONAL STANDARDS, STATE OF CALIFORNIA

1. The undersigned petitioner respectfully requests the reinstatement of his/her license that was _____ [revoked or suspended and petitioner placed on probation], by the Board of Pharmacy ("Board"), decision No. _____. The decision became effective on _____ [date].

2. The verified recommendations of registered pharmacists _____ [name] and _____ [name] are attached to this petition as Exhibits _____ and _____, respectively, and made a part hereof.

3. Also attached to this petition are the recommendations _____ [name] and _____ [name], citizens of the United States and of the State of California, each having personal knowledge of the activities of petitioner since the disciplinary action was taken. These recommendations are marked Exhibits _____ and _____, respectively, and are made a part of this petition.

4. The petitioner is not now under sentence or on probation or parole for any criminal offense and has not been afforded a hearing on any petition filed pursuant to Section 4309 of the Business and Professions Code within a period of one year immediately preceding the filing of this petition.

5. Petitioner requests reinstatement of his/her license without conditions or restrictions, and an opportunity to present evidence before the Board in support of this petition. Petitioner further requests reasonable notice of the time and place at which that evidence may be presented.
Dated: _____ [date].

Respectfully submitted,

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a petition for reinstatement of a license to practice pharmacy is for use by a respondent when the cause for discipline has been removed or the respondent has become rehabilitated [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 4309].

For discussion of reinstatment of a certificate generally, see § 214.31.

[3] Cross References

For a form of general petition pursuant to Gov. Code § 11522 for restoration of rights of revoked or suspended license, see Ch. 473G, Agency Adjudication Decisions, § 473G.71

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART IV. FORMS

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 214.111-214.114

[Reserved]

§§ 214.111[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART IV. FORMS

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.115

§ 214.115 Complaint for Damages for Personal Injuries Based on Negligence--By Purchaser-User of Prescription Drug Against Pharmacist--General Form

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages for Personal Injuries Based on Negligence--By Purchaser-User of Prescription Drug Against Pharmacist--General Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
[and DOES I through _____,]	)	(Negligence)
Defendant(s).	)	[Amount demanded _____
	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. Plaintiff is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of _____ (specify county and stats or allege capacity of plaintiff if a legal entity or suing in a representative capacity).]

2. Defendant _____ [name of seller] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California with its principal place of business in _____ [city], _____ County, California or allege other capacity of defendant and basis of venue as appropriate].

3. Defendant _____ [name of seller] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, in the business of compounding prescriptions and dispensing at retail such prescriptions and other medical drugs.

4. Defendant _____ [name of pharmacist] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a pharmacist duly licensed to practice his/her profession in the State of California.

[5. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as Does I-_____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges, that each of the fictitiously named defendants is negligently responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that plaintiff's injuries as herein alleged were proximately caused by that negligence.)]

[6. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that at all times herein mentioned defendant _____ (name of pharmacist) was the agent of the defendant _____ (name of seller) and (in doing the things hereinafter alleged) was acting within the course and scope of such agency and with the permission and consent of his/her codefendant.]

7. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff was under the care of Dr. _____ [name], who is, and at all times mentioned herein was, a medical doctor duly licensed to practice his/her profession in California.

8. On or about _____ [date], Dr. _____ [name] prescribed certain medical drugs for plaintiff. _____ [Allege description of prescription, e.g., The prescription called for 30 tablets, each tablet containing two grams of Valium and directing that one tablet be taken three times a day].

9. Because defendant _____ [name of seller] was engaged in the sale of prescription drugs to the general public, and defendant _____ [name of pharmacist] was engaged in the filling of prescriptions for drugs for the general public, they owed a duty to the general public and to plaintiff in particular to use reasonable care to see that the prescriptions for drugs were filled so as to be fit for human use.

10. _____ [Allege act of negligence, e.g., On or about _____, (date), defendant _____ (name of pharmacist) prepared the prescription for plaintiff. Defendant placed a label on the container for the drug intended for plaintiff. The label said that one tablet should be taken every two hours. This label did not correctly state the directions that had been given by Dr. _____ (name). The error in preparing the label was due to the negligence of defendant _____ (name of seller) and the defendant's agent _____ (name of pharmacist)].

11. _____ [Allege plaintiff's reasonable reliance, e.g., Reasonably relying on the label and pursuant to the directions stated on the label, plaintiff consumed 8 tablets a day until the tablets were fully consumed].

12. As a proximate result of the negligence of defendants, and each of them, plaintiff was hurt and injured in his/her health, strength, and activity sustaining injury to his/her nervous system and person, all of which injuries have caused, and continue to cause, plaintiff great mental, physical, and nervous pain and suffering. [Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that such injuries will result in some permanent disability to him/her.] As a result of such injuries, plaintiff has suffered general damages according to proof.

13. As a further proximate result of defendants' negligence herein alleged, plaintiff has been damaged in that he/she has been required to expend money and incur obligations, for medical services, X-rays, drugs, and sundries reasonably required in the treatment and relief of the injuries herein alleged.

14. As a further proximate result of the negligence of defendants and each of them, plaintiff was prevented from attending to his/her usual occupation as a _____ [state occupation] _____ [for a period of _____ (specify) or to the date of the filing of this complaint] and thereby lost earnings [to his/her damage according to proof].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendants, and each of them as follows:

1. For general damages according to proof;

2. For medical and related expenses according to proof;

3. For loss of earnings according to proof;

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action or proceeding. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters that are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a general form for use by a plaintiff to recover damages sustained as the result of using drugs improperly because of a negligently filled prescription. The fact situation described in the form illustrates allegations for use when the negligence consists in providing erroneous directions for using the drug.

For discussion of negligence as a basis for liability by a pharmacist, see § 214.63.

[3] Contents of Form

The complaint alleges:

- Plaintiff's capacity or residence (Paragraph 1).
- Defendant's capacity and basis for venue (Paragraph 2).
- Defendant's activities that are the basis for defendant's duty to use reasonable care (Paragraphs 3, 4, 9).
- Fictitious name (Paragraph 5).
- Agency (Paragraph 6).
- Facts establishing plaintiff's use of due care (Paragraphs 7, 8, 11).
- Defendant's act of negligence (Paragraph 10) [see Civ. Code § 1714].
- Any actual damages that plaintiff has incurred (Paragraphs 12-14) [see Civ. Code § 3333].

The allegation of plaintiff's capacity and residence is not required and is normally omitted unless plaintiff is a legal entity, doing business under a fictitious business name, or is suing in a representative capacity.

[4] Specifying Amount of Damages

In an action to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded for this cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages for anything other than personal injury or wrongful death (for example, property damage) must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)] or an equivalent statement must be included, for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought when they are not stated in the complaint, see Ch. 177, Damages, § 174.10 et seq., and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115].

[5] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified also, if the action is in the superior court and is not a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude a general denial except in a limited civil case, and will preclude a general denial even in a limited civil case when the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion see Ch. 26, Answers .

[6] Notice Prior to Commencing Action

Code Civ. Proc. § 364(a) requires 90 days prior notice as a prerequisite to an action against a health care provider, including pharmacists, for professional negligence [see Civ. Code Proc. § 364(f)(1) ("health care provider" defined)].

[7] Cross References

For alternative allegations as to capacity and residence of parties, fictitious name allegations, and agency allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used

For alternative forms of captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions

For alternative allegations as to damages, see Ch. 177, Damages

For forms of complaints alleging fraud and deceit, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit

For discussion of and forms for use in negligence actions, see Ch. 380, Negligence

For a form of notice as a prerequisite to an action against a health care provider for professional negligence, see Ch. 415, Physicians: Medical Malpractice

For alternative forms of prayers and verifications, see Chs. 420, Prayers , and 572, Verification , respectively

For forms of complaints for use in actions for breach of warranty, see Ch. 500, Sales and Secured Transactions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART IV. FORMS

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 214.116-214.119

[Reserved]

§§ 214.116[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 214 DRUGS AND PHARMACISTS
PART IV. FORMS

17-214 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 214.120

§ 214.120 Complaint for Declaratory Relief, Permanent Injunction, and Damages for Violation in Preparing of Pharmaceutical Fee Study--Against Prescription Drug Claims Processor by Pharmacy Owner [Civ. Code § 2528]

[1] FORM Complaint for Declaratory Relief, Permanent Injunction, and Damages for Violation in Preparing of Pharmaceutical Fee Study--Against Prescription Drug Claims Processor by Pharmacy Owner [Civ. Code § 2528]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF_____

_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)
_____ [name],	)	NO. _____
[and DOES I through _____,]	)	COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY RELIEF, Defendant(s).	)	PERMANENT INJUNCTION, AND DAMAGES
	)
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Plaintiff's capacity and residence, when appropriate. See § 214.115[1], Paragraph 1.]

2. [Defendant's capacity and residence, when appropriate. See § 214.115[1], Paragraph 2.]

3. Plaintiff is the owner of _____ [name], a pharmacy duly licensed under the laws of the State of California and located in _____ County, California.

4. Defendant is a prescription drug claims processor as defined in Section 2527(b) of the Civil Code.

5. Plaintiff's pharmacy _____ [has a contractual relationship with or renders pharmaceutical services to] _____ [a beneficiary or beneficiaries] of _____ [name(s) of defendant's clients], who _____ [is or are] client(s) of defendant.

6. _____ [Describe defendant's alleged violation of Civ. Code § 2527,e.g., The study _____ (conducted or obtained) by defendant of fees of California pharmacies of dispensing services to private consumers does not comply with the requirements of Section 2527(c) of the Civil Code in that it did not cover a statistically significant sample of California pharmacies].

7. On _____ [date], plaintiff notified defendant in writing as to the nature of the alleged violation of Section 2527 of the Civil Code. Defendant _____ [did not or refused to] remedy the violation within 30 days fromreceipt of the notice, _____ [did not or refused to] undertake steps to remedy the violation within that period and complete the steps promptly thereafter [, and continues to refuse to remedy the violation].

8. An actual controversy now exists betweeen plaintiff and defendant concerning their respective rights and duties. Plaintiff contends that _____ [specify contentions, e.g., defendant's fee study was not based on a statistically significant sample of California pharmacies]. Defendant disputes these contentions and contends that _____ [specify contentions, e.g., the study he/she/it _____ (made or obtained) was based on a statistically significant sample of California pharmacies].

9. Plaintiff desires a judicial determination of his/her/its rights, and a declaration as to whether or not _____ [specify issue to be determined, e.g., defendant's study was based on a statistically significant sample of California pharmacies]. A judicial declaration is necessary and appropriate at this time under the circumstances in order that plaintiff may ascertain his/her its rights and duties under Section 2528 of the Civil Code.

10. Defendant's wrongful conduct, unless and until enjoined and restrained by order of this court, will cause great and irreparable injury to plaintiff in that _____ [specify particular facts that will constitute great and irreparable harm to plaintiff's business resulting from defendant's failure or refusal to comply with Civ. Code § 2527].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For a declaration that _____ [state determination, requested e.g., the fee study _____ (made or obtained) by defendant is not sufficient to satisfy the requirements of Section 2527 of the Civil Code because it was not based on a statistically significant sample of California pharmacies];

2. For a permanent injunction directing defendant to complete and transmit a fee study in compliance with Section 2527 of the Civil Code;

3. For damages in the sum of $_____;

4. For reasonable attorney's fees incurred herein;

5. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

6. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 214.105.]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by a pharmacy owner who is seeking declaratory and injunctive relief against a prescription drug claims processor for an alleged violation in preparing a fee study of pharmaceutical dispensing services to private consumers [see Civ. Code § 2528].

Although Civ. Code § 2258 specifically authorizes declaratory and injunctive relief in the action, counsel should determine whether or not such relief is appropriate under the circumstances.

The reporting requirement in Civ. Code § 2527 and the related penalty and enforcement provisions in Civ. Code § 2528 violate the free speech provision of the California Constitution because they violate the free speech rights guaranteed to prescription drug claims processors by compelling speech, and regulation is not narrowly tailored to achieve a governmental interest to encourage insurers to pay pharmacists fair rate for drug dispensing services [ARP Pharmacy Svcs., Inc. v. Gallagher Bassett Svcs., Inc. (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 1307, 1314-1322, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 256 ; see Cal. Const. art. I, § 2].

For a discussion of the requirement of a fee study and of requirements relating to its contents, see § 214.70 et seq.

[3] Contents of Form

The form in [1], above, alleges:

- The plaintiff's capacity and residence (Paragraph 1).

- The defendant's capacity and residence (Paragraph 2).

- The plaintiff's standing as an owner of a licensed California pharmacy that has a contractual relationship with or renders pharmaceutical services to a beneficiary of a client of defendant (Paragraphs 3, 5) [see Civ. Code § 2528].

- The defendant's capacity as a prescription drug claims processor (Paragraph 4) [see Civ. Code §§ 2527(b), 2528].

- That defendant violated Civ. Code § 2527 (Paragraph 6) [see Civ. Code §§ 2527(c),(d), 2528].

- That the plaintiff gave the defendant written notice to remedy the violation (Paragraph 7) [see Civ. Code § 2528].

In relation to the request for declaratory relief, the form alleges:

- The existence of an actual controversy and the parties conflicting contentions (Paragraph 8).

- That the plaintiff desires a declaration of his or her rights that is necessary and appropriate under the circumstances (Paragraph 9) [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1060, 1061; Alturas v. City of Gloster (1940) 16

Cal. 2d 46, 48, 104 P.2d 810] .

In relation to the request for a permanent mandatory injunction, the form additionally alleges facts showing why the defendant's conduct will constitute great and irreparable injury (Paragraph 10) and the inadequacy of any legal remedies (Paragraph 11) [see Civ. Code § 3422; Code Civ. Proc. § 526; E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; Helms Bakeries v. St. Bd. Equalization (1942) 53 Cal. App. 2d 417, 425, 128 P.2d 167] .

[4] Verification

Verification is not required, but verification of the complaint requires the defendant to file a verified answer [Code Civ. Proc. § 446] and precludes use of a general denial [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[5] Notice Prior to Commencing Action

Before commencing an action against a prescription drug claims processor, a pharmacy owner must give the processor written notice as to the nature of the alleged violation of Civ. Code § 2527, and the processor must fail to remedy the violation within 30 days from receipt of the notice or fail to undertake steps to remedy the violation within that period and to complete the steps promptly thereafter [Civ. Code § 2528].

[6] Jurisdiction

An action seeking permanent injunctive relief or declaratory relief is in the jurisdiction of the superior court and is not a limited civil case [see Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(7), (8), 580(b)(2), (5), 1060].

If, however, only the statutory damages of not less than $1000 nor more than $10,000 provided for in Civ. Code § 2528, are sought, the superior court has jurisdiction of the action as a limited civil case (amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less) [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(1)].

In limited civil cases, the caption must identify the case as a limited civil case and must state whether the demand exceeds or does not exceed $10,000 [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Gov. Code § 70613; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9), (10)].

[7] Costs and Attorney's Fees

Recovery of costs and attorney's fees are authorized in an action against a prescription drug claims processor for violation of Civ. Code § 2527 [Civ. Code § 2528].

[8] Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to the remedy of declaratory relief, see Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief

For discussion and forms relating to permanent injunctive relief, see Ch. 303, Injunctions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 215.syn

§ 215.syn Synopsis to Chapter 215: DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE

§ 215.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 215.02 Cross References

[1] Contract Made by Minor

[2] Related Discussion and Forms

[3] Setting Aside Judgments and Orders

§ 215.03 Governing Statutes

§§ 215.04through 215.09 [Reserved]

§ 215.10 Consent as Essential Element of Contract

§ 215.11 Confusion and Overlap of Terms

§§ 215.12through 215.19 [Reserved]

§ 215.20 Statutory Definition of Duress and Menace

§ 215.21 Expanded Definition

[1] In General

[2] Landlord-Tenant

[3] Domestic Relations

[4] Statute of Limitations

§ 215.22 Business or Economic Duress

§ 215.23 Unlawful Act No Longer Required

§ 215.24 Assertion of Future Lawful Act

§ 215.25 Assertion of Legal Right

§ 215.26 Threat of Criminal Prosecution

§ 215.27 Acts by Third Person

§ 215.28 Proof of Duress

§§ 215.29through 215.39 [Reserved]

§ 215.40 Undue Influence Defined

§ 215.41 Forms of Undue Influence

[1] In General

[2] Undue Susceptibility

[3] Use of Excessive Pressure

§ 215.42 Undue Influence and Fraud Distinguished

§§ 215.43through 215.49 [Reserved]

§ 215.50 Mistake Preventing Formation of Contract

§ 215.51 Mistake of Fact

[1] In General

[2] Mutual Mistake

[3] Reliance on Innocent Misrepresentation

[4] Unilateral Mistake

§ 215.52 Contractor's Bids

§ 215.53 Mistake of Judgment

§ 215.54 Relief Denied if Mistake Due to Neglect of Duty

§ 215.55 Mistake of Law

§ 215.56 Mistake Must Be Material

[1] In General

[2] Requirement of Injury

§ 215.57 Mistakes Parties Had in Mind

§§ 215.58through 215.69 [Reserved]

§ 215.70 Fraud

[1] In General

[2] Actual Fraud Defined

[3] Elements of Actual Fraud

[4] Question of Fact

[5] Constructive Fraud

§ 215.71 Innocent Misrepresentation

§ 215.72 Fraud and Deceit Distinguished

§§ 215.73through 215.79 [Reserved]

§ 215.80 Presumption That Advantage Taken Is Unfair

§ 215.81 Confidential Relationships

[1] Defined

[2] Trustee-Beneficiary

[3] Attorney-Client Relationship

[4] Husband-Wife Relationship

[5] Agents

[6] Effect of Family Relationship

[7] No Confidential Relationship Between Employer and Employee

§ 215.82 Advantage Defined

§ 215.83 Rebuttal of Presumption

§§ 215.84through 215.89 [Reserved]

§ 215.90 Variety of Remedies

§ 215.91 Rescission

§ 215.92 Remedy for Undue Influence

§ 215.93 Fraud Without Damage or Injury

§ 215.94 Common Counts

§ 215.95 Cancellation of Instrument

§ 215.96 Reformation

§ 215.97 Action for Damages for Deceit

§ 215.98 Affirmative Defense or Counterclaim

§ 215.99 Pleading

§ 215.100 Statute of Limitations

§§ 215.101through 215.109 [Reserved]

§ 215.110 State Statutes

[1] Definitions

[2] Duress

[3] Fraud

[4] Mistake

[5] Consent

[6] Trusts

[7] Damages

[8] Remedies

[9] Statute of Limitations

§ 215.111 Decisions

[1] Duress

[a] Generally

[b] Business Compulsion

[c] Examples Not Constituting Duress

[2] Fraud

[a] Generally

[b] Elements of Fraud

[c] Constructive Fraud

[d] Promissory Fraud

[e] Statute of Limitations

[f] As Defense

[3] Undue Influence

[a] Presumption

[b] Evidence

[c] Transaction Upheld

[d] Transaction Voided

[e] Weakness of Mind

[f] Unfair Advantage Taken of Weakness or Distress

[4] Confidential Relationship

[5] Mistake of Fact

[a] Mutual Mistake of Fact

[b] Unilateral Mistake of Fact

[6] Mistake of Law

[a] Allowing Relief

[b] Relief Not Available

[7] Innocent Misrepresentation

§ 215.112 Text References

§ 215.113 Law Reviews

§§ 215.114through 215.119 [Reserved]

§ 215.120 Allegation of Threats of and Actual Confinement of Person or Property and Threats of Injury to Person or Property [Civ. Code §§ 1569, 1570]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 215.121 Allegation of Deprivation of Exercise of Free Will Without Confinement of Person or Detention of Property [Civ. Code § 1569]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 215.122 Allegation of Economic or Business Duress [Civ. Code § 1569]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§§ 215.123through 215.129 [Reserved]

§ 215.130 Allegation of Confidential Relationship Raising Presumption of Undue Influence or Constructive Fraud [Civ. Code §§ 1573(1), 1575(1)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations for Constructive Fraud

[a] Intent

[b] Reliance

§ 215.131 Allegation of Unfair Advantage Taken of Confidence and Weakness Though No Confidential Relationship Presumed From Parties' Relationship [Civ. Code § 1575(2), (3)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 215.132 Allegation of Unfair Advantage Taken of Weakness or Distress [Civ. Code § 1575(2), (3)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§§ 215.133through 215.139 [Reserved]

§ 215.140 Allegation of Mutual Mistake of Fact [Civ. Code § 1577]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 215.141 Allegation of Unilateral Mistake of Fact--Other Party Aware of Mistake [Civ. Code § 1577]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 215.141A Allegation of Unilateral Mistake of Fact--Other Party Unaware of Mistake

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 215.142 Allegation of Mistake of Law [Civ. Code § 1578]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 215.143 Allegation of Innocent Misrepresentation

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 215.144 Allegation of Intentional Misrepresentation of Fact [Civ. Code § 1572]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART I. SCOPE

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.01

§ 215.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses the defenses of duress, menace, fraud, undue influence, and mistake as each negates the apparent consent to a contract. The chapter contains forms of allegations for use in complaints for rescission or reformation and for use as affirmative defenses to actions based on contract on the following grounds:

- Duress and menace [see § 215.120 et seq.].
- Undue influence [see § 215.130 et seq.].
- Mistake, misrepresentation and fraud [see § 215.140 et seq.].

The terms duress, menace, fraud, undue influence, and mistake are used, individually and in varying combinations, in numerous sections of the California codes other than in relation to the issue of contractual consent. However, the forms in this chapter may be adapted for use in cases arising under those other sections that involve invalidating some type of agreement [see, e.g., Civ. Code §§ 1788.10 (debt collection by using duress and menace), 3261 (mistake made with intent to defraud as invalidating lien); Prob. Code § 6104 (will made under duress, menace, fraud, or undue influence may be denied probate)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART I. SCOPE

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.02

§ 215.02 Cross References

[1] Contract Made by Minor

For discussion and forms to disaffirm under Fam. Code § 6710 a contract made by a minor, see Ch. 365, Minors: Contract Actions ,.

[2] Related Discussion and Forms

For discussion of contracts and rescission in general, see Ch. 140, Contracts , and Ch. 490, Rescission and Restitution , respectively.

For forms to use in conjunction with the forms in this chapter, see the following chapters:

- For forms for use to seek cancellation of a deed obtained by fraud, undue influence, or mistake, see Ch. 107, Cancellation of Instruments , and Ch. 184, Deeds .

- For forms relating to the cause of action of fraud and deceit, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit .

- For discussion and forms relating to mistake and fraud as grounds for reformation, see Ch. 488, Reformation of Instruments .

Many other chapters include related discussion and forms:

- For discussion of duress and other defenses relating to accord and satisfaction, see Ch. 6, Accord and Satisfaction .

- For forms of defense relating to fraud and mistake for use in actions based on accounts stated, see Ch. 8, Accounts Stated and Open Accounts .

- For a form for use in actions involving fraud in auctions, see Ch. 77, Auctions and Auctioneers .

- For discussion and forms relating to actions involving fraud by and against brokers, see Ch. 103, Brokers .

- For discussion and forms for use in actions involving fraud in building contracts, see Ch. 104, Building Contracts .

- For a form for use in recovering an overpayment made under mistake of fact, see Ch. 121, Common Counts .

- For discussion and forms involving actions to set aside fraudulent conveyances, see Ch. 270, Fraudulent Conveyances .

- For discussion and forms involving gifts induced by fraud, mistake, or undue influence, see Ch. 278, Gifts .

- For discussion and forms involving fraud in actions against insurance companies and brokers, see Ch. 308, Insurance .

- For discussion and forms involving the attacking of judgments on the basis of fraud or mistake, see Ch. 318, Judgments .

- For a form for use in an action for damages for fraud in transfer of oil and gas interests, see Ch. 393, Oil and Gas .

- For a form for use in an action for rescission of a partnership contract based on misrepresentations made in connection with entering into the partnership, see Ch. 401, Partnerships: Actions Between General Partners and Partnership .

- For a form for use in an action for damages for fraud in the sale of land, see Ch. 427, Principal and Agent .

- For forms for use in actions to set aside a will procured by fraud or undue influence, see Ch. 444, Probate: Will Contests .

- For discussion and forms relating to erroneous bids involving public work contracts, see Ch. 481, Public Works .

- For discussion and forms involving fraud in sale of securities and investments, see Ch. 515, Securities and Franchise Regulation .

- For discussion and forms relating to the statute of frauds, see Ch. 530, Statute of Frauds .

- For a form for use in actions by a surety against persons fraudulently obtaining execution of contractors labor and materials bonds, see Ch. 538, Suretyship, Bonds, and Undertakings .

- For forms for use in rescission of irrevocable trusts on grounds of duress, etc., and in impressing constructive trusts on property obtained through fraud or mistake, see Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts .

- For forms for use in actions for rescission of contract for sale of property due to fraud, see Ch. 569, Vendor and Purchaser .

[3] Setting Aside Judgments and Orders

For discussion and forms to set aside a judgment of marital dissolution obtained by fraud, duress, mistake, or other grounds under Fam. Code § 2120 et. seq., see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure .

- For general discussion and forms for use to set aside a stipulation, judgment, or stipulated judgment induced by duress, fraud, or mistake, see Ch. 489, Relief From Judgments and Orders , and Ch. 533, Stipulations .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawFormationCapacity of PartiesAgeContracts LawPerformanceAccord & SatisfactionContracts LawRemediesReformationContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawPersonal GiftsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART I. SCOPE

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.03

§ 215.03 Governing Statutes

Consent to a contract is governed generally by Civ. Code §§ 1565-1590. Acts and omissions constituting duress, fraud, undue influence, and mistake and which invalidate consent are set forth in Civ. Code §§ 1569-1579.

Relief from marital dissolution judgments obtained by duress is governed by Fam. Code § 2120 et. seq., discussed in Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure . Void and invalid attempted transfers to fiduciaries, including attorneys, and conservators, are governed by Prob. Code § 21350 et seq., discussed in Ch. 444, Probate: Will Contests .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewEstate, Gift & Trust LawWill ContestsFraudEstate, Gift & Trust LawWill ContestsMistake

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART I. SCOPE

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 215.04through 215.09

[Reserved]

§§ 215.04[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Background Principles

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.10

§ 215.10 Consent as Essential Element of Contract

Consent is an essential element to the formation of a contract [Civ. Code § 1550]. Consent is composed of an offer and an acceptance [American B. M. Co. v. Indemnity Ins. Co. (1932) 214 Cal. 608, 615, 7 P.2d 305] . To be valid, consent must be free, mutual, and communicated by each party to the other [Civ. Code § 1565]. An apparent consent is not real or free when obtained through duress, menace, fraud, undue influence, or mistake [Civ. Code § 1567; see, e.g., Jones v. Adams Financial Services (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 831, 840, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 151 (loan documents signed by elderly woman who was blind and suffered from dementia were obtained through fraud in the execution without negligence on plaintiff's part and contract therefore was void)]. Consent is deemed to have been obtained through one of these causes only when it would not have been given had that cause not existed [Civ. Code § 1568].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceThreats of Arrest & ImprisonmentContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationMeeting of Minds

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Background Principles

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.11

§ 215.11 Confusion and Overlap of Terms

The terms duress, menace, fraud, and undue influence are often confused, used interchangeably, or deemed to include each other [see In re Marriage of Baltins (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 66, 83, 85 n.9, 260 Cal. Rptr. 403 (duress as fraud; finding of duress, that wife was very emotional, upset, and distraught to the point that she was acting under her husband's will as demonstrating undue influence); Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 205, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12 (duress as species of fraud); O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 147, 158, 119 Cal. Rptr. 245 (undue influence as species of constructive fraud); Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 123, 128, 54 Cal. Rptr. 533 (duress and menace used interchangeably)].

Duress, menace, fraud, and undue influence are often all alleged in the same action [see Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 123, 128-129, 131-132, 54 Cal. Rptr. 533 (finding undue influence but no duress, menace, or constructive fraud)]. Counsel may wish to allege more than one ground for invalidating apparent consent and leave it to the trier of fact to determine which actions actually did overpower the party's ability to give actual consent.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceThreats of Arrest & ImprisonmentContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Background Principles

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 215.12through 215.19

[Reserved]

§§ 215.12[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Duress and Menace

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.20

§ 215.20 Statutory Definition of Duress and Menace

Duress is defined by Civ. Code § 1569 as:

- The unlawful confinement of the person of a party, or of a party's husband, wife, ancestor, descendant, or adopted child, or of the ancestor, descendant, or adopted child of the party's husband or wife [Civ. Code § 1569(1)];

- The unlawful detention of the property of the party or of the relatives of the party listed in item 1, above [Civ. Code § 1569(2)]; or

- The confinement of one of the persons listed in item 1, above, lawful in form, but fraudulently obtained, or fraudulently made unjustly harassing or oppressive [Civ. Code § 1569(3)].

Although menace is often used interchangeably with duress in California [see Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 123, 128, 54 Cal. Rptr. 533] , it is technically different from duress, in that it is a threat of duress as specified in Civ. Code § 1569(1) or (3). It is also a threat of unlawful and violent injury to the person or property of any person specified in Civ. Code § 1569(1), or of injury to the character of that person [Civ. Code § 1570]. Thus, threats of bodily harm are sufficient to uphold a finding of duress [Alderson v. Alderson (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 450, 464-465, 225 Cal. Rptr. 610 (voiding quitclaim deeds signed under threats of violence coupled with evidence of actual violence before and after signing)]. Because courts frequently fail to distinguish between duress and menace [see §§ 215.11, 215.21[1]], the term duress is also used to mean menace in this chapter unless otherwise indicated.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceThreats of Arrest & Imprisonment

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Duress and Menace

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.21

§ 215.21 Expanded Definition

[1] In General

Case law has expanded the definition of duress beyond the limited wording of the statute [see § 215.11]. The expanded definition of duress includes whatever destroys a person's free agency and constrains that person to do something against his or her will [In re Marriage of Baltins (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 66, 84, 260 Cal. Rptr. 403 ; Lewis v. Fahn (1952) 113 Cal. App. 2d 95, 98, 247 P.2d 831 (quoting 17 Am. Jur., p. 873)]. Duress may be exercised by threats, importunity, or any species of mental coercion [In re Marriage of Baltins (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 66, 84, 260 Cal. Rptr. 403 ; In re Marriage of Gonzalez (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 736, 744, 129 Cal. Rptr. 566 ; Gross v. Needham (1960) 184 Cal. App. 2d 446, 461, 7 Cal Rptr 664] . Duress exists if one party intentionally used threats or pressure to induce action or nonaction to the other party's detriment and the coerced party was thereby induced to assent and had no reasonable alternative [In reMarriage of Baltins (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 66, 84, 85 n.9, 260 Cal. Rptr. 403 (series of misrepresentations, threats, and refusal to deal with counsel resulting in finding of duress that also amounted to undue influence); Rich & Whillock, Inc. v. Ashton Development, Inc. (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 1154, 1158-1159, 204 Cal. Rptr. 86] .

[2] Landlord-Tenant

Lessees were held to be acting under duress when they paid full rental, despite contrary agreements, because the lessors had made written and oral threats to declare the lease cancelled and bring an action for eviction if the lessees did not pay the increased amount [Lewis v. Fahn (1952) 113 Cal. App. 2d 95, 97, 100, 247 P.2d 831] . In addition, a stepsister was held to have executed a deed transferring a joint tenancy interest to her stepbrother under duress. The deed was executed after an argument with the stepbrother who claimed that the time to act was short, and that the grantor would lose the property altogether if the joint tenancy deed was not signed [Gross v. Needham (1960) 184 Cal. App. 2d 446, 461, 7 Cal Rptr 664] .

[3] Domestic Relations

In the context of marital settlement agreements, duress may consist of threats and intimidation regarding financial stability and the right to see the children [see In re Marriage of Baltins (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 66, 86, 260 Cal. Rptr. 403 (husband threatened involuntary bankruptcy filing and not to see children); In re Marriage of Gonzalez (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 736, 743, 129 Cal. Rptr. 566 (rescission of marital property settlement agreement, threats that unless wife signed agreement, she would lose her children and become destitute)].

[4] Statute of Limitations

Duress in the form of threats to have a person deported if he contested an accounting have been held sufficient to estop the party making the threats from raising the defense of the statute of limitations when the threatened party finally did bring suit [Ateeq v. Najor (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 1351, 1356, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 320] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesStatutes of LimitationsGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsEquitable Estoppel

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Duress and Menace

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.22

§ 215.22 Business or Economic Duress

In addition to the expansion of the definition of duress discussed above, duress is not limited to threats against the person or acts of mental coercion. It may also consist of threats to business or property interests [Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 203, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12 ; Louisville Title Ins. Co. v. Surety Title & Guar. Co. (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 781, 801, 132 Cal. Rptr. 63] . The economic duress doctrine is similar to the general doctrine of duress and menace. However, as it has evolved, it is not limited to the early statutory and judicial interpretation requiring the commission of an unlawful act in the nature of a tort or crime [Philippine Export & Foreign Loan Guarantee Corp. v. Chuidian (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1058, 1077, 267 Cal. Rptr. 457 (threat to expose former Philippine President Marcos's investments in U.S. corporations); Rich & Whillock, Inc. v. Ashton Development, Inc. (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 1154, 1158-1159, 204 Cal. Rptr. 86 ; see § 215.23]. Instead, economic duress may consist of a wrongful act that is sufficiently coercive to cause a reasonably prudent person faced with no reasonable alternative to succumb to the perpetrator's pressure [Crosstalk Productions Inc. v. Jacobson (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 631, 644, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615 ; Rich & Whillock, Inc. v. Ashton Development, Inc. (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 1154, 1158, 204 Cal. Rptr. 86] . It may take the form of a bad faith threat to institute civil process, blackmail, an assertion of a claim known to be false, or a bad faith threat to breach a contract or to withhold payment [Crosstalk Productions Inc. v. Jacobson (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 631, 644-645, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615 ; Philippine Export & Foreign Loan Guarantee Corp. v. Chuidian (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1058, 1077, 267 Cal. Rptr. 457 (no finding of coercion); Rich & Whillock, Inc. v. Ashton Development, Inc. (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 1154, 1158-1159, 204 Cal. Rptr. 86 ; see Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 204, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12 (claim known to be false; see § 215.121, form of allegation of deprivation of exercise of free will without confinement of person or detention of property); see also § 215.26].

A reasonably prudent person who finds that, to protect his or her property or business interests, it is necessary to make a payment of money that he or she does not owe and that in equity and good conscience the receiver should not retain, may recover it [Young v. Hoagland (1931) 212 Cal. 426, 431, 298 P. 996 (action by stockholders to recover assessment illegally levied by board of directors and paid under threat of sale of stock); Rich & Whillock, Inc. v. Ashton Development, Inc. (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 1154, 1160-1161, 204 Cal. Rptr. 86 (contractor's releases settling billing for less than actual costs as unenforceable due to economic duress when contractor signed releases only because creditors and subcontractors threatened involuntary bankruptcy filing if not paid); Chrysler Credit Corp. v. Ostly

(1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 663, 675-676, 117 Cal. Rptr. 167] .

A determination that a payment was made under compulsion requires proof that (1) the payment was made under circumstances sufficient to control the action of a reasonable person, and (2) the person in fact considered that it was necessary to make such a payment to protect his or her business interests [Chrysler Credit Corp. v. Ostly (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 663, 678, 117 Cal. Rptr. 167 ; see Flynn v. San Francisco (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 210, 216-218, 115 P.2d 3 ; cf. London Homes, Inc. v. Korn (1965) 234 Cal. App. 2d 233, 239-240, 44 Cal. Rptr. 262 (no economic duress when plaintiff agreed for good business reasons to pay more than originally required)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceEconomic Duress

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Duress and Menace

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.23

§ 215.23 Unlawful Act No Longer Required

The older cases required an act or threat to be unlawful for the act or threat to constitute duress or menace. The unlawful act or threat had to be either a tort or a crime [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Gonzalez (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 736, 743, 747, 129 Cal. Rptr. 566 (threats to unlawfully take children out of country so wife could not see them unless she signed agreement); see Goldstein v. Enoch (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 891, 894-895, 57 Cal. Rptr. 19 (party held not to have acted under coercion, but rather voluntarily)].

As discussed above [see § 215.22], recent cases have applied a more relaxed definition of duress and menace. Under the modern rule, duress, which includes whatever destroys a person's free agency and constrains him or her to act against his or her will, may be exercised by threats, importunity, or any species of mental coercion [In re Marriage of Baltins (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 66, 84, 260 Cal. Rptr. 403] . There is no longer a requirement that there be an unlawful act. Nevertheless, the older cases are discussed here to interpret acts of duress and menace where such acts or omissions propagate a tort or crime.

The Restatement (Second) of Contracts lists the following as improper threats [Restatement (Second) of Contracts (1981) § 176]:

- A crime or tort, or what would be a crime or tort if it resulted in obtaining property.
- A criminal prosecution.
- The use of civil process, when the threat is made in bad faith.
- A breach of the duty of good faith and fair dealing under a contract.
- A threat that results in an exchange that is not on fair terms if (1) the threatened act would harm the recipient but would not significantly benefit the party making the threat, (2) the effectiveness of the threat in inducing the manifestation of assent is significantly increased by prior unfair dealing by the party making the threat, or (3) what is threatened is otherwise a use of power for illegitimate ends.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Duress and Menace

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.24

§ 215.24 Assertion of Future Lawful Act

To determine whether a threat is wrongful depends on what is threatened. Generally, it is not unlawful to threaten to commit a lawful future act. If it is lawful to commit a certain act, then it is also lawful to threaten to commit that act [McKay v. Retail Auto. S. L. Union No. 1067 (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 311, 321, 106 P.2d 373 , cert. denied, 313 U.S. 566] . In doing so, a person merely gives warning of his or her lawful intentions and gives the other person the chance to either avoid or accept the consequences [McKay v. Retail Auto. S. L. Union No. 1067 (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 311, 321, 106 P.2d 373 , cert. denied, 313 U.S. 566 ; but see Balling v. Finch (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 413, 420, 21 Cal. Rptr. 490 (note voided on basis of duress in form of threats to inform Commissioner of violations of securities laws)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Duress and Menace

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.25

§ 215.25 Assertion of Legal Right

It is not duress or menace to do what one has a legal right to do [U.S. Hertz, Inc. v. Niobrara Farms (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 68, 81, 116 Cal. Rptr. 44] , unless the claims asserted are known to be false [Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 204, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12 ; Louisville Title Ins. Co. v. Surety Title & Guar. Co. (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 781, 801, 132 Cal. Rptr. 63] . Consequently, none of the following constitutes duress: (1) taking a different, but mistaken, view of one's contractual rights; (2) a good faith refusal to proceed with a contract, even though the refusal might later be found wrong; or (3) threatening to take or actually taking legal action (such as threatening to foreclose an overdue mortgage or to levy execution on nonexempt property even if the supporting judgment is avoidable) [London Homes, Inc. v. Korn (1965) 234 Cal. App. 2d 233, 240, 44 Cal. Rptr. 262 (voluntarily contracting to pay more for land than originally agreed is not duress when plaintiff could have sued for damages but elected not to for good business reasons)].

However, the assertion of a legal right is wrongful if it is made in bad faith, unless the right asserted is specifically given in a contract (such as the right to cancel a franchise or terminate an indemnity agreement) [see Louisville Title Ins. Co. v. Surety Title & Guar. Co. (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 781, 799-801, 805, 132 Cal. Rptr. 63] .

In any case, a threat not to perform a contract is not sufficient for a finding of duress unless the threat was made with the intent to force another to do something he or she would otherwise not have been willing to do. If a reasonable alternative exists to making payment, duress is not present [Louisville Title Ins. Co. v. Surety Title & Guar. Co. (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 781, 799-800 n.6, 801, 132 Cal. Rptr. 63] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceThreats of Arrest & Imprisonment

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Duress and Menace

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.26

§ 215.26 Threat of Criminal Prosecution

An agreement is obtained under duress if it was obtained under threat of criminal prosecution. As a matter of public policy, such threats constitute sufficient menace to obviate the free consent required by Civ. Code § 1565 [Bayscene Resident Negotiators v. Bayscene Mobilehome Park (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 119, 127-129, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 626 (city attorney threatened prosecution if owner did not agree to arbitrate as required by municipal ordinance; arbitration agreement as unenforceable); Helmick v. Thomas (1960) 187 Cal. App. 2d 395, 397, 9 Cal. Rptr. 512] . This public policy prevails even if the agreement obtained by threat of criminal prosecution was one to collect an amount that was due [Balling v. Finch (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 413, 420, 21 Cal. Rptr. 490] . However, the threat must be more than some statement or act from which a guilty party becomes apprehensive of prosecution [Miller v. Walden (1942) 53 Cal. App. 2d 353, 361, 127 P.2d 952 (promissory note executed by embezzler's relatives as not obtained by menace where victim merely consulted district attorney concerning embezzlement and demanded return of embezzled money but made no threats to have embezzler arrested)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceThreats of Arrest & Imprisonment

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Duress and Menace

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.27

§ 215.27 Acts by Third Person

Duress may consist of the wrongful acts of a third party if the party claiming duress was induced thereby to enter into a contract and the other party to the contract had reason to know of the duress of the third party [Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 206, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12 ; cf. Hall v. Department of Adoptions (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 898, 903, 121 Cal. Rptr. 223 (inference that husband threatened wife into signing relinquishment of child for adoption as not attributable to county for purposes of voiding relinquishment)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Duress and Menace

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.28

§ 215.28 Proof of Duress

In proving duress, there is no objective legal standard of resistance with which the person acted on must comply. Rather, the test for proving duress is subjective [see Lewis v. Fahn (1952) 113 Cal. App. 2d 95, 99-100, 247 P.2d 831] . The determination in each case is whether or not the threatened person was bereft of the free exercise of his or her will. This determination is not measured by the nature of the threats but by the state of mind induced in the victim. The means used to produce that condition and the person's age, sex, state of health, and mental characteristics are thus all evidence of his or her state of mind [Philippine Export & Foreign Loan Guarantee Corp. v. Chuidian (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1058, 1078, 267 Cal. Rptr. 457 ; Balling v. Finch (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 413, 419, 21 Cal. Rptr. 490 ; see McIntosh v. McIntosh (1962) 209 Cal. App. 2d 371, 373, 26 Cal. Rptr. 26 (applying subjective standards, adding that whether victim acted as reasonably prudent person was question for trier of fact)].

This subjective standard for measuring duress has been stated to be particularly applicable to the form of duress termed "illegal business compulsion" [Lewis v. Fahn (1952) 113 Cal. App. 2d 95, 100, 247 P.2d 831 (payments made by lessees under threat that unless made the lessors would declare lease cancelled and bring action in eviction)]. However, business compulsion does not exist if the threatened party had a reasonable alternative to part with the consideration. The determination of whether there is a reasonable alternative is made by ascertaining as a question of fact whether a reasonably prudent person would follow the alternative course [Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 204-205, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12 (holding that allowing one's property to be sold in foreclosure as not reasonable alternative to payment of money demanded in suit wrongfully filed); London Homes, Inc. v. Korn (1965) 234 Cal. App. 2d 233, 239-240 , 44 Cal. Rptr. 262 (no duress or business compulsion when plaintiff could have sued for damages instead of entering into contract); Louisville Title Ins. Co. v. Surety Title & Guar. Co. (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 781, 801-802, 132 Cal. Rptr. 63] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Duress and Menace

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 215.29through 215.39

[Reserved]

§§ 215.29[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Undue Influence

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.40

§ 215.40 Undue Influence Defined

As set forth in Civil Code Section 1575, undue influence consists of the following:

- The use, by one in whom confidence is reposed by another or who holds a real or apparent authority over another, of such confidence or authority for the purpose of obtaining an unfair advantage or the person [Civ. Code § 1575(1)];

- Taking an unfair advantage of another's weakness of mind [Civ. Code § 1575(2)]; or

- Taking a grossly oppressive and unfair advantage of another's necessities or distress [Civ. Code § 1575(3)].

Whether or not undue influence has been exerted is a question of fact [In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 354, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323 ; Stewart v. Marvin (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 769, 775, 294 P.2d 114] . The statutory definition is not dispositive. There are no fixed definitions or inflexible formulas. Instead, the trier of fact must decide from the entire context if a person's will was overborne and if he or she was induced to do or forbear from doing an act that he or she would not do, or would do, if left to act freely [Keithley v. Civil Service Bd. (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 443, 451, 89 Cal. Rptr. 809] .

As mentioned above, undue influence also consists of the use, by one in whom a confidence is reposed by another or who holds a real or apparent authority over another, of that confidence or authority in order to obtain an unfair advantage [Civ. Code § 1575(1)]. This type of undue influence is discussed separately in §§ 215.80-215.83, because allegations and proof of actual undue influence are unnecessary if it is shown that the parties had a confidential relationship and an advantage was taken by the party in whom the confidence was reposed [see Buchmayer v. Buchmayer (1945) 68 Cal. App. 2d 462, 467, 157 P.2d 9 ; see also Wells Fargo Bank v. Brady (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 381, 398, 254 P.2d 71 (evidence supporting finding of confidential relationship not examined)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Undue Influence

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.41

§ 215.41 Forms of Undue Influence

[1] In General

As discussed under [2] and [3], below, undue influence may consist of either (1) the undue susceptibility to influence of the person claiming relief [see Civ. Code § 1575(2), (3)], or (2) the use of excessive pressure by the person against whom relief is sought, resulting in overpersuasion [see Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 123, 130, 54 Cal. Rptr. 533] , or both.

[2] Undue Susceptibility

Undue susceptibility [see Civ. Code § 1575(2), (3)] may consist of (1) total weakness of mind that leaves a person entirely without understanding, (2) a lesser weakness that destroys the capacity of a person to make a contract even though he or she is not totally incapacitated, or (3) a still lesser weakness that provides sufficient grounds to rescind a contract for undue influence. This lesser weakness need not be long lasting or wholly incapacitating but may be merely a lack of full vigor due to age, physical condition, emotional anguish, or a combination of these factors [Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 123, 131, 54 Cal. Rptr. 533] . Many cases have involved elderly, sick, or senile persons alleged to have executed wills or deeds under pressure [see, e.g., O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 147, 153-156, 119 Cal. Rptr. 245] . Other cases concern persons with mental illnesses that amount to the weakness of mind contemplated by Civ. Code § 1575(2) [see, e.g., Smalley v. Baker (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 824, 835, 69 Cal. Rptr. 521 ; see Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 123, 131, 54 Cal. Rptr. 533] .

A large number of other cases have involved distraught, confused, and exhausted employees who were pressured by their employers to resign from their jobs [see, e.g., Keithley v. Civil Service Bd. (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 443, 447-448, 89 Cal. Rptr. 809 (police officer encouraged to resign over period of days while facing felony rape charges and hysterical wife); Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 123, 127, 54 Cal. Rptr. 533 (distraught, tired homosexual school teacher, after release from jail, encouraged by his boss at his home to resign immediately)]. Finally, a line of cases relates to the execution of releases by hospitalized persons in pain and suffering mental anguish [Weger v. Rocha (1934) 138 Cal. App. 109, 113, 32 P.2d 417] .

[3] Use of Excessive Pressure

Undue influence can consist of the use of excessive pressure by a dominant person over a servient person, resulting in the apparent will of the servient person being in fact the will of the dominant person [Keithley v. Civil Service Bd. (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 443, 451, 89 Cal. Rptr. 809 ; Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 123, 131, 54 Cal. Rptr. 533] .

The use of excessive pressure, resulting in overpersuasion, is generally accompanied by certain characteristic elements which, when simultaneously present in a significant number, characterize persuasion as excessive. These elements are [Keithley v. Civil Service Bd. (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 443, 452, 89 Cal. Rptr. 809 ; Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 123, 133, 54 Cal. Rptr. 533 ; see Channell v. Anthony (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 290, 306 n.1, 129 Cal. Rptr. 704 ; see also Robison v. City of Manteca (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 452, 457-458, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 748 (no allegations coming within Keithley criteria)]:

- Discussion of the transaction at an unusual or inappropriate time.
- Consummation of the transaction in an unusual place.
- Insistent demand that the business be finished at once.
- Extreme emphasis on untoward consequences of delay.
- The use of multiple persuaders by the dominant side against a single servient party.
- Absence of third-party advisers to the servient party.
- Statements that there is no time to consult financial advisers or attorneys.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Undue Influence

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.42

§ 215.42 Undue Influence and Fraud Distinguished

Undue influence differs from fraud in that undue influence refers to the subjugation of the will of a party, while fraud refers to deception of a party. However, undue influence is in a sense a species of fraud, though it may be exercised without any actual fraud or false representations being made [In re Estate of Ricks (1911) 160 Cal. 467, 480, 117 P. 539 ; see Estate of Newhall (1923) 190 Cal. 709, 718, 214 P. 231 ; O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 147, 158, 119 Cal. Rptr. 245 (undue influence as species of constructive fraud); Stewart v. Marvin (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 769, 775, 294 P.2d 114 (undue influence as species of constructive fraud)].

Undue influence may at times be exerted and applied by the use of fraud. When fraudulent representations are relied on as an element of undue influence, the complaining party must show that they were made the basis of importunity and mental pressure and that the victim's will was overcome [Estate of Newhall (1923) 190 Cal. 709, 718, 214 P. 231 ; In re Estate of Ricks (1911) 160 Cal. 467, 480-481, 117 P. 539 ; see Estate of Garibaldi (1961)57 Cal. 2d 108, 114, 17 Cal. Rptr. 623, 367 P.2d 39 (stating that fraud and undue influence as closely related and fraud as may be considered in determining whether undue influence existed)]. If such a showing is made, however, the fact that the party fails to show the presence of an element essential to state a cause of action for fraud is immaterial. Thus, even though the representations may prove to be true or the plaintiff's reliance may prove to have been unreasonable, relief may still be granted if the elements of undue influence are otherwise present [Rottman v. Rottman (1921) 55 Cal. App. 624, 633-634, 204 P. 46] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Undue Influence

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 215.43through 215.49

[Reserved]

§§ 215.43[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Mistake

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.50

§ 215.50 Mistake Preventing Formation of Contract

The consent of the parties to a contract must be free, mutual, and communicated by each to the other [Civ. Code § 1565]. Apparent consent is not free when obtained by mistake [Civ. Code § 1567(5)]. Consent is not mutual unless the parties all agree on the same thing in the same sense [Civ. Code § 1580]. In certain cases, by application of Civ. Code §§ 1635-1662 (governing interpretation of contracts), the parties may be deemed to have agreed to the same thing without regard to the fact [Civ. Code § 1580]. Consent can be communicated with effect, only by some act or omission of the party contracting, by which he or she intends to communicate it, or which necessarily tends to such communication [Civ. Code § 1581].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationMeeting of Minds

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Mistake

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.51

§ 215.51 Mistake of Fact

[1] In General

Mistake may be either of fact or of law [Civ. Code § 1576]. Mistake of law is discussed under § 215.55.

Mistake of fact is a mistake not caused by the neglect of a legal duty on the part of the person making the mistake, and must consist of either [Civ. Code § 1577; see Donovan v. RRL Corp. (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 261, 278-279, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 807, 27 P.3d 702 (auto dealership's lack of knowledge regarding typographical error in newspaper's advertised price of car constituted mistake of fact); see also § 215.56[1]]:

- An unconscious ignorance or forgetfulness of a past or present fact that is material to the contract; or

- A belief in the present existence of a thing material to the contract that does not in fact exist, or a belief in the past existence of a thing material to the contract that did not in fact exist.

A mistake of foreign laws is a mistake of fact [Civ. Code § 1579].

A mistake of fact within the meaning of Civ. Code § 1577 must concern a present or past fact, not something that occurs after execution of the contract [Mosher v. Mayacamas Corp. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1, 4-5, 263 Cal. Rptr. 373 ; see § 215.53]. Applying this distinction can require careful analysis. For example, in one case, achieving the purpose of a contract depended on one party obtaining city approval of the party's status as a qualified conservation entity. The party in question failed to obtain that approval because that party was not in fact eligible to be approved for the necessary status. A trial court concluded, and an appellate court concurred, that both parties had been mistaken as to a material fact, since both parties assumed, at the time the contract was made, that the unapproved party was eligible. That party had contended, incorrectly as it turned out, that the only mistake involved the parties' assumption as to the occurrence of a future event, which was that the necessary approval would be obtained [Habitat Trust for Wildlife, Inc. v. City of Rancho Cucamonga (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 1306, 1343, 96 Cal. Rptr. 3d 813].

A contract is void, or may be avoided [see Civ. Code § 1689(b)(1)], on the ground of a mutual mistake or unilateral mistake that was induced by or known to the nonmistaken party [see Harris v. Rudin, Richman & Appel (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1332, 1339, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 552 (reversing summary judgment for plaintiff because defendants raised triable issues of fact as to whether they were entitled to rescind settlement agreement based on mutual mistake of fact or law); Balistreri v. Nevada Livestock Production Credit Assn. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 635, 640-644, 262 Cal. Rptr. 862 (reversing judgment denying cancellation of deed of trust on grounds of both unilateral and mutual mistake)].

[2] Mutual Mistake

Mutual mistake prevents the formation of a contract [Balistreri v. Nevada Livestock Production Credit Assn. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 635, 642, 262 Cal. Rptr. 862] . A mutual mistake of fact occurs when each party has a different intention regarding some material aspect of the subject matter and (1) neither party knows or has reason to know the meaning attached by the other party, or (2) each party knows or has reason to know the meaning attached by the other party. No contract is formed because there is no meeting of the minds [Balistreri v. Nevada Livestock Production Credit Assn. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 635, 640-642, 262 Cal. Rptr. 862 (lender intended one property be pledged as collateral, trustors intended to pledge another); Merced County Sheriff's Employees' Assn. v. County of Merced (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 662, 675-677, 233 Cal. Rptr. 519 (no agreement found between firefighters' association and county); Merced County Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. State of California (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 765, 771-772, 284 Cal. Rptr. 680 (mutual mistake as to extent of insurance coverage)]. In Merced County Sheriff's Employees' Assn. v. County of Merced, no contract was formed because each party to a firefighters' association agreement was at fault: one party for misstating the reason for its proffered language, which created irreconcilable ambiguity, and the other for failing to appreciate the import of the proffered language [Merced County Sheriff's Employees' Assn. v. County of Merced (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 662, 675-676, 233 Cal. Rptr. 519] .

In determining what the parties intended and whether those intentions were properly communicated, certain rules apply. When contract language is ambiguous and susceptible of two different meanings, one understood by each party, the contract will be upheld in accordance with the meaning attached to it by the party who manifested that meaning if that party had no reason to know of a different meaning attached by the other party [Merced County Sheriff's Employees' Assn. v. County of Merced (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 662, 672-674, 233 Cal. Rptr. 519 (agreement with sheriffs' association upheld on basis of meaning attached by association because county failed to make its meaning known)].

[3] Reliance on Innocent Misrepresentation

A contract may be rescinded when one party relied in good faith on an innocent misrepresentation of a material fact made by the other party [Crocker-Anglo Nat. Bank v. Kuchman (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 490, 495-497, 36 Cal. Rptr. 806 (misrepresentation of value of stock); see Van Meter v. Bent Constr. Co. (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 588, 594-596, 297 P.2d 644] . The result of one party's reliance on an innocent misrepresentation made by the other is that both parties understand the facts to be other than as they really are. Thus, there is mutual mistake, which is the basis for rescission [Crocker-Anglo Nat. Bank v. Kuchman (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 490, 496, 36 Cal. Rptr. 806 ; see § 215.51[2]]. Based on equitable principles, the negligent reliance of the party seeking to avoid or reform the contract will not bar relief unless that party's negligence, in light of his or her intelligence and information, is so preposterous or irrational that it amounts to gross negligence or neglect of a legal duty [Van Meter v. Bent Constr. Co. (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 588, 595, 297 P.2d 644 (reliance on markers placed by other party to determine area to be cleared; judgment denying relief reversed, remanded for further findings)].

Analyzing the situation in Balistreri v. Nevada Livestock Production Credit Assn. [see § 215.51[2]] as one of unilateral mistake induced by the other party, the court reversed a judgment denying cancellation of a deed of trust executed in reliance on a cover letter, that misrepresented the property to be encumbered. The court implied that trustors' failure to read the deed of trust before signing it amounted only to ordinary negligence [Balistreri v. Nevada Livestock Production Credit Assn. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 635, 642-644, 262 Cal. Rptr. 862 ; see §§ 215.141, 215.143 (allegations of unilateral mistake of fact and innocent misrepresentation)].

[4] Unilateral Mistake

A mistake is unilateral if only one party understands the facts to be other than as they really are. Relief may be granted for a unilateral mistake of fact if the nonmistaken party knew or had reason to know of the mistake and obtained an advantage from it [M. F. Kemper Constr. Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 696, 701, 235 P.2d 7 (relief granted to mistaken party); see also Bldg. Serv. Emp. Pension Tr. v. Amer. Bldg. Maint. (9th Cir. 1987) 828 F.2d 576, 578 (applying California law; unilateral mistake in demand letter should have been known to other party) Reid v. Landon (1958) 166 Cal. App. 2d 476, 484, 333 P.2d 432 ; see § 215.52].

In Donovan v. RRL Corp. [Donovan v. RRL Corp. (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 261, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 807, 27 P.3d 702] the California Supreme Court stated that California law does not adhere to the original Restatement of Contract's requirements for rescission based on unilateral mistake of fact, i.e., only in circumstances in which the other party know of the mistake or caused the mistake. The court adopted as California law the rule set forth in the Restatement Second of Contracts, § 153(a), authorizing rescission for unilateral mistake of fact when enforcement would be unconscionable. The court stated that when a plaintiff has no reason to know of and does not cause the defendant's unilateral mistake of fact, the defendant must establish the following facts to obtain rescission of the contract [Donovan v. RRL Corp. (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 261, 281-282, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 807, 27 P.3d 702 (auto dealership's lack of knowledge regarding typographical error in advertised price of car constituted mistake of fact; rescission was warranted because evidence established that unilateral mistake of fact was made in good faith, defendant did not bear risk of mistake, and enforcement of contract with erroneous price would be unconscionable)]:

- The defendant made a mistake regarding a basic assumption upon which the defendant made the contract;

- The mistake has a material effect upon the agreed exchange of performances that is adverse to the defendant;

- The defendant does not bear the risk of the mistake; and

- The effect of the mistake is such that the enforcement of the contract would be unconscionable.

Relief will not be granted for unilateral mistakes that result from one party's misunderstanding of or dissatisfaction with a provision of the contract [Lawrence v. Shutt (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 749, 764-766, 75 Cal. Rptr. 533] , or that arise when a party is aware, at the time the contract is made, that he or she has only limited knowledge with respect to the fact to which the mistake relates but treats that knowledge as sufficient. In the last situation, the party with limited knowledge assumes any risk relating to that fact and will not be granted relief [In re Marriage of Hahn (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1236, 1241, 273 Cal. Rptr. 516 ; see Restatement (Second) of Contracts § 154(b)]. For example, when an individual buys a life annuity contract and then dies soon thereafter from a pre-existing medical condition of which the individual was ignorant at the time of making the contract, the contract is not subject to rescission on the ground of mistake of fact, because the parties to a life annuity contract are presumed to assume the risk of the uncertainty of life expectancy. Neither party can know how long the annuitant will live, and each party must necessarily regard that limited knowledge as sufficient for purposes of making the contract, since otherwise no life annuity contract could ever be made [Grenall v. United of Omaha Life Ins. Co. (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 188, 193-196, 80 Cal. Rptr. 3d 609].

Failure to make reasonable inquiry to ascertain the meaning and content of a contract is generally considered a neglect of legal duty that precludes relief for unilateral mistake of fact [Lawrence v. Shutt (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 749, 765-766, 75 Cal. Rptr. 533 ; Wal-Noon Corp. v. Hill (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 605, 615, 119 Cal. Rptr. 646 ; cf. Balistreri v. Nevada Livestock Production Credit Assn. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 635, 642-644, 262 Cal. Rptr. 862 ;

Reid v. Landon (1958) 166 Cal. App. 2d 476, 482, 333 P.2d 432 (see § 215.54)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeMutual MistakeContracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeUnilateral MistakeContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeMutual MistakeContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeUnilateral MistakeContracts LawFormationMeeting of Minds

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Mistake

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.52

§ 215.52 Contractor's Bids

Most examples of unilateral mistakes of fact involve contractor's bids. Pub. Contract Code § 5100 et seq. set forth an exclusive statutory procedure for seeking relief from a mistaken bid submitted to a public entity. Consequently, rescission is no longer a remedy in cases involving public entities [see Ch. 481, Public Works]. Discussion regarding mistake in cases of bids to public entities should also apply to bids made to other than public entities, in cases between general contractors and subcontractors [see Brunzell Constr. Co. v. G.J. Weisbrod, Inc. (1955) 134 Cal. App. 2d 278, 283, 285 P.2d 989 (applying law set forth in case involving bid to public entity to case involving bid between general contractor and subcontractor)].

Relief from mistaken bids is consistently allowed if one party knows or has reason to know of the other's error and the requirements for rescission are fulfilled [M. F. Kemper Constr. Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 696, 701, 235 P.2d 7 ; Brunzell Constr. Co. v. G.J. Weisbrod, Inc. (1955) 134 Cal. App. 2d 278, 284, 285 P.2d 989] . Rescission is available for a unilateral mistake in the preparation of a bid if the mistake is remediable, if no hardship would result to the offeree because of a change of position, and if the offeror timely notified the offeree either before acceptance or after acceptance but before the time the contract is executed. A mistake is "remediable" if it is material and perceptible so that performance would work a hardship, it relates to the substance of the consideration, and it is the result of inadvertence rather than gross negligence amounting to a breach of duty [White v. Berrenda Mesa Water Dist. (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 894, 904, 87 Cal. Rptr. 338 (quoting 52 A.L.R.2d 792, 795)]. Thus, timely communication of knowledge of a remediable mistake to the offeree eliminates the obstacles to relief traditionally associated with unilateral mistake [White v. Berrenda Mesa Water Dist. (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 894, 904, 87 Cal. Rptr. 338] . Relief will not be allowed in a situation of promissory estoppel in which the offeror should reasonably expect his or her bid to induce action or forbearance of a definite and substantial character on the part of the offeree when such action is induced, and when injustice can be avoided only be enforcing the promise [Drennan v. Star Paving Co. (1958) 51 Cal. 2d 409, 413, 333 P.2d 757] . Similarly, although the court's decision was based in part on the ground that parties to a contract are presumed to know all applicable laws in existence at the time their contract is made, a contractor's mistaken assumption that all government agencies participating in a public utility project would forebear collection of fees usually imposed by them did not prohibit collection of fees from the contractor pursuant to the city's ordinance requiring permits for using hauling equipment exceeding a specified tonnage within its boundaries [City of Redwood City v. Dalton

Construction Co. (1990) 266 Cal. Rptr. 198] .

The parties must be in contractual privity with each other to obtain relief from a mistake in a bid. Consequently, a third party who has no contract or other relation with the party who made the mistake cannot obtain relief due to the mistake [see Neptune Gunite Co. v. Monroe Enterprises Inc. (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 439, 444, 40 Cal. Rptr. 367 (subcontractor not entitled to relief from owner for mistake in subcontractor's bid)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeUnilateral MistakeContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeUnilateral MistakeContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral OverviewPublic Contracts LawBids & FormationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Mistake

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.53

§ 215.53 Mistake of Judgment

The term "mistake of judgment" refers to a party's mistaken notion about the effect of uncertain future events regarding the subject matter of a contract, rather than a mistaken notion regarding a current or past fact [see Mosher v. Mayacamas Corp. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1, 5, 263 Cal. Rptr. 373] . The cases distinguish between a mistake of judgment and a mistake of fact such as a mechanical or clerical error in tabulating or transcribing figures. Generally, relief is refused for a mistake of judgment. If a party is denied relief because of a mistake of judgment, that party is merely forced to perform the contract as made. On the other hand, if a party is denied relief from a clerical error, that party is forced to perform a contract he or she had no intention of making [M. F. Kemper Constr. Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 696, 703, 235 P.2d 7 ; see White v. Berrenda Mesa Water Dist. (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 894, 907, 87 Cal. Rptr. 338 (contractor entitled to withdraw mistaken bid based on failure to correlate information in soil report with specifications although contractor characterized mistake as one of judgment)].

Typically, a mistake of judgment refers merely to some risk inherent in the transaction of business. For example, a purchaser of vacation property knew that tax treatment of secondary residences was a major aspect of the value of the property, and that if pending tax law revisions were enacted, the property value would decrease. After enactment of the Tax Reform Act of 1986, and the resulting decrease in the value of the property, the purchaser was denied rescission. The court said that as a matter of law, the purchaser's predicament did not constitute a mistake of fact or a failure of consideration, but an error of judgment about market conditions [Mosher v. Mayacamas Corp. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1, 5-6, 263 Cal. Rptr. 373 ; see § 215.57].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Mistake

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.54

§ 215.54 Relief Denied if Mistake Due to Neglect of Duty

Relief is denied if a mistake of fact is caused by the neglect of a legal duty on the part of the claimant [Civ. Code § 1577]. Carelessness is not in itself a neglect of duty, because courts recognize that carelessness is present in nearly every case of mistake [Donovan v. RRL Corp. (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 261, 283, 291, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 807, 27 P.3d 702 (auto dealership's failure to review proof sheet for newspaper advertisement listing price of particular vehicle was not neglect of legal duty that would preclude rescission for unilateral mistake of fact regarding price); Reid v. Landon (1958) 166 Cal. App. 2d 476, 482, 333 P.2d 432 (reliance on other party's representations that agreement as written conformed to mistaken party's instructions); see M. F. Kemper Constr. Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 696, 702, 235 P.2d 7 (carelessness in preparation of cost estimate); Schultz v. County of Contra Costa (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 242, 248, 203 Cal. Rptr. 760 (no neglect of duty in reasonably diligent examination of property)]. Ordinary negligence does not constitute neglect of legal duty. Rather, for equitable reasons, the breach of duty must amount to gross negligence, which is defined as the want of even scant care or an extreme departure from the ordinary standard of conduct [see Sun'N Sand, Inc. v. United California Bank (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 671, 701, 148 Cal. Rptr. 329, 582 P.2d 920 (failure to examine bank statement); Van Meter v. Bent Constr. Co. (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 588, 594-595, 297 P.2d 644 (reliance on other party's markers to estimate area to be cleared); White v. Berrenda Mesa Water Dist. (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 894, 901, 87 Cal. Rptr. 338] .

Failure to read a document before signing it is not neglect of legal duty that bars relief if the mistaken party relied on a representation by the other party concerning the matter about which he or she was mistaken, even if there is a unilateral mistake that the mistaken party would have discovered by reading the document [Balistreri v. Nevada Livestock Production Credit Assn. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 635, 642-644, 262 Cal. Rptr. 862 (failure to read deed of trust; reliance on cover letter referring to different property of plaintiffs than was encumbered by enclosed deed of trust)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeFailure to Read ContractContracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeUnilateral MistakeContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeUnilateral Mistake

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Mistake

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.55

§ 215.55 Mistake of Law

A mistake of law constitutes a mistake justifying relief only when it arises from the following:

- A misapprehension of the law by all parties, all supposing that they knew and understood it, and all making substantially the same mistake as to the law [Civ. Code § 1578(1)]; or

- A misapprehension of the law by one party, of which the others are aware at the time of contracting, but which they do not rectify [Civ. Code § 1578(2)].

Generally, a mistake of law occurs when a person knows the specific facts on which his or her rights depend but is ignorant of the rules of law which the courts will apply to those facts [Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 879, 884-885, 124 Cal. Rptr. 577 (quoting Corbin on Contracts, Vol. 3, § 616)].

Following from the dictates of Civ. Code § 1578, relief may be granted either when (1) the mistake is mutual, for example as when all parties to a contract believed that the contract did not violate antitrust laws when it was subsequently held to be in violation of those laws [see Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 879, 882-883, 886, 124 Cal. Rptr.577 (denying rescission on ground that plaintiffs showed no injury); see also Civ. Code § 1578(1)], or as when all parties to an agreement settling a legal malpractice action for preparation of a trust exposing the trustees to tax liability were unaware of a Probate Code amendment that eliminated the tax problem [see Harris v. Rudin, Richman & Appel (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1332, 1339-1341, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 552] , or (2) when the mistake arises from a misrepresentation of law by one person, of which the other party was aware but did not rectify [see Los Angeles City School Dist. v. Landier Inv. Co. (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 744, 751, 2 Cal. Rptr. 662 (stating that court requires stronger showing to justify relief from mistake of law than from mistake of fact); see also Gardner v. Watson (1915) 170 Cal. 570, 577, 150 P. 994 (unilateral mistake not amounting to fraud is not ground to avoid contract); Civ. Code § 1578(2)]. One reason for refusing to grant relief for unilateral mistakes of law is that all parties to a contract are presumed to know all applicable laws in existence at the time their contract is made [see City of Redwood City v. Dalton Construction Co. (1990) 266 Cal. Rptr. 198] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeMutual MistakeContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeMutual Mistake

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Mistake

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.56

§ 215.56 Mistake Must Be Material

[1] In General

To void a contract or justify rescission, a mistake, whether of law or of fact, must materially affect an essential element of the contract and not merely a collateral matter [Bellwood Discount Corp. v. Empire Steel Buildings Co. (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 432, 435, 346 P.2d 467 (denying rescission); Edwards v. Lang (1961) 198 Cal. App. 2d 5, 12, 18 Cal. Rptr. 60 (denying rescission); see Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 879, 886, 124 Cal. Rptr. 577 (denying rescission); see also § 215.56[2]]. Generally, material mistakes concern the nature of transaction, the identity of the parties, the identity of things to which the contract relates, or the occurrence of collateral events [Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 123, 130, 54 Cal. Rptr. 533 (resignation voided on ground of undue influence, not mistake)].

For relief to be granted, the mistake must be one that controls the conduct of the party, and must be essential to the object of the contract, not merely incidental. The court must be satisfied that but for the mistake, the complainant would not have assumed the obligation from which he or she seeks to be relieved [Reid v. Landon (1958) 166 Cal. App. 2d 476, 483, 333 P.2d 432 (allowing rescission); Roller v. California Pac. Title Ins. Co. (1949) 92 Cal. App. 2d 149, 157, 206 P.2d 694 (denying rescission)].

However, the fact that the plaintiff would not have made the contract but for the mistake is not enough to obtain relief. The mistake must affect the execution of an essential element of the contract. That is, the mistake must concern the parties, the subject matter, the consideration, or the offer and acceptance of the contract [see Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist.(1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 123, 130, 54 Cal. Rptr. 533] . For example, relief is allowed if the parties enter into a contract under the mistaken belief that the subject matter or consideration is in existence, and condition their contract on that belief. If the parties are aware that the existence of the subject matter is doubtful and still make a contract concerning that subject matter, they are deemed to have assumed the risk, and relief is not available [Hannah v. Steinman (1911) 159 Cal. 142, 147, 112 P. 1094] . An example of a mistake regarding a collateral matter that is not essential enough to allow relief is a mistake concerning the feasibility of changing the basement of a duplex apartment building into living quarters [Vickerson v. Frey (1950) 100 Cal. App. 2d 621, 628, 224 P.2d 126 (ceiling was too low to meet building regulation)].

Any mistake of fact made by the parties becomes immaterial when, before executing the contract, the parties learn the true facts [Coleman v. Edgar (1927) 83 Cal. App. 720, 724, 257 P. 452 (boundary dispute)].

[2] Requirement of Injury

A necessary corollary of the principle that the mistake, whether of law or of fact, must be material, is that a contract is voidable for mistake only if enforcement of the terms drafted would be materially harmful or more onerous to the party seeking avoidance. That is, the party seeking relief must suffer an injury [Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 879, 886, 124 Cal. Rptr. 577] . The mistake in Guthrie for which plaintiffs, shareholders who sold their stock to defendant, sought rescission was that defendant's control of the company was held to violate antitrust laws. Defendant was required to divest itself of the company, which it did at a profit. Although the court said that pecuniary loss is not necessary to warrant relief, plaintiffs here could show no injury. Had the law been as the parties supposed, the consideration received by plaintiffs would have been the same [Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 879, 885-887, 124 Cal. Rptr. 577 (before execution of contract, parties knew of and assumed risk that defendant's ownership would violate antitrust laws)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Mistake

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.57

§ 215.57 Mistakes Parties Had in Mind

A contract is not voidable on the ground of mistake if the mistake relates to an uncertain matter the parties contemplated at the outset, the existence about which they assumed the risk. When parties are aware at the time a contract is entered that a doubt exists as to a particular matter, and the parties nonetheless make the contract on that assumption, the risk of the existence of the doubtful matter is assumed as an element of the bargain [Mosher v. Mayacamas Corp. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1, 5-6, 263 Cal. Rptr. 373 ; Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 879, 885, 124 Cal. Rptr. 577 ; see §§ 215.51[4], 215.53].

Conversely, relief is not available for mutual mistake about an issue that the parties did not consider [see Spurgeon v. Drumheller (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 659, 663-664, 220 Cal. Rptr. 195 (lender's demand for financial information from buyer who was taking property subject to existing loan does not warrant relief when there was no showing that parties contemplated that no financial information would be requested)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Mistake

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 215.58through 215.69

[Reserved]

§§ 215.58[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Fraud

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.70

§ 215.70 Fraud

[1] In General

Fraud may be either actual fraud or constructive fraud [Civ. Code § 1571]. For coverage of these two types of fraud, see §§ 215.70[2], [5].

[2] Actual Fraud Defined

Actual fraud, within the meaning of Civ. Code §§ 1565-1590, consists of any of the following acts, committed by a party to a contract, or with his or her connivance, with the intent to deceive another party to the contract, or to induce that party to enter into the contract [Civ. Code § 1572]:

- The suggestion, as a fact, of that which is not true, by one who does not believe it to be true (known as intentional fraud) [Civ. Code § 1572(1)];

- The positive assertion, in a manner not warranted by the information of the person making it, of that which is not true, although he or she believes it to be true (known as negligent fraud) [Civ. Code § 1572(2)];

- The suppression of that which is true, by one having knowledge or belief of the fact (known as concealment) [Civ. Code § 1572(3)];

- A promise made without any intention of performing it (known as promissory fraud) [Civ. Code § 1572(4)]; or

- Any other act fitted to deceive [Civ. Code § 1572(5)].

In its broad general sense, the concept of fraud embraces anything that is intended to deceive, including any statement, act, concealment, and omission involving a breach of legal or equitable duty, trust, or confidence that results in injury to one who justifiably relies on it [Ach v. Finkelstein (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 667, 674, 70 Cal. Rptr. 472] .

[3] Elements of Actual Fraud

The necessary elements of actual fraud are (1) misrepresentation (a false representation, concealment, or nondisclosure), (2) knowledge of falsity of the misrepresentation (scienter), (3) the intent to defraud (to induce reliance), (4) justifiable reliance, and (5) resulting damage [Molko v. Holy Spirit Assn. (1988) 46 Cal. 3d 1092, 1108, 252 Cal. Rptr. 122, 762 P.2d 46 ; Seeger v. Odell (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 409, 414, 115 P.2d 977 ; Hohe v. San Diego Unified Sch. Dist. (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1559, 1565, 274 Cal. Rptr. 647 ; South Tahoe Gas Co. v. Hofmann Land Improvement Co. (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 750, 765, 102 Cal. Rptr. 286] . All of these elements must be present for actionable fraud; the absence of any one element will prevent recovery [Ach v. Finkelstein (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 667, 674, 70 Cal. Rptr. 472] . For further discussion of actual fraud, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit .

[4] Question of Fact

Whether actual fraud exists is a question of fact [Civ. Code § 1574; Ach v. Finkelstein (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 667, 675, 70 Cal. Rptr. 472] . There is no absolute or fixed rule for determining what facts constitute fraud, as long as all of the required elements are present [see § 215.70[3]]. Whether fraud is found depends on the particular facts of the case. Fraud may be proved by direct evidence or it may be inferred from all of the circumstances in the case [Ach v. Finkelstein (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 667, 674-675, 70 Cal. Rptr. 472] .

[5] Constructive Fraud

There are two types of constructive fraud. In the first type, constructive fraud consists of any act or omission that the law specially declares to be fraudulent, without respect to actual fraud [Civ. Code § 1573(2)].

In its second form, constructive fraud consists of any breach of duty without an actual fraudulent intent whereby the person at fault or anyone claiming under him or her gains an advantage by misleading another person to that person's prejudice or the prejudice of any one claiming under that person [Civ. Code § 1573(1)]. This type of constructive fraud arises from breach of duty by one in a confidential or fiduciary relationship to another that induces justifiable reliance by the other person to his or her prejudice [Byrum v. Brand (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 926, 937, 268 Cal. Rptr. 609 (parties stipulated that investment advisor was fiduciary); Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 123, 129, 54 Cal. Rptr. 533 (no confidential relationship found between parties); see also Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit , for additional cases holding various relationships to be confidential)].

Constructive fraud as defined in Civ. Code § 1573(1) applies primarily to advantages taken of confidential relationships and is discussed in § 215.80 et seq.

If a confidential or fiduciary relationship exists, the fiduciary or the one in whom confidence is reposed must make full and complete disclosure of all material facts within his or her knowledge relating to the transaction in question. Any concealment of material facts is fraud [Byrum v. Brand (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 926, 937-938, 268 Cal. Rptr. 609 ; Main v. Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc. (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 19, 32, 136 Cal. Rptr. 378] . Thus, unlike actual fraud, constructive fraud does not require an intentional deception [Mary Pickford Co. v. Bayly Bros., Inc. (1939) 12 Cal. 2d 501, 525, 86 P.2d 102 ; Byrum v. Brand (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 926, 937-938, 268 Cal. Rptr. 609 ; see also discussion following the form of allegation of confidential relationship raising presumption of undue influence or constructive fraud, § 215.130[2], [3]]. Similarly, when constructive fraud is based on nondisclosure, the elements of representation and falsity are absent. The relationship and breach of the duty of disclosure required by it are the elements that must be alleged [Byrum v. Brand (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 926, 937, 268 Cal. Rptr. 609] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationConstructive FraudContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationIntentional Fraud

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Fraud

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.71

§ 215.71 Innocent Misrepresentation

An innocent misrepresentation, if not made in the context of a confidential relationship or some other duty, is not constructive fraud under Civ. Code § 1573(1), and therefore provides no basis for relief. Although an innocent misrepresentation is not enumerated as a ground for rescission under Civ. Code § 1689, it has been held to be a type of mistake under Civ. Code § 1689(b)(1), warranting rescission of a contract in an appropriate case [Crocker-Anglo Nat. Bank v. Kuchman (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 490, 494-496, 36 Cal. Rptr. 806 ; see also Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 879, 890, 124 Cal. Rptr. 577 (no misrepresentation alleged, only statement of opinion, which, even if it had been representation, was not material); see § 215.51[3]]. Thus, a party may rescind a contract if his or her consent was induced by a material misrepresentation, albeit made innocently [Wood v. Kalbaugh (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 926, 929-930, 114 Cal. Rptr. 673 (representation held to be mere puffing and not material; judgment for restitution of downpayment made under foreclosed contract reversed)].

The courts have treated innocent misrepresentation as a type of mistake. This is based on the reasoning that, if the mistake were material and relied on by the party seeking relief, the mistake would be mutual and a ground for rescission [see Crocker-Anglo Nat. Bank v. Kuchman (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 490, 495-496, 36 Cal. Rptr. 806 ; Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 879, 890, 124 Cal. Rptr. 577 ; see also § 215.143, form of allegation of innocent misrepresentation]. Concealment concerning insurance, whether intentional or unintentional, entitles the injured party to rescind the insurance contract [Ins. Code § 331].

In determining the character of the misrepresentation, courts will apply an objective test. The question is how the misrepresentation is likely to affect the conduct of a reasonable person with reference to the transaction in question [Wood v. Kalbaugh (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 926, 930, 114 Cal. Rptr. 673 (quoting Restatement of Contracts, § 476, comment b)]. Materiality of a representation is a question of law [Merced County Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. State of California (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 765, 772, 284 Cal. Rptr. 680 (rescission sought on grounds of mistake and misrepresentation); see § 215.143, for a form of allegation of innocent misrepresentation].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationConstructive FraudContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Fraud

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.72

§ 215.72 Fraud and Deceit Distinguished

Under the Civil Code, "fraud" and "deceit" are technically two distinct concepts. "Fraud" refers to one of the bases for rescission of a contract based on lack of valid consent [see Civ. Code §§ 1566, 1567(3), 1689(b)(1)]. "Deceit" refers to the basis for the tort cause of action for damages [see Civ. Code §§ 1709, 1710]. Nevertheless, the courts frequently use the terms interchangeably. For discussion of the tort of "fraud and deceit," see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewTortsBusiness TortsFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Fraud

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 215.73through 215.79

[Reserved]

§§ 215.73[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Misuse of Confidential Relationships

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.80

§ 215.80 Presumption That Advantage Taken Is Unfair

The principles governing confidential relationships are often discussed in terms of a presumption of undue influence or fraud. These principles should not be confused with the substantive provisions governing undue influence or fraud discussed in parts B and D, respectively. This part addresses the presumption of unfair advantage that arises from the existence of a confidential relationship. If a confidential relationship exists and someone in whom confidence has been reposed obtains an advantage because of that confidence and relationship, that advantage is presumed to be taken unfairly. It is immaterial (and no proof need be shown by the complainant) that the violating party may have obtained the advantage by the exercise of undue influence or through fraudulent misrepresentations. Once advantage is alleged in the course of a confidential relationship, the defendant has the burden of proving the fairness of the transaction and his or her good faith in all respects [see Boyd v. Bevilacqua (1966) 247 Cal. App. 2d 272, 290-291, 55 Cal. Rptr. 610 (joint venture partners as in fiduciary relationship; advantage taken of confidential relationship as presumptively fraudulent); Platt v. Wells Fargo Bank (1963) 222 Cal. App. 2d 658, 667, 35 Cal. Rptr. 377 , cert. denied, (1964) 377 U.S. 965 (advantage taken of confidential relationship as raising presumption of undue influence)].

Many cases addressing the presumption of undue influence that arises when one gains advantage from another with respect to whom he or she holds a position of trust held that the standard applicable to trustees [former Civ. Code §§ 2219, 2235; see now Prob. Code § 16004(c)] applied to other relationships. However, it remains unclear whether, and to what extent, courts will adopt the principles and presumption of Prob. Code § 16004(c) as applicable to relationships other than trustee-beneficiary. This is especially true in light of the fact that the provisions of former Civ. Code § 2219 (which specified that one who voluntarily assumed a relation of personal confidence with another was deemed a trustee) was repealed as of July 1, 1987 and has not been restated in a comparable statute. This part of this chapter is based in part on cases decided under the repealed statutes, primarily former Civ. Code §§ 2219, 2235.

The 1986 repeals and enactments of the Trust Law (Prob. Code § 15000 et seq.) were not intended to alter rules applied by courts to fiduciary and confidential relationships, except with regard to express trusts governed by the new Trust Law [Prob. Code § 15003(b)]. In addition, the 1986 revision was not intended to prevent application of all or part of the principles or procedures of the new Trust Law to an entity or relationship that is excluded from the definition of "trust" in Prob. Code § 82 if the Trust Law principles or procedures are applied pursuant to statutory or common law principles by court order or rule or by contract [Prob. Code § 15003(c)].

Cases decided before 1987 should be reviewed and used with caution until the effect of the presumption of Prob. Code § 16004(c) on relationships other than trustee-beneficiary is fully clarified [see 215.81[2]].

Former Civ. Code § 2235 provided that all transactions between a trustee and his or her beneficiary during the existence of the trust, or while the influence acquired by the trustee remains, by which the trustee obtains any advantage from the beneficiary, are presumed to be entered into by the beneficiary without sufficient consideration and under undue influence [cf. presumption of Prob. Code § 16004(c); see § 215.81[2]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawContract InterpretationFiduciary ResponsibilitiesContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationConstructive FraudEstate, Gift & Trust LawTrustsTrusteesDuties & PowersStandards of CareEvidenceInferences & PresumptionsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Misuse of Confidential Relationships

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.81

§ 215.81 Confidential Relationships

[1] Defined

Generally, a confidential relationship exists when a person reposes a trust and confidence in another party or that person holds a real or apparent authority over the other person [Civ. Code § 1575(1); see Main v. Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc. (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 19, 31, 136 Cal. Rptr. 378 ; see also Davies v. Krasna (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 502, 510, 121 Cal. Rptr. 705, 535 P.2d 1161 (submission of creative concept to another in trust; acceptance of trust as essence of confidential relationship)].

When a person in whom confidence is reposed obtains control over the affairs of the other party due to the confidence, such as, in the relationship of a principal and agent, attorney and client, and business partners, a trust or fiduciary relationship is created [Main v. Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc. (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 19, 31, 136 Cal. Rptr. 378 ; see Vai v. Bank of America (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 329, 338, 15 Cal. Rptr. 71, 364 P.2d 247 (husband and wife, relationship now governed by Fam. Code §§ 721, 1100(e)); see former Civ. Code § 2219 (under § 215.81[2])]. Regardless of whether a relationship is termed confidential or fiduciary, the presumption arises in either case that an advantage is taken, because the transaction is deemed unfair [see Estate of Cover (1922) 188 Cal. 133, 143, 204 P. 583 (spousal relationship, now governed by Fam. Code §§ 721, 1100(e))].

[2] Trustee-Beneficiary

The relationship between a trustee and a beneficiary is a fiduciary relationship. A transaction between trustee and beneficiary that occurs during the existence of the trust or while the trustee's influence with the beneficiary remains and by which the trustee obtains an advantage from the beneficiary is presumed to be a violation of the trustee's fiduciary duties, unless the transaction relates to the hiring or compensation of the trustee [Prob. Code § 16004(c); but see Prob. Code § 16015 (compensated services provided by regulated financial institution or its affiliates not violation)]. The presumption affects the burden of proof [Prob. Code § 16004(c)].

Decisional law interpreting former Civ. Code § 2235 (superseded by Prob. Code § 16004) applied the former statute to relationships other than that of trustee-beneficiary. It is unclear whether cases interpreting former Civ. Code § 2235 are relevant to Prob. Code § 16004 [see § 215.80]. For discussion of and forms relating to trusts, see Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts .

[3] Attorney-Client Relationship

The attorney-client relationship was held to be a specific application of the trustee-beneficiary relationship under former Civ. Code § 2235 (see now Prob. Code § 16004) [see Bradner v. Vasquez (1954) 43 Cal. 2d 147, 151, 272 P.2d 11] . Consequently, if there was a preexisting attorney-client relationship at the time of a transaction, there was a rebuttable presumption of undue influence if the attorney benefited from the transaction [see Hicks v. Clayton (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 251, 262, 136 Cal. Rptr. 512 ; Walton v. Broglio (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 400, 403-404, 125 Cal. Rptr. 123] . For example, in one case in which an attorney sued a client for breach of an alleged oral joint venture agreement between the attorney and client, the court held that the attorney's conduct violated Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-300 and also amounted to undue influence under Prob. Code § 16004(c). For that reason, the alleged agreement was held voidable, and once the client acted to void it, the court properly refused to enforce the agreement or to grant any other requested relief arising from the voided agreement [BGJ Associates v. Wilson (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 1217, 1221, 1226-1230, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 140] .

The presumption arising out of the attorney-client relationship does not to apply to agreements regarding fees [Walton v. Broglio (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 400, 403-404, 125 Cal. Rptr. 123] .

[4] Husband-Wife Relationship

The husband-wife relationship was held to be a specific application of the trustee-beneficiary relationship under former Civ. Code § 2235 (see now Prob. Code § 16004) [see Vai v. Bank of America (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 329, 337, 15 Cal. Rptr. 71, 364 P.2d 247] . Cases applying the former statute held that the advantage gained by one spouse need not have been an unfair one for the presumption of undue influence to arise, even in a situation in which adequacy of consideration would generally be presumed [see Rader v. Thrasher (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 244, 252, 18 Cal. Rptr. 736, 368 P.2d 360 ; see also Bradner v. Vasquez (1954) 43 Cal. 2d 147, 151-152, 272 P.2d 11] .

Each spouse is required to act, with respect to the other spouse in the management and control of the community assets and liabilities, in accordance with the general rules governing fiduciary relationships, which control the actions of persons having relationships of personal confidence as specified in Fam. Code § 721, until the assets and liabilities have been divided by the parties or by a court. This duty includes the obligation to make full disclosure to the other spouse of all material facts and information regarding the existence, characterization, and valuation of all assets in which the community has or may have an interest and debts for which the community is or may be liable, and to provide on request equal access to all information, records, and books that pertain to the value and character of those assets and debts [Fam. Code § 1100(e)]. A breach of this fiduciary duty that results in impairment of a spouse's one-half interest in community property may be remedied by an accounting and by reforming title to the asset to place title in the name of the injured spouse [see Fam. Code § 1101(a)-(c)].

Generally in transactions between themselves, a husband and wife are subject to the general rules governing fiduciary relationships which control the actions of persons occupying confidential relations with each other. This confidential relationship imposes a duty of the highest good faith and fair dealing on each spouse, and neither may take any unfair advantage of the other. This confidential relationship is a fiduciary relationship subject to the same rights and duties of nonmarital business partners, as provided in Corp. Code §§ 16403, 16404, and 16503, including, but not limited to, the following [Fam. Code § 721(b)]:

- Providing each spouse access at all times to any books kept regarding a transaction for the purposes of inspection and copying [see Corp. Code § 16403(b)];

- Rendering upon request, true and full information of all things affecting any transaction which concerns the community property (except that nothing in Fam. Code § 721 is intended to impose a duty for either spouse to keep detailed books and records of community property transactions); and

- Accounting to the spouse, and holding as a trustee, any benefit or profit derived from any transaction by one spouse without the consent of the other spouse which concerns the community property [see Corp. Code § 16404(b)(1)].

The foregoing fiduciary relationship rule is expressly subject to exceptions in the following provisions of the Probate Code [Fam. Code § 721(b)]:

- Prob. Code §§ 143, 144, and 146, concerning waivers of rights of inheritance.

- Prob. Code § 16040, concerning the trustee's standard of care in administering a trust.

- Prob. Code § 16047, concerning a trustee's duties under the Uniform Prudent Investor Act.

It is the intent of the legislature that Fam. Code § 721 provides that the fiduciary relationship between spouses includes all of the same rights and duties in the management of community property as the rights and duties of unmarried business partners managing partnership property, as provided in Corp. Code §§ 16403, 16404, and 16503, and to abrogate the ruling in In re Marriage of Duffy (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 923, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 160 , to the extent that it is in conflict with that intent [Stats. 2002, ch. 310, § 2].

For further discussion of the confidential relationship of spouses and obligations arising from it, see Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure 2d ed., Ch. 10, Validity and Effects of Marriage (Matthew Bender).

[5] Agents

The relationship of agent and principal is another relationship to which cases applied the former presumptions regarding trustees. An agent must act in good faith in form as well as substance, regardless of whether the agent receives compensation. When an agent receives no compensation, the burden is on the agent to show that a transaction in which he or she obtained an advantage was entered into by the principal freely and voluntarily with full knowledge of all the facts and with perfect understanding of the effect of the transaction [Wilbur v. Wilbur (1925) 197 Cal. 1, 15, 239 P. 332 ; Webb v. Saunders (1949) 89 Cal. App. 2d 732, 735-736, 201 P.2d 816 ; see Civ. Code § 2322(c)].

Civ. Code § 2322(c), which was amended at the same time as the trustee-beneficiary presumption of the Probate Code, provides that an agent's authority expressed in general terms, however broad, does not authorize an agent to violate a duty to which a trustee is subject pursuant to Prob. Code §§ 16002, 16004, 16005, and 16109. However, whether the presumption under Prob. Code § 16004 will be extended to other agency relationships remains to be determined.

[6] Effect of Family Relationship

Except as between a husband and wife, the mere fact of a family relationship between parties does not of itself establish the existence of a fiduciary or confidential relation raising a presumption of undue influence. Whether such a relationship exists between members of the same family depends on all the facts and circumstances of the case. Unless one party actually dominates the other so that the other depends on the first for advice and guidance, a confidential relationship does not exist, even though the parties are closely related by family ties [Peters v. Papoulacos (1963) 218 Cal. App. 2d 791, 794, 32 Cal. Rptr. 689 (cousin's son)].

Although the courts have stated that the relationship between parent and child is presumed to be confidential [Johnson v. Clark (1936) 7 Cal. 2d 529, 534, 61 P.2d 767 ; Sparks v. Sparks (1950) 101 Cal. App. 2d 129, 135, 225 P.2d 238] , when considering whether a transaction between a parent and child should be invalidated on the ground of undue influence or fraud, the courts require more than the mere relationship [see Wilbur v. Wilbur (1925) 197 Cal. 1, 14, 239 P. 332 ; Williams v. Williams (1958) 163 Cal. App. 2d 144, 148-149, 329 P.2d 70] . For example, if an aged parent is not incompetent, of weak mentality, or subject to influence, a transfer to a child who never attended to the parent's business affairs, never advised or counseled the parent, and who did not occupy any superior position, handle any transactions, or in any way conduct himself or herself so as to occupy a confidential relationship, would not be presumed to have been procured by undue influence [Spaulding v. Jones (1953) 117 Cal. App. 2d 541, 553-554, 256 P.2d 637] . To establish undue influence, other facts must be shown such as old age, infirmity, dependency on a child who exercises authority over the parent, or an exclusive opportunity purposefully created to influence the parent [see Nessen v. Nessen (1933) 218 Cal. 59, 61, 21 P.2d 415 (exclusive opportunity to influence parent grantor in favor of one child to exclusion of others); Beckmann v. Beckmann (1959) 174 Cal. App. 2d 717, 721, 345 P.2d 121 (undue influence by daughter of 80 year old mother in weak mental condition when deed was executed and in custody of daughter who had mother's trust and confidence immediately before making deed)].

[7] No Confidential Relationship Between Employer and Employee

No presumption of a confidential relationship arises from the fact that parties to a contract are employer and employee, especially when the parties are negotiating to bring about a termination of their relationship. In that situation, each party is expected to look after his or her own interests, and a lack of confidentiality is implicit in the subject matter of their dealings [Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 123, 129, 54 Cal. Rptr. 533] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Business & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsCauses of Action & RemediesBreach of Fiduciary DutyGeneral OverviewContracts LawContract InterpretationFiduciary ResponsibilitiesEstate, Gift & Trust LawTrustsTrusteesDuties & PowersStandards of CareFamily LawMarital Duties & RightsProperty RightsGeneral OverviewLegal EthicsClient RelationsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Misuse of Confidential Relationships

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.82

§ 215.82 Advantage Defined

A fiduciary or person in a confidential relationship obtains an advantage when the fiduciary enters into a transaction with a beneficiary or other party in which the fiduciary's position is improved, the fiduciary obtains a favorable opportunity, or the fiduciary otherwise gains, benefits, or profits [Main v. Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc. (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 19, 31, 136 Cal. Rptr. 378 ; see Rader v. Thrasher (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 244, 250, 18 Cal. Rptr. 736, 368 P.2d 360 (contract for contingent fee obtained during time attorney-client relationship existed and after attorney had brought action on behalf of client as advantage)]. Another example of advantage is a new agreement between an attorney and a client to replace an earlier agreement less advantageous to the attorney. In this particular case, the initial agreement provided for a minimum fee, and provided that the attorney could be dismissed without cause. The replacement agreement evidencing advantage gave the attorney 10 percent of all money received by the clients from oil property for the remainder of attorney's life and provided that the attorney could be dismissed only for legal cause [Bradner v. Vasquez (1954) 43 Cal. 2d 147, 152-153, 272 P.2d 11] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawContract InterpretationFiduciary ResponsibilitiesContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationConstructive FraudEvidenceInferences & PresumptionsGeneral OverviewLegal EthicsClient RelationsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Misuse of Confidential Relationships

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.83

§ 215.83 Rebuttal of Presumption

To rebut the presumption of constructive fraud or undue influence arising from the existence of a fiduciary or confidential relationship between two parties, the benefited party must show that the contract was made freely, voluntarily, with full knowledge of all facts, and with perfect understanding of the effect of the contract [Wilbur v. Wilbur (1925) 197 Cal. 1, 15, 239 P. 332 ; Sparks v. Sparks (1950) 101 Cal. App. 2d 129, 135-136, 225 P.2d 238 ; Szekeres v. Reed (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 348, 357, 215 P.2d 522 ; Webb v. Saunders (1949) 89 Cal. App. 2d 732, 735-736, 201 P.2d 816] . Although some cases state that the donor or grantor must have had independent advice for the presumption to be rebutted [see, e.g., Sparks v. Sparks (1950) 101 Cal. App. 2d 129, 135-136, 225 P.2d 238] , most courts have held that proof of independent advice is not required if there is other evidence sufficient to rebut the presumption. However, the presence or lack of independent advice is a circumstance to be considered [Bradner v. Vasquez (1954) 43 Cal. 2d 147, 153, 272 P.2d 11 ; Brown v. Canadian Indus. Alcohol Co. (1930) 209 Cal. 596, 599, 289 P. 613 (rebuttal of presumption without proof of independent advice); Nagle v. Valadez(1962) 202 Cal. App. 2d 51, 55, 20 Cal. Rptr. 548 ; Helbing v. Helbing (1948) 89 Cal. App. 2d 224, 229, 200 P.2d 560] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawContract InterpretationFiduciary ResponsibilitiesContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewEvidenceInferences & PresumptionsGeneral OverviewEvidenceInferences & PresumptionsRebuttal of PresumptionsTortsBusiness TortsFraud & MisrepresentationConstructive FraudGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Misuse of Confidential Relationships

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 215.84through 215.89

[Reserved]

§§ 215.84[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Remedies

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.90

§ 215.90 Variety of Remedies

A party who entered a contract under mistake or due to fraud, undue influence, duress, or menace has a variety of remedies. He or she may rescind or reform the contract, obtain relief based on common counts, bring an action for deceit, or defend an action on the contract. While it may not make a difference from a practical standpoint, theoretically, there is a difference between a void contract and a voidable contract [see C.I.T. Corp. v. Panac (1944) 25 Cal. 2d 547, 548, 154 P.2d 710] . A void contract is of no effect from the outset, and can be disregarded by the parties. On the other hand, a voidable contract is valid until disaffirmed by the party with the power to disaffirm [Bonacci v. Mass. Bonding & Ins. Co. (1943) 58 Cal. App. 2d 657, 664, 137 P.2d 487 ; see Hakes Investment Co. v. Lyons (1913) 166 Cal. 557, 561, 137 P. 911 (void and voidable contracts concerning minors)]. Because of this difference, rescission is unnecessary when a contract is void, rather than voidable [Bonacci v. Mass. Bonding & Ins. Co. (1943) 58 Cal. App. 2d 657, 664, 137 P.2d 487] .

For example, when a promisor knows what he or she is signing, but his or her signature is induced by fraud, a voidable contract is formed and notice of rescission and an offer to restore any consideration received are necessary. However, when fraud goes to the inception or execution so that the promisor is deceived as to the nature of the act and does not know what he or she is signing or did not intend to enter the contract, mutual assent is lacking, the contract is void, and rescission is not necessary, as a contract was never made to rescind [Ford v. Shearson Lehman American Express, Inc. (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 1011, 1028-1029, 225 Cal. Rptr. 895 (plaintiff initiated action; brokerage agreement under which defendants sought to compel arbitration held invalidated by fraud in inception and undue influence)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesReformationContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral OverviewTortsBusiness TortsFraud & MisrepresentationActual FraudGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Remedies

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.91

§ 215.91 Rescission

Consent that is not free is not absolutely void, but may be rescinded by the parties [Civ. Code § 1566; see Chakmak v. H.J. Lucas Masonry, Inc. (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 124, 129, 127 Cal. Rptr. 404] . Consequently, a party to a contract may rescind the contract if the consent of that party or of any party jointly contracting with him or her was given by mistake, or obtained through duress, menace, fraud, or undue influence [Civ. Code § 1689(b)(1); see, e.g., Donovan v. RRL Corp. (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 261, 283, 294, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 807, 27 P.3d 702 (defendant satisfied requirements for rescission of contract on ground of unilateral mistake of fact); Harris v. Rudin, Richman & Appel (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1332, 1339, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 552 (reversing summary judgment for plaintiff because defendants raised triable issues of fact as to whether they were entitled to rescind settlement agreement based on mutual mistake of fact or law)]. For a discussion of and forms relating to rescission, see Ch. 490, Rescission and Restitution .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Remedies

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.92

§ 215.92 Remedy for Undue Influence

Rescission is available to a party who enters a contract due to undue influence [Civ. Code § 1689(b)(1); see Bancroft v. Bancroft (1895) 110 Cal. 374, 379, 42 P. 896] . That party may also challenge enforcement of the contract [see Ford v. Shearson Lehman American Express, Inc. (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 1011, 1020, 225 Cal. Rptr. 895 (contract held void for lack of voluntary consent due to dominance, control, and advantage gained by virtue of fiduciary relationship of former psychotherapist and stock broker in context of resisting order to arbitrate under contract)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Remedies

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.93

§ 215.93 Fraud Without Damage or Injury

To obtain rescission of a contract for fraud, it is not necessary to plead or prove pecuniary damages as a result of the fraud [Hefferan v. Freebairn (1950) 34 Cal. 2d 715, 721, 214 P.2d 386] . Although some courts formerly stated that substantial injury or prejudice must be shown to have resulted from the fraud [Hefferan v. Freebairn (1950) 34 Cal. 2d 715, 721, 214 P.2d 386 ; Dunn v. Stringer (1940) 41 Cal. App. 2d 638, 644, 107 P.2d 411] , the California Supreme Court has stated that anyone who is fraudulently induced to enter into a contract is injured by that fraudulent inducement. This is because interference with a person's interest in making a free choice and in exercising his or her judgment in making decisions with respect to economic transactions and enterprises constitutes an injury. Under this view, a plaintiff does not need to show pecuniary injury in order to obtain rescission because the law assumes that injury necessarily follows from the fraud [Earl v. Saks & Co. (1951) 36 Cal.2d 602, 611, 226 P.2d 340 ; Wood v. Jotham Bixby Co. (1938) 29 Cal. App. 2d 294, 298, 84 P.2d 204] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Remedies

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.94

§ 215.94 Common Counts

Relief based on common counts is available when money was paid due to mistake, fraud, undue advantage, or undue influence [see Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 204-205, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12 ; City Bank of San Diego v. Ramage (1968) 266 Cal. App. 2d 570, 585, 72 Cal. Rptr. 273 (money had and received)]. To achieve an equitable result, the court will infer that the defendant promised to repay the plaintiff [see Philpott v. Superior Court (1934) 1 Cal. 2d 512, 518-523, 36 P.2d 635 ; see Lawn v. Camino Heights, Inc. (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 973, 982, 93 Cal. Rptr. 621] . For a discussion of and forms relating to common counts, see Ch. 121, Common Counts .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawBreachCauses of ActionAssumpsitContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionMoney Had & ReceivedContracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Remedies

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.95

§ 215.95 Cancellation of Instrument

A contract may be cancelled if there is a reasonable apprehension that, if it is left outstanding, it may cause serious injury to a person against whom it is void or voidable [Civ. Code § 3412]. For discussion of and forms relating to cancellation of contracts, see Ch. 107, Cancellation of Instruments .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawRemediesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Remedies

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.96

§ 215.96 Reformation

A party who enters into a contract through fraud or mistake may seek reformation of the contract so that it expresses the intention of the parties [Civ. Code § 3399]. However, a party to a contract cannot seek reformation if the contract is void from the outset. This is because equity cannot make a contract when no contract exists, and a void contract is no contract at all [see McClure v. Cerati (1948) 86 Cal. App. 2d 74, 85, 194 P.2d 46] . For discussion of and forms relating to reformation, see Ch. 488, Reformation of Instruments .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesReformation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Remedies

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.97

§ 215.97 Action for Damages for Deceit

As an alternative to rescinding a contract or setting up the fraud as a defense or counterclaim in an action on the contract, a person who has been fraudulently induced to enter into a contract has the option of affirming the contract, retaining what he or she has received, and suing for damages in a tort action for deceit [Persson v. Smart Inventions, Inc. (2005) 125 Cal. App. 4th 1141, 1152-1156, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 335 (when stock redemption agreement was induced by fraud, trial court had equitable power to set aside provision for release of unknown claims; aggrieved party not required to rescind contract and return consideration to sue for fraud); McCauley v. Dennis (1963) 220 Cal. App. 2d 627, 632, 34 Cal. Rptr. 90] .

A party does not lose his or her right to damages if he or she is unsuccessful in disaffirming a contract by rescission [De Campos v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1954) 122 Cal. App. 2d 519, 526, 265 P.2d 617] . However, when a party chooses to affirm a contract and sue for damages for deceit, he or she waives any right to subsequently rescind the contract [Gutterman v. Gally (1933) 131 Cal. App. 647, 653, 21 P.2d 1000] . A party may plead inconsistent remedies [Walters v. Marler (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 1, 16, 147 Cal. Rptr. 655] , and generally does not have to choose a remedy until the court or jury has made its determination [Jahn v. Brickey (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 399, 406, 214 Cal. Rptr. 119 ; Walters v. Marler (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 1, 16, 147 Cal. Rptr. 655] . For a more detailed discussion of election of remedies and a form of affirmative defense based on an election having been made, see Ch. 490, Rescission and Restitution .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesElection of RemediesContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral OverviewTortsBusiness TortsFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Remedies

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.98

§ 215.98 Affirmative Defense or Counterclaim

Duress, menace, undue influence, fraud, and mistake may each be used as an affirmative defense in an answer to a complaint. They also may be used in a complaint or counterclaim in which the aggrieved party may recover damages [McCauley v. Dennis (1963) 220 Cal. App. 2d 627, 632, 34 Cal. Rptr. 90] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePleading & PracticeDefenses, Demurrers & ObjectionsAffirmative DefensesGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsCounterclaimsGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Remedies

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.99

§ 215.99 Pleading

A complaint or defense alleging undue influence, fraud, duress, menace, or mistake must be pleaded in specific language describing the acts relied on to constitute the defense, not general allegations or legal conclusions [Maxwell v. Santa Rosa (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 274, 279-280, 1 Cal. Rptr. 334, 347 P.2d 678 (fraud); Metropolis etc. Sav. Bank v. Monnier (1915) 169 Cal. 592, 596, 147 P. 265 (menace, duress, fraud); Krug v. Meeham (1952) 109 Cal. App. 2d 274, 276-277, 240 P.2d 732 (undue influence); see Stock v. Meek (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 809, 815, 221 P.2d 15 (mistake)].

General allegations are merely conclusions of the pleader and are insufficient without a further statement of particular facts [Marshall v. Packard-Bell Co. (1951) 106 Cal. App. 2d 770, 774, 236 P.2d 201] . The pleading should be sufficient to inform one's adversaries of the nature of the cause of action stated against them with sufficient particularity to advise them of the issues they will be required to meet at the trial of the action [see Lewis v. Fahn (1952) 113 Cal. App. 2d 95, 100, 247 P.2d 831] .

The pleading party should name the particular defense on which he or she relies, such as undue influence, to aid those reading the pleading. However, if the essential facts constituting that defense have been alleged, one should be able to recover, even if the defense is not specifically named, or even if the factual situation combines the elements of more than one defense [see Harman v. City & County of San Francisco (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 150, 157, 101 Cal. Rptr. 880, 496 P.2d 1248 (complaint sufficient although facts were not clearly stated, and although plaintiff demanded relief to which he or she is not entitled under facts alleged, if plaintiff is entitled to any relief under facts stated); Hick v. Thomas (1891) 90 Cal. 289, 294, 27 P. 208 ; Santa Cruz County v. McLeod (1961) 189 Cal. App. 2d 222, 235, 11 Cal. Rptr. 249] .

If a complaint alleging economic duress is ambiguous but could be amended to cure the ambiguity, the defendant is not entitled to a demurrer without leave to amend [Crosstalk Productions Inc. v. Jacobson (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 631, 644-645, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615 (complaint alleging extortion in "securing" contract from broadcasting network was ambiguous as to whether plaintiffs were admitting to paying commercial bribes to obtain contract in violation of Penal Code § 641.3, and thus establishing unclean hands defense, but could be amended to cure ambiguity to clarify that "secure" meant simply safeguarding finalization of contract)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePleading & PracticeDefenses, Demurrers & ObjectionsAffirmative DefensesGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsHeightened Pleading RequirementsGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Remedies

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.100

§ 215.100 Statute of Limitations

The three-year limitation period set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 338(d) governs actions for relief on the ground of fraud or mistake. The cause of action does not accrue until the the aggrieved party discovers the facts constituting the fraud or mistake. For a further discussion of the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 338(d), see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit .

Code Civ. Proc. § 338(d) also applies to actions based on duress or menace [Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 207, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12] . However, actions for relief on the ground of undue influence are governed by the four-year period prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 343 [Wade v. Busby (1944) 66 Cal. App. 2d 700, 702, 152 P.2d 754] .

Actions for rescission of a written contract, including actions on the ground of fraud or mistake, are subject to the four-year limitation period of Code Civ. Proc. § 337(3) [cf. Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 212, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12 (three-year limitation of Code Civ. Proc. § 338(d) as applicable when basis of action is duress, a type of fraud)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime Limitations

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Remedies

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 215.101through 215.109

[Reserved]

§§ 215.101[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.110

§ 215.110 State Statutes

[1] Definitions

Acts constituting duress. Civ. Code § 1569

Threats constituting menace. Civ. Code § 1570

Types of fraud. Civ. Code §§ 1571-1573

Undue influence defined. Civ. Code § 1575

Types of mistake. Civ. Code §§ 1576-1579

[2] Duress

Relief from marital dissolution judgments obtained by duress after time has expired for relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 473. Fam. Code § 2120 et seq.

[3] Fraud

Conveyances made to defraud creditors are void. Civ. Code § 1227

Breach of duty, which without actual fraudulent intent results in advantage to person at fault, is constructive fraud. Civ. Code § 1573(1); cf. Civ. Code §§ 1709, 1710(3) (intent as element of tort cause of action)

Actual fraud is question of fact. Civ. Code § 1574

When contract prevented from being put into writing by fraud enforceable against fraudulent party. Civ. Code § 1623

Common carrier not permitted to be exonerated by agreement from liability for fraud. Civ. Code § 2175

Agent never has authority to do act that is fraud on principal. Civ. Code § 2306

Mistakes and errors do not invalidate lien except when made with intent to defraud or as to bona fide purchaser. Civ. Code § 3261

Validity of debtor's contracts in absence of fraud. Civ. Code § 3431

Damages for fraud in purchase, sale, or exchange of property. Civ. Code § 3343

[4] Mistake

Mistake of fact defined. Civ. Code § 1577

Mistake of foreign law is mistake of fact. Civ. Code § 1579

Property obtained without consent due to mutual mistake is required to be returned by party obtaining thing when he or she has notice of mistake. Civ. Code § 1713

Parol evidence is permitted when mistake or imperfection of writing is put in issue by pleadings. Code Civ. Proc. § 1856(e)

[5] Consent

Consent is essential element of contract. Civ. Code § 1550

Essential elements of consent. Civ. Code § 1565

Requirement that consent be free. Civ. Code § 1566

Apparent consent is not free when obtained through duress, menace, fraud, undue influence, or mistake. Civ. Code §§ 1567, 1568

Intention of parties to be regarded when written contract fails to express real intention of parties due to fraud, mistake, or accident. Civ. Code § 1640

[6] Trusts

Trust created by acquiring thing by fraud, accident, mistake, undue influence, violation of trust, or other wrongful act. Civ. Code § 2224

Transaction between trustee and beneficiary; presumption of violation of fiduciary duties. Prob. Code § 16004(c); but see Prob. Code § 16015 (compensated services provided by regulated financial institution or its affiliates not violation)

[7] Damages

Interest is permitted to be awarded as damages in every case of fraud, oppression, or malice. Civ. Code § 3288

[8] Remedies

Party is permitted to rescind contract when consent given by mistake or obtained through duress, menace, fraud, or undue influence. Civ. Code § 1689(b)(1)

Stipulation that errors of description will not avoid contract does not remove right of rescission for fraud or mistake when mistake was in matter essential to inducement of contract and is not capable of exact and entire compensation. Civ. Code § 1690

Tort action for damages for deceit. Civ. Code § 1709

Property obtained without consent is required to be returned. Civ. Code § 1712

Specific performance is not enforceable against party to contract when assent was obtained by misrepresentation, concealment, circumvention, or unfair practices or if assent was given under influence of mistake, misapprehension, or surprise. Civ. Code § 3391

Reformation of contract for mistake or fraud. Civ. Code § 3399

Cancellation of void or voidable instrument if reasonable apprehension of injury would result if left outstanding. Civ. Code § 3412

[9] Statute of Limitations

Statute of limitations for action based on fraud or mistake is three years. Code Civ. Proc. § 338(d)

Statute of limitations for rescission of written contract, including on ground of fraud or mistake, is four years. Code Civ. Proc. § 337(3); cf. Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 212, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12 (three-year limitation of Code Civ. Proc. § 338(d) is applicable when basis of action is duress, a type of fraud)

Statute of limitations for rescission of oral contract is two years. Code Civ. Proc. § 339

Statute of limitations for action for relief on ground of undue influence is four years. Code Civ. Proc. § 343

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.111

§ 215.111 Decisions

[1] Duress

[a] Generally

One who falsely clouds title to real property and then seeks consideration to remove cloud is guilty of wrongful act and as permitted to be compelled to restore consideration recovered. Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 203, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12

[b] Business Compulsion

Party pleading economic duress must have had no "reasonable alternative" to action it seeks to avoid, such as agreeing to contract; inquiry of whether party had reasonable alternative is determined by examining whether reasonably prudent person would follow alternative course or might submit, and is factual inquiry not susceptible to determination on demurrer. Crosstalk Productions Inc. v. Jacobson (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 631, 644-645, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615

Economic duress involves wrongful act that is sufficiently coercive to cause reasonably prudent person faced with no reasonable alternative to succumb to perpetrator's pressure; assertion of claim known to be false or bad faith threat to breach contract or to withhold payment may constitute wrongful act for purposes of economic duress doctrine. Philippine Export & Foreign Loan Guarantee Corp. v. Chuidian (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1058, 1077, 267 Cal. Rptr. 457

Existence of duress dependent on circumstances and thus not tested by objective nature of threats, but by state of mind induced in victim; evidentiary questions such as victim's condition, age, sex, state of health, and mental characteristic are relevant. Philippine Export & Foreign Loan Guarantee Corp. v. Chuidian (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1058, 1078-1079, 267 Cal. Rptr. 457

Contractor's endorsement of releases settling billing for lesser value than actual costs was unenforceable and amounted to economic duress when contractor signed releases only because he was overextended to creditors and subcontractors and faced with imminent bankruptcy if not paid its final billing. Rich & Whillock, Inc. v. Ashton Development, Inc. (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 1154, 1160-1161, 204 Cal. Rptr. 86

Plaintiffs deprived of right to construct building unless they purchased easement for light, air, and access, entered into contract for easement under economic duress and permitted to rescind contract. Short Line Associates v. City & County of San Francisco (1978) 78 Cal. App. 3d 50, 59, 143 Cal. Rptr. 921

[c] Examples Not Constituting Duress

Dog owner failed to raise triable issue of fact as to whether county's retention of his dog at animal shelter was unlawful so as to establish statutory duress; signed release for neutering, which resulted in dog's death and subsequent lawsuit, was therefore valid and enforceable. Tarpy v. County of San Diego (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 267, 276-279, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 607

Grief arising from death of close relative not sufficient duress to invalidate contract between cemetery and family of decedent. Sinai Memorial Chapel v. Dudler (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 190, 199, 282 Cal. Rptr. 263 ; In re Terra (1952) 111 Cal. App. 2d 452, 462, 244 P.2d 921

[2] Fraud

[a] Generally

Fraud is never presumed. Cooper v. Leslie Salt Co. (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 627, 636, 75 Cal. Rptr. 766, 451 P.2d 406 , cert. denied, 396 U.S. 821

[b] Elements of Fraud

Reliance on misrepresentation not reasonable when complaining party could have ascertained truth through exercise of reasonably diligence, such as reading contract. Rowland v. PaineWebber Inc. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 279, 286, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 20

Findings of intentional fraud and justifiable reliance is supported by evidence of defendant's signed escrow instructions guaranteeing accuracy of sales brochure, admission by defendant that brochure represented profits to be more than they actually were, expert testimony that defendant's records were misleading, plaintiff's assertion of reliance, and plaintiff's lack of experience in similar business. Campbell v. McClure (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 806, 811, 227 Cal. Rptr. 450

[c] Constructive Fraud

Person may be found to have reasonably relied on legal opinion of nonlawyer when recipient of opinion is in relationship of trust with, or believes that, maker of opinion has special knowledge on subject. Lynch v. Cruttenden & Co. (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 802, 808, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 636 .

When constructive fraud is based on nondisclosure, elements of representation and falsity are absent. Byrum v. Brand (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 926, 938, 268 Cal. Rptr. 609

Constructive fraud exists when conduct, although not actually fraudulent, ought to be treated as fraudulent because it has consequences and legal effects of actual fraud. Byrum v. Brand (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 926, 938, 268 Cal. Rptr.

609 ; Efron v. Kalmanovitz (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 546, 560, 38 Cal. Rptr. 148

Investment management contacts invalid when plaintiff never voluntarily assented to agreements but was victim of scheme of domination, control, concealment, misrepresentation, and advantage gained by virtue of fiduciary relationship, which scheme was perpetrated by plaintiff's former psychotherapist and broker, who was also psychotherapist's former patient. Ford v. Shearson Lehman American Express, Inc. (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 1011, 1026-1029, 225 Cal. Rptr. 895

Constructive fraud presumed from relation of parties to transaction or circumstances under which it takes place; constructive fraud often exists when parties to contract have special confidential or fiduciary relationship that affords power of party to take undue advantage of other party. Ford v. Shearson Lehman American Express, Inc. (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 1011, 1020, 225 Cal. Rptr. 895

[d] Promissory Fraud

When execution of contract was induced by promise made without intention to perform [see Civ. Code § 1572(4)], contract was obtained by fraud and permitted to be declared null and void. Simmons v. Cal. Institute of Technology (1949) 34 Cal. 2d 264, 274, 209 P.2d 581 ; Coast Bank v. Holmes (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 581, 591, 97 Cal. Rptr. 30

Complaint alleging cause of action for promissory fraud must contain facts showing: (1) promise made regarding material fact; (2) absence of intent on part of defendant at time promise was made to perform it; (3) intent on part of defendant to induce action by plaintiff; (4) justifiable reliance on promise by plaintiff; (5) nonperformance of promise by defendant; and (6) injury and damage proximately resulting to plaintiff. Bondi v. Jewels by Edwar, Ltd. (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 672, 677, 73 Cal. Rptr. 494, 1968 Trade Cas. (CCH) P72655

[e] Statute of Limitations

Limitation period on former partners' cause of action against other former partners for fraud based on concealment of profits derived from sale and rental of property to dissolved partnership was postponed by fraudulent concealment and as not commencing until plaintiffs had actual or inquiry notice. Rosenfeld, Meyer & Susman v. Cohen (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1035, 1059-1060, 237 Cal. Rptr. 14

Between fiduciaries, actual notice is question of fact; distribution of report, which contained footnote disclosing separate interest of some partners in assets leased to partnership, at partnership meeting was not sufficient to charge other partners with notice of separate interests or profit on lease. Rosenfeld, Meyer & Susman v. Cohen (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1035, 1059, 237 Cal. Rptr. 14

[f] As Defense

Plaintiff's fraud is alternative ground for relieving defendant from liability for failure to perform contract that defendant entered into under unilateral mistake of fact because plaintiff's knowledge that contract was unprofitable and suppression of that fact were "fitted to deceive" and amounted to fraud. Architects & Contractors Estimating Service, Inc. v. Smith (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 1001, 1008, 211 Cal. Rptr. 45

Fraud without damages is no defense. South Tahoe Gas Co. v. Hofmann Land Improvement Co. (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 750, 765, 102 Cal. Rptr. 286

When contract has been obtained by fraud, defendant is permitted to wait and excuse himself or herself from performance by proof of fraud when enforcement is sought against him or her. Friedberg v. Weissbuch (1955) 135 Cal. App. 2d 750, 756, 287 P.2d 785

[3] Undue Influence

[a] Presumption

Presumption that advantage obtained by grantee was from undue influence exerted on grantor arises when record showed that deed in dispute was prepared, executed, and recorded due to defendant's activity, plaintiff was thereby deprived of her primary asset, and defendants were benefited. O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 147, 153-154, 119 Cal. Rptr. 245

[b] Evidence

To set aside gift on basis of undue influence, some act or conduct by donee is required; finding of undue influence cannot be based on donor's belief alone, unless donor was mentally infirm. Estate of Truckenmiller (1979) 97 Cal. App. 3d 326, 334-335, 158 Cal. Rptr. 699 (inter vivos gift, not set aside)

Distinction between proof of undue influence necessary to set aside will and that necessary to set aside inter vivos gift or deed; to set aside will, no presumption of undue influence arises until confidential relationship is established, but for inter vivos gift, extreme age and infirmity of grantor and slight evidence of coercion will shift burden to require beneficiary to establish that transaction was free and fair from influence. O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 147, 153, 155-156, 119 Cal. Rptr. 245 ; Faulkner v. Beatty (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 547, 550-552, 327 P.2d 41 (deed set aside); Stewart v. Marvin (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 769, 775, 294 P.2d 114 ; Longmire v. Kruger (1926) 80 Cal. App. 230, 240-241, 251 P. 692 (grandson; in loco parentis, but no specific finding of confidential relationship; deed set aside)

Direct evidence of undue influence is rarely obtainable and court normally relegated to determine by inference from totality of facts and circumstances. Keithley v. Civil Service Bd. (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 443, 451, 89 Cal. Rptr. 809

What constitutes undue influence and sufficient proof thereof depends on facts and circumstances of each case. Stewart v. Marvin (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 769, 775, 294 P.2d 114

Evidence of undue influence was insufficient to set aside deed allegedly executed because of threats of criminal prosecution coupled with mental weakness. Buchmayer v. Buchmayer (1945) 68 Cal. App. 2d 462, 467-469, 157 P.2d 9

[c] Transaction Upheld

Probate court's finding of no undue influence was supported by sufficient evidence showing heir/assignor of real property that was part of probate estate had understood nature and consequences of transaction. Estate of Boyd (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 125, 139, 159 Cal. Rptr. 298

[d] Transaction Voided

Acts committed under undue influence did not constitute valid waiver because waiver requires voluntary act. Channell v. Anthony (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 290, 305, 129 Cal. Rptr. 704

Elderly woman was entitled to reconveyance of deed to couple she considered family when plaintiff's age and infirmity, solitariness, loss of mental vigor, susceptibility to influence, and other evidence, though conflicting, gave rise to inference that transaction was not product of plaintiff's free volition. O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 147, 154-156, 119 Cal. Rptr. 245 (finding of confidential relationship)

Transfer of bank accounts to daughter set aside on findings of mother's weakness of mind when mother was old, mentally and physically infirm, and feared being sent to nursing home, which daughter fraudulently promised mother she would not do if mother transferred accounts. Wells Fargo Bank v. Brady (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 381, 398-399, 254 P.2d 71 (court did not consider sufficiency of evidence supporting finding of confidential relationship as judgment was supported on grounds of fraud and undue influence taken of aunt's weakness of mind)

[e] Weakness of Mind

Manic-depressive psychosis is weakness of mind in context of Civ. Code § 1575 because it is mental illness, but manic-depressive person not incompetent to enter contract under Civ. Code § 38 as one entirely without understanding or under Civ. Code § 39 as one not entirely without understanding. Smalley v. Baker (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 824, 835, 69 Cal. Rptr. 521

[f] Unfair Advantage Taken of Weakness or Distress

Resignation of police officer after being charged with rape was coercion under circumstances of case and product of undue influence. Keithley v. Civil Service Bd. (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 443, 452, 89 Cal. Rptr. 809

Resignation of teacher after being arrested on charges of homosexual activity was obtained by undue influence. Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 123, 135, 54 Cal. Rptr. 533

[4] Confidential Relationship

Oral joint venture agreement between attorney and client which was result of undue influence and violation of attorney's fiduciary duties [Prob. Code § 16004; Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-300] was voidable; client did not ratify it by conduct; once client acted to void agreement, trial court properly refused to enforce it. BGJ Associates v. Wilson (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 1217, 1226-1230, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 140

At time marital settlement agreement was executed husband procured interlocutory decree; husband was under fiduciary duty to disclose existence of all community assets and failure to disclose existence of retirement benefits as constituting constructive fraud on wife. In re Marriage of Coffin (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 139, 154-155, 133 Cal. Rptr. 583

Mere fact that relationship is friendly and intimate does not establish that it is confidential; confidential relationship also requires servient party to repose trust and confidence in integrity and fidelity of other party. O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 147, 153, 119 Cal. Rptr. 245

No confidential relationship exists between spouses when cross complaint and husband's testimony showed history of wife's broken promises from time of marriage and continuous course of cruel and abusive conduct toward husband. Buchmayer v. Buchmayer (1945) 68 Cal. App. 2d 462, 470, 157 P.2d 9

[5] Mistake of Fact

[a] Mutual Mistake of Fact

When each party has different intention regarding some primary aspect of subject matter, mutual mistake prevents formation of contract because there is no meeting of minds. Balistreri v. Nevada Livestock Production Credit Assn. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 635, 640-642, 262 Cal. Rptr. 862 (lender intended one property be pledged as collateral, trustors intended to pledge another); Merced County Sheriff's Employees' Assn. v. County of Merced (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 662, 675-677, 233 Cal. Rptr. 519

When contract provided that purchaser would take property subject to existing loan, lender's demand for purchaser's financial statement did not provide ground for rescission on basis of mutual mistake because there was no showing that seller contemplated that no financial information would be requested. Spurgeon v. Drumheller (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 659, 663-664, 220 Cal. Rptr. 195

Mistake of fact was material, and thus sufficient for relief when both parties at time of execution of contract for removal of sand, gravel, and aggregates mistakenly believed that deposits of clay, which were on top of aggregates, were to be removed by third party in accordance with contract for sale of clay that was later canceled. Sand v. Concrete Serv. Co. (1959) 176 Cal. App. 2d 169, 171, 174-175, 1 Cal. Rptr. 257

[b] Unilateral Mistake of Fact

Failure to read document before signing it did not bar relief for unilateral mistake that would have been discovered by reading document if mistaken party relied on representation by other party. Balistreri v. Nevada Livestock Production Credit Assn. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 635, 642-644, 262 Cal. Rptr. 862 (cover letter referred to different property of plaintiffs than was encumbered by enclosed deed of trust)

Summary judgment based on accord and satisfaction was error if one party's unilateral mistake in demand letter should have been known to other party; triable question of fact existed regarding whether attorney for nonmistaken party should have known that amount of interest claimed in demand letter was based on miscalculation. Bldg. Serv. Emp. Pension Tr. v. Amer. Bldg. Maint. (9th Cir. 1987) 828 F.2d 576, 578 (applying California law)

Ordinary negligence was not neglect of legal duty; defendant was not liable for failure to perform under contract entered into under unilateral mistake of fact when plaintiff knew that contract as bid was unprofitable; plaintiff's suppression of fact that contract was underbid amounted to fraud. Architects & Contractors Estimating Service, Inc. v. Smith (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 1001, 1007-1008, 211 Cal. Rptr. 45

Contract was rescindable for mistake of fact when plaintiffs knew agreement signed by defendant was not same as latter had instructed lawyer to prepare, defendant relied on plaintiffs' representations that agreement complied with defendant's instructions, and plaintiffs benefited by change in agreement. Reid v. Landon (1958) 166 Cal. App. 2d 476, 484, 333 P.2d 432

[6] Mistake of Law

[a] Allowing Relief

Court was equitably empowered to treat stipulated dismissal as rescinded and rule on substance of dispute when dismissal was entered into under both parties' mistaken belief that law did not permit them to proceed with suit until administrative remedies had been exhausted. Gayle Mfg. Co. v. Federal Sav. & Loan Ins. Corp. (9th Cir. 1990) 910 F.2d 574, 582 n.6 (applying California law)

Summary judgment for plaintiff reversed because defendants raised triable issues of fact as to whether they were entitled to rescind settlement agreement based on mutual mistake of fact or law; parties' mutual mistake regarding amendment to Probate Code, which would diminish plaintiff's damages from trust which exposed trustees to tax liability, went to heart of agreement settling action for legal malpractice in drafting trust. Harris v. Rudin, Richman & Appel (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1332, 1339-1341, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 552

Relief for mistake of law was permitted when plaintiff alleged (1) defendant made representations about use of space, (2) plaintiff relied on representations in buying share, (3) plaintiff learned that she could not use space as planned, and (4) plaintiff gave prompt notice of rescission, offering to restore things of value received. Stock v. Meek (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 809, 815, 221 P.2d 15

When mistake of law deprives one party of valuable right and gives other party material advantage not contemplated by either party, court of equity properly adjusts parties' rights as though law was what parties supposed it to be if that is necessary for justice to be done. Benson v. Bunting (1900) 127 Cal. 532, 537, 59 P. 991 ; Brown v. Volz (1949) 90 Cal. App. 2d 793, 800, 204 P.2d 110

Contract was able to be rescinded on ground of mistake of law or fact when plaintiff leased property thinking it could be rented for larger sum than allowed under federal rent control regulations. Adams v. Heinsch (1948) 89 Cal. App. 2d 300, 303-305, 200 P.2d 796

Evidence in case showed contract entered into by each party under mistake of law when plaintiff told bank she wanted her husband to be able to draw on bank account in case of her death, plaintiff and husband signed new deposit agreement, and plaintiff believed bank account was still her sole property. Spear v. Farwell (1935) 5 Cal. App. 2d 111, 112-113, 42 P.2d 391

[b] Relief Not Available

Employee who filed retirement application in mistaken belief that retirement could be rescinded was not entitled to rescind retirement on ground of unilateral mistake of law [see Civ. Code § 1578(2)] when there was no showing that employer induced or knowingly took advantage of mistake. Williams v. City of Los Angeles (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 1627, 1636, 281 Cal. Rptr. 21

Cross-complaint did not state cause of action for rescission on ground of mutual mistake when allegation did not state actual mistake on cross complainant's part but only stated that mutual mistake occurred "if" cross defendants' claim that cross complainants acted as their agents was well founded. Wood v. Metzenbaum (1951) 107 Cal. App. 2d 727, 730-731, 237 P.2d 703

[7] Innocent Misrepresentation

Innocent misrepresentation not enumerated as ground for rescission, but as type of mistake within meaning of Civ. Code § 1689(b)(1) that entitles one to rescission. Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 879, 890, 124 Cal. Rptr. 577 ; Crocker-Anglo Nat. Bank v. Kuchman (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 490, 495-496, 36 Cal. Rptr. 806

Rule allowing rescission for innocent misrepresentation is based on equitable principle that it would be unjust to allow one who has made false representation, however innocently, to retain fruits of bargain. Crocker-Anglo Nat. Bank v. Kuchman (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 490, 497, 36 Cal. Rptr. 806

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawContract InterpretationFiduciary ResponsibilitiesContracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime Limitations

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.112

§ 215.112 Text References

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, §§ 256-321; vol. 2, Insurance, §§ 68, 216, 217, 224, 225, 231, 232 (10th ed. 2005)

Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 4, Pleading, §§ 505-511 (defense), vol. 5, Pleading, § 1016 (rescission) (4th ed. 1997)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.113

§ 215.113 Law Reviews

Easterbrook, Fischel, Contracts and Fiduciary Duty, 36 J. L. & Econ. 425 (1993)

Note, Undue Influence, Involuntary Servitude and Brainwashing: A More Consistent, Interests-Based Approach, 25 Loy. L.A.L. Rev. 499 (1992)

Halson, Opportunism, Economic Duress and Contractual Modifications, 107 L.Q. Rev. 649 (1991)

Kull, Mistake, Frustration, and the Windfall Principle of Contract Remedies, 43 Hastings L.J. 1 (1991)

Barnett, Discussion of a Consent Theory of Contracts, 86 Colum. L. Rev. 269 (1986)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawContract InterpretationFiduciary ResponsibilitiesContracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceEconomic DuressContracts LawFormationMeeting of Minds

124 of 182 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 215.114through 215.119

[Reserved]

§§ 215.114[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART IV. FORMS
Subpart A Allegations of Duress and Menace

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.120

§ 215.120 Allegation of Threats of and Actual Confinement of Person or Property and Threats of Injury to Person or Property [Civ. Code §§ 1569, 1570]

[1] FORM Allegation of Threats of and Actual Confinement of Person or Property and Threats of Injury to Person or Property [Civ. Code §§ 1569, 1570]

1. The apparent consent of _____ [plaintiff or defendant] to the contract referred to _____ [above or in the complaint] was not real, mutual, or free, in that it was obtained through duress and menace as herein alleged.

2. _____ [Allege relationship of pleading party to confined party or ownership of property by relative of party or by party, e.g., At all times herein mentioned, _____ (plaintiff or defendant) was the owner and entitled to immediate possession of _____ (describe property)].

3. _____ [Allege threats of unlawful or violent injury to person or property, e.g., On numerous occasions on and about _____ (date), defendant threatened and told plaintiff that unless he/she agreed to (and signed) the contract, unlawful and violent injury would be done to his/her property, namely that _____ (set forth threats, describing property threatened, e.g., his/her property would be defaced, damaged, wrecked, and diminished in value)].

[4. If appropriate, allege unlawful threats to and actual confinement of relative or detention of property, e.g., On or about _____ (date), _____ (plaintiff or defendant) threatened to and did seize and take possession of the property described above, and then and there detained and refused to release it until and unless _____ (plaintiff or defendant) manifested consent to the terms of (and signed) the contract.]

5. _____ [Plaintiff or Defendant] greatly feared for the safety of _____ [specify, e.g., his/her property]. Any and all apparent consent of _____ [plaintiff or defendant] to the contract was obtained from him/her solely through the duress and menace consisting in the threat of and unlawful detention of and threat of injury to _____ [plaintiff's or defendant's] _____ [specify, e.g., property].

_____ [Plaintiff or Defendant] would not have consented to the contract had it not been for the duress and menace.

6. _____ [Plaintiff or Defendant] seeks rescission of the contract because _____ [plaintiff or defendant] has no other adequate remedy at law. If the contract is not rescinded, _____ [plantiff or defendant] will suffer irreparable harm and injury because _____ [plaintiff or defendant] _____ [e.g., will be deprived of his/her bargain by having been forced to sell property he/she did not want to].

[2] Use of Form

The form of allegation of duress and menace in [1], above, may be used in a complaint for rescission of a contract, or in an affirmative defense in an answer to a complaint for damages for breach of contract when a party was forced to consent to the contract by duress and menace as defined in Civ. Code §§ 1569 and 1570 [see § 215.99].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART IV. FORMS
Subpart A Allegations of Duress and Menace

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.121

§ 215.121 Allegation of Deprivation of Exercise of Free Will Without Confinement of Person or Detention of Property [Civ. Code § 1569]

[1] FORM Allegation of Deprivation of Exercise of Free Will Without Confinement of Person or Detention of Property [Civ. Code § 1569]

1. The apparent consent of _____ [name of party] to the contract referred to _____ [above or in the complaint] was not real, mutual, or free in that it was obtained through duress as herein alleged.

2. _____ [Allege facts showing the unlawful act performed by the party who obtained the pleading party's consent to the contract, e.g., On or about _____ (date), defendant wrongfully and unlawfully filed an action in the _____ Court of _____ County to foreclose a certain mortgage on the property which is the subject of the contract, and in connection with that action caused a notice of lis pendens to be filed against the property. At that time, defendant knew that nothing was due on that mortgage or on the obligation it secured].

3. _____ [Allege facts showing that the pleading party was deprived of the exercise of his/her free will, e.g., The notice of lis pendens created and constituted a cloud on plaintiff's title to the property, by reason of which plaintiff was unable to find a buyer willing to pay the otherwise reasonable market value of the property. Plaintiff had no reasonable alternative and was forced to (agree to) sell (and convey) the property to defendant for $_____, which amounted to a fraction of its market value of $_____].

4. _____'s [Name of pleading party] consent was obtained solely through duress [and menace] consisting of _____[specify, e.g., the unlawful use of civil process to cloud title to his/her property], and he/she would not have given the consent had it not been for the duress.

5. Plaintiff seeks rescission of the contract because plaintiff has no other adequate remedy at law. If the contract is not rescinded, plantiff will suffer irreparable harm and injury because plaintiff _____ [e.g., will be deprived of his/her bargain by having been forced to sell property at an unfairly low price].

[2] Use of Form

The allegation of duress in [1], above, may be used by a plaintiff in an action for rescission of a contract, or by a defendant as an affirmative defense in an action on a contract that the consenting party was induced to enter into by the unlawful act of another under circumstances that deprived him or her of the exercise of free will but when there were no threats of or actual confinement of a person or detention of property. For coverage of this type of duress, see the discussion in § 215.21. The allegations may also be used in a complaint based on a common count to recover the money paid under duress [see Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 195, 203, 1 Cal. Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12 ; see also 215.99].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART IV. FORMS
Subpart A Allegations of Duress and Menace

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.122

§ 215.122 Allegation of Economic or Business Duress [Civ. Code § 1569]

[1] FORM Allegation of Economic or Business Duress [Civ. Code § 1569]

1. _____ [The apparent consent of _____ (name of pleading party) to the contract referred to _____ (above or in the complaint) was not real, mutual, or free in that it was obtained through duress and menace as herein alleged or The payments made by _____ (name of pleading party) to _____ (name of party exacting consent) were involuntary and _____'s (name of pleading party) apparent consent was not real, mutual, or free in that it was obtained through duress and menace as herein alleged].

2. _____ [Allege facts showing business or property interests of pleading party, e.g., On _____ (date), plaintiff and defendant entered into an agreement by which defendant agreed to lease to plaintiff certain real property consisting of _____ (give address and description of property). The lease provided that the rental would be $_____ per month until certain remodeling was finished and then the rent would increase to $_____ per month]. [A copy of that lease is attached marked Exhibit "A" and made a part hereof.]

3. _____ [Allege facts showing threats of unlawful action by other party concerning the pleading party's business or property interest, e.g., On or about _____ (date), defendant threatened plaintiff that if plaintiff did not pay the higher rental fee before the remodeling of the premises was completed, the defendant would cancel the lease and institute legal proceedings to evict plaintiff from the leased premises].

4. In order to protect his/her/its _____ [business or property] interests, _____ [name of pleading party] considered that he/she/it had no reasonable alternative and that it was necessary to _____ [enter into the contract or make the payments]. Any and all apparent consent of _____ [name of pleading party] to the contract was obtained from him/her/it solely through the economic duress and the menace of _____ [name of party exacting consent]. [_____ (Name of pleading party) would not have consented to the contract had it not been for the duress and menace.]

5. _____ [Name of pleading party] seeks rescission of the contract because _____ [name of pleading party] has no other adequate remedy at law. If the contract is not rescinded, _____ [name of pleading party] will suffer irreparable harm and injury because _____ [name of pleading party] _____ [e.g., will be deprived of his/her bargain by having to pay more rent than was originally agreed].

[2] Use of Form

The form of allegation of duress and menace in [1], above, may be used in a complaint for rescission of a contract, or in an answer to a complaint for damages for breach of contract as an affirmative defense when the consent to the contract or the payments was obtained by threats to business or property interests. For a discussion of economic duress, see the discussion in § 215.22 [see also § 215.99]. The sample facts used in this form are based on the facts of Lewis v. Fahn (1952) 113 Cal. App. 2d 95, 247 P.2d 831 .

This form of allegation of duress and of menace may also be used in a common count for recovery of money paid under duress [City Bank of San Diego v. Ramage (1968) 266 Cal. App. 2d 570, 585, 72 Cal. Rptr. 273 (common law action for money had and received as lying to recover money obtained by fraud, misrepresentation, duress, undue influence, and mistake of fact); see Ch. 121, Common Counts].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART IV. FORMS
Subpart A Allegations of Duress and Menace

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 215.123through 215.129

[Reserved]

§§ 215.123[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART IV. FORMS
Subpart B Allegations of Undue Influence

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.130

§ 215.130 Allegation of Confidential Relationship Raising Presumption of Undue Influence or Constructive Fraud [Civ. Code §§ 1573(1), 1575(1)]

[1] FORM Allegation of Confidential Relationship Raising Presumption of Undue Influence or Constructive Fraud [Civ. Code §§ 1573(1), 1575(1)]

1. _____ [Allege confidential relationship between plaintiff and defendant, e.g., On or about _____ (date), plaintiff engaged defendant as plaintiff's attorney for the purpose of handling plaintiff's affairs and at all times herein mentioned defendant acted as attorney for plaintiff].

2. _____ [Allege benefit or advantage obtained by party in whom confidence was reposed, or breach of duty resulting in advantage to person in whom confidence was reposed, e.g., At a time when plaintiff was in need of capital to carry on operations of a corporation in which plaintiff owned a majority of the stock, defendant induced plaintiff to sell the assets to defendant by signing an agreement which is attached as Exhibit A and made a part hereof. Plaintiff executed the agreement on the recommendation of defendant and because of plaintiff's trust and confidence in defendant as his/her attorney. Defendant induced plaintiff to enter into the agreement for the purpose of enabling defendant to secure for his/her own personal benefit certain profits and advantages and he/she did secure these advantages. Defendant failed to fully disclose all the facts of the transaction to plaintiff and represented to plaintiff that he/she would have only a nominal interest in the new corporation. Plaintiff would not have entered into the transaction if he/she had known that the facts were not as they were represented to him/her].

3. Plaintiff seeks rescission of the contract because plaintiff has no other adequate remedy at law. If the contract is not rescinded, plaintiff will suffer irreparable harm and injury because plaintiff _____ [e.g., will be deprived of a share of profits in and control of his/her company].

[2] Use of Form

The allegation in [1], above, may be used by a plaintiff in a complaint for rescission of a contract, or by a defendant as an affirmative defense in an action on a contract [see, e.g., BGJ Associates v. Wilson (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 1217, 1226-1230, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 140 , discussed in § 215.81[3]] when a confidential relationship existed between the plaintiff and defendant (Paragraph 1) and the party in whom confidence was reposed obtained an advantage from the relationship (Paragraph 2). These allegations are enough to raise the presumption of undue influence, discussed in §§ 215.40 -215.42, and shift the burden of proof to the party in whom confidence was reposed [Civ. Code § 1575(1); Boyd v. Bevilacqua (1966) 247 Cal. App. 2d 272, 290-291, 55 Cal. Rptr. 610 ; Platt v. Wells Fargo Bank (1963) 222 Cal. App. 2d 658, 667, 35 Cal. Rptr. 377 , cert. denied, (1964) 377 U.S. 965 ; for a form alleging undue influence when no confidential relation existed or no presumption of undue influence arises from the relationship, see § 215.131[2]].

[3] Allegations for Constructive Fraud

[a] Intent

In general, intent to deceive or other fraudulent intent is not required to establish constructive fraud as a defense to enforcement of a contract. Rather, fraud is presumed from the parties' confidential relationship [Civ. Code § 1573(1); Byrum v. Brand (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 926, 936-938, 268 Cal. Rptr. 609 ; see discussion in § 215.70[5]]. Byrum did not to address the issue in the pleading context, but reversed a defense verdict in favor of an investment advisor who failed to disclose material adverse facts regarding a venture in which he induced plaintiff to invest on the ground that the special verdict form asking whether defendant intentionally failed to disclose facts that should have been disclosed because of the parties' confidential relationship was an incorrect statement of the law and served to confuse and mislead the jury [Byrum v. Brand (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 926, 936-938, 268 Cal. Rptr. 609 (noting that Witkin, California Procedure, Vol. 5, Pleading, § 666 (3d ed. 1985) recommends intent to deceive be alleged, while 34 Cal. Jur. 3d Fraud and Deceit, § 72 states that it is not necessary to allege intent to deceive)].

For discussion of various relationships held to be confidential for purposes of constructive fraud, and a form for a complaint for tort damages based on constructive fraud, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit .

[b] Reliance

The pleading and proof of the reliance element is relaxed in constructive fraud to the extent that reliance on the misrepresentation or nondisclosure of a fiduciary may be presumed unless there is direct evidence of lack of reliance [Estate of Gump (1991) 1 Cal. App. 4th 582, 601, 603, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 269 (trustee's fee claim; absent reliance by beneficiaries, no constructive fraud found); Toedter v. Bradshaw (1958) 164 Cal. App. 2d 200, 208, 330 P.2d 688] .

A person may be found to have reasonably relied on the legal opinion of a nonlawyer when the recipient of the opinion is in a relationship of trust with, or reasonably believes that, the maker of the opinion has special knowledge or skill on a particular matter [Lynch v. Cruttenden & Co. (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 802, 808] . As in the example used in this form, it may be useful to allege in general terms the pleading party's reliance by following the advise or recommendation of the fiduciary or party in whom confidence was reposed because of his or her trust and confidence in that party.

In addition, even in the absence of a fiduciary relationship, failure to read a contract is considered excusable when reliance is placed on the misrepresentation of the party with superior knowledge or skill [Lynch v. Cruttenden & Co. (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 802, 807] .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART IV. FORMS
Subpart B Allegations of Undue Influence

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.131

§ 215.131 Allegation of Unfair Advantage Taken of Confidence and Weakness Though No Confidential Relationship Presumed From Parties' Relationship [Civ. Code § 1575(2), (3)]

[1] FORM Allegation of Unfair Advantage Taken of Confidence and Weakness Though No Confidential Relationship Presumed From Parties' Relationship [Civ. Code § 1575(2), (3)]

1. _____ [Allege, with particularity, facts showing that parties had a confidential relationship, e.g., On or about _____ (date), plaintiff was 84 years old and was bereaved and distressed by the death of her husband on _____ (date). At that time plaintiff reposed confidence in defendant, a nurse who had assisted in the care of plaintiff's husband for four years, until his death, and who continued to care for plaintiff in the role of nurse, adviser, and confidante].

2. _____ [Name of party in whom confidence was reposed] used the confidence reposed in her/him by _____ [name of pleading party] to gain an unfair advantage of _____'s [name of pleading party] weakness of mind and distress in that _____ [specify, including facts showing benefit or advantage obtained by party in whom confidence was reposed, e.g., defendant induced and caused plaintiff to sign the deed giving defendant plaintiff's lifetime home without receiving any consideration from defendant for it].

3. The apparent consent of _____ [name of pleading party] to the _____ [specify, e.g., deed] was not real, mutual, or free in that it was obtained through this undue influence, and _____ [name of pleading party] would not have given his/her consent but for the undue influence.

4. _____ [Name of pleading party] seeks rescission of the contract because _____ [name of pleading party] has no other adequate remedy at law. If the contract is not rescinded, _____ [name of pleading party] will suffer irreparable harm and injury because _____ [name of pleading party] _____ [e.g., will be deprived of the use of his/her property by having given it to _____ (name of party in whom confidence was reposed)].

[2] Use of Form

The allegation in [1], above, may be used by a plaintiff in a complaint for rescission of a contract, or by a defendant as an affirmative defense in an action on a contract when the party's consent was obtained by the use of undue influence in that the other party took advantage of the confidence reposed in him or her and of the party's weakness of mind, necessities, or desires [see Civ. Code § 1575(2), (3)]. It is for use when no confidential relationship existed between plaintiff and defendant or when a confidential relationship existed between the parties from which the presumption of undue influence did not arise automatically. For example, this might arise in a parent-child relationship [see, e.g., Williams v. Williams (1958) 163 Cal. App. 2d 144, 148-149, 329 P.2d 70 ; Longmire v. Kruger, (1926) 80 Cal. App. 230, 240-241, 251 P. 692 (grandson; donee in loco parentis)].

Except those relationships that statutes hold to be fiduciary or confidential [see § 215.70[5]; see also §§ 215.80 -215.83], the existence of a confidential relationship is a question of fact and can be determined only on a case-by-case basis [O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 147, 153, 119 Cal. Rptr. 245 ; Kloehn v. Prendiville (1957) 154 Cal. App. 2d 156, 160, 316 P.2d 17] . A finding of a confidential relationship is not necessary to establish undue influence under Civ. Code § 1575(2) or (3) [Buchmayer v. Buchmayer (1945) 68 Cal. App. 2d 462, 467, 157 P.2d 9 ; Wells Fargo Bank v. Brady (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 381, 398-399, 254 P.2d 71 (weakness of mind)]. However, a confidential relationship is alleged in this form (Paragraph 1) [see Faulkner v. Beatty (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 547, 550-552, 327 P.2d 41 (case on which allegations in this form are based and which found confidential relationship to exist)] because, if a confidential relationship is established, the burden of proof will shift to the benefited party, who will then be required to prove that no unfair advantage was taken or that the transaction was fair [O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 147, 153, 155-156, 119 Cal. Rptr. 245 (finding of confidential relationship); Faulkner v. Beatty (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 547, 550-552, 327 P.2d 41 ; Stewart v. Marvin (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 769, 775, 294 P.2d 114 (husband and wife, reconciled after interlocutory decree of dissolution); Longmire v. Kruger (1926) 80 Cal. App. 230, 240-241, 251 P. 692 (grandson; donee in loco parentis, but no specific finding of confidential relationship)]. Most of these cited cases find a confidential relationship between the parties, but also hold that, to shift the burden of proof to the beneficiary/grantee of an inter vivos gift or deed to establish that the transaction was fair and not obtained by taking advantage of the grantor/donee's weakness of mind, all that is necessary is evidence of the grantor/donee's age, susceptibility to imposition, and infirmity and slight evidence of circumstances from which it may be inferred that the instrument was the product of coercion [O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 147, 153, 155-156, 119 Cal. Rptr. 245 ; Faulkner v. Beatty (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 547, 550-552, 327 P.2d 41 ; Stewart v. Marvin (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 769, 775, 294 P.2d 114 ; Longmire v. Kruger (1926) 80 Cal. App. 230, 240-241, 251 P. 692] .

For a form to use to allege undue influence when the parties were in a confidential relationship from which a presumption of undue influence arises, see § 215.130.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART IV. FORMS
Subpart B Allegations of Undue Influence

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.132

§ 215.132 Allegation of Unfair Advantage Taken of Weakness or Distress [Civ. Code § 1575(2), (3)]

[1] FORM Allegation of Unfair Advantage Taken of Weakness or Distress [Civ. Code § 1575(2), (3)]

1. The consent of _____ [name of pleading party] to the alleged herein _____ [specify, e.g., resignation] was not real, mutual, or free in that it was obtained through undue influence as herein alleged.

2. _____ [Allege relationship between plaintiff and defendant, e.g., Plaintiff was the superintendent of the school district in which defendant was employed as a teacher].

3. At the time that _____ [name of pleading party] signed the _____ [specify, e.g., resignation] he/she was under such severe mental and emotional strain due to _____ [specify reasons such as lack of sleep, arrest by police, and pressure by these factors, e.g., having just completed the process of arrest, questioning by the police, booking, release on bail and having gone for 40 hours without sleep, causing him to be completely exhausted and in an emotional turmoil] that he/she was incapable of rational thought or action.

4. While _____ [name of pleading party] was in this condition and unable to think clearly the following events occurred:

[EITHER]

a. _____ [Name of party using undue influence] discussed the transaction at an unusual or inappropriate time in that _____ [specify, e.g., he came to plaintiff's home at 2:00 a.m.];

[AND/OR]

b. The transaction was consummated in an unusual place in that _____ [specify, e.g., defendant came to plaintiff's house to discuss a business matter];

[AND/OR]

c. _____ [Name of party using undue influence] insisted that the business be finished at once;

[AND/OR]

d. _____ [Name of party using undue influence] placed an extreme emphasis on the untoward consequences of delay in that _____ [specify, e.g., defendant stated that if plaintiff did not resign his position immediately the school district would suspend and dismiss him from his position and publicize the proceedings and his arrest];

[AND/OR]

e. _____ [Name of pleading party] was by himself/herself but _____ [name of party using undue influence] brought several other people with him/her to talk to _____ [name of pleading party];

[AND/OR]

f. _____ [Name of pleading party] consented to the agreement without receiving advice from any other person as to what action to take;

[AND/OR]

g. _____ [Name of party using undue influence] told _____ [name of pleading party] that there was no time to consult _____ [an attorney or a financial advisor].

[CONTINUE]

5. Because of _____'s [name of pleading party] belief in _____'s [name of party using undue influence] representations, _____ [name of party using undue influence] was able to substitute his/her will and judgment in place of _____'s [name of pleading party] and thus obtain _____'s [name of pleading party] signature to the _____ [specify, e.g., resignation]. _____'s [Name of pleading party] consent would not have been given but for this undue influence.

6. _____ [Name of pleading party] seeks rescission of the contract because _____ [name of pleading party] has no other adequate remedy at law. If the contract is not rescinded, _____ [name of pleading party] will suffer irreparable harm and injury because _____ [name of pleading party] _____ [e.g., will be unfairly deprived of his/her job].

[2] Use of Form

The allegation in [1], above, is for use by a plaintiff in a complaint to rescind a contract, or by a defendant as an affirmative defense to an action on a contract when no confidential relationship existed between plaintiff and defendant and the other party took unfair advantage of the alleging party's weakness or distress so that the latter's consent to the contract was obtained through undue influence [Civ. Code § 1575(2), (3)]. The allegations in paragraphs 4a through 4g contain each of the elements discussed in § 215.41[3] [see Keithley v. Civil Service Bd. (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 443, 452, 89 Cal. Rptr. 809 ; Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 123, 133, 54 Cal. Rptr. 533] .

For forms alleging undue influence when the parties were in a confidential relationship, see §§ 215.130, 215.131.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART IV. FORMS
Subpart B Allegations of Undue Influence

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 215.133through 215.139

[Reserved]

§§ 215.133[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART IV. FORMS
Subpart C Allegations of Mistake, Misrepresentation, and Fraud

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.140

§ 215.140 Allegation of Mutual Mistake of Fact [Civ. Code § 1577]

[1] FORM Allegation of Mutual Mistake of Fact [Civ. Code § 1577]

1. The consent of _____ [name of pleading party] to the _____ [above-referenced contract or contract referred to in the complaint] was not real, mutual, or free in that it was obtained solely through mistake as herein alleged.

2. Plaintiff and defendant entered into the contract under a material, mutual mistake of fact in that _____ [specify facts showing mutual mistake as to basic or material fact, e.g., the parties to the lease believed that the second floor of the building could be used as a restaurant and bar without any structural changes to the brick building. The parties did not contemplate at the time the lease was executed that costly structural changes to the building itself would have to be made; however, unknown to both parties, substantial alterations to the building, including portions not leased by plaintiff, were required by law to use the second floor as planned].

3. _____ [Name of pleading party] was induced to enter the contract because of his/her mistaken belief that _____ [specify, e.g., no major structural changes would need to be made to the building to use the second floor as a restaurant and bar].

4. As a result of the mutual mistake of fact of the parties, _____ [name of pleading party] was injured in that _____ [specify harm or injury to party seeking to avoid enforcement of contract, e.g., the lease specifies that plaintiff must pay for any alterations to be made to the building to use the second floor as a restaurant and bar and the cost of these alterations was substantially more than the parties contemplated when entering in the contract because of the necessity of making the building comply with legal requirements].

5. _____ [Name of pleading party] would not have given his/her apparent consent to the contract except for his/her mistaken belief.

6. _____ [Name of pleading party] seeks rescission of the contract because _____ [ name of pleading party] has no other adequate remedy at law. If the contract is not rescinded, _____ [name of pleading party] will suffer irreparable harm and injury because _____ [name of pleading party] _____ [e.g., will be deprived of his/her bargain by having to perform more structural repairs than the parties contemplated].

[2] Use of Form

The allegation in [1], above, is for use by a plaintiff in a complaint for rescission of a contract, or by a defendant as an affirmative defense in an action on a contract when the contract was entered into under a mutual mistake of fact material to the contract. The factual allegations used as examples in this form are derived from Williams v. Puccinelli (1965) 236 Cal. App. 2d 512, 46 Cal. Rptr. 285 , in which the court of appeal affirmed the judgment for rescission despite the defendant's contention that the plaintiff was negligent in not discovering the structural defects before entering into the lease. The court relied on testimony that a nonexpert could not have determined from physical observation that the structural work would have to be done and on the fact that not all carelessness amounts to neglect of legal duty that would bar relief [Williams v. Puccinelli (1965) 236 Cal. App. 2d 512, 518-519, 46 Cal. Rptr. 285] .

[3] Cross References

For discussion and forms relating to cancellation of instruments, see Ch. 107, Cancellation of Instruments

For forms of complaint for reformation based on mistake, see Ch. 488, Reformation of Instruments

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART IV. FORMS
Subpart C Allegations of Mistake, Misrepresentation, and Fraud

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.141

§ 215.141 Allegation of Unilateral Mistake of Fact--Other Party Aware of Mistake [Civ. Code § 1577]

[1] FORM Allegation of Unilateral Mistake of Fact--Other Party Aware of Mistake [Civ. Code § 1577]

1. The consent of _____ [name of pleading party] to the contract referred to _____ [above or in the complaint] was not real, mutual, or free in that it was obtained solely through mistake as herein alleged.

2. _____ [Name of pleading party] entered into the above-described contract under a mistake of fact material to the contract in that _____ [specify facts showing mistake of fact material to the contract, e.g., he thought he could complete the work for a cost of $70,000 but the work sheet used to determine the fee contained an error in addition resulting in the fee being substantially lower than it should have been].

[EITHER]

3. _____ [Name of party wanting contract enforced] was aware of the mistake of _____ [name of pleading party] and unfairly used that mistake to take advantage of _____ [name of pleading party] in that _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff notified defendant of the mistake in addition on the work sheet as soon as he/she became aware of it but after the contract had been executed, but defendant refused to agree to pay the proper fee and insisted on paying the lower fee stated on the work sheet].

[OR]

3. _____ [Name of party wanting contract enforced] was, or should have been, aware of the mistake of _____ [name of pleading party] in that _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff's bid was half the amount of any other bid submitted to defendant].

[CONTINUE]

4. As a result of the mistake of fact _____ [name of pleading party] was injured in that _____ [specify harm or injury to party seeking to avoid enforcement of the contract, e.g., if plaintiff is required to perform the contract he will lose a substantial sum of money in the amount of $_____ since he cannot perform the work required for the fee stated in the work sheet].

5. _____ [Name of pleading party] would not have given his/her apparent consent to the contract if the mistake had not existed.

6. _____ [Name of pleading party] seeks rescission of the contract because _____ [name of pleading party] has no other adequate remedy at law. If the contract is not rescinded, _____ [name of pleading party] will suffer irreparable harm and injury because _____ [name of pleading party] _____ [e.g., will be deprived of his/her bargain by having to perform for substantially less money than the parties contemplated].

[2] Use of Form

The allegation in [1], above, is for use by a plaintiff in a complaint for rescission of a contract, or by a defendant as an affirmative defense in an action on a contract when the party seeking to avoid the contract entered into it under a unilateral mistake of fact of which the other party was aware and which the other party took advantage of to the complaining party's detriment [see §§ 215.51[4], 215.52; compare § 215.140 (form of allegation of mutual mistake of fact) with § 215.143 (form of allegation of innocent misrepresentation)].

For further discussion and references on mistake of fact see § 215.140.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART IV. FORMS
Subpart C Allegations of Mistake, Misrepresentation, and Fraud

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.141A

§ 215.141A Allegation of Unilateral Mistake of Fact--Other Party Unaware of Mistake

[1] FORM Allegation of Unilateral Mistake of Fact--Other Party Unaware of Mistake

1. The consent of _____ [name of pleading party] to the contract was not real, mutual, or free in that it was obtained solely through mistake as herein alleged.

2. _____ [Name of pleading party] entered into the contract under a mistake of fact regarding _____ [specify facts showing basic assumption upon which defendant made contract].

3. The mistake of fact has a material effect upon the agreed-upon exchange of performance that is adverse to _____ [name of pleading party], in that _____ [describe effect of mistake upon performance].

4. _____ [Name of pleading party] does not bear the risk of that mistake because _____ [describe].

5. The effect of the above-described mistake is such that enforcement of the contract would be unconscionable, in that _____ [specify harm or injury to party seeking to avoid enforcement of the contract].

6. _____ [Name of pleading party] seeks rescission of the contract because _____ [name of pleading party] has no other adequate remedy at law.

[2] Use of Form

The allegation in [1], above, is for use in a complaint for rescission of a contract, or as an affirmative defense in an action on a contract when the party seeking to avoid the contract entered into it under a unilateral mistake of fact, of which the other party was unaware [compare § 215.141]. The California Supreme Court has stated that when a plaintiff has no reason to know of and does not cause the defendant's unilateral mistake of fact, the defendant must establish the facts listed in [1], above, to obtain rescission of the contract [Donovan v. RRL Corp. (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 261, 281-282, 294, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 807, 27 P.3d 702 (auto dealership's lack of knowledge regarding typographical error in advertised price of car constituted mistake of fact; rescission was warranted because evidence established that unilateral mistake of fact was made in good faith, defendant did not bear risk of mistake, and enforcement of contract with erroneous price would be unconscionable); see § 215.52[4]].

For further discussion and references on mistake of fact, see § 215.140.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART IV. FORMS
Subpart C Allegations of Mistake, Misrepresentation, and Fraud

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.142

§ 215.142 Allegation of Mistake of Law [Civ. Code § 1578]

[1] FORM Allegation of Mistake of Law [Civ. Code § 1578]

1. The consent of _____ [name of pleading party] to the contract referred to _____ [above or in the complaint] was not real, mutual, or free in that it was obtained solely through mistake as herein alleged.

2. Due to a _____ [mutual mistake of law by plaintiff and defendant or mistake of law by plaintiff which was known to defendant, but which defendant never rectified or mentioned to plaintiff], the contract states _____ [specify wording of contract that gave rise to mistake, e.g., that plaintiff and her husband are joint tenants of the bank account].

3. At all relevant times _____ [plaintiff and defendant believed or plaintiff believed, and communicated this belief to defendant,] that _____ [specify what parties believed law to be, e.g., the wording of the contract merely meant that plaintiff's husband could draw on the account after plaintiff's death but that plaintiff was the sole owner of the account during her lifetime].

4. As a result of the mistake of law, _____ [name of pleading party] was injured in that _____ [specify harm or injury to party seeking to avoid contract, e.g., plaintiff's husband has withdrawn money from plaintiff's account].

5. _____ [Name of pleading party] would not have given his/her consent to the contract had he/she not believed and understood the law and its effect on the contract to be as stated above, and had he/she not believed and understood that defendant also had the same understanding of the law and its effect on the contract.

6. _____ [Name of pleading party] seeks rescission of the contract because _____ [name of pleading party] has no other adequate remedy at law. If the contract is not rescinded, _____ [name of pleading party] will suffer irreparable harm and injury because _____ [name of pleading party] _____ [e.g., will be deprived of his/her bargain because of the parties' mutual mistake regarding the bank account].

[2] Use of Form

The allegation in [1], above, is for use in a complaint for rescission of a contract or as an affirmative defense in an action on a contract when the contract was based on a mutual mistake of law [Civ. Code § 1578(1); see, e.g., Harris v. Rudin, Richman & Appel (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1332, 1339-1341, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 552 (reversing summary judgment for plaintiff because defendants raised triable issues of fact as to whether they were entitled to rescind settlement agreement based on mutual mistake of fact or law; all parties to agreement settling legal malpractice action for preparation of trust exposing trustees to tax liability were unaware of Probate Code amendment that eliminated tax problem)] or a mistake of law by plaintiff of which defendant was aware and did not rectify [Civ. Code § 1578(2); see § 215.55].

[3] Cross References

For a complaint for reformation of contract based on mistake of law, see Ch. 488, Reformation of Instruments

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART IV. FORMS
Subpart C Allegations of Mistake, Misrepresentation, and Fraud

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.143

§ 215.143 Allegation of Innocent Misrepresentation

[1] FORM Allegation of Innocent Misrepresentation

1. The consent of _____ [name of pleading party] to the contract referred to _____ [above or in the complaint] was not real, mutual, or free in that it was obtained solely through innocent misrepresentation and mistake as herein alleged.

2. During the contract negotiations between plaintiff and defendant to induce _____ [name of pleading party] to enter the contract, _____ [name of party making misrepresentation] mistakenly represented _____ [allege representations made by party in good faith relating to existence of fact or thing material to contract, e.g., that the total liabilities of the company amounted to only $210,000. This figure was contained in a balance sheet produced by internal audit purporting to show the company's financial position as of _____ (date). The balance sheet was furnished by _____ (name of party making misrepresentation) to _____ (name of pleading party)].

3. _____ [Allege pleading party's reliance on the other party's representations and discovery of mistake, e.g., Plaintiff, at the time of entering into the contract, at the time he/she paid defendant the downpayment and executed the note for the balance of the purchase price, and at the time he/she executed the contract, believed that the company's total liabilities amounted to only $120,000 on _____ (date), which resulted in a net worth of approximately $200,000. After the execution of the documents of sale and transfer of control and possession were completed, and plaintiff's staff began audits and implementation of new financial and accounting procedures, they discovered that total liabilities on _____ (date), actually amounted to $210,000, which resulted in a net worth of only $90,000. Plaintiff is informed and believes and on that information and belief alleges that the error was inadvertently made in computation, tabulation, or printing and was not the result of any attempt to deceive].

4. _____ [Allege both defendant's and plaintiff's belief or reliance in truth of representation, e.g., Both plaintiff and defendant, at the time they entered into the contract believed that as of _____ (date), the company's total liabilities amounted to $120,000 and its net worth was approximately $200,000].

5. _____ [Name of pleading party] would not have entered into the contract if the innocent misrepresentation or mistake had not existed.

6. _____ [Name of pleading party] seeks rescission of the contract because _____ [name of pleading party] has no other adequate remedy at law. If the contract is not rescinded, _____ [name of pleading party] will suffer irreparable harm and injury because _____ [name of pleading party] _____ [e.g., will be deprived of his/her bargain because of the innocent misrepresentation of accounts].

[2] Use of Form

The allegation in [1], above, is for use by a plaintiff in an action to rescind a contract, or by a defendant as an affirmative defense in an action on a contract when one party innocently made false representations to induce the other party to enter the contract and the latter relied on the representations to his or her detriment [see Crocker-Anglo Nat. Bank v. Kuchman (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 490, 496-497, 36 Cal. Rptr. 806 (reversing judgment denying rescission, mistake regarding value of stock); Brown v. Klein (1928) 89 Cal. App. 153, 155-157, 264 P. 496 (affirming rescission of sale of one-third interest in partnership based on computation error in totalling liabilities)]. Some cases characterize this situation as a species of fraud, while others characterize it as a type of mistake [see §§ 215.51[3], 215.71].

In either case, the mistake or innocent misrepresentation must relate to a material aspect of the contract so that the party who relied on the misrepresentation would suffer material injury if the contract were upheld [Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 879, 890, 124 Cal. Rptr. 577 ; Wood v. Kalbaugh (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 926, 930, 114 Cal. Rptr. 673] . Reliance arising from neglect of a legal duty will bar relief [see Van Meter v. Bent Constr. Co. (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 588, 595, 297 P.2d 644 ; Balistreri v. Nevada Livestock Production Credit Assn. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 635, 642-644, 262 Cal. Rptr. 862 (in neither case did reliance amount to neglect of legal duty)]. Although relief will be denied for a mistake of fact caused by the neglect of a legal duty, it does not appear to be the affirmative burden of the pleading party to allege that he or she did not neglect a legal duty. Instead, neglect of legal duty can be raised as a defense to avoidance of the contract on the basis of mistake of fact [see Sun'N Sand, Inc. v. United California Bank (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 671, 700, 148 Cal. Rptr. 329, 582 P.2d 920] . Nevertheless, the pleading party may want to insert additional allegations to anticipate any claim of neglect of legal duty [see, e.g., Brown v. Klein (1928) 89 Cal. App. 153, 155, 264 P. 496 (negligence issue disposed of by finding that plaintiff did not make independent examination of business and did not have opportunity to do so); see also Bily v. Arthur Young & Co. (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 370, 408-410, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 51, 834 P.2d 745 (auditors have no duty to unintended recipients of information they supply)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapter 215 DURESS, MENACE, FRAUD, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND MISTAKE
PART IV. FORMS
Subpart C Allegations of Mistake, Misrepresentation, and Fraud

17-215 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 215.144

§ 215.144 Allegation of Intentional Misrepresentation of Fact [Civ. Code § 1572]

[1] FORM Allegation of Intentional Misrepresentation of Fact [Civ. Code § 1572]

1. The apparent consent of _____ [name of pleading party] to the contract referred to _____ [above or in the complaint] was not real, mutual, or free in that it was obtained through fraud, as herein alleged.

2. On or about _____ [date], _____ [name of party making fraudulent representations] falsely and fraudulently represented to _____ [name of pleading party] that _____ [specify with particularity the statements of material fact claimed by the pleading party to be false, e.g., the premises owned by defendant had sufficient water supply for the entire acreage that was ample for irrigation and for domestic purposes on an annual basis].

3. _____'s [Name of party making fraudulent representations] representations were false. The true facts were as follows: _____ [specify, e.g., the land did not contain an ample supply of water and the water well on the property did not supply water to the property year-round or for any period of time at all].

4. When _____ [name of party making fraudulent representations] made these representations he/she knew them to be false, and made these representations with the intent to defraud and deceive _____ [name of pleading party] and with intent to induce _____ [name of pleading party] to enter into the above-described contract for _____ [specify, e.g., the purchase and sale of the property].

5. _____ [Name of pleading party] believed the representations and relied on the truth of them in entering into the contract. _____ [Name of pleading party] would not have given his/her apparent consent to the contract had it not been for the fraud. The reliance by _____ [name of pleading party] was justified because _____ [specify, e.g., at the time the representations were made, defendant had lived on the property for five years and was in a position of advantage with respect to knowledge of facts concerning the transaction].

6. As a proximate result of _____'s [name of party making fraudulent representations] fraud and the facts herein alleged, _____ [name of pleading party] was _____ [allege facts showing allowable damages, e.g., induced to buy the property at a higher price than its actual value], by reason of which plaintiff has been damaged in the sum of $_____.

7. Plaintiff seeks rescission of the contract because Plaintiff has no other adequate remedy at law. If the contract is not rescinded, plantiff will suffer irreparable harm and injury because plaintiff _____ [e.g., will be deprived of his/her bargain by having been induced to buy the property at higher than its actual value].

[2] Use of Form

The allegation in [1], above, may be used by a plaintiff in a complaint for rescission of a contract, or by a defendant as an affirmative defense in an action on a contract when he or she was induced to enter the contract due to the other party's intentional fraud [Civ. Code § 1572(1)]. For further discussion of fraud, see the discussion in § 215.70 et seq.

For other forms involving fraud that may be adapted for use in a complaint for rescission of a contract, or as an affirmative defense in an action on a contract, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit .

The general rule with respect to pleading a cause of action in fraud is that fraud must be specifically pleaded and the complaint should state specific facts of how and where the fraud occurred. A vague but artful pleading of fraud should not be used simply to get a foot in the courtroom door. The effect of this general rule is twofold: (1) the facts constituting fraud must be alleged (that is, general pleading of the legal conclusion of fraud is insufficient); and (2) every element of the cause of action for fraud must be alleged in the proper manner (that is, factually and specifically). The policy of liberal construction of the pleadings will not ordinarily be invoked to sustain a pleading defective in any material respect [Hall v. Department of Adoptions (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 898, 904, 121 Cal. Rptr. 223 (quoting a legal commentator); Bank of America v. Vannini (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 120, 130, 295 P.2d 102 (party pleading defense based on fraud required to set forth all elements of fraud)].

[3] Cross References

For discussion and forms generally involving fraud, as well as a specific form involving intentional misrepresentations concerning land, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit

For a form of complaint by a lessee of mining property against lessor for fraudulent representation of ownership of property, see Ch. 363, Mining

For a form of complaint by transferee of oil and gas interest for fraud by transferor who failed to obtain security transfer permit from corporations commissioner, see Ch. 393, Oil and Gas

For a form of complaint for reformation of contract based on fraud, see Ch. 488, Reformation of Instruments

For a form of complaint for restitution based on rescission of contract for fraudulent misrepresentation, see Ch. 490, Rescission and Restitution

For forms for use by purchaser for damages resulting from fraudulent exchange of land or for rescission due to fraudulent misrepresentations or fraudulent concealment, and for form of defense for vendee's complaint of fraud based on inspection by vendee, see Ch. 569, Vendor and Purchaser

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 17: Defaults and Default Judgements thru Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake-Chs. 205-219
Chapters 216through 219 RESERVED

17-216 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated Chapters 216through 219

RESERVED

Chapters 216RESERVED

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 220.syn

§ 220.syn Synopsis to Chapter 220: DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE

§ 220.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 220.02 Governing Law

[1] Statutes

[2] Statewide Family Law Rules and Forms

[3] Local Court Rules in General

[4] Uniform Domestic Relations Rules for Bay Area Superior Court

§ 220.03 Civil Remedies Concerning Break-Up of Marital Relationship

§ 220.04 Purpose of Proceeding for Dissolution or Separation

§ 220.05 Cross References

§§ 220.06-220.09 [Reserved]

§ 220.10 Determine Scope of Legal Action Required

§ 220.11 Make Fee Arrangements

§ 220.12 Prepare Any Special Notices

§ 220.13 Assess Need to Sever Joint Tenancies

§§ 220.14-220.19 [Reserved]

§ 220.20 Determine Jurisdiction and Venue

§ 220.21 Initial Pleadings and Papers

§ 220.22 Join Parties to Proceeding

§§ 220.23-220.29 [Reserved]

§ 220.30 Evaluate Need for Responsive Pleadings

§ 220.31 Prepare, Serve, and File Responsive Pleadings

§ 220.32 Join Parties to Proceeding

§ 220.33 Challenge Improper Pleadings or Proceedings, or Entry of Default

§§ 220.34-220.39 [Reserved]

§ 220.40 Preliminary Discovery and Fact Gathering

§ 220.41 Mediation of Custody and Visitation Issues

§ 220.42 Appearance of Counsel and Client

§ 220.43 Conduct of Hearing and Rendition of Order

§ 220.44 Special Considerations in Bringing Certain Pretrial Motions

§§ 220.45-220.49 [Reserved]

§ 220.50 Formal Discovery.

§ 220.51 Evaluate Need for Contested Trial

§ 220.52 [Reserved]

§ 220.53 Complete Pretrial, Settlement Conference, or Similar Statement, and Final Declaration of Disclosure

§ 220.54 Attend Mandatory Conferences Before Trial

§ 220.55 Specially Set Trial of Child Custody and Child Support Issues

§ 220.56 Adjust Trial Date for Good Cause

§ 220.57 Prepare Trial Brief

§ 220.58 Marshal Evidence and Line Up Witnesses

§ 220.59 Submit Final Financial and Disclosure Declarations

§§ 220.60-220.69 [Reserved]

§ 220.70 Challenge Trial Judge if Necessary

§ 220.71 Complete the Trial Appearance

§ 220.72 Request Statement of Decision

§ 220.73 Prepare Formal Judgment as Directed

§ 220.74 Posttrial Matters

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222

Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE

PART I. SCOPE

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.01

§ 220.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter sets forth a master procedural guide for actions involving marital dissolution or legal separation. This guide provides the framework and instructions for navigating the individual chapters that analyze marital dissolution and legal separation, which include:

- Procedure and illustrative, filled-in forms, including all mandatory Judicial Council forms, for commencing and pursuing through judgment a proceeding for marital dissolution or legal separation, as well as postjudgment and modification procedures [see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure].

- Division and valuation of the community estate [see Ch. 222, Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation].

- Child custody [see Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody].

- Child support [see Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support].

- Spousal support [see Ch. 225, Dissolution of Marriage: Spousal Support].

- Attorney's fees [see Ch. 226, Dissolution of Marriage: Attorney's Fees].

- Major tax consequences of a dissolution [see Ch. 226, Dissolution of Marriage: Tax Effects of Dissolution].

For related forms and proceedings, see Ch. 25, Annulment (Nullity) of Marriage and Related Spousal Rights ; Ch. 122, Community Property ; Ch. 245, Emancipation of Minors ; Ch. 258, Fam. Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies ; Ch. 259, Fam. Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement ; Ch. 260, Fam. Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments ; Ch. 359, Marriage ; Ch. 364, Minors: Claims and Property of Minors ; Ch. 394, Parent and Child ; and Ch. 412, Paternity .

For discussion and forms relating to the property rights of the parties to a nonmarital relationship, or domestic partners, see Ch. 387, Nonmarital Cohabitation .

For procedure and forms relating to adoption, see Ch. 12, Adoptions: Nature and Effect ; Ch. 12A, Adoptions: Termination of Parental Rights ; Ch. 12B, Adoptions: Unmarried Minors ; Ch. 12C, Adoptions: Adults and Married Minors ; Ch. 12D, Adoptions: Amendment and Inspection of Records ; and Ch. 12E, Adoptions: Attack on Decree .

For a discussion and forms relating to protective orders against domestic violence and other harassment, see Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal Separation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART I. SCOPE

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.02

§ 220.02 Governing Law

[1] Statutes

The law pertaining to marriage and the family is set forth in the Family Code. The Family Code supersedes the former Family Law Act (former Civ. Code § 4000 et seq.) and redesignates within one code the former statutory provisions that comprise the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act (Fam. Code § 1600 et seq.), the Family Conciliation Court Law (Fam. Code § 1800 et seq.), the Uniform Divorce Recognition Act (Fam. Code § 2090 et seq.), the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.), the Uniform Interstate Family Support Act (Fam. Code § 4900 et seq.), the Domestic Violence Prevention Act (Fam. Code § 6200 et seq.), the Uniform Act on Blood Tests to Determine Paternity (Fam. Code § 7550 et seq.), and the Uniform Parentage Act (Fam. Code § 7600 et seq.).

Dissolution of marriage and legal separation are governed by Fam. Code § 2000 et seq. Property rights of the parties on dissolution are governed by Fam. Code § 2500 et seq.; child custody is governed by Fam. Code § 3000 et seq.; and child and spousal support by Fam. Code § 3500 et seq.

The means by which a marriage may be terminated are set forth in Fam. Code § 310, and the general jurisdiction of the superior court is set forth in Fam. Code §§ 200, 2010, and 3101. Pendente lite spousal and child support is authorized by Fam. Code § 3600 et seq., and protective orders in the family law summons and on ex parte application by Fam. Code § 2040 et seq. Fam. Code § 2023 authorizes the court to order payment of certain obligations directly to creditors. Fam. Code § 2020 specifies the time within which a responsive pleading must be filed and Fam. Code §§ 231, 2022 relate to trial. Attorney's fees and costs are governed by Fam. Code § 270 et seq., and general enforcement of judgments, orders, and decrees by Fam. Code § 290 et seq. Fam. Code § 2080 et seq. authorizes a court in a dissolution of marriage proceeding to restore a wife's birth name or other former name.

[2] Statewide Family Law Rules and Forms

The California Judicial Council is authorized by statute to promulgate rules of practice and procedure that govern proceedings under the Family Code, notwithstanding any other provision of law [Fam. Code § 211; see Cal. Const., art. VI, § 6 (Judicial Council's general powers to promulgate rules of procedure)]. Accordingly, the Council has adopted the Family Law Rules and related Judicial Council forms, and adopts specific forms and procedures as required by individual statutes [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.10 et seq.; In re Marriage of McKim (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 673, 678 n.4, 100 Cal. Rptr. 140, 493 P.2d 868 ; In re Marriage of Dover (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 675, 678, 93 Cal. Rptr. 384 ; see, e.g., Fam. Code § 2105 (requiring declaration of disclosure, including specified information, on form prescribed by Judicial Council)].

The Family Law Rules apply to all proceedings for marital dissolution, nullity of marriage, or legal separation; the authorizing rule states that they apply to every action and proceeding to which the Family Code applies [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.20]. In general, the procedure to be followed to obtain a judgment of dissolution of marriage or legal separation is set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.10 et seq. and the forms provided for use in these proceedings are designated as Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-100 et seq. [see Fam. Code § 211; Gov. Code § 68511; see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 1.30, 1.31, 1.35, 2.150].

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.21 clarifies that, except as provided by the Family Law Rules, all provisions of law applicable to civil actions generally apply to a proceeding under the Family Code, if they would otherwise apply without reference to that rule. However, to the extent that the Rules conflict provisions in other statutes or rules, the Family Law Rules prevail [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.21; see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.22 (relating to family law proceedings other than for dissolution or nullity of marriage or legal separation)].

Furthermore, in the exercise of the family law court's jurisdiction, if the course of proceeding is not specifically indicated by statute or by the Family Law Rules, the court may adopt any suitable process or mode of proceeding that is consistent with the spirit of the Family Code and the Family Law Rules [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.140; see In re Marriage of McKim (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 673, 678, 100 Cal. Rptr. 140, 493 P.2d 868] .

[3] Local Court Rules in General

Many, if not most, superior courts throughout California have promulgated specialized rules of practice and procedure for their respective family law departments [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, ch.14]. These local rules are permitted to the extent that they do not conflict with state statutes or the California Rules of Court (including the statewide Family Law Rules) [see Gov. Code § 68070(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.30, 3.20, 10.613; Shipp v. Superior Court (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 147, 151, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 685] . Counsel must be aware of the rules applicable in his or her county of practice and be sure to follow them.

[4] Uniform Domestic Relations Rules for Bay Area Superior Court

To assist counsel in domestic relations cases by providing a uniformity of the local rules governing these cases, several counties in the San Francisco Bay region have adopted the Uniform Domestic Relations Local Rules for Bay Area Superior Courts (hereinafter cited as Bay Area Super. Ct. Dom. Rel. Rules). The rules, were initially adopted by the Superior Courts of Alameda, Contra Costa, Marin, San Francisco, San Mateo, Solano, and Sonoma Counties, but have not been adopted by the Superior Courts of either Napa or Santa Clara County. However, in certain of these counties, some of the uniform rules have been superseded by more particularized local rules, making it necessary for counsel to verify the extent to which each of the foregoing counties currently adheres to the uniform rules [cf., e.g., San Francisco Uniform Local Ct. Rules, Rule 11; Alameda Co. Coordinated Local Ct. Rules, Rule 11; Contra Costa Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 12]. Thus, a knowledge of each county's local rules is essential.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild SupportGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportCosts & Attorney FeesFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceJurisdictionGeneral OverviewFamily

LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral OverviewGovernmentsCourtsRule Application & Interpretation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222

Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART I. SCOPE

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.03

§ 220.03 Civil Remedies Concerning Break-Up of Marital Relationship

Although spouses are permitted by statute, on prescribed grounds, to seek a judgment of marital dissolution, legal separation, or nullity of marriage [see Fam. Code §§ 2210 (nullity), 2310 (separation or dissolution)], no civil cause of action currently exists to remedy the personal anger, disappointment, or frustration that may have been occasioned by a spouse's infidelity or break-up of the parties' personal relationship. By statute, no cause of action arises for: (a) alienation of affection; (b) criminal conversation; (c) seduction of a person over the age of legal consent; or (d) breach of promise of marriage [Civ. Code § 43.5]. Furthermore, a fraudulent promise to marry or to cohabit after marriage does not give rise to a cause of action for damages [Civ. Code § 43.4; see In re Marriage of Buckley (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 927, 931-934, 184 Cal. Rptr. 290] . However, spouses are otherwise generally free to assert tort causes of action against one another [see Klein v. Klein (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 692, 693, 26 Cal. Rptr. 102, 376 P.2d 70 ; Self v. Self (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 683, 689-691, 26 Cal. Rptr. 97, 376 P.2d 65 ; Dale v. Dale (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1172, 1175, 1187, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 513] .

For discussion of fraud in connection with obtaining consent to marry or regarding cohabitation after marriage as a ground for annulment, see Ch. 25, Annulment (Nullity) of Marriage and Related Spousal Rights . For discussion of remedies for a spouse's breach of fiduciary responsibilities in connection with the management and control of community property, see Ch. 122, Community Property .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Duties & RightsCauses of ActionAlienation of AffectionFamily LawMarital Duties & RightsCauses of ActionBreach of Promise to MarryFamily LawMarital Duties & RightsCauses of ActionCriminal ConversationsTortsIntentional TortsInterference With Personal RelationshipsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART I. SCOPE

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.04

§ 220.04 Purpose of Proceeding for Dissolution or Separation

The purpose of a proceeding for marital dissolution is to dissolve the marriage and restore the parties to the status of single persons, divide the community estate, determine the custody of children, and, if the respondent is subject to the court's personal jurisdiction, settle the parties' financial responsibilities regarding spousal and child support.

A proceeding for legal separation has the same general purposes as that for marital dissolution, except that a judgment of legal separation does not terminate the parties' marital status. Thus, legal separation is essentially a device to determine and settle the spouses' financial responsibilities to one another and to their minor children, as well as to determine child custody. A judgment of legal separation might be sought for religious or other personal reasons, such as the ability to retain certain spousal health or survivor benefits. A party might also initially petition for legal separation when the state or county residency requirements for a dissolution proceeding have not yet been met, and then amend the petition to seek dissolution when residency is established [see Fam. Code §§ 2320, 2321].

For discussion of the grounds for marital dissolution and legal separation, and of the procedure involved in dissolution and separation proceedings, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure . For discussion of the purpose of and procedure involved in a proceeding for nullity of marriage, see Ch. 25, Annulment (Nullity) of Marriage and Related Spousal Rights .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal Separation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222

Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART I. SCOPE

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.05

§ 220.05 Cross References

For discussion of adoption and related forms, see Chs. 12, Adoptions: Nature and Effect , 12A, Adoptions: Termination of Parental Rights , 12B, Adoptions: Unmarried Minors , 12C, Adoptions: Adults and Married Minors , 12D, Adoptions: Amendment and Inspection of Records , and 12E, Adoptions: Attack on Decree

For discussion of the grounds for annulling a marriage and forms for use in a nullity proceeding, see Ch. 25, Annulment (Nullity) of Marriage and Related Spousal Rights

For discussion of multiple-party accounts in banks, savings and loans, and other financial institutions, including accounts of married persons, see Ch. 95, Banks, Deposits, and Checks

For discussion of the characterization of community property, spousal rights of management and control of community property, and forms for use in a proceeding to remedy a breach of related interspousal duties, see Ch. 122, Community Property

For discussion and related forms for the emancipation of minors, see Ch. 245, Emancipation of Minors

For discussion and related forms for use in the enforcement of California and out-of-state family law judgments and orders, see Chs. 258, Fam . Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies, 259, Fam. Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement, and 260, Fam. Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments

For discussion of guardianship and conservatorship and related forms, see Ch. 280, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Guardians , through Ch. 290H, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Termination of Guardianships and Conservatorships

For discussion of obtaining restraining orders against domestic violence without filing a family law petition, and of restraints against general harassment and related forms, see Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence

For discussion of the rights of parties in proceedings to adjudge a minor a dependent of the court, see Ch. 328: Juvenile Courts: Dependency Proceedings

For discussion of the validity and legal effects of marriage and related forms, see Ch. 359, Marriage

For discussion of tort actions involving parent and child, see Ch. 367A, Minors: Tort Actions

For discussion of contract matters involving minors and related forms, see Ch. 365, Minors: Contract Actions

For discussion of child custody and support proceedings not involving marital dissolution proceedings, and related forms, see Ch. 394, Parent and Child

For discussion of grounds for establishing parentage of a child and related forms, see Ch. 412, Paternity

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawAdoptionGeneral OverviewFamily LawDelinquency & DependencyDependency ProceedingsFamily LawGuardiansGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportAnnulmentGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationCommunity Property

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART I. SCOPE

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 220.06-220.09

[Reserved]

§§ 220.06[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222

Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
A. Preliminary Considerations

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.10

§ 220.10 Determine Scope of Legal Action Required

1. Choose the proceeding that affords the client the most expeditious and complete relief.

a. Determine whether the client has an immediate need for relief, particularly if domestic violence or a threatened removal of a child is involved.

(1) If a married client wishes to remain married, but is experiencing domestic violence, consider an application under Fam. Code § 6200 et seq. to obtain a restraining order, along with any related custody, or dwelling exclusion order. Advise the client about the availability of emergency protective orders [see Fam. Code § 6250 et seq.]. For a discussion of ex parte and related relief, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure , and Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence .

(2) If the client is unmarried, the same general type of relief from domestic violence is available [see Fam. Code § 6221; see also Fam. Code § 6211 (defining "domestic violence" broadly, to include nonmarital situations)].

b. If a married client wishes to remain married but desires exclusive custody of a child, or seeks an accounting of the use or disposition of community property, counsel can bring an appropriate alternative proceeding instead of a dissolution [see Fam. Code §§ 1101, 3120].

c. If residency requirements for a dissolution cannot presently be met, consider petitioning initially for legal separation and then converting the proceeding to one for dissolution when the residency requirements are met [see Fam. Code §§ 2320, 2321; see also Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure].

(1) Legal separation also may be desired by a client on religious grounds; or by a client who fears the eventual loss of some benefit that is contingent on remaining married, as discussed in Item 2, below.

(2) If the client's sole objective is to obtain a legal separation, point out that if the other party objects, that party can respond by requesting dissolution [see Fam. Code §§ 2345, 2347].

d. If annulment is desired, ascertain if the proper grounds exist, and if the time limits within which to file a nullity petition can be met [see Fam. Code § 2200 et seq.], as discussed in Ch. 25, Annulment (Nullity) of Marriage and Related Spousal Rights . In some cases, nullity may be requested in a petition as an alternative to dissolution [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.114].

e. If an action for dissolution, legal separation, or for the support of children has already been filed and the parties had another child before or after final judgment, consider filing a supplemental complaint seeking an order of paternity or support for that child. The court may consolidate support orders, arrearages of support and wage assignments [see Fam. Code §§ 2330.1, 3651(b)].

2. Ascertain whether the client will be adversely affected by bringing a family law proceeding.

a. Find out, for example, if the client faces a possible loss of health care or similar benefits after a dissolution, and if the client has special health problems that necessitate regular care.

b. Find out whether the client, if divorced, will still be entitled to any "derivative" Social Security benefits [see 42 U.S.C. §§ 402(b), 416(d)].

c. Find out if the client has an immigration status that depends on being married for a certain period. Some clients may have only a type of provisional residence visa that is related to the duration of the marriage [see generally 8 U.S.C. § 1186a].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportAnnulmentGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal Separation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
A. Preliminary Considerations

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.11

§ 220.11 Make Fee Arrangements

1. Reduce all fee agreements to writing, even if complex litigation is not anticipated. For a form of attorney's fees agreement, see Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 216 (Matthew Bender 2d ed.).

a. A writing is required by statute with respect to agreements in which it is reasonably foreseeable that the total expense to the client, including attorney's fees, will exceed $1,000 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6148(a), (e)].

b. As a matter of suggested practice, clarify that execution and return of the agreement must take place before counsel's services will commence.

c. At the time the contract is entered into, provide a duplicate copy of the contract signed by both the attorney and the client, or the client's guardian or representative, to the client or to the client's guardian or representative [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6148(a)].

2. Collect from the client fees and costs that are reasonably necessary to commence and prosecute the litigation; deposit these in a segregated client trust account that complies with state law [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6211 et seq.].

a. If counsel has agreed to take the case on the basis that fees and costs will be paid if and when they are recovered from the opposing party, ensure that this is clearly expressed in the fee agreement, as well as whether counsel will advance costs [see Fam. Code § 270 et seq.; Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 4-210].

b. Consider whether an indigent client may proceed in forma pauperis [see Gov. Code §§ 68630-68641; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.50-3.58; Cruz v. Superior Court (2004) 120 Cal.

App. 4th 175, 187-191, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 917 (hearing on applicant's eligibility for fee waiver)].

c. If a client owns an interest in community real property and is unable to pay attorney's fees, the client may wish to consider the possibility of securing payment by granting a lien on the property in favor of counsel. This is known as a "family law attorney's real property lien" and attaches only to the encumbering party's interest in the community real property [see Fam. Code §§ 1102(e), 2033].

(1) Before entering into an arrangement for a family law attorney's real property lien, counsel must follow Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-300, setting forth conditions for entering into a business transaction with, or of knowingly acquiring an ownership, possessory, security, or other pecuniary interest adverse to, a client [see Fam. Code § 2033(e)].

(2) Before recording the lien, counsel must also follow the statutory requirements for notice of the lien to the opposing party or counsel, who is permitted by statute to object to the lien's imposition, as discussed in Ch. 226, Dissolution of Marriage: Attorney's Fees [see Fam. Code § 2033(b), (c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportCosts & Attorney FeesFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal SeparationLegal EthicsClient RelationsAttorney FeesFee Agreements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
A. Preliminary Considerations

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.12

§ 220.12 Prepare Any Special Notices

1. If a family law proceeding is being filed, prepare and send a notice of the client's adverse interest in any retirement or pension benefits being acquired by the opposing party through employment, as discussed in Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure [see Fam. Code § 755(c)].

2. Prepare and send a statutory notice to insurers directing them to maintain the current beneficiaries under health, life, or disability insurance policies of one or both parties [see Fam. Code § 2050].

3. Evaluate the need to record a notice of pending litigation (lis pendens) with respect to any parcel of real property held in the name of one or both spouses [see Code Civ. Proc. § 405.20].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesLis PendensNoticesFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal SeparationHealthcare LawInsuranceGeneral OverviewInsurance LawLife InsuranceGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
A. Preliminary Considerations

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.13

§ 220.13 Assess Need to Sever Joint Tenancies

1. Consider severing any joint tenancies of the spouses, particularly in real property, pending the outcome of the litigation, to avoid the possible transfer on death of the client's interest to the other spouse by operation of law [see In re Marriage of Hilke (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 215, 222-224, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 371, 841 P.2d 891 ; see Fam. Code § 2040(e) (summons must contain warning regarding effect of jointly held real property ownership if either party dies before that property is divided)].

2. Follow the statutory provisions to sever the joint tenancy, if the other party does not consent to severance [see, e.g., Civ. Code § 683.2 (real property)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationMarital PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal SeparationReal Property LawEstatesConcurrent OwnershipJoint Tenancies

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
A. Preliminary Considerations

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 220.14-220.19

[Reserved]

§§ 220.14[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
B. Commencing a New Proceedings (Petitioner's Checklist)

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.20

§ 220.20 Determine Jurisdiction and Venue

1. Ascertain if state and county residency requirements have been met by one or both spouses in order to meet jurisdictional requirements for bringing a dissolution proceeding [see Fam. Code § 2320].

a. If residency requirements for marital dissolution have not been met, consider petitioning for legal separation and then amending the petition to one for dissolution [see Fam. Code § 2321].

b. Alternatively, consider deferring the filing of the petition until the residency requirements are met, keeping in mind the client's need to obtain immediate relief in certain cases.

2. Be alert to different venue requirements depending on the nature of the proceeding.

a. In a dissolution or legal separation proceeding, venue is proper in the county in which either the petitioner or respondent resides at the commencement of the proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 397 (grounds for change of venue)].

b. The proper venue for trial of a nullity action is the county in which either the petitioner or respondent resides when the petition is filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a)].

c. Other venue provisions may apply if the respondent resides outside California, resides in a California county that is unknown to the petitioner, or is about to depart from the state [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a)].

3. Determine if the court has jurisdiction to hear child custody matters, particularly if the children have been only recently brought into California, or if they currently reside outside of California. Advise the client that custody jurisdiction cannot be conferred on the court merely by the parties' consent. It must be established as required by the governing statutes [see Fam. Code §§ 2010, 3022, 3400 et seq.; 28 U.S.C. § 1738A]. For discussion of jurisdictional standards, see Ch. 394, Parent and Child .

4. Ascertain if personal jurisdiction can be obtained over the other party:

a. In order to impose a personal obligation, such as an order to pay child or spousal support, or attorney's fees and costs [see generally Burnham v. Superior Court of Cal. (1990) 495 U.S. 604, 110 S. Ct. 2105, 109 L. Ed. 2d 631, 638-639 ; Kulko v. Superior Court (1978) 436 U.S. 84, 91, 98 S. Ct. 1690, 56 L. Ed. 2d 132, 140] . However, personal jurisdiction over a parent who resides out of state is not necessary to make a binding custody determination, if the court has subject matter jurisdiction over the custody dispute pursuant to the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act and the Parental Kidnapping Prevention Act [Fam. Code § 3421 et seq.; 28 U.S.C. § 1738A; cf. In re Marriage of Torres (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1367, 1378, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 344 (under former UCCJA, out-of-state parent must receive notice and opportunity to be heard, but personal jurisdiction unnecessary)].

b. In order to divide the community interest in a military service member's longevity retirement or pension benefits, as discussed in Ch. 222, Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation [see 10 U.S.C. § 1408].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureVenueIndividual DefendantsFamily LawChild CustodyJurisdictionSubject Matter JurisdictionFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceJurisdictionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationRetirement BenefitsPensionsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal Separation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
B. Commencing a New Proceedings (Petitioner's Checklist)

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.21

§ 220.21 Initial Pleadings and Papers

1. Prepare pleadings to initiate the proceeding. Typically, these will at least include:

☐ Family law petition [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-100].

☐ Family law summons [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-110].

a. The initial pleadings might also include an expanded Declaration Under the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act (Form FL-105), as well as a Property Declaration, and Income and Expense Declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-150, FL-155, FL-160].

b. Some type of immediate relief may be needed that is not provided for by orders that are set forth on the back of the family law summons [see Fam. Code § 2040; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-110]. In urgent cases, seek ex parte relief.
(1) Ex parte relief requires the filing of additional forms [see, e.g., Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-300 (Order to Show Cause), FL-305 (Temporary Orders), FL-310 (Application for Order and Supporting Declaration)].

(2) Follow any special procedure prescribed by local court rules regarding the filing of the moving papers for ex parte relief [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 14.2]. Check any local court rules pertaining to notice requirements to the opposing side with respect to ex parte matters.

(3) If child custody or visitation is expected to be contested, ascertain whether local practice requires the inclusion, along with other papers to be served on the opposing party, of a standardized notice form (provided by the court) regarding mandatory mediation [see generally Fam. Code § 3170].

c. Determine the need for joinder of a third party, as discussed in [see § 220.32, see also Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure .

d. If the proceeding was initiated after December 31, 1994, counsel must sign all papers presented to the court. By so signing, counsel certifies that the papers are not frivolous, designed to delay or harass, or unwarranted by the facts, and subjects himself or herself to statutory provisions for sanctions [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a), (b); for discussion of sanctions, see Ch. 226, Dissolution of Marriage: Attorney's Fees].

2. File the pleadings and papers:

☐ Pay the filing fees, unless the client has applied for and been granted permission to proceed in forma pauperis [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.50-3.58], or the application is for certain relief against domestic violence [see Fam. Code § 6222].

☐ File the original petition, along with any related custody declaration, applicable property and financial declarations, and any original confidential counseling statement required.

☐ Present to the court clerk the summons that will be "issued" by the clerk.

☐ Obtain from the court clerk at least three or four "endorsed-filed" copies of all documents filed, along with the original and several copies of the summons that have the case number stamped on them.

3. Consider the need for making an immediate challenge to the judge after the filing of the petition, if an ex parte order may be contested or in courts in which a judge is assigned "for all purposes" at the commencement of the case. In certain courts, letting the judge adjudicate an issue will preclude a later challenge; thus, counsel must follow the procedure set forth by statute and local rules in this regard [see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6].

4. Arrange for service of a copy of the summons, petition, and related moving papers (and corresponding blank responsive forms) on the opposing party. For discussion of the requirements for service, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure [see Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10 et seq.].

5. On completion of proper service, file the original summons and a proof of service with the court clerk. Obtain "endorsed-filed" copies of the summons and proof of service for counsel's file.

6. Prepare and serve a preliminary declaration of disclosure of assets and liabilities [see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure].

a. Except by court order for good cause, after or concurrently with service of the family law petition, each party must serve on the other a preliminary declaration of disclosure. The declaration must be executed under penalty of perjury on the mandatory Judicial Council form. It must not be filed with the court, except on court order [see Fam. Code § 2104(a)-(c); see also Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-140 (form)].

b. Each party must also provide the other with a completed income and expense declaration [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150], unless an income and expense declaration has already been provided and is current and valid [see Fam. Code § 2104(e)].

c. File proof of service of the preliminary declaration of disclosure and income and expense declaration with the court [Fam. Code §§ 2103, 2104(b)]. For an illustrative, filled-in version of the mandatory proof of service form, see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-141 (declaration of service form).

d. Note that if written disclosure of an investment, business, or other income-producing opportunity will be made pursuant to statute, the disclosure may need to be made in a particular case at an earlier time than that generally required for the preliminary declaration of disclosure [see Fam. Code § 2102(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsComplaintsFiling FeesFamily LawChild CustodyEnforcementUniform Child Custody Jurisdiction & Enforcement ActFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal Separation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
B. Commencing a New Proceedings (Petitioner's Checklist)

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.22

§ 220.22 Join Parties to Proceeding

1. Consider the need for joining as a party any of the following persons, using the procedure outlined in Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure [see Fam. Code § 2021; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.154; see also Fam. Code § 3425(c); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.158(a)]:

a. Any person who has in his or her possession or control, or who claims to own, any property subject to the court's jurisdiction in the proceeding.

b. Any person who has or claims custody or physical control of, or visitation rights with, any minor child of the marriage.

2. Consider joining any employee benefit plan that administers pension, retirement, or other employee benefits to which a party may be entitled [see Fam. Code §§ 2021, 2060 et seq.; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.162]. As a matter of routine practice, joinder is strongly recommended [see Ch. 222, Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation].

3. Note that a court must order joined as a party any person it discovers has physical custody or claims custody or visitation rights regarding any minor child of the marriage [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.158; see also Fam. Code § 3410]. Additional rules authorize third parties to seek joinder to the proceeding, based on their claim to an interest in property or in child custody or visitation [see generally Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.150-5.152, 5.154(b), (c), 5.158].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePartiesInterventionGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild CustodyJurisdictionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination

& Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationRetirement BenefitsPensionsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal Separation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
B. Commencing a New Proceedings (Petitioner's Checklist)

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 220.23-220.29

[Reserved]

§§ 220.23[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
C. Responding to the Proceedings (Respondent's Checklist)

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.30

§ 220.30 Evaluate Need for Responsive Pleadings

1. Examine the petition and related pleadings that have been served on the client. In general, a response [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-120] should be served and filed to prevent entry of a default against the client and to secure the relief that he or she needs.

a. A respondent who seeks no relief other than to have his or her former name restored could file a response seeking that relief only, but this is not necessary or recommended, given the ex parte application procedure available for that purpose [see Fam. Code § 2080 et seq.; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-395].

b. File a response simultaneously with a motion to quash service of summons if the client wishes to challenge the court's exercise of personal jurisdiction over him or her [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(e)]. Filing the motion and response simultaneously does not constitute a general appearance unless and until the court denies the motion and enters an order denying the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(e)(1); cf. In re Marriage of Torres (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1367, 1380-1381, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 344 (nonresident parent who contests only pendente lite custody and visitation orders is not subject to court's general jurisdiction)]. For discussion of challenging jurisdiction, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure .

2. Determine whether pleadings should be filed in response to an order to show cause or notice of motion brought by the petitioner. In general, counsel should prepare, serve, and file responsive pleadings, even if he or she is in agreement with some or all of the orders the petitioner has sought.

3. Discuss with the client and opposing counsel the desirability of stipulating to case management [see Fam. Code § 2450, 2451].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePretrial MattersConferencesCase ManagementFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceJurisdictionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal Separation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
C. Responding to the Proceedings (Respondent's Checklist)

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.31

§ 220.31 Prepare, Serve, and File Responsive Pleadings

1. Prepare at a minimum the following pleadings and papers, unless the client wishes to challenge the court's exercise of personal jurisdiction over him or her:

☐ Response [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-120].

☐ Related financial and property declarations, if relevant to the relief requested in the response and the client has sufficient information to present them [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.128; see also Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-150 (Income and Expense Declaration), FL-155 (Financial Statement (Simplified)), FL-160 (Property Declaration)].

a. Note that in the Response, the client may agree with the petitioner's choice of overall relief with respect to the status of marriage (namely, dissolution, separation, or nullity), or may wish to request other relief. For example, if the petitioner sought a legal separation, the client may respond by requesting a marital dissolution [see Fam. Code §§ 2345, 2347].

b. In the response, the client also may seek all other affirmative relief appropriate to his or her situation, such as child custody, child or spousal support, attorney's fees and costs, and a division of marital property. For a complete explanation of completing the response, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure .

2. Prepare a responsive declaration to any order to show cause or notice of motion initiated by the petitioner [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-320].

a. This declaration should be used to indicate the respondent's assent to, or disagreement with, any of the orders proposed, and to request the respondent's own orders if these pertain to the same issues as those raised by the petitioner [see Fam. Code § 213].

b. File a separate order to show cause or notice of motion if the client wishes to obtain court orders on issues that are different from those raised by the petitioner, or if the client is seeking immediate ex parte relief.

3. If child or spousal support, or attorney's fees and costs are at issue, prepare income and expense and property declarations [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-150, FL-155, FL-160], unless they were already prepared in connection with the response.

4. Serve a copy of all responsive pleadings [see generally Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1012, 1013, 1013a; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.10].

5. File the original versions of the response, the declaration of mailing (or other proof of service), and all other responsive pleadings and declarations within the time provisions set forth by statute, or court rule [see Fam. Code § 2020; see also Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure].

a. Filing a response to the petition will entail paying a required court filing fee, as this is generally the respondent's "first paper" in the proceeding.

b. If the client is indigent, file an application to proceed in forma pauperis [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.50-3.63].

6. Prepare and serve a preliminary declaration of disclosure of assets and liabilities. The declaration must be executed under penalty of perjury on the mandatory Judicial Council form [see Fam. Code § 2104; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-140].

a. It must not be filed with the court, except on court order, but proof of service of the preliminary declaration of disclosure must be filed with the court [see Fam. Code § 2104]. For an illustrative, filled-in version of the required declaration of service form, see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-141.

b. Along with the preliminary declaration of disclosure, each party must provide the other with a completed income and expense declaration [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150], unless an income and expense declaration has already been provided and is current and valid [Fam. Code § 2104(e)].

c. If written disclosure of an investment, business, or other income-producing opportunity will be made, that disclosure may need to be made in a particular case at an earlier time than that required for the preliminary declaration [see Fam. Code § 2102].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePretrial MattersConferencesCase ManagementFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
C. Responding to the Proceedings (Respondent's Checklist)

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.32

§ 220.32 Join Parties to Proceeding

1. Consider joining as a party any person who has in his or her possession or control, or who claims to own, any property subject to the court's jurisdiction in the proceeding, or who has or claims custody or physical control of, or visitation rights with, any minor child of the marriage [see Fam. Code §§ 2021, 3425(c); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.154, 5.158(a), (b); see also Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure].

2. Consider joining any employee benefit plan that administers pension, retirement, or other employee benefits to which a party may be entitled [see Fam. Code §§ 2021, 2060 et seq.; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.162]. In general, joinder is strongly recommended.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureParties Joinder Permissive JoinderFamily LawChild CustodyGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild CustodyProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationRetirement BenefitsPensions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
C. Responding to the Proceedings (Respondent's Checklist)

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.33

§ 220.33 Challenge Improper Pleadings or Proceedings, or Entry of Default

1. Move to strike matter in the petition if it was improperly included, such as an issue or a cause of action that is not authorized in the Family Code [see Code Civ. Proc. § 435].

2. Move to quash the proceeding if, for example, the residency requirements set forth by statute [see Fam. Code § 2320] for bringing the petition have not been met, or there is already a pending action between the parties regarding the termination of their marriage [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.121].

3. Move to quash service of summons if, for example, the court lacks personal jurisdiction over the respondent [see Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(a)]. A motion to quash service of summons is not deemed to be a general appearance by the respondent [see Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(d); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.120(a) (respondent appears by filing response, notice of motion to strike, notice of motion to quash proceeding, notice of motion to transfer proceeding, or written notice of appearance). A respondent may move to quash service of summons and simultaneously respond [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(e)]. Filing neither the motion nor the response under this procedure constitutes a general appearance unless and until the court denies the motion and enters an order denying the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(e)(1)].

4. Move to transfer (change venue) if, for example, the court in which the proceeding has been filed is not the proper court, or the change is needed to promote the convenience of witnesses and the ends of justice [see Code Civ. Proc. § 397].

5. Move to set aside the entry of a default and/or default judgment that has been entered against the client in order to file a response, as discussed in Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure and Ch. 489, Relief From Judgments and Orders [see Code Civ. Proc. § 473; see also Fam. Code § 2120 et seq.].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJurisdictionPersonal Jurisdiction & In Rem ActionsIn Personam ActionsChallengesCivil ProcedureVenueMotions to TransferGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticeDefenses, Demurrers & ObjectionsMotions to StrikeGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePretrial JudgmentsDefaultRelief From DefaultFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
C. Responding to the Proceedings (Respondent's Checklist)

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 220.34-220.39

[Reserved]

§§ 220.34[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
D. Preparing for O.S.C./Motion Hearing

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.40

§ 220.40 Preliminary Discovery and Fact Gathering

1. Obtain all documentation that the client is not otherwise able to furnish relevant to the subject of the hearing. If feasible, contact opposing counsel to informally obtain documents from the opposing party. Obtain the documentation illustrated for the following specific issues.

a. For temporary child or spousal support, or attorney's fees and costs, obtain items such as:

☐ Recent payroll vouchers ("pay stubs") for both parties (if both are employed).

☐ Income tax returns (state and federal) for the past year or other relevant period [see Fam. Code § 3552].

☐ Latest account check registers and statements for all bank, savings, and similar accounts.

☐ Recent loan applications.

☐ Documents establishing or reflecting each party's common monthly expenses, such as credit card bills, mortgage statements, medical bills, and the like, and canceled checks showing the payment of bills.

☐ Any other documents required to be furnished by local court rule [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 14.6].

b. For temporary child custody, obtain items such as:

☐ Documentation relating to the child's health and well-being. If physical abuse is at issue, obtain copies of any related police reports, medical records and related treatment bills, and written declarations of any witnesses.

☐ Birth certificates, if needed to apply for public assistance.

☐ School attendance records, if needed to establish a pattern of absences due, for example, to physical abuse.

☐ School counseling records, if needed to establish a report of abuse or other conflict affecting the child.

c. For temporary control of an asset, obtain items such as:

☐ Documentation showing ownership of the asset and payments that are still owed.

☐ For a vehicle, also obtain documentation of its registration and the existence of liability insurance.

d. For a restraining order on personal conduct (not provided for in the summons), obtain items such as the following:

☐ Police reports concerning domestic violence.

☐ Related medical treatment reports and bills, if the client or a child was abused.

☐ Residential telephone bills, to the extent they help document the making of annoying calls made from the parties' residence, or billed to the residential telephone number.

2. Interview the client and any other persons who can offer testimony helpful to the client in establishing the basis for the relief sought.

3. If the opposing party has not voluntarily provided needed information, serve a formal discovery request, provided there is sufficient time before the hearing. Discovery for the purpose of preparing for trial in the underlying proceeding is discussed in § 220.50. For a complete overview of discovery in family law matters, see Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, ch. 110 (Matthew Bender 2d ed.).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild CustodyGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportCosts & Attorney FeesFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution

& DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
D. Preparing for O.S.C./Motion Hearing

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.41

§ 220.41 Mediation of Custody and Visitation Issues

1. Confirm with the client that he or she has made contact with mediation personnel designated by the court, such as Family Court Services, and is otherwise complying with the mandatory mediation requirements before the hearing [see Fam. Code § 3170 et seq.].

2. Obtain the mediator's report and recommendation, in counties that provide for them [see Fam. Code § 3183; see also Fam. Code § 3111 (custody investigation report)]. These may not be available until shortly before the hearing, and counsel should ascertain the local practice in this regard.

3. Find out if the mediator will testify, although this will not be the usual case at a hearing on temporary orders. More frequently, in so-called "nonconfidential counties," if a recommendation is to be made by the mediator, he or she may confer in chambers with both counsel and the judge prior to the hearing. In so-called "confidential counties," the mediator does not confer with the judge. For discussion of mandatory mediation, see Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAlternative Dispute ResolutionMediationsFamily LawAlternative Dispute ResolutionMediationFamily LawChild CustodyGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild CustodyGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
D. Preparing for O.S.C./Motion Hearing

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.42

§ 220.42 Appearance of Counsel and Client

1. Ascertain prior to the hearing date, if possible, the identity of the judge before whom the hearing will be held. Be prepared to bring a motion to disqualify the judge if the appropriate statutory grounds are met [see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1 et seq.].

NOTE:
If a motion will be made pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6, counsel should strictly follow the times set forth in the statute and local rules for bringing the motion. The date on which the case is been assigned to a judge "for all purposes" under the local court rules is particularly important, because the period within which the motion may be brought may be measured from the time of the assignment. This may be early in the case [see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(2); Shipp v. Superior Court (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 147, 151-152, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 685] .

2. Be prepared to raise any jurisdictional defect or defense at the hearing that pertains to the need for the client to appear for the hearing. This should already have been set forth in the client's responsive pleadings or papers to the court [see § 220.31].

3. Both the client and counsel generally should attend the hearing, if an appearance is otherwise proper. The client should be prepared to testify and explain any of the declarations he or she has presented to the court.

4. Be prepared to confer with the opposing counsel or unrepresented party before the commencement of the hearing in order to arrive at a time estimate and to attempt to reach a stipulation on as many outstanding issues as possible. Such a "meet and confer" requirement may also be set forth by local court rules.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudicial OfficersJudgesDisqualifications & RecusalsGroundsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceJurisdictionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
D. Preparing for O.S.C./Motion Hearing

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.43

§ 220.43 Conduct of Hearing and Rendition of Order

1. Present any partial stipulation on the issues. Local practice may vary, but the judge may wish to have the stipulation stated for the record or presented in writing prior to hearing evidence on any remaining contested matters.

2. Be ready to stipulate to the admission of the parties' declarations, subject to cross-examination of the party if the court will permit it. Local court rules may even deem the declarations admitted subject to legal objection, amendment, or cross-examination.

3. Prepare, as a time-saving device, to make "offers of proof" concerning matters to which, if the client were sworn as a witness, he or she would testify. This is the practice in some courts.

4. At the hearing's conclusion, and pursuant to the court's direction, prepare a written version of the court's order.

a. In general, the order should be prepared using the Judicial Council form of Findings and Order After Hearing and its appropriate attachments [see Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-340-FL-344], as discussed in Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure .

b. The order prepared by counsel should be sent to the opposing attorney for approval concerning its form and content, and signature; it then would be returned to counsel for submission to the judge for signature and filing.

c. Serve a conformed, "endorsed-filed" copy of the signed order by mail on the opposing attorney (or unrepresented party), as discussed in Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure . Personal service of the order on the opposing party may be advisable in some cases.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsStipulationsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceJurisdictionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
D. Preparing for O.S.C./Motion Hearing

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.44

§ 220.44 Special Considerations in Bringing Certain Pretrial Motions

1. Motion for Bifurcation

a. Move to bifurcate issues for trial when an early termination of marital status is needed, or when the trial of a particular issue is more effectively decided separately from the trial of other issues [see Fam. Code § 2337; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.175]. Issues that might be bifurcated include [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.175(c)]:

(1) Validity of a premarital or postmarital agreement.

(2) Date of parties' separation.

(3) Date for valuation of assets.

(4) Characterization of particular property as separate or community.

(5) Apportionment of increases in business value.

(6) Existence or value of business or professional goodwill.

b. Use the mandatory Judicial Council form of Request for Separate Trial [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-315 (Form 21)] and the standard noticed motion procedure described in Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure to bring the motion, unless there is a stipulation to bifurcate. The motion must be heard no later than the trial-setting conference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.175(a)]. A preliminary declaration of disclosure with a completed schedule of assets and debts must also be served with the noticed motion, unless it has been served previously, or the parties stipulate in writing to defer its service until a later time [Fam. Code § 2337(b)].

c. Opposing counsel may wish to contest the bifurcation motion, or request that conditions be imposed in granting bifurcation [see Fam. Code § 2337(b)].

2. Motion for Alternate Valuation Date

a. Move for a date of valuation of property other than the date of trial when good cause can be shown for the alternate date [see Fam. Code § 2552].

(1) Some pension or retirement benefits are more properly valued on the date of separation, rather than trial, even though the date of trial is the usual time for valuing such benefits [see Bowman v. Bowman (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 148, 158, 217 Cal. Rptr. 174 ; In re Marriage of Behrens (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 562, 577, 187 Cal. Rptr. 200] .

(2) Consider whether a law or similar professional practice, particularly one having a single practitioner or small number of partners, should be valued as of the date of separation [see In re Marriage of Green (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 14, 20-21, 261 Cal. Rptr. 294] .

b. Use the mandatory Judicial Council form of Request for Separate Trial [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-315 (Form 21)] and the general noticed motion procedure described in Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure to bring the motion, giving at least 30 days' notice [see Fam. Code § 2552(b)].

c. Opposing counsel may wish to contest the motion if, for example, it appears that good cause cannot, in fact, be established for a valuation date other than trial, or if an asset should otherwise clearly be valued on the date of trial [see Fam. Code § 2552].

3. Motion for Party's Vocational Examination

a. Consider moving to have a party examined by a vocational training counselor when his or her ability to obtain employment is at issue in connection with the determination of spousal support [see Fam. Code § 4331], as discussed in Ch. 225, Dissolution of Marriage: Spousal Support .

b. The examination may be made only for good cause shown, on notice to the party to be examined and all parties, and must specify the time, place, manner, conditions, and scope of the examination, as well as the person or persons by whom it is to be made [Fam. Code § 4331(b)].

c. Opposing counsel may wish to contest the motion, or seek to limit the scope of the order in order to prevent possible harassment of the client.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePretrial MattersSeparate TrialsFamily LawMarital Duties & RightsProperty RightsPostnuptial & Separation AgreementsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Duties & RightsProperty RightsPremarital AgreementsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
D. Preparing for O.S.C./Motion Hearing

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 220.45-220.49

[Reserved]

§§ 220.45[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
E. Preparing for Contested Trial

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.50

§ 220.50 Formal Discovery.

1. Evaluate Need for Discovery

a. Use formal discovery if counsel is unable to obtain documents or information voluntarily from the opposing counsel or unrepresented party.
(1) Contact the opposing counsel and ask if needed documents or information may be voluntarily provided.

(2) Keep a record of all efforts that have been made to obtain voluntary compliance from the opposition with requests for discovery.

b. Note that certain financial information is required by statute or court rule to be furnished by the parties in many instances.

(1) Documents such as income and expense and property declarations [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-150, FL-160] that are required to be filed when appropriate to the relief requested, or in connection with disclosure declarations, often serve as a basis for seeking further information through discovery [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.128].

(2) Tax returns must be furnished by the parties in proceedings concerning child or spousal support [Fam. Code § 3552].

(3) Moreover, local court rules often require the parties to exchange payroll vouchers ("wage stubs") and other related information, particularly if child or spousal support, or attorney's fees and costs are at issue [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 14.6 (order to show cause matters)].

(4) Each party is also required to serve on the other party "preliminary" and "final" declarations of disclosure relating to assets and liabilities, accompanied by a current income and expense declaration [see Fam. Code §§ 2100-2113]. For discussion of disclosure declarations, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure .

c. Perform a search of public records as an alternative, or in addition, to formal discovery of documents relating to such matters as:

- ☐ Real property transactions and county taxes.
- ☐ Birth and death certificates, and marriage licenses.
- ☐ Business and professional licenses.
- ☐ Fictitious business statements.
- ☐ Transfers of businesses ("bulk sales").
- ☐ Issuance of corporate names.
- ☐ Registration and transfer of vehicles and vessels.
- ☐ Records of other court proceedings.
- ☐ Income taxes the client paid.

d. Obtain a standard credit report concerning one or both parties from one of the national credit reporting services.

e. In addition to any formal discovery needed [see Items 2-13, below], consider having the client employ:

(1) A forensic accountant to examine and summarize the parties' business records.

(2) An actuary to appraise pension or retirement plan benefits.

(3) A real property appraiser to value the family home and any other realty owned by the parties.

(4) A private investigator to help document conduct of a party to the extent relevant to child custody or visitation, or to a party's physical ability to work [see Fam. Code §§ 2022, 2335, 4330, 4331].

(5) A personal property appraiser to value any jewelry, art, collectibles, or furnishings.

f. If formal discovery is needed, develop a discovery plan early in the case and tailor all discovery requests to the needs of the case, rather than engaging in broad "boilerplate" requests that may be overinclusive or irrelevant. For a complete discussion of discovery in general, see Ch. 190, Discovery:

Scope, Regulation, and Timing et seq., and DeMeo, California Deposition and Discovery Practice (Matthew Bender). For a general discussion of discovery in family law cases and illustrative forms, including Judicial Council form interrogatories, see Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 111 (Matthew Bender 2d ed.).

2. Discovery Related to Property, Support, Attorney's Fees, and Costs

a. For ownership or characterization of real property, obtain all documents pertaining to its acquisition, sale, lease, or encumbrance by one or both parties (before and after marriage). Also obtain any written agreements between the parties concerning the realty.

(1) Such documents may include:

- ☐ Deeds (including deeds of trust).
- ☐ Title insurance policies.
- ☐ Promissory notes.
- ☐ Sales agreements.
- ☐ Contracts of sale.
- ☐ Leases.
- ☐ Homeowner association agreements.
- ☐ County property tax statements.
- ☐ Annual account statement from secured lenders.
- ☐ Property insurance policies.
- ☐ Loan applications pertaining to the property.
- ☐ Written agreements for major property repairs.
- ☐ Income tax returns.

(2) Also obtain documents evidencing expenditures to purchase, lease, renovate, or repair property, or to pay property taxes and insurance:

- ☐ Canceled checks.

☐ Bank statements.

☐ Savings or related account passbooks.

☐ Copies of money orders or cashier's checks.

(3) Use the following common discovery devices:

☐ Written interrogatories and requests for admissions, to find out about interests the opposing party claims to have, or acknowledges having, in real property [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2030.030, 2033.030, 2033.710; Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-145, FL-142 (optional form interrogatories and schedule of assets and debts)].

☐ Demand for production of documents, to obtain actual copies of documents in the possession of the opposing party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010].

☐ Demand to inspect or enter on land, to physically view the land or a building structure [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010(d)].

☐ Deposition subpoena, to obtain records of the opposing party held by a bank or savings, or similar institution [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.410].

☐ Oral deposition of the opposing party, to clarify the opposing party's allegations concerning the property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.010 et seq.].

b. For ownership and characterization of personal property, obtain all documents pertaining to the acquisition, sale, lease, or encumbrance of the property by one or both parties (before and after marriage). Also obtain any written agreements between the parties concerning the property.

(1) For each motor vehicle, find out the information noted below:

☐ Manufacturer's name and year of production.

☐ Model and color.

☐ License and identification (V.I.N.) numbers.

☐ Sales or lease agreements.

☐ Financing agreements.

☐ Current registration certificate.

☐ Insurance policy.

☐ Canceled checks showing vehicle payments.

☐ Bank or other statements showing payments.

☐ Ownership certificate ("pink slip").

☐ Whether the vehicle has been involved in any recent collisions. If so, obtain copies of any related traffic collision reports from the police agency that made the report.

☐ Whether any claims are pending for property damage or personal injury as a result of a collision involving the vehicle. If so, obtain copies of all correspondence (or, if a court action is pending, all pleadings), involving any such claims.

(2) For each vessel obtain:

☐ Manufacturer's name and year of production.

☐ Model and color.

☐ Vessel registration number.

☐ Vessel serial number.

☐ Other information set out in Item (1), above.

(3) For each mobile home designed for semipermanent installation on land, obtain:

☐ Manufacturer's name and year of production.

☐ Model and color.

☐ Serial and registration numbers.

☐ Space number in mobile home park.

☐ Mobile home park space leasing agreement.

☐ Other information set out in Item (1), above.

(4) For each business, ascertain or obtain:

☐ Business name (including any fictitious name).

☐ Location or locations of the business.

☐ Form of ownership.

☐ When it was acquired or commenced.

☐ Source of funds by which it was acquired.

☐ Source of funds by which it is operated.

☐ Identities and addresses of operators.

☐ Fictitious business statement (if any).

☐ Assets of business.

☐ Liabilities of business.

☐ Existence of professional or business licenses.

☐ Financial statements issued during marriage.

☐ Transfer agreements (bulk sales).

☐ Leases involving the business.

☐ Loans involving the business during marriage.

☐ Current bank statements.

☐ Records of business inventories.

☐ Records of cash receipts and disbursements.

- ☐ Invoices for goods received or shipped.
- ☐ Bills of lading for goods transported.
- ☐ Records of insurance issued for the business.
- ☐ Records of any liability claims.
- ☐ Tax records (income, real/personal property).

(a) If the business operates as a corporation, also ascertain whether it is publicly or privately held and the number of shares of stock issued, and obtain:

- ☐ Stockholders' names and addresses.
- ☐ Officers' names and addresses.
- ☐ Directors' names and addresses.
- ☐ Certificate of incorporation.
- ☐ Articles of incorporation and bylaws.
- ☐ Stock option holders' names and addresses.
- ☐ Stock option agreements.
- ☐ Amounts owed to Department of Corporations.
- ☐ Licensing/certification of operator(s).

(b) If the business is a partnership, also obtain or ascertain:

- ☐ Partners' names and addresses.
- ☐ Partners' participation (general/limited).
- ☐ Written partnership agreement.
- ☐ Type of license needed to operate business.

☐ Name of partner holding operating license.

☐ List of any pending license suspension actions or professional disciplinary actions.

(c) If the business is some type of national franchise, such as a "fast-food" restaurant, ascertain whether the spouse-operator has an actual ownership interest as a franchisee, is earning a salary or wage, and has employee benefits. In addition, obtain:

☐ Any written franchise agreement.

☐ Description of employee/operator benefits:

☐ Stock, stock options, profit-sharing.

☐ Pension or retirement benefits.

☐ Loan agreements by franchise to operator.

(5) For each party who has acquired, or is acquiring, benefits as an employee, or as an owner or operator of a business, obtain:

☐ Pension/retirement plan summary; that is, the periodic statement of the employee's accrued stock, savings, or retirement accounts, including amounts invested on the employee's behalf in mutual funds or other funds, that employers may furnish. Some employees work out of union hiring halls and are paid essentially as independent contractors. Their pension plans may be through a union only; thus, any plan statement or summary must be obtained from the particular union.

☐ Annual summary of employee benefit accounts.

☐ Name and address of any pension plan administrator.

☐ Name and address of any stock purchase plan administrator.

☐ A description of all other employee benefits, including health insurance, life insurance, and disability insurance; obtain summaries explaining these benefits.

(6) For each party who is employed and earns a salary or wage, obtain the following information and items:

☐ The gross pay rate per month, week, or hour (from payroll vouchers--"wage stubs"--or the like).

☐ The frequency of payment.

☐ Deductions from gross income that are made.

☐ Any written contract of employment or independent contractor agreement.

☐ Any formal agreement for payment of commissions or tips.

☐ State and federal income tax returns for the past five years.

(7) When funds are held by one or both parties in bank, savings, credit union, or similar financial institutions, obtain:

☐ Names and addresses of all institutions.

☐ Statements showing current account balances.

☐ Statements showing balance on a date at issue.

☐ Account number for each account.

☐ Names and addresses of all account holders.

☐ Manner of holding each account.

☐ Location, assigned number, and contents of any safe deposit box located in the institution.

☐ Existence of any funds of the parties that are held in the personal (or business) account or safe deposit box of someone other than the parties or their children.

(8) When the parties hold bonds, certificates of deposit, shares of stock, or other similar instruments, ascertain or obtain, as appropriate:

☐ Number and denomination of each kind or class of instrument.

☐ Manner of holding title to each.

☐ Identifying serial number of any contested instrument.

☐ Means of acquiring each.

☐ All canceled checks or bank statements showing the expenditure made to acquire the instrument.

(9) When individual policies of life insurance have been purchased, obtain a copy of each and ascertain:

☐ Face amount of the policy.

☐ Name of the insured and policy owner.

☐ Policy number.

☐ Name and address of insurer.

☐ Name and address of each beneficiary.

☐ Type of insurance (term, whole life, etc.).

☐ Date of issuance and policy period.

☐ Premium amount and frequency of payment.

☐ Whether current premiums have been paid.

(10) When individual policies of medical, hospital, dental, disability, or related insurance are being maintained for the parties or their children, obtain a copy of each (or other evidence of coverage) and ascertain or otherwise obtain:

☐ Name and address of insurer.

☐ Name(s) of the insured.

☐ Policy number (including any group number).

☐ Type of insurance.

☐ Existence of outstanding claims under policy.

☐ All outstanding medical bills with pending insurance claims. If the medical condition of the opposing party is at issue and a physical examination of that party has been ordered, obtain copies of the examination reports [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610].

☐ Any written treatment plan, such as for orthodontic work or psychiatric counseling, that has been devised by the service provider.

(11) When ownership or characterization is at issue of individual items of personal property, such as jewelry, collections, furniture, or other household furnishings, ascertain:

☐ When the item was acquired.

☐ The means by which it was acquired.

☐ If a gift, the name and address of the donor.

☐ If purchased, its cost and place of purchase.

☐ Canceled checks for the purchase.

☐ Bank statements reflecting the purchase.

☐ Savings passbooks reflecting the purchase.

☐ Any purchase or financing agreement.

☐ Bills, credit receipts or statements for the purchase.

☐ The funds or other property used to acquire it.

☐ Date of manufacture and all identifying information.

☐ Any written appraisals that may have been made for insurance or other purposes of jewelry, antiques, or other collectibles.

☐ Any special insurance policy "riders" to insure such jewelry, antiques, or other collectibles.

☐ Location of the item.

(12) For debts of the parties that are not reflected in the documentation of assets discussed above, obtain copies of:

☐ All bills, credit card statements, and the like for debts that are claimed to be outstanding, as well as for debts paid before the parties separated and for which some type of reimbursement is claimed.

☐ Copies of any outstanding judgment and any related documentation showing payments made on each judgment. Ascertain whether there are judgment liens filed against the parties' real property, liens filed by homeowner associations for unpaid association dues, mechanics' liens, or any other types of lien.

☐ Records of any federal bankruptcy filings of the parties during marriage (or during the current family law proceeding).

(13) Use the following common discovery devices:

☐ Written interrogatories and requests for admissions, to find out interests the opposing party claims to have, or acknowledges having, in personal property, or concerning any debt claimed to be outstanding, or for which reimbursement is claimed [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2030.030, 2033.030, 2033.710; Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-145, FL-142 (optional form interrogatories and schedule of assets and debts)].

☐ Demand for production of documents, to obtain actual copies of documents in the possession of the opposing party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010].

☐ Demand to inspect property, to physically view personal property, such as an antique or collectible [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010(c)].

☐ Deposition subpoena, to obtain records of the opposing party held by a bank or savings, or similar institution [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2020.410].

☐ Oral deposition of the opposing party, to clarify the opposing party's allegations concerning the property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.010 et seq.].

3. Discovery Related to Child Custody and Visitation

a. Tailor the discovery plan to the underlying grounds for requesting custody or visitation.

(1) This may encompass a broad range of areas concerning both the parent and child that deal with physical and mental health, child abuse, related domestic violence, and other issues.

(2) Consider the child's total living situation, including the presence of any unrelated third parties who may be dating a parent, sharing the same living quarters as the child and a parent, or providing child care.

(3) Custody and visitation are the major areas in which evidence concerning the conduct of the parties can be relevant to the proceeding, both generally insofar as the conduct is relevant to the best interests of the child, and specifically to the extent that the conduct supports a "history of abuse" by one parent against the child or against the other parent [see Fam. Code § 3011 (factors determining best interests of child)]. Therefore, counsel may seek to gather documentary and testimonial evidence relating to party conduct in addition to other relevant matter.

b. If abusive conduct towards a child is an issue, obtain:

☐ Police reports (including photographs of injuries).

☐ Medical treatment records for the child.

☐ Court records (criminal and juvenile dependency).

☐ Reports of a county probation officer or child protective services agency.

☐ School or day care records, if these establish a pattern of absences due to a child's injuries. Also, there may be records of the child's physical condition from examinations by a school nurse, or records of emotional problems from a school counselor.

c. The same general documentation as that set forth in Item b., above, can and should be obtained if abuse has been directed by one party against the other when a child has been present, such as in the home [see Fam. Code § 3011(b)].

d. If a parent's mental or physical health is at issue with respect to custody or visitation, counsel may move to compel the examination of the parent by a physician and obtain related medical or psychiatric reports [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610].

(1) A party's physical or mental condition may sometimes also be reflected in related police reports.

(2) A party or child also may have been previously committed for psychiatric evaluation, and a report may be on file with the treatment facility as well as with any public agency assisting in the process of taking the person into physical custody.

e. If a child's mental health is at issue, his or her records of medical or psychiatric treatment may be discoverable by either parent on providing a release by the parent to the health care provider.

(1) School records may also be a source of mental health information, to the extent that these records reflect school attendance and the reports of teachers or counselors.

(2) School grades may also be an issue if it is claimed, for example, that a particular custody arrangement is having a negative impact on the child, as reflected in his or her school grades.

f. If a comprehensive custody investigation has been ordered by the court [see Fam. Code § 3111], the investigative report that is issued may contain information that leads counsel to further matters meriting discovery.

g. Use the following common discovery devices:

(1) Written interrogatories and requests for admissions, to find out about the grounds on which a claim of custody or visitation is based, or facts pertaining to these issues that the party claims or acknowledges [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2030.030, 2033.030, 2033.710;

Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-145, FL-142 (optional form interrogatories and schedule of assets and debts)].

(2) Demand for production of documents, to obtain actual copies of relevant documents in the possession of the opposing party, such as school records, birth certificates, medical bills for emergency treatment, and the like [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2031.010(b)].

(3) Deposition subpoena, to obtain records of the opposing party held by a medical provider [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985.3, 2020.410]; alternatively, use a written demand to a party to produce such records when his or her physical or mental examination has been ordered [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2032.610].

(4) Oral deposition of the opposing party or of a third party, to clarify the factual basis for the opposing party's allegations or conduct concerning custody or visitation [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2020.010(a)(1), 2025.010 et seq.].

4. Compel Discovery That Was Improperly Withheld

a. If the opposition has been properly served with a discovery request and has improperly failed or refused to comply, counsel for the proponent may move, using the standard noticed motion procedure [see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure], to compel discovery.

(1) The procedure is contained in each separate section of the Code of Civil Procedure that concerns a particular discovery method, but these sections generally incorporate Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 by reference. It sets forth several types of discovery misuses and the types of sanctions that may be imposed for misuse [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010(d)-(h) (failing to respond to discovery request; making unmeritorious objection or an evasive response; disobeying a court order to provide discovery, opposing unsuccessfully and without substantial justification a motion to compel discovery).

(2) The goal of the motion is to obtain a court order that requires the opponent to comply with the discovery request. In an appropriate case, counsel should seek monetary sanctions for the noncompliance, and should have available all documentation of attempts to obtain discovery [see generally Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.030].

b. Counsel for the party on whom the discovery request has been served may feel that it was improper or overbroad, and seek to resist the request entirely, or to limit the scope of discovery by obtaining a protective order, or sanctions [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2019.030, 2023.010, 2025.420, 2030.090, 2031.060, 2033.080, 2034.250].

c. If the disclosure declarations required by Fam. Code §§ 2103-2105 have not been served by the opposition or the information provided in the declarations is insufficient, follow the procedure outlined by Fam. Code § 2107 to compel compliance as discussed in Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure . If a party fails to comply with any provision of Fam. Code §§ 2103-2105, the court must, in addition to any other remedy provided by law, impose money sanctions against the noncomplying party in an amount sufficient to deter repetition of the conduct or comparable conduct, which must include attorney's fees, costs incurred, or both, unless the court finds that the noncomplying party acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the sanction unjust [Fam. Code § 2107(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild CustodyGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportCosts & Attorney FeesFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
E. Preparing for Contested Trial

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.51

§ 220.51 Evaluate Need for Contested Trial

1. Review the case after discovery is completed with the goal of attempting to resolve as many outstanding issues as possible.

a. Review the pleadings, motions, orders, and material obtained through discovery and any disclosure declarations. Research substantive and procedural legal issues.

b. Contact opposing counsel and determine his or her willingness to stipulate to facts, allegations, or elements that do not appear to be disputed. Document settlement attempts for the purpose of establishing possible bad faith by the opponent in refusing to settle [see Fam. Code § 271].

c. Some local court rules provide procedures for voluntary settlement conferences, as well as a "meet and confer" requirement prior to any mandatory settlement conference.

d. Before making any settlement offers or stipulations (which, of course, should be signed by the client as well as counsel), go over them with the client and explain the merits of the stipulation versus going to trial on the issues involved [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6103.5; Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-510; In re Marriage of Helsel (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 332, 339-340, 243 Cal. Rptr. 657] .

2. Review all appraisals or other reports concerning property that have been prepared by experts retained in the case. Plan to exchange appraisals and other reports that will be the basis of trial testimony in accordance with any local rule. Use the appraisals in settlement discussions.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureSettlementsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
E. Preparing for Contested Trial

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.52

[Reserved]

§ 220.52[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
E. Preparing for Contested Trial

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.53

§ 220.53 Complete Pretrial, Settlement Conference, or Similar Statement, and Final Declaration of Disclosure

1. Prepare, serve, and file, in accordance with local court rule, the pretrial statement, combined pretrial statement and request for admissions, settlement conference statement or similar document in order to apprise the court and the opposing party of counsel's contentions.

a. Some courts require that a pretrial statement or combined pretrial statement/request for admissions be filed before holding any pretrial conferences in "long cause" matters. In some cases, usually involving "short cause" matters, this would be filed before or with an at-issue memorandum [see, e.g., San Francisco City & County Uniform Local Rules of Court, Rule 11.36(A)(1)].

b. Other courts require the filing of a settlement conference statement a prescribed number of days before a mandatory settlement conference is scheduled. Local rules may require the parties to meet and confer in good faith before the statement is prepared and to issue a joint statement, absent leave of court to file a separate statement.

2. Unless a joint statement of the parties will be issued, a party wishing to oppose the statement filed should follow the local rule applicable to contest this pleading. This may take the form of a "reply" pretrial statement or document of a similar kind. Some courts also require the filing of a settlement proposal in a document separate from the pretrial or related statement.

3. Prepare, and service, a final declaration of disclosure concerning assets and liabilities, along with a current income and expense declaration, unless the parties have stipulated to waive service of the final declaration, or there is a court order excusing it for good cause [see Fam. Code §§ 2105, 2106; Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-140, FL-144; see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure].

a. Except by court order for good cause, or the parties' stipulated waiver of the final declaration of disclosure, prior to or at the time the parties enter into an agreement for the resolution of property or support issues other than pendente lite support or, in the event the case goes to trial, no later than 45 days before the first trial date is assigned, each party must serve on the other a final declaration of disclosure and an updated income and expense declaration, unless a current income and expense declaration is on file [see Fam. Code § 2105; In re Marriage of Steiner (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 519, 522, 528, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 671 (parties are not entitled to reversal of judgment or new trial based on their failure to exchange final declarations of disclosure absent showing of miscarriage of justice)].

b. Unless the parties have stipulated under penalty of perjury to waive the final declaration of disclosure requirements, or those requirements have been dispensed with by the court for good cause, no judgment will be entered regarding the parties' property rights without each party, or that party's attorney, having executed and served a copy of the final declaration of disclosure and current income and expense declaration. In addition, each party must execute and file with the court a declaration signed under penalty of perjury stating that service of the final declaration of disclosure and current income and expense declaration was made on the other party, or that service of these items has been waived pursuant to statute [see Fam. Code §§ 2105, 2106; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-141].

c. Notwithstanding the foregoing service requirements for the final declaration, if written disclosure of an investment, business, or other income-producing opportunity is to be made, such a disclosure may need to be made at an earlier time than that required for the final declaration [see, e.g., Fam. Code § 2102(a)(2)]. For discussion of the consequences of failing to comply with the disclosure requirements, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePretrial MattersConferencesPretrial ConferencesFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionProperty Settlements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222

Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
E. Preparing for Contested Trial

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.54

§ 220.54 Attend Mandatory Conferences Before Trial

1. Counsel should anticipate attending a mandatory settlement conference.

a. On a party's request or on the court's own motion, a case may be set for a mandatory settlement conference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1380(a)].

b. Unless excused by the court for good cause, trial counsel and parties must personally attend the conference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1380(b); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(c)(1) (telephone appearance allowed only on court's order)]. When any consent to settle is required for any reason, the party with that consensual authority must be present personally at the conference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1380(b)].

c. No later than five court days before the settlement conference, each party must submit to the court and serve on the other party a mandatory settlement conference statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1380(c)].

2. Consider related pretrial orders that may result from the conference.

a. The court has authority to order certain matters, such as the examination of a long account, heard by a referee [see Code Civ. Proc. § 638 et seq.].

b. It also may order the parties into arbitration when the value of disputed community property does not exceed $50,000, and the parties do not voluntarily agree in writing to a division of that property [see Fam. Code § 2554].

c. A stipulated order to bifurcate certain issues may result from the conference [see Fam. Code § 2337; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.175]. A motion to bifurcate must be heard not later than the trial-setting conference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.175(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAlternative Dispute ResolutionArbitrationsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePretrial MattersConferencesPretrial OrdersCivil ProcedurePretrial MattersSeparate TrialsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222

Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
E. Preparing for Contested Trial

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.55

§ 220.55 Specially Set Trial of Child Custody and Child Support Issues

1. Move, as prescribed by local rules of court, for a special trial setting if the case involves child custody.

a. If child custody is the only contested issue, the case will be given a preference over other civil cases, except matters to which a special precedence is given by law, for assigning a trial date, and will be given an early hearing [Fam. Code § 3023(a)].

b. If custody is one of several contested issues, the court ordinarily must order a separate trial on custody and then give a preference to trial of the custody issue, as described above [Fam. Code § 3023(b)].

2. Move, as prescribed by local rules of court, for a special trial setting if the case involves child support.

a. Whenever child support is at issue, the court may on a showing of good cause order a separate trial on that issue, which will be given preference over other civil matters, except those to which a special preference is given by law, for assigning a trial date [Fam. Code § 4003].

b. If a separate trial has been ordered on child custody, the issues of custody and child support must be tried together [Fam. Code § 4003].

3. The court may have indicated, at a settlement or other conference that it will try either custody or support (or both) separately from other issues in the case.

a. If this is not the case, and no stipulation on a separate trial has been reached, counsel should make a noticed motion to that effect in order to resolve those issues in the child's interest.

b. Counsel should keep in mind, with respect to child custody, that the parties may still be in the process of participating in mandatory mediation with court personnel, or a court-ordered investigation may not yet be completed [see Fam. Code §§ 3111, 3170 et seq.]. Therefore, any trial date on custody should attempt to accommodate those events.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePretrial MattersSeparate TrialsFamily LawAlternative Dispute ResolutionMediationFamily LawChild CustodyGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
E. Preparing for Contested Trial

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.56

§ 220.56 Adjust Trial Date for Good Cause

1. Avoid changing the trial date, unless the change is necessary to accommodate an essential witness or to otherwise present essential evidence.

2. Absent a stipulation between the parties on changing the date, use the noticed motion procedure before trial to move to reset the trial date, or for a continuance of trial [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 9.12 (motion to continue)].

3. An agreement to bifurcate the trial may obviate the need for adjustment of the trial date; thus, bifurcation should be kept in mind as an alternative if the issues involved are amenable to bifurcation [see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePretrial MattersContinuancesCivil ProcedurePretrial MattersSeparate TrialsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
E. Preparing for Contested Trial

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.57

§ 220.57 Prepare Trial Brief

1. Counsel will be required in many counties to prepare, file, and serve a trial brief.

a. A trial brief should concisely set forth a party's statement of the factual and legal issues to be tried, including specific contentions, and applicable points and authorities.

b. It should set out both parties' contentions, a proposed division of property, proposed awards of child custody and visitation, child and spousal support, and attorney's fees and costs, along with supporting authorities.

c. Local court rules may specify the form and contents of the brief, as well as the time for filing and service.

d. Local rules also may require the filing of a settlement proposal with the brief.

2. A trial brief is recommended, even if not required, as an aid to the court and an organizational tool for counsel.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild CustodyGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportCosts & Attorney FeesFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
E. Preparing for Contested Trial

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.58

§ 220.58 Marshal Evidence and Line Up Witnesses

1. Finalize the trial preparation by a complete review of the case.

a. Gather together all tangible physical evidence, such as documents that will be marked as exhibits.

b. Review depositions, interrogatories, and other products of discovery, along with any records of prior court testimony, and the like for possible use as sources of impeachment evidence at trial.
(1) Note that simply because a document was discoverable does not necessarily mean that it will be admissible at trial.

(2) If the opposing counsel will not stipulate to admissibility, consideration should be given on how to make the document admissible. In some instances, it may be necessary to resubpoena the document for use at trial.

c. Use the checklist below as an aid in completing this preparation. Assemble, review, and place originals or copies of the following in appropriate witness and exhibit files:

☐ Contracts, deeds, insurance policies, and financial records that are the basis for property or support claims.

☐ Declarations, letters, and other written statements made, written, prepared, or executed by potential witnesses, especially with regard to expert witnesses.

☐ All other potential exhibits and items of evidence that may support your claims or defenses.

☐ Depositions of parties and witnesses.

☐ Interrogatories and responses.

☐ Demands for production of documents and documents produced in response to each request.

☐ Documents and items of evidence likely to be offered in evidence by opposing parties.

2. Contact the client and verify that he or she will be available to appear at trial.

a. Meet with the client before trial to review the scope of possible courtroom testimony, including a review of any documents the client may be expected to authenticate at trial.

b. If it appears that the client cannot attend, counsel may need to move to reset the trial date or otherwise continue trial.

3. Contact each third-party witness that counsel intends to call to testify at trial.

a. Confirm the date of the appearance and the arrangement for payment of any fees, such as expert witness fees.

b. Meet with each third-party witness and review with him or her the scope of possible trial testimony, especially with respect to any appraisals of property or reports he or she may have prepared in anticipation of trial.

c. If it appears that the witness cannot attend, counsel may need to move to reset the trial date or otherwise continue trial, depending on the importance of the witness to the case.

d. Use the checklist below as an aid in completing this preparation:

☐ Discuss with the witness general matters such as the nature of the proceeding, trial testimony, and procedures, and appropriate dress and courtroom behavior.

☐ Review with the witness major areas to be covered on direct examination.

☐ In the case of an expert witness, review qualifications and wording of hypothetical questions or other questions to be used to elicit opinions.

☐ Review with the witness each exhibit that will be shown to him or her on direct examination; if appropriate, discuss the manner in which he or she will be asked to authenticate or lay a foundation for the exhibit.

☐ Have the witness review his or her deposition, answers to interrogatories, declarations, and other statements in the possession of opposing counsel.

☐ Discuss with the witness the general approach to answering questions on cross-examination.

☐ Review with the witness anticipated areas and lines of cross-examination.

☐ Review with the witness each statement or exhibit that may be used during cross-examination.

e. If a witness has problems communicating in or understanding English, consider whether an interpreter should be used, and if so, make necessary arrangements.

f. Subpoena third-party witnesses who might otherwise be unwilling to voluntarily appear at trial.

(1) The testimony of a police officer, county social worker, or other third party may be needed with respect to a child custody matter, keeping in mind that the client may be responsible for any fees imposed by law for bringing certain public officers into court, or for any ordinary witness fees.

(2) Alternatively, attempt to reach a stipulation with the opposing party on admission of the contents of any report made by the prospective witness, rather than compelling him or her to testify.

4. Prepare a witness file for each witness. Use the checklist below in completing the file, so that it ultimately includes:

☐ Cover sheet.

☐ Subpoena requiring attendance and proof of service on witness, using the mandatory Judicial Council form [see Cal. Judicial Council Form 982(a)(16)].

☐ Transcript of the witness' deposition, if any.

☐ The witness' answers to interrogatories.

☐ All declarations and pleadings the witness has executed or verified in the action.

☐ All other relevant written statements made, executed, or prepared by the witness.

☐ Copies of all documentary exhibits to be used in direct or cross-examination of the witness.

☐ Outline of questions to be asked of witness on direct or cross-examination.

☐ Materials and legal memoranda on critical evidentiary issues likely to arise during witness' testimony. For source material in this area, see California Family Law Trial Guide (Matthew Bender).

5. Complete any exchange of witness lists, exhibits, expert reports, or the like as required by local court rule. Some courts require advance marking of exhibits before trial.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
E. Preparing for Contested Trial

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.59

§ 220.59 Submit Final Financial and Disclosure Declarations

1. Serve and file any final Income and Expense [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-150] and Property [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-160] declarations before trial that reflect the client's most recent financial situation, in any case in which the client's request for relief from the court calls for them [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.128(a)].

2. If not already done, serve and file the "final declaration of disclosure" within the statutory time limit [see Fam. Code § 2105; see also § 220.53].

3. Be certain to observe all local rules of practice, particularly with respect to any special time limitations within which all declarations must be filed before trial.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
E. Preparing for Contested Trial

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 220.60-220.69

[Reserved]

§§ 220.60[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222

Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
F. Trial Matter and Concluding Case

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.70

§ 220.70 Challenge Trial Judge if Necessary

1. Find out which judge has been assigned to try the case or, if the case has not yet been assigned, find out how cases are assigned, and determine which judges may be assigned to try the case.

2. Research the judge or judges to whom the case has been, or may be, assigned.

3. Move to disqualify the judge if counsel believes that he or she is prejudiced against the client. Counsel may make a peremptory challenge or a challenge for cause, as discussed in Item IV-C, above [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 170.1 et seq., 170.6(a)(2); Shipp v. Superior Court (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 147, 152, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 685] . If a peremptory challenge is properly made, the disqualification takes effect immediately and requires the court to transfer the case for reassignment [Hemingway v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1148, 1157, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 363] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudicial OfficersJudgesDisqualifications & RecusalsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
F. Trial Matter and Concluding Case

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.71

§ 220.71 Complete the Trial Appearance

Appear and present matter before court.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
F. Trial Matter and Concluding Case

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.72

§ 220.72 Request Statement of Decision

1. At the conclusion of trial, counsel for either party should routinely request a statement of decision to preserve the party's rights on appeal [see In re Marriage of Arceneaux (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 1130, 1133-1138, 275 Cal. Rptr. 797, 800 P.2d 1227] .

a. Make the request in writing, or orally in open court, and specify the controverted issues for which the party is requesting a statement of decision [see Code Civ. Proc. § 632; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590].

b. Make the request within 10 days after the court announces a tentative decision. However, if trial is concluded within one calendar day, or in less than eight hours over more than one day, the request must be made prior to the submission of the matter for decision [see Code Civ. Proc. § 632; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590].

c. The court's tentative decision may state whether a requested statement of decision will be prepared by the court or by a designated party; and direct that the tentative decision will be the statement of decision unless within 10 days either party specifies controverted issues or makes proposals not covered in the tentative decision [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(a)].

2. After a party has requested a statement of decision, any party may make proposals on its content, although any proposal must be made within 10 days of the date of the request [see Code Civ. Proc. § 632; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsBench TrialsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
F. Trial Matter and Concluding Case

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.73

§ 220.73 Prepare Formal Judgment as Directed

1. If so directed by the court, prepare a written judgment in the matter. The judge may have a practice of asking the "prevailing" party to prepare the judgment, but this will not always be the case. Forms of judgment on particular issues are set forth in Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure .

a. If the parties' marital status has not already been terminated (such as in an earlier bifurcated proceeding), counsel would use the Judicial Council form of judgment, plus any attachments [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-180].

b. Draft the judgment in a form that meets special statutory requirements for enforcement, such as the "qualified domestic relations order" (QDRO) requirements provided for ERISA pension/retirement benefits.

2. When directed to prepare the judgment, counsel will normally send the proposed judgment to the opposing attorney for approval concerning its form and content, and on its return, submit it to the court for signature by the trial judge. Special time limits apply, particularly when a statement of decision has been requested [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(c)-(g)].

a. Local practice and rules should also be consulted in this regard.

b. Be sure to include with the judgment completed Judicial Council forms of notice of entry of judgment [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-190], along with postage-paid envelopes addressed to the parties (usually in care of their respective counsel), as required by local practice.

3. Serve a conformed, "endorsed-filed" copy of the signed judgment by mail on the opposing attorney. In certain instances, it may be prudent to also personally serve the opposing party with a copy of the judgment, particularly if his or her personal knowledge of a court order may be at issue thereafter.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsBench TrialsCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 220 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
PART II. MASTER PROCEDURAL GUIDE
F. Trial Matter and Concluding Case

18-220 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 220.74

§ 220.74 Posttrial Matters

1. File Appeal or Seek Other Appropriate Relief

a. Bring an appeal on behalf of the client when the issue at stake is significant enough to the client to justify the time and expense, and the appeal has merit [see generally Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1; see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.180 (appeals in bifurcated matters)].

b. The appeal may also necessitate the filing of an undertaking by the client, often in the context of a stay of enforcement of the judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 916 et seq.].

c. File a notice of appeal within the time limits prescribed by the California Rules of Court and comply with all other statutory requirements and rules of court to perfect the appeal [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 901-904.1, 906 et seq.; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 8.100-8.552]. For discussion of the procedures involved, see Ch. 40, Appeal .

2. Seek Writ Relief if Appropriate

a. In some cases, it is more appropriate to seek relief from the court's judgment by extraordinary writ than by filing an appeal, or by petitioning for writ relief pending the outcome of the appeal [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 917.7, 923; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.112 (writ of supersedeas pending appeal)].

b. In other cases, such as those involving a contempt judgment, the court's ruling is not appealable, and may be reviewed only by writ relief [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 904.1(a), 1068, 1222 (writ of review for contempt matters)].

c. Bring a petition for the writ being sought. The petition must ordinarily be filed in the court of appeal for the appellate district in which the involved superior court is located [see generally Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 8.112, 8.490]. For discussion of the procedures involved in seeking writ relief, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition , and Ch. 492, Review (Certiorari), Writ of.

3. Concluding Services and Withdrawal From Case

a. Send to insurance carriers a statutory notice that the judgment requires one of the parties to maintain or purchase health, life, or disability insurance. Use the notice form and procedure set forth in Fam. Code § 2051.

b. Advise the client to immediately review (and usually, to revoke and rewrite) any last will and testament made during the marriage; and to review any beneficiary designations under life insurance policies and similar instruments, but not to change these if the judgment requires the maintenance of the current designations.

c. Advise the client that if any property still remains held in joint tenancy title between the parties, which might occur in bifurcated proceedings in which marital status has not yet been terminated, the client should consider severing the joint tenancy titles in order to avoid the possible passage of title by operation of law on the client's death [see In re Marriage of Hilke (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 215, 222-224, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 371, 841 P.2d 891] .

d. Unless counsel has been replaced by another attorney during the litigation and is therefore no longer the attorney of record, counsel may wish to formally withdraw at the conclusion of the litigation, even without the formal consent of the client or the court.
(1) Counsel may file a notice of withdrawal at any time subsequent to the time when any judgment becomes final and prior to service on the attorney of pleadings or motion papers in any proceeding then pending in the cause [Code Civ. Proc. § 285.1].

(2) The notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 285.1 must state (a) the date of entry of the final decree or judgment, (b) the last known address of the party, (which should be verified in some manner by counsel or his or her staff), and (c) that the attorney withdraws as attorney for such party.

(3) A copy of the notice must be mailed to the party at his or her last known address and must be served on the adverse party [Code Civ. Proc. § 285.1]. For an illustrative, filled-in version of the Judicial Council form of withdrawal, see Form 53 [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-960].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsStays Pending AppealsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsStays Pending AppealsSupersedeas BondsCivil ProcedureRemediesWritsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureAppealsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 221.syn

§ 221.syn Synopsis to Chapter 221: DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE

§ 221.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 221.02 Cross References

§§ 221.03-221.09 [Reserved]

§ 221.10 Grounds for Dissolution and Legal Separation

[1] Necessity of Marriage

[2] Irreconcilable Differences

[3] Incurable Insanity

[4] Legal Separation

[5] Choice Between Dissolution and Legal Separation

§ 221.11 Jurisdiction in Proceeding for Dissolution or Legal Separation

[1] Jurisdiction in Proceeding for Dissolution

[a] Domicile as Basis

[b] Statutory Residence Requirement

[2] Jurisdiction in Proceeding for Legal Separation

[a] Domicile

[b] No Residence Requirement for Legal Separation

[3] Support, Custody, and Property in Proceeding for Dissolution or Legal Separation

[a] In General

[b] Marital Property

[c] Child Custody Matters

[d] Constitutional Considerations ("Minimum Contacts")

[4] Proper Court

[5] Proceedings Involving Native Americans

§ 221.12 Venue

[1] In Proceeding for Dissolution

[2] In Proceeding for Legal Separation

§ 221.13 Initial Client Interview

[1] Objectives

[2] Interview Technique

[3] Use of Checklist

[4] Providing Limited Attorney Assistance in Preparation of Court Documents

§ 221.14 Preliminary Advice

[1] General Topics To Be Covered

[2] Alternatives to Termination of Marriage

[3] Initial Self-Help Measures

[a] Physical Separation and Protection From Violence

[b] Protection of Children

[c] Possession and Protection of Property

[d] Raising Cash

[e] Protection From Other Spouse's Debts

[f] Assistance From Family Law Information Centers

[4] Filing Considerations

[a] No Proceeding Pending

[b] Proceeding Pending

§ 221.15 Petitioning for Dissolution or Legal Separation

[1] General Procedural Rules

[2] Judicial Council Forms

[3] Petition and Related Papers

[a] Petition for Dissolution or Legal Separation

[b] Mandatory Declaration of Disclosure

[c] Declaration Under Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act

[d] Lis Pendens

[e] In Forma Pauperis

[4] Summons

[a] Issuance

[b] Joinder Summons

[c] Papers to Be Served With Summons

[5] Service of Summons

[a] Requirement

[b] Strategy in Serving Summons

[c] Persons Who May Serve Summons

[d] Service by Personal Delivery

[e] Substituted Service

[f] Service by Mail

[g] Service by Publication

[h] Service on Persons in Other States

[i] Service on Persons in Foreign Countries

[j] Notice When Custody Is at Issue

[6] Postpetition Procedures

[a] Amended and Supplemental Pleadings

[b] Supplemental Complaint for Child Support of Unborn Child

[c] Motion to Quash Responsive Relief

[d] Motion to Strike

[e] Redacting Social Security Numbers and Sealing Financial Pleadings

[i] Redacting Social Security Numbers

[ii] Sealing Financial Pleadings

§ 221.16 Responding to the Petition

[1] Respondent's Options

[2] Response

[a] In General

[b] Accompanying Papers

[c] Service

[d] Filing

[3] Mandatory Declaration of Disclosure

[4] Appearance

[a] What Constitutes Appearance

[b] Notice of Appearance

[5] Motion to Strike

[a] Basis for Motion

[b] Filing and Service

[c] No Extension of Time

[6] Motion to Quash Proceeding

[a] Bases for Motion

[b] Waiver by Failure to File Timely Motion

[c] Time for Hearing

[d] Extension of Time to Respond

[e] Ruling on Motion

[f] Order

[7] Motion to Quash Service of Summons

[a] Basis for Motion

[b] Effect of Motion on Time to Plead

[c] Motion as Special Appearance

[d] Order

[8] Motion for Change of Venue

[a] Basis for Motion

[b] Temporary Orders Before Transfer

[c] Order Transferring Proceeding

[9] Motion to Stay or Dismiss Proceeding on Ground of Inconvenient Forum

[a] Basis for Motion

[b] Procedure

[c] Stay or Dismissal

[d] Order

§ 221.17 Joinder of Parties and Causes of Action

[1] In General

[a] Parties

[i] Authority for Joinder and Definitions

[ii] Personal Jurisdiction Required

[iii] Mandatory Versus Permissive Joinder

[iv] Opposition to Joinder

[v] Binding Nature of Judgment on Party Joined

[b] Claims or Causes of Action

[c] Attorney's Fees

[2] Joinder of Persons in General

[a] Claiming Right to Custody or Visitation

[b] Claiming Ownership of Community Property

[c] Served With Restraining Order

[d] Indispensable or Necessary Party

[3] Joinder of Employee Benefit Plan

[a] In General

[b] Joinder on Default

[c] Stipulation

[d] Effect of Appearance or Nonappearance at Hearing

[e] Hearing on Motion to Modify or Set Aside

[f] Availability and Duration of Stay of Orders Affecting Plan

[4] Joinder of Causes of Action

§ 221.18 Pendente Lite Orders, Ex Parte Relief, and Selected Pretrial Motions

[1] Nature of Preliminary Relief

[a] Function of Preliminary Orders in Family Law Proceeding

[b] Spousal Support

[c] Custody

[d] Child Support

[e] Attorney's Fees and Costs

[f] Disposition of Property

[g] Implementation of Case Management Plan

[h] Mandatory Disclosure of Property, Income, and Expenses

[i] Injunctive Relief

[j] Maintenance of Health, Life, Disability, or Other Insurance Coverage

[2] Application for Preliminary Orders

[a] Decision to Seek Preliminary Orders

[b] Methods of Applying for Preliminary Orders

[c] Stipulation and Order

[d] Notice of Motion

[e] Order to Show Cause

[f] Informal Notice of Ex Parte Application

[g] Memorandum of Points and Authorities

[h] Other Papers to Be Served by Party Seeking Relief

[i] Determining Time of Hearing in Relation to Service Requirements

[j] Obtaining Order Shortening Time

[k] Service of Papers

[l] Child Custody Award Pursuant to Agreement or on Ex Parte Application

[m] Mediation

[3] Responding Party's Papers

[a] Responsive Declaration

[b] Responding Party's Other Papers

[c] Service and Filing

[4] Bifurcation and Consolidation

[a] Bifurcation

[b] Consolidation

[i] In General

[ii] Cases Involving Child Support Agencies

[5] Hearing and Orders

[a] Continuance

[b] Hearing

[c] Attack on Order in Trial Court

[d] Appeal

§ 221.19 Reconciliation Proceedings

§ 221.20 Uncontested Proceedings

[1] In General

[2] Representing Petitioner

[3] Representing Respondent

[4] Representing Both Parties

[5] Entry of Default and Setting for Hearing

[6] The Uncontested Hearing

[a] Establishing Grounds

[b] Evidence Regarding Property, Custody, and Support

[c] The Proposed Judgment of Dissolution

§ 221.21 Summary Dissolution

[1] In General

[2] Role of Attorney

[3] When Summary Procedure Is Available

[4] Procedure

[5] Revocation of Petition

[6] Entry of Final Judgment

[a] When Judgment May Be Entered

[b] Effect of Entry of Final Judgment

[c] Availability of Set Aside

§§ 221.22-221.39 [Reserved]

§ 221.40 Applicability of Civil Trial Rules and Procedures

§ 221.41 Avoiding Trial and Limiting Issues by Settlement

§ 221.42 Mediation of Child Custody and Visitation Issues Before Trial

§ 221.43 Pretrial Procedures Affecting Conduct of Trial

[1] Bifurcation

[2] Case Management

[3] Reference of Case or Factual Issues to Referee

[a] In General

[b] On Consent of Parties

[c] By Court Order

[d] Referee's Findings

[4] Submission to Arbitration

[5] Joinder

[6] Consolidation

[7] Closed Hearing

[8] Request for Jury

§ 221.44 Pretrial Statement

§ 221.45 Settlement Conferences

§ 221.46 Preference Given Contested Custody and Child Support Issues

§ 221.47 Adjusting Trial Date

[1] Continuances

[2] Advancing, Resetting, or Specially Setting Trial

§ 221.48 Mandatory Declaration of Disclosure

[1] When Declaration Required

[2] Stipulation to Waive Final Declaration

[3] Form and Service of Declaration

[4] Contents of Declaration

[5] Remedies for Noncompliance With Disclosure Requirements

§§ 221.49-221.59 [Reserved]

§ 221.60 Disqualification of Judge

[1] By Peremptory Challenge

[2] For Cause

§ 221.61 Notice of Trial

§ 221.62 Private Trial and Sealing of Court Files

§ 221.63 Trial Brief

[1] In General

[2] Other Papers

§ 221.64 General Considerations in Presenting Case

§ 221.65 Use of Opening and Closing Statements

[1] Opening Statement

[2] Final Argument

§ 221.66 Anticipating Evidentiary Problems

[1] Review of Evidence Before Trial

[2] Prohibited Evidence

§ 221.67 Use of Expert's Reports

§ 221.68 Use of and Preparation of Exhibits

§ 221.69 Discovery Evidence at Trial

[1] In General

[2] Electronic Recordings

§ 221.70 Stipulations at Trial

§ 221.71 Witnesses

[1] In General

[2] Restoration of Birth Name or Former Name

[3] Qualification of Experts

§ 221.72 Request for Statement of Decision

§ 221.73 Preparation, Rendition, and Entry of Judgment

§ 221.74 Attorney's Withdrawal After Entry of Final Judgment

§§ 221.75-221.89 [Reserved]

§ 221.90 Grounds for Dismissal

§ 221.91 Types of Dismissals

[1] With or Without Prejudice

[2] Discretionary or Mandatory

[a] Discretionary Dismissals

[b] Mandatory Dismissals

§ 221.92 Dismissal by Petitioner Before Trial

[1] When Available

[2] When Prohibited

§ 221.93 Voluntary Dismissal by Either Party Before Judgment

§ 221.94 No Dismissal When Child or Spousal Support Order in Force

§ 221.95 No Dismissal After Separate Trial on Marital Status

§ 221.96 Effect of Dismissal on Pendente Lite Orders

§§ 221.97-221.109 [Reserved]

§ 221.110 Necessity for Statement of Decision in Family Law Proceedings

[1] General Nature and Purpose of Statement

[2] When Statement Not Required

[3] When Statement Must Be Issued Without Request

[4] Effect of Statement on Appeal

§ 221.111 Procedures Applicable to Statements of Decision

[1] Governing Law

[2] Party Designated to Prepare Statement or Use of Tentative Decision

[3] When Request Must Be Made

[4] Contents and Format of Statement of Decision

[5] Failure to Object to Proposed Statement of Decision

[6] Failure to Make Requested Statement of Decision

§ 221.112 Required Findings on Particular Issues

[1] Spousal Support

[2] Child Support

[3] Child Custody

[4] Property Division

§§ 221.113-221.129 [Reserved]

§ 221.130 Single Final Judgment of Dissolution

§ 221.131 Refusal to Enter Judgment

[1] In General

[2] Reconciliation of Parties

§ 221.132 Finality of Judgment for Purposes of Terminating Marital Status

[1] Six-Month Waiting Period

[2] Specification of Date of Finality in Judgment

[3] Retention of Jurisdiction Over Date of Termination of Marital Status

[4] Effect of Death of Party

[5] Effect of Appeal or Motion for New Trial

§ 221.133 Res Judicata

[1] Application to Judgment of Dissolution

[2] Not Applicable to Child Support and Custody Orders

[3] Not Applicable to Spousal Support Orders

[4] Not Applicable in Absence of Fair Hearing

§ 221.134 Community Property Division in Judgment

[1] Propriety of Immediate Division

[2] Unadjudicated Community Property

[3] Qualified Domestic Relations Orders (QDROs)

§ 221.135 Spousal Support in Judgment

[1] Temporary Support

[2] Permanent Support

§ 221.136 Marital Settlement Agreements and Judgment

§ 221.137 Stipulated Judgment

§ 221.138 Procedure for Obtaining Judgment

[1] Governing Law

[2] Submission and Signing of Proposed Judgment

[3] Objections to Proposed Judgment; Signing and Filing

[4] Service of Final Declaration of Disclosure

[5] Entry of Judgment

[6] Notice of Entry of Judgment

[a] Notice to Parties

[b] Notice to Insurer

[7] Judgment of Legal Separation

§§ 221.139-221.149 [Reserved]

§ 221.150 Motion for New Trial

[1] Availability in Family Code Proceeding

[2] Grounds for New Trial Motion

§ 221.151 Motion to Vacate Judgment and Enter Different Judgment

[1] Grounds for Motion

[2] Ruling on Motion to Vacate

§ 221.152 Motion to Set Aside Default and Default Judgment

[1] Improper Service of Summons

[2] Violation of Servicemembers Civil Relief Act and Related California Law

[3] Mistake, Inadvertence, Surprise, or Excusable Neglect

§ 221.153 Family Code Motion to Set Aside Judgment

[1] Availability

[2] Preliminary Finding of Materiality

[3] Grounds and Time Limits for Set-Aside Motion

[4] Ruling on Set-Aside Motion

[5] Property Division After Set-Aside

[6] Other Rights and Remedies Unaffected

[7] Appeal Period Not Extended

§ 221.154 Postjudgment Tort Action for Concealment of Community Assets

§ 221.155 Motion for Relief From Void Judgment or Order

[1] Availability

[2] Grounds for Relief From Void Judgment or Order

[3] Time Limits When Judgment or Order Void on Face or Void in Fact

[4] Nonstatutory Motion to Vacate Void Judgment

[5] Collateral Attack on Void Judgment

§ 221.156 Postjudgment Motion or Order to Show Cause to Divide Unadjudicated Property

[1] Availability

[2] Hearing on Application Regarding Unadjudicated Property

§ 221.157 Motion for Correction of Clerical Error

§ 221.158 Motion to Reconsider and Renewed Motions

§ 221.159 Relief From Support Orders

[1] Fraud, Perjury, or Lack of Notice

[2] Proceedings Brought by Child Support Agencies

[a] Default Judgments Based on Presumed Income

[b] Mistaken Identity Cases

§§ 221.160-221.179 [Reserved]

§ 221.180 Orders Subject to Modification

[1] Temporary Spousal and Child Support

[2] Permanent Spousal Support

[3] Permanent Child Support

[4] Child Custody and Visitation

[5] Attorney's Fees and Costs

§ 221.181 Discovery of Other Party's Income and Expense Information Before Support Modification Proceeding

[1] Information From Party

[2] Information From Employer on Party's Noncompliance With Request

[a] Request for Production of Income and Benefits Information

[b] Required Notice to Employee

[c] Employee's Motion to Quash or Modify Request

[3] Service of Request

[4] Enforcement of Discovery Right

§ 221.182 Application for Modification

[1] Papers and Format

[2] Use of Order to Show Cause or Notice of Motion

[3] Local Court Rules

[4] Service of Application Papers

[a] General Rules

[b] Service Before or After Judgment

§ 221.183 Response to Application

[1] Papers to Be Prepared and Filed

[2] Countermotion

[3] Service of Responsive Papers and Return of Service

§ 221.184 Change of Venue

§ 221.185 Submission and Examination of Tax Returns

§ 221.186 Mediation of Child Custody and Visitation Issues

§ 221.187 Hearing

[1] Privacy of Proceeding

[2] Basis of Ruling

[3] Burden of Proof

[4] Disclosure of Public Assistance Status

§ 221.188 Orders

§ 221.189 Modification by Stipulation

§ 221.190 Motion for Reconsideration

§ 221.191 Vacating Order

§ 221.192 Appeal

§ 221.193 Effect of Bankruptcy

§ 221.194 Procedures for Simplified Modification of Child, Spousal, or Family Support Orders

§§ 221.195-221.209 [Reserved]

§ 221.210 State Statutes

§ 221.211 California Rules of Court

§ 221.212 Decisions

[1] Attorneys

[2] Bifurcation of Trial

[3] Court Costs

[4] Family Law Rules

[5] Grounds

[6] Hearing on Petition

[7] Joinder

[8] Jurisdiction

[a] In General

[b] Native Americans

[c] Nonresidents

[9] Legal Separation

[10] Order to Show Cause

[11] Pendente Lite Relief and Orders

[a] In General

[b] Court Commissioners

[c] Oral Testimony

[d] Property

[e] Temporary Restraining Orders

[f] Temporary Support

[12] Public Policy

[13] Response

[a] Allegations Admitted

[b] Motion to Quash

[14] Uncontested Proceeding

[15] Venue

§ 221.213 Law Reviews

§ 221.214 Text References

§§ 221.215-221.229 [Reserved]

§ 221.230 State Statutes

§ 221.231 California Rules of Court

§ 221.232 Decisions

[1] Closed Hearings

[2] Disqualification of Judge

[3] Judgments

[4] Pretrial Statements

[5] Prohibited Evidence

[6] Reference of Case or Factual Issues to Referee

[7] Request for Jury

[8] Statements of Decision

[9] Stipulations

[10] Withdrawal of Attorney

§ 221.233 Law Reviews

§ 221.234 Text References

§§ 221.235-221.249 [Reserved]

§ 221.250 California Family Law Practice and Procedure

§ 221.251 Federal Statutes

§ 221.252 State Statutes

[1] Dismissal of Proceedings

[2] Judgment of Dissolution or Legal Separation

[3] Restoration of Name

[4] Statement of Decision

§ 221.253 California Rules of Court

§ 221.254 Decisions

[1] Dismissal for Failure to Prosecute

[2] Judgments

[3] Statements of Decision

§ 221.255 Law Reviews

§ 221.256 Text References

§§ 221.257-221.269 [Reserved]

§ 221.270 California Family Law Practice and Procedure

§ 221.271 State Statutes

§ 221.272 California Rules of Court

§ 221.273 Decisions--New Trial

§ 221.274 Posttrial Relief From Judgment

[1] General Grounds for Relief

[2] Consent Lacking

[3] Duress

[4] Fraud

[5] Mistake

§ 221.275 Law Reviews

§ 221.276 Text References

§§ 221.277-221.289 [Reserved]

§ 221.290 California Family Law Practice and Procedure

§ 221.291 California Family Law Trial Guide

§ 221.292 State Statutes

[1] Child Support

[2] Mediation of Custody and Visitation

[3] Modification or Termination of Support

§ 221.293 California Rules of Court

§ 221.294 Decisions

§ 221.295 Law Reviews

§§ 221.296-221.309 [Reserved]

§ 221.310 Petition [Fam. Code § 2330; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-100]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Completing the Form

[a] Caption

[b] Residence

[c] Statistical Facts

[d] Minor Children

[e] Separate Property

[f] Community and Quasi-Community Property

[g] Type of Relief Sought

[h] Request for Relief

[i] Notice of Child Support

[j] Declaration Regarding Orders in Summons

[k] Social Security Numbers

[4] State Statutes

[5] Family Law Rules

[6] Text References

§ 221.311 Preliminary Declaration of Disclosure--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code §§ 2103-2113; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-140]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Completing the Form

[4] State Statutes

[5] Cross References

§ 221.312 Declaration Under Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-105 [Fam. Code § 3429]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Cross References

§ 221.313 Summons--Family Law--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-110]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Cross References

§ 221.314 Proof of Service of Summons--Judicial Council Form (Family Law) [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-115]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Cross References

§ 221.315 Notice and Acknowledgment of Receipt--Family Law--Judicial Council Form [Judicial Council Form

FL-117]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Cross References

§ 221.316 Response [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-120]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Completing the Form

[a] Residence

[b] Statistical Facts

[c] Minor Children

[d] Separate Property and Obligations

[e] Community Property Declaration

[f] Reconciliation

[g] Denial of Grounds for Proceeding

[h] Marital Status; Dissolution, Separation, or Nullity

[i] Request for Relief

[j] Notice of Child Support

[k] Social Security Numbers

[4] State Statutes

[5] Text References

[6] Cross References

§ 221.317 Notice of Motion and Declaration for Joinder--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-371]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Notice of Motion

[4] Declaration for Joinder

[5] Pleading to Accompany Notice of Motion and Declaration for Joinder

[6] Filing and Service

[7] State Statutes

[8] California Rules of Court

[9] Text References

§ 221.318 Responsive Declaration to Motion for Joinder, Consent Order of Joinder--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-373]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Order of Joinder

[4] Cross References

§ 221.319 Summons (Joinder)--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-375]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 221.320 Request for Joinder of Employee Pension Benefit Plan and Order (Family Law)--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code §§ 2060-2062; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-372]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] California Rules of Court

[5] Decisions

[6] Cross References

§ 221.321 Pleading on Joinder--Employee Pension Benefit Plan (Family Law)--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code §§ 2060-2062; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-370]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 221.322 Notice of Appearance and Response of Employee Benefit Plan (Family Law)--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code §§ 2060-2062; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-374]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Cross References

§ 221.323 Notice to Maintain Insurance During Pendency of Proceeding

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

§ 221.324 Stipulation for Custody

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] Text References

§ 221.325 Stipulation for Temporary Orders

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 221.326 Notice of Motion (General)--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-301

[1] FORM

[2] Notice of Motion

[3] California Rules of Court

[4] Text References

§ 221.327 Application for Order and Supporting Declaration--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Contents of Supporting Declaration

§ 221.328 Application or Response to Application for Separate Trial--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-315

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Supporting Declaration

[4] Joinder of Pension Plans

[5] Requested Orders

[6] Time for Hearing and Clerk's Mailing

§§ 221.329-221.330 [Reserved]

§ 221.331 Order to Show Cause and Temporary Orders--Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-300, FL-305

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Completing the Form

[4] Temporary Orders

[5] State Statutes

[6] California Rules of Court

[7] Decisions

[8] Text References

§ 221.332 Income and Expense Declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150] With Income Information, Expense Information, and Child Support Information--Judicial Council Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Completion of Forms

[4] Income Averaging

[5] Children of Other Relationships (Child Support and Hardship Deductions)

[6] Attachments

§ 221.333 Financial Statement (Simplified)--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-155]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 221.334 Property Declaration--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-160]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 221.335 Continuation of Property Declaration--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-161]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 221.336 Ex Parte Application and Order to Seal Financial Forms--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-316]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 221.337 Responsive Declaration to Order to Show Cause or Notice of Motion--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-320]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 221.338 Findings and Order After Hearing and Attachments--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-340-FL-344, FL-347]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 221.339 Appearance, Stipulation, and Waivers--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-130]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] California Rules of Court

[5] Text References

§ 221.340 Request to Enter Default--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-165]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 221.341 Declaration for Default or Uncontested Dissolution or Legal Separation [Fam. Code § 2336; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-170]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 221.342 Joint Petition for Summary Dissolution of Marriage--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code §§ 200, 2401, 2406; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-800]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 221.343 Request for Final Judgment, Final Judgment of Dissolution of Marriage, and Notice of Entry of Judgment--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code § 2403; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-820]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 221.344 Notice of Revocation of Petition for Summary Dissolution--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code § 2402; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-830]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 221.345 Proof of Personal Service--Judicial Council Form [Code Civ. Proc. § 1011; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-330]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 221.346 Proof of Service by Mail--Judicial Council Form [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013, 1013a; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-335]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 221.347 Notice of Consolidation--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-920

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 221.348 Notice of Limited Scope Representation--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-950

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 221.349 Application to Be Relieved as Counsel Upon Completion of Limited Scope Representation--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-955

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 221.350 Objection to Application to Be Relieved as Counsel Upon Completion of Limited Scope Representation--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-956

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 221.351 Order on Application to Be Relieved as Counsel Upon Completion of Limited Scope Representation--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-958

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§§ 221.352-221.369 [Reserved]

§ 221.370 Stipulation and Waiver of Final Declaration of Disclosure--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code § 2105(d); Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-144]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 221.371 Final Declaration of Disclosure--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code § 2105; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-140]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

§ 221.372 Declaration Regarding Service of Declaration of Disclosure and Income and Expense Declaration--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code § 2106; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-141]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 221.373 Notice of Withdrawal of Attorney of Record [Code Civ. Proc. § 285.1; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-960]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

§§ 221.374-221.389 [Reserved]

§ 221.390 Request for Statement of Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 632; Fam. Code § 2338(a)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

[4] California Rules of Court

§ 221.391 Proposed Statement of Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 632; Fam. Code § 2338(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 232(c)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Cross References

§ 221.392 Judgment of Dissolution [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-180]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Completing Form

[a] Caption

[b] Restraining or Protective Orders

[c] Hearing Information (Paragraph 2)

[d] Jurisdiction Over Respondent (Paragraph 3)

[e] Orders of the Court (Paragraph 4)

[f] Continuation Pages; Signature of Judge

[4] Number of Copies to Prepare

§ 221.393 Notice of Entry of Judgment--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-190]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Completing Form

[4] Copies

[5] Cross References

§ 221.394 Notice to Health, Life, or Disability Insurer After Order or Judgment [Fam. Code § 2051]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 221.395 Request for Dismissal--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-618]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§§ 221.396-221.409 [Reserved]

§ 221.410 Declaration in Support of Motion to Set Aside Judgment [Fam. Code § 2122]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Completing Declaration and Accompanying Papers

[4] Cross References

§ 221.411 Declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5] in Support of Motion to Divide Unadjudicated Community Estate Assets and Liabilities [Fam. Code § 2556]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Completing Declaration and Accompanying Papers

[4] Cross References

§ 221.412 Request for Hearing and Application to Set Aside Support Order Under Family Code Section 3691--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-360

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 221.413 Responsive Declaration to Application to Set Aside Support Order--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-365

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 221.414 Order After Hearing to Set Aside Support Order--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-367

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§§ 221.415-221.429 [Reserved]

§ 221.430 Request for Production of Income and Expense Declaration After Judgment [Fam. Code § 3664]--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-396]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

§ 221.431 Order to Show Cause for Modification of Order--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-300]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Completing the Form

[4] Presentment to Judge

§ 221.432 Application for Modification of Order and Supporting Declaration--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Completing the Form

§ 221.433 Notice of Motion and Motion for Simplified Modification of Order for Child, Spousal, or Family Support and Information Sheet--Judicial Council Forms [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-390, FL-391]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 221.434 Responsive Declaration to Motion for Simplified Modification of Order for Child, Spousal, or Family Support and Information Sheet--Judicial Council Forms [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-392, FL-393]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

§ 221.435 Request for Income and Benefit Information From Employer--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-397

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222

Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE

PART I. SCOPE

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.01

§ 221.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses and contains forms relevant to the grounds for obtaining a judgment of dissolution or legal separation in California; the practical aspects of the attorney's initial contact with the client in marital termination cases; the law applicable to, and the procedures for, initiating a proceeding for dissolution or legal separation (see §§ 221.310 -221.315); the various pleadings and other papers that may be filed in response to a petition in a family law proceeding (see § 221.316); joinder of those claiming or controlling interests that are subject to disposition in family law proceedings, including joinder of pension benefit plans (see §§ 221.317 -221.322); the procedure for obtaining preliminary orders for spousal support, child custody, support, and visitation, and attorney's fees and costs in proceedings for dissolution of marriage or legal separation (see §§ 221.323 -221.325, 221.331 -221.338); the procedure required to bifurcate the issue of dissolution or legal separation from related issues of custody, support, and property rights, together with those necessary to consolidate a dissolution proceeding with a civil action (see §§ 221.326 -221.330); proceedings for reconciliation; and the procedures involved in a default or uncontested dissolution or legal separation, as well as those involved in obtaining a summary dissolution of marriage (see §§ 221.339 -221.344).

Injunctive relief related to family violence is discussed in Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence . Actions to nullify marriages are discussed in Ch. 25, Annulment (Nullity) of Marriage and Related Spousal Rights .

This chapter also discusses and contains forms relevant to pretrial considerations such as the applicability of civil trial rules and procedures, settlement, mediation of child custody and visitation issues, and pretrial procedures affecting conduct of the trial. It addresses topics involved in bringing a case to trial such as placing the case on the civil active list [see § 221.370], pretrial statements, conferences before trial, setting for trial, and compliance with mandatory disclosure requirements [see §§ 221.371 and 221.372].

This chapter also discusses trial considerations such as disqualification of judges, courtroom assignments, trial briefs, opening and closing statements, and general considerations involved in presenting a case at trial. It discusses evidentiary considerations at trial and covers concluding matters such as requests for statements of decision; preparing, rendering, and entering judgments; and the withdrawal of attorneys after a judgment is final [see § 221.373].

Continuances are discussed in Ch. 136, Continuances ; pretrial proceedings in Ch. 425 Pretrial Proceedings .

This chapter also discusses and contains forms relevant to the grounds and procedure to be used for the dismissal of family law proceedings; the use of and procedures regarding statements of decisions in family law proceedings [§§ 221.390, 221.391]; and judgments of dissolution and legal separation [§§ 221.392, 221.393].

Judgments of nullity of marriage are discussed in Ch. 25, Annulment (Nullity) of Marriage and Related Spousal Rights .

General forms pertaining to dismissals of civil actions and proceedings, which may be adapted for use in family law proceedings, are contained in Ch. 212, Dismissal; those concerning appeals in Ch. 48, Appeal: Abandonment, Dismissal, and Stipulated Reversal; those concerning statements of decision in Ch. 529, Statement of Decision; those concerning judgments in Ch. 318, Judgments; and those concerning motions for new trial in Ch. 371, Motions After Trial, § 371.60 et seq.

This chapter also discusses and contains forms pertinent to the methods for obtaining relief from judgments and orders in Family Code proceedings at the trial court level. It includes discussion of motions for new trial, motions to vacate judgment, motions to set aside default or void judgments [see § 221.410], motions for equitable set-aside relief, and motions to divide previously unadjudicated community estate assets or liabilities [see § 221.411].

General civil forms pertaining to motions for new trial and to set aside and vacate a judgment and enter a new judgment are contained in Ch. 371, Motions After Trial, §§ 371.60 et seq. and 371.90 et seq., respectively; those concerning motions for relief from defaults and default judgments, from void judgments, and for equitable relief are contained in Ch. 489, Relief From Judgments and Orders; those concerning motions to correct a judgment are contained in Ch. 318, Judgments ; and those concerning motions for reconsideration or renewed motions are contained in Ch. 374, Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions . General forms pertaining to appeals, which may be adapted for use in family law proceedings, are contained in Ch. 40, Appeal: An Overview, through Ch. 54, Appeal: California Supreme Court Review .

Standards and special procedures applicable to modification of child custody, child support, and spousal support orders are discussed in Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody , Ch.224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support and Ch. 225, Dissolution of Marriage: Spousal Support .

This chapter also discusses procedures and contains forms for the modification of judgments and orders in family law proceedings [see § 221.430- 84]. It also discusses the types of orders that are subject to modification.

For discussion of substantive rules governing modification of child custody and visitation orders, see Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody . Fordiscussion of the substantive standards for modification of child support orders, see Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support . For discussion of the substantive standards for modification of spousal support orders, see Ch. 225, Dissolution of marriage: Spousal Support. Rules governing attorney's fee awards and modification of those awards are covered in Ch. 225, Dissolution of Marriage: Attorney's Fees .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild SupportObligationsTypesTemporary SupportFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal SeparationFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportObligationsTemporary Support

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART I. SCOPE

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.02

§ 221.02 Cross References

See generally Ch. 40, Appeal: An Overview , through Ch. 54, Appeal: California Supreme Court Review , Ch. 318, Judgments , Ch. 371, Motions After Trial , Ch. 372, Motions and Orders , and Ch. 489, Relief From Judgments and Orders

For discussion of general enforcement proceedings, see Ch. 258, Family Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePleading & PracticeMotion PracticeGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureAppealsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART I. SCOPE

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 221.03-221.09

[Reserved]

§§ 221.03[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.10

§ 221.10 Grounds for Dissolution and Legal Separation

[1] Necessity of Marriage

The existence of a valid marriage is a prerequisite to obtaining a dissolution [see Borg v. Borg (1938) 25 Cal. App. 2d 25, 29, 76 P.2d 218] . Therefore, if the marriage never took place or is void, a proceeding for dissolution is improper, and such facts can be raised as a defense. If the marriage is voidable, it is valid until annulled [Estate of LeMont (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 437, 439-440, 86 Cal. Rptr. 810] , and a proceeding for dissolution is proper unless the party who is entitled to have the marriage annulled raises the issue that the marriage is voidable.

[2] Irreconcilable Differences

A court may enter a judgment of dissolution of marriage on the ground that irreconcilable differences exist that have caused the irremediable breakdown of the marriage [Fam. Code § 2310(a); see In re Marriage of Mehren & Dargan (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 1167, 1171, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 522 (husband's agreement to grant to wife all of his interest in their community property should he use illicit drugs was unenforceable because it violated public policy favoring no-fault divorce); Diosdado v. Diosdado (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 470, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494 (contract between spouses creating right to liquidated damages for infidelity was against public policy and contravened statute limiting recovery in dissolution proceedings to statutory property division)]. "Irreconcilable differences" are defined by statute as those grounds determined by the court to be substantial reasons for not continuing the marriage and that make it appear that the marriage should be dissolved [Fam. Code § 2311; see In re Marriage of Walton (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 108, 118-119, 104 Cal. Rptr. 472] . If the court finds that these differences exist, it must order the dissolution of the marriage [Fam. Code § 2333]. If a reasonable possibility of reconciliation appears to exist, the court must continue the proceeding for dissolution or legal separation for a period of no more than 30 days [Fam. Code § 2334(a)].

[3] Incurable Insanity

A court may enter a judgment of dissolution of marriage on the ground of incurable insanity [Fam. Code § 2310(b)] on proof that the insane spouse was incurably insane at the time the petition was filed and remains incurably insane [Fam.

Code § 2312]. The term "incurably" as it relates to dissolution of marriage on insanity grounds cannot be taken in a literal sense, since it is impossible to establish that a mental disease can never be cured. It means, instead, that it isreasonably probable that the mental disease cannot be cured. Proof of incurable insanity, which cannot be rejected by the court in the absence of conflicting evidence, must include competent medical or psychiatric testimony [Wirz v. Wirz (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 171, 175-176, 214 P.2d 839 ; see Fam. Code § 2312].

[4] Legal Separation

The grounds for legal separation are the same as those for dissolution: irreconcilable differences and incurable insanity [Fam. Code § 2310]. A court may not render a judgment of the legal separation of the parties without the consent of both parties, however, unless one party has not made a general appearance and the petition requests legal separation rather than dissolution or a judgment of nullity [Fam. Code § 2345]. A judgment of legal separation does not bar a subsequent judgment decreeing the dissolution of the marriage rendered pursuant to a petition for dissolution filed by either party [Fam. Code § 2347]. A judgment of legal separation is not an interim order, however; it is a final adjudication of the parties' property rights, and is conclusive and res judicata in a subsequent proceeding for dissolution [Estate of Lahey (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 1056, 1059, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 30] .

[5] Choice Between Dissolution and Legal Separation

In most situations, a party contemplating legal proceedings in California with regard to his or her marriage has only the choice between the judgment of dissolution based on irreconcilable differences or a judgment of legal separation based on irreconcilable differences. In the absence of particular religious or moral qualms, dissolution is usually chosen because a judgment of dissolution terminates the marriage and restores the parties to the status of unmarried persons [Fam. Code § 2300], whereas a legal separation merely settles the spouses' financial responsibilities to one another and to their minor children [Estate of Lahey (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 1056, 1058-1060, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 30 ; Faught v. Faught (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 875, 878, 106 Cal. Rptr. 751] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceFault-Based GroundsInsanityFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceNo-Fault GroundsIrreconcilable DifferencesFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal SeparationFamily LawMarriageValidityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.11

§ 221.11 Jurisdiction in Proceeding for Dissolution or Legal Separation

[1] Jurisdiction in Proceeding for Dissolution

[a] Domicile as Basis

Generally, states have jurisdiction to dissolve a marriage if at least one spouse is domiciled in the forum state. Other states must give full faith and credit to a dissolution decree based on domicile as long as domicile is bona fide [see, e.g., Williams v. North Carolina (1944) 325 U.S. 226, 229-230, 65 S. Ct. 1092, 89 L. Ed. 1577] . In California, courts may exercise jurisdiction on all judicially established bases of jurisdiction, including domicile, subject only to constitutional considerations [see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10; see, e.g., Bergan v. Bergan (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 567, 570-571, 170 Cal. Rptr. 751] . Jurisdiction based on the domicile of one spouse is appropriate because the "res" or subject matter of such proceedings is the personal status (i.e., the marital status) of the spouse domiciled in the forum state. A dissolution decree is directed to that spouse's status and thus personal jurisdiction over an absent spouse is not necessary, although the absent spouse must be notified of the proceeding [see Mungia v. Superior Court (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 280, 284, 37 Cal. Rptr. 285] .

Accordingly, a court has subject matter jurisdiction to adjudicate the status of the marriage based on the petitioner's domicile in California at the time of filing the petition [Muckle v. Superior Court (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 218, 226, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 303] . However, to adjudicate the parties' personal rights and obligations, including custody and support of the minor children of the marriage, spousal support, settlement and division of the parties' property rights, and the award of attorney's fees and costs, the court must have personal jurisdiction over the respondent [Muckle v. Superior Court (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 218, 225-226, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 303] .

The parties cannot confer subject matter jurisdiction on the court by consent, waiver, or estoppel [In re Marriage of Jensen (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 587, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 701] .

[b] Statutory Residence Requirement

A judgment of dissolution of marriage may not be entered unless one of the parties to the marriage has been a resident of California for six months and of the county in which the proceeding is filed for three months immediately preceding the filing of the petition [Fam. Code § 2320; cf. Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a) (proper venue for dissolution or legal separation proceeding is county in which either petitioner or respondent has resided for three months immediately preceding commencement of proceeding); venue requirements are discussed in § 221.212[15]]. The term "resident" in this context has the same meaning as the term "domiciliary" [Whealton v. Whealton (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 656, 660, 63 Cal. Rptr. 291, 432 P.2d 979] .

There is no residence requirement for filing a petition of legal separation [Hiner v. Hiner (1908) 153 Cal. 254, 260, 94 P. 1044 ; Forster v. Superior Court (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 782, 784, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 258] . Thus, a party may file for legal separation if neither party complies with the residence requirement at the time of the commencement of the proceeding, and either party may amend his or her petition or responsive pleading to request a dissolution of marriage once the residence requirement is met [Fam. Code § 2321; Forster v. Superior Court (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 782, 785, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 258] .

[2] Jurisdiction in Proceeding for Legal Separation

[a] Domicile

Because a proceeding for legal separation is very similar to a proceeding for dissolution and is based on the same grounds [Fam. Code § 2310], jurisdiction for a decree of legal separation can probably be based on the domicile of one party as can jurisdiction for a decree of dissolution [Restatement of Conflicts (second), § 375]. If spousal or child support is sought or if property rights are to be affected, however, personal jurisdiction over the respondent is necessary [§ 221.11[4]].

[b] No Residence Requirement for Legal Separation

No statutory residence requirement is imposed for a judgment of legal separation. A person may file a petition for legal separation before the residence requirements for dissolution are met, and then amend the petition to seek dissolution after at least one party has met the residence requirement [Fam. Code § 2321(a)]. Pursuant to statute, the date of the filing of the amended petition is deemed to be the date of commencement of the marital dissolution proceeding "for the purposes only of the residence requirements of [Fam. Code] Section 2320" [Fam. Code § 2321(a)].

It is somewhat unclear what the quoted portion of the statute means. One possible interpretation is that the court will look to the filing date of the amended petition to evaluate whether a party had met the required six-month--state, and three-month--county, residency periods as of the time just before filing the amended petition [Fam. Code § 2320], but that it will not treat the date of filing the amended petition as the date the proceeding commences for the purpose of measuring the six month "waiting period" [Fam. Code § 2339] for entry of a dissolution judgment. If that interpretation is correct, the six-month measuring period for the entry of a dissolution judgment, which begins with "the date of service of a copy of summons and petition or the date of appearance of the respondent, whichever occurs first" [Fam. Code § 2339] would "relate back" to the earlier of when the legal separation petition was properly served or the respondent appeared. Because Fam. Code § 2321(a) uses the qualifying language "for the purposes only of the residence requirements of Section 2320," in describing how the date of filing the amended petition pertains to the commencement of the proceeding, it appears that this interpretation is correct. Otherwise, both the measuring periods for residency and for entry of judgment terminating marital status would begin with the date of the filing of the amended petition, and this does not appear to be the intent of the statute. No reported decision has expressly so held, however.

With respect to the amendment of the legal separation petition, if the other party has appeared in the proceeding, notice of the amendment must be given to that party in the manner provided by the California Rules of Court. If no appearance has been made by the other party, notice of the amendment may be given to the other party by mail to that party's last known address, or by personal service, "if the intent of the party to so amend upon satisfaction of the residence requirements of Section 2320 is set forth in the initial petition or pleading in the manner provided by rules adopted by the Judicial Council" [Fam. Code § 2321(a)].

[3] Support, Custody, and Property in Proceeding for Dissolution or Legal Separation

[a] In General

A spousal or child support award imposes a personal obligation on the party ordered to pay the support; consequently, a court must have in personam jurisdiction over that party to render a valid judgment making such an award [see Judd v. Superior Court (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 38, 45-46, 131 Cal. Rptr. 246 (spousal support); Titus v. Superior Court (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 792, 799, 100 Cal. Rptr. 477 (child support)]. If support is to be paid out of community or quasi-community real property located in California [see Fam. Code § 2011], however, or other property over which the court has in rem or quasi in rem jurisdiction, a court also has quasi in rem jurisdiction to make such a support order [cf. Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 199 n.17, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683 ; see also Fam. Code § 2011 (authority to assert quasi in rem jurisdiction over community and quasi-community real property)].

For a comprehensive discussion of "in personam," "in rem," and "quasi in rem" jurisdiction generally, see Ch. 323, Jurisdiction: Personal Jurisdiction, Inconvenient Forum, and Appearances .

[b] Marital Property

A court also has in rem or quasi in rem jurisdiction to determine the character of marital property located in California [see Fam. Code § 2011; In re Marriage of Leff (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 630, 645-646, 102 Cal. Rptr. 195] . Furthermore, although California courts may not enter decrees directly affecting title or interest in real property located in another state, they may establish and declare the interests in such property [In re Marriage of Ben-Yehoshua (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 259, 269, 154 Cal. Rptr. 80] .

California courts also may characterize personal property located outside California as long as the property was acquired in California during the marriage. Marital interests in such property are governed by the law of the spouses' domicile at the time of acquisition [see Rozan v. Rozan (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 322, 326, 317 P.2d 11] . After a court has determined the character of marital property located outside California, it may order conveyances to comply with its determination [Fam. Code § 2660(b)(1); In re Marriage of Ben-Yehoshua (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 259, 269, 154 Cal. Rptr. 80] .

[c] Child Custody Matters

Special rules set forth in the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act [Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.] govern jurisdiction over child custody matters. See Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody , for discussion of this topic.

[d] Constitutional Considerations ("Minimum Contacts")

California courts may exercise jurisdiction on any basis not inconsistent with the California or United States Constitutions [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10]. Under the standards articulated by the United States Supreme Court in Shaffer v. Heitner [Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683] and International Shoe Co. v. Washington [International Shoe Co. v. Washington (1945) 326 U.S. 310, 66 S. Ct. 154, 90 L. Ed. 95] , due process requires that a defendant "have certain minimum contacts with [a forum state] such that maintenance of [a] suit [in that state] does not offend 'traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice' " [Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 203, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683] . Nevertheless, because jurisdiction based on physical presence alone comports with due process, the Court has subsequently held that particular "minimum contacts" need not be shown if a nonresident spouse is personally served with process while physically present in California [Burnham v. Superior Court of Cal. (1990) 495 U.S. 604, 620, 110 S. Ct. 2105, 109 L. Ed. 2d 631] .

If the respondent is not domiciled in California, the court may assert personal jurisdiction over the respondent only if (1) the respondent was domiciled in California when the proceeding was commenced, (2) the respondent is personally served with process while he or she is physically present in California, (3) the respondent consents to jurisdiction, or (4) the respondent has sufficient minimum contacts with California to support the exercise of jurisdiction. The relevant minimum contacts are the respondent's contacts at the time of the dissolution proceeding, not the respondent's past contacts with California. A minimum contacts analysis may involve a consideration of whether or not the parties met and married in California, had children in California, lived in California at the time of separation, and own property in California [Muckle v. Superior Court (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 218, 226, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 303] . In evaluating whether minimum contacts exist, it has been held that (1) the defendant must have purposefully availed himself or herself of the privilege of conducting activities within the forum state, thus invoking the benefits and protections of its laws; and (2) a sufficient relationship or "nexus" must exist between the defendant and the forum state so that the exercise of personal jurisdiction is reasonable and fair. Determining fairness requires balancing the burden or inconvenience to the defendant against the plaintiff's interest in obtaining relief and the state's interest in adjudicating the dispute [Modlin v. Superior Court (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 1176, 1179, 222 Cal. Rptr. 662] . Generally, a court may find a manifest state interest in the events involved in the litigation, particularly with respect to property within the state's borders, to resolution of a marital relationship commenced within the state, and to protection of a state resident who is a party to the dispute [see Khan v. Superior Court (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1168, 1179-1180, 251 Cal. Rptr. 815] .

If the court finds that the respondent has sufficient minimum contacts with California, it must then consider whether the exercise of personal jurisdiction over the respondent is reasonable. On this question, the court may consider such factors as the parties' ages and health, the parties' financial resources, and the differences between the marital property laws of California and the state in which the respondent is domiciled [Muckle v. Superior Court (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 218, 227-230, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 303] .

[4] Proper Court

The superior courts have exclusive jurisdiction over all proceedings for judgments of dissolution and legal separation [Fam. Code §§ 200, 2010; see In re Marriage of Lackey (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 698, 707, 191 Cal. Rptr. 309] . Because jurisdiction is acquired when process is first served, the court in which process is first served has exclusive jurisdiction regardless of which proceeding was filed first [e.g., Mungia v. Superior Court (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 280, 283, 37 Cal. Rptr. 285] . In such cases, the party who first obtained service can have the second proceeding quashed [see § 221.16[6]].

[5] Proceedings Involving Native Americans

Domestic relations proceedings in which at least one of the spouses is a Native American may present special jurisdictional issues. California is one of six states on which federal law confers jurisdiction over civil causes of action between American Indians or to which Indians are parties [28 U.S.C. § 1360(a)]. This general grant of civil jurisdiction encompasses jurisdiction over family law matters, including divorce proceedings [Purnel v. Purnel (In re Purnel) (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 527, 535-537, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 667 ; see Bryan v. Itasca County, Minnesota (1976) 426 U.S. 373, 384 n.10, 96 S. Ct. 2102, 48 L. Ed. 2d 710 ; United States ex rel. Cobell v. Cobell (9th Cir. 1974) 503 F.2d 790, 794-795] . If the spouses resided on a reservation during marriage, the tribal court for the tribe of which the Indian spouse is a member has at least concurrent jurisdiction with a state court over both spouses for purposes of dissolving their marriage, even if the respondent in the proceeding is not an Indian [Sanders v. Robinson (9th Cir. 1988) 864 F.2d 630, 632-634] .

Federal law does not authorize the alienation, encumbrance, or taxation of any real or personal property belonging to any Indian or Indian tribe that is held in trust by the United States or is subject to any restriction on alienation imposed bythe United States [28 U.S.C. § 1360(b)]. Also, no money accruing from any lease or sale of lands held in trust by the United States for any Indian may become liable for the payment of any debt of, or claim against, the Indian contracted or arising during the trust period, except with the approval and consent of the Secretary of the Interior [25 U.S.C. § 410]. These provisions do not, however, affect the court's jurisdiction to make a child support order, even if the result of the order is that an Indian parent will have to pay child support from income received from Indian Trust Allotments [Purnel v. Purnel (In re Purnel) (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 527, 538-542, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 667] . For a general discussion of child support orders, see Ch. 224 Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support .

Note also that the federal Indian Child Welfare Act (ICWA)--(25 U.S.C. § 1901 et seq.) regulates the adoption, foster placement, and termination of parental rights with regard to Indian children [see 25 U.S.C. § 1902]. However, it expressly does not apply to proceedings for dissolution of marriage, nor does it in any way limit the court's jurisdiction to make child support orders in a dissolution proceeding involving at least one Indian party [see 25 U.S.C. § 1903(1) (child custody disputes that arise in context of divorce proceedings are not covered by ICWA as long as custody is granted to one parent); Purnel Purnel (In re Purnel) (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 527, 536-537, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 667 ; see also County of Inyo v. Jeff (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 487, 494-495, 277 Cal. Rptr. 841 (California has jurisdiction over Indian parent in district-attorney child support reimbursement and collection proceeding)]. For further discussion of the ICWA, see Ch. 12B, Adoptions: Unmarried Minors, § 12B.270.

A family law court is not required to give full force and effect to a tribal custom and tradition providing that funds the tribe distributes to its members should not be used to pay spousal support to nonmembers because it is inconsistent with California law, which requires spouses to support each other [In re Marriage of Jacobsen (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 1187, 1192-1193, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 162] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJurisdictionPersonal Jurisdiction & In Rem ActionsIn Personam ActionsMinimum ContactsFamily LawChild CustodyEnforcementUniform Child Custody Jurisdiction & Enforcement ActFamily LawChild SupportJurisdictionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceJurisdictionResidency RequirementsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal Separation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.12

§ 221.12 Venue

[1] In Proceeding for Dissolution

In a proceeding for dissolution of marriage, the county in which either the petitioner or the respondent has been a resident for three months immediately preceding the commencement of the proceeding is the proper county for trial of the proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a); cf. Fam. Code § 2320 (residency requirements for entry of judgment in dissolution proceeding); residency requirements are discussed in § 221.11[1][a] and [b]]. If the respondent does not reside in California, or if residing in the state and the county in which he or she resides is unknown to the petitioner, the action may be tried in any county the petitioner may designate in his or her complaint. If the respondent is about to depart from the state, the action may be tried in any county where either of the parties reside or service is made [Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.100]. See § 221.16[8] for further discussion of this topic.

[2] In Proceeding for Legal Separation

In a proceeding for legal separation, the county in which either the petitioner or the respondent resides at the commencement of the proceeding is the proper county for trial of the proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a); cf. Forster v. Superior Court (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 782, 786-787, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 258 (applying general venue rules under prior law when no specific statute venue provisions governed legal separation actions)]. If the respondent does not reside in California or if the county in which the respondent resides is unknown to the petitioner, the proceeding may be tried in any county. If the respondent is about to depart from California, the proceeding may be tried in any county where either of the parties reside or where service is made [Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a)]. For further discussion, see § 221.16[8][a].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureVenueIndividual DefendantsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal Separation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.13

§ 221.13 Initial Client Interview

[1] Objectives

The initial attorney-client interview provides both the attorney and the client with a basis on which to make initial decisions concerning the case, and sets the tone of the attorney-client relationship. Because successful representation in a marital termination case requires a high degree of trust and cooperation between attorney and client, and because clients in such cases frequently are angry, unhappy, and unaccustomed to working with attorneys, the attorney should give special consideration to the structure and objectives of the initial interview. For the attorney, the interview should provide sufficient information to decide whether to take the case, lay the groundwork for a successful attorney-client relationship, and begin the information-gathering process that will be essential to a proper handling of the case. For the client, the interview should provide basic information about legal rights and the procedures that may be necessary to safeguard them, provide information about the cost of legal representation, and result in a decision regarding whether to retain the attorney or seek representation elsewhere, as well as whether to initiate legal proceedings or explore another avenue of approach.

[2] Interview Technique

The attorney can assure that these objectives will be accomplished by developing a sound interview technique. The following guidelines may prove useful in this regard:

(1) Schedule a sufficient amount of time for the interview; avoid interruptions.

(2) Allow the client to tell his or her story, but also direct the interview alonglines that will lead toward the accomplishment of the basic objectives.

(3) Direct the discussion along practical, rather than emotional, lines.

(4) Explain briefly the procedures involved in a marital termination case and the general rights of the client, such as the right to half the community property, the right to obtain preliminary orders, the potential right to spousal and/or child support, and the standards for custody determinations.

(5) Initiate a discussion of fees and indicate the basis on which the attorney would agree to take the case.

If appropriate, the initial interview also should be used as an opportunity to consider matters such as the possibility of reconciliation, the advantage of seeking some form of counseling, and/or immediate self-help measures.

[3] Use of Checklist

Most experienced family law practitioners use some form of checklist in connection with the initial client interview. See Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 91 (Matthew Bender 2d ed.), for an example of a detailed client interview checklist counsel may use as a starting point from which to develop his or her own interview form.

[4] Providing Limited Attorney Assistance in Preparation of Court Documents

A growing trend is the movement to "unbundle" legal services in family law cases by counsel performing such limited tasks as drafting certain pleadings or providing advice on an ad hoc basis during the course of litigation. Apart from the need to carefully draft a fee agreement that limits the scope of representation (and any associated malpractice considerations), there is an issue of whether disclosure must be made to the court concerning the representation.

An attorney who contracts with a client to assist in preparing legal documents, but not to make an appearance in a case, is not required to disclose within the text of the document his or her involvement in its preparation [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.70(a)]. But this does not apply to an attorney who has made a general appearance or has contracted with a client to make an appearance on any issue that is subject to the pleadings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.70(c)]. For a mandatory form of notice that is to be used when an attorney will appear on one or more issues, see § 221.348 [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-950].

In addition, a party who applies for an award of attorney's fees for work done by an attorney who only assisted in preparing legal documents and did not make an appearance in the case must disclose to the court information required for a proper determination of attorney fees, including the name of the attorney who assisted in the document preparation, the time involved or other basis for billing, the tasks performed, and the amount billed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.70(b)].

For related forms, see §§ 221.348 -221.351.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal SeparationLegal EthicsClient RelationsAttorney FeesGeneral OverviewLegal EthicsProfessional ConductTribunals

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.14

§ 221.14 Preliminary Advice

[1] General Topics To Be Covered

At the initial client interview or subsequent interviews, the client may seek and the attorney should give advice concerning the following general topics:

(1) Whether and when proceedings should be filed, and what type of proceedings; or, if the other spouse has already filed, what response should be made.

(2) Self-help steps to be taken prior to or concurrently with filing to protect the client's rights.

(3) Any need to obtain ex parte orders or take other action to protect the safety of the client, the client's children, or other members of the client's family or household.

(4) If appropriate, methods of seeking reconciliation or other alternatives to termination of the marriage.

The attorney also should cover general instructions and warnings concerning the client's activities with respect to the case. For example, the client should be warned against committing any illegal acts, instructed to consult the attorney before entering into any written agreements with the other party or providing any information to the other party's attorney, and advised to notify the attorney promptly of any reconciliation, transaction involving substantial community property, or agreement by the parties to disregard the terms of any court order.

[2] Alternatives to Termination of Marriage

In some situations, a client who consults an attorney concerning termination of his or her marriage or a grant of legal separation may be acting in anger or may be undecided about ending the marriage. A client whose spouse has filed a dissolution or annulment action may not want to terminate the marriage at all. In these situations, the attorney may be able to provide valuable advice concerning reconciliation. In helping the client explore the possibility of reconciliation, however, the attorney should take care not to assume the role of marriage counselor. In addition, the attorney must remember that he or she cannot contact an adverse party about the subject matter when that party is represented by an attorney, without the permission of that attorney [Rules of Professional Conduct, Rule 2-100(A)] and must consider conflict of interest issues in any dealings withan unrepresented spouse. Obviously, an attorney should never counsel a client to reconcile or resume contact with a spouse if it appears that doing so would place the client in danger.

Another alternative to immediate proceedings for the termination of the marriage or legal separation is a trial separation. A trial separation period can ease some of the tension between the spouses, and give them time to consider the desirability of terminating the marriage and the possibility of reconciliation, without the initiation of adversary legal proceedings. If spousal or child support is required, it can be paid under the terms of an agreement negotiated by the spouses. Although not required by law, it generally is advisable to reduce these agreements to writing. Dangers inherent in a trial separation are that the community property may be dissipated or concealed during the separation period, however, and the absence of any court order prohibiting the removal or concealment of the children.

[3] Initial Self-Help Measures

[a] Physical Separation and Protection From Violence

If the client is concerned about a threat of physical violence, the client and the children should consider temporarily moving out of the family home, at least until court orders and other protection can be arranged. Once their immediate safety has been assured, protective orders should be obtained. The client or the attorney can make an ex parte application for a restraining order [Fam. Code §§ 240-246, 2045, 6300-6388] or an emergency protective order can be obtained with the help of a law enforcement officer [see Fam. Code §§ 6240-6273]. See Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence , for discussion of obtaining domestic violence protection orders.

[b] Protection of Children

In cases in which an immediate risk is present that the other parent will harm or abduct the parties' child, or if that parent has already harmed the child or committed other acts of domestic violence, the client should take immediate action to secure an ex parte order for temporary custody [see Fam. Code §§ 3064, 6323] in addition to any other necessary protective orders. The client should be warned not to conceal the child from the other parent, even when no custody order restricts the client's conduct. Child concealment may give rise to criminal and other liability [see, e.g., Penal Code §§ 277 (removal by person with right of custody in absence of court order), 278 (removal by person without right of custody), 278.5 (removal by person with custody or visitation rights under order that also grants such rights to another person); Cal Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-210]. Furthermore, in some cases, child concealment may give rise to an estoppel defense in child support enforcement proceedings [see In re Marriage of Damico (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 673, 678-679, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787, 872 P.2d 126] . See discussion in Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement, § 259.13.

[c] Possession and Protection of Property

In the early stages of a marital breakup, the client should be advised to protect his or her interests in the spouses' community property. Because each spouse has equal management and control of the community property [Fam. Code §§ 1100(a), 1102(a)], the client generally has the right to take exclusive possession of all community personal property except the other spouse's business, and can sell or encumber any community personal property except the other spouse's business and personal effects, household furnishings, and personal effects of the children. In addition, the client should be advised to obtain copies of all documents concerning community property before the other spouse makes them unavailable. These documents may include, among others, tax returns, deeds, canceled checks, receipts, loan applications, and statements of assets.

[d] Raising Cash

In some marital breakup situations, the most urgent need of one spouse is cash to support himself or herself, to obtain new housing, to pay the attorney a retainer, or to pay outstanding obligations. If the money cannot be obtained from community bank accounts, the spouse should consider borrowing the money using community property as security (subject to any applicable restraining orders) [see Fam. Code §§ 2040(a)(2), 2045]. Other potential sources of cash are community credit cards, credit unions, and life insurance policies. If possible, loans from relatives or friends should be avoided because the court may not consider them as valid community debts or may decide that their repayment is not an expense to be considered in determining support. A better method is to have the spouse obtain a loan using the relative or friend as a guarantor or cosigner.

[e] Protection From Other Spouse's Debts

Liability of community property and of the separate property of one spouse for the postseparation debts of the other spouse is governed by statute [see Fam. Code §§ 910, 914(a)(2), 4302]. Because some spouses may misrepresent to creditors that both spouses are seeking to incur postseparation debt, some have adopted the practice of notifying prospective creditors that the nonincurring spouse will not accept responsibility for the other spouse's debts. The legal effect of such a notice is unclear, but it would appear that the statutory rules for liability control. The more effective practice is for a spouse to seek an immediate order from the court to restrain the other spouse from, among other things, encumbering property (to obtain funds) except in the usual course of business or for the necessities of life, and to require the other spouse to notify him or her of any proposed extraordinary expenditures and to account to the court for these expenditures [see Fam. Code §§ 2045(b), 6325]. The family law summons contains a substantially similarorder, as well as an order restraining a party from "cashing, borrowing against," and taking other specified actions with respect to insurance policies [see Fam. Code § 2040(b), (c)].

[f] Assistance From Family Law Information Centers

The Legislature has created a pilot project requiring the Judicial Council to establish and administer family law information centers, which are intended to serve as a legal resource to low-income litigants [see Fam. Code § 15000 et seq.]. Each family law information center must be supervised by an active member of the State Bar in good standing, and in superior courts with a family law facilitator, the family law information center must coordinate its services with those of the facilitator [Fam. Code § 15010(b)(2), (3)].

The information and services to be offered to low-income litigants are specified by statute [see Fam. Code § 15010]. The family law information center may not represent any party, and no attorney-client relationship is created between a party and the center as a result of any information or services provided [see Fam. Code § 15010(g)]. Before receiving the services of the family law information center, family law litigants must sign a declaration attesting to their financial eligibility to receive those services. No other efforts to verify financial eligibility are required [see Fam. Code § 15010(d)].

The Judicial Council has adopted guidelines for the operation of family law information centers and family law facilitator offices [Cal. Rules of Ct., Appen. Div. V]. These guidelines specify the role of an attorney and other staff members working in a family law information center or family law facilitator office. They specify that the attorney must provide litigants with pertinent information to allow them to bring their matter before the court, which may include referrals to other sources [Cal. Rules of Ct., Appen. Div. V, Gd. 3]. However, they also specify that family law information centers and family law facilitator offices are not intended to replace private counsel [Cal. Rules of Ct., Appen. Div. V, Gd. 6]. A family law information center or family law facilitator office attorney, and his or her staff, must not make any public comment about the litigants or about any pending or impending matter in the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Appen. Div. V, Gd. 8], and should not assist a litigant who is represented by an attorney unless this attorney consents or the court has referred the litigant for assistance [Cal. Rules of Ct., Appen. Div. V, Gd. 11].

[4] Filing Considerations

[a] No Proceeding Pending

One of the decisions that must be made at or soon after the initial client interview is whether a marital termination proceeding should be filed immediately or whether that decision should be postponed. Some of the possible reasons to file immediately may include the client's need for immediate judicial relief, such as temporary spousal or child support, temporary restraining orders, or a temporary custody order; the client's wish to obtain the final decree as soon as possible because, for instance, he or she wants to remarry or wants to file income tax returns as a single person; the potential respondent may leave the jurisdiction or may try to avoid service of process; and/or the client's emotional or psychological may be best served by taking immediate legal action to terminate the marriage. In contrast, a client may decide to postpone filing because a reasonable chance for reconciliation exists and postponement of filing may enhance that chance and avoid unnecessary expense; the parties decide on a trial separation; the client is ambivalent about whether he or she wants to terminate the marriage; the client prefers to wait and let the other party file to avoid the expense or trauma of the initial filing; and/or the client wants to postpone the final decree for tax reasons or to obtain social security benefits.

The attorney also should consider whether summary dissolution is available [see Fam. Code § 2400] and, if it is, advise the client as to the summary dissolution procedures and the advantages and disadvantages of the procedure. See § 221.21 for discussion of this topic.

[b] Proceeding Pending

If the other party has filed the proceeding, the responding party has two basic choices. The first is to file a response or appropriate motion (see § 221.16[1]). The second is to obtain an extension of time, to negotiate a marital termination agreement, and to let the other party obtain the decree by default (see § 221.20). The second alternative, which saves filing and attorney's fees, may be preferable when the parties are acting reasonably and do not require immediate judicial intervention to settle their differences.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesInjunctionsGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild CustodyAwardsGeneral OverviewFamily LawFamily Protection & WelfareChildrenAbuse, Endangerment & NeglectFamily LawFamily Protection & WelfareCohabitants & SpousesAbuse, Endangerment & NeglectLegal EthicsClient RelationsConflicts of Interest

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.15

§ 221.15 Petitioning for Dissolution or Legal Separation

[1] General Procedural Rules

The Family Law Rules [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.10 et seq.], adopted by the Judicial Council [Fam. Code § 211], govern proceedings for dissolution of marriage, nullity of marriage, and legal separation of the parties [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.10(c), 5.20]. Although the rules cover most procedural aspects of these proceedings, they provide that, except as otherwise provided in the rules, all provisions of law applicable to civil actions generally apply to a proceeding under the Family Code if they otherwise would apply to these proceedings without reference to the Family Law Rules [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.21]. To the extent the Family Law Rules conflict with the general provisions of law governing civil actions, the Family Law Rules prevail [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.21; see, e.g., Inre Marriage of McKim (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 673, 678, 100 Cal. Rptr. 140, 493 P.2d 868] .

[2] Judicial Council Forms

As a part of the Family Law Rules, the Judicial Council has promulgated forms for use in dissolution and separation proceedings [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-100 et seq.]. All forms adopted or approved by the Judicial Council for use in any proceeding under the Family Code, including any form in the FL series, are adopted as rules of court under the authority of Fam. Code § 211, Cal. Const., art. VI, § 6, and other applicable law [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.25; see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 1.31 (mandatory forms), 1.35 (optional forms), 1.37 (use of current version of adopted or approved form)]. Courts may not require the use of an altered mandatory or optional Judicial Council form in place of the Judicial Council form; a judicial officer may, however, modify a Judicial Council form order as necessary or appropriate to adjudicate a particular case [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 1.31(e) (mandatory forms), 1.35(e) (optional forms)].

These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Petition and Related Papers

[a] Petition for Dissolution or Legal Separation

A party who seeks a judicial determination altering his or her marital status must complete and file a petition in Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-100 (see § 221.310). The proceeding is commenced when the petition is filed. A joint petition for summary dissolution may be filed in certain cases [Fam. Code § 2400 et seq.; see § 221.21 for discussion of this topic].

Grounds of irreconcilable differences or incurable insanity must be pled generally [Fam. Code § 2310]. Allegations of specific acts of misconduct, such as allegations that parental custody would be detrimental to a child [Fam. Code § 3041], are not permitted [Fam. Code § 2335], and are subject to a motion to strike [see Code Civ. Proc. § 435; see also § 221.16[5]].

The petitioner may not assert any cause of action or claim for relief other than those provided in the Family Law Rules and the Family Code [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.104]. For a discussion of joinder in the dissolution context, see § 221.17. For a general discussion of consolidation of actions, see Ch. 125, Consolidation, Severance, and Coordination of Actions .

Only the husband or the wife is permitted to be the petitioner in proceedings for dissolution or legal separation [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.102(a)]. A minor may bring a proceeding for dissolution or legal separation in his or her own name [see Fam. Code §§ 7002, 7050].

An incompetent spouse may obtain a dissolution or legal separation if it is established at the hearing that facts exist to show that the marriage should be dissolved or a legal separation obtained on the grounds of irreconcilable differences [In re Marriage of Higgason (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 476, 483-485, 110 Cal. Rptr. 897, 516 P.2d 289] . In this context, an "incompetent person" includes any person for whom a guardian ad litem or a conservator may be appointed [see Code Civ. Proc. § 372; Prob. Code § 1801]. Such a person may bring a dissolution proceeding through the conservator of his or her estate or through a guardian ad litem.

A family court may appoint a guardian ad litem at any time in order to protect an incompetent person's interests [Code Civ. Proc. § 373; see In re Marriage of Caballero (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1149-1150, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 46 (trial court erred in dismissing petition for legal separation filed by attorney-in-fact for wife suffering from Alzheimer's Disease and in summarily rejecting attorney-in-fact's request to be appointed as wife's guardian ad litem)]. In some cases, an incompetent person's property and support rights are best determined by a family court proceeding, rather than a proceeding in probate court, because of the additional statutory remedies available to determine inter-spousal issues. Furthermore, an incompetent spouse is entitled to all the procedural rights and protections of a competent spouse [see In re Marriage of Caballero (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1149-1150, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 46] .

For forms and further discussion on appointment of a guardian ad litem, see Ch. 291, Guardians ad Litem .

If one of the parties to the family law proceeding assigns, or has assigned, his or her right to receive support to a county as a condition of receiving public benefits, the county is an indispensable party to the proceeding and is entitled to notice of any proceeding that may affect its interest as an assignee [In re Marriage of Mena (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 12, 19, 21, 260 Cal. Rptr. 314] .

[b] Mandatory Declaration of Disclosure

Each party in a marital dissolution proceeding must serve on the other party a special preliminary declaration of disclosure (see § 221.311) of the proceeding, as described below. The declaration is required to provide full and accurate disclosure of all assets and liabilities in which one or both parties may have an interest [Fam. Code § 2103]. Along with the preliminary declaration of disclosure, each party must provide the other party with a completed income and expense declaration [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150] (see § 221.332), unless an income and expense declaration already has been provided and is current and valid [Fam. Code § 2104(e)].

The preliminary declaration of disclosure is required to set forth with sufficient particularity, which a person of reasonable and ordinary intelligence can ascertain, (1) the identity of all assets in which the party has or may have an interest and all liabilities for which he or she is or may be liable, regardless of the characterization of the asset or liability as community, quasi-community, or separate, and (2) the party's percentage of ownership in each asset and percentage of obligation foreach liability when the property is not solely owned by one or both of the parties. The preliminary declaration may also set forth the party's characterization of each asset or liability [Fam. Code § 2104(c)].

The declaration of disclosure may be served along with the petition and accompanying papers, although it is not required to be. Instead, the operative statute provides that each party must serve on the other a preliminary declaration of disclosure "after or concurrently with" service of the petition [Fam. Code § 2104(a)]. This preliminary declaration must not be filed with the court, except on court order, but proof of service of the preliminary declaration must be filed with the court [Fam. Code § 2104(b); see § 221.372].

A party may amend his or her preliminary declaration of disclosure without leave of court [Fam. Code § 2104(d)]. As part of the Legislature's expressed policy of promoting complete disclosure of information between parties regarding assets and liabilities and income and expenses early in the proceedings, "each party has a continuing duty to update and augment that disclosure to the extent there have been any material changes so that at the time the parties enter into an agreement for the resolution of any of these issues, or at the time of trial on these issues, each party will have as full and complete knowledge of the relevant underlying facts as is reasonably possible under the circumstances of the case" [Fam. Code § 2100(c)]. Proof of service of an amended preliminary declaration of disclosure must be filed with the court [Fam. Code § 2104(d)].

In general, except by court order or the parties' stipulation, before or at the time the parties enter into an agreement for the resolution of property or support issues other than pendente lite support, or, if the case goes to trial, no later than 45 days before the first assigned trial date, each party is required to serve on the other party a final declaration of disclosure and an updated or current income and expense declaration, unless the parties have mutually waived the final declaration of disclosure [Fam. Code §§ 2105(a), (d), 2109, 2110].

In the event that one party fails to exchange and serve on the other party either a preliminary or a final declaration of disclosure, or fails to provide the information in the declaration with sufficient particularity, and if the other party has served the declaration on the noncomplying party, the following procedure is prescribed. First, the complying party may, within a reasonable time, request preparation of the appropriate declaration of disclosure or further particularity [Fam. Code § 2107(a)]. If the noncomplying party then fails to comply, the complying party may do one or more of the following [Fam. Code § 2107(b)]:

> (1) File a motion to compel a further response.
>
> (2) File a motion for an order preventing the noncomplying party from presenting evidence on issues that should have been covered in the disclosure declaration.
>
> (3) File a motion showing good cause for the court to grant the complying party's voluntary waiver of receipt of the noncomplying party's preliminary declaration of disclosure under Fam. Code § 2104 or final declaration of disclosure under Fam. Code § 2105. This voluntary waiver does not affect a party's rights under Fam. Code § 2107(d), discussed, below.

If any party fails to comply with any provision of Fam. Code § 2100 et seq., in addition to any other remedies provided by law, the court must impose money sanctions against the noncomplying party in an amount sufficient to deter repetition of the improper conduct or comparable conduct, and must include reasonable attorney's fees, costs incurred, or both, unless the court finds that the noncomplying party acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make an imposition of the sanction unjust [Fam. Code § 2107(c)].

A court must set aside a judgment that is entered when the parties have failed to comply with all of the disclosure requirements of Fam. Code § 2100 et seq., because a failure to comply with these requirements does not constitute harmless error [Fam. Code § 2107(d)]. If the court granted the complying party's voluntary waiver of receipt of the noncomplying party's preliminary declaration of disclosure under Fam. Code § 2107(b)(3), it may set aside the judgment only at the request of the complying party, unless the motion to set aside the judgment is based on one of the following [Fam. Code § 2107(d)]:

> (1) Actual fraud if the defrauded party was kept in ignorance or in some other manner was fraudulently prevented from fully participating in the proceeding.
>
> (2) Perjury, as defined in Pen. Code § 118, in the preliminary or final declaration of disclosure, or in the current income and expense statement.

The parties are not entitled, however, to a reversal of the judgment or a new trial based on their failure to exchange final declarations of disclosure absent a showing of miscarriage of justice [In re Marriage of Steiner (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 519, 522, 528, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 671 (before Fam. Code § 2107(d) can be basis of reversal on appeal or ground to compel granting of new trial, noncomplying litigant must identify some portion of judgment materially affected by nondisclosure)].

[c] Declaration Under Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act

If there are minor children of the marriage that is the subject of the proceeding, the petitioner must file a declaration under the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (UCCJEA) (see § 221.312). In addition, the operative statute requires every party in a custody proceeding to file the declaration in the party's first pleading or in an affidavit attached to that pleading [Fam. Code § 3429(d); see Judicial Council Form FL-105]. Each party has a continuing duty to inform the court of any custody proceeding concerning the child in California or any other state of which he or she obtained information during the pending proceeding [Fam. Code § 3429(d)].

[d] Lis Pendens

In any family law proceeding in which the title or right to possession of real property is alleged, the petitioner, at the time of filing the petition, may record a notice of pendency of the action. Doing so effectively prevents the property from being conveyed until its status has been determined. The notice must be recorded in the office of the recorder of each county in which all or part of the property is situated and must contain the names of all parties to the action and a description of the property affected by the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 405.20]. Although notice need not be filed, doing so as soon as possible provides greater protection until the status of the property at issue is determined. Before the notice is recorded, a copy of the notice must be mailed, by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, to all known parties adversely affected by the real property claim, and to all owners of record affected by the claim [see Code Civ. Proc. § 405.22]. Immediately following recordation, a copy of the notice also must be filed with the court in which the action is pending. Service must be made immediately oneach adverse party later joined in the action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 405.22].

A petition for dissolution that does not allege a community interest in specific real property does not state a "real property claim" so as to support the filing of a notice of lis pendens with regard to that property [Gale v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1388, 1390, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 554 (plain language of Code Civ. Proc. § 405.4 requires pleading that alleges claim affecting title to or possession to "specific real property")]. Failing to specify items of community and separate property in the petition or response, and instead referring to "such assets as may be discovered at a later date" or stating that "the full nature and extent of petitioner's community property is unknown at this time," does not comply with the statutory requirements allowing the filing of a notice of lis pendens [Gale v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1388, 1390-1391, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 554] .

From the time of recording of the notice, a purchaser, encumbrancer, or other transferee of the real property described in the notice is deemed to have constructive notice of the pendency of the proceeding as it relates to the property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 405.24]. Filing a lis pendens notifies all persons of the pendency of an action. Thus, those acquiring an interest in the property after the institution of the action are bound by any judgment secured in the proceeding that affects the property [Brandolino v. Lindsay (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 319, 325, 75 Cal. Rptr. 56 ; see California Real Estate Law and Practice, §§ 121.30 -121.37 (Matthew Bender)].

The court must order a notice of the pendency of action expunged if the court finds that (1) the pleading on which notice is based does not contain a real property claim [see Code Civ. Proc. § 405.31], (2) the claimant has not established by a preponderance of the evidence the probable validity of the real property claim [see Code Civ. Proc. § 405.32], or (3) the real property claim has probable validity, but adequate relief can be secured to the claimant by the giving of an undertaking [see Code Civ. Proc. § 405.33]. The entry of judgment does not automatically entitle the party in whose favor judgment was rendered to expunge a lis pendens. Instead, the lis pendens remains of record after judgment unless a statutory ground for expungement is established [see McKnight v. Faber (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 639, 645-646, 230 Cal. Rptr. 57] .

If the court finds that the claimant has not established by a preponderance of the evidence the probable validity of the real property claim, the court must grant a motion to expunge the lis pendens pending appeal, except in the rare case in which the court makes a finding on the record that its ruling will probably be overturned on appeal [Mix v. Superior Court (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 987, 993, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 826 (aggrieved party may seek review of order granting expungement by petition for writ of mandate and request stay of order)].

[e] In Forma Pauperis

Permission to proceed in forma pauperis must be granted to litigants who declare under penalty of perjury either that they receive certain governmental assistance or their monthly income is 125 percent or less of the current monthly poverty threshold annually established by the Secretary of Health and Human Services [Gov. Code § 68632(b); see Cruz v. Superior Court (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 175, 187-191, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 917 (hearing on applicant's eligibility for fee waiver)]. Applicable amounts under the second test revised yearly and are printed on the Information Sheet on Waiver of Court Fees and Costs, available from the court clerk. The court also must grant permission to proceed in forma pauperis in any other instance in which the court, in its discretion, determines that it is appropriate because the litigant is unable to proceed without using money necessary for the use of the litigant or the litigant's family to provide for the common necessaries of life [Gov. Code § 68632(c); see Earls v. Superior Court of San Luis Obispo County (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 109, 114-117, 98 Cal. Rptr. 302, 490 P.2d 814] .

Mandatory forms for use in obtaining permission to proceed in forma pauperis have been promulgated by the Judicial Council [Cal. Judicial Council Forms Application for Waiver of Court Fees and Costs, Order on Application for Waiver of Court Fees and Costs, Notice of Waiver of Court Fees and Costs, and Application for Waiver of Additional Court Fees and Costs].

For further discussion and forms for use in proceedings in forma pauperis, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees .

[4] Summons

[a] Issuance

The procedure for issuance of summons in a family law proceeding [see § 221.313] is the same as is applicable to civil actions generally; the clerk does not return the original summons, but maintains it in the file [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.110(a); see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-110]. However, in any action for marital dissolution or legal separation, the summons must contain certain temporary restraining orders and a warning regarding treatment of jointly held community property in the event of the death of either party before that property is divided [see Fam. Code § 2040(a), (c)]. On filing of the petition in the proceeding, issuance of the summons, and personal service of the petition and summons on the respondent (or on waiver and acceptance of service by the respondent [see § 221.314]), a temporary restraining order is in effect against both parties until the final decree is entered, the petition is dismissed, or until further order of the court [Fam. Code §§ 232-235, 2040]. For further discussion of the orders authorized under this provision, see § 221.18]. For discussion ofjointly held property, see Ch. 222, Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation .

[b] Joinder Summons

If the court orders a third party joined in the family law proceeding [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.154(a)], it must order that a summons be issued and that the third party be served with a copy of the application for joinder, the pleading attached to the application for joinder, the order of joinder, and the summons [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.158(c)]. The summons must be in the form prescribed by the Family Law Rules for joinder summons [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-375] and should be prepared by the attorney using information from the petition's heading.

[c] Papers to Be Served With Summons

The copy of the summons (see § 221.313) must be served with a copy of the petition [see Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10 et seq.] (see § 221.310) that conforms to the original filed petition [see In re Marriage of Van Sickle (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 728, 740, 137 Cal. Rptr. 568 (substantial and misleading deviations in copies served with summons operate to defeat court's jurisdiction, although inconsequential irregularities do not)]. Other papers--for example, an order to show cause--also may be served with the summons and petition. Once service is completed, proof of service should be made using the Proof of Service of Summons form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-115] (see § 221.314).

[5] Service of Summons

[a] Requirement

Regardless of the method used, the court does not acquire jurisdiction over the respondent until the summons has been served on the respondent or the respondent has made a general appearance [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50(a)].

[b] Strategy in Serving Summons

Service of summons can pose problems in family law cases in which the respondent may try to avoid service. If the attorney does not anticipate problems with service of summons service by mail using the Notice and Acknowledgment of Receipt form (see § 221.315) is the most simple and least expensive method of service. This method may cause delays if the notice is not signed and returned, however, and will alert the respondent to the fact that service is being attempted. If problems are expected in achieving service, the attorney should retain a competent process server and warn him or her of the difficulties. Usually, a process server can obtain personal service or establish the facts necessary to accomplish service by substituted service or by publication.

If the respondent is out of state, service by mail either by Notice and Acknowledgment of Receipt or with return receipt are the easiest methods. Once again, however, attempts to serve by mail will warn the respondent, although he or she may sign the return receipt without realizing the letter contains a summons and petition. If difficulty is expected, it should not be too expensive to retain a process server in the relevant location and use personal service, which is permissible out of state.

[c] Persons Who May Serve Summons

A summons may be served by any person who is at least 18 years of age and not a party to the proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 414.10]. If the petitioner personally serves the summons, the service is invalid and a default cannot be entered [see, e.g., Sullivan v. Sullivan (1967) 256 Cal. App. 2d 301, 303-305, 64 Cal. Rptr. 82] . Service is invalid if a "household member" protected by a domestic violence injunctive order serves the summons [Caldwell v. Coppola (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 859, 863-865, 268 Cal. Rptr. 453 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 414.10]. Although it is not advisable to do so, the petitioner's attorney is not a party to the proceeding and can serve the summons [Guardianship of Andrews (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 500, 505, 110 P.2d 399] .

[d] Service by Personal Delivery

A summons may be served by personal delivery of a copy of the summons and of the petition to the person to be served. Service of summons in this manner is complete at the time of delivery. The date on which personal delivery is made must be entered on or affixed to the face of the copy of the summons at the time of its delivery, but service of a summons without the date is valid and effective [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10].

[e] Substituted Service

If a copy of the summons and of the complaint cannot with reasonable diligence be personally delivered to the person to be served, a summons may be served by leaving a copy of the summons and of the petition at the person's dwelling house, usual place of abode, usual place of business, or usual mailing address, in the presence of a competent member of the household or a person apparently in charge of his or her office, place of business, or usual mailing address, at least 18 years of age, who must be informed of the contents of the summons. Thereafter, a copy of the summons and petition must be mailed by first class mail, postage prepaid, to the person to be served at the place where a copy of the summons and petition were left. Service of a summons in this manner is deemed complete on the tenth day after the mailing [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.20(b)].

Substituted service cannot be used unless personal service has been attempted with reasonable diligence and has been unsuccessful [see Code Civ. Proc. § 415.20(b)]. The facts establishing reasonable diligence must be set forth in adeclaration under penalty of perjury, which must be attached to the proof of service [Code Civ. Proc. § 417.10; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-115 (instructions in proof of service)].

[f] Service by Mail

A summons may be served by mailing a copy of the summons and the petition to the person to be served by first class mail, postage prepaid, together with two copies of the Notice and Acknowledgment of Receipt (see § 221.315) and a return envelope, postage prepaid, addressed to the sender [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.30(a)]. Service of a summons in this manner is only effective and is deemed complete on the date a written acknowledgment of receipt of summons is executed by the person served, if the acknowledgment is returned to the sender. If the person fails to complete and return the acknowledgment form within 20 days from the date of its mailing, he or she is liable for reasonable expenses subsequently incurred in serving or attempting to serve him or her by another method [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.30(c), (d)].

[g] Service by Publication

A summons may be served by publication if, upon affidavit (or declaration under penalty of perjury) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5], it appears to the satisfaction of the court in which the proceeding is pending that the party to be served cannot be served, with reasonable diligence, in another authorized manner, and one of the following conditions has been satisfied [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.50(a)]:

(1) A cause of action exists against the party on whom service is to be made or he or she is a necessary or proper party to the proceeding; or

(2) The party to be served has or claims an interest in real or personal property in California that is subject to the jurisdiction of the court or the relief demanded in the proceeding consists wholly or in part in excluding the party from any interest in the property.

An order for service of summons by publication is obtained by application to the court in which the matter is pending [see Code Civ. Proc. § 415.50(a)]. The facts on which the application are based must be established by affidavits made by persons with knowledge of the facts--usually the process server--that personal service was attempted and was unsuccessful [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]. Alternatively, the attorney may make an affidavit or declaration describing efforts to locate the party. The petitioner's verification of the petition constitutes an affidavit that a cause of action for dissolution exists against the respondent.

If the court finds that the requisite conditions are present, it must order the summons published in a California newspaper most likely to give actual notice to the party to be served. The court also must direct that a copy of the summons, the complaint, and the order for publication be mailed to the party if his or her address is ascertained before expiration of the time prescribed for publication of summons [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.50(b)]. Publication must be once a week for four successive weeks. Four publications in a newspaper regularly published once a week or more, with at least five days intervening between the respective publication dates, not counting the publication dates, are sufficient. Service of summons is deemed complete at the end of 28 days [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.50(b), (c); Gov. Code § 6064].

[h] Service on Persons in Other States

In addition to all the methods described above, a summons may be served on a party in a family law proceeding who is outside California under the law of the place where the summons is served or by sending a copy of the summons and petition to the person to be served by first-class mail, postage prepaid, requiring a return receipt [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.40]. Service is not made unless the proof of service includes evidence satisfactory to the court establishing actual delivery to the person to be served by a signed return receipt or other evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 417.20(a)]. Thus, a return receipt bearing the notice "unclaimed" is not sufficient to establish receipt [Stamps v. Superior Court (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 108, 110, 92 Cal. Rptr. 151 ; but see In re Marriage of Tusinger (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 80, 82-83, 215 Cal. Rptr. 838 (actual notice)]. The return receipt must be signed by the person served or otherwise establish actual delivery to him or her. Service of summons by this form of mail is deemed complete on the tenth day after the mailing [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.40].

[i] Service on Persons in Foreign Countries

A summons may be served on persons outside the United States by any of the means described above or, provided the court before or after service finds that the service is reasonably calculated to give actual notice, (1) as prescribed by the law of the place where the person is served or (2) as directed by the foreign authority in response to a letter rogatory [Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10(c); see, e.g., In re Alyssa F. (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 846, 852, 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 (failure to properly serve party who resides outside United States under Hague Service Convention renders all subsequent proceedings void as to that party even if he or she has notice of proceedings); see also In re Jorge G. (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 125, 134-135, 78 Cal. Rptr. 3d 552 (California does not have personal jurisdiction over party in Mexico who was not properly served in accordance with either Mexican or California law, but it is appropriate to give petitioner reasonable time to make proper service before dismissing case for improper service under Convention)].

[j] Notice When Custody Is at Issue

The Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act [Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.] contains specific provisions governing the notice required for the exercise of jurisdiction over out-of-state persons when child custody is involved [Fam. Code § 3405]. The specific provisions generally conform to the ordinary statutory scheme for service of summons, but the notice provisions control in cases of conflict [see Coker v. Superior Court (1945) 70 Cal. App. 2d 199, 201 , 160 P.2d 885 ; Stats. 1973, ch. 693 (Uniform Act); Stats. 1969, ch. 1610 (out-of-state persons)]. Under the UCCJEA, service must be given to out-of-state persons in a manner prescribed by the law of California for service of process or by the law of the state in which the service is made. The notice must be given in a manner reasonably calculated to give actual notice, but may be by publication if other means are ineffective [Fam. Code § 3408(a)].

Proof of service may be made in the manner prescribed by the law of California or by the law of the state in which service was made [Fam. Code § 3408(b)].

Notice is not required for a California court to exercise jurisdiction over an out-of-state person who submits to the court's jurisdiction [Fam. Code § 3408(c)].

[6] Postpetition Procedures

[a] Amended and Supplemental Pleadings

Amendments to pleadings, amended pleadings, and supplemental pleadings may be served and filed in conformity with the provisions of law applicable to this type of matter in civil actions generally [see Code Civ. Proc. § 464 et seq.], but the petitioner is not required to file a reply if the respondent has filed a response. If both parties have filed pleadings, no default may be entered on an amended pleading of either party [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.108(b)]. The most common reason for amending a petition or response is to add property to the lists of community or separate property. If the characterization of property is changed by amendment, however, the allegations in the original petition may be used as an admission against interest at trial [Evid. Code § 1220].

The petition may be amended once, without a court order, at any time before the response is filed by filing the amendment and serving a copy on the adverse party [Code Civ. Proc. § 472]. If the respondent has not yet appeared in the action, a copy of the filed amendment or amended petition must be served on the respondent in the same manner as that for service of summons [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Rhoades (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 169, 172, 211 Cal. Rptr. 531] . After the response has been filed, the court, without notice to the adverse party, in furtherance of justice and on any terms as may be proper, may allow a party to amend any pleading or proceeding by adding or striking out the name of any party, or by correcting a mistake in the name of a party, or a mistake in any other respect [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)(1)]. Therefore, a motion for an amendment can be made ex parte or orally. Similarly, in its discretion the court may allow, after notice to the adverse party, any terms as may be just, an amendment to any pleading [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a)(1)]. A motion to amend should be made on the Notice of Motion form and accompanied by the Application for Order and Declaration in Support of Notice of Motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118; Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-301, FL-310] (see §§ 221.326 and) and a memorandum of points and authorities.

A supplemental pleading is used when events occur that must be included in a party's pleadings after the filing of the original pleading [Code Civ. Proc. § 464(a)]. In general, supplemental pleadings are less frequently used in family law proceedings because of the availability of amendment to the pleadings.

A supplemental petition requires the permission of the court [Code. Civ. Proc. § 464], and the motion for permission to file the supplemental pleading must be made on the Notice of Motion form and accompanied by the Request for Order and Declaration in Support of Notice of Motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118; Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-310, FL-329].

[b] Supplemental Complaint for Child Support of Unborn Child

If child support is already in issue in any proceeding for dissolution of marriage, legal separation of the parties, or support of children, a supplemental complaint may be filed, seeking a judgment or order of paternity or support for a child, when paternity or child support are already at issue. The supplemental complaint may be filed either before or after final judgment in the underlying action [Fam. Code § 2330.1; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 464(b); Fam. Code § 2010 (authority of court to order support for unborn children; Fam. Code § 3651(b) (authority to modify support order to add support for child named in supplemental complaint)]. Supplemental complaints in such an instance would primarily be used in district attorney support actions, because the marital parties are currently permitted to include any children born to them--including those born before marriage (to the same parties)--in the underlying petition for marital dissolution, legal separation, or nullity [see Fam. Code § 2330.1].

[c] Motion to Quash Responsive Relief

The petitioner may move to quash, in whole or in part, any request for affirmative relief in the response because (1) the respondent lacks legal capacity to sue, (2) a prior judgment exists or other action is pending between the same parties for the same cause, (3) the residence requirement [see Fam. Code § 2320] is lacking, or because of the statute of limitations in Fam. Code § 2211 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.121(c); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.120(a)(3) (motion to quash on these grounds constitutes general appearance)]. See § 221.16[6] and [7] for further discussion of motions to quash.

[d] Motion to Strike

The petitioner may move to strike material from the response that is not required by the mandatory form of response [see Code Civ. Proc. § 435]. The basis for such a motion and the procedure for filing it are set forth in § 221.16[5].

[e] Redacting Social Security Numbers and Sealing Financial Pleadings

[i] Redacting Social Security Numbers

With limited exception, a petitioner or respondent may redact any Social Security number from any pleading, attachment, document, or other written material filed with the court pursuant to a petition for dissolution of marriage, nullity of marriage, or legal separation. The Judicial Council form of petition, as well as the form of response, must contain a notice of the right to redact these numbers [Fam. Code § 2024.5(a)].

However, an abstract of support judgment, as well as the form required pursuant to Fam. Code § 4014(b), and any similar form created to collect child or spousal support payments may not be redacted [Fam. Code § 2024.5(b)].

[ii] Sealing Financial Pleadings

Under Fam. Code § 2024.6, on the request by a party to a petition for marital dissolution. legal separation, or nullity of marriage, a court must order the sealing of a pleading that lists the parties' financial assets and liabilities and provides the location or identifying information about them [Fam. Code § 2024.6(a); see § 221.336]. For these purposes, "pleading" means a document that sets forth or declares the parties' assets and liabilities, income and expenses, a marital settlement agreement that lists and identifies the parties' assets and liabilities, or any document filed with the court incidental to the declaration or agreement that lists and identifies financial information [Fam. Code § 2024.6(c)].

A party who makes a request to seal a pleading pursuant to Fam. Code § 2024.6 must serve a copy of the pleading on the other party and file a proof of service with the request to seal the pleading [Fam. Code § 2024.6(e)]. The request may be made by ex parte application [Fam. Code § 2024.6(a)].

Nothing sealed pursuant to Fam. Code § 2024.6 may be unsealed except on petition to the court and for good cause shown [Fam. Code § 2024.6(a)]. However, Family Code Section 2024.6 does not preclude a party to the proceeding from using any document or information contained in a sealed pleading in any manner that is not otherwise prohibited by law [Fam. Code § 2024.6(f)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPleading & PracticePleadingsComplaintsRequirementsCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticePleadingsProceedings in Forma PauperisGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticeService of ProcessSummonsContent & FormFamily LawChild CustodyEnforcementUniform Child Custody Jurisdiction & Enforcement ActFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.16

§ 221.16 Responding to the Petition

[1] Respondent's Options

After being served with the petition for dissolution or legal separation, the respondent must take action within 30 days. Failure to take action may result in the respondent's default being taken unless an extension of time is obtained by stipulation or from the court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 412.20(a)(3), (4); Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-110]. Within 30 days after service, the respondent can file either a response or a motion to strike, to quash the proceeding, to quash the service of summons, to change venue, or to stay or dismiss the proceeding on the ground of inconvenient forum. The respondent may also simultaneously file a motion to quash service of summons or a motion to stay or dismiss on the grounds of inconvenient forum and a response [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(e)]. If the proceeding is uncontested--as, for instance, when the respondent agrees to the relief demanded in the petition or the parties have executed a marriage termination agreement--the respondent can allow a default to be taken, either by taking no action or by filing an appearance (§ 221.16[4]).

[2] Response

[a] In General

Regardless of the type of relief sought in the petition, the respondent may serve and file a responsive pleading--called a "response" (see § 221.316)--within 30 days of the date of the service on the respondent of a copy of the petition and the summons [Fam. Code § 2020; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-120].

The respondent's default must be entered on petitioner's application [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.122] unless respondent files a response within 30 days of the service of the petition [see Fam. Code § 2020] or one of the following conditions is satisfied:

(1) The time to respond has been extended by the court or by stipulation with opposing counsel [Code Civ. Proc. § 1054; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.15].

(2) The respondent files a notice of motion to quash the proceedings, in which case the response must be filed within 15 days after notice of the court's ruling on the motion.

(3) The respondent files a notice of motion to quash service of summons or a notice of filing for a writ of mandate [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.122(a)(2), (3)], in which case the time to respond is extended to 15 days after service on the respondent of a written notice of entry of an order denying the motion. For good cause shown, however, the court may extend the respondent's time to plead for an additional period no greater than 20 days [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(b)]. The respondent may also move to quash service of summons and simultaneously respond [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(e)].

(4) The respondent files a motion to transfer the proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 395, 397], in which case time to respond is extended as described in (3), above.

(5) The respondent has entered a general appearance [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.122(a)(1)].

[b] Accompanying Papers

If the custody of a minor child is at issue in the proceeding, the respondent must file a declaration under the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (see § 221.312) with the response [see Fam. Code § 3429]. A motion to strike or a motion to quash the proceeding may be filed at the same time as the response. An order to show cause or notice of motion to secure a temporary order for support, custody, attorney's fees and costs, or injunctive relief also may be filed concurrently with the response.

[c] Service

The response and accompanying papers must be served on the attorney for the petitioner, or directly on the petitioner if he or she has no attorney [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.10(b), (e)]. Although service may be made personally or by express mail, overnight delivery, or facsimile transmission, service usually is made by first class mail [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1012, 1013]. The person mailing the response should execute a declaration of service by mail, which must be filed with the response and attached to the copy served by mail [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(b), 1013a(1)].

[d] Filing

The original of the response and other accompanying papers, including the declaration of service, must be filed with the clerk. A fee will be charged if the response is the respondent's first pleading.

[3] Mandatory Declaration of Disclosure

In any marital dissolution proceeding commenced on or after January 1, 1993, each party must serve on the other a special preliminary declaration of disclosure (see § 221.311) at the outset of the proceeding [see Fam. Code § 2103]. The declaration may be served along with the response and accompanying papers, but need not be [see Fam. Code § 2104(a)]. See § 221.15[3][b] for discussion of this topic.

[4] Appearance

[a] What Constitutes Appearance

A respondent appears in a proceeding when he or she files any of the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.120(a)]:

(1) A response or answer, except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10 (e.g. if filed with a motion to quash) [§ 221.16[7]].

(2) A notice of motion to strike under Code Civ. Proc. § 435.

(3) A notice of motion to transfer the proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 395.

(4) A written notice of his or her appearance.

After having made an appearance, the respondent or his or her attorney is entitled to notice of all subsequent proceedings for which notice is required to be given [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.120(b)]. If the respondent prefers to challenge personal jurisdiction, he or she can do so by filing a motion to quash the summons, which constitutes only a special appearance. An appearance at a hearing at which ex parte relief is sought, or an appearance at a hearing for which an ex parte application for a provisional remedy is made, is not a general appearance and does not constitute a waiver of the right to make a motion to quash under Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10 [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.11]. The respondent may also move to quash the summons and simultaneously respond [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(e)] without making a general appearance unless and until the court denies the motion and enters an order denying the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(e)(1)].

[b] Notice of Appearance

A respondent who agrees to the relief demanded in the petition or who is willing to sign a stipulated judgment can file an Appearance, Stipulation and Waivers (see § 221.339) rather than a response, thus entitling him or her to be given notice of subsequent proceedings. Filing a notice of appearance, however, does not prevent the petitioner from obtaining a default judgment. See § 221.20 for discussion of default judgments and uncontested proceedings.

[5] Motion to Strike

[a] Basis for Motion

At the request of either party on noticed motion, or on its own motion, the court may strike or disregard any matter not required by the official forms of petition and response [see Code Civ. Proc. § 435; cf. In re Marriage of DeRoque (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 1090, 1093-1094, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 618 (court properly denied motion to strike because matter sought to be stricken was merely contested factual matter, which is not proper basis for order to strike)]. Precluded extraneous matters include material expressly prohibited by statute (for example, specific allegations of misconduct) [see Fam. Code § 2335], or simply matter that is not required by the form (e.g., factual basis for claim of irreconcilable differences). As a practical matter, the motion to strike is not used very often because the mandatory printed forms of petition and response [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-100, FL-120] do not have space for inclusion of extraneous matter.

[b] Filing and Service

The notice of motion must be accompanied by all supporting points and authorities, declarations, and other supporting materials, and must be filed andserved on the attorney for the opposing party or on the opposing party, if he or she has no attorney [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.10(b)], at least 16 court days before the date of the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005]. If service is by mail, the 16-day period is extended from five to twenty days according to the place of mailing and place of address [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)], and service is effective on deposit in the mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013]. If service is by facsimile transmission, Express Mail, or another method of delivery providing for overnight delivery, the required 16-day period of notice before the time appointed for the hearing must be increased by two calendar days [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)]. A declaration of service by mail should be executed by the person mailing the notice of motion.

Proof of service of the moving papers must be filed no later than five calendar days before the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(c)]. A paper that is submitted before the close of the clerk's office to the public on the day the paper is due is considered to be timely filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(e)].

[c] No Extension of Time

Unlike motions to quash the proceeding and motions to quash service of summons, a motion to strike any matter in a pleading does not extend the time within which to file a response.

[6] Motion to Quash Proceeding

[a] Bases for Motion

Within the time for filing a response, the respondent may move to quash the proceeding, in whole or in part, for (1) lack of legal capacity to sue, (2) a prior judgment or another action pending between the same parties for the same cause, (3) a failure to meet the residence requirement of Fam. Code § 2320, or (4) the statute of limitations in Fam. Code § 2211 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.121(a); see Zaragoza v. Superior Court (1996) 49 Cal. App. 4th 720, 725-726, 57 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 (residence requirement not satisfied)].

Within 15 days after a response is filed, the petitioner may move to quash, in whole or in part, any request for affirmative relief in the response on the same grounds set forth above [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.121(c)].

A court may not quash a proceeding on the ground of lack of legal capacity to sue in a family law proceeding brought on behalf of an incompetent spouse when the petitioner also requests appointment as guardian ad litem. If the trial court rejects the petitioner's request for appointment as guardian ad litem, it must immediately appoint another guardian ad litem who may proceed on behalf of the incompetent spouse [In re Marriage of Caballero (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1152, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 46] . For further discussion, see § 221.15[3].

When an action is pending in a court in another state, the California court has discretion as to whether to stay the California proceeding. In exercising its discretion, the court should consider the importance of discouraging multiple litigation designed solely to harass an adverse party and avoiding unseemly conflicts with the courts of other jurisdictions. It also should consider whether the rights of the parties can best be determined by the court of the other jurisdiction because of the nature of the subject matter, the availability of witnesses, or the stage to which the proceedings in the other court have already advanced [Thomson v. Continental Ins. Co. (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 738, 746-747, 59 Cal. Rptr. 101, 427 P.2d 765] . On the other hand, if the family law matter is filed first in time, the family law court has jurisdiction to proceed with all aspects of the family law action [see In re Marriage of Caballero (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1152, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 46 (action for legal separation filed before probate action)].

[b] Waiver by Failure to File Timely Motion

The parties are deemed to have waived the grounds for a motion to quash if they do not file a timely motion to quash [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.121(d)].

[c] Time for Hearing

The hearing on the motion must be scheduled not more than 20 days from the date the notice of motion is filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.121(b)].

[d] Extension of Time to Respond

If the respondent files a notice of motion to quash, no default may be entered and the time to file a response is extended until 15 days after notice of the court's ruling [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.121(b)]. A response may be filed, however, at the same time as the motion to quash.

[e] Ruling on Motion

When a motion to quash is granted, the court may grant leave to amend the petition or response and set a date for filing the amended pleadings, or it may dismiss the action without leave to amend. The court may also dismiss the action when it has sustained the motion with leave to amend and the amendment is not made within the time permitted [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.121(e)].

[f] Order

Although local practice should be consulted, the prevailing party ordinarily submits a form of order to the court after the decision.

[7] Motion to Quash Service of Summons

[a] Basis for Motion

The respondent may serve and file a notice of motion to quash the service of summons on the ground that the court lacks jurisdiction over him or her [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(a)(1)]. The respondent may also simultaneously serve and file a motion to quash the summons for lack of jurisdiction and a response [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(e)]. The purpose of such a motion is to permit a respondent to challenge the jurisdiction of the court over him or her while preserving the right to defend on the merits by extending the time to respond until the motion is decided [Nelson v. Horvath (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 1, 4, 84 Cal. Rptr. 101] . Examples of circumstances in which a motion to quash would be appropriate include all of the following:

(1) A defective service of summons that failed to meet the statutory standards;

(2) Filing of a false return of service indicating that service had been made when it had not been made; and

(3) Lack of a basis for personal jurisdiction over the respondent when the summons was served out of state.

The usual basis for such motions is defective service of summons or lack of a basis for personal jurisdiction over the respondent, which is necessary to obtain a judgment for spousal support or division of property.

Although no basis for a motion quashing an order to show cause exists in the family law rules or statutes, it would appear that a motion to quash service of an order to show cause can be filed on the theory that the order to show cause is equivalent to a summons [see Titus v. Superior Court (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 792, 796-797, 100 Cal. Rptr. 477] .

Once the respondent has challenged the court's jursidiction by means of a motion to quash, the burden of proof is on the petitioner to establish by a preponderance of the evidence that service was proper or that jurisdiction over the respondent exists [Crea v. Busby (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 509, 514, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 513] .

[b] Effect of Motion on Time to Plead

The service and filing of the notice of motion extends the respondent's time to plead until 15 days after service on him or her of a written notice of entry of an order denying the motion. In addition to the 15-day extension, for good cause shown, the court may extend the respondent's time to plead for an additional period no greater than 20 days [Code Civ.

Proc. § 418.10(b)].

If the trial court denies the motion, the respondent may file a petition for writ of mandate with an appropriate reviewing court to require the trial court to quash the summons. The petition must be filed before pleading further and within 10 days after receipt of the notice of denial of the motion to quash. For good cause, the court may extend the time to file the petition for an additional 20 days. After filing the petition, the respondent must file or enter a responsive pleading in the trial court within the time prescribed above unless, on or before the last day of the time to plead, he or she serves on the adverse party and files with the trial court a notice that he or she has petitioned for the writ. The service and filing of the notice extends the time to plead until 10 days after service of written notice of the final judgment in the mandate proceeding. The trial court may for good cause extend the time to plead for an additional period not exceeding 20 days [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(c)].

[c] Motion as Special Appearance

A motion to quash service of summons, a motion to quash combined with a notice to set aside a default under Code Civ. Proc. § 473 or 473.5, or an application to the court or stipulation of the parties for an extension of time to plead is not deemed to be a general appearance by the respondent [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(d)] and does not subject the respondent to the jurisdiction of the court. Filing and serving a motion to quash service of summons and a response simultaneously also does not constitute a general appearance unless and until the court denies the motion and enters an order denying the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(e)(1)], or until proceedings on petition for writ of mandate have finally concluded [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(e)(2)]. However, if the respondent raises any issue other than jurisdiction or asks for any relief that can only be granted on the premise that the court has jurisdiction over the respondent, then the respondent's appearance is general [In re Alyssa F. (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 846, 851, 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 ; see Harding v. Harding (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 626, 636, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 450 (engaging in discovery related solely to issue of personal jurisdiction does not constitute general appearance)]. Thus, if based on a lack of personal jurisdiction, the motion to quash should always be filed before filing any other type of motion or simultaneously with the response.

If the motion to quash is based on defective service, however, a general appearance made after the judgment does not waive the defective service or make invalid service retroactively valid [see In re Marriage of Smith (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 543, 545, 551-554, 185 Cal. Rptr. 411] .

An appearance at a hearing at which ex parte relief is sought, or an appearance at a hearing for which an ex parte application for a provisional remedy is made, is not a general appearance and does not constitute a waiver of the right to make a motion to quash under Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10 [Code Civ. Proc. § 418.11]. Furthermore, during the time a motion to quash service of summons is pending pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10, the respondent may appear in opposition to any order made during the pendency of the proceeding under the Family Law Act without having the appearance deemed a general appearance [Fam. Code § 2012(a)]. For example, the respondent may attack orders such as an ex partecustody order without waiving the right to attack the personal jurisdiction of the court. For this purpose, a motion made pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10 is deemed to be pending from the time the motion is served and filed until the time within which to petition for a writ of mandate has expired or, if a petition is made, until the time that final judgment in the mandate proceeding is entered [Fam. Code § 2012(b)].

[d] Order

Although local practice should be consulted, the prevailing party ordinarily submits a form of order to the court after the decision.

[8] Motion for Change of Venue

[a] Basis for Motion

The proper place for trial of a dissolution proceeding is the county in the which either the petitioner or the respondent has been a resident for three months immediately preceding the commencement of the proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a); see also Fam. Code § 2320 (residence requirement for entry of judgment of dissolution)]. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 396b, if the proceeding is filed in a court that has jurisdiction of the subject matter, but is the wrong place for trial of the action, the court may nevertheless try the proceeding unless the respondent moves to transfer the proceeding to the proper court within the time allowed for responding to the petition [Code Civ. Proc. § 396b(a)].

If the court finds that the proceeding was filed in the wrong county, it must order the proceedings transferred [Code Civ. Proc. § 396b(a)]. If the motion to transfer is denied, the court must allow the respondent time to file a response if he or she has not done so already [Code Civ. Proc. § 396b(e)].

In addition, Code Civ. Proc. § 397 provides that, on motion by the respondent, the court may change the place of trial in the following circumstances (insofar as relevant to dissolution proceedings) [Code Civ. Proc. § 397(d), (e)]:

(1) There is no judge of the court qualified to act; or

(2) A proceeding for dissolution of marriage has been filed in the county in which the petitioner has been a resident for three months before commencement of the proceeding, the respondent is a resident of another county in California, and the ends of justice would be promoted by changing venue to the county of the respondent's residence [but see § 221.16[8][b] for discussion of preliminary orders that may be granted before a change of venue is granted].

Unlike motions under Code Civ. Proc. § 396b, there is no express statutory time limit on a motion for change of venue under Code Civ. Proc. § 397.

The first ground under § 397 listed above applies generally to all civil actions and proceedings. For general discussion of this ground for change of venue, see Ch. 571, Venue . The second ground applies specifically to dissolution proceedings, and allows a change of venue to the respondent's county of residence to promote the "ends of justice." Because all the reported cases decided under this ground have been based on the convenience of witnesses [see, e.g., Henson v. Superior Court (1963) 218 Cal. App. 2d 327, 32 Cal. Rptr. 404 ; Pearson v. Superior Court (1962) 199 Cal. App. 2d 69, 18 Cal. Rptr. 578 ; Lummis v. Lummis (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 255, 300 P.2d 869] , it appears that the basic consideration underlying the "ends of justice" is the convenience of witnesses.

The issue most likely to involve the convenience of nonparty witnesses is child custody because the parents' fitness, care, and treatment of the child is at issue. If the parties' children attend school in the respondent's county, disruption of their school attendance resulting from maintenance of venue in the petitioner's county is sufficient to establish inconvenience of witnesses within the meaning of the venue statute [see Silva v. Superior Court (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 301, 306, 173 Cal. Rptr. 832] . Jurisdiction to determine child custody is discussed in Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody .

In addition, if both parties move from the county after entry of an order, including an entry of judgment, in a family law proceeding, Code Civ. Proc. § 397.5 authorizes the court to transfer the proceeding to the county where either party resides if the interests of justice and the convenience of the parties would be promoted by the change. This provision applies to orders made prior to entry of judgment, as well as to post-judgment motions to modify orders or for other post-judgment relief.

The proper place for trial of a legal separation proceeding is the county in which either the petitioner or the respondent resides at the commencement of the proceeding. In contrast to a petition for dissolution, there is no jurisdictional residency requirement for filing a petition for legal separation [Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a); cf. Forster v. Superior Court (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 782, 785, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 258 (applying prior law to mandate transfer of venue to respondent's county of residence)]. Like a proceeding for dissolution, a proceeding for legal separation filed in the wrong county may be subject to transfer to a proper county [see Code Civ. Proc. § 396b] or subject to transfer to a more convenient forum [see Code Civ. Proc. § 397], as discussed above.

[b] Temporary Orders Before Transfer

If a motion to change the place of trial is made either on the ground that the court designated in the petition is not the proper court or the ends of justice will be promoted by change to the court in the county of respondent's residence, before determining the motion, the court may consider and determine motions for allowance of temporary support of the other party and of any children of themarriage, temporary restraining orders, and attorney's fees and costs, and may make all necessary and proper orders in connection with these matters [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 396b(c), 397].

[c] Order Transferring Proceeding

Although local practice should be consulted, the prevailing party ordinarily submits a form of order to the court after the decision. The procedure for determining the court to which the proceeding will be transferred is set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 398, which provides that the proceeding must be transferred to a court agreed on by the parties or to the nearest proper court. The procedure to be followed in transferring the proceeding and provisions for the payment of costs are set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 399.

[9] Motion to Stay or Dismiss Proceeding on Ground of Inconvenient Forum

[a] Basis for Motion

A respondent who is not a resident of California can make a motion to dismiss the proceeding on the ground that California is an inconvenient forum. The court, on motion of a party or its own motion, finding that an action should be heard in a forum outside California in the interests of substantial justice, must stay or dismiss the action in whole or in part on any conditions that may be just [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.30(a)]. The domicile or residence in California of any party to the action does not preclude the court from staying or dismissing the action. For this purpose, "convenience" or "inconvenience" of a forum involves the following considerations [Henderson v. Superior Court (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 583, 594, 142 Cal. Rptr. 478] :

(1) The relationship of the respondent's forum-related activities to petitioner's cause of action;

(2) The relative burden of litigation on the parties; and

(3) The forum state's interest in exercising jurisdiction.

The one situation in which the motion based on inconvenient forum has special application to family law proceedings is when custody of children is at issue and the respondent claims that that particular matter should be decided in another state. Motions of this kind are explicitly authorized under the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act [Fam. Code § 3407].

A court should decline jurisdiction as an inconvenient forum only if there is concurrent jurisdiction elsewhere [In re Marriage of Nurie (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 478, 514, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200].

[b] Procedure

If the respondent makes the motion to stay or dismiss as a special appearance before making a general appearance, the procedure for making the motion is the same as for making a motion to quash service of summons [see Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(a)(1)] (§ 221.16[7]). If the motion is made after a general appearance [see Schlumpf v. Superior Court (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 892, 896, 145 Cal. Rptr. 190] , it may be made at any time and the procedure is the same as for making a motion to quash the proceeding (§ 221.16[6]).

[c] Stay or Dismissal

If the petitioner is a resident of California, the proceeding should not be dismissed if the motion is granted. Instead, it should be stayed pending the outcome of the proceeding in the other state [Ferreira v. Ferreira (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 824, 838-839, 109 Cal. Rptr. 80, 512 P.2d 304 ; cf. Code Civ. Proc. § 410.30].

[d] Order

Although the prevailing party ordinarily submits a form of order to the court after the decision, local practice should be consulted.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJurisdictionPersonal Jurisdiction & In Rem ActionsIn Personam ActionsChallengesCivil ProcedureVenueIndividual DefendantsCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticeDefenses, Demurrers & ObjectionsMotions to StrikeGeneral OverviewCivil ProceduresPleading & PracticePleadingsAnswersFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222

Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.17

§ 221.17 Joinder of Parties and Causes of Action

[1] In General

[a] Parties

[i] Authority for Joinder and Definitions

As a general rule, the superior court may join as a party any person who claims or controls an interest subject to disposition in the proceeding, in accordance with the state family law rules, and, in the case of employee benefit plans, subject to the provisions of Fam. Code § 2060 et seq. [see Fam. Code § 2021(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.150; see also Fam. Code § 105 (definition of "person" under Family Code)]. "Persons" under the Family Code include a natural person, firm, association, organization, partnership, business trust, corporation, limited liability company, or public entity [Fam. Code § 105]. Presumably, the same expansive definition applies under the state family law rules [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.10 et seq.], which apply to every proceeding under the Family Code [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.20]. The procedure for joinder of persons is generally set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.150 et seq. Except as otherwise provided by those rules, all provisions of law relating to joinder of parties in civil actions generally apply to the joinder of a person as a party to a family law proceeding [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.150]. As noted above, the joinder of employee benefit plans is subject to both the California Rules of Court and other statutory provisions, which are discussed in § 221.17[4] [see Fam. Code §§ 2021(b), 2060 et seq.; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.162]. In addition, the joinder of third parties in a proceeding under the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (UCCJEA) is subject to both UCCJEA statutes and the Rules of Court [see Fam. Code § 3425; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.154, 5.158].

Finally, the term "claimant" is used to describe a person joined, sought to be joined, or seeking to be joined as a party [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.152].

[ii] Personal Jurisdiction Required

Before a person may be joined, the court must have personal jurisdiction over the proposed claimant. The basis for trial court jurisdiction in the joinder of out-of-state third parties is found in Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, which requires "minimum contacts" with California for the exercise of personal jurisdiction [In re Marriage of Martin (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1426, 1435-1437, 255 Cal. Rptr. 720] . For discussion of bases for personal jurisdiction, see § 221.11[3] For the definition of "person" under the joinder provisions, see § 221.17[1][a][i]

[iii] Mandatory Versus Permissive Joinder

Joinder of a person who has physical custody or claims custody or visitation rights with regard to a child is mandatory, but joinder of a person claiming an interest in community property is permissive [see, e.g., Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.154(a), 5.158(a), (b); see Schnabel v. Superior Court (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 758, 763, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 677] . Joinder of an employee benefit plan is mandatory, in the sense that it is a ministerial act the court clerk must perform if requested by a party in writing (on the proper Judicial Council form) [Fam. Code § 2060(a)]. Joinder may be requested by one of the parties, the third party, or both [see, e.g., Fam. Code § 2060(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.154].

[iv] Opposition to Joinder

The rules of court also provide grounds to oppose a motion for joinder. The court may consider any delay that joinder would cause the underlying action. It must consider the possibility of additional joinder to render an order effective, and the potential confusion and complication or other interference with the effective disposition of the issue [see, e.g., Cal Rules of Ct., Rule 5.158(b)].

[v] Binding Nature of Judgment on Party Joined

After joinder, a judgment or order is binding on the joined party [see, e.g., Callnon v. Callnon (1935) 7 Cal. App. 2d 676, 680, 46 P.2d 988] . An order or judgment generally may not be enforced against an employee benefit plan that was not joined as a party to the proceeding [Fam. Code § 2060(b)]. However, special rules apply to "qualified domestic relations orders" (QDROs), which generally must be honored by a plan that is subject to ERISA even if the plan was not joined [see In re Marriage of Baker (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 206, 209, 217-218, 251 Cal. Rptr. 126 ; for related discussion, see Ch. 222, Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation]. Furthermore, an order for child, family, or spousal support may be enforced against a plan, regardless of whether the plan was joined [Fam. Code § 5103(a)].

Relevant illustrative forms are set out in §§ 221.317 (Notice of Motion and Declaration for Joinder), 221.318 (Responsive Declaration to Motion for Joinder, Consent Order of Joinder), and 221.319 (Summons (Joinder)).

[b] Claims or Causes of Action

Generally, a party to a family law proceeding may not assert any cause of action or claim for relief not specifically provided by the Family Code or the family law rules [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.104]. Some early authority exists in support of the proposition that an action to determine the validity of a marriage may be joined with a dissolution proceeding [Sharon v. Sharon (1885) 67 Cal. 185, 7 P. 456 ; see Fam. Code § 309], but it appears that such an action would now be more properly brought separately and then consolidated with the dissolution proceeding, just as some nonmarital cohabitation claims are consolidated with dissolutions (as opposed to being "tacked") under modern practice. Note that the mandatory Judicial Council forms of Petition and Response do not make provision for any causes of action other than for marital dissolution, legal separation, or nullity of marriage [see Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-100, FL-120]. The procedures for consolidation [see Code Civ. Proc § 1048(a)] frequently are prescribed by local rule.

Consolidation or joinder may not always work smoothly. For example, the right to trial by jury may exist on a cause of action consolidated with a dissolution, and a judge would, in the absence of a waiver of the jury trial, be required to decide the nonjury matters and submit the other issues to a jury. Thus, courts may require a jury trial waiver as a condition to consolidation of such issues [see former Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct., Man. of Proc. for Fam. Law Dept. § XIII, Rule B (July 1991); cf. In re Marriage of Gagne (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 277, 274 Cal. Rptr. 750 (jurisdiction of court in dissolution proceeding to inquire into enforceability and effect of parties' Marvin-type premarital loan agreement on family residence was not unconstitutional even though it deprived husband of jury trial on loan issue; husband voluntarily invoked jurisdiction of court by including family residence in list of assets in dissolution petition)]. For further discussion of consolidation, see Ch. 125, Consolidation, Severance, and Coordination of Actions .

For discussion of the filing of a supplemental complaint seeking a judgment or order of paternity or support for a child of the mother and father of the child whose paternity and support are already in issue before the court," see § 221.15[6][b] [see Fam. Code § 2330.1].

[c] Attorney's Fees

The court may award attorney's fees and costs against any properly joined party, except a governmental entity [Fam. Code § 2030(a); see Marriage of Siller (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 36, 231 Cal. Rptr. 757 ; see also Fam. Code §§ 270-272,2010(f), 2030-2034]. The authority to award attorney's fees and costs against a properly joined party extends to a properly joined employee benefit plan [see, e.g., Marriage of Olivarez (1986) 188 Cal. App. 3d 336, 232 Cal. Rptr. 794] . One court has suggested that there may be circumstances that would justify joinder of a party solely to obtain attorney's fees [see Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 548, 552 n.1, 553, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 169 (involving closely held corporation in which husband owned 30-percent interest)].

[2] Joinder of Persons in General

[a] Claiming Right to Custody or Visitation

Under the California Rules of Court, a court must order joined to the proceeding any person who the court discovers has physical custody, or who claims custody to, or visitation rights with respect to, any minor child of the marriage [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.158(a)]. A person who has or claims custody or physical control of any of the minor children of the marriage, or visitation rights, may apply to be joined to the proceeding [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.154(a); see Fam. Code § 2021(a)]. In addition, the petitioner or the respondent may apply for joinder of such a claimant [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.154(a), (b)].

The joinder requirement is also set forth in the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (UCCJEA) [Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.], which provides that the obligation to join a party and the right to intervene as a party in a child custody proceding under the UCCJEA are governed by the law of California as in child custody proceedings between residents of California [Fam. Code § 3425(c)]. The procedures under the UCCJA are set forth in Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody .

[b] Claiming Ownership of Community Property

A person who has in his or her possession or control, or claims to own any property, subject to the jurisdiction of the court in the dissolution proceeding also may be joined to the proceeding. For example, a third party may have ostensible control by title over an asset that is claimed to be community property. Another possibility is that a third party may be taking some action that adversely affects a community interest of the parties. Or the community property may include a closely held business that is a separate entity such as a corporation or partnership that is substantially controlled by one of the spouses, making it necessary to make orders that directly affect the entity [see, e.g., Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 548, 552 n.1, 553, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 169 (involving closely held corporation in which husband owned 30-percent interest)]. In addition, joinder of a third party is proper when a spouse alleges that the other spouse has illegally made a gift of community funds to that third party [Babcock v. Superior Court (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 721, 725-726, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 462 (citing Fam. Code § 2021, former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1250) (now see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.150)].

Except in cases involving restraining orders, which are discussed in § 221.17[3][c] only the petitioner or respondent may apply for such a joinder [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.154(a); see Fam. Code § 2021(a)]. The joinder is permissive even when it appears that the moving party has established that one or more of the criteria for joinder set forth in the applicable rule has been met, and the court is required to consider factors set forth by the rules of court [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.158(b); Schnabel v. Superior Court (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 758, 765, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 677 (third party corporation, 30 percent of whose stock the spouses owned, showed favoritism toward husband that implicated reasons for joinder set out in the rules: potential control of community assets; it was an indispensable party; and joinder was necessary to enforce any family law judgment)].

[c] Served With Restraining Order

Any person may be joined to a dissolution proceeding who has been served with a temporary restraining order (1) restraining the use of property in his or her possession or control, or which he or she claims to own, or (2) affecting the custody or visitation of minor children of the marriage. The person served with the restraining order is authorized to apply to the court for the joinder [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.154(c). The court must grant the order if it involves the custody and visitation of the children, but may exercise its discretion if the order involves the possession or control of property [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.158(a), (b)].

[d] Indispensable or Necessary Party

The court also may order joinder of a person if the court finds that (1) it is appropriate to determine a particular issue in the proceeding and (2) the party to be joined is indispensable to a determination of the issue or necessary to enforce a judgment rendered on the issue [Cal Rules of Ct., Rule 5.158(b)]. For example, joinder of a county may be proper when it has become an assignee of a welfare recipient's support rights by operation of law, because the county is considered an indispensable party to any proceeding that may affect its interest as assignee. Even if not joined, it is entitled to notice of any such proceeding [In re Marriage of Mena (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 12, 19, 21, 260 Cal. Rptr. 314] .

There may be situations in which joinder is appropriate if the only relief requested against the party to be joined is a restraining order [see Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 548, 553 n.6, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 169] . However, joinder is not required in order to obtain certain forms of injunctive relief directed against a nonparty [Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 548, 552,26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 169] . On application of a party, Fam. Code § 2045(a) gives the court the authority to issue an ex parte order restraining anyperson from transferring, encumbering, hypothecating, concealing, or in any way disposing of any property, real or personal, whether community, quasi-community, or separate, except in the usual course of business or for the necessities of life. In appropriate cases, any such ex parte order can be continued as a preliminary injunction following a hearing [Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 548, 552, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 169 ; see In re Marriage of Van Hook (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 970, 978, 195 Cal. Rptr. 541] .

[3] Joinder of Employee Benefit Plan

[a] In General

Special rules and procedures govern the joinder of employee benefit plans [see Fam. Code §§ 2021(b), 2060-2074; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.162; see also In re Marriage of Baker (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 206, 215, 251 Cal. Rptr. 126] . The term "employee pension benefit plan" includes both public and private retirement, pension, profit sharing, stock bonus, thrift, and similar plans of deferred compensation, whether of the defined contribution or defined benefit type [Fam. Code § 80].

Joinder of employee benefit plans must be made using the Judicial Council forms. The motions are routinely granted by the clerk, and no courtroom presentation is necessary. Illustrative forms are set out as Forms 12 (Request for Joinder of Employee Pension Benefit Plan and Order (Family Law)), 13 (Pleading on Joinder--Employee Pension Benefit Plan (Family Law)), and 15 (Notice of Appearance and Response of Employee Pension Benefit Plan (Family Law)).

The plan's notice of appearance (see § 221.322) controverts all facts pleaded and requests made. Although the plan may make further appearances in the dissolution matter, it usually does not. Within 30 days of service of any order on the plan, it may move to modify or vacate any order made against it [Fam. Code §§ 2063, 2065, 2073; see In re Marriage of Baker (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 206, 215, 251 Cal. Rptr. 126].§ 221.17[4][d].

In general, court orders involving rights under an employee benefit plan are enforceable directly against the plan only if the plan has been joined as a party to the proceeding [see Fam. Code § 2060(b); In re Marriage of Sommers (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 509, 514-515, 126 Cal. Rptr. 220 ; see also Educ. Code § 22650 et seq. (involving division of benefits under State Teachers' Retirement System); but see Fam. Code § 5103(a) (order for payment of child, spousal, or family support is enforceable against plan even if plan not joined)]. However, Fam. Code § 2610 limits the type of direct payment orders involving retirement benefits a court can make against a plan; and plans subject to ERISA [see 29 U.S.C. § 1000 et seq.] whether or not joined, are required to make direct payment to a nonemployee spouse only if the court order meets the requirements of a qualified domestic relations order (QDRO), as discussed in Ch. 222, Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation . Note that California's procedures for joinder of employee benefit plans are not preempted by ERISA [In re Marriage of Baker (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 206, 217-218, 251 Cal. Rptr. 126] .

Furthermore, an order for the payment of child, spousal, or family support is enforceable against an employee benefit plan regardless of whether the plan has been joined in the proceeding in which support was obtained [Fam. Code § 5103(a)]. Nevertheless, joinder is necessary to bind an employee benefit plan by an injunctive order in the dissolution action, such as one prohibiting the plan from honoring an election by the employee to diminish his or her spouse's benefits in the plan [In re Marriage of Baker (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 206, 219-220, 251 Cal. Rptr. 126 ; see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.106(a)(3) (general authority to grant injunctive relief against trustee, agent, custodian, or similar fiduciary)]. Joinder also gives the court jurisdiction over the plan to award attorney's fees against the plan [Fam. Code § 2030(a); see In re Marriage of Baker (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 206, 219-220, 251 Cal. Rptr. 126] to the extent that the fees are incurred in litigating the plan's joinder and liability [see Fam. Code § 2030(d)]. A California court has personal jurisdiction over an out-of-state employee benefit plan if there are sufficient minimum contacts between the plan and the state [In re Marriage of Bastian (1979) 94 Cal. App. 3d 483, 487-488, 156 Cal. Rptr. 524] .

Apart from joinder, a statutory notice of adverse interest can be sent to an employee benefit plan (to the plan sponsor or administrator) on behalf of the nonemployee spouse [Fam. Code § 755(b)]. This notice may be filed to provide interim protection for a nonemployee spouse even if joinder is intended or pending and even before a family law action is commenced [see In re Marriage of Baker (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 206, 218-219, 251 Cal. Rptr. 126.] . For a general discussion of the use of such notices, see Ch. 222, Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation .

[b] Joinder on Default

If the employee benefit benefit plan has been served, the clerk must enter the default of the plan on the application of the party requesting joinder unless plan files, within the time specified by the summons or such further time as may be allowed, a notice of appearance, a notice of motion to quash service of summons, or a notice of filing of a petition for a writ of mandate on denial of a motion to quash [Fam. Code § 2065].

[c] Stipulation

Either party or his or her representative may notify the plan of any proposed property settlement as it concerns the plan before any hearing at which the proposed property settlement will come before the court. If it receives notice, the plan may stipulate to the proposed settlement or advise the representative that the plan will contest it [Fam. Code § 2071]. If a stipulation between the partiesresults in an order that affects an employee benefit plan, the order is automatically stayed until 30 days after it has been served on the plan [Fam. Code § 2073(a)]. In addition, the plan may file a request to extend the duration of the stay to 60 days [Fam. Code § 2073(d); see § 221.17[4][f]].

[d] Effect of Appearance or Nonappearance at Hearing

Although not required to do so, the plan may appear at any hearing in the proceeding. The plan is considered a party appearing at the trial with respect to any hearing at which the interest of the parties in the plan is an issue before the court, and thus has the rights of an appearing party regardless of whether it chooses to appear. If the plan does not attend a hearing (regardless of whether it received notice) that results in an order affecting the plan or that affects any interest either the petitioner or respondent may have or claim under the plan, the order does not become effective until 30 days after the order has been served on the employee benefit plan. Furthermore, the plan may file a request to extend the duration of the stay to 60 days [Fam. Code § 2073(d); see § 221.17[4][f]]. The plan may waive all or any portion of the 30-day period [Fam. Code § 2073(b)]. If within the 30-day period, or within a 60-day period, if the plan has requested an extension (§ 221.17[4][f]), the plan files in the proceeding a motion to set aside or modify those provisions of the order affecting it, the disputed provisions do not become effective until the court has resolved the motion [Fam. Code § 2073; see In re Marriage of Carnall (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 1010, 1015-1016, 1028-1029, 265 Cal. Rptr. 271 ; see also § 221.17[4][e]].

[e] Hearing on Motion to Modify or Set Aside

At any hearing on an employee benefit plan's motion to set aside or modify an order (§ 221.17[4][d]), any party may present further evidence on any issue relating to the rights of the parties under the employee benefit plan or the extent of the parties' community or quasi-community property interest in the plan, unless the parties have agreed in writing to the contrary [Fam. Code § 2074(a)]. Any findings of fact or conclusions of law made by the court must take account of this evidence [see Fam. Code § 2074(a), (b)].

If the provisions of the order affecting the plan are modified or set aside, the court, on motion by either party, may set aside or modify other provisions affecting the employee benefit plan [Fam. Code § 2074(c)]. Thus, if the change in the provisions for division of the plan affects other aspects of the division of property or spousal support, the other provisions can be changed.

[f] Availability and Duration of Stay of Orders Affecting Plan

The provisions of any order entered by stipulation of the parties or as a result of a hearing not attended by the employee benefit plan that affect the plan or any interest either party may have or claim under the plan must be stayed until 30 days after the order has been served on the plan [Fam. Code § 2073(a); see § 221.17[4][d]]. However, the plan may waive all or part of the 30-day stay [Fam. Code § 2073(b)]. If the plan files a motion to set aside or modify the provisions of a stayed order within the 30-day period, the stay must be continued until the motion has been resolved [Fam. Code § 2073(c)].

The duration of the required 30-day stay, and the 30-day time period for filing a motion to set aside or modify provisions of the order, must be extended to 60 days if, within the 30-day period, the plan files with the court and serves on all affected parties a request for extension [Fam. Code § 2073(d)].

Either spousal party may seek an order staying any provisions of the order and associated orders or judgments that relate to or affect a provision to which a plan has objected in order to protect the right of that party to seek relief under Fam. Code § 2074(c) [§ 221.17[4][e]]. This stay would continue until the court resolves the plan's motion to set aside or modify provisions of the original order [Fam. Code § 2073(e)].

[4] Joinder of Causes of Action

Situations involving joinder of causes of action between the same parties are more limited. Ordinarily, the only additional causes of action that might be joined to the dissolution are those related to nonmarital rights that accrued before marriage under Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 674-680, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 [see In re Marriage of Gagne (1990) 274 Cal. Rptr. 750] .

However, if child support is already in issue in any proceeding for dissolution of marriage, legal separation of the parties, or support of children, a supplemental complaint may be filed [see Code Civ. Proc. § 464], seeking a judgment or order of paternity or support for a subsequent child [see Fam. Code § 2330.1; see also Fam. Code § 3651(b) (authority to modify support order to add support for child named in supplemental complaint)]. This supplemental complaint may be filed either before or after final judgment in the underlying action [Fam. Code § 2330.1]. For further discussion, see § 221.15[6][b].

Requests for consolidation of two cases, whether for trial or for all purposes, are closely related to joinder [see Code Civ. Proc § 1048(a)]. See § 221.18[5][b].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePartiesJoinderIndispensable PartiesCivil ProcedurePartiesJoinderNecessary PartiesCivil ProcedurePartiesJoinderPermissive JoinderFamily LawChild CustodyEnforcementUniform Child Custody Jurisdiction & Enforcement ActFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.18

§ 221.18 Pendente Lite Orders, Ex Parte Relief, and Selected Pretrial Motions

[1] Nature of Preliminary Relief

[a] Function of Preliminary Orders in Family Law Proceeding

The function of preliminary orders in family law proceedings is to maintain thestatus quo of the parties and to enable them to prosecute or defend against the proceeding [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Gonzales (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 340, 344, 124 Cal. Rptr. 278] . The most commonly sought preliminary orders in a family law proceeding are those relating to spousal support, child support, custody and visitation, attorney's fees and costs, and injunctive relief.

[b] Spousal Support

The court may order the husband or wife to pay any amount necessary for the support of the other [Fam. Code § 3600]. If it determines that payment of an obligation of a party would benefit either party or a child for whom support may be ordered, the court may order one of the parties to pay the obligation, or a portion of it, directly to the creditor [Fam. Code § 2023(a); see, e.g., Bushman v. Superior Court (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 177, 181-183, 108 Cal. Rptr. 765] . Obtaining a temporary support order does not prejudice the rights of the parties with respect to any subsequent order that may be made. The order may be modified or terminated at any time except as to amounts that have accrued before the date of filing the notice of motion or order to show cause to modify or terminate an existing order [Fam. Code §§ 3603, 3604].

A dissolution matter may not be dismissed for failure to bring it to trial within the specified time limits if a temporary spousal support order has been issued and not terminated [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.161(b)]. Unless it specifies otherwise, the order is not enforceable during any period in which the parties have reconciled and are living together [Fam. Code § 3602].

[c] Custody

The court may make any orders it deems necessary or proper regarding a child's custody, during the pendency of any dissolution or legal separation proceeding or other proceeding under Fam. Code §§ 3120, 6200 et seq., or 7600 et seq. to determine child custody or visitation [Fam. Code § 3022; but see Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 302(c), 304 (only juvenile court may hear proceedings and decide custody issues related to minors adjudged dependents of juvenile court)]. The court must award custody according to the best interests of the child [see Fam. Code § 3040(a)]. A request for a temporary custody order, which must be made by petition, may be included in the initial filing of the action or may be filed any time thereafter [Fam. Code § 3060]. The court may order temporary custody of the minor children of a marriage on application of one party without notice to the other, if there is a showing of immediate harm to the child or immediate risk that the child will be removed from California [Fam. Code §§ 3062, 3064, 6323]. An application for such an ex parte child custody order generally must be made by order to show cause [see Fam. Code §§ 240, 242(a), 6323].

In making an order granting or denying joint custody pursuant to Fam. Code §§ 3080-3089, the court must award reasonable visitation rights to a parent except on a showing that visitation would be detrimental to the child's best interests [Fam. Code § 3100(a)]. A visitation order may include a requirement that the parents and child attend counseling sessions [see Fam. Code §§ 3190-3192]. The court also has discretion to grant visitation rights to any other person with an interest in the welfare of the child [Fam. Code § 3100(a); see also Fam. Code §§ 3101-3105 (visitation by stepparents, grandparents, other relatives, and former legal guardians)]. Temporary visitation rights generally are requested at the same time as temporary custody rights. If temporary custody is awarded without reference to visitation rights, a party who seeks visitation usually must request modification of the custody order to allow visitation [see generally Fam. Code §§ 3087, 3100(a)]. An ex parte protective order also may be sought to establish visitation rights [Fam. Code § 6323(b)].

The court may order any parent who is seeking custody of, or visitation with, a child to undergo alcohol and drug testing if the court determines, based on a preponderance of the evidence, that there is habitual, frequent, or continued alcohol abuse or drug use by the parent [Fam. Code § 3041.5(a)]. The court may order either or both parties to pay the costs of the testing [Fam. Code § 3041.5(a)]. A positive test result, even if challenged by the parent and upheld by the court, is not, by itself, grounds for an adverse custody decision. Determining the child's best interests requires weighing all relevant factors [Fam. Code § 3041.5(a)].

[d] Child Support

During any proceeding involving dissolution of marriage, legal separation, or custody or support of a minor child, the court may order the parent to pay any amount necessary for the support of the child [Fam. Code § 3600; see Fam. Code § 3120 (independent actions for exclusive custody)]. A temporary child support order usually is sought in conjunction with an application for temporary custody. Because a child support order imposes a personal obligation on the party ordered to pay, the court must have personal jurisdiction over the party before it can make the order [Titus v. Superior Court (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 792, 799, 100 Cal. Rptr. 477] . During the course of any action for child support that has been filed and served, the court may make an expedited child support order without a hearing [Fam. Code §§ 3620-3622].

A temporary child support order does not prejudice the rights of the children regarding any subsequent order that may be made. The order may be modified or revoked at any time except as to any amount that may have accrued before the time the notice of motion or order to show cause to modify or revoke was filed [Fam. Code § 3603].

Orders for child support entered during the pendency of the proceeding continue in effect until terminated by the court or by operation of law [Fam. Code§ 3601(a); see Fam. Code §§ 3901, 4007, 4013 (events terminating parental obligations for support)]. A dissolution matter may not be dismissed for failure to bring it to trial within the specified time limits if a child support order has been issued and not terminated [Fam. Code § 3601(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 583.161; see also County of Orange v. Quinn (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 956, 958-964, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 833 (trial court erred in dismissing putative father's motion to dismiss county's action under child support order for reimbursement of assistance payments made on behalf of daughter for county's failure to bring action to trial within five years); but see County of Orange v. Rosales (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 1214, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 788 (on virtually identical facts, except county successfully terminated father's parental rights, trial court properly dismissed county's reimbursement action for failure to bring it to trial within five years because of lack of continuing child support order)]. Nevertheless, unless it specifies otherwise, the order is not enforceable during any period in which the parties have reconciled and are living together [Fam. Code §§ 3601(b), 3602].

If child support is already in issue in any proceeding for dissolution of marriage, legal separation of the parties, or support of children, the court may order or modify an existing order to include support for an unborn child [Fam. Code § 2330.1; Fam. Code § 3651(b); see § 221.15[6][b]].

[e] Attorney's Fees and Costs

In a proceeding for dissolution or legal separation, and in any proceeding subsequent to entry of a related judgment, the court must ensure that each party has access to legal representation to preserve each party's rights by ordering, if necessary based on the income and needs assessments, one party to pay to the other party or to the other party's attorney, whatever amount is reasonably necessary for attorney's fees and for the cost of maintaining or defending the proceeding during the pendency of the proceeding [Fam. Code § 2030(a)(1)]. Whether a party should be ordered to pay the other party's attorney's fees and costs, and the amount to be paid, must be determined based on the parties' respective incomes and needs and any factors affecting their respective abilities to pay [Fam. Code § 2030(a)(2); In re Marriage of Dietz (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 387, 406, 97 Cal. Rptr. 3d 616 (court must determine how to apportion overall cost of litigation equitably between parties under their relative circumstances); Alan S. v. Superior Court (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 238, 242-243, 91 Cal. Rptr. 3d 241 (court must consider statutory factors in making award)]. A party who lacks the financial ability to hire an attorney may request, as an in proper litigant, that the court order the other party, if he or she has the financial ability, to pay a reasonable amount to allow the unrepresented party to retain an attorney in a timely manner before proceedings in the matter go forward [Fam. Code § 2030(a)(2)].

If the order is entered against a party who is not the husband or wife of another party to the proceeding, however, it must be limited to an amount reasonably necessary to maintain or defend the action on the issues relating to that party [Fam. Code § 2030(d)].

The court also may implement a "case management plan" to allocate attorney's fees, court costs, and the like between the parties [see Fam. Code § 2032(d)] (see § 221.43[2]), or may make an award of attorney's fees and costs that is in the nature of a sanction, pursuant to statute [see Fam. Code § 271; In re Marriage of Corona (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 1205, 1226, 92 Cal. Rptr. 3d 17 (sanctions award need not be limited to cost to other party resulting from bad conduct and correlation between sanctioned conduct and specific attorney's fees is not required)].

An application for a pendente lite order for costs and attorney's fees, or for a reasonable retainer to hire an attorney, during a family law proceeding is made by motion on notice or by order to show cause [Fam. Code § 2031(a)(1)], as appropriate. The court must rule on the application within 15 days of the hearing on the motion or order to show cause [Fam. Code § 2031(a)(2)]. The application also may be made by oral motion in open court without notice at the time of the hearing of the cause on the merits or at any time before entry of judgment against a party whose default has been entered pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 585 or 586 [Fam. Code § 2031(b)]. The court must rule on the motion within 15 days and before entry of any judgment [Fam. Code § 2031(b)(2)]. Ordinarily, the amount of labor and costs that will be required or the value of the services to be performed in the prosecution or defense of the proceeding cannot be precisely determined at the commencement of the proceeding. Thus, the court from time to time may augment or modify the award as necessary, including after any appeal has been concluded [Fam. Code § 2030; see Rosenthal v. Rosenthal (1961) 197 Cal. App. 2d 289, 295, 17 Cal. Rptr. 186] . Proof of the fees subsequently incurred then may be made at the trial on the merits and an award made in the judgment or before trial by subsequent order made on proper application.

[f] Disposition of Property

Before the judgment, the trial court may require one potential community asset to be sold to save another asset. Such a sale may be ordered after a partial trial to determine the nature of the property, the need for sale, and methods of protecting the interests of the objecting spouse. Alternatively, the sale may be ordered without such a trial if security is ordered to protect the interests of the objecting spouse [Lee v. Superior Court (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 705, 711, 134 Cal. Rptr. 43 ; see Fam. Code §§ 2550-2556, 2600-2604 (division of community estate)].

In addition, in proceedings begun on or after January 1, 1993, the court has the authority at any time during the proceedings to order the liquidation of community or quasi-community assets to avoid unreasonable market or investment risks. In no event, however, is the court permitted to grant the application unless the moving party has served the appropriate "declaration of disclosure" (see § 221.311) required by statute [see Fam. Code §§ 2103, 2108, 2113].

[g] Implementation of Case Management Plan

Either party may request, at any time before the hearing of the cause on the merits, on noticed motion, that the court make a finding that the case involves complex or substantial issues of fact or law related to property rights, visitation, custody, or support. On making that finding, the court has the discretion to directthe implementation of a "case management plan" to equitably allocate attorney's fees, court costs, expert fees, and consultant fees between the parties [Fam. Code § 2032(d)]. For forms that may be adapted for use in bringing and responding to a motion to determine that a case involves complex or substantial issues, see §§ 221.326 (notice of motion) and 221.329 (responsive declaration), respectively.

[h] Mandatory Disclosure of Property, Income, and Expenses

In any marital dissolution proceeding commenced on or after January 1, 1993, each party must serve a special preliminary declaration of disclosure (see § 221.311) at the outset of the proceeding on the other party. The declaration is required to provide full and accurate disclosure of all assets and liabilities in which one or both parties may have an interest [Fam. Code §§ 2103, 2113]. See § 221.15[3][b] for discussion of this declaration.

[i] Injunctive Relief

The summons in an action for marital dissolution, legal separation, or annulment (see § 221.313), contains temporary restraining orders as set forth in Fam. Code § 2040. A temporary restraining order is in effect against both parties until the underlying judgment is entered, the petition is dismissed, or until further order of the court, on the filing of a petition for marital dissolution, legal separation, or annulment by the petitioner, issuance of the summons, and personal service of the petition and summons on the respondent, or on waiver and acceptance of service by the respondent [Fam. Code § 233(a)]. The restraining order set forth in the summons includes provisions accomplishing the following [Fam. Code § 2040(a); but cf. Estate of Mitchell (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 1378, 1382, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 192 (unilateral severance of joint tenancy does not violate automatic temporary restraining orders or similarly worded court-ordered temporary restraining order, or preliminary injunction)]:

(1) Restraining both parties from removing the minor child or children of the parties, if any, from California without the prior written consent of the other party or an order of the court;

(2) Restraining both parties from transferring, encumbering, hypothecating, concealing, or in any way disposing of any property, real or personal, whether community, quasi-community, or separate, without the written consent of the other party or an order of the court, except in the usual course of business or for the necessities of life, and requiring each party to notify the other party of any proposed extraordinary expenditures at least five business days before incurring those expenditures, and requiring each party to account to the court for all extraordinary expenditures made after service of the summons on that party (nothing in the restraining order, however, can preclude the parties from using community, quasi-community, or a party's own separate property to pay reasonable attorney's fees to retain legal counsel in the action; but a party must account to the community for the use of community or quasi-community property, and if property used is later determined to be the other party's separate property, that party must account to the other party for the use of the property);

(3) Restraining both parties from cashing, borrowing against, canceling, transferring, disposing of, or changing the beneficiaries of any insurance or other coverage, including life, health, automobile, and disability held for the benefit of the parties and their child or children for whom support may be ordered; and

(4) Restraining both parties from creating a nonprobate transfer or modifying a nonprobate transfer in a manner affecting the disposition of property subject to the transfer, without the other party's written consent or a court order.

Fam. Code § 2040(a)(4), under which both parties are restrained from creating or modifying a nonprobate transfer, does not restrain any of the following: (1) creation, modification, or revocation of a will; (2) revocation of a nonprobate transfer, including a revocable trust, under the instrument, provided that notice of the change is filed and served on the other party before the change takes effect; (3) elimination of a right of survivorship to property, provided that notice of the change is filed and served on the other party before the change takes effect; (4) creation of an unfounded revocable or irrevocable trust; or (5) execution and filing of a disclaimer under Prob. Code § 260-295 [Fam. Code § 2040(b)].

A "nonprobate transfer" means an instrument, other than a will, that makes a transfer of property on death, including a revocable trust, pay-on-death account in a financial institution, Totten trust, transfer on death registration of personal property, or other instrument of a type described in Prob. Code § 5000 [Fam. Code § 2040(d)(1)]. It does not include a provision for the transfer of property on death in an insurance policy or other coverage held for the benefit of the parties and their child or children for whom support may be ordered, to the extent that the provision is subject to Fam. Code § 2040(a)(3) [Fam. Code § 2040(d)(2)]. The restraining order in the summons must include descriptions of the notices required by Fam. Code § 2040(b) [Fam. Code § 2040(e)].

Neither party is precluded from applying to the court for further temporary orders, an expanded temporary ex parte order, or modification or revocation of the order [Fam. Code § 235; see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.110(c)]. Furthermore, the automatic granting of these ex parte orders does not constitute a court determination or competent evidence in any proceeding of any prior history of the conduct so proscribed occurring between the parties [Fam. Code § 234].

The court may issue orders for any of the following on the ex parte applicationof either party [Fam. Code § 2045; see Fam. Code § 240 et seq.]:

(1) An order restraining any person from transferring, encumbering, hypothecating (i.e., pledging as security), concealing, or in any way disposing of any real or personal property, whether community, quasi-community, or separate, except in the usual course of business or for the necessities of life and, if the order is directed against a party, requiring that party to notify the other party of any proposed extraordinary expenditures and to account to the court for them [see Fam. Code § 6325; Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 548, 552-553, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d. 169 (petitioner could have used former Civ. Code § 4359 (now see Fam. Code § 2045) ex-parte restraining order to protect any community interest in closely held corporation rather than attempting to join corporation); Stone v. Godbehere (9th Cir. 1990) 894 F.2d 1131, 1134-1135 (Arizona law)] ;

(2) A protective order [see Fam. Code § 6218] and any other order under Fam. Code § 6320, which include the following:

(a) Enjoining any party from contacting, molesting, attacking, striking, threatening, sexually assaulting, battering, telephoning, contacting repeatedly by mail with the intent to harass, or disturbing the peace of the other party, and, in the court's discretion and on a showing of good cause, of other named family and household members [see Fam. Code § 6320];

(b) Excluding one party from the family dwelling, the dwelling of the other party, the common dwelling of both parties, or the dwelling of the person who has the care, custody, and control of a child to be protected from domestic violence for the period of time and on the conditions the court determines, regardless of which party holds legal or equitable title or is the lessee of the dwelling, on a showing of all of the following [see Fam. Code § 6321]:

(i) Facts sufficient for the court to ascertain that the party who will stay in the dwelling has a right under color of law to possession of the premises;

(ii) That the party to be excluded has assaulted or threatens to assault the other party, any other person under the care, custody, or control of the other party, or any minor child of the parties or of the other party; and

(iii) That physical or emotional harm otherwise would result to any of these persons;

(c) Enjoining a party from specified behavior that the court determines is necessary to effectuate orders under paragraphs (a) or (b), above [see Fam. Code § 6322];

(d) Determining the temporary custody of any minor children, together with visitation rights [see Fam. Code § 6323; see also In re Marriage of Kim (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 364, 371, 256 Cal. Rptr. 217] ;

(e) Imposing certain specific conditions on custody or visitation where allegations of domestic violence have been made and a protective or restraining order is in effect, including orders for precise arrangements for transfer of the child to ensure safety of all family members, and orders to prevent disclosure of the shelter or confidential location where the parent is staying; determining whether any custody or visitation must be supervised, suspended, or denied altogether [see Fam. Code §§ 3100(c), (d), 3031(b), (c), 6323(b), (c)]; and/or

(f) Determining the temporary use, possession, and control of real or personal property of the parties and the payment of any liens or encumbrances coming due during the period the order is in effect [see Fam. Code § 6324].

For further discussion of orders obtained under the Domestic Violence Prevention Act [Fam. Code § 6200-6388], see Ch. 293 Harassment and Domestic Violence .

On the application of either party and to protect the parties' rights, the court may grant injunctive or other relief against any person who has or claims an interest in the controversy, or who, but for Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.102 (limiting persons who may be made parties to a proceeding), would be a necessary party to a complete adjudication of the controversy. Relief also may be granted against one acting as a trustee, agent, custodian, or similar fiduciary for any property subject to disposition by the court in the proceeding, or other matter subject to the court's jurisdiction in the proceeding [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.106(a)(3)]. Similarly, the judgment creditor of one spouse may be enjoined from executing on community property involved in a marital dissolution proceeding [In re Marriage of Van Hook (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 970, 982, 195 Cal. Rptr. 541 ; see Fam. Code § 6324]. A bond may be required if a third party is enjoined [see generally Code Civ. Proc. § 529; see, e.g., In re Marriage of Van Hook (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 970, 988-989, 195 Cal. Rptr. 541] , unless the injunction is granted under the Domestic Violence Prevention Act [Fam. Code § 6200 et seq.; see Fam. Code § 6324] or in a paternity action [see Fam. Code § 7600 et seq.].

[j] Maintenance of Health, Life, Disability, or Other Insurance Coverage

Orders to maintain various types of insurance coverage for parties to domesticrelations proceedings and their dependents are authorized under a number of statutes. Thus, for example, the family law summons contains a standard restraining order concerning any insurance or other coverage, including life, health, automobile, and disability insurance [see Fam. Code § 2040(a)(3)] (see § 221.313). Other injunctive relief that is tailored to a particular insurance need also may be obtained by ex parte application or on notice and a hearing [see generally Fam. Code §§ 2337(b)(2), 3750 et seq.; see also Fam. Code § 2050 et seq.].

On the filing of a petition for marital dissolution, legal separation or annulment, or at any time during the proceeding, a party may transmit, or the court may order the transmittal of, a standardized notice of the pendency of the proceeding to a health, life, or disability insurance carrier [see Fam. Code § 2050] (see § 221.323). The insured or policyholder who is a party to the proceeding must furnish the other party with the name, title, and address of the insurer or the insurer's agent for service of process [Fam. Code § 2053]. The notice instructs the carrier to maintain the beneficiaries or covered dependents under the policy unless the terms of the policy or other legal provisions require otherwise, or until receipt of a court order, judgment, or stipulation of the parties that provides other instructions. The notice also instructs the carrier to notify the affected persons of any cancellation, lapse, change of coverage, or change of designated beneficiaries under the policy [see Fam. Code § 2050]. The involved insurance carrier may notify covered dependents, named beneficiaries, or others who have requested receipt of notification of the policy changes set forth above by first class mail, postage prepaid, to the last known address of such persons [Fam. Code § 2052]. A separate statutory notice may be transmitted to a health, life, or disability insurance carrier on the entry of a family law order or judgment that requires a party to maintain existing insurance coverage or to purchase such coverage [see Fam. Code § 2051].

[2] Application for Preliminary Orders

[a] Decision to Seek Preliminary Orders

In cases in which a party needs spousal or child support, needs attorney's fees or costs, when a spouse threatens to dissipate or waste community property in his or her possession, or when the separation of the spouses was not amicable and physical violence is a possibility, preliminary orders should be sought. In any event, certain temporary mutual restraining orders are immediately effective against both parties because of the requirement that they be included in the summons issued as part of the family law action [see Fam. Code § 2040].

[b] Methods of Applying for Preliminary Orders

Preliminary orders may be sought under a stipulation of the parties and court order (see §§ 221.324 and 221.325), by notice of motion (see § 221.326), and by order to show cause (see § 221.331). If some orders may be sought by notice of motion and some must be sought by order to show cause, the order to show cause procedure must be used for all. Special procedures and considerations govern applications for temporary restraining orders to restrain domestic violence under the Domestic Violence Prevention Act [Fam. Code § 6200 et seq.] and to obtain an ex parte custody order under Fam. Code §§ 3060-3064.

A temporary restraining order (T.R.O.) under Fam. Code § 240, if sought ex parte, must be issued or denied on the same day that the application is submitted to the court, unless the application is filed too late in the day to permit effective review, in which case the order will be issued or denied on the next day of judicial business in sufficient time for the order to be filed that day with the clerk of the court [Fam. Code § 246].

When any order under Fam. Code § 240 is issued, the matter will be made returnable on an order to show cause why a permanent order should not be granted [Fam. Code § 242(a)].

[c] Stipulation and Order

The parties may come to an agreement regarding the preliminary orders to be entered in the family law proceeding (see §§ 221.324 and 221.325). If they do, their attorneys may stipulate to the entry of these preliminary orders [see In re Marriage of Helsel (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 332, 339-340, 243 Cal. Rptr. 657] . Stipulations may be made orally in open court, in which case the court, before making its order, normally must ascertain from the parties that the stipulation is in accordance with their agreement. Agreements and stipulations also may be executed in writing and presented ex parte by one party to the court.

[d] Notice of Motion

An application for an order is a "motion" [Code Civ. Proc. § 1003], a definition that also applies in family law proceedings [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1064; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.21]. If the order sought will affect the rights of the adverse party, procedural due process demands that party be given prior notice of the time and place where the order will be sought and an opportunity to be heard in opposition. In such cases, prior notice is given by the service and filing of a "notice of motion." A notice of motion may be used only when the party against whom the order is sought has made an appearance in the action or proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1014; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.120] and when no temporary restraining orders or temporary custody order on ex parte application are sought [cf. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1150(a) (applicable to family law discovery proceedings under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1100)].

If the notice of motion procedure is used to seek preliminary orders, counsel should follow the procedures listed below:

- Determine time of hearing for insertion in the notice of motion;

- Prepare the following papers in an original for filing, a copy to be served on the other party, an office copy, and a copy for the client, if desired:

  - Notice of motion [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-301] (see § 221.326);

  - Application for order and supporting declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310] (see § 221.37);

  - Income and expense declaration (see § 221.332), together with property declaration (see § 221.334), if applicable [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-150, FL-160];

  - Memorandum of points and authorities, if applicable;

  - Declaration under Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act, if applicable (see § 221.312); and

  - Proof of service by mail, if applicable;

- Serve a copy of the notice of motion and supporting papers on the attorney for the other party or, if there is none, on the party [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1011-1020]; and

- Attach proof of service to the original of the notice of motion and supporting papers, and present them to a deputy court clerk for filing within the time limitations imposed by local rule.

[e] Order to Show Cause

An order to show cause is a court order issued on ex parte application. Ordinarily, it requires the party or person to whom it is directed to appear at a specified time and place to show cause why the relief sought by the applicant should not be granted [see Sturm v. Sturm (1955) 138 Cal. App. 2d 25, 28, 291 P.2d 527] . As a result, it constitutes a notice of the application for relief and provides an opportunity to be heard in opposition; that is, it serves the same function as a notice of motion [see McAuliffe v. Coughlin (1894) 105 Cal. 268, 270, 38 P. 730] . Unlike a notice of motion, however, an order to show cause may be directed to a party or person who has not yet appeared in the action or proceeding. In situations in which a party or person has not yet appeared in the proceeding, an order to show cause serves not only as a notice of motion but also as a citation or summons, the proper service of which gives the court personal jurisdiction over that person [see, e.g., Sarracino v. Superior Court (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 1, 8 n.6, 118 Cal. Rptr. 21, 529 P.2d 53 cf. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1150(a), 3.1260-3.1267, (applicable to family law discovery proceedings under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1100)].

Thus, the order to show cause procedure must be used in a family law proceeding in the following circumstances:

- To secure relief against a party or person who has not appeared in the proceeding as of the time the relief is sought;

- To secure injunctive relief without prior notice to the party or person to be restrained, regardless of whether that party or person has appeared in the proceeding [see, e.g., Fam. Code §§ 2045 (ex parte protective orders during pendency of proceedings), 6200 et seq. (Domestic Violence Prevention Act)]; and

- To secure an immediate award of child custody without prior notice to the other party [see Fam. Code §§ 3062, 3064].

Because of its nature as a "citation," the order to show cause procedure also is frequently used in family law proceedings to secure preliminary orders, even when the party against whom the orders will be directed has already appeared in the proceeding and the use of a notice of motion is permissible. Because it is a form of notice of motion, the order to show cause generally is deemed to be governed by the same statutes as those governing the notice of motion.

The following procedures commonly are followed to obtain preliminary orders by means of the order to show cause procedure:

- Determine the time of the hearing.

- Prepare the following papers in an original for filing, a copy to be served on the other party, an office copy, and a copy for the client, if desired:

  - Order to show cause, which may or may not contain temporary restraining orders [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-300; see also Fam. Code §§ 242, 246] (see § 221.331);

  - Application for order and supporting declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310] (see § 221.37);

- Income and expense declaration (see § 221.332), together with a property declaration (see § 221.334), if applicable [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-150, FL-160];

- Memorandum of points and authorities, if applicable; and

- Declaration under Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act, if applicable (see § 221.312);

- Present the original order, supporting papers, and all copies to the judge of the court in which the proceeding is pending, or to a clerk of that court for presentation to the judge (If the judge signs the order to show cause,the court clerk then files the originals, conforms them, and returns the copies to counsel stamped "endorsed-filed" or "filed." In some counties, the court clerk may be authorized to issue an order to show cause not containing temporary restraining orders by stamping it with the judge's facsimile signature.);

- Serve a conformed, endorsed-filed copy of the order and supporting papers on the nonmoving party; and

- Prepare an original and copies of proof of service, have the person who made the service sign the original, conform the copies, and deliver the original and as many copies as counsel wants stamped "endorsed-filed" to the court clerk's office for filing of the original and return of the copies within the time limitations imposed by local rule].

[f] Informal Notice of Ex Parte Application

Although ex-parte orders are, by definition, issued without formal notice or a formal hearing, local court rules in most counties require some form of informal notice to opposing counsel or the other party, unless certain conditions are satisfied. The general civil rules regarding notice for temporary restraining orders (Code Civ. Proc. § 527(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1200-3.1207) do not apply to ex-parte orders in family law proceedings, except in discovery proceedings [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(g); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100, 3.1103(a)(1)]. Counsel must consult local rules in the county in which the proceeding is pending to determine the notice requirements for ex-parte relief in family law proceedings in that county. In the absence of a controlling local rule, it is suggested that counsel follow the provisions of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1200-3.1207, which govern general civil law and motion proceedings, and family law discovery proceedings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100, 3.1200-3.1207, see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1150(g)].

[g] Memorandum of Points and Authorities

The Family Law Rules generally provide that a memorandum of points and authorities need not be filed unless required by the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118(a)]. Nevertheless, if the order sought is one other than those printed on the application for order and supporting declaration form [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310 (form of application for order); see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 564 et seq. (appointment of receiver)], the better practice is to prepare, serve, and file a supporting memorandum of points and authorities establishing the applicant's legal right to the order under the circumstances.

[h] Other Papers to Be Served by Party Seeking Relief

The declaration under the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (see § 221.312) must be completed by each party to a family law proceeding and attached to his or her pleading whenever child custody is in issue [see Fam. Code § 3429]. A separate declaration is filed with the petition and response, and normally need not be served again and filed with a notice of motion or order to show cause. If a substantial period of time has elapsed since the original filing and the hearing of the application for pendente lite relief, however, a current declaration may be required.

A blank copy of the responsive declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-320] (see §§ 221.329 and 221.337) must be served with the order to show cause or notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118(a)], as must a blank copy of the income and expense declaration (see § 221.332) or simplified financial statement and property declaration (see §§ 221.334 and 221.335) [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150 or FL-155, FL-160] whenever completed declarations are required to be served [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118(e)]. The moving party also must serve a copy of the State Department of Social Services booklet describing the proper procedures for the collection and payment of child and spousal support, supplied by the clerk of the court, on the responding party in any action involving the support of a minor child [see Fam. Code § 17434(c)].

[i] Determining Time of Hearing in Relation to Service Requirements

Unless time is shortened by court order, notices of motion must be served at least 16 court days before the date of the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)]. This requirement applies by analogy to orders to show cause, subject to special time settings for specific types of orders, and to the ability of the court to grant an order shortening time (see § 221.18[3][j]). If service is by mail, the required period of notice is increased by five days if the mailing address and place of mailing are within California, by 10 days if either the mailing address or place of mailing is in another state, and by 20 days if either the mailing address or place of mailing is outside the United States. If the notice is served by fax, Express Mail or another method of overnight delivery, the 16-day period is increased by two calendar days [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)].

When a temporary restraining order under Fam. Code § 240 is issued, the matter is made returnable on an order to show cause why a permanent order should not be granted, on the on the earliest day that the business of the court will permit, but no later than 20 days, or if good cause appears to the court, 25 days from the date of the order [Fam. Code § 242(a)]. If a hearing is not so held, the court may nonetheless hear the matter, but the order is unenforceable unless reissued under Fam. Code § 245 [Fam. Code § 242(b)]. If the order to show cause contains a temporary child custody order under Fam. Code § 3060, the matter ordinarily must be heard within 20 days from the date the custody order is granted [Fam. Code § 3062(a)].

In addition, when a temporary restraining order under Fam. Code § 240 has been issued without notice pending the hearing, the applicant must have served the moving papers on the respondent at least five days before the hearing [Fam. Code § 243(b)]. However, if a temporary restraining order under Fam. Code § 240 has been issued with notice pending the hearing, the applicant must have served the moving papers on the respondent at least 15 days before the hearing [Fam. Code § 243(c)].

[j] Obtaining Order Shortening Time

Occasionally, a moving party may wish to obtain an order shortening time for the hearing on the relief requested and/or the time for serving the moving papers on the responding party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b); Fam. Code § 243(e)]. Either a Notice of Motion or Order to Show Cause form may be used to include an order shortening time for hearing and/or for service. However, any order shortening time requires a judge's signature. Both forms provide space for the judge's signature. The request for an order shortening time for hearing and/or for service should be supported by a declaration stating facts showing why the order shortening time is necessary.

[k] Service of Papers

If an order to show cause is granted at the time the petition is filed and the summons issued, the order and its supporting papers may be served with the petition and summons [see Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.110(a)]. If the order to show cause is served before the respondent has appeared in the proceeding, it operates both as a notice of motion and as a citation to appear at the hearing on the order. In this case, it is recommended that service be made by hand delivery of the papers to ensure that service will be deemed complete within the time limits for scheduling the show cause hearing. Service is deemed complete when delivery is made by personal or hand delivery [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10].

Service of an order to show cause after service of the summons may be accomplished in any of the ways that a summons may be served (§ 221.15[4]). If the party to be served has appeared in the proceeding, however, service may be effected in the same manner in which a notice of motion is served. Therefore, it must be served on the party's attorney if he or she has one [Code Civ. Proc. § 1015; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.10(b); see Conae v. Conae (1952) 109 Cal. App. 2d 696, 697, 241 P.2d 266] and, if none, then on the party.

When the order to show cause also contains a temporary restraining order--or other order, violation of which would subject the person to whom it is directed to a contempt of court proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1209(a)(5); Penal Code § 166(a)(4)]--the better practice is to serve a copy of the order on the party as well as on his or her attorney because of the requirement that, before a party can be found in contempt of court for willful failure to have complied with a court order, it must appear that he or she had knowledge of the order [see, e.g., Phillips v. Superior Court (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 256, 257-258, 137 P.2d 838] . Knowledge, of course, is established by a showing that the party was served with a copy of the order [Phillips v. Superior Court (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 256, 258, 137 P.2d 838] .

Service also should be effected on a county assignee of support rights if support is at issue in the proceeding. A county assignee of support rights is entitled to notice of any proceeding that may affect its interest as assignee [see In re Marriage of Mena (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 12, 19, 21, 260 Cal. Rptr. 314] .

If service of the order to show cause is not effected before the date of the hearing, the matter usually is dropped from the calendar and counsel must file new papers to reset it unless counsel secures a written order continuing the matter to a new date [compare, e.g., Bay Area Super. Ct. Uniform Dom. Rel. Rules, Rule I(B)(5); San Francisco City and County Uniform Local Rules of Court, Rule 4.1(I), with Fam. Code §§ 242(b), 245(a), (b) (requiring court to dissolve order when applicant is not ready to proceed and has not effected timely and proper service); see Cal. Judicial Council Form DV-125 (form); see also Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence].

A notice of motion and its supporting papers must be served in one of the manners specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 1011 (personal delivery to party, attorney, court clerk, or judge; abode service; service by mail), Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1012, 1013 (service by mail, Express Mail, Overnight Delivery, or facsimile transmission), Code Civ. Proc. § 1015 (service on attorney; delivery to court clerk), Code Civ. Proc. § 1017 (service by telegraph), or Code Civ. Proc. § 1020 (registered mail). The most common manner of service is by mail pursuant to the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1012 and 1013. A notice of motion and its supporting papers must be served on the party's attorney if the party has one and, if none, on the party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1015; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.10(b)]. Service also should be effected on a county assignee of support rights if support is at issue in the proceeding [see In re Marriage of Mena (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 12, 19, 21, 260 Cal. Rptr. 314] .

If an order to show cause and its supporting papers are served with the summons, proof of service is made by checking the appropriate boxes on the Judicial Council form of Proof of Service (Summons) adopted for use in family law proceedings [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-115]. After the balance of the form is completed, it must be filed in the court clerk's office. If the order to show cause and its supporting papers are not served with the summons but are served in the same manner as a summons on a party who has not yet appeared in the proceeding, the same proof of service form mentioned above may be used by crossing out the words "the Summons with Standard Restraining Orders (Family Law), blank Response, and Petition (Family Law)" after "I served" at the top ofthe form, otherwise completing the form, and filing the original. If an order to show cause or notice of motion and supporting papers are served by mail pursuant to the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1012 and 1013, on the attorney of a party who has appeared in the proceeding, or on the party if he or she has no attorney, a proof of service must be drafted that complies with the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.10(e)]. Proof of service by mail also may be made by an affidavit stating that the person making service is familiar with postal collection practices and leaves papers to be served in a place where they will be deposited with the Postal Service in the ordinary course of business [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(3)].

Similarly, a proof of service must be drafted if the order to show cause or notice of motion and its supporting papers are served in a manner authorized by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1011, 1015, 1017, or 1020 (service on attorney or party, on resident or nonresident appearing by attorney, service by telegraph, and service by registered mail, respectively) [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.10(e)]. If the party to be served admits service of the papers by signing an acknowledgment of service at the time the papers are served, the signed acknowledgment constitutes the proof of service [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 417.10(d), 417.20(d)].

Proof of service of the moving papers generally must be filed no later than five calendar days before the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(c)]. A paper that is submitted before the close of the clerk's office to the public on the day the paper is due is considered to be timely filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(e)].

[l] Child Custody Award Pursuant to Agreement or on Ex Parte Application

If, before commencement of the proceeding or afterwards, the parties agree that one of them is to have custody or temporary custody of the children, counsel should draft a written agreement for their signatures and have them sign it (see § 221.324).

If the parties have reached an oral understanding that one party should have custody, counsel for that party should complete the Application for Order and Supporting Declaration form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310] containing his or her client's understanding of the agreement in the form of a declaration under penalty of perjury [see Fam. Code § 3061]. Thus, it would appear that if one party left the other party, saying something to the effect of "I'm leaving, and you can keep the children," this would constitute an oral understanding sufficient to form the basis of an ex parte custody order under Fam. Code § 3061. The practical effect of this interpretation is that the party to whom the above or a similar statement was addressed could obtain ex parte temporary custody of the children pending the outcome of the proceeding without the necessity of scheduling and attending a show cause hearing. Although the other party would be served with a copy of the custody order after the fact, it would be up to that party to challenge the order by a motion to vacate or by other means [compare Fam. Code § 3061 with Fam. Code § 3062(a)].

Counsel also should draft a court order awarding temporary custody in conformity with the agreement and prepare a proof of service. If the party seeking the temporary order has yet to file the declaration under Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act, that form also should be attached to the application for order. Thereafter, counsel should present the originals of the request for order, the order, and attachments, together with all copies, for the judge's signature on the original of the order. When the applicant for the order is the petitioner, this may be done immediately after the petition is filed. If the judge signs the order, a deputy court clerk must conform the copies of the order, file the originals of the order and request for order, stamp all copies "endorsed-filed" or "filed," and return all copies to counsel. Counsel then should have a conformed, endorsed-filed copy of each of these papers served on the other party, together with an unsigned copy of the proof of service if service is by mail [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(b)]. Next, counsel should file the original of the proof of service. If service was by mail, a conformed, endorsed-filed copy of each of the papers served must be attached [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a].

If the parties have made an agreement regarding custody and each is represented by counsel, counsel for one of the parties should draft a stipulation setting forth the agreement and have each of the parties and their respective attorneys sign it [see Fam. Code § 3061]. Counsel also must draft a court order awarding temporary custody in conformity with the stipulation and a proof of service. The order may be appended to the stipulation or set forth separately in the form of a formal order. Counsel then should follow the same procedure as set forth above for securing, filing, and serving the order. Alternatively, the stipulation may be presented at an oral hearing or the parties may orally stipulate in open court as to custody.

If the parties do not agree regarding the custody or temporary custody of their children, either of them may apply ex parte for a temporary custody order that, if granted, must be made returnable on an order to show cause [see Fam. Code § 3062(a)]. To do so, counsel should complete the Application for Order and Supporting Declaration form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310], the declaration under the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act form, and the Order to Show Cause form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-300]. The temporary custody order should be inserted in the blank space at the bottom of the Order to Show Cause form. The procedure thereafter is the same as for any order to show cause containing temporary ex parte orders.

[m] Mediation

When it appears on the face of a petition, application, or other pleading toobtain or modify a temporary or permanent custody or visitation order that custody, visitation, or both are contested, the court is required to set the contested issues for mediation before or concurrent with the setting of the matter for hearing [Fam. Code §§ 3170, 3175]. When the parties have a history of domestic violence or when a domestic violence prevention order is in effect, court-ordered custody investigations and mediation sessions must be held separately at separate times [Fam. Code §§ 3113, 3181(a); see Fam. Code § 6211 ("domestic violence" defined); see also Fam. Code §§ 2045(b), 3113, 3181(a), 6203, 6218, 6320, 6321, 6323, 7710]. The party who is protected by the restraining order or who alleges a history of domestic violence must make the request for separate mediation sessions [Fam. Code §§ 3113, 3181(a)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence .

Mediation is usually provided by special units in the courts called "Family Court Services" or "Family Mediation Services," by local probation departments, or by private contractors who are usually mental health professionals. Mediation involving domestic violence cases must be handled by Family Court Services in accordance with the protocol adopted by the Judicial Council [Fam. Code § 3170(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.215].

Custody mediation is in contrast to voluntary, private mediation of additional issues, which in family law cases is not specifically defined or regulated by statute, except for provisions establishing the confidentiality of certain mediation proceedings [see Evid. Code § 1119; Foxgate Homeowners Assn. v. Bramalea California, Inc. (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 1, 14, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 642, 25 P.3d 1117 (courts may not create exceptions to confidentiality of mediation communications afforded by Evid. Code § 1119, or to confidentiality of mediator's reports and findings afforded by Evid. Code § 1121); Eisendrath v. Superior Court (Rogers) (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 351, 357-358, 364-365, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 716 (confidential mediation communications are not admissible absent both parties' express consent; confidential communications made before end of mediation remain confidential after mediation ends)]. For a complete discussion of private mediation in family law cases, see Kirkland, Lurvey, & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed., Ch. 98 (Matthew Bender).

[3] Responding Party's Papers

[a] Responsive Declaration

A responsive declaration (see §§ 221.329 and 221.337) must be completed in all cases in which the responding party wishes to oppose (1) an application for an order or orders, or (2) the continuance of an order or orders originally granted on ex parte application. The responsive declaration must be filed with the court and served on each party at least nine court days before the time appointed for the hearing if the application for preliminary orders was made by noticed motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)]. Assuming that time for service of the application for the order was not shortened to a period so short as to prevent service and filing of the responsive declaration within the statutory time limit, the five-day response requirement may apply by analogy when the application was made by order to show cause. Even if this requirement does not apply to orders to show cause, the respondent who wishes to respond to the order to show cause by presenting affidavits relating to the granting of the order must do so by serving them on the applicant at least two days before the hearing. If the respondent complies with this time limitation, the applicant is not entitled to a continuance on account of the affidavits [Fam. Code § 243(g)]. For related discussion, see § 221.18[5][c][i].

A responding party may seek affirmative relief instead of that requested by the moving party on the same issues raised by the moving party by filing a responsive declaration within the time set by statute or rules of court [Fam. Code § 213(a)]. A responding party wishing to seek affirmative relief from the moving party must file and serve a separate order to show cause or notice of motion and request a hearing at the same time as that set by the moving party only if the issues for which affirmative relief is requested differ from those raised by the moving party [see Fam. Code § 213(a)].

[b] Responding Party's Other Papers

The responding party must serve and file a complete an income and expense declaration and property declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-150, FL-160; see §§ 221.332 -221.335] when he or she wishes to oppose an application for an order to pay money or disagrees with the amount sought [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.128(a)]. Although counsel may wish to do so anyway, a memorandum of points and authorities [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1113, 5.21, 5.22] need not be filed unless required by the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118(a)]. If the order sought is other than one for child custody, visitation, or support, spousal support, suit money, or standard noncontroversial injunctive orders, however, and if the applicant has served and filed points and authorities with the application for the order, the better practice is to prepare, serve, and file points and authorities in opposition.

[c] Service and Filing

The responsive declaration and all papers opposing a noticed motion must be filed with the court and served on each party at least nine court days before the time appointed for the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)]. The responsive declaration and supporting papers must be served on the attorney for the party requesting the orders if he or she has one and, if not, then on the party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1015; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.10(b)] in person [Code Civ. Proc. § 1011; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.10(b)], or as otherwise provided by statute [see Code of Civ. Proc. §§ 1011-1013, 1015, 1017, 1020]. The most common method of service is by mail pursuant to the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1012 and 1013.

A proof of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1011] must be prepared and executed, and the original attached to the originals of the responsive declaration and other papers to be filed with the court. When service is by mail, an additional, unsigned copy also should be prepared and enclosed with the copies of the papers served. Alternatively, the person who makes the service may note on the copies served their date and place of mailing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.10(e)]. After the papers have been served, the originals with the proof of service attached must be filed in the court clerk's office. No fee is imposed for filing a declaration in response to an order to show cause [see Gov. Code § 26826(a)(2)].

[4] Bifurcation and Consolidation

[a] Bifurcation

Bifurcation is commonly used in family law matters to separate trial of the issue of dissolution or legal separation from related issues of custody, support, and property rights [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Lusk (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 228, 234-235, 150 Cal. Rptr. 63] . This procedure enables the parties to obtain a relatively quick determination of the marital status while allowing them to prepare for subsequent trial of complicated property and support issues. Parties also may find bifurcation useful to reach resolution on a particular matter, such as the validity or effect of a separate property agreement or the character of a particular asset, that simplifies or determines other issues [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule

5.175(b); Lee v. Superior Court (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 705, 711, 134 Cal. Rptr. 43] .

Only slight evidence is necessary to obtain bifurcation and resolution of marital status. Conversely, a spouse opposing bifurcation must present compelling reasons for denial of a bifurcation motion [Gionis v. Superior Court (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 786, 790, 248 Cal. Rptr. 741] . Parties seeking bifurcation have successfully cited the desire for remarriage, the delay posed by resolution of certain dissolution issues, and various business and tax reasons as grounds for bifurcation [see In re Marriage of Lusk (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 228, 231, 150 Cal. Rptr. 63] .

For an example of the Judicial Council forms for use to obtain bifurcation of marital status, see § 221.328.

A party who moves to bifurcate must serve a preliminary declaration of disclosure with a completed schedule of assets and debts on the opposing party along with the noticed motion to bifurcate, unless the preliminary declaration has been served previously or the parties stipulate in writing that filing of the preliminary declaration may be deferred until a later time [Fam. Code § 2337(b); see § 221.15[3][b]].

A court may impose on the bifurcating party a duty to take any of the following actions or assume any of the following duties on severing the issue of the dissolution of marital status until judgment has been entered on all remaining issues and has become final:

(1) Indemnify and hold the other party harmless from any and all taxes, reassessments, interest, and penalties payable by the other party if dissolving the marriage before dividing the parties' community estate results in a taxable event to either of them because of the ultimate division of their community estate, when these taxes would not have been payable if the parties were still married when the division was made [see Fam. Code § 2337(c)(1)];

(2) Maintain all existing health and medical insurance coverage for the other party and the minor children as named dependents, so long as he or she is legally able to do so. It also may order that when the bifurcating party is no longer legally eligible to maintain the other party as a named dependent under the existing health and medical policies, the bifurcating party or his or her estate must purchase and maintain, at his or her sole expense, health and medical insurance coverage that is comparable to the existing health and medical insurance coverage [see Fam. Code § 2337(c)(2)];

(3) Indemnify and hold the other party harmless from any and all adverse consequences resulting to the other party in the event the bifurcation results in a termination of the other party's right to a probate homestead in the residence in which the other party resides when the severance is granted [see Fam. Code § 2337(c)(3)];

(4) Indemnify and hold the other party harmless from any and all adverse consequences resulting to the other party in the event that the bifurcation results in the loss of the rights of the other party to a probate family allowance as the surviving spouse of the bifurcating party [see Fam. Code § 2337(c)(4)];

(5) Indemnify and hold the other party harmless from any and all adverse consequences resulting to the other party if bifurcation results in the loss of the other party's rights to pension benefits, elections, or survivors' benefits under the bifurcating party's pension or retirement plan to the extent that the other party would have been entitled to those benefits or elections as the surviving spouse of the bifurcating party [see Fam. Code § 2337(c)(5)];

(6) Require that, before entry of judgment terminating marital status, the moving party's retirement or pension plan must be joined as a party, and,if applicable, that orders dividing plan benefits be entered pending the ultimate resolution of the distribution of benefits [Fam. Code § 2337(c)(6)] and that any orders necessary to ensure that a party receives his or her full community property share in any retirement plan be entered [Fam. Code § 2610(a)]; and

(7) Indemnify and hold the other party harmless from any and all adverse consequences in the event that bifurcation results in the loss of rights to Social Security benefits or elections to the extent the other party would have been entitled to those benefits or elections as the surviving spouse of the bifurcating party [see Fam. Code § 2337(c)(7)].

A court also may order any other condition that it determines is just and equitable in granting bifurcation of marital status [Fam. Code § 2337(c)(8)]. Furthermore, in the event of the bifurcating party's death after entry of a judgment of dissolution of marriage, any obligation imposed by Fam. Code § 2337 is enforceable against any asset, including the proceeds thereof, against which these obligations would have been enforceable prior to that party's death [Fam. Code § 2337(e)].

[b] Consolidation

[i] In General

A dissolution proceeding may be consolidated with a civil action in certain instances. Consolidation is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1048(a), which provides for a joint hearing or trial when actions involving a common question of law or fact are pending before the court. One court of appeal addressing this issue has held that an order consolidating a husband's civil fraud action with the parties' dissolution action was not erroneous when a wife had fraudulently induced her husband to sign a marital settlement agreement transferring his separate assets to her and a grant deed placing their joint tenancy residence in her name alone [see In re Marriage of McNeill (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 548, 206 Cal. Rptr. 641] . Conversely, in another case involving custody and visitation, a court found it improper to order consolidation of that case with a purportedly related civil rights proceeding. The court found that the two cases failed to share a single factual or legal issue [see In re Marriage of Kim (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 364, 372-373, 256 Cal. Rptr. 217] .

Note that if a final judgment has been issued and nothing is pending in the dissolution proceeding, the dissolution proceeding may not be reopened and consolidated with a tort action, even if the tort action relates to matters adjudicated in the dissolution proceeding [see Sosnick v. Sosnick (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 1335, 1339-1340, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 700 (court erred in consolidating former wife's civil action for assault and battery against husband with dissolution proceeding, when judgment had been entered in dissolution proceeding and no appeal taken)].

[ii] Cases Involving Child Support Agencies

When an order for consolidation is made in a cases in which a local child support agency is appearing under Fam. Code § 17400, the cases must be consolidated in accordance with the requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.365. For a complete discussion of these requirements, see Kirkland, Luvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed., Chapter 111 (§ 111.22) (Matthew Bender). For a related form by which a court notifies parties of the consolidation of several cases into one court file, see § 221.347 [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-920].

[5] Hearing and Orders

[a] Continuance

Continuances in family law proceedings involving temporary restraining orders and injunctive relief primarily are governed by Fam. Code § 243. Local court rule may impose additional requirements on the procedure for obtaining continuances. For a general discussion of the grounds, forms, and procedure for obtaining a continuance, see Ch. 136, Continuances .

Ordinarily, the party against whom the relief is sought in a family law proceeding is entitled to one continuance as of course for a reasonable period to prepare for the hearing [Fam. Code § 243(e)]. The applicant for a temporary restraining order, on the other hand, probably is entitled to a continuance on account of any affidavits presented by the respondent relating to the granting of the order when the respondent fails to serve them on the applicant at least two days before the hearing [see Fam. Code § 243(g)].

When the party who secured issuance of an order to show cause is unable to effect service on the other party before the hearing date, the court should be notified in advance of the hearing date so that the matter may be taken off calendar. Some courts, pursuant to local rule and on application within a specified time before the hearing date, will grant an application for an order continuing the hearing rather than require the applicant to secure issuance of a new order to show cause. The continuance order may be secured ex parte by presenting a prepared order to the proper judge of the court and explaining orally that counsel has been unable to effect service. A conformed, endorsed copy of the court's order continuing the hearing date must be served when the order to show cause is finally served on the other party.

The granting of a continuance on the application of either party at the hearing on the order to show cause or motion is within the discretion of the trial court. Conflicts in an attorney's schedule, however, do not justify a continuance unless brought promptly to the court's attention [In re Marriage of Perkal (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 413, 143 Cal. Rptr. 575] .

[b] Hearing

Family law courts usually divide their calendars for hearings on temporary orders into at least two categories: short cause and long cause matters. Short cause matters are usually defined as requiring 20 minutes or less for presentation of both sides of the matter and the court's ruling thereon. Short cause calendar hearings generally do not permit oral testimony. Long cause matters generally require a specific setting by the court of a date and time certain for the hearing, because these hearings contemplate that there will be oral testimony and the introduction into evidence of various documents. The amount of time made available by the court depends on the number of witnesses and the complexity of the issues.

Counsel should be as accurate as possible in estimating the time necessary for a long cause hearing. The majority of cases in which temporary orders are being requested will be on the short cause calendar and will be ruled on by the court on the basis of the declarations submitted by the parties, including Income and Expense Declarations. Counsel who intentionally prolong a short cause matter to prevent the court from making a ruling may incur substantial sanctions [see In re Marriage of Quinlan (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1417, 1422-1423, 257 Cal. Rptr. 850 ; see also Fam. Code § 271].

Counsel should confer before the hearing and agree to stipulate to the existence of noncontested facts to narrow the issues to be determined, the admission of exhibits or other evidence and, if applicable, to the entry of standard noncontroversial restraining orders (see § 221.325) and that the hearing be held before a court commissioner presiding as temporary judge. If support is at issue, documents supporting the statements made in the income and expense declarations and that were not incorporated into the declarations by attachment must be brought to the hearing. These supporting documents would include statements of earnings received after the declarations were filed. Local court rules often require specific additional information to be provided, including, for example, the previous year's tax returns. More detailed documentation (for example, monthly statements and bills from creditors, cancelled checks, and the like) is generally not needed at an OSC or motion hearing unless one party or the other has indicated an intention to challenge the information in the income and expense declaration, in which case the matter may need to be specially set on the "long cause" calendar. Local rules in many counties require counsel to exchange documents and attempt in good faith to reach stipulations before the hearing.

Just as the court has the ability to exclude oral testimony at the hearing, however [see Cal Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118(f)], as a concomitant it has the discretion to receive it [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Hunt (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 872, 875, 218 Cal. Rptr. 451] . Nevertheless, the court may not resolve disputed factual issues based on mere statements of counsel or the parties, but must, instead, make its ruling on the basis of evidence presented in declarations made under penalty of perjury, by offers of proof, or through formal oral testimony [County of Alameda v. Moore (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 1422, 1424, 1426-1427, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 18] . Accordingly, if a request to admit oral testimony is denied, counsel should make an offer of proof to preserve the point on appeal [see Evid. Code § 354(a); In re Marriage of Perkal (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 413, 419, 143 Cal. Rptr. 575] .

At the beginning of the hearing, many courts ask counsel to apprise the court of any stipulations the parties have reached on issues raised by the moving and responding papers, and to have such stipulations "put on the record" before proceeding to the contested issues. The parties might also stipulate to the existence of facts and to the introduction of exhibits, if any (for example, a W-2 form, setting forth a party's earnings). Courts will frequently ask counsel to also stipulate that the declarations of both parties may be received in evidence, subject to reasonable cross examination.

Subject to any time constraints imposed by the court and particular rules of local practice, the court may permit each party to testify to any substantial changes that may have occurred since the time his or her declaration was executed, and to cross-examine the other party on statements made in that party's declarations. Unnecessary or repetitious testimony should be avoided. Detailed cross-examination of matters not seriously contested will not be well received by the court. Counsel's main efforts should be directed toward argument on the basis of the evidentiary data before the court.

[c] Attack on Order in Trial Court

An order taken against a party through his or her mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect may be set aside on any terms as the court may deem just on motion of the aggrieved party [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b)]. Similarly, on the motion of either party after notice to the other, the court may set aside any void order [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(d); Greene v. Superior Court (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 403, 405, 10 Cal. Rptr. 817, 359 P.2d 249] or any order obtained by extrinsic fraud [Greene v. Superior Court (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 403, 405, 10 Cal. Rptr. 817, 359 P.2d 249] .

Code Civ. Proc. § 657 authorizes a motion for new trial on certain specified grounds after a verdict or "any other decision." Whether a motion for new trial may be used to attack a pendente lite order on a motion or order to show cause is not clear [see Greene v. Superior Court (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 403, 405-406, 10 Cal. Rptr. 817, 359 P.2d 249] . For further discussion of procedure and grounds for a new trial, see § 221.15[6].

When an application for an order has been made to a judge or to the court and has been refused in whole or in part, granted, or granted conditionally or on terms, any party affected by the order may apply to the same judge or court who madethe order to reconsider the matter and modify, amend, or revoke the prior order. The application for reconsideration must be made within 10 days after knowledge of the order has been obtained and must be based on alleged new or different facts, circumstances, or law [Code Civ. Proc. § 1008(a), (f)]. If the moving party fails to present new or different facts, circumstances, or law, the court lacks jurisdiction to entertain the motion [Sakiyama v. AMF Bowling Centers, Inc. (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 398, 413-414, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 762] .

Judges also have inherent authority to reconsider their interim orders and to change those orders at any time before entry of judgment, notwithstanding Code Civ. Proc. § 1008, which states that compliance with its procedural provisions is jurisdictional [Scott Co. v. U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty Ins. Co. (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 197, 205-212, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 89 ; Wozniak v. Lucutz (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 1031, 1041-1042, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 310] . For example, the requirement that new or different facts, circumstances, or law must be shown on a party's motion for reconsideration, does not apply to a judge's motion for reconsideration [Kerns v. CSE Ins. Group (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 368, 385, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 754] .

A motion similar to the motion to reconsider is authorized under Code Civ. Proc. § 1008(b). It, however, is not subject to the 10-day limitation to which the motion for reconsideration is subject. This motion has been termed a "motion for renewal" or "renewed motion," in that it involves an application for renewal of an earlier motion based on different ("new") facts [see, e.g., Monsan Homes, Inc. v. Pogrebneak (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 826, 831, 258 Cal. Rptr. 676] . Unlike a motion for reconsideration, a motion for renewal need not be heard by the judge who ruled on the original motion [Deauville Restaurant, Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 843, 849-851, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 863] .

On its own motion or on that of the injured party, the court may correct a clerical mistake in its order as entered to conform to the order directed [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(d)].

[d] Appeal

Orders granting or dissolving an injunction, or refusing to grant or dissolve an injunction, are appealable [Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1(a)(6)]. In addition, pendente lite orders for support and the like are considered final judgments in collateral matters, and also are appealable [see In re Marriage of Skelley (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 365, 368, 134 Cal. Rptr. 197, 556 P.2d 297] . Because of the length of time required before securing a decision on appeal, however, this remedy may be more illusory than real; that is, in most cases the order is superseded by the judgment in the trial court before the propriety of the court's ruling can be determined on appeal.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePretrial MattersConferencesCase ManagementFamily LawChild SupportObligationsTypesTemporary SupportFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportCosts & Attorney FeesFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportObligationsTemporary Support

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.19

§ 221.19 Reconciliation Proceedings

The Family Conciliation Court Law [Fam. Code § 1800 et seq.] establishes procedures and provides resources for conciliation of marital difficulties. It was designed to protect the rights of children, to promote the public welfare by preserving, promoting, and protecting family life and the institution of marriage, and to provide a means for the reconciliation of spouses and the amicable settlement of domestic and family controversies [Fam. Code § 1801]. The Family Conciliation Court Law applies only in those counties in which the superior court determines each January that the social conditions in the county and the number of domestic relations cases in the courts render the procedures provided by the law necessary to their full and proper consideration and the effectuation of the purposes of the law [Fam. Code § 1802].

Conciliation counseling is a short-term process that attempts to save a marriage by means of some form of reconciliation agreement. Even if reconciliation is not achieved, the counseling process can reduce tensions, facilitate an amicable settlement between the parties, and in general, achieve as friendly and constructive a separation as possible. The Family Conciliation Court Law provides for a staff of professional marriage counselors attached to the conciliation court and headed by an individual generally designated the counselor of conciliation [Fam. Code §§ 1814, 1815]. As directed by the court, counselors of conciliation and their staffs are responsible for holding hearings and conferences with the parties, conducting investigations, making recommendations to the court, preparing reports and statistics, maintaining records, making recommendations relating to underage marriage, assisting individuals in the preparation and presentation of petitions for conciliation, acting as domestic relations case investigators, conducting mediation of child custody and visitation disputes, and carrying out supervision in connection with the jurisdiction of the conciliation court [Fam. Code § 1814(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawAlternative Dispute ResolutionMediation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.20

§ 221.20 Uncontested Proceedings

[1] In General

Many proceedings for dissolution and legal separation end up as uncontested proceedings when the parties find themselves able to agree on custody, support, and property issues without the necessity of a contested trial. In cases in which the parties have reached an agreement settling all issues between them, they usually also agree that the petitioner take the respondent's default. In addition, the parties generally stipulate to extend the time in which respondent must respond to allow time for negotiations to settle issues between them. Provision usually is made for notice to the respondent before the entry of a default. If the notice prior to entry of default is not given or if the agreed settlement is not given effect at the defaulthearing, the respondent may be able to have the judgment set aside under Code Civ. Proc. § 473.

A preliminary declaration of disclosure of all assets and liabilities in which one or both parties may have an interest must be served. Although a final disclosure declaration is also generally required (absent good cause), the final declaration may be waived by the petitioner in the case of a default judgment, and in other cases the parties may stipulate to waive the final declaration [Fam. Code §§ 2105, 2106, 2110]. For further discussion of these declarations and their related declaration of service, §§ 221.15[3], and, 221.15[3][b].

The respondent's default may be entered when he or she fails within the time allowed for response to file a response or a notice of motion to quash the proceeding, to quash service of summons, of filing a petition for writ of mandate, or to transfer the proceeding. Once the respondent's default has been entered by the clerk after the petitioner has filed a request for default, the proceeding goes to trial on the uncontested calendar.

One advantage to the respondent in allowing the dissolution to take place without a response or appearance is the avoidance of the cost of having the response or appearance prepared and of paying the fee required for the filing of a "first paper" [Code Civ. Proc. § 411.20; Gov. Code §§ 26826, 26826.1]. In addition, no filing fee is imposed for a marital settlement agreement signed by a defaulted respondent and intended for incorporation in a proposed decree of dissolution of marriage [Gov. Code § 26826(a)(3)].

[2] Representing Petitioner

The attorney representing the petitioner in an uncontested proceeding generally has the same responsibilities as if the proceeding were contested. He or she bears the burden of establishing the client's right to the relief requested in the petition. The basic difference between a contested and uncontested proceeding is that in the latter all evidence is solicited from one party rather than from both.

The initial steps leading up to an uncontested hearing are the same as those leading to a contested hearing. If a response or other appropriate proceeding is not timely filed, the petitioner should file the Request to Enter Default [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-165] (see § 221.340) to have the respondent's default entered. If the respondent does file a response or other appropriate pleading, the matter still may be heard as uncontested in the situations described in § 221.20[1], but the Request for Default does not have to be filed.

If the attorney discovers any defects in the petition, a motion to amend the petition should be filed immediately because the court will not allow the petition to be amended at the time of the default hearing. If the respondent has not yet appeared in the action and the petition has been amended, the copy of the filed amendment or amended petition must be served on the respondent in the same manner as that for service of summons. Otherwise, the petition will not be deemed validly amended and a default judgment based on the amended petition will be subject to a motion to set aside [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Rhoades (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 169, 172, 211 Cal. Rptr. 531] .

No default may be entered in any proceeding unless the Request to Enter Default [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-165 (see § 221.340) is completed in full and filed by the petitioner [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.124]. The mailing declaration must be filled out and a copy of the request mailed unless the service was by publication and the address is still unknown [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.124(b)].

A declaration of nonmilitary status is required by the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act [50 U.S.C. App. § 501 et seq.] which, in relevant part, protects persons in military service [see 50 U.S.C. App. § 511(1)-(3)] from default judgment [50 U.S.C. App. § 521]. This part of the form consists of a declaration by the petitioner that the respondent is not in the military service and thus not entitled to the protection of the Act. In situations in which the respondent's whereabouts are unknown, the respondent's military status may be unknown to the petitioner, and thus the petitioner will not be able to declare under penalty of perjury that the respondent is not a member of the armed services on active duty. In such cases, the petitioner still may meet the requirements of the Act by filing, with the request for default, a declaration re: military service showing facts tending to prove the respondent is not in military service. If the respondent is in the military service, the court must appoint an attorney to represent him or her and protect his or her interest in the dissolution [50 U.S.C. App. § 521(b)(2)], unless the respondent waives these rights by use of the Appearance, Stipulation and Waivers form (see § 221.339). For further discussion of the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act and forms for use when the declaration on the request for default is not sufficient, see Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments . California law requires a similar declaration concerning the military status of a respondent before a default may be entered, and specifies procedures for appointment of counsel and posting of a bond for absent service members, as well as permitting a stay of proceedings and reopening of judgments for the benefit of service members [see Mil. & Vet. Code §§ 402, 403].

Even in a default or uncontested proceeding, the court has a duty to determine issues of support, property division, and attorney's fees and costs [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.122; see Fam. Code § 2550]. Thus, unless the petitioner does not seek any such relief [see Fam. Code § 2330.5] or unless the court orders otherwise, a current income and expense declaration and property declaration (see §§ 221.332 -221.335) must be filed by the petitioner if the information contained in the declaration is relevant to any issue to be determined by the court at thehearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.128(a)]. For additional discussion of establishing the basis for relief, see § 221.20[6][b].

In some jurisdictions the petitioner must file a formal request for setting the hearing date at the time the Request to Enter Default is filed. In those jurisdictions where such a request is not required, an oral request to the clerk is necessary to set the matter for hearing on the uncontested calendar.

[3] Representing Respondent

Depending on the scope of the retention agreement, the attorney for the respondent may be responsible for representing his or her client in settlement negotiations, for drafting a marital termination agreement, for conducting pretrial investigation and discovery, and for advising the client concerning actions that should be taken as soon as possible after the parties have separated or after the petition for dissolution has been filed.

If possible, the respondent's attorney should attend the uncontested hearing to guard against the possibility that the petitioner might refuse to acknowledge a marital termination agreement negotiated by the parties or any stipulations entered into by the parties. If this happens, the court should permit the respondent's attorney to be heard, perhaps as a friend to the court [see Loomis v. Loomis (1948) 89 Cal. App. 2d 232, 236-238, 201 P.2d 33] .

[4] Representing Both Parties

At times, a couple seeking to save attorney's fees and believing they have no conflicting interests will ask one attorney to represent them both in the dissolution of their marriage. Dual representation is technically permissible with the informed written consent of each client [see Cal. Rules of Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-310(C)]. The matter must be truly uncontested, such that there is no existing dispute between the parties as to any part of the proceeding. There must be full disclosure of all facts and circumstances necessary to enable each party to make a fully-informed decision regarding the areas of potential conflict and the possibility and desirability of seeking independent legal advice In re Marriage of Egedi (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 17, 23, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 518 ; [see Klemm v. Superior Court (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 893, 899-901, 142 Cal. Rptr. 509] .

However, despite the technical permissibility of dual representation in uncontested cases, it is not recommended because of the potential for conflict between the parties [see Flatt v. Superior Court (1994) 9 Cal. 4th 275, 282-285, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 537, 885 P.2d 950] . From an ethical and malpractice standpoint, it is strongly suggested that dual representation not be undertaken.

[5] Entry of Default and Setting for Hearing

Once the petitioner has applied to the court for entry of the default by filing the Request to Enter Default form (see § 221.340), the clerk will inspect the file to verify service of process on the respondent [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.122]. Assuming all is in order, the clerk will enter the default, and the petitioner should then apply to the court for the relief sought in the petition. In some jurisdictions, a written request for setting the hearing must be filed with the clerk.

The petitioner must provide the clerk with an envelope bearing sufficient postage and addressed to the respondent, with the clerk's address as the return address. The clerk must mail a copy of the Request to Enter Default to the respondent in the envelope provided. A judgment of dissolution or legal separation, including relief requested in the petition, will not be denied solely on the basis that the Request to Enter Default was returned unopened to the court. The clerk is required to maintain any such document returned by the post office as part of the court file in the case [Fam. Code § 2335.5].

[6] The Uncontested Hearing

[a] Establishing Grounds

The court is without power to grant a judgment of dissolution on the default of the respondent unless the grounds for dissolution alleged in the petition are proved in court [Fam. Code § 2336(a)]. Proof of irreconcilable differences [see Fam. Code § 2310(a)] may be established without courtroom testimony by use of the Judicial Council form of Declaration for Default or Uncontested Dissolution (see § 221.341), which contains a preprinted statement asserting this ground [Fam. Code § 2336(a); Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-170]. Courtroom testimony is needed in such cases only when it appears to the court that reconciliation of the parties is reasonably possible, a proposed child custody order is not in the best interests of the child, a proposed child support order is less than a noncustodial parent is capable of paying, or a personal appearance of any party or interested person would be in the best interests of justice [Fam. Code § 2336(b)].

Live testimony appears to be required when the ground for dissolution or legal separation is incurable insanity [see Fam. Code §§ 2310(b), 2312]. In limited instances, a petitioner may be allowed by "exceptional circumstances" to establish proof of the grounds alleged in the petition by affidavit (or declaration) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5] in lieu of a courtroom appearance by the petitioner [see Fam. Code §§ 2200-2210, 2336(b)].

[b] Evidence Regarding Property, Custody, and Support

If the parties have negotiated a settlement of all issues between them and their agreement is evidenced by a marital termination agreement, the agreement may be submitted to the court for approval and incorporated in the judgment, just as would be the case if the proceeding were not uncontested. The court may require the petitioner to clarify and justify any details of the agreement, and counsel mustbe certain the client is fully prepared to do so. If the agreement includes a provision for child custody and support, the court has jurisdiction to make its own orders in regard to this issue, notwithstanding the agreement of the parties [Fam. Code § 3651(a), (d)].

If the parties have not settled all issues of support and property division before the hearing, and no settlement agreement has been negotiated and executed for submission to the court, the court will require evidence to be presented on these matters. This places the responsibility on petitioner's counsel to present all evidence on these issues in a fair and objective manner. Because the court has a duty to exercise discretion in granting the relief requested, it has the power to inquire into the financial condition of the parties--including that of the respondent--if this information is available. When the parties have minor children, each affidavit or offer of proof must include the affiant's or declarant's estimate of each party's monthly gross income. An affiant or declarant who has no knowledge of a party's estimated monthly income must state why he or she has no knowledge. If there is a community estate, each affidavit or offer of proof must include an estimate of the value of the assets and debts the affiant or declarant proposes to be distributed to each party [Fam. Code § 2336(a)]. If attorney's fees are at issue, counsel should be prepared to justify the attorney's fees, perhaps by a statement of time spent on the matter.

If there are minor children of the parties, the affidavit or offer or proof must include an estimate of each party's monthly gross income, or a statement of why the declarant or affiant has no knowledge of a party's estimated monthly gross income. If there is a community estate, the affidavit or offer or proof must include an estimate of the value of the assets and debts the declarant or affiant proposes to be distributed to each party, unless the declarant or affiant has filed (or concurrently files) a complete and accurate property declaration with the court [Fam. Code § 2336(a)].

[c] The Proposed Judgment of Dissolution

The proposed judgment should be prepared before the hearing and submitted to the court at the time of the hearing. Although agreement between the parties on the terms of the judgment may be reached long before the hearing, the judgment itself is not effective until signed by the court.

When the parties to the proceeding want to include the provisions of a marital termination agreement as part of the judgment, they may use the stipulation for judgment prescribed by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.116. The stipulated judgment must be completed and signed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.116], and must include a disposition of all matters subject to the court's jurisdiction for which a party seeks adjudication or an explicit reservation of jurisdiction over any matter not proposed for disposition at that time. In default cases, the signature of the defaulting spouse on any marital settlement agreement or stipulated judgment must be notarized [Fam. Code § 2338.5(a)]. Note that the court may set aside a judgment for failure to comply with the disclosure requirements. The court may limit the set aside to those portions of the judgment that were materially affected by the nondisclosure [Fam. Code § 2105(e)].

The court clerk must give notice of entry of judgment to the attorney for each party, or if a party is not represented by counsel, to that party. For the purpose of mailing the notice of entry of judgment, the party submitting the judgment must provide the court clerk with stamped envelopes bearing sufficient postage for this purpose, with the address of the court clerk as the return address. If returned, the court clerk must maintain any such returned document as part of the court file in the case [Fam. Code § 2338.5(b)-(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePretrial JudgmentsDefaultDefault JudgmentsFamily LawChild SupportObligationsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionProperty SettlementsLegal EthicsClient RelationsConflicts of Interest

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.21

§ 221.21 Summary Dissolution

[1] In General

The summary dissolution procedure provides a relatively uncomplicated and inexpensive means for dissolving a marriage of no more than five years in duration with no children and limited assets and liabilities [see Fam. Code § 2400]. The parties must agree that the marriage should be dissolved, and must file a joint petition seeking dissolution [see Fam. Code § 2401]. The parties also must have executed an agreement on the division of the assets and liabilities [see Fam. Code § 2400(a)(8)]. Unlike the procedures involved in a conventional dissolution proceeding, once the joint petition of the parties has been filed with the court, no further action is necessary until application for a final judgment of dissolution is made. No requirement exists that a hearing be held on the petition [see Fam. Code § 2403].

[2] Role of Attorney

The attorney does not play as active a role in a summary dissolution proceeding as he or she would in a conventional dissolution because the summary procedure involves no formal court hearing and no support, custody, or property issues [see Fam. Code § 2400]. The attorney may be called upon to give the client advice on whether the summary procedure is available in a particular situation, the nature of the summary procedure, and the settlement of community property. In addition, the attorney may be called upon to draft, file, and/or supervise the execution of the document embodying the agreement, documents required to implement the agreement (such as title certificates and bills of sale), the joint petition, the application for final judgment, and--when necessary--a notice of revocation of the petition.

Because the summary dissolution procedure requires the spouses to work out whatever differences they may have before filing the petition, and because it isinitiated by their joint petition, less inherent potential exists for a conflict of interest to arise when an attorney assists the parties in reaching an agreement. If more than a nominal amount of property is involved, however, counsel should advise the parties to have a second attorney review their agreement to ensure its fairness.

[3] When Summary Procedure Is Available

The summary dissolution procedure is available to the parties only when the following specific conditions exist at the time the joint petition for dissolution is filed [Fam. Code § 2400]:

(1) Either party to the dissolution has met the residence requirements for dissolution [see Fam. Code § 2320 et seq.];

(2) Irreconcilable differences have caused the irremediable breakdown of the marriage, and the marriage should be dissolved;

(3) There are no minor children of the relationship born before or during the marriage or adopted by the parties during the marriage, and the wife, to her knowledge, is not pregnant;

(4) The marriage is not more than five years in duration at the time the petition is filed;

(5) Neither party has any interest in real property wherever situated, with the exception of the lease of a residence occupied by either party if it does not include an option to purchase and if it terminates within one year from the date of the filing of the petition;

(6) There are no unpaid obligations in excess of $4,000 (or other amount adjusted in odd-numbered years for the cost of living) incurred by either or both of the parties after the date of the marriage, excluding the amount of any unpaid obligation with respect to an automobile [see Fam. Code § 2400(b)];

(7) The total fair market value of community property assets, excluding all encumbrances and automobiles, but including any deferred compensation or retirement plan, is less than $25,000 (or other amount adjusted in odd-numbered years for the cost of living), and neither party has separate property assets, excluding all encumbrances and automobiles, in excess of $25,000 [see Fam. Code § 2400(b)];

(8) The parties have executed an agreement setting forth the division of community assets and the assumption of community liabilities, and have executed any documents, title certificates, bills of sale, or other evidence of transfer necessary to effectuate the agreement;

(9) The parties waive any rights to spousal support;

(10) On entry of the judgment of dissolution of marriage, the parties must irrevocably waive their respective rights to appeal and to move for a new trial;

(11) The parties have read and understand the summary dissolution brochure provided for in Fam. Code § 2406; and

(12) The parties desire that the court dissolve the marriage.

[4] Procedure

The proceeding for summary dissolution is commenced by filing a joint petition in the form prescribed by the Judicial Council [Fam. Code § 2401(a)]. The fee for filing the joint petition is the same as that charged for filing the standard petition for dissolution. No additional fee is chargeable for the filing of any form prescribed for use in a summary dissolution proceeding, except as required for the court clerk's cost of sending a copy of the judgment to the state registrar [see Gov. Code § 26859; Health & Safety Code § 103200]. In keeping with the summary nature of this proceeding for dissolution, there is no requirement for a hearing on the joint petition as is the case in other dissolution proceedings. Once the joint petition is filed, no further action is necessary on the part of either spouse except to apply for entry of the final judgment when six months have passed from the filing of the petition [see Fam. Code § 2403].

[5] Revocation of Petition

The summary dissolution proceeding may be terminated if either party to the dissolution files a notice revoking the joint petition (see § 221.344) at any time before an application for final judgment is filed [Fam. Code § 2402(a)]. In addition to filing the notice of revocation with the clerk, the revoking party also must send a copy of the notice to the other party by first-class mail, postage prepaid, to his or her last known address [Fam. Code § 2402(c)].

[6] Entry of Final Judgment

[a] When Judgment May Be Entered

When six months have expired from the date of the filing of the joint petition for summary dissolution, either party may apply to the court for entry of the final judgment dissolving the marriage and the court may enter the judgment [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-820] (see § 221.343). The clerk is required to send a notice of entry of final judgment to each party at his or her last known address [Fam. Code § 2403; see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-190].

[b] Effect of Entry of Final Judgment

The entry of final judgment constitutes a final adjudication of the rights andobligations of the parties with respect to the status of the marriage and their property rights, and operates as a waiver of their respective rights to spousal support, to appeal, and to move for a new trial [Fam. Code § 2404].

[c] Availability of Set Aside

The final judgment entered in a summary dissolution proceeding does not prejudice or bar the rights of either party to institute an action to set aside the final judgment for fraud, duress, accident, mistake, or other grounds recognized at law or in equity, or to make a motion from a judgment taken against a party through his or her mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect [Fam. Code § 2405(a); Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b)]. In addition, the court is required to set aside a final judgment as to all matters except the status of the marriage on proof that, at the time the petition for dissolution was filed, neither of the parties had met the residence requirements of Fam. Code §§ 2320 and 2322 for dissolution of marriage [Fam. Code § 2405(b)]. See discussion in § 221.15[6].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureSettlementsSettlement AgreementsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceNo-Fault GroundsIrreconcilable DifferencesFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionProperty Settlements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 221.22-221.39

[Reserved]

§§ 221.22[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
1. Pretrial Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.40

§ 221.40 Applicability of Civil Trial Rules and Procedures

Except as otherwise provided in the family law rules [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.10 et seq.], all provisions of law applicable to civil actions generally apply to any proceeding, regardless of nomenclature, under the Family Code. In case of conflict, the family law rules prevail over contrary provisions of law generally applicable to civil actions [Fam. Code § 211; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.21].

Although in practice the procedures governing family law proceedings may be less formal than those observed in general civil actions, the attorney should assume that general civil action principles will be observed [see 1978 Family Law Symposium, Los Angeles Superior Court, Fainer, General Observations About Family Law Trials and Hearings, pp. 165-166]. Superior courts that have adopted special local rules to expedite civil actions under the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act [Gov. Code § 68600 et seq.], however, may not apply those rules in domestic relations cases [Gov. Code § 68609(b)]. Furthermore, except in discovery proceedings, the Civil Law and Motion Rules [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100 et seq.] do not apply to proceedings on application before trial for an order in causes arising under the Family Code [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100, 3.1103(a)(1)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
1. Pretrial Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.41

§ 221.41 Avoiding Trial and Limiting Issues by Settlement

Many family law proceedings are settled by the parties themselves with the aid of their attorneys and, sometimes, the court. In other cases, the parties may substantially reduce the number of contested issues by reaching pretrial agreement over some issues and by stipulating to an agreement concerning these issues. Because a pretrial settlement generally resolves the issues in a more equitable, workable, and inexpensive manner than a decision after a contested trial, the attorney in a family law proceeding should counsel the parties to regard trial as a last resort.

Settlement should be discussed when both sides feel that they have gathered all the information on the issues. If the court is to be involved in the discussions, it generally requires that all or most discovery be completed. In a case involving few contested issues with little information to be gathered, the opportunity to reach a complete settlement often arises early in the proceeding, thereby saving time and expense. In a proceeding involving complex issues of property valuation and division with much information to be discovered and compiled, however, it is not always possible to have meaningful settlement discussions until all information has been gathered and organized. These cases or some of the pertinent issues often are settled at a voluntary or mandatory settlement conference.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureSettlementsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
1. Pretrial Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.42

§ 221.42 Mediation of Child Custody and Visitation Issues Before Trial

When it appears on the face of a petition, application, or other pleading to obtain or modify a temporary or permanent custody or visitation order that custody, visitation, or both are contested, the court is required to set the contested issues for mediation before or concurrent with the setting of the matter for hearing [Fam. Code §§ 3170, 3175]. The purposes of the mediation are to reduce acrimony that may exist between the parties, to develop an agreement assuring the child's close and continuing contact with both parents that is in the child's best interests, and to effect a settlement of the issue of visitation rights of all parties that is in the child's best interests [Fam. Code § 3161].

Mediation is usually provided by special units in the courts called "Family Court Services" or "Family Mediation Services," by local probation departments, or by private contractors who are usually mental health professionals. Mediation involving domestic violence cases must be handled by Family Court Services in accordance with the protocol adopted by the Judicial Council [Fam. Code § 3170(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.215].

A party who contends that a court-program mediator may have violated a provision of the rules of conduct for court-program mediators may submit a written complaint to the court's complaint coordinator [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.865-3.872].

For further discussion of mediation, in general, see Ch. 37, Judicially Mandated Civil Action Mediation .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAlternative Dispute ResolutionMediationsFamily LawAlternative Dispute ResolutionMediationFamily LawChild CustodyProceduresFamily LawChild CustodyVisitationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
1. Pretrial Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.43

§ 221.43 Pretrial Procedures Affecting Conduct of Trial

[1] Bifurcation

Bifurcation, commonly used in family law matters to separate trial of the issue of dissolution or legal separation from related issues of custody, support, and property rights [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Lusk (l978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 228,234-235, 150 Cal. Rptr. 63] , is discussed in Subpart A.

[2] Case Management

All dissolution actions, to the greatest extent possible, must be assigned to the same superior court department for all purposes, in order that all decisions in a case through final judgment will be made by the same judicial officer. The Judicial Council is required to adopt a standard of judicial administration prescribing a minimum length of assignment of a judicial officer to a family law assignment [Fam. Code § 2330.3].

When a case has been assigned to a judge for trial, the judge may not declare a mistrial merely because the parties have not completed the trial by the deadline set by the judge, the sole purpose of which is to enable the judge to begin a new assignment [Blumenthal v. Superior Court (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 672, 680-687, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 509 (judge should have taken case to new courtroom assignment under Fam. Code § 2330.3)]. The purpose of declaring a mistrial is to protect the parties, not the court's institutional interest in managing its time efficiently [Blumenthal v. Superior Court (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 672, 682, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 509] .

In an effort to provide judicial assistance and management to the parties in marital dissolution actions in order to expedite the processing of cases, reduce the expenses of litigation, and focus on early resolution by settlement, the Legislature has enacted case management provisions. As discussed hereafter, the use of case management under the statutes requires a stipulation by the parties [Fam. Code §§ 2450(a), (b), 2451]. Under Fam. Code § 2450, on motion of a party, or on the court's own motion, the court must hold a preliminary status conference for the purpose of considering whether case management must be undertaken and a case management plan ordered. On stipulation of the parties, the court must order a case management plan. Conversely, no case management plan may be ordered without a stipulation of the parties, and the case management plan may be terminated at any time on stipulation of the parties or order of the court [Fam. Code § 2450(b), (c)].

Fam. Code § 2451 sets forth the broad scope of areas that a stipulated case management plan may address, including:

1. Early neutral case evaluation;

2. Alternative dispute resolution;

3. Limitations on discovery, including temporary suspension of discovery pending exploration of settlement; and with a rebuttable presumption that an attorney who carries out discovery as provided in a case management plan has fulfilled his or her duty of care to the client as to the existence of community property;

4. Use of telephone conference calls to ascertain the status of the case, encourage cooperation, and assist counsel in reaching agreement; provided, however, that if the court is required to issue an order other than by stipulation, a hearing must be held;

5. Use of telephone conference calls for hearing contested motions; and recording of these conference call hearings by a court reporter;

6. Modification or waiver of the requirements of procedural statutes;

7. The powers of the judicial officer who is managing the case under the case management plan;

8. A requirement that any expert witness be selected by the parties jointly or be appointed by the court; provided, however, that if at any time the court determines that the issues for which experts are required cannot be settled under these conditions, the court must permit each party to employ his or her own expert;

9. Bifurcation of issues for trial;

10. A case management plan pursuant to Fam. Code § 2032(d) or Fam. Code § 2034(b); or

11. Any other matters.

[3] Reference of Case or Factual Issues to Referee

[a] In General

In some situations, the parties may stipulate to having their case heard by a referee or a privately compensated judge. In others, the determination of an issue of fact may be ordered heard by a referee for decision before trial. For example, the issues involved in a complex property division may require the examination of a long account on either side, or the taking of an account may be necessary for the information of the court before judgment. Thus, the court may decide to direct a reference in these cases [see Code Civ. Proc. § 639; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.920; but see Ruisi v. Thieriot (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 1197, 1209, 1211, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 766 (reference was overbroad, given lack of parties' stipulation to reference); In re Marriage of Olson (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1, 7-8, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 480 (unless done by agreement of parties, delegation of judicial authority to special master to make factual findings and exercise judgment in determining parties' incomes to set spousal support is abuse of discretion); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 880

("temporary judge," "referee," and "privately compensated" defined); see also Settlemire v. Superior Court (2002)103 Cal. App. 4th 1150, 1156-1157, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 381 (without parties' stipulation, court's assignment to commissioner of order to show cause involving domestic restraining order,temporary child custody, visitation, disposition of community asset, relinquishment of firearms, and exclusion of husband from his residence was improper delegation of judicial duties)]. See further discussion in § 221.43[3][c].

A party may object to the appointment of a person as referee on certain specified grounds [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 641, 642; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.905, 3.925]. When a referee is appointed on consent of the parties (§ 221.43[3][b]), the referee's fees must be paid as agreed by the parties, but if the parties do not agree on payment and request court resolution of the matter, the court may order the parties to pay the fees [Code Civ. Proc. § 645.1(a)]. When a referee is appointed on court order (§ 221.43[3][c]), at any time after a determination of ability to pay is made under Code Civ. Proc. § 639, the court may order the parties to pay the fees of referees who are not employees or officers of the court at the time of appointment, as fixed under Code Civ. Proc. § 1023, in any manner determined by the court to be fair and reasonable, including the apportionment of fees among the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 645.1]. For this purpose, the term "parties" does not include the parties' counsel. In addition, when a reference is made on court order, the order must include the maximum hourly rate the referee may charge and, at a party's request, the maximum number of hours for which the referee may charge, subject to special rules on modification of these [Code Civ. Proc. § 639(d)(5)]. But a referee may not be ordered appointed at a cost to the parties under Code Civ. Proc. § 639 unless the court can make one of the findings required by that statute [see Code Civ. Proc. § 639(d)(6) (findings)].

[b] On Consent of Parties

A referee may be appointed on the written agreement of the parties filed with the clerk, or judge, or entered in the minutes or in the docket, or on the motion of a party to a written contract or lease that provides that any controversy arising from the contract or lease must be heard by a reference, if the court finds that a reference agreement exists between the parties to do one of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 638; see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.901, 3.902 (requirements for written agreement and proposed order directing reference)]:

- To hear and determine any or all of the issues in an action or proceeding, whether of fact or of law, and to report a statement of decision on them; or

- To ascertain a fact necessary to enable the court to determine an action or proceeding.

An attorney does not have authority to consent to a general reference under Code Civ. Proc. § 638 on the client's behalf. The statute requires the parties' consent to a general reference in a writing filed with the clerk or orally on the record [Jovine v. FHP, Inc. (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 1506, 1529, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 322] .

When the parties agree to a reference, they must present a written agreement along with a proposed order to the judge to which the case has been assigned or to the presiding or supervising judge, if the case has not been assigned. The proposed order must state the name, telephone number, and business address of the proposed referee, bear the proposed referee's signature indicating his or her consent to serve, and clearly state whether the scope of reference covers all issues or is limited to specified issues [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.901, 3.902]. The proposed order must also state if the proposed referee is a State Bar member (and, if so, his or her State Bar number). If he or she is a former California judicial officer, he or she must be an active or inactive State Bar member. Finally, the proposed order must bear the proposed referee's certification that he or she is aware of and will comply with the provisions of Canon 6 of the Code of Judicial Ethics and the rules of court.

A party may withdraw a stipulation for the appointment of a referee only on a showing of good cause. The fact that a referee's ruling is based on an error of fact or law does not establish good cause for withdrawing a stipulation to a reference [Code Civ. Proc. § 1023, Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.906].

Parties who elect to use the services of a privately compensated referee under Code Civ. Proc. § 638 are deemed to have elected to proceed outside the courthouse. The parties may not use court facilities or personnel, except on a finding by the presiding judge that use of court facilities or personnel will further the interests of justice [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.909; see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.905 (court may order that hearing before privately compensated referee be heard at a site "easily accessible to the public and appropriate for seating those who have made known their plan to attend hearings")].

A court may not use the reference procedure described above to appoint a person to conduct a mediation. But this rule does not prevent a court from appointing a referee to conduct a mandatory settlement conference or, after the termination of a reference, from appointing a person who previously served as a referee to conduct a mediation [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.900].

A copy of the order appointing the referee, the referee's report, and any order of the court concerning the compensation of the referee must be forwarded to the presiding judge of the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 638(c); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.902].

Motions to withdraw a stipulation for the appointment of a temporary judge must be supported by a declaration of facts establishing good cause for permitting the party to withdraw the stipulation, and must be heard by the presiding judge or a judge designated by the presiding judge. For this purpose, a declaration that aruling is based on error of fact or law does not establish good cause for withdrawing a stipulation [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.906].

The death of a temporary judge after the parties have stipulated to that person hearing a matter poses the issue of appointing a successor judge. One court has held that the parties' stipulation to the appointment of a temporary judge to conduct an accounting does not give the court the authority to appoint a different temporary judge without the parties' consent following the death of the original appointee [Kim v. Superior Court (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 256, 259-262, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 468] .

[c] By Court Order

When the parties do not consent to the appointment of a referee to hear a particular matter or matters, the court may appoint a referee in the following cases on the written motion of any party or on its own motion: (1) when the trial of an issue of fact requires the examination of a long account on either side, in which case the referee may be directed to hear and decide the whole issue, or report on any specific question of fact involved; (2) when the taking of an account is necessary for the information of the court in a special proceeding or before judgment, or for carrying a judgment or order into effect; (3) when a question of fact, other than on the pleadings, arises on motion or otherwise, in any stage of the action; (4) when the reference is necessary for the information of the court in a special proceeding; or (5) when the court in any pending action determines in its discretion that it is necessary for the court to appoint a referee to hear and determine any and all discovery motions and disputes relevant to discovery in the action, and to report findings and make recommendations [Code Civ. Proc. § 639; see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.920-3.927 (procedure); Ruisi v. Thieriot (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 1197, 1209, 1211, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 766 (reference of "any and all issues concerning child custody" was overbroad, given lack of parties' stipulation to reference); In re Marriage of Galis (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 147, 152-153, 196 Cal. Rptr. 659 ; but cf.; see also Settlemire v. Superior Court (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 1150, 1155-1157, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 381 (court referred all issues to commissioner "for a hearing, and findings on any matter of fact upon which information is required by the Court" and did not specify particular facts or issues to be decided by commissioner; this was general reference and improper delegation of judicial authority absent parties' consent); Kim v. Superior Court (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 256, 261-262, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 468 (fact that Code Civ. Proc. § 639(a) allows reference of "whole issue" does not authorize court to appoint referee with broad powers that parties had given to temporary judge, who later died, in absence of parties' consent)].

A motion for appointment of a referee under Code Civ. Proc. § 639 is heard by the department to which the case has been assigned, or if the case has not been assigned, by the department that hears law and motion matters. The motion must specify the scope of the matter or matters to be included in the requested reference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.921].

A court may order the appointment of a referee under Code Civ. Proc. § 639 only for the purposes specified in that section, as described above. It may not use the reference procedure to appoint a person to conduct a mediation. But this rule does not prevent a court from appointing a referee to conduct a mandatory settlement conference in a complex case, or, after the termination of a reference, from appointing a person who previously served as a referee to conduct a mediation [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.920]. For discussion of special rules concerning discovery referees, see Ch. 38, Reference .

Any appointment of a referee under Code Civ. Proc. § 639 must be by written order, which must include the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 639(d)]:

> 1. When the referee is appointed to hear and determine discovery motions and disputes, the exceptional circumstances requiring the reference. These circumstances must be specific to the circumstances of the particular case.
>
> 2. In all other cases, a statement of the reason the referee is being appointed.
>
> 3. The subject matter(s) included in the reference.
>
> 4. The referee's name, business address, and telephone number. If the referee is a former California judicial officer, he or she must be an active or inactive State Bar member. In any event, if the referee is a State Bar member, the order must include his or her Bar number, as well as the referee's certification that he or she is aware of applicable provisions of Canon 6 of the Code of Judicial Ethics and the rules of court. Further, the referee is subject to special disclosure provisions [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.923, 3.924].
>
> 5. The maximum hourly rate the referee may charge and, at the request of a party, the maximum number of hours for which the referee may charge. On the written application of a party or the referee, the court may, for good cause, modify the maximum number of hours, subject to any findings as set forth in the following item.
>
> 6. Either a finding that no party has established an economic inability to pay a pro rata share of the referee's fees or a finding that one or more parties has established an economic inability to pay a pro rata share of the fees and that another party has agreed voluntarily to pay that additional share. A court may not appoint a referee at a cost to the parties if neither of these findings is made. In determining whether a party has established an inability to pay the referee's fees, the court may consider only the party's ability to pay, not counsel's ability to pay. A party proceeding in formapauperis is deemed to have an economic inability to pay. For other parties, the court shall consider, among other things, the estimated cost of the referral and the impact of the proposed fees on the party's ability to proceed with the litigation. If the issue of economic hardship is raised before the commencement of the referee's services, the court must determine a fair and reasonable apportionment of reference costs. The court may modify its apportionment order and may consider the referee's recommendation as a factor in determining any modification [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.922].

When a referee is appointed to hear and determine discovery motions and disputes, the order must indicate whether the referee is being appointed for all discovery purposes in the action or only for limited purposes [Code Civ. Proc. 639(h)].

A copy of the order appointing a referee, along with the referee's report, and any order of the court concerning compensation of the referee must be forwarded to the presiding judge of the court [Code Civ. Proc. 639(i)].

Any objections to the reference or to the referee must be made in writing, and must be heard and resolved by the court, not by the referee [Code Civ. Proc. § 642; see Code Civ. Proc. § 641 (grounds for objecting to referee)].

When a reference is ordered under Code Civ. Pro. § 639, the parties are entitled to use court facilities and personnel to the extent provided in the order of reference. Private facilities may be used, but if so, the facility must be open to the public on request of any person [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.926].

[d] Referee's Findings

Unless the court orders otherwise, the referee must report his or her statement of decision in writing to the court within 20 days after the hearing, if any, has been concluded and the parties have submitted the matter [Code Civ. Proc. § 643(a); see In re Marriage of Demblewski (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 232, 236, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 533 (statement of decision is mandatory even if not requested by parties)]. A referee who has been appointed on the parties' consent must report as agreed by the parties and approved by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 643(b)]. When a referee has been appointed by court order, the following requirements apply [Code Civ. Proc. § 643(c)]:

1. The referee must file a report with the court that includes a recommendation on the merits of any disputed issue, a statement of the total hours spent and the total fees charged by the referee, and the referee's recommended allocation of payment.

2. The referee must serve the report on all parties.

3. A party must file any objection to the referee's report or recommendations within 10 days after the referee serves and files the report, or within such other time as the court directs.

4. Any objection must be served on the referee and all other parties.

5. Responses to the objections must be filed with the court and served on the referee and all other parties within 10 days after the objection is served.

6. The court must review any objections and responses and enter appropriate orders.

7. The court retains the power to change the terms of the referee's appointment, and to modify or disregard the referee's recommendations. The court may exercise this power at any time on its own motion or on a party's motion for good cause shown.

When the referee has been appointed on the parties' consent, the referee's decision stands as the decision of the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 644(a)]. On the filing of the statement of decision with the court, judgment may be entered on the statement in the same manner as if the action had been tried by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 644(a)]. The referee's decision may be excepted to and reviewed in the same manner as if made by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 645]. The referee's fees must be paid as agreed by the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 645.1(a)]. If the parties do not agree on the payment of the fees, they may request the court to resolve the matter [Code Civ. Proc. § 645.1(a)].

When the referee has been appointed by court order, the referee's decision is advisory only [Code Civ. Proc. § 644(b); Kim v. Superior Court (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 256, 261, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 468] . The court may adopt the referee's recommendations, in whole or in part, after independently considering the referee's findings and any objections and responses to objections filed with the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 644(b)]. At any time after a determination of ability to pay is made [Code Civ. Proc. § 639(b)(6)], the court may order the parties to pay the referee's fee in any manner the court determines is fair and reasonable, including apportionment of the fees among the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 645.1(b)].

[4] Submission to Arbitration

Provided that the court is of the opinion that the total value of the community estate in controversy does not exceed $50,000, the court may submit at any time the issue of the character, the value, and the division of the community estate to arbitration for resolution [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1141.10 et seq.] in any case in which the parties do not agree in writing to a voluntary division of their community estate [Fam. Code § 2554].

[5] Joinder

Those who claim or control interests that are subject to disposition in familylaw proceedings may be joined as parties [Fam. Code § 2021(a)]. Special provisions govern joinder of pension benefit plans [Fam. Code § 2021(b)]. Joinder is discussed in detail in § 221.17.

[6] Consolidation

A dissolution proceeding may be consolidated with a civil action in certain instances when actions involving a common question of law or fact are pending before the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1048(a)]. Consolidation is discussed in detail in § 221.18[5].

[7] Closed Hearing

The court, whenever it considers it necessary in the interests of justice and the persons involved, may direct the trial of any issue of fact joined in a proceeding under the Family Code to be private and may exclude everyone except the officers of the court, the parties, their witnesses, and counsel [Fam. Code § 214; see Whitney v. Whitney (1958) 164 Cal. App. 2d 577, 582, 330 P.2d 947 (child custody proceedings)]. In certain situations, exclusion may be mandatory [see, e.g., Fam. Code §§ 1818 (conciliation proceedings), 7884 (proceedings to declare child free from parental custody and control), 8611 (adoption proceedings)].

However,as a general rule otherwise, before closing a court proceeding the court must expressly find that (1) there exists an overriding interest supporting the closure, (2) there is a substantial probability that the interest will be prejudiced absent closure, (3) the proposed closure is narrowly tailored to serve the overriding interest, and (4) there is no less restrictive means of achieving the overriding interest [NBC Subsidiary (KNBC-TV), Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 1178, 1218-1219, 1222 n.26, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 778 (privacy interests may constitute overriding interest)].

[8] Request for Jury

Family law proceedings are not inherently entitled to a jury trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 592; see Sharon v. Sharon (1885) 67 Cal. 185, 193-194, 7 P. 456] . Although the court has the power to order any issue of fact to be tried by a jury, such an order is rarely, if ever, issued in a family law proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 592; see In re Marriage of Kim (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 364, 373, 256 Cal. Rptr. 217] . Furthermore, when issues of fact are tried to a jury, its findings are only advisory [see Cutter Lab. v. R. W. Ogle & Co. (1957) 151 Cal. App. 2d 410, 418, 311 P.2d 627] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePartiesJoinderGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudicial OfficersRefereesAppointmentsCivil

ProcedureJudicial OfficersReferencesCivil ProcedurePretrial MattersConsolidation of ActionsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
1. Pretrial Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.44

§ 221.44 Pretrial Statement

Some local jurisdictions require the filing of a pretrial statement or brief, sometimes on a prescribed form, prior to a conference before trial or within a specific time before the trial itself. The statement may take the form of a brief detailing the issues to be raised and the contentions of the filing party with respect to those issues [see, e.g., Uniform Domestic Relations Local Rules for Bay Area Superior Courts, Rule II(B)(5) (superseded in some counties)].

Some jurisdictions requiring a pretrial statement also may regard it as a request for admissions. In such jurisdictions, if an opposing party fails to file a reply statement, the factual contentions made in the statement filed by the other party are considered admitted [see La Bue v. Superior Court (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 264, 142 Cal. Rptr. 83] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPretrial MattersConferencesGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
1. Pretrial Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.45

§ 221.45 Settlement Conferences

On the court's motion, or at the request of any party, the court may set a mandatory settlement conference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1380(a)]. Trial counsel and the parties must personally attend the conference, unless excused by the court for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1380(b)]. At least five court days before the conference, each party must submit to the court and serve on the other party a mandatory settlement conference statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1380(c)].

Settlement conferences are discussed in detail in Ch. 425, Pretrial Proceedings .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureSettlementsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePretrial MattersConferencesGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
1. Pretrial Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.46

§ 221.46 Preference Given Contested Custody and Child Support Issues

Any case in which child custody is the only contested issue will be given preference over other civil cases, except matters to which special precedence is given by law, for assigning a trial date, and the case will be given an early hearing [Fam. Code § 3023(a)]. The court must order a separate trial of the custody issue when child custody is one of several contested issues, which then will be given preference for assigning a trial date over civil cases other than those to which special precedence is given by law [Fam. Code § 3023(b)].

Similarly, in any case in which the support of a minor child is at issue, on a showing of good cause the court may order a separate trial on that issue, which then will be given preference for assigning a trial date over civil cases other than those to which special precedence may be given by law. If the court also has ordered a separate trial on the issue of custody, the issues of custody and child support must be tried together [Fam. Code § 4003].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild CustodyProceduresFamily LawChild SupportProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
1. Pretrial Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.47

§ 221.47 Adjusting Trial Date

[1] Continuances

Although disfavored, a trial may be postponed or continued by the court on its own motion [see Code Civ. Proc. § 594a] or by stipulation of the parties [CodeCiv. Proc. § 595.2]. By analogy to the rules governing general civil law and motion practice, a party who seeks a continuance of the trial date, whether contested or uncontested or stipulated to by the parties, must make the request by a noticed motion or an ex parte application under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1200-3.1207 with supporting declarations. The motion or application must be made as soon as reasonably practical once the necessity for the continuance is discovered [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1332(b); see In re Marriage of James M. & Christine C. (2008) 158 Cal. App. 4th 1261, 1272-1277, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 715 (court may grant trial continuance as an accommodation to self-represented party who is unable to appear in court on original trial date due to his or her disability)]. A detailed discussion of continuances is contained in Ch. 136, Continuances.

[2] Advancing, Resetting, or Specially Setting Trial

A party who seeks to advance, specially set, or reset a case for trial must make this request by noticed motion or an ex parte application under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1200-3.1207 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1335(a)]. The request may be granted only on an affirmative showing by the moving party of good cause based on a declaration filed and served with the motion or application [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1335(a)]. Motions to advance, reset, or specially set cases for trial are discussed in detail in Ch. 425, Pretrial Proceedings .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePretrial MattersContinuancesCivil ProcedureTrialsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
1. Pretrial Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.48

§ 221.48 Mandatory Declaration of Disclosure

[1] When Declaration Required

In general, each party to a dissolution, legal separation, or nullity proceeding must serve on the other party a "final declaration of disclosure" before trial [see Fam. Code §§ 2103, 2105, 2113]. The purpose of the declaration is to provide full and accurate disclosure of all assets and liabilities in which one or both parties may have an interest [Fam. Code § 2103].

The final declaration of disclosure requirement does not apply to summary dissolution proceedings, but the parties must file preliminary disclosure declarations [Fam. Code § 2109]. In the case of a default judgment, the petitioner may waive the final declaration of disclosure requirement, and is not required to either serve on, or receive from, the respondent a final declaration of disclosure, but must serve a preliminary declaration of disclosure [Fam. Code § 2110]. In addition, no final declaration is required if the parties stipulate to waive this requirement or the court makes an order dispensing with the requirement for good cause [Fam. Code § 2105(a), (d)], as discussed in § 221.48[2].

For discussion of the preliminary declaration of disclosure, which each party must serve on the other party [see Fam. Code § 2104], see § 221.10 et seq.

The declaration of disclosure requirement does not abrogate the attorney work product privilege or impede the court's power to issue protective orders [Fam. Code § 2111].

[2] Stipulation to Waive Final Declaration

Parties who otherwise would be required to serve a final declaration of disclosure may stipulate to a mutual waiver of the statutory requirements concerning the final declaration by execution of such a waiver under penalty of perjury entered into in open court or by a separate stipulation [Fam. Code § 2105(d); see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-144 (stipulation and waiver of final declaration of disclosure)]. The waiver must include all of the following representations

[Fam. Code § 2105(d)]:

> 1. Both parties have complied with Fam. Code § 2104 and the preliminary declarations of disclosure have been completed and exchanged;
>
> 2. Both parties have completed and exchanged a current income and expense declaration that includes all material facts and information regarding that party's earnings, accumulations, and expenses;
>
> 3. Both parties have complied fully with Fam. Code § 2102 and have augmented fully the preliminary declarations of disclosure, including disclosure of all material facts and information regarding the characterization of all assets and liabilities, the valuation of all assets that are contended to be community property or in which it is contended the community has an interest, and the amounts of all obligations that are contended to be community obligations or for which it is contended the community has liability;
>
> 4. The waiver is knowingly, intelligently, and voluntarily entered into by each of the parties; and
>
> 5. Each party understands that the waiver does not limit the legal disclosure obligations of the parties, but rather is a statement under penalty of perjury that those obligations have been fulfilled, and each party further understands that noncompliance with those obligations will result in the court setting aside the judgment.

When the parties have failed to comply with all of the disclosure requirements, the court must set aside the judgment [Fam. Code § 2107(d) (failure to comply with disclosure requirements is not harmless error)]. On a motion to set aside the judgment, the court may order the parties to provide the preliminary and final declarations of disclosure that were exchanged between them, but these declarations should not be filed with the court absent a court order to the contrary [Fam. Code § 2107(e)]. In making an order setting aside a judgment for failure to comply with Fam. Code § 2105, the court may limit the set aside to those portions of the judgment materially affected by the nondisclosure [Fam. Code § 2105(c)].

For an illustrative reproduction of the Judicial Council form of stipulation and waiver of final declaration of disclosure, see § 221.370.

For a general discussion of spousal fiduciary obligations and of setting aside judgments, see § 221.150 et seq.

[3] Form and Service of Declaration

When the final declaration is required, it must be served on the other party before or at the time the parties enter into an agreement for the resolution of property orsupport issues (other than pendente lite support) or, if the case goes to trial, no later than 45 days before the first assigned trial date [Fam. Code § 2105(a)]. The declaration must be executed under penalty of perjury on the form prescribed by the Judicial Council [see Fam. Code § 2112 (Judicial Council's responsibility to adopt declaration forms); Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-140 (declaration of disclosure form)] and be accompanied by a current income and expense declaration [Fam. Code § 2105(a), (c); see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150 (income and expense declaration form)]. Legislation that became operative January 1, 1997, amended Fam. Code § 2105 to state that "... each party, or the attorney for the party in this matter, shall serve" the final disclosure declaration (and income and expense declaration) on the other party (emphasis added). Similarly, this legislation amended Fam. Code § 2106 to provide, as of January 1, 1997, that absent good cause or the parties' stipulation to waive the requirements for the final declaration, no judgment may be entered with respect to the parties' property rights without each party " or the attorney for that party in this matter," having executed and served a copy of the final declaration of disclosure and current income and expense declaration (emphasis added). It is unclear why these provisions were amended in this way. Pending further clarification from the Judicial Council, Legislature, or courts, it is suggested that counsel continue preexisting practice for service of pleadings and papers without reference to these amendments.

The statute does not require that the declaration of disclosure be filed with the court. However, each party must execute and file with the court a declaration under penalty of perjury stating that service of the final declaration and current income and expense declaration has been made on the other party, or that service of the final declaration has been waived by the parties' stipulation [Fam. Code § 2106; cf. In re Marriage of Jones (1998) 60 Cal. App. 4th 685, 694, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 542 (court was not required to vacate dissolution judgment based on party's failure to execute and serve final declaration of disclosure before trial)].

For an illustrative reproduction of the Judicial Council forms of (1) declaration of disclosure and (2) declaration of service of the declaration of disclosure, see §§ 221.371 and 221.372, respectively.

[4] Contents of Declaration

The final declaration of disclosure must include all of the following information [Fam. Code § 2105(b)]:

1. All material facts and information regarding the characterization of all assets and liabilities;

2. All material facts and information regarding the valuation of all assets that are contended to be community property, or in which it is contended the community has an interest;

3. All material facts and information regarding the amounts of all obligations that are contended to be community obligations, or for which it is contended the community has liability; and

4. All material facts and information regarding the earnings, accumulations, and expenses of each party that have been set forth in the income and expense declaration.

In addition, a current income and expense declaration [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150] must be served with the final declaration [Fam. Code § 2105(a)].

For purposes of the above provisions, an "asset" includes, but is not limited to, any real or personal property of any nature, whether tangible or intangible, and whether currently existing or contingent [Fam. Code § 2101(a)]. "Earnings and accumulations" include income from whatever source derived, as provided in Fam. Code § 4058 (definition of gross income for purposes of child support guidelines) [Fam. Code § 2101(c). For discussion of Fam. Code § 4058, see Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody]. "Expenses" include, but are not limited to, all personal living expenses, but do not include business-related expenses [Fam. Code § 2101(d)]. "Income and expense declaration" includes the Income and Expense Declaration forms approved for use by the Judicial Council, and any other financial statement approved for use by the Judicial council in place of the Income and Expense Declaration, if the financial statement form satisfies all other applicable criteria [Fam. Code § 2101(e)]. "Liability" includes, but is not limited to, any debt or obligation, whether currently existing or contingent [Fam. Code § 2101(e)].

[5] Remedies for Noncompliance With Disclosure Requirements

If one party fails to exchange and serve on the other party a final declaration of disclosure, or fails to provide the information required in the declaration with sufficient particularity, and the other party has served his or her final declaration, the complying party may, within a reasonable time, request preparation of a final declaration or further particularity [Fam. Code § 2107(a)]. If the other party fails to comply with such a request, the complying party may do either of both of the following [Fam. Code § 2107(b)]:

1. File a motion to compel further response; or

2. File a motion for an order preventing the noncomplying party from presenting evidence on issues that should have been covered in the declaration of disclosure.

In addition, the court must impose money sanctions against the noncomplying party in an amount sufficient to deter repetition of the improper conduct or comparable conduct, and must include reasonable attorney's fees, costs incurred, or both, unless the court finds that the noncomplying party acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make imposition of the sanction unjust [Fam. Code § 2107(c)].

The parties are not entitled to a reversal of the judgment or a new trial based on their failure to exchange final declarations of disclosure absent a showing of miscarriage of justice [In re Marriage of Steiner & Hosseini (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 519, 522, 528, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 671 (before Fam. Code § 2107(d) can be basis of reversal on appeal or ground to compel granting of new trial, noncomplying litigant must identify some portion of judgment materially affected by nondisclosure)].

For discussion of setting aside a judgment for failing to comply with the disclosurerequirements, see § 221.153 [see Fam. Code §§ 2105(e), 2122].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportAnnulmentProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal Separation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
1. Pretrial Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 221.49-221.59

[Reserved]

§§ 221.49[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
2. Considerations at Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.60

§ 221.60 Disqualification of Judge

[1] By Peremptory Challenge

Counsel should be prepared to disqualify any judge that he or she believes is prejudiced against the client or counsel. A party or an attorney appearing in an action or proceeding may establish prejudice by an oral or written motion brought without notice, but supported by affidavit or declaration under penalty of perjury or an oral statement under oath that the judge, court commissioner, or referee before whom the action or proceeding is pending, or to whom it is assigned, is prejudiced against the party, attorney, or the interest of the party or attorney, such that the party or attorney cannot, or believes that he or she cannot, have a fair and impartial trial or hearing [see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6; Andrisani v. Saugus Colony Ltd. (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 517, 523-524, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 444 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(5) (form of affidavit)].

Counsel must strictly follow the times set forth in the underlying statute and any local rules for bringing the motion [see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2); Shipp v. Superior Court (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 147, 151-152, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 685] . Only one peremptory disqualification is allowed [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(3)].

A peremptory challenge in proper form that is timely filed must be accepted by the judge without further inquiry [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(3); Hemingway v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1148, 1153-1154, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 363 (right to disqualify judge is "automatic" in sense that good faith belief in prejudice is alone sufficient, and proof of facts showing actual prejudice is not required); Davcon, Inc. v. Roberts & Morgan (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1355, 1359, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 782 ; Stephens v. Superior Court (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 54, 59, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 616] . The court must make an instant determination regarding the validity of a properly made peremptory challenge. If the challenge is properly made, the disqualification takes effect immediately and requires the court to transfer the case for reassignment [Hemingway v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1148, 1157, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 363 ; Davcon, Inc. v. Roberts & Morgan (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1355, 1360, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 782] .

Disqualification of judges is discussed in detail in Ch. 317, Judges .

[2] For Cause

The grounds on which a judge may be disqualified for cause are set forth by statute [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 170-170.5].

Irrespective of when a judge's disqualifying conduct is discovered or when a motion to disqualify the judge is made, all of the actions that the judge takes in the proceedings after the facts creating the disqualification arise must be set aside [Christie v. City of El Centro (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 767, 776-780, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 718] .

Disqualification of judges is completely discussed and the relevant forms set forth in Ch. 317, Judges .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudicial OfficersJudgesDisqualifications & RecusalsGroundsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudicial OfficersJudgesDisqualifications & RecusalsGroundsPersonal BiasFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
2. Considerations at Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.61

§ 221.61 Notice of Trial

A court may not proceed with the trial in the absence of a party who has not received at least 15 days' notice of the trial date as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 594(a) [Au-Yang v. Barton (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 958, 962, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 227, 987 P.2d 697 ; In re Marriage of Hock & Gordon-Hock (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 1438, 1443-1444, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 546] . Competent evidence must be introduced showing that an absent party was served with notice of trial. Proof of service may be made by introducing into evidence the proof of service or other evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 594(b)]. Compliance with this evidentiary rule is mandatory [In re Marriage of Goddard (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 49, 54-55, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 50, 90 P.3d 1209] . However, if it is clear from the record that the required notice was given and proof of service of that notice was filed with the court but not introduced into evidence, the failure to comply with Code Civ. Proc. § 594(b) is not a jurisdictional defect, but merely harmless error [In re Marriage of Goddard (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 49, 56-60, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 50, 90 P.3d 1209] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
2. Considerations at Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.62

§ 221.62 Private Trial and Sealing of Court Files

Except as otherwise provided by the Family Code or by court rule, the court may order that the trial of any issue of fact be private, and may exclude all persons from the trial except the officers of the court, the parties, their witnesses, and counsel, when it considers it necessary in the interests of justice and the persons involved [Fam. Code § 214]. Under the statute, a court may order some of the proceedings before it closed to the public, but the court may not close all of the proceedings in a given family law matter [In re Marriage of Lechowick (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 1406, 1414, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 395] . An order for a closed trial under the statute must pertain to the trial of one or more particular issues of fact and must be justified by a showing of particularized need by the moving party [In re Marriage of Lechowick (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 1406, 1414-1415, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 395] . Fam. Code § 214 only authorizes the closing of court hearings and proceedings. It is not generally applicable to the issue of sealing court files [In re Marriage of Lechowick (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 1406, 1413, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 395] .

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550 et seq. set forth detailed procedures for filing records under seal that are not otherwise required to be kept confidential by law [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(a)]. The rules provide that a party may not file a record under seal without a court order, and a judge may not permit a record to be filed under seal based solely on the parties' stipulation or agreement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(a)]. A party who requests that a record be filed under seal must file a motion or an application for an order sealing the record, which must be supported by a memorandum of points and authorities and a declaration containing sufficient facts to justify the sealing [Cal.Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(b)(1)]. A copy of the motion or application must be served on the other party [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(b)(2)].

A judge may order that a record be filed under seal only if the judge expressly finds facts that establish (1) the existence of an overriding interest that overcomes the right of public access to the record, (2) an overriding interest that supports sealing the record, (3) the existence of a substantial probability that the overriding interest will be prejudiced if the record is not sealed, (4) the proposed sealing is narrowly tailored, and (5) no less restrictive means exist to achieve the overriding interest [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(d)]. The order must specifically set forth the facts that support the findings and direct the sealing of only those documents and pages, or portions of those documents and pages, that contain the material that needs to be placed under seal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(e)(1)]. Once a record is sealed, it may not be unsealed except on court order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(h)(1)]. Court files in family law cases should not be treated differently from court files in other types of cases for purposes of considering the appropriateness of an order sealing any of those files [In re Marriage of Lechowick (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 1406, 1414, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 395 ; see, e.g., City of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (Williamson) (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 883, 897, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 915 (personnel records of spouse who is peace officer may be sealed to protect his or her privacy)].

For further discussion and a declaration in support of sealing particular records in a family law court file, see Denner, Rothschild, and Johnson, California Family Law Trial Guide, Ch. 4, § 4.60 (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresGovernmentsCourtsCourt Records

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
2. Considerations at Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.63

§ 221.63 Trial Brief

[1] In General

A trial brief or memorandum is a document that concisely sets forth a party's statement of the factual and legal issues to be tried, including specific contentions, and applicable points and authorities. It generally is filed and served on or before the commencement of a contested trial, as prescribed by local court rule.

Trial briefs frequently are similar in content and presentation to pretrial and settlement conference statements, to the extent that they present an outline of the issues that are settled, issues in dispute, and contentions regarding specific matters (such as community property, support, or child custody). They should be viewed as the final, definitive position taken by a party, however, for purposes of trying the case after all issues have been narrowed in pretrial settlement attempts.

Whether a trial brief should be filed in a particular case depends on the requirements of the court, as set forth in its local rules, and on the complexity of the case. Many courts do not require a trial brief. Courts in several of the more populous counties, however, either require or expressly permit the filing of trial briefs by local rule.

Even when a trial brief is not required by local court rule, filing one generally is good practice, particularly if the issues are complex. Presentation of a brief will aid the court in understanding the issues and will permit counsel to demonstrate the merits of his or her client's position on particular issues. Preparation of the brief also aids the attorney submitting the brief by requiring him or her to identify all the triable issues remaining in the case and organize arguments (and related evidence) in favor of his or her client. Settlement also may be facilitated by use of a trial brief by each party, to the extent that it encourages counsel to closely examine the legal bases for the contentions made and exposes the strengths and weaknesses of those contentions.

See Denner, Rothschild & Johnson, California Family Law Trial Guide, Unit 1 (Matthew Bender), for an illustrative sample form of a trial brief.

[2] Other Papers

Some counties require that a proposed distribution of property or other settlement proposal be filed along with the trial brief. Other counties require that counsel verify that a settlement conference was held and include within the trial brief an offer of proof regarding the listing and valuation of separate and community property [see Santa Barbara Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 1422]. Current Judicial Council forms of property, and income and expense, declarations [see Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-150-FL-160] also may be required.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
2. Considerations at Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.64

§ 221.64 General Considerations in Presenting Case

The procedures involved in presenting the facts at a trial or hearing in a family law proceeding generally are the same as those involved in other civil trials. Although the procedures in a family law proceeding may seem more informal, nonetheless, at trial, the court and the attorneys are bound to observe the laws of evidence and court procedure for civil trials [see, e.g., Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.21].

A judge may not, for example, curtail the parties' right to present evidence on all material disputed issues [see In re Marriage of Carlsson (2008) 163 Cal. App. 4th 281, 290-293, 77 Cal. Rptr. 3d 305 (judge's actions in abruptly ending trial before husband finished putting on his case-in-chief deprived husband of his due process right to fair hearing)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
2. Considerations at Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.65

§ 221.65 Use of Opening and Closing Statements

[1] Opening Statement

The purpose of an opening statement is to inform the court of the nature of the case or defense; to state the facts on which the party relies; and to highlight the questions involved, issues to be tried, and the facts to be proved [see Williams v. Goodman (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 856, 869, 29 Cal. Rptr. 877] . In family law proceedings, which ordinarily are tried without a jury, opening statements generally are not necessary because the court is aware of the issues and the statement will not add anything to what will be brought out by the witnesses.

[2] Final Argument

Each attorney has a right to present a final argument, or summation, to the trier of fact at the conclusion of the presentation of evidence. The petitioner argues first, followed by the respondent; the petitioner then is entitled to conclude [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 607, 631.7].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsClosing ArgumentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsOpening StatementsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
2. Considerations at Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.66

§ 221.66 Anticipating Evidentiary Problems

[1] Review of Evidence Before Trial

In preparing for trial, counsel should review all tangible physical evidence--particularly documentary evidence--that he or she intends to introduce, and consider the nature and scope of any testimony that will be presented. As part of this review, counsel should attempt to anticipate particular evidentiary problems that must be overcome to admit the proffered evidence [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Schoettgen (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1, 5-9, 227 Cal. Rptr. 758] .

If evidentiary problems are expected in advance of trial, the best forum for resolving these problems is not during the trial itself, but at an in-chambers conference before trial, such as the pretrial or trial setting conference. Even if some problems are not resolved, the judge will have some familiarity with the nature of the problem involved, thereby enabling him or her to rule correctly on the admissibility of the proffered evidence.

For further discussion, see Denner, Rothschild & Johnson, California Family Law Trial Guide, Unit 20 (Matthew Bender).

[2] Prohibited Evidence

Except as otherwise provided by statute (i.e., when child custody is an issue and the evidence is relevant to that issue, or when a domestic violence prevention order is sought or has been obtained and the evidence is relevant in connection with the order [see Fam. Code §§ 3011(b), 6300]), evidence of specific acts of misconduct is improper and inadmissible in any pleading or proceeding for dissolution or legal separation, including depositions and discovery proceedings [Fam. Code § 2335].

Evidence derived from illegal eavesdropping is inadmissable [Fam. Code § 2022(a)]. In addition, the court may refer a potential violation to the proper authorities for investigation and prosecution [Fam. Code § 2022(b)], and the victim is provided by statute with a civil cause of action [Penal Code § 637.2; see, e.g., Ribas v. Clark (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 355, 358-363, 212 Cal. Rptr. 143, 696 P.2d 637] . Illegal eavesdropping in the domestic relations setting also has been held a violation of federal law [People v. Otto (1992) 2 Cal. 4th 1088, 1099-1100, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 596, 831 P.2d 1178] .

Confidential mediation communications are not admissible absent both parties' express consent [Eisendrath v. Superior Court(Rogers) (2003) 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 716 (nonconsenting party is entitled to protective order barring discovery into and admission of these commuications)]. Confidential communications made before the end of the mediation remain confidential after the mediation ends [Evid. Code §§ 1125, 1126; Eisendrath v. Superior Court (Rogers) (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 351, 358, 364-365, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 716] . In general, a mediator may not testify as to any statement, conduct, decision, or ruling occurring at or in conjunction with the mediation proceeding [Evid. Code § 703.5; Eisendrath v. Superior Court (Rogers) (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 351, 358, 365-366, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 716 (mediator may testify if party's constitutional rights are implicated or if both parties expressly waive their confidentiality rights)].

This protection applies to derivative material, such as charts, diagrams, information compilations, and expert opinions and reports, prepared for the purpose of, in the course of, or pursuant to mediation; this material is not discoverable on a showing of good cause [Rojas v. Superior Court (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 407, 423-424, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 643, 93 P.3d 260] . Under Evid. Code § 1119(b), because both photographs and written witness statements qualify as "writings" as defined in Evid. Code § 250, if they are prepared for purpose of, in course of, or pursuant to mediation, then they are not admissible or subject to discovery, and their disclosure may not be compelled [Rojas v. Superior Court (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 407, 416-417, 422-423].

For further discussion, see Denner, Rothschild & Johnson, California Family Law Trial Guide, Unit 20 (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidenceIllegal EavesdroppingGeneral OverviewEvidenceRelevanceCompromise & Settlement NegotiationsEvidenceRelevanceRelevant EvidenceFamily LawAlternative Dispute ResolutionMediationFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
2. Considerations at Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.67

§ 221.67 Use of Expert's Reports

Written reports of experts relevant to some issue in a family law proceeding generally are not admissible as evidence [see Evid. Code §§ 720, 1200] in the absence of a stipulation of the parties or by establishment of qualification for admission under one of the statutory exceptions to the hearsay rule [see Evid. Code §§ 1220-1341] and satisfaction of the requirements for admission of opinion evidence [see Evid. Code § 801]. Parties generally stipulate to the admission of these reports in the interests of judicial economy, however, and counsel may wish to consider moving for sanctions in cases in which no stipulation on admission of the report has been reached and a great deal of court time has been expended to admit its contents through testimony [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5; Fam. Code § 271]. For further discussion, see Denner, Rothschild & Johnson, California Family Law Trial Guide, Unit 20 (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsPreliminary QuestionsAdmissibility of EvidenceGeneral OverviewEvidenceRelevanceGeneral OverviewEvidenceTestimonyExpertsAdmissibilityFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
2. Considerations at Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.68

§ 221.68 Use of and Preparation of Exhibits

The important consideration regarding the use of exhibits at trial is that they will not be considered by the court unless they have been properly admitted into evidence. Ideally, each side should provide a list of its exhibits to the other side at a conference before trial with the goal of gaining their admission by agreement or stipulation, thus eliminating the need to call witnesses to testify for the sole purpose of admitting the exhibits. When agreement cannot be reached or certain exhibits are to be used for impeachment or tactical surprise, the basis for their admission must be by way of testimony at trial.

Family law counsel should not neglect using prepared demonstrative exhibits such as charts indicating the equality of a proposed division of community property or the tax impact on the parties of an award of spousal support. For further discussion of evidentiary matters, see Denner, Rothschild & Johnson, California Family Law Trial Guide, Unit 20 (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidenceDocumentary EvidenceWritingsGeneral OverviewEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsPreliminary QuestionsAdmissibility of EvidenceGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
2. Considerations at Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.69

§ 221.69 Discovery Evidence at Trial

[1] In General

Information obtained in the course of pretrial discovery may be used at trial (1) to refresh the memory of a witness [Evid. Code § 771]; (2) to impeach an adverse party or an adverse witness by showing prior statements inconsistent with offered testimony [Evid. Code §§ 770, 1235]; (3) to rehabilitate a friendly witness whose credibility has been attacked on cross-examination [Evid. Code § 791]; (4) to show the recorded past recollection of a witness, provided a proper foundation is laid [Evid. Code § 1237]; and (5) under proper circumstances, to substitute for testimony of a witness [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.620, 2030.410; Evid. Code § 240; see Ritter v. State Bar (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 595, 601, 221 Cal. Rptr. 134, 709 P.2d 1303] . For further discussion, see Denner, Rothschild & Johnson, California Family Law Trial Guide, Unit 20 (Matthew Bender).

[2] Electronic Recordings

Electronic sound or sound-and-video recordings may be admitted into evidence. Unless otherwise ordered by the trial judge, the party offering recordings into evidence must tender to the court and to opposing parties a typewritten transcript of the recording [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1040(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewEvidenceHearsayCredibility of DeclarantsImpeachment EvidenceEvidenceHearsayExceptionsRecorded RecollectionRecollection RefreshedEvidenceTestimonyCredibilityImpeachmentPrior Inconsistent StatementsEvidenceTestimonyRefreshing RecollectionRefreshing During Testimony

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
2. Considerations at Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.70

§ 221.70 Stipulations at Trial

A binding stipulation, accepted by the court, eliminates the necessity of producing evidence on the issue or facts so stipulated as long as the stipulation is not contrary to law, public policy, or a court rule [see Leonard v. City of Los Angeles (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 473, 107 Cal. Rptr. 378] . To be binding on the parties, a written stipulation must be filed and an oral stipulation must be entered on the minutes [Code Civ. Proc. § 283]. The best practice is to have oral stipulations reduced to writing and filed in the case. If matters are stipulated to in open court, however, care should be taken that the intent of the parties is explicitly stated. Although a stipulation that is ambiguous on its face may be clarified by parol evidence in the absence of any patent ambiguity [Insurance Co. of North America v. Bechtel (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 310, 320, 111 Cal. Rptr. 507] , resortmay not be had to extrinsic evidence to alter the apparent intent of the parties [see In re Marriage of Wright (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 1115, 1121, 126 Cal. Rptr. 894] .

Attorneys may stipulate to certain matters on behalf of their clients without the clients' express authorization, but may not do so if the stipulation settles issues that are central to the controversy [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Helsel (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 332, 339-340, 243 Cal. Rptr. 657] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
EvidenceDocumentary EvidenceParol EvidenceEvidenceJudicial AdmissionsAdmissions During TrialsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
2. Considerations at Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.71

§ 221.71 Witnesses

[1] In General

The procedures and techniques for examining witnesses in a family law proceeding are essentially the same as those employed in any civil proceeding. One exception to this general similarity may be the right to call minor children to testify at a custody hearing. For further discussion of issues relating to witnesses, see Denner, Rothschild & Johnson, California Family Law Trial Guide, Unit 20 (Matthew Bender).

[2] Restoration of Birth Name or Former Name

If one of the parties wants to have his or her birth or former name restored, counsel should ask an appropriate question in a proceeding for dissolution or nullity of marriage and obtain an affirmative response. After such a request, the court must restore the birth or former name by an appropriate order in the judgment, regardless of whether the requested name restoration was included in the petition [Fam. Code §§ 2080, 2081].

[3] Qualification of Experts

Before an expert is allowed to testify at trial, his or her special knowledge, skill, training, or education sufficient to qualify him or her as an expert must be established to the court's satisfaction [Evid. Code § 720]. Although it is not uncommon for each side to stipulate to the qualification of a particular expert to testify, and although the stipulation will undoubtedly save time at trial, counsel putting forward the expert who agrees to such a stipulation may lose the opportunity to demonstrate the expert's qualifications and realize the potentially valuable side effect of lending additional credibility to his or her testimony in the mind of the court.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

EvidenceCompetencyDisabilityChildrenEvidenceTestimonyExpertsQualificationsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawName ChangesProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
2. Considerations at Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.72

§ 221.72 Request for Statement of Decision

The court must file its decision and any statement of decision as in any other case in a proceeding for dissolution of marriage or for legal separation [Fam. Code § 2338(a)]. Thus, at the request of any party appearing at the trial, the court must issue a statement of decision explaining the factual and legal basis for its decision as to each of the principally controverted issues at trial. Such a request, which ordinarily must be made within 10 days after the court announces its tentative decision unless trial is concluded within one calendar day [In re Marriage of Ananeh-Firempong (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 272, 283-284, 268 Cal. Rptr. 83 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 632; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590; Khan v. Superior Court (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1168, 1173 n.4, 251 Cal. Rptr. 815 ; see also Banning v. Newdow (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 438, 457, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 447 (statement of reasons is not required with respect to an interim custody order)], must specify those controverted issues as to which the party requests a statement of decision. Once a party has requested a statement of decision, any party may make proposals as to its content [Code Civ. Proc. § 632].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsBench TrialsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
2. Considerations at Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.73

§ 221.73 Preparation, Rendition, and Entry of Judgment

A copy of a proposed judgment of dissolution must be submitted to the court and served with the proposed statement of decision in any contested proceeding in which a written statement of decision is requested [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(c)]. When a statement of decision is not required in a contested dissolution because it was not requested or was waived, the court must prepare and mail a proposed judgment to all parties who appeared at the trial within 10 days after the expiration of the time for requesting a statement of decision. Alternatively, the court may notify counsel for a party to prepare a proposed judgment. Counsel has 10 days after notice to prepare, serve on opposing counsel, and submit to the court for approval a proposed judgment of dissolution of marriage [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(e)]. Before a judgment of dissolution may be entered in the judgment book by the clerk, it must be "rendered" and signed by the court [see, e.g., Estate of Dargie (1912) 162 Cal. 51, 53, 121 P. 320] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportAnnulmentProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
2. Considerations at Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.74

§ 221.74 Attorney's Withdrawal After Entry of Final Judgment

An attorney of record for any party in an action or proceeding for dissolution of marriage, legal separation, or for a declaration of void or voidable marriage, or for the support, maintenance, or custody of minor children, may withdraw at any time after the judgment in the action or proceeding becomes final and before service on him or her of pleadings or motion papers in any proceeding pending in the cause. Formal consent of the client is unnecessary, nor is a court order required. Rather, to withdraw, the attorney must file a notice of withdrawal stating the date of entry of the final decree or judgment, the last known address of the party, and that the attorney withdraws as attorney for the party. A copy of the notice must be mailed to the party at his or her last known address, and must be served on the adverse party [Code Civ. Proc. § 285.1].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportAnnulmentProceduresLegal EthicsClient RelationsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Bringing the Case to Trial
2. Considerations at Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 221.75-221.89

[Reserved]

§§ 221.75[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
1. Dismissal Of Proceedings

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.90

§ 221.90 Grounds for Dismissal

In general, a proceeding under the Family Code for dissolution of marriage, nullity of marriage, or legal separation of the parties may be dismissed on the same grounds and in the same manner as an ordinary civil action [see Fam. Code § 210; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.21]. Thus, a family law proceeding may be dismissed under the circumstances and in the manner provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 581, 581c, 581d, and 583.110 et seq., which govern dismissal of civil actions generally [see generally Ch. 212, Dismissal].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDismissalsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportAnnulmentProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal Separation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
1. Dismissal Of Proceedings

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.91

§ 221.91 Types of Dismissals

[1] With or Without Prejudice

Apart from some situations in which a voluntary or involuntary dismissal of a proceeding under the Family Code might bar, for one reason or another, a subsequent proceeding from being brought under the Code for the same purpose, in most proceedings under the Family Code, the distinction between a dismissal with prejudice and a dismissal without prejudice is less important than it would be in an ordinary civil action [see, e.g., Stephan v. American Home Builders (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 402, 406, 98 Cal. Rptr. 354 (noting general proposition that judgment of dismissal that is not rendered on merits does not operate as bar to filing of subsequent action based on same facts)]. A dismissal with prejudice of a proceeding for dissolution of marriage does not bar the filing of a new dissolution proceeding on the ground that irreconcilable differences--even the same ones as were the basis of the prior proceeding--exist between the parties at the time the subsequent proceeding is filed [see Fam. Code § 2310(a)].

[2] Discretionary or Mandatory

[a] Discretionary Dismissals

The court generally has discretion to dismiss a family law proceeding in the following circumstances:

(1) Without prejudice, when no party appears for trial following 30 days' notice of the time and place of trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 581(b)(3); but see Mustalo v. Mustalo (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 580, 584-585, 112 Cal. Rptr. 594 (judgment of dismissal for failure to prosecute proceeding for dissolution of marriage or legal separation of parties does not bar filing new proceeding for dissolution or legal separation)];

(2) Without prejudice, when dismissal is made pursuant to the applicable provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 583.110 et seq. governing discretionary dismissal for delay in prosecution [Code Civ. Proc. § 581(b)(4), (g); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410, 583.420];

(3) Without prejudice, when either party fails to appear at the trial and the other party appears and asks for dismissal [Code Civ. Proc. § 581(b)(5), (l)]; and

(4) When a motion to quash the proceeding is granted, with or without leave to amend the petition [cf. Goddard v. Security Title Ins. & Guar. Co. (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 47, 52-53, 92 P.2d 804 (judgment of dismissal entered in civil action after demurrer to complaint was sustained)].

See Ch. 212, Dismissal , for detailed discussion of this topic in the context of civil actions generally.

[b] Mandatory Dismissals

In general, and with certain statutory exceptions (summarized below), dismissal of a family law proceeding is mandatory in the following circumstances:

(1) When the petitioner fails to serve the summons and petition on the respondent within three years after the proceeding is commenced against the respondent [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.210(a), 583.250; see Bernasconi Commercial Real Estate v. St. Joseph's Regional Healthcare System (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 1078, 1081-1083, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 475] ;

(2) When the petitioner fails to file a return of the summons or other proof of service within three years and 60 days after the proceeding is commenced against the respondent [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.210(b), 583.250];

(3) When the parties fail to bring the proceeding to trial within five years after it was commenced against the respondent [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.310, 583.360; Sanchez v. City of Los Angeles (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1262, 1270-1271, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 869 (failure to bring the proceeding to trial within five years is not excused by counsel's mistake in calculating end of five-year period)];

(4) When the parties fail to bring a proceeding again to trial within three years after one of the following:

(a) A mistrial is entered, if a new trial has been granted in the proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.320(a)(1), 583.360];

(b) An order granting a new trial is entered, if after judgment a new trial is granted and no appeal is taken [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.320(a)(2), 583.360]; or

(c) The remittitur is filed by the clerk of the trial court, if on appeal an order granting a new trial is affirmed or a judgment is reversed and the proceeding is remanded for a new trial [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.320(a)(3), 583.360];

(5) The petitioner abandons the case during trial, but before final submission [see Code Civ. Proc. § 581(d); Burnett v. Burnett (1948) 88 Cal. App. 2d 805, 807, 199 P.2d 685] ; and

(6) The petitioner requests a dismissal after commencement of trial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 581(e); see also Carvel v. Arents (1954) 126 Cal. App. 2d 776, 779, 272 P.2d 858 (petitioner's motion for dismissal deemed abandonment of case; dismissal held on appeal to be with prejudice)].

Statutory exceptions to mandatory dismissal include the following:

(a) Code Civ. Proc. § 583.140 (principles of waiver and estoppel apply);

(b) Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.140, 583.220, 583.230 (when the respondent makes a general appearance or enters into a written stipulation or oral agreement in open court to extend the time for service and return);

(c) Code Civ. Proc. § 583.240(a), (b) (time during which the respondent was not amenable to process of the court or the prosecution of the proceeding was stayed and the stay affected service); or

(d) Code Civ. Proc. § 583.240(c), (d) (time during which the validity of service was the subject of litigation by the parties or service, for any other reason, was impossible, impracticable, or futile due to causes beyond the petitioner's control)].

See Ch. 212, Dismissal , for detailed discussion of this topic in the context of civil actions generally.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudicial OfficersJudgesDiscretionCivil ProcedureDismissalsInvoluntary DismissalsFailures to ProsecuteCivil ProcedureDismissalsVoluntary DismissalsCourt OrdersDismissals With PrejudiceCivil ProcedureDismissalsVoluntary DismissalsCourt OrdersDismissals Without PrejudiceFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
1. Dismissal Of Proceedings

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.92

§ 221.92 Dismissal by Petitioner Before Trial

[1] When Available

The petitioner in a Family Code proceeding may dismiss the proceeding at any time before the actual commencement of the trial by filing a written request for dismissal with the clerk of court and paying the clerk's costs [Code Civ. Proc. § 581(b)(1); see § 221.395 (Request for Dismissal)].

The voluntary dismissal of a proceeding before commencement of trial in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 581 is exercisable by a petitioner as a matter of right. If the petitioner files with the clerk a written request for dismissal in proper form, the dismissal is immediately effective [see, e.g., Associated Convalescent Enters. v. Carl Marks & Co., Inc. (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 116, 120, 108 Cal. Rptr. 782] . Nevertheless, the dismissal will not be effective and cannot be made except on court order with proper notice unless it is made with the written consent of the petitioner's attorney of record [Code Civ. Proc. § 581(j)].

A party who requests the dismissal must serve on all parties and file notice of entry of the dismissal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1390].

[2] When Prohibited

In cases in which a respondent requests affirmative or alternative relief in his or her response, however, the request for affirmative or alternative relief might arguably be treated as a cross complaint, and thereby prevent the petitioner from dismissing the proceeding before trial, unless the affirmative relief itself is subject to dismissal. Unilateral dismissal is also prohibited when a respondent seeks affirmative relief in some form other than the petition, such as a motion for entry of judgment [see In re Marriage of Tamraz (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 1740, 1746-1749, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 233 (husband could not unilaterally dismiss his 1976 petition for dissolution when wife's motion for entry of judgment in 1976 action also requested affirmative relief)]. For discussion of motions to quash requests for affirmative relief contained in the response, see Subpart A.

The petitioner also is prohibited from dismissing the action before trial if the respondent has filed a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 396b for an order transferring the proceeding to another court. Motions to transfer a family law proceeding from one court to another also are discussed in § 221.10 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsComplaintsCross-ComplaintsCivil ProcedureDismissalsVoluntary DismissalsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
1. Dismissal Of Proceedings

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.93

§ 221.93 Voluntary Dismissal by Either Party Before Judgment

A family law proceeding may be dismissed by either party at any time before entry of a judgment of dissolution if the other party gives written consent [Code Civ. Proc. § 581(b)(2); see Fam. Code § 2338(c) (after entry of judgment and before it becomes final, neither party has right to dismiss action without consent of other party); see § 221.395 (Request for Dismissal)]. However, the dismissal will not be effective unless it is made with the written consent of the attorney of record for the party applying for the dismissal. If the attorney's consent is not obtained, the dismissal may be entered only on order of court after notice to the attorney [Code Civ. Proc. § 581(j)].

A party who requests the dismissal must serve on all parties and file notice of entry of the dismissal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1390].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDismissalsVoluntary DismissalsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
1. Dismissal Of Proceedings

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.94

§ 221.94 No Dismissal When Child or Spousal Support Order in Force

If an order for child or spousal support has been issued in a proceeding for dissolution or legal separation and the child support order has not been terminated by the court or by operation of law [see Fam. Code §§ 3591, 3600, 3603, 3900, 3901, 4007, 4013, 4335, 4336], the proceeding may not be dismissed for delay in prosecution [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.161(a), (b); see also County of Orange v. Quinn (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 956, 958-964, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 833 (trial court erred in dismissing putative father's motion to dismiss county's action under child support order for reimbursement of assistance payments made on behalf of daughter for county's failure to bring action to trial within five years); In re Marriage of Hinds (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1398, 1403-1405, 253 Cal. Rptr. 170 (construing former version of Code Civ. Proc. § 583.161 as prohibiting dismissal of bifurcated dissolution action that was not brought to retrial within three years after mistrial on community property issues involving third parties, because temporary order for unsegregated child and spousal support remained in effect); but see County of Orange v. Rosales (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 1214, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 788 (on facts virtually identical to Quinn, except county successfully terminated father's parental rights, trial court properly dismissed county's reimbursement action for failure to bring it to trial within five years because of lack of continuing child support order); now see Code Civ. Proc. § 581.161(c) (prohibiting dismissal of dissolution proceeding after separate trial on marital status); see discussion in § 221.95]. Child support orders remain in effect, even when proceedings are not brought to timely trial, unless the support orders are terminated by the court or by operation of law [see Fam. Code § 3601(a), (b)]. For discussion of termination of child support orders, see Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support . For discussion of termination of spousal support orders, see Ch. 225, Dissolution of Marriage: Spousal Support .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDismissalsVoluntary DismissalsGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
1. Dismissal Of Proceedings

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.95

§ 221.95 No Dismissal After Separate Trial on Marital Status

Code Civ. Proc. § 583.161 prohibits dismissal of a dissolution proceeding after a separate trial on the issue of the status of the marriage has been conducted pursuant to Fam. Code § 2337 [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.161(c)]. The term "trial" refers to a proceeding in which the court adjudicates the status of the marriage in a judgment, regardless of whether the proceeding was contested or uncontested [In re Marriage of Dunmore (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 1372, 1375, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 450] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDismissalsVoluntary DismissalsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePretrial MattersSeparate TrialsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
1. Dismissal Of Proceedings

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.96

§ 221.96 Effect of Dismissal on Pendente Lite Orders

A judgment of dismissal in a Family Code proceeding, regardless of whether it is with prejudice, will not prevent the respondent from being held in contempt for any previous failure to obey a pendente lite order for temporary child support, spousal support, attorney's fees, or costs. After the dismissal is entered, further payments under the pendente lite order no longer accrue, but the payments that have accrued under the order before entry of the dismissal and have not been paid remain due and payable. Further, the dismissal of the main proceeding will not deprive the court of jurisdiction to enforce payment of the accrued amount due under a pendente lite order by execution, supplementary proceedings, or contempt [Moore v. Superior Court (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 804, 810-811, 87 Cal. Rptr. 620] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDismissalsGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportObligationsEnforcementContemptFamily LawChild SupportObligationsTypesTemporary SupportFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportObligationsTemporary Support

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
1. Dismissal Of Proceedings

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 221.97-221.109

[Reserved]

§§ 221.97[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
2. Statement Of Decision

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.110

§ 221.110 Necessity for Statement of Decision in Family Law Proceedings

[1] General Nature and Purpose of Statement

A statement of decision is a written statement issued by the court on the request of a party that explains the factual and legal basis for the court's decision regarding the principal controverted issues at trial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 632]. The Family Code provides that in proceedings for dissolution of marriage or legal separation, the court must file its decision and any statement of decision "as in other cases" [Fam. Code § 2338(a)].

The principal purpose of obtaining a statement of decision is to provide a record of the reasoning and basis for the trial court's decision for use in attacking or defending the decision on appeal. For discussion of appeals in a general civil context, see Ch. 40, Appeal: An Overview , through Ch. 54, Appeal: California Supreme Court Review .

In matters submitted to a referee, the statement of decision serves the additional purpose of informing the trial court and allowing it to intelligently decide whether to accept or reject the referee's decision. Furthermore, when a matter is submitted to a referee, the general rule that issuance is optional does not apply; the referee must issue a statement of decision whether or not it is requested by one of the parties [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 638, 643; see also In re Marriage of Demblewski (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 232, 236, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 533 ; § 221.110[2]].

With respect to judgments that include modifiable provisions (for example, regarding child custody or child or spousal support), the statement of decision provides a record of the circumstances that existed at the time of the judgment, from which the court, in a later proceeding to modify those provisions, can determine whether circumstances have changed so as to warrant a modification.

For detailed discussion of statements of decision, see Ch. 529, Statement of Decision . See § 221.10 et seq. for discussion of statements of decision in bifurcated proceedings. For discussion of rules governing modification ofjudgments and orders, see § 221.180 et seq.

[2] When Statement Not Required

A statement of decision may be requested "upon the trial of a question of fact" [see Code Civ. Proc. § 632]. Generally, a statement of decision is not required after a ruling on a motion or order to show cause unless a statutory or judicially created exception exists for the particular type of order. Thus, for example, a statement of decision is not required, even if requested, before issuance of an order for equitable relief from a family law judgment [In re Marriage of Baltins (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 66, 79-80, 260 Cal. Rptr. 403 ; see In re Marriage of Askmo (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 1032, 1040, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 662 (court did not have to issue statement of decision on its ruling on order to show cause); Khan v. Superior Court (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1168, 1173 n.4, 251 Cal. Rptr. 815 (court had authority but no obligation to issue statement of decision regarding denial of motion to quash)]. However, by statute, an order modifying, terminating, or setting aside a spousal support order must include a statement of decision if requested by either party [Fam. Code § 3654].

With regard to judicial exceptions, the courts balance "(1) the importance of the issues at stake in the proceeding, including the significance of the rights affected and the magnitude of the potential adverse effect on these rights; and (2) absence of express findings" [Gruendl v. Oewel Partnership, Inc. (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 654, 660] .

[3] When Statement Must Be Issued Without Request

Code Civ. Proc. 643 creates an exception to the general rule that issuance of a statement of decision is optional unless requested whenever a case or particular issues in a case are referred to a referee. A referee must issue sua sponte a statement of decision explaining the factual and legal basis for his or her decision on each of the principal controverted issues [see Code Civ. Proc. § 643(a); In re Marriage of Demblewski (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 232, 236, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 533] . This requirement serves the additional purpose of assisting the trial court in deciding whether to accept or reject the referee's decision [see In re Marriage of Demblewski (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 232, 236, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 533] .

Note, however, that a distinction is made between referees appointed under Code Civ. Proc. § 638 (by agreement of the parties) and those appointed under Code Civ. Proc. § 639 (appointment on motion of a party or on the court's own motion), with respect to reporting a statement of decision. If the appointment was made under Section 638, the referee must report as agreed by the parties and approved by the court. If the appointment was made under Section 639, the referee must file a report with the court that includes a recommendation on the merits of any disputed issue, a statement of the total hours spent and total fees charged by the referee, and the referee's recommended allocation of payment [Code Civ. Proc. § 643(b), (c)]. For further discussion of issues when cases are referred to a referee, see § 221.40 et seq.

[4] Effect of Statement on Appeal

There is no absolute statutory requirement that a party obtain a statement of decision as a prerequisite to appealing a trial court decision, and a statement of decision is unnecessary if the transcript of proceedings adequately sets forth the basis of the trial court's ruling [In re Marriage of Powers (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 626, 634 n.5, 267 Cal. Rptr. 350] . As a practical matter, however, the failure to obtain a statement of decision may be fatal to a party's attempt to obtain appellate relief from a decision. Without a statement of decision, the appellant may lack the basis for showing that the lower court's ruling was erroneous because there will be no record of the reasoning applied by the trial court in reaching its factual findings and legal conclusions [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Ditto (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 643, 647-648, 253 Cal. Rptr. 770 ; see also In re Marriage of Green (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 584, 593, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 872 (failure to request mathematical breakdown in statement of decision precluded challenge to amount of attorney's fees award)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsBench TrialsCivil ProcedureAppealsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureAppealsRecords on AppealFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
2. Statement Of Decision

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.111

§ 221.111 Procedures Applicable to Statements of Decision

[1] Governing Law

Procedures governing statements of decision in family law proceedings (that is, announcement of a tentative decision, proposals regarding the contents of statement of decision, preparation and service of a proposed statement of decision, general contents and format, objections, and consequences of a failure to make a requested statement of decision) are the same as those applicable to civil actions [see Fam. Code §§ 210, 2338(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.21]. Those procedures are set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 632 and Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1590 and 3.1591. When the trial judge becomes unavailable before the entire process contemplated in § 632 and Rule 3.1590 has been completed, the parties have been deprived of a full and fair trial [see Raville v. Singh (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1127, 1132, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 58 (reversing judgment based on proposed statement of decision when trial judge died before ruling on those objections or issuing final statement)]. See Ch. 529, Statement of Decision , for discussion in the context of civil actions.

[2] Party Designated to Prepare Statement or Use of Tentative Decision

If the court does not designate a party to prepare the statement of decision in the announcement of intended decision, the court may, within five days after the request for the statement of decision, notify counsel for any party to prepare the statement [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(c)]. If the court fails to designate aparty to prepare the statement of decision, the court itself must prepare it [In re Marriage of Reilley (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1119, 1125-1126, 242 Cal. Rptr. 302] . A tentative decision does not constitute a judgment and is not binding on the court. If the court later modifies its announced tentative decision, the clerk must mail a copy of the modification to all parties who appeared at the trial [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(a); see In re Marriage of Hafferkamp (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 789, 793-794, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 761 (party may not appeal from tentative decision)].

The court may also direct that the tentative decision will be the statement of decision unless, within 10 days, either party specifies controverted issues or makes proposals not covered in the tentative decision [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(a)]. However, a tentative decision does not substitute for a statement of decision on appeal unless a statement of decision is requested. A tentative decision by itself is not considered part of the appellate record and may not be considered by the reviewing court [In re Marriage of Ditto (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 643, 646-647, 253 Cal. Rptr. 770] .

[3] When Request Must Be Made

A party who desires a statement of decision ordinarily must request one from the court within 10 days after the court announces a tentative decision. However, if the trial is concluded within one calendar day, or in less than eight hours over more than one day, the request must be made before submission of the matter for decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 632; see In re Marriage of Ananeh-Firempong (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 272, 284, 268 Cal. Rptr. 83 ; see also In re Marriage of Gray (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 974, 977-978, 980, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 271 (absent any court record of time taken for trial, court's finding that trial did not last more than eight hours over more than one day was presumed correct, and wife did not meet burden of showing that court erred in its finding)]. If the court's memorandum of intended decision is served by mail, the time within which a party may request a statement of decision is extended by five days (if the place of address is in California) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a); In re Marriage of McDole (1985) 176 Cal. App. 3d 214, 219, 221 Cal. Rptr. 734 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c), (e) (extension when service is by Express Mail or fax)]. For a form of request for a statement of decision, see § 221.390.

[4] Contents and Format of Statement of Decision

The statement of decision must be in writing unless the parties appearing at trial agree otherwise [Code Civ. Proc. § 632]. If the trial is concluded within one calendar day, or in less than eight hours over more than one day, the statement of decision may be made orally on the record in the presence of the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 632; see In re Marriage of Katz (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1711, 1717-1718, 286 Cal. Rptr. 495 ; In re Marriage of Ananeh-Firempong (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 272, 283-284, 268 Cal. Rptr. 83] . An oral "statement of decision" may be supplemented by a subsequent written statement of decision [Khan v. Superior Court (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1168, 1173 n.4, 251 Cal. Rptr. 815 ; see In re Marriage of Katz (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1711, 1717-1718, 286 Cal. Rptr. 495 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 632].

If a statement of decision is requested and rendered, it must be confined to ultimate material legal and factual issues in the case. The evidentiary facts from which an ultimate fact is determined need not and should not be set forth by the court [see In re Marriage of Garrity & Bishton (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 675, 686-688, 226 Cal. Rptr. 485 ; In re Marriage of Roesch (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 96, 108-109, 147 Cal. Rptr. 586 , cert. denied, 440 U.S. 915 (1979)] . For a form of proposed statement of decision, see § 221.391.

[5] Failure to Object to Proposed Statement of Decision

A party who fails to object to a proposed statement of decision within 15 days after receiving service of the proposed statement of decision and judgment [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(d)] is deemed to waive the right to complain of alleged deficiencies in the statement. The party's mere request that a statement of decision be provided with respect to specific issues will not preserve those issues for appeal if the statement erroneously omits findings on those issues, but the party does not object. The appellate court will imply findings to support the judgment [see, e.g., In re Marriage of McQuoid (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1353, 1360-1361, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 737] .

[6] Failure to Make Requested Statement of Decision

When a timely request has been made, the court must issue a statement of decision explaining the factual and legal basis for its decision as to each of the principal controverted issues at the trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 632; see In re Marriage of Ramer (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 263, 271, 231 Cal. Rptr. 647] . Failure to render a statement of decision that was timely requested is reversible error [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Sellers (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1007, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 293 (court committed reversible error in failing to issue statement after husband requested statement, but later withdrew request; wife did not waive right to statement, but was entitled to believe court would prepare statement in accordance with statutory requirement); In re Marriage of Ananeh-Firempong (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 272, 284, 268 Cal. Rptr. 83] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsBench TrialsCivil ProcedureAppealsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureAppealsRecords on AppealCivil ProcedureAppealsStandards of ReviewReversible ErrorsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
2. Statement Of Decision

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.112

§ 221.112 Required Findings on Particular Issues

[1] Spousal Support

In a dissolution or legal separation proceeding in which spousal support is at issue, the court is required to make specific factual findings regarding the parties' standard of living during the marriage. Furthermore, at the request of either party, the court is required to make appropriate factual determinations with respect to the circumstances relevant to spousal support [Fam. Code § 4332]. Fam. Code § 4320 et seq. set forth the circumstances that the court is required to consider when awarding spousal support. Any failure of a party to request that the court make factual determinations or to issue a statement of decision can be fatal to a subsequent appeal of a spousal support order or to a motion to modify the amount of the support (because of the lack of a factual basis for showing changed circumstances) [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Laube (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1222, 1226, 251 Cal. Rptr. 745] .

In addition, at the request of either party, an order modifying, terminating, or setting aside a spousal support order must include a statement of decision [Fam. Code § 3654].

For discussion of the factors to be considered by the court in ordering spousal support, see Ch. 225, Dissolution of Marriage: Spousal Support .

[2] Child Support

In ordering and setting the amount of child support, courts are required to adhere to the statewide uniform child support guideline set forth in Fam. Code § 4050 et seq. [Fam. Code § 4052]. The guideline sets forth a formula for computation of child support [see Fam. Code § 4055(a)], which is presumed to be the correct amount of child support to be ordered [see Fam. Code § 4057(a)]. This presumption may be rebutted by proving that ordering child support based on the formula amount would be unjust or inappropriate in a particular case because of the existence of one or more specified "rebuttal" factors [see Fam. Code § 4057(b)]. If the net disposable income per month of the obligor is less than $1,000, the court must determine whether to allow a low-income adjustment to the formula. If a low-income adjustment is allowed, the court must state, in writing or on the record, the reasons supporting the adjustment [see Fam. Code § 4055(b)(7), (c)].

To comply with federal law, whenever the court orders a child support amount that differs from the guideline formula amount, the court must state, in writing or on the record, (1) the amount of support that would have been ordered under the guideline formula, (2) the reasons why the amount of support ordered differs from the guideline formula amount, and (3) the reasons why the amount of support ordered is consistent with the best interests of the children [Fam. Code § 4056(a)]. In addition, at the request of either party, the court is required to state, in writing or on the record, specified information used in determining the amount of support under the guideline formula [see Fam. Code § 4056(b)]. If either party requests it, the court must also make appropriate findings with respect to the circumstances on which an order for child support is based [Fam. Code § 4005].

For discussion of uniform statewide child support guidelines, the required court findings, and a form of child support order containing the required findings, see Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support .

[3] Child Custody

Before a court makes any order awarding custody of a child to a person or persons other than a parent, without the parents' consent, the court must make a finding that (1) an award of custody to a parent would be detrimental to the child, and (2) the award to a nonparent is required to serve the best interests of the child [Fam. Code § 3041; see, e.g., In re Baby Girl M. (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 65, 68, 207 Cal. Rptr. 309, 688 P.2d 918] . The court must make a specific finding on each of these two matters before awarding custody to a nonparent [see, e.g., In re B.G. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 679, 699, 114 Cal. Rptr. 444, 523 P.2d 244 (identically worded predecessor statute)].

Although the statute does not clearly state whether the findings must be in writing, at least one court of appeal, interpreting the identically worded predecessor statute, has held that written findings are not required unless requested by one of the parties [Chaffin v. Frye (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 39, 44-45, 119 Cal. Rptr. 22] .

In addition, whenever a request for joint custody is granted or denied, the court, on the request of any party, must state in its decision the reasons for granting or denying the request. A statement that joint physical custody is, or is not, in the best interest of the child is not sufficient to meet the requirements of the subdivision [Fam. Code § 3082; see In re Marriage of Buser (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 639, 642-643, 235 Cal. Rptr. 785 ; see also In re Marriage of DeRoque (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 1090, 1097, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 618 (court's notice of intended decision was a sufficient statement of reasons)].

For discussion of the factors considered by the court in awarding custody, see Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody .

[4] Property Division

To comply with its duty to divide the parties' community and quasi-community property equally in the absence of an agreement by the parties [see Fam. Code §§ 63, 2550], the court must determine the character of the property and the value of each asset [In re Marriage of Knickerbocker (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 1039, 1048, 118 Cal. Rptr. 232] .

One court of appeal has held that the trial court must make specific findings of fact regarding the nature and value of the parties' property [In re Marriage of Lopez (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 93, 107, 113 Cal. Rptr. 58] . However, it is not clear whether the specific findings of fact concerning the nature and value of the parties' property must be in writing in the absence of a request from the parties for a statement of decision. One court of appeal has held that after making its determination as to the character and value of the parties' assets, the court may direct one of the parties to prepare and submit proposed findings in the same manner as if one of the parties had requested findings [In re Marriage of Knickerbocker (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 1039, 1048 n.5, 118 Cal. Rptr. 232] .

For discussion of the factors considered by the court in dividing property, see Ch. 222, Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsBench TrialsFamily LawChild CustodyGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
2. Statement Of Decision

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 221.113-221.129

[Reserved]

§§ 221.113[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
3. Judgment Of Dissolution Or Legal Separation

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.130

§ 221.130 Single Final Judgment of Dissolution

To terminate a marriage in California under the Family Code, the parties must obtain either a judgment of nullity [see Fam. Code § 2200 et seq.] or a judgment of dissolution [see Fam. Code §§ 2338-2344]. Unless the issue of marital status has been bifurcated for early trial and judgment [see Fam. Code § 2337; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.175], dissolution of the marriage is accomplished by a single judgment [see Fam. Code §§ 2338(c), 2340] that generally adjudicates all of the parties' rights and obligations toward each other (such as support, child custody, and property division). The judgment does not operate to terminate the marriage until it becomes "final" [see Fam. Code §§ 2339, 2340, 2343], which usually is six months after service of a copy of the summons and petition on the respondent or the date of the respondent's appearance, whichever occurs first [Fam. Code § 2339(a)].

See Ch. 25, Annulment (Nullity) of Marriage and Related Spousal Rights , for discussion and forms relating to judgments of nullity.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportAnnulmentGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
3. Judgment Of Dissolution Or Legal Separation

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.131

§ 221.131 Refusal to Enter Judgment

[1] In General

Fam. Code § 2338(c) provides that "[i]f the court determines that a dissolution should be granted, a judgment of dissolution of marriage shall be entered." The Family Code also provides, however, that "[i]f the court determines that no dissolution should be granted, a judgment to that effect only shall be entered" [Fam. Code § 2338(b)]. Because the usual ground asserted for dissolution of marriage, "irreconcilable differences" [see Fam. Code §§ 2310(a), 2311], is liberally construed by the courts in favor of permitting dissolution and is rarely contested by the parties, ordinarily there is no substantive basis for the court to refuse a judgment of dissolution that is requested by one or both of the parties [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Gray (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1239, 1252-1254, 251 Cal. Rptr. 846 (court may not refuse to grant dissolution of marriage as sanction for party's refusal to obey court orders); In re Marriage of Bastian (1979) 94 Cal. App. 3d 483, 485-486, 156 Cal. Rptr. 524 (improper to refuse to enter judgment of dissolution until petitioner who filed in forma pauperis reimbursed county for filing fee by selling certain property)].

[2] Reconciliation of Parties

If the parties reconcile before judgment is entered, or after judgment is entered but before it becomes final, they may jointly dismiss the proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. § 581(b)(2); Fam. Code § 2338(c)]. Furthermore, the court must continue the dissolution or legal separation proceeding for up to 30 days if it appears to the court that there is a reasonable possibility of reconciliation [see Fam. Code § 2334(a); see also In re Marriage of Modnick (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 897, 911, 191 Cal. Rptr. 629, 663 P.2d 187 (burden of proof resting on party asserting fact of reconciliation)]. Pendente lite orders for child and spousal support are not enforceable during any period in which the parties have reconciled and are living together [Fam. Code § 3602].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureDismissalsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
3. Judgment Of Dissolution Or Legal Separation

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.132

§ 221.132 Finality of Judgment for Purposes of Terminating Marital Status

[1] Six-Month Waiting Period

A judgment of dissolution does not become final for purposes of terminating the marriage relationship of the parties until six months have expired from the date of the first to occur of (a) the service of a copy of the summons and petition on the respondent or (b) the appearance of the respondent [Fam. Code § 2339(a)]. The court may extend the six-month period for good cause shown [Fam. Code § 2339(b)].

[2] Specification of Date of Finality in Judgment

A judgment of dissolution must specify the date on which the judgment becomes finally effective for purposes of terminating the marriage relationship of the parties [Fam. Code § 2340]. On the date of termination of the marital status, the parties are restored to the status of unmarried persons [Fam. Code § 2343].

[3] Retention of Jurisdiction Over Date of Termination of Marital Status

On notice and for good cause shown, or on stipulation of the parties, the courtmay retain jurisdiction over the date of termination of the marital status, or may order that the marital status be terminated at a future specified date [Fam. Code § 2343]. On the date of termination of the marital status, the parties are restored to the status of unmarried persons [Fam. Code § 2343].

[4] Effect of Death of Party

A spouse's death before the entry of judgment dissolving the marriage abates a dissolution proceeding and deprives the court of jurisdiction to dissolve the marriage or adjudicate any other issues [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Hilke (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 215, 220, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 371, 841 P.2d 891] . Thus, the court can make no further orders regarding property rights, spousal support, costs, or attorney's fees [In re Marriage of Allen (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 1225, 1229, 10 Cal.

Rptr. 2d 916] .

When either party dies after a judgment of dissolution has been entered but before it becomes final, however, the party's death does not prevent the judgment from subsequently becoming final [Fam. Code § 2344(a)]. But the party's death does not validate any marriage by either party before the judgment became final, nor constitute a defense in any criminal prosecution for bigamy against either party [Fam. Code § 2344(b)].

[5] Effect of Appeal or Motion for New Trial

A judgment of dissolution does not become final until final disposition of any appeal taken from the judgment or any motion for a new trial [Fam. Code § 2341(a)]. If the motion for new trial is granted or the judgment is reversed, the judgment of dissolution will not become final [see Fam. Code § 2341(a)]. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, however, the filing of an appeal or of a motion for new trial does not stay the effect of a judgment insofar as it relates to the dissolution of marriage status and restoring the parties to the status of unmarried persons unless (1) the appealing or moving party specifies in the notice of appeal or motion for new trial an objection to the termination of the marriage status and (2) that party also made the objection at trial [Fam. Code § 2341(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentMotions for New TrialsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceJurisdictionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
3. Judgment Of Dissolution Or Legal Separation

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.133

§ 221.133 Res Judicata

[1] Application to Judgment of Dissolution

The judgment of dissolution is a binding adjudication of the matters determined by it, including property, support, and attorney's fees awards. Once the judgment is final and the time for appeal has passed, the judgment on these matters is res judicata [Badillo v. Badillo (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 1009, 1011, 177 Cal. Rptr. 56] . Under the concept of "divisible divorce," however, the division of marital property need not be litigated in the proceeding brought to dissolve the marriage. Instead, controversies over matters collateral to the issue of the dissolution of marriage, such as the division of marital property, the custody of minor children, and, under appropriate circumstances, spousal support, may be litigated at a later date [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1048(b); Fam. Code § 2550; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.140; see, e.g., Irwin v. Irwin (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 317, 320, 138 Cal. Rptr. 9] .

In addition, by express statute, the court has continuing jurisdiction to award community assets or liabilities omitted from the judgment [Fam. Code § 2556]. See § 221.150 et seq. for discussion of postjudgment motions or orders to show cause to divide unadjudicated assets or liabilities.

[2] Not Applicable to Child Support and Custody Orders

Because they may be modified at any time on a showing of changed circumstances, the doctrine of res judicata is not applicable to the provisions of the judgment concerning child custody and child support [In re Marriage of Goodarzirad (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1020, 1025, 230 Cal. Rptr. 203 ; see Fam Code § 3651(a), (d) (modification of support order)]. In child support and custody matters, the court has continuing jurisdiction. The judgment of dissolution, as it relates to child support and custody, is not final; these matters remain pending, even after the court enters a judgment of dissolution [In re Marriage of Kreiss (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1082, 1084-1085, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 260] .

[3] Not Applicable to Spousal Support Orders

Generally, spousal support orders included in the judgment may be modified or terminated by the court, unless the parties have agreed otherwise [see Fam. Code §§ 3591, 3651(a), (d)]. See discussion of modification and termination of spousal support orders in Ch. 225, Dissolution of Marriage: Spousal Support .

[4] Not Applicable in Absence of Fair Hearing

The application of res judicata to bar relitigation of a decision presumes that the parties had a full and fair opportunity to litigate the issues determined by the judgment. That is, the judgment is not res judicata as against a party who, by fraud or other interference not of his or her creation, was prevented from fully presenting his or her case [see Worton v. Worton (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1638, 1649, 286 Cal. Rptr. 410] . Res judicata also has not prevented postdissolution litigation concerning the effect of one spouse's warranty in a marital agreement on which the other spouse relied in releasing an interest in a community asset [In re Marriage of Lane (1985) 165 Cal. App. 3d 1143, 1147, 211 Cal. Rptr. 262] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsRes JudicataFamily LawChild CustodyGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
3. Judgment Of Dissolution Or Legal Separation

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.134

§ 221.134 Community Property Division in Judgment

[1] Propriety of Immediate Division

Fam. Code § 2550 provides that "the court shall, either in its judgment of dissolution of the marriage ... or at a later time if it expressly reservesjurisdiction to make such a property division, divide the community estate of the parties equally." This language appears to permit a conclusive and immediate disposition of the community property in the judgment unless it is challenged by appeal, or jurisdiction is reserved to divide the property at a later date. Once a judgment of dissolution becomes effective, it normally will control in determining the true ownership of property distributed by the judgment, even if record title remains in the name of another person, assuming that no bona fide purchaser of the property is involved [see Buic v. Buic (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1600, 1604-1605, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 738] .

[2] Unadjudicated Community Property

The court has continuing jurisdiction to award community estate assets or community estate liabilities to the parties that have not been previously adjudicated by a judgment in the proceeding. The court's continuing jurisdiction over omitted community property assets or debts is invoked by a party's postjudgment motion or order to show cause in the family law proceeding [Fam. Code § 2556; see, e.g., In re Marriage of Graves (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1047, 1050, 1052, 244 Cal. Rptr. 110] . See Subpart D for discussion of these postjudgment motions or orders to show cause.

[3] Qualified Domestic Relations Orders (QDROs)

If a judgment divides pension or retirement benefits governed by the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA) [29 U.S.C. § 1001 et seq.], it must meet the requirements for a "qualified domestic relations order" (QDRO) [see 29 U.S.C. § 1056(d)(3)(B)(i)] to ensure recognition of, and payment pursuant to, the division by the involved employee benefit plan [see 29 U.S.C. §§ 1056(d)(3)(A), 1144(b)(7)]. For discussion of the requirements for a QDRO, and a form of stipulated QDRO that may be incorporated into a judgment of dissolution or legal separation, or into a marriage termination agreement, see Ch. 222, Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceJurisdictionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceJurisdictionDivisible DivorceFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral OverviewPensions & Benefits LawEmployee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA)Participation & VestingQualified Domestic Relations Orders

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
3. Judgment Of Dissolution Or Legal Separation

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.135

§ 221.135 Spousal Support in Judgment

[1] Temporary Support

An order for temporary spousal support is terminated by expiration under its own terms, issuance of a judgment [Wilson v. Superior Court (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 458, 462, 189 P.2d 266] , or dismissal [Moore v. Superior Court (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 804, 810, 87 Cal. Rptr. 620] . Temporary support payments not terminated by one of these three events continue to accrue even when the action is not being actively prosecuted, and payments that accrue before termination remain enforceable after termination [Moore v. Superior Court (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 804, 810, 87 Cal. Rptr. 620] .

[2] Permanent Support

An order for permanent spousal support terminates at the end of the period provided in the order, and may not be extended unless the court retains jurisdiction in the order or pursuant to the provisions for a marriage of long duration under Fam. Code § 4336. Under that section, in a marriage of long duration, the court retains jurisdiction over spousal support indefinitely, absent a written agreement of the parties or a court order terminating support [Fam. Code § 4336(a)]. The statute includes a presumption that ten years or more constitutes a marriage of long duration, but the court is not precluded from determining that a shorter marriage qualifies as of "long duration" [Fam. Code § 4336(b)].

A party's obligation under an order for the support of the other party terminates on the death of either party or the remarriage of the other party, except as otherwise agreed by the parties in writing [Fam. Code § 4337; In re Marriage of Cesnalis (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 1267, 1271-1276, 131 Cal. Rptr. 2d 436 (husband waived his rights under Fam. Code § 4337 by agreeing in stipulated judgment that wife's remarriage would not terminate her spousal support)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal

SupportDissolution & DivorceJurisdictionDivisible DivorceFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportObligationsPeriodic SupportFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportObligationsTemporary SupportFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
3. Judgment Of Dissolution Or Legal Separation

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.136

§ 221.136 Marital Settlement Agreements and Judgment

A marital settlement agreement is a document that exists separately from the Judicial Council form of Judgment [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-180]. The agreement may be incorporated into the judgment, and, once incorporated, may be either approved by the court as fair and equitable, or merged into the judgment. A judgment may be based on a marital settlement agreement in the case of either a default proceeding, or a proceeding based on the parties' stipulation for an uncontested judgment [see Flynn v. Flynn (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 55, 58, 265 P.2d 865] . The signature of a defaulting spouse on any marital settlement agreement must be notarized [Fam. Code § 2338.5(a)].

For discussion and forms relating to marital settlement agreements, see Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed., Chs. 211- 215 (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionProperty Settlements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
3. Judgment Of Dissolution Or Legal Separation

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.137

§ 221.137 Stipulated Judgment

The Rules of Court provide for a stipulation for judgment that is, in effect, a judgment of dissolution prepared on the mandatory Judicial Council judgment form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-180], and approved by both parties and their attorneys [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.116; see also Levy v. Superior Court (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 578, 580, 585-586, 41 Cal. Rptr. 2d 878, 896 P.2d 171] . The stipulation constitutes a written agreement between the parties with regard to all matters covered in the stipulated judgment [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.116(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 664.6]. If the stipulated judgment is entered into after one partyhas defaulted in the proceeding, the signature of the defaulting spouse must be notarized [Fam. Code § 2338.5(a)].

A stipulation for judgment may be submitted to the court for its signature at the time of the hearing on the merits of the proceeding and must contain the exact terms of any judgment to be entered in the case [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.116(a)]. The stipulation for judgment must also include a disposition of all matters subject to the court's jurisdiction for which a party seeks adjudication, or an explicit reservation of jurisdiction by the court over any matter not proposed for disposition at that time [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.116(b)].

A court may also enter a judgment for dissolution based on the parties' oral or written stipulation for settlement pursuant to the statutory provisions for settlement agreements in civil actions generally [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.6; see In re Marriage of Assemi (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 896, 906, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 265, 872 P.2d 1190 ; see also Levy v. Superior Court (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 578, 580, 585-586, 41 Cal. Rptr. 2d 878, 896 P.2d 171 (Code Civ. Proc. § 664.6 requires signature of parties in order for court to enter judgment pursuant to written settlement)]. Under these provisions, if the stipulation for settlement is oral, it must be made before the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.6]. An oral stipulation before an arbitrator who actually was fulfilling the role of a temporary judge supervising settlement negotiations meets this requirement [see In re Marriage of Assemi (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 896, 906, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 265, 872 P.2d 1190 (regardless of title, retired judge was serving as temporary judge in these circumstances)].

A judgment may not be entered based on a written settlement agreement unless the agreement has been signed by the parties. An agreement signed only by the parties' attorneys is insufficient [Levy v. Superior Court (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 578, 580, 585, 586, 41 Cal. Rptr. 2d 878, 896 P.2d 171 ; Williams v. Saunders (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 1158, 1163-1164, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 571] . In a multiparty action, in which some parties agreed to a settlement orally and some parties agreed to the settlement in writing, it was held that nothing in the statutory language suggests that all parties must agree to the settlement in the same manner. As long as the parties agree to the same material terms, be it orally or in writing, the purpose of Code Civ. Proc. § 664.6 is satisfied [Elyaoudayan v. Hoffman (2003) 104 Cal. App. 4th 1421, 1430, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 41] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
3. Judgment Of Dissolution Or Legal Separation

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.138

§ 221.138 Procedure for Obtaining Judgment

[1] Governing Law

In actions for dissolution of marriage, the court must file its decision and any statement of decision as in other cases [Fam. Code § 2338(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 632; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1590, 5.22]. If the court determines that a dissolution should be granted, a judgment of dissolution must be entered [Fam. Code § 2338(c)].

[2] Submission and Signing of Proposed Judgment

When a written statement of decision is requested in a contested proceeding, a copy of a proposed judgment of dissolution must be submitted to the court and served with the proposed statement of decision [see Fam. Code § 2338 (statement of decision); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(c) (preparation and service of proposed statement of decision and judgment), Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(h) (rule as not applying when trial completed within one day)]. The proposed judgment that is submitted to the court and served on the parties with the proposed statement of decision must be on the mandatory Judicial Council printed form of judgment of dissolution of marriage [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-180]. For an illustrative Judicial Council form of judgment, see § 221.392.

In a contested dissolution in which a written statement of decision is not required, the time within which a proposed judgment must be prepared depends on the reason a statement is not required. When a statement of decision is not required because it is not requested, the court must prepare and mail a proposed judgment to all parties who appeared at the trial within 10 days after the expiration of the time for requesting a statement of decision; if not required because it has been waived, the court must prepare and mail a proposed judgment to all parties who appeared at the trial within 10 days of the time of waiver [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(e)].

Instead of preparing the proposed judgment itself, the court in a contested proceeding in which a statement of a decision is not required may notify the counsel for a party to prepare a proposed judgment. In such cases, counsel has 10 days after notice to prepare, serve on opposing counsel, and submit to the court for approval a proposed judgment of dissolution of marriage [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(e)].

See § 221.10 et seq. for discussion of submission and signing of proposed judgments in uncontested proceedings.

[3] Objections to Proposed Judgment; Signing and Filing

In a contested dissolution proceeding in which written findings are not required, any party affected by the judgment may serve and file objections to it within 10 days after service of the proposed judgment on him or her [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(e)]. The court may order a hearing on the objections [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(f)]. Within 10 days after expiration of the time for filing objections to the proposed judgment or, if a hearing is held, within 10 days after the hearing, the court must sign and file its judgment of dissolution of marriage [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(e)].

[4] Service of Final Declaration of Disclosure

Absent good cause, no judgment shall be entered regarding the parties' propertyrights without each party having executed and served a copy of the final declaration of disclosure and current income and expense declaration, unless the parties have stipulated to waive the requirements for the final declaration, or the court for good cause has dispensed with those requirements. Each party must execute and file with the court a declaration stating, under penalty of perjury, that service of these documents was made on the other party, or that service of the final declaration has been waived [Fam. Code § 2106]. For further discussion of the final declaration of disclosure and applicable forms, see § 221.40 et seq.

[5] Entry of Judgment

Once the judgment is signed by the court and filed with the court clerk, the clerk must immediately enter the signed judgment in the the court's records [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 664, 668, 668.5]. There is no record of a judgment until it is entered by the clerk [see Brown v. Barham (1966) 242 Cal. App. 2d 696, 702, 51 Cal. Rptr. 718] .

[6] Notice of Entry of Judgment

[a] Notice to Parties

The party who submits a judgment for signature by the court must also submit the following [Fam. Code § 2338.5(c); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.136(a)]:

(1) An original and at least two copies of the Judicial Council form of notice of entry of judgment [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-190]; and

(2) Two stamped envelopes addressed to the parties, with the court clerk's address listed as the return address.

For an illustrative reproduction of the form, see § 221.393.

Once the judgment has been signed and entered in the court records, the clerk of the court must give notice of entry of judgment to the attorney for each party to the proceeding, or to the party directly if he or she is self-represented [Fam. Code § 2338.5(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.134(a)]. The court will use the notice forms and envelopes supplied by the attorney submitting the judgment for signature to give notice of entry of the judgment.

[b] Notice to Insurer

Notice to a health, life, or disability insurer may be necessary when a judgment is entered in a proceeding for dissolution, legal separation, or annulment that requires a party to do either of the following [Fam. Code § 2051]:

(1) Maintain existing health, life, or disability insurance coverage for a spouse or children; or

(2) Purchase life or disability insurance and name the spouse or children as beneficiaries.

A party may give the notice, or the court may order that notice be given [Fam. Code § 2051]. On receipt of the name, title, and address of the insurer, or the name of the plan's trustee, administrator, or agent for service of process, a party may transmit to, or the court may order transmittal to, the insurer or plan a copy of the judgment endorsed by the court, together with a notice substantially in the form set forth in Fam. Code § 2051.

Because the statute does not specify the method by which the notice should be "transmitted" to the carrier [see Fam. Code § 2051], it appears that it may be sent in accordance with the Code of Civil Procedure provisions generally applicable to notices in legal proceedings, including service by mail [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1010 et seq.].

For a form notice to insurer, see § 221.394.

[7] Judgment of Legal Separation

The superior court may enter a judgment of legal separation of the parties to a marriage on the same grounds as those for dissolution of the marriage [see Fam. Code § 2310; see also discussion in § 221.10 et seq.]. Both parties must consent to entry of a judgment of legal separation before the court may render judgment. Absent both parties' consent, the court may not enter a judgment of legal separation unless one party has not made a general appearance in the proceeding and the petition is for legal separation and not for dissolution of marriage [Fam. Code § 2345].

A judgment of legal separation of the parties must be prepared and submitted to the court on the same form prescribed by the Judicial Council for judgments of dissolution of marriage [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-180].

There is no waiting period before a judgment of legal separation becomes final, as there is for a judgment of dissolution; the decree of legal separation is effective immediately on entry [cf. Fam. Code §§ 2333, 2339].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsBench TrialsCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal Separation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Dismissals And Judgments
3. Judgment Of Dissolution Or Legal Separation

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 221.139-221.149

[Reserved]

§§ 221.139[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.150

§ 221.150 Motion for New Trial

[1] Availability in Family Code Proceeding

The procedures for seeking a new trial in a civil action after an adverse judgment apply to and may be invoked by a party to any proceeding under the Family Code [see Fam. Code § 210 (in absence of Judicial Council rule or other statutory provision, rules of practice and procedure governing civil actions generally apply to proceedings under Family Code); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.22 (same)]. A motion for new trial is proper whether the judgment being attacked by the motion is based on law or facts or both. For purposes of a motion for new trial, a hearing on a motion may in some cases be regarded as a trial if a decision was reached on the merits of opposing claims after presentation of evidence and legal argument [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Beilock (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 713, 720-721, 146 Cal. Rptr. 675] .

However, a party may not file and serve a notice of intention to move for a new trial when the court has merely entered a "tentative decision." A tentative decision does not constitute a judgment and is not binding on the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(a); In re Marriage of Hafferkamp (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 789, 793-794, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 761 ; see § 221.232[8]].

[2] Grounds for New Trial Motion

A motion for new trial in a family law proceeding must be made on any of the following six statutory grounds [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 657, 657.1; see also Fomco, Inc. v. Joe Maggio, Inc. (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 162, 166, 10 Cal. Rptr. 462, 358 P.2d 918 (trial court has no discretionary power to grant motion)]:

> (1) Irregularity in the proceedings of the court or adverse party, or any order of the court, or abuse of discretion by which either party was prevented from having a fair trial; [see Christie v. City of El Centro (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 767, 780-781, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 718 (judge's misconduct is irregularity in proceedings, including judge's discussion of case with previously disqualified judge); Travelers Cas. & Sur. Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 1131, 1145, 24 Cal. Rptr. 3d 751 (under Code Civ. Proc. § 1775.12 and Evid. Code § 1128, any reference to mediation during subsequent proceedings is irregularity in proceedings and grounds for new trial)]

(2) Accident or surprise that ordinary prudence could not have guarded against [see In re Marriage of Liu (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 143, 154-155, 242 Cal. Rptr. 649] ;

(3) Newly discovered evidence material to the party making the application that he or she could not with reasonable diligence have discovered and produced at the trial [see Sherman v. Kinetic Concepts, Inc. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 1152, 1161, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 641 ; In re Marriage of Liu (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 143, 153, 242 Cal. Rptr. 649] ;

(4) Insufficiency of the evidence to justify the court's decision, or the decision is "against law";

(5) Error in law occurring at the trial and excepted to by the party moving for a new trial; and/or

(6) Impossibility of transcription of the reporter's record of the trial due to the reporter's death or disability, or to loss or destruction of the record before transcription.

The parties are not entitled to a new trial based on their failure to exchange final declarations of disclosure absent a showing of a miscarriage of justice [In re Marriage of Steiner & Hosseini (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 519, 522, 528, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 671] .

An appellate court will rarely disturb an order granting a new trial, and then only on a clear showing of abuse of discretion [In re Marriage of Beilock (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 713, 728, 146 Cal. Rptr. 675] . On appeal from an order granting a new trial, the order generally will be affirmed if it should have been granted on any ground stated in the motion for new trial regardless of whether that ground is specified in the order granting the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 657; see In re Marriage of Beilock (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 713, 727-728, 146 Cal. Rptr. 675] .

For further discussion of and forms of motion for a new trial, see Ch. 371, Motions After Trial, § 371.60 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentMotions for New TrialsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.151

§ 221.151 Motion to Vacate Judgment and Enter Different Judgment

[1] Grounds for Motion

A judgment or decree based on a decision of the court may be set aside and vacated on motion of the aggrieved party and another and different judgment entered when there was an incorrect or erroneous legal basis for the decision, not consistent with or not supported by the facts [Code Civ. Proc. § 663; Craven v. Crout (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 779, 782-783, 209 Cal. Rptr. 649] . Such a judgment is, of course, subject to reversal on appeal, but a motion to vacate is a quicker and less expensive remedy. The moving party must show the inconsistency materially affected his or her substantial rights and entitled him or her to a different judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 663; cf. In re Marriage of Jones (1998) 60 Cal. App. 4th 685, 694, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 542 (court not required to vacate dissolution judgment for party's failure to execute and serve final disclosure declaration before trial; judgment reversible only if reasonably probable that more favorable result would have been reached absent erroneous entry of judgment contrary to disclosure statute)].

The party intending to make a motion to vacate a judgment and have another judgment entered must timely file and serve a notice of intention to do so that should designate the grounds on which the motion will be made and specify the particulars in which the legal basis for the decision is not consistent or supported by the facts, or in which the judgment or decree is not consistent with the special verdict [Code Civ. Proc. § 663a].

For general forms pertaining to motions to vacate a judgment under Code Civ.Proc. §§ 663 and 663a that may be adapted for use in a family law proceeding, see Ch. 371, Motions After Trial, § 371.90 et seq.

[2] Ruling on Motion to Vacate

Ordinarily, the judge who presided at the trial is the judge who hears and determines a motion to vacate judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 663 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1602]. When the motion is granted, the court must vacate and set aside the judgment already entered, and also enter another and different judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 663]. Thus, in a case in which the trial court made an order granting the motion and vacating the judgment already entered without directing the entry of a new and different judgment, the court's order was void [see, e.g., Dolan v. Superior Court (1920) 47 Cal.

App. 235, 241, 190 P. 469] .

An order granting a motion to vacate a judgment and enter another and different judgment may be reviewed on appeal in the same manner as a special order made after final judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 663a; cf. In re Marriage of Wickander (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1364, 1367, 232 Cal. Rptr. 621 (special order after judgment as probably not subject to motion to vacate); but see Philippine Export & Foreign Loan Guarantee Corp. v. Chuidian (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1058, 1076, 267 Cal. Rptr. 457 (denial will be affirmed if any applicable ground will sustain order of denial)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentMotions to VacateFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.152

§ 221.152 Motion to Set Aside Default and Default Judgment

[1] Improper Service of Summons

The respondent's default cannot be entered unless he or she fails to enter an appearance within the time permitted to respond to the petition [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.122(a)], which ordinarily is 30 days from the date of service of a copy of the petition and summons [Fam. Code § 2020]. Thus, a respondent's default may not be entered, nor may judgment be entered by reason of his or her default, if he or she enters a general appearance or unless has been properly served with a copy of the summons and petition in the proceedings and the court acquires jurisdiction [see Fam. Code § 2020; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.122(a); Sakaguchi v. Sakaguchi (2009) 173 Cal. App. 4th 852, 858, 92 Cal. Rptr. 3d 717 (compliance with statutory requirements for service of summons is prerequisite to valid default judgment). A default that is entered prematurely (i.e., before the expiration of the respondent's time to plead) is invalid, and any judgment entered on the invalid default is void [see Schwab v. Southern Cal. Gas Co. (2004) 114 Cal. App. 4th 1308, 1320, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 627] .

For further discussion of service of summons and the entry of defaults in uncontested family law proceedings, see § 221.10 et seq.

[2] Violation of Servicemembers Civil Relief Act and Related California Law

Even if the summons and petition are properly served on the respondent, he or she may be able to have a default set aside for violation of the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act (50 U.S.C. App. § 501 et seq.). Under this Act, the judge in an action or proceeding in any court involving a person in military service must stay the proceedings on application of the person in military service or on its own motion unless the ability of the plaintiff to prosecute the action or the defendant to conduct his or her defense is not materially affected by reason of his or her military service [50 U.S.C. App. § 522(b); see George P. v. Superior Court (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 216, 223-226, 24 Cal. Rptr. 3d 919 (90-day stay of proceedings is required, but it is within judge's discretion to grant motion for additional stay); Louis J. v. Superior Court (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 711, 716, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 26 (judge may deny stay when purpose of request for stay is not to postpone hearing until service member is free to attend and participate in hearing, but is instead to give service member time to be in better position to contest or respond to proceedings); Christine M. v. Superior Court (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1233, 1244-1245, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 220 (in dependency proceeding, court properly denied request for stay by father who was in military because he never expressed any intent to act as parent to child who was subject of proceeding)]. The Act also requires that before any default judgment may be entered, including a case in state court, the plaintiff must file an affidavit setting forth facts showing the defendant is not in military service, or the court itself must order the default judgment entered [50 U.S.C. App. § 521(b)(1); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.124; see also Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-165]. Furthermore, the court must appoint an attorney to represent a defendant in military service before it can order a default judgment entered [50 U.S.C. App. § 521(b)(2)].

For further discussion and forms relating to the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act, see Ch. 489, Relief From Judgments and Orders .

In addition to the federal act, California legislation contains protections from defaults for persons called into active military service [see Mil. & Vet. Code § 400 et seq. (applicable to reservists and National Guard members called to active service)]. It provides, in part, for:

- A declaration that must be filed in every action or proceeding concerning a respondent's military service status (with attendant protections if the respondent is on active duty) [see Mil. & Vet. Code § 402(a), (c)];

- Reopening a judgment within a limited time period to allow a service member to defend an action if he or she was prejudiced by the military service and the application to reopen states a meritorious or legal defense (however, rights of bona fide purchasers for value are not to be impaired)[see Mil. & Vet. Code § 402(d)];

- Stay of an action or proceeding in which a service member is involved, unless the petitioner's ability to bring the action or the respondent's ability to conduct a defense is not materially affected by the military service [see Mil. & Vet. Code § 403(a)];

- Stay of the execution of a judgment or order, or vacation or stay of any attachment or garnishment of property, money, or debts in another's hands, unless the ability of the service member to comply is not materially affected by the military service [see Mil. & Vet. Code § 403(c)]; and

- Permitting a service member to apply for relief (during the period of service or within six months thereafter) from any obligation or liability incurred prior to his or her period of military service or regarding any tax or assessment, whether coming due before or during the service period [see Mil. & Vet. Code § 409.3(a)]. This last provision does not permit a service member to obtain a delay, deferment, or stay of an obligation to pay child support; but the service member retains the right to (1) seek a modification of a child support order due to a reduction in income resulting from the order to active service, or (2) to seek the imposition of a special statutory limit (six percent) on interest on obligations, including on arrearages in child support payments existing prior to the order to enter into active service [see Mil. & Vet. Code §§ 405, 409.3(a), (c)].

[3] Mistake, Inadvertence, Surprise, or Excusable Neglect

The court, on such as may be just, may relieve a party, or his or her legal representative, from an adverse judgment, dismissal, order, or other proceeding on the grounds of mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b); see, e.g., In re Marriage of Hock & Gordon-Hock (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 1438, 1443-1444, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 546 (mandatory relief provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b) applies when circumstances of case are procedural equivalent of default)]. Relief from default is mandatory when an affidavit of fault by the defaulting party's attorney is filed, even if the attorney's neglect was inexcusable [Solv-All v. Superior Court (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 1003, 1008, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 202] . The mandatory relief provision applies, when the error resulting in the default was made by a paralegal and not the attorney; a paralegal's mistake is attributable to the attorney who is responsible for supervising the paralegal [Hu v. Fang (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 61, 64-65, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 756]. Mandatory relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b) is available when the attorney's action or inaction caused the default, even when the client was also at fault [SJP Ltd. Partnership v. City of Los Angeles (2006) 136 Cal. App. 4th 511, 519-520, 39 Cal. Rptr. 3d 55] . A judge may deny relief only if the judge finds that the default was not in fact the attorney's fault, for example, when the attorney is simply covering up for the client [Rodrigues v. Superior Court (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 1027, 1033, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 194] .

Relief under the discretionary provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b) is available only on a showing by a preponderance of the evidence that the failure to file a timely responsive pleading was reasonable when tested by an objective, reasonably prudent person standard [see Renteria v. Juvenile Justice, Dept. of Corrections and Rehabilitation (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 903, 909-910, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 777 ("excusable neglect" means act or omission that might be expected of prudent person under similar circumstances)].

Ordinarily an application for relief from a default judgment for mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect is made by notice of motion served on counsel for plaintiff or petitioner and filed with the court. Service must be made on the party, however, if the motion is made after entry of a judgment decreeing the dissolution of the marriage or the legal separation of the parties, or after a declaration of void or voidable marriage or paternity, or after a permanent order in any other proceeding in which the custody or support of a minor child was at issue [Fam. Code § 215; see In re Marriage of Kreiss (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1033, 1036-1039, 274 Cal. Rptr. 226 ; but see In re Marriage of Askren (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 205, 203 Cal. Rptr. 606 (statutory provision for service on party personally does not prevent service of post-decree show cause orders on respondent's attorney of record when attorney had just moved to terminate support on behalf of out-of-state respondent and respondent personally appeared at hearing on orders; representation difficulties that statute enacted to eliminate were not present and respondent waived any defects in service by personal appearance)].

A Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b) motion is within the group of motions for which an extension of time to file an appeal from an underlying judgment may be authorized under the California Rules of Court. But in order to extend the jurisdictional time for filing a notice of appeal from an underlying judgment, the Section 473(b) motion must itself have been timely in the context of the Court Rules. Accordingly, although Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b) provides that a motion under that statute must be made "within a reasonable time, not exceeding six months after the judgment," in order to also extend the time for filing a notice of appeal from the underlying judgment the Section 473(b) motion must be filed within the more limited parameters of the Rules of Court--that is, within the usual 60-day period from mailing or service of entry of judgment. Thus, the outside time limit for filing a notice of appeal remains 180 days after entry of judgment in all cases; and authorized extensions of the filing period will not extend the appeal deadline beyond this limit [In re Marriage of Eben-King & King (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 92, 113, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 113 ; see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 8.104, 8.108].

For general discussion and forms pertaining to Section 473(b) motions that maybe adapted for use in a family law proceeding, see Ch. 489, Relief From Judgments and Orders .

If relief is sought from a family law judgment after the six-month time limit for relief specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b), has passed, the motion must be made on the grounds and within the time limits provided in Fam. Code § 2120 et seq., as discussed in § 221.153 [Fam. Code §§ 2120(d), 2121(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedurePretrial JudgmentsDefaultDefault JudgmentsCivil ProcedurePretrial JudgmentsDefaultRelief From DefaultFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.153

§ 221.153 Family Code Motion to Set Aside Judgment

[1] Availability

Equitable motions to set aside a judgment concerning support or the division of property in a family law proceeding are governed by Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. In proceedings for dissolution of marriage, for nullity of marriage, or for legal separation of the parties, the court may, on any terms that may be just, relieve a spouse from a judgment, or any part or parts of the judgment, adjudicating support or division of property, after the six-month time limit of Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b), has run, based on the grounds and within the time limits provided in Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. [Fam. Code § 2121(a); see Fam. Code § 2120 (legislative findings and declarations regarding finality of and relief from judgments); In re marriage of Kieturakis (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 56, 87, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 119 (after expiration of six-month time limit of Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b), party is limited to grounds for relief specified in Fam. Code § 2122); see § 221.152[3]].

The provisions of Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. apply to judgments entered on or after January 1, 1993 [Fam. Code § 2129]. These statutory provisions effectively preempt a large body of prior case law allowing equitable set-aside relief in cases of extrinsic fraud [see Fam. Code §§ 2120, 2121(a); cf. Hoversten v. Superior Court (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 636, 640, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 197 ; In re Marriage of Stevenot (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 1051, 202 Cal. Rptr. 116] . However, because of the operative date of Fam. Code § 2120 et seq., prior law will continue to have importance with respect to pre-1993 judgments [see, e.g., Kuehn v. Kuehn (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 824, 831-833, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 743 (dissolution judgment entered in 1990 was not subject to Fam. Code § 2120 et seq.; thus plaintiff successfully pled under traditional rules of equitable set-aside that defendant had prevented her from fully presenting her case by telling her that his counsel represented them both); In re Marriage of Grissom (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 40, 48-50, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 530 (decided on basis of traditional analysis of extrinsic fraud); see also Dale v. Dale (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1172, 1179, 1179 n.5, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 513 (permitting postjudgment tort action to go forward for 1988 judgment, but declining to rule on effect of Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. on efficacy of such action for judgments entered on or after January 1, 1993)].

[2] Preliminary Finding of Materiality

Before granting relief under Fam. Code § 2120 et seq., the court must find that the facts alleged as the grounds for relief materially affected the original outcome and that the moving party would materially benefit from the granting of the relief [Fam. Code § 2121(b)].

[3] Grounds and Time Limits for Set-Aside Motion

The exclusive grounds and applicable time limits for a motion to set aside a judgment, or any part or parts of a judgment, are as follows [Fam. Code §§ 2121(a), 2122; see In re Marriage of Rosevear (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 673, 684, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 691 (Fam. Code § 2122 sets out exclusive grounds and time limits for motion to set aside marital dissolution judgment)]:

- Actual fraud if the defrauded party was kept in ignorance or in some other manner, other than his or her own lack of care or attention, was fraudulently prevented from fully participating in the proceeding. An action or motion based on fraud must be brought within one year after the date on which the complaining party either did discover, or should have discovered, the fraud, but not when a party merely begins to suspect the fraud [Rubenstein v. Rubenstein (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1131, 1148-1149, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 707 ; but cf. Kuehn v. Kuehn (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 824, 830-831, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 743 (judgment made before January 1, 1993, was not subject to one-year time limitation of Family Code; plaintiff brought her equitable set aside action with reasonable diligence after learning of defendant's fraud seven years after dissolution judgment)];

- Perjury. An action or motion based on perjury in the preliminary or final declaration of disclosure [see Fam. Code § 2100 et seq.] or in the current income and expense statement [see Fam. Code § 3664; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150] must be brought within one year after the date on which the complaining party either did discover, or should have discovered, the perjury;

- Duress. An action or motion based on duress must be brought within two years after the date of entry of judgment;

- Mental incapacity [cf. Zastrow v. Zastrow (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 710, 716, 132 Cal. Rptr. 536] . An action or motion based on mental incapacity must be brought within two years after the date of entry of judgment; or

- Mistake, either mutual or unilateral, whether mistake of law or mistake of fact, regarding stipulated or uncontested judgments or that part of a judgment stipulated to by the parties [Fam. Code § 2122(e); In reMarriage of Brewer and Federici (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 1334, 1346-1349, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 849 (mistake of fact); In re Marriage of Fell (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 1058, 1063, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 522 (mistake of law on face of disclosure declarations); In re Marriage of Varner (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 128, 144, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 (failure to disclose existence or value of community asset is basis for set aside on grounds of mistake)]. However, subsequent changes in the law that cause a prior division of assets or liabilitites to become inequitable or a prior award of support to become inadequate would probably not allow a set-aside based on mistake [see Fam. Code § 2123; In re Marriage of Alexander (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 677, 681, 261 Cal. Rptr. 9 ; cf. In re Marriage of Olsen (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 1702,1706-1707, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 306 (case law prior to enactment of Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. allowed equitable set-aside of 1989 order terminating spousal support without retaining jurisdiction when unforeseen amendment to federal law on military retirement benefits destroyed effect of order); see § 221.153[4]]. An action or motion based on mistake must be brought within one year after the date of entry of judgment.

- Failure to comply with the disclosure requirements of Fam. Code §§ 2100-2113.

The motion must be brought within the time appropriate to the ground alleged, or be forever barred, notwithstanding the fact that, under prior law, the passage of time could affect the right to equitable set-aside relief only when laches was asserted as a defense when the moving party had unreasonably delayed seeking relief [see In re Marriage of Modnick (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 897, 911, 191 Cal. Rptr. 629, 663 P.2d 187] .

An illustrative form of declaration in support of a motion to set aside a judgment under Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. is set forth in see § 221.410.

[4] Ruling on Set-Aside Motion

When ruling on an action or motion to set aside a judgment, the court must set aside only those provisions materially affected by the circumstances leading to the court's decision to grant relief. However, the court has discretion to set aside the entire judgment, if necessary, for equitable considerations [Fam. Code § 2125; see In re Marriage of Brewer and Federici (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 1334, 1346-1349, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 849 (stipulated dissolution judgment and marital settlement agreement set aside based on husband's unilateral mistake, because wife undervalued her pension plans)]. As applied to declarations of disclosure, a court may limit the set aside to those portions of the judgment that were materially affected by the nondisclosure [Fam. Code § 2105(c); see In re Marriage of McLaughlin (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 327, 336-337, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 136 (judgment must be set aside for failure to comply with disclosure requirements only when complaining party demonstrates miscarriage of justice); see also In re Marriage of Fell (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 1058, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 522] .

Notwithstanding any other provision of Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. or any other law, a judgment may not be set aside simply because the court finds that it was inequitable when made, nor simply because subsequent circumstances caused the division of assets or liabilities to become inequitable, or the support to become inadequate [Fam. Code § 2123; see In re Marriage of Heggie (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 28, 33, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 707 ; In re Marriage of Rosevear (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 673, 684, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 691 ; In re Marriage of Alexander (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 677, 681, 261 Cal. Rptr. 9 ; cf. In re Marriage of Olsen (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 1702, 1706-1707, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 306 (case law prior to enactment of Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. allowed equitable set-aside of 1989 order terminating spousal support without retaining jurisdiction when unforeseen amendment to federal law on military retirement benefits destroyed effect of order)].

The negligence of an attorney is not imputed to a client to bar an order setting aside a judgment unless the court finds that the client knew, or should have known, of the attorney's negligence and unreasonably failed to protect himself or herself [Fam. Code § 2124]. However, attorney negligence is not, itself, one of the specified grounds for setting aside a judgment. Thus, even though an attorney's negligence is not imputed to a client so as to bar an order setting aside a judgment, there must otherwise be a basis for the set aside under Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. [In re Marriage of Rosevear (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 673, 686, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 691] .

If a timely request is made, the court must render a statement of decision when the court has resolved controverted factual evidence [Fam. Code § 2127; see discussion of statements of decision in § 221.110 et seq.].

[5] Property Division After Set-Aside

Once a judgment or part of a judgment has been set aside, the date of valuation for the affected assets and liabilities is "subject to equitable considerations" [Fam. Code § 2126]. Thus, the assets and liabilities subject to the set-aside judgment need not be valued as of the date of the new trial. As to the assets and liabilities subject to the set-aside, the court must make an equal division, unless it finds on good cause shown that the interests of justice require an unequal division [Fam. Code § 2126].

[6] Other Rights and Remedies Unaffected

Nothing in Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. prohibits a party from seeking relief under Fam. Code § 2556 [Fam. Code § 2128(a)], which gives the court continuing jurisdiction to divide assets or liabilities left unadjudicated by thejudgment, rather then seeking to have the judgment set aside [see Fam. Code § 2556, and discussion in § 221.156[1] et seq.]. A family law court is also not restricted from acting as a court of equity [Fam. Code § 2128(c)].

Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. applies only to relief from a judgment. When a marital settlement agreement has not been merged or incorporated into a judgment, relief from the agreement is available under conventional contract remedies [see Fam. Code § 2128(b)]. Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. does not address what happens when the marital settlement agreement has been merged or incorporated into the judgment. Under judicial precedent, in such a situation the moving party must specifically request that both the judgment and the underlying agreement be vacated [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Testa (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 319, 322, 196 Cal. Rptr. 780] .

Furthermore, nothing in Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. limits existing law with respect to modification or enforcement of support orders [Fam. Code § 2128(d); see discussion of modification of orders in § 221.180 et seq., and discussion of enforcement in Ch. 258, Family Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies, and Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement].

The rights of an aggrieved spouse seeking equitable set-aside of a property judgment lie solely against the other spouse. Intervening lessees, purchasers, or encumbrancers who acquire the parties' community or quasi-community real property for value and without notice of adverse claims are unaffected by a proceeding to set aside a judgment under Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. [see Fam. Code § 2128(e)].

[7] Appeal Period Not Extended

The provisions of Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. do not operate to supersede the rules governing the timing of a notice of appeal, or to extend the period for filing a notice of appeal from a family law judgment or order [In re Marriage of Eben-King & King (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 92, 109, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 113] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureEquityReliefCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureAppealsReviewabilityTime LimitationsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.154

§ 221.154 Postjudgment Tort Action for Concealment of Community Assets

One reported decision has held that in the absence of a pending marital dissolution proceeding, a plaintiff who contends that he or she suffered injury as the result of tortious concealment of community assets--thereby preventing the plaintiff from fully presenting his or her case in the dissolution proceeding--may bring a subsequent tort action based on the alleged concealment [Dale v. Dale (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1172, 1175, 1187, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 513] . That court, however, expressly declined to rule on the effect of Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. on the availability of such a tort remedy, because the judgment at issue was entered in 1988, and the provisions of Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. apply to judgments entered on or after January 1, 1993, as discussed in § 221.156[1] [Dale v. Dale (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1172, 1179, 1179 n.5, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 513] .

However, the effect of Dale has been severely eroded by subsequent case law. One appellate court expressly declined to follow Dale as it "clearly was a major departure from existing law." That case held that if a dissolution judgment is obtained by extrinsic fraud, such as the concealment of community assets, the only remedy available to the plaintiff is to seek equitable relief to vacate the judgment, not to sue in tort [Kuehn v. Kuehn, (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 824, 834, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 743] . And another case held that a tort remedy applies, if at all, only with respect to judgments entered before January 1, 1993--the operative date of the remedies provided under Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. [Rubenstein v. Rubenstein (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1131, 1146-1148, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 707] . In the face of these decisions, the viability of a separate tort action for concealment of community assets appears increasingly tenuous. The issue appears ripe for consideration by the California Supreme Court.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureEquityReliefCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral OverviewTortsBusiness TortsFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.155

§ 221.155 Motion for Relief From Void Judgment or Order

[1] Availability

A void judgment is a judgment in excess of jurisdiction or without the requisite personal jurisdiction over the respondent. Default judgments often may be voided for either of these reasons[see Ellard v. Conway (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 540, 544, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 399 (default judgment entered against respondent who was not served with summons in manner prescribed by statute is void)]. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 473(d), the court has the power to vacate any void judgment or order, on the noticed motion of either party [see, e.g., Marriage of Goodarzirad (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1020, 1028-1030, 230 Cal. Rptr. 203] . The motion also may be made under the equitable power of the court to set aside judgments for actual fraud, duress, or one of the other grounds specified in Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. [see § 221.153[3] et seq.].

For general discussion and forms pertaining to motions to set aside void judgments and orders that may be adapted for use in a family law proceeding, see Ch. 489, Relief From Judgments and Orders .

[2] Grounds for Relief From Void Judgment or Order

Proper grounds for relief include lack of jurisdiction [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Jackson (2006) 136 Cal. App. 4th 980, 988, 39 Cal. Rptr. 3d 365] , bias of the trial judge [see, e.g., Christie v. City of El Centro (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 767, 776-780, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 718] , and unconstitutionality of the judgment [see, e.g., County of Ventura v. Tillett (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 105, 112-113, 183 Cal. Rptr. 741 , disapproved on other grounds, County of Los Angeles v. Soto (1984) 35 Cal.3d 483, 492 n.4, 198 Cal. Rptr. 779, 674 P.2d 750] .

Once a party has appeared in the action, the court may not enter that party's default for his or her failure to appear at trial [Garamendi v. Golden Eagle Ins. Co. (2004) 116 Cal. App. 4th 694, 705, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 724] . Any judgment entered on the default is void and subject to expungement at any time on the party's motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 473(d) or by virtue of the court's inherent power to vacate a judgment or order that is void on its face [Heidary v. Yadollahi (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 857, 862-864] .

A default that is entered prematurely (i.e., before the expiration of the respondent's time to plead) is invalid, and any judgment entered on the invalid default is void [see Schwab v. Southern Cal. Gas Co. (2004) 114 Cal. App. 4th 1308, 1320, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 627] .

[3] Time Limits When Judgment or Order Void on Face or Void in Fact

A void judgment may be set aside at any time, and is not subject to the six-month time limitation of Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b) [Heidary v. Yadollahi (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 857, 862, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 695 ; Hoversten v. Superior Court (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 636, 640, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 197 (apart from statutory authority, court has inherent power to correct its judgment or to vacate void judgment)].

When a motion is brought for relief from a default judgment valid on its face but otherwise void for improper service, the time limits set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 473.5(a) apply by analogy [see Rogers v. Silverman (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 1114, 1121-1123, 265 Cal. Rptr. 286] .

For further discussion of time limitations on motions under Code Civ. Proc. § 473(d), see Ch. 489, Relief From Judgments and Orders .

[4] Nonstatutory Motion to Vacate Void Judgment

In addition to a motion to vacate a void judgment pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 473(d), a nonstatutory motion to vacate a void judgment also appears to exist, such as one that is not accompanied by a statement of decision, which may be stricken on the motion of a party made before the judgment is entered. The court may then vacate the judgment, issue the required statement of decision, and enter the new judgment. The court may set aside a wholly void judgment even though an appeal is pending, although the appeal would ordinarily deprive the trial court of jurisdiction over the matter [In re Marriage of McNaughton (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 845, 849, 194 Cal. Rptr. 176] .

[5] Collateral Attack on Void Judgment

A void judgment may be ignored and attacked later in a separate, collateral proceeding, so that it may be unnecessary to move to set aside the judgment. If title to real property is involved, however, it may be advisable to move to set aside the judgment to clear title to the property. Furthermore, a collateral attack may be based only on the judgment roll or on matters admitted by the parties [Phelan v. Superior Court (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 363, 372-373, 217 P.2d 951] . Therefore, if the collateral attack will be based on extrinsic evidence, a motion to set aside the void judgment is required.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJurisdictionPersonal Jurisdiction & In Rem ActionsIn Personam ActionsChallengesCivil ProcedureEquityReliefCivil ProcedurePretrial JudgmentsDefaultRelief From DefaultCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentIndependent ActionsCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentVoid Judgments

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.156

§ 221.156 Postjudgment Motion or Order to Show Cause to Divide Unadjudicated Property

[1] Availability

In a proceeding for dissolution of marriage, legal separation, or nullity of marriage, the court has continuing jurisdiction to award community estate assets or community estate liabilities to the parties that have not been previously adjudicated by a judgment in that proceeding. Thus, a party may file a postjudgment motion or order to show cause in the proceeding to obtain adjudication of any community estate asset or debt omitted or not adjudicated by the judgment. The court must equally divide the omitted or unadjudicated community asset or debt, unless the court finds on good cause shown that the interests of justice require an unequal division [Fam. Code § 2556].

An increase in the value of a party's pension benefit does not constitute an unadjudicated asset within the meaning of Fam. Code § 2556 when the other party agreed to accept a specified amount of the pension benefit [In re Simundza (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 1513, 1517-1522, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 377] . When a party has agreed to accept a specified percentage of the other party's pension benefit and the value of the benefit is significantly higher than it had been estimated to be at the time the stipulated judgment was entered, the amount constituting the difference between the actual benefit value and the lower estimated benefit value constitutes an omitted asset to be divided by the court [In re Marriage of Melton (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 931, 935-936, 939, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 761] .

An illustrative form of declaration in support of a motion to divide unadjudicated community estate assets and liabilities is set forth in see § 221.411. For a blank form of order to show cause [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-300], or forms of notice of motion [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-301] and application for order and supporting declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310], which may be used to request division of unadjudicated property, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Judicial Council Forms Volumes, Vol. II, Part F (Matthew Bender).

[2] Hearing on Application Regarding Unadjudicated Property

A hearing on the order to show cause or motion to award previouslyunadjudicated community assets or liabilities [see Fam. Code § 2556] generally follows the procedure for other postjudgment proceedings, such as modification proceedings. Because there may be extensive evidence to present, the time needed for the hearing may exceed that established by the court for the "short cause" calendar onto which the matter may have been placed, however, and the parties should be prepared to request a longer hearing and ascertain from the court whether the matter is required to be specially set under the local court rules. See § 221.180 et seq. for discussion of modification of orders and judgments.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceJurisdictionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.157

§ 221.157 Motion for Correction of Clerical Error

When inadvertent clerical errors occur in a judgment or order, or when the judgment as entered does not conform to the judgment issued, the court issuing the judgment or order may correct the error on its own motion or on motion of the injured party [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(d); see, e.g., In re Marriage of Kaufman (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 147, 151, 161 Cal. Rptr. 538 ; see also In re Marriage of Barthold (2008) 158 Cal. App. 4th 1301, 1303-1304, 1308-1309, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 691 (court's inherent authority to correct its errors applies even when it was prompted to reconsider its prior ruling by party's motion filed in violation of Code Civ. Proc. § 1008)]. "Clerical errors" result when the order or judgment actually misstates the intent of the court, and can include such mistakes as misnomers, wrong initials in a name, improper birth dates, or minor errors in descriptions of real property. In contrast, judicial error may be corrected only by an attack on the judgment [see Aspen Internat. Capital Corp. v. Marsch (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1199, 1204, 286 Cal. Rptr. 921] .

A party may seek correction of clerical error by ex parte application [see Code Civ. Proc. § 473(d)]. The motion should include a supporting declaration setting forth the necessity for the order, together with a proposed order. The motion may be made at any time, regardless of when the mistake was made [In re Marriage of Kaufman (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 147, 151, 161 Cal. Rptr. 538] , but good practice suggest it be brought as soon as possible to avoid problems with enforceability of the judgment.

For general forms pertaining to motions to correct clerical errors that may be adapted for use in a family law proceeding, see Ch. 318, Judgments .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsNunc Pro Tunc ReliefFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.158

§ 221.158 Motion to Reconsider and Renewed Motions

Any party affected by an order may apply to the judge who made the order to reconsider the matter, and modify, amend, or revoke the prior order, based on new or different facts, circumstances, or law. A motion for reconsideration may be made when an application for an order has been refused, granted, granted in whole or in part, or granted conditionally or on terms. The motion must be made within 10 days after service on the party of written notice of the entry of the order. The applicant must state by affidavit or declaration what application was made before, when and to what judge, what order or decisions were made, and what new or different facts, circumstances, or law are claimed to be shown [Code Civ. Proc. § 1008(a)]. If the moving party fails to present new or different facts, circumstances, or law, the court lacks jurisdiction to entertain the motion [Sakiyama v. AMF Bowling Centers, Inc. (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 398, 413-414, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 762]. However, the court has inherent authority to reconsider its prior rulings at any time on its own initiative and without complying with the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1008 [Le Francois v. Goel (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 1094, 1096-1097, 1103-1105, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 249 ; In re Marriage of Barthold (2008) 158 Cal. App. 4th 1301, 1308-1309, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 691 (court may reconsider its prior ruling even when it is prompted to do so by party's motion that does not comply with Code Civ. Proc. § 1008)]. In order to grant reconsideration on its own motion, the court must conclude that its earlier ruling was wrong, and change that ruling based on the evidence that was originally submitted [In re Marriage of Barthold (2008) 158 Cal. App. 4th 1301, 1314, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 691].

A party seeking reconsideration must provide not just new evidence or different facts, but a satisfactory explanation for the failure to produce it at an earlier time. [New York Times Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 135 Cal. App. 4th 206, 215, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 338 ; Mink v. Superior Court (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1338, 1342, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 195] .

A party who seeks reconsideration of a prior order denying attorney's fees need not comply with Code Civ. Proc. § 1008. Fam. Code § 2030 provides a different method for seeking reconsideration of attorney fee orders in family law cases. It states that from time to time and before entry of judgment, the court may augment or modify the original award for attorney's fees and costs as may be reasonably necessary for the prosecution or defense of the proceeding or any related proceeding. The moving party is not required to show changed events [In re Marriage of Hobdy (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 360, 365-373, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 104] .

A party who originally made an application for an order that was refused in whole or part, or granted conditionally, or on terms, may make a subsequent application (or a "renewed motion") for the same order based on new or different facts, circumstances, or law. An affidavit also must accompany the renewal motion, setting forth the same information as in a motion for reconsideration. If the moving party fails to comply with the affidavit requirement, any subsequent order issued may be revoked or set aside on ex parte motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1008(b)]. Unlike a motion for reconsideration, a motion for renewal need not be heard by the judge who ruled on the original motion [Deauville Restaurant, Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 843, 849-851, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 863] .

Motions for reconsideration and renewed motions may be made with respect to both interim and final orders [Code Civ. Proc. § 1008(e)]. In addition to a party's ability to bring a motion for reconsideration or renewal, if a court determines that there has been a change of law warranting reconsideration of a prior order, the court may do so on its own motion and enter a different order [Code Civ. Proc. § 1008(c)].

Most courts hold that an order denying a motion for reconsideration is not appealable. Other courts hold that such an order is appealable if (1) the underlying order is appealable, and (2) motion for reconsideration is based on new or different facts [In re Marriage of Burgard (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 74, 80-81, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 739 (order was not appealable in this case because no new or different facts were shown)].

For discussion and forms pertaining to motions to reconsider and renewed motionsthat may be adapted for use in a family law proceeding, see Ch. 374, Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentMotions to Alter & AmendCivil ProcedureAppealsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.159

§ 221.159 Relief From Support Orders

[1] Fraud, Perjury, or Lack of Notice

On any terms that may be just, a court may relieve a party from a support order after the six-month time limit of Code Civ. Proc. § 473 has run [Fam. Code § 3690(a)]. Before granting relief, the court must find that the facts alleged as the grounds for relief materially affected the original order and that the moving party would materially benefit from the granting of the relief [Fam. Code § 3690(b)].

The motion must be based on one of the following grounds [Fam. Code § 3691(a)]:

1. Actual fraud, that is, the defrauded party was kept in ignorance or in some manner, other than his or her own lack of care or attention, was fraudulently prevented from fully participating in the proceeding. An action or motion based on this ground must be brought within six monthsafter the date on which the complaining party discovered or reasonably should have discovered the fraud.

2. Perjury. An action or motion based on this ground must be brought within six months after the date on which the complaining party discovered or reasonably should have discovered the perjury.

3. Lack of notice, based on service of a summons that did not result in notice to the party in time to defend the action for support, and a default or default judgment has been entered against this party. A notice of motion to set aside the default and for leave to defend the action must be served and filed within a reasonable time, but in no event later than six months after the party obtains or reasonably should have obtained notice of the order, or that the party's income and assets are subject to attachment under the order. The motion must be accompanied by an affidavit showing, under oath, that the party's lack of notice in time to defend the action was not caused by his or her avoidance of service or inexcusable neglect. The party must serve and file with the notice a copy of the answer, motion, or other pleading proposed to be filed in the action [Fam. Code § 3691(c)(2)]. The court may not set aside or otherwise relieve a party from a support order on this ground if service of the summons was accomplished in accordance with existing requirements of law regarding service of process [Fam. Code § 3691(c)(3)].

A support order may not be set aside simply because the court finds that it was inequitable when made, nor simply because subsequent circumstances caused the support ordered to become excessive or inadequate [Fam. Code § 3692].

In ruling on an action or motion to set aside a support order, the court must set aside only those provisions materially affected by the circumstances leading to the court's decision to grant relief. The court has discretion, however, to set aside the entire order, if necessary, for equitable considerations [Fam. Code § 3693].

For Judicial Council forms concerning the above motion, see §§ 221.412 -221.414 [see Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-360, FL-365, FL-367]. For a general discussion of support orders, see Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support , and Ch. 225, Dissolution of Marriage: Spousal Support .

[2] Proceedings Brought by Child Support Agencies

[a] Default Judgments Based on Presumed Income

After the Code Civ. Proc. § 473 time period has elapsed, a court may, on any terms that are just, set aside the child support portion of a default judgment or order entered in any action filed by a local child support agency under Fam. Code § 17400, 17402, or 17404, when the judgment or order was based on a presumed income amount that "substantially differed" from the defendant's actual income for the time period covered by the judgment or order [Fam. Code § 17432(a), (b), (c); see Fam. Code § 17400(d)(2) (providing for presumed income)].

A "substantial difference" between presumed income that was the basis for the judgment or order and the defendant's actual income, means an amount that would result in an order that deviates by 20 percent or more from the amount ordered by default [Fam. Code § 17432(c)]. If the deviation is less than 20 percent, the court may set aside the order only if it states on the record or in writing that the defendant is experiencing extreme financial hardship due to circumstances set forth in Fam. Code § 4071 and that a set aside is necessary to accommodate those circumstances [Fam. Code § 17432(c)]. The defendant bears the burden of proving that his or her actual income deviated substantially from the income presumed [Fam. Code § 17432(e)].

A motion for relief from judgment on this ground must be filed within 90 days of the first collection of money by the support agency or the obligee. This period runs "from the date that the local child support agency receives the first collection or from the date that the defendant is served with notice of the collection, whichever date occurs first." If service of the notice is by mail, the date of service shall be as specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 [Fam. Code § 17432(f)].

Before granting relief, the court must consider the amount of time that has passed since entry of the order, the circumstances surrounding the defendant's default, the relative hardship on the child or children to whom the duty of support is owed, the caretaker parent, and the defendant, and other equitable factors that the court deems appropriate [Fam. Code § 17432(g)].

If the court grants the relief requested, it must issue a new child support order using the appropriate child support guidelines currently in effect. The new order will have the same commencement date as the order set aside [Fam. Code § 17432(h)].

Note that this set aside remedy under Fam. Code § 17432 is in addition to any other provided by law, such as that discussed in § 221.153 [see Fam. Code § 3690(c)].

For a general discussion of enforcement of support orders by local child support agencies, see Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement .

[b] Mistaken Identity Cases

In any action in which a default judgment or order for support was entered under Fam. Code § 17430 (a local child support agency case), the court must relieve the defendant from the judgment or order if the defendant establishes that he or she was mistakenly identified in the order or in any subsequent documentsor proceedings as the person having a support obligation. The defendant is also entitled to the remedies set forth in Fam. Code § 17530(d), (e) with respect to any actions taken to enforce that judgment or order [Fam. Code § 17433; see Fam. Code § 17530(d), (e) (providing for termination of enforcement activities, return of assets seized, and other remedies, as well as right of action by defendant if agency fails to take remedial action)]. These provisions apply only when an order has been entered against a person who is not the support obligor named in the judgment or order [Fam. Code § 17433].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePretrial JudgmentsDefaultRelief From DefaultCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentFraudFamily LawChild SupportProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 221.160-221.179

[Reserved]

§§ 221.160[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.180

§ 221.180 Orders Subject to Modification

[1] Temporary Spousal and Child Support

A temporary order made during the pendency of a family law proceeding for spousal and/or child support may be modified or terminated at any time except as to any amount that may have accrued before the date of filing of the notice of motion or order to show cause to modify or terminate [Fam. Code § 3603; see In re Marriage of Van Sickle (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 728, 739-740, 137 Cal. Rptr. 568] .

[2] Permanent Spousal Support

A permanent spousal support order may be modified or terminated at any time, except (1) with regard to any amount that accrued before the date of filing of the notice of motion or order to show cause to modify or terminate [Fam. Code § 3651(b)] and (2) to the extent that any written agreement or, if there is no written agreement, any oral agreement entered into in open court between the parties, specifically provides to the contrary [Fam. Code § 3651(c); see, e.g., In re Marriage of Vomacka (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 459, 465, 204 Cal. Rptr. 568, 683 P.2d 248] .

At the request of either party, the order modifying or terminating the spousal support order may be made retroactive to the date that the notice of motion or order to show cause to modify or terminate was filed, or to any subsequent date (except as provided by federal law under 42 U.S.C. § 666(a)(9)) [Fam. Code § 3653; see, e.g., In re Marriage of Acosta (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 899, 137 Cal. Rptr. 33] .

A spousal support order for a limited period terminates at the end of that period and may not be extended unless the court in its original order retains jurisdiction [Fam. Code § 4335]. Unless there is a written agreement of the parties to the contrary or a court order terminating spousal support, the court retains jurisdiction indefinitely if the marriage is of "long duration" [Fam. Code § 4336(a)].

[3] Permanent Child Support

The court may modify or terminate a permanent child support order at any time, except as to any amount that may have accrued before the date the notice of motion or the order to show cause to modify or terminate was filed [Fam. Code § 3651; see Fam. Code § 3650]. In addition, an order modifying or terminating a support order may be made retroactive to the date that the notice of motion or order to show cause to modify or revoke was filed, or to any subsequent date except as provided by federal law under 42 U.S.C. § 666(a)(9) [Fam. Code § 3653; see In re Marriage of Acosta (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 899, 902, 137 Cal. Rptr. 33] . Under Section 666(a)(9), child support orders are not subject to retroactive modification except as to amounts accruing after a petition to modify has been filed and notice of the petition has been given to the opposing party.

A motion to modify a prior child support order may be made not only with respect to a minor child, but also with respect to a child who has reached the age of majority and is indigent. Thus, for example, a motion to modify has been held a proper method of raising the issue of support for an indigent (and disabled) adult child, whose support had terminated and over whom future jurisdiction to determine support had been purportedly waived pursuant to a parental stipulation and court order [In re Marriage of Lambe & Meehan (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 388, 392 (parents cannot agree to divest family law court of jurisdiction over support order for adult indigent child); see Fam. Code §§ 2010(c), 3910(a)]. For further discussion of motions and independent actions for support of indigent children, see Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support .

In addition, if a supplemental complaint is filed seeking support for a child born after the initial petition is filed or the final judgment is entered, a child support order may be modified to include an order for support of children of the same parents who were not named in the initial pleadings [see Fam. Code §§ 2330.1, 3651(b); see also § 221.10 et seq.]. For a discussion of the grounds for modification of permanent child support orders, see Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support .

[4] Child Custody and Visitation

A child custody order may be modified at any time on a showing of changed circumstances and that modification is in the best interests of the child [see Fam. Code §§ 3011, 3022, 3040; see, e.g., In re Marriage of Carney (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 725, 730-731, 157 Cal. Rptr. 383, 598 P.2d 36 (to justify ordering change in custody there must generally be a persuasive showing of changed circumstances affecting the child)]. The court also can modify a visitation order [Fay v. Fay(1938) 12 Cal. 2d 279, 282-284, 83 P.2d 716 ; see In re Marriage of Burgess (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 25, 40, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 444, 913 P.2d 473 (noting court's authority to modify visitation order, when noncustodial parent cannot meet burden of proof necessary to warrant change in custody, to minimize children's loss of contact and visitation with noncustodial parent in event of move)].

The general rule regarding the showing that must be made was stated by the California Supreme Court in In re Marriage of Burgess [In re Marriage of Burgess (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 25, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 444, 913 P.2d 473] . The Court noted that the trial court is always bound to make a custody decision based on the child's best interest; however, depending on the posture of the case, the trial court will use either the "best interest" analysis or the "changed circumstances" analysis. The best interest analysis is used when making the initial permanent custody determination. In making that determination, the court has "the widest discretion to choose a parenting plan that is in the best interest of the child," and must look to all of the circumstances bearing on the child's best interest [In re Marriage of Burgess (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 25, 31-32, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 444, 913 P.2d 473] . The changed circumstances test requires a threshold showing of detriment before the trial court may modify an existing final custody order that was previously based on the child's best interest. A child should not be removed from the custody of one parent and given to the custody of the other parent, unless the material facts and circumstances occurring subsequently render it essential or expedient for the child's welfare that there be a change [In re Marriage of Burgess (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 25, 38, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 444, 913 P.2d 473 ; see Ragghanti v. Reyes (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 989, 998, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 522 (when there is no existing final determination of what custody arrangement is in child's best interest, noncustodial parent does not have burden to show that existing arrangement is detrimental); In re Marriage of Heath (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 444, 449 n.3, 18 Cal. Rptr.

3d 760 (noncustodial parent has burden of showing a substantial change of circumstances making modification essential to child's welfare)]. In Burchard v. Garay [Burchard v. Garay (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 531, 229 Cal. Rptr. 800, 724 P.2d 486] , the Court explained that the changed circumstances rule is an adjunct to the best interest test in the context of requests to modify custody. It provides, in essence, that once it has been established that a particular custodial arrangement is in the child's best interests, the court need not reexamine that question, but should instead preserve the established arrangement unless some significant change in circumstances indicates that a different arrangement would be in the child's best interest [Burchard v. Garay (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 531, 535, 229 Cal. Rptr. 800, 724 P.2d 486] . The Court has recently emphasized that the changed-circumstances rule should be flexible and should reflect the children's changing needs as they grow up [Montenegro v. Diaz (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 249, 259, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 575, 27 P.3d 289] .

When the parents have joint physical custody of the children, the changed circumstances rule does not apply [Montenegro v. Diaz (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 249, 254 n.1, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 575, 27 P.3d 289] . A parent seeking modification of a joint custody order to effect a change in parenting time must show that the change is in the child's best interest, but need not show changed circumstances [Enrique M. v. Angelina V. (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 1371, 1378-1382, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 306] .

In any case, the court's decision to modify a custody order must be based on evidence in the record, e.g., the testimony of the parties, a custody evaluation ordered by the court [see Fam. Code § 3110; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.220], or expert opinion [In re Marriage of Heath (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 444, 450, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 760 ("[s]peculation by lawyers, conflicting argument on behalf of parents, and 'hunches' of judges do not suffice")].

For a discussion of the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.) and the federal Parental Kidnapping Prevention Act of 1980 (28 U.S.C. § 1738A), and the effect of these statutes on the power of the court to modify custody orders, see Ch. 394, Parent and Child .

[5] Attorney's Fees and Costs

The court must augment or modify an original award for attorney's fees and costs as may be reasonably necessary for the prosecution or defense of the proceeding, or any related proceeding, including after any appeal has been concluded [Fam. Code § 2030(c)].

Standards for the award of attorney's fees and costs and for modification of such awards before and after judgment are discussed in Ch. 226, Dissolution of Marriage: Attorney's Fees .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild CustodyModificationGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportObligationsModificationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportCosts & Attorney FeesFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportModification & TerminationGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.181

§ 221.181 Discovery of Other Party's Income and Expense Information Before Support Modification Proceeding

[1] Information From Party

Fam. Code § 3660 et seq. provides a procedure whereby a support obligor or recipient may inexpensively discover information about the other party's income and expenses, including federal and state personal income tax returns, before commencing a proceeding for modification or termination of a child, family, or spousal support order [see Fam. Code §§ 3660, 3664, 3665]. At any time following a judgment of marital dissolution or legal separation, or a determination of paternity, that provides for payment of support, either the party ordered to pay support or the party to whom the support was ordered to be paid (or that party's assignee) may, without leave of court, serve a request on the other party for the production of a completed current income and expense declaration [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150 (income and expense declaration form)] in the form adopted by the Judicial Council [Fam. Code § 3664(a)] (see § 221.430). Ifthere is no response within a prescribed time period or an incomplete response, a request may be made for the information from the party's employer, as discussed in § 221.181[2] [Fam. Code § 3664(b)-(d)].

A copy of the prior year's federal and state personal income tax returns must be attached to the income and expense declaration of each party [Fam. Code § 3665(a)]. Neither party may disclose the contents nor provide copies of the other party's tax returns to anyone except to the court; to his or her attorney, accountant, or other financial consultant assisting with matters relating to the proceeding; or to any other person as permitted by the court [Fam. Code § 3665(b)].

Apart from the request for production directed to a party (or the party's employer, as discussed in § 221.181[2]), no other method of discovery may be used unless a motion for modification or termination of support is pending [Fam. Code § 3662]. In the absence of a pending motion for modification or termination of a support order, a request for discovery of income and expense information under Fam. Code § 3660 et seq. may not be made more frequently than once every 12 months [Fam. Code § 3663].

For an illustrative filled-in copy of the form the Judicial Council has adopted for mandatory use in seeking discovery under these provisions [see Fam. Code § 3668; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-396], see § 221.430.

[2] Information From Employer on Party's Noncompliance With Request

[a] Request for Production of Income and Benefits Information

If the party on whom the request for production (§ 221.181[1][a]) is served fails to respond within 35 days of service of the request, or if the responsive income and expense declaration is incomplete as to any wage information, including the attachment of pay stubs and income tax returns, the requesting party may serve a request for information on the other party's employer. This request must be made on a form adopted by the Judicial Council, and is limited in scope to the income and benefits provided to the party. The date specified in the request for production that is served on the employer must not be less than 15 days from the date the request is issued [Fam. Code § 3664(b)].

However, no employer is required to produce the employee's income and benefits information unless there is a court order for production, or an agreement of "the parties, employers, and employees affected." In other words, in the absence of a court order or qualifying agreement, compliance by the employer is voluntary, and the Judicial Council form must reflect this. In addition, the employer may require the requesting party to pay the reasonable costs for copying the information requested [Fam. Code § 3664(b), (d), (f)].

[b] Required Notice to Employee

If the party seeking information serves a request for production on the other party's employer (§ 221.181[2][a]), the requesting party must also serve on that other party (or on his or her attorney) a copy of this request, and service must be made before the date that is specified in the request. The copy served on the employee must also contain a notice, set out in a "typeface that is intended to call attention to its terms," which indicates that [Fam. Code § 3664(c)]:

1. Information limited to the income and benefits provided to the employee by his or her employer is being sought from the employer named in the request for production;

2. The information being sought may be protected by right of privacy;

3. If the employee objects to the production of this information by the employer to the requesting party, the employee must notify the court, in writing, of this objection prior to the date specified in the request served on the employer for the production of income and benefit information; and

4. If the requesting party does not agree, in writing, to cancel or narrow the scope of the request for the production of this information by the employer, the employee should consult an attorney regarding the employee's right to privacy and how to protect this right.

[c] Employee's Motion to Quash or Modify Request

If a request for production of income and benefit information has been served on a party's employer (§ 221.181[2][a]), the party may, prior to the date specified in the request, bring a motion under Code of Civ. Proc. § 1987.1 to quash or modify this request in the same manner as a subpoena duces tecum. Notice of this motion must be given to the employer prior to the date specified in the request for production that was served on the employer [Fam. Code § 3664(d)]. For a general discussion of motions to quash under Code of Civ. Proc. § 1987.1, see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

[3] Service of Request

Service of a request for the production of an income and expense declaration (§ 221.181[1]), or for production of income and benefit information, or a copy thereof (§ 221.181[1]) under Fam. Code § 3664 must be by certified mail, postage prepaid, return receipt requested, to the last known address of the party to be served, or by personal service [Fam. Code § 3664(b)]. Paragraph 1.a. of the Judicial Council request form indicates that a blank income and expense declaration must be served with the request [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-396].

[4] Enforcement of Discovery Right

Discovery under Fam. Code § 3660 et seq. may be enforced in the manner specified in (1) Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1991-1993 (regarding civil subpoenas), (2) the Civil Discovery Act [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq.], and (3) any other statutes applicable to the enforcement of discovery procedures [Fam. Code § 3666; see In re Marriage of Chakko (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 104, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 699 ("issue sanction" order declaring husband's income to be specified amount and precluding him from offering any contrary evidence was upheld based on his failure to comply with court's order compelling him to provide discovery of his financial records to ex-wife); see generally Ch. 190, Depositions and Discovery ; Ch. 535, Subpoena].

In addition, on the subsequent filing of a motion for modification or termination of support by a party requesting the production of an income and expense declaration under Section 3660 et seq., if the court finds that the declaration submitted by the responding party was incomplete, inaccurate, or missing the prior year's federal and state personal income tax returns, or that the declaration was not submitted in good faith, the court may order sanctions against the responding party in the form of payment of all costs of the motion, including the filing fee and the costs of the depositions and subpoenas necessary to obtain complete and accurate information [Fam. Code § 3667]. This provision is applicable regardless of whether a party has utilized the procedures for seeking information from a party's employer under Fam. Code § 3664(b), discussed in § 221.181[2] [Fam. Code § 3667].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureDiscoveryDisclosuresSanctionsFamily LawChild CustodyGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.182

§ 221.182 Application for Modification

[1] Papers and Format

An application for an order modifying or terminating a prior order made in a dissolution, legal separation, or nullity proceeding under the Family Code must be in Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-300 (Order to Show Cause) or Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-301 (Notice of Motion) and Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310 (Application for Order and Supporting Declaration) [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.11(8)(a)]. Illustrative filled-in reproductions of the Judicial Council Notice of Motion, Order to Show Cause, and Application for Order and Supporting Declaration forms are set out in Subpart A. In addition, the Income and Expense Declaration and Property Declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-150, FL-160] must be filed if relevant to the application [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.118(b), 5.128]. Illustrative filled-in copies of these forms also are set out in Subpart A. These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

A memorandum of points and authorities, if needed to establish the applicant's legal right under the circumstances to a modification of the prior order or judgment, also may be filed [see Fam. Code § 210; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.21, 5.22, 5.118(a)]. Although the general law and motion rules do not apply to family law proceedings [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a)], counsel filing a memorandum of points and authorities may wish to consult Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113 for guidance on content and format.

[2] Use of Order to Show Cause or Notice of Motion

An application for modification of a temporary or permanent order may be made either by noticed motion [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Judd (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 515, 518, 137 Cal. Rptr. 318] or by order to show cause [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Acosta (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 899, 901, 137 Cal. Rptr. 33] . Because of the "citation" nature of the order to show cause, it is usually used to obtain modification, particularly when the application is to modify a permanent, as opposed to a pendente lite, order. But if the application is in effect a countermotion by a responding party, the notice of motion procedure may be used [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Hawkins (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 208, 211, 121 Cal. Rptr. 681] .

[3] Local Court Rules

With respect to the contents of the printed forms, some courts by local rule impose requirements in addition to those indicated by the Judicial Council forms. Counsel should always check local rules for special additional requirements for modifications or other motions [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Tydlaska (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 572, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 594 (court properly denied husband's motion for support modification based on his failure to comply with local court rules requiring him to file income and expense declaration executed within 60 days of hearing)].

[4] Service of Application Papers

[a] General Rules

The notice of motion or order to show cause and all supporting points and authorities, declarations, and other supporting materials, together with a blank copy of the responsive declaration and blank copies of the Income and Expense Declaration and Property Declaration (if those completed forms must be attached to the declaration), must be served on the party against whom relief is sought [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118(b), (c)].

General law governing service of such papers in civil actions applies to the manner and time for service of a notice of motion or order to show cause to modify an order in family law proceedings [see Fam. Code § 210; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.10(e), 5.21, 5.22]. For discussion of the procedures and deadlines forservice of papers generally, see § 221.10 et seq. relating to service of selected pretrial motions.

[b] Service Before or After Judgment

For modification motions made before judgment, service of papers is made on the party's attorney of record if there is one, or on the party if there is no attorney of record, as in civil proceedings generally [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.10(b), (e); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1015; Fam. Code § 210].

For modification motions made after judgment, service of papers must be made directly on the party, and not on the attorney of record, if the motion is for one of the following [Fam. Code § 215; see Gortner v. Gortner (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 996, 1000, 131 Cal. Rptr. 919 ; In re Marriage of Gabriel (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 556, 558, 123 Cal. Rptr. 454] :

(1) Modification of an order in the final judgment of dissolution, legal separation, or nullity;

(2) Modification of a permanent order in any other proceeding in which child custody, visitation, or support was in issue; or

(3) Any other postjudgment order in a family law proceeding.

Even though the moving papers must be served directly on the other party, a courtesy copy is normally sent to the party's attorney of record, unless the attorney has withdrawn from the case.

In any action to suspend or reduce support for a child to whom a county has provided financial assistance, the county is an indispensable party and also must be given notice of the proposed action, in conformity with the provisions governing notices of motions in civil actions [In re Marriage of Mena (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 12, 19, 260 Cal. Rptr. 314] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild CustodyModificationGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild CustodyVisitationModificationGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportObligationsModificationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportModification & TerminationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.183

§ 221.183 Response to Application

[1] Papers to Be Prepared and Filed

The response to the application for modification of an order or judgment in a family law proceeding must be in Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-320 (Responsive Declaration). A current Income and Expense Declaration and Property Declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-150, FL-160] must also be prepared if relevant to the order sought to be modified [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.128(a)]. Although a memorandum of points and authorities need not be filed unless required by the court [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118(a)], the better practice is to prepare, serve, and file a memorandum if the moving party has filed and served a memorandum of points and authorities, or if legal points as to the propriety of the modification are to be raised.

An illustrative filled-in form of responsive declaration is set forth and discussed in § 221.10 et seq.

[2] Countermotion

If the responding party seeks modification of the order in a different manner than that sought by the moving party, he or she should prepare, file, and serve a motion seeking such relief. The procedure is the same as for the original motion or order to show cause. However, because at least 16 court days' notice must be given [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)], an order shortening time will often have to be obtained to have the motion heard at the same time as the original application for modification. Attorney's fees can be requested by the responding party orally at the hearing on the motion without the necessity of a separate motion [see Fam. Code § 2031(b)(1)].

[3] Service of Responsive Papers and Return of Service

The responsive declaration must be filed with the court and served on each party in the manner and within the time frame established for service of responsive papers in civil actions generally [see Fam. Code § 210; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.10(e), 5.21, 5.22]. For discussion of the procedures and deadlines for service of responsive papers generally, see § 221.10 et seq. relating to responses to selected pretrial motions.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild CustodyModificationGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild CustodyVisitationModificationGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportObligationsModificationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportModification & TerminationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.184

§ 221.184 Change of Venue

If it appears that both the petitioner and respondent have moved from the county rendering the original judgment or a prior order in a proceeding for dissolution, nullity, or legal separation, the court may, if the ends of justice and the convenience of the parties would be promoted by the change, order that the proceeding be transferred to the county where either party resides [see Code Civ. Proc. § 397.5; Schlumpf v. Superior Court (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 892, 895-896, 145 Cal. Rptr. 190] . Motions for change of venue also are discussed in § 221.10 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureVenueMotions to TransferConvenience of PartiesFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.185

§ 221.185 Submission and Examination of Tax Returns

In a proceeding involving child, family, or spousal support, no party may refuse to submit copies of his or her state and federal income tax returns to the court, whether individual or joint [Fam. Code § 3552(a)]. The tax returns may be examined by, and are discoverable by, the other party. A party also may be examined by the other party about the content of a tax return that has been submitted [Fam. Code § 3552(b)]. If the court finds that it is relevant to the case to retain the tax return, the tax return must be sealed and maintained as a confidential record of the court. If the court finds that the tax return is not relevant to the disposition of the case, all copies of the return must be returned to the partywho submitted it [Fam. Code § 3552(c)]. For discussion of the discovery of tax returns in relation to determining spousal support, see Ch. 225, Dissolution of Marriage: Spousal Support .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDiscoveryGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.186

§ 221.186 Mediation of Child Custody and Visitation Issues

If it appears on the face of an application for modification of an order that child custody or visitation are contested, the court must set the contested issues for mediation before or concurrent with the setting of the matter for hearing [Fam. Code §§ 3170, 3175]. Mediation of contested custody and visitation issues, governed by Fam. Code § 3160 et seq., is discussed in § 221.40 et seq. and in Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawAlternative Dispute ResolutionMediationFamily LawChild CustodyGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild CustodyVisitationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.187

§ 221.187 Hearing

[1] Privacy of Proceeding

Except as otherwise provided by the Family Code or by the California Rules of Court, the court may order that the hearing be private and may exclude all persons from the hearing except the officers of the court, the parties, their witnesses, and counsel, when it considers it necessary in the interests of justice and the persons involved [Fam. Code § 214]. However, the statutory and case law context of post-judgment modification orders appears to contemplate an oral hearing rather than orders being issued from chambers [In re Marriage of Dunn (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 345, 348-349, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 636] .

[2] Basis of Ruling

The court may grant or deny the relief sought solely on the basis of the application and response and any accompanying memorandum of points and authorities [In re Marriage of Perkal (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 413, 418, 143 Cal. Rptr. 575] . Courts must exercise their discretion, however, and may not exclude oral testimony based on a court policy always to exclude it [Reifler v. Superior Court (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 479, 485, 114 Cal. Rptr. 356] .

[3] Burden of Proof

As in civil actions and special proceedings generally, a party to a modification proceeding has the burden of proof as to each fact the existence or nonexistence of which is essential to the claim for relief or defense that he or she is asserting [see Evid. Code § 500; Fam. Code § 210; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.21, 5.22; In re Marriage of Smith (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 725, 741, 145 Cal. Rptr. 205 (spousal support); In re Marriage of Mehlmauer (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 104, 107-109, 131 Cal. Rptr. 325 (child custody)].

For discussion of substantive rules governing modification of child custody and visitation orders, see Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody . For discussion of the substantive standards for modification of child and spousal support orders, see Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support , and Ch. 225, Dissolution of Marriage:

Spousal Support , respectively.

[4] Disclosure of Public Assistance Status

At a hearing on a motion to modify a child support obligation, the court must require the parties to reveal whether a party is currently receiving or intends to apply for public assistance for the maintenance of the child [see Fam. Code § 4004]. If the custodial parent is receiving public assistance, the county is an indispensable party [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Mena (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 12, 19, 260 Cal. Rptr. 314] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild CustodyGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportObligationsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportGeneral OverviewPublic Health & Welfare LawSocial SecurityAssistance to FamiliesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.188

§ 221.188 Orders

The order must be prepared on the prescribed Judicial Council form of Findings and Order After Hearing [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-340]. An illustrative filled-in reproduction of that form is set out in § 221.338.

At the request of either party, an order modifying or terminating a spousal support order must include a statement of decision [Fam. Code § 3654]. For discussion of statements of decision, see § 221.90 et seq., as well as Ch. 529, Statement of Decision .

If the modified order includes a provision for child support, at the time that written notice of the order is given the court must provide the parties with a document describing the procedures by which the support order may be modified [Fam. Code § 4010].

If the order modifies a child, family, or spousal support order, an earnings assignment order also must be issued by the court [see Fam. Code § 5230(a)], although it may grant a request to stay service of the earnings assignment order for good cause [see Fam. Code § 5260(a)]. For further discussion and a form of wage assignment, see Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement, §§ 459.50 et seq., 459.202. See also the discussion in Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support , and Ch. 225, Dissolution of Marriage: Spousal Support .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild CustodyGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild CustodyVisitationGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportObligationsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.189

§ 221.189 Modification by Stipulation

A judgment in a family law proceeding--insofar as it relates to child custody and visitation and spousal support--may be modified on stipulation of the parties and subsequent court order based on the stipulation [see, e.g., Smith v. Superior Court (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 457, 462-463, 137 Cal. Rptr. 348 (child custody and visitation rights)].

Child support orders also may be modified by stipulation, but are subject to court approval under the standards set forth in Fam. Code § 4065 [see Fam. Code §§ 4057(b)(1), 4065(a)]. For discussion of guidelines for court approval of parties' agreements regarding child support, see Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support . If the stipulation results in a suspension or reduction in the payment of child support and the child has been receiving public financial assistance from a county, that county is an indispensable party to, and must receive prior notice of, the proposed action [see In re Marriage of Lugo (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 427, 430, 433, 217 Cal. Rptr. 74] .

No "first paper" filing fee need be paid on behalf of a respondent for filing a document relating to a stipulated postjudgment modification of child support, or for a stipulation to modify a marital settlement agreement that was signed by a defaulted respondent and incorporated in a decree of dissolution if the stipulation is presented by the petitioner [Gov. Code § 26826(b)(5), (6)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild CustodyGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild CustodyVisitationGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportObligationsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.190

§ 221.190 Motion for Reconsideration

A party may move for reconsideration of any order or denial of any order within 10 days after service on the party of notice of entry of the order. The motion must be based on new or different facts, circumstances, or law, and must be made to the same judge or court that made the order [Code Civ. Proc. § 1008(a); see Fam. Code § 210; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.21]. Motions for reconsideration are discussed in § 221.150 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild CustodyGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild CustodyVisitationGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportObligationsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.191

§ 221.191 Vacating Order

An order or a stipulation on which an order is based may, on motion and a proper showing, be set aside under the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 473, which authorizes relief from orders taken through a party's mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect and from void judgments and orders. These motions are discussed in § 221.150 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentMotions to VacateCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentVoid JudgmentsFamily LawChild CustodyGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportObligationsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.192

§ 221.192 Appeal

Both orders made on applications for modification of pendente lite orders and orders made on postjudgment applications for modification are appealable [see Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1(a)(10); In re Marriage of Judd (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 515, 524, 137 Cal. Rptr. 318 (order denying motion to modify pendente lite spousal support order); see also In re Marriage of Lautsbaugh (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1131, 1133, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 688 (appellate review of orders modifying spousal support)]. General forms pertaining to appeals, which may be adapted for use in family law proceedings, are contained in Ch. 40, Appeal: An Overview, through Ch. 54, Appeal: California Supreme Court Review.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsAppellate JurisdictionGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild CustodyGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportObligationsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.193

§ 221.193 Effect of Bankruptcy

For bankruptcy cases commenced on or after October 24, 1994 [see Pub. L. No. 103-394, § 702], proceedings to establish paternity, or to modify, or enforce child or spousal support, are exempt from the automatic stay of other proceedings that goes into effect on the filing of a bankruptcy petition [see 11 U.S.C. § 362(b)(2), as amended by Pub. L. No. 103-394, § 304]. Under prior law, only proceedings to "collect" child and spousal support are exempt from the automatic stay [see 11 U.S.C. § 362(a)(1), (b)(2), before amendment by Pub. L. No. 103-394, § 304; see also In re Stringer (9th Cir. 1988) 847 F.2d 549, 550-552 ; In re Mac Donald (9th Cir. 1985) 755 F.2d 715, 717 (11 U.S.C. § 362(d) allows bankruptcy court to grant relief from automatic stay for cause, based on facts of particular case)].

Another exception to the automatic stay exists to allow for the commencement or continuation of criminal proceedings against the debtor, including criminal prosecution under Penal Code § 270 for wilful failure to pay child support [see 11 U.S.C. § 362(b)(1); In re Gruntz (9th Cir. 2000) 202 F. 3d 1074, 1087 ; People v. Gruntz (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 412, 421, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 55] . Further protection is provided in bankruptcy cases commenced on or after October 24, 1994 [see Pub. L. No. 103-394, § 702], by a provision that prohibits a trustee from avoiding a debtor's pre-petition transfer of funds to pay bona fide child support or spousal support obligations [11 U.S.C. § 522(f)(1)(A)]. For further discussion on the effect of bankruptcy on support obligations and other family law issues, see Ch. 258, Family Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Bankruptcy LawCase AdministrationAdministrative PowersStaysCoverageExceptionsAlimony, Maintenance & SupportFamily LawChild SupportObligationsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportGeneral OverviewFamily LawPaternity & SurrogacyEstablishing PaternityGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.194

§ 221.194 Procedures for Simplified Modification of Child, Spousal, or Family Support Orders

Under the authority of Fam.Code § 3680, the Judicial Council has prescribed forms and accompanying instructions that provide for a simplified method of modifying child, spousal, or family support. This method may be used both by parties who are not represented by counsel and by represented parties--although the underlying intent in creating the method was apparently to enable unrepresented parties to more easily seek modification of support orders [see Fam. Code § 3680(b); Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-390, FL-391, FL-392, FL-393]. Consistent with that intent, the prescribed forms contain no preprinted boxes by which to request the recovery of attorney's fees and costs [§§ 221.433, 221.434].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild SupportObligationsModificationGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportModification & TerminationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 221.195-221.209

[Reserved]

§§ 221.195[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.210

§ 221.210 State Statutes

Attorney's fees and costs during pendency of proceeding. Fam. Code §§ 270-272, 2030-2034

Custody of Children

Appointment of counsel to represent child. Fam. Code §§ 3150-3153

Temporary custody orders during pendency of proceeding. Fam. Code §§ 3060-3064

Dissolution of Marriage and Legal Separation

Dissolution; effect of. Fam. Code § 2300

General Procedural Provisions

Motion to transfer. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 395, 397

Motion to quash service of summons. Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10

Motion to strike. Code Civ. Proc. § 435

Default proceedings. Fam. Code §§ 2330.5, 2336

Petition for dissolution or legal separation. Fam. Code § 2330

Reconciliation, continuance for. Fam. Code § 2334

Service on other spouse. Fam. Code § 2331

Status, severance and grant of early trial on issue of dissolution of status of. Fam. Code § 2337

Grounds. Fam. Code §§ 2310-2313

Residence requirement. Fam. Code §§ 2320-2322

"Employee benefit plan" defined. Fam. Code § 80

Family Conciliation Court proceedings. Fam. Code §§ 1800-1852

General procedural provisions. Fam. Code §§ 210-215

Joinder

Employee benefit plans. Fam. Code §§ 2021, 2060-2074

Interested persons. Fam. Code § 2021

Jurisdiction in superior court. Fam. Code §§ 200, 2010-2012

Legal separation; consent of parties to. Fam. Code § 2345

Notice to insurance carriers. Fam. Code §§ 2050-2053

Responsive pleadings. Fam. Code § 2020

Summary dissolution. Fam. Code §§ 2400-2406

Support During Pendency of Proceeding

In general. Fam. Code §§ 3600-3604

Expedited child support orders. Fam. Code §§ 3620-3634

Temporary Restraining Orders

Summons, temporary restraining orders in. Fam. Code §§ 231-235, 2040-2041

Orders issued during pendency of proceeding. Fam. Code §§ 2045, 6218, 6320-6327

Temporary restraining orders issued without notice. Fam. Code §§ 240-246

Void or voidable marriages. Fam. Code §§ 2200-2255

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Family LawChild SupportObligationsTypesTemporary SupportFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportCosts & Attorney FeesFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceJurisdictionResidency RequirementsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportObligationsTemporary SupportFamily LawMarriageValidityVoid & Voidable MarriagesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.211

§ 221.211 California Rules of Court

Bifurcation of issues. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.175

Child support, computer software standards for determining. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.275

General Provisions of Family Law Rules

Definitions and use of terms. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.10

Extensions of time. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.15

Family Law Rules, applicability of. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.20, 5.22

General law, applicability of. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.21, 5.22

Providing limited attorney assistance in preparation of court documents. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.70

Joinder

"Claimant" defined. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.152

Joinder application, form of. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.156

Joinder of employee pension benefit plan. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.162

Joinder of persons claiming interest. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.150, 5.154, 5.158

Procedural Rules

Alternative relief. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.114

Appearance. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.120

Applications for court order. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118

Motion to quash proceeding or responsive relief. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.121

Defaults and uncontested proceedings. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.122, 5.124

Designation of parties, parties to proceeding, and other causes of action. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.100-5.104

Injunctive relief, restraining orders, and reservation of jurisdiction. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.106, 5.110, 5.112

Pleadings. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.108, 5.128

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePartiesJoinderGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePretrial JudgmentsDefaultDefault JudgmentsCivil ProcedurePretrial MattersSeparate TrialsFamily LawChild SupportGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.212

§ 221.212 Decisions

[1] Attorneys

Court must determine how to apportion overall cost of litigation equitably between parties under their relative circumstances. In re Marriage of Dietz (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 387, 406, 97 Cal. Rptr. 3d 616

Court has broad discretion in awarding attorney's fees in marital proceedings, but exercise of this discretion is guided by statute (Fam. Code §§ 2030-2034). Alan S. v. Superior Court (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 238, 242-243, 91 Cal. Rptr. 3d 241 ; In re Marriage of Lynn (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 120, 133-134, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611

Sanctions award under Fam. Code § 271 need not be limited to cost to other party resulting from bad conduct; correlation between sanctioned conduct and specific attorney's fees is not required. In re Marriage of Corona (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 1205, 1226, 92 Cal. Rptr. 3d 17

Court must scale sanctions award to payor's ability to pay. In re Marriage of Falcone & Fyke (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 814, 827-828, 79 Cal. Rptr. 3d 588

Party requesting attorney's fees under Fam. Code § 271 need not demonstrate financial need for award. In re Marriage of Lucio (2008) 161 Cal. App. 4th 1068, 1081-1082, 74 Cal. Rptr. 3d 803

Agreement prepared by husband's attorney was enforceable, when wife was advised of potential conflict and agreed to act as her own attorney, and there was no misrepresentation, fraud, or overreaching. In re Marriage of Friedman (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 65, 70-71, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 412

Attorney who undertakes to represent both spouses must make full disclosure of all facts and circumstances necessary to enable them to make fully informed decision regarding subject matter of litigation, including areas of potential conflict and possibility and desirability of seeking independent legal advice. In re Marriage of Egedi (2001) 88 Cal.

App. 4th 17, 23, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 518

A marital settlement agreement drafted by an attorney who is representing both parties is enforceable, as long as the attorney has informed the parties of the potential conflict of interest caused by his or her acting as the drafter of the agreement, and the parties sign a waiver of the conflict. In re Marriage of Egedi (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 17, 23-25, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 518

Purpose of award of attorney's fees is to provide party, if necessary, with adequate amount to properly litigate the controversy. In assessing one party's relative need and other party's ability to pay, court may consider evidence of parties' current incomes, assets, and abilities, including investment and income-producing properties. In re Marriage of Duncan (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 617, 629-631, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 833

Attorney fees in marital dissolution action are left to sound discretion of trial court; not overturned absent abuse of discretion. In re Marriage of Huntington (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1513, 1523, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1

Wife was improperly denied award of attorney's fees under former Civ. Code § 4370(a) (now see Fam. Code §§ 270-272, 2030-2034), allowing court to make temporary order awarding fees and costs reasonably necessary to family law litigation, when her income and expense declaration showed that her only liquid assets were spousal and child support awarded under interlocutory judgment and when husband's net income showed ability to pay. In re Marriage of Jacobs (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 273, 288-289, 180 Cal. Rptr. 234

Failure of attorney representing wife to assert her community interest in husband's military retirement benefits in divorce proceeding was legal malpractice rendering attorney liable for wife's resulting damages. Smith v. Lewis (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 349, 355-362, 118 Cal. Rptr. 621, 530 P.2d 589

Award of pendente lite attorney's fees related to wife's anticipated expense in establishing community property interest in malpractice judgment of husband was improper when wife had contingent fee arrangement with her attorney. In re Marriage of Gonzales (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 340, 344-345, 124 Cal. Rptr. 278

Failure of attorney employed by husband to represent wife in uncontested divorce action, who drafted property settlement agreement on basis of information furnished by husband, to inform wife that husband's financial statement was unconfirmed, that wives may be cheated, and that prudence called for investigation and verification as negligence that would render attorney liable to wife for any damages sustained by her. Ishmael v. Millington (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 520, 524-529, 50 Cal. Rptr. 592

[2] Bifurcation of Trial

Division of property when one spouse dies after judgment terminating marital status but before determination of bifurcated property issues. In re Marriage of Allen (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 1225, 1226-1227, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 916

Domiciliary's action for termination of marital status as allowable despite divorce counterclaim pending in foreign state, because comity discretionary, and rule of jurisdictional priority not controlling if countervailing state policies apply. In re Marriage of Gray (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1239, 1248-1251, 251 Cal. Rptr. 846

Moving party as required to present only slight evidence to obtain order granting bifurcation of marital status, whereas opposing party must present compelling reasons for denial. Gionis v. Superior Court (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 786, 790, 248 Cal. Rptr. 741

Bifurcated trial and entry of interlocutory decree of dissolution while reserving jurisdiction over other issues as authorized by statute and Family Law Rules and court as not abusing discretion in bifurcating trial when person opposing bifurcation presented no good reasons not to do so. In re Marriage of Lusk (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 228, 232-236, 150 Cal. Rptr. 63

Family Law Act, as augmented and interpreted by Judicial Council Rules, as authorizing trial court, in its discretion, not only to bifurcate trial, but to enter separate interlocutory judgment of dissolution before other issues, including spousal support, have been litigated. In re Marriage of Fink (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 357, 366, 126 Cal. Rptr. 626

[3] Court Costs

Dissolution petitioner who qualified as indigent as not required to reimburse filing fee as condition precedent to entry of final decree. In re Marriage of Sanabia (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 483, 485, 157 Cal. Rptr. 56

Whenever motion to proceed in forma pauperis is supported by affidavit or declaration sufficient on its face to show indigency, court as required to grant motion unless it doubts truthfulness of allegations, in which event it may take additional evidence; in any event, court as required to state its reasons if petition is denied to provideappellate court with basis for review. In re Marriage of Reese (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 120, 124, 140 Cal. Rptr. 589

Indigent petitioner as entitled to file petition for dissolution of marriage without payment of filing fee. Earls v. Superior Court (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 109, 113, 98 Cal. Rptr. 302, 490 P.2d 814

[4] Family Law Rules

Local court rules adopted for practice and procedure in Family Law Act proceedings as not permitted to be inconsistent with statutory law or with rules adopted and prescribed by Judicial Council. Iand v. Superior Court (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 510, 515, 200 Cal. Rptr. 526

Family law rules as controlling over statutory and decisional law. In re Marriage of McKim (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 673, 678 n.4, 100 Cal. Rptr. 140, 493 P.2d 868 ; In re Marriage of Fink (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 357, 365 n.4, 126 Cal. Rptr. 626 ; In re Marriage of Dover (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 675, 678, 93 Cal. Rptr. 384

[5] Grounds

"Irreconcilable differences, which have caused irremediable breakdown of marriage" as not unconstitutionally vague. In re Marriage of Walton (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 108, 116, 104 Cal. Rptr. 472

Court and not parties as deciding whether evidence adduced supports finding that irreconcilable differences exist and that marriage has broken down irremediably and should be dissolved. In re Marriage of McKim (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 673, 680, 100 Cal. Rptr. 140, 493 P.2d 868 ; In re Marriage of Walton (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 108, 115 n.2, 116-117, 104 Cal. Rptr. 472

[6] Hearing on Petition

Use of affidavit in lieu of petitioner's presence at hearing. In re Marriage of Higgason (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 476, 482, 110 Cal. Rptr. 897, 516 P.2d 289

Requirement that petitioner appear at hearing and testify. In re Marriage of McKim (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 673, 682, 100

Cal. Rptr. 140, 493 P.2d 868

Application for continuance of hearing on petition as addressed to sound discretion of trial court; trial court's order as not disturbed on appeal unless discretion has been arbitrarily exercised. In re Marriage of Brown (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 188, 191, 103 Cal. Rptr. 510

[7] Joinder

Children's residence in California as insufficient "minimum contacts" for joinder of parent's out-of-state dental insurance plan. In re Marriage of Martin (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1426, 1433, 255 Cal. Rptr. 720

ERISA as not preempting California procedures for joinder of pension plans or notification of adverse interest in such plans; but order dividing marital interest in ERISA plan as required to meet requirements of "qualified domestic relations order" for it to be binding or enforceable against plan. In re Marriage of Baker (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 206, 217-218, 251 Cal. Rptr. 126

[8] Jurisdiction

[a] In General

Court as having subject matter jurisdiction to adjudicate status of marriage based on petitioner's domicile in California at time of filing petition. Muckle v. Superior Court (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 218, 226, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 303

California court as having jurisdiction to determine community interest in property not adjudicated in dissolution proceeding of another state. In re Marriage of Moore & Ferrie (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1472, 1479, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 543

Spouse's scheduling of community property as exempt in bankruptcy petition as not operating to oust state court of jurisdiction to determine community interests in that property. In re Marriage of Seligman (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 300, 309, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 209

Court as without authority to order interspousal auction of a community asset, over the objection of a party, as a substitute for the court valuing and making its award of that asset. In re Marriage of Cream (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 81, 89, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 575

State courts as having jurisdiction to review pension plan administrator's determination that marital judgment dividing community interests in plan is or is not a qualified domestic relations order. In re Marriage of Levingston (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1303, 1306, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 100

Court as having power in marital dissolution to order maintenance of life insurance for benefit of children and former spouse as a support substitute; motion to reduce support put life insurance in issue; change of beneficiary was not gift of community property of subsequent marriage. In re Marriage of O'Connell (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 565, 573, 576, 580, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 334

Lesbian nonparent as lacking standing to seek custody or visitation rights to child born to partner during same-sex relationship. Curiale v. Reagan (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1597, 1600, 272 Cal. Rptr. 520

Court as having jurisdiction to determine issue of custody and visitation rights of spouse over child who was not of marriage when court had subject matter jurisdiction over issue at commencement of action. In re Marriage of Halpern

(1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 297, 309-310, 184 Cal. Rptr. 740

Power to exercise jurisdiction over child support as governed primarily by principles applicable to jurisdiction over persons. Titus v. Superior Court (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 792, 797, 100 Cal. Rptr. 477

Bases on which court may exercise jurisdiction over defendant or respondent served with process. Titus v. Superior Court (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 792, 799-805, 100 Cal. Rptr. 477

Court as without power in divorce action to assign one spouse's separate property to the other. Mears v. Mears (1960) 180 Cal. App. 2d 484, 500, 4 Cal. Rptr. 618

Court as having jurisdiction in divorce action when issue is presented as to nature or character of property to determine whether it is separate or community; court alsomay determine property is held in joint tenancy. Mears v. Mears (1960) 180 Cal. App. 2d 484, 500, 4 Cal. Rptr. 618

Court as having jurisdiction to award alimony in default interlocutory judgment of divorce when alimony was not requested in complaint. Craft v. Craft (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 189, 191-194, 316 P.2d 345

[b] Native Americans

Tribal court for tribe of which Indian spouse is member as having at least concurrent jurisdiction with state court over both spouses, including non-Indian respondent spouse, for purpose of dissolving their marriage, if spouses resided on Indian reservation during marriage. Sanders v. Robinson (9th Cir. 1988) 864 F.2d 630, 633-634

Trial court as having jurisdiction to classify asset as separate but without jurisdiction to divide asset in family law proceeding. In re Marriage of Buford (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 74, 78-79, 202 Cal. Rptr. 20 , disapproved on other grounds, In re Marriage of Fabian (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 440, 451 n. 13, 224 Cal. Rptr. 333, 715 P.2d 253)

[c] Nonresidents

Jurisdiction based on physical presence alone as constituting due process of law; therefore, California court as properly establishing personal jurisdiction in dissolution action over nonresident father who was served with process while physically present in California, without need to show other "minimum contacts" between nonresident and State of California. Burnham v. Superior Court of Cal. (1990) 495 U.S. 604, 110 S. Ct. 2105, 109 L. Ed. 2d 631, 637-638, 645

Relevant minimum contacts are respondent's contacts at time of dissolution proceeding, not respondent's past contacts with California. Muckle v. Superior Court (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 218, 227-230 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 303

Nonresident respondent's acknowledgment of receipt of summons in dissolution action did not constitute consent to jurisdiction to award child support. In re Marriage of Merideth (1982) 129 Cal. App. 3d 356, 361-362, 180 Cal. Rptr. 909

Act of nonresident, nondomiciliary father in sending his child to California pursuant to child's wishes to live with her mother was contact with California insufficient under due process clause to permit California courts to exercise in personam jurisdiction over father in child support action filed by mother in California court. Kulko v. Superior Court (1978) 436 U.S. 84, 98 S. Ct. 1690, 56 L. Ed. 2d 132, 137 , reh'g denied, 438 U.S. 908

[9] Legal Separation

Matters settled by legal separation proceeding. Faught v. Faught (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 875, 878, 106 Cal. Rptr. 751

[10] Order to Show Cause

Order to show cause serves not only as a notice of hearing but also as citation or summons, giving court personal jurisdiction over party served. Sarracino v. Superior Court (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 1, 8 n.6, 118 Cal. Rptr. 21, 529 P.2d 53 ; McAuliffe v. Coughlin (1894) 105 Cal. 268, 270, 38 P. 730

[11] Pendente Lite Relief and Orders

[a] In General

Nature and effect of pendente lite order. Moore v. Superior Court (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 804, 809-810, 87 Cal. Rptr. 620

[b] Court Commissioners

When application for pendente lite relief may be heard by court commissioner. Sarracino v. Superior Court (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 1, 5-7, 118 Cal. Rptr. 21, 529 P.2d 53

[c] Oral Testimony

Court's dismissal of order to show cause to modify spousal support was error requiring rehearing, after erroneously stating it had no discretion regarding receiving or excluding oral testimony at hearing. In re Marriage of Hunt (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 872, 875-876, 218 Cal. Rptr. 451

Ability of court to exclude oral testimony at hearing on application for pendente lite relief under former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1225(a) also included discretion to receive it. In re Marriage of Hunt (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 872, 875, 218 Cal. Rptr. 451 ; In re Marriage of Perkal (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 413, 418, 143 Cal. Rptr. 575

[d] Property

Trial court has power to order one potential community asset to be sold to save another such asset. Lee v. Superior Court (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 705, 711, 134 Cal. Rptr. 43

Fact that property is listed in petition under paragraph three requiring statement of property subject to court's disposition does not foreclose trial court from making inquiry into character of property and making a finding or precluding petitioner from offering proof on issue. In re Marriage of Wall (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 1042, 1047-1048 n. 3, 106 Cal. Rptr. 690

[e] Temporary Restraining Orders

Because proceeding is deemed pending from time of commencement until final determination on appeal or until time for appeal has passed, court may issue temporary restraining orders under former Civ. Code § 4359 (now see Fam. Code §§ 231-235, 240-246, 2040-2041, 2045, 6218, 6320-6327) during appeal. In re Marriage of Van Hook (1983) 147

Cal. App. 3d 970, 982, 195 Cal. Rptr. 541

Temporary restraining orders issued under former Civ. Code § 4359 (now see Fam. Code §§ 231-235, 240-246, 2040-2041, 2045, 6218, 6320-6327) converted, following hearing, into preliminary injunctions authorized by former Civ. Code § 4351 (now see Fam. Code §§ 200, 2010, 2060(b)). In re Marriage of Van Hook (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 970, 977-978, 195 Cal. Rptr. 541

[f] Temporary Support

Temporary support is authorized pending appeal of order setting aside obligee's default. In re Marriage of Baltins (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 66, 94-95, 260 Cal. Rptr. 403

Husband was not entitled to offset against temporary support payments based on rental income received by wife when original temporary support order was based on declaration by wife showing rental income. In re Marriage of Johnson (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 57, 64, 191 Cal. Rptr. 545

Application for temporary support is heard and determined on record of its own; although not a separate action, proceeding is one for separate judgment independent of final judgment in case. Sarracino v. Superior Court (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 1, 9, 118 Cal. Rptr. 21, 529 P.2d 53

Temporary support pending litigation is independent of any alimony award in main action; power of court to make such award continues during pendency of any appeal. Bain v. Superior Court (1974) 36 Cal. App. 3d 804, 807-808, 111 Cal. Rptr. 848

When principal action or proceeding is subsequently terminated by dismissal or abatement, temporary support order remains enforceable as to amounts accruing prior to termination. Sarracino v. Superior Court (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 1, 8-9, 118 Cal. Rptr. 21, 529 P.2d 53

Pendente lite order for support as remaining in full force and effect until main proceeding is adjudicated, dismissed, or otherwise terminated. Moore v. Superior Court (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 804, 809-811, 87 Cal. Rptr. 620 ; Bryan v. Bryan (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 833, 839, 63 Cal. Rptr. 612 .

Purpose of pendente lite support. Estate of Fawcett (1965) 232 Cal. App. 2d 770, 784, 43 Cal. Rptr. 160 ; Whelan v. Whelan (1948) 87 Cal. App. 2d 690, 692, 197 P.2d 361

[12] Public Policy

Marital relationship as one infused with substantial public interest subject to plenary control by state. In re Marriage of Walton (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 108, 112, 104 Cal. Rptr. 472

[13] Response

[a] Allegations Admitted

Allegations of petition for dissolution admitted by response as binding on parties and outside issues to be tried. In re Marriage of Karlin (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 25, 32, 101 Cal. Rptr. 240

[b] Motion to Quash

Trial court as erring in grant of motion to quash family law proceeding brought by genuinely interested person on behalf of incompetent spouse; trial court as required to appoint another guardian ad litem if it summarily rejects petitioner's request for appointment as guardian ad litem. In re Marriage of Caballero (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1152, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 46 .

Motion to quash action for legal separation on grounds that probate action is pending as improper when family law proceeding was filed first in time; family law court as having jurisdiction to proceed with all aspects of family law action. In re Marriage of Caballero (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1152, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 46 .

[14] Uncontested Proceeding

Petition and attachments in family law proceeding as not required to assign specific values to property items listed there in order to divide that property in a default judgment. In re Marriage of Andresen (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 873, 878-880, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 147 (distinguishing In re Marriage of Lippel (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 1160, 1166-1167, 276 Cal. Rptr. 290, 801 P.2d 1041 as requiring that petition specify type of relief, not amount of relief)

[15] Venue

Spouse's nonimmigrant status as a tourist as not precluding finding of residence under California law for purposes of obtaining dissolution. In re Marriage of Dick (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 144, 154, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 743

Residence requirement as not applying to legal separation proceedings, although venue and change of venue is the same as that for dissolution. Forster v. Superior Court (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 782, 785-787, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 258

Change of venue as proper under both Code Civ. Proc. § 397(a) and (e) when petitioner is unemployed and has no obligations tying him or her to original forum, community will have to bear litigation and support costs, and respondent is employed in second county and has daily responsibility of caring for parties' children whose schooling would be disrupted if case were heard in petitioner's county. Silva v. Superior Court (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 301, 305-307, 173 Cal. Rptr. 832

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJurisdictionPersonal Jurisdiction & In Rem ActionsIn Personam ActionsMinimum ContactsCivil ProcedureJurisdictionSubject Matter JurisdictionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportCosts & Attorney FeesFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceNo-Fault GroundsIrreconcilable DifferencesFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.213

§ 221.213 Law Reviews

Sogg, Advice on Giving Advice, 37 Prac. Law. 81 (Jan. 1991)

Atwood, Fighting Over Indian Children: The Uses and Abuses of Jurisdictional Ambiguity, 36 U.C.L.A. L. Rev. 1051 (1989)

Fullenweider, Fees in Divorce Cases, 25 Trial 48 (Apr. 1989)

Sarat & Felstiner, Lawyers and Legal Consciousness: Law Talk in the Divorce Lawyer's Office, 98 Yale L.J. 1663 (1989)

Winer, Get Started on the Right Foot, 11(2) Fam. Advocate 6 (1988)

DeLong, Straight Talk on Fees, 11(2) Fam. Advocate 34 (1988).

Atwood, Domestic Relations in Federal Court: Toward a Principled Exercise of Jurisdiction, 35 Hastings L.J. 571 (1984)

Hawkens, The Effect of Schaffer v. Heitner on the Jurisdictional Standard in Ex ParteDivorces, 18 Fam. L.Q. 213 (1984)

Gozansky, Renjilian, & Zuckman, Divorce Law (Part 3), 27(2) Prac. Law. 67 (1981)

Gozansky, Renjilian, & Zuckman, Divorce Law Practice (Part 2), 27(1) Prac. Law. 27 (1981)

Gardner, Summary Judgment And Dismissal Motion In Dissolution of Marriage Proceedings, 15 Bev. Hills B.J. 373

(1980)

Gozansky, Renjilian, & Zuckman, Divorce Law Practice (Part 1), 26(8) Prac. Law. 11 (1980)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportCosts & Attorney FeesFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceJurisdictionGeneral OverviewGovernmentsNative AmericansIndian Child Welfare ActLegal EthicsClient RelationsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.214

§ 221.214 Text References

California Community Property With Tax Analysis, Ch. 11, Related Aspects of Dissolution or Separation , Part B (Matthew Bender)

Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Chs. 90-95, 97, 98 (Matthew Bender 2d ed.)

Denner, Rothschild & Johnson, California Family Law Trial Guide, Unit 4 (Matthew Bender)

California Legal Forms, Ch. 86 Agreements for Professional Services , Ch. 111, Premarital ; Ch. 112, Postnuptial Agreements ; Ch. 120, Marital (Matthew Bender)

California Points and Authorities, Ch. 114, Husband and Wife (Matthew Bender)

Rutkin, Family Law and Practice, Ch. 1, The Initial Client Interview (Matthew Bender)

Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 2, Jurisdiction, § 262 et seq.; vol. 5, Pleading, § 837 et seq. (4th ed.)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceJurisdictionGeneral OverviewLegal EthicsClient RelationsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 221.215-221.229

[Reserved]

§§ 221.215[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Bringing The Case To Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.230

§ 221.230 State Statutes

Adverse witnesses. Evid. Code § 776

Attorney authority to stipulate and bind client. Code Civ. Proc. § 283

Attorney withdrawal as attorney of record. Code Civ. Proc. § 285.1

Awards for attorney fees based on conduct of attorney or party. Fam. Code § 271

Awards of attorney fees, costs, and/or punitive damages for frivolous actions, delaying tactics, or failure to comply with local rules. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 128.5, 575.2(b)

Case management in family law actions. Fam. Code §§ 2330.3, 2450 et seq.

Decisions and judgments. Fam. Code § 2338

Declarations of disclosure. Fam. Code §§ 2103, 2105-2113

Disqualification of judges. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 170-170.6

Judgment books; alternative entry of judgments. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 668, 668.5

Opinions of experts. Evid. Code § 801

Order of proceedings. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 607, 631.7

Postponements. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 594a, 595.2

Preference of child custody and support cases. Fam. Code §§ 3023, 4003

Prohibition against eavesdropping evidence. Fam. Code § 2022

Qualification of expert witness. Evid. Code § 720

References and trials by referees. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 638, 639, 641-645.1

Restoration of former or birth name. Fam. Code §§ 2080, 2081

Specific acts of misconduct. Fam. Code § 2335

Statements of decision. Code Civ. Proc. § 632

Unavailability at trial. Evid. Code § 240

Use of discovery material at trial. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2025.620, 2030.410

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudicial OfficersJudgesDisqualifications & RecusalsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudicial OfficersRefereesAppointmentsCivil ProcedureTrialsBench TrialsEvidenceTestimonyExpertsGeneral OverviewLegal EthicsClient RelationsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Bringing The Case To Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.231

§ 221.231 California Rules of Court

Applicability of general law to family law proceedings. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.21

Civil Law and Motion Rules. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100-3.1370

Electronic recordings offered in evidence. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1040

References to temporary judges. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.900-3.927

Sealing court records. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550 et seq.

Settlement conferences. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1380

Statements of decision. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePleading & PracticeMotion PracticeGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureSettlementsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsBench TrialsEvidenceDemonstrative EvidenceRecordingsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Bringing The Case To Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.232

§ 221.232 Decisions

[1] Closed Hearings

Court as empowered to direct trial of any issue of fact joined in family law proceeding to be private, and as being empowered to exclude everyone except officers of court, parties, witnesses, and counsel. Whitney v. Whitney (1958) 164 Cal. App. 2d 577, 582, 330 P.2d 947

[2] Disqualification of Judge

Party asserting disqualification by peremptory challenge who fails to bring issue to trial court's attention as waiving right to assert disqualification on appeal. Andrisani v. Saugus Colony Ltd. (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 517, 523-524, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 444

[3] Judgments

Clerk as having no authority to enter judgment on his or her own without court action. Estate of Dargie (1912) 162 Cal. 51, 53, 121 P. 320]

[4] Pretrial Statements

Failure to file reply statement in jurisdiction requiring pretrial statement and regarding it a request for admissions as constituting admission admission of factual contentions made in statement filed by other party. La Bue v. Superior Court (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 264, 142 Cal. Rptr. 83

[5] Prohibited Evidence

Illegal eavesdropping in domestic relations setting as constituting violation of federal law. People v. Otto (1992) 2 Cal. 4th 1088, 1099-1100, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 596, 831 P.2d 1178

Victim of illegal eavesdropping to obtain evidence in family law proceeding as entitled to civil cause of action for damages. Ribas v. Clark (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 355, 358-363, 212 Cal. Rptr. 143, 696 P.2d 637

[6] Reference of Case or Factual Issues to Referee

Unless done by agreement of parties, delegation of judicial authority to special master to make factual findings and exercise judgment in determining parties' incomes to set spousal support as abuse of discretion. In re Marriage of Olson (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1, 3, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 480

Party's failure to file timely objections in writing to referee's report or to move to set aside report as constituting waiver of party's right to object to referee's findings. Martino v. Denevi (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 553, 555-557, 227 Cal. Rptr. 354

Absent parties' agreement, court as being prohibited from ordering reference in dissolution proceeding unless issue specifically falls within matters addressed by Code Civ. Proc. § 639. In re Marriage of Galis (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 147, 152-153, 196 Cal. Rptr. 659

[7] Request for Jury

Although court has power to order any issue of fact to be tried by jury, order as rarely, if ever, issued in family law proceeding; denial of request for jury trial as not constituting abuse of discretion. In re Marriage of Kim (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 364, 373, 256 Cal. Rptr. 217

Findings of jury as only advisory and not binding on court in rendering its statement of decision. Cutter Lab. v. R. W. Ogle & Co. (1957) 151 Cal. App. 2d 410, 418, 311 P.2d 627

[8] Statements of Decision

Party's failure to request mathematical breakdown of attorney's fees for posttrial proceedings as preventing appellate court from determining how trial court ruled regarding challenged fees when statement of decision otherwise contained no fee allocation for any particular proceeding. In re Marriage of Green (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 584, 593, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 872

Omission from statement of decision of requested calculations on valuation of medical practice as reversible error. In re Marriage of Ananeh-Firempong (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 272, 284, 268 Cal. Rptr. 83

Transcript of proceedings setting forth basis of trial court's ruling as making statement of decision unnecessary on appeal. In re Marriage of Powers (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 626, 634 n.5, 267 Cal. Rptr. 350

Failure to request statement of decision on trial court's valuation of community interest in asset as fatal to appellate attack on the valuation. In re Marriage of Hebbring (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1260, 1274, 255 Cal. Rptr. 488

Oral "statement of decision" as permitted supplementation by written statement of decision because Code Civ. Proc. § 632 and former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 232 (now Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590) merely describe situations that require written statements. Khan v. Superior Court (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1168, 1173 n.4, 251 Cal. Rptr. 815

[9] Stipulations

Stipulation entered into by attorney without client's authorization as subject to being set aside if dispute is substantially resolved by stipulation. In re Marriage of Helsel (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 332, 339-340, 243 Cal. Rptr. 657

Although stipulation that is ambiguous on its face may be clarified by parol evidence in absence of any patent ambiguity, extrinsic evidence as not being available to alter apparent intent of parties. In re Marriage of Wright (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 1115, 1121, 126 Cal. Rptr. 894

[10] Withdrawal of Attorney

Attorney's failure to withdraw formally from family law proceeding as not tolling statute of limitations for legal malpractice action against attorney. Shapero v. Fliegel (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 842, 846-849, 236 Cal. Rptr. 696

Failure to notify client of withdrawal of attorney of record as constituting valid ground for disciplinary action against attorney. Finch v. State Bar (1981) 28 Cal. 3d 659, 664-665, 170 Cal. Rptr. 629, 621 P.2d 253

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudicial OfficersJudgesDisqualifications & RecusalsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudicial OfficersReferencesCivil ProcedurePretrial MattersGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsBench TrialsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Bringing The Case To Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.233

§ 221.233 Law Reviews

Sesasums, Organizing a Divorce Case for Trial, 32(4) Prac. Law. 73 (1986)

Hurowitz, How to Settle a Support Case, 26(5) Prac. Law. 27 (1980)

Rosenson, The Use of Tax Returns in Domestic Relations Matters, 14 Bev. Hills B.J. 293 (1980)

Lascher, Oral Argument for Fun and Profit, 48 Cal. St. B.J. 398 (1973).

Woodworth, Commentary by Counsel, 48 Cal. St. B.J. 273 (1973)

Cohn & Blum, Pre-Trial and Settlement Procedures, 11 C.T.L.A. Journal 85 (Fall 1972)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureSettlementsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePretrial MattersGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsBench TrialsCivil ProcedureTrialsOpening StatementsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Bringing The Case To Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.234

§ 221.234 Text References

Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Chs. 94, 110-112, 121, 122 (Matthew Bender 2d ed.)

Denner, Rothschild & Johnson, California Family Law Trial Guide, Units 4, 20 (Matthew Bender)

Hogoboom, California Basic Practice Guide: Family Law 1, ch. 13, Contested Trials (The Rutter Group, 1981)

Witkin, California Procedure, Pleading, §§ 736-748, Trial, §§ 1-72, 121-189 (2d ed.)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 11, Husband and Wife, §§ 20, 57-70, 72-143, 156, 370, 385 (dissolution of marriage), 144-147 (legal separation) (10th ed. 2005)

Courtroom Conduct: Tactics, Ethics, Contempt, and Common Sense (Cal. C.E.B., 1977)

Practice Under the California Family Law Act: Dissolution, Legal Separation, Nullity (Cal. C.E.B. 1992)

Preparing and Examining Expert Witnesses (Cal. C.E.B., 1978)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsGeneral OverviewEvidenceTestimonyExpertsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal SeparationLegal EthicsProfessional ConductTribunals

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Bringing The Case To Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 221.235-221.249

[Reserved]

§§ 221.235[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Dismissals And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.250

§ 221.250 California Family Law Practice and Procedure

For discussion and forms relating to dismissals, statements of decision, and judgments in family law proceedings, see Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Chs. 120- 122 (Matthew Bender 2d ed.)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsBench TrialsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Dismissals And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.251

§ 221.251 Federal Statutes

Qualified Domestic Relations Orders (QDROs). 29 U.S.C. § 1056(d)(3)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Pensions & Benefits LawEmployee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA)Participation & VestingQualified Domestic Relations Orders

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Dismissals And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.252

§ 221.252 State Statutes

[1] Dismissal of Proceedings

Dismissals. Code Civ. Proc. § 581

[2] Judgment of Dissolution or Legal Separation

Continuance for reconciliation. Fam. Code § 2334

Decisions; judgments. Fam. Code § 2338.

Waiting period before dissolution judgment becomes final. Fam. Code § 2339

Statement in judgment of date marriage terminates. Fam. Code § 2340

Effect on judgment of appeal or motion for new trial. Fam. Code § 2341

Retention of jurisdiction over date of termination. Fam. Code § 2343

Death of either party; effect of after entry of judgment. Fam. Code § 2344

Entry of judgment nunc pro tunc. Fam. Code § 2346

Continuing jurisdiction to award community estate assets or liabilities. Fam. Code § 2556

Retention of jurisdiction. Fam. Code § 4336

[3] Restoration of Name

Restoration of party's former name. Fam. Code §§ 2080-2082; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-395 (form of ex parte application)

[4] Statement of Decision

Statement of decision in lieu of written findings and conclusions. Code Civ. Proc. § 632

Court findings regarding standard of living and other circumstances. Fam. Code § 4332

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePretrial MattersContinuancesCivil ProcedureTrialsBench TrialsCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsNunc Pro Tunc ReliefFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceJurisdictionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Dismissals And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.253

§ 221.253 California Rules of Court

Announcement of tentative decision, statement of decision and judgment. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590

Statement of decision, judgment, and motion for new trial following bifurcated trial. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1591

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsBench Trials

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Dismissals And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.254

§ 221.254 Decisions

[1] Dismissal for Failure to Prosecute

Trial court erred in dismissing putative father's motion to dismiss county's action under child support order for reimbursement of assistance payments made on behalf of daughter for county's failure to bring action to trial within five years. County of Orange v. Quinn (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 956, 958-964, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 833 But see County of Orange v. Rosales (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 1214, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 788 (on facts virtually identical to Quinn, except county successfully terminated father's parental rights, trial court properly dismissed county's reimbursement action for failure to bring it to trial within five years because of lack of continuing child support order).

Bifurcated proceeding in which court terminated marital status and had later received evidence, sworn witnesses, and taken testimony on issues related to property was "partial trial" that satisfied five-year dismissal statutes. In re Marriage of MacFarlane & Lang (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 247, 253-254, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 157

Dismissal of bifurcated dissolution action not brought to retrial within three years when temporary child support order still in force is prohibited. In re Marriage of Hinds (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1398, 1403-1405, 253 Cal. Rptr. 170

[2] Judgments

Court's withholding of dissolution judgment to punish party's contempt violates law and public policy that favors elimination of fault. In re Marriage of Gray (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1239, 1254, 251 Cal. Rptr. 846

Rules for construing ambiguous judgment or order. Verner v. Verner (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 718, 724, 143 Cal. Rptr. 826

Trial court has power to correct mistakes and annul orders and judgments inadvertently or improvidently made, that is, judgments and orders that were not actually the result of the exercise of judgment. In re Marriage of Mercado (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 701, 704, 141 Cal. Rptr. 423

[3] Statements of Decision

Code Civ. Proc. § 638 requires that referee issue sua sponte a statement of decision explaining factual and legal basis for his or her decision on each controverted issue. In re Marriage of Demblewski (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 232, 236, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 533

Omission from statement of decision of requested calculations on valuation of medical practice was reversible error. In re Marriage of Ananeh-Firempong (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 272, 284, 268 Cal. Rptr. 83

Omission of mathematical calculations from trial court's statement of decision did not constitute reversible error on appeal. In re Marriage of Zaentz (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 154, 167, 267 Cal. Rptr. 31

Transcript of proceedings that adequately sets forth basis of trial court's ruling makes statement of decision unnecessary on appeal. In re Marriage of Powers (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 626, 634 n.5, 267 Cal. Rptr. 350

Failure to request statement of decision on trial court's valuation of community interest in asset as fatal to appellate attack on the valuation. In re Marriage of Hebbring (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1260, 1274, 255 Cal. Rptr. 488

Memorandum of trial court's intended decision as no substitute for properly requested statement of decision, and not a part of record on appeal. In re Marriage of Ditto (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 643, 646-647, 253 Cal. Rptr. 770

Oral "statement of decision" as permitted supplementation by written statement of decision. Khan v. Superior Court (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1168, 1173 n.4, 251 Cal. Rptr. 815

Postjudgment spousal support orders as reversed when statement of decision is inadequate and is based on assumptions unsupported by record. In re Marriage of Hoffmeister (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 351, 360-366, 236 Cal. Rptr. 543 (Hoffmeister II)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDismissalsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsBench TrialsCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsNunc Pro Tunc ReliefFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Dismissals And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.255

§ 221.255 Law Reviews

Gozansky, Renjilian, & Zuckman, Divorce Law (Part 3), 27(2) Prac. Law. 67 (1981)

Gozansky, Renjilian, & Zuckman, Divorce Law Practice (Part 2), 27(1) Prac. Law. 27 (1981)

Gozansky, Renjilian, & Zuckman, Divorce Law Practice (Part 1), 26(8) Prac. Law. 11 (1980)

Gardner, Summary Judgment And Dismissal Motion In Dissolution of Marriage Proceedings, 15 Bev. Hills B.J. 373 (1980)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDismissalsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureSummary JudgmentGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Dismissals And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.256

§ 221.256 Text References

California Points and Authorities, Ch. 90, Dismissal , Ch. 215, Statement of Decision (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDismissalsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
C. Dismissals And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 221.257-221.269

[Reserved]

§§ 221.257[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.270

§ 221.270 California Family Law Practice and Procedure

For discussion and forms relating to relief from judgments and orders in the trial court, see Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 131 (Matthew Bender 2d ed.)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.271

§ 221.271 State Statutes

Relief from mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect. Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b)

Correction of clerical errors in judgment or order. Code Civ. Proc. § 473(d)

Motion to set aside void judgment or order. Code Civ. Proc. § 473(d)

Time limit on seeking relief from default or default judgment. Code Civ. Proc. § 473.5

Motion for new trial. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 655-662.5, 663.1, 663.2

Motion to vacate judgment and enter different judgment. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 663, 663a

Motion to reconsider or renewed motion. Code Civ. Proc. § 1008

Notice required for any order subsequent to entry of judgment or permanent order. Fam. Code § 215

Motion to set aside judgment on specified equitable grounds. Fam. Code § 2120 et seq.

Continuing jurisdiction of court to award community estate assets or liabilities. Fam. Code § 2556

Motion for relief from support order. Fam. Code § 3690 et seq.

Relief from support judgment in agency-initiated action, based on mistaken identity. Fam. Code § 17530

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsNunc Pro Tunc ReliefCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentExcusable Neglect & MistakesGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentMotions to VacateCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentVoid JudgmentsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.272

§ 221.272 California Rules of Court

Hearing on motion to vacate judgment. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1602

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentMotions to VacateFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.273

§ 221.273 Decisions--New Trial

Negligence of moving party's attorney as insufficient basis for establishing facts under which moving party was prejudicially surprised without any default or negligence on his or her part. In re Marriage of Liu (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 143, 154-155, 242 Cal. Rptr. 649

Merits of motion for new trial denied by operation of law as reviewable on appeal in same manner as if expressly denied by court, even in case in which appellant has caused failure to have motion heard within statutory time period or when motion is based on affidavits that trial court did not pass on. In re Marriage of Liu (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 143, 152-153, 152 n.3, 242 Cal. Rptr. 649

Timely filing of notice of intention to move for new trial as jurisdictional; time cannot be extended or waived by parties. In re Marriage of Beilock (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 713, 721, 146 Cal. Rptr. 675

In case of order quashing writ of execution, period for moving for new trial as starting to run on date judge signs formal order; in case when order quashing writ of execution is denied, period as starting to run from date of minute order of judge's decision. In re Marriage of Beilock (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 713, 723, 146 Cal. Rptr. 675

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsEnforcement & ExecutionWrits of ExecutionCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentMotions for New TrialsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.274

§ 221.274 Posttrial Relief From Judgment

[1] General Grounds for Relief

Imbalance in division of community property attributable to stock market fluctuations subsequent to filing of judgment, resulting in stock run-up in values, could not support trial court's decision to set aside stipulated judgment in divorce case. In re Marriage of Heggie (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 28, 33, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 707

Trial court's denial of attorney's motion for personal relief from sanctions under Code Civ. Proc. § 473 in marital dissolution proceeding as not disturbed on appeal without showing of abuse of discretion by trial court. In re Marriage of Fuller (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 1070, 1075, 210 Cal. Rptr. 73

For purposes of Section 473 motion attacking stipulated judgment of dissolution, measuring event for six-month filing period is date of entry of judgment, not date of stipulation. In re Marriage of Jacobs (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 273, 283, 180 Cal. Rptr. 234

Provisions of Servicemembers Civil Relief Act as applicable to any order modifying judgment of dissolution or nullity of marriage or legal separation. In re Marriage of Lopez (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 776, 782-784, 173 Cal. Rptr. 718

[2] Consent Lacking

Mentally weakened condition due to anxiety, emotional anguish, or exhaustion that renders one unable to protect herself or himself as showing lack of consent; lack of capacity to contract as not necessary to show lack of consent. In re Marriage of Baltins (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 66, 85, 260 Cal. Rptr. 403 ; O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 147, 155, 119 Cal. Rptr. 245

[3] Duress

Husband's refusal to deal with wife's counsel, repeated derogatory remarks that undermined wife psychologically, threats of bankruptcy, misrepresentations regarding division of property and his entitlement to reimbursement, and pressure to take immediate action that resulted in wife's signing unconscionable agreement as establishing duress sufficient to void agreement. In re Marriage of Baltins (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 66, 84-87, 260 Cal. Rptr. 403

Evidence of grantee's threats against grantor if she did not sign quitclaim deeds, coupled with evidence of actual acts of violence before and after deeds were signed as sufficient to support finding of duress. Alderson v. Alderson (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 450, 465, 225 Cal. Rptr. 610

Court as not able to hold as matter of law that no duress exists when wife bargains away substantial property rights to protect custody rights to children and court as not required to recognize agreement if threatened use of child custody hearing caused so much fear in wife's mind that contractual volition was destroyed. In re Marriage of Gonzalez (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 736, 747-748, 129 Cal. Rptr. 566

[4] Fraud

Former wife sufficiently pleaded extrinsic fraud as basis for equitable relief from dissolution judgment by alleging that former husband, an attorney, falsely represented that he had disclosed all assets and that wife did not need separate counsel, which deprived her of opportunity to present her claim fully to court. Kuehn v. Kuehn (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 824, 831-832, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 743

Before party may invoke aid of equity for relief from dissolution judgment, party must not only allege matters by which judgment was fraudulently obtained, but must also allege that party has meritorious case, so that if facts were proven, differentresult would ensue. Kuehn v. Kuehn (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 824, 831, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 743

Marital settlement agreement and judgment thereon as able to be set aside for extrinsic fraud, which is fraud that prevents party from fully participating in proceeding. In re Marriage of Baltins (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 66, 81, 260 Cal. Rptr. 403

Extrinsic fraud as constructive fraud practiced by husband, while parties were still in confidential relationship, by threats and misrepresentations regarding value and character of assets, while he had psychological, emotional, and financial control over wife. In re Marriage of Baltins (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 66, 87-89, 260 Cal. Rptr. 403

[5] Mistake

Reasonable mistake of law as justifying setting aside stipulated judgment of dissolution when judgment is in accordance with parties' stipulation on disposition of their marital property and they operated under mistake of law when agreement was made. In re Marriage of Jacobs (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 273, 284-285, 180 Cal. Rptr. 234

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentFraudContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionProperty Settlements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.275

§ 221.275 Law Reviews

Gozansky, Renjilian, & Zuckman, Divorce Law Practice (Part 3), 27(2) Prac. Law. 67 (1981)

Gozansky, Renjilian, & Zuckman, Divorce Law Practice (Part 2), 27(1) Pract. Law. 27 (1981)

Gozansky, Renjilian, & Zuckman, Divorce Law Practice (Part 1), 26(8) Prac. Law. 11 (1980)

Note, Written Specification of Reasons for New Trial Orders, 64 Cal. L. Rev. 286 (1976)

Note, Code of Civil Procedure Section 473.5: Setting Aside Defaults and Default Judgments, 21 Hastings L.J. 1291 (1970)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePretrial JudgmentsDefaultRelief From DefaultCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentMotions for New TrialsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.276

§ 221.276 Text References

California Points and Authorities, Ch. 70, Defaults, Default Judgments, and Relief From Judgments and Orders , Ch. 155, Motions After Trial (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePretrial JudgmentsDefaultRelief From DefaultCivil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 221.277-221.289

[Reserved]

§§ 221.277[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.290

§ 221.290 California Family Law Practice and Procedure

For discussion and forms relating to modification of child or spousal support orders, and to the procedures for modifying such orders, see Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Chs. 42, 52, 130 (Matthew Bender 2d ed.)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild SupportObligationsModificationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportModification & TerminationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.291

§ 221.291 California Family Law Trial Guide

For discussion, checklists, and forms relating to modification of orders and judgments at trial, see Denner, Rothschild & Johnson, California Family Law Trial Guide, Unit 10 (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureTrialsBench TrialsFamily LawChild SupportObligationsModificationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportModification & TerminationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.292

§ 221.292 State Statutes

[1] Child Support

Notice of modification procedures. Fam. Code § 4010

Stipulated child support agreements. Fam. Code § 4065

[2] Mediation of Custody and Visitation

In general. Fam. Code §§ 3160-3164

Availability. Fam. Code §§ 3170-3173

Proceedings. Fam. Code §§ 3175-3186

[3] Modification or Termination of Support

Transfer of venue when both parties have moved from county. Code Civ. Proc. § 397.5

Availability of tax returns. Fam. Code § 3552

Modification in general. Fam. Code §§ 3650-3654

Modification or termination of temporary support. Fam. Code § 3603

Discovery before beginning modification or termination proceedings. Fam. Code §§ 3660-3668

Simplified modification of support. Fam. Code § 3680

Retention of jurisdiction over permanent support order. Fam. Code § 4336

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureVenueMotions to TransferGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild SupportObligationsModificationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceJurisdictionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportModification & TerminationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.293

§ 221.293 California Rules of Court

Application for court order. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.294

§ 221.294 Decisions

Given importance of associational interests husband claimed were impaired by post-judgment order issued from chambers modifying custody, court of appeal remanded for new hearing to consider pertinent factors concerning both children and two families of which they are a part. In re Marriage of Dunn (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 345, 348-349, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 636

District attorney is not empowered to defend recipient spouses in actions for reduction or termination of spousal support. In re Marriage of Brown (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 491, 495-497, 234 Cal. Rptr. 535

Trial court did not abuse discretion in denying request to modify spousal support in judgment providing that nonmodifiable support terminated after five years, because modification motion was brought more than one year after five-year period ended and there was no indication parties intended that court's jurisdiction to award support would extend beyond that period. In re Marriage of Segel (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 1030, 1041, 223 Cal. Rptr. 430

Court cannot treat motion to modify dissolution judgment as motion to set aside judgment on equitable grounds if portions of judgment sought to be set aside are not product of extrinsic fraud or mistake. In re Marriage of Dorris (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 1208, 1213, 207 Cal. Rptr. 160

Modification of foreign order granting visitation rights, conditioning payment of support on visitation, does not abridge or interfere with custody of children. Creed v. Schultz (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 733, 742, 196 Cal. Rptr. 252

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild CustodyModificationGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild CustodyVisitationModificationGeneral OverviewFamily LawChild

SupportObligationsModificationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportModification & TerminationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.295

§ 221.295 Law Reviews

Note, In re Marriage of Birnbaum: Modifying Child Custody Arrangements by Ignoring the Rules of the Game, 24 Loy. L.A. L. Rev. 467 (1991)

Comment, Recognizing Constitutional Rights of Custodial Parents: The Primacy of the Post-Divorce Family in Child Custody Modification Proceedings, 35 UCLA L. Rev. 677 (1988)

Wexler, Rethinking the Modification of Child Custody Decrees, 94 Yale L.J. 757 (1985)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawChild CustodyModificationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 221.296-221.309

[Reserved]

§§ 221.296[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.310

§ 221.310 Petition [Fam. Code § 2330; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-100]

[1] FORM Petition [Fam. Code § 2330; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-100]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is the mandatory Judicial Council form of petition by which to commence a proceeding for marital dissolution, legal separation, or nullity of marriage [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-100]. For illustrative purposes, it has been completed as a petition for marital dissolution. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge. For an illustrative filled-in petition for nullity of marriage, see Ch. 25, Annulment (Nullity) of Marriage and Related Spousal Rights .

In limited cases, a joint petition for summary dissolution of marriage may be filed instead of this form [Fam. Code § 2400 et seq.; see § 221.342].

[3] Completing the Form

[a] Caption

If the petitioner is appearing in propria persona, his or her name, address, and telephone number should be inserted. If this is the case, the "Attorney(s) for" designation should be crossed out, and "In pro. per." should be inserted.

Every proceeding must be prosecuted and defended in the names of the real parties in interest [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.100], and therefore only the husband or the wife can be the petitioner in a dissolution or legal separation action [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.102]. However, an incompetent spouse may bring a dissolution proceeding through the conservator of his or her estate or through a guardian ad litem [see In re Marriage of Caballero (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1149-1150, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 46] . A party may file the petition using the name by which he or she is known rather than his or her married name, and thus a petition is valid when filed using a party's birth name [Weathers v. Superior Court (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 286, 288-289, 126 Cal. Rptr. 547] . If a lis pendens will be filed, however, the petitioner should use the name by which he or she holds title to the real property in question so that the lis pendens will give notice of the proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. § 405.20].

[b] Residence

If the petition is for dissolution, one of the two boxes must be checked to establish that the court has jurisdiction.

[c] Statistical Facts

The appropriate dates should be filled in. The date of separation alleged is important, as separation changes the status of property earned during marriage to separate property [see Fam. Code § 771].

[d] Minor Children

Either Box 3.a. or 3.b. should be checked to indicate whether there are minor children. If there are, their names and other information must be set forth. Also, if there are children, a completed Declaration Under Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act form must be attached [Fam. Code § 3429]. Foran approved form of declaration, see § 221.312 [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-105].

Note that minor children of the petitioner and respondent who were born before the date of marriage or who were adopted during the marriage should be included as part of the petitioner's declaration regarding children. If paternity of children born to the parties before the date of marriage is disputed, that issue may be decided in the dissolution or legal separation proceeding [Fam. Code § 2330.1]. If paternity is not in dispute, the parties should complete and attach a voluntary declaration of paternity, and mark the checkoff box in Item 3 indicating that the declaration is attached.

[e] Separate Property

All property that the petitioner wishes to have confirmed as separate assets or separate obligations should be listed in Paragraph 4 or on an attachment to the petition. The assets and obligations may also be set forth in the Judicial Council form of property declaration [see Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-160 (property declaration); FL-161 (continuation of property declaration)]. The descriptions should be as specific as practical to avoid a later contention that a particular piece of property or obligation was not properly claimed to be separate.

[f] Community and Quasi-Community Property

Paragraph 5 requires the petitioner to indicate whether there are community and quasi-community assets and obligations subject to disposition by the court (and, if so, to list that property) or whether the parties have disposed of their property by written agreement.

By checking Box 5.a., the petitioner indicates that no property is subject to disposition by the court "in this proceeding." Unless counsel is absolutely certain that no property is subject to disposition by the court, Box 5.a. should not be checked. If it is, the petitioner may be barred by res judicata from claiming in a later action that community property actually existed and from asserting rights in the property. Box 5.b. should be checked when there are community assets and obligations subject to disposition by the court. These assets and obligations must be listed in the petition, the Judicial Council form of property declaration [see Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-160 (property declaration); FL-161 (continuation of property declaration)], or in an attachment to the petition.

Generally, it is prudent to include as complete and accurate a declaration regarding property as possible with the petition, rather than relying on a later amendment or other filing in which to make the declaration. Some general descriptions such as "household furniture and furnishings" can be used, but significant valuable items should be listed separately to avoid a later contention that they were not claimed as community property [see In re Marriage of Wall (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 1042, 1049, 106 Cal. Rptr. 690] . Similarly, community liabilities should be listed and identified as completely and clearly as possible. It also is prudent to include a catch-all description to avoid omitting any unknown community property, such as "Various other items of community property, the exact nature, extent, and location of which is unknown to petitioner," and to state that the petitioner will seek to amend the petition to include an exact description when discovery is completed.

Strictly speaking, no listing in the petition of the value of the property to be divided is required, even when a Judicial Council form of Property Declaration, which contains columns for setting out both value and a proposed property division, is attached to the petition [see § 221.334]. The Property Declaration itself contains instructions indicating that when it is attached to a petition or response, neither property values nor a proposal regarding division needs to be completed. Accordingly, it is sufficient, for the purposes of later evaluating the petition in default proceedings, that the property to be divided is listed and that all appropriate boxes in the petition and any accompanying Judicial Council forms are filled in according to the instructions provided by the Judicial Council [see In re Marriage of Andresen (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 873, 879-880, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 147 ; for a Judicial Council form of Property Declaration (Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-160) see § 221.334].

Care should be taken not to list as community property any asset that is claimed to be separate property. However, it has been held that merely listing the property as property "subject to disposition by the court" is not an admission that it is community property without a specific allegation in the petition to that effect [In re Marriage of Wall (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 1042, 1047-1048, 106 Cal. Rptr. 690] .

[g] Type of Relief Sought

Paragraph 6 requires the petitioner to specify whether the petition is for legal separation, dissolution, or nullity, as well as the exact statutory basis or bases for the relief sought.

[h] Request for Relief

The appropriate boxes must be checked in Paragraph 7 to indicate the relief requested. Boxes 7.a.-d. are applicable if there are minor children of the marriage. Box 7.c. also should be used when the petitioner is a stepparent seeking visitation of the respondent's child, who is not a child of the marriage [see Fam. Code § 2010]. Box 7.f. should be checked if spousal support is sought or if the petitioner concedes that the respondent should receive spousal support. The petitioner should check Box 7.h. when seeking court determination of property rights, unless the parties have no community or separate property to be divided or separate property to be confirmed. Box 7.e. for attorney's fees and costs boxshould be checked if they are sought. Box 7.i. is for use in obtaining restoration of the petitioner's former name.

The petition contains additional checkoff boxes. The first of these (Box 7.g.) is to request termination of the court's jurisdiction to award spousal support to the respondent. Although a court may have authority to terminate spousal support over a party, strict statutory guidelines govern when the court must reserve jurisdiction over support, particularly with respect to marriages of long duration [see Fam. Code § 4336]. A separate checkoff box (Box 7.d.) is provided to request that the court determine the parentage of any child born to the petitioner and respondent before the date of their marriage [see Fam. Code § 2330.1]. A third additional checkoff box (Box 7.j.) is to request "other" relief, which must then be specified. In view of the general prohibition on asserting other causes of action or claims for relief in the petition (apart from those in the California Rules of Court or the Family Code), it presently is unclear what "other" relief may be requested [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.104]. Nevertheless, it appears that this box at least may be used to explain requests regarding child custody, visitation, or child support in which the relief requested was other than that printed on the form.

[i] Notice of Child Support

The statement in Paragraph 8 informs the respondent that, if there are minor children of the marriage, including children born to the petitioner and respondent before the date of their marriage, or adopted by them after marriage, the court will order child support on request and submission of financial forms without further notice to either party, and a wage assignment will be issued. In addition, a notice on the front of the petition warns that any party required to pay child support must pay interest on overdue amounts at the "legal" amount [Code Civ. Proc. § 695.210 (amount required to satisfy money judgment includes interest); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 695.211 (every money judgment or order for child support must provide this notice), which is currently 10 percent see Code Civ. Proc. § 685.010].

[j] Declaration Regarding Orders in Summons

Paragraph 9 contains a preprinted declaration indicating that the petitioner has read the restraining orders that are set forth on the back of the Family Law Summons (see § 221.313) and understands that they apply to the petitioner when the petition is filed [see Fam. Code § 2040(a)].

[k] Social Security Numbers

A petition for dissolution, nullity, or legal separation must include a separate, one-page document that lists all relevant Social Security numbers known to the petitioner, which pertain to the petitioner, the respondent, and the parties' minor children [Fam. Code § 2024.5(a)]. This list must be placed in the confidential portion of the court file of the proceeding, and may not be disclosed except for good cause shown to the court [Fam. Code § 2024.5(c)]. The petitioner may redact any Social Security number that was placed in the confidential portion of the court file from any pleading, attachment, document, or other written material filed with the court only after the document listing all relevant Social Security numbers is placed in the confidential portion of the court file [Fam. Code § 2024.5(e)].

[4] State Statutes

Required notice regarding accrued interest on child support arrearages. Code Civ. Proc. § 695.211

Jurisdiction in Superior Court. Fam. Code §§ 200, 2010-2012

General procedural provisions. Fam. Code §§ 210-215

Summons, temporary restraining orders in. Fam. Code §§ 231-235, 2040-2041

Social Security numbers. Fam. Code § 2024.5

Summons, warning regarding jointly held property in. Fam. Code § 2040(b)

Grounds. Fam. Code §§ 2310-2313

Residence requirement. Fam. Code §§ 2320-2322

Petition for dissolution or legal separation. Fam. Code § 2330

Service on other spouse. Fam. Code § 2331

Legal Separation; consent of parties to. Fam. Code §§ 2345

[5] Family Law Rules

Family Law Rules, applicability of. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.20, 5.21

Designation of parties, parties to proceeding, and other causes of action. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.100-5.104

Injunctive relief, restraining orders, and reservation of jurisdiction. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.106, 5.110, 5.112

Pleadings. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.108, 5.128

Appearance. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.120

Family law forms. Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-100 et seq.

[6] Text References

Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice And procedure, 2nd ed., Ch. 92 (Matthew Bender)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.311

§ 221.311 Preliminary Declaration of Disclosure--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code §§ 2103-2113; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-140]

[1] FORM Preliminary Declaration of Disclosure--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code §§ 2103-2113; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-140]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form reproduced above is the special preliminary declaration of disclosure that each party in a marital dissolution proceeding must serve on the other within 60 days of service of the petition [see Fam. Code § 2104; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-140]. The declaration is not to be filed with the court [Fam. Code § 2104(b)], except on court order.

The preliminary declaration of disclosure must be set forth with sufficient particularity that "a person of reasonable and ordinary intelligence can ascertain" the identity of all assets in which the declarant has or may have an interest, together with all liabilities for which the declarant is or may be liable, regardless of the characterization of the asset or liability as community, quasi-community, or separate property. The declarant must set forth his or her percentage of ownership in each asset and percentage of obligation for each liability in those instances in which property is not solely owned by one or both of the parties to the dissolution action. In addition, the declarant may set forth his or her characterization of each asset or liability [Fam. Code § 2104(c)].

For a form for use for a final declaration of disclosure, see § 221.370 et seq.

[3] Completing the Form

The form functions largely as a cover or face sheet for attachments not reproduced here. In view of the statutory requirements for a preliminary declaration of disclosure [see Fam. Code § 2104(c)], it appears that, at a minimum, boxes 1 (Completed Schedule of Assets and Debts) and 2 (Completed Income and Expense Declaration) of the form must be marked and the corresponding items attached. A separate attachment may be needed in conjunction with the Schedule of Assets and Debts form to set forth, in appropriate cases, the percentage of ownership in each asset and the percentage of obligation for each liability in which property is not solely owned by one or both of the parties [see Fam. Code § 2104(c)(1)].

In addition, though no check-off box for this is provided, the declarant may set forth his or her characterization of each asset or liability [see Fam. Code § 2104(c)(2)], apparently through a separate attachment, with reference to the attachment made on the disclosure form [see, e.g., Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-160].

In an appropriate case, the declarant also may have sufficient information to use the additional check-off boxes and their corresponding attachments for statements of valuation of community property assets (Box 3) and statements regarding community obligations (Box 4).

Box 5 is for use in indicating that an attachment is included that sets forth an accurate and complete written disclosure of any investment opportunity, business opportunity, or other income-producing opportunity presented since the date of separation that results directly from any investment, significant business activityoutside the ordinary course of business, or other income-producing opportunity of either spouse from the date of marriage to the date of separation, inclusive [Fam. Code § 2102(a)(2)]. The written disclosure must be made "in sufficient time for the other spouse to make an informed decision as to whether he or she desires to participate in the investment opportunity, business, or other potential income-producing opportunity, and for the court to resolve any dispute regarding the right of the other spouse to participate in the opportunity" [Fam. Code § 2102(a)(2)].

[4] State Statutes

Service of preliminary declaration of disclosure on other party. Fam. Code § 2103

Requirements for service and contents of preliminary declaration of disclosure. Fam. Code § 2104

Failure to comply or to specify with particularity. Fam. Code § 2107

No liquidation of assets without service of declaration. Fam. Code § 2108

Disclosure as not abrogating work product privilege or court power to issue protective orders. Fam. Code § 2111

Forms to be adopted by Judicial Council. Fam. Code § 2112

Applicability of requirements to proceedings commenced on or after January 1, 1993. Fam. Code § 2113

[5] Cross References

For a related form, see § 221.310.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.312

§ 221.312 Declaration Under Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-105 [Fam. Code § 3429]

[1] FORM Declaration Under Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-105 [Fam. Code § 3429]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is the Judicial Council's approved form of Declaration Under Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-105]. Every party must file a declaration under the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (UCCJEA) with his or her first pleading in any case in which there are minor children of the marriage that is the subject of the proceeding. The contents of the declaration are prescribed by statute [see Fam. Code § 3429]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

For discussion of the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (UCCJEA; Fam. Code § 3400 et seq.), see Ch. 394, Parent and Child .

[3] State Statutes

Information regarding children to be provided to court by every party to custody proceeding in his or her first pleading or in affidavit attached to first pleading. Fam. Code § 3429

[4] Cross References

For a related form, see § 221.310.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.313

§ 221.313 Summons--Family Law--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-110]

[1] FORM Summons--Family Law--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-110]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form set forth above is the mandatory Judicial Council form of Summons for use in a family law proceeding. The summons must be prepared by the petitioner and presented to the clerk for issuance by the clerk immediately after the petition is filed. Preparation of the summons requires filling in the names ofthe parties, the case number (inserted by the court clerk), the name and address of the court, and the name, address, telephone number, and State Bar number of the petitioner's attorney (or of the petitioner, if unrepresented). The reverse side of the form contains the standard family law restraining orders applicable to both parties. Sufficient copies should be made to provide several copies for use in service and a file copy.

[3] State Statutes

Motion to quash service of summons. Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10

Summons, temporary restraining orders in. Fam. Code §§ 231-235, 2040-2041

Summons, warning regarding jointly held property in. Fam. Code § 2040(c)

Service of petition and summons on other spouse. Fam. Code § 2331

[4] Cross References

For a related form, see § 221.310.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.314

§ 221.314 Proof of Service of Summons--Judicial Council Form (Family Law) [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-115]

[1] FORM Proof of Service of Summons--Judicial Council Form (Family Law) [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-115]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

Set forth above is the Judicial Council form of Proof of Service of Summons [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-115] adopted for use in family law proceedings. Although the family law summons also contains a blank space below the recitation of the standard restraining orders that may be used for proof of service (see § 221.313), the form reproduced here is tailored to the service of family law-related pleadings and other papers, and its use is recommended.

When service has been made, the person who effected service must complete the information required on the original version of the proof (return) of service before it is filed along with the original summons [see Code Civ. Proc. § 417.30]. The person making the return of service must check the applicable boxes and fill in the requisite information depending on the type of service [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 417.10, 417.20]. Certain types of service require attachments (for example, the notice and acknowledgment of receipt (see § 221.315) or the signed return receipt).

The return of service must be executed by the person making it [see Code Civ. Proc. § 417.10(a)]. If that person is a registered process server, he or she must include the county in which he or she is registered and his or her registration number [Code Civ. Proc. § 417.40; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22355].

[3] State Statutes

Manner of showing proof that summons was served. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 417.10, 417.20

Return of summons after service. Code Civ. Proc. § 417.30

Signature and information required on proof of service. Code Civ. Proc. § 417.40

[4] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 221.310 and 221.313.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.315

§ 221.315 Notice and Acknowledgment of Receipt--Family Law--Judicial Council Form [Judicial Council Form FL-117]

[1] FORM Notice and Acknowledgment of Receipt--Family Law--Judicial Council Form [Judicial Council Form FL-117]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is the approved (optional) Judicial Council form of Notice and Acknowledgment of Receipt--Family Law [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-117]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

Two copies of the Notice and Acknowledgment of Receipt form should be mailed (by first-class or airmail, postage prepaid) along with a copy of the summons and of the petition, and a return envelope addressed to the sender, postage prepaid [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.30(a)]. Service of the summons is deemed complete on the date signed by the respondent, if the acknowledgment is afterwards returned to the sender [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.30(c)].

[3] State Statutes

Notice and acknowledgment of receipt of copy of summons and complaint. Code Civ. Proc. § 415.30(c)

[4] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 221.310 and 221.313.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.316

§ 221.316 Response [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-120]

[1] FORM Response [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-120]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is the mandatory Judicial Council form of Response, which is used in family law proceedings to respond to a petition for marital dissolution, legal separation, or nullity of marriage [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-120]. Regardless of the type of relief sought in the petition (see § 221.310), the respondentmay serve and file the response within 30 days of the date of the service on the respondent of a copy of the petition and the summons [Fam. Code § 2020]. For purposes of illustration, this form has been completed as a response to a petition for marital dissolution. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

For an illustrative, filled-in response to a petition for nullity of marriage, see Ch. 25, Annulment (Nullity) of Marriage and Related Spousal Rights .

[3] Completing the Form

[a] Residence

If the response includes a request for dissolution, one of the two boxes must be checked to establish that the court has jurisdiction.

[b] Statistical Facts

The appropriate information should be inserted in paragraph 2. Counsel should check the date of separation listed in the petition, which is significant for determining whether earnings and property are community or separate, to see whether respondent agrees with that date.

[c] Minor Children

Either box 3(a) or 3(b) should be checked to indicate if there are any minor children. If there are, their names, birth dates, ages, and sex must be indicated, and a completed Declaration Under Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act form must be attached [Fam. Code § 3429]. For an approved form of declaration, see § 221.312 [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-105].

Note that minor children of the petitioner and respondent who were born before the date of marriage or who were adopted during the marriage should be included as part of the petitioner's declaration regarding children. If paternity of children born to the parties before the date of marriage is disputed, that issue may be decided in the dissolution or legal separation proceeding [Fam. Code § 2330.1]. If paternity is not in dispute, the parties should complete and attach a voluntary declaration of paternity, and mark the checkoff box in Item 3 indicating that the declaration is attached.

[d] Separate Property and Obligations

In paragraph 4, the respondent must list the property and obligations that he or she wants confirmed as his or her separate property. In addition, the respondent may wish to set forth items of separate property, including obligations, that he or she asserts should be confirmed to the petitioner.

[e] Community Property Declaration

If the petitioner has listed community or quasi-community property and/or obligations subject to disposition by the court, the respondent must check this list carefully and, if it is incorrect, insert his or her own list.

[f] Reconciliation

If the box in paragraph 6 is checked, the court will inquire into prospects for reconciliation and may refer the matter to the conciliation court [see Fam. Code § 1800 et seq.]

[g] Denial of Grounds for Proceeding

The box in paragraph 7 must be checked if the respondent denies the grounds for relief alleged in the petition. This most often occurs in nullity proceedings in which the respondent denies that the asserted grounds exist.

[h] Marital Status; Dissolution, Separation, or Nullity

Paragraph 8 should be filled in to request the particular resolution of marital status sought by the respondent. If the petition is for dissolution of marriage, the respondent may agree to a dissolution by checking item 8a, or assert grounds for nullity in items 8c or 8d. Or, the respondent may request no relief, in which case, the court may still enter a judgment of dissolution.

Because a judgment of legal separation cannot be rendered without the consent of a respondent who has appeared generally [see Fam. Code § 2345], it is futile to request a legal separation in response to a petition for dissolution. However, if the petition is for legal separation, the respondent may effectively preclude it by requesting a dissolution in the response.

If the petition is for nullity, but the respondent denies that grounds exist, he or she may request a dissolution instead. If neither a dissolution nor an annulment is sought, the respondent should not check any box in item 8. For further discussion of nullity proceedings and related forms, see Ch. 25, Annulment (Nullity) of Marriage and Related Spousal Rights .

[i] Request for Relief

Paragraph 9 is used to specify the relief sought by the respondent regarding custody, visitation, spousal support, property division, and attorney's fees. It also can be used to concede that the petitioner is entitled to certain relief, such as child custody or visitation. A separate checkoff box is also provided to request that the court determine the parentage of any child born to the petitioner and respondent before the date of their marriage [see Fam. Code § 2330.1].

Paragraph 9 also includes a checkoff box to request "other" relief. Other causesof action or claims for relief, apart from those authorized by the Family Code or the California Rules of Court, may not be asserted in a family law matter [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.104]. However, it appears that this box at least may be used to explain requests regarding items listed under Paragraph 9 in which the relief sought varies from that printed exactly on the form.

[j] Notice of Child Support

The statement in Paragraph 10 informs the parties that, if there are minor children of the marriage, including children born to the petitioner and respondent before the date of their marriage, or adopted by them after marriage, the court will order child support and a wage assignment without further notice. In addition, a notice on the front of the response warns that any party required to pay child support must pay interest on overdue amounts at the "legal" amount [Code Civ. Proc. § 695.210 (amount required to satisfy money judgment includes interest); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 695.211 (every money judgment or order for child support must provide this notice), which is currently 10 percent see Code Civ. Proc. § 685.010].

[k] Social Security Numbers

The first responsive pleading filed in a proceeding for dissolution, nullity, or legal separation must include a separate, one-page document that lists all relevant Social Security numbers known to the respondent, which pertain to the petitioner, the respondent, and the parties' minor children [Fam. Code § 2024.5(b)]. This list must be placed in the confidential portion of the court file of the proceeding, and may not be disclosed except for good cause shown to the court [Fam. Code § 2024.5(c)]. The respondent may redact any Social Security number that was placed in the confidential portion of the court file from any pleading, attachment, document, or other written material filed with the court only after the document listing all relevant Social Security numbers is placed in the confidential portion of the court file [Fam. Code § 2024.5(e)].

[4] State Statutes

Required notice regarding accrued interest on child support arrearages. Code Civ. Proc. § 695.211

Responsive pleadings. Fam. Code § 2020

[5] Text References

Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 93 (Matthew Bender 2nd ed.)

[6] Cross References

For a related form, see § 221.310.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.317

§ 221.317 Notice of Motion and Declaration for Joinder--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-371]

[1] FORM Notice of Motion and Declaration for Joinder--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-371]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

An application for joinder is made by serving and filing a notice of motion and declaration in the form set forth above. The application must state with particularity the claimant's interest in the proceeding and the relief sought, and must be accompanied by an appropriate pleading setting forth the claim as if asserted in a separate action or proceeding [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.156(a)].

[3] Notice of Motion

The name-of-attorney box should be filled in, and the title of the proceeding and case number should be inserted as in the petition (see § 221.310). The remainder of the form should be filled in as indicated. A memorandum of points and authorities should be filed with the notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.160; see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118(a); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113].

[4] Declaration for Joinder

Facts should be set forth showing that each person sought to be joined (or seeking to be joined) has in his or her possession or control or claims to own any property subject to disposition by the court, or that the person has or claims custody or control of any minor children of the marriage [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.156(a)]. Items 5 and 6 should be completed only if the applicant is moving for permissive joinder; that is, joinder of a person who has in his or her possession or control or claims to own any property subject to the jurisdiction of the court in the proceeding [see Cal.

Rules of Ct., Rules 5.158(b)]. Facts that can be stated in Item 5 tending to show that the court should determine the particular issue in the proceeding might include (1) amenability of the claimant to process; (2) avoidance of multiplicity of actions; (3) convenience of having all the issues in the dissolution decided together; (4) that no parties other than the claimant will have to be joined; and (5) that the joinder will not unduly delay, complicate, or confuse the dissolution proceeding [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.158(b); see also In re Marriage of Wilson (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 720, 721, 723, 257 Cal. Rptr. 477] . In Item 6, facts must be stated showing that each person sought or seeking to be joined either is indispensable to the determination or any particular issue or necessary to the enforcement of any judgment rendered on the issue (for example, the claimant has recorded title to property claimed to be community) [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.158(b)].

[5] Pleading to Accompany Notice of Motion and Declaration for Joinder

An application for joinder must be accompanied by an appropriate pleading setting forth the claim against or by the claimant to be joined [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.156(a)]. When title to real property is involved, the pleading might bea complaint to quiet title, for partition, or for declaratory relief. If personal property is involved, the pleading might be a complaint for conversion, claim and delivery, or to impose a constructive trust. If child custody is involved, the pleading might be an application for a writ of habeas corpus or an application to change a prior custody order.

[6] Filing and Service

The notice of motion and the accompanying pleading must be filed with the clerk and served on the attorney for the other party to the proceeding or on the other party if he or she has no attorney, if a party makes the motion. It need not be served on the party to be joined. If the motion for joinder is made by a third party claimant, the notice of motion and pleading must be served on both the attorneys for petitioner and respondent, not just on the party against whom relief is sought [see In re Marriage of Meier (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 120, 123 Cal. Rptr. 822] . Service usually is made by mail, in which case it is effective when deposited by mail. A declaration of service by mail should be executed by the person mailing the notice of motion and filed with the notice of motion. A copy should be attached to the copy of notice served by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013].

[7] State Statutes

Joinder of interested person and employee benefit plan as parties. Fam. Code § 2021

[8] California Rules of Court

Joinder of persons claiming interest. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.150, 5.154, 5.158

"Claimant" defined. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.152

Mandatory form of joinder application. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.156

[9] Text References

Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice Andprocedure, Ch. 94 (Matthew Bender 2d ed.)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.318

§ 221.318 Responsive Declaration to Motion for Joinder, Consent Order of Joinder--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-373]

[1] FORM Responsive Declaration to Motion for Joinder, Consent Order of Joinder--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-373]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The response must be made on the form reproduced above, the mandatory Judicial Council form of Responsive Declaration to Motion for Joinder and Consent Order of Joinder [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-373]. If desired, the party opposing the motion may file the response. If the party filing the motion is the claimant, it would appear that either the petitioner or respondent to the dissolution may file a response. The form should be completed as indicated. If the responding party consents to the joinder, box 1(a) should be checked and paragraph 3 (consent order) completed.

A memorandum of points and authorities may be filed in opposition to the motion [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118(a).

If no responsive declaration is filed, the court will assume that the other party does not oppose the joinder. The Family Law Rules do not set forth any specific time within which the responsive declaration must be filed, but it must be filed before the date set for hearing if it is to be considered by the court at the hearing. Some courts have local rules governing when papers opposing motions must be filed.

[3] Order of Joinder

If the petitioner and respondent consent to the joinder, the order of joinder is made on the second page of the Responsive Declaration to Motion for Joinder [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-373]. If the joinder is opposed, the order should be made on the mandatory Judicial Council Form of Findings and Order after Hearing [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-340]. See § 221.338 for an illustrative Findings and Order After Hearing. Counsel should check the box before the words "as attached" in Paragraph 8 of that form and attach an order for joinder as an additional page. Standard pleading paper or the Judicial Council form of additional page may be used (MC-020).

If a party is joined to the proceeding, Summons (Joinder) must be issued and the claimant served with the copy of the motion for joinder with the pleading attached, a copy of the order, and a copy of the Summons (Joinder). The claimant has 30 days after service within which to file an appropriate response [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.158(c)]. Once a party is joined, his or her name must appear in all future pleadings as the "Claimant" in the proceeding.

[4] Cross References

For a related form, see § 221.317.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.319

§ 221.319 Summons (Joinder)--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-375]

[1] FORM Summons (Joinder)--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-375]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

When the court orders a third party joined to the proceeding, it will order thata summons be issued and that the third party be served with a copy of the application for joinder, the pleading attached to it, the order of joinder, and the summons. The claimant has 30 days after service within which to file an appropriate response [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.158(c)]. The summons must be on the Judicial Council form [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-375] reproduced above.

If a third party is joined to the proceeding on his or her own motion, summons must be served on the petitioner and respondent, along with the papers noted above. In this case, both the "petitioner" and "respondent" boxes should be checked at Paragraph 1 [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.158(c)]. Although the parties are already within the personal jurisdiction of the court, service of summons gives them formal notice of the third-party claim and defines the court's powers to grant relief.

[3] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 221.317 and 221.318.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.320

§ 221.320 Request for Joinder of Employee Pension Benefit Plan and Order (Family Law)--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code §§ 2060-2062; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-372]

[1] FORM Request for Joinder of Employee Pension Benefit Plan and Order (Family Law)--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code §§ 2060-2062; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-372]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

On written application by a party to a family law proceeding, the clerk must enter an order joining as a party to the proceeding any employee benefit plan in which either party to the proceeding claims an interest which is or may be subject to disposition by the court [Fam. Code § 2060(a)]. The form of request prescribed by the Judicial Council [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.162] is set forth above.

[3] State Statutes

"Employee benefit plan" defined. Fam. Code § 80

Discharge of employee benefit plan from adverse claims. Fam. Code § 755

Employee benefit plans. Fam. Code §§ 2021, 2060-2074

[4] California Rules of Court

Joinder of employee benefit plan. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.162

[5] Decisions

ERISA does not preempt California procedures for joinder of employee benefit plans or notification of adverse interest in such plans; but order dividing marital interest in ERISA plan is required to meet requirements of "qualified domestic relations order" for it to be binding or enforceable against plan. In re Marriage of Baker (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 206, 217-218, 251 Cal. Rptr. 126

[6] Cross References

For a related form, see § 221.317.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.321

§ 221.321 Pleading on Joinder--Employee Pension Benefit Plan (Family Law)--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code §§ 2060-2062; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-370]

[1] FORM Pleading on Joinder--Employee Pension Benefit Plan (Family Law)--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code §§ 2060-2062; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-370]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

On the entry of an order joining an employee benefit plan (see § 221.320), the party requesting joinder must file a pleading setting forth the party's claim against the plan and the nature of the relief sought [Fam. Code § 2061]. The prescribed Judicial Council form of pleading [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.162] is set forth above.

[3] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 221.317 and 221.320.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.322

§ 221.322 Notice of Appearance and Response of Employee Benefit Plan (Family Law)--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code §§ 2060-2062; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-374]

[1] FORM Notice of Appearance and Response of Employee Benefit Plan (Family Law)--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code §§ 2060-2062; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-374]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

A notice of appearance [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.162] as set forth above may be filed and served by the employee benefit plan within 30 days of the date of service on the plan of a copy of the joinder request and summons. The failure to file a notice of appearance may result in the entry of the plan's default. The plan does not have to pay any fee for filing the notice of appearance or any subsequent paper. It may, but need not, file an appropriate responsive pleading with its notice of appearance. If it does not, then all statements of fact and requests for relief contained in any pleading served on the plan are deemed controverted [Fam. Code §§ 2063-2065].

[3] State Statutes

Notice of appearance and responsive pleading by plan. Fam. Code § 2063

Plan not required to pay filing fees. Fam. Code § 2064

Entry of plan's default. Fam. Code § 2065

[4] Cross References

For a related form, see § 221.320.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.323

§ 221.323 Notice to Maintain Insurance During Pendency of Proceeding

[1] FORM Notice to Maintain Insurance During Pendency of Proceeding

YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED, PURSUANT TO A PENDING PROCEEDING, IN RE MARRIAGE OF _____, CASE NUMBER _____, FILED IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF _____, THAT OWNERSHIP OF, OR BENEFITS PAYABLE UNDER, A POLICY OF HEALTH, LIFE, OR DISABILITY INSURANCE THAT YOU HAVE ISSUED TO ONE OF THE PARTIES TO THIS PROCEEDING, POLICY NO. _____, IS AT ISSUE OR MAY BE AT ISSUE IN THE PROCEEDING.

YOU ARE HEREBY INSTRUCTED TO MAINTAIN THE NAMED BENEFICIARIES OR COVERED DEPENDENTS UNDER THE POLICY, UNLESS THE TERMS OF THE POLICY OR OTHER PROVISIONS OF LAW REQUIRE OTHERWISE, OR UNTIL RECEIPT OF A COURT ORDER, JUDGMENT, OR STIPULATION BETWEEN THE PARTIES PROVIDING OTHER INSTRUCTIONS.

YOU ARE FURTHER INSTRUCTED TO SEND NOTICE TO THE NAMED BENEFICIARIES, COVERED DEPENDENTS, OR OTHER SPECIFIED PERSONS UPON CANCELLATION, LAPSE, OR CHANGE OF THE COVERAGE, OR CHANGE OF DESIGNATED BENEFICIARIES UNDER THE POLICY.

[2] Use of Form

Set forth above is the statutory form of notice to a health, life, or disability insurance carrier of the pendency of a family law proceeding [see Fam. Code § 2050]. The form language might be conveniently set forth as part of a letter that contains the insurance carrier's name and address, and the names and addresses of any persons to whom the carrier should send notification of policy changes. Notice must be sent by first class mail, postage prepaid, to the last known address of the covered dependents, named beneficiaries, and specific others who have requested notice [see Fam. Code § 2052].

[3] State Statutes

Notice to insurance carrier of pending proceeding. Fam. Code § 2050

Notice of entry and requirements of judgment. Fam. Code § 2051

Manner of giving notice by insurance carrier. Fam. Code § 2052

Requirement that policyholder furnish other party with name and address of insurer. Fam. Code § 2053

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.324

§ 221.324 Stipulation for Custody

[1] FORM Stipulation for Custody

AGREEMENT AND STIPULATION

_____ [name of first spouse] and _____ [name of second spouse], herein referred to as "husband" and "wife," respectively, or "the parties," agree and stipulate that there is/are _____ [number of child(ren)] minor child(ren) of the marriage, _____ [name of first child], born _____ [date of child's birth], [add as necessary, repeating for each child: and _____ (name of child), born _____ (date of child's birth], and that while husband and wife are living separate and apart, _____ [name of spouse being given custody] shall have the sole and exclusive custody of this/these minor child(ren), with reasonable visitation rights by _____ [name of noncustodial spouse]. The parties further agree and stipulate that in the event either of them commences a proceeding for dissolution of marriage or legal separation the court may, on the ex parte application of _____ [name of custodial spouse], enter both a temporary order and judgment awarding custody of this/these child(ren) to _____ [name of custodial spouse] with reasonable visitation rights by _____ [name of noncustodial spouse]. Date: _____.

_____ [signature of first spouse]

_____ [typed name of first spouse]

_____ [signature of second spouse]

_____ [typed name of second spouse]

[2] Use of Form

The form set out above may be used by parties who, before commencement of the proceeding or afterwards, agree that one of them is to have custody or temporary custody of the children. Counsel also should complete the Application for Order and Supporting Declaration form (see §), to which a copy of the agreement must be attached. In addition, counsel should draft a court order awarding temporary custody in conformity with the agreement and prepare a proof of service, then present the originals of the request for order and order and attachments together with all copies to the proper judge for the latter's signature on the original of the order.

If the judge signs the order, counsel should have a deputy court clerk conform the copies of the order, file the originals of the order and request for order, and stamp all copies "endorsed-filed" or "filed." A conformed, endorsed-filed copy of the order and of the request for order then should be served on the other party [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013(b), 1013a].

The form may be modified for use in situations in which the parties have madean agreement regarding custody and each is represented by counsel, in which case counsel for one of the parties should draft a stipulation setting forth the agreement and have each of the parties and their respective attorneys sign it. Counsel also must draft a court order awarding temporary custody in conformity with the stipulation and a proof of service. The order may be appended to the stipulation or set forth separately in the form of a formal order. Alternatively, the stipulation may be presented at a hearing or the parties may orally stipulate in open court as to custody.

[3] State Statutes

Temporary custody orders during pendency of proceeding. Fam. Code §§ 3060-3064

[4] Text References

Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 95 (Matthew Bender 2d ed.)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.325

§ 221.325 Stipulation for Temporary Orders

[1] FORM Stipulation for Temporary Orders

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

In re the marriage of _____	)
[name], Petitioner,	)	STIPULATION FOR TEMPORARY ORDERS vs.	)	AND ORDER
_____ [name], Respondent	)
	)

_____

IT IS STIPULATED by and between petitioner and respondent, until further order of the court, as follows:

[In separately numbered paragraphs specify stipulated orders, such as the following]

1. The parties shall have joint legal custody of the minor child/children of the marriage, _____ [name(s)].

2. Petitioner/Respondent _____ [name] shall have physical custody of _____ [name(s) of child/children], subject to reasonable visitation by respondent/petitioner _____ [name]. [Set forth terms and conditions of visitation, if desired, e.g., Respondent/petitioner will have visitation rights with the children from 5 p.m. Friday through 8 p.m. Sunday on the first weekend of every month.]

3. Respondent/Petitioner shall pay to petitioner/respondent the sum of $ _____ per month [per child] for the support of the minor child/children, for a total monthly sum of $ _____. Child support payments shall be made _____ [specify time for payment, e.g., on the first of every month].

4. The parties have been fully informed of their rights concerning child support. The child support order being sought in paragraph 3 is being agreed to without coercion or duress. The agreement is in the best interests of the child/children, whose needs will be adequately met by the amount of child support being agreed to. The right to child support has not been assigned to the county under Welf. & Inst. Code § 11477, and no public assistance application is pending.

5. Respondent/Petitioner shall pay to petitioner/respondent for his/her support the sum of $ _____ per month. Spousal support payments shall be made _____ [specify time for payment, e.g., on the first of every month], and shall continue until further order of the court, or until the death of either party or the remarriage of petitioner/respondent.

6. Respondent/Petitioner shall pay directly to petitioner's/respondent's attorney(s), _____ [name(s)], at _____ [address], the sum of $ _____, for attorney's fees [as and for additional spousal support].

7. Petitioner/Respondent shall have exclusive use and possession of the family residence located at _____ [address].

8. Respondent/Petitioner shall have exclusive use and possession and use of the following item(s) of personal property: _____ [specify, e.g., the family car, a 1985 Pontiac 6000 STE, California License number _____].

9. Respondent/Petitioner shall make the payments as they become due on all existing community obligations and debts [, including, but not limited to, the following: _____ (specify)].

10. _____ [Respondent/petitioner or Each party] will stay at least _____ yards away from _____ [petitioner/respondent or the other party] [and _____ (name(s) of other person(s) from whom party must stay away)] and from the following place(s): _____ [specify, e.g., petitioner's/respondent's residence and place of employment].

[CONTINUE]

Date: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner_____ [name]

_____ [signature of petitioner]

_____ [typed name of petitioner]

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Respondent_____ [name]

_____ [signature of respondent]

_____ [typed name of respondent]

IT IS SO ORDERED.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The form set out above is for use by the parties to a pending family law proceeding to agree and stipulate to the court's entry of temporary orders. The orders set forth in this form are illustrative of those that might be included in a particular case. Because attachments to the Judicial Council form of Findings and Order After Hearing [see Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-341-FL-344] contain boxes to be checked when orders issued by the court have been stipulated to by the parties, this form of stipulated order would only be needed for orders that are not covered by the Judicial Council form, or if the Judicial Council form does not provide sufficient space or detail to set forth all the particulars of the parties' stipulation.

Some courts also provide local forms (often a triplicate "NCR type") for counsel to prepare in hand-written form in court on the day of the hearing. These hand-written forms have places for the signatures of the parties and their respective attorneys, and the judge. These forms are then filed with the court and are valid and enforceable orders.

This form should be signed by both parties and their attorneys prior to submission to the court for the judge's signature. By analogy to stipulated judgments, it should conform to the form set forth in Cal. Rules of Court, Rule 5.116.

If the stipulation relates to child support, the stipulation must be approved by the court and meet certain criteria [see Fam. Code § 4065], which are discussed in see Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support .

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 221.324.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.326

§ 221.326 Notice of Motion (General)--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-301

[1] FORM Notice of Motion (General)--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-301

Click here to view image.

[2] Notice of Motion

The general form of notice of motion reproduced here is for use in a family law proceeding to secure orders on notice. A notice of motion may be used only when the party against whom the order is sought has made an appearance in the action or proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1014] and when no temporary restraining orders or temporary custody order on ex parte application are sought.

The checkoff boxes below the caption in the form must be marked to indicate the nature of the motion being brought. The box marked "Other" may be used to designate a motion that is not among those specificially listed. For illustrative purposes only, this form indicates that the motion being brought is for joinder of a party [see Fam. Code § 2021(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.150 et seq.; for further discussion of this motion, see Denner, Rothschild & Johnson, California Family Law Trial Guide, Unit 4 (Matthew Bender)].

The mandatory Judicial Council form of Application for Order and Supporting Declaration must be used to indicate the exact nature of the order being sought and the facts in support of the relief requested [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310]. An illustrative version of that form is set forth as in § 221.327.

This form and its accompanying papers should be served well in advance of the hearing date, so that this particular due process issue may be eliminated as a grounds for denial [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005, 1010 et seq. (period for service of papers is extended when service by mail)].

[3] California Rules of Court

Applications for court order. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118

[4] Text References

Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed., Ch. 95 (Matthew Bender)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.327

§ 221.327 Application for Order and Supporting Declaration--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310

[1] FORM Application for Order and Supporting Declaration--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The above form is the Judicial Council form of Application for Order and Supporting Declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge. Blank forms may also be obtained from the superior court clerk's office.

Use of this form is required whenever temporary orders are sought, whether by noticed motion (see § 221.326) or order to show cause (see § 221.331) [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118(a)]. The form must be attached to the Judicial Council notice of motion or order to show cause form [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118(a)]. If relevant to the relief sought, the Judicial Council forms of Income and Expense Declaration (see § 221.332) and Property Declaration (see § 221.334) must also accompany this form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.118(b), 5.128(a); Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-150, FL-160].

The box next to each type of order sought should be marked and the required information for each type of order should be inserted in the space provided. When requesting child abduction prevention orders, the Request for Child Abduction Orders must be attached [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-312]. If counsel seeks an order other than one of the standard orders printed on the form, the box next to Paragraph 9 ("Other Relief") should be checked and the nature of the order sought should be indicated in the space provided.

The facts supporting each order sought must be set forth, either in Paragraph 10, or in an attached declaration, as further discussed below. The party applying for the orders (rather than his or her attorney) should sign the application form under penalty of perjury, except in unusual situations in which the facts supporting the declaration are within the attorney's personal knowledge, rather than the client's.

The application for order and supporting declaration must be prepared in an original for filing and at least one copy for service on the responding party's attorney, if any, and if none, on the responding party [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.10(b); Code Civ. Proc. § 1015]. Counsel also should prepare an additional copy to be stamped "endorsed-filed" by the court clerk for counsel's office file and, in cases in which the papers are filed by mail, yet another copy to be retained in counsel's office file until return of the endorsed-filed copy from the court. Counsel may also want to prepare a copy for the client.

If a protective or restraining order against domestic violence is being sought, the applicant must use additional Judicial Council forms to apply for that type of order--DV-100 (Request for Order (Domestic Violence Prevention) and DV-110(Temporary Restraining Order and Notice of Hearing (CLETS) (Domestic Violence Prevention). Accordingly, if a temporary restraining order is sought using those forms, the order to show cause procedure would be used, as opposed to a notice of motion. For illustrative, filled-in reproductions of those forms, see Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence .

[3] Contents of Supporting Declaration

Affidavits and declarations are a means of taking testimony [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2002, 2003, 2009, 2015.5]. They must set forth evidentiary facts to which the affiant or declarant is competent to testify; that is, they must consist of facts of which the affiant or declarant has personal knowledge [see Evid. Code § 702]. Mere conclusory statements in the form of ultimate facts or conclusions of law normally are insufficient to meet this requirement. Counsel should be prepared for a motion to strike such material, either attacking the opposition's declaration or defending his or her own client's declaration.

The statements in the declaration should consist of evidentiary facts and should be as specific and complete as possible. Counsel should not assume that defective declarations can be corrected by oral testimony at the hearing. Although some courts may be lax at times in enforcing limits on oral evidence in the case of standard orders (for example, temporary spousal or child support), and may be liberal in admitting testimony at the hearing, courts do have discretion to grant or deny the relief requested solely on the basis of the papers filed.

Because the declaration must be made by someone with personal knowledge of the facts, it may be necessary, in some cases, to present declarations of more than one person if no one person (such as the applicant) has personal knowledge of all the facts supporting the application. This may particularly be true in the case of contested child custody issues.

For discussion of the showing required to obtain temporary orders for child custody and visitation, child support, spousal support, and attorney's fees, see Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody , through Ch. 226, Dissolution of Marriage: Attorney's Fees , respectively. For discussion of the showing required to obtain a protective order against domestic violence, see Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.328

§ 221.328 Application or Response to Application for Separate Trial--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-315

[1] FORM Application for Separate Trial--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-315

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The above form is the mandatory Judicial Council form of Application or Response to Application for Separate Trial [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-315; see Fam. Code § 2337; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.175]. It is designed to be attached to a Judicial Council form of Order to Show Cause or Notice of Motion [see Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-300, FL-301 (§§ 221.326, 221.331)] or to a Judicial Council form of Response Declaration to Order to Show Cause or Notice of Motion [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-320 (§ 221.337)]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge. Blank forms may also be obtained from the superior court clerk's office.

[3] Supporting Declaration

The appropriate boxes in item No. 3 on the form should be checked to indicate that supporting declarations and/or a supporting memorandum are attached [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118(a) (no memorandum of points and authorities need be filed unless required by court)].

[4] Joinder of Pension Plans

If requesting or opposing a separate trial on dissolution of the status of the marriage, box (e) in item No. 1 must be checked and all pension or retirement plans in which the community has an interest must be listed below item No. 1(e)(2) or on an attachment. These plans must have been joined as parties to the proceeding, unless joinder is precluded or unnecessary as a matter of law. The parties may refer to Judicial Council form FL-318, Retirement Plan

Joinder--Information Sheet, to determine if joinder is required. For a discussion of joinder of pension plans, see § 221.17[3].

[5] Requested Orders

Bifurcation of the status of the marriage may be subject to specified conditions [see Fam. Code § 2337(c)]. The appropriate boxes in item No. 4 should be checked to indicate the orders requested. Any additional orders requested should be stated in item No. 4(b)(10).

[6] Time for Hearing and Clerk's Mailing

A motion for a separate trial must be heard not later than the trial setting conference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.175(a)].

The court clerk must mail copies of an order deciding a bifurcated issue, and any statement of decision, within 10 days of their filing and file a certificate of mailing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.175(b)].

For further discussion of bifurcation and separate trials, see § 221.43[1].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 221.329-221.330

[Reserved]

§§ 221.329[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.331

§ 221.331 Order to Show Cause and Temporary Orders--Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-300, FL-305

[1] FORM Order to Show Cause and Temporary Orders--Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-300, FL-305

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form of order to show cause set out here is for use in family law proceedings to secure pendente lite orders on notice. The form is Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-300, and its use is mandatory [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.11(a)] whenever the order to show cause procedure is used in a family law proceeding. For discussion, see § 221.18[3][e].

The order to show cause must be accompanied by the Judicial Council form of Application for Order and Supporting Declaration [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118(b); Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310; see § 221.432). The Judicial Council forms of Income and Expense Declaration (see § 221.332) and Property Declaration (Form 2647) [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-150, FL-160] must also be attached to the order to show cause if relevant to the relief sought (e.g., if support is at issue) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.118(b), 5.128]. If the Income and Expense and Property Declarations are attached, the appropriate boxes in Paragraph 3 should be marked to indicate that blank copies of these documents are also served with the order to show cause.

If a protective or restraining order against domestic violence is involved, the applicant must use additional Judicial Council forms for that type of order--DV-100 (Request for Order (Domestic Violence Prevention) and DV-110 (Temporary Restraining Order and Notice of Hearing (CLETS) (Domestic Violence Prevention). For illustrative, filled-in reproductions of those forms, see Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence .

[3] Completing the Form

The date, time, and location of the hearing are inserted in Paragraph 2 by either counsel or the court clerk, depending on local practice. If counsel seeks an order shortening the time for the service before the hearing, the appropriate boxes in Paragraph 3b should be marked.

An appropriate proof of service should be completed by the person making service.

The order to show cause must be prepared in an original for filing and at least one copy for service on the responding party and his or her attorney, if any [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.10(b); Code Civ. Proc. § 1015]. Counsel also should prepare an additional copy to be stamped "endorsed-filed" by the court clerk for counsel's office file and, in cases in which the papers are filed by mail, yet another copy to be retained in counsel's office file until return of the endorsed-filed copy from the court. Counsel may also want to prepare a copy for the client.

Unlike a notice of motion, which is signed by the moving party's attorney, the order to show cause must be signed by the court.

[4] Temporary Orders

If ex-parte temporary orders are granted pending the hearing, Paragraph 3c of the Order to Show Cause should be checked and the Judicial Council form of Temporary Orders [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-305] (set out here) must be attached. The Temporary Orders form illustrated contains preprinted provisions for orders concerning property restraints and control, and custody and visitation of minor children, as well as an undesignated "Other Orders" box. When child abduction prevention orders are made, the Child Abduction Prevention Orders Attachment [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-341(B)] must be attached to the Judicial Council form of temporary orders.

See § 221.18[2][g], and Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence , for discussion of temporary restraining orders, preliminary injunctions, and prevention of domestic violence.

[5] State Statutes

Orders issued during pendency of proceeding. Fam. Code §§ 2045, 6218, 6320-6327

Temporary restraining orders issued without notice. Fam. Code §§ 240-246

[6] California Rules of Court

Applications for court order. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118

[7] Decisions

Order to show cause serves not only as a notice of hearing but also as citation or summons, giving court personal jurisdiction over party served. Sarracino v. Superior Court (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 1, 8 n.6, 118 Cal. Rptr. 21, 529 P.2d 53

Court's dismissal of order to show cause to modify spousal support was error requiring rehearing, after erroneously stating it had no discretion regarding receiving or excluding oral testimony at hearing. In re Marriage of Hunt (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 872, 875-876, 218 Cal. Rptr. 451

[8] Text References

Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure 2d ed., Ch. 95 (Matthew Bender)

Denner, Rothschild & Johnson, California Family Law Trial Guide, Unit 4 (Matthew Bender)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.332

§ 221.332 Income and Expense Declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150] With Income Information, Expense Information, and Child Support Information--Judicial Council Form

[1] FORM Income and Expense Declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150] With Income Information, Expense Information, and Child Support Information--Judicial Council Form

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

Whenever the information is relevant to the relief sought, and with the exception of certain matters to be disposed of by default or as uncontested proceedings, a completed Income and Expense Declaration (I & E) must be attached to all applications for court orders in family law proceedings, regardless of whether the application is by notice of motion or order to show cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.118(b), 5.128; see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.122]. Thus, a financial declaration must be attached to any application for a temporary spousal or child support order, or order for attorney's fees and costs. Up-to-date declarations also must be filed at the time of trial and when any modifications of spousal or child support orders are sought.

The declarations should be prepared in an original for filing and in the same number of copies, for the same distribution, as the application for order (see § 221.432).

The Judicial Council form of Financial Statement (Simplified), which is set forth in § 221.332A may be used instead of these forms in certain circumstances [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-155].

[3] Completion of Forms

The I & E is one of the most important documents to be prepared if an order for payment of child or spousal support or attorney's fees is sought. The I & E, standing alone without oral testimony, is a sufficient basis for a support order [In re Marriage of McQuoid (1991) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1353, 1359, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 737] .

Page 1 of the I & E is used to set forth general information about the declarant's employment and education, tax information, and the other party's income. Page 2 of the I & E is used to set forth detailed information about the declarant's income and assets. Page 3 of the I & E is used to set forth detailed information about the declarant's expenses. Page 4, Child Support Information page is for use to set forth other pertinent information that is required under the statewide uniform child support guideline [see Fam. Code § 4055 et seq.] and must be included whenever child support is sought.

[4] Income Averaging

The guideline provides that the annual net disposable income amount is to be divided by 12 to reflect the monthly net disposable income. However, if the monthly figure does not accurately reflect the actual or prospective earnings at the time the determination of support is made, the court may adjust the amount appropriately [Fam. Code § 4060]. Therefore, paragraphs 5 and 6 of the I & E ask for the last month's income from each source, as well as for the average monthly income from each source for the past 12 months. Paragraph 8 should be checked and completed if the declarant has received one-time income during the past 12 months, such as an inheritance. Paragraph 9 should be checked and completed if the declarant has had a significant change in income during the past 12 months.

The 12-month average figures will usually be more appropriate for parents with a fluctuating source of income, such as the self-employed. However, for the parent whose income comes primarily from salary or wages, the current monthly figures are more appropriate, assuming that salary or wages are expected to remain at their current level for the foreseeable future.

[5] Children of Other Relationships (Child Support and Hardship Deductions)

To determine net disposable monthly income under the child support guideline, deductions are allowed for child support actually paid on behalf of children of other relationships (child support deduction; paragraph 10(d)) [see Fam. Code § 4059(e)] and for children from other relationships who reside with the parent (hardship deduction; paragraph 19) [see Fam. Code §§ 4059(g), 4071(a)(2)]. The amount of both of these deductions is limited by the amount of child support under the guideline. If the support is not being paid under a court order, the amount of the child support deduction may not exceed the amount established by the guideline [Fam. Code § 4059(e)]. The amount of the hardship deduction may not exceed the support ordered for each child subject to the order [Fam. Code § 4071(b)].

In this regard, it must be remembered that the Income and Expense Declaration, although it follows the guideline, is not a guideline child support worksheet. Since the amount of child support to be ordered obviously cannot be known at the time when the I & E must be filed, actual child support being paid should be entered.

The ultimate hardship deduction allowed will not only be capped by the amount of support to be ordered for the children in the instant matter, but will also be affected by the status of the other parent. Actual child support being received from the other parent on behalf of the hardship child should lower the hardship deduction. Further, if the child's other parent is living in the household and has income, that parent's presumed contributions to the support of the child [see Fam. Code § 4053(i)] should lower any hardship deduction.

These deductions reflect the importance of careful scrutiny of claimed deductions from income by counsel for the other parent. While there is nothing improper about claiming a high number as a hardship deduction on the I & E, the other party should not allow that number to become an unchallenged component of the child support computation.

The hardship deduction is discussed in detail in see Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support .

[6] Attachments

Various documents must be attached to the I & E to substantiate the income and expenses claimed, including:

- Copies of the declarant's pay stubs for the last two months (with Social Security numbers crossed out) [paragraph 1].

- Proof of any other income [paragraph 5].

- A schedule showing gross receipts less cash expenses for each piece of rental property claimed [paragraph 6].

- A profit and loss statement for the last two years or a schedule C from the declarant's last federal tax return for each business from which the declarant claims income [paragraph 7].

- An explanation of any necessary job-related expenses not reimbursed by the declarant's employer [paragraph 10(g)].

- Documentation of any special financial hardships the declarant would like the court to consider in determining child support [paragraph 19].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.333

§ 221.333 Financial Statement (Simplified)--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-155]

[1] FORM Financial Statement (Simplified)--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-155]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is the Judicial Council form of Simplified Financial Statement, [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-155]. It was promulgated for use as a result of a legislative mandate to provide a simplified method of providing the information necessary to compute child support under the statewide uniform child support guideline [see Fam. Code § 4068(b)]. The form is designed for use by unrepresented parties. However, it may be filed by a represented party who otherwise qualifies. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge. Blank forms may also be obtained from the superior court clerk's office.

The Legislature also directed the Judicial Council to develop the factors to determine when the simplified form may be used and when a complete Income and Expense Declaration (see § 221.331) is required [see Fam. Code § 4068(b)]. The factors adopted by the Judicial Council are set forth on page 2 of the form in terms of exclusions. The form may not be used if spousal support or attorney's fees are at issue, or if the party has income from other than salary or wages, welfare benefits, unemployment, worker's compensation, social security, or other retirement income. The form also may not be used if the party is self-employed.

A party who is eligible to use the form may still elect to complete the full Income and Expense Declaration (see § 221.331). Note that the fact that the form may not be used if the other party is requesting attorney's fees may severely limit its use if the other party is represented. A claim for attorney's fees is usually routinely made, even in a low-income situation.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.334

§ 221.334 Property Declaration--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-160]

[1] FORM Property Declaration--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-160]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form reproduced above is the Judicial Council mandatory form of Property Declaration [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-160]. In filling out the property declaration, the sections detailing values and the filer's proposal for division do not have to be completed if the declaration is attached to the petition or response. If the petitioner or respondent seeks support, however, it is advisable to fill in the values insofar as known so that the court will have a clear idea of the parties' financial situation. If either of the parties has separate property, it should be described on an additional Property Declaration other than that used for property of the community estate. If the Property Declaration has insufficient space to list all the property, the Continuation of Property Declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-161] (see § 221.335) must be used.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.335

§ 221.335 Continuation of Property Declaration--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-161]

[1] FORM Continuation of Property Declaration--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-161]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form reproduced above is an illustrative example of the Judicial Council mandatory form of Continuation of Property Declaration [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-161]. This form is used when the Property Declaration (see § 221.334) has insufficient space to report all the parties' property. The form should be attached to the Property Declaration.

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 221.334.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.336

§ 221.336 Ex Parte Application and Order to Seal Financial Forms--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-316]

[1] FORM Ex Parte Application and Order to Seal Financial Forms--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-316]

[2] Use of Form

The optional Judicial Couuncil form of Ex Parte Application and Order to Seal Financial Forms [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-316] may be used to request an order sealing any pleading that lists the parties' financial assets and liabilities, and that provides the location or identifying information about those assets and liabilities [see Fam. Code § 2024.6(a)]. The term "pleading" means any document that sets forth or declares the parties' assets and liabilities or income and expenses, a marital settlement agreement that lists and identifies the parties' assets and liabilities, or any document filed with the court incidental to the declaration or agreement that lists or identifies financial information [Fam. Code § 2024.6(c)]. The forms and documents to be sealed must be listed in item 2 of the form.

The party making the request to seal a pleading must serve a copy of the pleading on the other party and file a separate proof of service with the request to seal the pleading [Fam. Code § 2024.6(e)]. Item 3 of the form indicates that such service has been made. Notice of the ex parte application must be given to the other party and proof of service must be attached to the form, as indicated in item 4.

If the party making the request uses a pleading other than the Judicial Council form, the pleading must exhibit a notice on the front page, in bold capital letters, that the pleading lists and identifies financial information and is therefore subject to Fam. Code § 2024.6 [Fam. Code § 2024.6(b)].

Any pleading that has been sealed may only be unsealed on petition to the court and a showing of good cause [Fam. Code § 2024.6(a)]. A party is not precluded, however, from using any document or information contained in a sealed pleading in any manner that is not otherwise prohibited by law [Fam. Code § 2024.6(f)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.337

§ 221.337 Responsive Declaration to Order to Show Cause or Notice of Motion--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-320]

[1] FORM Responsive Declaration to Order to Show Cause or Notice of Motion--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-320]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form of responsive declaration reproduced above is for use in a family law proceeding by the party responding to an application for preliminary orders either by noticed motion or order to show cause. The form, the use of which is mandatory, is Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-320. However, commencing January 1, 1999, this form may not be used to respond to a motion or order to show cause seeking a protective or restraining order against domestic violence. Instead, the Judicial Council form DV-120--Responsive Declaration to Order to Show Cause (Domestic Violence)--should be used. For an illustrative, filled-in version of that form, see Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence, § 293.153.

The responsive declaration must be prepared in an original for filing and at least one copy for service on the applicant's attorney, if any, and if none, on the applicant [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1015; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.10(b)]. Counsel also should prepare an additional copy to be stamped "endorsed-filed" by the court clerk for counsel's office file and, in cases in which the papers are filed by mail, yet another copy to be retained in counsel's office file until return of the endorsed-filed copy from the court. Additional copies may be prepared as desired; for example, counsel may want to prepare a copy for the client.

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 221.331.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.338

§ 221.338 Findings and Order After Hearing and Attachments--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-340-FL-344, FL-347]

[1] FORM Findings and Order After Hearing and Attachments--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-340-FL-344]

Click here to view image.

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

Illustrated above are the Judicial Council's mandatory forms of Findings and Order After Hearing and attachments to set forth orders for child custody and visitation, child support, spousal support, and property control and restraints, including property orders needed to prevent domestic violence [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-340, FL-341, FL-341(A), FL-342, FL-342(A), FL-343, FL-344]. When the court has ordered bifurcation of the status of the marriage, the Judicial Council form of Bifurcation of Status of Marriage--Attachment [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-347] should be completed and attached to the Findings and Order After Hearing. Individual attachments to the Findings and Order After Hearing form need only be used to the extent that the court made a corresponding order. The forms are generally designed for use in family law, domestic violence, and parentage proceedings. These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge. Blank forms may also be obtained from the superior court clerk's office.

The Findings and Order After Hearing form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-340] essentially functions as a face sheet to identify the proceedings and itemize the nature (categories) of the orders made. Except for the issue or attorney's fees, for which a space is provided to enter the amount of fees ordered, the form refers to attachments for other orders. The form provides spaces for signatures by the judicial officer who heard the matter, as well as by the counsel (or unrepresented party) who did not prepare the order--to signify approval that it conforms to the judicial officer's oral recitation of the order in court. In an appropriate case, this form may also be used in conjunction with the Judicial Council form of Restraining Order After Hearing (CLETS--DV-130), as discussed in Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence .

Each attachment form must be carefully reviewed for any specialized instructions and admonitions. Some of the forms contemplate the completion and attachment of additional forms. In the case of child support, the Child Support Information and Order Attachment [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-342] provides for the court to require attachment of a printout of a computerized calculation of support and findings (Paragraph 1). A Health Insurance Coverage Assignment Order also may be required. Paragraph 11 of the Child Support Information and Order Attachment requires the attachment of Judicial Council forms of Notice of Rights and Responsibilities re: Health Care Costs and Reimbursement Procedures, and the Information Sheet on Changing a Child Support Order [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-192]. In addition, both parties must complete and file with the court a Child Support Case Registry form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-191] within 10 days from the issuance of the underlying child support order. Finally, if a child support order varies from the statewide uniform guideline, the Judicial Council form of Non-Guideline Child Support Findings Attachment, illustrated above, must be attached [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-342(A)].

If the court has ordered spousal or family support and the corresponding attachment is needed (Spousal or Family Support Order Attachment) [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-343], that form also calls for the attachment of certain additional forms. A wage assignment form will be required, unless service is conditionally ordered stayed. If family support has been ordered, the Child Support Case Registry form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-191] must be completed by both parties and filed within 10 days of the issuance of the underlying family support order. In addition, as in the case of child support orders, if family support has been ordered, the Notice of Rights and Responsibilities re: Health Care Costs and Reimbursement Procedures and the Information Sheet Regarding Change of Child Support Orders must be attached to the Spousal or Family Support Order Attachment [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-192].

Both the Property Order Attachment [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-344, DV-130] makes reference to various orders concerning the control of property, and payment of debts. If domestic violence is not a factor, it is suggested that the general Property Order Attachment form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-344] should be used. For additional discussion of domestic violence-related forms, see Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence .

After the forms are completed, they should be sent to the opposing counsel, or to the opposing party if he or she is not represented. The opposing counsel or party should sign on the front of the Findings and Order After Hearing form, approving the form and its attachments as to form and content. After the court has signed the order and the order has been filed, a file-endorsed copy should be sent to the opposing counsel or (unrepresented) opposing party. If the opposing party has not yet appeared in the action and was not present at the hearing, a file-endorsed copy of the order should be personally served on that party and proof of service filed with the court.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.339

§ 221.339 Appearance, Stipulation, and Waivers--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-130]

[1] FORM Appearance, Stipulation, and Waivers--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-130]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

Checking box 1 of the Judicial Council approved form of Appearance, Stipulation and Waivers reproduced above constitutes a general appearance admitting personal jurisdiction over the respondent and entitling him or her to notice of subsequent proceedings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.120]. It does not prevent the petitioner from trying the proceeding as uncontested, just as if it were based on a default. A general appearance often is filed when the respondent intends the matter to be heard based on a stipulated judgment or a marital settlement agreement.

If the parties want an uncontested trial, such as when they have entered into a stipulated judgment or a written marital settlement agreement and the respondent has already filed a response, they must stipulate to the uncontested trial by checking box 4.

The waiver of rights to notice of trial, findings of fact and conclusions of law, motion for a new trial, and appeal contained in box 5 may be used before a default or uncontested hearing to expedite the proceeding. The waiver also may be made after trial to allow a final judgment to be entered before the time limits for moving for new trial and appealing from the judgment have expired.

If the parties intend to submit a marital settlement agreement (or stipulation for judgment) for the court's approval, box 9 should be checked, which provides that none of the indicated stipulations or waiver apply unless the court approves the written settlement agreement or stipulation for judgment. Checking this box will help to protect the nonappearing party from unexpected judicial action regarding the settlement agreement.

[3] State Statutes

Default proceedings. Fam. Code §§ 2335.5, 2336

[4] California Rules of Court

Defaults and uncontested proceedings. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.122, 5.124

[5] Text References

Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 97 (Matthew Bender 2d ed.)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.340

§ 221.340 Request to Enter Default--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-165]

[1] FORM Request to Enter Default--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-165]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The Request to Enter Default reproduced above has been adopted by the Judicial Council for mandatory use [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-165]. The form contemplates that the requesting party (petitioner) will attach a completed Income and Expense Declaration (and its series of attachments), or the Financial Statement (Simplified) form, along with a standard Property Declaration, unless at least one of the six reasons set forth under Paragraph 2 applies--in which case the corresponding box should be marked [see Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-150, FL-155, FL-160; see §§ 221.332 -221.335].

If the petitioner seeks to recover the costs incurred in the proceeding as part of the relief requested in the petition, the memorandum of costs set out as item 4 must specify the cost of filing fees, costs of service, reporter's fees incurred in taking any depositions, etc.

[3] Cross References

For related forms, see §§ 221.339, 221.341.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.341

§ 221.341 Declaration for Default or Uncontested Dissolution or Legal Separation [Fam. Code § 2336; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-170]

[1] FORM Declaration for Default or Uncontested Dissolution or Legal Separation [Fam. Code § 2336; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-170]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is an illustrative reproduction of the mandatory Judicial Council form of Declaration for Default or Uncontested Dissolution or Legal Separation [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-170]. Its use is required when a courtroom appearance is not otherwise required--the usual case when irreconcilable differences are the basis for the petition [see Fam. Code § 2336(b)]. This form should not be used, however, when the dissolution or legal separation is sought on the ground of incurable insanity. In those instances, a separate affidavit (or declaration) must be drafted for the petitioner if he or she has been excused from attending the proceeding. Medical, psychiatric, or other corroborating testimony in court may be required in those cases [see, e.g., Fam. Code §§ 2210(c), (f), 2312].

The form declaration should be presented at the time of the default or uncontested hearing, if in fact a hearing has been set. If no hearing has been set or will be needed, the form declaration may be transmitted to the court clerk for review by the court, along with any supporting declarations. As indicated by the form instructions, if a support order or attorney's fees and costs have been requested, an income and expense declaration should be submitted unless a current form is on file. If the parties have minor children, the party submitting the form also must complete the income information in Paragraph 13, as well as provide information concerning the receipt of public assistance (Paragraphs 11 and 12).

In addition, a property declaration should be submitted unless one is already on file if the petitioner seeks a division of community or quasi-community property or the confirmation of separate property and the parties have not entered into a marital settlement agreement or stipulated judgment [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.122, 5.128; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150]. Additional required proof for default cases is set forth in Fam. Code § 2336, as discussed in §

221.20[6][b]. In the case of a default judgment, the petitioner may waive the final declaration of disclosure requirements of the Family Code, and is not required to either serve a final declaration of disclosure on the respondent or receive one from the respondent [Fam. Code § 2110; see Fam. Code §§ 2103, 2105]. The parties may otherwise stipulate to waive the requirements for the final declaration of disclosure [Fam. Code §§ 2105, 2106]. In completing the Declaration for Default or Uncontested Dissolution or Legal Separation form, the appropriate checkoff box under Paragraph 6 should be marked to indicate the means of compliance with the disclosure declaration requirements.

If the parties have reached a settlement regarding their property and other marital rights, including support, their written agreement or stipulated judgment may be submitted for approval by the court and possible incorporation in the judgment. In default cases, the signature of the defaulting spouse on any marital settlement agreement or stipulated judgment must be notarized [Fam. Code § 2338.5(a)].

The party seeking the judgment should submit sufficient stamped, preaddressed envelopes to the court clerk for mailing the notice of entry of judgment. The address of the court clerk must be given as the return address [Fam. Code § 2338.5(c); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.136(a)].

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 221.339.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.342

§ 221.342 Joint Petition for Summary Dissolution of Marriage--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code §§ 200, 2401, 2406; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-800]

[1] FORM Joint Petition for Summary Dissolution of Marriage--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code §§ 200, 2401, 2406; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-800]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The joint petition required by Fam. Code § 2401 must include all the information set forth on the Judicial Council form reproduced above. Local court rules should be consulted for additional requirements.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.343

§ 221.343 Request for Final Judgment, Final Judgment of Dissolution of Marriage, and Notice of Entry of Judgment--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code § 2403; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-820]

[1] FORM Request for Final Judgment, Final Judgment of Dissolution of Marriage, and Notice of Entry of Judgment--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code § 2403; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-820]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The Judicial Council form reproduced above constitutes the request, final judgment and notice of entry. Two additional copies of the form and two addressed, stamped envelopes for mailing to the parties by the clerk of the court should be submitted along with the form.

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 221.342.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.344

§ 221.344 Notice of Revocation of Petition for Summary Dissolution--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code § 2402; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-830]

[1] FORM Notice of Revocation of Petition for Summary Dissolution--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code § 2402; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-830]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The original and two copies of the Notice of Revocation of Petition for Summary Dissolution form reproduced above must be submitted to the clerk of the court where the proceeding was commenced when either party wishes to revoke the joint petition and terminate the summary dissolution proceeding. In turn, the clerk is required to mail the two copies to the respective parties [Fam. Code § 2402].

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 221.342.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.345

§ 221.345 Proof of Personal Service--Judicial Council Form [Code Civ. Proc. § 1011; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-330]

[1] FORM Proof of Personal Service--Judicial Council Form [Code Civ. Proc. § 1011; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-330]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is an optional Judicial Council form of proof of personal service that has been approved for general use in family law cases [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-330]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

The form has been designed for use in a broad variety of family law proceedings, by either individuals or governmental agencies. It therefore includes an extra space in the caption, entitled "Other Parent," by which to indicate the name of a child's parent who has an interest in the proceeding as a result of a support enforcement action through the district attorney's office [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.310; see also Welf. & Inst. Code § 11350.1(e)]. When such an action is not involved, that space will not need to be filled in.

The form also includes a special checkoff box (Paragraph 1) by which to indicate that service has been made of a restraining order regarding "personal conduct, stayaway, or residence exclusion." It should be marked only if an order of that type has been served. For an alternative proof of service form for domestic violence restraining orders, see Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence, § 293.152.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.346

§ 221.346 Proof of Service by Mail--Judicial Council Form [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013, 1013a; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-335]

[1] FORM Proof of Service by Mail--Judicial Council Form [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1013, 1013a; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-335]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is an optional Judicial Council form of proof of service by mail that has been approved for general use in family law cases [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-335]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

The form has been designed for use in a broad variety of family law proceedings when service by mail is appropriate [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013, 1013a]. It should not be used, for example, to serve restraining orders, as expressly noted on the face of the form. See also § 221.345.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.347

§ 221.347 Notice of Consolidation--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-920

[1] FORM Notice of Consolidation--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-920

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a reproduction of the optional Judicial Council form of Notice of Consolidation [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-920]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

This form is for use by a court to notify parties of the consolidation of several cases into a single, primary case file. The court will designate the party who is to complete the form for the court's use. For related discussion, see § 221.18[5][b], and Kirkland, Luvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed., Ch. 111 (§ 111.22) (Matthew Bender).

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.348

§ 221.348 Notice of Limited Scope Representation--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-950

[1] FORM Notice of Limited Scope Representation--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-950

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a Notice of Limited Scope Representation [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-950]. It has been adopted by the Judicial Council for mandatory use. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

This form is served on all other parties and counsel who are of record in the case when the notifying party and an attorney have entered into a written agreement of limited scope representation. Section 2 contains information regarding the duration of representation. Section 3 should be checked according to which issues the attorney has agreed to serve as "attorney of record" for the party. Section 5 states that the attorney will be available for service of documents only for issues specifically checked in Section 3, and the party must be served directly for all other matters.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.349

§ 221.349 Application to Be Relieved as Counsel Upon Completion of Limited Scope Representation--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-955

[1] FORM Application to Be Relieved as Counsel Upon Completion of Limited Scope Representation--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-955

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is an Application to Be Relieved as Counsel Upon Completion of Limited Scope Representation [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-955]. It has been approved by the Judicial Council for optional use. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

This form is filed and served on the client and on all other parties and counsel who are of record in the case when an attorney has completed the tasks specified in the Notice of Limited Scope Representation [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-950; see § 221.348] and seeks to be relieved as counsel in cases in which the attorney has appeared before the court as attorney of record and the client has not signed a substitution of attorney form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.71; see Cal. Judicial Council Form MC-050 (Substitution of Attorney--Civil)]. If Section 3 is checked, the Notice of Limited Scope Representation [Cal. Judicial Form FL-950] should be attached.

When this form is used, it must be accompanied by a Judicial Council form of objection to the relief requested [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.71(b), (c), Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-956; see § 221.350].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.350

§ 221.350 Objection to Application to Be Relieved as Counsel Upon Completion of Limited Scope Representation--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-956

[1] FORM Objection to Application to Be Relieved as Counsel Upon Completion of Limited Scope Representation--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-956

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is an Objection to Application to Be Relieved as Counsel Upon Completion of Limited Scope Representation [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-956]. It has been approved by the Judicial Council for optional use. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

This form is to be filed and served if a party objects to his or her attorney's application to be relieved as counsel of record after completing a limited scope representation [see Cal. Judicial Council form FL-955]. Section 3 should be completed with information on what services the party believes the attorney has yet to complete under the limited scope representation agreement, and reasons for that belief.

If an objection is filed by the party within 15 days after service of the attorney's application to be relieved of counsel, the clerk must set a hearing date no later than 25 days from the date the objection is filed. The clerk must send the notice of the hearing to the parties and counsel [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.71(e)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.351

§ 221.351 Order on Application to Be Relieved as Counsel Upon Completion of Limited Scope Representation--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-958

[1] FORM Order on Application to Be Relieved as Counsel Upon Completion of Limited Scope Representation--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-958

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is the Judicial Council form of Order on Application to Be Relieved as Counsel Upon Completion of Limited Scope Representation [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-958]. It has been approved by the Judicial Council for optional use. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

Section 2 should be checked if the application was uncontested. Section 3 should be checked if the application was contested. Sections 4 to 6 should be checked according to the orders made. The attorney who filed the application must serve copies of the order on the parties and opposing counsel, and proof of service must be filed with the court.

A copy of the signed order must be served by the attorney who applied to be relieved as counsel of record on the client and on all parties who have appeared in the case. The court may delay the effective date of the order relieving counsel until proof of service of a copy of the signed order on the client has been filed with the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.71(f)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
A. Initiating The Proceeding And Preliminary Relief

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 221.352-221.369

[Reserved]

§§ 221.352[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
B. Bringing The Case To Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.370

§ 221.370 Stipulation and Waiver of Final Declaration of Disclosure--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code § 2105(d); Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-144]

[1] FORM Stipulation and Waiver of Final Declaration of Disclosure--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code § 2105(d); Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-144]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

Set forth above is the optional Judicial Council form of Stipulation and Waiver of Final Declaration of Disclosure [Cal. Judicial Council Fom FL-144]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

This form is for use by the parties to stipulate to a waiver of the statutory requirements concerning the final declaration of disclosure [see Fam. Code § 2105(d)]. It must be signed by both parties. For related discussion, see § 221.48[2].

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 221.371.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
B. Bringing The Case To Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.371

§ 221.371 Final Declaration of Disclosure--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code § 2105; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-140]

[1] FORM Final Declaration of Disclosure--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code § 2105; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-140]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

Set forth above is the Judicial Council form adopted for mandatory use in complying with the disclosure requirements of Fam. Code § 2105 applicable to any marital dissolution proceeding begun on or after January 1, 1993 [see Fam. Code § 2113]. By completing the appropriate check-off boxes, the same form is to be used both for preliminary (see § 221.10 et seq.) and final declarations of disclosure. As illustrated here, the form is presented as a final declaration of disclosure. Appropriate check-off boxes must be marked to refer to particular attachments the party is using to set forth the substantive information required for the declaration. The form functions largely as a cover or face sheet for these attachments, and contains a standard form statement to be signed by the party-declarant that the declaration is being made under penalty of perjury.

Unless the parties stipulate to waive the final declaration of disclosure, or the court makes an order (for good cause) dispensing with the requirement of making that declaration, the final declaration must be served on the other party before or at the time the parties enter into an agreement for the resolution of property or support issues (other than pendente lite support) or, in the event the case goes to trial, no later than 45 days before the first assigned trial date [Fam. Code § 2105(a)].

The completed declaration of disclosure form and accompanying attachments should be served on the other party, but are not filed with the court. Instead, counsel should complete and file with the court a Judicial Council form of declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-141 (see § 221.372)] stating that service of the final declaration of disclosure and a current income and expense declaration was made on the other party, or that service of the final declaration has been waived [see Fam. Code § 2106].

[3] State Statutes

Service of final declarations of disclosure on other party. Fam. Code § 2103

Requirements for service and contents of final declaration of disclosure. Fam. Code § 2105

Declaration of service to other party filed with court. Fam. Code § 2106

Failure to comply or to specify with particularity. Fam. Code § 2107

No liquidation of assets without service of declaration. Fam. Code § 2108

Final declaration not required if summary dissolution. Fam. Code § 2109

Final declaration not required if default judgment. Fam. Code § 2110

Disclosure as not abrogating work product privilege or court power to issue protective orders. Fam. Code § 2111

Forms to be adopted by Judicial Council. Fam. Code § 2112

Applicability of requirements to proceedings commenced on or after January 1, 1993. Fam. Code § 2113

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
B. Bringing The Case To Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.372

§ 221.372 Declaration Regarding Service of Declaration of Disclosure and Income and Expense Declaration--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code § 2106; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-141]

[1] FORM Declaration Regarding Service of Declaration of Disclosure and Income and Expense Declaration--Judicial Council Form [Fam. Code § 2106; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-141]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is an illustrated, filled-in version of the mandatory Judicial Council form of Declaration Regarding Service of Declaration of Disclosure and Income and Expense Declaration, for use in proceedings for marital dissolution or legal separation [see Fam. Code §§ 2106, 2113; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-141]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

This form is designed for use as a declaration of service for either the preliminary or final declaration of disclosure and of any Income and Expense declaration served contemporaneously with a disclosure declaration. This declaration of service form should be filed with the court as soon as possible following service of each of the disclosure declarations (and associated Income and Expense declarations) [see generally Fam. Code §§ 2104-2106]. For discussion of the timing and circumstances under which disclosure declarations need to be served, see §§ 221.25[3][b] and 221.48[1].

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 221.371.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
B. Bringing The Case To Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.373

§ 221.373 Notice of Withdrawal of Attorney of Record [Code Civ. Proc. § 285.1; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-960]

[1] FORM Notice of Withdrawal of Attorney of Record [Code Civ. Proc. § 285.1; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-960]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is the mandatory Judicial Council form of Notice of Withdrawal of Attorney of Record adopted for use in family law and parentage proceedings [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-960]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

It may be used at any time after the judgment becomes final and before any further pleadings or motion papers in any proceeding pending in the cause are served on the attorney. Although neither the formal consent of the client nor a court order are necessary, copies of the withdrawal must be mailed to the client at his or her last known address and served on the adverse party [Code Civ. Proc. § 285.1].

[3] State Statutes

Withdrawal of attorney as attorney of record in family law proceedings. Code Civ. Proc. § 285.1

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
B. Bringing The Case To Trial

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 221.374-221.389

[Reserved]

§§ 221.374[Reserved]

175 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
C. Dismissals And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.390

§ 221.390 Request for Statement of Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 632; Fam. Code § 2338(a)]

[1] FORM Request for Statement of Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 632; Fam. Code § 2338(a)]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

In re the Marriage of _____ [name], Petitioner, and _____ [name], Respondent.	))))))))	NO. _____ REQUEST FOR STATEMENT OF DECISION

To the Clerk of the Superior Court and to _____ [petitioner or respondent] _____ [name of opposing party]:

_____ [Petitioner or Respondent] _____[name of requesting party] hereby requests that a statement of decision be prepared and filed in this proceeding concerning each of the following issues that were controverted at trial:

[In separately numbered paragraphs, specify controverted issues regarding which the statement of decision is requested, such as the following]

1. The circumstances supporting the award of spousal support to _____ [Petitioner or Respondent], including the standard of living during the marriage, the need of _____ [Petitioner or Respondent] for the support, and the ability of _____ [Petitioner or Respondent] to pay.

2. The reasonableness of the amount of the attorney's fee award to _____ [Petitioner or Respondent].

3. The character, whether separate or community, of the interests of each of the parties in _____ [identify asset].

4. The valuation of each party's interest in _____ [identify asset].

5. The extent of the community's interest in the retirement benefit plan of _____ [Petitioner or Respondent] with _____ [name of employer].

[CONTINUE]

The court's tentative decision in this proceeding was announced on _____ [date].

_____ [date]

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for _____ [party's status and name]

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form is a sample form of request by a party to a family law proceeding for a statement of decision. The request must specify the controverted issues regarding which the party is requesting a statement of decision [see Code Civ. Proc. § 632; Fam. Code § 2338(a)]. See the discussion in § 221.111[4].

[3] State Statutes

Statement of decision required in lieu of written findings and conclusions. Code Civ. Proc. § 632

Court as being required to file statement of decision as in other cases. Fam. Code § 2338(a)

[4] California Rules of Court

Preparation and service of proposed statement of decision and judgment. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
C. Dismissals And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.391

§ 221.391 Proposed Statement of Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 632; Fam. Code § 2338(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 232(c)]

[1] FORM Proposed Statement of Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 632; Fam. Code § 2338(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 232(c)]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

In re the Marriage of	)
_____ [name],	)	NO. _____
Petitioner,	)	[PROPOSED] STATEMENT OF DECISION and	)
_____ [name],	)
Respondent.	)
	)

The above-entitled proceeding was tried on _____ [date(s)] in Dept. _____ of the above-entitled Court, the Honorable _____ [name], Judge, presiding without a jury. Petitioner _____ [name] appeared [in person and was represented] by counsel _____ [name of petitioner's counsel]. Respondent _____ [name] appeared [in person and was represented] by counsel _____ [name of respondent's counsel].

Both oral and documentary evidence was received by the court on all controverted issues [reserved for trial after bifurcation], and the matter was argued by counsel and submitted for decision by the court.

On request of _____ [Petitioner or Respondent] and pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure Section 632 and Family Code Section 2338(a), the court, having considered all the evidence and the arguments of counsel, makes the following statement of decision concerning the issues regarding which _____ [Petitioner or Respondent] has requested a statement of decision.

The court finds as follows:

[In separately numbered paragraphs, set forth factual and legal bases supporting the court's decision concerning each issue identified in the request for statement of decision]

Judgment in this proceeding will be entered in accordance with this statement of decision.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]
Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form is a sample form of proposed statement of decision [see Code Civ. Proc. § 632; Fam. Code § 2338(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(c)] for use in a family law proceeding. If a party is directed by the court to prepare the statement of decision, the party must prepare, file, and serve the proposed statement of decision, along with a proposed judgment, within 15 days after the expiration of the time for filing proposals for the content of the statement or 15 days after the party was notified to prepare the statement, whichever occurs later [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(c)].

[3] Cross References

For a related form, see § 221.390.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
C. Dismissals And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.392

§ 221.392 Judgment of Dissolution [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-180]

[1] FORM Judgment of Dissolution [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-180]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a reproduction of the mandatory Judicial Council form of judgment [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-180] for use in a proceeding for a judgment of dissolution. It may be adapted for use in a proceeding for judgment of legal separation or nullity, with appropriate modifications [see Fam. Code §§ 2210, 2212(a), 2310, 2333], or may be adapted for use following a bifurcated trial in a "status only" judgment dissolving the marriage before the property and support issues involved in the proceeding have been litigated [see Fam. Code § 2337; Code Civ. Proc. § 1048(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.175]. It may also be used in a proceeding for judgment of dissolution or nullity of a domestic partnership, or for legal separation of partners in a domestic partnership, under Fam. Code § 299(d) [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.28(a)(2)].

The form should be completed and submitted to the court as a proposed judgment. When a statement of decision has been requested in a contested proceeding, the proposed judgment must be submitted to the court and served with the proposed statement of decision [see Code Civ. Proc. § 632; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(c)].

The form is intended for use with a variety of attachments, particularly to set forth orders for child custody, child support, and family or spousal support. For discussion of these attachments, see § 221.392[3][e].

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Completing Form

[a] Caption

Counsel should complete the caption of the form of judgment by setting forth his or her name, address, telephone and fax numbers, and state bar number [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111]. Counsel's e-mail address, if any, may also be listed, but neither a fax number nor an e-mail address is mandatory, and the inclusion of either is not tantamount to consent to service by fax or e-mail unless otherwise provided by law [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111]. After the "Attorney for" designation, counsel should specify the name of the party represented and whether the party is the petitioner or the respondent. If the party has no attorney and is appearing in propria persona, the party should insert his or her name, address, telephone and fax numbers in the designated space. In that case, the "Attorney for" designation should be crossed out and replaced by the words "In pro per." An unrepresented party's e-mail address, if any, also may be listed, but neither a fax number nor an e-mail address is mandatory [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111]. Thecounty, address, and branch of the superior court, the names of the petitioner and the respondent, and the case number should also be set forth in the appropriate spaces.

The form contains boxes to mark to specify whether the judgment is a Judgment of Dissolution of Marriage for Status Only, Reserving Jurisdiction Over Termination of Marital Status, a Judgment on Reserved Issues, a Judgment of Legal Separation, or a Judgment of Nullity. In the case of a dissolution, counsel should check the box entitled "Dissolution," and then should set forth the date on which marital status ends [see Fam. Code § 2340]. Fam. Code § 2339(a) provides that no judgment of dissolution is final for the purpose of terminating the marriage of the parties until six months have expired from the date of service of a copy of the summons and petition on the respondent or the date of appearance of the respondent, whichever occurs first. If the judgment will be entered before the earliest possible date for termination of the marital status, insert the specific date when the marriage will end in the caption and in 4a(1). If, on the other hand, the judgment will be entered after the earliest date for termination, the marital status usually will end on the date of entry of the judgment. In that case, leave the date blank for the court clerk to complete. If the court has reserved jurisdiction over the termination date, leave the date blank [see Fam. Code § 2343]. However, if the judge has ordered a later date for termination of the marital status, insert that date [see Fam. Code §§ 2339(b), 2343].

[b] Restraining or Protective Orders

If the judgment contains original or modified personal conduct restraining orders, counsel should check the appropriate box in Paragraph 1, as well as listing their expiration date [see generally Fam. Code § 6200 et seq.]. The orders must be set out in an attachment. In addition, in Paragraph 1 of the judgment, counsel must specify which page or pages of the attachment contain the personal conduct restraining orders.

[c] Hearing Information (Paragraph 2)

Counsel should check the appropriate box in Paragraph 2, indicating whether the proceeding was heard as a default or as an uncontested proceeding; was heard by declaration of the petitioner to establish the grounds for dissolution in an uncontested or default proceeding [see Fam. Code § 2336]; or was heard as a contested proceeding. For discussion of default and uncontested proceedings, see § 221.10 et seq.

In the appropriate spaces in the form, counsel should also set forth the date, time, department, division, room of the hearing, and the name of the judicial officer. Counsel should then check the boxes indicating which parties were present at the hearing and specify the names of attorneys present in court.

[d] Jurisdiction Over Respondent (Paragraph 3)

In Paragraph 3, counsel should indicate the manner in which the court acquired jurisdiction over the respondent by specifying the date the court acquired jurisdiction and by checking the appropriate box specifying that respondent was either served with process or appeared in the action [see Fam. Code § 2339(a)].

[e] Orders of the Court (Paragraph 4)

Paragraph 4 allows the court to set forth its orders. In dissolution proceedings, counsel should select Item 4a. Counsel should also insert the appropriate date on which the judgment will finally become effective to terminate the marriage relationship in Item 4a(1) [see Fam. Code §§ 2339, 2340, 2343].

Item 4a(2), which states that the marriage status is terminated on a date "to be determined on noticed motion of either party or on stipulation," appears to be intended for use when the court reserves jurisdiction over the date of termination of marital status [see Fam. Code § 2343]. Item 4d is marked if the form is being used for entry of judgment nunc pro tunc [see Fam. Code § 2346].

Items 4b and 4c are used to enter a judgment of legal separation or nullity, respectively.

Item 4e should be checked if the judgment being entered is on reserved issues. Item 4f should be checked if the former name of either spouse (or both spouses) is to be restored [see Fam. Code §§ 2080-2082].

Item 4g should be checked if the court is reserving jurisdiction over other issues (not decided by the judgment) and is requiring all other orders to remain in effect, except as provided elsewhere in the judgment.

Items 4h through 4n of the form are for use in specifying that the judgment contains (1) provisions for child or family support, (2) attachment of a marital settlement agreement, (3) attachment of a written stipulation for judgment, (4) provisions for child custody and visitation, and child support, (5) provisions for spousal support, and establishment of parentage of children born before marriage. If provisions for support are contained in the judgment, a group of specialized forms must also be attached, to the extent they otherwise apply to the orders made, unless the support provisions are set forth in a marital settlement agreememt or stipulated judgment being submitted to the court. For child support, these include the Judicial Council forms of Child Support Information and Order Attachment, and Stipulation to Establish or Modify Child Support Order [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-350, FL-342]. For spousal support, the Judicial Council form of Spousal or Family Support Order Attachment must be attached [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-343]. In addition, when the judgment contains provisions for child or family support, the Judicial Council forms of Notice of Rights and Responsibilities--Health Care Costs and Reimbursement Procedures, and of Information Sheet on Changing a Child Support Order must be attached to the judgment [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-192], and, within 10 days of the issuance of the judgment, both parties must complete and file with the court a Child Support Case Registry Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-191]. When provisions for child custody or visitation are contained in the judgment, they must be set forth in the Judicial Council form of Child Custody and Visitation Order Attachment [Cal. Judicial Council Form Fl-341], unless the custody and visitation provisions are set forth in a marital settlement agreememt or stipulated judgment being submitted to the court. If the custody and visitation order was entered pursuant to stipulation, the Judicial Council form of Stipulation to Establish or Modify Child Support and Order should beattached [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-350].

If property division orders are made, box 4o should be checked, as well as the most appropriate of three boxes within 4o, to indicate how the division is memorialized (by marital settlement or other written agreement or stipulation for judgment, by the Judicial Council form of Property Order Attachment to Judgment [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-345], or otherwise). If the judgment divides retirement and survivor benefits between the parties, the Judicial Council form Pension Benefits--Attachment to Judgment [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-348] must be completed and attached to the judgment form.

Item 4p provides a space for counsel to list "Other" types of others. This box might be used to set out orders concerning attorney's fees, for example, when these are not otherwise embodied in a settlement agreement or stipulation for judgment that will be attached to the judgment. When the space adjacent to Item 4p is not sufficient to describe the order, counsel should include an attached page, marked to indicate that it is "Attachment 4p" to the judgment.

[f] Continuation Pages; Signature of Judge

Paragraph 5 requires counsel to specify the number of pages attached to the printed form of judgment. Continuation pages are authorized by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.100, which governs the form of papers presented for filing. For convenience, counsel may wish to use the Judicial Council form of Additional Page (Cal. Judicial Council Form MC-020), which may be attached to any Judicial Council form.

A box following Paragraph 5 allows the judge to specify if his or her signature follows the last attachment.

Local rules in some counties set forth rules governing the format of continuation pages. Counsel is advised to consult these rules in order to determine any local requirements.

[4] Number of Copies to Prepare

Ordinarily, at least six copies of the proposed judgment should be made and submitted to the court. The court will require two copies for its own use: one for filing in the court file and one for entering in the judgment book. The opposing party will also desire a copy stamped "endorsed-filed," as will his or her attorney. Counsel's client will also desire a copy stamped "endorsed-filed," and counsel will wish to retain one copy for his or her office file. Stamped envelopes addressed to the parties and one original and at least two copies of the notice of entry of judgment must also be submitted with the proposed judgment [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.136(a) (requiring "sufficient" copies for each party of notice of entry of judgment)]. For an illustrative form of the notice of entry of judgment, see § 221.393. Failure to submit the envelopes or the completed notices of entry of judgment is cause for refusal to sign the judgment [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.136(d)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
C. Dismissals And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.393

§ 221.393 Notice of Entry of Judgment--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-190]

[1] FORM Notice of Entry of Judgment--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-190]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a reproduction of the mandatory Judicial Council form of notice of entry of judgment [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.134; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-190] for use in a proceeding for dissolution, legal separation, nullity, or to determine parentage. The form must be prepared and submitted by the attorney for the party submitting the judgment [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.136(a)].

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Completing Form

Counsel should complete the caption and nature of the judgment in the same manner set forth in the judgment [see Comments to see § 221.392]. If a date was specified in the judgment for termination of the parties' marital status [see Fam. Code §§ 2340, 2343], the same date must be set forth in the notice of entry. The remainder of the notice should be filled in except for the date when the judgment will be entered, the date and place of mailing, and the clerk's signature [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.136(b)].

The form should also specify in the blank spaces under the portion entitled "Clerk's Certificate of Mailing" the place where notices have been given to the other party. If there has been no appearance by the other party, counsel should set forth the address stated in the declaration of mailing in Paragraph 3 of the printed form of Request to Enter Default [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-165, and discussion in § 221.10 et seq.], which is the party's last known address [see Cal.

Rules of Ct., Rule 5.136(c)]. If service was by publication and the address of the respondent is unknown, those facts must be stated in place of the required address [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.136(c)].

[4] Copies

An original and at least two copies of the notice of entry of judgment, with two stamped envelopes addressed to the parties--but with a return address of the court clerk--must be submitted to the court at the same time the judgment is submitted [Fam. Code § 2338.5(c); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.136(a) (requiring "sufficient" copies for each party of notice of entry of judgment)]. Failure to submit the stamped envelopes or the completed notices of entry of judgment is cause for refusal to sign the judgment [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.136(d)]. The deputy clerk will sign the original notice of entry, which will be retained in the court files, and stamp his or her name on the copies sent to counsel.

[5] Cross References

For a related form, see § 221.392.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
C. Dismissals And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.394

§ 221.394 Notice to Health, Life, or Disability Insurer After Order or Judgment [Fam. Code § 2051]

[1] FORM Notice to Health, Life, or Disability Insurer After Order or Judgment [Fam. Code § 2051]

To: _____ [name of insurer]:

PURSUANT TO A PROCEEDING, IN RE MARRIAGE OF _____ [name], CASE NUMBER _____, IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF _____, YOUR INSURED, _____ [name of insured party], HAS BEEN ORDERED TO MAINTAIN THE EXISTING _____ [HEALTH and/or LIFE and/or DISABILITY] INSURANCE COVERAGE, POLICY NO. _____, IN FORCE FOR THE NAMED BENEFICIARIES OR COVERED DEPENDENTS AS SPECIFIED IN THE ATTACHED ORDER OR JUDGMENT.

THE ATTACHED ORDER OR JUDGMENT REQUIRES YOU TO MAINTAIN THE NAMED BENEFICIARIES UNDER THE POLICY AS IRREVOCABLE BENEFICIARIES OR COVERED DEPENDENTS OF THE POLICY AND YOU MUST ADMINISTER THE COVERAGE ACCORDINGLY, UNTIL THE DATE SPECIFIED, IF ANY, IN THE ORDER OR JUDGMENT, OR UNTIL THE RECEIPT OF A COURT ORDER, JUDGMENT, OR STIPULATION PROVIDING OTHER INSTRUCTIONS.

YOU ARE FURTHER INSTRUCTED TO SEND NOTICE TO THE NAMED BENEFICIARIES, COVERED DEPENDENTS, OR OTHER SPECIFIED PERSONS UPON ANY CANCELLATION, LAPSE, OR CHANGE OF COVERAGE, OR CHANGE OF DESIGNATED BENEFICIARIES UNDER THIS POLICY.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for _____ [party's status and name]

[2] Use of Form

This form is the statutory form of notice to an insurance carrier, for use in giving notice to a health, life, or disability insurance carrier of the existence of a family law order or judgment that requires a party to maintain or purchase insurance [Fam. Code § 2051]. For discussion of the notice, see § 221.138[6][b].

The notice is in the form required by Fam. Code § 2051. It appears that the form language could be set forth as part of a letter that contains the insurance carrier's name and address, and the names and addresses of any persons to whom the carrier should send notification of policy changes.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
C. Dismissals And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.395

§ 221.395 Request for Dismissal--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-618]

[1] FORM Request for Dismissal--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-618]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form may be used by a petitioner in a Family Code proceeding to request dismissal of the proceeding at any time before the actual commencement of the trial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 581(b)(1)]. It may also be used by either party to request a dismissal at any time before entry of a judgment of dissolution if the other party gives written consent [see Code Civ. Proc. § 581(b)(2); Fam. Code § 2338(c)]. The dismissal will not be effective unless it it made with the written consent of the attorney of record for the party applying for the dismissal. If the attorney's consent is not obtained, the dismissal may be entered only on order of court after notice to the attorney [Code Civ. Proc. § 581(j)]. A party who requests the dismissal must serve on all parties and file notice of entry of the dismissal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1390].

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis[(R)] Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
C. Dismissals And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 221.396-221.409

[Reserved]

§§ 221.396[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.410

§ 221.410 Declaration in Support of Motion to Set Aside Judgment [Fam. Code § 2122]

[1] FORM Declaration in Support of Motion to Set Aside Judgment [Fam. Code § 2122]

[Attachment to Paragraphs 13 and 14 of Judicial Council form of Application for Order and Supporting Declaration (Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310); print on pleading paper or on Judicial Council form of Additional Page (MC-020)]

In support of this motion under Family Code Section 2120 et seq. to set aside the judgment entered in this proceeding on _____ [date], I, _____ [name of declarant], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., the _____ (petitioner or respondent) in this proceeding or an attorney at law admitted to practice before all the courts of this State and the attorney of record for _____ (petitioner or respondent) in this proceeding].

2. On _____ [date], this court entered its judgment in this proceeding, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A. [The judgment provided, in pertinent part, that _____ (specify provisions of judgment that moving party seeks to set aside).]

[3. The judgment referred to in Paragraph 2 incorporated a marital settlement agreement entered into between _____ (specify appropriate parties, e.g., respondent and I) on _____ (date). A copy of the agreement is attached hereto as Exhibit B.]

4. The judgment referred to in Paragraph 2 [and the marital settlement agreement incorporated into that judgment] should be set aside on grounds of _____ [actual fraud and/or perjury and/or duress and/or mental incapacity and/or mistake] based on the following facts:

[Set forth detailed facts supporting the alleged ground(s) for setting aside the judgment or portion of the judgment, such as the following]

a. On _____ [date], I executed the marital settlement agreement referred to in Paragraph 3. The agreement contained provisions that purported to list and divide all the community property of the marriage between respondent and myself. At the time I was bedridden with a heart ailment and was not represented by an attorney.

b. In connection with execution of the agreement, respondent represented tome that he/she had listed all of our community property. I totally relied on respondent's representation and, at the time, had no reason to doubt his/her representation.

c. In reliance on respondent's representation that "everything was taken care of," and that there was no need for me to go to the trouble and expense of retaining an attorney or appearing in the dissolution proceeding, I agreed to allow my default to be entered and the dissolution to proceed uncontested.

d. On _____ [date], _____ [number] months after the entry of the judgment of dissolution in this proceeding, which incorporated the marital settlement agreement, I discovered that, on or about _____ [date], respondent had purchased the following asset with community funds: a 10-acre tract of land in _____ [location], on which respondent is planning to build a retail shopping center.

e. Respondent never mentioned the 10-acre tract of land to me at any time. It was not listed in petitioner's preliminary or final declaration of property disclosure under Family Code Section 2100 et seq., nor was it divided in the judgment in this dissolution proceeding. If I had been aware of the existence of the 10-acre tract of community real property, I would not have signed the marital settlement agreement, nor would I have allowed my default to be taken.

f. I have incurred and am indebted to my attorney, _____ [name] for attorney's fees in the amount of $_____ for expenses incurred in making this motion.

[CONTINUE]

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a declaration supporting a motion to set aside a judgment under Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. [see Fam. Code § 2122]. This procedure is for use when the limitation period for setting aside a judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 473 for mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect has expired [see Fam. Code § 2121(a)].

The set-aside provisions of Family Code Section 2120 et seq. apply only to judgments entered on or after January 1, 1993 [Fam. Code § 2129]. Judgments entered before that date, however, may be set aside under equitable principles set forth in prior case law. For forms pertaining to equitable motions to set aside judgments that may be adapted for use regarding family law judgments entered before January 1, 1993, see Ch. 489, Relief from Judgments and Orders, §

489.430 et seq.

[3] Completing Declaration and Accompanying Papers

The declaration may be typed on the Judicial Council form of Additional Page (Form MC-020). This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge. The declaration may also be typed on standard pleading paper.

This form should be attached to the mandatory Judicial Council form of Order to Show Cause [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-300] or the Judicial Council form of Notice of Motion [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-301], either of which should be accompanied by the Judicial Council form of Application for Order and Supporting Declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310]. These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge. An illustrative filled-in copy of the order to show cause form seeking relief on other grounds is set forth in § 221.310 et seq.

In either the Order to Show Cause or Notice of Motion form, the box in the caption for "Other (specify)" should be checked and "Motion to Set Aside Judgment Under Family Code Section 2120 et seq." should be inserted in the space provided. In the Application for Order form, the Paragraph 13 box ("OTHER RELIEF (specify)") should be checked, and the following should be inserted in the space provided:

> I request that the court set aside the judgment entered in this proceeding under Family Code Section 2120 et seq. on the ground of _____ [actual fraud and/or perjury and/or duress and/or mental incapacity and/or mistake].

The boxes in Paragraph 14 also should be checked to indicate that the supporting facts are contained in the attached declaration.

[4] Cross References

For discussion of the general form and content requirements for declarations, see Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.411

§ 221.411 Declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5] in Support of Motion to Divide Unadjudicated Community Estate Assets and Liabilities [Fam. Code § 2556]

[1] FORM Declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5] in Support of Motion to Divide Unadjudicated Community Estate Assets and Liabilities [Fam. Code § 2556]

[Attachment to Paragraphs 13 and 14 of Judicial Council form of Application for Order and Supporting Declaration (Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310); print on pleading paper or on Judicial Council form of Additional Page (MC-020)]

In support of this motion under Family Code Section 2556 to divide and award previously unadjudicated community estate _____ [assets and/or liabilities], I, _____ [name of declarant], declare:

1. I am the _____ [petitioner or respondent] in this proceeding.

2. On _____ [date], this court entered its judgment in this proceeding, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A. Among other things, the judgment purported to confirm the separate property of myself and _____ [petitioner or respondent] and to divide the community estate assets and liabilities of myself and _____ [petitioner or respondent].

[EITHER]

3. The judgment referred to in Paragraph 2 did not adjudicate the interests of myself and/or _____ [petitioner or respondent] in the following community estate asset(s): _____ [describe asset(s) and petitioner's and respondent's respective interests, e.g., the community's interest in respondent's deferred compensation plan with his/her employer, _____ (name of employer). Respondent has been employed by _____ (name of employer) for _____ years, _____ months, during all of which time the employer has offered and respondent has participated in a deferred compensation savings plan under Internal Revenue Code Section 401(k) (hereafter called "the 401(k) plan"). All contributions made to the 401(k) plan from _____ (date), the date respondent was first employed, until _____ (date), the date of our separation, were made with funds that were community property of respondent and myself. The community property interest in this plan should be adjudicated according to the time rule, and my half interest, as further calculated in the attached property declaration, should be awarded to me. I have made no previous agreement with respondent regarding this plan and have not waived my rights in the plan].

[AND/OR]

4. The judgment referred to in Paragraph 2 [also] did not adjudicate or assign responsibility to myself or _____ [petitioner or respondent] for the following community estate debt(s): _____ [describe debt(s), e.g., a home equity loan that respondent and I took out with _____ (name of lender) on _____ (date), which was secured by the equity in our family home located at _____ (address). Respondent used the proceeds of this loan to pay off outstanding credit card balances representing personal debts that he/she had incurred prior to our marriage. The responsibility for repayment of this loan therefore, in fairness, should be assigned and allocated to respondent].

[CONTINUE]

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a declaration in support of a postjudgment motion for an order to divide unadjudicated community estate assets or liabilities. The order may be sought through either a noticed motion or order to show cause proceeding [see Fam. Code § 2556].

[3] Completing Declaration and Accompanying Papers

For instructions on how to type the declaration and attach it to the Judicial Council form of Order to Show Cause or form of Notice of Motion, along with the form of Application for Order and Supporting Declaration, see § 221.410.

In either the Order to Show Cause or the Notice of Motion form, the box in the caption for "Other (specify)" should be checked and "Motion to Divide Previously Unadjudicated Community Estate _____ [Assets and/or Liabilities]" should be inserted in the space provided. In the Application for Order form, the Paragraph 13 box ("OTHER RELIEF (specify)") should be checked, and the following inserted in the space provided:

> I request that the court enter an order under Family Code Section 2556 dividing previously unadjudicated community estate _____ [assets and/or liabilities], as more fully described in the attached declaration.

The appropriate box in Paragraph 14 also should be checked to indicate that the supporting facts are contained in the attached declaration.

The motion also should be accompanied by a memorandum of points and authorities, as well as a completed Property Declaration [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-160] when, as in the example, it is relevant to the relief requested [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118(b)]. For an illustration of a Property Declaration, see § 221.310 et seq.

[4] Cross References

For a related form, see § 221.410.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.412

§ 221.412 Request for Hearing and Application to Set Aside Support Order Under Family Code Section 3691--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-360

[1] FORM Request for Hearing and Application to Set Aside Support Order--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-360

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is an illustrated, filled-in version of the mandatory Judicial Council form of Request for Hearing and Application to Set Aside Support Order Under Family Code Section 3691 [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-360]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

The form is designed to be used by a support obligor to request a hearing so as to set aside a support order after the six-month time limit of Code Civ. Proc. § 473 has run. The applicant must allege at least one of the following grounds for the set aside: fraud, perjury, or lack of notice, and must bring the motion within strict time limits. In the case of fraud, for example, the motion must be brought within six months of the time the complainant either discovered, or reasonably should have discovered the fraud [Fam. Code §§ 3690, 3691]. For further discussion of the grounds, see § 221.159[1].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.413

§ 221.413 Responsive Declaration to Application to Set Aside Support Order--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-365

[1] FORM Responsive Declaration to Application to Set Aside Support Order--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-365

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is an illustrated, filled-in version of the mandatory Judicial Council form of Responsive Declaration to Application to Set Aside Support Order [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-365]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

The form is designed to be used by a supported parent or enforcing support agency to respond to a request to set aside a support order that has been made on the ground of fraud, perjury, or lack of notice. For related discussion, see § 221.159[1].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.414

§ 221.414 Order After Hearing to Set Aside Support Order--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-367

[1] FORM Order After Hearing to Set Aside Support Order--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-367

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is an illustrated, filled-in version of the mandatory Judicial Council form of Order After Hearing on Motion to Set Aside Support Order [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-367]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

The form is designed to be used to set forth a court's order after a hearing on a set-aside motion that has been brought on the ground of fraud, perjury, or lack of notice. Before granting relief, the court must find that the facts alleged as the grounds for relief materially affected the original order and that the moving party would materially benefit from the granting of the relief [Fam. Code § 3690(b)]. A support order may not be set aside simply because the court finds that it was inequitable when made, or because later circumstances caused the support to become excessive or inadequate [Fam. Code § 3692]. For related discussion, see § 221.159[1].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
D. Postjudgment Procedures

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 221.415-221.429

[Reserved]

§§ 221.415[Reserved]

188 of 193 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.430

§ 221.430 Request for Production of Income and Expense Declaration After Judgment [Fam. Code § 3664]--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-396]

[1] FORM Request for Production of Income and Expense Declaration After Judgment [Fam. Code § 3664]--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-396]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is copy of the mandatory Judicial Council form of Request for Production of Income and Expense Declaration After Judgment [see Fam. Code § 3664(a); Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-396]. The form may be used as an inexpensive method of discovering financial facts before commencing proceedings to modify a support order [see Fam. Code § 3660]. It is for use by a party after entry of a judgment of dissolution of marriage or legal separation, or a determination of paternity, that directs payment of child or spousal support, but before bringing a motion for the modification or termination of support, to request the production of a completed current income and expense declaration from the other party [see Fam. Code § 3664(a)].

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] State Statutes

Discovery before beginning modification or termination proceedings. Fam. Code §§ 3660-3668

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.431

§ 221.431 Order to Show Cause for Modification of Order--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-300]

[1] FORM Order to Show Cause for Modification of Order--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-300]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is an illustrative copy of the Judicial Council form of Order to Show Cause [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-300] for mandatory use when a party seeks modification of an order in a family law proceeding by the order-to-show cause procedure. For discussion of procedures for applying for modification of an order, see § 221.182[1].

A completed Application for Order and Supporting Declaration [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.18(b); Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310; see also see § 221.432] should be attached to the order to show cause, along with an income and expense declaration, if relevant [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.118(b), 5.128(a); Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150]. For an illustrative filled-in reproduction of the income and expense declaration, see § 221.310 et seq.

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Completing the Form

The box for "MODIFICATION" in the caption should be checked, and other appropriate boxes should be checked for the type of order to be modified. The name of the party against whom the order is sought is inserted in Paragraph 1. The date of the hearing is set forth in Paragraph 2(a). In some counties a hearing date may be obtained by contacting the clerk; in others, the clerk inserts the hearing date when the order to show cause is issued.Unless otherwise specified by law because of the nature of the relief requested, the date set must be at least 16 court days after service of the moving and supporting papers unless an order shortening time is obtained. If service is by mail is appropriate under the circumstances of the case, the required 16-day notice is extended depending on the place of mailing and place of address [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)]. Paragraph 3 is filled in as appropriate.

[4] Presentment to Judge

After completing the order to show cause and supporting papers, counsel should present the originals to the proper judge of the court in which the matter is pending, or to a deputy court clerk for presentation to the judge in chambers [see Code Civ. Proc. § 166(a)(1)]. If the judge signs the Order to Show Cause, a deputy court clerk will conform the copies, retain and file the originals of the papers [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118(d)], stamp all copies "endorsed filed," and return all copies to counsel for service on the other party [see Fam. Code § 215].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.432

§ 221.432 Application for Modification of Order and Supporting Declaration--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310]

[1] FORM Application for Modification of Order and Supporting Declaration--Judicial Council Form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is the mandatory Judicial Council form of Application for Order and Supporting Declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310], which must be prepared by the party seeking modification and attached to the Judicial Council form of Order to Show Cause [see § 221.431] or Notice of Motion [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118(b)] along with an income and expense declaration, if relevant [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.118(b), 5.128(a); Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150].

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Completing the Form

On the first page of the application, the appropriate boxes should be checked to indicate the orders for which modification is sought.

If modification of custody and visitation is sought, check the appropriate boxes in Paragraphs 1 and 2 and enter the appropriate information. When requesting child abduction prevention orders, the Request for Child Abduction Orders must be attached [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-312]. Under most circumstances, modification of custody will also require modification of visitation, as the prior custodial parent will now be entitled to visitation rights. For further discussion, see Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody .

If modification of child support is sought, Paragraph 3 should be checked. The amount of support will be set according to the statewide uniform child support guideline [see Fam. Code § 4050 et seq.; see also discussion in Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support], and it is not necessary to request a specific amount in the application. Therefore, no entry is required under 3b unless an amount that deviates from the guideline is being requested. The box for 3c should be checked and the date and amount of the prior order set forth.

If modification of spousal support is sought, check the box for Paragraph 4 and enter the appropriate information. Attorney's fees and costs are requested by checking the boxes for Paragraph 5.

Facts in support of modification may be set forth in the space under Paragraph 10 on the second page of the application, if space permits. However, in most cases, it is recommended that the Judicial Council form for an Attached Declaration (Form MC-031) be used, particularly if any degree of detail at all is required to set forth the change of circumstances since the prior order. For discussion of what constitutes a change of circumstances for purposes of modification of child custody, child support, and spousal support, see Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody , Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support , and Ch. 225, Dissolution of Marriage: Spousal Support , respectively.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.433

§ 221.433 Notice of Motion and Motion for Simplified Modification of Order for Child, Spousal, or Family Support and Information Sheet--Judicial Council Forms [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-390, FL-391]

[1] FORM Notice of Motion and Motion for Simplified Modification of Order for Child, Spousal, or Family Support and Information Sheet--Judicial Council Forms [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-390, FL-391]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The above forms are reproductions of the Judicial Council forms adopted for use in initiating "simplified" proceedings for the modification of child, spousal, or family support; and include a two-page information sheet [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-390, FL-391]. These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

The Notice of Motion and Motion for Simplified Modification of Order for Child, Spousal, or Family Support form is designed to act as both a notice of motion and written motion in support of modification, and includes a proof of service declaration as part of the form [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-390]. Although the form is designed with the unrepresented party in mind, insofar as it purports to simplify procedures by combining various elements into one form, the form instructions indicate that the party may be represented by counsel--implying that the form may be used by parties who are represented by counsel [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-390, FL-391; Fam. Code § 3680(b)]. However, the form contains no reference to the recovery of attorney's fees and costs.

The form contemplates that the moving party will obtain a hearing date from the court clerk in advance of serving and filing the form. A space is provided on the form for setting forth this information. The form also requires a statement of the underlying bases for modification, and includes the requirement that the moving party attach a completed Income and Expense Declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150] or Financial Statement (Simplified) [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-155], whichever is more appropriate to the party's circumstances in view of the requirements for using those forms. In addition, the moving party must mark the appropriate check-off boxes in Item no. 6 to show any additional bases for the modification request. If there is insufficient room on the form to explain this, an attachment to the form should be used.

If the underlying court action was originally brought by the county district attorney, the district attorney is enforcing the order, or if children are involved who are receiving public assistance benefits, the form and any attachments must be served on the applicable district attorney, as well as on the opposing party. Other forms that must be served include blank versions of (1) the Responsive Declaration to Motion for Simplified Modification for Child, Spousal, or Family Support, (2) the Financial Statement (Simplified) or Income and Expense Declaration, and (3) Information Sheet--How to Oppose a Motion for Simplified Support [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-392, FL-393, FL-150, FL-155].

The information sheet describes the simplified modification method, including accompanying forms, service requirements, filing, and hearing-related matters [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-391]].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.434

§ 221.434 Responsive Declaration to Motion for Simplified Modification of Order for Child, Spousal, or Family Support and Information Sheet--Judicial Council Forms [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-392, FL-393]

[1] FORM Responsive Declaration to Motion for Simplified Modification of Order for Child, Spousal, or Family Support and Information Sheet--Judicial Council Forms [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-392, FL-393]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The above forms are illustrative, filled-in versions of forms adopted by the Judicial Council to respond to a motion for modifying child, spousal, or family support in "simplified" modification proceedings [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-392, FL-393]. These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

Although the Responsive Declaration form is designed with the unrepresented party in mind, insofar as it purports to simplify procedures by combining various elements into one form, the form instructions indicate that the party may be represented by counsel--implying that the form may be used by parties who are represented by counsel [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-392, FL-393]. However, the form contains no reference to the recovery of attorney's fees and costs.

The form provides the responding party with the opportunity to consent or object to the relief requested by the moving party, and incorporates within it a proof of service declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-392]. If objection to the requested relief is made, the responding party must set forth the bases for objection using the check-off boxes in Item no. 2 of the form. If there is insufficient room on the form to explain this, an attachment to the form should be used.

The form requires the responding party to attach a completed Income and Expense Declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150] or Financial Statement (Simplified) [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-155], whichever is more appropriate to the party's circumstances in view of the requirements for using those forms.

If the underlying court action was brought by the county district attorney, the district attorney is enforcing the order, or if children are involved who are receiving public assistance benefits, the responsive declaration form and any attachments must be served on the applicable district attorney, as well as on the other party.

The Information Sheet describes how a party may oppose a request for simplified modification. It explains the need for including accompanying forms, service requirements, filing, and hearing-related matters [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-393].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 221 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROCEDURE
PART IV. FORMS
E. Modification Of Orders And Judgments

18-221 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 221.435

§ 221.435 Request for Income and Benefit Information From Employer--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-397

[1] FORM Request for Income and Benefit Information From Employer--Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-397

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a reproduction of the mandatory Judicial Council form of Request for Income and Benefit Information From Employer [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-397].This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

The form is designed to be used to request income and benefit information about an employee from his or her employer if the employee failed to either timely respond (within 35 days of service) to a prior Request for Production of an Income and Expense Declaration After Judgment [see § 221.430], or the employee's response was incomplete regarding any wage information [Fam. Code § 3664(b)].

This form must be served on both the employer and the employee by either certified mail (postage prepaid, return receipt requested), or by personal service [Fam. Code § 3664(c)]. For further discussion of the request process and its requirements, see § 221.181[2].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 222.syn

§ 222.syn Synopsis to Chapter 222: DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION

§ 222.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 222.02 Cross References

§§ 222.03-222.09 [Reserved]

§ 222.10 Governing Law

§ 222.11 "Community Property" Defined

§ 222.12 "Community Estate" Distinguished

§ 222.13 "Quasi-Community Property" Distinguished

§ 222.14 "Quasi-Marital Property" Distinguished

§ 222.15 "Separate Property" Defined

§ 222.16 Transmutation

§ 222.17 Presumptions

§§ 222.18-222.29 [Reserved]

§ 222.30 Injunctive Orders and Related Procedures

§ 222.31 Joinder of Third Parties

§ 222.32 Bifurcation

§ 222.33 Submission to Arbitration

§ 222.34 Sale of One Community Asset to Preserve Another

[1] Circumstances Permitting Sale

[2] Limitations on Court's Authority

§ 222.35 Determining Family Law Attorney's Real Property Lien and Need for Case Management Plan

[1] Effect of Lien on Equal Division

[2] Need for Case Management Plan

§ 222.36 Property Disclosure Requirements During Proceeding

§ 222.37 Motion for Alternate Valuation Date

§§ 222.38-222.49 [Reserved]

§ 222.50 Equal Division Requirement

§ 222.51 Timing of Court's Division

§ 222.52 Court's Duty to Characterize and Value Property

[1] Characterization

[2] Valuation

[a] As of Time of Trial

[b] Valuation at Different Time

[i] Factors Showing Good Cause

[ii] Factors Insufficient to Show Good Cause

[c] Time of Trial Defined

[i] In Bifurcated Proceeding

[ii] On Remand After Appeal

[3] Consideration of Tax Effects

§ 222.53 Property Division by Court

[1] Subject Matter Jurisdiction--Scope of Jurisdiction in General

[2] Quasi In Rem Jurisdiction

[a] Jurisdiction to Divide Separate Property

[b] Treatment of Out-of-State Real Property

[3] Personal Jurisdiction

[4] Termination of Jurisdiction

[5] Court's Exercise of Jurisdiction in Dividing Property

[a] Method of Division at Trial

[b] Modification Before Judgment

[i] Amendment of Pleadings

[ii] Substantial Change in Community Property

[c] Reservation of Jurisdiction

[d] Effect of Appellate Court's Power to Revise Property Disposition

[e] Division of Omitted Community Property

[i] Postjudgment Motion to Divide Property

[ii] Vacating Judgment Within Six Months After Entry

[iii] Statutory and Equitable Motions to Vacate or Modify Judgment

[iv] Division in Subsequent Independent Action

[v] Postjudgment Tort Action for Concealment of Community Assets

§ 222.54 Property Division by Parties

[1] Qualifying Agreements and Stipulations in General

[2] Written Agreements

[3] Enforcement; Merger in Judgment

[4] Oral Stipulation in Open Court

[5] Other Oral Agreements

[a] Executed Oral Agreement

[b] Effect of Parties' Undisclosed Oral Side Agreement

§§ 222.55-222.69 [Reserved]

§ 222.70 Overview of Exceptions and Division Alternatives

§ 222.71 Single Asset Award

[1] When Economic Circumstances Warrant

[2] Delayed Division of Asset

[3] Compensation to Equalize Division

[a] When Required

[b] Awarding Note to Equalize Division

§ 222.72 Offset for Misappropriated Assets

§ 222.73 Property Valued Less Than $5,000

[1] Statutory Conditions of Award

[2] Inability to Locate Party

[a] Interpretation of Statute

[b] Proof

[3] Clarifying Nature of Award in Judgment

§ 222.74 Personal Injury Damages

§ 222.75 Educational Loans

§ 222.76 Community Debts Exceed Community Assets

§ 222.77 Retention of Retirement Benefits by Victim of Murder Attempt

[1] Award of Entire Community Interest in Benefits

[2] Related Remedies for Victim

[a] Prohibition on Support or Insurance Award

[b] Award of Attorney's Fees and Costs

§§ 222.78-222.89 [Reserved]

§ 222.90 Out-of-State Real Property

[1] Court Lacks Authority to Affect Title

[2] Preferred Division Method

[3] Alternative Division Methods

§ 222.91 Apportioning Community and Separate Interests

[1] General Concept of Apportionment

[2] Application of Apportionment Methods to Family Home

[a] Home Acquired Before Marriage in Separate Title--Effect of Community Contributions to Acquisition

[b] Premarital Home Converted to Joint Title During Marriage

[c] Home Acquired During Marriage

[i] "Acquired During Marriage" Defined

[ii] Effect of Separate Down Payment on Community Acquisition

[iii] Effect of Community Contributions to Separate Acquisition

[d] Community Improvements to Separate Home

[3] Related Division and Valuation Issues

§ 222.92 Deferred Sale of Home Orders

[1] Statutory Requirements--Authority and Definition

[2] Determination of Economic Feasibility

[a] Considerations in Granting or Denying Order

[i] Statutory Factors Summarized

[ii] Effect of Separate Ownership Interest in Home

[b] Contents and Recording of Order

[c] Modification or Termination

[i] Court's Discretion

[ii] Rebuttable Presumption for Termination

[d] Reservation of Jurisdiction

[3] Family Home Awards Under Prior Case Law

[4] Awards Under Prior Statutory Law

§§ 222.93-222.109 [Reserved]

§ 222.110 Value Defined

§ 222.111 Manner of Establishing Value

[1] Application of Evidence Code Provisions

§ 222.112 Effect of Commissions and Taxes

[1] Commissions

[2] Taxes

[a] Immediate and Specific Consequences Considered

[b] Capital Gains

§§ 222.113-222.129 [Reserved]

§ 222.130 Bank and Savings Accounts

[1] Characterization in General

[2] Multiple-Party Accounts Law

[a] Overview

[b] Creation of Accounts

[c] Survivorship Rights and Withdrawal of Funds

[d] Treatment of Accounts Expressly Designated as Community Property

[e] Community Presumption of Net Contribution to Account

§ 222.131 Businesses and Professional Practices

[1] Characterization in General

[2] Effect of Professional License

[3] Discretion of Court Regarding Business

[a] Options Available

[b] Single Asset Award

[c] Factors Supporting Single Asset Award

[d] Sale to Third Party

[4] Need for Apportionment

[5] When Valuation of Ongoing Business Required--Methods Generally Applicable

[6] Specific Assets and Liabilities to Be Considered

[a] In General

[b] Treatment of Professional Practices

[i] Specific Factors

[ii] Reservation of Jurisdiction

[iii] Methods of Valuation

[iv] Time of Valuation

[7] Determination and Valuation of Goodwill

[a] Definition and Existence

[b] Valuation

[i] General Factors Considered

[ii] Use of Expert Testimony

[iii] Summary of Evidentiary Considerations

[8] Apportioning Business Receivables

§ 222.132 Treatment of Assets Held in Partnership With Third Persons

§ 222.133 Copyrights and Royalties

§ 222.134 Increases in Value Due to Spouse's Efforts (Pereira/Van Camp)

[1] Community Effort Increasing Value of Separate Property

[2] Apportionment Methods

[3] Separate Efforts Increasing Value of Community Property

§ 222.135 Life Insurance

[1] Characterization in General

[2] Term Insurance During Insured's Lifetime

[a] Scope

[b] Opposition to Division

[c] Division Permitted

[3] Unauthorized Gifts of Community Insurance Benefits

[a] Right to Set Aside Gift

[b] Insurance as Support Substitute Contrasted

[4] Military Life Insurance Policies

§ 222.136 Personal Injury Damages

[1] Characterization--General Status as Community Property

[2] Exceptions

[a] In General

[b] Imputed Negligence Problem Solved

[3] Award on Division of Community Estate

[a] Assignment to Injured Party

[b] "Community Estate" Damages Defined

[c] Division of Other Community Property

§ 222.137 Workers' Compensation Benefits

§ 222.138 Qui Tam Actions

§ 222.139 Social Security Benefits

§ 222.140 Stock

[1] Court's Discretion in Awarding Stock to One Party--Overview

[2] Application to Closely Held Stock

[a] In General

[b] Publicly Traded Stock

[3] Valuation

[a] Publicly Traded Stock

[b] Closely Held Stock

[c] Consideration of Tax Consequences

§§ 222.141-222.159 [Reserved]

§ 222.160 Compensation Other Than Salary, Including Rights Under Express Contracts

[1] Distinguishing Separate and Community Interests in General

[2] Termination Pay, Severance Pay, and Related Benefits

[a] Consideration of Purpose of Payment

[b] Deferred Compensation for Services Rendered as Community Property

[i] In General

[ii] Compensation for Present/Future Loss of Earnings as Separate Property

[c] Division

[3] Employee Stock Options

[a] Characterization in General

[b] Division and Valuation

[4] Housing Subsidized by Employer

§ 222.161 Survivor and Death Benefits in General--Statutory Recognition of Surviving Former Spouses

§ 222.162 Federal Survivor and Other Former Spouse Benefits

[1] Former Spouses of Uniformed Services Members--Access to Survivor and Other Benefits

[2] CHAMPUS Benefits

[3] Former Spouses of Federal Civil Service Members

[4] Continued Access to Health Care Benefits (COBRA)

§ 222.163 Health Insurance Subsidized by Employer

§§ 222.164-222.179 [Reserved]

§ 222.180 Characterizing Community and Separate Interests

[1] Pension or Retirement Benefits Based on Longevity--Scope of Interests Covered

[2] Apportioning Community and Separate Interests

[a] In General

[b] Rules for Military Retirement Benefits

[3] Disability Benefits--Application of "Purpose Analysis"

[a] Pensions

[b] Private Insurance Benefits

[c] Federal Preemption of Military Benefits

[4] Benefits Terminology

[a] Vested--Defined in Dissolution Context

[b] No Substantive Distinction Between Vested and Nonvested

[c] Matured and Nonmatured

[d] Types of Plans

[i] Defined Benefit Plan

[ii] Defined Contribution Plan

§ 222.181 Procedural Considerations in Dividing Benefits

[1] Joinder of Plan

[2] Notice of Adverse Interest

[3] Restraining Orders Against Employee Spouse

[4] Valuation Date Other Than Trial

[5] Bifurcation and Reservation of Jurisdiction

§ 222.182 Court's Discretion in Dividing Benefits

[1] Duty of Court to Avoid Termination of Community Interest--Necessary or Appropriate Orders

[2] Express Limitations on Orders

[a] In General

[b] Construction of Authorizing Statute

[c] Abolition of Terminable Interest Rule

[3] Choice of Division Method

[a] Trial Court's Broad Discretion

[b] "Preference" for Pension Award to Employee Spouse

[c] Overview of Considerations in Dividing Benefits

[4] Use of "Time Rule" and Other Apportionment Methods

[a] Description and Acceptance of Time Rule Formula

[b] Limitations on Application

[i] When Application Inappropriate

[ii] Maximum Years in Denominator

§ 222.183 Effect of Benefit's "Maturity" on Division

[1] Division of Nonmatured Benefits

[a] Benefits Paid When Employee Spouse Retires

[b] Cash Out

[2] Disposition After Benefits Mature

[a] In General

[b] Risks of Awarding Future Payment

[3] Division of Matured Benefits

[a] "Preference" for Award to Employee Spouse

[b] Insufficient Community Assets

[c] Nonemployee Spouse's Right to Immediate or Future Distribution

[i] Election of Time of Distribution

[ii] Limitation on Trial Court's Discretion

[iii] Election by Nonemployee Spouse to Receive Immediate Payment

[iv] Formal Motion Required

[v] Demonstration of Financial Need Unnecessary

[vi] Distribution When Employee Spouse Retires

[d] Payment Amount on Immediate Distribution

[i] Amount Equivalent to Present Interest

[ii] Immediate Distribution Based on Future Value Not Permitted

[e] Payment Amount on Employee Spouse's Actual Retirement

[f] Methods of Payment

[i] Options for Immediate Distribution

[ii] Benefits Presently Being Paid

[iii] Direct Payment by Pension Plan

[g] Risks of Future Increases and Decreases

[i] In General

[ii] Pension Forfeited Through Wrongful Act

[4] Relationship to Spousal Support

§§ 222.184-222.199 [Reserved]

§ 222.200 ERISA and Federal Preemption Issues

[1] Qualified Domestic Relations Orders Not Preempted

[a] Effect of 1984 Retirement Equity Act

[b] Limitations on Applicability

[i] Inapplicable Plans

[ii] Death and Testamentary Dispositions

[iii] Enforcement of Obligations

[2] Jurisdictional Limits by Federal Law

[a] Scope of State Court's Jurisdiction

[b] Applicability to Determinations of Pension Plan Administrators

§ 222.201 Requirements for Qualified Domestic Relations Orders (QDROs)

[1] Definitions

[2] Necessary Information and Other Requirements

[a] Clear Specification in Order

[b] No Alteration of Form or Amount of Benefits

[c] Former Spouse Treated as Surviving Spouse

[d] Reservation of Jurisdiction

[3] Effect of Benefits Being Payable at Earliest Retirement Age

[a] Permissible Provisions for Payment

[b] "Earliest Retirement Age" Defined

§ 222.202 Plan Procedures and Duties

[1] Requirements of Plan Procedures

[2] Duties of Plan Administrator

§ 222.203 Effective Dates

§ 222.204 Consideration of Tax Consequences

§ 222.205 Survivor Benefits Under ERISA Plans

§§ 222.206-222.219 [Reserved]

§ 222.220 Historical Background

[1] Pre-1981 Law

[2] McCarty and Enactment of FUSFSPA

[3] California Legislation Covering "Window Period"

[4] Effect of Legislation Amending FUSFSPA

[5] FUSFSPA Jurisdictional Requirements

[6] Treatment of Military Separation Pay

§ 222.221 Military Disability Pensions

[1] Controlling Federal Law

[2] Remedies to Compensate Nonmilitary Spouse

§ 222.222 Division of Gross Versus "Disposable" (Net) Pay

§ 222.223 Direct Payment to Nonmilitary Spouse

[1] What Benefits May Be Paid

[2] Eligibility

[3] Enforceable Court Orders

[a] Types of Enforceable Orders

[b] Requirements for All Orders

[c] Additional Requirements for Orders Dividing Property

[4] Procedure

[a] Required Request and Accompanying Documents

[b] Service of Notice and Response

[5] Notification of Service Member

[6] Payment Procedure

[a] Commencement and Frequency of Payments

[b] Limitations on Amount Payable

[c] Treatment of Multiple Orders

[d] Termination of Payments

[e] Request for Reconsideration by Former Spouse or Service Member

§ 222.224 Division of Omitted Pensions

[1] Postjudgment Motion Versus Partition Action-Motions

[2] Partition Actions

[a] Retroactive Award of Benefits

[i] Postjudgment Motions

[ii] Partition Actions

§§ 222.225-222.239 [Reserved]

§ 222.240 Federal Railroad Retirement Benefits

[1] "Tiered" System

[2] Characterization and Division of Benefits

§ 222.241 Employee Benefits of California Public Entities

[1] Public Employees' Retirement System (PERS) Benefits

[2] State Teachers' Retirement System (STRS) Benefits

[3] Judge's Retirement System Benefits

[4] County Benefits

§§ 222.242-222.259 [Reserved]

§ 222.260 Need for Characterization Before Division

§ 222.261 Application of Characterization Principles

[1] In General

[2] Effect of Liability Statutes

[a] Scope and Applicability of Statutes

[b] Definitions and Construction of Terms

[i] Community Estate Defined

[ii] Debt Defined and When Incurred

[c] Liability of Quasi-Community Property

[d] Liability of Quasi-Marital Property

§ 222.262 Statutory Division Rules for Contract and Tort Debts

§§ 222.263-222.279 [Reserved]

§ 222.280 Premarital Debts

[1] Characterization--General Rules

[2] Exception for Spouse's Earnings

[a] In General

[b] Exception for Spouse's Separate Property

[c] Preexisting Support Obligations

[3] Division

§ 222.281 Debts Incurred During Marriage and Before Separation

[1] Characterization--General Rule of Community Characterization

[2] Treatment of Separate Property in General

[a] Rules for "Necessaries" and "Common Necessaries"

[i] Personal Liability of Spouse

[ii] Creditor's Action for Debt

[iii] Satisfaction From Spouse's Separate Property

[3] Division

[a] General Rules

[b] "Negative Estate" Cases

[c] Reimbursement Issues

§ 222.282 Debts Incurred After Separation and Before Judgment

[1] Characterization--General Exclusion From Community Liability

[2] Common Necessaries of Life

[a] Division/Confirmation of Debts to Parties

[b] Creditor's Rights When Property Transmuted

§ 222.283 Postjudgment Debts Incurred Before Marital Status Terminated

[1] Characterization

[2] Division

§ 222.284 Debt Liability After Division of Community Estate

[1] Property Liable

[2] Property Not Liable

[3] Property Applied to Satisfaction of Judgment

§§ 222.285-222.299 [Reserved]

§ 222.300 Debt Reimbursement in General

[1] Applicable Law

[2] Debts Incurred Before or During Marriage--When Reimbursement Available

[a] Satisfaction of Debt Assigned to Spouse

[b] Satisfaction of Support Obligation

[c] Satisfaction of Debt for Necessaries

[3] Debts Incurred or Paid After Separation

[a] Debts Incurred After Separation

[b] Debts Paid After Separation

[i] Overview of Considerations

[ii] Statutory Authorization for Reimbursement

[iii] Epstein Reimbursment in General

[iv] Relationship to "Use" Charges

§ 222.301 Treatment of Educational Loans

§ 222.302 Separate Property Contributions to Acquisition of Community Property

[1] Statutory Reimbursement--General Rule and Applicable Proceedings

[2] Reimbursable Contributions

[a] In General

[b] Effect of Contributions by Both Spouses

[c] Waiver of Reimbursement Right

[d] Application to Postseparation Contributions

[e] Treatment of Home Subject to Deferred Sale Order

[3] Reimbursement Under Prior Law

[a] Presumption of Gift

[b] Effect of Statutory Reimbursement Provision

§ 222.303 Separate Property Contributions to Acquisition of Separate Property of Other Spouse

§ 222.304 Payment of Separate Debt With Community Property

§§ 222.305-222.319 [Reserved]

§ 222.320 Applicable Law

§ 222.321 Torts Committed During Marriage

[1] General Rule

[a] Personal Liability

[b] Corporate Liability

[2] Satisfaction of Liability

[a] In General

[b] Criminal Activity or Intentionally Tortious Conduct

[3] Community Torts

[4] Reimbursement of Community

[5] Retroactivity of Debt Provisions

[6] Interspousal Torts

§§ 222.322-222.339 [Reserved]

§ 222.340 California Family Law

§ 222.341 California Family Law Trial Guide

§ 222.342 Federal Statutes

§ 222.343 State Statutes

[1] General Provisions

[2] Characterization

[3] Rules for Division of Property

[4] Reimbursement

§ 222.344 Law Reviews

[1] Miscellaneous Subjects

[2] Character of Property

[3] Division of Property

§ 222.345 Text References

§§ 222.346-222.359 [Reserved]

§ 222.360 Order for Deferred Sale of Home [Fam. Code § 3800 et seq.]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] State Statutes

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART I. SCOPE

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.01

§ 222.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses the valuation and division of community assets and liabilities for the purpose of proceedings for marital dissolution or legal separation. Major topics include definitions of types of property [§ 222.10 et seq.], general aspects of dividing community property [§ 222.30 et seq.], dividing and valuing real property interests [§ 222.90 et seq.], and dividing and valuing specific personal property interests, including employment-related rights and benefits [§ 222.130 et seq.]. This chapter also discusses the characterization and division of liabilities, as well as rules for reimbursement [§ 222.260 et seq.].

This chapter also contains a form for use in connection with a court ordered deferred sale of a family home [see § 222.360].

For discussion of the procedural aspects of marital dissolution and legal separation proceedings and related forms, see Chapter 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure . For a general discussion of the tax effects of dissolution, see Chapter 227, Dissolution of Marriage: Tax Effects of Dissolution . For discussion of principles used in characterizing separate and community property and of management and control of community property and related forms, see Ch. 122, Community Property .

For discussion of related property matters and corresponding forms, see Ch. 25, Annulment (Nullity) of Marriage and Related Spousal Rights ; Ch. 258, Family Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies ; and Ch. 359, Marriage . For a discussion of the property rights of parties to a nonmarital relationship, see Ch. 387, Nonmarital Cohabitation .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportLegal Separation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART I. SCOPE

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.02

§ 222.02 Cross References

For discussion of management and control of community property, see Ch. 122, Community Property

For discussion of the property rights of parties to a nonmarital relationship, see Ch. 387, Nonmarital Cohabitation

For discussion of setting aside judgments having merged property division provisions, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure

For forms of complaint that may be adapted for use in enforcing property agreements that are not merged in a judgment, see Chs. 140, Contracts , 488, Reformation of Instruments , 490, Rescission and Restitution , and 561, Trusts: Constructive Trusts , and 562, Trusts: Resulting Trusts

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawTrustsConstructive TrustsEstate, Gift & Trust LawTrustsResulting TrustsFamily LawMarital Duties & RightsProperty RightsCharacterizationCommunity PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationCommunity Property

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART I. SCOPE

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 222.03-222.09

[Reserved]

§§ 222.03[Reserved]

5 of 162 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Generally

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.10

§ 222.10 Governing Law

Dissolution of marriage and legal separation are governed by Fam. Code § 2000 et seq. Property rights of the parties on dissolution are governed by Fam. Code § 2500 et seq. The means by which a marriage may be terminated are set forth in Fam. Code § 310 and the general jurisdiction of the superior court in Fam. Code §§ 200 and 2010.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceJurisdictionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Generally

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.11

§ 222.11 "Community Property" Defined

Community property is generally defined as "all property, real or personal, wherever situated, acquired by a married person during the marriage while domiciled in [California]," except as otherwise provided by statute [Fam. Code § 760; see Civ. Code § 687; Fam. Code § 65; see also Fam. Code § 761].

The concept of community property includes both assets and obligations [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.10(d); see also Fam. Code § 902]. This is of particular significance in characterizing debts incurred by the parties, both from the standpoint of third party creditors' rights, and from the standpoint of dividing debts on marital dissolution or legal separation, as discussed in § 222.260.

This general definition embraces not only the substance of the long-standing community presumption of former Civ. Code § 5110, which referred to community real property in terms of "all real property situated in this state," but also includes real property situated outside California [Fam. Code § 760].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawCommunity PropertyGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Duties & RightsProperty RightsCharacterizationCommunity Property

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Generally

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.12

§ 222.12 "Community Estate" Distinguished

The term "community estate" includes both community property and quasi-community property [Fam. Code § 63]. It is used primarily with reference to dividing property (assets and obligations) on dissolution of marriage or on legal separation, as discussed in § 222.30 et seq. [see Fam. Code §§ 2550, 2551; see also former Civ. Code § 4800(a)]. For discussion of quasi-community property, see § 222.13.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawCommunity PropertyGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Duties & RightsProperty RightsCharacterizationCommunity PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationCommunity Property

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Generally

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.13

§ 222.13 "Quasi-Community Property" Distinguished

For the purpose of family law proceedings, the term "quasi-community property" refers to all real or personal property, wherever situated, acquired before or after January 1, 1994, in the following ways [Fam. Code § 125]:

- By either spouse while domiciled elsewhere that would have beencommunity property if the spouse who acquired the property had been domiciled in California at the time of its acquisition; or

- In exchange for real or personal property, wherever situated, that would have been community property if the spouse who acquired the property so exhanged had been domiciled in California at the time of its acquisition.

The quasi-community property concept permits treatment of certain types of property as community property for purposes of its disposition on death [see Prob. Code § 66] and, as set forth in the foregoing definition, on marital dissolution or legal separation [see Fam. Code § 125].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Estate, Gift & Trust LawCommunity PropertyGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Duties & RightsProperty RightsCharacterizationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Duties & RightsProperty RightsCharacterizationCommunity PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationCommunity Property

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Generally

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.14

§ 222.14 "Quasi-Marital Property" Distinguished

"Quasi-marital property" is property acquired by parties to a void or voidable marriage that at least one of the parties entered into in the good faith belief that the marriage was valid [see Fam. Code § 2251(a); see also In re Marriage of Liu (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 143, 156-157, 242 Cal. Rptr. 649 ; Patillo v. Norris (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 209, 217 n.4, 135 Cal. Rptr. 210 ; Estate of Vargas (1975) 36 Cal. App. 3d 714, 717, 111 Cal. Rptr. 779] . Property acquired during such a union that would have been community or quasi-community property if the union had been a valid marriage is divided in the proceeding to terminate the marriage as if it were community property [see Fam. Code §§ 2251, 2550 et seq.]. The property so divided is liable for debts of the parties to the same extent as if the property had been community or quasi-community property [Fam. Code § 2252].

For discussion of property rights arising out of a putative marriage and related discussion of grounds for terminating void and voidable marriages through annulment proceedings, see Ch. 25, Annulment (Nullity) of Marriage and Related Spousal Rights . For coverage of property rights arising from nonmarital family relationships, see Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Chs. 1, 2 (Matthew Bender 2d ed.).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Duties & RightsProperty RightsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Duties & RightsProperty RightsCharacterizationCommunity PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationMarital PropertyFamily LawMarriageValidityVoid & Voidable MarriagesVoid MarriagesFamily LawMarriageValidityVoid & Voidable MarriagesVoidable Marriages

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Generally

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.15

§ 222.15 "Separate Property" Defined

In general, all property owned by a spouse that is not classifiable as community property is considered to be that spouse's separate property [see Siberell v. Siberell (1932) 214 Cal. 767, 770, 7 P.2d 1003] , except in the circumstances in which it is appropriate to classify particular property as "quasi-community property." More specifically, separate property of a married person includes the following [Fam. Code §§ 130, 770(a); Cal. Const., art. I, § 21]:

(1) All property owned by the person before marriage;

(2) All property acquired by the person after marriage by gift, bequest, devise, or descent; and

(3) The rents, issues, and profits of the foregoing property.

Other statutory provisions also classify particular property as separate property. For example, the earnings and accumulations of a spouse and the minor children living with, or in the custody of, the spouse, while living separate and apart from the other spouse, are the separate property of the spouse [Fam. Code § 771]. Similarly, after entry of a judgment of legal separation, the earnings and accumulations of each party are the separate property of the acquiring party [Fam. Code § 772]. A special statutory provision also sets forth the circumstances under which personal injury damages can be considered separate property, as discussed in § 222.74 [see Fam. Code § 781].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Duties & RightsProperty RightsCharacterizationSeparate PropertyReal Property LawEstatesPresent EstatesMarital EstatesSeparate Property

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Generally

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.16

§ 222.16 Transmutation

Statutes specify the manner by which interests in community property or one spouse's separate property can be changed, or "transmuted," into the separate property of the other spouse [see Fam. Code § 850 et seq.]. Transmutation is discussed in Ch. 122, Community Property .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Duties & RightsProperty RightsCharacterizationCommunity PropertyFamily LawMarital Duties & RightsProperty RightsCharacterizationSeparate PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationTransmutation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Generally

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.17

§ 222.17 Presumptions

In some cases, the form of title to property will give rise to a special presumption concerning the parties' interests in it [see, e.g., Fam. Code §§ 2580, 2581]. This often gives rise to complex issues in the characterization of property. For discussion of characterization, including the application presumptions, see Ch. 122, Community Property .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Duties & RightsProperty RightsCharacterizationCommunity PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationMarital PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationSeparate PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionPresumptionsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionPresumptionsCommunity Property

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Generally

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 222.18-222.29

[Reserved]

§§ 222.18[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
1. Summary Of Pretrial Procedures Affecting Property

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.30

§ 222.30 Injunctive Orders and Related Procedures

During a family law proceeding, various orders restraining the transfer, encumbrance, or other disposition of community, quasi-community, or separate property may be sought by the parties, either ex parte or after notice and a hearing [see Fam. Code §§ 2010(e), 2045, 2047, 6320 et seq., 6340 et seq.; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118; Glade v. Glade (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 1441, 1453, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 695 ; In re Marriage of Van Hook (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 970, 980, 195 Cal. Rptr. 541] . In addition, the family law summons contains "automatic" temporary restraining orders, a portion of which restrain the disposition of property without the written consent of the adversely affected party or a court order, "except in theusual course of business or for the necessities of life" [see Fam. Code §§ 233, 2040; see also In re Marriage of McTiernan & Dubrow (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 1090, 1102-1103, 35 Cal. Rptr. 3d 287 (court properly awarded wife share of profits lost by husband's sale of community property stocks to pay community expenses in violation of TRO contained in summons; award was not form of "punitive damages" and court need not find husband's violation was malicious before ordering restitution to wife)].

"Summons orders" become effective against a petitioner on the filing of the petition and issuance of the summons. They become effective against a respondent on personal service of the petition and summons, or on the respondent's waiver and acceptance of service. These orders remain in effect until the "final" judgment is entered, the petition is dismissed, or further order of the court [see Fam. Code §§ 231(a), 233(a), 2040(a)(2), (3); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.110; see also Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-100 (petition form, containing admonition about summons orders); Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-110 (summons form, containing temporary restraining orders)].

Besides injunctive orders, other pretrial procedures may result in a restriction of a party's control over property, or otherwise affect property. These include, for example, the following:

(1) The recording of a notice of pending litigation (lis pendens) in the county in which a husband or wife resides on real property that is the separate property of the other, which precludes the property's transfer, encumbrance, or other disposition for a period of three months without the joinder of both spouses or a court order [see Fam. Code § 754];

(2) Ordering the sale of one potential community asset to preserve another community asset [see Lee v. Superior Court (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 705, 711, 134 Cal. Rptr. 43 ; see also Fam. Code § 2108; for discussion, see § 222.34]; and

(3) An order, after determining that payment of a party's obligation would benefit either party or a child for whom support may be ordered, requiring one of the parties to pay the obligation, or any portion of it, directly to the creditor (who has no right to enforce the order, and whose rights are not affected by the determination) [Fam. Code § 2023, discussed in Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEnforcementGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEnforcementInjunctionsReal Property LawPriorities & RecordingLis Pendens

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
1. Summary Of Pretrial Procedures Affecting Property

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.31

§ 222.31 Joinder of Third Parties

A petitioner or respondent may apply to the court for an order joining as a party a person who has in his or her possession or control, or who claims to own, any property subject to the jurisdiction of the court in a family law proceeding. Likewise, a person who has been served with an order temporarily restraining the use of property in his or her possession or control, or property that he or she claims to own, may apply to the court for an order joining him or her as a party [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.154; see Fam. Code § 2021; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.150; Glade v. Glade (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 1441, 1451-1452, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 695] . The court may order such a third party joined if it finds that it would be appropriate to determine the particular issue in the proceeding and that the person to be joined as a party is either indispensable to a determination of that issue or necessary to the enforcement of any judgment rendered on that issue [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.158(b)].

If pension or retirement benefits are at issue in the proceeding, a specific procedure is provided for joinder of the retirement or pension plan as a party [see Fam. Code § 2021, 2060 et seq.; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.162; see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.156]. For a discussion of the advisability of joining such plans to the proceeding, see the discussion of pension and retirement benefits in § 222.130 et seq.

For discussion of joinder, as well as illustrative forms for joining individuals and pension plans, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProceduresPartiesJoinderGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
1. Summary Of Pretrial Procedures Affecting Property

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.32

§ 222.32 Bifurcation

"Bifurcation" is the term used to describe the procedure for severing issues for trial. A court may bifurcate one or more issues on the noticed motion of a party, the stipulation of the parties, or its own motion. The motion must be heard not later than the trial-setting conference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.175(a)]. A trial court has broad discretion to consider the manner in which issues should be tried, including the bifurcation and separate trial of pivotal issues [In re Marriage of Bergman (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 742, 756, 214 Cal. Rptr. 661 (decided before enactment of express statutory authority to bifurcate proceeding); see In re Marriage of Wolfe (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 889, 894, 219 Cal. Rptr. 337 ; In re Marriage of Van Sickle (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 728, 736, 137 Cal. Rptr. 568 ; In re Marriage of Fink (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 357, 364, 366, 126 Cal. Rptr. 626 ; see also In re Marriage of Lusk (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 228, 232-235, 150 Cal. Rptr. 63 (decision to bifurcate is in court's discretion)].

In marital dissolution proceedings, severance of the issue of the termination of the parties' marital status from other issues is often desired, particularly when it appears that the proceedings will be protracted and one of the parties desires to remarry [see Fam. Code § 2337; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.175; Gionis v. Superior Court (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 786, 788, 248 Cal. Rptr. 741 ; see also Pinson v. Cole (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 494, 496, 131 Cal. Rptr. 2d 113] . Thus, bifurcation for the purpose of obtaining an early dissolution of marital status frequently occurs. If a motion to bifurcate marital status is granted, the responding party may suffer losses related to the early termination of the marriage before other issues in the case are finally decided. Thus, the court may impose on a party any or all ofseveral statutory conditions in granting the motion, and may make these conditions binding on the party's estate if he or she should die [see Fam. Code § 2337(b)]. Moreover, a bifurcated judgment granting a dissolution of the status of marriage must expressly reserve the court's jurisdiction over all other pending issues for later determination [Fam. Code § 2337(c)].

In addition, bifurcation may be employed to simplify the determination of other issues, and for that purpose may apparently be used in legal separation and nullity proceedings, as well as in dissolution proceedings [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.175]. Accordingly, bifurcation may be used to help the parties resolve a pivotal or threshold issue that has to be tried, such as the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.175(c); see In re Marriage of Wolfe (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d

889, 894, 219 Cal. Rptr. 337] :

(1) The validity of a premarital or postmarital agreement;

(2) The date of the parties' separation;

(3) The date to use for valuation of assets;

(4) The character of property as separate or community;

(5) Apportionment of increases in the value of a business; or

(6) The existence or value of business or professional goodwill.

Therefore, bifurcation is encouraged if it appears that the resolution of a pivotal issue by a separate trial is likely to simplify other issues for determination [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.175(c)], or will otherwise enable the parties to settle all other issues [In re Marriage of Wolfe (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 889, 894, 219 Cal. Rptr. 337] .

For general discussion of bifurcation, including illustrated forms for use in moving for bifurcation, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure . For discussion of special considerations in bifurcating trial when retirement benefits are in issue, see § 222.181[5].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePretrial MattersSeparate TrialsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
1. Summary Of Pretrial Procedures Affecting Property

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.33

§ 222.33 Submission to Arbitration

In proceedings for marital dissolution or legal separation, the issues of the character, value, and division of the parties' community estate may be submitted by the court to arbitration pursuant to statute [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1141.10 et seq.], in any case in which the parties do not agree in writing to a voluntary division of the community estate. However, the total value of the community and quasi-community property in controversy, in the opinion of the court, must not exceed $50,000 for this provision to apply. The decision of the court regarding the value of the community and quasi-community property for this purpose is not appealable [Fam. Code § 2554(a); cf. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.870 et seq. (mediation rules regarding items in controversy up to $50,000)]. The court may submit the matter to arbitration at any time it believes the parties are unable to agree on a division of the property [Fam. Code § 2554(b)].

A court may also, in some circumstances, order the determination of a factual issue by a referee, as discussed in Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure, § 221.40 et seq. [see Code Civ. Proc. § 639; see, e.g., Fam. Code § 2032(d) (appointment of referee to oversee case management plan); but see In re Marriage of Olson (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1, 7-8, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 480 (discussing limitations on appointment and exercise of powers)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAlternative Dispute ResolutionArbitrationsGeneral OverviewFamily LawAlternative Dispute ResolutionArbitrationFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
1. Summary Of Pretrial Procedures Affecting Property

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.34

§ 222.34 Sale of One Community Asset to Preserve Another

[1] Circumstances Permitting Sale

A trial court may, with appropriate safeguards, require one potential community asset to be sold to save another such asset. To accomplish this sale, the trial court may conduct a partial trial limited to a determination of the community or separate character of the asset and the existence of other community assets sufficient to offset any loss the opposing spouse might incur because of the loss of proceeds from the asset to be sold. Alternatively, the trial court may order the sale of a claimed community asset, particularly when the opposing spouse has no objection to the sale, without making any factual determinations beyond the value of the asset to be sold, provided the court requires security sufficient to protect the opposing spouse [Lee v. Superior Court (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 705, 711, 134 Cal. Rptr. 43 ; see Fam. Code §§ 2010(e), 2553, 2601].

In addition, in proceedings commenced on or after January 1, 1993 [see Fam. Code § 2113], a court has authority, at any time during the proceedings, on application of a party and for good cause, to order the liquidation of community or quasi-community assets to avoid unreasonable market or investment risks, given the relative nature, scope, and extent of the community estate. However, the court may in no event grant the application to liquidate these assets unless the moving party has served the appropriate property disclosure declaration required by statute [Fam. Code § 2108]. For further discussion of the court's subject matter jurisdiction to divide property, see § 222.53.

[2] Limitations on Court's Authority

Except for a court's authority at any time during the proceedings to order the liquidation of community or quasi-community assets to avoid unreasonable market or investment risks [Fam. Code § 2108], the court does not have general authority to issue a preliminary injunction ordering that a disputed asset be sold and the proceeds distributed to one spouse over the other's objections [see Lee v. Superior Court (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 705, 709-710, 134 Cal. Rptr. 43 (construing former law)].

The statutory language authorizing orders restraining the transfer or other disposition of property, in Fam. Code § 2045 (former Civ. Code § 4359(a)), makes clear that this section is intended to maintain the status quo by preventing a transfer. It does not authorize a trial court, ex parte or otherwise, to change the status quo by authorizing the sale of property involved in a dissolution proceeding and the transfer of the proceeds to one of the parties without adequate safeguards for the other. Furthermore, Code Civ. Proc. §§ 128 and 187, which confer general powers on trial courts, do not give a trial court authority to order pendente lite the sale of an asset [Lee v. Superior Court (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 705, 709-710, 134 Cal. Rptr. 43 (construing former law)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationCommunity Property

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
1. Summary Of Pretrial Procedures Affecting Property

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.35

§ 222.35 Determining Family Law Attorney's Real Property Lien and Need for Case Management Plan

[1] Effect of Lien on Equal Division

A spouse may unilaterally encumber his or her community interest in real property to pay reasonable attorney's fees in order to retain or maintain counsel in a proceeding for marital dissolution, legal separation, or nullity of marriage. This encumbrance is known as a "family law attorney's real property lien." It attaches only to the encumbering party's interest in the real property [Fam. Code §§ 1102(e), 2033(a)].

However, on either party's application, the court may deny the family law attorney's real property lien, based on a finding that the encumbrance would likely result in an unequal division of property because it would impair the encumbering party's ability to meet his or her fair share of the community obligations, or would otherwise be unjust under the circumstances. The court for good cause may also limit the amount of the lien, but this limitation is not to be construed as a determination of reasonable attorney's fees [Fam. Code § 2034(a); see Fam. Code § 2033(c) (objection to lien)]. The court has jurisdiction to resolve any dispute arising from the existence of a family law attorney's real property lien [Fam. Code § 2034(c)]. For further discussion of this lien, which ordinarily would be sought before trial, see Ch. 226, Dissolution of Marriage: Attorney's Fees .

[2] Need for Case Management Plan

If a court receives an objection to the establishment of a family law attorney's real property lien, the court may on its own motion determine whether the case involves complex or substantial issues of fact or law related to property rights, visitation, custody, or support. If the court finds that the case involves one or more of these complex or substantial issues, it may direct implementation of a case management plan as provided by statute [Fam. Code § 2034(b)].

If implemented, a "case management plan" may allocate attorney's fees, court costs, expert fees, and consultant fees equitably between the parties, and must focus on specific, designated issues. The plan may provide for the allocation of separate or community assets, security against these assets, and for payments from income or anticipated income of either party for the foregoing fee and cost allocation and for the benefit of one or both parties. Payments are authorized only on agreement of the parties, or, absent agreement, by court order. Also, a court may order that a referee be appointed pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 639 to oversee the case management plan [see Fam. Code § 2032(d)]. For further discussion of the relationship of case management plans to awards of attorney's fees and costs, see Ch. 226, Dissolution of Marriage: Attorney's Fees .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePretrial MattersConferencesCase ManagementFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationCommunity PropertyLegal EthicsClient RelationsBilling & Collection

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
1. Summary Of Pretrial Procedures Affecting Property

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.36

§ 222.36 Property Disclosure Requirements During Proceeding

Beginning January 1, 1993 [Fam. Code § 2113], spouses are subject to specific duties of disclosure with respect to community property from the date of separation to the date of distribution of community assets and liabilities [see Fam. Code §§ 2102-2106], in addition to those previously required [see Fam. Code §§ 721, 1100]. Pursuant to statute, in proceedings commenced on or after January 1, 1993, spouses are required to serve on one another preliminary and final declarations of disclosure regarding assets and liabilities [see Fam. Code §§ 2103-2105].

Unless the parties stipulate to waive the requirements for the final declaration or there is a showing of good cause, no judgment will be entered with respect to the parties' property rights unless each party has executed and served a copy of the final declaration of disclosure and current income and expense declaration [Fam. Code § 2106]. Service must take place before or at the time the parties enter into a property or support agreement or if the case goes to trial, at least 45 days before the first assigned trial date [see Fam. Code § 2105(a)]. Each pary must execute and file with the court a declaration under penalty of perjury that the final disclosure and income and expense declaration was served on the other party or that service of the final declaration has been waived pursuant to the parties' stipulation [Fam. Code § 2106]. For further discussion of these requirements, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Duties & RightsProperty RightsCharacterizationCommunity PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProcedures

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
1. Summary Of Pretrial Procedures Affecting Property

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.37

§ 222.37 Motion for Alternate Valuation Date

Valuation of the assets and liabilities of the community estate generally must be made as near as practicable to the time of trial for the purpose of dividing the community estate on marital dissolution or legal separation [Fam. Code § 2552(a)]. However, on 30 days' notice by the moving party to the other party, the court for good cause shown may value all or any portion of the assets and liabilities at a date after separation and before trial to accomplish an equal division of the community estate in an equitable manner [Fam. Code § 2552(b); see In re Marriage of Hargrave (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 346, 355, 209 Cal. Rptr. 764 ; seealso In re Marriage of Reuling (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 1428, 1435, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 726 (absent written agreement, oral stipulation, or motion for alternative valuation date, stock was properly valued at time of trial)]. For discussion of good cause, see § 222.52[2][b][i].

A party who desires to have property valued as of a date other than "as near as practicable to the time of trial" is required to request an alternate valuation date by means of a noticed motion. Fam. Code § 2552 requires 30 days' notice by the moving party to the other party to move for a date of valuation that is after separation and before trial, but does not specify the form of notice required [see Fam. Code § 2552(b)]. However, under the rules of court, a noticed motion for an alternate valuation date must be made using the Judicial Council form of Application for Separate Trial, and must contain the following additional information [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.126; see Cal. Judicial Council Form 315 (reference in rule, as issued in 2003, to "form FL-325" was possible typographical error)]:

1. The proposed alternate valuation date;

2. Whether the proposed alternate valuation date will apply to all, or only a portion, of the assets; and, if the motion is directed to only a portion of the assets, the declaration must separately identify each such asset; and

3. The reasons supporting the alternate valuation date.

The requirement of the Family Law Rules of using a written, noticed motion appears to codify a long-standing practice among family law practitioners [see In re Marriage of Bergman (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 742, 760 n.15, 214 Cal. Rptr. 661 (noting that an early determination reduces unnecessary discovery, minimizes experts' fees, and may assist in reaching settlement); see also 1995 Cal. Fam. Law Monthly 87 (April 1995; Matthew Bender)]. Counsel must, however, use the special form noted above [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-315], instead of a general notice of motion form.

For a sample filled-in form that may be adapted for use to request an alternate valuation date, as well as a general discussion of bringing orders to show cause and noticed motions in family law proceedings, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure . This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge. For a factual declaration that may be adapted for use in support of the motion, see Denner, Rothschild & Johnson, California Family Law Trial Guide, § 4.52[1][c] (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationValuation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
1. Summary Of Pretrial Procedures Affecting Property

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 222.38-222.49

[Reserved]

§§ 222.38[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
2. Court's Equal Division and Parties' Agreements

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.50

§ 222.50 Equal Division Requirement

In a proceeding for marital dissolution or legal separation, the court generally is required to equally divide the parties' community and quasi-community assets and liabilities, that is, their "community estate" [see Fam. Code §§ 63, 2551, 2552], unless the parties dispose of their property by written agreement or by oral stipulation in open court [Fam. Code § 2550]. However, a number of exceptions to this "equal division requirement" are provided by statute, as discussed in § 222.70 [see Fam. Code § 2600 et seq.]. The property division concepts applicable in dissolution and legal separation proceedings will also generally apply in nullity proceedings when "quasi-marital" property is to be divided [see Fam. Code §§ 2251(a)(2), 2252].

Although an ideal property disposition by a court would be a mathematically equal division [In re Marriage of Tammen (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 927, 930, 134 Cal. Rptr. 161 ; In re Marriage of Warren (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 777, 783, 104 Cal. Rptr. 860] , it is not necessary that each community estate asset be precisely divided [Bensing v. Bensing (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 889, 894, 102 Cal. Rptr. 255 (disapproved on another point in In re Marriage of Brown (1976) 15 Cal. 3d 838, 851 n.14, 126 Cal. Rptr. 633, 544 P.2d 561)]. Instead, a court must distribute both the community estate assets and liabilities so that the residual assets awarded to each party after the deduction of liabilities are equal [In re Marriage of Olson (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 414, 421, 165 Cal. Rptr. 820, 612 P.2d 910] . For discussion of the methods by which a court may equally divide the community estate, such as by a division in kind, see § 222.53[5].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportAnnulmentEffectsProperty DivisionFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
2. Court's Equal Division and Parties' Agreements

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.51

§ 222.51 Timing of Court's Division

If a court divides the community estate, it must make its division either as part of its judgment of marital dissolution or legal separation, or make its division at a later time if it expressly reserves jurisdiction to do so [Fam. Code § 2550; but see In re Marriage of Bergman (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 742, 756, 214 Cal. Rptr. 661 (positing that court may not indefinitely retain open-ended jurisdiction to divide community assets, such as retirement benefits, in the future; but may make a present division and reserve jurisdiction to supervise distribution of the asset); see also Fam. Code § 2337 (bifurcation); for further discussion, see § 222.32].

Moreover, when community estate assets or liabilities have not previously been adjudicated in a family law proceeding, the court has continuing jurisdiction to divide them, pursuant to a postjudgment motion or order to show cause [Fam. Code § 2556], or in an independent action, as discussed in § 222.53[5][e] [see Henn v. Henn (1980) 26 Cal. 3d 323, 330, 161 Cal. Rptr. 502, 605 P.2d 10] . For further discussion of a court's methods of dividing property, see § 222.53[5].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportAnnulmentEffectsProperty DivisionFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
2. Court's Equal Division and Parties' Agreements

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.52

§ 222.52 Court's Duty to Characterize and Value Property

[1] Characterization

For a court to assure an equal division of the community estate, it must determine the nature and value of the specific items of the parties' community property [In re Marriage of Tammen (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 927, 930, 134 Cal. Rptr. 161] . The court must characterize the disputed assets and liabilities as separate or community [see Fam. Code §§ 2551, 2552] and, in the case of liabilities, must confirm or assign them to the parties as provided by statute [see Fam. Code §§ 2551, 2620 et seq., discussed in § 222.260]. For discussion of characterization of property, see Ch. 122, Community Property .

[2] Valuation

[a] As of Time of Trial

In dividing the community estate, the court must value the assets and liabilities at issue as near as practicable to the time of trial. However, on 30 days' notice by the moving party to the other party, the court for good cause shown may value all or any portion of the assets and liabilities at a date after separation and prior to trial to accomplish an equal division of the parties' community estate in an equitable manner [Fam. Code § 2552]. For discussion of moving for an alternate valuation date, see § 222.37.

[b] Valuation at Different Time

[i] Factors Showing Good Cause

"Good cause" for valuing property to be divided after separation and before trial is not defined by statute [see Fam. Code § 2552(b); see § 222.37 for procedure to give 30 days' notice], but has been considered in several cases. For example, courts have found good cause for an alternate valuation date when the nature and value of the community assets could not be determined as of the date of trial. Trial courts are permitted reasonable flexibility in ascertaining whether good cause exists to accomplish substantial justice. The court's valuation must be supported by substantial evidence, however, to withstand appellate review [In re Marriage of Stephenson (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 1057, 1087-1088, 209 Cal. Rptr. 383 ; see In re Marriage of Olson (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 414, 422, 165 Cal. Rptr. 820, 612 P.2d 910] .

Relevant factors that may be cited in support of a finding of good cause for valuation after separation and before trial include the following:

(1) Obstructive conduct, such as a party's willful refusal to deliver the necessary records for valuation of the marital estate at the time of trial [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Nelson (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 1546, 1550-1552, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 52 (when party precludes expert from valuing property as of date of trial by failing to provide needed information, e.g., due to poor record-keeping, court may value property as of alternate date, such as date of separation); In re Marriage of Stallcup (1979) 97 Cal. App. 3d 294, 301, 158 Cal. Rptr. 679 (refusal to deliver records of claimed post-separation business reverses)];

(2) A party's dissipation of community assets after separation [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Barnert (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 413, 423-424, 149 Cal. Rptr. 616 (husband attempted to show reduced income from medical practice in period immediately preceding trial)];

(3) A party's lone, postseparation action that greatly increases the value of the community estate [see In re Marriage of Barnert (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 413, 423, 149 Cal. Rptr. 616] ;

(4) A party's waste or mismanagement of community assets, or other breach of his or her fiduciary duty (to the extent that such a duty exists) to the community [see In re Marriage of Koppelman (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 627, 635, 205 Cal. Rptr. 629 , disapproved on other grounds, In re Marriage of Fabian (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 440, 451 n.13, 224 Cal. Rptr. 333, 715 P.2d 253] ;

(5) A party's commingling of community and separate funds after separation that makes it impossible to value an asset at the time of trial [see In re Marriage of Koppelman (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 627, 634-635, 205 Cal. Rptr. 629 , disapproved on other grounds, In re Marriage of Fabian (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 440, 451 n.13, 224 Cal. Rptr. 333, 715 P.2d 253 ; but see In re Marriage of Fink (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 877, 888, 160 Cal. Rptr. 516, 603 P.2d 881 (valuation of husband's law practice made as of date of trial and not date of separation when, after separation, husband so commingled preseparation and postseparation accounts that it was impossible to value practice at separation)]; or

(6) When valuation after separation and before trial is proven to be the only way to accomplish an equal division of the community estate in an equitable manner [see In re Marriage of Koppelman (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 627, 635, 205 Cal. Rptr. 629 , disapproved on other grounds, In re Marriage of Fabian (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 440, 451 n.13, 224 Cal. Rptr. 333, 715 P.2d 253] .

Apart from these factors note that, with regard to pension and retirement benefits, although a date-of-trial valuation is generally preferred--particularly if the benefit involved can be characterized as an an "indivisible appreciating asset"--courts have taken into account the unique circumstances of the parties, including the nature of the particular pension or benefit involved, in evaluating whether an alternate date, such as the date of separation, is appropriate [see, e.g., Bowman v. Bowman (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 148, 158, 217 Cal. Rptr. 174 ; see generally In re Marriage of Crook (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1606, 1612, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 905 (appropriate valuation date is date of trial or date of payment of benefits);see also In re Marriage of Jacobson (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 465, 474-475, 207 Cal. Rptr. 512 (wife's interest in military retirement benefits was properly calculated as though husband retired at date of trial rather than at date of separation when he worked after separation and increased benefits were affectedby community contributions accrued before separation); In re Marriage of Behrens (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 562, 577, 187 Cal. Rptr.

200] . Specialized principles applicable to the time of valuation of pension and retirement benefits that take into account the type of pension involved, are discussed in § 222.180 et seq.

By contrast, courts have held that valuation of a law practice normally should be effected as of the date of separation, subject to limited exceptions [In re Marriage of Green (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 14, 20-21, 261 Cal. Rptr. 294 ; see In re Marriage of Kilbourne (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1518, 1524, 284 Cal. Rptr. 201 ; see also In re Marriage of Stevenson (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 250, 253-254, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 411 (small contracting business); but see In re Marriage of Fink (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 877, 888, 160 Cal. Rptr. 516, 603 P.2d 881 (valuation of law practice made as of date of trial when, after separation, husband so commingled preseparation and postseparation accounts that it was impossible to value practice at separation)]. Other small businesses that rely primarily on the skill, industry, and reputation of the operating spouse for their value, rather than on their capital assets, also may be valued as of the date of separation [In re Marriage of Stevenson (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 250, 253-254, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 411 (small contracting business); see In re Marriage of Duncan (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 617, 627, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 833 (investment advisory company)]. For discussion of valuing business and professional practices, see § 222.131.

[ii] Factors Insufficient to Show Good Cause

Many reported cases have involved fact situations in which the trial court held the movant's claimed reasons for valuation after separation and before trial insufficient to constitute the requisite good cause. For example, a lengthy period between the parties' separation and the date of trial was found insufficient to constitute good cause for valuation at separation. In that case, the appellate court reasoned that the long separation period warranted valuation at the date of trial, thus giving the parties equal shares in the change in value of the assets during this period. In addition, because the moving party (wife) failed to show that the decrease in value was due to her husband's mismanagement, the court found that she had failed to show good cause for valuation of community stock after separation when the stock had declined in value since separation [In re Marriage of Priddis (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 349, 357-358, 183 Cal. Rptr. 37] .

Courts have cited other factors in finding a lack of good cause for alternate valuation. For example, a court determined that no showing of good cause was made for valuation at the time of separation rather than at the time of trial under circumstances in which a family residence increased in value after separation simply because of inflation, rather than as a result of the efforts of one spouse [In re Marriage of McNeill (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 548, 565, 206 Cal. Rptr. 641 , disapproved on other grounds, In re Marriage of Fabian (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 440, 451 n.13, 224 Cal. Rptr. 333, 715 P.2d 253); see In re Marriage of Priddis (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 349, 356, 183 Cal. Rptr. 37 ; see also In re Marriage of Sherman (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 795, 800-802, 35 Cal. Rptr. 3d 137 (rejecting husband's contention that date of separation should have been used as valuation date for marital residence, when increase in value of residence between date of separation and trial had nothing to do with husband's efforts; fact that husband made all mortgage payments after separation does not change this analysis because he also received exclusive benefit of continuing to live in residence)].

In addition, a court may not use a valuation date before trial for an appreciating asset in an attempt to compensate one of the spouses for support in any case in which no support order or agreement for support is in effect between separation and the date of trial [see In re Marriage of Koppelman (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 627, 633, 635, 205 Cal. Rptr. 629 , disapproved on other grounds, In re Marriage of Fabian (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 440, 451 n.13, 224 Cal. Rptr. 333, 715 P.2d 253] .

[c] Time of Trial Defined

[i] In Bifurcated Proceeding

The statutory requirement that the valuation be made "as near as practicable to the time of trial" [see Fam. Code § 2552(a)] has led to questions about whether this means the date of the dissolution hearing or the date of the trial dividing the property in bifurcated proceedings. A related aspect of this issue is California's "divisible divorce" concept, in which property not divided by the judgment remains unadjudicated and may be determined in a later action [see Fam. Code § 2556; Irwin v. Irwin (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 317, 320-321, 138 Cal. Rptr. 9] .

In general, courts appear to have favored the interpretation that a valuation should be made as of the time of the proceeding in which the property is divided [In re Marriage of Walters (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 535, 538-539, 154 Cal. Rptr. 180 ; see In re Marriage of Fischer (1976) 78 Cal. App. 3d 556, 562-563, 146 Cal. Rptr. 384 , disapproved on other grounds, In re Marriage of Epstein (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 76, 85 n.2, 154 Cal. Rptr. 413, 592 P.2d 1165] . One court has noted that division and valuation go "hand in hand" because a court's property division usually depends on the value of the marital estate. Unless compelling reasons exist for valuation on an alternate date, the court reasoned, based on equitable considerations, the property should be valued on the date it is divided [In re Marriage of Walters (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 535, 539, 154 Cal. Rptr. 180] . Similarly, other courts have held that the community estate should be valued as near to the property division trial as possible, unless good cause is shown for an alternate date of valuation [see In re Marriage of Priddis (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 349, 355-358, 183 Cal. Rptr. 37 ; see also In re Marriage of Stallcup (1979) 97 Cal. App. 3d 294, 301, 158 Cal. Rptr. 679 (discussing date near separation versus date near trial)].

[ii] On Remand After Appeal

A related issue is whether the time of trial for valuation purposes is the date of the original trial or the date of a trial on remand from an appellate court. In considering a situation in which either valuation date was possible, one court held that equity required former Civ. Code § 4800 (now Fam. Code § 2552) to be interpreted to require the community estate to be divided as near as possible to the court proceeding in which a "proper" division is carried out; that is,, either at trial or on remand after appeal [In re Marriage of Hayden (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 72, 79, 177 Cal. Rptr. 183 ; cf. In re Marriage of Johnson (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 57, 61, 191 Cal. Rptr. 545 (revaluation proper on motion for reconsideration filed after court's memorandum of intended decision but before judgment when one party sold property before judgment for far more than value assigned by court)]. For discussion of revision of property values on appeal, see § 222.53[d].

[3] Consideration of Tax Effects

In general, interspousal transfers of property incident to dissolution now are less prone to income taxation than they were in previous years. Nevertheless, important tax consequences may result on, for example, a transfer of property to a third party or from a delay in the division of an asset [see I.R.C. § 1041; Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17024.5, 18031].

For purposes of valuing property subject to division, the court normally must consider only the "immediate and specific tax effects," if any, of a proposed division, as opposed to those effects that are deemed remote and speculative. "Immediate" refers to the time of any taxable event that is triggered by the division ordered. "Specific" refers to the monetary amount involved [In re Marriage of Fonstein (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 738, 747-751, 131 Cal. Rptr. 873, 552 P.2d 1169 ; In re Marriage of Nelson (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 150, 156, 222 Cal. Rptr. 790] . For a general discussion of the tax effects of property transfers at dissolution, see Ch. 227, Dissolution of Marriage: Tax Effects of Dissolution . For discussion of tax effects in connection with division of a family home and the division of stock, see §§ 222.90 et seq. and 222.130 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationCommunity PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationMarital PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
2. Court's Equal Division and Parties' Agreements

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.53

§ 222.53 Property Division by Court

[1] Subject Matter Jurisdiction--Scope of Jurisdiction in General

In family law proceedings, the superior court has jurisdiction generally to inquire into and render any judgment and make appropriate orders concerning, among other things, the status of the marriage and the settlement of the parties' property rights [Fam. Code §§ 200, 2010(a), (e)]. Fam. Code § 2550 et seq. and related provisions define the court's power to divide the community estate by mandating equal division when the parties have not agreed to divide their community estate or when certain other exceptions to equal division do not apply [Fam. Code § 2550].

In general, once a family law court acquires jurisdiction to divide the community estate in a marital dissolution proceeding, no other department of a superior court may make an order adversely affecting that division. This principle may be of particular importance if, for example, a spouse has commenced both a proceeding for marital dissolution or legal separation, as well as a general civil action against his or her spouse pertaining to the same property [see Askew v. Askew (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 942, 961-962, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 284 ; In re Marriage of Schenck (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1474, 1483-1484, 279 Cal. Rptr. 651 ; see also Glade v. Glade (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 1441, 1455, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 695 (dissolution court's jurisdiction prevailed over that of other division of same court that was hearing related foreclosure action); but cf. In re Marriage of Hilke (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 215, 220, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 371, 841 P.2d 891 (discussing abatement of dissolution action under certain circumstances)].

In one case, the court warned that civil actions that are "reruns of a family law case" are generally disfavored. Because almost all events in family law litigation can be reframed as civil actions "if a litigant wants to be creative with various causes of action," courts should examine the substance of claims, and not just their nominal headings. In that case, the wife succeeded in her demurrer to the civil complaint because of the "inextricable connection" between the purported civil claims and the family law case [Neal v. Superior Court (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 22, 26-27, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 262] .

In addition, if a California court has jurisdiction over particular community property, a party to a dissolution proceeding cannot divest the court of jurisdiction to divide that property by self-dealing, or other unilateral, action that operates to the detriment of the other party's interest in the property [see In re Marriage of Seligman (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 300, 308, 310, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 209 (wife's scheduling of community personalty as "exempt property" on bankruptcy petition filed during dissolution did not transmute it to her separate property, nor was California court divested of jurisdiction to divide community interests in it after wife's bankruptcy discharge)].

[2] Quasi In Rem Jurisdiction

If service of process is made by publication on a spouse who cannot otherwise be served in a family law proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. § 415.50; see also Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure, § 221.10 et seq.], the court, without the aid of attachment or the appointment of a receiver, has and may exercise the same jurisdiction over the community or quasi-community real property of that spouse situated in California as the court has or may exercise over the community or quasi-community real property of a spouse who is personally served with processin California [see Fam. Code § 2011]. This provision establishes "quasi in rem" jurisdiction over such property in California. A judgment quasi in rem affects the interests of particular persons in designated property [see Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 199, 199 n.17, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683] .

Quasi in rem jurisdiction over community and quasi-community property is, however, limited by constitutional considerations. Generally, unless a spouse has been served while physically present within California [see Burnham v. Superior Court of Cal. (1990) 495 U.S. 604, 110 S. Ct. 2105, 109 L. Ed. 2d 631, 645] , an absent spouse must, under the standards articulated by the United States Supreme Court in Shaffer v. Heitner [Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683] and International Shoe Co. v. Washington [International Shoe Co. v. Washington (1945) 326 U.S. 310, 66 S. Ct. 154, 90 L. Ed. 95] , have "minimum contacts" with California so that the exercise of personal jurisdiction over that spouse does not offend "traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice" [see Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 203, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683 ; International Shoe Co. v. Washington (1945) 326 U.S. 310, 316, 66 S. Ct. 154, 90 L. Ed. 95 ; but see Burnham v. Superior Court of Cal. (1990) 495 U.S. 604, 110 S. Ct. 2105, 109 L. Ed. 2d 631, 637-638, 645-646 (International Shoe confined "minimum contacts" requirements to situations in which defendant was not present in forum state, and nothing in Shaffer expands the requirement beyond that; thus, jurisdiction was proper over nonresident father personally served while physically present in California); see also Muckle v. Superior Court (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 218, 227, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 303 (court looks at "minimum contacts" at time of proceeding, not past contacts)].

The presence of property in a state, however, bears on the determination of jurisdiction because it provides contacts among the forum state, the defendant, and the litigation. According to the Court, when claims to the property itself are the source of the underlying controversy, it would be unusual for the state where the property is located not to have jurisdiction [Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 204, 212, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683] .

Shaffer expressly leaves open the question of whether the mere presence of the defendant's property in the state is a sufficient basis for jurisdiction when no other forum is available to the plaintiff [Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 211 n.37, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683] . This situation might arise in a dissolution proceeding when a respondent, who has no contacts with California, has entirely disappeared and the petitioner is in California with personal property. Because the respondent cannot be found, no other forum is available, and jurisdiction may be proper in California. Before Shaffer, the issue of the situs of personal property was significant because a state could not exercise quasi in rem jurisdiction over personal property unless its situs was in the state [see Waite v. Waite (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 461, 467-468, 99 Cal. Rptr. 325, 492 P.2d 13 (disapproved on another point in In re Marriage of Brown (1976) 15 Cal. 3d 838, 851 n.14, 126 Cal. Rptr. 633, 544 P.2d 561)].

[a] Jurisdiction to Divide Separate Property

Courts have jurisdiction, at a party's request, to divide the parties' separate property interests in real and personal property held by the parties as joint tenants or tenants in common, regardless of where the property is situated or when it was acquired, in a proceeding to divide the community estate. The property must be divided together with, and in accordance with the same procedure for and limitations on, division of the community estate [Fam. Code § 2650; Askew v. Askew (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 942, 962, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 284 ; see In re Marriage of Gagne (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 277, 282-284, 274 Cal. Rptr. 750] . When the statutory predecessor to this provision was first enacted, it was limited in its application to "proceedings commenced on or after January 1, 1986, regardless of whether the property was acquired before, on, or after January 1, 1986 [former Civ. Code § 4800.4(b)]. This limiting language was deleted when the Family Code was enacted. The Law Revision Commission comments indicate that continuation of this language was "unnecessary in view of [Fam. Code] § 4(c)" [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Fam. Code § 2650; see also Fam. Code § 4(c) ("[s]ubject to the limitations provided in this section, the new law applies on the operative date to all matters governed by the new law, regardless of whether an event occurred or circumstances existed before, on, or after the operative date, including, but not limited to, commencement of a proceeding, making of an order, or taking of an action")].

Several points should be kept in mind in applying the foregoing provisions. First, if the property at issue was acquired during marriage in joint tenancy or tenancy in common, it ordinarily will be subject to the "joint form-community property" presumption [Fam. Code §§ 2580, 2581]. It follows then, that only if such property is found to be true joint tenancy or tenancy in common property, on rebutting the "joint form-community property presumption," that it will be subject to division under Fam. Code § 2650, at a party's request.

However, if the property had been purchased in joint tenancy or tenancy in common before marriage, the "joint form-community property" presumption does not apply [see Fam. Code §§ 2580, 2581], and, as a practical result, it often will be easier to establish that the property is true joint tenancy or tenancy in common property. However, even if the property had been acquired before marriage, there may be some type of community apportionment necessary if community funds were used, for example, to help pay the purchase price (see related discussion in § 222.130 et seq.).

Before January 1, 1986, the original operative date of the predecessor [see former Civ. Code § 4800.4] to Fam. Code § 2650, joint tenancy property thatwas acquired by the spouses before marriage could only be divided in a partition action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 872.010 et seq.], which, in turn, could often be consolidated with a proceeding for marital dissolution or legal separation [see In re Marriage of Leversee (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 891, 897, 203 Cal. Rptr. 481] . Appellate courts had held that, although a trial court has jurisdiction to determine whether a particular asset was community or separate property, it had no jurisdiction in a dissolution proceeding to dispose of either party's separate property [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Dorris (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 1208, 1215, 207 Cal. Rptr. 160 . The enactment of former Civ. Code § 4800.4 reversed that rule. Courts found that this section is consistent with the general rule that a court has jurisdiction to settle the parties' property rights, and with the principle that a court has jurisdiction to settle matters submitted to it by the parties [In re Marriage of Graves (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1047, 1051-1052, 244 Cal. Rptr. 110 (quoting Legislative Committee Comment--Senate, 1985, and reading former Civ. Code § 4800.4 in light of the comments); see Fam. Code § 2010 (jurisdiction)].

By contrast, Fam. Code § 2650 is not a grant of jurisdiction to divide community property. The statute simply confers jurisdiction on the court to divide separate property of the parties when the community estate is divided [In re Marriage of Graves (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1047, 1051, 244 Cal. Rptr. 110] . Thus, it does not change the rule that property not mentioned in the pleadings or in any of the decrees adjudicating and dividing the parties' community property is held by the parties as tenants in common after the dissolution. Such property, prior to January 1, 1990, had to be adjudicated in a subsequent action for partition of the missed community asset and not in a show cause hearing for division of an omitted community asset [In re Marriage of Graves (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1047, 1051-1052, 244 Cal. Rptr. 110] . However, on and after January 1, 1990, a court has continuing jurisdiction to divide unadjudicated community property, by use of a postjudgment motion or order to show cause, as discussed in § 222.53[5][e] [see Fam. Code § 2556].

[b] Treatment of Out-of-State Real Property

A California court lacks jurisdiction to enter a judgment that directly affects a title or interest in real property in another state, even if the court has personal jurisdiction over both spouses in a family law proceeding [Rozan v. Rozan (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 322, 330, 317 P.2d 11 ; In re Marriage of Economou (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1466, 1479-1482, 274 Cal. Rptr. 473 ; In re Marriage of Ben-Yehoshua (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 259, 269, 154 Cal. Rptr. 80 ; see In re Marriage of Fink (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 877, 884, 884 n.5, 160 Cal. Rptr. 516, 603 P.2d 881 ; see also Fall v. Eastin (1909) 215 U.S. 1, 11, 30 S. Ct. 3, 54 L. Ed. 65 ; In re Marriage of Leff (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 630, 645, 102 Cal. Rptr. 195] . However, if the court has both parties before it, the court may establish and declare the parties' interests in out-of-state property and enter orders requiring the parties to execute conveyances in compliance with the court's determination [see Fam. Code § 2660; Rozan v. Rozan (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 322, 330, 317 P.2d 11 ; In re Marriage of Economou (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1466, 1479-1482, 274 Cal. Rptr. 473 ; In re Marriage of Ben-Yehoshua (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 259, 269, 154 Cal. Rptr. 80] . For discussion of statutory provisions governing the disposition of such property [see Fam. Code § 2660], see the discussion in § 222.90 et seq.

[3] Personal Jurisdiction

Personal jurisdiction is required over a respondent in order to adjudicate his or her marital property rights in a family law proceeding. Thus, when a court lacks personal jurisdiction over one spouse, the court may not litigate the personal rights of the spouses in property that is not within the court's jurisdiction. Furthermore, a judgment affecting property rights made without personal jurisdiction is not entitled to full faith and credit [Estin v. Estin (1948) 334 U.S. 541, 548-549, 68 S. Ct. 1213, 92 L. Ed. 1561 ; Worthley v. Worthley (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 465, 468, 283 P.2d 19 ; In re Marriage of Leff (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 630, 643, 644, 102 Cal. Rptr. 195 ; see Muckle v. Superior Court (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 218, 225-227, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 303 (absent personal jurisdiction over nonresident husband, court lacked jurisdiction to divide Georgia home purchased during husband's California residency)].

Special jurisdictional requirements of the Federal Uniformed Services Former Spouses' Protection Act (FUSFSPA) must be satisfied for a trial court to divide the community interest in a military pension [see 10 U.S.C. § 1408(c)(4)] (see discussion in § 222.130 et seq.)]. Other jurisdictional considerations may apply when at least one of the spouses is a member of an American Indian tribe and the spouses resided on an Indian reservation during marriage [see Sanders v. Robinson (9th Cir. 1988) 864 F.2d 630, 632, 634 n.4]. For a general discussion of the bases for personal jurisdiction in a family law context, as well as discussion of state and county residency requirements of a party that must be met in adjudicating a marital dissolution [see Fam. Code § 2320; see also Fam. Code § 2322], see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure, § 221.10 et seq.

[4] Termination of Jurisdiction

After a final judgment is rendered, a court's jurisdiction over the parties or cause of action ordinarily terminates, unless jurisdiction is reserved or a statute [see, e.g., Fam. Code § 2556 (division of omitted assets or liabilities)] confers continuing jurisdiction. Until fairly recently, courts have not had continuing jurisdiction to divide omitted community property by motion in the context of the same proceeding [see Tarvin v. Tarvin (1986) 232 Cal. Rptr. 13 ; Fam. Code § 2556], and, ordinarily, once a court adjudicates the parties' property rights it does not have jurisdiction to later modify its division of property,absent a specific reservation of jurisdiction [see Mueller v. Walker (1985) 167 Cal. App. 3d 600, 605-606, 213 Cal. Rptr. 442 (discussing general rule)]. For a general discussion of the court's power to reserve jurisdiction, see § 222.53[c].

[5] Court's Exercise of Jurisdiction in Dividing Property

[a] Method of Division at Trial

If a court divides the parties' community estate [see Fam. Code § 2550], it may choose among several alternative division methods. Determining which method is most appropriate may depend on the nature of the property and the parties' overall circumstances. Although some courts have stated that a division of property in kind is usually preferable [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Rives (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 138, 153, 181 Cal. Rptr. 572] , it is not statutorily required [see Fam. Code § 2550; see also In re Marriage of Emmett (1980) 109 Cal. App. 3d 753, 759, 169 Cal. Rptr. 473] and courts possess broad discretion to determine the manner in which property is divided to accomplish an equal division [see generally In re Marriage of Cream (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 81, 88, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 575 ; see also In re Marriage of Connolly (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 590, 603, 153 Cal. Rptr. 423, 591 P.2d 911 (approving trial court's decision not to divide stock in kind)].

Accordingly, a court may choose to divide some assets in kind, order other assets sold and the proceeds divided, and award still others to one spouse with an offsetting award to the other (asset distribution or "cash out"). A court may also make necessary related orders, such as an order for a party to change the title to a family home to tenancy in common in conjunction with ordering sale of the home deferred [see Fam. Code § 3800 et seq. (deferred sale; see discussion in § 222.92[1]); see generally In re Marriage of Cream (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 81, 88, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 575 ; see also Fam. Code § 2553 (court may make such orders as it deems necessary to carry out purposes of its authority to divide parties' community estate); In re Marriage of Davis (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 294, 306-309, 137 Cal. Rptr. 265 ; In re Marriage of Holmgren (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 869, 872-873, 130 Cal. Rptr. 440] .

[b] Modification Before Judgment

[i] Amendment of Pleadings

If community property is omitted from the pleadings in a family law proceeding, either inadvertently or as the result of intentional concealment by one of the parties, and its existence is discovered before rendition of the judgment, either party may, by noticed motion, seek an order allowing amendment of his or her pleadings to include a description of the property, and a request that it be divided [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.108(b) (amendment of pleadings); see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 472, 473(a)].

In the case of intentional concealment of community property by a party, special remedies are provided by statute, both to compel disclosure and to set aside a judgment rendered or agreement made on the basis of the inaccurate or incomplete disclosure [see Fam. Code §§ 2107, 2122(a), (b); see also Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure, § 221.150 et seq.]. For discussion of statutory disclosure requirements regarding property that must be observed in connection with family law proceedings [see generally Fam. Code § 2100 et seq.], see § 222.36 and Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure, § 221.40 et seq.

[ii] Substantial Change in Community Property

When a trial court is informed, before it issues its judgment, that there has been a substantial change in the nature of the community property, the court is obligated by statute [see Fam. Code § 2550 et seq.] either to redistribute equally the residue of the property then remaining in the community, or, alternatively, find one of the statutory exceptions [see Fam. Code § 2600 et seq.] that permit an unequal distribution applicable. Rather than attempting to impose a rigid formula on the courts, the Legislature has recognized that there may be situations in which both the nature and value of community property cannot be fixed or ascertained at the precise time of trial. Under these circumstances, trial courts are thus permitted a reasonable degree of flexibility in accomplishing substantial justice [In re Marriage of Olson (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 414, 421-422, 165 Cal. Rptr. 820, 612 P.2d 910 (trial court abused discretion in not reopening trial to make more current, accurate determination of community estate, given that family residence, which was tentatively awarded to wife, was sold at nonjudicial foreclosure sale and neither party would receive any sale proceeds)].

[c] Reservation of Jurisdiction

A court's authority to divide the community estate when the parties have not agreed to a division in writing or by oral stipulation in open court includes the power to make the division at a time after its judgment of marital dissolution or legal separation has been entered and is final, but only if the court has expressly reserved its jurisdiction to do so [Fam. Code § 2550]. Conversely, if a court divides the community estate and the judgment becomes final, but it has not expressly reserved jurisdiction over that division (and unadjudicated community property is not involved), it ordinarily loses jurisdiction to later modify the division [see In re Marriage of Curtis (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 387, 391, 256 Cal. Rptr. 76 (reservation of jurisdiction to "make such other and further orders as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this judgment" did not empower court to amend judgment to include previously unprovided for debt arising from money judgment against spouse after dissolution final; decided before 1989 enactment of former Civ. Code § 4353, but apparently not abrogated because of facts involved)].

Although the general statutory authority to reserve jurisdiction exists [Fam. Code § 2550] and has been utilized in family law matters [see In re Marriage of Carl (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 542, 546, 136 Cal. Rptr. 703] , the practice of some courts of making "open-ended" reservations of jurisdiction to determine interests in certain assets has been strongly criticized as being unauthorized and not in keeping with the spirit underlying the statute [see In re Marriage of Bergman (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 742, 756-757, 214 Cal. Rptr. 661] . Accordingly, as a general rule, the better practice appears to be to attempt to avoid long term, "open-ended" reservations of jurisdiction whenever possible, even if parties are willing to stipulate to such a reservation.

By contrast, there are situations in which a reservation of the court's jurisdiction is preferable to an immediate division of the asset in question. For example, a court should reserve jurisdiction and defer division when a community asset's value will be markedly different depending on future events. The court's statutory authority over division has been held to authorize it expressly to reserve jurisdiction over certain properties to avoid the unequal distribution of community assets that cannot be accurately valued at the time of trial. Thus, for instance, when there is a great disparity in property value depending on whether a lease for the premises of a community property business is renewed, the court should retain jurisdiction over the asset until the lease can be concluded, to insure an equal division of community property pursuant to statute [In re Marriage of Munguia (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 853, 859, 195 Cal. Rptr. 199 ; see In re Marriage of Kilbourne (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1518, 1525, 284 Cal. Rptr. 201] . Moreover, courts may reserve jurisdiction to supervise the distribution of an asset, such as retirement or pension benefits, the interests in which have already been adjudicated [see In re Marriage of Bergman (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 742, 756-757, 214 Cal. Rptr. 661] . For discussion, see § 222.130 et seq.

Finally, there are some circumstances under which a court must reserve its jurisdiction regarding particular property, such as when it renders a bifurcated judgment of marital dissolution that terminates the parties' marital status only [see Fam. Code § 2337(a), (c)], as well as when a court orders a deferred sale of a family residence pursuant to statute [Fam. Code § 3809], as discussed in § 222.90 et seq.

From the standpoint of drafting a judgment, counsel should exercise care in setting forth the scope of a court's reserved jurisdiction with respect to property. Otherwise, later actions in the purported exercise of that reserved jurisdiction may be overturned as being in excess of the court's jurisdiction [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Melton (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 931, 938-939, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 761 (trial court was empowered by judgment simply to "implement" pension division portion of judgment, but not to, effectively, "rewrite that judgment")].

For discussion of reserving jurisdiction to divide pension and retirement benefits, including special rules applicable to military retirement benefits, see § 222.130 et seq.[see, e.g., 10 U.S.C. § 1408(c)(1) (as amended by Pub. L. No. 101-510, § 555; precluding division of military retired pay as community property if final decree of divorce, dissolution, annulment, or legal separation (or property settlement incident to decree) was issued before June 25, 1981, and neither divided (nor reserved jurisdiction to divide) the pay); In re Marriage of Curtis (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 1, 15, 15 n.7, 16, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 145] .

[d] Effect of Appellate Court's Power to Revise Property Disposition

Despite a trial court's power to divide the community estate and to reserve its own jurisdiction to make the division in certain instances [see Fam. Code § 2550], the court's authority remains subject to the power of the appellate court to revise the disposition on appeal [see Fam. Code § 2555]. Courts have held that when there is sufficient evidence to support a trial court's characterization of property as separate or community, its findings on the status of the property must ordinarily stand and are not subject to revision by an apellate court [see Maher v. Maher (1963) 216 Cal. App. 2d 30, 31, 30 Cal. Rptr. 516] . On the other hand, the disposition of the community estate is subject to revision on appeal in all particulars, including those stated to be in the trial court's discretion [see Fam. Code § 2555; see Cal. Const., Arts. VI, XI; Code Civ. Proc. § 909; In re Marriage of Karlin (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 25, 101 Cal. Rptr. 240 , disapproved on other grounds, In re Marriage of Brown (1976) 15 Cal. 3d 838, 851 n.14, 126 Cal. Rptr. 633, 544 P.2d 561] .

For a reviewing court to determine whether an equal division of the community estate has been achieved, explicit values and exact amounts of encumbrances must be shown in the trial court's findings. When the evidence about values is sufficient, a defect in the findings may be remedied by an appellate court or that court may remand the case to the trial court to rectify the findings [In re Marriage of Juick (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 421, 425, 98 Cal. Rptr. 324] .

Revaluation of assets in the community estate is not barred under Fam. Code § 2552(a), which provides for property valuation as near as practicable to time of trial, because this would defeat the statute's "overriding purpose of insuring equal division of community property" [In re Marriage of Hayden (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 72, 79, 177 Cal. Rptr. 183 (construing former Civ. Code § 4800; now see Fam. Code § 2552)]. This section must be interpreted to require that the community estate be divided as near as possible to the court proceeding in which a proper division of the community estate occurs. Thus, one court held that equity requires revaluation of undivided community assets on remand when a delay in the division of the community estate is not due to a party's conduct or the pendency of an appeal [In re Marriage of Hayden (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 72, 79, 177 Cal. Rptr. 183 ; see In re Marriage of Walters (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 535, 538-540, 154 Cal. Rptr. 180] . In another case, however, the reviewing court noted that the betterinterpretation of the operative statute is that on retrial the court should consider equitable factors to determine whether the community estate should be valued as of the time of the original trial or the retrial [see In re Marriage of Bergman (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 742, 761 n.17, 214 Cal. Rptr. 661] .

Note, however, that valuation of undivided community assets on remand must be distinguished from a revaluation of the community estate, in which assets that have been valued by a trial court as of a particular date must be valued, on remand, as of another date or at trial [see In re Marriage of Priddis (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 349, 355-358, 183 Cal. Rptr. 37 ; see also In re Marriage of Koppelman (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 627, 635, 205 Cal. Rptr. 629 , disapproved on other grounds, In re Marriage of Fabian (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 440, 451 n.13, 224 Cal. Rptr. 333, 715 P.2d 253)]. Furthermore, a motion in an existing dissolution action to vacate a judgment dividing property interests concerning which the requirements of Fam. Code § 2552 apply must be distinguished from an independent equitable action for relief from a judgment dividing property interests. For discussion of indpendent actions, see § 222.53[5][e][iv]. For discussion of the timing of the court's valuation, see § 222.52[2][c][i].

[e] Division of Omitted Community Property

[i] Postjudgment Motion to Divide Property

Under current law, in any action for marital dissolution, legal separation, or annulment, the court has continuing jurisdiction to award community estate assets or liabilities to the parties that have not been previously adjudicated by a judgment in the proceeding. A party may file a postjudgment motion or order to show cause in the proceeding in order to obtain adjudication of any community estate asset or liability omitted or not adjudicated by the judgment. The court must then equally divide the omitted or unadjudicated asset or liability, unless the court finds on good cause that the interests of justice require an unequal division of the asset or liability [Fam. Code § 2556; see In re Marriage of Umphrey (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 647, 659-660, 267 Cal. Rptr. 218 (statute applicable to actions pending on operative date); but see 10 U.S.C. § 1408(c)(1) (as amended by Pub. L. No. 101-510, § 555; precluding division of military retired pay as community property if final decree of divorce, dissolution, annulment, or legal separation (or property settlement incident to decree) was issued before June 25, 1981, and neither divided nor reserved jurisdiction to divide the pay); see also In re Marriage of Simundza (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 1513, 1514-1515, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 377 (increased value of pension benefit over time did not constitute omitted asset under Fam. Code § 2556); In re Marriage of Hixson (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 1116, 1125, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 483 (court properly quashed discovery and denied relief on order to show cause under Fam. Code § 2556 when former wife failed to present evidence or argument on existence of unadjudicated assets); In re Marriage of Mason (1996) 46 Cal. App. 4th 1025, 1028, 54 Cal. Rptr. 2d 263 (husband could not litigate issue under guise of "missed asset" that could have been litigated in prior set aside motion; thus, res judicata barred his motion)]. For a form of a declaration supporting a postdissolution order to show cause to divide unadjudicated property, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure, § 222.410 et seq.

[ii] Vacating Judgment Within Six Months After Entry

If community property that is not mentioned in the pleadings is discovered within six months after entry of the judgment in the proceeding, as specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b), a party may move under that section to vacate the judgment insofar as it divided the community property. The moving party must, of course, establish the grounds for a Section 473 motion [see Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b) (in general, requiring showing of "mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect")]. On granting the motion, the trial court will comply with the requirement of equally dividing all community property [see Fam. Code § 2550], including property disposed of by the judgment [In re Marriage of Elkins (1972) 28 Cal.App. 3d 899, 904, 105 Cal. Rptr. 59 ; see Smith v. Lewis (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 349, 354, 118 Cal. Rptr. 621, 530 P.2d 589 (disapproved on another point in In re Marriage of Brown (1976) 15 Cal. 3d 838, 851 n.14, 126 Cal. Rptr. 633, 544 P.2d 561)].

[iii] Statutory and Equitable Motions to Vacate or Modify Judgment

After expiration of the period for relief from a judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b), a motion to vacate or modify a family law judgment may be brought under special statutory provisions set forth in the Family Code [see Fam. Code § 2120 et seq.], or pursuant to the inherent equitable power of the court to grant relief from a judgment obtained through "extrinsic" fraud or mistake [see In re Marriage of Coffin (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 139, 148-149, 151, 133 Cal. Rptr. 583 ; see also Resnik v. Superior Court (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 634, 637-638, 230 Cal. Rptr. 1] . The statutory grounds, applicable with respect to family law judgments entered on or after January 1, 1993, now appear to be the preferred avenue for relief because of their specificity and clarity, as outlined below [see Fam. Code §§ 2121-2122, 2129]. Equitable grounds are discussed thereafter.

Under Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. a court, on such terms as may be just, may relieve a spouse from a judgment in a family law proceeding that adjudicates support or a division of property, after the Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b) six-month time limit for relief has expired [Fam. Code § 2121(a)]. The grounds for relief and associated time limits include the following [Fam. Code § 2122]:

- Actual fraud, in which the defrauded party was kept in ignorance or in some other manner, other than his or her own lack of care or attention,was fraudulently prevented from fully participating in the proceeding; the motion must be brought within one year of the date on which the complaining party discovered, or should have discovered, the fraud.

- Perjury in the "declarations of disclosure" or current income and expense statement required by Fam. Code § 2100 et seq.; the motion must be brought within one year of the date on which the complaining party discovered, or should have discovered, the perjury.

- Duress; the motion must be brought within two years from the date of entry of the judgment.

- Mental incapacity; the motion must be brought within two years from the date of entry of the judgment.

- Mistake, either mutual or unilateral, of law or of fact, with respect to stipulated or uncontested judgments, or to that part of a judgment stipulated to by the parties; the motion must be brought within one year of the date of entry of the judgment.

The court may set aside only those provisions of the judgment materially affected by the circumstances leading to the court's decision to grant relief. However, the court has discretion to set aside the entire judgment, if necessary, for equitable considerations [Fam. Code § 2125]. These statutory provisions do not preclude a party from seeking the division of property under the court's continuing jurisdiction under Fam. Code § 2556, do not change the law regarding contract remedies when an agreement has not been merged in a judgment, do not restrict a court from acting as a court of equity, and do not limit existing law regarding the modification or enforcement of support orders [see Fam. Code § 2128].

The law existing before enactment of the statutory remedy permitted a motion to set aside or modify a judgment on the basis of "extrinsic fraud" or "extrinsic mistake," based on a trial court's inherent equitable power. Accordingly, even though the six-month period for relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 473 had expired, courts have granted relief when a sufficient showing could be made on either of those grounds [see In re Marriage of Coffin (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 139, 148-149, 151, 133 Cal. Rptr. 583 ; see also In re Marriage of Olsen (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 1702, 1706-1707, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 306 ; Resnik v. Superior Court (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 634, 637-638, 230 Cal. Rptr. 1] . For example, one spouse's intentional failure to disclose the existence of community assets to the other has been held to constitute extrinsic fraud [see In re Marriage of Modnick (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 897, 905-906, 191 Cal. Rptr. 629, 663 P.2d 187] . It appears that a motion on the basis of the courts' equitable power may still be made when the statutory relief outlined above is not applicable, such as with respect to family law judgments entered before January 1, 1993 [see Fam. Code § 2129]. The extent to which preexisting law will apply to judgments entered on and after January 1, 1993, is presently unclear. For further discussion of statutory and equitable motions and actions to set aside or modify a family law judgment, including related forms, see the discussion in Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure, § 222.150 et seq.

[iv] Division in Subsequent Independent Action

Before the enactment of legislation [see Fam. Code § 2556; former Civ. Code § 4353] that conferred continuing jurisdiction on the court to award community estate assets or liabilities that were not adjudicated in a family law judgment, a body of case law developed around the use of independent partition actions to divide such unadjudicated property. Consistent with the concept of "divisible divorce," which recognizes that termination of marital status and adjudication of collateral rights may theoretically occur in separate proceedings, courts held that property that is not mentioned in the pleadings as community property or adjudicated during a dissolution proceeding, is left unadjudicated by the dissolution judgment and subject to partition in a subsequent, independent action [see Henn v. Henn (1980) 26 Cal. 3d 323, 330, 161 Cal. Rptr. 502, 605 P.2d 10 ; In re Marriage of Moore & Ferrie (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1472, 1479-1482, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 543 (pension omitted from Ohio divorce decree); Bowman v. Bowman (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 148, 156-157, 217 Cal. Rptr. 174 (omission of pension and term life insurance benefits); Simon v. Simon (1985) 165 Cal. App. 3d 1044, 1048-1049, 212 Cal. Rptr. 87 ; Giovannoni v. Giovannoni (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 666, 672, 176 Cal. Rptr. 154 (pension pleaded as community property but erroneously withdrawn from court's consideration by stipulation was not actually litigated); In re Marriage of Davis (1980) 113 Cal. App. 3d 485, 487-488, 169 Cal. Rptr. 863 ; Gorman v. Gorman (1979) 90 Cal. App. 3d 454, 464-465, 153 Cal. Rptr. 479 ; Bridges v. Bridges (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 976, 978-980, 147 Cal. Rptr. 471 ; Lewis v. Superior Court (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 844, 847-852, 144 Cal. Rptr. 1 ; Irwin v. Irwin (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 317, 320-321, 138 Cal. Rptr. 9] .

Thus, for example, courts held that omitted pension and savings plans can be divided in an equitable action to partition community property, and in such a proceeding, the court has broad discretion to fashion any appropriate equitable remedy, including one that would result under the former Family Law Act [see Zarrahy v. Zarrahy (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1, 4-5, 252 Cal. Rptr. 20] . Until the property is adjudicated in an independent action, the parties own it as tenants in common [see In re Marriage of Cobb (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 855, 860 n.1, 137 Cal. Rptr. 670 ; Wilkinson v. Wilkinson (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 1164, 1168, 91 Cal. Rptr. 372 . Bowman v. Bowman (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 148, 156-157, 217 Cal. Rptr. 174 (omission of pension and term life insurance benefits); see also In re Marriage of Melton (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 931, 938-939, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 761 ; In re Marriage of Moore & Ferrie (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1472, 1479-1482, 18Cal. Rptr. 2d 543 , (pension omitted from Ohio divorce decree); In re Marriage of Dorris (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 1208, 1215, 207 Cal. Rptr. 160] . Moreover, because of the equitable nature of the partition action, a trial court may consider such defenses as waiver, estoppel, and laches, and, when retroactive awards of property are at issue, it may consider facts relevant to the fairness of such payments [see generally Casas v. Thompson (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 131, 151-152, 228 Cal. Rptr. 33, 720 P.2d 921 ; Henn v. Henn (1980) 26 Cal. 3d 323, 333, 161 Cal. Rptr. 502, 605 P.2d 10 ; see also In re Marriage of Graves (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1047, 1052, 244 Cal. Rptr. 110 (former husband sought to raise defenses of laches, equitable estoppel, and statute of limitations that would have applied in partition action)].

However, because of the legislation mentioned above [see Fam. Code § 2556; former Civ. Code § 4353], which authorizes a postjudgment motion or order to show cause to divide previously unadjudicated community estate assets or liabilities, independent actions appear to be no longer the primary remedy to divide omitted property. Nevertheless, appellate decisions concerning partition actions continue to be reported, and therefore to the extent that independent actions are still utilized, several concepts remain of importance.

First, the doctrine of res judicata does not bar a subsequent action for partition of a missed community asset [In re Marriage of Graves (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1047, 1050, 244 Cal. Rptr. 110] . For additional discussion of the res judicata effect of the judgment in a prior dissolution proceeding on a spouse's right to bring a later action to divide omitted community property, including pension plans see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure, § 222.90 et seq. [see, e.g., Zarrahy v. Zarrahy (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1, 4-5, 252 Cal. Rptr. 20 (omitted pension and savings plans as divisible in equitable action to partition community property; court has discretion to fashion appropriate equitable remedy, including one under (now former) Family Law Act); cf. In re Marriage of Olsen (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 1702, 1706-1707, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 306 (trial court, in motion to reinstate spousal support that was waived on partition of military retirement benefits, had inherent equitable power to set aside order terminating support, when order was based on mistake of fact that supported spouse would receive share of military benefits and this did not occur due to change in federal law)].

In addition, the fact that a court in another state dissolves the parties' marriage does not as such preclude a California court's later division of community property that has been omitted from the sister-state's divorce judgment. Thus, for example, if parties acquire community property while domiciled in California, but later change domiciles to a common law state and that state's court dissolves their marriage, but without adjudicating the interests the parties acquired in the asset while California domiciliaries, a California court that otherwise obtains jurisdiction over the parties can later adjudicate their interests in the omitted asset [see In re Marriage of Moore & Ferrie (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1472, 1479-1482, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 543 (California court could adjudicate parties' interests in community pension acquired while they were domiciled in California but that was omitted from Ohio divorce decree, given that move from California to Ohio did not cause loss of community interest; however, under facts involved, no additional community interest accrued in pension after parties relocated to Ohio beyond what existed when they relocated)].

Furthermore, one court of appeal has recognized that a provision in a judgment stating that "each party represents to the other party that there is no property of any nature known to the party, other than that listed herein, having a value in excess of $500" guarantees each spouse the right to seek redress from the other when there is additional property [In re Marriage of Smethurst (1980) 102 Cal. App. 3d 494, 497, 162 Cal. Rptr. 300] . The court noted that as a catch-all paragraph it is frequently used as an expeditious but preventive technique by attorneys stipulating to the various provisions of a judgment to assure continuing access to the court when the division of property is either intentionally or inadvertently incomplete [In re Marriage of Smethurst (1980) 102 Cal. App. 3d 494, 497-498, 162 Cal. Rptr. 300] .

Finally, the parties may effect a division of omitted property by mutual agreement, to save both the cost and time that litigation in a separate action would entail [see Wilkinson v. Wilkinson (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 1164, 1168, 91 Cal. Rptr. 372] .

For discussion of the division of omitted military pensions, including retroactive awards of benefits, see the discussion in § 222.220 et seq. For a complete discussion of partition actions and related forms, see Ch. 397, Partition .

[v] Postjudgment Tort Action for Concealment of Community Assets

One reported decision has held that in the absence of a pending marital dissolution proceeding, a plaintiff who contends that he or she suffered injury as the result of tortious concealment of community assets--thereby preventing the plaintiff from fully presenting his or her case in the dissolution proceeding--may bring a subsequent tort action based on the alleged concealment [Dale v. Dale (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1172, 1175, 1187, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 513] . That court, however, expressly declined to rule on the effect of Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. on the availability of such a tort remedy, because the judgment at issue was entered in 1988, and the provisions of Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. apply to judgments entered on or after January 1, 1993 [Dale v. Dale (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1172, 1175, 1187].

However, the effect of this decision has been severely eroded by subsequent case law. One appellate court expressly declined to follow the former decision asit "clearly was a major departure from existing law." That case held that if a dissolution judgment is obtained by extrinsic fraud such as the concealment of community assets, the only remedy available to the plaintiff is to seek equitable relief to vacate the judgment, not to sue in tort [Kuehn v. Kuehn, (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 824, 834, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 743] . And another case held that a tort remedy applies, if at all, only with respect to judgments entered before January 1, 1993--the operative date of the remedies provided under Fam. Code § 2120 et seq. [Rubenstein v. Rubenstein (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 1131, 1146-1148, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 707] . Thus, the issue seems ripe for consideration by the California Supreme Court.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJurisdictionPersonal Jurisdiction & In Rem ActionsIn Personam ActionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJurisdictionPersonal Jurisdiction & In Rem ActionsIn Rem ActionsQuasi in Rem ActionsCivil ProcedureAppealsAppellate JurisdictionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
2. Court's Equal Division and Parties' Agreements

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.54

§ 222.54 Property Division by Parties

[1] Qualifying Agreements and Stipulations in General

In a marital dissolution or legal separation proceeding, a court need not equally divide the parties' interests in the community estate if the parties have entered into a written agreement, or oral stipulation in open court, that divides the property. If their agreement or stipulation is only partial, leaving some community estate assets or liabilities undivided, the court will be required to make an equal division of the otherwise undivided property [see Fam. Code § 2550; see also Fam. Code §§ 721, 3580]. A parties' oral agreement to divide their community property is void and unenforceable when the agreement is not reduced to writing and the parties do not enter into an in-court stipulation to divide the property in accordance with the oral agreement [In re Marriage of Dellaria & Blickman-Dellaria (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 196, 201, 198, 90 Cal. Rptr. 3d 802].

Private agreements dividing the community estate occupy a favored position in California law. They are usually made with the advice of counsel after careful negotiations, and the courts, in accordance with legislative sanction, prefer agreement rather than litigation. When the parties have finally agreed on the property division, courts prefer not to disturb their agreement except for equitable considerations. Thus, in general, absent fraud or mistake, or other overreaching [see In re Marriage of Gonzalez (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 736, 743-748, 129 Cal. Rptr. 566] , courts will accept the parties' property agreement as binding, and it cannot be modified without the parties'consent [see Adams v. Adams (1947) 29 Cal. 2d 621, 624, 177 P.2d 265 (decided under former divorce law; In re Marriage of Egedi (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 17, 19, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 518 (agreement upheld, despite fact that one attorney helped drafted it for both parties); see also In re Marriage of Friedman (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 65, 67-68, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 412 (dual representation on spouses' estate plan did not void postnuptial agreement prepared for one spouse)]. Fam. Code § 2550 contemplates that the parties in a marital dissolution action can agree on an unequal division of community property, as long as the agreement complies with the statutory requirements. If such an agreement is entered into, the court must accept it and, if requested, incorporate it into the judgment [In re Marriage of Dellaria & Blickman-Dellaria (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 196, 201, 90 Cal. Rptr. 3d 802].

The rights of any third-party creditors must be considered, however, in determining whether an agreement is enforceable [cf. In re Roosevelt (9th Cir. 2000) 220 F.3d 1032 (husband's transfer of community share in family home to wife before filing for bankruptcy was fraudulent transfer); In re Marriage of Katz (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1711, 1721-1722, 286 Cal. Rptr. 495 (wife's transfer to husband of property subject to third party creditor's lien as part of community property settlement gave rise to wife's liability to creditor under circumstances)]. For discussion of grounds for setting aside a property agreement that has been merged in a judgment, see the discussion in Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure, § 222.150 et seq.

Besides the division of the community estate, the parties may also choose to address other issues in the same agreement or stipulation. For example, they may wish to confirm the interest of each party in any separate property, and to agree on matters such as child custody, child support, or spousal support, subject to any necessary court approval regarding those issues. Note that agreements pertaining to custody and support are subject to a number of special considerations, as discussed in Ch. 223, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Custody , and Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support [see Fam. Code §§ 2550, 4065]. Moreover, the provisions of any agreement for child or spousal support are considered separate and severable from those concerning property. Support orders that are based on an agreement are considered law-imposed and made under the power of the court [see Fam. Code §§ 3585, 3590]. For a discussion of the treatment of support and property provisions under former law, in the context of modifying spousal support awards, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure, § 222.180 et seq. [see Di Marco v. Di Marco (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 387, 391, 33 Cal. Rptr. 610, 385 P.2d 2 ; Matthews v. Matthews (1977) 74 Cal. App. 3d 683, 690, 141 Cal. Rptr. 634] .

Further considerations pertaining to written agreements and oral stipulations in open court are discussed below. For discussion of special property disclosure requirements that must be observed for entry of a family law judgment [see Fam. Code § 2106], see § 222.36 and Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure . For coverage of drafting written agreements in contemplation of marital dissolution or legal separation, and sample forms of agreement, see Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2d ed., chs. 211-216 (Matthew Bender). For discussion of completing the Family Law Petition and Response [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-100, FL-120] to indicate that the parties have reached an agreement on property rights, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure, § 222.10 et seq.

[2] Written Agreements

The parties to a proceeding for marital dissolution or legal separation may divide their property pursuant to a written agreement [see Fam. Code § 2550]. Such an agreement, when made in contemplation of marital dissolution, is often referred to as a "marital settlement agreement" or "marital termination agreement," and frequently embraces both the property issues and other matters in need of resolution in the proceeding. The agreement may also take the form of a written"stipulation for judgment," as contemplated by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.116.

[3] Enforcement; Merger in Judgment

Agreements may also be incorporated into the family law judgment, either for the purpose of identification only, or for the purpose of merging the agreement into the judgment. If the agreement is merged in whole or in part into the judgment, usually, pursuant to the agreement's own terms, the provisions of the agreement so merged must be enforced as a judgment and not as a contract, using remedies such as contempt [Plummer v. Superior Court (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 158, 163, 124 P.2d 5 ; Lazar v. Superior Court (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 617, 620, 107 P.2d 249 ; see In re Marriage of Lane (1985) 165 Cal. App. 3d 1143, 1147, 211 Cal. Rptr. 262] . Otherwise, an agreement that merely has been approved but not merged may be enforced as a contract, such as through an action for breach of contract, and remedies such as contempt are not available [Plummer v. Superior Court (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 158, 161-165, 124 P.2d 5 ; Lazar v. Superior Court (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 617, 620, 107 P.2d 249 ; see Howarth v. Howarth (1947) 81 Cal. App. 2d 266, 270-273, 183 P.2d 670 ; see, e.g., In re Marriage of Smith & Maescher (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 100, 103, 26 Cal. Rptr.

2d 133 (agreement incorporated by reference in Massachusetts divorce judgment)]. For further discussion of the considerations involved in merging agreements into judgments, and sample language, see Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed., Ch. 211 (Matthew Bender).

For discussion of grounds for setting aside a family law judgment into which a property settlement agreement has been merged, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure, § 222.150 et seq. [see Fam. Code § 2120 et seq.]. For forms of complaint that may be adapted for use in bringing an action to enforce the provisions of a property agreement that has not been merged into a judgment, see Ch. 140, Contracts , Ch. 488, Reformation of Instruments , Ch. 490, Rescission and Restitution , and Ch. 561, Trusts: Constructive Trusts , Ch. 562, Trusts: Resulting Trusts .

[4] Oral Stipulation in Open Court

Parties are permitted to divide their community estate by oral stipulation in open court and such a stipulation is considered as binding as if made in writing [see Fam. Code § 2550; In re Marriage of Carletti (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 989, 993 n.2, 126 Cal. Rptr. 1 ; see also In re Marriage of Carter (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 479, 487-488, 97 Cal. Rptr. 274] . An oral stipulation may, of course, be subsequently followed by a judgment that sets forth the terms of the parties' stipulation in written form. When this procedure is followed, counsel for one party will normally prepare the written form of judgment, subject to service on and approval by opposing counsel before submission to the court for signature and filing, as discussed in Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure, § 222.90 et seq.

Strictly speaking, a trial court is not required to obtain a party's express assent to an oral stipulation, as distinguished from his or her counsel's agreement. However, an attorney may not bind his or her client to a stipulation regarding the division of community property without the client's knowledge and assent. Likewise, a litigant cannot sit idly by in open court while a stipulation is read and approved by the court, and later deny the authority of his or her trial counsel to enter into the stipulation. Thus, a litigant's silence that gives the appearance of assent is sufficient to validate a stipulation [In re Marriage of Hendle (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 814, 818, 128 Cal. Rptr. 854 ; see In re Marriage of Maricle (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 55, 57-58, 269 Cal. Rptr. 204 (when party is represented by counsel, court should not accept stipulation or agreement made without attorney's knowledge and consent); see also In re Marriage of Wickander (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1364, 1367, 232 Cal. Rptr. 621] . The better practice, however, and one followed by many, if not most, courts, is for the trial court to ask both counsel and the parties present in open court whether the stipulation, as understood by the court, represents the parties' agreement [see In re Marriage of Hendle (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 814, 823-824, 128 Cal. Rptr. 854 (dissent recommends that trial court follow procedure carried out in In re Marriage of Carter (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 479, 487-488, 97 Cal. Rptr. 274)].

In approving an oral stipulation, the court is only bound to ascertain the nature and extent of community property to the degree necessary to exercise its discretion. The purpose of the stipulation in resolving issues for trial would be obliterated if the court were required to make a detailed investigation of each asset [In re Marriage of Carter (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 479, 485, 97 Cal. Rptr. 274] . Furthermore, the statute requiring an equal division of the community estate by a court [see Fam. Code § 2550] does not require findings either of value or of an equal division if the judgment is based on a stipulation made in open court [In re Marriage of Hendle (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 814, 817, 128 Cal. Rptr. 854] .

Once an oral stipulation is made at the time of trial, a court has no obligation as such to reopen the case for the admission of new evidence showing variations in the property value that occur before judgment is formally entered. The parties take the risk that the stipulated value may be incorrect [In re Marriage of Hahn (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1236, 1241, 273 Cal. Rptr. 516] . Similarly, a party may not stipulate to the community nature of an asset at trial and then on appeal challenge the court's finding on the basis of that stipulation [In re Marriage of Denny (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 543, 552-553, 171 Cal. Rptr. 440 ; see In re Marriage of Carter (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 479, 488, 97 Cal. Rptr. 274 (consenting party may not prosecute appeal of stipulation)].

[5] Other Oral Agreements

[a] Executed Oral Agreement

Spouses are not precluded as such from making oral agreements to divide or dispose of their community estate [see Fam. Code §§ 721, 1500, 1620; see also Civ. Code § 1622]. However, there appear to be at least two exceptions to this general principle that greatly diminish the practical ability of spouses to do make enforceable oral agreements. First, once the parties place their property in issue before the court in the pleadings, any agreement they reach on property division must ordinarily be in the form of a written agreement or oral stipulation in open court [see Fam. Code § 2550]; parties cannot make enforceable oral "side agreements" [see In re Marriage of Maricle (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 55, 57-58, 269 Cal. Rptr. 204 (executed oral agreement held invalid when made without attorney's knowledge and not ratified in open court)].

Second, to the extent that the agreement contemplates a transmutation of property, it appears that the statutory provisions requiring a writing for transmutations of property between spouses would apply [see Fam. Code § 850 et seq. (applicable to transmutations made on or after January 1, 1985)], except for those insubstantial items that spouses may give to one another, concerning which the transmutation provisions do not apply [see Fam. Code § 852(c)]. Whether conventional "statute of frauds" exceptions such as "complete execution on one side," or "part performance," will apply to the transmutation provisions is presently unclear. However, the "express declaration" requirement of the transmutation statutes [see Fam. Code § 852(a); Estate of MacDonald (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 262, 264, 272-273, 272 Cal. Rptr. 153, 794 P.2d 911] , may possibly preclude application of these standard exceptions.

In any event, it appears that purely oral agreements that do not amount to an "oral stipulation in open court" have very limited application in the property division context, and the better practice is to have parties reduce all property division matters to writing.

[b] Effect of Parties' Undisclosed Oral Side Agreement

If the pleadings in a family law proceeding request the court to divide the parties' community estate, It appears that any oral side agreement between the parties to dispose of a portion of the property privately and not in open court will be invalid and unenforceable [see In re Marriage of Elkins (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 899, 903-904, 105 Cal. Rptr. 59 ; see also In re Marriage of Maricle (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 55, 57-58, 269 Cal. Rptr. 204 (executed oral agreement held invalid when made without attorney's knowledge and not ratified in open court)].

One appellate court invalidated an undisclosed oral "side agreement" between the parties regarding their rights to portions of community assets not listed in the pleadings. The court stated that such an undisclosed agreement in contemplation of dissolution is against public policy because of its inherent deception and because of the positive terms of the statute that confers jurisdiction to divide property [Fam. Code § 2550]. Accordingly, it concluded, such an agreement creates no rights for either party, regardless of whether the agreement was made under compulsion of fraud or mistake, or freely, competently, and in good faith as between the parties. Otherwise, the court reasoned, parties could virtually write into the property division statute an exception for an oral agreement made privately and not in open court, instead of confining the statute to its express exceptions, namely, a written agreement or oral stipulation in open court [In re Marriage of Elkins (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 899, 903-904, 105 Cal. Rptr. 59] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesIllegal BargainsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution &

DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionProperty Settlements

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
2. Court's Equal Division and Parties' Agreements

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 222.55-222.69

[Reserved]

§§ 222.55[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
3. Equal Division Exceptions And Related Division Alternatives

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.70

§ 222.70 Overview of Exceptions and Division Alternatives

The general requirement that a court equally divide the parties' community estate in marital dissolution or legal separation proceedings [see Fam. Code § 2550] is subject to a number of statutory exceptions and other special division rules [see Fam. Code § 2600 et seq.], in addition to the exception for division of the property by the parties' written agreement or oral stipulation in open court [see Fam. Code § 2550 (discussed in § 222.54[1] et seq.)]. These exceptions and related, alternative division rules provide for the following:

(1) The award to a party of an entire asset, if economic circumstances warrant, to effect a substantially equal division of the property [see Fam. Code § 2601 (discussed in § 222.71[1])];

(2) An award or offset against existing property from a party's share of any sum that was deliberately misappropriated by a party to the exclusion of the other party's interest in the community estate [see Fam. Code § 2602 (discussed in § 222.72)];

(3) The award to a party, on such conditions as the court deems just, of the entire community estate, if its net value is less than $5,000 and one party cannot be located throught the exercise of reasonable diligence [see Fam. Code § 2604 (discussed in § 222.73)];

(4) The award of community estate personal injury damages to the party who suffered the attendant injuries, subject to certain exceptions [see Fam. Code § 2603 (summarized under § 222.136)]; and

(5) The assignment of educational loans [see Fam. Code §§ 2627, 2641 (summarized under § 222.75)].

In addition, special provisions apply to the assignment of community liabilities. Perhaps the most notable of these, in the equal division context, is the provision for assignment of more liabilities to one party than the other on an equitable basis, if community liabilities exceed community assets (the "negative estate" case) [see Fam. Code § 2622

(summarized in § 222.76)].

Other special rules require the award of certain federal benefits to only one spouse because of various public policies, including the preemption of federal law over state community property law. These rules, pertaining to certain military life insurance policies [see Ridgway v. Ridgway (1981) 454 U.S. 46, 56-57, 102 S. Ct. 49, 70 L. Ed 2d 39] , military separation pay received on involuntary discharge [see In re Marriage of Kuzmiak (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 1152, 1157-1158, 222 Cal. Rptr. 644] , military retirement pay that has been waived to receive veteran's disability benefits [see Mansell v. Mansell (1989) 490 U.S. 581, 583, 109 S. Ct. 2023, 104 L. Ed. 2d 675] , and Social Security benefits [see In re Marriage of Hillerman (1980) 109 Cal. App. 3d 334, 345, 167 Cal. Rptr. 240 ; In re Marriage of Cohen (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 836, 842-843, 164 Cal. Rptr. 672] , are discussed in § 222.130 et seq.

Finally, notwithstanding the general rules for characterization and division of retirement and pension benefits, a spouse is entitled to an award of all of his or her own retirement and pension benefits if he or she is the victim of a murder attempt by the other spouse [Fam. Code § 782.5]. For discussion of this provision, see § 222.77.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
3. Equal Division Exceptions And Related Division Alternatives

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.71

§ 222.71 Single Asset Award

[1] When Economic Circumstances Warrant

Despite the general requirement that a dissolution court equally divide the parties' community estate [see Fam. Code § 2550], it may award a single asset to one party on such conditions as the court deems proper to effect a substantially equal division of the community estate when economic circumstances warrant [Fam. Code § 2601; see In re Marriage of Boseman (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 372, 375-376, 107 Cal. Rptr. 232 ; see, e.g., In re Marriage of Burlini (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 65, 70, 191 Cal. Rptr. 541 (award of business to manager-husband); In re Marriage of Emmett (1980) 109 Cal. App. 3d 753, 759-761, 169 Cal. Rptr. 473 (award of pension to noncustodial spouse and equivalent property consisting of residence to custodial spouse)]. This is known as the "single asset proviso." Although it is cast in the statutes as one of the "special rules for division" in relation to the "equal division rule," [see Fam. Code § 2600 et seq.] it is not a true "exception" to equal division, but rather, an alternative means of accomplishing such a division [see In re Marriage of Tammen (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 927, 930, 134 Cal. Rptr. 161 ; In re Marriage of Holmgren (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 869, 873, 130 Cal. Rptr. 440] .

The determination of whether "economic circumstances warrant" an award of a particular asset to one party is entrusted to the trial court's sound discretion [see In re Marriage of Burlini (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 65, 70, 191 Cal. Rptr. 541 ; In re Marriage of Juick (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 421, 428, 430 n.13, 98 Cal. Rptr. 324] . The authorizing statute [see Fam. Code § 2601] gives the court considerable discretion in the division of community property to assure that an equitable settlement is reached [In re Marriage of Connolly (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 590, 603, 153 Cal. Rptr. 423, 591 P.2d 911 ; In re Marriage of House (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 434, 439-440, 165 Cal. Rptr. 145 (both cases construing the predecessor statute)]. Thus, for example, courts have discretion to reject strict "in kind" divisions to avoid financial inequalities [In re Marriage of Rives (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 138, 155-157, 181 Cal. Rptr. 572] .

The single asset proviso has been used frequently as authority for awarding to one spouse a community property closely-held business or a block of community property stock when the economic circumstances warrant such a disposition [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Connolly (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 590, 603, 153 Cal. Rptr. 423, 591 P.2d 911 (block of high-risk stock awarded to high-income husband); In re Marriage of Kozen (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1258, 1262-1263, 230 Cal. Rptr. 304 (award of franchise to wife)]. Awards of stock and closely-held businesses are discussed in § 222.130 et seq.

If the court awards an entire asset to one party under the single asset proviso, it must award comparable property to the other spouse to equalize the division, as discussed in § 222.71[3]. An important factor that the court may consider is how personal the asset is to a spouse. In the case of a home or a business, the court may wish to consider whether the spouse requesting the home has lived in it for many years, or whether he or she operated the community property business [see In re Marriage of Connolly (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 590, 603, 153 Cal. Rptr. 423, 591 P.2d 911 ; In re Marriage of Kozen (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1258, 1262-1263, 230 Cal. Rptr. 304] .

Furthermore, the equality of division of community property is intimately tied to valuation of that property. In many cases, an apparently equal division is inherently unequal when economic circumstances are considered in light of the situation of the parties. Valuation becomes more difficult when a court awards an entire asset to one spouse. Thus, an award will be reversed when inequity results from the court's failure to consider the specific circumstances of each spouse in valuing and awarding the asset [see In re Marriage of Rives (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 138, 155-157, 181 Cal. Rptr. 572 (improper valuation of goodwill of community property business managed by and awarded to husband); In re Marriage of Brigden (1978) 80 Cal. App. 3d 380, 391, 393-396, 145 Cal. Rptr. 716 (award of entire block of publicly traded stock to husband was inequitable in terms of parties' financial positions, security, and tax consequences); In re Marriage of Hopkins (1977) 74 Cal. App. 3d 591, 597-598, 141 Cal. Rptr. 597 (court abused discretion in awarding residence to one spouse and secured equalizing note to other spouse, when spouse who received residence could refinance it and pay other spouse immediately)].

[2] Delayed Division of Asset

The "single asset proviso" [see Fam. Code § 2601] also has been frequently used to delay division of a community asset until the appropriate time to sell it and divide the proceeds. Thus, "when economic circumstances warrant," the court, instead of making an immediate award of one asset to one party and an equalizing award of property to the other, may impose delayed division as a condition to effect a substantially equal division of the community property [see In re Marriage of Herrmann (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 361, 365-366, 148 Cal. Rptr. 550 (delayed division of family home until parties' youngest child reached majority); In re Marriage of Boseman (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 372, 375-376, 107 Cal. Rptr. 232] .

Delayed division has been imposed most frequently with respect to the family home, as an additional form of child support [see Fam. Code § 3800 et seq.; In re Marriage of Boseman (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 372, 375-376, 107 Cal. Rptr. 232] . This practice is currently referred to as a "deferred sale of home order" [see Fam. Code § 3800 et seq.], as discussed in § 222.90 et seq. However, the same concept should permit delayed division of other community assets in the appropriate economic circumstances [see Fam. Code § 2601; In re Marriage of Juick (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 421, 427 n.6, 98 Cal. Rptr. 324 (quoting Cline, California's Divorce Reform: Its Effect on Community Property Awards, 1 Pac. L.J. 310 (1970), the court stated that former Civ. Code § 4800(b)(1) allows trial court to make equitable allotment of income-producing asset without forfeiting its income-producing potential, or of shelter asset without forfeiting its economic advantage to spouse and children)].

[3] Compensation to Equalize Division

[a] When Required

Under the "single asset proviso," [see Fam. Code § 2601] it is contemplated that when a major item of community property not reasonably subject to division is awarded to one party, rather than ordered sold and the proceeds divided, the other party must be compensated in some manner to maintain the required equal division [In re Marriage of Tammen (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 927, 930, 134 Cal. Rptr. 161 ; see In re Marriage of Holmgren (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 869, 873, 130 Cal. Rptr. 440)]. When other community assets of sufficient value are available, the court can, of course, make an offsetting award utilizing those assets. More problematic has been the use of promissory notes, which is discussed in § 222.71[3][b].

[b] Awarding Note to Equalize Division

A number of modern cases have discussed the propriety of utilizing promissory notes to equalize the division of the community estate when a court has awarded a single major asset to one spouse on the basis of the parties' economic circumstances. As discussed further below, promissory notes to equalize division have been invalidated when the notes were for an extended period of time and bore inadequate interest rates; but courts have discretion to use notes for relatively short time periods at reasonable interest rates [see In re Marriage of Bergman (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 742, 761, 214 Cal. Rptr. 661] . Cases on this issue turn on the terms of the note.

In Bergman the use of the note was upheld. The note bore interest of 10 percent compounded annually, was secured by substantial equity in the family residence and would be paid in full, at the latest, within three years after the husband relinquished possession of it to the wife. In addition, the entire payment might become due sooner because the note required payment in full if the wife sold the residence sooner. Under those circumstances, the award of an equalizing note did not impose on the husband a long and uncertain deferment of his enjoyment of the award, and the 10 percent interest and short payment period adequately compensated him for the potential effects of inflation [In re Marriage of Bergman (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 742, 761-762, 214 Cal. Rptr. 661] .

On the other hand, the court in In re Marriage of Tammen held that the note did not comply with the statutory "equal division" requirement [In re Marriage of Tammen (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 927, 931, 134 Cal. Rptr. 161] . The trial court had awarded the family residence to the wife and ordered her to execute a promissory note bearing simple interest at seven percent, secured by a second trust deed on the residence. Neither interest nor principal was payable for 10 years, except on certain contingencies including the wife's remarriage, sale of the property, voluntary refinancing by the wife, or her death, whichever occurred first [In re Marriage of Tammen (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 927, 929-931, 134 Cal. Rptr. 161] . The appellate court in Tammen concluded that the note was not worth its face value and consequently that the property had not been equally divided. The market value of the note would be discounted by the inferiority of its security, the long and uncertain deferment of its enjoyment, the probable effect of inflation, and the concerns of its ownership. The court took judicial notice that market value would be at least substantially less than the note's face value [In re Marriage of Tammen (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 927, 929-931, 134 Cal. Rptr. 161 (case remanded for retrial of all issues relating to value and disposition of community property); see In re Marriage of Morrison (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 437, 456, 143 Cal. Rptr. 139, 573 P.2d 41 (trial court ordered on remand to consider husband's contention that community property was not equally divided because market value of promissory note received from wife was less than face value); In re Marriage of Hopkins (1977) 74 Cal. App. 3d 591, 598, 141 Cal. Rptr. 597] .

In re Marriage of Herrmann also involved a trial court award of the family residence and child custody to a wife and awarded the husband a promissory note for one-half the equity value in the residence. The note bore interest at seven percent, was not due and payable until sale of the residence, which might not occur for eight years, and was subject to numerous conditions. The court of appeal upheld the trial court's refusal immediately to divide the residence, but reversed its award of the note. It held that the note was not worth its face value based on Tammen, but that the solution was not to increase the amount of the note by 40 to 50 percent, because the added cost to the wife would be substantial, and, if the note might be sold, would have to be paid to the purchaser. The result might be an unequal division of community property. Instead, the trial court was ordered to place the house in tenancy in common with the various contingencies for sale and division of proceeds that were involved in the note [In re Marriage of Herrmann (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 361, 366-367, 148 Cal. Rptr. 550] .

In In re Marriage of Slater, the court upheld the award of a note to equalize the division of community property against a wife's claim that the market value of the note was substantially less than its face value. The court noted that, in contrast to the note awarded in Tammen, the note in Slater was for a term of only five years, was adequately secured, provided for yearly installments, and bore a sufficiently high interest rate (and low payment term) to compensate for inflation. The court concluded that the promissory note was not, as a matter of law, worth substantially less than its face value. The court also rejected the wife's claim that the note did not equalize the division of community property because trial court failed to consider the tax liability that she would incur. The court reasoned that the wife had presented no evidence of an immediate and specific tax liability as a result of the award [In re Marriage of Slater (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 241, 247-249, 160 Cal. Rptr. 686] . For discussion of the tax consequences of property division, see Ch. 227, Dissolution of Marriage: Tax Consequences of Dissolution .

Finally, in In re Marriage of Bergman, the court of appeal upheld the use of a promissory note to equalize a property division involving a family residence and other assets. It held that a trial court, in order to accomplish an equal division of community property, may require a spouse who has been awarded more than one-half of the community estate to execute a secured, short-term promissory note in favor of the other spouse that bears a reasonable rate of interest [In re Marriage of Bergman (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 742, 746-747, 214 Cal. Rptr. 661] .

A spouse who receives a promissory note secured by one or more deeds of trust on the other spouse's property is a secured creditor of the other spouse and, in the event of a default, will be subject to the antideficiency statutes [In re Marriage of Oropallo (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 997, 1007, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 669 ; see Civ. Code § 580]. A creditor who elects to proceed against real property securing a debt under the power of sale contained in the deed of trust may not seek a deficiency judgment [Civ. Code § 580(d)]. Thus, if the spouse awarded the property defaults on the equalizing payments and the lienholder spouse holds a trustee's sale of the property securing the promissory note, he or she may not seek a deficiency judgment for the balance [In re Marriage of Oropallo (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 997, 1003-1004, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 669 ; see Civ. Code § 580(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProceduresFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
3. Equal Division Exceptions And Related Division Alternatives

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.72

§ 222.72 Offset for Misappropriated Assets

Notwithstanding statutory provisions for equal division of the community estate in marital dissolution or legal separation proceedings [see Fam. Code § 2550], a court may award from a party's share, as an additional award or offset against existing property, any sum it determines to have been deliberately misappropriated by such party to the exclusion of the interest of the other party in the community estate [Fam. Code § 2602; see In re Marriage of Economou (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1466, 1483, 274 Cal. Rptr. 473 (additional award); see also In re Marriage of Partridge (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 120, 276 Cal. Rptr. 8 (negligent failure to maintain business records and to cooperate in filing tax returns was not deliberate misappropriation); In re Marriage of Schultz (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 846, 855, 164 Cal. Rptr. 653 ("deliberate misappropriation" has reference to "calculated thievery" by spouse, as opposed to simple mishandling of assets)].

This provision is set forth as one of the special rules for division of the community estate [see Fam. Code § 2600 et seq.], and has in fact been cited as an exception to "equal division" [see In re Marriage of Economou (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1466, 1483, 274 Cal. Rptr. 473] , though at least one commentator has suggested that it may more properly be thought of as a rule assuring equal division than an exception to it [see Comment, California's Divorce Reform: Its Effect on Community Property Awards, 1 Pac. L.J. 310, 319 (1970); see also In re Marriage of Juick (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 421, 427 n.6, 98 Cal. Rptr. 324] .

The "award or offset" authorized [see Fam. Code § 2602] is similar in concept to other provisions for reimbursement to one spouse for various unilateral and unconsented to actions taken by the other spouse regarding the community estate. For a discussion of reimbursement issues, see § 222.260 et seq. For discussion of issues relating to management and control of property, and statutory remedies for breach of spousal duties regarding property [see Fam. Code §§ 1100-1101], see Ch. 122, Community Property .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionFactorsMisconduct

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
3. Equal Division Exceptions And Related Division Alternatives

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.73

§ 222.73 Property Valued Less Than $5,000

[1] Statutory Conditions of Award

Notwithstanding statutory provisions for equal division of the communityestate [see Fam. Code § 2550], if the net value of the community estate is less than $5,000 and one party cannot be located through the exercise of reasonable diligence, a court may award all of the community estate to the other party on conditions it deems proper in its judgment of marital dissolution or legal separation [Fam. Code § 2604].

[2] Inability to Locate Party

[a] Interpretation of Statute

The statute authorizing an award of the entire community estate to one party [Fam. Code § 2604] fails to specify the circumstances in which the court should deem that a party cannot be located "through the exercise of reasonable diligence." At a minimum, it appears that service of the summons and petition should be attempted by the methods of service required in civil actions generally [see Fam. Code § 2331; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10 et seq.]. However, the statute fails to answer a number of questions. For example, are additional efforts required beyond attempted service of the summons? Should a search be made at the time the summons is served and again before the judgment is entered? Additionally, if service is successful, what if the respondent cannot be found at the time of the entry of judgment? Finally, what if the petitioner is the "party" who cannot be located at the time of the judgment?

It has been suggested (1) that the statute probably does not apply if the respondent has been personally served with the summons, regardless of whether his or her whereabouts can be ascertained at the time the property is divided; and (2) that, if the respondent is served by publication [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.50] because he or she could not "with reasonable diligence be served in another manner," it is unclear whether the statute's condition is thereby fully satisfied, or if it requires an additional showing that the respondent cannot be found at the time for awarding the property, or even that he or she was continuously unavailable from the time of service to the time of the award [see Attorney's Guide to Family Law Act Practice, § 5.15 (Cal. C.E.B. 2d ed. 1972)].

It is also not clear, however, that the statute [Fam. Code § 2604] was intended to be applied merely to a person who cannot be served with process, because it refers to the inability to locate a party. Arguably, the statutory language may suggest that this inability must again be examined at the time of the judgment awarding the parties' property, because it refers to locating a party instead of service of a summons.

[b] Proof

The statute [Fam. Code § 2604] also fails to specify how proof of inability to locate a party must be made. It appears that counsel should at least be prepared at the hearing to establish through testimony of the party seeking the award that reasonable diligence has been exercised to locate the other party and that the requesting party lacks knowledge of the missing party's whereabouts. If the summons was served by publication on a missing respondent, the application for an order authorizing publication and its related affidavits or declarations [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118; Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310; see also Code Civil Proc. § 415.50] in support of the application should be in the court's case file.

The court may require the filing of an additional affidavit or declaration under penalty of perjury [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2003, 2015.5] or, if service of the summons was attempted by methods other than publication, an affidavit or declaration setting forth the steps taken to locate the respondent. Mere unsworn representations of counsel in open court describing steps taken to locate the missing party would appear to be insufficient to support a finding that the party cannot be located through the exercise of reasonable diligence. For discussion of service of process, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure, § 221.10 et seq., and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers . For discussion of obtaining orders for preliminary relief, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure, § 221.10 et seq.

[3] Clarifying Nature of Award in Judgment

When a court awards an entire community estate to one party pursuant to Fam. Code § 2604, it is good practice to set forth any findings the court has made regarding the value of the community estate and concerning the inability to locate one party in the judgment. Accordingly, it is suggested that the judgment state, after the printed orders, that the court finds that the net value of the community estate is less than $5,000, with the actual finding of value also set forth, that the respondent (or possibly petitioner) cannot be located through the exercise of reasonable diligence, and that the court therefore awards the community estate to the petitioner (or respondent). For further discussion and a form of judgments [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-180], see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure, § 221.90 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
3. Equal Division Exceptions And Related Division Alternatives

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.74

§ 222.74 Personal Injury Damages

Personal injury damages are subject to a number of special statutory provisions that govern their characterization and division [see Fam. Code §§ 780, 781, 2603]. In general, although damages based on a cause of action that arose during marriage and before the parties' separation are characterized as community property [see Fam. Code §§ 780, 781(a), 2603(a)], they are subject to an allocation rule that requires a court to award no less than half the damages to the injured spouse and, absent prescribed findings based on exceptional circumstances, all of the damages to that spouse [see Fam. Code §§ 780, 2603(b)].

Furthermore, damages are generally characterized as separate property if theyare based on a cause of action that arose after the entry of a judgment of marital dissolution or legal separation, or while either spouse, if he or she is the injured person, was living separately from the other spouse, subject to special reimbursement rules [Fam. Code § 781]. For a complete discussion of personal injury damages, see § 222.130 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Duties & RightsProperty RightsCharacterizationCommunity PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationPersonal Injury AwardsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
3. Equal Division Exceptions And Related Division Alternatives

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.75

§ 222.75 Educational Loans

Notwithstanding the equal division requirement in proceedings for marital dissolution or legal separation [Fam. Code § 2550; see Fam. Code § 2622 (assignment of community estate debts)], a loan incurred during marriage for the education or training of a party is not included among the liabilities of the community for purposes of division, but must be assigned for payment by the party, subject to certain statutory limitations [see Fam. Code §§ 2627, 2641].

In addition, the community must be reimbursed for community contributions to education or training of a party that substantially enhances the earning capacity of the party, unless any of several prescribed conditions exist that requires a reduction or modification of the amount otherwise reimbursable [Fam. Code § 2641(b), (c); see also In re Marriage of Weiner (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 235, 237, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 288 (Fam. Code § 2641 applies when spouse's education took place before marriage and community funds were used during marriage to repay spouse's educational loans)]. For further discussion of the assignment of educational loans and the reimbursement of the community for contributions to education or training, see § 222.260 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
3. Equal Division Exceptions And Related Division Alternatives

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.76

§ 222.76 Community Debts Exceed Community Assets

Another exception to the equal division requirement [see Fam. Code § 2550] exists with respect to "negative estate" cases, that is, when community debts exceed community assets. Ordinarily, debts incurred by either spouse after the date of marriage but before the date of the parties' separation are required to be divided in accordance with Fam. Code §§ 2550-2552, and 2601-2604. However, to the extent that community debts exceed total community and quasi-community assets, the excess of debt must be assigned as the court deems just and equitable, taking into account factors such as each party's relative ability to pay [see Fam. Code § 2622]. For further discussion of dividing community estate liabilities, see § 222.260 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionMarital Liabilities

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
3. Equal Division Exceptions And Related Division Alternatives

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.77

§ 222.77 Retention of Retirement Benefits by Victim of Murder Attempt

[1] Award of Entire Community Interest in Benefits

As of January 1, 1996, a spouse who is injured as the result of a murder attempt by the other spouse is entitled to an award of 100 percent of the community property interest in the retirement and pension benefits of the injured spouse. In other words, the injured spouse is entitled to retain all of his or her retirement and pension benefits, even if the other spouse would otherwise have a community property interest in the benefits. For this provision to apply, the culpable spouse must have been convicted of attempted murder. This remedy is provided in addition to any other that may be available [see Fam. Code § 782.5; Penal Code § 664; see also Fam. Code § 4324 (defining "injured spouse")].

For a general discussion of awarding retirement and pension benefits in proceedings for marital dissolution or legal separation, see § 222.180 et seq.

[2] Related Remedies for Victim

[a] Prohibition on Support or Insurance Award

As of January 1, 1996, when a spouse is convicted of attempting to murder the other spouse, the injured spouse is entitled to a prohibition of any temporary or permanent award for spousal support or medical, life, or other insurance benefits or payments from the injured spouse to the other spouse. For this purpose, the term "injured spouse" means the spouse who has been the subject of the murder attempt, whether or not actual physical injury occurred [see Fam. Code § 4324; Penal Code § 664].

For a complete discussion of spousal support orders, see Ch. 225, Dissolution of Marriage: Spousal Support .

[b] Award of Attorney's Fees and Costs

As of January 1, 1996, when a spouse who is the subject of a murder attempt is entitled to a remedy under Fam. Code § 4324 (see § 222.77[2][a]), that spouse is also entitled to an award of reasonable attorney's fees and costs as a sanction, after notice to the other party and an opportunity for that party to be heard [Fam. Code § 274(a), (b); see Fam. Code § 4324 (defining "injured spouse")]. An award of attorney's fees and costs under the above provision is payable only from the property or income of the party against whom the sanction is imposed, except that the award may be against the sanctioned party's share of the community property. In seeking the fees and cost award, the moving party is not required to demonstrate any financial need [Fam. Code § 274(c)].

For a complete discussion of court orders for attorney's fees and costs, see Ch. 226, Dissolution of Marriage: Attorney's Fees .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationRetirement BenefitsPensionsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionFactorsMisconductFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportSpousal SupportGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. General Division And Valuation Principles
3. Equal Division Exceptions And Related Division Alternatives

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 222.78-222.89

[Reserved]

§§ 222.78[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Division and Valuation of Real Property
1. Division Principles

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.90

§ 222.90 Out-of-State Real Property

[1] Court Lacks Authority to Affect Title

A California court lacks jurisdiction to enter a judgment that directly affects a title or interest in real property in another state, even if the court has personal jurisdiction over both spouses in a family law proceeding [Rozan v. Rozan (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 322, 330, 317 P.2d 11 ; In re Marriage of Economou (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1466, 1479-1482, 274 Cal. Rptr. 473 ; see § 222.53[2][b]].

However, if the court has both parties before it, the court may determine and declare the parties' interests in out-of-state property and enter orders requiring the parties to execute conveyances in compliance with the court's determination [see Fam. Code § 2660; Rozan v. Rozan (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 322, 330, 317 P.2d 11 ; In re Marriage of Economou (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 1466, 1479-1482, 274 Cal. Rptr. 473 ; In re Marriage of Ben-Yehoshua (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 259, 269, 154 Cal. Rptr. 80] .

[2] Preferred Division Method

Except as provided in Fam. Code § 2660(b) (§ 222.90[3]), if the property subject to division includes real property situated in another state, the court must, if possible, divide the community and quasi-community property as provided for in the Family Code in such a manner that it is not necessary to change the nature of the interests held in that out-of-state real property [Fam. Code § 2660(a); see In re Marriage of Valle (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 837, 839-840, 126 Cal. Rptr. 38] . The foregoing reference to not changing "the nature of the interests held" pertains to the manner in which record title is held [In re Marriage of Fink (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 877, 884, 160 Cal. Rptr. 516, 603 P.2d 881] .

[3] Alternative Division Methods

If it is not possible to divide the property in the manner set forth in Fam. Code § 2660(a) (§ 222.90[2]), a court may do any of the following in order to effect a division of the property [Fam. Code § 2660(b)]:

(1) Require the parties to execute conveyances or take other actions with respect to the out-of-state real property as are necessary; or

(2) Award to the party who would have been benefited by the conveyances or other actions the money value of the interest in the property that would have been received if the conveyances had been executed or other actions taken.

For discussion of a trial court's authority, at the request of either party, to divide separate property regardless of where it is located [Fam. Code § 2650], see § 222.30 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJurisdictionPersonal Jurisdiction & In Rem ActionsIn Rem ActionsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral OverviewReal Property LawTitle QualityGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Division and Valuation of Real Property
1. Division Principles

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.91

§ 222.91 Apportioning Community and Separate Interests

[1] General Concept of Apportionment

Apportionment typically involves a calculation of the percentage of community and separate interests, respectively, in the entire property. Unless the property is clearly of one character alone, a court usually will first characterize it as being primarily separate or community property and then evaluate any additional interests by applying one of the apportionment methods developed in case law.

A court also may find that the property is of a single character, but that contributions to its acquisition or improvement must be reimbursed to separate or community property. Thus, for example, if the court determines that separate property reimbursement is appropriate for contributions to the acquisition of community realty, it will determine the reimbursement amount under Fam. Code § 2640, as discussed in § 222.260 et seq., if this statute otherwise applies [see In re Marriage of Walrath (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 907, 918, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 856, 952 P.2d 1124 ; for discussion, see Ch. 122, Community Property].

[2] Application of Apportionment Methods to Family Home

[a] Home Acquired Before Marriage in Separate Title--Effect of Community Contributions to Acquisition

A spouse may have acquired a home in separate title before marriage, making it a separate property acquisition [see Fam. Code §§ 760, 770(a)], and may have made no title changes after marriage. If the parties to the current marriage make community contributions to the home's acquisition that are not gifts to separate property, an apportionment of separate and community interests will be needed. In general, the community will acquire a pro tanto interest in the home in the ratio that the principal payments on the purchase price made with community funds bear to the payments made with separate funds [see In re Marriage of Moore (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 366, 372-374, 168 Cal. Rptr. 662, 618 P.2d 208 ; In re Marriage of Frick (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 997, 1007-1008, 226 Cal. Rptr. 766 ; In re Marriage of Marsden (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 426, 436-439, 181 Cal. Rptr. 910] . The community will also acquire a "pro tanto" interest in that manner if the parties use community loan proceeds to make such payments, because there is no discernible difference between using community funds and loan proceeds for this purpose [Branco v. Branco (In re Branco) (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 1621, 1629, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 493] . Any appreciation of the property must be valued and divided correspondingly [see In re Marriage of Moore (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 366, 372-374, 168 Cal. Rptr. 662, 618 P.2d 208 ; Branco v. Branco (In re Branco) (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 1621, 1629, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 493 ; In re Marriage of Frick (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 997, 1007-1008, 226 Cal. Rptr. 766 ; In re Marriage of Marsden (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 426, 436-439, 181 Cal. Rptr. 910] .

In general, the formula expressed in In re Marriage of Moore [In re Marriage of Moore (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 366, 373-374, 168 Cal. Rptr. 662, 618 P.2d 208] , as modified by that set forth in In re Marriage of Marsden [In re Marriage of Marsden (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 426, 436-440, 181 Cal. Rptr. 910] , will be used to compute the respective interests if community contributions have been made to the acquisition of a spouse's premarital home [see In re Marriage of Frick (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 997, 1008, 226 Cal. Rptr. 766] .

Under this formula, when the down payment was made with separate funds and the loan was based on separate property, the separate and community property percentage interests are first determined. The separate property percentage interest is determined by crediting the separate property with the down payment and full amount of the loan on the property less the amount by which the community property payments reduced the principal balance of the loan. This sum is divided by the purchase price. The resulting figure is the separate property percentage share. The community property percentage share is determined by dividing the amount in which community property payments reduced the principal by the purchase price. The separate property interest as valued at the end of marriage is determined by adding all the prenuptial appreciation, the amount of capital appreciation during marriage attributable to the separate funds (determined by multiplying the capital appreciation during marriage by the separate property percentage interest), and the amount of equity paid by separate funds. The community property share in the value of the property is determined by adding the amount of capital appreciation during marriage attributable to community funds to the equity paid by community funds [see In re Marriage of Frick (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 997, 1008, 226 Cal. Rptr. 766] . For a differing approach in the case of community improvements to a spouse's separate home, see § 222.91[2][d] [Bono v. Clark (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 1409,1426-1427, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 31] .

The source and amount of funds paid for interest on a purchase money loan, and for taxes and insurance, are not considered in computing the separate and community interests, because such expenditures do not increase the equity value of the property; that is, they do not "contribute to capital investment" [In re Marriage of Moore (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 366, 372-373, 168 Cal. Rptr. 662, 618 P.2d 208 ; In re Marriage of Marsden (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 426, 438, 181 Cal. Rptr. 910 ; see In re Marriage of Frick (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 997, 1013, 226 Cal. Rptr. 766] .

Community improvements to a spouse's separate home are discussed in § 222.91[2][d].

[b] Premarital Home Converted to Joint Title During Marriage

A spouse may have acquired a home in separate title before marriage, but converted the title to joint form during marriage. A home converted to joint title is presumed to be a community asset for the purpose of its division on dissolution or legal separation under a statutory presumption concerning property acquired during marriage in certain joint title forms, unless the presumption is rebutted [Fam. Code §§ 2580, 2581; In re Marriage of Bankovich (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 49, 54-56, 249 Cal. Rptr. 713 ; see Ch. 122, Community Property].

If this community presumption [Fam. Code §§ 2580, 2581] is not rebutted, then the spouse who originally held separate title may obtain reimbursement under Fam. Code § 2640(b) for his or her traceable separate property contributions to the property's acquisition, unless he or she has made a written waiver of the right to reimbursement or signed a writing that has the effect of a waiver, assuming this section applies. "Contributions to the acquisition of property" are defined by Fam. Code § 2640(a) and are discussed more fully in § 222.302[1] et seq.

When Fam. Code § 2640(b) applies, generally with respect to property acquired on or after January 1, 1984 [see In re Marriage of Heikes (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 1211, 1225, 44 Cal. Rptr. 2d 155, 899 P.2d 1349 ; In re Marriage of Bankovich (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 49, 54-56, 249 Cal. Rptr. 713] , the measure of separate property reimbursement is the value of the separate property equity in the home at the time of its conversion to joint form without enhancement for interest or appreciation [see In re Marriage of Perkal (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1198, 1202, 250 Cal. Rptr. 296] .

Moreover, if, prior to conversion to joint form, nongift community contributions were made to the home's acquisition, the community would acquire a pro tanto interest in the separate property up to the time of conversion, using the Moore/Marsden formula. This pro tanto interest must be taken into account in computing the amount of the separate property reimbursement permitted under Fam. Code § 2640. For discussion of computing separate and community interests in premarital property held in one spouse's name alone (which would apply to preconversion property), see § 222.91[2][a] [In re Marriage of Kahan (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 63, 72, 219 Cal. Rptr. 700 ; In re Marriage of Neal (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 117, 124, 124 n.11, 200 Cal. Rptr. 341 (disapproved on other grounds in In re Marriage of Buol (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 751, 763 n.10, 218 Cal. Rptr. 31, 705 P.2d 354 , and In re Marriage of Fabian (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 440, 451 n.13, 224 Cal. Rptr. 333, 715 P.2d 253); see In re Marriage of Moore (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 366, 372-374, 168 Cal. Rptr. 662, 618 P.2d 208 ; In re Marriage of Marsden (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 426, 436-440, 181 Cal. Rptr. 910] .

Similarly, if both spouses have separate property interests in the property whenit is converted during marriage to joint title, such as by purchasing the property as tenants in common before marriage, the same reimbursement concept [see Fam. Code § 2640] would apply on marital dissolution when the joint form-community presumption [see Fam. Code §§ 2580, 2581] is not rebutted. The proper measure of reimbursement for each party is the fair value of his or her separate property interest at the time of conversion, less encumbrances and non-gift community property contributions to principal before conversion. However, before valuing each party's separate interest at the time of conversion, it is necessary to determine the extent of each party's preconversion separate interest, because the parties' respective interests might not be equal. If the spouses each contribute separate funds before marriage to purchase real property as tenants in common and make mortgage payments during marriage with community funds prior to its conversion to joint title form, the Moore-Marsden rule [In re Marriage of Moore (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 366, 373-374, 168 Cal. Rptr. 662, 618 P.2d 208 , as modified by In re Marriage of Marsden (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 426, 181 Cal. Rptr. 910] should be used to apportion the spouses' separate and community interests on dissolution, just as if the property were the separate property of only one spouse and payments were made after marriage with community funds [see In re Marriage of Rico (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 706, 708, 710, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 659] .

In the situation in which only one spouse had a separate property interest, if the current joint form-community property presumption [see Fam. Code §§ 2580, 2581] is rebutted, so that the premarital property remained separate property, the Moore/Marsden formula also generally would be used to apportion the various interests in the property when non-gift community contributions were made to its acquisition [see In re Marriage of Kahan (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 63, 72, 219 Cal. Rptr. 700 ; see also In re Marriage of Moore (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 366, 372-374, 168 Cal. Rptr. 662, 618 P.2d 208 ; In re Marriage of Marsden (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 426, 436-440, 181 Cal. Rptr. 910] . Additionally, it appears that this apportionment method would be used when the "joint tenancy residence-community property" presumption of prior law applies and is rebutted, assuming that non-gift community contributions were made to help acquire the property [see former Civ. Code § 5110; see also In re Marriage of Hilke (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 215, 222-224, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 371, 841 P.2d 891 ; In re Marriage of Lucas (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 808, 814-816, 166 Cal. Rptr. 853, 614 P.2d 285 ; In re Marriage of Benart (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 183, 190, 206 Cal. Rptr. 495 (disapproved on other grounds in In re Marriage of Buol (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 751, 763 n.10, 218 Cal. Rptr. 31, 705 P.2d 354 and In re Marriage of Fabian (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 440, 451 n.13, 224 Cal. Rptr. 333, 715 P.2d 253); In re Marriage of Frick (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 997, 1007-1008, 226 Cal. Rptr. 766] .

Although it appears that a conversion of title after marriage constitutes an "acquisition during marriage" for the purpose of raising the statutory presumptions relating to joint title, this issue has not been definitively resolved with respect to the "joint tenancy residence-community property" presumption of prior law [former Civ. Code § 5110], at least when the joint tenancy was taken for survivorship purposes only [see In re Marriage of Scherr (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 314, 317-319, 222 Cal. Rptr. 872 (community presumption raised by conversion to joint tenancy was rebutted in any event by parties' agreement, subject to pro tanto community interest)]. The circumstances under which prior law applies are discussed in Ch. 122, Community Property . A contrasting use of the term "acquired during marriage" is explained hereafter.

[c] Home Acquired During Marriage

[i] "Acquired During Marriage" Defined

In apportioning interests in a family home acquired during marriage, the term "acquisition" is often used in the sense of a simultaneous purchase (or other means of transfer) and obtaining of title to the property. However, "acquisition" also may be used to refer solely to the date on which a change in title took place, such as when a spouse's premarital home is converted from sole title to a form of joint title during marriage. Acquisition of a community interest during marriage as a result of a change in premarital title is discussed in § 222.91[2][b].

In the discussion that follows, "acquisition" refers to an original purchase by, or other transfer of the home to, one or both spouses during marriage, and an attendant transfer of title at the same time. For a general discussion of the time of acquisition, see Ch. 122, Community Property .

[ii] Effect of Separate Down Payment on Community Acquisition

Spouses may have acquired a home during marriage with a separate property down payment and community payments on a purchase money loan that was secured by the property and obtained on the basis of community credit. While these factors are important in ascertaining interests in the home, they will not be determinative of characterization if a more specific factor, such as a statutory title presumption, applies. Thus, counsel should examine the form of title to determine if any special presumption arises from the title.

If title was taken by the spouses during marriage in one of the joint forms specified by Fam. Code § 2581 and this statute applies, or if prior law applies but the home is a single-family residence with title in joint tenancy (or title as "husband and wife"), the home will be rebuttably presumed community property on dissolution or legal separation [see Fam. Code §§ 2580, 2581; former Civ. Code § 5110; In re Marriage of Lucas (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 808, 814, 166 Cal. Rptr. 853, 614 P.2d 285] .

When the current "joint form-community property" presumption [Fam. Code § 2581] applies and is not rebutted, the property will be found to be communityproperty. However, traceable separate property contributions to its acquisition must be reimbursed pursuant to Fam. Code § 2640, if that statute also applies, and no waiver of the reimbursement right was made [see § 222.302[2][c] for discussion of characterization and tracing, see Ch. 122, Community Property]. If, however, the "joint form-community property" presumption is rebutted by written evidence that a separate interest in the home was to be maintained, the community is ordinarily entitled to an apportioned interest in the home for nongift community contributions to its acquisition [cf. In re Marriage of Lucas (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 808, 816, 166 Cal. Rptr. 853, 614 P.2d 285 (applying apportionment formula of In re Marriage of Aufmuth (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 446, 456-457, 152 Cal. Rptr. 668)]. Any written agreement entered into by the parties that rebuts the Fam. Code § 2581 presumption must be scrutinized to determine if the parties intended some other allocation of interests, such as an agreement that the entire property be separate property [see Fam. Code § 2581 (providing for rebuttal of community presumption by written agreement or statement in deed); see also Fam. Code § 850 et seq. (transmutation of interests)].

By contrast, if the "joint tenancy residence-community property" presumption of prior law [former Civ. Code § 5110] applies and is not rebutted, the home will be found to be community property, and no separate reimbursement is required absent an agreement or understanding to the contrary [In re Marriage of Lucas (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 808, 816, 166 Cal. Rptr. 853, 614 P.2d 285 ; see In re Marriage of Bankovich (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 49, 54-56, 249 Cal. Rptr. 713] . However, if that presumption is rebutted, so that one party is found to have preserved a separate interest, the community ordinarily will be allowed an apportioned interest in the home to account for nongift community contributions to its acquisition [see In re Marriage of Lucas (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 808, 816, 166 Cal. Rptr. 853, 614 P.2d 285 (applying apportionment formula of In re Marriage of Aufmuth (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 446, 456-457, 152 Cal. Rptr. 668)]. On the rebuttal of the community presumption by a sufficient evidentiary showing of an intent to preserve a separate interest, the community and separate interests in the property have been apportioned as percentages of the whole. Under the Aufmuth formula, a spouse who made a separate down payment is given a separate property interest in the property in the proportion that the down payment bears to the purchase price; the community acquires that percentage of the residence that the community loan bears to the purchase price. As explained in In re Marriage of Lucas [In re Marriage of Lucas (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 808, 816 n.3, 166 Cal. Rptr. 853, 614 P.2d 285 (applying apportionment formula of In re Marriage of Aufmuth (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 446, 456-457, 152 Cal. Rptr. 668)], the value of those interests is computed by:

(1) Determining the amount of capital appreciation, which is computed by subtracting the purchase price from the property's fair market value;

(2) The separate property interest would be determined by adding the amount of capital appreciation attributable to separate funds to the amount of equity paid by separate funds; and

(3) The community interest would be the amount of capital appreciation attributable to community funds plus the amount of equity paid by community funds; the amount of equity paid by community funds is represented by the amount by which the principal balance on the loan has been reduced.

For discussion of a special apportionment rule for separate property interests when a court has made a "deferred sale of home order," see §§ 222.302[1] and [2][e].

[iii] Effect of Community Contributions to Separate Acquisition

A spouse may have acquired a family home during marriage under circumstances that ordinarily confer separate property ownership, such as, for example, by obtaining a purchase money loan on the basis of separate credit alone and using separate funds for a down payment [see In re Marriage of Mix (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 604, 610, 122 Cal. Rptr. 79, 536 P.2d 479] . When community funds are then used to make monthly loan payments, the issue arises whether the community has obtained an interest.

In general, when community funds (or community loan proceeds) are applied during marriage towards the acquisition of a spouse's separate home, the community will acquire a pro tanto interest in the home in the ratio that the payments on the purchase price made with community funds bear to the part paid with separate funds, unless the community contributions were intended as a gift [see Branco v. Branco (In re Branco) (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 1621, 1629, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 493 ; In re Marriage of Broderick (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 489, 502, 257 Cal. Rptr. 397 (pro tanto formula of In re Marriage of Moore applied, given that parties failed to raise gift issue); In re Marriage of Gowdy (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 1228, 1234, 224 Cal. Rptr. 400 ; In re Marriage of Stoner (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 858, 864, 195 Cal. Rptr. 351 (reliance on community credit and use of community funds ordinarily would result in pro tanto community interest, but execution of quitclaim deed transmuted interest, and permissive use of community funds was gift); but see In re Marriage of Camire (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 859, 866-867, 164 Cal. Rptr. 667 (community not entitled to interest in home given to wife during marriage despite use of community funds to reduce encumbrance, given that rule denying apportionment or reimbursement for community contribution to wife's separate property has not been overruled); see also In re Marriage of Nelson (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 1546, 1557, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 52 (community payments on home equity loan secured by one spouse's separate property do not confer interest in this property on community because home equity loan was not substituted in whole or in part for purchase money loan)].

On dissolution, the separate property percentage interest in the property, like the community's percentage interest, is determined relative to the original purchase price. The separate property interest is the ratio (in percentage terms) of the separate property owner's contribution to the payment of this price--including separate property loans--over the price itself. The community's interest is the ratio (in percentage terms) of what is effectively the community's contribution to the payment of this price--that is, the extent to which community funds have reduced the balance owed on the separate property loans used to purchase the property--over the price itself [In re Marriage of Nelson (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 1546, 1557, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 52] .

The rental value of the property should not be an item of credit to the spouse who owns the property when calculating the reimbursement to the community for its contribution to the property's equity value. Only those community funds that increase the property's equity should be considered in dividing the property on dissolution. By implication, just as the equity in real property is not influenced by finance charges, it is also not influenced by the use or occupancy of the property [In re Marriage of Nelson (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 1546, 1555, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 52] .

For a detailed discussion of apportionment and reimbursement issues, see Gray & Wagner, Complex Issues in California Family Law, Vol. E: Equitable Remedies--Moore-Marsden and Beyond (Matthew Bender).

Some courts have distinguished the making of improvements to separate property using community funds, from using these funds for acquisition, as discussed in § 222.91[2][d].

[d] Community Improvements to Separate Home

Improvements made from community property to one spouse's separate property home have posed special characterization and apportionment problems. When husbands had sole management and control of community property (before January 1, 1975), the rule developed that a husband's use of community funds during marriage to improve his wife's separate property should be presumed a gift, but his use of community funds to improve his own separate property entitled the community to reimbursement unless the wife consented to this use [see In re Marriage of Jafeman (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 244, 256, 105 Cal. Rptr. 483 ; see also In re Marriage of Allen (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 497, 502, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 887] . When community reimbursement was proper, it was measured either by the increased value of the property or the amount expended, whichever was greater [see In re Marriage of Frick (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 997, 1019, 226 Cal. Rptr. 766] .

One appellate court applied these rules to community funds used both for acquisition and improvement, reasoning that despite the enactment of statutes conferring equal management and control, the traditional rule that denies either apportionment or reimbursement for community contributions to a wife's separate property had not been overruled [see In re Marriage of Camire (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 859, 867, 164 Cal. Rptr. 667 ; see also In re Marriage of Allen (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 497, 503-504, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 887 (discussing and disagreeing with Camire and Frick); In re Marriage of Gowdy (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 1228, 1232, 224 Cal. Rptr. 400 (discussing Camire holding)].

Later decisions, however, have not followed this analysis [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Gowdy (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 1228, 1232, 1234, 224 Cal. Rptr. 400 (Camire holding contradicts pro tanto interest rule followed in In re Marriage of Moore regarding use of community funds to reduce encumbrance)]. At least one appellate court has concluded that the effect of enacting "equal management and control" statutes was to place each spouse in the husband's pre-1975 position [see former Civ. Code §§ 5125, 5127; Fam. Code §§ 1100, 1102]. Thus, if one spouse uses community funds to improve his or her own separate property without the other spouse's consent, the community should be reimbursed. This is premised on the concept that if one spouse acts in his or her self-interest to the detriment of the community interest, the community is entitled to restitution [see In re Marriage of Frick (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 997, 1019, 226 Cal. Rptr.

766] .

If a spouse expends community funds for the improvement of the other spouse's separate property, the preexisting rule has been to presume that the spouse had made a gift of community funds and the community was not entitled to reimbursement for the expenditures [In re Marriage of Camire (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 859, 866, 164 Cal. Rptr. 667] . However, at least one reported decision has rejected the gift presumption as "outside the mainstream of community property principles applied in other American jurisdictions" [In re Marriage of Wolfe (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 962, 969] . Therefore, in that court's view, a gift is no longer presumed even if community funds are used by one spouse to improve the other spouse's separate property [In re Marriage of Wolfe (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 962, 110 Cal. Rptr. 2d 921 (husband was ordered to reimburse community for half of amount paid to install irrigation system on his separate property, but was not liable to reimburse community for funds used to pay property taxes on his personal property)]. Similarly, another appellate court upheld the right of a community to reimbursement when a wife used community funds to make improvements to her husband's separate property [In re Marriage of Allen (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 497, 501, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 887 ; In re Marriage of Wolfe (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 962, 972, 110 Cal. Rptr. 2d 921] . That court indicated that when community funds are used to make capital improvements to a spouse's separate real property, the community is entitled to reimbursement or a pro tanto interest under the Moore/Marsden rule (see § 222.91[2][a][i]), both because its rationale applies equally to the reduction of an encumbrance and to capital improvements, and because the legal underpinnings of the older "gift presumption" rule have been destroyed by intervening changes in family law [In re Marriage of Allen (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 497, 501, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 887 ; see Dunn v. Mullan (1931) 211 Cal. 583, 590, 296 P. 604 (presumption that if husband expended community funds for benefit of wife's separate property he intended, absent evidence of contrary intent, improvements or benefits as gift)].

More recently, Bono v. Clark (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 1409, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 31 also rejected the gift presumption when community funds are used to improve a spouse's separate property, and held that (1) if improvements do not enhance the property's value, the other spouse's recovery will be limited to reimbursement of one-half of the community funds spent on improvements [Bono v. Clark (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 1409, 1425, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 31 , citing In re Marriage of Wolfe (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 962, 972] , and (2) if improvements contribute to an increase in the property's equity value, the community is entitled to a pro tanto interest in the property [Bono v. Clark (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 1409, 1425, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 31 , citing In re Marriage of Allen (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 497, 502, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 887] . However, Bono departed from the traditional Moore/Marsden calculation of a pro tanto interest in three ways: (1) instead of apportioning equity appreciation to the community from the time the marriage begins, the right of the community to share in the property's appreciation begins only at the time of funding of improvements, (2) premarital/preimprovement equity appreciation is credited to the separate property interest, and (3) the community's share of property appreciation ends as of the date of separation [Bono v. Clark (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 1409, 1426-1427, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 31] .

If separate funds are used to improve a community home, Fam. Code § 2640, to the extent it applies, permits reimbursement on dissolution or legal separation (see § 222.260 et seq.). Also, any purported transmutation of property must be evaluated under applicable statutes and case law [see Fam. Code § 850 et seq.].

[3] Related Division and Valuation Issues

In addition to apportioning the parties' interests in the property, the court will rule on the method by which those apportioned interests are to be satisfied. Generally, this entails a determination of whether the property should be divided in kind, typically through a sale and division of the proceeds (deferred or not), whether one party may effect a "cash out" of the other's interest, or whether, when an award of the entire home to one party is appropriate under the "single asset proviso," a promissory note to equalize the division is appropriate [see Fam. Code §§ 2550, 2552, 2600 et seq.; In re Marriage of Slater (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 241, 247-249, 160 Cal. Rptr. 686 ; In re Marriage of Herrmann (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 361, 366-367, 148 Cal. Rptr. 550] . For discussion of a special apportionment rule for separate property interests when a court has made a "deferred sale of home order," see § 222.302[1] and [2][e].

At the outset of the proceedings, counsel will not necessarily know the home's value or the division method that will be ultimately ordered. Therefore, counsel should anticipate the need for, and plan on presenting evidence of value. For discussion of a court's jurisdiction to determine division methods, see § 222.53[5][a] et seq. Valuation of real property is discussed in § 222.92[2].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationCommunity PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationSeparate PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationTracingFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Division and Valuation of Real Property
1. Division Principles

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.92

§ 222.92 Deferred Sale of Home Orders

[1] Statutory Requirements--Authority and Definition

Apart from its authority to award a family home or other single asset to a spouse "when economic circumstances" warrant [see Fam. Code § 2601], a trial court is authorized by statute to defer sale and to award the temporary use of the home to a custodial parent under the circumstances described below [see Fam. Code § 3800 et seq.; see also former Civ. Code §§ 4700.10, 4800.7]. Pursuant to statute, a "deferred sale of home order" is an order that temporarily delays the sale and awards the temporary exclusive use and possession of the family home to a custodial parent of a minor child [see Fam. Code § 3800(a)] or child for whom support is authorized under Fam. Code §§ 3900 and 3901, or 3910, whether or not the custodial parent has sole or joint custody, in order to minimize the adverse impact of dissolution or legal separation on the child's welfare [Fam. Code § 3800(b)]. The order is considered a form of child support, though not expressly stated to be as such by statute [see In re Marriage of Braud (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 797, 813, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 179] .

For discussion of a special apportionment rule for separate property interests when a court has made a "deferred sale of home order," see § 222.302[1] and [2][e].

[2] Determination of Economic Feasibility

If one of the parties requests a deferred sale of home order [see Fam. Code § 3800 et seq.], the court must first determine whether it is economically feasible to maintain the following: (1) payments of any note secured by a trust deed; (2) property taxes; (3) insurance for the home during the deferred sale period; and (4) the condition of the home comparable to that at the time of trial. In making this determination, the court must consider the resident parent's [see Fam. Code § 3800(c) (defining "resident parent")] income, the availability of child or spousal support (or both), and any other sources of funds available to make the payments [Fam. Code § 3801(a), (b)].

In requiring this determination of economic feasibility, the Legislature's intent is (1) to avoid the likelihood of possible defaults on the payments of notes and resulting foreclosures, (2) to avoid inadequate insurance coverage, (3) to prevent deterioration of the condition of the family home, and (4) to prevent any other circumstance that would jeopardize both parents' equity in the home [Fam. Code § 3801(c)].

[a] Considerations in Granting or Denying Order

[i] Statutory Factors Summarized

After determining that it is economically feasible to consider ordering a deferred sale of the family home, the court may grant a deferred sale if it determines that the order is necessary to minimize the adverse impact of the parties' marital dissolution or legal separation on the child [Fam. Code § 3802(a)]. In exercising its discretion to grant or deny a deferred sale of home order, the court must consider all of the following [Fam. Code § 3802(b)]:

(1) The length of time the child has resided in the home;

(2) The child's placement or grade in school;

(3) The accessibility and convenience of the home to the child's school and other services or facilities used by and available to the child, including child care;

(4) Whether or not the home has been adapted or modified to accommodate any physical disabilities of a child or a resident parent in a manner such that a change in residence may adversely affect the ability of the resident parent to meet the child's needs;

(5) The emotional detriment to the child associated with a change in residence;

(6) The extent to which the location of the home permits the resident parent to continue his or her employment;

(7) The financial ability of each parent to obtain suitable housing;

(8) The tax consequences to the parents;

(9) The economic detriment to the nonresident parent in the event of a deferred sale of home order; and

(10) Any other factors the court deems just and equitable.

[ii] Effect of Separate Ownership Interest in Home

In providing for deferred sale orders, the Family Code neither defines the term "family home" nor expressly limits such orders only with respect to homes that are the community property of the parties [see Fam. Code § 3800 et seq.; In re Marriage of Braud (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 797, 809-812] . One appellate court has held that a deferred sale order may be made with respect to a home in which the nonresident parent has a separate property interest, and has suggested that such an order could be made even as to a home that the nonresident parent owns fully as separate property. In this court's view, the Family Code authorizes deferred sale orders that impinge on separate property interests of nonresident parents who are also child support obligors, at least (1) when the trial court determines that the deferral order is "economically feasible" and "necessary in order to minimize the adverse impace of dissolution of marriage or legal separation of the parties on the child" and that (2) subjecting the separate property interest of the nonresident spouse to the deferral order would be "just." The court must exercise its considerable discretion in determining whether to make the order, and consider all the factors set forth in § 222.92[2][a][i], particularly those involving the financial ability of each parent to obtain suitable housing, the economic detriment to the nonresident parent if the order is granted, and "any other factors the court deems just and equitable" [see Fam. Code § 3802; In re Marriage of Braud (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 797, 812-813, 813 n.15, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 179] .

[b] Contents and Recording of Order

A deferred sale of home order must state the duration of the order and may include the legal description and assessor's parcel number of the real property that is subject to the order [Fam. Code § 3803]. In addition, the court may make an order specifying the parties' respective responsibilities for the payment of costs of routine maintenance and capital improvements [Fam. Code § 3806]. For a form of deferred sale order, see § 222.360.

A deferred sale order may be recorded in the office of the county recorder in the county where the property is located [Fam. Code § 3804].

[c] Modification or Termination

[i] Court's Discretion

Except as otherwise agreed by the parties in writing, a deferred sale of home order may be modified or terminated at any time at the court's discretion [Fam. Code § 3807].

[ii] Rebuttable Presumption for Termination

Except as otherwise agreed by the parties in writing, if the party awarded the order remarries, or if there is otherwise a change of circumstances affecting the determinations made pursuant to Fam. Code § 3801 or 3802, or affecting the economic status of the parties or the children on which the award is based, a rebuttable presumption, affecting the burden of proof, is created that further deferral of the sale is no longer an equitable method of minimizing the adverse impact of the dissolution or legal separation on the children [Fam. Code § 3808].

Whether a sufficient "change of circumstances" has occurred in order to terminate the order is a question of fact for the trial court. Economic circumstances are considered a key factor, in this regard. For example, nonmarital cohabitation on a part-time, or even full-time, basis by the resident parent and another person may, but need not necessarily, constitute a change of circumstances that warrants termination of a deferred sale order. It is only when the cohabitation constitutes "a change in circumstances affecting the determinations made pursuant to [Family Code] Section 3801 or 3802 or affecting the economic circumstances of the parties or the children on which the award is based" that the trial court should reconsider its deferred sale order. The amount of support being provided by the nonmarital cohabitant of the resident parent must be examined, in this regard [see In re Marriage of Braud (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 797, 812-813, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 179 n,15].

For a related discussion of the effect of income provided by a subsequent spouse or nonmarital partner on the payment of child or spousal support (so-called "new mate" income), see Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support and Ch. 225, Dissolution of Marriage: Spousal Support .

[d] Reservation of Jurisdiction

In making a deferred sale of home order pursuant to Fam. Code § 3800 et seq., the court must reserve jurisdiction to determine any issues that arise with respect to the order including, but not limited to, the maintenance of the home and the tax consequences to each party [Fam. Code § 3809; cf. In re Marriage of Schenck (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1474, 279 Cal. Rptr. 651 (reservation of jurisdiction over deferred sale gave family law department priority over law and motion department, which properly denied wife's application for order to sell home for enforcement of support orders)].

[3] Family Home Awards Under Prior Case Law

Cases decided before the enactment of the current statutes governing deferred sale orders recognized the delayed division of the community residence as an acceptable method of dividing the community estate under certain circumstances [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Stallworth (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 742, 746-750, 237 Cal. Rptr. 829 (decided after enactment of former Civ. Code § 4800.7, the predecessor of former Civ. Code § 4700.10); In re Marriage of Duke (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 152, 155-159, 161 Cal. Rptr. 444 ; In re Marriage of Herrmann (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 361, 365-366, 148 Cal. Rptr. 550 (delayed division of family home until parties' youngest child reached majority); In re Marriage of Boseman (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 372, 375-378, 107 Cal. Rptr. 232 ; see Fam. Code § 2601]. After the seminal case of In re Marriage of Duke (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 152, 155-159, 161 Cal. Rptr. 444 , orders deferring sale of the home became known as "Duke" orders, and courts granted them on the basis of the parties' economic circumstances, coupled with consideration of the needs of their children.

Many of the considerations developed in appellate court decisions regarding delayed division of a family residence have been incorporated in Fam. Code § 3800 et seq. [see, e.g., Fam. Code § 3802 (factors for court's consideration in exercising discretion)]. To the extent that they do not conflict with the statutory requirements, these cases still provide guidance concerning the court's exercise of its discretion to order a deferred sale of the family home [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Stallworth (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 742, 749, 237 Cal. Rptr. 829 (decided after enactment of former Civ. Code § 4800.7, the predecessor to former Civ. Code § 4700.10)].

[4] Awards Under Prior Statutory Law

The current statutory authorization for deferred sale orders under the Family Code [see Fam. Code § 3800 et seq.] continued the substance of former Civ. Code § 4700.10. That statute was itself preceded by former Civ. Code § 4800.7, operative from January 1, 1985 through December 31, 1988, which provided in part that, except as the parties otherwise agreed in writing, a "family home award" to the party having custody of the minor children could be modified or terminated at any time at the discretion of the court [former Civ. Code § 4800.7(b)(1); see In re Marriage of Howard (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1, 7, 228 Cal. Rptr. 813] . "Family home award" was defined as an order that awards temporary use of the family home to the party having custody of minor children and children for whom support is authorized under (now) former Civ. Code § 206 (adult indigent children) in order to minimize the adverse impact of dissolution or legal separation on the welfare of the children [former Civ. Code § 4800.7(a)].

Furthermore, except as the parties otherwise agreed in writing, former Civ. Code § 4800.7 created a rebuttable presumption, similar to the provision in Fam. Code § 3808, concerning termination of the need for further delay in the sale [former Civ. Code § 4800.7(b)(2)]. These prior provisions applied regardless of whether the family home award was made before or after January 1, 1985 [former Civ. Code § 4800.7(c)], but courts found limits to their retroactivity [see In re Marriage of Guthrie (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 654, 660-664, 236 Cal. Rptr. 583 (retroactive application to modify or terminate stipulated family home award was unconstitutional impairment of contractual rights, at least when stipulation was made as integral part of stipulated property division and was not intended as additional child support); but see In re Marriage of Howard (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1, 6-8, 228 Cal. Rptr. 813 (retroactive application upheld, when award was clearly intended as additional child support; as additional support, award was modifiable even without express reservation of jurisdiction)].

Former Civ. Code § 4800.7 was repealed operative January 1, 1989 [see Stats. 1988, ch. 729, § 2]. It was superseded by (now) former Civ. Code § 4700.10, the predecessor to the current statutes under the Family Code. Former Civ. Code § 4700.10 was expressly applicable regardless of whether the deferred sale of home order was made before or after January 1, 1989 [former Civ. Code § 4700.10(g)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceJurisdictionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionPresumptionsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Division and Valuation of Real Property
1. Division Principles

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 222.93-222.109

[Reserved]

§§ 222.93[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Division and Valuation of Real Property
2. Special Valuation Considerations

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.110

§ 222.110 Value Defined

The value of real property normally is its market value; that is, the highest price estimated in terms of money that the property would bring if exposed for sale in the open market, with reasonable time allowed in which to find a purchaser buying with knowledge of all the uses and purposes to which it was adapted and for which it is capable [see In re Marriage of Folb (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 862, 868-869, 871, 126 Cal. Rptr. 306 , disapproved on other grounds, In re Marriage of Fonstein (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 738, 749 n.5, 131 Cal. Rptr. 873, 552 P.2d 1169 ; see also Evid. Code § 811 ("value of property" defined)]. In contrast, the value of property for which no relevant, comparable market exists may be determined by any method of valuation that is just and equitable [Evid. Code § 823], except when another rule is provided by statute [see Evid. Code § 810(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationValuationFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Division and Valuation of Real Property
2. Special Valuation Considerations

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.111

§ 222.111 Manner of Establishing Value

[1] Application of Evidence Code Provisions

The market value of real property or any interest in real property must beestablished in accordance with Evid. Code § 810 et seq., except when another rule is provided by statute [Evid. Code § 810]. These provisions also apply to real property, or any interest in real property, and tangible personal property that are valued together as a unit [Evid. Code § 811; but see Sen. Comm. Comments to Evid. Code § 810 (1980) (when valuation standard other than market value used, Evid. Code § 810 et seq. do not apply)].

For discussion of Evid. Code §§ 810 et seq., see Ch. 551, Trial .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationValuationFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Division and Valuation of Real Property
2. Special Valuation Considerations

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.112

§ 222.112 Effect of Commissions and Taxes

[1] Commissions

Deduction of a normal real estate commission from the current market value of real property is not improper in making a finding of its net value when that property is awarded to one of the spouses and evidence is presented that it will have to be sold to pay the community debts awarded to that party [In re Marriage of Drivon (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 896, 898, 105 Cal. Rptr. 124 ; see In re Marriage of Hokanson (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 987, 994, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 699 (real estate commission was taken into account in establishing net or adjusted sales price)]. Conversely, if evidence is lacking that the property is to be sold or refinanced in a relatively short time, costs of sale or refinancing may not be deducted from the property's market value in determining its value [see In re Marriage of Stratton (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 173, 175-176, 119 Cal. Rptr. 924] .

Whether it is proper to deduct a commission may depend on the particular circumstances of the case. For example, one appellate court found that a trial court had properly valued a residence and had not erred in ordering that a real estate commission be deducted from its value and a wife awarded one half of the balance to equitably resolve a dispute over the residence. In that instance, an agreement to buy out the wife's interest in the residence could not be reached and a determination of value of the residence by the parties was not made after months of legal proceedings [In re Marriage of Denny (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 543, 552, 171 Cal. Rptr. 440] .

[2] Taxes

[a] Immediate and Specific Consequences Considered

If a court order dividing the community estate will result in a taxable event, the court must consider the tax consequences. In general, a court must consider only any "immediate and specific" tax consequences that are expected to arise from the division of a particular asset. The court will not consider consequences that are remote or speculative [see In re Marriage of Fonstein (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 738, 747-751, 131 Cal. Rptr. 873, 552 P.2d 1169 ; In re Marriage of Nelson (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 150, 156, 222 Cal. Rptr. 790 ; In re Marriage of Davies (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 851, 857, 192 Cal. Rptr. 212] .

[b] Capital Gains

Because divisions of the community estate between spouses are generally less prone to income taxation than in the past [see I.R.C. § 1041; Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17024.5, 18031], the focus of concern, particularly with respect to the family residence, is primarily on any capital gains tax effect resulting from sale of a particular asset to a third party [see In re Marriage of Harrington (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1847, 1851-1852, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 631 ; In re Marriage of Davies (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 851, 857, 192 Cal. Rptr. 212 ; I.R.C. §§ 1001, 1221; Rev. & Tax. Code § 18031; see also Fam. Code § 3802(b)(8) (consideration of tax consequences to parents in making "deferred sale of home" order)]. This is of less concern with the gain exclusion rules for sales of principal residences [I.R.C. § 121, as discussed in Ch. 227, Dissolution of Marriage: Tax Effects of Dissolution] and the ability of one spouse to tack on the periods the other spouse owned and used the property for purposes of satisfying the statutory exclusion requirements [see I.R.C. § 121(d)(3)]. A related issue involving capital gains may arise if the court awards assets with varying tax bases to the parties, such as, for example, a family home to one party and a block of stock to the other.

In determining the effect of capital gains taxes on the division of a family residence, courts have drawn a distinction between instances in which an equal division of sales proceeds is contemplated and those involving an unequal division. If, for example, the property has been sold during the dissolution proceeding and the sales proceeds equally divided, each party alone will be liable, as between the parties, for payment of any capital gains taxes arising from that party's receipt of a share of the sales proceeds. [See In re Marriage of Harrington (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1847, 1849, 1851-1852, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 631 (decided before Internal Revenue Code amendments that eliminated provisions for "rollover of gain" in former I.R.C. § 1034 and provided for liberal exclusions of gain on sale of principal residence in I.R.C. § 121, as discussed in Ch. 227, Dissolution of Marriage: Tax Effects of Dissolution)]. In In re Marriage of Harrington, a husband used his equal share of sales proceeds to purchase another qualifying residence (thereby deferring tax on all of his gain under former I.R.C. § 1034), but the wife was able to defer tax on only a portion of her gain because the cost of her new residence was less than her share of the proceeds. She alone was held liable for the tax on her portion of the proceeds [In re Marriage of Harrington (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1847, 1849, 1851-1852, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 631] .

In contrast, when an unequal distribution of sales proceeds is ordered to equalize an uneven division of other community assets, each party is responsible for one-half of the capital gains taxes incurred by the sale, regardless of the party's share of the sales proceeds [In re Marriage of Harrington (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1847, 1849, 1852, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 631] , unless the trial court chooses to award toone party all tax liability incurred to further offset the division of other community assets [In re Marriage of Davies (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 851, 857, 192 Cal. Rptr. 212] . If the amount of capital gains taxes is uncertain, the court may provide that the liability incurred, if any, is owed equally by both parties [In re Marriage of Epstein (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 76, 88, 154 Cal. Rptr. 413, 592 P.2d 1165 ; In re Marriage of Davies (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 851, 856, 192 Cal. Rptr. 212] .

Furthermore, when the extent of capital gains taxes is unknown, it ordinarily is not appropriate for a trial court to retain jurisdiction to consider apportionment of tax liabilities when any capital gains taxes become recognized. Reservation of the court's jurisdiction to supervise the payment of taxes and adjust the division of the community estate in consideration of such taxes has been held to be appropriate only in "unusual" cases [In re Marriage of Epstein (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 76, 88, 154 Cal. Rptr. 413, 592 P.2d 1165 ; see In re Marriage of Harrington (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1847, 1849, 1852, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 631 ; In re Marriage of Davies (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 851, 858, 192 Cal. Rptr. 212] .

Accordingly, a trial court is not required to account for the possibility that either spouse may or may not be able to exclude a portion of the gain from the sale of a residence and thereby avoid capital gains tax [see In re Marriage of Harrington (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1847, 1849, 1852, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 631 (trial court could not take into account a spouse's ability to use former I.R.C. § 1034 to roll over gain from the sale of a principal residence); In re Marriage of Davies (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 851, 858, 192 Cal. Rptr. 212 (possibility that either spouse could qualify for deferral of gain recognition from the sale of a principal residence under former I.R.C. § 1034 was not a tax consequence that needed to be considered in achieving an equal division of existent community property)]. For a general discussion of tax effects of dividing the community estate, including the tax treatment of gain on the sale or exchange of a principal residence [see I.R.C. § 121], see Ch. 227, Dissolution of Marriage: Tax Effects of Dissolution .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationValuationFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportTaxationReal Property LawBrokersRight to Commissions

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Division and Valuation of Real Property
2. Special Valuation Considerations

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 222.113-222.129

[Reserved]

§§ 222.113[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222

Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Division And Valuation Of Specific Personal Property
1. Tangible And Intangible Assets In General

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.130

§ 222.130 Bank and Savings Accounts

[1] Characterization in General

Accounts held by spouses in banks, credit unions, savings and loan associations, and other financial institutions generally are subject to the same rules governing characterization as other types of property, though specialized rules, such as those governing tracing and commingling, transmutation, or nonprobate transfers of property [see Ch. 122, Community Property] may have to be applied in a particular case [see Fam. Code §§ 750, 760, 770, 850 et seq.; In re Marriage of Mix (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 604, 611, 122 Cal. Rptr. 79, 536 P.2d 479 (discussing tracing of commingled funds in accounts); Estate of Petersen (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 1742, 1752-1754, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 449 (annuity contracts and money market fund account treated as accounts subject to multiple party account provisions, as well as nonprobate transfer provisions)]. However, because spouses may choose to hold accounts in various forms of common ownership, it may be necessary to apply the law relating to multiple-party accounts, which is discussed in § 222.140[1][a].

Counsel should note that this law appears to control at least in all actions between the spouses and third parties, such as creditors, and on the death of a spouse during marriage [see Prob. Code § 5201(a); Estate of Petersen (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 1742, 1752-1754, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 449 ; see also Estate of Castiglioni (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 367, 383-385, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 288 (construing Prob. Code § 5305 in context of murder of joint tenant-spouse)]. However, it is unclear whether this law was intended to supersede the general community property presumptions that apply for purposes of dividing property on marital dissolution or legal separation, and a definitive interpretation of this law has yet to appear in the reported cases. Counsel, therefore, may wish to raise this as an issue in dissolution proceedings if the disposition of property under the mulitiple party account statutes differs in a particular case from that which would result by applying general characterization principles [compare Fam. Code §§ 2580-2581, 2640 with Prob. Code §§ 5305-5307].

[2] Multiple-Party Accounts Law

[a] Overview

The California Multiple-Party Accounts Law [see Prob. Code § 5100 et seq.,] became operative July 1, 1990, and applies to accounts in existence on that date and to accounts thereafter established [see Stats. 1989, ch. 397, § 41; see also Prob. Code § 3]. The Law governs multiple-party accounts without regard to the type of financial institution involved, and affects accounts held by spouses in various forms, such as joint tenancy and community property [see Prob. Code §§ 5203, 5305, 5307]. The provisions most likely to be relevant to characterization of property and liability of property for debts are discussed below. As noted above, this law appears to control in all actions between the spouses and third parties, such as creditors, and on the death of a spouse during marriage [see Prob. Code § 5201; Estate of Petersen (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 1742, 1752-1754, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 449] , but its application in marital dissolution proceedings is presently unclear. For a detailed discussion of the law relating to multiple-partyaccounts, see Ch. 95, Banks, Deposits, and Checks, § 95.180 et seq.

[b] Creation of Accounts

The Multiple-Party Accounts Law includes a provision setting forth language that may be used in creating various types of accounts [see Prob. Code § 5203]. Words in substantially the following form in a signature card, passbook, contract, or instrument evidencing an account, or words to the same effect, executed before, on, or after July 1, 1990, create the following accounts [Prob. Code § 5203(a)(4), (5)]:

- Joint account of husband and wife with right of survivorship: "This account or certificate is owned by the named parties, who are husband and wife, and is presumed to be their community property. On the death of either of them, ownership passes to the survivor."

- Community property account of husband and wife: "This account or certificate is the community property of the named parties who are husband and wife. The ownership during lifetime and after the death of a spouse is determined by the law applicable to community property generally and may be affected by a will."

The statute provides additional language for creating a general joint account, account payable on death, and tenancy in common account [see Prob. Code § 5203(a)(1)-(3), (6)]. Use of the form language is not necessary to create an account that is governed by Prob. Code § 5100 et seq. if the contract of deposit creates substantially the same relationship between the parties as an account created using the form language [Prob. Code § 5203(b)].

[c] Survivorship Rights and Withdrawal of Funds

Rights of survivorship generally applicable to accounts are determined by the form of the account at the death of a party [see Prob. Code §§ 5302, 5303(a)]. Account terms may be changed in accordance with statute during a party's lifetime to eliminate or add rights of survivorship [see Prob. Code § 5303(b)], but withdrawal of funds from the account by a party having a present right of withdrawal during his or her lifetime eliminates rights of survivorship on that party's death with respect to the funds withdrawn [Prob. Code § 5303(c); cf. Estate of Propst (1990) 50 Cal. 3d 448, 460-461, 268 Cal. Rptr. 114, 788 P.2d 628 (Prob. Code § 5303(c) supports case law rule that joint tenancy in personal property may be unilaterally severed)].

The right of withdrawal is determined by the terms of the account [Prob. Code §§ 5201(a), 5401(a), (c)(3); Lee v. Yang (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 481, 489, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 819 (discussing Multiple-Party accounts Law scheme in context of party's withdrawal of funds following broken engagement)]. Withdrawal of funds in excess of a party's net contribution to the account will transfer ownership by way of gift, to the extent that there is no agreement, special power of attorney, or independent legal obligation that requires the withdrawing party to account for the funds [Lee v. Yang (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 481, 491-492, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 819 (no right to reimbursement of funds withdrawn by party after broken engagement); see Prob. Code § 5301(a)].

Eliminating survivorship rights by withdrawing funds would not seem to preclude the assertion of remedies that a spouse might otherwise have regarding community assets that were disposed of unilaterally during marriage. For example, because even a "joint account of husband and wife with right of survivorship," is presumed to be community property [see Prob. Code § 5203(a)(4)], the loss of a survivorship right would not seem to preclude assertion of other community property rights during life [see Prob. Code § 5305(a), (d)], but this remains subject to court interpretation. For discussion of management and control of community personal property, see Ch. 122, Community Property .

[d] Treatment of Accounts Expressly Designated as Community Property

For the purposes of Prob. Code § 5100 et seq., except to the extent the terms of the account or deposit agreement provide otherwise, if the parties to an account are married to each other and the account is expressly described in the account agreement as a "community property" account, the ownership of the account during the lifetime and after the death of a spouse is controlled by the law governing community property generally [Prob. Code § 5307]. For discussion of a statutory community presumption arising from married persons holding an account, § 222.130[e].

[e] Community Presumption of Net Contribution to Account

Under the Multiple-Party Accounts Law, notwithstanding general provisions relating to ownership and survivorship rights in accounts [see Prob. Code § 5301 et seq.], if parties to an account are married to each other, regardless of whether they are so described in the deposit agreement, their net contribution to the account [see Prob. Code § 5134(a)] is presumed to be and remains their community property [Prob. Code § 5305(a)].

Furthermore, notwithstanding Fam. Code §§ 2581 and 2640, the community presumption established with regard to "net contributions" of married persons is one affecting the burden of proof and may be rebutted by proof of either of the following [Prob. Code § 5305(b); see, e.g., Estate of Petersen (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 1742, 1754, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 449 (mere designation of account as "joint tenants," without unambiguous statement of right of surviviorship, did not, as matter of law, overcome community presumption raised by account statute, butreference to joint tenancy in account statement raised triable issue of fact on form of ownership and control of funds)]:

- The sums on deposit that are claimed to be separate property can be traced from separate property unless it is proved that the married persons made a written agreement that expressed their clear intent that such sums be their community property; or

- The married persons made a written agreement, separate from the deposit agreement, that expressly provided that the sums on deposit, claimed not to be community property, were not to be community property.

In addition, except as provided in Prob. Code § 5307, a right of survivorship arising from the account's express terms, under the general survivorship provision [see Prob. Code § 5302], under a beneficiary designation in a Totten trust account, or under a pay on death (P.O.D.) payee designation, may not be changed by will [Prob. Code § 5305(c)].

In any event, except as provided above [see Prob. Code § 5305(b), (c)], a multiple-party account created with community property funds does not in any way alter community property rights [Prob. Code § 5305(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Banking LawBank ActivitiesBank AccountsDeposit AccountsGeneral OverviewBanking LawBank ActivitiesBank AccountsDeposit AccountsJoint AccountsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution &

DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionPresumptionsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Division And Valuation Of Specific Personal Property
1. Tangible And Intangible Assets In General

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.131

§ 222.131 Businesses and Professional Practices

[1] Characterization in General

If a spouse claims a community property interest in a small business or professional practice in proceedings for marital dissolution or legal separation, the trial court must (1) characterize the asset as community or separate, and (2) determine the feasibility of dividing any community interest in it. If the evidence shows that the business or practice was acquired or established with community property during marriage, then the asset is presumed community [see Fam. Code § 760]. If this presumption is not rebutted, the court must decide the most appropriate method of equally dividing that community interest, whether by a division in kind of the asset, ordering its sale and a division of the proceeds, or a "cash out" of one party and award of the entire asset to the other [see Fam. Code § 2550].

Note that in making this determination, the court, if economic circumstances warrant, may award the asset to one spouse, with an offsetting award to the other on such conditions as the court deems proper to effect a substantially equal division of the community estate [see Fam. Code § 2601].

A spouse who claims a separate property interest in a business or practice must prove that the business or practice was acquired or commenced before marriage or from a separate property source during marriage [see Fam. Code §§ 760, 770]. If the evidence is sufficient to trace the separate property source, the court must determine to what extent any of the interest, and any increase in value and profits, should be apportioned to the community, as discussed in § 222.131[4].

A business that was acquired or commenced before marriage does not lose its character as separate property merely because it is incorporated during the marriage. Incorporation of a business is a change in the legal form of the business, and does not transmute the business into community property [In re Marriage of Koester (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 1032, 1037-1038, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 76] .

[2] Effect of Professional License

A licensed business or professional practice must be allocated to the licensed spouse. The right to engage in a licensed profession is a property right that cannot be classified as community property. Therefore, although the value of the practice or business may be deemed community property, the license to engage in it may not be divided on dissolution of marriage [In re Marriage of Lopez (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 93, 105, 113 Cal. Rptr. 58 , disapproved on other grounds, In re Marriage of Morrison (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 437, 453, 143 Cal. Rptr. 139, 573 P.2d 41 (law partnership); Todd v. Todd (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 786, 791, 78 Cal. Rptr. 131 (law practice)]. For discussion of the community's right to reimbursement for contributions to a spouse's education or training [see Fam. Code § 2641], see § 222.75.

Professional practices cannot generally be divided in-kind, unless both parties are licensed practitioners in a joint practice [In re Marriage of Lopez (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 93, 105, 113 Cal. Rptr. 58 , disapproved on other grounds, In re Marriage of Morrison (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 437, 453, 143 Cal. Rptr. 139, 573 P.2d 41 (law partnership); Todd v. Todd (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 786, 791, 78 Cal. Rptr. 131 (law practice)]. Accordingly, the most practical division method is frequently an award of the practice to the practitioner spouse and an award of other community property of equal value to the other spouse. For general discussion of such awards, see § 222.71[1] et seq. For discussion of the community's right to reimbursement for community contributions to a spouse's education or training under Fam. Code § 2641, see § 222.301.

[3] Discretion of Court Regarding Business

[a] Options Available

A trial court has broad discretion in dividing a community property business. Except when a professional practice is involved, (§ 222.131[2]), the court is often faced with the dilemma of whether to order a division in kind or to award the entire business to one spouse and comparable community property to the other spouse. Two broad catagories of factors must be considered in reaching a determination: (1) economic circumstances of the parties and (2) factors relatingto the operation of the business after its division. Sale of the businees to a third party is another option.

[b] Single Asset Award

If economic circumstances warrant, a trial court may award any community asset to one party on any conditions it deems proper to effect a substantially equal division of the property [Fam. Code § 2601]. This is known as the "single asset proviso" and is discussed in more general terms in § 222.71[1] et seq. [see In re Marriage of Juick (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 421, 428, 430 n.13, 98 Cal. Rptr. 324] . The single asset proviso is commonly applied to divide a community business or professional practice. It has been used, for example, to award one spouse the entire interest in a community property business operated by that spouse and in community property stock of a closely held corporation [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Winn (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 363, 365, 159 Cal. Rptr. 554 ; In re Marriage of Clark (1978) 80 Cal. App. 3d 417, 420-421, 145 Cal. Rptr. 602 ; for discussion of stock division, see § 222.140]. The determination of whether economic circumstances warrant an award of an asset to one party is within the trial court's discretion [In re Marriage of Burlini (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 65, 70, 191 Cal. Rptr. 541 ; In re Marriage of Connolly (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 590, 603, 153 Cal. Rptr. 423, 591 P.2d 911] .

[c] Factors Supporting Single Asset Award

In general, courts have found an award of a business or practice to one spouse warranted under the following circumstances:

1. When the business or practice would be financially impaired or destroyed by division [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Burlini (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 65, 70-71, 191 Cal. Rptr. 541 ; In re Marriage of Clark (1978) 80 Cal. App. 3d 417, 420-421, 145 Cal. Rptr. 602] ;

2. When only one spouse has the skills to operate the business or practice [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Burlini (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 65, 70-71, 191 Cal. Rptr. 541 ; In re Marriage of Smith (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 725, 751, 145 Cal. Rptr. 205] ;

3. When the spouses are unable to operate the business or practice jointly because of animosity between them [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Rives (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 138, 154, 181 Cal. Rptr. 572 ; In re Marriage of Lotz (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 379, 385-386, 174 Cal. Rptr. 618 ; In re Marriage of Clark (1978) 80 Cal. App. 3d 417, 420-421, 145 Cal. Rptr. 602] ;

4. When the business or practice has no saleable value and one spouse intends to continue operating it [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Winn (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 363, 365-367, 159 Cal. Rptr. 554 (husband's horse slaughter and auction business was reorganized after bankruptcy and had no saleable value)]; or

5. When the business or practice assets are subject to substantial fluctuations in value and one spouse has sufficient income so as to afford a high-risk investment [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Connolly (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 590, 603, 153 Cal. Rptr. 423, 591 P.2d 911 (in-kind division of husband's stock in his business would have placed disproportionate risk of loss on wife who was not otherwise financially secure)].

An additional factor the court should consider is whether the nonoperating spouse is equally capable of continuing the community business after marital dissolution. For example, one court of appeal upheld a trial court's award of the more profitable of two restaurant franchises to a wife, who had not previously operated the business, but who was found by the trial court to be equally capable of doing so [In re Marriage of Kozen (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1258, 1262-1263, 230 Cal. Rptr. 304 (distinguishing In re Marriage of Burlini (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 65, 70-71, 191 Cal. Rptr. 541 , and In re Marriage of Smith (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 725, 748-751, 145 Cal. Rptr. 205 , and stating that statute giving "primary" management and control of community business to operating spouse does not require that all separate family businesses be awarded to that spouse)].

[d] Sale to Third Party

If the issue is whether a family business should be sold instead of awarded to one party, additional considerations apply. Although courts may order the sale of a business and division of its proceeds in order to achieve an equal division of the community estate, ordering a sale may be an abuse of discretion. One court has stated that sale to a third party should not be ordered if the trial court finds that (1) either party is capable of operating the business, (2) each seeks its award, and (3) each can purchase the other's share. Even if the business is difficult to value, and the trial court faces difficulty in determining to whom to award it, if both spouses have been operating the business and both want it and can purchase it, such as through an offset of other property to "cash out" the other spouse, it will usually be an abuse of discretion not to award it to one of the spouses [see In re Marriage of Cream (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 81, 90, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 575] .

[4] Need for Apportionment

An apportionment between separate and community property may be required when a spouse's separate property has increased in value as the result of that spouse's expenditure of skill, effort, and industry during marriage. The separate property often takes the form of a business or other enterprise into which the owner-spouse puts his or her community skill, efforts, and industry during marriage, resulting in an increase in value of the business and increased earnings for that spouse. The increased value of the business also could be attributed to the original separate property investment [Beam v. Bank of America (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 12, 17, 98 Cal. Rptr. 137, 490 P.2d 257] .

Case law requires apportionment of profits between community and separate property in a business context and in the investment of separate funds in real estate or securities. In these situations, a portion of the increased value and profits of a spouse's separate property due to that spouse's expenditure of skill, efforts, and industry during marriage must be allocated as community property, and divided in the family law proceeding [see Beam v. Bank of America (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 12, 17, 98 Cal. Rptr. 137, 490 P.2d 257 ; Weinberg v. Weinberg (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 557, 567-568, 63 Cal. Rptr. 13, 432 P.2d 709 ; In re Marriage of House (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 434, 438, 165 Cal. Rptr. 145 ; see also In re Marriage of Zaentz (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 154, 159, 165-167, 267 Cal. Rptr. 31 (portion of film producer's post-separation movie profits was allocated equitably to community estate, even though profits inured contractually to his movie production company)].

Similarly, an apportionment may be required when a spouse's expenditure of skill, effort, and industry during marriage increases the value of the other spouse's separate property business or capital investment [see In re Marriage of Dekker (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 842, 851-852, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 642 (stock in family corporation was issued in wife's name, but husband's full-time efforts built up successful business)]. Also, an apportionment may be required when a spouse's separate efforts, such as after the parties' separation, increase the value of a community asset. For further discussion of the apportionment required because of a spouse's efforts, see § 222.134[1]) et seq.

[5] When Valuation of Ongoing Business Required--Methods Generally Applicable

Unless an in-kind division is ordered [In re Marriage of Behrens (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 562, 572, 187 Cal. Rptr. 200] , the community interest in an ongoing business must be valued before it can be divided by the court. Under certain conditions, the court may award a community property business or community interest in a business to one spouse if it awards the other spouse property of equal value. If the business or interest is to be awarded to one of the spouses, it must be valued so that property of equal value may be awarded to the other spouse [see In re Marriage of Kozen (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1258, 1262-1263, 230 Cal. Rptr. 304 ; In re Marriage of Burlini (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 65, 70, 191 Cal. Rptr. 541] . In fact, trial courts are charged with the responsibility of fixing the value when such a "cash out" method is used and cannot delegate their responsibility to fix value, such as by ordering an interspousal auction of the business over a party's objection [see In re Marriage of Cream (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 81, 88-90, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 575] .

The "value" of a community business (or community interest in a business) normally is defined as the fair market value of the business or interest. "Fair market value" is defined as the "amount at which property would change hands between a willing buyer and a willing seller, neither being under any compulsion to buy or sell and both having reasonable knowledge of the relevant facts" [Black's Law Dictionary 537 (5th ed. 1979)]. In contrast, the use of a "going business" concept as an equivalent to market value is not considered to be sound valuation methodology because it does not have the same meaning and relevance as fair market value [In re Marriage of Sharp (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 714, 719, 192 Cal. Rptr. 97] . If the market value approach is employed, the value of unpaid postseparation earnings owed to one of the spouses by the business should be deducted [In re Marriage of Stephenson (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 1057, 1088-1089, 209 Cal. Rptr. 383 ; see Fam. Code § 771 (postseparation earnings are separate property)].

Nevertheless, alternative methods of valuation (e.g., price-earnings ratio for publicly held corporations, book value, and investment value) also may be used if the parties agree to it, if their decision is made without fraud or concealment of relevant facts [see In re Marriage of Folb (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 862, 868-869, 871, 126 Cal. Rptr. 306 , disapproved on other grounds, In re Marriage of Fonstein (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 738, 749 n.5, 131 Cal. Rptr. 873, 552 P.2d 1169] , and if each party was separately represented by his or her own counsel in working out the stipulation [see In re Marriage of Carter (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 479, 489, 491, 97 Cal. Rptr. 274 ; see also Boeseke v. Boeseke (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 844, 850, 112 Cal. Rptr. 401, 519 P.2d 161] .

[6] Specific Assets and Liabilities to Be Considered

[a] In General

In valuing a business or a community property interest in a business, furniture and other equipment, accounts receivable, liquid assets (cash on hand), earnings, goodwill, and debts and liabilities should be included. Also of value and to be considered are vacation pay, stock options, or other forms of deferred compensation to the extent that these affect the value of the business. Business leases, which may have value or represent liabilities depending on whether they are over or under market rates, should not be ignored. Various credit and loss carryforwards, if material, also should not be overlooked.

An appellate court cannot substitute its judgment for that of the trial court in deciding which of two appraisers should have been believed in valuing a business [In re Marriage of Palmer (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 190, 194, 214 Cal. Rptr. 79 , disapproved on other grounds, In re Marriage of Fabian (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 440, 451 n.13, 224 Cal. Rptr. 333, 715 P.2d 253] .

A debt owed by a community business to a separate pension plan must be apportioned when valuing the business, as discussed in § 222.134[3] [see In re Marriage of Hargrave (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 346, 355-356, 209 Cal. Rptr. 764] .For discussion of valuing stock in a business, see § 222.140[3]. Valuation of stock options is discussed in § 222.160[3].

[b] Treatment of Professional Practices

[i] Specific Factors

In valuing an enterprise such as a law practice, a trial court should determine the existence and value of all the following [see In re Marriage of Lopez (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 93, 110, 113 Cal. Rptr. 58 , disapproved on other grounds in In re Marriage of Morrison (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 437, 453, 143 Cal. Rptr. 139, 573 P.2d 41 ; see also In re Marriage of Kilbourne (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1518, 1522, 284 Cal. Rptr. 201 ; In re Marriage of Garrity & Bishton (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 675, 688-689, 226 Cal. Rptr. 485] :

(1) Fixed assets, including cash, furniture, equipment, supplies, and library;

(2) Other assets, including properly aged accounts receivable; costs advanced with due regard for their collectibility; work in progress, partially completed but not billed as a receivable; and work completed but not billed;

(3) Goodwill of the practitioner in the business as a going concern (§ 222.131[7]); and

(4) Liabilities of the practitioner related to the business.

[ii] Reservation of Jurisdiction

The fact that an asset of a professional practice is difficult to value or, in the case of receivables, is contingent on the outcome of some future event such as the disposition of a lawsuit (and the receipt of contingency fees), does not preclude valuation. A reservation of the court's jurisdiction to make a later valuation and division of an asset may be necessary in a particular case, however, when it is not possible to do this at trial [see In re Marriage of Kilbourne (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1518, 1524 n.5, 1525, 284 Cal. Rptr. 201 ; Fam. Code § 2550].

[iii] Methods of Valuation

Valuation of professional practices may require application of not only specific accounting methodologies to evaluate various assets (see summary under § 222.131[6][b][i]), but also consideration of agreements entered into by the practitioner, and items such as work in progress.

With respect to agreements, professionals frequently enter into agreements with their firms that control withdrawal rights, transfers of stock, or other matters. The community interest of the practitioner can be affected by these types of agreements, and valuation of that interest may in fact be controlled by the agreement. For example, in one case, involving a law partnership, the court considered the value of a spouse's contractual withdrawal rights from the law firm as a basis for valuing the partnership interest [In re Marriage of Fonstein (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 738, 743-747, 131 Cal. Rptr. 873, 552 P.2d 1169 ; cf. In re Marriage of Micalizio (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 662, 672-676, 245 Cal. Rptr. 673 (consideration of restrictive agreements in valuing law partnership)]. Although the value of the withdrawal right may be considered, the trial court is not precluded from considering other factors in valuing the community interest in such a partnership [see In re Marriage of Slater (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 241, 246-247, 160 Cal. Rptr. 686] .

Similarly, use of a stock purchase agreement entered into by a practitioner on joining a professional law corporation was upheld as a proper basis for valuing his community shareholder interest in the firm [In re Marriage of Nichols (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 661, 672-673, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 13 ; see In re Marriage of Iredale & Cates (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 321, 328-329, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 505 (partnership agreement limited spouse's interest to share of firm's hard assets)]. In its analysis, the appellate court that upheld the agreement's usage set forth several factors for consideration in determining whether it is appropriate to use a valuation formula in an "arm's-length buy-out agreement," and these factors appear to have application beyond the facts of that case. They include [In re Marriage of Nichols (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 661, 672, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 13 (citing 1 Cal. Marital Dissolution Practice, § 9.77 (Cont. Ed. Bar 1981)]:

(1) The proximity of the date of the agreement to the date of the spouse's separation to ensure that the agreement was not entered into in contemplation of marital dissolution;

(2) The existence of an independent motive for entering into the agreement, such as (in the case of a partnership, as opposed to a corporation) the desire to protect all partners against the effect of a partnership dissolution; and

(3) Whether the value resulting from the agreement's purchase price formula is similar to the value produced by other approaches.

With respect to work in progress, apportionment of such work by a "time rule" is proper, when use of this method otherwise is appropriate under the circumstances, although other formulations may be more appropriate in particular instances. Under this method, the time a case has been open (from the date of the first cost to the date of recovery) is measured, and proportionate shares of the proceeds are allocated to the time before separation and the time after. The rule may be applied to cases in which no fees have been collected by a reservation of jurisdiction to effectuate distribution [see In re Marriage of Kilbourne (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1518, 1526-1527, 284 Cal. Rptr. 201 (use of time rule formula to value certain work in progress satisfactorily accounted for operating expenses needed to generate fees, though formula was not absolutely accurate; use of timerule was acceptable when husband presented no credible evidence of actual operating expenses)].

Use of the "excess earnings" method to value an entire professional practice, such as a law practice, has been disapproved by at least one appellate court. This method calculates annual pretax net earnings, minus a fair return on tangible assets, and the typical annual salary of a comparably experienced salaried employee, capitalized over a period of years and discounted to reflect present value. The court found that this method fails to take into account fixed assets, accounts receivable, costs advanced, unbilled work, and other variables. It reversed a trial court's valuation of two law practices using the "excess earnings" method in favor of the approach adopted in In re Marriage of Lopez, which took into account the above factors [In re Marriage of Garrity & Bishton (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 675, 688, 688 n.14, 689, 226 Cal. Rptr. 485 ; see In re Marriage of Lopez (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 93, 110, 113 Cal. Rptr. 58 , disapproved on other grounds in In re Marriage of Morrison (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 437, 453, 143 Cal. Rptr. 139, 573 P.2d 41] . Nevertheless, the court appeared to imply that the "excess earnings" method might be suitable in establishing a practice's goodwill value alone [In re Marriage of Garrity & Bishton (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 675, 689 n.15, 226 Cal. Rptr. 485] . In fact, the "capitalized excess earnings" method for valuing professional goodwill is possibly the favored method of most forensic accountants.

[iv] Time of Valuation

The timing of the valuation of a professional practice presents another problem. Although the general rule requires valuation of community assets and liabilities as near as practicable to the time of trial (absent a showing of good cause) [see Fam. Code § 2552], courts of appeal have held that law practices and similar professional practices, normally should be valued as of the date of separation [In re Marriage of Duncan (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 617, 627, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 833 (investment advisory business); In re Marriage of Kilbourne (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1518, 1524, 284 Cal. Rptr. 201 ; In re Marriage of Green (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 14, 20-21, 261 Cal. Rptr. 294 ; see In re Marriage of Stevenson (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 250, 253-254, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 411 (small contracting business); but see In re Marriage of Fink (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 877, 888, 160 Cal. Rptr. 516, 603 P.2d 881 (valuation of law practice made at date of trial when, after separation, attorney had so commingled postseparation and preseparation accounts that it was impossible to value practice on separation date)]. The court in In re Marriage of Green recognized that exceptions to valuation as of the date of separation exist, however, such as when the lawyer's postseparation efforts minimally impact any increase in value, or when a formula in a partnership agreement for a partner's withdrawal accurately determines the ongoing value [In re Marriage of Green (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 14, 20-21, 261 Cal. Rptr. 294] . For a general discussion of the time of valuation, see § 222.51.

[7] Determination and Valuation of Goodwill

[a] Definition and Existence

The "goodwill" of a business is the expectation of continued public patronage [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14100]. It is property [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14102] of an intangible nature and is a thing of value [Burton v. Burton (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 572, 576, 326 P.2d 855] . Goodwill is the probability that the old customers will resort to the old place and that the business will continue in the future as it has in the past, adding to its profits and contributing to the means of meeting its obligations as they arise. It is not the patronage of the general public but, rather, the patronage that has become an asset of the business [see In re Marriage of Watts (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 366, 370-371, 217 Cal. Rptr. 301 ; In re Marriage of Foster (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 577, 581-582, 117 Cal. Rptr. 49] .

Saleable goodwill can arise in a professional business that depends on the personal skill of, and confidence in, a particular person to the same extent that it arises in a commercial or trade enterprise [Mueller v. Mueller (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 245, 251, 301 P.2d 90] . Accordingly, goodwill has been found to exist in all of the following:

(1) A dental laboratory business [see Mueller v. Mueller (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 245, 251, 301 P.2d 90] ;

(2) A medical practice [see In re Marriage of Ackerman (2006) 146 Cal. App. 4th 191, 52 Cal. Rptr. 3d 744 ; In re Marriage of Watts (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 366, 370-372, 217 Cal. Rptr. 301 ; In re Marriage of Fortier (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 384, 388-389, 109 Cal. Rptr. 915 ; Golden v. Golden (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 401, 404-405, 75 Cal. Rptr. 735] ;

(3) An advertising partnership [see Smith v. Bull (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 294, 302, 325 P.2d 463] ;

(4) A joint orthodontic practice [see In re Marriage of Asbury (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 918, 923, 193 Cal. Rptr. 562] ;

(5) The law practice of a sole practitioner [Todd v. Todd (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 786, 793, 78 Cal. Rptr. 131 ; Brawman v. Brawman (1962) 199 Cal. App. 2d 876, 877, 882, 19 Cal. Rptr. 106] ;

(6) A law partnership [In re Marriage of Lopez (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 93, 110, 113 Cal. Rptr. 58 , disapproved on other grounds in In re Marriage of Morrison (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 437, 453, 143 Cal. Rptr. 139, 573 P.2d 41] ;

(7) A private investigation business [see In re Marriage of Webb (1979) 94 Cal. App. 3d 335, 344, 156 Cal. Rptr. 334] ; and

(8) A consulting engineering firm [In re Marriage of King (1983) 150 Cal. App. 3d 304, 308-309, 197 Cal. Rptr. 716] .

Under appropriate circumstances, however, a court may find no goodwill is attached to a spouse's share of a business [see In re Marriage of Slivka (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 159, 163-164, 228 Cal. Rptr. 76 (physician's interest in medical partnership lacked value for goodwill when he made no capital contribution to partnership, had no assets to take on withdrawal, would receive no payment on departure, could not sell his interest, and was compensated in a manner similar to employee); In re Marriage of Aufmuth (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 446, 463, 152 Cal. Rptr. 668 (law corporation's buyout agreement expressly precluded allowance for goodwill; spouse with share in business was recent shareholder who reasonably could be expected not to havecontributed to goodwill); but see In re Marriage of Watts (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 366, 372, 217 Cal. Rptr. 301 (mere fact professional practice cannot be sold, by itself, cannot justify finding that practice has no goodwill or that community goodwill has no value); In re Marriage of Fenton (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 451, 463, 184 Cal. Rptr. 597 (when spouse was highest wage earner in professional corporation, with established professional reputation over his peers in the corporation, value of goodwill could not be eliminated by recital in corporate documents)].

A court found that there was no goodwill in a husband's career as a motion picture director because there was no "business." It noted that Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 14101 and 14102 refer to the goodwill of a business, and that a business is a professional, commercial, or industrial enterprise with assets, not a natural person. The court rejected the contention that the term "business" also includes "a person doing business" [In re Marriage of McTiernan & Dubrow (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 1090, 1096, 1098-1099, 35 Cal. Rptr. 3d 287] . It noted that no California case has held that a natural person, apart and distinct from a "business," can create or generate goodwill. It is the business or practice that generates goodwill, even if the business or practice is conducted by one person [In re Marriage of McTiernan & Dubrow (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 1090, 1098, 35 Cal. Rptr. 3d 287] . It also noted that the husband's "elite professional standing" was not "property" because it was entirely personal to him, and could not be transferred or sold [In re Marriage of McTiernan & Dubrow (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 1090, 1100-1101, 35 Cal. Rptr. 3d 287] .

[b] Valuation

[i] General Factors Considered

Courts have not applied a rigid and unvarying rule for the valuation of goodwill. Rather, they have recognized that each case must be determined on its own facts [In re Marriage of Ackerman (2006) 146 Cal. App. 4th 191, 197, 52 Cal. Rptr. 3d 744 ; In re Marriage of Asbury (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 918, 923, 193 Cal. Rptr. 562 ; Mueller v. Mueller (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 245, 251, 301 P.2d 90 ; see In re Marriage of Foster (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 577, 582-583, 117 Cal. Rptr. 49 ; cf. In re Marriage of Garrity & Bishton (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 675, 689 n.15, 226 Cal. Rptr. 485 (expert used "excess earnings" method to determine that law practice had no goodwill value; however, trial court erred in using that method to value entire practice)].

A proper method of valuing goodwill involves the use of any legitimate means of valuation that measures the present value by taking into account some past result, and that contemplates continuation of the business in the future [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Ackerman (2006) 146 Cal. App. 4th 191, 198, 52 Cal. Rptr. 3d 744 (medical practice); In re Marriage of Iredale & Cates (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 321, 329-330, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 505 (law partnership); In re Marriage of Watts (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 366, 371-372, 217 Cal. Rptr. 301 ; In re Marriage of King (1983) 150 Cal. App. 3d 304, 309, 197 Cal. Rptr. 716 ; In re Marriage of Webb (1979) 94 Cal. App. 3d 335, 344-345, 156 Cal. Rptr. 334 ; In re Marriage of Foster (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 577, 584, 117 Cal. Rptr. 49 ; but see In re Marriage of Slater (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 241, 244-247, 160 Cal. Rptr. 686 (error to assign zero value to goodwill just because "buy-sell" provision in partnership agreement stipulated that no value would be given)]. For example, the court may consider the situation of the business premises, the amount of patronage, the personality of the parties engaged in the business, the length of time the business has been established, and the habit of its customers in continuing to patronize the business [In re Marriage of Ackerman (2006) 146 Cal. App. 4th 191, 201, 52 Cal. Rptr. 3d 744].

In the case of a professional practice, such as a law or medical practice, the following factors merit consideration because they may contribute to, diminish, or otherwise affect the value of goodwill at the time of dissolution [see In re Marriage of Fenton (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 451, 461, 184 Cal. Rptr. 597 ; In re Marriage of Rives (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 138, 150-151, 181 Cal. Rptr. 572 ; In re Marriage of Lopez (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 93, 109-110, 113 Cal. Rptr. 58 , disapproved on other grounds in In re Marriage of Morrison (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 437, 453, 143 Cal. Rptr. 139, 573 P.2d 41] :

(1) The practitioner's age, health, and past demonstrated earning power;

(2) The professional reputation in the community regarding the practitioner's judgment, skill, and knowledge;

(3) The practitioner's comparative professional success;

(4) The nature and duration of his or her business as a sole practitioner or as a member of a partnership or professional corporation to which his or her professional efforts have made a proprietary contribution; and

(5) The value of the fixed and other assets of the professional business with which the goodwill will continue to be related.

Other than setting forth the above criteria and factors to be considered, as well as discussing the valuation approaches used in particular cases, however, the appellate courts have failed to provide any definitive formula for valuing the goodwill of an ongoing business. The inference to be drawn from the cases is that the court in a family law proceeding will be receptive to any reasonable approach that fairly values goodwill [see In re Marriage of Watts (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 366, 370-372, 217 Cal. Rptr. 301 ; see also Comment, Valuation of Professional Goodwill Upon Marital Dissolution, 7 Sw. U.L. Rev. 186 (1975) (suggesting formula for use in valuing goodwill)]. The valuation method used must be supported by substantial evidence, however, and if the trial court rejects evidence of value submitted by both parties it either should require the parties to furnish additional evidence or appoint its own expert [In re Marriage of Hargrave (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 346, 355, 209 Cal. Rptr. 764 ; see also In re Marriage of Rosen (2002) 105 Cal. App. 4th 808, 825, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 (excess earnings analysis of wife's expert did not legitimately establish value under excess earnings method, and there was no evidence on value under any other method; therefore case remanded to assign zero value to goodwill)].

One method that is commonly used to determine the value of the goodwill in a professional practice is the "excess earnings" method, which compares the earnings of the professional in question with that of a peer whose performance is average [In reMarriage of Ackerman (2006) 146 Cal. App. 4th 191, 198-199, 52 Cal. Rptr. 3d 744 ; In re Marriage of McTiernan & Dubrow (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 1090, 1095, 35 Cal. Rptr. 3d 287] . Using this method, the court first determines the professional spouse's average annual net earnings (before income taxes) by referring to any period that seems reasonably illustrative of the current rate of earnings. Then the court determines the annual salary of a typical salaried employee who has had experience commensurate with the spouse. Next, the court deducts from the average net pretax earnings of the business or practice a "fair return" on the net tangible assets used by the business. Then the court determines the "excess earnings" by subtracting the annual salary of the average salaried person from the average net pretax earnings of the business or practice remaining after deducting a fair return on tangible assets. Finally, the court capitalizes the excess earnings over a period of years by multiplying it by a factor equal to a specific period of years, discounted to reflect the present value of the excess earnings over that period [In re Marriage of McTiernan & Dubrow (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 1090, 1095 n.1, 35 Cal. Rptr. 3d 287] . Although not binding, experts and courts may use professional compensation surveys as guidelines for determining the reasonable compensation of a practitioner's peers. To be relevant, however, these surveys must account for similarly situated professional practices and practitioners [In re Marriage of Ackerman (2006) 146 Cal. App. 4th 191, 200, 52 Cal. Rptr. 3d 744].

Both a prior sale of the business or an interest in the business and past profits have been held valid bases for determining the value of goodwill [see In re Marriage of Lopez (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 93, 110-111, 113 Cal. Rptr. 58 , disapproved on other grounds in In re Marriage of Morrison (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 437, 453, 143 Cal. Rptr. 139, 573 P.2d 41 ; In re Marriage of Fortier (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 384, 387, 390, 109 Cal. Rptr. 915 ; Burton v. Burton (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 572, 577, 326 P.2d 855 ; Mueller v. Mueller (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 245, 251, 301 P.2d 90 , cited with approval in People ex rel. Dep't of Transportation v. Muller (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 263, 271, 203 Cal. Rptr. 772, 681 P.2d 1340] .

The expectancy of future earnings, however, is not a proper basis for valuing goodwill. Community interests may be acquired only during marriage, and it would be inconsistent with that philosophy to assign value to the postmarital efforts of either spouse [In re Marriage of King (1983) 150 Cal. App. 3d 304, 309, 197 Cal. Rptr. 716 ; In re Marriage of Rives (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 138, 150, 181 Cal. Rptr. 572 ; In re Marriage of Lopez (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 93, 109, 113 Cal. Rptr. 58 , disapproved on other grounds in In re Marriage of Morrison (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 437, 453, 143 Cal. Rptr. 139, 573 P.2d 41] .

The fact that no particular "market" may exist for a business or practice does not mean that the business to be valued has no goodwill [see In re Marriage of Hargrave (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 346, 353, 209 Cal. Rptr. 764 ; see also In re Marriage of Watts (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 366, 371-372, 217 Cal. Rptr. 301] . As discussed above, factors other than an established "market" may have to be considered in determining the existence of goodwill, such as the practitioner's personality, age, health, past demonstrated earning power, professional reputation, the location of the business premises, and length of time the business has been established [see In re Marriage of Lopez (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 93, 109-110, 113 Cal. Rptr. 58 , disapproved on other grounds in In re Marriage of Morrison (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 437, 453, 143 Cal. Rptr. 139, 573 P.2d 41 ; see also In re Marriage of King (1983) 150 Cal. App. 3d 304, 309-310, 197 Cal. Rptr. 716] .

Goodwill is a distinct business interest that must not be confused with contractual withdrawal rights or a "buy-out interest" under an employment termination agreement [In re Marriage of Fenton (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 451, 461, 463, 184 Cal Rptr. 597] . Thus, for example, in one case a party's goodwill interest in a law firm existed despite an agreement terminating a shareholder's income on leaving. Because the party had a long employment history with the firm and had contributed to its growth, a goodwill interest was found by the court, to be valued and divided as community property. The fact that the goodwill interest was not compensable in the market place was not material [In re Marriage of Fenton (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 451, 461, 184 Cal. Rptr. 597 ; In re Marriage of Slater (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 241, 244-247, 160 Cal. Rptr. 686] .

Furthermore, goodwill valuation cannot be based on speculation regarding future circumstances such as, for example, the effect if all of the business's contracts were canceled or if the business were sold [In re Marriage of Hargrave (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 346, 353, 209 Cal. Rptr. 764] . Similarly, when awarding a business to one spouse it is inappropriate for the court to reduce the value of the business by the speculative value of a future, hypothetical noncompetition agreement. A covenant not to compete is a means of protecting the value of business goodwill, and until such a covenant actually has been negotiated, it is too speculative. Thus, establishing a value for a future hypothetical covenant not to compete, separate from the value of the business goodwill itself, is inappropriate.The true value of such a covenant can be determined only with reference to the circumstances of the party when he or she actually negotiates for the sale of the business [In re Marriage of Czapar (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1308, 1314-1315, 285 Cal. Rptr. 479 (also concluding that consideration paid for noncompetition agreement, or value of that agreement, is separate property of covenanting spouse if covenant actually has been negotiated as part of sale of property); but see In re Marriage of Quay (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 961, 968, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 537 (community was required to bear entire detriment of postseparation covenant not to compete when community property stock was valueless without covenant); In re

Marriage of Lotz (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 379, 383, 174 Cal. Rptr. 618 (finding on goodwill value and that covenant not to compete would be required if business were sold is not improper consideration of postmarital efforts)].

[ii] Use of Expert Testimony

Courts have accepted expert testimony on the value of goodwill when founded on some reasonable basis, even though the precise methodology used was unclear [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Foster (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 577, 580-581, 585, 117 Cal. Rptr. 49 (medical practice had a goodwill value of $27,000 based on the testimony of accountant who made that determination by taking "an approximation of the last three months received on account"); In re Marriage of Asbury (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 918, 923-924, 193 Cal. Rptr. 562 (in determining value of wife's interest in intangible assets of joint orthodontic practice, the valuation was adequately supported by expert testimony and record as a whole)].

However, an expert's valuation that is not contradicted by another expert's testimony is not necessarily conclusive from the court's perspective, and may be rejected [In re Marriage of Rosen (2002) 105 Cal. App. 4th 808, 823, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 (wife's expert did not use average of husband's volatile income over several years in his calculations, but erroneously took husband's highest earning year to represent his annual income)].

Expert testimony on valuation of goodwill is covered by the privilege accorded to statements made in judicial proceedings. "Publications" made both in a business evaluation prepared for litigation and in court testimony are covered by the privilege set forth in Civ. Code § 47(b) [Carden v. Getzoff (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 907, 913, 915-916, 235 Cal. Rptr. 698 (accountant's "manufactured" goodwill valuation of medical practice as privileged publication)].

[iii] Summary of Evidentiary Considerations

Although no definitive rule for valuing goodwill for the purpose of dividing the community estate has been enunciated by the courts, the following observations summarize the various aspects of valuation discussed above [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Slivka (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 159, 163-164, 228 Cal. Rptr. 76 ; In re Marriage of Asbury (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 918, 923, 193 Cal. Rptr. 562 (orthodontic practice); In re Marriage of Foster (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 577, 582-584, 117 Cal. Rptr. 49 ; see Burton v. Burton (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 572, 576, 326 P.2d 855] :

(1) The value of goodwill is a question of fact;

(2) Each case must be determined on its own facts and circumstances, and the evidence must be that which legitimately establishes value;

(3) Opinion evidence is admissible, but not conclusive;

(4) The trier of fact may take into consideration the location of the business premises, the amount of patronage, the personality of the parties engaged in the business, the length of time the business has been established, and the habits of its customers in continuing to patronize the business;

(5) The value is not necessarily the amount of money a willing buyer would pay (which might be less than the true goodwill value);

(6) No goodwill interest is present when the spouse has no saleable interest in the business and functions like a salaried employee compensated for services rendered;

(7) No method that takes into account the postmarital efforts of either spouse may be used in making the valuation; and

(8) A proper means of arriving at the value contemplates any legitimate method of valuation measuring the present value of the goodwill by taking into account some past result.

[8] Apportioning Business Receivables

The accounts receivable of a community business or professional practice must be valued to effect an equal division of the business or practice. For discussion of valuing accounts receivable, see Kirkland, Lurvey & Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed., Ch. 22 (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationCommunity PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationSeparate PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationBusiness & PracticeFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationDegrees, Licenses & Enhanced EarningsFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationValuation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Division And Valuation Of Specific Personal Property
1. Tangible And Intangible Assets In General

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.132

§ 222.132 Treatment of Assets Held in Partnership With Third Persons

A partner's right in specific partnership property is not community property [Corp. Code § 15025(2)(e)]. Thus, if one spouse is a member of a partnership with third persons, and community assets are transferred to the partnership, those specific assets are divested of their community character. However, if community assets are transferred to a partnership of which one spouse is a member, that spouse's interest in the partnership is itself community property, and the nonpartner spouse acquires a general claim in the partner-spouse's share of the partnership in place of the nonpartner's interest in specific community assets transferred to the partnership [Rosenthal v. Rosenthal (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d927, 50 Cal. Rptr. 385] . When the parties are divorced and the community property is divided, the nonpartner spouse should be compensated for giving up his or her claim to the partner-spouse's share of the partnership [Rosenthal v. Rosenthal (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 927, 931, 50 Cal. Rptr. 385] .

With respect to valuing an interest in a partnership, most valuation issues have arisen in connection with the division of professional practices on dissolution of marriage. These issues, in turn, have focused largely on the valuation of goodwill (§ 222.131[7]) and other intangible assets of the practices involved. The tangible assets of a partnership are subject to valuation through objective means, such as fair market value or cost analysis.

As with other assets, in valuing a partnership interest for purposes of dividing community assets on dissolution of marriage, a trial court must account for the effect of immediate and specific tax consequences to the parties, if any. If a spouse might incur a tax liability on withdrawing from the partnership but has no present intent or need to do so, such a liability is neither immediate nor specific, and therefore should not be considered [In re Marriage of Fonstein (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 738, 749-750, 131 Cal. Rptr. 873, 552 P.2d 1169] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Business & Corporate LawGeneral PartnershipsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal

SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationCommunity PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationSeparate PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationBusiness & PracticeFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationValuation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Division And Valuation Of Specific Personal Property
1. Tangible And Intangible Assets In General

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.133

§ 222.133 Copyrights and Royalties

A copyright deriving from an artistic work produced during marriage constitutes community property [In re Marriage of Worth (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 768, 774-775, 241 Cal. Rptr. 135 ; but cf. Rodrigue v. Rodrigue (5th Cir. 2000) 218 F.3d 432, 443 (under Lousiana community property law, non-author spouse is entitled to undivided one-half interest in economic benefits of author spouse's copyrighted works, with author spouse retaining managerial control of copyrights after property division)]. Royalties from an artistic work produced during marriage also constitute community property [In re Marriage of Worth (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 768, 774, 241 Cal. Rptr. 135 (dictum)].

The fact that a copyright is intangible property does not affect its community character or the community nature of any tangible benefits directly associated with the copyright [In re Marriage of Worth (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 768, 774-775, 241 Cal. Rptr. 135] . The doctrine of federal preemption is not a bar to characterization of copyrights as community property. There is no inconsistency between California community property law and federal copyright law because federal law fails to expressly define a copyright as the separate property of the copyright holder and, in addition, provides for transfer of copyrights by "operation of law" [In re Marriage of Worth (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 768, 774, 777, 241 Cal. Rptr. 135] .

When a copyright is not distributed under the terms of a dissolution judgment, the former spouses remain co-owners of an undivided interest in the copyright. If the artist-spouse later brings a federal action against a copyright infringer, the other spouse is entitled to share equally in any of the proceeds directly or indirectly related to the lawsuit [In re Marriage of Worth (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 768, 771, 778, 241 Cal. Rptr. 135] .

Factors that may be relevant in ascertaining the value of the copyright include the duration of the copyright, any prior assignments for value, and any offers to purchase the copyright. Counsel should attempt to secure any documentation that relates to these factors, as well as documentation verifying that a copyright has been established, in fact, for the artistic work involved.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Copyright LawOwner RightsGeneral OverviewFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationCommunity PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationValuation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Division And Valuation Of Specific Personal Property
1. Tangible And Intangible Assets In General

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.134

§ 222.134 Increases in Value Due to Spouse's Efforts (Pereira/Van Camp)

[1] Community Effort Increasing Value of Separate Property

Apportionment between separate and community property may be required when a spouse's separate property has increased in value as the result of that spouse's expenditure of skill, effort, and industry during marriage [see generally Fam. Code §§ 2550, 2553 (court has jurisdiction to make orders necessary to divide community estate)]. The separate property involved is often a business or other enterprise into which the owner-spouse puts his or her community skill, efforts, and industry during marriage, resulting in an increase in value of the business and increased earnings for that spouse. The increased value of the business also could be attributed to the original separate property investment [Beam v. Bank of America (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 12, 17, 98 Cal. Rptr. 137, 490 P.2d 257] . Such an apportionment is to be distinguished from reimbursement under Fam. Code § 2640 for separate property contributions to the acquisition of a community asset (see § 222.302). Reimbursement under that statute is generally not appropriate in the case of a separate property business, even if that business is incorporated during marriage, unless the rigorous requirements for transmutation of property under Fam. Code § 852 are met [In re Marriage of Koester (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 1032, 1036-1038, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 76 (court should have applied Pereira method, rather than awarding husband value of his separate property business on date of marriage with no return for his capital investment)].

Case law requires apportionment of profits between community and separate property in a business context and in the investment of separate funds in real estate or securities. A portion of the increased value and profits of a spouse's separate property due to that spouse's expenditure of skill, efforts, and industry during marriage must be allocated as community property, and divided in the family law proceeding [see Beam v. Bank of America (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 12, 17, 98 Cal. Rptr. 137, 490 P.2d 257 ; Weinberg v. Weinberg (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 557, 567-568, 63 Cal. Rptr. 13, 432 P.2d 709 ; In re Marriage of House (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 434, 438, 165 Cal. Rptr. 145 ; see also In re Marriage of Zaentz (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 154, 159, 165-167, 267 Cal. Rptr. 31] .

Similarly, an apportionment between community and separate property is required when a spouse's expenditure of skill, effort, and industry during marriage increases the value of the other spouse's separate property business or capital investment. Regardless of whether the community receives a fair market salary for the spouse's services, the amount of increased value in the separate property business or capital investment that is attributable to the spouse's skill, effort, and industry must be determined, because the community is entitled to the increase attributable to community endeavor [see In re Marriage of Dekker (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 842, 851-852, 854-855, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 642 (Pereira applied to family corporation, developed by husband's efforts, that had all stock issued in wife's name)].

Not every increase in the value of a spouse's separate property or the proceeds from that property during marriage may become community property, but only that portion of the increase or proceeds directly attributable to a spouse's skill, efforts, and industry during marriage. Therefore, evidence showing what proportion of the increase and proceeds is attributable to the spouse's skill, efforts, and industry must be produced at the hearing or trial [see Estate of Ney (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 891, 898, 28 Cal. Rptr. 442] .

[2] Apportionment Methods

Two alternative formulas, referred to as the Pereira [Pereira v. Pereira (1909) 156 Cal. 1] and Van Camp [Van Camp v. Van Camp (1921) 53 Cal. App. 17, 199 P. 885] approaches, have been developed by the courts to divide separate and community interests in a separate property interest on dissolution. The formula applied in a particular case depends on whether the spouse's efforts and skill were the cause of increased value and profits (Pereira) or whether the increased value and profits occurred apart from the skills of the spouse (Van Camp).

The Pereira approach allocates a fair return on the spouse's separate property investment to that spouse as separate property and allocates any excess to the community estate as arising from the spouse's efforts. Community income, under Pereira, is the amount by which the actual income of the separate property business exceeds the return that the initial capital investment could have been expected to earn absent the owner-spouse's personal management. The fair return to the owner-spouse as a separate property interest is valued at the legal interest rate unless a different rate of return is presented [Pereira v. Pereira (1909) 156 Cal. 1, 7, 103 P. 488 ; Weinberg v. Weinberg (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 557, 565, 63 Cal. Rptr. 13, 432 P.2d 709] .

The Van Camp approach should be applied to value community and separate interests accruing in the separate property business during marriage when increased value and profits were due to efforts other than those of the owner-spouse. Under Van Camp, a reasonable value (less any salary taken) is attributed to the services performed by the owner-spouse and that amount is valued as community property [Van Camp v. Van Camp (1921) 53 Cal. App. 17, 27-28, 199 P. 885 ; see Beam v. Bank of America (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 12, 18-20, 98 Cal. Rptr. 137, 490 P.2d 257 ; In re Marriage of House (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 434, 438, 165 Cal. Rptr. 145] . Increases in the value of the separate property due to factors other than the owner-spouse's efforts and skill are allocated as separate property to the owner-spouse under Van Camp [see Van Camp v. Van Camp (1921) 53 Cal. App. 17, 27-28, 199 P. 885] .

The apportionment of community and separate interests is quite different, depending on which valuation approach is utilized. To illustrate, assume a wife had put $10,000 into a separate property business by the time of marriage. At the time of dissolution, the business is worth $60,000. If the Pereira approach is applied because the wife's skill and effort during marriage, which is community effort, caused the increase in value and profits of the business during marriage, the wife receives her original investment of $10,000 plus a reasonable return (to be determined by an expert) as her separate property, and the remainder is valued as community interest, to be divided between the spouses.

If Van Camp applies because the increased value and profits of the separate property business were due to factors other than the owner-spouse's efforts, the court first would hear evidence of the value of services rendered by the spouse to the business, and then determine whether this value had already been paid to the spouse in the form of a salary (or otherwise), or whether such services had been uncompensated. The value of unpaid services would be deemed community property and subtracted from the earnings and increased value of the business. The remainder would be deemed the owner-spouse's separate property [Van Camp v. Van Camp (1921) 53 Cal. App. 17, 27-28, 199 P. 885] . In the hypothetical situation posed above, based on the income she withdrew from the business during marriage, the wife would receive substantially more under Van Camp than her original separate property investment of $10,000 plus interest, as under Pereira.

It is possible that the value of the community property share of a separate property business may be zero or less. This may occur when, using Pereira, the separate property business is valued at the end of the marriage at less than the amount of the original separate property investment in the business plus interest at the legal rate (that is, the value of the separate property share), or when, using Van Camp, the value of the owner-spouse's community efforts was exceeded by withdrawals for the family's expenses, so that no element attached to the separate property business during marriage [Beam v. Bank of America (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 12, 18-20, 98 Cal. Rptr. 137, 490 P.2d 257] .

In apportioning between separate and the community estate, the courts havedeveloped no precise criterion or fixed standard. Instead, they have tried to adopt the standard that is most appropriate and equitable in each particular situation, depending on whether the character of the capital investment in the separate property or the personal activity, ability, and capacity of the spouse is the chief contributing factor in the realization of income and profits. In applying this principle, the court is neither bound to adopt a predetermined percentage as a fair return on business capital that is separate property (the Pereira approach), nor need it limit the community interest only to a salary fixed as a reward for a spouse's service (the Van Camp approach), but may select whichever formula will achieve substantial justice between the parties [Beam v. Bank of America (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 12, 18, 98 Cal. Rptr. 137, 490 P.2d 257 ; cf. In re Marriage of Zaentz (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 154, 165-167, 267 Cal. Rptr. 31 (equitable apportionment based on evaluation of multifaceted financial picture); In re Marriage of Dekker (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 842, 851-852, 854-855, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 642 (Pereira applied to family corporation, developed by husband's efforts, that had all stock issued in wife's name)]. Some experts suggest that Pereira is applicable in labor intensive businesses, whereas capital intensive businesses require the application of the Van Camp approach. The reported decisions, however, appear to have applied the approach that best achieves the court's concept of equity [see Beam v. Bank of America (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 12, 18, 98 Cal. Rptr. 137, 490 P.2d 257] .

[3] Separate Efforts Increasing Value of Community Property

The earnings and accumulations of a spouse living separate and apart from the other spouse are the earner-spouse's separate property [see Fam. Code § 771]. Thus, if these separate earnings or efforts in some manner increase the value of a community asset, the court must determine what portion of the increased value is community property and what portion is separate property [In re Marriage of Imperato (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 432, 436, 119 Cal. Rptr. 590 (accord, In re Marriage of Hug (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 780, 792, 201 Cal. Rptr. 676); see In re Marriage of Barnert (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 413, 423-424, 149 Cal. Rptr. 616 ; In re Marriage of Fischer (1976) 78 Cal. App. 3d 556, 562-563, 146 Cal. Rptr. 384 , disapproved on other grounds, In re Marriage of Epstein (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 76, 85 n.2, 154 Cal. Rptr. 413, 592 P.2d 1165 ; see also In re Marriage of Hargrave (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 346, 355-356, 209 Cal. Rptr. 764 ; but see Grappo v. Coventry Financial Corp. (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 496, 508, 286 Cal. Rptr. 714 (husband's postseparation advances of his separate funds to enable wife to construct home on her separate property Nevada lot did not give rise to community interest under circumstances); In re Marriage of Shelton (1981) 118 Cal. App. 3d 811, 815-816, 173 Cal. Rptr. 629 (when community property is used as gambling stakes after separation, proceeds are community property due to minimal skill, effort, and industry required of gambling spouse)]. This increase can be substantial; for example, when the community asset is a professional practice, the earnings of the professional person may be substantial and the time period from separation to trial may be considerable [see In re Marriage of Lopez (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 93, 110, 113 Cal. Rptr. 58] .

For the court to make this determination, the value of the asset must be ascertained both at the time of separation and at the time of trial. The value of the asset at the time of separation must be subtracted from the value of the asset at the time of trial and the difference, if positive, is the increase in the value of the asset. It is not proper, however, simply to award the increased value as separate property to the spouse who devoted time and effort to preservation of the asset because doing so would overlook the growth factor found in many assets, the investment and reinvestment of capital, market fluctuations, and numerous other components that can increase the value of most assets. Once the amount of the increase has been determined, that portion of it attributable to inherent growth or some factor other than the efforts of a spouse must be added to the valuation of the asset at the time of separation; the sum of these two figures gives the valuation of the community property interest of the asset at the time of trial [see In re Marriage of Imperato (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 432, 436-437, 119 Cal. Rptr. 590] .

Different formulas may be used, however, in apportioning the increased value between separate and community property. The court in one case observed that in allocating the increase in value of a community asset occurring after separation of the parties between community and separate interests, the apportionment formulas used in Pereira and Van Camp should be applied in reverse [In re Marriage of Imperato (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 432, 438-439, 119 Cal. Rptr. 590 ; see Pereira v. Pereira (1909) 156 Cal. 1, 103 P. 488 ; Van Camp v. Van Camp (1921) 53 Cal. App. 17, 199 P. 885 (discussed in § 222.134[1])].

Applying Pereira in reverse results in allocating a fair return of the increase to community property, with the remainder allocated to the employed spouse's separate property. Application of "reverse Van Camp," on the other hand, results in an award of the reasonable value of the employed spouse's service (minus salary) as separate property of the employed spouse, with the balance to the community [Pereira v. Pereira (1909) 156 Cal. 1, 7, 103 P. 488 ; Van Camp v. Van Camp (1921) 53 Cal. App. 17, 27-28, 199 P. 885 ; see In re Marriage of Imperato (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 432, 438-439, 119 Cal. Rptr. 590] .

A debt owed by a community business to a separate pension plan also must be apportioned [In re Marriage of Hargrave (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 346, 355-356, 209 Cal. Rptr. 764] . When valuing the business, the apportionment method approved in In re Marriage of Imperato and In re Marriage of Barnert must be used to determine the effect of a debt owed by a community business operated by one of the spouses to that spouse's separate property pension plan [In re Marriage of Hargrave (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 346, 355-356, 209 Cal. Rptr. 764 ; see In re Marriage of Barnert (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 413, 149 Cal. Rptr. 616 ; In re Marriage of Imperato (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 432, 119 Cal. Rptr. 590] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Family LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationCommunity PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionCharacterizationSeparate PropertyFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationBusiness & PracticeFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionClassificationTransmutationFamily LawMarital Termination & Spousal SupportDissolution & DivorceProperty DistributionEquitable DistributionGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 18: Dissolution of Marriage: Master Procedural Guide thru Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation-Chs. 220-222
Chapter 222 DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE: PROPERTY DIVISION AND VALUATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Division And Valuation Of Specific Personal Property
1. Tangible And Intangible Assets In General

18-222 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 222.135

§ 222.135 Life Insurance

[1] Characterization in General

In general, a life insurance policy and its proceeds are community assets to the extent that the policy is earned by employment during marriage or purchased with community funds during marriage [see In re Marriage of Donnelly (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 135, 137, 190 Cal. Rptr. 756 , disapproved on another point, in In re Marriage of Saslow (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 848, 861 n.5, 221 Cal. Rptr. 546, 710 P.2d 346] . When both community and separate funds have been used to acquire a policy, the community and separate property interests in the proceeds must be apportioned. Each interest is given a proportionate share in the same ratio that the amount of premiums paid from community earnings bears to the amount of premiums paid from separate property [Biltoft v. Wootten (1979) 96 Cal. App. 3d 58, 61-62, 157 Cal. Rptr. 581] .

The characterization of whole life insurance is clear. In California, courts have recognized the value of whole life insurance as its cash surrender value and have divided that value when the policy was determined to be community property [see In re Marriage of Holmgren (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 869, 871, 130 Cal. Rptr. 440 ; Brawman v. Brawman (1962) 199 Cal. App. 2d 876, 878, 19 Cal. Rptr. 106 ; see also In re Marriage of Lorenz (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 464, 468, 194 Cal. Rptr. 237] .

Additionally, the proceeds from insurance have been characterized as community property to some extent by the courts. Once the insured dies, the proceeds of life insurance, even term insurance, may be community property to the extent that premiums paid on the policy were derived from community funds [see Biltoft v. Wootten (1979) 96 Cal. App. 3d 58, 61-62, 157 Cal. Rptr. 581 ; In re Marriage of Lorenz (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 464, 468, 194 Cal. Rptr. 237 (term policy is worthless until proceeds are payable)]. For term policies, characterization of the proceeds generally depends on whether community or separate funds were used to pay the premium for the final term of the policy. The proceeds are a community asset if the insured died during a term paid for with community funds, and a separate asset if the final term was paid for with separate funds [Estate of Logan (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 319, 321, 236 Cal. Rptr. 368 ; see also Minnesota Mutual Life Ins. v. Ensley (9th Cir. 1999) 174 F.3d 977, 983] . However, appellate courts have not agreed on the divisibility of term insurance during an insured spouse's lifetime, as discussed in § 222.135[2]. Also, special rules apply to military life insurance policies, as discussed in § 222.135[4].

Apart from strict characterization issues, note that in structuring the payment of child or spousal support, a court has authority to order maintenance of a life insurance policy for the benefit of a supported child or spouse, as discussed in § 222.135[3][b], and Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support § 222.150et seq., and Ch. 225, Dissolution of Marriage: Spousal Support § 222.110 et seq. [see Fam. Code § 4360; In re Marriage of O'Connell (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 565, 571-573, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 334] . In addition, counsel should keep in mind that questions of postdissolution insurance policy ownership and control, including the right of one party to maintain insurance on the life of the other, may require consideration of applicable insurance principles and law [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Bratton (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 791, 794, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 86 (former wife could maintain policy on former husband's life, despite marital dissolution, when she had insurable interest at inception of policy during marriage; and husband lacked standing to contest her continued ownership of policy)].

[2] Term Insurance During Insured's Lifetime

[a] Scope

Appellate courts are not in agreement regarding the characterization of term life insurance when the proceeds have not yet become payable, that is, during the lifetime of the insured spouse. Several aspects to this characterization issue exist: (1) whether a term policy is a divisible community asset at all when the policy period extends beyond the expiration of a term acquired with community funds, (2) whether a contractual right of renewal of a term policy constitutes a divisible community asset, and (3) what effect, if any, there is on these issues if the insured spouse no longer qualifies to purchase a new policy--that is, has become uninsurable, particularly when that spouse becomes uninsurable during a term paid for with community funds. Although the California Supreme Court has made reference to these issues and cited certain of the related cases in ruling on the division of disability insurance benefits [see In re Marriage of Elfmont (1995) 9 Cal. 4th 1026, 1033-1035, 39 Cal. Rptr. 2d 590, 891 P.2d 136] , it has not ruled definitively on the term life insurance issue. It is, therefore, a matter ripe for decision by the Court, pending which counsel should refer to the positions taken in the appellate districts that are discussed in § 222.135[2][b] and [2][c].

[b] Opposition to Division

Several appellate districts have opposed characterization of a term life insurance policy as a divisible community asset to the extent that the policy at issue extends beyond expiration of the term acquired with community funds or efforts [see In re Marriage of Spengler (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 288, 293, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 764] . These courts, however, have not taken a uniform position on characterization, particularly when the issue of an insured spouse's continued insurability is considered. Because of the divergent views taken, a detailed explanation of case holdings follows.

One appellate court has expressed outright opposition to division of term insurance during the insured's lifetime. In In re Marriage of Lorenz [In re Marriage of Lorenz (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 464, 194 Cal. Rptr. 237] , the court of appeal (Second District) held that term life insurance generally has no value because it is worthless after the term expires. The court reasoned that if the policy proceeds have not been paid, the term policy has no cash value that can be divided on dissolution of marriage [In re Marriage of Lorenz (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 464, 468, 194 Cal. Rptr. 237 ; Estate of Logan (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 319, 236 Cal. Rptr. 368] .

However, the First District Court of Appeal has taken a somewhat less restrictive view, by considering the continued insurability of the insured spouse. In Estate of Logan [Estate of Logan (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 319, 236 Cal. Rptr. 368] , the court of appeal concluded (1) that if the insured spouse dies during the term paid with community funds, the proceeds of the policy are community property, but (2) that a term insurance policy on the life of one spouse is not

