Chapter 253 ESCROWS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-253 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 253.14

§ 253.14 Internet and Electronic Transactions

[1] Electronic Records and Fund or Wire Transfers

All records required under the escrow laws may be retained by an Internet escrow agent and provided to the Commissioner of Corporations in electronic format [Fin. Code § 17403.5(a);see § 253.11[4]]. All transfers by an Internet escrow agent between trust accounts and interest-bearing accounts, and between escrow accounts, may be made electronically [Fin. Code § 17403.5(b)], and a statement of account may be delivered by an Internet escrow agent to a customer by electronic mail or via the Internet, unless otherwise requested by the customer [Fin. Code § 17403.5(c)]. With regard to Internet escrow companies, transfers to trust accounts by commercial banks, and transfers from operating accounts to cover losses, may be made through wire transfers. Receipts for these transactions may be maintained in electronic form [Fin. Code § 17409.01(b)].

An escrow agent must comply with, at a minimum, the following procedures for wire transfers, which are also known as "electronic fund transfers" [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 1738(b)]:

- The instructions of the principals authorizing the wire transfer must contain, at a minimum (1) the amount of the funds to be wire transferred, (2) the name of the financial institution, (3) the account number, and (4) the account name receiving the funds.

- The escrow agent must retain confirmation of the wire transfer from the financial institution that contains, at a minimum (1) the amount of the funds wire transferred, and (2) the account number and name of the account to which the funds were wire transferred.

- If necessary, the escrow books must be properly adjusted to reflect the wire transfer of funds from the escrow account.

- The escrow agent must maintain a property audit trail and adequate controls and safeguards for funds disbursed by wire transfer.

[2] Internet Escrow Agent Special Accounts

All money received by an Internet escrow agent from a credit card or Automated Clearing House (ACH) transfer as part of an escrow transaction must be deposited on receipt in a bank, savings bank, or savings and loan association in a separate account that is designated "trust" or "escrow" account [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 1737.1(a);see § 253.11[4]]. No funds other than those received from a credit card or ACH transfer as part of an escrow transaction may be deposited in the account or otherwise commingled with any other escrow money [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 1737.1(a)]. An Internet escrow agent may not withdraw, pay out, or transfer monies from a particular escrow for deposits received by credit card or ACH transfer before the deposit of the funds into the trust or escrow bank account [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 1737.1(b)].

An Internet escrow agent is required to establish a reserve made up of general account funds for the purpose of covering losses that result from the acceptance of credit cards and ACH deposits, including, but not limited to, charge backs, disputed charges, fraudulent transactions, and other debits [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 1737.1(c)]. The reserve must be at least equal to 10 percent of the average monthly credit card and ACH receipts. If actual losses exceed 10 percent of the average monthly credit card and ACH receipts, the Internet escrow agent must immediately increase the reserve to a least equal the percentage of actual losses to the average monthly credit card and ACH receipts. An Internet escrow agent may request the Commissioner's approval to reduce the required reserves, and the Commissioner may approve the request if, in his or her opinion, the Internet escrow agent has submitted sufficient evidence to demonstrate that the lower reserve will be sufficient to cover anticipated losses [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 1737.1(c); see Fin. Code § 17210 (tangible net worth and liquid assets also required)]. The Internet escrow agent must deposit funds from the required reserves into the escrow trust account to cover any losses that result from credit cards or ACH deposits on or before the close of the next full working day after receiving notification of the debit. This does not apply if the debit is against funds received from a credit card or ACH deposit that remains in the escrow account [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 1737.1(d)].

[3] Escrow Instructions Transmitted Over Internet and Electronic Signatures

Internet escrow agents may accept escrow instructions that are created, generated, sent, communicated, received, or stored by electronic means provided that the principals to the transaction agree to conduct the transaction electronically [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 1738.6(a)]. The Internet escrow agent must require that the principals to the transaction acknowledge that they are able to electronically receive the escrow instructions, download the escrow instructions, and print the escrow instructions [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 1738.6(b)]. If a principal to the transaction is not able to receive the escrow instructions electronically, and download and print the instructions, the Internet escrow agent must mail a true and correct copy of the instructions to the person within 24 hours of executing the document. The Internet escrow agent must maintain a record of the principal's acknowledgment, and a record of each mailing [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 1738.6(b)]. The principals to the transaction may execute the escrow instructions and other escrow documents with an electronic signature that complies with the federal Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act (The E-Sign Act) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 1738.6(c); see 15 U.S.C. § 7001 et seq.].

[4] Customer Contact Center Procedures

An Internet escrow agent must give the Commissioner of Corporations a written notice that specifies the business address of a customer contact center [see § 253.11[6]] at least 10 days before commencing business at that location. Similarly, at least 10 days before an intended change in the location of any customer contact center, an Internet escrow agent must give written notification to the Commissioner of the new business address [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 1709.1].

[5] Electronic Transmission of Escrow Receipts and Statements

An Internet escrow agent must issue consecutively numbered receipts for all escrow money or checks deposited with or mailed to the Internet escrow agent [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 1741.1(b)]. An Internet escrow agent may deliver the receipts electronically over the Internet to the person depositing the funds into escrow. If a person is not able to electronically receive the receipt, the Internet escrow agent must mail a true and correct copy of the receipt within 24 hours of execution, and may retain the receipt electronically [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 1741.1(b); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 1737.3 (electronic receipts)].

Chapter 253 ESCROWS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-253 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 253.15

§ 253.15 Validity of Escrows

[1] Creation

Unless the essential characteristics of an escrow transaction exist, merely designating a transaction as an escrow does not make it an escrow [Kenney v. Parks (1899) 125 Cal. 146, 149, 57 P. 772 ; Security-First Nat'l Bank v. Clark (1935) 8 Cal. App. 2d 709, 712-713, 48 P.2d 167] . A valid escrow will be created when the parties to an otherwise valid transfer deliver the instruments of transfer, for example, deeds, stock certificates, or securities, to a third person, who will act as an escrow holder, with the delivery to the grantee or purchaser of such instruments of transfer to be conditioned on the payment of money or the rendering of further consideration to the grantor or vendor [Feisthamel v. Campbell (1921) 55 Cal. App. 774, 779, 205 P. 25] .

[2] Consideration and Contractual Agreement

For a valid escrow to exist, there must be a contractual agreement between the parties to the escrow when the instruments of transfer are delivered to the escrow holder [Fitch v. Bunch (1866) 30 Cal. 208, 212] . Otherwise, the escrow will not give the grantor and grantee enforceable rights, since there would be no binding obligation on the grantor not to change the conditions of delivery or not to take back the deed (or other evidence of title) [see House v. Lala (1960) 180 Cal. App. 2d 412, 417, 4 Cal. Rptr. 366 ; Security-First Nat'l Bank v. Clark (1935) 8 Cal. App. 2d 709, 712-713, 48 P.2d 167] .

The creation of the escrow itself does not require a writing. An escrow holder under an oral escrow is liable if he or she does not obey the instructions [Kelly v. Steinberg (1957) 148 Cal. App. 2d 211, 217, 306 P.2d 955] . If the instructions are in writing, however, they may be sufficient to constitute a binding agreement between the parties if the writing satisfies the requirements of the statute of frauds [see Tuso v. Green (1924) 194 Cal. 574, 581, 229 P. 327] .

[3] Option Agreements

An option agreement for the sale of real or personal property may create a valid escrow if the agreement is supported by consideration and is therefore binding on the optionor [Caras v. Parker (1957) 149 Cal. App. 2d 621, 626, 309 P.2d 104] . However, if the option can be revoked by the optionor before it is exercised, it is not sufficient to create a valid escrow because the agreement is not binding on either party for lack of mutuality and the optionor can revoke the option after it is put into escrow [Thomas v. Birch (1918) 178 Cal. 483, 489, 173 P. 1102] .

Chapter 253 ESCROWS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-253 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 253.16

§ 253.16 Escrow for Sale

[1] Creation

Pursuant to Fin. Code § 17003, an escrow may be created to effect a gift or property, so as to pass title to the grantee but permit the grantor to retain a life estate [see Ch. 184, Deeds], or to transfer property on the performance of some condition by, or on behalf of, the grantee, which is referred to as an escrow for sale.

The most common type of escrow for sale is that involving a sale and purchase of real property. That is, the transfer of consideration for the transaction, costs, proration of taxes, recordation of new deeds, etc., is taken care of by a depositary, escrow holder, or agent. To create such an escrow requires the agreement of the grantor and grantee and the acceptance of the position of a depositary, or escrow holder by a third party [House v. Lala (1960) 180 Cal. App. 2d 412, 417, 4 Cal. Rptr. 366 ; Security-First Nat'l Bank v. Clark (1935) 8 Cal. App. 2d 709, 712, 48 P.2d 167] . The agreement is usually contained in written escrow instructions executed by the buyer and seller and delivered to the escrow holder [see Thoroman v. David (1926) 199 Cal. 386, 390, 249 P. 513 ; Neher v. Kauffman (1925) 197 Cal. 674, 683, 242 P. 713 ; Tuso v. Green (1924) 194 Cal. 574, 581, 229 P. 327 ; McKinley v. Lagae (1962) 207 Cal. App. 2d 284, 289, 24 Cal. Rptr. 454] .

[2] Title to Property

An escrow holder obtains no title to the property deposited in escrow, since the deposit of property in escrow does not alter or change the property's ownership [People v. Hess (1951) 104 Cal. App. 2d 642, 681, 234 P.2d 65] . The grantee acquires neither legal title nor the right of possession to the property placed in escrow until the escrow conditions are performed, unless the escrow agreement gives the grantee prior possession to the property [Los Angeles High School Dist. v. Quinn (1925) 195 Cal. 377, 383, 234 P. 313] . Once the conditions of the escrow agreement have been fully performed, title to the property in escrow passes to the grantee, although actual delivery of the property may not be made at such time [Osborn v. Osborn (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 358, 363, 267 P.2d 333 ; see also Todd v. Vestermark (1956) 145 Cal. App. 2d 374, 377, 302 P.2d 347 (buyer bears risk of loss of purchase money which escrow holder embezzled prior to close of escrow, even though deed had not been recorded)]. If the deed is delivered to the buyer before satisfaction of the escrow's conditions, the delivery is of no effect and title remains in the seller [Los Angeles City High School Dist. v. Quinn (1925) 195 Cal. 377, 383, 234 P. 313] unless the condition not complied with was for the benefit of the grantee [Kish v. Bay Counties Title Guaranty Co. (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 725, 728-729, 62 Cal. Rptr. 494] .

[3] Doctrine of Relation Back

If a valid escrow is created and the conditions of the escrow are met, the title of the grantee relates back to the date of the escrow's creation so as to defeat the claim of an intervening grantee who received his or her deed after the creation of the escrow with knowledge of the escrow [McDonald v. Huff (1888) 77 Cal. 279, 283, 19 P. 499] . The doctrine of relation back also applies to the grantor and grantee, if the grantee is in possession of the property during escrow [see Marr v. Rhodes (1900) 131 Cal. 267, 270, 63 P. 364 (grantee in possession is entitled to prune crop growing on land during escrow); Miller & Lux, Inc. v. Sparkman (1932) 128 Cal. App. 449, 454-455, 17 P.2d 772 (grantee in possession is liable for property taxes accruing during escrow)]. However, the doctrine does not apply to defeat rights that are acquired during escrow by third persons who had no knowledge of the escrow [see Koch v. Williams (1961) 193 Cal. App. 2d 537, 542, 14 Cal. Rptr. 429] .

Chapter 253 ESCROWS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-253 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 253.17

§ 253.17 Rights to Escrow

[1] Performance and Termination, Generally

In the absence of a contrary provision in the escrow agreement, the promises of the parties to the agreement are concurrent; neither party can complain of the other's nonperformance unless the party has performed [see Rubin v. Fuchs (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 50, 53-54, 81 Cal. Rptr. 373, 459 P.2d 925] . However, a party is entitled to cancel an escrow before the time for performance has expired, unless the signing of the escrow instructions constituted an irrevocable offer to purchase by the acceptance of consideration prior to the attempted cancellation [Wood Bldg. Corp. v. Griffitts (1958) 164 Cal. App. 2d 559, 330 P.2d 847] . In addition, a party who is in default under the terms of an escrow agreement does not have a right either to terminate the authority of the escrow holder or to rescind the escrow agreement [Gelber v. Cappeller (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 113, 119, 326 P.2d 521] . If the defaulting party does attempt to terminate or rescind, the other party can accept the rescission, treat the offer as a breach of contract and sue for damages, or insist that the defaulting party perform [Gelber v. Cappeller (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 113, 119-122, 326 P.2d 521 ; see Hastings v. Bank of America (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 627, 629, 180 P.2d 358] .

If the escrow fails because its conditions are not fullfilled, the parties may recover their respective deposits [Kelly v. Steinberg (1957) 148 Cal. App. 2d 211, 218, 306 P.2d 955 ; see also Vineland Homes, Inc. v. Barish (1956) 138 Cal. App. 2d 747, 750, 292 P.2d 941] .

However, if an escrow contract provides for forfeiture of the deposit of a defaulting party, such a provision will be enforced [Keelan v. Belmont Co. (1946) 73 Cal. App. 2d 6, 10-12, 165 P.2d 930] . Once the escrow agreement is fully consummated, it is beyond the power of either party to rescind it or to terminate the escrow [Gelber v. Cappeller (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 113, 120, 326 P.2d 521] .

[2] Forfeiture Clauses Declaring Time Is of Essence

Executory contracts for the sale of land frequently contain a provision to the effect that in case of breach by the purchaser his or her interest or rights under the contract must be forfeited. Such forfeiture may take place automatically, without notice or other affirmative act on the part of the vendor, if it is expressly provided that time is of the essence and that failure of the purchaser to perform must operate as a forfeiture of all his or her rights, leaving installments of the price previously paid in the possession of the vendor. When time is made essential and payment by the purchaser is to be made not later than a specified date, the forfeiture resulting from not making the payment is complete on that day and may not be undone by any subsequent act of the purchaser [Keelan v. Belmont Co. (1946) 73 Cal. App. 2d 6, 10, 165 P.2d 930 ; but see Major-Blakeney Corp. v. Jenkins (1953) 121 Cal. App. 2d 325, 332-335, 263 P.2d 655 ; Kellogg v. Curry (1951) 101 Cal. App. 2d 856, 859, 226 P.2d 381] .

Later cases seem reluctant to allow a forfeiture for a relatively minor failure to comply with a time of the essence provision unless the other party is actually damaged [see Civ. Code § 3275 (relief from forfeiture); Holiday Inns of America v. Knight (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 327, 329, 74 Cal. Rptr. 722, 450 P.2d 42 ; Williams Plumbing Co. v. Sinsley (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 1027, 1031-1035, 126 Cal. Rptr. 345 ; see also Baird v. Barton (1958) 163 Cal. App. 2d 502, 505, 329 P.2d 492 (vendor must tender own performance and demand compliance with time provisions to place purchaser in default) and Ch. 569, Vendor and Purchaser of Real Property, § 569.10 et seq.]. If the contract at issue is a real property installment sales contract as defined in Civ. Code § 2985(a), the purchaser may also have a right of reinstatement [Petersen v. Hartell (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 102, 113-117, 219 Cal. Rptr. 170, 707 P.2d 232 , discussed in Ch. 569, Vendor and Purchaser of Real Property].

[3] Escrow Holder as Agent of Parties

[a] As Agent of Parties

The escrow holder must be a stranger to the transaction that is the subject of the escrow [Roberts v. Carter & Potruch (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 370, 373, 295 P.2d 515] and, subject to exemptions enumerated in Fin. Code § 17006, escrow holders must be licensed by the Commissioner of Corporations [Fin. Code § 17200]. The escrow holder, before fulfillment of the conditions of the escrow, is the agent for both parties, but when the conditions are met, he or she becomes an agent for each party with regard to those things placed in escrow to which each party has become entitled[Shreeves v. Pearson (1924) 194 Cal. 699, 707, 230 P. 448 ; see Greenzweight v. Title Guar. & Trust Co. (1934) 1 Cal. 2d 577, 582, 36 P.2d 186 ; Howard v. Updike (1962) 202 Cal. App. 2d 534, 536, 20 Cal. Rptr. 831] .

The escrow holder is said to become, on fulfillment of the conditions, the trustee of the property deposited with him or her for the benefit of the person to whom it is to be delivered [Gelber v. Cappeller (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 113, 119, 326 P.2d 521 ; see Tumansky v. Woodruff (1936) 14 Cal. App. 2d 279, 283, 57 P.2d 1372] . When the conditions of the escrow are not fulfilled, the escrow holder does not become trustee of the property for the transferee but continues to hold it in trust for the party who deposited it [Orloff v. Metropolitan Trust Co. (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 484, 488-489, 110 P.2d 396 ; Hildebrand v. Beck (1925) 196 Cal. 141, 145, 236 P. 301] .

[4] Duties

The escrow holder bears a fiduciary relationship to each of the parties to the escrow [Amen v. Merced County Title Co. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 528, 534, 25 Cal. Rptr. 65, 375 P.2d 33] , and owes an obligation to each measured by an application of the ordinary principles of agency [Rianda v. San Benito Title Guar. Co. (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 170, 173, 217 P.2d 25] . He or she has the duty to strictly comply with the escrow instructions and the duty to exercise reasonable skill and ordinary diligence in the duties being assumed [Amen v. Merced County Title Co. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 528, 531-532, 25 Cal. Rptr. 65, 375 P.2d 33 ; Wade v. Lake County Title Co. (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 824, 828, 86 Cal. Rptr. 182] . Because the escrow holder is only a special agent of the parties, he or she does not have the duty to disclose facts to either party that are outside the scope of the escrow instructions [see Schaefer v. Manufacturers Bank (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 70, 77, 163 Cal. Rptr. 402 ; Axley v. Transamerica Title Ins. Co. (1978) 88 Cal. App. 3d 1, 8, 151 Cal. Rptr. 570] . Therefore, an escrow holder will not be liable for allegedly not disclosing certain suspicious facts about the transaction to a purchaser when the escrow holder follows the instructions and there are no instructions requiring such disclosures [Lee v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 160, 162-164, 70 Cal. Rptr. 378] . Also, the escrow holder will not be liable for failure to disclose to the buyer that the seller is purchasing the property and selling it to the buyer at a substantial profit in the same escrow [Blackburn v. McCoy (1934) 1 Cal. App. 2d 648, 654-655, 37 P.2d 153] . Similarly, a title insurer who has been engaged only to perform basic escrow functions, such as paying out funds, recording documents, and preparing a preliminary title report, and not to perform as an abstractor of title, owes no duty to disclose recorded liens or clouds on title [Siegel v. Fidelity Nat. Title Ins. Co. (1996) 46 Cal. App. 4th 1181, 1190, 54 Cal. Rptr. 2d 84] . However, an escrow holder has a fiduciary duty to the parties in escrow to obtain reliable evidence that a real estate broker is regularly licensed before paying the broker a commission, and to communicate facts concerning the broker's license to the parties in escrow [Kangarlou v. Progressive Title Co. (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 1174, 1179, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 754 ; see Judicial Council Of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI), CACI No. 4104, "Duties of Escrow Holder" (LexisNexis Matthew Bender, Official Publisher)].

An escrow holder does not owe a duty of care to persons who are not parties to the escrow [Summit Financial Holdings, Ltd. v. Continental Lawyers Title Co. (2002) 27 Cal. 4th 705, 712, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 541 disapproving of Kirby v. Palos Verdes Escrow Co. (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 57, 227 Cal. Rptr. 785 to the extent Kirby held otherwise]. Thus, an escrow holder who paid a note as instructed by issuing a check to the assignor of the note rather than the assignee, neither of whom were parties to the escrow, could not be held liable to the assignor for breach of fiduciary duty or negligence [Summit Financial Holdings, Ltd. v. Continental Lawyers Title Co. (2002) 27 Cal. 4th 705, 712, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 541, 41 P.3d 548] .

[5] Liability

When the escrow holder violates the instructions or acts negligently, he or she will ordinarily be liable for any loss occasioned by any breach of duty [Amen v. Merced County Title Co. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 528, 532, 25 Cal. Rptr. 65, 375 P.2d 33 ; see also Warington Lbr. Co. v. Fullerton Mortgage & Escrow Co. (1963) 222 Cal. App. 2d 706, 710-711, 35 Cal. Rptr. 423 ; Spaziani v. Millar (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 667, 682-683, 30 Cal. Rptr. 658] . However, no liability attaches to an escrow agent for failure to do something, such as reporting liens against the subject, that was not required by the terms of the escrow instructions [Siegel v. Fidelity Nat. Title Ins. Co. (1996) 46 Cal. App. 4th 1181, 1194, 54 Cal. Rptr. 2d 84] .

When the negligence of one of the parties is a factor without which the loss would not have occurred, the loss may fall on that party regardless of whether the conditions have been fulfilled [Majors v. Butler (1950) 99 Cal. App. 2d 370, 374, 221 P.2d 994] .

[6] Notification of Enforcement Action Against Escrow Holder

Whenever the Commissioner of Real Estate takes any enforcement or disciplinary action against a licensed escrow holder that is related to escrow services provided in accordance with Fin. Code § 17006(a)(4), the Commissioner must notify the Insurance Commissioner and the Commissioner of Corporations concerning the action or actions taken when they are final. The purpose of this notification is to alert the departments that enforcement or disciplinary action has been taken, in case the licensee seeks or obtains employment regulated by the other departments [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10176.1(a)(1)]. In turn, the Commissioners of the Department of Corporations and the Department of Insurance are required to provide information to the Department of Real Estate and the other department concerning persons who have been subject to enforcement or disciplinary action for malfeasance or misconduct related to the escrow industry [see Fin. Code § 17423.1; Ins. Code § 12414.31].

In addition to the notification, the Commissioner must also provide the other Commissioners with a copy of the written accusation, a statement of issues, or the order issued or filed in the matter, as well as additional requested materials concerning the relevant facts of the enforcement or disciplinary action [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10176.1(a)(2)]. This information will also appear on a website established and maintained by the Department of Real Estate, with hyperlinks to the websites to be established by the Department of Corporations and the Department of Insurance [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10176.1(b); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10176.1(c) (no liability for release of false information unless done with knowledge and malice)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-253 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 253.18

§ 253.18 Remedies

[1] Damages

[a] Causation

The damages recoverable for an escrow holder's breach of duty are those that are proximately caused by the breach [see Capell Associates, Inc. v. Central Valley Sec. Co. (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 773, 780-786, 67 Cal. Rptr. 463] . For example, the damages for the failure to execute a security agreement as provided in the instructions so as to provide protection under the antideficiency legislation is the liability resulting from a personal judgment entered against the escrow holder's principal [see Kish v. Bay Counties Title Guaranty Co. (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 725, 732-734, 62 Cal. Rptr. 494] . When the action of the escrow holder results in the loss of a party's security, the party does not have to try to collect the unsecured debt from the debtor first, but can proceed directly against the escrow holder just as the party could have proceeded directly against the security [Howe v. City Title Ins. Co. (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 85, 87, 63 Cal. Rptr. 119] . If the escrow holder's negligence requires his or her principal to bring a quiet title action, the damages are the expenses of the action, including attorney's fees [see Prentice v. North Amer. Title Guar. Corp (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 618, 620, 30 Cal. Rptr. 821, 381 P.2d 645] .

[b] Actions Against Escrow Holder--Statute of Limitations

If the loss by the escrow holder is based on breach of an actual or implied provision of the written escrow instructions, the four-year statute of limitations for actions on a written contract [see Code Civ. Proc. § 337] applies even if the escrow holder did not sign the escrow instructions and only orally accepted them. If the action is for breach of oral escrow instructions, the two-year statute of limitations for oral contracts [see Code Civ. Proc. § 339] applies [see Roberts v. Carter & Potruch (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 370, 373, 295 P.2d 515] . The statute begins to run on the action when the party discovers or should have discovered the injury, not when the original breach occurred [Amen v. Merced County Title Co. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 528, 531-535, 25 Cal. Rptr. 65, 375 P.2d 33] .

[c] Exculpatory Clauses

Any exculpatory clause in the escrow instructions that purports to exculpate the escrow holder from liability resulting from his or her own negligence is void as contrary to public policy [Akin v. Business Title Corp. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 153, 155-159, 70 Cal. Rptr. 287 ; see Tunkl v. Regents of University of California (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 92, 98-101, 32 Cal. Rptr. 33, 383 P.2d 441] .

[2] Specific Performance

Because any person having the possession or control of a particular article of personal property, of which he or she is not the owner, may be compelled specifically to deliver it to the person entitled to its immediate possession [Civ. Code § 3380], if the escrow holder refuses to deliver the instruments after performance of the conditions, the grantee may bring an action for specific delivery of personal property. If the escrow holder wrongfully delivers the property to a third person, the party entitled to the property under the escrow instructions may bring an action against that person without joining the escrow holder or other party to the escrow transaction [Law v. Title Guar. & Trust Co. (1928) 91 Cal. App. 621, 627, 267 P. 565] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

21-253 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 253.19

§ 253.19 Obligation to Return Funds

[1] In General

It is the obligation of a buyer and seller who enter into a contract to purchase and sell real property to ensure that all funds deposited into an escrow account are returned to the person who deposited them or who is otherwise entitled to the funds under the contract, if the purchase of the property is not complete by the date set forth in the contract or any duly executed extension for the close of escrow [Civ. Code § 1057.3(a)]. For purposes of Civ. Code § 1057.3, the term "property" means real property containing one to four residential units, at least one of which at the time the escrow is created is to be occupied by the buyer [Civ. Code § 1057.3(f)(3)]. "Close of escrow" means the date, specified event, or performance of prescribed condition on which the escrow agent is to deliver the subject of the escrow to the person specified in the buyer's instructions [Civ. Code § 1057.3(f)(1)].

[2] Remedy

Any buyer or seller who fails to execute any document required by the escrow holder to release funds in an escrow account within 30 days after a written demand for return of funds is liable to the person making the deposit for all of the following [Civ. Code § 1057.3(b)]:

- The amount of the funds deposited in escrow not held in good faith to resolve a good faith dispute;
- Damages of treble the amount of the funds deposited in escrow not held to resolve a good faith dispute, but not less than $100 and not more than $1,000; and
- Reasonable attorney's fees.

For discussion of the definition of "good faith dispute," see § 253.20[3]. For a form of complaint for return of a deposit, treble damages, and attorney's fees, see § 253.71.

[3] Good Faith Dispute

There is no cause of action pursuant to Civ. Code § 1057.3 or liability for failure to return funds if the funds are withheld to resolve a good faith dispute between a buyer and seller. The party who is denied return of the funds is only entitled to damages if he or she proves that there was no good faith dispute as to the right to the funds on deposit [Civ. Code § 1057.3(c)]. A "good faith dispute" is a dispute in which the trier of fact finds that the party refusing to return the deposited funds had a reasonable belief of his or her legal entitlement to withhold the deposited funds. The existence of a good faith dispute must be determined by the trier of fact [Civ. Code § 1057.3(f)(2)].

[4] Deposit in Court

If an action is filed pursuant to Civ. Code § 1057.3, the escrow holder must deposit the sum in dispute, less any cancellation fee and charges incurred, with the court in which the action is filed and be discharged of further responsibility for the funds [Civ. Code § 1057.3(d)]. The escrow holder has the option of filing an interpleader action [Civ. Code § 1057.3(g)]. For discussion of an escrow holder's right to interpleader, see § 253.20.

[5] Effect on Underlying Contract

Neither any document required by the escrow holder to release funds nor the acceptance of funds by any principal is a cancellation or termination of the underlying contract to purchase and sell unless the cancellation is specifically stated therein. If the escrow instructions constitute the only contract between the parties, no document required by the escrow holder to release funds abrogates a cause of action for breach of any contractual obligation to purchase or sell real property unless the cancellation is stated therein [Civ. Code § 1057.3(e)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 253.20 Escrow Holder's Right to Interpleader

If an escrow holder is faced with conflicting demands from the parties to an escrow concerning the property held in escrow, the escrow holder may file an action in interpleader to compel the parties to litigate their claims to the funds or documents [see §§ 253.60 -253.62]. The escrow holder may deposit the disputed property with the court and then be discharged from liability. An escrow holder who is sued by one claimant to the property held in escrow may cross complain against the plaintiff and the other claimants in interpleader and again be discharged upon the payment into court [Code Civ. Proc. § 386]. The defendant escrow holder may also obtain the discharge after payment into court if it files an affidavit stating that he or she is a mere stakeholder [Code Civ. Proc. § 386.5;see § 253.65] and may be awarded in the court's discretion costs and reasonable attorney's fees if he or she requests them in his or her pleading [Code Civ. Proc. § 386.6].

For discussion and forms for use in interpleader actions, see Ch. 314, Interpleader .

[1] Closing of Escrow

Closing of escrow generally. Shreeves v. Pearson (1924) 194 Cal. 699, 708, 230 P. 448 ; Early v. Owens (1930) 109 Cal. App. 489, 494, 293 P. 136

Word "fault," as used in provision of real estate contract that in event that escrow does not close within time provided by reason of some fault of sellers, sellers agree to extend escrow for so long as it takes to cure such default, but in no event for longer than 180 days, meant inability to perform rather than wrongdoing. Millsap v. Spilman (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 444, 446, 75 Cal. Rptr. 749

[2] Defaulting Party

Liability of defaulting party. Hastings v. Bank of America (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 627, 629, 180 P.2d 358 ; see also Gelber v. Cappeller (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 113, 120, 326 P.2d 521

[3] Escrow Holder's Liability

Escrow holder owes duty only to parties and participants in escrow, and may not be held liable to a stranger to the escrow. Summit Financial Holdings, Ltd. v. Continental Lawyers Title Co. (2002) 27 Cal. 4th 705, 712, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 541, 41 P.3d 548 (disapproving of Kirby v. Palos Verdes Escrow Co. (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 57, 227 Cal. Rptr. 785 to extent Kirby holds otherwise)

Title company who at request of bank in refinancing of home acted as sub-escrow with regard to borrower's payoff of promissory note secured by second deed of trust, and who failed to ensure that reconveyance was recorded, did not owe fiduciary duty to borrower because only bank and title company were parties to escrow. Markowitz v. Fidelity

National Title Co. (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 508, 529, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 217

Title insurer was not liable for failure of its issuing agent to comply with written instructions requiring issuing agent to provide, prior to close of escrow, copies of any deeds to be recorded that would vest title in anyone other than buyer, when (1) insurer was not party to contract between issuing agent and plaintiff, and (2) agency agreement between insurer and issuing agent specifically excluded sub-escrow services, including "closings of real estate transactions." Universal Bank v. Lawyers Title Ins. Corp. (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1062, 1066, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 196

Title insurer who has been engaged only to perform basic escrow functions, such as paying out funds, recording documents, and preparing preliminary title report, and not to perform as abstractor of title, owes no duty to disclose recorded liens or clouds on title. Siegel v. Fidelity Nat. Title Ins. Co. (1996) 46 Cal. App. 4th 1181, 1190, 54 Cal. Rptr. 2d 84

No liability attaches to escrow holder for failure to do something not required by terms of escrow or for loss incurred while obediently following escrow instructions. Siegel v. Fidelity Nat. Title Ins. Co. (1996) 46 Cal. App. 4th 1181, 1194, 54 Cal. Rptr. 2d 84

Escrow holder is liable for failure to verify signature on amendment to escrow instructions. Lee v. Escrow Consultants Inc. (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 915, 924, 259 Cal. Rptr. 117

When counsel for adverse party delivered unrecorded trust deed to attorney along with letter authorizing attorney to record deed under specific conditions, attorney's failure to prevent and disclose client's unauthorized seizure and recordation of document constituted negligence and constructive fraud; attorney's acceptance of deed gave rise to duty of care as escrow holder. Wasmann v. Seidenberg (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 752, 755-757, 248 Cal. Rptr. 744

Escrow holder was liable when its negligence or failure to follow instructions was substantial factor in cause of plaintiff's damage; argument that other party to escrow might not have performed anyway was unavailing. Bruckman v. Parliament Escrow Corp. (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 1051, 1062-1063, 235 Cal. Rptr. 813

Escrow holder was liable when it had notice of assignment to party to escrow and paid another party pursuant to instructions without clarifying who was entitled to be paid. Kirby v. Palos Verdes Escrow Co. (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 57, 64-66, 227 Cal. Rptr. 785

Cause of action was stated against escrow holder for violation of Civ. Code § 2995 prohibition against real estate developer requiring use of controlled escrow company by allegations that buyer was orally told that use of escrow company was mandatory even though instructions stated that use of company was not required. *MacManus v. Although escrow instructions can be so complete as to constitute a final contract that may not be varied, designation "escrow instruction" does not make them such contract per se. Wolf v. Price (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 165, 171, 52 Cal. Rptr. 889

Clause added to escrow instructions that terms and conditions of existing first encumbrance were subject to written approval of buyer invoked standard of objective considerations of reasonable person in determining satisfaction or dissatisfaction with terms of note; reasonable person should not expect promissory note to be free of default-acceleration and prepayment-penalty clauses. Kadner v. Rptr. 819, 467 P.2d 547

When A agrees to sell property to B and B agrees to sell it to C and both sales are executed through single escrow, property is subject to judgment liens against B, notwithstanding fact that B put up no money for property that was paid for entirely by C; neither resulting trust [Civ. Code § 853] nor constructive trust [Civ. Code § 2224] arises in favor of *C. Majewsky v. Empire Constr. Co., Ltd. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 478, 483-486, 85 Cal. Defendant _____ [seller of property] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of _____ County, California [or allege other capacity and residence].

[3. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as DOES I-_____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by these fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of these fictitiously named defendants is making or has a claim to the _____ (property or funds or obligation) herein described that is conflicting with the claims of defendants herein and that may subject plaintiff to vexations litigation with respect to the _____ (property or funds or obligation).)]

4. On or about _____ [date], defendants entered into agreements in writing in the form of escrow instructions, under and pursuant to which they employed plaintiff as escrow agent for the purpose of completing andconsummating an agreement of purchase and sale that they, defendants, had previously entered into in writing covering certain real and personal property. The escrow instructions relating to the real property were executed by defendants and were and are designated and numbered Escrow No. _____; a true copy of this numbered escrow is attached to this complaint as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference. Escrow instructions in writing covering the personal property were executed by defendants, numbered Escrow No. _____, and a true copy of this numbered escrow is attached to this complaint as Exhibit B and incorporated by reference.

5. On the execution of the escrow instructions, plaintiff entered on its duties as escrow holder and escrow agent and pursuant to the instructions and the agreements therein contained received $_____ as a deposit in the escrow, $_____ of which was to be paid and used in accordance with the instructions contained in Escrow No. _____, and $_____ of which was to be paid and used in accordance with instructions in Escrow No. _____.

6. In accordance with the escrow instructions given it and particularly the instructions contained in Escrow No. _____, plaintiff paid out of funds on deposit with it and pursuant to the instructions the sum of $_____ to _____ [name], a real estate broker.

7. Plaintiff, in accordance with the instructions, obtained a title report and has incurred an indebtedness to _____ [name of title company] in the sum of $_____. Plaintiff incurred an indebtedness of $_____ for notarizing a deed, all in accordance with the escrow instructions, and likewise for advertising notice of sale of the personal property, for which plaintiff has incurred an indebtedness of $_____; _____ [specify any other costs incurred in the escrow]; defendants each agreed, in accordance with the instructions, to pay to plaintiff the sum of $_____ for plaintiff's services as escrow agent, and a total of $_____, for all other services to be rendered, making a total of $_____ payable to plaintiff from defendants, no part of which has been paid to it.

8. On _____ [date], defendant _____ [name] served on plaintiff what purports to be a notice of recission in writing, in which defendant purported to rescind his/her agreement of sale and purchase with defendant _____ [name], and demanded that plaintiff return to him/her the sum of $_____ which defendant had placed in escrow with plaintiff pursuant to the aforementioned escrow agreement.

9. Thereupon plaintiff notified defendant _____ [name of nonrescinding defendant] of receipt of the notice of rescission and defendant _____ [name of nonrescinding defendant] of receipt of the notice of rescission and defendant _____ [name of nonrescinding defendant] thereupon did notify plaintiff not to return the sum to _____ [name of rescinding defendant] or any part thereof. Defendant _____ [name of nonrescinding defendant] further notified plaintiff that he/she claimed the money held by plaintiff under the aforementioned escrow agreement.

10. Plaintiff does not know who is the owner of and entitled to receive the money and documents which it has on deposit in Escrow No. _____; it makes no claim thereto or any part thereof, except for its charges, expenses, and costs, as alleged above and as set forth below, and it hereby offers to hold the money and documents subject to the proper order of this court or to pay such funds as it has on deposit, less its proper charges and expenses, into court for disposal as the court may direct.

11. By the terms of the escrow instructions, defendants agreed that if conflicting demands be made in connection with the escrow, the escrow agent shall have the absolute right to withhold and stop all proceedings; when conflicting demands were made as aforesaid on plaintiff, it elected to and did stop all proceedings and did withhold such funds and documents as it then had on hand, pending the settlement of the controversy between defendants.

12. Further, by the term of the escrow instructions, it is provided that if this plaintiff is required to respond to a legal summons or initiate a legal proceeding that defendants would pay all costs, expenses, and reasonable attorney's fees expended or incurred by plaintiff. [Defendants further agreed to save plaintiff harmless as escrow holder, under the terms of the escrow instructions, from all loss and expense, including such attorney's fees and court costs incurred by reason of any action that might in any way arise out of the escrow.] Plaintiff has incurred and will incur attorney's fees and costs and expenses in this action. Reasonable attorney's fees in this action in the sum of $_____ together with plaintiff's other expenses and costs in the sum of $_____ have been necessarily incurred. Further attorney's fees and costs and expenses will be incurred by plaintiff in this action; plaintiff requests leave to insert the same in this complaint when they are ascertained.

13. Both defendant _____ [name] and defendant _____ [name] threaten to commence legal action to recover the moneys held by plaintiff pursuant to the aforementioned escrow agreements. Unless both defendants are ordered to interplead and are restrained from instituting other actions against plaintiff for the recovery of the moneys held by plaintiff pursuant to the above mentioned escrow agreements, a multiplicity of suits will result and the moneys held by plaintiff will be unnecessarily reduced by attorney fees pursuant to the aforementioned escrow agreements.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. That defendants be ordered to interplead and litigate their respective rights to the property and moneys held pursuant to the escrow agreements;

2. That plaintiff be ordered to deposit with the Clerk of this Court all property and moneys held by plaintiff pursuant to the escrow agreements;

3. That plaintiff be discharged from any and all liability on account of the claims of both defendants;

4. For all costs and expenses incurred by plaintiff in opening said Escrow No. _____ and in following the escrow instructions given it by defendants;

6. That each defendant be restrained from instituting an action against plaintiff for the recovery of any property and moneys heretofore held by plaintiff pursuant to the escrow agreements; and

7. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint in interpleader by a corporate escrow holder when it has no interest in the money or other property deposited with it pursuant to an escrow agreement or escrow instructions and when the escrow cannot be closed due to the attempted rescission of a party to the escrow and conflicting claims of the parties to the funds and property held in escrow. For forms of complaint in interpleader by an escrow holder to determine the status of property held in escrow, generally, as well as to determine the rights of a seller and creditors in connection with the transfer of a liquor license, see §§ 253.61 and 253.62, respectively.

An interpleader action may be brought whenever conflicting claims are or may be made on an escrow holder for personal property or for the performance of an obligation to compel the other parties to interplead and litigate their claims. The order of substitution may be made, the action of interpleader may be maintained, and the applicant or interpleading party may be discharged from liability to all or any of the conflicting claimaints, although their titles or claims have no common origin, or are not identical but are adverse to and independent of one another [Code Civ. Proc. § 386(a)].

[3] Deposit of Amount in Dispute

This form states that plaintiff will hold the property in question to the order of the court to be deposited with the court when ordered by the court. A plaintiff or cross complainant may deposit with the court any amount in dispute without receiving a prior court order and, by depositing the amount in dispute, any interest on this amount ceases to accrue after the date of the deposit [Code Civ. Proc. § 386(c)].

[4] Allowance of Attorney's Fees

A party to an action under Code Civ. Proc. § 386 may insert in his or her motion, petition, complaint, or cross complaint a request for allowance of costs and reasonable attorney's fees incurred in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 386.6(a)]. A party will not be denied attorney's fees for the reason that he or she is an attorney, appeared in pro se, and performed his or her own legal services [Code Civ. Proc. § 386.6(b)].

[5] Verification

A complaint in interpleader is not required to be verified, but cross-complaints in interpleader must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 386(a)]. Special requirements exist, however, if a preliminary injunction or a temporary restraining order, or both, is sought. In that case, facts alleged in a verified complaint or accompanying affidavit must show (1) that sufficient grounds exist for the issuance of the injunction, or (2) in the case of a temporary restraining order, that great or irreparable injury will result to the applicant before the matter can be heard on notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. Verification of the complaint requires the defendant to file a verified answer in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude the defendant from using a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26, Answers . For additional discussion of the verification of a complaint in interpleader, see Ch. 314, Interpleader .

[6] Jurisdiction

The superior court has jurisdiction of the action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less, in which case it will be classified as a limited civil case [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(8)]. When title or right to possession is to be tried, or permanent injunctive relief issought, the case will be classified as an unlimited civil case [see Code Civ. Proc. § 88].

In limited civil cases, the first page of the first paper must state that it is a limited civil case and whether the amount demanded exceeds or does not exceed $10,000 [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Gov. Code § 70613(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9), (10)].

[2] Use of Form

This form may be used as a complaint in interpleader by an attorney acting as an escrow agent in the transfer of a liquor license pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074 when there are claims of employees or creditors of the seller that have been placed against the funds in escrow and when the seller disputes these claims, or the funds are not sufficient to pay the claims.

[3] Priority of Employee Claims Against Escrow Funds

A first priority is granted by Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074 to specified claims for taxes and for wages, salaries, or fringe benefits of employees of a seller or transferor of an alcoholic beverage license in the distribution of the consideration exchanged for the license when the consideration is not sufficient to pay such claims of the creditors of the seller or transferor in full. The statute specifies that the transfer application must be accompanied by a description of the entire consideration.

[4] Notice to Creditors

Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074 also directs the escrow holder in an alcoholic beverage license transfer involving a purchase price or consideration to notify the transferor's bona fide creditors of the escrow transfer so that they may file claims with the escrow holder in instances when the transferor disputes the claims. Landlords are included in the classification of secured creditors for purposes of collection of past due rent [Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074].

[Verification, if desired. See § 253.60[1].]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint to initiate an action for damages for the conversion of escrowed property to be brought by a seller against the escrow holder and seller, if appropriate, when it is alleged that there has been misappropriation of funds placed in escrow and when the buyer has attempted to rescind the contract of sale [see Civ. Code § 1692].

[3] Wrongful Conversion of Personalty

The detriment caused by the wrongful conversion of personal property is presumed to be (1) the value of the property at the time of the conversion, with the interest from that time, or, an amount sufficient to indemnify the party injured for the loss which is the natural, reasonable, and proximate result of the wrongful act complained of and which a proper degree of prudence on his or her part would not have averted; and (2) a fair compensation for the time and money properly expended in pursuit of the property [Civ. Code § 3336;see Ch. 150, Conversion].

[4] Jurisdiction

The superior court has jurisdiction of the action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less, in which case it will be classified as a limited civil case [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(8)]. When title or right to possession is to be tried, or permanent injunctive relief is sought, the case will be classified as an unlimited civil case [see Code Civ. Proc. § 88].

In limited civil cases, the first page of the first paper must state that it is a limited civil case and whether the amount demanded exceeds or does not exceed $10,000 [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Gov. Code § 70613(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9), (10)].

[5] Venue

For purposes of venue, conversion is not considered an injury to person or personal property as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a), which would permit trial in the county where the conversion took place, because such an injury is limited to physical or corporeal injury [Spangenberg v. Spangenberg (1932) 123 Cal. App. 387, 391, 11 P.2d 408] . Therefore, the county in which defendant resides is the proper county for the trial of an action for conversion [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a); Haurat v. Superior Court (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 330, 333, 50 Cal. Rptr. 520] .

In all other particulars plaintiff has complied with the obligations required of him/her under the terms of the agreement.

9. Defendant has failed, neglected, and refused _____ [allege breach of agreement to convey real property, e.g., to cause instruments to be filed for record entitling the escrow holder to procure a standard coverage policy of title insurance, showing title vested in plaintiff free of all taxes, except general and special taxes for the year of _____ [date], as proved in the agreement; has further failed, neglected, and refused to cause the real property to be conveyed to plaintiff; and has failed to furnish a report from a pest control company, all as required by the terms of the agreement]. Defendant continues to and does now fail and refuse to fulfill any of the terms of his/her contract, or to accept any payments thereunder, and has wholly repudiated and continues to wholly repudiate the contract to sell and convey the real property to plaintiff.

10. The consideration named in the agreement of purchase and sale as the total purchase price to be paid by plaintiff for the real property was at the time of the execution of the agreement the fair and reasonable value of the property and the agreement was, as to the defendant, just and reasonable.

11. As a proximate result of defendant's failure to comply with the terms of the escrow agreement as hereinabove alleged, plaintiff has sustained damages in the sum of $_____ as follows: _____ [state, e.g., the reasonable rental value of the property]. Unless the court orders specific performance of the contract for the sale of real property, as constituted by Exhibit A and Exhibit B, plaintiff will be damaged in the further sum of $_____ as follows: _____ [state, e.g., the reasonable rental value of the property].

12. The agreement provides, among other things, that if action is instituted on the agreement, attorney's fees as fixed by the court would be awarded to the party who prevailed in the action. It has been necessary for plaintiff to retain _____ [name], a duly licensed and practicing attorney of _____ County, California, to commence and maintain this action, and plaintiff has incurred attorney's fees in the prosecution of this action in the sum of $_____. [For alternate form of allegations for attorney's fees, see § 253.60[1], Paragraph 12].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. That defendant specifically perform his/her agreement of sale, and that he/she make, execute, and deliver to plaintiff his/her grant deed to the real property and a good and sufficient bill of sale to the personal property free and clear of all encumbrances, except a deed of trust in the amount of $_____ as provided in the agreement between the parties;

2. For the sum of $_____ in damages sustained by plaintiff in the event specific performance of the agreement cannot be had;

3. Whether or not specific performance is granted, damages in the further sum of $_____;

4. For attorney's fees in the sum of $_____;

5. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

6. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint to be used in an action brought by the buyer against the seller for specific performance of a contract for the sale of land and of an escrow agreement and for damages on the failure of the seller to comply with the contract and escrow instructions. The specific performance of a land sale contract may be compelled pursuant to Civ. Code § 3384 [see also Civ. Code § 3390].

[3] Measure of Relief

When specific performance is not granted, the measure of damages resulting from the breach of an agreement to convey an estate in real property is deemed to be the price paid and the expenses properly incurred in examining the title and preparing the necessary papers, with interest thereon. Damages may also include the difference between the price agreed to be paid and the value of the estate agreed to be conveyed at the time of the breach, the expenses properly incurred in preparing to enter on the land, consequential damages according to proof, and interest [Civ. Code § 3306]. The detriment caused by the breach of an agreement to purchase an estate in real property is the excess, if any, of the amount that would have been due to the seller, under the contract, over the value of the property to him or her [Civ. Code § 3307].

[4] State Statutes

Measure of damages for breach of land sale contracts. Civ. Code §§ 3306, 3307

Specific performance of contracts. Civ. Code § 3384 et seq.

[5] Decisions

Buyer was not entitled to specific performance when seller properly canceled escrow for buyer's failure of performance without performing seller's conditions because seller's conditions were not concurrent conditions to buyer's conditions. Fogarty v. Saathoff (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 780, 785-787, 180 Cal. Rptr. 484

Escrow instructions together with executory agreement considered to be total agreement of parties. Katemis v. Westerlind (1953) 120 Cal. App. 2d 537, 542, 261 P.2d 553

1. [Capacity and residence of parties. See § 253.66[1], Paragraph 1.]

2. _____ [Allege capacity of escrow holder, e.g., Defendant _____ is, and at all times mentioned herein was, a national banking corporation with its principal office and place of business in the _____ [city], _____ County, California, and engaged in the general banking business therein, including the handling of escrows].

[3. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 253.60[1], Paragraph 3.]

4. On _____ [date], plaintiff was the owner and holder of all of the issued and outstanding certificates of the capital stock of _____ [corporate name], a corporation chartered and organized under the laws of the state of _____ [specify state] [and authorized to transact business in California].

5. On _____ [date], plaintiff entered into an agreement in writing with defendant _____ [name], whereby plaintiff agreed to sell and this defendant agreed to purchase all the certificates of the capital stock of _____ [name of corporation] owned and held by plaintiff. Defendant agreed to pay to plaintiff for the certificates of capital stock the sum of $_____ in cash. A copy of the agreement between plaintiff and the defendant is attached to this complaint as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference.

6. The agreement further provided that an escrow should be opened by the parties with defendant _____ [escrow agent] and for the deposit therein of the certificates of capital stock by plaintiff and for the deposit therein of the sum of $_____ in cash by defendant _____ [purchaser]. The agreement also provided that the closing date of the escrow should be _____ [date].

7. On _____ [date], plaintiff and defendant _____ [purchaser] executed escrow instructions to defendant _____ [escrow agent] for the purpose of carrying into effect the agreement of sale and purchase of the certificates of capital stock mentioned and described in this complaint. These instructions provided that plaintiff should deposit his/her certificates of capital stock, endorsed in blank, in escrow with defendant _____ [escrow agent]. A copy of the escrow instructions is attached to this complaint as Exhibit B and made a part of this complaint.

8. Within the time provided in the agreement of sale and purchase, plaintiff deposited in the escrow with defendant _____ [escrow agent] all stock certificates owned by plaintiff and referred to in Exhibit A.

9. Defendant _____ [purchaser] failed and refused to deposit in the escrow within the time provided in the sale and purchase agreement, or at all, cash in the amount of $_____ or in any other amount. Defendant _____ [purchaser] is in total and complete default and has not performed any of the obligations imposed on him/her by the agreement of sale and purchase and the closing date for the performance of the escrow agreement has passed.

10. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff demanded of defendant _____ [escrow agent] the return and delivery to plaintiff of the stock certificates deposited in the escrow; defendant _____ [escrow agent] has failed and refused to deliver the same to plaintiff; this defendant bases its failure and refusal to return the property to plaintiff on the ground that defendant _____ [purchaser] has threatened to hold it liable in damages if it releases to plaintiff the stock certificates which plaintiff deposited in escrow with defendant.

11. An actual controversy exists between plaintiff and defendants relating to the legal rights and duties of the respective parties arising or growing out of the agreement of sale and purchase and the escrow instructions, since defendants contend that the property deposited in escrow may be held until such time as defendant _____ [purchaser] authorizes a release of the same from the escrow to plaintiff and plaintiff contends that on the failure and refusal of defendant _____ [purchaser] to deposit in escrow the sum of $_____ in cash, it was and is the legal duty and obligation of _____ [escrow agent], after the closing date of the escrow and on demand of plaintiff, to return to plaintiff the property which he/she deposited in the escrow.

12. Defendants, and each of them, have no right, title, or interest in the property deposited in escrow by plaintiff.

13. A judicial declaration is necessary and appropriate at this time under the circumstances in order that plaintiff may ascertain his/her rights and duties under the agreement of sale and escrow instructions. [_____ (Allege any financial or other burden being caused plaintiff by the unsettled state of affairs).]

[14. _____ (Allege detriment and damages incurred if any, to date if damages are sought).]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. That the court declare that plaintiff is entitled to the possession of the property deposited in escrow with defendant _____ [escrow agent];

2. That the court declare that defendant _____ [escrow agent] and defendant _____ [purchaser] have no right, title, or interest in the above-described capital stock;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for declaratory relief pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 brought by a seller of corporate stock against the buyer and escrow holder when the buyer has failed to perform under the contract for sale of the stock, and the seller wants a court determination that he or she is the sole owner and entitled to a return of the corporate stock held in escrow.

[3] Declaratory Relief

Any person who is interested under a contract or who desires a declaration of his or her rights and duties with respect to another or on property, may, in cases of actual controversy relating to the legal rights and duties of the respective parties, bring an original action in superior court for a declaration of his or her rights and duties in the contract of property. The action is not a limited civil case. In a limited civil case, declaratory relief may only be sought to the extent allowed pursuant to provisions governing limited civil cases (generally, by way of cross complaint in an action that is otherwise a limited civil case) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060; see Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(7), 580(b)(4) (restrictions on when declaratory relief may be sought in a limited civil case)]. When title or right to possession is to be tried, or permanent injunctive relief is sought, the case will be classified as an unlimited civil case [see Code Civ. Proc. § 88].

The complaint may ask for a declaration of rights and duties, either alone or with other relief. The declaration may be either affirmative or negative in form and effect, and such declaration has the force of a final judgment, and may be had before there has been any breach of the obligation in respect to which the declaration is sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]. For a complete discussion and alternative forms of complaint for declaratory relief, see Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief .

[4] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified in anunlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude the defendant from using a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[5] State Statutes

Declaratory relief actions, generally. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1060-1062.5

Discretion of court to refuse relief when declaration or determination is not necessary or proper at time under all circumstances. Code Civ. Proc. § 1061

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use by one party to a real property purchase and sale contract when the other party fails to execute the documents required by the escrow holder to return funds deposited in an escrow account after the failure of the escrow to close. The action is authorized by Civ. Code § 1057.3(b).

An action under Civ. Code § 1057.3 is authorized only when the real property that is the subject of the purchase and sale contract consists of one to four residential units, at least one of which at the time the escrow is created is to be occupied by the buyer [Civ. Code § 1057.3(f)(3)].

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges (1) a contract to purchase real property (Paragraph 3), (2) a description of the real property that is the subject of the contract (Paragraph 3), (3) a deposit of funds in escrow (Paragraph 4), (4) the name of the escrow holder and the escrow account number (Paragraph 4), (5) the escrow date (Paragraph 5), (6) the failure of escrow to close (Paragraph 5), (7) a written demand for return of the funds (Paragraph 6) [see Civ. Code § 1057.3(b)], (8) failure to return the funds (Paragraph 7), and (9) lack of a good faith dispute over the right to the funds (Paragraph 8) [see Civ. Code § 1057.3(c)].

To protect personal privacy and other legitimate interests, parties and their attorneys must not include financial account numbers, or must redact such numbers where inclusion is necessary, in all pleadings and other papers filed in the court's public file, whether filed in paper or electronic form, unless otherwise provided by law or ordered by the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.20(b)]. However, it is not clear whether "financial account" would include an escrow account.

[4] Deposit of Funds With Court

When the action is filed, the escrow holder must deposit the sum in dispute, less any cancellation fee and charges incurred, with the court in which the action is filed and be discharged of further responsibility for the funds [Civ. Code § 1057.3(d)].

[5] Treble Damages and Attorney's Fees

Civ. Code § 1057.3(b) authorizes the recovery of treble damages of not less than $100 nor more than $1,000 and reasonable attorney's fees.

§ 254.13 Filing and Service of Writs, Notices, and Other Papers

[1] Filing With Levying Officer

If a paper is required or permitted to be filed with a levying officer, the paper is considered filed when actually received by the officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 681.040].

[2] Service on Attorney of Judgment Creditor

Subject to Fam. Code § 215 (notice of modification of marriage dissolution orders after final decree) and Code Civ. Proc. §§ 283-286 (provisions governing representation by attorneys), when a notice, order, or other paper is required to be served on the judgment creditor, it must be served instead on the judgment creditor's attorney of record if the creditor has an attorney [Code Civ. Proc. § 684.010].

[3] On Attorney Designated by Judgment Debtor

When a writ, notice, order, or other paper is required to be served on the judgment debtor, it must be served on the debtor instead of the debtor's attorney [Code Civ. Proc. § 684.020(a)]. Service must be on an attorney specified by the judgment debtor, however, if the debtor has filed with the court and served on the judgment creditor a request that service be made on a designated attorney. The request must include a consent by the attorney to receive such service on behalf of the judgment debtor. Service of the request on the judgment creditor may be made personally or by mail. If the judgment debtor revokes the request, or the attorney revokes the consent, service must be made on the judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. § 684.020(b)]. Revocation is made by filing a notice of revocation with the court. The revocation is not binding on the judgment creditor until a copy of the notice is served on him or her, either personally or by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 684.020(c)].

[4] Subpoena or Contempt Papers

Service of a subpoena or other process to require attendance of a party, or of a paper to bring a party into contempt, must be made on the party and not his or her attorney [Code Civ. Proc. § 684.030].

21-254 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 254.14

§ 254.14 Manner of Service

[1] On Attorney

When service is required on an attorney, it must be made either by personal delivery to the attorney, by service in the manner provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 1011(a) when the attorney is absent from his or her office, or by mail in the manner provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 684.120 (see § 254.14[3]) [Code Civ. Proc. § 684.040]. For discussion of service on an attorney or party pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1011(a), see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers . Such service on the attorney constitutes service on the judgment creditor or debtor [Code Civ. Proc. § 684.050].

[2] Personal Service

If a writ, notice, order, or other paper is required to be personally served, service must be made in the same manner as a summons is served under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 413.10-417.40 [Code Civ. Proc. § 684.110(a)]. For discussion of personal service of a summons, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers . Personal service on an attorney must be made in the manner set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 684.040 [Code Civ. Proc. § 684.110(b)]. [See discussion in § 254.14[1]]. If the service is on a financial institution, title insurer as defined by Ins. Code § 12340.4, an underwritten title company as defined by Ins. Code § 12340.5, or an industrial loan company as defined by Fin. Code § 18003, service must be made at the office or branch that has actual possession of the property levied on or at which a deposit account levied on is carried, and must be made on the officer, manager, or other person in charge of the office or branch at the time of service [Code Civ. Proc. § 684.110(c)]. Subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 684.110(c), if a levy is made by personally serving a copy of the writ and notice of levy on a third person, the service must be made in the same manner as a summons under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10 or 415.20 [Code Civ. Proc. § 684.110(d)].

[3] Service by Mail

[a] Method and Address

Except as otherwise provided by statute, notice by mail of a writ, notice, order, or other paper must be made by first-class mail, deposited in a post office, mailbox, sub-post office, substation, mail chute, or other like facility regularly maintained by the United States Postal Service, in a sealed envelope, with postage paid, addressed as follows [Code Civ. Proc. § 684.120(a)]:

- If an attorney is being served in place of a judgment creditor or judgment debtor, to the last address given by the attorney on any paper filed in the proceeding and served on the party making the service.

- If any other person is being served, to that person at his or her current mailing address if known or, if unknown, at the address last given by the person on any paper filed in the proceeding and served on the party making the service.

- If the mailing cannot be made to an attorney or other person as provided above, to the person at the person's last known address.

The writ, notice, order, or other paper served by mail should bear a notation of the date and place of mailing or be accompanied by an unsigned copy of the affidavit or certificate of mailing [Code Civ. Proc. § 684.120(c)].

[b] Extension of Prescribed Period

Service by mail is complete at the time of deposit but, unless the court prescribes a shorter period of time, any prescribed period of notice and any right or duty to respond or act within any prescribed period or on a date certain after service by mail is extended as follows [Code Civ. Proc. § 684.120(b)]:

- Five days if the place of address is within California.

- Ten days if the place of address is outside California but within the United States.

- Twenty days if the place of address is outside the United States.

[4] Service by Person Authorized by Levying Officer

If an order, notice, or other paper runs in favor of a particular person, the levying officer who normally makes the service may permit personal service to be made instead by such person or by the person's agent. The permission may be evidenced by a certificate signed by the levying officer. If service is made by the person authorized and not the levying officer, the cost of the service is not recoverable. The levying officer may not permit service by another person of a writ or notice of levy. The authority of a registered process server to levy under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 680.010-724.260 is not affected by Code Civ. Proc. § 684.140 [Code Civ. Proc. § 684.140; also see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 699.080 (levy by registered process server under writ of execution), 715.040 (execution of writ of possession by registered process server)].

§ 254.16 Levying Officers

[1] Instructions

Instructions to levying officers are governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 684.130 and 687.010. For discussion and forms of instructions, see §§ 254.685, 254.686.

[2] Manner of Taking Custody of Property

When a levying officer is required to take custody of property, he or she may do so by either removing the property to a place of safekeeping, installing a keeper, or otherwise obtaining possession or control of the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 687.030].

[3] Liability of Officer

The levying officer or registered process server is not liable for actions taken in conformance with Code Civ. Proc. § 680.010 et seq., including actions taken in reliance on information contained in the written instructions of the judgment creditor or on information provided by a registered process server pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080(d) or 706.101(e) (repealed; now see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.108), or pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 715.040(b) or to any other provision, except to the extent that the officer or registered process server has actual knowledge that the information is correct. Nothing in Code Civ. Proc. § 687.040(a) limits any liability the judgment creditor may have if the levying officer or registered process server acts on the basis of incorrect information given in the written instructions [Code Civ. Proc. § 687.040(a)].

Unless the levying officer is negligent in the care or handling of property, he or she is not liable to either the judgment debtor or judgment creditor for loss by fire, theft, injury, or damage of any kind to personal property while (1) in the possession of the levying officer either in a warehouse or other storage place or in the custody of a keeper, or (2) in transit to or from a warehouse or other storage place [Code Civ. Proc. § 687.040(b)].

[4] Levying Officer's Lien

The levying officer has a special lien, dependent on possession, on personal property levied on in the amount of the levying officer's costs for which an advance has not been made [Code Civ. Proc. § 687.050].

[5] Duty to Compute and Collect Interest and Costs

In a levy under a writ, the levying officer must collect the amount of costs and interest entered on the writ under Code Civ. Proc. § 685.050(a)(1), (2) [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.050(b)(1)].

The levying officer must also compute and collect the amount of additional interest required to be collected by Code Civ. Proc. § 685.050(a)(3) by reference to the daily interest entered on the writ. If amounts collected periodically do not fully satisfy the money judgment, the levying officer may, pursuant to a policy adopted by the office of the levying officer, adjust the amount of daily interest to reflect the partial satisfactions, and make later collections by reference to the adjusted amount of daily interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.050(b)(2)].

Finally, the levying officer is required to determine and collect the amount of additional costs under Code Civ. Proc. § 685.050(a)(4) [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.050(b)(3)].

[6] Levying Officer's Costs

Except as otherwise provided by law, as a prerequisite to action by the levying officer to enforce a judgment, the judgment creditor must deposit the costs of performance with the officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.100(a)(1)]. If the officer is to take property into custody, whether by keeper or otherwise, the judgment creditor must deposit a sum sufficient to pay the costs of taking and keeping the property for a period not to exceed 15 days. If the period is extended, the levying officer will demand orally or in writing the deposit of additional amounts for periods not to exceed 30 days each. A written demand must be delivered or mailed to the judgment creditor. The judgment creditor has not less than three business days after receipt of the demand within which to comply. If deposit is not made within the time specified in the demand, the levying officer will release the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.100(a)(2)]. The levying officer is not liable for failure to take or hold property unless the judgment creditor has deposited the required sum [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.100(b)].

If a writ is issued pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 680.010-724.260 to enforce a judgment, the costs and interest to be satisfied in a levy under the writ include the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.050(a)]:

- The statutory fee for issuance of the writ.

- The amount of interest that has accrued from the date of entry or renewal of the judgment to the date of issuance of the writ, as adjusted for partial satisfactions, if the judgment creditor has filed an affidavit with the court clerk stating such amount.

- The amount of interest that accrues on the principal amount of the judgment remaining unsatisfied from the date of issuance of the writ until the date interest ceases to accrue.

§ 254.19 Transitional Provisions for Proceedings Commenced Prior to July 1, 1983

[1] New Law Governs as General Rule

Except as otherwise provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 694.010-694.090, the Enforcement of Judgments Law [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 680.010-724.260] applies to all proceedings commenced prior to the operative date of July 1, 1983, unless in the opinion of the court application of a particular provision would substantially interfere with the effective conduct of the proceedings or the rights of the parties or other interested persons, in which case the particular provision does not apply and prior law applies [Code Civ. Proc. § 694.020].

[2] Period of Enforcement

[a] In General

Except for judgments entered under the Family Law Code, or judgments against public entities, the period for enforcement of a money or nonmoney judgment entered prior to July 1, 1983, is the 10-year period set forth in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 683.010-683.320[Code Civ. Proc. § 694.030(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 683.310-683.320].

Notwithstanding Code Civ. Proc. § 694.030(a), a judgment that is not renewable pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 683.010-683.320 because the renewal application period has expired may still be renewed under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 683.010-683.320 if the court that entered the judgment determines that authority to enforce the judgment after the 10-year period pursuant to former Code Civ. Proc. § 681 would have been granted if a motion had been made under former Code Civ. Proc. § 685, and if the court, in its discretion, makes an order authorizing renewal of the judgment. In order to obtain the order, the judgment creditor must file a noticed motion within two years after July 1, 1983 [Code Civ. Proc. § 694.030(b)].

[b] Homestead Declaration

A declaration of homestead made prior to July 1, 1983 pursuant to Civ. Code §§ 1237-1304 is effective only to the extent provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 704.910 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 694.090]. For discussion of the law governing

§ 254.20 Former Law Governs

[1] Execution and Return of Writs and Orders

The sale or delivery of property levied on or otherwise subject to enforcement of a judgment prior to July 1, 1983, is governed by prior law except that manner of payment at a sale of property pursuant to a writ or order after July 1, 1983, is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 701.590 [Code Civ. Proc. § 694.040(a), (c)]. For discussion of the manner of payment at an execution sale, see § 254.80 et seq.

Similarly, the duties to be performed in the execution of a writ or order for enforcement of a judgment that is served prior to July 1, 1983, are governed by prior law [Code Civ. Proc. § 694.040(b)].

[2] Redemption Rights

Property that would have been sold subject to the right of redemption under prior law may be redeemed under prior law if the foreclosure or other proceedings for sale were commenced prior to July 1, 1983 [Code Civ. Proc. § 694.050(a)]. If the judgment creditor and judgment debtor agree in writing, however, such property may be sold as provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 680.010-724.260 (Enforcement of Judgments Law) rather than subject to the right of redemption [Code Civ. Proc. § 694.050(b)]. If the property has already been sold subject to redemption prior to July 1, 1983, it may be redeemed under prior law [Code Civ. Proc. § 694.050(c)].

[a] Creditor's Suit

Despite the limitations provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 708.230 (discussed in Part IV), an action may be commenced pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 708.210 until July 1, 1984, if the action could have been commenced under prior law on June 30, 1983 [Code Civ. Proc. § 694.060].

[b] Third-Party Proceedings

A third-party claim filed prior to July 1, 1983, is governed by prior law [Code Civ. Proc. § 694.070(a)]. A demand for a third-party claim served on a secured party prior to July 1, 1983, is also governed by prior law [Code Civ. Proc. § 694.070(b)].

[c] Exemptions

The exemptions from enforcement of a money judgment provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 680.010-724.260 do not apply to property levied on or otherwise subjected to a lien prior to July 1, 1983. Whether or not such property is exempt is determined by the law in effect at the time the lien was created [Code Civ. Proc. § 694.080].

§ 254.60 Property Subject to Execution

With the exceptions noted below, all of a judgment debtor's property that is subject to enforcement of a money judgment is subject to levy under a writ of execution [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.710]. Property subject to enforcement of a money judgment is described by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 695.010-695.070.

The following types of property are not subject to execution [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.720(a)]:

- An alcoholic beverage license that is transferable under Bus. & Prof. Code § 24070 et seq.

- The interest of a partner in a partnership or member in a limited liability company if the partnership or the limited liability company is not a judgment debtor.

- A cause of action that is the subject of a pending action or special proceeding.

- A judgment in favor of the judgment debtor prior to the expiration of the time for appeal from such judgment or, if an appeal is filed, prior to the final determination of the appeal.

- A debt, other than earnings, owing and unpaid by a public entity.

- The loan value of an unmatured life insurance, endowment, or annuity policy.

- A franchise granted by a public entity and all the accompanying rights and privileges of the franchise.

- The interest of a trust beneficiary.

- A contingent remainder, executory interest, or other interest in property that is not vested.

- Property in a guardianship or conservatorship estate. Code Civ. Proc. § 699.720(a) does not affect or limit the right of the judgment creditor to apply property to the satisfaction of a money judgment pursuant to any applicable procedure other than execution [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.720(b)].

§ 254.61 Writ of Execution

[1] Issuance

After entry of a money judgment, the court clerk will issue a writ of execution on application of the judgment creditor [see § 254.680]. The writ is directed to the levying officer in the county in which the levy is to be made or to a process server. Separate writs are issued for each county in which a levy is to be made, and may be issued successively until the judgment is satisfied, but 180 days must expire between issuance of successive writs in the same county unless the prior writ is first returned [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510(a)]. The clerk must give priority to the application for and issuance of writs of execution on orders or judgments for child support and spousal support [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510(a)].

The writ must be issued in the name of the judgment debtor as listed on the judgment, and may include additional names by which the judgment debtor is known. The additional names must be set out in an "Affidavit of Identity," as defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 680.135 [see § 254.680.05]. The Affidavit of Identity must be filed by the judgment creditor together with the application for issuance of the writ of execution. Before the clerk of the court issues a writ of execution containing any additional names by which the judgment debtor is known that are not listed on the judgment, the court must approve the Affidavit of Identity. If the court determines, without a hearing or notice, that the Affidavit of Identity states sufficient facts on which the judgment creditor has identified the additional names of the judgment debtor, the court will authorize the issuance of the writ of execution with the additional name or names [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510(c)(1)].

When the writ lists a name other than that listed on the judgment, the person in possession or control of the levied property, if other than the judgment debtor, must not pay the amount or deliver the property being levied on to the levying officer until being notified to do so by the levying officer. The levying officer may not require a person other than the judgment debtor in possession or control of the levied property to pay the amount or deliver the property levied on until the expiration of 15 days after service of notice of levy [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510(c)(2)]. If a person who is not the judgment debtor has property erroneously subject to an enforcement of judgment proceeding based on an Affidavit of Identity, the person is entitled to the recovery of reasonable attorney's fees and costs from the judgment creditor incurred in releasing the person's property from a writ of execution, in addition to any other damages or penalties to which an aggrieved person may be entitled by law, including Code Civ. Proc. § 720.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510(c)(3); see discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 720.010 et seq. in § 254.310 et seq.].

If the writ of execution is sought to enforce a judgment granted under the Family Code (Fam. Code §§ 290 et seq., 5100 et seq.), the judgment creditor must satisfy the requirements set forth in the Family Code in addition to the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 699.510-699.560 [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510(b)]. For a discussion of the enforcement of judgments in family law proceedings, see Ch. 258, Family Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies , Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement , and Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments .

[2] Return of Writ

The writ of execution, together with a report of the levying officer's actions and an accounting of amounts collected and costs incurred, must be returned to the court by the officer to whom the writ was delivered at the earliest of the following times [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.560(a)]:

- Two years from the date of issuance of the writ;
- Promptly after all duties under the writ are performed;
- When return is requested in writing by the judgment creditor;
- If no levy takes place under the writ within 180 days after its issuance, promptly after expiration of the 180-day period; or
- On expiration of the time for enforcement of the money judgment.

If a levy has been made under Code Civ. Proc. § 700.200 on the interest in the personal property of a decedent's estate, the writ must be returned not later than one year after the date the court decree distributing the interest has become final [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 699.560(b), 700.200(e)].

A writ of execution pursuant to which a levy is made on the judgment debtor's right to payment of benefits from an employee benefit plan under Fam. Code § 5103 must be returned not later than one year after the date the execution lien expires pursuant to the requirements of Fam. Code §§ 5100, 5103 [Fam. Code § 5100 et seq.; see Civ. Code § 699.560].

If a levy has been made under the Wage Garnishment Law (Code Civ. Proc. § 706.010 et seq.), and the earnings withholding order remains in effect, the writ of execution must be returned as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 699.560(a), and a supplemental return must be made as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 706.033 [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.560(d)]. This procedure enables a judgment creditor who has an outstanding writ of execution and a levy by an earnings withholding order to have the writ returned and obtain a successive writ, even though the earnings withholding order remains in effect [see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510; Stats. 1992, Ch. 283, § 19(b)]. Thus, the creditor is not required to choose between continuing a wage garnishment and levying on other property to enforce his or her judgment [see Stats. 1992, Ch. 283, § 19(b)]. For further discussion of earnings withholding orders generally, see Ch. 276, Garnishment .

§ 254.62 Notice of Levy

A notice of levy must be served along with a copy of the writ of execution whenever property is levied on [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.010(a); see § 254.683]. If the judgment debtor is a natural person, a copy of the Judicial Council form listing exemptions from execution must be served with the writ and notice of levy [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.010(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 681.030; see § 254.684]. If the writ lists any names of the debtor not listed in the judgment, a copy of the Affidavit of Identity must be served with the writ and notice of levy [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.010(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 680.135 (definition of Affidavit); see § 254.680.05]. Service and posting requirements vary according to the type of property levied on, and are discussed below in connection with each type of levy [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 700.010-700.200]. A copy of the original notice of levy which has been served on a third party holding the property sought to be levied upon and the Affidavit of Identity [see Code Civ. Proc. § 680.135; see § 254.680.05], if any, will, if served on the judgment debtor or any other party, suffice as the notice of levy to that person [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.545]. For discussion of service of papers and extension of the time for service when service is by mail, see § 254.13. The notice of levy must inform the person notified of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.540]:

- The capacity in which the person is notified;
- The property that is levied on;
- The person's rights under the levy, including the right to claim an exemption under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 703.010-704.995, and to make a third-party claim under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.010-720.880; and
- The person's duties under the levy.
- All names listed in the writ of execution pursuant to an Affidavit of Identity as defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 680.135, if any.

When property has been levied on and, pursuant to the levy, a copy of the writ of execution and notice of levy are required by statute to be posted or to be served on or mailed to the judgment debtor or other person, a failure to post, serve, or mail the copy and notice as required does not affect the execution lien created by the levy [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.550].

At any time after delivery of a writ of execution to a levying officer and before its return, a person indebted to the judgment debtor may pay the amount of the debt, or as much as is necessary to satisfy the money judgment, to the levying officer. The receipt given by the levying officer for the amount paid constitutes a discharge for that amount [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.020].

§ 254.64 Turnover Order

If a writ of execution is issued, the judgment creditor may apply for an order directing the judgment debtor to transfer to the levying officer possession of either the property sought to be levied on, if the property is to be levied on by taking it into custody, or documentary evidence of title to property of or a debt owed to the judgment debtor that is sought to be levied on or both. The application may be made ex parte unless a court rule or order requires it to be made on noticed motion [see §§ 254.691, 254.692]. The order may be issued on a showing of need [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.040; see § 254.693].

If a judgment debtor claims that property for which a turnover order is sought is exempt, the judgment debtor must raise the claim of exemption in the examination procedure or prior to the issuance of the turnover order [Imperial Bank v. Pim Electric, Inc. (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 540, 548, 39 Cal. Rptr. 2d 432] .

2. Writs Of Execution And Levy

21-254 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 254.65

§ 254.65 Execution of Writ

[1] Levy by Registered Process Server

When the levying officer to whom the writ of execution is directed receives the writ, along with the written instructions of the judgment creditor, he or she will execute the writ in the manner prescribed by law. The levying officer may not levy on property under the writ after the expiration of 180 days from the date the writ is issued [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.530]. However, consecutive writs may be issued within each county where property to be executed on is located [see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510(a); see § 254.349].

The levying officer is the sheriff or marshal [Code Civ. Proc. § 680.260]. Registered process servers, however, are authorized to levy on certain types of property, which are listed in Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080(a) [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080(a)]. Before levying under the writ of execution, a registered process server must deposit a copy of the writ with the levying officer and pay the fee provided by Gov. Code § 26721 [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080(b); see also Gov. Code § 26720.9 (fee increases)]. The process server must comply with applicable levy, posting, and service provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 700.010-700.200, and request any third person served to give a garnishee's memorandum to the levying officer in compliance with Code Civ. Proc. § 701.030 [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080(c)]. The process server also must file the following documents with the levying officer within five court days after levy [Code. Civ. Proc. § (d)(1)-(4)]:

- The writ of execution;
- A proof of service by the registered process server stating the manner of levy performed;
- Proof of service of the copy of the writ and notice of levy on other persons required by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 700.010-700.200; and
- Written instructions, as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 687.010.

If the fee provided by Gov. Code § 26721 (and increased by Gov. Code § 26720.9) has been paid, the levying officer must perform all other duties under the writ as if the levying officer had levied under the writ and must return the writ to the court. If the registered process server does not comply with Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080(b) and (d), the levy is ineffective and the levying officer is not required to perform any duties under the writ and may issue a release for any property sought to be levied on [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080(e)].

The process server's fees must be allowed as a recoverable cost pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1033.5 [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080(f)].

A registered process server may levy more than once under the same writ of execution, provided the writ is still valid [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080(g)].

[2] Levy on Real Property

To levy on real property, the levying officer or registered process server records a copy of the writ of execution and notice of levy with the recorder in the county where the property is located. If the judgment debtor's interest in the property is recorded under a third person's name, the notice of levy must identify that third person and the recorder will index the writ and notice of levy under both the third party's and the judgment debtor's names [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.015(a)]. At the time of levy or promptly thereafter, the third person in whose name the judgment debtor's interest stands must be served a copy of the writ and notice of levy, either personally or by mail. If by mail, service must be sent either to the address in the county tax assessor's records, or if no such address is shown, to the address used by the county recorder for the return of the instrument creating the interest of the third person in the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.015(b)].

At the time of levy or promptly thereafter, a copy of the writ and notice of levy must also be served on one occupant of the real property. Service may be made either by leaving the copy and notice with the occupant personally or, in the occupant's absence, with a person of suitable age and discretion found on the property when service is attempted who is either an employee or agent of the occupant or a member of the occupant's household. If service on an occupant is not possible when attempted, the copy and writ must be posted in a conspicuous place on the property. If the property described in the notice consists of more than one distinct lot, parcel, or governmental subdivision and any of them lie with relation to the others so as to form one or more continuous, unbroken tracts, only one service or posting is required as to each tract [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.015(c)].

[a] Order for Sale of Dwelling

Generally, a natural person's interest in a real property dwelling may not be sold under a writ of execution to enforce a money judgment unless the judgment creditor obtains a court order for sale pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 704.710-704.850, which provide for a hearing to determine the existence and amount of any homestead exemption in the dwelling [see Code Civ. Proc. § 704.740(a)]. A court order is not required, however, for the sale of a dwelling in which the judgment debtor has a leasehold estate with an unexpired term of less than two years at the time of levy or for the sale of a dwelling that is personal property. The homestead exemption pertaining to these types of dwellings is claimed and determined as provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 703.510-703.601 [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.740(b); see discussion in § 254.150 et seq.]. For discussion and forms related to orders for the sale of a dwelling, see Ch. 294, Homesteads .

[b] Crops, Timber, or Minerals

Levy on growing crops, timber to be cut, or minerals or the like (including oil and gas) to be extracted or accounts receivable resulting from sale at the wellhead or minehead may be levied on in the exact manner as real property under

Code Civ. Proc. § 700.015. One additional provision in the case of crops, timber, or minerals, however, requires service of the copy of the writ and notice of levy on any secured party who has filed a financing statement with respect to the property or accounts receivable prior to the date of levy [see Code Civ. Proc. § 700.020].

[3] Levy on Tangible Personal Property

[a] In Possession of Judgment Debtor

Unless otherwise provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 700.010-700.200, the levying officer must levy on tangible personal property in the possession or under the control of the judgment debtor by taking it into custody [see Code Civ. Proc. § 700.030]. Registered process servers may not levy on personal property in the possession of the judgment debtor [see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080].

[b] Property Located in Private Place

If the personal property is located in a private place of the judgment debtor, the levying officer must demand delivery of the property by the judgment debtor and must also advise the judgment debtor that he or she will be liable for costs and attorney's fees incurred in any further proceedings to obtain delivery. The levying officer may not make any further attempt to obtain custody, but must promptly notify the judgment creditor of the failure to obtain the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.030(a)].

The judgment creditor may apply ex parte, or by noticed motion if the court or a court rule so requires, for an order directing the levying officer to seize the property in the private place. The application may be made whether or not a writ has been issued and whether or not a demand has been made by the levying officer for delivery of the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.030(b); see §§ 254.688 -254.690].

There must be probable cause to believe that the property is located in the place described before the order may issue. The levy ing officer must announce his or her identity, purpose, and authority at the time delivery of the property pursuant to the order is sought. If the property is not voluntarily delivered, the levying officer may break into the building in the manner which he or she believes will cause the least damage, but if the levying officer believes that the entry and seizure will involve a substantial risk of death or serious bodily harm to any person, he or she must refrain from entering and instead return to the court setting forth the reasons for that belief. In such a case, the court will issue such orders as may be appropriate [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.030(b)].

[c] In Possession of Third Party

To levy on tangible personal property in the possession or under the control of a third person, the levying officer must personally serve a copy of the writ of execution and notice of levy on the third person [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.040(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 700.040(b), 700.050, 700.060, and 700.150-700.160 for exceptions; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 700.150(b)]. A registered process server is not permitted to make the levy [see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080].

If the goods are in the possession of a bailee, as defined by Com. Code § 7102(a)(1), who has issued a negotiable document of title for the goods, the negotiable document, but not the goods, may be levied on in the manner provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 700.120. If the goods are in the possession of a bailee other than the one who has issued the document, they may be levied on in the manner provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 700.060 [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.040(b); see discussion under § 254.65[3][d]].

[d] In Possession of Bailee

If the property is held by a bailee other than one who has issued a negotiable document of title, the levying officer must personally serve a copy of the writ of execution and notice of levy on the bailee [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.060(a)]. If the goods are subject to a security interest and the judgment creditor so instructs, the secured party must also be served, either personally or by mail, with a copy of the writ and notice of levy [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.060(b)]. A registered process server is not permitted to make the levy [see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080].

[e] In Possession of Levying Officer

If the property is in the custody of the levying officer to whom the writ was directed, the judgment creditor must deliver the writ to the levying officer. If the writ is directed to a levying officer other than the officer having custody of the property, the levying officer to whom the writ is directed must serve a copy of the writ and notice of levy on the other officer, either personally or by mail. The levying officer having custody of the property must comply with the writs in the order they are received and is not subject to the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 701.010 et seq. (duties and liabilities of third persons after levy) [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.050].

A registered process server is authorized to levy on personal property in the custody of a levying officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080(a)(3)].

[f] Property of Going Business

Tangible personal property of a going business in the possession or under the control of the judgment debtor may be levied on in the same manner as provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 700.030 for levying on other tangible personal property in possession of the judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.070; see § 254.65[3][a]]. However, the judgment creditor may vary that manner of levy by instructing the levying officer to place a keeper in charge of the business for a period requested by the judgment creditor, during which the business may continue to operate in an ordinary fashion provided that all sales are final and are for cash or its equivalent [see Code Civ. Proc. § 700.070(a)]. If the keeper's purpose is limited to taking into custody money or equivalent proceeds of sales, the levying officer must take the property into exclusive custody at the end of each daily keeper period [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.070(c)]. When the keeper's purpose is not limited solely to money or equivalent proceeds of sales, the levying officer must take the tangible personal property into exclusive custody either at any time the judgment debtor objects to the placement of a keeper in charge of the business, or at any time requested by the judgment creditor, or at the end of 10 days from the time the keeper is placed in charge of the business, whichever is earliest [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.070(b)].

[g] Personal Property Used as a Dwelling

To levy on personal property used as a dwelling, the levying officer must serve a copy of the writ and notice of levy on one occupant of the property. The copy and notice must be left with the occupant personally or, in the occupant's absence, with a person of suitable age and discretion found on the property when service is attempted who is a member of the occupant's household. If service on an occupant is not possible when attempted, the copy and writ must be posted in a conspicuous place on the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.080(a)]. Personal property used as a dwelling includes a mobilehome, regardless of whether the mobilehome is occupied at the time of the levy [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.080(d)]. If the judgment creditor so instructs, the levying officer must place a keeper in charge for a period requested by the judgment creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.080(b)].

The judgment creditor may apply to the court on noticed motion for an order directing the levying officer to remove the occupants [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.080(c); see §§ 254.694 -254.696].

The interest of a natural person in a dwelling that is real property may not be sold to enforce a money judgment except pursuant to an order for sale obtained under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 704.710-704.850 unless the judgment debtor's interest in the property is a leasehold estate with less than two unexpired years [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.740]. For a discussion and forms relating to enforcement of a money judgment against a dwelling, see Ch. 294, Homesteads .

[h] Vehicle or Vessel

If a certificate of ownership issued by the Department of Motor Vehicles for a vehicle or vessel, or a certificate of title issued by the Department of Housing and Community Development for a mobilehome or commercial coach, is still in effect, the levying officer must determine the name and address of the legal owner from the appropriate department before levying on the property. If the legal owner is not the judgment debtor and is not in possession of the property, the levying officer must serve a copy of the writ and a notice of levy on the legal owner at the time of levy or promptly thereafter, either personally or by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.090].

[i] Property of Decedent's Estate

The levying officer or registered process server may levy on a judgment debtor's interest in the personal property of a decedent's estate, whether that interest arises by testate or intestate succession, by personally serving a copy of the writ and a notice of levy on the personal representative of the decedent. The levy does not impair the power of the representative over the property for the purposes of administration [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.200(a)].

The representative must report the levy to the court in which the estate is being administered when any petition for distribution is filed. If the court orders distribution to the judgment debtor, it must order the property levied on to be delivered to the levying officer as soon as the decree ordering distribution becomes final. The judgment debtor may keep any property in excess of the amount required to satisfy the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.200(b)]. The levying officer must serve a notice describing the property on the judgment debtor, either personally or by mail, promptly after receiving delivery. Notwithstanding Code Civ. Proc. § 703.520 (exemption claim procedure), a claim of exemption for the property may be made within 10 days after the notice is served [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.200(c)].

An execution lien created under Code Civ. Proc. § 700.200 continues for one year after the distribution decree becomes final, unless the judgment is satisfied sooner [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.200(d)]. The writ under which the levy is made must be returned not later than one year after the distribution decree becomes final [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.200(e)].

[4] Levy on Intangible Personal Property

[a] Chattel Paper

If chattel paper is in the possession of the judgment debtor, the levying officer must take the property into custody. If it is in the possession of a third person, the officer must personally serve a copy of the writ and a notice of levy on that person [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.100(a)]. If the levying officer obtains custody of the chattel paper or if the judgment debtor is entitled under a security agreement to collect or compromise the paper or to accept the return of goods or make repossessions, the judgment creditor may instruct the levying officer to serve a copy of the writ and notice of levy on the account debtor. Service may be made personally or by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.100(b)].

In addition to any other rights created by a levy on chattel paper, the levy creates a lien on the judgment debtor's rights in specific goods subject to the chattel paper [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.100(c)].

[b] Instruments and Negotiable Documents of Title

If an instrument, as defined by Code Civ. Proc. § 680.220, or a negotiable document of title is in the possession of the judgment debtor, the levying officer must take it into custody. If it is in possession of a third person, the levying officer must personally serve a copy of the writ and a notice of levy on that person [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 700.110(a), 700.120]. If the levying officer obtains custody of an instrument, the judgment creditor may instruct the levying officer to serve a copy of the writ and notice of levy on the obligor, either personally or by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.110(b)].

[c] Securities

To levy on a certificated security, the levying officer must comply with Com. Code § 8112 [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.130; see Ho v. Hsieh (2010) 181 Cal. App. 4th 337, 345-347, 105 Cal. Rptr. 3d 17 (describing procedure)]. The provisions of Com. Code § 8317 are discussed in Ch. 162, Corporations: Issuance of Shares and Ch. 163, Corporations: Transfer of Shares .

[d] Deposit Accounts

Subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 700.160, to levy on a deposit account, the levying officer must personally serve a copy of the writ and notice of levy on the financial institution with which the account is maintained [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.140(a)]. Alternatively, the levying officer may personally serve the writ of execution and notice of levy to a centralized location within California designated by the financial institution. If the writ of execution is received at the designated central location, it must apply to all deposit accounts held by the financial institution regardless of the location of that property. However, the financial institution is not required to designate a central location for personal service of the writ of execution and notice of levy [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.140(a)].

The execution lien only reaches amounts in the deposit account at the time of service on the financial institution (including any item in the deposit account that is in the process of being collected unless the item is returned unpaid to the financial institution) [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.140(a)]. If the account stands in the name of a third person, the copy and notice must be served on that person, either personally or by mail, at the time of levy or promptly thereafter [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.140(b)]. For the purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 700.140 neither of the following is a third person in whose name the deposit account stands [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.140(f)]:

- A person who is only a person named as a beneficiary of a Totten trust account.

- A person who is only a payee designated in a pay-on-death provision in an account pursuant to Fin. Code § 18318.5, Prob. Code § 5140 or other similar provision.

While the execution lien is in effect, access to the funds is restricted, and the financial institution is shielded from liability for acts pursuant to the execution lien [see Code Civ. Proc. § 700.140(c), (d)].

Registered process servers are authorized to levy on deposit accounts [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080(a)(5)].

[e] Safe Deposit Boxes

Subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 700.160, to levy on property in a safe deposit box, the levying officer must personally serve a copy of the writ and notice of levy on the financial institution with which the box is maintained [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.150(a)]. If the box stands in the name of a third person, that person must also be served with a copy of the writ and a notice of levy, either personally or by mail, at the time of levy or promptly thereafter [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.150(b)]. The contents of the box may not be removed during the time the lien is in effect, except pursuant to the levy [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.150(c)]. The levying officer may first give the person in whose name the box stands an opportunity to open the box to permit the removal pursuant to the levy of the property levied on. The financial institution may refuse to permit the forcible opening of the box unless the judgment creditor pays in advance the cost of the opening and any necessary repairs [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.150(d)].

Registered process servers are authorized to levy on safe deposit boxes [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080(a)(6)].

[f] Deposit Accounts and Safe Deposit Boxes Not Held Exclusively by Judgment Debtor

If a deposit account or safe-deposit box stands in the name of a person other than the judgment debtor, either alone or together with other third persons, except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 700.160(b), it is not subject to levy under

Code Civ. Proc. §§ 700.140 or 700.150 unless the levy is authorized by court order. The levying officer must serve a copy of the court order on the third person at the time the copy of the writ of execution and the notice of levy are served on the third person [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.160(a)]. A court order is not required to levy on a deposit account or safe-deposit box standing in the name of any of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.160(b)]:

- The judgment debtor, whether alone or together with third persons [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.160(b)(1)].

- The judgment debtor's spouse, whether alone or together with other third persons [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.160(b)(2)].

- A fictitious business name if an unexpired fictitious business name statement filed pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17900-17930 lists as the persons doing business under the fictitious business name either the judgment debtor, the judgment debtor's spouse, or the judgment debtor and the judgment debtor's spouse, but does not list any other person [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.160(b)(3)].

- The additional name of a judgment debtor listed on the writ of execution pursuant to an Affidavit of Identity [see Code Civ. Proc. § 680.135], whether alone or together with third persons.

If the deposit account or safe deposit box stands in the name of the judgment debtor's spouse, an affidavit showing that the person in whose name the account stands is the judgment debtor's spouse must be delivered to the financial institution at the time of levy [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.160(b)(2); see Grover v. Bay View Bank (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 452, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 677 (judgment creditor's failure to deliver to bank at time of levy affidavit showing marital relationship as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 700.160(b)(2) meant bank had no right or duty to freeze accounts of spouse of judgment debtor without proper levy papers)].

If the deposit account or safe deposit box stands in the name of a fictitious business as described by Code Civ. Proc. § 700.160(b)(3), a copy of a fictitious business name statement, certified as provided in Bus. & Prof. Code § 17926, that satisfies the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 700.160(b)(3) must be delivered to the financial institution at the time of levy, and if a person other than the defendant is listed in the statement, an affidavit showing that the other person is the judgment debtor's spouse must also be delivered to the financial institution at the time of levy [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.160(b)(3)].

In any case in which a deposit account in the name of a person other than the judgment debtor, whether alone or together with the judgment debtor, is levied on, the financial institution must not pay to the levying officer the amount levied on until being notified to do so by the levying officer. The levying officer may not require the financial institution to pay the amount levied on until the expiration of 15 days after service of notice of levy on the third person [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.160(c)].

[g] Accounts Receivable and General Intangibles

Unless Code Civ. Proc. §§ 700.010-700.200 provide another method of levy, as for example, in the cases of accounts receivable resulting from the sale of minerals, oil, or gas under Code Civ. Proc. § 700.020, deposit accounts under Code Civ. Proc. § 700.140, or in the case of personal property of a decedent's estate under Code Civ. Proc. § 700.200, the levying officer must levy on accounts receivable and general intangibles by personally serving the writ and notice of levy on the account debtor [see Code Civ. Proc. § 700.170(a)]. If Code Civ. Proc. § 700.170 governs the levy procedure and if the payments on the account or general intangible are made to a person other than the judgment debtor, the judgment creditor may levy on those payments by instructing the levying officer to personally serve a copy of the writ and a notice of levy on the third person [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.170(b)].

Registered process servers are authorized to levy on accounts receivable and general intangibles [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080(a)(7)].

[h] Final Money Judgments

Code Civ. Proc. § 700.190(a) defines "final money judgment" as a money judgment after the time for appeal from the judgment has expired or, if an appeal is filed, after the appeal has been finally determined.

To levy on a final money judgment, the levying officer must file a copy of the writ and the notice of levy with the clerk of the court that entered the final money judgment. The clerk will endorse on the judgment a statement of the existence of the execution lien and the time it was created. If an abstract of the judgment is issued, it will include a statement of the lien in favor of the judgment creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.190(b)]. At the time of levy or promptly thereafter, the levying officer must serve a copy of the writ of execution and a notice of levy on the judgment debtor obligated to pay the final money judgment levied on. Service shall be made personally or by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.190(c)].

Registered process servers are authorized to levy on final money judgments [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080(a)(8)].

[i] Interest in Decedent's Estate

To levy on the judgment debtor's interest in personal property in the estate of a decedent, whether the interest arises by testate or intestate succession, the levying officer must personally serve a copy of the writ and a notice of levy on the decedent's personal representative. The levy does not impair the powers of the personal representative over the property for the purposes of administration [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.200(a)].

Registered process servers are authorized to levy on the judgment debtor's interest in personal property in a decedent's estate [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080(a)(9)].

[5] Levy on Property Subject to Pending Action or Proceeding

The following property may be levied on even if it is the subject of a pending action or proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.180(a)]:

- Real property.

- Growing crops, timber to be cut, or minerals or the like (including oil and gas) to be extracted or accounts receivable resulting from the sale thereof at the wellhead or minehead.

- Tangible personal property in the possession or under the control of the judgment debtor or in the custody of a levying officer.

- The interest of the judgment debtor in personal property in the estate of a decedent, whether testate or intestate.

A levy on any other type of property that is the subject of a pending proceeding or action is ineffective [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.180(b)]. If the levy is ineffective under Code Civ. Proc. § 700.180(b), and the levying officer has requested a garnishee's memorandum under Code Civ. Proc. § 701.030 in connection with the ineffective levy, the memorandum must include information required by Code Civ. Proc. § 700.180(c) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 700.180(c); see also § 254.687].

For the purpose of Code Civ. Proc. § 700.180, an action or proceeding is pending from the time the action or proceeding is commenced until judgment has been entered and the time for appeal has expired or, if an appeal is filed, until the appeal has been finally determined [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.180(d)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 700.180 does not affect or limit the right of the judgment creditor to obtain a lien on the judgment debtor's action or proceeding pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.410-708.480 [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.180(e)]. For discussion of liens on a judgment debtor's cause of action, see Ch. 318, Judgments .

§ 254.66 Execution Lien

[1] Creation and Duration

A levy on property under a writ of execution creates an execution lien on the property from the time of levy until the expiration of two years after the date the writ was issued, unless the judgment is satisfied sooner [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.710; but see Fam. Code § 5101 (exception for execution lien on pension plan benefits enforcing child or spousal support award)].

[2] Effect of Transfer or Encumbrance of Property

An execution lien on any interest in real property, or on tangible personal property in the custody of a levying officer, remains in effect after transfer or encumbrance of the property unless the property was sold at an execution sale [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.720, 697.730(a); Code Civ. Proc. § 701.630 (liens extinguished by sale)]. If the subject property is tangible or intangible personal property not in custody of a levying officer, the lien remains in effect unless the property is sold at an execution sale or unless the transfer or encumbrance is made to one of the persons described in Code Civ. Proc. § 697.740(a)-(k) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.740, 701.630; Com. Code § 9504(1)(c) (pertaining to satisfaction of execution lien on secured property after sale)]. In addition, if a levy on tangible personal property of a going business is made by the levying officer placing a keeper in charge of the business, a purchaser of property subject to the execution lien takes the property free of the execution lien if he or she is a buyer is the ordinary course of business [see Com. Code § 1201(b)(9)] who, under Com. Code § 9307, would take free of a security interest created by his or her seller [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.730(b)]. A lessee of property subject to the execution lien also takes the property free of the execution lien if he or she is a lessee in the ordinary course of business [see Com. Code § 10103(a)(15)] who, under Com. Code § 10307(c), would take free of a security interest created by the lessor [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.730(b)].

Code Civ. Proc. § 697.740 notwithstanding, personal property consisting of growing crops, timber to be cut, or minerals or the like, including oil and gas, or accounts receivable resulting from sale thereof at a wellhead or minehead remain subject to the execution lien after transfer or encumbrance, unless sold at an execution sale [Code Civ. Proc. §§

697.750, 701.630; see also Com. Code § 9504(1)(c) (pertaining to satisfaction of execution lien on secured property after sale)].

§ 254.67 Release of Levied Property

[1] When Released

The levying officer will release levied property on receipt of a written direction from the judgment creditor's attorney of record, or the judgment creditor if there is no attorney, to release the property. The property also will be released when the levying officer receives a certified copy of a court order for release or when otherwise required to release the property. The release extinguishes any execution lien or attachment lien in favor of the judgment creditor on the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.060(a)]. The levying officer is not liable for releasing any property in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 699.060, nor is any other person liable for acting in conformity with the release [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.060(e)].

[2] Property in Custody of Levying Officer

If the property to be released has been taken into custody under the levy, it must be released to the person from whom it was taken unless otherwise ordered by the court. If the person does not claim the property, the levying officer must retain custody and must serve that person, either personally or by mail, with a notice of where possession of the property may be obtained. If the property is not claimed within 30 days after the notice is served, the levying officer must sell the property, other than cash which does not have a value exceeding its face value, as provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 701.510-701.680, and distribute the proceeds as provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 699.060(b) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.060(b)].

[3] Property Not in Custody

If the property to be released has not been taken into custody, the levying officer will release the property by issuing a written notice of release and serving it, either personally or by mail, on the person who was served with the copy of the writ and notice of levy creating the lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.060(c)].

[4] Written Notice of Release

If the property to be released was levied on by recording or filing a copy of the writ and a notice of levy, the levying officer must record or file a written notice of release in the same office [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.060(d)].

21-254 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 254.68

§ 254.68 Duties and Liabilities of Third Persons After Levy

[1] Duty of Garnishee

[a] In General

When a levy is made by service of a copy of the writ and notice of levy on a third person, that person must immediately or promptly thereafter deliver to the levying officer any of the property levied on that is in his or her possession or control at the time of levy, unless he or she claims the right to possession of the property or has other good cause not to surrender possession [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.010(a), (b)(1)]. "Good cause" includes, but is not limited to, a showing that the third person did not know or have reason to know of the levy [see Code Civ. Proc. § 701.010(c)].

To the extent that the third person does not deny an obligation levied on, or claim a priority over the judgment creditor's lien, he or she must pay to the levying officer both the amount of the obligation levied on that is due and payable at the time of levy, and amounts that become due and payable during the period of the execution lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.010(b)(2)]. If the third person makes a delivery or payment to the levying officer, he or she must also execute and deliver any documents necessary to effect transfer of the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.010(b)(3)].

[b] Liability for Noncompliance With Levy

If a third person who is required to deliver property or make payments to the levying officer pursuant to levy fails or refuses without good cause to do so, he or she will be liable to the judgment creditor for either (1) the value of the judgment debtor's interest in the property or the amount of the payments required to be made, or (2) the amount required to satisfy the judgment pursuant to which the levy is made, whichever is less [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.020(a)]. The liability continues until the earliest of either (1) the time when the property levied on is delivered or the payments are made to the levying officer, (2) the time when the property levied on is released pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 699.060, or (3) the time when the judgment is satisfied or discharged [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.020(b)].

[c] Garnishee's Memorandum

At the time the copy of the writ and the notice of levy are served on a third person, the levying officer will request that person to mail or deliver a garnishee's memorandum containing the information required by Code Civ. Proc. § 701.030(b) to the levying officer within 10 days after the request is made [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.030(a); see § 254.687]. If the memorandum is received, the levying officer must promptly mail or deliver a copy to the judgment creditor and attach the original to the writ when it is returned to the court. If the memorandum is not received, the levying officer will so state in the return [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.030(c)].

If the third person fails to give the memorandum within the 10-day period or does not provide complete information, the court may require him or her to pay the costs and reasonable attorney's fees incurred in any proceedings to obtain the information [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.030(d)]. A financial institution with which a deposit account or safety deposit box is maintained, however, is not required to provide a memorandum if that institution fully complies with a levy on the account or box, but must only provide information with respect to property that is carried on the records available at the office or branch where the levy is made [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.030(e)]. Similarly, a third person is not required to give a memorandum if that person has both (1) delivered to the levying officer all the property sought to be levied on, and (2) paid the amount due at the time of levy on any obligation to the judgment debtor levied on and there is no additional amount that will thereafter become payable [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.030(f)].

A third person who gives a garnishee's memorandum is not liable to any person for the disclosure in the garnishee's memorandum of any information contained therein [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.035].

[2] Rights and Duties of Secured Party

If levied on property is subject to a security interest that attached prior to the levy, the security interest may be enforced without regard to the levy unless the property is in the custody of a levying officer or except as otherwise ordered by the court. If the execution lien has priority over the security interest, however, the secured party will be liable to the judgment creditor for any proceeds received by the secured party from the property to the extent of the execution lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.040(a)]. After the security interest is satisfied, the secured party must deliver any excess property and pay any excess payments or proceeds of property remaining in his or her possession to the levying officer for purposes of the levy as provided by Com. Code §§ 9502 and 9504, unless otherwise ordered by the court or directed by the levying officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.040(b)].

[3] Duty of Obligor

If the levying officer obtains custody of a levied-on instrument and serves the obligor under the instrument pursuant to the levy, the obligor must make payments to the levying officer as they become due. Payments made to a person other than the levying officer do not discharge the obligation of the obligor to make payments to the levying officer if such payments are made after the obligor has received notice of the levy [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.060].

[4] Duty of Account Debtor

If an account debtor obligated on a levied-on account receivable, chattel paper, or general intangible has been served pursuant to the levy, he or she must make payments under that obligation to the levying officer as they become due. Payments made to the judgment debtor after notice of the levy has been received do not discharge the obligation to make payments to the levying officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.050(a)]. If the account debtor has been making or is required to make payments to a third person, he or she must continue to make those payments notwithstanding the levy, until notice is received that the obligation to the third person is satisfied or until otherwise directed by the court or the third person. Payments to the levying officer must still be made after the obligation to the third person is satisfied [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.050(b)].

If the judgment debtor has liberty to accept the return of goods or make repossessions under the account receivable or chattel paper pursuant to a security agreement, the account debtor must deliver any such returnable property to the levying officer unless otherwise directed by court order or by the levying officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.050(c)].

§ 254.80 Sale or Collection of Property

Subject to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 687.020 (collection of checks and other orders for withdrawal of money from financial institution) and 701.520 (collection of accounts receivable and other property as discussed below), the levying officer must sell all property levied on except tangible personal property, which may not be sold until taken into custody by the levying officer, and cash, which may not be sold unless its value exceeds its face value [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.510].

The following property must be collected rather than sold: accounts receivable, chattel paper, general intangibles, final money judgments, instruments that are not customarily transferred in an established market, and instruments that represent an obligation arising out of the sale or lease of property, a license to use property, the furnishing of services, or the loan of money where the property sold, licensed, or leased, the services furnished, or the money loaned was used by an individual primarily for personal, family, or household purposes [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.520(a)]. At the time of levy on these types of property or thereafter, the judgment creditor may serve a notice of intended sale of the property on the judgment debtor, either personally or by mail. A copy of the notice and proof of service must be filed with the court and with the levying officer. The notice must describe the property and state that the property will be sold at an execution sale unless, within 10 days after service, the judgment debtor applies to the court on noticed motion for an order that the property be collected rather than sold [see Code Civ. Proc. § 701.520(b)-(d); see §§ 254.698 -254.700].

§ 254.81 Collection of Money Withdrawal Instruments

If a check, draft, money order, or other order for the withdrawal of money from a financial institution, the United States, any state or public entity within any state, is payable to the judgment debtor on demand and comes into the possession of a levying officer pursuant to the enforcement of a judgment, the levying officer must promptly endorse the instrument in the manner prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 687.020(c) and present it for payment [Code Civ. Proc. § 687.020(a), (b)]. The financial institution or public entity honoring the instrument, and the levying officer, are not liable to any person for the endorsement, presentation, and payment of the instrument [Code Civ. Proc. § 687.020(c)].

If it appears from the face of the instrument that it has been tendered to the judgment debtor in satisfaction of a claim or demand and that endorsement is considered a release and satisfaction, the levying officer may not endorse the instrument unless the judgment debtor has first endorsed it to the levying officer. If the judgment debtor does not endorse the instrument, the officer must hold it for 30 days and is not liable to the judgment debtor or to any other person for delay in presentation for payment. At the end of the 30-day period, the levying officer must return the instrument to the maker [Code Civ. Proc. § 687.020(d)].

In any case in which a judgment has been entered, any person may file a written request that he or she be given notice by mail of any sale under any execution issued on the judgment [see § 254.701]. If the request is made prior to issuance of the writ, it must be filed with the clerk of the court where the judgment is entered [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.550(b)]. If a person desires notice of sale of particular property that has already been levied on, he or she may file a request for notice of sale with the levying officer who will conduct the sale [*Code Civ. § 254.86 Conduct of Sale

[1] Place, Time, and Manner

All sales of property under execution must be held at the date, time, and place specified in the notice of sale, between the hours of 9:00 A.M. and 5:00 P.M. in the county where the property or some part of it is situated. Subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 701.570(d), real property consisting of one parcel, or of two or more contiguous parcels, situated in two or more counties may be sold in one county as instructed by the judgment creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.570(a)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 701.570(d) requires property to be sold separately or in such groups or lots as are likely to bring the highest price. The judgment debtor may request that the property be sold separately or together and also in a particular order. If the judgment debtor is not present at the sale, the request may be made in writing and delivered to the levying officer prior to the sale. The request will be honored if, in the opinion of the levying officer, the requested manner of sale is likely to yield an amount at least equal to any other manner of sale or the amount required to satisify the money judgment. The levying officer is not liable for a decision made in good faith regarding the request [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.570(d)].

If personal property that is capable of manual delivery is sold, it must be within view of those who attend the sale unless the court orders otherwise on application of the judgment creditor or judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.570(c)].

Sales must be made by auction to the highest bidder [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.570(b)]. The levying officer may not be a purchaser or have an interest in any purchase at a sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.610].

After sufficient property has been sold to satisfy the execution, no more can be sold [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.570(e)].

[2] Expiration of Exemption Period

Sales of personal property of an individual may not take place until the period during which the judgment debtor may claim an exemption has expired, which is generally 10 days after the date the notice of levy on the property claimed to be exempt was served on the judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.530(d); see Code Civ. Proc. § 703.520(a)]. For discussion of extension of the 10-day period when notice is given by mail, see the discussion in § 254.14[3][b].

[3] Postponement of Sale

The judgment creditor and judgment debtor together may request in writing that the sale be delayed to an agreed day and hour. The request is delivered to the levying officer, who must by public declaration at the time and place originally fixed for the sale postpone the sale to the day and hour so fixed in the request. The postponed sale will be held at the place originally fixed for the sale. Notice of any additional postponements must be given by public declaration by the officer at the time and place last appointed for the sale. No other notice of the postponed sale needs to be given [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.580].

§ 254.87 Bidding and Payment Provisions

[1] Minimum Bid

Property may not be sold unless the amount bid exceeds the total of the following amounts [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.620(a)]:

(1) The amount of all preferred labor claims that are required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1206 to be satisfied from the proceeds;

(2) The amount of any state tax lien, as defined in Gov. Code § 7162, that is superior to the judgment creditor's lien; and

(3) If the purchaser is not the judgment creditor, the amount of any deposit made pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 720.260 (deposit by creditor when third party claims property) with interest thereon at the rate on money judgments from the date of the deposit to the date of the sale. For discussion of the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 720.260, see § 254.315.

Property for which a proceeds exemption is provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 704.010 (motor vehicle), 704.020 (household furnishings and other personal effects), or 704.060 (tools of trade), may not be sold unless the amount bid exceeds the sum of any amount under Code Civ. Proc. § 701.620(a) plus the amount of the proceeds exemption [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.620(b)].

If the minimum bid is not received, the levying officer must promptly release the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.620(c)].

[2] Manner of Payment

[a] Cash or Check

Most purchasers at an execution sale must pay in cash or by certified check or cashier's check [Code Civ. Proc. §

701.590(a)]. The judgment creditor may bid by giving the levying officer a written receipt crediting all or part of the amount required to satisfy the judgment, although the unsatisfied costs of the levying officer and the amount of preferred labor claims, exempt proceeds, and any other claim statutorily required to be satisfied must be paid in cash or by certified check or cashier's check [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.590(b)].

[b] Credit Transactions

If the highest bid for an interest in real property sold exceeds $5,000, or in the case of an item, group, or lot of personal property, $2,500, the highest bidder may elect to treat the sale as a credit transaction. The person making the election must deposit at least $5,000 in the case of real property, or $2,500 in the case of personal property, or 10 percent of the amount bid, whichever is greater, and must pay the balance due plus costs and interest within 10 days after the date of sale [see Code Civ. Proc. § 701.590(c), (d)]. The person making such an election is not entitled to possession of the property until the amount bid, plus accruing costs and interest, have been paid [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.590(e)].

§ 254.88 Default by Bidder

If the highest bidder does not pay the amount bid as prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 701.590, the levying officer must resell the property. If the default occurs at the sale, the property will be resold either to the next highest bidder at the amount of that bid if such bidder agrees, or to the highest bidder at a new sale held immediately. If the default occurs after sale to a credit bidder, the property will be sold to the highest bidder at a new sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.600(a)]. The levying officer must apply the amount of any deposit made pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 701.590(c) (credit transactions) in the manner prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 701.600(b) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 701.600(b)].

If the property must be resold, the defaulting bidder will be held liable in an action by the judgment debtor or creditor for the amount bid, less the amount obtained from resale and the amount of any deposit applied pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 701.600(b), plus costs (including those of resale) and interest on the amount bid accruing between the date of sale and date of resale, and costs and attorney's fees incurred in the action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 701.600(c)].

The levying officer may in his or her discretion reject any subsequent bid of the defaulting bidder [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.600(d)].

3. Execution Sales

21-254 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 254.89

§ 254.89 Interest Acquired at Sale

[1] Generally

The purchaser of property at an execution sale acquires any interest of the judgment debtor in the property sold that is either held on the effective date of the lien under which the property was sold, or that is acquired between the effective date and the date of sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.640].

[2] Rule of Caveat Emptor Applicable

A purchaser at an execution sale is chargeable with notice that he or she acquires no better title than the judgment debtor had. The rule of caveat emptor applies with all its force to such sales [Harvey v. Whyte (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 685, 689, 323 P.2d 162] .

[3] General Rules Applicable

A purchaser at an execution sale is governed by the same rules as purchasers generally [Hansen v. G & G Trucking Co. (1965) 236 Cal App. 2d 481, 499, 46 Cal. Rptr. 186 ; Manig v. Bachman (1954) 127 Cal. App. 2d 216, 221, 273 P.2d 596] . For example, the possession of the tenant is notice of his or her landlord's title; such possession is sufficient to put a person dealing with the property on inquiry [Manig v. Bachman (1954) 127 Cal. App. 2d 216, 221, 273 P.2d 596] . Also, when a person who is a stranger to the record title of the vendor is in possession, the purchaser is under a duty to make inquiry of such stranger's rights [Manig v. Bachman (1954) 127 Cal. App. 2d 216, 222, 273 P.2d 596] .

[4] Judgment Creditor as Bona Fide Purchaser

A judgment creditor is not entitled to protection as a bona fide purchaser for value, but rather stands in the shoes of the judgment debtor and obtains by his judgment lien only that interest in the property which the judgment debtor actually possesses [City of Torrance v. Castner (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 76 ; Hansen v. G & G Trucking Co. (1965) 236 Cal. App. 2d 481, 496, 46 Cal. Rptr. 186] . This rule applies to personal property as well as to real property [Torrance v.

Castner (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 76, 80, 120 Cal. Rptr. 23] . A judgment creditor who purchases real property at his or her own execution sale under appropriate circumstances may, however, be a bona fide purchaser for value. For example, the judgment creditor who purchases at his or her own execution sale is a bona fide purchaser for value as against the trustor of a resulting trust or the beneficiary of a secret trust where the record title to the property involved stands in the name of the trustee alone with no mention of or reference to the existence of such an outstanding equity in another person [Hansen v. G & G Trucking Co. (1965) 236 Cal. App. 2d 481, 496, 46 Cal. Rptr. 186] .

It should be noted, however, that this situation involves the sale of real property and is based on the statutory requirement that interests in real property must be recorded. An unrecorded interest in real property represents a secret lien or equity which no purchaser without actual notice would discover, whether he or she was a judgment creditor or another type of purchaser [Torrance v. Castner (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 76, 81, 120 Cal. Rptr. 23] .

[1] Personal Property

If the property is capable of manual delivery, the levying officer must deliver it to the purchaser and, if the purchaser requests, must also execute and deliver a certificate of sale. If the property is not tangible personal property or is otherwise not capable of manual delivery, the levying officer must execute and deliver a certificate of sale to the purchaser [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.650(a); see § 254.703]. If property or a certificate is delivered pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 701.650(a), the levying officer must also sign or endorse and deliver to the purchaser any document or instrument in his or her possession relating to the title or right to possession of the property [*Code Civ. [2] Real Property

The levying officer must execute and deliver a deed of sale to the purchaser and record a duplicate of the deed in the office of the county recorder [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.660]. Contents of the deed of sale are set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 701.670 [see § 254.703].

3. Execution Sales

21-254 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 254.92

§ 254.92 Finality of Sale

Unless set aside under Code Civ. Proc. § 701.680(c) for irregularities in the proceedings, all execution sales are absolute [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.680(a)]. If the judgment is reversed, vacated, or otherwise set aside, the judgment debtor may recover from the judgment creditor the proceeds of a sale under the judgment with interest at the rate on money judgments to the extent the proceeds were applied to the satisfaction of the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.680(b)].

Division 2, Chapter 3 of the Enforcement of Judgments Law [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.010 et seq.] is all-encompassing and deals with procedures for enforcement of judgments by writ without exception. Division 2, Chapter 4 of the Enforcement of Judgments Law [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.710 et seq.] pertains to exemptions rather than procedures for enforcement. The purpose of the dwelling exemption in Code Civ. Proc. § 704.740, which states that the interest of a natural person in a dwelling may not be sold under the Enforcement of Judgments Law to enforce a money judgment except pursuant to a court order for sale, is to provide the exclusive procedure for determining real property dwelling exemptions [18 Cal. Law Revision Com. Rep. (1984) p. 101; see Wells Fargo Financial Leasing, Inc. v. D & M Cabinets (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 59, 67-69, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 97 (creditor seeking to sell dwelling to collect on money judgment may not bypass Code Civ. Proc. § 704.740 because sale is conducted by receiver)]. Division 2, Chapter 4 of the Enforcement of Judgments Law does not have independent procedures for enforcement of judgments by writ against dwellings akin to Division 2, Chapter 3 other than the limited directive set forth in § 704.740. Thus, § 704.740 does not trump or negate Code Civ. Proc. § 701.680. It is a companion provision that applies in addition to § 701.680 when a dwelling is to be sold. Given that there is no specified consequence in § 704.740 for failure to obtain a court order, the transgression can only be considered an "irregularity" governed by the all-encompassing remedies in Division 2, Chapter 3, which permit a damages remedy against the judgment creditor or sheriff but forbid setting aside a sale to third party purchasers. [Gonzalez v. Toews (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 977, 981-982, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 434] .

§ 254.93 Action to Set Aside Sale and Revive Judgment

[1] In General

If the sale was improper because of irregularities in the proceedings, because the property sold was not subject to execution, or for any other reason, the judgment debtor, or the judgment debtor's successor in interest, may commence an action within 90 days after the date of sale to set aside the sale if the purchaser was the judgment creditor. If the sale is set aside, the judgment will be revived to reflect the amount that was satisfied from the proceeds of the sale and the judgment creditor will be entitled to interest on the amount of the judgment as revived as if the sale had not been made [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.680(c)(1)]. Any liens extinguished by the sale of the property are revived and reattached to the property with the same priority and effect as if the sale had not been made [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.680(c)(1)].

The judgment debtor, or the judgment debtor's successor in interest, may recover damages caused by impropriety in the sale. If damages are recovered against the judgment creditor, they will be offset against the judgment to the extent the judgment is not satisfied. If damages are recovered against the levying officer, they will be applied to the judgment to the extent the judgment is not satisfied [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.680(c)(2)]. For the purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 701.680(c), the purchaser of the property at the sale is not a successor in interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.680(d)].

[2] Equitable Suit Also Available

Satisfaction of judgment may also be set aside in equity [Sullivan v. Wellborn (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 214, 217, 195 P.2d 787 ; Merguire v. O'Donnell (1903) 139 Cal. 6, 8, 72 P. 337 (discussing former Code Civ. Proc. § 708)].

Equitable redemption is the right of a judgment debtor to redeem property sold at an execution sale for a grossly inadequate price when the purchaser is guilty of unfairness or has taken undue advantage. At one time, the right to redeem following an involuntary sale was widespread. However, the doctrine is rooted in case law predating the Enforcement of Judgments Law. In one case, the Court of Appeal questioned whether equitable redemption has survived, at least concerning third party purchasers, given that one of the purposes of the Enforcement of Judgments Law was to repeal the right to redeem property sold at execution sales [see Gonzalez v. Toews (2003) 111 Cal. App.

4th 977, 983, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 434 , citing Yancey v. Fink (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1334, 1346, 277 Cal. Rptr. 415] . The Enforcement of Judgments Law states that it governs enforcement of a money judgment by a writ of execution, except as otherwise provided by statute [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.010]. There is no exception for equitable doctrines [Gonzalez v. Toews (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 977, 983,4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 434 , citing Goins v. Board of Pension Commissioners (1979) 96 Cal. App. 3d 1005, 1009, 158 Cal. Rptr. 470 (when statute contains exception to general rule laid down in statute, exception is strictly construed and other exceptions are necessarily excluded)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 701.680 uses the unequivocal words "absolute" and "may not be set aside for any reason," and specifically protects the judgment debtor in the event of an improper sale by allowing a damages remedy against the judgment creditor or levying officer but not against a third party purchaser [Gonzalez v. Toews (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 977, 983, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 434 , but see 16 Cal. Law Revision Com. Rep. (1982) pp. 1119-1120 (proposed law eliminates statutory right of redemption but would not affect equitable right of judgment debtor to redeem from sale at grossly inadequate price when purchaser is guilty of unfairness or has taken undue advantage)].

3. Execution Sales

21-254 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 254.94

§ 254.94 Grounds to Vacate Sale

[1] Inadequate Price Alone Insufficient

Mere inadequacy of price, however gross, is not in itself a sufficient ground for setting aside a legal sale [Meacham v. Meacham (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 248, 253, 68 Cal. Rptr. 746 ; Pavlovich v. Watts (1941) 46 Cal. App. 2d 103, 107, 115 P.2d 511] . Where no fraud and no unfairness except as to the amount paid is urged, and testimony was not such as to compel the finding that the price paid rendered the transaction unconscionable, the sale will not be set aside [McAlvay v. Consumers' Salt Co. (1931) 112 Cal. App. 383, 392, 297 P. 135] .

[2] Unfairness

Acts of oppression and unfairness which will justify vacating an execution sale need not amount to legal fraud. Unfairness as it relates to conduct in connection with execution sales embraces all types of dishonesty, deception, and oppression which operate to the prejudice of the judgment debtor or others interested in the sale. There are no fixed standards, however, by which the fairness of conduct or the extent of the claimed deception can be measured. Each case must be judged according to its particular facts [Darden v. Reese (1948) 88 Cal. App. 2d 904, 909-910, 200 P.2d 81] .

§ 254.110 Application of Exemptions

Except as otherwise provided by statute, as for example, in the case of the provision that the exemption statutes in effect at the time the lien was created govern the existence and amount of an exemption [see Code Civ. Proc. § 703.050(a)], the exemptions provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 703.010-704.995 apply to all procedures for the enforcement of money judgments, and to the enforcement of costs and damages under nonmoney judgments [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.010; see Code Civ. Proc. § 712.040]. The exemptions also apply to judgments for child or spousal support, but the court may apply exempt property to the satisfaction of support judgments unless the property is deemed exempt without making a claim [see Code Civ. Proc. § 703.070]. For further discussion of satisfaction of spousal or child support judgments, see Ch. 258, Family Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies , Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement , and Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments . Application of exemptions to marital property is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 703.110. Exemptions in bankruptcy are covered by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 703.130 and 703.140.

The exemptions do not apply if the judgment to be enforced is for the foreclosure of a mortgage, deed of trust, or other lien or encumbrance on property other than a lien created pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 695.010-709.030 (enforcement of money judgments) or 481.010-493.060 (attachments) [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.010(b)].

For discussion and forms relating to the foreclosure of mortgages, see Ch. 555, Trust Deeds and Real Property Mortgages .

Exempt property is described in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 704.010-704.210. For a listing of exemptions, see § 254.371[2], and see § 254.684, a reproduction of the Judicial Council form listing exemptions.

§ 254.111 Persons Entitled to Exemptions

Exemptions provided under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 703.010-704.995 apply only to the property of natural persons [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.020(a); see California Coastal Commission v. Allen (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 322, 328-329, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 906 (dwelling exemption available only to natural person, not to corporation)]. The following persons may claim exemptions: (1) in all cases, the judgment debtor or a person acting on behalf of the judgment debtor, and (2) in the case of community property, the spouse of the judgment debtor, whether or not the spouse is also a judgment debtor under the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.020(b)].

§ 254.112 Law Governing Determination of Exemption

Generally, the determination of whether or not property is exempt must be made by application of the exemption statutes in effect either (1) at the time the judgment creditor's lien was created or (2) at the time the earliest lien was created in a series of overlapping liens in favor of the judgment creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.050(a)]. In the case of a levy of execution, however, the procedures governing the levy and the determination of exemption claims are governed by the law in effect at the time the levy is made on the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.050(c)].

Code Civ. Proc. § 703.050 applies to all judgments, whether based on tort, contract, or other legal theory or cause of action that arose before or after July 1, 1983, and whether the judgment was entered before or after that date [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.050(b)].

§ 254.113 Amount of Exemption

As noted on the Judicial Council form listing exemptions from enforcement of judgments [JC Form EJ-155], a list of the amounts of exemptions from a judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 703.150 is available from the clerk of the court and on the California Courts web site [see http://www.courtinfo.ca.gov/forms/documents/exemptions.pdf]. Except as otherwise provided, the dollar amounts of the exemptions will be adjusted thereafter at three-year intervals on April 1, and the adjusted amounts will become effective immediately on that date.

§ 254.114 Claiming Exemption After Levy

[1] Time and Procedure

An exemption for property described in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 703.010-704.995 that has been levied on may be claimed within 10 days after the date the notice of levy on the property was served on the judgment debtor. The claim is made by filing the original and a copy of the claim with the levying officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.520(a); see §§ 254.710, 254.711].

Except as otherwise provided by statute, property that has been levied on may be claimed to be exempt as provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 703.510-703.610 [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.510(a)]. If property that is exempt without making a claim is levied on, it may be released pursuant to the exemption procedure provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 703.510-703.610 [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.510(b)]. Special exemption procedures apply in certain cases, for example, deposit accounts consisting of Social Security benefits [see Code Civ. Proc. § 704.080], attached property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 484.070], garnished wages [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 706.010-706.154], and real property homesteads [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 704.710-704.850]. For a discussion of exemptions governing attached property, garnished wages, and real property homesteads, see Ch. 62, Attachment ; Ch. 276, Garnishment and Ch. 294, Homesteads , respectively.

[2] Property Deemed Exempt Without Making Claim

Except as otherwise provided by statute, as when public retirement benefits are sought for application to a judgment for support (see Code Civ. Proc. § 704.110(c)), property deemed exempt without making a claim is not subject to any procedure for enforcement of a money judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.030(b) (exception)]. If such property is levied on, however, its release may be obtained through the exemption procedure provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 703.510-703.610[Code Civ. Proc. § 703.510(b); see § 254.114[1]].

[3] Effect of Failure to Claim Exemption

Failure to claim an exemption serves as a waiver of the exemption and the property is rendered subject to enforcement of the money judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 703.030(a)].

[4] Notice of Claim

Promptly after the claim of exemption is filed, the levying officer must serve the judgment creditor, either personally or by mail, with both a copy of the claim of exemption and a notice of claim of exemption [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.540; see §§ 254.710 -254.711]. For discussion of service of papers and extension of the time for service when service is by mail, see § 254.13.

[5] Opposition to Claim

If the judgment creditor opposes the claim of exemption, he or she must file a notice of opposition and a notice of motion for an order determining the claim with the court within 10 days after service of the notice of the claim. Copies of the notice of opposition and notice of motion must be filed with the levying officer within the same time period. When the copies are filed, the levying officer must promptly file the claim of exemption with the court. If copies of the notice of opposition and notice of motion are not filed with the levying officer within the 10-day period, the levying officer must immediately release the property to the extent it is claimed to be exempt [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.550; see §§ 254.712 -254.713].

[6] Hearing on Claim

[a] When Held

The hearing on the motion to determine the exemption claim must be held no later than 20 days from the date the notice of motion was filed with the court, unless the court continues the hearing for good cause [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.570(a)]. Not less than 10 days prior to the hearing, the judgment creditor must serve a notice of the hearing and a copy of the notice of opposition to the claim on the claimant and on the judgment debtor, if other than the claimant. Service must be made personally or by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.570(b); for discussion of service of papers and extension of time for service when service is by mail, see § 254.13].

[b] Evidentiary Basis of Determination

At the hearing, the exemption claim and the notice of opposition constitute the pleadings, subject to the court's power to permit amendments in the interest of justice [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.580(a)]. The exemption claimant has the burden of proof [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.580(b)]. The court may base its determination on the exemption claim and the notice of opposition alone if it finds the facts sufficient and if no other evidence is offered. If the court is not satisfied, it may continue the hearing for production of other evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.580(c)].

[c] Determination and Findings

The court will determine by order whether or not the property is exempt in whole or in part at the end of the hearing. Subject to appeal under Code Civ. Proc. § 703.600, the order is determinative of the right of the judgment creditor to apply the property to satisfaction of the judgment. No findings are required in the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.580(d); see § 254.715].

[d] Disposition of Property During Pendency of Proceedings

With certain statutory exceptions, for example, release of property for failure to pay a levying officer's costs under Code Civ. Proc. § 685.100, or sale to preserve the property's value under Code Civ. Proc. § 699.070, or otherwise ordered by the court, the levying officer may not release, sell, or otherwise dispose of the property for which an exemption is claimed until the final determination of the exemption, an appeal is waived, or the time to file an appeal has expired [

Code Civ. Proc. § 703.610(a)]. At any time during pendency of the proceedings, however, the court may make appropriate orders for disposition of the property on the motion of the judgment creditor or a claimant or on its own motion. Such orders may be modified or vacated by the court at any time during the proceedings on just terms [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.610(b)].

If an appeal of the determination is taken, notice of the appeal must be given to the levying officer and the property will be held, released, or disposed of in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 916-923 governing enforcement and stays pending appeal [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.610(c)].

[e] Disposition of Property After Determination

The court clerk must promptly transmit a certified copy of the order to the levying officer who will then release or apply the property to the satisfaction of the judgment in compliance with the order, subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 703.610 [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.580(e)].

[7] Extension of Time

The court may extend the time for any act to be done under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 703.510-703.610. If time is extended, written notice of the extension must be filed with the levying officer and, unless notice is waived, must be served promptly on the opposing party, either personally or by mail [see Code Civ. Proc. § 703.590; for discussion of service of papers and extension of time for service when service is by mail, see § 254.13.

[8] Appeal

An appeal lies from any order made under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 703.510-703.610 and must be taken in the manner provided for appeals in the court in which the proceeding takes place [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.600].

A judgment for sale of real or personal property may be enforced by a writ of sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 716.010(a); see § 254.730]. A judgment for possession of real or personal property may be enforced by a writ of possession [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 714.010(a), 715.010(a); see § 254.730]. After entry of the judgment for possession or sale of property, the court clerk will issue the writ of sale or possession on application of the judgment creditor. The judgment creditor's application must include a declaration stating the daily rental value of the property as of the date the complaint for unlawful detainer was filed. The writ will be directed to the levying officer in the county where the judgment is to be enforced. Separate writs are issued for each county in which the judgment is to be enforced and may be issued successively until the judgment is satisfied, but 180 days must expire between issuance of successive writs in the same county unless the prior writ is first returned [Code Civ. Proc. § 712.010].

The writ of sale delivered to the levying officer must be accompanied by a certified copy of the judgment for sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 716.010(c)].

§ 254.132 Execution of Writ

The levying officer will execute the writ of possession or sale on receipt of the writ together with the written instructions of the judgment creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 712.030(a)]. Property may not be seized under the writ, however, after 180 days from the date the writ was issued [Code Civ. Proc. § 712.030(b)]. There are no exemptions from execution of a writ of possession or sale if the judgment to be enforced is the foreclosure of a mortgage, deed of trust, or other lien or encumbrance on the property other than a lien created pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 695.010-709.030 (enforcement of money judgments) or Code Civ. Proc. §§ 481.010-493.060 (attachment) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 703.010(b)].

[1] Writ of Sale

To execute the writ, the levying officer must levy on the property in the same manner as under a writ of execution pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 700.010-700.200 [Code Civ. Proc. § 716.020(a)]. Notice of sale and sale of the property must be carried out in the same manner as under a writ of execution pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 701.510-701.680, unless otherwise ordered by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 716.020(b)]. The proceeds of the sale must be applied in conformance with the judgment for sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 716.020(c)]. For a discussion and forms relating to levy and sale under a writ of execution, see § 254.60 et seq. and § 254.80 et seq.

[2] Writ of Possession of Personal Property

To execute a writ of possession for personal property, the levying officer must search for the property specified in the writ and, if it is in the possession of the judgment debtor or an agent of the judgment debtor, take custody of the property in the same manner as a levy under a writ of execution. The property taken into custody by the levying officer must be delivered to the judgment creditor in satisfaction of the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 714.020].

If the property specified in the writ cannot be taken into custody, the levying officer must demand the property from the judgment debtor if the judgment debtor can be located. If custody is not then obtained, the levying officer must state so in the return. Thereafter the judgment for possession may be enforced in the same manner as a money judgment for the value of the property as specified in the judgment or a supplemental order [Code Civ. Proc. § 714.020(b)]. Under the circumstances described by Code Civ. Proc. § 714.020(b), the writ of possession may be treated as a writ of execution [Code Civ. Proc. § 714.020(c)]. For a discussion of taking custody of personal property under a writ of execution, see § 254.80 et seq.

[3] Writ of Possession of Real Property

To execute a writ of possession for real property, the levying officer must serve a copy of the writ on one occupant of the property. Service must be made either by leaving the copy with the occupant personally or, in the occupant's absence, with a person of suitable age and discretion who is found on the property when service is attempted and who is either an employee or agent of the occupant or a member of the occupant's household [Code Civ. Proc. § 715.020(a)]. If the levying officer is unable at the time service is attempted to serve an occupant described by Code Civ. Proc. § 715.020(a), he or she must post a copy of the writ in a conspicuous place on the property and serve a copy on the judgment debtor, either personally or by mail. If the judgment debtor's address is not known, a copy of the writ may be served by mailing it to the address of the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 715.020(b)]. For a discussion of taking custody of real property under a writ of execution, see §§ 254.60 et seq.

A writ of possession issued pursuant to a judgment in an unlawful detainer action is to be enforced without delay, notwithstanding the filing of a bankruptcy proceeding by the defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 715.050; see Lee v. Baca (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 1116, 1119-1122, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 913 (holding that Code Civ. Proc. § 715.050 is not preempted by federal bankruptcy law, and automatic stay of proceedings pursuant to the filing by defendant of a bankruptcy petition after judgment in unlawful detainer proceeding does not preclude execution of writ of possession)].

[a] Execution by Registered Process Server

A registered process server may execute a writ of possession of real property as provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 715.020(a), (b) if a proper writ is delivered to a levying officer and that officer does not execute the writ as provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 715.020(a), (b) within three working days from the day the writ is delivered [see Code Civ. Proc. § 715.040(a)]. When the levying officer does not execute the writ within that time, he or she must, on request, give the writ to the judgment creditor or to a registered process server designated by the judgment creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 715.040(a)].

Within five days after executing the writ under Code Civ. Proc. § 715.040, all of the following must be filed with the levying officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 715.040(b)]:

- The writ of possession of real property.
- An affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) of the registered process server stating the manner in which the writ was executed.
- Proof of service of the writ.
- Instructions in writing, as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 687.010.

If the writ is executed by a registered process server, the levying officer shall perform all other duties under the writ and shall return the writ to the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 715.040(c)]. The fee for services of a registered process server under Code Civ. Proc. § 715.040 may, in the court's discretion, be allowed as a recoverable cost under Code Civ. Proc. § 685.080. If allowed, the amount of the fee is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1033.5 [Code Civ. Proc. § 715.040(d)].

[b] Removal of Occupants

If the judgment debtor, members of his or her household, and any other occupants holding under the judgment debtor do not vacate property subject to a writ of possession within five days from the date of service on an occupant pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 715.020(a) or on the judgment debtor pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 715.020(b), the levying officer (not a process server (see Code Civ. Proc. § 715.040(a)) must remove the occupants and place the judgment creditor in possession. The provisions for extending time set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 684.120 do not apply to calculation of this five-day period [Code Civ. Proc. § 715.020(c)].

The levying officer may not remove any person from the property who claims a right to possession accruing before commencement of the unlawful detainer action, or who claims to have been in possession of the property on the date the unlawful detainer action was filed, unless that person is named in the writ [Code Civ. Proc. § 715.020(d)]. An exception applies when occupants not named in the complaint were served with a form of prejudgment claim of right to possession in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 415.46 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 715.020(d)]. If, at the time the defendants were served with process, a summons, complaint, and prejudgment claim of right to possession were also served on all other persons who might claim to have occupied the premises at the time the action was filed, those other occupants have only a 10-day period after such service within which to file their prejudgment claims and be added as defendants in the action [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 145.46(a), (b) (service of prejudgment claim of right to possession), 1174.25(a), (b) (filing of prejudgment claim)]. After that period, they cannot object to enforcement of a resulting judgment for possession of the premises [see Code Civ. Proc. § 715.020(d)]. Although the occupants will not be named in the writ, the writ will state that it applies to all tenants, subtenants, if any, named claimants, if any, and any other occupants of the premises [see Code Civ. Proc. § 715.010(b)(7); for a form of writ, see § 254.730].

If the plaintiff did not have the occupants served with the form of prejudgment claim of right to possession, Code Civ. Proc. § 1174.3 provides a procedure by which an occupant not named in the judgment may stop his or her eviction by filing or presenting the levying officer with a postjudgment claim of right to possession [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1174.3(b), (c)].

For further discussion and forms relating to prejudgment and postjudgment claims of right to possession, see Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions .

[c] Disposition of Personal Property Remaining on Premises

The disposition of personal property remaining on the real property after the judgment creditor is placed in possession is governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1174(e)-(m) (disposition of property after unlawful detainer proceeding) [Code Civ. Proc. § 715.030]. For discussion and forms relating to unlawful detainer actions, see Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions .

§ 254.134 Order for Transfer of Property or Documentary Evidence of Title

[1] In Aid of Judgment for Possession of Personal Property

After entry of a judgment for possession of personal property, and whether or not a writ of possession has been issued, the judgment creditor may apply to the court for an order directing the judgment debtor to transfer possession of the property or documentary evidence of title to the property or both to the judgment creditor. The application must be by noticed motion if required by the court or a court rule; otherwise, it may be ex parte [Code Civ. Proc. § 714.030(a); see §§ 254.734, 254.735]. The court will issue the order on a showing of need [Code Civ. Proc. § 714.030(b); see § 254.736].

The order must be personally served on the judgment debtor and must contain a notice that failure to comply with the order may subject the judgment debtor to being held in contempt of court [Code Civ. Proc. § 714.030(c); for discussion of service of papers on a judgment debtor, see § 254.13].

[2] In Aid of Writ of Sale

If a writ of sale is issued, the judgment creditor may apply ex parte, or on noticed motion if required by the court or by a court rule, for an order directing the judgment debtor to transfer the following to the levying officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 716.030(a)]:

- Possession of the property to be sold, if the prescribed method of levy is by taking the property into custody [Code Civ. Proc. § 716.030(a)(1)].

- Possession of any documentary evidence of title to the property to be sold [Code Civ. Proc. § 716.030(a)(2)]. An order pursuant to this paragraph may be served either when the property is levied upon or afterward [Code Civ. Proc. § 716.030(a)(2) (it is unclear whether this reference is to Code Civ. Proc. § 716.030(a)(2) alone, or if it applies to Code Civ. Proc. § 716.030(a) as a whole)].

The court may issue an order pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 716.030 on a showing of need for the order [Code Civ.

Proc. § 716.030(b)]. The order must be personally served on the judgment debtor and must contain a notice to the debtor that failure to comply with the order may subject him or her to being held in contempt of court [Code Civ. Proc. § 716.030(c); see § 254.733].

§ 254.135 Money Judgment Included in Judgment for Possession or Sale

A writ of possession or sale may be enforced as a writ of execution to satisfy any money judgment included in the judgment for possession or sale. If amounts due under the money judgment are not satisfied pursuant to the writ of possession or sale, the judgment creditor may use a writ of execution to satisfy the money judgment after the writ of possession has been returned or 180 days after its issuance, whichever is earlier. If the judgment creditor does not want a writ of possession or sale to issue, as for example, when possession of property has been voluntarily surrendered, he or she is entitled to a writ of execution instead to satisfy the money judgment portion of the judgment for possession [Code Civ. Proc. § 712.040(a)].

Whether or not a writ of possession has been issued, enforced, or returned, the judgment creditor may use the remedies provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 706.010-706.154 (wage garnishment) or 708.010-709.030 (miscellaneous creditor's remedies) to satisfy any money judgment included in the judgment for possession [*Code Civ. 21-254 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 254.150

§ 254.150 Redemption of Foreclosed Property

The only property subject to redemption is real property, other than a leasehold estate with an unexpired term of less than two years at the time of levy, sold pursuant to a writ of sale and subject to a deficiency judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 729.010]. Property is subject to a deficiency judgment when there is no legislation prohibiting a deficiency judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580a-580d]. The decree for foreclosure on a mortgage or deed of trust on the real property pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 726 must determine the personal liability of any defendant for the payment of the debt secured by the mortgage or deed of trust and name the defendants against whom a deficiency judgment may be ordered [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 726, 729.010(a)]. This does not mean that a deficiency judgment will automatically issue. To obtain a deficiency judgment the plaintiff in an action to recover the debt must file an application for deficiency judgment and the court must determine that there is in fact a deficiency and its amount [Code Civ. Proc. § 726].

Prior to July 1, 1983, all property sold to enforce a judgment was subject to a right of redemption except sales of personal property, and of real property when the estate therein was a leasehold of less than two year's unexpired term [former Code Civ. Proc. § 700a(a)].

If property was sold or foreclosure or other proceedings for sale were begun prior to July 1, 1983, and the property would have been subject to the right of redemption under prior law, the property may be redeemed as provided by prior law unless the judgment creditor and judgment debtor agree in writing that the property may be sold as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 680.010-724.260 [Code Civ. Proc. § 694.050].

§ 254.156 Deposit of Redemption Price

A person who seeks to redeem property must deposit the redemption price with the levying officer who conducted the sale before the expiration of the applicable redemption period. If the person seeking to redeem the property is a successor in interest to the judgment debtor, he or she must, at the time the redemption price is deposited, file with the levying officer either (1) a certified copy of a recorded conveyance or (2) a copy of an assignment or any other evidence of the interest verified by an affidavit (declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) of the successor in interest or of a subscribing witness thereto [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.060(a)].

The redemption price is the total of all the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.060(b)]:

(1) The purchase price at the sale.

(2) The amount of any assessments or taxes and reasonable amounts for fire insurance, maintenance, upkeep, and repair of improvements on the property.

(3) Any amount paid by the purchaser on a prior obligation secured by the property to the extent that the payment was necessary for the protection of the purchaser's interest.

(4) Interest on the amounts set out in subparagraphs (1), (2), and (3), above, at the rate of interest on money judgments from the time such amount was paid until the date the deposit is made.

(5) The amount of the purchaser's lien, if the purchaser at the sale has any liens subordinate to the lien under which the property was sold, plus interest at the rate of interest on money judgments from the date of the sale until the date the deposit is made.

Rents and profits from the property paid to the purchaser or the value of the use and occupation of the property to the purchaser may be offset against the redemption price [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.060(c)].

If the person seeking to redeem the property deposits the redemption price pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 729.060 or 729.070 during the redemption period, the levying officer will tender the deposit to the purchaser. If the purchaser accepts the tender, or if the redemption price determined by court order is tendered, the levying officer or trustee is to promptly execute and deliver a certificate of redemption to the person seeking to redeem and must immediately record a duplicate of the certificate in the office of the recorder of the county where the property is located [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.080(b)].

Tender of the redemption price determined by court order or agreed on by the purchaser and the person seeking to redeem the property is equivalent to payment. If the tender is refused, the levying officer deposits the amount tendered with the county treasurer of the county where the property is located, payable to the order of the purchaser. If the amount deposited is not claimed by the purchaser, or the legal representative of the purchaser, within five years after the deposit is made, by making application to the treasurer or other official designated by the county, it will be paid into the general fund of the county [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.080(c)].

§ 254.158 Petition to Determine Redemption Disputes

[1] Filing of Petition

If the purchaser and the person seeking to redeem the property disagree on the redemption price, or as to whether or not the person is entitled to redeem the property, or if the purchaser refuses the tender of the redemption price pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 729.080, the person seeking to redeem may file a petition with the court for an order determining the redemption price or whether or not the person is entitled to redeem the property. The petition must be filed before the expiration of the redemption period [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.070(a); see § 254.752].

At the time the petition is filed, the petitioner must deposit the undisputed amount of the redemption price with the levying officer, if deposit has not previously been made, and give written notice to the levying officer or trustee of the filing of the petition [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.070(a); see § 254.753].

The petition must be in writing and include the following statements [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.070(b)]:

- The amounts demanded to which the person seeking to redeem objects and the reasons for the objection.

- Any amounts offset to which the purchaser objects and the justification for the offset.

- The status of the petitioner that qualifies the petitioner to redeem the property. A copy of the papers required by Code Civ. Proc. § 729.060(a) must be filed with the petition.

[2] Hearing and Order

A hearing on the petition must be held not later than 20 days after the date the petition was filed unless continued by the court for good cause [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.070(c)]. Not less than 10 days before the hearing, the person seeking to redeem the property must personally serve a copy of the petition together with a notice of the time and place of the hearing on the purchaser [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.070(d); for discussion of service of papers, see § 254.13]. At the hearing on the petition, the person seeking to redeem the property has the burden of proof [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.070(e)]. At the conclusion of the hearing, the court determines by order the amount required to redeem the property. The determination is made on affidavit or evidence satisfactory to the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.070(f)]. If an amount in addition to that deposited with the levying officer is required to redeem the property, the person seeking to redeem must pay the additional amount to the levying officer within 10 days after the issuance of the order [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.070(g)].

1. In General

21-254 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 254.181

§ 254.181 Nature of Supplemental Proceedings

Supplementary proceedings are special proceedings of statutory origin, are summary in character, and are instituted subsequent to a judgment in an action. They are instituted for the purpose of discovering and reaching assets of a judgment debtor and applying them to the satisfaction of the judgment. They are regarded as proceedings in an action, but they are auxiliary and supplementary thereto. Supplementary procedures are intended as a substitute for creditors' suits and provide an easier and less expensive method of reaching the same result [Smith v. Smith (1942) 51 Cal. App. 2d 29, 31-32, 124 P.2d 117] .

These proceedings include service of written interrogatories on a judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.010-708.020]; examinations of judgment debtors and third persons [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.110-708.205]; creditor's suits against third persons [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.210-708.290]; orders assigning right of payment [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.510-708.560]; application of a franchise to satisfy a money judgment [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.910-708.930]; application of a judgment debtor's interest as a trust beneficiary and a judgment debtor's unvested interest in property to satisfy a money judgment [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 709.010-709.030].

§ 254.182 Receiver to Enforce Judgment

[1] In General

The appointment of a receiver after a judgment to carry the judgment into effect is authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(3). The court may appoint a receiver to enforce the judgment when the judgment creditor shows that considering the interests of both the judgment creditor and the judgment debtor, the appointment of a receiver is a reasonable method to obtain the fair and orderly satisfaction of the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.620].

The appointment, qualifications, powers, rights, and duties of a receiver appointed under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.610-708.630 to enforce a judgment is governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 564-571 [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.610]. For a discussion of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 564-571 and forms relating to the appointment of receivers, the administration and termination of receivership, and actions by and against receivers, see Ch. 486, Receivers .

[2] Judgment Against Alcoholic Beverage Licensee

The interest in any alcoholic beverage license of a judgment debtor may be applied to the satisfaction of a money judgment only as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 708.630 [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.630(a)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 708.630, the court may appoint a receiver for the purpose of transferring the judgment debtor's interest in an alcoholic beverage license that is transferable under Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 24070-24082, unless the judgment debtor shows in the proceeding to appoint a receiver that the amount of delinquent taxes described in Bus. & Prof. Code § 24049 (Alcoholic Beverage, Sales and Use, Personal Income, or Bank and Corporation Tax, or on tax unsecured property as defined in Rev. & Tax Code § 134) and claims of creditors with priority over the judgment creditor pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 24074 exceed the probable sale price of the license [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.630(b)]. The receiver may exercise the powers of the licensee as necessary and, in exercising such powers, shall comply with the applicable provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 23000 et seq. (Alcoholic Beverage Control Act) and applicable regulations of the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control. An application shall be filed to transfer the license to the receiver and a temporary retail permit shall be obtained during the pendency of the transfer [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.630(c)].

If enforcement of the judgment is stayed, all proceedings for interrogatories will be stayed. 21-254 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 254.220

§ 254.220 Examination of Judgment Debtor

[1] Governing Law

A judgment creditor may apply to the proper court for an order requiring the judgment debtor to appear before the court, or before a referee appointed by the court, to furnish information to aid in enforcement of a money judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110(a); for Judicial Council mandatory form of application and order, see § 254.780].

[2] Ex Parte Application or Noticed Motion

The court will make the order on ex parte application of the judgment creditor if the judgment creditor has not caused the judgment debtor to be examined during the preceding 120 days [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110(b)]. If, however, the judgment creditor has caused the judgment debtor to be examined under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110 during the preceding 120 days, the court will make the order if the judgment creditor by affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) or otherwise shows good cause for the order [for form of declaration, see § 254.782]. The application must be made on noticed motion if the court so directs or a court rule so requires [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110(c); see § 254.781 for form of notice of motion]. Otherwise, it may be made ex parte [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110(c); see § 254.780 for mandatory Judicial Council form of ex parte application].

3. Examinations

21-254 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 254.221

§ 254.221 Examination of Third Parties

[1] In General

A judgment creditor who has a money judgment, on ex parte application and proof, by affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) or otherwise, to the satisfaction of the proper court that a third person has possession or control of property in which the judgment debtor has an interest or is indebted to the judgment debtor in an amount exceeding $250, may obtain an order directing the third person to appear before the court, or before a referee appointed by the court, to answer concerning such property or debt. The affidavit in support of the judgment creditor's application may be based on the affiant's information and belief [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(a); see §§ 254.780, 254.783].

A copy of the order must be served personally on the third person and served either personally or by mail on the judgment debtor not less than 10 days prior to the date set for the examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(b)]. If service is made by mail the time for service may be extended [see Code Civ. Proc. § 684.120; for discussion of service of papers and extension of time for service when service is by mail, see § 254.13].

An order made pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(a) must contain a notice to the person served that failure to appear may subject him or her to arrest and punishment for contempt and payment of reasonable attorneys fees incurred by the judgment creditor. It must also contain notice to the judgment debtor of the examination and his or her right to claim an exemption [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(e)]. The Judicial Council form of application and order, which is required for use as of July 1, 2000, contains the required notices and warnings [see § 254.780].

The person serving the order must tender to the third person fees for the mileage necessary to be traveled from the third person's residence to the place of examination, or the order will not be effective. The fees are the same as those generally provided for witnesses when legally required to attend civil proceedings in the court where the examination proceeding is to be conducted [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(f); see Gov. Code § 68093].

The third person may not be ordered to appear when the judgment is no longer enforceable [see Code Civ. Proc. §

683.020].

[2] Lien on Property

If the property in the third person's possession or control in which the judgment debtor has an interest or if the debt owed by the third person to the judgment debtor is described in the affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5; see § 254.783) or in the application for the order directing the third person to appear in a manner reasonably adequate to permit it to be identified [see § 254.780], service of the order on the third person creates a lien on the judgment debtor's interest in the property or on the debt for a period of one year from the date of the order unless extended or sooner terminated by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(c)].

If the property or debt is described in the judgment creditor's application for an order for examination of a third person and the court ultimately orders the property or debt applied to the satisfaction of the judgment, the priority of the lien under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.205 will date from the service of the order on the third person pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(c) [Annual Report, 16 Cal. l Revision Comm'n Reports 2094 (1982)].

[3] Exemption Claim

[a] In General

The judgment debtor may claim that all or any portion of the property or debt is exempt from enforcement of a money judgment by application to the court on noticed motion, filed with the court and personally served on the judgment creditor not later than three days before the date set for the examination. The judgment debtor must execute an affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) in support of the application that includes all of the matters set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 703.520(b) (see § 254.710). Notice of opposition to a claim of exemption made pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120 is not required. The court must determine any claim of exemption made in examination proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(d); see §§ 254.793, 254.794].

For discussion of duty of third person to protect the exemption rights of the debtor and the manner of claiming exemptions, see § 254.110 et seq.

[b] Waiver of Exemption

Failure of the judgment debtor to make a claim of exemption does not preclude the judgment debtor from later claiming the exemption unless the property or debt is described in the order in a manner reasonably adequate to permit it to be identified and the judgment debtor receives notice of the examination proceeding at least 10 days before the date set for the examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(d)].

§ 254.222 Appearance by Representatives of Organizations

If a corporation, partnership, association, trust, or other organization is served with an order to appear for an examination, it must designate one or more officers, directors, managing agents, or other persons who are familiar with its property and debts, to appear and be examined [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.150(a)].

When the order to appear for an examination requires the appearance of a specified individual, that individual must appear for the examination and may be accompanied by one or more officers, directors, managing agents, or other persons familiar with the property and debts of the organization [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.150(b)].

If a third party examination is to be conducted and the order to appear for the examination does not require the appearance of a specified individual, the order must advise the organization of its duty to make a designation under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.150(a) [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.150(c)]. The Judicial Council form of application and order, which as of July 1, 2000, is required for use, contains the required notice to an organization [see § 254.780].

A corporation, partnership, association, trust, or other organization, whether or not a party, may appear at an examination through any authorized officer, director, or employee, whether or not the person is an attorney [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.450(d)].

§ 254.223 Powers of Referee; Limitations

The examination proceedings may be conducted by a referee appointed by the court. A referee has the power to issue, modify, or vacate an order authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 708.205, to make a protective order authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 708.200, to issue a warrant authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 708.170, and has the same power as the court to grant adjournments, to preserve order, and to subpoena witnesses to attend the examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.140(a)].

Only the court that ordered the reference, however, has power to punish for contempt for disobeying an order of the referee, to make an award of attorney's fees pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 708.170, or to determine a contested claim of exemption or determine a third-party claim under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.180 [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.140(a)]. To be eligible for appointment as a referee, one must be a member of the State Bar of California. However, a person who was duly appointed as a referee prior to July 1, 1983, pursuant to the law in operation at the time of appointment, and who was available to perform the duties of a referee on July 1, 1983, is exempt from the requirement that a referee be a member of the State Bar of California [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.140(b)].

§ 254.224 Liability for Failure to Appear

If an order requiring a person to appear for an examination was served by a sheriff, marshal, a person specially appointed by the court in the order, or a registered process server, and the person fails to appear, the court may do either of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.170(a)(1)]:

- Pursuant to a warrant, have the person brought before the court to answer for the failure to appear and punish the person for contempt.

- Issue a warrant for the arrest of the person [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1993].

If the person's failure to appear was without good cause, the judgment creditor will be awarded reasonable attorney's fees incurred in the examination proceeding. Attorney's fees awarded against the judgment debtor are added to and become part of the principal amount of the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.170(a)(2)].

A person who willfully makes an improper service of an order for an examination that results in the arrest pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 708.170(a) of the person who fails to appear is guilty of a misdemeanor [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.170(b)].

§ 254.226 Place for Examinations

Generally, the proper court for examination of a person is the court in which the money judgment is entered [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.160(a)]. However, a person may not be required to attend an examination before a court located outside the county in which the person resides or has a place of business unless the distance from the person's place of examination in less than 150 miles [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.160(b)].

If a person sought to be examined does not reside or have a place of business in the county where the judgment is entered, the superior court in the county in which the person resides or has a place of business is a proper court for the examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.160(c)].

For discussion of what must be filed with an application for examination in a county other than the county in which the judgment was entered, see § 254.780.

§ 254.227 Order Applying Property Toward Satisfaction of Judgment

Generally, at the conclusion of an examination proceeding, the court may order the judgment debtor's interest in property that is in the possession or under the control of the judgment debtor or the third person or a debt owed by the third person to the judgment debtor to be applied toward the satisfaction of the money judgment if the property is not exempt from enforcement of a money judgment. Such an order creates a lien on the property or debt [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.205(a); see Palacio Del Mar Homeowners Assn., Inc. v. McMahon (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 1386, 1390-1391, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 445 (property may be ordered turned over to levying officer or receiver, but not to judgment creditor directly)].

The court may not, however, order the property or debt to be applied toward the satisfaction of the money judgment if a third person examined pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120 claims an interest in the property adverse to the judgment debtor or denies the debt and the court does not determine the matter as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 708.180(a). The court may in that case make an order pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 708.180(c) or (d) forbidding transfer or payment [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.205(b)].

§ 254.228 Determination of Third Party Claim

[1] Summary Proceeding

Statutes governing the enforcement of judgments authorize the trial court to determine, in summary proceedings rather than by a creditor's suit, the existence of a debt by a third person to a judgment debtor [Evans v. Paye (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 265, 270, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 915] .

If a third person examined pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120 claims an interest in the property adverse to the judgment debtor or denies the debt, the court may make a conclusive determination regarding the parties to the proceeding and the third person. A party may appeal the determination in the manner provided for appeals from the court in which the proceeding takes place [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.180(a)].

[2] Continuance to Produce Evidence

The court may grant a continuance for a reasonable time for a reasonable time for discovery proceedings, the production of evidence, or other preparation for the hearing to determine the third party claim [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.180(a)].

[3] Limits on Court's Power

[a] Good Faith and Conditions

The court may not make a determination regarding the ownership of property or the existence of a debt if the third person's claim is made in good faith and specified conditions are satisfied [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.180(b); see § 254.228[3][b]].

[b] Burden of Proof on Claim of Good Faith

Once the judgment creditor has presented prima facie evidence of the existence of a debt by the third person to the judgment debtor, the burden shifts to the third person to show by a preponderance of the evidence that his or her denial of the debt is made in good faith [Evans v. Paye (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 265, 270, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 915] .

The third person may not satisfy this burden simply by offering an explanation that, on its face, is not patently frivolous or an obvious sham. Rather, the court must consider the totality of the circumstances in determining whether the third person has established good faith by a preponderance of the evidence [Evans v. Paye (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 265, 270, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 915] .

[c] Restricting Conditions

If the third person has made a showing of good faith that his or her claim is made in good faith (see § 254.228[3][b]), the court may not make a determination regarding the ownership of property or the existence of a debt if any of the following conditions is satisfied [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.180(b)]:

(1) The court would not be a proper court for the trial of an independent civil action (including a creditor's suit) for the determination of the ownership of the property or the existence of the debt, and the third person objects to the determination;

(2) At the time an order for examination is served on the third person, a civil action (including a creditor's suit) is pending with respect to the ownership of the property or the existence of the debt;

(3) The court determines that the ownership of the property or the existence of the debt should be determined in a creditor's suit.

If the court cannot make such a determination, it cannot order the property or debt to be applied toward the satisfaction of the money judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.205(b)].

[4] Restraint on Transfer of Property or Payment of Debt

On ex parte application of the judgment creditor, the court may make an order forbidding transfer of the property to the judgment debtor or payment of the debt to the judgment debtor until the ownership of the property or the existence of the debt is determined pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 708.180(a) or until a creditor's suit may be commenced and an order obtained pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 708.240. An undertaking may be required in the discretion of the court. The court may modify or vacate the order at any time with or without a hearing on such terms as are just [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.180(c); see §§ 254.786, 254.788].

On application of the judgment creditor on noticed motion, the court may, if it determines that the judgment debtor probably owns an interest in the property or that the debt probably is owed to the judgment debtor, make an order forbidding the transfer or other disposition of the property to any person or forbidding payment of the debt until the ownership of the property or the existence of the debt is determined pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 708.180(a) or until a creditor's suit may be commenced and an order obtained pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 708.240. The court must require the judgment creditor to furnish an undertaking as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 529 (undertakings relating to preliminary injunctions). The court may modify or vacate the order at any time after notice and hearing on such terms as are just [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.180(d); see §§ 254.787, 254.788].

§ 254.256 Exemption Claim

[1] In General

The judgment debtor may claim that all or any portion of the property or debt is exempt from enforcement of a money judgment. The claim is to be made by application to the court on noticed motion, filed with the court and served on the judgment creditor personally or by mail not later than 30 days before the date set for trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.260(a); §§ 254.793, 254.794; for discussion of service of papers and extension of time for service when service is by mail, see General Introduction under Filing and Service of Writs, Notices, and Other Papers]. The judgment debtor must execute an affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) in support of the application that includes all of the matters set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 703.520(b) (see § 254.710). No notice of opposition to the claim of exemption is required. If the judgment debtor has not been named as a party to the action, the judgment debtor may obtain an order under Code Civ. Proc. § 389 that the judgment debtor be made a party.

The court will determine any exemption claim made in a creditor's suit. If the judgment debtor establishes to the satisfaction of the court that the property or debt is exempt from enforcement of a money judgment, the court must so adjudge and may not make the orders referred to in Code Civ. Proc. § 708.280(b), (c), and (d) [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.280(a); for discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 708.280(b)-(d), see § 254.257].

[2] Waiver of Exemption

Failure of the judgment debtor to make a claim of exemption is a waiver of the exemption unless both of the following conditions are satisfied: (1) the judgment debtor has not been served with process in the action that contains a description of the property or debt reasonably adequate to permit it to be identified; (2) the judgment debtor does not have actual notice of the pendency of the ac tion and the identity of the property or the nature of the debt in issue [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.260].

§ 254.257 Judgment

If the judgment creditor establishes that the third person has property in which the judgment debtor has an interest or is indebted to the judgment debtor, the court must render judgment accordingly. The property or debt may be applied to the satisfaction of the judgment creditor's judgment against the judgment debtor as ordered by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.280(b)].

In addition, if the court determines that the third person has property in which the judgment debtor has an interest, the court may order the third person not to transfer the property until it can be levied on or otherwise applied to the satisfaction of the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.280(c); see § 254.792].

If the court determines that the third person has transferred property that was subject to a lien in favor of the judgment creditor or, contrary to court order of which the third person has notice, has paid the debt to the judgment debtor or has transferred the property, the court will render judgment against the third person in an amount equal to the lesser of (1) the value of the judgment debtor's interest in the property or the amount of the debt, or (2) the amount of the judgment creditor's judgment against the judgment debtor remaining unsatisfied [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.280(d)].

[1] Discretion of Court

Although a franchise granted by a public entity is not subject to execution [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.720(a)(7)], the court may, in its discretion, order a franchise applied to the satisfaction of a money judgment on application by the judgment creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.920(a)]. In exercising its discretion, the court shall determine whether application of the franchise to the satisfaction of the judgment is proper, taking into account all the circumstances of the case, including but not limited to the nature of the franchise, whether the franchise is by its terms transferable, and the likelihood that application of the franchise to the satisfaction of the judgment will yield a substantial amount [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.920(a)].

[2] Notice and Service Requirements

The application must be made on a noticed motion. The notice of motion must be served personally or by mail on the judgment debtor and on the public entity that granted the franchise [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.920(a)].

[3] Order for Application

If the court orders application of the franchise to the satisfaction of the judgment, application shall be by such means as appears proper to the court, including but not limited to sale of the franchise, assignment of the franchise or proceeds of the franchise, or appointment of a receiver [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.920(b)].

The court may include in its order, or make additional orders containing, provisions to effectuate the application of the franchise to the satisfaction of the judgment, including but not limited to provisions relating to the place of sale of the franchise, possession of the property of the judgment debtor necessary for the exercise of the franchise, receipt of proceeds of the franchise, recovery of penalties imposed by law and recoverable for injury to the franchise or for damages or other cause, and the judgment debtor's powers, duties, and liability for penalties and forfeitures [*Code Civ. F. Third-Party Claims

§ 254.311 Third-Party Claims

The term "third-party claims" applies to claims by third persons to the ownership or right to possession of real or personal property, or a claimed security interest or lien on personal property that has been levied on in an action by a creditor either before or after judgment [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.110, 720.210]. The procedures available for third-party claims regarding personal property that has been levied on [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.210-720.800] also apply to cases involving claim and delivery [Code Civ. Proc. § 514.050; see also Ch. 119, Claim and Delivery , for discussion, forms, and procedures relating to claim and delivery] and enforcement of state tax liability [Code Civ. Proc. § 688.110]. For alternative remedies available to third-party claimants to real or personal property levied on, see the discussion under § 254.323.

[1] Claim to Ownership or Right to Possession of Real or Personal Property

A third person claiming ownership or the right to possession of real or personal property that has been levied on may make a third-party claim to that property if the interest claimed is superior to the judgment creditor's lien on the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.110]. The third person may make this claim concerning real property that has been levied on under a writ of attachment or a writ of execution [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.110(a)], and to personal property that has been levied on under a writ of attachment, a writ of execution, a prejudgment or postjudgment writ of possession, or a writ of sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.110(b)].

[2] Claim by Third Party of Security Interest or Lien on Personal Property

A third person claiming a security interest in or lien on personal property levied on under a writ of attachment, a writ of execution, a prejudgment or postjudgment writ of possession, or a writ of sale, may make a third-party claim as to the property if the security interest or lien claimed is superior to the judgment creditor's lien on the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.210(a)]. A third-party claiming a security interest in fixtures may also make a third-party claim providing the claimed interest is superior to the creditor's lien on the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.210(b)].

§ 254.313 Notice and Service of Claim

No later than five days after the third-party claim has been filed with the levying officer, he or she must serve either personally or by mail on the creditor and debtor a copy of the third-party claim and a statement whether or not the third party has filed an undertaking to release the property [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.140(a), (c), 720.240(a), (c); for discussion of service of papers and extension of time for service when service is by mail, see § 254.13].

If the third-party claimant has filed an undertaking to release the property, a notice that the property will be released within 10 days after service of the notice unless the creditor objects to the undertaking must also be served on the judgment creditor and judgment debtor [*Code Civ. If the third party has not filed an undertaking, a notice must be served on the judgment creditor and judgment debtor that the property will be released within 10 days after service of the notice unless the creditor files with the levying officer either an undertaking that satisfies the requirements of a creditor's undertaking as provided by *Code Civ. PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Third-Party Claims

§ 254.314 Undertaking By Third-Party Claimant

The third-party claimant may give an undertaking to release property in which the party claims an interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.610]. The undertaking may be given when [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.610]:

(1) Real property in which the third-party claims ownership or the right to possession is levied on under either a writ of attachment or execution;

(2) Personal property in which the third-party claims ownership or the right to possession, or a security interest or lien is levied on under either a writ of attachment, execution, or sale.

The undertaking may be filed with the levying officer, together with two copies, at the time the third party filed the third-party claim (see § 254.820[3]), or later, but in any event before the levying officer either sells the property, delivers possession of it to the creditor, or pays proceeds of collection to the creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.620].

The undertaking must contain a description of the property to be released and describe the interest of the third party in the property and must be made in favor of the creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.630(a), (b)]. The undertaking must provide that in the event that the debtor is adjudged to have an interest in the property levied on, the third party will pay to the creditor the lesser of the amount required to satisfy the judgment against the debtor of the creditor, or a sum equal to the market value of the debtor's interest in the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.630(b)]. The amount of the undertaking may be either twice the market value of the property sought to be released, or twice the amount of the creditor's lien on the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.630(c)]. If, however, the creditor has given an undertaking in response to the third party's claim [see § 254.315], the third party's undertaking must be in the same amount as the creditor's undertaking [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.630(d)]. The undertaking is effective as of the date the property is released [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.650].

[1] Notice and Service of Undertaking

The levying officer must serve a copy of the undertaking and notice of the filing on both the creditor and the debtor at the same time as the notice of the third-party claim is served if the third party filed the undertaking at the same time as the claim [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.640(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.140, 720.240]. If the undertaking is filed subsequent to the filing of the third-party claim, the levying officer must, within five days after the undertaking is filed, serve a copy of the undertaking on the creditor and debtor with a notice that the property will be released unless, within the time allowed as specified in the notice, the creditor objects to the undertaking. Service may be made personally or by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.640(b)].

For discussion of service of papers and extension of the time for service when service is by mail, see § 254.13.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Third-Party Claims

21-254 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 254.315

§ 254.315 Undertaking by Judgment Creditor

In order to protect his or her rights in the property of the debtor which has been previously levied on, a judgment creditor may file an undertaking with the levying officer in response to the third-party claim [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.160].

[1] Requirements

The undertaking must be at least in the amount of $10,500, or twice the amount of the execution lien as of the date of the levy or other enforcement lien as of the date it was created, whichever is lesser [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.160(b), 720.260(b)]. The court, however, has the power to order the amount of the undertaking decreased below the amount prescribed in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.160(b) and 720.260(b) [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.770; see also § 254.317]. The amount of the undertaking is also subject to the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 996.010 (objection to undertaking for insufficiency) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.160(b), 720.260(b)].

The creditor may elect to file an undertaking in an amount larger than required by statute [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.160(b), 720.260(b)]. The creditor's undertaking must be made in favor of the third-party claimant, and indemnify him or her against any loss, liability, damages, costs, and attorney's fees incurred by reason of the enforcement proceedings, and be conditioned on a final judgment that the third-party claimant owns or has a right to possession of the property, or that his or her security interest or lien has priority over that of the creditor's lien [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.160(c), 720.260(c); see Franke v. BAM Building Co. (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 224, 230-236, 91 Cal. Rptr. 3d 212 (analyzing statute)]. A creditor that is a public entity is exempt from giving an undertaking. However, it must file with the levying officer a notice of opposition to the third-party claim [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.160(d), 720.260(d)].

[a] Deposit in Lieu of Undertaking

The creditor may, instead of filing an undertaking in response to the third-party claim by a secured person or lienholder, make a deposit with the levying officer in the amount of the sums due or to accrue under the security interest or lien, plus the applicable rate of interest on the amount due [see Code Civ. Proc. § 720.260; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 720.230(a)(4)].

After receiving the deposit, the levying officer, if the deposit is statutorily sufficient, must promptly tender or pay the deposit to the third-party claimant [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.290(a)]. If the tender is accepted, the interest of the third-party claimant in the property passes to the creditor, and on distribution of any proceeds under Code Civ. Proc. § 701.810, the creditor making the deposit will be entitled to the proceeds to the extent of the deposit in the priority of the secured interest or lien for which the deposit is made [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.290(b)]. However, if the deposit is refused, it will be deposited with the county treasurer payable to the order of the third-party claimant [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.290(c)]. If the creditor makes a deposit rather than filing an undertaking, there can be no hearing on the issue of the third-party claim [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.310(b)].

[b] Statement of Opposition to Claim of Secured Party or Lienholder

When a creditor files an undertaking in response to a third-party claim by a secured party, he or she must file with the levying officer a statement executed under oath that the security interest is invalid, that it is not entitled to priority over the creditor's lien, or that the amount demanded in the claim exceeds the amount to which the secured party is entitled, giving specific reasons for the applicable statement [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.280(a)]. The creditor must serve personally or by mail a copy of the statement on the secured party, and the debtor [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.280(b), (c); for discussion of service of papers and extension of time for service when service is by mail, see General Introduction under Filing and Service of Writs, Notices, and Other Papers].

[2] Effect of Filing Undertaking

If the creditor files with the levying officer an undertaking, a deposit in lieu of an undertaking, or a notice of exemption as a public entity, the levying officer must execute the writ unless the third party has also filed a statutorily sufficient undertaking. After sale, payment, or delivery of the levied property pursuant to the writ, the property is free of all claims of the third party for which the creditor has given the undertaking [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.160(a), 720.260(a)].

F. Third-Party Claims

21-254 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 254.316

§ 254.316 Release of Property

[1] No Undertaking Filed by Either Third Party or Creditor

The release of property following the filing of a third-party claim is governed generally by Code Civ. Proc. § 699.060 [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.170(a), 720.270(a)]. When the third-party claimant has not filed an undertaking, the levying officer must release the property to the person from whom it was taken (see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.060) within 10 days after the service of notice of the third-party claim on the creditor and debtor (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.140(b), 720.240(b)), unless the creditor has filed an undertaking or notice of exemption or made a deposit in lieu of an undertaking [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.170(a), 720.270(a)]. If, however, the debtor does not claim the property, the third party who claimed it under a third-party claim is entitled to its possession [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.170(c), 720.270(c)]. This is an exception to the general release provision that, if the debtor does not claim the property, it is to be sold and the proceeds deposited in the name of the debtor pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 699.060(b) [Tentative Recommendation Proposing The Enforcement of Judgments Law, 15 Cal. L. Rev. Comm. Reports 2562 (1980)]. Release of the property by the levying officer pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 720.170 or 720.270 does not preclude a hearing on the validity of the third-party claim [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.170(d), 720.270(d)].

[2] Pursuant to Undertaking by Third Party

After the filing of the undertaking by the third party, and after the expiration of the 10 days allowed for the creditor to object to the undertaking (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.140(b), 720.240(b)), the levying officer must release the property unless the creditor has made a timely objection to the undertaking and filed a copy of the notice of motion objecting to an undertaking with the levying officer pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 720.760 [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.660; see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 995.910-995.960 (objections to undertakings)]. For discussion of objections to an undertaking, see § 254.317. For discussion, forms, and procedural guide relating to objections to undertakings, generally, see Ch. 538, Suretyship, Bonds, and Undertakings .

§ 254.317 Objection to Undertaking

The beneficiary of an undertaking, whether the third party claimant or the creditor, may object to an undertaking on either or both of the grounds that the sureties are insufficient or that the amount of the undertaking is insufficient [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 995.920(a), (b), 996.010(a), (b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 720.660]. The objection is made by noticed motion, a copy of which must be filed with the levying officer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.760, 995.930]. The hearing on the objection must be held at least 10 but not more than 15 days after service of the notice of motion unless otherwise agreed by the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.770]. For further discussion of objections to undertakings, see Ch. 538, Suretyship, Bonds, and Undertakings .

The court may order the amount of the undertaking decreased below the amount prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.160, 720.260 if the court determines the amount prescribed exceeds the probable recovery of the beneficiary if the beneficiary ultimately prevails in proceedings to enforce the liability on the undertaking [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.770]. For discussion relating to statutory requirements as to amount of undertakings, see § 254.315[1].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Third-Party Claims

21-254 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 254.318

§ 254.318 Creditor's Demand That Third Party File Claim

Code Civ. Proc. § 720.510 provides that a creditor may make a demand that a secured party or lienholder file a third-party claim to personal property that has been levied on under a writ of attachment or writ of execution. The creditor's demand, together with a copy, must be filed with the levying officer after levy on the personal property, but before the levying officer sells the property, or pays proceeds of collection to the creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.520(a)]. The levying officer has the responsibility to promptly and personally serve the demand on the secured party or lienholder. Service must be attested to by the levying officer and the certificate of attestation must be filed in the action promptly after service [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.520(b); for discussion of service of papers and extension of time for service when service is by mail, see § 254.13]. For a form of a creditor's demand that a third party file a claim, see § 254.823.

[1] Prohibition Against Disposition of Property

Except as otherwise provided by statute, the levying officer is not to release, sell, or otherwise dispose of the personal property described in the creditor's demand until after the expiration of 30 days from the date of service of the demand on the secured party or lienholder [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.540].

[2] Failure of Third Party to File Claim

If the secured party or lienholder does not file a third-party claim with the levying officer within 30 days after service of the demand, the third party will be deemed to have waived any priority the security interest or lien may have had over the creditor's lien in the levied property, and the property may be applied toward the satisfaction of the judgment free of the security interest or lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.550(a)]. However, if the creditor's lien on the property is released, the security interest or lien on the property is restored to its former position of priority [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.550(b)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Third-Party Claims

21-254 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 254.319

§ 254.319 Hearing On Third-Party Claim

[1] Application

Either the creditor or the third-party claimant may petition the court for a hearing to determine the validity of the claim and the proper disposition of the property that is the subject of the claim. The petition must be filed with the court no later than 15 days after the third party claim is filed with the levying officer or 15 days after an undertaking is filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.310(a)]. The hearing must be held within 20 days after the filing of the petition, unless continued by the court for good cause shown [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.310(c)]. The hearing may be held regardless of whether or not an undertaking has been filed, but not if a deposit has been made pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 720.260 [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.310(b); see § 254.315[1][a]].

[2] Notice

The petitioner must serve, personally or by mail, notice of the time and place of the hearing on the adverse party and on the debtor. In addition, the petitioner must file a copy of the notice of hearing with the levying officer. The notice must be served and filed in the same manner, and at the same times, prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.320(a); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(a)(7)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) provides generally that all moving and supporting papers must be served and filed at least 16 court days before the time appointed for the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(a)]. If, however, the notice is served by mail, this period is increased by 5 calendar days if the place of mailing and the place of address are within the State of California, by 10 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside the State of California but within the United States, or by 20 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside the United States; the 16-day period is increased by two calendar days if service is by facsimile transmission, express mail, or other overnight delivery method [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300 (proof of service of moving papers)].

The notice must include a statement that the purpose of the hearing is to determine the validity of the third-party claim and the proper disposition of the property that is the subject of the claim [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.320(b)].

[3] Filing of Papers

Promptly after receiving the notice of hearing, the levying officer must file the following papers with the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.330]:

- The third-party claim.

- Any statement filed by the creditor with the levying officer pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 720.280 in opposition to the third-party claim of a secured party.

- Any undertaking of the creditor filed in response to the third-party claim pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 720.160 or Code Civ. Proc. § 720.260.

- Any undertaking to release the levied property filed by the third-party claimant pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 720.610-720.660.

- Any notice of exemption to filing of an undertaking by a public entity pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 720.160 or 720.260.

If the creditor has not previously filed a statement with the levying officer pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 720.280 in opposition to a third-party claim by a secured party, and the creditor petitions for a hearing on the third-party claim, the creditor must file the statement with the court at the time the petition is filed and serve a copy of the statement on the secured party along with the notice of the hearing served pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 720.320 [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.340(a)]. If the secured party petitions the court for the hearing, the creditor must file the statement pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 720.280 with the court no later than five days before the date set for the hearing and serve, personally or by mail, a copy of the statement on the secured party [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.340(b)].

[4] Stay of Sale Pending Hearing

The court may make an order staying the sale of the property under a writ or enjoining any transfer or other disposition of the property levied on under a writ until the proceedings to determine the rights of a third person can be commenced and completed. The court may require such undertaking as it considers necessary as a condition for making the order [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.380(a); see § 254.829]. After a third-party claim has been filed, the creditor, debtor, or third-party claimant may apply to the court for such an order. The application may be made ex parte, unless it is required to be on noticed motion by the court or by local court rule [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.380(b); see § 254.827]. Any such order may be modified or vacated by the court any time before the termination of the proceedings on such terms as are just [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.380(c)].

§ 254.320 Conduct of Hearing

[1] In General

There is no right to a jury trial on the issue of the validity of the third-party claim [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.410; see Misrach v. Liederman (1936) 58 P.2d 746] . Once the creditor or third party has applied for the hearing, he or she cannot move to dismiss the proceedings without the consent of the other [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.370].

The pleadings in the hearing consist of the third-party claim, and in the case of a third-party claim by a secured party, the creditor's statement in opposition. A third-party claim of ownership, right of possession, or a lien is deemed controverted by the creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.350]. Regardless of who demands the hearing, the third-party claimant has the burden of proof as to the validity of the claim [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.360].

[2] Determination of Claim

At the conclusion of the hearing, the court must determine the validity of the third-party claim, and may order the disposition of the property or its procceds in accordance with the respective interests of the parties. The judgment is conclusive between the parties to the proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.390]. However, an appeal may be taken from the judgment in the manner prescribed for appeals from the court in which the hearing took place [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.420].

Proc. §§ 720.140(c), 720.240(c), 720.640*]. The debtor must also be given notice of any application for a hearing on the validity of the third-party claim [Code Civ. Proc. § 720.320(a); see § 254.752[6]] and may move the court for an order staying the sale of the property levied on under a writ, or to enjoin the transfer or other disposition of the property pending the commencement and prosecution to termination of the hearing on the third-party claim [*Code Civ. - Intervene in the original action (enabling the third party to ultimately establish title, but denying right to immediate possession) [Code Civ. Proc. § 387; see Beshara v. Goldberg (1963) 221 Cal. App. 2d 392, 395, 34 Cal. Rptr. 501 ; see also Ch. 395, Parties].

- Bring an independent action [see Retailers' Credit Asso. v. Superior Court of Glenn County (1937) 19 Cal. App. 2d 457, 459, 65 P.2d 937] .

- Bring an action for damages for conversion when the claim is properly made, but personal property is wrongfully sold or released by the levying officer [see McCaffey Canning Co. v. Bank of America (1930) 109 Cal. App. 415, 429-435, 294 P. 45 ; see also Ch. 150, Conversion].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Joint Debtors

21-254 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 254.344

§ 254.344 Original Cause of Action

Liability under the joint debtor statutes may be based only on the original cause of action stated in the complaint. The joint debtor proceedings are in the nature of an action on the judgment and the joint debtor, therefore, can only be held liable for the obligation on which the judgment was rendered. If the original cause of action is changed, the joint debtor proceedings cannot be used [Cooper v. Burch (1903) 140 Cal. 548, 551-552, 74 P. 37 ; Vincent v. Grayson (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 899, 908, 106 Cal. Rptr. 733] .

The cause of action must be in contract. Although Code Civ. Proc. § 989 refers initially to a judgment recovered against one or more of several persons jointly indebted on an obligation, and does not identify the nature of the requisite obligation, it later identifies the judgment proceeded on in joint debtor proceedings as one recovered by the proceedings provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 410.70, which refer specifically to an action against two or more persons who are jointly liable on a contract. A contract action requires that the complaint allege that the obligation sued on is consensual in origin. Thus, joint debtor proceedings are not available in an action based on a common count for money had and received when the basis of the action does not appear to be a consensual obligation [Hillco, Inc. v. Stein (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 322, 326-327, 147 Cal. Rptr. 108] .

§ 254.345 Amendment of Complaint

In joint debtor proceedings, the parties may amend their pleadings as in other cases [Code Civ. Proc. § 993]. This means that the parties may amend their pleadings to cure technical defects or matters of form, such as to allow proof of compliance with the statutory requirement of filing a certificate of doing business under a fictitious name or of substituting the true names of parties sued as fictitious defendants. It does not, however, authorize a plaintiff to amend the complaint to raise new issues of fact giving rise to a different legal obligation. [Meller & Snyder v. R & T Properties, Inc. (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1303, 1311-1312, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 740 ; Vincent v. Grayson (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 899, 910, 106 Cal. Rptr. 733] .

When an alleged joint debtor was sued under a fictitious name, the complaint must be amended to substitute the debtor's true identity, otherwise a court is without power to enter a judgment against the joint debtor under Code Civ. Proc. § 989 et seq. [Meller & Snyder v. R & T Properties, Inc. (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1303, 1311, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 740] . The trial court must rule on the question whether the plaintiff has complied with Code Civ. Proc. § 474 before the court may enter judgment against the defendant in joint debtor proceedings [Meller & Snyder v. R & T Properties, Inc. (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1303, 1311-1312, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 740] . For discussion and forms relating to the allegation and substitution of fictitiously named defendants or "doe" defendants pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 474, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used .

The plaintiff must execute an affidavit (or declaration under *Code Civ. The declaration may also be made by the plaintiff's agent, representative, or attorney [Code Civ. Proc. § 991]. The affidavit is presented to the clerk, who issues a summons thereon [*Code Civ. § 254.347 Summons

The summons to a joint debtor describes the judgment and requires the person summoned to show cause why he or she should not be bound by it. The joint debtor summons is served with a copy of the declaration in the same manner as an original summons [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 990-991].

The joint debtor summons is returnable no later than 90 days after the time specified for the return of the original summons [Code Civ. Proc. § 990].

The joint debtor summons [see § 254.851] informs the person summoned that a responsive pleading must be filed within 30 days after service or that a default may be entered [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 990, 992]. The Judicial Council has adopted a form for a joint debtor summons for mandatory use [Judicial Council Form SUM-120]. For a reproduction of the form, see § 254.851.

§ 254.348 Response to Summons

[1] Default

If the joint debtor does not file a response to the summons, his or her default may be entered [for forms and procedure, see Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments]. The joint debtor would then be bound by the judgment in the same manner as though he or she had been originally served with summons [Code Civ. Proc. § 989].

[2] Denying Liability on Original Obligation

The joint debtor may deny liability on the obligation on which the judgment was recovered by reason of any defense existing at the commencement of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 992]. On such denial, a copy of the original complaint and judgment, the joint debtor summons with the declaration annexed, and the answer constitute the written allegations in the case subject to the right of the parties to amend their pleadings as in other cases [Code Civ. Proc. § 993].

The issues formed are tried as in other cases. A verdict against such a joint debtor is limited to the amount remaining unsatisfied on the original judgment, with interest thereon [Code Civ. Proc. § 994].

[3] Denying Judgment or Asserting Subsequent Defense

The joint debtor may deny the judgment or set up any defense which may have arisen subsequently. On such a denial or defense, the summons with the declaration annexed and the answer constitute the written allegations in the case [Code Civ. Proc. § 993]. The issues formed are tried asin other cases [Code Civ. Proc. § 994]. If the plaintiff prevails, the joint debtor is bound by the original judgment [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 989, 990].

§ 254.349 Writ of Execution

If the joint debtor is declared to be bound by the judgment, the judgment creditor may obtain a writ of execution [see § 254.680]. This writ is identified on its face as directed to the property of a joint debtor and Paragraph 8 is also checked referring to joint debtor information on the reverse. The reverse shows that the joint debtor was declared bound by the judgment and the date thereof and itemizes additional costs against certain joint debtors [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.31].

§ 254.371 Decisions

[1] Execution Lien

Execution lien is not extinguished by secured creditor's use of strict foreclosure procedure under Com. Code § 9505(2) when secured creditor has notice of lien, result is prejudicial to lienholder, and lienholder has not received notice of proposed foreclosure. Oliver v. Bledsoe (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 998, 1001, 1007, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 382

Unless transfer of property encumbered by lien comes within one of enumerated exceptions under Code Civ. Proc. § 697.740, lienholder's rights against property are unimpaired by transfer; hence, lienholder's ability to protect and enforce execution lien, including right to renew lien by timely subsequent levy, is unimpaired by secured creditor's retention or strict foreclosure of promissory note. Oliver v. Bledsoe (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 998, 1001, 1007, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 382

[2] Exempt Property

Funds withheld by employer for spousal support at time of levy and not yet paid to supported spouse under wage assignment order are subject to writ of execution on judgment against supported spouse and do not constitute exempt property. Vineyard v. Sisson (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 931, 935, 272 Cal. Rptr. 914

Exemption statutes are construed in favor of judgment debtor and exceptions to exemption statutes as strictly construed. Roosevelt v. Roosevelt (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 397, 402, 172 Cal. Rptr. 641

[3] Finality of Sale

Execution sale is final except for irregularities. Arrow Sand & Gravel, Inc. v. Superior Court (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 884, 888-890, 215 Cal. Rptr. 288, 700 P.2d 1290

Judgment creditor, seeking to sell an occupied dwelling to collect on a money judgment, may not bypass Code Civ. Proc. § 704.740 because the sale is conducted by a receiver. Wells Fargo Financial Leasing, Inc. v. D & M Cabinets (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 59, 67-69, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 97

Given that there is no specified consequence in Code Civ. Proc. § 704.740 for failure to obtain court order, transgression in sheriff's sale of plaintiff's property could only be considered "irregularity" governed by all-encompassing remedies in Code Civ. Proc. § 699.010 et seq., which permit damages remedy against judgment creditor or sheriff but forbid setting aside sale to third party purchasers. Further, sale was not void due to res judicata principles based on prior unlawful detainer judgment against defendants in plaintiff's favor and court's reasoning when it denied defendants' post-trial motions that plaintiff's evidence proved that property was dwelling, when record affirmatively showed defendants did not have fair adversary hearing because unlawful detainer judge, in denying defendants' post-trial motions, specifically pointed out whether property was dwelling was not tried so that defendants never had any adversary hearing, and judge then effectively decided case against defendants on very issue not tried by giving credit to plaintiff's evidence presumably introduced for non-dwelling purposes since there was no dwelling issue while implicitly denying defendants opportunity to offer contrary evidence and argument to jury. Finally, plaintiff could not plead unfairness or undue advantage element of equitable redemption cause of action, because underlying unfairness or undue advantage was predicated on sale of property without court order, which, in turn, presupposed property was dwelling, but pleadings established that property was not dwelling. Gonzalez v. Toews (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 977, 981-984, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 434

[4] Recalling and Quashing Writ of Execution

Writ is quashed when judgment is vacated. Stegge v. Wilkerson (1961) 189 Cal. App. 2d 1, 5, 10 Cal. Rptr. 867

Costs of quashing writ are allowed to prevailing party. Van Denburgh v. Goodfellow (1941) 19 Cal. 2d 217, 225, 120 P.2d 20

[5] Stay of Execution

When denial of motion for stay would result in considerable loss to debtor, while granting motion would have no present economic effect on creditor, court abused its discretion in denying the motion solely because debtor had not proceeded with dispatch in the matter. Airfloor Co. of Cal., Inc. v. Regents of University of Cal. (1979) 97 Cal. App. 3d 739, 743, 158 Cal. Rptr. 856

[6] Vacating Execution Sale

Motion to vacate sale under execution is proper procedure when any irregularities are claimed. Knapp v. Rose (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 530, 534, 197 P.2d 7

Discretion of trial court in determining whether or not to set aside execution sale is very broad. Butterfield v. Tietz (1966) 247 Cal. App. 2d 483, 485-486, 55 Cal. Rptr. 577

Summary process under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.180 was inappropriate under Code Civ. Proc. § 491.170(b)(3), because complexity of transactions in actions involving collection of funds from sale of shrimp that importer received on consignment from insolvent exporter required a creditor's suit, and creditor had consented to California's jurisdiction when it brought collection proceedings. Sea Foods Co., Ltd. v. O.M. Foods Co., Ltd. (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 769, 782-787, 58 Cal. Rptr. 3d 700

Questions concerning postjudgment settlement negotiations are proper during judgment debtor examination and not barred by Evid. Code §§ 1152 and 1154, which prohibit introduction of evidence of settlement negotiations on issue of liability at trial. Young v. Keele (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 1090, 1093-1094, 233 Cal. Rptr.850

Disqualified judge was prohibited from ordering examination of judgment debtor under former Code Civ. Proc. § 714 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110). Noorthoek v. Superior Court (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 600, 604-607, 75 Cal. Rptr. 61

Quashing order for appearance and examination of judgment debtor for lack of personal service was reversible error when order was not void on its face and defendant's motion to quash barred by doctrine of laches. Fidelity Bank v. Kettler (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 481, 486-487, 70 Cal. Rptr. 500

Notice before issuance of an order for the appearance of a judgment debtor under former Code Civ. Proc. §§ 714, 715 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110) is not required; order is made ex parte. Lewis v. Neblett (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 290, 297, 10 Cal. Rptr. 441

Court can order judgment debtor or his or her debtor to apply toward satisfaction of judgment only property within possession or control of person ordered to act; debtor cannot be punished for contempt for failure to deliver possession of property not within his or her possession or control. Medical Fin. Ass'n v. Karnes (1938) 84 P.2d 1076

Second examination of judgment debtor is discretionary with court; judgment creditor must present some new facts of which creditor was not appraised at the former examination. Watson v. Pryor (1920) 49 Cal. App. 554, 556, 193 P. 797

§ 254.491 Obtaining Writ of Execution

1. If not previously done, counsel for judgment creditor prepares, serves, and files a memorandum of costs [see Code Civ. Proc. § 685.070]. If a registered process server is being used to levy on property, counsel should also make a motion to recover the process server's fees as costs [see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080(f)]. See generally Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees .

2. Counsel for judgment creditor prepares and files writ of execution and an affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) stating the amount of postjudgment interest that has accrued [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 685.050(a)(2), 699.510, 699.520; *see §§ 254.680, 254.680.*1]. If the judgment creditor includes additional names for the judgment debtor in the writ beyond those included in the judgment, counsel for the judgment debtor files an Affidavit of Identity with the writ [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 680.135, 699.510(c); see § 254.680.05].

NOTE:
If the property to be levied on is located in a county different from that in which the writ will be issued, counsel should make sure that the writ is directed to the levying officer of the county in which the property is located. Separate writs must be issued for each county in which property to be levied on is located [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510(a)].

3. Clerk issues writ.

NOTE:
Practice varies in the counties with regard to whether counsel may immediately obtain a writ of execution or sale when the memorandum of costs is filed simultaneously with the writ. Some courts will not issue the writ until the adverse party has been allowed a sufficient amount of time within which to file a motion to tax costs under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1700(b)(1). At any rate, to enforce the entire judgment including costs, counsel will have to wait for this period to expire before seeking the writ of execution [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1700(b)(4) (clerk to enter costs on judgment after time for motion to strike or tax costs or time for determination of that motion has expired)].

Proc. § 683.040*]. For discussion and forms relating to renewal of a judgment so that it may be enforced after 10 years, see Ch. 318, Judgments .

1. Generally, any judgment or order of the court under the Family Code may be enforced by the court by execution, appointment of a receiver, contempt, or such other order or orders as the court in its discretion may from time to time deem necessary [Fam. Code § 290]. However, notwithstanding Fam. Code § 290, a child, family, or spousal support order may be enforced by a writ of execution or a notice of levy pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 706.030 or Fam. Code. § 17522 without prior court approval [Fam. Code § 5100]. For discussion and forms relating to enforcement of judgments made or entered under the Family Law Act, see Ch. 258, Family Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies , Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement , and Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments .

1. Counsel for judgment debtor may wish to obtain a stay of enforcement under Code Civ. Proc. § 918(a).

NOTE:
The maximum time for a stay of enforcement is 10 days without consent of the adverse party when execution would otherwise be stayed on appeal only by the giving of an undertaking [Code Civ. Proc. § 918(b)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 918 applies whether or not an appeal will be taken from the judgment or order and whether or not a notice of appeal has been filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 918(c)].

2. Counsel for judgment debtor and counsel for judgment creditor may execute a stipulation staying enforcement of judgment.

3. If a judgment debtor has another action pending on a disputed claim against the judgment creditor, counsel for the judgment debtor may obtain a stay of enforcement pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 918.5 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 918.5].

NOTE:
A registered process server may levy on certain property under a writ of execution.

1. Counsel for judgment creditor prepares instructions for the sheriff or other levying officer, directing the officer to levy on and, if so instructed, to sell the judgment debtor's property [Code Civ. Proc. § 687.010; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 684.130]. When permitted by statute, counsel for judgment creditor may wish to instruct the levying officer to place a keeper in charge of the property [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 700.070 (property of going business), 700.080 (personal property used as dwelling)]. See §§ 254.685, 254.686.

§ 254.502 Claim of Exemption

NOTE:

Property that is exempt from execution is set forth in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 704.010-704.210. The various types of exempt property are listed in the Research Guide, State Statutes, under Exempt Property. The homestead exemption is governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 704.710-704.995. For a discussion of the law governing homestead exemptions, see Ch. 294, Homesteads .

1. Counsel for judgment debtor prepares and files the original and one copy of a claim of exemption with the levying officer within 10 days from the date the notice of levy on the property was served on the judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.520(a)]. Counsel should also prepare a notice of exemption for service on the judgment creditor by the levying officer [see Code Civ. Proc. § 703.540]. See §§ 254.710 -254.711.

2. To contest the claim of exemption, counsel for judgment creditor must, within 10 days after service of the notice of the claim of exemption, prepare and file with the court a notice of opposition to the claim of exemption and a notice of motion for an order determining the claim. A copy of both the notice of opposition and notice of motion must also be filed with the levying officer within the 10-day period [see Code Civ. Proc. § 703.550]. See §§ 254.712 -254.713.

NOTE:

If no opposition is filed, the levying officer will release the property claimed to be exempt [see Code Civ. Proc. § 703.550].

3. A hearing on the motion must be held no later than 20 days from the date the notice of motion is filed with the court unless continued for good cause. Counsel for the judgment creditor must serve a notice of the hearing and a copy of the notice of opposition on the judgment debtor no less than 10 days prior to the hearing [see Code Civ. Proc. § 703.570].

4. Counsel for both parties attend the hearing on the claim of exemption [see Code Civ. Proc. § 703.580].

5. Counsel for the prevailing party prepares the judgment, serves a copy on the opposing party, and files the original with the clerk, who transmits a copy to the levying officer [see Code Civ. Proc. § 703.580]. See § 254.715.

If a registered process server is being used to levy on property, counsel should also make a motion to recover the process server's fees as costs [see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080(f)]. See generally Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees .

2. Counsel for judgment creditor prepares application for writ of possession or sale of property. In the case of a writ of possession in unlawful detainer proceedings, the application must include a declaration under penalty of perjury stating the daily rental value of the property as of the date that the complaint was filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 712.010], and must also indicate that the writ applies to all tenants, subtenants, if any, named claimants, if any, and any other occupants of the premises [Code Civ. Proc. § 715.010(a)].

3. Counsel for judgment creditor prepares and files writ of sale or possession. See § 254.730 (writ of sale or possession).

NOTE:
If the property that is the subject of the writ is located in a county different from the county in which the writ will be issued, counsel should make sure that the writ is directed to the levying officer of the county in which the property is located. To assist in enforcing a judgment for possession of personal property or a judgment for sale of real or personal property, counsel for judgment creditor may apply ex parte, or on noticed motion if required by the court or a court rule, for an order directing the judgment debtor to transfer property or documentary evidence of title to the property or both [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 712.030, 716.030]. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 715.010-715.050 do not authorize such an order to enforce a judgment for possession of real property. In the case of a judgment for possession of personal property, the order may be obtained whether or not a writ has issued on the judgment, and the order will provide for transfer of the property to the judgment creditor [*Code Civ. b. Personally serve a copy of the order on the judgment debtor at least 10 days before the date set for the examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110(d)].

2. Examining Third Party

The application may be made ex parte [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(a); see § 254.780].

b. Prepare and submit with the application an affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(a); see § 254.783].

Proc. § 708.180(c)*; see § 254.786]. Otherwise, it must be made on noticed motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.180(d); see § 254.787].

[2] Use of Form

This form of application and order is for use by a party aggrieved by an appealable judgment or order to apply ex parte for an order temporarily staying its enforcement [see Code Civ. Proc. § 918, discussed below]. Code Civ. Proc. § 918 applies whether or not an appeal will be taken from the judgment or order and whether or not a notice of appeal has been filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 918(c)].

The form may be used as an alternative to an oral motion in open court or a stipulation of the parties.

[3] Trial Court's Power to Stay Enforcement

The trial court may stay the enforcement of any judgment or order, but if enforcement would be stayed on appeal only by the giving of an undertaking, the court does not have power, without the consent of the adverse party, to stay enforcement for a period that extends for more than 10 days beyond the last date on which a notice of appeal can be filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 918(a), (b)]. Unless the court expressly orders otherwise, a stay of enforcement under Code Civ. Proc. § 918 does not extinguish or prevent the creation of a judgment lien on real property under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.310-697.410 or on personal property under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.510-697.670. However, unless the court otherwise expressly orders, no other liens may be created or continued under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 695.010-709.030 (enforcement of money judgments) during the period of the stay of enforcement [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.040(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.050 (release of property when lien is extinguished)].

A court on its own motion may, and on the motion of a service member or a person acting on the service member's behalf must, stay the execution of any judgment or order entered against a military service member in any action or proceeding against the service member, before or during the period of the service or within 60 days thereafter, unless in the court's opinion the service member's ability to comply with the judgment or order is not materially affected by reason of the military service [Mil. & Vet. Code § 403(c)(2); for definitions of "service member," see Mil. & Vet. Code § 400(a), and "military service," see Mil. & Vet. Code § 400(b); see also Ch. 276, Garnishment, § 276.12]. A stay of execution may be ordered for the period of military service and three months thereafter, or any part of that period, and subject to those terms as may be just, including terms with respect to payment in installments of those amounts at those times the court may fix. When the person in military service is a codefendant with others, the plaintiff may nevertheless, by leave of court, proceed against the others [Mil. & Vet. Code § 403(d)].

[4] Application for Stay

A party aggrieved by an appealable judgment or order may apply to the trial court for a temporary stay to prevent its enforcement pending, for example, his or her review of the proceedings to determine whether there are grounds for any posttrial motions or an appeal. If the judgment or order is announced in open court, the aggrieved party may apply immediately for the stay by oral motion. If the motion is granted, counsel should prepare a formal order and present it to the judge's courtroom clerk for the judge's signature and filing and send a copy to the adverse party. If counsel fails to apply for the order at that time, or if the judgment or order is not announced in open court, the aggrieved party, on notice of the entry of the judgment or order, may seek a stipulation for a stay from opposing counsel. If the opposing party so stipulates, the written stipulation with an order appended as in the foregoing form, should be presented to the judge's clerk for the judge's signature and filing. If opposing counsel refuses to so stipulate, or if a stipulation is not sought, the party aggrieved by the judgment or order may seek the stay by ex parte application.

[5] Required Documents

Ex parte applications must be in writing and include all of the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1201]:

- An application containing the case caption and stating the relief requested.
- A declaration in support of the application making the factual showing required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1202(c).
- A declaration based on personal knowledge of the notice given under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204 (see § 254.660[6][b], below).
- A memorandum.
- A proposed order.

For discussion of the procedure, a procedural checklist, and general forms relating to ex parte applications, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

[6] Contents of Application

[a] In General

An ex parte application must state the name, address, and telephone number of any attorney known to the applicant to be an attorney for any party or, if no such attorney is known, the name, address, and telephone number of the party if known to the applicant [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1202(a)].

If an ex parte application has been refused in whole or in part, a subsequent application of the same character or for the same relief, although made upon an alleged different state of facts, must include a full disclosure of all previous applications and of the court's actions [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1202(b)].

An applicant must make an affirmative factual showing in a declaration containing competent testimony based on person knowledge of irreparable harm, immediate danger, or any other statutory basis for granting relief ex parte [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1202(c)].

For further discussion and forms of ex parte applications, generally, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

[b] Declaration of Notice

An ex parte application must be accompanied by a declaration regarding notice stating one of the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(b)]:

- The notice given, including the date, time, manner, and name of the party informed, the relief sought, any response, and whether opposition is expected and that, within the applicable time under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1203, the applicant informed the opposing party where and when the application would be made.

- That the applicant in good faith attempted to inform the opposing party but was unable to do so, specifying the efforts made to inform the opposing party.

- That, for reasons specified, the applicant should not be required to inform the opposing party.

If notice was provided later than 10:00 a.m. the court day before the ex parte appearance, the declaration regarding notice must explain either one of the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(c)]:

- The exceptional circumstances that justify the shorter notice.

- In unlawful detainer proceedings, why the notice given is reasonable.

[7] Service of Notice

When notice of an ex parte application is given, the person giving notice must do each of the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(a)]:

- State with specificity the nature of the relief to be requested and the date, time, and place for the presentation of the application.

- Attempt to determine whether the opposing party will appear to oppose the application.

Parties appearing at the ex parte hearing must serve the ex parte application or any written opposition on all other appearing parties at the first reasonable opportunity. Absent exceptional circumstances, a hearing may not be conducted unless service was made [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1206].

[2] Use of Form

This form of notice of application, supporting declaration and order is for use by a party seeking a stay of the enforcement of a judgment taken against him or her during or within 30 days after a period of military service after being called or ordered into active state service as an officer or enlisted member of the National Guard by the Governor pursuant Mil. & Vet. Code §§ 143 or 146 or into active federal service by the President pursuant to Title 10 or 12 of the United States Code or as a reservist of the United States Military Reserve called to full-time active duty [Mil. & Vet. Code §§ 400(a), (b), 402(d)], who was prejudiced by reason of military service in making a defense to the action.

For discussion of relief from judgments obtained during a period of military service, see discussion in Ch. 489, Relief from Judgments and Orders .

[3] Supporting Memorandum

A memorandum must be served and filed with the notice of motion if the motion is subject to the Civil Law and Motion Rules [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); for motions subject to the Civil Law and Motion Rules, see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100, 3.1103(a)(2)], or if required by local court rule. The better practice is to prepare, serve, and file points and authorities in support of any noticed motion, unless excluded expressly or by implication from the Civil Law and Motion Rules or by local court rule. [2] Use of Form

This form is writ of execution for use by a judgment creditor to enforce a money judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 699.510, 699.520]. This is an illustration of official Judicial Council Form EJ-130, approved by the Judicial Council for optional use [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.30 et seq.].

The writ must be accompanied by an Affidavit of Identity when it includes any additional names of the judgment debtor [see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.520(j); Code Civ. Proc. § 680.135; see § 254.680].

The writ must be accompanied by a notice of levy when served on the judgment debtor [see Code Civ. Proc. § 700.010(a)(2); see § 254.683]. For a discussion of the issuance and enforcement of writs of execution, see § 254.60 et seq. and § 254.80 et seq.

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Filling Out Writ

[a] Notice of Sale

Any person may request notice of an execution sale by filing a written request with the court clerk prior to issuance of the writ or, if notice of the sale of particular property that has been levied on is desired, with the levying officer [see Code Civ. Proc. § 701.550]. If the request is made with the clerk prior to issuance of the writ, it must be noted on the writ by checking § 254.80 et seq. The information will either be filled in by the court clerk or may be provided to counsel by the clerk in order to complete the writ.

[b] Costs After Judgment

In paragraph or item 12, set forth the total amount of costs incurred after judgment that become part of the judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 685.090:

- On the filing of an order allowing costs under Code Civ. Proc. § 685.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.090(a)(1)].

- If a memorandum of costs is filed under Code Civ. Proc. § 685.070 (costs incurred in enforcing judgment), and no motion to tax is made, on the expriation of the time for making the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.090(a)(2)]. A motion to tax costs must be made within 10 days after the memorandum of costs was served on the judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.070(c); but see Code Civ. Proc. § 685.070(f) (Code Civ. Proc. § 1013, extending the time within which a right may be exercised or an act done, applies)].

- As specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 685.095 (cost of serving writ) [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.090(a)(3)].

If a memorandum of costs for the costs specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 685.070(a) is filed at the same time as an application for a writ of execution, these statutory costs not already allowed by the court in an amount not to exceed $100 in the aggregate may be included in the amount specified in the writ of execution, subject to subsequent disallowance as ordered by the court pursuant to a motion to tax if filed by the debtor. The memorandum of costs must contain the statement, "The fees sought under this memorandum may be disallowed by a court upon a motion to tax filed by the debtor notwithstanding the fees having been included in the writ of execution." The inclusion of the above-described costs in the writ of execution or the pendency of the motion to tax on these costs may not be cause for the clerk to delay issuing, or for the levying officer to delay enforcing, the writ of execution [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.070(e)].

For a discussion of the procedure and forms for use in securing costs after judgment, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees .

[c] Credits

In Paragraph 14, record the amount of any partial satisfactions of the judgment and any amounts that are no longer enforceable [see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.520(e)].

[d] Interest After Judgment

To obtain postjudgment interest (Paragraph 16) covering the period from the entry or renewal of the judgment, the judgment creditor must file an affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) with the court clerk stating the amount of interest due [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.050(a)(2); see § 254.680.1]. The amount established by the declaration is recorded in Paragraph 16 of the form [see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.520(e)]. The amount of interest for Paragraph 16 is calculated by applying the statutory interest rate [10 percent per annum per Code Civ. Proc. § 685.010(a)] to the principal amount of the money judgment remaining unsatisfied and dividing by 365 days for the year, resulting in a daily-interest figure. This daily figure is then multiplied by the number of days that elapsed from the date of entry or renewal of the judgment to the date of issuance of the writ [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 685.010(a), 685.050(a)(2); see also § 254.681[2]]. For example, if the money judgment remaining unsatisfied is $50,000 and it has been 10 days from the date of entry or renewal of the judgment to the date of issuance of the writ, the daily interest amount would be ($50,000 x 0.10) / 365 = $13.70 (the amount to be entered on Line 19(a)), multiplied by 10 days, for a total of $137.00.

In Paragraph 19, the levying officer fills in the amount of interest that accrues on the principal amount of the judgment remaining unsatisfied from the date of issuance of the writ until the date interest ceases to accrue [see Code Civ. Proc. § 685.050(a)(3); see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 685.020 (accrual of interest on judgments), 685.030 (when interest ceases to accrue)].

[e] Judgment Against Joint Debtor

The names and addresses of all judgment debtors on the judgment should be entered in Paragraph 4.

If a joint debtor on a contract is declared to be bound by a money judgment under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 989-994, Paragraph 8 on the front of the form is checked, and Paragraph 8 on the back of the form filled in to show the date the joint debtor was declared bound, his or her name and address, and any additional costs against a particular joint debtor.

If the judgment debtors are liable in different amounts, Paragraph 20 is to be checked, and an attachment prepared that repeats Paragraphs 11-19 for each debtor.

[4] Order for Sale of Dwelling

Generally, a natural person's interest in a real property dwelling may not be sold under a writ of execution to enforce a money judgment unless the judgment creditor obtains a court order for sale pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 704.710-704.850, which provide for a hearing to determine the existence and amount of any homestead exemption in the dwelling [see Code Civ. Proc. § 704.740(a); Wells Fargo Financial Leasing, Inc. v. D & M Cabinets (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 59, 67-69, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 97 (judgment creditor, seeking to sell occupied dwelling to collect judgment, may not bypass Code Civ. Proc. § 704.740 because sale is conducted by receiver); for discussion and forms, see Ch. 294, Homesteads]. A court order is not required, however, for the sale of a dwelling in which the judgment debtor has a leasehold estate with an unexpired term of less than two years at the time of levy or for the sale of a dwelling that is personal property. The homestead exemption pertaining to these types of dwellings is claimed and determined as provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 703.510-703.601 [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.740(b); see § 254.110 et seq.].

[2] Use of Form

This form is an affidavit of identity to be filed by the judgment creditor with the application for issuance of the writ of execution [see § 254.680] when the writ includes additional names by which the judgment debtor is know [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510(c)(1)]. An "Affidavit of Identity" is an affidavit or declaration executed by a judgment creditor, under penalty of perjury, that is filed with the clerk of the court in which the judgment is entered at the time the judgment creditor files for a writ of execution or an abstract of judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 680.135].

Before the clerk of the court issues a writ of execution containing additional names by which the judgment debtor is know that are not listed on the judgment, the court must approve the Affidavit of Identity. If the court determines without a hearing or notice that the Affidavit of Identity states sufficient facts on which the judgment creditor has identified the additional names of the judgment debtor, the court must authorize the issuance of the writ with the additional name or names [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510(c)(1)].

When the writ lists a name other than that listed on the judgment, the person in possession or control of the levied property, if other than the judgment debtor, must not pay the amount or deliver the property being levied on to the levying officer until being notified to do so by the levying officer. The levying officer may not require a person other than the judgment debtor in possession or control of the levied property to pay the amount or deliver the property levied on until the expiration of 15 days after service of notice of levy [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510(c)(2)].

If a person who is not the judgment debtor has property erroneously subject to an enforcement of judgment proceeding based on an Affidavit of Identity, the person is entitled to the recovery of reasonable attorney's fees and costs from the judgment creditor incurred in releasing the person's property from a writ of execution, in addition to any other damages or penalties to which an aggrieved person may be entitled by law, including Code Civ. Proc. § 720.010 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510(c)(3); see discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 720.010 et seq. under § 254.310 et seq.].

[3] Contents of Affidavit

The affidavit of identity must set forth the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 680.135]:

- The case name and number.
- The name of the judgment debtor stated in the judgment.
- The additional name or names by which the judgment debtor is known.
- The facts upon which the judgment creditor has relied in obtaining the judgment debtor's additional name or names.

The affidavit of identity must not include the name or names of persons, including any corporations, partnerships, or any legal entities not separately named in the judgment in which the judgment debtor is a partner, shareholder, or member, other than the judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. § 680.135].

2. The amount of interest that has accrued from the date the judgment herein was _____ [entered or renewed] to the date of issuance of the writ of execution[, as adjusted for partial satisfactions,] is $_____.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

[2] Use of Form

This form of declaration under penalty of perjury is for use by a judgment creditor to state the amount of interest that has accrued on the judgment between the time the judgment was entered or renewed and the the date the writ of execution is issued. The amount of interest, as adjusted for partial satisfactions, is to be satisfied in a levy under the writ only if the judgment creditor has filed an affidavit with the court clerk stating such amount [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.050(a)(2)]. A declaration under penalty of perjury may be, and normally is, used in lieu of an affidavit [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5].

[3] Interest Rate

The rate of interest that accrues on the principal amount of a money judgment remaining unsatisfied was increased from seven to ten percent by the 1982 amendment of Code Civ. Proc. § 685.010 [Stats. 1982, ch. 1364]. Although the amended statute purported to be effective January 1, 1982, this was a legislative oversight, and the 10-percent rate went into effect January 1, 1983 [Hill v. Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 1076, 1078, 220 Cal. Rptr. 144 ; American National Bank v. Peacock (1985) 165 Cal. App. 3d 1206, 1208-1212, 212 Cal. Rptr. 97 ; both criticizing dicta to the contrary in Gutierrez v. State Ranch Services (1983) 150 Cal. App. 3d 83, 198 Cal. Rptr. 16] . The increased rate does, however, apply to outstanding judgments entered prior to January 1, 1983. With respect to such judgments, interest is computed at seven percent through December 31, 1982, and at 10 percent thereafter [see Code Civ. Proc. § 685.010(b); Hill v. Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 1076, 1077-1078, 220 Cal. Rptr. 144 ; C. Norman Peterson Co. v. Container Corp. of America (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 628, 651, 218 Cal. Rptr. 592] .

[2] Use of Form

This form is an illustrative reproduction of California Judicial Council Form EJ-150, the official form for a notice of levy. It is for use by the levying officer or registered process server in levying on a judgment debtor's property under a writ of execution (see § 254.680) or a writ of sale (see § 254.730) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 700.010, 716.020(a) (levy under writ of sale to be in manner provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 700.010 et seq.); see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080 (types of property on which registered process server may levy)]. Form EJ-150, has been approved by the Judicial Council for mandatory use [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.30 et seq.].

At the time of levy pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 700.010 et seq., the levying officer or registered process server must serve on the judgment debtor a copy of the writ of execution or writ of sale and a notice of levy. If the judgment debtor is a natural person, a copy of the Judicial Council form listing exemptions must accompany the writ of execution and notice of levy [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.010(a); see §§ 254.680 (writ of execution), 254.684 (list of exemptions), 254.730 (writ of sale)]. If the writ lists any names of the debtor not listed in the judgment, a copy of the Affidavit of Identity must be served with the writ and notice of levy [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.010(a); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 680.135 (definition of Affidavit); see § 254.681].

The levying officer will execute the writ on receipt of instructions for execution and the writ of execution [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.530(a); see §§ 254.685, 254.686]. If the levy is being performed by a registered process server pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080, the server must file proof of service of the copy of the writ and notice of levy to the levying officer within 5 court days after levy [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.080(d)].

Instructions must be submitted to the levying officer along with the writ of execution, sale, or possession [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 699.530(a), 712.030(a)]. This form includes an optional direction to the levying officer to levy on the property by placing a keeper in charge [see Code Civ. Proc. § 687.030]. The property that is customarily levied on in such a manner consists of the business assets in the hands of the judgment debtor, such as money and inventory located at the judgment debtor's place of business, and the judgment debtor's automobile.

[3] Contents of Instructions

The instructions must be made in writing and signed by the judgment creditor's attorney of record or by the judgment creditor if there is no attorney. The instructions must contain the information needed or requested by the officer to comply with the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 680.010-724.260, including but not limited to an adequate description of the property to be levied on, a statement whether or not the property is a dwelling, and if it is a dwelling, whether it is real or personal property [Code Civ. Proc. § 687.010(a)]. The judgment creditor must also include the correct name and address of the person to be served with any writ, order, notice, or other paper if such service is required. The judgment creditor must use reasonable diligence to ascertain the correct name and address [Code Civ. Proc. § 684.130(a)]. Except to the extent that the levying officer has actual knowledge that the information is incorrect, he or she may rely on any information contained in the written instructions [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 684.130(b), 687.010(c)].

[4] Decisions

[5] Burden of Proof on Debtor

Once writ of execution issues, judgment debtor must present his or her reasons why writ should be quashed. Slevats v. Feustal (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 113, 119, 28 Cal. Rptr. 517

Burden is on judgment debtor to establish facts justifying order quashing writ. Lohman v. Lohman (1946) 29 Cal. 2d 144, 150, 173 P.2d 657

[6] Costs to Prevailing Party

Motion to quash writ of execution is special proceeding, and thus costs are allowed to prevailing party. Van

Denburgh v. Goodfellow (1941) 19 Cal. 2d 217, 225, 120 P.2d 20

[7] Persons Who May Make Motion

General rule is that no one but parties to action who are liable to be injured can move for recall of writ unless judgment or writ is void on its face, in which case subsequent purchasers, lienholders, and execution and judgment creditors may so move. Vest v. Superior Court (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 91, 93, 294 P.2d 988

Levy as not capable of being quashed on ground that judgment debtor has no interest in property levied on. Vest v. Superior Court (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 91, 93, 294 P.2d 988

[8] Quashing Levy

Party as permitted to levy on property even where there are competing liens and priority of liens has yet to be resolved, in such cases levy is not quashed as condition to resolving priorities. Peck v. Hagen (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 602, 606-607, 263 Cal. Rptr. 198

Quashing levy of execution as proper where writ of execution void. Wellborn v. Wellborn (1942) 55 Cal. App. 2d 516, 524-525, 131 P.2d 48

Plaintiff as entitled to attack proceedings by sheriff at any time where writ of execution void. Wellborn v. Wellborn (1942) 55 Cal. App. 2d 516, 525, 131 P.2d 48

All rights and proceedings based on writ of execution as falling with it when it is quashed. Moreno v. Mihelis (1962) 207 Cal. App. 2d 449, 451, 24 Cal. Rptr. 582

[9] Recalling and Quashing Writ

[2] Use of Form

This form of writ of execution is an illustrative reproduction of Judicial Council Form EJ-130, approved by the Judicial Council for optional use [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.30 et seq.].

This form is for use as a writ of sale or a writ of possession. Thus, it has been filled in as a writ of sale of personal property, but may also be used as a writ of sale of real property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 716.010], a writ of possession of personal property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 714.010], or a writ of possession of real property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 715.010].

For discussion of the issuance and execution of writs of sale and possession, see § 254.131.

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Contents of Writ

[a] Sale of Real or Personal Property

This form has been filled in as a writ of sale of personal property. If the form is to be used as a writ of sale of real property, Paragraph 24.d. on page 2 should be checked rather than Paragraph 24.c.

[b] Possession of Personal Property

If the form is to be used as a writ of possession of personal property, Paragraph 24.b. on page 2 should be checked rather than Paragraph 24.c.

The description of the property in Paragraph 24.e. on page 2 must include the value of the property if specified in the judgment or a supplemental order [Code Civ. Proc. § 714.010(b)].

[c] Possession of Real Property

If the form is to be used as a writ of possession of real property, Paragraph 24.a. on page 2 should be checked rather than Paragraph 24.d. The blank following the first line of Paragraph 24.a. should be filled in with the date the unlawful detainer complaint was filed.

If a form of prejudgment claim of right to possession was served in compliance with Code Civ. Proc. § 415.46, Paragraph 24.a.(1) should be checked [see Code Civ. Proc. § 715.010(b)(5), (6)]. Paragraph 24.a.(1) also states that the judgment is enforceable against all tenants, subtentants, if any, named claimants, if any, and any other occupants of the premises [see Code Civ. Proc. § 715.010(b)(7)].

If no form of prejudgment claim of right to possession was served, Paragraph 24.a.(2)(a) should be filled in to state the daily rental value of the property as of that date [Code Civ. Proc. § 715.010(b)(6)]. In addition, Paragraph 24.a.(2)(b) should be filled in with the date or dates when the court will hear objections from occupants who are not named in the judgment for possession [Code Civ. Proc. § 715.010(b)(5); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1174.3(a) (objections to enforcement of judgment)].

For further discussion relating to prejudgment and postjudgment claims of right to possession, see § 254.132[3][b]. For further discussion and forms relating to use of the writ of possession in unlawful detainer proceedings generally, see Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions .

[d] Money Judgment

Whether the writ is for sale of real or personal property, or for possession of real or personal property, Paragraphs 11-20 on page 1 must reflect any money judgment included in the judgment for possession or sale. The money judgment may include, for example, costs, damages, rents, or profits due under the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 712.020(e)].

[4] Form to Accompany Writ of Possession of Real Property

At the time a writ of possession of real property is served or posted, the levying officer must also serve or post a copy of the form for a claim of right to possession, unless a summons, complaint, and form of prejudgment claim of right to possession were served on all persons who might have occupied the premises at the time the action was filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 715.010(c); see Code Civ. Proc. § 415.46(a), (b) (service of prejudgment claim of right to possession)]. The form offers a procedure in which an occupant not named in the judgment can object to enforcement of the judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1173 (objections)].

For further discussion relating to claims of right to possession, see § 254.132[3][b]. For further discussion and forms relating to use of the writ of possession in unlawful detainer proceedings generally, see Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions .

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date and place]

_____[signature]

[2] Use of Form

This petition is for use by a person seeking to redeem property to obtain a court order determining the redemption dispute when there is a disagreement over either the redemption price or the petitioner's entitlement to redeem the property. A disagreement over the redemption price might arise as to the reasonableness of a sum demanded by the purchaser for fire insurance, maintenance, upkeep, or repair of improvements on the property or as to the necessity of the purchaser's payment of a prior secured obligation or as to the amount by which the redemption price can be offset by rents and profits received by the purchaser or the value of the use and occupation of the property to the purchaser [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 729.060, 729.070].

A disagreement over petitioner's entitlement to redeem the property might arise as to the validity of an assignment of the judgment debtor's interest in the property or sufficiency of the records of conveyance, of the copy of assignment, or the affidavit or other evidence of the successor's interest in the property [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 729.060(a), 729.070(a)].

The contents of the petition are prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 729.070(b).

[3] Payment of Amount Not in Dispute

The person seeking to redeem the property must deposit the undisputed amount of the redemption price with the levying officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.070(a)].

[4] Documents to Be Filed with Petition

If the redemption claim is made by a successor in interest to the judgment debtor, he or she must file either a certified copy of a recorded conveyance or a copy of an assignment or other evidence of his or her interest. An assignment or other evidence of interest must be verified by a declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.070(b)(3)].

[5] Hearing Date

The hearing must be held not later than 20 days from the date of the filing of the petition unless continued by the court for good cause [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.070(c)].

[6] Notice

A copy of the petition together with a notice of the time and place of the hearing must be served on the purchaser by the person seeking redemption not less than 10 days before the day of hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.070(d); for discussion of service of papers, see § 254.13]. See § 254.754 for a notice of hearing.

[7] Verification

If the petition is verified it may be given evidentiary weight as would an affidavit (or declaration [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) and may be used in support of petitioner's case [see Code Civ. Proc. § 729.070(f); see In re O'Brien Machinery, Inc. (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 563, 569, 36 Cal. Rptr. 782] . If the verification is to be used as evidence of facts, Code Civ. Proc. § 446 does not apply and the allegations cannot be based on information and belief because an affidavit which is to be used as evidence must be positive, direct, and not based on hearsay. Matters alleged on information and belief do not serve to establish facts but are hearsay [Star Motor Imports, Inc. v. Superior Court (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 201, 204, 151 Cal. Rptr. 721] .

CAUTION:
For discussion of the requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1200 et seq. governing ex parte applications generally, including requirements that an ex parte application be accompanied by a memorandum by a proposed order, by a supporting declaration, and by a declaration regarding efforts to satisfy notice requirements, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

[2] Use of Form

This form is an illustrative filled-in reproduction of Judicial Council Form EJ-125 (also numbered AT-138, adopted by the Judicial Council for mandatory use [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.30 et seq.].

The form is an application for an order, and the order itself, directing either of the following individuals to appear for an examination in order to furnish information to aid in the enforcement of a money judgment or to answer concerning property or debt [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.110, 708.120]:

- A judgment debtor.

- A person who has possession or control of property in which the judgment debtor has an interest or who is indebted to the judgment debtor.

The form has been filled in to illustrate how it might be used by a judgment creditor, appearing by counsel, to secure examination of a judgment debtor as a matter of right, when the judgment debtor has not been examined during the preceding 120 days [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110(a), (b)]. If the judgment creditor has caused the judgment debtor to be examined within the last 120 days, the court will make the order only if the judgment creditor by affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) or otherwise shows good cause for the order [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110(c)].

Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(a) expressly states that the affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) in support of an application for an order to examine a third party may be based on information and belief. Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110(c), relating to examinations of judgment debtors, is silent on this issue. Under former Code Civ. Proc. § 715 (a predecessor of Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110(c)), however, the affidavit could be based on information and belief [Tucker v. Fontes (1945) 70 Cal. App. 2d 768, 771, 161 P.2d 697] . A Report of the Assembly Committee on the Judiciary states that Tucker was codified by Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(a) but is silent as to Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110(c) [Annual Report, 16 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports 2093-2094]. Although it is not clear, it would appear that the affidavit in support of an application for an order for the examination of judgment debtor under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110(c) may also be based on information and belief.

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Application Generally Ex Parte

Except as noted below, the application for an order of examination is made ex parte [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.110(b), 708.120(a)].

When the examination is of the judgment debtor and the judgment debtor has been previously examined under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110 within the preceding 120 days, the application must be made on noticed motion if the court so directs or a court rule so requires. Otherwise, it may be made ex parte [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.110(c)]. For forms of noticed motion and supporting declaration for use when the court or local rule requires the noticed motion procedure, see §§ 254.781, 254.782.

[4] Filling in Form

[a] Order to Appear for Examination

The order to appear for examination includes the name of the person to be examined (Paragraph 1), and the nature of the examination if the person examined is the judgment debtor, (Paragraph 2a) or a third party (Paragraph 2b). However, a third party may not be ordered to appear when the judgment is no longer enforceable [see Code Civ. Proc. § 683.020].

The time and place of the hearing is entered in the box below Paragraph 2. If the court has specially appointed a person to serve the order and application [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.170(a)], his or her name should be typed in Paragraph 3. If no person has been specially appointed, counsel may either leave Paragraph 3 as is, or line out the words "or the following specially appointed person (name):."

Although the form provides for signature by either a judge or referee, Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110(a), (b) and 708.120(a) appear to require that the order be signed by a judge as opposed to a referee. Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110(a), (b) and 708.120(a) provide that the court "shall" make an order directing the judgment debtor or third person to appear before the court, or before a referee appointed by the court. Consequently, to avoid a possible challenge to an order signed by a referee, counsel may wish to present the order to a judge for signature. A referee once appointed is, however, like a judge or temporary judge, expressly authorized to make specified orders [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.140(a)].

[b] Application for Order to Appear for Examination

The form of application sets out the status of the applicant (Paragraph 4), and the status of the person to be examined as the judgment debtor or as a third party (Paragraph 5). If a third party is to be examined, a separate affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) must be attached, showing that the third person has possession or control of property in which the judgment debtor has an interest or is indebted to the judgment debtor in an amount exceeding $250. The affidavit (or declaration) may be based on information and belief [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(a)]. For a form of such declaration, see § 254.783.

The application states that the person to be examined resides or has a place of business in the county where examination is sought or within 150 miles of the place of examination (Paragraph 6) [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.160(b)].

If the place of the examination is in a court other than the one in which the judgment was entered, a separate affidavit (declaration) stating the residence or place of business of the person to be examined must be attached (Paragraph 7). Code Civ. Proc. § 708.160 does not expressly authorize this affidavit (declaration) to be made on information and belief, so it must state facts within the personal knowledge of the affiant (declarant) and show that he or she is competent to testify to them [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.160(c), (d)(2), (3)]. The examination will take place in a court other than the one in which the judgment was entered if the person to be examined does not reside or have a place of business in the county in which the judgment was entered [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.160(c); for further discussion of obtaining examination in a court other than the one in which the judgment is entered, see discussion under § 254.780[7]].

If the person to be examined is the judgment debtor and the judgment debtor was examined during the 120 days preceding the application for the order, a separate affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) showing good cause for the order must be attached (Paragraph 8). Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110(c) does not authorize this affidavit (or declaration) to be made on information and belief [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110(c)]. For a form of such declaration, see § 254.782.

[c] Verification

Although the application includes a declaration under penalty of perjury, none of the relevant code sections requires that the application (as opposed to the affidavits or declarations supporting the application) be signed under penalty of perjury or otherwise verified [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 491.110(a) (attachment), 708.110(c), 708.120(a) (enforcement of judgment)]. Nor does there appear to be any general provision in The Attachment Law [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 481.010-493.060] or the Enforcement of Judgments Law [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 680.010-724.260] so requiring.

[d] Required Notices

Page two of the form sets out notices required by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.110(d) and 708.120(e), relating to enforcement of judgments, as well as those required by Code Civ. Proc. § 491.110(d), relating to attachment. When the form is used to obtain an order for the examination of a third person in enforcement of judgment proceedings, the property or debt that will be the subject of the examination must be described in the space provided in Paragraph (2) in the second blocked notice [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(a)].

[5] Service of Order

[a] Judgment Debtor

A copy of the order must be personally served on the judgment debtor not less than 10 days before the date set for examination. Service of the order creates a lien on the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110(d); for discussion of service of papers, see § 254.13]. Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110 does not specify the duration of the lien, however, it may not be enforced beyond time for enforcement of the judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 683.010-683.220, 697.920].

[b] Third Party

A copy of the order must be served personally on the third person and served either personally or by mail on the judgment debtor not less than 10 days prior to the date set for the examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(b)]. If service is made by mail, the time for service may be extended [see Code Civ. Proc. § 684.120]. For discussion of service of papers and extension of the time for service when service is by mail, see § 254.13.

The person serving the order must, when the order is served, tender to the third person fees for the mileage from the third person's residence to the place of examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(f); see § 254.220[2]].

When the property or debt is described in the judgment creditor's application in a manner reasonably adequate to permit it to be identified, service of the order creates a lien on the judgment debtor's interest in the property or on the debt for a period of one year from the date of the order unless extended or terminated sooner by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(c)].

[6] Sanctions for Failure to Appear

If an order requiring a person to appear for an examination was served by a sheriff, marshal, a person specially appointed by the court in the order, or a registered process server, and the person fails to appear, the court may do either of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.170(a)(1)]:

- Pursuant to a warrant, have the person brought before the court to answer for the failure to appear and punish the person for contempt.

- Issue a warrant for the arrest of the person [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1993].

If the person's failure to appear was without good cause, the judgment creditor will be awarded reasonable attorney's fees incurred in the examination proceeding. Attorney's fees awarded against the judgment debtor are added to and become part of the principal amount of the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.170(a)(2)].

A person who willfully makes an improper service of an order for an examination that results in the arrest pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 708.170(a) of the person who fails to appear is guilty of a misdemeanor [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.170(b)].

[7] Filing Application in County Other Than One in Which Judgment is Entered

When the examination is sought in a court other than the court in which the money judgment is entered, the judgment creditor is required to file an abstract of judgment in the form prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 674 with the court from which the order is sought and to pay the filing fee required by Code Civ. Proc. § 708.160(d)(4), as well as to submit an affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) in support of the application stating the place of residence or place of business of the person sought to be examined and to make any necessary affidavit or showing for the examination as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110 or 708.120 [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.160(d)]. For discussion of when an application may be filed in a court other than the one in which the judgment was entered, see Introduction under Place for Examinations. For a form of declaration in lieu of affidavit required under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.160, see § 254.782.

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use by a judgment creditor against a third person, who has possession or control of property in which the judgment debtor has an interest or who is indebted to the judgment debtor, to recover the property interest or debt. It includes optional allegations (Paragraphs 5-7) necessary to apply for a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction or both, restraining the defendant in the creditor's action, the third person in possession or in control of property in which the judgment debtor has an interest, from transferring the property to any person or otherwise disposing of the property. The court may make, dissolve, and modify any order restraining transfer [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.240(b)].

This form is intended for use by a judgment creditor who was the plaintiff in the action. However, the form may be adapted for use by a judgment creditor who was a cross complainant or a petitioner.

For a discussion of the time during which a creditor's suit may be brought, see § 254.251.

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges:

- The residence of the defendant (Paragraph 1).
- The recovery of judgment against a judgment debtor (Paragraph 2).
- Nonsatisfaction of the judgment (Paragraph 3).
- Defendant's possession of property in which the judgment debtor has an interest or defendant's indebtedness to the judgment debtor (Paragraph 4) [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.210].
- Request for a temporary restraining order [for discussion and forms, see Ch. 303, Injunctions].

[4] Verification

Verification is required if plaintiff seeks a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction on the basis of the complaint instead of on affidavits (or declarations under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527].

[5] Venue

The judgment debtor may be joined in the action but is not an indispensable party [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.220]. The residence of the judgment debtor may not be considered, however, in determining the proper venue unless otherwise provided by contract between the judgment debtor and the third person [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.220].

CAUTION:
A memorandum is required to be served and filed with the notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[2] Use of Form

This form of notice of motion for an order determining the judgment debtor's claim of exemption is for use by the judgment debtor to claim that property that is the subject of the examination of a third party or which the judgment creditor is seeking to obtain from a third party to satisfy a money judgment by means of a creditor's suit is exempt from enforcement of a money judgment [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.120(a) (examination proceedings), 708.260(d) (creditor's suit)].

In an examination proceeding, the claim must be filed with the court and personally served on the judgment creditor at least three days before the date set for the third party's examination. The court must determine any claim of exemption [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(d)].

In a creditor's suit, the claim must be filed with the court and served on the judgment creditor at least 30 days before the date set for trial. Service may be made personally or by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.260(a); for discussion of service of papers and extension of time for service when service is by mail, see § 254.13].

An affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) in support of the motion must be executed by the judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.120(d), 708.260(a)]. The Judicial Council forms of claim of exemption and financial statement are in the form of declarations, and apparently may be used or adapted for use to support this motion [see § 254.710].

For a form of order granting the motion, see § 254.794. A notice of opposition to the claim is not required [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.120(d), 708.260(a)].

[3] Waiver of Exemption

Failure of the judgment debtor to make a claim of exemption during the examination proceeding does not preclude the judgment debtor from later claiming the exemption unless the property or debt is described in the order in a manner reasonably adequate to permit it to be identified and the judgment debtor receives notice of the examination proceeding at least 10 days before the date set for the examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120(d)].

Failure of the judgment debtor to make a claim of exemption during a creditor's suit is a waiver of the exemption, unless the judgment debtor was not served with process that contained a description of the property or debt reasonably adequate to permit it to be identified and the judgment debtor does not have actual notice of the pendency of the action and the identity of the property or the nature of the debt in issue [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.260(b)].

[2] Use of Form

This summons is a reproduction of the Judicial Council form of summons for use against a person jointly indebted on an obligation on which the plaintiff has obtained a judgment against the other joint debtor [Judicial Council Form SUM-120], adopted by the Judicial Council for mandatory use [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.120; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.30 et seq.] The summons is issued by the clerk, or by the judge if there is no clerk, on presentation of a declaration [see § 254.850].

The summons requires the defendant to show cause why that person should not be bound by the judgment entered against the other joint debtor [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 989, 990]. The form informs the person that this is done by a written response to the declaration giving the legal reason why the person should not be bound by the judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 992].

This summons is served in the same manner as the original summons and is returnable no later than 90 days after the time specified for the return of the original summons [Code Civ. Proc. § 990]. For a proof of service form to use with the summons, see Judicial Council form POS-010. A reproduction of that form can be found in Chapter 518, Service of Summons and Other Papers . When service of summons is by mail outside California pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 415.40, cross out "air" in "airmail" in Paragraph 2e.

For a discussion of the procedures for responding to the summons and the consequences of a default, see § 254.348.

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

§ 256.12 Municipal Ordinances

Except when transporting explosives pursuant to Veh. Code §§ 31600-31620, the statutes governing high explosives [Health & Safety Code §§ 12000-12401] do not affect the operation of provisions of any city, county, or city and county ordinance respecting the delivery, storage, and handling of explosives where the ordinances are at least as restrictive as the statutes [Health & Safety Code § 12002].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

22-256 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 256.13

§ 256.13 Explosions in Populated Areas

[1] Ultrahazardous Activity

Ultrahazardous activity involves a risk of serious harm to the person, land, or chattels of others which cannot be eliminated by the exercise of utmost care and which is not a matter of common usage [Smith v. Lockheed Propulsion Co. (1967) 247 Cal. App. 2d 774, 785, 56 Cal. Rptr. 128] . Blasting with explosives in populated surroundings such as in the vicinity of dwelling places or places of business is an ultrahazardous activity [Alonso v. Hills (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 778, 783, 214 P.2d 50] .

[2] Strict Liability Theory of Recovery

The use of explosives in the vicinity of a residential area requires the invocation of the absolute or strict liability doctrine [Balding v. D. B. Stutsman, Inc. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 559, 564, 54 Cal. Rptr. 717] ; that is, a defendant is held strictly liable for damages caused regardless of the degree of care employed when the blasting activity miscarries [Alonso v. Hills (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 778, 783, 214 P.2d 50] . The basis for the imposition of strict liability in such cases is that a business defendant who has engaged in a dangerous activity for profit is in the best position to administer the loss so that it will be ultimately born by the public [Smith v. Lockheed Propulsion Co. (1967) 247 Cal. App. 2d 774, 785, 56 Cal. Rptr. 128] . It is a question of law for the court to determine whether a case is one of strict or absolute liability; that is, the court must determine whether blasting occurred in the vicinity of dwelling places [Balding v. D.B. Stutsman, Inc. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 559, 564, 54 Cal. Rptr. 717] . Liability may be imposed without regard to whether the injury was forcible and direct or indirect as the result of concussions, vibrations, or pulsation of the air [Smith v. Lockheed Propulsion Co. (1967) 247 Cal. App. 2d 774, 784, 56 Cal. Rptr. 128] .

For complaints for damages for injuries to person or property based on strict liability, see §§ 256.50, 256.52.

[3] Nuisance Theory of Recovery

A nuisance includes anything which is injurious to health, is indecent or offensive to the senses, or is an obstruction of the free use of property, so as to interfere with the comfortable enjoyment of life or property [Civ. Code § 3479]. If it affects an entire community or neighborhood, or any considerable number of persons, it is considered a public nuisance

[Civ. Code § 3480]; if not, it is a private nuisance [Civ. Code § 3481]. Any person whose property is injuriously affected or whose personal enjoyment is lessened by a nuisance may bring an action to enjoin or abate the nuisance and to recover damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 731].

It has been pointed out that nuisance is a field of tort liability rather than a type of tortious conduct and that it is not a separate tort but a species of damage occasioned by conduct which is tortious because it falls into the usual categories of tort liability [Van Zyl v. Spiegelberg (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 367, 372-373, 82 Cal. Rptr. 689] . However, it seems that strict liability may be imposed as to conduct which falls within the statutory definition of nuisance [see Civ. Code § 3479] and that fault is not an actual element of liability [see Sturges v. Charles L. Harney, Inc. (1958) 165 Cal. App. 2d 306, 318, 331 P.2d 1072 ; Alonso v. Hills (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 778, 783, 214 P.2d 50 (holding that an action for both damages and injunctive relief could be based on either negligent blasting or blasting in such surroundings as to cause the blasting to be an ultrahazardous activity)].

For a complaint for injunctive relief to abate nuisance, see § 256.50.

[4] Continuing and Permanent Nuisances Distinguished

The distinction between continuing and permanent nuisances is important in determining what damages may be recovered. The remedy for a continuing nuisance is either a suit for injunctive relief or successive actions for damages as new injuries occur. On the other hand, if the nuisance is of indefinite duration and its abatement is impractical, it is considered permanent and all damages, past and prospective, are recoverable in one action [Kornoff v. Kingsburg Cotton Oil Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 265, 268-270, 288 P.2d 507] . The measure of damages for permanent injury would be the depreciation in value of the property caused by the nuisance [Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 265, 270, 239 P.2d 625] .

An attempt to categorically classify nuisances as permanent or continuing may lead to serious injustice to one or the other of the parties. Thus, in doubtful cases it is recognized that plaintiff should have an election to treat the nuisance as either permanent or continuing. If the defendant is not privileged to continue the nuisance and is able to abate it, the defendant cannot complain if the plaintiff elects to bring successive actions as damages accrue until abatement takes place. However, if it appears improbable as a practical matter that the nuisance can or will be abated, the plaintiff is not limited to the remedy of successive actions [Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 265, 268, 239 P.2d 625] .

[5] Nuisances Per Se

Certain activities declared by law to be nuisances are referred to as nuisances per se. These activities may be enjoined without proof of their injurious nature [see In re Brambini (1923) 192 Cal. 19, 24, 218 P.2d 569 (holding business selling liquor illegally to be public nuisance); Pon v. Wittman (1905) 147 Cal. 280, 292, 81 P. 984 (holding house of prostitution to be public nuisance); People v. Adco Advertisers (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 507, 511, 110 Cal. Rptr. 849 (holding billboard located in violation of provision of Outdoor Advertising Act to be public nuisance)].

Blasting conducted by a quarry in populated areas has been designated a nuisance per se [Alonso v. Hills (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 778, 783, 214 P.2d 50 ; but see Dauberman v. Grant (1926) 198 Cal. 586, 590, 246 P. 319 ; McPheeters v. McMahon (1933) 131 Cal. App. 418, 425, 21 P.2d 606 (both cases holding that a lawful business cannot be a nuisance per se but that it may become a nuisance by reason of its location or the manner in which it is conducted)].

For detailed discussion of nuisances and a related procedural guide and forms, see Ch. 391, Nuisance .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

22-256 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 256.14

§ 256.14 Explosions in Isolated Areas

[1] Negligence

When blasting is conducted in an isolated area, one engaged in it is not automatically subject to the doctrine of strict liability [Houghton v. Loma Prieta Lbr. Co. (1907) 152 Cal. 500, 505, 93 P. 82 ; but see Smith v. Lockheed Propulsion Co. (1967) 247 Cal. App. 2d 774, 786-787, 56 Cal. Rptr. 128 (strict liability doctrine applied where rocket motor testing site in undeveloped area but where plaintiff's property immediately adjoining)]. Liability for damages in such situations is imposed only if the defendant is negligent [Gallin v. Poulou (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 638, 644-645, 295 P.2d 958 ; Alonso v. Hills (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 778, 783, 214 P.2d 50 (blasting in remote place where danger of injury slight as not nuisance per se); see also § 256.13[3] et seq.].

For a complaint for damages for injuries based on negligence against quarry owner blasting in isolated area, see § 256.51.

[2] Standard of Care

The degree of care necessary to prevent injury to others is proportional to the danger to be avoided and the consequences reasonably to be anticipated [Warner v. Santa Catalina Island Co. (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 310, 317, 282 P.2d 12] . Thus, the degree of care required in dealing with dangerous instrumentalities such as explosives or highly inflammable materials is so great that even a slight deviation constitutes negligence [Borenkraut v. Whitten (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 538, 545, 15 Cal. Rptr. 635, 364 P.2d 467 (service station attendant as negligent for causing injuries to motorist as a result of backfire which occurred while he was pouring gasoline into the carburetor of motorist's automobile)].

For a complaint for damages for injuries resulting from fireworks left on municipal playground, see § 256.53.

[3] Violation of Statute

The common-law presumption of negligence which arises from an act or failure to act below a statutory standard is codified in Evid. Code § 669, which contains two parts.

The first part provides that the failure of a person to exercise due care is presumed if [Evid. Code § 669(a)]:

- He or she violated a statute, ordinance, or regulation of a public entity;
- The violation proximately caused death or injury to person or property;
- The death or injury resulted from an occurrence of the nature which the statute, ordinance, or regulation was designed to prevent; and
- The person suffering the death or the injury to person or property was one of the class of persons for whose protection the statute, ordinance, or regulation was adopted.

The second part provides that the presumption may be rebutted by proof that [Evid. Code § 669(b)]:

- The person violating the statute, ordinance, or regulation did what might reasonably be expected of a person of ordinary prudence, acting under similar circumstances, who desired to comply with the law; or
- The person violating the statute, ordinance, or regulation was a child and exercised the degree of care ordinarily exercised by persons of his maturity, intelligence, and capacity under similar circumstances. However, the presumption may not be rebutted by such proof if the violation occurred in the course of an activity normally engaged in only by adults and requiring adult qualifications.

Under the common-law principles identical to these codified principles, it was held that a woman had been negligent where she was cleaning the floor with inflammable liquid in violation of an ordinance and that conduct caused an explosion resulting in death and personal injuries [Burger v. Burger (1955) 136 Cal. App. 2d 360, 366-367, 288 P.2d 926] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

22-256 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 256.15

§ 256.15 Defense of Comparative Negligence

In all actions for negligence resulting in injury to person or property, the contributory negligence of the person injured does not bar recovery, but the damages awarded are diminished in proportion to the amount of negligence attributable to the person recovering [Li v. Yellow Cab Co. (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 804, 829, 119 Cal. Rptr. 858, 532 P.2d 1226] .

Prior cases involving contributory negligence are, however, instructive insofar as they illustrate negligent conduct of plaintiffs. Thus, a case decided under former law which held that a plaintiff was negligent who threw a lighted match near gas flowing on the ground and whose property was damaged by the resulting fire [Smith v. Associated Oil Co. (1921) 53 Cal. App. 142, 146, 199 P. 879] would still be valid with respect to what behavior constitutes negligence. However, under comparative negligence, plaintiff's recovery would depend on the amount of negligence attributable to plaintiff and the amount attributed to defendant oil company, rather than recovery being barred.

For an affimative defense based on comparative negligence of plaintiff, see § 256.56.

§ 256.16 Defense of Assumption of Risk

The term "assumption of risk" is sometimes applied to at least two distinct defenses. In primary assumption of risk, the defendant owes no duty to the plaintiff, and there is no liability. In secondary assumption of risk, the defendant does owe a duty to the plaintiff, but the plaintiff proceeds to encounter a known risk imposed by the defendant's breach of duty, and liability is determined under the comparative fault scheme [Knight v. Jewett (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 296, 309-315, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 2, 834 P.2d 696] .

§ 256.17 Duty of Supplier of Dangerous Instrumentality

A supplier of a dangerous instrumentality has a duty to exercise care commensurate with the danger involved [Reynolds v. Natural Gas Equipment, Inc. (1960) 184 Cal. App. 2d 724, 736, 7 Cal. Rptr. 879] . Thus, such a supplier is negligent in failing to warn of the potential hazard of an explosion when the danger is known, or should have been known, to the supplier and when the user does not know of the danger [Reynolds v. Natural Gas Equipment, Inc. (1960) 184 Cal. App. 2d 724, 737-738, 7 Cal. Rptr. 879] or would not ordinarily discover it [Tingey v. E.F. Houghton & Co. (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 97, 102, 179 P.2d 807 (duty of manufacturer to warn of explosive nature of chemical salt)].

California has declined to apply the industry-wide theory of liability involved in blasting cap manufacturing to the matter of drug manufacturing of diethylstilbestrol (DES) [Sindell v. Abbott Laboratories (1980) 26 Cal. 3d 588, 609, 163 Cal. Rptr. 132, 607 P.2d 924] .

§ 256.33 Decisions

[1] Defenses

[a] Assumption of Risk

Assumption of risk in comparative negligence system. Knight v. Jewett (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 296, 309-315, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 2, 834 P.2d 696

Doctrine of assumption of risk did not apply where abandonment of property would be unreasonable alternative to impose upon plaintiff. Judson v. Giant Powder Co. (1895) 107 Cal. 549, 554, 40 P. 1020, 1226, 40 P. 1020-1226

Applicability of doctrine of assumption of risk is based on showing that plaintiff knew and appreciated danger and voluntarily occupied position of danger in disregard of use of ordinary care. Weaver v. Shell Company (1939) 34 Cal. App. 2d 713, 721, 94 P.2d 364

Employee assumed only risk of dangers normally incident to occupation and not extraordinary dangers created by negligent acts of others. Weaver v. Shell Company (1939) 34 Cal. App. 2d 713, 722, 94 P.2d 364

[b] Negligence of Plaintiff

System of comparative negligence established. Li v. Yellow Cab Co. (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 804, 823, 828-829, 119 Cal. Rptr. 858, 532 P.2d 1226

Couple was not negligent in failing to leave home before gas explosion. Gerdes v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1933) 219 Cal. 459, 469, 27 P.2d 365

Negligence of plaintiff was shown where plaintiff threw lighted match near gas flowing on ground and such conduct proximately contributed to damage to plaintiff's property. Smith v. Associated Oil Co. (1921) 53 Cal. App. 142, 146,

199 P. 879

[2] Duty of Manufacturer and Other Suppliers

Manufacturer liable for defective condition of explosive chemical. Tingey v. E.F. Houghton & Co. (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 97, 102, 179 P.2d 807

Duty of manufacturer to appropriately warn user of explosive nature of chemical salt, a danger which was known or should have been known to manufacturer and which user would not ordinarily discover. Tingey v. E.F. Houghton & Co. (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 97, 102, 179 P.2d 807

Supplier of dangerous instrumentality has duty to exercise care commensurate with danger involved. Reynolds v. Natural Gas Equipment, Inc. (1960) 184 Cal. App. 2d 724, 736, 7 Cal. Rptr. 879

Producer of potentially dangerous product was not relieved of liability for negligence where custom was to label but where it failed to properly label so as to warn against improper handling. Gall v. Union Ice Co. (1951) 108 Cal. App. 2d 303, 312, 239 P.2d 48

[3] Injury to Children

Right of infant to recover for pain and suffering incurred as result of negligently caused injury. Capelouto v. Kaiser Foundation Hosp. (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 889, 895, 103 Cal. Rptr. 856, 500 P.2d 880

Right of parents to recover for injuries to minor child. Sykes v. Lawlor (1874) 49 Cal. 236, 237-238 ; Bauman v. City & County of San Francisco (1940) 42 Cal. App. 2d 144, 160-163, 108 P.2d 989 , superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in Brown v. Poway Unified School Dist. (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 820, 831, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 679, 843 P.2d 624 ; McManus v. Arnold Taxi Corp. (1927) 82 Cal. App. 215, 222-225, 255 P. 755

Defendant was not negligent for failure to inspect premises and discover dynamite caps prior to injury of children where defendant was not responsible for storage of caps. Reynolds v. Salmonson (1957) 148 Cal. App. 2d 895, 898, 307 P.2d 672

Statutory provisions prescribing minimum standard of care for custody and storage of explosives such as dynamite caps demonstrate high degree of care the law imposes on possessor of highly explosive substances, especially toward children, even without aid of statute and even where children are trespassers. Marino v. Valenti (1953) 118 Cal. App. 2d 830, 849, 259 P.2d 84

Possessor of explosives owes high degree of care to avoid injury to trespassing children who might have access to them in situation where attractive nuisance doctrine might not apply. Marino v. Valenti (1953) 118 Cal. App. 2d 830, 848, 259 P.2d 84

Plaintiff minor was negligent where minor was experienced with fireworks and knew explosive nature of powder before igniting it. Mathews v. Albany (1939) 36 Cal. App. 2d 147, 148, 97 P.2d 266

[4] Liability for Indirect Injury

California makes no distinction between trespass by forcible injury and trespass committed by consequential and indirect injury, such as concussions, vibrations, shaking of the earth, pulsation of the air, or by physical projectiles or missiles. Smith v. Lockheed Propulsion Co. (1967) 247 Cal. App. 2d 774, 784, 56 Cal. Rptr. 128

[5] Negligence

Liability imposed for injury due to blasting is dependent on particular locality; negligence standard applies to blasting in isolated area. Houghton v. Loma Prieta Lbr. Co. (1907) 152 Cal. 500, 505, 93 P. 82

Subcontractor and employee were liable for injuries caused by explosion resulting from operation of blowtorch in close proximity to explosive fluid. Johnson v. Nicholson (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 395, 406-408, 324 P.2d 307

Blasting in remote places where danger of injury is slight is not nuisance per se and only actionable when negligence alleged and proved. Alonso v. Hills (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 778, 783, 214 P.2d 50

[6] Nuisance

Where nuisance is permanent all damages are recoverable in one action. Kornoff v. Kingsburg Cotton Oil Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 265, 268-270, 288 P.2d 507

In doubtful cases, plaintiff may elect to treat nuisance as either permanent or continuing. Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 265, 268, 239 P.2d 625

Measure of damages for permanent injury is depreciation in value of the property. Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 265, 270, 239 P.2d 625

Nature of nuisance per se. In re Brambini (1923) 192 Cal. 19, 24, 218 P. 569 ; Pon v. Wittman (1905) 147 Cal. 280, 292, 81 P. 984 ; People v. Adco Advertisers (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 507, 511, 110 Cal. Rptr. 849

Nature of nuisance liability. Van Zyl v. Spiegelberg (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 367, 372-373, 82 Cal. Rptr. 689 ; Sturges v. Charles L. Harney, Inc. (1958) 165 Cal. App. 2d 306, 318, 331 P.2d 1072

Blasting is designated nuisance per se and subject to injunctive relief. Alonso v. Hills (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 778, 783, 214 P.2d 50

Action for both damages and injunctive relief is based on either negligent blasting or blasting in such surroundings as to cause blasting to be ultrahazardous. Alonso v. Hills (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 778, 783, 214 P.2d 50

[7] Res Ipsa Loquitur

Doctrine of res ipsa loquitur did not apply where plaintiff was injured by spontaneous explosion of 30-year-old blasting cap while handling it following discovery of container of caps nailed to tree on mining property recently acquired by plaintiff's father. Barrett v. Atlas Powder Co. (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 560, 565, 150 Cal. Rptr. 339

Doctrine of res ipsa loquitur applied where gas burner exploded. Reynolds v. Natural Gas Equipment, Inc. (1960) 184 Cal. App. 2d 724, 731-735, 7 Cal. Rptr. 879

Elements of doctrine of res ipsa loquitur. Reynolds v. Natural Gas Equipment, Inc. (1960) 184 Cal. App. 2d 724, 731-735, 7 Cal. Rptr. 879

Res ipsa loquitur instruction was proper where explosion resulted from cleaning floor with gasoline in violation of city ordinance and without justification. Burger v. Burger (1955) 136 Cal. App. 2d 360, 364-365, 288 P.2d 926

[8] Standard of Care

Degree of ordinary care to be exercised increases with danger reasonably to be apprehended. Borenkraut v. Whitten (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 538, 545, 15 Cal. Rptr. 635, 364 P.2d 467

Degree of care required in dealing with dangerous instrumentalities such as explosive or highly inflammable materials is so great that even slight deviation from standard care constitutes negligence. Borenkraut v. Whitten (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 538, 545, 15 Cal. Rptr. 635, 364 P.2d 467

Degree of care necessary to prevent injury to others is in proportion to danger to be avoided and consequences reasonably to be anticipated. Warner v. Santa Catalina Island Co. (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 310, 317, 282 P.2d 12

Risk incident to dealing with dangerous articles such as explosives and firearms requires such high standard of care that slight deviation therefrom constitutes negligence. Warner v. Santa Catalina Island Co. (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 310, 317, 282 P.2d 12

[9] Strict Liability

In case of injury from spontaneous explosion of 30-year-old blasting cap found on mining property, claims of strict (product) liability for defective manufacture and for retail sale (to unknown purchaser 30 years ago) without adequate warning of defect was not supportable by evidence, and summary judgment for defendants was proper, where plaintiff submitted no evidence tending to prove defective manufacture and plaintiff's own expert would testify blasting cap was reasonably designed considering date of manufacture and was made of best materials then available; danger of spontaneous explosion of blasting cap was inherent and obvious, and therefore, retailer had no duty to warn of such danger. Barrett v. Atlas Powder Co. (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 560, 564-567, 150 Cal. Rptr. 339

Strict liability doctrine applied where rocket motor testing site was in undeveloped area but where plaintiff's property was immediately adjoining and defendant knew of risk of harm to plaintiff's land and improvements. Smith v. Lockheed Propulsion Co. (1967) 247 Cal. App. 2d 774, 786-787, 56 Cal. Rptr. 128

Use of explosives in vicinity of residential area requires invocation of absolute liability doctrine. Balding v. D.B. Stutsman, Inc. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 559, 564, 54 Cal. Rptr. 717

Question whether case is one of strict or absolute liability, that is, whether blasting occurred in vicinity of dwelling places, is question of law for the court to determine. Balding v. D.B. Stutsman, Inc. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 559, 564, 54 Cal. Rptr. 717

Blasting in populated surroundings is ultrahazardous activity for the miscarriage of which actor is held strictly liable regardless of degree of care; such blasting is subject to injunctive relief. Alonso v. Hills (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 778, 783, 214 P.2d 50

[10] Ultrahazardous Activity

Activity of welding with blowtorch on waste oil tank is ultrahazardous and justified directed verdict of liability. Garcia v. Estate of Norton (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 413, 419-420, 228 Cal. Rptr. 108

Ultrahazardous activity is that involving risk of serious harm to person, land, or chattels of others which cannot be eliminated by exercise of utmost care and which is not matter of common usage. Smith v. Lockheed Propulsion Co. (1967) 247 Cal. App. 2d 774, 785, 56 Cal. Rptr. 128

Classification of activity as ultrahazardous does not automatically subject one engaged in it to strict liability standard without regard to place or circumstances. Smith v. Lockheed Propulsion Co. (1967) 247 Cal. App. 2d 774, 786, 56 Cal. Rptr. 128

Ultrahazardous activity is matter of law to be determined by court. Smith v. Lockheed Propulsion Co. (1967) 247 Cal. App. 2d 774, 785, 56 Cal. Rptr. 128

Defendant engaged in business who has engaged in ultrahazardous activity for profit is best able to administer loss. Smith v. Lockheed Propulsion Co. (1967) 247 Cal. App. 2d 774, 785, 56 Cal. Rptr. 128

[11] Measure of Damages

Measure of damages includes damage to property, damage from discomfort and annoyance to the occupant of land and members of household regardless of whether occupant sustained physical injuries, and damages for mental harm including suffering occasioned by fear of future danger. Alonso v. Hills (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 778, 787-788, 214 P.2d 50

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by a landowner or occupier to recover in strict liability for property damages and mental distress damages against a defendant engaged in the ultrahazardous activity of blasting in populated surroundings and to enjoin the continuation of the blasting [see Civ. Code §§ 3484 (abatement of nuisance does not preclude right to damages based on its past existence), 3501 (remedies against nuisance)]. The form is adapted from the complaint filed in Alonso v. Hills (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 778, 214 P.2d 50 .

[3] Jurisdiction

An action seeking permanent injunctive relief is in the jurisdiction of the superior court as an unlimited civil case [see Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(8), 580(b)(2)].

[4] Allegations

In the First Count, the complaint sets forth the essential allegations to abate a nuisance. It alleges:

- Ownership, control, and relative location of properties of plaintiff and defendant (Paragraphs 5-8).
- A description of the blasting activity (Paragraph 9).
- Facts showing that the blasting activity is a nuisance as defined in Civ. Code § 3479 (Paragraph 10) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 731 (action to enjoin or abate a nuisance)].
- Injury to plaintiff or plaintiff's property interest (Paragraphs 10-12); (5) damages (Paragraphs 11, 12) [Civ. Code § 3333; Code Civ. Proc. § 731].
- Defendant's threatened continuation of the nuisance (Paragraph 13) [Code Civ. Proc. § 527].
- The right to injunctive relief (Paragraph 16) [Code Civ. Proc. § 731; see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527].

The complaint also sets forth the essential allegations necessary to recover in strict liability for damages caused by an ultrahazardous activity in the Second Count. It alleges:

- Plaintiff's status as owner and occupier of property (First Count, Paragraph 5).
- The property's location in populated surroundings (First Count, Paragraph 6).
- That defendant engaged in blasting activity (First Count, Paragraph 9).
- Injury to plaintiff and plaintiff's property interest (Second Count, Paragraphs 3, 4).
- Damages (Second Count, Paragraphs 2-4) [Civ. Code § 3333].

As an alternative to seeking abatement of the nuisance, plaintiff could sue for permanent damages caused by the nuisance and may include an alternative count for such in the same complaint, although an election between the two inconsistent remedies would ultimately be required [see Spaulding v. Cameron (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 265, 269, 239 P.2d 625] .

If the explosions complained of were relatively few in number, and the damages done by each readily distinguishable, each explosion may be alleged individually in a separate cause of action. If they were frequent, and the damage done cumulative in nature, the blasting may be treated as a series, or a single line of conduct, giving rise to a single cause of action as set forth in this form [see Alonso v. Hills (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 778, 782, 214 P.2d 50] .

If plaintiff is uncertain whether the area in which the blasting took place is populated enough for there to be strict liability in damages on the part of defendants, regardless of the degree of care with which the blasting was performed, and if the facts permit, plaintiff may allege a separate cause of action based on negligence liability [see Alonso v. Hills (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 778, 783-784, 214 P.2d 50 ; see also § 256.51].

For additional personal injury damage allegations, see § 256.51[1], Paragraphs 8-11.

[5] Verification

Verification [Code Civ. Proc. § 446] is required if plaintiff seeks a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction on a complaint instead of on affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If relying on a verified complaint instead of affidavits (or declarations), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff to the relief sought [see E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 7 L.R.R.M. (BNA) 686, 106 P.2d 1 ; Finnie v. Town of Tiburon (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1, 15, 244 Cal. Rptr. 581] . For discussion, a procedural checklist, and additional forms necessary in order to obtain a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

Otherwise, verification is not required, but verification of this complaint would require the defendant to file a verified answer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446] and preclude use of a general denial [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[6] Certification re Notice

If a temporary restraining order is sought without formal notice, the applicant or the applicant's attorney is required to certify to the court under oath one of the following: (1) he or she informed the opposing party (or his or her attorney) when and where the application would be made no later than 10:00 a.m. the court day before the ex parte appearance, absent a showing of exceptional circumstances that justify a shorter time for notice; (2) he or she in good faith attempted to inform the opposing party (or attorney) but was unable to do so, specifying the efforts made to do so; or (3) for reasons specified he or she should not be required to inform theopposing party (or attorney) [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(c)(2); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1203-3.1204 (notice requirements when proceeding ex parte)].

For further discussion and forms for obtaining a temporary restraining order, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

[7] Specification of Damages

In an action to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded for this cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages (other than punitive damages) must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b); see Civ. Code § 3295(e) (no claim for punitive damages may state amount)] or an equivalent statement must be included, for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought if they are not stated in the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115], see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments .

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by a landowner or occupier to recover for personal injuries and property damages caused by blasting negligently performed by the defendant where the blasting was conducted in a remote and uninhabitated area.

[3] Jurisdiction

The superior court has jurisdiction of the action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less, in which case it will be classified as a limited civil case [Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(1)].

In limited civil cases, the caption must identify the case as a limited civil case and must state whether the demand exceeds or does not exceed $10,000 [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Gov. Code § 70613(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9), (10)].

[4] Allegations

This complaint contains the essential allegations of a complaint for damages for negligence:

- Facts establishing duty of care owed by defendant (Paragraph 6) [see Civ. Code § 1708].

- Allegations of negligence (Paragraph 7) [see Borenkraut v. Whitten (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 538, 545, 15 Cal. Rptr. 635, 364 P.2d 467 (degree of care required in dealing with explosive or highly inflammable material so great that even slight deviation from standard of care constitutes negligence)].

- Injuries sustained by plaintiff (Paragraphs 8-12).

- Damages (Paragraphs 8-12) [Civ. Code § 3333].

These allegations may be used in a complaint for negligent blasting, or they may be used to state an alternative cause of action in complaints in §§ 256.50 and 256.52 where plaintiff is not certain that the court will find that the area in which the blasting was conducted was sufficiently populated to invoke the strict liability doctrine.

[5] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified also, in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude a general denial in an unimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial even in a limited civil case when the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion see Ch. 26, Answers .

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by an injured party against a construction company to recover damages based on strict liability caused by blasting operations conducted in populated surroundings. The complaint is based on the fact situation in Balding v. D.B. Stutsman, Inc. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 559, 54 Cal. Rptr. 717 .

Where the plaintiff is uncertain whether the area in which the blasting took place is sufficiently populated for a cause of action to be based on strict liability, and where the facts permit, plaintiff may allege a separate cause of action based on negligence [see Alonso v. Hills (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 778, 783-784, 214 P.2d 50 ; see also § 256.51].

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by a minor to recover general damages sustained as a result of an explosion of dangerous fireworks. In this complaint, the parents of the minor are joined in a separate cause of action to recover medical expenses incurred in treatment of the minor. When a parent is the guardian ad litem of the minor, the minor's cause of action may include an allegation to recover such medical expenses as have not been paid [Morningred v. Golden State Co. (1961) 196 Cal. App. 2d 130, 138-139, 16 Cal. Rptr. 219 ; Mattox v. Isley (1952) 111 Cal. App. 2d 774, 779-780, 245 P.2d 664] . Some attorneys prefer to seek medical expenses in the minor's cause of action rather than include a separate cause of action by the parents.

[3] Action by Minor

A minor may enforce his or her rights by a civil action in the same manner as an adult, but a guardian or guardian ad litem must conduct the action [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 372, 373; Fam. Code § 6601].

[4] Action Against Public Entity

Governmental immunity from liability has been held not to apply where a fireworks exhibit at the state fair was found to be within the proprietary function of the state [Guidi v. State (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 623, 627-628, 262 P.2d 3] .

The form in [1], above, includes allegations relating to the the need to file a claim against a public entity [see Gov. Code §§ 905, 905.2].

As a direct and proximate result of the above-mentioned negligence and carelessness of defendants, and each of them, an explosion and fire occurred by which plaintiff was injured in health, strength and activity, sustaining bodily injury and shock and injury to the nervous system and person, and among others, sustained the following personal injuries: _____ [describe], all of which injuries have caused and continue to cause plaintiff great mental, physical, and nervous pain and suffering. These injuries will result in some permanent disability to plaintiff, all to his/her general damage.

11. As a further proximate result of the negligence and carelessness of defendants, and each of them, plaintiff has incurred, and will continue to incur, medical and related expenses, the full amount of which is not now known. Plaintiff will move to amend this complaint to allege such amount when ascertained.

12. At the time of the events herein mentioned, plaintiff was earning an average monthly income in excess of $_____. As a further proximate result of the negligence and carelessness of defendants, and each of them, plaintiff will in the future be prevented from attending to his/her usual occupation for an undetermined period of time, all to his/her damage in a sum unknown at this time.

Chapter 257 FALSE IMPRISONMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

22-257 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 257.11

§ 257.11 Definitions

[1] False Imprisonment

False imprisonment, insofar as criminal actions are concerned, is the unlawful violation of the personal liberty of another [Penal Code § 236; see also Penal Code § 210.5 (increased penalty if committed for purposes of protection from arrest or to use person as shield)]. This statutory definition of criminal false imprisonment governs in civil as well as criminal actions [City of Newport Beach v. Sasse (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 803, 810, 88 Cal. Rptr. 476] and affords a civil right of action for the recovery of damages [Gogue v. MacDonald (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 482, 484, 218 P.2d 542 ; see also Penal Code § 9 (failure to specify in Penal Code liability for damages as not affecting right to recover damages at law); Muller v. Reagh (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 831, 836, 30 Cal. Rptr. 633] . The tort of false imprisonment has been further defined as the nonconsensual, intentional confinement of a person, without lawful privilege, for an appreciable length of time, however short [City of Newport Beach v. Sasse (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 803, 810, 88 Cal. Rptr. 476] . Thus, false imprisonment means unlawful imprisonment [Muller v. Reagh (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 831, 836, 30 Cal. Rptr. 633] and, hence, imprisonment based on a lawful arrest is not false and is not actionable in tort [Moore v. City & County of San Francisco (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 728, 735, 85 Cal. Rptr. 281] .

[2] Restraint

The essential element of false imprisonment is restraint of the person [Onick v. Long (1957) 154 Cal. App. 2d 381, 386, 316 P.2d 427] . Some restraint of the plaintiff by force or express or implied force is necessary. Although the confinement need not necessarily be in a jail, it is necessary that the plaintiff be imprisoned and deprived of his or her liberty or be forced to remain where he or she does not wish to remain or to go wherehe or she does not wish to go [People v. Zilbauer (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 43, 51, 279 P.2d 534] .

Physical force is not the only means of restraint which will support a finding of false imprisonment. Words or conduct furnishing a reasonable apprehension on the part of the one restrained that he or she will not be allowed to leave is sufficient [Schanafelt v. Seaboard Fin. Co. (1951) 108 Cal. App. 2d 420, 422-423, 239 P.2d 42] . Examples of conduct sufficient to support a finding of restraint are: threats, either by conduct or words; legal authority; or actual force. It is a question of fact for the trier of fact to determine whether the words or conduct of the defendant were sufficient to induce plaintiff, as a reasonable person, to fear the use of force and coercion if he or she failed to remain in the place of confinement [Vandiveer v. Charters (1930) 110 Cal. App. 347, 356, 294 P. 440] .

[3] False Arrest

A false arrest is merely one way of committing false imprisonment; the two are not separate torts [Collins v. City & County of San Francisco (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 671, 673, 123 Cal. Rptr. 525] . In order to commit false imprisonment, it is unnecessary either to intend to make an arrest or actually to make an arrest. Further, even where the initial arrest is lawful, a person improperly detained pursuant to the arrest has a cause of action for false imprisonment, although not for false arrest [Moore v. City & County of San Francisco (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 728, 735, 85 Cal. Rptr. 281] . Thus, where the case of false imprisonment is based on unreasonable or unnecessary detention after arrest, the cause of action should not be stated as false arrest but as false imprisonment [Ogulin v. Jeffries (1953) 121 Cal. App. 2d 211, 216, 263 P.2d 75] . On the other hand, a false arrest always entails a false imprisonment since an arrest always involves detention and restraint [Moore v. City & County of San Francisco (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 728, 735, 85 Cal. Rptr. 281] .

Chapter 257 FALSE IMPRISONMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

22-257 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 257.12

§ 257.12 Malicious Prosecution Distinguished

In malicious prosecution the detention is malicious but under due forms of law, whereas in false imprisonment the detention is without color of legal authority [Collins v. City & County of San Francisco (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 671, 676-677, 123 Cal. Rptr. 525] . Malicious prosecution is the procuring of the arrest and prosecution of another under lawful process, but from malicious motives and without probable cause [Singleton v. Perry (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 489, 494, 289 P.2d 794 ; Collins v. City & County of San Francisco (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 671, 676-677, 123 Cal. Rptr. 525] . In an action for false imprisonment, the provocation, motive, and good faith of the defendant constitute no material element in the case and can be considered only where punitive damages are sought, and then only on the issue of the measure of damages; whereas in an action for malicious prosecution, malice and probable cause are essential elements of the case. In an action for malicious prosecution, the outcome of the prosecution is relevant, whereas in an action for false imprisonment it is not, since no later matter can legalize an act which was illegal at the time it was done, such as an illegal arrest [Singleton v. Perry (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 489, 494-495, 289 P.2d 794] . In addition, a cause of action for false imprisonment generally can be distinguished from one for malicious prosecution by the requirement in false imprisonment actions that the defendant actually arrested the plaintiff [Harden v. San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit Dist. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 7, 16-17, 263 Cal. Rptr. 549 (holding that this requirement was satisfied by evidence that warrant was served at defendant's direction by subordinate fellow officer)].

Chapter 257 FALSE IMPRISONMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

22-257 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 257.13

§ 257.13 Joinder of Other Actions

Actions for malicious prosecution, false imprisonment, and assault and battery are often combined [see, e.g., Griswold v. Hollywood Turf Club (1951) 106 Cal. App. 2d 578, 580, 235 P.2d 656] . However, where a cause of action for false imprisonment is joined in a complaint with a cause of action for malicious prosecution, the two are inconsistent and the plaintiff may be required to elect on which theory to go to the jury. But, the failure of the count alleging false imprisonment will not compel reversal of the judgment if malicious prosecution is sufficiently established [Collins v. City & County of San Francisco (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 671, 676, 123 Cal. Rptr. 525 ; Bulkley v. Klein (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 742, 747, 23 Cal. Rptr. 855] . An allegation of assault and battery occurring during a false imprisonment may be stated in the same cause of action as the false imprisonment; it will be treated as an aggravating circumstance [Oppenheimer v. Los Angeles (1951) 104 Cal. App. 2d 551, 553-554, 232 P.2d 30] .

§ 257.14 Personal Action

False imprisonment is a personal action which does not give rise to a cause of action in anyone other than the person directly aggrieved [Coverstone v. Davies (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 315, 324, 239 P.2d 876 ; Sea World, Inc. v. Superior Court (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 100, 106-107, 91 Cal. Rptr. 336] .

§ 257.15 Persons Liable

All who take part in a false imprisonment are joint tortfeasors and may be joined as defendants. An allegation of or proof of conspiracy is unnecessary to show such liability [Harden v. San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit Dist. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 7, 15, 263 Cal. Rptr. 549 ; Oppenheimer v. Los Angeles (1951) 104 Cal. App. 2d 551, 553, 232 P.2d 30] . On the other hand, it is possible for defendants who did not directly participate in the false imprisonment to be liable on the theory of conspiracy. All that isrequired is a concert of action between the defendants to unlawfully detain the plaintiff, an action by the defendant in furtherance of the common scheme, and knowledge by the defendant of the existence of the conspiracy and of its unlawful purpose. A conspirator is liable for all the acts done in furtherance of the conspiracy even though he or she is not a direct actor, and may be liable even if the tort is committed before he or she participates if the conspirator knows the facts and then participates [Peterson v. Cruickshank (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 148, 163, 168, 300 P.2d 915] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

22-257 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 257.16

§ 257.16 Statute of Limitations

An action for false imprisonment must be commenced within one year after the cause of action accrues [Code Civ. Proc. § 340(c)]. If the cause of action is against a public entity, a claim must be filed with the public entity not later than six months days after the action accrues [Gov. Code § 911.2]. However, the filing of a subsequent court action is prohibited, and its statute of limitations tolled, during the pendency of any criminal proceeding [see Gov. Code § 945.3]. For discussion and forms relating to claims and subsequent actions against public entities, see Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act .

A cause of action for false imprisonment accrues on the termination of the wrongful imprisonment [Collins v. County of Los Angeles (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 451, 454-455, 50 Cal. Rptr. 586] . The fact that plaintiff did not know that the imprisonment was illegal does not bar the running of the statute, unless the plaintiff's ignorance was induced by fraud. Further, the fact that a criminal proceeding connected to the false imprisonment is pending against the plaintiff does not bar the running of the statute [Collins v. Los Angeles County (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 451, 455, 458, 50 Cal. Rptr. 586] . False imprisonment does not continue after the plaintiff is released on bail [Collins v. Los Angeles County (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 451, 459-460, 50 Cal. Rptr. 586 (relating to limitations period for filing claim against public entity)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

22-257 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 257.17

§ 257.17 Restraint by Private Persons

[1] Without Justification

As long as there has been an intentional, nonconsensual confinement of a person, without lawful privilege, for an appreciable length of time, there has been a false imprisonment. [City of Newport Beach v. Sasse (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 803, 810, 88 Cal. Rptr. 476] . When the defendant confines the plaintiff with no belief or probable cause to think that the plaintiff has committed a crime, and without good faith, the defendant will be liable for false imprisonment [Coyne v. Nelson (1951) 107 Cal. App. 2d 469, 475, 237 P.2d 45] .

[2] Defense of Protecting Property

[a] Owners Generally

The owner of property in the exercise of the lawful right to protect it may detain a person who seeks to interfere with or injure the property for a reasonable length of time for the purpose of investigation in a reasonable manner [Alterauge v. Los Angeles Turf Club (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 735, 737, 218 P.2d 802] . For protection of property to be a defense to an action for false imprisonment, the owner of the property must have probable cause to believe that the property is about to be stolen or injured [Collyer v. S.H. Kress & Co. (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 175, 180-181, 54 P.2d 20 ; Alterauge v. Los Angeles Turf Club (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 735, 739, 218 P.2d 802] . Further, the detention must be for a reasonable length of time and in a reasonable manner [Collyer v. S. H. Kress & Co. (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 175, 180-181, 54 P.2d 20] . Although probable cause to believe that property is in the process of being stolen or interfered with is a defense as long as the suspect is detained in a reasonable manner and for a reasonable length of time, there is no right to detain a person for the purpose of securing a confession of a theft of property at a prior time or for the purpose of obtaining restitution. Probable cause is not a defense to such a detention [Parrott v. Bank of Am. (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 14, 23-24, 217 P.2d 89 ; Moffatt v. Buffums' Inc. (1937) 21 Cal. App. 2d 371, 375, 69 P.2d 424] .

In addition to these common-law rules, statutes protect persons from false imprisonment actions in specified circumstances [see Penal Code § 490.5(f), (g); see also § 257.17[2][c]].

[b] Merchants

The right of a merchant to detain a person whom the merchant believes has stolen or attempted to steal such merchant's property is codified in Penal Code § 490.5(f). This section provides, in pertinent part, that a merchant may detain a person for a reasonable time for the purpose of conducting an investigation in a reasonable manner whenever the merchant has probable cause to believe the person to be detained is attempting to take unlawfully or has taken unlawfully merchandise from the merchant's premises [Penal Code § 490.5(f)(1)]. In making the detention a merchant may use a reasonable amount of nondeadly force necessary to protect himself or herself and to prevent escape of the person detained or the loss of property [Penal Code § 490.5(f)(2)]. During the period of detention any items that the merchant has reasonable cause to believe are unlawfully taken from his or her premises and which are in plain view may be examined by the merchant for the purposes of ascertaining the ownership thereof [Penal Code § 490.5(f)(3)].

The merchant or an agent of the merchant may request the person detained to voluntarily surrender the item, provided the merchant or agenthas probable cause to believe that the person was attempting to unlawfully take or has taken any item from the premises. If the person refuses, a limited and reasonable search may be conducted, by those authorized to make the detention, in order to recover the item. Only packages, shopping bags, handbags, or other property in the immediate possession of the person may be searched, except that clothing worn by the person may not be searched. On surrender or discovery of the item, the person detained may also be requested, but may not be required, to provide adequate proof of his or her true identity [Penal Code § 490.5(f)(4)].

It is a defense to any civil action brought by any person resulting from a detention or arrest by a merchant, that the merchant had probable cause to believe that the person detained or arrested had stolen or attempted to steal merchandise and that the merchant acted reasonably under all the circumstances [Penal Code § 490.5(f)(7)]. However, the probable cause defense is limited to suits based on a detention and does not extend to suits based on an arrest. In other words, the defense does not give a merchant the right to arrest a person merely on probable cause [Cervantez v. J. C. Penney Co. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 579, 590-591, 156 Cal. Rptr. 198, 595 P.2d 975] . In addition, the statutory right to legally detain a person does not appear to grant protection from liability for summoning the police [see Pool v. City of Oakland (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 1051, 1066, 232 Cal. Rptr. 528, 728 P.2d 1163 (dicta; decided under prior version of Penal Code § 490.5)].

For the purposes of the exercise of the rights under Penal Code § 490.5(f), the term "merchandise" means any personal property capable of manual delivery, displayed, held, or offered for retail sale by a merchant [Penal Code § 490.5(g)(1)], and the term "merchant" means an owner or operator, and the agent, consignee, employee, lessee, or officer of an owner or operator of any premises used for the retail purchase or sale of any personal property capable of manual delivery [Penal Code § 490.5(g)(2)]. It should be noted that the legislature did not intend to make any changes in existing case law with respect to the merchant's right to detain a suspect; rather, Penal Code § 490.5(f) is intended to be declaratory of existing law [see Stats. 1976, Ch 1131, § 3].

[c] Library Personnel

In addition to a merchant, the rights provided by Penal Code § 490.5(f) also apply to a person employed by a library facility [see Penal Code § 490.5(f), (g), (h)]. A library employee may detain a person for a reasonable time for the purpose of conducting a reasonable investigation whenever the employee has probable cause to believe the person is attempting to unlawfully remove or has unlawfully removed books or library material from the premises of the library facility [Penal Code § 490.5(f)(1)]. The terms "books or library material" and "library facility" are defined in Penal Code § 490.5(g)(4) and (5), respectively. A library employee also has available, in any civil action resulting from the detention or arrest, the defense of probable cause to detain and reasonable manner of detention [Penal Code § 490.5(f)(7)]. In addition, a library facility shall post at its entrance and exit a conspicuous sign to read as follows: IN ORDER TO PREVENT THE THEFT OF BOOKS AND LIBRARY MATERIALS, STATE LAW AUTHORIZES THE DETENTION FOR A REASONABLE PERIOD OF ANY PERSON USING THESE FACILITIES SUSPECTED OF COMMITTING "LIBRARY THEFT" (PENAL CODE SECTION 490.5) [Penal Code § 490.5(h)].

[d] Theater Owners

A theater owner is also protected under Penal Code § 490.5(f) from liability under specified circumstances. A theater owner may detain a person for a reasonable time for the purposes of conducting an investigation in a reasonable manner whenever the theater owner has probable cause to believe the person to be detained is attempting to operate a video recording device within the premises of a motion picture theater without the authority of the theater's owner [Penal Code § 490.5(f)(1); see also Penal Code § 490.5(g)(3) (definition of "theater owner"; definition includes agent, employee, or lessor of owner or operator of premises used for exhibition of motion pictures)]. The general provisions permitting use of force [Penal Code § 490.5(f)(2)], examination of items in plain view [Penal Code § 490.5(f)(3)], and a reasonable search [Penal Code § 490.5(f)(4)], applicable to merchants [see § 257.17[2][b]] also apply to theater owners. In addition, it is a defense to any civil action brought by any person resulting from detention or arrest by a theater owner that the person detaining or arresting that person had probable cause to believe that the person was attempting to operate a video recording device within the premises of a motion picture theater without the authority of the theater's owner [Penal Code § 490.5(f)(7)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

22-257 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 257.18

§ 257.18 Liability of Private Employers

[1] Respondeat Superior or Joint and Concurrent Tortfeasor

An employer may be liable for a false imprisonment committed by an employee either indirectly on the doctrine of respondeat superior or directly as a joint and concurrent tortfeasor [McInerney v. United R.R. (1920) 50 Cal. App. 538, 550, 195 P. 958 ; see also Benson v. Southern Pac. Co. (1918) 177 Cal. 777, 779-780, 171 P. 948 ; Canadian Indem. Co. v. Ohio Farmers' Indem. Co. (9th Cir. 1958) 251 F.2d 563, 567] . If the employee commits the tortious act without the express or implied direction of the employer, the employer can be liable only on the doctrine of respondeat superior. If, however, the employer directs or does not forbid the tortious action, or if the employer participates in the commission of the tort, the employer will be directly and concurrently liable with the employee as a joint tortfeasor [Benson v. Southern Pac. Co. (1918) 177 Cal. 777, 779-780, 171 P. 948] . Direct joint liability can arise where the employee's action is in accordancewith the employer's general directions and instructed pattern of doing business [Canadian Indem. Co. v. Ohio Farmers' Indem. Co. (9th Cir. 1958) 251 F.2d 563, 567] . As long as the express directions of the employer to the employee were broad enough to include the action taken, the employer may be directly liable as a joint tortfeasor for a false imprisonment rather than merely indirectly liable on the doctrine of respondeat superior [McInerney v. United R.R. (1920) 50 Cal. App. 538, 550, 195 P. 958] .

If the employer is liable for the act of the employee only on the doctrine of respondeat superior, the employer cannot be held liable for false imprisonment if the court finds no liability on the part of the employee [McInerney v. United R.R. (1920) 50 Cal. App. 538, 550, 195 P. 958] . However, where the employer is directly liable as a joint tortfeasor, the employer may be liable even if there is no liability on the part of the employee [Jensen v. Southern Pac. Co. (1954) 129 Cal. App. 2d 67, 70-71, 276 P.2d 703 ; McInerney v. United R.R. (1920) 50 Cal. App. 538, 550, 195 P. 958] .

Those cases in which the employer may be found directly liable for false imprisonment in the absence of a verdict against the employee-defendant must be distinguished from those cases in which the employee did not commit or actively participate in a false imprisonment and, hence, there is no connection at all between the employer or the employee and the tort. In such cases, the employer cannot be liable [see, e.g., Turner v. Mellon (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 45, 48, 257 P.2d 15] , overruled in part, Hagerberg v. California Federal Bank (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 350 .

An action for false imprisonment against one's employer is not precluded by the exclusive remedy doctrine of workers' compensation law. If the employee has stated a cause of action for false imprisonment, the action cannot be said to be a normal aspect of the employment relationship; false imprisonment committed by an employer against an employee is always outside the compensation bargain [Fermino v. Fedco, Inc. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 701, 723, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 18, 872 P.2d 559] . For complete discussion of the exclusive remedy doctrine, see Ch. 577, Workers' Compensation .

[2] Scope of Authority

The employer is liable for the acts of its officers and employees acting within the scope of their authority in an action for false imprisonment [Kaufman v. Brown (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 508, 515, 209 P.2d 156] . It is a question of fact for the jury whether or not the employee was acting within the scope of his authority as an agent of the employer [Peckham v. Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. (1939) 36 Cal. App. 2d 214, 220-221, 97 P.2d 472] . The act for which the principal can be held liable is one which the agent or employee is empowered under some circumstances to do, even though the employee mistakenly takes that action against the wrong person or with an excess of force or zeal [McInerney v. United R.R. (1920) 50 Cal. App. 538, 545-546, 195 P. 958] . For a further discussion of the general principles of employer liability, see Ch. 427, Principal and Agent .

Since the actions of an employee in preventing or ending a presently occurring interference with the business or property of the employer is within the duty of the employee, a false imprisonment by the employee occurring during such activity is chargeable to the employer under the doctrine of respondeat superior. On the other hand, where the offense has already been committed, the imprisonment of a suspect for the purposes of obtaining a confession or punishment cannot be said to aid the business of the employer. The employer will, therefore, generally not be liable for acts done after the offense has been completed [Mackie v. Ambassador Hotel & Inv. Corp. (1932) 123 Cal. App. 215, 223-224, 11 P.2d 3] .

[3] Ratification and Authorization

Where store detectives followed a customer out into the street and detained her for the purpose of protecting store property they believed had been stolen, it becomes a matter of fact to be proved by the defense whether the employees were authorized to do so by the employer, or whether their acts were ratified by subsequent approval [Hanna v. Raphael Weill & Co. (1949) 90 Cal. App. 2d 461, 464, 203 P.2d 564] . It seems that if the acts of an employee in detaining a plaintiff after a crime has been completed for purposes of apprehension or obtaining a confession may be the basis for liability of an employer if the employer authorizes or later ratifies the acts which lead to the false imprisonment [see Hanna v. Raphael Weill & Co. (1949) 90 Cal. App. 2d 461, 463, 203 P.2d 564] .

[4] Acts of Security Guards

The hirer of a detective agency or guard agency for either a single investigation or for the protection of property is liable for the intentional torts of employees of the private detective or guard agency committed in the course of employment [Noble v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 654, 663, 109 Cal. Rptr. 269] . Where the plaintiff has stated a cause of action against the hirer for the intentional tort of the private detective agency, whether or not the tort was committed in the scope of employment is a question of fact [Noble v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 654, 663, 109 Cal. Rptr. 269] . Additionally, where the employer of the detective or guard agency retains the right to control the activities of the individual guards or detectives, the employer will be liable directly for their torts rather than merely liable for any torts of the hired agency [Noble v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 654, 657-658, 109 Cal. Rptr. 269] . The employer of the guard or detective agency may also be liable on the theory of negligent entrustment or negligent hiring [Noble v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 654, 664, 109 Cal. Rptr. 269] . The activities of private detectives are not, however, recognized as ultrahazardous activities giving rise to a nondelegable duty in the employer and, therefore, to direct liability [Noble v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 654, 661, 109 Cal. Rptr. 269] .

The business, the guard agency, and the individual guards are all proper defendants in an action for false imprisonment arising in such a situation [see Alterauge v. Los Angeles Turf Club (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 735, 736, 218 P.2d 802] . The fact that a guard in private employment also has a commission from the public as a police officer does not bar liability of the guard's private employer for acts that are connected with his or her capacity as a private guard or that he or she commits in the performance of his or her duty as an employee [Hanna v. Raphael Weill & Co. (1949) 90 Cal. App. 2d 461, 463, 203 P.2d 564] .

Chapter 257 FALSE IMPRISONMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

22-257 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 257.19

§ 257.19 Citizen's Arrest

[1] Basis and Validity

A citizen's arrest may be the basis for a criminal prosecution for false imprisonment [People v. Agnew (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 655, 659, 107 P.2d 601] and, therefore, the basis for a civil action for damages [see Gogue v. MacDonald (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 482, 484, 218 P.2d 542 ; Muller v. Reagh (1963)215 Cal. App. 2d 831, 836, 30 Cal. Rptr. 633] . A private person may arrest another only (1) for a public offense committed or attempted in his or her presence; (2) when the person arrested has committed a felony, although not in his or her presence; or (3) when a felony has in fact been committed, and he or she has reasonable cause to believe the person arrested has committed it [Penal Code § 837]. When the arrest is for a misdemeanor, the question of whether the arrest was lawful or not will depend on whether the misdemeanor was in fact committed or attempted in the presence of the person making the arrest. A private person may not arrest on probable cause to believe a misdemeanor has been committed [Penal Code § 837(1); see Hamburg v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. (2004) 116 Cal. App. 4th 497, 512, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 568 (triable issue remained regarding whether protestors obstructed or intimidated store's customers, in violation of Pen. Code § 602.1(a), in presence of store manager who made citizen's arrest)].

A citizen's arrest without a warrant for a misdemeanor cannot be justified if made after the occasion has passed, though the offense was committed in the presence of the person making the arrest. The person making the arrest must proceed as soon as possible to make the arrest, and if he or she goes about other matters not connected to the arrest, the right to make the arrest without a warrant ceases. In order to then make a valid arrest, he or she must obtain a warrant [Hill v. Levy (1953) 117 Cal. App. 2d 667, 670, 256 P.2d 622] .

When the validity of a citizen's arrest turns on whether or not the conduct of the arrested person in the presence of the person making the arrest constituted a public offense, the test to be applied is whether or not the person making the arrest had a reasonable good faith belief that it did. Furthermore, if that conduct did, in fact, constitute a public offense, the person making the arrest is not liable simply because he or she was mistaken as to which particular penal statute was violated [Gomez v. Garcia (1980) 112 Cal. App. 3d 392, 397, 169 Cal. Rptr. 350] .

A defendant sued for making a citizen's arrest cannot defend the action on the grounds that the conduct was absolutely privileged under Civ. Code § 47(b) [see Civ. Code § 47(b); § 257.44[14][b]]. That statute does not apply to the act of making a citizen's arrest, which is affirmative conduct that constitutes more than the communicative act of reporting potential criminal activity to the police [Buchanan v. Maxfield Enters., Inc. (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 418, 424-426, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 909 ; Kesmodel v. Rand (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 1136-1137, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 118] .

[2] Duty to Deliver Custody to Police Officer

A private person who has arrested another for the commission of a public offense must, without unnecessary delay, take the person before a magistrate, or deliver him or her to a peace officer [Penal Code § 847].

[3] Liability of Police Officer Accepting Custody

The person arrested by a citizen's arrest has a cause of action for false imprisonment against the arresting citizen. There is no liability on the part of the police officer taking him or her into custody or the governmental entity employing the police officer and detaining the plaintiff [Kinney v. County of Contra Costa (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 761, 769, 87 Cal. Rptr. 638] unless there is an independent wrongful act by the officer, the county or city, or its employees [Shakespeare v. Pasadena (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 387, 389, 40 Cal. Rptr. 871] .

Where a peace officer accepts custody of a person following a citizen's arrest, the officer is not liable for this action [Penal Code § 847]. In fact, the officer would be criminally liable if the officer refused to take the plaintiff into custody [Penal Code § 142]. Even where the citizen making the original citizen's arrest did not have probable cause to arrest, the police officer who receives the arrested person into custody need not correctly judge whether probable cause existed for the original arrest in order to avoid liability for false imprisonment. The means of information ordinarily would be scant and any error on the officer's part would be costly. If the officer incorrectly found no probable cause and refused custody, the officer would face criminal sanctions [see Penal Code § 142]. On the other hand, if the officer incorrectly found probable cause, the officer would be subject to civil liability to the person arrested [Kinney v. County of Contra Costa (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 761, 767-769, 87 Cal. Rptr. 638] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

22-257 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 257.20

§ 257.20 Warrantless Arrest by Police Officer

[1] Liability of Officer and Employing Entity

False imprisonment may occur with the unauthorized taking of a person into custody by a police officer [People v. Brock (1963) 220 Cal. App. 2d 605, 607, 34 Cal. Rptr. 113] , and a police officer who makes an arrest without a warrant may be held civilly liable for false arrest and imprisonment [Dragna v. White (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 469, 471, 289 P.2d 428] . Although a police officer or other peace officer is not liable for his or her act or omission, exercising due care, in the execution or enforcement of any law, this exemption from liability is expressly inapplicable to liability for false arrest or false imprisonment [see Gov. Code § 820.4].

The employing entity may also be liable in compensatory damages for the false imprisonment of a person by its police officers effecting an unlawful arrest [see Dawkins v. Los Angeles (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 126, 129, 148 Cal. Rptr. 857, 583 P.2d 711 (judgment against city for $100,000 compensatory damages and against each police officer for $5 punitive damages for false imprisonment and assault and battery; judgment reversed on ground trial court prejudicially erred in refusing defendants' requested jury instruction that initial detention was lawful)].

[2] Probable Cause

A peace officer may generally make a warrantless arrest of a person when any of the following occurs [Penal Code § 836(a); see also Penal Code § 836(c)-(f) (warrantless arrest in particular situations)]:

- The officer has probable cause to believe that the person to be arrested has committed a public offense in the officer's presence [Penal Code § 836(a)(1)].

- The person arrested has committed a felony, although not in the officer's presence.

- The officer has probable cause to believe that the person to be arrested has committed a felony, whether or not a felony, in fact, has been committed.

Despite the fact that there is no formula for determining the reasonableness of an arrest, that each case is decided on its facts Gorlack v. Ferrari (1960) 184 Cal. App. 2d 702, 709, 7 Cal. Rptr. 699] , and that what constitutes probable cause depends on the circumstances of each case and the situation presented to the officers at the time they were required to act [White v. Martin (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 641, 650-651, 30 Cal. Rptr. 367] , with reference to the elements of the specific crime the arrestee is alleged to have committed [see, e.g., Levin v. United Air Lines, Inc. (2008) 158 Cal. App. 4th 1002, 1020-1025, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 535], probable cause nevertheless has been judicially defined. Probable or reasonable cause exists when the facts and circumstances within the knowledge of the officers at the moment of the arrest are sufficient to warrant a prudent person in believing the person arrested has committed the offense [Wilson v. Los Angeles County (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 308, 314,98 Cal. Rptr. 525] . The standard of care required is that of a person of ordinary care and prudence [see White v. Martin (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 641, 650, 30 Cal. Rptr. 367 ; Cole v. Johnson (1961) 197 Cal. App. 2d 788, 793, 17 Cal. Rptr. 664] . The standard of belief required is belief or an honest and strong suspicion that the person arrested was guilty, even if there is room for doubt [Cole v. Johnson (1961) 197 Cal. App. 2d 788, 793, 17 Cal. Rptr. 664] .

The test is not whether the evidence would support a conviction, but only whether it supports a strong suspicion [Mercurius v. Rolon (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 359, 362, 41 Cal. Rptr. 789] . Unless it can be said that prudent persons in the position of the officers knowing what they knew and seeing what they did would not have had probable or reasonable cause to believe and to conscientiously entertain a strong suspicion that the law was being violated or had been violated, the arrest will be held lawful [White v. Martin (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 641, 650-651, 30 Cal. Rptr. 367] .

[3] Evidence of Probable Cause

Probable or reasonable cause to arrest without a warrant is determined in accordance with the circumstances at the time of the detention, unaffected by the outcome of the charge against the plaintiff or by the conclusion of the trial court [White v. Martin (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 641, 651, 30 Cal. Rptr. 367] . Nevertheless, a plea or verdict of guilty in a subsequent criminal action arising out of the circumstances of the false imprisonment is admissible on the issue of justification by probable cause for arrest without a warrant. It is simply not conclusive evidence of justification as a matter of law because the person arrested may be found or plead guilty, and the arrest may nevertheless have been unlawful [Collins v. Owens (1947) 77 Cal. App. 2d 713, 717-718, 176 P.2d 372] . On the other hand, the fact that the plaintiff in a false imprisonment action based on an arrest has been exonerated in the subsequent criminal proceeding has no bearing on the legality of the arrest. Whereas a conviction will require proof of actual guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, a valid arrest without a warrant may only require probable cause to believe that the arrestee is involved in a crime [Coverstone v. Davies (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 315, 320-321, 239 P.2d 876] . Similarly, a subsequent decision not to prosecute made by prosecutors does not vitiate probable cause to arrest [Johnson v. Lewis (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 443, 456, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 507] .

Information supplied to the arresting officers by others (such as a private detective's report) may be relevant on the issue of the existence of probable cause [see Aitken v. White (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 134, 145, 208 P.2d 788] . Information provided by an untested informer or by an anonymous informer is not, without some showing justifying reliance, sufficient to justify an arrest on grounds of probable cause. However, information from a citizen who is the victim of a crime is sufficient even though the reliability of the person as an informant has not been tested, since the citizen witness will expect to be called to testify after the arrest and may be liable for malicious prosecution if he or she makes unfounded charges [Wilson v. Los Angeles County (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 308, 314-315, 98 Cal. Rptr. 525 , disapproved on other grounds, Cervantez v. J. C. Penney Co. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 579, 592, 156 Cal. Rptr. 198, 595 P.2d 975] .

Reliable information furnishing probable cause for an arrest does not lose its reliability when it is transmitted to the arresting officers through official channels. They are entitled to rely on such information when making an arrest [Wilson v. Los AngelesCounty (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 308, 315, 98 Cal. Rptr. 525 , disapproved on other grounds, Cervantez v. J. C. Penney Co. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 579, 592, 156 Cal. Rptr. 198, 595 P.2d 975] .

[4] Determination of Probable Cause

If the evidence of facts relevant to the existence of probable cause for arrest is without substantial conflict, the question of the existence of probable cause is to be decided by the court as a matter of law [Pool v. City of Oakland (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 1051, 1069, 232 Cal. Rptr. 528, 728 P.2d 1163 ; Wilson v. Los Angeles County (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 308, 316, 98 Cal. Rptr. 525 , disapproved on other grounds, Cervantez v. J. C. Penney Co. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 579, 592, 156 Cal. Rptr. 198, 595 P.2d 975 ; White v. Martin (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 641, 643, 30 Cal. Rptr. 367] . When the facts relied on to show probable cause are disputed, that is, when there is conflicting evidence of the facts which confronted the arresting officer, the jury may decide the question of the existence of the facts. It is, nevertheless, the job of the court to determine as a matter of law whether the facts as found by the jury constitute probable cause. The court will normally instruct the jury that, if they find certain facts to be true, their verdict should be for plaintiff, or, if otherwise, for defendant [Levin v. United Air Lines, Inc. (2008) 158 Cal. App. 4th 1002, 1018-1019, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 535 ; Gibson v. J. C. Penney Co., Inc. (1958) 165 Cal. App. 2d 640, 644-645, 331 P.2d 1057 ; Aitken v. White (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 134, 141, 208 P.2d 788] .

Despite the general rule that the outcome of a criminal action is not conclusive on a subsequent determination in a civil suit regarding whether reasonable cause to arrest existed [see discussion under § 257.20[2]], a prior judicial determination at a criminal preliminary hearing that there was sufficient evidence to hold the plaintiff over for trial may, under some circumstances, preclude that plaintiff from relitigating the issue of probable cause to arrest in a subsequent civil suit [McCutchen v. City of Montclair (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 1138, 1147, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 95] . Absent a showing that evidence not available to the arresting officer at the time of arrest was presented at the preliminary hearing, a finding at the preliminary hearing that there was sufficient evidence to require a criminal defendant to stand trial is a finding of probable cause to arrest that may be given collateral estoppel effect [McCutchen v. City of Montclair (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 1138, 1146-1148, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 95 (finding at preliminary hearing was not given collateral estoppel effect because evidence presented at hearing was not limited to evidence available to officer at time of arrest)].

[5] Arrest Resulting From Entrapment

If the offense that police officers seek to use to justify an arrest was committed as a result of entrapment, the offense will not justify the arrest and the officers may be liable for false imprisonment. Entrapment renders illegal the arrest on which the right to custody is based [Beauregard v. Wingard (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 760, 764, 47 Cal. Rptr. 279] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

22-257 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 257.21

§ 257.21 Liability for Serving Warrant

[1] Warrant Valid on Face

There is no liability on the part of and no cause of action against any peace officer who makes an arrest pursuant to a warrant of arrest regular on its face if the peace officer in making the arrest acts without malice and in the reasonable belief that the person arrested is the one referred to in the warrant [Civ. Code § 43.55(a)]. It is the duty of a police officer, for which the officer cannot be held liable, to execute the orders of the court unless they are patently irregular or void [Collins v. City & County of San Francisco (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 671, 677-678, 123 Cal. Rptr. 525] .

A warrant is valid on its face if it proceeds from a court, officer, or body having authority of law to issue process of that nature, and it is legal in form and contains nothing to notify or fairly apprise anyone that it is issued without authority [Muller v. Reagh (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 831, 838, 30 Cal. Rptr. 633] . A "warrant deemed regular on its face" encompasses not only a paper arrest warrant issued pursuant to a judicial order, but also a judicial order entered into an automated warrant system by law enforcement or court personnel authorized to make such entries at or near the time the judicial order is made [Civ. Code § 43.55(b)].

In determining whether process or orders are regular on their face so as to insulate an officer from liability, the validity of the process need not be determined on the basis of scrutiny by a trained legal mind, nor is it to be judged in the light of facts outside its provisions which the officer may know. Unless there is a clear absence of jurisdiction on the part of the court or magistrate issuing the warrant, it is sufficient if on its face it appears to be valid in the judgment of an ordinarily intelligent and informed lay person [Vallindras v. Massachusetts Bonding & Ins. Co. (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 149, 154, 265 P.2d 907 ; Collins v. City & County of San Francisco (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 671, 677-678, 123 Cal. Rptr. 525] .

For example, if the only defect in the order of commitment for contempt that the sheriff served on the plaintiff in the false imprisonment action wasthat the order failed to specify what plaintiff should do to purge himself of contempt, the sheriff is not civilly liable for false imprisonment for imprisoning the plaintiff pursuant to the order [Vallindras v. Massachusetts Bonding & Ins. Co. (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 149, 153-154, 265 P.2d 907] .

The fact that a person held pursuant to a warrant or judgment of commitment is released on habeas corpus due to invalidity of the warrant or judgment does not mean that the officer serving the process and imprisoning the plaintiff will be subject to liability for damages for false imprisonment. Different tests of validity pertain to the habeas corpus and the civil liability situations [Vallindras v. Massachusetts Bonding & Ins. Co. (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 149, 151-152, 265 P.2d 907] .

[2] Arrest of Wrong Person

The arresting officer is liable for false imprisonment if the officer fails to use reasonable prudence and diligence to determine whether the person arrested is actually the one described in the warrant or if the officer refuses to act on information offered to him or her that would have disclosed that a mistake was being made by serving the warrant on the wrong person [Smith v. Madruga (1961) 193 Cal. App. 2d 543, 546-547, 14 Cal. Rptr. 389] . The question which must be decided is whether the officer was acting in a reasonable belief that the person arrested was the one named in the warrant. Since the applicable standard of reasonableness is the usual tort standard, where the evidence is subject to more than one interpretation, the reasonableness of the officer's conduct is determined as a question of fact by the jury [Robinson v. City & County of San Francisco (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 334, 337, 116 Cal. Rptr. 125] . For a form of allegation that the officer had no reasonable belief that the person arrested was the person named in the warrant, see § 257.89.

[3] Defects in Proceedings for Issuance

A sheriff or other ministerial officer is justified in the execution of, and must execute, all process and orders regular on their face and issued by competent authority, whatever may be the defect in the proceedings on which they were issued [Code Civ. Proc. § 262.1].

The peace officer is not liable for serving a warrant valid on its face, regardless of any defects in the proceedings leading up to the issuance of the warrant [see Jackson v. Osborn (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 875, 881-882, 254 P.2d 871 ; Barrier v. Alexander (1950) 100 Cal. App. 2d 497, 501, 224 P.2d 436] . An officer has no duty to investigate the procedure that led to the issuance of the warrant, nor does the officer have any obligation to pass judgment on the judicial act of issuing the warrant. The officer is privileged to execute the warrant even though the officer has personal knowledge of facts that should prevent the arrest; the officer may safely leave all responsibility to the issuing court. The fact that the officer should have known, in the exercise of due care, that the warrant for arrest was improperly issued cannot support liability on the part of the officer for false imprisonment [Collins v. City & County of San Francisco (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 671, 677-678, 123 Cal. Rptr. 525 ; Herndon v. Marin County (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 933, 936, 102 Cal. Rptr. 221 , disapproved on other grounds, Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 722 n.10, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865] .

[4] Warrant Maliciously Obtained and Served

Civ. Code § 43.5(a) provides a conditional immunity, and the failure of any condition prevents immunity from attaching to a peace officer making the arrest. One of the conditions is that the officer must act without malice in making the arrest. Malice may be determined by taking into account all circumstances surrounding the arrest allegedly known to the arresting officer [McKay v. County of San Diego (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 251, 255, 168 Cal. Rptr. 442] . Malice is established if the arresting officer fabricated false information to obtain the arrest warrant [McKay v. County of San Diego (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 251, 253-255, 168 Cal. Rptr. 442] . Failing to investigate and withholding exculpatory evidence from the magistrate when obtaining the warrant may also be sufficient to establish malice [Laible v. Superior Court (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 44, 52-53, 203 Cal. Rptr. 513] . For a form of allegation that the arresting officer acted maliciously, see § 257.90.

§ 257.22 Liability for Issuance of Warrants

[1] Court Clerks

Where court clerks fail to keep proper records indicating that a person has already served a sentence or fail to inform the judge of that fact, they may be liable for false imprisonment if the judge then issues a warrant based on the misinformation [Sullivan v. Los Angeles, County of (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 722, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865] . In addition, county employees who fail to record or report proper information which would have prevented the issuance of a warrant for the arrest of a person who should not have been arrested are also liable for false imprisonment [see Sullivan v. Los Angeles, County of (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 722, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865] . These two situations must be distinguished from the situation in which a police officer wrongfully swears out a new warrant valid on its face for misdemeanor charges which have already been dismissed against the arrestee. The swearing out of the new warrant, although wrongful, has been held to constitute malicious prosecution rather than false imprisonment since it is under color of legal authority and is merely the groundless institution of criminal proceedings for which the police officer and the officer's employer are protected from liability by Gov. Code§ 821.6 [Collins v. City & County of San Francisco (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 671, 674-679, 123 Cal. Rptr. 525] .

[2] Judges and Magistrates

Few doctrines are as solidly established at common law as the immunity of judges from civil liability for damages for acts, including false imprisonment, committed within their jurisdiction. The immunity applies even where the judge is acting maliciously or corruptly [Paddleford v. Biscay (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 139, 143, 99 Cal. Rptr. 220] . Justices of the peace, as well as superior court judges, are entitled to this immunity [Taliaferro v. Contra Costa County (1960) 182 Cal. App. 2d 587, 592, 6 Cal. Rptr. 231 ; see Frazier v. Moffatt (1951) 108 Cal. App. 2d 379, 386-387, 239 P.2d 123] .

In determining whether a judge has acted within his or her jurisdiction, a distinction exists between a mere excess of jurisdiction and the clear absence of all jurisdiction over the subject matter. Where a judge acts within his or her subject matter jurisdiction but in excess of his or her jurisdiction in regard to the procedure used in issuing a warrant or process, there is no liability for false imprisonment [Paddleford v. Biscay (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 139, 143-144, 99 Cal. Rptr. 220] . On the other hand, where a judge acts totally outside of his or her jurisdiction, the rule of judicial immunity for civil damages does not apply [De Courcey v. Cox (1892) 94 Cal. 665, 669, 30 P. 95 (justice of the peace issued warrant against plaintiff and tried her for acts not a crime)].

Where a judge acts totally outside of his or her jurisdiction, honesty of purpose or an honest mistake may mitigate damages, but the rule of civil immunity will nevertheless not apply [De Courcey v. Cox (1892) 94 Cal. 665, 669, 30 P. 95] . On the other hand, if the act in question was within the general scope of the judge's judicial powers, the test for whether the judge is immune from a civil suit for damages is not whether the judge committed an error in judgment in acting as he or she did, but whether the judge acted in an honest belief that he or she was legally warranted in doing it [Singer v. Bogen (1957) 147 Cal. App. 2d 515, 524, 305 P.2d 893 ; Frazier v. Moffatt (1951) 108 Cal. App. 2d 379, 386, 239 P.2d 123] .

The question often arises whether a judge is immune from civil liability for acts that the judge mistakenly believes to be within his or her jurisdiction. As long as the act is within the general scope of the jurisdiction and there is not a clear absence of all jurisdiction over the subject matter, the determination of jurisdiction is a judicial duty, and error in that determination is itself within the rule of judicial immunity. In general, if any reasonable ground for the assumption of jurisdiction is shown, the immunity applies [Lewis v. Linn (1962) 209 Cal. App. 2d 394, 397-398, 26 Cal. Rptr. 6] . Additionally, if a judge honestly and in good faith, without being motivated by malice or corrupt motives, erroneously decides that he or she has jurisdiction, the judge is not liable for that honest mistake in judgment [Taliaferro v. Contra Costa County (1960) 182 Cal. App. 2d 587, 593, 6 Cal. Rptr. 231] .

Judicial immunity would not ordinarily protect judges and other judicial actors from liability for false imprisonment or assault and battery if the judge abandons the traditional role of the judge and uses brute force against a litigant, even if the judge's purpose is ostensibly to keep litigants from leaving a room in which their presence is required. However, the act of summoning a peace officer or other court personnel and directing that officer to prevent litigants from leaving would be covered by judicial immunity [Regan v. Price (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 1491, 1498, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 130] .

Chapter 257 FALSE IMPRISONMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

22-257 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 257.23

§ 257.23 Private Person Aiding Officials With Arrest

[1] Assisting Police

A private citizen who assists in making an arrest, or actually makes a citizen's arrest, pursuant to the request or persuasion of a police officer is not liable for false imprisonment, since it would be a misdemeanor for the citizen to refuse to aid the officer in this situation [Peterson v. Robison (1954) 43 Cal. 2d 690, 697, 277 P.2d 19 ; see Penal Code § 150; see also Sokol v. Public Utils. Comm'n (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 247, 257, 53 Cal. Rptr. 673, 418 P.2d 265] . To be liable for false imprisonment, the private citizen must have taken an active part in the arrest [Wilson v. Los Angeles County (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 308, 316-317, 98 Cal. Rptr. 525 , disapproved on other grounds, Cervantez v. J. C. Penney Co. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 579, 592, 156 Cal. Rptr. 198, 595 P.2d 975] , such as directing a policeofficer to arrest the plaintiff [Collins v. Owens (1947) 77 Cal. App. 2d 713, 719, 176 P.2d 372] or actively causing, procuring, or instigating the arrest [Hughes v. Oreb (1951) 36 Cal. 2d 854, 859, 228 P.2d 550] .

The question often arises whether the complaining citizen or the police officer actually made the arrest and is therefore liable for false imprisonment. Since a private person who has made an arrest must deliver the person arrested to a police officer [see Penal Code § 847], the cooperation of a police officer is often involved in what is actually a citizen's arrest. Thus, there is often a question of fact whether a citizen's arrest occurred or whether the citizen involved merely complained to the police who then acted pursuant to the demands of the police in making the arrest [see Ogulin v. Jeffries (1953) 121 Cal. App. 2d 211, 213-214, 263 P.2d 75] .

[2] Giving Information to Police Officers

Unless the elements of malicious prosecution can be proven, statements made to the police regarding potential criminal activity are protected from civil liability by an absolute privilege under Civ. Code § 47(b) [Hagberg v. California Federal Bank (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 350, 355, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 803, 81 P.3d 244 ; Kashian v. Harriman (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 892, 926-927, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 576 ; see Civ. Code § 47(b)]. Therefore, even if the information is false or given in bad faith, a person is immune from liability for giving information to the police leading to a false arrest or imprisonment [Hagberg v. California Fed. Bank (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 350, 373-375, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 803, 81 P.3d 244 ; Mulder v. Pilot Air Freight (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 384, 387, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 828, 81 P.3d 264] . However, the privilege only applies to communications to the police or other officials and does not apply to noncommunicative conduct [see

Mulder v. Pilot Air Freight (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 384, 387, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 828, 81 P.3d 264] .

The absolute privilege applies in this context even if the party making the report to the police allegedly conducts a negligent investigation priorto making the report, and even if third parties may incidentally hear the report [Devis v. Bank of Am. (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 1002, 1008-1012, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 238] . However, the privilege does not apply to the act of making a citizen's arrest, which is affirmative conduct that constitutes more than the communicative act of reporting potential criminal activity to the police [Kesmodel v. Rand (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 1136-1137, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 118] .

For further discussion of the privilege, see Ch. 340, Libel and Slander .

[3] Information Leading to Issuance of Warrant

A private citizen is protected from liability for false imprisonment if that citizen does nothing more than state facts to the magistrate who issues a warrant for arrest, even though the facts are insufficient to show that a crime has been committed. To hold the complainant liable on the basis of the magistrate's mistake in determining that a crime has been committed would be unjust. If a person reports the facts to a magistrate, takes no active part in the arrest, and leaves the matter to the public officials, and if no bad faith appears, that person is not liable merely because the facts stated to the magistrate do not amount to a crime [Gogue v. MacDonald (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 482, 484-485, 218 P.2d 542] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

22-257 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 257.24

§ 257.24 Detention Following Arrest

[1] Taking Before Magistrate

Whether the initial arrest is made with or without a warrant, the police officer who has made the arrest must, without unnecessary delay, take the person arrested before a magistrate [Penal Code §§ 825(a), 849(a)]. Even where the initial arrest is lawful, any unreasonable delay in taking the person arrested before a magistrate will amount to a false imprisonement [Dragna v. White (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 469, 472, 289 P.2d 428 ; City of Newport Beach v. Sasse (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 803, 810, 88 Cal. Rptr. 476] .

Whether there has been an unreasonable delay is generally a question of fact to be determined by the trier of fact [Gorlack v. Ferrari (1960) 184 Cal. App. 2d 702, 711, 7 Cal. Rptr. 699] . The person arrested must, however, in almost all cases, be taken before the magistrate within 48 hours after the arrest, excluding Sundays and holidays [Penal Code § 825(a)(1)]. If the 48-hour period expires at a time when the court in which the magistrate is sitting is not in session, the period is extended to include the duration of the next court session. If the 48-hour period expires at a time when the court is in session, the arraignment may take place at any time during that session. However, if the arrest occurs on a Wednesday after the conclusion of the day's court session (provided that the Wednesday is not a holiday), the defendant must be taken before the magistrate no later than the following Friday, provided that Friday is not a holiday [Penal Code § 825(a)(2)].

The 48-hour provision does not authorize a detention of that length in all cases. Instead, it places a limit on what may be considered a necessary delay. Detention of less than two days, if unreasonable under the circumstances, is a violation of the duty to the person arrested [Dragna v. White (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 469, 473, 289 P.2d 428] . Failure to bring an arrested person before a magistrate cannot be justified on the ground that the delay which occurred was necessary in order to investigate the case [Peckham v. Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. (1939) 36 Cal. App. 2d 214, 218, 97 P.2d 472] .

Where the initial arrest is lawful, subsequent delay in taking the prisoner before the magistrate will not affect the legality of the initial arrest [Dragna v. White (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 469, 473, 289 P.2d 428 ; Gorlack v. Ferrari (1960) 184 Cal. App. 2d 702, 710, 7 Cal. Rptr. 699] . The Supreme Court has disapproved language in decisions to the effect that, when there is an unreasonable delay in taking a person before a magistrate after a lawful arrest, the false imprisonment dates from the time of the arrest or relates back to the time of the initial arrest even where the arrest was lawful [see Dragna v. White (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 469, 473, 289 P.2d 428 (disapproving in that respect Kaufman v. Brown (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 508, 513, 209 P.2d 156 , and Peckham v. Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. (1939) 36 Cal. App.2d 214, 218, 97 P.2d 472)]. The false imprisonment therefore begins, and liability for damages resulting from the imprisonment results, only for that period of the imprisonment which occurs after the period of necessary or reasonable delay [Dragna v. White (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 469, 473, 289 P.2d 428 ; City of Newport Beach v. Sasse (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 803, 810, 88 Cal. Rptr. 476 ; Gorlack v. Ferrari (1960) 184 Cal. App. 2d 702, 710, 7 Cal. Rptr. 699] .

[2] Release on Bail

The failure of a jailer to advise a prisoner that the prisoner is entitled to release after bail has been duly fixed, deposited, and the proper authorization for release delivered to the jailer, gives rise to a cause of action for false imprisonment for so much of the detention that occurs after the conditions for release have been met. Either the intentional or the negligent failure of the jailer to release the prisoner under these circumstances constitutes false imprisonment [Shakespeare v. Pasadena (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 375, 384 n. 6, 40 Cal. Rptr. 863 ; see Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 719, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865] .

All procedures necessary for and required before release on bail may be completed before release without giving rise to liability for false imprisonment. Thus, even where the bail is posted, other statutorily imposed conditions precedent to release, such as booking and fingerprinting, may be completed before release without liability for false imprisonment [Moore v. City & County of San Francisco (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 728, 736, 85 Cal. Rptr. 281 ; see Penal Code § 1295 (booking required)].

It is also possible that reasonable delay could be found where bail had been posted and all procedures completed, but where a large number of prisoners to be processed, the lack of cooperation of the prisoner, and other similar factors excused a delay in release [see Moore v. City & County of San Francisco (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 728, 737, 85 Cal. Rptr. 281] . However, the fact that the prisoner is a danger to himself or the public will not excuse a failure to release. See discussion of the right to bail under § 257.24[3].

The cause of action for false imprisonment following failure of a jailer to release a prisoner who has completed the proper procedures for release on bail is based on the mandatory duty of the jailer to release the prisoner [see Penal Code §§ 1269b(g), 1281, 1295]. The public entity employing the jailer is directly liable for the false imprisonment. Where a public entity is under a mandatory duty imposed by an enactment that is designed to protect against risk of a particular kind of injury, the public entity is liable for an injury of that kind proximately caused by its failure to discharge the duty unless the public entity establishes that it exercised reasonable diligence to discharge the duty [Gov. Code § 815.6]. The duty to release on bail is a mandatory duty designed to protect against the kind of injury caused by false imprisonment, and the public entity is therefore directly liable [Shakespeare v. Pasadena (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 375, 386, 40 Cal. Rptr. 863] .

The jailer is liable as a public employee for injury caused by his or her act or omission to the same extent as a private person [Gov. Code § 820], and nothing in the California Tort Claims Act [Gov. Code § 810 et seq.] grants an immunity for false imprisonment [see Gov. Code § 820.4; Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 715, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865 ; Shakespeare v. Pasadena (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 375, 386, 40 Cal. Rptr. 863] . The public entity employing the jailer is also vicariously liable for the false imprisonment [see Gov. Code § 815.2(a)].

[3] Right to Bail

In general, any person who has been arrested or charged with an offense may be released on bail or on his or her own recognizance, except for persons charged with a capital crime, persons charged with violence against another person when there is evidence that release will result in great bodily harm to others, and persons charged with a felony who have threatened another with great bodily harm when there is substantial likelihood that he or she would do so if released [see Cal. Const., art. I, § 12; Penal Code §§ 1268-1269c (bail), 1270 (own recognizance), 1270.5 (capital offense); see also Penal Code § 1270.1 (hearing for persons charged with violent felonies)]. If the case alleges a misdemeanor offense involving the possession or use of a firearm, or in which there is a violation of specified offenses, the court must take into consideration the factors designated in Penal Code § 1275 in deciding whether to grant or deny a release on the person's own recognizance [see Penal Code § 1270]. Moreover, any authorization for detaining persons dangerous to themselves or others must be found in the proper statutory procedures for detention of the mentally ill, the intoxicated, or those in danger of becoming addicted to drugs. The detention of such persons is not contemplated within the criminal bail system [In re Underwood (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 345, 350-351, 107 Cal. Rptr. 401, 508 P.2d 721] .

[4] Dismissal of Charges

The jailer is liable for false imprisonment if the jailer knew or should have known of the illegality of the imprisonment. If, therefore, the jailer knew or should have known that the plaintiff's incarceration was unlawful because all charges against the plaintiff had been dismissed, then the jailer is liable for false imprisonment. The test requires that the jailer have actual knowledge that the imprisonment of the plaintiff is unlawful or, alternatively, that the jailer have some notice sufficient to put the jailer, as a reasonable person, under a duty to investigate the validity of the incarceration [Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 717-719, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865] .

Gov. Code § 821.6 only immunizes the government and its employees from liability for malicious prosecution, not false imprisonment; failure to release a prisoner when required is false imprisonment, not malicious prosecution [Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 722, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865] , and false imprisonment is expressly exempted from the immunities granted to public employees [see Gov. Code § 820.4].

The employing public entity will be derivatively liable when a public employee is liable for false imprisonment [see Gov. Code § 815.2]. In addition, it may be directly as well as derivatively liable for false imprisonment [Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 715-717, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865] . Where a public entity is under a mandatory duty imposed by statute which is designed to protect against the risk of a particular kind of injury, the public entity is liable for an injury of that kind proximately caused by its failure to discharge the duty unless the public entity establishes that it exercised reasonable diligence to discharge the duty [Gov. Code § 815.6]. Penal Code § 1384 creates a mandatory duty to release a person from custody if the court directs the action against that person to be dismissed [Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 715-716, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865] . No immunity provision in the California Tort Claims Act [Gov. Code § 810 et seq.] insulates a public entity from liability for false imprisonment [Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 715, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865] . Although Gov. Code § 844.6 bars liability of any public entity for an injury to any prisoner [see Gov. Code § 844.6(a)(2)], when a prisoner is detained past the end of his or her jail term or before his or her jail term starts, thenhe or she is not a "prisoner" within the meaning of this statute. The statute does not provide immunity for false imprisonment [see Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 717, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865] .

Chapter 257 FALSE IMPRISONMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

22-257 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 257.25

§ 257.25 Mentally Disordered or Inebriated Persons

[1] Public Liability

The question of whether or not an action for false imprisonment may be brought by a person who has been involuntarily detained in a mental hospital against a public employee or public entity involved in the detention cannot be definitely answered on the basis of present law. Various parts of the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5000 et seq.], the Act which governs the detention of persons who are allegedly mentally disordered or inebriated, affect false imprisonment actions.

When any person, as a result of mental disorder or inebriation, is a danger to himself or to others or is gravely disabled, then a peace officer, member of the attending staff of an evaluation facility, designated members of a mobile crisis team provided by Welf. & Inst. Code § 5651.7 (repealed by Stats. 1991, ch. 89, § 122), or other person designated by the county may, on probable cause, take the person into custody and place that person in a facility designated by the county and approved by the Department of Health as a facility for 72-hour treatment and evaluation [Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 5150 (mental disorder), 5170 (inebriation)]. Thus, probable cause is required for the detention of a mentally disordered or inebriated person.

[2] Detention for More Than 14 Days

The statutes specifically provide that any individual who is knowingly and willfully responsible for detaining a person for more than 14 days, in violation of the provisions under which such detention is allowed, is liable to the person detained in civil damages [see Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 5255, 5265].

[3] Decisional Law Prior to Lanterman-Petris-Short Act

In a case decided before the enactment of either the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5000 et seq.] or the California Tort Claims Act [Gov. Code §§ 810-996.6], the court of appeal held that the establishment of the lack of probable cause is a necessary element in an action for false arrest or imprisonment of a person allegedly mentally disordered. The court also held that while normally the conviction or acquittal of the person imprisoned is immaterial in an action for false imprisonment, the findings of psychiatrists and the act of a court in committing a person to a mental hospital are elements to be considered in determining the existence of probable cause for detention of an allegedly mentally disordered person [see Whaley v. Kirby (1962) 208 Cal. App. 2d 232, 237-238, 25 Cal. Rptr. 50 , disapproved on other grounds, Cervantez v. J. C. Penney Co. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 579, 592, 156 Cal. Rptr. 198, 595 P.2d 975] .

After enactment of the California Tort Claims Act [Gov. Code §§ 810-996.6] and before the enactment of the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act, however, a court of appeal held that Gov. Code § 855.8 gives immunity to government entities and employees for diagnosis or preliminary diagnosis of mental illness resulting in confinement and that there is thus no liability for false imprisonment [see Fish v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 327, 333-334, 54 Cal. Rptr. 656] .

[4] Failure of Sheriff to Serve Order

On the other hand, where service of a notice of hearing is essential to a valid detention order in a mental commitment proceeding, failure of the sheriff to serve the notice will make the sheriff liable for false imprisonment. Jurisdiction in the special civil commitment proceeding depends on strict compliance with statutory procedures. Since the sheriff is under a mandatory duty to serve the notice, failure to perform this duty will subject the sheriff, and the county as the sheriff's employer, to liability [Culbertson v. Santa Clara County (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 274, 276, 67 Cal. Rptr. 752 (decided under former Welf. & Inst. Code § 5050.2, now Welf. & Inst. Code § 5208)].

[5] Liability of Private Persons

A private person may apply to the person or agency designated by the county for a petition alleging that there is a person who is, as a result of a mental disorder, a danger to others, or to himself, or is gravely disabled, and requesting that an evaluation of the person's condition be made under court order [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5201]. An individual who seeks a petition for court-ordered evaluation knowing that the person for whom the petition is sought is not, as a result of mental disorder, a danger to himself, or to others, or gravely disabled, is liable in civil damages to the person against whom the petition is sought [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5203]. In addition, the involuntary detention of a person under Welf. & Inst. Code § 5150 made without probable cause may constitute the basis of a claim for false imprisonment [see Brimmer v. California Charter Med., Inc. (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 678, 684-686, 225 Cal. Rptr. 752] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

22-257 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 257.26

§ 257.26 Damages

[1] Compensatory

A plaintiff in a false imprisonment action is entitled to damages in an amount which will compensate for all detriment proximately caused by thedefendant's acts, whether it could have been anticipated or not [see Civ. Code § 3333]. The amount of money which will compensate the plaintiff for a false imprisonment is not the subject of exact computation. In such cases, the amount of damages is left to the sound discretion of the jury, unless the amount is obviously disproportionate to the injury [Gibson v. J. C. Penney Co., Inc. (1958) 165 Cal. App. 2d 640, 646-647, 331 P.2d 1057] . On appeal, a compensatory damage award will be found excessive only if the award is so grossly disproportionate to a sum reasonably warranted by the facts that it shocks the conscience and raises a presumption it was the result of passion or prejudice [Washington v. Farlice (1991) 1 Cal. App. 4th 766, 773, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 607] .

In false imprisonment cases, extreme anxiety or emotional distress is one of the elements of damage caused by the tortious act, and damages for this suffering may be awarded as part of compensatory damages [Schanafelt v. Seaboard Fin. Co. (1951) 108 Cal. App. 2d 420, 423, 239 P.2d 42] . Also, damages to the plaintiff's reputation in the community, such as those resulting from newspaper publicity following the filing of a claim against a public entity, are recoverable as a proximate result of a false imprisonment [see Gill v. Epstein (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 611, 617, 44 Cal. Rptr. 45, 401 P.2d 397 (disapproved on other grounds in Manta Management Corp. v. City of San Bernardino (2008) 43 Cal. 4th 400, 412 n.7, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 353, 181 P.3d 159)].

A police officer's liability for unlawful arrest does not include damages caused by incarceration following the arrestee's arraignment on formal charges. The Legislature's imposition of liability when a police officer causes a suspect to be confined unlawfully [Gov. Code § 820.4], coupled with the legislature's grant of absolute immunity when a police officer maliciously and without probable cause causes a suspect to be confined through the initiation of lawful process [Gov. Code § 820.4], evidences a legislative intent to shield police officers from liability for damages that are attributable to a suspect's incarceration following the institution of lawful process [Asgari v. City of Los Angeles (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 744, 758 n.10, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 842, 937 P.2d 273 (to permit an arrestee to recover damages arising from incarceration following his or her arraignment on formal charges effectively would nullify, in part, the statutory immunity for malicious prosecution; declining to follow the decision in Gill v. Epstein (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 611, 44 Cal.

Rptr. 45, 401 P.2d 397 , superseded by statute as stated in Asgari v. City of L.A. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 744, 758 and disapproving the decision in Jackson v. City of San Diego (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 579, 175 Cal. Rptr. 395 , to the extent they hold that the recovery of damages for post-arraignment confinement is permitted)].

However, this rule does not prevent a plaintiff from seeking damages for injuries suffered after the arraignment that were caused by false arrest and imprisonment that preceded the arraignment. For example, a plaintiff may seek damages for emotional or physical injuries that were suffered after an arraignment if they were a continuation of injuries that were caused by a pre-arraignment arrest and imprisonment [County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 212, 222-224, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 668] .

[2] Punitive

[a] Oppression, Fraud, or Malice

Punitive damages may be awarded in a false imprisonment action when clear and convincing evidence supports the existence of oppression, fraud, or malice [Civ. Code § 3294(a); see also Parrott v. Bank of Am. (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 14, 24, 217 P.2d 89 (decided before 1987 amendment to Civ. Code § 3294)]. For discussion and forms relating to punitive damages, see Ch. 177, Damages .

Punitive damages may be awarded where defendant has been guilty only of oppression [see Civ. Code § 3294], and malice need not be shown separately [Schanafelt v. Seaboard Fin. Co. (1951) 108 Cal. App. 2d 420, 423, 239 P.2d 42] .

[b] Liability of Private Employers

An employer will not be liable for punitive damages under Civ. Code § 3294(a) for the acts of an employee unless the employer had advance knowledge of the employee's unfitness, and employed him or her with conscious disregard for the safety or rights of others, or authorized or ratified the wrongful conduct for which punitive damages are awarded, or was personally guilty of malice, fraud, or oppression [Civ. Code § 3294(b)]. With respect to corporate employers, the employer will not be liable for punitive damages for the acts of an employee unless an officer, director, or managing agent of the corporation had advance knowledge of the unfitness of the employee, and employed him or her anyway with conscious disregard of the safety or rights of others, or unless an officer, director, or managing agent authorized or ratified the wrongful act of the employee, or personally committed an act of malice, fraud, or oppression [Civ. Code § 3294(b)].

The trier of fact may determine that in following the company's usual procedures, the conduct of the employee was known and directed by the company. Ratification is a question of fact. The burden of proving its existence rests on the party asserting it, but it may be proved by circumstantial as well as direct evidence. Anything that shows the intention of the principal to adopt or approve the act in question is sufficient. For example, the failure of the principal to repudiate the act as soon as the principal is fully informed of it may bind the principal on the theory that the principal has ratified the act by implication [Hale v. Farmers Ins. Exch. (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 681, 692, 117 Cal. Rptr. 146 (decided before codification of vicarious liability provisions of Civ. Code § 3294)].

In the case of a corporate defendant, when a false imprisonment occurs without the consent or knowledge of the board of directors or governing officers of a corporation, and there is no subsequent ratification by the board or officials of the action of the corporation's agents, there can be no punitive damages against the corporation [Alterauge v. Los Angeles Turf Club (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 735, 740, 218 P.2d 802 (decided before codification of vicarious liability provisions of Civ. Code § 3294)]. Further, the employer will not be liable for punitive damages for acts of employees done within the scope of duty but with excessive zeal or force unless the superior officers of the corporation had either expressly sanctioned these excessive acts of violence or had subsequently ratified them with full knowledge of their extent andcharacter [McInerney v. United R.R. (1920) 50 Cal. App. 538, 547, 195 P. 958 (decided before codification of vicarious liability provisions of Civ. Code § 3294)], or had hired an unfit employee with conscious disregard of the rights or safety of others [Civ. Code § 3294(b)].

[a] False Imprisonment

Either fraud or deceit is possible basis for false imprisonment [see Penal Code § 237]; however, threats of divine retribution are no basis for false imprisonment claim, because such threats are constitutionally protected religious speech. Molko v. Rios (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 445, 450, 222 Cal. Rptr. 913

Cause of action for false imprisonment requires detention without color of legal authority; no cause of action stated when judicially noticed facts showedthat plaintiff's detention was under color of law, although it violated prior agreement granting plaintiff immunity from prosecution. Scannell v. County of Riverside (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 596, 607-608, 615, 199 Cal. Rptr. 644

False arrest is only one way of committing false imprisonment. Collins v. City & County of San Francisco (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 671, 673, 123 Cal. Rptr. 525

False arrest is merely one way of committing false imprisonment. Moore v. City & County of San Franciso (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 728, 735, 85 Cal. Rptr. 281

Restraint occurs if defendant uses words or threats that plaintiff fears to disregard, such as threat of arrest and prosecution. Parrott v. Bank of Am. (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 14, 23, 217 P.2d 89

False imprisonment is accomplished by actual force; threats, either by conduct or words; or legal authority. Vandiveer v. Charters (1930) 110 Cal. App. 347, 355, 294 P. 440

Whether words or conduct of defendant were sufficient to cause plaintiff, as reasonable person, to fear use of force and coercion if plaintiff failed to remain where defendant wanted plaintiff was question of fact for trier of fact. Vandiveer v. Charters (1930) 110 Cal. App. 347, 356, 294 P. 440

Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865* ; Scannell v. County of Riverside (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 596, 604-605, 199 Cal. Rptr. 644

Penal Code § 1384 creates mandatory duty to release prisoner from custody when courts direct charges to be dismissed; Gov. Code § 815.6 creates liability for failure to use reasonable diligence to discharge mandatory duty. Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 715, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865

Person detained past end of jail term is not "prisoner" within meaning of Gov. Code § 844.6 barring liability of any public entity for injury to any prisoner, so that public entity may be liable for false imprisonment. Sullivan v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 717, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865

Although imprisonment originally lawful and court-ordered may become actionable if release is delayed beyond lawful limits, such delay was not due to sheriff's failure to report immediately plaintiff's favorable blood tests since sheriff has no duty to establish system whereby test results would be brought affirmatively to attention of district attorney or plaintiff or plaintiff's counsel. Tribulski v. County of Los Angeles (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 828, 831, 146 Cal. Rptr. 229

[c] Taking Before Magistrate

Delay of even few hours is possibly unnecessary for purposes of determining what is unnecessary delay under Penal Code §§ 847 and 849 requiring person arrested by private person or without warrant to be brought before magistrate without unnecessary delay. People v. Haydel (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 190, 199, 115 Cal. Rptr. 394, 524 P.2d 866

Where initial arrest is lawful, subsequent unreasonable delay in bringing person before magistrate does not affect legality of arrest, although it will subject offending person to liability for imprisonment which occurs after period of necessary or reasonable delay. Dragna v. White (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 469, 473, 289 P.2d 428 ; City of Newport Beach v. Sasse (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 803, 810, 88 Cal. Rptr. 476

Action for false imprisonment is based on unlawful detention of prisoner for unreasonable period of time and unnecessary delay in bringing prisoner before magistrate as required by Penal Code; Penal Code § 825(a), providing that arrestee must be brought before magistrate within two days after arrest, does not authorize two-day detention in all cases, but provides limit on detention. Dragna v. White (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 469, 472-473, 289 P.2d 428

Duty to bring prisoner before magistrate is even more imperative where arrest is made without warrant. Dragna v. White (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 469, 473, 289 P.2d 428

Unreasonable delay in taking prisoner before magistrate does not affect legality of arrest, but causes liability for imprisonment during period of unlawful delay; reasonableness of delay is question of fact. Gorlack v. Ferrari (1960) 184 Cal. App. 2d 702, 711, 7 Cal. Rptr. 699

Person making arrest without warrant has duty to bring person arrested before magistrate without unnecessary delay; question of reasonableness of delay is question of fact for jury. Kaufman v. Brown (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 508, 513-514, 209 P.2d 156

Person detained pursuant to lawful arrest has no cause of action for false arrest, but possibly has cause of action for false imprisonment based on unreasonable delay in taking person before magistrate. Kaufman v. Brown (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 508, 511, 209 P.2d 156

Peace officer making arrest without warrant was not able to justify failure to bring person arrested before magistrate within reasonable time on ground that delay was necessary to investigate case. Peckham v. Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. (1939) 36 Cal. App. 2d 214, 218, 97 P.2d 472

[d] Release on Bail

Intentional failure to advise prisoner of right to release and following detention gives rise to cause of action for false imprisonment. Moore v. City & County of San Francisco (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 728, 737, 85 Cal. Rptr. 281 ; Shakespeare v. Pasadena (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 375, 384, 40 Cal. Rptr. 863

Unreasonable delay in releasing prisoner after posting of bail gives rise to cause of action for false imprisonment. Moore v. City & County of San Francisco (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 728, 85 Cal. Rptr. 281

Detention for booking of arrrestee after bail has been posted does not amount to false imprisonment as matter of law; only unnecessary delay is actionable. Moore v. City & County of San Francisco (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 728, 737, 85 Cal. Rptr. 281

Jailers are liable for false imprisonment if they refuse or fail to release prisoners when under duty to do so. Shakespeare v. Pasadena (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 375, 386, 40 Cal. Rptr. 863

[6] Joinder of Other Actions

Malicious prosecution and false imprisonment are inconsistent actions; plaintiff possibly required to elect on which count to go to jury. Collins v. City & County of San Francisco (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 671, 676, 123 Cal. Rptr. 525

Causes of action for false imprisonment and malicious prosecution are allowed to be joined and stated in separate counts. Bulkley v. Klein (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 742, 747, 23 Cal. Rptr. 855

Action against racetrack, guard agency, and guards for false imprisonment, assault and battery, and malicious prosecution, arising out of plaintiff's ejectment from recetrack. Griswold v. Hollywood Turf Club (1951) 106 Cal. App. 2d 578, 580, 235 P.2d 656

Allegation of assault and battery is aggravating circumstance in action for false imprisonment rather than separate cause of action. Oppenheimer v. Los Angeles (1951) 104 Cal. App. 2d 551, 553-554, 232 P.2d 30

[7] Liability for Issuance of Warrants

[b] Judges and Magistrates

Immunity of judges for civil liability applies even if judge acts maliciously or corruptly. Paddleford v. Biscay (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 139, 143, 99 Cal. Rptr. 220

Distinction exists between excess of jurisdiction and clear absence of all jurisdiction over subject matter. Paddleford v. Biscay (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 139, 143-144, 99 Cal. Rptr. 220

Determination of existence of jurisdiction is judicial duty and error in that determination is itself within rule of judicial immunity, as long as any reasonable ground for assumption of jurisdiction exists. Lewis v. Linn (1962) 209 Cal. App. 2d 394, 397-398, 26 Cal. Rptr. 6

Judge is immune from civil liability for every act performed within general scope of official duty, even though malice is charged. Taliaferro v. Contra Costa County (1960) 182 Cal. App. 2d 587, 592-593, 6 Cal. Rptr. 231

If judge could have reasonably believed that he or she had jurisdiction, allegations of malice and corrupt motives will not raise issue of possible liability for civil damages despite judicial immunity. Taliaferro v. Contra Costa County (1960) 182 Cal. App. 2d 587, 592-593, 6 Cal. Rptr. 231

Where judicial officer honestly and in good faith without malice or corruption erroneously decides he or she has jurisdiction, officer is not liable for civil damages. Taliaferro v. Contra Costa County (1960) 182 Cal. App. 2d 587, 592-593, 6 Cal. Rptr. 231

Bogen (1957) 147 Cal. App. 2d 515, 525, 305 P.2d 893*

Procedural irregularities committed by judicial officer in connection with detention do not negate rule of judicial immunity for civil actions for damages if officer was acting within general scope of subject matter over which he or she has power. Singer v. Bogen (1957) 147 Cal. App. 2d 515, 525, 305 P.2d 893

Release on habeas corpus does not indicate that judicial officer lacked jurisdiction in such way as to remove immunity from civil liability for false improsonment. Singer v. Bogen (1957) 147 Cal. App. 2d 515, 525-526, 305 P.2d 893

[8] Liability for Serving Warrant

[a] Arrest of Wrong Person

Arresting officers and sheriff were not liable for false imprisonment on basis of arresting wrong person three times because warrant was apparently valid on its face and gave accurate name, address, and description of plaintiff; officers were under no duty to determine authenticity and accuracy of disposition paper shown by plaintiff stating that plaintiff was not person named in warrant. Lopez v. City of Oxnard (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1, 7-12, 254 Cal. Rptr. 556

[b] Malice

Malice in obtaining warrant by withholding exculpatory evidence from magistrate, if done deliberately or with reckless disregard of plaintiff's libertyinterest, may defeat claim of immunity under Civ. Code § 43.55. Laible v. Superior Court (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 44, 52-53, 203 Cal. Rptr. 513

[c] Warrant Valid on its Face

Duty of sheriff is to execute orders of court unless they are patently irregular and void; technical defects are not patent irregularity. Vallindras v. Massachusetts Bonding & Ins. Co. (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 149, 153-154, 265 P.2d 907

Validity of process sufficient to protect officer serving it from liability for false imprisonment is determined on basis of whether process appears valid in judgment of ordinarily intelligent lay person, unless there is clear absence of jurisdiction in issuing court or magistrate. Vallindras v. Massachusetts Bonding & Ins. Co. (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 149, 154, 265 P.2d 907

Release of person held pursuant to process on habeas corpus due to invalidity of process does not indicate civil liability of person serving process and imprisoning plaintiff falsely; different standards for validity of process apply. Vallindras v. Massachusetts Bonding & Ins. Co. (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 149, 151-152, 265 P.2d 907

Warrant is valid on its face if it proceeds from court, officer, or body having authority to issue process of that kind, and it is legal in form and contains nothing to fairly notify anyone that it is issued without authority. Muller v. Reagh (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 831, 838, 30 Cal. Rptr. 633

Duty of police officers is to make arrest if they have received warrant valid on its face. Malone v. Carey (1936) 17 Cal. App. 2d. 505, 506, 62 P.2d 166

[9] Malicious Prosecution Distinguished

False imprisonment and malicious prosecution are mutually inconsistent torts; cause of action for malicious prosecution is proper remedy if detention is malicious, but accomplished by procedurally valid means; cause of action for false imprisonment is proper remedy if plaintiff is arrested pursuant to procedurally improper warrant or warrantless arrest. Cummings v. Farmers Ins. Exch. (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1407, 1422, 249 Cal. Rptr. 568

Malicious prosecution involves malicious detention under due forms of law, whereas false imprisonment involves detention without color of legal authority; arrest and detention in violation of prior grant of immunity from prosecution, but under color of authority, therefore states offense of malicious prosecution, not false imprisonment. Scannell v. County of Riverside (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 596, 607-608, 199 Cal. Rptr. 644

Malicious prosecution distinguished from false imprisonment; termination of prosecution favorable to person prosecuted is essential to claim of malicious prosecution, whereas subsequent exoneration of arrestee has no bearing on validity of arrest for purposes of false imprisonment. Gomez v. Garcia (1980) 112 Cal. App. 3d 392, 399, 169 Cal. Rptr. 350

Malicious prosecution is detention under due forms of law, whereas false imprisonment is detention without color of legal authority. Collins v. City & County of San Francisco (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 671, 676-677, 123 Cal. Rptr. 525

Glass (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 359, 362, 282 P.2d 501*

[b] Arrest Resulting From Entrapment

Proper test of entrapment in California is whether conduct of law enforcement agent was likely to induce normally law-abiding person to commit offense for which arrested; official conduct amounting to no more than offering opportunity to commit crime is permissible; overbearing conduct such as badgering, cajoling, or importuning is impermissible. People v. Barraza (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 675, 689-690, 153 Cal. Rptr. 459, 591 P.2d 947

Offense committed as result of entrapment is not valid defense to action for false arrest or imprisonment. Beauregard v. Wingard (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 760, 764-765, 47 Cal. Rptr. 279

[c] Determination of Reasonable Cause

Existence of reasonable cause for arrest is question of law. Wilson v. Los Angeles County (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 308, 316, 98 Cal. Rptr. 525 , disapproved on other grounds, Cervantez v. J. C. Penney Co. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 579, 592, 156 Cal. Rptr. 198, 595 P.2d 975 ; White v. Martin (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 641, 643, 30 Cal. Rptr. 367

Question of probable cause is one for court; jury is allowed to determine existence of disputed facts on which probable cause depends; court is required to determine whether facts amount to probable cause. Aitken v. White (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 134, 141, 208 P.2d 788

Reviewing court determines, as matter of law, on basis of evidence found below whether probable cause existed for arrest. Mackie v. Ambassador Hotel & Inv. Corp. (1932) 123 Cap App 215, 220, 11 P.2d 3

[d] Evidence of Reasonable Cause

Warrantless search of suspect's home in absence of exigent circumstances does not immunize police officers from civil liabiilty under Penal Code § 847(a). George v. City of Long Beach (9th Cir. 1992) 973 F.2d 706

Information furnished by victim of crime, as opposed to information furnished by untested informant or anonymous informer, is sufficient to justify arrest with probable cause. Wilson v. Los Angeles County (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 308, 314-315, 98 Cal. Rptr. 525 , disapproved on other grounds, Cervantez v. J. C. Penney Co. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 579, 592, 156 Cal. Rptr. 198, 595 P.2d 975

Reliable information furnishing probable cause for arrest does not lose its reliability when it is transmitted through official channels to arresting officer. Wilson v. Los Angeles County (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 308, 315, 98 Cal. Rptr. 525 , disapproved on other grounds, Cervantez v. J. C. Penney Co. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 579, 592, 156 Cal. Rptr. 198, 595 P.2d 975

Probable cause to arrest without warrant depends on facts and circumstances of case; existence of probable cause must be determined in accordance with circumstances at time of detention. White v. Martin (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 641, 650-651, 30 Cal. Rptr. 367

Private detective's report, and reputation and prior acts of plaintiff, are admissible on question of existence of probable cause to arrest plaintiff. Aitken v. White (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 134, 145, 208 P.2d 788

Probable cause to arrest existed because plaintiff held revolver on peace officers attempting to enter room in which plaintiff was trespasser. Wilson v. Loustalot (1948) 85 Cal. App. 2d 316, 322, 193 P.2d 127

Plea of guilty in subsequent criminal action against plaintiff in false imprisonment action is admissible but not conclusive on issue of justification for arrest where arrest is without warrant. Collins v. Owens (1947) 77 Cal. App. 2d 713, 717, 176 P.2d 372

[e] Reasonable Cause

Test for probable cause is whether evidence would suggest strong suspicion, not whether it would support conviction. Mercurius v. Rolon (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 359, 362, 41 Cal. Rptr. 789

Probable cause to arrest is defense to case of false imprisonment for arrest without warrant. White v. Martin (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 641, 643, 30 Cal. Rptr. 367

f. Facts tending to show warrant not valid on its face. Such facts will rarely amount to invalidity on face of warrant [see Collins v. City & County of San Francisco (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 671, 677-678, 123 Cal. Rptr. 525] .

g. Facts tending to show that plaintiff attempted to show that plaintiff was not the person named in the warrant.

a. Place, dates, and conditions of imprisonment.

b. Date of expiration of jail term or of dismissal of charges.

c. Facts tending to show that sheriff or other jailer knew or reasonably should have known that charges had been dismissed or sentence had expired [Sullivan v. County of LosAngeles (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 710, 718-719, 117 Cal. Rptr. 241, 527 P.2d 865] .

d. Facts mitigating damages such as fact that plaintiff was released without filing of a complaint and arrest was deemed a detention or subsequent plea or verdict of guilty.

e. Facts showing existence of oppression, fraud, or malice which would give rise to punitive damages [Civ. Code § 3294].

10. Procedures necessary where defendant is a governmental entity or employee:

Officers: California Tort Claims Act .

b. The complaint should allege the presentation and denial or other action on the claim [see Gov. Code § 945.4].

c. The applicable statutory limitation of time for filing the complaint may be affected by the fact that one or more defendants is a public entity. In order to hold the public entity liable, it will be necessary to comply with the special statutory limitation period [see, e.g., Gov. Code § 945.6 and, for procedures and forms, see Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act].

d. Generally, the filing of a claim against the public entity employer is necessary for the maintenance of a cause of action against a public employee [see Gov. Code §§ 950.2, 950.6].

NOTE:
Judicial relief is available in some cases for a plaintiff who has not timely filed a claim and who has been refused permission to file a late claim [see Gov. Code § 946.6].

§ 257.61 Defendant's Checklist

NOTE:
The following checklist is illustrative only of the basic points which counsel for a defendant in a false imprisonment action should cover.

[1] Facts to Be Ascertained

NOTE:
Not all of the following facts will be ascertainable from the client in the initial interview. Subsequent interviews may be required or it may be necessary to ascertain facts from others, including the plaintiff, by use of discovery proceedings.

1. Facts relating to defendant:

a. Name, address, and telephone number of defendant.

b. Capacity of defendant such as corporation, unincorporated association, agent, employee, public entity, public employer, peace officer, security guard, or licensed private detective.

c. Additional facts, as desired, relating to defendant's stability and financial solvency such as employment status, prior residences, credit, bank, and personal references.

2. Facts required for the answer:

NOTE:
Counsel should advise his or her client not to discuss the case with any third person, where additional causes of action for libel or slander may be involved.

a. Date, manner, and place of service of complaint and summons.

b. Allegations of complaint.

Ascertain which of the facts alleged in the complaint are true, which are false, and which ones defendant does not know the truth or falsity of.

c. Affirmative defenses.

NOTE:
Affirmative defenses can be raised by demurrer, as well as by answer, where they appear on the face of the complaint or from matters of which the court must or may take judicial notice [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.10, 430.30].

[2] Possible Defenses

1. That detention of plaintiff by defendant private citizen was justified as a reasonable detention in a reasonable manner for purposes of investigation of an interference with or theft of defendant's property being committed by plaintiff [Collyer v. S.H. Kress & Co. (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 175, 180-181, 54 P.2d 20] .

2. That a citizen's arrest was justified by the proper statutory grounds [see Penal Code § 837].

3. That a citizen's arrest was performed by defendant at the demand of a police officer [see Peterson v. Robison (1954) 43 Cal. 2d 690, 697, 277 P.2d 19] .

4. That defendant only gave information leading to the arrest of plaintiff to the police [Hagberg v. Cal. Fed. Bank (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 350, 355, 373-375, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 803, 81 P.3d 244] .

5. That a warrantless arrest by a peace officer was lawful [see Penal Code §§ 836, 836.5, 847(b)(1)].

6. That an arrest with a warrant was made pursuant to a warrant valid on its face, without malice, in the reasonable belief that the person arrested was the person named in the warrant [Civ. Code § 43.5].

7. That a delay in taking an arrested person before a magistrate was reasonable under the circumstances [see Penal Code §§ 822, 825(a), 849(a); Dragna v. White (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 469, 473, 289 P.2d 428] .

8. Statute of limitations [Code Civ. Proc. § 340(c)].

9. Failure to file a claim with the defendant public entity [see § 257.85].

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use in an action for false imprisonment of the plaintiff by a private individual or individuals acting without color of legal authority and making no arrest nor filing any criminal charges against plaintiff.

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges the following:

- Acts of defendant showing restraint of plaintiff against his or her will by force or threats of force (Paragraph 4).

- Facts showing that defendant was without probable cause or good-faith belief that he or she had justification for restraining plaintiff (Paragraph 5) [see Coyne v. Nelson (1951) 107 Cal. App. 2d 469, 475, 237 P.2d 45 (lack of probable cause or good faith for detention relevant to showing of malice for punitive damages)].

- Malice on the part of defendant (Paragraph 6) [Civ. Code § 3294].

[4] Specification of Damages

In an action to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded for this cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages for anything other than personal injury or wrongful death (for example, property damage) must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)] or an equivalent statement must be included, for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

No claim for punitive damages may state an amount sought regardless of the nature of the case [Civ. Code § 3295(e)].

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought if they are not stated in the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115], see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments .

[5] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude the defendant from using a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion see Ch. 26, Answers .

[6] Jurisdiction

The superior court has jurisdiction of the action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less, in which case it will be classified as a limited civil case [Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(1)].

In limited civil cases, the caption must identify the case as a limited civil case and must state whether the demand exceeds or does not exceed $10,000 [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Gov. Code § 70613(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9), (10)].

[7] Venue

[a] Individuals

Where the defendant in a false imprisonment action is an individual, venue isgoverned by Code Civ. Proc. § 395. Therefore, except as otherwise provided by law and subject to the power of the court to transfer actions or proceedings as provided in the statutes, the county in which the defendants or some of them reside at the commencement of the action is the proper county for the trial of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 395]. Because the statute further provides that if the action is for injury to the person, either the county where the injury occurs or the county where the defendants or some of them reside is the proper county, it might be thought that the action could be commenced in the county where the false imprisonment occurred even if the defendants do not reside there [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395]. However, "injury to person" as used in Code Civ. Proc. § 395 does not include a wrong to the person such as false imprisonment. It is limited to physical injury or incapacity [Monk v. Ehret (1923) 192 Cal. 186, 192-193, 219 P. 452 ; Johnson v. Superior Court (1965) 232 Cal. App. 2d 212, 218, 42 Cal. Rptr. 645] .

[b] Corporations

Where the defendant is a corporation, proper venue will exist in the county where the liability arises or in the county where the corporation has its principal place of business [Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5]. In false imprisonment actions, the liability arises at the time and place of the imprisonment for the purpose of determining venue [Sea World, Inc. v. Superior Court (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 100, 104-105, 91 Cal. Rptr. 336] .

[8] Copies

The following copies of the complaint should be prepared:

- Original for filing with the court;
- One copy for each defendant to be served with summons;
- One office file copy; and
- Other copies as desired.

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use in an action for false imprisonment resulting from an unlawful arrest without a warrant by a peace officer.

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges the following:

- A claim was presented to the public entity employing the arresting officer and that the claim was rejected entirely or in part (Paragraph 3).

- The plaintiff was arrested without a warrant or other legal process (such as an order of commitment) (Paragraph 4).

- The arrest was without probable cause to believe that plaintiff had committed a crime (Paragraph 4) [see Penal Code § 836(a); Dragna v. White (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 469, 471, 289 P.2d 428] .

- The plaintiff was detained or imprisoned (Paragraph 5) [Dragna v. White (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 469, 471, 289 P.2d 428] .

- The plaintiff suffered special damages in the form of payment to secure his or her release from jail, e.g., premium on bail bond or attorney's fees for writ of habeas corpus (Paragraph 6).

- The plaintiff suffered special damages in the form of attorney's fees for arraignment and trial (Paragraph 7).

[4] Probable Cause for Arrest

A cause of action for false imprisonment is stated where it is alleged that there was an arrest without process, followed by imprisonment and damages. On proof of those facts, the burden is on defendant to prove justification for the arrest. Considerations of both a practical and policy nature underlie this rule. The existence of justification is a matter which ordinarily lies peculiarly within the knowledge of defendant, and plaintiff would encounter almost insurmountable practical problems in attempting to prove the negative proposition of the nonexistence of any justification. This rule also serves to assure that official intermeddling is justified, as it is a serious matter to accuse someone of committing a crime and to arrest him or her without the protection of the warrant process [Cervantez v. J. C. Penney Co. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 579, 592, 156 Cal. Rptr. 198, 595 P.2d 975] .

[1] FORM Allegation--False Imprisonment--Arrest Pursuant to Warrant With No Reasonable Belief That Person Arrested Was Person Named in Warrant [Civ. Code § 43.55]

On or about _____ [date], at or about _____ [time], defendant served on plaintiff a warrant of arrest, a copy of which is attached to this complaint as Exhibit A and made a part hereof, and took plaintiff into custody pursuant to the purported authority of the attached warrant. In so acting, defendant _____ [name of arresting officer] acted without a reasonable belief that the plaintiff was the person named in the attached warrant, in that the warrant names _____ [name of person on warrant], whereas the true, correct, and only name by which plaintiff is, or has ever been, known is _____ [state]. Plaintiff, at the time of the service of the warrant and his/her arrest, offered to show to defendant _____ [name of officer] various pieces of valid identification showing the true name of plaintiff, which would have shown that plaintiff was not the person named in the warrant of arrest attached hereto, but defendant refused all attempts of plaintiff to identify himself/herself.

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges:

Defendant had probable cause to believe that the arrest and detention of the plaintiff was lawful in that at the time of the arrest defendant was a peace officer acting in the course and scope of his/her authority and was on duty patrolling the general area where plaintiff was apprehended; defendant _____ [specify facts, e.g., observed plaintiff moving about in an unlighted business building at or about _____ (time); on apprehending plaintiff, defendant requested that he/she show some identification and explain his/her presence in the building at that time of the morning; plaintiff refused to comply with the request to establish his/her identity and refused to offer any explanation as to his/her presence in the building; the area where defendant was assigned to patrol had experienced a high incidence of burglaries prior to the time plaintiff was apprehended in the building, and the combined facts of such high incidence of crime, the type of building involved, the fact that no lights were on in the building, the late hour, and plaintiff's steadfast refusal to identify himself/herself or justify his/her presence in the building in spite of repeated requests that he/she do so, constituted reasonable cause to believe that the plaintiff was engaged in committing a crime at the time of his/her apprehension].

The delay in taking plaintiff before a magistrate alleged in plaintiff's complaint resulted from the fact that plaintiff was physically unable to appear before a magistrate at the time of his/her arrest and he/she required immediate medical attention, which was administered to plaintiff at _____ Hospital. Plaintiff was in fact taken before a magistrate as soon as he/she was physically able to make such appearance.

- General principles relating to enforcement of judgments [see §§ 258.10 -258.22].
- Writs of execution [see §§ 258.30 -258.43].
- Liens [see §§ 258.50 -258.54].
- Furnishing security for support orders or property divisions [see §§ 258.60 -258.64].
- Appointment of receivers [see §§ 258.70 -258.73].

§ 258.10 Governing Law

The Family Code authorizes enforcement of a judgment or order made pursuant to that Code by execution, appointment of a receiver, contempt, or by such other order as the court in its discretion determines from time to time to be necessary [Fam. Code § 290].

Enforcement of child, family, or spousal support orders is governed generally by Fam. Code § 4500 et seq. Execution of judgments and liens are governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 699.010 et seq and Code Civ. Proc. § 697.010 et seq, respectively. Enforcement of family law orders by writ of execution is governed by Fam. Code § 5100 et seq. The furnishing of deposits for security is governed by Fam. Code §§ 290, 4012, 4600-4641, and 4339. The appointment of receivers is governed by Fam. Code § 290 and Code Civ. Proc. §§ 564-570. Enforcement of family law orders by contempt is governed by Fam. Code § 290 and Code Civ. Proc. § 128(a)(4), 177(2), 177.5, 178, 1209-1222.

§ 258.11 Entry of Judgment as Prerequisite to Enforcement

A judgment may not be enforced until it has been entered [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 664, 683.010]. If the court grants a motion orally, enforcement may not be had until the clerk enters the ruling and order in the court minutes. If the court grants a motion in writing, enforcement may not be had until the order is filed [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1003 (court's direction is an "order" when made or entered in writing); In re Marriage of Drake (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1170, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 466] .

§ 258.12 Renewal of Judgments

[1] Period of Enforceability; Extension by Application for Renewal

A money judgment or judgment for the possession or sale of property that is made or entered under the Family Code, including a judgment for child, family, or spousal support, is enforceable until it is paid in full or otherwise satisfied [Fam. Code § 291(a)]. These judgments are exempt from any requirement that a judgment be renewed. A failure to renew such a judgment has no effect on its enforceability [Fam. Code § 291(b)]. However, such a judgment may be renewed under Code of Civil Procedure Section 683.110 et seq. An application for renewal may be filed at any time if the judgment has not previously been renewed as to past due amounts [Fam. Code § 291(c)(1)]. An application for renewal may also be filed if the judgment has previously been renewed at any time after a period of at least five years has elapsed from the time of the previous renewal; the renewal may cover the amount of the judgment as previously renewed and any past due amounts that became due and payable after the previous renewal [Fam. Code § 291(c)(2)].

A judgment creditor may renew a judgment by filing an application for renewal of the judgment with the court in which the judgment was entered [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.120(a)]. On the filing of the application, the clerk must enter the renewal of the judgment in the court records without the need for any further proceedings or order of the court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 683.150(a)].

Except as otherwise provided by statute, the filing of the application renews the judgment for another 10-year period from the date on which the application is filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.120(b)]. In the case of a money judgment payable in installments, the amount of the judgment as renewed [see [3], below] is treated as a lump-sum money judgment entered on the date on which the application is filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.120(c)].

When a judgment expires, all enforcement procedures pursuant to the judgment or to a writ or order issued pursuant to the judgment cease [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.020(b)]. If a judgment is renewed, any pending enforcement proceeding that otherwise would have ceased may be continued if, before the end of the prior 10-year period of enforceability, a certified copy of the application for renewal is filed in the enforcement proceeding or with the levying officer, receiver, or other officer acting pursuant to a writ or order [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.200]. A judgment may be renewed notwithstanding any stay of enforcement of the judgment. However, the renewal does not affect the stay [Code Civ. Proc. 683.210].

If a judgment is renewed, the date on which the application for renewal was filed is the date that the statute of limitations begins to run for enforcement of the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.220; see Code Civ. Proc. § 337.5(3) (limitation period for action to enforce judgment)].

[2] Period for Filing Renewal Application

[a] Lump-Sum Money Judgment or Judgment for Possession or Sale of Property

In the case of a lump-sum money judgment or a judgment for possession or sale of property, the application for renewal may be filed at any time before the expiration of the 10-year period of enforceability [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.130(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 683.020]. In the case of a second or subsequent renewal, the application may be filed at any time after the first five years but before the expiration of the ongoing 10-year period of enforceability [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 683.110(b), 683.130(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 683.170 (grounds for vacating renewal); see also [4], below].

[b] Money Judgment Payable in Installments

In the case of a money judgment payable in installments, other than a judgment for child, family or spousal support [see Fam. Code § 4502; see also [5], below], the first application for renewal may be filed at any time as to past due amounts that at the time of filing are not barred by the expiration of the 10-year period of enforceability [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.130(b)(1); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 683.020, 683.030 (period of enforceability)]. In the case of second or subsequent renewals, amounts that were previously renewed are treated as lump-sum judgments for purposes of the time for filing the application. As to amounts that became due and payable after the previous renewal, the application must be filed before the expiration of the then-effective 10-year renewal period [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.130(b)(2); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 683.020, 683.030 (period of enforceability)].

[3] Amount of Renewed Judgment

The entry of renewal of a money judgment must show the amount of the judgment as renewed. This amount is the amount that is required to satisfy the judgment on the date on which the application for renewal is filed and includes the filing fee for the application [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.150(b)].

In the case of a money judgment payable in installments and not previously renewed, the amount of the judgment as renewed is the total of the past due installments, the costs added to the judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 685.090], the accrued interest that remains unsatisfied and is enforceable on the date on which the application is filed, and the application filing fee [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.150(c)].

In the case of a money judgment payable in installments and previously renewed, the amount of the judgment as renewed under the latest renewal is the total of the following that remains unsatisfied and is enforceable on the date on which the latest application is filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.150(d)]:

- The amount of the judgment as renewed under the previous renewal;
- The past due installments that became due and payable after the previous renewal;
- The costs that have been added on judgment after the previous renewal [see Code Civ. Proc. § 685.090];
- The interest that has accrued on the foregoing since the last renewal; and

- The filing fee for the application of renewal.

Interest on a money judgment accrues from the date of entry of the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.020(a)]. Interest on a money judgment payable in installments accrues with regard to each installment on the date the installment becomes due [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.020(b)]. For purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 685.020, only the initial support order, whether temporary or final, and whether or not the order is contained in a judgment, may be considered an installment judgment [Fam. Code § 155]. No support order or other order or notice issued, that sets forth the amount of support owned for prior time periods or establishes a periodic payment to liquidate the support order for prior periods, may be considered a money judgment for purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 685.020(b) [Fam. Code § 155]. For discussion of accrued interest on support arrearages, see Chapter 259, § 259.16.

[4] Vacation of Renewal

A renewal of a judgment may be vacated on any ground that would be a defense to an action on the judgment, including the ground that the amount of the renewed judgment as entered is incorrect [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.170(a)]. The renewal may also be vacated on the ground that the judgment was satisfied by an accord and satisfaction or that the judgment creditor is estopped to enforce the judgment [In re Marriage of Thompson (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 1049, 1058, 1060, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 882] . The renewal must be vacated if the application for renewal was filed within five years from the time when the judgment was previously renewed [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.170(a)].

No later than 30 days after service of the notice of renewal, the judgment debtor may apply by noticed motion for an order of the court vacating the renewal of the judgment. The notice of motion must be served on the judgment creditor personally or by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.170(b)].

On the hearing on the motion, the renewal may be vacated on any applicable ground, but another and different renewal may then be entered, including, but not limited to, the renewal of the judgment in a different amount if the decision of the court is that the judgment creditor is entitled to a renewal in a different amount [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.170(c)].

A renewal is not subject to attack, however, on the ground that the judgment debtor does not have sufficient personal contacts with California to establish personal jurisdiction when the renewal was entered [Goldman v. Simpson (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 255, 261-264, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 729] . A court has continuing jurisdiction under Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50, which is derived from its jurisdiction over the judgment debtor at the time of the original judgment, to enter the renewal [Goldman v. Simpson (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 255, 263-264, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 729] . A renewal is also not subject to attack on the ground that there was no danger that the judgment would not be paid [OCM Principal Opportunities Fund, L.P. v. CIBC World Markets Corp. (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 185, 193-194, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 350] .

[5] Judgment for Child or Spousal Support Is Exempt From Renewal Requirement

A judgment for child support, spousal support, or family support, and a judgment for reimbursement of public assistance benefits or other arrearages, including all lawful interest and penalties computed on the arrearages, is exempt from any requirement that judgments be renewed, if that judgment was entered on or after January 1, 1993, or was in existence as of that date [Fam. Code §§ 291(a), (b), 4502; In re Marriage of Sweeney (1999) 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 298 ; see In re Marriage of Cordero (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 653, 660, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787 ; In re Marriage of Cutler (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 460, 473, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 156] . Those support judgments are enforceable until paid in full even after the child reaches 18 years of age [Fam. Code § 291(a)]. However, if a pre-1993 judgment was extinguished before January 1, 1993, it would no longer be enforceable [In re Marriage of Cutler (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 460, 473, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 156 ; In re Marriage of Sweeney (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 343, 347, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 298 ; for related discussion, see § 259.12].

Although support judgments are not required to be renewed, they may be renewed under the procedure applicable to money judgments generally. The option of renewing the judgment has no effect on the enforceability of the amount due [Fam. Code § 291(b), (c); see Code Civ. Proc. § 683.110 et seq.]. An application for renewal of a support judgment may be filed if the judgment has not previously been renewed as to past due amounts at any time [Fam. Code § 291(c)(1)]. If the judgment has previously been renewed, the amount of the judgment as previously renewed and any past due amount that became due and payable after the previous renewal may be renewed at any time after a period of at least five years has elapsed from the time the judgment was previously renewed [Fam. Code § 291(c)(2)]. Renewal of a support judgment allows for compounding of interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.150(c); In re Marriage of Thompson (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 1049, 1057, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 882] . In the case of an amended judgment, the 10-year period within which the judgment creditor must renew the judgment begins on the date the amended judgment was entered, not on the date the original judgment was entered [In re Marriage of Wilcox (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 492, 502, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 315] .

In an action to enforce a judgment for child, family, or spousal support, the defendant may raise, and the court may consider, laches as a defense only with respect to any portion of the judgment the defendant owes to the state [Fam. Code § 291(d)]. Before the legislative enactment of this provision, laches was available as a defense to child support arrearages as well as spousal support arrearages [In re Dancy (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 1142, 1147-1160, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 775 ; In re Marriage of Copeman (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 324, 328-333, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 801 ; In re Marriage of Fogarty & Rasbeary (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 1353, 1360-1364, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 653] . However, the California Supreme Court has held that this statute operates retroactively and bars a laches defense even when the failure to make payments occurred before the statute's enactment [In re Marriage of Fellows (2006) 39 Cal. 4th 179, 183-190, 46 Cal. Rptr. 3d 49, 138 P.3d 200] .

The renewal of a judgment is not an appealable event because entry of the renewal is solely a ministerial act, and there is no separate entity called a "renewed judgment." There is merely "the judgment," which remains enforceable for an additional period and for which interest is calculated differently after renewal, but the rights of the judgment creditor arise from the original judgment [Jonathan Neil & Assocs., Inc. v. Jones (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 1481, 1487, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 350] . If the original judgment is reversed on appeal, the renewal, which has no independent existence, is reversed along with it by operation of law [Jonathan Neil & Assocs., Inc. v. Jones (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 1481, 1481-1491, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 350] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

22-258 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 258.13

§ 258.13 Obtaining Orders

[1] By Motion or Order to Show Cause

Many orders pertaining to enforcement proceedings may be sought by motion, by order to show cause, or by special statutory procedure in some cases. Court orders after judgment are often sought by order to show cause rather than by noticed motion, although this is not required by any statute, and either procedure is correct, provided the party to whom the paper is directed has appeared in the proceeding. If he or she has not appeared, then the order to show cause procedure must be used [for discussion of motions and orders to show cause in family law matters, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure , and Kirkland, Lurvey, and Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2d ed., Ch. 95 (Matthew Bender)]. The Judicial Council has prescribed standard forms of Order to Show Cause [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-300; see also In re Marriage of Monge (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 911, 914-915, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 524] , Notice of Motion [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-301], Application for Order and Supporting Declaration [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310], and Responsive Declaration [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-320]. These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

Motion procedure in civil actions generally is discussed in Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

[2] Service of Notice

After the entry of a judgment of dissolution or legal separation, after a declaration of a void or voidable marriage or judgment of paternity, or after a permanent order in any other proceeding in which the custody or support of a minor child is at issue, no modification of the judgment or order is valid, and no subsequent order in the proceeding is valid, unless any required notice is given directly to the party required to be notified. Under these circumstances, service of notice on the party's attorney of record is not sufficient [Fam. Code § 215; see Albrecht v. Superior Court (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 612, 615-617, 183 Cal. Rptr. 417 (decided under substantially identical provisions of former Civ. Code § 4809)]. As a matter of courtesy, however, a copy of any notice of motion or order to show cause served on the adverse party should be mailed to the party's last attorney of record, if any.

One court of appeal, however, has held that former Civ. Code § 4809 (now see Fam. Code § 215) should not be interpreted to prevent service of postdecree show cause orders on a respondent's attorney of record if the attorney has just instituted an attack on the judgment on behalf of the respondent. The court reasoned that the statute was designed to cure the problem that arises when the attack on a final judgment is made many years after the dissolution has become final and service is made on an attorney who has long since lost track of his or her client [In re Marriage of Askren (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 205, 210-211, 203 Cal. Rptr. 606 (decided under former Civ. Code § 4809)].

[3] Transfer of Enforcement Proceeding

In any enforcement proceeding after a final judgment in a family law proceeding, if it appears that both parties have moved out of the county where the judgment was entered, the court may order that the proceeding be transferred to the county of residence of either party. However, the transfer will be ordered only if it promotes the ends of justice and the convenience of the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 397.5].

Because transfer of an enforcement proceeding is similar to a change of venue, the normal procedure for effecting a change of venue should be followed, to the extent it is appropriate. For a discussion of motions for change of venue, see Ch. 571, Venue , and Kirkland, Lurvey, and Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2d ed., Vol. 4, Ch. 93 (Matthew Bender).

22-258 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 258.14

§ 258.14 Attorney's Fees and Costs

[1] In General

The court may order attorney's fees and costs to be paid by either party in any proceeding for an order of enforcement [see Fam. Code §§ 2010(f), 2030(c); In re Marriage of Janssen (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 425, 428-429, 121 Cal. Rptr. 701 (decided under former Civ. Code § 4370)]. For further discussion of the court's general power to order payment of attorney's fees and costs in a family law proceeding, see Ch. 226, Dissolution of Marriage: Attorney's Fees , and Kirkland, Lurvey, and Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2d ed., vol. 2, Ch. 62 (Matthew Bender).

[2] Mandatory Order in Proceeding to Enforce Existing Support Order

In any action to enforce an existing order for child or spousal support, or to impose a penalty on delinquent child support payments under Fam. Code § 4720 et seq., the court must order the obligor-parent to pay reasonable attorney's fees to the custodial parent (in a proceeding to enforce a child support order) or supported spouse (in a proceeding to enforce a spousal support order), absent good cause to the contrary [Fam. Code § 3557]. The court must determine that the obligor has the ability to pay and consider the respective incomes and needs of the parties in order to ensure that each has access to legal representation to preserve all of his or her rights [Fam. Code § 3557]. One court has found that good cause for denying a fee request exists if no support is found to be due [see In re Marriage of Schenck (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1474, 1485, 279 Cal. Rptr. 651 (decided under identical provisions of former Civ. Code § 4370(c), (d))]. Attorney's fees may be ordered to be paid to a prevailing obligee in an interstate enforcement action under UIFSA [Uniform Interstate Family Act--Fam. Code § 4900 et seq., as discussed in Ch.260, Enforcement of Out-of-State Family Law Judgments] but may not be ordered against either an individual obligee or a governmental support enforcement agency [Fam. Code § 4927(b)].

Orders for attorney's fees and costs are further discussed in Kirkland, Lurvey, and Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2d ed., vol. 2, Ch. 62 (Matthew Bender).

[3] Enforcement by Attorney

Instead of requiring payment of attorney's fees and costs to the party to whom fees and costs were awarded, the court may in its discretion order the obligated party to make payment directly to the attorney [see Fam. Code § 272(a)]. When the court makes an order requiring direct payment to the attorney, the attorney may pursue enforcement in his or her own name [see Fam. Code § 272(b)]. Disobedience of an order for payment of fees and costs to an attorney may be punished as contempt [see Sorell v. Superior Court (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 157, 159-160, 56 Cal. Rptr. 222 ; § 258.80 et seq.].

If the attorney attempts to enforce an order for attorney's fees after ceasing to represent the party, the party is entitled to apply for a reallocation of the fees to cover the expense, if any, of retaining another attorney. Therefore, the former attorney must give 10 days' written notice to the party or the successor attorney of any application for enforcement. Notice is required even if the party has not retained another attorney. Proof of notice must be filed. If the party moves, during the 10-day period, for reallocation of the fees, the attorney may not undertake enforcement until after the court rules on the motion [see Fam. Code § 272(c)].

§ 258.15 Denial of Enforcement Rights to Party in Contempt

No party who is in contempt of a court order or judgment in a dissolution of marriage or legal separation proceeding may enforce the order or judgment by way of execution or otherwise, either in the same action or by a separate action against the other party. However, this restriction does not apply to the enforcement of child or spousal support orders [Code Civ. Proc. § 1218(b)]. For discussion of the effect of interference with visitation and child concealment on enforcement of child support, see Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement . 22-258 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 258.16

§ 258.16 Bankruptcy

[1] Effect on Support Obligation

[a] General Rule of Nondischargeability

A discharge in bankruptcy does not discharge the debtor from any debt to a spouse, former spouse, or child of the debtor for spousal or child support in connection with a separation agreement, divorce decree, court order, or property settlement agreement [11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(5); Cal-Western Reconveyance Corp. v. Reed (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 1308, 1320, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 244 ; see Foster v. Bradbury (In re Foster) (2003) 319 F.3d 495, 499 (interest on nondischargeable child support obligations, like interest on nondischargeable tax debt, continues to accrue after Ch.13 petition filed and is not dischargeable)]. However, a debt for support may be discharged in bankruptcy if it has been assigned by the obligee to another entity, voluntarily, by operation of law, or otherwise, other than a debt assigned to a public entity as a condition of receiving certain public assistance payments [see 42 U.S.C. § 602(a)(2); Welf. & Inst. Code § 11477(a); see 42 U.S.C. § 656(b) (debt for child support obligation that is enforceable under Part D, Subchapter IV, of Ch. 7 of 42 U.S.C. is not dischargeable in bankruptcy)], or a debt that has been assigned to the federal government, or to a state, or to any political subdivision of a state [11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(5)(A)]. The actual nature of the debt as one for support and not the name by which it is designated determines dischargeability [11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(5)(B); see Sloan v. Mitchell (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 47, 50-52, 104 Cal. Rptr. 418] .

An obligation for attorney's fees ordered payable as child support is also not discharged in bankruptcy, but a prospective order to pay attorney's fees that is not designated to be payable as child support is discharged [Cal-Western Reconveyance Corp. v. Reed (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 1308, 1320, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 244].

[b] Characterization of Obligation as Support

In determining whether the debtor's obligation is in the nature of support and therefore nondischargeable in bankruptcy, the parties' intent at the time of executing the settlement agreement is dispositive. The court should consider whether the recipient spouse needed support at the time of the dissolution, whether the obligation terminates on the recipient spouse's death or remarriage, whether the payments are made directly to the recipient spouse and are paid in installments over a substantial time period, and the labels given to the payments by the parties [In re Sternberg (9th Cir. 1996) 85 F.3d 1400, 1405 ; see In re Kritt (9th Cir. BAP 1995) 190 Bankr. 382, 387 (award of community property to wife in marital settlement agreement constituted spousal support and was nondischargeable debt; court properly looked beyond label given obligation to parties' intent and substance of obligation)].

However, whether an obligation arising out of a separation or divorce is nondischargeable support is a question of federal law, and the bankruptcy court is not bound by how the obligation is characterized by either the parties or the state court [see In re Seixas (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1999) 239 B.R. 398, 1999 Bankr. LEXIS 1245 (debtor's obligation to pay one-half of children's college expenses, pursuant to marital settlement agreement, was nondischargeable child support obligation); see also In re Marriage of Sprague & Spiegel-Sprague (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 215, 216, 220-222, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 261 (husband failed to seek relief from automatic stay in wife's bankruptcy to pursue action in state court to characterize Borson attorney fees as nondischargeable debt; therefore state court order characterizing the attorney fees as nondischargeable was void, and husband's claim for attorney fees was discharged in bankruptcy)].

[c] Reimbursement for Public Assistance Benefits

The dischargeability of obligations owed to a public entity, such as a county, for the support of a child through public assistance benefits has been an issue of continuing controversy. As discussed hereafter, although cases initially held such obligations dischargeable with respect to benefits furnished before a California support order was in place, later changes to federal bankruptcy and welfare law appear to create a rule of nondischargeability--at least with respect to bankruptcy cases commenced after August 22, 1996.

In two cases decided before changes to the applicable sections of the Bankruptcy Code and federal welfare law, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals held that a parent's debt to a county for reimbursement of AFDC payments made to the other parent before entry of a support order is dischargeable [see In re Ramirez (9th Cir. 1986) 795 F.2d 1494, 1496-1498 , cert. denied, 481 U.S. 1003 (1987) ; see also In re Visness (9th Cir. 1995) 57 F. 3d 775, 777-781] . In each case, the county had obtained an order under (now former) Welf. & Inst. Code § 11350 for reimbursement of public assistance benefits provided during a period in which the noncustodial parent was not subject to any support order or agreement requiring support. In the leading case, In re Ramirez, the noncustodial parent filed for Chapter 7 bankruptcy and sought to determine dischargeability of the reimbursement judgment under a former version of 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(5), which provided that a child support debt that was assigned to another entity was dischargeable in bankruptcy, unless the debt was assigned pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 602(a)(26). The Ninth Circuit held that such a debt was dischargeable because it had not been assigned pursuant to Section 602(a)(26), which provides for the assignment of only those support rights which have already accrued at the time the assignment is executed. Under California law, a right to child support does not accrue in favor of the custodial parent or child until a court order establishes the noncustodial parent's support duty. Therefore, a noncustodial parent's debt to the county for reimbursement of the benefits would not have arisen from an assignment of rights pursuant to the federal statute, but from the operation of former Welf. & Inst. Code § 11350 [see In re Ramirez (9th Cir. 1986) 795 F.2d 1494, 1496-1498 , cert. denied, 481 U.S. 1003 (1987) ; see also In re Visness (9th Cir. 1995) 57 F. 3d 775, 777-781 (adhering to reasoning of Ramirez); cf. In re Cervantes (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1999) 229 B.R. 19, 24 n.9 (declining to address issue of whether right to support may accrue in absence of support order under revised Welf. & Inst. Code § 11350(a))].

However, the continued vitality of In re Ramirez and cases following it is questionable for bankruptcy proceedings that were initiated after August 22, 1996, when changes were introduced to the Bankruptcy Code and federal welfare law [see Pub. L. No. 104-93 (amending 42 U.S.C. § 656(b) (eff. Aug. 22, 1996) and 42 U.S.C. § 656(a) (eff. July 1, 1997), and adding 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(18) and 42 U.S.C. § 608(a)(3) (eff. July 1, 1997)); see also In re Leibowitz (9th Cir. 2000) 217 F. 3d 799 (Ninth Circuit's holdings in Ramirez and Visness no longer applicable in light of new statutory scheme)]. The Bankruptcy Code now provides that a debt owed under state law to a state or a municipality is nondischargeable if it is "in the nature of support" and enforceable under part D of Title IV of the Social Security Act [11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(18)]. Section 602(a)(26) of 42 U.S.C. has been replaced by 42 U.S.C. § 608(a)(3), which requires a family member to assign to the state any rights to support which accrue before the date the family ceases to receive government assistance. Under this provision, a court order for child support and reimbursement obtained by the state before the applicant ceases to receive assistance gives rise to a valid right which accrues before assistance ceases and which can therefore be assigned [see In re Cervantes (9th Cir. 2000) 219 F. 3d 955 ; In re Leibowitz (9th Cir. 2000) 217 F. 3d 799] . Therefore, it appears that the most recent statutory changes will make the public support reimbursement obligation nondischargeable for cases brought after August 22, 1996, even if no preexisting California support order were in place, but this interpretation is subject to further judicial or legislative confirmation.

[d] Creditors' Rights After Bankruptcy Action Commenced

[i] Continuing Right to Enforce Support Obligation

A support obligee may bring suit on his or her claim in any appropriate non-bankruptcy forum, even after the close of the bankruptcy proceeding. It is not necessary for the bankruptcy court to determine the dischargeability of the debt, and the obligee need not object to the discharge in the bankruptcy proceeding [see 11 U.S.C. § 523(c)(1); In re Marriage of Henderson (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 531, 534, 275 Cal. Rptr. 226 , and bankruptcy authorities cited therein].

[ii] Right to Appear at Bankruptcy Proceedings

As a result of provisions of the Bankruptcy Reform Act of 1994, child support creditors or their representatives may appear at bankruptcy proceedings without charge and without having to meet any local rule requirements for attorney appearances [see Pub. L. No. 103-394, § 304(g)].

[iii] Remedial Orders by California Court if Discharge Occurs

If child support obligations are discharged in bankruptcy, a California court may make all proper orders for the support, maintenance, and education of the child as the court may deem just [Fam. Code § 4013]. A similar rule applies to a discharged obligation for spousal support [see Fam. Code § 3592].

[iv] Exceptions to Automatic Stay in Bankuptcy for Support Collection or Criminal Proceedings Against Debtor

The automatic stay of other proceedings that generally goes into effect on the filing of a bankruptcy petition does not operate as a stay of any proceeding for the collection of support from property that is not property of the estate [11 U.S.C. § 362(b)(2)(B)]. For bankruptcy proceedings commenced on or after October 24, 1994 [see Pub. L. No. 103-394, § 702], the Bankruptcy Reform Act of 1994 has expanded this exception to the automatic stay to include proceedings to establish paternity and proceedings to establish or modify child or spousal support [11 U.S.C. § 362(b)(2)(A)].

Another exception to the automatic stay allows for the commencement or continuation of criminal proceedings against the debtor [11 U.S.C. § 362(b)(1)]. Therefore, a bankruptcy petition does not shield the debtor from criminal prosecution under Penal Code § 270 for willful failure to pay child support. Nor does it, by itself, establish that the debtor lacked the "willfulness" required by that section [People v. Gruntz (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 412, 421, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 55] .

[v] Treatment of Support as Priority Claim

Support obligations are further protected in bankruptcy proceedings commenced on or after October 24, 1994, by other provisions of the Bankruptcy Reform Act of 1994 [see Pub. L. No. 103-394, § 702]. A trustee may no longer avoid a debtor's prepetition transfer of funds to pay bona fide support obligations [11 U.S.C. § 547(c)(7)]. Also, claims made against a bankruptcy estate for support are now seventh in the statutory order for priority of claims, ahead of tax claims [11 U.S.C. § 507(a)(7)].

[2] Effect on Judicial Lien to Secure Spousal Obligation

For bankruptcy cases commenced on or after October 24, 1994 [see Pub. L. No. 103-394, § 702], the Bankruptcy Reform Act of 1994 generally eliminates a debtor's ability to avoid a judicial lien if it secures a debt for support to a spouse, former spouse, or child of the debtor [11 U.S.C. § 522(f)(1)(A)(i)]. The lien may still be avoided if the debt is assigned to another entity or is not actually a debt for support [11 U.S.C. § 522(f)(1)(A)(ii)].

This provision was intended to supplement the reach of a 1991 United States Supreme Court decision, Farrey v. Sanderfoot (1991) 500 U.S. 291, 294, 111 S. Ct. 1825, 114 L. Ed. 2d 337, 346-347 , in which the Court held that a former husband could not avoid a judicial lien on the prior marital home securing the wife's interest under their property division because he did not possess his interest before the lien attached [see Cong. Rec. H10752-01, Sec. 304; see also In re Barnes (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1996) 198 B.R. 779 ; In re Catli (9th Cir. 1993) 999 F.2d 1405] . However, the amendment does not affect the issue of whether a judicial lien that secures a property interest can ever be avoided, and the Supreme Court's statutory construction of 11 U.S.C. § 522(f)(1)(A), making a distinction based on whether the lien attaches simultaneously with or subsequent to the creation of the debtor-spouse's interest, remains pertinent [see In re Catli (9th Cir. 1993) 999 F.2d 1405, 1406-1408] . This determination is a question of state law [In re Catli (9th Cir. 1993) 999 F.2d 1405, 1408 (husband's interest and wife's lien securing note for half of proceeds of sale of family home attached simultaneously under Washington state community property law; therefore, lien may not be avoided by husband's refusal to sell and declaring bankruptcy)].

[3] Effect on Property Division

Before October 24, 1994, interspousal debts arising from or based on the division of the parties' community property were not among the debts that were nondischargeable in bankruptcy [see former 11 U.S.C. § 523(a) before amendment by Pub. L. No. 103-394, § 304]. Therefore, interspousal property settlement obligations were dischargeable in bankruptcy [see In re Teichman (9th Cir. 1985) 774 F.2d 1395, 1397-1400 (division of husband's military retirement benefits in dissolution judgment created dischargeable debt with regard to payments due prior to filing of bankruptcy petition; however, post-petition payments were not debts and, therefore, were not subject to discharge)], and enforcement (collection) was thereby precluded [see Smalley v. Smalley (1959) 176 Cal. App. 2d 374, 375-376] . The crucial matter for determination was whether an interspousal obligation was actually one for support or one in settlement of the parties' property rights [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Williams (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 1215, 1220-1221, 203 Cal. Rptr. 909] .

However, the Bankruptcy Reform Act of 1994 created a new exception from discharge for some debts arising out of dissolution or separation that are not in the nature of support. For bankruptcy cases filed on or after October 24, 1994, regardless of when the family law debt at issue was incurred [see Pub. L. No. 103-394, § 702], a discharge in bankruptcy does not automatically discharge nonsupport debts incurred in the course of a dissolution or separation, or in connection with a separation agreement, divorce decree, or other family law order [11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(15)]. An example of such a debt is a payment to the other spouse that is required to equalize the division of community property.

However, the exception to discharge of 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(15) is not limited to interspousal obligations [cf. 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(5) (only support obligations to spouse, former spouse, or child are nondischargeable; debt to third party that is in nature of support, such as to child care provider, remains dischargeable)]. Therefore, debts to third persons assigned to one spouse in a property settlement agreement or dissolution judgment, who thereby must hold the other spouse harmless, may be nondischargeable under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(15).

A nonsupport debt remains dischargeable if the debtor does not have the ability to pay it from income or property that is not reasonably necessary to be expended for the maintenance or support of the debtor or a dependent of the debtor, and if the debtor is engaged in business, from the payment of expenditures necessary for the continuation, preservation, and operation of the business [11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(15)(A)]. The debt is also dischargeable if it would result in a benefit to the debtor that outweighs the detrimental consequences to a spouse, former spouse, or child [11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(15)(B)]. Therefore, the bankruptcy court retains considerable discretion with regard to the discharge of nonsupport obligations incurred under a dissolution settlement or judgment.

If a nonsupport debt is alleged to be nondischargeable, the creditor must apply to the bankruptcy court for a determination of nondischargeability during the bankruptcy proceeding and within the time permitted by law [11 U.S.C. § 523(c)(1); see also In re Gendreau (9th Cir. BAP 1995) 191 Bankr. 798, 800-805 (husband's obligation under dissolution decree to pay ERISA pension plan benefits to former wife was nondischargeable debt)]. The creditor spouse has the burden of demonstrating that the debtor spouse incurred the debt in connection with a family law action; then the burden shifts to the debtor to prove at least one of the above bases for dischargeability (his or her inability to pay or a benefit from discharge that outweighs the harm to the creditor) [In re Jodoin (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1997) 209 B.R. 132, 141 ; see, e.g., In re Myrvang (9th Cir. 2000) 232 F.3d 1116, 1123 ; In re Haines (1997) 210 B.R. 586, 590] .

In assessing the debtor's ability to pay, the disposable income test [11 U.S.C. § 1325(b)(2)] provides an "excellent reference point" [In re Jodoin (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1997) 209 B.R. 132, 142] . However, it has been noted that besides the disposable income test, courts have employed a variety of approaches in determining a debtor's ability to pay a divorce-related debt [In re Myrvang (9th Cir. 2000) 232 F.3d 1116, 1120 (debtor had ability to pay because maintenance payments would be reduced and ended in near future, leaving him with more disposable income)]. The bankruptcy court has the discretion to order a partial discharge even though the statute does not expressly authorize a partial discharge [In re Myrvang (9th Cir. 2000) 232 F.3d 1116, 1125 (court's order compelling debtor to repay his debt over five-year period was upheld, but imposition of $73,000 penalty for late payment was reversed)]. However, the court must make express findings to support its order of partial discharge [In re Myrvang (9th Cir 2000) 232 F.3d 1116, 1126] .

Moreover, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals held that the income of a person who lives with a debtor in a romantic relationship may be considered in determining a debtor's ability to pay a debt incurred in a judgment of dissolution, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(15), whenever the debtor and the live-in romantic companion are economically interdependent or form a single economic unit [In re Short (9th Cir. 2000) 232 F.3d 1018, 1024] . The question of whether a debtor and a live-in romantic companion are financially interdependent or form a single economic unit is "a fact-intensive inquiry that will vary from case to case," involving such factors as (1) the length of the relationship, (2) the extent of the commingled assets or shared liabilities, and (3) evidence of a debtor's efforts to hide assets in the accounts of a live-in romantic companion [In re Short (9th Cir. 2000) 232 F.3d 1018, 1024] .

If a creditor fails to request a determination of nondischargeability in the bankruptcy proceeding, then a debt that allegedly falls within the nondischargeability exception will be discharged, and a California court may not make a determination of nondischargeability [see In re Marriage of Williams (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 1215, 1222, 203 Cal. Rptr. 909] .

A nonsupport debt is not automatically dischargeable because it falls outside the exception created by 11 U.S.C. § Code 523(a)(15). The debt may in some cases be characterized as falling within one of the categories of other nondischargeable debts [see 11 U.S.C. § 523(a); see also In re Gendreau (9th Cir. BAP 1995) 191 Bankr. 798, 800-805 (husband's obligation under dissolution decree to pay ERISA pension plan benefits to former wife was nondischargeable debt)]. However, if the debt is alleged to be nondischargeable under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(2), (4), or (6) (debt for consideration obtained by false pretenses, fiduciary fraud or defalcation, or willful or malicious injury), the creditor must also apply to the bankruptcy court for a determination of nondischargeability [11 U.S.C. § 523(c)(1); see In re Marriage of Williams (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 1215, 1222, 203 Cal. Rptr. 909] . The fraud required in that latter section requires that the debtor actually intend to defraud the creditor and that the debt arise as a result of the fraud [In re Tsurukawa, 258 B.R. 192, 198 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 2001)] . In addition, absent an agency relationship, usually arising out of a partnership, marital status alone is not a sufficient basis for imputing fraud of one spouse to the other spouse for purposes for dischargeability of a debt [In re Tsurukawa (9th Cir. BA.P. 2001) 258 B.R. 192, 198] .

Even if a debt does not fall within a statutory category of nondischargeability, it should still be closely examined to determine whether the debtor is actually the individual who has responsibility for the underlying obligation. In one case, for example, involving a Qualified Domestic Relations Order that assigned one-half of an employee's pension plan to his former spouse, the court held that the claim was not discharged by the employee's bankruptcy because it was a claim against the pension plan, rather than a personal claim against the employee [In re Gendreau (9th Cir. 1997) 122 F.3d 815, 818 ; see also In re Lowenschuss (9th Cir. 1999) 170 F. 3d 923, 929-930 (because Pennsylvania court's award to wife of share of pension using immediate offset method was immediate and actual distribution of pension plan assets and not merely money judgment against husband, award was nondischargeable in husband's bankruptcy)].

If one spouse's nonsupport debt is discharged in bankruptcy, the other spouse usually remains liable to the creditor, which, in turn, upsets the equal division of community property and obligations [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Clements (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 737, 743-744, 184 Cal. Rptr. 756 ; see also Sanwa Bank of California v. Chang (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1314, 1319, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 330 (community property residence that was fraudulently conveyed to wife remained subject to community debts after wife's husband was discharged from bankruptcy)]. For this reason, a California family law court may increase spousal support under Fam. Code § 3592 after a discharge in bankruptcy if spousal support jurisdiction is retained [see In re Marriage of Lynn (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 120, 125-126, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611 (discharge may be considered "changed circumstance"); In re Siragusa (9th Cir. 1994) 27 F.3d 406, 408 (affirming jurisdiction of state court to increase spousal support after discharge of property settlement in bankruptcy)]. However, the court may not modify a previously approved property agreement to allow for a set-off of discharged debts because this type of modification frustrates the intent and purpose of bankruptcy law and violates the supremacy clause of the United States Constitution [In re Marriage of Williams (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 1215, 1224-1227, 203 Cal. Rptr. 909 ; see In re Marriage of Cohen (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 836, 840, 164 Cal. Rptr. 672] . If there is no agreement, the court may award increased spousal support under Fam. Code § 3592 only after considering all of the factors set forth in Fam. Code § 4320 for determining spousal support [In re Marriage of Lynn (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 120, 130-134, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611] .

A spouse's discharge in bankruptcy does not effect a transmutation of exempted property [see 11 U.S.C. 522(b) (property that debtor may exempt from bankruptcy estate)] from community property to the debtor spouse's separate property, nor does it divest a dissolution court of its jurisdiction to divide community interests in the exempted property [In re Marriage of Seligman (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 300, 308-309, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 209 (debtor-wife unsuccessfully maintained that family court lacked jurisdiction to divide community property items that bankruptcy court had adjudged to be her exempt property); cf. In re Roosevelt (9th Cir. 1996) 87 F.3d 311, 313-318 (husband's transfer of real property to wife as her separate property was made when parties executed marital settlement agreement; date of execution, not date of recording, is used to determine whether transfer occurred more than one year before husband filed for bankruptcy); In re Mantle (9th Cir. BAP 1996) 196 Bankr. 513, 515-517 (proceeds of court-ordered sale of family home placed in escrow pending reimbursement of wife's separate property downpayment were not community property funds belonging to husband's bankruptcy estate)]. For a complete discussion of property transmutations, see Ch. 122, Community Property . For further discussion and forms for use in bankruptcy proceedings, see Ch. 94, Bankruptcy .

[4] Attorney's Fees

[a] Dischargeability

A debt for the payment of a spouse's attorney's fees may be nondischargeable in bankruptcy under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(5) (see [1], above) if the fee obligation can fairly be characterized as additional spousal support. If the fees are ordered on the ground of the spouse's need to obtain adequate legal representation, as is usually the case, then the fee obligation is considered to be support and is nondischargeable [In re Spong (2d Cir. 1981) 661 F.2d 6, 9 ; Matter of Gwinn, II (9th Cir. BAP 1982) 6 C.B.C. 2d 1114, 1115-1116, 9 B.C.D. 147 (following Spong); see Matter of Catlow (9th Cir. 1981) 663 F.2d 960, 961 ; Jones v. Tyson (9th Cir. 1975) 518 F.2d 678, 680-681] . Similarly, at least one decision holds that an award of attorney's fees payable to the attorney for the custodial parent in postdissolution child custody proceedings is considered to be child support and is a nondischargeable debt in bankruptcy [In re Ratcliff (1996) 195 Bankr. 466, 467-468] . By contrast, a party's court-ordered obligation to pay one-half of the fees of court-appointed health care professionals and a guardian ad litem in a child custody dispute has been found to be dischargeable [In re Chang (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1997) 210 B.R. 578, 583] .

If attorney's fees are listed in a bankruptcy petition as an unsecured debt, the creditor may ask the bankruptcy court to make a determination that the attorneys fees are nondischargeable, or apply to the bankruptcy court for relief from the automatic bankruptcy stay, so that a state court can make a determination of dischargeability of the debt [In re Marriage of Sprague & Spiegel-Sprague (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 215, 216, 220-222, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 261] .

The attorney is considered a third-party beneficiary of the award and not an assignee, and therefore has standing to object to dischargeability of the fee obligation in bankruptcy court, and presumably to proceed with collection in state court [In re Spong (2d Cir. 1981) 661 F.2d 6, 9-11 ; Matter of Gwinn, II (9th Cir. BAP 1982) 6 C.B.C. 2d 1114, 1115, 9 B.C.D. 147 (following Spong); see [1], above].

The debt may be discharged if the spouse on whose behalf the fees were ordered has no personal liability for payment of the fees [In re Linn (9th Cir. BAP 1984) 10 C.B.C. 2d 1049, 1050-1051, 12 B.C.D. 147], or if the fee order actually reflects an equitable division of community debts and property rather than support [In re Gibson (9th Cir. BAP 1989) 103 B.R. 218 ; see [3], above].

For discussion of attorney's fee orders in dissolution proceedings, see Ch. 226, Dissolution of Marriage: Attorney's Fees , and Kirkland, Lurvey, and Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2d ed., Vol. 4, Ch. 62 (Matthew Bender).

[b] Award by Bankruptcy Court

If a divorce decree provides for the payment of attorney's fees, and state law issues are litigated in bankruptcy proceedings regarding nondischargeability of a debt enforced under the divorce decree, reasonable attorney's fees may be awarded by the bankruptcy court, but only to the extent that they were incurred litigating the state law issues [Renfrow v. Draper, 232 F.3d 688, 694-695 (9th Cir. 2000) (wife filed for declaration that debt was nondischargeable under 11 U.S.C. § 523(1)(15), and was entitled to attorney's fees incurred in meeting burden of demonstrating validity of debt under state law and amount that is owing)]. The bankruptcy court may also award the enforcing spouse attorney's fees incurred in a state court action that has been subjected to an automatic stay resulting from the filing of a Chapter 7 petition in bankruptcy [Renfrow v. Draper, 232 F.3d 688, 694-695 (9th Cir. 2000)] .

22-258 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 258.17

§ 258.17 Effect of Death

[1] In General

If the party in whose favor judgment was given dies, a writ of execution may be issued, or the judgment may otherwise be enforced by the personal representative of the estate or a successor in interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 686.010]. If the party against whom judgment was given dies, enforcement of the judgment is governed by the creditor claims provisions of the Probate Code [Code Civ. Proc. § 686.020; see Prob. Code §§ 9300, 9302-9303; see generally Prob. Code § 9000 et seq.].

If a party dies before entry of the judgment in a proceeding for legal separation or dissolution of marriage, the proceeding must abate. Death of one of the parties automatically dissolves their marriage [see Fam. Code § 310(a)] and vests the probate court with exclusive jurisdiction to determine the survivor's rights with respect to the decedent's interests in property as well as the survivor's rights with respect to property in which the decedent had an interest (for example, community property). But if one of the parties dies after entry of the judgment, the family law court still has jurisdiction to enforce the judgment, insofar as it is enforceable after the party's death [McClenny v. Superior Court (1964) 62 Cal. 2d 140, 145-146, 41 Cal. Rptr. 460, 396 P.2d 916 ; Darter v. Magnussen (1959) 172 Cal. App. 2d 714, 718, 342 P.2d 528] .

For discussion of special applications of these principles in the property context, see Ch. 122, Community Property .

A court that has ordered an award of reasonable attorney's fees to an attorney appointed to represent the children of the marriage has jurisdiction to determine the amount of these fees and to allocate payment between the parties after the death of one of the parties. Although the general rule is that following the death of a party the court is deprived of jurisdiction to make further orders concerning attorney's fees, the court retains jurisdiction to enforce a right to attorney's fees adjudicated before the party's death [In re Marriage of Lisi (1995) 39 Cal. App. 4th 1573, 1575-1576, 46 Cal. Rptr. 2d 623] .

In actions for nullity of marriage, by contrast, if a party dies before entry of the judgment, the action survives [see

Kirkland, Lurvey, and Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2d ed., vol. 1, Ch. 12 (Matthew Bender)]. The decedent's estate administrator can substitute into the nullity action to obtain a judgment [In re Marriage of Goldberg (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 265, 268, 270-271, 277, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 298 (decedent's action for nullity based on fraud would determine whether nieces and nephews or surviving spouse would inherit decedent's estate)].

If the judgment is for money, and property of the obligated party is under levy pursuant to a writ of execution at the time of his or her death, execution may proceed as though the party had not died. The personal representative of the estate takes the deceased party's place [see Prob. Code § 9303].

A judgment for the possession of property or a judgment that requires a sale of property is enforceable under the provisions of the Enforcement of Judgments Law [Code Civ. Proc. § 680.010 et seq.], notwithstanding the death of the decedent [see Prob. Code § 9302(a)]. However, except with respect to property subject to an execution lien at the time of the decedent's death, a judgment on a claim for money is not enforceable under the Enforcement of Judgments Law, but is payable in the course of administration and must be filed or presented in the same manner as other claims against the estate [see Prob. Code § 9300].

For discussion of the procedures governing claims against a decedent's estate, see Ch. 454, Probate: Claims Against the Estate , and California Probate Practice, Ch. 12 (Matthew Bender).

[2] Support Obligor

[a] In General

If the obligated party dies owing support arrearages, the party entitled to support may file a creditor's claim with the personal representative of the estate [see Pelser v. Pelser (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 228, 232, 2 Cal. Rptr. 259 ; see also Prob. Code § 9300].

Unless the parties otherwise agree in writing, a spousal support obligation terminates on the date of the obligated party's death [see Fam. Code § 4337], and only arrearages then owing can be claimed against the estate. However, the estate of the obligated spouse is liable for child support accruing under a judgment or order after the obligated spouse's death [Taylor v. George (1949) 34 Cal. 2d 552, 556, 212 P.2d 505 ; Stein v. Hubbard (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 603, 605, 102 Cal. Rptr. 303 ; see Kirkland, Lurvey, and Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2d ed., vol. 2, Ch. 40 (Matthew Bender)].

[b] Enforcement of Spousal Support Arrearages Against Subsequent Spouse

A court-ordered obligation for spousal support is a "debt" that is chargeable against the community property of the obligor's second marriage, except for the noncommingled earnings of the second spouse after the marriage [In re Marriage of Barnes (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 143, 149 ; see In re Marriage of D'Antoni (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 747, 750, 178 Cal. Rptr. 285 (both decided under former law); Fam. Code §§ 910(a), 911(a)]. Under the Probate Code, if the obligor dies and his or her separate property or community property of his or her subsequent marriage passes to the subsequent spouse without administration, the surviving spouse is personally liable for all debts of the decedent that are chargeable against the community property and against the decedent's separate property [see Prob. Code §§ 13550, 13551]. The liability is enforceable against the surviving spouse in the same manner as it could have been enforced against the decedent if he or she had not died [see Prob. Code § 13554(a)]. Thus, if a decedent dies leaving spousal support arrearages, the obligee-former spouse may enforce the liability against the obligor's surviving subsequent spouse, to the extent of any separate property of the decedent or community property of the second marriage that passed to the survivor without administration.

The surviving spouse of a second marriage can, however, elect to subject the community property and decedent's separate property to administration [see Prob. Code § 13502]. In that case, the subsequent spouse is not personally liable [Prob. Code § 13553], and the obligee-former spouse must file a timely creditor's claim against the decedent's estate in order to recover the arrearages [see Prob. Code §§ 9000 et seq., 13552].

22-258 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 258.18

§ 258.18 Defense of Set-Off or Other Form of Discharge

[1] In General

In general, when one party owes money to another party, the obligor may defend an enforcement action on the ground that the obligation has actually been discharged, in whole or in part. Discharge may be alleged because of set-off, that is, that the obligee also owes money to the obligor, which can be set off against the obligation [see Code Civ. Proc. § 431.70], or because the obligation has been satisfied in some way other than actual payment [see Jackson v. Jackson (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 363, 366-367, 124 Cal. Rptr. 101] . However, as discussed in [2], below, in the case of proceedings for collection of support arrearages, there are many qualifications and exceptions to this rule.

[2] Support Arrearages

[a] Rule Against Retroactive Modification of Support Order

Neither child nor spousal support may be modified as to any amount that accrued before the date of filing of a modification motion [Fam. Code § 3651(c); County of Santa Clara v. Wilson (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 1324, 1326-1327, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 653 (trial court lacked equitable power to eliminate four months of child support arrearages accruing before father filed modification motion); see Kirkland, Lurvey, and Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2d ed., vol. 2, chs. 42, 52 (Matthew Bender)]. Therefore, an obligor parent or spouse may not defend against collection of support arrearages on a ground that is actually an attempt to secure a retroactive modification of past-due support payments [Lehrer v. Lehrer (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 276, 280-281, 133 Cal. Rptr. 709 ; see In re Marriage of Beilock (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 713, 730-732, 146 Cal. Rptr. 675] . An attempt to secure retroactive modification would occur, for example, if a noncustodial parent filed a motion to quash execution for child support arrearages because the supported child had actually become emancipated [see Lehrer v. Lehrer (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 276, 280-281, 133 Cal. Rptr. 709] . The obligor-parent's proper remedy is to move for termination of support. Having failed to do so, he or she may not attempt to modify the support decree retroactively by quashing collection of arrearages [In re Marriage of Beilock (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 713, 730-732, 146 Cal. Rptr. 675 ; see Lehrer v. Lehrer (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 276, 280-281, 133 Cal. Rptr. 709] . Similarly, a support obligor may not defeat a motion to establish arrears as an attempted retroactive modification, on the ground that it was a prior writ of execution obtained in a different amount [In re Marriage of Robinson (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 93] .

Nevertheless, a court has certain equitable and discretionary powers that may be exercised to reduce or eliminate arrearages in determining an obligor's defense to a support action [see In re Marriage of Okum (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 176, 182, 240 Cal. Rptr. 258 ; In re Marriage of Utigard (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 133, 145-146, 178 Cal. Rptr. 546] . Set-off or other form of payment may be raised under some circumstances as a defense to collection of support arrearages. In these cases, which are discussed in [d] and [e], below, the motion is deemed not to involve an attempt to modify support retroactively, but rather to show that the obligation has been discharged [see In re Marriage of Beilock (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 713, 732-733, 146 Cal. Rptr. 675] .

[b] Debts of Supported Spouse

A debt owed by the supported spouse to the paying spouse may not be set off against spousal support arrearages. A spousal support order would not be diminished by the supported spouse's debts to the paying spouse arising before the order; thus, such debts may not be set off against support payments due under the order [Keck v. Keck (1933) 219 Cal. 316, 320-321, 26 P.2d 300 ; see Kruger v. Wells Fargo Bank (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 352, 368 n.24, 113 Cal. Rptr. 449, 521 P.2d 441 (characterizing Keck as one of many California cases limiting right of set-off in order to carry out state policies protecting interest of debtor)].

[c] Debts of Custodial Parent

A debt owed by the custodial parent or non-parent custodian to the supporting parent may not, under any circumstances, be set off against child support arrearages. The support obligation runs to the child, not to the custodial parent or other custodian [Williams v. Williams (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 636, 640, 87 Cal. Rptr. 754] .

[d] De Facto Change of Custody

A court has the equitable power to refuse to enforce payment of child support arrearages that accrued during a period of time when the obligor had the actual sole physical custody of the child. The rationale for this rule is that the support obligation is owed to the child, not to the parent [In re Marriage of Okum (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 176, 182, 240 Cal. Rptr. 458] . In this case, the obligor is deemed in equity to have satisfied the obligation by having provided the actual home and support for the child during the period when arrearages were accruing [Jackson v. Jackson (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 363, 368, 124 Cal. Rptr. 101] . Thus, the refusal to enforce the support order under these circumstances is not a retroactive modification of the order, but rather an equitable compliance with it [Jackson v. Jackson (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 363, 366-368, 124 Cal. Rptr. 101] .

This equitable right of set-off exists regardless of the procedural setting in which enforcement of arrearages is sought [In re Marriage of Trainotti (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1072, 1075, 261 Cal. Rptr. 36 ; see Fam. Code § 290 (giving court discretion with regard to enforcement remedies)]. It may be asserted in support of the obligor's motion to quash a writ of execution [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Okum (1987) 240 Cal. Rptr. 458 ; Jackson v. Jackson (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 363, 368, 124 Cal. Rptr. 101] , or in any other proceeding initiated for the purpose of enforcing the terms of a child support order [In re Marriage of Trainotti (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1072, 1075-1076, 261 Cal. Rptr. 36] .

[e] Credit for Overpayments or Payments Directly to Children

Credit against arrearages for amounts paid other than in conformity with the court's order may be viewed as a prohibited retroactive modification [see Spivey v. Furtado (1966) 242 Cal. App. 2d 259, 264, 51 Cal. Rptr. 362] . Nevertheless, if an obligor parent overpays child support for a particular period, the trial court has discretion to determine whether the overpayments are to be credited against later arrearages. Overpayment is more likely to be credited with regard to an obligor who has irregular receipt of income. Even in this type of case, the safer practice is to obtain the agreement of the obligee, or at least to notify the obligee that the overpayment in one period is not intended as a gift, but meant to be applied to future amounts due [In re Marriage of Peet (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 974, 977-980, 149 Cal. Rptr. 108] .

Similarly, the court has discretion to determine whether payments made directly to the children are to be credited against alleged arrearages [In re Marriage of Utigard (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 133, 145-146, 178 Cal. Rptr. 546 ; see Spivey v. Furtado (1966) 242 Cal. App. 2d 259, 264-267, 51 Cal. Rptr. 362 (father paid cost of college education directly to children and reduced amount of court-ordered support)]. This type of credit should be rarely granted, because were the parent to proceed properly by way of motion for modification, he or she would have to disclose his or her current financial situation, and support might then be increased, whether or not the manner of payment is also changed [Spivey v. Furtado (1966) 242 Cal. App. 2d 259, 265-266, 51 Cal. Rptr. 362] . Relevant considerations are whether the obligee parent had knowledge of the direct payments and failed to object [see In re Marriage of Utigard (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 133, 145-146, 178 Cal. Rptr. 546 (credit allowed)], and whether the noncustodial obligor-parent is attempting to obtain a measure of control over the children by making the substituted payments [see Spivey v. Furtado (1966) 242 Cal. App. 2d 259, 266, 51 Cal. Rptr. 362 (credit denied)].

[3] Property Division

If one of the parties is to receive money as part of a division of the parties' property, and that party owes a debt (other than support arrearages) to the other, the debt may be set off against the payment owed under the property division. Thus, a husband who owed money under a property settlement was entitled to set it off against the wife's half of joint income tax liability, which the husband had paid [Murchison v. Murchison (1963) 219 Cal. App. 2d 600, 604-606, 33 Cal. Rptr. 285] .

Chapter 258 FAMILY LAW ENFORCEMENT: GENERAL ENFORCEMENT PRINCIPLES AND REMEDIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Governing Principles

22-258 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 258.19

§ 258.19 Effect of Child's Becoming Adult on Enforcement of Child Support

The obligation to pay child support ordinarily terminates when the child becomes an adult [see Fam. Code §§ 2010(c), 3601(a), 3900, 3901(a) (duty of support and court's jurisdiction to order support extends to "minor" children); see also Fam. Code §§ 6500, 6501 (minor is a person who is under the age of 18 years; adult is person who is 18 years or older); Kirkland, Lurvey, and Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2d ed., Vol. 2, Ch. 40 (Matthew Bender)]. However, an action to recover arrearages may be maintained at any time even though the child has attained the age of 18 years [see Fam. Code § 4503]. A judgment for child support, including a judgment for arrearages and any penalties or interest thereon, is enforceable until paid in full [see Fam. Code § 291(a)].

After the child has become an adult, an action to collect child support arrearages is an action for the benefit of the parent who previously had custody of the child. The child has no standing to seek a writ of execution, since he or she has already received support from the custodial parent, who could seek reimbursement by an execution action [see In re Marriage of Utigard (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 133, 139, 143, 178 Cal. Rptr. 546] .

The parties may make a marital settlement agreement or stipulated judgment providing that child support payments will continue beyond the date when the child reaches the age of majority [see Fam. Code §§ 3587, 3901(b)]. This order may be enforced in the same manner as any other child support order, including, but not limited to contempt [see Fam. Code §§ 4000, 4500]. Contempt is discussed at § 258.80 et seq.

§ 258.20 Satisfaction of Judgment

If a money judgment is satisfied, other than by writ, the judgment creditor must immediately file an acknowledgment of satisfaction with the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.030]. If the judgment is satisfied by some form of noncash payment or check, the obligation to file the acknowledgment arises only if the payment is actually honored [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.010(c)]. For further discussion of procedures for acknowledgment of satisfaction of a judgment and appropriate forms, see Ch. 318, Judgments, § 318.90 et seq.

The order in which amounts received in satisfaction of a judgment are to be credited against fees, interest, and principal is set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 695.220 (judgments for other than support) and Code Civ. Proc. § 695.221 (support judgments).

§ 258.21 Effect of Appeal and Review

Under various circumstances, enforcement may be stayed pending a decision on appeal [see Code Civ. Proc. § 916 et seq.]. Depending on the type of order or judgment, stay may be automatic, in the discretion of the court, or may require the filing of a bond or undertaking. If a stay of enforcement is not available in the trial court, a writ of supersedeas issued by the appellate court may accomplish the same purpose. For further discussion, see Kirkland, Lurvey, and Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2d ed., vol. 4, Ch. 132 (Matthew Bender).

If enforcement is sought against a party during (or within 90 days after) his or her period of military service for the United States [see 50 U.S.C. App. § 511(2)], enforcement may be stayed under the provisions of the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act [see 50 U.S.C. App. § 501 et seq.]. § 258.22 Tort Recovery for Evasion of Support Obligation

It is unclear whether a child or spouse may enforce a support order through a tort action for damages for wrongful evasion of a support obligation. In a case presenting questions of first impression that the court refused to consider, one court of appeal has held that a former wife and her adult children could not recover in tort for the former husband's wrongful evasion of his spousal and child support obligations, because the plaintiffs' claims were barred by the statute of limitations [Spellis v. Lawn (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1075, 1079, 246 Cal. Rptr. 385] . The court noted that plaintiffs' causes of action for compensatory and punitive damages for fraud and intentional infliction of emotional distress required recognition of new theories of recovery for enforcement of a support obligation, and that their cause of action for damages for violation of the statutory duty to support under former Civ. Code § 196a [now see Fam. Code §§ 3900, 4000] required creation of a new tort. The court ruled, however, that none of the causes of action could have survived the longest applicable limitation period, and therefore the court refused to reach the merits of the case [Spellis v. Lawn (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1075, 1078-1079, 246 Cal. Rptr. 385 (decided under former Civ. Code § 196a)].

§ 258.31 Execution Defined

Execution is a procedure in which a levying officer, such as a sheriff, marshall, or constable, or in some instances, a registered process server, satisfies a judgment by seizing the debtor's property for delivery to the judgment creditor [see Southern California Lumber Co v. Ocean Beach Hotel Co. (1892) 94 Cal. 217, 221, 29 P. 627 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 680.260 (sheriff, marshall, or constable), 699.080(a) (registered process server)]. The levying officer may also sell the seized property and deliver the proceeds to the persons entitled to them, or to the court [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 701.050, 701.810-701.830].

Execution is initiated by the judgment creditor applying to the court for a writ of execution after entry of a money judgment. The writ is addressed to the levying officer or registered process server in the county in which the levy is to be made [see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510(a)]. The clerk of the court must give priority to the application for and issuance of writs of execution on orders or judgments for child support and spousal support [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510(a)]. Within 180 days of issuance of the writ, the levying officer must levy on the property described in the writ in the manner prescribed by law [see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.530]. The levying officer must return the writ to the court pursuant to the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 699.560.

§ 258.32 Court Order Required in Dissolution Cases

A trial court has discretion to determine whether execution is an appropriate remedy for enforcing orders made under the Family Code [see Fam. Code § 290; In re Marriage of Oropallo (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 997, 1001, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 669 (wife who conducted nonjudicial trustee sales of realty that secured husband's debt in marital dissolution was subject to antideficiency statutes and not entitled to writ of execution)]. Therefore, a writ of execution in a dissolution case is not issued as a matter of course, as in ordinary civil actions, but requires a court order [Messenger v. Messenger (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 619, 630, 297 P.2d 988 ; In re Marriage of Farner (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 1370, 1376-1377, 265 Cal. Rptr. 531 ; Bonner v. Superior Court (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 156, 167, 133 Cal. Rptr. 592] . However, there is an exception to this rule applicable to most support orders [see Fam. Code §§ 5100, 5101 (discussed at § 258.39, below)].

§ 258.33 Standing to Apply for Writ

A writ of execution is authorized on application by the judgment creditor [see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510(a)]. "Judgment creditor" means the person in whose favor a judgment is rendered or an assignee of record, and in some instances includes a guardian or conservator, personal representative, or other successor in interest of the judgment creditor or assignee of record [see Code Civ. Proc. § 680.240]. The district attorney or other local child support agency, however, has statutory authority to enforce child support orders, whether or not the child is receiving public assistance, and also to enforce court ordered spousal support [see Fam. Code §§ 4351, 17400(a)].

Although a custodial parent may enforce child support obligations, including arrearages, after the child has reached the age of majority, the child may be barred from seeking to collect the arrearages in his or her own name. The custodial parent is considered the direct beneficiary of the arrearages, and the nature of the action is one for reimbursement of money expended for the children's support [see In re Marriage of Utigard (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 133, 141, 178 Cal. Rptr. 546 (parent barred from setting aside fraudulent conveyance of former spouse by statute of limitations, but children who were minors at time of conveyance were not, under *Code Civ. B. Writ of Execution

§ 258.34 Types of Judgments and Orders Enforceable by Execution

[1] Judgment for Support or Other Money Judgment

Money judgments, including judgments made pursuant to the Family Code, may be enforced by execution [see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510(b); Fam. Code §§ 290, 5100]. A judgment enforceable by execution includes an order for payment of child or family support arrearages [see Fam. Code § 5100; see also discussion at § 258.37, below]. The court must award interest on the arrearages as a matter of law [see In re Marriage of Popenhager (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 514, 523-524, 160 Cal. Rptr. 379] . An order for child or spousal support made, entered, or enforceable in California is enforceable under the Family Code, whether or not made pursuant to the Family Code [Fam. Code § 4500]. Thus, support orders made under the support agency enforcement provisions of the Family Code or corresponding former sections of the Welfare and Institutions Code [see Fam. Code § 17400 et seq.; for discussion and forms, see Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement] are enforceable under the Family Code.

Similarly, orders for the payment of money other than for support made in a dissolution action, such as an equalizing payment incident to a division of community property, also may be enforced by execution under the Family Code, even though they are not made pursuant to the Family Code [see Fam. Code §§ 290, 2601]. In addition, an order giving one spouse a retroactive community property interest in pension payments already received by the other spouse constitutes a money judgment enforceable by execution [In re Marriage of Farner (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 1370, 1374-1376, 265 Cal. Rptr. 531] .

[2] Attorney's Fees and Costs

An award of attorney's fees and costs is regarded as an award for support and may be collected by writ of execution [see Henry v. Henry (1960) 182 Cal. App. 2d 707, 711-713, 6 Cal. Rptr. 418] . In addition, it has been held that the services of an attorney in a dissolution action qualify as "common necessaries of life" for the benefit of an indigent spouse. Therefore, an attorney had the right to enforce a pendente lite award of fees in a dissolution action by writ of execution on the other spouse's earnings against a claim of exemption filed by the debtor spouse [In re Marriage of Pallesi (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 424, 427-428, 140 Cal. Rptr. 842 ; see discussion at § 258.36[2], below].

A judgment creditor may also recover certain costs in obtaining a writ of execution, such as the statutory fee for issuing the writ [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 685.050, 685.070].

[3] Temporary Orders

Temporary orders made during the pendency of an action brought under the Family Code may also be enforced by writ of execution [see Fam. Code §§ 290, 5100; Biltmore Drug Store v. Superior Court (1929) 101 Cal. App. 363, 364-365, 281 P. 710] . It would appear that temporary orders for attorney's fees and costs are also enforceable by a writ of execution [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Pallesi (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 424, 427-428, 140 Cal. Rptr. 842 ; see also discussion at [2], above].

B. Writ of Execution

22-258 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 258.35

§ 258.35 Property Subject to Execution

[1] In General

Except as otherwise provided by law, all property that is subject to enforcement of a money judgment pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 695.010 et seq. is subject to levy under a writ of execution to satisfy a money judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.710]. This includes property in the possession of a third person, except that the lien is effective only as to the extent of the judgment debtor's actual interest in the property [see In re Marriage of Finnell (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 52, 56, 227 Cal. Rptr. 38] .

A debtor-spouse's community property interest in the marital residence over which the court has reserved jurisdiction is subject to execution to enforce the debt. However, relief must be sought in the family law department, which may fashion an appropriate remedy in support of its reserved jurisdiction to achieve equal division of community property and collection of support. Sale of the debtor spouse's interest is not required by Code Civ. Proc. § 704.780(b) [In re Marriage of Schenck (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1474, 1479-1485, 279 Cal. Rptr. 651] .

If one spouse's community interest in real property is to be satisfied by means of an equalizing payment from the other spouse, and the obligation is evidenced by a deed of trust on the property, the creditor spouse must use care in enforcing the obligation. In one case, for example, a former wife who had held second trust deeds on several parcels of property sought to obtain a writ of execution to recover the amount of a deficiency that existed between the obligation owed her and the amount recovered through a nonjudicial trustee's sale of the property. An appellate court held that she was barred under antideficiency statutes from recovering the unsatisfied amount owed to her, because, as a junior lienholder, once she had elected to proceed by exercising the power of sale contained in the deed of trust, Code Civ. Proc. § 580d precluded any deficiency judgment. Once the former wife became a secured creditor with a right to conduct a nonjudicial sale of her former husband's real property in the case of default, she was subject to the limitations that followed that right [see In re Marriage of Oropallo (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 997, 1007, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 669] .

It should be noted that levy against the wages of a judgment debtor may only be made by an earnings withholding order or by earnings assignment [see Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement].

[2] Pension Benefit Plans Subject to Execution for Support Orders

Although generally exempt from execution, payments under a pension or profit-sharing plan may be levied against to satisfy a judgment for child or spousal support. Statutory law provides that amounts held, controlled, or in the process of distribution by a public or private retirement plan for the payment of benefits as an annuity, pension, retirement allowance, disability payment, or death benefit, which are otherwise exempt from execution, are exempt from application toward satisfaction of a child, family, or spousal support judgment only to the extent determined by the court under Code Civ. Proc. § 703.070(c) [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 704.110(c), 704.115(c); see also discussion at § 258.36[3], below]. If the amount sought to be applied to the satisfaction of the judgment is payable periodically, the amount payable is subject to an earnings assignment order for support as defined by Code Civ. Proc. § 706.011(b) or by any other applicable enforcement procedure, but the amount to be withheld must not exceed the amount permitted to be withheld on an earnings assignment order for support under Code Civ. Proc. § 706.052 [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 704.110(c)(2), 704.115(c)(2); see Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement].

If a public entity, other than the United States, is served with an earnings assignment order for support, that service creates a lien on all employee contributions in the amount necessary to satisfy a support judgment determined under Code Civ. Proc. § 695.210 to the extent the judgment remains enforceable. The public entity must comply with a request to return employee contributions by delivering them to the court that issued the order, where they are subject to any available procedure to enforce a support order [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.114; see Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement].

Notwithstanding Fam. Code § 2060(b) (limiting enforcement of orders against pension plans unless joined), an order for the payment of child, family, or spousal support may be enforced against an employee benefit plan, regardless of whether the plan has been joined as a party to the proceeding [Fam. Code § 5103(a)].

[3] Execution Against Community Property of Subsequent Marriage

A judgment creditor may execute against the community property of a judgment debtor's subsequent marriage to the extent authorized by Fam. Code § 900 et seq. A support obligation not arising out of the present marriage is treated as a debt incurred before marriage, regardless of when the order is made or modified and regardless of when any arrearages accrue [see Fam. Code § 915(a)]. Therefore, the child or former spouse may enforce the obligation in the same manner as a general creditor [see Fam. Code §§ 910, 913].

The earnings of the nonobligor spouse may not be executed on to satisfy the debtor spouse's support obligations from the prior marriage, if they are kept in a deposit account uncommingled with other community property and if the debtor has no right of withdrawal [Fam. Code § 911(a); see Com. Code § 9102(2)(29) (deposit account defined)].

For further discussion of debts and liabilities in family law proceedings, see Ch. 122, Community Property , and Ch. 222, Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation .

§ 258.36 Property Not Subject to Execution

[1] Statutory Exemptions

Certain property is statutorily exempt from execution without the necessity of the judgment debtor filing a claim of exemption [see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.720(a)(1)-(10)]. Included in this category are an alcoholic beverage license, a partnership interest when the partnership is not a judgment debtor, and the interest of a trust beneficiary [see Code Civ. Proc. § 699.720(1), (2), (8)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments .

Nothing in Code Civ. Proc. § 699.720(a) affects or limits the right of the judgment creditor to apply property to the satisfaction of a money judgment pursuant to any applicable procedure other than execution [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.720(b)].

[2] Claim of Exemption

In addition to the specific property listed in Code Civ. Proc. § 699.720(a) (see [1], above), property can be made exempt from enforcement of a money judgment by filing a claim of exemption pursuant to certain statutory procedures [see Code Civ. Proc. § 703.010 et seq.].

The exemptions provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 703.010 et seq. or by any other statute do not apply if the judgment to be enforced is for the foreclosure of a mortgage, deed of trust, or other lien or encumbrance on the property other than a lien created pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 695.010 et seq. (enforcement of money judgments) or Code Civ. Proc. § 481.010 et seq. (attachments) [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.010(b)]. For discussion and forms relating to the foreclosure of mortgages, see Ch. 555, Trust Deeds and Real Property Mortgages .

Property for which a claim of exemption may be filed is set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 704.010 et seq.; the homestead exemption for real property is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 704.710 et seq. When a judgment debtor is not currently residing in the homestead, but his or her separated or former spouse continues to reside in or exercise control over possession of the homestead, that judgment debtor continues to be entitled to an exemption until entry of judgment or other legally enforceable agreement dividing the community property between the judgment debtor and the separated or former spouse, or until a later time period as specified by court order [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.720(d)].

A judgment debtor may also claim an exemption after levy of execution. Procedures for claiming an exemption after levy are set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 703.510 et seq. For a detailed discussion and procedural guides for claiming an exemption, see Ch 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments, §§ 254.40 et seq. and 254.130 et seq., and Ch. 294, Homesteads .

[3] Application of Exemption to Judgment for Support

Except as otherwise provided by statute, the exemptions provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 703.010 et seq. [see [1], above], or by any other statute apply to a judgment for child, family, or spousal support [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.070(a)]. However, if property is exempt without making a claim, the property is not subject to being applied to the satisfaction of a judgment for child, family, or spousal support [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.070(b); In re Marriage of Johnson-Wilkes & Wilkes (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 1569, 1576, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 323 (spouse's disability insurance benefits were exempt from earnings assignment order for child support); for discussion of claims for exemption, see [2], above].

Except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 703.070(b), discussed above, if property sought to be applied to the satisfaction of a judgment for child, family, or spousal support is shown to be exempt under Code Civ. Proc. § 703.070(a), in appropriate proceedings, the court shall, on noticed motion of the judgment creditor, determine the extent to which property for which an exemption must be claimed may nevertheless be applied to the satisfaction of the support judgment. In making this determination, the court must take into account the needs of the judgment creditor, the needs of the judgment debtor and all persons the judgment debtor is required to support, and all other relevant circumstances. The court must effectuate its determination by an order specifying the extent to which the otherwise exempt property is to be applied to the satisfaction of the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.070(c)].

§ 258.37 Time for Application

A child, spousal, or family support order may be enforced by a writ of execution without prior court approval "as long as the support order remains enforceable" [Fam. Code §§ 5100, 5101]. Because support orders are enforceable until paid in full [see Fam. Code § 291(a); Code Civ. Proc. § 683.130(c)(1)], court approval is not required to enforce an unpaid support order by writ of execution. Thus, a party seeking to enforce an unpaid support order by writ of execution is not required to make a showing of due diligence to the court. In a proceeding to enforce a judgment for child, family, or spousal support, the obligor may raise, and the court may consider, the defense of laches only with respect to any portion of the judgment that is owed to the state [Fam. Code § 291(d)].

§ 258.38 Time Within Which Writ Will Issue

[1] Civil Actions Generally

In general, a writ of execution will not issue on the expiration of 10 years after the date of entry of a money judgment or judgment for possession or sale of property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 683.020]. However, the judgment may be renewed for an additional 10 years, as provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 683.110 et seq. [see § 258.40, below].

[2] Family Law Judgments

The 10-year time period for enforcement and renewal of judgments under the Code of Civil Procedure does not apply to judgments made or entered pursuant to the Family Code [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.310]. Instead, the provisions of Fam. Code §§ 290, 5100-5104 apply to enforcement of family law judgments.

[1] When Court Order Not Required

A child, family, or spousal support order may be enforced by a writ of execution without prior court approval as long as the support judgment remains enforceable [Fam. Code § 5100]. Because support orders are enforceable until paid in full, court approval is not required to enforce an unpaid support order by writ of execution [see Fam. Code § 291(a)].

[2] When Court Order Required

The Family Code and Rules of Court do not specify a particular procedure for the issuance of writs of execution in family law proceedings. Although Fam. Code § 290, if strictly construed, could be read to require a hearing before issuance of a writ of execution, most courts, in practice, will issue the writ in family law proceedings on ex parte application in a manner applicable to ordinary civil proceedings. Counsel should consult local rules of court or the clerk's office to determine the procedure required in a particular county.

§ 258.40 Renewal of Judgments

[1] General Rule

As to civil actions in general, the period of enforceability of a money judgment or a judgment for possession or sale of property may be extended by renewal of the judgment as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 683.110 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.110(a)]. However, a judgment may not be renewed if the application for renewal is filed within five years from the time the judgment was previously renewed under Code Civ. Proc. § 683.110 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.110(b)].

[2] Renewal of Judgments for Support

A judgment for child, spousal, or family support, including a judgment for reimbursement that includes, but is not limited to, reimbursement arising under Fam. Code § 17402 or other arrearages, and including all lawful interest and penalties, is exempt from any requirement that judgments be renewed. The judgment for support, or a judgment for reimbursement or other arrearages, including all lawful interest and penalties, is enforceable until paid in full [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.130(c)(1); In re Marriage of Wilcox (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 492, 499, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 315] .

However, a money judgment, whether payable in installments or not, for the payment of child, spousal, or family support, or for reimbursement or arrearages, and including all lawful interest, may be renewed optionally, as discussed in § 258.12[5] [Fam. Code § 291(c)].

22-258 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 258.41

§ 258.41 Procedure to Obtain Writ

[1] If Court Order Is Required

If an order of the court is required to obtain a writ of execution (see §§ 258.32 and 258.39[2], above), the judgment debtor or support obligee should proceed by noticed motion. Case law prior to the 1982 enactment of Fam. Code §§ 5100-5104 suggested that a noticed motion for an order issuing a writ of execution may be more appropriate than an ex parte application in some cases [see Cochrane v. Cochrane (1943) 57 Cal. App. 2d 937, 939, 135 P.2d 714 ; see also Martin v. Martin (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 749, 755, 85 Cal. Rptr. 339] . However, notice to the judgment debtor that a writ of execution is sought is not mandated by the due process clause of U.S. Const., amend. XIV [Wyshak v. Wyshak (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 384, 392-393, 138 Cal. Rptr. 811] .

Even if a court order is not required, there may be instances in which a creditor may wish to proceed by noticed motion, as, for example, if issuance of the writ of execution requires an interpretation of the court's language in prior orders [see Martin v. Martin (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 749, 755, 85 Cal. Rptr. 339] . The notice of motion must be accompanied by a memorandum of points and authorities [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 313].

[2] By Ex Parte Application if Court Order Is Not Required

If an order of the court is not required to obtain a writ of execution to enforce a support order (see § 258.39[2], above), application for a writ of execution is made pursuant to the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510.

Subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510(b) (enforcement of judgments under Family Code), after entry of a money judgment, the court clerk must issue a writ of execution on application by the judgment creditor. The application is usually made on a local court form, and must be accompanied by a writ of execution that includes all the information set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 699.520 [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.520; see § 258.111, for the form of writ of execution adopted by the Judicial Council]. The writ must be directed to the levying officer in the county where the levy is to be made and to any registered process server. A separate writ must be issued for each county where a levy is to be made. Writs may be issued successively until the money judgment is satisfied, except that a new writ may not be issued for a county until 180 days after the issuance of a prior writ for that county unless the prior writ is first returned [Code Civ. Proc. §

When a writ of execution is sought to enforce a judgment made pursuant to the Family Code, the application must be accompanied by an affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) stating the total amount due and unpaid that is authorized to be enforced pursuant to Fam. Code §§ 5100-5103 on the date of the application. If interest on the overdue installments is sought, the affidavit (or declaration) must state the total amount of the interest and the amount of each due and unpaid installment and the date it became due [Fam. Code § 5104(a),(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 685.010 (specifying legal rate of interest of 10 percent)]. The affidavit (or declaration) must be filed in the action and a copy must be attached to the writ delivered to the levying officer. The levying officer must serve the copy of the affidavit (or declaration) on the judgment debtor when the writ of execution is first served on the judgment debtor pursuant to a levy under the writ [Fam. Code § 5104(c); see §§ 258.110, 258.111 (forms)].

Further requirements for issuance of a writ of execution and notice of levy are set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 699.520 et seq. For a detailed discussion of the procedures for issuance of a writ and levy, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments, § 254.40 et seq.

§ 258.42 Response by Judgment Debtor

Once the judgment creditor establishes the right to issuance of the writ, the burden is on the judgment debtor to establish facts justifying an order denying the writ [Bryant v. Bryant (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 579, 582, 326 P.2d 898 ; see also Bryan v. Bryan (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 833, 840, 63 Cal. Rptr. 612] .

If the application for the order was made on noticed motion, the judgment debtor can file opposition papers to the granting of the motion and appear at the hearing. If the writ was issued on ex parte application, the debtor can serve and file a notice of motion to recall or quash the writ and, if levy has been made, to quash the levy [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005]. The debtor may make the motion on the ground that the writ was improperly issued and, in supporting papers, he or she must set forth facts supporting the allegations that the writ should not have issued [see Jackson v. Jackson (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 363, 368, 124 Cal. Rptr. 101] . For further discussion, see § 258.43, below.

If issuance of the writ was proper, however, and levy was made on exempt property, the judgment debtor's remedy to secure the property's release from the levy is to file a claim of exemption [see Code Civ. Proc. § 703.510 et seq.; see also § 258.36[2], above].

B. Writ of Execution

22-258 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 258.43

§ 258.43 Motion to Recall or Quash Writ of Execution

[1] Power of Court

By virtue of inherent control over its process, the court has power, on motion, to recall a writ of execution improperly or inadvertently issued [see Meyer v. Meyer (1952) 115 Cal. App. 2d 48, 49, 251 P.2d 335] . But once the writ is issued, the burden is on the judgment debtor to present reasons why the writ should be quashed [see Jackson v. Jackson (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 363, 368, 124 Cal. Rptr. 101 ; Slevats v. Feustal (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 113, 119, 28 Cal. Rptr. 517] .

[2] Grounds for Recall

Execution may be recalled, for example, when the judgment creditor in the affidavit for issuance of the writ falsely represented the amount due from the judgment debtor [Bryant v. Bryant (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 579, 581-582, 326 P.2d 898] , or when the amount sought to be recovered has already been paid [Meyer v. Meyer (1952) 115 Cal. App. 2d 48, 49, 251 P.2d 335] . Execution may also be recalled if the debt represented by the judgment that is the subject of the writ has been equitably satisfied [In re Marriage of Okum (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 176, 182, 240 Cal. Rptr. 458 ; Jackson v. Jackson (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 363, 366-368, 124 Cal. Rptr. 101 (obligor parent actually provided home and all support for child during period in which child support arrearage accrued)].

On a timely motion to recall a writ issued on ex parte application, the trial court may review the affidavit (declaration), order, and execution issued thereon and may exercise its judicial discretion in determining whether the facts set forth in the affidavit are true and whether there has been a misrepresentation of the facts or willful suppression of facts that should have been related to the court in the first instance, or whether the judgment debtor was or was not under a legal duty to support the children and former spouse during the period in question. If the court concludes that the writ should not have issued, the court has the power to recall it and allow enforcement of the judgment only to the extent of the judgment debtor's legal and equitable liability to pay [Slevats v. Feustal (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 113, 119-120, 28 Cal. Rptr. 517 ; Noice v. Noice (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 204, 213, 15 Cal. Rptr. 703 ; Wilkins v. Wilkins (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 605, 610-611, 213 P.2d 748] . The court may also suspend the writ on condition that specified installment payments be made until the whole debt is discharged when it appears to be for the protection of both the creditor and debtor to do so under the circumstances prevailing at the time of the hearing of the motion [Moniz v. Moniz (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 74, 76, 50 Cal. Rptr. 267 ; see also Szamocki v. Szamocki (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 812, 818, 121 Cal. Rptr. 231] .

A motion to recall the writ, and/or to quash the levy, and supporting papers must be prepared on the Judicial Council mandatory forms of Notice of Motion or Order to Show Cause [Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-300, FL-301] and Application for Order and Supporting Declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310]. For illustrative samples of these forms, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure .

§ 258.51 Liens On Real Property

[1] Lump Sum and Installment Money Judgments Compared

An obligee may create a judgment lien on the obligor's real property to enforce child, family, or spousal support payable in installments [see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.320(a)(1)]. Other types of judgments, such as for property division or attorney's fees, may also be enforced by a lien on real property, such as a lump-sum money judgment and a judgment against a health care provider requiring periodic payment, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 667.7 [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.310(a), 697.320(a)(2)]. For general discussion of liens, property subject to liens, procedural guides, and forms for use in enforcing both money and nonmoney judgments, see Ch. 318, Judgments .

[2] Creation of Lien

An installment judgment lien on real property is created by recording with the county recorder an abstract, a notice of support judgment, or a certified copy of a judgment for child, family, or spousal support payable in installments, or by recording an interstate lien form [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.320(a); see Fam. Code § 17523.5 (recording lien in form of digital or digitized electronic record is permitted); see also Cal-Western Reconveyance Corp. v. Reed (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 1308, 1310, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 244 (county properly recorded abstract of support judgment and distribution of surplus proceeds from trustee's sale of obligor's residential property was properly distributed to county to satisfy child and spousal support arrearages)]. The Judicial Council form of Abstract of Support Judgment may be used to create the lien for California Support judgments [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-480; see Mehrtash v. Mehrtash (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 75, 81-82, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 802 (support obligee's failure to file abstract of support judgment resulted in denial of request to set aside real property transfer, when obligor's real property was encumbered with senior liens)]. Such a lien is the exclusive method of establishing a lien on real property of the judgment debtor for child and spousal support payments ordered by a court [Ellrott v. Bliss (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 901, 905, 195 Cal. Rptr. 446 (decided prior to 1986 amendment to Code Civ. Proc. § 697.320 allowing option of filing abstract to create judgment lien)].

To create a valid lien, strict compliance with the statutory requirements is essential with regard to required information. If all mandated information is included, technical noncompliance with form is unlikely to invalidate the lien [see In re Marriage of Orchard (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 155, 158-159, 273 Cal. Rptr. 499 , and cases cited therein].

Such a lien does not also secure the obligee's claims against the obligor for a community property equalization payment and for attorney's fees ordered in the dissolution proceeding [Cal-Western Reconveyance Corp. v. Reed (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 1308, 1311-1312, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 244 (abstract of judgment did not purport to cover anything but support)]. The obligee may establish and record a lien against the obligor's real property to satisfy these claims by filing an abstract of money judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 674 [see Cal-Western Reconveyance Corp. v. Reed (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 1308, 1313, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 244 (rejecting contention that Fam. Code § 290 gives court discretion to bypass statutory requirements by implying existence of recorded lien or encumbrance when there is none)].

[3] Duration of Lien

Unless the money judgment is satisfied or the judgment lien is released, a judgment lien for child, family, or spousal support payable in installments continues during the period the judgment remains enforceable [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.320(b); see Fam. Code § 291(a), (b)]. If an interest in real property that is subject to a lump-sum judgment lien is transferred or encumbered without satisfying or extinguishing the lien, the interest remains subject to the lien as if the interest had not been transferred or encumbered [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.390(a)]. If an interest in real property that is subject to an installment judgment lien is transferred or encumbered without satisfying or extinguishing the lien, the interest transferred or encumbered remains subject to the installment judgment lien in the amount of the lien at the time of transfer or encumbrance, plus interest accruing thereafter on that amount [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.390(b); cf. In re Marriage of Cloney (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 429, 443-444, 110 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615 (judgment recorded and indexed under former husband's proper name was constructive notice to subsequent purchaser of real property with title under husband's nickname, when purchaser's escrow agent had actual knowledge of both names)].

[4] Amount of Lien

Unless otherwise provided by statute, a judgment lien on real property is a lien for the amount required to satisfy the money judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.350(a)]. A judgment lien for child or spousal support is a lien for the amount of installments as they mature under the terms of the judgment, plus accrued interest and costs as they are added to the judgment pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 685.010-685.110, less the amount of any partial satisfactions. However, it does not become a lien for any installment until the installment becomes due and payable under the terms of the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.350(c)].

Statutory interest on unpaid child support payments accrues as a matter of law on each installment when the installment becomes due. It does not matter whether the judgment clearly states when or if interest will accrue on unpaid child support obligations, or whether the support obligor was personally notified that unpaid child support would be subject to accruing interest [In re Marriage of Hubner (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 1082, 1089, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 549] . Accrued arrearages are treated like a money judgment for purposes of assessing statutory interest and, unless otherwise specified in the judgment, interest accrues as to each installment when the installment becomes due and continue to accrue for so long as the arrearage remains unpaid [In re Marriage of McClellan (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 247, 250-251, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 5] . A judge does not have authority to waive or forgive interest accrued on past-due child support amounts even when circumstances change or the support obligor claims a lack of clarity in the order assessing child support arrearages [see In re Marriage of McClellan (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 247, 251, 259, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 5 ; In re Marriage of Hubner (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 1082, 1089, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 549] . An order that determines child support arrearages is not a new installment judgment for purposes of calculating postjudgment interest [In re Marriage of McClellan (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 247, 258-259, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 5 ; see Fam. Code § 155].

[5] Effect of Modified Judgment

Once a judgment lien has been placed on real or personal property, a subsequent modification of a support judgment may still be enforced as long as certain procedures are followed. If a judgment lien on real property has been created under a money judgment that is thereafter modified as to its amount, an abstract of the modified judgment or a certified copy of the order modifying the judgment may be recorded in the same manner as the original abstract or certified copy of the judgment is recorded to create a judgment lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.360(a); see § 258.51[2], above; see also Cal. Judicial Council Form 1285.80].

If a judgment lien on real property has been created under a money judgment that is thereafter modified to reduce its amount, the judgment lien continues under the terms of the judgment as modified, whether or not the modification is recorded as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 697.360(a) [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.360(b)]. If a judgment lien on real property has been created under a money judgment that is thereafter modified to increase its amount, the judgment lien continues under the terms of the original judgment until the modification is recorded. At the time of recording, the judgment lien extends to the judgment as modified, but the priority for the additional amount under the judgment as modified dates from the time the modification is recorded [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.360(c); see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.380 for priority of liens].

However, if the lien was created by recording an abstract of support judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.320] and the support order is thereafter modified to increase its amount, the judgment lien extends to the judgment as modified without the need for recording another abstract of support judgment. In such a case, the priority for the additional amount under the judgment dates from the time when the modification is effective [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.360(d)].

A support obligee must respond in a timely manner to both of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.360(e)]:

- A request from a title or escrow company for a demand statement needed to close an escrow relating to a support judgment lien, or

- A request from a support obligor who claims an error exists in the amount of the alleged arrears.

An obligor who complies with the procedures for obtaining a satisfaction of judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.010 et seq.] is entitled to the remedies specified therein [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.360(f)].

§ 258.52 Liens on Personal Property

A lien may also be imposed on certain items of the obligor's personal property, although this procedure may not be used to enforce installment payments that have not yet matured, such as for continuing child or spousal support payments. A judgment lien on personal property may be created only if the judgment is a money judgment first entered in California after June 30, 1983 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.510(a)]. Except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 697.540(b) (relating to court-ordered installment payments on certain money judgments), a judgment lien may not be created under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.510-697.670 if the money judgment is payable in installments unless all of the installments under the judgment have become due and payable at the time the notice of judgment lien is filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.510(a)]. Therefore, child or spousal support orders for periodic payments are not enforceable by this method, although a support judgment for a lump sum or a family law judgment for property is [see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.510(a)].

A judgment lien on personal property may be created pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 697.510 et seq. as an alternative or in addition to a lien created by levy under a writ of execution pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 699.010 et seq., or by use of an enforcement procedure provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 708.010 et seq. (miscellaneous creditor's remedies) [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.520].

Personal property attachable by a judgment lien created pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 697.510 et seq. is described in Code Civ. Proc. § 697.530. This type of lien may be created by filing a notice of judgment lien with the Secretary of State pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 697.510 et seq. [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.510(a), 697.570]. The judgment debtor must promptly be served with notice of the lien [see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.560].

Other things being equal, first in time is first in right with respect to competing liens upon the same property regardless of one being for support [Civ. Code § 2897; see Cappa v. F & K Rock & Sand, Inc. (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 172, 175, 249 Cal. Rptr. 718] . The Second District Court of Appeal has held that the prior contractual liens of a father's attorney and medical providers took precedence over a lien for child support arrearages lodged against the father's personal injury award [Wujcik v. Wujcik (1994) 21 Cal. App. 4th 1790, 1793-1795, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 102] . The language in Fam. Code § 4011 providing that support payments should be made prior to payment of debts to other creditors means that a parent cannot claim inability to pay child support by voluntarily creating large debts in relation to income [see In re Marriage of Kirk (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 597, 607, 266 Cal. Rptr. 76] ; but it does not establish a priority for support judgments different from that set forth in Civ. Code § 2897 [*Wujcik v. Wujcik (1994) 21 Cal. The court's general power to enforce its family law judgments and orders is governed by Fam. Code § 290. Fam. Code § 290 also governs the court's authority to order security to enforce a property division. Fam. Code § 4012 governs orders for security to enforce child support. Fam. Code § 4339 governs orders for security to enforce spousal support. Fam. Code §§ 4600-4641 set out special statutory procedures regarding deposits to secure payment for the support of a minor child.

Support obligations under the Uniform Parentage Act [Fam. Code § 7600 et seq.] are also enforceable by an order requiring the furnishing of a bond or other security for the payment of a judgment [Fam. Code § 7637; for further discussion, see Ch. 412, Paternity]. Penal Code § 270b gives the court the power to order security for support in criminal nonsupport cases [for further discussion, see Ch. 394, Parent and Child].

22-258 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 258.61

§ 258.61 General Statutory Authority to Order Reasonable Security

[1] Child and Spousal Support

A court is authorized generally to enforce judgments or orders made under the Family Code, including orders for child or spousal support, by any orders that the court in its discretion determines to be necessary [see Fam. Code § 290; see also Fam. Code §§ 3900-4203 (child support), 4300-4360 (spousal support)]. In addition, security for payment of support can always be provided for in a property settlement agreement and, in the event the settlement is merged in a decree of dissolution, will be enforced by a court according to terms of agreement [see Petersen v. Petersen (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 201, 203, 209, 100 Cal. Rptr. 822] .

Fam. Code § 4012 includes a provision authorizing a court, on a showing of "good cause," to order that a party required to pay child support give reasonable security for the payment. A comparable provision in Fam. Code § 4339 authorizes a court to make an order for reasonable security for the enforcement of future spousal support payments, with no mention of a required showing of good cause. It appears that the purpose of the provisions is to provide a practical method of ensuring the continued compliance with the order for support payments, in the same sense that a mortgage secures the payments provided for in a promissory note [Miller v. Miller (1942) 52 Cal. App. 2d 443, 445-446, 126 P.2d 357 (decided under former Civ. Code § 140, which authorized court to enforce child or spousal support order by requiring reasonable security for payments, by appointing a receiver, or by using any other applicable remedy)].

An additional statutory procedure exists to enforce child support orders by obtaining a court-ordered deposit of security for future support payments [see Fam. Code §§ 4600-4641; for further discussion, see also Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement].

[2] Property Division

A court is authorized generally to enforce orders made under the Family Code, including orders for property division, by any orders that the court in its discretion determines to be necessary [see Fam. Code § 290]. By implication, this statutory authority permits the court to order a spouse to post security to ensure or enforce the court's orders for property division contained in a judgment of dissolution or legal separation [see Fam. Code §§ 2500-2660 (property division)].

For discussion of property rights and procedure for division of property, see Ch. 222. Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation .

§ 258.62 Showing Required

Under Fam. Code § 4012, a court has the discretion to order security for payment of child support on a showing of "good cause." The spousal support statute does not expressly require that there be good cause for the order [see Fam. Code § 4339]. In addition, the security ordered to enforce either spousal or child support must be "reasonable" [Fam. Code §§ 4012, 4339].

It is proper for a court to deny a motion for security when, at the time of the motion, there was no arrearage in monthly payments, even though contempt proceedings had been necessary from time to time to compel payment of child support [Hilmer v. Superior Court (1934) 220 Cal. 71, 72-73, 29 P.2d 175 (decided under former Civ. Code § 140)]. It has been suggested, however, that past difficulty in collecting support should weigh in favor of granting security for future payments [Blankenship v. Blankenship (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 736, 745-746, 28 Cal. Rptr. 176 (lien under former Civ. Code § 140)]. One court has held that ordering security for payments of spousal and child support was proper when the record showed that the obligor had stated his intention to sell the property and leave the country [Gonzalez v. Gonzalez (1957) 152 Cal. App. 2d 103, 107-108, 312 P.2d 333 (lien under former Civ. Code § 140)].

Once the court has found cause to require security for the payment of court ordered support, it must reasonably restrict the order so that it will not deprive the obligor of property for an indefinite period of time or on contingencies uncertain ever to occur [In re Marriage of Johnson (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 148, 161-162, 184 Cal. Rptr. 444 (lien unreasonable when ordered "until it is clearly shown to the court that [the obligor] has solved his personal problems and shown himself to be sufficiently responsible to assure the prompt payment of child and spousal support")].

§ 258.63 Procedure

No procedure is expressly mandated for obtaining an order for security to enforce child or spousal support [but see Ch. 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement , for discussion of procedure for obtaining a court-ordered deposit of security for future child support payments]. However, it is improper to order a party to post security for payment of support when the party entitled to support did not request such an order and the supporting party had no opportunity at a hearing to make a showing regarding why security should not be ordered [see Blankenship v. Blankenship (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 736, 745-746, 28 Cal. Rptr. 176 ; Wilson v. Wilson (1951) 104 Cal. App. 2d 167, 174, 231 P.2d 128 (decided under former Civ. Code 140)]. Thus, the recommended procedure for obtaining security would be the use of the order to show cause or notice of motion [see Cal. Judicial Council Forms FL-300, FL-301; for forms that may adapted for use, see also Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support and Ch. 225, Dissolution of Marriage: Spousal Support].

22-258 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 258.64

§ 258.64 Types of Security

[1] Liens

A court may require a spouse to furnish security for the payment of child or spousal support by making a lien on that spouse's interest in community property [Reed v. Hayward (1943) 23 Cal. 2d 336, 341-342, 144 P.2d 561 (spousal support); Gonzalez v. Gonzalez (1957) 152 Cal. App. 2d 103, 107-108, 312 P.2d 333 (child support) (both cases decided under former Civ. Code § 140)]. Once such a lien was created, however, a court could not order the supporting spouse to execute a mortgage in satisfaction of the lien because the court's power was limited to the lien's creation [Miller v. Miller (1962) 227 Cal. App. 2d 322, 329, 38 Cal. Rptr. 571] . One court has held that the imposition of a lien to secure support payments is an extraordinary and harsh remedy to be resorted to only in cases when other, less onerous remedies are not available [Loomis v. Loomis (1960) 181 Cal. App. 2d 345, 347, 5 Cal. Rptr. 550] .

A lien created as security for future payments is distinguishable from a judgment lien for child or spousal support. A judgment lien on real or personal property is created to enforce an order establishing support arrearages and cannot apply to future payments accruing after recordation of the judgment lien [Simonet v. Simonet (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 612, 621, 69 Cal. Rptr. 806 (decided under prior lien statute, now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.320 (real property) and 697.530 (personal property)]. For discussion of judgment liens, see § 258.50 et seq., and Ch. 318, Judgments, § 318.90 et seq.

[2] Trusts

A court may require a party obligated to pay child or spousal support to put money or property in trust as a means of providing security [Witaschek v. Witaschek (1942) 56 Cal. App. 2d 277, 282, 132 P.2d 600 (decided under former Civ. Code § 140)]. Because a support obligation can be enforced against the obligated party's separate property, the court's power to require the placing of property in trust for the payment of support extends to separate as well as community property [see Fam. Code § 4338; (setting forth order of payment from community, quasi-community, and separate property); Smith v. Smith (1942) 49 Cal. App. 2d 716, 719-720, 122 P.2d 346] .

[3] Life Insurance Policies

A court may exercise its power to require security by an order making the supported party a beneficiary of insurance on the obligated party's life [Franklin Life Ins. Co. v. Kitchens (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 623, 629-632, 57 Cal. Rptr. 652 (decided under former Civ. Code § 140)]. At least one earlier decision, however, held that the term "security" did not contemplate protection against the possibility of death by building up an independent insurance estate, reasoning that such a policy does not provide for maintenance of the beneficiary and is effective only on the supporting party's death [Miller v. Miller (1942) 52 Cal. App. 2d 443, 445-446, 126 P.2d 357 (decided under former Civ. Code § 140)].

[4] Bonds

One form of security that a court might require is a bond. In the event such a bond is ordered, the parties' rights with respect to the security will be governed by the law of suretyship [see Civ. Code §§ 2787-2855; Code Civ. Proc. § 995.010 et seq.]. For discussion and forms relating to suretyship, see Ch. 538, Suretyship, Bonds, and Undertakings . In addition, the party seeking enforcement might be required to proceed against the obligated party before resorting to the surety [see Civ. Code § 2845].

§ 258.70 Governing Law

The appointment of receivers to enforce judgments or orders under the Family Code is expressly authorized by Fam. Code § 290. The appointment of receivers in superior court cases other than in limited civil cases generally is governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 564-570. Appointment of receivers on ex parte application is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 566(b) and by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1175 and 3.1176. Various rules relating to receivers are set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1177-3.1184. With respect to the foregoing rules, see the discussion at § 258.73, below.

The appealability of an order appointing a receiver is covered in Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1(a)(7) and the effect of the appeal on the order in Code Civ. Proc. § 917.5. Bonds and undertakings are governed by the Bond and Undertaking Law (Code Civ. Proc. § 995.010 et seq.).

In addition, many multijudge courts have adopted local court rules or policies relating to appointment of receivers and receiverships in family law cases and must be complied with. Therefore, if counsel is unfamiliar with them, he or she should check the rules and policies of the court in which the family law proceeding is pending.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Appointment of Receiver

22-258 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 258.72

§ 258.72 Appointment of Receiver

[1] When Authorized

Any judgment or order made or entered pursuant to the Family Code may be enforced by the appointment of a receiver [Fam. Code § 290]. Thus, in an appropriate case a receiver will be appointed under Fam. Code § 290 to enforce support awards in a family law proceeding [see Alderson v. Alderson (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 450, 467-468, 225 Cal. Rptr. 610 (upholding appointment of receiver under former law when husband was over three months behind in child support payments and record reflected ongoing attempt by husband to thwart judicial process)].

A receiver may also be appointed to take charge of and sell the community assets, pay the community liabilities, and divide the proceeds equally between the parties in order to carry out the terms of the judgment dividing the property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(3)], when a spouse's conduct seriously and dangerously jeopardizes both the community assets and his or her ability to pay spousal and child support. "Whenever financial mismanagement and the intransigence of the parties threaten to dissipate the community property before a division can take place, the trial court has discretion to appoint a receiver to protect the community estate" [Rosenthal v. Rosenthal (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 927, 932-934, 50 Cal. Rptr. 385] .

Moreover, under the provisions Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(9), authorizing appointment of receivers "in all other cases where necessary to preserve the property or rights of any party," a receiver may in a proper case be appointed on ex parte application at the commencement of the family law proceeding before the summons has been served [Nichols v. Superior Court (1934) 1 Cal. 2d 589, 594-596, 36 P.2d 380 ; see also Guay v. Superior Court (1957) 147 Cal. App. 2d 764, 767, 305 P.2d 990 (filiation proceeding)].

By the receiver's possession of the property and the subsequent publication of the summons, the court acquires quasi in rem jurisdiction and may subject the property seized to the satisfaction of the subsequent judgment, as well as to payment of the preliminary expenses and charges of the proceeding [Nichols v. Superior Court (1934) 1 Cal. 2d 589, 598-600, 36 P.2d 380 ; see also Conklin v. Superior Court (1934) 1 Cal. 2d 601, 603, 36 P.2d 386] . This rule is subject to the qualification that the respondent have sufficient minimum contacts with the state such that maintenance of the suit does not offend traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice [see Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 207-208, 216-217, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683 ; for further discussion of this qualification, see also Ch. 323, Jurisdiction: Personal , General Introduction].

[2] Who May Apply

Either party may apply for the appointment of a receiver [see Armbrust v. Armbrust (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 272, 274, 171 P.2d 75] . In addition, the court may appoint a receiver on its own motion [Venza v. Venza (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 878, 883-884, 211 P.2d 913 (nevertheless stressing fact that parties had consented to trial court's appointment)].

[3] Application

There are three separate ways to apply for the appointment of a receiver:

- Ex parte application for the immediate appointment of a receiver and order to show cause why the appointment should not be confirmed, followed by a hearing on the order to show cause;

- Ex parte application for an order to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed, followed by a hearing on the order to show cause; or

- Notice of motion for appointment of receiver, followed by a hearing of the motion.

The first of these procedures is for use when an emergency situation exists requiring the immediate appointment of a receiver without notice to the adverse party, although advance "notification" of the presentation of the application may be required [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1200-3.1207; and discussion at § 258.73, below; see also Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rules 9.51(d), 14.0; Bay Area Super. Ct. Dom. Rel. Rules, Rule I(D)(1)]. An ex parte application for the appointment of a receiver pendente lite is rarely granted, and, if it is, the applicant must file an undertaking in an amount fixed by the court to indemnify the defendant against loss in the event it is subsequently determined that the procurement of the appointment was wrongful, malicious, or without sufficient cause [Code Civ. Proc. § 566(b)].

The second procedure (order to show cause why receiver should not be appointed) is for use as a substitute for the third procedure (notice of motion) when the adverse party has not yet appeared in the proceeding.

The third is the most common procedure and is for use when counsel determines that the appointment can await a hearing of the application.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Appointment of Receiver

22-258 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 258.73

§ 258.73 Applicability of Civil Law and Motion Rules to Family Code Proceedings

The Civil Law and Motion Rules (Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100-3.1370) contain a number of requirements and apply in all trial courts [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1100]. For example, Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.113 requires the service and filing of points and authorities with a notice of motion; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306 governs evidence at hearings and Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1200-3.1207 require that an ex parte application be accompanied by an affidavit or declaration of prior notification to the opposing party or excuse from notification. The Rules for Receiverships provide procedures for the appointment of receivers and the conduct of receiverships [Cal Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1175 et seq.]. These rules cover ex parte appointment of receivers [Cal Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1175], confirmation of ex parte appointments [Cal Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1176], nomination of receivers [Cal Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1177], and the role of the receiver as the agent of the court [Cal Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1179], as well as procedures for conducting receiverships [Cal Rules of Ct., Rules 3.180-3.184]. For a discussion of these and other law and motion rules, see Ch. 486, Receivers .

For the purposes of the Civil Law and Motion Rules, "law and motion" is defined as including proceedings on application before trial for an order, with three exceptions, one of them being causes arising under the Family Code [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a)(1)]. Hence, under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a)(1), an application for an order before trial in a family law proceeding is excluded from operation of the Civil Law and Motion Rules, and none of the Civil Law and Motion rules mentioned above applies.

The term "law and motion" is further defined in the rules as including proceedings on application for an order regarding the enforcement of judgment [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a)(2)]. Hence, proceedings on application for an order regarding the enforcement of a family law judgment, not being excluded by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a)(1), discussed above, are subject to the Civil Law and Motion Rules, including the rules mentioned above.

Thus, under the definitions and exclusion set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a), a pretrial application for the appointment of a receiver in a family law case is excluded from the Civil Law and Motion Rules, but a posttrial application for the appointment of a receiver to enforce a family law judgment and any orders in the judgment (Fam. Code § 290) is subject to the rules.

Without more, Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a) would be fairly clear as to the applicability of the rules in a family law proceeding, although it is not entirely clear why the rules should apply to a posttrial but not a pretrial application for appointment of a receiver. However, "law and motion" is further defined in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a)(2) as including proceedings on application for the appointment of a receiver. No time limitation is imposed on when the application is made vis-a-vis the trial, or whether the appointment is made on ex parte application or by noticed motion. This provision presents a problem in construction: does Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a)(2), making the law and motion rules applicable to applications for the appointment of a receiver prevail over the exclusion set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a)(1), insofar as pretrial applications for the appointment of a receiver are concerned, or is it subject to it? Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a) would, on its face, appear to be ambiguous on this point and, whatever the meaning intended, additional words would have to be interpolated to clarify that intention; that is, either the phrase "notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraph (1)" or the phrase "subject to the provisions of subparagraph (1)," or words to that effect, would have to be read into Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a)(2) to determine with certainty the applicability of the Civil Law and Motion Rules to a pretrial application for an order appointing a receiver in a family law proceeding.

Until this ambiguity is clarified by the Judicial Council or in a published appellate opinion, it is suggested that counsel comply with the Civil Law and Motion Rules whether the application for appointment of a receiver is made before trial or not. Moreover, even if the Civil Law and Motion Rules do not apply to pretrial applications for orders in family law proceedings, local court rules may contain similar or other requirements and should be checked if counsel is unfamiliar with them.

Judgments or orders of a court made or entered under the Family Code may be enforced by contempt pursuant to Fam. Code § 290. Additional authority to compel obedience to a court's judgments, orders, and process is contained in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 128(a)(4), 177(2), 177.5, 178. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1209-1222 define the conduct that constitutes contempt and govern contempt proceedings. Contemptuous conduct that is punishable as a misdemeanor is described in Penal Code § 166. Special factors required to be considered in family law contempt proceedings are set forth in Fam. Code § 2026 (reconciliation of the parties).

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Contempt

22-258 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 258.81

§ 258.81 Orders Enforceable by Contempt

[1] General Principles and Historical Background

Fam. Code § 290 provides broadly for enforcement by contempt of any judgment or under made or entered pursuant to the Family Code. Orders for child or spousal support, child custody, visitation, attorney's fees and costs, and orders restraining conduct typically are enforceable by contempt [see Miller v. Superior Court (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 923, 930, 151 Cal. Rptr. 6, 587 P.2d 723 ; Miller v. Superior Court (1937) 9 Cal. 2d 733, 736, 72 P.2d 868 ; In re Marriage of Thompson (1979) 96 Cal. App. 3d 621, 625, 158 Cal. Rptr. 160 ; Tilghman v. Superior Court (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 599, 607, 115 Cal. Rptr. 195 ; Fam. Code § 290].

However, contempt has not been available historically to enforce mere contractual obligations or adjudications of property rights [see Plumer v. Superior Court (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 631, 635-637, 328 P.2d 193 ; In re Fontana (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 1008, 1011, 101 Cal. Rptr. 465] . The unavailability of contempt for these purposes developed from the premise that an ordinary money judgment, for example, does not order an alleged contemnor to pay anything, but simply adjudicates an amount that is owed [see Thomas v. Thomas (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 355, 357, 94 P.2d 810] . More significantly, because a finding of contempt poses the possibility of incarceration [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1218(c), 1219(a)], use of contempt as a remedy for a failure to pay money owed raises the issue of violating constitutional prohibitions on imprisonment for debt [see Cal. Const., art. I, § 10; see also U.S. Const., amend. XIII (prohibiting involuntary servitude)].

More recently, restrictions on the use of contempt authority to enforce judgments or orders for the payment of money have narrowed. While purely contractual obligations are still not generally enforceable by contempt [see In re Marriage of Lane (1985) 165 Cal. App. 3d 1143, 1147, 211 Cal. Rptr. 262 ; see also Plummer v. Superior Court (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 158, 161-165, 124 P.2d 5 ; In re Marriage of Jones (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 1097, 1103-1104, 241 Cal. Rptr. 231] , judgments or orders requiring the performance of some action to achieve a division of community property increasingly have been held enforceable by contempt [see Verner v. Verner (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 718, 729, 143 Cal. Rptr. 826 ; In re Marriage of Fithian (1977) 74 Cal. App. 3d 397, 404-406, 141 Cal. Rptr. 506 ; but see In re Fontana (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 1008, 1011, 101 Cal. Rptr. 465 (order that husband pay wife so that she could make payments on auto as not enforceable by contempt); Martins v. Superior Court (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 870, 875, 90 Cal. Rptr. 898 (order for payment of money by way of property settlement as not enforceable by contempt)]. For further discussion of such orders, see [9][a], below.

[2] Child Support

[a] Enforceable as Law-Imposed Obligation

It is well-settled that judgments or orders for the payment of child support may be enforced by contempt proceedings [see County of Monterey v. Banuelos (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 1299, 1306-1307, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 710 (county that has paid support may enforce noncustodial parent's obligation to pay support by contempt in same manner as custodial parent); In re Marriage of Thompson (1979) 96 Cal. App. 3d 621, 625, 158 Cal. Rptr. 160] . Moreover, a court's order that an obligated parent pay creditors for goods and services furnished to, or on behalf of, a child for whom support may be ordered is enforceable by contempt [see Fam. Code §§ 290, 2023; see also Bushman v. Superior Court (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 177, 183, 108 Cal. Rptr. 765 ; In re Hendricks (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 793, 797-798, 85 Cal. Rptr. 220] .

The Family Code clarifies that all court orders for child support, including those based on agreements entered into on or after January 1, 1970, are imposed by law and made under the power of the court to render such orders. The support provisions of any such agreements are deemed to be separate and severable from all other provisions relating to property and spousal support [see Fam. Code §§ 3585, 3651(d), (e)]. Thus, if such an order is willfully disobeyed, there should be no question that the disobedience was directed to the court [see Fam. Code § 3585, 3651(d), (e)]. For discussion of the statutory presumption of contempt with regard to nonpayment of court-ordered child support [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1209.5; see [b], below.

The use of contempt authority to enforce orders for the payment of child support applies to orders for the support of adult children, as well as to stipulations to pay such support, or stipulations for the continuation of child support after a child attains majority [see Fam. Code §§ 58 (child for whom support may be ordered includes minor or child for whom support authorized under Fam. Code §§ 3587, 3901, 3910) Fam. Code § 290 (order made under Family Code may be enforced by contempt), 3587 (court to effectuate agreement for support of adult child), 3901 (duration of duty), 3910 (duty to maintain incapacitated child), 4001 (order for child support), 4500 (support orders enforceable under Family Code)].

[b] Statutory Prima Facie Case

When a court of competent jurisdiction makes an order compelling a parent to furnish support or necessary food, clothing, shelter, medical attendance, or other remedial care for his or her child, proof that the order was made, filed, and served on the parent, or proof that the parent was present in court when the order was pronounced, and proof that the parent did not comply with the order, is prima facie evidence of a contempt of court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1209.5]. Code Civ. Proc. § 1209.5 has been upheld as constitutional [Martin v. Superior Court (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 412, 418, 95 Cal. Rptr. 110 ; see Moss v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 396, 428, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 215, 950 P.2d 59 (no constitutional impediment to creation of contempt offense for failure to support child in which ability to pay is not an element); see also County of Monterey v. Banuelos (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 1299, 1306-1307, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 710 (county that has paid support is also entitled to a "seek work" order pursuant to statute, and may enforce noncustodial parent's obligation to pay support by contempt in same manner as custodial parent)].

Once this prima facie case has been established, the alleged contemnor has the burden of showing inability to pay by a preponderance of the evidence. In other words, inability to pay is an affirmative defense. Proof of ability to pay is not an element of the underlying contempt charge that must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt by the petitioner. Furthermore, contrary to prior appellate case law, the fact that the alleged contemnor merely raises the ability pay as an issue does not shift the burden to the petitioner to prove ability to pay. All the petitioner is required to prove beyond a reasonable doubt are the elements of the prima facie case set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 1209.5 [Moss v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 396, 425, 428, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 215, 950 P.2d 59 (disapproving, but only to extent inconsistent on this latter point, In re Feiock (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 141, 263 Cal. Rptr. 437); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1209.5]. For related discussion, see § 258.82[4], below.

For general discussion of contempt, see Ch. 135, Contempt .

[3] Spousal Support

It is well settled that court orders or judgments that require the payment of spousal support are enforceable by contempt [Fam. Code § 290; see Tilghman v. Superior Court (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 599, 612, 115 Cal. Rptr. 195] . Moreover, an order that an obligated party pay creditors for goods and services furnished to or on behalf of the other party may be enforced by contempt as a form of "support accountability" [see Fam. Code §§ 290, 2023; Bushman v. Superior Court (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 177, 182-183, 108 Cal. Rptr. 765 ; In re Hendricks (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 793, 797-798, 85 Cal. Rptr. 220 (order to pay parties' community debts)].

Under the Family Code, spousal support provisions in a marital settlement agreement entered into on or after January 1, 1970, are deemed to be separate and severable from the property division provisions in the agreement. All orders for the support of either party based on the agreement are deemed law-imposed and made under the power of the court to make such orders; these orders are enforceable by contempt [Fam. Code §§ 3590, 3593; see In re Marriage of Harris (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 143, 150, 134 Cal. Rptr. 891 ; In re Marriage of Smiley (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 228, 232, 125 Cal. Rptr. 717 (both construing 1967 amendments to predecessor statute to mean that all wife support provisions of a property settlement agreement, whether or not merged, merely approved, or integrated were both modifiable and enforceable by contempt); but see Tilghman v. Superior Court (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 599, 612, 115 Cal. Rptr. 195 (agreement's spousal support provisions that court merely "approves" without being incorporated into judgment are deemed enforceable as contractual obligation only, absent separate spousal support orders in judgment)].

[4] Family Support

When the provisions for any agreement entered into on or after January 1, 1970, combine child support and spousal support without designating the amount to be paid for either types of support, the combined support payments are known as family support [Fam. Code §§ 92, 3586. These combined payments are enforceable in the same manner and to the same extent as a child support order [Fam. Code § 4501]. For a discussion of enforcement of child support orders by contempt, see [2][a], above.

[5] Orders Requiring Security for Support

Court orders requiring the posting of security for child support or spousal support are enforceable by contempt [see Fam. Code § 290; In re Sigesmund (1961) 193 Cal. App. 2d 219, 223, 14 Cal. Rptr. 221] . For a discussion of orders requiring security for support payments, § 258.61[1] and Ch 259, Family Law Enforcement: Special Remedies for Support Enforcement.

[6] Custody and Visitation

Contempt proceedings may be used to enforce child custody and visitation orders, including orders issued by a foreign court [see Miller v. Superior Court (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 923, 927, 929-930, 151 Cal. Rptr. 6, 587 P.2d 723 ; Coursey v. Superior Court (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 147, 154-157, 239 Cal. Rptr. 365 (contempt judgment annulled in visitation matter)]. Contempt may be based on violation of a necessarily-implied term of a custody or visitation order, and does not require a finding that the contemnor's conduct violated only a specific prohibition [see Rosin v. Superior Court (1960) 181 Cal. App. 2d 486, 494-495, 5 Cal. Rptr. 421] .

A court's judgment holding a parent in civil contempt for failure to return a child after scheduled visitation does not bar a subsequent criminal action for the same conduct, because the criminal prosecution does not violate the double jeopardy provisions of the state or federal constitutions [see People v. Derner (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 588, 591-593, 227 Cal. Rptr. 344 ; see also People v. Batey (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1281, 1288-1289, 228 Cal. Rptr. 787 , cert. denied, 480 U.S. 932] . For further discussion of the distinction between civil and criminal contempt proceedings, see § 258.83, below.

[7] Attorney's Fees and Costs

Orders for the payment of attorney's fees and costs are enforceable by contempt [Fam. Code § 290; Freeman v. Superior Court (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 533, 537-539, 282 P.2d 857 ; Sorell v. Superior Court (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 157, 159, 56 Cal. Rptr. 222] . Similarly, orders requiring security for the payment of attorney's fees and costs are enforceable by contempt [see In re Sigesmund (1961) 193 Cal. App. 2d 219, 223, 14 Cal. Rptr. 221] .

Sentencing a spouse in contempt under Code Civ. Proc. § 1218(c) does not preclude the court from also ordering that spouse to pay the other spouse's reasonable attorney's fees and costs incurred in connection with the contempt proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 1281(a), because these provisions are not mutually exclusive [Goold v. Superior Court (2006) 145 Cal. App. 4th 1, 10-12, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 455].

[8] Restraining Orders

Orders requiring a party to do, or to refrain from doing, a particular act, are enforceable by contempt [see Fam. Code § 290]. In addition, violation of certain of these orders is specifically prohibited by the Penal Code and punishable as a misdemeanor [see Penal Code § 273.6 (punishment for violation of restraining orders obtained pursuant to Family Code)].

[9] Orders Dividing Property

[a] When Enforceable

Judgments and orders requiring the payment of money or transfer of assets in connection with a division of community property have not always been enforceable by contempt because of the constitutional prohibition on imprisonment for debt [see Cal. Const., art. I, § 10; see also U.S. Const., amend. XIII] and the concept that ordinary money judgments are mere adjudications of rights, rather than a command of the court to pay something [see § 258.81[1], above].

Currently, however, restrictions on the use of contempt authority have narrowed. Thus, disobedience of an order to relinquish a portion of a specific fund of money or to convey property as part of an in-kind division of community property may be punished by contempt. Contempt findings have been upheld for the failure to convey real property as ordered by a court as part of a division of community property [see Sullivan v. Superior Court (1925) 72 Cal. App. 531, 533-536, 237 P. 782] . Similarly, contempt has been held available to enforce an order requiring a spouse to pay over the other spouse's community share of retirement benefits or pension payments [Verner v. Verner (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 718, 729, 143 Cal. Rptr. 826 ; In re Marriage of Fithian (1977) 74 Cal. App. 3d 397, 404-406, 141 Cal. Rptr. 506 ; see In re Marriage of Thomas (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 631, 635-638, 203 Cal. Rptr. 58] .

However, there is still some judicial authority implying that orders requiring the payment of money in connection with a property division are not enforceable by contempt, but these appear to contradict the modern trend of enforceability [see In re Fontana (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 1008, 1011, 101 Cal. Rptr. 465 ; Martins v. Superior Court (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 870, 875, 90 Cal. Rptr. 898] . Nevertheless, an order that requires payment of community debts from an obligated party's separate property may not be subject to enforcement by contempt because of the prohibition on imprisonment for debt [see In re Fontana (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 1008, 1011, 101 Cal. Rptr. 465] .

There is the further issue of enforceability when there is no actual court order involved. If a property division or transfer is required pursuant to a marital agreement that the court has not ordered the parties to perform through merger of the agreement into the overall judgment, noncompliance with the agreement's terms may be subject only to contractual remedies [see Plummer v. Superior Court (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 158, 161-165, 124 P.2d 5 ; Lazar v. Superior Court (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 617, 620, 107 P.2d 249 ; see also In re Marriage of Jones (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 1097, 1103-1104, 241 Cal. Rptr. 231 ; In re Marriage of Lane (1985) 165 Cal. App. 3d 1143, 1147, 211 Cal. Rptr. 262 ; *Howarth v. Howarth (1947) 81 Cal. [b] Effect of Bankruptcy

It appears that contempt would not be available as a remedy to enforce a property obligation that was properly discharged in bankruptcy, without violating federal law. The automatic stay provisions of federal bankruptcy law generally preclude the bringing of any enforcement action, including contempt, in state court during the pendency of the bankruptcy action regarding assets that are part of the bankruptcy estate. Similarly, once an obligation has been legally discharged in bankruptcy, federal law generally precludes enforcement of the obligation [see In re Brock (1986) 58 B.R. 797] .

However, whether a particular obligation is dischargeable must be separately determined by, for example, bringing an adversary proceeding in bankruptcy court to determine dischargeability [see generally 11 U.S.C. §§ 523, 524, 727, 1141, 1328; 28 U.S.C. §§ 157, 1334, 1452; see also In re Teichman (1985) 774 F.2d 1395, 1397 (both former spouses filed complaints in bankruptcy court to determine dischargeability)]. While many property obligations have been found historically dischargeable [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Williams (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 1215, 1220, 203 Cal. Rptr. 909 (payment to effect equal division of community property as dischargeable; decided before changes to bankruptcy law under 1994 Act); but see § 258.16[3]], some property divisions have been subject to only limited dischargeability [see, e.g., In re Teichman (1985) 774 F.2d 1395, 1397-1400 (obligation to pay over military retirement benefits was only partially dischargeable)], and the Bankruptcy Reform Act of 1994 created new rules in this area, as discussed in § 258.16[3]. For a complete discussion of the dischargeability of community obligations, see Collier Family Law And The Bankruptcy Code, Ch. 6.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Contempt

22-258 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 258.82

§ 258.82 Elements of Contempt

[1] Prima Facie Case in General

In general, constructive or indirect contempt consists of the willful disobedience of any lawful judgment, order, or process of the court by a person having knowledge of, and the ability to comply with, that judgment, order, or process [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1209(a)(5); Freeman v. Superior Court (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 533, 537, 282 P.2d 857 ; Phillips v. Superior Court (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 256, 257-258, 137 P.2d 838 ; Coursey v. Superior Court (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 147, 154, 239 Cal. Rptr. 365 ; Little v. Superior Court (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 311, 317, 67 Cal. Rptr. 77] . For discussion of prima facie evidence of contempt with regard to nonpayment of court-ordered child support under Code Civ. Proc. § 1209.5, see § 258.81[1] and [2][b], above.

[2] Willful Disobedience of Lawful Order

Conduct that is contemptuous of the court must be found to be willful, in the sense that it is legally inexcusable [see Little v. Superior Court (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 311, 317, 67 Cal. Rptr. 77] . However, the court order or judgment allegedly disobeyed must be valid and lawful; refusal to obey a void order or judgment does not constitute contempt [In re Berry (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 137, 147, 65 Cal. Rptr. 273, 436 P.2d 273 ; Kreling v. Superior Court (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 884, 885, 118 P.2d 470 ; see Ketscher v. Superior Court (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 601, 604-605, 88 Cal. Rptr. 357] .

In addition, the order or judgment must be sufficiently definite or disobedience of it cannot be the basis for a finding of contempt [Ketscher v. Superior Court (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 601, 604-605, 88 Cal. Rptr. 357] .

[3] Knowledge of Judgment or Order

An adjudication of contempt requires a finding that the alleged contemnor had knowledge of the involved judgment or order [see Freeman v. Superior Court (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 533, 537, 282 P.2d 857 ; Phillips v. Superior Court (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 256, 257-258, 137 P.2d 838] . It is insufficient to show only that the alleged contemnor is a party to the proceeding [Phillips v. Superior Court (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 256, 258, 137 P.2d 838] .

Knowledge may be established by evidence that an order was made orally in court and the alleged contemnor was present when it was made, or that a copy of the judgment or order was served on the alleged contemnor [Phillips v. Superior Court (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 256, 257-258, 137 P.2d 838 ; Mitchell v. Superior Court (1912) 163 Cal. 423, 424-425, 125 P. 1061] . Knowledge may also be established by evidence that the alleged contemnor sought relief related to the judgment or order at some time before the date of disobedience, such as by seeking modification of it [Shibley v. Superior Court (1927) 202 Cal. 738, 741, 262 P. 332 ; Robinson v. Superior Court (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 644, 648, 9 Cal. Rptr. 130] .

A rebuttable presumption of knowledge is raised in the following circumstances:

- The alleged contemnor obeyed the order or judgment for some time before the date of disobedience [see Shibley v. Superior Court (1927) 202 Cal. 738, 741, 262 P. 332] ;

- The alleged contemnor's attorney was present in court when an order was orally made [Freeman v. Superior Court (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 533, 537-538, 282 P.2d 857] ; or

- A copy of the order or judgment was served on the alleged contemnor's attorney [In re Sigesmund (1961) 193 Cal. App. 2d 219, 223-224, 14 Cal. Rptr. 221] , or notice of entry of the order or judgment was served on the attorney [Mossman v. Superior Court (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 706, 711-712, 99 Cal. Rptr. 638] .

[4] Ability to Comply

[a] In General

The ability of an alleged contemnor to comply with a judgment or order must be established to support a finding of contempt for disobedience of it [see In re Liu (1969) 273 Cal. App. 2d 135, 140, 78 Cal. Rptr. 85 (ability to comply as fact essential to establish jurisdiction for contempt proceeding); see also Coursey v. Superior Court (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 147, 154-156, 239 Cal. Rptr. 365 ; Warner v. Superior Court (1954) 126 Cal. App. 2d 821, 824, 273 P.2d 89] . Conversely, a lack of ability to comply may be raised as a defense to a charge of contempt [see Messenger v. Messenger (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 619, 629, 297 P.2d 988 ; Bailey v. Superior Court (1932) 215 Cal. 548, 552, 11 P.2d 865] .

Ability to comply is evaluated in relation to the time of alleged disobedience of the judgment or order in question. Thus, it is generally not necessary to allege a present ability to comply [see Lyon v. Superior Court (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 446, 450, 67 Cal. Rptr. 265, 439 P.2d 1 ; In re McCarty(1908) 154 Cal. 534, 536-537, 98 P. 540 ; Sorell v. Superior Court (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 157, 162-163, 56 Cal. Rptr. 222] . Ability to comply at the time the disobedience occurred is one of the allegations found in the mandatory Judicial Council form of declaration charging contempt [see § 258.130].

Special considerations regarding the ability to comply are involved with respect to support judgments or orders. For discussion of these considerations, see [b], below.

[b] Judgments and Orders for Support

A recurring issue in proceedings concerning contempt of support judgments or orders is whether the alleged contemnor had the ability to comply at the time the disobedience occurred. Historically, disobedience of a child or spousal support order has not been punished as contempt if the obligated party lacked the means to comply with the order because of his or her inability to pay [see Messenger v. Messenger (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 619, 629, 297 P.2d 988 ; Ex Parte Todd (1897) 119 Cal. 57, 58, 50 P. 1071 (disapproved as applied to child support in Moss v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 396, 401, 405, 422, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 215, 950 P.2d 59)]. An obligation to pay support is conditioned on having the ability to pay [see generally Fam. Code §§ 4051(b), 4053, 4320(c), (e)]. However, as discussed hereafter, the California Supreme Court has narrowed the circumstances in which "inability to pay" will excuse disobedience to a child support order [Moss v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 396, 401, 428, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 215, 950 P.2d 59 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1209.5].

In construing "inability to pay," courts have held that an obligated party may not simply stop making payments entirely when he or she is no longer able to pay at the level previously ordered. Instead, if that party reasonably foresees an extended period of inability to pay under an existing order, he or she should seek modification of the order, rather than disobeying it [see Bailey v. Superior Court (1932) 215 Cal. 548, 555, 11 P.2d 865] . Further, courts held that if the obligated party was not wholly unable to make payments, he or she should pay whatever portion of the court-ordered sum he or she was able to pay, because a reduced ability to pay does not excuse disobedience except to the extent that the court-ordered amount exceeds the obligated party's means [see Lyon v Superior Court (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 446, 450, 67 Cal. Rptr. 265, 439 P.2d 1 ; Hoerner v. Superior Court (1960) 182 Cal. App.2d 500, 505, 6 Cal. Rptr. 178] .

In applying these general precepts to spousal and child support, courts have generally held that a self-imposed inability to pay support generally is not an excuse for disobedience [Ex Parte Spencer (1890) 83 Cal. 460, 465-466, 23 P. 395 ; see Bailey v. Superior Court (1932) 215 Cal. 548, 552, 11 P.2d 865] . Thus, it appears, for example, that if an obligated party is employed and voluntarily relinquishes employment to evade a support obligation, he or she could be found in contempt of court [see Bailey v. Superior Court (1932) 215 Cal. 548, 552, 11 P.2d 865] . To address that argument, however, a distinction must be made at present between spousal and child support obligations. In the case of spousal support, an obligated party who is unemployed and able to seek employment, but who refuses to do so, cannot generally be punished by contempt for this refusal, because of the constitutional prohibition [see U.S. Const., amend. XIII; Cal. Const., art. I, § 6] against involuntary servitude [see Ex Parte Todd (1897) 119 Cal. 57, 58, 50 P. 1071 (disapproved as applied to child support in Moss v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 396, 401, 405, 422, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 215, 950 P.2d 59); In re Jennings (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 373, 386, 184 Cal. Rptr. 53 ; see also In re Brown (1955) 136 Cal. App. 2d 40, 43, 288 P.2d 27 ; Bailey v. Superior Court (1932) 215 Cal. 548, 552, 11 P.2d 865] . In the case of child support, however, the Supreme Court rejected this analysis, in Moss v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 396, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 215, 950 P.2d 59 . In Moss, it concluded that there is no constitutional impediment to imposition of contempt sanctions on a parent "who, having the ability to do so, willfully fails to pay court-ordered child support, or when necessary to make payment possible willfully fails or refuses to seek and accept available employment for which the parent is suited by virtue of education, experience, and physical ability" [Moss v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 396, 422, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 215, 950 P.2d 59 ; accord United States v. Ballek (9th Cir. 1999) 170 F.3d 871, 875 ; cf. Fam. Code § 4505 (authorization for court to require parent to submit listing of employment applications); see County of Monterey v. Banuelos (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 1299, 1306-1307, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 710 (county that has paid support is also entitled to a "seek work" order pursuant to statute, and may enforce noncustodial parent's obligation to pay support by contempt in same manner as custodial parent)]. Moreover, a payor parent's inability to pay is an affirmative defense to be proven by a preponderance of evidence by that parent, not an element of the contempt offense to be proven by the party alleging noncompliance [Moss v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 396, 425-428, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 215, 950 P.2d 59] .

Although much of the Court's reasoning in Moss would appear to apply to an order to pay spousal support, the Court's decision expressly did not discuss the applicability of its ruling to that subject [Moss v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 396, 405, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 215, 950 P.2d 59] . At least one later reported decision, however, has inferred that this reasoning would also apply to spousal support. In that instance, a father was found in contempt of orders to pay a mother's pendente lite attorney and expert fees. The court held that when ability to pay has already been determined by the family court in making the order underlying the contempt, ability to pay is not an element of the contempt, but rather inability to pay is an affirmative defense. The court stated that this analysis applied not only to child support orders, but to other similar family law orders as well [In re Ivey (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 793, 798-798, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 447] .

A special statute governs the prima facie showing needed for contempt of judgments and orders for child support [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1209.5]. For discussion of this statute and its effect on establishing the ability to comply, see § 258.81[1] and [2][b], above.

F. Contempt

22-258 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 258.83

§ 258.83 Civil Versus Criminal Contempt

Willful disobedience of a lawful judgment or court order is subject to sanction under both the Code of Civil Procedure and the Penal Code [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1209-1222; Penal Code § 166; see also Penal Code § 273.6]. Contempt proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1209-1222 are special proceedings under Part Three of the Code of Civil Procedure (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1063-1822.59) but are often characterized as criminal or "quasi-criminal" in nature because of the penalties associated with a finding of contempt and some of the procedural safeguards required to be observed [see Raiden v. Superior Court (1949) 34 Cal. 2d 83, 86, 206 P.2d 1081 ; In re Kreitman (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 750, 754, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 595 (civil contempt proceedings are quasi-criminal because of penalties that court may impose); Coursey v. Superior Court (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 147, 153, 239 Cal. Rptr. 365 ; Mulvany v. Superior Court (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 906, 908-909, 229 Cal. Rptr. 334 ; In re Martin (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 472, 480, 139 Cal. Rptr. 451] .

However, trials of contempt enforcement matters under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1209-1222 are subject to the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure insofar as those provisions do not conflict with the due process rights of the alleged contemnor. Thus, for example, Code Civ. Proc. § 581(b)(1) permits dismissal of a contempt action at any time before actual commencement of trial. Furthermore, it does not violate principles of double jeopardy or Penal Code § 1387 (preventing reprosecution of certain criminal matters) if the moving party takes the matter off calendar, but later reschedules it, as long as there were no appearances and no hearing in the proceeding [see Mulvany v. Superior Court (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 906, 907-909, 229 Cal. Rptr. 334] .

In addition, a contempt proceeding is not, in fact, criminal if its main purpose is to coerce the alleged contemnor into complying with the court's orders, rather than punishing past conduct. In determining this purpose, the entire disposition of the case must be considered. Thus, a finding of civil contempt will not bar, on double jeopardy grounds, a criminal prosecution for the same conduct as that for which civil contempt was found [see People v. Batey (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1281, 1288-1289, 228 Cal. Rptr. 787 , cert. denied, 480 U.S. 932 ; see also People v. Derner (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 588, 591-593, 227 Cal. Rptr. 344] .

For discussion of misdemeanor contempt under the Penal Code [see Penal Code § 166], see Ch. 135, Contempt . For discussion of the standard of proof for a finding of contempt in family law proceedings, see § 258.89, below.

§ 258.86 Commencing Contempt Proceeding

[1] Jurisdiction

Subject matter jurisdiction to adjudicate contempt that is not prosecuted as a misdemeanor is exclusively in the particular court whose order was disobeyed [Otis v. Superior Court (1905) 148 Cal. 129, 130, 82 P. 853 ; Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Superior Court (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 370, 373, 72 Cal. Rptr. 177] . Because actions under the Family Code must be brought in superior court, the superior court that issued the order or judgment disobeyed would be the proper forum [see Fam. Code § 200].

It appears that if a court had personal jurisdiction over the alleged contemnor when the involved judgment or order was rendered, that jurisdiction continues for the purpose of the contempt proceeding, even if the alleged contemnor leaves the state [see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50(b); Smith v. Superior Court (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 457, 464-465, 137 Cal. Rptr. 348 (involving child custody)]. However, a court's power to adjudicate contempt with regard to a party who has left the state is affected by special provisions governing notice of the contempt proceeding [see Albrecht v. Superior Court (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 612, 617-621, 183 Cal. Rptr. 417] . For discussion of these provisions, see [4][c], below.

[2] Statute of Limitations

If the contempt alleged is the failure to pay child, family, or spousal support, the period of limitations for commencing a contempt action is three years from the date that the payment was due [Code Civ. Proc. § 1218.5(b)].

If the action before the court is enforcement of another order under the Family Code, the period of limitations for commencing a contempt action is two years from the time that the alleged contempt occurred [Code Civ. Proc. § 1218.5(b)].

[3] Multiple Counts

If there have been several distinct acts of disobedience to the same order, they may be charged as separate counts of contempt, and if the charged party is convicted on two or more of these counts, separate punishment may be imposed for each count [Donovan v. Superior Court (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 848, 855, 250 P.2d 246 ; see In re Coleman (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 568, 572, 116 Cal. Rptr. 381, 526 P.2d 533 ; Lyon v. Superior Court (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 446, 448-449, 67 Cal. Rptr. 265, 439 P.2d 1 ; Kreling v. Superior Court (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 884, 885-887, 118 P.2d 470 ; McDowell v. Orsini (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 951, 955, 127 Cal. Rptr. 285 ; Darden v. Superior Court (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 80, 83, 45 Cal. Rptr. 44 ; In re Spollino (1962) 208 Cal. App. 2d 783, 784, 25 Cal. Rptr. 536] .

If the contempt alleged is for failure to pay child, family, or spousal support, each month for which payment has not been made in full may be alleged as a separate count of contempt and punishment imposed for each count proven [Code Civ. Proc. § 1218.5(a)].

[4] Order to Show Cause Procedure

[a] Supporting Affidavit

In cases arising under the Family Code, the aggrieved party initiates a contempt proceeding by presenting a mandatory Judicial Council form to the court. This Judicial Council form combines an order to show cause with an affidavit in support of a finding of contempt [see § 258.130]. The purpose of the form is to inform the court that its order or judgment has been willfully disobeyed and to set forth the basis on which the allegation of contempt is made [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1211].

The order to show cause and affidavit is not a pleading, in the strict sense, but serves as a complaint for the purpose of framing the issues to be determined [see Freeman v. Superior Court (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 533, 536, 282 P.2d 857] . In general, it must set forth facts establishing a prima facie showing of contempt, including rendition of a valid judgment or order, knowledge of the judgment or order by the alleged contemnor, the ability of the alleged contemnor to comply when the judgment or order was disobeyed, and the acts of disobedience [Darden v. Superior Court (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 80, 81, 45 Cal. Rptr. 44 ; Warner v. Superior Court (1954) 126 Cal. App. 2d 821, 824, 273 P.2d 89 ; see § 258.82[1], above].

The affiant is usually the aggrieved party, but affidavits of other persons with knowledge of the contempt may be presented [see, e.g., Taylor v. Superior Court (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 244, 245, 125 P.2d 1 (declaration of aggrieved party's accountant)]. The mandatory Judicial Council form contemplates that it will be executed under penalty of perjury [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5; see also § 258.130]. For discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 1211.5 which governs the construction, amendment, and review of supporting affidavits and statements of fact, see Ch. 135, Contempt .

[b] Charging Contempt

The order to show cause used in family law contempt matters is the mandatory Judicial Council form discussed in [a], above [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-410]. Although the Code of Civil Procedure speaks of presenting the order to show cause form to the judge whose order has been disobeyed, [Code Civ. Proc. § 1211(a)], in family proceedings it is normally presented to the clerk in the applicable family law department of the court. Once it has been issued (signed by the judge), conformed copies are returned to the applicant for service on the alleged contemnor.

If the court refuses to charge contempt when the supporting affidavit makes a prima facie showing of contempt, the party presenting the affidavit may petition for a writ of mandate directing the judge to issue an order to show cause [see, e.g, Radlinski v. Superior Court (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 821, 823, 9 Cal. Rptr. 73 (trial court erroneously concluded it lacked jurisdiction; writ issued to set aside discharge)].

[c] Notice to Alleged Contemnor

Once charged with contempt, the alleged contemnor must be notified of the time and place of the hearing at which the court will hear the evidence [see Arthur v. Superior Court (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 404, 407-409, 42 Cal. Rptr. 441, 398 P.2d 777 ; see also Farace v. Superior Court (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 915, 917-918, 196 Cal. Rptr. 297] . In preparing that form for presentation to the court, the areas of the form designed for that information should be left blank so that the judge or court clerk may complete them, unless the date for hearing is preset by local rule of court. This form must be personally served on the alleged contemnor in the manner authorized for serving a summons in a civil action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1016; Golden Gate Consol. Hydraulic Mining Co. v. Superior Court of Yuba County (1884) 65 Cal. 187, 191-192, 3 P. 628] . The order to show cause must be served within the time prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) unless the court prescribes a shorter time. Any defect in the notice, as well as in the service itself, is waived by the alleged contemnor's general appearance in the proceeding [see Leonis v. Superior Court (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 527, 531-532, 241 P.2d 253 (appearance through counsel); Darden v. Superior Court (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 80, 82, 45 Cal. Rptr. 44] .

Under some circumstances, service of the order to show cause may be made on the alleged contemnor's attorney of record in the underlying proceeding, instead of on the alleged contemnor. There is authority that if the alleged contemnor is concealing himself or herself to avoid service or has left the state, the court may direct that service be made on his or her attorney of record [see Shibley v. Superior Court (1927) 202 Cal. 738, 742-743, 262 P. 332 ; Golden Gate Consol. Hydraulic Mining Co. v. Superior Court of Yuba County (1884) 65 Cal. 187, 191-192, 3 P. 628 ; Kroneberger v. Superior Court (1961) 196 Cal. App. 2d 206, 210, 16 Cal. Rptr. 339] .

However, it appears that such service may be made only if the moving party has taken steps reasonably calculated to apprise the alleged contemnor of the action. The moving party must submit an affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) to the court alleging specific facts showing the alleged contemnor's concealment or absence and the reasonable efforts taken to locate him or her [see Albrecht v. Superior Court (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 612, 617-621, 183 Cal. Rptr. 417] . Service on the attorney of record also may be authorized in limited other circumstances [see In re Morelli (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 819, 834-841, 91 Cal. Rptr. 72 (service of second order to show cause on attorney when original was served on alleged contemnor and writ proceedings intervened); Smith v. Smith (1953) 120 Cal. App. 2d 474, 483, 261 P.2d 567 (service on attorney when contempt was part of continuing proceeding in which jurisdiction over contemnor was already acquired)]. For a general discussion of procedures for service of summons [see Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10 et seq.], see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

§ 258.87 Response to Contempt Charge

The alleged contemnor may respond to the charge of contempt by admitting or denying it, or may move for a discharge. No written response is currently required by law. Although personal testimony is almost always required at the hearing, a declaration in opposition may be prepared for use in limited cases. A written response may take the form of an affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) in opposition to that on which the order to show cause was based, and such a counterdeclaration is in the nature of an answer [see Lyon v. Superior Court (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 446, 452, 67 Cal. Rptr. 265, 439 P.2d 1 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1217].

A counterdeclaration might state, for example, that the alleged contemnor lacked the ability to comply with the involved judgment or order at the time of the purported disobedience, or that the judgment or order was not sufficiently definite to afford compliance [see Messenger v. Messenger (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 619, 629, 297 P.2d 988 ; Ketscher v. Superior Court (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 601, 604-605, 88 Cal. Rptr. 357] . Allegations of the affidavit underlying the order to show cause are deemed admitted if not denied in the opposing declaration, and a hearing is required on only the controverted issues [Crittenden v. Superior Court (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 101, 107, 36 Cal. Rptr. 903] . The Judicial Council has not prescribed a form of opposing declaration. A suggested form is set forth in § 258.131. Note that because the declaration is hearsay, its admission is subject to an objection on that ground; and thus, its utility will be limited in the absence of a stipulation for its admission or the presence of a hearsay exception.

Instead of answering, the alleged contemnor may move for a discharge of the proceedings when it appears that the court is without jurisdiction or grounds to proceed with investigation of the charge. This motion may also be called a motion to dismiss or a motion to quash the order to show cause and it has substantially the same function as a demurrer to the complaint in a civil action [see Taylor v. Superior Court (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 244, 246, 125 P.2d 1] .

§ 258.88 Hearing

[1] Appearance by Alleged Contemnor and Counsel

In general, a hearing on the order to show cause may not proceed without the appearance of the alleged contemnor. He or she may appear by being physically present in the courtroom, with or without counsel, or may appear through counsel alone. However, if the court finds that the order to show cause has been validly served on the alleged contemnor and he or she has willfully failed to appear, in person or through counsel, the court may proceed with the hearing or issue a warrant for the alleged contemnor's arrest [see Farace v. Superior Court (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 915, 917-918, 196 Cal. Rptr. 297 ; see also In re Morelli (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 819, 838, 91 Cal. Rptr. 72] .

The alleged contemnor may apply to the court for appointed counsel if he or she desires legal representation and is unable to afford counsel [see Gov. Code § 27706(a) (providing for appointment of public defender for person charged with "any contempt"); see also In re Shelley (1961) 197 Cal. App. 2d 199, 202-203, 16 Cal. Rptr. 916] . An indigent defendant must be provided with an attorney at public expense when the defendant has been ordered to show cause why he or she should not be held in contempt for failing to pay child support and the punishment for the contempt includes a possible jail sentence [County of Santa Clara v. Superior Court (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1686, 1688, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 7] . For discussion of appointment of counsel in general, see California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 1 (Matthew Bender).

[2] No Jury Trial

There is no entitlement to a jury trial in contempt proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1209-1222 [see Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Superior Court (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 370, 375, 72 Cal. Rptr. 177 ; see also United Farm Workers, AFL-CIO v. Superior Court (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 212, 213-215, 71 Cal. Rptr. 513] . At least one court has held, however, that if the charged party is sentenced to more than 180 days in jail, the right to a jury trial is guaranteed by the United States Constitution and any waiver of that right must be express. If the court tries the contempt charges without a jury and the charged party does not expressly waive the right to a jury trial, the maximum sentence the court may impose is 180 days [In re Kreitman (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 750, 753-755, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 595] .

[3] Evidence

The declaration in support of a finding of contempt [see § 258.130] is considered hearsay evidence and is not generally admissible over an objection [see Evid. Code §§ 353, 1200]. If the declaration is not admitted and the declarant personally testifies, the court may assume a more involved role in direct examination of the declarant or other witnesses than in some other types of proceedings [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1217 (judge may examine witnesses for or against person charged with contempt)].

The alleged contemnor cannot be compelled to be a witness against himself or herself and cannot be punished for contempt for refusing to be sworn or to testify [In re Witherspoon (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 1000, 1002, 209 Cal. Rptr. 67 ; Crittenden v. Superior Court (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 101, 105, 36 Cal. Rptr. 903 ; see also Oliver v. Superior Court (1961) 197 Cal. App. 2d 237, 240, 17 Cal. Rptr. 474] . However, the alleged contemnor may choose to testify and offer any legitimate excuse to the allegations made [Sorell v. Superior Court (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 157, 161, 56 Cal. Rptr. 222] , such as financial inability to comply with an order for support [see Nutter v. Superior Court (1960) 183 Cal. App. 2d 72, 75, 6 Cal. Rptr. 404] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Contempt

22-258 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 258.89

§ 258.89 Conviction and Punishment

[1] Standard of Proof

The court may make a finding of contempt only by proof beyond a reasonable doubt, which is the standard required for conviction of a crime [see In re Coleman (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 568, 572, 116 Cal. Rptr. 381, 526 P.2d 533 ; In re Witherspoon (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 1000, 1001-1002, 209 Cal. Rptr. 67] .

[2] Punishment

Punishment for contempt is governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1218-1219. Code Civ. Proc. § 1218(c) provides that when a party is found in contempt for failure to comply with an order pursuant to the Family Code, the court must proceed as follows:

1. On a first finding of contempt, the court must order the contemner to perform up to 120 hours of community service, or to be imprisoned for up to 120 hours, for each count of contempt;

2. On the second finding of contempt, the court must order the contemner to perform up to 120 hours of community service, in addition to ordering up to 120 hours of imprisonment, for each count of contempt;

3. On the third or subsequent finding of contempt, the court must order both:

a. 240 hours of imprisonment and community service of up to 240 hours, for each count of contempt, and

b. An administrative fee, not exceeding the actual cost of the contemner's administration and supervision, while assigned to a community service program.

The court must take parties' employment schedules into consideration when ordering community service or imprisonment, or both [Fam. Code § 1218(c)(4)].

Code Civ. Proc. § 1219(a) provides that, with limited exception, when the contempt consists of an omission to perform an act that the convicted party still has the power to perform, that party may be imprisoned until he or she performs it. However, the act to be performed must be specified in the warrant of commitment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1219(a)]. For further discussion of punishment for contempt, see Ch. 135, Contempt .

A contemnor who has violated a court order may be ordered to pay attorney's fees and costs incurred to the party who initiated the contempt proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 1218(a)].

[3] Purgation

The court may suspend execution of an order of commitment for contempt and make execution of the order conditional on the convicted party's failure to purge himself or herself of the contempt [see ' 76 L. & W. Co. v. Superior Court (1892) 93 Cal. 139, 143, 28 P. 813] . Purgation involves the process by which the convicted party brings himself or herself into compliance with the order or judgment that was disobeyed.

§ 258.90 Review of Contempt Proceeding

The judgments and orders in contempt proceedings are final and conclusive [Code Civ. Proc. § 1222] and are not appealable [Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1(a)(1)]. Because of this nonappealability, review of the proceeding will require use of an appropriate extraordinary writ [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1068 (certiorari or review), 1085 (mandate), 1103 (prohibition); Penal Code § 1473 (habeas corpus); see In re Kreitman (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 750, 756, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 595 (writ of habeas corpus issued)]. However, failure to prevail on, or voluntary dismissal of, an order to show cause re contempt is not a termination of a prior action that will support a malicious prosecution action against an opposing attorney [see Green v. Uccelli (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1112, 1121, 255 Cal. Rptr. 315 (voluntary dismissal); Lossing v. Superior Court (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 635, 636, 255 Cal. Rptr. 18 (failure to prevail); see also; Mabie v. Hyatt (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 581, 595-597, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 657 (malicious prosecution action against third parties who made loan to spouse involved in dissolution action); Chauncey v. Niems (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 967, 976-977, 227 Cal. Rptr. 718 (action against former spouse)]. Relief for improper contempt orders is sought by requests for attorney's fees or sanctions within the underlying dissolution proceeding [see Green v. Uccelli (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1112, 1121, 255 Cal. Rptr. 315] . § 258.91 Effect of Contempt Finding on Enforcement of Certain Orders

No party who is in contempt of a court order or judgment in a marital dissolution or separate maintenance action is permitted to enforce that order or judgment, by way of execution or otherwise, either in the same action or by way of a separate action, against the other party. However, this restriction does not affect or apply to the enforcement of child or spousal support orders [Code Civ. Proc. § 1218(b)].

Under the doctrine of disentitlement, a party to a legal proceeding may not seek the aid of a court in hearing his or her demands while standing in an "attitude of contempt" with regard to the orders issued by the court in that proceeding [see MacPherson v. MacPherson (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 271, 277, 89 P.2d 382 (father could not appeal order that he pay wife's attorney's fees in custody matter while in violation of court orders regarding custody and attorney's fees); see also Adoption of Jacob C. (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 617, 623, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 591 (citing MacPherson and affirming trial court's decision barring mother in hiding with one of her minor children from participating in hearing to terminate her parental rights)].

§ 258.104 Decisions

[1] Contempt

[a] Affidavits (Declarations)

Counterdeclaration to declaration for indirect contempt takes nature of answer and frames issues for hearing. Lyon v. Superior Court (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 446, 452, 67 Cal. Rptr. 265, 439 P.2d 1

Affidavit for indirect contempt and counteraffidavit in effect constitutes pleading and frames issues. Freeman v. Superior Court (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 533, 536, 282 P.2d 857 ; Darden v. Superior Court (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 80, 82, 45 Cal. Rptr. 44

Failure of wife's affidavit to aver husband's knowledge of support order does not deprive court of overall jurisdiction or render indirect contempt proceedings void ab initio; until wife exercised her right to amend affidavit, prohibition was proper remedy to restrain court from adjudging husband in contempt. Mossman v. Superior Court (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 706, 710-713, 99 Cal. Rptr. 638

Requirements of declaration for indirect contempt. Darden v. Superior Court (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 80, 81, 45 Cal. Rptr. 44 ; Warner v. Superior Court (1954) 126 Cal. App. 2d 821, 824, 273 P.2d 89

Allegations in moving party's declaration for indirect contempt are deemed admitted if not controverted. Crittenden v. Superior Court (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 101, 107, 36 Cal. Rptr. 903

Averment in contempt affidavit that custodial parent "removed the children from the State of California without my knowledge or consent and with the intent of preventing the exercise of my visitation and communication rights" with the minor children is allegation of fact, not mere conclusion. Rosin v. Superior Court (1960) 181 Cal. App. 2d 486, 490, 5 Cal. Rptr. 421

[b] Attorney's Fees and Costs

Award of attorney's fees under former Civ. Code § 4370, accountant's fees, and costs incurred in prosecuting contempt proceeding on contemnor's failure to comply with existing court orders re support is proper when party's need and contemnor's ability to pay are established. In re Marriage of Janssen (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 425, 428-429, 121 Cal. Rptr. 701

[c] Child Custody and Visitation

Showing of custodial parent's ability to compel teenaged child to comply with visitation order requires proof of circumstances surrounding contemplated visitation, including relationships between parties and their attitudes regarding visits. Coursey v. Superior Court (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 147, 154-156, 239 Cal. Rptr. 365

Removal of children from California by custodial parent to defeat other parent's visitation rights is contempt of court despite fact that custody order did not prohibit removal. Rosin v. Superior Court (1960) 181 Cal. App. 2d 486, 495-500, 5 Cal. Rptr. 421

[d] Civil Versus Criminal Contempt

Contempt judgment against mother for violating child custody order is civil, rather than criminal, and does not preclude prosecution on double jeopardy grounds for child stealing under Penal Code § 278.5. People v. Batey (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1281, 1288-1289, 228 Cal. Rptr. 787 , cert. denied, 480 U.S. 932

Criminal contempt punishes, whereas civil contempt coerces; contempt was civil when family law court sought to coerce parent to comply with child custody order and not merely to punish for past violations. People v. Derner (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 588, 591-593, 227 Cal. Rptr. 344

[e] Defense

Contemnor has duty to show as matter of defense why he or she has not obeyed order. In re McCarty (1908) 154 Cal. 534, 537, 98 P. 540

[f] Estoppel

Dismissal of contempt citation after hearing on merits of issue whether mother-in-law aided, abetted, and assisted son in depriving her daughter-in-law of custody as not collaterally estopping subsequent civil litigation on same issue. Gibson v. Gibson (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 943, 945-948, 93 Cal. Rptr. 617

[g] Criminal Actions

Court's judgment holding father in civil contempt for failure to return child after scheduled visitation period does not bar subsequent criminal action pursuant to Penal Code § 278.5 for same conduct. People v. Derner (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 588, 591-593, 227 Cal. Rptr. 344 bar subsequent criminal action pursuant to Penal Code § 278.5 for same conduct. People v. Derner (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 588, 591-593, 227 Cal. Rptr. 344

[i] Hearing

Appointment of commissioner to hear civil contempt matter to enforce temporary support order. Sarracino v. Superior Court (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 1, 10, 118 Cal. Rptr. 21, 529 P.2d 53

Code Civ. Proc. § 1209.5 establishes prima facie contempt on basis of proof of child support order, knowledge of order, and noncompliance; ability to pay child support is affirmative defense, not element of contempt, under Code Civ. Proc. § 1209.5. In re Feiock (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 141, 146-148, 263 Cal. Rptr. 437 (on remand from Hicks v. Feiock (1988) 485 U.S. 624, 108 S. Ct. 1423, 99 L. Ed. 2d 721)

Accused may not be compelled to be witness against himself or herself at hearing on indirect contempt. In re Witherspoon (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 1000, 1002, 209 Cal. Rptr. 67 ; Crittenden v. Superior Court (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 101, 105, 36 Cal. Rptr. 903

Findings of valid service of order to show cause and willful absence from hearing are necessary to support contempt order when alleged contemnor is not present at hearing. Farace v. Superior Court (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 915, 917-918, 196 Cal. Rptr. 297

Proof required under Code Civ. Proc. § 1209.5 of noncompliance with child support order for prima facie evidence of indirect contempt. Martin v. Superior Court (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 412, 414-418, 95 Cal. Rptr. 110

[j] Inability to Comply

Imposition of contempt sanctions on parent obligated to pay court ordered child support is proper when parent's inability to pay results from willful failure or refusal to seek and accept available employment for which parent is suited by virtue of education, experience, and phyical ability. Moss v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 396, 422, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 215, 950 P.2d 59

Showing of custodial parent's ability to compel teenaged daughter to comply with visitation order requires proof of circumstances surrounding contemplated visitation, including relationships between parties and their attitudes regarding visits. Coursey v. Superior Court (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 147, 154-156, 239 Cal. Rptr. 365

Contempt for failure to pay spousal support is improper when spouse is unemployed and unable to pay. In re Jennings (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 373, 383, 386, 184 Cal. Rptr. 53

[k] Judgment and Commitment Order

Valid judgment of contempt must meet strict requirements and show facts essential to establish jurisdiction for making of order, contemnor's knowledge of order, ability to comply, and willful disobedience. In re Jones (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 879, 881, 120 Cal. Rptr. 914

Greater certainty and clarity in order is required to support contempt proceedings than is necessary to support other judgment remedies. Little v. Superior Court (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 311, 316, 67 Cal. Rptr. 77

Sufficiency of commitment orders. Darden v. Superior Court (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 80, 83-85, 45 Cal. Rptr. 44 ; Martin v. Superior Court (1962) 199 Cal. App. 2d 730, 738, 18 Cal. Superior Court (1960) 183 Cal. App. 2d 72, 75, 6 Cal. Rptr. 404

[l] Jurisdiction

[i] Effect of Appeal

Trial court is without jurisdiction to punish by contempt violation of order stayed by appeal and from which appeal has been taken. Smith v. Smith (1953) 120 Cal. App. 2d 474, 479, 261 P.2d 567 (custody order)

Court to which appeal has been taken has jurisdiction over any proceedings necessary to protect subject matter pending appeal, which would include contempt proceeding when appropriate. Smith v. Smith (1953) 120 Cal. App. 2d 474, 479, 261 P.2d 567

[ii] Personal Jurisdiction

Jurisdiction of trial court to adjudicate nonresident wife in contempt of court for noncompliance with orders pertaining to child visitation entered in modification proceeding pursuant to stipulation of parties. Smith v. Superior Court (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 457, 464-465, 137 Cal. Rptr. 348

Court whose order was disobeyed has power to punish for contempt. Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Superior Court (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 370, 373, 72 Cal. Rptr. 177

[m] Jury Trial Prohibited

[n] Knowledge of Order

Showing that contemnor's attorney was in court representing contemnor at time order was made or was thereafter served with copy of order raises disputable presumption that contemnor had knowledge of order. Freeman v. Superior Court (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 533, 537-538, 282 P.2d 857 ; Mossman v. Superior Court (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 706, 711, 99 Cal. Rptr. 638 ; *In re Sigesmund (1961) 193 Cal. [o] Noncompliance With Child Support Order

State child support statute is not preempted under U.S. Const. Supremacy Clause by federal statutes relating to Veterans' Administration disability benefits, even though compliance with child support order based on statute necessitates use of disability benefits; thus, contempt finding against disabled veteran for noncompliance is proper. Rose v. Rose (1987) 481 U.S. 619, 107 S. Ct. 2029, 95 L. Ed. 2d 599, 614

Imposition of contempt sanctions on parent obligated to pay court ordered child support is proper when parent's inability to pay results from willful failure or refusal to seek and accept available employment for which parent is suited by virtue of education, experience, and phyical ability. Moss v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 396, 422, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 215, 950 P.2d 59

Pendente lite order for payment of community debts or mortgage payments as part of and by way of spousal support is not an order for payment of debt within meaning of former Cal. Const, art. I, § 15 (now see Cal. Const., art. I, § 10), prohibiting imprisonment for debts, and is enforceable by contempt. Bushman v. Superior Court (1973) 33 Cal. App.

3d 177, 181-183, 108 Cal. Rptr. 765

Violation of court order requiring spouse to pay past community debts as part of alimony award pendente lite is contempt. In re Hendricks (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 793, 797-798, 85 Cal. Rptr. 220

[r] Orders and Judgments Not Enforceable by Contempt

Refusal to obey void order is not punishable as contempt. In re Berry (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 137, 147, 65 Cal. Rptr. 273, 436 P.2d 273

Violation of court order merely approving marital settlement agreement providing for support payments is not punishable by contempt. Tilghman v. Superior Court (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 599, 607, 115 Cal. Rptr. 195

Violation of agreement to pay sum of money as settlement of property rights incorporated in court's judgment is not punishable by contempt. In re Fontana (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 1008, 1011, 101 Cal. Rptr. 465

Order that parent designate minor children as beneficiaries of insurance to ensure future payments of child support is enforceable by parties to original divorce decree by contempt, specific performance, or other suitable relief, or enforceable by children. Franklin Life Ins. Co. v. Kitchens (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 623, 632-633, 57 Cal. Rptr. 652

[2] Enforcement of Judgments

[a] Death of Obligor

Divorce judgment ordering husband to maintain wife as beneficiary on specific amount of life insurance for benefit of minor children of parties is enforceable against husband during his lifetime by contempt proceedings or by suit for specific performance and, when he has failed to comply with order, named his estate as beneficiary, and dies, is enforceable against his executors who hold the proceeds as constructive trustees. Cramer v. Biddison (1968) 257 Cal. App. 2d 720, 724-725, 65 Cal. Rptr. 624

[b] Dismissal of Main Proceeding

Dismissal of main action does not deprive court of jurisdiction to enforce uncomplied-with pendente lite order by execution through supplementary proceedings. Moore v. Superior Court (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 804, 811, 87 Cal. Rptr. 620

[c] Execution

Trial court has discretion in each case to determine whether execution is appropriate remedy for enforcing its order. Messenger v. Messenger (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 619, 630, 297 P.2d 988 ; Slevats v. Feustal (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 113, 119, 28 Cal. Rptr. 517 (decided prior to enactment of Fam. Code §§ 5100, 5101, allowing issuance of writ without court approval as long as support order is enforceable)

Court of equity retain inherent jurisdiction to oversee and enforce execution of its decrees. Vanderstok v. Bank of America (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 731, 734, 105 Cal. Rptr. 699 ; Brown v. Brown (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 82, 84, 99 Cal. Rptr. 311

Exemption of wife's separate earnings from liability for community debts or separate debts of husband (former Civ.

Code § 5117) is lost when her earnings have become commingled with other community property so as to lose their identity. Robertson v. Willis (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 358, 364, 143 Cal. Rptr. 523

Rendering of legal services and advancement of costs of litigation giving rise to pendente lite award to any attorney in marriage dissolution proceeding is qualified as "common necessaries of life" for benefit of indigent spouse, thereby giving attorney right to enforce award by writ of execution on other spouse's earnings against claim of exemption for those earnings. In re Marriage of Pallesi (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 424, 427-428, 140 Cal. Rptr. 842 (further holding that reconciliation of parties does not affect attorney's right)

Exemptions from execution are purely statutory and pertain to remedy; hence, laws of forum apply. In re Marriage of DeLotel (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 21, 23-24, 140 Cal. Rptr. 553 (affirming order denying motion to exempt pension, treated as motion to quash wife's writ of execution, for unpaid support)

[3] Liens

[a] Creation of Lien

Lien on judgment debtor's real property is created by recording certified copy of judgment or order for alimony or child support (former Code Civ. Proc. § 674.5; now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.320-697.390). Heller Properties, Inc. v. Rothschild (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 705, 710-712, 90 Cal. Rptr. 133 ; Simonet v. Simonet (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 612, 620-622, 69 Cal. Rptr. 806

[b] Powers of Court

Court has power to secure payments to spouse made in lieu of division of community property in kind and to grant lien on community property awarded to other spouse. Lipka v. Lipka (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 472, 479, 35 Cal. Rptr. 71, 386 P.2d 671

Court lacks power to grant lien on separate property to secure payment of share of community property. Sanguinetti v. Sanguinetti (1937) 9 Cal. 2d 95, 102, 69 P.2d 845

Courts have power to compel obedience to their judgments and orders [former Code Civ. Proc. §§ 128(4) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 128(a)(4)); Code Civ. Proc. § 177], and courts of equity retain inherent jurisdiction to oversee and enforce execution of their decrees. Vanderstok v. Bank of America (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 731, 734, 105 Cal. Rptr. 699 ; Brown v. Brown (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 82, 84, 99 Cal. Rptr. 311

Court is without jurisdiction to compel obligor party to execute security instruments in form of mortgage and trust deeds on his interest in real properties to satisfy lien imposed. Miller v. Miller (1964) 227 Cal. App. 2d 322, 329, 38 Cal. Rptr. 571

Power to impose lien is to be exercised with caution; remedy should be resorted to only when less onerous remedies are not available. Loomis v. Loomis (1960) 181 Cal. App. 2d 345, 347, 5 Cal. Rptr. 550 ; see also Blankenship v. Blankenship (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 736, 746, 28 Cal. Rptr. 176

[4] Receivership

[a] Appointment

[i] In General

Appointment on court's own motion. Venza v. Venza (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 878, 883-884, 211 P.2d 913

Appointment on application of either party. Armbrust v. Armbrust (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 272, 274, 171 P.2d 75

[ii] Discretion of Court

Appointment rests largely in discretion of trial court and its action in appointing or refusing to appoint receiver will not be disturbed on appeal in absence of showing that court's discretion was abused. Alderson v. Alderson (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 450, 467, 225 Cal. Rptr. 610

Appointment is matter within discretion of trial court. Venza v. Venza (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 878, 883, 211 P.2d 913 ; Armbrust v. Armbrust (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 272, 275, 171 P.2d 75

[b] Availability of Receivership

[i] Pendente Lite

Under prior version of Code Civ. Proc. § 564(7) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(8)), permitting appointment of receiver by superior court in which action, other than limited civil case, is pending in all cases in which receivers have heretofore been appointed by usages of courts of equity, appointment of receiver pendente lite was proper in action for child support by two minor children through their guardian ad litem against their father, incarcerated for murder of their mother, even though no support order had yet been made, in order to prevent dissipation of father's assets when complaint made out case of need by children and ability of father to pay support. Quaglino v. Quaglino (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 542, 545-546, 152 Cal. Rptr. 47

Whenever financial mismanagement and intransigence of parties threaten to dissipate community property before division can take place, trial court has discretion to appoint receiver to protect community estate. Rosenthal v. Rosenthal (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 927, 934, 50 Cal. Rptr. 385

If jointly owned property is in danger of being lost or destroyed or misappropriated, trial court in family law proceeding has power to appoint receiver to protect party's interest in property. Rosenthal v. Rosenthal (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 927, 933, 50 Cal. Rptr. 385

[ii] After Judgment

Trial court has power to appoint receiver when appointment action is necessary to enforce judgment. Alderson v. Alderson (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 450, 467, 225 Cal. Rptr. 610 (affirming judgment appointing receiver to enforce judgment for child support to woman who had custody of three children born during 12-year period of unmarried cohabitation)

Receivership is not ordinarily used to enforce simple money judgment but appointment of receiver in aid of execution is permitted in proper case. Olsan v. Comora (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 642, 646, 140 Cal. Rptr. 835 ; Jackson v. Jackson (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 1026, 1040-1041, 62 Cal. Rptr. 121

Former Civ. Code § 140 (now see Fam. Code § 290), authorizing appointment of receivers to enforce family law judgments or orders, applies to payments under integrated property settlement agreement which is merged in divorce decree, and is construed with general provisions pertaining to receivers found in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 564-570. Jackson

v. Jackson (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 1026, 1040, 62 Cal. Rptr. 121

Appointment of receiver to liquidate joint interests in property and carry out terms of judgment is authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 564. Rosenthal v. Rosenthal (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 927, 933, 50 Cal. Rptr. 385

Appointment of receiver in aid of execution to enforce support provisions in integrated property settlement agreement merged in court's judgment. Tobin v. Tobin (1960) 181 Cal. App. 2d 789, 794, 5 Cal. Rptr. 712

Appointment of receiver and declaration of lien on husband's property is permitted to enforce payments ordered for wife's support. Willen v. Willen (1932) 121 Cal. App. 351, 352-354, 8 P.2d 942 .

[c] Jurisdiction

Appointment of receiver to take charge of husband's property in California when court has not acquired in personam jurisdiction over husband is limited to property within court's control. Baldwin v. Baldwin (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 406, 415, 170 P.2d 670

Where it appears that wife is entitled to legal separation, permanent alimony, and division of community property and is in indigent circumstances and husband has departed from state and is endeavoring by fraudulent means to dispose of greater part of community property and thus defeat wife's rights in it, superior court has jurisdiction to appoint receiver to take charge of community property and direct receiver to pay from its proceeds alimony during pendency of action even when court has no personal jurisdiction over defendant and appointment is without previous notice to defendant. Nichols v. Superior Court (1934) 1 Cal. 2d 589, 593-599, 36 P.2d 380

Actual or constructive possession of life insurance policy through appointment of receiver to secure payment of child support. Franklin Life Ins. Co. v. Kitchens (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 623, 633, 57 Cal. Rptr. 652

[d] Nature of Receivership

Appointment of receiver is harsh remedy. Morand v. Superior Court (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 347, 351, 113 Cal. Rptr. 281 ; Cohen v. Herbert (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 488, 495, 8 Cal. Rptr. 922

[e] Termination of Receivership

Receivership pendente lite terminates with rendition of judgment. Mayo v. Mayo (1936) 8 Cal. 2d 9, 10, 63 P.2d 822

[2] Use of Form

The form of application and declaration for issuance of writ of execution and order at [1], above, is for use in securing issuance of a writ of execution [Code Civ. Proc. § 699.510; Fam. Code §§ 290, 5100]. Alternatively, counsel should check to see if there is a local court form that must be used in the county in which the writ is sought. The writ may be sought to enforce an order payment of child, family, or spousal support without prior court approval as long as the support order remains enforceable [Fam. Code §§ 5100, 5101].

This form complies with Fam. Code § 5104, which requires the application to be accompanied by an affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) stating the amount due and unpaid that is authorized to be enforced pursuant to Fam. Code §§ 5100-5103 on the date of application [Fam. Code § 5104(a)]. If interest on the overdue installments is sought, the affidavit or declaration must set forth [Fam. Code § 5104(b)]:

- The total amount of interest and
- The amount of each due and unpaid installment and the date it became due.

The affidavit or declaration must be filed in the action and a copy must be attached to the writ of execution delivered to the levying officer. The levying officer must serve the copy of the affidavit or declaration on the judgment debtor when the writ of execution is first served on the judgment debtor pursuant to a levy under the writ [Fam. Code § 5104(c)].

[3] Copies to Prepare

[a] Ex Parte Application

If the application is being made ex parte, counsel should prepare the following copies:

- Original for presentation and filing with court clerk.
- One copy for levying officer.
- Copy for client.
- Office copy.

[b] Noticed Motion

If the judgment or order sought to be executed on was entered before the statutory time periods specified in Fam. Code §§ 5100, 5101, discussed at §§ 258.37, 258.39, 258.85, or if there is other reason to believe that the application may not be granted ex parte, the moving party should proceed by noticed motion. In that case, he or she should prepare the Judicial Council mandatory form of Notice of Motion (Marriage) [FL-301] and Application for Order and Supporting Declaration [FL-310; for forms of the Notice of Motion and Application for Order that may be adapted for use, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure] in the following number of copies:

- Original for filing with court clerk.
- One copy for levying officer.
- Copy for service on adverse party's attorney or, if none, on adverse party.
- Copy for client.
- Office copy.
- Additional copies as desired.

The copy of the notice or other paper served by mail must bear a notation of the date and place of mailing or be accompanied by an unsigned copy of the affidavit (declaration) or certificate of mailing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(b)], that is, by an unsigned copy of the proof of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a]. For discussion of service of papers and proof of service generally, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

[3] Use of Form

The order to show cause procedure is used when a receiver is appointed on ex parte application before any hearing on the appointment, as illustrated in this form, or as a substitute for a noticed motion when the party against whom it is directed has not yet appeared in the family law proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. § 564; Fam. Code § 290 (grounds for appointment of reciever); Code Civ. Proc. § 566(b) (undertaking required of ex parte applicant for appointment of receiver); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 567(b) (oath and undertaking required of receiver); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1103(a)(2), 3.1175, 3.1176 (appointment of receiver on ex parte application); discussions at §§ 258.72 and 258.73]. For what constitutes an appearance, see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.120, providing that notice of subsequent proceedings need not be given to a respondent who has not appeared except as provided in the Family Law Rules. If the appointment is made forthwith, the order is to show cause why the appointment should not be confirmed; if the order to show cause procedure is used as a substitute for a noticed motion proceeding when the respondent has not yet appeared in the proceeding, the order is to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed. For additional discussion and forms and a procedural guide regarding appointment of a receiver, see Ch. 486, Receivers .

Frequently, the request for appointment of a receiver is combined with an application for injunctive relief against the other party and/or third persons, as in Nichols v. Superior Court (1934) 1 Cal. 2d 589, 592, 36 P.2d 380 [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.106, 5.118]. For a discussion of the provisional remedy of pendente lite injunctive relief, including temporary restraining orders, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure , and Ch. 303, Injunctions .

For when the Civil Law and Motion Rules [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100 et seq.; § 258.103[2]] apply to applications for the appointment of a receiver in a family law proceeding, see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a) and discussion at § 258.73.

[4] Copies to Prepare

The following copies should be prepared:

- Original for judge's signature and filing with court;
- One copy for service on adverse party's attorney of record if any, and, if none, on adverse party;
- Copy for receiver;
- Copy for client;
- Office copy;
- Additional copies as desired.

[5] Other Papers to Draft

The following other papers should be drafted or completed, as specified:

- Draft an Application for Order and Supporting Declaration [see § 258.122] in the same number of copies for the same distribution as the order to show cause;
- Draft a memorandum of points and authorities in the same number of copies for the same distribution as the order to show cause [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113 and discussion at § 258.73];
- Complete an Income and Expense Declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150 et seq.] and a Property Declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-160; for illustrative forms of income and expense and property declarations, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure] if relevant to the relief requested [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.118, 5.128] in the same number of copies for the same distribution as the order to show cause.

[6] Additional Papers to Be Served

In addition to the order to show cause and papers listed at [5], above, which must accompany the order to show cause, the order to show cause must also be accompanied by a blank Responsive Declaration on Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-320. If a completed Income and Expense Declaration and a completed Property Declaration are served with the order to show cause, then a blank copy of each of those forms must also be served with the order to show cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.118(b)].

Copies of the responsive declaration and the income and expense and property declarations are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[7] Time of Service

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1176(a) provides that when a receiver is appointed without notice (on ex parte application), the matter shall be made returnable on an order to show cause why the appointment should not be confirmed and the order to show cause must be made returnable on the earliest date that the business of the court will admit, but not later than 15 days from the date of the order. This rule apparently does not apply, however, to applications before trial for orders in family law proceedings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a)(1); see discussion at § 258.73]. Neither the Rules of Court governing Family Code Proceedings (Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.10 et seq.) nor the Family Code covers the matter; hence, general civil law applies [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.21]. Under the law applicable to civil actions generally, a notice of motion and its supporting papers must be served at least 16 court days before the hearing date [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) (providing time extensions when service is by mail)]. This provision would also apply to an order to show cause. Local court rules, if any, should be checked, however, to ascertain any local requirements with respect to the service of an order to show cause.

[8] Manner of Service

If a final judgment has not been entered, the order to show cause shall be served on the party's attorney of record, if any, and if none on the party [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.10(b)]. If a final judgment has been entered, the order (which gives notice of the application) must be served on the party and not on the party's attorney of record [Fam. Code § 215]. Although not required by law, a courtesy copy should, in this latter event, be sent to the party's attorney.

Neither the Rules of Court governing Family Code proceedings (Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.10 et seq.) nor the Family Code specifies the manner in which papers are to be served; hence, general civil law applies [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.21]. Under the law applicable to civil actions generally, the order to show cause, supporting papers, and blank forms if served with the summons will be served in the same manner as required for the summons [Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10 et seq.] and if served after the summons in the manner provided for the service of papers [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1010 et seq.]. For a discussion of these provisions, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

[9] Proof of Service

Prepare the proof of service in an original for filing, one file copy, and as many additional copies as may be desired.

[10] Form of Response

Any response to the order to show cause must be on Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-300 (Responsive Declaration to Order to Show Cause or Notice of Motion). For an illustrative form of the responsive declaration, see Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure .

[2] Source of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of the Judicial Council mandatory form of Notice of Motion [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-301]. The reverse side of the form contains a mandatory form of Proof of Service by Mail. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Use of Form

[a] When Noticed Motion Is Preferable

This form is for use in applying for a court order [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1003, 1005.5] appointing a receiver of funds or property [Code Civ. Proc. § 564; Fam. Code § 290] when the party against whom it is directed has already appeared in the proceeding, and either the facts do not justify immediate appointment on ex parte application or, because of other considerations (such as the cost of the undertaking required to be posted by the applicant [see Code Civ. Proc. § 566(b)] as opposed to the value of the property involved), counsel does not desire to proceed by ex parte application. If the party against whom the order is sought has not appeared in the proceeding, application for the appointment of a receiver should be made pursuant to an order to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed. An order to show cause must also be used, whether or not the opposing party has appeared, when the moving party seeks immediate appointment of a receiver by ex parte application [see Code Civ. Proc. § 566(b)] and an order to show cause why the appointment should not be confirmed [see also § 258.120].

For the applicability of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100 et seq. (Civil Law and Motion Rules) to a motion for the appointment of a receiver, see the discussion at § 258.73. On motions generally, both noticed and ex parte, see Code Civ. Proc. § 1003 et seq. and Ch. 372, Motions and Orders.

[b] Proof of Service

The proof of service on the reverse side of the Notice of Motion is for use by the moving party to prove service by mail of the notice of motion and its supporting papers. The names of the parties and case number should be set forth in the block heading. In item b(1), the appropriate box or boxes should be checked to identify the papers served in addition to the Notice of Motion, a completed application for order and supporting declaration [see § 258.122], and a blank Responsive Declaration. The language in subparagraph c is sufficient to permit valid execution of the declaration either within or outside the state of California [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]. The copy of the notice or other paper served by mail must bear a notation of the date and place of mailing or be accompanied by an unsigned copy of the affidavit (declaration) or certificate of mailing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(b)]; that is, by an unsigned copy of the proof of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a]. For discussion of service of papers and proof of service generally, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

[4] Copies of Notice of Motion to Prepare

The following copies should be prepared:

- Original for filing with court clerk;
- Copy for service on adverse party's attorney or, if none, on adverse party;
- Copy for client;
- Office copy;
- Additional copies as desired.

[5] Other Papers

For other papers to be drafted and served, and the additional papers to be served, with the notice of motion, as well as the time, manner, and proof of service, and the form of the response, see § 258.120[5] -[10].

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of the Judicial Council mandatory form of Application for Order and Supporting Declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-310]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Use of Form

This form is for use as an attachment to either an Order to Show Cause [§ 258.120] or a Notice of Motion [§ 258.121] [Code Civ. Proc. § 564; Fam. Code § 290]. Blanks have been filled in to illustrate how the form may be used to apply by noticed motion [§ 258.121] for the appointment of a receiver to take charge of, manage, and conserve a community property business during the pendency of a dissolution of marriage proceeding. If used as an attachment for § 258.120, the following should be added to Paragraph 9: "and an order to show cause why the appointment should not be confirmed." The form may also be used as an attachment to an application for an Order to Show Cause Why a Receiver Should Not Be Appointed by changing the insert in Paragraph 9 to read "Issuance of an order to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed to take charge of, manage, and conserve the parties' community property business, etc."

For the grounds of appointment, see the discussion at § 258.72[1].

[4] Declaration

The declaration must be signed by the person having personal knowledge of the facts [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2002(1), 2003, 2009, 2015.5; Evid. Code § 702; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.21]. As many declarations made by different persons as are necessary to establish the ground of the motion may be submitted in support of the motion or order to show cause. This form assumes that the declaration is made by the petitioner.

If the form is used as an attachment to an order made before trial to show cause why the appointment of a receiver on ex parte application should not be confirmed [§ 258.120], the better practice would be to set out in the attached declaration the matters required by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1175, even if the rule does not apply to applications for such orders [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a)(1) and discussion at § 258.73]. These are matters that a judge most likely would want to know before appointing a receiver on ex parte application. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1175(a) provides that, in addition to any other matters supporting an application for the ex parte appointment of a receiver, the applicant must show the following in detail by verified complaint or affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5):

- The nature of the emergency and the reasons irreparable injury would be suffered by the applicant during the time necessary for a hearing on notice;

- The names, addresses, and phone numbers of the persons in actual possession of the property, or of the president, manager, or principal agent of any corporation in possession of;

- The use being made of the property by the persons in possession; and

- If the property is a part of the plant, equipment, or stock in trade of any business, the nature and approximate size or extent of the business, and facts sufficient to show whether the taking of the property would stop or seriously interfere with the operation of the business.

If any of the above matters are unknown to the applicant and cannot be ascertained by the exercise of due diligence, the applicant may be excused from setting them forth, but the affidavit (declaration) or complaint must fully state the matters unknown and the efforts made to acquire the information [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1175(b)].

Although the applicability of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1175 to pretrial applications for appointment of a receiver in a family law proceeding is unclear (see discussion at § 258.73), the illustrated attached declaration would appear to meet its requirements.

[5] Copies to Prepare

The form and its attached declaration will be prepared in the same number of copies and for the same distribution as the Notice of Motion [§ 258.121[4]] or the Order to Show Cause [§ 258.120[4]].

[2] Source of Forms

The forms in [1], above, are reproductions of the mandatory Judicial Council forms of Order to Show Cause and Affidavit for Contempt [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-410] and two supporting affidavits: Affidavit of Facts Constituting Contempt (Financial and Injunctive Orders) [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-411] and Affidavit of Facts Constituting Contempt (Domestic Violence/Custody and Visitation) [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-412]. These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Related Forms

The Judicial Council has not adopted any specific form of responsive declaration to the order to show cause or a form of order. Hence, those forms must be drafted by counsel. For a suggested form of opposing declaration, see § 258.131. For additional forms for use in contempt proceedings, see Ch. 135, Contempt .

[4] Use of Forms

These forms are to be used in initiating a contempt proceeding when the alleged contemnor willfully failed to comply with a court order or judgment in a family law proceeding [Fam. Code §§ 290, 292; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1209(a)(5) (disobedience of court order or judgment as contempt)]. The order or judgment disobeyed might require, for example, the payment of spousal or child support, or attorney's fees and costs, but the contempt remedy is not limited to these [ see § 258.81]. The purpose of the proceeding, insofar as the moving party is concerned, is to obtain compliance with the judgment or order [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1209.5 (prima facie evidence of contempt of child support order); see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1218, 1219 (punishment for contempt, discussed at § 258.89[2])].

The Order to Show Cause and Affidavit for Contempt form [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-410] should be completed in all cases in which contempt of a family law order is alleged. If a violation of an order for child, family, or spousal support, attorney's fees and court or other litigation costs, or injunctive orders (unrelated to domestic violence) is alleged, the companion form Affidavit of Facts Constituting Contempt (Financial and Injunctive Orders) should be completed and attached [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-411]. If a violation of a domestic violence protective order or a custody or visitation order is alleged, the Affidavit of Facts Constituting Contempt (Domestic Violence/Custody and Visitation) form should be completed and attached [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-412]. In a given case, both companion forms would be needed if both types of orders were violated.

In addition, if the moving party is seeking to recover attorney's fees and costs in connection with bringing the contempt action, he or she must also complete and attach an income and expense declaration [see Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-150].

[5] Contents of Affidavits

Grounds for the alleged contempt and supporting facts must be set forth with particularity [see Coursey v. Superior Court (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 147, 154, 239 Cal. Rptr. 365] . The forms provide standardized language for making the essential allegations (such as the citee's knowledge of the court order and ability to comply, and the like), but counsel must set forth sufficient facts to establish the nature of the order violated, when and where and how it was violated, and why violation was without lawful justification or excuse. Because of the space limitations of the forms, attachments will likely be needed, and the forms anticipate these by including appropriate checkoff boxes to indicate that attachments are being used.

Although the Judicial Council has titled these forms "affidavits" pursuant to statutory mandate [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1211(b); Fam. Code § 292], they need not be signed as statements made under oath. Instead, they have been designed to be executed as conventional declarations made under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5; cf. Code Civ. Proc. § 2003 (affidavit defined)].

[6] Copies to Prepare

The following copies should be prepared:

- Original for judge's signature and filing with court clerk.
- Conformed copy for filing with proof of service.
- Copy for service on the alleged contemnor [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10-415.40, 1005(b), 1015, 1016 (service of papers to bring party into contempt) and discussion at § 258.86[4][a]].
- Courtesy copy for service on alleged contemnor's attorney of record, if any.
- Copy for client.
- Office copy.

[2] Use of Form

The form of declaration in [1], above, is for use by a citee named in the Order to Show Cause and Affidavit For Contempt [§ 258.130] to set forth facts showing that he or she is not guilty of contempt of court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1217; Fam. Code § 290]. Alternatively, the allegations may be set forth in the approved Judicial Council form of declaration under penalty of perjury [Cal. Judicial Council Form MC-030]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

This form contains defensive allegations relating to a lack of validity of the underlying judgment or order; the citee's attempted compliance; the objective impossibility or other inability to comply; and the termination of the judgment or order by operation of law. These allegations may be adapted or omitted according to the grounds that the citee wishes to raise, and other possible defenses may be listed under appropriate circumstances. These might include, for example, that the citee did not have knowledge of the judgment or order [see Freeman v. Superior Court (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 533, 537, 282 P.2d 857 ; see also § 258.82].

There is no specific authority requiring the citee to submit points and authorities with the opposing declaration. However, it is recommended that these be submitted when the declaration challenges the legal validity of the contempt proceeding; that is, when the declaration takes on the nature of a demurrer [see generally, Taylor v. Superior Court (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 244, 246, 125 P.2d 1 ; see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113].

[3] Copies to Prepare

The following copies should be prepared:

- Original for filing with court clerk;
- Copy for service on attorney for other party [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1011-1017 (service of papers);
- Copy for client;
- Office copy;
- Additional office copy if original is filed by mail to be retained in office file until return of endorsed copy from court.

[4] Accompanying Papers

The following accompanying papers also should be prepared:

- Memorandum of points and authorities, if necessary, in same number of copies and for same distribution as declaration;
- Proof of service. The original of the proof of service will be attached to the original of the declaration, and points and authorities, if any, presented to the clerk for filing. If the declaration and points and authorities are served on the other party's attorney [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1015; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.10(b)] by mail [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1012, 1013], the copies served must either be accompanied by an unsigned copy of the proof of service or bear a notation of their date and place of mailing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(b)].

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of the Judicial Council form for Findings and Order Regarding Contempt [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-415]. It is approved for optional use in any governmental or family law-related contempt proceeding arising out of disobedience of a family law order [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1209, 1218 (acts and omissions constituting contempt; punishment limitation); Fam. Code §§ 17400, 17402, 17404 (child support enforcement by local child support agencies)]. For discussion of contempt proceedings, see § 258.80 et seq.

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

The form is filled out by one of the parties following a contempt hearing and presented for the judicial officer's signature. In Paragraph 1, the appropriate box must be checked to indicate whether the matter proceeded by stipulation or as an uncontested or contested matter. In Paragraphs 1b-1f, appropriate boxes must be checked to identify the parties who were present; and names must be filled in for attorneys, governmental agencies, and other individuals or entities making appearances. In Paragraph 1g, the underlying Order to Show Cause and Affidavit for Contempt [Cal. Judicial Council Form FL-410; see § 258.130] must be identified by the person who filed and the date of filing. In Paragraphs 2 and 3, appropriate boxes must be checked to identify the "citee," and to indicate that the citee was advised of his or her rights.

Paragraphs 4 through 24 set forth the findings and orders of the court. Counsel should consult the clerk of the court to determine the court's preferences with respect to completion of this portion of the form. Paragraph 25 should be filled in with the number of pages attached if additional orders or findings are made. At the end of the form, the signature of the citee's attorney is required to approve the completed form as conforming to the court order and findings at the contempt hearing, and the signature of the citee is required to indicate his or her agreement to the terms of the order.

Chapter 259 FAMILY LAW ENFORCEMENT: SPECIAL REMEDIES FOR SUPPORT ENFORCEMENT
PART I. SCOPE

22-259 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 259.01

§ 259.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses special remedies for enforcing child and spousal support orders, beginning with an overview of the various special remedies for support enforcement [see §§ 259.10 -259.20], and continuing with more detailed discussion of the following:

- Earnings withholding (garnishment) orders [see §§ 259.30 -259.38].

- Wage and earnings assignments [see §§ 259.50 -259.71].

- Statutory procedures for deposit of money or assets to secure future payments of child support, when an earnings assignment is impractical or difficult to enforce. There are separate procedures depending on whether the deposit is sought before and after child support payments become delinquent [see §§ 259.80 -259.92 (after delinquency), §§ 259.100-259.105 (before delinquency)].

- Procedures involving the nonissuance or nonrenewal of a professional or commercial license under Fam. Code § 17520 of a person who has not complied with a support order [see §§ 259.110 -259.121].

This chapter also includes discussion of miscellaneous other enforcement methods, such as:

- Imposing a six-percent penalty on delinquent support payments pursuant to Fam. Code § 4720 et seq. [see § 259.131].

- Court orders requiring the payment of spousal and child support to a designated county officer pursuant to Fam. Code § 4200 et seq. and Fam. Code § 4350 et seq. [see § 259.133].

- The state tax refund and lottery winnings intercept program pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.730, 708.740 [see § 259.135].

- Proceedings initiated by a district attorney or other local child support agency to obtain reimbursement of public benefits on behalf of a child, and to establish paternity, and to establish, enforce, and modify support obligations mainly pursuant to Fam. Code § 17000 et seq. [see §§ 259.150 -259.160].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Special Remedies for Support Enforcement

22-259 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 259.11

§ 259.11 Overview of Remedies for Private Enforcement of Support Obligations

[1] Introduction

Various provisions of the Family Code, Code of Civil Procedure, and other statutes provide devices by which support obligees may obtain enforcement of child, spousal, or family support obligations that have been ordered by the court. This chapter provides an overview of each of these devices, briefly describing the nature of each procedure, the types of support orders that may be enforced by the particular procedure, the types of assets that may be reached through the use of each procedure, and the circumstances in which each procedure may be used.

Support enforcement procedures that are initiated and prosecuted solely by the district attorney or other local child support agency are discussed in § 259.150 et seq.

[2] Earnings Withholding Order for Support (Garnishment)

An earnings withholding order for support is an order issued on writ of execution, directing an obligor's employer to withhold and pay a percentage of obligor's earnings to the levying officer to satisfy a judgment for support [see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.030(a); see generally Code Civ. Proc. § 706.010 et seq.; see also 42 U.S.C. § 659(a); 5 C.F.R. pt. 581 (special requirements for enforcing support orders from federal employee's pay); § 259.30 et seq.].

Judgments for child or spousal support are enforceable support orders for these purposes [see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.030(a)]. "Earnings," which generally means compensation for services rendered within an employment relationship, are reachable assets for these purposes [see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.011(a), (c), (d)].

A withholding order for support may be used when the obligee has received a judgment ordering child or spousal support [see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.030(a)]. The obligee must obtain a writ of execution and then apply to the levying officer for issuance of the earnings assignment order [see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.102(a)].

[3] Earnings Assignment Order

An earnings assignment order is a court order directing an obligor's employer to withhold and pay a percentage of an obligee's earnings to the obligee under a support order [see Fam. Code § 5230(a); see generally Fam. Code § 5200 et seq.; see also 42 U.S.C. § 659(a); 5 C.F.R. pt. 581 (special requirements for enforcing support orders from federal employee's pay)]. Earnings assignment orders are issued automatically for support orders issued or modified on or after July 1, 1990 [see Fam. Code § 5230(a)], unless the assignment order is stayed or quashed [see Fam. Code §§ 5260, 5270]. For support orders first issued or modified before July 1, 1990, the obligee may apply for an earnings assignment order [see Fam. Code §§ 5230(b), 5250 et seq.]. An earnings assignment order for support is effective and enforceable notwithstanding the absence of the name, address, or other identifying information about the obligor's employer [Fam. Code § 5230(b)]. For full discussion, see § 259.50 et seq.

Orders for child, spousal, or family support are enforceable support orders for these purposes [see Fam. Code §§ 150, 5230(a)]. "Earnings," which include not only wages, salary, bonuses, benefits and other compensation for services rendered within an employment relationship [see Fam. Code § 5206(a)], but also payments for services rendered as an independent contractor [see Fam. Code § 5206(b)], and "[a]ny other payments or credits due or becoming due, regardless of source" [see Fam. Code § 5206(e); see In re Marriage of Johnson-Wilkes & Wilkes (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 1569, 1576, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 323 (describing limited exceptions)], are reachable assets for these purposes. Thus, "earnings" that may be reached under an earnings assignment order are broader than those that may be garnished under an earnings withholding order for support [compare Fam. Code § 5206 with Code Civ. Proc. § 706.011(a),(c),(d)].

An earnings assignment order will be issued automatically when the court orders support, unless the obligor successfully moves to stay or quash the assignment [see Fam. Code §§ 5230(a), 5260, 5270]. For the obligee, the advantage of an assignment order over a withholding order is that the obligee need not apply for a writ of execution and can use the procedure to reach certain types of payments that are not reachable under a withholding order [cf. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 706.011(a), 706.102(a)]. If more than one order is served on an employer, an earnings assignment order has priority over an earnings withholding order [see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.031(b); Fam. Code § 5243].

[4] Security Deposit Before Delinquency

A security deposit before delinquency is a court order directing an obligor to establish a child support trust account in a state or federally chartered financial institution, into which obligor must deposit of up to one year's child support [see Fam. Code §§ 4560, 4561; see generally Fam. Code § 4550 et seq.]. Amounts may be deducted from the account and paid to the obligee if the obligor is 10 or more days late in making support payments [see Fam. Code § 4570]. The court may order establishment of such an account after giving obligor notice and opportunity to apply for elimination or reduction of the deposit requirement on specified grounds [see Fam. Code § 4565]. For full discussion, see § 259.100 et seq.

Child support orders are enforceable support orders for these purposes [see Fam. Code § 4560(a)]. "Moneys" deposited into a financial institution under the security deposit order are reachable assets for these purposes [see Fam. Code § 4561].

A security deposit order is discretionary with the court and is available when alternative equivalent security for timely payment is not available [see Fam. Code §§ 4565(a)(1),(b), 4567], unless establishment of the deposit would be an "undue hardship" on the obligor [Fam. Code § 4565(a)(2), 4567]. It may be appropriate in circumstances when an earnings assignment order [see [3], above] is not practicable, such as when the obligor is self-employed or otherwise does not regularly receive a salary or wages but has assets available to secure the child support obligation. Unlike the deposit procedure described in [5], below, the procedure here may be included in the initial support order, i.e., it is not necessary to show past delinquency [compare Fam. Code § 4560 with Fam. Code § 4610(a)].

[5] Security Deposit After Delinquency

A security deposit after delinquency is a court order directing an obligor to deposit cash or other assets with a court-designated deposit-holder to secure future child support payments [see Fam. Code § 4610(a); see generally Fam. Code § 4600 et seq.]. The assets may be used or sold to pay child support arrearages if payments continue in arrears [see Fam. Code § 4630(a)]. The court may order a security deposit on an order to show cause or noticed motion filed by the obligee, accompanied by a declaration that the obligor is in arrears in a sum equal to 60 days' child support payments [see Fam. Code § 4610(a)]. For full discussion, see § 259.80 et seq.

Child support orders are enforceable support orders for these purposes [see Fam. Code § 4610(a)]. Cash or other assets deposited with the deposit-holder under court order are reachable assets for these purposes [see Fam. Code §§ 4614-4617].

Generally, the court may not issue an order requiring deposit of assets under these provisions unless it finds that the obligor-parent is not receiving earnings subject to earnings assignment, that an earnings assignment would not be sufficient to meet the amount of the support obligation, or that an earnings assignment would be difficult to enforce or impractical because of the obligor's job history [see Fam. Code § 4513]. Unlike the procedure described in [4], above, an order for a security deposit after delinquency is also unavailable unless the obligor is 60 days in arrears under the child support order [compare Fam. Code § 4560 with Fam. Code § 4610(a)]. However, this procedure may be useful to obtain access to assets other than cash to satisfy child support arrearages [see Fam. Code §§ 4614-4617].

[6] Government Benefits Intercept

A government benefits intercept permits a support obligee, in cases in which the support obligation is not being enforced by a local child support agency, to intercept certain payments by state agencies and other public agencies to the obligor to enforce a support obligation owing to the obligee [see generally Code Civ. Proc. § 708.710 et seq.]. Generally, the obligee may file a copy of the judgment directly with the state agency that owes the money to the obligor, prior to the time that the Controller makes the payment to the obligor [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.730(a), 708.740(a)], or with any public entity other than a state agency that owes money to the obligor [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.750 (note that Legislature enacted second statute numbered Code Civ. Proc. § 708.750, by Stats. 1995, ch. 363, but reference here is to first enacted statute)]. If the money is owed for lottery winnings or a state tax refund, the obligor may alternatively file a certified copy of the judgment for support with the local child support agency of the county in which the support judgment is entered or registered, who will then file the obligee's claim with the Department of Social Services [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.740(e)]. The Controller or other public entity then deposits the amount due with the court, which pays the amount over to the obligee unless the obligor successfully claims an exemption [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.740(c), 708.750, 708.770, 708.775]. For full discussion, see § 259.135.

Judgments for child, spousal, or family support (as well as any other type of money judgment) are enforceable support orders for these purposes [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.730(a),(e), 708.740(a),(i)]. Any money owed by a public entity to the support obligor-judgment debtor, except for earnings owed to a public employee, are reachable assets for these purposes [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.720(a),(b)].

This procedure may be used by support obligee to reach any money owed by a public entity to the obligor, other than earnings [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.720(a),(b)], which may only be withheld under the procedures for wage garnishment or earnings assignment [see [2] and [3], above]. Thus, this procedure may be used, for example, to reach the obligor's state income tax refund, lottery winnings, or any other sums that the state or a local public entity may owe to the obligor.

[7] Monetary Penalty on Delinquent Support Payments

A monetary penalty on delinquent support payments allows a support obligee to file and serve a notice of delinquency on the obligor whenever payments under a support order are more than 30 days in arrears [see Fam. Code § 4722(a);

see generally Fam. Code § 4720 et seq.]. Any payments that remain unpaid for more than 30 days after such a notice has been filed incur a penalty of 6 percent per month, up to a maximum of 72 percent of the unpaid balance [see Fam. Code § 4722(b)]. The support obligee may file a motion to obtain a judgment for the amount of penalties owed; the judgment may then be enforced by issuance of a writ of execution in the same manner as for unpaid child support installments [see Fam. Code §§ 4725, 4728]. For full discussion, see § 259.131.

Orders for child, spousal, or family support are enforceable support orders for these purposes [see Fam. Code §§ 150, 4720].

There is no access to any particular type of asset for these purposes; instead, there is a penalty for delinquent support payments, intended to encourage obligees to make timely support payments.

The penalty may be invoked any time payments under a support order are more than 30 days in arrears [see Fam. Code § 4722(a)], unless the obligor files a timely motion to determine arrearages and proves one of specified grounds for non-imposition of the penalty [see Fam. Code § 4726].

[8] Direct Payment of Benefits Under Pension or Retirement Plan

[a] QDRO to Reach ERISA Plan Benefits

Under a special exception to the rules against assigning or alienating employee benefits that are subject to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA) [see 29 U.S.C. § 1000 et seq.], an ERISA-governed retirement or pension plan must make direct payments of employee benefits to a spouse or former spouse pursuant to a state domestic relations order that is deemed "qualified" under federal statute-a "QDRO" [see 29 U.S.C. § 1056(d)(1), (3); see also Fam. Code § 5103 (enforcement of order for child, family, or spousal support against employee benefit plan); Marshall v. Marshall (1995) 36 Cal. App. 4th 1170, 1175-1176, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 38 (generally, order will be treated as "qualified" only after review by plan administrator, or, on administrator's refusal to recognize order, by judicial declaration that order is qualified)].

A QDRO may be used to enforce orders (including provisions of court-approved property settlement agreements) for child support, spousal support, or marital property rights with respect to a spouse, former spouse, child, or other dependent of a participant in an ERISA-governed employee benefit plan [29 U.S.C. § 1056(d)(3)(B)(ii)].

To constitute a QDRO, a domestic relations order must be made pursuant to a state domestic relations law, it must relate to the provision of support or marital property rights with respect to the persons described above, and it must meet other conditions set forth by federal statute for "qualification." To qualify, the order must recognize or create an "alternate payee's" right (or assign the right) to receive all or a portion of the plan participant's benefits, it must clearly specify certain information about the parties, the plan, the amount or percentage of benefits, and payments or period involved, and must not alter the form or amount of benefits [29 U.S.C. § 1056(d)(3)]. For an approved Judicial Council form of QDRO for support (earnings assignment order), see § 259.206 [Cal. Judicial Council Form 1285.74].

For a full discussion of the requirements for and use of QDRO's, see Ch. 222, Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation . For discussion of the tax effects of distributions made pursuant to a QDRO, see Ch. 227, Dissolution of Marriage: Tax Effects of Dissolution .

[b] Direct Payment of Military Retired Pay

Pursuant to federal statute, a spouse or former spouse of a military service member may obtain direct payment of the service member's retired pay to enforce a state court judgment that awards child or spousal support, that divides the retired pay between the spouses in accordance with their marital property interests, or (in conjunction with a garnishment order) as a means of enforcing a division of other property [see 10 U.S.C. § 1408; 32 C.F.R. § 63.1 et seq.].

The provisions for direct payment of retired pay apply to final judgments of dissolution, annulment, or legal separation, as well as property settlement agreements incident to those judgments that are ordered, ratified, or approved by a court. Modifications of these judgments (or such property settlement agreements) that are final are also enforceable. An enforceable order must be "regular on its face," be certified within a prescribed period, be served on the designated agent of the uniformed service, and meet other technical requirements [see 10 U.S.C. § 1408(a)-(d); 32 C.F.R. §§ 63.3, 63.6].

Although a spouse or former spouse must generally have been married to the service member for a specific time period in order to receive direct payments of retired pay as part of a division of that pay, these durational requirements are not applicable with respect to judgments for the payment of child or spousal support [10 U.S.C. § 1408(d)(2); 32 C.F.R. §§ 63.3, 63.6].

Apart from the above direct payment provisions, federal law also permits garnishment of military wages (and retired pay) to enforce a support award, and, in the case of a support obligor who is in default for a prescribed period, provides for an involuntary allotment from those wages. In addition, other provisions permit the garnishment of military retired pay to enforce a division of property other than that retired pay [see 42 U.S.C. § 659; 5 C.F.R. § 581.101 et seq.].

For discussion of the requirements for obtaining direct payment of military retired pay to enforce a division of community property, see Ch. 222, Dissolution of Marriage: Property Division and Valuation . For discussion of garnishing the earnings of a federal employee, including those of a military service member, see § 259.32[1].

[9] Payment by Electronic Funds Transfer

A court may require, by order or judgment, that a child support obligor designate an account for the purpose of paying a child support obligation by electronic funds transfer (EFT) and maintain enough funds in the account to meet the monthly child support obligation. The order may require that the account be an interest-bearing account with a state or federally chartered commercial bank, a savings and loan association, or an account in shares of a federally insured credit union doing business in California. The order must require the obligor to notify the obligee if the designated depository institution or the account number is changed [Fam. Code § 4508(b)].

However, a court may not order payment of child support by EFT if a child support obligor is already subject to an earnings assignment order under Fam. Code § 5200 et seq. [Fam. Code § 4508(a); see § 259.50 et seq.].

The court may order that the payment be electronically transferred to either the obligee's account or to the account of the local child support agency. No interest will accrue on any amount subject to EFT as long as the obligor maintains sufficient funds in the designated account to meet the monthly child support obligation [Fam. Code § 4508(b)].

§ 259.12 No Limitation Period Within Which to Bring Enforcement Proceeding

A judgment for child, family, or spousal support, including all lawful interest and penalties computed thereon, is enforceable until paid in full [Fam. Code § 291(a); see In re Marriage of Garcia (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 693, 697, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 242] . An enforcement proceeding on support arrearages may be brought at any time, including after a child for whom support is ordered has reached the age of majority [Fam. Code § 4503]. A judgment for reimbursement or other arrearages is exempt from any requirement that judgments be renewed [Fam. Code § 291(b)]; however, an application for renewal may be filed, if desired. An application for renewal may be filed: (1) if the judgment has not previously been renewed as to past due amounts, at any time; or (2) if the judgment has previously been renewed, the amount of the judgment as previously renewed and any past due amount that became due and payable after the previous renewal may be renewed at any time after a period of at least five years has elapsed from the time the judgment was previously renewed [Fam. Code § 291(c)].

In an action to enforce a judgment for child, family, or spousal support, the defendant may raise, and the court may consider, laches as a defense only with respect to any portion of the judgment the defendant owes to the state [Fam. Code § 291(d)].

Renewal of judgments is discussed generally in Ch. 258, Family Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Special Remedies for Support Enforcement

22-259 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 259.13

§ 259.13 Effect of Interference With Visitation Rights

The existence or enforcement of a duty of child support owed by a noncustodial parent is not affected by a failure or refusal by the custodial parent to implement any rights as to custody or visitation granted by a court to the noncustodial parent [Fam. Code § 3556; see In re Marriage of Comer (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 504, 517, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 155, 927 P.2d 265 ; Moffat v. Moffat (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 645, 651-652, 165 Cal. Rptr. 877, 612 P.2d 967 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1694, 4382); Cooper v. O'Rourke (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 243, 246-247 ; see also former Fam. Code § 4845(b) (same rule under now-repealed Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act; see Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments , for discussion of current law on this matter); In re Marriage of Damico (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 673, 678-679, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787, 872 P.2d 126 (construing both statutes as identical); Camacho v. Camacho (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 214, 219-220, 218 Cal. Rptr. 810 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1694, 4382; stating converse of rule, that visitation rights are not conditional on timely payment of child support)]. The reason for this rule is that children should not be left without support because of the misconduct of their parents [In re Marriage of Comer (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 504, 517, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 155, 927 P.2d 265 ; In re Marriage of Ciganovich (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 289, 294, 132 Cal. Rptr. 261 ; Clarke v. Clarke (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 583, 589-590, 84 Cal. Rptr. 393 ; see In re Marriage of Roesch (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 96, 103-104, 147 Cal. Rptr. 586 , cert. denied, 440 U.S. 915 (1979)] . Also, child support and visitation are often said to be independent rights, both accruing to the benefit of the child, which should not be defeated by the conduct of a parent [Camacho v. Camacho (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 214, 219-220, 218 Cal. Rptr. 810 ; In re Marriage of Comer (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 504, 517, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 155, 927 P.2d 265] .

The California Supreme Court has stated that these principles apply to deny the noncustodial parent an estoppel defense in an action for the enforcement of a child support obligation. The Court indicated that the appropriate remedies for the noncustodial parent being denied custody or visitation are contempt proceedings, termination or reduction of spousal support, change of custody, or a bond to assure compliance with the visitation order [Moffat v. Moffat (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 645, 651-653, 165 Cal. Rptr. 877, 612 P.2d 967 ; see Fam. Code § 3028 (court may order financial compensation to parent who has been thwarted in efforts to exercise visitation); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1218(b) (party in contempt of family law order may still enforce support obligation)]. However, in Marriage of Damico [In re Marriage of Damico (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 673, 678-679, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787, 872 P.2d 126] , the court distinguished between "interference" with custody or visitation rights, and child "concealment." For further discussion, see § 259.14.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Special Remedies for Support Enforcement

22-259 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 259.14

§ 259.14 Estoppel Based on Child Concealment

Notwithstanding Fam. Code § 3556 and policies on which it rests (see § 259.13), the California Supreme Court held in In re Marriage of Damico that active concealment of the child, as opposed to mere interference with visitation rights, may give rise to an estoppel defense to enforcement of child support under some circumstances. A custodial parent who conceals herself or himself and the child from the noncustodial parent until the child reaches the age of majority, despite reasonably diligent efforts by the noncustodial parent to locate them, is estopped from collecting child support arrearages for the time of the concealment [In re Marriage of Damico (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 673, 685, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787, 872 P.2d 126] . When support has been ordered paid to a court trustee, however, rather than to the custodial parent who is concealing the child, no estoppel arises under Damico because the concealment does not prevent the payment of support [In re Marriage of Walters (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 998, 1006-1007, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 354] .

Furthermore, under the Supreme Court's later holding of In re Marriage of Comer, a custodial parent's concealment of both parent and child--a concealment that ends while the child is still a minor--does not constitute a defense to an action brought on behalf of the child against the noncustodial parent for child support arrearages [In re Marriage of Comer (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 504, 517, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 155, 927 P.2d 265 ; In re Marriage of Tavares (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 620, 625, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 39 (concealment is not obstacle to collection of arrears because overdue payments will still benefit child during child's minority when child is entitled to parent's support)]. However, a custodial parent's intentional concealment of a child that ends after the child reaches the age of 18 but while the child is still a full-time high school student [see Fam. Code § 3901 (obligation to support child under age of 19 who is full-time high school student)] is a defense to the custodial parent's attempt to collect child support arrearages from the noncustodial parent, because it is the custodial parent's concealment until the child reaches the age of majority, not concealment until the termination of the support obligation, that estops the custodial parent from later collecting child support arrearages [Stanislaus County Dept. of Child Support Servs. v. Jensen (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 453, 456-458, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 178] .

When a custodial parent has obtained public assistance payments for the child, and has assigned the right to child support arrearages to the public entity providing such assistance, the conduct of the custodial parent in concealing the child from the other parent does not estop the public entity from seeking child support arrearages, or reimbursement for public assistance payments, from the noncustodial parent, regardless of whether the child is still a minor [In re

Marriage of Comer (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 504, 510, 515 n.4, 517, 528-529, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 155, 927 P.2d 265 (disapproving, to extent inconsistent, a group of appellate decisions set forth in footnote 4 of opinion; and specifically disapproving In re Marriage of Smith (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 196, 257 Cal. Rptr. 47 , to extent inconsistent); In re Marriage of Walters (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 998, 1004-1005, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 354 ; see also In re Marriage of Vroenen (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1176, 1181 n.1, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 860 (though custodial parent apparently received some public assistance, no government agency asserted right to arrearages; estoppel defense rejected when concealment ended during minority, and arrearages sought after children reached majority)].

The defense of estoppel is not otherwise available when concealment ends during a child's minority, regardless of when the custodial parent attempts to collect arrearages, but the defense of laches continues to be available when child support remains uncollected for many years after a child reaches the age of majority and when the adult child has no need of the funds [In re Marriage of Vroenen (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1176, 1181-1183, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 860] .

Note, however, that at least one reported decision has estopped a county from obtaining reimbursement for unnecessary public assistance payments for children who were placed in foster care after their custodial parent--who had concealed the children for many years--was incarcerated, when the county affirmatively misrepresented to a juvenile dependency court that it did not know the whereabouts of the noncustodial father. The reviewing court cited Comer's recognition that, although mere governmental inaction or delay does not suffice for estoppel, an estoppel may exist when there is some affirmative misrepresentation or acts by a public agency or its representatives that induces reliance by the claimant. It also noted that Comer had indicated that evidence of a governmental dereliction of duty rebuts the statutory presumption that a governmental agency has properly performed its official duties by accepting one parent's application for public assistance and seeking to locate the other parent. Thus, in that narrow instance, the county was estopped from seeking a portion of the amount sought to be reimbursed [County of Orange v. Carl D. (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 429, 439-441, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 440] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Special Remedies for Support Enforcement

22-259 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 259.15

§ 259.15 Motion to Determine Arrearages

Often, in a support enforcement proceeding, the obligor contests the amount of arrearages claimed to be due to the obligee. Although there is no such thing as an independent action to determine arrearages, courts have sanctioned the use of a motion for the determination of arrearages as a way of bringing defenses before the court even if no actual enforcement proceeding is pending [see County of Shasta v. Smith (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 329, 334, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 52 ; see Fam. Code § 290 (general authority of court to make orders to enforce its judgments or orders); see also Fam. Code § 17526 (judicial determination of arrearages in local support agency enforcement proceedings); In re Marriage of Robinson (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 93, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 134] . The motion is similar to one for a declaratory judgment or accounting unconnected with any specific enforcement of the support obligation by the obligee. It may be used whether the support order was issued in a independent proceeding brought between the individual parties or in a proceeding initiated by a public agency (district attorney or other successor local child support agency) [County of Shasta v. Smith (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 329, 334, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 52] .

The motion is brought as a postjudgment motion in the proceeding in which the child support order was issued. If the order was issued in an independent, the notice provisions of Fam. Code § 215 are triggered, and notice must be given to all parties to the proceeding. If the order was issued in a proceeding initiated by a district attorney or other local child support agency, then the parties entitled to notice are determined under those provisions [County of Shasta v. Smith (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 329, 334-336, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 52 (notice to obligee parent not required in support proceeding brought by district attorney)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Special Remedies for Support Enforcement

22-259 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 259.16

§ 259.16 Interest Accrued on Support Arrearages

A defaulting parent is required to pay interest on support arrearages as a matter of law [County of Los Angeles v. Salas (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 510, 513, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 61 ; see Cal. Const. art XV, § 1]. A trial court has no authority to eliminate or waive interest that has accrued on an unpaid child support obligation [In re Marriage of Perez (1995) 35 Cal. App. 4th 77, 81, 41 Cal. Rptr. 2d 377] . The lawful interest rate is specified by statute [see Code Civ. Proc. § 685.010 (currently 10 percent)].

In general, interest commences to accrue on a money judgment on the date of entry of the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.020(a)]. However, unless the judgment provides otherwise, interest on a judgment payable in installments accrues as to each installment when the installment becomes due [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.020(b)]. Therefore, unless the judgment specifies otherwise, interest does not accrue on a judgment payable in installments until the obligor defaults on a payment [County of Alameda v. Weatherford (1995) 36 Cal. App. 4th 666, 670-671, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 386 (involving judgment for reimbursement of public benefits under former Welf. & Inst. Code § 11350; now see Fam. Code § 17402); see Dupont v. Dupont (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 192, 198-199, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 607 (term "installment judgment" applies to any child support order payable in installments); see also United States v. Gill (9th Cir. 2001) 264 F.3d 929, 931-932 ("support obligation" under federal Child Support Recovery Act, 18 U.S.C. § 228, includes interest on accrued delinquent installments)].

For purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 685.020, only the initial support order, whether temporary or final, and whether or not the order is contained in a judgment, may be considered an installment judgment [Fam. Code § 155]. No support order or other order or notice issued, that sets forth the amount of support owned for prior time periods or establishes a periodic payment to liquidate the support order for prior periods, may be considered a money judgment for purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 685.020(b) [Fam. Code § 155].

Effective until January 1, 2009, partial payment of an interest-bearing child support obligation must be applied first to the current month's support, and then to reduce the interest accrued; any remaining amount is credited to reduce principal [Code Civ. Proc. § 695.221, operative until January 1, 2009]. Effective January 1, 2009, partial payment of an interest-bearing child support obligation must be first credited against the current month's support, then to reduce principal; any remaining amount is credited against accrued interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 695.221, operative January 1, 2009]. Any unpaid principal remaining continues to accrue interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.010(a)].

Code Civ. Proc. § 695.211 requires that every child support judgment or order provide notice that interest on arrearages accrues at the legal rate. This requirement was added by 1994 legislation, effective September 28, 1994 [see Stats 1994, ch. 959. § 1]. It has been held that the statute is not to be applied retroactively [County of Los Angeles v. Salas (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 510, 515 n.1, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 61] . Further, due process does not require that such a notice be given. Therefore, child support orders made before September 28, 1994 are not invalid by reason of omission of notice to the obligor that interest will accrue on arrearages [County of Los Angeles v. Salas (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 510, 514-516, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 61 ; see Glenn v. Rice (1917) 174 Cal. 269, 276, 162 P. 1020] .

§ 259.17 Property Available to Enforce Child Support Obligation

By statute, the parents' community, quasi-community, and separate property may be subjected, in the proportions the court deems just, to the support of their children [Fam. Code § 4008]. It is not clear from the statute whether it simply states a rule as to what property may be levied on by a creditor or obligee to enforce an existing unpaid obligation, or whether it states a rule as to what property may be considered in setting the amount of child support. To the extent that it purports to do the latter, it is probably superseded by Fam. Code § 4050 et seq., the statewide uniform child support guidelines. § 259.18 Property Available to Enforce Spousal Support Obligation

In the enforcement of an order for spousal support, Fam. Code § 4338 requires the court to resort to the property described below in the order indicated:

> (1) The earnings, income, or accumulations of either spouse while living separate and apart from the other spouse that would have been community property if the spouse had not been living separate and apart from the other spouse;
> (2) The community property;
> (3) The quasi-community property; and
> (4) The other separate property of the party required to make support payments.

One effect of this statute is that the supporting spouse cannot claim that he or she is making support payments out of community property if there are adequate earnings after separation from which the payments can be made, and therefore cannot claim credit for the payments in the division of community property [In re Marriage of Tammen (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 927, 932-933, 134 Cal. Rptr. 161 (construing substantially similar provisions of former Civ. Code § 4805)].

§ 259.19 Property of Subsequent Marriage

For purposes of determining what property is liable for support, a child or spousal support obligation of a married person that arises from a prior marriage is treated as a premarital debt, regardless of whether a court order for support is made or modified before or during the subsequent marriage and regardless of whether any installment payment on the obligation accrues before or during the subsequent marriage [see Fam. Code § 915(a)]. The separate property of the obligor is liable for a debt incurred before or during marriage [Fam. Code § 913(a)], but the separate property of the obligor's subsequent spouse is generally not liable [see Fam. Code § 913(b)].

The community property of the subsequent marriage is liable for either spouse's premarital support debts, subject to a right of reimbursement [see Fam. Code § 915(b); Kirkland, Lurvey, and Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2d ed., vol. 1, ch. 23 (Matthew Bender)]. This is true regardless of which spouse has the management and control of the community property and regardless of whether one or both spouses are parties to a debt or judgment for the debt [see Fam. Code § 910(a)].

However, the subsequent spouse's earnings during marriage are not liable for the obligor spouse's premarital support debts as long as the earnings are held in a deposit account in which the obligated spouse has no right of withdrawal and are not commingled with other community property, except property insignificant in amount [see Fam. Code § 911(a); In re Marriage of Barnes (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 143, 149, 147 Cal. Rptr. 710 ; see also In re Marriage of Smaltz (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 568, 570, 147 Cal. Rptr. 154 (dictum that noncommingled earnings are not liable for other spouse's spousal support to former spouse); Wightman v. Franchise Tax Board (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 966, 970 n.4, 249 Cal. Rptr. 207] .

For further discussion of liability for and division of debts of married persons, see Kirkland, Lurvey, and Richmond, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2d ed., Vol. 4, Ch. 23 (Matthew Bender).

Fam. Code § 915 does not limit the matters a court may take into consideration in determining or modifying the amount of a support order, including, but not limited to, the earnings of the spouses of the parties [Fam. Code § 915(c)]. For discussion of the effect of a subsequent spouse's income on a parent's child support obligation, see Kirkland,

§ 259.20 Liability of Parent's Estate

A parent's child support obligation that is fixed by a court decree or a property settlement agreement does not cease on the parent's death; it survives as a charge against his or her estate [Taylor v. George (1949) 34 Cal. 2d 552, 556, 212 P.2d 505 ; In re Marriage of Bertrand (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 437, 439-441, 39 Cal. Rptr. 2d 151] . The proper procedure to obtain support payments from the parent's estate is to make a creditor's claim for the payments [see Prob. Code § 9000 et seq.; Thomas v. Hobart (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 139, 141-142, 78 Cal. Rptr. 844] . For discussion of creditors' claims against a decedent's estate, see California Probate Practice, ch. 12 (Matthew Bender).

If there is no support order or agreement, the estate of a parent is not liable for the support of a minor child [Jacobs v. Gerecht (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 808, 811-813, 86 Cal. Rptr. 217] , but the child may apply for a family allowance from the estate during the administration of the estate [see Prob. Code § 6540(a); *Estate of Goulart (1963) 218 Cal. B. Earnings Withholding for Support (Garnishment)

22-259 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 259.30

§ 259.30 Earnings Withholding (Garnishment) Order

[1] Overview of Procedure

Using the earnings withholding procedure of the Code of Civil Procedure (also known as a wage garnishment), a judgment creditor may enforce a money judgment against the unpaid earnings of the judgment debtor. This procedure is comparable to an earnings assignment order under the Family Code [see Fam. Code § 5230; see also discussion at [2], below, and § 259.50 et seq.].

Under the earnings withholding (wage garnishment) procedure, the court clerk issues an order pursuant to a writ of execution [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.030(a)]. The order is served on the employer by the levying officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.021]. The employer then withholds the employee's earnings and pays them to the levying officer, who in turn pays them to the person entitled to them [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 706.022, 706.025, 706.026]. For further discussion of procedure, see § 259.37 .

The earnings of an employee may not be required to be withheld by an employer for payment of a debt by means of any judicial procedure other than pursuant to the Wage Garnishment Law (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 706.010-706.154), with the exception of an earnings assignment order for support [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.020; Code Civ. Proc. § 706.011(b); see also [2], below, and § 259.50 et seq.].

[2] Compared to Earnings Assignment Order

The "earnings withholding" (wage garnishment) method should be distinguished from an "earnings assignment," which is a procedure under the Family Code used to secure on-going support [see Fam. Code § 5200 et seq.; for discussion of earnings assignment, see also § 259.50 et seq.]. (Prior to January 1, 1994, an "earnings assignment" was known as a "wage assignment" [see former Civ. Code §§ 4390(a), 4390.3(a)].) The earnings withholding (garnishment) method allows a spouse to collect only past-due support [see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.030(a)], whereas the earnings assignment procedure creates an ongoing lien against the judgment debtor's salary and permits the judgment creditor to collect support payments as they become due, as well as those that are past due [see Fam. Code § 5230(a)]. Thus, the earnings assignment procedure may be preferable to ensure that ongoing support will be paid.

However, earnings withholding (wage garnishment) may be used to enforce other family law related judgments for money, such as an equalizing payment for a division of community property [see Fam. Code § 2550; for discussion of garnishment to enforce nonsupport judgments, see also Ch. 276, Garnishment]. Earnings withholding (wage garnishment) may also be appropriate if only arrearages are due.

An earnings withholding order may not be issued against the earnings of the judgment debtor's spouse except by court order on noticed motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.109].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Earnings Withholding for Support (Garnishment)

22-259 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 259.31

§ 259.31 "Earnings Withholding Order for Support" Defined; Other Definitions

If the garnishment order is to collect delinquent support, it is called a "withholding order for support" [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.030(a)]. A withholding order for support is statutorily defined as an earnings withholding order issued on a writ of execution to collect delinquent amounts payable under a judgment for the support of a child, spouse, or former spouse of the judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.030(a)]. A withholding order for support must be denoted as such on its face [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.030(a)].

"Earnings" are defined as compensation payable by an employer to an employee for personal services performed by that employee, whether denominated as wages, salary, commission, bonus, or otherwise [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.011(a)]. Additional definitions for purposes of the Wage Garnishment Law are set forth by statute [see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.011 (defining "earnings," "employee," "employer," "judgment creditor," "judgment debtor," "person," and "earnings assignment order for support")].

§ 259.32 Earnings Subject to Withholding

[1] Federal Limitations

Under federal law, if the order sought to be enforced is not a support order, a judgment debtor's maximum aggregate earnings subject to withholding may not exceed whichever is the less of (1) 25 percent of disposable earnings for that week, or (2) the amount by which the judgment debtor's earnings for that week exceed 30 times the federal minimum hourly wage as prescribed by 29 U.S.C. § 206(a)(1) [15 U.S.C. § 1673(a); see 15 U.S.C. § 1672(b) (defining disposable earnings)].

In the case of an earnings withholding order for support, under federal law, when the debtor is not supporting a new spouse or dependent children (other than the spouse or children supported by the order to be enforced), the maximum amount of the judgment debtor's disposable earnings for any work week that is subject to garnishment must not exceed 60 percent. When the judgment debtor is supporting a new spouse or another dependent child, the maximum amount subject to garnishment is 50 percent. These amounts increase to 65 percent and 55 percent, respectively, if the order is to enforce arrearages that are more than 12 weeks past due [see 15 U.S.C. § 1673(b)(2); In re Marriage of Williams (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 753, 767, 209 Cal. Rptr. 827] .

[2] State Limitations

[a] In General

State law permits limited execution on a judgment debtor's disposable earnings when using the earnings withholding procedure [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 706.050-706.052]. Except as otherwise provided in the Wage Garnishment Law, the amount of earnings exempt from an earnings withholding order is the amount that may not be withheld from the judgment debtor's earnings under 15 U.S.C. § 1673(a) (the lesser of 25 percent of disposable earnings or the amount judgment debtor's weekly earnings exceed 30 times federal minimum hourly wage) [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.050; see discussion under [1], above].

A withholding order for support may never exceed the amount that may be withheld for support under federal law pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1673 [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.052(c); see In re Marriage of Williams (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 753, 767, 209 Cal. Rptr. 827] .

Except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 706.052(b) (discussed under [c], below), when the earnings withholding order is for support, one half of the disposable earnings, as defined by 15 U.S.C. § 1672, plus any amount withheld from the judgment debtor's earnings pursuant to an earnings assignment order for support (see § 259.50 et seq.), is exempt from levy under the Wage Garnishment Law [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.052(a)].

[b] Exempt Earnings

The portion of the judgment debtor's earnings that the judgment debtor proves is necessary for his or her support or for the support of his or her family supported in whole or in part by the judgment debtor (including a spouse or former spouse) is exempt from levy under the Wage Garnishment Law unless (1) the debt was incurred for the common necessaries of life furnished to the judgment debtor or his or her family; (2) the debt was incurred for personal services rendered by an employee or former employee of the judgment debtor; (3) the order is a withholding order for support under Code Civ. Proc. § 706.030; or (4) the order is one governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 706.070-706.084 (withholding order for taxes) [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.051(b),(c)].

[c] Equitable Division of Earnings for Support

On motion of an interested party, the court must make an equitable division of the judgment debtor's earnings that takes into account the needs of all the persons the judgment debtor is required to support and shall effectuate the division by an order determining the amount to be withheld from his or her earnings pursuant to the withholding order for support. However, the court may not order the withholding of an amount in excess of that allowable under 15 U.S.C. § 1673 (see discussion under [1], above) [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.052(b),(c)].

§ 259.33 Priority of Earnings Assignment for Support

Notwithstanding any other provision of the Wage Garnishment Law (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 706.010-706.154), a withholding order for support has priority over any other earnings withholding order [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.030(c)(2)]. It does not, however, have priority over an earnings assignment order for support [see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.031(b); Fam. Code § 5200 et seq.; see also § 259.50 et seq.]. For further provisions regarding the employer's obligations when more than one earnings withholding order and/or earnings assignment order for support is served, see *Code Civ. § 259.34 Orders Issued by Other States or Counties

Two statutes enacted in 1997 (and operative January 1, 1998) make reference, respectively, to "withholding orders" issued out-of-state, and orders made out of the local county, and may be applicable to the wage garnishment provisions set forth in the preceding discussion, although their true import is presently unclear. Under one statute, an "earnings assignment or income withholding order for support" issued by a court or administrative agency of another state is binding on an employer of the obligor to the same extent as an earnings assignment order made by a California court. Because an "income withholding order" is defined (at least for interstate enforcement purposes) as not only an earnings assignment order for support, but also "any other order or other legal process directed to an obligor's employer, or other debtor, to withhold from the income of the obligor an amount owed for support," this section might be construed as coming within the ambit of wage garnishment statutes [Fam. Code §§ 4901(f), 5230.1].

Under the other section, a local child support agency or obligee may register "an order for support or earnings withholding, or both" obtained in another county of the state, by following the procedures set forth in Fam. Code § 5600 et seq. [See Fam. Code § 5600(a)].

For further discussion of these statutes, see §§ 259.70 and 259.159, below .

§ 259.35 Earnings Due and Payable

The earnings that the judgment creditor seeks to garnish must be actually due and payable to the judgment debtor when the garnishment is sought. A judgment creditor may not acquire any greater right in the property than the judgment debtor has at the time of the garnishment. Thus, an order for earnings withholding may not contemplate future garnishment of yet uncertain earnings, such as pension benefits that have not been paid to a debtor spouse [In re Marriage of Williams (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 753, 763, 209 Cal. Rptr. 827] .

§ 259.36 Pension Benefits

As discussed in § 259.32, above, state and federal law permit only limited execution on a debtor-spouse's "disposable earnings" [see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.052(c); 15 U.S.C. § 1673]. The term "earnings" under federal law includes periodic payments incident to a pension or retirement program [15 U.S.C. § 1672(a)] as long as the benefits are actually due and owing to the employee spouse [In re Marriage of Williams (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 753, 763, 209 Cal. Rptr. 827] .

In addition, benefits paid to a judgment debtor incident to a pension benefit plan governed by the Employment Retirement and Income Security Act (ERISA) may be garnished under state law without violating the antialienation (spendthrift) and preemption provisions of ERISA [see 29 U.S.C. §§ 1056(d)(1) (spendthrift provision), 1144(a) (preemption provision)] so long as the order for support is in the form of a qualified domestic relations order (QDRO) under the Retirement Equity Act of 1984 [see 29 U.S.C. § 1056(d)(3); see also Marshall v. Marshall (1995) 36 Cal. App. 4th 1170, 1175-1176, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 38 (garnishment of ERISA benefits not permitted to enforce collateral orders--i.e., orders not related to subjects to which QDRO exception to antialienation provisions relate; child or spousal support, or marital property rights-thus, garnishment by QDRO was not permitted to enforce tax liability assumed by spouse); In re Marriage of Williams (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 753, 760-761, 209 Cal. Rptr. 827] , or be otherwise exempted from the requirements [see Retirement Equity Act of 1984, Pub. L. No. 98-397, § 303(d) (plan administrators required to treat orders as QDROs if benefits were being paid pursuant to order before January 1, 1985, but are permitted to treat other orders as QDROs even if they did not otherwise meet current QDRO requirements); *In re Marriage of Williams (1985) 163 Cal. § 259.37 Procedure to Obtain Earnings Withholding Order

[1] Application and Order

The creditor spouse must first apply for, and have the clerk issue, a writ of execution for the amount of past-due support [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 699.010-701.830]. The creditor must then complete the mandatory Judicial Council form of the Application for Earnings Withholding Order [Cal. Judicial Council Form 982.5(1); see § 259.190]. The application shall be executed under oath. Its contents are specified by statute [see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.121]. The judgment creditor must file it and the writ of execution with the levying officer (who is either the sheriff or marshall) or with a registered process server [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 680.260, 680.330; see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 706.102, 706.108]. The levying officer or registered process server will then issue an earnings withholding order [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 706.102(a), 706.108(a)]. If a registered process server issues the order, he or she must, before service on the employer (see discussion at [3], below), deposit with the levying officer a copy of the writ of execution, the application for issuance of the earnings withholding order, and the order, and must also pay the fee provided in Gov. Code § 26750 [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.108(b)]. Note that a district attorney or other local child support agency may issue a withholding order for support on a notice of levy pursuant to Fam. Code § 17522 and in such cases, the enforcing agency is deemed to be the levying officer and must follow the procedures for service of the order and administrative review set forth by statute [see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.030(b)].

[2] Time for Application for Earnings Withholding Order

Except as otherwise provided by statute, a judgment creditor may enforce a money judgment at any time within 10 years after the judgment was entered or renewed [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 683.010-683.220]. However, child, family, or spousal support arrearages may be enforced through the earnings withholding procedure by a writ of execution or a notice of levy under Code Civ. Proc. § 706.030 or Fam. Code § 17522 without prior court approval as long as the support order is enforceable [see Fam. Code §§ 5100, 5101].

The judgment creditor must first obtain a writ of execution [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 699.010-701.830]. An application for an earnings withholding order must be made prior to expiration of 180 days from the date the writ of execution was issued [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 699.530(b), 706.102(a), 706.108(a)]. Time limitations governing subsequent earnings withholding orders are also set forth by statute [see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.105(h), (k) (application)].

[3] Service of Order

The levying officer or the process server must serve the earnings withholding order, the form for the employer's return, the notice to employee of earnings withholding, and a copy of the employer's instructions on the judgment debtor's employer within 180 days from the date the writ was issued [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 699.530, 706.101, 706.103, 706.108(c), 706.127]. If service is made by a registered process server, within five court days after service the writ of execution, proof of service on the employer, and written instructions to the employer under Code Civ. Proc. § 687.010 must be served on the levying officer [see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.108(d)].

[4] Employer's Duties

The employer has 10 days to give the judgment debtor notice of the order and of the earnings withholding, unless the debtor is no longer employed by the employer and the employer does not owe him or her any earnings. An employer failing to comply with these notice requirements will not be subject to civil liability, but may be held in contempt [see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.104(a)]. The employer must also complete and send the employer's return to the levying officer within 15 days after service. If the earnings withholding order is ineffective, the employer must so state in the return and must send the order with the return to the levying officer [see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.104(b)]. The employer must begin withholding the employee's earnings within 10 days after service of the order [see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.022(a)]. After withholding the earnings, the employer must pay the withheld sums to the levying officer at least monthly and not later than the 15th day of the month [see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.025]. The levying officer must account for all amounts received and pay them to the judgment creditor at least once every 30 days [see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.026]. Once the State Disbursement Unit described in Fam. Code § 17309 is operational, all support payments made pursuant to an earnings withholding order must be made to that unit [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.030(c)(6)].

The employer must continue to withhold the earnings until the earliest of the following [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 706.030(c)(1), 706.022(a)(1)-(3)]: (1) the date the employer has withheld the full amount required to satisfy the order, (2) the date of termination specified in a court order served on the employer, or (3) the date of termination specified in a notice of termination served on the employer by the levying officer. An employer who willfully fails to withhold and forward support pursuant to a valid earnings withholding order for support that has been issued and served on the employer is liable to the support obligee for the amount of support not withheld, forwarded, or otherwise paid to the support obligee [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.030(c)(4)]. In addition, in cases in which a district attorney or other local child support agency has issued a withholding order for support, the employer has additional duties, the failure to comply with which will subject the employer to a civil penalty [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.030(b)(3), (4)].

Additionally, in Code Civ. Proc. § 706.030(b)(3), (4), some instances, an employer may be subject to criminal penalties, contempt, or civil liability, for failure to comply with an earnings withholding order [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 706.104(a), 706.152-706.154; but see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.022(c) (no liability in certain circumstances)].

For further discussion of instructions for employers, see the "Employer's Instructions" on the reverse of the Judicial Council form of Earnings Withholding Order for Support [see § 259.191].

B. Earnings Withholding for Support (Garnishment)

§ 259.38 Debtor's Response to Withholding Order

Unless the earnings withholding order is for support, a judgment debtor may claim an exemption under Code Civ. Proc. § 706.051 (exemption for earnings necessary for family support) if no prior hearing has been held with respect to the earnings withholding order, or if there has been a material change in circumstances since the time of the last prior hearing on the earnings withholding order [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.105(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.105(k)]. The procedure for filing the claim is set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 706.105(b),(c).

If the earnings withholding order is for support and places an undue burden on the judgment debtor, he or she may move for an equitable division of earnings, which takes into account the needs of all the persons the judgment debtor is required to support [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.052(b)]. For discussion of this division, see § 259.32.

The judgment debtor may also move to quash or recall the underlying writ on which the earnings withholding order was issued on the grounds that the amount due from the judgment debtor is falsely represented in the application, that the amount sought to be recovered has already been paid, or when the writ was issued by the clerk without authorization from the court [see Jackson v. Jackson (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 363, 368, 124 Cal. Rptr. 101 ; see also Ch. 258, Family Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies , regarding motions to recall or quash writs of execution].

In cases brought by a local child support agency, the judgment debtor (support obligor) must also be afforded administrative review, as set forth by statute, to reconsider or modify the amount to be withheld for arrearages. This right to administrative review, however, does not preclude the judgment debtor from seeking either a judicial determination of arrearages or the equitable division of earnings mentioned above, either before or after the administrative review [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.030(b)(5), (6)].

An earnings assignment is a statutory procedure by which a portion of an obligor's earnings is ordered to be paid by the obligor's employer directly to the obligee to satisfy a support obligation [see Fam. Code § 5208, 5230]. Prior to January 1, 1994, an "earnings assignment" was known as a "wage assignment" [see former Civ. Code §§ 4390(a), 4390.3(a)]. Unlike an earnings withholding order (garnishment), which intercepts earnings only to collect delinquent support, an earnings assignment operates both to collect arrearages and to divert earnings for the payment of support prospectively [see In re Marriage of Stutz (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 1038, 1040-1041, 179 Cal. Rptr. 312 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 706.030(a) (definition of "earnings withholding order for support")]. § 259.52 Federal Limitations on Amount of Earnings Assignment

Federal law limits the amount of an individual's earnings that may be subjected to "garnishment" [15 U.S.C. § 1673(b)]. An order for the support of any person, including an earnings assignment order, is a garnishment within the definition of the federal limitation [Marshall v. Dist. Ct. forForty-First-b Jud. Dist. (E.D. Mich. 1978) 444 F. Supp. 1110, 1116 (child support); see 15 U.S.C. § 1672(c)].

The amount of the support order is limited by federal law to 60 percent of the obligor's disposable earnings for any workweek subject to the earnings assignment order or, if the obligor is supporting a spouse or dependent child other than the spouse or child who is the subject of the support order, to 50 percent of the indebted parent's disposable earnings. If, and to the extent that, the earnings assignment order is enforcing a support order with respect to a period prior to the 12-week period ending with the beginning of the workweek, the maximum amount of disposable earnings for the week subject to the earnings assignment order is increased to 65 or 55 percent, respectively [15 U.S.C. § 1673(b)(2)].

For additional discussion of federal limitations on the permissible amount of earnings withholdings, see Ch. 276, Garnishment .

§ 259.53 Mandatory Earnings Assignment Order to Enforce Child and Spousal Support

When the court orders a party to pay support, the court must include in its order an earnings assignment that orders the employer of the obligor to pay to the obligee the portion of the obligor's earnings due or to become due in the future as will be sufficient to pay the ordered support [Fam. Code § 5230(a)(1)]. The order also must include an amount to be paid toward the liquidation of any arrearage [Fam. Code § 5230(a)(2)]. The court must include an earnings assignment order in any order establishing or modifying support [Fam. Code § 5230(a)]. This requirement applies to child, spousal, and family support obligations [see Fam. Code § 150]. It also applies to a county's action under Fam. Code § 17402 to recover public assistance benefits paid (see § 259.150 et seq.) and to past-due support and arrearages [Fam. Code § 150]. For a mandatory form of earnings assignment order for child or family support (the "Order/Notice to Withhold Income for Child Support" form), see § 259.363 [See Fam. Code § 5208(b)]. For a form of qualified domestic relations order (QDRO) for support that is cast as an earnings assignment order, see § 259.206.

The assignment extends to earnings that are due to the obligor or that are to become due in the future [see Fam. Code § 5208]. Earnings that are subject to an earnings assignment include the following [Fam. Code § 5206]:

1. Wages, salary, bonuses, money, public and private retirement benefits and public employee vacation credits [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 704.110, 704.113, 704.115, discussed in §§ 259.68 and 259.69];

2. Payments due for services of independent contractors, interest, dividends, rents, royalties, residuals, patent rights, or mineral or other natural resource rights;

3. Payments of credits due or becoming due as a result of written or oral contracts for services or sales, whether denominated as wages, salary, commission, bonus, or otherwise;

4. Payments due for workers' compensation temporary disability benefits [Marriage of Johnson-Wilkes & Wilkes (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 1569, 1576, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 323] ;

5. Payments due as a result of disability from benefits payable under a disability or health insurance policy or program; and

6. Any other payments or credits due or becoming due regardless of source.

§ 259.54 Service on Employer and Employer's Notice to Obligor

On issuance by the court, an earnings assignment order must be served on the obligor's employer. Service may be by first-class mail [Fam. Code § 5232; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 (service by mail)]. An employer is any person for whom the obligor performs services as an employee as defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 706.011, and includes the United States government, any public entity as defined in Gov. Code § 811.2, and any person or entity paying earnings as defined in Fam. Code § 5206 [Fam. Code § 5210; see 42 U.S.C. § 659(a) (making remuneration for federal employment subject to legal process for enforcement of support obligations); see also § 259.53, for discussion of definition of "earnings"]. Service of the order creates a lien on the earnings of the employee and the property of the employer to the same extent as does an earnings withholding order (garnishment) [Fam. Code § 5242; see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.029; see also § 259.30 et seq. for discussion of earnings withholding orders].

Within 10 days after service of the earnings assignment order or an order/notice to withhold income for child support, the employer must deliver a copy of the order to the obligor, together with a written statement of the obligor's rights under the law to seek to quash, modify, or stay service of the earnings assignment order, and a blank form that the obligor may file with the court to request a hearing to quash, modify, or stay service of the order (with instructions on how to file the form and obtain a hearing date). [Fam. Code § 5234 (also providing for Judicial Council development of necessary forms); see § 259.58]. The statement of rights is included as part of the Judicial Council form for an earnings assignment order [see Cal. Judicial Council Form 1285.70; § 259.202]. The order is effective on compliance with these procedures unless service is stayed by the court [Fam. Code § 5231; see § 259.55, below]. The employer must commence withholding under the order from all earnings of the obligor payable for any pay period that ends after the assignment becomes effective [Fam. Code § 5233].

§ 259.55 Stay of Service of Earnings Assignment Order

[1] In General

The court may order that service of the earnings assignment be stayed if the court makes a finding of good cause or when the parties make an alternative arrangement for payment pursuant to Fam. Code § 5260(b)(2) [Fam. Code § 5260(a)].

Good cause for staying a wage assignment exists only when all of the following conditions exist [Fam. Code § 5260(b)(1)]:

- The court provides a written explanation of why the stay would be in the best interests of the child;

- The obligor has a history of uninterrupted, full, and timely payment, other than through a wage assignment or other mandatory process, of previously ordered support during the previous 12 months. "Timely payment" means receipt of support payments within five days of the due date [Fam. Code § 5220]. "Due date" of support payments is the date specified in the order for payment or, if none is specified, the last day of the month in which support is to be paid [Fam. Code § 5204];

- The obligor does not owe an arrearage for prior support;

- The obligor proves, and the court finds, by clear and convincing evidence that service of the wage assignment would cause extraordinary hardship on the obligor.

Whenever possible, the court must specify a date when a stay ordered due to hardship will automatically terminate.

An alternative arrangement for staying a wage assignment order requires a written agreement between the parties that provides for payment of the support obligation as ordered other than through the immediate service of a wage assignment [Fam. Code § 5260(b)(2)]. An agreement between the parties for staying of service of a wage assignment must include the concurrence of the local child support agency when support is ordered to be paid through a designated county officer [Fam. Code § 5260(b)(2)]. Execution of an agreement for an alternative arrangement does not preclude a party from thereafter seeking a wage assignment on violation of the agreement [Fam. Code § 5260(b)(2)].

Service of wage assignments issued for foreign orders may not be stayed under any condition [Fam. Code § 5260(a); see Fam. Code § 4900 et seq. (UIFSA)].

For the Judicial Council form for an obligor's application for a stay of service of the earnings assignment order, see § 259.204.

[2] Termination of Stay

If service of the earnings assignment order is stayed for good cause and the obligor falls in arrears in payment of any portion of the support, the obligee should sign and file a declaration under penalty of perjury setting forth the facts of the arrearage. The stay of service terminates by operation of law at the time of filing the declaration, without notice to the obligor [Fam. Code § 5261(b)]. The filing of the declaration with knowledge of its falsity is punishable as contempt, in addition to any other penalty provided by law [Fam. Code § 5261(c); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1209; Ch. 258, Family Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies].

The stay terminates "earlier" by court order if requested by the local child support agency or by the obligor [Fam. Code § 5261(a)]. The most plausible reading of this language is that if the obligor or public agency makes the request, the stay may be terminated before the obligor is in default under the support order.

The stay may be terminated at any time on the request of any other obligee who can establish that good cause no longer exists [Fam. Code § 5261(a)]. An agreement between the parties does not preclude a party from seeking termination of the stay if the agreement is violated [Fam. Code § 5260(b)(2)].

For the Judicial Council form for the obligee's application for termination of a stay of service, see § 259.204.

§ 259.56 Prior Support Orders Not Providing for Earnings Assignment

For support orders first issued or modified before July 1, 1990, on which the court did not issue an earnings assignment order, an obligee or a custodial parent receiving services under Title IV-D of the Social Security Act may seek an earnings assignment order by filing a motion or order to show cause with a supporting application [Fam. Code §§ 5230(b), 5251]. The obligee must allege under penalty of perjury that the obligor is in default under the support order, either for nonpayment of a sum equal to one month's support or for another occurrence specified in the order [Fam. Code § 5252(a)].

The earnings assignment order must be issued "earlier" by court order if requested by the district attorney (or other local child support agency) or the obligor [Fam. Code § 5252(a)]. The most plausible reading of this language is that if the obligor or public agency makes the request, the order may be issued before the obligor is in default under the support order.

At least 15 days prior to filing the application, the obligee must give the obligor written notice, by first-class mail, postage prepaid, or by personal service, of his or her intent to seek an earnings assignment if the obligor subsequently is in default on the support obligation [Fam. Code § 5252(b)]. This notice may be given at any time, including at the time of filing a petition or complaint in which support is requested or at any subsequent time [Fam. Code § 5252(b)]. The obligee's application for the assignment must state that this notice has been given [Fam. Code § 5252(b)]. The obligor may waive this notice [Fam. Code § 5252(b)].

For a form for the obligee's notice of intent to seek an earnings assignment, see § 259.200. For a form for the obligee's application for the earnings assignment, see § 259.201.

On receipt of the application, the court must issue the earnings assignment order without notice to the obligor [Fam. Code § 5253]. The order must include an amount to be paid toward the liquidation of any arrearage or past-due support [Fam. Code § 5253(b)]. The filing of the application with knowledge of the falsity of the declaration or notice is punishable as contempt, in addition to any other penalty provided by law [Fam. Code § 5252(c); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1209; Ch. 258, Family Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies].

§ 259.58 Obligor's Motion to Quash

An obligor may move to quash an earnings assignment order within 10 days after delivery by the employer of the notice of the assignment order [Fam. Code § 5271]. The motion may be made on the following grounds [Fam. Code § 5270(a),(b)]:

- The assignment does not correctly state the amount of current or overdue support [see In re Marriage of Horowitz (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 377, 386-387, 205 Cal. Rptr. 880 (appeal from underlying order or judgment of support precludes enforcement by wage assignment)];

- The alleged obligor is not, in fact, the obligor from whom support is due;

- The amount to be withheld exceeds the amount allowable under federal law [see 15 U.S.C. § 1673(b), in § 259.52]; or

- In cases in which the earnings assignment is sought under Fam. Code § 5250 et seq., for good cause as would be sufficient to support a stay of service of the order [see Fam. Code § 5260, discussed in § 259.55].

The Family Code provides no specific remedy for a support obligor whose income is wrongly levied by an assignment order improperly served on an exempt source of income, but one court held that a motion to quash was appropriate in that instance [In re Marriage of Johnson-Wilkes & Wilkes (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 1569, 1578, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 323 (decided before amendment to Family Code that changed nature of income exempted, but apparently would not change efficacy of using motion to quash as remedy)].

The California Supreme Court has allowed an obligor to assert an estoppel defense under some circumstances because of the custodial parent's concealment of the child during the period when the arrearages accrued but it has held that such concealment cannot provide a basis for an estoppel defense when the concealment ended before the child reached the age of majority, or when the right to seek reimbursement for public assistance payments has been assigned to a governmental entity [In re Marriage of Comer (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 504, 510, 516-519, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 155, 927 P.2d 265 ; In re Marriage of Damico (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 673, 683, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787, 872 P.2d 126] . Child concealment, however, is not an expressly-stated statutory ground for a motion to quash an earnings assignment order under Fam. Code § 5270 et seq. For further discussion, see § 259.14.

The clerk of the court must set the motion to quash for hearing within not less than 15 days, nor more than 20 days, after receipt of the notice of motion [Fam. Code § 5271(b)]. The obligor must serve a copy of the motion and notice of motion on the obligee named in the earnings assignment no less than 10 days prior to the date of the hearing. Service may be personally or by first-class mail, postage prepaid [Fam. Code § 5271(c)].

A finding of error in the amount of the current support or arrearage, or that the amount exceeds federal or state limits is not a ground to vacate the earnings assignment order. The court must modify the order to reflect the correct or allowable amount of support or arrearages. The fact that the obligor may have subsequently paid the arrearages does not relieve the court of its duty to enter the order for assignment [Fam. Code § 5272].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Earnings Assignment

22-259 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 259.59

§ 259.59 Duties of Employer

The obligor's employer must continue to withhold and forward support as ordered by the court until served with a notice terminating the earnings assignment order [Fam. Code § 5235(a); see § 259.65]. Within 10 days of service of a substitution of a payee on the employer, the employer must forward all subsequent support to the governmental entity or other payee that sent the substitution [Fam. Code § 5235(b)].

The employer must send the amounts withheld to the obligee within the time period specified by federal law, and report to the obligee the date when the amount was withheld from the obligor's wages [Fam. Code § 5235(c). The employer may deduct $1.50 from the earnings of the employee for each payment made under the order [Fam. Code § 5235(d)]. Once the State Disbursement Unit as required by Fam. Code § 17309 is operational, the employer must send all withheld earnings to the Unit instead of the obligee [Fam. Code § 5235(e)].

An employer who willfully fails to withhold and forward support under a valid earnings assignment order is liable to the obligee for the amount of support not withheld, forwarded, or otherwise paid to the obligee, including interest on this amount [Fam. Code §§ 5235(a), 5241(a), (b)]. Willful failure to comply with the order is punishable as contempt, in addition to any other penalty or liability provided by law [Fam. Code § 5241(c); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1218(c); Ch. 258, Family Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies].

If an employer withholds support, as required by the assignment order, but fails to forward the support to the obligee, the local child support agency must take appropriate action to collect the withheld sums from the employer [Fam. Code § 5241(d)]. The obligor may not be held in contempt or subject to criminal prosecution for nonpayment of the support that was withheld but not received, and the employer is liable to the obligee for interest incurred as a result of the employer's failure to forward in timely fashion support that the employer withheld [Fam. Code §§ 5235(a), 5241(b)].

If the employer either willfully fails to comply with the assignment order or fails to comply on three separate occasions within a 12-month period, two additional remedies become available. Either the child support obligee or the local child support agency on application may obtain an order requiring payment of support by electronic transfer from the employer's bank account. In addition, the court may impose a civil penalty of up to 50 percent of the support amount that was not received by the obligee [Fam. Code § 5241(d)]. If this civil penalty is ordered, it is payable directly to the obligee. The local child support agency is not required to establish or collect it. A court may require electronic transfer or impose the civil penalty after notice and hearing [Fam. Code § 5241(f)].

To facilitate employer awareness, the local child support agency must make reasonable efforts to notify any employer subject to an assignment order of the electronic fund transfer provision and enhanced penalties [Fam. Code § 5241(e)].

The state or local agency designated to enforce support obligations as required by federal law [see Fam. Code § 17400 (giving this responsibility to local child support agencies, discussed principally in Ch. 394, Parent and Child)] must allow employers to simplify the process of wage withholding by forwarding the amounts of support withheld under more than one court order in a consolidated check, accompanied by an itemized accounting providing names, social security number, or other identifying number, and amount attributable to each obligor [Fam. Code § 5236].

C. Earnings Assignment

§ 259.60 Priorities Among Multiple Orders

An earnings assignment order for support has priority as against any attachment, execution, or other assignment [Fam. Code § 5243; see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.031 (earnings assignment for support has priority over earnings withholding order); see also Vineyard v. Sisson (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 931, 939-940 n.7, 272 Cal. Rptr. 914 (judgment creditor of supported spouse may execute on spousal support in hands of supporting spouse's employer subject to wage assignment, but wage assignment has priority)].

If an earnings assignment order includes, or multiple orders include, both current support and payments toward the liquidation of arrearages, amounts withheld are to be applied in the following order of priority [Fam. Code § 5238(a)]:

1. First to the current child support obligation;

2. Then to the current spousal support obligation;

3. Then to the liquidation of child support arrearages; and

4. Then to the liquidation of spousal support arrearages.

When there are multiple assignment orders for the same employee, the employer must prorate the withheld payments as follows: (1) the employer must add together the amount of support due for each assignment if the obligor has more than one assignment for support; (2) if 50 percent of the obligor's net disposable earnings will not pay in full all of the assignments for support, the employer must prorate it first among all of the current support assignments in the same proportion that each assignment bears to the total current support owed; and (3) the employer must apply any remainder to the assignments for arrearage support in the same proportion that each assignment bears to the total arrearage owed [Fam. Code § 5238(b); see Fam. Code § 5201 ("arrearage" is amount necessary to satisfy support judgment or order under Code Civ. Proc. § 695.210)].

§ 259.61 Computation and Collection of Arrearages

An earnings assignment order must include an amount to be paid toward the liquidation of any arrearage or past due support [see Fam. Code §§ 5230, 5253]. However, arrearages are to be computed on the basis of the payments owed and unpaid on the date when the obligor was given notice of the order of assignment [Fam. Code § 5239]. An obligor under a pre-July 1, 1990, support order lacking an earnings assignment provision, however, need not be given notice that an earnings assignment order has been issued until after its issuance [see Fam. Code §§ 5250, 5253; see also § 259.56]. Thus, if the obligee seeks the order to collect arrearages in addition to intercepting earnings for the payment of future support, it may be necessary to proceed by noticed motion or order to show cause [see Fam. Code 5251]. Similarly, an obligor need not be given notice of a termination of stay of service until after the order has been served on the employer [see Fam. Code § 5261(b); see also § 259.55[2]]. Under this circumstance, to collect arrearages, the obligee would have to proceed with a noticed motion or order to show cause to modify the existing earnings assignment order to incorporate collection of the arrearage [see Fam. Code § 5230(b)].

An earnings assignment order must include a requirement that the obligor notify the obligee of any change of employment and of the name and address of his or her new employer within 10 days of obtaining new employment [Fam. Code § 5281]. After the obligor has left employment, that employer, at the time when the next payment is due on the earnings assignment, must notify the obligee, by first-class mail, that the obligor has left employment [Fam. Code § 5282]. An earnings assignment order is binding on any existing or future employer of the obligor on whom a copy of the order is served [Fam. Code § 5231].

If an earnings assignment order that has been served on a prior employer is served on a new employer, the obligor may not move to quash the assignment on any ground that was raised, or that could have been raised but was not raised, when the order was served on the prior employer [Fam. Code § 5270(d); see § 259.58].

§ 259.63 Obligee's Notice of Change of Address

The obligee must notify the employer of the obligor, by first-class mail, postage prepaid, of any change of address within a reasonable period of time after the change [Fam. Code § 5237(a)]. If payments have been ordered to be made to a county officer designated by the court, an obligee who is entitled to receive payment through the officer must similarly notify the officer of any change of address within a reasonable time [Fam. Code § 5237(b)]. If the obligee is receiving support payments from the State Disbursement Unit as required by Fam. Code § 17309 the obligee must notify the Unit of any change of address [Fam. Code § 5237(c)]. If the employer or designated county officer, or the State Disbursement Unit is unable to deliver payments under the assignment for a period of six months because of the failure of the obligee to give proper notice of a change of address, the employer, officer or unit must not make any further payments under the earnings assignment order and must return all undeliverable payments to the obligor [Fam. Code § 5237(d)(1)]. If payments are being directed to the State Disbursement Unit pursuant to Fam. Code § 5235(e), but the case is not otherwise receiving services from the Title IV-D agency, and the State Disbursement Unit is unable to deliver payments under the assignment order for a period of 45 days due to the failure of the obligee to notify the employer, designated county officer, or State Disbursement Unit of a change of address, the Title IV-D agency must take the following actions [Fam. Code § 5237(d)(2)]:

(A) Immediately return the undeliverable payments to the obligor if the obligee cannot be located.

(B) Notify the employer to suspend withholding pursuant to the wage assignment until the employer or Title IV-D agency is notified of the obligee's whereabouts.

Whenever the court modifies the amount of support to be paid, a new earnings assignment order must be issued to reflect the modification in support [see Fam. Code § 5230(a)]. Therefore, it is unnecessary for the obligee to bring a separate motion to modify the original assignment order.

There is no express statutory authority for the obligor to move for modification of the earnings assignment order.

On the filing and service of a motion and notice by the obligor, the court must terminate service of an earnings assignment order if past due support has been paid in full, including interest, and if one of the following conditions exists [Fam. Code § 5240]:

- With regard to spousal support orders, the obligee spouse has died or remarried;

- With regard to child support, the child for whom support is owed has died or been emancipated;

- The court determines that good cause, as defined in Fam. Code § 5260(b)(1) (discussed in § 259.55), exists to terminate the earnings assignment order, unless there has been more than one application for an earnings assignment;

- The obligor meets the conditions of an alternative arrangement specified in Fam. Code § 5260(b)(2), and a wage assignment has not been previously terminated and subsequently initiated;

- There is no longer a current order for support;

- The termination of a stay of an earnings assignment based on the obligor's alleged failure to make timely support payments [see Fam. Code § 5261(b)(1)] was improper, but only if the termination was based on the obligor's failure to make timely support payments as described in Fam. Code § 5261(b).

- The employer or agency designated to provide services under Title IV-D of the Social Security Act or the State Disbursement Unit is unable to deliver payment for a period of six months due to the failure of the obligee to notify that employer or agency or the State Disbursement Unit of a change in the obligee's address.

§ 259.67 Authority and Duties of Local Child Support Agency

[1] In General

Fam. Code § 5200 et seq. (governing earnings assignment orders) neither expand nor limit the existing duties and authority of the local child support agency with regard to enforcing support obligations, regardless of whether a child or obligee is a welfare recipient, except with respect to the provisions of Fam. Code § 5246 (concerning notices of assignment in "Title-IV-D" cases, discussed in [2], below) [see Fam. Code §§ 5244, 5245]. The local child support agency is the obligee under the earnings assignment for all cases in which the support obligation is being established, modified, or enforced under 42 U.S.C. § 654 (Section 454 of the Social Security Act) [see Fam. Code § 5212], or in which an application for services has been filed under 42 U.S.C. §§ 651-669 (Title IV-D of the Social Security Act) or 42 U.S.C. §§ 670-679a (Title IV-E of the Social Security Act) [Fam. Code § 5214].

Note that commencing January 1, 2000, responsibility for "Title IV-D" enforcement is officially transferred from county district attorney offices (operating under the aegis of the state Department of Social Services) to local child support agencies that report to a new state Department of Child Support Services. However, a transition period of several years (through January 1, 2003) is provided for by statute to migrate responsibility for handling "Title IV-D" cases to local support agencies. During this transition period, counsel may encounter cases being handled by both types of agencies. Criminal enforcement of support obligations will, in any event, remain with district attorney offices [see Fam. Code §§ 17304-17310, 17400 et seq.]. For further discussion of "Title IV-D" enforcement, see § 259.150 et seq.

[2] Cases in Which Support Enforcement Services Provided

After the court has ordered an earnings assignment for support in a case in which Title IV-D support enforcement services are being provided ("Title IV-D" cases) [see Fam. Code § 17400 et seq.], the local child support agency may serve the employer with a notice of assignment to withhold income for child support ("order/notice to withhold income for child support") in place of the earnings assignment order [Fam. Code § 5246(a), (b)]. The contents of the notice are specified by statute [Fam. Code § 5246(c)]. An "order/notice to withhold income for child support" has the same force and effect as an earnings assignment order [Fam. Code § 5246(b)]. However, it may not reduce the current amount withheld for court-ordered child support [Fam. Code § 5246(d)(1)]. If the support order does not provide for an arrearage payment, or if an additional arrearage accrues after the date of the order, the local child support agency may send an order/notice to withhold income for child support directly to the employer that specifies the updated arrearage amount and directs the employer to withhold an additional amount to be applied towards liquidation of the arrearage, not to exceed the maximum amount permitted under federal law [Fam. Code § 5246(d)(2); see 15 U.S.C. § 1673(b)]. If a delinquent child support obligor is receiving payments under the state supplementary income program for aged, blind, and disabled persons, or but for certain excess income would be eligible for such payments, and order/notice to withhold income issued by a local child support agency may not exceed a specified portion of the disability payments [Fam. Code § 5246(d)(3)].

A hearing date must be scheduled within 20 days of the date the obligor files a request for a hearing with the court. The court clerk must give notice of the hearing to the local child support agency and the obligor no later than 10 days before the hearing [Fam. Code § 5246(e)].

At the hearing, if the obligor establishes that he or she is not the obligor or establishes good cause for an alternative arrangement under Family Code Section 5260, the court may order that service of the order/notice to withhold income for child support be quashed. The agency must notify the employer of the order within 10 days [Fam. Code § 5246(e)(1)].

If the obligor contends at the hearing that payment of the arrearages at the rate specified in the order/notice to withhold income for child support is excessive or that the total arrearages owing is incorrect, and if the court determines that payment of the arrearages at the specified rate creates an undue hardship on the obligor or that the withholding would exceed the maximum amount permitted under federal law, the court must reduce the rate to a rate that is fair and reasonable considering the parties' circumstances and the child's best interest. If the court determines that the total amount of the arrearages calculated is erroneous, it must modify this amount to the correct amount. When the court takes either action, the local child support agency must serve the employer with an amended order/notice to withhold income for child support within 10 days [Fam. Code § 5246(e)(2)].

If the obligor's current support obligation has terminated by operation of law, the local child support agency may serve an order/notice to withhold income for child support on the employer that directs the employer to continue withholding from the obligor's earnings an amount to be applied toward liquidation of the arrearages, not to exceed the maximum amount permitted by federal law, until the local child support agency notifies the employer that the arrearages have been paid in full. The employer must provide the obligor with a copy of the order/notice to withhold income for child support and a blank form that the obligor may file with the court to request a hearing to modify or quash the assignment with instructions on how to file the form and obtain a hearing date. The obligor has the same right to a hearing as specified in Family Code § 5246(e) regarding an order/notice to withhold income for support [Fam. Code § 5246(f)].

The local child support agency must retain a copy of the order/notice to withhold income for child support and must file a copy with the court whenever a hearing concerning it is requested [Fam. Code § 5246(g)]. The local child support agency may transmit an order/notice to withhold income for child support and other forms required by Fam. Code § 5246 to the employer by electronic means [Fam. Code § 5246(h)].

Neither the local child support agency nor the employer is subject to civil liability for any amount withheld and paid to the obligee, the agency, or the State Disbursement under an earnings assignment order or a notice of assignment [Fam. Code § 5247].

For discussion of a local child support agency's duty to register out-of-county earning assignment orders [Fam. Code § 5600 et seq.], see §§ 259.70 and 259.159.

§ 259.68 Assignment of Public Retirement and Vacation Benefits

Certain pension, annuity, retirement, disability, death, vacation credits, and other public employee benefits are subject to an earnings assignment order for the enforcement of child and spousal support [see Fam. Code § 5206(a)].

Public retirement benefits include the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.110(a), (b)]:

- All amounts held, controlled, or in process of distribution by a public entity, other than the United States, derived from contributions by the public entity or by its officer or employee for purposes of a pension or an annuity, retirement, disability, death, or other benefits payable by a public retirement system [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.110(a)(2), (b)]; and

- All rights and benefits accrued or accruing to any person under a system established by a public entity other than the United States pursuant to statute for retirement, annuity, or pension purposes or payment of disability or death benefits [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.110(a)(3), (b)].

If public retirement benefits are payable in a lump sum, they are subject to an earnings assignment order to whatever extent determined by the court on noticed motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.110(c)(1); see Code Civ. Proc. § 703.070(c) (court determination)].

If public retirement benefits are payable periodically, they are subject to an earnings assignment order up to the amount permitted to be withheld on an earnings withholding order under Code Civ. Proc. § 706.052 [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.110(c)(2); see § 259.30 et seq., for discussion of earnings withholding orders]. A paying entity assigning over periodic benefits may deduct from the payment being made to the judgment debtor a sum reflecting the actual cost of administration of the court-ordered support payment up to $2 for each payment made pursuant to court order [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.110(c)(2)].

If the intercept procedure provided by Fam. Code § 17528 is used for benefits that are payable periodically, the amount to be withheld may not exceed the amount permitted to be withheld on an earnings withholding order for support under [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.052]. If the amount sought to be applied to the satisfaction of the judgment is payable as a lump-sum distribution, the amount payable is subject to the intercept procedure of Section 17528 or any other applicable enforcement procedure [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.110(c)(3), (4)]. For a related form of qualified domestic relations order (QDRO) for support, see § 259.206.

Amounts that represent vacation credits accumulated by a public employee are also subject to an earnings assignment order for support whether they are paid periodically or as a lump sum. These amounts are exempt to the same extent as earnings of a judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.113; see §§ 259.32[2][b], 259.53, and Ch. 258, Family Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies , for discussion of exempt property].

Once a public entity, other than the United States, has been served with an earnings assignment order for support, it must comply with any request for a return of employee contributions by an employee named in the order by delivering the contributions to the clerk of the court from which the order issued [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.114(b)]. This money is then subject to any procedure available to enforce an order for support [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.114(d)]. If no enforcement procedure is commenced after 30 days have elapsed from the date the court clerk sends notice to the parties that the money has been received, the clerk must, on request, return the money or, under some circumstances, release it to the employee [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.114(d)].

Private retirement benefits are subject to an earnings assignment order for support [see Fam. Code § 5206(a); Code Civ. Proc. § 704.115(c)(2)]. Private retirement benefits include all amounts held, controlled, or in process of distribution by a private retirement plan for the payment of benefits as an annuity, pension, retirement allowance, disability payment, or death benefit [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.115(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 704.115(a) (definition of "private retirement plan"); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 704.115(d), (e) (making pension benefits exempt from process once paid over to obligor, subject to limitations with regard to self-employed retirement plans and individual retirement accounts and annuities)].

Private retirement benefits that become payable in a lump sum are exempt with regard to a support obligation only to whatever extent determined by the court after hearing on a noticed motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.115(c)(1); see Code Civ. Proc. § 703.070(c) (discussed in Ch. 258, Family Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies)]. With regard to private pension benefits that are payable periodically, the amount that may be assigned may not exceed the amount permitted to be withheld on an earnings withholding order (garnishment) for support [Code Civ. Proc. § 704.115(c)(2); see Code Civ. Proc. § 706.052 (discussed in § 259.32[2][c])].

§ 259.70 Orders Issued by Other States or Counties

An earnings assignment order for support issued by a court or administrative agency of another state is binding on an employer of the obligor to the same extent as an order made by a California court [Fam. Code § 5230.1(a)]. When an employer receives an earnings assignment order for support from a court or administrative agency of another state, all of the provisions of Fam. Code § 5200 et seq. apply [Fam. Code § 5230.1(b)].

Otherwise, in general, an obligee may register a foreign support order in a California court in the manner, with the effect, and for the purposes provided for in the civil enforcement provisions of the Uniform Interstate Family Support Act (UIFSA-Fam. Code § 4900 et seq.) [Fam. Code § 4950]. However, under UIFSA, an interstate income-withholding order may be served directly on the obligor's employer without registration [Fam. Code § 4940]. For further discussion of UIFSA, see Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments .

In addition, special provisions exist for the registration and enforcement of "an order for support or earnings withholding, or both" made by another California county under Fam. Code § 5600 et seq. These provisions are set forth within the same chapter of the Family Code as the other provisions for earning assignment orders, and because an order for "support or income withholding" may potentially embrace earning assignment orders, the registration procedure apparently applies to such out-of-county orders. These procedures permit both individual obligees as well as public entities such as district attorneys and other local child support agencies to register and enforce the orders [Fam. Code § 5600]. For related discussion, see § 259.159[1].

In an effort to ensure the enforcement of support obligations among persons who contract with the State of California, legislation expressly provides that it is California's policy that anyone who enters into a contract with a state agency must recognize the importance of child and family support obligations, and must fully comply with all applicable state and federal laws relating to support enforcement, including, but not limited to, disclosure of information and compliance with earnings assignment orders [Pub. Con. Code § 7110(a)]. Each written contract for more than $100,000, executed between a contractor and a state agency, must contain an acknowledgment by the contractor of this state policy, as well as the contractor's acknowledgment that to the best of its knowledge it is fully complying with the earnings assignment orders of all employees and is providing the names of all new employees to the new hire registry maintained by the Employment Development Department [*Pub. If a parent who owes child support is more than 60 days behind in payments and certain other conditions exist [see discussion at § 259.84], the person entitled to collect the support may apply for an order requiring the obligor-parent to deposit assets, including money, personal property, or real property, as security for future support payments [see Fam. Code §§ 4610(a), 4614]. The remedy is particularly useful when it is impractical to obtain an earnings assignment because, for example, the obligor is not receiving a salary subject to an assignment but has other income, or his or her job history shows that an earnings assignment would be difficult to enforce [see, e.g., Fam. Code § 4613(a), (c)]. The purpose of this procedure is to provide an extraordinary remedy for cases of bad faith failure to pay child support obligations [Fam. Code § 4600].

§ 259.83 Ex Parte Orders to Protect Against Depletion of Property

During the pendency of any proceeding to secure child support, and on the application of either party in the manner provided by Fam. Code §§ 240-246, the court may, without a hearing, issue ex parte orders restraining any person from transferring, encumbering, hypothecating, concealing, or in any way disposing of any property, real or personal, whether community, quasi-community, or separate, except in the usual course of business or for the necessities of life [Fam. Code § 4620(a)]. If the order is directed against a party to the proceeding, the order may require the party to notify the other party of any proposed extraordinary expenditures and to account to the court for all such extraordinary expenditures [Fam. Code § 4620(a)]. The protective order will not be granted without notice to the opposite party unless it appears from facts shown by the supporting affidavit or in the application for the order that great or irreparable injury would result to the applicant before the matter can be heard on notice [Fam. Code § 241; see Fam. Code § 4620(a)].

The matter must be made returnable not later than 20 days or, if good cause appears to the court, 25 days from the date of the order, at which time the ex parte order must expire [Fam. Code § 4620(b)]. The order must state on its face the date of expiration of the order, which must expire in one year or on deposit of assets or money to secure child support, whichever first occurs [Fam. Code § 4620(d)]. The court, at the hearing, is required to determine for which property the obligor-parent shall be required to report extraordinary expenditures and is required to specify what is deemed an extraordinary expenditure [Fam. Code § 4620(c)].

The Judicial Council forms of Application for Order and Supporting Declaration [Cal. Judicial Council Form 1285.20; see § 259.220] and of Temporary Restraining Orders (Family Law) [Cal. § 259.84 Conditions for Granting Order

After an application and declaration establishing 60 days' worth of arrearages has been filed [see discussion at § 259.82], the court must issue an order to secure child support on a determination that one or more of the following conditions exists:

- The obligor-parent is not receiving salary or wages subject to an earnings assignment for child support, and there is reason to believe that he or she has earned income from some source of employment [Fam. Code § 4613(a); see Fam. Code § 5200 et seq. (earnings assignment orders)];

- An earnings assignment for child support would not be sufficient to meet the amount of the support obligation, for reasons other than a change of circumstances that would qualify for a reduction in the amount of child support ordered [Fam. Code § 4613(b)]; or

- The job history of the obligor-parent shows that an earnings assignment for child support would be difficult to enforce or would not be a practical means for securing the payment of the support obligation because of circumstances including, but not limited to, multiple concurrent or consecutive employers [Fam. Code § 4613(c)].

For discussion of the obligor's defenses, see § 259.89. For discussion of earnings assignment, see § 259.50 et seq.

§ 259.85 Assets Subject to Order

The designation of assets subject to an order to secure child support is based on concern for maximizing the liquidity and ready conversion into cash of the deposited asset [Fam. Code § 4614]. In all instances, the assets must include a sum of money up to or equal in value to one year of support payments or $6,000, whichever is less, or any other assets, personal or real, designated by the court which equal in value up to one year of payments for support of the child or $6,000, whichever is less [Fam. Code § 4614]. Assets that are otherwise generally exempt from enforcement of money judgments under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 703.010-704.995 can be designated as security only if the court, on noticed motion of the person receiving child support, determines that the exempt property nevertheless will be applied to enforce the child support order, taking into account the needs of the person receiving child support, the needs of the obligor-parent and all the persons the obligor-parent is required to support, and all other relevant circumstances [Code Civ. Proc. § 703.070(b); see Fam. Code § 4614]. For further discussion of exempt assets, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments, § 254.40 et seq.

In lieu of depositing cash or other assets, as provided above, the obligor-parent may, if approved by the court, provide a performance bond secured by any real property or other assets of the parent and equal in value to one year of payments [Fam. Code § 4615].

The order will specify a time within which the obligor-parent must make reasonable efforts either to cure the default in child support payments or to comply with a court-approved payment plan, and if payments continue in the arrears, the deposited assets may be used to satisfy the support obligation [*see Fam. On an obligor-parent's failure, within the time specified by the court, to make reasonable efforts to cure the default in child support payments or to comply with a court-approved payment plan, if payments continue in the arrears, the district attorney, county officer, or trustee designated by the court must use the money or sell or otherwise process the deposited assets for an amount sufficient to pay the arrearage and the amount ordered by the court for the support, maintenance, and education of the child currently due [Fam. Code § 4630(a)]. This must occur not less than 25 days after providing the obligor-parent or parents with a written notice served personally or with return receipt requested, unless a motion or order to show cause has been filed to stop the use or sale [*Fam. § 259.88 Sale of Nonliquid Assets After Deposit

On deposit of any asset that is not readily convertible into money, the court may, not less than 20 days after serving the obligor-parent or parents with written notice and a hearing, order the sale of that asset or assets and the deposit of the proceeds with the person designated as trustee [Fam. Code § 4616].

When the asset ordered to be deposited is real property, the order for sale and deposit must be certified as an abstract of judgment in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 674 (information required in abstract of judgment) [Fam. Code § 4617(a)]. A deposit of real property is made effective by recordation of the certified abstract with the county recorder [Fam. Code § 4617(b)]. The deposited real property and the rights, benefits, and liabilities attached to that property must continue in the possession of the legal owner [Fam. Code § 4617(c)]. For purposes of calculating the time between service of notice of levy and giving the notice of sale of real property as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 701.545, the date of the issuance of the order to deposit assets must be construed as the date notice of levy on an interest in real property was served on the judgment debtor [Fam. Code § 4617(d); see Code Civ. Proc. § 701.545].

Assets that have been deposited as security are to be construed as assets subject to levy pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 701.510-701.680. The sale of assets must be conducted in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 701.510-701.830 (sale and collection of levied property). § 259.89 Defenses

An obligor-parent alleged to be in arrears under Fam. Code § 4610 may employ any of the following grounds as a defense to a motion to establish security or as a basis for filing a motion to stop the sale or use of assets under Fam. Code § 4631 (see discussion at § 259.90) [Fam. Code § 4612(a)-(i)]:

- Child support payments are not in arrears;
- Laches;
- There has been a change in the custody of the children;
- There is a pending motion for reduction in support due to a reduction in income;
- Illness or disability;
- Unemployment;
- Serious adverse impact on the immediate family of the obligor-parent residing with the obligor-parent, that outweighs the impact of denial of the motion or stopping the sale on obligee;
- Serious impairment of the ability of the obligor-parent to generate income; or
- Other emergency conditions.

However, an obligor-parent must rebut the presumptions that nonpayment of child support was willful and without good faith, and that the obligor had the ability to pay the support [Fam. Code § 4611].

An obligor-parent may file a motion to stop the use of the money or the sale of the asset within 15 days after service of notice on him or her by the district attorney, county officer, or trustee designated by the court [Fam. Code § 4631(a); see discussion at § 259.87]. Any of the grounds available in *Fam. Any district attorney, county officer, or trustee designated by the court pursuant to Fam. Code § 4603].

The district attorney, county officer, or trustee designated by the court must return all assets subject to a court order to secure child support when both of the following occur: (1) one year has elapsed since the court issued the order to secure child support, and (2) the obligor-parent or parents have made all support payments on time during that one-year period [Fam. Code § 4640]. When these criteria have been satisfied and when the deposited asset was real property, the district attorney, county officer, or trustee designated by the court must prepare a release in accordance with *Code Civ. The district attorney, county officer, or trustee must, if requested by an obligor-parent, prepare a statement setting forth disbursements and receipts made pursuant to Fam. Code §§ 4600-4641 [Fam. Code § 4602].

If the district attorney, county officer, or trustee designated by the court incurs fees or costs that are not compensated by this $1 deduction, including, but not limited to, fees or costs incurred in any sale of assets pursuant to Fam. Code §§ 4600-4641 and in the preparation of a statement pursuant to Fam. Code § 4602, the court must hear and order the obligor-parent or parents to pay reasonable fees and costs [*Fam. This must occur no less than 20 days after service on the obligor-parent of the notice of motion or order to show cause by the district attorney, county officer, or trustee incurring the fees or costs [*Fam. § 259.101 Compared to Deposit of Assets Under Fam. Code § 4600 et seq.

The provisions for a child support security money deposit in Fam. Code § 4550 et seq. set forth a more streamlined procedure for establishing security for child support than the statutes governing a deposit of assets in Fam. Code § 4600 et seq. The principal difference is that under Fam. Code § 4560, the obligor is required to post an amount of money as security at the time the child support order is issued. If the obligor is 10 or more days late in making payment, the obligee may apply for a distribution from the deposit account [Fam. Code § 4570(a)]. Under Fam. Code § 4610(a), however, the account is not established until after the obligor is 60 days in arrears [see discussion at § 259.81)].

§ 259.102 Order to Establish Security Deposit Account

Every order or judgment to pay child support may require the payment by the child support obligor of up to one year's child support, or a lesser amount equal to the child support amount due to be paid by the obligor between the time of the date of the order and the date when the support obligation is terminated by operation of law [Fam. Code § 4560(a)]. Unless expressly waived by the child support obligee, the court may order the establishment of a child support trust account in every action to establish paternity or for dissolution of marriage in which a child support obligation is imposed by court order [Fam. Code § 4560(b)].

A "child support obligee" means either the parent, guardian, or other person to whom child support has been ordered to be paid, or the local child support agency designated by the court to receive the payment [Fam. Code § 4550]. Such a public agency is the "child support obligee" for all cases in which an application for services has been filed under Part D of Title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. §. 651 et seq.) [Fam. Code § 4550]. In any case in which support is ordered to be paid through such an agency for a child not receiving public assistance pursuant to the California Work Opportunity and Responsibility to Kids Act (CalWORKs program) (Welf. & Inst. Code § 11200 et seq.), the agency must forward the support received to the custodial parent or other person having care or control of the child or children involved [Fam. Code § 4573].

In every case in which a child support security deposit is ordered, the court must order that the money be deposited by the obligor in an interest-bearing account with a state or federally chartered financial institution, a trust company authorized to transact trust business in the state, a savings and loan association, or in shares of a credit union doing business in the state and having a trust department [Fam. Code § 4561]. The court must also order that evidence of the deposit be provided by the obligor and served on the obligee, and filed with the court within a reasonable time as specified by the court, not to exceed 30 days [Fam. Code § 4562]. The money deposited is to be used exclusively to guarantee the monthly payment of child support [Fam. Code § 4561].

Among other reasons, the court may decline to establish a child support trust account if it finds that an adequately funded child support trust account already exists pursuant to Fam. Code §§ 4550-4573 for the benefit of the children involved in the proceeding, or that the child support obligor has provided adequate alternative security that is equivalent to the child support security deposit [Fam. Code § 4560(b)].

The provisions of Fam. Code § 4550 et seq. comprise Chapter 2 of the Family Code. Chapter 2 does not apply to temporary child support orders [Fam. Code § 4551(a)]. It applies to an application for modification of child support filed on or after January 1, 1992, but does not constitute the basis for modification of child support [Fam. Code § 4551(b)]. Chapter 2 of the Family Code does apply to applications for modification of child support in any case in which the child support obligee has previously waived the establishment of a child support trust account, and now seeks the establishment of that child support trust account [Fam. Code § 4551(c)]. It also applies to any order or judgment entered by the court on or after January 1, 1993, ordering a child support obligor to pay any then-existing child support arrearage that the child support obligor has unlawfully failed to pay as of the date of that order or judgment, including the arrearages that were incurred prior to January 1, 1992 [Fam. Code § 4551(d)].

On the verified application of the obligee stating under penalty of perjury that the support payment is 10 or more days late, the court must immediately order disbursement of funds from the account solely for the purpose of providing the amount of child support then in arrears [Fam. Code § 4570(a)]. Funds so disbursed must be used exclusively for the support, maintenance, and education of the children subject to the child support order [Fam. Code § 4570(b)]. The court must also order the account to be replenished by the obligor in the same amounts as are expended from the account to pay the amount of child support that the obligor has failed to pay in a timely manner [Fam. Code § 4570(c)]. A copy of the verified application, as well as its order to disburse and replenish funds, must be served on the obligor, who is then subject to contempt of court for failure to comply with the order [Fam. Code § 4571]. A copy of the order to disburse and replenish funds must also be served on the depository institution where the child support security deposit is maintained, and on the child support agency with jurisdiction over the case [Fam. Code § 4572].

§ 259.104 Application to Reduce or Eliminate Child Support Security Deposit

Prior to entry of a child support security deposit order, the court must give the obligor reasonable notice and opportunity to file an application to reduce or eliminate the child support security deposit [Fam. Code § 4565(a)]. The obligor's application may be made on either of the following grounds: (1) the obligor has provided adequate alternative equivalent security to assure timely payment, or (2) the obligor is unable, without undue financial hardship, to pay the support deposit [Fam. Code § 4565(a)(1), (2)]. The application must be supported by all reasonable and necessary financial and other information required by the court to establish the existence of either ground for relief [Fam. Code § 4565(b)]. It must be filed with the court and served on the obligee and any other party to the proceedings [Fam. Code §§ 4565(c), 4566].

The court must then provide notice and opportunity for any parties opposing the application to file responsive financial and other information setting forth the factual and legal bases for the party's opposition [Fam. Code § 4566]. After hearing, the court must enter its order exercising its discretion under all the facts and circumstances as disclosed in the admissible evidence before it so as to maximize the payment and deposit, or an equivalent adequate security for payment, without imposition of undue financial hardship on the support obligor. If the court finds that the deposit of the amount required would impose an undue financial hardship on the obligor, the court must reduce this amount to an amount that the child support obligor can pay as the child support security deposit without undue financial hardship [Fam. Code § 4567].

§ 259.111 Nonpayment of Support as Grounds for Withholding License Issuance or Renewal

Each person who applies for the issuance or renewal of a license to operate a motor vehicle, or a license, certificate, credential, permit, registration, or other means to engage in a business or profession that is regulated by a state board, and who has not complied with a judgment or order for child or family support, is subject to the nonissuance or nonrenewal of the license under Fam. Code § 17520 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 31(b); see Fam. Code § 17520(a)(5) ("license" defined)]. For this reason, the state boards described in Fam. Code § 17520(a)(2) can issue only a temporary, not a permanent, license to any person who is certified to a board as not in compliance with a support order or judgment [Fam. Code § 17520(e)(2)(A)].

The compliance requirement and the attendant procedures set out in Fam. Code § 17520 apply only to an applicant for issuance in the first instance, or renewal, of a license, certificate, or registration as previously described [see Fam. Code § 17520(a)(1) ("applicant" defined)]. Therefore, Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 29.5 and 31 and Fam. Code § 17520 cannot be used to revoke or suspend a person's current license, certificate, or other registration because of that person's failure to comply with a support order or judgment [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 29.5, 31; Fam. Code § 17520].

The current version of the statute became operative January 1, 2000, simultaneously with the repeal of its predecessor, former Welf. & Inst. Code § 11350.6.

§ 259.112 Boards, Licenses, and Licensees Within Scope of Statute

For purposes of these statutes, a "board" is defined as any entity described in Business and Professions Code Section 101, the entities described in Business and Professions Code Sections 1000 and 3600, the State Bar, the Department of Real Estate, the Department of Motor Vehicles, the Secretary of State, the Department of Fish and Game, and any other state commission, department, committee, examiner or agency that issues a license, certificate, credential, permit, or registration or any other certification to engage in a business, occupation, or profession, or for recreational purposes, or to the extent required by federal law or regulations, for recreational purposes [Fam. Code § 17520(a)(2); see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 1000, 3600 (Board of Chiropractic Examiners and Board of Osteopathic Examiners)]. The term includes all boards, commissions, departments, committees, examiners, entities, and agencies that issue a license, certificate, credential, permit, registration, or any other authorization to engage in a business, occupation, or profession. The failure to name a specific board, commission, department, committee, examiner, entity, or agency does not exclude it from the term [Fam. Code § 17520(a)(2)].

A "license" includes active or inactive membership in the State Bar [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6143.5], as well as a certificate, credential, permit, registration, or any other authorization issued by a board that allows a person to engage in a business, occupation, or profession, or to operate a commercial motor vehicle, including appointment and commission by the Secretary of State as a notary public. "License" also includes any driver's license issued by the Department of Motor Vehicles, any commercial fishing license issued by the Department of Fish and Game, and, to the extent required by federal law or regulations, any license used for recreational purposes [Fam. Code § 17520(a)(5); Tolces v. Trask (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 285, 289-291, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 294 (suspension of driver's license for nonpayment of child support does not violate parent's constitutional rights to travel or to equal protection)]. The term includes all licenses, certificates, credentials, permits, registrations, and any other authorization issued by a state board that allows a person to engage in a business, occupation, or profession. The failure to name a particular type of license or any of the other types of authorization listed above does not exclude it from this term [Fam. Code § 17520(a)(5)].

A "licensee" is any person who holds a license, certificate, credential, permit, registration, or other authorization issued by a board to engage in a business, occupation, or profession, or to operate a commercial motor vehicle [Fam. Code § 17520(a)(6)]. A "licensee" is also any person holding a driver's license issued by the Department of Motor Vehicles, any person holding an appointment and commission by the Secretary of State as a notary public, any person holding a commercial fishing license issued by the Department of Fish and Game, and, to the extent required by federal law or regulations, any person holding a license used for recreational purposes [Fam. Code § 17520(a)(6)]. The term includes all persons holding such a license or any of the other types of authorization listed above. The failure to name a specific type of license or other authorization does not exclude a person holding it from the term "licensee" [Fam. Code § 17520(a)(6)].

§ 259.113 Type of Support Delinquency Subject to License Withholding

It appears that Fam. Code § 17520 applies to child and family support, but not to orders that are solely for spousal support. The statute does not define "support" [see Fam. Code § 17520], but it defines "compliance with a judgment or order for support" in part as a judgment or order for child or family support [see Fam. Code § 17520(a)(4)]. Additionally, the statute mandates that local child support agencies compile and forward to the State Department of Child Support Services a list of names of obligors who are not in compliance with judgments or orders for child support [see Fam. Code § 17520(b)]. The individuals named on these lists are subject to nonissuance or nonrenewal of their licenses [see Fam. Code § 17520(b)-(l)]. Finally, the statute describes its purpose as to further the public policy of increasing child support enforcement and collections [see Fam. Code § 17520(p)].

In this context, "compliance with a judgment or order for support" means that, as set forth in a judgment or order for child or family support rendered by or registered in a court of this state, the obligor is no more than 30 calendar days in arrears in one of the following [Fam. Code § 17520(a)(4); see Fam. Code § 17520(b)]:

- Making payments in full for current support,

- Making periodic payments in full, whether court-ordered or by agreement with the district attorney, on a support arrearage, or

- Making periodic payments in full, whether court-ordered or by agreement with the local child support agency, on a judgment for reimbursement for public assistance.

"Compliance with a judgment or order for support" also means that, concerning a judgment or order for child or family support, the obligor has obtained a judicial finding that equitable estoppel, as provided in statute or case law, precludes enforcement of the order [Fam. Code § 17520(a)(4)]. Obligors who do not meet the above compliance criteria may be placed on the list to be sent to licensing agencies [see Fam. Code § 17520(b), (d)].

§ 259.114 Overview of License Withholding Procedures

This section summarizes the procedures by which a person is identified to a state board as not in compliance with a support order or judgment and by which issuance or renewal of the person's license by that board is withheld. Subsequent sections set forth the specific components of these procedures, including provisions for contest and judicial review.

Initially, each county district attorney or other local child support agency (hereafter, the "local child support agency") supplies the State Department of Child Support Services, on a monthly basis, with the names of and statutorily specified information about individuals who are not in compliance with a judgment or order for child support [see Fam. Code § 17520(b)]. Next, the State Department of Child Support Services consolidates the lists and, on a monthly basis, provides a copy of a consolidated list to each state board responsible for the regulation of licenses [see Fam. Code § 17520(c)]. On receipt of the consolidated list, each licensing board then notifies any applicant on the list of the board's intent to withhold issuance or renewal of the applicant's license [see Fam. Code § 17520(d)-(f)]. The board must, however, issue a temporary license to any applicant on the list who is otherwise eligible for licensure [see Fam. Code § 17520(e)(2)(A)]. On receipt of board notification of intent to withhold issuance or renewal of license, the applicant can obtain review from a local child support agency of placement of his or her name on the list [see Fam. Code § 17520(g)-(j)]. If desired, the applicant can also seek superior court judicial review of the agency's adverse decision [see Fam. Code § 17520(k)].

If the applicant subsequently complies with the support judgment or order, or otherwise prevails on support agency or judicial review, he or she is issued a release by the support agency [Fam. Code § 17520(j), (k)]. The release serves to notify the applicant and the board that, for the purposes of the statute, the applicant is in compliance with the support order or judgment [Fam. Code § 17520(l)], and is therefore entitled to issuance or renewal of the license, absent ineligibility on any other grounds. Each board must collect Social Security numbers from all applicants for the purposes of matching the names on the certified list provided by the State Department of Child Support Services to applicants and licensees, and of responding to requests for this information made by child support agencies [Fam. Code § 17520(d)].

§ 259.115 Support Agency Certification to Department of Child Support Services

The identification of support obligors subject to potential license withholding begins at the county level. The district attorney or other local child support agency of each county (hereafter, the "local child support agency") is required to maintain a list of persons included in a case being enforced under Title IV-D of the federal Social Security Act [see 42 U.S.C. § 654] for whom a child support order or judgment has been rendered by, or registered in, a California court, and who are not in compliance with that order or judgment [Fam. Code § 17520(b)]. The local child support agency submits to the State Department of Child Support Services, on a monthly basis, a continuously updated list containing the names, social security numbers, and last known addresses of these support obligors. The agency must verify, under penalty of perjury, that each person listed is subject to an order or judgment for the payment of support and that each person is not in compliance with that order or judgment [Fam. Code § 17520(b)]. As used in the statute, this monthly list is known as the "certified list" [Fam. Code § 17520(a)(3)].

The State Department of Child Support Services consolidates the certified lists received from the various local child support agencies statewide. Within 30 calendar days after receiving the lists, the Department then provides a copy of a consolidated list to each board that is responsible for the regulation of licenses, as specified by statute [Fam. Code § 17520(c)].

§ 259.117 Board Action on Receipt of Certification

[1] Acceptance and Processing of List

Promptly after receiving the certified consolidated list from the State Department of Child Support Services, and prior to the issuance or renewal of a license, each board determines whether an applicant for license issuance or renewal is on the most recent certified consolidated list provided by the Department [Fam. Code § 17520(e)(1)].

[2] Suspension of License

[a] General Procedure; Supplemental List

The State Department of Child Support Services may, when it is economically feasible for the Department and the boards to do so as determined by the Department, in cases in which the Department is aware that certain child support obligors listed on the certified lists have been out of compliance with a judgment or order of support for more than four months, provide a supplemental list of these obligors to each board with which the Department has an interagency agreement to implement such a procedure. On request by the Department, the licenses of these obligors will be subject to suspension, provided that the licenses would not otherwise be eligible for renewal within six months from the date of the request by the Department. The board will have the authority to suspend the license of any licensee on this supplemental list [Fam. Code § 17520(e)(3)(A)].

If any license is suspended under Fam. Code § 17520, any funds paid by the licensee may not be refunded by the board [Fam. Code § 17520(e)(3)(D)].

This procedure does not apply to licenses subject to annual renewal or annual fee [Fam. Code § 17520(e)(3)(E)].

[b] Suspension of State Bar Member

The State Bar of California is authorized to transmit to the Supreme Court on an annual basis the names of those members listed by the State Department of Child Support Services as delinquent in their payments of court-ordered child or family support with a recommendation for their suspension from the practice of law [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 9.22(a)].

Reinstatement of a suspended State Bar member may occur only after receipt of notification from the State Bar that the member's name has been removed from the State Department of Child Support Services certified list [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 9.22(a); Fam. Code § 17520(b)].

[3] Notice of Board Action

[a] Notice to Applicant of Intent to Withhold Issuance or Renewal of License

If an applicant for license issuance or renewal is ascertained to be on the Department's most recent certified consolidated list, the relevant licensing board must immediately serve written notice on the applicant of the board's intent to withhold issuance or renewal of the license [Fam. Code § 17520(e)(2); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 9.22(b) (rules and regulations of State Bar contain procedures governing notification, suspension, and reinstatement of State Bar members in manner not inconsistent with Fam. Code § 17520)]. The board must notify the applicant either personally or by mail to the applicant's last known mailing address on file with the board [Fam. Code § 17520(e)(2); service by mail must be completed in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 1013; Fam. Code § 17520(e)(2)].

The notice must inform the applicant that the board will issue a temporary license for 150 calendar days [see Fam. Code § 17520(e)(2)(A); discussed in [4], below] if the applicant is otherwise eligible for licensure, but that on expiration of that time period the license will be denied unless the board has received a release from the local child support agency that submitted the applicant's name on the certified list [Fam. Code § 17520(f)(1)].

[b] Notice of Intent to Suspend License

If a licensee is on a supplemental list (see discussion in [2][a], above,) the board must immediately notify the licensee [see Fam. Code § 17520(f)(2)] that his or her license will be automatically suspended within 150 days after notice is served, unless compliance with statutory requirements is achieved. The notice must be made personally or by mail to the licensee's last known mailing address on file with the board [Fam. Code § 17520(e)(3)(B)]. The notice must be complete in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 [Fam. Code § 17520(e)(3)(B)]. The 150-day notice period cannot be extended [Fam. Code § 17520(e)(3)(C)].

The notice must also inform the licensee that his or her license will continue in its existing status for no more than 150 days from the date of the mailing or service of the notice and thereafter will be suspended indefinitely unless, during the 150-day notice period, the board has received a release from the district attorney who submitted the name on the certified list. Additionally, the notice must inform the licensee that any license suspended under Fam. Code § 17520 will remain so until the expiration of the remaining license term, unless the board receives a release along with applications and fees, if applicable, to reinstate the license during the license term [Fam. Code § 17520(f)(2)].

[c] General Requirements for Notices of Intent to Withhold Issuance or Renewal of, or to Suspend, License

Each board is required to develop its notice in accordance with guidelines provided by the Department of Child Support Services. Notices so developed are subject to the Department's approval [Fam. Code § 17520(f); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 9.22(b) (rules and regulations of State Bar contain procedures governing notification, suspension, and reinstatement of State Bar members in manner not inconsistent with Fam. Code § 17520)]. The notice must include the address and telephone number of the local child support agency that submitted the name on the certified list, and must emphasize the necessity of obtaining a release from that agency's office as a condition for the issuance, renewal, or continued valid status of a license [Fam. Code § 17520(f)].

In addition to the information discussed in [3][b], above, and in this section [3][c], the notice must inform the applicant or licensee that if a license or application is denied or a license is suspended under Fam. Code § 17520, any funds paid by the applicant will not be refunded by the board [Fam. Code § 17520(f)(3)].

The notice must be accompanied by a copy of a form that the applicant can use to request a review by the district attorney of the applicant's status as a noncompliant support obligor. The State Department of Child Support Services is directed by statute to develop this form [Fam. Code § 17520(f)(3)].

[4] Issuance of Temporary License

Each board must issue a temporary license, valid for 150 days, to any applicant whose name is on the certified list, if the applicant is otherwise eligible for licensure [Fam. Code § 17520(e)(2)(A)].

Except in the case of a noncommercial driver's license, the 150-day time period for a temporary license cannot be extended, and only one temporary license can be issued during a regular license term. It must coincide with the first 150 days of that term. As this provision applies to a commercial driver's license, "license term" is deemed to be 12 months from the date the application fee is received by the Department of Motor Vehicles [Fam. Code § 17520(e)(2)(B)]. In the case of a noncommercial driver's license, on the request of the local child support agency or by order of the court on a showing of good cause, the board must extend the 150-day temporary license for a period not to exceed 150 extra days [Fam. Code § 11360.6(e)(2)(D)]. A license for the full or remainder of the license term will be issued or renewed only if the applicant comes into compliance with the support judgment or order, or otherwise prevails on support agency or judicial review of certification, and he or she is issued a release by the agency [Fam. Code § 17520(e)(2)(B); see Fam. Code § 17520(j), (l)].

[5] Use or Release of Information

Any board receiving an inquiry as to the licensed status of an applicant who has had a license denied or suspended under Fam. Code § 17520 can respond only that the license was denied or the temporary license was issued under that statute. Information collected under the statute is subject to the Information Practices Act of 1977 [Fam. Code § 17520(q); see Civ. Code § 1798 et seq.]. The release or other use of information received by a board under Fam. Code § 17520, except as authorized by that statute, is a misdemeanor [Fam. Code § 17520(u)].

§ 259.118 Applicant's Request for Review of Certification

[1] Written Request

If the applicant wishes to challenge the submission of his or her name on the local support agency's certified list, the applicant must make a timely written request for review on the form provided him or her with board notification of noncompliance [see Fam. Code § 17520(f)(3)]. The request for review must be directed to the support agency that certified the applicant's name to the Department of Child Support Services [Fam. Code § 17520(h)]. The agency must resolve the request in the same manner and time frame provided in the local child support agency's complaint resolution process under Family Code Section 17800 [Fam. Code § 17520(h); but see [2], below].

[2] Duty to Act With Diligence

The applicant is required to act with diligence in responding to notices from the board and the local child support agency with the recognition that the temporary license will lapse or the license suspension will go into effect after 150 days and that the agency and, if appropriate, the court, must have time to act within that period. An applicant's delay in acting, without good cause, that directly results in the inability of the support agency to complete a review of the applicant's request or the court to hear the request for judicial review within the 150-day period does not constitute the diligence required to justify the issuance of a release [Fam. Code § 17520(i)].

[3] Sole Administrative Remedy

The request for review process discussed in § 259.117[1] [see Fam. Code § 17520(h)], is the applicant's sole administrative remedy for contesting the issuance of a temporary license or the denial or suspension of a license under Fam. Code § 17520. Moreover, the procedures specified in the Administrative Procedure Act [Gov. Code § 11500 et seq.] do not apply to the denial or failure to issue or renew a license under that statute [Fam. Code § 17520(o)].

22-259 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 259.119

§ 259.119 Support Agency's Review of Certification

[1] Establishment of Procedure

Each local child support agency must maintain review procedures to allow an applicant to have the underlying arrearage and any relevant defenses investigated, to provide an applicant information on the process of obtaining modification of a support order, or to provide an applicant assistance in the establishment of a payment schedule on arrearages if the circumstances so warrant [Fam. Code § 17520(g)(1)].

[2] Finding That Release Should Issue to Applicant

On completion of review, the local child support agency to which the request for review was directed is required to provide written resolution within 30 days (possibly extended to 60 days) of receipt of the request [Fam. Code § 17520(h) (referring to time frame of section 17800); Fam. Code § 17800].

The local child support agency must immediately send a written release to the appropriate board and the applicant, if any of the following conditions are met [Fam. Code § 17520(h)]:

- The applicant is found to be in compliance or negotiates an agreement with the support agency for a payment schedule on arrearages or reimbursement.

- The applicant has submitted a request for review, but the support agency will be unable to complete the review and send notice of its findings to the applicant within the time specified for resolution of complaints.

- The applicant has filed and served a request for judicial review, but a resolution of that review will not be made within the 150-day period of the temporary license. This condition only applies when the delay in completing the judicial review process is not the result of the applicant's failure to act in a reasonable, timely, and diligent manner on receiving the support agency's notice of its findings.

- The applicant has obtained a judicial finding of compliance as defined in Fam. Code § 17520.

The State Department of Child Support Services is responsible for prescribing the release forms to be used by local child support agencies [Fam. Code § 17520(l)].

The release serves to notify the applicant and the board that, for the purposes of the statute, the applicant is in compliance with the support order or judgment [Fam. Code § 17520(l)], and is therefore entitled to issuance or renewal of the license, absent ineligibility on any other grounds.

[3] Finding That Release Should Not Issue to Applicant

As noted in [2], above, on completion of review, the local child support agency to which the request for review was directed is required to inform the applicant, in writing, of the agency's findings [Fam. Code § 17520(h)].

Except on the occurrence of the conditions discussed in [2], above, the support agency cannot issue a release if the applicant is not in compliance with the judgment or order for support. If the agency finds the applicant not in compliance, the agency must so notify the applicant. The notice must inform the applicant both of the fact that he or she can pursue any one or all of the judicial remedies discussed in §§ 259.120 and 259.121 and of the name and address of the court in which the appropriate papers should be filed [Fam. Code § 17520(j)].

§ 259.120 Judicial Review of Support Agency's Decision

[1] Order to Show Cause or Notice of Motion

On receipt of the local child support agency's findings after request for review that an applicant is not in compliance with a support order or judgment and not otherwise entitled to issuance of a release, the applicant may file an order to show cause or a notice of motion to obtain judicial review of the agency's decision [Fam. Code § 17520(j)(1)]. In so doing, the applicant must comply with all statutes and court rules regarding orders to show cause and notices of motion [Fam. Code § 17520(j)].

For reproductions of the Judicial Council forms of notice of motion for and order after judicial review of license denial, see §§ 259.235 and 259.236.

[2] Grounds for Review

The request for judicial review must state the grounds for which review is requested. Judicial review will be limited to those stated grounds. Review is limited to a determination of each of the following issues [Fam. Code § 17520(k)]:

- Whether there is a support judgment, order, or payment schedule on arrearages or reimbursement;
- Whether the petitioner or movant is the obligor covered by the support judgment or order;
- Whether the support obligor is or is not in compliance with the judgment or order for support; and
- The extent to which the needs of the obligor, taking into account the obligor's payment history and the current circumstances of both the obligor and the obligee, warrant a conditional release.

[3] Service of Papers and Evidentiary Hearing

Within seven calendar days after filing the show-cause order or notice of motion, the applicant must serve the request for judicial review on the local child support agency that submitted the applicant's name on the certified list. Within 20 calendar days after the filing of the show-cause order or notice of motion, the court must hold an evidentiary hearing on the matter [Fam. Code § 17520(k)].

[4] Court Findings and Action

The court has the authority to uphold the action, unconditionally release the license, or conditionally release the license. If the judicial review results in a finding by the court that the obligor is in compliance with the judgment or order for support, the local child support agency must immediately send a release to the applicant and to the board in accordance with the procedure discussed in § 259.119[2]; [Fam. Code § 17520(k); see Fam. Code § 17520(h), (l)]. If the review results in the court's finding that the needs of the obligor warranted a conditional release (see [3], above), the court must make findings of fact stating the basis for the release and the payment necessary to satisfy the unrestricted issuance or renewal of the license without prejudice to a later judicial determination of the amount of support arrearages, including interest, and must specify payment terms, compliance with which are necessary to allow the release to remain in effect [Fam. Code § 17520(k)]. The legislature has statutorily expressed its intent that a court or support agency, in determining an appropriate payment schedule for arrearages, should base its decision on the facts of the particular case and the priority of payment of child support over other debts. However, the payment schedule must also recognize that certain expenses may be essential to enable an obligor to be employed. Therefore, in reaching its decision, the court or agency must consider both of these goals in setting a payment schedule for arrearages [Fam. Code § 17520(g)(2)].

§ 259.121 Applicant's Cumulative or Alternative Judicial Remedies

In addition to or in lieu of seeking judicial review of the local child support agency's findings, the applicant may file an order to show cause or a notice of motion to (1) modify a support judgment or order, (2) fix a payment schedule on arrearages accruing under a support judgment or order, or (3) obtain a court finding of compliance with a judgment or order for support [Fam. Code § 17520(j)]. It appears, although it is not clear, that an applicant can pursue these judicial remedies without first exhausting the administrative remedy of submitting a request for review to the support agency [see Fam. Code § 17520(j)].

22-259 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 259.131

§ 259.131 Imposition of Monetary Penalty on Support Obligor

[1] Obligee's Notice of Support Delinquency

Fam. Code §§ 4720-4733 provide a statutory scheme for obtaining civil penalties for an obligor who is delinquent in his or her child support payments. Under this scheme, if the support obligor is more than 30 days in arrears on a support order, the obligee may file and serve a notice of delinquency [Fam. Code § 4722(a)]. Except as provided in Fam. Code § 4726, and subject to Fam. Code § 4727, any amount of child support specified in the notice that remains unpaid for more than 30 days after the notice has been filed and served then incurs a penalty equal to six percent of the delinquent payment for each month that it remains unpaid, up to a maximum of 72 percent of the unpaid balance due [Fam. Code § 4722(b)]. This procedure applies to installments of child support that are due on or after January 1, 1992 [Fam. Code § 4721].

The scope of support orders to which the delinquency penalty applies is unclear. Fam. Code § 4720 specifies that "support," for purposes of the delinquency penalty statutes, means support as defined in Fam. Code § 150, which includes obligations owing on behalf of a child, spouse, or family, amounts owing to a county for AFDC reimbursement under Welf. & Inst. Code § 11350, past-due support and arrearages, and maintenance and education expenses for a minor child or a child described in Fam. Code § 3901 (support duty continues until child completes 12th grade or reaches age 19, whichever occurs first, or for as long as parents' agreement for additional support extends). However, Fam. Code § 4721 states that the delinquency penalty only applies to child support installments that are due on or after January 1, 1992, and Fam. Code § 4722(a) expressly limits the penalty to any amount of child support specified in the notice of delinquency. Further, the relevant statutes are located in Chapter 5 of the Family Code, which is entitled "Civil Penalty for Child Support Delinquency." Thus, the procedure most likely was not intended to apply to spousal support. Resolution of this issue will be up to the Legislature or the courts. The Judicial Council form for Notice of Delinquency is expressly limited to child support [see § 259.233[1]].

[2] Obligor's Motion to Determine Arrearages

No penalty may be imposed if, in the discretion of the court, within a timely fashion after service of the notice of delinquency, the obligor files and serves a motion to determine arrearages and to show cause why the penalties should not be imposed [Fam. Code § 4726(a); see § 259.234 (form)]. The court may also evaluate all the circumstances of the case, and determine if the interests of justice would be served by the imposition of only part of the penalty [In re Marriage of De Prieto (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 748, 759, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 380 (trial court did not abuse discretion in reducing penalty because bulk of arrearages accrued when husband was unemployed or underemployed, and arrearages were paid after special master calculated balance owed)]. Further, to deny imposition of the penalty, the court must, at the hearing on the motion, find that the obligor has proved any of the following [Fam. Code § 4726(b); see In re Marriage of De Prieto (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 748, 759, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 380 (reference to "a penalty" suggests that monthly penalties can properly be evaluated as separate components, and trial court may examine monthly penalties to determine if any of them should not be imposed in interests of justice)]:

- The child support payments were not 30 days in arrears as of the date of the hearing;

- The obligor suffered a serious illness, disability, or unemployment that substantially impaired his or her ability to comply fully with the support order, and the obligor has made every possible effort to comply with the order;

- The obligor is a public employee and, for reasons related to fiscal difficulties of the employing entity, the obligor has not received a paycheck for 30 days or more; or

- It would not be in the interests of justice to impose a penalty.

[3] Obtaining and Enforcing Judgment on Delinquent Amount

If the child support owed or any arrearages, interest, or penalty remain unpaid more than 30 days after serving the notice of delinquency, the obligee may file a motion to obtain a judgment on the amount owed. The judgment is enforceable in any manner provided by law for the enforcement of judgments [Fam. Code § 4725]. Penalties may also be enforced by the issuance of a writ of execution in the same manner as a writ of execution may be issued for unpaid installments of child support as described in Fam. Code §§ 5100-5104 (discussed in Ch. 258, Family Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies)]. However, payment of penalties does not take priority over payment of arrearages or current support [Fam. Code § 4728].

[4] Effect of Penalty on Determination of Current Support to Be Paid

At any hearing to set or modify the amount payable for the support of a minor child, the court may not consider any penalties imposed in determining the amount of current support to be paid [Fam. Code § 4730].

[5] Subsequent Notices of Support Delinquency

A subsequent notice of delinquency may be filed and served at any time. Child support arrearages and ongoing installments listed on subsequent notices must state that they have been listed on a previous notice [Fam. Code § 4731]. Any penalty may not be greater than six percent per month of the original amount of support arrearages or support installment. Nor may the penalties on any arrearage amount or support installment exceed 72 percent of the original amount due, regardless of whether or not the installments have been listed on more than one notice [Fam. Code § 4727].

[6] Payment of Penalties Collected

Penalties collected pursuant to Fam. Code § 4720 et seq. must be paid to the custodian of the child who is the subject of the child support judgment or order, whether or not the child is a recipient of public assistance [Fam. Code § 4733].

[7] Enforcement of Support Obligation by Local Child Support Agency

The local child support agency providing support services under Title IV-D of the Social Security Act [see 42 U.S.C. § 654] may not enforce child support obligations using the penalties provided for in Fam. Code § 4720 et seq. [Fam. Code § 4729].

For discussion of other methods of enforcement that may be undertaken by a local child support agency, see § 259.150 et seq.

§ 259.132 Collection

§ of the Social Security Act [42 U.S.C. § 651 et seq.], the Department of Child Support Services and the local child support agency have the responsibility for promptly and effectively collecting and enforcing child support obligations [Fam. Code § 17500(a)]. The Department and the local child support agency are the public agencies responsible for administering wage withholding for the purposes of Title IV-D of the Social Security Act [Fam. Code § 17500(b); see 42 U.S.C. § 651 et seq.].

Except as provided in Fam. Code § 17450, the local child support agency must submit child support delinquencies to the Department for purposes of supplementing the collection efforts of the local child support agencies. Submissions must be in the form and manner and at the time prescribed by the Department. The Department will make collection in accordance with Family Code § 17450 [Fam. Code § 17500(c)]. For these purposes, "child support delinquency" means an arrearage or otherwise past due amount that accrues when an obligor fails to make any court-ordered support payment when due, which is more than 60 days past due, and the aggregate amount of which exceeds $100 [Fam. Code § 17500(c)].

F. Miscellaneous Support Enforcement Methods

22-259 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 259.133

§ 259.133 Payment of Support to Court-Designated Officer

[1] Child Support

[a] Required Payments to Officer

In any proceeding in which a court makes, or has made, an order requiring the payment of child support to a parent receiving welfare moneys for the maintenance of children for whom support must be ordered, the court must direct that payment of support be made to the county officer designated by the court for that purpose [Fam. Code § 4200(a)]. Once the State Disbursement Unit described in Fam. Code § 17309 is implemented, all payments must be directed to that Unit rather than to a county officer designated by the court [Fam. Code § 4200(a)]. Furthermore, the court must direct the local child support agency to appear on behalf of the welfare recipient in any proceeding to enforce the order [Fam. Code § 4200(b)].

[b] Discretionary Payments to Officer

In any proceeding in which a court makes, or has made, an order requiring the payment of child support to the person having custody of a child for whom support may be ordered, the court may direct that the payments be made to the county officer designated for that purpose, provided, however, that once the State Disbursement Unit described in Fam. Code § 17309 is implemented, all payments must be directed to that Unit rather than to a county officer designated by the court [Fam. Code § 4201(a)]. The court may also direct the suppport agency to appear on behalf of the minor children in any action to enforce the order [Fam. Code § 4201(b)].

In any proceeding in which the court has made an order requiring the payment of child support to a person having custody of a child and support is subsequently assigned to the county, or the person having custody has requested the local child suppport agency to provide child support enforcement services [see Fam. Code § 17400], the agency may issue a notice directing that the payments be made to the agency, another county office, or the State Disbursement Unit pursuant to Fam. Code § 17309. The notice must be served on both the support obligor and obligee in compliance with Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 and the agency must file the notice in the action in which the support order was issued [Fam. Code § 4204].

Furthermore, in any proceeding in which the custodial parent resides in one county and the parent ordered to pay support resides in another, the court may direct payment to be made to the county officer designated by the court in the custodial parent's county of residence [Fam. Code § 4202(a)]. The court also may direct the local child support agency of either county to enforce the order [Fam. Code § 4202(a)]. If the order is issued in the county of the noncustodial parent or any county other than the one in which the custodial parent resides, a special procedure for registration of the out-of-county order must be followed for enforcement purposes [see Fam. Code § 5600, discussed in § 259.159].

[c] Charging Expenses to Counties

Except as provided by Fam. Code § 4202, which concerns enforcement of support orders when the parents reside in different counties, the expenses of the county officer designated by the court and expenses of the local child support agency incurred in enforcing any order of the type described by Fam. Code § 4200 (parent on welfare) or Fam. Code § 4201 (discretionary orders) must be a charge on the county where the proceedings are pending [Fam. Code § 4203(a) (still referring to district attorney)]. Any fees for service of process in the enforcement of any such order must be a charge on the county where the process is served [Fam. Code § 4203(b) (still referring to district attorney)]. A suggested form of court order that includes a provision for the payment of those charges is set forth in § 259.232.

[2] Spousal Support

[a] Authorization for Discretionary Payments to Officer

In any proceeding in which a court makes, or has made, an order requiring payment of spousal support, the court may direct that payment be made to the county officer designated by the court for that purpose [Fam. Code § 4350 (referring to district attorney)]. When such an order is made the court may include in its order any service charge imposed under the authority of Welf. & Inst. Code § 279 [Fam. Code § 4350; see Welf. & Inst. Code § 279 (authorizing imposition of service charge and requiring inclusion of order to pay service charge when payments are ordered under Welf. & Inst. Code § 276(a), e.g., those to a spouse or child)].

[b] Representation by District Attorney or Other Support Agency

In any proceeding in which the court has entered an order pursuant to Fam. Code § 4350 the court may also refer the matter of enforcement of the spousal support order to the local child support agency. The agency may bring enforcement proceedings as deemed appropriate [Fam. Code § 4351(a)]. However, the provisions of Fam. Code § 4351 do not preclude the responsible support agency from bringing an action or initiating process to enforce or to punish the failure to obey a spousal support order under any other applicable provision of law, regardless of whether there has been a referral by the court pursuant to Fam. Code §§ 4350-4352 [Fam. Code § 4351(c)].

Furthermore, in any case in which the local child support agency is required to appear on behalf of a welfare recipient in a proceeding to enforce an order requiring payment of child support, the agency must also enforce any order requiring payment to the welfare recipient of spousal support that is in arrears [Fam. Code § 4351(b)]. Nevertheless, it has been held that authority of the local child support agency to represent a spousal support obligee under the predecessor to Fam. Code § 4351 is limited to proceedings involving enforcement of an existing order. The agency is not authorized to represent a spouse in a proceeding to modify the spousal support order [see In re Marriage of Brown (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 491, 495-496, 234 Cal. Rptr. 535 (decided under former Civ. Code § 4801.7; now see Fam. Code § 4351].

[c] Charging Expenses to Counties

Insofar as expenses of the county officer designated by the court and expenses of the local child support agency incurred in the enforcement of any order referred by the court exceed any service charge imposed under Welf. & Inst. Code § 279, they will be a charge on the county where the proceedings are pending [Fam. Code § 4352(a) (still referring to district attorney)]. Welf. & Inst. Code § 279 permits a county board of supervisors to impose a service charge at a uniform rate sufficient to defray the cost of services of the probation officer or other officer designated by the court, not exceeding two percent of the amount collected, in addition to the payments of support, attorney's fees, or court costs made to the officer designated by the court [see Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 276(a), 279]. Any fees for service of process in the enforcement of any such order will be a charge on the county where the process is served [Fam. Code § 4352(b) (still referring to district attorney)].

§ 259.134 Claim Against Federal Tax Refund

The Internal Revenue Service must deduct the amount of any past-due child support from a taxpayer's income tax refund and transfer that amount to the state agency that properly notifies the Secretary that the overpayment is necessary to satisfy the taxpayer's debt for past-due child support. The reduction is applied to satisfy past-due child support that has been assigned and paid by the state agency and then may be applied to satisfy other past-due child support allowed under state law [I.R.C. § 6402(c)]. State and federal courts lack jurisdiction to restrain the I.R.S. from this collection activity [State of Nebraska v. Bentson (9th Cir. 1998) 146 F. 3d 676, 679] . Notice must be given to the obligor parent whose refund is being intercepted, and to his or her subsequent spouse if a joint return was filed [see 42 U.S.C. § 664(a)]. There are then procedures by which the subsequent spouse may make a claim for her or his share of the refund [see 42 U.S.C. § 664(a)(2), (3)(C); see also Oatman v. Department of Treasury-IRS (9th Cir. 1994) 34 F.3d 788-789], 34 F.3d 787, 789 . Whether she or he is entitled to a share depends on whether under state property law, the property of a subsequent spouse is liable for a spouse's premarital debt for child support [see Oatman v. Department of Treasury-IRS (9th Cir. 1994) 34 F.3d 788-789], 34 F.3d 787, 789 . For discussion of California law in this regard, see § 259.19. The Internal Revenue Service will pay interest to a taxpayer on any refund amounts that were erroneously withheld for past-due child support unless the error is caused by the state agency to which the amount is owed [see Rev. Rul. 84-171, 1984-50 C.B. 37].

The United States Supreme Court has held that the federal earned-income credit [Former I.R.C. § 43; now see I.R.C. § 32] may be intercepted and transferred to a state for past-due child support.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Miscellaneous Support Enforcement Methods

22-259 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 259.135

§ 259.135 Claims Against Tax Refunds, Lottery Winnings, or Other State Payments to Collect Support

[1] In General

A judgment creditor-obligee under a judgment for child, spousal, or family support may proceed to intercept the judgment debtor-obligor's state income tax refund or California State Lottery winnings before the money is paid by the Controller to the obligor [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.730(c), (d), (e)]. California's state income tax intercept program has been upheld as constitutional against a challenge that it violates procedural due process [Wightman v. Franchise Tax Board (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 966, 978, 249 Cal. Rptr. 207 (construing Gov. Code § 12419.5, which authorizes certain offsets by State Controller)].

Different procedures apply depending on whether or not the obligation of support is being enforced by a public entity such as a local child support agency or by the obligee. There are expedited procedures by which the public entity may direct the State Controller to pay over the judgment debtor's funds to a designated county agency [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.730(c), 708.740(d) (discussed in [2], below)]. There are also procedures by which a judgment creditor under an obligation not being enforced by a public entity may enlist the assistance of the local child support agency in obtaining the funds from the State Controller [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.740(e) (discussed under [3], below)]. In this type of case, the funds are deposited with the court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.740(c), (e) (discussed under [3], below)], and the debtor then may assert his or her rights and defenses before the funds can be released [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.770]. Finally, there is a procedure by which the judgment creditor may obtain payment of the funds into court through use of the Judicial Council form of Notice of Support Arrearage [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.730(d), 708.780(c) (both operative only until December 31, 2000)]. For discussion, see [3][c], below.

[2] Enforcement by Local Child Support Agency

If the child, spousal, or family support obligation is being enforced by a local child support agency, the judgment creditor may file an affidavit with the Department of Child Support Services. The affidavit must state that the obligee desires relief and set forth the exact amount then required to satisfy the judgment. Other facts tending to establish the identity of the obligor may also be stated [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.730(a), (c)]. Special expedited procedures are also available by which the local child support agency may submit a single affidavit concerning multiple obligors [see Code

Civ. Proc. § 708.730(c)].

Money that is owing and unpaid to the obligor by a state agency, including, but not limited to, any personal income or bank and corporate tax refund to which the obligor is otherwise entitled is subject to intercept by the local child support agency [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.730(c)]. Presumably, lottery winnings are included within the reach of these procedures.

Filing of the affidavit with the department is sufficient to require the Controller to transfer the funds claimed by the obligor [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.740(a)]. Payment is to be directed to the county agency designated in the affidavit [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.740(d)].

Promptly on the filing of the affidavit, the department must serve notice of the filing on the obligor. Service may be made personally or by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 706.730(b), (c)]. The state agency must also send a notice of deposit to the obligor, instructing the obligor to file any and all requests for relief with the local child support agency that filed the affidavit. The obligor must request relief within 15 days after service of notice or be deemed to have waived any claim. If the matter cannot be resolved with the support agency, the obligor may then commence proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.770 (claiming exemption), or under any other provision of law [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.770(g); see Code Civ. Proc. § 703.070 (exemptions applicable to judgment for child support)].

If the claim of the obligor is less than $10, the Controller may disregard the obligee's claim and forward the money to the obligor. If there is more than one claimant for a refund, the Franchise Tax Board has discretion in allocating the overpayment among claimants [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.740(f); but see Gov. Code § 12419.3 (giving priority to child and family support over spousal support and priority to obligations being enforced by support agency)]. If two or more local child support agencies submit claims on behalf of a obligee, the Controller has the discretion to select the claim or claims to honor [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.740(g); but see Gov. Code § 12419.3].

For discussion of the scope of Department of Child Support Services enforcement of support obligations that are referred to the Department by support agencies, see § 259.160 [Fam. Code § 17500].

[3] Enforcement by Obligee

[a] By Filing Judgment With Public Agency

An obligee may file an abstract or certified copy of the judgment and affidavit with a state agency owing money to the obligor, rather than to seek the assistance of the local child support agency. The papers must be filed before the time when the agency that owes money presents the claim of the obligor to the Controller for payment [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.740(a)]. The state agency must note the filing and the amount required to satisfy the judgment in presenting the claim of the judgment debtor to the Controller for payment [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.740(b)]. The Controller then deposits the funds directly with the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.740(c)].

The court clerk must then issue a notice of deposit to the obligor [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.770(a)]. Within 10 days after service of this notice [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.770(b)], the obligor may claim an exemption through the procedure set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 708.770. After expiration of the period for claiming an exemption (if the obligor fails to claim an exemption) or after the court's determination on the claim of exemption, the court must pay the nonexempt portion of the money deposited to the obligee and the balance, if any, to the obligor, unless some other disposition is required by law [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.775].

[b] Assistance of Support Agency in Obtaining Funds From State Controller

If a child, spousal, or family support obligation is not being enforced by the local child support agency under Family Code Section 17400 et seq., and money is owed to the obligor for lottery winnings or a tax refund, the obligee may file a certified copy of the judgment with the local child support agency of the county in which the support judgment is entered or registered. The agency must then file the obligee's claim with the Department of Child Support Services, as discussed in [2], above. Funds received by the local child support agency under this procedure must be deposited with the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.740(e); see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.740(c)].

The support agency's involvement is limited to these procedures to transfer the money from the state to the court. Any and all notices otherwise required of an obligee or the clerk, and any litigation to enforce rights are the responsibility of the obligee, as if service had been directly on the Controller without the intervention of the agency [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.740(e)]. Further, any claim for relief by the judgment debtor must be made with the court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.770, discussed in [a], above] instead of with the district attorney [see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.770(g)].

§ 259.136 Locating Obligor Parents

The California Parent Locator Service and Central Registry, within the Department of Justice, must collect and disseminate information with respect to any parent, putative parent, spouse, or former spouse [Fam. Code § 17506]. Generally, only the Department of Child Support Services, the California Child Support Automation System, the California Parent Locator Service and Central Registry, the parent locator services and central registries of other states as defined by federal statutes and regulations, a local child support agency of any county in California, and the federal Parent Locator Service may receive the information [see Fam. Code § 17506(e)]. Additionally, employers are required to file information on new and rehired employees with the Employment Development Department [see Unemp. Ins. Code § 1088.5]. Information collected pursuant to Unemp. Ins. Code § 1088.5 may be used for the purpose of locating noncustodial parents or the income of noncustodial parents [Unemp. Ins. Code § 1088.5(f)(2)]. Similarly, when requested by the Department of Child Support Services, the Franchise Tax Board (for purposes of support enforcement), or the federal or California Parent Locator Service, the Employment Development Department must provide access to the information it has collected pursuant to Unemp. Ins. Code § 1088.5, for purposes of administering the child support enforcement program [Fam. Code § 17508; see § 259.150 et seq.].

Note, also, that on receipt of a written request from a local child support agency enforcing the obligation of parents to support their children, or from an agency of another state enforcing a support obligation, an employer or labor organization must cooperate with and provide relevant employment and income information in its possession to the requesting agency for purposes of establishing, modifying, or enforcing the support obligation [Fam. Code § 17512(a)]. An employer or labor organization does not incur any liability for providing this information [Fam. Code § 17512(a)]. An employer or labor organization that fails to provide relevant employment information to the requesting agency within 30 days of receiving the request may be assessed a civil penalty, plus attorney's fees and costs [Fam. Code § 17512(e)]. For related discussion, see § 259.153[5].

§ 259.150 Governing Law

Support enforcement by a local child support agency is a component of California's plan to meet the requirements of Section IV-D of the Social Security Act, 42 U.S.C. § 651 et seq. This plan was originally set forth in the Welfare and Institutions Code [see former Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 11350, 11350.1, 11475.1] as an adjunct to provisions for public assistance for families with dependent children (formerly AFDC and later TANF), and originally part of the Family Economic Security Act of 1982 [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 11200]. It is now, however, primarily set forth in Fam. Code § 17000 et seq.

§ 259.151 Transition from District Attorneys to Local Child Support Agencies

[1] Introduction

On January 1, 2000, formal responsibility for child support enforcement that has historically resided in the state Department of Social Services' Office of Child Support--and had been implemented by county district attorneys--was transferred to the state Department of Child Support Services (DCSS), which acts through "local child support agencies" at the county level [See Fam. Code § 17000 et seq.]. The Department of Child Support Services has been designated as the single organizational unit to administer the federally mandated "Title IV-D" [42 U.S.C. § 651 et seq.] state plan for securing child and spousal support, medical support, and determining paternity [Fam. Code § 17202].

In order to achieve an orderly and timely transition to the new system of child support enforcement with a minimal disruption of services, the director of the Department of Child Support Services was required to begin the process of transitioning responsibility for cases from district attorney offices to local child support agencies no later than January 1, 2001. The transition must be completed by January 1, 2003, but at least 50 percent of the statewide cases must be transferred into the new system by January 1, 2002 [Fam. Code § 17305(a)]. During the transition, district attorneys in counties that have not yet transferred responsibility to local support agencies will continue to be designated the "Title IV-D" organizational unit for those counties [Fam. Code § 17305(d)(1)]. In addition, local child support agencies, with the approval of the director of the DCSS, may contract with local district attorneys for limited attorney services until September 1, 2004. All criminal enforcement of support obligations will remain the responsibility of district attorneys [see Fam. Code § 17304].

This Part generally uses the term "local child support agency" to reflect the revised scheme for public agency enforcement of support obligations. As used in this discussion, however, the term should be understood to also include county district attorneys during the transition period, unless otherwise stated. Note, also, that a significant number of support-related statutes with references to district attorneys were not amended as part of the original legislation creating local child support agencies, and some of these also include references to former Welfare and Institutions Code sections that have now been incorporated into the Family Code. Pending the correction of these statutes to conform to the new scheme, this discussion treats these statutes as if they do conform when the sense and import of the statutes make it reasonable to do so.

[2] Department of Child Support Services

Operative January 1, 2000, the Family Code authorizes the establishment of the Department of Child Support Services (DCSS) within the California Health and Human Services Agency. DCSS is designated as the "single organizational unit whose duty it shall be to administer the Title IV-D state plan for securing child and spousal support, medical support, and determining paternity." State plan functions are to be performed by other agencies as required by law, by delegation by DCSS, or by cooperative agreements [Fam. Code §§ 17200, 17202]. DCSS is required, for example, to enter into a cooperative agreement with the department of child support services for each county (see [3], below) to carry out the requirements of the state plan, and to provide related services [Fam. Code §§ 17000(h), 17304(a)].

Organizationally, DCSS consists of a director, who is appointed by the Governor, and such division or other administrative units as the director may find necessary [Fam. Code § 17204; cf. Fam. Code § 17300 (Governor's authority to appoint deputy directors)]. The director is charged with the general duties of (1) being responsible for management of DCSS, (2) administering all federal and state laws and regulations pertaining to the enforcement of child support obligations, (3) performing all statutorily prescribed duties and any other administrative and executive duties imposed by law, and (4) observing and reporting to the Governor, the Legislature, and the public on the conditions of child support enforcement activities throughout the state [Fam. Code § 17302].

The director of DCSS has direct oversight and supervisory responsibility of the "Title IV-D" operations of local child support agencies (see [3], below), and is responsible for both implementing the transition from district attorney to local child support agency offices (see [1], above), and in developing uniform policies, forms, and procedures to be employed statewide by those local agencies [see Fam. Code §§ 17304(b), 17305, 17306(b); see also Fam. Code § 17310 (director's obligation to formulate regulations and policies, and permitting existing regulations of Department of Social Services and Department of Health Services to remain in effect pending readoption, revision, or repeal by DCSS)].

The DCSS director is also responsible for implementing and managing a single, statewide automated child support system that complies with state and federal requirements, and may delegate responsibility to, or enter into agreements with, any agency or entity the director deems necessary to satisfy this requirement [see Fam. Code § 17308; Welf. & Inst. Code § 10080 et seq.; cf. Fam. Code § 17309 (state operation of State Disbursement Unit required by federal law)].

[3] Local Child Support Agencies

Legislation that became operative January 1, 2000, requires each county to establish a "county department of child support services," also known as the "local child support agency," to carry out the actual casework responsibilities of the "Title IV-D" support enforcement program that district attorneys have historically handled. Each local child support agency must be separate and independent from any other county department, and will be managed by a county administrator--who, in turn, reports to the state-level director of DCSS [Fam. Code § 17304; see Fam. Code § 17400(a)].

Note, however, that the DCSS director is authorized by statute to consolidate the local child support agencies, or any function of the agencies, in more than one county into a single agency, if the director determines that doing so will increase the efficiency of the "Title IV-D" program, and if each county has at least one local child support office accessible to the public [Fam. Code § 17304(a)]. In addition, local child support agencies, with approval of the DCSS director, may enter into cooperative agreements with other county departments, as necessary, to carry out their support enforcement responsibilities, but may not enter into agreements to actually run, supervise, manage, or oversee their "Title IV-D" functions. Until September 1, 2004, nevertheless, a local child support agency may enter into a cooperative agreement or contract of limited scope and duration with a district attorney to utilize individual attorneys to carry out limited attorney services--subject to approval of the agreement by DCSS and a written finding by DCSS that the agreement is made necessary by the small size of the local program or other serious needs of the program [Fam. Code § 17304(c)].

[4] Collection and Enforcement

In carrying out its obligations under Title IV-D of the Social Security Act [42 U.S.C. § 651 et seq.], the Department of Child Support Services and the local child support agency have the responsibility for promptly and effectively collecting and enforcing child support obligations [Fam. Code § 17500(a)]. The Department and the local child support agency are the public agencies responsible for administering wage withholding for the purposes of Title IV-D of the Social Security Act [Fam. Code § 17500(b); see 42 U.S.C. § 651 et seq.].

Except as provided in Fam. Code § 17450, the local child support agency must submit child support delinquencies to the Department for purposes of supplementing the collection efforts of the local child support agencies. Submissions must be in the form and manner and at the time prescribed by the Department. The Department will make collection in accordance with Fam. Code § 17450 [Fam. Code § 17500(c)]. For these purposes, "child support delinquency" means an arrearage or otherwise past due amount that accrues when an obligor fails to make any court-ordered support payment when due, which is more than 60 days past due, and the aggregate amount of which exceeds $100 [Fam. Code § 17500(c)].

For a complete discussion of the support enforcement role of the Department of Child Support Services, see § 259.160.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Civil Enforcement by Local Child Support Agencies

22-259 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 259.152

§ 259.152 Reimbursement of Public Benefits for Support of Child

[1] Liability of Noncustodial Parent

Under Fam. Code § 17402, in any case involving parental separation from or desertion of a child that results in public benefits being granted to the child, the noncustodial parent is obligated to reimburse the county for its expenditure [see Fam. Code § 17402(a); see also County of San Luis Obispo v. Nathaniel J. (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 842, 844-846, 57 Cal. Rptr. 2d 843] . The obligation arises not only with respect to public benefits paid for the support of the noncustodial parent's child, but also with respect to benefits paid on behalf of a child of the supported child, that is, the grandchild of the noncustodial parent [County of San Bernardino v. Martinez (1996) 51 Cal. App. 4th 600, 605-606, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 142] . Reimbursement must be for an amount equal to the amount specified in an order for the support and maintenance of the family issued by a court of competent jurisdiction [Fam. Code § 17402(a); see County of Alameda v. Johnson (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 259, 262-263, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 483 (indication of legislative intent that amount of reimbursement not be limited to amount of benefits extended)].

When no court order has been made, the reimbursable amount may potentially exceed the amount of public assistance benefits paid out on behalf of the child, because the statute permits a county to collect from the noncustodial parent an amount equal to the amount specified in a family support order [see Fam. Code § 17402(a); State of Ohio v. Barron (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 62, 69-77, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 342 (upholding constitutionality of predecessor section)].

The court determines the amount of the obligation established for each parent with a liability by using the appropriate child support guideline currently in effect and computes it as follows [Fam. Code § 17402(c); see Fam. Code § 4050 et seq.; for discussion of child support guidelines, see Ch. 224, Dissolution of Marriage: Child Support]:

(1) If one parent remains as a custodial parent, the support is computed according to the guideline.

(2) If the parents reside together and neither father nor mother remains as a custodial parent, the guideline support is computed by combining the noncustodial parents' incomes. The combined incomes are used as the high earner's net monthly disposable income in the guideline formula. Income may not be attributed to the caretaker or governmental agency. The amount of guideline support resulting is proportionately shared between the noncustodial parents based upon their net monthly disposable incomes.

(3) If the parents reside apart and neither father nor mother remains as a custodial parent, the guideline support is computed separately for each parent by treating each parent as a noncustodial parent. Income may not be attributed to the caretaker or government agency.

The guideline "currently in effect" is the one in effect at the time of the determination, not the one in effect during the period at issue [County of Orange v. Dabbs (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1005-1006, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79 (but noting "gross inconsistency" between statutory language "amount of support which would have been specified," and "appropriate child support guidelines currently in effect"); County of Alameda v. Johnson (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 259, 262-263, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 483] .

Reimbursement is based on a parent's statutory duty of support, which is independent from any judgment or order for the payment of support [see In re Marriage of Hyon & Kirschner (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 449, 455, 282 Cal. Rptr. 408] .

This provision was added as former Welf. & Inst. Code § 11350, the predecessor to Fam. Code § 17402, by 1991 legislation, operative January 1, 1992 [see 1991 Stats. ch. 110, § 20 (amending former Welf. & Inst. Code § 11350)]. Its retroactive application to determine the amount of reimbursement due for periods before that date has been held to meet constitutional requirements [County of Orange v. Dabbs (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1004-1006, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79 (directly addressing retroactivity issue); see County of Alameda v. Johnson (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 259, 262-263, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 483 (applying rule retroactively without discussion)].

Under the statewide child support uniform guideline, the court may, in its discretion, consider the earning capacity of a parent in lieu of that parent's income, if consistent with the best interests of the child [Fam. Code § 4058(b)]. However, earning capacity may not be considered as a way of circumventing the exclusion of public assistance benefits from income for child support purposes under Fam. Code § 4058(c). Furthermore, at least one case has held that a parent-recipient of such benefits who chooses not to work in order to remain in the home with young children cannot be ordered to reimburse a county for such benefits paid on behalf of an older child based on what he or she could have earned had he or she have chosen to work [County of Yolo v. Garcia (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1771, 1776-1780, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 681 (county action for reimbursement of foster care costs related to one child of mother who remained in home with other children)]. Such an order would violate the policy expressed in the eligibility for that particular benefit program (the former AFDC program) requirements that single parents of very young children are exempt from work registration requirements [County of Yolo v. Garcia (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1771, 1777-1778, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 681 ; see Welf. & Inst. Code § 11320.3(b)(6)]. Whether that holding can now be applied to parents receiving benefits under the successor program to AFDC is presently unclear.

A parent who does not have actual possession and physical control of his or her children is considered to be a noncustodial parent from whom reimbursement may be sought, even if that parent has legal and physical custody under an order issued in a family law or other proceeding [County of Ventura v. George (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 1012, 1018, 197 Cal. Rptr. 245] . Similarly, a parent who, under a shared physical or joint custody arrangement, has periods of alternating physical custody of less than one month can be a noncustodial parent for reimbursement purposes [County of Yolo v. Worrell (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 471, 475-477, 256 Cal. Rptr. 259] .

If the judgment for reimbursement is made payable in installments, interest does not accrue until an installment is due unless the judgment provides otherwise [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.020(b)]. Therefore, in the absence of a provision in the judgment, a county may not assess postjudgment interest from the date of entry on the total amount of a judgment made payable in installments [County of Alameda v. Weatherford (1995) 36 Cal. App. 4th 666, 670-671, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 386 ; see also Dupont v. Dupont (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 192, 201-202, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 607 (child support modification order requiring repayment of support arrearages in installments, rather than original dissolution judgment, was installment judgment for purposes of county's assessment of accrued interest on support arrearages)]. For further discussion of interest on a support judgment, see § 259.16.

For purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 685.020, only the initial support order, whether temporary or final, and whether or not the order is contained in a judgment, may be considered an installment judgment [Fam. Code § 155]. No support order or other order or notice issued, that sets forth the amount of support owned for prior time periods or establishes a periodic payment to liquidate the support order for prior periods, may be considered a money judgment for purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 685.020(b) [Fam. Code § 155].

[2] Action for Reimbursement

The local child support agency must take appropriate action either [Fam. Code §§ 17400(n)(1)(A),(B), 17402(b)]:

- In the superior court in the county that is currently expending public assistance, or

- If public assistance is not currently being expended, in the superior court in the county where the child who is entitled to current support resides or is domiciled.

The local child support agency may establish liability for child support when public assistance was provided by another county or by other counties [Fam. Code § 17402(b)]. The Judicial Council form for use by the local child support agency to bring such a proceeding is set forth in § 259.250. In addition, in interstate support actions [Fam. Code § 4900 et seq.], the local child support agency must take appropriate action to prosecute the case against the support obligor [State of Ohio v. Barron (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 62, 67, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 342 ; see former Fam. Code § 4831].

An action for reimbursement is subject to the three-year period of limitation of Code Civ. Proc. § 338 [State of Ohio v. Barron (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 62, 70, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 342 ; In re Marriage of Hyon & Kirschner (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 449, 454, 282 Cal. Rptr. 408 ; County of San Mateo v. Booth (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 388, 400-401, 185 Cal. Rptr. 349 ; see City and County of San Francisco v. Thompson (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 652, 659, 218 Cal. Rptr. 445 (limiting recovery to support amount that would have been ordered to one year before date of filing petition or complaint; applicable to cases filed on or after January 1, 2000)]. The statute is not tolled with regard to the county because of the minority of the child for whom benefits were extended [Amie v. Superior Court (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 421, 426, 160 Cal. Rptr. 271] .

Judgment in an action brought under Fam. Code § 17402 may be rendered pursuant to a noticed motion, which must inform the defendant that in order to exercise his or her right to trial, he or she must appear at the hearing on the motion [Fam. Code § 17404(b)]. For further discussion of proceedings on the motion, see § 259.153[4][i]. The Judicial Council forms of Notice of Motion and Request for Order and Supporting Declaration are set forth in § 259.254. Judicial Council forms of judgment are set forth in §§ 259.258 and 259.259.

As a condition for welfare eligibility, the applicant or recipient must assign to the county any rights to child support that he or she may have [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 11477(a)]. Thus, a county may also seek reimbursement of welfare expended on behalf of a child through an action to establish or enforce a support obligation [see Fam. Code §§ 17400, 17404, discussed in § 259.153].

California courts have subject-matter jurisdiction over support agency actions for reimbursement from a reservation-domiciled Indian parent to recoup certain public assistance payments made on behalf of an Indian child [County of Inyo v. Jeff (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 487, 490-494, 277 Cal. Rptr. 841] .

Chapter 259 FAMILY LAW ENFORCEMENT: SPECIAL REMEDIES FOR SUPPORT ENFORCEMENT
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Civil Enforcement by Local Child Support Agencies

22-259 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 259.153

§ 259.153 Establishment and Enforcement of Child Support Obligation

[1] Statutory Authority

Two provisions of the Family Code, Fam. Code §§ 17400 and 17404, authorize a county, through its local child support agency, to establish and enforce a child support obligation. These statutes are the successors to former Welfare and Institutions Code Sections 11350.1 and 11475.1, which were repealed, operative January 1, 2000, and that referred to actions brought by district attorneys. For discussion of the transition from district attorneys to local child support agencies, see § 259.151[1]. These statutes overlap in many regards. Each may be generally viewed as empowering the support agency to act to establish paternity and seek child support [see Fam. Code §§ 17400, 17404; see also Fam. Code § 2330.1 (supplemental complaint for paternity); Welf. & Inst. Code § 11352 (same)]. However, each contains requirements and provisions not found in the other.

Notwithstanding the two distinct statutes, it appears that there is a single action, subject to requirements set forth in the statutes. The California Supreme Court, construing the predecessor statutes has stated that former Welf. & Inst. Code § 11350.1 (now Fam. Code § 17404) specifies the procedures to be followed and limits the issues to be litigated in actions brought under former Welf. & Inst. Code § 11475.1 (now Fam. Code § 17400) [Monterey County v. Cornejo (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 1271, 1281, 283 Cal. Rptr. 405, 812 P.2d 586 ; see also County of San Joaquin v. Woods (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 56, 58-61, 258 Cal. Rptr. 110] .

The local child support agency (or, in some cases, the state Attorney General) represents the public interest in establishing, modifying, and enforcing support obligations under these statutes. No attorney-client relationship is created between the agency and any person (for example, the obligee or child) by virtue of the acts of the agency in carrying out the statutory duties [Fam. Code § 17406(a)]. However, there are statutory requirements for notices that the agency must give to both support obligees and obligors concerning support-enforcement proceedings initiated and orders obtained under these statutes [see Fam. Code § 17406(c)-(h), (l)].

Notwithstanding the responsibilities of the local child support agency with respect to child support obligations, county governments and their employees are generally immune from liability for actions taken in an official capacity to collect support [Kaplan v. LaBarbera (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 175, 180-181, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 903] . However, local child support agencies must establish a complaint resolution process and the Department of Child Support Services must provide a state administrative hearing procedure (contingent on the availability of federal funding) [Fam. Code §§ 17800, 17801]. For a complete discussion of actions against public entities, see Levy, Golden & Sacks, california torts, ch. 60 (Matthew Bender).

[2] Effect of Existing Family Law Support Order

There is a division of authority concerning whether a local child support agency may bring a support-related action if there is an existing support order regarding the same children, whether issued in a family law action or otherwise. One court has stated that in this type of case, the county lacks standing to bring a separate action and must proceed to enforce the existing order by intervening in the prior action pursuant to statute [Los Angeles County v. Ferguson (1979) 94 Cal. App. 3d 549, 555-558, 156 Cal. Rptr. 565 ; see Fam. Code § 17400(k)]. Another court has deviated slightly from this position by sanctioning a separate action, but requiring a change of venue to the county in which an existing family-law support order was issued [County of San Diego v. Magri (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 641, 647-649, 203 Cal. Rptr. 52 (not distinguishing between issues of reimbursement and support order)]. A third court has accepted a limitation on the county's standing only if the existing support order is directed toward the same parent from whom the county seeks a subsequent support order, and has found the limitation to be inapplicable to an action solely for reimbursement of public benefits [County of Ventura v. George (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 1012, 1016-1017, 197 Cal. Rptr. 245] . However, two other courts have held that only a support order that is issued by another court after the county support action supersedes an order in the county support action. Therefore a county may seek both reimbursement and a new support order even if there is a prior family law court support order directed toward the same parent [County of El Dorado v. Spence (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 698, 703-708, 227 Cal. Rptr. 365 ; County of Santa Clara v. Farnese (1985) 183 Cal. App. 3d 257, 261-270, 237 Cal. Rptr. 457 ; cf. County of Yolo v. Worrell (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 471, 475, 256 Cal. Rptr. 259 (county not required to intervene in pending family law action)]. For discussion of the treatment of orders in the converse situation, in which there is a preexisting order and a support agency action followed by the filing of an independent family law action, see § 259.153[4] [see Fam. Code § 17404(d)].

When past due support is recovered from a support obligor, the fact that the support order was obtained in a family law action does not preclude the county from asserting a claim to reimbursement for public funds expended on the child's behalf if the custodial parent has assigned the right to reimbursement to the county. Additionally, a custodial parent's private attorney, in that instance, cannot assert a "charging lien" against the support recovered from the obligor, even if a retainer agreement signed by the custodial parent purports to permit such a lien. An attorney cannot impress a charging lien on funds owed the client by a third party to the extent those funds are payments of the third party's obligations for child support, because of public policy considerations [Hoover-Reynolds v. Superior Court (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 1273, 1277-1280, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 173] .

[3] Effect of Child Concealment

Whether estoppel based on child concealment is a potential defense to child support enforcement if the custodial parent has assigned her or his rights to accrued support arrearages to a county in exchange for public benefits remained unsettled for a number of years. However, in In re Marriage of Comer, the Supreme Court held that when a custodial parent has obtained public assistance payments for a child and has assigned the right to child support arrearages to the public entity providing such assistance, the conduct of the custodial parent in concealing himself or herself and the child from the other parent does not estop the public entity from seeking child support arrearages--or reimbursement for public assistance payments--from the noncustodial parent [In re Marriage of Comer (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 504, 510, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 155, 927 P.2d 265] . In other words, the noncustodial parent in such a case may not assert concealment as a defense against a county or other governmental agency that has been assigned the right to receive support arrearages for reimbursement of public assistance [In re Marriage of Comer (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 504, 510, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 155, 927 P.2d 265 ; see In re Marriage of Walters (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 998, 1004-1005, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 354 ; but cf.

County of Orange v. Carl D. (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 429, 439-441, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 440 (county was estopped from obtaining full reimbursement for dependent children's unnecessary foster care, after affirmatively misrepresenting it did not know whereabouts of noncustodial father)].

[4] Requirements for Action by Support Agency

[a] Overview of Action

Each county must maintain a local child support agency that is responsible for establishing, modifying, and enforcing child support obligations, including medical support orders, and determining paternity regarding children born out of wedlock. The local child support agency must take appropriate action, including criminal action in cooperation with the district attorney, to establish, modify, and enforce child support obligations and, if appropriate, enforce spousal support orders when the child is receiving public assistance, including Medi-Cal. When requested, the agency must take the same actions on behalf of a child who is not receiving public assistance [Fam. Code § 17400(a); see Fam. Code § 17400(f) (county outreach program for persons not on public assistance), (i) (defining "out-of-wedlock"); but see Codoni v. Codoni (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 18, 23, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 423 (registration of foreign support order in county does not give county authority to enforce order, unless registration includes request for enforcement services)]. It must also refer all cases requiring criminal enforcement services to the district attorney, who must prosecute these cases, as appropriate [Fam. Code § 17304].

Attorneys employed by the local child support agency may direct, control, and prosecute civil actions and proceedings in the county's name in support of child support activities of the Department of Child Support Services and the local child support agency [Fam. Code § 17400(b)].

The local child support agency's authority to enforce child support obligations includes, but is not limited to the following: [Fam. Code § 17400(h)].

1. Using interception and notification systems operated by the Department of Child Support Services to aid in the enforcement of support obligations.

2. Obtaining an initial order for child support that may include medical support, or that is for medical support only, by civil or criminal process.

3. Filing a motion or order to show cause to increase an existing child support order, or responding to a motion or order to show cause brought by an obligor parent to decrease an existing child support order, whether or not the child is receiving public assistance.

4. Filing a motion or order to show cause to obtain an order for medical support [see Fam. Code § 17400(m) (describing medical support activities)], or responding to a motion or order to show cause brought by an obligor parent to decrease or terminate an existing medical support order, whether or not the child is receiving public assistance.

5. Responding to a motion or order to show cause brought by the obligor parent to decrease an existing spousal support order if the child is residing with the obligee parent and the agency is also enforcing a related child support obligation owed to the obligee parent by the same obligor.

6. Transferring child support delinquencies to the Department of Child Support Services under Family Code Section 17500 [see § 259.160].

No joinder, coordination of actions, or cross-complaints are permitted. The issues are limited to child support, including an order for medical support, and parentage, if applicable [Fam. Code § 17404(a); see [m], below]. However, as discussed in [l], below, orders concerning child custody and visitation may be made if these orders have not previously been made by the family court and the court in the agency action has proper jurisdiction and venue in the matter. In addition, the court may allocate the federal income tax dependency exemption to the noncustodial parent because the exemption is highly pertinent to the issue of child support [Monterey County v. Cornejo (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 1271, 1283-1285, 283 Cal. Rptr. 405, 812 P.2d 586] . Otherwise, the court may not resolve disputes over custody or visitation [see County of San Joaquin v. Woods (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 56, 58-61, 258 Cal. Rptr. 110] , or allow cross-complaints against the custodial parent [Crookham v. Smith (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 773, 777-778, 137 Cal. Rptr. 428] .

There is no right to a jury trial, even if parentage is at issue [County of Butte v. Superior Court (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 555, 557-559, 258 Cal. Rptr. 516] . The action may not be stayed or delayed because of the pendency of any other action between the parties [Fam. Code § 17404(a)].

A support agency may register a support order made or registered in another county by using the procedures set forth in Family Code Section 5600 et seq. (see § 259.159).

In addition, a local child support agency may intervene, by ex parte application under Code of Civil Procedure Section 387(b), in any action under the Family Code or other proceeding in which child support is in issue or a reduction in spousal support is sought. By noticed motion, order to show cause, or responsive pleading served on all parties to the action, the agency may request any appropriate relief the agency is authorized to seek [Fam. Code § 17400(k)].

[b] Time Limits

If the parent who is receiving support enforcement services provides the local child support agency with substantial, credible information about the residence or work address of the support obligor, the agency must initiate an establishment or enforcement action and serve the defendant within 60 days [Fam. Code § 17401].

Any action brought by the local child support agency to establish paternity or child support or to enforce child support obligations must be completed within the time limits set forth by federal law [Fam. Code § 17400(c)]. The local child support agency's responsibility applies to spousal support only when the spousal support obligation has been reduced to an order of a court of competent jurisdiction [Fam. Code § 17400(c)]. In any action for modification or revocation of an order enforced under Title IV-D of the Social Security Act [42 U.S.C. § 651 et seq.], the effective date of the modification or revocation is as prescribed by federal law [42 U.S.C. § 666(a)(9)], or any subsequent date [Fam. Code § 17400(c)].

In any enforcement proceedings instituted by the agency for payment of child or spousal support, an action to recover an arrearage in support payments may be maintained by the agency at any time within the period otherwise specified for the enforcement of a support judgment, even if the child has attained the age of majority [Fam. Code § 17400(e)].

[c] Parties to Action

In any action brought by a local child support agency for the support of a minor child or children, the action may be prosecuted in the name of the county on behalf of the child or children, or of a parent of the child or children [Fam. Code § 17404(a)]. Third party nonparent family members, however, are not entitled to enlist the local child support agency to prosecute an action to collect child support on their behalf [Plumas County Dept. of Child Support Services v. Rodriquez (2008) 161 Cal. App. 4th 1021, 1028, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1] . A parent who has requested or is receiving support enforcement services from the agency is not a necessary party to the action, but may be subpoenaed as a witness [Fam. Code § 17404(a); see Monterey County v. Cornejo (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 1271, 1283-1285, 283 Cal. Rptr. 405, 812 P.2d 586 (custodial parent's due process rights were not violated by allocation of federal income tax dependency exemption in proceeding to which she was not a party, because she fully participated in proceeding and had right to have issue redetermined in family law proceeding)]. The child, who is the subject of the proceeding, is not an indispensable party [County of Tulare v. Boggs (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 236, 240-243, 194 Cal. Rptr. 80] .

In any action to enforce a spousal support order, the action may be plead in the name of the county in the same manner as an action to establish a child support obligation [Fam. Code § 17404(c)].

After a support order, including a temporary support order, and an order for medical support only, has been entered in an action brought by the local child support agency under Family Code Section 17404, the parent who has requested or is receiving support enforcement services from the agency must be joined as a party to the action, but only in the manner and to the extent, and for the purposes allowed in Family Code Section 17404; generally, only for purposes relating to child support, custody, visitation, and restraining orders. Notice of the parent's status as a party must be given to the parent and service of a complaint containing the notice will constitute compliance with the notice requirements [Fam. Code § 17404(e)(1), (2)].

Once both parents are parties to the action in a case in which Title IV-D services are currently being provided, the local child support agency must, within five days of receipt, mail to the nonmoving party all pleadings relating solely to the support issue in the action that the moving party has served on the agency [Fam. Code § 17404(e)(3)]. There is a rebuttable presumption that service on the local child support agency consistent with these provisions constitutes valid service on the moving party. When this procedure is used to effect service on the nonmoving party, the pleadings must be served on the local child support agency at least 30 days before the hearing [Fam. Code § 17404(e)(3)].

A local child support agency of one county may appear on behalf of the local child support agency of any other county in any enforcement proceeding [Fam. Code § 17400(o)].

[d] Venue

Venue for the proceeding is in the superior court of the county that is currently providing public assistance [Fam. Code § 17400(n)(1)(A)]. If public assistance is not currently being provided, venue for the enforcement proceeding is in the superior court of the county in which the child resides or is domiciled [Fam. Code § 17400(n)(1)(B)]. If current support is no longer payable through, or enforceable by, the local child support agency, venue is in the superior court of the county that last provided public assistance for actions to enforce arrearages assigned under Welfare and Institutions Code Section 11477 [Fam. Code § 17400(n)(1)(C)]. If none of these venue rules apply, venue is in the superior court of the county in which the support obligee resides [Fam. Code § 17400(n)(1)(D)]. If the support obligee does not reside in California and none of the other venue rules apply, venue is in the superior court of the county in which the support obligor resides [Fam. Code § 17400(n)(1)(E)].

If the child becomes a resident of another county after the enforcement action is filed, venue may remain in the county in which the action was filed until the action is completed [Fam. Code § 17400(n)(2)].

[e] Pleadings

The Judicial Council is required to develop simplified summons, complaint, and answer forms for use in enforcement proceedings brought by local child support agencies [Fam. Code § 17400(d)(1)]. The agency is required to serve the defendant with a copy of the summons and complaint, a proposed judgment, a blank answer form, and a blank income and expense declaration [see Fam. Code § 17400(d)(2), (3)]. The defendant must file an answer within 30 days after service of the complaint [Fam. Code § 17400(d)(2)]. If the proposed judgment is entered by the court, the support order in the proposed judgment is effective as of the first day of the month following the filing of the complaint, except as provided in former Fam. Code § 17402(a)(2) [Fam. Code § 17400(d)(2) (former Fam. Code § 17402(a)(2) was deleted by Stats. 2004 ch. 305 § 5, but Fam. Code § 17400(d)(2) was not amended accordingly)].

[f] Notice to Recipient of Support Services

The local child support agency must serve a copy of the complaint on the recipient of support services, along with a notice that informs the recipient that the agency may enter into a stipulated order to resolve the complaint and that the recipient must assist the prosecuting attorney by sending information on the noncustodial parent's earnings and assets [Fam. Code § 17406(e)].

The agency must provide written notice to the recipient of the initial date and time of every hearing in the action for paternity and/or support [Fam. Code § 17406(f)(1)(A), (C) (prescribed contents of notice)]. The notice must state the purpose of the hearing or be attached to the motion or other pleading for which the hearing is scheduled [Fam. Code § 17406(f)(2)]. The notice must be provided not later than seven days before the hearing or, if the agency receives notice of the hearing less than seven days before the hearing, within two days of the agency's receipt of notice of the hearing [Fam. Code § 17406(f)(4)(A)]. The agency's failure to comply with these notice requirements does not affect the validity of any order issued by the court [Fam. Code § 17406(f)(3)].

Once a parent who has requested or is receiving support enforcement services becomes a party to the action, in place of complying with the above-described notice requirements, the local child support agency must serve on this parent all pleadings relating to support that the other parent has served on the agency [Fam. Code § 17406(f)(1)(B)]. The pleadings must be accompanied by the same notice, as specified above [Fam. Code § 17406(f)(1)(B), (C)]. Service of the notice and the pleadings must be completed no later than five days after receipt of the pleadings served on the local child support agency [Fam. Code § 17406(f)(4)(B)].

The agency must give the recipient of support services notice of every order obtained by the agency that establishes or modifies the support obligation for the recipient or the children who are the subject of the order [Fam. Code § 17406(g)].

If the recipient of support services resides in California, these notices must be mailed to the recipient by first-class mail to his or her last known address, or personally delivered to the recipient [Fam. Code § 17406(l)(1)]. Unless otherwise specified, in all actions enforced under the Uniform Interstate Family Support Act (Family Code Sections 4900 et seq.), these notices must be mailed by first-class mail to the initiating court [Fam. Code § 17406(l)(2)].

[g] Temporary Orders

In any action brought by a local child support agency to establish a child support order, the agency may make a motion for an order for temporary support, effective during the pendency of the action, for each child who is the subject of the action [Fam. Code § 17400(g)(1)]. If the defendant is the mother, a presumed father, or any father if the child is at least six months old when the defendant files an answer to the complaint, any motion for an order for temporary support must be filed within 90 days after the answer is filed [Fam. Code § 17400(g)(2)(A)]. In any other case in which the defendant has filed an answer before the child's birth, or not more than six months after the child's birth, the time limit is nine months after the child's birth [Fam. Code § 17400(g)(2)(B)].

A local child support agency that fails to file within those limits is barred from obtaining a judgment of reimbursement for any support provided for the child during the period between the dates when the time limit expired and when the motion was filed, or in the absence of a motion, when the final judgment is entered. If more than one child is the subject of the action, this limitation applies only to those children whose parental relationship and age would bar recovery were a separate action brought for support of that child or those children [Fam. Code § 17400(g)].

[h] Consolidated Proceedings

On the local child support agency's noticed motion, the court may consolidate or combine support or reimbursement arrearages owed by one obligor to one obligee in two or more court files into a single court file. The court may also combine or consolidate two or more orders for current child support into a single court file [Fam. Code § 17408(a)]. Such a motion may be made only if the agency is seeking to enforce the orders to be consolidated [Fam. Code § 17408(a)].

Support orders may be consolidated regardless of the nature of the underlying action, whether initiated under the Family Code, the Welfare and Institutions Code, or another law. Support orders may be consolidated only if the children involved have the same mother and father and venue is proper under Family Code Section 17400(n) [Fam. Code § 17408(b)].

After consolidation of court orders, a single wage assignment for current support and arrearages may be issued if possible [Fam. Code § 17408(e)].

In addition, on consolidation, the court must designate which court files the support orders are being consolidated into the primary file, and which court files are subordinate. The court must then order the local child support agency to file a notice in the subordinate court actions indicating that the support orders in those actions were consolidated into the primary file. The notice must state the date of the consolidation, the name of the court, and the primary file number [Fam. Code § 17408(c); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1280.13(a), (b)]. The court may not issue further orders pertaining to support in a subordinate court file, and all enforcement and modification of support orders must occur in the primary court action [Fam. Code § 17408(d); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1280.13(c)].

[i] Motion, Hearing, and Judgment

Judgment in the action may be rendered pursuant to a noticed motion that informs the defendant that to exercise the right to trial, the defendant must appear at the hearing on the motion [Fam. Code § 17404(b)]. The Judicial Council form of Notice of Motion is set forth in § 259.254.

If the defendant appears at the hearing, the court must ask if the defendant wishes to subpoena evidence and witnesses, and if he or she desires a trial. If parentage is at issue, the court must ask if the defendant wishes genetic tests, if such tests have not already been conducted. If the defendant answers in the affirmative, the court must grant a continuance of not more than 90 days from the date of service of the motion. If a continuance is granted, the court may make an order for temporary support [Fam. Code § 17404(b)].

After judgment, the court must issue an earnings assignment order for support [Fam. Code § 17420].

[j] Effect of Defendant's Default

If the defendant fails to file an answer or otherwise appear in the action filed by the local child support agency within 30 days of service of process on the defendant, a default judgment may be entered against the defendant, without hearing, and without the presentation of any other evidence or further notice to the defendant [Fam. Code § 17430(a); County of Yuba v. Savedra (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 1311, 1322-1323, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 524] . The court may, on any terms that may be just, relieve the defendant from that part of the judgment or order concerning the amount of child support to be paid. This relief may be granted after the six-month time limit of Code of Civil Procedure Section 473 has elapsed, based on the grounds and within the time limits specified in Family Code Section 17432 [Fam. Code § 17432(a)]. The court must relieve the defendant from a support judgment or order entered after the defendant's default if the defendant establishes that he or she was mistakenly identified in the order or in any subsequent documents or proceedings as the person having an obligation to provide support [Fam. Code § 17433]. This provision applies only when an order has been entered against a person who is not the support obligor named in the judgment or order [Fam. Code § 17433].

[k] Retroactivity of Award

An original child support award in a support agency's action to establish paternity and enforce support obligations is retroactive only to the date the motion or order to show cause for support was filed. It is not retroactive to the date of filing the underlying complaint [County of Santa Clara v. Perry (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 435, 445-446, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 738, 956 P.2d 1191 ; but see County of Riverside v. Burt (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 28, 38, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 619 (construing Perry as not so limiting retroactivity in cases involving reimbursement for payment of public assistance)]. In Perry, which consolidated three cases for decision, the Court affirmed appellate court judgments that limited retroactivity of support orders in paternity actions on the basis of Fam. Code § 4009 "to the date of filing the notice of motion or order to show cause, or to any subsequent date...," and reversed an appellate judgment that permitted retroactivity to the filing date of an underlying paternity complaint. The Court accepted the parties' assumption of the statute's applicability to support enforcement actions for purposes of its determination of what constitutes compliance with that statute, while also finding that this assumption was consistent with language in former Welf. & Inst. Code § 11475.1(f), (j) (now Fam. Code § 17400(g), (k)). The Court found that, although the Legislature intended to maximize retroactivity of support orders when it amended the predecessor to Fam. Code § 4009 in 1985, it failed to do so, and the statute's limitation on retroactivity applies "alike to dissolution actions under the Family Code and paternity actions under [now former] Welfare and Institutions Code provisions." In either case, the retroactivity of the support order is determined by the date of filing of the notice of motion or order to show cause [County of Santa Clara v. Perry (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 435, 440-441, 445-446, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 738, 956 P.2d 1191] .

Perry involved support enforcement actions in non-public assistance cases, but the Court did not expressly limit its decision to such cases [County of Santa Clara v. Perry (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 435, 440-441, 445-446, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 738, 956 P.2d 1191] . However, at least one later reported appellate decision has construed Perry as not limiting retroactivity of a support order to the date of filing the notice of motion or order to show cause when the action involves reimbursement for the payment of public assistance. In that court's view, when a child support order is initiated by the support enforcement agency to recoup state-furnished support [See Fam. Code § 17402 (successor to former Welf. & Inst. Code § 11350)], the noncustodial parent is liable for such support commencing from the date of payment of the public assistance benefits--subject only to a three-year statute of limitations and that parent's reasonable ability to pay [County of Riverside v. Burt (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 28, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 619 (relying on State of Ohio v. Barron (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 62, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 342 , in both original opinion and in opinion after retransfer from grant of review)]. Therefore, there is at least some basis for distinguishing between actions brought by support enforcement agencies simply to establish a support obligation, and those brought to not only establish that obligation but to recoup the payment of public assistance payments.

[l] Authority to Decide Custody or Visitation Issues

Orders concerning custody and visitation may be made in a county support action only if such orders have not been previously made by a court of competent jurisdiction, and the court has jurisdiction and is the proper venue for custody and visitation determinations. All issues concerning custody and visitation must be heard and resolved in the manner provided by the Family Code. The local support agency is not be required to serve or receive service of papers, pleadings, or documents, or participate in, or attend any hearing or proceeding relating to issues of custody or visitation, except as otherwise provided by law [Fam. Code § 17404(e)(4)].

[m] Determination of Parentage

A final determination of parentage may be made in the action as an incident to obtaining an order for support [Fam. Code § 17404(a)].

The local child support agency must provide the mother and the alleged father the opportunity to voluntarily acknowledge paternity by signing a paternity declaration before the hearing or trial in which paternity is at issue. The agency may afford the defendant an opportunity to enter into a stipulation for judgment of paternity after an action for paternity has been filed in place of the voluntary declaration of paternity [Fam. Code § 17410; see County of Orange v. Smith (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 955, 958, 963-965, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 336] .

Notwithstanding any other law, an action for child support may be brought by a local child support agency on behalf of a minor child or caretaker parent based on a voluntary declaration of paternity [Fam. Code § 17412(a)]. The court must make appropriate orders for support of the minor child based on the voluntary declaration of paternity, unless evidence is presented that the declaration has been rescinded by the parties or set aside by a court [Fam. Code § 17412(b) cf. County of Los Angeles v. Pattinson (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 1337, 1349, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 350 (in action to set aside voluntary declaration of paternity, person who made voluntary declaration must be joined as party and given notice and opportunity to be heard)].

In any action or proceeding brought by the agency to establish parentage, the court must enter a judgment establishing parentage if the parties file a written stipulation that is accompanied by a written advisement and waiver of rights signed by the defendant [Fam. Code § 17414].

[n] Indigent Parent's Right to Appointed Counsel

An indigent defendant in a paternity action initiated by the district attorney is constitutionally entitled to appointment of free legal counsel [Salas v. Cortez (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 22, 29-32, 154 Cal. Rptr. 529, 593 P.2d 226 , cert. denied, 444 U.S. 900 ; County of Ventura v. Tillett (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 105, 114, 183 Cal. Rptr. 741 (dicta); see Cunningham v. Superior Court (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 336, 340, 356, 222 Cal. Rptr. 854] . However, this right apparently does not obtain if the action is purely one for support enforcement as part of a "Title IV-D" proceeding [Clark v. Superior Court (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 576, 586-587, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 53 (noting that neither paternity nor contempt were involved in this case)]. Appointed counsel is required to ensure a "level playing field" in an area of the law in which the resources of the government are marshalled in support of one private citizen against another [County of Orange v. Dabbs (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1002-1004, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79] . When the right to appointed counsel otherwise exists, it extends to representation on appeal, at least if the appeal is brought by the district attorney [County of Orange v. Dabbs (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1002-1004, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79 (distinguished in Clark v. Superior Court (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 576, 588, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 53)]. Note that at least one court of appeal has held that counsel may not be involuntarily conscripted to represent indigent paternity defendants on a pro bono basis [Cunningham v. Superior Court (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 336, 351, 356, 222 Cal. Rptr. 854] .

[o] Reference to Child Support Commissioner

[i] General Rule

All actions filed by the local child support agency or by any other party in a support action or proceeding in which enforcement services are being provided by the county, for an order to establish, modify, or enforce child or spousal support, including actions to establish paternity, must be referred for hearing to a child support commissioner [see Fam. Code §§ 4250(b), 4251(a)]. Each court must provide sufficient commissioners to hear these cases [Fam. Code §§ 4251(a), 4252(a); see Fam. Code § 4252(b) (requirements for commissioners)]. Judges may hear these cases in place of a commissioner in exceptional circumstances, as discussed under [ii], below [see Fam. Code §§ 4251(a), 4252(b)(7)].

The child support commissioner acts as a temporary judge, unless an objection is made by the local child support agency or any other party [Fam. Code § 4251(b); see, e.g., County of Orange v. Smith (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 955, 959, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 336] . If any party objects, the commissioner may hear the matter and make findings of fact and a recommended order. Within 10 court days, a judge must ratify this order unless either party objects to it or the order is in error. In either of these cases, the judge must issue a temporary order and schedule a de novo hearing within 10 court days. Any party may waive the right to the review hearing at any time [Fam. Code § 4251(c); see County of Orange v. Smith (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 955, 959, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 336 (Fam. Code § 4251(a), (c) requires child support cases to be heard by commissioner, even after objection is made; objecting party may make second objection after commissioner issues recommended order, which entitles party to hearing de novo before superior court judge)].

The moving party must serve the local child support agency with notice of any proceeding under Family Code Section 4251 in which support is at issue. Any support order entered without the agency's having received proper notice is voidable on the motion of the agency [Fam. Code § 4251(f)].

[ii] Exceptional Circumstances

Under "exceptional circumstances," a judge may hear a "Title IV-D" case that would ordinarily be required to be referred to a commissioner [Fam. Code §§ 4251(a), 4252(b)(7)]. Pursuant to Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.305(a), exceptional circumstances include instances in which:

- A judge's failure to hear the action would result in significant prejudice or delay to a party, including, but not limited to, added cost or loss of work time;
- Transferring the matter to a commissioner would result in undue consumption of court time;
- There is a physical impossibility or difficulty because of the commissioner being geographically separate from the judge presently hearing the matter;
- The commissioner is absent from the county due to illness, disability, death, or vacation; or
- The commissioner is absent from the county due to service in another county and would have difficulty in travelling to the county in which the matter is pending.

If exceptional circumstances exist and a judge hears the matter, that judge must make an interim order and refer the matter to the commissioner for further proceedings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.305(b)]. In addition, despite the provisions for exceptional circumstances set forth above, a judge, in the interests of justice, may transfer the case to a commissioner for hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.305(c)].

[iii] Hearing and Recommended Order

At the hearing, the child support commissioner must, when appropriate, do the following [Fam. Code § 4251(d)]:

- Review and determine ex parte applications for orders and writs;
- Take testimony;
- Establish a record, evaluate evidence, and make recommendations or decisions;
- Enter judgments or orders based on voluntary acknowledgments of support liability and parentage, and stipulated agreements regarding the amount of child support to be paid;
- Enter default orders and judgments when the defendant does not respond to notice or other process within the time prescribed to respond to that notice [Fam. Code § 4253]; and
- In actions in which paternity is at issue, order the mother, child, and alleged father to submit to genetic tests.

On request, the court may permit a telephone appearance at the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.324(c); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670 (telephone appearances in general)]. A party, an attorney, a witness, a parent who has not been joined to the action, or a representative of a local child support agency or government agency may request the court's permission to appear and testify by telephone. The local child support agency may request a telephone appearance on behalf of a party, a parent, or a witness when the agency is appearing in the support action [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.324(e)(1), (e)(3); see § 259.279 (Request for Telephone Appearance)]. On its own motion, the court may also allow a telephone appearance [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.324(e)(1)]. Any such request must be filed at least 12 court days before the hearing, and must be served on the other parties, the local child support agency, and attorneys (if any) by personal delivery, fax, express mail, or other means reasonably calculated to ensure delivery by the close of the next business day [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.324(e)(2)]. Any opposition to the request must be made by declaration under penalty of perjury and must be filed and served at least eight court days before the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.324(f)]. At least five court days before the hearing, the court must notify all parties of its decision on the request [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.324(h)]. During the hearing, if the court determines that a personal appearance is necessary, it may continue the matter and require a personal appearance [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.324(i)].

[iv] Joinder of Issues

On the application of any party, the child support commissioner must join issues concerning custody, visitation, and protective orders in the action filed by the local child support agency [Fam. Code § 4251(e); see Fam. Code § 17404]. After joinder, the commissioner must [Fam. Code § 4251(e)]:

- Refer the parents for mediation of disputed custody or visitation issues [Fam. Code § 3170];

- Accept stipulated agreements concerning custody, visitation, and protective orders, and enter orders pursuant to the agreements; and

- Refer contested issues concerning custody, visitation, and protective orders to a judge or another commissioner for hearing. A child support commissioner may hear these issues only if the court has adopted procedures pursuant to applicable federal requirements to segregate the costs of hearing the child support issues from the costs of hearing these other issues.

[5] Employee Information

On receipt of a written request from a local child support agency that is enforcing a child support obligation, or from an agency of another state enforcing support obligations under 42 U.S.C. § 654, every employer and labor organization must cooperate and provide relevant employment and income information that they have in their possession for the purpose of establishing, modifying, or enforcing the support obligation. No employer or labor organization shall incur any liability for providing this information to the local child support agency or other requesting agency [Fam. Code § 17512].

Relevant employment and income information includes, but is not limited to, all of the following [Fam. Code § 17512(b)]:

- Whether a named person has or has not been employed by an employer or whether a named person has or has not been employed to the knowledge of the labor organization;

- The full name of the employee member or the first and middle initial and last name of the employee or member;

- The employee's or member's last known residence address;

- The employee's or member's date of birth;
- The employee's or member's social security number;
- The dates of employment;
- All earnings paid to the employee or member and reported as W-2 compensation in the prior tax year, and the employee's or member's current basic rate of pay;
- Other earnings as defined in Fam. Code § 5206 including interest, dividends, rent, royalties, worker's compensation payments and disability benefits; and
- Whether dependent health insurance coverage is available to the employee through employment or membership in the labor organization.

The local child support agency or other requesting agency must notify the employer and labor organization of the case file number in making a request for this information. The written request must include at least three of the following elements regarding the person who is the subject of the inquiry: (1) first and last name and middle initial, if known; (2) social security number; (3) driver's license number; (4) birth date; (5) last known address; or (6) spouse's name. The local child support agency or other agency must send a notice that a request for this information has been made to the last known address of the person who is the subject of the inquiry [Fam. Code § 17512(c), (d)].

An employer or labor organization that fails to provide relevant employment information to the local child support agency within 30 days of receiving a request may be assessed a civil penalty up to $1,000, plus attorney's fees and costs. Proceedings to impose the civil penalty must be commenced by the filing and service of an order to show cause [Fam. Code § 17512(e)].

[6] Access to Financial Institution Records

On written request from a local child support agency referring to a support order under Fam. Code § 17400, a financial institution must disclose specified information concerning the account of the person named in the request. A local child support agency may request information only on receipt of certain types of physical evidence or a sworn declaration of a custodial parent that during the preceding 12 months, the person named has had or may have had an account at an office or branch of the financial institution [Gov. Code § 7480(j)].

Information obtained may be used only for purposes that are directly connected within the administration of the duties of the local child support agency under Fam. Code § 17400. If the request prohibits disclosure, the financial institution may not disclose either the request or its response to the owner of the account or to any other person except the officers and employees of the financial institution who are involved in responding to the request, and to attorneys, auditors, and regulatory authorities who have a need to know in order to perform their duties. Disclosure is also permitted as required by legal process [Gov. Code § 7480(j)].

The Fair Credit Reporting Act [15 U.S.C. § 1681 et seq.] provides permissible purposes for which a credit reporting agency may furnish a consumer credit report [see 15 U.S.C. § 1681b]. 15 U.S.C. § 1681b(a)(3)(A), which allows a consumer credit report to be issued to a person the credit reporting agency has reason to believe intends to use the information in connection with a credit transaction involving the consumer on whom the information is to be furnished and involving the extension of credit to, or review or collection of an account of, the consumer, and not 15 U.S.C. § 1681b(a)(4), which allows the issuance of a consumer credit report in response to a request by the head of a state or local child support enforcement agency or a state or local government official authorized by the head of such an agency, if the person making the request makes specified certifications, applies to child support enforcement agencies attempting to collect a court-ordered judgment of child support [Hasbun v. County of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 2003) 323 F.3d 801, 802-805] .

[7] Determination of Arrearages; Administrative Review and Judicial Determination

On applying to the local child support agency for child support enforcement services, an applicant must be requested to give the agency a statement of arrearages stating whether any support arrearages are owed. If the applicant alleges that arrearages are owed, the statement must be signed under penalty of perjury [Fam. Code § 17524(a)].

For all cases opened by the district attorney or local child support agency after December 31, 1995, the district attorney or agency may only enforce arrearages declared under penalty of perjury in the applicant's statement, arrearages accrued after the case was opened, or arrearages determined by the court in the action [Fam. Code § 17524(b)]. For cases opened before December 31, 1995, the district attorney or local child support agency may only enforce arrearages that have been based on a statement of arrearages under penalty of perjury or if the agency has some other reasonable basis for believing the amount of claimed arrearages to be correct [Fam. Code § 17524(c)].

On request of an obligor or an obligee, the local child support agency must review the amount of arrearages alleged in a statement of arrearages that is submitted by an applicant for child support enforcement services. This review must be completed in the same manner and within the same time frames as a complaint submitted under Family Code Section 17800. In the review, the agency must consider all evidence and defenses submitted by either parent on the issues of the amount of support paid or owed [Fam. Code § 17526(a)]. The local child support agency also has the discretion to suspend enforcement or distribution of arrearages if it believes that there is a substantial probability that the result of the administrative review will result in a finding that there are no arrearages [Fam. Code § 17526(b)].

Any party to an action involving child support enforcement services of the local child support agency may request a judicial determination of arrearages. The party may request an administrative review of the alleged arrearages before requesting a judicial determination. The local child support agency must complete the review in the same manner and under the same time frames specified in Fam. Code § 17526(a). Any motion to determine arrearages filed with the court must include a monthly breakdown showing amounts ordered and amounts paid, in addition to any other relevant information [Fam. Code § 17526(c)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Civil Enforcement by Local Child Support Agencies

22-259 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 259.154

§ 259.154 Independent Action by Parent

[1] In General

The parties may bring an independent action under the Family Code to litigate the issues of support, custody, visitation, or protective orders [Fam. Code § 17404(d)]. In such event, any support, custody, visitation, or protective orders issued by the court in an action brought by the local child support agency under Family Code Section 17404 must be filed in the parties' action. These orders continue in effect until modified by a subsequent court order. If the orders conflict, the last order issued supersedes all other orders and is binding on all parties in the action [Fam. Code § 17404(d)].

[2] Modification of Support Order
