Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 applies to actions or tactics arising from a complaint filed or proceeding initiated on or before December 31, 1994. Under that section, a judge who has been challenged for cause is a "party" within the meaning of Section 128.5 and is entitled to seek sanctions against the challenger [Estate of Di Grazia (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 681, 685, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 621] . Thus, when the judge was represented in the proceedings by county counsel, the court may order the challenger to reimburse the county for its reasonable attorney's fees in opposing the statement of disqualification [Estate of Di Grazia (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 681, 685, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 621 ($3,000 sanction for reasonable attorney's fees upheld)].

For discussion and forms relating to sanctions, see Ch. 510, Sanctions .

§ 317.70 Governing Statutes

The peremptory disqualification of judges, court commissioners, and referees is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6. That section, by its own terms, applies to both civil and criminal actions in superior courts. It does not apply, however, to a judge designated or assigned to serve on the appellate department of a superior court in his or her capacity as a judge of such department [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.7], or to a justice of the Supreme Court or court of appeal. Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(b), however, disqualifies an appellate justice judge from determining, on appeal, a matter he or she tried or heard in the trial court [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(b)]. Specific time limitations for disqualification of referees appointed for discovery matters are set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 639(b).

D. Peremptory Disqualification of Judges Under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6

27-317 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 317.71

§ 317.71 Nature of Peremptory Challenges

In general, Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 permits a party to disqualify a judge, court commissioner, or referee who is alleged to be prejudiced against any party, any attorney, or the interest of any party or attorney by bringing a simple charge supported by a formal affidavit (declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6]. The right to contest qualification of the judge may be waived by not tendering a peremptory challenge and acquiescing to the jurisdiction, or by failing to file a timely objection to the ruling on that motion when made by another party [In re Christian J. (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 276, 278-279, 280-281, 202 Cal. Rptr. 54].

If a Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 motion is timely filed in proper form, the court must accept it without further inquiry, the disqualification is effective immediately, and as a remedial statute the statute is liberally construed in favor of the allowing the peremptory challenge and a challenge should be denied only if the statute absolutely forbids it [Bravo v. Superior Court (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 1489, 1493, 57 Cal. Rptr. 3d 910 , *citing Davcon, Inc. v. Roberts & Morgan (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1355, 1360, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 782 and Stephens v. 27-317 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 317.72

§ 317.72 Constitutionality of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 in Civil Actions

Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 has been upheld as constitutional as applied in civil cases [Johnson v. Superior Court (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 693, 697-699, 329 P.2d 5 (malpractice action)]. The Johnson case affirmed the authority of the Legislature to enact Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 by noting that the Legislature may adopt reasonable rules and regulations regarding the disqualification of judges and that prejudice on the part of a judge was properly made a ground of disqualification by Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 [Johnson v. Superior Court (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 693, 696, 329 P.2d 5]. The Legislature has the power to determine that prejudice may be established by the filing of an affidavit sworn to by a party or his or her attorney, without judicial determination of the existence of that fact, as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 [Johnson v. Superior Court (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 693, 697, 329 P.2d 5]. Although this procedure for disqualification might be open to abuse by some parties, this fact does not constitute grounds for holding the provision to be unconstitutional [see McCartney v. Commission on Judicial Qualifications (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 512, 538, 116 Cal. Rptr. 260, 526 P.2d 268 (removal of judge); Johnson v. Superior Court (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 693, 697, 329 P.2d 5 (malpractice action)].

The Supreme Court has also upheld the constitutionality of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 as applied in criminal cases [Solberg v. Superior Court (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 182, 187, 137 Cal. Rptr. 460, 561 P.2d 1148]. The Legislature acted reasonably in making Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 available to obtain disqualification of a judge without having to establish prejudice as a fact, in order to ensure confidence in the judiciary and avoid the suspicion that might arise from the belief of a litigant that the judge is biased in a case when it might be difficult or impossible for the litigant to persuade a court that his or her belief is justified [Solberg v. Superior Court (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 182, 187, 137 Cal. Rptr. 460, 561 P.2d 1148] . An appellate court has upheld the constitutionality of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 as applied in juvenile court cases as well [*Pamela H. v. Superior Court (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 916, 918, 137 Cal. 27-317 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 317.76

[1] Motion Without Notice

Any party or attorney appearing in the case may establish the prejudice by oral or written motion without notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2); for written motion, see § 317.210].

[2] Affidavit, Declaration, or Oral Statement Required to Support Motion

The motion must be supported by an affidavit [see § 317.211 (form)] or a declaration under penalty of perjury [see § 317.212 (form)] or by an oral statement made under oath that the judge, commissioner, or referee before whom the case is pending or to whom it has been assigned is prejudiced against the party or attorney or the interest of the party or attorney so that the party or attorney cannot, or believes that he or she cannot, have a fair and impartial trial or hearing before the judge, commissioner, or referee [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2)]. The party's right to disqualify a judge, commissioner, or referee for prejudice is automatic in the sense that the party's good-faith belief in the prejudice is sufficient without proof of any facts showing actual prejudice [see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(3); see also McCartney v. Commission on Judicial Qualifications (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 512, 531-532, 116 Cal. Rptr. 260, 526 P.2d 268 (judicial removal); Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 61, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240 (dissolution action)].

The Supreme Court has stated that it is important not only that the integrity and fairness of the judiciary be maintained, but also that the business of the courts be conducted in such a manner as will avoid suspicion of unfairness. Prejudice, being a state of mind, is very difficult to prove and, when a judge asserts that he or sheis unbiased, courts are naturally reluctant to determine that he or she is prejudiced. In order to ensure confidence in the judiciary and avoid the suspicion that might arise from the belief of a litigant that the judge is biased in a case when it may be difficult or impossible for the litigant to persuade a court that his or her belief is justified, the Legislature could reasonably conclude that a party should have an opportunity to obtain the disqualification of a judge for prejudice, on a sworn statement, without being required to establish it as a fact to the satisfaction of a judicial body [Johnson v. Superior Court (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 693, 697, 329 P.2d 5].

NOTE: Whether to Serve Written Motion on Parties and Challenged Judge.

Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2) does not expressly require service of the written motion and supporting affidavit or declaration on each party, or his or her attorney, who has appeared in the action, or on the judge alleged to be prejudiced. However, the better practice is to serve such persons. If time allows, service may be by mail; otherwise, service should be by fax, overnight delivery, electronic, or personal. Depending on the stage of the proceedings at which the written motion is presented and filed, the written motion may be presented to the judge supervising the master calendar, or to the judge assigned to the trial.

For forms of proof of service, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

NOTE: Better Practice to File Declaration or Affidavit, If Written.
While Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(3) requires that the supporting affidavit or declaration be filed, it does not expressly require that the motion be filed. Better practice would be to file the written motion with the supporting paper.

Thus, once an affidavit (declaration) of prejudice has been filed under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6, the court has no jurisdiction to hold further proceedings in the matter except to inquire into the affidavit's (declaration's) timeliness or technical sufficiency under the statute [McCartney v. Commission on Judicial Qualifications (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 512, 531-532, 116 Cal. Rptr. 260, 526 P.2d 268 ; Andrews v. Joint Clerks etc. Committee, (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 285, 294, 48 Cal. Rptr. 646 ; Lewis v. Linn (1962) 209 Cal. App. 2d 394, 399-400, 26 Cal. Rptr. 6] . If a minor technical deficiency is noted by the court and correction is immediately offered, the court may not refuse the correction and deny the motion to disqualify on that basis [Retes v. Superior Court (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 799, 807, 176 Cal. Rptr. 160 (denial of motion as error when based on attorney's inadvertent failure to sign declaration)]. If an affidavit (declaration) is timely and properly made, the challenged judge is vested with no discretion to determine the question of his or her actual prejudice [see Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 62, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240], and immediate disqualification is mandatory [McCartney v. Commission on Judicial Qualifications (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 512, 532, 116 Cal. Rptr. 260, 526 P.2d 268 (judicial removal); Jacobs v. Superior Court (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 187, 190, 1 Cal. Rptr. 9, 347 P.2d 9 (custody and guardianship of minors); Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 62, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240 (dissolution)].

[3] Form of Affidavit

Any affidavit (declaration) of prejudice must be in substantially the form set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(5) [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(5); see also §§ 317.211 and 317.212 (forms)]. Any oral statement under oath or declaration under penalty of perjury must include substantially the same contents as the affidavit [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(6)].

[4] Inquiry Into Moving Party's Good Faith

[a] Impropriety in General

The law assumes that a party who peremptorily disqualifies a judge does so in good faith [Brown v. Superior Court (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 1059, 1061, 177 Cal. Rptr. 756], and generally, when a sufficient affidavit or declaration is timely filed, the judge is bound to accept it without further inquiry [McCartney v. Commission on Judicial Qualifications (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 512, 532, 116 Cal. Rptr. 260, 526 P.2d 268]. Therefore, an inquiry into the challenging party's good faith is not proper unless a prima facie showing is made that the peremptory challenge was exercised on the ground of an unconstitutional group bias [People v. Superior Court (Williams) (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 688, 698-699, 707-708, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 873 ; see [b], below].

[b] Propriety in Case of Unconstitutional Discrimination

A peremptory challenge may not be used to engage in purposeful discrimination. Thus, it cannot be used to disqualify a judge based on group bias, such as race, and Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 may not be implemented in such a way as to preclude inquiry into whether the statute has been used for such a discriminatory purpose [People v. Superior Court (Williams) (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 688, 706-707, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 873]. An inquiry into the good faith of a Section 170.6 challenge is not required by the naked assertion that a challenge was race-based. However, if the opposing party makes a prima facie showing that the peremptory challenge was exercised solely on the ground of group bias, the party exercising the challenge will assume the burden of proving that the peremptory challenge was not predicated on group bias alone. If the challenging party establishes a neutral basis for the peremptory challenge, the trial court will determine whether or not the opposing party has established purposeful discrimination [People v. Superior Court (Williams) (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 688, 707-713, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 873]. It may even be appropriate to require a higher standard than prima facie showing before permitting an inquiry into the good faith of a peremptory challenge [People v. Superior Court (Williams) (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 688, 708 n.2, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 873 (suggesting this, but not needing to reach the issue)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Peremptory Disqualification of Judges Under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6

27-317 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 317.77

§ 317.77 Limitations on Right to Peremptory Disqualification Under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6

[1] In General

The right to disqualify a judge by peremptory challenge is limited generally as to the number of challenges that a party or attorney is permitted to make, the time at which a motion to disqualify may be made, and the stage of the action or proceedings at which a motion may be presented [see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(1), (a)(2)].

[2] Only One Motion Permitted Per Case Basic Restriction to One Motion

With one exception, no party or attorney will be permitted to make more than one Section 170.6 motion to disqualify a judge in any one action or proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(3)]. The exception, provided for in Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2), relates to motions made after reversal on appeal, and is discussed in [6][e], below.

The phrase "any one action" in Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(3) is interpreted to encompass several stages of the same proceeding; and in general, a party that has disqualified a judge pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 may not exercise a challenge against a substituted judge either during the trail or in any later proceeding that is a "continuation" of the original proceeding [Home Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 34 Cal. 4th 1025, 1033 n.4, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 885, 103 P.3d 283].

The one motion restriction of Section 170.6(a)(3) refers to one "duly filed" motion. If a party's initial peremptory challenge is dismissed as untimely, it was not "duly filed," and the party retains the right to exercise a peremptory challenge in the proceeding should a new judge be assigned, for example, in the event of the first judge's retirement [Truck Ins. Exchange v. Superior Court (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 142, 148-149, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 721] .

[3] Multiple Parties on One Side

If there is more than one plaintiff or similar party or more than one defendant or similar party appearing in the case, only one motion for each side may be made [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(3)]. However, if parties on the same side have adverse interests to other parties on the same side, they may be treated as a separate side for the purposes of making a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 [Home Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 34 Cal. 4th 1025, 1035, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 885, 103 P.3d 283 ; see Johnson v. Superior Court (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 693, 700, 329 P.2d 5 (suggesting such might be the situation in which two drivers whose automobiles collide and injure the plaintiff are joined as defendants)], and this rule is equally applicable in criminal cases [Pappa v. Superior Court (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 350, 353-354, 5 Cal. Rptr. 703, 353 P.2d 311 (murder prosecution)].

The burden is on the party seeking an additional challenge to establish the adverse interest; that is, the party seeking a subsequent disqualification of the trial judge has the burden of demonstrating that its interests are substantially adverse to those of a coparty that previously exercised a peremptory challenge [Home Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 34 Cal. 4th 1025, 1035, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 885, 103 P.3d 283]. Substantially adverse interests are not presumed and mere speculation of potential conflict is insufficient [Home Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 34 Cal. 4th 1025, 1035, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 885, 103 P.3d 283 (the interests of primary insurers and excess insurers are not inherently substantially adverse, both parties may take the same position of no coverage, thus a factual showing of adverse interests is required); Pappa v. Superior Court (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 350, 354, 5 Cal. Rptr. 703, 353 P.2d 311 (difference of opinion between codefendants as to procedural matters and fact that codefendant chose to be represented by separate counsel did not show substantial adverse interest); Welch v. Superior Court (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 50, 53, 115 Cal. Rptr. 729 (mere form declaration speculating how the coparties' adverse interests might arise, rather than how they had arisen, was insufficient to support subsequent disqualification of the trial judge)].

When a plaintiff belatedly names a party as a defendant, that circumstance alone does not establish that the party's interests are substantially adverse to earlier named defendants [Home Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 34 Cal. 4th 1025, 1037, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 885, 103 P.3d 283 ; see School Dist. of Okaloosa County v. Superior Court (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 1126, 1134-1135, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 612 ; cf. Industrial Indem. Co. v. Superior Court (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 259, 264, 262 Cal. Rptr. 544 (upholding Judicial Council rule limiting to 20 days the right of "add-on" parties in coordinated cases to exercise a section 170.6 challenge, and observing that such a challenge is particularly subject to abuse in "add-on" cases because, due to the trial judge's lengthy participation in a coordinated case, the nature and extent of his or her rulings is well known--presenting an "unusual opportunity" to challenge for reasons unrelated to bias or prejudice)].

A party is not entitled to severance of a cross-complaint in order to enable it to avoid the burden of establishing interests substantially adverse to another party that had exercised an earlier peremptory challenge in the proceeding [Sunkyong Trading (H.K.) Ltd. v. Superior Court (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 282, 289-290, n.4, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 504].

[4] Time for Making Motion

[a] In General

A motion directed to the trial of a cause may not be made after the trial has commenced, and a motion directed to a hearing may be made no later than the commencement of the hearing. When there is a master calendar, the motion must be made not later than the time that the cause is assigned for trial. When the cause has been assigned to a judge for all purposes, the motion must be made within 10 days after notice of that assignment or, if the party has not yet appeared in the action, within 10 days after his or her appearance. When the judge, other than one assigned to the cause for all purposes, is known at least 10 days before the date set for trial or hearing, the motion must be made at least 5 days before that date [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2)]. For discussion of the time for making a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 639(b) concerning discovery referees, see [e][ii], below.

The interplay among the rules set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2) has been clarified by the California Supreme Court as follows [People v. Superior Court (Lavi) (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 1164, 1185, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 815, 847 P.2d 1031] :

- The master calendar rule applies when a trial-ready case is assigned to a court that is ready and able to hear the case [see [f], below];

- When the master calendar rules are not met, either the all purpose assignment rule [see [g], below] or the 10-day/5-day rule [see [e], below] may apply;

- The all purpose assignment rules applies when a litigant shows that a case assignment instantly identifies the judge who is reasonably certain to preside over substantial remaining matters from that point forward, including the trial;

- When neither the master calendar rule nor the all-purpose assignment rule controls, a litigant may invoke the 10-day/5-day rule as soon as the case is assigned to a known judge;

- When no reasonable certainty exists as to the trial judge's identity, the general rule applies permitting a challenge at any time before trial.

The label used to identify the assigning court as a "master calendar" court or an assignment as an "all purpose" assignment is not conclusive. The label may, however, be viewed as prima facie evidence of the type of assignment that occurred [People v. Superior Court (Lavi) (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 1164, 1175, 1179, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 815, 847 P.2d 1031].

If the court in which the action is pending is authorized to have no more than one judge and the motion claims that the duly elected or appointed judge of that court is prejudiced, the motion must be made before the expiration of 30 days from the date of the first appearance in the action of the party who is making the motion or whose attorney is making the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2)].

[b] Cases Subject to Trial Delay Reduction Rules

Notwithstanding Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6, in cases subject to the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act, parties must exercise any peremptory challenge within 15 days of the party's first appearance in a direct calendar court [Gov. Code § 68616(i)].

When a direct calendar assignment is made more than 15 days after a complaint is filed, the plaintiff's first appearance, or defendant's first appearance when defendant has already responded to the complaint in a direct calendar court, coincides with the direct calendar assignment [Fight for the Rams v. Superior Court (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 953, 958, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 851 (rejecting contention that there is no right to peremptory challenge when case is reassigned more than 15 days after filing of complaint or more than 15 days after defendant's first appearance)]. Thus, in the Fight for the Rams court's implicit view, the trial court does not become a "direct calendar court" until a direct calendar assignment is made, and it is only at that time that party makes "first appearance" in that court and time in which a peremptory challenge must be made begins to run [Stubblefield Construction Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 762, 767, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 121].

ILLUSTRATION:

Time for Challenge Runs from Direct Assignment. A judge who was assigned a lawsuit for all purposes recused himself at the hearing on defendant's demurrer, motion to strike, and motion for protective order. On the continued hearing date, more than a month later, the clerk advised the parties by phone that the previous order assigning a new department was in error and gave them a new hearing date (six days later) and department for the hearing, after which minute order and certificate of mailing was sent confirming all-purpose assignment to a new judge. The new judge sustained the demurrer as to seven causes of action with leave to amend and as to three others without leave to amend and deferred ruling on the motion to strike. Thereafter, but within ten days of the notice of assignment, plaintiff filed a Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 challenge. Was that challenge timely? Yes. Under Gov. Code § 68616(i), when a direct calendar assignment is made more than 15 days after the complaint was filed, plaintiff's first appearance, or defendant's first appearance when defendant already responded to complaint in direct calendar court, coincides with the direct calendar assignment. Any other rule would deprive that parties of the right to make challenges whenever a judge was assigned more than 15 days after the case was filed. The judge did not make a determination of contested fact issues relating to the merits. For the purposes of the demurrer, he simply accepted plaintiff's factual allegations as true. He deferred a ruling on the motion to strike, and the protective order did no more than stay any discovery efforts by plaintiff until a hearing on defendant's response to a second amended complaint [Fight for the Rams v. Superior Court (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 953, 955-958, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 851].

A peremptory challenge to a case management judge who was assigned to a case for all purposes except trial was governed by the time limits set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2) rather than the Gov. Code § 68616(i) time limits governing a peremptory challenge to a judge in a direct calendar court [Zilog Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th. 1309, 1317-1320, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 173]. The phrase "direct calendar court" means that a case is assigned to one judge for all purposes, including trial [Zilog Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th. 1309, 1318-1319, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 173]. The court's case management system lacked the defining characteristic of a direct calendar court because it did not instantly pinpoint the judge who would try the case, despite the fact that under the system one judge was assigned to aggressively manage a complex case until trial [Zilog Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th. 1309, 1321, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 173].

If the individual calendar judge assigned to the case is changed after a party has appeared in the matter, the party must file its challenge within 15 days of receiving notice of the change [Cybermedia, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 910, 913, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 126 (general notice mailed by superior court's public information was officer insufficient to trigger 15-day time period)].

When a direct calendar assignment is made more than 15 days after the first appearance of a party, the time limits of Gov. Code § 68616(i) run from the date that the party receives notice of the assignment [Motion Picture & Television Fund Hospital v. Superior Court (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 488, 492-494, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 872] .

In a master calendar court, peremptory challenges are governed solely by Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 [Gov. Code § 68616(i)]. For discussion of time limits under Section 170.6, see [c] and [d], below.

No action or proceeding may be removed from a delay reduction program because of a challenge filed under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 [Gov. Code § 68607.5].

Gov. Code § 68616 does not apply when a judgment has been reversed on appeal and returned to the trial court for retrial [Stubblefield Construction Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 762, 769, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 121].

[c] No Motion After Trial Commenced

In no event shall any judge, commissioner, or referee entertain a peremptory motion to disqualify if it is made after trial of a cause has commenced [see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2)].

In the case of a jury trial, a motion may not be made after the drawing of the name of the first juror [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2)].

If there is no jury, the motion may not be made after the making of an opening statement by counsel for plaintiff or, if there is no such statement, after swearing in the first witness or the giving of any evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2)].

[d] No Motion After Hearing Commenced

Any motion directed to a hearing (other than the trial of a cause) must be made not later than the commencement of the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2); see also Andrews v. Joint Clerks etc. Committee (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 285, 294, 48 Cal. Rptr. 646 (hearing on order to show cause, demurrer, and response in labor dispute); Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 62, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240 (hearing on matter concerning child custody)].

When an otherwise timely peremptory challenge to disqualify a judge is made after argument on demurrers and motions to strike and while rulings on them are deferred pending additional briefing on specified issues, the challenge is untimely with respect to the hearing on the demurrers and motions to strike because it should have been filed before commencement of the hearing. Thus, the trial judge retains jurisdiction to rule on the demurrers and motions to strike and must do so before granting the Section 170.6 motion [Cybermedia, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 910, 913, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 126].

[e] 10-Day/5-Day Provision

[i] Application to Judge, Commissioner or Referee Other Than Discovery Referee

If the judge (other than a judge assigned to the case for all purposes), commissioner, or referee assigned or scheduled to try the cause or hear the matter is known at least 10 days before the date set for trial or hearing, the motion must be made at least five days before that date [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2)]. If a trial or hearing date has been set, and the trial or hearing is postponed, a motion filed five days prior to the postponed date is timely [see Eagle Maintenance & Supply Co. v. Superior Court (1961) 196 Cal. App. 2d 692, 695, 16 Cal. Rptr. 745 (trial was postponed for 97 days, but motion presented at least five days before last scheduled date for trial was timely)].

Responding to confusion among the appellate courts concerning the degree of certainty with which a judge must be "known" before the 10-day/5-day rule may apply [compare Bouchard v. Insona (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 768, 774, 164 Cal. Rptr. 505 (rule inapplicable when case was assigned to department by number rather than to particular judge), and Retes v. Superior Court (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 799, 806, 176 Cal. Rptr. 160 (rule requires judge to be known with certainty and is inapplicable even when assigned judge is named if there is evidence of frequent reassignment), with Thomas Realty Co. v. Superior Court (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 91, 94-95, 244 Cal. Rptr. 733 (rule applies if case is assigned to identified department with a known judge regardless of reassignment practices)], the California Supreme Court has stated in dicta that a judge need not be known with absolute certainty. Rather, when a judge is known to the parties to be assigned to the case, there must be reasonable assurance that the judge will in fact hear the case. Thus, an assignment to a department by number may provide reasonable assurance that a particular judge will hear the case, if the judge regularly sits in that department. In such a case, even if a party has no actual knowledge that a particular judge presides over a department, the rule applies if the judge's identity may be determined with further investigation or inquiry [People v. Superior Court (Lavi) (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 1164, 1183-1185, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 815, 847 P.2d 1031].

With respect to jurisdictions that have tentative ruling procedures, a party who has already received a tentative ruling on a motion may attempt to disqualify the judge at the time of the hearing only if the regularly assigned judge does not in fact rule on the motion or if the regular assignment has been changed without sufficient notification to the parties [Kaiser Foundation Hospitals v. Superior Court (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 721, 725-726, 235 Cal. Rptr. 630].

The statute does not require that five full days intervene between the date of the hearing and the date of filing the motion for disqualification [Pamela H. v. Superior Court (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 916, 919, 137 Cal. Rptr. 612] because such an interpretation would clearly fly in the face of Code Civ. Proc. § 12, which provides that the time in which any act provided by law is to be done is computed by excluding the first day and including the last unless the last day is a holiday, and then it is also excluded [Code Civ. Proc. § 12]. Thus, when a hearing was scheduled for June 30, a motion to disqualify filed on June 25 was timely [Pamela H. v. Superior Court (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 916, 919, 137

Cal. Rptr. 612 (juvenile court proceeding)].

The purpose of the 10-day/5-day time limitation is to effect a compromise between the rights of the litigant and the efficient operation of the court. The litigant, on assignment to a particular department (that is, a particular judge regularly sitting in that department), has a few days to assess his or her position, and the court has a few days to make the necessary adjustment after disqualification [see Villarruel v. Superior Court (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 559, 561-562, 110 Cal. Rptr. 861 (criminal defendant sought writ of prohibition to prohibit superior court from trying his case before judge who allegedly had been disqualified); People v. Escobedo (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 32, 37-38, 110 Cal. Rptr. 550 (criminal defendant attempted to have trial judge disqualified and moved to suppress evidence obtained by search and seizure)].

The 10-day/5-day time limitation also applies to a motion to disqualify made by an intervener in an action who became a "party" at the time of the court's order authorizing the intervention. For purposes of determining the timeliness of such a motion, time begins to run from the date of the court's order, rather than from the later date of filing of a formal petition in intervention [see Hospital Council of Northern Cal. v. Superior Court (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 331, 339, 106 Cal. Rptr. 247 (motion was made only two days, not five days, before new trial date that had been set after intervener became party)].

For further discussion of the 10-day/5-day provision as applied in criminal actions, see Erwin, Millman, Monroe, Sevilla, Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 60, Disqualification (Matthew Bender).

[ii] Application to Discovery Referees

In a discovery matter, a motion to disqualify an appointed referee under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 must be made to the court by a party either [Code Civ. Proc. § 639(b)]:

- Within 10 days after notice of the appointment, or if the party has not yet appeared in the action, a motion must be made within 10 days after the appearance, if a discovery referee has been appointed for all discovery purposes.

- At least five days before the date set for hearing, if the referee assigned is known at least 10 days before the date set for hearing and the discovery referee has been assigned only for limited discovery purposes.

A party who previously made a peremptory challenge to a judge may not thereafter peremptorily challenge a discovery referee due to the one motion per side restriction of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(3) [Baugh v. Garl (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 737, 746, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 539] .

[f] Master Calendar Provision

A superior court is required to adopt a master calendar if it determines that such a calendaring system will advance the goals of caseflow management and delay reduction, as set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 2 (statement of general principles) [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.700 et seq.; for further discussion of delay reduction rules, see Ch. 552, Trial Court Delay Reduction]. Under the master calendar system, all civil cases assigned trial dates must be placed on a master calendar composed of all cases set for trial on that day [see, e.g., People v. Escobedo (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 32, 38, 110 Cal. Rptr. 550] ; the cases on the master calendar ready for trial must be transferred to any department of the court that is available [see People v. Escobedo (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 32, 38, 110 Cal. Rptr. 550].

If the motion to disqualify is directed to the trial of a cause in which there is a master calendar, the motion must be made to the judge supervising the master calendar not later than the time the cause is assigned for trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2)].

If a case is assigned from a master calendar for immediate trial in a ready trial department, Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2) requires that the motion to disqualify the judge be made to the supervising judge immediately on the announcement of the assignment [People v. Superior Court (Lavi) (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 1164, 1177, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 815, 847 P.2d 1031 ; see Ruiz v. Appellate Division of the Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 282, 292, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 190 (master calendar rule did not apply to "direct set" court that did not bear the label of master calendar court yet functioned as such due to lack of official designation or informal notice to counsel); Stevens v. Superior Court (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 55, 59-61, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 397 (master calendar exception not applicable when assignment made via telephone by court clerk; master calendar exception provides that challenge be made immediately to master calendar judge, not to court clerk); Villarruel v. Superior Court (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 559, 564, 110 Cal. Rptr. 861 (case was not assigned from master calendar when presiding judge set criminal defendant's trial date in another department over month in advance)]. This procedure permits the presiding judge to make an immediate assignment to another department and to immediately utilize the challenged judge for some other pending case [People v. Superior Court (Lavi) (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 1164, 1176, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 815, 847 P.2d 1031 ; see Stevens v. Superior Court (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 55, 59, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 397 ; People v. Escobedo (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 32, 38, 110 Cal. Rptr. 550]. Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2) may not be construed as meaning that, whenever a case is transferred from the department of the supervising judge, often denominated as the master calendar department, to another department, the motion to disqualify must be made at that time or be forever barred [Villarruel v. Superior Court (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 559, 563, 110 Cal. Rptr. 861]. Thus, if an assignment is merely from the "master calendar department" to another department for future trial, the reasons for applying the master calendar time limitation do not exist [see Villarruel v. Superior Court (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 559, 564, 110 Cal. Rptr. 861], and a motion to disqualify is timely if made more than five days in advance of the hearing pursuant to the 10-day/5-dayprovision of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(2) [People v. Superior Court (Lavi) (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 1164, 1176, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 815, 847 P.2d 1031 ; see People v. Escobedo (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 32, 39, 110 Cal. Rptr. 550] .

A local court's policy that permitted fast track litigants to exercise two peremptory challenges, one to the case management judge under Gov. Code § 68616(i) and a second under the master calendar rule of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2) exceeded the statutory boundaries of section 170.6(a)(2), which provides, subject to certain exceptions, that only one peremptory challenge is allowed in a case [Zilog Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th. 1309, 1321-1322, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 173] .

[g] All-Purpose Assignment Provision

If the motion to disqualify is directed to the trial of a cause that has been assigned to a judge for all purposes, a party must make the motion to the assigned judge or to the presiding judge within 10 days after notice of the all-purpose assignment or, if the party has not yet appeared in the action, within 10 days after his or her appearance [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2); see La Seigneurie U.S. Holdings, Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1500, 1504-1506, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 175 (10-day time period commences after party's general appearance); cf. Gov. Code § 68616(i) (challenge must be made within 15 days of party's first appearance in direct calendar court for case subject to Trial Court Delay Reduction Act; discussed under [b], above)]. When notice of the all-purpose assignment is served by mail, the 10-day period in which to make the motion has been held to be extended under Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a) [California Business Council v. Superior Court (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 1100, 1102, 1106, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 7 (10-day period extended 5 days when notice given by service by mail to California address; Swenson v. Superior Court (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 348 , which held that Section 1013 did not apply to local court rule which commenced the prescribed period simply on "notice" and Beverly Union Co. v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 40, 253 Cal. Rptr. 359 , which concerned same local court rule, distinguished as no longer applicable in light of subsequent amendment of *Section 1013*by Stats. 1995, Ch. 576, § 3.8 providing extension applies in absence of specific exception)].

Thus, for example, a trial court must grant a late named defendant's peremptory challenge to a judge assigned for all purposes even when the time within which the other defendants could have challenged the judge has long since expired, and even though the case has been assigned to one judge as complex litigation, when the late appearing defendant exercises its right to disqualify a judge within 10 days after appearing [School Dist. of Okaloosa County v. Superior Court (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 1126, 1129, 1134-1135, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 612 (defendant named as Doe defendant and served over three years after litigation commenced)]. Under these circumstances, the rules governing coordination cases do not apply to cases designated as "complex litigation" [School Dist. of Okaloosa County v. Superior Court (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 1126, 1135-1136, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 612 ; for discussion of rules governing coordinated cases, see [5], below]. If, however, another defendant on the same side has already exercised its right to disqualify a judge, a late appearing defendant has no right to challenge the then-current judge because that side has used its one challenge [School Dist. of Okaloosa County v. Superior Court (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 1126, 1134-1135, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 612 ; see [2], above]. Similarly, a late appearing party in a case assigned to a judge for all purposes cannot make a peremptory challenge within ten days after appearing in the case if the judge already has decided a contested fact issue relating to the merits [Stephens v. Superior Court (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 54, 60,116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 616] .

ILLUSTRATION:

Peremptory Challenge of Late Appearing Party Precluded By Previous Determination of Contested Facts. Father/husband created a trust for wife and their six children. The trust was to have three of the children as co-trustees. If any resigned or otherwise failed or refused to serve, the remaining children were to assume the position in order of their age. One of the initial three co-trustees resigned and the two remaining (John and James) petitioned for instructions as to whether Gail or Gwen was to be the third co-trustee and seeking to modify the trust so that a majority of the co-trustees could act, rather than requiring unanimous decisions. Judge Cline heard both petitions together, denied the request to modify the trust so that a majority of co-trustees could act, and determined that Gwen was the third co-trustee. John and James appealed those determinations. While the matter was on appeal, Gwen filed a petition seeking several things, including access to the books of the trust, the appointment of an interim independent trustee, or, alternatively, the freezing of distributions from the trust during the pendency of the appeal. David made his first appearance in the matter by joinder in James' and John's response and objections, and five days after his appearance, filed a peremptory challenge to Judge Cline. Was the challenge timely? No. The language in Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2) that a judge's determination of contested facts issues relating to the merits precludes "the later making of the motion provided for herein at the times and in the manner hereinbefore provided" limits the right of a late appearing party to make a peremptory challenge. A late appearing party in a case assigned to a judge for all purposes is precluded from challenging the judge if the judge, prior to the party's appearance, had determined a contested fact issue relating to the merits and the party appears in the proceeding in which the judge made the determination or a subsequent proceeding that is a continuation of the proceeding in which the judge made the determination [Stephens v. Superior Court (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 54, 61, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 616] . Gwen's petitions were continuations of the original petition because they were directly related to the controversy adjudicated in that proceeding [Stephens v. Superior Court (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 54, 63, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 616] .

To qualify as an all-purpose assignment, the method of assigning cases must instantly pinpoint the judge whom the parties can expect to ultimately preside at trial. In addition, the same judge must be expected to process the case in its totality from the time of the assignment. The first requirement is satisfied if the assignment pinpoints the judge with reasonable certainty. For example, an assignment to a department by number may qualify if a particular judge regularly presides in that department and that judge's identity is either known to the party or discoverable on reasonable inquiry [People v. Superior Court (Lavi) (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 1164, 1180, n.11, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 815, 847 P.2d 1031]. The second requirement is satisfied if at the time of the assignment, substantial matters remain to be processed in addition to trial, and the assigned judge is expected to process all those matters from that point on [People v. Superior Court (Lavi) (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 1164, 1180 n.12, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 815, 847 P.2d 1031].

If a disqualification motion has been denied as untimely, an assignment under a duly adopted local court policy that is not inconsistent with existing statutory law is presumed to be "for all purposes" unless the petitioner demonstrates otherwise [Shipp v. Superior Court (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 147, 151-154, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 685 (involving former Manual of Procedures for the Family Law Department of the Los Angeles Superior Court)].

[h] Consolidated Proceedings

When more than one case involving the same party is consolidated for trial before one of the judges, the party may bring a separate peremptory challenge against that judge even though the judge was not challenged before the consolidation. The challenge is limited to the cases that were pending before other judges unless the challenge is otherwise permitted by the time limits. Thus, for example, when three cases against the same defendant were consolidated for trial before one of the pending judges, the defendant's peremptory challenge was not untimely with respect to the two transferred cases when it was brought within 10 days after notice of the consolidation. This was true even though the challenge would have been untimely as to the matter that was not transferred [Nissan Motor Corp. v. Superior Court (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 150, 154-156, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 801].

[5] Coordinated Proceedings

When actions have been coordinated, any motion or affidavit of prejudice regarding an assigned judge shall be submitted in writing to the assigned judge within 20 days after service of the order assigning the judge to the coordination proceeding. All plaintiffs or similar parties in the included or coordinated actions shall constitute a side and all defendants or similar parties in the actions shall constitute a side for purposes of applying Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.516]. The term "assigned judge" in Rule 1515 refers to any judge assigned pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 404 or 404.3, including a "coordination motion judge," who determines whether coordination is appropriate, and a "coordination trial judge," who hears and determines the coordinated action [see Cal. Rule of Court, Rule 3.501(7), (9)]. Because the statutory scheme for coordination of actions provides for two separate assignments, and hence, the possibility of two different judges, the party challenging the assignment of a judge pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 has 20 days after each specific assignment to file an affidavit of prejudice [see Stone v. Superior Court (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1144, 1146-1147, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 56].

[6] Stage of Action or Proceeding at Which Motion May Be Presented

[a] Before Hearing on Contested Issue

A motion to disqualify for prejudice under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 may be presented and filed either after preliminary proceedings but before commencement of a trial or hearing, or after a trial or hearing but before the undertaking of any subsequent proceedings [see McClenny v. Superior Court (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 677, 683, 36 Cal. Rptr. 459, 388 P.2d 691], and, in either case, before a hearing is commenced on a contested issue [Doty v. Doty (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 672, 677, 125 Cal. Rptr. 153 (in case involving partition of real property, judge's entry of order finding that property was not divisible and that it should be sold as a whole was resolution of contested issue and motion filed thereafter was not timely); Miller v. Miller (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 197, 202, 89 Cal. Rptr. 643 (in case involving reduction of alimony and support payments, when defendant's answer denied allegations of complaint requesting attorney's fees and costs, joinder of issue of denial made matter contested one and plaintiff's subsequent motion was not timely filed); Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 62-63, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240 (in dissolution action, no contested issue of fact was raised until point at which court determinedto question parties' agreement concerning child custody, and only then was husband obligated to challenge judge)].

Thus, when all orders issued by a judge are made pursuant to ex parte application or stipulation of the parties [see Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 62, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240 (issue of child custody did not become contested until court ordered investigation at ex parte hearing); Estate of Cuneo (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 381, 385, 29

Cal. Rptr. 497 (hearings and orders in probate action involved matters that were acted on in concert and without conflicting interest by opposing parties); Thompson v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 702, 709, 23 Cal. Rptr. 841 (judge had issued orders to show cause on application of each party, temporary restraining orders ex parte, and various orders of continuance)], there has been no hearing on a contested issue, and an affidavit of prejudice is timely when filed for the first time prior to a subsequently held hearing [see Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 64, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240 ; Estate of Cuneo (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 381, 386, 29 Cal. Rptr. 497 ; Thompson v. Superior Court (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 702, 710, 23 Cal. Rptr. 841 (motion to disqualify was filed prior to hearing to modify child custody order)].

[b] Motion After Assignment of Judge but Before Hearing Set

At least one court has held that a Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 motion may be made prematurely, and that the 10-day/5-day rule is measured from the trial or hearing; therefore, a Section 170.6 motion challenge may not be filed until there is a hearing scheduled [Grant v. Superior Court (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 518, 526 ; 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 825 (motion was premature when filed after judge had ruled on two ex parte applications but before any further hearing had been set)]. However, the Grant court noted that its opinion disagreed with other courts of appeal [see Pedus Services, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 140, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 771 ; Moreira v. Superior Court (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 42, 265 Cal. Rptr. 437].

[c] Motion After Pretrial Hearing or Proceeding Not Precluded

[i] In General

The 1965 amendment to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2) stated that the fact that a judge, court commissioner, or referee has presided at or acted in connection with a pretrial conference or other hearing, proceeding, or motion prior to trial and not involving a determination of contested fact issues relating to the merits does not preclude the later making of the motion provided for in Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2) at the time and in the manner provided for in the subsection [see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2)]. Under the 1965 legislative amendment, a motion to disqualify now can be made after a hearing or proceeding held prior to trial that does not involve a determination of contested fact issue relating to the merits of the case [see School Dist. of Okaloosa County v. Superior Court (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 1126, 1133-1134, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 612 ; Kohn v. Superior Court (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 428, 430, 48 Cal. Rptr. 832 (criminal prosecution)].

Prior to this amendment to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2), a motion to disqualify was not timely if filed after a judge had decided any preliminary contested matters [McClenny v. Superior Court (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 677, 683, 36 Cal. Rptr. 459, 388 P.2d 691 ; see People v. Ashley (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 339, 360, 29 Cal. Rptr. 16, 379 P.2d 496 (motion filed after preliminary sanity hearing but prior to guilt trial); Ball v. City Council (1967) 252 Cal. App. 2d 136, 146, 60 Cal. Rptr. 139 (because 1965 amendment was not retroactive, motion was not timely when filed after judge had heard and overruled demurrer prior to date on which amendment became effective); Swartzman v. Superior Court (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 195, 200, 41 Cal. Rptr. 721 (motion not timely when made after judge heard contested motions to amend complaint and to specially set and petitioners' contested demurrer, motion to strike, and motion to reconsider prior ruling); Michaels v. Superior Court (1960) 184 Cal. App. 2d 820, 824-825, 7 Cal. Rptr. 858 (motion not timely when made following defendant's appearance specially to challenge jurisdiction); but see Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 64, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240 (submission of contested matter, not time judge decides matter, should fix time when right to invoke disqualification privilege is lost)]. For further discussion of the effect of the 1965 amendment to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2), see [ii], below.

[ii] Prior Motion Not on Merits

The 1965 amendment to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2) has been interpreted to mean that a judge, court commissioner, or referee must actually determine contested fact issues relating to the merits prior to trial before a party will have lost the right to make a motion to disqualify [see School Dist. of Okaloosa County v. Superior Court (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 1126, 1131-1134, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 612 ; Zdonek v. Superior Court (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 849, 852, 853, 113 Cal. Rptr. 669 (held incorrectly decided based on another point by same division of appellate district in Woodman v. Superior Court (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 407, 410, 241 Cal. Rptr. 818), which in turn was abrogated by a 1989 amendment of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6; see Mackey v. Superior Court (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1124, 1127 n.3, 270 Cal. Rptr. 905); Kohn v. Superior Court (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 428, 431, 48 Cal. Rptr. 832 (criminal prosecution)], and, if a determination relates to but does not actually resolve a contested fact issue relating to the merits, a motion to disqualify filed thereafter can still be timely [see School Dist. of Okaloosa County v. Superior Court (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 1126, 1131-1134, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 612 (court's ruling motions to quash service of summons not a determination of contested fact issues relating to merits of case); Kohn v. Superior Court (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 428, 431, 48 Cal. Rptr. 832 (motion to disqualify made after judge had denied motion to setaside indictment for lack of probable cause pursuant to Penal Code § 995 was timely filed)]. Thus, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2) as amended in 1965, a party should be permitted to preserve his or her right to disqualify a judge for trials and other fact determinations, notwithstanding that the judge has earlier made a pretrial determination of a motion for judgment on the pleadings [Hospital Council of Northern Cal. v. Superior Court (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 331, 337, 106 Cal. Rptr. 247 (motion was not timely when made only two days before new trial date)]. Other proceedings in which a judge does not determine a contested fact issue relating to the merits under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2) include the tentative acceptance and later rejection of a plea bargain [Fraijo v. Superior Court (1973) 109 Cal. Rptr. 909], and the determination of a date on which a motion for security will be heard [Woodman v. Selvage (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 390, 394, 69 Cal. Rptr. 687], and a ruling on a motion for pretrial punitive damages discovery under Civ. Code § 3295(c) that a plaintiff has demonstrated a substantial probability that he or she will prevail on a claim for punitive damages [Guardado v. Superior Court (2008) 163 Cal. App. 4th 91, 93, 77 Cal. Rptr. 3d 149] . A motion to disqualify is not untimely for the sole reason that it is made subsequent to such proceedings.

With regard to demurrers, there is authority that has permitted a party to proceed under Section 170.6 to disqualify a judge even though the judge had earlier ruled on a demurrer, when the peremptory challenge had been otherwise filed timely, the court reasoning that the ruling on the demurrer was not a determination of a contested fact issue going to the merits [Fight for the Rams v. Superior Court (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 953, 958-959, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 851 (disqualified judge earlier sustained demurrer to seven causes of action with leave to amend and to three causes of action without leave to amend); see Zdonek v. Superior Court (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 849, 852, 113 Cal. Rptr. 669 (disqualified judge earlier overruled demurrer; case held incorrectly decided based on another point by same division of appellate district in Woodman v. Superior Court (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 407, 410, 241 Cal. Rptr. 818); but see Appl v. Lee Swett Livestock Co. (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 466, 469, 237 Cal. Rptr. 433 (disqualification denied when judge earlier sustained demurrer without leave to amend and Section 170.6 motion was brought following entry of judgment; court noted Section 170.6 motion surely untimely when made after judge ruled on subject issue)].

A trial judge's resolution of a summary judgment motion, or a determination of a motion to reconsider summary judgment, has been held not to involve a determination of contested fact issues relating to the merits of the action within the meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6. In ruling on a summary judgment motion the judge does not pass on or determine issues of fact, but rather decides whether a triable issue of fact exists [Bambula v. Superior Court (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 653, 655, 657, 220 Cal. Rptr. 223 (judge subject to peremptory challenge)]. At least one case has held that a ruling on a motion for summary adjudication may, at least in a complex case involving contract interpretation, constitute a determination of contested fact issues relating to the merits of the action within themeaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 [California Fed. Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Superior Court (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 267, 270-271, 234 Cal. Rptr. 413 (acknowledging that Bambula might be appropriate in a simple case, but declining to apply it when the motion for summary adjudication involved complex questions of law, including a contractual interpretation issue that would make or break the case)]. Declining to follow the holding in California Fed. Sav., another court has held that in a complex toxic tort action in which a judge previously ruled on a motion for summary adjudication, that judge has determined only legal issues and remains subject to a later peremptory challenge under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 [Zilog Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th. 1309, 1322 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 173].

The mere fact that a judge considering discovery motions and sanctions may draw upon his or her knowledge regarding the parties' past conduct in the case is insufficient to broaden the category of cases in which a peremptory challenge is considered untimely [Swift v. Superior Court (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 878, 885, 91 Cal. Rptr. 3d 504].

In a criminal case, however, a motion to disqualify pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 will not be considered timely if it is made after a pretrial hearing that involves a determination of the admissibility of evidence tending to establish the guilt or innocence of the accused, because such a hearing involves a determination of contested fact issues relating to the merits [In re Abdul Y (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 847, 857, 860-861, 182 Cal. Rptr. 146 ; but see Woods v. Superior Court (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 885, 886-887, 235 Cal. Rptr. 687 (judge erred in rejecting peremptory challenge that was filed subsequent to evidentiary hearing on motion to suppress as untimely because she had honored peremptory challenge based on identical affidavit of prejudice in another case simultaneously pending against same defendant, and granting one while rejecting other created appearance of impropriety)].

[iii] Prior Ruling on the Merits; Waiver by Judge

If a disqualification motion is untimely because of a prior ruling on the merits by the disqualified judge, the disqualified judge may not waive the timeliness requirement and accept the disqualification [Briggs v. Superior Court (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 312, 318, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445].

[d] No Motion in Continued Proceeding

[i] General Rules

A motion to disqualify for prejudice is timely if filed prior to a proceeding that is subsequent to, but separate and independent from, the principal trial or hearing [see McClenny v. Superior Court (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 677, 681, 36 Cal. Rptr. 459, 388 P.2d 691 ; Oksner v. Superior Court (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 672, 689-690, 40 Cal. Rptr. 621 (motion to vacate ex parte order made after judgment in case by one who was never party to action was not continuation of or supplement to anything previously done in action)]. However, because former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(2) requires that a motion to disqualify must be made before a trial or hearing has commenced, it follows that such a motion is not timely if filed before a subsequent proceeding that is a part or a continuation of the original action [see Jacobs v. Superior Court (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 187, 190, 1 Cal. Rptr. 9, 347 P.2d 9 (proceeding to modify custody order was continuation of original action during which custody was determined)].

A proceeding is a continuation of the original action out of which it arises if it involves "substantially the same issues" as the original action [McClenny v. Superior Court (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 677, 684, 36 Cal. Rptr. 459, 388 P.2d 691 (issues to be raised in pending contempt proceeding were substantially same as those raised in previous domestic relations action); Jacobs v. Superior Court (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 187, 191, 1 Cal. Rptr. 9, 347 P.2d 9 (issues presented by motion to modify custody order were substantially same as those presented in prior proceeding involving guardianship and custody)]. Matters raised in a subsequent proceeding that are necessarily relevant and material to the issues involved in the original action are "substantially the same" so that the proceeding is considered to be a continuation of the original action [see Oak Grove School Dist. v. City Title Ins. Co. (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 678, 700, 32 Cal. Rptr. 288 (issues raised in claim for costs and disbursements were relevant to issues involved in original eminent domain action)]. In Jacobs, above, the Supreme Court reasoned that if a disqualification were permitted under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 in matters that are continuations of a prior proceeding, it would mean that the judge who tried the case, and who is ordinarily in the best position to pass on the questions involved could, by a mere general allegation of prejudice and without any judicial determination of the facts, be disqualified from hearing such matters as motions for modification of a support order, for an injunction, and for change of custody of children. This procedure would make it possible for litigants to gamble on obtaining a favorable decision from one judge and, then, if confronted with an adverse judgment, allow them to disqualify him or her without presenting facts showing prejudice in the hope of securing a different ruling from another judge in supplementary proceedings involving substantially the same issues [Jacobs v. Superior Court (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 187, 191, 1 Cal. Rptr. 9, 347 P.2d 9].

The holding in Jacobs has been applied, restated, and amplified to hold a motion to disqualify filed prior to the subsequent hearing to be not timely in the following situation:

- A hearing on attorney's fees and sanctions has been held to be a continuation of a contested proceeding for the appointment of a conservator [Conservatorship of Durham (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 548, 553-555, 252 Cal. Rptr. 414].

- A proceeding on indirect contempt has been held to be a continuation of an original domestic relations action [McClenny v. Superior Court (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 677, 684, 36 Cal. Rptr. 459, 388 P.2d 691] .

- A proceeding to obtain modification of an order for arbitration has been held a continuation of the original proceeding [Andrews v. Joint Clerks etc. Committee (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 285, 294, 48 Cal. Rptr. 646].

- A claim for costs and disbursements has been held to be a continuation of an original eminent domain proceeding [Oak Grove School Dist. v. City Title Ins. Co. (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 678, 699, 32 Cal. Rptr. 288] .

- A hearing to determine an attorney's fees has been held a continuation of the original divorce action [Haldane v. Haldane (1962) 210 Cal. App. 2d 587, 596, 26 Cal. Rptr. 670].

- An order to show cause hearing why plaintiff should not complete a jail sentence has been held to be a continuation of a hearing on contempt [Stafford v. Russell (1962) 201 Cal. App. 2d 719, 721, 20 Cal. Rptr. 112].

- A hearing on a motion to continue an injunction in effect pending appeal has been held a continuation of the original action [Dennis v. Overholtzer (1960) 179 Cal. App. 2d 110, 111-112, 3 Cal. Rptr. 458].

Even if there is a subject matter connection between the original action and the subsequent proceeding, however, the subsequent proceeding is not necessarily a continuation of the original action for purposes of making a timely motion to disqualify. For example, the continued proceeding rule does not apply if the subsequent proceeding does not affect the validity or enforceability of any order reached by the judge in the original action or if the subsequent proceeding otherwise raises distinct legal issues, seeks different relief, includes new parties, and is broader in scope than the original action [City of Hanford v. Superior Court (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 580, 592-593, 256 Cal. Rptr. 274 (new case filed by defendant to enjoin codefendant from voluntarily taking action favorable to plaintiffs during pendency of defendants' appeal as not continuation of earlier case under appeal)]. Although two cases may involve the same parties (e.g., same employee and the same employer), if the second action arises out of later events distinct from those in the previous action, the second action does not constitute a continuation of the previous action and a party's peremptory challenge may be timely [Bravo v. Superior Court (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 1489, 1494, 57 Cal. Rptr. 3d 910] .

In addition, a motion to disqualify may be made following reversal on appeal if the same judge is assigned to the new trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2); see discussion under [e], below].

[ii] New Judge Exception

A litigant who has not previously challenged a judge, court commissioner, or referee for prejudice may, in a proceeding supplemental to the original action, challenge an official other than one who had previously heard any phase of the matter, provided that the challenge is made before the commencement of the hearing of the supplemental proceedings and within the time limitations specified [see Spector v. Superior Court (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 839, 843, 13 Cal. Rptr. 189, 361 P.2d 909 (judicial dissolution of corporation); Thompson v. Superior Court (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 702, 706-707, 23 Cal. Rptr. 841 (child custody hearing)].

[e] Motion on Retrial Not Precluded

[i] If Case Assigned to Same Judge for Retrial

A motion to disqualify may be made following reversal on appeal of a trial court's decision or final judgment if the trial judge in the prior proceeding is assigned to conduct a new trial on the matter [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2); see Peracchi v. Superior Court (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1245, 1253, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 639 (discussing rules)]. The motion must be made within 60 days after the party or the party's attorney has been notified of the assignment [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2)]. The time limit for peremptory challenges found in the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act (see Gov. Code § 68616(i)) does not apply when a judgment has been reversed on appeal and returned to the trial court for retrial. The 60-day provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 controls [Stubblefield Construction Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 762, 769, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 121] .

The party who filed the appeal that resulted in the reversal of a final judgment of a trial court may make a Seciton 170.6 motion regardless of whether that party or side had previously done so. This is an express exception to the one motion per case restriction of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(3) [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2); see Stubblefield Construction Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 762, 765, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 121]. A party who challenged a prior trial judge upon remand for a new trial may not thereafter exercise a second peremptory challenge against another judge [Casden v. Superior Court (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 417, 423, 44 Cal.Rptr.3d 474] . The party who unsuccessfully responded to the appeal may also exercise a peremptory challenge to the judge on remand, but only if that party has not previously exercised a peremptory challenge [Pfeiffer Venice Properties v. Superior Court (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 761, 764, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 400].

[ii] Motion Available Whether Prior Trial Was to Court or to Jury

A party has a right to file a peremptory challenge to the original trial judge after the reversal of a judgment or order on appeal, regardless of whether the judgment originated from a judge's decision or a jury verdict [Pandazos v. Superior Court (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 324, 326, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 669] .

[iii] Motion Available When Appellate Action Was Granted as Relief on a Writ

A party is also entitled to timely demand a new judge if a new trial is granted as part of writ relief [see Overton v. Superior Court (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 112, 115, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 274] .

[iv] Motion Available in Case of Retrial Even on Limited Issue, but Not on Remand to Perform Ministerial Act

The availability of peremptory disqualification on retrial before the same judge does not turn on whether the issues to be resolved on remand are limited, but on what the court must do to resolve them. Disqualification after remand on a limited issue is appropriate if the trial court must conduct an actual retrial, even if only on one issue. If, however, the court's function on remand is merely ministerial, for example, to recalculate interest, disqualification is not available under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2) [Hendershot v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 860, 864, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 645 (disqualification available); Stegs Investments v. Superior Court (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 572, 574, 284 Cal. Rptr. 495 (disqualification available); but see C.C. v. Superior Court (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 1019, 1022, 83 Cal.

Rptr. 3d 225 (disqualification not available where appellate court order to juvenile court was clearly for the performance of ministerial acts, i.e., entering an order denying reunification services and setting a permanent plan selection hearing); Paterno v. Superior Court (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 548, 561, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 282 (issue turns not on whether the judge is performing discretionary or ministerial tasks, but whether the postappeal hearing requires reexamination of contested issues of fact or law); see also Geddes v. Superior Court (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 417, 424, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 857 (disqualification on remand not available where summary judgment was reversed solely due to trial judge's failure to state the facts and law on which it based its decision as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 437c(g)); Peracchi v. Superior Court (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1245, 1249, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 639 ; Stubblefield Construction Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 762, 765, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 121 (discussing rules)].

For example, peremptory disqualification is available when a case is remanded to retry an issue after erroneous evidentiary rulings in the first trial had excluded evidence on that issue [see Stegs Investments v. Superior Court (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 572, 574, 284 Cal. Rptr. 495 ; see also Stubblefield Construction Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 762, 765, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 121 (peremptory disqualification after reversal of summary judgment)]. Disqualification may also be available on remand to deal with posttrial matters that involve trial court discretion or fact determination [see Hendershot v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 860, 864-865, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 645 (appropriate when judgment was reversed against defendant who had paid it pending appeal and remand order required resolution of factual issue as to whether he paid judgment for himself or on behalf of corporate defendant against which judgment was affirmed; noting that proceedings would likely involve reexamination of alter ego issue contested in the original trial)]. However, the California Supreme Court has ruled that a remand solely for resentencing in a criminal proceeding does not constitute a new trial and a disqualification motion under former Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(2) [see now Code Civ. Proc. 170.6(a)(2)] is not allowed [Peracchi v. Superior Court (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1245, 1249, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 639 (third conviction had been reversed for potential retrial and for resentencing and prosecutor chose not to retry the charge in the reversed count, leaving only resentencing)]. The California Supreme Court ruled in Peracchi that the meaning of "new trial" in the context of criminal proceedings and the nature of sentencing hearings does not permit a challenge following a remand solely for resentencing. The potential for bias is not great and is restricted by state constitutional limits on sentencing. The California Supreme Court ruled that a defendant's interest in a full and fair sentencing hearing usually is best served when the hearing is presided over by the same judge who heard the evidence at trial. The Penal Code defines "new trial" differently from the civil cases, and what constitutes a "new trial" in a civil case is not the same as in a criminal case [Peracchi v. Superior Court (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1245, 1260-1262, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 639].

[v] Motion Available When Order Appealed From Was Dismissal

The phrase "new trial" in Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2) encompasses the situation where a case is reversed and remanded by the court of appeal after the trial judge has dismissed the case [People v. Superior Court (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 391, 396-397, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 897 (trial judge's denial of Section 170.6 motion because the prior order was a dismissal and the proceeding after a remand would not be a "new trial" reversed on appeal)].

27-317 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 317.79

§ 317.79 Motion for Disqualification Divests Court of Jurisdiction

If a motion for disqualification for prejudice is timely made and supported by sufficient affidavit, declaration, or oral statement, the judge or commissioner against whom the peremptory challenge is directed is without jurisdiction to proceed with the trial or hearing [see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(1); see also Andrews v. Joint Clerks etc. Committee (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 285, 294, 48 Cal. Rptr. 646 (labor dispute)], and any subsequent order or judgment entered by that judge or commissioner is null and void [see Louisiana-Pacific Corp. v. Philo Lumber Co. (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 1212, 1221, 210 Cal. Rptr. 368 ; Woodman v. Selvage (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 390, 396, 69 Cal. Rptr. 687 (shareholder's derivative action); Andrews v. Joint Clerks etc. Committee (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 285, 294, 48 Cal. Rptr. 646 (labor dispute); Estate of Cuneo (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 381, 384, 29 Cal. Rptr. 497 (probate action)]. It should be noted that, although the subsequent orders or judgments of a disqualified judge are frequently described as absolutely void for lack of jurisdiction, they are not void in any fundamental sense but rather are voidable if a party properly raises an objection [Guedalia v. Superior Court (1989) 260 Cal. Rptr. 99 ; In re Christian J. (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 276, 280, 202 Cal. Rptr. 54] . The error of having a disqualified judge preside at a trial may be waived, and a party who consents to proceed without objection may not later attack the judgment as void for lack of subject matter jurisdiction [Stebbins v. White (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 769, 782-783, 235 Cal. Rptr. 656 (party withdrew motion to disqualify)].

The challenged judge may, however, rule on the timeliness of the motion and reject the motion if it is not timely [Micro/Vest Corp. v. Superior Court (1984) 150 Cal. App. 3d 1085, 1089, 198 Cal. Rptr. 404]. No judge who has been disqualified under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(1) can hear any matter that involves a contested issue of law or fact. Disqualification is not limited to the particular motion, but deprives the judge of jurisdiction in all further contests in that action [Brown v. Swickard (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 820, 830-831, 209 Cal. Rptr. 844] . A judge disqualified under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6, however, is enjoined by the statute only from trying the case or hearing any matter involving a disputed issue of law or fact. For example, because a settlement conference is not a hearing in which contested issues of law or fact are determined, a judge who has been challenged under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 is not disqualified from conducting the settlement conference in the case in question [Mezzetti v. Superior Court (1979) 94

Cal. App. 3d 987, 990, 993, 156 Cal. Rptr. 802 ; see People v. Wilks (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 460, 466, 146 Cal. Rptr. 364, 578 P.2d 1369 (dictum in accord)].

[2] Review by Writ of Mandate

An order on a peremptory challenge to a judge is not an appealable order. It may be reviewed only by writ of mandate from the appropriate court of appeal and sought only by the parties to the proceeding. The petition for the writ must be filed and served within 10 days after service of written notice of the entry of the court's order determining the question of disqualification [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(d); People v. Hull (1991) 1 Cal. 4th 266, 276, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 526, 820 P. 2d 1036 (Section 170.3(d) applies to peremptory challenges as well as challenges for cause); see also Sears, Roebuck and Co. v. National Union Fire Ins. Co. of Pittsburgh (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 1342, 1349, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 717 (appellate court has the discretion to treat an appeal of a decision on a peremptory challenge as a petition for writ of mandate under extraordinary circumstances)]. The Hull decision resolves a conflict among the courts of appeal over whether mandate is the exclusive remedy for reviewing both challenges for cause and peremptory challenges [compare Guedalia v. Superior Court (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1156, 1160, 260 Cal. Rptr. 99 (mandate is exclusive remedy for reviewing peremptory challenges under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6) with Woodman v. Superior Court (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 407, 414, 241 Cal. Rptr. 818 (mandate is exclusive only with respect to challenges for cause)]. Mandate in accordance with Section 170.3(d) is the exclusive remedy whether the challenge was denied or granted [In re Sheila B. (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 187, 194-195, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 482] .

Only the parties to the action may file a petition for writ of mandate; the disqualified judge may not [Curle v. Superior Court (2001) 24 Cal. 4th 1057, 1059, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 751].

For further discussion of Section 170.3(d), see § 317.52.

D. Peremptory Disqualification of Judges Under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6

§ 317.80 Reassignment of Trial or Hearing to Another Judge

Once a motion to disqualify for prejudice is duly presented and an affidavit, declaration, or oral statement is made, thereupon and without any further act or proof, the judge supervising the master calendar must assign another judge, court commissioner, or referee to try the cause or hear the matter. If there is no master calendar, the trial or hearing must be assigned or transferred to another judge, court commissioner, or referee of the court in which the trial or matter is pending [for form, see § 317.213]. If there is no other judge, commissioner, or referee of the court, the Chairman of the Judicial Council must assign some other judge, commissioner, or referee to try the cause or hear the matter, as the case may be, as promptly as possible [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(3)]. In this latter situation, the clerk must notify the Chairman of the Judicial Council that there is no judge, commissioner, or referee to hear the case. The chairman must then assign a judge, commissioner, or referee to hear the action or proceeding at the time fixed or, if no time has been fixed or good cause appears for changing the time, the judge, commissioner, or referee must fix a time for hearing in accordance with law and rules and hear the action or proceeding at the time so fixed [see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.8].

If a judge, commissioner, or referee is disqualified pursuant to a challenge under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6, not only is it the duty of the court to assign another judge, commissioner, or referee if one is available or, if none is available to procure his or her assignment through the Chairman of the Judicial Council, but also the period between disqualification of the judge, commissioner, or referee and assignment of the trial or action to another is to be disregarded in considering any subsequent motion to dismiss for delay in bringing the action to trial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 583.340; see also Nail v. Osterholm (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 682, 686, 91 Cal. Rptr. 908] .

When a motion for peremptory disqualification is duly made, with a sufficient supporting affidavit, by a cross defendant, severance of the cross action, with recusal of the challenged judge in only the severed action, is improper. There is no statutory authority to sever the cross action; rather, Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 requires that the entire case must be assigned to another judge [Sunkyong Trading (H.K.) Ltd. v. Superior Court (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 282, 287-290, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 504] .

While a judge that has been disqualified has no authority to act on substantive matters, the new judge assigned to the case may hear a motion for reconsideration under *Code Civ. If the new judge finds the disqualification is erroneous, the disqualified judge's authority to rule on the matter is reinstated [*Geddes v. Superior Court (2005) 126 Cal. E. Judicial Administration

§ 317.83 California's Judicial Agencies

[1] Judicial Council of California

[a] Governing Law

The authorization for the Judicial Council is contained in Cal. Const., art. VI, § 6, which also specifies the Council's membership (along with terms of office) and functions. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 10.1-10.71 contain the Council's mission statement, guiding principles, and nominating procedures, and describe the function and duties of each of the Council's committees.

Judicial Administration Rules relevant to the Judicial Council are codified at Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1 et seq., and Standards of Judicial Administration are codified at Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 2.1 et seq.

[b] Authority/Scope

Chaired by the Chief Justice, the Judicial Council is responsible for improving the administration of justice in California. The Judicial Council sets the direction for improving the quality of justice and advancing the consistent, independent, impartial, and accessible administration of justice by the judicial branch for the benefit of the public. The Judicial Council Governance Policies, located in Appendix D of the California Rules of Court, describe the Council's purposes; responsibilities; policymaking role; members and officers and their roles; internal organization; relationship with its advisory groups; relationship with the Administrative Director of the Courts and with the Administrative Office of the Courts, the staff agency that he or she directs; and internal policies and procedures [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1(a)(3)]. The Council establishes policies and sets priorities for the judicial branch of government. It may seek advice and recommendations from committees, task forces, and the public [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1(a)(2)].

The Judicial Council develops judicial branch goals in its strategic and operational plans. At six-year intervals, the Council develops and approves a long-range strategic plan. At three-year intervals, the Council develops and approves an operational plan for the implementation of the strategic plan. Each plan is developed in consultation with branch stakeholders and justice system partners [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1(c)].

The Council performs its constitutional and other functions with the support of its staff agency the Administrative Office of the Courts, under the leadership of the Administrative Director of the Courts, who serves as Secretary of the Judicial Council [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1(d)].

[c] Duties

The constitutional authority and duties of the Judicial Council are to:

- Survey judicial business [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 6(d); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1(b)(1)];

- Make recommendations to the courts [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 6(d); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1(b)(2)];

- Make annual recommendations to the Governor and the Legislature [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 6(d); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1(b)(3)];

- Adopt rules for court administration and rules of practice and procedure that are not inconsistent with statute [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 6(d); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1(b)(4)]; and

- Perform other functions prescribed by statute [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 6(d); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1(b)(5)].

Pursuant to Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.101(b), the Judicial Council must also perform the following duties:

- Establish responsible fiscal priorities that best enable the judicial branch to achieve its goals and the Judicial Council to achieve its mission [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.101(b)(1)];

- Develop the budget of the judicial branch based on the priorities established and the needs of the courts [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.101(b)(2)];

- Communicate and advocate the budget of the judicial branch to the Governor and the Legislature [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.101(b)(3)];

- Allocate funds in a manner that ensures equal access to justice for all citizens of the state, ensures the ability of the courts to carry out their functions effectively, promotes implementation of statewide policies as established by statute and the Judicial Council, and promotes implementation of efficiencies and cost-saving measures [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.101(b)(4)];

- Resolve appeals on budget and allocation issues [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.101(b)(5)]; and

- Ensure that the budget of the judicial branch remains within the limits of the appropriation set by the Legislature [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.101(b)(6)].

[d] Membership

The Judicial Council consists of the Chief Justice and one other justice of the Supreme Court, three justices of Courts of Appeal, 10 judges of superior courts, two nonvoting court administrators, and such other nonvoting members as determined by the voting membership of the council, each appointed by the Chief Justice to three-year terms; four members of the State Bar appointed by its governing body to three-year terms; and one member of each house of the Legislature appointed as provided by the house [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 6(a); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.2(a)(1)].

Council membership terminates if a member ceases to hold the position that qualified the member for appointment. A vacancy must be filled by the appointing power for the remainder of the term [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 6(b); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.2(a)(2)].

[e] Advisory Committees/Task Forces

The Judicial Council carries out its mission primarily through the work of its advisory committees and task forces. The chair of the Council may appoint advisory committees and task forces, comprising judges, court officials, attorneys, and members of the public, to advise the Council in studying the condition of court business, improving judicial administration, and performing other Council responsibilities. Advisory committees monitor areas of continuing significance to the justice system, whereas task forces handle particular projects or proposals. Both make recommendations to the Council. The Judicial Council currently maintains the following advisory committees and task forces:

Advisory Committees

- Access and Fairness
- Administrative Presiding Justices
- Appellate
- Civil and Small Claims
- Civil Jury Instructions
- Criminal Jury Instructions
- Center for Judicial Education and Research (CJER) Governing Committee
- Collaborative Justice Courts
- Court Executives
- Court Interpreters
- Court Technology
- Criminal Law
- Family and Juvenile Law
- Judicial Service
- Probate and Mental Health
- Traffic
- Trial Court Presiding Judges

Task Forces

- Appellate Indigent Defense Oversight
- Children in Foster Care
- Court Facilities Transitional
- Domestic Violence Practice and Procedure
- Judicial Ethics Issues
- Legal Services Trust Fund
- Probate Conservatorship
- Science and the Law
- Self-Represented Litigants

[f] Internal Committees

Under the Judicial Council's own governance principles, each of its members is appointed by the Chief Justice to serve on one or more internal committees. The following committees consider matters and then report to the Council:

- The Executive and Planning Committee oversees the Council's strategic planning process; oversees the Council's policies and procedures regarding court facilities, including development of policies, procedures, and guidelines for facilities, site selection, and capital appropriations; ensures that proposed judicial branch budgets, allocation schedules, and related budgetary issues are brought to the Judicial Council in a timely manner and in a format that permits the Council to establish funding priorities in the context of the Council's annual program objectives, statewide policies, and long-range strategic and operational plans; establishes agendas for Council meetings; develops a schedule of topics that the council intends to consider for making policy and receives updates from the Administrative Director of the Courts or Administrative Office of the Courts staff; makes recommendations to the Council regarding governance and oversees the Council's review of its governance policies and principles; recommends candidates to the Chief Justice for appointment to the Judicial Council and its advisory bodies; oversees advisory committees and task forces as assigned by the Chief Justice; and promotes effective policies for communications between the Judicial Council and the judicial branch [Cal Rules of Ct., Rule 10.11(b)-(j)]. The Committee may take action on behalf of the Council between Council meetings, except for adopting rules of court, standards of judicial administration, and forms; making appointments that by statute must be made by the Council; and taking actions that are delegated to other council internal committees [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.11(a)].

- The Policy Coordination and Liaison Committee takes a position on behalf of the Council on pending legislative bills, makes recommendations to the Council on all proposals for Council-sponsored legislation and on an annual legislative agenda, and represents the Council's position before the Legislature and other bodies or agencies and acting as liaison with other governmental entities, the Bar, the media, the judiciary, and the public regarding Council-sponsored legislation, pending legislative bills, and the Council's legislative positions and agendas; builds consensus on issues of importance to the judicial branch consistent with the Council's strategic plan with entities and individuals outside of the branch; develops an annual plan for communication and interaction with other branches and levels of government, components of the justice system, the Bar, the media, and the public; and may direct any advisory committee to provide it with analysis or recommendations on any pending or proposed legislation, and reviews all recommendations from advisory committees regarding pending or proposed legislation [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.12].

- The Rules and Projects Committee establishes and maintains a rule-making process that is understandable and accessible to justice system partners and the public. The Committee identifies the need for new rules, standards, and forms; establishes and publishes procedures for the proposal, adoption, and approval of rules of court, forms, and standards of judicial administration that ensure that relevant input from the public is solicited and considered; reviews proposed rules, standards, and forms and circulates those proposals for public comment in accordance with its procedures and guidelines; provides guidelines for the style and format of rules, forms, and standards and ensures that proposals are consistent with the guidelines; ensures that proposals for new or amended rules, standards, and forms do not conflict with statutes or other rules; and determines whether proposals for new or amended rules, standards, or forms have complied with its procedures [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.13(a)]. The Committee also establishes and maintains a process for obtaining public comment on the jury instructions and assists the council in making informed decisions about jury instructions [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.13(b)].

- The Litigation Management Committee oversees litigation and claims against trial court judges, appellate court justices, the Judicial Council, the Administrative Office of the Courts, the trial and appellate courts, and the employees of those bodies in which the likely monetary exposure is $100,000 or more or that raise issues of significance to the judicial branch by reviewing and approving any proposed settlement, stipulated judgment, or offer of judgment; and consulting with the Administrative Director or General Counsel, on request, regarding important strategy issues [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.14(a)]. The Committee also makes recommendations to the Judicial Council for policies governing the management of litigation involving the courts [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.14(b)] and resolves written objections described in Cal Rules of Ct., Rule 10.202(d) presented by the Office of the General Counsel [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.14(c)].

[2] Administrative Office of the Courts

[a] Governing Law

The Judicial Council is constitutionally authorized to appoint an Administrative Director of the Courts [Cal. Const., Art. VI, § 6(a)]. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.81 authorizes the Director to employ, organize, and direct a staff, known as the Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC).

[b] Duties

The AOC assists the Council and its chair in carrying out their duties under the Constitution and laws of the state [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.81(b)]. It provides professional services to the courts and the Council, including programs for implementing trial court funding and unification, and legal services, including litigation management. It also provides various programs to improve justice administration and to enhance court technology, judicial branch education, and human resources support.

The Administrative Director of the Courts implements the directives of the Judicial Council and must [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.101(d)]:

- Develop policies and procedures for the creation and implementation of a yearly budget for the judicial branch [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.101(d)(1)];

- Present the judicial branch budget in negotiations with the Governor and the Legislature [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.101(d)(2)]; and

- Allocate to the trial courts, on behalf of the Judicial Council, a portion of the prior fiscal year baseline allocation for the trial courts following approval of the State Budget and before the allocation of state trial court funding by the Judicial Council. The portion of the prior fiscal year baseline allocation that may be so allocated is limited to the amount estimated to be necessary for the operation of the courts pending action by the Judicial Council, and may not exceed 25 percent of the prior fiscal year baseline allocation for each trial court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.101(d)(3)].

The AOC is organized based on functional responsibilities that are rooted in judicial administration and court operations areas. Although these responsibilities are carried out across the organization, certain roles and activities are department specific. Current AOC departments include the following:

- The Appellate and Trial Court Judicial Services Unit manages the court-appointed counsel program, provides comprehensive and timely staff support services to the Administrative Presiding Justices Advisory Committee and its subcommittees, acts as a liaison to appellate court justices and staffs, and implements the policies of the Chief Justice for the Assigned Judges Program. The unit also manages the administrative activities related to processing petitions for civil case coordination and compiles and disseminates the vexatious litigant's list.

- The Center for Families, Children & the Courts (CFCC) works to improve the quality of justice and services to meet the diverse needs of families, youth, children, and self-represented litigants in the California courts. Many of CFCC's projects relate to family, juvenile, child support, custody, visitation, and domestic violence law and procedure. Ongoing projects include developing rules, forms, and standards; providing training, education, and grants; and coordinating research and statistical analysis. The center also initiates projects involving issues of juvenile dependency, victim reconciliation, and court access.

- The Education Division/Center for Judicial Education and Research (CJER) serves as the council's educational resource for the judicial branch, offering a comprehensive educational program to judges, court staffs, and the agency. The division offers a comprehensive statewide educational program to judges and judicial branch staff at the superior and appellate court levels. The division also provides the AOC with editing and graphics services, copy and production, mail, transportation, travel, conference services, clerical assistance, and records retention through its Administrative Services Unit.

- The Executive Office Programs Division provides support for the Executive Office and other parts of the agency, and includes the Center for Court Research, Planning and Effective Practices; Court Programs Services; Office of Communications; and Secretariat.

- The Finance Division provides an integrated program of budget planning, asset management, accounting, procurement, contract management, and facility coordination to the judicial branch and the superior courts.

- The Office of Court Construction and Management enhances the administration of justice by providing responsible and efficient professional stewardship of California's court facilities; promotes excellence in the built environment with the aim of facilitating equal access to justice; and provides leadership in the design and management of judicial architecture.

- The Office of the General Counsel provides quality, timely, and ethical legal advice and services to the Chief Justice, the Judicial Council and its committees and task forces, the AOC, and the courts. The office has two major functions: (1) house counsel and (2) rules and projects.

- The Office of Governmental Affairs, based in Sacramento, promotes and maintains positive relations with the legislative and executive branches and advocates on legislative and budget matters on behalf of the council.

The AOC's three regional offices, covering the northern/central, southern, and northern coastal regions of the state, facilitate the delivery of services and improve communication between the AOC at the state level and courts at the local level. Their primary focus is on operations, especially in the areas of technology, finance, legal issues, and human resources.

[3] Commission on Judicial Appointments

[a] Governing Law

The Commission on Judicial Appointments is a constitutionally established body [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 7]. Guidelines for the Commission are not adopted as part of the Cal. Rules of Ct., but are often printed following the Rules.

[b] Authority/Scope

The Commission convenes after the Governor nominates or appoints a person to fill a vacancy on either the Supreme Court or a Court of Appeal. One or more public hearings are held by the commission to review the appointee's qualifications. The Commission may confirm or veto the appointment. No appellate appointment is final until the Commission has filed its approval with the Secretary of State [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 16].

[c] Membership

The Commission on Judicial Appointments consists of the Chief Justice, the Attorney General, and the presiding justice of the court of appeal of the affected district or, if there are two or more presiding justices, the one who has presided longest or, when a nomination or appointment to the Supreme Court is to be considered, the presiding justice who has presided longest on any court of appeal [Cal. Const., Art. VI, § 7].

[4] Commission on Judicial Performance

[a] Governing Law

The Commission on Judicial Performance was established by voter referendum in 1960. The Commission's authority is set forth in Cal. Const., art. VI, §§ 8, 18, 18.1, 18.5. The Commission also is subject to Gov. Code §§ 68701-68755. Commission determinations on disability retirement applications are governed by Gov. Code §§ 75060-75064 and §§ 75560-75564.

In addition, the Commission is responsible for enforcement of the restrictions on judges' receipt of gifts and honoraria, set forth in Code of Civ. Proc. § 170.9.

[b] Cross Reference

For further discussion of the Commission on Judicial Performance, see § 317.86.

Chapter 317 JUDGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Judicial Administration

27-317 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 317.84

§ 317.84 Judicial Administration Rules of Court and Standards of Judicial Administration

[1] Governing Law

The Judicial Administration Rules are codified at Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1 et seq. The Standards of Judicial Administration are codified at Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 2.1 et seq. [see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.1 for Standards for Judicial Administration].

[2] Role of Judiciary in Community

Judicial participation in community outreach activities should be considered an official judicial function to promote public understanding of and confidence in the administration of justice. This function should be performed in a manner consistent with the California Code of Judicial Ethics [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.5].

[3] Minimum Education Requirements, Expectations, and Recommendations

[a] Goals

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule10.452 et seq. set forth minimum education requirements, expectations, and recommendations for justices, judges, subordinate judicial officers, and court personnel. The minimum education requirements, expectations, and recommendations set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 10.461-10.479 are intended to achieve two complementary goals:

- To ensure that both individuals who are new to the bench or the court and those who are experienced on the bench or court but are beginning a new assignment or role obtain education on the tasks, skills, abilities, and knowledge necessary to be successful in the new roles [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.452(b)(1)]; and

- To establish broad parameters, based on time, for continuing education for individuals who are experienced both on the bench or court and in their assignments or roles, while preserving the ability of the individual, working with the individual who oversees his or her work, to determine the appropriate content and provider [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.452(b)(2)].

[b] Relationship of Minimum Education Requirements and Expectations to Education Recommendations

The education requirements and expectations set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 10.461-10.462 and 10.471-10.474 are minimums. Justices, judges, and subordinate judicial officers should participate in more judicial education than is required and expected, related to each individual's responsibilities and particular judicial assignment or assignments and in accordance with the judicial education recommendations set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.469. Additional education requirements related to the specific responsibility of hearing family law matters are set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.463. Clerk/administrators, court executive officers, and other court personnel should participate in more education than is required, related to each individual's responsibilities and in accordance with the education recommendations set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.479.

[4] Judicial Administration Rules Applicable to All Courts

[a] Judicial Sabbatical Pilot Program

Sabbatical leave is a privilege available to jurists by statute. The objective of sabbatical leave is to facilitate study, teaching, research, or another activity that will benefit the administration of justice and enhance judges' performance of their duties [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.502(a)].

A judge or justice is eligible to apply for a paid sabbatical under Gov. Code § 77213 if he or she has served for at least seven years as a California judicial officer, including service as a subordinate judicial officer [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.502(b)(1)(A)], he or she has not taken a sabbatical within seven years of the date of the proposed sabbatical [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.502(b)(1)(B)], and he or she agrees to continue to serve as a judicial officer for at least three years after the sabbatical [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.502(b)(1)(C)].

Any judge is eligible to apply for an unpaid sabbatical under Gov. Code § 68554 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.502(b)(2)].

[b] Use of Recycled Paper by All Courts

All courts must use recycled paper for all purposes except for uses for which recycled paper is not practically available [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.503].

[c] Smoking Prohibited in All Courts

Smoking is prohibited in all court facilities [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.504(b)], defined as courthouses and all areas of multipurpose buildings used for court operations [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.504(a)]. Conspicuous no-smoking signs must be placed in all court facilities [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.504(c)].

[d] Judicial Robes

The judicial robe required by Gov. Code § 68110 must be black, must extend in front and in back from the collar and shoulders to below the knees, and must have sleeves to the wrists [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.505(a)]. The judicial robe must conform to the style customarily worn in courts in the United States [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.505(b)].

[5] Trial Court Administration

[a] General Rules on Trial Court Management

[i] Superior Court Management

The provisions in Cal. Rules of Ct., Tit. 10, Div. 4 establish a system of trial court management that promotes equal access to the courts [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.601(a)(1)]; establishes decentralized management of trial court resources [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.601(a)(2)]; and enables the trial courts to operate in an efficient, effective, and accountable manner in serving the people of California [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.601(a)(3)]. The rules are intended to ensure the authority and responsibility of the superior courts to do the following, consistent with statutes, rules of court, and standards of judicial administration:

- Manage their day-to-day operations with sufficient flexibility to meet the needs of those served by the courts [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.601(b)(1)];

- Establish the means of selecting presiding judges, assistant presiding judges, executive officers or court administrators, clerks of court, and jury commissioners [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.601(b)(2)];

- Manage their personnel systems, including the adoption of personnel policies [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.601(b)(3)];

- Manage their budget and fiscal operations, including allocating funding and moving funding between function or line items [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.601(b)(4)];

- Provide input to the Judicial Council, the Trial Court Budget Working Group, and the Administrative Office of the Courts on the trial court budget process [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.601(b)(5)]; and

- Develop and implement processes and procedures to improve court operations and responsiveness to the public [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.601(b)(6)].

[ii] Selection and Term of Presiding Judge

Each court that has three or more judges must select a presiding judge. Selection of the presiding judge may be by secret ballot. The court should establish an internal local rule or policy for the selection of the presiding judge and assistant presiding judge, if any [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.602(a)(1)].

In a court having two judges, the selection of the presiding judge must conform to Gov. Code § 69508.5. If selection cannot be agreed upon on and neither judge has at least four years of experience, the senior judge must hold the office of presiding judge until both judges have at least four years of experience [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.602(a)(2)].

A presiding judge must have at least four years of experience as a judge, unless this requirement is waived by a majority vote of the judges of the court. Nomination and selection of a presiding judge should take into consideration the judge's management and administrative ability; interest in serving in the position; experience and familiarity with a variety of trial court assignments; ability to motivate and educate other judicial officers and court personnel; ability to evaluate the strengths of the court's bench officers and make assignments based on those strengths as well as the best interests of the public and the court; and other appropriate factors [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.602(b)].

A presiding judge in a court with two judges must be elected for a term of not less than one year. A presiding judge in a court with three or more judges must be elected for an initial term of not less than two years. The presiding judge may be elected for additional terms. The court may change the duration of the initial or additional term by local rule or policy so long as the initial term is not less than the duration specified in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.602. A presiding judge may be removed by a majority vote of the judges of the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.602(c)].

The court may elect an assistant presiding judge [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.602(d)(1)]. If the court's internal local rule or policy does not provide for the designation of an acting presiding judge to serve if the presiding judge is absent or unable to act, the presiding judge must designate one [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.602(d)(2)]. The court should provide the assistant presiding judge with training to foster an orderly succession to the office of presiding judge [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.602(d)(3)].

To the extent possible, the judicial caseload should be adjusted to provide the presiding judge with sufficient time and resources to devote to the management and administrative duties of the office [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.602(e)].

[iii] Authority and Duties of Presiding Judge

The presiding judge is responsible, with the assistance of the court executive officer, for leading the court, establishing policies, and allocating resources in a manner that promotes access to justice for all members of the public, provides a forum for the fair and expeditious resolution of disputes, maximizes the use of judicial and other resources, increases efficiency in court operations, and enhances service to the public. The presiding judge is responsible for:

- Ensuring the effective management and administration of the court, consistent with any rules, policies, strategic plan, or budget adopted by the Judicial Council or the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(a)(1)];

- Ensuring that the duties of all judges specified under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.608 are timely and orderly performed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(a)(2)]; and

- Ensuring that the court has adopted written policies and procedures allowing the presiding judge to perform efficiently the administrative duties of that office [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(a)(3)].

The presiding judge is authorized to assign judges to departments and designate supervising judges for divisions, districts, or branch courts; apportion the business of the court, including assigning and reassigning cases to departments; call meetings of the judges; appoint standing and special committees of judges; act as the spokesperson for the court; authorize and direct expenditures from the court's Trial Court Operations Fund; and perform all acts necessary to accomplish the duties specified by the rules of court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(b)(1)]. No local rule or policy may limit the authority of the presiding judge as granted in the California Rules of Court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(b)(2)].

The presiding judge has ultimate authority to make judicial assignments. The duties of the presiding judge are set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(c), and include the following:

- Designate a judge to preside in each department, including a master calendar judge when appropriate, and designate a presiding judge of the juvenile division and a supervising judge for each division, district, or branch court. In making judicial assignments, the presiding judge must take into account the needs of the public and the court, as they relate to the efficient and effective management of the court's calendar; the knowledge and abilities demanded by the assignment; the judge's judicial and nonjudicial experience, including specialized training or education; the judge's interests; the need for continuity in the assignment; the desirability of exposing the judge to a particular type of assignment; and other appropriate factors. Judicial assignments must not be based solely or primarily on seniority [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(c)(1)(A)];

- Assign to a master calendar judge any of the duties that may more appropriately be performed by that department [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(c)(1)(B)];

- Supervise the court's calendar, apportion the business of the court among the several departments of the court as equally as possible, and publish for general distribution copies of a current calendar specifying the judicial assignments of the judges and the times and places assigned for hearings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(c)(1)(C)];

- Reassign cases between departments as convenience or necessity requires [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(c)(1)(D)];

- Supervise and monitor the number of causes under submission before the judges of the court and ensure that no cause under submission remains undecided and pending for more than 90 days [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(c)(3)];

- Notify the Commission on Judicial Performance of:

  - A judge's substantial failure to perform judicial duties, including but not limited to any habitual neglect of duty, persistent refusal to carry out assignments as assigned by the presiding judge, or persistent refusal to carry out the directives of the presiding judge as authorized by the rules of court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(c)(4)(A)(i)]; or

  - Any absences caused by disability totaling more than 90 court days in a 12-month period, excluding absences authorized under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(c)(2) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(c)(4)(A)(ii)];

- Be responsible for the recruitment, training, supervision, approval, and performance of temporary judges [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(c)(4)(D)];

- Establish responsible budget priorities and submit budget requests that will best enable the court to achieve its goals [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(c)(6)(B)];

- Establish a process for consulting with the judges of the court and may call meetings of the judges as needed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(c)(7)];

- Prepare, with the assistance of appropriate court committees and appropriate input from the community, a long-range strategic plan that is consistent with the plan and policies of the Judicial Council [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(c)(9)(A)];

- Ensure the timely preparation of records on appeal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(c)(10)]; and

- Prepare, with the assistance of appropriate court committees, proposed local rules to expedite and facilitate court business in accordance with Gov. Code § 68071 and Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.100, 3.20, and 10.613 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(c)(11)].

[iv] Executive Committee

In accordance with the internal policies of the court, an executive committee may be established by the court to advise the presiding judge or to establish policies and procedures for the internal management of the court. An executive committee may be appointed by the presiding judge to advise the presiding judge [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.605].

[v] Duties of All Judges

Each judge must hear all assigned matters unless he or she is disqualified [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.608(1)(A)] or he or she has stated in writing the reasons for refusing to hear a cause assigned for trial, and the presiding judge, supervising judge, or master calendar judge has concurred [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.608(1)(B)]. Each judge must also:

- Immediately notify the master calendar judge or the presiding judge upon on the completion or continuation of a trial or any other matter assigned for hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.608(2)];

- Request approval of the presiding judge for any intended absence of one-half day or more, within a reasonable time before the intended absence [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.608(3)];

- Follow the court's personnel plan in dealing with employees [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.608(4)]; and

- Follow directives of the presiding judge in matters of court management and administration, as authorized by the rules of court and the local rules and internal policies of the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.608(5)].

[vi] Duties of Court Executive Officer

Acting under the direction of the presiding judge, the court executive officer is responsible for overseeing the management and administration of the nonjudicial operations of the court and allocating resources in a manner that promotes access to justice for all members of the public, provides a forum for the fair and expeditious resolution of disputes, maximizes the use of judicial and other resources, increases efficiency in court operations, and enhances service to the public [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.610(b)].

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.610(c) lists the duties that the court executive officer must perform under the direction of the presiding judge and consistent with the law and rules of court, where they are not inconsistent with the authorized duties of the clerk of the court. Those duties include the following:

- Provide general direction to and supervision of the employees of the court, and draft for court approval and administer a personnel plan for the court employees that complies with Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.670 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.610(c)(1)];

- Make recommendations to the presiding judge on budget priorities, and prepare and implement court budgets [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.610(c)(2)]; and

- Manage the jury system in the most efficient and effective way [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.610(c)(6)].

[vii] Nondiscrimination in Court Appointments

Each court should select attorneys, arbitrators, mediators, referees, masters, receivers, and other persons appointed by the court on the basis of merit. No court may discriminate in such selection on the basis of gender, race, ethnicity, disability, sexual orientation, or age [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.611].

[viii] Use of Gender-Neutral Language

Each court must use gender-neutral language in all new local rules, forms, and documents and must review and revise those now in use to ensure that they are written in gender neutral language [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.612].

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.613 sets forth provisions for adopting, filing, distributing, and maintaining local court rules.

Among other thing, the section requires that each court must make its local rules available for inspection and copying in every location of the court that generally accepts filing of papers [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.613(b)]. Except for rules specifying the time of hearing and similar calendaring matters, the court must distribute each proposed rule for comment at least 45 days before it is adopted [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.613(g)(1)]. Each court must periodically review its local rules and repeal rules that have become outdated, unnecessary, or inconsistent with stateside rules or statutes [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.613(h)].

[x] Local Court Forms

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.614 sets forth requirements for local forms. Among other things, the section requires that the court must make copies of its forms available in the clerk's office or, as an alternative, make its forms available in a booklet from which photocopies of the forms may be made [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.614(2)]. Each court must make available a current list of forms adopted or approved by that court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.614(5)].

[xi] Public Access to Administrative Decisions of Trial Courts

Each trial court must seek input from the public before making the following decisions:

- Recommendations from the trial courts concerning judicial branch budget priorities [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.620(b)];

- Recommendations on items to be included in the judicial branch budget that is submitted annually to the Governor and the Legislature [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.620(c)];

- Request for permission from the Administrative Office of the Courts to reallocate budget funds from one program component to another in an amount greater than $400,000 or 10% percentof the total trial court budget, whichever is greater [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.620(d)(1)];

- The execution of a contract without competitive bidding in an amount greater than $400,000 or 10 percent of the total trial court budget, whichever is greater (not applicable to a contract entered into between a court and a county that is provided for by statute) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.620(d)(2)];

- The planned permanent closure of any court location for an entire day or for more than one-third of the hours the court location was previously open for either court sessions or filing of papers [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.620(d)(3)]; and

- The cessation at a court location of the Family Law Facilitator or the Family Law Information Center [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.620(d)(4)].

When a trial court is required to seek public input under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.620, it must provide public notice of the request at least 15 court days before the date on which the decision is to be made or the action is to be taken [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.620(e)]. Any interested person or entity who wishes to comment must send the comment to the court in writing or electronically unless the court requires that all public comment be sent either by e-mail or through a response system on the Court's web site [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.620(e)]. For good cause, in the event an urgent action is required, a trial court may take immediate action if it give notice of the action as provided in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.620(f), states the reasons for urgency, and gives any public input received to the person or entity making the decision [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.620(e)].

[xii] Reporting of Reciprocal Assignment Orders

A "reciprocal assignment order" is an order issued by the Chief Justice that permits judges in courts of different counties to serve in each other's courts. A court must report to the Administrative Office of the Courts, on a monthly basis, each assignment of a judge from another county to its court under a reciprocal assignment order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.630].

[b] Trial Court Management of Human Resources

[i] Trial Court Employee Labor Relations

The Court Employee Labor Relations Rules are set forth at Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 10.650-10.659. The purpose of these rules is to extend to trial court employees the right, and to require trial courts, to meet and confer in good faith over matters that the court, as opposed to the county, has authority to determine that are within the scope of representation [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.651]. Matters not included within the scope of representation are:

- The merits and administration of the court system [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.654(b)(1)];
- Coordination, consolidation, and merger of trial courts and support staff [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.654(b)(2)];
- Automation, including but not limited to fax filing, electronic recording, and implementation of information systems [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.654(b)(3)];
- Design, construction, and location of court facilities [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.65(b)(4)];
- Delivery of court services [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.654(b)(5)]; and
- Hours of operation of the courts and court system [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.654(b)(6)].

Impact from the matters set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.654(b) must be included within the scope of representation as those matters affect wages, hours, terms, and conditions of employment of court employees, to the extent such matters are within the court's authority to determine [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.654(c)].

[ii] Other Human Resources Rules

Provisions regarding trial court personnel plans are set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.670. The rule establishes the authority and responsibility of the superior courts, on a countywide basis, to create and implement a system of personnel management designed to achieve lawful, uniform, and fair employment practices and procedures [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.670(a)]. The superior courts of each county must establish a single personnel plan on a countywide basis, consistent with applicable statutes, rules, and standards of judicial administration [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.670(b)]. The personnel plan must ensure that treatment of employees complies with current law, and should address the elements set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.670(c).

[c] Subordinate Judicial Officers

[i] Role of Subordinate Judicial Officers

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.700, specifying the role of subordinate judicial officers, applies to all subordinate judicial officers except those acting as child support commissioners under Fam. Code § 4251 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.700(a)]. The primary role of subordinate judicial officers is to perform subordinate judicial duties. However, a presiding judge may assign a subordinate judicial officer to sit as a temporary judge where lawful, if the presiding judge determines that, because of a shortage of judges, it is necessary for the effective administration of justice [Cal. Rules of

Ct., Rule 10.700(b)].

[ii] Qualifications and Education of Subordinate Judicial Officers

Generally, a person is ineligible to be a subordinate judicial officer unless the person is a member of the State Bar and:

(1) Has been admitted to practice law in California for at least 10 years or, upon on a finding of good cause by the presiding judge, for at least five years [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.701(b)(1) ; or

(2) Is serving as a subordinate judicial officer in a trial court as of January 1, 2003 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.701(b)(2)].

However, a person appointed as a juvenile referee or as a hearing officer under Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 247, 255, or 5256.1 must meet the qualification requirements established by those sections. Such a person is ineligible to exercise the powers and perform the duties of another type of subordinate judicial officer unless he or she meets the qualifications established in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.701(b) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.701(d)].

A subordinate judicial officer must comply with the education requirements of any position to which he or she is assigned, even if it is not his or her principal assignment. Such requirements include the following, as applicable: Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 5.30, 5.340, and 10.501 and Welf. & Inst. Code § 304.7 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.701(c)].

[iii] Subordinate Judicial Officers: Practice of Law

A subordinate judicial officer may practice law only to the extent permitted by the Code of Judicial Ethics [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.702].

[iv] Complaints Against Subordinate Judicial Officers

A court that employs a subordinate judicial officer must use the procedures in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703 for processing complaints against the subordinate judicial officer if the complaint alleges conduct that if alleged against a judge would be within the jurisdiction of the Commission on Judicial Performance under Cal. Const. art. VI, § 18 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(c)(1)]. If a complaint against a subordinate judicial officer does not allege conduct that would be within the jurisdiction of the Commission, the court must process the complaint following local procedures adopted under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(c)(4)(C) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(c)(2)].

The presiding judge must ensure that the court processes each complaint promptly. To the extent reasonably possible, the court must complete action on each complaint within 90 days after the complaint is submitted [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(d)]. All proceedings by a presiding judge must be conducted in a manner that is as confidential as is reasonably possible consistent with the need to conduct a thorough and complete investigation and the need for proper administration of the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(e)(1)].

A complaint about the conduct of a subordinate judicial officer must be in writing and be submitted to the presiding judge [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(f)(1)]. Persons who are unable to file a written complaint because of a disability may present an oral complaint, which the presiding just must commit to writing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(f)(2)].

The presiding judge must review each complaint and determine if the complaint may be closed after initial review [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(h)], needs preliminary investigation [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(i)], or requires formal investigation [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(j)] [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(g)(1)].

If after a formal investigation the complaint results in the written reprimand, suspension, or removal of the subordinate judicial officer for conduct that if alleged against a judge would be within the jurisdiction of the Commission on Judicial Performance under Cal. Const., art. VI, § 18, the presiding judge must promptly forward to the Commission a copy of the portions of the court file on the complaint that reasonably reflect the basis of the action taken by the court, including the complaint and the subordinate judicial officer's response [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(k)(1)]. If the subordinate judicial officer resigns while an investigation is pending, the presiding judge must within 15 days of the resignation, or as soon thereafter as is reasonably possible, forward to the Commission the entire court file on any pending complaint [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(k)(2)]. On request by the Commission, the presiding judge must forward to the Commission any requested information about a complaint against a subordinate judicial officer [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(k)(3)].

For detailed discussion of the handling of complaints against subordinate judicial officers, see § 317.86 [7].

[d] Temporary Judges

Each trial court that uses temporary judges must develop, institute, and operate, by itself or in collaboration with another court or courts, a program to recruit, select, train, and evaluate attorneys qualified to serve as temporary judges [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.740]. For detailed discussion of temporary judges, see § 317.20.

[e] Court Interpreters

[i] Regional Court Interpreter Employment Relations Committees

Gov. Code §§ 71807-71809 establish four Regional Court Interpreter Employment Relations Committees. Each committee has the authority, for spoken language court interpreters within its region as defined under Gov. Code § 71807(a), to:

- Set the terms and conditions of employment for court interpreters, subject to meet and confer in good faith, as authorized by Gov. § 71808 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.761(a)(1)];

- Adopt reasonable rules and regulations for the administration of employer employee relations with recognized employee organizations, as authorized by Gov. Code § 71823(a) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.761(a)(2)]; and

- Act as the representative of the superior courts within the region in bargaining with a recognized employee organization as authorized by Gov. Code § 71809 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.761(a)(3)].

[ii] Cross-Assignments for Court Interpreter Employees

Under Gov. Code § 71804.5(b), a court interpreter employed by a superior court is not permitted to be an employee of more than one superior court. A court interpreter employed by a superior court may not contract with another court, but may accept appointments to provide services to more than one court through cross-assignments [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.762(c)(1)]. A superior court may attempt to fill an interpreting assignment with the employee of another court before hiring an independent contract court interpreter [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.762(c)(2)]. If a superior court wants to fill an interpreting assignment with the employee of another court, the court must notify the regional court interpreter coordinator to locate an employee of a court within or across regions [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.762(c)(3)]. Each local court interpreter coordinator must provide the schedule of each court interpreter employee available for cross-assignment to the regional court interpreter coordinator [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.762(c)(4)]. A superior court may adopt additional internal procedures for cross-assigning a court interpreter employee that are not inconsistent with Gov. Code § 71810 and Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.762 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.762(c)(5)]. A Regional Court Interpreter Employment Relations Committee may approve alternative procedures for cross-assigning a court interpreter employee that permit the interpreter to directly arrange cross-assignments with an "away" court, provided that the procedures require notice to the regional coordinator [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.762(c)(6)].

[f] Alternative Dispute Resolution Programs

[i] Administration of Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) Programs

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.780 et seq. contains rules concerning alternative dispute resolution (ADR) programs administered by trial courts [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.780].

[ii] Court-Related ADR Neutrals

If a court makes available to litigants a list of ADR neutrals, the list must contain, at a minimum, the following information concerning each neutral listed:

- The types of ADR services available from the neutral [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.781(a)(1)];
- The neutral's resume, including ADR training and experience [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.781(a)(2)]; and
- The fees charged by the neutral for each type of service [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.781(a)(3)].

In order to be included on a court list of ADR neutrals, an ADR neutral must sign a statement or certificate agreeing to comply with all applicable ethics requirements and rules of court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.781(b)(1)] and serve as an ADR neutral on a pro bono or modest-means basis in at least one case per year, not to exceed eight hours, if requested by the court. The court must establish the eligibility requirements for litigants to receive and the application process for them to request ADR services on a pro bono or modest-means basis [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.781(b)(2)].

Inclusion on a court list of ADR neutrals and eligibility to be recommended, appointed, or compensated by the court to serve as a neutral are privileges that are revocable and confer no vested right on the neutral [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.781(c)]. A court has absolute discretion to determine who may be included on a court list of ADR neutrals or is eligible to be recommended, selected, appointed, or compensated by the court to serve as a neutral (except as otherwise expressly provided by statute or rule of court).

[iii] ADR Program Information

Each court must report information on its ADR programs to the Judicial Council, as requested by the Administrative Office of the Courts [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.782(a)]. Subject to applicable limitations, including the confidentiality requirements in Evid. Code § 1115 et seq., courts must require parties and ADR neutrals, as appropriate to supply pertinent information for the reports required under Cal. Rules of Court, Rule 10.782(a) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.782(b)].

[iv] ADR Program Administration

The presiding judge in each trial court must designate the clerk or executive officer, or another court employee who is knowledgeable about ADR processes, to serve as ADR program administrator. The duties of the ADR program administrator must include:

- Developing informational material concerning the court's ADR programs [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.783(a)(1)];
- Educating attorneys and litigants about the court's ADR programs [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule

10.783(a)(2)];

- Supervising the development and maintenance of any panels of ADR neutrals maintained by the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.783(a)(3)]; and

- Gathering statistical and other evaluative information concerning the court's ADR programs [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.783(a)(4)].

In each superior court that has 18 or more authorized judges, there must be an ADR committee. The members of the ADR committee must include, insofar as is practicable, the presiding judge or a judge designated by the presiding judge; one or more other judges designated by the presiding judge; the ADR program administrator; two or more active members of the State Bar chosen by the presiding judge as representatives of those attorneys who regularly represent parties in general civil cases before the court, including an equal number of attorneys who represent plaintiffs and who represent defendants in these cases; one or more members of the court's panel of arbitrators chosen by the presiding judge; and if the court makes available to litigants a list of any ADR neutrals other than arbitrators available to litigants, one or more neutrals chosen by the presiding judge from that list [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.783(b)]. The ADR committee is responsible for overseeing the court's alternative dispute resolution programs for general civil cases, including those responsibilities relating to the court's judicial arbitration program specified in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.813(b) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.783(b)(5)].

[g] Trial Court Budget and Fiscal Management

[i] Superior Court Budgeting

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.800 et seq. provides for local authority and accountability for development of budget requests and management of court operations within the authorized funding level. Superior courts must manage their budgets in a manner that is responsive to local needs, ensures equal access to justice, is consistent with Judicial Council policy and legislative direction, and does not exceed the total allocated budget [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.800(a)].

Each superior court must prepare and submit to the Administrative Office of the Courts a budget according to the schedule and procedures established by the Judicial Council [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.800(b)].

[ii] Superior Court Budget Procedures

The Administrative Office of the Courts must adopt superior court budget procedures to be included in the Trial Court Financial Policies and Procedures Manual, the annual Baseline Budget Development Package, and the annual Budget Change Request Package [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.801(a)]. These procedures include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Procedures permitting the superior courts to comment on the proposed budget procedures [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.801(a)(1)];

- Procedures for budget development, submission, and appeal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.801(a)(2)];

- Procedures for budget implementation, including expenditure and revenue reporting [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.801(a)(3)];

- Reasonable time frames to comply with requirements or changes in the budget procedures [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.801(a)(4)];

- Procedures to ensure the reporting to the Judicial Council of relevant information on the implementation of programs funded [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.801(a)(5)];

- Procedures for providing timely management information to the Judicial Council on the baseline budget, revenues, and expenditures [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.801(a)(6)];

- An annual budget development and implementation calendar [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.801(a)(7)];

- Procedures for a superior court to follow if it projects that its budget will be exhausted before the end of the fiscal year, preventing the court from meeting its financial obligations or continuing operations [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.801(a)(8)]; and

- Procedures governing the transfer of funds between individual programs and operations of expenditure [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.801(a)(9)].

[iii] Maintenance of and Public Access to Budget and Management Information

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.501(a) and (b) require each superior court and the Administrative Office of the Courts to maintain for a period of three years from the close of the fiscal year to which the following relate specified information, such as official documents of the superior court pertaining to the approved superior court budget allocation adopted by the Judicial Council and actual final year-end superior court revenue and expenditure reports as required in budget procedures issued by the AOC to be maintained or reported to the Council, including budget allocation, revenue, and expenditure reports [Cal. Rules of Court, Rule 10.501(a)(1)].

[iv] Information Access Disputes--Writ Petitions

Notwithstanding Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085 and 1003 requiring the issuance of a writ to an inferior tribunal, in the event that a trial court employee, an employee organization, or a member of the public believes there has been a violation of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.501 concerning the maintenance of, and public access to, budget and management information concerning the Judicial Council or the trial courts, that party may petition the superior court for relief pursuant to Gov. Code § 71675(b).

The petition must state the following on the first page, below the case number, in the statement of the character of the proceeding: "Writ petition filed under rule 10.500(j)(i) and Government Code section 71675--Assignment of Court of Appeal justice required" [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.803(b)(1)].

If an assignment is made, the judge assigned to hear the petition in the superior court must be a justice from a Court of Appeal for a district other than the district for that superior court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.803(b)(3)]. The panel of judges who may hear the petitions in the superior court must consist of Court of Appeal justices selected by the Chief Justice as follows:

- The panel must include at least one justice from each district of the Court of Appeal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.803(e)(1)

- Each justice assigned to hear a petition must have received training on hearing the petitions as specified by the Chief Justice [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.803(e)(2)].

[v] Superior Court Financial Policies and Procedures

The AOC must prepare and adopt a financial policies and procedures manual for the superior courts (the "Trial Court Financial Policies and Procedures Manual"), consistent with the rules of court and policies adopted by the Judicial Council. The manual must include accounting standards for superior courts and policies and procedures for procurement and contracting by superior courts. These policies and procedures must not modify superior courts' existing authority to procure, contract for, or use goods or services or the requirement that a court have authorized funding available in order to procure or contract for any good or service [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.804(a)]. Before issuing or amending the Trial Court Financial Policies and Procedures Manual, the AOC must make it available for comment from the superior court and from the Department of Finance and the State Controller's Office for thirty days [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.804(b)].

[vi] Notice of Change in Court-County Relationship

If, under Gov. Code § 77212, the county gives notice to the superior court that the county will no longer provide a specific county service or the court gives notice to the county that the court will no longer use a specific county service, the court must, within 10 days of receiving or giving such notice, provide a copy of this notice to the AOC's Finance Division [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.805].

[vii] Court Operations

Costs for court operations must be appropriated in county budgets for superior courts [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.810(c)]. Court operations include judicial salaries and benefits, nonjudicial salaries and benefits, services and supplies, collective bargaining, and indirect costs [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.810(a)]. Excluded from the definition of court operations are law library operations conducted by a trust pursuant to statute; courthouse construction and site acquisition, including space rental, alterations/remodeling, or relocating court facilities; district attorney services; probation services; indigent criminal and juvenile delinquency defense; civil and criminal grand jury expenses and operations (except for selection); pretrial release services; equipment and supplies for use by official reporters of the courts to prepare transcripts as specified by statute; and county costs as provided in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.810(d) as unallowable [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.810(b)].

[viii] Reimbursement of Costs Associated With Homicide Trials

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.811 permits courts that meet certain criteria to request reimbursement of extraordinary costs of homicide trials [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.811(a)]. A court that requests reimbursement of extraordinary costs of a homicide trial must meet all the following criteria:

- Be located in a county with a population of 300,000 or less [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.811(b)(1)];
- Have incurred extraordinary costs of a homicide trial [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.811(b)(2)]; and
- Demonstrate an actual need for reimbursement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.811(b)(3)].

A request for reimbursement must be submitted by the court's presiding judge or executive officer to the AOC. All requests for reimbursement must comply with guidelines approved by the Judicial Council and include a completed Request for Reimbursement of Extraordinary Homicide Trial Costs form.

Under Gov. Code § 70631, a superior court may charge a reasonable fee for a service or product not to exceed the costs of providing the service or product, if the Judicial Council approves the fee [Gov. Code § 70631, Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(a)]. The Judicial Council authorizes courts to charge a reasonable fee not to exceed costs for the following products and services unless courts are prohibited by law from charging a fee for, or providing, the product or service:

- Forms [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(b)(1)];

- Packages of forms [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(b)(2)];
- Information materials [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(b)(3)];
- Publications, including books, pamphlets, and local rules [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(b)(4)];
- Compact discs [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(b)(5)];
- DVDs [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(b)(6)];
- Audiotapes [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(b)(7)];
- Videotapes [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(b)(8)];
- Microfiches [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(b)(9)];
- Envelopes [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(b)(10)];
- Postage [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(b)(11)];
- Shipping [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(b)(12)];
- Off-site retrieval of documents [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(b)(13)];
- Direct fax filing under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.304 (fee per page) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(b)(14)];
- Returning filed-stamped copies of documents by fax to persons who request that a faxed copy be sent to them [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(b)(15)];
- Training programs for attorneys who serve as court-appointed temporary judges, including the materials and food provided to the participants [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(b)(16)]; and
- Other training programs or events, including materials and food provided to the participants [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(b)(17)].

The fee charged for any product or service listed above may not exceed the court's cost in providing the product or service. In determining the costs of a product or service, the court must identify the specific product or service and prepare an analysis of the direct and indirect costs on which the fee is based [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(c)].

In deciding what specific fee or fees, if any, to charge for a product or service listed above, the court must determine that the fee charged is reasonable considering relevant factors such as the benefits to the court and the public from providing the product or service and the effects of charging the fee on public access to the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(d)].

Each court that charges a fee under this rule must provide AOC with a description of the fee, how the amount of the fee was determined, and how the fee is applied [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(e)].

The court must notify the public of any fee that it charges under this rule by providing information concerning the fee in a conspicuous place such as the court's fee schedule [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(f)]. If a court proposes to change any fee authorized under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(b) that it is already charging or to charge any new fee authorized that provision, the court must follow the procedures for adopting or amending a local rule under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.613 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.815(g)].

[x] Acceptance of Credit Cards by the Superior Courts

The Administrative Director of the Courts is authorized, under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.80, to approve on behalf of the Judicial Council requests from the superior courts to accept credit cards for the payment of court fees or to impose a charge for the use of credit cards. The authority is given to the Judicial Council by Gov. Code § 6159 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.820(a)].

The Administrative Director of the Courts is authorized to approve requests for acceptance of credit cards if all of the following are true:

- The court imposes a fee for the use of the credit card, or demonstrates that the cost of acceptance of credit cards is not greater than the cost of acceptance of other means of payment of fees, or demonstrates that it can absorb the cost of the acceptance of the credit card [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.820(b)(1)].

- The court has obtained a credit card acceptance contract that is competitive with other possible contracts the court could obtain [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.820(b)(2)].

- The court provides alternative means for a person to pay court fees [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.820(b)(3)].

The Administrative Director of the Courts is authorized to approve requests for the imposition of a charge for the use of credit cards if the proposed fee is not greater than the cost for acceptance of a credit card, and the proposed fee would not result in an undue hardship on people wishing to use credit cards for payment of fees [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.820(c)].

The Administrative Director of the Courts may refer any request for the imposition of a charge for the use of credit cards to the Judicial Council for its action [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.820(d)]. The approval of any board of supervisors for any trial superior court to accept credit cards or charge a fee for the use of credit cards that was effective as of December 31, 1999, is ratified by the Council as of January 1, 2000 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.820(d)].

[xi] Acceptance of Checks and Other Negotiable Paper

A personal check, bank cashier's check, money order, or traveler's check tendered in payment of any fee, fine, or bail deposit under Gov. Code § 71386 or Veh. Code § 40510 or 40521 must be accepted by the court:

- If the personal check is drawn on a banking institution located in California by a person furnishing satisfactory proof of residence in California, is payable to the court without a second party endorsement, and is in an amount not exceeding the amount of the payment and is not postdated or staledated, unless the person drawing the check is known to have previously tendered worthless checks [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.821(a)(1)]; or

- If the bank cashier's check or money order is drawn on a banking institution located in the United States and is in an amount not exceeding the amount of the payment [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.821(a)(2)]; or

- If the person presenting the traveler's check shows satisfactory identification [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.821(a)(3)].

Except for checks tendered under the conditions specified in Veh. Code § 40521(a), a court may require that a person drawing a personal check furnish satisfactory proof of good credit by showing a valid recognized credit card or by any other reasonable means [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.821(b)].

A court may accept or reject any check or money order not meeting the requirements of this rule, under a written policy adopted by the court under Gov. Code § 71386(a) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.821(c)].

[xii] Disposal of Surplus Court Personal Property

With specified exceptions discussed below, a trial superior court may:

- Sell, at fair market value, any personal property of the court that is no longer needed for court use [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.830(a)(1)];

- Trade or exchange any surplus personal property of the court, according to such terms and conditions as are agreed on, for personal property of another court, the state, a county, a city, a federal agency, a community redevelopment agency, a housing authority, a community development commission, a surplus property authority, a school district, or any irrigation, flood control, county board of education, or other special district, if the property to be acquired by the court is needed for court use [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.830(a)(2)];

- Donate, sell at less than fair market value, or otherwise transfer to another court, the state, a county, a city, a federal agency, a community redevelopment agency, a housing authority, a community development commission, a surplus property authority, a school district, or any irrigation, flood control, county board of education, or other special district, according to such terms and conditions as are agreed on, any personal property of the court that is no longer needed for court use [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.830(a)(3)]; and

- Dispose of any personal property of the court that is no longer needed for court use, and that has negligible or no economic value, in any manner the court deems appropriate [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.830(a)(4)].

A superior court that wishes to dispose of surplus technology equipment to which the court acquired title on or after July 1, 2000, must provide a written description of such technology equipment to the Administrative Director of the Courts. If, within 60 days of receipt of the description, the Administrative Director determines that another court of record of the State of California is in need of the surplus technology equipment, the court holding title to the equipment must donate it to the court determined to be in need. If the Administrative Director determines that no other court needs the equipment or makes no determination within 60 days of receiving the written description of it, the court holding title to the equipment may dispose of it as provided in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.830(a), (c), and (d). The Administrative Director must provide to the courts a definition of the term "technology equipment" as used in this rule and must provide 30 days' notice of any amendment to the definition [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.830(b)].

Unless the property to be transferred under this rule is valued at $500 or less or the entity to which the property is to be transferred is another court of record of the State of California, the transferring superior court must, at least one week prior to before the transfer, place a notice of its intended action in three public places, or on the court's web site, or in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.830(c)].

Any proceeds of a sale or other transfer under this rule must be deposited in the superior court's operations fund [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.830(d)].

[h] Trial Court Records Management

[i] Court Indexes--Automated Maintenance

The clerk of each trial court may create, maintain, update, and make accessible the indexes required by law by photographic, microphotographic, photocopy, mechanical, magnetic, or electronic means. The clerk must make provision for preserving the information on a medium that will ensure its permanence and protect it from loss or damage arising from electronic failure or mechanical defect [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.851(a)].

A single alphabetic index may be maintained so long as the plaintiff-defendant distinction is retained [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.851(b)]. The indexes maintained under automated procedures must be accessible for public examination and use [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.851(c)].

[ii] Superior Court Records Sampling Program

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855 establishes a program to preserve in perpetuity for study by historians and other researchers all superior court records filed before 1911 and a sample of superior court records filed after December 31, 1910, to document the progress and development of the judicial system, and to preserve evidence of significant events and social trends. Section 10.855 is not intended to restrict a court from preserving more records than the minimum required [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(a)].

"Records" of the superior court, as used in section 10.855, does not include records of limited civil, small claims, misdemeanor, or infraction cases [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(b)]. Each superior court must preserve forever comprehensive court records as follows:

- All records filed before 1911 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(c)(1)];
- If practicable, all records filed after 1910 and before 1950 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(c)(2)];
- All case indexes [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(c)(3)];
- All judgment books if the court maintains judgment records separate from the case files [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(c)(4)];
- All minute books if the court maintains minutes separate from the case files [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(c)(5)]; and
- All registers of action if the court maintains them [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(c)(6)].

If a superior court destroys court records without preserving them in a medium described in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(h), the court must preserve forever a sample of each year's court records as provided by this rule of all cases, including sealed, expunged, and other confidential records to the extent permitted by law [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(d)].

For purposes of section 10.855, the term court record consists of the following:

- All papers and documents in the case folder; but if no case folder is created by the court, all papers and documents that would have been in the case folder if one had been created [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(e)(1)]; and

- The case folder, unless all information on the case folder is in papers and documents preserved in a medium described in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(h) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(e)(2)]; and

- If available, corresponding depositions, paper exhibits, daily transcripts, and tapes of electronically recorded proceedings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(e)(3)].

Three courts assigned in rotation by the Judicial Council must preserve 100 percent of their court records for a calendar year ("longitudinal sample"). All other courts must preserve a systematic sample of 10 percent or more of each year's court records and a 2 percent subjective sample of the court records scheduled to be destroyed, as follows:

- The "systematic sample" must be selected as follows after grouping all cases scheduled to be destroyed by filing year [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(f)(1)]:

  - If the cases scheduled to be destroyed for a filing year number more than 1,000 cases, the sample must consist of all cases in which the last digit of the case number (0-9) coincides with the last digit of the year in which the case was filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(f)(1)(A)].

  - If the cases scheduled to be destroyed for a filing year number from 100 to 1,000, the sample must consist of cases selected by (1) dividing the number of cases filed by 100, rounding fractions down to the next lower number, and (2) counting the cases and preserving each case with a position number in the files or other record that corresponds with the number computed (for example, 670 cases / 100 = 6.7; select every sixth case) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(f)(1)(B)].

  - If fewer than 100 cases of a filing year are scheduled to be destroyed, all of the cases must be preserved [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(f)(1)(C)].

  - If the records to be destroyed are old, unnumbered cases, the sample must consist of cases identified by counting the cases (0-9) and preserving each case with a position number in the file or other record that corresponds with the number determined under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(f)(1)(A) or (B), unless fewer than 100 cases are to be destroyed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(f)(1)(D)].

- The "subjective sample" must consist of at least 2 percent of all cases scheduled to be destroyed, but not fewer than the court records of 20 cases, and must include (1) all cases accepted for review by the California Supreme Court, (2) "fat files" or the thickest perceived case files, and (3) cases deemed by the court to be of local, national, or international significance. These cases must be identified by stamp or mark to distinguish them from the systematic sample. The Judicial Council will provide each court with a list of cases accepted for review by the California Supreme Court each year.

The Judicial Council may designate a consultant to review, under the guidance of a qualified historian or archivist, court records scheduled for destruction and determine if the court's systematic sample should be augmented to improve representation of the variety of cases filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(g)(1)]. The court should give the designated consultant 60 days' notice of intent to destroy any court records that it does not plan to retain for the sample [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(g)(2)]. The designated consultant's role is advisory to the court. If the consultant determines that the systematic sample does not represent the variety of cases filed in a sample year, the court should select a random sample of cases to augment the systematic sample [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(g)(3)]. Final selection of the court records to augment the sample is to be made by the clerk of the superior court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(g)(4)].

For form of Notice of Intent to Destroy Superior Court Records; Offer to Transfer Possession, see § 317.215.

Comprehensive court records under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(c) filed before 1911 must be preserved in their original paper form unless the paper is not available [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(h)(1)]. If practicable, courts should preserve paper records filed after January 1, 1911, because they are preferred by historians and researchers. Courts may, however, reproduce such paper records on microfilm or other electronic or micrographic media, if the records are maintained and reproduced in accordance with archival standards recommended by the American National Standards Institute or the Association for Information and Image Management and the condition of the paper records permits reproduction without damage to the originals.

As of the effective date of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855, optical disk storage is not recognized as an archival medium, although it may become so with advances in the technology [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(h)(2)].

Until statewide or regional archival facilities are established, each court is responsible for maintaining its comprehensive and sample court records in a secure and safe environment consistent with the archival significance of the records. The court may deposit the court records in a suitable California archival facility such as a university, college, library, historical society, museum, archive, or research institution whether publicly supported or privately endowed. The court must ensure that the records are kept and preserved according to commonly recognized archival principles and practices of preservation [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(i)].

The court must ensure the following with regard to access:

- The comprehensive and sample court records must be made reasonably available to all members of the public [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(j)(1)].

- Sealed and confidential records must be made available to the public only as provided by law [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(j)(2)].

- If the records are preserved in a medium other than paper, equipment must be provided to permit public viewing of the records [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(j)(3)].

- Reasonable provision must be made for duplicating the records at cost [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(j)(4)].

If a local archival facility is maintaining the court records, the court may continue to use that facility's services if it meets the storage and access requirements under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(i) and (j). If the court solicits archival facilities interested in maintaining the comprehensive and sample court records, the court must follow the procedures specified under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.856, except that the comprehensive and sample court records must not be destroyed. Courts may enter into agreements for long-term deposit of records subject to the storage and access provisions of section 10.855 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(k)].

Each superior court must submit semiannually to the Judicial Council a Report to the Judicial Council: Superior Court Records Destroyed, Preserved, and Transferred (form REC-003), including the following information:

- A list by year of filing of the court records destroyed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(l)(1)];

- A list by year of filing and location of the court records of the comprehensive and sample court records preserved [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(l)(2)]; and

- A list by year of filing and location of the court records transferred to entities under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.856 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855(l)(3)].

For form of Report to the Judicial Council: Superior Court Records Destroyed, Preserved, and Transferred, see § 317.219.

[iii] Notice of Superior Court Records Destruction

The superior court must give 30 days' written notice of its intent to destroy court records open to public inspection to entities maintained on a master list by the Judicial Council and to any other entities that have informed the court directly that they wish to be notified [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.856(b)]. "Records" of the superior court, as used in Rule 10.856, do not include records of limited civil, small claims, misdemeanor, or infraction cases [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.856(a)].

Records scheduled for destruction must be permanently transferred to the entity requesting possession of the records on written order of the presiding judge unless the request is denied for good cause shown. The cost of transferring the records must be paid by the requesting party [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.856(c)].

If two or more entities request the same records, the presiding judge must order the transfer of those records to the entity that shows the greatest capability of caring for and preserving the records according to commonly recognized archival principles and practices of preservation and access, and that provides the greatest likelihood of making them available for historical or research purposes [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.856(d)]. No entity may receive the records unless the entity agrees to make the records reasonably available to all members of the public. Provision must be made for duplicating the records at cost [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.856(e)].

If after 30 days no request for transfer of records scheduled for destruction has been received by the court, the clerk may destroy the records not designated for the historical and research program under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.855, under a written order of the presiding judge of the court and in accordance with provisions of the Government Code [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.856(f)].

The time for retention of any of the court records specified in the notice may be extended by order of the court on its own motion, or on application of any interested member of the public for good cause shown and on such terms as are just. No fee may be charged for making the application [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.856(g)].

For forms related to the destruction of superior court records, see § 317.215 -317.219.

[i] Trial Court Automation

Each superior court that acquires, develops, enhances, or maintains automated accounting or case management systems through funding provided under Gov. Code § 68090.8 must comply with the standards approved by the Judicial Council. The approved standards are stated in Judicial Council Trial Court Automation Standards published by the Administrative Office of the Courts [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.870].

[j] Trial Court Management of Civil Cases

[i] Case Management and Calendaring System

Each superior court must adopt a case management and calendaring system for general civil cases that will advance the goals stated in Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin,. Std. 2.1 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.900].

For additional discussion of case management system and classification of civil cases, see Ch. 425, Pretrial Proceedings, § 425.30 et seq.

[ii] Internal Management Procedures

Each court must:

- Maintain a calendar and caseflow management system that will ensure that a sufficient number of cases are set for trial, based on the court's experience, so that all departments will be occupied with judicial business [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.901(1)];

- Adopt for judges and court personnel an internal operations manual of policies and procedures necessary for the efficient operation and management of the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.901(2)];

- Maintain and periodically review for accuracy written local court procedures, policies, and operating practices not contained in local rules for quick, accurate, and complete reference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.901(3)]; and

- Ensure that calendaring functions are performed as directed by the court and that personnel rendering direct and immediate service to the court are within its administrative control to the maximum extent consistent with the existing organizational structures [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.901(4)].

[iii] Assigned Cases to Be Tried or Dismissed--Notification to Presiding Judge

In a court employing the master calendar, each case transferred to a trial department must be tried, ordered off the calendar, or dismissed unless, for good cause arising after the commencement of the trial, the judge of the trial department continues the case for further hearing or, with the consent of the judge supervising the master calendar, reassigns the case to the judge supervising the master calendar for further disposition [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.910(a)].

A judge who has finished or continued the trial of a case or any special matter must immediately notify the judge supervising the master calendar. The judge to whose department a cause is assigned for trial or for hearing must accept the assignment unless disqualified or, for other good cause stated to the judge supervising the master calendar, the judge supervising the master calendar determines that in the interest of justice the cause should not be tried or heard before the judge. When the judge has refused a cause and is not disqualified, the judge must state the reasons in writing unless the judge supervising the master calendar has concurred [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.910(b)].

[k] Trial Court Management of Criminal Cases

[i] Role of Presiding Judge, Supervising Judge, Criminal Division, and Master Calendar Department in Courts Having More Than Three Judges

The presiding judge of a court having more than three judges may designate one or more departments primarily to hear criminal cases. Two or more departments so designated must be the criminal division. The presiding judge may designate supervising judges for the criminal division, but retains final authority over all criminal and civil case assignments [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.950].

[ii] Duties of Supervising Judge of the Criminal Division

In addition to any other duties assigned by the presiding judge or imposed by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.950 et seq., a supervising judge of the criminal division must assign criminal matters requiring a hearing or cases requiring trial to a trial department [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.951(a)]. The presiding judge, supervising judge, or other designated judge must conduct arraignments, hear and determine any pretrial motions, preside over readiness conferences, and, where not inconsistent with law, assist in the disposition of cases without trial [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.951(b)]. To the extent that the business of the court requires, the presiding judge may designate additional judges under the direction of the supervising judge to perform the duties specified in Rule 10.951 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.951(c)]. In a court having no supervising judge, the presiding judge performs the duties of a supervising judge [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.951(d)].

[iii] Meetings Concerning the Criminal Court System

The supervising judge, or, if none, the presiding judge must designate judges of the court to attend regular meetings to be held with the district attorney, public defender, representatives of the local bar, probation department, court personnel, and other interested persons to identify and eliminate problems in the criminal court system and to discuss other problems of mutual concern [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.952].

[iv] Procedures for Disposition of Cases Before the Preliminary Hearing

Superior courts having more than three judges must, in cooperation with the district attorney and defense bar, adopt procedures to facilitate dispositions before the preliminary hearing and at all other stages of the proceedings. The procedures may include:

- Early, voluntary, informal discovery, consistent with part 2, title 6, chapter 10 of the Penal Code (commencing with section 1054) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.953(a)(1)]; and

- The use of superior court judges as magistrates to conduct readiness conferences before the preliminary hearing and to assist, where not inconsistent with law, in the early disposition of cases [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.953(a)(2)].

Pleas of guilty or no contest resulting from proceedings under Rule 10.953(a) must be disposed of as provided in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 4.114 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.953(b)].

[6] Appellate Court Administration

[a] Transfer of Causes

The Supreme Court may transfer a cause:

- To itself from a Court of Appeal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1000(a)(1)(A)];

- From itself to a Court of Appeal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1000(a)(1)(B)];

- Between Courts of Appeal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1000(a)(1)(C)]; or

- Between divisions of a Court of Appeal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1000(a)(1)(D)].

The clerk of the transferee court must promptly send each party a copy of the transfer order with the new case number, if any [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1000(a)(2)].

A Court of Appeal administrative presiding justice may transfer causes between divisions of that court as follows:

- If multiple appeals or writ petitions arise from the same trial court action or proceeding, the presiding justice may transfer the later appeals or petitions to the division assigned the first appeal or petition [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1000(b)(1)(A)].

- If, because of recusals, a division does not have three justices qualified to decide a cause, the presiding justice may transfer it to a division randomly selected by the clerk [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1000(b)(1)(B)].

The clerk must promptly notify the parties of the division to which the cause was transferred [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1000(b)(2)].

[b] Court of Appeal Administrative Presiding Justice

In a Court of Appeal with more than one division, the Chief Justice may designate a presiding justice to act as administrative presiding justice. The administrative presiding justice serves at the pleasure of the Chief Justice for the period specified in the designation order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1004(a)(1)]. The administrative presiding justice must designate another member of the court to serve as acting administrative presiding justice in the administrative presiding justice's absence. If the administrative presiding justice does not make that designation, the Chief Justice must do so [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1004(a)(2)]. In a Court of Appeal with only one division, the presiding justice acts as the administrative presiding justice [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1004(a)(3)].

The administrative presiding justice is responsible for leading the court, establishing policies, promoting access to justice for all members of the public, providing a forum for the fair and expeditious resolution of disputes, and maximizing the use of judicial and other resources [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1004(b)].

The administrative presiding justice must perform any duties delegated by a majority of the justices in the district with the Chief Justice's concurrence. In addition, the administrative presiding justice has responsibility for the following matters:

- Personnel: The administrative presiding justice has general direction and supervision of the clerk/administrator and all court employees except those assigned to a particular justice or division [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1004(c)(1)];

- Unassigned matters: The administrative presiding justice has the authority of a presiding justice with respect to any matter that has not been assigned to a particular division [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1004(c)(2)];

- Judicial Council: The administrative presiding justice cooperates with the Chief Justice and any officer authorized to act for the Chief Justice in connection with the making of reports and the assignment of judges or retired judges under article VI, section 6 of the California Constitution [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1004(c)(3)];

- Transfer of cases: The administrative presiding justice cooperates with the Chief Justice in expediting judicial business and equalizing the work of judges by recommending, when appropriate, the transfer of cases by the Supreme Court under Cal. Const., art. VI, § 12 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1004(c)(4)];

- Administration: The administrative presiding justice supervises the administration of the court's day-to-day operations, including personnel matters, but must secure the approval of a majority of the justices in the district before implementing any change in court policies [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1004(c)(5)];

- Budget: The administrative presiding justice has sole authority in the district over the budget as allocated by the Chair of the Judicial Council, including but not limited to budget transfers, execution of purchase orders, obligation of funds, and approval of payments [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1004(c)(6)]; and

- Facilities: The administrative presiding justice, except as provided in Rule 10.1004(d), has sole authority in the district over the operation, maintenance, renovation, expansion, and assignment of all facilities used and occupied by the district [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1004(c)(6)].

Under the general oversight of the administrative presiding justice, the presiding justice of a geographically separate division generally directs and supervises all of the division's court employees not assigned to a particular justice [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1004(d)(1)]; has authority to act on behalf of the division regarding day-to-day operations [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1004(d)(2)]; administers the division budget for day-to-day operations, including expenses for maintenance of facilities and equipment [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1004(d)(2)]; and operates, maintains, and assigns space in all facilities used and occupied by the division [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1004(d)(4)].

[c] Courts of Appeal With More Than One Division

Appeals and original proceedings filed in a Court of Appeal with more than one division, or transferred to such a court without designation of a division, may be assigned to divisions in a way that will equalize the distribution of business among them. The Court of Appeal clerk must keep records showing the divisions in which cases and proceedings are pending [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1008].

[d] Supervising Progress of Appeals

The administrative presiding justices of Courts of Appeal with more than one division in the same city and the presiding justices of all other Courts of Appeal are generally responsible for ensuring that all appellate records and briefs are promptly filed. Staff must be provided for that purpose, to the extent that funds are appropriated and available [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1012(a)]. Notwithstanding any other rule, the administrative presiding justices and presiding justices referred to in Rule 10.1012(a) may:

- Grant or deny applications to extend the time to file records, briefs, and other documents, except that a presiding justice may extend the time to file briefs in conjunction with an order to augment the record [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1012(b)(1)];

- Order the dismissal of an appeal or any other authorized sanction for noncompliance with these rules, if no application to extend time or for relief from default has been filed before the order is entered [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1012(b)(2)]; and

- Grant relief from default or from a sanction other than dismissal imposed for the default [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1012(b)(3)].

[e] Notice of Failure to Perform Judicial Duties

The Chief Justice or presiding justice must notify the Commission on Judicial Performance of a reviewing court justice's substantial failure to perform judicial duties, including any habitual neglect of duty [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1016(a)(1)(A)] or disability-caused absences totaling more than 90 court days in a 12-month period, excluding absences for authorized vacations and for attending schools, conferences, and judicial workshops [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1016(a)(1)(B)]. If the affected justice is a presiding justice, the administrative presiding justice must give the notice [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1016(a)(2)]. The Chief Justice, administrative presiding justice, or presiding justice must give the affected justice a copy of any such notice [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1016(b)].

[f] Reviewing Court Clerk/Administrator

A reviewing court may employ a clerk/administrator selected in accordance with procedures adopted by the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1020(a)]. Acting under the general direction and supervision of the administrative presiding justice, the clerk/administrator is responsible for planning, organizing, coordinating, and directing, with full authority and accountability, the management of the clerk's office and all nonjudicial support activities in a manner that promotes access to justice for all members of the public, provides a forum for the fair and expeditious resolution of disputes, and maximizes the use of judicial and other resources [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1020(b)].

Under the direction of the administrative presiding justice, the clerk/administrator has the following duties:

- Personnel: The clerk/administrator directs and supervises all court employees assigned to the clerk/administrator by the administrative presiding justice and ensures that the court receives a full range of human resources support [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1020(c)(1)];

- Budget: The clerk/administrator develops, administers, and monitors the court budget and develops practices and procedures to ensure that annual expenditures are within the budget [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1020(c)(2)];

- Contracts: The clerk/administrator negotiates contracts on the court's behalf in accord with established contracting procedures and applicable laws [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1020(c)(3)];

- Calendar management: The clerk/administrator employs and supervises efficient calendar and caseflow management, including analyzing and evaluating pending caseloads and recommending effective calendar management techniques [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1020(c)(4)];

- Technology: The clerk/administrator coordinates technological and automated systems activities to assist the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1020(c)(5)];

- Facilities: The clerk/administrator coordinates facilities, space planning, court security, and business services support, including the purchase and management of equipment and supplies [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1020(c)(6)];

- Records: The clerk/administrator creates and manages uniform record-keeping systems, collecting data on pending and completed judicial business and the court's internal operation as the court and Judicial Council require [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1020(c)(7)];

- Recommendations: The clerk/administrator identifies problems and recommends policy, procedural, and administrative changes to the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1020(c)(8)];

- Public relations: The clerk/administrator represents the court to internal and external customers--including the other branches of government--on issues pertaining to the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1020(c)(9)];

- Liaison: The clerk/administrator acts as liaison with other governmental agencies [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1020(c)(10)];

- Committees: The clerk/administrator provides staff for judicial committees [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1020(c)(11)];

- Administration: The clerk/administrator develops and implements administrative and operational programs and policies for the court and the clerk's office [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1020(c)(12)]; and

- Other: The clerk/administrator performs other duties as the administrative presiding justice directs [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1020(c)(13)].

Under the general oversight of the clerk/administrator, an assistant clerk/administrator of a geographically separate division has responsibility for the nonjudicial support activities of that division [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1020(d)].

[g] Court of Appeal Minutes

Court of Appeal minutes should record the court's significant public acts and permit the public to follow the major events in the history of cases coming before the court. The minutes must include the filing date of each opinion, showing whether it was ordered published; orders granting or denying rehearings or modifying opinions; orders affecting an opinion's publication status, if issued after the opinion was filed; summaries of all courtroom proceedings, showing at a minimum the cases called for argument, the justices hearing argument, the name of the attorney arguing for each party, and whether the case was submitted at the close of argument or the court requested further briefing; the date of submission, if other than the date of argument; orders vacating submission, including the reason for vacating and the resubmission date; orders dismissing appeals for lack of jurisdiction; orders consolidating cases; orders affecting a judgment or its finality date; and orders changing or correcting any of the above [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1024(b)]. At the court's discretion, the minutes may include such other matter as assignments of justices by the Chief Justice; reports of the Commission on Judicial Appointments confirming justices; and memorials [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1024(c)].

[h] Preservation and Destruction of Court of Appeal Records

Court of Appeal records may be preserved in any appropriate medium, including paper or an optical, electronic, magnetic, photographic, or microphotographic medium or other her technology capable of accurately reproducing the original. The medium used must comply with the minimum standards or guidelines for the preservation and reproduction of the medium adopted by the American National Standards Institute or the Association for Information and Image Management. If records are preserved in a medium other than paper, the following provisions of Gov. Code § 68150 apply: subdivisions (b)-(d), (f) excluding subdivision (f)(1), and (g)-(h) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1028(a)].

The Court of Appeal clerk must permanently keep the court's minutes and a register of appeals and original proceedings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1028(b)]. The clerk may destroy all other records in a case 10 years after the decision becomes final, as ordered by the administrative presiding justice or, in a court with only one division, by the presiding justice [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1028(c)(1)], except that in a criminal case in which the court affirms a judgment of conviction, the clerk must keep the original reporter's transcript for 20 years after the decision becomes final [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1028(c)(2)].

[i] Local Rules of Courts of Appeal

A Court of Appeal must submit any local rule it adopts to the Reporter of Decisions for publication in the advance pamphlets of the Official Reports [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1030(a)(1)]. As used in Rule 10.1030, "publication" means printing in the manner in which amendments to the California Rules of Court are printed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1030(a)(2)]. A local rule cannot take effect sooner than 45 days after the publication date of the advance pamphlet in which it is printed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.1030(b)].

[7] Miscellaneous Standards of Judicial Administration

[a] Model Code of Ethics for Court Employees

Each trial and appellate court should adopt a code of ethical behavior for its support staff, and in doing so should consider Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.650(c)(12), and the model Code of Ethics for the Court Employees of California approved by the Judicial Council on May 17, 1994, and any subsequent revisions. The approved model code is published by the Administrative Office of the Courts [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.16].

[b] Trial Court Performance Standards

[i] Purpose

Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17 sets forth standards that are intended to be used by trial courts, in cooperation with the Judicial Council, for purposes of internal evaluation, self-assessment, and self-improvement. They are not intended as a basis for cross-court comparisons, nor are they intended as a basis for evaluating the performance of individual judges [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(a)].

[ii] Standards

The standards for trial court performance are as follows:

- Access to justice
  - The court conducts its proceedings and other public business openly [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(1)(A)].
  - Court facilities are safe, accessible, and convenient to use [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(1)(B)].
  - All who appear before the court are given the opportunity to participate effectively without undue hardship or inconvenience [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(1)(C)].
  - Judges and other trial court personnel are courteous and responsive to the public and accord respect to all with whom they come into contact [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(1)(D)].
  - The costs of access to the trial court's proceedings and records--whether measured in terms of money, time, or the procedures that must be followed--are reasonable, fair, and affordable [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(1)(E)].
- Expedition and timeliness
  - The trial court establishes and complies with recognized guidelines for timely case processing while, at the same time, keeping current with its incoming caseload [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(2)(A)].
  - The trial court disburses funds promptly, provides reports and information according to required schedules, and responds to requests for information and other services on an established schedule that assures their effective use [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(2)(B)].

- The trial court promptly implements changes in law and procedure [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(2)(C)].

- Equality, fairness, and integrity

  - Trial court procedures faithfully adhere to relevant laws, procedural rules, and established policies [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(3)(A)].

  - Jury lists are representative of the jurisdiction from which they are drawn [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(3)(B)].

  - Trial courts give individual attention to cases, deciding them without undue disparity among like cases and upon on legally relevant factors [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(3)(C)].

  - Decisions of the trial court unambiguously address the issues presented to it and make clear how compliance can be achieved [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(3)(D)].

  - The trial court takes appropriate responsibility for the enforcement of its orders [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(3)(E)].

  - Records of all relevant court decisions and actions are accurate and properly preserved [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(3)(F)].

- Independence and accountability

  - A trial court maintains its institutional integrity and observes the principle of comity in its governmental relations [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(4)(A)].

  - The trial court responsibly seeks, uses, and accounts for its public resources.

  - The trial court uses fair employment practices [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(4)(B)].

  - The trial court informs the community of its programs [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(4)(C)].

  - The trial court anticipates new conditions or emergent events and adjusts its operations as necessary [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(4)(D)].

- Public trust and confidence

  - The trial court and the justice it delivers are perceived by the public as accessible [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(5)(A)].

  - The public has trust and confidence that the basic trial court functions are conducted expeditiously and fairly and that its decisions have integrity [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(5)(B)].

- The trial court is perceived to be independent, not unduly influenced by other components of government, and accountable [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.17(b)(5)(C)].

[c] Court's Duty to Prohibit Bias

[i] General

To preserve the integrity and impartiality of the judicial system, each judge should:

- Ensure that courtroom proceedings are conducted in a manner that is fair and impartial to all of the participants [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.20(a)(1)].

- Refrain from and prohibit biased conduct in all courtroom proceedings, refrain from engaging in conduct and prohibit others from engaging in conduct that exhibits bias, including but not limited to bias based on disability, gender, race, religion, ethnicity, and sexual orientation, whether that bias is directed toward counsel, court personnel, witnesses, parties, jurors, or any other participants [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.20(a)(2)].

- Ensure that all orders, rulings, and decisions are based on the sound exercise of judicial discretion and the balancing of competing rights and interests and are not influenced by stereotypes or biases [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.20(a)(3)].

[ii] Creation of Local Committee on Bias

Each court should establish a local committee with local bar associations to assist in maintaining a courtroom environment free of bias or the appearance of bias. Courts within one or more counties may choose to form a single committee. The local committee should:

- Be composed of representative members of the court community, including but not limited to judges, lawyers, court administrators, and representatives and individuals from minority, women's, and gay and lesbian bar associations and from organizations that represent persons with disabilities [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.20(b)(1)];

- Sponsor or support educational programs designed to eliminate bias within the court and legal communities, including but not limited to bias based on disability, gender, race, religion, ethnicity, and sexual orientation [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.20(b)(2)]; and

- Develop and maintain an informal procedure for receiving complaints relating to bias in the courtroom, including but not limited to bias based on disability, gender, race, religion, ethnicity, and sexual orientation [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.20(b)(3)].

[iii] Minimum Components of a Complaint Procedure

An informal complaint procedure developed and maintained by a local committee on bias should:

- Contain a provision specifying that the intent of the procedure is to educate with the purpose of ameliorating the problem rather than disciplining the person who is the subject of the complaint [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.20(c)(1)];

- Accommodate local needs and allow for local flexibility [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.20(c)(2)];

- Apply to all participants in courtroom proceedings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.20(c)(3)];

- Apply only to complaints as to which the identity of the complainant is known [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.20(c)(4)];

- To the extent possible and unless disclosure is required by law, protect the confidentiality of the complainant, the person who is the subject of the complaint, and other interested persons [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.20(c)(5)];

- Relate to incidents of behavior or conduct occurring in courtroom proceedings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.20(c)(6)];

- Apply to incidents of bias whether they relate to race, sex, religion, national origin, disability, age, sexual orientation, or socioeconomic status [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.20(c)(7)];

- Contain a provision that exempts activities constituting legitimate advocacy when matters of race, sex, religion, national origin, disability, age, sexual orientation, or socioeconomic status are relevant to issues in the courtroom proceeding [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.20(c)(8)];

- Focus on incidents that do not warrant discipline but that should be corrected [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.20(c)(9)];

- With respect to those incidents that if substantiated would warrant discipline, advise the complaining party of the appropriate disciplinary authority [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.20(c)(10)];

- Contain a provision specifying that nothing in the procedure in any way limits the ability of any person to submit a complaint of misconduct to the appropriate disciplinary body [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.20(c)(11)]; and

- To the extent possible and unless disclosure is required by law, prohibit retention of written records of complaints received but permit collection of data on types of complaints or underlying anecdotes that might be useful in educational programs [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.20(c)(12)].

[iv] Application of Local Rules

The existence of the local committee, its purpose, and the features of the informal complaint procedure should be memorialized in the applicable local rules of court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.20(d)].

[d] Appointment of Attorneys, Arbitrators, Mediators, Referees, Masters, Receivers, and Other Persons

[i] Nondiscrimination in Appointment Lists

In establishing and maintaining lists of qualified attorneys, arbitrators, mediators, referees, masters, receivers, and other persons who are eligible for appointment, courts should ensure equal access for all applicants regardless of gender, race, ethnicity, disability, sexual orientation, or age [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.21(a)].

[ii] Nondiscrimination in Recruitment

Each trial court should conduct a recruitment procedure for the appointment of attorneys, arbitrators, mediators, referees, masters, receivers, and other persons appointed by the court (the "appointment programs") by publicizing the existence of the appointment programs at least once annually through state and local bar associations, including specialty bar associations. This publicity should encourage and provide an opportunity for all eligible individuals, regardless of gender, race, ethnicity, disability, sexual orientation, or age, to seek positions on the rosters of the appointment programs. Each trial court also should use other methods of publicizing the appointment programs that maximize the opportunity for a diverse applicant pool [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.21(b)].

[iii] Nondiscrimination in Application and Selection Procedure

Each trial court should conduct an application and selection procedure for the appointment programs that ensure that the most qualified applicants for an appointment are selected, regardless of gender, race, ethnicity, disability, sexual orientation, or age [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.21(c)].

Each court should endeavor to provide a children's waiting room located in the courthouse for the use of minors under the age of 16 who are present on court premises as participants or who accompany persons who are participants in court proceedings. The waiting room should be supervised and open during normal court hours. If a court does not have sufficient space in the courthouse for a children's waiting room, the court should create the necessary space when court facilities are reorganized or remodeled or when new facilities are constructed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.21(d)].

[f] Reasonable Accommodations for Court Personnel

At least to the extent required by state and federal law, each court should evaluate existing facilities, programs, and services available to employees to ensure that no barriers exist to prevent otherwise qualified employees with known disabilities from performing their jobs or participating fully in court programs or activities [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.25].

[g] Master Jury List

The jury commissioner should use the National Change of Address System or other comparable means to update jury source lists and create as accurate a master jury list as reasonably practical [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.31].

[h] Court Security

[i] Court Security Officer

Each trial court should designate a specified peace officer as Court Security Officer to be responsible to the court for all matters relating to its security, including security of courtrooms, buildings, and grounds. The peace officer designated as Court Security Officer should be the sheriff or the sheriff's designee, except that where local conditions dictate otherwise another peace officer may be designated. The Court Security Officer should be in operational command of all peace officers and others charged with a court security function while acting in that capacity and should be responsible for the adequacy of security equipment, the competence training and assignment of security forces, and the effective execution of the Court Security Plan [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.40(a)].

[ii] Preparation of Court Security Plan

Each court should require the Court Security Officer to prepare a Court Security Plan for its review and consideration. The Court Security Plan should:

- Be the operational plan for achieving the desired level of security for courtrooms, buildings, and grounds, including the planned allocation of security forces and equipment [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.40(b)(1)];

- Describe the place and functional assignment and the dress and arming of all security forces (e.g., bailiffs), and propose plans for maintaining courtroom decorum and safety within courthouses and grounds in high-risk situations [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.40(b)(2)]; and

- Include an evaluation of the court's security needs, and an assessment of the adequacy and effectiveness of the equipment and forces available to meet those needs [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.40(b)(3)].

[iii] Adoption and Review of Court Security Plan

Each trial court should adopt, reject, or request modification of the proposed Court Security Plan after giving due consideration to all local conditions affecting its security and to the effect of the plan on the conduct of trials and other proceedings. Each trial court should provide for a periodic review of its security plan and for a periodic assessment of the effectiveness of its execution [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.40(c)].

[iv] Wearing of Firearms in Court

No trial court should approve a Court Security Plan that does not limit the wearing of firearms in the courthouse or courtrooms to peace officers and proscribe the wearing of firearms in such places by all other persons [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.40(d)].

[v] Security of Courts of Appeal

Each Court of Appeal should review its security needs and, if necessary, should request personnel and equipment deemed necessary to maintain the desired level of security [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.40(e)].

[i] Court Sessions at or Near State Penal Institutions

[i] Provision of Adequate Protection

Facilities used regularly for judicial proceedings should not be located on the grounds of or immediately adjacent to a state penal institution unless the location, design, and setting of the court facility provide adequate protection against the possible adverse influence that the prison facilities and activities might have on the fairness of judicial proceedings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.41(a)].

[ii] Factors to Be Considered

In determining whether adequate protection is provided, the following factors should be considered:

- The physical and visual remoteness of the court facility from the facilities and activities of the prison [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.41(b)(1)];

- The location and appearance of the court facility with respect to the adjacent public areas through which jurors and witnesses would normally travel in going to and from the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds.

Jud. Admin., Std. 10.41(b)(2)];

- The accessibility of the facility to the press and the general public [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.41(b)(3)]; and

- Any other factors that might affect the fairness of the judicial proceedings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.41(b)(3)].

[iii] Compelling Reasons of Safety or Court Convenience

Unless the location, design, and setting of the facility for conducting court sessions meet the criteria in Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.41(a) and (b):

- Court sessions should not be conducted in or immediately adjacent to a state penal institution except for compelling reasons of safety or convenience of the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.41(c)(1)]; and

- Court sessions should not be conducted at such a location when the trial is by jury or when the testimony of witnesses who are neither inmates nor employees of the institution will be required [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.41(c)(2)].

[j] Juror Complaints

Each court should establish a reasonable mechanism for receiving and responding to juror complaints [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.51].

Chapter 317 JUDGES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Judicial Ethics and Discipline

27-317 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 317.85

§ 317.85 California Code of Judicial Ethics

[1] Governing Law

The Constitution requires the Supreme Court to make rules to be referred to as the Code of Judicial Ethics [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 18(m)].

[2] Scope/Authority

The six Canons of the Code of Judicial Ethics contain broad declarations governing the conduct of judges, both on and off the bench, and for judicial candidates in the conduct of their campaigns [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 18(m)].

[3] Canons

[a] Canon 1--Integrity and Independence

Canon 1 provides in part that a judge must uphold the integrity and independence of the judiciary [Cal. Rules of Ct., Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 1]. Although Canon 1 provides that a judicial decision later determined to be incorrect legally is not itself a violation of the Code of Ethics, legal error does not preclude a finding of misconduct, and the Commission properly may consider surrounding factors in ascertaining whether discipline may be in order. The determination whether a legal error provides the basis for discipline thus requires an inquiry into additional factors that demonstrate more than legal error, alone [Oberholzer v. Commission on Judicial Performance (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 371, 398, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 466] .

[b] Canon 2--Impropriety

Canon 2 provides in part that a judge must avoid impropriety and the appearance of impropriety in all of the judge's activities [Cal. Rules of Ct., Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 2]. The Canon's specific provisions include the following:

- A judge must respect and comply with the law and must act at all times in a manner that promotes public confidence in the integrity and impartiality of the judiciary [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 2(A)].

- A judge must not allow family, social, political, or other relationships to influence the judge's judicial conduct or judgment, nor must a judge convey or permit others to convey the impression that any individual is in a special position to influence the judge [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 2(B)(1)].

- A judge must not lend the prestige of judicial office to advance the pecuniary or personal interests of the judge or others; nor shall a judge testify voluntarily as a character witness [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 2(B)(2)].

- A judge must not use the judicial title in any written communication intended to advance the personal or pecuniary interest of the judge [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 2(B)(4)].

- A judge must not hold membership in any organization that practices invidious discrimination on the basis of race, sex, religion, national origin, or sexual orientation [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 2(C)].

The commentary to this Canon provides an objective test for the appearance of impropriety: the question is not whether the judge is actually biased, but "whether a person aware of the facts might reasonably entertain a doubt that the judge would be able to act with integrity, impartiality, and competence" [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 2(A), Advisory Committee Commentary; see also Yaqub v. Salinas Valley Memorial Healthcare System (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 474, 486, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 780] .

[c] Canon 3--Impartiality and Diligence

Canon 3 provides in part that a judge must perform the duties of judicial office impartially and diligently [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3]. The Canon's specific provisions include the following:

- All of the judicial duties prescribed by law must take precedence over all other activities of every judge. In the performance of these duties, the following standards apply [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(A)].

- A judge must be faithful to the law regardless of partisan interests, public clamor, or fear of criticism, and must maintain professional competence in the law [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(B)(2)].

- A judge must require order and decorum in proceedings before the judge [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(B)(3)].

- A judge must be patient, dignified, and courteous to litigants, jurors, witnesses, lawyers, and others with whom the judge deals in an official capacity, and must require similar conduct of lawyers and of all court staff and personnel under the judge's direction and control [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(B)(4)].

- A judge must perform judicial duties without bias or prejudice [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(B)(5)].

- A judge must require lawyers in proceedings before the judge to refrain from manifesting, by words or conduct, bias or prejudice based upon race, sex, religion, national origin, disability, age, sexual orientation, or socioeconomic status against parties, witnesses, counsel, or others [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(B)(6)].

- A judge must accord to every person who has a legal interest in a proceeding, or that person's lawyer, full right to be heard according to law. A judge must not initiate, permit, or consider ex parte communications, or consider other communications made to the judge outside the presence of the parties concerning a pending or impending proceeding, except as follows [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(B)(7)]:

    - A judge may obtain the advice of a disinterested expert on the law applicable to a proceeding before the judge if the judge gives notice to the parties of the person consulted and the substance of the advice, and affords the parties reasonable opportunity to respond [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(B)(7)(a)].

    - A judge may consult with court personnel whose function is to aid the judge in carrying out the judge's adjudicative responsibilities or with other judges [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(B)(7)(b)].

    - A judge may, with the consent of the parties, confer separately with the parties and their lawyers in an effort to mediate or settle matters pending before the judge [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(B)(7)(c)].

    - A judge may initiate ex parte communications, where circumstances require, for scheduling, administrative purposes, or emergencies that do not deal with substantive matters provided: (i) the judge reasonably believes that no party will gain a procedural or tactical advantage as a result of the ex parte communication, and (ii) the judge makes provision promptly to notify all other parties of the substance of the ex parte communication and allows an opportunity to respond [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(B)(7)(d)].

    - A judge may initiate or consider any ex parte communication when expressly authorized by law to do so [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(B)(7)(e)].

- A judge must not make any public comment about a pending or impending proceeding in any court, and must not make any nonpublic comment that might substantially interfere with a fair trial or hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(B)(9)].

- A judge must not commend or criticize jurors for their verdict other than in a court order or opinion in a proceeding, but may express appreciation to jurors for their service to the judicial system and the community [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(B)(10)].

- A judge must require staff and court personnel under the judge's direction and control to observe appropriate standards of conduct and to refrain from manifesting bias or prejudice based upon race, sex, religion, national origin, disability, age, sexual orientation, or socioeconomic status in the performance of their official duties [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(C)(2)].

- Whenever a judge has reliable information that another judge has violated any provision of the Code of Judicial Ethics, the judge must take or initiate appropriate corrective action, which may include reporting the violation to the appropriate authority [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(D)(1)].

- Whenever a judge has personal knowledge that a lawyer has violated any provision of the Rules of Professional Conduct, the judge must take appropriate corrective action [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(D)(2)].

- A judge who is charged by prosecutorial complaint, information, or indictment or convicted of a crime in the United States, other than one that would be considered a misdemeanor not involving moral turpitude or an infraction under California law, but including all misdemeanors involving violence (including assaults), the use or possession of controlled substances, the misuse of prescriptions, or the personal use or furnishing of alcohol, must promptly and in writing report that fact to the Commission on Judicial Performance [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(D)(3)].

- A judge must disqualify himself or herself in any proceeding in which disqualification is required by law [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(E)(1)].

- In all trial court proceedings, a judge must disclose on the record information that the judge believes the parties or their lawyers might consider relevant to the question of disqualification, even if the judge believes there is no actual basis for disqualification [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(E)(2)].

A judge must not independently investigate facts in a case and must consider only the evidence presented, unless otherwise authorized by law. For example, a judge is statutorily authorized to investigate and consult witnesses informally in small claims cases [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(B)(7), Advisory Committee Commentary].

The requirement that judges abstain from public comment regarding a pending or impending proceeding continues during any appellate process and until final disposition. This Canon does not prohibit a judge from commenting on proceedings in which the judge is a litigant in a personal capacity, but in cases such as a writ of mandamus where the judge is a litigant in an official capacity, the judge must not comment publicly [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 3(B)(9), Advisory Committee Commentary].

Canon 4 provides in part that a judge must so conduct the judge's quasi-judicial and extrajudicial activities as to minimize the risk of conflict with judicial obligations [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 4]. The Canon's specific provisions include the following:

- A judge may speak, write, lecture, teach, and participate in activities concerning legal and nonlegal subject matters, subject to the requirements of the Code of Judicial Ethics [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 4(B)].

- A judge must not appear at a public hearing or officially consult with an executive or legislative body or public official except on matters concerning the law, the legal system, or the administration of justice or in matters involving the judge's private economic or personal interests [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 4(C)(1)].

- A judge must not accept appointment to a governmental committee or commission or other governmental position that is concerned with issues of fact or policy on matters other than the improvement of the law, the legal system, or the administration of justice [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 4(C)(2)].

- Subject to the other requirements of the Code of Ethics, a judge may serve as an officer, director, trustee, or nonlegal advisor of an organization or governmental agency devoted to the improvement of the law, the legal system, or the administration of justice provided that such position does not constitute a public office within the meaning of the Cal. Const., art. VI, § 17; and a judge may serve as an officer, director, trustee, or nonlegal advisor of an educational, religious, charitable, fraternal, or civic organization not conducted for profit [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 4(C)(3)].

- Under no circumstance shall a judge accept a gift, bequest, or favor if the donor is a party whose interests have come or are reasonably likely to come before the judge. A judge must discourage members of the judge's family residing in the judge's household from accepting similar benefits from parties who have come or are reasonably likely to come before the judge [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 4(D)(5)].

- A judge must not practice law [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 4(G)].

The prohibition on the practice of law refers to the practice of law in a representative capacity and not in a pro se capacity. A judge may act for himself or herself in all legal matters, including matters involving litigation and matters involving appearances before or other dealings with legislative and other governmental bodies. However, in so doing, a judge must not abuse the prestige of office to advance the interests of the judge or member of the judge's family [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 4(G), Advisory Committee Commentary].

[e] Canon 5--Political Activities

Canon 5 provides in part that a judge or judicial candidate must refrain from inappropriate political activity [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 5]. The Canon's specific provisions include the following:

- Judges and candidates for judicial office must not act as leaders or hold any office in a political organization [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 5(A)(1)]; make speeches for a political organization or candidate for nonjudicial office or publicly endorse or publicly oppose a candidate for nonjudicial office [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 5(A)(2)]; or personally solicit funds for a political organization or nonjudicial candidate; or make contributions to a political party or political organization or to a nonjudicial candidate in excess of $500 in any calendar year per political party or political organization or candidate, or in excess of an aggregate of $1,000 in any calendar year for all political parties or political organizations or nonjudicial candidates [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 5(A)(3)].

- A candidate for election or appointment to judicial office must not make statements to the electorate or the appointing authority that commit the candidate with respect to cases, controversies, or issues that could come before the courts [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 5(B)(1)], or knowingly, or with reckless disregard for the truth, misrepresent the identity, qualifications, present position, or any other fact concerning the candidate or his or her opponent [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 5(B)(2)].

Canon 5A does not prohibit a judge from signing a petition to qualify a measure for the ballot without the use of the judge's official title [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 5(A), Advisory Committee Commentary].

[f] Canon 6--Compliance With Code of Judicial Ethics

Canon 6 mandates compliance with the Code of Judicial Ethics [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 6]. The Canon's specific provisions include the following:

- Anyone who is an officer of the state judicial system and who performs judicial functions, including, but not limited to, a subordinate judicial officer, magistrate, court-appointed arbitrator, judge of the State Bar Court, temporary judge, and special master, is a judge within the meaning of the Code of Judicial Ethics. Except as provided in Canon 6, all judges must comply with the Code [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 6(A)].

- A candidate for judicial office must comply with the provisions of Canon 5 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Code Jud. Ethics, Canon 6(E)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Judicial Ethics and Discipline

27-317 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 317.86

§ 317.86 Commission on Judicial Performance

[1] Governing Law

The Commission on Judicial Performance was established by voter referendum in 1960. The Commission's authority is set forth in Cal. Const., art. VI, §§ 8, 18, 18.1 and 18.5. The Commission also is subject to Gov. Code §§ 68701-68755.

In addition, the Commission is responsible for enforcement of the restrictions on judges' receipt of gifts and honoraria, set forth in Code of Civ. Proc. § 170.9.

[2] Authority/Scope of Actions Against Judge

The Commission has authority to conduct proceedings against any California judge after its investigation of cases of willful misconduct in office, persistent failure or inability to perform the duties of office, habitual intemperance, conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that may be detrimental to the judicial office itself, or a disability of a permanent character that seriously interferes with the performance of duties [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 18]. The Commission is authorized to take the following actions:

- Retire a judge for disability that seriously interferes with the performance of the judge's duties and is or is likely to become permanent [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 18(d)(1)];

- Censure a judge or former judge or remove a judge for action occurring not more than six years prior to the commencement of the judge's current term or of the former judge's last term that constitutes willful misconduct in office, persistent failure or inability to perform the judge's duties, habitual intemperance in the use of intoxicants or drugs, or conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that brings the judicial office into disrepute [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 18(d)(2)]; and

- Publicly or privately admonish a judge or former judge found to have engaged in an improper action or dereliction of duty [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 18(d)(3)].

The Commission may also bar a former judge who has been censured from receiving an assignment, appointment, or reference of work from any California state court [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 18(d)].

Pursuant to Cal. Const., art. VI, § 18(i), the Commission has adopted Rules 101-139 that govern investigations and formal proceedings. The Commission has also adopted Policy Declarations, which further detail internal procedures and existing policy.

[3] Commission Proceedings

[a] Interested Party

Judges who are members of the Commission or of the Supreme Court may not participate as such in any Commission proceedings involving themselves [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 101].

[b] Confidentiality and Disclosure

[i] Scope of Rule

Except as provided in Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102, all papers filed with and proceedings before the Commission are confidential. Nothing in Rule 102 prohibits the respondent judge or anyone other than a Commission member or member of Commission staff from making statements regarding the judge's conduct underlying a complaint or proceeding [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(a)].

[ii] Disclosure After Institution of Formal Proceedings

When the Commission institutes formal proceedings, the following is not confidential:

- The notice of formal proceedings and all subsequent papers filed with the commission and the special masters, all stipulations entered, all findings of fact and conclusions of law made by the special masters and by the commission, and all determinations of removal, censure and public admonishment made by the commission [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(b)(1)];

- The formal hearing before the special masters and the appearance before the Commission [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(b)(2)].

[iii] Explanatory Statements

The Commission may issue explanatory statements under Cal. Const., art. VI, § 18(k) [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(c)].

[iv] Submission of Proposed Statement of Clarification and Correction Regarding Commission Proceedings by Judge

Notwithstanding Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(a), if public reports concerning a Commission proceeding result in substantial unfairness to the judge involved in the proceeding, including unfairness resulting from reports that are false or materially misleading or inaccurate, the involved judge may submit a proposed statement of clarification and correction to the Commission and request its issuance. The Commission must either issue the requested statement, advise the judge in writing that it declines to issue the requested statement, or issue a modified statement [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(d)].

[v] Disclosure to Complainant

Upon completion of an investigation or proceeding, the Commission must disclose to the person complaining against the judge that the Commission:

- Has found no basis for action against the judge or determined not to proceed further in this matter [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(e)(1)];

- Has taken an appropriate corrective action, the nature of which must not be disclosed [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(e)(2)]; or

- Has publicly admonished, censured, removed, or retired the judge, or has found the person unfit to serve as a subordinate judicial officer [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(e)(3)].

Where a matter is referred to the Commission by a presiding judge or other public official in his or her official capacity, disclosure concerning that matter must be made to the individual serving in that office at the time the matter is concluded. The name of the judge must not be used in any written communication to the complainant, unless formal proceedings have been instituted or unless the complainant is a presiding judge or other public official in his or her official capacity. Written communications in which the judge's name is not used must include the date of the complaint as a cross-reference [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(e)].

[vi] Public Safety

When the Commission receives information concerning a threat to the safety of any person or persons, information concerning such a threat may be provided to the person threatened, to persons or organizations responsible for the safety of the person threatened, and to law enforcement and/or any appropriate prosecutorial agency [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(f)].

[vii] Disclosure of Information to Prosecuting Authorities

The Commission may release to prosecuting authorities at any time information that reveals possible criminal conduct by the judge or former judge or by any other individual or entity [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(g)].

[viii] Disclosure of Records to Public Entity Upon Request or Consent of Judge

If a judge or former judge requests or consents to release of Commission records to a public entity, the Commission may release that judge's records [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(h)].

The Commission must, upon request, provide to the Governor of any State of the Union, the President of the United States, or the Commission on Judicial Appointments the text of any private admonishment or advisory letter issued after March 1, 1995, or any other disciplinary action together with any information that the Commission deems necessary to a full understanding of the Commission's action, with respect to any applicant under consideration for any judicial appointment, provided that:

- The request is in writing [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(i)(1)]; and

- Any information released to the appointing authority is simultaneously provided to the applicant [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(i)(2)].

All information disclosed to appointing authorities under this subdivision remains privileged and confidential. Private admonishments and advisory letters issued before March 1, 1995, must only be disclosed under this section with the judge's written consent [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(i)].

[x] Disclosure of Information Regarding Pending Proceedings to Appointing Authorities

The Commission may, upon request, in the interest of justice or to maintain public confidence in the administration of justice, provide to the Governor of any State of the Union, the President of the United States, the Commission on Judicial Appointments, or any other state or federal authorities responsible for judicial appointments information concerning any pending investigation or proceeding with respect to any applicant under consideration for any judicial appointment, provided that:

- The request is in writing [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(j)(1)]; and

- Any information released to the appointing authority is simultaneously provided to the applicant [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(j)(2)].

If a disclosure about a pending matter is made and that matter subsequently is closed by the Commission without discipline being imposed, disclosure of the latter fact must be made promptly to the appointing authority and the judge. All information disclosed to appointing authorities under Rule 102(j) remains privileged and confidential [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(j)].

[xi] Disclosure of Information to Regulatory Agencies Upon Retirement or Resignation

If a judge retires or resigns from office or if a subordinate judicial officer retires or resigns from employment after a complaint is filed with the commission, or if a complaint is filed with the commission after the retirement or resignation, the commission may, in the interest of justice or to maintain public confidence in the administration of justice, release information concerning the complaint, investigation and proceedings to the State Bar or to other regulatory agencies, provided that the commission has commenced a preliminary investigation or other proceeding and the judge has had an opportunity to respond to the commission's inquiry or preliminary investigation letter [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(k)].

[xii] Disclosure of Information About Subordinate Judicial Officers to Presiding Judges

The Commission may release to a presiding judge or his or her designee information concerning a complaint, investigation, or disposition involving a subordinate judicial officer, including the name of the subordinate judicial officer, consistent with the Commission's jurisdiction under Cal. Const., art. VI, § 18.1 [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(l)].

[xiii] Disclosure of Information Regarding Disciplinary Action and Pending Proceedings to the Chief Justice

With respect to any judge who is under consideration for judicial assignment following retirement or resignation, or is sitting on assignment, the Commission may, upon the request of the Chief Justice of California and with the consent of that judge, in the interest of justice or to maintain public confidence in the administration of justice, provide the Chief Justice information concerning any record of disciplinary action or any pending investigation or proceeding with respect to that judge, provided that:

- The request and consent are in writing [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(m)(1)];

- If the disclosure involves a pending investigation or proceeding, the judge has had an opportunity to respond to the pending investigation or proceeding [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(m)(2)]; and

- Any information released to the Chief Justice is simultaneously provided to the judge seeking assignment [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(m)(3)].

If the disclosure involves disciplinary action, the Commission may include any information the Commission deems necessary to a full understanding of its action. If a disclosure about a pending matter is made and that matter subsequently is closed by the Commission without discipline being imposed, disclosure of the latter fact must be made promptly to the Chief Justice and the judge. All information disclosed to the Chief Justice under Rule 102(m) remains privileged and confidential [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(m)].

[xiv] Disclosure of Information to Presiding Judges About Possible Lack of Capacity or Other Inability to Perform

The Commission may release to a presiding judge or his or her designee information concerning an investigation involving possible lack of capacity or other inability to perform judicial duties on the part of a judge of that court, except that no confidential medical information concerning the judge may be released [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102(n)].

[c] Protection From Liability for Statements

The making of statements to the Commission, the filing of papers with or the giving of testimony before the Commission, or before the masters appointed by the Supreme Court pursuant to Rule 121, must not give rise to civil liability for the person engaged in such acts. This privilege extends to any motions or petitions filed in the Supreme Court, as well as papers filed in connection therewith. No other publication of such statements, papers or proceedings must be so privileged [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 103].

[d] Duty to Cooperate; Response by Respondent Judge

A respondent judge must cooperate with the Commission in all proceedings in accordance with Gov. Code § 68725. The judge's cooperation or lack of cooperation may be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate disciplinary sanction or disposition as well as further proceedings to be taken by the Commission but may not be considered in making evidentiary determinations [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 104(a)].

A respondent judge must, within the time limits set forth in Rules 110(a) and 111(a), respond to the merits of a staff inquiry letter or preliminary investigation letter [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 104(b)]. A respondent judge must, within the time limits set forth in Rule 119(b), file an answer to a notice of formal proceedings which comports with the requirements set forth in Rule 119(c) [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 104(c)].

A respondent judge must file all other responses and documents required in Commission proceedings within such reasonable time as the Commission may prescribe, and must comply with all other requirements of Commission proceedings, including the discovery requirements set forth in Rule 122 [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 104(d)].

In accordance with Evid. Code § 913, no inference shall be drawn as to any matter in issue or to the credibility of the judge based on a refusal to respond as required by Rule 104 or to respond to a question at a hearing under Rule 123 when such refusal is based on the exercise of the privilege against self-incrimination or of any other Evidence Code privilege or of any other privilege recognized by law [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 104(e)].

[e] Medical Examination

Upon a finding of good cause by seven members of the Commission and within such reasonable time as the Commission may prescribe, a judge must submit to a medical examination ordered by the Commission. The examination must be limited to the conditions stated in the finding of good cause. No examination by a specialist in psychiatry may be required without the consent of the judge [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 105].

[f] Judge's Representation by Counsel

A judge may be represented by counsel in all Commission proceedings. The written communications of counsel shall be deemed to be the written communications of the judge. Counsel has the authority to bind the judge as to all matters except a stipulation as to discipline [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 106].

Any paper filed with the Commission and any written statement made to the Commission or to its staff must be signed by the judge or the judge's counsel. A stipulation as to discipline must be signed by the judge. The signing of any document or statement warrants that the signer has personal knowledge of the matter contained in the document or statement or has investigated the matter and has a good faith belief in the accuracy of the representations contained in the document or statement [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 106].

Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 106 applies to the filing of responses to staff inquiry letters and preliminary investigation letters under Comm. Jud. Perf., Rules 110 and 111, to the filing of answers in formal proceedings under Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 119, and to all other filings with the Commission and the masters and all other correspondence with the Commission [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 106].

[g] Notice Requirements

All notices of a staff inquiry, preliminary investigation, or intended private admonishment or public admonishment must be sent to the judge at chambers unless otherwise requested, and a copy thereof must be mailed to counsel of record. If the notice relates to a staff inquiry, the notice must be given by first-class mail. If the notice relates to a preliminary investigation or intended private admonishment or public admonishment, the notice must be given by prepaid certified mail return receipt requested. Envelopes containing such notices must be marked "personal and confidential"; the inscription "Commission on Judicial Performance" must not be used on the envelopes [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 107(a)].

After institution of formal proceedings, the service of the notice of formal proceedings must be made as set forth in Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 118, and the giving of notice or sending of other correspondence in connection with the formal proceedings must be accomplished as set forth in Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 126 [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 107(b)].

[h] Extensions of Time

A judge may, upon submission of a written request for extension to the chairperson prior to the expiration of time for filing a response to a staff inquiry letter under Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 110, obtain a 30-day extension of time for filing the response to the staff inquiry letter [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 108(a)].

Upon a showing of good cause submitted by the judge, the chairperson, chairperson's designee or other member designated by the Commission may extend the time for filing a response to a preliminary investigation letter under Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 111 or for filing an answer to a notice of formal proceedings [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 108(b)].

The chairperson of the Commission or the presiding master may extend the time for commencing a hearing before the special masters upon a showing of good cause to permit either party to obtain reasonable discovery as provided in these rules, or for other reasons set forth in a showing of good cause [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 108(c)].

The chairperson may, upon request of the masters, extend the time for the filing of the report of the masters under Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 129 [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 108(d)].

The judge or the examiner may, upon submission of a written request for extension to the chairperson prior to the expiration of time for filing opening briefs to the Commission under Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 130(a), obtain a 30-day extension of time for filing opening briefs to the Commission [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 108(e)].

Any other or further extension of time may be granted by the chairperson of the Commission only upon a showing of good cause [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 108(f)].

[i] Commencement of Commission Action

[i] Receipt of Written Statement

Upon receiving a written statement alleging facts indicating that a judge is guilty of willful misconduct in office, persistent failure or inability to perform the duties of office, habitual intemperance in the use of intoxicants or drugs, or conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that brings the judicial office into disrepute, or that the judge has a disability that seriously interferes with the performance of the duties of office and is or is likely to become permanent, or that the judge has engaged in an improper action or a dereliction of duty, the Commission may:

- In an appropriate case, determine that the statement is obviously unfounded or frivolous and dismiss the proceeding [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 109(a)(1)];

- If the statement is not obviously unfounded or frivolous, make a staff inquiry to determine whether sufficient facts exist to warrant a preliminary investigation [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 109(a)(2)]; or

- If sufficient facts are determined in the course of a staff inquiry or otherwise, make a preliminary investigation to determine whether formal proceedings should be instituted and a hearing held [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 109(a)(3)].

Commission staff will evaluate anonymous complaints for merit; if a complaint is deemed sufficiently meritorious, it will be placed on the oversight agenda for consideration by the Commission as to whether or not it should be docketed [Comm. Jud. Perf., Pol. Decl. 1.1].

For form of complaint about a California judge, court commissioner, or referee, see § 317.219.

[ii] Staff Inquiry or Preliminary Investigation on Commission's Own Motion

The Commission may make a staff inquiry or preliminary investigation on the basis of information received by the Commission not contained in a written report indicating that a judge is guilty of willful misconduct in office, persistent failure or inability to perform the duties of office, habitual intemperance in the use of intoxicants or drugs, or conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that brings the judicial office into disrepute, or that the judge has a disability that seriously interferes with the performance of the duties of office and is or is likely to become permanent, or that the judge has engaged in an improper action or a dereliction of duty [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 109(b)].

In instances where a matter comes to the attention of the Commission between meetings, which on its face appears to warrant a staff inquiry or a preliminary investigation and there has already been direct communication with the subject judge or other exigent circumstances exist, an effort should be made, whenever possible, to poll all of the Commission members for authorization of a staff inquiry or preliminary investigation. If, in the discretion of the chairperson or acting chairperson, polling all of the members is not feasible, the chairperson or acting chairperson may authorize the staff inquiry or preliminary investigation. When a staff inquiry or preliminary investigation is authorized without a poll of the members, the members must be promptly notified of the action taken [Comm. Jud. Perf., Pol. Decl. 1.6].

[iii] Staff Inquiry or Preliminary Investigation of Subordinate Judicial Officers

The Commission may make a staff inquiry or a preliminary investigation of a subordinate judicial officer whenever:

- The Commission receives from a complainant a written request within 30 days after the complainant has been advised by the local court of the disposition of a complaint against a subordinate judicial officer, and the commission concludes that the local court may have abused its discretion in its disposition of such complaint [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 109(c)(1)];

- The Commission receives from a local court a request that the Commission investigate or adjudicate a complaint against a subordinate judicial officer [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 109(c)(2)];

- The Commission receives from a local court information that a complaint resulted in the written reprimand, suspension, or removal of the subordinate judicial officer [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 109(c)(3)]; or

- The Commission receives from a local court information that a subordinate judicial officer resigned while an investigation was pending and before a final decision was made by the local court [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 109(c)(4)].

Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 109(c) applies only to complaints about a subordinate judicial officer received in the local court on or after June 3, 1998; Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 109(c)(1) applies only in cases in which the complainant was apprised by the local court of the 30-day time limit for seeking review by the Commission [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 109(c)].

Upon written request from a judge who is the subject of a complaint before the Commission, the Commission must notify the judge in writing of the disposition of the complaint if:

- The judge's request to the Commission specifically describes the underlying incident giving rise to the complaint [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 109(d)(1)];

- The pendency of the complaint has become generally known to the public [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 109(d)(2)]; or

- The judge has received written notice of the complaint from someone who is not associated with the Commission [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 109(d)(3)].

[j] Staff Inquiry; Advisory Letter After Staff Inquiry

[i] Purpose of Staff Inquiry

The staff inquiry is one of the Commission's two levels of investigation. A staff inquiry may, but need not, precede a preliminary investigation [Comm. Jud. Perf., Pol. Decl. 1.2]. The purpose of a staff inquiry is to determine whether sufficient facts exist to warrant a preliminary investigation [Comm. Jud. Perf., Pol. Decl. 1.2].

[ii] Contents of Staff Inquiry Letter

An inquiry letter will include specification of the allegations and may include [Comm. Jud. Perf., Pol. Decl. 1.3]:

- The date of the conduct;

- The location(s) where the conduct occurred;

- If applicable, the name(s) of the case(s) or identification of the court proceeding(s) in relation to which the conduct occurred.

If the inquiry concerns statements made by or to the judge, the letter may also include the text or summaries of the comments. The purpose of the inquiry letter is to afford the judge an opportunity to provide such matters as the judge may choose, including information about the factual aspects of the allegations and other relevant comment [Comm. Jud. Perf., Pol. Decl. 1.3].

[iii] Notice Prior to Issuance of Advisory Letter

If the Commission makes a staff inquiry, the judge must be notified of the inquiry and the nature of the charge, before the Commission issues an advisory letter. The respondent judge so notified must be afforded a reasonable opportunity in the course of the inquiry to present such matters as the judge may choose. A reasonable time for a judge to respond to an inquiry letter must be 20 days from the date the letter was mailed to the judge unless the time is extended pursuant to Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 108 [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 110(a)].

[iv] Termination of Staff Inquiry

If the staff inquiry does not disclose sufficient cause to warrant issuance of a confidential advisory letter or further proceedings, the Commission must terminate the staff inquiry and notify the judge in writing of such action if the judge was notified of the staff inquiry pursuant to Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 110(a) [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 110(b)].

[v] Advisory Letter

At any time after notice of a staff inquiry and a reasonable opportunity to respond has been given to the judge, the Commission may determine that the judge's conduct does not constitute a basis for further proceedings and issue a confidential advisory letter to the judge [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 110(c)].

As noted in Oberholzer v. Commission on Judicial Performance (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 371, 388, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 466 , the California Judges Association has opined that the advisory letter, also known as the stinger letter, "is used when a judge's conduct is deemed to be marginal: not worthy of formal discipline, but not to be condoned. The stinger is supposed to be a form of constructive criticism or advice as well as a harbinger of future bad tidings if the advice is not followed." In Oberholzer, the petitioner judge claimed that the Commission's procedures in issuing the advisory letter violated his right to due process of law, and urged the California Supreme Court to invalidate procedures followed by the Commission in issuing advisory letters. He claimed that prior to its issuance, he was he was entitled to a hearing, the right to review the evidence considered by the Commission, the right to confront adverse witnesses or evidence, and the right to judicial review--in other words, the functional equivalent of a trial. The California Supreme Court disagreed, noting that the procedural protections petitioner contends were improperly withheld from him are of the type more appropriately required whenever action by the state significantly impairs an individual's freedom to pursue a private occupation: "Advisory letters may range from a mild suggestion to a severe rebuke; although they may reduce a judge's chance of being elevated to a higher court (or appointed to some other office), such letters do not inexorably subject a judge to public opprobrium or other inevitable consequences that might impair the individual's freedom to pursue his or her chosen occupation" [Oberholzer v. Commission on Judicial Performance (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 371, 393, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 466] .

[i] Purpose of Preliminary Investigation

The preliminary investigation is the second of the Commission's two levels of investigation [Comm. Jud. Perf., Pol. Decl. 1.4]. A preliminary investigation may follow a staff inquiry or may be instituted without a staff inquiry having been conducted. Where the allegations, if true, would warrant consideration of Commission action greater than issuance of an advisory letter or when the use of investigation subpoenas and more formal investigative procedures are contemplated, the Commission may commence with a preliminary investigation. The purpose of a preliminary investigation is to determine whether formal proceedings should be instituted and a hearing held [Comm. Jud. Perf., Pol. Decl. 1.4].

[ii] Notice

If the Commission commences a preliminary investigation, the judge must be notified of the investigation and the nature of the charge, and be afforded a reasonable opportunity in the course of the preliminary investigation to present such matters as the judge may choose. A reasonable time for a judge to respond to a preliminary investigation letter must be 20 days from the date the letter was mailed to the judge unless the time is extended pursuant to Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 108 [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 111(a)].

A preliminary investigation letter provides the judge notice of the investigation and the nature of the charge under review and may include the following [Comm. Jud. Perf., Pol. Decl. 1.5]:

- The date of the conduct;
- The location(s) where the conduct occurred, if applicable;
- The name of the case(s) or identification of the court proceeding(s) in relation to which the conduct occurred.

If the investigation concerns statements made by or to the judge, the letter may also include the text or summaries of the comments. The purpose of the preliminary investigation letter is to afford the judge an opportunity to provide such matters as the judge may choose including information about the factual aspects of the allegations and other relevant comment [Comm. Jud. Perf., Pol. Decl. 1.5].

[iii] Termination of Investigation

If the preliminary investigation does not disclose sufficient cause to warrant further proceedings, the Commission must terminate the investigation and notify the judge in writing [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 111(b)].

[iv] Advisory Letter

At any time after notice of a preliminary investigation and a reasonable opportunity to respond has been given to the judge, the Commission may determine that the judge's conduct does not constitute a basis for further proceedings and may terminate the investigation by issuing a confidential advisory letter to the judge [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 111(c)].

As noted in Oberholzer v. Commission on Judicial Performance (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 371, 388, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 466 , the California Judges Association has opined that the advisory letter, also known as the stinger letter, "is used when a judge's conduct is deemed to be marginal: not worthy of formal discipline, but not to be condoned. The stinger is supposed to be a form of constructive criticism or advice as well as a harbinger of future bad tidings if the advice is not followed." In Oberholzer, the petitioner judge claimed that the Commission's procedures in issuing the advisory letter violated his right to due process of law, and urged the California Supreme Court to invalidate procedures followed by the Commission in issuing advisory letters. He claimed that prior to its issuance, he was he was entitled to a hearing, the right to review the evidence considered by the Commission, the right to confront adverse witnesses or evidence, and the right to judicial review--in other words, the functional equivalent of a trial. The California Supreme Court disagreed, noting that the procedural protections petitioner contends were improperly withheld from him are of the type more appropriately required whenever action by the state significantly impairs an individual's freedom to pursue a private occupation: "Advisory letters may range from a mild suggestion to a severe rebuke; although they may reduce a judge's chance of being elevated to a higher court (or appointed to some other office), such letters do not inexorably subject a judge to public opprobrium or other inevitable consequences that might impair the individual's freedom to pursue his or her chosen occupation" [Oberholzer v. Commission on Judicial Performance (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 371, 393, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 466] .

The Commission may defer termination of a preliminary investigation for a period not to exceed two years for observation and review of a judge's conduct. The judge must be advised in writing of the type of behavior for which the judge is being monitored. Such disclosure shall not limit the Commission's consideration of misconduct involving other types of behavior which may be observed or reported during the period of monitoring [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 112].

[m] Notice of Intended Private Admonishment

If after a preliminary investigation the Commission determines that there is good cause for a private admonishment, it may issue a notice of intended private admonishment to the judge by certified mail. The notice must include a statement of facts found by the Commission and the reasons for the proposed admonishment. The notice must also contain an advisement as to the judge's options under Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 114 [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 113].

[n] Private Admonishment Procedure

A judge who receives a notice of intended private admonishment pursuant to Comm. Jud. Per., Rule 113 has the following options discussed below [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 114].

[i] Acceptance of Private Admonishment

The judge may choose not to contest the intended private admonishment. If the judge does not contest the intended private admonishment within 30 days after the mailing of a notice of intended private admonishment, the admonishment becomes effective [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 114(a)].

[ii] Appearance Before Commission

The judge may, within 30 days of the mailing of a notice of intended private admonishment, file with the Commission written objections to the intended private admonishment, waive the right to formal proceedings pursuant to Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 118, and demand an appearance before the Commission to contest the intended private admonishment [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 114(b)].

After the time set for the appearance before the Commission, the Commission may:

- Close the matter without disciplinary action [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 114(b)(1)];
- Close the matter with a confidential advisory letter [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 114(b)(2)]; or
- Issue a private admonishment [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 114(b)(3)].

[iii] Formal Proceedings

The judge may, within 30 days of the mailing of a notice of intended private admonishment, file with the Commission a demand for formal proceedings pursuant to Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 118 [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 114(c)].

[o] Notice of Intended Public Admonishment

If the Commission determines following a preliminary investigation that there is good cause for public discipline, it may issue a notice of intended public admonishment to the judge by certified mail. The notice must include a statement of facts found by the Commission and the reasons for the proposed admonishment. The notice must also contain an advisement as to the judge's options under Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 116 [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 115].

[p] Public Admonishment Procedure

A judge who receives a notice of intended public admonishment pursuant to Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 115 has the following options [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 116]:

[i] Acceptance of Public Admonishment

The judge may choose not to contest the intended public admonishment. If the judge does not contest the intended public admonishment within 30 days after the mailing of a notice of intended public admonishment, the admonishment becomes effective [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 116(a)].

[ii] Appearance Before Commission

The judge may, within 30 days of the mailing of a notice of intended public admonishment, file with the Commission written objections to the intended public admonishment, waive the right to formal proceedings under Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 118, and demand an appearance before the Commission to contest the intended public admonishment [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 116(b)].

After the time set for the appearance before the Commission, the Commission may:

- Close the matter without disciplinary action [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 116(b)(1)];
- Close the matter with a confidential advisory letter [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 116(b)(2)];
- Issue a private admonishment [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 116(b)(3)]; or
- Issue a public admonishment [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 116(b)(4)].

[iii] Formal Proceedings

The judge may, within 30 days of the mailing of a notice of intended public admonishment, file with the Commission a demand for formal proceedings pursuant to Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 118 [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 116(c)].

[q] Use and Retention of Commission Records

[i] Use of Records Outside the Limitation Period

Commission records of complaints against a judge must not be used for any purpose if the complaints (1) relate to actions occurring more than six years prior to the commencement of the judge's current term, and (2) did not result in issuance of an advisory letter, public or private admonishment, censure, or removal of the judge [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 117(a)].

[ii] Records Disposition Program

The Commission must adopt a records disposition program designed to dispose of those records which cannot be used for any purpose under this rule or which are no longer necessary for the performance of its duties [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 117(b)].

[r] Notice of Formal Proceedings

[i] Issuance of Notice

After the preliminary investigation has been completed, if the Commission concludes that formal proceedings should be instituted, it must without delay issue a written notice to the judge advising the judge of the institution of formal proceedings to inquire into the charges against the judge [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 118(a)]. Such proceedings must be entitled:

BEFORE THE COMMISSION ON JUDICIAL PERFORMANCE Inquiry Concerning Judge _____, No. _____.

Absent unusual circumstances, the evidentiary hearing on the charges set forth in a notice of formal proceedings must be set to commence two to four months following the issuance under Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 118 of the notice of formal proceedings [Comm. Jud. Perf., Pol. Decl. 2.2].

[ii] Content of Notice

The notice must specify in ordinary and concise language the charges against the judge and the alleged facts upon which such charges are based, and must advise the judge of the duty to file a written answer to the charges within 20 days after service of the notice upon the judge [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 118(b)].

[iii] Service of Notice

After a notice of formal proceedings is signed by the chairperson of the Commission, the chairperson's designee or other member designated by the Commission, the notice must be served by personal service of a copy thereof on the judge, unless the judge personally or through counsel waives personal service and consents to service by mail. If there is no consent to service by mail and it appears to the chairperson of the Commission upon affidavit that, after reasonable effort for a period of 10 days, personal service could not be had, service may be made upon the judge by mailing, by prepaid certified mail, copies of the notice addressed to the judge at the judge's chambers and last known residence [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 118(c)].

[iv] Public Announcement

Not less than five days after service of the notice of formal proceedings as set forth above, the Commission must issue a public announcement advising that formal proceedings have been instituted, and make public the notice of formal proceedings. The public announcement must set forth the date the judge's answer to the notice of formal proceedings is due, and indicate that the answer to the notice of formal proceedings will be made public [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 118(d)].

[s] Answer

[i] Pleadings and Motions

The notice of formal proceedings and answer shall constitute the pleadings. No further pleadings shall be filed and no motion or demurrer shall be filed against any of the pleadings [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 119(a)].

[ii] Filing of Answer

Within 20 days after service of the notice of formal proceedings the judge must serve, in accordance with Comm. Jud, Perf., Rule 119.5, and file with the Commission an answer, which must be verified and must conform in style to Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.204(b). The chairperson, the chairperson's designee or other member designated by the Commission may grant an extension of time only upon timely written request establishing good cause for an extension of time [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 819(b)].

[iii] Content of Answer

The answer must be as complete and straightforward as the information reasonably available to the respondent judge permits. The answer must (1) admit each allegation which is true, (2) deny each allegation which is untrue, and (3) specify each allegation as to the truth of which the judge lacks sufficient information or knowledge. If a respondent judge gives lack of information or knowledge as a reason for a failure to admit or deny any allegation, the respondent judge must state in the answer that a reasonable inquiry concerning the matter in the particular allegation has been made, and that the information known or readily obtainable is insufficient to enable the respondent judge to admit or deny the matter [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 119(c)].

[t] Filing With the Commission

After institution of formal proceedings, documents required to be filed with the Commission must be delivered to Commission staff at the Commission office during regular business hours and must be accompanied by a proof of service of the document upon the other party or parties. A document is filed with the Commission when the original is stamped or otherwise marked "filed" with the date. The Commission's agent for purposes of filing documents is the Commission Counsel or the Commission Counsel's designee. A filing may be evidenced by a conformed copy of the cover page of each document submitted for filing [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 119.5].

Unless otherwise specified, documents submitted in conjunction with a hearing before special masters are not required to be filed with Commission Counsel. Such documents must be delivered to the presiding master accompanied by a proof of service on the other masters and other parties, or as otherwise requested by the masters [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 119.5].

[i] Disqualification Upon Determination to Remove, Retire or Bar From Assignments

If the Commission determines that a judge should be removed or retired from office, it will, in its order of removal or retirement, also order pursuant to Cal. Const., art. VI, § 18(b) that the judge be disqualified from acting as a judge, without loss of salary, until the Commission's determination becomes final or until any decision by the Supreme Court on any petition for review becomes final. If the Commission determines to censure and bar a former judge from receiving assignments, it will, in its order of censure, also order that the judge be barred from receiving assignments until the Commission's determination becomes final or until any decision by the Supreme Court on any petition for review becomes final [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 120(a)].

[ii] Disqualification Upon Notice of Formal Proceedings

Before the Commission has reached a determination regarding removal or retirement of a judge, it may temporarily disqualify a judge without loss of salary upon notice of formal proceedings pursuant to Cal. Const., art. VI, § 18(b) if it determines that the continued service of the judge is causing immediate, irreparable, and continuing public harm [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 120(b)].

If good cause for disqualification is apparent, the Commission may issue a notice of intention to temporarily disqualify the judge along with a notice of formal proceedings. Subsequent to the filing of a notice of formal proceedings, the examiner may file with the Commission a motion to temporarily disqualify the judge. The Commission's notice of intention to disqualify or the examiner's motion to disqualify must be by personal service or service upon the judge's counsel. If such service cannot be effectuated, service must be by prepaid certified mail upon the judge at his or her chambers and last known residence. If service is by mail, the notice must be accompanied by an affidavit or certificate of mailing and an affidavit must be filed regarding the inability to effectuate personal service or service upon counsel [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 120(b)].

The judge must have an opportunity to respond in writing within 10 days of receipt of the Commission's notice of intention to disqualify or the examiner's motion to disqualify, or within 15 days after the mailing of the notice, whichever occurs first. The time for filing a response must not be subject to extension under Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 108. The judge's response may include points and authorities in support of any legal arguments, and may include verified statements, other testimony, medical or other expert reports and any other evidence in opposition to the facts on which the Commission's notice of intention to disqualify or the examiner's motion to disqualify is based. Upon the filing of a response or expiration of time for filing a response, the Commission may issue an order of temporary disqualification [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 120(b)].

In cases in which a judge is temporarily disqualified under Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 120(b), the disposition of the charges in the notice of formal proceedings are accelerated and the formal proceedings must proceed without appreciable delay. In such cases, the Commission may reduce the number of days provided in Comm. Jud. Perf., Rules 122, 129, and 130 for the filing of papers in connection with the formal proceedings [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 120(c)].

[iv] Duration of Temporary Disqualification

An order for temporary disqualification of a judge under Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 120(b) must remain in effect until further order of the Commission or until the pending formal proceedings have been concluded by the commission [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 120(d)].

[v] Setting for Hearing Before Commission or Masters

[i] Time for Setting for Hearing

On filing or on expiration of the time for filing an answer, the Commission must set the matter for hearing [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 121(a)].

[ii] Appointment of Special Masters or Master

Unless the Commission determines to hold the hearing before itself, it may request the Supreme Court to appoint three special masters to hear and take evidence in the matter, and to report to the Commission. On a vote of seven members of the Commission and with the consent of the judge involved, the Commission may request the Supreme Court to appoint one special master in place of three special masters. Consent of the judge must be defined as (1) written agreement by the judge or counsel of record, or (2) failure to object in writing within 30 days of notice of the Commission's intention to request the appointment of one special master [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 121(b)].

[iii] Requirements for Special Masters

Special masters must be judges. When there are three special masters, not more than two of them may be retired judges from courts of record [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 121(c)].

[iv] Notice to Respondent Judge of Appointment of Special Masters and Examiner

Upon appointment of special masters or a single special master by the Supreme Court and appointment of an examiner by the Commission, the respondent judge must be given notice of the orders appointing the masters and the examiner, and the examiner must be given notice of the order appointing the special masters [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 121(d)].

[v] Notice of Hearing

The Commission must set a time and place for hearing before itself or before the masters and must give notice by mail confirming the date and place of the hearing to the judge and the examiner at least 20 days before the hearing [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 121(e)].

[w] Discovery Procedures

[i] Exclusive Procedures

The procedures in Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122 constitute the exclusive procedures for discovery. Discovery may be obtained only after a written notice of formal proceedings is issued [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(a)].

[ii] Applicability to Both Parties

The examiner and the judge are each entitled to discovery from the other in accordance with the procedures set forth in Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122 [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(b)].

[iii] Initial Discovery by Trial Counsel

At the time of service of the notice of formal proceedings, the judge must be provided copies of all documents and other information specified in Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(e) that is not privileged and is in the possession of the Commission. Such information must be made available at the Commission offices [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(c)].

[iv] Discovery Requests

Discovery requests may be made in writing at any time after the filing of the notice of formal proceedings. All requests for discovery must be made in writing to the opposing side within 30 days after service of the answer to the written notice of formal proceedings or within 30 days after service of the written notice of formal proceedings if no answer has yet been filed, or within 15 days after service of any amendment to the notice [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(d)].

[v] Inspection and Copying

The following items may be inspected or copied by the side requesting discovery:

- The names, and if known, the business addresses and business telephone numbers of persons the opposing side then intends to call as witnesses at the hearing [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(e)(1)];

- The names, and if known, the business addresses and business telephone numbers of those persons who may be able to provide substantial material information favorable to the judge. Substantial material information favorable to the judge is evidence bearing directly on the truth of the charges relevant to the credibility of a witness intended to be called [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(e)(2)];

- All statements about the subject matter of the proceedings, including any impeaching evidence, made by any witness then intended to be called by either side [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(e)(3)];

- All statements about the subject matter of the proceedings made by a person named or described in the notice, or amendment to the notice, other than the judge when it is claimed that an act or omission of the judge as to the person described is a basis for the formal proceeding [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(e)(4)];

- All investigative reports made by or on behalf of the commission, the examiner, or the judge, about the subject matter of the proceeding [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(e)(5)];

- All writings, including reports of mental, physical, and blood examinations, then intended to be offered in evidence by the opposing side [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(e)(6)];

- All physical items of evidence then intended to be offered in evidence [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(e)(7)];

- All writings or physical items of evidence which would be admissible in evidence at the hearing [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(e)(8)].

[vi] Compliance With Request

If either side receives a written request for discovery in accordance with these procedures, the side receiving the request must have a continuing duty to provide discovery of items listed in the request until proceedings before the masters are concluded. When a written request for discovery is made in accordance with these rules, discovery must be provided within a reasonable time after any discoverable items become known to the side obligated to provide discovery [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(f)].

[vii] Depositions

After initiation of formal charges against the judge, the Commission or the masters must order the taking of the deposition of any person upon a showing by the side requesting the deposition that the proposed deponent is a material witness who is unable or cannot be compelled to attend the hearing. If a deposition is ordered, the procedures stated in Gov. Code § 68753 must be followed. The side requesting the deposition must bear all costs of the deposition [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(g)].

[viii] Failure to Comply With Discovery Request

If any party fails to comply with a discovery request as authorized by these procedures, the items withheld must be suppressed or, if the items have been admitted into evidence, must be stricken from the record. If testimony is elicited during direct examination and the side eliciting the testimony withheld any statement of the testifying witness in violation of these discovery procedures, the testimony must be ordered stricken from the record. Upon a showing of good cause for failure to comply with a discovery request, the Commission, master, or masters may admit the items withheld or direct examination testimony of a witness whose statement was withheld upon condition that the side against whom the evidence is sought to be admitted is granted a reasonable continuance to prepare against the evidence, or may order the items or testimony suppressed or stricken from the record. The Commission may, upon review of any hearing, order any evidence stricken from the record for violation of a valid discovery request if the evidence could have been ordered stricken by the masters for violation of a valid discovery request [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(h)].

Nothing in these procedures shall authorize the discovery of any writing or thing that is privileged from disclosure by law or is otherwise protected or made confidential as the work product of the attorney, including memoranda by

Commission staff and examiners. Statements of any witness interviewed by the examiner, by any investigators for either side, by the judge, or by the judge's attorney shall not be protected as work product [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(i)].

[x] Definition of Statement

For purposes of these procedures, the term "statement" must mean either (1) a written statement prepared by or at the direction of the declarant or signed by the declarant, or (2) an oral that has been videotaped, transcribed, or summarized in writing [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(j)].

[xi] Return of Discovery; Continued Confidentiality of Discovery

Upon the completion or termination of Commission proceedings, the respondent judge must return to the Commission all materials provided to the judge under Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122 that have not become part of the public record. All items provided in discovery pursuant to this rule remain confidential under Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 102 until and unless those items become part of the public record [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(k)].

[xii] Protective Orders

The Commission or the masters may, upon application supported by a showing of good cause, issue protective orders to the extent necessary to maintain in effect such privileges and other protections as are otherwise provided by law [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 122(l)].

[x] Hearing

[i] Hearing Without Answer or Appearance by Judge

At the time and place set for hearing, the Commission, or the masters when the hearing is before masters, must proceed with the hearing whether or not the judge has filed an answer or appears at the hearing. The examiner must present the case in support of the charges in the notice of formal proceedings [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 123(a)].

[ii] Consideration of Failure to Answer, Appear, or Respond to Questions

The failure of the judge to answer or to appear at the hearing must not, standing alone, be taken as evidence of the truth of the facts alleged to constitute grounds for censure, removal, retirement or public or private admonishment. In accordance with Evid. Code § 913, no inference must be drawn from the exercise of the privilege not to respond to questions on grounds of self-incrimination or the exercise of any other Evidence Code privilege, or of any other recognized privilege, as to any matter in issue or to the credibility of the judge. In accordance with Evid. Code § 413, in reviewing the evidence and facts in the case against the judge, the Commission and the masters may consider the judge's failure to explain or deny evidence or facts in the case or any willful suppression of evidence if that is the case, unless the failure or suppression is due to the judge's exercise of any legally recognized privilege. A lack of cooperation by the judge may be considered by the Commission under Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 104 [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 123(b)].

[iii] Reporting of Hearing

A verbatim record must be made of the proceedings at the hearing [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 123(c)].

[iv] Number of Commission Members at Hearing

When the hearing is before the Commission, not fewer than six members must be present when the evidence is produced [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 123(d)].

[y] Media at Hearing

All applications for film or electronic coverage of hearings in formal proceedings are to be submitted to the Commission a reasonable time prior to the commencement of the hearing. The Commission must promptly inform the respondent judge of any requests for film or electronic coverage of the hearing. Applications for film or electronic coverage of the hearing are to be decided by the chairperson of the Commission or the chairperson's designee after conferring with the masters or presiding master, if masters have been appointed [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 124].

[i] Applicable Law and Agreed Statement

The California Evidence Code must be applicable to all hearings before the Commission or masters. Oral evidence must be taken only on oath or affirmation. The examiner or the judge may propose to the other party an agreed statement in place of all or a part of the testimony. An agreed statement must not foreclose argument to the Commission or masters [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 125(a)].

[ii] Prior Disciplinary Action

Any prior disciplinary action may be received in evidence to prove that conduct is persistent or habitual or to determine what action should be taken regarding discipline. Prior disciplinary action includes any disciplinary action which is in effect before the conclusion of a Commission proceeding, including review by the Supreme Court [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 125(b)].

[aa] Procedural Rights of Judge in Formal Proceedings

[i] Enumeration of Rights, Subpoenas

When formal proceedings have been instituted, a judge must have the right and reasonable opportunity to defend against the charges by the introduction of evidence, to be represented by counsel, and to examine and cross-examine witnesses. The judge must also have the right to the issuance of subpoenas for attendance of witnesses to testify or produce books, papers, and other evidentiary matter. Subpoenas are to be issued by the chairperson of the Commission, the chairperson's designee, or the special masters. Subpoenas addressed to the Commission or its staff may only be obtained from the special masters upon a showing of good cause with notice to the Commission [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 126(a)].

[ii] Transcripts

When a transcript of the testimony has been prepared at the expense of the Commission, a copy thereof must, upon request, be available for use by the judge and his counsel in connection with the proceedings at the judge's expense, or the judge may arrange to procure a copy from the reporter at the judge's expense. The judge must have the right, without any order or approval, to have all or any portion of the testimony in the proceedings transcribed at the judge's expense [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 126(b)].

[iii] Manner of Service

Subject to Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 118(c), concerning service of a notice of formal proceedings, all notices and correspondence in connection with formal proceedings must be sent to the judge's chambers, unless otherwise requested, and a copy thereof must be mailed to counsel of record [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 126(c)].

[iv] Appointment of Conservator

If the judge is adjudged insane or incompetent, or if it appears to the Commission at any time during the proceedings that the judge is not competent to act for himself or herself, the Commission must appoint a conservator unless the judge has a conservator who will represent the judge. In the appointment of such conservator, preference must be given, whenever possible, to members of the judge's immediate family. The conservator may claim and exercise any right and privilege and make any defense for the judge with the same force and effect as if claimed, exercised, or made by the judge, if competent, and whenever these rules provide for serving or giving notice or sending any matter to the judge, such notice or matter must be served, given, or sent to the conservator [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 126(d)].

[i] Negotiations

Either respondent or the examiner may initiate negotiations on discipline by consent. Both the examiner and respondent must agree to any proposed disposition before submission to the Commission. No agreement between the examiner and respondent is binding until approved by the Commission [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 127(a)].

[ii] Submission to Commission

At any time after the initiation of formal charges and before final disposition, the respondent may agree with the examiner that the respondent must admit to any or all of the charges in exchange for a stated sanction. The agreement must be submitted to the Commission, which must accept or reject the agreement [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 127(b)].

[iii] Rejection of Agreement

If the stated sanction is rejected by the Commission, the admission must be withdrawn and cannot be used against the respondent in any proceedings [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 127(c)].

[iv] Affidavit of Consent

A respondent who consents to a stated sanction must personally execute an affidavit stating that:

- The respondent consents to the sanction [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 127(d)(1)];
- The consent is freely and voluntarily rendered [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 127(d)(2)];
- The respondent admits the truth of the charges as alleged [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 127(d)(3)]; and
- The respondent waives review by the Supreme Court [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 127(d)(4)].

[cc] Amendments to Notice or Answer; Dismissals

[i] Amendments

The masters, at any time prior to the conclusion of the hearing, or the Commission, at any time prior to its determination, may allow or require amendments to the notice of formal proceedings and may allow amendments to the answer. The notice may be amended to conform to proof or to set forth additional facts, whether occurring before or after the commencement of the hearing. In case such an amendment is made, the judge must be given reasonable time both to answer the amendment and to prepare and present his or her defense against the matters charged thereby [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 128(a)].

[ii] Dismissals by Examiner

At any time after the filing of formal charges and before final disposition, where exigent circumstances prevent consideration by the full Commission, the examiner, with the concurrence of the director/chief counsel and the chairperson, may dismiss any charge from the notice of formal proceedings, if it appears that the available evidence is insufficient to sustain the charge or that dismissal is otherwise in the interest of justice, and such dismissal is not tantamount to dismissal of the proceedings as a whole [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 128(b)].

[dd] Report of Masters

[i] Transcript

Upon the completion of a hearing before the masters, a transcript of the hearing must be prepared [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 129(a)].

[ii] Submission of Proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Within 20 days after completion of the hearing transcript, the examiner and the respondent judge must submit to the masters proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law, with citations to the transcript and exhibits, unless the masters waive the submission of such proposed findings and conclusions [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 129(b)].

[iii] Preparation of Final Report of Masters

Within 60 days after completion of the hearing transcript, the masters must submit a final report to the Commission. Within the 60-day period, the masters may require such additional briefing and argument by the examiner and the respondent judge as the masters may desire [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 129(c)].

[iv] Content of Final Report of Masters

The final report of the masters must contain findings of fact and conclusions of law, along with an analysis of the evidence and reasons for the findings and conclusions, but must not contain a recommendation as to discipline [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 129(d)].

[v] Copy of Report to Judge and Examiner

Upon receiving the report of the masters, the Commission must promptly mail a copy to the judge and the examiner [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 129(e)].

[i] Filing of Opening Briefs

Within 15 days after the date of mailing of the copy of the masters' report to the judge as reflected on the proof of service by mail, the examiner or the judge may file with the Commission opening briefs which may consist of objections to the report of the special masters and points and authorities concerning the issues in the matter, including the issue of sanctions. Objections to the masters' report and all factual statements must be specific and must be supported by reference to the book and page number of the record. Briefs must conform in style and comply with length limitations set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.204(b), and, when filed by the examiner, a copy must be sent by first-class mail to the judge [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 130(a)].

[ii] Response to Briefs

Within 10 days after the filing of opening briefs, the examiner or the judge may file with the commission a response [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 130(b)].

[iii] Reply to Response

Within five days after the filing of a response, the examiner or the judge may file a reply to the response [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 130(c)].

[ff] Participation by Non-Parties

Briefs of amicus curiae will be considered by the Commission if they present legal issues or represent perspectives not otherwise presented or represented by the parties. An amicus curiae brief may not be used to present inadmissible or non-admitted evidentiary materials to the Commission [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 131].

A brief of an amicus curiae may be filed only if accompanied by the written consent of all parties, or upon a motion demonstrating to the chairperson of the Commission or the chairperson's designee that the filing of the brief would be helpful to the Commission in the resolution of the pending matter. When consent to the filing of a brief of an amicus curiae is refused by a party to the case, a motion for leave to file the brief, accompanied by the proposed brief, may be presented to the chairperson or the chairperson's designee. The motion must concisely state the nature of the applicant's interest and set forth facts or questions of law that have not been, or reasons for believing that they will not be, presented by the parties and their relevancy to the disposition of the case. The motion may be in letter form but may not exceed four pages. The Commission must forward copies of any such motion and proposed brief to both the examiner and the judge [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 131].

The cover of the amicus brief must identify the party supported, and the brief must not exceed 50 pages in length. Evidentiary references must include citation to the record before the Commission [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 131].

An amicus brief must be submitted or filed within the time limits prescribed for the party that the brief supports. No reply briefs or briefs of an amicus curiae in support of reconsideration must be received [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 131].

Any brief of an amicus curiae that fails to comply with this rule will not be considered by the Commission [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 131].

[gg] Appearance Before Commission

Upon receipt of the masters' report and any objections, the Commission must give the judge and the examiner an opportunity to be heard orally before the Commission, and written notice of the time and place of such hearing must be mailed to the judge, at least 10 days prior thereto [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 132].

[hh] Hearing Additional Evidence

The Commission may order a hearing for the taking of additional evidence at any time while the matter is pending before it. The order must set the time and place of hearing and must indicate the matters on which the evidence is to be taken. A copy of such order must be sent by mail to the judge at least 10 days prior to the date of hearing [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 133(a)].

In any case in which masters have been appointed, the hearing of additional evidence must be before such masters, and the proceedings therein must be in conformance with the provisions of Comm. Jud. Perf., Rules 121 to 130, inclusive [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 133(b)].

[ii] Commission Vote

The Commission may privately or publicly admonish, censure, remove or retire a judge, or find a person unfit to serve as a subordinate judicial officer. The affirmative vote of six members of the Commission who have considered the record and report of the masters and who were present at any oral hearing as provided in Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 121 or, when the hearing was before the Commission without masters, of six members of the Commission who have considered the record, and at least four of whom were present when the evidence was produced, is required for a private or public admonishment, censure, removal or retirement of a judge, or a finding that a person is unfit to serve as a subordinate judicial officer, or for dismissal of the proceedings [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 134].

[jj] Record of Commission Proceedings

The Commission must maintain records of all actions taken it concerning a judge. Notice of any disciplinary determination and notice of any disqualification under Cal. Const., art. VI, § 18(b) must be mailed to the judge. In all formal proceedings, the Commission must prepare a transcript of the testimony and of all proceedings and must make written findings of fact and conclusions of law [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 135].

[kk] Finality

A Commission determination to impose discipline upon a judge following formal proceedings under Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 118 must become final 30 days after the date of the order regarding the disciplinary determination [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 136].

Those cases in which formal proceedings were instituted on or before February 28, 1995, are governed by the provisions of Cal. Const,. art. VI, § 18, which were operative and in effect as of February 28, 1995. Those cases in which formal proceedings are instituted on or after March 1, 1995, are governed by the provisions of Cal. Const., art. VI, § 18 operative as of March 1, 1995 [Comm. Jud. Perf., Rule 137].

[4] Commission Discipline Statistics

In 2005, 1,610 judgeships were within the Commission's jurisdiction. In addition to jurisdiction over active judges, the Commission has authority to impose certain discipline upon former judges and the state's 460 commissioners and referees. Also, the Director-Chief Counsel of the Commission is designated as the Supreme Court's investigator for complaints involving the eight judges of the State Bar Court.

In 2005, 965 new complaints about active and former California judges were considered by the Commission. The 965 complaints named a total of 1,196 judges (748 different judges). The complaints set forth a wide array of grievances. A substantial percentage alleged legal error not involving misconduct or expressed dissatisfaction with a judge's discretionary handling of judicial duties.

For 2005, the Commission reported that the following types of conduct resulted in discipline (numbers of discipline cases are identified in parenthesis):

- Ex parte communications (7);
- Failure to ensure rights (7);
- Disqualification, disclosure, and related retaliation (6);
- On-bench abuse of authority in performance of judicial duties (5);
- Demeanor, decorum (includes inappropriate humor) (4);

- Administrative malfeasance (includes conflicts between judges, failure to supervise staff, delay in responding to complaints about commissioners) (2);

- Bias or appearance of bias (not directed toward a particular class; includes embroilment, prejudgment, favoritism) (2);

- Decisional delay, tardiness, attendance (2);

- Gifts/loans/favors/ticket-fixing (2);

- Off-bench abuse of office (includes improper use of office stationery) (2);

- Sexual harassment/inappropriate workplace gender comments (2);

- Alcohol or drug-related criminal conduct (1);

- Failure to cooperate/lack of candor (1);

- Improper business activities (1);

- Miscellaneous off-bench conduct (1); and

- Misuse of court resources (1).

[5] Review of Determinations by Commission on Judicial Performance

[a] Time for Petition for Review to Supreme Court

A petition to the Supreme Court by a judge or former judge to review a determination by the Commission on Judicial Performance to retire, remove, censure, admonish, or disqualify the judge or former judge must be served and filed within 60 days after:

- The Commission, under its rules, notifies the judge or former judge that its determination has been filed or entered in its records [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 9.60(a)(1)]; or

- The determination becomes final as to the Commission under its rules, whichever event is later [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 9.60(a)(2)].

[b] Time for Answer to Petition for Review and Reply

Within 45 days after service of the petition, the Commission may serve and file an answer [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 9.60(b)]. Within 20 days after service of the answer, the judge or former judge may serve and file a reply. Each petition, answer, or reply submitted for filing must be accompanied by proof of service, including service on the Commission of three copies of any petition or reply filed by a judge or former judge. Extensions of time to file the petition, answer, or reply are disfavored and will be granted only upon a specific and affirmative showing of good cause. Good cause does not include ordinary press of business [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 9.60(b)].

[c] Contents and Form

The petition, answer, and reply must address both the appropriateness of review and the merits of the Commission's determination, and they will serve as briefs on the merits in the event review is granted [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 9.60(c)].

Except as provided in Cal. Rules of Ct., the form of the petition, answer, and reply must, insofar as practicable, conform to Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.504 except that the lengths of the petition, answer, and reply must conform to the limits specified in Rule 8.204(c) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 9.60(c)]. Each copy of the petition must contain:

- A copy of the Commission's determination [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 9.60(c)(1)];

- A copy of the notice of filing or entry of the determination in the records of the Commission [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 9.60(c)(2)];

- A copy of any findings of fact and conclusions of law [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 9.60(c)(3)]; and

- A cover that bears the conspicuous notation "PETITION FOR REVIEW OF DETERMINATION BY COMMISSION ON JUDICIAL PERFORMANCE (RULE 9.60)" or words of like effect [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 9.60(c)(4)].

[d] Transmission of the Record

Promptly upon the service and filing of the petition, the Commission must transmit to the Clerk of the Supreme Court the original record, including a transcript of the testimony, briefs, and all original papers and exhibits on file in the proceeding [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 9.60(d)].

[e] Applicable Rules on Review

In the event review is granted, the rules adopted by the Judicial Council governing appeals from the superior court in civil cases, other than Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.272 relating to costs, apply to proceedings in the Supreme Court for review of a determination of the Commission except where express provision is made to the contrary or where such application would otherwise be clearly impracticable or inappropriate [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 9.60(e)].

[6] Proceedings Involving Public or Private Admonishment, Censure, Removal or Retirement of a Judge of the Supreme Court

[a] Selection of Appellate Tribunal

Immediately on the filing of a petition to review a determination by the Commission on Judicial Performance to retire, remove, censure, admonish, or disqualify a justice of the Supreme Court, the Clerk of the Supreme Court must select, by lot, seven Court of Appeal justices who must elect one of their number presiding justice and perform the duties of the tribunal created under Cal. Const., art. VI, § 18(f) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 9.61(a)]. This selection must be made upon notice to the Commission, the justice, and the counsel of record in a proceeding open to the public. No court of appeal justice who has served as a master or a member of the Commission in the particular proceeding or is otherwise disqualified may serve on the tribunal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 9.61(a)].

[b] Clerk of Supreme Court as Clerk of Tribunal

The Clerk of the Supreme Court serves as the clerk of the tribunal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 9.61(b)].

[7] Complaints Against Subordinate Judicial Officers

[a] Intent

The procedures in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703 for processing complaints against subordinate judicial officers do not:

- Create a contract of employment [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(a)(1)];

- Change the existing employee-employer relationship between the subordinate judicial officer and the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(a)(2)]; or

- Change the status of a subordinate judicial officer from an employee terminable at will to an employee terminable only for cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(a)(3)].

[b] Subordinate Judicial Officer Defined

Unless the context requires otherwise, the term "subordinate judicial officer," as used in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703, means an attorney employed by a court to serve as a commissioner or referee, whether the attorney is acting as a commissioner, referee, or temporary judge. The term does not include any other attorney acting as a temporary judge [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(b)].

[c] Application

A court that employs a subordinate judicial officer must use the procedures in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703 for processing complaints against the subordinate judicial officer if the complaint alleges conduct that if alleged against a judge would be within the jurisdiction of the Commission under Cal. Const., art. VI, § 18 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(c)(1)].

If a complaint against a subordinate judicial officer does not allege conduct that would be within the jurisdiction of the Commission, the court must process the complaint following local procedures adopted under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.603(c)(4)(C). The local process may include any procedures from Rule 10.703 for the court's adjudication of the complaint other than the provisions for referring the matter to the Commission under Rule 10.702(g) or giving notice of Commission review under Rule 10.702(l)(2)(B) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(c)(2)].

A court may adopt additional policies and procedures for the adjudication of complaints against subordinate judicial officers not inconsistent with Rule 10.703 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(c)(3)].

[d] Promptness Required

The presiding judge must ensure that the court processes each complaint promptly. To the extent reasonably possible, the court must complete action on each complaint within 90 days after the complaint is submitted [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(d)].

[e] Confidentiality

All proceedings by a presiding judge under this rule must be conducted in a manner that is as confidential as is reasonably possible consistent with the need to conduct a thorough and complete investigation and the need for proper administration of the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(e)(1)].

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703 does not prohibit access by the Commission to any information relevant to the investigation of a complaint against a subordinate judicial officer [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(e)(2)].

[f] Written Complaints to Presiding Judge

A complaint about the conduct of a subordinate judicial officer must be in writing and be submitted to the presiding judge [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(f)(1)]. Persons who are unable to file a written complaint because of a disability may present an oral complaint, which the presiding judge must commit to writing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(f)(2)].

The presiding judge must give written notice of receipt of the complaint to the complainant [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(f)(3)].

[g] Initial Review of the Complaint

The presiding judge must review each complaint and determine if the complaint:

- May be closed after initial review [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(g)(1)(A)];
- Needs preliminary investigation [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(g)(1)(B)]; or
- Requires formal investigation [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(g)(1)(C)].

A presiding judge may request that the Commission investigate and adjudicate the complaint if a local conflict of interest or disqualification prevents the court from acting on the complaint [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(g)(2)]. In exceptional circumstances a presiding judge may request the Commission to investigate a complaint on behalf of the court and provide the results of the investigation to the court for action [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(g)(3)]. The court must maintain a file on every complaint received, containing the following:

- The complaint [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(g)(4)(A)];
- The response of the subordinate judicial officer, if any [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(g)(4)(B)];
- All evidence and reports produced by the investigation of the complaint, if any [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(g)(4)(C)]; and
- The final action taken on the complaint [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(g)(4)(D)].

[h] Closing a Complaint After Initial Review

After a preliminary review the presiding judge may close without further action any complaint that:

- Relates to the permissible exercise of judicial or administrative discretion by the subordinate judicial officer [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(h)(1)(A)]; or
- Does not allege conduct that if alleged against a judge would be within the jurisdiction of the Commission under Cal. Const., art. VI, § 18 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(h)(1)(B)].

The presiding judge must notify the complainant in writing of the decision to close the investigation on the complaint; the notice must include the information required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(h)(1) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(h)(2)]. The presiding judge must advise the subordinate judicial officer in writing of the disposition [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(h)(3)].

[i] Complaints Requiring Preliminary Investigation

If after an initial review of the complaint the presiding judge finds a basis for further inquiry, the presiding judge must conduct a preliminary investigation appropriate to the nature of the complaint [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(i)(1)]. The investigation may include interviews of witnesses and a review of court records [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(i)(2)]. The presiding judge may give the subordinate judicial officer a copy of the complaint or a summary of its allegations and allow him or her an opportunity to respond. The presiding judge must give the subordinate judicial officer a copy of the complaint or a summary of its allegations and allow the subordinate judicial officer an opportunity to respond before the presiding judge takes appropriate informal action as described in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(i)(4)(B) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(i)(3)].

After completing the preliminary investigation, the presiding judge must:

- Terminate the investigation and close action on the complaint if the presiding judge finds the complaint lacks merit [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(i)(4)(A)]; or

- Terminate the investigation and close action on the complaint by taking appropriate informal action, which may include a reprimand or warning to the subordinate judicial officer, if the presiding judge finds a basis for taking informal action [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(i)(4)(B)]; or

- Proceed with a formal investigation under (j) if the presiding judge finds a basis for proceeding further [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(i)(4)(C)].

If the presiding judge terminates the investigation and closes action on the complaint, the presiding judge must:

- Notify the complainant in writing of the decision to close the investigation on the complaint. The notice must include the information required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(l) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(i)(5)(A)]; and

- Advise the subordinate judicial officer in writing of the disposition [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(i)(5)(B)].

[j] Complaints Requiring Formal Investigation

If after a preliminary investigation the presiding judge finds a basis for proceeding with the investigation, the presiding judge must conduct a formal investigation appropriate to the nature of the complaint [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(j)(1)]. The investigation may include interviews of witnesses and a review of court records [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(j)(1)(A)]. As soon as practicable, the presiding judge must give the subordinate judicial officer a copy of the complaint or a summary of its allegations and allow the subordinate judicial officer an opportunity to respond [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(j)(1)(B)].

Within 10 days after the completion of the investigation or as soon thereafter as is reasonably possible, the presiding judge must give the subordinate judicial officer the following in writing:

- Notice of the intended final action on the complaint [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(j)(2)(A)]; and

- The facts and other information forming the basis for the proposed action and the source of the facts and information, sufficient to allow a meaningful response to the allegations [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(j)(2)(B)].

Final action on the complaint may include:

- A finding that no further action need be taken on the complaint [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(j)(3)(A)];

- An oral or written warning to the subordinate judicial officer [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(j)(3)(B)];

- A private written reprimand to the subordinate judicial officer [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(j)(3)(C)];

- A public written reprimand to the subordinate judicial officer [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(j)(3)(D)];

- Suspension of the subordinate judicial officer [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(j)(3)(E)];

- Termination of the subordinate judicial officer [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(j)(3)(F)]; and

- Any other action the court may deem appropriate [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(j)(3)(G)].

The notice of the intended final action on the complaint in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(j)(2)(A) must include the following advice:

- The subordinate judicial officer may request an opportunity to respond within 10 days after service of the notice [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(j)(4)(A)]; and

- If the subordinate judicial officer does not request an opportunity to respond within 10 days after service of the notice, the proposed action will become final [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(j)(4)(B)].

If the subordinate judicial officer requests an opportunity to respond, the presiding judge should allow the subordinate judicial officer an opportunity to respond to the notice of the intended final action, either orally or in writing as specified by the presiding judge, in accordance with local rules [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(j)(5)].

Within 10 days after the subordinate judicial officer has responded, the presiding judge must give the subordinate judicial officer and the complainant written notice of the final action taken on the complaint. The notice to the complainant must include the information required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(l) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(j)(6)].

If the subordinate judicial officer does not request or has not been given an opportunity to respond, the presiding judge must promptly give written notice of the final action to the complainant. The notice must include the information required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(l) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(j)(7)].

[k] Report to the Commission on Judicial Performance

If after a formal investigation the complaint results in the written reprimand, suspension, or removal of the subordinate judicial officer for conduct that if alleged against a judge would be within the jurisdiction of the Commission under Cal. Const., art. VI, § 18, the presiding judge must promptly forward to the Commission a copy of the portions of the court file on the complaint that reasonably reflect the basis of the action taken by the court, including the complaint and the subordinate judicial officer's response [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(k)(1)].

If the subordinate judicial officer resigns while an investigation is pending, the presiding judge must within 15 days of the resignation, or as soon thereafter as is reasonably possible, forward to the Commission the entire court file on any pending complaint [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(k)(2)].

On request by the Commission, the presiding judge must forward to the Commission any requested information about a complaint against a subordinate judicial officer [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(k)(3)].

[l] Notice of Final Court Action

When the court has completed its action on a complaint, the presiding judge must promptly notify the complainant and the subordinate judicial officer of the final court action [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(l)(1)]. The notice to the complainant of the final court action must:

- Provide a general description of the action taken by the court consistent with any law limiting the disclosure of confidential employee information [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(l)(2)(A)]; and

- Include the following statement [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.703(l)(2)(B)]: If you are dissatisfied with the court's action on your complaint, you have the right to request the Commission on Judicial Performance to review this matter under its discretionary jurisdiction to oversee the discipline of subordinate judicial officers. No further action will be taken on your complaint unless the commission receives your written request within 30 days after the date this notice was mailed. The commission's address is:

  Commission on Judicial Performance
  455 Golden Gate Avenue, Suite 14400
  San Francisco, California 94102-3660

PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Court Commissioners

§ 317.92 Decisions

[1] Constitutional and Statutory Authorization

Court commissioners is appointed under authority of Cal. Const., art. VI, § 22 which permits legislature to provide for appointment by trial courts of record of commissioners "to perform subordinate judicial duties." Sarracino v. Superior Court (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 1, 5, 118 Cal. Rptr. 21, 529 P.2d 53 (dictum)

Assignment to commissioners of duties with respect to uncontested matters falls squarely within scope of legislative authority conferred by California Constitution, art. VI, § 22. Rooney v. Vermont Investment Corp. (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 351, 366, 110 Cal. Rptr. 353, 515 P.2d 297

Gov. Code § 72190, authorizing court commissioner to exercise power of judge with respect to traffic infraction cases without defendant's consent, is valid exercise of power given to Legislature by Cal. Const., art. VI, § 22. People v. Lucas (1978) 147 Cal. Rptr. 235

[2] Findings and Exceptions

Notification by deputy court clerk of commissioner's recommendations and court order is insufficient to commence running of five-day period for filing exceptions to commissioner's report and subsequent court order. Goetz v. Superior Court of State (1958) 49 Cal. 2d 784, 787, 322 P.2d 217

Written notice of court's action originating with counsel of record makes certain date from which five-day period for filing of exceptions is to run. Goetz v. Superior Court (1958) 49 Cal. 2d 784, 786, 322 P.2d 217 Hearing pursuant to former Code Civ. Proc. § 259a(2) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 259(b)] is not had on stipulation of parties and commissioner's findings are advisory only. Ellsworth v. Ellsworth (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 719, 723, 269 P.2d 3 ; Weinfeld v. Weinfeld (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 608, 613-614, 324 P.2d 342

By enacting 1949 amendment to former Code Civ. Proc. § 259a(2) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 259(b)], changing time at which order based on court commissioner's report might become effective, Legislature did not intend to grant to party against whom exceptions are sustained additional remedy for reviewing trial court's determination, but rather intended that order remain interlocutory throughout period for filing and hearing exceptions to commissioner's report. Ellsworth v. Ellsworth (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 719, 724, 269 P.2d 3 ; Weinfeld v. Weinfeld (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 608, 614, 324 P.2d 342

When special reference is made pursuant to former Code Civ. Proc. § 259a(2) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 259(b)], and hearing is not had on stipulation of parties, commissioner's findings are advisory only, and interlocutory order is subject to modification by court. Crocker Citizens Nat. Bank v. Knapp (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 875, 880-881, 60 Cal. Rptr. 66

After defendants' motion to satisfy judgment and quash writ of execution was referred to commissioner, court did not err in amending commissioner's findings of fact to show that attorney had acted in his or her own behalf in purchasing judgment, rather than as representative of one of defendants. Crocker Citizens Nat. Bank v. Knapp (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 875, 880-881, 60 Cal. Rptr. 66

No abuse of discretion was committed by court in modifying court commissioner's report without transcript of proceedings before commissioner when husband objected to report within time provided for that action in former Code Civ. Proc. § 259a [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 259(b)]. Weinfeld v. Weinfeld (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 608, 612, 324 P.2d 342

Judge's immediate approval of recommendation by commissioner that contempt citation be dismissed does not have effect of then disposing of contempt proceeding, because order is interlocutory in character and remains so throughout period for filing and hearing exceptions to commissioner's report. McLaughlin v. Superior Court (1954) 128 Cal. App. 2d 62, 65, 274 P.2d 745

When on hearing of exceptions to commissioner's report that contempt citation be dismissed, judge overruled exceptions and affirmed order dismissing citation, contempt proceeding was disposed of and dismissal was "final and conclusive" (see Code Civ. Proc. § 1222). McLaughlin v. Superior Court (1954) 128 Cal. App. 2d 62, 65, 274 P.2d 745

When judgment and orders of court in contempt proceeding are final and conclusive (see Code Civ. Proc. § 1222) and contempt citation has been dismissed, court has no authority to make subsequent order purporting to set aside its order overruling exceptions to commissioner's report recommending that contempt citation be dismissed, to grant those exceptions, and to set aside order dismissing contempt proceedings. McLaughlin v. Superior Court (1954) 128 Cal. App. 2d 62, 66, 274 P.2d 745

[3] Powers and Duties

Court commissioner is able to act as temporary judge only when parties to proceeding so stipulate. Rooney v. Vermont Investment Corp. (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 351, 360, 110 Cal. Rptr. 353, 515 P.2d 297

Court commissioner's authority to render stipulated judgment is not dependent on qualifying as temporary judge if, in fact, authority to so act is conferred on him or her as court commissioner. Rooney v. Vermont Investment Corp. (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 351, 360-361, 110 Cal. Rptr. 353, 515 P.2d 297

Court's "order" that commissioner act pursuant to former Code Civ. Proc. § 259a(6) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 259(g)] may take any form that establishes court's official determination that proceeding is one that commissioner should hear and determine. Rooney v. Vermont Investment Corp. (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 351, 368, 110 Cal. Rptr. 353, 515 P.2d 297

Commissioner may hear and determine ex parte application for rendition of judgment under terms of stipulation for judgment because stipulation eliminates contested nature of action and makes rendition of stipulated judgment determination of uncontested action within meaning of former Code Civ. Proc. § 259a(6) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 259(g)]. Rooney v. Vermont Investment Corp. (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 351, 367, 110 Cal. Rptr. 353, 515 P.2d 297

Trial court's broad order for reference to court commissioner of a domestic relations case with multiple factual issues, when parties did not consent to reference, was an improper delegation of judicial duties requiring vacating of order and entry of new order specifying proper factual issues to be resolved. Settlemire v. Superior Court (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 666, 675, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 560

Where the parties agree that pretrial proceedings will be heard by a certain commissioner, and that commissioner thereafter executes a settlement agreement providing that "[t]he Court retains jurisdiction" to perform certain post-judgment tasks, it is clear that the parties have, in effect, agreed that the commissioner who previously conducted pretrial hearings and approved and executed the parties' settlement agreement was to perform those tasks specified in the stipulation; therefore, the stipulation contained within the stipulated order for entry of judgment meant that the Commissioner was authorized to preside over the post-judgment proceedings as specified in the parties' settlement agreement. Fine v. Superior Court (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 651, 664, 119 Cal. Rptr. 2d 376

Because it was not otherwise expressly specified, as dictated by Sonoma County Local Rule 12.3, that the commissioner in a child custody case was acting as anything other than a temporary judge, the commissioner was exercising all the powers of a superior court judge; therefore, appellant's assertion that the commissioner was sitting as a referee rather than a temporary judge was incorrect. In re Brittany (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 805, 812, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 813

No case or statute authorizes commissioner to issue warrants other than bench warrants for arrest; none of express duties set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 259 involve issuance of warrants. Flahive v. City of Dana Point (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 241, 247 n.10, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 51

Purpose of having commissioners is to assist overburdened judiciary with performance of subordinate judicial duties; adjudication of traffic infraction constitutes subordinate judicial duty; under Gov. Code § 72190 alone, or additionally under authority of Penal Code §§ 807 and 808 and Gov. Code §§ 72190.1 and 72190.2, commissioner is qualified as magistrate within meaning of Veh. Code § 40502(a) before whom appearance concerning traffic infraction was to be made. Branson v. Martin (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 300, 305-306, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 401

Commissioner, as temporary judge, has power under former Code Civ. Proc. § 259(g) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 259(g)) to hear and determine uncontested petition to confirm arbitration award in attorney fee dispute case, but does not have power to hear and determine subsequent proceedings in which party absent at original proceeding has later become party litigant and refuses to stipulate to commissioner as temporary judge. Reisman v. Shahverdian (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 1074, 1096-1097, 201 Cal. Rptr. 194

Entry of judgment in accordance with allegations and prayer of complaint after default hearing by commissioner in paternity, child support, and welfare reimbursement action is subordinate judicial duty within meaning of Cal. Const., art. VI, § 22. E.N.W. v. Michael W. (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 896, 899, 198 Cal. Rptr. 355

Former Code Civ. Proc. § 259a(6) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 259(g)], providing that court commissioner shall have power to hear and determine uncontested actions when ordered to do so by court, does not affect commissioner's power under former Code Civ. Proc. § 259a(1) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 259(a)] to hear and determine ex parte matters.

People v. Surety Ins. Co. (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 123, 127-128, 121 Cal. Rptr. 438

Power to punish for contempt is not included within statutory powers and duties of court commissioner. Marcus v. Workmen's Comp. Appeals Bd. (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 598, 603, 111 Cal. Rptr. 101

Court commissioner has power to hear, determine, and sign judgment in cause assigned him or her by superior court as "uncontested action" when parties entered into valid stipulation for entry of final judgment in superior court, and when assignment was tantamount to order appointing commissioner to determine action. People v. Superior Court (1965) 239 Cal. App. 2d 99, 103, 48 Cal. Rptr. 445

Legislature has left it to court to say whether commissioner should "hear and determine" or merely "hear and report on" matter submitted under former Code Civ. Proc. § 259a(6) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 259(g)]. West v. U.L.C. Corp. (1965) 232 Cal. App. 2d 85, 89, 42 Cal. Rptr. 603

Court commissioner has power pursuant to former Code Civ. Proc. § 259a [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 259] to make ex parte order appointing referee and to require appearance before referee of judgment debtor who became judgment debtor in action in probate court. Lewis v. Neblett (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 290, 296-297, 10 Cal. Rptr. 441

Neither Code Civ. Proc. § 259 nor former Code Civ. Proc. § 259a, defining powers of court commissioners, give her or him power to order discharge of attachment. Oppenheimer v. Union Pac. R.R. Co. (1955) 284 P.2d 208

Power conferred on court commissioners pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 259a [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 259] extends to and includes approval and rejection of probate claims. Estate of Roberts (1942) 49 Cal. App. 2d 71, 77, 120 P.2d 933

[4] Referee and Commissioner Compared

Proceeding authorized by former Code Civ. Proc. § 259a [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 259] does not contemplate hearing on whole issue within meaning of code provisions relating to reference. Ellsworth v. Ellsworth (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 719, 723, 269 P.2d 3 ; Weinfeld v. Weinfeld (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 608, 613, 324 P.2d 342

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 259 and former Code Civ. Proc. § 259a, defining powers of court commissioners, procedure to be followed is in all of its essential features the same as that to be followed by referee; and when collateral matter, for information of court, is referred to referee for report, referee's findings are not indispensable and finding with respect to fact does not become binding on court unless and until adopted by it. Chiarodit v. Chiarodit (1933) 218 Cal. 147, 150, 21 P.2d 562

The functions and powers of a referee are more limited than those of a temporary judge, and more subject to the agreement and consent of the parties; therefore, the subordinate judicial classifications of referee and temporary judge are distinct, vested with different powers, and subject to differing procedural constraints. In re Brittany K. (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 805, 811

Code sections relating to proceedings before referees and commissioners [see Code Civ. Proc. § 638 et seq.] preserve traditional distinction between general reference, that is, trial before referee on all issues of fact or of law, and special reference, in which he or she considers only part of issues. Weinfeld v. Weinfeld (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 608, 613, 324 P.2d 342

General reference may be had only with consent of parties [see Code Civ. Proc. § 638(a)]. Weinfeld v. Weinfeld (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 608, 613, 324 P.2d 342

Decision of referee on general reference may be attacked as one made by court, and order vacating decision and directing rehearing is properly appealable as order granting new trial. Weinfeld v. Weinfeld (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 608, 613, 324 P.2d 342

Special reference does not determine whole issue, and report of referee does not become decision of court without further action by trial judge. Weinfeld v. Weinfeld (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 608, 613, 324 P.2d 342

Until adoption of referee's report on special reference and filing of findings of fact and conclusions of law of trial court, report may be set aside without necessity of granting new trial. Weinfeld v. Weinfeld (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 608, 613, 324 P.2d 342

Order vacating report of referee on special reference is merely interlocutory. Weinfeld v. Weinfeld (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 608, 613, 324 P.2d 342

[1] Attorney as Temporary Judge

Purpose of commission in proposing revision to Cal. Const., art. VI, § 21 in 1966 was to restate substance of former art. VI, § 5 concisely in modern terms and to extend authority to use temporary judges to justice courts. People v. Tijerina (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 41, 48, 81 Cal. Rptr. 264, 459 P.2d 680 (criminal action)

Judgments and orders of judge pro tempore are entitled to same presumption of regularity as those of court with regular judge presiding. Estate of Kent (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 154, 163, 57 P.2d 901

Power of judge pro tempore is not exclusive and does not oust duly elected and qualified judge of superior court of county of jurisdiction to hear and determine motion to vacate judgment rendered by pro tempore judge. Graziani v. Denny (1917) 174 Cal. 176, 179-180, 162 P. 397

Judge pro tempore can exercise all functions of judge in matter assigned him or her. Graziani v. Denny (1917) 174 Cal. 176, 179, 162 P. 397 ; Amos v. Superior Court (1960) 182 Cal. App. 2d 343, 349-350, 6 Cal. Rptr. 252

Judge pro tempore has authority to hear matter until its final determination, but that power does not prohibit party from seeking equitable relief when that temporary judge is unavailable. New Tech Developments v. Bank of Nova Scotia (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1065, 1070, 236 Cal. Rptr. 746

[2] Retired Superior Court Judge as Temporary Judge

Proceeding was neither arbitration nor reference when counsel stipulated to use named retired superior court judge to try case, and matter was tried before retired judge with all parties treating proceeding as trial; court of appeal concluded that parties entered into stipulation that retired judge would try contested probate matter as temporary judge despite retired judge's decision referring to matter as binding arbitration; retired judge clearly met requirement of sworn judicial officer and was empowered to act; thus all requirements of Cal. Const. art. VI, § 21 were met. Estate of Fain (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 973, 980-991, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 618

[3] Superior Court Commissioner as Temporary Judge

[a] In General

Major part of assistance which commissioners give courts is presiding as temporary judges under distinct provisions of Cal. Const., art. VI, § 21. Sarracino v. Superior Court (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 1, 6, 118 Cal. Rptr. 21, 529 P.2d 53 (dictum)

[b] Term "Cause" as Distinct From Principal Case

Term "cause" as used in Cal. Const., art. VI, § 21 is proceeding before court. Sarracino v. Superior Court (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 1, 9, 118 Cal. Rptr. 21, 529 P.2d 53 ; In re Plotkin (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 1014, 1017, 127 Cal. Rptr. 190

Appointment of temporary judge to hear particular "cause" carries with it power to act until final determination of that proceeding. Sarracino v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 1, 10, 118 Cal. Rptr. 21, 529 P.2d 53 ; Nierenberg v. Superior Court (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 611, 618, 130 Cal. Rptr. 847 ; Anderson v. Bledsoe (1934) 139 Cal. App. 650, 651, 34 P.2d 760

Temporary judge can be appointed to hear causes connected with but distinct from underlying principal case. Sarracino v. Superior Court (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 1, 9-10, 118 Cal. Rptr. 21, 529 P.2d 53 ; Estate of Soforenko (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 765, 67 Cal. Rptr. 563 ; Quezada v. Superior Court (1959) 171 Cal. App. 2d 528, 530, 340 P.2d 1018

Appointment does not authorize temporary judge to act in distinct proceedings, although ancillary to same principal action, without being appointed and qualified for that purpose. Sarracino v. Superior Court (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 1, 10, 118 Cal. Rptr. 21, 529 P.2d 53 ; Nierenberg v. Superior Court (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 611, 618, 130 Cal. Rptr. 847

Contempt proceeding is ancillary to underlying criminal prosecution but is cause distinct from principal case. Sarracino v. Superior Court (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 1, 9-10, 118 Cal. Rptr. 21, 529 P.2d 53 ; Nierenberg v. Superior Court (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 611, 618, 130 Cal. Rptr. 847 ; In re Plotkin (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 1014, 1016-1017, 127 Cal. Rptr. 190

Civil contempt proceeding may be tried before court commissioner appointed as judge pro tempore by stipulation of parties pursuant to former Cal. Const., art. VI, § 5 (now Cal. Const., art. VI, § 21). Quezada v. Superior Court (1959) 171 Cal. App. 2d 528, 530, 340 P.2d 1018

Authority of judge pro tempore of superior court continues until final disposition of case; judge pro tempore has right to hear motion to vacate order granting new trial, even though that order has become final so far as direct appeal therefrom is concerned. Anderson v. Bledsoe (1934) 139 Cal. App. 650, 651, 34 P.2d 760

[c] Parties Litigant

Parties litigant are those taking part in the litigation or those who have appeared therein. Estate of Kent (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 154, 162-163, 57 P.2d 901

Party who was formerly absent at original proceeding and not party litigant to that proceeding, becomes party litigant to subsequent proceeding if party appears therein, and thus has right to stipulate, or refuse to stipulate, to temporary judge's power. Reisman v. Shahverdian (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 1074, 1096-1097, 201 Cal. Rptr. 194

Although Cal. Const., art. VI, § 21 allows court to order case tried by temporary judge on stipulation of parties litigant, defendant, in later action to set aside default, forfeits status as party litigant by failing to appear at trial though notice had been properly mailed; temporary judge has authority to enter default. Lint v. Chisholm (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 615, 621-622, 177 Cal. Rptr. 314

Parties litigant are those who are before court. In re Plotkin (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 1014, 1017, 127 Cal. Rptr. 190

Order holding expert witness retained by plaintiff in civil action in contempt for failure to appear and give deposition to defendant as ordered by commissioner was invalid and in excess of commissioner's jurisdiction when stipulation was not entered into by defendant and witness. In re Plotkin (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 1014, 1017, 127 Cal. Rptr. 190

[ii] Exception When Default Prior to Hearing

Defendant, being in default with respect to application for temporary support for failure to appear at hearing, is not party litigant within meaning of Cal. Const., art. VI, § 21; stipulations executed by applicants for temporary support are therefore sufficient to empower commissioner to act as temporary judge. Sarracino v. Superior Court (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 1, 10-11, 118 Cal. Rptr. 21, 529 P.2d 53

Default with respect to applications for temporary support is indistinguishable from that of default entered in civil action following failure to plead within required time. Sarracino v. Superior Court (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 1, 10, 118 Cal. Rptr. 21, 529 P.2d 53

One whose default has been entered at date prior to hearing is not party litigant and therefore stipulation need not be executed by that person in order to constitute commissioner as judge pro tempore of that court. Bill Benson Motors, Inc. v. Macmorris Sales Corp. (1965) 238 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 937, 943, 48 Cal. Rptr. 123 ; Barfield v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1963) 216 Cal. App. 2d 476, 479

Defendant whose default has been duly entered in divorce action is not party litigant therein. Barfield v. Superior Court (1963) 216 Cal. App. 2d 476, 479, 31 Cal. Rptr. 30

Default in legal sense is not confined to failure to file pleadings; for certain purposes, it means failure to appear at trial as well. Bill Benson Motors, Inc. v. Macmorris Sales Corp. (1965) 238 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 937, 943-944, 48 Cal. Rptr. 123 ,

[i] Characterization

Because it was not otherwise expressly specified, as dictated by Sonoma County Local Rule 12.3, that the commissioner in a child custody case was acting as anything other than a temporary judge, the commissioner was exercising all the powers of a superior court judge; therefore, appellant's assertion that the commissioner was sitting as a referee rather than a temporary judge was incorrect. In re Brittany (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 805, 812, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 813

When stipulation provided that parties submitted to binding arbitration of all issues raised in complaint and cross-complaint before named retired superior court judge, that arbitration was to be conducted under rules of evidence applicable to trial by court, that judges's decision would be final and binding on all parties, filed with superior court, and treated as judgment and would have same force and effect as superior court judgment and would be appealable as such, court treated proceeding as being before temporary judge rather than as arbitration, despite fact that parties labeled proceeding as arbitration, and judge's decision was labeled "Judgment Following Arbitration"; thus, decision was not arbitration award, but appealable judgment. City of Shasta Lake v. County of Shasta (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 1, 10-12, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 863

Stipulations executed by applicants for temporary support were sufficient to empower commissioner to act as temporary judge. Sarracino v. Superior Court (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 1, 10, 118 Cal. Rptr. 21, 529 P.2d 53

Statutory power of commissioner "to act as judge pro tempore when otherwise qualified so to act and when appointed for that purpose" is subject to dictates of California Constitution, and, accordingly commissioner cannot act as temporary judge except "on stipulation of parties litigant." Sarracino v. Superior Court (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 1, 6, 118 Cal. Rptr. 21, 529 P.2d 53 ; Rooney v. Vermont Investment Corp. (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 351, 360, 110 Cal. Rptr. 353, 515 P.2d 297 ; People v. Tijerina (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 41, 48-49, 81 Cal. Rptr. 264, 459 P.2d 680

Stipulation for settlement of litigation specifying only conditions under which court may enter judgment was not equivalent to stipulation that judgment may be rendered by court commissioner acting as temporary judge. Rooney v. Vermont Investment Corp. (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 351, 360, 110 Cal. Rptr. 353, 515 P.2d 297

Neither former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 244 [see now Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.810 et seq.] nor former Code Civ. Proc. § 259a(4) [now see Code Civ. Proc. § 259(d)] authorize court commissioner to act as temporary judge if he or she is not "otherwise qualified so to act," and in absence of stipulation of parties, he or she is not so qualified. People v. Tijerina (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 41, 48-49, 81 Cal. Rptr. 264, 459 P.2d 680

Contempt order issued by court commissioner acting as temporary judge was void when neither contemnor nor his attorney stipulated that commissioner might hear matter nor were aware that commissioner was not judge. In re Frye (1983) 150 Cal. App. 3d 407, 409, 197 Cal. Rptr. 755

Judgment confirming arbitrator's award and minute order directing execution on judgment was void, when rendered and made by court commissioner, and when parties had not stipulated either orally or in writing, as provided in Cal. Const., art. VI, § 21, that commissioner could sit as temporary judge. Lovret v. Seyfarth (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 841, 852-853, 101 Cal. Rptr. 143

[iii] Implied Stipulations

Stipulation to temporary judge need not be in writing or expressly stated, but may be implied from parties' conduct; conduct short of express oral or written stipulation may be tantamount to stipulation that court commissioner may sit as temporary judge; doctrine of tantamount stipulation can be based entirely on conduct of party's attorney; matter was properly referred to retired judge by "tantamount stipulation" of parties. Estate of Fain (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 973, 977, 988-991, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 618

No implied stipulation that court commissioner might serve as judge pro tempore when subsequent to petitioner's express refusal to stipulate and his or her objection to commissioner's hearing contempt cause, petitioner agreed to defer adjudication and requested continuance. Nierenberg v. Superior Court (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 611, 619, 130 Cal.

Complaint that probate matter was heard before superior court commissioner and that no stipulation was entered into authorizing him to sit as temporary judge was meritless in view of appellant parties' acquiescence in that procedure. Estate of Lacy (1975) 54 Cal. App. 3d 172, 182, 126 Cal. Rptr. 432

Implied stipulation of parties litigant that commissioner might act as temporary judge. People v. Oaxaca (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 153, 161 , 114 Cal. Rptr.178 ; Estate of Soforenko (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 765, 766, 67 Cal. Rptr. 563

Constitutional provision requiring stipulation by parties litigant that commissioner sit as judge pro tempore were complied with when deportment on part of appellant's attorney was tantamount to stipulation that matter could be heard by commissioner. Estate of Soforenko (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 765, 766, 67 Cal. Rptr. 563

[4] Temporary Judge's Powers

Temporary judges who act under stipulation have full judicial powers until final determination of the cause, including the power to punish for contempt. Fine v. Superior Court (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 651, 664, 119 Cal. Rptr. 2d 376

The functions and powers of a referee are more limited than those of a temporary judge, and more subject to the agreement and consent of the parties; therefore, the subordinate judicial classifications of referee and temporary judge are distinct, vested with different powers, and subject to differing procedural constraints. In re Brittany K. (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 805, 811

Temporary judge is inherently empowered to regulate court proceedings by awarding sanctions in discovery hearing. Estate of Ruchti (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1593, 1602, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 151

§ 317.114 Decisions

[1] Bias or Prejudice

[a] Nature of Disqualifying Bias or Prejudice

Discussion about case between trial judge and previously challenged judge resulted in disqualification of trial judge from ruling on defendant's motion for nonsuit under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6)(C) (see now Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6)(A)(iii)) because a person aware of the facts might reasonably entertain a doubt that the judge would be impartial. Christie v. City of El Centro (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 767, 776, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 718

Judge who heard pretrial motion for protective order but had not presided at trial was disqualified from hearing the appeal of the case under CCP § 170.1(a)(6)(C); a person aware of her ruling on the pretrial motion and the degree to which that ruling was relevant on appeal might reasonably entertain doubts that she would be able to be impartial in hearing the appeal although she was not disqualified under CCP § 170.1(b). Housing Authority of the County of Monterey v. Jones (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 1029, 1042, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 676

Test under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6)(C); on undisputed facts this is question of law for independent appellate review; record did not support judge's self-disqualification under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6) in proceeding to commit sex offender as sexually violent predator when decision was based on rumors that district attorney's office believed judge was prejudiced against prosecution's interests in his interpretation of law, which accusation judge believed to be untrue; judge did not declare doubt about his own capacity to be impartial [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6)(B)]. Briggs v. Superior Court (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 312, 318-319, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445

Malicious prosecution case was subject to reversal when trial judge revealed clear bias regarding defendant's profession, i.e., that attorneys tend to initiate and churn litigation for financial gain, regardless of merits of case or damage to defendant, and then made credibility determinations against defendant on probable cause issue that was central to case. Hall v. Harker (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 836, 841-843, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 44

Judge who made several negative comments when referring to acts of one of the parties, i.e., "government tyranny" and "tyrannical behavior," was not necessarily biased against that party to extent that would require reversal, when comments were viewed against the entire record. Buckley v. California Coastal Commission (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 178, 202, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 562

Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6) provides standard by which reviewing court determines if trial judge is to be disqualified; derogatory and apparently unfounded statements concerning counsel, coupled with evidence presented in support of earlier petitions for extraordinary writs (each of which sought orders from the court of appeal to disqualify trial judge, after judge appointed under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(5) had denied motion to disqualify), and court's unusual and inappropriate desire to keep case, lead to conclusion that interests of justice required that further proceedings be heard before trial judge other than presently assigned judge. Ng v. Superior Court (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 1010, 1023-1024, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 49

Judge who impartially conducted criminal trial in which defendant was convicted held disqualified under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6)(C) [see now Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(B)(iii)] when it was discovered before sentencing and hearing on defendant's motion to strike prior convictions that judge had, as deputy district attorney, conducted preliminary examination in connection with one of the priors approximately 13 years earlier. Sincavage v. Superior Court (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 224, 230, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615

Judge's use of term "good boy" when addressing adult male of African-American descent during prior criminal action, taken in context, did not disqualify judge from sitting on criminal case involving defendant on grounds of bias or prejudice under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6)(C). Flier v. Superior Court (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 165, 172, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 383

In action against university challenging certain on-campus development, judge was not disqualified under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6)(C) on basis of prior involvement in university's law school alumni organizations; those activities were so remote and so unrelated to university's land management as to raise no doubt of judge's ability to be impartial. Stanford University v. Superior Court (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 403, 407-408, 219 Cal. Rptr. 40

[b] No Disqualification to Pass on Question of Law

No disqualification of judge was merited for bias under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(5) in passing on questions of law alone. Calhoun v. Superior Court (1958) 51 Cal. 2d 257, 260-261, 331 P.2d 648

All issues of law are decided same way regardless of whether judge is biased or not biased; issue decided incorrectly in lower court is presumably corrected on appeal. Calhoun v. Superior Court (1958) 51 Cal. 2d 257, 260-261, 331 P.2d 648

No distinction exists in disqualifying effect of statements of judge based on whether case tried before jury or before judge sitting without jury. McKay v. Superior Court of Shasta County (1950) 98 Cal. App. 2d 770, 777

[c] Nondisqualifying Matters

[i] Multiple Grounds

Alleged causes of bias or prejudice held insufficient to disqualify judge include: (1) erroneous rulings against litigant; (2) opinion uttered in discharge of judicial duty; (3) error on question of law; (4) opinion based on actual observance in participation in legal proceedings; and (5) prior information without hostility. In re Morelli (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 819, 843-844, 91 Cal. Rptr. 72

[ii] Erroneous Rulings Against Litigant

Petitioners contention that on three different occasions they were required to file petitions to overturn discovery orders requiring disclosure of attorney work product does not demonstrate bias or whimsy on behalf of the court, but merely frustration and a desire tom manage a complex case. Request for assignment to a new judge was denied. Hernandez v. Superior Court (Acheson Industries) (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 285, 303, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 883

Record of contempt hearing failed to show that trial judge was so prejudiced against contemner as to deny him fair trial, when there was no indication of prejudgment, and although judge ruled sua sponte that certain questions were objectionable, rulings were within judge's prerogative and discretion, and were not arbitrary. In re Morelli (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 819, 850, 91 Cal. Rptr. 72

Fact that court on three separate occasions denied petitions for stay of judgment was not evidence of bias and prejudice under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(5) and did not provide grounds for disqualification. Shakin v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 102, 116, 62 Cal. Rptr. 274

[iii] Error on Question of Law

Wrong opinion of law of case did not disqualify judge and was not any evidence of bias or prejudice under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(5). In re Morelli (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 819, 849, 91 Cal. Rptr. 72 ; Shakin v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 102, 116, 62 Cal. Rptr. 274 ; Estate of Buchman (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 81, 104, 281 P.2d 608 ; Ryan v. Welte (1948) 87 Cal. App. 2d 888, 895, 198 P.2d 351

[iv] Member of Racial, Ethnic, Religious, Sexual, or Similar Group

Justices' memberships in California Judges Association, which had filed amicus curiae brief in support of trial court's ruling, held not to disqualify them from hearing case; under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.2(a), it is not ground of disqualification that judge is or is not a member of racial, ethnic, religious, sexual, or similar group whose rights are involved in case. People v. Superior Court (Mudge) (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 407, 410, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 721

[v] Opinion Based on Observance of Proceedings

When state of mind of trial judge appears to be adverse to party but is based on actual observance of witnesses and evidence given, attitude does not amount to that prejudice against party under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(5) which disqualifies judge in trial of action. People v. Yeager (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 374, 391, 10 Cal. Rptr. 829, 359 P.2d 261

Opinion formed by judge as result of judicial hearing did not amount to bias and prejudice contemplated by former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(5); duty of judge is to consider and pass on evidence produced, and when evidence is in conflict, to resolve conflict in favor of party whose evidence outweighs that of opposing party. Kreling v. Superior Court (1944) 25 Cal. 2d 305, 312, 153 P.2d 734

Judge did not properly try case when he or she has formed partisan opinions from outside sources; trial judge is normally and properly forms opinions on law, evidence, and witnesses, from the presentation of case at trial. Haldane v. Haldane (1965) 232 Cal. App. 2d 393, 395, 42 Cal. Rptr. 828

[vi] Opinion Uttered in Discharge of Official Duty

Expressions of opinion uttered by judge, in what he or she conceived to be discharge of official duties, was not evidence of bias or prejudice under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(5). Kreling v. Superior Court (1944) 25 Cal. 2d 305, 310-312, 153 P.2d 734

Insufficient grounds for judge's disqualification were shown when judge, "thought of" referring defendant to district attorney for perjury but later apologized for anger and stated he would not refer matter. Taliaferro v. Taliaferro (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 642, 646-647, 21 Cal. Rptr. 864

Trial judge was not disqualified from hearing defendants' motion for new trial by reason of stating that it was judge's belief and that amount of damages allowed required further consideration. Wampler v. Muller (1953) 121 Cal. App. 2d 396, 398, 262 P.2d 853

[vii] Participating in Settlement Negotiations

Mere fact that judge has participated in settlement discussions is not proper ground for disqualification under Code Civ. Proc. 170.2. Roth v. Parker (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 542, 549, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 250

[viii] Prior Information Without Hostility

No knowledge, experience, or opinion gave rise to bias or prejudice under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(5) on part of trial judge unless it resulted in hostility or ill will. In re Morelli (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 819, 845-846, 91 Cal. Rptr. 72 ; Goodspeed v. Great Western P. Co. (1937) 19 Cal. App. 2d 435, 450, 65 P.2d 1342

Mere fact that judge entertains general belief in honesty of someone he or she knows is neither unusual nor indicative that he or she has such fixed opinion as to impair ability to weigh any evidence involving acts of that person. Rohr v. Johnson (1944) 65 Cal. App. 2d 208, 211, 150 P.2d 5

[d] When Judge Has Belief in Perjury by Party

In deciding question of fact, judge may often reject testimony of party, but this does not necessarily indicate that judge believes party was guilty of deliberate falsification. Keating v. Superior Court (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 440, 443, 289 P.2d 209

Because rejection of party's testimony may be result of consideration of ability of party to observe or remember, failure to accept party's version of facts does not show that judge is biased or prejudiced against party under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(5). Keating v. Superior Court (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 440, 443-444, 289 P.2d 209

Judge is not disqualified from proceeding to try and decide case or pass on motion for new trial because he or she states during course of trial that in his or her opinion, party has deliberately given false testimony, provided opinion of judge is based on consideration of evidence produced. Keating v. Superior Court (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 440, 444, 289 P.2d 209

Judge's duty when acting as trier of facts to pass on credibility of witnesses, and if he or she believes party testified falsely, and chooses to say so rather than remain silent, he or she as not disqualified from proceeding to render judgment. Keating v. Superior Court (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 440, 444, 289 P.2d 209

When judge has stated that party has given false testimony, even though belief is founded on evidence before judge, he or she is disqualified from retrying case. Keating v. Superior Court (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 440, 444, 289 P.2d 209 ; Briggs v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1932) 215 Cal. 336, 343, 10 P.2d 1003 ; Chastain v. Superior Court

When judge is about to retry case after having stated during course of prior trial that he or she believes party has willfully sworn falsely, judge is disqualified from retrying case though belief may have been founded on evidence before him or her. Keating v. Superior Court (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 440, 444-445, 289 P.2d 209

Judge is disqualified if he or she has stated that party has willfully sworn falsely and that judge would have no confidence in his or her testimony, or that party has deliberately perjured himself or herself, willfully misstated facts, or knowingly made false statements in affidavit. Taliaferro v. Taliaferro (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 642, 647, 21 Cal. Rptr. 864

Generally, when judge has stated that party has given false testimony, although belief is founded on evidence before judge, he or she is disqualified from retrying case. Aluisi v. County of Fresno (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 443, 451, 2 Cal. Rptr. 779

[e] When Judge Has Fixed Opinion

Judge's gratuitously offered opinion on matter not yet pending before him showed bias or prejudice against party. Pacific etc. Conference of the United Methodist Church v. Superior Court (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 72, 84, 147 Cal. Rptr. 44

Judge, who knew of own prejudiced attitude and state of mind at time of adoption hearing, was required to have disqualified self in first instance and not attempt to hear matter. Adoption of Richardson (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 222, 236-237, 59 Cal. Rptr. 323

[f] Superior Court Appellate Division Panel

Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6)(C) is broad enough to require the disqualification of a judge from an appellate panel reviewing a judgment where that same judge heard a pretrial matter involving a contested factual or legal issue related to the merits, or made a procedural determination that had a substantial effect on the ultimate outcome, or where the determination, though not directly appealable, is related to an issue on appeal from the final judgment. Housing Authority of the County of Monterey v. Jones (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 1029, 1041-1042, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 676

[2] Consent or Answer by Judge

A judge's powers to file an answer to a statement of disqualification under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(3) and to strike a statement of disqualification under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.4(b) are not mutually exclusive; in other words, a judge may first file an answer and then strike a statement of disqualification as long as he or she complies with the 10-day time limit of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c). PBA, LLC v. KPOD, Ltd. (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 965, 972-973, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532

If statement is legally sufficient and judge fails to file answer thereto within five (now 10) days, facts alleged in statement must be taken as true and judge becomes disqualified automatically. Calhoun v. Superior Court (1958) 51 Cal. 2d 257, 262, 331 P.2d 648 ; Oak Grove School Dist. v. City Title Ins. Co. (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 678, 702, 32 Cal. Rptr. 288

Judge whose answer denies disqualification is not precluded from requesting that matter be transferred to another qualified judge of the same court; transfers are not confined to cases in which actual disqualification has been either admitted or determined after hearing. People Ex Rel. Air Resources Bd. v. Superior Court (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 10, 17, 177 Cal. Rptr. 816

[3] Determination of Disqualification

On hearing of motion to disqualify judge on ground of bias and prejudice, under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(5) moving party has burden to establish bias or prejudice. Estate of Buchman (1955) 132 Cal. App. 2d 81, 104, 281 P.2d 608

Once statement of disqualification is filed, challenged judge is deprived of power to pass on question of own disqualification; question to be passed on by another judge and until question is decided, challenged judge is without jurisdiction to proceed. Rosenfield v. Vosper (1945) 70 Cal. App. 2d 217, 223, 160 P.2d 842

[4] Lawyer or Former Lawyer to Party

[a] Representation of Same Party

Judge not disqualified because he or she counseled or advised persons not parties to action on similar issues. Lassen Irrigation Co. v. Superior Court of Lassen County (1907) 151 Cal. 357, 362-363, 90 P. 709

Ground for disqualification that judge once represented defendant, which cannot be expressly waived under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(b)(2), can be waived by party who does not object to known ground of disqualification and does not timely challenge judge's failure to disqualify himself or herself by petition for writ of mandate pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(d). People v. Barrera (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 541, 552, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 755

Complaint did not allege facts disqualifying trial judge when trial judge's former client was not party and agency relationship of party and former client was not adequately alleged. O.A. Graybeal Co. v. Cook (1936) 16 Cal. App. 2d 231, 234, 60 P.2d 525

[b] Representation or Advice Involving Same Issue

Trial judge, former attorney and guardian ad litem for minor children of deceased wife in partition proceedings, was not disqualified to hear subsequent quiet title action. Reeve v. Jahn (1937) 9 Cal. 2d 244, 250, 70 P.2d 610

Judge who as attorney drew mortgage and secured letters of administration on estate was not disqualified from trying action to foreclose mortgage against estate. Morrissey v. Gray (1911) 160 Cal. 390, 393, 117 P. 438

Judge's counseling was not done in professional capacity but as friend. Lassen Irrigation Co. v. Superior Court of Lassen County (1907) 151 Cal. 357, 363, 90 P. 709 (dictum)

Under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(4), there must be some indication of actual participation by judge in previous action before grounds exist for disqualification. People v. Peralez (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 368, 376, 92 Cal. Rptr. 256

Motion to vacate default judgment on ground that judge was disqualified as former attorney for party was properly denied; defendant's failure to appear put nothing into controversy. Muller v. Muller (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 341, 343-344, 45 Cal. Rptr. 182

[c] Served as Lawyer Within Previous Two Years

Object of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(2) is not only to guard jealously actual impartiality of judge, but also to insure public confidence; statute should be liberally construed with view to effect its objects and to promote justice. People v. Thomas (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 518, 520, 105 Cal. Rptr. 366, 503 P.2d 1374 (criminal prosecution)

Judge's former employment as assistant district attorney within two years of prosecution did not make him "attorney or counsel for any party," under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(4); no disqualification when offense was not committed until more than one year after assistant district attorney's elevation to bench. People v. Thomas (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 518, 520-521, 105 Cal. Rptr. 366, 503 P.2d 1374 (criminal prosecution)

When law firm then headed by judge had represented present defendant within two years of present action, judge was disqualified on assumption that entire firm is so engaged. Mayo v. Beber (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 544, 549, 2 Cal. Rptr. 405 (dictum)

No judge should preside in case in which he or she is not wholly free, disinterested, impartial, and independent. Wickoff v. James (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 664, 670, 324 P.2d 661

Party who seeks to have judgment declared void on ground that judge was disqualified, must allege and prove facts that clearly show that disqualification existed. Wickoff v. James (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 664, 670, 324 P.2d 661

In malpractice action, insufficient showing to disqualify when only stated ground of disqualification was that judge was, at one time, retained as attorney for defendant hospital in matters involving one or more of same issues. Wickoff v. James (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 664, 669-671, 324 P.2d 661

[5] Orders Rendered by Judge After Disqualification Void

Disqualified judge has no power to make even relatively discretionary order; order made by disqualified judge is void. Noorthoek v. Superior Court (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 600, 604-607, 75 Cal. Rptr. 61

[6] Physical Impairment

Physical impairment is cause for disqualification. People v. Pratt (1962) 205 Cal. App. 2d 838, 845, 23 Cal. Rptr. 469

[7] Procedures

Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(d) provides that the determination of the question of the disqualification of a judge is not an appealable order and may be reviewed only by a writ of mandate from the appropriate court of appeal sought only by the parties to the proceeding. A party's attempt to challenge the trial court's order striking that party's statement of disqualification by way of appeal is improper. Fink v. Shemtov (2010) 180 Cal. App. 4th 1160, 1176, 103 Cal. Rptr. 3d 509

Procedure for disqualification of judge set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3 pertains only to disqualification of judge for cause pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1. Hollingsworth v. Superior Court (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 22, 26 n.5, 236 Cal. Rptr. 193

[8] Related to Lawyer in Proceeding

In order to disqualify judge by reason of relationship to person appearing as attorney for party thereto, under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(3) it was not necessary that related person should be attorney of record, nor did relation as attorney depend on obligation of client to pay compensation for services, nor on continuance of partnership between relative attorney and attorney of record. Johnston v. Brown (1897) 115 Cal. 694, 695, 47 P. 686

Fact that at previous trial of similar action between same parties, attorney, who was relative of judge, sat at table in court with partner, who was attorney of record, took notes of evidence, and assisted in trial of case, was sufficient to warn court that relative was in fact attorney in cause. Johnston v. Brown (1897) 115 Cal. 694, 696, 47 P. 686

Judge was not disqualified under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(3) by relationship to attorney whose signature on papers does not constitute bona fide appearance in case. Benton v. Budd (1898) 120 Cal. 329, 331, 52 P. 851

[9] Selection of Nondisqualified Judge to Try Main Case

Provision under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170 for transfer of case to qualified judge when there are two or more judges of same court is intended to provide simple and expeditious method for disposition by admittedly qualified judges of cases in which claims of disqualification might be made. Donovan v. Superior Court (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 848, 854, 250 P.2d 246

Qualified judge of same court can have case transferred to him or her in any case in which claim of disqualification may be made against one of other judges; operation is not confined to cases in which actual disqualification has been either admitted or determined after hearing. Donovan v. Superior Court (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 848, 854, 250 P.2d 246

[10] Statement of Disqualification by Party

Stated facts in verified statement of disqualification are required to make bias appear probable as to issue or issues to be tried. Calhoun v. Superior Court (1958) 51 Cal. 2d 257, 260, 331 P.2d 648 ; Shakin v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 102, 117, 62 Cal. Rptr. 274

Moving papers to disqualify trial judge for cause were inadequate and properly stricken by trial judge. In re Morelli (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 819, 850, 91 Cal. Rptr. 72

In determining whether papers in support of motion to disqualify judge for cause specify sufficient pertinent fact material to frame issue and warrant hearing before another judge, reviewing court cannot take into consideration oral explanations of such material as analyzed by challenged judge. In re Morelli (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 819, 845, 91 Cal. Rptr. 72

If written statement setting forth facts constituting alleged bias or prejudice of judge is timely and states sufficient facts, duty of judge is to file answer within five days (now 10) or be disqualified from sitting until matter of bias is passed on by another judge; however, when statement is legally insufficient, judge may ignore it or strike it from files. Ensher, Alexander & Barsoom v. Ensher (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 318, 323, 37 Cal. Rptr. 327

When statement of disqualification of trial judge for bias or prejudice showed, at most, that judge would be unable to continue with case on remittitur if further matters would be lengthy because of judge's appointment as administrator of state agency, judge properly struck statement from files as it failed to allege facts showing bias and prejudice. Ensher, Alexander & Barsoom v. Ensher (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 318, 323, 37 Cal. Rptr. 327

Allegations setting forth mere general conclusion of petitioner as to judge's prejudice without pleading any specific facts to show justiciable controversy under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(5) were insufficient. Taliaferro v. Locke (1960) 182 Cal. App. 2d 752, 757-758, 6 Cal. Rptr. 813

Allegations in statement charging bias and prejudice of judge are required to set forth specifically facts on which charge is predicated; statement containing nothing but conclusions and setting forth no facts constituting ground of disqualification may be ignored or stricken from files by trial judge. Mackie v. Dyer (1957) 154 Cal. App. 2d 395, 399, 316 P.2d 366

Once judge is challenged on grounds of bias and prejudice, his or her right to proceed over entire proceedings is suspended until basic question of qualifications is determined. Turkington v. Municipal Court (1948) 85 Cal. App. 2d 631, 639, 193 P.2d 795

[11] Types of Prohibited Interests in Proceeding

[a] Judge Is Party to Proceeding

Judge is "quasi" party in representative suit to protect rights of class of which judge was member and in which judge could intervene. Lindsay-Strathmore Irrigation Dist. v. Superior Court (1920) 182 Cal. 315, 326, 187 P. 1056

Supreme Court justices who concurred in issuing citation to appellant's attorney to show cause why attorney should not be suspended from practice for contempt of court in brief stricken from files do not become parties to action nor disqualified from participating in decision of appeal on its merits. Philbrook v. Newman (1905) 148 Cal. 172, 177, 82 P. 772

Expression "to which he is party" in former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(1) means to which he or she is real party and made so in good faith. Younger v. Superior Court (1902) 136 Cal. 682, 685, 69 P. 485

When judge was made party defendant to complaint in action for partition of land, as alleged claimant of interest in land, which interest was denied in complaint, court exceeded its jurisdiction in making ex parte order, of its own motion, without notice to other parties, or any hearing, striking complaint from files on ground that it was false, deceitful, and abusive in its allegation making judge party, and that it was done solely for purpose of disqualifying judge. Younger v. Superior Court (1902) 136 Cal. 682, 684-685, 69 P. 485

Both attorney and client can be held in contempt of court when judge is made party in bad faith. Younger v. Superior Court (1902) 136 Cal. 682, 684, 69 P. 485

Ancient maxim applicable in civil or criminal cases is that no person ought to be judge in his or her own cause. Meyer v. City of San Diego (1898) 121 Cal. 102, 104, 53 P. 434

Judge is disqualified under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(3) from sitting or acting in action in which bank is real party at interest, when judge's brother is director of bank, notwithstanding fact that action is brought in name of private individual. Lynip v. Alturtas School Dist. (1915) 29 Cal. App. 158, 160-161, 155 P. 109

Judge who is presented affidavit showing contemptuous conduct toward his or her court is not disqualified as party to hear and determine proceeding. Hughes v. Moncur (1915) 28 Cal. App. 462, 470, 152 P. 968

[b] Judge Has Knowledge of Disputed Facts

Relationship of judge and witness not within third degree did not require disqualification under Code Civ. Proc. §

170.1(a)(1) when prosecution witness was judge's daughter's husband's nephew. People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 635, 651-653, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 573, 941 P.2d 752

[c] Judge Has Financial Interest

In action by city to condemn land for uses and purposes of city, fact that plaintiff prior to inception of action had knowledge that judge before whom case was pending was stockholder and director in bank holding deed of trust on property had no bearing on question of disqualification of judge to hear and determine action, if in fact any disqualification existed. City of Vallejo v. Superior Court (1926) 199 Cal. 408, 415, 249 P. 1084

Fact that plaintiff in condemnation suit did not make bank owning deed of trust on property party to suit was immaterial to question of disqualification of judge, because bank had present proprietary interest in subject matter of action which it had right to have considered and determined therein. City of Vallejo v. Superior Court (1926) 199 Cal. 408, 416-418, 249 P. 1084

Interest of bank owning and holding deed of trust on property sought to be condemned by city for its uses was sufficient to create and constitute disqualification of judge before whom action is pending when judge was stockholder and director of bank. City of Vallejo v. Superior Court (1926) 199 Cal. 408, 418, 249 P. 1084

When action for damages and for injunctive relief based on seepage of water from given canal directly affects irrigation district that has become owner of canal, and judge before whom action is pending, as owner of property within district, is one of equitable owners of property of district, and, therefore, has direct, proprietary interest in property involved in action, he or she is disqualified from acting judicially therein. Hall v. Superior Court (1926) 198 Cal. 373, 383-384, 245 P. 814

"Corporation" in former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(2), requiring disqualification of any judge who owned securities of corporate party, applied only to private corporations, not public entities, so as not to disqualify judge who owned public utility debentures. Gottlieb v. Department of Water & Power (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 505, 510, 168 Cal. Rptr. 54

Judge disqualified was interested in action or proceeding pursuant to former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(1) when validity of special property tax was subject of litigation whose outcome would, without any further official action, prevent or impose tax on judge's property. Central & West Basin Water etc. Dist. v. Wong (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 191, 194-195, 127 Cal. Rptr. 448

[d] Nondisqualifying Types of Interest

Nonretired superior court judges as not, was such, disqualified under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(1) from hearing action in which validity of Governmental Conflict of Interest Act set forth in former Gov. Code §§ 3600-3760, was challenged. Nevada County v. Superior Court (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 663, 664, 111 Cal. Rptr. 568, 517 P.2d 832

Taxpayer is permitted to prosecute actions for alleged violations of public rights wherein plaintiff taxpayer's situation is one in nature of beneficiary of public trust, and he or she is allowed to litigate question on behalf of self and all taxpayers similarly situated; to hold taxpaying judge, whose rights might be said theoretically to be affected same as rights of plaintiff and all other taxpayers, disqualified on ground of "interest" is unwarranted extension of rule. Cuyamaca Water Co. v. Superior Court of California (1924) 193 Cal. 584, 593, 226 P. 604

Word "interested" in former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(1) embraced only interest that was direct, proximate, substantial, and certain, not remote, indirect, contingent, uncertain, and shadowy interest. Oakland v. Oakland Water Front Co. (1897) 118 Cal. 249, 252, 50 P. 268 ; Central & West Basin Water etc. Dist. v. Wong (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 191, 194,

Fact that plaintiffs in action against water district were seeking decree that could possibly lower property taxes and water rates paid by judge presiding at trial, who was taxpayer and water ratepayer residing within district, did not constitute grounds to disqualify judge for interest under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(1); Central & West Basin Water etc. Dist. v. Wong (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 191, 195, 127 Cal. Rptr. 448

Litigation, outcome of which could result in no change in district's tax rate or water rate, had only contingent, remote, and attenuated effect on judge, and, therefore, was not disqualifying "interest" within meaning of former Code Civ. Proc. § 170. Central & West Basin Water etc. Dist. v. Wong (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 191, 195, 127 Cal. Rptr. 448

"Interest" does not mean interest in similar suit against same or other defendants, or interest in point of law as such, or issue of fact as such, or in any general or special phase of case; it means definite, material, financial stake in direct outcome of particular case. Goodspeed v. Great Western Power Co. (1937) 19 Cal. App. 2d 435, 444, 65 P.2d 1342

[12] Voluntary Disqualification by Judge

Record did not support judge's self-disqualification under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6) in proceeding to commit sex offender as sexually violent predator when decision was based on rumors that district attorney's office believed judge was prejudiced against prosecution's interests in his interpretation of law, which accusation judge believed to be untrue. Briggs v. Superior Court (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 312, 318-319, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445

Judge's voluntary statement of disqualification is binding. Noorthoek v. Superior Court (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 600, 606, 75 Cal. Rptr. 61

Preferably, disqualified judge will record facts showing ground for disqualification so parties may know if ground is one which can be waived. Noorthoek v. Superior Court (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 600, 604, 75 Cal. Rptr. 61

[13] Waiver of Chance to Disqualify Judge by Delay

Disqualification of judge can be urged after judgment when ground of disqualification is not known until that time. Keating v. Superior Court (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 440, 447, 289 P.2d 209 ; Adoption of Richardson (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 222, 236-237, 59 Cal. Rptr. 323 ; Muller v. Muller (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 341, 345, 45 Cal. Rptr. 182 ; Oak Grove School Dist. v. City Title Ins. Co. (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 678, 704, 32 Cal. Rptr. 288

Code Civ. Proc. § 170-170.5 is not designed to deprive litigant of right to object to disqualification of trial judge by reason of his or her interest in action, when litigant did not discover facts constituting ground of disqualification until after commencement of action. Cadenasso v. Bank of Italy (1932) 214 Cal. 562, 570, 6 P.2d 944

Disqualification of judge was not waived under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6)(C) when judge, who impartially conducted criminal trial in which defendant, appearing pro se, was convicted, told defendant during course of trial that judge had only been calendar deputy district attorney at time of defendant's conviction approximately 14 years earlier and lulled defendant to believe grounds for challenge for cause did not exist, and after conviction, but before hearing on defendant's motion to strike prior convictions and sentencing, defendant's newly appointed counsel learned that the judge had conducted preliminary examination in connection with earlier criminal proceeding. Sincavage v. Superior Court (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 224, 227-228, 232, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615

Disqualification of judge is waived if not asserted at earliest practical opportunity after learning of ground therefor. Develop-Amatic Eng'r v. Republic Mortgage Co. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 143, 150, 91 Cal. Rptr. 193

Notice of disqualification of judge to be filed at earliest practicable opportunity in order to prevent dishonest litigants or unscrupulous lawyers from deliberately withholding making of disqualification statement until they know that filing of statement would disrupt orderly processes of court. Shakin v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 102, 115, 62 Cal. Rptr. 274

When no motion to disqualify judge was ever made, issue could not be raised for first time on appeal. Page v. Principe (1963) 220 Cal. App. 2d 151, 160, 33 Cal. Rptr. 836

Denial of modification of divorce decree was not erroneous on ground that judge should have disqualified self when affidavit alleging disqualification was not presented at earliest practicable opportunity and fell short of alleging facts showing disqualification. Blackwell v. Blackwell (1961) 190 Cal. App. 2d 520, 524, 12 Cal. Rptr. 201

While 1927 amendment to former Code Civ. Proc. § 170 does not specify in so many words a penalty for failure to urge disqualification at "earliest practicable opportunity," intention is clear that failure to comply with provision constitutes waiver. Mayo v. Beber (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 544, 550, 2 Cal. Rptr. 405

[1] Class Actions

Defendant's peremptory challenge of trial judge under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 in class action was untimely to disqualify judge from ruling on any matter relating to class certification when class certification procedure was in progress when peremptory challenge was made; challenge was otherwise untimely because court had ruled on complex summary adjudication motions involving contractual interpretation. California Federal Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Superior Court (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 267, 270, 234 Cal. Rptr. 413

[2] Constitutionality of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 in Civil Actions

Legislature foresaw that peremptory challenge procedure would be open to abuses but intended that affidavits be honored notwithstanding misuse. McCartney v. Commission on Judicial Qualifications (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 512, 539, 116 Cal. Rptr. 260, 526 P.2d 268 ; Johnson v. Superior Court (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 693, 697, 329 P.2d 5 ; Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 64, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240

Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 makes exercise of privilege to disqualify for prejudice subject to certain requirements designed to minimize abuses. McClenny v. Superior Court (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 677, 685-686, 36 Cal. Rptr. 459, 388 P.2d 691

Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6, providing for disqualification of trial judge on filing of affidavit of prejudice, is not unconstitutional as violation of doctrine of separation of powers. Johnson v. Superior Court (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 693, 697-699, 329 P.2d 5 (civil action)

Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 is neither an unconstitutional delegation of legislative and judicial power, nor unwarranted interference with courts. Johnson v. Superior Court (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 693, 697, 329 P.2d 5 (civil action)

judge is properly made ground for disqualification. Johnson v. Superior Court (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 693, 696, 329 P.2d 5 (civil action)

Legislature acted within its power to adopt reasonable regulations when it provided that, for limited purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6, prejudice of judge may be established by filing of affidavit sworn to by party or attorney, without judicial determination of existence of fact. Johnson v. Superior Court (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 693, 697, 329 P.2d 5 (civil action)

California Supreme Court, in upholding constitutionality of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6, relied on safeguards such as provision requiring timely making of challenge before trial to minimize possibility of abuse by litigants and their counsel. Johnson v. Superior Court (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 693, 697, 329 P.2d 5 (civil action)

1937 predecessor of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 held to be unconstitutional as unwarranted and unlawful interference with constitutional and orderly processes of courts. Austin v. Lambert (1938) 11 Cal. 2d 73, 79, 77 P.2d 849

Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6, providing for disqualification of trial judge on filing of affidavit of prejudice is not unconstitutional in violation of doctrine of separation of powers. Journey v. Superior Court (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 408, 411, 120 Cal. Rptr. 897

Judge was disallowed from arguing invalidity of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 under equal protection and due process clauses of state and federal constitutions when issues were not considered when motion to disqualify was ruled on and were not raised by party whose rights were involved. Journey v. Superior Court (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 408, 411, 120 Cal. Rptr. 897 (probation revocation hearing)

[3] Constitutionality of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 in Criminal and Juvenile Actions

Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 is constitutional as applied in criminal cases. Solberg v. Superior Court (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 182, 187, 137 Cal. Rptr. 460, 561 P.2d 1148

Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 is constitutional as applied in juvenile cases. Pamela H. v. Superior Court (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 916, 918, 137 Cal. Rptr. 612

[4] Establishing Prejudice

[a] Affidavit, Declaration, or Oral Statement Required to Support Motion

Once affidavit of prejudice has been filed, court has no jurisdiction to hold further proceedings in matter except to inquire into timeliness of affidavit or its technical sufficiency under statute. McCartney v. Commission on Judicial Qualifications (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 512, 531-532, 116 Cal. Rptr. 260, 526 P.2d 268

Court is bound to accept proper affidavit of prejudice without any further inquiry. McCartney v. Commission on Judicial Qualifications (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 512, 531-532, 116 Cal. Rptr. 260, 526 P.2d 268 ; Johnson v. Superior Court (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 693, 698, 329 P.2d 5

Immediate disqualification of judge is mandatory when affidavit of prejudice is timely and properly made. McCartney v. Commission on Judicial Qualifications (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 512, 532, 116 Cal. Rptr. 260, 526 P.2d 268 ; Jacobs v. Superior Court (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 187, 190, 1 Cal. Rptr. 9, 347 P.2d 9

Motion striking from files affidavit of prejudice on oral motion for disqualification of judge is proper when name of judge was known more than 10 days before date set for hearing and affidavit was not filed within time required by statute [former Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(2) now see Code Civ. Proc. 170.6(a)(2)]. Schoenberg v. Romike Properties (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 154, 164, 59 Cal. Rptr. 359

Prejudice of judge may be established by affidavit in general and conclusionary terms in substantially same form as provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(5). Andrews v. Joint Clerks Port Labor Relations Committee (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 285, 294, 48 Cal. Rptr. 646

Judge against whom affidavit is filed may determine whether it is timely because he or she may properly try or hear matter if it is not. Andrews v. Joint Clerks etc. Committee (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 285, 294, 48 Cal. Rptr. 646

Challenged judge has no discretion in determining his or her actual prejudice; party's or attorney's belief is decisive and disqualification is mandatory. Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 62, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240

Determination of timeliness and sufficiency of affidavit to disqualify judge, even affidavit purporting to allege facts charging actual bias, may be made by judge against whom affidavit is filed, because he or she may properly try very issue as to which he or she is challenged if affidavit is either insufficient or not timely. Lewis v. Linn (1962) 209 Cal. App. 2d 394, 399-400, 26 Cal. Rptr. 6

[b] Motion Without Notice

Extraordinary rights granted by Legislature to litigants to disqualify judge pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 are "automatic" in sense that good-faith belief in prejudice is alone sufficient, proof of facts showing actual prejudice is not required. McCartney v. Commission on Judicial Qualifications (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 512, 531, 532, 116 Cal. Rptr. 260, 526 P.2d 268

No requirement that moving parties must have filed general appearance in order to avail themselves of motion to disqualify. Hospital Council of Northern Cal. v. Superior Court (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 331, 339, 106 Cal. Rptr. 247

Motion to disqualify judge under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170 can be made only by party who has appeared in action; no such restriction is placed on peremptory challenge authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6; motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 is special appearance. Loftin v. Superior Court (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 577, 579, 97 Cal. Rptr. 215

Disqualification for prejudice cannot be raised first time on appeal. Whistler v. Ondulando Highlands Corp. (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 108, 117-118, 91 Cal. Rptr. 879

Possibility of abuse by some attorneys of privilege of "automatic" disqualification of judges was within contemplation of Legislature and was weighed against obvious advantages when principle was established. Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 64-65, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240

Prejudice is established by motion, supported by affidavit or oral statement under oath, that judge is so prejudiced that party or attorney cannot or believes that he or she cannot have fair and impartial trial or hearing. Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 61, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240

Judge who is challenged by procedure under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 is without discretion to determine whether he or she is prejudiced. Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 61, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240

[5] Motion for Disqualification Divests Court of Jurisdiction

Peremptory challenge that is "duly presented" with the necessary affidavit is effective immediately without any further act or proof. Since the peremptory challenge is effective immediately it does not act to extend the time for deciding a defendant's motion for a new trial. Davcon, Inc. v. Roberts & Morgan (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1355, 1360-1362, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 782

Subsequently entered orders and judgments of challenged judge remain valid if challenging party does not resort to review of order determining issue of disqualification as provided under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(d) (i.e., by petition for mandate filed within 10 days of notice of decision). Guedalia v. Superior Court (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1156, 1162-1163, 260 Cal. Rptr. 99

Timely motion filed under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 by defendant as to whom action was subsequently dismissed, divests court of jurisdiction to proceed with action as to codefendants; timely challenge by one defendant under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 inures to benefit of codefendants. Louisiana-Pacific Corp. v. Philo Lumber Co. (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 1212, 1218-1220, 210 Cal. Rptr. 368

Judge who fails to disqualify self on filing of timely motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 is without jurisdiction to take further action in case and if he or she does so, all subsequent orders and judgments are void. Woodman v. Selvage (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 390, 396, 69 Cal. Rptr. 687 ; Andrews v. Joint Clerks etc. Committee (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 285, 294, 48 Cal. Rptr. 646

When party properly makes motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 and judge against whom it is directed fails to disqualify self from hearing matter, his or her action thereon is void. Estate of Cuneo (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 381, 384, 29 Cal. Rptr. 497

[6] Only One Motion Permitted Per Case

If parties on the same side have adverse interests to other parties on the same side, they may be treated as a separate side for the purposes of making a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6. Home Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 34 Cal. 4th 1025, 1035, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 885, 103 P.3d 283

When a plaintiff belatedly names a party as a defendant, that circumstance alone does not establish that the party's interests are substantially adverse to earlier named defendants; substantially adverse interests are not presumed and mere speculation of potential conflict is insufficient. Home Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 34 Cal. 4th 1025, 1037, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 885, 103 P.3d 283

Rule that though there are ordinarily two "sides" to case, there may be more if codefendants have substantially adverse interests is equally applicable in civil and criminal cases. Pappa v. Superior Court (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 350, 353-354, 5 Cal. Rptr. 703, 353 P.2d 311 (criminal action)

Burden of establishing adverse interest is on defendant. Pappa v. Superior Court (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 350, 354, 5 Cal. Rptr. 703, 353 P.2d 311 ; Welch v. Superior Court (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 50, 53, 115 Cal. Rptr. 729 (criminal actions)

Defendant must make showing in trial court that conflict of interest exists between defendants before commencing proceeding in prohibition in Supreme Court to prevent trial judge from hearing case. Pappa v. Superior Court (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 350, 355, 5 Cal. Rptr. 703, 353 P.2d 311 (criminal action)

Fact that codefendants in criminal action are represented by separate counsel does not necessarily establish their interests are adverse. Pappa v. Superior Court (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 350, 354, 5 Cal. Rptr. 703, 353 P.2d 311 (criminal action); People v. Escobedo (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 32, 41, 110 Cal. Rptr. 550

"Only one motion for each side" does not mean that several parties have only one motion regardless of conflicting interests; when coplaintiffs or codefendants have substantially adverse interests, there are more than two sides in the case. Johnson v. Superior Court (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 693, 700, 329 P.2d 5

Although as a rule party is limited to single peremptory challenge in case, former Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(2) [now see Code Civ. Proc. 170.6(a)(2)] clearly permits an additional challenge following reversal of judgment if same judge is assigned to hear case on remand. Stubblefield Construction Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 762, 765, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 121

When initial peremptory challenge is dismissed on procedural grounds, and original trial judge changes for reasons other than peremptory challenge, initial challenge is not deemed "duly filed," and challenge of new judge is permitted. Truck Ins. Exchange v. Superior Court (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 142, 148-149, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 721 (untimely challenge to judge who subsequently retired not barred by former Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(3) [now see Code Civ. Proc. 170.6(a)(3)] restriction to one motion)

When another defendant on same side has exercised its right to disqualify a judge, later appearing defendant has no right to challenge then-current judge because that side has used its one challenge. School Dist. of Okaloosa County v. Superior Court (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 1126, 1134-1135, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 612

A party is not entitled to severance of a cross-complaint in order to enable it to avoid the burden of establishing interests substantially adverse to another party that had exercised an earlier peremptory challenge in the proceeding. Sunkyong Trading (H.K.) Ltd. v. Superior Court (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 282, 289-290, n.4, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 504

Denial of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 motion was improper when codefendant has already made such motion but counsel established adverse interest between codefendants because each defendant claimed other defendant was responsible for murder. Avital v. Superior Court (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 297, 301-303, 170 Cal. Rptr. 588

Provision providing that only one motion for disqualifying judge for prejudice for each side may be made thereunder in any one action or special proceeding does not arbitrarily discriminate against multiple parties. Welch v. Superior Court (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 50, 52, 115 Cal. Rptr. 729 (criminal action)

Defendant in criminal proceeding did not meet burden of establishing adverse interest between himself or herself and codefendant who had filed declaration of prejudice against judge when defendant's attorney filed mere form declaration asserting prejudice with no specific factual showing of adverse interest. Welch v. Superior Court (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 50, 52-53, 115 Cal. Rptr. 729 (criminal action)

[7] Reassignment of Trial or Hearing to Another Judge

The new judge assigned to the case may hear a motion for reconsideration under Code Civ. Proc. § 1008 on the basis that the disqualified judge is"unavailable," and the disqualified judge's authority is reinstated if the disqualification is found erroneous. Geddes v. Superior Court (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 417, 425-426, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 857

If judge is disqualified pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 challenge, duty of court is to assign another judge if one is available, or if none is available to procure assignment of outside judge through Chairman of Judicial Council. Nail v. Osterholm (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 682, 686, 91 Cal. Rptr. 908

Motion to disqualify pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 tolls five-year period for mandatory dismissal of action for failure to bring to trial Code Civ. Proc. § 583.310 et seq. Nail v. Osterholm (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 682, 686, 91 Cal. Rptr. 908 (applying former Code Civ. Proc. § 583)

[8] Review of Determination Regarding Disqualification

Only parties to the action may file petition for writ of mandate; disqualified judge may not. Curle v. Superior Court (2001) 24 Cal. 4th 1057, 1059, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 751

Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(d) applies to peremptory challenges as well as challenge for cause and precludes review of unsuccessful Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 challenge on appeal of judgment. People v. Hull (1991) 1 Cal. 4th 266, 269-270, 276, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 526, 820 P.2d 1036 ; Guedalia v. Superior Court (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1156, 1160-1163, 260 Cal. Rptr. 99

Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(d) provides exclusive remedy for party aggrieved by grant of request for disqualification. In re Sheila B. (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 187, 194-195, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 482

One uninjured by erroneous denial of peremptory challenge made by another party does not have standing to contest that ruling on appeal. In re Christian J. (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 276, 281, 202 Cal. Rptr. 54

[9] Rule of Necessity

Rule of necessity requires that judge not be disqualified because of personal financial interest if no other judge or court is available to adjudicate cause. Olson v. Cory (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 203, 27 Cal. 3d 532, 537, 164 Cal. Rptr. 217, 178 Cal. Rptr. 568, 609 P.2d 991, 636 P.2d 532

[10] Stage of Action or Proceeding at Which Motion May Be Presented

[a] Before Hearing on Contested Matter

A ruling on a motion for pretrial punitive damages discovery under Civ. Code § 3295(c) that a plaintiff has demonstrated a substantial probability that he or she will prevail on a claim for punitive damages is not a "determination of contested fact issues relating to the merits" for purposes of asserting a peremptory challenge to a judge pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2). Guardado v. Superior Court (2008) 163 Cal. App. 4th 91, 93, 77 Cal. Rptr. 3d 149

Trial court directed to enter order granting defendants' Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 motion when individual calendar judge assigned to case changed, defendants first learned of it on day of hearing on their demurrers and motion to strike, judge allowed counsel to argue but deferred ruling, and defendants filed peremptory challenge to judge on following Monday; harmonizing former Code Civ.Proc. § 170.6(2) [now see Code Civ. Proc. 170.6(a)(2)] and Gov. Code § 68616(i), challenge filed within 15 days of receiving notice of change was timely; however, challenge was untimely regarding hearing on demurrers and motion to strike because it should have been filed before commencement of hearing; thus, trial court had jurisdiction to rule on demurrers and motion to strike and was directed to so rule before granting defendants' Section 170.6 motion. Cybermedia, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 910, 914, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 126

Peremptory challenge under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 is timely when filed subsequent to ex parte proceeding concerning temporary restraining order and prior to hearing on preliminary injunction, when challenge is filed in accord with statutory time periods set forth in former Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(2) [now see Code Civ. Proc. 170.6(a)(2)]. Landmark Holding Group, Inc. v. Superior Court (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 525, 529, 238 Cal. Rptr. 475

Motion to disqualify for prejudice is not timely if filed in any case after any contested matter in relation to litigation has been submitted to judge sought to be disqualified. Doty v. Doty (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 672, 677, 125 Cal. Rptr. 153 ; Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 64, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240

Rule that petition to disqualify judge for prejudice is untimely when filed after contested matter has been submitted to judge applies to preliminary hearings and determinations. Doty v. Doty (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 672, 677, 125 Cal. Rptr. 153

Motion to disqualify judge pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 is not timely when filed after judge has decided preliminary contested matters. Miller v. Miller (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 197, 202, 89 Cal. Rptr. 643

Motion to disqualify judge for bias or prejudice must be made at earliest practical opportunity after litigants make appearance in action and discovery of facts constituting grounds of disqualification. Mancini v. Superior Court (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 547, 556-557, 41 Cal. Rptr. 213

Motion for disqualification of judge is timely under both spirit and letter of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 if party moves as expeditiously as possible after agreed on matter becomes litigated. Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 64, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240

Allowance of right to disqualify judge on ground of belief in prejudice is not intended to permit halting of already commenced hearings and trials. Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 62, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240

Mere issuance of order to show cause is not trial or hearing within contemplation of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 and section does not contemplate filing of affidavit of disqualification in such matters as orders made pursuant to ex parte applications or on stipulation of parties without contest of issues. Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 64, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240 ; Thompson v. Superior Court (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 702, 709, 23 Cal. Rptr. 841

When petitioner for prohibition against enforcement of order for modification of child custody decree filed affidavit of disqualification first time she appeared before judge on hearing which involved contested issue and had not previously exercised her right to do so, judge hearing matter of change of custody was disqualified from taking further action. Thompson v Superior Court (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 702, 710, 23 Cal. Rptr. 841

Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 applies only to trial of cause or hearing of matter and is not limited in its prohibition to hearing after cause is at issue. Thompson v. Superior Court (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 702, 707-708, 23 Cal. Rptr. 841

[b] Motion After Pre-Trial Hearing or Proceeding Not Precluded if Prior Motion Not on Merits

Trial court erred when it struck a peremptory challenge filed pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 on the ground that it had previously made a determination of contested fact issues relating to the merits, when the trial court's only factual determinations were made in connection with discovery motions and did not relate to the merits of the case. The mere fact that a judge considering discovery motions and sanctions may draw upon his or her knowledge regarding the parties' past conduct in the case is insufficient to broaden the category of cases in which a peremptory challenge is considered untimely. Swift v. Superior Court (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 878, 885, 91 Cal. Rptr. 3d 504

Late-named defendant's motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 to disqualify judge assigned for all purposes filed within 10 days after defendant's appearance held timely even though court had earlier ruled on other defendants' motions to quash service of summons because although motion to quash service of summons on ground that court lacks in personam jurisdiction may and probably will involve determination of contested facts concerning extent of defendant's contacts with California, motion does not require determination of contested facts related to merits of case. School Dist. of Okaloosa County v. Superior Court (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 1126, 1131-1134, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 612

Challenge pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 held proper even though filed after ruling on demurrer because judge in ruling on demurrer was not called on to make nor did judge make a determination of contested fact issues relating to the merits, and plaintiff filed peremptory challenge within ten days of the court's notice of assignment for all purposes. Fight for the Rams v. Superior Court (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 953, 958-960, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 851

When case is assigned for all purposes to specific named judge, motion to disqualify that judge must be made immediately on announcement of assignment. Woodman v. Superior Court (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 407, 410, 419, 241 Cal. Rptr. 818 (overruling its prior conflicting decision in Zdonek v. Superior Court (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 849, 852, 113 Cal. Rptr. 669)

Judge's issuance of temporary restraining order at ex parte proceeding did not determine any contested fact issue relating to merits of action within meaning of former Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(2) [now see Code Civ. Proc. 170.6(a)(2)]; motion to disqualify after issuance of TRO was not precluded. Landmark Holding Group, Inc. v. Superior Court (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 525, 527-529, 238 Cal. Rptr. 475

Peremptory challenge pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 was proper even though made subsequent to evidentiary hearing on motion to suppress that involved determination of contested fact issues relating to merits because judge had honored peremptory challenge based on identical affidavit of prejudice in another case simultaneously pending against same defendant, and granting one while rejecting other created appeara nce of impropriety. Woods v. Superior Court (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 885, 886-887, 235 Cal. Rptr. 687

Defendant's peremptory challenge of trial judge under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 in class action was untimely and did not deprive judge of jurisdiction over other issues in addition to class certification, when judge, aside from certification, had ruled on motions for summary adjudication of issues that involved complex questions of law, including contractual interpretation, that would "make or break" case. California Federal Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Superior Court (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 267, 270-271, 234 Cal. Rptr. 413

Motion to disqualify judge pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6, when made after pretrial hearing to determine competence of defendant's counsel, was timely, because only issue before court was one of law rather than fact, and in any case hearing on motion to disqualify counsel as incompetent had nothing to do with merits of defendant's case. People v. Whitfield (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 299, 304, 228 Cal. Rptr. 82

Judge did not pass on or determine contested issues of fact in rulings on summary judgment but rather decided whether triable issue of fact existed, thus petitioners were entitled to peremptory writ of mandate to compel assigned judge to disqualify self under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6. Bambula v. Superior Court (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 653, 657, 220 Cal. Rptr. 223

Intent of 1965 amendment to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 was to permit preservation of right to disqualify judge for trials and other fact determinations, notwithstanding that judge had earlier heard demurrers and motions without challenge. Zdonek v. Superior Court (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 849, 852, 113 Cal. Rptr. 669 (overruled on another ground by court's later decision in Woodman v. Superior Court (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 407, 410, 419, 241 Cal. Rptr. 818)

Trial judge's tentative acceptance and later rejection of plea bargain did not constitute determination of contested fact issues relating to merits of case, so as to preclude granting of motion to disqualify judge pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6; evaluation of facts admitted by plea of guilty, to determine whether to refuse or accept proposed plea bargain, did not involve fact finding function in respect of issue to be tried. Fraijo v. Superior Court (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 222, 224-225, 109 Cal. Rptr. 909 (criminal prosecution)

Judge's pretrial determination of motions for judgment on pleadings did not determine any contested fact issue relating to merits of action within meaning of former Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(2) [now see Code Civ. Proc. 170.6(a)(2)], providing that motion for disqualification of judge must be made before his or her determination of any fact issues related to merits. Hospital Council of Northern Cal. v. Superior Court (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 331, 337, 106 Cal. Rptr. 247

Motion for judgement on pleadings is in nature of general demurrer, and issues raised by it are legal and not factual, and as such admits material facts alleged in pleadings of adverse party. Hospital Council of Northern Cal. v. Superior Court (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 331, 337-338, 106 Cal. Rptr. 247

Court's determination that defendants' motions for security would be heard on particular date was not proceeding involving determination of contested fact issues relating to merits. Woodman v. Selvage (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 390, 394, 69 Cal. Rptr. 687

Probable cause hearing and summary judgment proceeding are similar in that both test whether there are facts stated to comprise actionable cause and both involve determination which relates to contested fact issues; but before right to disqualify is lost, judge must have actually resolved or determined conflicting factual contentions relating to merits prior to trial. Kohn v. Superior Court (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 428, 431, 48 Cal. Rptr. 832 (criminal prosecution)

1965 amendment to former Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(2) [now see Code Civ. Proc. 170.6(a)(2)] changed law so that motion to disqualify judge can now be made after hearing or proceeding held prior to trial which does not involve determination of contested fact issue relating to merits; Section 170.6 motion to disqualify trial judge after his or her determination of probable cause under Penal Code § 995 is made before determination of factual issues relating to merits of case and is timely. Kohn v. Superior Court (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 428, 430, 48 Cal. Rptr. 832 (criminal prosecution)

[c] Following Reversal on Appeal When Case Assigned to Same Judge for Retrial

Remand solely for resentencing in a criminal proceeding does not constitute a new trial and a disqualification motion under former Cal.Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(2) [now see Code Civ. Proc. 170.6(a)(2)] is not allowed. Peracchi v. Superior Court (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1245, 1249, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 639 (third conviction had been reversed for potential retrial and for resentencing and prosecutor chose not to retry the charge in the reversed count, leaving only resentencing)

Disqualification is not available where appellate court order to juvenile court was clearly for the performance of ministerial acts, i.e., entering an order denying reunification services and setting a permanent plan selection hearing. C.C. v. Superior Court (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 1019, 1022, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 225

Reversal of summary judgment motion based solely on grounds that trial judge had not specified the reasons for its determination as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 437c(g) did not necessitate that parties be permitted a peremptory challenge following reversal on appeal under CCP § 170.6(a)(2). Geddes v. Superior Court (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 417, 424, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 857

Trial court's decision on motions regarding conflicts of laws issues did not constitute a "trial" such that parties would be entitled to make peremptory challenge pursuant to CCP § 170.6(a)(2) after remand. State Farm v. Superior Court (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 490, 503, 17 Cal. Rptr. 3d 146

The party who unsuccessfully responds to an appeal may also exercise a peremptory challenge to the judge on remand, but only if that party has not previously exercised a peremptory challenge. Pfeiffer Venice Properties v. Superior Court (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 761, 764, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 400

Although as a rule party is limited to single peremptory challenge in case, former Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(2) [now see Code Civ. Proc. 170.6(a)(2)] clearly permits additional challenge following reversal of judgment if same judge is assigned to hear case on remand. Stubblefield Construction Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 762, 765, 769, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 121

Remand order encompassing receipt of evidence and resolution of factual issue regarding whether individual defendant paid judgment on behalf of himself alone or on behalf of corporate defendant constituted "new trial" within meaning of former Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(2) [now see Code Civ. Proc. 170.6(a)(2)], thereby rendering motion to disqualify made after remand timely. Hendershot v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 860, 864-865, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 645

[i] Motion Not Allowed

Because motion for disqualification under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 must be made before trial has commenced, it cannot be entertained as to subsequent hearings which are part or continuation of original proceedings. McClenny v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 677, 684, 36 Cal. Rptr. 459 (contempt proceeding arising out of other litigation); Jacobs v. Superior Court (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 187, 190, 1 Cal. Rptr. 9, 347 P.2d 9 (modification of child custody)

Proceeding is continuation of original action out of which it arises if it involves substantially same issues as original action. McClenny v. Superior Court (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 677, 684, 36 Cal. Rptr. 459, 388 P.2d 691

Notice of motion to disqualify trial judge for prejudice is not timely when filed before proceeding on indirect contempt that was supplementary to domestic relations action when there was substantial degree of similarity and even identity between issues to be raised in contempt proceeding and issues previously presented to judge. McClenny v. Superior Court (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 677, 684-685, 36 Cal. Rptr. 459, 388 P.2d 691

That contempt proceeding which is supplementary to domestic relations action is quasi criminal in nature does not make it separate proceeding for purpose of determining when motion to disqualify judge for prejudice may be made. McClenny v. Superior Court (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 677, 686-689, 36 Cal. Rptr. 459, 388 P.2d 691

That one accused of contempt in proceeding supplementary to domestic relations action may suffer criminal sanctions is no reason to resolve all judicial doubt in his or her favor when determining whether his or her motion to disqualify judge for prejudice, made before contempt proceeding, was timely filed. McClenny v. Superior Court (1964) 60 Cal. 2d 677, 685-686, 36 Cal. Rptr. 459, 388 P.2d 691

In situations involving guardianship and custody orders, subsequent proceedings to obtain changes in custody are continuations of original proceeding to determine custody. Jacobs v. Superior Court (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 187, 190, 1 Cal. Rptr. 9, 347 P.2d 9

Contempt proceeding for disobedience of injunction is continuation of action in which injunction was issued. Astourian v. Superior Court (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 720, 725, 276 Cal. Rptr. 657

Motion to disqualify judge hearing motion to set aside interlocutory decree of divorce was properly denied when judge had previously acted in whole case without any prior attempt to disqualify him or her and he or she had heard case and decided it on its merits. Meridith v. Meridith (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 504, 509-510, 70 Cal. Rptr. 631

If proceeding is merely continuation of former proceeding, plaintiff is not permitted to make proceedings independent through vehicle of newly filed and separately numbered action. Andrews v. Joint Clerks etc. Committee (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 285, 298, 48 Cal. Rptr. 646

Motion to vacate ex parte order made after judgment in case by one who was never party to action was not continuation of or supplement to anything previously done in action and therefore challenge of disqualification of judge made at commencement of hearing on motion was not asserted too late. Oksner v. Superior Court (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 672, 689-690, 40 Cal. Rptr. 621

Judge was disqualified and without jurisdiction to make any order with respect to nonparty when nonparty's motion before court to vacate ex parte order was in no sense continuation of or supplement to anything previously done in that action and nonparty's counsel at hearing on day when ex parte order was served on him filed notice of motion to vacate and declaration of disqualification. Oksner v. Superior Court (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 672, 689-690, 40 Cal. Rptr. 621

[ii] New Judge Exception

Litigant who has not exercised right to disqualify judge for prejudice on original hearing may do so on subsequent proceedings supplemental to original action as to judge other than one who has previously heard any phase of matter in litigation. Spector v. Superior Court (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 839, 843, 13 Cal. Rptr. 189, 361 P.2d 909 ; Thompson v. Superior Court (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 702, 707, 23 Cal. Rptr. 841

Litigant may exercise privilege to disqualify judge for prejudice in proceeding supplemental to original action as to judge other than any judge who has previously heard any phase of matter, provided he or she does so before commencement of hearing of supplemental proceedings and within time limitations specified. People v. Smith (1961) 196 Cal. App. 2d 854, 858-860, 17 Cal. Rptr. 330 (violation of probation hearing)

[11] Time for Making Motion

[a] No Motion After Hearing Commenced

A late appearing party in a case assigned to a judge for all purposes has the right to exercise a peremptory challenge within ten days after appearing in the case; however, that right is subject to two exceptions under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(2) [now see Code Civ. Proc. 170.6(a)(2)]: a party cannot exercise a peremptory challenge after the commencement of trial, and a peremptory challenge is precluded after the judge has decided a contested fact issue relating to the merits or in a subsequent proceeding that qualifies as a continuation of such a proceeding. Stephens v. Superior Court (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 54, 60, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 616

Otherwise timely Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 challenge made after argument on demurrers and motion to strike, while ruling on those matters was deferred, was untimely regarding demurrers and motion to strike because it should have been filed before commencement of hearing; thus, trial court had jurisdiction to rule on demurrers and motion to strike and was directed to so rule before granting defendants' Section 170.6 motion. Cybermedia, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 910, 914, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 126

Motion to disqualify judge made under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 was untimely when made after judge has already ruled on demurrer. Appl v. Lee Swett Livestock Co. (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 466, 469, 237 Cal. Rptr. 433

Except in those situations involving trial of cause appearing on master calendar, when judge assigned or scheduled to try cause or hear matter is known at least 10 days before trial or hearing date, motion must be made at least five days before that date, and if directed to hearing other than trial of cause, must be made not later than commencement of hearing. Andrews v. Joint Clerks etc. Committee. (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 285, 294, 48 Cal. Rptr. 646

Motion for disqualification of judge for prejudice directed to hearing other than trial of cause must be made not later than commencement of hearing. Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 62, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240

[b] No Motion After Trial Commenced

Plaintiff waived right to have judge step down and not try case at opening of trial before juror's name had been drawn; plaintiff's subsequent motion for disqualification filed after case had been tried and verdict returned was not timely. Agnew v. Cronin (1961) 197 Cal. App. 2d 535, 540-541, 17 Cal. Rptr. 273

[c] Ruling on Timeliness of Challenge

Disqualification claim untimely where party waited seven months before asserting the alleged ground for disqualification, even where appellate court stay of trial court proceedings was in effect for part of that time. Tri Counties Bank v. Superior Court (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 1332, 1338, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 835

If disqualification motion is untimely because of prior ruling on merits by disqualified judge, disqualified judge may not waive timeliness requirement and accept disqualification. Briggs v. Superior Court (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 312, 318, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445

Judge against whom peremptory challenge has been made may rule on timeliness of challenge. Micro/Vest Corp. v. Superior Court (1984) 150 Cal. App. 3d 1085, 1089, 198 Cal. Rptr. 404

Denial of peremptory challenge as untimely by judge who subsequently recuses self is not subject to review by succeeding judge in case. Micro/Vest Corp. v. Superior Court (1984) 150 Cal. App. 3d 1085, 1089, 198 Cal. Rptr. 404

[d] 10-Day/5-Day Provision

Ten-day/five-day provision does not apply when matter is assigned to law and motion department even if specific law and motion judge is named. Retes (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 799, 805, 176 Cal. Rptr. 160 ; but see People v. Superior Court (Lavi) (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 1164, 1183-1185, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 815, 847 P.2d 1031 (dicta, judge must only be known with reasonable certainty)

Possible for motion to be made prematurely; 10-day/5-day rule is measured from trial or hearing; therefore, motion may not be filed until there is scheduled hearing; noting that other courts of appeal disagree. Grant v. Superior Court (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 518, 526 ; 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 825 (motion was premature when filed after judge had ruled on two ex parte applications but before any further hearing had been set); contra Pedus Services, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 140, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 771 ; Moreira v. Superior Court (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 42, 265 Cal. Rptr. 437

Ten-day/five-day rule held inapplicable when matter to be heard was assigned to department, and not to judge by name. Moreira v. Superior Court (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 42, 45, 265 Cal. Rptr. 437 ; but see People v. Superior Court (Lavi) (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 1164, 1183-1185, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 815, 847 P.2d 1031 (dicta, judge must only be known with reasonable certainty)

Application of 10-day/5-day rule does not require actual knowledge by party or party's attorney but only that, on further investigation or inquiry, identity of judge assigned to particular department is ascertainable. Lawrence v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 611, 617, 253 Cal. Rptr. 748

Ten-day/five-day provision applies when matter is scheduled for hearing in identified department and name of judge assigned to that department is known at least 10 days before hearing; if judge other than previously assigned judge is presiding on hearing date, party may challenge that judge not later than commencement of hearing. Thomas Realty Co. v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 91, 95, 244 Cal. Rptr. 733 ; but see People v. Superior Court (Lavi) (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 1164, 1183-1185, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 815, 847 P.2d 1031 (dicta, judge must only be known with reasonable certainty)

Ten-day/five-day rule does not apply when matter to be heard is assigned to department, and not to particular judge. Bouchard v. Insona (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 768, 772, 164 Cal. Rptr. 505 ; but see People v. Superior Court (Lavi) (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 1164, 1183-1185, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 815, 847 P.2d 1031 (dicta, judge must only be known with reasonable certainty)

Motion for disqualification of judge made by interveners, who came into case after it had been assigned date for trial, must be made at least five days before date set for trial or hearing, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6, so providing when, as was true with interveners, assigned or scheduled judge was known at least 10 days before that date. Hospital Council of Northern Cal. v. Superior Court (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 331, 338-340, 106 Cal. Rptr. 247

Interveners became parties on order authorizing intervention, and time ran from that date, rather than from later date of filing of formal petition in intervention. Hospital Council of Northern Cal. v. Superior Court (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 331, 339, 106 Cal. Rptr. 247

No requirement that interveners in action must have filed general appearance in order to avail themselves of motion to disqualify judge; interveners were parties "appearing" in action within meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6, pertaining to disqualification of judges, once they had participated in action prior to filing petition in intervention. Hospital Council of Northern Cal. v. Superior Court (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 331, 339, 106 Cal. Rptr. 247

When defendants filed notice of motion for security on December 1 stating they would bring motion for hearing on December 13, but on that date parties agreed to subsequent date for hearing, plaintiffs' December 13 oral motion to disqualify was timely because that was as soon as it became known to plaintiffs' counsel when motion for security would be heard. Woodman v. Selvage (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 390, 394, 395-396, 69 Cal. Rptr. 687

When, following trustee's filing of notice of default under trust deed, trustors filed action for declaratory relief denying default and beneficiaries petitioned to intervene as indispensable parties and moved to disqualify judge for prejudice, petitioners were parties within Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 and filing of motion for disqualification was within proceeding pending before court. Cuneo v. Superior Court (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 452, 456-457, 28 Cal. Rptr. 791

Motion and affidavit to disqualify trial judge is timely filed if presented at least five days before last scheduled date for trial if judge assigned or scheduled to try cause is known to party of attorney at least 10 days before that date. Eagle Maintenance & Supply Co. v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1961) 196 Cal. App. 2d 692, 695, 16 Cal. Rptr. 745

Under 10-day/5-day provision, motion supported by sufficient affidavit and made prior to setting of cause for trial, had to be granted by trial court. Lowry v. Superior Court (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 22, 24, 8 Cal. Rptr. 720

[e] When Master Calendar Exists

Immediate challenge by motion to judge supervising master calendar applies only if case is assigned from master calendar; if assignment is merely from master calendar department, to another department for future trial, challenge is timely if made more than five days in advance of hearing. Zdonek v. Superior Court (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 849, 855, 113 Cal. Rptr. 669

Civil master calendar system makes it impracticable to allow five days for peremptory challenge for prejudice. People v. Escobedo (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 32, 38, 110 Cal. Rptr. 550 (criminal action)

Civil master calendar judge may make immediate assignment to another department and assign challenged judge to another pending case. People v. Escobedo (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 32, 38, 110 Cal. Rptr. 550 (criminal action)

When case was assigned from master calendar, motion to disqualify was untimely because petitioner did not make and file motion of prejudice to judge supervising master calendar, but awaited outcome of ruling of judge to which case was assigned. Michaels v. Superior Court (1960) 184 Cal. App. 2d 820, 824-825, 826-827, 7 Cal. Rptr. 858

[f] When Judge Is Replaced After Party Appears

If individual calendar judge assigned to case is changed, harmonizing former Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(2) [now see Code Civ. Proc. 170.6(a)(2)] and Gov. Code § 68616(i), party that already appeared in action must file its challenge within 15 days of receiving notice of change. Cybermedia, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 910, 913, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 126

[g] When Case Assigned to Same Judge for Retrial After Reversal on Appeal

Remand solely for resentencing in a criminal proceeding does not constitute a new trial and a disqualification motion under former Cal.Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(2) [now see Code Civ. Proc. 170.6(a)(2)] is not allowed. Peracchi v. Superior Court (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1245, 1249, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 639 (third conviction had been reversed for potential retrial and for resentencing and prosecutor chose not to retry the charge in the reversed count, leaving only resentencing)

Gov. Code § 68616 does not apply when judgment has been reversed on appeal and returned to trial court for retrial; 60-day provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 controls. Stubblefield Construction Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 762, 765, 769, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 121

[h] Who May Bring Motion

In dicta, court suggested that a nonparty cited for contempt may have a right to exercise a peremptory challenge against a discovery referee despite prior cases holding that nonparties generally do not have peremptory challenge rights under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6. Sears, Roebuck and Co. v. National Union Fire Ins. Co. of Pittsburgh (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 1342, 1349, fn. 4, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 717

Public agency on which subpoena duces tecum was served but that was not party to action is without authority to bring motion for peremptory disqualification of judge hearing discovery matters. Avelar v. Superior Court (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 1270, 1274, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 536

27-317 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 317.130

§ 317.130 Stipulation to Court Commissioner to Act as Temporary Judge

☐ Ascertain whether a court commissioner may act as a temporary judge in the case [for discussion, see § 317.12[6]].

☐ Determine whether the court commissioner is qualified to act as a temporary judge.

☐ Determine whether all other parties to the action will stipulate to the appointment of the court commissioner as temporary judge.

☐ Prepare stipulation of court commissioner to act as temporary judge [for form, see § 317.170] in the following number of copies:

☐ Original for filing.

☐ One copy for each party or his or her attorney, if he or she has one.

☐ One copy for the attorney who is to act as temporary judge.

☐ Additional copies as desired.

☐ Sign the stipulation and obtain the signature of the other party, or if the party has an attorney, the signature of the party's attorney.

☐ Have the commissioner selected as temporary judge sign the consent part of the combined form.

☐ Present the combined form to the presiding judge, or the supervising judge of a branch court, or to the judge in whose department the case is pending if the court does not have a presiding judge, and have the judge endorse his or her approval and order designating the person selected as temporary judge on the form.

☐ File the combined form containing the stipulation, consent, and the endorsed court approval and order, as well as the oath, with the court clerk.

§ 317.150 Disqualification for Cause

☐ Prepare the verified written statement [for forms, see §§ 317.190 -317.196] objecting to the hearing of any matter or the trial of any issue of fact by a judge disqualified for cause under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 170-170.5 in the following number of copies:

☐ Original for filing with clerk [see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(1)].

☐ One copy for service on each party, or his or her attorney, who has appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(1)].

☐ One copy for service on the judge alleged in the written statement to be disqualified [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(1)].

☐ Additional copies as may be desired.

☐ Sign the verification or have it signed.

☐ Prepare the proof of service in the same number of copies as the written statement and execute it or have it executed.

☐ Serve the written statement on each party, or his or her attorney, and on the judge alleged to be disqualified.

☐ The statement of a party objecting to the judge on the ground of his or her disqualification must be presented at the earliest practicable opportunity after the discovery of the facts constituting the ground of the judge's disqualification [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(1)].

☐ If the challenged judge answers the statement, file any agreement with other parties to the action on a judge to hear the disqualification statement with the court clerk within five days of notification of the answer [for discussion, see § 317.50; for form, see § 317.198].

☐ If the judge deciding the disqualification sets a hearing, attend the hearing and present argument and, if allowed, evidence of grounds for disqualification.

☐ Stipulate to hearing of action or proceeding by a particular judge, if desired [for form, see § 317.199]._____

NOTE:
Right to Stipulate. Parties had the right to stipulate to a judge to hear the action or proceeding under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(f). Although this right is no longer expressly provided for by statute, if the parties agree on a judge before the matter is reassigned by the presiding judge or the master calendar department, under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 170.3(c)(2) and 170.4(a)(2), without conceding his or her disqualification, a challenged judge may request any other judge agreed upon by the parties to sit and act in his or her place [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 170.3(c)(2) and 170.4(a)(2)].

APPROVAL AND ORDER DESIGNATING TEMPORARY JUDGE

The stipulation of the parties hereto that _____ [name], a Court Commissioner in the County of _____ [name], act as temporary judge is hereby approved and it is hereby ordered that _____ [name] be, and he/she hereby is, appointed temporary judge in the above-entitled matter until final determination.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the _____ Court

[2] Use of Form

This form combines the stipulation by the parties and approval and order of appointment of a temporary judge by a superior court. It should be noted, though, that many counties provide a form for use in this procedure. Hence, the county clerk should be contacted to determine if such a form is available.

[3] Procedure

The stipulation must be in writing and must set out in full the name and office address of the court commissioner agreed on to act as temporary judge, and must be submitted to the presiding judge, or to the judge in whose department the case is pending in courts which do not have a presiding judge. If the commissioner agreed on consents to act and if his or her selection is approved by the court, the approval and order designating him or her as temporary judge is endorsed on the stipulation, which is then filed.

Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [names],	)	EXCEPTION(S) TO REPORT OF COMMISSION-Defendants.	)	ER AND ORDER OF COURT THEREON

_____ [Plaintiff or Defendant] excepts to the Report of the Commissioner and to the Order of the Court thereon dated _____ [date], on the following grounds:

[LIST as appropriate, e.g.:]

1. The evidence does not support the decision of the Commissioner.

2. The decision does not support the Order.

3. Errors of law were committed in the introduction or exclusion of evidence.

4. The Order is erroneous as a matter of law.

5. Newly discovered evidence.

6. Accident or surprise.

SUMMARY STATEMENT

_____ [Summary Statement of proceedings immediately leading to Report of Commissioner and Order of the Court to which exceptions are being taken, e.g., Defendant began the pending proceedings by an Order to Show Cause for the purpose of modifying the Court's order dated _____ (date), ordering defendant to pay _____ the sum of $_____ per _____ to plaintiff for support of the minor children. The pending matter was heard before Commissioner _____ (name) commencing on _____ (date), who made a report dated _____ (date), in favor of defendant which the court summarily approved by its order dated _____ (date)].

[STATE grounds of exceptions as headings and develop each ground in the paragraph following the heading, e.g.:]

1. The Evidence Does Not Support the Decision of the Commissioner.

The commissioner decided _____ (set forth decision excepted to). The only evidence before the commissioner on that issue was the testimony of _____ (name) who testified that _____ (specify pertinent testimony). There was no testimony or other evidence to rebut or contradict this evidence and no evidence to support the commissioner's decision.]

[CONTINUE with additional grounds of exceptions stated as numbered headings and develop each ground in the paragraph following the heading]

Dated: _____.

_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [party's status and name]

[2] Use of Form

This form of exception is for use by a party to a contested proceeding who wishes to take exception under Code Civ. Proc. § 259(b) to the report of a court commissioner and the court's order on the commissioner's decision [see Chiarodit v. Chiarodit (1933) 218 Cal. 147, 149, 21 P.2d 562 ; Weinfeld v. Weinfeld (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 608, 611, 324 P.2d 342 (grounds for exception); see also Crocker Citizens Nat. Bank v. Knapp (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 875, 882, 60 Cal. Rptr. 66 (court's failure to make certain specific findings was not error when findings that were made amply justified its order); discussion at § 317.12[3][a] -[b]].

[3] Filing and Serving

The exception must be filed within five days after receiving written notice of the court's action [Code Civ. Proc. § 259(b); see also Goetz v. Superior Court (1958) 49 Cal. 2d 784, 787, 322 P.2d 217] . That five-day period commences to run when the written notice is signed and served by the prevailing party's attorney of record [see Goetz v. Superior Court (1958) 49 Cal. 2d 784, 787, 322 P.2d 217 (notification by deputy court clerk of commissioner's recommendations and court order was insufficient to commence running of five-day period for filing exceptions)]. The party filing the exceptions must filed and serve a copy on the opposing party or his or her counsel within that same five-day period [Code Civ. Proc. § 259(b)].

[4] Hearing

The excepting party may argue the exceptions before the court on giving notice of motion for that purpose within 10 days from the entry of the court's order [Code Civ. Proc. § 259(b)].

[5] No Need to Grant New Trial to Set Aside Report

A special reference usually calls for a decision as to certain, specified issues only, without conclusions of law, and the report of the commissioner does not become the decision of the court without further action by the trial judge [see Ellsworth v. Ellsworth (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 719, 723, 269 P.2d 3] . Thus, the report may be set aside by the court without the necessity of granting a new trial [see Ellsworth v. Ellsworth (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 719, 723, 269 P.2d 3] .

However, a party who does not file a written objection to the contents of the report or does not properly move to set aside the report waives his or her right to object to the findings [see Martino v. Denevi (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 553, 557, 227 Cal. Rptr. 354 (referee)].

To _____ [e.g., defendant] _____ [name] and to _____ [name], his/her attorney of record:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], _____ [specify party, e.g., plaintiff] will, and hereby does, move for an order that the Report of the Commissioner dated _____ [date], and the Order approving that Report, be set aside by this court, and that the court hold and conduct further hearings with regard thereto. The motion will be made on the grounds set forth in _____ [defendant's or plaintiff's] exceptions to the Report of the Commissioner and the Order of the Court thereon.

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, the Report of the Commissioner and Order of the Court thereon, exceptions of _____ [defendant or plaintiff] [attached hereto or heretofore filed and served], the attached memorandum in support of motion, the papers and records on file, and such oral and documentary evidence as may be presented at the hearing of this motion.

Attorney for _____ [party's status and name]

This form is for use by a party who wishes to notify another party that he or she will argue exceptions to the commissioner's report [for a form of exceptions, see § 317.171; for discussion, see § 317.12[3][b]]. Code Civ. Proc. § 259(b) provides that any party to any contested proceeding may except to the commissioner's report and subsequent court order made on it and may argue any exceptions before the court on giving notice of motion for that purpose within 10 days from entry "thereof." Because the exceptions and the notice of motion are filed and only the order is entered, it would appear that the "thereof" used in Code Civ. Proc. § 259(b) refers to the entry of the court's order. Under this construction, the notice of motion and supporting papers should be served within 10 days from entry of the order. Unless shortened by court order, the motion will still have to be made on 16 court days notice, plus additional time when service is by mail, fax, overnight delivery, or electronic service, unless time is shortened by court order [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010.6(a)(6)]. A motion is deemed made on the due service and filing of the notice of motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005.5].

[3] Accompanying Papers

A supporting memorandum must be filed and a copy served with this notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100, 3.1103, 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010; see also Crocker Citizens Nat. Bank v. Knapp (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 875, 877, 60 Cal. Rptr. 66 ; Sturm v. Sturm (1955) 138 Cal. App. 2d 25, 27, 291 P.2d 527 ; for discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities].

At the time of the hearing, the moving party may want to have before the court affidavits that were before the commissioner [see Crocker Citizens Nat. Bank v. Knapp (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 875, 881, 60 Cal. Rptr. 66 (not error for court to amend commissioner's findings of fact when court had before it all affidavits that commissioner considered in preparing findings)].

The court can modify the commissioner's report without a transcript of the proceedings before commissioner [*Weinfeld v. APPROVAL AND ORDER DESIGNATING TEMPORARY JUDGE

The stipulation of the parties hereto that _____ [name], a member of the State Bar of California, act as temporary judge is hereby approved and it is hereby ordered that _____ [name] be, and he/she hereby is, appointed temporary judge in the above-entitled matter until final determination, on his/her taking and subscribing the oath of office.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the Superior Court

This form combines the stipulation by the parties, consent by an attorney to act as temporary judge, and approval and order of appointment of a temporary judge by a superior court [see Cal. Const., art. VI, § 21; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.831; for discussion, see § 317.22]. It should be noted, though, that many counties provide a form for use in this procedure. Hence, the county clerk should be contacted to determine if such a form is available.

[3] Procedure

The stipulation must be in writing and must set out in full the name and office address of the attorney agreed on to act as temporary judge, and must be submitted to the presiding judge, or to the judge in whose department the case is pending in courts which do not have a presiding judge. If the attorney agreed on consents to act and if his or her selection is approved by the court, the approval and order designating him or her as temporary judge is endorsed on the stipulation, which is then filed. The temporary judge must take the oath of office [for form, see § 317.181], which must be attached to the stipulation and order of approval, and the case is then assigned to him or her for trial. At any time after the filing of the oath of office, the temporary judge may proceed with the hearing, trial, and determination of the cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.831(c)].

[2] Source of Form

This form of oath is taken from Cal. Const., art. XX, § 3. Although the second paragraph of the oath in this form was held unconstitutional as a violation of the First Amendment in Vogel v. County of Los Angeles (1967) 68 Cal. 2d 18, 26, 64 Cal. Rptr. 409, 434 P.2d 961 , Cal. Const. art. XX, § 3 has not been amended to remove the invalid paragraph.

Many counties have printed forms of the oath of office available. Hence, counsel should contact the county clerk to determine if such a form is provided.

[3] Use of Form

The above form is for use as the oath of office required of an attorney to act as a temporary judge [see Cal. Const., art. VI, § 21, art. XX, § 3; Gov. Code §§ 1360, 1362; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.831(b)].

After the temporary judge has taken and subscribed the oath of office, the oath is attached to the stipulation and order of approval, and the case is then assigned to the temporary judge for trial. At any time after the filing of the oath, the temporary judge may proceed with the hearing, trial, and determination of the cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.831(c)].

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the attorney for the _____ [plaintiff or defendant] in the above-entitled matter. I have read the foregoing written statement for the disqualification for cause of the Honorable _____ [name] as Judge and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein stated on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

[2] Use of Form

This form is for general use as a written statement regarding the disqualification for cause of a judge, court commissioner, or referee [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.5(a)]. Whenever a judge who should disqualifiy himself or herself fails or refuses to do so, any party to the action or proceeding may file with the clerk a written statement objecting to the hearing or trial before that judge, and setting forth the facts constituting the ground of the disqualification of the judge [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(1); see discussion at §§ 317.46, 317.48]. For forms alleging grounds of disqualification that may be used in place of Paragraph 3 of this form, see §§ 317.191 -317.196.

[3] Requirement That Facts Be Set Forth

The statement must set forth facts, not conclusions, from which a judge's disqualification for cause appears probable as to an issue or issues to be tried [see Calhoun v. Superior Court (1958) 51 Cal. 2d 257, 260, 331 P.2d 648 ; Shakin v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 102, 117, 62 Cal. Rptr. 274 ; Ensher, Alexander & Barsoom v. Ensher (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 318, 323, 37 Cal. Rptr. 327] and if a statement of disqualification is legally insufficient, a judge may disregard it or strike it from the files [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.4(b); Keating v. Superior Court (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 440, 443, 289 P.2d 209 ; In re Morelli (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 819, 850, 91 Cal. Rptr. 72] . For further discussion of the requirement that a judge strike an insufficient statement, see § 317.47

[4] Verification

Every statement must be verified in the manner prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 446 for the verification of pleading [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(1)] or by declaration under penalty of perjury as in the foregoing form [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5].

[5] Timely Filing Required

The statement of a party objecting to the judge on the ground of his or her disqualification for cause must be presented at the earliest practicable opportunity after discovery of the facts constituting the ground of the judge's disqualification [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(1); see also Schorr v. Superior Court (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 568, 571, 164 Cal. Rptr. 478 ; Develop-Amatic Engineering v. Republic Mortgage Co. (1970) 12 Cal. App.3d 143, 150, 91 Cal. Rptr. 193 ; Mayo v. Beber (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 544, 550, 2 Cal. Rptr. 405] ; otherwise, it is deemed waived [see Caminetti v.

Pac. Mutual L. Ins. Co. (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 386, 391, 139 P.2d 930 ; Develop-Amatic Engineering v. Republic Mortgage Co. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 143, 150, 91 Cal. Rptr. 193 ; Shakin v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 102, 115, 62 Cal. Rptr. 274 ; Mayo v. Beber (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 544, 550, 2 Cal. Rptr. 405] . Obviously, the statement cannot be required to be presented before it is known which judge will hear the matter [Hollingsworth v. Superior Court (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 22, 27-28, 236 Cal. Rptr. 193] . In any event, the statement should be presented before commencement of the trial or hearing to avoid the possibility of having to continue the trial or hearing with that judge only to have the matter tried or heard again if the judge is found to be disqualified [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.4(c)]. Note that when the proceeding has been set for trial or hearing more than 30 days in advance before a judge whose name was known at the time, or when a proceeding is filed in a single judge court or has been assigned to a single judge for comprehensive disposition, the trial or hearing will be deemed to have commenced for purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.4(c) 10 days prior to the date scheduled for the trial or hearing as to any grounds for disqualification known before that time [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.4(c)(2)]. In other situations commencement is indicated by the start of voir dire, by the swearing of the first witness, or by the submission of a motion to the judge for decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.4(c)(1); see also discussion at § 317.56].

[6] Service

Copies of the written statement must be served on each party or his or her attorney who has appeared and shall be personally served on the judge alleged to be disqualified, or on his or her clerk, provided that the judge is present in the courthouse or in chambers [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(1)].

[7] Filing

The written statement is filed with the court clerk [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(1)]. When a party has filed a written statement regarding a judge's disqualification, which meets the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(1), the judge has no power to act in the proceeding until the question of his or her disqualification has been determined except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 170.4 [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.4(d); for discussion of a judge's powers under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.4, see § 317.34[2]].

§ 317.191 Allegations Supporting Disqualification--Judge Is a Party or Has Knowledge of Disputed Evidentiary Facts [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(1), (4)]

[1] FORM Allegations Supporting Disqualification--Judge is a Party or Has Knowledge of Disputed Evidentiary Facts [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(1), (4)]

The Honorable _____ [name] is disqualified from hearing the above-entitled matter in that _____ [state the facts constituting grounds for disqualification as a party under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(4) or as a person with knowledge of disputed facts under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(1), e.g., contrary to Section _____ (170.1(a)(4) or 170.1(a)(1)) of the Code of Civil Procedure, Judge _____ (name) _____ (is a defendant or has knowledge of disputed evidentiary facts and is likely to be a material witness) in the present action as a result of his/her involvement in an automobile accident on _____ (date)].

[2] Use of Form

The form of allegation in [1], above, is for inclusion in a statement of disqualification of a judge who is involved in a pending action as a party or as a relative, officer, director, or trustee of a party [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(4); see discussion at § 317.37[2]], or who has knowledge of disputed evidentiary facts concerning the proceeding or is related to someone who is likely to be called as a material witness [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(1); see discussion at § 317.37[3]]. It may be used in place of the third paragraph in the form of statement of disqualification in § 317.190[1].

For comparison, see discussion of interests that would not disqualify a judge at § 317.39.

[1] FORM Allegations Supporting Disqualification--Judge Has Financial Interest in Subject Matter or Party [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(3)]

The Honorable _____ [name] is disqualified from hearing the above-entitled matter in that _____ [state the facts constituting the ground or grounds of disqualification for financial interest under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(3), e.g., contrary to Sections 170.1(a)(3) and 170.5(b) of the Code of Civil Procedure, the Honorable _____ (name) owns shares of the defendant XYZ Corporation having a fair market value in excess of $30,000].

[2] Use of Form

The form of allegation in [1], above, is for inclusion in a statement of disqualification of a judge when the judge, the judge's spouse, or a minor child living in the household has a financial interest in the subject matter of the proceeding, or in a party to the proceeding. In the case of the judge and the judge's spouse, this includes an interest as a fiduciary. A judge has a duty to remain informed about the financial affairs of his or her spouse and any children living in the household [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(3)(C)]. Financial interest is defined as an ownership of more than a one- percent legal or equitable interest in a party or any interest in a party of a fair market value excess of $1500, and includes relationships such as any active participant or advisor [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.5(b)]. Certain other interests, including a policyholder of a mutual insurance company, which were disqualifying interests under prior law, are now excepted from the definition of financial interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.5(b)]; for further discussion see §§ 317.38 and 317.39. This allegation may be used in place of the third paragraph in the form of statement of disqualification in § 317.190[1].

[2] Use of Form

The form of allegation in [1], above, is for inclusion in a statement of disqualification of a judge when a lawyer or a spouse of a lawyer in the proceeding is the spouse, former spouse, child, sibling, or parent of the judge or the judge's spouse, or when such a person is associated in the private practice of law with a lawyer in the proceeding [see *Code Civ. That case was _____ (give disposition of case, e.g., settled out of court) on _____ [date], and the above-entitled case was filed on _____ [d ate], less than _____ (state time, e.g., a year) after the Honorable _____ (name) made his/her appearance as one of the attorneys of record for _____ (state, e.g., defendant)].

The form of allegation in [1], above, was adapted from the affidavit filed in Mayo v. Beber (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 544, 546-547, 2 Cal. Rptr. 405 .

[3] Use of Form

The form of allegation in [1], above, is for inclusion in a statement of disqualification when the judge served as a lawyer in the proceeding, or in any other proceeding involving the same issues he or she served as a lawyer for any party in the present proceeding or gave advice to any party in the present proceeding on any matter involved in the action or proceeding. In some situations, a judge is deemed to have served as a lawyer in the proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(2); for further discussion, see § 317.42]. When one of those situations is the basis of the disqualification [see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(2) (set forth in § 317.42[1])], it is necessary to allege that the prior representation took place within the past two years, as is done in this form [see Wickoff v. James (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 664, 669-671, 324 P.2d 661 (showing was insufficient to establish ground of disqualification when it did not appear how far in past judge was employed as attorney for defendant)].

This allegation may be used in place of the third paragraph in the form of statement of disqualification in § 317.190[1].

§ 317.195 Allegations Supporting Disqualification--Judge Is Biased or Prejudiced [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6)]

[1] FORM Allegations Supporting Disqualification--Judge is Biased or Prejudiced [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6)]

The Honorable _____ [name] is disqualified from hearing the above-entitled matter in that _____ [state the facts constituting grounds for disqualification for bias or prejudice under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6), e.g., contrary to Section 170.1(a)(6) of the Code of Civil Procedure, the Honorable _____ (name) has indicated his/her grave reservations about hearing the above-entitled matter, an _____ (describe action, e.g., adoption hearing) at which the two petitioners who are _____ (describe characteristic about which judge is biased or prejudiced, e.g., deaf-mutes) are seeking to _____ (explain, e.g., adopt a three-month-old baby girl). (The petitioners are healthy and qualified in every respect and have been recommended as prospective parents by numerous experts and professionals.)

The Honorable _____ (name) has indicated his/her bias or prejudice in the following ways: _____ (describe conduct, e.g., he/she has stated his/her uncertainty as to whether he/she can go through with hearing the case at all; he/she has stated that he/she believes petitioners' home is not a "normal" one; and he/she has written a letter to the Bureau of Adoptions with reference to the cause suggesting that "this adoption should be nipped in the bud" before it reaches the hearing stage).

Thus, the Honorable _____ (name) is prevented from deciding the case according to the evidence and is unable to conduct a fair, unbiased, or unprejudiced hearing on any of the issues of fact or of law which will arise].

The form of allegation in [a], above, is adapted from the facts of Adoption of Richardson (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 222, 232-237, 59 Cal. Rptr. 323 .

The form of allegation in [1], above, is for inclusion in a statement of disqualification of a judge in a case when, by reason of the judge's bias or prejudice, a person aware of the facts might reasonably entertain a doubt that a fair and impartial trial would be had before him or her, when there is substantial doubt about the judge's capacity to be impartial, or when the interests of justice require the judge's recusal. Bias or prejudice towards a lawyer in the proceeding may be grounds for disqualification [see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6)(B)(iii) (discussed at § 317.43)]. This allegation may be used in place of the third paragraph in the form of statement of disqualification in § 317.190[1].

[4] Hearing on Disqualification

If a judge denies his or her disqualification for bias or prejudice, the judge is unable to pass on the question of disqualification [see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(5) (discussed at § 317.50)]. The question of disqualification is to be heard and determined by some other judge agreed on by the parties who have appeared in the action or proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(5)]. Apparently, however, the parties are often unable to agree on another judge because of the fact that the judges may all be acquainted. If the parties agree, some other judge will be assigned by the Chairman of the Judicial Council to hear and determine the question of disqualification for bias and prejudice [see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(5)].

[5] Bias or Prejudice

Bias or prejudice under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(5) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6)) consists of a mental attitude or disposition of a judge toward a party to the litigation [Ensher, Alexander & Barsoom v. Ensher (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 318, 323, 37 Cal. Rptr. 327] . If it is sufficiently serious to impair a judge's impartiality so that it appears probable that a fair trial cannot be held, a judge will be disqualified [see Ensher, Alexander & Barsoom v. Ensher (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 318, 322-323, 37 Cal. Rptr. 327] .

Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6)(A)(iii), providing for disqualification whenever a judge's impartiality might reasonably be questioned, establishes a fundamentally objective standard for disqualification, and the party seeking disqualification no longer need prove that the judge is actually biased. Rather, disqualification is mandated if a reasonable person would entertain doubts concerning the judge's impartiality [United Farm Workers of America v. Superior Court (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 97, 103-104, 216 Cal. Rptr. 4 ; see Ng v. Superior Court (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 1010, 1024, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 49 (for disqualification under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6)(C) court need not determine whether there is actual bias)].

[6] Belief in Perjury by Party

A judge is disqualified under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(5) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6)) from retrying a case if, during the prior trial, he or she has stated that a party has willfully sworn falsely and that he or she would have no confidence in the party's testimony [Keating v. Superior Court (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 440, 444, 289 P.2d 209 ; see also discussion in § 317.43[3]].

[7] Fixed Opinion

A judge is disqualified under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(5) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6)) if he or she has a fixed opinion as to some characteristic of a party such that the judge is prevented from deciding the case according to the evidence [see Adoption of Richardson (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 222, 232, 59 Cal. Rptr. 323 ; see also further discussion in § 317.43[4]].

[8] Nondisqualifying Matters

Examples of alleged causes of bias or prejudice that have been held to be insufficient to disqualify a judge under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(5) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(6)) are numerous and varied [see discussion in § 317.43[5]], but many of the cases which discuss this issue may be classified under the following five headings [see

Kreling v. Superior Court (1955) 25 Cal. 2d 305, 310-312, 153 P.2d 734 ; In re Morelli (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 819, 843-844, 91 Cal. Rptr. 72 ; Shakin v. Board of Medical Examiners (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 102, 116-117, 62 Cal. Rptr. 274 ; Rohr v. Johnson (1944) 65 Cal. App. 2d 208, 211, 150 P.2d 5] :

- Erroneous rulings against a litigant.
- Opinion uttered in the discharge of judicial duty.
- Error on a question of law.
- Opinion based on actual observance in participation in legal proceedings.
- Prior information without hostility.

The Honorable _____ [name] is disqualified from hearing the above-entitled matter in that _____ [state the facts constituting grounds for disqualification for physical impairment under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(7), e.g., the Honorable _____ (name) was hospitalized as a result of an accident, the continuing effects from which have prevented him/her from keeping regular court hours, and on numerous occasions have caused in the hours in which the above-entitled court could sit and hear a cause to be uncertain and not regular. Contrary to Section 170.1(a)(7) of the Code of Civil Procedure, the judge's inability to properly conduct the proceedings would work a hardship on _____ (plaintiff or defendant)].

[2] Use of Form

The form of allegation in [a], above, is for inclusion in a statement of disqualification of a judge who has a physical impairment which renders him or her unable to properly perceive the evidence or properly conduct the proceedings [*see Code Civ. [2] Use of Form

The form of stipulation at [1], above, is for use when parties choose to waive the judge's disqualification. A judge may, after disclosing the basis of his or her disqualification on the record, ask the parties and their attorneys whether they wish to waive the disqualification, but the judge must not seek to include a waiver and must avoid any effort to discover which lawyers or parties favored or opposed a waiver of disqualification [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 170.3(b)(1), (2)].

Disqualification cannot be waived if is based on the fact that the judge either [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(b)(2)]:

- Has a personal bias or prejudice concerning a party, or

- Served as an attorney in the matter in controversy, or has been a material witness concerning that matter.

A waiver of disqualification must recite the basis for disqualification, and is effective only when signed by all parties and their attorneys and filed in the record [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(b)(1)]. For further discussion, see § 317.54.

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use when the parties have agreed on a particular judge to hear the question of the disqualification of the judge who is alleged in the written statement to be disqualified. No judge of a court of record, who denies his or her disqualification, may hear or pass on the question of his or her own disqualification; but in every case, the question of the judge's disqualification must be heard and determined by some other judge agreed on by the parties who have appeared in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(5); see also § 317.50].

[3] Parties' Failure to Agree

[a] Assignment of Judge

In the event that the parties fail to agree on a judge to hear and determine the question of disqualification, the question must be heard and determined by a judge assigned by the Chairperson of the Judicial Council [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(5)].

[b] Duty of Clerk

If the parties fail to agree on a judge to determine the question of the disqualification, within five days of notification of the judge's answer, it is the duty of the clerk to notify the executive officer of the Judicial Council of the need for a selection [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(5)].

[c] Selection by Judicial Council

The selection shall be made as expeditiously as possible by the chairperson of the Judicial Council, or if the chairperson is unable to act, the vice-chairperson [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(5)].

[d] No Challenge to Judge Determining Disqualification

No challenge, either for cause or peremptory, may be made against the judge selected to decide the question of disqualification [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(5)].

The parties to the above-entitled matter hereby stipulate and agree through their respective counsel that the above-entitled matter may be heard by the Honorable _____ [name], a Judge of the above-entitled court.

This stipulation and agreement is made as a result of the fact that _____ [set forth basis of stipulation, e.g., the Honorable _____ (name) has recused himself/herself or a statement of disqualification has been filed challenging the Honorable _____ (name) or the Honorable _____ (name) has filed his/her written consent to disqualification in the above-entitled matter or the Honorable _____ (name) has admitted his/her disqualification or the Honorable _____ (name) has failed to answer the written statement re his/her disqualification within the time allowed or it has been determined after hearing that the Honorable _____ (name) is disqualified as a judge to hear the above-entitled matter].

This stipulation and agreement authorizes the Honorable _____ (name of disqualified or challenged judge) to request pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure Section _____ [170.4(a)(2) or 170.3(c)(2)] that the Honorable _____ (insert name of judge to whom matter is being transferred) sit and act in his/her place in this matter.

[2] Use of Form

The form at [1], above, is for use when the parties have agreed on a particular judge to hear an action or a proceeding after a judge has been alleged or declared himself or herself to be disqualified. A challenged judge may request any other judge agreed on by the parties to sit and act in his or her place without conceding his or her disqualification [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(c)(2); see discussion in § 317.51].

A disqualified judge, notwithstanding his or her disqualification, still has the power to request any other judge agreed on by the parties to sit and act in his or her place [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.4(a)(2)].

[3] Transfer to Another Judge of Same Court

Under former Code Civ. Proc. § 170(f) the parties had a right to choose the judge to try or hear the matter so long as they could agree on a judge. There is no longer any statutory authority giving the parties the right to choose the trial judge, so parties wishing to so stipulate must do so before the presiding judge or master calendar department reassigns the matter.

When there is no judge of a court qualified to hear a proceeding, the chairperson of the Judicial Council assigns a judge to hear it [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.8].

[2] Use of Form

The form of motion in [1], above, is for use when a written motion to disqualify under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 is made and is supported by an affidavit or declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]. An oral motion supported by an oral statement under oath or declaration is also permitted [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2), (a)(6)]. For further discussion, see § 317.76.

The motion lies if the judge, court commissioner, or referee before whom the action or proceeding is pending or to whom it is assigned is prejudiced against any party or attorney or the interest of any party or attorney so that party or attorney cannot or believes that he or she cannot have a fair and impartial trial or hearing before the challenged judge, court commissioner, or referee [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2)].

[3] Supporting Declaration or Statement Required

Whether the motion to disqualify the judge, court commissioner, or referee is made orally or in writing and without notice, a supporting affidavit [for form, see § 317.211], declaration [for form, see § 317.212], or oral statement under oath must be submitted [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2), (3), (5); for further discussion, see § 317.76[2] -[3]].

[4] Time for Making Motion

A motion directed to the trial of a cause may not be heard after the trial has commenced, and a motion directed to a hearing may be made no later than the commencement of the hearing. When there is a master calendar, the motion must be made not later than the time that the cause is assigned for trial. When the cause has been assigned to a judge for all purposes, the motion must be made within 10 days after notice of that assignment, or, if the party has not yet appeared in the action, within 10 days after his or her appearance. When the judge, other than one assigned to the cause for all purposes, is known at least 10 days before the date set for trial or hearing, the motion must be made at least five days before that date [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2); for further discussion, see § 317.77[4] and [6]].

The interplay among these rules has been clarified by the California Supreme Court as follows [People v. Superior Court (Lavi) (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 1164, 1185, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 815, 847 P.2d 1031] :

- The master calendar rule applies when a trial-ready case is assigned to a court that is ready and able to hear the case [see § 317.77[4][f]];

- When the master calendar rules are not met, either the all-purpose assignment rule [see §

317.77[4][g]] or the 10-day/5-day rule [see § 317.77[4][e]] may apply;

- The all-purpose assignment rule applies when a litigant shows that a case assignment instantly identifies the judge who is reasonably certain to preside over substantial remaining matters from that point forward, including the trial;

- When neither the master calendar rule nor the all purpose assignment rule controls, a litigant may invoke the 10-day/5-day rule as soon as the case is assigned to a known judge;

- When no reasonable certainty exists as to the trial judge's identity, the general rule applies permitting a challenge at any time before trial.

If the court in which the action is pending is authorized to have no more than one judge and the motion claims that the duly elected or appointed judge of that court is prejudiced, the motion must be made before the expiration of 30 days from the date of the first appearance in the action of the party who is making the motion or whose attorney is making the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2)].

[5] Only One Motion Permitted per Case

With one exception, no party or attorney will be permitted to make more than one Section 170.6 motion to disqualify a judge in any one action or proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(3); see discussion at § 317.76[2]]. The exception, provided for in Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2), relates to motions made after reversal on appeal [see [f], below, and § 317.77[2]].

If there is more than one plaintiff or similar party or more than one defendant or similar party appearing in the case, only one motion for each side may be made [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(3)]. However, when parties on the same side have adverse interests to other parties on the same side, they may be treated as a separate side for the purposes of making the motion [Home Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 34 Cal. 4th 1025, 1035, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 885, 103 P.3d 283 ; see Johnson v. Superior Court (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 693, 700, 329 P.2d 5 (suggesting this might be situation when two drivers whose automobiles collide and injure plaintiff are joined as defendants)], and this rule is equally applicable in criminal cases [Pappa v. Superior Court (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 350, 353-354, 5 Cal. Rptr. 703, 353 P.2d 311 (murder prosecution); see discussion at § 317.77[3]].

[6] Motion on New Trial After Appeal

A motion to disqualify may be made following reversal on appeal of a trial court's decision or final judgment if the trial judge in the prior proceeding is assigned to conduct a new trial on the matter. The motion must be made within 60 days after the party or the party's attorney has been notified of the assignment [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2); Hendershot v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 860, 864-865, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 645 ; see Stubblefield Construction Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 762, 769, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 121] . The time limit for peremptory challenges found in the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act (see Gov. Code § 68616(i)) does not apply when a judgment has been reversed on appeal and returned to the trial court for retrial [Stubblefield Construction Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 762, 769, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 121] . For further discussion, see § 317.77[6][e].

This form of affidavit in [1], above, is substantially in the form set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(5).

[3] Use of Form

The form in [1], above may be used if counsel desires to use an affidavit to support a written or oral motion for peremptory disqualification of the judge, court commissioner, or referee. An affidavit filed pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 must be in substantially the form set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(5).

A declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5] may also be used and is specifically authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2), (3), (6).

A motion to disqualify may be without notice and may be written or oral. Whether written or oral, it must be supported by an affidavit, declaration under penalty of perjury, or oral statement under oath [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2)]. An oral statement under oath, as well as a declaration under penalty of perjury, must be in substantially the form set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(5) [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(6)]. The better practice is to use the written affidavit or declaration whether the motion is written or oral. For further discussion, see § 317.76[2] -[3].

[4] Automatic Disqualification

The party's right to disqualify a judge, court commissioner, or referee for prejudice is automatic in the sense that the party's good-faith belief in the prejudice is sufficient without proof of any facts showing actual prejudice [see Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(3); see also McCartney v. Commission on Judicial Qualifications (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 512, 531-532, 116 Cal. Rptr. 260, 526 P.2d 268 (judicial removal); Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 61, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240 (dissolution action)]. Thus, once an affidavit of prejudice has been filed under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6, the court has no jurisdiction to hold further proceedings in the matter except to inquire into the affidavit's timeliness or technical sufficiency under statute [McCartney v. Commission on Judicial Qualifications (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 512, 531-532, 116 Cal. Rptr. 260, 526 P.2d 268 ; Andrews v. Joint Clerks etc. Committee (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 285, 294, 48 Cal. Rptr. 646 ; Lewis v. Linn (1962) 209 Cal. App. 2d 394, 399-400, 26 Cal. Rptr. 6] . If an affidavit is timely and properly made, the challenged judge is vested with no discretion to determine the question of his or her actual prejudice [see Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 62, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240] , and immediate disqualification is mandatory [McCartney v. Commission on Judicial Qualifications (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 512, 532, 116 Cal. Rptr. 260, 526 P.2d 268 ; Jacobs v. Superior Court (1959) 53 Cal. 2d 187, 190, 1 Cal. Rptr. 9, 347 P.2d 9 ; Mayr v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 60, 62, 39 Cal. Rptr. 240] .

[2] Use of Form

The form of declaration in [1], above, is for use as a declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5], in support of a written or oral motion for peremptory disqualification of a judge, court commissioner, or referee. Any party to or any attorney appearing in any action or special proceeding may establish prejudice of the judge, court commissioner, or referee, by a written or oral motion supported by a declaration under penalty of perjury that the judge, court commissioner, or referee before whom the action or proceeding is pending or to whom it is assigned is prejudiced against any such party or attorney or the interest of such party or attorney so that such party or attorney cannot or believes that he or she cannot have a fair and impartial trial or hearing before such judge, court commissioner, or referee [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2)].

A motion to disqualify may be without notice and may be written or oral. Whether written or oral, it must be supported by an affidavit, declaration under penalty of perjury, or oral statement under oath [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(2)]. The declaration under penalty of perjury and the oral statement under oath must be in substantially the form set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(5) [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(6)]. The better practice is to use the written affidavit or declaration whether the motion is written or oral.

For further discussion, see § 317.76[2] -[3].

Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
[designation of judge signing order, e.g., Judge of the Master Calendar Department of the Civil Division]

[2] Use of Form

The form of order in [1], above, is for use as the order of transfer that is made on a motion for peremptory disqualification of a judge, court commissioner, or referee. No judge, court commissioner, or referee of any superior court may try any civil or criminal action or any special proceeding when it is established as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 that he or she is prejudiced against any party or attorney or the interest of any party or attorney appearing in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(1); see also discussion at § 317.80].

[3] Reassignment

Once the motion is duly made and supported by affidavit, declaration, or oral statement under oath, without any further act or proof, the judge supervising the master calendar, if any, is required to assign some other judge, court commissioner, or referee to try the cause or hear the matter [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(3)]. In other cases, the trial of the cause or the hearing of the matter must be assigned or transferred to another judge, court commissioner, or referee of the court in which the trial or matter is pending or, if there is no other judge, court commissioner, or referee of the court in which the trial or matter is pending, the Chairman of the Judicial Council must assign some other judge, court commissioner, or referee to hear such matter as promptly as possible [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6(a)(3)].

Appointment of a court commissioner to try the case, however, requires the stipulation of the parties [see discussion in § 317.23[3]].

Petitioner has no plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law, other than the relief sought in this petition, in that _____ [state specific facts showing absence of an adequate remedy such as appeal, e.g., under the California Supreme Court ruling in People v. Hull (1991) 1 Cal. 4th 266, 276, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 526, 820 P.2d 1036 , a writ of mandate under Code of Civil Procedure Section 170.3(d) is the exclusive remedy to review a trial court's refusal of a motion to disqualify brought under Code of Civil Procedure Section 170.6].

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays:

1. That the court issue an alternative writ of mandate restraining the Honorable _____ [name], _____ [specify, e.g., Judge of the Superior Court of California, _____ County], from _____ [describe judicial function sought to be enjoined, e.g., hearing on motion to test propriety of the case as a class action] or to show cause before this court at a time specified by court order why it has not so done and why a peremptory writ should not issue;

2. That on return of the alternative writ and the hearing of this petition, this court issue its peremptory writ of mandate restraining the Honorable _____ [name], from _____ [describe judicial function sought to be enjoined, e.g., hearing on motion to test propriety of the case as a class action];

3. For costs of this proceeding; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court deems just and proper.

[2] Use of Form

This form of petition is for use to file a petition for a writ of mandate in a superior court [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10], a court of appeal, or the Supreme Court [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10] for the purpose of restraining a particular judge from acting after he or she has been disqualified by reason of petitioner's having filed a peremptory challenge under the terms of Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 [see discussion at § 317.79[2]; see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 8.204, 8.40, 8.486 (form of appellate court briefs, number of copies and cover information, form of supporting documents for writ of mandate)].

[3] Allegations

A petition for a writ of mandate should allege:

- The identity and interest of petitioner (Paragraph 1) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086].
- The identity of respondent (Paragraph 2).

- The identity and interest of real party in interest (Paragraph 3) [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.486(a)(2)].

- A summary of the proceedings giving rise to peremptory challenge (Paragraph 4).

- The filing of a timely and proper peremptory challenge divesting judge of jurisdiction to proceed (Paragraph 5) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 170.3(d), 170.6; see People v. Hull (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 266, 276, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 526, 820 P. 2d 1036 (Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3 applies to peremptory challenges as well as challenges for cause)].

- The case was not reassigned and, unless compelled to reassign the case, the judge will continue to act without or in excess of jurisdiction (Paragraph 6).

- The absence of plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in ordinary course of law (Paragraph 7) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1085].

[4] Verification

In a superior court, a petition for a writ of mandate must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086; see Cariaga v. Dryden (1866) 30 Cal. 244, 245 (verification by attorney)].

In an original proceeding in a court of appeal or the Supreme Court, the petition must be verified [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.486(a)(4)].

[5] Mandate Is Exclusive Remedy to Compel Judge to Disqualify Himself or Herself

The proper remedy to compel a judge to disqualify himself or herself is a writ of mandate [People v. Hull (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 266, 276, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 526, 820 P. 2d 1036 (Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3(d), making mandate exclusive remedy to review order refusing motion to disqualify judge, applies to peremptory challenges as well as to challenges for cause)]. The writ of mandate should be brought within 10 days of notice of the trial court's decision [People v. Hull (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 266, 276, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 526, 820 P.2d 1036] .

[6] When Judge Should Be Named Respondent

In a case in which a petitioner seeks to compel a particular judge to disqualify himself or herself, the judge is a proper party respondent to the proceeding. The main party, however, is the court, and the first respondent named in the petition should be the court followed by the name of the judge [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.486(a)(2)].

[7] Service and Proofs of Service

Proof of service of a copy of the petition on each respondent and real party in interest must accompany the petition when it is offered for filing (except if, in its discretion and for good cause, the superior court has granted the application for the writ ex parte) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107].

The proof of service must name each party represented by each attorney served. A petition accompanied by a defective proof of service will be filed, but, if a proper proof of service is not filed within five days, the court may strike the petition or impose a lesser sanction. However, a court may, in its discretion and for good cause, grant the petition ex parte without notice or service of the petition on the respondent and any real party in interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.486(e)].

Proof of service of a copy of the petition on each respondent and real party in interest must accompany the petition when it is offered for filing (except if, in its discretion and for good cause, the superior court has granted the application for the writ ex parte) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107].

In addition, the petition must be accompanied by a supporting memorandum and by proof of service of copies of the petition and accompanying memorandum on the respondent and any real party in interest named in the petition [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.486(a)]. If the writ petition seeks review of a trial court ruling, it must also be accompanied by a record adequate to permit the review, including

- Copies of the order or judgment.
- All documents and exhibits.
- A transcript or a declaration that a transcript has been ordered and is expected to be filed on a certain date or, if no transcript is available, an explanation of its unavailability and a summary of the proceedings.

If the petition requests a temporary stay, it must comply with the following or the reviewing court may decline to consider the request for a temporary stay [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.486(a)(7)]:

- The petition must explain the urgency [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.486(a)(7)(A)].
- The cover of the petition must prominently display the notice "STAY REQUESTED" and identify the nature and date of the proceeding or act sought to be stayed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.486(a)(7)(B)].

The trial court and department involved and the name and telephone number of the trial judge whose order the request seeks to stay must appear either on the cover or at the beginning of the text [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.486(a)(7)(C)]; see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.486(c) (format for documents and exhibits)].

A memorandum also customarily accompany a petition filed in a superior court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1090; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113]. For a form of memorandum for use in accompanying the foregoing petition, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 130, Judges (Matthew Bender).

Chapter 318 JUDGMENTS
PART I. SCOPE

§ 318.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter starts with a general review of judgments, including definition, scope, effect, and other general topics [see § 318.10 et seq.]. This chapter then discusses obtaining and entering judgments on such topics as: judgments on submitted controversies; confession judgments; default judgments; judgments on the pleadings; judgments obtained in the absence of the adverse party; judgments obtained by stipulation; judgments on offers to compromise; judgments after motions for nonsuit or dismissal; judgments after trial by superior or municipal court; judgments upon the separate trial of special defenses; judgments in small claims court; the procedures used for recording the entry of a judgment; the procedures used for notification of the entry of a judgment; and the awarding of costs, interest, and attorney's fees [see § 318.40 et seq.].

It should be noted that this chapter only briefly discusses some of the topics listed above. Counsel should refer to the other chapters in this publication which are specified throughout this part for further discussion of particular types of judgments as well as judgments in particular types of actions.

This chapter contains forms relating to several types of proceedings:

- Proceedings to obtain a judgment by confession:
    - An attorney's declaration in support of a statement confessing judgment [see § 318.320].
    - A statement confessing judgment [see § 318.321].
    - A judgment pursuant to such a statement confessing judgment [see § 318.322].
- Proceedings for entry of a stipulated judgment:
    - A stipulation for the entry of a judgment and an order thereon [see § 318.326].

- A judgment entered pursuant to a stipulation of facts [see § 318.329].

- Proceedings to obtain a judgment when one party fails to appear at trial:

  - A notice of the time set for trial [see § 318.330].

  - A declaration in proof of service of the notice of trial on the adverse party [see § 318.331].

  - A judgment entered after the trial by the court [see § 318.332].

- A judgment for plaintiff on a general verdict in superior court using, by way of example, a money judgment or in the alternative that plaintiff take nothing [see § 318.333].

- A judgment on a special verdict for plaintiff in superior court using, by way of example, the recovery of either personal property or value and damages [see § 318.334].

- A general form of judgment after trial by a superior court [see § 318.335].

- A notice of entry of judgment [see § 318.336].

- Proceedings seeking to obtain the insertion of interest on a judgment:

  - A notice of motion for insertion of interest [see § 318.337].

  - An order on that motion [see § 318.338].

- A judgment on a foreign-money claim [see § 318.339].

- The Judicial Council form judgment, JUD-100, approved for optional use [see § 318.340].

This chapter then discusses those instances in which a judgment may be amended, modified, or corrected. Specifically, it contains a discussion of the power of a judge to antedate a judgment, to modify a judgment prior to its entry, and to correct or modify a judgment after its entry [see § 318.70 et seq.]. This chapter also contains discussion and forms for an order to amend and correct a judgment nunc pro tunc [§§ 318.360, 318.361].

For discussion of methods and procedures for use in attacking a judgment, see Ch. 489, Relief From Judgments and Orders .

This chapter discusses the methods by which a judgment may be enforced [see § 318.90 et seq.]. Because many methods of enforcement are treated extensively in other chapters in this set, such as Ch. 135, Contempt, Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments, Ch. 276, Garnishment, and Ch. 486, Receivers, these methods of enforcement are mentioned only briefly here. This chapter specifically focuses on several types of judgment liens: money judgment liens on real property under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.310-697.410, money judgment liens on personal property under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.510-697.670, and judgment creditors' liens on a judgment debtor's cause of action under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.410-708.480.

This chapter also contains the mandatory Judicial Council form of abstract of judgment [see § 318.380], forms of an application for and notice of renewal of judgment [§§ 318.382, 318.380.2], a form of notice of lien used by a judgment creditor to obtain a lien on a judgment debtor's cause of action [see § 318.385], forms relating to proceedings by the judgment debtor to obtain an order permitting the resolution of his or her cause of action or enforcement of a judgment obtained therein [see §§ 318.386-318.388], and forms relating to a judgment debtor's claim of exemption [see §§ 318.389-318.391]. It also contains forms relating to the application of a judgment debtor's rights under a judgment to satisfaction of the judgment creditor's lien [see §§ 318.392-318.394], and a form for an acknowledgment of satisfaction of the lien [see § 318.395]. This chapter also contains forms relating to the release of a judgment lien from the property of a person erroneously identified as the judgment debtor [see §§ 318.396-318.400].

For a list of those methods of enforcement discussed elsewhere in this publication, see § 318.02.

This chapter discusses the methods and procedures by which judgments may be discharged and a satisfaction of judgment entered [see § 318.120 et seq.]. Methods by which judgments may be discharged that are briefly discussed include payment or compromise by a judgment debtor, payment by a joint obligor or surety, equitable setoffs, and discharge in bankruptcy. This part also discusses the entry of a satisfaction of judgment as well as the situations in which an acknowledgment of satisfaction must be furnished by a judgment creditor or assignee and the liabilities for the failure to do so. In addition, this part discusses waiver of the right to appeal by voluntarily satisfying a judgment and the procedure and grounds upon which a satisfaction may be vacated.

This chapter also includes the Judicial Council form for an acknowledgment of full satisfaction of a judgment [see § 318.420]; a form for an written demand for acknowledgement of satisfaction [see § 318.421]; a form for an notice of motion to compel acknowledgment of satisfaction of judgment [see § 318.422] as well as a form for a declaration to support the notice of motion [see § 318.423] and a form for order thereon [see § 318.424]; and forms for a notice of motion and order to vacate satisfaction of a judgment [see §§ 318.425-318.427].

This chapter also discusses the assignment of judgments, including the power to assign the judgment; requirements for a valid assignment; the advisability of notification of the assignment to the judgment debtor; the effect of the assignment with respect to legal title and the right to collect the sums due on the judgment; the right of the judgment debtor to appeal notwithstanding the assignment; the right of the judgment debtor to assert a setoff or claim against the original judgment creditor; the rights of the assignee on appeal by the judgment debtor; the assignment of the judgment to one of several judgment debtors; and the effect of a partial assignment [see § 318.150 et seq.].

This chapter also contains a form for an assignment of a judgment without warranty [see § 318.440] and a form for an assignment of a judgment with warranty [see § 318.441].

This chapter discusses actions on domestic judgments, sister state judgments, and foreign money judgments as well as the special statutory schemes of the Sister State Money-Judgments Act [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1710.10-1710.65; see § 318.300 et seq.] and the Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 1713 et seq.].

This chapter contains a form for a complaint on a domestic money judgment [see § 318.460], a form for a complaint on a domestic money judgment brought by an assignee of the judgment creditor [see § 318.461], a form for a complaint on a sister state money judgment [see § 318.462], the Judicial Council form for an application for entry of a sister state judgment pursuant to the Sister State Money-Judgments Act [see § 318.463], the Judicial Council form for a notice of entry of judgment on a sister state judgment pursuant to that Act [see § 318.464], a form for a notice of motion to vacate a sister state judgment entered pursuant to that Act [see § 318.465], and a form for a notice of motion to stay enforcement of a sister state judgment entered pursuant to that Act [see § 318.466].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. In General

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.11

§ 318.11 Definitions

[1] Judgment

A judgment is the final determination of the rights of the parties in an action or proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 577]. Similarly, a judgment in a special proceeding such as a proceeding for review, mandate, or prohibition is the final determination of the rights of the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 1064].

Every direction of a court or judge, made or entered in writing, and not included in a judgment, is an order [Code Civ. Proc. § 1003]. Thus, an order for a judgment, or a written opinion of a judge, is not a judgment [Grable v. Grable (1960) 180 Cal. App. 2d 353, 359, 4 Cal. Rptr. 353] .

[2] Final Judgment

[a] In General

Only one final judgment is rendered in an action. That judgment is the one that in effect ends the suit in the court in which it was instituted and finally determines the rights of the parties in relation to the matter in controversy. No judgment will be regarded as final within the meaning of the statutes governing appeals, unless all issues of law and fact necessary to be determined were determined and the case completely disposed of, so far as the court had power to do so [Vallera v. Vallera (1944) 64 Cal. App. 2d 266, 271, 148 P.2d 694] .

Once a judgment is properly characterized as final for purposes of the trial court, however, an appeal may follow. At this stage, the action is deemed pending from the time of its commencement in the trial court until its final determination on appeal, or until the time for appeal has passed, unless the judgment is sooner satisfied [Code Civ. Proc. § 1049; Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. v. Nakano (1939) 12 Cal. 2d 711, 714, 87 P.2d 700] .

Unless a statute or Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.108 provides otherwise, a notice of appeal must be filed on or before the earliest of the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.104(a)]:

- 60 days after the superior court clerk serves the party filing the notice of appeal with a document entitled "Notice of Entry" of judgment or a file-stamped copy of the judgment showing the date either was served.

- 60 days after the party filing the notice of appeal serves or is served by a party with a document entitled "Notice of Entry" of judgment or a file-stamped copy of the judgment, accompanied by proof of service.

- 180 days after entry of judgment.

Should these time periods pass without the filing of a notice of appeal and no other procedures are instituted to prosecute an appeal, the judgment may be deemed final [Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. v. Nakano (1939) 12 Cal. 2d 711, 714, 87 P.2d 700] .

As used in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.104(a) and (e), governing the normal time to file a notice of appeal and what constitutes an entry of judgment, "judgment" means "appealable order" if the appeal is from an appealable order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.104(f)].

For further discussion regarding the time to file a notice of appeal generally, see Ch. 42, Appeal: Notice of Appeal .

[b] Final Judgments Subject to Modification

In some instances, a judgment may be deemed final for all purposes as the final determination of the rights of the parties, but still may be subject to modification by the court. For example, a statutory right to continue jurisdiction may allow a court to make additional necessary orders, as in the case of the maintenance and support of minor children pursuant to a divorce [see Fam. Code §§ 2010, 3651; Allen v. Allen (1956) 138 Cal. App. 2d 706, 708, 292 P.2d 581] . Even without statutory authority, courts of equity are recognized as having the inherent power, with or without an express reservation of such right in the judgment, to change the mode or procedure in executing its decrees although the decree itself specifies a particular method [Lesser & Son v. Seymour (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 494, 500]. Such a power to change or modify an equitable decree is limited, however, to matters of procedure only. It may not be exercised in such a fashion as to materially change a substantial adjudicated portion of the judgment [Orban Lumber Co. v. Fearrien (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 853, 858, 50 Cal. Rptr. 41] .

[3] Interlocutory Judgments

As a general test, which must be adapted to particular circumstances of individual cases, where no issue is left for future consideration except the fact of compliance or noncompliance with the terms of the decree, the decree is final; where anything further in the nature of a judicial action on the part of the court is essential to the final determination of the rights of the parties, the decree is deemed interlocutory [Olmstead v. West (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 652, 655, 2 Cal. Rptr. 443] . Moreover, a decree may properly be final in its determination of all the issues of fact and law and interlocutory as to its mode of execution [Wynn v. Treasure Co. (1956) 146 Cal. App. 2d 69, 79].

For a listing of those types of actions in which a statutory provision for an interlocutory judgment exists, see § 318.11[3].

[4] Alternative or Contingent Judgments

In some cases, the court may properly render judgment in the alternative or upon the happening of a certain contingency. Such judgments may be proper in actions for the recovery of personal property or where casting the judgment upon the determination of an ultimate fact will afford the practical advantage of eliminating subsequent litigation [Code Civ. Proc. § 667; Chandler v. Hibberd (1958) 165 Cal. App. 2d 39, 50, 332 P.2d 133] .

[5] Conditional Judgments

In some cases, the court may properly render judgment in favor of one party upon that party's compliance with a specific condition set forth by the court. Such conditional judgments may be properly rendered in a variety of proceedings, including rescission of a contract, injunctive relief, quiet title actions, or specific performance [Civ. Code § 1692 (rescission); San Diego v. Southern Cal. Tel. Corp. (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 110, 120, 266 P.2d 14 (injunctive relief); Stein v. Simpson (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 79, 87, 230 P.2d 816 (quiet title action); Goldsworthy v. Dobbins (1952) 110 Cal. App. 2d 802, 809, 243 P.2d 883 (specific performance)]. Such judgments may not be rendered, however, if to do so would deny a substantial right of a party or work a forfeiture or inequitable requirement [see.

[6] Deficiency Judgments

A deficiency judgment is a money judgment rendered against a mortgagor in foreclosure proceedings in which the sale of the property is insufficient to cover the debt [Code Civ. Proc. § 726].

It is not within the discretion of the court to refuse to give judgment declaring a right which is properly pleaded and well established by evidence. Where good grounds exist for the granting of legal or equitable relief, judgment is given to the party entitled thereto as a matter of right and not of grace [Collins v. [1] Uncontested Cases

In an uncontested case in which no answer is filed, the relief granted to the plaintiff cannot exceed that which was demanded in the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 580]. The rule is also applicable to relief granted upon a cross complaint to which no answer is filed [Swycaffer v. Swycaffer (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 689, 692-693, 285 P.2d 1] .

[2] Contested Cases

In a contested case in which an answer is filed, the court may grant relief which is consistent with the case made by the complaint and embraced within the issue [Code Civ. Proc. § 580].

As to the theory upon which liability is based, a court may resolve all issues in accordance with the evidence, whether presented by one side or the other, and grant judgment in accordance with any legal theory raised by the pleadings [Halagan v. Ohanesian (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 14, 17, 64 Cal. Rptr. 792] .

Even the general rule that a party must recover on the cause of action alleged in the pleadings and not on another cause of action disclosed by the evidence may yield when a case is tried on the theory that a matter was in issue and evidence is received without objection. For instance, where the complaint alleges breach of contract and damages are based upon the tort of interference with business relations, a recovery may be permitted on the second theory of liability where the trial court defines the issues during trial to include the second theory and counsel proceeds to accept that theory of liability without objection [Weissensee v. Chronicle Pub. Co. (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 723, 729] . If the parties proceed throughout a trial on the theory that a certain issue has been presented for adjudication, the parties are estopped from claiming that the issue was not raised in the pleadings [George Arakelian Farms, Inc. v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 94, 104, 230 Cal. Rptr. 428] . However, the principle of estoppel operates in this situation only when the issue was actually and intentionally tried by the introduction of pertinent evidence. Furthermore, evidence that is relevant to an issue raised in the pleadings cannot be considered as raising an issue outside the pleadings [George Arakelian Farms, Inc. v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 94, 104, 230 Cal. Rptr. 428] .

As to the type and amount of relief granted, the court in a contested case is authorized to grant any relief consistent with the case made by the complaint and embraced within the issue regardless of the theory upon which the facts were pleaded, the title of the pleading, or what relief was sought by the prayer [Knoblock v. Waale-Camplan Co. (1956) 141 Cal. App. 2d 870, 873-874, 297 P.2d 765] . Therefore, a court may grant any relief justified by the allegations of the complaint and the evidence, even though the relief is greater or different than that requested [Lawrence v. Shutt (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 749, 767, 75 Cal. Rptr. 533] . The rule is followed as well in an equitable proceeding under a prayer for general relief so that a court may grant relief conformable to the case made by the pleadings and the evidence, even though it may not be the relief asked by a special prayer. The rule is based upon the fundamental principle of chancery that a court of equity will endeavor to finally dispose of litigation so as to preclude further litigation between the same parties upon the same subject matter [Coons v. Henry (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 512, 519, 9 Cal. Rptr. 258] .

This latitude in the type of relief granted does not allow the court in a limited civil case to grant relief that is beyond that authorized in a limited civil case [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 580(b); for discussion of the relief authorized in limited civil cases, see Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter, § 324.62].

§ 318.14 Conformity of Judgment to Memorandum Opinion Not Required

The fact that a judgment is not in conformity with a memorandum opinion does not affect the validity of the judgment. A memorandum opinion is not a decision. Although it may purport to decide issues in a case, it is merely an informal statement of the views of the trial judge. It does not constitute findings of fact. No antecedent expression of the judge, whether casual or cast in the form of an opinion, can in any way restrict the absolute power to declare a final conclusion by filing the decision (findings of fact and conclusions of law) provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure [*Taormino v. PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. In General

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.15

§ 318.15 Parties

[1] Generally

It is the general rule that a judgment may not be entered either for or against a person who is not a party to the proceeding; any judgment which does so is void to that extent [Fazzi v. Peters (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 590, 594, 68 Cal. Rptr. 170, 440 P.2d 242] .

[2] Multiple Plaintiffs

All persons may join in one action as plaintiffs if they either (1) assert any right to relief jointly, severally, or in the alternative, in respect of or arising out of the same transaction, occurrence, or series of transactions or occurrences and if any question of law or fact common to all these persons will arise in the action or (2) have a claim, right, or interest adverse to the defendant in the property or controversy which is the subject of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 378(a)]. It is not necessary that each plaintiff be interested as to every cause of action or as to all relief prayed for. Judgment may be given for one or more of the plaintiffs according to their respective right to relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 378(b)]. When two or more defendants are sued and the judgment for plaintiffs runs against only one defendant, it is necessarily in favor of the other defendant [Amerson v. Christman (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 811, 822, 68 Cal. Rptr. 378] .

[3] Multiple Defendants

All persons may be joined in one action as defendants if there is asserted against them any right to relief jointly, severally, or in the alternative, in respect of or arising out of the same transaction, occurrence, or series of transactions or occurrences and if any question of law or fact common to all these persons will arise in the action or a claim, right, or interest adverse to them in the property or controversy which is the subject of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 379(a)]. It is not necessary that each defendant be interested as to every cause of action or as to all relief prayed for. Judgment may be given against one or more defendants according to their respective liabilities [Code Civ. Proc. § 379(b)].

Where the plaintiff is in doubt as to the person from whom he or she is entitled to redress, two or more defendants may be joined with the intent that the question as to which, if any, of the defendants is liable, and to what extent, may be determined between the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 379(c)].

For discussion, procedural guide, and forms relating to the joinder of parties, see Ch. 395, Parties , Pt. I.

[4] Several Judgments

Judgment may be given for or against one or more of several plaintiffs, and for or against one or more of several defendants; and it may, when the justice of the case requires it, determine the ultimate rights of the parties on each side, as between themselves [Code Civ. Proc. § 578].

In an action against several defendants, the court may, in its discretion, render judgment against one or more of them, leaving the action to proceed against the others, whenever a several judgment is proper [Code Civ. Proc. § 579].

[5] Parties Affected by Judgment

The parties are deemed to be the same when those between whom the evidence is offered were on opposite sides in the former case, and a judgment or other determination in that case could have been made between them alone, although other parties were joined with both or either [Code Civ. Proc. § 1910].

For discussion and forms relating to the principles of res judicata and collateral estoppel, see Ch. 491, Res Judicata .

[6] Judgment Entered Before Death

[a] Death of Judgment Debtor

The enforceability of a judgment after the death of the judgment debtor is governed by the Probate Code [Code Civ. Proc. § 686.020]. Generally, after an individual's death, all money judgments against the decedent or the personal representative on a claim against the decedent or estate are not enforceable against property in the decedent's estate under the Enforcement of Judgments Law (Code Civ. Proc. § 680.010 et seq.) but are payable in the course of administration [Prob. Code § 9300(a)]. These money judgments must be filed in the same manner as other claims [Prob. Code § 9300(b); see also Prob. Code § 9150 (filing of creditor claims)]. If property of the decedent is subject to an execution lien at the time of his or her death, however, enforcement against the property may proceed under the Enforcement of Judgments Law to satisfy the judgment. If the judgment is not satisfied, the balance of the judgment remaining unsatisfied is payable in the course of administration [Prob. Code § 9303].

Notwithstanding an individual's death, a judgment for possession or sale of property may be enforced under the Enforcement of Judgments Law. The only property in the decedent's estate subject to enforcement, however, is the property described in the judgment for possession or sale [Prob. Code § 9302(a)]. A demand for money that is not satisfied from the property described in a judgment for sale of property must be filed as a claim in the same manner as other claims and is payable in the course of administration [Prob. Code § 9302(b); see also Prob. Code § 9150 (filing of creditor claims)].

On enforcement of a judgment rendered against a personal representative on a claim for money against a decedent's estate, see Prob. Code §§ 9300 and 9301. On conversion of an attachment lien to a judgment lien, see Prob. Code § 9304.

[b] Death of Judgment Creditor

After the death of the judgment creditor, the judgment may be enforced as provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 680.010-724.260 by the judgment creditor's executor or administrator or successor in interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 686.010].

For discussion and forms relating to the execution of judgments under the Code of Civil Procedure, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments .

[7] Judgment Entered After Death

If a party dies after trial and submission of the case to a judge sitting without a jury for decision or after a verdict on any issue of fact, and before judgment, the court may nevertheless render judgment thereon [Code Civ. Proc. § 669]. For discussion of the enforceability and payment of money judgments under Prob. Code § 9300 and of judgments for the possession or sale of property under Prob. Code § 9302, see § 318.15[6].

The court only has the right to enter a nunc pro tunc judgment against a particular party as of a date prior to that party's death if the evidence has been completed and the case is in such position that the court could have decided it before the death of the party occurred. The death of a party pending suit does not oust the jurisdiction of the court, and hence the judgment is voidable only, not void. This does not mean that a judgment can be rendered for or against a dead person, but only that it can be nominally for or against that individual, as his or her representing heirs or other successors who are the real parties intended. In the absence of prejudice to the complaining party, even a judgment entered after the death of a party which was rendered upon evidence taken after the death may be considered valid and not subject to reversal [Collison v. Thomas (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 490, 495, 496, 11 Cal. Rptr. 555, 360 P.2d 51] .

When a plaintiff has died during a jury trial before the jury is instructed and the verdict rendered, so that his or her claim for noneconomic damages has abated, the trial court may not enter judgment nunc pro tunc as of the time before the plaintiff's death in an effort to save the claim. Nor may the trial court do so in a bifurcated jury trial when a verdict in the final phase of the trial has not been rendered, because no verdict has been rendered determining all facts necessary for judgment [Williamson v. Plant Insulation Co. (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 1406, 1414-1418, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 751] .

[8] Indispensable Parties

Failure to join indispensable parties is not jurisdictional; even in the absence of an indispensable party the court has the power to render a binding decision as to parties before it even though it cannot bind the absent party [Kraus v. Willow Park Public Golf Course (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 354, 364, 368, 140 Cal. Rptr. 744] .

§ 318.16 Scope and Effect of Judgment

[1] Issues Determined

Only those matters in a judgment which appear upon its face to have been so adjudged, or which were actually and necessarily included or necessary, are deemed to have been adjudged [Code Civ. Proc. § 1911]. Any judgment that goes beyond the issues litigated is void insofar as it exceeds those issues [In re Wren (1957) 48 Cal. 2d 159, 163, 308 P.2d 329] .

Where a case is tried on the merits, the issues are thoroughly explored during the course of the trial, and the theory of the trial is well known to court and counsel, the fact that the issues were not pleaded does not preclude an adjudication of those litigated issues and a review of that adjudication on appeal [Davis v. Cordova Recreation & Park Dist. (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 789, 794].

[2] Conclusiveness and Effect of Judgment

The effect of a judgment or final order in an action or special proceeding before a court or judge of California, or of the United States, having jurisdiction to pronounce the judgment or order, is as follows [Code Civ. Proc. § 1908(a)]:

- In case of a judgment or order against a specific thing, or in respect to the probate of a will, or the administration of the estate of a decendent, or in respect to the personal, political, or legal condition or relation of a particular person, the judgment or order is conclusive upon the title to the thing, will, or administration, or the condition or relation of the person.

- In other cases, the judgment or order is, in respect to the matter directly adjudged, conclusive between the parties and their successors in interest by title subsequent to the commencement of the action or special proceeding, litigating for the same thing under the same title and in the same capacity, provided they have notice, actual or constructive, of the pendency of the action or proceeding.

A person who is not a party but who controls an action, individually or in cooperation with others, is bound by the adjudications of litigated matters as if he or she were a party if he or she has a proprietary or financial interest in the judgment or in the determination of a question of fact or of a question of law with reference to the same subject matter or transaction; if the other party has notice of such participation, the other party is equally bound [Code Civ. Proc. § 1908(b)].

At any time prior to a final judgment, as defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 577, a determination of whether the judgment, the verdict upon which it was entered, or a finding upon which it was entered is to be binding on a nonparty pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1908(b) or whether such nonparty is entitled to the benefit of Code Civ. Proc. § 1908(b) may, on the noticed motion of any party or any nonparty that may be affected, be made in the court in which the action was tried or in which the action is pending on appeal. If no such motion is made before the judgment becomes final, the determination may be made in a separate action. If appropriate, a judgment may be entered or ordered to be entered pursuant to such a determination [Code Civ. Proc. § 1908(b)].

[3] Presumption Created

A judgment, when not conclusive, is presumed to correctly determine or set forth the rights of the parties, but there is no presumption that the facts essential to the judgment have been correctly determined [Evid. Code § 639].

[4] Effect of Class Action Judgment

Although judgments in class actions are binding on all members of the class, including persons coming subsequently into the class, the effect of the class action decree is that it is a judgment which can be availed of by every member of the represented class, present or future [Williams v. State of California (1976) 62 Cal. App. 3d 960, 965, 133 Cal. Rptr. 539] .

[5] Determination of Cross Complaint

In general, the judgment in an action in which there is a cross complaint should decide all issues including those raised by the cross complaint. This is so where the plaintiff and the defendant in the cause of action set forth in the complaint are respectively cross defendant and cross plaintiff in the cross complaint [see Bristol Convalescent Hosp. v. Stone (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 848, 866, 66 Cal. Rptr. 404] . A purported judgment on a cross complaint is not a final judgment, and represents an attempt to improperly split a single cause of action. Such a judgment is entirely unauthorized and is void upon its face [Jay v. Dollarhide (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 1001, 1030, 84 Cal. Rptr. 538] .

If a claim asserted in a cross complaint is established at the trial and the amount so established exceeds the demand established by the party against whom the cross complaint is asserted, judgment for the party asserting the cross complaint must be given for the excess; or if it appears that the party asserting the cross complaint is entitled to any other affirmative relief, judgment must be given accordingly. When the amount found due to either party exceeds the sum for which the court is authorized to enter judgment, the party may remit the excess, and judgment may be rendered for the residue [Code Civ. Proc. § 666].

§ 318.17 Single Judgment Rule

There can be but one final judgment in an action, and that is one which in effect ends the suit in the court in which it was entered and finally determines the rights of the parties in relation to the matter in controversy. The rule is interrelated with the right of appeal, because no order or judgment may be appealed from unless it finally disposes of the case in the trial court. A disposition hat determines completely all issues between two opposing parties is final within the meaning of the basic rule; but a disposition hat leaves undetermined essential issues is not final, even though it purports to dispose of some issues [In re Marriage of Fink (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 357, 361, 126 Cal. Rptr. 626] .

It should be noted, however, that the rule as to single judgments has no application to actions in which separate and independent relief is sought against several defendants. When the plaintiff seeks separate and independent relief, a several judgment as to each defendant is proper [Stafford v. Yerge (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 851, 854, 294 P.2d 721] . Moreover, courts have not inflexibly adhered to the single or final judgment rule. When an otherwise premature or partial judgment, in its own right, is appealable, and unnecessary delay and economic hardship can be avoided by hearing an appeal, an appellate court may assert jurisdiction and entertain the appeal instead of dismissing it [McClure v. County of San Diego (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 807, 811, 236 Cal. Rptr. 653] .

§ 318.18 Finality

A judgment is final only when it determines all of the rights of the parties and requires no further judicial action to give effect to its provisions [Associated Convalescent Enterprises v. Carl Marks & Co., Inc. (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 116, 121, 108 Cal. Rptr. 782] . A judgment is not final so long as the action in which it is rendered is pending, and an action is deemed to be pending until its final determination on appeal or until the time for appeal has passed, unless the judgment is sooner satisfied [Estate of Molera (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 993, 998, 100 Cal. Rptr. 696] . For further discussion of final judgments, see § 318.11[2].

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.19

[1] Validity Favored

All intendments favor the validity of a judgment. Courts should interpret judgments in such a manner as to make them valid and with reference to the law regulating the rights of the parties [Bruce v. Gregory (1967) 65 Cal. 2d 666, 678, 56 Cal. Rptr. 265, 423 P.2d 193 ; People v. Landon White Bail Bonds (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 66, 77, 285 Cal. Rptr. 575] . A judgment must be given a construction that will support it if this may be done within reason and the accepted rules of construction. Particularly when it appears that an ambiguity is the result of oversight and inadvertence, the judgment as entered should be liberally construed with a view to giving effect to the manifest intent of the court [People v. Landon White Bail Bonds (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 66, 76, 285 Cal. Rptr. 575] .

When a judgment fails to express the court's true intentions as they existed at the time of rendition, the court generally has the power to correct the judgment to reflect those intentions [see Code Civ. Proc. § 473(d); People v. Landon White Bail Bonds (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 66, 77, 285 Cal. Rptr. 575 ; Russ v. Smith (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 385, 390-391, 70 Cal. Rptr. 813] . For discussion and forms relating to the procedure for correction of a judgment due to court's inadvertence or clerical error, see § 318.70 et seq.

[2] Rules of Interpretation of Writings Govern

The meaning and effect of a judgment is determined according to the rules governing the interpretation of writings generally [Nunes v. Nunes (1964) 62 Cal. 2d 33, 39, 41 Cal. Rptr. 5, 396 P.2d 37 ; Estate of Careaga (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 471, 475, 39 Cal. Rptr. 215, 393 P.2d 415 ; People v. Landon White Bail Bonds (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 66, 76, 285 Cal. Rptr. 575] .

The entire document is to be taken by its four corners and construed as a whole to effectuate the obvious intention [Lazar v. Superior Court (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 617, 622, 107 P.2d 249 ; People v. Landon White Bail Bonds (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 66, 76, 285 Cal. Rptr. 575] . Thus, the language of the writing is to govern its interpretation, if the language is clear and explicit and does not involve an absurdity [Estate of Careaga (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 471, 475, 39 Cal. Rptr. 215, 393 P.2d 415 ; cf. Civ. Code § 1638 (interpretation of contract)]. Further, in construing the effect of a judgment, the law respects the form of words less than their substance [In re Marriage of Farner (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 1370, 1376, 265 Cal. Rptr. 531 ; see Civ. Code § 3528].

Individual clauses or provisions of a judgment, just as in a contract or in any other document, are not to be separately considered and construed [Lazar v. Superior Court (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 617, 622, 107 P.2d 249] . No particular part or clause in the judgment is to be seized on and given the power to destroy the remainder if that effect can be avoided [People v. Landon White Bail Bonds (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 66, 76, 285 Cal. Rptr. 575] .

[3] Resolving Ambiguities

When an ambiguity exists, the court may examine the entire record to determine the judgment's scope and effect [Estate of Careaga (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 471, 475, 39 Cal. Rptr. 215, 393 P.2d 415 ; People v. Landon White Bail Bonds (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 66, 76, 285 Cal. Rptr. 575] . The court may also refer to the circumstances surrounding the making of the judgment, and to the condition of the cause in which it was entered. Subsequent actions by the rendering judge may be considered as bearing on the judgment's intended meaning and effect [People v. Landon White Bail Bonds (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 66, 76, 285 Cal. Rptr. 575] .

§ 318.22 Pleading and Proof of Judgment

When a judgment or order of a court is conclusive, the judgment or order must be alleged in the pleadings if there is an opportunity to do so; if there is no such opportunity, the judgment or order may be used as evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 1908.5].

In pleading a judgment or other determination of a court, officer, or board, it is not necessary to state the facts conferring jurisdiction, but such judgment or determination may be stated to have been duly given or made and to have become final. If such an allegation is controverted, the party pleading must establish on the trial the facts conferring jurisdiction and creating finality [Code Civ. Proc. § 456].

§ 318.23 Judgments as Evidence

Evidence of a final judgment is not made inadmissible by the hearsay rule when offered by the judgment debtor to prove any fact which was essential to the judgment in an action in which he or she seeks to (1) recover partial or total indemnity or exoneration for money paid or liability incurred because of the judgment, (2) enforce a warranty to protect the judgment debtor against the liability determined by the judgment, or (3) recover damages for breach of warranty substantially the same as the warranty determined by the judgment to have been breached [Evid. Code § 1301].

When the liability, obligation, or duty of a third person is in issue in a civil action, evidence of a final judgment against that person is not made inadmissable by the hearsay rule when offered to prove such liability, obligation, or duty [Evid. Code § 1302].

§ 318.24 Presumption Regarding Copies of Writing in Public Custody

[1] In General

A purported copy of a writing in the custody of a public entity, or of an entry in such a writing, is prima facie evidence of the existence and content of such writing or entry if either of the three conditions set forth in Evid. Code § 1530(a) is met [see Evid. Code § 1530(a)]. The presumptions established by Evid. Code § 1530(a) are presumptions affecting the burden of producing evidence [Evid. Code § 1530(b)].

[2] Certification

For the purpose of evidence, whenever a copy of a writing is attested or certified, the attestation or certificate must state in substance that the copy is a correct copy of the original, or of a specified part thereof, as the case may be [Evid. Code § 1531].

[3] Official Records

The official record of a writing is prima facie evidence of the existence and content of the original recorded writing if (1) the record is in fact a record of an office of a public entity and (2) a statute authorized such a writing to be recorded in that office [Evid. Code § 1532(a)]. The presumption established by Evid. Code § 1532(a) is a presumption affecting the burden of producing evidence [Evid. Code § 1532(b)].

§ 318.41 Confession Judgments

[1] Defined

A confession judgment may be entered without an action for money due or to become due, to secure any person against contingent liability on behalf of the defendant, or both. If executed pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1132 et seq., it may be entered in any superior court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1132(a)].

A confession of judgment is in effect a private admission to liability for a debt without trial, upon which a court places its imprimatur when submitted to the clerk for entry; it is a creditor's remedy not used widely in California [Isbell v. County of Sonoma (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 61, 64, 66, 74, 145 Cal. Rptr. 368, 577 P.2d 188 ; Efstratis v. First Northern Bank of Dixon (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 667, 672, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445] . A confession judgment may, for example, be required to be executed by a debtor as a precondition to a creditor's extension of credit [see, e.g., Efstratis v. First Northern Bank of Dixon (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 667, 669-670, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445] .

[2] Due Process Requirements

Generally, a court cannot render judgment against a defendant without according the due process rights of notice and an opportunity to be heard, unless the defendant voluntarily, knowingly, and intelligently waives these rights [Isbell v. County of Sonoma (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 61, 64, 66, 74, 145 Cal. Rptr. 368, 577 P.2d 188 ; Efstratis v. First Northern Bank of Dixon (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 667, 672, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445] . In light of its inconsistency with due process, a confessed judgment is considered an extreme procedure, and courts construe the authorizing statutes strictly [Efstratis v. First Northern Bank of Dixon (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 667, 672, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445 ; Wax v. Infante (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 138, 140, 187 Cal. Rptr. 686 ; Barnes v. Hilton (1953) 118 Cal. App. 2d 108, 111, 257 P.2d 98] .

In particular, a confession of judgment is not valid when it is not accompanied by an independent attorney's certificate or declaration such as that required under Code Civ. Proc. § 1132(b), so that the confessed judgment is shown clearly on its face to been given voluntarily, knowingly, and intelligently after receiving independent legal advice [Isbell v. County of Sonoma (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 61, 74 n.7, 75, 145 Cal. Rptr. 368, 577 P.2d 188 (holding confessed judgment without such declaration invalid and noting it was not deciding the constitutionality of a procedure in which the required declaration is filed); see discussion in § 318.41[4]].

[3] Statement in Support of Judgment

A statement in writing [see § 318.321] must be made, signed by the defendant, and verified by his or her oath, to the following effect [Code Civ. Proc. § 1133]:

- It must authorize the entry of judgment for a specified sum;

- If it is for money due or to become due, it must state concisely the facts out of which it arose and show that the sum confessed is justly due or to become due; and

- If it is for the purpose of securing the plaintiff against a contingent liability, it must state concisely the facts constituting the liability and show that the sum confessed does not exceed that amount.

[4] Attorney's Certificate in Support of Statement Confessing Judgment

A judgment by confession may be entered if any attorney independently representing the defendant signs a certificate (or declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) [see § 318.320] stating that he or she has examined the proposed judgment and has advised the defendant with respect to the waiver of rights and defenses under the confession of judgment procedure and has advised the defendant to utilize the confession of judgment procedure. The certificate or declaration must be filed with the filing of the statement [Code Civ. Proc. § 1132(b)].

It is essential that the certificate or declaration be signed by an attorney independently representing the defendant. A confessed judgment is not valid if the certificate or declaration is signed only by the defendant, even if the defendant is an attorney [Efstratis v. First Northern Bank of Dixon (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 667, 674, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445] . It also is invalid if it is signed by an attorney who is shown to have represented both plaintiff and defendant, even if defendant acknowledges the potential conflict [Wax v. Infante (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 138, 140, 187 Cal. Rptr. 686] , or if it is signed by an attorney purporting to represent the defendant but in fact acting for another seeking to protect or further plaintiff's interest [see Rivercourt Co., Ltd. v. Dyna-Tel, Inc. (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 1477, 1479-1482, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 279] . In these situations, the confessed judgment is not valid because there is no real "independent" advice necessary to satisfy due process requirements [§ 318.41[2]].

[5] Procedure for Entry of Judgment

The statement required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1133 [see § 318.321] must be filed with the clerk of the court in which the judgment is to be entered, who must endorse on it and enter a judgment of the court [see § 318.322] for the amount confessed with the costs provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1134(b) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1134(a)]. At the time of filing, the plaintiff must pay as court costs that become a part of the judgment the amount specified by statute [Code Civ. Proc. § 1134(b)]. No fee may be collected from defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 1134(b)]. The statement and affidavit, with the judgment endorsed on them, together with the certificate filed pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1132, becomes the judgment roll [Code Civ. Proc. § 1134(c)].

§ 318.42 Default Judgments

Generally, except when a defendant has been served by publication, the clerk, on written application by the plaintiff with proof of service of summons, must enter the default of a defendant so served, if, within the time specified in the summons, that defendant has not filed one of the following responses [Code Civ. Proc. § 585(a), (b)]: an answer, demurrer, notice of motion to strike, notice of motion to dismiss for delay in prosecution, notice of motion for transfer, notice of motion to quash service of summons, notice of motion to stay or dismiss for inconvenient forum, or notice of the filing of a petition for a writ of mandate.

The clerk must also enter the default of a defendant who, within the legal time required to do so, fails to file any of the following:

- An answer, demurrer, or notice a motion to strike, following the plaintiff's filing of an amended complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 586(a)(1)].

- An answer to a complaint, after a demurrer is overruled or motion to strike denied [Code Civ. Proc. § 586(a)(2)].

- An answer to any unstricken portion of the complaint, after the grant of a motion to strike [Code Civ. Proc. § 586(a)(3)].

- An answer, demurrer, or motion to strike, after the denial of a motion to quash service of summons, denial of a motion to stay or dismiss for inconvenient forum, or denial of a petition for writ of mandate [Code Civ. Proc. § 586(a)(4), (b)].

- An amended answer, after a demurrer to that answer has been sustained [Code Civ. Proc. § 586(a)(5)].

- An answer, after the granting or denial of a motion for transfer [Code Civ. Proc. § 586(a)(6)].

- An amended answer, after a motion to strike is granted [Code Civ. Proc. § 586(a)(7)].

- An answer, demurrer, or motion to strike, after denial of a motion to dismiss for delay in service [Code Civ. Proc. § 586(a)(8), (b)].

The Judicial Council-approved form for optional use for a judgment [see § 318.340] may be used for a default judgment. § 318.43 Judgments on the Pleadings

The grounds for a motion for judgment on the pleadings are the same as those for a general demurrer [Carlson v. Lindauer (1953) 119 Cal. App. 2d 292, 301, 259 P.2d 925] . Such a motion may be made, however, even though a demurrer on the same grounds has been overruled [Hardy v. Admiral Oil Co. (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 836, 839-840, 16 Cal. Rptr. 894, 366 P.2d 310] . A complaint is subject to such a motion only if there is an entire absence of some essential allegation [Rannard v. Lockheed Aircraft Corp. (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 149, 151, 157 P.2d 1] . An answer is subject to such a motion only if the complaint states a cause of action and the answer raises no material issue and states no defense [MacIsaac v. Pozzo (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 809, 812-813, 161 P.2d 449] .

The motion for judgment on the pleadings may be made before, at, or during trial [Shabrick v. Moore (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 56, 59, 15 Cal. Rptr. 310] .

An order granting the motion must be followed by the filing of a judgment terminating the action in favor of the prevailing party and granting the relief requested in the pleading [Le Breton v. Stanley Contracting Co. (1911) 15 Cal. App. 429, 434, 114 P. 1028] .

B. Obtaining And Entering Judgments

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.44

§ 318.44 Judgments in Absence of Adverse Party

[1] Circumstances Giving Rise to Judgment

Either party may bring an issue to trial or to a hearing and, in the absence of the adverse party, unless the court for good cause otherwise directs, may proceed with the case and take a dismissal, verdict, or judgment [see §§ 318.332, 318.340], as the case may require if proper notice as prescribed in Code Civ. Proc. § 594(a), (b) has been made [Code Civ. Proc. § 594(a)].

[2] Notice to Adverse Party; Service; Proof

If the issue to be tried is an issue of fact, proof must first be made to the satisfaction of the court that the adverse party has had 15 days' notice of the trial or five days' notice of the trial in an unlawful detainer action [see § 318.330]. If the adverse party has served notice of trial upon the party seeking the dismissal, verdict, or judgment at least five days prior to the trial, the adverse party is deemed to have had such notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 594(a); Berris & Seaton v. Meyers (1984) 210 Cal. Rptr. 444] .

The notice to the adverse party required when judgment is to be rendered upon an issue of fact is served by mail on all the parties by the clerk of the court not less than 20 days prior to the date set for trial and not less than 10 days prior to the date set for trial in an unlawful detainer action. If the notice is not served by the clerk as required, it may be served by mail by any party on the adverse party not less than 15 days prior to the date set for trial, and in an unlawful detainer action not less than 10 days prior to the date set for trial. The time provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 do not serve to extend the notice of trial requirements under Code Civ. Proc. § 594(b) for unlawful detainer actions. If notice is served by the clerk, proof of that notice may be made by introduction into evidence of the clerk's certificate or other competent evidence. If notice is served by a party, proof may be made by introduction into evidence of an affidavit or certificate [see § 318.331] or other competent evidence. These provisions for notice are exclusive [Code Civ. Proc. § 594(b)]. If no competent evidence is actually introduced before the court at the time set for trial that notice of trial has been served on defendant as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 594(a), a judgment for plaintiff will be reversed, since it is essential to the jurisdiction of the trial court in proceeding in the absence of defendant that proof must first be made that defendant has been given statutory notice [Irvine National Bank v. Han (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 693, 694, 697, 181 Cal. Rptr. 864

(plaintiff failed to place notice of trial in evidence at trial or to request court to take judicial notice of file in case which contained notice of trial)].

A judgment made after trial held without the notice required by Code Civ. Proc. § 594 is not merely error; rather, it is an act in excess of the court's jurisdiction. Such a judgment is not only subject to attack under Code Civ. Proc. § 473, it is also subject to collateral attack at any time [Wilson v. Goldman (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 573, 576, 79 Cal. Rptr. 309 ; see also Irvine National Bank v. Han (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 693, 697, 181 Cal. Rptr. 864] .

[3] Default Judgments Distinguished

It is important to note that the procedure by which a dismissal, verdict, or judgment is entered pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 594 is distinct from that by which a default judgment is entered. A default judgment refers to that judgment which is entered when the defendant fails to file an answer. Entry of default is not authorized in any case where an answer is on file, whether the defendant does or does not appear at the time the action is called for hearing. A judgment entered pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 594 is not, therefore, a default judgment for failure to answer, but one for failure to be present at the proceedings [Wilson v. Goldman (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 573, 576, 79 Cal. Rptr. 309] .

Chapter 318 JUDGMENTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Obtaining And Entering Judgments

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.45

§ 318.45 Judgments on Stipulations

[1] In Nature of Contract

Inasmuch as a stipulation is a contract, a consent judgment [see §§ 318.329, 318.340] based upon that stipulation is regarded as an executed contract which the trial court will assume as having a binding effect upon the parties stipulating to the judgment [Larsen v. Beekmann (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 185, 191, 80 Cal. Rptr. 654 ; Sanserino v. Shamberger (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 630, 633, 54 Cal. Rptr. 206] .

As long as the court has fundamental jurisdiction of the subject matter and parties, a party may not collaterally attack a stipulated judgment even if the judgment would otherwise be in excess of the court's jurisdiction, absent exceptional circumstances. The reason for this limitation is that judicial acts that are merely in excess of jurisdiction are often subject to principles of consent, estoppel, and waiver. Parties by their consent cannot, however, confer fundamental jurisdiction [see In re Marriage of Hinman (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 711, 716-718, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 245] .

[2] Authority of Attorney to Bind Client

An attorney has the authority to bind his or her client in any steps of the action or proceeding by an agreement filed with the clerk, or entered upon the minutes of the court, and not otherwise [Code Civ. Proc. § 283].

The retention of counsel vests in the attorney the right to do many acts in respect to the cause which are ancillary or incidental to the general authority conferred. Among these is included the authority to enter into stipulations and agreements in all matters of procedure during the progress of the trial. Stipulations, so far as they are simply necessary or incidental to the management of the suit and affect only procedure or the remedy as distinguished from the cause of action itself and the essential rights of the client, are binding on the client [Linsk v. Linsk (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 272, 277, 74 Cal. Rptr. 544, 449 P.2d 760] .

This general authority, however, does not vest the attorney with authority to impair, compromise, or destroy a client's cause of action without the client's consent [Roscoe Moss Co. v. Roggero (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 781, 786, 54 Cal. Rptr. 911] . Although the attorney's stipulation will be presumed to be authorized by the client, when the court or adverse party is made aware that the attorney is acting in opposition to the client's instructions or wishes, the court may not act upon the stipulation and the adverse party may not claim a right to enforce a judgment rendered by reason of that stipulation [Linsk v. Linsk (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 272, 277, 74 Cal. Rptr. 544, 449 P.2d 760] .

[3] Sufficiency of Stipulation

If a written stipulation sets forth all the terms of a judgment agreed to by the parties, the filing of the stipulation normally provides a sufficient basis for entry of the judgment on the ex parte application of either party. But if the stipulation omits any essential element of a complete judgment, a judgment may not be entered until the missing element or elements are established by proof or by further stipulation. Similarly, if a material term of the stipulation is ambiguous, judgment may not be entered until the ambiguity is appropriately resolved [Rooney v. Vermont Investment Corp. (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 351, 368-369, 110 Cal. Rptr. 353, 515 P.2d 297] .

If the stipulation on which judgment is to be entered predicates entry of judgment on the occurence of a condition, the court must satisfy itself that the condition did, in fact, occur, and thus must be fully apprised of the circumstances surrounding the occurrence of the condition. Such an assessment cannot be made without some form of hearing or trial unless the stipulation also contains an express waiver of the right to a hearing [S.E.P. Associates, Inc. v. Peto (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 305, 308, 122 Cal. Rptr. 514] .

[4] Authority of Court to Enter Judgment

If the parties to pending litigation stipulate in writing or orally before the court for settlement of the case, or part thereof, the court, on motion, may enter judgment pursuant to the terms of the settlement [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.6]. However, parties engaged in private dispute resolution may not stipulate to the appointment of a judicial referee or judge pro tempore to secure a settlement enforceable by the court under Code Civ. Proc. § 664.6 unless they seek the reference in pending litigation [Housing Group v. United Nat. Ins. Co. (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 1106, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 497] .

For forms of stipulation to settlement, notice of motion, and order to enter judgment pursuant to the stipulation, see §§ 318.323-318.325. For additional discussion of § 664.6 motions, see Ch. 520, Settlement and Release, § 520.10 et seq.

[5] Judgment Required to Conform to Stipulation

A trial court is under a duty to render a judgment that is in exact conformity with an agreement or stipulation of the parties. If interpretation of a stipulation is in order, the rules applied are those applied to the interpretation of contracts. It is not the province of the court to add to the provisions, to insert a term not found, or to make a new stipulation for the parties [Jones v. World Life Research Institute (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 836, 840, 131 Cal. Rptr. 674] .

Entry of a stipulated judgment is a judicial act that a court has discretion to perform. Although a court may not add to or make a new stipulation without mutual consent of the parties (see § 318.45[5]), it may reject a stipulation that is contrary to public policy, or one that incorporates an erroneous rule of law [California State Auto. Ass'n Inter-Ins. Bureau v. Superior Court (1990) 50 Cal. 3d 658, 664, 268 Cal. Rptr. 284, 788 P.2d 1156] .

[6] Judgment Binding Only as to Matter Stipulated

A judgment by consent in an action in which the court had jurisdiction of the subject matter and of the parties is res judicata and conclusive between the parties and those deriving under them, and will bind them and those claiming under them as efficaciously as if it had been entered after a trial of the issues [Avery v. Avery (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 525, 529, 89 Cal. Rptr. 195] . Similarly, a stipulated judgment may properly be given collateral estoppel effect, at least if the parties manifest an intent to be bound collaterally by its terms [California State Auto. Ass'n Inter-Ins. Bureau v. Superior Court (1990) 50 Cal. 3d 658, 664 n.2, 268 Cal. Rptr. 284, 788 P.2d 1156] . A judgment based on a stipulation of the parties is binding, however, only as to the matter consented to by the stipulation and is confined only to those issues within the stipulation [Pardee Construction Co. v. City of Camarillo (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 465, 471, 208 Cal. Rptr. 228, 690 P.2d 701 ; Larsen v. Beekmann (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 185, 191, 80 Cal. Rptr. 654] .

Moreover, a judgment that awards greater relief than that to which the parties have agreed by their written stipulation renders the judgment void as being beyond the jurisdiction of the court and is subject to collateral attack [Jones v. World Life Research Institute (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 836, 847, 131 Cal. Rptr. 674] . However, if a judgment is simply erroneous, even though the error appears on the face of the judgment or record, it is not subject to collateral attack [Jones v. World Life Research Institute (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 836, 840, 131 Cal. Rptr. 674] .

[7] Waiver of Rights

Consent to the entry of a judgment is a waiver of any errors in it, and it will not be disturbed on appeal by the party who expressly consented to the making of it [Browand v. Scott Lbr. Co. (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d 68, 73, 269 P.2d 891] .

If consent was given merely to facilitate an appeal following adverse determination of a critical issue, a party will not lose his or her right to be heard on appeal. An appeal may also be heard from a judgment to which a party consented if the party did not really consent to a judgment but, for example, merely acknowledged that it could not win its case if it had the burden of proof [Building Industry Assn. v. City of Camarillo (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 810, 817, 226 Cal. Rptr. 81, 718 P.2d 68 ; Villano v. Waterman Convalescent Hospital, Inc. (2010) 181 Cal. App. 4th 1189, 1198-1203, 105 Cal. Rptr. 3d 276 (stipulated judgment is appealable, but prejudicial error is difficult to prove when court's rulings were tentative); Dong v. Board of Trustees (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1572, 1577, 236 Cal. Rptr. 912] .

To determine whether a consent judgment may be attacked on appeal, the court will consider whether the parties intended to settle their dispute fully and finally or intended merely to hasten the transfer of the dispute to the appellate court. If the parties intended merely to hasten the transfer of the dispute to the appellate court, then the appellant's objections to the judgment have not been waived [Norgart v. Upjohn Co. (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 383, 401, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 453, 981 P.2d 79] .

Because a stipulated judgment authorizes entry of judgment without a hearing and without further notice until after judgment has been entered against the defendant, it is viewed as a form of confession of judgment and is constitutional only if it constitutes a valid waiver of due process rights. To be valid, a waiver of due process rights must be knowing, intelligent, and voluntary. The court must determine the validity of such waiver before entry of the stipulated judgment. Absent such determination, the judgment is void [County of Ventura v. Tillett (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 105, 112-115, 183 Cal. Rptr. 741] .

Additionally, if a judgment is allegedly void on other constitutional grounds, the judgment exceeds the court's jurisdiction and is subject to attack at any time. In this case, a party may move the trial court to vacate the consent judgment, unless there is a clear and compelling waiver of the constitutional rights [City of Glendale v. George (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 1394, 1397-1398, 256 Cal. Rptr. 742] .

[8] Construction and Interpretation

Because a consent judgment is regarded as a contract between the parties, it must be construed as any other contract [Pardee Construction Co. v. City of Camarillo (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 465, 471, 208 Cal. Rptr. 228, 690 P.2d 701 ; Cottom v. Bennett (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 709, 716, 29 Cal. Rptr. 715] . Despite its contractual status, a consent judgment is as conclusive as one entered on contest and trial [Stevens v. Stevens (1968) 268 Cal. App. 2d 426, 435, 74 Cal. Rptr. 54] .

For discussion of the interpretation of contracts generally, see Ch. 140, Contracts .

§ 318.47 Judgments After Motions for Judgment, Nonsuit, or Dismissal

After a party has completed his or her presentation of evidence in a trial by the court, the other party, without waiving the right to offer evidence in support of the defense or in rebuttal in the event the motion is not granted, may move for judgment. The court as trier of the facts must weigh the evidence and may render a judgment in favor of the moving party, in which case the court must make a required statement of decision [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 632, 634], or may decline to render any judgment until the close of all the evidence. The court may consider all evidence received, provided that the party against whom the motion for judgment has been made shall have had an opportunity to present additional evidence to rebut evidence received during the presentation of evidence deemed by the presenting party to have been adverse to him or her, and to rehabilitate the testimony of a witness whose credibility has been attacked by the moving party. Such a motion may also be made and granted as to any cross complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8(a)].

B. Obtaining And Entering Judgments

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.48

§ 318.48 Judgments After Trial

[1] Announcement of Tentative Decision

On the trial of a question of fact by the court, the court will announce its tentative decision by an oral statement, entered in the minutes, or by a written statement filed with the clerk. Unless the announcement is made in open court in the presence of all parties that appeared at the trial, the clerk must immediately serve on all parties that appeared at the trial a copy of the minute entry or written tentative decision [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(a)]. The tentative decision does not constitute a judgment and is not binding on the court. If the court subsequently modifies or changes its announced tentative decision, the clerk must serve a copy of the modification or change on all parties that appeared at the trial [Cal Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(b); see Neptune Society Corp. v. Longanecker (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 1233, 1245, 240 Cal. Rptr. 117 (decided under former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 232 finding concerning alternative basis for decision added even though not initially included in oral announcement)].

It is a violation of due process for a judge other than the one who heard the case to enter a judgment on the basis of a tentative decision entered in the minutes or filed with the clerk [In re Marriage of Colombo (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 572, 581-582, 242 Cal. Rptr. 100 ; see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule decided under former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(a)].

The court may also direct that the tentative decision will become the statement of decision unless, within 10 days after announcement or service of the tentative decision, a party specifies those principal controverted issues as to which the party is requesting a statement of decision or makes proposals not included in the tentative decision [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(c)(4)].

[2] Request for Statement of Decision

A request for a statement of decision by any party appearing at the trial must be made within 10 days after the court announces a tentative decision or, if the trial has lasted less than one calendar day or less than eight hours over more than one day, made before submission of the matter for decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 632]. Within 10 days after announcement or service of the tentative decision, whichever is later, any party that appeared at trial may request a statement of decision to address the principal controverted issues. The principal controverted issues must be specified in the request [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(d)]. If a party requests a statement of decision, any other party may make proposals as to the content of the statement of decision within 10 days after the date of request for a statement of decision [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(e)]. The court may order a hearing on the proposals [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(k)].

For a complete discussion and forms for preparation of a statement of decision, see Ch. 529, Statement of Decision .

[3] Preparation of Judgment When Statement of Decision Requested

If a party requests a statement of decision, the court must, within 30 days of announcement or service of the tentative decision, prepare and serve a proposed statement of decision and a proposed judgment on all parties that appeared at the trial, unless the court has ordered a party to prepare the statement. A party that has been ordered to prepare the statement must, within 30 days after the announcement or service of the tentative decision, serve and submit to the court a proposed statement of decision and a proposed judgment. If the proposed statement of decision and judgment are not served and submitted within that time, any other party that appeared at the trial may within 10 days thereafter: (1) prepare, serve, and submit to the court a proposed statement of decision and judgment, or (2) serve on all other parties and file a notice of motion for an order that a statement of decision be deemed waived [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(f)].

[4] Objections to Proposed Statement of Decision and Judgment

Any party may, within 15 days after the proposed statement of decision and judgment are served, serve and file objections to the proposed statement of decision or judgment [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(g)]. For discussion and forms relating to objections to proposed statement of decision, see Ch. 529, Statement of Decision .

The court may order a hearing on objections to the proposed statement of decision [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(k)]. For discussion and forms relating to an order for a hearing on such objections, see Ch. 529, Statement of Decision .

[5] Preparation of Judgment When No Party Requests Statement of Decision

[a] By Court

If no party requests or is ordered to prepare a statement of decision and a written judgment is required, the court must prepare and serve a proposed judgment on all parties that appeared at the trial within 20 days after the announcement or service of the tentative decision or the court may order a party to prepare, serve, and submit the proposed judgment to the court within 10 days after the date of the order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(h)].

[b] By Party in Court's Discretion

The court may order a party to prepare, serve, and submit the proposed judgment to the court within 10 days after the date of the order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(h)].

[c] Objections to Proposed Judgment

Any party may, within 10 days after service of the proposed judgment, serve and file objections [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(i)]. The court may order a hearing on objections to the proposed judgment [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(i)].

[d] Signing and Filing of Judgment

If a written judgment is required, the court must sign and file the judgment within 50 days after the announcement or service of the tentative decision, whichever is later, or, if a hearing was held under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(k), within 10 days after the hearing. The judgment constitutes the decision on which judgment is to be entered under Code Civ. Proc. § 664 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(l)].

Under the former statute, if the court signed the proposed judgment before the expiration of 10 days after service of the proposed judgment, thus not allowing a party time to serve and file objections, the court's error is not reversible per se, but will be reviewed for prejudice to a party [In re Marriage of Steiner (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 519, 524-525, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 671 (in marital dissolution action, court's signing of proposed judgment prepared by husband within two days of receipt was harmless, where wife did not identify any substantial right she lost as result of trial court's premature signing of judgment before reading her objections since her objections would have been of no aid to trial judge had he waited)].

§ 318.49 Judgments on Verdict After Trial by Jury

[1] Distinction Between General and Special Verdict

The verdict of a jury is either general or special. A general verdict is that by which the jury pronounces generally on all or any of the issues, either in favor of the plaintiff or defendant; a special verdict is that by which the jury finds the facts only, leaving the judgment to the court. The special verdict must present the conclusions of fact as established by the evidence, and not the evidence to prove them. Those conclusions of fact must be so presented that nothing shall remain to the court but to draw from them conclusions of law [Code Civ. Proc. § 624; see McCoy v. Gustafson (2009) 180 Cal. App. 4th 56, 6970, 103 Cal. Rptr. 3d 37].

[2] Entry of Verdict in Minutes of Court

In superior courts, on receipt of a verdict, an entry must be made in the minutes of the court, specifying the time of trial and the names of the jurors and witnesses, and setting out the verdict at length. If a special verdict is found, either the judgment [see § 318.334] rendered pursuant to the verdict or, if the case is reserved for argument or further consideration, the order reserving it, must be entered in the minutes of the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 628].

§ 318.52 Judgments on Particular Causes of Action

[1] Form and Substance

The test of the sufficiency of a judgment rests in its substance rather than its form. The form of the judgment is not very material, provided that, in substance, it shows distinctly and not inferentially that the matter has been determined in favor of one of the litigants or that the rights of the parties in litigation have been adjudicated [Oppenheimer v. Deutchman (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 501, 503, 326 P.2d 883] .

There are certain statutory requirements for particular types of judgments, one of which is discussed below.

[2] Money Judgments

In any judgment, or execution on such judgment, the amount must be computed and stated, rejecting fractions, in dollars and cents [Code Civ. Proc. § 577.5].

[3] Foreign-Money Judgments

[a] In General

Judgments for claims on an obligation to pay, or for recovery of a loss, expressed in or measured by foreign money are governed by the Uniform Foreign-Money Claims Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 676 et seq.) [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.1(6)]. The Act applies to foreign-money claims in an action or distribution proceeding, as defined (see discussion in § 318.52[3][b]), and authorizes entry of a money judgment in a foreign currency in actions or distribution proceedings that were commenced on or after January 1, 1992 [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.16]. For actions commenced before that date, courts generally apply the judgment-day rule or the breach-day rule [see Pecaflor Construction Co. v. Landes (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 342, 345-346, 350, 243 Cal. Rptr. 605 ; Levi Strauss & Co. v. Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1479, 1486-1487, 237 Cal. Rptr. 473] .

Under the Act, parties to a transaction could agree to payment in whole or in part in a foreign currency [see Code Civ.

Proc. § 676.3(b)]. The Act establishes rules for determining the currency applicable to a transaction for which no currency is designated by the parties [see Code Civ. Proc. § 676.4(b)]. For further discussion of provisions under the Act relating to the assertion of a foreign-money claim, see Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.140 et seq.

For a form for a judgment on a foreign-money claim, and discussion of provisions under the Act relating to entry of a foreign-money judgment, see § 318.339.

For a discussion of the conclusive effect of foreign money judgments under the Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 1713 et seq.), see § 318.180 et seq.

[b] Definitions

An "action," under the Act, means a judicial proceeding or arbitration in which a payment in money may be awarded or enforced with respect to a foreign-money claim. A "distribution proceeding" means a judicial or nonjudicial proceeding for the distribution of a fund in which one or more foreign-money claims is asserted and includes an accounting, an assignment for the benefit of creditors, a foreclosure, the liquidation or rehabilitation of a corporation or other entity, and the distribution of an estate, trust, or other fund [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.1(1), (4)].

§ 318.54 Recording Entry of Judgment

[1] Ministerial Act

Whereas the rendition of the judgment by the court is considered a judicial act by the court, the entry of the judgment in the records of the court is considered a ministerial act by the clerk [Brown v. Superior Court (1925) 70 Cal. App. 732, 735, 234 P. 409] .

[2] Time of Entry

When an action is tried by jury, judgment must be entered by the clerk in conformity to the verdict within 24 hours after the rendition of the verdict, whether or not a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict is pending, unless the court orders the case to be reserved for argument or further consideration, or unless the court grants a stay of proceedings. If the action is tried by the court, judgment must be entered by the clerk in conformity to the decision of the court immediately on the filing of the decision. In no case is a judgment effectual for any purpose until entered [Code Civ. Proc. § 664].

[3] Place of Entry

[a] In Court Records

In those counties in which the clerk of the superior court places individual judgments in the file of actions and a microfilm copy of the individual judgments is made prior to their placement in the file of actions, or in which the judgment is entered in the register of actions or into the court's electronic data-processing system prior to their placement in the file of actions, the clerk is not required to enter judgments in a judgment book, and the date of filing the judgment with the clerk constitutes the date of its entry [Code Civ. Proc. § 668.5]. Except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 668.5, the clerks of the superior courts must keep, with the records of the court, a book called the "judgment book," in which judgments must be entered [Code Civ. Proc. § 668].

[b] Notation on Written Instrument of Obligation to Pay Money

In all cases in which judgment is rendered on a written obligation to pay money, the clerk, at the time of the entry of judgment, unless otherwise ordered, must note over the clerk's official signature and across the face of the writing, the fact of the rendition of judgment, the date, and the title of the court and case [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1806].

Chapter 318 JUDGMENTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Obtaining And Entering Judgments

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.55

§ 318.55 Notification of Entry of Judgment

In any contested action or special proceeding, except as noted below, the party submitting an order or judgment for entry must prepare and mail a copy of the notice of entry of judgment to all parties who have appeared in the action or proceeding. This party must also file with the court the original notice of entry of judgment, together with the proof of service by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(a)]. This requirement does not apply in the following actions or proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(a)]:

- A small claims action.
- An action or proceeding in which a prevailing party is not represented by counsel.
- A proceeding for dissolution of marriage, for nullity of marriage, or for legal separation.

For purposes of the requirements set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5, "judgment" includes any judgment, decree, or signed order from which an appeal lies [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(c)].

For a form for notice of entry of judgment, see § 318.336.

In a contested action or special proceeding in which the court has declared a state statute or regulation to be unconstitutional, the prevailing party, unless otherwise ordered by the court, must mail a copy of the judgment and a notice of entry of judgment to the Attorney General and file a proof of service of that notice within 10 days after the court has entered judgment [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1100; see Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(e)].

In a contested action or special proceeding in which a prevailing party is not represented by counsel, the clerk of the court is required, promptly upon entry of judgment, to mail notice of entry of judgment to all parties who have appeared in the action or special proceeding, and must execute a certificate of mailing and place it in the court's file in the cause [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(b)]. The clerk is also required to mail notice of entry of any judgment or ruling, whether or not appealable, whenever the court so orders in any action or special proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(d)]. When the clerk is required to provide notice, it need not be in same form as that mailed by a party; for example, a copy of the minute order is sufficient when a final order is entered in the permanent minutes by court order under Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(d) [Pacific City Bank v. Los Caballeros Racquet & Sports Club, Ltd. (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 223, 228, 195 Cal. Rptr. 776 ; see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.104(d) (what constitutes date of entry of judgment or order for purposes of appeal)].

Failure to meet the statutory requirements for notice of entry of judgment set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(a), (b) does not render the judgment void. When both the court clerk and the party submitting the judgment fail to serve the statutorily mandated notice of entry of judgment, the sole consequence is that a longer statutory period for filing the notice of appeal comes into play. Thus, rather than the 60-day period that would have run from notice of entry of the judgment, an appellant has 180 days from entry of judgment to file the notice of appeal. There is also no basis for voiding a judgment based on a party's noncompliance with Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.25 [Kimball Avenue v. Franco (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1224, 1228-1229, 78 Cal. Rptr. 3d 352 (trial court could not vacate and reenter judgment because notice of entry was not served on plaintiff)].

§ 318.57 Awarding of Interest

[1] As Part of Damages

In some cases, a party may be entitled to interest as a part of the damages recovered in the action [Civ. Code §§ 3287-3291]. For a detailed discussion of the award of interest as part of damages, see Ch. 177, Damages .

[2] Following Verdict or Decision

Whether or not interest is included in the damages awarded either by the court or the jury, all monetary awards must bear interest at the legal rate during the period following rendition of the verdict or decision until entry of the judgment, and thereafter until discharged by the debtor [see Cal. Const., art. XV, § 1; Code Civ. Proc. § 685.010; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1802; Dixon Mobile Homes, Inc. v. Walters (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 964, 975, 122 Cal. Rptr. 202 ; cf. Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 801, 815 n.18, 148 Cal. Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109 (disapproving Dixon Mobile Homes to extent it is inconsistent)].

The current rate of interest on judgments is 10 percent [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.010(a)]. Judgments against public entities are exempted from the general rule by Gov. Code § 970.1(b). Interest in such cases accrues at the rate of seven percent per annum pursuant to Cal. Const., art. XV, § 1 [California Fed. Savings & Loan Assn. v. City of Los Angeles (1995) 11 Cal. 4th 342, 344, 352-353, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 279, 902 P.2d 297] .

[3] Cumulation or Compounding of Interest

Cal. Const., art. XV, § 1, does not allow the postjudgment interest rate to exceed 10 percent per annum [see Morris v. Department of Real Estate (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1109, 1112, 250 Cal. Rptr. 432] . In some cases, interest on the judgment may be governed by more than one statute. The interest awarded may not, however, offend the constitutional interest limitation. For example, if a plaintiff is entitled to prejudgment interest under Civ. Code § 3291 (judgment obtained in personal injury action is more favorable than pretrial offer of compromise rejected by defendant) for the period following entry of the judgment and until its satisfaction, recovery of interest is governed by both Civ. Code § 3291 and Code Civ. Proc. § 685.010. In this situation, the plaintiff may not combine the interest recoverable under the two statutes because the sum would be twice the allowable rate for the period [Mendez v. Kurten (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 481, 487, 215 Cal. Rptr. 924 (Civ. Code § 3291 merely restates, but does not duplicate or abrogate, allowance of interest under Code Civ. Proc. § 685.010 for cases qualifying for prejudgment interest)]. However, accrued postjudgment interest on a judgment may be incorporated into the principal when a judgment is renewed [OCM Principal Opportunities Fund, L.P. v. CIBC World Markets Corp. (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 185, 193, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 350] .

Compound interest generally is not allowable on a judgment. However, prejudgment interest accrued under Civ. Code § 3291 is not part of the judgment, and the plaintiff cannot obtain interest on that prejudgment interest [Hess v. Ford Motor Co. (2002) 27 Cal. 4th 516, 530-533, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 220, 41 P.3d 46] . Case law has established, however, that a judgment bears interest on the whole amount from its date even though the amount is in part made up of interest. As a consequence, compound interest may in effect be recovered on a judgment whereby the aggregate amount of principle and interest is turned into a new principal [see Big Bear Properties, Inc. v. Gherman (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 908, 913, 157 Cal. Rptr. 443] .

[4] Interest on Judgment

The clerk must include in the judgment any interest awarded by the court and the interest accrued since the entry of the verdict [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1802]. In addition, except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 685.020(b) regarding installment judgments, interest will commence to accrue on any money judgment from the date of entry of the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.020(a); see Stockton Theatres, Inc. v. Palermo (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 439, 442-443, 11 Cal. Rptr. 580, 360 P.2d 76 ; § 318.57[5]]. Postjudgment interest runs from the date of entry of judgment on an original jury verdict rather than from a judgment entered following a remittitur on appeal [Ehret v. Congoleum Corp. (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 202, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 370] .

[5] Interest on Installment Judgment

Unless the judgment provides otherwise, interest on a money judgment payable in installments commences to accrue as to each installment on the date the installment becomes due [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.020(b)].

[6] Effect of Appeal

A judgment bears legal interest from the date of its entry in the trial court even though the judgment is subject to direct attack. If a judgment is modified on appeal, whether upward or downward, the new sums draw interest from the date of the entry of the original order, and not from the date of the new judgment. If a judgment is reversed on appeal, the new award subsequently rendered by the trial court bears interest only from the date of the entry of the new judgment [Stockton Theatres, Inc. v. Palermo (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 439, 442-443, 11 Cal. Rptr. 580, 360 P.2d 76 ; Munoz v. City of Union City (2009) 173 Cal. App. 4th 199, 204-220, 92 Cal. Rptr. 3d 527].

[7] When Interest Ceases to Accrue

If a money judgment is satisfied in full pursuant to a writ, interest ceases to accrue on the judgment on the date of levy if the proceeds of collection are paid in a lump sum [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.030(a)(1)]. Interest also ceases to accrue if the money judgment is satisfied pursuant to an earnings withholding order, on the date and in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 706.024 or 706.028 [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.030(a)(2); for discussion relating to earnings withholding orders generally, see Ch. 276, Garnishment]. In any other case, accrual ceases on the date the proceeds of sale or collection are actually received by a levying officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.030(a)(3)]. If the judgment is satisfied in full other than by writ, the interest ceases to accrue on the date of full satisfaction [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.030(b)]. If a money judgment is partially satisfied, interest ceases to accrue as to the part satisfied on the date of satisfaction [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.030(c)].

For the purposes of determining the date of satisfaction, the date a money judgment is satisfied in full or in part is either the date satisfaction is actually received by the judgment creditor, the date satisfaction is tendered to the judgment creditor or deposited in court, or the date of any other performance having the effect of satisfaction, whichever is earliest [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.030(d)].

The clerk of a court may enter in the Register of Actions a writ of execution on a money judgment as returned wholly satisfied when the judgment amount, as specified on the writ, is fully collected and only an interest deficit of no more than an amount specified by statute exists, due to automation of the continual daily interest accrual calculation [Code Civ. Proc. § 685.030(e)].

For discussion and forms relating to costs on a judgment, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees . For discussion of costs and interest to be entered on writs of execution, sale, or possession, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments .

§ 318.70 Antedating a Judgment by Nunc Pro Tunc Order

All courts have the inherent power to enter orders for judgments nunc pro tunc so that the judgment will be held effective prior to the date on which it was actually entered [Martin v. Martin (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 752, 760-761, 87 Cal. Rptr. 526, 470 P.2d 662] . The general rule is that the inherent power of the court to enter a judgment nunc pro tunc which relates back to the time when it should have been entered will be exercised only to avoid injustice in order to preserve the rights of the litigants. Accordingly, the entry of such a judgment is granted or refused in view of the circumstances of a particular case. The only grounds for antedating a judgment are (1) the preservation of the legitimate fruits of the litigation which would otherwise be lost to the prevailing party, (2) the correction of a deficiency in the recordation of a previous decision so as to express the true intention of the court as of the earlier date, or (3) to correct a clerical error [Young v. Gardner-Denver Co. (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 915, 919, 53 Cal. Rptr. 522 ; see In re Marriage of Padgett (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 830, 852-855, 91 Cal. Rptr. 3d 475 (court exceeded power to issue nunc pro tunc order by creating interest in retirement plan); Scalice v. Performance Cleaning Systems (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 221, 238-239, 57 Cal. Rptr. 2d 711 (trial court did not abuse discretion by entering judgment 27 days earlier than date actually rendered, when delay was not attributable to plaintiff but to court's unavailability)].

When a plaintiff has died during a jury trial before the jury is instructed and the verdict rendered, so that his or her claim for noneconomic damages has abated, the trial court may not enter judgment nunc pro tunc as of the time before the plaintff's death in an effort to save the claim. Nor may the trial court do so in a bifurcated jury trial when a verdict in the final phase of the trial has not been rendered, because no verdict has been rendered determining all facts necessary for judgment [Williamson v. Plant Insulation Co. (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 1406, 1414-1418, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 751] .

The court retains power to amend or change the conclusions of law so as to point to a different judgment and to enter a judgment different from the first one announced. This power continues until the entry of the judgment and such change may be made by a judge other than the one who tried the case [*Kelly v. Sparling Water Co. § 318.72 Correction of Clerical Error After Entry of Judgment or Order

[1] General Rule

The court, on motion of the injured party [see § 318.360], or on its own motion, may correct clerical mistakes in its judgments or orders as entered, so as to conform to the judgment or order as directed. Additionally, the court may, on motion of either party after notice to the other party, set aside any void judgment or order [Code Civ. Proc. § 473]. Although expressly recognized by statute, courts have the power to correct clerical errors independently of any statute; moreover, that power is unaffected by the pendency of an appeal or a habeas corpus proceeding [see In re Candelario (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 702, 705, 91 Cal. Rptr. 497, 477 P.2d 729] .

[2] No Correction of Judicial Error

A trial court may correct, by a nunc pro nunc order, an inadvertent or clerical error, such that the form of the judgment does not comport with the substance as intended at the time of rendition of the judgment [Hamilton v. Laine (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 885, 890, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 407] . The trial court may, however, correct a judicial error only on a motion for new trial or on a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 663 to vacate the order or judgment and enter a different one [Greene v. Superior Court (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 403, 405-406, 10 Cal. Rptr. 817, 359 P.2d 249 ; see West Shield Investigations & Security Consultants v. Superior Court (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 935, 950-951, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 612 ; Hamilton v. Laine (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 885, 891, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 407 (not proper to amend order nunc pro tunc to correct judicial inadvertence, omission, oversight or error, not to show what court might or should have done as distinguished from what it actually did)].

[3] Judicial Error Distinguished

The distinction between a clerical error and a judicial error does not depend so much on the person making it as it does on whether it was the deliberate result of judicial reasoning and determination. The distinction between clerical error and judicial error is whether the error was made in rendering the judgment or in recording the judgment rendered [People v. Anderson (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 831, 839, 131 Cal. Rptr. 104] . When there is no mistake in the entry of the judgment in that it expresses in apt and definite terms the conclusion at which the trial court arrived during the trial of the action, the error in question is not clerical if committed as a result of the court's misconstruing the evidence or misapplying the law or its misplaced reliance upon the presentation of counsel [Lankton v. Superior Court (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 694, 696, 55 P.2d 1170] . For example, even though the judge states that he or she intended to render a decision in accord with a particular document, when the evidence discloses that he or she has not actually read the document, the error will be termed judicial rather than clerical inasmuch as at the time of signing the decree the judge could not have had in mind an interpretation of the decree which he or she then failed to embody or record [Estate of Harris (1963) 200 Cal. App. 2d 578, 590, 19 Cal. Rptr. 510] .

When, however, the judgment as signed does not express the actual judicial intention of the court, but is contrary to that decision, the signing of such a purported judgment is a clerical error rather than a judicial one. In such a case, the judge has the authority to set aside the erroneous judgment and to make a correct one on the basis of the court's inherent power to annul judgments inadvertently or improvidently made [People v. Landon White Bail Bonds (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 66, 77, 285 Cal. Rptr. 575 ; Zisk v. Roseville (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 41, 47, 127 Cal. Rptr. 896] .

[4] Types of Clerical Errors

[a] Omission or Mistake in Judgment

In many instances, a trial court may properly correct and amend a judgment to include matters inadvertently omitted from the judgment. Such omissions or mistakes may include an omission in the determination of an account and decree of distribution [Estate of Soboslay (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 177, 179, 47 P.2d 714] , failure to include a direction that one party pay another's attorney's and accountant's fees [Denton v. Denton (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 708, 714-716, 96 Cal. Rptr. 136] , failure to expressly name defendants and state liability to the plaintiff, failure to fill in blank spaces in the judgment [Lang v. Superior Court of Orange County (1961) 198 Cal. App. 2d 16, 18, 18 Cal. Rptr. 67] , or failure to include a party's name [Kohlstedt v. Hauseur (1937) 24 Cal. App. 2d 60, 61, 74 P.2d 314] . A clerical error may also consist of a failure to credit defendant with payment of damages before judgment, by reducing the verdict in the amount of damages already paid (such as worker's compensation benefits paid by an employer defendant) and rendering judgment for the balance [see Campbell v. Southern Pac. Co. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 51, 62-63, 148 Cal. Rptr. 596, 583 P.2d 121] .

[b] Misdescriptions in Judgment

The trial court may also correct and amend a judgment containing a misdescription of the name of the person or the property to be affected by the judgment [Chula v. Superior Court (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 199, 206, 18 Cal. Rptr. 507, 368 P.2d 107] .

[c] Inadvertent Error by Trial Judge in Signing Faulty Judgment

If the judgment signed does not express the actual judicial intention of the court, but is contrary to that decision, the signing of such a purported judgment is clerical error. For example, if the judge inadvertently signs a judgment prepared by counsel which does not reflect the decision of the court due to a typographical error in the drafting of the judgment, such an error is deemed clerical [Zisk v. Roseville (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 41, 47, 127 Cal. Rptr. 896 ; Wilson v. Wilson (1948) 88 Cal. App. 2d 382, 385, 198 P.2d 916] .

[d] Clarification of Ambiguity

The power of the court to enter an order correcting a clerical error has been extended to cover even those situations in which the judge's inattention to the wording of a decree has rendered the judgment erroneous. A court, by means of a nunc pro tunc order, has the authority to clarify an ambiguity in a decree by removing a superfluous word where its removal does not alter the meaning or effect of the original decree. In that case, even the ambiguity created by the faulty wording of the decree may be deemed a clerical error [Estate of Careaga (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 471, 474, 39 Cal. Rptr.

215, 393 P.2d 415] . A judgment should be liberally construed to clarify an ambiguity, especially if inadvertant, in order to express a court's manifest intent [Southern Pacific Pipe Lines, Inc. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 42, 57, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 345] .

[5] Error in Signing Judgment Which Does Not Express Judge's Intention to Rule Correctly

The inherent power of the court to correct clerical errors in the rendition of a judgment has even been extended to the correction of judgments which the judge later repudiates as contrary to his or her own intention at the time to rule correctly [Estate of Doane (1964) 62 Cal. 2d 68, 71, 41 Cal. Rptr. 165, 396 P.2d 581 ; Southern Pacific Pipe Lines, Inc. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 42, 57, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 345] . For example, if a judge testified that he had intended to render a judgment in conformity with a will, but signed a judgment the terms of which were contrary to those of the will, such an error is a clerical one and is subject to the court's power of correction [Estate of Doane (1964) 62 Cal. 2d 68, 71, 41 Cal. Rptr. 165, 396 P.2d 581] .

[6] Determination and Proof of Clerical Error

The power of the trial court is broad in determining whether or not an error is a clerical one subject to the trial court's power to correct it [Nathanson v. Murphy (1957) 147 Cal. App. 2d 462, 469, 305 P.2d 710] . The clerical nature of the error in recordation of the judgment is properly shown by any competent evidence, including the trial judge's statement based on his or her own recollection, the affidavit (declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) of a shorthand reporter, or the rough notes entered by the judge on the original docket [In re Roberts (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 95, 97-98, 19 Cal. Rptr. 147] .

When the trial judge's declaration as to the clerical nature of the mistake is supported by other competent evidence, a reviewing court will not be inclined to disturb the trial court's order correcting and amending the judgment [Bastajian v. Brown (1941) 19 Cal. 2d 209, 215, 120 P.2d 9] .

§ 318.90 Payment of Money Judgment in Limited Civil Case

In a limited civil case, if the defendant appeared and a judgment was entered for the payment of money by that defendant, the defendant must do one of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 582.5; see Code Civ. Proc. § 85 (limited civil case is essentially one brought in unified superior court but which would have been within the jurisdiction of a municipal court if the county still had such a court)]:

- Pay the judgment immediately.

- Pay at any time and upon terms and conditions, including installment payments, that the court may prescribe.

The court may amend the terms and conditions for payment of the judgment at any time in order to provide for payment by installments, upon showing of good cause on the motion of a party with notice to all affected parties. The court may do this regardless of the nature of the underlying debt and regardless of whether the party appeared before entry of the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 582.5]. In any determination regarding the imposition of terms and conditions upon payment of the judgment, the court may consider any of the following factors [Code Civ. Proc. § 582.5]:

- Those relevant to a determination of a claim for exemption under Code Civ. Proc. § 703.010 et seq.

- Those relevant to an examination of the judgment debtor under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.110.

§ 318.91 Methods of Enforcing Judgments Generally

The most prevalent method by which judgments are enforced is by levying a writ of execution on the judgment debtor's property. For discussion and forms relating to proceedings involving writs of execution and execution sales, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments . Proceedings supplementary to execution under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.010-708.205 and creditors' actions under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.210-708.290 are also covered in Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments . For discussion and forms relating to actions on domestic judgments, sister state judgments, and foreign money judgments, as well as to the Sister State Money-Judgments Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.10 et seq.) and the Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 1713 et seq.), see § 318.180 et seq.

The remainder of this part discusses two methods by which security for a judgment may be obtained: (1) filing an abstract of judgment to create a judgment lien on the real property of the judgment debtor which he or she owns or later acquires [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.310-697.410; see § 318.380]; and (2) obtaining a lien on a judgment debtor's cause of action [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.410-708.480; see §§ 318.385-318.393.2].

Every court has the power to compel obedience to its judgments, orders, and process, and to the orders of a judge out of court, in an action or proceeding pending before it [Code Civ. Proc. § 128(a)(4)]. Moreover, a court of equity retains inherent jurisdiction to oversee and enforce execution of its decrees [Vanderstok v. Bank of America (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 731, 734, 105 Cal. Rptr. 699] .

§ 318.93 Period for Enforcement of Judgments

[1] Ten Years After Entry

A money judgment or judgment for possession or sale of property is enforceable for 10 years after the date of entry of the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.020]. If a money judgment is payable in installments, the 10-year period of enforceability runs as to each installment from the date the installment becomes due and runs as to costs from the date the costs are added to the judgment pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 685.090 [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.030].

The 10-year period provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 683.020 commences on the date of entry by the clerk. This rule applies to any money judgment or judgment for possession or sale of property, regardless of whether it is a modified or amended judgment and without regard to finality [Iliff v. Dustrud (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 1201, 1207, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 848] .

[2] Renewal of Judgments

[a] Availability and Timing

The period of enforceability of a money judgment or judgments for the possession or sale of property may be extended by renewal of the judgment for a period of 10 years from the date the application for renewal is filed [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 683.110-683.120]. In the case of installment judgments, the amount of judgment as renewed is treated as a lump-sum judgment entered on the date the application for renewal is filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.120(c)]. For discussion of the amount as renewed for both lump-sum and installment judgments, see § 318.380.1. Except as otherwise provided in the Family Code, the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 683.110 et seq., do not apply to a judgment or order made or entered pursuant to the Family Code [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.310; for enforcement of judgments or orders under the Family Code, see Ch. 258, Family Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies].

The application for renewal of a lump-sum money judgment or judgment for possession or sale may be filed at any time before the expiration of the 10-year period of enforceability [see Iliff v. Dustrud (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 1201, 1207-1208, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 848 (10-year period of enforceability commences on date of entry of judgment by clerk)].

Subsequent renewals may also be applied for at any time between 5 years from the time of the previous renewal and the expiration of the 10-year renewal period [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 683.110(b), 683.130; see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 683.020, 683.030 (period of enforceability)].

In the case of a money judgment payable in installments that was not previously renewed an application for renewal may be filed at any time as to past due amounts that at the time of filing are not barred by the expiration of the 10-year enforceability period [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.130(b)(1)]. If the installment judgment was previously renewed, a renewal application may be filed at any time within the 10-year period as to the amount of the judgment as previously renewed, and at any time within the 10-year period provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 683.020 and 683.030 as to any past due amounts that became due and payable after the previous renewal [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.130(b)(2)].

For a form for Application for Renewal of Judgment, see § 318.382.

For a form for Notice of Renewal of Judgment, along with discussion of the requirements for service of notice of renewal, see § 318.383.

For discussion of the effect of renewal on a judgment lien on real property, see § 318.94[1].

[b] Extension of Liens

If a lien other than a judgment lien on real property or an execution lien has been created pursuant to the judgment, renewal of the judgment extends the duration of the lien until 10 years from the date of filing of the application for renewal if, before expiration of the lien, a certified copy of the application is served on or filed with the same person and in the same manner as the notice or order that created the lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.190].

[c] Continuation of Enforcement Proceedings

Any enforcement proceedings previously commenced pursuant to the judgment or to a writ or order issued pursuant to the judgment that would have ceased had the judgment not been renewed may be continued by the renewal if, before expiration of the prior 10-year period, a certified copy of the application for renewal is filed with the levying officer, receiver, or other officer acting pursuant to a writ or order, or in other cases, is filed in the enforcement proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.200].

[d] Renewal During Stay of Enforcement

The judgment may be renewed notwithstanding any stay of enforcement, but the renewal does not affect the stay [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.210].

[e] Period of Limitation

If a judgment is renewed, the filing date of the application for renewal commences the limitation period for actions on the renewed judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.220; see Code Civ. Proc. § 337.5].

[f] Vacating Renewal

Renewal of a judgment may be vacated on any ground that would be a defense to an action on the judgment, including the ground that the amount of the renewed judgment as entered is incorrect [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.170(a)]. A complete failure to serve the judgment debtor with the summons and complaint in the action underlying the judgment is a ground for vacating the renewal, and the judgment debtor need not show that he or she had a meritorious defense to the action [Fidelity Creditor Service, Inc. v. Browne (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 195, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 854] . On the other hand, the defense of insufficient contacts with California to confer personal jurisdiction at the time of the renewal is unavailable under the statutory renewal of judgment procedure as long as there was personal jurisdiction at the time of the judgment. The court has continuing jurisdiction, derived from its jurisdiction at the time of the original judgment, to enter the renewal [Goldman v. Simpson (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 255, 260-264, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 729]. The judgment debtor bears the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that he or she is entitled to relief [Fidelity Creditor Service, Inc. v. Browne (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 195, 199, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 854] .

Renewal of a judgment must be vacated if the application for renewal was filed within five years from the time the judgment was previously renewed [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.170(a)]. Not later than 30 days after service of the notice of renewal pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 683.160, the judgment debtor may apply for an order of the court vacating the renewal by a noticed motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 683.170 [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.170(b)]. The time limitations in Code Civ. Proc. § 473.5 for a motion to set aside a default or default judgment do not apply to a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 683.170 [Fidelity Creditor Service, Inc. v. Browne (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 195, 203-204, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 854] . That the judgment debtor actually knew of a judgment despite being not served with the summons and complaint in the underlying action does not render a motion that is otherwise timely under Code Civ. Proc. § 683.170(b) untimely [Fidelity Creditor Service, Inc. v. Browne (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 195, 204] .

The notice of motion must be served on the judgment creditor personally or by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.170(b)]. On hearing the motion, the court may order the renewal vacated on any ground that would be a defense to an action on the judgment. Another and different renewal may be entered, including, but not limited to, renewal in a different amount if the decision of the court is that the judgment creditor is entitled to renewal in a different amount [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.170(c)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Enforcement Of Judgments And Judgment Liens

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.94

§ 318.94 Money Judgment Liens on Real Property

[1] Creation and Duration

A judgment lien on real property is created by filing an abstract of a money judgment with the county recorder [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.310(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 674(a)]. Unless the judgment is satisfied or the judgment lien is released, subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 683.180 (renewal of judgment), the lien continues for 10 years from the date of the entry of the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.310(b)]. Renewal of a judgment extends the duration of the judgment lien until 10 years from the date of the filing of the application for renewal if, before the expiration of the judgment lien, a certified copy of the application for renewal is recorded with the county recorder of the county where the property is located [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.180(a)]. The lien is not extended, however, as to property that has been transferred subject to the lien if the transfer was recorded before the application for renewal was filed, unless a copy of the application for renewal is personally served on the transferee and proof of such service is filed with the court clerk within 90 days after the filing of the application [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.180(b)].

[2] Workers' Compensation Awards

Liens on real property arising from judgments entered pursuant to Lab. Code §§ 3200-6002 (workers' compensation awards) are also created by recording an abstract of the judgment as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 697.310, or if the judgment is for payment in installments, by recording a certified copy of the judgment as provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 697.320 [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.330(a)]. Except as provided in Lab. Code §§ 3200-6002, these liens are governed by the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 697.310 (for lump-sum judgments) or 697.320 (for installment judgments) [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.330].

[3] Installment Judgments for Support or Against Health Care Provider

A judgment lien on real property is also created by recording with the county recorder an abstract, an interstate lien form promulgated by the federal Secretary of Health and Human Services under 42 U.S.C. § 652(a)(11), or a certified copy of either a judgment for child, family, or spousal support payable in installments, or a judgment against a health care provider requiring periodic payments [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.320].

A judgment lien for support continues for as long as the judgment remains enforceable [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.320(b)]. A judgment lien against a health care provider continues for a period of 10 years from the date of creation unless the judgment is satisfied or the judgment lien is released. The duration of the lien against a health care provider may be extended any number of times (each time for 10 years) during its existence by rerecording a certified copy of the judgment in the same manner as the initial recording [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.320(b)].

[4] Sister-State Money Judgments

Code Civ. Proc. § 697.310 applies only to judgments, orders, or decrees entered in a California court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 680.230]. Therefore, a sister-state judgment must first be reduced to a California judgment before it may serve as a basis for a judgment lien on real property located in California [Kahn v. Berman (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 1499, 1504-1507, 244 Cal. Rptr. 575 (holding procedure does not violate full faith and credit clause)]. A judgment creditor may apply for the entry of a judgment based on a sister-state judgment by filing an application under Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.20 and, with certain statutory exceptions, the new judgment has the same effect as an original California money judgment and may be enforced in the same manner [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1710.5(a), 1710.35; for further discussion of enforcement of sister-state judgments, see § 318.301[5]].

[5] Scope of Lien

[a] In General

Once recorded, the lien attaches to the judgment debtor's interests in real property in the county where the lien is created that are subject to enforcement of a money judgment at the time the lien is created. These interests may be present, future, vested or contingent, legal or equitable [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.340(a)]. Any after-acquired interest in real property in the county on which a lien may be created is also subject to the judgment lien from the time of acquisition [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.340(b)].

The lien does not extend to the debtor's right to rents or to a leasehold estate with an unexpired term of less than two years or the interest of a beneficiary under a trust or to real property that is subject to an attachment lien in favor of the creditor and that was transferred before judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.340(a)].

A judgment lien also cannot affect real property that has been previously transferred. This is because an abstract of judgment does not attach until it is recorded (see § 318.94[1]). Property is "previously transferred" within the meaning of this rule if the purchase price is paid and no equitable interest is retained, notwithstanding that some formality of transfer is incomplete at the time the abstract is recorded [Casey v. Gray (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 611, 614, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 538] .

The foregoing may be illustrated by the following example. On a certain date a money judgment is entered against a judgment debtor (but the judgment creditor does not record an abstract of judgment). Two years later, the judgment debtor transfers his or her interest in a particular parcel by quitclaim deed (but the transferee does not record the deed). Three weeks later, the judgment creditor finally records the abstract of judgment. Then, four months after the transfer, the transferee records the quitclaim deed. On these facts, a court held that, assuming delivery of the quitclaim deed had occurred, the transfer of the property was complete at the moment of delivery without regard to whether the deed was recorded. Thus, there was nothing to which the later-recorded abstract could attach [see Casey v. Gray (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 611, 613, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 538 (remanding case to trial court to determine fact of delivery)].

[b] Joint Tenancy Interests

A judgment lien will attach to the interest of a joint tenant. The mere filing by a creditor of a joint tenant of a memorial of the judgment in the registrar's office, prior to the death of the joint tenant/judgment debtor, does not operate as a severance and the survivor takes the whole free from the lien of the judgment, in the absence of any other steps taken by the creditor to sever the title. When the creditor has a judgment lien against the interest of one joint tenant, the creditor can immediately execute and sell the interest of the judgment debtor, and thus sever the joint tenancy or keep the lien alive and wait until the joint tenancy is terminated by the death of one of the joint tenants. If the judgment debtor survives, the judgment lien immediately attaches to the entire property. If the judgment debtor is the first to die, the lien is lost [Zeigler v. Bonnell (1942) 52 Cal. App. 2d 217, 221, 126 P.2d 118] .

[c] Attachable to Increase in Value of Equity

Since a judgment lien attaches not only to all real property owned by the judgment debtor in the county at the time it is perfected but also to all real property in the county which the debtor may afterwards acquire at any time within the 10-year life of the lien and since the creditor can thus reach wholly distinct parcels of property that the debtor did not even own when the abstract of judgment was recorded, a fortiori he or she can reach any and all increases in the value of the equity in property owned by the debtor at the time of such recordation and already subject to the lien. Hence, when the creditor enforces the lien, he or she is entitled to satisfy the judgment to the fullest extent possible out of the real property owned by the debtor, that is, out of the debtor's entire equity in the property valued as of that date, regardless of how or when the debtor may have acquired such equity [Kinney v. Vallentyne (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 475, 478-479, 124 Cal. Rptr. 897, 541 P.2d 537 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 674; now see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.340(b))].

[6] Enforcement

During the lifetime of the judgment debtor, the usual and ordinary method of enforcement of a judgment lien is by execution sale. For discussion and forms related to writs of execution and execution sales, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments, § 254.40 et seq. and § 254.130 et seq. The judgment lien is designed to secure the priority of the judgment creditor over third persons who may acquire rights in the property between the creation of the judgment lien and the sale of the property on execution in satisfaction of the judgment. An equitable action to foreclose the judgment lien is not required [Corporation of America v. Marks (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 218, 220, 73 P.2d 1215] . If for some reason execution does not lie, however, the procedure for enforcement is an equitable action to foreclose the judgment lien [see Corporation of America v. Marks (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 218, 220-221, 73 P.2d 1215 (on death of judgment debtor, judgment lien creditor as able under authority of former Prob. Code § 716 [now see Prob. Code § 9391] to bring equitable action to foreclose his lien as well as to file a claim with the administrator or executor of the estate); Wellborn v. Wellborn (1942) 55 Cal. App. 2d 516, 520, 131 P.2d 48 (execution as not issuing on a judgment which has granted a lien on real property but where no personal judgment has been given, no order for payment of money made, and no provision made in the judgment for enforcement of the lien; procedure for enforcement of lien as equitable action to foreclose the judgment lien in such a situation)]. For a general form of complaint to foreclose a nonpossessory statutory lien which may be adapted for use in foreclosing a judgment lien, see Ch. 342, Liens and Wage Preferences, § 342.10 et seq.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Enforcement Of Judgments And Judgment Liens

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.95

§ 318.95 Determining Priority of Liens on Real Property

[1] Installment and Lump-Sum Liens

An installment judgment lien is a lien created under Code Civ. Proc. § 697.320. A lump-sum judgment lien is a lien created under Code Civ. Proc. § 697.310 [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.380(a); see § 318.94[1]].

Each lump-sum judgment lien takes priority over subsequently-created, lump-sum judgment liens [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.380(c)]. A lump-sum lien has priority over an installment lien as to installments that mature, interest that accrues, and costs that are added on the installment judgment after the lump-sum lien is created [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.380(d)]. However, an installment lien has priority over a lump-sum lien, as to installments that have matured, interest that has accrued, and costs that have been added to the installment judgment before the lump-sum lien is created [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.380(e)].

Installment liens take priority over subsequently created installment liens as to the installments that have matured on the judgment at the time the second installment lien is created, the interest that has accrued, and the costs that have been added to the judgment prior to that time. Thereafter, priorities are determined by the time at which each installment matures on a judgment, the time the interest accrues on a judgment, and the time costs are added to a judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.380(f)].

If two judgment liens attach to the same after-acquired property at the same time under Code Civ. Proc. § 697.340, the first judgment lien created has priority as to all amounts that are due and payable on that judgment at the time the property is acquired [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.380(g)].

[2] Transfer or Encumbrance of Property

If an interest in real property that is subject to a lump-sum judgment lien under Code Civ. Proc. § 697.310 is transferred or encumbered without satisfying the lien, that interest remains subject to the lien in the same amount as if the interest had not been transferred or encumbered [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.390(a)]. If the interest transferred or encumbered was subject to an installment lien under Code Civ. Proc. § 697.320, it remains subject to that lien in the amount of the lien at the time of transfer or encumbrance plus interest thereafter accruing on such amount [Code Civ. Proc. 697.390(b)].

Notwithstanding the transfer or encumbrance of real property subject to a lien created under the Enforcement of Judgments Act, if the property remains subject to the lien after the transfer or encumbrance, the money judgment may be enforced against the property in the same manner and to the same extent as if it had not been transferred or encumbered [Code Civ. Proc. § 695.070(a)]. If the judgment debtor dies after the transfer of the property, the money judgment may be enforced against the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 695.070(b)].

[3] Release or Subordination of Real Property

The judgment creditor may either release from the judgment, or subordinate to another lien or encumbrance, all or a part of the real property subject to the lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.370(a)]. A release or subordination is sufficient if it is executed by the judgment creditor in the same manner as an acknowledgment of satisfaction of judgment and contains all of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.370(b)]:

> (1) A description of the real property being released or on which the lien is being subordinated. If the judgment debtor does not have an interest of record in the real property, the release or subordination must show the name of the record owner. If all of the real property of the judgment debtor in a county in which the lien is recorded is being released from the judgment lien, or if the judgment debtor has no known interest in any real property in that county, the release shall, in lieu of containing a description of the property being released, contain a statement substantially as follows: "This is a release from the judgment lien described herein of all of the interests in real property in _____ County presently owned or hereafter acquired of the herein named judgment debtor subject to the lien."
> (2) The date the judgment lien was created and where in the records of the county the abstract of judgment or certified copy of the judgment was recorded to create the lien.
> (3) The title of the court in which the judgment is entered and the cause and number of the action.
> (4) The date of entry of the judgment and of any subsequent renewals and where entered in the records of the court.
> (5) The name and address of the judgment creditor, the judgment creditor's assignee, if any, and the judgment debtor whose interest in real property is released from the judgment lien or with respect to whom the judgment lien is subordinated.

A release or subordination substantially complying with the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 697.370 is effective even though it contains minor errors that are not seriously misleading [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.370(c)].

The execution of a release or subordination of a judgment lien pursuant to the above-described requirements does not release or subordinate the judgment lien as to judgment debtors not named in the release pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 697.370(b)(5) (item 5, above) [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.370(d)].

For a form of release or subordination of a judgment lien regarding real property generally, see § 318.393.9. For a form of release of a judgment lien regarding real property whose owner was wrongfully identified as a judgment debtor, see § 318.393.4. For a form of release or subordination prescribed by the Secretary of State regarding personal property, see § 318.393.8.

[4] Effect of Bankruptcy Act

Former 11 U.S.C. § 107(a)(1) provided that liens obtained by attachment, judgment, levy, or other legal or equitable process or proceeding within four months of the filing of the petition could be set aside if the debtor was insolvent when the lien was obtained or if the lien was sought and permitted in fraud of the provisions of the act. Although this provision was not carried over into the revised Bankruptcy Code, such "judicial liens," as they are defined in the new code [see 11 U.S.C. § 101(36)], may be avoided by the trustee under the provisions of 11 U.S.C. § 547(b) when they are created within 90 days of filing for bankruptcy (or within one year when the lienholder is an "insider") [see Collier on Bankruptcy, Ch. 547, Preferences (Matthew Bender 15th ed. revised)].

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.96

§ 318.96 Money Judgment Liens on Personal Property

[1] Creation and Duration

A money judgment lien on certain personal property is created by filing a notice of judgment lien in the office of the Secretary of State pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.510-697.670. A judgment lien on personal property may be created only if the judgment is a money judgment first entered in California after June 30, 1983 [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.510(a)]. A judgment lien on personal property may be created as an alternative or in addition to a lien created by levy under a writ of execution pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 699.010-701.830 or by use of an enforcement procedure provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.010-709.030 (miscellaneous creditor's remedies) [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.520].

Except as otherwise provided by statute, a judgment lien on personal property is for the full amount required to satisfy the money judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.540(a)]. A lien created under a money judgment payable in installments is also in the full amount required to satisfy the judgment, but may not be enforced for the amount of unmatured installments unless the court so orders [see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.540(b);§ 318.261[2][b]].

Unless the money judgment is satisfied or the judgment lien is terminated or released, the lien continues for 5 years from the date of filing [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.510(b)].

[2] Installment Judgments

A judgment lien on personal property may be created on a money judgment payable in installments pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 582.5 (municipal courts) or 117 (small claims courts) or Veh. Code § 16380 (financial responsibility laws) [see, e.g., discussion in § 318.90]. The lien is for the full amount required to satisfy the judgment, but the lien may not be enforced for the amount of unmatured installments unless the court so orders [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.540(b)]. Except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 697.540(b), a judgment lien on personal property may not be created on an installment judgment unless all of the installments have become due and payable at the time the notice of judgment lien is filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.510(a)].

[3] Property Subject to Lien

A judgment lien on personal property is a lien on all interests in the following personal property that are subject to enforcement of the money judgment against the judgment debtor pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 695.010-695.070 at the time when the lien is created if the personal property is, at that time, any of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.530(a)]:

- Accounts receivable and the judgment debtor is located in California.
- Tangible chattel paper, as defined in Bus. & Com. Code § 9102(a)(78), and the judgment debtor is located in California.
- Equipment, located within California.
- Farm products, located within California.
- Inventory, located within California.
- Negotiable documents of title, located within California.

If any interest in the property described above is acquired after the lien is created, the lien attaches to that interest at the time of acquisition [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.530(b)].

If property subject to a money judgment lien becomes a fixture, as defined in Com. Code § 9102(a)(41), the lien is extinguished [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.530(e)].

[4] Property Not Subject to Lien

A judgment lien does not attach to a vehicle or vessel required to be registered with the Department of Motor Vehicles, a mobilehome or commercial coach required to be registered pursuant to the Health and Safety Code, or the inventory of a retail merchant held for sale, except to the extent that the inventory consists of durable goods with a unit retail value of at least $500 [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.530(d)]. In this context, "retail merchant" does not include either a person whose sales for resale exceeded 75 percent in dollar volume of the person's total sales of all goods during the 12 months preceding the filing of the notice of judgment lien, or a cooperative association organized under Food & Agric. Code §§ 54001-54294 (agricultural cooperatives) or Corp. Code §§ 13200-13356 (Fish Marketing Act) [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.530(d)(3)].

[5] Determining Priority of Lien

[a] Against Other Judgment Liens

A judgment lien on personal property has priority over any subsequent judgment lien created on the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.600(a)]. If two or more judgment liens attach to after-acquired property at the same time under Code Civ. Proc. § 697.530(b), the judgment lien first filed has priority [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.600(b)].

[b] Against Security Interests

Except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 697.590(d) and (e), priority between a judgment lien on personal property and a conflicting security interest in the same personal property is determined according to Code Civ. Proc. § 697.590(b), which provides that conflicting interests rank according to priority in time of filing or perfection. In the case of a judgment lien, priority dates from the time filing is first made covering the personal property. In the case of a security interest, priority dates from the time a filing is first made covering the personal property or the time the security interest is first perfected, whichever is earlier, provided that there is no period thereafter when there is neither filing nor perfection [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.590(b)]. A purchase money security interest, however, has priority over a conflicting judgment lien on the same personal property or its proceeds if the purchase money security interest is perfected at the time the judgment debtor receives possession of the personal property or within 20 days thereafter [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.590(d)]. If a purchase money security interest in inventory has priority over a judgment lien pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 697.590(d) and a conflicting security interest has priority over the purchase money security interest in the same inventory pursuant to Com. Code § 9324, the conflicting security interest also has priority over the judgment lien on the inventory subject to the purchase money security interest notwithstanding that the conflicting security interest would not otherwise have priority over the judgment lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.590(e)].

A date of filing or perfection as to personal property is also a date of filing or perfection as to proceeds [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.590(c)].

A judgment lien that has attached to personal property and that is also subordinate under Code Civ. Proc. § 697.590(b) to a security interest in the same personal property is subordinate to the security interest only to the extent that the security interest secures advances made before the judgment lien attached or within 45 days thereafter or made without knowledge of the judgment lien or pursuant to a commitment entered into without knowledge of the judgment lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.590(f)]. For the purpose of Code Civ. Proc. § 697.590(f), a secured party shall be deemed not to have knowledge of a judgment lien on personal property until (1) the judgment creditor serves a copy of the notice of judgment lien on the secured party personally or by mail, and (2) the secured party has knowledge of the judgment lien on personal property, as "knowledge" is defined in Com. Code § 1201. If service is by mail, it shall be sent to the secured party at the address shown in the financing statement or security agreement [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.590(f)].

[6] Effect of Sale or Other Disposition of Property

Except as provided in Com. Code § 9617 and 9622, a judgment lien on personal property continues notwithstanding the sale, exchange, or other disposition of the property, unless the person receiving the property is one of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.610]:

> (1) A buyer in the ordinary course of business (see Com. Code § 1201) who, under Com. Code § 9320, would take free of a security interest created by the seller [see Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions, § 503.24[3]];
> (2) A lessee in the ordinary course of business, as defined in Com. Code § 10103(a)(15), who, under Com. Code § 9321, would take free of a security interest created by the lessor [see Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions, § 503.24[3]].
> (3) A holder to whom a negotiable document of title has been duly negotiated within the meaning of Com. Code § 7501 [see Ch. 213, Documents of Title, § 213.30 et seq.]; or
> (4) A purchaser of chattel paper who, under Com. Code § 9330, would have priority over another security interest in the chattel paper [see Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions, § 503.50[3]].

The judgment lien continues with the same priority in the proceeds of the property, except in the event of insolvency [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.620(b)]. If insolvency proceedings are instituted by or against the judgment debtor, the lien continues only in proceeds that are either in a separate deposit account containing only proceeds, or in the form of money, checks, and the like that are neither commingled with other money nor deposited in a deposit account prior to the insolvency proceedings [see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.620(c)].

[7] Release or Subordination

The judgment creditor may by a writing do any of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(a)]:

(1) Release the judgment lien on all the personal property subject to the lien of a sole judgment debtor or of all the judgment debtors [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(a)(1)].

(2) If the notice of judgment lien names more than one judgment debtor, release the judgment lien on all the personal property subject to the lien of one or more but of less than all the judgment debtors [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(a)(2)].

(3) Release the judgment lien on all or a part of the personal property subject to the lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(a)(3)]. In this event, the statement of release must describe the property being released [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(b)].

(4) Subordinate to a security interest or other lien or encumbrance the judgment lien on all or a part of the personal property subject to the judgment lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(a)(4)]. In this event, the statement of subordination must also describe the property on which the judgment lien is being subordinated and describe the security interest or other lien or encumbrance to which the judgment lien is being subordinated [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(b)].

A statement of release or subordination is sufficient if it is signed by the judgment creditor and contains the name and address of the judgment debtor, the file number of the notice of judgment lien, and wording appropriate to bring the statement within one of the above-stated paragraphs of Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(a)[Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(b)].

For an illustration of the Statement of Release or Subordination prescribed by the Secretary of State, see § 318.401.

§ 318.97 Relation Back of Liens

If a judgment lien is created on property that is already subject to an existing attachment lien under the same claim (see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 481.010-493.060), the priority of the later lien relates back to the date the earlier lien was created [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.020(a)]. Additionally, if a judgment lien is created and a later lien of the same or a different type is created on the same property under the same judgment while the earlier lien is still in effect, the priority of the later lien relates back to the date the earlier lien was created [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.020(b)]. These rules do not affect the rights and priorities of third persons established while the earlier lien was in effect under the law governing the earlier lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.020(c)].

§ 318.98 Effect of Stay of Enforcement

If enforcement of the judgment is stayed on appeal by the giving of a sufficient undertaking under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 916-923, existing liens created under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 695.010-709.030 (enforcement of money judgments) are extinguished. Also, new liens may not be created during the period of the stay [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.040(a)]. Unless the court expressly orders otherwise, however, these rules do not apply to judgment liens on real property created under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.310-697.410, or judgment liens on personal property created under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.510-697.670 [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.040(b)]. However, unless the court otherwise expressly orders, no other liens may be created or continued under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 695.010-709.030 during the period of the stay of enforcement [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.040(c)].

If a lien created for the enforcement of a money judgment is extinguished, property held subject to the lien must be released unless the property is to be held under another lien or the property is ordered by the court to be held pending resolution of a dispute concerning its proper disposition [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.050].

If enforcement of the judgment is stayed pursuant to Fam. Code § 4853 (enforcement of a foreign support order) or Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.50 (sister state judgments), existing liens are extinguished and no new liens may be created during the period of the stay [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.040(c)].

A person acquiring a judgment has the right to record an abstract of that judgment prior to the filing of an appeal bond. Despite the fact that existing liens are extinguished when enforcement of a judgment is stayed on appeal [see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.040], there is no statutory provision which allows the county recorder to expunge an abstract that has been properly filed from the records [*Crevolin v. Crevolin (1963) 217 Cal. § 318.100 Death of Judgment Debtor

After the death of the judgment debtor, enforcement of a judgment against property in the judgment debtor's estate is governed by the Probate Code [Code Civ. Proc. § 686.020; see Prob. Code §§ 9300-9304]. The holder of a judgment lien on property in a decedent's estate may, with certain exceptions, commence an action to enforce the lien against the subject property, without first filing a claim against the estate, if in the complaint the holder of the lien expressly waives all recourse against other property in the estate. Code Civ. Proc. § 366.2 (allowing for commencement of survival actions within specified periods after expiration of statute of limitations) does not apply to such an action [Prob. Code § 9391].

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.101

§ 318.101 Release of Lien Against Erroneously Identified Property Owner

[1] Real Property

When a recorded abstract or certified copy of a money judgment appears to create a judgment lien on the real property of a person who is not the judgment debtor because the name of the property owner is the same as or similar to that of the judgment debtor, the erroneously identified owner may deliver to the judgment creditor a written demand for a recordable document releasing the lien [see § 318.393.3]. The demand must be accompanied by proof to the satisfaction of the judgment creditor that the property owner is not the judgment debtor and that the property is not subject to enforcement of the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.410(a)].

Within 15 days after receipt of the property owner's demand and satisfactory proof, the judgment creditor must deliver to the property owner a recordable document releasing the lien on the property [see § 318.393.4]. If the judgment creditor improperly fails to deliver a recordable document releasing the lien within this period, he or she will be liable to the property owner for all damages sustained from the failure plus the sum of $100 [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.410(b)].

[2] Personal Property

A similar provision with respect to personal property allows an erroneously identified property owner, or a person having a security interest in or a lien on the personal property, to deliver to the judgment creditor a written demand that the judgment creditor file in the office of the Secretary of State a statement releasing the lien as to the person's property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.660(a); see § 318.393.3]. The demand must also be accompanied by satisfactory proof, and within 15 days after receipt of the demand and proof, the judgment creditor must file in the office of the Secretary of State a statement releasing the lien on the property. The judgment creditor is liable for damages plus the sum of $100 for improperly failing to file the statement of release within the time allowed [see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.660(b)].

[3] Motion for Order Releasing Lien

The person making the demand, with respect to either real or personal property, may apply to the court on noticed motion for an order releasing the judgment lien on the property if the judgment creditor fails to comply with the demand [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.410(c), 697.660(c); see §§ 318.398-318.393.7]. The prevailing party may recover reasonable attorney's fees in connection with proceedings for the order [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.410(d), 697.660(d)].

D. Enforcement Of Judgments And Judgment Liens

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.102

§ 318.102 Lien on Judgment Debtor's Cause of Action

[1] When Available

A judgment creditor who has a money judgment against a judgment debtor who is a party to a pending action or special proceeding may obtain a lien on the cause of action under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.410-708.480, to the extent required to satisfy the judgment creditor's money judgment. The lien may be obtained on any cause of action of the judgment debtor for money or property that is the subject of the action or proceeding, and on the rights of the judgment debtor to money or property under any judgment subsequently procured [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.410(a)]. An action or proceeding is pending until the time for appeal from the judgment has expired or, if an appeal is filed, until the appeal has been finally determined [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.410(d)].

[2] Creation

To obtain a lien, the judgment creditor must file a notice of lien and an abstract or certified copy of his or her judgment in the pending action or proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.410(b); see § 318.385]. Rule 3.1360 of the California Rules of Court also requires a motion that a lien be granted on a judgment be accompanied by an authenticated record of the judgment and a declaration as to the identity of the party involved and the amount due. At the time of filing the notice, or promptly thereafter, the judgment creditor must also serve a copy of the notice and a statement of the date when the notice was filed on all parties who have appeared in the action or proceeding. The failure to serve all such parties does not affect the lien created by filing under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.410(b), but the rights of a party are not affected by the lien until the party has notice of the lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.410(c)].

[3] Rights of Judgment Creditor

[a] Intervention

The court in which the action or special proceeding is pending may permit a judgment creditor who has obtained a lien on the judgment debtor's cause of action to intervene in the action or special proceeding pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 387 [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.430(a)]. Even if the judgment creditor does not become a party to the action or proceeding by intervening, he or she is deemed to be a party for the purpose of the determination of an exemption claim by the judgment debtor or the determination of an order applying the judgment debtor's rights to money or property to satisfaction of the lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.430(b); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.450, 708.470].

[b] Intervention Discretionary

Inasmuch as the judge may permit the judgment creditor to intervene, intervention is permitted, but not required. Further, because the section is remedial in nature, it is to be liberally construed to give effect to the remedy which it authorizes. Intervention must normally be permitted unless the intervention will disrupt the suit or change the position of the original parties [In re Marriage of Kerr (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 130, 134, 229 Cal. Rptr. 610] . Ordinarily, a lien claimant would have no reason to participate in the main action, and in most instances his or her needs would be satisfied by the granting of a lien against the prospective judgment [McClearen v. Superior Court (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 852, 856, 291 P.2d 449 (discussing former Code Civ. Proc. § 688.1)].

[c] Consent to Enforcement or Resolution of Debtor's Judgment

Unless the judgment creditor's judgment is satisfied or the lien released, the judgment debtor may not enforce any judgment recovered in the action or special proceeding without the written consent of the judgment creditor or authorization by order of the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.440(a)]. Written consent by the judgment creditor or authorization by order of the court is also required for any compromise, dismissal, settlement, or satisfaction of the pending action or proceeding or the judgment procured therein [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.440(a)]. The judgment debtor may apply by noticed motion to the court for the authorization to enforce, compromise, dismiss, settle, or satisfy his or her judgment in the action or proceeding. The court may issue an authorizing order after a hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.440(b); see §§ 318.386, 318.387].

Facts regarding whether a settlement was structured to evade the lien of the judgment creditor are material to the approval of a settlement under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.440. The particular facts relevant to evasion of the lien will vary from case to case because of differences in the property interests involved, variations in the relationships among the entities involved, and differences in the way transfers of interests in property are structured. To make an informed and intelligent decision about the settlement, the superior court should have sufficient information to understand who benefits from the transfers contemplated by the proposed settlement and how they are benefitted. The court must understand the size of the settlement pie, how the pie is sliced, and who is getting which slice. Once the court knows if the judgment debtor or an entity closely connected to the judgment debtor is getting a settlement slice beyond the reach of the judgment creditor's lien, the court can determine if equitable considerations justify evasion of the lien, terms and conditions should be imposed on the settlement, or the court should withhold approval of the settlement [Oldham v. California Capital Fund, Inc. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 421, 430-432, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 744] .

[4] Application of Judgment to Satisfaction of Lien

If the judgment debtor is entitled to money or property under the judgment in the action or special proceeding and a lien has been created under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.410-708.480, on application of any party to the action or special proceeding, the court may order that the judgment debtor's rights to money or property under the judgment be applied to the satisfaction of the lien. Application for an order must be made by noticed motion, which must be served on all other parties personally or by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.470(a); see §§ 318.392-318.393.1].

The court may order any party having custody or control of the property not to transfer the property until it can be levied on or otherwise applied to the lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.470(b)]. If the court determines that a party having notice of the lien created under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.410-708.480 has transferred property that was subject to the lien or has paid an amount to the judgment debtor that was subject to the lien, the court must render judgment against the party in an amount equal to the lesser of (1) the value of the judgment debtor's interest in the property or the amount paid the judgment debtor or (2) the amount of the judgment creditor's lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.470(c)].

The judgment creditor is deemed a party to the action or special proceeding for the purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 708.470, even if he or she has not intervened under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.430(a)[Code Civ. Proc. § 708.430(b)].

[5] Exemption Claim by Judgment Debtor

If a lien is created under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.410-708.480, the judgment debtor may claim that all or any portion of the money or property that he or she may recover in the action or proceeding is exempt from enforcement of a money judgment. The claim must be made by application on noticed motion to the court in which the action or special proceeding is pending and must be filed and served, personally or by mail, on the judgment creditor not later than 30 days after the judgment debtor has notice of the creation of the lien. The judgment debtor must execute an affidavit in support of the application that includes all of the matters set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 703.520(b). No notice of opposition to the claim is required, however [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.450(a); see §§ 318.389-318.390].

The court may determine the exemption claim at any time prior to the entry of judgment or may consolidate the exemption hearing with the hearing on a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.470 (for application of judgment debtor's rights to satisfaction of lien) [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.450(b)]. If the judgment debtor establishes the right to a total or partial exemption, the court must order the termination of the lien on the exempt portion of the money or property [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.450(c); see § 318.391]. The judgment creditor is deemed a party to the action or special proceeding for the purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 708.450, even if he or she has not intervened under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.430(a) [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.430(b)].

The judgment debtor's failure to make a claim of exemption under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.450 constitutes a waiver of the exemption [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.450(a)].

[6] Priority of Liens

Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.410-708.480, regarding liens on a judgment debtor's cause of action, are silent on the issue of priority, as was former Code Civ. Proc. § 688.1. Until new case law develops regarding liens created under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.410-708.480, therefore, case law governing liens created under former Code Civ. Proc. § 688.1 may be viewed as persuasive. Under former Code Civ. Proc. § 688.1, the first judgment creditor to obtain a lien has priority [Roseburg Loggers, Inc. v. U.S. Plywood-Champion Papers, Inc. (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 742, 750, 122 Cal. Rptr. 567, 537 P.2d 399] . Although liens created under former Code Civ. Proc. § 688.1 receive priority according to the time at which they were created, when a lien so established conflicts with another type of lien, equitable principles may be applied to subordinate one to another.

However, an attorney's contractual lien on a judgment to secure payment of legal fees is entitled to priority over a judgment creditor's lien filed pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.410-708.480 when the attorney's contractual lien is created prior to the perfection of the judgment creditor's lien [see Waltrip v. Kimberlin (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 517, 524-531, 79 Cal. Rptr. 3d 460 (attorney's lien for fees had priority over bank's liens because attorney lien was created by retainer agreement between plaintiffs and counsel before bank filed notice of lien in pending action, which did not relate back to prior liens because those liens covered different property)]. Since Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.410-708.480 contain no language relating to the priority of liens obtained in compliance with their terms, the standard rule of priority contained in Civ. Code § 2897 (first in time has priority) applies. Furthermore, in such a situation, the attorney need not file a judgment creditor's lien in compliance with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.410-708.480 since, by their terms, Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.410-708.480 relate only to liens of judgment creditors and do not purport to limit contractual liens on judgments [Cetenko v. United California Bank (1982) 30 Cal. 3d 528, 533-535, 179 Cal. Rptr. 902, 638 P.2d 1299 ; see also Pangborn Plumbing Corp. v. Carruthers & Skiffington (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 1039, 1047-1048, 119 Cal. Rptr. 2d 416 (contractual lien for attorney's fees entitled to priority as to settlement fund created by law firm's legal work over judgment lien of judgment creditor)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Discharge And Satisfaction Of Judgments

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.122

§ 318.122 Discharge by Equitable Setoff

[1] Judgment Debtor's Right to Setoff

A judgment debtor who by assignment or otherwise becomes the owner of a claim against his or her judgment creditor may have a court in equity setoff the amount of that claim against the judgment [Erlich v. Superior Court (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 551, 555, 47 Cal. Rptr. 473, 407 P.2d 649] .

The offset of judgment against judgment is a matter of right absent the existence of facts that establish competing equities or an equitable defense precluding the offset [Harrison v. Adams (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 646, 648-649, 128 P.2d 9 ; Brienza v. Tepper (1995) 35 Cal. App. 4th 1839, 1848, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 690 ; see Wm. R. Clarke Corp. v. Safeco Ins. Co. of America (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 355, 358-359, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 709 (right to setoff is not absolute and may be restricted when failure to do so would be inequitable)].

[2] Requirements and Limitations for Setoff

A judgment debtor seeking to offset a claim against a judgment creditor is required to have a present, valid, and subsisting claim against the judgment creditor. If the claim has been satisfied, for example, no setoff will be allowed [see Blake v. Arp (1920) 48 Cal. App. 715, 717-718, 192 P. 452] . The fact that the claim itself has not been reduced to judgment or that the claim is not liquidated will not bar a setoff against the judgment so long as any unliquidated claim has matured [Erlich v. Superior Court (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 551, 555, 47 Cal. Rptr. 473, 407 P.2d 649] .

Mutuality is, however, essential. The debtor must be the beneficial owner of a claim or judgment that he or she seeks to setoff and not merely a trustee on behalf of an assignor who has retained an equitable interest in the claim assigned or the holder of a claim merely for purposes of collection. In such cases, mutuality is destroyed because the person against whom the setoff is asserted has no opportunity to assert setoffs as well [Norman v. Berney (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 424, 434, 45 Cal. Rptr. 467] .

[3] Methods of Presenting Setoffs

A setoff may be presented to the court either by way of a cross complaint, a motion for such setoff, or an independent equitable action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 428.10 (permissive cross complaint); Harrison v. Adams (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 646, 648-649, 128 P.2d 9 ; Norman v. Berney (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 424, 434, 45 Cal. Rptr. 467] .

For a more complete discussion of and forms relating to cross complaints, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints .

[4] Effect of Asserting Claim

Because a claim that has not been reduced to judgment may be asserted as the basis for a setoff, a judgment debtor may wish to attempt to convince a court to enjoin execution of the original judgment pending resolution of a disputed claim. The decision to enjoin execution of a judgment pending resolution of a disputed claim rests in the discretion of the court. The court is required to consider such factors as the likelihood that the judgment debtor will collect, the probability and comparative amount of recovery, and the ability of the judgment creditor to respond should the judgment be rendered against him or her on the disputed claim [Erlich v. Superior Court (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 551, 555-556, 47 Cal. Rptr. 473, 407 P.2d 649] .

[5] Limits by One-Action and Security-First Rules

A judgment debtor who holds a security interest in property must exercise caution in determining whether to offset the secured obligation against the judgment, rather than commence nonjudicial foreclosure proceedings on the security interest. By virtue of the security interest, the judgment debtor is a secured creditor who is subject to the statutory scheme designed to protect debtors who own property subject to such interests [see Aplanalp v. Forte (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 609, 614, 275 Cal. Rptr. 144] . Under that scheme, a secured creditor is entitled to bring only one lawsuit to enforce his or her security interest and collect the debt ("One-action rule"), and the secured creditor is required to rely on his or her security before enforcing the debt ("Security-first" or "Collateral-first" rule) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a); Security Pacific National Bank v. Wozab (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 991, 997, 275 Cal. Rptr. 201, 800 P.2d 557 , citing Walker v. Community Bank (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 729, 733-734, 111 Cal. Rptr. 897, 518 P.2d 329] . Thus, if the judgment debtor elects to offset the judgment by a claim on the secured obligation, the judgment debtor is deemed to have made an election of remedies to obtain judicial relief and forfeit the security interest and its attendant right to obtain nonjudicial foreclosure [see Aplanalp v. Forte (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 609, 614, 275 Cal. Rptr. 144] .

Some courts of appeal have stated that in addition to waiving the balance of the security, a secured creditor seeking judicial relief on the underlying debt (including offset of a claim against a judgment creditor) waives any claim to the unpaid balance of the debt [see, e.g., Aplanalp v. Forte (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 609, 614, 275 Cal. Rptr. 144 ; Bank of America v. Daily (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 767, 772, 199 Cal. Rptr. 557] . This result has, however, been disapproved by the Supreme Court [Security Pacific National Bank v. Wozab (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 991, 1004, 275 Cal. Rptr. 201, 800 P.2d 557] . On electing to pursue judicial relief, the judgment debtor's status with regard to any balance owed him or her by the judgment creditor in excess of that applied to offset the judgment would be that of an unsecured creditor [see Security Pacific National Bank v. Wozab (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 991, 1004, 275 Cal. Rptr. 201, 800 P.2d 557] .

For discussion relating to the limitations imposed by the one-action rule in transactions secured by personal property or in proceedings to foreclose on a deed of trust, see Ch. 500, Sales and Secured Transactions , and Ch. 555, Trust Deeds and Real Property Mortgages , respectively.

E. Discharge And Satisfaction Of Judgments

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.125

§ 318.125 Acknowledgment of Satisfaction

[1] Creditor's Duty to File

[a] In General

When a money judgment is satisfied either by payment of the full amount required, or by acceptance by the judgment creditor of a lesser sum in full satisfaction, the judgment creditor must immediately file an acknowledgment of satisfaction with the court unless the judgment is satisfied in full pursuant to a writ [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 724.010(a), 724.030]. The contents of the acknowledgment are prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 724.060 [see § 318.420].

[b] Satisfaction by Levy or Noncash Form of Payment

When a money judgment is satisfied by levy, the judgment creditor's obligation to give or file an acknowledgment arises only when he or she has received the full amount required to satisfy the judgment from the levying officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.010(b)]. Similarly, when the money judgment is satisfied by check or other noncash form of payment, the judgment creditor is obligated to give or file an acknowledgment only when the check or other form of payment has actually been honored [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.010(c)].

[c] When Abstract of Judgment Recorded

If an abstract of a money judgment has been recorded with the recorder of any county and the judgment is satisfied, the judgment creditor is required to immediately file an acknowledgment of satisfaction with the court, and serve the acknowledgment on the judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.040]. This rule applies whether the judgment is satisfied pursuant to a writ or by any other means.

[2] Demand for Acknowledgment of Satisfaction

[a] Contents and Service

If a money judgment has been satisfied, the judgment debtor, the owner of real or personal property subject to a lien created under the judgment, or a person having a security interest in or a lien on personal property subject to a lien created under the judgment may demand in writing that the judgment creditor (1) file an acknowledgment of satisfaction with the court, (2) execute, acknowledge, and deliver an acknowledgment of satisfaction to the person making the demand, or (3) do both. The demand may be served personally or by mail on the judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.050(a); see § 318.421]. The noticed motion procedure in Code Civ. Proc. § 724.050 is the exclusive method for obtaining an order for entry of satisfaction of judgment [Quintana v. Gibson (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 89, 92-95, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 898 (but defendant's failure to comply with procedure did not result in prejudice to plaintiff under facts)].

[b] Failure to Comply With Demand

The judgment creditor must comply with the written demand for acknowledgment within 15 days of its receipt [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.050(c)]. If the judgment has been satisfied and the judgment creditor has failed without just cause to comply with the demand for acknowledgment, he or she will be liable to the person making the demand for all damages sustained as a result of the failure, plus the sum of $100 [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.050(e)]. If the judgment creditor fails without just cause to comply within the prescribed time period, the person making the demand may apply to the court on noticed motion for an order requiring compliance with the demand and payment of damages and the penalty, or directing the court clerk to enter satisfaction of the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.050(d), (e); see § 318.421].

[3] Unjustified Conditioning of Delivery of Acknowledgment of Satisfaction; Liability

[a] In General

Any judgment creditor who intentionally conditions the delivery of an acknowledgment of satisfaction of judgment on the performance of any act or the payment of any amount in excess of that to which the judgment creditor is entitled pursuant to the judgment is liable to the judgment debtor for all damages sustained by reason of that action. However, in no event may such damages be for less than $250 [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.070(a)].

[b] Not Applicable When Security or Promissory Note Furnished

Code Civ. Proc. § 724.070(a) does not apply when a judgment creditor has agreed to deliver an acknowledgment of satisfaction of judgment to the judgment debtor prior to full satisfaction of the judgment in consideration for the judgment debtor having agreed either to furnish security or to execute a promissory note, or both, the principal amount of which does not exceed that to which the judgment creditor is entitled pursuant to the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.070(b)].

E. Discharge And Satisfaction Of Judgments

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.130

§ 318.130 Acknowledgment of Satisfaction of Matured Installments Under Installment Judgment

[1] Definitions

An installment judgment is a money judgment under which a lien may be created pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 697.320 [see § 318.96[2]]. Matured installments are the sum of all amounts and installments that have matured under the installment judgment, the interest that has accrued on the judgment, and the costs that have been added to the judgment on or before the date specified in the demand for acknowledgment of satisfaction [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.210].

[2] Demand for Acknowledgment

[a] Contents and Service

If real property is subject to an installment judgment lien, the judgment debtor or the owner of the property may demand in writing that the judgment creditor execute, acknowledge, and deliver to the person making the demand an acknowledgment of satisfaction of matured installments under the judgment. The demand must be served on the judgment creditor either personally or by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.220(a); see § 318.421]. If the matured installments have been satisfied as of the date of the demand, the judgment creditor must comply within 15 days of receipt, or be held liable for damages resulting from the failure to comply plus $100 [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 724.220(c), 724.240(a)].

[b] Order Compelling Compliance

The judgment debtor or owner of the real property subject to the lien may apply to the court on noticed motion for an order requiring the judgment creditor to comply with the demand [see § 318.422]. The court may alternatively order determining that the matured installments as of the date specified in the demand have been satisfied [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.230]. The judgment creditor's liability for failure to comply with the demand for acknowledgment may be determined in the proceedings on this motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.240(a)]. The contents of the acknowledgment are prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 724.060 [see § 318.420].

[3] Orders for Child or Spousal Support

If any amount of child or spousal support provided in a support order has been directed to be made to an officer designated by statute, either by the court pursuant to Civ. Code § 4702 (repealed and replaced by Fam. Code § 4200, operative January 1, 1994) or by any other provision of law, and the directive is set forth in the certified copy or abstract of the judgment that was recorded to create the judgment lien on real property, or in a similarly recorded certified copy or abstract of an amended or supplemental order, the acknowledgment of satisfaction of matured installments under the installment judgment is not effective and does not affect the judgment lien unless the acknowledgment is executed or approved in writing by the designated officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.250(b)].

[4] Attorney's Fees

In any action maintained pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 724.210-724.260, the court may award reasonable attorney's fees to the prevailing party [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.260].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Discharge And Satisfaction Of Judgments

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.131

§ 318.131 Acceptance of Benefits or Voluntary Satisfaction of Judgment as Waiver of Right to Appeal

[1] General Rule

It is the general rule that the voluntary acceptance by a judgment creditor of the benefits of a judgment or order is a bar to appeal by the creditor of the judgment or order [see Mathys v. Turner (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 364, 365, 294 P.2d 947] . Similarly, waiver by a judgment debtor is implied when he or she voluntarily complies with the judgment by way of compromise or with an agreement not to take or prosecute an appeal [Lee v. Brown (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 110, 115, 132 Cal. Rptr. 649, 553 P.2d 1121] .

[2] Exception

In the case of acceptance by a judgment creditor of benefits of a judgment as waiver, an exception exists when the creditor is concededly entitled to the benefits which are accepted and the entitlement will not be affected by a reversal on appeal. In such a case, acceptance of the benefits does not constitute waiver of the right to appeal [Mathys v. Turner (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 364, 365, 294 P.2d 947] .

In the case of voluntary satisfaction by the judgment debtor, a waiver is not implied when the satisfaction arises under compulsion of risk of forfeiture [Lee v. Brown (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 110, 115-116, 132 Cal. Rptr. 649, 553 P.2d 1121] . However, having to choose whether to file an appeal to pursue a greater award than the judgment provided does not make that choice involuntary [see Satchmed Plaza Owners Association v. UWMC Hospital Corporation (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 1034, 1042-1043, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 585].

§ 318.132 Vacating Satisfaction

A party to the record is able to have a satisfaction of judgment entered in fraud of his or her rights set aside on motion in the action in which the judgment is entered [Wherry v. Rambo (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 569, 571, 218 P.2d 142 ; see § 318.425]. Fraud, undue influence, and mistake are generally recognized as sufficient grounds for vacating a satisfaction of judgment [Remillard Brick Co. v. Dandini (1950) 98 Cal. App. 2d 617, 622, 220 P.2d 927] . For example, payment of a judgment, even though voluntary, does not terminate the litigation unless the payment is made by way of compromise or with intent that the payment satisfy the judgment and end the litigation [People ex rel. Dept. of Public Works v. Richman (1966) 242 Cal. App. 2d 380, 384, 385, 51 Cal. Rptr. 454] .

§ 318.133 Discharge and Satisfaction of Foreign-Money Claim

A foreign-money judgment may be discharged by payment [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.7(h)]. A judgment or award on a foreign-money claim is payable in that foreign money or, at the option of the debtor, in the amount of United States dollars that will purchase that foreign money on the conversion date at a bank-offered spot rate [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.7(b)]. Each payment in United States dollars is to be accepted and credited on a judgment or award on a foreign-money claim in the amount of the foreign money that could be purchased by the dollars at a bank-offered spot rate of exchange at or near the close of business on the conversion date for that payment [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.7(d)].

A satisfaction or partial payment made on the foreign judgment, on proof thereof, is to be credited against the amount of the foreign money specified in the judgment, notwithstanding entry of the judgment in California [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.10(c)].

For discussion of foreign-money judgments generally, see discussion in § 318.52[3].

F. Assignment Of Judgments

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.151

Thus, in the absence of any statutory requirements as limitations on the power to assign a judgment, the assignment is not required to be in writing [Painter v. Berglund (1939) 31 Cal. App. 2d 63, 66, 87 P.2d 360] nor is it required to be supported by valuable consideration [Curtin v. Kowalsky (1904) 145 Cal. 431, 434, 78 P. 962] . Moreover, the assignee is not required to record the assignment or give notice of it to third persons [Curtin v. Kowalsky (1904) 145 Cal. 431, 435, 78 P. 962] .

F. Assignment Of Judgments

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.152

§ 318.152 Assignee's Rights Against Third Persons

Although under the common law the assignment need not be in writing and notice need not be given to third persons [see § 318.151], the assignee may want to perfect his or her rights by placing the assignment in writing and giving notice.

Subject to Civ. Code § 954.5(b) and (c), a transfer of a right represented by a judgment that is excluded from the coverage of Division 9 of the Commercial Code (Secured Transactions; Sales of Accounts, Contract Rights and Chattel Paper) by Com. Code § 9109(d)(9) is deemed perfected as against third persons on the execution and delivery to the transferee of an assignment in writing [Civ. Code § 954.5(a)]. Com. Code § 9109(d)(9) provides that Division 9 of the Commercial Code does not apply to a right represented by a judgment (other than a judgment taken on a right to payment that was collateral). Thus, Civ. Code § 954.5(a) applies to most assignments of judgments.

Additionally, as between bona fide assignees of the same right for value without notice, the assignee who first becomes an assignee of record, by filing an acknowledgment of assignment of judgment with the court as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 673 or otherwise becoming an assignee of record, has priority [Civ. Code § 954.5(b)].

Kowalsky (1904) 145 Cal. 431, 434-435, 78 P. 962]* . It should also be noted that the mere filing of the assignment will not operate as either actual or constructive notice to the judgment debtor [Kaplan v. Hacker (1952) 113 Cal. App. 2d 571, 573, 248 P.2d 464] . Nor is the filing of an acknowledgment of assignment of judgment pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 673, of itself, notice to the judgment debtor so as to invalidate any payments made by the judgment debtor that would otherwise be applied to the satisfaction of the judgment [Civ. Code § 954.5(c)].

[1] Legal Title Vests in Assignee

An assignment of the total judgment carries with it the legal title to the judgment [Curtin v. Kowalsky (1904) 145 Cal. 431, 434, 78 P. 962] . For a discussion of the effect on title in the case of a partial assignment, see § 318.15.

[2] Assignee's Right to Collect on Judgment

Although a judgment is not deemed a negotiable instrument, it is considered a thing in action vesting in the assignee the equitable right to the proceeds from it, with the right to the usual and legal means of collecting the amount due [Anglo-Cal. Trust Co. v. Oakland Rys. (1924) 193 Cal. 451, 469, 225 P. 452] .

An assignee of a judgment is not entitled to enforce the judgment under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 680.010-724.260 (Enforcement of Judgments Law) unless an acknowledgment of assignment of judgment to the assignee has been filed under Code Civ. Proc. § 673 or the assignee has otherwise become an assignee of record [Code Civ. Proc. § 681.020]. An assignee of a judgment may become an assignee of record by filing with the clerk of the court that entered the judgment an acknowledgment of assignment of judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 673(a)]. The contents and requirements for an acknowledgment of assignment of judgment are set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 673(b) and (c) [see § 318.442]. Once an assignee becomes an assignee of record, he or she becomes a judgment creditor and may proceed to enforce the judgment as such, pursuant to the Enforcement of Judgments Law (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 680.010-724.260) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 680.240; California Coastal Commission v. Allen (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 322, 327, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 906 (Code Civ. Proc. § 673 sets forth procedure for assignee to enforce judgment, not for judgment debtor to challenge assignment); for discussion and forms relating to enforcement of judgments, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments].

When a transfer of interest in an action has occurred before or during an appeal by way of an assignment of the judgment, the court may allow the person to whom transfer is made to be substituted in the action or proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 368.5]. Although the assignee may allow the prosecution of the appeal in the name of the original plaintiff (assignor), substitution may be desirable in that an assignee who does not give actual notice to the defendant of the assignment will not be entitled to receive notice of motions as a party unless actually substituted as a party under Code Civ. Proc. § 368.5 [Kaplan v. Hacker (1952) 113 Cal. App. 2d 571, 573, 248 P.2d 464 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 385)].

It should also be noted that where an assignment of a judgment is based on an action for a debt upon which the judgment was obtained, reversal of the judgment will not affect the assignee's right to the underlying debt upon which the assignment was based [North v. Evans (1934) 1 Cal. App. 2d 64, 67, 36 P.2d 133] .

Where there is no right to contribution or indemnification, as in the case of joint tortfeasors, the payment of the judgment by one of the several judgment debtors in exchange for an assignment of the judgment will not thereby create a right to contribution nor prevent satisfaction of judgment from being entered [Ramey v. Myers (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 82, 92, 323 P.2d 805] . On the other hand, where a right to contribution or indemnification exists, one of several judgment debtors may pay the judgment creditor for an as signment of the judgment and thereby preserve his or her right to such contribution or indemnification [Williams v. Riehl (1899) 127 Cal. 365, 368, 59 P. 762] . Such payment and assignment must, however, be relatively contemporaneous so that it will not appear that the assignment is made to revise a judgment which has already been extinguished by payment [*see National Bank v. Even in the absence of such consent or ratification, however, the assignee of a portion of the judgment will be protected as against the obligation of the assignor to pay to the assignee such sums of the judgment as were the subject of the partial assignment. For example, the assignor may not settle the case on appeal and stipulate to an amount of a final judgment which would defeat the rights of the assignee to payment of sums due on the partial assignment [*Rowe v. G. Actions On Domestic, Sister State, And Foreign Judgments

§ 318.180 Actions on Domestic Judgments

[1] Nature of Action

An action upon a judgment is an action based on a contract in that the judgment becomes a debt which the judgment debtor is obligated to pay. The law, in effect, implies a contract on the part of the judgment debtor to pay [Minor v. Minor (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 277, 279, 345 P.2d 954] . Such actions have long been recognized in California [Thomas v. Thomas (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 355, 358, 94 P.2d 810] .

An action on a judgment may be brought against both a private defendant [see Code Civ. Proc § 683.050; Green v. Zissis (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1219, 1222, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 406 ; Pratali v. Gates (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 632, 636-637, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 733] and a local public entity defendant [see Barkley v. City of Blue Lake (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 1745, 1750-1751, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 315] , if brought within 10 years after the judgment became final [see Code Civ. Proc. § 337.5; Barkley v. City of Blue Lake (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 1745, 1750-1751, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 315 ; Green v. Zissis (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1219, 1222, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 406 ; see also Pratali v. Gates (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 632, 636-637, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 733 (statute of limitations is tolled while judgment debtor is out of state)].

[2] Reasons for Bringing Action on Domestic Judgments

[a] To Invoke Contempt Powers of Another Court

Actions on domestic judgments are not limited to recovery on money judgments alone. They are allowed whenever the plaintiff will secure some advantage by bringing the action, including the convenience of prosecuting the judgment through the contempt powers of a local forum rather than through those of a distant court. For example, when one spouse is attempting to enforce a court order for the payment of alimony, an action on that judgment may be brought in another county in which the pursuit of such enforcement may be more convenient to plaintiff [Thomas v. Thomas (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 355, 358-359, 94 P.2d 810] .

[b] To Preserve Priority of Judgment Lien

When a judgment is rendered in an action on a prior judgment, the second judgment is regarded as an extension of the first. Accordingly, a judgment lien created under the first judgment is preserved and retains its priority after a subsequent action has been brought on the judgment [Provisor v. Nelson (1965) 44 Cal. Rptr. 894] .

[c] To Foreclose Lien

Execution will not lie on a judgment in which a lien is expressly created by the judgment on particular property in the absence of some provision in the judgment ordering sale of the security. In such a case, the judgment creditor must bring a separate action to foreclose the lien created by the judgment [Roseburg Loggers, Inc. v. U.S. Plywood-Champion Papers, Inc. (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 742, 748, 122 Cal. Rptr. 567, 537 P.2d 399 ; Wellborn v. Wellborn (1942) 55 Cal. App. 2d 516, 520, 131 P.2d 48] .

[d] To Assert Statutory Cause of Action Against Third Person

In some instances, the judgment creditor may have a statutory right to bring an action on the judgment against a third party. For example, certain types of insurance polices cannot be issued without a provision that whenever judgment is secured against the insured or the executor or administrator of a deceased insured in an action based upon bodily injury, death, or property damage, then an action may be brought against the insurer on the policy and subject to its terms and limitations by the judgment creditor to recover on the judgment [Ins. Code § 11580]. For a detailed discussion and form relating to such actions, see Ch. 88, Automobiles: Automobile Insurance .

Similarly, a joint debtor against whom a judgment has been recovered has a statutory right to bring an action against other joint debtors [Code Civ. Proc. § 989]. For a detailed discussion and forms relating to joint debtor proceedings, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments .

[3] Requirement of Finality

An action on a judgment, as distinguished from execution on a judgment, may not be commenced until the judgment has become final either upon expiration of the period within which an appeal may be taken or, if an appeal is taken, upon the issuance of the re mittitur when the judgment has been affirmed [Hoover v. Galbraith (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 519, 526, 102 Cal. Rptr. 733, 498 P.2d 981] . The statute of limitations [see Code Civ. Proc. § 337.5 (10 years)] on domestic judgments begins to run only after the date that the judgment becomes final [Turner v. Donovan (1942) 52 Cal. App. 2d 236, 239, 126 P.2d 187 , cert. denied, 317 U.S. 599] . For an action to renew a stipulated judgment, the 10-year statute of limitations to renew the judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 337.5(3) begins to run when the trial court enters the stipulated judgment, unless the parties agree to the judgment for the purpose of facilitating an appeal [Cadle Co. II, Inc. v. Sundance Financial, Inc. (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 622, 624-626, 64 Cal. Rptr. 3d 824] .

[4] Availability of Alternative Enforcement

The fact that one may be entitled to enforce an existing judgment by execution does not prohibit an action to obtain a new judgment on a balance due upon a former judgment. This is true since the enforcement of judgments by both execution and actions cannot be properly placed upon the same basis because they are different in theory and results [Turner v. Donovan (1942) 52 Cal. App. 2d 236, 240, 126 P.2d 187 , cert. denied, 317 U.S. 599] .

A judgment creditor may decide to file an action on a judgment as an alternative to execution of judgment, if the period for obtaining an execution of judgment has expired but the period for filing an action on the judgment has not and there is no other means of enforcing the judgment except by action on the judgment [Barkley v. City of Blue Lake (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 1745, 1749, 1751, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 315 ; Green v. Zissis (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1219, 1222, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 406] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Actions On Domestic, Sister State, And Foreign Judgments

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.181

§ 318.181 Actions on Sister State Judgments

[1] Generally

U.S. Const., art. IV, § 1, provides that full faith and credit must be given in each state to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of every other state. Hence, a sister state judgment must be given full faith and credit in California if it is valid and regular on its face, is rendered by a sister state that had jurisdiction over the parties and the subject matter, and all interested parties were given reasonable notice and opportunity to be heard, regardless of whether or not a strong public policy of the state of California would have precluded recovery in a California court on the original claim [Silbrico Corp. v. Raanan (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 202, 207-208, 216 Cal. Rptr. 201 ; Estate of Hart (1984) 165 Cal. App. 3d 392, 397, 209 Cal. Rptr. 272 ; World Wide Imports, Inc. v. Bartel (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 1006, 1010-1011, 193 Cal. Rptr. 830 ; Seabron v. Seabron (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d 374, 375, 284 P.2d 117 ; but see Medical Legal Consulting Services, Inc. v. Covarrubias (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 80, 90-91, 285 Cal. Rptr. 559 (acknowledging "important interest" exception to full faith and credit under Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 103, but holding exception inapplicable on facts)]. No greater effect can be given to any judgment of a court in another state than is given to it in the state where rendered. However, the usual and legitimate purpose of suing on a foreign judgment is to reach assets which cannot be reached elsewhere, thus giving greater efficacy to the judgment [Weir v. Corbett (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 290, 294-295, 40 Cal. Rptr. 161] .

The effect of a judicial record of a sister state is generally the same in California as in the state where it was made, except that it can only be enforced in California by an action or special proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1913(a) (as amended operative July 1, 1989)]. However, the authority of a guardian, conservator, or committee, or of a personal representative, does not extend beyond the jurisdiction of the government under which that person was invested with authority, except to the extent expressly authorized by statute [Code Civ. Proc. § 1913(b)].

[2] Types of Judgments Enforceable

The types of sister state judgments which have been enforced in California are numerous. They include child support orders [Farmers & Merchants Trust Co. v. Madeira (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 503, 508, 68 Cal. Rptr. 184] , money judgments [Sanpietro v. Collins (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 203, 207, 58 Cal. Rptr. 219] , child custody decrees [In re

Walker (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 217, 221-222, 39 Cal. Rptr. 243] , equity decrees [Rozan v. Rozan (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 322, 331, 317 P.2d 11] , divorce decrees [Worthley v. Worthley (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 465, 474, 283 P.2d 19] , deficiency judgments [Gill v. Wolf (1948) 190 P.2d 52] , and specific performance for the conveyance of real property located in California [Redwood Inv. Co. v. Exley (1923) 64 Cal. App. 455, 459, 221 P. 973] .

Penal judgments of sister states are not, however, enforceable [Farmers & Merchants Trust Co. v. Madeira (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 503, 508, 68 Cal. Rptr. 184] .

[3] Grounds for Denying Enforcement of Sister State Judgments

[a] Pending or Conditional Judgments

Generally, a sister state judgment must be final and unconditional in order to be the subject of a California action [Witkin, 8 California Procedure (3d ed 1985), Enforcement of Judgment, § 403; but see Farmers & Merchants Trust Co. v. Madeira (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 503, 506-508, 68 Cal. Rptr. 184 (support order of sister state enforceable in California as a matter of comity, although subject to modification under the law of that state)]. A sister state judgment unstayed but under appeal in that state is, however, final for purposes of affording it full faith and credit [Little v. Stevens (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 112, 113-114, 99 Cal. Rptr. 885] .

[b] Judgment Void for Lack of Jurisdiction

A judgment of a sister state having no jurisdiction to render the judgment is not entitled to full faith and credit and enforcement by another state [Sanpietro v. Collins (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 203, 208, 58 Cal. Rptr. 219] . The invalidity of a foreign judgment is permitted to be shown by extrinsic evidence, including evidence that process on which the judgment was based was never served [Nelson v. Horvath (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 1, 3, 84 Cal. Rptr. 101] .

However, a collateral attack for jurisdictional defect is not available if the attacking party litigated or could have litigated the jurisdictional issue in the forum court. In such a case, the judgment is res judicata as to the forum court's jurisdiction and cannot be challenged by collateral attack in a later proceeding [St. Sava Mission Corp. v. Serbian Eastern Orthodox Diocese (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1354, 1364, 273 Cal. Rptr. 340 ; In re Marriage of Hanley (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1109, 1120, 245 Cal. Rptr. 441] . For further discussion, see Ch. 491, Res Judicata .

[c] Judgment Not Enforceable in State of Rendition

The Full Faith and Credit Clause of the Constitution [U.S. Const., art. IV, § 1] demands only that the judgment of a sister state receive as much recognition in California as it would in the state rendering the judgment [Farley v. Farley (1964) 227 Cal. App. 2d 1, 6, 38 Cal. Rptr. 357 , cert. denied, 379 U.S. 945] . It is well settled that both the validity and effect of a judgment are governed by the laws of the state where it is rendered. It follows, then, that the use of the sister state judgment in an action on that judgment should not enlarge or extend its effect beyond that which would be accorded by the rendering state. For example, an action to enforce a personal liability cannot be maintained on a judgment unless it adjudicates such personal liability [Gilmer v. Spitalny (1948) 84 Cal. App. 2d 39, 44, 189 P.2d 744] . Similarly, if the judgment of the sister state is void for lack of jurisdiction and subject to collateral attack in that state, it is not binding in California [Farley v. Farley (1964) 227 Cal. App. 2d 1, 6, 38 Cal. Rptr. 357 , cert. denied, 379 U.S. 945] .

[d] Judgment Subsequently Superseded

A judgment rendered in one state will not be recognized or enforced in another state if an inconsistent, but valid, judgment is subsequently rendered in another action between the parties and if the earlier judgment is superseded by the later judgment under the law of the state in which the later judgment was rendered. This is the case even if the court that rendered the later judgment denied full faith and credit to the first judgment or made other errors of fact or law. The rationale for this rule is based on principles of full faith and credit and res judicata. The losing party should be precluded from attacking the later inconsistent judgment if he or she has not sought appellate review of that judgment [In re Marriage of Hanley (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1109, 1117-1118, 245 Cal. Rptr. 441] .

[e] Conflicting Judgment in State of Current Action

When courts of different jurisdictions have reached different results on the same issue and when the first of the conflicting decisions was rendered by a court of the state in which the current action is pending, that decision takes precedence over the court of a sister state [Stuart v. Lilves (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 1215, 1221, 258 Cal. Rptr. 780] . This result is based on the determination by California courts that the full faith and credit clause does not require California courts to give greater faith and credit to judgments of courts of other states than to those of California, or require California courts to ignore California judgments [see Stuart v. Lilves (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 1215, 1221, 258 Cal. Rptr. 780 (citing Hammell v. Britton (1941) 19 Cal. 2d 72, 84, 119 P.2d 333)]. For example, when a plaintiff applied in a California court for entry of a favorable sister-state judgment, the defendant was entitled to an order vacating that judgment on the ground that the sister state failed to give full faith and credit to an earlier California judgment that was unfavorable to the plaintiff [Stuart v. Lilves (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 1215, 1221, 258 Cal. Rptr. 780] .

[4] Controlling Law

In the absence of a violation of federal constitutional rights, the law of the state where the judgment was rendered determines the validity and finality of the judgment [Krofcheck v. Ensign Co. (1980) 112 Cal. App. 3d 558, 564, 169 Cal. Rptr. 516 ; Smith v. Smith (1952) 115 Cal. App. 2d 92, 99, 251 P.2d 720] . The enforcement procedures which will be afforded the foreign judgment, however, are governed by the law of the forum [Weir v. Corbett (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 290, 293, 40 Cal. Rptr. 161] . Accordingly, California courts have applied the California statute of limitations to actions on a sister state judgment, regardless of the fact that the local time limit is shorter than the period of limitation of the sister state [Weir v. Corbett (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 290, 294, 40 Cal. Rptr. 161] . Similarly, the enforcement of a sister state judgment may be pursued according to more liberal enforcement procedures in California [Petersen v. Petersen (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 201, 206, 100 Cal. Rptr. 822] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Actions On Domestic, Sister State, And Foreign Judgments

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.182

§ 318.182 Sister State Money-Judgments Act

[1] Purpose

The Sister State Money-Judgments Act (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1710.10-1710.65) provides a simplified alternative to the common law action of debt sur record for establishing a foreign money judgment as a judgment enforceable in California [Epps v. Russell (1976) 62 Cal. App. 3d 201, 203, 133 Cal. Rptr. 30] . Prior to the enactment of the Act, the exclusive way to enforce a sister state money judgment in California was to bring an action on the judgment; when that California judgment was obtained, execution could then issue. This process involves all of the procedures and requirements of an original action. The judgment creditor is required to file a complaint based upon personal or quasi in rem jurisdiction and thereafter obtain a writ of attachment to preserve the assets until such time as a writ of execution may issue. A trial must be held, at which time the judgment debtor may raise any defense to the validity of the sister state judgment. After entry of the California judgment, the judgment creditor may then seek execution on the debtor's assets in the sister state. This process was heavily criticized as time consuming and inefficient. Therefore, the Sister State Money-Judgments Act was enacted to offer, as an alternative to such actions, a registration procedure by which such sister state judgments may be enforced [California Law Revision Commission Recommendation to Enforcement of Sister State Money Judgments (November 1973) at page 457].

It is important to note, however, that the Act specifically provides that it does not affect any right a judgment creditor may have to bring an action to enforce a sister state judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.60(a)]. Further, the provisions of the Act specify that the entry of a judgment based on a sister state judgment pursuant to the Act does not limit the right of the judgment creditor to bring an action based on the part of a judgment of a sister state which does not require the payment of money, nor does the bringing of such an action limit the right of the judgment creditor to obtain entry of judgment based on the sister state judgment pursuant to the Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.65; see also Aspen Internat. Capital Corp. v. Marsch (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1199, 1203, 286 Cal. Rptr. 921] .

[2] Definitions

[a] Sister State Judgment

The term "sister state judgment" as used in the Act means that part of any judgment, decree, or order that a court of a state of the United States, other than California, which requires the payment of money, but does not include a support order [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.10(c); see Neuman v. Barbera (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 437, 441-442, 210 Cal. Rptr. 556] . The enforcement of support orders is governed by Fam. Code § 4800 et seq. (Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act). For discussion and forms of support orders, see Ch. 260, Family Law Enforcement: Foreign Judgments .

[b] Judgment Creditor

The term "judgment creditor" as used in the Act means the person or persons who can bring an action to enforce a sister state judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.10(a)].

[c] Judgment Debtor

The term "judgment debtor" as used in the Act means the person or persons against whom an action to enforce a sister state judgment can be brought [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.10(b)].

[3] Application by Judgment Creditor for Entry of Judgment

A judgment creditor may apply for the entry of a judgment based on a sister state judgment by filing an application [see § 318.463] with the proper court as determined under Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.20 [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.15(a); see discussion in § 318.182[5]].

[4] Contents of Application

[a] Statutory Requirements

The application must be executed under oath and include all of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.15(b)]:

- A statement that an action in California on the sister state judgment is not barred by the applicable statute of limitations.

- A statement, based on the applicant's information and belief, that no stay of enforcement of the sister state judgment is currently in effect in the sister state.

- A statement of the amount remaining unpaid under the sister state judgment. If accrued interest on the sister state judgment is sought to be included, a statement of its amount, a statement of the rate of interest applicable under the law of the sister state (by which the amount stated must be computed), and a citation to the sister state law establishing the rate of interest.

- A statement that no action based on the sister state judgment is currently pending in any court in California and that no judgment based on the sister state judgment has previously been entered in any proceeding in California.

- Where the judgment debtor is an individual, a statement setting forth the name and last known residence address of the judgment debtor. Where the judgment debtor is a corporation, a statement of the corporation's name, place of incorporation, and whether the corporation, if foreign, has qualified to do business in California. Where the judgment debtor is a partnership, a statement of the name of the partnership, whether it is a foreign partnership, and whether it has filed a statement designating an agent for service of process. Except for facts which are matters of public record in California, the statements required may be made on the basis of the judgment creditor's information and belief.

- A statement setting forth the name and address of the judgment creditor.

[b] Authenticated Copy of Sister State Judgment Required

A properly authenticated copy of the sister state judgment must be attached to the application [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.15(c)].

[5] Jurisdiction and Venue

A case in which the sister state judgment amounts to $25,000 or less is a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.20(c)]. In limited civil cases, the application must be filed in a superior court as a limited civil case. In all other cases it must be filed in a superior court as other than a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.20(a); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 32.5].

Subject to the court's power to transfer the proceedings under the venue statutes [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 392-404.8], the proper county for the filing of the application is (1) the county in which the judgment debtor resides; or, (2) any county in California if no judgment debtor is a resident [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.20(b); for detailed discussion and forms relating to venue, see Ch. 571, Venue].

[6] Entering Judgment

On the filing of the application, the clerk enters a judgment based on the application for the total of the following amounts as shown therein: (1) the amount remaining unpaid under the sister state judgment; (2) the amount of interest accrued on the sister state judgment; and (3) the amount of the fee for filing the application for entry of the sister state judgment. The interest on the sister state judgment is computed at the rate of interest applicable to the judgment under the law of the sister state [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.25(a)].

Entry is made in the same manner as entry of an original judgment of the court. From the time of entry, interest accrues on the judgment so entered at the rate of interest applicable to a judgment in this state [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.25(b)].

The judgment so entered may be amended to correct clerical errors [Aspen Internat. Capital Corp. v. Marsch (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1199, 1204-1205, 286 Cal. Rptr. 921 (amendment to conform to original Colorado decree)]. For discussion of clerical error generally, see § 318.360[3].

[7] Serving Notice of Judgment

Notice of entry of judgment must be served promptly by the judgment creditor upon the judgment debtor in the manner provided for service of summons by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10-415.50. Notice must be in a form prescribed by the Judicial Council, [see § 318.464] and must inform the judgment debtor that he or she has 30 days within which to make a motion to vacate the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.30; see § 318.465].

Actual knowledge by the judgment debtor of entry of judgment does not commence the running of the 30-day period [Tsakos Shipping & Trading, S.A. v. Juniper Garden Town Homes, Ltd. (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 74, 84, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 585] .

[8] Effect of Judgment; Enforcement

Except as otherwise provided by the Sister State Money-Judgments Act, a judgment entered in this fashion has the same effect as an original money judgment of the court and may be enforced or satisfied in the same manner [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.35].

[9] Grounds for Vacating Judgment

A judgment entered in this fashion may be vacated on any ground which would be a defense to an action in California on the sister state judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.40(a); see, e.g., Arizona Dept. of Revenue v. Yuen (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 169, 178-180, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 525 (judgment void for lack of jurisdiction in Arizona not enforceable in California); Airlines Reporting Corp. v. Renda (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 14, 19-22, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 66 (judgment void for lack of jurisdiction in sister state not enforceable in California)].

[10] Statute of Limitations

The filing of an application to register a sister state money judgment is governed by the 10-year statute of limitations provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 337.5. This filing tolls the statute with respect to the judgment creditor's right to bring the action [Epps v. Russell (1976) 62 Cal. App. 3d 201, 204, 133 Cal. Rptr. 30] .

[11] Motion to Vacate Judgment

Not later than 30 days after service of the notice of entry of judgment, the judgment debtor, on written notice [see § 318.465] to the judgment creditor, may make a motion to vacate the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.40(b)].

[12] Issuance of Writ of Execution

In most instances, a writ of execution on a judgment entered pursuant to the Sister State Money-Judgments Act may not issue until at least 30 days after the judgment creditor serves notice of entry of the judgment [see § 318.464] upon the judgment debtor, proof of which has been made according to Code Civ. Proc. § 417.10 [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.45(a)]. However, a writ of execution may be issued before service of the notice of entry of judgment if the judgment debtor is any of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.45(b)]:

- An individual who does not reside in California.

- A foreign corporation not qualified to do business in California under the provisions of Corp. Code §§ 2100-2116.

- A foreign partnership which has not filed a statement pursuant to Corp. Code § 15800 designating an agent for service of process.

In addition, the court may order that a writ of execution be issued before service of the notice of entry of judgment if the court finds upon an ex parte showing that great or irreparable injury would result to the judgment creditor if issuance of the writ were delayed for 30 days as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.45(a) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.45(c)].

Property levied on pursuant to a writ of execution issued under Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.45(b) or (c) must not be sold or distributed before 30 days after the judgment creditor serves notice of entry of judgment upon the judgment debtor, proof of which has been made in the manner provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 417.10-417.40. However, if the property levied upon is perishable, it may be sold in order to prevent its destruction or loss of value. The proceeds, however, must not be distributed to the judgment creditor before the date sale of nonperishable property is permissible [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.45(d)].

[13] Stay of Enforcement

The court must grant a stay of enforcement when [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.50(a)]:

- An appeal from the sister state judgment is pending or may be taken in the state which originally rendered the judgment. Enforcement must be stayed until the proceedings on appeal have been concluded or the time for appeal has expired.

- A stay of enforcement of the sister state judgment has been granted in the sister state. Enforcement is then stayed until the sister state stay of enforcement is vacated or expires.

- The judgment debtor has made a motion to vacate pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.40. Enforcement is then stayed until the motion to vacate is determined.

- Any other circumstance exists where the interests of justice require a stay of enforcement.

The court may grant a stay of enforcement on its own motion, on ex parte motion, or on noticed motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.50(b); see § 318.466].

The court can grant a stay of enforcement on such terms and conditions as are just, including but not limited to the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.50(c)]:

- The court may require an undertaking in an amount it determines to be just, but the amount of the undertaking may not exceed double the amount of the judgment creditor's claim.

- If a writ of execution has been issued, the court may order that it remain in effect.

- If property of the judgment debtor has been levied under a writ of execution, the court may order the levying officer to retain possession of the property capable of physical possession and to maintain the levy on other property.

[14] Limitations on Entry of Judgment Based on Sister State Judgment

No judgment based on a sister state judgment may be entered in any of the following cases [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.55]:

- A stay of enforcement of the sister state judgment is currently in effect in the sister state.

- An action based on the sister state judgment is currently pending in any court in California.

- A judgment based on the sister state judgment has previously been entered in any proceeding in California.

[15] Enforcing Sister State Judgments

Except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.60(b), the provisions of the Sister State Money-Judgments Act do not affect any right a judgment creditor may have to bring an action to enforce a sister state judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.60(a)]. However, no action to enforce a sister state judgment may be brought if a judgment entered under that Act has previously been entered [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.60(b)].

[16] Entry of Judgment as No Limit to Other Actions

The entry of a judgment based on a sister state judgment pursuant to the Sister State Money-Judgments Act does not limit the right of the judgment creditor to bring an action based on the part of a judgment of a sister state which does not require the payment of money, nor does the bringing of such an action limit the right of the judgment creditor to obtain entry of judgment based on the sister state judgment pursuant to the Sister State Money-Judgments Act [Code Civ.

Proc. § 1710.65].

§ 318.183 Former (Pre-2008) Uniform Foreign Money-Judgments Recognition Act

[1] Application and Definitions

The former (pre-2008) Uniform Foreign Money-Judgments Recognition Act [former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713 et seq.], which was repealed operative January 1, 2008 [see Stats 2007 ch. 212 § 1], continues to apply to all actions commenced before January 1, 2008, in which the issue of recognition of a foreign-country judgment is raised [Code Civ. Proc. § 1724(b)]. Because of the continuing application of the former law to pending actions, detailed discussion of the former statute is included here.

Caution:

All actions commenced on or after January 1, 2008, in which the issue of recognition of a foreign-country judgment is raised [Code Civ. Proc. § 1724(a)] are subject to the successor version of the statute, known as the Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 1724(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1713 et seq.]. The Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act is discussed in § 318.184.

A "foreign judgment" is one rendered by a foreign state granting or denying recovery of a sum of money, other than a judgment for taxes, a fine or other penalty, or a judgment for support in matrimonial or family matters [former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.1(2) (repealed 1/1/08); see In re Marriage of Lyustiger (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 1367, 1373-1377, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 922 , (former Code Civ. Proc.§ 1713 inapplicable to foreign support order); Java Oil Limited v. Sullivan (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 1178, 1186-1189, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 177 (attorney's fees award in foreign judgment not "penalty")]. A "foreign state" means any governmental unit other than the United States, or any state, district, commonwealth, territory, insular possession thereof, or the Panama Canal Zone or the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands [former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.1(1) (repealed 1/1/08)].

Based on the directive of former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.3 (repealed 1/1/08) that foreign judgments be enforced in the same manner as sister state judgments, the 10-year statute of limitations applicable to actions on sister state judgments set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 337.5 also applies to actions on foreign judgments [Manco Contracting Company v. Bezdikian (2008) 45 Cal. 4th 192, 204-210, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 233, 195 P.3d 604] . This is true regardless of whether the action is styled as a claim for "recognition" or "enforcement" or "domestication" [Manco Contracting Company v. Bezdikian (2008) 45 Cal. 4th 192, 208, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 233, 195 P.3d 604] .

[2] Conclusiveness; Effect of Appeal

Except as discussed below, a foreign judgment as defined in [1], above, is conclusive between the parties to the extent that it grants or denies recovery of a sum of money. The foreign judgment is enforceable in the same manner as the judgment of a sister state which is entitled to full faith and credit, except that it may not be enforced in the same manner as a sister state money judgment under the Sister State Money-Judgments Act [former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.3 (repealed 1/1/08)]. Such recognition is afforded to any foreign judgment that is final and conclusive and enforceable where rendered even though an appeal therefrom is pending or it is subject to appeal [former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.2 (repealed 1/1/08)].

When a foreign judgment is appealed, and the foreign nation's law provides that a judgment on appeal is not final, former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.2 (repealed 1/1/08) does not permit a California court to recognize the judgment [Manco Contracting Company v. Bezdikian (2008) 45 Cal. 4th 192, 198-204, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 233, 195 P.3d 604] .

[3] Situations In Which Foreign Judgments Not Conclusive

[a] Due Process Violation

A foreign judgment is not conclusive if the judgment was rendered under a system which does not provide impartial tribunals or procedures compatible with the requirements of due process of law [former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.4(a)(1) (repealed 1/1/08)].

[b] Lack of Personal Jurisdiction

The foreign judgment is not conclusive if the foreign court did not have personal jurisdiction over the defendant [former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.4(a)(2) (repealed 1/1/08)]. For example, a foreign country may acquire personal jurisdiction over the defendant only by effective service of process. Although service of process by mail in a foreign country is not automatically objectionable and, in appropriate instances, may result in the acquisition by a foreign court of personal jurisdiction over a defendant, the process served must give the defendant sufficient notice of the pending foreign proceeding to satisfy requirements of due process. Notice is legally sufficient if it is reasonably calculated to impact knowledge of an impending action. While documents in a foreign language are not required to be translated into English in order to be validly served, at minimum a defendant should be informed in the language of the jurisdiction in which he or she is served that a legal action of a specific nature is pending at a particular time and place. Normally, this information should include the location of the pending action, the amount involved, the date the defendant is required to respond, and the possible consequences of failure to respond [Julen v. Larson (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 325, 327-328, 101 Cal. Rptr. 796] .

[c] Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction

A foreign judgment is not conclusive if the foreign court did not have jurisdiction over the subject matter of the cause of action [former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.4(a)(3) (repealed 1/1/08)].

[4] Situations In Which Foreign Judgment Need Not Be Recognized

A foreign judgment need not be recognized if [former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.4(b) (repealed 1/1/08)]:

- The defendant in the proceedings in the foreign court did not receive notice of the proceedings in sufficient time to enable him or her to defend;

- The judgment was obtained by extrinsic fraud;

- The cause of action or defense on which the judgment is based is repugnant to the public policy of California [see Pentz v. Kuppinger (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 590, 597, 107 Cal. Rptr. 540] ;

- The judgment conflicts with another final and conclusive judgment;

- The proceeding in the foreign court was contrary to an agreement between the parties under which the dispute in question was to be settled otherwise than by proceedings in that court; or

- In the case of jurisdiction based only on personal service, the foreign court was a seriously inconvenient forum for the trial of the action.

[5] Bases of Personal Jurisdiction

[a] In General

A foreign judgment must not be refused recognition for lack of personal jurisdiction if [former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.5(a) (repealed 1/1/08)]:

- The defendant was served personally in the foreign state;

- The defendant voluntarily appeared in the proceedings, other than for the purpose of protecting property seized or threatened with seizure in the proceedings or of contesting the jurisdiction of the court over him or her;

- The defendant prior to the commencement of the proceedings had agreed to submit to the jurisdiction with respect to the subject matter involved;

- The defendant was domiciled in the foreign state when the proceedings were instituted, or, being a body corporate had its principal place of business, was incorporated, or had otherwise acquired corporate status, in the foreign state;

- The defendant had a business office in the foreign state and the proceedings in the foreign court involved a cause of action arising out of business done by the defendant through that office in the foreign state; or

- The defendant operated a motor vehicle or airplane in the foreign state and the proceedings involved a cause of action arising out of such an operation.

[b] Judicial Recognition of Other Bases

The courts of the State of California may recognize other bases of jurisdiction as well as those listed above [former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.5(b) (repealed 1/1/08)].

[6] Stay Pending Appeal

If the defendant satisfies the court either that an appeal is pending or that he or she is entitled and intends to appeal from the foreign judgment, the court may stay the proceedings until the appeal from the foreign judgment has been determined or until the expiration of a period of time sufficient to enable the defendant to prosecute an appeal [former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.6 (repealed 1/1/08)]. If the judgment debtor will provide adequate security for the payment of the judgment and no prejudice to the creditors appears, it is an abuse of discretion for the court to refuse the stay [Stevens v. Superior Court (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 1, 4, 104 Cal. Rptr. 369] .

[7] Conversion Date

When a foreign judgment for money in a foreign currency is established in California under the Uniform Foreign Money-Judgment Recognition Act [former Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1713-1713.8 (repealed 1/1/08)], the amount of the judgment, together with any interest awarded, must normally be converted to American dollars, using the exchange rate that was in effect at the time the foreign judgment was rendered. The fact that there have been intervening fluctuations in the value of a foreign currency relative to American currency is not taken into account by the California courts unless the parties had an agreement that one side alone would bear the risk of postjudgment currency fluctuations [Pecaflor Construction Co. v. Landes (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 342, 344-345, 350, 243 Cal. Rptr. 605] .

[8] Foreign Judgments Not Covered by Act

Statutory provisions covering specific types of foreign judgments do not prevent the recognition or nonrecognition of other foreign judgments not specifically covered by Uniform Foreign Money-Judgments Recognition Act [former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.7 (repealed 1/1/08)].

[9] Enforcement After Recognition

Under the Foreign Money-Judgments Recognition Act, a foreign judgment cannot be enforced unless it is entitled to recognition [Renoir v. Redstar Corp. (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1145, 1150, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 603] . However, enforcement of a foreign judgment is different than recognition [see Manco Contracting Company v. Bezdikian (2008) 45 Cal. 4th 192, 205-206, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 233, 195 P.3d 604 ; former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.3 (repealed 1/1/08)]. A foreign judgment may be recognized for various purposes without being enforced [Renoir v. Redstar Corp. (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1145, 1150 n.1, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 603 (whether foreign judgment should be recognized may be in issue, for example, when defendant seeks to rely on prior adjudication of controversy (res judicata), or when either side in litigation seeks to rely on prior determination of issue of fact or law), citing Rest. 3d, The Foreign Relations Law of the United States, § 481, com. b, p. 595)].

A foreign judgment may not be enforced pursuant to the provisions of the Sister-State and Foreign Money-Judgments Act [Renoir v. Redstar Corp. (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1145, 1151, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 603 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.10 et seq.]. Foreign money judgments are enforced by bringing an action in California to obtain a domestic judgment [Renoir v. Redstar Corp. (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1145, 1151, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 603 ; see Hamilton v. Superior Court (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 418, 423, 112 Cal. Rptr. 450].

To enforce a foreign judgment recognized under the Foreign Money-Judgments Act, the party seeking enforcement must comply with the procedures applicable to civil actions, including service of a summons to establish personal jurisdiction. An enforcement proceeding under the Foreign Money-Judgments Act is not a special proceeding in which process is something other than a summons, such as a notice or order to show cause or citation or writ [Renoir v. Redstar Corp. (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1145, 1152, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 603 (by not serving summons, plaintiffs failed to take required steps to obtain personal jurisdiction over defendants to enforce French judgment in California, and brief references to issues related to whether trial court correctly enforced French judgment did not constitute general appearance by defendants); for discussion of service of summons generally, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers]. Knowledge by defendant of plaintiff's action does not satisfy the requirement of adequate service of a summons and complaint [Renoir v. Redstar Corp. (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1145, 1152-1153, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 603] .

Nonmonetary portions of a foreign judgment are not covered by the Foreign Money-Judgments Act. The Act provides for enforcement of any judgment of a foreign state granting or denying recovery of a sum of money [Renoir v. Redstar Corp. (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1145, 1152, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 603 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.1(2)].

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.184

§ 318.184 Current (post-2007) Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act

[1] Application

The Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 1713 et seq.] applies to all actions commenced on or after January 1, 2008, in which the issue of recognition of a foreign-country judgment is raised [Code Civ. Proc. § 1724(a); for the definition of what constitutes a foreign-country judgment under the act, see [2], below].

CAUTION:
The former Uniform Foreign Money-Judgments Recognition Act [former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713 et seq. (repealed 1/1/08)] continues to apply to all actions commenced before January 1, 2008, in which the issue of recognition of a foreign-country judgment is raised [Code Civ. Proc. § 1724(b)]. The former Uniform Foreign Money-Judgments Recognition Act is discussed in § 318.183.

The Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act applies to a foreign-country judgment to the extent that the judgment does both of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 1715(a)]:

- Grants or denies recovery of a sum of money; and
- Under the law of the foreign country where rendered, is final, conclusive, and enforceable.

However, the Act does not apply to a foreign-country judgment, even if the judgment grants or denies recovery of a sum of money, to the extent that the judgment is any of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 1715(b)]:

- A judgment for taxes.
- A fine or other penalty.
- A judgment for divorce, support, or maintenance, or other judgment rendered in connection with domestic relations. However, a judgment for divorce, support, or maintenance, or other judgment rendered in connection with domestic relations may be recognized by a California court pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1723 [see below].

In applying and construing the Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act, California courts are required to give consideration to the need to promote uniformity of the law with respect to its subject matter among states that enact it [Code Civ. Proc. § 1722].

The Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act does not prevent the recognition, under principles of comity or otherwise, of a foreign-country judgment not within the scope of the Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 1723].

[2] Definitions

A "foreign country" under the Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act is a government other than any of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 1714(a)]:

- The United States.
- A state, district, commonwealth, territory, or insular possession of the United States.
- Any other government with regard to which the decision in California as to whether to recognize a judgment of that government's courts is initially subject to determination under the Full Faith and Credit Clause of the United States Constitution.

A "foreign-country judgment" is a judgment of a court of a foreign country. It also includes a judgment by any Indian tribe recognized by the government of the United States [Code Civ. Proc. § 1714(b)].

[3] General Rule Favoring Recognition

Except as otherwise provided in the Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act, a California court must recognize a foreign-country judgment to which the Act applies [Code Civ. Proc. § 1716(a); for the definition of what constitutes a foreign-country judgment under the act, see [2], above].

[4] Burden of Establishing Grounds for Recognition or Nonrecognition

A party seeking recognition of a foreign-country judgment has the burden of establishing that the foreign-country judgment is entitled to recognition under the Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 1715(c)]. When the party seeking recognition of a foreign-country judgment has met its burden of establishing recognition of the foreign-country judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1715(c)], a party resisting recognition of a foreign-country judgment has the burden of establishing that a ground for nonrecognition exists [Code Civ. Proc. § 1716(d); see [5], [6], below].

[5] Grounds for Nonrecognition

A California court cannot recognize a foreign-country judgment if any of the following apply [Code Civ. Proc. § 1716(b)]:

- The judgment was rendered under a judicial system that does not provide impartial tribunals or procedures compatible with the requirements of due process of law.
- The foreign court did not have personal jurisdiction over the defendant.

- The foreign court did not have jurisdiction over the subject matter.

However, a California court cannot refuse to recognize a foreign-country judgment for lack of personal jurisdiction if any of the following apply [Code Civ. Proc. § 1717(a)]:

- The defendant was served with process personally in the foreign country.

- The defendant voluntarily appeared in the proceeding, other than for the purpose of protecting property seized or threatened with seizure in the proceeding or of contesting the jurisdiction of the court over the defendant.

- The defendant, before the commencement of the proceeding, had agreed to submit to the jurisdiction of the foreign court with respect to the subject matter involved.

- The defendant was domiciled in the foreign country when the proceeding was instituted or was a corporation or other form of business organization that had its principal place of business in, or was organized under the laws of, the foreign country.

- The defendant had a business office in the foreign country and the proceeding in the foreign court involved a cause of action or claim for relief arising out of business done by the defendant through that office in the foreign country.

- The defendant operated a motor vehicle or airplane in the foreign country and the proceeding involved a cause of action or claim for relief arising out of that operation.

The preceding list of bases for personal jurisdiction is not exclusive. California courts may recognize bases of personal jurisdiction other than those listed as sufficient to support a foreign-country judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1717(b)].

[6] Situations in Which Recognition Is Discretionary

A California court is not required to recognize a foreign-country judgment if any of the following apply [Code Civ. Proc. § 1716(c)]:

- The defendant in the proceeding in the foreign court did not receive notice of the proceeding in sufficient time to enable the defendant to defend.

- The judgment was obtained by fraud that deprived the losing party of an adequate opportunity to present its case.

- The judgment or the cause of action or claim for relief on which the judgment is based is repugnant to the public policy of California or of the United States.

- The judgment conflicts with another final and conclusive judgment.

- The proceeding in the foreign court was contrary to an agreement between the parties under which the dispute in question was to be determined otherwise than by proceedings in that foreign court.

- In the case of jurisdiction based only on personal service, the foreign court was a seriously inconvenient forum for the trial of the action.

- The judgment was rendered in circumstances that raise substantial doubt about the integrity of the rendering court with respect to the judgment.

- The specific proceeding in the foreign court leading to the judgment was not compatible with the requirements of due process of law.

[7] Procedure

If recognition of a foreign-country judgment in California is sought as an original matter, the issue of recognition must be raised by filing an action seeking recognition of the foreign-country judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1718(a)]. If recognition of a foreign-country judgment is sought in a pending action, the issue of recognition may be raised by counterclaim, cross-claim, or affirmative defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 1718(b)].

[8] Limitations Period

An action to recognize a foreign-country judgment must be commenced within the earlier of the time during which the foreign-country judgment is effective in the foreign country or 10 years from the date that the foreign-country judgment became effective in the foreign country [Code Civ. Proc. § 1721].

[9] Effect of Recognition

If the court in a recognition proceeding finds that the foreign-country judgment is entitled to recognition under the Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act, to the extent that the foreign-country judgment grants or denies recovery of a sum of money, the foreign-country judgment is both of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 1719]:

- Conclusive between the parties to the same extent as the judgment of a sister state entitled to full faith and credit in California would be conclusive.

- Enforceable in the same manner and to the same extent as a judgment rendered in California.

[10] Effect of Foreign Appeal

If a party establishes that an appeal from a foreign-country judgment is pending or will be taken in the foreign country, the California court may stay any proceedings with regard to the foreign-country judgment until the appeal is concluded, the time for appeal expires, or the appellant has had sufficient time to prosecute the appeal and has failed to do so [Code Civ. Proc. § 1720].

[1] Confession Judgments

Extraordinary practice of utilizing confession of judgment to collect legal fees characterized as presenting opportunities for overreaching that avoid judicial scrutiny in that practice creates a situation in which client's ignorance of legal matters makes it unlikely that he or she will understand character and effect of instrument; use of confession of judgment by an attorney to collect his or her fees for legal services is improper. Hulland v. State Bar (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 440, 450, 105 Cal. Rptr. 152, 503 P.2d 608

Confession of judgment was improperly entered when attorney signing attorney declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 1132 was not independently representing defendant. Rivercourt Co. Ltd. v. Dyna-Tel, Inc. (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 1477, 1482, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 279

Denial of motion to vacate judgment by confession was error when debtor was advised of rights by creditor's attorney because under Code Civ. Proc. § 1132(b), judgment by confession can only be entered on certification of advisement of debtor's rights by attorney independently representing defendant debtor. Wax v. Infante (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 138, 140-141, 187 Cal. Rptr. 686

Confession of judgment procedure established in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1132(a), 1133, and 1134 violates due process clauses of U.S. Const., amend. XIV, by providing insufficient safeguards to ensure that debtor executed voluntary, knowing, and intelligent waiver of due process rights. Isbell v. County of Sonoma (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 61, 65, 145 Cal. Rptr. 368, 577 P.2d 188

Judgment by confession, entered without knowledge or consent of creditor is invalid for all purposes prior to ratification, being operative neither as a lien, as an estoppel, nor as a merger of the demand. Mechanics Bank of Richmond v. Thole (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 884, 887-889, 98 Cal. Rptr. 82

Attorney's signature to a confession of judgment does not satisfy statutory requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1133

which dictate that debtor must personally sign document; judgment by confession without attorney's signature as void on its face and as able to be set aside at any time. Barnes v. Hilton (1953) 118 Cal. App. 2d 108, 109, 257 P.2d 98

Necessity for defendant's signature and verification of confession of judgment statement. Barnes v. Hilton (1953) 118 Cal. App. 2d 108, 109, 257 P.2d 98

Reversible error of trial court in denying plaintiff's motion to set aside judgment by confession where fee for filing statement of confession required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1134 not paid by plaintiff but by defendant or some third person without knowledge or consent of plaintiff and plaintiff did not consent to entry of judgment; plaintiff's silence and failure to object for five months as not amounting to acceptance. Mechanics Bank of Richmond v. Thole (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 884, 886-889, 98 Cal. Rptr. 82

Consent in advance by debtor to judgment without notice of hearing is not, per se, violative of due process requirement of Fourteenth Amendment of U.S. Constitution. D.H. Overmyer Co. v. Frick Co. (1972) 405 U.S. 174, 185-188, 92 S. Ct. 775, 31 L. Ed. 2d 124 ; Swarb v. Lennox (1972) 405 U.S. 191, 200, 92 S. Ct. 767, 31 L. Ed. 2d 138

[2] Costs and Interest

In Ninth Circuit, for civil money judgments in federal court, strong policy favors prejudgment rate of interest at rate paid on 52-week U.S. Treasury bills, and any departure from rate must be accompanied by reasoned justification. Blanton v. Anzalone (9th Cir. 1987) 813 F.2d 1574

State law governs award of interest in diversity cases brought in federal court. Landsberg v. Scrabble Crossword Game Players, Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 802 F.2d 1193, 1200

Prejudgment interest accrued under Civ. Code § 3291 is not part of judgment and plaintiff cannot obtain interest on that prejudgment interest. Hess v. Ford Motor Co. (2002) 27 Cal. 4th 516, 530-533, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 220, 41 P.3d 46

Accrued postjudgment interest on judgment may be incorporated into principal when judgment is renewed. OCM Principal Opportunities Fund, L.P. v. CIBC World Markets Corp. (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 185, 193, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 350

In wrongful death action, trial court correctly ruled that postjudgment interest runs from date of entry of original judgment on jury verdict rather than from judgment entered following remittitur on first appeal. Ehret v. Congoleum Corp. (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 202, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 370

Confession of judgment is improperly entered when attorney signing attorney declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 1132 was not independently representing defendant. Rivercourt Co. Ltd. v. Dyna-Tel, Inc. (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 1477, 1482, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 279

Local public entity is subject to postjudgment interest under Cal. Const. art. XV, § 1 notwithstanding statement in Gov. Code § 970.1(b) (providing that judgment against local public entity is not enforceable under Code Civ. Proc. § 680.010 et seq.). San Francisco Unified School Dist. v. San Francisco Classroom Teachers Assn. (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 146, 152, 272 Cal. Rptr. 38

When prevailing party appeals on ground that it is entitled to larger recovery, and appellate court modifies recovery upward, new sum generally draws interest from date of entry of original judgment, not from date of new judgment; however, tender by losing party of full amount of judgment pending appeal by prevailing party stops running of interest on judgment when prevailing party refuses to accept payment. General Ins. Co. v. Mammoth Vista Owners' Assn.

Civ. Code § 3291 (judgment bears 10 percent rate of interest from date of first rejected settlement offer under Code Civ. Proc. § 998) and Code Civ. Proc. § 685.010(a) (judgment bears 10 percent rate of interest from date judgment rendered) are applied separately or conjunctively, and not cumulatively, to permit recovery of no more than 10 percent rate of interest. Mendez v. Kurten (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 481, 487, 215 Cal. Rptr. 924

Amendment of Code Civ. Proc. § 685.010 by Stats. 1982, ch. 150, increasing rate of interest on judgments to 10 percent, construed to become effective on January 1, 1983, despite express effective date of January 1, 1982. American National Bank v. Peacock (1985) 165 Cal. App. 3d 1206, 1210-1212, 212 Cal. Rptr. 97

Final judgment for money bears interest from date of entry. Harvey v. Whyte (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 685, 688, 323 P.2d 162

Waiver of interest on judgment where jury in its verdict fails to award interest and defect not called to attention of court before jury is discharged. Wright v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 252, 261-262, 79 Cal. Rptr. 12

Policy of law is that judgment should bear interest from date of rendition of judgment even though subject to direct attack. Myers v. Workmen's Compensation Appeals Bd. (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 621, 629, 83 Cal. Rptr. 427

Judgment is not required to contain direction for payment of interest; obligation for interest follows automatically; where one party deprives another party of money which is rightfully theirs pursuant to court order, that money bears interest from date due at 7 percent. Pinecrest Productions, Inc. v. RKO Teleradio Pictures, Inc. (1970) 92 Cal. Rptr. 44

Tender of judgment, denied by plaintiff seeking new trial, stops running of interest on judgment. Montano v. South Gate (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 446, 449, 91 Cal. Rptr. 523

Judgment bears legal interest from date of its entry in trial court even though subject to direct attack. Stockton Theatres, Inc. v. Palermo (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 439, 442-443, 11 Cal. Rptr. 580, 360 P.2d 76

When judgment is modified upon appeal, whether upward or downward, new sum draws interest from date of entry of original order, and not from date of new judgment. Stockton Theatres, Inc. v. Palermo (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 439, 442-443, 11 Cal. Rptr. 580, 360 P.2d 76

When judgment is reversed on appeal, new award subsequently entered by trial court bears interest only from date of entry of new judgment. Stockton Theatres, Inc. v. Palermo (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 439, 442-443, 11 Cal. Rptr. 580, 360 P.2d 76

Judgment for costs is governed by the law applicable to judgments generally; such awards as separate and complete judgments in themselves. Stockton Theatres, Inc. v. Palermo (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 439, 443, 11 Cal. Rptr. 580, 360 P.2d 76

Whether or not interest is included in damage award by court or jury, award required to bear interest at legal rate during period following rendition of judgment until entry. Dixon Mobile Homes, Inc. v. Walters (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 964, 975, 122 Cal. Rptr. 202

Any final judgment for money bears interest from date of entry at legal rate regardless of whether original claim was liquidated or unliquidated. Dixon Mobile Homes, Inc. v. Walters (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 964, 975, 122 Cal. Rptr. 202

[3] Death of Trial Judge Before Decision Filed

Presiding judge of superior court properly signed and entered judgment in conformity with "Intended Decision" of trial judge who died before hearing on objections to Intended Decision (see Code Civ. Proc. § 635) when there was no indication that deceased judge had contemplated any modification of decision and proposed statement of decision provided complete and adequate basis for appellate review. Leiserson v. City of San Diego (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 41, 48 n.8, 229 Cal. Rptr. 22

[4] Finality

Judgment is final for all purposes when all avenues for direct review have been exhausted. First Western Development Corp. v. Superior Court (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 860, 864, 261 Cal. Rptr. 116

Judgment as final only when it determines all of the rights of the parties and requires no further judicial action to give effect to its provisions. Associated Convalescent Enterprises v. Carl Marks & Co., Inc. (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 116, 121, 108 Cal. Rptr. 782

[5] Form and Substance

Test of sufficiency of judgment as resting in its substance rather than in its form; form of judgment as not very material, provided that in substance it shows distinctly and not inferentially that matter has been determined in favor of one of the litigants or that the rights of the parties in litigation have been adjudicated. Oppenheimer v. Deutchman (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 501, 503, 326 P.2d 883

Judgment for recovery of specific personal property as properly specifying value of each item claimed so that if only part of the property can be found, the party obtaining judgment can recover the value of the items not found. Black v. Black (1888) 74 Cal. 520, 521-522, 16 P. 311

Sufficiency of judgment for possession alone where delivery of personal property made to plaintiff at beginning of action. Claudius v. Aguirre (1891) 89 Cal. 501, 504, 26 P. 1077

Description in a judgment affecting real property as required to be certain and specific; an impossible, wrong, or uncertain description, or no description at all, as rendering the judgment erroneous and void. Newman v. Cornelius (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 279, 284, 83 Cal. Rptr. 435

Where a case is tried on the merits, where the issues are thoroughly explored during trial, and where the theory of the trial is well known to court and counsel, the fact that issues were not pleaded as not precluding an adjudication of those litigated issues and a review of that adjudication on appeal. Davis v. Cordova Recreation & Park Dist. (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 789, 794, 101 Cal. Rptr. 358

Fact that a judgment is not in conformity with a memorandum opinion as not affecting validity of final judgment; no antecedent expression of judge, whether casual or cast in form of opinion, as able to restrict power to declare a final conclusion by filing decision. Taormino v. Denny (1970) 1 Cal. 3d 679, 684, 83 Cal. Rptr. 359, 463 P.2d 711

Findings of fact and conclusions of law constitute the decision. Fish v. Hoffman (1961) 192 Cal. App. 2d 59, 63, 13 Cal. Rptr. 285 (decided prior to 1981 amendment of Code Civ. Proc. § 632 and related statutes and rules substituting statement of decision for findings of fact and conclusions of law)

Judgment entered without findings, where findings required under Code Civ. Proc. § 632 and former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 232 [now see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590], were nullity and as superseded by subsequent judgment based on findings. Ohio Cas. Ins. Co. v. Northwestern Mut. Ins. Co. (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 204, 206-207, 94 Cal. Rptr. 586 (decided prior to 1981 amendment of Code Civ. Proc. § 632 and related statutes and rules substituting statement of decision for findings of fact and conclusions of law)

[6] Judgments on the Pleadings

Grounds for motion for judgment on the pleadings are being same as those for general demurrer. Carlson v. Lindauer (1953) 119 Cal. App. 2d 292, 301, 259 P.2d 925

Motion for judgment on the pleadings is properly made even though demurrer on same grounds has been overruled. Hardy v. Admiral Oil Co. (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 836, 839-840, 16 Cal. Rptr. 894, 366 P.2d 310

Complaint is subject to motion for judgment on the pleadings only where there is an entire absence of some essential allegation. Rannard v. Lockheed Aircraft Corp. (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 149, 151, 157 P.2d 1

Answer is subject to motion for judgment on the pleadings only where complaint states cause of action and answer raises no material issue and states no defense. MacIsaac v. Pozzo (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 809, 812-813, 161 P.2d 449

Motion for judgment on the pleadings is properly made before, at, or during trial. Shabrick v. Moore (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 56, 59, 15 Cal. Rptr. 310

Order granting motion for judgment on the pleadings is followed by filing of judgment terminating action in favor of prevailing party and granting relief requested in the pleadings. Le Breton v. Stanley Contracting Co. (1911) 15 Cal. App. 429, 434, 114 P. 1028

Trial court ruling on motion for judgment on the pleadings accepts allegations of a complaint as true precisely as it does when a complaint is subjected to a general demurrer; court grants such a motion only if essential allegations are missing. Bass v. Great Western Sav. & Loan Assn. (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 770, 773, 130 Cal. Rptr. 123

[7] Notice of Entry of Judgment

Trial court could not vacate and reenter judgment because notice of entry was not served on plaintiff, when failure to meet statutory requirements for notice of entry of judgment set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(a), (b) did not render judgment void, but, rather, sole consequence was that longer statutory period for filing notice of appeal came into play; there was also no basis for voiding judgment based on party's noncompliance with Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.25. Kimball Avenue v. Franco (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1224, 1228-1229, 78 Cal. Rptr. 3d 352

Copy of final minute order entered in permanent minutes under former Cal. Rules Ct., Rule 2(b)(2) [now see Cal. Rules Ct., Rule 8.104(d)(2)], when ordered by court under Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(c), is sufficient notice of entry of judgment to start 60-day period to file notice of appeal under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.104(a). Pacific City Bank v. Los Caballeros Racquet & Sports Club, Ltd. (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 223, 228, 195 Cal. Rptr. 776

[8] Stipulation for Judgment

Stipulated judgment is appealable, but prejudicial error is difficult to prove when court's rulings were tentative. Villano v. Waterman Convalescent Hospital, Inc. (2010) 181 Cal. App. 4th 1189, 1198-1203, 105 Cal. Rptr. 3d 276

Code Civ. Proc. § 664.6 does not apply in ordinary civil action after judgment, unrelated to alleged settlement and therefore containing no provision for continuing jurisdiction to enforce it, has been entered and has become final, in sense that time for appeal has passed. Walton v. Mueller (2009) 180 Cal. App. 4th 161, 171-172, 102 Cal. Rptr. 3d 605

Code Civ. Proc. § 664.6 does not require that party to be bound consent to settlement "on the record," only that the party consent to it "orally before the court." 1538 Cahuenga Partners, LLC v. Turmeko Properties, Inc. (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 139, 143, 97 Cal. Rptr. 3d 552

Judgment omitting material terms of parties' settlement failed to accurately reflect their agreement and therefore failed to comply with Code Civ. Proc. § 664.6. Hines v. Lukes (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 1174, 1185, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 689

Parties engaged in private dispute resolution may not stipulate to appointment of judicial referee to judge pro tempore to secure settlement enforceable by court under Code Civ. Proc. § 664.6 when there was no pending litigation in which reference was sought. Housing Group v. United Nat. Ins. Co. (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 1106, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 497

Entry of judgment pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 664.6 (settlement agreement orally stipulated to before court) over objections of one party was proper when court's determination that parties had entered into valid and binding settlement agreement in open court was supported by substantial evidence. Estate of Dipinto (1986) 188 Cal. App. 3d 625, 629-630, 231 Cal. Rptr. 612

Judgments entered on parties' stipulation has same effect as when action is tried on its merits. John Siebel Associates v. Keele (1986) 188 Cal. App. 3d 560, 565, 233 Cal. Rptr. 231

Stipulated judgment is subject to constitutional interest rates for judgments pursuant to Cal. Const., art. XV, § 1, providing that interest on judgment be set by Legislature at not more than 10 percent per annum. John Siebel Associates v. Keele (1986) 188 Cal. App. 3d 560, 565, 233 Cal. Rptr. 231

Judgment entered on parties' stipulation that is not absolutely enforceable, because judgment creditor could not execute on judgment until judgment debtor defaulted and failed to cure, is qualified judgment not subject to constitutional rate of interest at time of entry; once judgment creditor avails itself of judicial process to enforce stipulated judgment, judgment as absolute and, from that time on, subject to constitutional rate of interest. John Siebel Associates v. Keele (1986) 188 Cal. App. 3d 560, 566-567, 233 Cal. Rptr. 231

Consent judgment, being similar in nature to contract, is subject to rules of contract interpretation and construction. Pardee Construction Co. v. City of Camarillo (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 465, 471, 208 Cal. Rptr. 228, 690 P.2d 701

Consent judgment is confined to issues consented to and does not cover matters not within stipulation. Pardee Construction Co. v. City of Camarillo (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 465, 471, 208 Cal. Rptr. 228, 690 P.2d 701 ; Pacific Estates, Inc. v. Superior Court (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 1561, 1576, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 434

Under authority of Code Civ. Proc. § 578, which provides that judgment may determine rights of all parties between themselves as justice requires, court properly entered judgment on stipulated settlement under Code Civ. Proc. § 664.6, even though judgment had effect of determining rights between parties who were not claiming adversely to one another. Casa de Valley View Owner's Assn. v. Stevenson (1985) 167 Cal. App. 3d 1182, 1190-1191, 213 Cal. Rptr. 790

Necessity that client authorize attorney to enter into stipulation for judgment. Bice v. Stevens (1958) 160 Cal. App. 2d 222, 232, 325 P.2d 244

Stipulation constitutes agreement between attorneys. Baker v. Solari (1958) 166 Cal. App. 2d 472, 475, 333 P.2d 791

When stipulation on which judgment is to be entered predicates entry of judgment upon the occurrence of a condition, court as required to satisfy itself that the condition did, in fact, occur, and that court is fully apprised of the circumstances surrounding the occurrence of the condition; such an assessment as unable to be made without some form of hearing or trial unless the stipulation also contains an express waiver of the right to a hearing. S.E.P. Associates, Inc. v. Peto (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 305, 308, 122 Cal. Rptr. 514

Ordinarily, necessity for findings of fact as dispensed with where case is submitted upon a stipulation of facts; where, however, stipulation sets forth evidentiary material only, trial court as properly making findings of ultimate facts. Taylor v. George (1949) 34 Cal. 2d 552, 556, 212 P.2d 505

Inasmuch as stipulation is a contract, stipulation as becoming an executed, not an executory contract; trial court, accordingly, as having the right to assume that it would be inequitable not to recognize the instrument's binding effect. Sanserino v. Shamberger (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 630, 633, 54 Cal. Rptr. 206

Judgment by consent in action in which court had jurisdiction of the subject matter and of parties as being res judicata and as conclusive between parties and those deriving under them as efficaciously as if it had been entered after trial of the issues. Avery v. Avery (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 525, 529, 89 Cal. Rptr. 195

Generally, consent to entry of judgment as a waiver of any errors in it; judgment as not disturbed on appeal by party who expressly consented to making of it. Browand v. Scott Lbr. Co. (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d 68, 73, 269 P.2d 891

Judgment which awards greater relief than that to which parties have agreed by their written stipulation as rendering judgment void as being beyond jurisdiction of court and as subject to collateral attack. Jones v. World Life Research Institute (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 836, 847, 131 Cal. Rptr. 674

Judgment entered upon a stipulation which is simply erroneous, even though error appears on face of judgment or record, as not subject to collateral attack. Jones v. World Life Research Institute (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 836, 840, 131 Cal. Rptr. 674

If material term of stipulation is ambiguous, judgment as not able to be entered until such ambiguity is appropriately resolved. Rooney v. Vermont Investment Corp. (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 351, 368-369, 110 Cal. Rptr. 353, 515 P.2d 297

Trial court as under duty to render judgment that is in exact conformity with an agreement or stipulation of parties; if interpretation of stipulation is in order, rules applied as those applied to interpretation of contracts. Jones v. World Life Research Institute (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 836, 840, 131 Cal. Rptr. 674

Trial court as not having authority to add to provisions of stipulation, to insert term not found, or to make new stipulation for parties. Jones v. World Life Research Institute (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 836, 840, 131 Cal. Rptr. 674

Consent judgment, being regarded as a contract between parties, as construed as any other contract. Cottom v. Bennett (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 709, 716, 29 Cal. Rptr. 715

While consent judgment for purpose of interpretation and construction is regarded as contract between parties and must be interpreted and construed as any other contract, as to matters in issue it is as conclusive as judgment entered after contest and trial. Stevens v. Stevens (1968) 268 Cal. App. 2d 426, 435, 74 Cal. Rptr. 54

When written stipulation sets forth all terms of judgment agreed to by parties, filing of stipulation as normally providing sufficient basis for entry of judgment upon the ex parte application of either party. Rooney v. Vermont Investment Corp. (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 351, 368-369, 110 Cal. Rptr. 353, 515 P.2d 297

If stipulation upon which judgment is to be entered omits any essential element of a complete judgment, judgment as not properly entered until missing element is or elements are established by proof or by further stipulation. Rooney v. Vermont Investment Corp. (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 351, 368-369, 110 Cal. Rptr. 353, 515 P.2d 297

Consent judgment between parties as regarded as contract and as required to be construed like any other contract. Larsen v. Beekmann (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 185, 191, 80 Cal. Rptr. 654

Judgment based on stipulation of parties as binding only as to matter consented to by stipulation and as confined only to those issues within stipulation. Larsen v. Beekmann (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 185, 191, 80 Cal. Rptr. 654

In retaining counsel, right to do many acts in respect to the cause as embraced as ancillary or incidental to general authority conferred; among these acts is included the authority to enter into stipulations and agreements in all matters of procedure during progress of trial; stipulations thus made, so far as they are simply necessary or incidental to management of suit and affect only the procedure or remedy as distinguished from the cause of action itself and the essential rights of client, as binding on client. Linsk v. Linsk (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 272, 277, 74 Cal. Rptr. 544, 449 P.2d 760

If counsel merely employs best discretion in protecting client's rights and achieving fundamental goals, authority as unquestioned; if counsel abdicates a substantial right of client contrary to express instructions, counsel as exceeding authority. Linsk v. Linsk (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 272, 277, 74 Cal. Rptr. 544, 449 P.2d 760

General authority of attorney vests him or her with complete charge and supervision of procedures adopted, conduct of trial, and all cognate subjects, provided only attorney does not impair, compromise, or destroy client's cause of action without client's consent. Roscoe Moss Co. v. Roggero (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 781, 786, 54 Cal. Rptr. 911

Attorney's stipulation involving disposition of client's property as not binding on client in absence of specific authorization or where specific authorization is not given in valid form. Roscoe Moss Co. v. Roggero (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 781, 786, 54 Cal. Rptr. 911

§ 318.222 Decisions

[1] Amendment of Judgment

Court retains power to amend or change conclusions of law so as to point to different judgment and enter one different from one first announced; such power as continuing until entry of judgment. Kelly v. Sparling Water Co. (1959) 52 Cal. 2d 628, 633, 343 P.2d 257

Substantial evidence supported trial court's amendment of judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 187 adding new party as judgment debtor to judgment, where there was substantial evidence of party's successor liability as mere continuation of its predecessor corporation. McClellan v. Northridge Park Townhome Owners Assn. (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 746, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 702

Amendment of judgment to clarify identification of judgment debtors is improper when the effect is to add a new party, the new party was not served, and there is no evidence that new party gave authority to the attorney purporting to appear on its behalf. Milrot v. Stamper Medical Corp. (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 182, 186, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 424

Amendment of judgment to add alter ego after arbitration is within jurisdiction of court under Code Civ. Proc. § 1287.4 (judgments confirming arbitration awards subject to all provisions of law relating to a judgment). Hall, Goodhue, Haisley & Barker, Inc. v. Marconi Conf. Center Bd. (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 1551, 1555, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 286

Amendment adding judgment debtor as liable for original defendant's obligations on alter ego theory is supported by Code Civ. Proc. § 187 (court's implied powers to effectuate conferred powers); addition of spouse qua spouse is not authorized under such theory. Oyakawa v. Gillett (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 628, 631, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 469

Amendment adding additional judgment debtors is appropriate only when it can be demonstrated that newly added party in fact had control of previous litigation and thus was virtually represented in lawsuit; when no claim is made against new party personally and new party did not participate in defense of action or have any duty to appear and personally defend in that action, addition of new party as judgment debtor by postjudgment amendment is improper.

Oyakawa v. Gillett (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 628, 631, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 469

Court is able to set aside judgment only on motion for statutory grounds set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 473 or 663 or to correct its records; consent by parties to vacate judgment as not enabling court to modify judgment that it is otherwise unable to modify. Southern Cal. White Trucks v. Teresinski (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 1393, 1407-1408, 236 Cal. Rptr. 159

Court is empowered to amend judgment against corporate defendant to add judgment debtors found to be alter egos of defendant. Dow Jones Co. v. Avenel (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 144, 149, 198 Cal. Rptr. 457

[2] Antedating a Judgment by Nunc Pro Tunc Order

All courts have inherent power to enter orders nunc pro tunc to show that thing was done at one time which ought to have been shown at that time; order for entry of judgment is entry now for something previously done so that record may actually speak the truth. Martin v. Martin (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 752, 760-761, 87 Cal. Rptr. 526, 470 P.2d 662

Function of nunc pro tunc order is merely to correct record of the judgment and not to alter judgment actually rendered. Estate of Careaga (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 471, 474, 39 Cal. Rptr. 215, 393 P.2d 415

Court exceeded power to issue nunc pro tunc order by creating interest in retirement plan. In re Marriage of Padgett (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 830, 852-855, 91 Cal. Rptr. 3d 475

Trial court is without power to enter judgment nunc pro tunc as of a time before plaintiff's death, in effort to save plaintiff's pain and suffering damages which had abated; although live testimony had been completed at time of death, evidentiary exhibits had not yet been admitted or excluded, jury instructions had not yet been given, and jury argument had not yet been made; nor did phase-one special verdict qualify as verdict needed for nunc pro tunc order. Williamson v. Plant Insulation Co. (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 1406, 1414-1418, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 751

Failure to enter judgment pursuant to court order is recognized ground of entitlement to entry nunc pro tunc. Milicevich v. Sacramento Medical Center (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 997, 1000 n.1, 202 Cal. Rptr. 484

Only grounds for antedating judgment are preservation of legitimate fruits of litigation which would otherwise be lost to prevailing party, correction of deficiency in recordation of previous decision so as to express true intention of court as of the earlier date and thus conform to that intention, or to correct a clerical error. Young v. Gardner-Denver Co. (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 915, 919, 53 Cal. Rptr. 522

[3] Correction or Modification After Entry of Judgment

[a] Correction of Ambiguity in Judgment

Court, by means of nunc pro tunc order, has authority to clarify ambiguity by removing superfluous word where removal does not alter meaning or legal effect or original decree; ambiguity created by faulty wording is deemed clerical error. Estate of Careaga (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 471, 474, 39 Cal. Rptr. 215, 393 P.2d 415

[b] Correction of Inadvertent Error of Trial Judge

Trial court does not abuse its discretion in modifying judgment of $150,000 to $15,000 to conform to limits of respondent's liability under Veh. Code § 17151 because court was empowered to correct clerical error under court's own inherent power and under Code Civ. Proc. § 473. Pettigrew v. Grand Rent-A-Car (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 204, 209, 212, 201 Cal. Rptr. 125

Where judgment as signed does not express actual judicial intention of court, but is contrary to decision, signing of purported judgment is clerical error rather than judicial one, such that judge has authority to set aside erroneous judgment and make a correct one on basis of trial court's inherent power to annul judgments inadvertently or improvidently made. Zisk v. Roseville (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 41, 47, 127 Cal. Rptr. 896

Mistake inadvertently made in preparation of judgment by attorney's drafter is properly corrected by trial court where mistake renders judgment not in conformance with true decision of court. Wilson v. Wilson (1948) 88 Cal. App. 2d 382, 385, 198 P.2d 916

[c] Correction of Misdescriptions in Judgment

Mistake in designation or description of person affected by judgment is properly corrected by trial court. Chula v. Superior Court (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 199, 206, 18 Cal. Rptr. 507, 368 P.2d 107

Order amending judgment nunc pro tunc by substituting corporate defendant for individual defendant as judgment creditor to correct clerical error is supported by substantial evidence when cross complaint on which judgment was obtained was filed by corporate defendant and when parties clearly stipulated that individual and corporate defendants may be considered one party for purposes of litigation. Bree v. Beall (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 650, 655-656, 171 Cal. Rptr. 73

Correction and amendment of judgment is proper to designate real name of judgment debtor where original judgment incorrectly stated name. Thomson v. L.C. Roney & Co. (1952) 112 Cal. App. 2d 420, 425, 246 P.2d 1017

Mistake in description of property in judgment is properly corrected. Meyer v. Porath (1952) 113 Cal. App. 2d 808, 811, 248 P.2d 984

[d] Correction of Omission or Mistake in Judgment

Correction of error of omission in the determination of an account and decree of distribution is properly corrected by trial court. Estate of Soboslay (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 177, 179, 47 P.2d 714

Trial properly amended judgment nunc pro tunc three months after entry of judgment to fix date of promissory note referenced in settlement agreement and subsequent judgment to conform to settlement agreement, where trial court had inherent power to correct clerical error in judgment and inherent power to correct judgment to make it conform to terms of settlement agreement, and where it was uncontroverted that parties' agreement to date in settlement agreement and substantial evidence supported trial court's determination of date. Ames v. Paley (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 668, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 515

Judgment amended to preclude assertion of statute of limitations defense to express court's intent to permit escape assessments for all tax years in dispute. Southern Pacific Pipe Lines, Inc. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 42, 57, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 345

Trial court does not abuse its discretion in setting aside portion of its orders stating that all acts of conservator were ratified, confirmed, and approved, when trial court issued declaration of contrary intent and record on appeal did not contradict court's declaration because hearing was not reported. Conservatorship of Tobias (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 1031, 1036, 256 Cal. Rptr. 525

Omission of date of entry of judgment from one of five abstracts of judgment, which were all recorded on date judgment was entered, is inadvertent clerical error that can be corrected by trial court. Commonwealth Land Title Co. v. Kornbluth (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 518, 531, 220 Cal. Rptr. 774

Trial court properly issued order modifying judgment of dissolution of marriage to include reservation of jurisdiction over spousal support, when both minutes and partial transcript clearly showed that court intended to reserve jurisdiction and that omission was clerical error. In re Marriage of Sheridan (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 742, 746-747, 189 Cal. Rptr. 622

Omission of direction that husband pay wife's attorney's and accountant's fees if proceeds from sale of community property are insufficient, in judgment of divorce, is clerical rather than judicial error and is properly corrected by postjudgment order. Denton v. Denton (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 708, 714-716, 96 Cal. Rptr. 136

Failure to expressly state that defendants, naming them, were personally liable for the debt in question, stating its amount, is a proper subject for correction by amendment. Lang v. Superior Court of Orange County (1961) 198 Cal. App. 2d 16, 18, 18 Cal. Rptr. 67

Failure to fill in blank spaces in judgment constitutes clerical error subject to nunc pro tunc amendment. Lang v. Superior Court of Orange County (1961) 198 Cal. App. 2d 16, 17, 18 Cal. Rptr. 67

Omission of party's name in judgment is properly corrected by court by insertion of name. Kohlstedt v. Hauseur (1937) 24 Cal. App. 2d 60, 61, 74 P.2d 314

[e] Determination and Proof of Clerical Error

Court of general jurisdiction has power to correct clerical errors made by court, clerk, or counsel after judgment, pending appeal, after affirmance on appeal, and regardless of lapse of time; appellete court can correct judgment containing obvious clerical error by modifying judgment; in specific performance action, when findings of fact set forth in statement of decision clearly show amount of purchase price payable and amount of and reasons for several offsets, mathematical error in judgment is clerical error. Hennefer v. Butcher (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 492, 506-508, 227 Cal. Rptr. 318

Declaration of judge as to his or her intention in signing judgment is entitled to great weight in determining whether error is clerical or judicial, since when error is made by judge, nature of error is seldom clear from extrinsic evidence or record. Bowden v. Green (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 65, 71, 180 Cal. Rptr. 90]

Where there is conflicting evidence as to whether error was clerical, reviewing court will probably accept conclusion of trial court; if record shows clearly that there was no clerical error, recital by trial court is not conclusive. Nathanson v. Murphy (1957) 147 Cal. App. 2d 462, 469, 305 P.2d 710

Clerical nature of error in recordation of judgment is properly shown by any competent evidence, including trial judge's statement based on his or her own recollection, affidavit of shorthand reporter, or rough notes entered on original docket. In re Roberts (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 95, 97-98, 19 Cal. Rptr. 147

Where trial judge's declaration as to the clerical nature of mistake is supported by other competent evidence, reviewing court is not inclined to disturb trial court's order correcting and amending judgment. Bastajian v. Brown (1941) 19 Cal. 2d 209, 215, 120 P.2d 9

[f] General Rule

Although expressly recognized by statute, courts have inherent power to correct clerical errors independently of statute; such power is unaffected by pendency of appeal or habeas corpus. In re Candelario (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 702, 705, 91 Cal. Rptr. 497, 477 P.2d 729

Although trial court can correct its own inadvertence or clerical error, court corrects judicial error only on motion for new trial or on motion pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 633 to vacate order or judgment and enter different one. Greene v. Superior Court (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 403, 405-406, 10 Cal. Rptr. 817, 359 P.2d 249

Test for determining nature of error sought to be corrected. In re Daoud (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 879, 882, 129 Cal. Rptr. 673, 549 P.2d 145

[g] Judgment Entered Under Sister State Money Judgment Act

Judgment entered under Sister State Money Judgment Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.10 et seq.) is subject to amendment to correct for clerical error to conform judgment entered with original judgment. Aspen Internat. Capital Corp. v. Marsch (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1199, 1204-1205, 286 Cal. Rptr. 921

[h] Judicial Error Distinguished

Award of damages which are excessive as a matter of law is inherently judicial error which cannot be corrected on motion to set aside default judgment. Don v. Cruz (1982) 131 Cal. App. 3d 695, 703, 182 Cal. Rptr. 581

Order of dismissal entered deliberately but based on error of fact caused by mistake of counsel is judicial rather than clerical error. Smith v. Superior Court (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 285, 290-291, 171 Cal. Rptr. 387

Distinction between clerical error and judicial error does not depend so much on person making it as on whether it was deliberate result of judicial reasoning and determination; distinction is whether error was made in rendering judgment or in recording judgment rendered. People v. Anderson (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 831, 839, 131 Cal. Rptr. 104

While clerical error is no longer limited to only those made by clerk, nevertheless, clerical errors do not include those made by court because of failure to correctly interpret law or apply facts; corrective nunc pro tunc order is appropriate only when form of judgment fails to coincide with substance thereof, as intended at the time of the rendition of the judgment. Estate of Careaga (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 471, 474, 39 Cal. Rptr. 215, 393 P.2d 415

If court misconstrues evidence or misapplies law applicable to facts or is misled by counsel, such error is in no sense clerical which could thereafter be corrected by court or in any proceeding except on motion for new trial. Lankton v. Superior Court (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 694, 696, 55 P.2d 1170

Erroneous conclusion of trial court as to limitations of jurisdictional authority to render award greater than a particular sum is judicial, not clerical. Lankton v. Superior Court (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 694, 696, 55 P.2d 1170

Despite statement by judge that he intended to order a distribution decree in accord with particular will, where evidence disclosed that judge had not actually read will, error was judicial rather than clerical inasmuch as at the time of signing the decree the judge could not have had in mind an interpretation of the will which he failed to embody or record in decree. Estate of Harris (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 578, 590, 19 Cal. Rptr. 510

[i] Notice and Time Requirements

Correction of clerical error in judgment two and one-half years after entry of judgment was not barred by laches and estoppel where relief was sought promptly after error discovered. In re Marriage of Kaufman (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 147, 150-151, 161 Cal. Rptr. 538

Law is well settled that orders may be made correcting judgments nunc pro tunc as of their original date without notice and on court's own motion so as to make them conform to judicial decision actually made; this power exists regardless of lapse of time. In re Roberts (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 95, 97, 19 Cal. Rptr. 147

[j] Nunc Pro Tunc Correction of Judgment

Question presented on hearing for motion for nunc pro tunc order is what order was in fact made at time by trial judge. Estate of Careaga (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 471, 474, 39 Cal. Rptr. 215, 393 P.2d 415

Juvenile court's nunc pro tunc order correction of order granting minor's petition for emancipation, stating that all statutes of limitations be tolled until minor reaches age 18, over three years earlier, was of no legal effect where it did not properly correct clerical error as court did not state it originally intended to order that statute of limitations applicable to minor's claims be tolled despite her emancipation and that that ruling was inadvertently omitted for original order due to clerical error; and where, even assuming error was clerical, court did not have authority to make emancipation order preserving minor's legal disability regarding her right to sue and be sued. West Shield Investigations & Security Consultants v. Superior Court (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 935, 950-951, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 612

Trial court erred in refusing to enter amendment to judgment (which itself was unnecessary because Prob. Code § 18201 allowed judgment creditor to directly reach assets in trust) nunc pro tunc to date on which it was originally entered and ordered; respondent was not bona fide encumbrancer and was presumed to have actual knowledge of § 18201, thus did not have defense to amendment being entered nunc pro tunc. Bank One Texas v. Pollack (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 973, 980-982, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510

When clerical errors in judgment or order are corrected by court under its inherent power, order of correction can be made nunc pro tunc as of time of original entry of judgment, regardless of lapse of time, and appellate court can direct trial court to make order nunc pro tunc. Commonwealth Land Title Co. v. Kornbluth (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 518, 531, 220 Cal. Rptr. 774

Court by means of nunc pro tunc order has authority to clarify decree by removing superfluous word where removal does not alter meaning or legal effect of original decree; such error is clerical. Estate of Careaga (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 471, 474, 39 Cal. Rptr. 215, 393 P.2d 415

[1] Liens on Judgment Debtors' Causes of Action

[a] Approval of Settlement

Trial court properly denied judgment creditor's motion for order for satisfaction of its judgment lien against defendant in unrelated action under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.470, where judgment creditor's notice of lien was form "notice of judgment lien on personal property" against judgment debtor, specifically referencing Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.510, 697.550, 697.570, which did not comply with mandatory requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 708.420 because notice contained none of requisite warnings that judgment creditor was invoking provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 708.410 et seq. and specifying necessary procedures to be followed in settling with judgment debtor as judgment debtor as well as consequences of failing to do so, and reference to §§ 697.510, 697.550, 697.570 did nothing to inform parties to pending litigation of procedures to be followed or risks in failing to do so, so that notice was ineffective to create a lien under statute. Further, even if notice sufficed, there was no judgment entitling judgment debtor to money or property or determining that judgment debtor had interest in property as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 708.470(a), (b), so that trial court lacked jurisdiction to act under § 708.470(a), (b), and, under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.470(c), court determined that judgment debtor received no money or property and, consequently, there was nothing subject to lien, because, in addition to subrogation rights they were entitled to pursue, judgment debtor's insurers obtained assignment of plaintiff's claims against nonsettling parties, and fact that insurers pursued this alternative or that their motive was to recoup their costs of defending judgment debtor and paying plaintiff on its behalf required court to grant judgment creditor's motion. Casa Eva I Homeowners Assn. v. ANI Construction & Tile, Inc. (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 771, 779-784, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 401

Trial court lacked basic information about who would benefit from transfers of interests in real property under settlement agreement and erred in approving settlement of action by judgment debtor against defendants under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.440 in spite of judgment creditor's opposition, where settlement would permit, but not require, judgment debtor to record grant deed and hold title to property as trustee for company about which record did not reveal anything, and court could not tell if company, its investors or trust presently existed or existed in past, which was significant because if trust did not exist or there were no beneficiaries to trust other than judgment debtor, he could dispose of property for his sole benefit without incurring liability to third parties, or, alternatively, if trust and other beneficiaries existed, there was no evidence showing why it was equitable for investors to realize benefits from settlement of judgment debtor's claims against defendants; without knowledge of material facts showing who was getting what slice of settlement pie, superior court could not consider equities of settlement excluding judgment creditor and lienholder from reaching any interest in property. Oldham v. California Capital Fund, Inc. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 421, 432-436, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 744

[b] Bankruptcy

Title to cause of action for personal injuries is property of bankrupt and thus, under § 70a(5) of the Bankruptcy Act, as vested in trustee. Carmona v. Robinson (9th Cir. [Cal] 1964) 336 F.2d 518, 520-521 ; In re Calestini (ND Cal. 1971) 321 F. Supp. 1313, 1315

[c] Constitutional Issues

Former Code Civ. Proc. § 688.1 (now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.410-708.480) does not arbitrarily restraining freedom of contract and thus is not unconstitutional. Hersch v. Boston Ins. Co. (1953) 175 Cal. App. 2d 751, 755, 346 P.2d 796

[d] Construction

Former Code Civ. Proc. § 688.1 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.410) is remedial in nature and liberally construed to give effect to remedy it authorizes. McClearen v. Superior Court (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 852, 856, 291 P.2d 449 ; Apostolos v. Estrada (1958) 163 Cal. App. 2d 8, 13, 328 P.2d 805

[e] Intervention

Right to intervene under former Code Civ. Proc. § 688.1 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.430) rests with trial judge's discretion. McClearen v. Superior McClearen (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 852, 856, 291 P.2d 449 ; Apostolos v. Estrada (1958) 163 Cal. App. 2d 8, 12, 328 P.2d 805

Judgment creditor is not required to intervene. McClearen v. Superior Court (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 852, 856, 291 P.2d 449

[f] Nature and Scope of Lien

Former Code Civ. Proc. § 688.1 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.410) is remedial in nature and liberally construed to give effect to remedy it authorizes. McClearen v. Superior Court (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 852, 856, 291 P.2d 449 ; Apostolos v. Estrada (1958) 163 Cal. App. 2d 8, 13, 328 P.2d 805

Lien created under former Code Civ. Proc. § 688.1 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 708.410) as created upon the cause of action such that it arises before judgment and carries over to judgment. Takehara v. H.C. Muddox Co. (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 168, 170, 104 Cal. Rptr. 345, 501 P.2d 913

[g] Priority

Although bank had security interest in plaintiffs' collateral through collateral security agreement and later judgment lien on personal property, those liens did not cover commercial tort claims and settlement proceeds were from commercial tort claims; attorney lien created by retainer agreement between plaintiffs and counsel had priority because it was created before bank filed a notice of lien in the pending action, and bank's notice of lien did not relate back to prior liens because those liens covered different property. Waltrip v. Kimberlin (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 517, 524-531, 79 Cal. Rptr. 3d 460

[2] Money Judgment Liens on Real Property

[a] Attachable to Increase in Value of Equity

[i] In General

Judgment creditor as capable of reaching increases in value of equity in property owned by judgment debtor at time abstract of judgment recorded under former Code Civ. Proc. § 674 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.310). Kinney v. Vallentyne (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 475, 478-479, 124 Cal. Rptr. 897, 541 P.2d 537

[ii] Not Attachable to Mechanics' Liens

Judgment lien as not capable of attaching to mechanics' lien. Mercantile Collection Bureau v. Roach (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 355, 357-358, 15 Cal. Rptr. 710

[iii] Not Attachable to Naked Title

Lien of judgment as not attaching to naked title, only to debtor's interest in real estate; if debtor has no interest in property even though possessing naked title, judgment creditor as acquiring no lien and real owner as permitted by court of equity to show apparent ownership of another is not real. Wheeler v. Trefftzs (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 271, 274, 39 Cal. Rptr. 507

Judgment lien as attaching to judgment debtor's property when abstract of judgment is recorded, provided the judgment debtor has more than a bare legal title; when the abstract of judgment is filed after execution of conditional sales contract but before conditions have been satisfied, judgment lien as still attaching due to fact that legal title has not yet passed from judgment debtor to a third-party purchaser. Lang v. Klinger (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 987, 991, 110 Cal. Rptr. 532

[b] Child and Spousal Support

Exclusive method of establishing lien on real property of judgment debtor for child and spousal support ordered by court is that provided by former Code Civ. Proc. § 674.5 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.320). Ellrott v. Bliss (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 901, 905, 195 Cal. Rptr. 446

[c] Death of Judgment Debtor

Death of debtor as not terminating judgment lien. Corporation of America v. Marks (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 218, 220, 73 P.2d 1215

Prob. Code § 716 is applicable to judgment liens and permits judgment lien creditor to bring equitable action to foreclose his lien on death of judgment debtor. Corporation of America v. Marks (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 218, 220, 73 P.2d 1215

Death of debtor terminates right of judgment lien creditor to enforce lien by levy of execution and sale thereunder [former Prob. Code § 732 (now see Prob. Code § 9300 et seq.)]. Corporation of America v. Marks (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 218, 220, 73 P.2d 1215

When married couple transferred their tenant in common interests in real property to one another in 1994 and created joint tenancy, wife took her interest in the property subject to judgment lien previously entered against husband's interest, and right of survivorship created after judgment lien had no effect. Further, under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.340(b), 695.070(b), husband's death did not affect enforceability of lien. Thus, judgment creditor retained his lien against one-half interest in property as if transfer and husband's death never occurred. Dieden v. Schmidt (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 645, 650-653, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 365

Effect of death of joint tenant owning lands subject to money judgment lien. Zeigler v. Bonnell (1942) 52 Cal. App. 2d 217, 221, 126 P.2d 118

[d] Enforcement

During lifetime of debtor, ordinary method of enforcement of judgment lien is execution sale; equitable action to foreclose judgment lien is not required. Corporation of America v. Marks (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 218, 220, 73 P.2d 1215

Judgment liens are ordinarily enforced by execution levy and sale; when for some reason execution does not lie, procedure for enforcement is equitable action to foreclose judgment lien. Wellborn v. Wellborn (1942) 55 Cal. App. 2d 516, 520, 131 P.2d 48

[e] Immediate Effectiveness

Judgment liens under former Code Civ. Proc. § 674 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.310) are effective the instant the judgment debtor acquired the property in a middleman escrow situation; lien is effective irrespective of how little time judgment debtor holds property acquired. Majewsky v. Empire Constr. Co., Ltd. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 478, 484, 85 Cal. Rptr. 819, 467 P.2d 547

Once lien is recorded, lien attaches automatically to any property acquired by judgment debtor to which he or she holds more than bare legal title. Lang v. Klinger (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 987, 991, 110 Cal. Rptr. 532

[f] Joint Tenancy

Unless exempt, any interest in real property is subject to levy and sale under writ of execution; joint interest of one cotenant is subject to sale on execution to enforce judgment against him. Moore v. Hall (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 25, 28, 58 Cal. Rptr. 70

Judgment lien under former Code Civ. Proc. § 674 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.310) on interest of one joint tenant prior to levy of execution is not severing joint tenancy; if judgment debtor dies first, lien is lost. Zeigler v. Bonnell (1942) 52 Cal. App. 2d 217, 219-221, 126 P.2d 118

[g] Nature and Purpose of Judgment Lien

Lien created upon filing of abstract of money judgment is purely a creature of statute, unknown at common law. Mercantile Collection Bureau v. Roach (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 355, 357, 15 Cal. Rptr. 710

Judgment creditor who causes attachment to be levied on debtor's real property acquires only lien on property and no interest in debtor's title [see Civ. Code § 2888]. Monolith Portland Cement Co. v. Tendler (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 800, 805-806, 24 Cal. Rptr. 38

Judgment creditor is not entitled to protection as bona fide purchaser for value but, rather, stands in shoes of judgment debtor and obtains by judgment lien only that interest in property which judgment debtor actually possesses. City of Torrance v. Castner (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 76, 80, 120 Cal. Rptr. 23

Purpose of judgment lien is giving the judgment creditor immediate security for subsequent enforcement of judgment. Laubisch v. Roberdo (1954) 43 Cal. 2d 702, 707, 277 P.2d 9

[h] No Authority to Expunge Abstract

Despite fact that former Code Civ. Proc. § 674 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.040) provides that lien of recorded abstract ceases when enforcement of judgment is stayed on appeal, court is not authorized to grant motion compelling county recorder to expunge an abstract from his or her records which was properly recorded. Crevolin v. Crevolin (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 565, 575, 31 Cal. Rptr. 622

[i] Right to Record Prior to Appeal Bond

Person acquiring judgment has right to record abstract of judgment under former Code Civ. Proc. § 674 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.310) prior to filing of appeal bond. Crevolin v. Crevolin (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 565, 575, 31 Cal. Rptr. 622

[j] Survivability of Liens After Bankruptcy

Generally, valid, perfected judicial liens that precede bankruptcy are enforceable and survive after bankruptcy; post-petition enforcement of valid liens is not prevented by bankruptcy discharge and secured creditor may proceed to enforce lien as in rem action and is not barred by injunctive terms of 11 U.S.C. § 524. Songer v. Cooney (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 387, 391, 264 Cal. Rptr. 1

Order in bankruptcy proceeding avoiding lien is exception to general rule of survivability of liens. Songer v. Cooney (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 387, 391, 264 Cal. Rptr. 1

Judgment is secured only to value of debtor's interest in property, and to extent that judgment exceeds value of debtor's equity it is unsecured, under 11 U.S.C. § 506(a); to extent that unsecured portion of judgment creditor's claim is disallowed, lien is void, under 11 U.S.C. § 506(d). Songer v. Cooney (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 387, 391, 264 Cal. Rptr. 1

§ 318.243 Renewal of Judgment

Trial court properly denied defendant's motion to vacate renewal of money judgment in favor of plaintiff on ground renewal of judgment was void because defendant had insufficient contacts with California to confer personal jurisdiction when renewal was entered, where motion to vacate was untimely because it was filed nearly six months after plaintiff served and filed notice of renewal of judgment, and where ground of insufficient contacts with California to confer personal jurisdiction at time of renewal was unavailable under statutory renewal of judgment procedure, and trial court had continuing jurisdiction, derived from its jurisdiction at time of original judgment, to enter renewal. Goldman v. Simpson (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 255, 260-264, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 729

Independent action to enforce judgment after renewal did not require that California have personal jurisdiction over judgment debtor through current contacts, where judgment debtor entered into contract in California to be performed in California, which he breached when he failed to repay debt, after which he submitted himself to jurisdiction of California court by appearing in action, and where passage of time between original California litigation and revival action, during which he had no additional contacts with California, did not defeat personal jurisdiction. Cadle Co. II, Inc. v. Fiscus (2008) 163 Cal. App. 4th 1232, 1236-1241, 78 Cal. Rptr. 3d 238

Effective date of any judgment for purposes of enforceability and accrual of renewal period is date of entry; thus, renewal application was timely filed within 10 years from date of entry of amended judgment. Iliff v. Dustrud (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 1201, 1207, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 848

§ 318.262 Decisions

[1] Attorney's Agreement Not to Enforce Judgment

Plaintiff in civil action is bound by his or her attorney's agreement with one defendant not to enforce any judgment obtained against him or her; such agreements are equivalent to satisfaction of judgment. Yanchor v. Kagan (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 544, 548-551, 99 Cal. Rptr. 367

[2] Compelling Satisfaction

Motion for satisfaction of judgment under former Code Civ. Proc. § 675 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 724.050(d)) is not special proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 23 and is not independent action; rather, proceeding on motion is part of original action. LaFleur v. M.A. Burns Lbr. Co. (1922) 188 Cal. 321, 328, 205 P. 102

Motion for entry of satisfaction of judgment may be brought only in compliance with demand requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 724.050. However, although defendant did not comply with demand requirements prior to bringing noticed motion, plaintiff suffered no prejudice by defendant's lack of compliance, where parties brought to trial court's attention defendant's failure to comply, but trial court ordered entry of satisfaction of judgment without finding plaintiff had failed to comply without just cause with defendant's demand for acknowledgment of satisfaction, but found only that judgment had been satisfied by check tendered by defendant, trial court did not award defendant damages, penalty or attorney's fees, and plaintiff firmly and with just cause believed check tendered by defendant did not satisfy judgment and it was unlikely plaintiff would have complied with demand for acknowledgment of satisfaction, even had defendant made proper demand, including warning. Quintana v. Gibson (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 89, 92-95, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 898

Motion to compel satisfaction is proper method of claiming surplus from nonjudicial foreclosure as offset against outstanding judgment. Passanisi v. Merit-McBride Realtors, Inc. (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 1496, 1512-1514, 236 Cal. Rptr. 59

Court may order entry of satisfaction of judgment whenever judgment is satisfied in fact. George S. Nolte Consulting Civil Eng'rs, Inc. v. Magliocco (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 190, 193, 155 Cal. Rptr. 348

Judgment creditor is not permitted to refuse to acknowledge satisfaction of judgment without just cause. George S. Nolte Consulting Civil Eng'rs, Inc. v. Magliocco (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 190, 194, 155 Cal. Rptr. 348

Order compelling plaintiffs to execute satisfaction of judgment, imposing penalty of $100 pursuant to former Code Civ. Proc. § 675 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 724.050(e)), and quashing writ of execution, was proper when joint judgment substantially satisfied by certain defendants to whom assignment by plaintiffs was made, since assignment was evidence of intent to release those defendants and release of some of joint tortfeasors constitutes release of all. Bartneck v. Dunkin (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 58, 60-62, 81 Cal. Rptr. 428

[3] Discharge by Payment or Compromise

Payment by the judgment debtor satisfies and extinguishes judgment. Brochier v. Brochier (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 822, 826, 112 P.2d 602

Tender of payment by judgment debtor does not satisfy judgment but is effective to stop running of interest on judgment. Ferrea v. Tubbs (1899) 125 Cal. 687, 692, 58 P. 308 ; Skelly v. Richman (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 844, 863, 89 Cal. Rptr. 556

Satisfaction of compromise settlement judgment entered under Code Civ. Proc. § 998 does not discharge liability of defendants who are not parties to settlement agreement. Milicevich v. Sacramento Medical Center (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 997, 1000-1007, 202 Cal. Rptr. 484

Payment of entire judgment by one joint tortfeasor discharges liability to plaintiff of other joint tortfeasor. Burton v. Gardner Motors, Inc. (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 426, 431, 172 Cal. Rptr. 647

Judgments are properly discharged through partial payment in accord and satisfaction. Schwartz v. California Claim Serv. (1942) 52 Cal. App. 2d 47, 52-53, 125 P.2d 883

[4] Discharge by Equitable Setoff

[a] Enjoining Execution Pending Determination of Setoff

Power of court to enjoin execution of judgment pending resolution of disputed claim as setoff rests within discretion of court considering such factors as the likelihood that judgment debtor will collect, probability and comparative amount of recovery, and ability of judgment creditor to respond should judgment be rendered against him or her on disputed claim. Erlich v. Superior Court (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 551, 556, 47 Cal. Rptr. 473, 407 P.2d 649

[b] Judgment Debtor's Right to Setoff

Judgment debtor who, by assignment or otherwise, becomes owner of claim against judgment creditor in equity or capable of having claim setoff against judgment. Erlich v. Superior Court (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 551, 555, 47 Cal. Rptr. 473, 407 P.2d 649

In action by subcontractor against issuer of general contractor's payment bond to recover on bond, in which subcontractor's suppliers assigned their right to contractor to collect amounts owed by subcontractor, and in which judgment was entered for subcontractor against issuer of bond, trial court did not abuse discretion in holding that bond issuer should have calculated post-judgment interest before crediting itself with setoff from principal amount for amounts assigned by suppliers; under Code Civ. Proc. § 695.220(c), (d), which provides that money received in satisfaction of money judgment is to be credited against accrued interest remaining unsatisfied and only "remaining money" can then be credited against principal amount of judgment, there was no admissible evidence to suggest there was any enforceable election to offset those amounts at time judgment was entered and could not have been offset until much later when bankruptcy court determined that suppliers had been paid; under Code. Civ. Proc. § 685.030(c), which provides that if money judgment is partially satisfied, interest ceases to accrue as to part satisfied on date part is satisfied, bond issuer did not partially satisfy judgment until it gave up right to collect on its offsets by setting off those amounts against amount owed to subcontractor. Wm. R. Clarke Corp. v. Safeco Ins. Co. of America (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 355, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 709

Judgment debtor who has, by assignment or otherwise, become owner of judgment or claim against judgment creditor, as able to go into court in which judgment against debtor was rendered and have judgment offset against first judgment. Highsmith v. Lair (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 298, 302, 281 P.2d 865 ; Koffman v. Modern-Imperial Co. 239 Cal. App. 2d 135, 136, 48 Cal. Rptr. 492

[c] Methods of Presenting Setoff

Judgment debtor who acquires claim or debt against judgment creditor as able to maintain equitable action for setoff. Harrison v. Adams (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 646, 648-649, 128 P.2d 9

One method of asserting right to offset judgment against claim as being motion of debtor in action in which judgment has been given in favor of creditor. Norman v. Berney (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 424, 434, 45 Cal. Rptr. 467

[d] Requirements

Fact that claim has not itself been reduced to judgment or that claim is not liquidated as not barring setoff against judgment so long as unliquidated claim has matured. Erlich v. Superior Court (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 551, 555, 47 Cal. Rptr. 473, 407 P.2d 649

Mutuality as essential to setoff; debtor as required to be beneficial owner of claim or judgment which he or she seeks to set off and not merely trustee on behalf of assignor who has retained equitable interest in thing assigned. Norman v. Berney (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 424, 434, 45 Cal. Rptr. 467

Debtor as anot able to set off judgment or claim held merely as assignee for purposes of collection. Norman v. Berney (1965) 235 Cal. App. 2d 424, 434, 45 Cal. Rptr. 467

[5] Vacating Satisfaction

Stipulated vacation of satisfaction of judgment as permissible in absence of intervening rights of third parties. Southern Cal. Edison Co. v. Harnischfeger Corp. (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 9, 16, 160 Cal. Rptr. 23

Payment of judgment, even though voluntary, as not terminating litigation unless such payment is made by way of compromise or with intent that payment is made to satisfy judgment and end litigation. People ex rel Dep't of Public Works v. Richman (1966) 242 Cal. App. 2d 380, 384, 51 Cal. Rptr. 454

After inadvertent payment of judgment by mistake, plaintiff as having right at any time after finality of order granting new trial to return judgment money. People ex rel Dep't of Public Works v. Richman (1966) 242 Cal. App. 2d 380, 384, 51 Cal. Rptr. 454

Fraud, undue influence, and mistake as generally recognized grounds for vacating a satisfaction of judgment. Remillard Brick Co. v. Dandini (1950) 98 Cal. App. 2d 617, 622, 220 P.2d 927

Lack of consideration alone as constituting insufficient grounds for vacating satisfaction of judgment. Remillard Brick Co. v. Dandini (1950) 98 Cal. App. 2d 617, 622, 220 P.2d 927

Party of record as capable of having satisfaction of judgment which was entered in fraud of his or her rights set aside on motion in the action in which judgment is entered. Wherry v. Rambo (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 569, 571, 218 P.2d 142

[6] Voluntary Satisfaction as Waiver of Right to Appeal

Waiver of right to appeal as implied where there is voluntary compliance with judgment, such as when judgment debtor satisfies judgment by making payment to prevailing party under its terms. Lee v. Brown (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 110, 115, 132 Cal. Rptr. 649, 553 P.2d 1121

General rule as being that voluntary acceptance of benefit of judgment or order is bar to prosecution of appeal since right to accept fruits of judgment and right to appeal therefrom are wholly inconsistent; an election to take one as being a renunication of the other. Lee v. Brown (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 110, 114, 132 Cal. Rptr. 649, 553 P.2d 1121

Exception to general rule that acceptance of fruits of judgment constitutes bar to prosecution of appeal as existing where appellant is concededly entitled to benefits accepted and reversal will not affect right to those benefits. Lee v. Brown (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 110, 115, 132 Cal. Rptr. 649, 553 P.2d 1121

Waiver of right to appeal as applied in context of voluntary compliance only where compliance was by way of compromise or agreement not to take or prosecute appeal. Lee v. Brown (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 110, 115, 132 Cal. Rptr. 649, 553 P.2d 1121

When compliance arises under compulsion of risk or forfeiture, waiver of appeal as not implied where defendants may lose right to homestead exemption which they are entitled if they do not accept exemption funds before exhausting appeal rights and such acceptance may constitute waiver of right of appeal. Lee v. Brown (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 110, 116-118, 132 Cal. Rptr. 649, 553 P.2d 1121

If party to judgment accepts payment or satisfaction of part thereof favorable to him or her, and that part is of such character that the part adverse cannot be reversed without affecting the part favorable and requiring reversal of that part, the party so accepting the fruits of part of that judgment as estopped from prosecuting appeal from those parts unfavorable. Mathys v. Turner (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 364, 366, 294 P.2d 947

Plaintiff's acts in accepting payment and executing and authorizing filing of complete satisfaction as constituting waiver of right to appeal when recordation of abstract was voluntary, no court order directing satisfaction was issued, and tender of money and demand for satisfaction did not involve legal or economic compulsion. Mathys v. Turner (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 364, 366 , P.2d 947

Erroneous belief of plaintiff that he or she was compelled to accept tender as not preventing satisfaction from operating as bar to prosecution of appeal in the absence of other factors indicating coercion. Mathys v. Turner (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 364, 366, 294 P.2d 947

Having to choose whether to file appeal to pursue greater award than judgment provided does not make choice to appeal involuntary. Satchmed Plaza Owners Association v. UWMC Hospital Corporation (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 1034, 1042-1043, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 585

E. Assignment Of Judgments

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.281

§ 318.281 Decisions

[1] Advisability of Assignee Giving Actual Notice to Judgment Debtor

Although assignee is not required to record assignment or give notice of it to third persons, if, in absence of actual notice of assignment, judgment debtor pays sums due to assignor, judgment debtor as protected from suit by assignee. Curtin v. Kowalsky (1904) 145 Cal. 431, 434-435, 78 P. 962

Mere filing of assignment of judgment as not operating to give constructive notice to judgment debtor. Kaplan v. Hacker (1952) 113 Cal. App. 2d 571, 573, 248 P.2d 464

[2] Assignment of Judgment on Tort Claim

While a strictly tort claim as not itself assignable, such claim when merged in a final judgment as debt and as capable of becoming subject of assignment. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. v. Nakano (1939) 12 Cal. 2d 711, 713, 87 P.2d 700

[3] Assignment to One of Several Judgment Debtors

When no right to contribution or indemnification exists, as in case of joint tortfeasors, payment of judgment by one of several judgment debtors in exchange for assignment of judgment as not creating right to contribution nor preventing satisfaction of judgment from being entered. Ramey v. Myers (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 82, 92, 323 P.2d 805

When right contribution or indemnification exists, one of several judgment debtors as able to pay judgment creditor for assignment of judgment and thereby preserve his or her right to such contribution or indemnification. Williams v. Riehl (1899) 127 Cal. 365, 368, 59 P. 762

Payment to judgment creditor and assignment as required to be relatively contemporaneous so that it will not appear that assignment is made to revive judgment already extinguished by payment. National Bank v. Los Angeles Iron & Steel Co. (1906) 2 Cal. App. 659, 662, 84 P. 466

[4] Effect of Assignment

Individual acquiring judgment by assignment as acquiring property right; right to enforce payment thereof as substantial right of ownership. Michal v. Adair (1944) 66 Cal. App. 2d 382, 389, 152 P.2d 490

Judgment as not a negotiable instrument, but a mere chose in action vesting equitable right in assignee to proceeds of judgment, with right to usual and legal means of collecting amount due on it. Anglo-Cal. Trust Co. v. Oakland Rys. (1924) 193 Cal. 451, 469, 225 P. 452

[5] Effect of Partial Assignment

Assignment of portion of judgment as having no effect against judgment debtor unless made with judgment debtor's consent or pursuant to ratification. Buckeye Refining Co. v. Kelly (1912) 163 Cal. 8, 12, 124 P. 536

As in the case of partial assignment of judgment, where assignee has only an equitable interest, assignee as bound to show affirmatively that judgment debtor had notice of equitable interest before paying to party holding legal title in an action for such funds. Buckeye Refining Co. v. Kelly (1912) 163 Cal. 8, 13, 124 P. 536

Assignee of part of judgment as protected against obligation of assignor to pay to assignee such sums as are due under assignment. Rowe v. Holmes (1944) 63 Cal. App. 2d 46, 53, 146 P.2d 45

[6] Executory Agreement to Pay Proceeds

Executory agreement to pay proceeds as not constituting assignment of judgment. Ott Hardware Co. v. Davis (1913) 165 Cal. 795, 801, 134 P. 973

[7] Power to Assign Judgments

Under statutes, no limitations as existing upon the power to assign judgments; such an assignment as carrying legal title to judgment. Curtin v. Kowalsky (1904) 145 Cal. 431, 434, 78 P. 962

Unsatisfied judgment as deemed thing in action. Sunset Realty Co. v. Dadmun (1939) 88 P.2d 947

[8] Requirements for Valid Assignment

Validity of assignment as generally governed by law of contracts. Northern Counties Bank v. Earl Himovitz & Sons Livestock Co. (1963) 216 Cal. App. 2d 849, 855-856, 31 Cal. Rptr. 551

Assignment of judgments as not required to be in writing. Painter v. Berglund (1939) 31 Cal. App. 2d 63, 66, 87 P.2d 360

Transfer of title to judgment as not dependent upon existence of valuable consideration. Curtin v. Kowalsky (1904) 145 Cal. 431, 434, 78 P. 962

Assignee of judgment as not required to file notice or in any other manner give notice to persons who may take successive assign ment; such persons, although bona fide purchasers for value, as not acquiring title superior to first assignee inasmuch as they would take nothing where assignor has no title to assign. Curtin v. Kowalsky (1904) 145 Cal. 431, 435, 78 P. 962

[9] Right of Judgment Debtor to Appeal Notwithstanding Assignment

Assignee of judgment as taking subject to right of defendant to present on appeal whatever arguments would have been made against assignor. Northam v. Gordon (1863) 23 Cal. 255

Assignee of judgment as properly prosecuting appeal in name of original plaintiff. Kaplan v. Hacker (1952) 113 Cal. App. 2d 571, 573, 248 P.2d 464

Where an assignment of judgment is based on action for a debt for which it was obtained, reversal of judgment as not affecting assignment of underlying debt upon which it was based. North v. Evans (1934) 1 Cal. App. 2d 64, 67, 36 P.2d 133

Actual notice as required to defeat right of debtor to setoff claims against creditor which were acquired after assignment of judgment to third person but prior to notice to debtor of assignment. Highsmith v. Lair (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 298, 301, 281 P.2d 865

Judgment debtor who has, by assignment or otherwise, become owner of judgment or claim against judgment creditor, as able to go into court in which judgment was rendered and have judgment setoff against first judgment. Highsmith v. Lair (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 298, 301, 281 P.2d 865

Assignee who does not give actual notice to defendant of assignment as not entitled to receive a notice of motions as a party unless actually substituted as a party under former Code Civ. Proc. § 385 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 368.5). Kaplan v. Hacker (1952) 113 Cal. App. 2d 571, 573, 248 P.2d 464

F. Actions On Domestic, Sister State, And Foreign Judgments

27-318 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 318.301

§ 318.301 Decisions

[1] Actions on Domestic Judgments

[a] Allegations Necessary for Complaint

In action on judgment, complaint is sufficient if it alleges that judgment sued upon was duly given and made and that payment on judgment has not been made. Bronzan v. Drobaz (1892) 93 Cal. 647, 650, 29 P. 254

[b] Availability of Alternative Enforcement

Judgment creditor can file action on a judgment as alternative to execution of judgment when the period for obtaining an execution of judgment has expired but the period for filing an action on the judgment has not and there is no other means of enforcing the judgment except by action on the judgment. Barkley v. City of Blue Lake (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 1745, 1749, 1751, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 315 ; Green v. Zissis (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1219, 1222, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 406

Fact that one may be entitled to enforce existing judgment by execution does not prohibit action to obtain new judgment on balance due upon former judgment; enforcement of judgment by execution and by action cannot properly be placed upon same basis since they are different in theory and results. Turner v. Donovan (1942) 52 Cal. App. 2d 236, 240, 126 P.2d 187 , cert. denied, 317 U.S. 599, 63 S. Ct. 260, 87 L. Ed. 489

Fact that judgment may be revived pursuant to former Code Civ. Proc. § 685 (now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 683.110-683.220) does not constitute bar to action on judgment. Turner v. Donovan (1942) 52 Cal. App. 2d 236, 240, 126 P.2d 187 , cert. denied, 317 U.S. 599, 63 S. Ct. 260, 87 L. Ed. 489

[c] Limitations Period

Ten-year statute of limitations to renew judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 337.5(3) began to run on action to renew stipulated judgment when trial court entered stipulated judgment, unless parties agreed to judgment for purpose of facilitating appeal; thus, trial court properly dismissed action to renew stipulated judgment because it was filed more than 10 years after entry of stipulated judgment and there was no indication parties agreed to judgment to facilitate appeal. Cadle Co. II, Inc. v. Sundance Financial, Inc. (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 622, 624-626, 64 Cal. Rptr. 3d 824

Defense of laches is not available in action on judgment, which is action at law; action on judgment may be commenced at any time within 10-year statute of limitations prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 337.5(3). United States Capital Corp. v. Nickelberry (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 864, 867-868, 174 Cal. Rptr. 814

[d] Nature of Action

Action on judgment may be brought against local public entity defendant, if brought within 10 years after the judgment became final. Barkley v. City of Blue Lake (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 1745, 1750-1751, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 315

Action on judgment may be brought against private defendant, if brought within 10 years after the judgment became final. Green v. Zissis (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1219, 1222, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 406 ; Pratali v. Gates (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 632, 636-637, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 733

Action on judgment is an action based on contract in that the judgment becomes debt which judgment debtor is obligated to pay; law implies a contract on the part of judgment debtor to pay. Minor v. Minor (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 277, 279, 345 P.2d 954

Action on domestic judgment has long been recognized. Thomas v. Thomas (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 355, 358, 94 P.2d 810

Actions on domestic judgment are not limited to money judgments alone, but are also appropriate on a judgment for sale of property subject to lien or on decree enforceable by contempt. Thomas v. Thomas (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 355, 358, 94 P.2d 810

[e] Reasons for Bringing Action on Domestic Judgment

[i] To Extend Statutory Limitation on Period of Enforcement

Party who has failed to obtain necessary writ of execution and faces risk of passing 10-year period of limitation without obtaining writ is able to extend period during which such enforcement may be sought by bringing action on judgment; once action is begun, creditor's right to recover remains alive, even though 10-year period may have expired. Alonso Inv. Corp., Inc. v. Doff (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 539, 545, 131 Cal. Rptr. 411, 551 P.2d 1243 ; Atkinson v. Adkins (1928) 92 Cal. App. 424, 426, 268 P. 461

[ii] To Foreclose Lien

Inasmuch as execution will not lie on judgment in which lien is expressly created by judgment on particular property in absence of some provision in judgment ordering sale of security, judgment creditor is required to bring separate action on judgment to foreclose lien created by judgment. Roseburg Loggers, Inc. v. U.S. Plywood-Champion Papers, Inc. (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 742, 748, 537 P.2d 399 ; Wellborn v. Wellborn (1942) 55 Cal. App. 2d 516, 520, 131 P.2d 48

[iii] To Invoke Contempt Power of Another Court

Action on domestic judgment as allowed whenever plaintiff will secure some advantage by bringing action, including convenience of prosecuting judgment through contempt powers of local forum rather than those of distant court. Thomas v. Thomas (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 355, 358-359, 94 P.2d 810

[iv] To Preserve Priority of Judgment Lien

Action on judgment as serving to preserve judgment lien. Provisor v. Nelson, 44 Cal. Rptr. 894

When judgment is rendered in action on a prior judgment, second judgment as regarded as an extension of the first such that it would be inequitable and unfair to hold priority of lien under first judgment lost. Provisor v. Nelson (1965) 44 Cal. Rptr. 894

[f] Requirement of Finality

Cause of action upon judgment does not accrue until judgment becomes final. Hoover v. Galbraith (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 519, 526, 102 Cal. Rptr. 733, 498 P.2d 981

Statute of limitations on cause of action on domestic judgment begins running only after date of judgment becomes final. Turner v. Donovan (1942) 52 Cal. App. 2d 236, 239, 126 P.2d 187 , cert. denied, 317 U.S. 599, 63 S. Ct. 260, 87 L. Ed. 489

[2] Actions on Sister State Judgments-Controlling Law

Law of sister state constructed in harmony with decisions of sister state's highest court. In re Marriage of Moore (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1472, 1480, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 543

[3] Actions on Sister State Money Judgments

[a] Controlling Law

Full faith and credit is not required for judgment of another state where it would violate a fundamental state public policy. Smith v. Superior Court (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 1014, 1024, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 20

In action to enforce money judgment obtained outside California, court applyies governmental interest approach to determine what state's law to apply; under government interest approach Code Civ. Proc. § 337.5(3) (statute of limitations) applied to action to enforce New Mexico judgment when that state had no interest in having its law applied in California. American Bank of Commerce v. Corondoni (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 368, 371-373, 215 Cal. Rptr. 331

Differing public policy or laws of enforcing state does not contravene U.S. Const., art. IV, § 1 (full faith and credit clause), and California, despite policy objections, is required to recognize judgment of another state as res judicata; adoption decree rendered by Oklahoma court and upheld by Oklahoma appellate court, which litigated issue of jurisdiction, was protected by full faith and credit clause in California matter to determine heirship to estate of intestate decedent. Estate of Hart (1984) 165 Cal. App. 3d 392, 394-395, 397, 209 Cal. Rptr. 272

Law of state where judgment rendered controls its validity and finality. Smith v. Smith (1952) 115 Cal. App. 2d 92, 99, 251 P.2d 720

Enforcement procedures of each state are peculiar to it; method of enforcement of foreign judgment is governed by law of forum. Weir v. Corbett (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 290, 293, 40 Cal. Rptr. 161

California courts apply the California statute of limitations to action on sister state judgment, regardless of the fact that local time limit is shorter than period of limitations of sister state. Weir v. Corbett (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 290, 294, 40 Cal. Rptr. 161

Enforcement of sister state judgment is determined in some instances according to more liberal standards in California. Petersen v. Petersen (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 201, 206, 100 Cal. Rptr. 822

[b] Generally

Federal court, required to give full faith and credit to state-court judgment as another court of that state would give, was precluded from issuing injunction against enforcement of state-court judgment determining res judicata issue based on prior federal action, and precluded from claiming relitigation exception of Anti-Injunction Act (28 U.S.C. § 2283), which only applies if state court has not yet ruled on merits of res judicata issue. Parsons Steel v. First Alabama Bank (1986) 474 U.S. 518, 106 S. Ct. 768, 88 L. Ed. 2d 877, 883-884

Challenges of correctness of state court's determination of conclusive effect of federal judgment can be pursued only by way of appeal through state-court system and certiorari from United States Supreme Court, and not by seeking injunction of state court determination from federal court. Parsons Steel v. First Alabama Bank (1986) 474 U.S. 518, 106 S. Ct. 768, 88 L. Ed. 2d 877, 884-885

Trial court properly denied motion to vacate California judgment made pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.40(a), which was based on New York judgment entered on confession of judgment, when confession of judgment satisfied due process and trial court properly granted full faith and credit to New York judgment, since while defendant's affidavit acknowledging consultation with counsel did not strictly satisfy California's attorney affidavit requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1132, given fact that case involved sophisticated parties represented by counsel, affidavit was sufficient to allow conclusion defendant voluntarily waived its rights to due process. Capital Trust, Inc. v. Tri-National Development Corp. (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 824, 831, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 360

Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.40 may not be construed to deny full faith and credit to a sister-state judgment on showing that there would have been valid defense to judgment if action had been initiated in California. Washoe Dev. Co. v. Irving Sav. Ass'n (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 1518, 1523, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 479

Sister State Money-Judgment Act [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1710.10-1710.65] as constitutional in that judgment debtor is afforded right to nullify effect of foreign judgment in California before proposed California judgment is effectve to divest judgment debtor of any assets through execution. Magalnick v. Magalnick (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 753, 759, 159 Cal. Rptr. 889

Applicable statutes of limitations under Sister State Money-Judgments Act. Epps v. Russell (1976) 62 Cal. App. 3d 201, 204, 133 Cal. Rptr. 30

No greater effect can be given to any judgment of a court of one state, in another state, than is given to it in the state where rendered; usual and legitimate purpose, however, of suing on a foreign judgment is to reach assets which cannot be reached elsewhere, thus giving greater efficacy to judgment. Weir v. Corbett (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 290, 294-295, 40 Cal. Rptr. 161

[c] Grounds for Denying Enforcement of Sister State Judgment

[i] Generally

Action to enforce sister state judgment is not permitted absent allegation that defendant has not complied with terms of foreign decree. Young v. Young (1950) 100 Cal. App. 2d 85, 86, 223 P.2d 25

Effect of mistake of law in judgment rendered by sister state. Harrah v. Craig (1952) 113 Cal. App. 2d 67, 70, 247 P.2d 855

Denial of enforcement of sister state judgment based upon misconduct of plaintiff. Kubon v. Kubon (1958) 51 Cal. 2d 229, 231, 331 P.2d 636

[ii] Judgment Not Enforceable in State of Rendition

If judgment of sister state void for lack of jurisdiction and subject to collateral attack, judgment is not binding in California. Farley v. Farley (1964) 227 Cal. App. 2d 1, 6, 38 Cal. Rptr. 357

Full Faith and Credit Clause of Constitution [U.S. Const., Art IV, § 1] demands only that judgment of sister state receive as much recognition in California as it would in state rendering judgment. Farley v. Farley (1964) 227 Cal. App. 2d 1, 6, 38 Cal. Rptr. 357

Effect and validity judgment is not to be expanded by virtue of its being used as basis for California judgment. Gilmer v. Spitalny (1948) 84 Cal. App. 2d 39, 44, 189 P.2d 744

Res judicata effect of judgment rendered by sister state court within fundamental jurisdiction but which granted relief exceeding statutory limits. Farley v. Farley (1964) 227 Cal. App. 2d 1, 38 Cal. Rptr. 357

[iii] Judgment Void for Lack of Jurisdiction

Judgment void for lack of jurisdiction in Arizona is not enforceable in California. Arizona Dept. of Revenue v. Yuen (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 169, 178-180, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 525

Judgment void for lack of jurisdiction in sister state is not enforceable in California. Airlines Reporting Corp. v. Renda (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 14, 19-22, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 66

Trial court erred in granting defendants' motion to vacate Ohio default judgment, when there was no basis to conclude Ohio court acted in excess of its jurisdiction or that judgment was not enforceable in Ohio. Issue before trial court was whether, under Ohio law, prayer for relief of amount "in excess of" specified dollar amount would result in award of "no more than" than that dollar amount, and defendants, whose burden it was to establish that judgment was not enforceable in Ohio, failed to provide any Ohio authority to support their assertion that Ohio law provides that "in excess of" language in prayer for relief constituted ceiling rather than floor for recoverable damages. Traci & Marx. Co. v. Legal Options, Inc. (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 155, 158-160, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 685

Cognovit with warrant of attorney in bank's preprinted promissory note form authorizing attorney to confess judgment against debtor as insufficient without more to show voluntary and knowing waiver of due process rights to notice and hearing, and out-of-state judgment based thereon should be vacated under Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.40 as in excess of jurisdiction. Commercial Nat. Bank of Peoria v. Kermeen (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 396, 402, 275 Cal. Rptr. 122

Defendant in action to enforce foreign judgment is permitted to show that foreign judgment is in excess of jurisdiction, but in case in which party objecting to foreign judgment had retained attorney in foreign state, personal jurisdiction of foreign state in subsequent dispute over attorney's fees is proper. Vorys, Sater, Seymour & Pease v. Ryan (1984) 154

Judgment rendered by Indiana court against California defendant was not void for lack of jurisdiction, and enforceable under Sister State Money-Judgments Act [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1710.10-1710.65], when accident occurred in Indiana with defendant's vehicle, driven by defendant's minor, uninsured son. Indiana Ins. v. Pettigrew (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 862, 864-868, 171 Cal. Rptr. 770

Necessity of according full faith and credit to judgment of court of sister state which is valid and regular on its face. Seabron v. Seabron (1955) 133 Cal. App. 2d 374, 375, 284 P.2d 117

Judgment of sister state having no jurisdiction to render judgment is not entitled to full faith and credit and enforcement by another state. Sanpietro v. Collins (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 203, 208, 58 Cal. Rptr. 219

Invalidity of foreign judgment can be shown by extrinsic evidence, including evidence that process on which judgment was based was never served. Nelson v. Horvath (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 1, 3, 84 Cal. Rptr. 101

Enforcement of sister state judgments rendered in excess of sister state's jurisdiction. Bierl v. McMahon (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 97, 103, 75 Cal. Rptr. 473

[iv] Pending or Conditional Judgment

Necessity that judgment of sister state be final and unconditional. Farmers & Merchants Trust Co. v. Madeira (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 503, 507, 68 Cal. Rptr. 184

Oklahoma judgment, unstayed but under appeal in that state, is final for purpose of Full Faith and Credit Clause under U.S. Const., Art IV, § 1. Little v. Stevens (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 112, 113-114, 99 Cal. Rptr. 885

[d] Procedural Differences

Procedural matters as governed by law of forum state; terms "practice" and "procedure" as including mode of procedure by which legal right is enforced are distinguished from substantive law which gives or declares right; standard on appeal for test of waiver of jury trial is procedural matter determined by local rules. World Wide Imports, Inc., v. Bartel (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 1006, 1012-1013, 193 Cal. Rptr. 830

[e] Public Policy Differences

California court is required to give full faith and credit to sister state judgment if sister state had jurisdiction over parties and subject matter, and all interested parties were given reasonable notice and opportunity to be heard, even though strong public policy of California would have precluded recovery in California court on original claim. Silbrico Corp. v. Raanan (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 202, 207-208, 216 Cal. Rptr. 201

California is required under full faith and credit clause of U.S. Constitution to recognize judgment of another state as res judicata, regardless of policy objections, even though action or proceeding which resulted in judgment could not have been brought under law or policy of California. World Wide Imports, Inc., v. Bartel (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 1006, 1011, 193 Cal. Rptr. 830

[f] Satisfaction of Sister State Judgment

Plaintiff's cashing of defendant's check offered by defendant as full settlement of claim constituted accord and satisfaction under Tennessee law resulting in satisfaction of Tennessee judgment. Harris v. EMI Tel. Programs, Inc. (1980) 102 Cal. App. 3d 214, 219, 162 Cal. Rptr. 357

[g] Scope of Inquiry

Scope of inquiry regarding full faith and credit to sister state judgment was limited to question of whether or not forum court had jurisdiction in case; if jurisdiction over parties and subject matter proper, and all interested parties given reasonable notice and opportunity to be heard, full faith and credit must be given. Silbrico Corp. v. Raanan (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 202, 207-208, 216 Cal. Rptr. 201

On claim that foreign judgment not entitled to full faith and credit, permissible scope of inquiry is limited to determination of whether court of forum had fundamental jurisdiction in case; judgment rendered by one state must be recognized by another state if state of rendition had jurisdiction over parties and subject matter and all interested parties were given reasonable notice and opportunity to be heard. World Wide Imports, Inc., v. Bartel (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 1006, 1010, 193 Cal. Rptr. 830

[h] Types of Judgments Enforceable

New York money judgments reduced to final judgment in California under Sister State Money-Judgments Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.10 et seq.) was not subject to collateral attack by action under Revised Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 1650 et seq.; repealed and replaced by Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, Fam. Code § 4800 et seq., operative January 1, 1994) when California court had personal and subject matter jurisdiction and made final adjudication of claims. McCallum v. McCallum (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 308, 310, 314-315, 235 Cal. Rptr. 396

Ex-spouse's arrearages in support payments, reduced to money judgment in sister state, was a support order under Code Civ. Proc. § 1653(k) (repealed and replaced by Fam. Code § 155, operative January 1, 1994), and therefore not enforceable under Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.10. Morris v. Cohen (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 507, 513-514, 196 Cal. Rptr. 834 (criticizing contrary holding in Liebow v. Superior Court (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 573, 579-581, 175 Cal. Rptr. 26)

Ex-spouse's aggregate arrears in support payments due under sister state divorce decree when reduced to a nonmodifiable money judgment was enforceable under Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.10, rather than being unenforceable support order within Code Civ. Proc. § 1653(k). Liebow v. Superior Court (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 573, 581, 175 Cal. Rptr. 26

Attorney's fees and costs awarded to wife in New York judgment of dissolution were enforceable in California under Sister State Money-Judgments Act since they were not support as defined by Code Civ. Proc. § 1653(k), but rather a final, nonmodifiable money judgment for liquidated sum. Fishman v. Fishman (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 815, 818-822, 173 Cal. Rptr. 59

Default judgment obtained in District of Columbia is enforceable sister state judgment. Richard A. Viguerire Co. v. Noble (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 62, 64, 65, 161 Cal. Rptr. 435

Child support order of sister state was enforceable when, although action was brought by the state, it could have been brought by plaintiff and was not essentially dissimilar to civil action in California. Farmers & Merchants Trust Co. v. Madeira (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 503, 508, 68 Cal. Rptr. 184

Enforcement of money judgment is proper subject of action to enforce sister state judgment. Sanpietro v. Collins (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 203, 207, 58 Cal. Rptr. 219

Enforcement of child custody decrees of other states is matter of comity, rather than of strict full faith and credit. In re Walker (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 217, 221, 39 Cal. Rptr. 243

Equity decrees accorded full faith and credit are equivalent to any other kind of judgment. Rozan v. Rozan (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 322, 331, 317 P.2d 11

Divorce decree issued by sister state is enforceable in California under Full Faith and Credit Clause of Constitution [U.S. Const., Art IV, § 1]. Worthley v. Worthley (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 465, 466, 283 P.2d 19

Sister state judgment adjudging rights in deficiency judgment is enforceable. Gill v. Wolf (1948) 190 P.2d 52

Decree of specific performance for the conveyance of real property in sister state is subject to enforcement by courts in which land is located as evidence of the equities determined unless impeached for fraud. Redwood Inv. Co. v. Exley (1923) 64 Cal. App. 455, 459, 221 P. 973

Penal judgment is not entitled to enforcement under Full Faith and Credit Clause of Constitution [U.S. Const., Art IV, § 1]. Farmers & Merchants Trust Co. v. Madeira (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 503, 508, 68 Cal. Rptr. 184

[4] Orders Appealable

Order vacating notice of exception to sureties and demand for justification and for sanctions, which was entered after order granting stay of execution of sister state money judgment, conditioned on filing of undertaking, is appealable order under Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1, since entry of judgment pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1710.10-1710.65 is final judgment, issues presented could not have been heard on appeal from judgment itself, and order affects enforcement of judgment. Williams v. Thomas (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 81, 84-85, 166 Cal. Rptr. 141

[5] Sister State Money-Judgments Act

Motion based on mistake, excusable neglect and inadvertence under Code Civ. Proc. § 473 is procedural remedy, not defense, and therefore may not be utilized vacate entry of sister state judgment in California; when default judgment was entered after defendant failed to attend New Jersey trial because he was ill and hospitalized, appropriate method of attack is under California's Sister State Money Judgments Act, not Section 473 motion. Liquidator of Integrity Ins. Co. v. Hendrix (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 971, 978, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 240

Sister State Money-Judgments Act (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1710.10-1710.65) was not applicable to enforcement of out of state judgment for child support arrearages, which must be registered under RURESA to be enforceable, because legislature intended that all foreign support orders be enforced under RURESA, despite language indicating that RURESA's remedies are cumulative. Neuman v. Barbera (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 437, 442-443, 210 Cal. Rptr. 556

Conservator of judgment creditor may file application for entry of judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.15 on behalf of conservatee whether or not conservator is attorney licensed to practice in California. Kessler v. Kessler (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 94, 97, 190 Cal. Rptr. 109

Purpose of Sister State Money-Judgments Act is to provide simplified alternative to common-law action of debt sur record for establishing a foreign money judgment as enforceable judgment in California. Epps v. Russell (1976) 62

Cal. App. 3d 201, 203, 133 Cal. Rptr. 30

Filing of application to register sister state money judgment is governed by 10-year statute of limitations in Code Civ. Proc. § 337.5; such filing as tolling statute. Epps v. Russell (1976) 62 Cal. App. 3d 201, 204, 133 Cal. Rptr. 30

[6] Former Uniform Foreign Money-Judgments Recognition Act

Note:

The Uniform Foreign Money-Judgments Recognition Act [former Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1713-1713.8 (repealed 1/1/08)] has been repealed and replaced by the Uniform Foreign-Country Money Judgments Recognition Act [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1713-1724] effective January 1, 2008. However, the former Uniform Foreign Money-Judgments Recognition Act continues to apply to actions commenced before January 1, 2008, in which the issue of recognition of a foreign-country judgment is raised [Code Civ. Proc. § 1724(b)]. For discussion, see §§ 318.183[1], 318.184[1].

[a] In General

Foreign state had sufficient personal jurisdiction over defendant under former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.5(b) (repealed 1/1/08) to allow enforcement of foreign judgment when defendant had sufficient minimum contracts with foreign state to meet American due process standards. Bank of Montreal v. Kough (9th Cir. 1980) 612 F.2d 467, 470, 471 (deciding issue which lacked California precedent)

Reciprocity is not required to enforce foreign judgment under Former Uniform Foreign Money-Judgments Recognition Act [former Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1713-1713.8 (repealed 1/1/08)]. Bank of Montreal v. Kough (9th Cir. 1980) 612 F.2d 467, 471-472 (deciding issue which lacked California precedent)

When foreign judgment is appealed, and foreign nation's law provides that judgment on appeal is not final, former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.2 (repealed 1/1/08) does not permit California court to recognize judgment. Manco Contracting Company v. Bezdikian (2008) 45 Cal. 4th 192, 198-204, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 233, 195 P.3d 604

Based on directive former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.3 (repealed 1/1/08) that foreign judgments be enforced in same manner as sister state judgments, 10-year statute of limitations applicable to actions on sister state judgments set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 337.5 also applies to actions on foreign judgments. Manco Contracting Company v. Bezdikian (2008) 45 Cal. 4th 192, 204-210, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 233, 195 P.3d 604

Attorney's fees award in foreign judgment not "penalty" and was not repugnant to public policy. Java Oil Limited v. Sullivan (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 1178, 1186-1192, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 177

In action to enforce in French judgment in California, trial court erred in enforcing only portion of French judgment and denying enforcement of portion of judgment to be paid "as a reserve" on ground that it was a provisional remedy not enforceable under Uniform Foreign Money-Judgments Recognition Act, when, under former Code Civ. Proc. § 1713.2 (repealed 1/1/2008), French court awarded sum of money that was final judgment, and that judgment was immediately enforceable. Societe Civile Succession Richard Guino v. Redstar Corp. (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 697, 702-706, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 224

After plaintiffs obtained French judgment against defendants and sought to have judgment enforced in California under former Foreign Money-Judgments Act, trial court erred in denying defendants' motion to set aside judgment as void for lack of personal jurisdiction based on plaintiffs' failure to serve summons on defendants, when enforcement proceeding under Act was not special proceeding in which process was something other than summons, and plaintiffs' label of "Petition" on pleading was of no significance, and defendants' knowledge of action did not satisfy requirement of adequate service of summons and complaint. Defendants' brief references to issues related to whether trial court correctly enforced French judgment did not constitute general appearance because defendants expressly adhered to their position that trial court had no personal jurisdiction over them. Renoir v. Redstar Corp. (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1145, 1149-1154, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 603

Requirement that foreign money judgment be conclusive to be recognized and enforced in same manner as judgment of sister state is entitled to full faith and credit; judgment is not conclusive if foreign court did not acquire personal jurisdiction over defendant; when no informative notice was given defendant in English, documents and correspondence served on defendant did not give him sufficient notice of pending Swiss action and consequently Swiss court never acquired basis on which to adjudicate claim of personal jurisdiction over defendant; trial court properly granted defendant's motion for summary judgment in action under former Uniform Foreign Money-Judgments Recognition Act [former Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1713-1713.8 (repealed 1/1/08)]. Julen v. Larson (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 325, 327-330, 101 Cal. Rptr. 796

Foreign judgment is not required to be recognized if cause of action or defense on which judgment is based is repugnant to public policy of state. Pentz v. Kuppinger (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 590, 597, 107 Cal. Rptr. 540

Where judgment debtor provides adequate security for payment of judgment and no prejudice to creditors appears, refusal of stay of enforcement is abuse of discretion. Stevens v. Superior Court (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 1, 4, 104 Cal. Rptr. 369

[b] Satisfaction of California Judgment Establishing Foreign Judgment

When Canadian judgment against defendant expressed in Canadian dollars was established against defendant in California under former Uniform Foreign Money-Judgments Recognition Act (former Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1713-1713.8 (repealed 1/1/08)), California judgment stated amount to be recovered in American dollars using exchange rate in effect at time of Canadian judgment, number of dollars awarded was greater in value than current value of Canadian dollars, and defendant subsequently satisfied Canadian judgment in Canada with Canadian dollars, trial court as properly ordering satisfaction of California judgment in full, over plaintiff's objection that defendant's payment was deficient due to intervening fall in value of Canadian dollar against American dollar. Pecaflor Construction Co. v. Landes (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 342, 344-345, 243 Cal. Rptr. 605

In the Matter of the Confession of Judgment by _____ [name], Defendant, vs. _____ [name], Plaintiff.	)))))))	NO. _____ ATTORNEY'S DECLARATION IN SUPPORT OF STATEMENT CONFESSING JUDGMENT

I, _____ [name], declare:

I am an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for _____ [name of defendant], the party confessing judgment in the above-entitled cause.

I further declare that I have examined the proposed judgment and have advised _____ [name of defendant] with respect to the waiver of rights and defenses under the confession of judgment procedure and have advised _____ [name of defendant] to utilize the confession of judgment procedure.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

Attorney for Defendant _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

This form of declaration is for use in supporting a statement confessing judgment. A judgment by confession may be entered only if an attorney independently representing the defendant signs a certificate that he or she has examined the proposed judgment and has advised the defendant with respect to the waiver of rights and defenses under the confession of judgment procedure and has advised the defendant to utilize the confession of judgment procedure. The certificate is required to be filed along with the statement confessing judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1132(b)].

[3] Constitutionality

In a case not involving the attorney's certificate required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1132(b), the Supreme Court held that the confession of judgment procedure authorized by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1132-1134 violates the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment by providing insufficient safeguards to assure that the debtor executed a voluntary, knowing, and intelligent waiver of his or her due process rights [Isbell v. Sonoma County (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 61, 75, 145 Cal. Rptr. 368, 577 P.2d 188] . The court specifically noted that it was not deciding the constitutionality of that procedure in a case where the required attorney's certificate is filed [Isbell v. Sonoma County (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 61, 74 n. 7, 145 Cal. Rptr. 368, 577 P.2d 188] .

[4] Decisions

Judgment by confession is entered only on certification of advisement of debtor's rights by attorney independently representing defendant debtor. Wax v. Infante (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 138, 140-141, 187 Cal. Rptr. 686

[2] Use of Form

This form of statement is for use by a defendant in confessing judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1133]. The statement must be accompanied by an attorney's certificate substantially as shown in see § 318.320 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1132(b)].

[3] Constitutionality

In a case not involving the attorney's certificate required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1132(b), the Supreme Court held the confession of judgment procedure authorized by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1132-1134 to be unconstitutional [Isbell v. Sonoma County (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 61, 75, 145 Cal. Rptr. 368, 577 P.2d 188] . See Comments to see § 318.320.

[4] Filing of Statement

The statement must be filed with the clerk of the court in which the judgment is to be entered, who must endorse upon it, and enter a judgment of the court for the amount confessed with the costs as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1134(b) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1134(a)].

[2] Use of Form

This form of judgment is for use by a plaintiff who has obtained a statement confessing judgment from a defendant [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1133]. Printed forms of such judgments are available and used in many counties.

[3] Constitutionality

In a case not involving the attorney's certificate required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1132(b) [see § 318.320], the Supreme Court held the confession of judgment procedure authorized by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1132-1134 to be unconstitutional [Isbell v. Sonoma County (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 61, 75, 145 Cal. Rptr. 368, 577 P.2d 188] . See Comments to see § 318.320.

[4] Entry of Judgment

The statement confessing judgment [see § 318.321] must be filed with the clerk of the court in which the judgment is to be entered. The clerk must endorse upon it, and enter a judgment of the court, for the amount confessed, with the costs provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1134(b) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1134(a)].

[5] Fees

At the time of filing, the plaintiff must pay, as court costs that become a part of the judgment, a fee prescribed by statute [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1134(b)]. No fee may be collected from the defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 1134(b)]. The statement and affidavit, with the judgment endorsed on them, together with the certificate filed pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1132, become the judgment roll [Code Civ. Proc. § 1134(c)].

[6] State Statutes

Entry of judgment after filing of statement confessing judgment; fees; judgment roll. Code Civ. Proc. § 1134

ORDER

IT IS ORDERED that judgment be entered pursuant to the terms of the stipulated settlement between the parties, as follows: _____ [describe judgment to be entered, e.g., dismissing plaintiff's second cause of action, or for the sum of $_____, and for costs of suit in the amount of $_____] pursuant to the terms of the settlement stipulated to by defendant and plaintiff. [The respective parties shall each bear their own costs.] The judgment entered pursuant to this stipulation _____ [shall or shall not] accrue interest. [The court retains jurisdiction over the parties at their request in order to enforce the settlement until performance in full of its terms.]
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the _____ Court

This form of stipulation and order is for use in entering a judgment pursuant to a stipulation between the parties after an oral motion and without the filing of a notice of motion. Both parties and their attorneys should sign it. For a form of notice of motion to move for entry of judgment pursuant to the terms of a settlement, see § 318.324.

A stipulation may be a writing signed by the parties outside the presence of the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.6]. For a form in writing to stipulate a settlement that does not include the order, see § 318.323. The parties may also agree to a stipulated settlement orally before the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.6; see § 318.324, for a form of order that can be used with an oral stipulation see § 318.323]. The parties may request that the court retain jurisdiction over the parties to enforce the settlement until its terms are fully performed [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.6; see § 318.327, for a form for entering a stipulated judgment payable in installments].

Local court procedure may require that if the parties enter into a written stipulation for judgment, the form of the proposed judgment to be signed and filed should be a separate document [see, e.g., Los Angeles Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.97]. In such instances, the attached form of order in the foregoing form should not be used and a separate form of judgment on stipulation for entry of judgment in see § 318.328 should be used. A copy of the proposed judgment may be attached as an exhibit to, or incorporated by recital in, the stipulation.

[2] Use of Form

This form of stipulation for entry of judgment is for use when the judgment is to be paid in installments pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 664.6. Every judgment providing for periodic payment to a party or attorney should state the amount payable to each individual, the date of commencement, and the frequency and duration of payment [see, e.g., Los Angeles Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 3.0(d)]. Both parties and their attorneys should sign it. For a form of notice of motion for entry of a stipulated judgment, see § 318.324. For a form of order for entering a stipulated judgment, see § 318.325. For a general form for use after an oral motion that combines the stipulation and order for entering judgment, see § 318.326. [2] Use of Form

This form of judgment is for use in entering a judgment pursuant to a stipulation on the facts. A judgment on stipulation of facts differs from a stipulation for entry of judgment [see § 318.326] in that the stipulation of facts is not an admission of liability, but a submission of facts so that the court may rule thereon. A stipulation for judgment, on the other hand, constitutes an admission that defendant is liable for the amount of the judgment stipulated to.

For a more complete discussion of stipulations, see Ch. 533, Stipulations .

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form of notice is for use in giving notice of the time set for trial. It is intended for use by counsel when the party, rather than the clerk, serves notice of trial.

In superior and municipal courts, either party may bring an issue to trial or to a hearing and, in the absence of the adverse party, unless the court for good cause otherwise directs, may proceed with the case and take a dismissal, verdict, or judgment, as the case may require if proper notice as prescribed in *Code Civ. Proc. § 594(a)-(b)*has been made [Code Civ. Proc. § 594(a)]. This form is offered here for use by counsel in serving adequate notice to support such a judgment. It should be noted that printed forms are available from the court clerk in many counties.

[3] Notice Requirements

If the issue to be tried is an issue of fact, proof must first be made to the satisfaction of the court that the adverse party has had 15 days' notice of the trial or five days' notice of the trial in an unlawful detainer action. If the adverse party has served notice of trial upon the party seeking the dismissal, verdict, or judgment at least five days prior to the trial, the adverse party is deemed to have such notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 594(a)].

The notice to the adverse party required by Code Civ. Proc. § 594(a) shall be served by mail on all parties by the clerk not less than 20 days prior to the date set for trial and not less than ten days prior to the date set for trial in an unlawful detainer action. If not served by the clerk, notice may be served by mail by any party on an adverse party not less than 15 days prior to the date set for trial, and in an unlawful detainer action not less than ten days prior to the date set for trial. The time provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 will not serve to extend the notice of trial requirements under Code Civ. Proc. § 594(b) for unlawful detainer actions [Code Civ. Proc. § 594(b)]. For a form of proof of service under Code Civ. Proc. § 594(b), see § 318.331.

[4] State Statutes

Either party as capable of bringing an issue to trial or to hearing and then taking dismissal, verdict, or judgment; proof of notice to adverse party as required to be 15 days generally and ten days in unlawful detainer actions. Code Civ. Proc. § 594(a)

[5] Decisions

Entry of judgment after trial held in party's absence without notice prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 594 as in excess of court's jurisdiction. Irvine National Bank v. Han (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 693, 697, 181 Cal. Rptr. 864 ; Wilson v. Goldman (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 573, 577, 79 Cal. Rptr. 309

Person to be served with notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 594 as having burden of notifying court of any change of address; failure to do so as not enabling him or her to claim improper notice. Westervelt v. Robertson (1981) 176 Cal. Rptr. 94

This cause came on regularly for trial on _____ [date], in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] the above-entitled court, the Honorable _____ Judge, presiding. Plaintiff appeared by his/her/its attorney _____ [name] and defendant appeared by his/her/its attorney _____ [name].

A jury of _____ [number] persons was regularly impaneled and sworn to try the action. Witnesses on the part of both plaintiff and defendant were sworn and examined. After hearing the evidence, the arguments of counsel, and instructions of the court, the jury retired to consider their verdict, subsequently returned to court, and being called, answered to their names and duly rendered their verdict in writing, in words and figures, as follows:

[2] Use of Form

This form of judgment is a general form for use in the preparation of a judgment on a general verdict. By way of example only, the judgment is one awarding the plaintiff a monetary recovery or one in which the plaintiff takes nothing and the defendant recovers costs and disbursements. The format, insofar as it pertains to the rendition of a judgment on a general verdict, may be adapted as appropriate for other types of actions.

Printed forms of judgments on general verdicts, in substantially the same language as this form, are available from the county clerk's office in many counties.

Since Code Civ. Proc. § 664 requires that once a trial by jury has been had, judgment must be entered by the clerk in conformity to the verdict within 24 hours after rendition of the verdict, it is not general practice for the attorney to prepare the judgment on the verdict or for the judge to sign the judgment form. Instead, most counties provide a standardized verdict form which is signed by the jury foreperson and then sent to the clerk who enters the judgment in the record.

[3] General and Special Verdicts

The verdict of a jury is either general or special. A general verdict is that by which the jurors pronounce generally upon all or any of the issues, either in favor of the plaintiff or defendant; a special verdict is that by which the jury finds the facts only, leaving the judgment to the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 624; see McCoy v. Gustafson (2009) 180 Cal. App. 4th

56, 6970, 103 Cal. Rptr. 3d 37]. For a discussion and form of a special verdict, see § 318.334.

For discussion of verdicts generally, see Ch. 326A, Jury Verdicts .

[4] Where Conflict Exists

In all cases the court may direct the jury to find a special verdict in writing, on all or any of the issues, and in all cases may instruct them, if they render a general verdict, to find on particular questions of fact, to be stated in writing, and may direct a written finding thereon. In all cases in which the issue of punitive damages is presented to the jury the court shall direct the jury to find a special verdict in writing separating punitive damages from compensatory damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 625].

The special verdict or finding must be filed with the clerk and entered in the minutes [Code Civ. Proc. § 625].

Where a special finding of facts is inconsistent with the general verdict, the former controls the latter, and the court must give judgment accordingly [Code Civ. Proc. § 625].

[5] Sufficiency of Judgment

The test of the sufficiency of a judgment rests in its substance rather than its form. The form of the judgment is not very material, provided that in substance it shows distinctly and not inferentially that the matter has been determined in favor of one of the litigants or that the rights of the parties in litigation have been adjudicated [Oppenheimer v. Deutchman (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 501, 503, 326 P.2d 883] .

[6] Stated Amount of Judgment

In a judgment awarding money, the amount is computed and stated in dollars and cents, rejecting fractions [Code Civ. Proc. § 577.5].

[7] Entry of Judgment

In superior courts, on receipt of a verdict, an entry must be made in the minutes of the court, specifying the time of the trial, the names of the jurors and witnesses, and setting out the verdict at length [Code Civ. Proc. § 628].

[8] Finding on Amount of Recovery

When a verdict is found for the plaintiff in an action for the recovery of money, or for the cross complainant when a cross complaint for the recovery of money is established, the jury must also find the amount of the recovery [Code Civ. Proc. § 626].

[9] State Statutes

Definition of judgment. Code Civ. Proc. § 577

In a contested case in which an answer is filed, court as authorized to grant relief which is consistent with case made by complaint and embraced within the issue. Code Civ. Proc. § 580

Judgment as not effectual for any purpose until entered; entry as required to be made whether or not a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict is pending. Code Civ. Proc. § 664

[11] Decisions

When case is tried on the merits, issues thoroughly explored during course of trial and theory of trial is well known to court and counsel, fact that issues were not pleaded does not preclude an adjudication of those litigated issues and a review of that adjudication on appeal. Davis v. Cordova Recreation & Park Dist. (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 789, 794, 101 Cal. Rptr. 358

Fact that judgment is not in conformity with memorandum opinion does not affect validity of final judgment; no antecedent expression of the judge, whether casual or cast in form of an opinion, restrict the power to declare a final conclusion by filing the decision. Taormino v. Denny (1970) 1 Cal. 3d 679, 684, 83 Cal. Rptr. 359, 463 P.2d 711

Judgment is final only when it determines all of the rights of the parties and requires no further judicial action to give effect to its provisions. Associated Convalescent Enterprises v. Carl Marks & Co., Inc. (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 116, 121, 108 Cal. Rptr. 782

When good grounds exist for granting of legal or equitable relief, judgment is given to party entitled thereto as a matter of right and not of grace. Collins v. Collins (1957) 48 Cal. 2d 325, 333-334, 309 P.2d 420

Order for judgment or written opinion of a judge is not judgment. Grable v. Grable (1960) 180 Cal. App. 2d 353, 359, 4 Cal. Rptr. 353

Only one final judgment is recognized in action and that one is one which in effect ends suit in court in which it was entered and finally determines rights of parties in relation to matter in controversy. In re Marriage of Fink (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 357, 361, 126 Cal. Rptr. 626

Rule as to single judgments has no application to actions in which separate and independent relief is sought against several defendants. Stafford v. Yerge (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 851, 854, 294 P.2d 721

In general, same rules apply in ascertaining meaning of court order or judgment as in ascertaining meaning of any other writing; language of writing governs its interpretation if language is clear and explicit and does not involve an absurdity. In re Estate of Careaga (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 471, 475, 39 Cal. Rptr. 215, 393 P.2d 415

When ambiguity exists in judgment, entire record, including findings of fact and conclusions of law, is properly examined to determine scope and effect of judgment. Nunes v. Nunes (1964) 62 Cal. 2d 33, 39, 41 Cal. Rptr. 5, 396 P.2d 37 ; In re Estate of Careaga (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 471, 475, 39 Cal. Rptr. 215, 393 P.2d 415

General verdict as importing finding in favor of prevailing party on all averments in the pleading material to recovery. Behr v. Santa Cruz County (1959) 172 Cal. App. 2d 697, 712, 342 P.2d 987

[Caption. See § 318.333.]

This action came on regularly for trial by jury on _____ [date], with plaintiff _____ [name] appearing [in person and] by _____ [name], his/her attorney, and defendant appearing [in person and] by _____ [name], his/her attorney; a jury of _____ [number] persons was duly impaneled and sworn; witnesses testified; and after being duly instructed by the court, the jury deliberated and thereon duly returned the following special verdicts: "_____ [incorporate verbatim copy of jury's special verdicts]."

It appearing that by reason of those special verdicts, plaintiff is entitled to judgment against defendant for the possession of the following described personal property: _____ [describe personal property]; for damages; for interest; and for costs;

NOW, THEREFORE, IT IS ADJUDGED, ORDERED, AND DECREED that plaintiff _____ [name] recover from defendant _____ [name] the possession of the following described personal property: _____ [describe personal property].

IT IS FURTHER ADJUDGED, ORDERED, AND DECREED that in case possession of the property cannot be had, then plaintiff _____ [name] recover from defendant _____ [name] its value, which is fixed at $_____.

IT IS FURTHER ADJUDGED, ORDERED, AND DECREED that plaintiff recover from defendant the sum of

$_____ in damages for detention of the property, the further sum of $_____ in interest to the date of judgment herein, and costs at $_____.
Dated: _____.

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

This form of judgment is for use after a special verdict has been returned by a jury in superior court. By way of example only, this judgment awards the plaintiff recovery of personal property or its value in the event that delivery of the property cannot be made, damages for detention, interest, and costs. The procedural format of the form may be adapted for other types of judgments based on special verdicts.

[3] Entry of Verdict or Judgment

In superior courts, on receipt of a verdict an entry must be made in the minutes of the court, specifying the time of the trial, the names of the jurors and witnesses, and setting out the verdict at length. Where a special verdict is found, the jury must specify either the judgment rendered or, if the case is reserved for argument or further consideration, the order thus reserving it [Code Civ. Proc. § 628].

[4] Recovery of Personal Property

By way of example only, the foregoing judgment is structured in conformity with Code Civ. Proc. § 667 in that it awards possession of the property to the plaintiff or, if such possession cannot be had, its value in a fixed amount, and damages for the detention of the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 667].

The judgment should specify the value of each item of personal property claimed so that if only part of the property can be found, the party obtaining the judgment can recover the value of the items not found [see Black v. Black (1888) 74 Cal. 520, 521-522, 16 P. 311] .

[2] Use of Form

This form of judgment is for use by counsel in preparing a judgment for the designated party after trial by a superior court. It offers a general format which may be adapted for judgments in particular types of actions as required. The Judicial Council-approved form for optional use for a judgment [JUD-100] may also be used for judgment after court trial. See § 318.340.

[3] Announcement of Decision Not Judgment

On the trial of a question of fact by the court, the court must announce its tentative decision by an oral statement, entered in the minutes, or by a written statement filed with the clerk [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(a)]. The tentative decision does not constitute a judgment and is not binding on the court. If the court subsequently modifies or changes its announced tentative decision, the clerk will serve a copy of the modification or change on all parties who appeared at the trial [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(b)].

The court in its tentative decision may [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(c)]:

- State that it is the court's proposed statement of decision, subject to a party's objection under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590(g);
- Indicate that the court will prepare a statement of decision;
- Order a party to prepare a statement of decision; or
- Direct that the tentative decision will become the statement of decision unless, within 10 days after announcement or service of the tentative decision, a party specifies those principal controverted issues as to which the party is requesting a statement of decision or makes proposals not included in the tentative decision.

[4] Statement of Decision

On the request of any party appearing at a trial, the court must issue a statement of decision explaining the factual and legal basis for its decision as to each of the principal controverted issues at trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 632].

[2] Use of Form

This form is an illustration of Judicial Council Form CIV-130, Notice of Entry of Judgment or Order, adopted by the Judicial Council for optional use [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.35]. This form may be used to give notice of entry of judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(a) by the party submitting the judgment for entry. Copies of the notice must be mailed to all parties who have appeared in the action or proceeding. The original notice of entry of judgment together with proof of service by mail must be filed with the court. For discussion of when the notice must be given, see § 318.55. For a form of the required proof of service, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

The mailing of notice of entry, as opposed to filing proof of service, starts the time period for filing a motion for new trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 659], a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 629, 659], and a motion to vacate the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 663a].

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use in preparing a notice of motion to insert interest on a judgment. Generally, the prejudgment interest sought will be specified in the prayer of the complaint. If the court determines that the plaintiff is entitled to prejudgment interest, it would normally be included in the total award without further court proceedings.

Regardless of whether or not a party is entitled to prejudgment interest, Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1802, requires that the clerk include in the judgment any interest awarded by the court and the interest accrued since the entry of the verdict. If for any reason such interest is not included, the party entitled to interest should either move orally for such interest or notice a motion in the format suggested here.

[3] Prejudgment Interest

The most appropriate time to assert one's right to prejudgment interest is prior to trial because an award of prejudgment interest may turn on a question of fact or may be within the court's discretion. There is, however, no uniform procedure for doing so. It is therefore suggested that the issue be raised and briefed in the party's trial brief.

After judgment, if a party contends that prejudgment interest has been incorrectly omitted (or included), this issue can be raised in a nonstatutory postjudgment motion in the foregoing format, in a motion to vacate the judgment on the grounds of excessive or inadequate damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(5)], or in a motion to vacate the judgment on the grounds of incorrect legal basis for the decision or because the judgment is not supported by the special verdict [Code Civ. Proc. § 663].

[Body of judgment. See, e.g., §§ 318.322, 318.329, 8, 9, 10, 11.]

IT IS ADJUDGED AND ORDERED, that Defendant _____ [name] pay to Plaintiff _____ [name] the sum of _____ [amount in the foreign money] plus interest on that sum at the rate of _____ [specify rate; see Code Civ. Proc. § 676.9] percent a year or, at the option of the judgment debtor, the number of United States dollars which will purchase the _____ [name of foreign money] with interest due, at a bank-offered spot rate at or near the close of business on the banking day next before the day of payment, together with assessed costs of $_____ United States dollars.

Judge of the _____ Court

[2] Use of Form

This form of judgment is for use in stating a judgment or award on a foreign money claim under the Uniform Foreign-Money Claims Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 676 et seq.]. The form conforms to the statutory language prescribed under Code Civ. Proc. § 676.7(f); a judgment substantially in this form complies with Code Civ. Proc. § 676.7(a). The judgment or award is payable in that foreign money, or, at the option of the debtor, in the amount of the United States dollars that will purchase that foreign money on the conversion date at a bank-offered spot rate [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.7(b) (see definition of "bank-offered spot rate" under Definitions, below)].

The foregoing form should be combined with other forms of judgment, showing that the rights of the parties in litigation have been adjudicated [Code Civ. Proc. § 664; Oppenheimer v. Deutchman (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 501, 503, 326 P.2d 883 ; see §§ 318.322, 318.329].

[3] Definitions

"Spot rate" means the rate of exchange at which foreign money is sold by a bank or other dealer in foreign exchange for immediate or next-day availability or for settlement by immediate payment in cash or equivalent, by charge to an account, or by an agreed delayed settlement not exceeding two days [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.1(11)].

The "bank-offered spot rate" means the spot rate of exchange at which a bank will sell foreign money at a spot rate [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.1(2)].

The "conversion date" is the banking day next preceding the date on which money, in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 676 et seq., is (1) paid to a claimant in an action or distribution proceeding; (2) paid to the official designated by law to enforce a judgment or award on behalf of a claimant; or (3) used to recoup, setoff, or counterclaim in different moneys in an action or distribution proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.1(3)].

[4] Entry of Money Judgment in Foreign Currency

[a] In General

A judgment is to be entered in foreign money in the same manner as other judgments [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.7(h)]. With the exception of assessed costs, which are entered in United States dollars, a judgment or award on a foreign-money claim is to be stated in the amount of the money of the claim [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.7(a), (c)].

[b] Contract for Payment in Foreign Currency; Distribution Proceedings

If a contract claim is of the type covered by Code Civ. Proc. § 676.5(a) (amount contracted to be paid in foreign money to be measured by specified amount of different money) or Code Civ. Proc. § 676.5(b) (amount contracted to be paid in foreign money to be measured by different money at rate of exchange prevailing on date before default), the judgment or award is to be entered for the amount of money stated to measure the obligation to be paid in the money specified for payment or, at the option of the debtor, the number of United States dollars that will purchase the computed amount of the money of payment on the conversion date at a bank-offered spot rate [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.7(g)].

The rate of exchange prevailing at or near the close of business on the day the distribution proceeding is initiated governs all exchanges of foreign money in a distribution proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.8].

[c] Proceeding Involving Defense, Setoff, Recoupment, or Counterclaim

A judgment or award made in an action or distribution proceeding on both (1) a defense, setoff, recoupment, or counterclaim and (2) the adverse party's claim, is to be netted by converting the money of the smaller into the money of the larger, and by subtracting the smaller from the larger, and to specify the rates of exchange used [Code Civ. Proc. § 676.7(e)].

[5] State Statutes

Uniform Foreign-Money Claims Act. Code Civ. Proc. § 676 et seq.

Effect of Judgment entered in foreign-money as same as lien. Code Civ. Proc. § 676.7(h).

Prejudgment or preaward interest in foreign-money claims as generally governed by state conflict-of-law rules. Code Civ. Proc. § 676.9(a), (b)

Postjudgment interest in foreign-money claims as bearing interest at rate applicable to California judgments. Code Civ. Proc. § 676.9(c)

[2] Use of Form

This form of notice of motion is for use in amending a judgment nunc pro tunc.

[3] Amendment, Modification, and Correction

Both according to statute and by virtue of the inherent power of the court, a court may, upon motion of the injured party, or its own motion, correct clerical mistakes in its judgments or orders as entered, so as to conform to the judgment or order directed [Code Civ. Proc. § 473; In re Candelario (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 702, 705, 91 Cal. Rptr. 497, 477 P.2d 729] .

Although the trial court may correct its own inadvertence or clerical error, it can correct judicial error only on a motion for new trial or on a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 663 to vacate the order or judgment and enter a different one [Greene v. Superior Court (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 403, 405-406, 10 Cal. Rptr. 817, 359 P.2d 249] . The distinction between clerical error and judicial error is whether the error was made in rendering the judgment or in recording the judgment rendered [People v. Anderson (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 831, 839, 131 Cal. Rptr. 104] .

[4] Antedating Judgment

The general rule is that the inherent power of the court to enter a judgment nunc pro tunc so as to relate back to the time when it should have been entered may be exercised only to avoid injustice and thus preserve the rights of the litigants. Accordingly, the entry of such a judgment is granted or refused in view of the circumstances of a particular case [Young v. Gardner-Denver Co. (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 915, 919, 53 Cal. Rptr. 522] .

[5] Notice and Time Requirements

The general rule regarding motions to correct or amend judgments with respect to clerical errors is that such motions may be made under the court's inherent power to correct judgments without notice and on the court's own motion so as to make them conform to judicial decision actually, and regardless of the lapse of time [In re Roberts (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 95, 97, 19 Cal. Rptr. 147] . However, counsel should notice the motion at the earliest possible date in order to avoid any later challenges as to procedures and timeliness [see Badella v. Miller (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 81, 279 P.2d 729] .

[6] State Statutes

Power of trial court to correct clerical errors in judgments on court's own motion or on motion of injured party. Code Civ. Proc. § 473

[7] Decisions

Function and purpose of nunc pro tunc order. Martin v. Martin (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 752, 760-761, 87 Cal. Rptr. 526, 470 P.2d 662 ; Young v. Gardner-Denver Co. (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 915, 919, 53 Cal. Rptr. 522

Although expressly recognized by statute, courts as having been recognized as having the power to correct clerical errors independent of any statute; such power as unaffected by the pendency of appeal or habeas corpus proceedings. In re Candelario (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 702, 705, 91 Cal. Rptr. 497, 477 P.2d 729

Test for determining nature of error sought to be corrected. In re Daoud (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 879, 882, 129 Cal. Rptr. 673, 549 P.2d 145

Failure to fill in blank spaces in judgment as constituting clerical error subject to nunc pro tunc amendment. Lang v. Superior Court of Orange County (1961) 198 Cal. App. 2d 16, 17, 18 Cal. Rptr. 67

Failure to expressly state that the defendants, naming them, were personally liable for the debt in question, stating its amount, as a proper subject for correction by amendment. Lang v. Superior Court of Orange County (1961) 198 Cal. App. 2d 16, 18, 18 Cal. Rptr. 67

Omission of direction that husband pay wife's attorney's and accountant's fees if proceeds from sale of community property are insufficient, in judgment of divorce, as clerical rather than judicial error and properly corrected by post judgment order. Denton v. Denton (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 708, 714-716, 96 Cal. Rptr. 136

Where the judgment as signed does not express actual judicial intention of the court, but is contrary to that decision, signing of such a purported judgment as clerical error rather than judicial one. Zisk v. Roseville (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 41, 47, 127 Cal. Rptr. 896

[1] FORM Abstract of Judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 674]--Mandatory Judicial Council Form EJ-001

This form is the abstract of judgment [Judicial Council Form EJ-001], adopted by the Judicial Council for mandatory use [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.30 et seq.]

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

The form is filed with the county recorder of the county in which the judgment debtor resides.

PRACTICE TIP:
The Judicial Council form of abstract of judgment is mandatory. However, this form has not been accepted for filing at some county recorder offices (e.g., Sacramento and Placer) because not enough space was provided in the top right hand corner for their seals. The Judicial Council revised this form effective January 1, 2002, to provide more room at the top for the county recorder's use, so those offices should not longer require the filing of a "leader sheet" at an additional cost as has been the practice.

This form is for use by a person who has recovered money from another person and needs to record an abstract of the judgment or decree with the recorder of the county in which the debtor's real property is situated. The recording of the abstract becomes a lien on all present or after-acquired interests of the judgment debtor in real property in the county that is not exempt from execution [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.310-697.340].

This form also may be used to amend a previously filed abstract of judgment that did not list the judgment debtor's social security number and/or driver's license number [Code Civ. Proc. § 674(b); see § 318.380[4]].

The abstract of judgment must be certified in the name of the judgment debtor as listed on the judgment and may also include the additional name or names by which the judgment debtor is know as set forth in the "Affidavit of Identity" [see Code Civ. Proc. § 680.135; see § 318.381]. Before the clerk of the court certifies the abstract of judgment containing additional names by which the judgment debtor is know that are not listed on the judgment, the court must approve the affidavit of identity [Code Civ. Proc. § 674(c)(1); see § 318.381]. The remedies in Code Civ. Proc. § 697.410 apply to a recorded abstract of a money judgment based on an affidavit of identity that appears to create a judgment lien on real property of a person who is not the judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. § 674(c)(2); see § 318.101[1] and see § 318.396 et seq.].

This form should not be used when the judgment or decree involves an order for spousal, child, or family support [see Fam. Code § 4506(a), (b) (special requirements for abstract of judgment ordering support)].

[3] Contents of Abstract of Judgment

An abstract of judgment or decree requiring the payment of money must contain all of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 674(a)]:

- The title of the court where the judgment or decree is entered and the cause and number of the action.
- The date of entry of the judgment or decree and of any renewals of the judgment or decree, and where entered in the records of the court.
- The name and last known address of the judgment debtor and the address at which the summons was either personally served or mailed to the judgment debtor or the judgment debtor's attorney of record.
- The name and address of the judgment creditor.
- The amount of the judgment or decree as entered or as last renewed.
- The last four digits of the social security number and driver's license number of the judgment debtor if they are known to the judgment creditor; and, if either or both of such numbers are not known to the judgment creditor, that fact is to be indicated on the abstract of judgment.
- Whether or not a stay of enforcement has been ordered by the court, and if so, the date the stay ends.
- The date of the issuance of the abstract.

[4] Amendment to Abstract of Judgment

This form also may be adapted for use as an "Amendment to Abstract of Judgment." An abstract of judgment recorded after January 1, 1979, that does not list the social security number and driver's license number of the judgment debtor, or either of them, as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 674 may be amended by the recording of an "Amendment to Abstract of Judgment." This document must contain all the information required by Code Civ. Proc. § 674, must list both the social security number and driver's license number if both of those numbers were known at the date of recordation of the original abstract of judgment, or one of them, if only one was known, and must set forth the date of recording and the book and page location in the records of the county recorder of the original abstract of judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 674(b)].

A recorded Amendment to Abstract of Judgment has priority as of the date of recordation of the original abstract of judgment, except as to any purchaser, encumbrancer, or lessee who obtained their interest after the recordation of the original abstract of judgment but before the recordation of the Amendment to Abstract of Judgment without actual notice of the original abstract of judgment. A purchaser, encumbrancer, or lessee without actual notice may assert as a defense against enforcement of the abstract of judgment the failure to comply with Code Civ. Proc. § 674 regarding the contents of the original abstract of judgment, notwithstanding the subsequent recordation of an Amendment to Abstract of Judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 674(b)].

If the abstract of judgment was recorded between January 1, 1979, and July 10, 1985, the defense against enforcement for failure to comply with Code Civ. Proc. § 674 may not be asserted by the holder of another abstract of judgment or involuntary lien, recorded without actual notice of the prior abstract, unless refusal to allow the defense would result in prejudice and substantial injury [Code Civ. Proc. § 674(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 475 (finding of prejudice and substantial injury)].

The recordation of an Amendment to Abstract of Judgment does not extend or otherwise alter the computation of the duration of the judgment lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 674(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.310 (computation of lien's duration)].

[5] Service

The judgment creditor may serve upon the judgment debtor a copy of the abstract of judgment by personal delivery, leaving it at the person's residence or place of business, or by registered or certified mail [Gov. Code § 27297.5(b)(1)-(3)]. If the county recorder does not receive from the judgment debtor proof of service upon recordation of the abstract of judgment, the county recorder may within 10 days notify the judgment debtor or his or her attorney of record by mail of the recordation [Gov. Code § 27297.5(a)]. However, the failure of the county recorder or the judgment creditor to notify the judgment debtor against whom an abstract of judgment is recorded will not affect the constructive notice otherwise imparted by recordation, or the force, effect, or priority otherwise accorded the lien [Gov. Code § 27297.5(f)].

[6] Notice

The filing of the abstract of judgment imparts notice to all persons of its contents and any subsequent purchaser, mortgagee, and lienholder purchases and takes with the same notice and effect as if the copy of the decree were a duly recorded deed, grant, or transfer [Gov. Code § 27326].

_____ [Name of judgment creditor], being [first] duly sworn [on (his or her) oath deposes and] says:

1. I am the judgment creditor in the above entitled and numbered action, which was brought in _____ [name of court, e.g.: the Superior Court of the County of Marin], and in which judgment was entered on _____ [date].

2. The name of the judgment debtor in this action is _____ [name of judgment debtor]. _____ is also known by the following name[s]: _____ [Set forth additional name or names by which judgment debtor is known].

3. _____ [Set forth the facts upon which judgment creditor relied in obtaining judgment debtor's additional name or names].

_____ [signature of judgment debtor]
Subscribed and sworn to before me on _____ [date].
_____ [signature of officer]
_____ [typed name of officer]
_____ [officer, e.g., Notary Public]
[Seal]

[2] Use of Form

This form of affidavit of identity is filed by the judgment creditor with the application for issuance of the abstract of judgment [see § 318.380] when the abstract of judgment includes additional names by which the judgment debtor is know [Code Civ. Proc. § 674(c)(1)]. An "Affidavit of Identity" is an affidavit or declaration executed by a judgment creditor, under penalty of perjury, that is filed with the clerk of the court in which the judgment is entered at the time the judgment creditor files for a writ of execution or an abstract of judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 680.135].

Before the clerk of the court certifies the abstract of judgment containing additional names by which the judgment debtor is know that are not listed on the judgment, the court must approve the affidavit of identity. If the court determines without a hearing or notice that the affidavit of identity states sufficient facts on which the judgment creditor has identified the additional names of the judgment debtor, the court must authorize the certification of the abstract of judgment with the additional name or names [Code Civ. Proc. § 674(c)(1)].

The remedies in Code Civ. Proc. § 697.410 apply to a recorded abstract of a money judgment based on an affidavit of identity that appears to create a judgment lien on real property of a person who is not the judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. § 674(c)(2); see discussion in § 318.101 and see § 318.396 et seq].

[3] Contents of Affidavit

The affidavit of identity must set forth the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 680.135]:

- The case name and number.
- The name of the judgment debtor stated in the judgment.
- The additional name or names by which the judgment debtor is known.
- The facts upon which the judgment creditor has relied in obtaining the judgment debtor's additional name or names.

The affidavit of identity must not include the name or names of persons, including any corporations, partnerships, or any legal entities not separately named in the judgment in which the judgment debtor is a partner, shareholder, or member, other than the judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. § 680.135].

[2] Use of Form

This form of application for renewal of judgment, and renewal of judgment, is an illustrative reproduction of Judicial Council Form EJ-190, approved by the Judicial Council for optional use [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.30 et seq.]

For a discussion of renewal of judgments see § 318.93[2].

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Amount of Renewed Judgment

In the case of a money judgment, the application must include the information necessary to compute the amount of the renewed judgment. This amount consists of the amount required to satisfy the judgment on the date of filing of the application, including the filing fee for the application [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 683.140(d), 683.150(c); see OCM Principal Opportunities Fund, L.P. v. CIBC World Markets Corp. (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 185, 193, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 350 (accrued postjudgment interest on judgment may be incorporated into principal when judgment is renewed)]. In the case of a money judgment payable in installments not previously renewed, the amount of the renewed judgment is the total of past due installments, the costs added to the judgment pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 685.090, and the accrued interest, which remains unsatisfied and is enforceable on the date of filing of the application and includes the filing fee [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.150(d)]. In the case of a money judgment payable in installments previously renewed, the amount of the judgment as renewed under the latest renewal is the total of the following which remains unsatisfied and is enforceable on the date of the filing of the application for the latest renewal [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.150(e)]:

(1) The amount of the judgment as renewed under the previous renewal.

(2) The past due installments that became due and payable after the previous renewal.

(3) The costs that have been added to the judgment pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 685.090 after the previous renewal.

(4) The interest that has accrued on the amounts described in Code Civ. Proc. § 683.150(e)(1), (2) since the last renewal.

(5) The fee for filing the application for renewal.

In the case of a judgment for possession or sale of property, the entry of renewal must describe the performance remaining due [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.150(f)].

[4] Filing Fee

The fee for filing an application for renewal of judgment is as provided in Gov. Code § 70626(b) [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.150(b)].

[5] Entry of Renewal by Court Clerk

The court clerk must enter the renewal of judgment in the court records on the filing of the application [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.150(a)].

This form of notice of renewal of judgment is an illustrative reproduction of Judicial Council Form EJ-195. Although the Judicial Council has approved the form for optional use [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.30 et seq.; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 681.030(b)], it nevertheless appears that it is mandatory to provide notice of renewal by using this form [see Code Civ. [3] Service of Notice of Renewal

The judgment creditor must serve a notice of renewal of the judgment on the judgment debtor, either personally or by first class mail, and proof of service must be filed with the court clerk [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.160(a)]. A copy of the application for renewal of judgment must be attached to the notice [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1900]. Until proof of service is filed, no writ may be issued, nor may any enforcement proceedings be commenced to enforce the judgment except to the extent that the judgment would be enforceable had it not been renewed [Code Civ. Proc. § 683.160(b)]. For forms of proof of service, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

This form is an illustrative reproduction of Secretary of State Form J-1, Uniform Commercial Code Notice of Judgment Lien & Addendum. The form is for use to create a judgment lien on certain personal property by filing the notice in the office of the Secretary of State. This type of judgment lien may be created only if the judgment is a money judgment that was first entered in California after June 30, 1983 [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.510(a)]. The notice must be presented for filing on this form not more than 10 days after the date of the notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.570]. The form also contains an addendum for listing additional judgment debtors and/or creditors to the notice of judgment lien. For further discussion, see § 318.240[2].

Copies of the form may be obtained from stationery stores that carry legal forms. Copies may also be obtained from the Secretary of State, or downloaded from the Secretary's Internet site [see http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/ucc/ucc_formsfees.htm].

The form contains a special barcode patch in the upper left corner. For the Secretary of State's microfilming purposes, the patch should be clearly printed using a quality laser printer and kept free of damage. If the patch is altered, including by being stapled or photocopied, it could cause delays in the Secretary of State's microfilm process times.

[3] Execution

The notice of judgment lien must be executed under oath by the judgment creditor's attorney if the judgment creditor has an attorney of record or, if the judgment creditor does not have an attorney of record by the judgment creditor [Code

Civ. Proc. § 697.550].

[4] Contents

The notice must contain all of the following information [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.550]:

- The name and mailing address of the judgment creditor.
- The name and last known mailing address of the judgment debtor.
- A statement that: "All property subject to enforcement of a money judgment against the judgment debtor to which a judgment lien on personal property may attach under Code Civ. Proc. § 697.530 is subject to this judgment lien."
- The title of the court where the judgment is entered and the cause and number of the action.
- The date of entry of the judgment and of any subsequent renewals and where entered in the records of the court.
- The amount required to satisfy the judgment at the date of the notice.
- The date of the notice.

[5] Service

The judgment creditor must serve a copy of the notice on the judgment debtor at the time of filing the notice of judgment lien or promptly thereafter. Service must be made personally or by mail. Failure to comply with this requirement does not, however, affect the validity of the judgment lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.560].

[2] Use of Form

This notice of lien is for use by a judgment creditor to acquire a lien on a cause of action and any resultant judgment that belongs to his or her judgment debtor. The lien is obtained by filing the notice of lien and an abstract or certified copy of the judgment creditor's money judgment in the pending action or special proceeding to which the judgment debtor is a party [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.410(b)].

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1860, requires that an authenticated record of the judgment on which the judgment creditor relies and a declaration as to the identity of the party involved and the amount due accompany a motion that a lien be granted on a judgment. Although the notice of lien is not referred to as a motion in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.410, 708.420, counsel may wish to comply with Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1360 when filing a notice of lien. For a general form of declaration, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

Judicial Council Form AT-180/EJ-185, a form of notice of lien approved by the Judicial Council for optional use [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.30 et seq.], may be used in lieu of the above form. For an illustration of this Judicial Council form, see Ch. 62, Attachment .

The form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Service of Notice

At the time of filing or promptly thereafter, a copy of the notice of lien and a statement of the date when the notice of lien was filed must be served on all parties who, prior thereto, have made an appearance in the action or special proceeding. Service is to be made personally or by mail. Failure to serve all the parties does not affect the creation of the lien, but the rights of a party are not affected by the lien until the party has notice of the lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.410(c)].

[2] Use of Form

This form of notice of motion is for use by a judgment debtor who is seeking to obtain an order authorizing the enforcement of a judgment that he or she recovered in an action or proceeding in which his or her judgment creditor has filed a lien. The form may also be used to give notice of a motion for an order authorizing the compromise, dismissal, settlement, or satisfaction of the action or proceeding. Such authorization must be obtained unless the judgment creditor's money judgment is first satisfied or the lien is released, or unless the judgment debtor was not served with notice of the lien on his or her cause of action, in which case he or she is not bound by the lien [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 708.410(c), 708.440(a)].

Notice of the motion must be served on the judgment creditor, either personally or by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.440(b)].

CAUTION:
A memorandum is required to be served with this foregoing notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[2] Use of Form

This form of notice of motion is for use by a judgment debtor seeking to terminate the judgment creditor's lien as to money or property on grounds that the money or property is exempt from enforcement. The notice must be filed and served on the judgment creditor not later than 30 days after the judgment debtor has notice of the creation of the lien. Service must be made personally or by mail. Failure to move for exemption of the money or property within the time allowed waives the exemption [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.450(a)].

The motion must be accompanied by an affidavit or declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5] in support of the application that includes all the matters set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 703.520(b) [Code Civ. Proc. § 708.450(a); see § 318.389].

[name of person making demand]

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing form of demand is for use by the owner of property subjected to a judgment lien due to the erroneous identification of the property owner as the judgment debtor. In the case of personal property, the demand may also be made by a person holding a security interest in or a lien on the property [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.410(a) (real property), 697.660(a) (personal property)].

[3] Duty to Release From Lien on Demand

The erroneously identified property owner, or in the case of personal property, the owner or a person having a security interest in or a lien on the property, may serve a written demand on the judgment creditor that the judgment creditor file a recordable document releasing the lien as to the property of the erroneously identified owner. The demand must be accompanied by proof to the satisfaction of the judgment creditor that the property owner is not the judgment debtor and that the property is not subject to enforcement of the judgment against the judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.410(a), 697.660(a)]. Within 15 days after receipt of the demand and proof, the judgment creditor must file the statement releasing the property. If the judgment creditor fails to comply with the demand, he or she will be liable to the person making the demand for all damages resulting from the failure, plus the sum of $100 [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.410(b), 697.660(b)].

[2] Use of Form

This form of lien release is for use by a judgment creditor who has recorded an abstract of judgment that apparently creates a lien against the real property of a person who is not the judgment debtor, because the name of the property owner is the same as or similar to the actual judgment debtor's name [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.370 (content of release), 697.410 (demand for release by wrongfully identified real property owner)].

For a form of release or subordination prescribed by the Secretary of State regarding a judgment lien on personal property, see § 318.393.8.

[3] Preparation of Lien Release

Although the governing statute requires the judgment creditor to prepare the lien release, it would be more prudent for the person making the demand to prepare it and send it along with the written demand for release. This assures that the property is correctly described in the release document.

[4] Substantial Compliance Sufficient

A release or subordination substantially complying with the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 697.370 is effective even though it contains minor errors that are not seriously misleading [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.370(c)].

[5] Execution of Release or Subordination

A release or subordination is sufficient if it is executed by the judgment creditor in the same manner as an acknowledgment of satisfaction of judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.370(b)]. An acknowledgment of satisfaction of judgment must be executed and acknowledged by one of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.060(c)]:

(1) The judgment creditor.

(2) The assignee of record.

(3) The attorney for the judgment creditor or assignee of record, unless a revocation of the attorney's authority is filed.

(4) The local child support agency director or his or her designee, if the local child support agency has been providing child support services pursuant to Fam. Code § 17400. The acknowledgment of satisfaction of judgment may be recorded by the local child support agency pursuant to Gov. Code § 27282.

[6] Filing of Release

In the case of real property, the release must be filed in the county recorder's office [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.400(c)].

[7] Title Insurance Company Form

The lien release should be given in a form acceptable to a title insurance company. The form illustrated here should satisfy that criterion in most cases; but a particular company might have its own form. If the property owner is concerned about clearing up an exception on a preliminary title report, the company that issued the report should be asked if it has a form of lien release that it prefers to have used.

[2] Use of Form

This form of order is for use in granting or denying a motion for an order releasing property from an apparent judgment lien [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.410(c) (real property), 697.660(c) (personal property)]. A certified copy of the order may be, and should be, recorded [see Gov. Code § 27326].

When the court receives evidence to its satisfaction that the property owner is not the judgment debtor, and that the property is not subject to enforcement, the court must either order the judgment creditor to prepare and deliver a recordable document releasing the property, or itself order the release. The court order may be recorded with the county recorder's office, in the case of real property, or filed with the Secretary of State's office, in the case of personal property, with the same effect as the recordable document demanded by the property owner [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 697.410(c), 697.660(c)].

[1] FORM Statement of Release From or Subordination of Judgment Lien--Personal Property [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650]--Secretary of State Form

[2] Use of Form

This form is an illustration of the form prescribed by the Secretary of State for use in doing any of the following with respect to a judgment lien on personal property:

- Release the judgment lien on all the personal property subject to the lien of a sole judgment debtor or of all the judgment debtors [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(a)(1)].

- If the notice of judgment lien names more than one judgment debtor, release the judgment lien on all the personal property subject to the lien of one or more but of less than all the judgment debtors [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(a)(2)].

- Release the judgment lien on all or a part of the personal property subject to the lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(a)(3)].

- Subordinate to a security interest or other lien or encumbrance the judgment lien on all or a part of the personal property subject to the judgment lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(a)(4)].

- Change or update information on a previously filed judgment lien.

A statement of release or subordination is sufficient if it is signed by the judgment creditor and contains the name and address of the judgment debtor, the file number of the notice of judgment lien, and wording appropriate to bring the statement within one of the paragraphs of Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(a). In the case of a release under Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(a)(3), the statement of release must also describe the property being released. In the case of a subordination under Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(a)(4), the statement of subordination must also describe the property on which the judgment lien is being subordinated and describe the security interest or other lien or encumbrance to which the judgment lien is being subordinated.

The form, if correctly filled out, is deemed to comply with the these statutory requirements [see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.670(b)]. A Notice of Judgment Lien Release or Subordination must be filed on this form. There is no limit to the number of these forms that can be submitted on any one filing. Copies of the form may be obtained from the Secretary of State or downloaded from the Secretary's Internet site [see http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/ucc/ucc_formsfees.htm].

The form contains a special barcode patch in the upper left corner. For the Secretary of State's microfilming purposes, the patch should be clearly printed using a quality laser printer and kept free of damage. If the patch is altered, including by being stapled or photocopied, it could cause delays in the Secretary of State's microfilm process times.

[3] Filing of Statement

The original and a first copy must be mailed to the Secretary of State for filing. A variable filing fee must accompany these [see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(d); Com. Code § 9525; Gov. Code § 12194].

[4] Effect of Statement

The filing officer treats the filing of a statement of release of a judgment lien on personal property according to provisions of the Commercial Code. A complete release under Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(a)(1) is treated in the same manner as a termination statement under Com. Code §§ 9513 and 9519. A release on all the personal property with respect to less than all of the judgment debtors under Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(a)(2) is treated in the same manner as a comparable amendment under Com. Code §§ 9512 and 9519. A release on all or part of the property under Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(a)(3) or the subordination of the lien under Code Civ. Proc. § 697.650(a)(4) is treated in the same manner as a statement of release filed under Com. Code §§ 9512 and 9519. For discussion of these provisions of the Commercial Code, see Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions, § 503.22[6][g], [k], [l].

[2] Use of Form

This form of release or subordination is for use by a judgment creditor who has effected a judgment lien against real property of the judgment debtor, to release all or part of the property from the lien, or to subordinate the lien to another lien or an encumbrance with regard to all or part of the property [see Code Civ. Proc. § 697.370]. For a form of release from or subordination of a judgment lien against real property whose owner was wrongfully identified as a judgment debtor, see § 318.397. For a forms of release or subordination prescribed by the Secretary of State regarding personal property, see § 318.401.

[3] All Affected Judgment Debtors Must Be Named

The execution of a release or subordination of a judgment lien pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 697.370 does not release or subordinate the judgment lien as to judgment debtors not named in the release pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 697.370(b)(5) (requiring name and address of affected judgment debtor) [Code Civ. Proc. § 697.370(d)].

IMPORTANT WARNING: If this judgment has been satisfied, the law requires that you comply with this demand not later than 15 days after you receive it. If a court proceeding is necessary to compel you to comply with this demand, you will be required to pay my reasonable attorney's fees in the proceeding if the court de-termines that the judgment has been satisfied and that you failed to comply with the demand. In addition, if the court determines that you failed without just cause to comply with this demand within the 15 days allowed, you will be liable for all damages I sustain by reason of such failure and will also forfeit one hundred dollars to me.

[If acknowledgment of satisfaction of matured installments of an installment judgment is demanded add:]

IMPORTANT WARNING: If the matured installments on this judgment have been satisfied as of the date specified in this demand, the law requires that you comply with this demand not later than 15 days after you receive it. (The "matured installments" are all amounts and installments that are due and payable on or before the date specified in this demand together with the accrued interest to that date and costs added to the judgment on or before that date.) If a court proceeding is necessary to compel you to comply with this demand, you will be required to pay my reasonable attorney's fees in the proceeding if the court determines that the matured installments have been satisfied and that you failed to comply with the demand. In addition, if the court determines that you failed without just cause to comply with this demand within the 15 days allowed, you will be liable for all damages I sustain by reason of such failure and will also forfeit one hundred dollars to me.

[2] Use of Form

This form of demand is for use by a judgment debtor in demanding that the judgment creditor execute a satisfaction of judgment. This form may be used to demand acknowledgment for either full or partial satisfaction of a lump-sum money judgment, or for the satisfaction of matured installments under an installment money judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 724.050, 724.110, 724.220].

[3] Necessity of Acknowledgment of Satisfaction

Whenever a judgment is satisfied in fact other than by writ, the judgment creditor or his or her attorney must deliver or file an acknowledgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.030].

[4] Demand for Acknowledgment of Satisfaction; Full or Partial Satisfaction

The judgment debtor or the owner of real or personal property subject to a judgment lien created under a money judgment may serve on the judgment creditor a demand in writing for the execution and delivery of an acknowledgment of satisfaction of judgment to the person making the demand. The right to make such a demand applies when a lump-sum judgment has been satisfied in part or in full, or in the case of real property only, when the judgment debtor has satisfied matured installments under an installment judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 724.050(a), 724.110,]. In all instances, the judgment creditor must comply with the demand no later than 15 days after actual receipt of the demand [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 724.050(b), 724.110, 724.220(c)]. If the judgment has been satisfied in full, or if matured installments as of the date specified in the demand have been satisfied, a failure to comply with the demand without just cause renders the judgment creditor liable to the person making the demand for all damages resulting from the failure, plus the sum of $100 [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 724.050(e), 724.240(a)].

If the judgment creditor does not comply with the demand within the time allowed, the judgment debtor or property owner may apply to the court on noticed motion for an order requiring the judgment creditor to comply with the demand [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 724.050(d), 724.110(b), 724.230; see § 318.422]. During the proceedings on the motion, the court may also determine the judgment creditor's liability for damages and the $100 penalty [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 724.050(e), 724.240].

[2] Use of Form

This form of notice of motion is for use in obtaining an order to compel a judgment creditor to comply with a demand for acknowledgment of either partial or complete satisfaction of judgment, or in the case of an installment judgment, the satisfaction of matured installments. In the case of full satisfaction of judgment, the court may compel the judgment creditor to comply with the demand, or order the entry of satisfaction without the acknowledgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.050(d)]. In the case of partial satisfaction, the court must determine the amount of partial satisfaction and compel the judgment creditor to comply with the demand [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.110(b); see Jhaveri v. Teitelbaum (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 740, 752-754, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 268] . In the case of satisfaction of matured installments under an installment judgment, the court may compel compliance with the demand, or make an order determining that the matured installments as of the date specified in the demand have been satisfied [Code Civ. Proc. § 724.230].

A memorandum must be filed and a copy served with this notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[2] Use of Form

This form of declaration is for use in supporting a motion to compel satisfaction of a judgment [see § 318.422].

[3] Use of Supporting Declaration

In some instances, a supporting declaration which specifies the grounds upon which a motion to compel satisfaction of judgment is made may serve to cure deficiencies in the motion itself. For example, where a motion fails to specify the grounds upon which the motion is made, but states that the motion is based upon notice, points and authorities, and certain affidavits, and where those affidavits do, in fact, apprise the adverse party of the grounds, the court may find that adequate notice has been provided [see Ramey v. Myers (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 82, 85-86, 323 P.2d 805] .

[2] Use of Form

This form of a notice of motion is for use in vacating satisfaction of judgment.

[3] Grounds for Vacating Satisfaction

A party to the record is able to have a satisfaction of judgment entered in fraud of his or her rights set aside on motion in the action in which the judgment is entered [Wherry v. Rambo (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 569, 571, 218 P.2d 142] . Fraud, undue influence, and mistake are the grounds generally recognized as sufficient for vacating a satisfaction of judgment [Remillard Brick Co. v. Dandini (1950) 98 Cal. App. 2d 617, 622, 220 P.2d 927] .

For discussion and forms relating to vacating a judgment on grounds of extrinsic fraud or mistake, see Ch. 489, Relief from Judgments and Orders ;.

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use in preparing an acknowledgment of assignment of judgment. An assignee of a right represented by a judgment may become an assignee of record by filing with the clerk of the court that entered the judgment an acknowledgment of assignment of judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 673(a)].

An assignee of a judgment is not entitled to enforce the judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 680.010 et seq. (Enforcement of Judgments Law) unless an acknowledgment of assignment of judgment to that assignee has been filed under Code Civ. Proc. § 673 or the assignee has otherwise become an assignee of record [Code Civ. Proc. § 681.020]. Code Civ. Proc. § 673(d) states that the acknowledgment procedure is in addition to, and does not limit or restrict, any other means by which an assignee may become an assignee of record. However, it is unclear what other methods might be used to become an assignee of record.

[3] Effect of Filing of Acknowledgment of Assignment

The filing of an acknowledgment of assignment is not required in order to make a valid transfer of the interest in the judgment [see Civ. Code § 954.5(a)]. However, the filing of an acknowledgment of assignment of judgment gives the person who first files it priority over any other bona fide assignees of the same right for value without notice [Civ. Code § 954.5(b)].

The filing of the acknowledgment of assignment is not considered to be notice to the judgment debtor so as to invalidate any payments made by the judgment debtor to the original creditor to satisfy the judgment [Civ. Code § 954.5(c)].

Defendant(s).	)	MENT

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant _____ [name] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of _____County, California.

2. On _____ [date] plaintiff recovered judgment against _____ [name of defendant] for _____ [specify recovery, e.g., the sum of $_____] [and for costs in the sum of $_____] in Action No. _____, in _____ [this court or the _____ Court of _____County], entitled _____ [name of plaintiff] vs. _____ [name of defendant], which was duly entered in Vol. _____ of the Judgment Book of that court, page _____, on _____ [date]. The judgment bears interest at the rate of _____ percent per annum from _____ [date]. [Costs in the sum of $_____ have accrued since that date.]

3. Judgment in the above-mentioned action has become final. It has not been vacated, modified, stayed, or set aside, and _____ [the time for appeal has expired or the judgment was affirmed on appeal to _____ (the Supreme Court of California or the Court of Appeal of California, _____ District)].

4. Plaintiff has demanded that defendant pay plaintiff the amount of $_____ due on the judgment, but defendant has failed and refused to pay that amount or any part thereof [except the sum of $_____]. [A copy of that demand is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.]

5. There is now due, owing, and unpaid on the judgment the sum of $_____, together with interest at the rate of _____percent per annum from _____ [date].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For the sum of $_____, together with interest at the legal rate of _____ percent per annum from _____ [date];

2. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use in bringing an action on a domestic money judgment.

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges: (1) the recovery of the judgment on which the action is brought, including interest and costs (Paragraph 2) [Bronzan v. Drobaz (1892) 93 Cal. 647, 650, 29 P. 254] ; (2) the finality of the prior judgment (Paragraph 3) [see Hoover v. Galbraith (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 519, 525-526, 102 Cal. Rptr. 733, 498 P.2d 981 ; Code Civ. Proc. § 456]; (3) the plaintiff's demand for payment and the defendant's refusal to make such payment (Paragraph 4); and (4) the amount due, owing, and unpaid on the judgment, together with interest thereon (Paragraph 5).

[4] Pleading and Proving Judgment

In pleading a judgment of a court, it is not necessary to state the facts conferring jurisdiction, but such judgment may be stated to have been duly given or made and to have become final. If the allegation of jurisdiction is controverted, the party pleading that fact must establish on the trial the facts conferring jurisdiction and creating finality [Code Civ. Proc. § 456].

When a judgment of a court is conclusive, the judgment must be alleged in the pleadings if there is an opportunity to do so; if there is no such opportunity, the judgment may be used as evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 1908.5].

[5] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified also, if the action is in the superior court and is not a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude a general denial except in a limited civil case, and will preclude a general denial even in a limited civil case when the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion see Ch. 26, Answers .

[6] State Statutes

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use in bringing an action based on a sister state money judgment.

[3] Effect of Sister State Judgment

The effect of a judicial record of a sister state is generally the same in California as in the state where it was made, except that it can only be enforced in California by an action or special proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1913(a)]. However, the authority of a guardian, conservator, or committee, or of a personal representative, does not extend beyond the jurisdiction of the government under which that person was invested with authority, except to the extent expressly authorized by statute [Code Civ. Proc. § 1913(b)].

[4] Types of Sister State Judgments Enforceable

The types of sister state judgments which have been enforced in California are numerous. They include child support orders [Farmers & Merchants Trust Co. v. Madeira (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 503, 508, 68 Cal. Rptr. 184] , money judgments [Sanpietro v. Collins (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 203, 207, 58 Cal. Rptr. 219] , child custody decrees [In re Walker (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 217, 221-222, 39 Cal. Rptr. 243] , equity decrees [Rozan v. Rozan (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 322, 331, 317 P.2d 11] , divorce decrees [Worthley v. Worthley (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 465, 466, 283 P.2d 19] , deficiency judgments [Gill v. Wolf (1948) 190 P.2d 52] , and specific performance for the conveyance of real property located in California [Redwood Inv. Co. v. Exley (1923) 64 Cal. App. 455, 459, 221 P. 973] .

Penal judgments of sister states are not, however, enforceable [Farmers & Merchants Trust Co. v. Madeira (1968)

261 Cal. App. 2d 503, 508, 68 Cal. Rptr. 184] .

[5] Relation of Action to Sister State Money-Judgments Act

Except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.60(b), the provisions of the Sister State Money-Judgments Act do not affect any right a judgment creditor may have to bring an action to enforce a sister state judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.60(a)]. However, no action to enforce a sister state judgment may be brought where a judgment entered under that Act has previously been entered [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.60(b)].

Similarly, the entry of a judgment based on a sister state judgment pursuant to the Sister State Money-Judgments Act does not limit the right of the judgment creditor to bring an action based on the part of a judgment of a sister state which does not require the payment of money, nor does the bringing of such an action limit the right of the judgment creditor to obtain entry of judgment based on the sister state judgment pursuant to the Sister State Money-Judgments Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.65].

[6] State Statutes

[a] Effect of Sister State Judgment

Judicial record of sister state as having same effect in California as in state where made, except that it can only be enforced in California by action or special proceeding. Code Civ. Proc. § 1913

[b] Relation of Action to Sister State Money-Judgments Act

Except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.60(b), Sister State Money-Judgments Act as not affecting any right judgment creditor may have to bring action to enforce sister state judgment. Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.60(a)

No action to enforce sister state judgment as permitted to be brought where judgment entered pursuant to Sister State Money-Judgments Act has previously been entered. Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.60(b)

Entry of judgment based on sister state judgment pursuant to Sister State Money-Judgments Act as not limiting right of judgment creditor to bring action based on part of judgment of sister state not requiring payment of money, nor does bringing of such action limit right of judgment creditor to obtain entry of judgment based on sister state judgment pursuant to Sister State Money-Judgments Act. Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.65

[2] Use of Form

This form of application for entry of judgment on a sister-state judgment is an illustrative reproduction of Judicial Council Form JC-105, approved by the Judicial Council for optional use [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.30 et seq.]

The form is intended for use in the initial process by which a sister-state money judgment may be registered and thereby enforced in California under the Sister-State Money-Judgments Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.10 et seq.). The judgment creditor may apply for the entry of a judgment based on a sister state judgment by filing an application under Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.20 [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.15(a); see § 318.463[4]].

Blanks have been filled in to illustrate how the form might be used to apply for entry of judgment on a sister state judgment when neither a writ of execution nor other enforcement is sought prior to service of the notice of entry of judgment on the judgment debtor. For when a writ of execution may be issued or other enforcement sought prior to service of the notice, see Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.45(b), (c).

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Attaching Copy of Sister State Judgment Required

A properly authenticated copy of the sister state judgment must be attached to the application [Code Civ. Proc. §

1710.15(c)].

[4] Jurisdiction and Venue

If the sister state judgment amounts to $25,000 or less, the matter is a limited civil case. The application must be filed in a superior court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.20(a)]. The proper county for filing is that in which the judgment debtor resides or in any county in California if there is no resident judgment debtor, although the court retains power to transfer the proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 392-404.8 (venue statutes) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.20(b); for a discussion of the venue statutes, see Ch. 571, Venue].

[5] Entering Judgment

On the filing of the application, the clerk will enter a judgment based on the application for the total of the following amounts: (1) the amount remaining unpaid under the sister state judgment; (2) the amount of interest accrued (computed at the rate applicable to the judgment under the law of the sister state); and (3) the amount of the fee for filing the application for entry of the sister state judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.25(a)]. Entry is made in the same manner as entry of an original judgment of the court and from the time of entry interest accrues on the judgment at the rate of interest applicable to a judgment entered in this state [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.25(b)].

[2] Use of Form

This form of a notice of entry of a judgment on a sister state judgment is for use in giving such notice in California pursuant to the Sister State Money-Judgments Act. The form is approved by the Judicial Council. While the use of this form is not mandatory [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.30(b)], any form of such notice prepared by counsel should follow its format closely [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.30].

Blanks in the foregoing form of notice and proof of service have been filled in to illustrate how the form might be used in conjunction with the application set out in see § 318.463 when service of the notice is made by a registered process server personally on the judgment debtor's designated agent for service of process. For further discussion of service and proof of service, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

[3] Notice of Entry of Judgment

Notice of entry of judgment must be served promptly by the judgment creditor upon the judgment debtor in the manner provided for service of summons in Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10. Notice must be in the form prescribed by the Judicial Council and must inform the judgment debtor that he or she has 30 days within which to make a motion to vacate the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.30].

[4] State Statutes

Service of notice of entry of judgment. Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.30

[2] Use of Form

This form of notice of motion is for use in vacating a judgment entered pursuant to the Sister State Money-Judgments Act [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.40(b)].

[3] Grounds to Vacate Sister State Judgment

A judgment entered according to the Sister State Money-Judgments Act may be vacated on any ground which would be a defense to an action in California on the sister state judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.40(a); see Airlines Reporting Corp. v. Renda (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 14, 19-22, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 66 (judgment void for lack of jurisdiction in sister state not enforceable in California)].

[4] Motion to Vacate

Not later than 30 days after service of the notice of entry of judgment, the judgment debtor, on written notice to the judgment creditor, may make a motion to vacate the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.40(b)].

[5] State Statutes

Judgment entered according to Sister State Money-Judgments Act is properly vacated on any ground which would be a defense to action in California on sister state judgment. Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.40(a)

Motion to vacate judgment is required to be made not later than 30 days after service of notice of entry of judgment; motion as required to be made on written notice to judgment creditor. Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.40(b)

[6] Decisions

Judgment void for lack of jurisdiction in sister state is not enforceable in California. Airlines Reporting Corp. v. Renda (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 14, 19-22, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 66

Judgment entered on sister state money judgment was properly vacated for lack of in personam jurisdiction where plaintiff did not exercise due diligence before seeking service by publication in sister state proceeding and thus failed to strictly comply with sister state substituted service statute. *Donel, Inc. v. [2] Use of Form

This form of notice of motion is for use in staying enforcement of a sister state judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.50(b)] that was entered pursuant to the Sister State Money-Judgments Act.

[3] Situations in Which Court May Grant Stay

A court must grant a stay of enforcement when (1) an appeal from the sister state judgment is pending or may be taken in the state that originally rendered the judgment (enforcement must be stayed until the proceedings on appeal have been concluded or the time for appeal has expired); (2) a stay of enforcement of the sister state judgment has been granted in the sister state (enforcement must be stayed until the sister state stay of enforcement expires or is vacated); (3) the judgment debtor has made a motion to vacate pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.40 (enforcement must be stayed until the judgment debtor's motion to vacate is determined); and (4) any other circumstance exists in which the interests of justice require a stay of enforcement [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.50(a)].

[4] Conditions on Which Court Can Grant Stay

A court can grant a stay of enforcement under Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.50 on any just terms and conditions, including but not limited to the following: (1) the court may require an undertaking in an amount it determines to be just, but the amount of the undertaking must not exceed double the amount of the judgment creditor's claim; (2) if a writ of execution has been issued, the court may order that it remain in effect; and (3) if property of the judgment debtor has been levied on under a writ of execution, the court may order the levying officer to retain possession of the property capable of physical possession and to maintain the levy on the other property [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.50(c)].

[5] Procedures by Which Court May Grant Stay

A court may grant a stay of enforcement under Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.50(b) on its own motion, on ex parte motion, or on noticed motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1710.50(b)].

§ 321.12 Definitions

[1] In General

A number of the terms and phrases used in the Evidence Code are defined in Evid. Code §§ 100-260. Definitions most relevant to judicial notice are set forth below.

[2] Law

The term "law" includes constitutional, statutory, and decisional law [Evid. Code § 160]. The term "statute" is defined as including a treaty and a constitutional provision [Evid. Code § 230].

[3] Public Entity

"Public entity" incudes a nation, state, county, city and county, city, district, public authority, public agency, or any other political subdivision or public corporation, whether foreign or domestic [Evid. Code § 200].

[4] State

"State" means the State of California, unless applied to the different parts of the United States, in which case it includes any state, district, commonwealth, territory, or insular possession of the United States [Evid. Code § 220].

[1] Affecting Burden of Producing Evidence

The Evidence Code sets forth a number of presumptions affecting the burden of producing evidence [see Evid. Code §§ 630-647; see also Evid. Code § 600 ("presumption" defined)]. Presumptions that generally impact on matter discussed in this chapter are set forth below.

[2] Writings

A writing is presumed to have been truly dated [Evid. Code § 640].

[3] Books

A book purporting to be printed or published by public authority is presumed to have been so printed or published [Evid. Code § 644]. A book purporting to contain reports of cases adjudged in the tribunals of the state or nation where the book is published is presumed to contain correct reports of those cases [Evid. Code § 645].

[4] Newspapers and Periodicals

Printed materials purporting to be a particular newspaper or periodical are presumed to be that newspaper or periodical if regularly issued at average intervals not exceeding three months [Evid. Code § 645.1].

Chapter 321 JUDICIAL NOTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

27-321 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 321.14

§ 321.14 Purpose and Effect of Judicial Notice

The purpose of judicial notice is to expedite the production and introduction of otherwise admissible evidence [Mozzetti v. City of Brisbane (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 565, 578, 136 Cal. Rptr. 751] . Judicial notice is an evidentiary doctrine that permits a court to consider as established in a case a matter of law or fact that is relevant to an issue without the necessity of formal proof by any party. Thus, judicial notice is a substitute for formal proof, the fundamental theory being that matter judicially noticed cannot reasonably be disputed [Post v. Prati (1979) 90 Cal. App. 3d 626, 633, 153 Cal. Rptr. 511 ; see also People v. Moore (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 168, 185, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 56 (instruction premised on court having taken judicial notice of a fact was proper); Sosinsky v. Grant (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1548, 1564, 1566, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 552] .

27-321 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 321.15

§ 321.15 When Judicial Notice Must or May Be Taken

[1] Only When Authorized or Required by Law

Judicial notice may not be taken of any matter unless authorized or required by law [Evid. Code § 450]. Or, affirmatively stated, judicial notice is permitted only when it is authorized or required by law.

For discussion of when notice is mandatory under Evid. Code § 451, permissive under Evid. Code § 452, or mandatory on request under Evid. Code § 453, see § 321.16, below.

[2] Matter Must Be Relevant

The matter to be given judicial notice must be relevant to the case [Mangini v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 1057, 1063, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 358, 875 P. 2d 73 ; Del Mar Terrace Conservancy, Inc. v. City Council (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 712, 744, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 785 ; see Evid. Code § 350 (relevance requirement); see also ITT Telecom Products Corp. v. Dooley (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 307, 313 n.4, 262 Cal. Rptr. 773 (appellate court declining request to take judicial notice of order terminating federal court action when party failed to show its relevance)].

[3] Probative Value Outweighed by Time or Danger of Prejudice

Judicial notice of relevant matters may be denied under Evid. Code § 352 [Mozzetti v. City of Brisbane (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 565, 578, 136 Cal. Rptr. 751] . Section 352 permits the exclusion of any otherwise relevant evidence in the trial court's discretion if its probative value is substantially outweighed by the probability that its admission will either [Evid. Code § 352]:

- Necessitate undue consumption of time; or
- Create substantial danger of undue prejudice, of confusing the issues, or of misleading the jury.

For additional discussion of exclusion of evidence under the Rules of Evidence, see Ch. 551, Trial .

[4] Hearsay

[a] Rules Generally Apply

Judicial notice of a matter may also be denied on the ground that the matter is hearsay and not subject to an exception to the hearsay rule [see Osborn v. Irwin Memorial Blood Bank (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 234, 261 n.5, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 101] . For example, the Osborn court, in 1992, refused to take judicial notice of an account in a book by a reporter of what transpired at a 1983 meeting, on the ground that the account was not admissible under the "historical works" exception to the hearsay rule [Evid. Code § 1341] and on the further ground that the account was not limited to facts "not reasonably subject to dispute" that can be judicially noticed under Evid. Code § 452(h) [see Osborn v. Irwin Memorial Blood Bank (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 234, 261 n.5, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 101 ("historical works" exception is generally confined to "ancient facts" and does not extend to work of living author within reach of court process)].

For additional discussion of exclusion of hearsay evidence under the Rules of Evidence, see Ch. 551, Trial .

[b] Court Records

[i] No Judicial Notice of Statements in Record

Under Evid. Code § 452(d), a court can take judicial notice of the existence of each document in a court file [see, e.g., Sosinsky v. Grant(1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1548, 1564, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 552] . The courts of appeal may, however, be in conflict as to when a court may take judicial notice that hearsay statements [defined in Evid. Code § 1200] appearing in a court record or file are true, although a court can take judicial notice, when relevant, of the fact that such hearsay statements were made [Magnolia Square Homeowners Assn. v. Safeco Ins. Co. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1049, 1056-1057, 271 Cal. Rptr. 1] . For discussion of instances in which courts have taken judicial notice of statements in a record, see [ii], below.

Many courts have said that a court cannot take judicial notice of the truth of hearsay statements simply because the statements are part of a court record or file [see Sosinsky v. Grant (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1548, 1564, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 552 (5th Dist.) ; Magnolia Square Homeowners Assn. v. Safeco Ins. Co. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1049, 1056, 271 Cal. Rptr. 1 (6th Dist.) ; Bach v. McNelis (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 852, 865, 255 Cal. Rptr. 232 (3rd Dist.) ; Garcia v. Sterling (1985) 176 Cal. App. 3d 17, 22, 221 Cal. Rptr. 349 (2nd Dist., Div. 6) ; People v. Surety Ins. Co. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 556, 564, 186 Cal. Rptr. 385 (2nd Dist., Div. 5) ; In re Tanya F. (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 436, 440, 168 Cal. Rptr. 713 (2nd Dist., Div. 1) ; Day v. Sharp (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 904, 914, 123 Cal. Rptr. 918 (2nd Dist., Div. 3)] . That is, although courts may take judicial notice that specified pleadings, affidavits, or declarations, for example, were filed, they do not judicially notice that the allegations or statements in the pleadings or affidavits and declarations are true [see, e.g., Magnolia Square Homeowners Assn. v. Safeco Ins. Co. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1049, 1056-1057, 271 Cal. Rptr. 1 (allegations in complaint filed in another action); Bach v. McNelis (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 852, 864-865, 255 Cal. Rptr. 232 (assertions in affidavit filed in another action)].

This rule has been applied to many types of papers, including the following:

- Deposition transcripts filed as part of court's record [Garcia v. Sterling (1985) 176 Cal. App. 3d 17, 21, 221 Cal. Rptr. 349] ;

- Statements made in a medical report and reports of social workers in a juvenile file made by persons not present in court [In re David C. (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 1189, 1204-1205, 200 Cal. Rptr. 115] ;

- Unsworn statements between the trial judge and an attorney in open court as to facts not established by the evidence [People v. Surety Ins. Co. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 556, 564, 186 Cal. Rptr. 385] ;

- Hearsay statements in an arrest report [Ramsden v. Western Union (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 873, 879, 138 Cal. Rptr. 426] ; and

- A hearsay statement as to the value of Mexican stocks in an appendix to an executor's final account filed in a probate proceeding in another state [Day v. Sharp (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 904, 914, 123 Cal. Rptr. 918] .

[ii] Judicial Notice of Statements in Record Allowed

Unlike the predominant line of cases discussed in [i], above, some cases have taken, or have indicated a willingness to take, judicial notice of some hearsay statements as being true.

In Salazar v. Upland Police Dept. (2004) 116 Cal. App. 4th 934, 946, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 22 , the court allowed judicial notice of a stipulation filed in a criminal case wherein the plaintiff, who was the defendant in the criminal case, stipulated to the existence of probable cause for her arrest. The court held that taking judicial notice of this stipulation did not amount to taking judicial notice of hearsay allegations. The fact that plaintiff admitted there was probable cause for her arrest was not considered hearsay within the meaning of the line of cases disallowing judicial notice of hearsay statements within court documents.

In Del E. Webb Corp., the court said that, in considering a demurrer to a complaint, it would take judicial notice of records such as admissions, answers to interrogatories, affidavits, and the like if they contain statements of the plaintiff or plaintiff's agent that are inconsistent with the allegations of the pleading before the court. The court added, however, that the hearing on demurrer may not be turned into a contested evidentiary hearing through the guise of having the court take judicial notice of such material [Del E. Webb Corp. v. Structural Materials Co. (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 593, 604-606, 176 Cal. Rptr. 824 (2nd Dist., Div. 5; concluding that nothing in the evidence constituted admissions so inconsistent with facts alleged by plaintiff as to render the complaint demurrable)]. Similarly, in ruling on whether a plaintiff could amend a complaint to substitute named defendants for doe defendants, a court has taken judicial notice of plaintiff's admission of a fact in a deposition [see, e.g., Scannell v. County of Riverside (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 596, 616-617, 199 Cal. Rptr. 644 (4th Dist., Div. 2; admission held not to be determinative of the matter)]. An appellate court, affirming the dismissal of an action after the trial court sustained a demurrer to the amended complaint without leave to amend, has taken judicial notice of plaintiffs' affidavit filed in opposition to the demurrer, which contradicted the amended complaint and established that the defendants' conduct was not tortious [Dwan v. Dixon (1963) 216 Cal. App. 2d 260, 264-265, 30 Cal. Rptr. 749 (1st Dist., Div. 2) ; see also Able v. Van Der Zee (1967) 256 Cal. App. 2d 728, 734, 64 Cal. Rptr. 481 (2nd Dist., Div. 1)] .

These cases might be categorized as an exception to the general rule that judicial notice may not be taken of statements in court records. The exception would allow judicial notice of a pleading party's deposition or other sworn testimony when determining the truth or falsity of matters asserted in the party's pleadings. However, the existence of any such exception has been repudiated by one court of appeal that has criticized this line of cases [see Garcia v. Sterling (1985) 176 Cal. App. 3d 17, 21,221 Cal. Rptr. 349] . The Garcia court dismissed these cases as "prime examples of the widespread misunderstanding of the scope of judicial notice of court records." The court said that a mistaken notion exists that taking judicial notice of court records means noticing the existence of facts asserted in all the documents in a court file, but that a court cannot take judicial notice of hearsay allegations as being true simply because they are a part of a court record or file [Garcia v. Sterling (1985) 176 Cal. App. 3d 17, 22, 221 Cal. Rptr. 349] .

[iii] Orders, Statement of Decision, and Judgments

[A] Rule Stated

A number of cases, quoting or citing Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook, Judicial Notice, § 47.2 (Cal. C.E.B. 2d ed. 1982), have said that a court may take judicial notice of the existence of each document in a court file, but may take judicial notice of the truth of facts asserted only in documents such as orders, findings of fact and conclusions of law (now statement of decision [see Code Civ. Proc. § 632]), and judgments. Most such cases, however, did not actually involve orders, findings of fact, or judgments, and therefore do not directly support the contention that judicial notice may be taken of statements in those types of records [see, e.g., Magnolia Square Homeowners Assn. v. Safeco Ins. Co. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1049, 1056, 271 Cal. Rptr. 1 (6th Dist.; complaint filed in another action); Cote v. Henderson (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 796, 802, 267 Cal. Rptr. 274 (2nd Dist., Div. 3; stating, but not applying rule); Bach v. McNelis (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 852, 865, 255 Cal. Rptr. 232 (3rd Dist.; affidavit filed in another action); Garcia v. Sterling (1985) 176 Cal. App. 3d 17, 22, 221 Cal. Rptr. 349 (2nd Dist., Div. 6; deposition transcript filed as part of record); In re David C. (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 1189, 1205, 200 Cal. Rptr. 115 (5th Dist.; entire juvenile file including facts asserted in a medical report and reports of social workers); People v. Surety Insurance Co. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 555-556, 136 Cal. App. 3d 556, 186 Cal. Rptr. 385 (2nd Dist., Div. 5; dialogue in trial court between trial judge and counsel)].

One case quoting the Jefferson statement supports it more directly [see In re Tanya F. (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 436, 440, 168 Cal. Rptr. 713 (2nd Dist., Div. 1; trial court took judicial notice of findings and orders of juvenile court in prior dependency proceedings in order to establish sequence of events that had been stipulated to)].

Statements of fact in appellate decisions are not within the scope of this rule, so that, although a court may take judicial notice of the existence of an opinion and the result it reached, it would ordinarily be error to use the statement of facts in it to establish the truth thereof [Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook, Judicial Notice, § 47.2 (Cal. C.E.B. 2d ed. 1982) (criticizing Weiner, below); Gilmore v. Superior Court (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 416, 418-419, 281 Cal. Rptr. 343 (holding error harmless under circumstances of case); but see Rowe v. Dorrough (1984) 150 Cal. App. 3d 901, 905, 198 Cal. Rptr. 131 (1st Dist., Div. 1; taking notice of fact stated eight years earlier by another court in a reported opinion); Weiner v. Mitchell, Silberberg & Knupp (1980) 114 Cal. App. 3d 39, 46, 170 Cal. Rptr. 533 (2nd Dist., Div. 3; taking notice of pertinent facts and judgment in federal court opinion); see also, Lockley v. Law Office of Cantrell, Green, Pekich, Cruz & McCort (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 875, 882-884 ; 110 Cal. Rptr. 2d 877 (judicial notice of a factual statement in a concurring opinion of the court of appeal in a related action was improper where there was no evidence that factual statement was the product of any adversary hearing on the issue)].

[B] Rule Criticized

The court of appeal of the Fifth Appellate District has rejected that part of the Jefferson text stating that judicial notice may be taken of the truth of findings of fact. The court also distinguished or rejected the cases that have reiterated that rule (see [A], above) and held that the trial court in the case before it properly refused to take judicial notice of the truth of factual findings appearing in the trial court's findings of fact in another case [Sosinsky v. Grant (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1548, 1551, 1564-1567, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 552 ; see People v. Moore (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 168, 178, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 56 (Fifth District; court can take judicial notice that a court made a particular ruling, but not of a factual finding made in another action)]. Although it may be proper to take judicial notice that the judge did in fact make a particular finding, it is not proper to take judicial notice that the facts found by the judge must necessarily be true. The taking of judicial notice that a judge believed A is different from the taking of judicial notice that A's testimony must necessarily have been true simply because the judge believed A and not B [Sosinsky v. Grant (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1548, 1551, 1565, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 552] .

Sosinsky cited and discussed People v. Tolbert (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 685, 690, 222 Cal. Rptr. 313 , and People v. Rubio (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 757, 764-766, 139 Cal. Rptr. 750 (disapproved on other grounds in People v. Freeman (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 434, 438-439, 149 Cal. Rptr. 396, 584 P.2d 533), as cases illustrating the impropriety of taking judicial notice of the truth of a court's factual finding [Sosinsky v. Grant (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1548, 1567-1569, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 552] . The court further criticized Columbia Casualty Co. v. Northwestern Nat. Ins. Co. (1991) 231 Cal.

App. 3d 457, 473, 282 Cal. Rptr. 389 , as improperly merging the doctrine of judicial notice with the doctrines of res judicata and collateral estoppel [Sosinsky v. Grant (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1548, 1569, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 552] , even though Columbia had held that judicial notice of the content of court records for the purpose of establishing the truth of the content is distinctly improper [Columbia Casualty Co. v. Northwestern Nat. Ins. Co. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 457, 473, 282 Cal. Rptr. 389] .

The Second Appellate District, citing Sosinsky, has reached the same conclusion that factual findings in a prior judicial opinion are not a proper subject of judicial notice Kilroy v. State of California (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 140, 148, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 109 (denying judicial notice of factual assertions in prior order granting motion to suppress).

Evid. Code § 639 also seems inconsistent with the rule. Section 639 provides that, when a judgment is not conclusive, it is presumed to set forth correctly the parties' rights, but that no presumption exists that the facts essential to the judgment were correctly determined [Evid. Code § 639].

§ 321.16 Mandatory Versus Permissive Judicial Notice

Judicial notice of the matters specified in Evid. Code § 451 is mandatory, whether or not the court is requested to notice them [see Evid. Code § 451]. Judicial notice of the matters specified in Evid. Code § 452 is permissive to the extent that they are not embraced in Evid. Code § 451 [Evid. Code § 452; see also Sosinsky v. Grant (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1548, 1560-1561, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 552] . This permissive notice, however, becomes mandatory, if the party requesting notice satisfies the requirements of Evid. Code § 453 [for discussion of the requirements, see § 321.18, below].

Chapter 321 JUDICIAL NOTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

27-321 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 321.17

§ 321.17 Matters Subject to Judicial Notice

[1] Case Law, Constitutions, and Statutes

Courts must take judicial notice of the decisional, constitutional, and public statutory law of California and of the United States [Evid. Code § 451(a)]. Courts may, and on proper request must, take judicial notice of the resolutions and private acts of the United States Congress and the California Legislature [Evid. Code § 452(a)] as well as, matters underlying California statutory law [Estate of Joseph (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 203, 210 n.1, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 619, 949 P.2d 472 ; see [7], below].

Courts may, and on proper request must, also take judicial notice of the decisional, constitutional, and statutory law of any state of the United States [Evid. Code § 452(a); see, e.g., Adams v. County of Sacramento (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 872, 878 n.1, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 138 (judicial notice of Kansas statute)]. "State" includes districts, territories, and possessions of the United States [see Evid. Code § 220; Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 452].

[2] City and County Charters

Courts must take judicial notice of the provisions of city and county charters described in Cal. Const., art. XI, §§ 3, 4, or 5 [Evid. Code § 451(a)].

[3] Regulations and Ordinances

Courts must take judicial notice of the following:

- California state agency regulations or orders of repeal filed with the Secretary of State [Evid. Code § 451(b); see Gov. Code § 11343.6].

- Regulations published in the California Code of Regulations or California Code of Regulations Supplement [Evid. Code § 451(b); see Gov. Code § 11344.6].

- Rules and amendments promulgated by the State Personnel Board or its executive officer [Evid. Code § 451(b); see Gov. Code § 18576; see also Gov. Code § 18521 (defining "board" as board and executive officer established by Cal. Const., art. VII, § 2)].

- Federal regulations, Presidential proclamations and Executive Orders published in the Federal Register [Evid. Code § 451(b); see 44 U.S.C. §§ 1505(a), (b), 1507].

Courts may, and on proper request must, also take judicial notice of the following:

- Regulations and legislative enactments issued by or under the authority of the United States [Evid. Code § 452(b)].

- Regulations and legislative enactments issued by or under the authority of any public entity in the United States [Evid. Code § 452(b), see, e.g., Franklin-McKinley School Dist. v. City of San Jose (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1599, 1602 n.2, 286 Cal. Rptr. 656 (judicial notice of date ordinance was adopted); Grant v. Hipsher (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 375, 380, n.2, 64 Cal. Rptr. 892 (judicial notice of city and county ordinances)]. "Public entity" is broadly defined [Evid. Code § 200, (see § 321.12[3], above)] and "state" extends to include districts, territories, and possessions of the United States [see Evid. Code § 220; Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 452]. Section 452(b) also allows for judicial notice of California and federal regulations that are not included in Evid. Code § 451(b). "Regulations and legislative enactments" include such matters as ordinances and other similar legislative enactments [see Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 452].

A court, however, need not take judicial notice of a State Administrative Manual that has not been adopted as a regulation pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act [Willis v. State of California (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 287, 291, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 413] .

[4] Rules of Professional Conduct

Courts must take judicial notice of the rules of professional conduct for members of the bar [Evid. Code § 451(c); Bus. & Prof. Code § 6076].

[5] Rules of Court

Courts must take judicial notice of the rules of practice and procedure for California courts adopted by the Judicial Council, that is, the California Rules of Court [Evid. Code § 451(c)].

Courts must also take judicial notice of the rules of pleading, practice, and procedure prescribed by the U.S. Supreme Court, such as the Rules of the United States Supreme Court, the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, the Admiralty Rules, the Rules of the Court of Claims, the Rules of the Customs Court, and the General Orders and Forms in Bankruptcy [Evid. Code § 451(d)].

Courts may, and on proper request must, also take judicial notice of rules of court of (1) any court of California or (2) any court of record of the United States or of any state of the United States [Evid. Code § 452(e)]. "State" extends to include districts, territories, and possessions of the United States [see Evid. Code § 220; Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 452].

To the extent that the permissive Evid. Code § 452(e) overlaps the mandatory Evid. Code § 451(c) and (d), notice under Evid. Code § 451 is mandatory [see Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 452].

[6] Court Records

Courts may, and on proper request must, take judicial notice of records of any court of California or any court of record of the United States or of any state of the United States [Evid. Code § 452(d); see, e.g., Munoz v. Florentine Gardens (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1730, 1731-1732, n.2, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 609 ; for discussion of specification of court records, see § 321.18[3][c] below]. "State" includes districts, territories, and possessions of the United States [see Evid. Code § 220; Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 452]. A party requesting judicial notice of records in an allegedly related case must demonstrate that the matter as to which judicial notice is sought is both relevant to and helpful toward resolving the matters in the case [Deveny v. Entropin, Inc. (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 408, 418, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 807] .

[7] Legislative, Executive, and Judicial Acts

Courts may, and on proper request must, also take judicial notice of the official acts of the legislative, executive, and judicial departments of the United States and of any state of the United States [Evid. Code § 452(c)].

"State" extends to include districts, territories, and possessions of the United States [see Evid. Code § 220; Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 452].

Under this provision, California courts have taken judicial notice of a wide variety of administrative and executive acts, such as proceedings and reports of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, records of the State Board of Education, and records of a county planning commission [see Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 452; see also, e.g., City of Sacramento v. State Water Resources Control Bd. (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 960, 967 n.2, 972 n.5, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 643 (judicial notice of minutes of meeting of regional water quality control board)].

[a] Official Acts of United States or Any State

Courts may, and on proper request must, also take judicial notice of the official acts of the legislative, executive, and judicial departments of the United States and of any state of the United States [Evid. Code § 452(c)].

"State" extends to include districts, territories, and possessions of the United States [see Evid. Code § 220; Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 452].

[b] Type of Acts Subject to Notice in General

Under Evid. Code § 452(c), California courts have taken judicial notice of a wide variety of administrative and executive acts, such as proceedings and reports of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, records of the State Board of Education, and records of a county planning commission [see Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 452; see also, e.g., City of Sacramento v. State Water Resources Control Bd. (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 960, 967 n.2, 972 n.5, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 643 (judicial notice of minutes of meeting of regional water quality control board)].

[c] Legislative History

The court may also take judicial notice of matters underlying California statutory law [Estate of Joseph (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 203, 210 n.1, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 619, 949 P.2d 472 (records of Law Revision Commission)]. Many cases have taken judicial notice of legislative history [see, e.g., People v. Superior Court (Williams) (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 477, 487 n.5, 284 Cal. Rptr. 601 (legislative history of statute); Post v. Prati (1979) 90 Cal. App. 3d 626, 634, 153 Cal. Rptr. 511 (various materials presented to illuminate legislative history and objectives of legislative act)]. Failure to state the author of comments contained in the legislative history to a statute merits denial of judicial notice of these records on the grounds of lack of foundation [Estate of Dye (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 966, 985, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 362] .

The proper method to request judicial notice of a document is by motion [Cal. Rules Ct., Rule 8.252(a)]. In a 2005 decision, the Third District Court of Appeals offered a thorough guide to requesting judicial notice of legislative history materials. The court stressed that in order for legislative history to be cognizable, it must shed light on "the collegial view of the Legislature as a whole" [Kaufman & Broad Communities, Inc. v. Performance Plastering, Inc. (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 26, 30, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 520] .

Motions for judicial notice of legislative history materials must be in the following form [Kaufman & Broad Communities, Inc. v. Performance Plastering, Inc. (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 26, 31, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 520] :

- The motion must identify each separate document for which judicial notice is sought as a separate exhibit.
- The moving party must submit a memorandum of points and authorities citing authority why each such exhibit constitutes cognizable legislative history.

The court provides a list of legislative history documents that have been recognized by the California Supreme Court or the Third District as constituting cognizable legislative history, along with citations to the opinions supporting judicial notice of the documents [Kaufman & Broad Communities, Inc. v. Performance Plastering, Inc. (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 26, 31-37, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 520] :

- Ballot pamphlets.
- Conference committee reports.
- Different versions of the bill.
- Floor statements.
- House journals and final histories.
- Reports of the legislative analyst.
- Legislative committee reports and analyses.
- Legislative counsel's digest.
- Legislative counsel's opinions/supplementary reports.
- Legislative party's floor commentaries.
- Official commission reports and comments.
- Predecessor bills.
- Statements by sponsors, proponents, and opponents.
- Transcripts of committee hearings.
- Analyses by legislative party caucuses.

- Enrolled bill reports.

The following documents that do not constitute cognizable legislative history, and the Kaufman decision includes citations to the opinions denying judicial notice of the documents [Kaufman & Broad Communities, Inc. v. Performance Plastering, Inc. (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 26, 37-39, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 520] .

- Authoring legislator's files, letters, press releases, and statements not communicated to the Legislature as a whole.

- Documents with unknown author and purpose.

- Handwritten document copies, with author, contained in assembly member's files.

- Letters from consultants to the State Bar Taxation section to Governor.

- Letters from the Family Law section of the State Bar of California to assembly member or senator.

- Letters to Governor urging signing of bill.

- Letters to particular legislator, including bill's author.

- Magazine articles.

- Memoranda from a deputy district attorney to proponent of assembly bill.

- State Bar's view of the meaning of proposed legislation.

- Subjective intent reflected by statements of interested parties and individual legislators, including bill's author, not communicated to Legislature as a whole.

- Views of individual legislators, staffers, and other interested persons.

[d] Notice Extends Only to Existence of Acts and Records

However, taking judicial notice of a governmental agency's official acts and records does not require acceptance of their truth. Only the existence of the acts and records is to be noticed [Mangini v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 1057, 1063-1064, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 358, 875 P. 2d 73] .

[8] Law of Foreign Nation or Organization of Nations

Courts may, and on proper request must, take judicial notice of the law of an organization of nations and of foreign nations and public entities in foreign nations [Evid. Code § 452(f)].

"Public entity" is broadly defined [see Evid. Code § 200 (see § 321.12[3], above)]. Section 452(f) makes all law of the foregoing entities, in whatever form, subject to judicial notice. Thus, for example, a court can take judicial notice of a foreign treaty [Chong v. Superior Court (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 1032, 1036, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 427 (treaty between Britain and China on status of Hong Kong; citing Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft v. Superior Court (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 840, 851, 176 Cal. Rptr. 874 , which relied on Evid. Code § 452(c), (f) to take judicial notice of laws of West Germany and treaty between West Germany and the United States)].

The determination of the law of an organization of nations or the law of a foreign nation or of a public entity in a foreign nation is a question of law to be determined by judicial notice [Evid. Code § 310]. If it cannot be determined, the court may, as the ends of justice require, either apply California law, if to do so would be constitutional, or dismiss the action without prejudice (appellate court may remand to trial court with instructions to dismiss) [Evid. Code § 311].

If the court resorts to the advice of a person learned in the law of which notice is to be taken, the advice, if not received in open court, must be in writing [Evid. Code § 454].

[9] English Words and Phrases; Legal Terms

Courts must take judicial notice of the true signification of all English words and phrases and of all legal expressions [Evid. Code § 451(e); see also, e.g., Spitser v. Kentwood Home Guardians (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 215, 219, 100 Cal. Rptr. 798] .

[10] Matters of Universal Knowledge

Courts must take judicial notice of facts and propositions of generalized knowledge that are so universally known that they cannot reasonably be the subject of dispute [Evid. Code § 451(f)]. A matter that fails to meet this test may nonetheless be admissible under Evid. Code § 452(g) (see [11], below) or under Evid. Code § 452(h) (see [12], below).

[11] Matters of Common Knowledge

Courts may, and on proper request must, take judicial notice of facts and propositions that are of such common knowledge within the territorial jurisdiction of the court that they cannot reasonably be the subject of dispute [Evid. Code § 452(g)].

"Territorial jurisdiction," in this context, refers to the county in which a superior court is located or the judicial district in which a municipal court is located. The fact of which notice is taken need not be something physically located within the court's territorial jurisdiction, but common knowledge of the fact must exist within that jurisdiction. The California courts have taken judicial notice of a wide variety of matters of common knowledge [see Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 452; for further discussion, see [12] below]. If a matter subject to notice under Evid. Code § 452(g) is also subject to notice under Evid. Code § 451(f) [see [10], above], notice under Evid. Code § 451 is mandatory [see Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 452].

[12] Matters Immediately Determinable From Source of Undisputable Accuracy

Courts may, and on proper request must, take judicial notice of facts and propositions that are not reasonably subject to dispute and are capable of immediate and accurate determination by resort to sources of reasonably indisputable accuracy [Evid. Code § 452(h)]. The facts need not be actually known if they are readily ascertainable and indisputable [see Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 452].

Sources of "reasonably indisputable accuracy" include not only treatises, encyclopedias, almanacs, and the like, but also persons learned in the subject matter. Both Evid. Code § 452(g) (see [11], above) and (h) include, for example, facts that are accepted as established by experts and specialists in the natural, physical, and social sciences, if those facts are of such wide acceptance that to submit them to the jury would be to risk irrational findings [see Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 452].

Matters subject to judicial notice under Evid. Code § 452(h) include the county in which a particular California city is located [Ogle v. Superior Court (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 1007, 1012 n.2, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 205] , certain publications of U.S. Department of Transportation on National Highway Traffic Safety [Peretto v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 449, 452 n.2, 459 n.8, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 392] , and statistical data provided by Jury Services Division of the superior court [Powell v. Superior Court (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 785, 795 n.7, 283 Cal. Rptr. 777 (taking notice under both Evid. Code § 452(g) and (h)]. Subsections 452(g) and (h) also include such matters as the geographical divisions and political history of the world [see Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 452]. A recorded deed may be a proper subject of judicial notice under Evid. Code § 452(g) when the deed's existence and authenticity cannot reasonably be controverted [Evans v. California Trailer Court, Inc. (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 540, 549, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 646 (plaintiff had not objected to judicial notice and had admitted the truth of the matters evidenced by the deed)]. At least one court of appeals has held that while courts may appropriately take notice of the existence of a website pursuant to Evid. Code § 452(h), the same is not true for the factual content found on the site [Searles Valley Minerals Operations, Inc. v. State Bd. of Equalization (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 514, 518, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 857] .

Reference works used in connection with Evid. Code § 452(h) are not to be received in evidence or sent to the jury room. Their use is limited to consultation by the judge and the parties for the purposes of determining whether or not to take judicial notice and determining the tenor of the matter to be noticed [see Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 452].

If a matter subject to notice under Evid. Code § 452(h) is also subject to notice under Evid. Code § 451(f) (discussed in [10], above), notice under Evid. Code § 451 is mandatory [see Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 452].

Chapter 321 JUDICIAL NOTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

27-321 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 321.18

§ 321.18 Making Permissive Judicial Notice Mandatory

[1] Requirements

A trial court must take judicial notice of the matters specified in Evid. Code § 452 (discussed in § 321.17, above) if a party requests it to do so [Evid. Code § 453] and:

- Gives each adverse party sufficient notice of the request, through the pleadings or otherwise, to enable him or her to prepare to meet the request [Evid. Code § 453(a)]; and

- Furnishes the court with sufficient information to enable it to take judicial notice of the matter [Evid. Code § 453(b)].

Thus, although a court may take judicial notice of the matters of law and fact specified in Evid. Code § 452 without any request of a party to do so, it must, under Evid. Code § 453, take judicial notice of any of those matters if a party so requests and satisfies the requirements of Section 453 [see, e.g., Four Star Electric, Inc. v. F & H Construction (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 1375, 1379, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 ; see also Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 452]. The matters of law included under Evid. Code § 452 may be neither known to the court nor easily discoverable by it because the sources of information are not readily available. Nevertheless, under Evid. Code § 453, if a party requests it and furnishes the court with sufficient information for it to take judicial notice, the court must do so if proper notice has been given to each adverse party. Thus, judicial notice of these matters of law is mandatory only if counsel adequately discharges his or her responsibility for informing the court as to the law applicable to the case. The simplified process of judicial notice can then be applied to all of the law applicable to the case, including such law as ordinances and the law of foreign nations. However, the matter need not be judicially noticed unless adequate information to support its truth is furnished to the court, and the burden of providing this information is on the party requesting that judicial notice be taken [see Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 452].

[2] Notice Requirement

Under Evid. Code § 453, the party requesting the court to judicially notice a matter must give the adverse parties ample notice so that they will have an opportunity to prepare to oppose the request and to obtain information relevant to the tenor of the matter to be noticed. If the notice given does not satisfy this requirement, the court may refuse the request [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Evid. Code § 453].

[3] Sufficient Information Requirement

[a] Plaintiff to Furnish Sufficient Information to Enable Judicial Notice

The burden is on the party requesting judicial notice to supply the court with sufficient, reliable and trustworthy sources of information concerning the matter [People v. Moore (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 168, 177, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 56] . A court may refuse a request for judicial notice when the requesting party fails to furnish it with sufficient information to enable it to take judicial notice [see, e.g., Willis v. State of California (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 287, 291, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 413 (trial court properly excluded State Administrative Manual because offering party failed to append any information to request); Baker v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1979) 96 Cal. App. 3d 321, 339, 157 Cal. Rptr. 779 (trial court in personal injury action against airplane manufacturer properly excluded a government report on several grounds, including failure to provide sufficient information)].

For example, a party who requests the court to take judicial notice of the specific gravity of gold must furnish the judge with definitive information as to that fact. The judge is not required to undertake the necessary research to determine the fact, although, of course, the judge is not precluded from doing such research if he or she so desires [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Evid. Code § 453; see also People v. Moore (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 168, 177, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 56] .

Evid. Code § 453 does not define "sufficient information," which necessarily will vary from case to case, depending on the matter of which the court is requested to take judicial notice. Although parties will understandably use the best evidence they can produce under the circumstances, mechanical requirements that are ill-suited to the individual case should be avoided. The court justifiably might require that the party requesting judicial notice provide expert testimony to clarify especially difficult problems [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Evid. Code § 453].

[b] Official Writings

With respect to official publications or official records of writings, some guidance as to what might constitute sufficient information may be found in Evid. Code §§ 1530 and 1532, which create presumptions affecting the burden of producing evidence [Evid. Code §§ 1530(b), 1532(b)] with respect to writings and records in the custody of public entities.

Under Evid. Code § 1530(a), a purported copy of a writing in the custody of a public entity, or of an entry in such a writing, is prima facie evidence of the existence and content of the writing if the following are true:

- The writing purports to be published by the authority of the nation or state, or public entity therein, in which the writing is kept [Evid. Code § 1530(a)(1)]; and

- The office in which the writing is kept is within the United States, the Panama Canal Zone, the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands, or the Ryukyu Islands and the copy is attested or certified as a correct copy of the writing or entry by a public or deputy public employee, having the legal custody of the writing [Evid. Code § 1530(a)(2)]; or

- The office in which the writing is kept is located elsewhere and the copy is attested as a correct copy of the writing or entry, as prescribed in the statute [Evid. Code § 1530(a)(3)].

The attestation or certification must state in substance that the copy is a correct copy of the original or of a specified part of it, as the case may be [Evid. Code § 1531]. The official record of a writing is prima facie evidence of the existence and content of the original recorded writing if the record is in fact a record of an office of a public entity and a statute authorized the writing to be recorded in that office [Evid. Code § 1532(a)].

[c] Specification of Matter in Court Records and File

In requesting the court to take judicial notice of matter in a court file [see Evid. Code § 452(d); see also § 321.17[6] above], counsel should specify exactly the document or portion of it contained in the court file of which he or she is asking the court to take judicial notice [In re David C. (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 1189, 1205, 200 Cal. Rptr. 115 (quoting Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook, § 47.2 (Cal. C.E.B. 2d ed. 1982)); see also Sosinsky v. Grant (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1548, 1563-1565, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 552] .

In a law and motion hearing, a party requesting judicial notice of material under Evid. Code § 452 or 453 is required to provide each party with a copy of the material. If the material is a part of a file in the court in which the matter is being heard, the party must specify in writing the part of the court file sought to be judicially noticed and make arrangements with the clerk to have the file in the courtroom at the time of the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(c)].

Chapter 321 JUDICIAL NOTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

27-321 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 321.19

§ 321.19 Invoking Judicial Notice

[1] In Pleadings Generally

Judicial notice may be requested in a pleading or otherwise [Evid. Code § 453(a)]. The pleadings in a civil action are complaints, demurrers, answers, and cross complaints [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.10; with respect to demurrers, see [2], below]. No particular form is required, but the request must be adequate to notify the opposing party of what is requested so that he or she may oppose the request if so desired, and the requesting party must furnish the court with sufficient information to enable the court to take judicial notice [see Evid. Code § 453, discussed in § 321.18].

[2] Demurrer, Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings, or Motion to Strike

When a demurrer, a motion for judgment on the pleadings, or a motion to strike is based on matter of which the court may take judicial notice, the matter must be specified in the demurrer or notice of motion or in the supporting points and authorities, except as the court may otherwise permit [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.70, 437(b), 438(d); see also StorMedia Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 449, 456 n.9, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 843, 976 P.2d 214 (rule stated as to demurrer)].

The California Rules of Court additionally provide that any request for judicial notice must be made in a separate document listing the specific items for which notice is requested and must comply with Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(c) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(l)].

Rule 3.1306 requires the party requesting notice to provide the court and each party with a copy of the material to be noticed, and includes additional requirements if the material is part of the court file, as discussed in § 321.18[3][c].

[3] Summary Judgment

The summary judgment statute does not specify the manner in which judicial notice may be invoked [see Code Civ. Proc. § 437c(b)], so the general discussion in [4], below, would apply. In the case of a motion for summary judgment, however, the request for judicial notice should be titled as indicated in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1350(c), (e). For discussion, see § 321.60[6][a].

[4] Other Motions

A party may, on any motion, request that the court take judicial notice of matter specified in Evid. Code § 452 that is relevant to the determination of the motion [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(a) (evidence at law and motion hearing to be received by declaration, affidavit, and request for judicial notice)].

The request must be made in a separate document listing the specific items for which judicial notice is requested and complying with Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(l)]. Rule 3.1306(b) requires the party requesting notice to provide the court and each party with a copy of the material to be noticed, and includes additional requirements if the material is part of the court file, as discussed in § 321.18[3][c]. In addition, Code Civ. Proc. § 1010 requires that a notice of motion state the grounds on which the motion will be made and the papers, if any, on which it is to be based, and that any such paper not previously served on the party to be notified and not filed by that party shall accompany the notice of motion. Consequently, if judicial notice is to be taken in a law and motion proceeding, the better practice apparently is to include a separate request for judicial notice in the moving papers, refer to that request in the notice of motion and have a copy of the material to be judicially noticed accompany the notice of motion, and provide the authority for taking judicial notice of the particular matter involved in the accompanying points and authorities. For a form of request for judicial notice see § 321.60.

Some statutes governing specific motions expressly refer to judicial notice. Examples are the statutes governing motions to strike all or a portion of a pleading [Code Civ. Proc. § 437; see also, e.g., Garcia v. Sterling (1985) 176 Cal. App. 3d 17, 21, 221 Cal. Rptr. 349] and motions for summary judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 437c(b); see also, e.g., Columbia Casualty Co. v. Northwestern Nat. Ins. Co. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 457, 468, 282 Cal. Rptr. 389] .

[5] At Trial

If a party intends to invoke judicial notice at a trial and knows this before trial, apparently, he or she may serve and file a written request beforehand at some pretrial conference or the before-trial conference, if any, held in the judge's chambers [for discussion of the before-trial conference, see Ch. 551, Trial]. If the need results from evidence produced at trial, apparently, an oral request (motion) to the court to take judicial notice would be proper.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

27-321 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 321.20

§ 321.20 Burden of Persuasion

The requesting party has the burden of persuading the judge that the matter properly may be noticed under Evid. Code § 452 and of the tenor of the matter to be noticed. For example, if the matter is claimed to be a fact of common knowledge under Evid. Code § 452(g) (see § 321.17[11], above), the requesting party must persuade the judge that the fact is of such common knowledge within the territorial jurisdiction of the court that it cannot reasonably be subject to dispute, that is, that no reasonable person having the same information as is available to the judge could rationally disbelieve the fact. On the other hand, if the matter to be noticed is a city ordinance under Evid. Code § 452(b) (for discussion of regulations and ordinances, see § 321.17[3], above), the requesting party must persuade the judge that a valid ordinance exists and its tenor, but the judge need not believe that no reasonable person could conclude otherwise [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Evid. Code § 453].

Chapter 321 JUDICIAL NOTICE
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

27-321 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 321.21

§ 321.21 Determining Propriety of Judicial Notice

[1] Sources Available and Advice of Learned Persons

In determining the propriety of taking judicial notice of a matter, or of its tenor, the court may consult or use any source of pertinent information, including the advice of persons learned in the subject matter, whether or not furnished by a party [Evid. Code § 454(a)(1)]. When the advice of persons learned in the subject matter is required to enable the court to take judicial notice of a matter, the court on its own motion or on motion of any party may appoint one or more such persons to provide the advice. If the court determines to appoint such a person, the person must be appointed and compensated in the manner provided in Evid. Code § 730 et seq. [Evid. Code § 460; see, e.g., In re Marriage of Hargrave (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 346, 355, 209 Cal. Rptr. 764] . Usually, the parties will be expected to produce the advice of experts if it is needed. Evid. Code § 460, however, enables the court to appoint experts in those cases in which the advice of an expert not identified with a party seems desirable [Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 460]. For forms for appointing an expert under Evid. Code § 730, see Ch. 551, Trial .

[2] Exclusionary Rules and Privileges

In determining the propriety of taking judicial notice of a matter or of its tenor, the exclusionary rules of evidence (see Evid. Code § 350 et seq.), other than Evid. Code § 352 (excluding time-consuming, prejudicial, confusing, and misleading evidence), and the rules of privilege (see Evid. Code § 900 et seq.) do not apply [Evid. Code § 454(a)(2)].

[3] Record of Information Not Received in Open Court

When the subject of judicial notice is the law of an organization of nations, a foreign nation, or a public entity in a foreign nation (see Evid. Code § 452(f); see § 321.17[8], above), and the court resorts to the advice of persons learned in the subject matter, such advice, if not received in open court, must be in writing [Evid. Code § 454(b)].

If the trial court resorts to any source of information not received in open court, including the advice of persons learned in the subject matter, the information and its source must be made a part of the record in the action, and the court must afford each party reasonable opportunity to meet such information before judicial notice of the matter may be taken [Evid. Code § 455(b)].

[4] Opportunity to Be Heard

With respect to any matter specified in Evid. Code § 452 (for discussion of matters subject to judicial notice, see § 321.17, above) or in Evid. Code § 451(f) (for discussion of universal knowledge, see § 321.17[10], above) that is of substantial consequence to the determination of the action, and the trial court has been requested to take or has taken or proposes to take judicial notice of the matter, the court must afford each party reasonable opportunity, before the jury is instructed or before the cause is submitted for decision by the court, to present to the court information relevant to (1) the propriety of taking judicial notice of the matter and (2) the tenor of the matter to be noticed [Evid. Code § 455(a); see also Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comments to Evid. Code §§ 452 and 455].

[5] Denial of Request

If the trial court denies a request to take judicial notice of any matter, the court must at the earliest practicable time so advise the parties and indicate for the record that it has denied the request [Evid. Code § 456].

§ 321.24 Judicial Notice in Reviewing Court

Pursuant to Evid. Code § 459, a reviewing court generally must take judicial notice of matters that the trial court properly noticed or that it was required to notice, and it has the discretionary power to take judicial notice the same as the trial court. However, although a party may request that an appellate court take judicial notice of certain matters, an appellate court will, as a general rule, decline to take notice of matters that were not before the trial court [see, e.g., Termo Co. v. Luther (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 394, 404, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 687 ; Brosterhous v. State Bar of California (1995) 12 Cal. 4th 315, 325, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 87, 906 P.2d 1242] .

A request that judicial notice be taken pursuant to Evid. Code § 459 in a cause before the Supreme Court or a court of appeal must be made by means of formal appellate motion filed separately from a brief or other paper along with a proposed order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.252(a)(1)]. The motion must state why the matter to be noticed is relevant to the appeal, whether the matter to be noticed was presented to the trial court and, if so, whether judicial notice was taken by that court and whether the matter to be noticed relates to proceedings occurring after the order or judgment that is the subject of the appeal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.252(a)(2)]. If the matter to be noticed is not in the record, the party must serve and file a copy with the motion or explain why it is not practicable to do so [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.252(a)(3)].

For more detailed discussion of judicial notice in a reviewing court under Evid. Code § 459 and Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.252, and a form of appellate motion requesting judicial notice, see Ch. 50, Appeal: Briefs .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

27-321 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 321.25

§ 321.25 Review of Trial Court's Determination

[1] Granting Judicial Notice

The trial judge's determination to take judicial notice of a matter specified in Evid. Code § 452 will be upheld on appeal if the matter was properly noticed. The reviewing court may resort to any information, whether or not available at the trial, to sustain the proper taking of judicial notice [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Evid. Code § 453].

[2] Denying Judicial Notice

Even though a party requested that judicial notice be taken under Evid. Code § 453 (for discussion of the requirements of making permissive judicial notice mandatory, see § 321.18[1], above) and gave notice to each adverse party in compliance with Evid. Code § 453(a), the decision of the judge not to take judicial notice will be upheld on appeal unless the reviewing court determines that the party furnished information to the judge that was so persuasive that no reasonable judge would have refused to take judicial notice of the matter [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Evid. Code § 453].

Although judicial notice of the matters specified in Evid. Code § 451 (see § 321.17, above) is mandatory, whether or not the court is requested to notice them, and the court errs if it fails to take judicial notice of the matters specified, the error is not necessarily reversible error. Depending on the circumstances, the appellate court may hold that the error was "invited" (and, hence, not reversible error) or that points not urged in the trial court may not be advanced on appeal. These and similar principles of appellate practice are not abrogated by Evid. Code § 451 [Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid. Code § 451].

§ 321.43 Decisions

[1] Appellate Courts

Reviewing court may consider facts judicially noticed by trial court or those that trial court could properly have noticed. StorMedia Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 449, 456 n.9, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 843, 976 P.2d 214

An appellate court may consider matters that are properly the subject of judicial notice. Ross v. Creel Printing & Publishing Co., Inc. (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 736, 743, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787 .

Reviewing court as able to consider all documents trial court determined to be appropriate for judicial notice. Thorning v. Hollister School Dist. (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1598, 1603, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 91

Evid. Code § 459(a) as authorizing reviewing courts to take judicial notice of any matter specified in Evid. Code § 452(d); Evid. Code § 452(d) as authorizing appellate court to take judicial notice of records on file in action before trial court whether or not they were in evidence in proceedings and whether or not trial judge relied on them, although appellate court as general rule as not taking judicial notice if, on examination of entire record, matter apparently was not presented to and considered by trial court in first instance. People v. Preslie (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 486, 493, 138 Cal. Rptr. 828

[2] California History

Historical facts concerning Spanish and Mexican settlement of California as proper subjects of judicial notice. City of Los Angeles v. City of San Fernando (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 199, 231, 123 Cal. Rptr. 1, 537 P.2d 1250

[3] Census Results

In appropriate case, court as authorized under Evid. Code § 452(c) and (h) to grant motion that it take judicial notice of results of federal census. People v. Howard (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 1132, 1160 n.6, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 268, 824 P.2d 1315

[4] Court Records

Court took judicial notice of 1987 unpublished opinion of the court of appeal affirming a conviction of another person which not only cited deputy district attorney for prosecutorial misconduct, but identified the deputy district attorney as offending prosecutor in two other published appellate court decisions in which court of appeal found prosecutorial misconduct without indentfying prosecutor; 1987 unpublished opinion fell within category of court records for which judicial notice may be taken under Evid. Code § 452(d); because court did not cite or rely on that opinion, judicial notice did not run afoul of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 977 (renumbered Rule 8.115 in 2007). People v. Hill (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 800, 847, 847 n.9, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 656, 952 P.2d 673

A copy of a complaint which was neither certified nor provided under subpoena from the court is not a proper subject of judicial notice, as the court has no proof of its authenticity. Ross v. Creel Printing & Publishing Co., Inc. (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 736, 743, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787

Both trial and appellate courts as properly taking judicial notice of party's earlier pleadings and positions as well as established facts from same case and other cases. Cantu v. Resolution Trust Corp. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 857, 877, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 151

Appellate court as taking judicial notice under Evid. Code §§ 452(d), 459 of reporter's transcripts of (1) prior hearing before county's Family Law Court and (2) detention hearing contained in petition for writ of mandate previously filed in appellate court. In re Travis C. (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 492, 497 n.4, 498 n.5, 284 Cal. Rptr. 469

Trial court as properly taking judicial notice of records of any court of record of any state of United States. In re Tanya F. (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 436, 440, 168 Cal. Rptr. 713 ; Day v. Sharp (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 904, 914, 123 Cal. Rptr. 918

Although in ruling on demurrer courts may take judicial notice of files in other judicial proceedings, this as not meaning that they take judicial notice of the truth of factual matters asserted therein. Ramsden v. Western Union (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 873, 879, 138 Cal. Rptr. 426

[5] Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings

In ruling on demurrer court may consider facts of which it has taken judicial notice; this includes existence of document; when judicial notice is taken of document, however, truthfulness and proper interpretation of document is subject to dispute. StorMedia Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 449, 456 n.9, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 843, 976 P.2d 214

In ruling on demurrer, complaint as read as if it contained matters judicially noticed, which may show that complaint fails to state cause of action though its bare allegations do not disclose defect. Four Star Electric, Inc. v. F & H Construction (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 1375, 1379, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1

In determining sufficiency of complaint against demurrer, court as reading complaint as including matters subject to judicial notice. Sirott v. Latts (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 923, 928, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 206

In ruling on demurrer, complaint as to be read as containing judicially noticeable facts, even if pleading contains express allegation to contrary. Cantu v. Resolution Trust Corp. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 857, 877, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 151

In ruling on demurrer, allegation in complaint contrary to law or to a fact of which court may take judicial notice as to be treated as a nullity. Rauber v. Herman (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 942, 946, 280 Cal. Rptr. 785

In ruling on demurrer, trial court as committing reversible error in judicially noticing contents of affidavit for truth of matters asserted and sustaining demurrer on that ground when complaint otherwise stated a cause of action. Bach v. McNelis (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 852, 865, 255 Cal. Rptr. 232

Trial court as erring in granting motion for judgment on pleadings when complaint on its face stated a cause of action and was not defeated by matters properly subject to judicial notice. Bach v. McNelis (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 852, 865, 255 Cal. Rptr. 232

Complaint otherwise good on its face as subject to demurrer if facts judicially noticed render it defective; however, demurrer as not appropriate procedure for determining truth of disputed facts, and hearing on demurrer as not to be turned into contested evidentiary hearing through guise of having court take judicial notice of documents whose truthfulness or proper interpretation is disputable. Joslin v. H.A.S. Ins. Brokerage (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 369, 374, 228 Cal. Rptr. 878

Because demurrer is not appropriate procedure for determining truth of disputed facts, judicial notice of matters on demurrer as dispositive only in those instances when there is not or cannot be factual dispute concerning that which is sought to be judicially noticed. Joslin v. H.A.S. Ins. Brokerage (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 369, 375, 228 Cal. Rptr. 878 ; Cruz v. County of Los Angeles (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 1131, 1134, 219 Cal. Rptr. 661

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 430.70, judicial notice as taken by trial court in connection with demurrer and by appellate court conducting review. Post v. Prati (1979) 90 Cal. App. 3d 626, 633-634, 153 Cal. Rptr. 511

Under Evid. Code § 452, trial court as permitted to take judicial notice of prior judgment in determining whether to sustain demurrer based on res judicata, whether or not pleaded, provided only that (1) court has been correctly apprised of judgment and (2) plaintiff is given adequate notice and opportunity to be heard as to effect of prior judgment. Carroll v. Puritan Leasing Co. (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 481, 486, 143 Cal. Rptr. 772

In ruling on demurrer, trial court as permitted to take judicial notice of documents in file of case in which demurrer is interposed, and its own records, and files of another case pending in court. Saltares v. Kristovich (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 504, 511, 85 Cal. Rptr. 866

Law as settled that court may take judicial notice of its own records when ruling on demurrer. Nulaid Farmers Assn. v. LaTorre (1967) 252 Cal. App. 2d 788, 791, 60 Cal. Rptr. 821

[6] Federal Laws and Regulations

Court as taking judicial notice that, under laws of United States and regulations of land office, no sales of public lands are made until plat and field notes of subdivision survey of township in which they lie have been returned and approved; records as constituting public record and certified copies of plat and field notes of government surveyor as available in land office of each state. Saunders v. Polich (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 136, 140, 58 Cal. Rptr. 198

[6.1] Foreign Law

A court can take judicial notice of foreign treaty; treaty between Britain and China on status of Hong Kong judicially noticed. Chong v. Superior Court (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 1032, 1036, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 427

[7] Historical Works

"Historical works" exception to the hearsay rule (Evid. Code § 1341) as generally confined to "ancient facts" and as not extending to work of living author within reach of court's process. Osborn v. Irwin Memorial Blood Bank (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 234, 261 n.5, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 101

[8] Juvenile Court File

Judge as permitted to take judicial notice of facts asserted in findings and orders in prior juvenile court proceeding, but as unable to take judicial notice of entire juvenile file; court as unable to take judicial notice of truth of hearsay allegations, simply because they are part of court record or file. In re David C. (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 1189, 1204-1205, 200 Cal. Rptr. 115 , criticized in Sosinsky v. Grant (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1548, 1567, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 552

[9] Mexican and Spanish Law in California Prior to Annexation

Supreme Court of California as required to take judicial notice as part of law of this state that Spanish and Mexican laws governing property rights in California before annexation remained in effect after change of sovereignty unless duly repealed or altered. City of Los Angeles v. City of San Fernando (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 199, 231, 123 Cal. Rptr. 1, 537 P.2d 1250

[10] Product Liability

In action against foreign corporation allegedly arising out of plaintiff's use of motorcycle manufactured by defendant, appellate court, on motion to quash service of summons for lack of jurisdiction, as taking judicial notice of fact that a great number of defendant's motorcycles were and are sold in California and of reported cases against defendant. Rowe v. Dorrough (1984) 150 Cal. App. 3d 901, 905, 198 Cal. Rptr. 131

In reversing order dismissing action based on alleged defects in wheels on ground it could not be maintained as class action, appellate court as taking judicial notice of fact that defendant had, for many years, conducted national advertising stressing excellence and reliability of its products. Anthony v. General Motors Corp. (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 699, 706, 109 Cal. Rptr. 254

Court as taking judicial notice of fact that automobile manufacturers undertake large scale advertising programs over television, radio, in newspapers, magazines, and other media of communication in order to persuade public to buy their products. Gherna v. Ford Motor Co. (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 639, 652, 55 Cal. Rptr. 94

[11] Public Entities

[a] Administrative Regulations

Appellate court as taking judicial notice under Evid. Code § 452(b) of amended versions of city's Residential Rent Stabilization and Arbitration Board's Rules and Regulations adopted pursuant to city ordinance and supplied to court pursuant to its request in case in which court needed to determine whether rules conflicted with ordinance. Da Vinci Group (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 24, 29 n.1, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 461

Pursuant to notice to parties served under Evid. Code § 455, appellate court as taking judicial notice under Evid. Code §§ 452(h), 459, of county documents relating to duties of county probation department employee, certified copies of which were served on counsel, and of juvenile court staff rules (15 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 4278(a), 4295). In re Eddie D. (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 417, 423, 286 Cal. Rptr. 684

[b] Death Certificates

Unopposed request for judicial notice of death certificate to establish fact of death as granted. Sacks v. FSR Brokerage, Inc. (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 950, 956, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 306

Although Health & Safety Code § 10577 (repealed; now see Health & Safety Code 103550) provides properly certified death certificate is prima facie evidence in all courts of facts stated in it and Evid. Code § 1281 provides death certificate is not made inadmissible by hearsay rule, no authority as existing for court, in wrongful death action, to take judicial notice of conclusion of suicide in death certificate; in sustaining demurrer without leave to amend, trial court as having misapplied Section 10577 by treating conclusion of suicide as conclusive presumption that plaintiff could not dispute. Bohrer v. County of San Diego (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 155, 164, 163 Cal. Rptr. 419

[c] Decisions of Administrative Agencies

[d] Legislative History

Court may judicially notice matters underlying such law; records of Law Revision Commission consisting of two page document titled "March '83 ECH--Notes", ECH referring to the notes' author, judicially noticed. Estate of Joseph (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 203, 210 n.1, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 619, 949 P.2d 472

Appellate court as taking judicial notice under Evid. Code §§ 452(c), 459 of legislative history of California statute. People v. Superior Court (Williams) (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 477, 487 n.5, 284 Cal. Rptr. 601

[e] Licenses

Date of admission to State Bar of California as fact subject to judicial notice. Bach v. McNelis (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 852, 870, 255 Cal. Rptr. 232

Status of person as licensed broker or salesperson as matter of public record of which court can take judicial notice. Fellom v. Adams (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 855, 864, 79 Cal. Rptr. 633

[f] Minutes of Meetings

Official minutes of legislative body's meetings as subject to judicial notice. Thorning v. Hollister School Dist. (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1598, 1603, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 91

Request for judicial notice of minutes of meetings of Regional Water Quality Control Board under Evid. Code § 452(c) as granted. City of Sacramento v. State Water Resources Control Bd. (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 960, 967, 972 n.6, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 643

Appellate court as taking judicial notice under Evid. Code § 452 of minutes of meeting of city civil service commission. Social Services Union v. City and County of San Francisco (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1093, 1098 n.3, 285 Cal. Rptr. 905

[g] Official Acts Generally

Trial court properly took judicial notice of 2007 report of the California Legislative Blue Ribbon Commission on Autism, where, although report was prepared by commission, not legislative committee, and was not prepared in connection with particular bill, reports of legislative committees and commissions are part of statute's legislative history, and may properly be subject to judicial notice as official acts of the Legislature under Evid. Code § 452(c); and where commission that prepared report was established by Legislature pursuant to concurrent resolution, and recommendations of commission were expressly referenced by Legislature in approving Senate Bill No. 1563 (2007-2008 Reg. Sess.). Arce v. Kaiser Foundation Health Plan, Inc. (2010) 181 Cal. App. 4th 471, 484-485, 104 Cal. Rptr. 3d 545

Grant deeds are judicially noticeable under Evid. Code § 452(c). Lockhart v. MVM, Inc. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 1452, 1460, 97 Cal. Rptr. 3d 206

Judicial notice under Evid. Code § 452(c), providing that judicial notice may be taken of official acts of legislative, executive, and judicial departments of United States and of any state in United States, as comprehending official acts of a county. Cruz v. County of Los Angeles (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 1131, 1134, 219 Cal. Rptr. 661

[h] Reports

Appellate court as taking judicial notice under Evid. Code § 452(h) of report published by U.S. Department of Transportation on National Highway Traffic Safety, entitled Fatal Accident Reporting System 1988. Peretto v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 449, 459 n.8, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 392

[12] Relevance Requirement

Trial court's denial of plaintiff's motion for judicial notice could not have been prejudicial when, among other things, plaintiff did not explain how scientific study published in 1995 could be relevant to determination of defendant's alleged negligence almost 20 years earlier. Ford v. Pacific Gas & Electric Co. (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 696, 705, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 359

Judicial notice of irrelevant matter denied. Wasko v. Department of Corrections (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 996, 1001-1002 n.1, 259 Cal. Rptr. 764 (mandate proceeding); Baker v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1979) 96 Cal. App. 3d 321, 339, 157 Cal. Rptr. 779 (personal injury action)

[13] Statutes and Ordinances

Court took judicial notice of Pomo Indians' tribal sovereign immunity ordinance, pursuant to Evid. Code §§ 451, 452. Smith v. Hopland Band of Pomo Indians (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1, 8, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 455

Failure to state the author of comments contained in legislative history to statute merits denial of judicial notice for lack of foundation. Estate of Dye (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 966, 985, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 362

In action by county against state, state attorney general, and state board of corrections arising out of denial of county's claim for indemnification from state for costs and attorney fees incurred in defending class action against it in federal court alleging that jail conditions were inadequate under U.S. Constitution, appellate court as taking judicial notice under Evid. Code § 451(a) of facts that (1) county jails are used principally to incarcerate persons convicted of or charged with violations of law (Penal Code § 4000); and (2) state asserts substantial control over operation of county jails by virtue of Penal Code §§ 4000 et seq. and 6030 et seq. and 15 Cal. Code Reg. § 1000 et seq. County of Lassen v. State of California (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 1151, 1154-1155, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 359

Appellate court as taking judicial notice, under Evid. Code §§ 452(b), 459, of date city ordinance was adopted. Franklin-McKinley School Dist. v. City of San Jose (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1599, 1602 n.2, 286 Cal. Rptr. 656

City and county ordinances as judicially noticed as regulations and legislative enactments issued by or under authority of public entity in United States (Evid. Code § 452(b)). Grant v. Hipsher (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 375, 380 n.2, 64 Cal. Rptr. 892

[14] Truth of Statements in Documents

The court allowed judicial notice of a stipulation filed in a criminal case wherein the plaintiff, who was the defendant in the criminal case, stipulated to the existence of probable cause for her arrest. Taking judicial notice of this stipulation did not amount to taking judicial notice of hearsay allegations. The fact that plaintiff admitted there was probable cause for her arrest was not considered hearsay within the meaning of the line of cases disallowing judicial notice of hearsay statements within court documents. Salazar v. Upland Police Dept. (2004) 116 Cal. App. 4th 934, 946, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 22

Judicial notice of 117 documents (newspaper articles, transcripts of radio and television broadcasts, and fact sheets distributed by state and federal governments for benefit of residents and other interested parties) not taken for truth of disputed issue of fact, that is, time and manner each plaintiff discovered his or her cause of action, but to show extent of widespread publicity about contamination of land around defendant's facilities; documents were offered to show that, at time outside of statute of limitations, plaintiffs had notice of or information of circumstances sufficient to put reasonable person on inquiry; accuracy of reporting was not relevant. McKelvey v. Boeing North Am. (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 601, 612, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 645

Taking judicial notice of document as not the same as accepting the truth of its contents or accepting a particular interpretation of its meaning. Joslin v. H.A.S. Ins. Brokerage (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 369, 374, 228 Cal. Rptr. 878

Taking judicial notice of official acts of governmental entity does not in and of itself require acceptance of truth of factual matters that might be deduced therefrom, since, in many instances, what is being noticed, and thereby established, is no more than existence of such acts and not, without supporting evidence, what might factually be associated with or flow from them. Cruz v. County of Los Angeles (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 1131, 1134, 219 Cal. Rptr. 661

§ 321.50 Requesting Party's Checklist

[1] Preliminary Determinations

- ☐ What jurisdiction's law must be established?
  - ☐ California.
  - ☐ Federal.
  - ☐ Other state or nation.
  - ☐ Public entity within California, another state, or nation.
- ☐ What type of law is to be established?
  - ☐ Statute.
  - ☐ Ordinance.
  - ☐ Rule or regulation.
  - ☐ Executive Order, treaty, or other miscellaneous source.

☐ Case law.

☐ What facts are admissible and must be presented in order to prevail at the hearing or trial, as the case may be?

☐ Which facts, if any, may be proved by judicial notice [see Evid. Code §§ 451, 452; [for discussion, see § 321.17]?

☐ Is judicial notice mandatory under Evid. Code § 451 or permissive, but mandatory on request, under Evid. Code § 452 [for discussion, see § 321.16]?

☐ If the court must take judicial notice under Evid. Code § 451, what, if anything, to present to the court to enable it to take judicial notice.

☐ If judicial notice is permissive, and only mandatory on request under Evid. Code §§ 452, 453, when to request it [for discussion of invoking judicial notice, see § 321.19] and what, if anything, to present to the court to enable it to take judicial notice.

☐ Is the advice of persons learned in the subject matter required to enable the court to take judicial notice [see Evid. Code §§ 454(a)(1), 460; for discussion, § 321.21[1], above] and, if so, the person or persons who would be best qualified to provide the advice and their fees?

[2] Ascertain Documents to Be Obtained

☐ For requesting judicial notice of:

☐ Judicial decision of another state [for definition, see § 321.12[4]], obtain a copy of the volume containing the decision or a certified copy of the opinion from the court rendering it [see Evid. Code § 452(a)].

☐ Constitutional or statutory law of another state, obtain an official or authenticated copy of the constitution or statute as it read at the relevant time [see Evid. Code § 452(a)].

☐ Resolution or private act of Congress or of the California Legislature, obtain an official or authenticated copy of the resolution or act [see Evid. Code § 452(a)].

☐ Regulation issued by or under the authority of the United States, obtain either an authenticated copy of it or the publication in which it is officially published [see Evid. Code § 452(b)].

☐ Legislative enactment issued by or under the authority of the United States other than a public statutory law [see Evid. Code § 451(a) (mandatory judicial notice)], obtain either an authenticated copy of it or a copy of the publication in which it is officially published [see Evid. Code § 452(b)].

☐ Regulation or legislative enactment issued by or under the authority of a "public entity" in the United States [for definition, see § 321.12[3]], obtain an authenticated copy of it and the date it was adopted or enacted [see Evid. Code § 452(b)].

☐ Official act of the legislative, executive, or judicial department of the United States or of a state [for definition, see § 321.12[4]], obtain either an authenticated copy of it or a copy of the publication in which it is officially published [see Evid. Code § 452(c)].

☐ California court's own records or files, arrange with the clerk of the court to have the record or file delivered to the judge at the time of the hearing or trial [see Evid. Code § 452(d)(1), Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(c)].

☐ Record or paper filed in another California court, obtain a certified copy of the relevant record or paper from that court [see Evid. Code § 452(d)(1)].

☐ Record or paper filed in a court of record of the United States or another state [for definition, see § 321.12[4]], obtain a certified or otherwise authenticated copy of the relevant records or papers from that court [see Evid. Code § 452(d)(2)].

☐ California court's own rules, a mere citation to the rule should be sufficient [see Evid. Code § 452(e)].

☐ Rules of another California court, obtain a certified copy of the relevant rule from that court or the publication in which the rule is officially published [see Evid. Code § 452(e)].

☐ Rules of court of record of United States or sister state [for definition, see § 321.12[4]], obtain a certified or otherwise authenticated copy of it from that court or the publication in which it is officially published [see Evid. Code § 452(e)].

☐ Law of an organization of nations, a foreign nation, or a "public entity" [for definition, see § 321.12[3]] in a foreign nation [see Evid. Code § 452(f)]:

☐ Obtain an authenticated copy of the law.

☐ If the law is in a foreign language, have the law translated into English [see Evid. Code §§ 750, 751(c), (d), 753].

☐ Fact or proposition of such common knowledge within the territorial jurisdiction of the court that it cannot reasonably be the subject of dispute, provide a statement of the fact or proposition.

☐ If any written materials that would support the conclusion that the fact or proposition is common knowledge locally are to be presented, obtain an authenticated copy if necessary [see Evid. Code § 452(g)].

☐ Fact or proposition that is not reasonably subject to dispute and is capable of immediate and accurate determination by resort to sources of reasonably indisputable accuracy, identify and obtain a copy of the source material, such as a treatise, encyclopedia, or almanac [see Evid. Code § 452(h)].

☐ Make sure that certification or authentication of a record or paper required to be certified or authenticated meets requirements of Evid. Code §§ 1530, 1531 [for discussion, see § 321.18[3][b]].

[3] Making Request for Judicial Notice in Pleading or Noticed Motion

☐ If requesting judicial notice in a pleading other than a demurrer, in the pleading [for forms, see §§ 321.62, 321.63]:

☐ Identify the matter to be judicially noticed.

☐ If requesting judicial notice of a constitutional or statutory law of another state, specifically identify the portion of the law to be noticed.

☐ If requesting judicial notice of matter in the court's own records or files, precisely identify the matter by case title and number (if other than the present case) and the particular record or part of the file to be judicially noticed.

☐ Include the request.

☐ Attach copies of any properly authenticated written matter necessary to enable the court to take judicial notice.

☐ If the writing is too bulky to attach, check the local court rules to determine whether they cover the problem and, if not, check with the court clerk's office to ascertain the manner in which they should be presented.

☐ Make sure that the combined materials submitted [for discussion of notice requirements, see § 321.18]:

☐ Notify adverse party sufficiently to enable him or her to prepare to meet the request [see Evid. Code § 453(a)].

☐ Furnish the court with sufficient information to enable it to take judicial notice of the matter [see Evid. Code § 453(b).

☐ If making the request in support of, or in opposition to, a demurrer or a noticed motion:

☐ Prepare:

☐ Request for judicial notice [for form, see § 321.60];

☐ Demurrer or notice of motion referring to the request [for forms, see §§ 321.64, 321.65]; and ☐ Memorandum of points and authorities referring to the request and including the basis for taking judicial notice.

☐ Provide necessary documentation of matter to be judicially noticed by, for each item, either:

☐ If the item is represented by a certified, authenticated, or other copy of it, attaching proper copies of it necessary to enable the court to take judicial notice, or

☐ If the paper to be judicially noticed is some matter in the court's file:

☐ Clearly identifying it in the demurrer, notice of motion, or points and authorities, and ☐ Making sure the clerk has the file in the courtroom at the time of the hearing, if previously arranged [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(c)].

[4] Separate Request to Take Judicial Notice

☐ If the need to request judicial notice arises after the party's pleading is filed and before trial and is not related to a pretrial motion, and local court rules do not otherwise provide, consider requesting judicial notice by a separate formal request.

☐ Prepare papers for separate request.

☐ Request for judicial notice [for form, see § 321.60].

☐ Points and authorities, if desired to support the request.

☐ Notice of request, [for form, see § 321.61] sufficient to enable the adverse party to prepare to meet the request [see Evid. Code § 453(a); for discussion, see § 321.18].

☐ Attach copies of documents, if any, that are the subject of the request.

☐ Proof of service.

☐ Date and sign the original of the request and conform the copies.

☐ Serve papers.

☐ If service is by mail, Express Mail or other overnight method, or facsimile transmission, either [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(b), (d), (f)]:

☐ Note the date and place of mailing, deposit, or transmission on the request and, if by facsimile transmission, the telephone number to which the transmission is made; or

☐ Include an unsigned copy of the proof of service with the papers served.

☐ Serve a copy of the request and supporting papers on the adverse party's attorney or, if he or she has no attorney, on the adverse party and on the attorney of each other party who may be adversely affected by the taking of judicial notice, or on the party if he or she has no attorney [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1015; Evid. Code § 453(a)].

☐ Have the person making service execute the original of the proof of service and conform the copies.

NOTE:
Timing. The Evidence Code does not prescribe any specific period of notice.

☐ File the originals of the request, supporting papers, and proof of service with the court clerk and have the copies conformed.

[5] Oral Motion During Trial

☐ If the need for judicial notice arises during trial, orally move the court to take judicial notice, specifically identifying the matter to be noticed.

☐ If the motion requires presentation of written materials [see Evid. Code §§ 453(b), 454(a)(1)] or the testimony of persons learned in the subject matter [see Evid. Code §§ 454(a)(1), 460; for discussion, see § 321.21[1]], counsel may request leave to present them later.

[6] Request for Judicial Notice on Appeal

☐ Determine whether the request to take judicial notice should be included in a brief or made by a separate request [for discussion, see § 321.24[4], above].

☐ Draft separate request, if desired [for form, see § 321.60].

☐ Furnish the court with sufficient information to enable it to take judicial notice [for checklist, see § 321.50[2]].

☐ If the matter to be judicially noticed was not presented to the trial court, counsel should explain why [see, e.g., People v. Hardy (1992) 2 Cal. 4th 86, 134-135, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 796, 825 P.2d 781 ; People v. Preslie (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 486, 493, 138 Cal. Rptr. 828] .

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS

27-321 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 321.51

§ 321.51 Adverse Party's Checklist

[1] Preliminary Determinations

☐ Is judicial notice of the matter requested authorized [see Evid. Code §§ 451, 452, for discussion, see § 321.17]?

☐ If subject to judicial notice, is the matter relevant to the case [see Evid. Code § 350; for discussion, see § 321.15[2]]?

☐ Is judicial notice sought of the truth of the matter stated in a document? If so, is the stated matter excludable as hearsay [Evid. Code § 1200] or subject to an exception to the hearsay rule [Evid. Code § 1220 et seq.;]? for discussion, see § 321.15[4]

☐ Is the matter subject to exclusion under any other rules of evidence [for discussion, see, e.g., § 321.15[3]]?

☐ If judicial notice is being requested in a reviewing court, was the issue raised at trial?

[2] Preparation of Opposition

☐ If all or a part of the matter sought to be judicially noticed on a demurrer or noticed motion is not subject to judicial notice, so state in the points and authorities in opposition to the demurrer or motion, and:

☐ Clearly identify the part objected to;

☐ State why it is not subject to judicial notice; and ☐ Set forth the applicable law.

☐ If all or a part of a matter other than demurrer or noticed motion sought to be judicially noticed by a formal request before trial is not subject to judicial notice or contains matter that is not subject to judicial notice:

☐ Prepare papers:

☐ Objection to the written request [for form, see § 321.80].

☐ Proof of service [for forms of proof of service, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers ; or, if service is to be by facsimile transmission, see Ch. 264, Fax Filing and Service of Papers].

☐ Date and sign the original of the request and conform the copies.

☐ Serve papers [for checklist see § 321.50[4]]

☐ If the request to take judicial notice is made at trial and all or part of the matter sought to be judicially noticed is not subject to judicial notice, either:

☐ Object to the request, stating the ground for the objection and whether it goes to all or only part of the request, and if to a part, specifically identifying it [see, e.g., In re Rocco M. (1991) 1 Cal. App. 4th 814, 819, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 429] , or

☐ If counsel is unable to respond at the time the request is made, ask the court to delay its ruling until counsel has had an opportunity to examine the matter sought to be judicially noticed and researched the applicable law.

☐ Opposing request made on appeal.

☐ If the request to take judicial notice is made in an opening brief, state the objections in the respondent's brief.

☐ If the request is made in the respondent's brief, state the objections in the reply brief.

☐ If the request is made in a reply brief, draft, serve, and file a separate paper [see Evid. Code §§ 453(a), 455(a), 459(c)], entitled "Objections to Request for Judicial Notice."

☐ If the request is made by a written prehearing motion:

☐ Set forth any objections in a separate paper, entitled "Objections to Request for Judicial Notice.' "

☐ Serve a copy of it on the requesting party.

☐ File the original in the number of copies required by the appellate court with a proof of service.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use to request the court to take judicial notice of a matter authorized by Evid. Code § 452 [for discussion, see § 321.17, above], so that it will become mandatory for the court to take judicial notice [Evid. Code § 453]. The form may be used in support of a demurrer or motion [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(l)], or may be used as an independent request.

A copy of the request must be served and filed with the other motion papers [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1010]. If the request is not in relation to a law and motion proceeding, a copy of the request, together with a notice of the request if one is prepared [for form, see § 321.61], should be served on the adverse party and filed.

With appropriate modifications, the form may also be used to request a reviewing court to take judicial notice on appeal of a matter set forth in Evid. Code § 452. For discussion of format requirements for papers presented for filing in an appellate court, see Ch. 45, Appeal: Motion Procedure .

For forms of requests for judicial notice in a complaint or answer, see §§ 321.62 and 321.63, respectively; for forms of requests for judicial notice in a demurrer or notice of motion, see §§ 321.64 and 321.65, respectively.

[3] Written vs. Noticed Motion

Evid. Code § 453 does not require that the request be made by a formal noticed motion and to require such a motion would appear to be contrary to the informality contemplated by that statute [People v. Preslie (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 486, 494 n.5, 138 Cal. Rptr 828] ; consequently, a written request, that is, a written motion [see, e.g., California Auto. Assigned Risk Plan v. Garamendi (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 904, 914 n.13, 283 Cal. Rptr. 562] , a copy of which is served on the adverse party, would appear, in the absence of any local court rule to the contrary, to be sufficient [see People v. Preslie (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 486, 494, 138 Cal. Rptr. 828 (written request to appellate court to take judicial notice was sufficient; formal noticed motion under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.54, was not required)].

[4] Memorandum

If used as an independent request, this form should be accompanied by a memorandum supporting the request [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1112(c), 3.1113(a)].

If used in support of or opposition to another law and motion proceeding, the memorandum supporting or opposing the motion should include the authority and argument for taking or refusing to take judicial notice.

For discussion and general format of memoranda see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[5] Request Made at Trial

If the request is made at trial as a result of some question requiring it that surfaced during the course of trial, apparently, the request may be made orally with a further request by counsel that any written matter of which judicial notice is sought or the testimony of persons learned in the subject matter be presented later, which would also give opposing counsel or, if none, the opposing party time to prepare to respond to the request [see Evid. Code § 455 (right of parties to present information)]. For discussion and a script of oral motion, see E. Johnson, California Trial Guide, § 20.60 (Matthew Bender).

[6] Contents of Request

[a] Caption

There are no specific rules for the caption of a request for judicial notice except when it is part of the supporting or opposing papers on a motion for summary judgment or summary adjudication. In that situation, the paper must be titled as indicated below depending on whether the request supports or opposes the motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1350(c), (e)]:

- REQUEST FOR JUDICIAL NOTICE IN SUPPORT OF _____ [moving party]'S MOTION FOR _____ [SUMMARY JUDGMENT or SUMMARY ADJUDICATION or SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR IN THE ALTERNATIVE, SUMMARY ADJUDICATION].

- _____ [Opposing party]'S REQUEST FOR JUDICIAL NOTICE IN OPPOSITION TO _____ [moving party's]. MOTION FOR _____ [SUMMARY JUDGMENT or SUMMARY ADJUDICATION or SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR IN THE ALTERNATIVE, SUMMARY ADJUDICATION].

[b] Sufficient Information and Notice Requirement

If the court is furnished with sufficient information to enable it to take judicial notice, the request will make judicial notice mandatory, provided the matter is subject to judicial notice and sufficient notice is given to the adverse party to enable him or her to prepare to meet the request [see Evid. Code § 453, discussed in § 321.18, above].

[c] Notice of Court's Own Records or File

If judicial notice is to be taken of the court's own records or of papers filed in the court, clearly identify them and the date of filing and arrange with the clerk to have them in the courtroom when the motion will be heard [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(c)]. In the case of a record, specify the book and page number in which the record is kept or other appropriate information if the records are kept on an electronic data-processing system, and the date of the entry; in the case of a paper filed in the court, give the title and number of the case (if other than the present case). If the court is to take judicial notice of only a part of a record or document, specify the particular part, and the page and line number, if any, where it appears.

[d] Notice of Records and File of Another Court

If judicial notice is to be taken of the records or of papers filed in another court, clearly identify them by name of court, title of case, case number, and date filed; if the court is to take judicial notice of only a part of a record or document, specify the particular part, and the page and line number, if any, where it appears. Attach a certified copy of the record to the motion.

[e] Notice of Existence of Writing Other Than Court Record

If judicial notice is to be taken of the existence of a writing other than a court record or document filed in a court, clearly identify it; if the court is to take judicial notice of only a part of it, specify the particular part, and the page and line number, if any, where it appears in the writing. Attach a copy of the writing, authenticated as appropriate, to the motion.

[f] Notice of Truth of Matters Stated

If judicial notice is to be taken of facts stated in a writing, that is, the truth of such statements, identify not only the writing, but the precise statements of which judicial notice is to be taken and the page and line number, if any, on which they appear. Either in the request or supporting points and authorities, cite the authority making judicial notice of the truth of such matter proper [for discussion, see § 321.15[4], above].

[g] Notice of Truth of Contents of Book, Treatise, or Report

If judicial notice is to be taken of the truth of statements made in a book, treatise, report, or other publication, in addition to giving the name of the author, title of the book, publisher, and publication date and presenting a copy of the book to the court, specify the page on which the statements of which the court is requested to take judicial notice appear [see, e.g., Osborn v. Irwin Memorial Blood Bank (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 234, 261 n.5, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 101] . Attach a copy of the relevant parts of the publication to the motion, and have the publication available to present to the court.

[h] Motion to Appoint Learned Person

If the matter to be judicially noticed is to be established by the advice of one or more persons learned in the subject matter who will testify in court [see Evid. Code §§ 454(a), 460, discussed in § 321.21[1], above], counsel may wish to include a motion under Evid. Code § 730 to appoint such a person [see, e.g., Osborn v. Irwin Memorial Blood Bank (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 234, 267-271, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 101] . For forms, see Ch. 551, Trial . In most civil cases, the cost will be allocated among the parties as determined by the court and may thereafter be taxed and allowed as are other costs [see Evid Code § 731]. A party may, of course, produce an expert on its own, in which case that party will bear the fees, and only ordinary witness fees will be taxable as costs [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1033.5(a)(8); Evid. Code § 733].

[2] Use of Form

The form of notice in [1], above, is for use to notify the adverse party of the filing of a request for judicial notice. There is no express statutory requirement that a formal notice be prepared and served. That is, the service of a copy of the request [see § 321.60 (form of request)] and the execution and filing of a proof of service will apparently be sufficient.

Nevertheless, prudent counsel may wish to serve a formal notice of the request, not only as a reminder that the request must be served and a proof of service executed, but because the copy of the request served will not bear the clerk's stamped filed date or otherwise indicate when the request was or will be filed. The notice of request will enable counsel to have a formal statement of the service of the request showing the date the request will be filed in both the attorney's file and in the court's file. Conversely, the attorney may present the request to the clerk for filing without prior service, serve the request thereafter, and then file the proof of service, but a local court clerk may be hesitant about accepting the request without an executed proof of service on the adverse party attached [see Evid. Code § 453(a) (notice to adverse party required)].

§ 321.62 Request for Judicial Notice [Evid. Code § 452]--In Complaint

[1] FORM Request for Judicial Notice [Evid. Code § 452]--In Complaint

On _____ [date], defendant, as plaintiff, filed against this plaintiff, as defendant, in _____ [this court or specify other court] a civil action, entitled _____ [name], Plaintiff, vs. _____ [name], Defendant, No. _____, for _____ [specify relief sought]. As shown by the certified copies of the complaint, answer, and judgment in that action, attached hereto as exhibits A, B, and C, respectively, of which this court is requested to take judicial notice as authorized by Evidence Code Section 452(d)(1), the action was completely without merit and a defense motion for summary judgment was granted and entered.

[2] Use of Form

The form of allegation and request in [1], above, is for use in a complaint and illustrates the manner in which a party, pursuant to Evid. Code § 453, may, in a pleading, request the court in a pending action to take judicial notice of its own records or the records of another court in a prior action [see Evid. Code § 452(d)]. The example in the form illustrates a request to take judicial notice of a prior judgment that is the basis for a malicious prosecution complaint. For a discussion and complete forms of complaints for malicious prosecution, see Ch. 357, Malicious Prosecution and Abuse of Process .

§ 321.63 Request for Judicial Notice [Evid. Code § 452]--In Answer

[1] FORM Request for Judicial Notice [Evid. Code § 452]--In Answer

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state: TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that the action is barred under the doctrine of res judicata by the judgment in a prior action on the same cause by plaintiff against defendant in _____ [this court or specify other court] in an action entitled _____ [name], Plaintiff, vs. _____ [name], Defendant, No. _____, that, after a full trial on the merits, resulted in a judgment in favor of this defendant. The court is hereby requested to take judicial notice of that action, and specifically of the complaint and answer filed in that action and of the judgment entered, certified copies of which are attached hereto as Exhibits A, B, and C, respectively.

[2] Use of Form

The form of affirmative defense in [1], above, is for use in an answer and illustrates the manner in which a party, pursuant to Evid. Code § 453, may, in a pleading, request the court in a pending action to take judicial notice of its own records or the records of another court in a prior action [see Evid. Code § 452(d)]. The example in the form illustrates a request to take judicial notice of a prior judgment that is the basis for a res judicata defense to an action. For discussion of the doctrine of res judicata and forms of affirmative defenses, see Ch. 491, Res Judicata .

For a form requesting judicial notice in relation to a demurrer, see § 321.64[1], below.

§ 321.64 Request for Judicial Notice [Evid. Code § 452]--In Demurrer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.10, 430.70]

[1] FORM Request for Judicial Notice [Evid. Code § 452]--In Demurrer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.10, 430.70]

[EITHER, for example]

Defendant demurs to the complaint on the ground it fails to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action in that _____ [specify, e.g., the action is res judicata and barred by a final judgment entered against plaintiff in that action between the same parties on the same cause entitled _____ [name] vs. _____ [name], No. _____, filed in _____ [this court or specify other court] on _____ [date]. In accordance with the attached request to take judicial notice, the court is hereby requested under the provisions of Code of Civil Procedure Section 430.70 and Evidence Code Section 452(d)(1) to take judicial notice of the complaint, answer, and judgment filed in that action [, certified copies of which are attached hereto as Exhibits A, B, and C, respectively].

[OR]

Defendant demurs to the complaint on the ground it fails to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action in that it appears from matter of which the court may take judicial notice that the action is barred by the statute of limitations, and, in accordance with the attached request to take judicial notice, defendant requests that the court, pursuant to the provisions of Code of Civil Procedure Section 430.70 and Evidence Code Section 452(d)(1), take judicial notice of the action entitled _____ [name] vs. _____ [name], No. _____, filed by the present plaintiff on _____ [date] in _____ [this court or specify other court], and specifically of the complaint in that action [, a certified copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A] and made a part hereof, in which plaintiff alleged, on page _____, line(s) _____, that _____ [set forth allegation], which shows that _____ [specify, e.g., at least as of the date that complaint was filed, plaintiff had full knowledge of all the alleged construction defects on which the present action is based and that the statute of limitations on the present action seeking damages as a result of those alleged defects started running no later than the date that complaint was filed and ended on _____ (date prior to commencement of present action)].

[2] Use of Form

The statements in the form in [1], above, are for use in a demurrer and illustrate the manner in which the court, pursuant to Evid. Code § 453, may be requested to take judicial notice of any of the matters specified in Evid. Code § 452 in ruling on the demurrer. The examples given are for use when a court is asked to take judicial notice under Evid. Code § 452(d) of papers filed in the same or another California court (Evid. Code § 452(d)(1)) or in any court of record of the United States or another state (Evid. Code § 452(d)(2)), but with appropriate modifications may be used when judicial notice of any matter specified in Evid. Code § 452 is requested.

For discussion, a procedural guide, and complete forms of demurrers, see Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings . For another form of demurrer on the ground of res judicata, see Ch. 491, Res Judicata . For a form of demurrer on the ground of another action pending, including a request for judicial notice, see Ch. 3, Abatement of Actions, § 3.30 et seq.

For a form requesting judicial notice in an answer, see § 321.63.

[3] Procedure When Prior Action Was Filed in Court in Which Judicial Notice Is Requested

If judicial notice is sought under Evid. Code § 452(d)(1) of the records or file of the court in which the request is made, there is no need to obtain certified copies of the papers and attach them to the demurrer. Nevertheless, the papers of which judicial notice is requested must be clearly and precisely identified in the demurrer, and the party requesting judicial notice must make arrangements with the court clerk to have the file in the courtroom at the time of the hearing [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1103(c), 3.1306(c)].

[4] Judicial Notice of Allegations of Complaint

With respect to the second example set forth in the form, judicial notice of a complaint filed in another action [Evid. Code § 452(d)] may be invoked to prove that the complaint was filed, but judicial notice may not be taken that the allegations of the complaint are true [see § 321.15[4][a], above]. Although a court may not judicially notice that the allegations are true, it may take judicial notice, when relevant, of the facts alleged in the prior action. For example, if notice or knowledge of those facts triggered the running of the statute of limitations on the present action, the court may take judicial notice of the prior complaint to the extent it shows the pleader had knowledge of those facts no later than the date the earlier complaint was filed. That the facts were alleged on information and belief does not alter this result [see Magnolia Square Homeowners Assn. v. Safeco Ins. Co. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1049, 1056-1057, 271 Cal. Rptr. 1] .

[5] Memorandum

The points and authorities submitted in support of the demurrer [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100, 3.1103, 3.1113] should set forth, in addition to the authorities supporting the ground of the demurrer, the applicable authorities showing (1) that the court is authorized to take judicial of the particular matter and (2) the propriety of granting judicial notice under the circumstances of the case [see Evid. Code §§ 453, 454].

§ 321.65 Request for Judicial Notice [Evid. Code § 452]--In Notice of Motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010]

[1] FORM Request for Judicial Notice [Evid. Code § 452]--In Notice of Motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010]

[EITHER, for example]

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, on the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)], the request for judicial notice, and the memorandum served and filed herewith, on the records and file herein, and on such evidence as may be presented at the hearing of the motion.

[OR]

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, on the _____ [specify document or publication of which judicial notice is requested to be taken, e.g., complaint filed on _____ (date) in the _____ Court of _____ in an action entitled _____ (name), Plaintiff, vs. _____ (name), Defendant, No. _____, (a certified copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit _____, and)] of which this court is hereby requested to take judicial notice pursuant to the provisions of Evidence Code Section 452, subdivision _____, and Section 453, on the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)] and the memorandum served and filed herewith, on the records and file herein, and on such evidence as may be presented at the hearing of the motion.

[OR]

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, on the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)] and the memorandum served and filed herewith, on the records and file herein, on such evidence as may be presented at the hearing of the motion, and on the fact that _____ [specify fact of which notice is requested to be taken, e.g, Beverly Hills is in Los Angeles County], of which the court is hereby requested to take judicial notice pursuant to Evidence Code Section 452, subdivision _____, and Section 453.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use as the final paragraph of a notice of motion and illustrates the manner in which the court may be requested to take judicial notice pursuant to Evid. Code § 453 of any of the matters specified in Evid. Code § 452 in ruling on the motion.

The first example given is for use when a court is asked to take judicial notice based on a request that is presented in a separate document [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(l)]. This would appear to be the preferred method when a proceeding is governed by the law and motion rules [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100-3.1103 (scope of rules)], given the requirement in 3.1113(j) that any request for judicial notice be made in a separate document. However, Rule 3.1113 governs points and authorities, so it is not certain that a request cannot be made in the notice of motion. Counsel may prefer to reiterate the request in more than one of the moving papers.

The second example given is for use when a court is asked to take judicial notice under Evid. Code § 452(d) of papers filed in another California court (Evid. Code § 452(d)(1)) or in any court of record of the United States or another state (Evid. Code § 452(d)(2)), but, with appropriate modifications, it may be used whenever a request is made to take judicial notice of any document or law listed in Evid. Code § 452.

The third example given is for use when a court is asked to take judicial notice of a fact under Evid. Code § 452(g) or (h), rather than of a document.

For a discussion, procedural guide, and complete forms of notices of motion, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

[3] Memorandum

The points and authorities submitted in support of the noticed motion [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100, 3.1113] should set forth, in addition to the authorities supporting the motion, the applicable authorities showing (1) that the court is authorized to take judicial notice of the particular matter requested and (2) the propriety of granting judicial notice under the circumstances of the case [see Evid. Code §§ 453, 454].

[2] Use of Form

The form of objections in [1], above, is for use to object to the court's taking judicial notice of matter requested in a written request for judicial notice [see § 321.60 (form of request)]. The objections listed are examples only and not exclusive. The form may also be used in response to the court's proposal to take judicial notice of a matter on its own motion (see Evid. Code § 455(a)) and, with appropriate modifications, to object to a request for judicial notice made on appeal (see Evid. Code § 459(c)) [see § 321.60[2]]. In any of these situations, counsel should append or attach to the objections a memorandum of points and authorities supporting each ground of objection.

The individual objections set out in the form may also be included singly or in combination in the memorandum of points and authorities in opposition to a request for judicial notice in a noticed motion or demurrer.

[3] Grounds of Objection

Several grounds of objection are illustrated in the form.

Paragraphs 1, 2, and 3 are based on the failure of the party requesting judicial notice to give adequate notice of and information about the request [see Evid. Code § 453; for discussion, see § 321.18, above].

Paragraph 4 is based on the contention that the matter of which judicial notice is requested is not subject to judicial notice [see Evid. Code §§ 451, 452; for discussion, see § 321.17, above].

Paragraph 5 is based on irrelevance of the matter sought to be judicially noticed. Paragraph 6 is based on the prejudicial effect of the evidence outweighing its probative value. Paragraphs 7 and 8 are based on hearsay objections [see Evid. Code § 450; for discussion, see § 321.15, above].

§ 322.10 Governing Law

The right to trial by jury is guaranteed by both the federal and state constitutions [U.S. Const., amend. VII; Cal. Const., art. I, § 16; see §§ 322.12, 322.13, respectively], and by Code Civ. Proc. § 592.

Waiver of jury trial is controlled by Code Civ. Proc. § 631 and Cal. Const., art. I, § 16 [see § 322.18]. Payment of jury fees and transportation is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 215 and Code Civ. Proc. §§ 631.1-631.5 [see § 322.17].

§ 322.11 Kinds and Composition of Juries

[1] Kinds of Juries

There are three kinds of juries: trial juries, grand juries, and juries of inquest [Code Civ. Proc. § 193]. This chapter discusses trial juries. For discussion relating to grand juries, see Erwin, Millman, Monroe, Sevilla, Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 40 (Matthew Bender). For provisions relating to juries of inquest, see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 194(f), 235, 236.

[2] Number of Jurors

The California Constitution provides as to civil cases [Cal. Const., art. I, § 16]:

- The jury may consist of 12 or fewer jurors as agreed by the parties in open court.

- In municipal court, the Legislature is authorized to provide that the jury may consist of eight or fewer jurors agreed on by the parties in open court; it has not yet done so.

§ 322.12 Right to Jury Trial Under Federal Constitution

The United States Constitution guarantees the right to trial by jury in civil actions at common law in which the amount in controversy exceeds $20 [U.S. Const., amend. VII].

The right to a jury trial in civil actions provided for in the federal constitution is not binding on the states [see Rankin v. Frebank Co. (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 75, 92, 121 Cal. Rptr. 348] . Nevertheless, state courts are bound by the federal constitutional rule that a jury trial is required before serious contempt fines may be imposed, if those contempt fines are criminal rather than civil in nature [United Mine Workers v. Bagwell (1994) 512 U.S. 821, 114 S. Ct. 2552, 129 L. Ed. 2d 642, 658-659] .

ILLUSTRATION:

$52 Million Civil Fine. A state court imposed a $52 million fine on a union for violating the terms of an injunction that prohibited the union and its members from engaging in various activities. The state statute classifies the fine as civil in nature. A jury trial was required before the fine could be imposed. The fine was criminal in nature rather than a coercive civil fine, since the sanctionable conduct had not occurred in the court's presence or otherwise implicated the court's ability to maintain order and adjudicate the proceedings, and the contumacy did not involve merely simple, affirmative acts, but rather widespread, ongoing, out-of-court violations of a complex injunction [United Mine Workers v. Bagwell (1994) 512 U.S. 821, 114 S. Ct. 2552, 129 L. Ed. 2d 642, 658-659] .

Similarly, a potential conservatee, a person subject to the mentally disordered sex offender statutes, or a juvenile subject to treatment under juvenile court law who is subject to the risk of incarceration for a substantial period and to a lifetime stigma may be entitled to criminal procedural safeguards with respect to juries in certain actions concerning their rights. For a discussion of these safeguards in noncriminal proceedings, see Ch. 304, Insane and Other Incompetent Persons , and Ch. 329, Juvenile Courts: Delinquency .

§ 322.13 Right to Jury Trial Under California Constitution

[1] 1850 Rule

The California Constitution states that trial by jury is an inviolate right secured to all persons [Cal. Const., art. I, § 16]. The right to trial by jury guaranteed by the Constitution is the right as it existed at common law in 1850, when the California Constitution was first adopted [Cornette v. Dept. of Transportation (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 63, 75-76, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1, 26 P.3d 332] . Thus, in the absence of a statute that provides for a jury trial, the right to a trial by jury extends only to cases involving actions for which there was a common-law right to a jury in 1850 [C & K Eng'g Contractors v. Amber Steel Co. (1978) 23 Cal. 3d 1, 8, 151 Cal. Rptr. 323, 587 P.2d 1136 ; Interactive Multimedia Artists, Inc. v. Superior Court (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1546, 1551, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 462 ; Strauss v. Summerhays (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 806, 812, 204 Cal. Rptr. 227 ; see [b]-[d], below].

Whether an action is one in which there was a common-law right to a jury in 1850 is a purely historical question, a fact to be ascertained like any other social, political, or legal fact. The common law at the time the California Constitution was adopted includes not only the unwritten law, but also the written statutes enacted by Parliament [People v. One 1941 Chevrolet Coupe (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 283, 286-287, 231 P.2d 832 ; County of Sutter v. Davis (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 319, 322-323, 285 Cal. Rptr. 736] .

ILLUSTRATIONS:

Corporate Dissolution Proceeding. There is no right to a jury trial in a corporate dissolution proceeding brought on petition of a minority shareholder. A court could not dissolve a corporation on petition by a minority of shareholders before 1931 [Rankin v. Frebank Co. (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 75, 92, 121 Cal. Rptr. 348] .

Punitive Damages. At common law, there was a right to a jury trial if exemplary, punitive, or vindictive damage claims were alleged, if they were well-proven [Looney v. Superior Court (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 521, 538, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 182 ; Rowe v. Superior Court (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 1711, 1719, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 625 ; see now Code Civ. Proc. § 625, discussed in Ch. 326A, Jury Verdicts].

Fraudulent Conveyance. The right to trial by jury existed at common law in an action to recover an alleged fraudulent conveyance of a determinate sum of money [Wisden v. Superior Court (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 750, 755-760, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 523] .

[b] Right Dependent on Whether Action Is Legal or Equitable

[i] Gist of Action

Entitlement to jury trial depends on whether an action is legal or equitable [Mendoza v. Ruesga (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 270, 283-284, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 610 (right to jury trial in immigration consultants act case); Shopoff & Cavallo LLP v. Hyon (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 1489, 1512-1514, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 268 (no jury trial in interpleader action)]. Although the common-law forms of action have been abolished and law and equity are united in one forum, the problem of right to a jury trial still must be approached in the context of 1850 common-law pleading [Franchise Tax Bd. v. Superior Court (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 36, 41-42, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 73 (right to jury trial in tax refund action)].

If the "gist of an action," as framed by the pleadings, raises issues that would have been triable at law in 1850, a trial by jury is a matter of right [Interactive Multimedia Artists, Inc. v. Superior Court (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1546, 1551, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 462]. However, as a general rule a party is not entitled to a jury trial in an equitable action; if the action is addressed to equity powers of the court, the matter ordinarily is one for the trial court alone [Interactive Multimedia Artists, Inc. v. Superior Court (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1546, 1551, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 462 ; see [c], below].

The "gist of the action" refers to the nature of the rights involved and the facts of the particular case [see C & K Eng'g Contractors v. Amber Steel Co. (1978) 23 Cal. 3d 1, 9, 151 Cal. Rptr. 323, 587 P.2d 1136] . In classifying a particular action as legal or equitable, the court looks to its substance, i.e., the nature of the rights at issue and the remedy sought. The label attached to a complaint or cause of action does not control [Jogani v. Superior Court (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 901, 905, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 503 (determining quantum meruit is legal claim)].

The question of whether a party is entitled to a jury trial for a cause of action that did not exist in 1850 is also determined by application of the "gist of the action" rule [Franchise Tax Bd. v. Superior Court (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 36, 41-42, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 73 (right to jury trial in tax refund action); Martin v. Los Angeles County (1996) 51 Cal. App. 4th 688, 694-696, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 303] .

ILLUSTRATION:

Equitable Indemnity. A cause of action for equitable indemnity did not exist in 1850. If the claim for equitable indemnity requires a determination of legal rights and liabilities traditionally arising in common-law suits and the form of relief sought is a judgment for money damages, the parties would be entitled to a jury trial. Although the cause of action for equitable indemnity involves the application of equitable principles to determine whether liability exists, it is an action seeking legal relief and entitled to a jury trial [Martin v. Los Angeles County (1996) 51 Cal. App. 4th 688, 694-696, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 303] .

ILLUSTRATION:

Unfair Competition Claim. Although the "unlawful" prong of the Unfair Competition Law (UCL) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200] borrows from other laws, the UCL is not simply a legislative conversion of a legal right into an equitable one. Thus, the UCL provides only for equitable remedies, and there is no right to a jury trial [Hodge v. Superior Court (2006) 145 Cal. App. 4th 278, 284-285, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 519] .

[ii] Form of Relief Sought

The legal or equitable nature of a cause of action ordinarily is determined by the type of relief sought [C & K Eng'g Contractors v. Amber Steel Co. (1978) 23 Cal. 3d 1, 9, 151 Cal. Rptr. 323, 587 P.2d 1136 ; Stell v. Jay Hales Development Co. (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1214, 1221] . A cause of action seeking damages usually is a legal cause of action [Raedeke v. Gibraltar Sav. & Loan Ass'n (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 665, 672, 111 Cal. Rptr. 693, 517 P.2d 1157].

However, the prayer for relief is not conclusive [Stell v. Jay Hales Development Co. (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1214, 1221 ; C & K Eng'g Contractors v. Amber Steel Co. (1978) 23 Cal. 3d 1, 9, 151 Cal. Rptr. 323, 587 P.2d 1136 (despite claim for damages, action based on promissory estoppel was equitable)]. The fact that an action seeks equitable relief does not determine the right to jury trial. The seminal question is whether the issues are legal or equitable in nature [Jogani v. Superior Court (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 901, 905, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 503 (looking at substance of claim, court determines quantum meruit claim is legal); Interinsurance Exchange v. Savior (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 691, 693-694, 124 Cal. Rptr. 239] .

Even though a case involves equitable principles, if it is one in which the common law courts could and would grant relief, trial by jury is preserved [Franchise Tax Bd. v. Superior Court (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 36, 43-50, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 73 (right to jury trial in tax refund action); Interactive Multimedia Artists, Inc. v. Superior Court (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1546, 1554, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 462 ; Ripling v. Superior Court (1952) 112 Cal. App. 2d 399, 402, 247 P.2d 117] . Conversely, the fact that damages are sought does not make the gist of the action legal. An action is one in equity if the only manner in which the legal remedy of damages is available is by application of equitable principles [Interactive Multimedia Artists, Inc. v. Superior Court (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1546, 1555, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 462 (breach of majority shareholders' fiduciary duty to minority shareholders); see also Jones v. H. F. Ahmanson & Co (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 93, 107-109, 81 Cal. Rptr. 592, 460 P.2d 464 (same); Van de Kamp v. Bank of Am. (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 819, 865, 251 Cal. Rptr. 530 ; see [c], below].

ILLUSTRATIONS:

Quiet Title to Prescriptive Easement. There is a right to a jury trial in a quiet title action, when the pleadings raise the issue of whether a prescriptive easement exists. In 1850, that issue would have fallen within the common-law remedy of an action on the case [Arciero Ranches v. Meza (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 114, 125, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 127] .

Interference With Right of Way. Similarly, the remedy for interference with or obstruction of a right of way is an action on the case. Thus, a defendant may be entitled to a jury trial on certain issues even though injunctive relief is being sought [Frahm v. Briggs (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 441, 445-446, 90 Cal. Rptr. 725] .

Rescission of Contract. An action for rescission of a contract is equitable when it seeks something other than a return of the consideration given by the plaintiff, and plaintiff is not entitled to a jury trial [NMSBPCSLDHB v. County of Fresno (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 954, 958-966, 61 Cal. Rptr. 3d 425] .

When an action for declaratory relief is used as a pretext for circumventing the right to jury trial, the action may be characterized as legal if the issues in controversy are legal [Patterson v. Insurance Co. of N. Am. (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 310, 315, 85 Cal. Rptr. 665] . For example, declaratory relief actions in which coverage under an insurance policy is at issue have been characterized as substitutes for actions at law for breach of contract and thus the parties are entitled to trial by jury [Interinsurance Exchange v. Savior (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 691, 694, 124 Cal. Rptr. 239 (insurance company sought declaration that putative insureds not covered under existing policy); Patterson v. Insurance Co. of N. Am. (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 310, 315, 85 Cal. Rptr. 665 (insured sought declaratory relief when insurance company refused to defend on policy)]. However, even though there is normally a right to a jury trial in a declaratory relief action to determine coverage under an insurance policy, it is not error to deny a jury trial if there is no real issue for a jury to decide [Manneck v. Lawyers Title Ins. Corp. (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 1294, 1300, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 771 (no error to deny jury trial when trial court correctly determined that insurance contract was unambiguous and coverage did not exist as matter of law)].

[c] No Right to Jury for Purely Equitable Claims

Juries are allowed in equity actions, if at all, only as an accomodation and not as a matter of right [Stearns v. Los Angeles City Sch. Dist. (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 696, 725, 53 Cal. Rptr. 482 ; see, e.g., A-C Co. v. Security Pac. Nat. Bank (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 462, 472-474, 219 Cal. Rptr. 62 (equitable claim of promissory estoppel); Dow Jones Co. v. Avenel (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 144, 148, 198 Cal. Rptr. 457 (corporate alter ego doctrine is not equitable doctrine)]. When a jury is allowed in an equity action, its function is to assist in the resolution of questions of fact. The jury is advisory only; its verdict may be disregarded by the court [Stearns v. Los Angeles City Sch. Dist. (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 696, 725-726, 53 Cal. Rptr. 482] .

[d] Right Where Mixed Equitable and Legal Issues

When legal and equitable issues are joined in the same action, the parties usually are entitled to a jury trial on the legal issues [Frahm v. Briggs (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 441, 445, 90 Cal. Rptr. 725 ; see Hoopes v. Dolan (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 146, 156-161, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 337 (in mixed trial of legal and equitable issues when legal issues are first tried to jury, court must follow jury's factual determinations on common issues of fact)].

Nevertheless, the fact that damages is one of the possible remedies does not guarantee the right to a jury [see C & K Eng'g Contractors v. Amber Steel Co. (1978) 23 Cal. 3d 1, 9, 151 Cal. Rptr. 323, 587 P.2d 1136 ; Stell v. Jay Hales Development Co. (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1214, 1221, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d] . One aspect of an equitable action is the balancing of the parties' interests, and to do equity a trial court must have various options, including the option of awarding damages [Stell v. Jay Hales Development Co. (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1214, 1221, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 220] . Further, a party is not entitled to a jury trial when it is not feasible for a court to sever a legal claim from an equitable one and the damages claims are only incidental to the equitable claims [Stell v. Jay Hales Development Co. (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1214, 1221, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 220 ; Wolford v. Thomas (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 347, 353-354, 235 Cal. Rptr. 422] .

When a case involves both legal and equitable issues, the trial court may proceed to try the equitable issue first, without a jury or with an advisory jury. If the court's determination as to those issues also is dispositive of the legal issues, nothing remains to be tried by jury [Raedeke v. Gibraltar Sav. & Loan Ass'n (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 665, 671, 111 Cal. Rptr. 693, 517 P.2d 1157] .

ILLUSTRATION:

Res Judicata Defense. A defense of res judicata may be properly raised in answer to a complaint for negligence and tried to the court prior to trial on the complaint. Even though res judicata is a legal defense rather than an equitable one, there is no right to a jury trial, because the issues often require mixed fact-law determinations [Windsor Square Homeowners Assn. v. Citation Homes (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 547, 557, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 818] .

If a plaintiff seeks mutually exclusive legal and equitable remedies in the same complaint, the plaintiff may sever the actions in order to have the equitable claim tried first without a jury, even if trial of the equitable claim implicates the legal issues. In that case, the defendant's right to a jury trial is not infringed even if the plaintiff does not subsequently pursue the legal remedy [Walton v. Walton (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 277, 287, 292-295, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 901 (action for breach of contract damages and quasi-specificperformance of oral agreement to make will, severance granted to pursue equitable relief only in nonjury trial)].

When the matter of damages is not presented by the complaint but by the cross complaint, that issue may be subject to jury trial [Tide Water Assoc. Oil Co. v. Superior Court (1955) 43 Cal. 2d 815, 821, 279 P.2d 35 (complaint for injunction to prevent unreasonable waste of gas; cross-complaint for injunction and damages for past waste); Beasley v. Wells Fargo Bank (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1383, 1393, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 446 ; Escamilla v. California Ins. Guarantee Assn. (1983) 150 Cal. App. 3d 53, 57, 197 Cal. Rptr. 463] .

[2] Condemnation Actions

The California Constitution provides that a person may not be deprived of property without "just compensation, ascertained by a jury unless waived" [Cal. Const., art. I, § 19]. Thus, Cal. Const., art. I, § 19 sets forth the right to a jury in inverse condemnation actions. However, the right to a jury trial in inverse condemnation actions is limited solely to the question of damages. There is no right to a jury trial on the issue of whether there has been a taking [Hensler v. City of Glendale (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 1, 15, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 244, 876 P.2d 1043 ; see generally Ch. 247, Eminent Domain]. Similarly, because an action of a rent control board in reducing rents does not amount to a "taking" of the landowner's profits, there is no right to a jury trial to contest a rent reduction [see Yee v. Mobilehome Park Rental Review Bd. (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1409, 1428, 1428 n. 15, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 227 ; see also § 322.15[2][f]].

§ 322.14 Statute Requiring Jury in Certain Actions

Unless a jury is waived or the matter ordered to a referee, an issue of fact must be tried by a jury in the following actions [Code Civ. Proc. § 592]:

- Recovery of specific real or personal property, with or without damages.
- Money claimed as due on contract or as damages for breach of contract.
- Money claimed as damages for injuries.

Code Civ. Proc. § 592 was framed with a view toward adopting the principle that the constitutional guarantee of the right to jury trial applies only to common-law actions and not to suits in equity [Abbott v. City of Los Angeles (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 438, 462, 326 P.2d 484] .

§ 322.15 Juries in Special Proceedings

[1] Special Proceeding Defined

A special proceeding is one that was neither an action at law nor a suit at equity under the common law or equity practice [Tide Water Assoc. OilCo. v. Superior Court (1955) 43 Cal. 2d 815, 822, 279 P.2d 35 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 23]. These proceedings generally are commenced by petition or motion on notice to obtain special relief [see Oak Grove Sch. Dist. v. City Title Ins. Co. (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 678, 710, 32 Cal. Rptr. 288] . Under the 1850 rule (discussed in § 322.13[1]), there is no right to a jury trial in a special proceeding unless that right is provided by statute [Cornette v. Dept. of Transportation (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 63, 76, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1, 26 P.3d 332] . The most common special proceedings are discussed at [2], below.

[2] Particular Proceedings

[a] Forcible Entry and Detainer

Unless a jury trial is waived, any issue of fact presented by the pleadings in forcible entry and detainer proceedings must be tried by a jury [Code Civ. Proc. § 1171]. For a discussion of forcible entry and detainer proceedings, see Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions .

[b] Probate Proceedings

There is no right to a jury trial in probate proceedings unless the right is granted by statute [see Prob. Code § 7200 (administration of decedents' estates)]. There is no recognized right to jury trial in a proceeding to resolve the exceptions to an executor's or administrator's account [Estate of Beach (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 623, 642, 125 Cal. Rptr. 570, 542 P.2d 994] . For a discussion of probate proceedings generally, see Ch. 440, Probate: Is Probate Necessary ?.

[c] Guardianship and Conservatorship Proceedings

There is no right to a trial jury in guardianship, conservatorship, and other protective proceedings pursuant to Prob. Code §§ 1400-3803, except as otherwise provided in those sections [Prob. Code § 1452]. Those sections do, however, authorize trial by jury if demanded by a proposed conservatee in a proceeding to establish or terminate a conservatorship [Prob. Code §§ 1827, 1863], and require that the proposed conservatee be advised of the right to jury trial [Prob. Code § 1828(a)(6)].

[d] Quiet Title Actions

Although a quiet title action is basically an equitable action, the right to a jury extends to the issue of whether a prescriptive easement exists, because in 1850 that issue would have fallen within the common-law remedy of an action on the case [Arciero Ranches v. Meza (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 114, 125, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 127] . In addition, when possession of real property is involved, there is a statutory right to a jury trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 592; Thomson v. Thomson (1936) 7 Cal. 2d 671, 681-682, 62 P.2d 358 ; see Ch. 482, Quieting Title]. Even if title to real estate is to be decided, however, a litigant who has chosen to assert a third party claim in an attachment proceeding has effectively waived any right to jury trial by choosing that "expeditious and inexpensive means of resolution" [Whitehouse v. Six Corp. (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 527, 536, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 600] .

[e] Mandate and Prohibition

A trial court has discretion to order trial by jury as to any disputed question of fact when a return is made in response to application for a writ of mandate or prohibition that [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1090, 1105]:

- Raises a question of fact essential to determination of the motion;
- Affects substantial rights of the parties; and
- Touches on the supposed truth of the allegations on which the application for the writ is based.

A trial court ordering a jury trial on a question of fact postpones argument until after trial. The matter to be tried by jury is stated distinctly and plainly in the order for trial; the order directs the jury to assess the damages, if any, sustained by the applicant in the event it finds for the applicant [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1090, 1105]. For a discussion of the procedure for seeking writs of mandate or prohibition, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition .

[f] Administrative Proceedings

Once a court has determined that exercise of a challenged administrative power meets the "substantive limitations" requirement imposed by Cal. Const., art. I, § 16 (judicial powers doctrine), the state constitution's jury trial provision does not operate to preclude administrative adjudication. Hence, a rent control board's adjudication of excess rent did not violate a landlord's state constitutional right to a jury trial [McHugh v. Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 348, 381, 386, 261 Cal. Rptr. 318, 777 P.2d 91] . Nor does a rent control board's reduction of rents amount to a "taking" of the landowner's profits within the meaning of Cal. Const., art. I, § 19, so no right to a jury trial is available on that ground to contest a rent reduction [see Yee v. Mobilehome Park Rental Review Bd. (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1409, 1428, 1428 n.15, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 227] .

The exercise of administrative power meets the substantive limitations requirements if the challenged activities are authorized by statute or legislation, and are reasonably necessary to, and primarily directed at, effectuating the administrative agency's primary, legitimate regulatory purposes [McHugh v. Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 348, 372, 380, 261 Cal. Rptr. 318, 777 P.2d 91] . Resolution of the question might be different, however, in a situation in which an agency purports to adjudicate substantial "damage" claims such that recovery of damages becomes the primary focus, as opposed to merely an incidental aspect ofthe regulatory scheme [McHugh v. Santa Monica Rent Control Bd. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 348, 381 n.53, 261 Cal. Rptr. 318, 777 P.2d 91] .

In many situations, such as civil service proceedings, an employee's only recourse for judicial review of an administrative decision is a petition for writ of mandate. The employee has no right to a jury trial [see DeCuir v. County of Los Angeles (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 75, 81, 83, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 102 (distinguishing two types of mandate depending on whether employee had evidentiary hearing before public agency)].

[g] Distribution of Settlement Proceeds of Wrongful Death Action

In an action arising from a wrongful death action involving several decedents, there is no right to have a jury apportion the proceeds of the settlement of the action. The apportionment proceeding is equitable and is a special proceeding [Kim v. Yi (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 543, 546-550, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 841] .

[h] Civil Forfeiture Proceedings

A forfeiture proceeding is a civil in rem action in which property is considered the defendant, based on the legal fiction that the property is the guilty party. A claimant has both a statutory and a California constitutional right to a jury trial in civil in rem forfeiture proceedings [People v. $17,522.08 United States Currency (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 1076, 1081-1082, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 519 ; People v. Superior Court (Plascencia) (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 409, 418, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 793] .

In a civil forfeiture proceeding, when a person claims an interest in the property seized, the forfeiture proceeding must be set for a hearing, and the hearing must be by jury, unless waived by consent of all parties [Health & Safety Code § 11488.5(c)(1), (2)]. The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure apply to forfeiture proceedings unless otherwise inconsistent with the provisions or procedures in Health & Safety Code § 11469 et seq. governing seizure and disposition of property [Health & Safety Code § 11488.5(c)(3)]. The provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 631 relating to waiver of jury trial apply to civil forfeiture proceedings because they are not inconsistent with Health & Safety Code § 11488.5(c)(2). Thus, in forfeiture proceedings, the right to a jury trial may be waived by the means specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 631 [People v. $17,522.08 United States Currency (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 1076, 1081-1082, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 519 ; for discussion of the means of waiving jury trial set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 631, see § 322.18[2][a]]. A claimant in a civil forfeiture proceeding is not afforded the same protection against waiver of a jury trial that a defendant is afforded in a criminal proceeding [People v. $17,522.08 United States Currency (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 1076, 1083, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 519] .

§ 322.16 Demand for Jury Trial

A jury trial may be requested by using the Case Management Statement [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.725]. The Case Management Statement is due no later than 15 calendar days before the date set for the case management conference or review [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.725(a)]. It is also a matter for discussion at the case management conference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.727(13)].

For a form of demand for jury trial, see § 322.90. For additional forms for use in demanding a jury trial, see Ch. 425, Pretrial Proceedings .

Generally, when an action involves some issues that are properly tried to the court and other issues that are properly tried to a jury, a party seeking a jury trial need not specify the particular issues on which it wants a jury trial in its demand [Old Republic Ins. Co. v. FSR Brokerage, Inc. (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 666, 679, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 583] .

§ 322.17 Deposit of Fees and Expenses of Jury

[1] Deposit of Advance Jury Fees Required

The party demanding a jury trial must deposit with the court clerk or judge an advance jury fee 25 days before the date set for trial; this fee may not exceed a total of $150 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 631(a)(5); see also discussion of waiver of jury by failure to deposit fees at § 322.18[3][a]]. If the action is for unlawful detainer, the fees must be deposited at least five days before the date set for trial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 631(a)(5)]. In all eminent domain cases, the party seeking condemnation deposits jury fees and mileage regardless of which party demanded a jury trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 631.5].

A county may pay jury fees in civil cases from its general fund; however, a county is not precluded from seeking reimbursement from the party to the litigation who is liable for payment of jury fees [Code Civ. Proc. § 631.1].

[2] Disposition of Fees When Case Is Settled or Continued

When a party has deposited jury fees and subsequently that party waives a jury or obtains a continuance, or the case is settled, the deposit is not refunded (1) if the court finds there was not sufficient time to notify thejurors that the trial would not proceed at the time set or (2) if the depositing party has not requested a refund, in writing, within 20 business days from the date the jury was waived or the action was settled, dismissed, or continued. Jury fees not refunded are transmitted to the Controller for deposit into the Trial Court Trust Fund [Code Civ. Proc. § 631.3].

[3] Deposit of Jury Transportation Expenses Required After Impanelment

The party demanding trial by jury must deposit with the clerk or judge promptly after the impanelment of the jury a sum equal to the mileage or transportation of the jury accrued up to that time [Code Civ. Proc. § 631(a)(6)].

[4] Deposit of Jury Fees and Transportation Expenses Required Thereafter

The party demanding trial by jury must deposit with the clerk or judge at the beginning of the second and each succeeding day's session a sum equal to one day's fees of the jury and the mileage or transportation, if any [Code Civ. Proc. § 631(a)(7)].

All provisions governing fees, expenses, and mileage or transportation of jurors apply to alternate jurors, except that in civil cases the sums for fees and mileage or transportation need not be deposited until the judge directs alternate jurors to be impaneled [Code Civ. Proc. § 234].

[5] Amount of Jury Fees

Beginning July 1, 2000, the fee for jurors in superior court civil cases is $15 a day after the first day [Code Civ. Proc. § 215(a)]. A juror who is employed by a federal, state, or local government entity, or by any other public entity as defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 481.200, and who receives regular compensation and benefits while performing jury service, may not be paid this fee [Code Civ. Proc. § 215(b)]. All jurors in superior court in civil cases must be reimbursed for mileage at the rate of 34 cents per mile for each mile, one way, actually traveled in attending court as a juror after the first day [Code Civ. Proc. § 215(c)].

[6] Jury Fees Recoverable as Costs

Juror fees and mileage reimbursement [Code Civ. Proc. § 215] are recoverable as costs by the prevailing party in civil cases [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1032, 1033.5(a)(1); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1033.5(a)(2) (juror food and lodging as allowable costs); Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Right to, Demand for, and Waiver of Juries

27-322 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 322.18

AUTHOR: William G. McDevitt Editorial Consultant

§ 322.18 Waiver of Jury Trial

[1] Waiver by Contract

A predispute waiver of a jury trial is not authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 631. Only waivers authorized by § 631 are consistent with article I, section 16 of the California Constitution. Thus, a predispute contractual waiver of a jury trial cannot waive a jury trial [Grafton Partners v. Superior Court (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 944, 951-967, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 5, 116 P.3d 479 , overruling Trizec Properties, Inc. v. Superior Court (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 1616, 280 Cal. Rptr. 885] .

[2] Waiver in Course of Judicial Proceedings

[a] Statutory Grounds of Waiver

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 631(a), trial by jury may be waived as to an issue of fact in any of the following ways:

- By failing to appear at the trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 631(a)(1)].

- By written consent filed with the clerk or judge [Code Civ. Proc. § 631(a)(2); see also Cal. Const., art. I, § 16; for a form for use in waiving a jury trial, see § 322.93].

- By oral consent in open court entered in the minutes or docket [Code Civ. Proc. § 631(a)(3); see also Cal. Const., art. I, § 16; Cadle Co. v. World Wide Hospitality Furniture, Inc. (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 504, 510-511, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 480 (defense counsel's oral consent to jury waiver at final status conference, stated in open court and entered in court minutes, provided basis for jury waiver under Code Civ. Proc. § 631(d)(3); fact that waiver was by counsel, not defendant, did not invalidate waiver)].

- By failing to announce that a jury is requested at the time the cause is first set for trial, if it is set on notice or stipulation, or within five days after notice of setting if it is set without notice or stipulation [Code Civ. Proc. § 631(a)(4)].

- By failing to deposit with the clerk or judge the advance jury fee, not to exceed a total of $150, 25 days prior to the date set for trial (or at least five days prior to the date set for trial in unlawful detainer actions) [Code Civ. Proc. § 631(a)(5); see § 322.17[1]]. Alternately, by failing to deposit the advance jury fee as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 631(b) [Code Civ. Proc. § 631(a)(5); for discussion of deposit under Code Civ. Proc. § 631(b), see [4], below].

- By failing to deposit with the clerk or judge promptly after the impanelment of the jury a sum equal to the mileage or transportation of the jury accrued up to that time [Code Civ. Proc. § 631(a)(6); see § 322.17[3]].

- By failing to deposit with the clerk or judge at the beginning of the second and each succeeding day's session a sum equal to one day's fees of the jury and the mileage or transportation, if any [Code Civ. Proc. § 631(a)(7); see § 322.17[4]].

Code Civ. Proc. § 631 presupposes a pending action, and relates only to the manner in which a party to an action can waive the right to a jury trial [Madden v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 699, 713, 131 Cal. Rptr. 882, 552 P.2d 1178 ; Trizec Properties, Inc. v. Superior Court (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 1616, 1618, 280 Cal. Rptr. 885] .

For further discussion and additional forms for use in waiving a jury trial, see Ch. 425, Pretrial Proceedings . For discussion of the court's discretion to permit a jury trial notwithstanding waiver, see [3], below.

[b] Adverse Party's Waiver by Failure to Act

If a party who has demanded a jury trial subsequently waives it, the adverse party also will waive its right to a jury trial by failing to promptly make a jury demand [see Code Civ. Proc. § 631(b), (c)]. For discussion of an adverse party's right to demand a jury trial, see [4], below. Although one appellate court held that the methods of waiver specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 631 are exclusive [see Cooks v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 723, 727, 274 Cal. Rptr. 113 (Second District, Division Four) ; see also Old Republic Ins. Co. v. FSR Brokerage, Inc. (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 666, 679, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 583 (Second Dist., Div. Four; restating rule)] , another court held that waiver may be shown by conduct that is inconsistent with the intent to exercise the right to a jury trial [Escamilla v. California Ins. Guarantee Assn. (1983) 150 Cal. App. 3d 53, 59, 197 Cal. Rptr. 463 (Second District, Division Three) ; cf. Old Republic Ins. Co. v. FSR Brokerage, Inc. (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 666, 680, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 583 (distinguishing Escamilla)].

ILLUSTRATION:

Waiver by Conduct. A trial court stated that the matter before it, for which no jury had been demanded, was equitable and would be tried by the court, and asked, "Do you have any comments in that regard?" Counsel remained silent. The silence in that instance amounted to waiver of the right to jury trial. Having neither demanded a jury nor objected, counsel could not, after losing the case, complain that the case was not tried by a jury. The fact that the waiver had not been entered in the court's minutes was not determinative [Escamilla v. California Ins. Guarantee Assn. (1983) 150 Cal. App. 3d 53, 59, 61, 197 Cal. Rptr. 463 (Second District, Division Three)] .

[c] Waiver Caused by Violation of Local Rules

Superior courts may adopt local rules designed to expedite the court's business [see Code Civ. Proc. § 575.1(a)], and may include more stringent requirements for a jury demand. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2(a), local rules may impose penalties for failure to comply with the requirements. It is the legislative intent that a failure to comply with local rules is the responsibility of counsel, not of the party, and any penalty must be imposed on counsel and may not adversely affect the party's causes of action or defenses [Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2(b)].

Hence, if a party is deemed to have waived the right to a jury trial because counsel failed to comply with a local rule, the trial court should permit a jury trial and impose any penalty only on the party's counsel, as long as the party was not responsible for counsel's failure and there is no prejudice to the opposing party [Massie v. AAR W. Skyways, Inc. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 405, 412, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654 (trial court erred in denying motion for relief from waiver, notwithstanding counsel's failure to comply with local rule requiring posting of jury fees five days before joint disposition conference); see also Cooks v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 723, 724-726, 274 Cal. Rptr. 113 (mandate directing court to vacate order striking jury request based on counsel's failure to submit proposed jury instructions under fast-track-rules deadline)].

[3] Court's Discretion After Waiver

[a] Court May Allow Jury Trial Notwithstanding Waiver

The court may, in its discretion, allow a trial by jury even though there has been a waiver [Code Civ. Proc. § 631(e); for a form of notice of motion for jury trial after waiver, see § 322.94]. The purpose of Code Civ. Proc. § 631 is to provide a means by which the parties may waive a jury, not to impose conditions constituting an irrevocable waiver, and the trial court has discretion to allow a jury trial despite a prior waiver [Massie v. AAR W. Skyways, Inc. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 405, 411, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654 ; see Carpenson v. Najarian (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 856, 863, 62 Cal. Rptr. 687] .

Doubt as to whether there has been a waiver of jury trial [see Oakes v. McCarthy Co. (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 231, 265, 73 Cal. Rptr. 127] , or concerning the propriety of granting relief from the waiver, should be resolved in favor of the party requesting trial by jury because of the constitutional guarantee of the right to a jury trial [see Massie v. AAR W. Skyways, Inc. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 405, 411, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654 ; see also Oakes v. McCarthy Co. (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 231, 264-265, 73 Cal. Rptr. 127 (trial court properly allowed trial by jury when timeliness of demand for trial by jury was in question); Cal. Const., art. I, § 16].

[b] Factors to Be Considered in Granting Relief

In exercising its discretion, a court may consider the following factors [Day v. Rosenthal (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1176, 217 Cal. Rptr. 89 ; McIntosh v. Bowman (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 357, 363, 198 Cal. Rptr. 533] :

- Delay in rescheduling the trial for jury.
- Lack of funds.
- Timeliness of the request.
- Prejudice to the litigants.
- Prejudice to the court or its calendar.
- Reason for the request.
- Whether the other parties desire a jury trial.

For example, when a party was advised approximately eight days before trial that his jury fees had not been posted, his motion for relief from the waiver on the morning of trial was properly denied [see Still v. Plaza Marina Commercial Corp. (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 378, 388, 98 Cal. Rptr. 414] .

A court does not abuse its discretion when any reasonable factors supporting denial of relief can be found, even if a reviewing court, as a question of first impression, might take a different view [Gann v. Williams Bros. Realty, Inc. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1698, 1704, 283 Cal. Rptr. 128] .

Because of the public policy favoring trial by jury, the trial court should grant relief from a jury waiver, except when granting the motion would work serious hardship to the objecting party [Boal v. Price Waterhouse & Co. (1985) 165 Cal. App. 3d 806, 809, 212 Cal. Rptr. 42 ; see Wharton v. Superior Court (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 100, 103, 282 Cal. Rptr. 349] . The trial court abuses its discretion in denying relief if there has been no prejudice to the other party or to the court from an inadvertent waiver [Massie v. AAR W. Skyways, Inc. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 405, 411, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654] .

The opposing party must show prejudice from the granting of relief, not prejudice because of a jury trial [Massie v. AAR W. Skyways, Inc. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 405, 411, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654] . It will be presumed that the party had the benefit of a fair and impartial trial, even if the case was tried to the court rather than to a jury [Gann v. Williams Brothers Realty, Inc. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1698, 1704, 283 Cal. Rptr. 128] .

[4] [Reserved]

[5] Effect on Waiver of Reversal on Appeal

When a judgment has been reversed for a trial de novo, a party is not bound by its waiver of a jury at the first trial [Frankel v. Four Star Int'l, Inc. (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 897, 904, 163 Cal. Rptr. 902] . However, if the cause is remanded on appeal for further proceedings and determination of issues that could have been decided originally, a waiver of jury trial is binding as to the subsequent proceedings [Frankel v. Four Star Int'l, Inc. (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 897, 904, 163 Cal. Rptr. 902 ; see Spaulding v. Cameron (1954) 127 Cal. App. 2d 698, 703, 274 P.2d 177] .

For example, in Frankel, the trial court on remand properly allowed a jury trial as to one cause of action as to which the judgment had been reversed on appeal. However, the trial court also properly made a new determination of damages and made new findings on another cause of action, as to which the appellate court had affirmed and remanded for clarification of the findings of fact supporting the amount of damages [Frankel v. Four Star Int'l, Inc. (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 897, 900 n.1, 903-904, 163 Cal. Rptr. 902] .

When a case is remanded to the trial court with instructions from the appellate court that imply that evidence should be considered by the trial judge who heard it and was familiar with it, it would be inconsistent with the instructions for the trial court to relieve the party from the waiver of jury trial, and the trial court properly refuses a request for a jury trial [Spaulding v. Cameron (1954) 127 Cal. App. 2d 698, 703, 274 P.2d 177] .

Similarly, on remand after jury trial is waived in the original action, a party cannot demand jury trial as a matter of right for trial of an ancillary or supplemental issue, such as a determination of attorney's fees on appeal that are to be added to the judgment [Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Whitson (1962) 205 Cal. App. 2d 713, 715-716, 23 Cal. Rptr. 491] .

§ 322.30 Governing Statutes

The Trial Jury Selection and Management Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 190 et seq.), enacted in 1988, governs the following:

- The qualifications, summoning, excusing, and selection of jurors [see §§ 322.32, 322.34, 322.35, 322.36].
- The duties of jury commissioners.
- The voir dire examination of prospective jurors [see § 322.37].
- Challenges to jurors [see § 322.39 et seq.].
- Jurors' fees [see § 322.17].
- The use of alternate jurors [see § 322.44].

The Act governs the the formation of trial juries for both civil and criminal cases in all trial courts of the state [Code Civ. Proc. § 192]. Procedures for selection, qualification, and management of prospective jurors, juror pools, and trial jury panels generally are set forth in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 191-219. Voir dire of prospective jurors and formation of the trial jury generally are governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 220-234.

§ 322.31 Definitions

[1] Jury Commissioner

Each county has a jury commissioner to aid the court in the selection of jurors for all trial courts within the county [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 195(c), 196-198].

The jury commissioner is appointed by, and serves at the pleasure of, a majority of the superior court judges [Code Civ. Proc. § 195(a); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 195(b) (appointment of deputy jury commissioners and salaries of commissioner and deputy commissioner)]. In any county in which there is a superior court administrator or executive officer, that person is the ex officio jury commissioner [Code Civ. Proc. § 195(a); see also Gov. Code §§ 69893, 69894.1, 69895 (appointment of jury commissioner or ex officio jury commissioner in particular superior courts)]. In any court jurisdiction where any person other than a court administrator or clerk/administrator is serving as jury commissioner, that person must continue to serve at the pleasure of a majority of the judges of the appointing court [Code Civ. Proc. § 195(a)].

[2] Juror Lists

[a] Source Lists

A "source list" is a list of persons in the area served by the court used as a source of potential jurors, such as voter registration and Department of Motor Vehicles lists [Code Civ. Proc. § 194(m); see Code Civ. Proc. § 197 (description of sources); see also § 322.33].

[b] Master List

A "master list" is a list of names of prospective jurors (discussed in [3][b], below) compiled randomly by the county jury commissioner from "source lists." The jury commissioner sends questionnaires to the prospective jurors on the master list to determine whether they meet the statutory qualifications for service as jurors [Code Civ. Proc. § 194(g) (defining "master list"); see Code Civ. Proc. § 198 (creation and use of master list); see also § 322.33].

[c] Qualified Juror List

A "qualified juror list" is a list of qualified jurors (discussed in [3][c], below), i.e., prospective jurors who meet the statutory qualifications for jury service, compiled by the county jury commissioner from answers to questionnaires sent to prospective jurors on the master list [Code Civ. Proc. § 194(k); see § 322.33].

[3] Potential, Prospective, and Qualified Jurors

[a] Potential Juror

A "potential juror" is any person whose name appears on a source list (discussed in [2][a], above) [Code Civ. Proc. § 194(h) (defining "potential juror")].

[b] Prospective Juror

A "prospective juror" is a juror whose name appears on the "master list" (discussed in [2][b], above) [Code Civ. Proc. § 194(i) (defining "prospective juror"); see Code Civ. Proc. § 198 (creation and use of master list)].

[c] Qualified Juror

A "qualified juror" is a person who meets the statutory qualifications for jury service and whose name appears on the "qualified juror list" (discussed in [2][c], above) [Code Civ. Proc. § 194(j); see Code Civ. Proc. § 203 (persons eligible and qualified to be prospective trial jurors); see also § 322.33].

[4] Juror Pool or Venire

The "juror pool" is a large group of qualified prospective jurors summoned by the jury commissioner from the qualified juror list and appearing for assignment to trial jury panels (discussed in [5], below) [Code Civ. Proc. § 194(e); see also § 322.34]. This group also is known as the "venire" [People v. Breaux (1991) 1 Cal. 4th 281, 296 n.2, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 81, 821 P.2d 585] .

[5] Trial Jury Panel

A "trial jury panel" is a group of prospective jurors from the juror pool assigned to a particular courtroom for the purpose of voir dire, from which the trial jury is selected [Code Civ. Proc. § 194(q); see § 322.36].

[6] Trial Jurors and Trial Jury

The trial jurors or trial jury are those jurors ultimately selected and sworn to receive the evidence and reach a verdict on all questions of fact [see Code Civ. Proc. § 194(o) (defining trial jurors); Code Civ. Proc. § 194(p) (defining trial jury); Code Civ. Proc. § 232(b) (swearing of jury); see also §§ 322.43, 322.57]. As provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 194(o), "trial jurors" are "those jurors sworn to try and determine by verdict a question of fact." As provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 194(p), a "trial jury" is "a body of persons selected from the citizens of the area served by the court and sworn to try and determine by verdict a question of fact."

A trial jury usually consists of 12 persons, although in civil actions or misdemeanor criminal cases the parties may agree to any lesser number [Cal. Const., art. I, § 16; Code Civ. Proc. § 220].

[7] Additional Definitions

For additional definitions of terms relating to jurors that are used in the Trial Jury Selection and Management Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 190 et seq.), see Code Civ. Proc. § 194.

§ 322.32 Competence and Qualification of Prospective Jurors

[1] Qualifications and Exclusions Generally

Each state may prescribe relevant qualifications for its jurors. Each state remains free to confine its selection to citizens, to persons meeting specified qualifications of age and educational attainment, and to those persons possessing good intelligence, sound judgment, and fair character [see People v. Superior Court (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 672, 681, 91 Cal. Rptr. 651] .

No person will be excluded from eligibility for jury service in the state of California for any reason other than those reasons provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 203 [Code Civ. Proc. § 203(b)]. All persons are eligible and qualified to be prospective trial jurors except the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 203(a)]:

- Persons who are not citizens of the United States.

- Persons who are less than 18 years of age.

- Persons who are not domiciliaries of California as determined pursuant to Article 2 (commencing with Section 2020) of Chapter 1 of Division 2 of the Elections Code (see Elec. Code § 2020 et seq.).

- Persons who are not residents of the jurisdiction in which they are summoned to serve.

- Persons who have been convicted of malfeasance in office or a felony, and whose civil rights have not been restored.

- Persons who are not possessed of sufficient knowledge of the English language, provided that no person will be deemed incompetent solely because of the loss of sight or hearing in any degree or other disability that impedes the person's ability to communicate or that impairs or interferes with the person's mobility [see also Civ. Code § 54.8 (assistive listening system required on request of hard-of-hearing juror)].

- Persons who are serving as grand or trial jurors in any California court.
- Persons who are the subject of conservatorship.

All qualified persons, as a policy matter, have an equal opportunity to be considered for jury service in the state and an obligation to serve as jurors when summoned for that purpose, in accordance with the Trial Jury Selection and Management Act (Code Civ. Proc. § 190 et seq.) [Code Civ. Proc. § 191]. For discussion of exemptions and excuses from jury service, see § 322.35.

[2] Sufficient Knowledge of English

The requirement that a juror have sufficient knowledge of English is satisfied only by jurors who are fully able to understand spoken and written English [People v. Jones (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 776, 783, 102 Cal. Rptr. 277 ; but see Code Civ. Proc. § 203(a)(6) (loss of sight or hearing or other disability that impedes ability to communicate is not ground for exclusion), discussed in [3], below]. An examination testing vocabulary and reading skills of prospective jurors can be a proper means of establishing a juror's competence to serve [see People v. Powell (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 107, 134-142, 115 Cal. Rptr. 109 (decided under former Code Civ. Proc. § 198)].

[3] Prospective Juror With Disability

The Judicial Council has declared that it is the policy of the California courts to assure that qualified individuals with disabilities have equal and full access to the judicial system [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.100(b)]. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.100 contains a procedure for implementing this policy by allowing any lawyer, party, witness, juror, or any other individual with an interest in attending any proceeding before a California court to request a reasonable accommodation of his or her disability to permit the disabled individual to attend and participate in the proceeding [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.100(c)-(h); see also Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI No. 110 (LexisNexis Matthew Bender, Official Publisher) (instructing that juror with disability will be assisted by service provider)].

Application for an accommodation may be presented ex parte in writing, on a form approved by the Judicial Council for this purpose, or orally as the court may allow [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.100(c)(1)]. For discussion of challenges for cause to prospective jurors with disabilities, see § 322.40[1].

§ 322.33 Compilation of Master and Qualified Prospective Juror Lists

All persons selected for jury service are to be selected at random from the population of the area served by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 191]. Generally, the county jury commissioner must create a master list, consisting of names randomly selected from source lists so as to include a representative cross section of the relevant population [Code Civ. Proc. § 194(g)]. The master list is used to select qualified prospective jurors [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 196-205; see also below].

Allowable source lists for creating a master list include voter registration lists, DMV lists, customer mailing lists, telephone directories, and utility company lists [see Code Civ. Proc. § 197(a), (b); see also Blair v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 532, 537, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 602 (list of registered voters and Department of Motor Vehicles' list of licensed drivers and identification cardholders resident within area served by court, when substantially purged of duplicate names, must be considered inclusive of representative cross section of population)]. The jury commissioner should use the National Change of Address System or other comparable means to update jury source lists and create as accurate a master jury list as reasonably practical [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 10.31].

The jury commissioner reduces the master list to a "qualified juror list" by eliminating prospective jurors who do not meet the statutory qualifications for jury service. The jury commissioner ordinarily qualifies prospective jurors by mailing questionnaires to each prospective juror on the master list, inquiring as to qualification and ability to serve as a prospective juror [see Code Civ. Proc. § 205]. From the responses, the commissioner eliminates those persons whose responses indicate they do not meet the minimum statutory requirements to be a juror [for discussion of statutory requirements for jurors, see § 322.32]. The remaining prospective jurors comprise the qualified juror list, from which the jury pool or venire is summoned [see § 322.34].

Selection of names for master and qualified lists in counties in which sessions of superior court are held in cities other than the county seat is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 198.5.

§ 322.34 Summoning Juror Pool or Venire

[1] Process to Summon Jurors for Service

When jurors are required for the trial courts, the jury commissioner estimates the number of qualified prospective jurors needed and, from the qualified list, summons them for service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 208]. The jury commissioner is authorized to summon qualified prospective jurors by first class mail, by personal service, or in urgency situations, by attachment of the person [Code Civ. Proc. § 208; see Code Civ. Proc. § 210 (contents of summons); Code Civ. Proc. § 211 (attachment by sheriff or marshal authorized when incomplete jury panel jeopardizes party's right to jury trial)].

Response to the summons may be made by any person having knowledge that the prospective juror is unable to respond to the summons [see Code Civ. Proc. § 196(b)]. A prospective juror who fails to attend in compliance with a summons, or to respond and be excused from attendance, may be attached and compelled to attend. Following an order to show cause hearing, the court may find the prospective juror in contempt of court, punishable by fine, incarceration, or both, as otherwise provided by law [Code Civ. Proc. § 209(a)]. For discussion and forms for use in contempt proceedings generally, see Ch. 135, Contempt .

In lieu of imposing sanctions for contempt, the court may impose reasonable monetary sanctions on a prospective juror who failed to attend and who was not excused pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 204 after first providing the prospective juror with notice and an opportunity to be heard [Code Civ. Proc. § 209(b), repealed January 1, 2014; for discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 204 and excuses and exemptions from jury service, see § 322.35]. If a juror fails to respond to the initial summons, the court may issue a second summons indicating that the person failed to appear in response to a previous summons and ordering the person to appear for jury duty. The second summons may be issued no earlier than 90 days after the initial failure to appear. On the failure of the juror to appear in response to the second summons, the court may issue a failure to appear notice informing the person that failure to respond may result in the imposition of money sanctions. If the prospective juror does not attend the court within the time period as directed by the failure to appear notice, the court will issue an order to show cause. Payment of monetary sanctions does not relieve the person of the obligation to perform jury duty [Code Civ. Proc. § 209(b), repealed January 1, 2014; see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1010(f) (nothing in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1010, governing juror's motion to set aside sanctions imposed by default, relieves prospective juror of obligation of jury service)]. The court may give notice of its intent to impose sanctions by either of the following means [Code Civ. Proc. § 209(c)(1), repealed January 1, 2014]:

(1) Verbally to a prospective juror appearing in person in open court.

(2) The issuance on its own motion of an order to show cause requiring the prospective juror to demonstrate reasons for not imposing sanctions. The court may serve the order to show cause by certified or first-class mail.

The monetary sanctions may not exceed specified amounts for the first, second and third and subsequent violations. The court may not impose monetary sanctions on a prospective juror more than once during a single juror pool cycle. The prospective juror may be excused from paying sanctions pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 204(b) or in the interests of justice [Code Civ. Proc. § 209(c)(2)].

A prospective juror against whom the court imposed sanctions by default under Code Civ. Proc. § 209 may move to set aside the default. The motion must be brought no later than 60 days after sanctions have been imposed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1010(a)]. The motion must contain a short and concise statement of the reasons the prospective juror was not able to attend when summoned for jury duty and any supporting documentation [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1010(b)]. The motion may be made by completing and filing Judicial Council form MC-070, Juror's Motion to Set Aside Sanctions and Order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1010(c); for form for use by juror for motion to set aside sanctions and order imposing them on juror for failure to attend when summoned, see § 322.102].

Form MC-070 is not to be used to move the court to set aside a finding of contempt. For discussion and forms for use in contempt proceedings generally, see Ch. 135, Contempt . The court may decide the motion with or without a hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1010(d)]. If the motion demonstrates good cause, the court must set aside sanctions imposed against the prospective juror [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1010(e)]. The court must provide a copy of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1010, to the prospective juror against whom sanctions have been imposed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.010(g)].

Unless excused, all summoned prospective jurors must be available on one-hour notice by telephone to appear for service, and will receive credit toward their jury service obligation for each day they are so available [Code Civ. Proc. § 213]. The date, time, or place of appearance may be modified by the jury commissioner [Code Civ. Proc. § 208].

[2] Length and Manner of Juror Service

The process established by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1102 is intended to make jury service more convenient and alleviate the problem of potential jurors refusing to appear for jury duty, by shortening the time a person is required to serve to one day or one trial. The exemptions authorized by Rule 2.1102 are of limited scope and duration, and must be applied with the goal of achieving full compliance [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1002(a); Gov. Code § 68550 (implementing legislation)].

Each trial court system must implement a juror management program under which a person has fulfilled the jury service obligation when he or she has [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1002(c); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1002(b) (definitions)]:

- Served on one trial until discharged;

- Been assigned on one day to one or more trial departments for jury selection and served through the completion of jury selection or until excused by the jury commissioner;

- Attended court but was not assigned to a trial department for selection of a jury before the end of that day;

- Served one day on call; or

- Served no more than five court days on telephone standby.

The Judicial Council may grant an exemption from the requirements of Rule 2.1002 for a specified period of time if a trial court system demonstrates good cause by establishing that [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1002(d)(1)]:

- The cost of implementing a one-day/one-trial system is so high that the trial court system would be unable to provide essential services to the public if required to implement the system; or

- The requirements of Rule 2.1002 cannot be met because of the size of the population in the county compared with the number of jury trials.

If the council finds good cause, it may grant an exemption for a limited period of time and on such conditions as it deems appropriate [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1002(d)(3)].

The summoned prospective jurors appear at the court facility and assemble, usually in a jury assembly room or comparable facility [see Code Civ. Proc. § 205]. This group of qualified prospective jurors is referred to as the "juror pool" [Code Civ. Proc. § 194(e)] or the "venire" [People v. Breaux (1991) 1 Cal. 4th 281, 296 n.2, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 81, 821 P.2d 585] . The jury commissioner may excuse certain prospective jurors for undue hardship, either before or after appearance [see § 322.35], and then send "trial jury panels" to individual trial courts for voir dire [see Code Civ. Proc. § 219; for discussion of trial jury panels, see § 322.36; for discussion of voir dire, see § 322.37].

§ 322.35 Excuse and Exemption from Jury Service

[1] No Exemption from Jury Service

No eligible person may be exempt from service as a trial juror in a civil action by reason of occupation, economic status, or any characteristic listed or defined in Gov. Code § 11135, or for any other reason [Code Civ. Proc. § 204(a)]. Gov. Code § 11135 prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, national origin, ethnic group identification, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, color, or disability, as defined in that section [for discussion of Gov. Code § 11135, see Ch. 112, Civil Rights: Government-Funded Programs and Activities, § 112.11 et seq.].

No peace officer, as defined in Pen. Code § 830.1 or 830.2(a), may be selected for voir dire in civil or criminal matters, and no peace officer, as defined in Pen. Code § 830.2(b) or (c), may be selected for voir dire in criminal matters [Code Civ. Proc. § 219(b)(1), (2); see Code Civ. Proc. § 219(a) (jury panels to be sent to courtrooms for voir dire)]. Hence, although none of the peace officers defined above is exempt from being summoned and appearing for jury service, none of them may be assigned to a trial jury panel and sent to a courtroom for voir dire.

Notwithstanding the general no-exemption rule noted above, the jury commissioner should accommodate a prospective juror's schedule by granting a request for a one-time deferral of jury service [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1004(a)]. The jury commissioner must accommodate the schedule of prospective jurors who are peace officers as defined in Penal Code § 830.5 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1004(b)].

[2] Excuse Only for Undue Hardship

No person will be excused from service as a trial juror except as specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 204(b) [Code Civ. Proc. § 204(a)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 204(b) provides that an eligible person may be excused from jury service only for undue hardship, on themselves or on the public, as defined by the Judicial Council. For discussion of grounds constituting undue hardship, see [3], below; for discussion of principles governing excuses, see [5], below.

[3] Grounds Constituting Undue Hardship

An excuse on the ground of undue hardship may be granted for any of the following reasons [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008(d)]:

- The prospective juror has no reasonably available means of public or private transportation to the court.

- The prospective juror must travel an excessive distance. Unless otherwise established by statute or local rule, an excessive distance is reasonable travel time that exceeds one and one-half hours from the prospective juror's home to the court.

- The prospective juror will bear an extreme financial burden. In determining whether to excuse the prospective juror, consideration must be given to the following:

  - The sources of the prospective juror's household income.

  - The availability and extent of income reimbursement.

  - The expected length of service.

  - Whether service can reasonably be expected to compromise that person's ability to support himself or herself or his or her dependents, or so disrupt the economic stability of any individual as to be against the interests of justice.

- The prospective juror will bear an undue risk of material injury to or destruction of the prospective juror's property or property entrusted to the prospective juror, and it is not feasible to make alternative arrangements to alleviate the risk. In determining whether to excuse the prospective juror, consideration must be given to the following:

  - The nature of the property.

  - The source and duration of the risk.

  - The probability that the risk will be realized.

  - The reason why alternative arrangements to protect the property cannot be made.

  - Whether material injury to or destruction of the property will so disrupt the economic stability of any individual as to be against the interests of justice.

- The prospective juror has a physical or mental disability or impairment, not affecting that person's competence to act as a juror, that would expose the potential juror to undue risk of mental or physical harm. In any individual case, unless the person is aged 70 years or older, the prospective juror may be required to furnish verification or a method of verification of the disability or impairment, its probable duration, and the particular reasons for the person's inability to serve as a juror.

- The prospective juror's services are immediately needed for the protection of the public health and safety, and it is not feasible to make alternative arrangements to relieve the person of these responsibilities during the period of service as a juror without substantially reducing essential public services.

- The prospective juror has a personal obligation to provide actual and necessary care to another, including sick, aged, or infirm dependents, or a child who requires the prospective juror's personal care and attention, and no comparable substitute care is either available or practical without imposing an undue economic hardship on the prospective juror or person cared for. If the request to be excused is based on care provided to a sick, disabled, or infirm person, the prospective juror may be required to furnish verification or a method of verification that the person being cared for is in need of regular and personal care.

As an alternative to seeking an undue hardship excuse under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008(d)(7) (actual and necessary care of child), a mother who is breast-feeding an infant may obtain a postponement of jury duty, by means of a request that does not require her appearance in court. This postponement may be effective for up to one year and may be extended by another written request [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1006]

In addition to the grounds listed above for excusing a person from jury service, a prospective juror who has served on a grand or trial jury service or was summoned and appeared for jury service in any state or federal court during the previous 12 months will be excused from service on request. The jury commissioner, in his or her discretion, may establish a longer period of repose [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008(e)].

Absent a showing of economic hardship, it is improper for a jury commissioner to excuse a prospective juror for the sole reason that the juror is a daily wage earner [see People v. Milan (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 185, 196, 107 Cal. Rptr. 68, 507 P.2d 956] .

[4] Procedure for Determining Undue Hardship

The jury commissioner is required to hear the excuses of jurors summoned, and has the discretion to accept an excuse for undue hardship without a personal appearance. All excuses must be in writing setting forth the basis of the request, and must be signed by the juror [Code Civ. Proc. § 218; see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008(c)]. The prospective juror should support the request with facts specifying the hardship and a statement why the circumstances constituting undue hardship cannot be avoided by deferring the prospective juror's service [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008(c); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1004 (scheduling accommodations for jurors)].

[5] Principles Governing Excuse for Undue Hardship

An eligible person may be excused from jury service only for undue hardship, on themselves or on the public, as defined by the Judicial Council [Code Civ. Proc. § 204(b)]. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008, governs excuse from jury service on the ground of undue hardship under Code Civ. Proc. § 204. The granting of excuses is governed by the following principles [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008(b)]:

- No class or category of person will be automatically excluded from jury duty except as provided by law [see Code Civ. Proc. § 203(b), discussed at § 322.35[1]].

- Deferring jury service is preferred to excusing a prospective juror for a temporary or marginal hardship.

- Inconvenience to a prospective juror or an employer is not an adequate reason to be excused from jury duty, although it may be considered a ground for deferral.

- A statutory exemption from jury service will be granted only when the eligible person claims it.

However, Code Civ. Proc. § 204(a) (discussed at § 322.35[1]) provides that no eligible person is exempt from jury service.

It is improper to routinely excuse persons 70 years of age and over who do not request excuses. However, persons of that age group do not constitute a distinctive or cognizable group such that their disproportionate excusal from jury service would violate constitutional principles [People v. McCoy (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 778, 785-786, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 599] .

§ 322.36 Trial Jury Panels

[1] Selection and Assignment of Trial Jury Panels

After hearing the excuses of jurors summoned, the jury commissioner randomly selects prospective jurors for trial jury panels, which are sent to courtrooms for voir dire [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 194(q), 219; People v. Breaux (1991) 1 Cal. 4th 281, 296 n.2, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 81, 821 P.2d 585 ("panel" defined as group of prospective jurors from venire assigned to court for selection of trial jury)]. For discussion of voir dire, see § 322.37.

[2] Separate Panel for Each Judge

In any superior court, a separate trial jury panel may be impaneled for each judge. In addition, any one panel may be impaneled by any of the judges for service before any of the other judges, as the occasion may require [Code Civ. Proc. § 201].

When a panel of jurors is in attendance for service before one or more of the judges, whether impaneled for common use or not, the whole or any number of the jurors from the panel may be required to attend and serve, or to complete a panel, before any of the other judges [see Code Civ. Proc. § 201].

§ 322.37 Voir Dire Examination of Prospective Jurors

[1] Pre-Voir Dire Conference

A pre-voir dire conference should be held before examination of prospective jurors begins, outside the hearing of the prospective jurors and with a court reporter present. The judge should confer with counsel about specific questions or areas of inquiry that interest the parties. The court then should advise counsel of the questions or areas of inquiry the court will ask and will allow during the examination and the voir dire procedure.The court will obtain from counsel the names of the prospective witnesses and a brief summary of the nature of the case, including alleged injuries or damages. In an eminent domain proceeding, this information should include the parties' respective contentions concerning the value of the property taken and any alleged severance damages and special benefits [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 3.25(b)].

The Judicial Council has suggested areas of inquiry and provided language that may be used in many common cases [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 3.25(c), (d) (eminent domain proceedings)].

Use of written questionnaires may be addressed at this conference [see [3], below].

[2] Seating of Prospective Jurors for Voir Dire

When an action is called for trial by jury, the clerk or judge randomly selects the names of the jurors for voir dire until the jury is selected or the panel is exhausted [Code Civ. Proc. § 222(a)]. However, if the jury commissioner has provided the court with a listing of the jury panel in random order, the court must seat prospective jurors for voir dire in the order provided by the list [Code Civ. Proc. § 222(b)].

[3] Written Questionnaires

The Judicial Council has approved a general form of juror questionnaire for optional use in appropriate civil cases [Jury

Questionnaire for Civil Cases, Judicial Council Form MC-001; see § 322.100]. A Personal Injury Supplement is intended to be used in personal injury cases along with the general questions.

The form indicates that the court should confer with counsel about voir dire before the jury panel is called. At that conference, the court may establish guidelines for the use of the form, any supplemental questions to be propounded by questionnaire, and the extent of the oral questioning by the court and by counsel. Counsel may draft proposed supplemental questions; these should be filed and served at least three court days before the pre-voir dire conference [Juror Questionnaire for Civil Cases, Judicial Council Form MC-001, § 2B]. For an illustrative reproduction of the Judicial Council form, see § 322.100.

The judge may direct prospective jurors to answer questionnaires as proposed by counsel in a particular case to assist the voir dire process [see Code Civ. Proc. § 205(c), (d)]. The court should not arbitrarily or unreasonably refuse to submit reasonable written questionnaires when requested by counsel, and the court may determine the contents of the questionnaires [Code Civ. Proc. § 222.5]. For model juror questionnaires, see California Trial Guide, Trial Book volume, Voir Dire Questions (Matthew Bender). Examples of the questionnaires designed to reveal particular attitudes of prospective jurors:

- Authoritarian personality.
- Leadership role.
- Racial bias.
- Gender bias.
- Deep pockets.
- Attitude toward judicial process.

[4] Examination by Judge

To select a fair and impartial jury in civil jury trials, the trial judge is required to examine the prospective jurors [Code Civ. Proc. § 222.5; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1540(b)]. In examining prospective jurors in civil cases, the judge should consider the policies and recommendations in Standard 3.25 of the Standards of Judicial Administration [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1540(b); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 3.25].

Initial voir dire is conducted by the judge, with follow-up questioning by counsel [see Code Civ. Proc. § 222.5; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1540(c)]. Counsel may submit additional questions or request to supplement the judge's examination by direct questioning [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1540(c); see [5][a], below]. The trial judge has discretion to set reasonable limits on the scope of the additional questions or supplemental examination [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1540(c); see [5][b], below].

When the object of the examination is the exercise of a challenge for cause, a trial court may examine prospective jurors with several hypothetical situations based on the issues to be tried [see Kelly v. Trans Globe Travel Bureau, Inc. (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 195, 209, 131 Cal. Rptr. 488] . For discussion of grounds for challenges for cause, see § 322.40.

Before examining the prospective jurors, the court administers an oath whereby the prospective jurors agree to answer questions accurately and truthfully under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 232(a) (court obtains "perjury acknowledgment and agreement" from panel)].

[5] Examination by Counsel

[a] Procedure

On completion of the judge's initial examination, counsel for each party has the right, in a civil case, to directly question any of the prospective jurors to enable counsel to intelligently exercise both peremptory challenges and challenges for cause [Code Civ. Proc. § 222.5; see Rousseau v. West Coast House Movers (1967) 256 Cal. App. 2d 878, 883-884, 64 Cal. Rptr. 655 (decided under prior law); cf. Code Civ. Proc. § 223 (in criminal cases, voir dire may be conducted only in aid of exercise of challenges for cause, not peremptory challenges)]. Also, a party may opt to submit additional questions that the trial judge will put to the jurors [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1540(c)].

Prior submission of questions to the judge may be required if a particular counsel engages in improper questioning. For purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 222.5, an "improper question" is any question that, as its dominant purpose, attempts to precondition the prospective jurors to a particular result,indoctrinate the jury, or question the prospective jurors concerning the pleadings or the applicable law [Code Civ. Proc. § 222.5].

The court may, on stipulation by counsel for all the parties appearing in the action, permit counsel to examine the prospective jurors outside a judge's presence [Code Civ. Proc. § 222.5; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1540(d)].

[b] Scope

During any examination conducted by counsel, the trial judge should permit liberal and probing examination calculated to discover bias or prejudice with regard to the circumstances of the particular case [Code Civ. Proc. § 222.5]. The fact that a topic has been included in the judge's examination should not preclude additional nonrepetitive or nonduplicative questioning in the same area by counsel [Code Civ. Proc. § 222.5].

The scope of the examination conducted by counsel must be within reasonable limits in the judge's sound discretion. In exercising his or her sound discretion as to the form and subject matter of voir dire questions, the trial judge should consider, among other criteria, any unique or complex elements, legal or factual, in the case and the individual responses or conduct of jurors that may evince attitudes inconsistent with suitability to serve as a fair and impartial juror in the particular case. Unreasonable or arbitrary time limits cannot be imposed [Code Civ. Proc. § 222.5]. The court must permit questioning about legal doctrines that are material to the trial and controversial in the sense that they are likely to invoke strong feelings and resistance to their application [People v. Pinholster (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 865, 915, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 765, 824 P.2d 571] .

The examination of prospective jurors should not be used to educate the jury panel to the particular facts of the case, to compel the jurors to commit themselves to vote a particular way, to prejudice the jury for or against a particular party, to argue the case, to indoctrinate the jury, or to instruct the jury in matters of law [People v. Fierro (1991) 1 Cal. 4th 173, 209, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 426, 821 P.2d 1302 ; see People v. Pinholster (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 865, 915, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 765, 824 P.2d 571 ; see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 3.25(f) (questions that are improper under standards of judicial administration recommended by Judicial Council)].

When counsel seeks to exercise a peremptory challenge, counsel should be allowed to inquire into matters about which the local community or the population at large is commonly known to harbor strong feelings that may stop short of presumptive bias in law, yet may significantly skew deliberations. Further, if a particular juror has given the court reason to suspect that he or she harbors such feelings, even though the general population does not, further questioning is appropriate [see People v. Williams (1981) 29 Cal. 3d 392, 407-408, 174 Cal. Rptr. 317, 628 P.2d 869 (superseded as to criminal cases by Code Civ. Proc. § 223)].

In a personal injury action, counsel may in good faith ask prospective jurors whether they have any interest in a particular insurance company if the question does not necessarily convey the impression that the defendant was insured by that company [see Hart v. Wielt (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 224, 230, 84 Cal. Rptr. 220] . Also, counsel may ask prospective jurors in a defamation action if they had heard of the plaintiff's prior criminal trial for theft that was the basis for the later civil suit [see Russell v. Geis (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 560, 569, 59 Cal. Rptr. 569] .

§ 322.38 Types of Challenges to Jurors

A challenge is an objection made to the prospective jurors that may be exercised by any party to the action, and is of the following types [Code Civ. Proc. § 225]:

- A challenge to the entire trial jury panel for cause [see Code Civ. Proc. § 225(a), discussed at § 322.39[3]].

- A challenge to a prospective juror for cause [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 225(b)(1), 228, 229, discussed at §§ 322.39[4], 322.40].

- A peremptory challenge to a prospective juror [see Code Civ. Proc. § 225(b)(2), discussed at §§ 322.39[5], 322.40, 322.41].

§ 322.39 Procedure for Making Challenges

[1] Before Jury Sworn

Any challenge, whether to a jury panel or an individual juror, must be made before the jury is sworn [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 225(a)(1), 226(a); Bly-Magee v. Budget Rent-A-Car Corp. (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 318, 323-324 ; 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 330] .

[2] Order of Challenges

All challenges for cause must be exercised before any peremptory challenges may be exercised [Code Civ. Proc. § 226(c)].

The challenges of either party for cause need not be taken all at once but may be taken separately, in the following order [Code Civ. Proc. § 227]:

- Challenges to the jury panel for cause [Code Civ. Proc. § 227(a); see § 322.39[3]].
- Challenges to an individual juror for general disqualification [Code Civ. Proc. § 227(b); see § 322.40[1]].
- Challenges to an individual juror for an implied bias [Code Civ. Proc. § 227(c); see § 322.40[2]].
- Challenges to an individual juror for an actual bias [Code Civ. Proc. § 227(d); see § 322.40[3]].

All challenges for cause to an individual juror must be taken first by the defendants and then by the plaintiffs [Code Civ. Proc. § 226(d)].

[3] Exercise of Challenge to Jury Panel

An objection to the entire trial jury panel may be exercised by any party to the action on the ground of cause [see Code Civ. Proc. § 225(a)]. The challenge must be reduced to writing, and must plainly and distinctly state the facts constituting the ground of challenge [Code Civ. Proc. § 225(a)(1)]. Reasonable notice of the jury panel challenge must be given to all parties and to the jury commissioner by service of a copy of the challenge [Code Civ. Proc. § 225(a)(2); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 225(a)(3) (jury commissioner is permitted services of legal counsel in connection with challenges to jury panel)].

A challenge to the panel for cause must be taken before any challenges to individual jurors for cause are made [see Code Civ. Proc. § 227; see also [2], above].

[4] Exercise of Challenges for Cause

All challenges for cause to an individual juror must be taken first by the defendants and then by the plaintiffs [Code Civ. Proc. § 226(d)]. The challenge may be made orally or in writing [Code Civ. Proc. § 226(b)].

Challenges for cause are decided by the court, which must determine whether one of the statutory grounds exists. Ordinarily the court makes its determination based on the answers given by the prospective juror during voir dire, although other evidence may be presented [Code Civ. Proc. § 230 (challenges for cause must be tried by court; juror challenged and any other person may be examined as witness in trial of challenge and must truthfully answer all questions propounded to them)].

The proper practice in the selection of a jury is to fill the panel and, when one of the jurors is challenged for cause or peremptorily, to immediately call another to take his or her place. Thus, a party has the benefit of examining the full panel before deciding whether to exercise a challenge [Buckley v. Chadwick (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 183, 202, 289 P.2d 242 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 231(d) (each party is entitled to have panel full before exercising any peremptory challenge)].

Failure to object to the excuse of a prospective juror for cause waives the issue on appeal [People v. Mills (2010) 48 Cal. 4th 158, 189, 106 Cal. Rptr. 3d 153, 226 P.3d 276 ; People v. Holt (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 619, 658, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 782, 937 P.2d 213] . Additionally, to raise a claim on appeal that a juror should have been excused for cause, a party must have exhausted its peremptory challenges or must justify its failure to do so [People v. Mills (2010) 48 Cal. 4th 158, 185-187, 106 Cal. Rptr. 3d 153, 226 P.3d 276 ; People v. Bolin (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 297, 315, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 412, 956 P.2d 374 ; see [5][c], below].

[5] Exercise of Peremptory Challenges

[a] Procedure Generally

Peremptory challenges, exercised after all challenges for cause [Code Civ. Proc. § 226(c)], must be taken or passed by the sides alternately, commencing with the plaintiff [Code Civ. Proc. § 231(d)]. Each party is entitled to have the panel full before exercising any peremptory challenge [Code Civ. Proc. § 231(d)]. The challenge may be made orally or in writing [Code Civ. Proc. § 226(b)].

Peremptory challenges generally are exercised under one of two methods. Under the "jury box" method, which is the system utilized in California, 12 prospective jurors are questioned, subjected to challenges for cause, and replaced until 12 qualified jurors remain. Both sides then exercise peremptory challenges. A juror removed by peremptory challenge is replaced by another juror, who is then questioned and challenged both for cause and peremptorily. This process continues until peremptory challenges have been exhausted or waived. Under the "struck jury" method, a large initial panel of prospective jurors is drawn and subjected to challenges for cause before peremptory challenges are exercised. If, after each side exercises its peremptory challenges, there remain more than 12 jurors, the court decides which 12 will constitute the jury [People v. Avila (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 491, 537, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1, 133 P.3d 1076] . Code of Civil Procedure § 226 does not dictate that all challenges for cause must be exercised before any peremptory challenges may be exercised. A procedure in which challenges are exercised in groups, even if within each group challenges for cause are exercised before peremptory challenges, does not violate the statutory mandate [People v. Avila (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 491, 537, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1, 133 P.3d 1076 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 231 (each party entitled to full panel before exercising any peremptory challenge, with panel apparently always having been understood by California courts as subset of members of whole venire called to fill jury box during voir dire)].

No reason need be given for a peremptory challenge, and the court must excuse any juror challenged peremptorily [Code Civ. Proc. § 226(b)], unless an objection is made that the challenge is based on group bias [see § 322.42].

When each side taking peremptory challenges passes consecutively, the jury is deemed accepted and then sworn, unless the court orders otherwise for good cause [Code Civ. Proc. § 231(e)].

[b] Number and Apportionment of Peremptory Challenges

Each party in a civil case is entitled to six peremptory challenges [Code Civ. Proc. § 231(c)]. The number of peremptory challenges remaining with a side is not diminished by the passing of a peremptory challenge, and the fact that a party had initially passed a given juror does not preclude a later challenge [Code Civ.Proc. § 231(d); Buckley v. Chadwick (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 183, 202, 289 P.2d 242] .

If there are more than two parties, the court must divide the parties into two or more sides according to their respective interests in the issues for the purpose of allotting peremptory challenges, and each side is entitled to eight peremptory challenges. If there are several parties on a side, the court must divide the challenges among them as nearly equally as possible. If there are more than two sides, the court must grant such additional peremptory challenges to a side as the interests of justice may require; however, the peremptory challenges of one side must not exceed the aggregate number of peremptory challenges of all other sides. If any party on a side does not use that party's full share of peremptory challenges, the unused challenges may be used by the other party or parties on the same side [Code Civ. Proc. § 231(c)].

[c] Exhaustion Required to Challenge Composition of Jury

Exhaustion of peremptory challenges is a condition precedent to appeal based on jury composition [People v. Bolin (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 297, 315, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 412, 956 P.2d 374 ; Burns v. 20th Century Ins. Co. (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1666, 1672-1673, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 462 ; Kimbley v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 1166, 1169, 211 Cal. Rptr. 148] .

§ 322.40 Grounds for Challenges for Cause

[1] General Disqualification

A challenge to an individual juror for cause may be exercised on the ground of general disqualification, that is, that the juror is disqualified from serving in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 225(b)(1)(A)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 228 provides that challenges for general disqualification may be taken only on one or both of the following grounds:

- A lack of any of the qualifications prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure that render a person competent as a juror [Code Civ. Proc. § 228(a)]. Statutory qualifications for jurors are set out by Code Civ. Proc. § 203 and discussed at § 322.32.

- A loss of hearing, or the existence of any other incapacity that satisfies the court that the challenged person is incapable of performing the duties of a juror in the particular action [Code Civ. Proc. § 228(b)]. Even though an incapacity may be a sufficient ground for a successful challenge for cause in a particular case, it is not an initial ground for disqualification for jury service, because Code Civ. Proc. § 203(a)(6) provides, among other things, that no person may be deemed incompetent solely because of loss of sight or hearing in any degree or other disability that impedes the person's ability to communicate or that impairs or interferes with the person's mobility [see also Code Civ. Proc. § 224 (providing special rules concerning sign language interpreters, oral interpreters, deaf-blind interpreters, readers, or speech interpreters who are provided for disabled jurors); Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI No. 110 (LexisNexis Matthew Bender, Official Publisher) (instructing that juror with disability will be assisted by service provider)].

[2] Implied Bias

A challenge to an individual juror for cause may be taken on the grounds of implied bias, that is, when the existence of the facts as ascertained disqualifies the juror as a matter of law [Code Civ. Proc. § 225(b)(1)(B)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 229 provides that a challenge for implied bias may be taken only for one or more of the following causes:

- Consanguinity or affinity within the fourth degree to any party, to an officer of a corporation that is a party, or to any alleged witness or victim in the case at bar [Code Civ. Proc. § 229(a)].

- Standing in the relation of, or being the parent, spouse, or child of one who stands in the relation of, guardian and ward, conservator and conservatee, master and servant, employer and clerk, landlord and tenant, principal and agent, or debtor and creditor, to either party or to an officer of a corporation that is a party, or being a member of the family of either party; or a partner in business with either party; or surety on any bond or obligation for either party, or being the holder of bonds or shares of capital stock of a corporation that is a party; or having stood within one year previous to the filing of the complaint in the action in the relation of attorney and client with either party or with the attorney for either party. A depositor of a bank or a holder of a savings account in a savings and loan association will not be deemed a creditor of that bank or savings and loan association for the purpose of this provision solely by reason of being a depositor or account holder [Code Civ. Proc. § 229(b)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 229(b) precludes an attorney who is a member of the law firm of counsel trying the case from serving on the jury if a challenge for cause is made.

- Having served as a trial or grand juror or on a jury of inquest in a civil or criminal action or been a witness on a previous or pending trial between the same parties, or involving the same specific offense or cause of action, or having served as a trial or grand juror or on a jury within one year previously in any criminal or civil action or proceeding in which either party was the plaintiff or defendant or in a criminal action in which either party was the defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 229(c)].

- Interest on the part of the juror in the event of the action, or in the main question involved in the action, except for interest as a member or citizen or taxpayer of a county, city and county, incorporated city or town or other political subdivision of a county, or municipal water district [Code Civ. Proc. § 229(d)]. If a challenge for interest is presented, some showing of interest must be made in addition to alleging that an interest exists [see Kimbley v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 1166, 1170-1171, 211 Cal. Rptr. 148 (mere membership in defendant health plan is insufficient to constitute disqualifying interest)].

- Having an unqualified opinion or belief as to the merits of the action founded on knowledge of its material facts or of some of them [Code Civ. Proc. § 229(e)].

- The existence of a state of mind in the juror evincing enmity against, or bias towards, either party [Code Civ. Proc. § 229(f)].

- Being party to an action pending in the court for which he or she is drawn and the action is set for trial before the panel of which the juror is a member [Code Civ. Proc. § 229(g)].

- In a criminal case in which the offense charged is punishable with death, entertaining such conscientious opinions as would preclude the juror finding the defendant guilty, in which case the juror may neither be permitted nor compelled to serve [Code Civ. Proc. § 229(h)].

[3] Actual Bias

A challenge to an individual juror for cause may be taken on the grounds of actual bias, which is defined as a state of mind on the part of the juror in reference to the case or to any of the parties that will prevent the juror from acting with entire impartiality and without prejudice to the substantial rights of any party [Code Civ. Proc. § 225(b)(1)(C)].

§ 322.42 Prohibition Against Peremptory Challenges Based on Group Bias

[1] "Group Bias" and "Cognizable Group" Defined

A party may not use a peremptory challenge to remove a prospective juror on the basis of an assumption that the prospective juror is biased merely because of his or her race, color, religion, sex, national origin, sexual orientation, or similar grounds [Code Civ. Proc. § 231.5]. This provision codifies a rule of constitutional origin, prohibiting peremptory exclusion of prospective jurors on the basis of "group bias." "Group bias" is defined as a presumption that certain jurors are biased merely because they are members of an identifiable group distinguished on racial, religious, or similar grounds [People v. Johnson (1989) 47 Cal. 3d 1194, 1215, 255 Cal. Rptr. 569, 767 P.2d 1047 ; Di Donato v. Santini (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 721, 732, 283 Cal. Rptr. 751 (reversing because of exclusion of women for discriminatory purpose through peremptory challenges)].

All "cognizable groups" in society come within the rule prohibiting the discriminatory exclusion of prospective jurors from the jury panel [Di Donato v. Santini (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 721, 733, 283 Cal. Rptr. 751 (citing People v. Wheeler (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 258, 265-272, 148 Cal. Rptr. 890, 583 P.2d 748)]. A cognizable group exists if its members share a common perspective arising from their life experience in the group and no other members of the community are capable of adequately representing the perspective of the group assertedly excluded [People v. Cervantes (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 323, 334, 284 Cal. Rptr. 410] . Thus, for example, a party to a civil lawsuit may not use peremptory challenges to exclude women from the jury panel on the basis of their gender [Di Donato v. Santini (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 721, 733, 283 Cal. Rptr. 751 ; see also People v. Howard (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 1132, 1157-1159, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 268, 824 P.2d 1315 (recognizing gender as cognizable group)].

"Cognizable groups" identified by case law and codified by statute include race, color, religion, sex, national origin, and sexual orientation [see Code Civ. Proc. § 231.5]. This list is not exhaustive, however, and other groups may be recognized where the peremptory exclusion is attempted on "similar grounds" [see Code Civ. Proc. § 231.5]. For further discussion of the groups held by California courts to be "cognizable" and "not cognizable" for purposes of a peremptory challenge based on group bias, see California Trial Guide, Unit 10, Voir Dire Examination, § 10.80[3][d] (Matthew Bender).

[2] Prohibition Applies to Civil and Criminal Cases

The rule forbidding group bias peremptory challenges extends to civil cases as well as criminal cases. The same three-part showing (see [5], below) is required to rebut the presumption of constitutional use of peremptory challenges in civil cases as is applied in criminal cases [see Di Donato v. Santini (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 721, 734, 738, 283 Cal. Rptr. 751 ; Holley v. J & S Sweeping Co. (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 588, 591-593, 192 Cal. Rptr. 74 ; see also People v. Wheeler (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 258, 280, 148 Cal. Rptr. 890, 583 P.2d 748 (endorsing view that rejects conceptual distinction between criminal and civil proceedings in jury selection process)].

[3] Bases of Prohibition

[a] State Constitution and Statute

Peremptory challenges reflecting group bias and predicated on the challenged jurors' inclusion in an identifiable group distinguished on racial, gender, religious, ethnic, or similar grounds are unconstitutional under the California Constitution [People v. Wheeler (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 258, 280, 148 Cal. Rptr. 890, 583 P.2d 748 ; Holley v. J & S Sweeping Co. (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 588, 591-592, 192 Cal. Rptr. 74] .

The constitutional prohibition against improper use of peremptory challenges is afforded by the representative-cross-section guarantee of Cal. Const., art. I, § 16, as implemented by the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 191 (legislative policy statement), 197 (sources for juror selection), and 204 (exemption from jury service) [see Di Donato v. Santini (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 721, 738 n.7, 283 Cal. Rptr. 751 ; see also § 322.33, discussing source lists for prospective jurors]. Code Civ. Proc. § 231.5, which sets out and codifies the rule prohibiting peremptory exclusions based on group bias, is based on "the constitutional concept of jury trial," that is, the representative-cross-section guarantee of Cal. Const., art. I, § 16 [see 2000 Stats., ch. 43, § 1(a)(2)].

Additionally, the equal protection clause in Cal. Const., art. I, § 7 prohibits discriminatory use of peremptory challenges [see Di Donato v. Santini (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 721, 737-738 n.7, 283 Cal. Rptr. 751] .

[b] Federal Constitution

The federal constitutional prohibition against the use of peremptory challenges to exclude potential jurors on the basis of group bias extends to the trial of civil cases in California courts [see Di Donato v. Santini (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 721, 737-738, 283 Cal. Rptr. 751 (citing Edmonson v. Leesville Concrete Co. (1991) 500 U.S. 614, 619, 111 S. Ct. 2077, 114 L. Ed. 2d 660)]. In Edmonson, the United States Supreme Court applied the equal protection component of the Fifth Amendment's Due Process Clause to hold that a race-based exclusion of jurors in a civil case through peremptory challenge violates the equal protection rights of the challenged jurors [Edmonson v. Leesville Concrete Co. (1991) 500 U.S. 614, 619, 111 S. Ct. 2077, 114 L. Ed. 2d 660 ; see Montiel v. City of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 1993) 2 F.3d 335, 340 (equal protection clause of Fourteenth Amendment of U.S. Constitution precludes race-based exclusion of prospective juror who is of different race than defendant)].

Although U.S. Const., amend. V, is not directly applicable to the states, U.S. Const., amend. XIV, provides similar restraints on state action [see Di Donato v. Santini (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 721, 737 n.7, 283 Cal. Rptr. 751 (citing Brown v. Board of Educ. (1954) 347 U.S. 483, 495, 74 S. Ct. 686, 98 L. Ed. 873); see also J.E.B. v. Alabama ex rel. T.B. (1994) 511 U.S. 127, 145-146, 114 S. Ct. 1419, 128 L. Ed. 2d 89 (gender-based exclusion of jurors in paternity and child support suit violates Fourteenth Amendment of United States Constitution)]. In applying the test set forth in Edmonson for determining whether state action is present, the court in Di Donato concluded that the exercise of peremptory challenges in state court constitutes state action because [Di Donato v. Santini (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d

721, 737, 283 Cal. Rptr. 751] :

- The right is entirely a creation of state law.

- The private litigant fairly may be deemed to be a governmental actor because he or she makes use of state procedures with the overt, significant assistance of the state and receives the benefits from it.

- The challenges are employed to select a "quintessential governmental body," the jury.

- The injury in the form of discrimination is aggravated in a unique way because the government has permitted it to occur within the courtroom.

[4] Presumption of Constitutional Exercise of Peremptory Challenges

A party exercising a peremptory challenge is presumed to be doing so on a constitutionally permissible ground. However, this presumption is rebuttable [People v. Wheeler (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 258, 272, 276, 148 Cal. Rptr. 890, 583 P.2d 748] .

To rebut the presumption of constitutionality, a party who believes the opponent is using peremptory challenges to strike jurors on the ground of group bias alone must raise the point in a timely fashion and make a prima facie case of discrimination to the satisfaction of the court [People v. Mills (2010) 48 Cal. 4th 158, 173-174, 106 Cal. Rptr. 3d 153, 226 P.3d 276 ; People v. Jones (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 279, 294, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 793, 949 P.2d 890]. To be timely, the prima facie case must be made before the jury is sworn. Accordingly, the trial court may not delay its decision on a challenge to the selection process until after the panel has been sworn [People v. Johnson (1989) 47 Cal. 3d 1194, 1216, 255 Cal. Rptr. 569, 767 P.2d 1047 ; Di Donato v. Santini (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 721, 740-741, 283 Cal. Rptr. 751] . [5] Rebutting Presumption of Constitutional Exercise of Peremptory Challenges

[a] Establishing Prima Facie Case of Group Bias

[i] Elements of Prima Facie Case

To rebut the presumption that the peremptory challenges were exercised on a constitutionally permissible ground, the party claiming group bias in the exercise of those challenges must do the following [People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 635, 663-664, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 573, 941 P.2d 752 ; People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 153, 187, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 123, 940 P.2d 710 ; People v. Wheeler (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 258, 280, 148 Cal. Rptr. 890, 583 P.2d 748 ; Di Donato v. Santini (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 721, 738-739, 283 Cal. Rptr. 751 ; Holley v. J & S Sweeping Co. (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 588, 591, 192 Cal. Rptr. 74 ; cf. People v. Walker (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 1062, 1086-1089, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 871 (no prima facie showing established despite challenging most black potential jurors)]:

- Make as complete a record as is feasible of the circumstances. In Di Donato, a demonstration of the number and identities of the excluded jurors was sufficient in light of the fact that a written record of proceedings, such as the reviewing court is able to scrutinize on appeal, was unavailable at the time the oral objections and written motion were made [Di Donato v. Santini (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 721, 739, 283 Cal. Rptr. 751] .

- Establish that the persons excluded are members of a cognizable group within the meaning of the representative cross-section rule; see [1] and [3][a], above.

- Show from all the circumstances there is a strong likelihood those persons are being challenged because of their group association rather than because of any specific bias.

For additional discussion, see California Trial Guide, Unit 10, Voir Dire Examination, §§ 10.80, 10.90 (Matthew Bender).

[ii] Examples of Supporting Evidence

The California Supreme Court in Wheeler noted the following types of evidence as relevant to establish that the peremptory challenges were exercised on the basis of group bias [People v. Wheeler (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 258, 280-281, 148 Cal. Rptr. 890, 583 P.2d 748] :

- Most or all of the members of the identified group were struck from the venire [see Holley v. J & S Sweeping Co. (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 588, 590, 592-593, 192 Cal. Rptr. 74 (peremptorily excused three of four black jurors without any preliminary voir dire questioning)].

- A disproportionate number of the offending parties' peremptory challenges were used against the group.

- The jurors in question share only this one characteristic--their membership in the group--and that, in all other respects, they are as heterogeneous as the community as a whole. In Di Donato, the appellate court did not believe respondent's claim on appeal that excuses were used because the women were divorced, not because they were women. Respondent had excused two females who had never been married and a female prospective alternate juror who was married, but retained one woman who had been divorced and one man who had terminated a long-term relationship [Di Donato v. Santini (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 721, 742, 283 Cal. Rptr. 751] .

- The offending party failed to engage the jurors against whom the peremptory challenges were exercised in more than desultory voir dire or to ask them any questions at all [see Holley v. J & S Sweeping Co. (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 588, 590, 592-593, 192 Cal. Rptr. 74 (peremptorily excused three of four black jurors without any preliminary voir dire questioning)].

The criminal defendant (and, presumably, the objecting party in a civil action) need not be a member of the excluded group to complain of a violation of the representative cross-section rule [see People v. Wheeler (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 258, 281, 148 Cal. Rptr. 890, 583 P.2d 748 (citing Taylor v. Louisiana (1975) 419 U.S. 522, 535-537, 95 S. Ct. 692, 42 L. Ed. 2d 690 (reversal of state conviction of male defendant on ground that women had, in effect, been totally excluded from jury service), and Peters v. Kiff (1972) 407 U.S. 493, 503-504, 92 S. Ct. 2163, 33 L. Ed. 2d 83 (reversal of state conviction of white defendant on showing that blacks had been arbitrarily excluded from grand and petit jury service)], but the defendant's or complaining party's membership in the excluded group can be an indicator of discriminatory exclusion [People v. Turner (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 413, 417, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 138] .

A prima facie showing may be made even though a member of the cognizable group remains on the jury [see People v. Cervantes (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 323, 333, 284 Cal. Rptr. 410] .

[b] Implied Finding of Prima Facie Case

Without expressly declaring so, a trial court may impliedly conclude that a party has established a prima facie case [see Di Donato v. Santini (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 721, 741, 283 Cal. Rptr. 751] . In determining whether to infer a trial court's finding of a prima facie case under Wheeler, one must look to the whole record and examine the court's remarks in context [see Di Donato v. Santini (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 721, 741, 283 Cal. Rptr. 751 (citing People v. Hayes

In the context of a criminal case, when a trial court inquires about the prosecutor's justifications, the court may, under the circumstances, be deemed to have made an implied finding of a prima facie showing [see People v. Turner (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 137, 165-167, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 762, 878 P.2d 521 (distinguishing People v. Fuentes (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 707, 716-717, n.5, 286 Cal. Rptr. 792, 818 P.2d 75 , and holding that prima facie finding by trial court may be inferred by court's request that prosecution justify its challenges, unless request was made only to clarify record in case of an appeal); see also Hernandez v. New York (1991) 500 U.S. 352, 359, 111 S. Ct. 1859, 114 L. Ed. 2d 395 (lack of ruling on threshold issue irrelevant because prosecutor explained use of peremptory challenge without court's prompting or inquiry and court actually considered explanations)].

The mere asking of counsel whether he or she wishes to respond to a written motion raising group bias objections, however, cannot be construed as a request to explain or comment on counsel's exercise of peremptory challenges [see Di Donato v. Santini (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 721, 741, 283 Cal. Rptr. 751] . Further, when the court has inquired into the prosecutor's justifications for the sole purpose of completing the record for appeal, that inquiry does not negate or otherwise render moot any previous ruling that no prima facie showing was made [People v. Turner (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 137, 167, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 762, 878 P.2d 521] .

The California Supreme Court expressed and reiterated its concern that a trial court's ruling by implication may confuse the parties as to their respective obligations under Wheeler [see People v. Fuentes (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 707, 716 n.5, 286 Cal. Rptr. 792, 818 P.2d 75 ; People v. Turner (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 711, 719 n.3, 230 Cal. Rptr. 656, 726 P.2d 102] . An express ruling as to whether a prima facie case has been established therefore is preferable [see People v. Turner (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 137, 167, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 762, 878 P.2d 521 (citing People v. Fuentes (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 707, 716-717, n.5, 286 Cal. Rptr. 792, 818 P.2d 75)].

[6] Justifying Exercise of Peremptory Challenges

[a] Shift of Burden of Justification

Once the trial court rules a prima facie showing has been made, as discussed in [5][a], above, the peremptory attribute of the challenges is lost and the focus turns to justifying the challenges on some acceptable specific basis. The sole issue then pending is the adequacy of the justifications [People v. Cervantes (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 323, 334, 284 Cal. Rptr. 410] .

At this stage, the burden shifts to the party exercising the peremptory challenges to demonstrate that the challenges were exercised on a neutral basis related to the particular case to be tried [Di Donato v. Santini (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 721, 740, 283 Cal. Rptr. 751 ; cf. People v. Hayes (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 577, 605, 276 Cal. Rptr. 874, 802 P.2d 376] . The allegedly offending party must satisfy the court that the party exercised the peremptory challenges on grounds that were reasonably relevant to the particular case on trial or its parties or witnesses, that is, for reasons of specific bias, or at least for a neutral reason related to the issues of the case [People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 153, 188, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 123, 940 P.2d 710 ; People v. Johnson (1989) 47 Cal. 3d 1194, 1216, 255 Cal. Rptr. 569, 767 P.2d 1047 ; People v. Tapia (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 984, 1012-1014, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 851 ; Holley v. J & S Sweeping Co. (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 588, 592, 192 Cal. Rptr. 74 .

Once a trial court finds a prima facie case of group bias as to the excusal of one prospective juror, it need not sua sponte require the party exercising the peremptory challenge to provide race-neutral explanations for all challenges made thus far to the members of the group in question, including those upon which the court had ruled earlier. However, upon request it may do so when the party's subsequent challenge to a juror of a protected class casts the party's earlier challenges of the jurors of that same protected class in a new light, such that it gives rise to a prima facie showing of group bias as to those earlier jurors. But the burden is on the party making the later motion to so clarify, for that party ultimately has the burden of proof [People v. Avila (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 491, 548-553, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1, 133 P.3d 1076] .

The excusing party's failure to satisfy the burden to produce, for whatever reason, becomes evidence that is added to the inference of discrimination raised by the prima facie showing, but it does not end the inquiry. The trial court then moves on to consider all the evidence to determine whether the actual reason for the strike violated the opposing party's equal protection rights [Yee v. Duncan (9th Cir. 2006) 463 F.3d 893, 898] . Thus, for example, in a criminal proceeding, a prosecutor's failure to provide a reason for striking a potential juror is not an automatic violation of the defendant's equal protection rights. The prosecutor's failure, through, for example, an assertion of an inability to remember the reason for striking the prospective juror, is evidence of discrimination. That evidence notwithstanding, the court must still proceed to evaluate the prosecutor's asserted justifications before it can determine that purposeful discrimination has occurred [Yee v. Duncan (9th Cir. 2006) 463 F.3d 893, 900] .

For additional discussion, see California Trial Guide, Unit 10, Voir Dire Examination, §§ 10.80, 10.90 (Matthew Bender).

[b] Evaluating Claims of Justification

In evaluating the justifications given, the trial court must address the challenged jurors individually to determine whether any one of them has been improperly excluded. That process requires the court to determine not only that a valid reason existed for the exercise of a particular peremptory challenge, but also that the reason actually prompted the exercise of the particular peremptory challenge [People v. Fuentes (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 707, 711, 720, 286 Cal. Rptr. 792, 818 P.2d 75] .

Reviewing courts accord great deference to the discretion of the trial court in distinguishing bona fide reasons from sham excuses [see People v. Mills (2010) 48 Cal. 4th 158, 175-176, 106 Cal. Rptr. 3d 153, 226 P.3d 276 ; People v. Fuentes (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 707, 714, 720, 286 Cal. Rptr. 792, 818 P.2d 75] .

It is prejudicial error for a court to overrule a group bias objection in the absence of a rebuttal showing that the peremptory challenges were based on grounds of specific bias [Di Donato v. Santini (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 721, 740, 283 Cal. Rptr. 751 ; Holley v. J & S Sweeping Co. (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 588, 592, 192 Cal. Rptr. 74] . Further, a prima facie case cannot be rebutted by a mere denial by the offending party that the party had a discriminatory motive [see Di Donato v. Santini (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 721, 741-742, 283 Cal. Rptr. 751] .

When a party has established a prima facie case of discrimination in the other party's use of a peremptory challenge during jury selection, and the other party is unable to recall the basis for the challenge, the trial court may not substitute findings of the other party's sincerity, together with circumstantial evidence indicating a lack of a discriminatory motive, for the other party's failure to offer a non-discriminatory explanation for the challenge [see Yee v. Duncan (9th Cir. 2006) 441 F.3d 851, 856-863] .

The evidentiary standard under which the justification should be examined is preponderance of the evidence; i.e., the opponent of the peremptory challenge does not have the burden of proving purposeful race discrimination by clear and convincing evidence, but, rather, by preponderance of the evidence as to whether the neutral reasons offered to justify the peremptory challenge were genuine or pretextual [People v. Hutchins (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 992, 996-999, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 105] .

[c] Examples of Justified Use of Peremptory Challenges

The following are some examples of neutral, and hence appropriate use of, peremptory challenges:

- Challenged jurors had skeptical attitude toward the criminal justice system, which could not be seen to be so prevalent among African-Americans that it could be considered a proxy for race and, as a result, peremptory challenges based on such an attitude could not be deemed discriminatory [People v. Calvin (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 1377, 1383-1389, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 300].

- Challenged juror gave conflicting and possibly untrue answers to voir dire questions regarding whether juror had followed the case in the media [People v. Jones (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 279, 294, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 793, 949 P.2d 890] .

- Challenged juror's answers to voir dire questions were rambling, not entirely credible, and juror did not appear to be someone who was "emotionally of a mind to well and truly try a capital case" [People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 635, 664-665, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 573, 941 P.2d 752] .

- Family circumstances similar to defendant's, i.e., challenged juror hadsons the same age as defendant and all three sons had criminal records and drug problems [People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 635, 664-665, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 573, 941 P.2d 752] .

- Challenged juror was acquainted with defense attorney and worked with defense attorney's wife on volunteer committees [People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 635, 664-665, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 573, 941 P.2d 752] .

- Challenged juror could not vote for death penalty [People v. Catlin (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 81, 115-119, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 31, 26 P.3d 357 ; People v. Jones (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 279, 293-294, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 793, 949 P.2d 890 ; People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 635, 665-666, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 573, 941 P.2d 752] or had serious reservations and would be reluctant to impose the death penalty [People v. Catlin (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 81, 115-119, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 31, 26 P.3d 357] .

- Mistake on the part of the challenging attorney ("I got her confused") [People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 153, 188-190, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 123, 940 P.2d 710] .

- Although place of residence may be an ethnic badge and proxy for race, a prospective juror who had gone to a high school that was attended by members of the gang to which defendant had belonged, and could be expected to be sympathetic to members of that gang, was properly excluded [People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 153, 190-191, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 123, 940 P.2d 710] .

- Arrest or conviction of a juror's relative provides a legitimate, group-neutral basis for exclusion [People v. Turner (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 413, 419, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 138] .

- Prosecutor's belief that Jehovah's Witnesses "could not judge anybody at all" and seemed to have a hard time with criminal trials. Challenge on the basis of a juror's relevant personal values is not improper even though those views may be founded in the juror's religious beliefs [People v. Martin (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 378, 381, 385, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 147] .

- Challenged juror said she would hold prosecutor to higher standard of proof [People v. Mills (2010) 48 Cal. 4th 158, 180-181, 106 Cal. Rptr. 3d 153, 226 P.3d 276] .

[7] Procedure if Burden of Justification Is Not Sustained

If the court finds the burden of justification is not sustained as to any of the questioned peremptory challenges, the presumption of their validity is rebutted [see People v. Smith (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 342, 344-345, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 850 (citing Wheeler); People v. Cervantes (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 323, 333, 284 Cal. Rptr. 410] . In that event, the court must dismiss the jurors thus far selected, quash any remaining venire, and summon a different venire, and the jury selection process may begin anew [People v. Willis (2002) 27 Cal. 4th 811, 813, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 301, 43 P.3d 130 ; Holley v. J & S Sweeping Co. (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 588, 592, 192 Cal. Rptr. 74 (citing Wheeler)].

The court does not have the option of merely reseating the improperly challenged juror. Failure to quash any remaining venire and call a new panel is prejudicial per se [People v. Smith (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 342, 345-346, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 850] .

§ 322.43 "Swearing In" or Empaneling of Trial Jury

When each side taking peremptory challenges passes consecutively, the jury is deemed accepted and then sworn, unless the court orders otherwise for good cause [Code Civ. Proc. § 231(e)]. The swearing of the jury consists of obtaining an "acknowledgment and agreement" from the jurors, stating that they will well and truly try the matter before them and render a true verdict according to only the evidence and the instructions of the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 232(b)].

Once a jury has been passed for cause and sworn, the time for voir dire and exercising peremptory challenges is over [Bly-Magee v. Budget Rent-A-Car Corp. (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 318, 323-324, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 330] .

Under the Trial Jury Selection and Management Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 190 et seq.], a trial court does not have discretion to reopen jury selection after the trial jury has been impaneled, but before alternate jurors are sworn [People v. Cottle (2006) 39 Cal. 4th 246, 253-258, 46 Cal. Rptr. 3d 86, 138 P.3d 230] . If a juror becomes unable to serve, Code Civ. Proc. §§ 233, 234 in civil cases provide for the removal of a juror on a showing of good cause [People v. Cottle (2006) 39 Cal. 4th 246, 259, 46 Cal. Rptr. 3d 86, 138 P.3d 230 ; for discussion of discharge of a juror and its effect on the trial, see § 322.53].

§ 322.44 Selecting Alternate Jurors

A superior court judge may direct the calling of additional jurors, known as alternate jurors, when a trial is likely to be protracted or on stipulationof the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 234; see form for stipulation at § 322.101]. The court enters the reason for calling alternate jurors in the minutes of the court, and then, immediately after the jury is impaneled and sworn, the court directs the calling of one or more alternate jurors [Code Civ. Proc. § 234].

Alternate jurors are drawn from the same source and in the same manner as regular jurors. They must have the same qualifications as regular jurors and are subject to the same examination [Code Civ. Proc. § 234; for discussion of qualifications of jurors and voir dire examination, see §§ 322.32, 322.37, respectively]. They are also subject to the same challenges, except that each side, or each defendant, as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 231, is entitled to as many peremptory challenges to the alternate jurors as there are alternate jurors called [Code Civ. Proc. § 234; see discussion of peremptory challenges at § 322.39[5]].

Alternate jurors take the same oath as regular jurors. They are seated so that they have equal power and facilities to hear and see the proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 234; see generally Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI Nos. 111 ("Instruction to Alternate Jurors"), 5014 ("Substitution of Alternate Juror") (LexisNexis Matthew Bender, Official Publisher)].

§ 322.46 Jury Pre-Instructions

Immediately after the jury is sworn, the trial judge may, in his or her discretion, preinstruct the jury concerning the elements of the charges or claims, its duties, its conduct, the order of proceedings, the procedure for submitting written questions for witnesses as set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1033 [see § 322.57[4]] if questions are allowed, and the legal principles that will govern the proceeding [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1035; see Code Civ. Proc. § 607 (order of proceedings)].

§ 322.50 Juror Duties and Juror Misconduct

When jurors are permitted to separate during trial or after the case is submitted to them, they are admonished by the court that it is their duty [Code Civ. Proc. § 611; see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI No. 100 ("Preliminary Admonitions") (LexisNexis Matthew Bender, Official Publisher)]:

- Not to converse with other persons or allow other persons to address them concerning the subject of the trial.

- Not to form or express an opinion on the subject of the trial until the case is submitted to them.

It is misconduct for a juror during trial to discuss the matter under investigation outside the court or to receive any information on the subject of the litigation except in open court and in the manner provided by law [People v. Cissna (2010) 182 Cal. App. 4th 475, 486-487, -- Cal. Rptr. 3d -- (juror spoke daily about merits of case with nonjuror friend); People ex rel. Dep't of Public Works v. Curtis (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 378, 390, 63 Cal. Rptr. 138 (juror attended real estate course dealing directly with real estate appraiser during trial concerning property valuation and discussed appraiser's qualifications with other jurors during deliberationsbased on information from real estate course)]. For example, it was misconduct for a juror to say at recess that he could bring in a verdict already when that juror had stated on voir dire that he could keep an open mind until after the evidence and applicable law were presented [Deward v. Clough (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 439, 443-445, 54 Cal. Rptr. 68] .

Juror misconduct is a statutory ground for granting a motion for a new trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(2)] and a nonstatutory ground for granting a motion for mistrial [Hilliard v. A. H. Robins Co. (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 374, 408-409, 196 Cal. Rptr. 117] . For detailed discussion of juror misconduct, whether before or during deliberations, in the context of these motions, see respectively Ch. 371, Motions After Trial, § 357.60 et seq., and Ch. 551, Trial, § 551.150 et seq.

Any juror who asks, receives, or agrees to receive any bribe on any understanding that his or her vote be influenced by the bribe is punishable by imprisonment [Penal Code § 93]. § 322.52 Duties of Alternate Jurors

Alternate jurors attend the trial in the company of regular jurors, are subject to punishment for contempt for failure to attend trial, and must obey court orders and admonitions [see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI No. 111 (LexisNexis Matthew Bender, Official Publisher) (alternate jurors observe same trial and are bound by same rules that govern conduct of jurors sitting on panel)]. They are seated so that they have equal power and facilities to hear and see the proceeding. If, during trial, regular jurors are kept in custody, the alternate jurors are kept with them. On submission of the case to the jury, the alternate jurors are kept in custody of the sheriff or marshal and refused communication except on court order. Except as provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 234, alternate jurors are not discharged until the regular jurors are discharged [Code Civ. Proc. § 234].

Alternate jurors do not participate in deliberation unless ordered by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 234]. Unless formally substituted, an alternate juror is prohibited from entering the jury room during the deliberations of regular jurors [People v. Adame (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 402, 405, 111 Cal. Rptr. 462] . For discussion of substituting an alternate juror on discharge of a regular juror, see § 322.53[2].

§ 322.53 Discharge of Juror and Effect on Trial

[1] Discharge of Juror

If, before the jury has returned its verdict, a juror dies, becomes ill, or for other good cause is unable to perform his or her duty, or if a juror requests a discharge for good cause, the court may order that juror discharged [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 233, 234]. A juror may be discharged even though the juror is physically capable of deliberating.

ILLUSTRATION:

Failure to Perform Duty. The discharge of one juror was upheld because the trial court concluded the juror "failed to perform his duty to deliberate before reaching his decision. The juror did not answer the questions posed to him by other jurors, did not sit at the table with the other jurors during deliberations, acted as if he had already made up his mind before hearing the whole case, and did not look at the two victims in the courtroom." The juror's misconduct in taking his trial notes home despite the trial court's prohibition also justified his discharge [People v. Thomas (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 1328, 1332-1333, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 177 ; see also People v. Williams (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 441, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 295, 21 P.3d 1209 (juror who refuses to follow court's instructions and apply law as instructed is unable to perform duty; trial court did not abuse discretion in discharging juror who refused to adhere court's instruction to uphold law regarding rape and statutory rape because juror believed law to be wrong and would not hear discussion on subject)].

The court must exercise caution in determining whether a juror is refusing to deliberate and thus should be discharged in order to protect the sanctity of jury deliberations. The court may not dismiss a juror during deliberations because the juror harbors doubts about the sufficiency of the prosecution's evidence. It is often appropriate for the trial court that questions whether all of the jurors are participating in deliberations to reinstruct the jurors regarding their duty to deliberate and to permit the jury to continue before making further inquiries that could intrude on the sanctity of the deliberations. When reinstruction does not resolve the problem and the court is on notice that there may be grounds to discharge a juror during deliberations, it must conduct whatever inquiry is reasonably necessary to determine whether grounds for discharge exist and discharge the juror if it appears as a demonstrable reality that the juror is unable or unwilling to deliberate [People v. Cleveland (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 466, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 313, 21 P.3d 1225] .

[2] When Alternate Juror Available

When a juror is discharged, the court may draw the name of an alternate juror. The alternate then takes the original juror's place in the jury boxand is subject to the same rules and regulations as an original juror [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 233, 234; see also §§ 322.50 -322.52].

When a juror is dismissed for good cause after jury deliberations have begun and an alternate juror is substituted in, the court must instruct the jury to set aside and disregard all past deliberations and begin deliberating anew; to do otherwise may constitute reversible error [Griesel v. Dart Indus., Inc. (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 578, 585, 153 Cal. Rptr. 213, 591 P.2d 503 , disapproved on other grounds by Privette v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 689, 696, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 72, 854 P.2d 721 (construing former Code Civ. Proc. § 605 to require instruction); see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI No. 5014 ("Substitution of Alternate Juror") (LexisNexis Matthew Bender, Official Publisher); see also People v. Collins (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 687, 131 Cal. Rptr. 782, 552 P.2d 742 (substitution of alternate juror in criminal case after commencement of deliberations does not infringe on constitutional right to jury trial so long as statute is construed to require that court instruct jury to set aside and disregard all past deliberations and begin deliberating anew); Vaughn v. Noor (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 14, 20-21, 284 Cal. Rptr. 222] .

The fact that a jury reaches its verdict less than an hour after an alternate juror is seated does not necessarily mean that the jury did not properly deliberate anew, even if the jury deliberated for several days before the alternate juror was seated. Such speculation ignores the fact that the alternate was also present during the trial. It is as proper for the alternate juror to reach a decision in a short period of time as it was for the original jury to deliberate for several days [Mendoza v. Club Car, Inc. (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 287, 303, 309-311, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 605] .

[3] When No Alternate Juror Available

If there is no available alternate juror, the court must [Code Civ. Proc. § 233]:

- Discharge the jury and impanel a new jury; or
- If all parties consent, continue the trial with the remaining jurors; or
- If all parties consent, swear in another juror and begin the trial anew.

§ 322.54 Jurors as Witnesses

Before a juror can be called to testify in a trial in which he or she sits as a member of the jury, that juror must inform the parties of the testimony he or she will give as a witness. The information regarding testimony to be given is conveyed to the parties in a proceeding held out of the presence of the remaining jurors [Evid. Code § 704(a)]. A juror is unable to testify if one of the parties to the action objects and, where a party objects, the court must declare a mistrial and order the action assigned for trial before another jury [Evid. Code § 704(b)]. When there is no objection, the juror is compelled to testify as a witness [Evid. Code § 704(d)].

Both the calling of a juror to testify before the jury as a witness and the objection to the calling of the juror are deemed motions for a mistrial [Evid. Code § 704(c)]. For discussion of mistrials generally, see Ch. 551, Trial, § 551.150 et seq.

§ 322.55 Jury's Viewing of Scene

The trial court may order the jury to view the property that is the subject of the litigation, the place where any relevant event took place, and any object or demonstration relevant and admissible as evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 651(a)]. The entire court, including the jury, court reporter, judge, and necessary officers, then proceeds to the place, property, object, or demonstration to be viewed. The court remains in session throughout the viewing [Code Civ. Proc. § 651(b)].

Whether to grant a party's request for a jury viewing of premises where the plaintiff allegedly fell is a matter of discretion for the trial court. In one case, in which the court denied the motion on the ground that photographs adequately depicted the premises and that an injured juror would have difficulty viewing the premises, there was no abuse of discretion [Akins v. Sonoma County (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 185, 201, 60 Cal. Rptr. 499, 430 P.2d 57] .

§ 322.56 Jury Determines Effect and Value of Evidence

A jury determines the effect and value of the evidence addressed to it, including the credibility of witnesses and hearsay declarants [Evid. Code § 312(b); see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI No. 106 (LexisNexis Matthew Bender, Official Publisher) (introductory evidence instruction)]. Weighing the evidence presented is the function of a jury [People v. Rhodes (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 10, 23, 98 Cal. Rptr. 249] .

For example, the jury, as the trier of fact, is the exclusive judge of the credibility of expert witnesses, and it may reject expert testimony in favor of nonexpert testimony or other evidence [Lauderdale Assocs. v. Department of Health Servs. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 117, 127, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 802] . While it may not arbitrarily disregard uncontradicted and unimpeached testimony of an expert witness [Krause v. Apodaca (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 413, 417, 9 Cal. Rptr. 10] , it may disregard an expert's testimony and draw its own conclusions from the evidence when the evidence conflicts or the expert's testimony is rebutted [Wirz v. Wirz (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 171, 176, 214 P.2d 839 ; see also Abbott v. Taz Express (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 853, 858, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 360 (jury need not be instructed not to "arbitrarily" or "unreasonably" disregard expert testimony if facts on which opinion is based are in dispute or capable of being rejected by jury as untrue or unproved)].

It is within the province of a jury to draw reasonable inferences from the facts shown in evidence. The effect of inferences reasonably drawn is notdestroyed as a matter of law by the contradictory testimony of witnesses [Donahue v. United Artists Corp. (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 794, 807, 83 Cal. Rptr. 131] .

§ 322.57 Jury as Trier of Questions of Fact

[1] In General

Issues of fact are tried by a jury [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 592, 1171 (forcible entry and detainer proceedings); Evid. Code § 312(a); see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI No. 106 (LexisNexis Matthew Bender, Official Publisher) (introductory evidence instruction)]. In addition, a question of fact not put in issue by the pleadings may be tried by a jury on a court order stating the question of fact distinctly and plainly [Code Civ. Proc. § 309].

An issue of fact is one in which the evidence introduced will support a decision on either side, that is, reasonable minds could fairly differ as to the answer to the question posed. An issue of fact may become an issue of law only when reasonable minds can draw but one conclusion from the evidence. Consequently, an issue of fact cannot be taken from the jury by a trial court and treated as an issue of law unless only one conclusion is legally deducible and any other conclusion cannot command the support of substantial evidence that will survive appellate review [Pan Asia Venture Capital Corp. v. Hearst Corp. (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 424, 433, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 118] . Issues of fact joined in probate proceedings are tried by a jury in conformity with the rules of civil procedure [Prob. Code § 1280].

For the kinds of cases triable by a jury, see § 322.13.

[2] When Question of Fact May Be Submitted to Jury

To justify the submission of any question of fact to a jury, the proof must be sufficient to raise more than a mere conjecture or surmise that the fact is as alleged. It must be such that a rational, well-constructed mind can reasonably draw from it the conclusion that the fact exists [Mahoney v. Corralejo (1974) 36 Cal. App. 3d 966, 974, 112 Cal. Rptr. 61] . When there is a conflict in the evidence from which either of two conclusions can be reached, the question must be submitted to a jury [Dahl-Beck Elec. Co., Inc. v. Rogge (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 893, 900, 80 Cal. Rptr. 440] .

Courts have held that the following questions of fact must be submitted to a jury:

- Whenever there is room for an honest difference of opinion between persons of average intelligence as to whether there has been a breach of duty in a negligence action [Putensen v. Clay Adams, Inc. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 1062, 1077, 91 Cal. Rptr. 319] .

- Whether a given set of facts and circumstances creates a dangerous condition [Bakity v. Riverside County (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 24, 30, 90 Cal. Rptr. 541] .

- Whether there has been a waiver of the right to arbitration [Sawday v. Vista Irrigation Dist. (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 833, 836, 52 Cal. Rptr. 1, 415 P.2d 816] .

- What constitutes a reasonable time for removal of title defects after escrow is closed is a question of fact dependent on the situation of the parties, the nature of the transaction, and the facts of the particular case [Nebo v. Transamerica Title Ins. Co. (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 222, 228, 98 Cal. Rptr. 237] .

- Good or bad faith in the context of sharing settlement money between wrongful death and personal injury claimants [River Garden Farms, Inc. v. Superior Court (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 986, 998, 103 Cal. Rptr. 498] .

- Issues of good faith and sufficient performance of contractual obligations [Thompson v. Price (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 182, 190, 59 Cal. Rptr. 174] .

- Valuation of community property in a dissolution action [Bensing v. Bensing (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 889, 895, 102 Cal. Rptr. 255] .

- The existence of an implied contract to discharge only for good cause [Haycock v. Hughes Aircraft Co. (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 1473, 1490, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 248] .

The interpretation of a written instrument, even though it involves questions of fact, is essentially a judicial function to be exercised in accordance with generally accepted canons of interpretation [see Civ. Code §§ 1635-1662], so that the purpose of the instrument is given effect [Parsons v. Bristol Dev. Co. (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 861, 865, 44 Cal. Rptr. 767, 402 P.2d 839] . For this reason it is solely a judicial function to interpret a written instrument unless the interpretation turns on the credibility of extrinsic evidence [Silva & Hill Constr. Co., Inc. v. Employers Mut. Liab. Ins. Co. (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 914, 921, 97 Cal. Rptr. 498 (insurance coverage for late charge in state construction contract)].

[3] Determination of Preliminary Fact

When a court admits proffered evidence conditionally on its relevance, personal knowledge, or authenticity being shown, the court must, on request, instruct the jury to determine whether the preliminary fact exists and to disregard the proffered evidence unless they find that it does exist. If the court subsequently determines that a jury could not reasonably find the preliminary fact to exist, it must instruct the jury to disregard the proffered evidence [Evid. Code § 403(c); see, e.g., Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI Nos. 212, 213, 214 (LexisNexis Matthew Bender, Official Publisher)].

But when relevance, personal knowledge, authenticity, or self-incrimination are not disputed, the court need not inform the jury of the court's determination as to the existence or nonexistence of preliminary facts [Evid. Code § 405(b)].

[4] Juror Questions and Note-Taking

The trial judge should allow jurors to submit written questions directed to witnesses. An opportunity must be given to counsel to object to such questions out of the presence of the jury [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1033].

Jurors must be permitted to take written notes in all civil trials. At the beginning of a trial, the court must inform jurors that they may take written notes during the trial. The court must provide materials suitable for this purpose [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1031].

The trial judge should encourage counsel in complex civil cases to include key documents, exhibits, and other appropriate materials in notebooks for use by jurors during trial to assist them in performing their duties [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1032].

AUTHOR: William G. McDevitt Editorial Consultant

§ 322.58 When Case Can Be Taken From Jury

A court acts properly in taking a case from a jury when the issues are determinable by a sole question of law [Estate of Torregano (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 234, 243, 5 Cal. Rptr. 137, 352 P.2d 505] . All questions of law are decided by the court [Evid. Code § 310(a)]. It is error for a trial court to submit to a jury as a question of fact an issue that on the record was one of law [Lysick v. Walcom (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 136, 157-158, 65 Cal. Rptr. 406] .

Conversely, it is error to take an issue of fact from a jury unless the evidence is such that the issue has indeed become one of law rather than fact. To establish a fact as a matter of law, the record must show that no other reasonable conclusion may be legally deductible from the evidence so that any other holding would be so lacking in evidentiary support that a reviewing court would be impelled to reverse it on appeal [Pan Asia Venture Capital Corp. v. Hearst Corp. (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 424, 433, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 118 ; People v. Walker (1973) 32 Cal. App. 3d 897, 904, 108 Cal. Rptr. 548] . For example, whether there has been a breach of duty in a negligence action may be resolved as a matter of law by the court only if the circumstances do not permit a reasonable doubt as to whether the defendant's conduct violates the required degree of care [Putensen v. Clay Adams, Inc. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 1062, 1077, 91 Cal. Rptr. 319] .

A party may, after the evidence has been presented in a jury trial, move that the trial court direct the verdict as to the action, or as to some of the issues in the action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 630]. When the court grants a motion in this situation, it has, in effect, taken an entire cause of action or other severable issue away from the jury and treated it as a matter of law, determining that there is no substantial evidence tending to prove all the facts necessary to the adverse party's cause of action or defense [see Paterno v. State of California (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 68, 102, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 754] . For further discussion and forms relating to directed verdicts, see Ch. 326A, Jury Verdicts, § 326A.30 et seq. and § 326A.80 et seq.

§ 322.59 Deliberations of Jury

"Predeliberation" jury instructions will typically be read to the jury after closing arguments and after the court has read instructions on the substantive law. These instructions include such items as choosing a presiding juror, using "common sense" during deliberations, and taking breaks [see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI No. 5009 (LexisNexis Matthew Bender, Official Publisher)].

If a jury reports that it has reached an impasse in its deliberations, the court may, in counsel's presence, advise the jury of its duty to decide the case based on the evidence while keeping an open mind and talking about the evidence with each other. The court should ask the jury if it has specific concerns that, if resolved, might assist the jury in reaching a verdict [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1036(a)]. The court may tell jurors that they should not surrender their beliefs merely to reach a verdict [Inouye v. Pacific Southwest Airlines (1981) 126 CA3d 648, 652, 179 CR 13] .

If the court determines that further action might assist the jury in reaching a verdict, the judge may [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1036(b)]:

- Give additional instructions;
- Clarify previous instructions;
- Permit attorneys to make additional closing arguments; or
- Employ any combination of these measures.

For a discussion of juror conduct after the case is submitted to the jurors, their rendering of a verdict, or their failure to render a verdict, see Ch. 326A, Jury Verdicts . For discussion of juror misconduct during deliberations or other phases of trial, see Ch. 371, Motions After Trial, § 357.60 et seq., Ch. 551, Trial, § 551.152.

§ 322.60 Discharge of Jury

Ordinarily, a jury is discharged on rendering a complete verdict before the trial court and on any requested polling by the parties or any requested correction of defects by the trial court [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 618, 619]. When a jury is discharged without having rendered a verdict or is prevented from rendering a verdict, the action is tried again either immediately or at a future time, as the court directs, unless a directed verdict is called for [Code Civ. Proc. § 616; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 630(f)].

[a] In General

Scheduling accommodations for jurors. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1004

Policy statement; jury service is duty of citizenship. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008(a)

No class or category of persons automatically excused from jury duty except as provided by law. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008(b)(1)

Statutory exemption from jury service granted only when eligible person claims it. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008(b)(2)

Deferring jury service is preferred to excusing prospective juror for temporary or marginal hardship. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008(b)(3)

Requests to be excused from jury service for undue hardship must be in writing or placed on court's record and supported with facts and circumstances, including why hardship cannot be avoided by deferring jury service. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008(c)

[b] Excuses Based on Undue Hardship

[i] Excessive Travel, Financial Burden, or Health Risk

Undue hardship is excuse if excessive travel distance or lack of available transportation. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008(d)(1), (2)

Undue hardship is excuse if extreme financial burden or undue risk of material injury or destruction of property exists and there are no feasible alternate arrangements. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008(d)(3), (4)

Undue hardship is excuse if physical or mental disability or impairment that would entail undue risk to juror's health exists; unless potential juror is 70 years of age or older, verification of disability or impairment may be required. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008(d)(5)

[ii] Necessary Care

Mother who is breastfeeding child may request deferral of jury service for up to one year and renew request as long as she is breastfeeding; if request is in writing, under penalty of perjury, jury commissioner must grant it without requiring prospective juror to appear in court. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1006

Undue hardship is excuse if juror has personal obligation to provide necessary care to another and no comparable substitute is available or practical without financial hardship to juror; verification may be required to establish need for regular and personal care. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008(d)(7)

[iii] Prior Service

Juror excused if he or she has served or was summoned to serve on grand or trial jury, or was summoned and appeared for jury service in any state or federal court, during previous 12 months. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008(e)

[iv] Public Health and Safety

Undue hardship is excuse if juror's services required for protection of public health and safety and there are no feasible alternate arrangements. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008(d)(6)

[c] Inconvenience Is Not Excuse

Inconvenience to prospective juror or employer is not adequate excuse although it may be considered ground for deferring service. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008(b)(4)

[4] Voir Dire Examination of Prospective Jurors

Examination of prospective jurors by trial court judge; court's discretion to permit counsel additional questions; scope of additional questions. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1540

Examination of prospective jurors. Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 3.25

[5] Facilities and Attendants for Jurors

Request for accommodation by juror with disability. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.100

§ 322.76 Decisions

[1] Right to Jury Trial Under California Constitution

[a] In General

No state constitutional or statutory right to jury trial under summary contempt statute, Code Civ. Proc. § 1209 et seq., in contrast to contempts constituting misdemeanor under Penal Code § 166. Mitchell v. Superior Court (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 1230, 1240, 265 Cal. Rptr. 144, 783 P.2d 731

Right to have jury determination of question of fact under constitution. Dorsey v. Barba (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 350, 358, 240 P.2d 604 (disapproved on other grounds, Jehl v. Southern Pacific Co. (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 821, 828, 59 Cal. Rptr. 276, 280, 427 P.2d 988, 992)

In action by state to abate public nuisance based on operation of motel at which defendants allegedly permitted prostitution, defendant had no right to jury trial, when traditionally there is no right to jury trial in public nuisance case because action and remedies sought are both equitable, and when right of trial by jury did not exist at common law in suit to abate public nuisance. People v. Bhakta (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 973, 977-979, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 421

Plaintiff was entitled to jury trial on claim of fraudulent conveyance, when right to jury trial existed at English common law in action to recover alleged fraudulent conveyance of determinate sum of money, and there was no evidence that any change in English common law occurred between 1791 and 1850, so that California Constitution guarantees right to jury trial in similar action today. Wisden v. Superior Court (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 750, 755-760, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 523

In legal malpractice action, plaintiff had right to jury trial of both malpractice lawsuit for failure to opt plaintiff out of class action and underlying action against former employer for fraud, breach of fiduciary duty, negligent misrepresentation, breach of contract, intentional interference with prospective economic advantage, and unfair business practices; determination of underlying case in legal malpractice action is part and parcel of element of causation, i.e., whether plaintiff would have prevailed in arbitration proceeding before New York Stock Exchange and obtained award against former employer absent attorney's negligence in failing to opt plaintiff out of class action, and issues were not so complex and numerous that lay jury, properly instructed, could not comprehend them. Piscitelli v. Friedenberg (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 953, 969-971, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 88

[b] 1850 Rule

There is right to jury trial in tax refund action, but not in tax collection action. Franchise Tax Bd. v. Superior Court (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 36, 43-50, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 73

Quantum meruit claim is quasi-contract claim for reasonable value of services rendered; because common-law courts entertained such claims and granted requested relief long before 1850, action is at law and carries right to jury trial. Jogani v. Superior Court (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 901, 905-909, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 503

Action between claimants in interpleader action is equitable and not subject to jury trial even if underlying action is legal. Shopoff & Cavallo LLP v. Hyon (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 1489, 1512-1514, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 268

Right to jury trial dependent on whether action is one to which there was common-law right to a jury in 1850. Interinsurance Exch. v. Savior (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 691, 693, 124 Cal. Rptr. 239

In absence of statute providing trial by jury, right limited by 1850 rule and no right to jury when minority shareholder brings petition for corporate dissolution, a proceeding unavailable prior to 1931. Rankin v. Frebank Co. (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 75, 92, 121 Cal. Rptr. 348

Juries are a matter of grace, not a matter of right, in equity actions. Stearns v. Los Angeles City Sch. Dist. (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 696, 725, 53 Cal. Rptr. 482

Function of jury in equity action is to assist in solution of question of fact; function advisory only and verdict susceptible to being disregarded. Stearns v. Los Angeles City Sch. Dist. (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 696, 725-726, 53 Cal. Rptr. 482

[c] Jury Required in Certain Actions

Code Civ. Proc. § 592 interpreted to apply to common law actions and not to suits in equity. Abbott v. Los Angeles (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 438, 462, 326 P.2d 484

When contract term is subject of conflicting extrinsic evidence and dependent on assessment of credibility of opposing witness, interpretation of term is properly made by jury as trier of fact. Morey v. Vannucci (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 904, 914-915, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 573

[d] Right Where Mixed Equitable and Legal Issues

When both equitable and legal issues exist, equitable issues are triable first; if equitable issues dispose of legal issues, there is no right to jury trial on legal issues. Raedeke v. Gibraltar Sav. & Loan Ass'n (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 665, 671, 111 Cal. Rptr. 693, 517 P.2d 1157

Damages issues raised by cross complaint to complaint for injunctive relief are subject to jury trial. Tide Water

Associated Oil Co. v. Superior Court (1955) 43 Cal. 2d 815, 821, 279 P.2d 35

In mixed trial of legal and equitable issues when legal issues are first tried to jury, court must follow jury's factual determinations on common issues of fact. Hoopes v. Dolan (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 146, 156-161, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 337

Jury trial on legal issues when legal and equitable issues joined in same action. Frahm v. Briggs (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 441, 445, 90 Cal. Rptr. 725

[e] No Right to Jury for Purely Equitable Claims

Doctrine of promissory estoppel is equitable in nature and consequently trial court, not jury, should weigh equitable considerations; trial by jury is not matter of right. C & K Eng'g Contractors v. Amber Steel Co. (1978) 23 Cal. 3d 1, 9, 11, 151 Cal. Rptr. 323, 587 P.2d 1136 ; A-C Company, Inc. v. Security Pac. National Bank (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 462, 472-473, 219 Cal. Rptr. 62

Plaintiff was not entitled to jury trial on bifurcated issue of defendant's defense to plaintiff's Proposition 65 lawsuit, when essential character and purpose of Proposition 65 was equitable and remedies sought through enforcement action were equitable in nature, and when bulk of relief sought was cognizable at common law as equitable action to abate public nuisance; trial court's bifurcation and separate initial adjudication of warning exemption defense did not transform the case into action at law or require jury trial, because warning exemption defense was not separate legal claim or cause of action, nor was trial special proceeding engendering its own right to jury trial. DiPirro v. Bondo Corp. (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 150, 178-186, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 722

In action for rescission of contract for sale of unimproved parcel of land, seller's attempt to recover monetary damages for lost profits it allegedly could have made through other uses of the property rendered rescission claim equitable rather than legal because recovery sought was something other than consideration paid by plaintiff, and plaintiff therefore was not entitled to a jury trial. NMSBPCSLDHB v. County of Fresno (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 954, 958-966, 61 Cal. Rptr. 3d 425

In class action by employees brought under Unfair Competition Law (UCL) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200] alleging that employees were improperly denied payment for overtime work, defendant-employer was not entitled to jury trial, when UCL provided only for equitable remedies, there was no right to jury trial, and complaint was not mere exercise in artful pleading to circumvent jury trial right because plaintiffs were not pursuing Labor Code claim under different label but different claim under UCL; fact that contract issues may have been implicated did not transform equitable action into legal one; when employer's affirmative defense based on wage order did not require jury trial; and existence of factual issue did not require jury trial, because even though contractual duties of employer implicitly included performance of mandatory statutory duties, such as payment of overtime wages, and application of statutory requirements included factual determinations, sole cause of action for violation of Bus. & Prof. § 17200 was equitable in nature. Hodge v. Superior Court (2006) 145 Cal. App. 4th 278, 284-287, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 519

Trial court properly found defendant had no right to jury trial in plaintiffs' action gist of which was for enforcement of settlement agreement and to prevent interference with their rights as easement holders, even though complaint requested damages and injunctive relief, when prayer for relief was not conclusive, plaintiffs ultimately waived their claim for damages and judgment only granted equitable relief, so that gist of action was in equity; Code Civ. Proc. § 592 did not mandate jury trial when plaintiffs waived their claim for damages for breach of contract or injuries and did not seek recovery of specific real or personal property, and when there was no substantial dispute that plaintiffs had right to easement so no action at law was necessary as prerequisite to injunction. Baugh v. Garl (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 737, 740-741, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 539

Trial court properly found no right to jury trial on claim of ownership of corporate common stock, when gist of action was equitable rather than legal since it was action to declare rights to stock based on agreement and to quiet title in stock; when declaratory relief action was not brought to circumvent right to jury trial on breach of contract claims, and when possession exception to equitable nature of quiet title action did not apply because possession exception is premised on fact that action is, in part, in case involving real property, but this case involved intangible personal property; even if it was possible to maintain action seeking to recover possession of intangible object, gist of this action was dispute over ownership of stock, not possession, and possession of stock not sought in complaint. Caira v. Offner (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 12, 23-29, 24 Cal. Rptr. 3d 233

Claim for damages for breach of contract was equitable, and thus plaintiff was not entitled to jury trial when defendant's liability could only be established by accounting. De Guere v. Universal City Studios, Inc. (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 482, 507, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 438

Action against trustee for breach of fiduciary duty is equitable, not legal, when amount of defendant's damages must be established by accounting. Van de Kamp v. Bank of Am. (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 819, 864-865, 251 Cal. Rptr. 530

Action to abate nuisance is equitable one in which there is no right to jury trial. Wolford v. Thomas (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 347, 353, 235 Cal. Rptr. 422

Action for rescission and declaratory relief relating to the formation of contract, its validity, construction, and effect is equitable one in which there is no right to jury trial. Fowler v. Ross (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 472, 477-478, 191 Cal. Rptr. 183

[f] Special Proceedings

[i] Special Proceeding Defined

Public entity's reliance on design immunity as defense to claim of liability for dangerous condition is not special proceeding, but is affirmative defense as to which plaintiff was entitled to jury trial. Cornette v. Dept. of Transportation (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 63, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1, 26 P.3d 332

Special proceeding is one that is neither an action at law nor suit at equity under common law or equity practice. Tide Water Associated Oil Co. v. Superior Court (1955) 43 Cal. 2d 815, 822, 279 P.2d 35

Special proceeding is commenced on petition or motion with notice to obtain special relief. Oak Grove Sch. Dist. v. City Title Ins. Co. (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 678, 710, 32 Cal. Rptr. 288

[ii] Probate

When right to jury trial recognized in probate. Estate of Beach (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 623, 642, 125 Cal. Rptr. 570, 542 P.2d 994

[iii] Redemption of Property After Sheriff's Sale

Jury trial is not guaranteed in statutory special proceeding for redeeming property after sheriff's sale under former Code Civ. Proc. § 702. Pacific Coast Club, Inc. v. Brown (1980) 107 Cal. App. 3d 171, 175, 176, 165 Cal. Rptr. 566

[iv] Distribution of Settlement Proceeds of Wrongful Death Action

In action arising from wrongful death action involving several decedents, heirs were not entitled to jury apportion proceeds of settlement of action, when apportionment proceeding was equitable and special proceeding. Kim v. Yi (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 543, 546-550, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 841

[2] Waiver of Jury Trial

[a] In General

Contractual agreement between public accounting firm and client with provision waiving jury trial in event of dispute was unenforceable as jury trial waiver because contractual agreement entered into prior to any dispute arising between contracting parties is not means authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 631, and only means specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 631 are effective to waive jury trial. Grafton v. Superior Court (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 944, 951-967, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 5, 116 P.3d 479

Plaintiff did not waive jury trial by conceding that any penalty that could be imposed and any injunctive relief ordered would be determined by court, not jury, in opposition to defendant's motion to strike plaintiff's jury trial request; jury could not be waived by implication and concession was not express waiver. DiPirro v. Bondo Corp. (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 150, 176-178, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 722

Plaintiff did not forfeit right to challenge ruling on jury trial issue by failing to appear at hearing on motion to contest trial court's tentative decision, when, based on plaintiff's opposition, both defendant and trial court were aware of precise grounds for plaintiff's challenge to proposed ruling; after tentative decision was issued, repetition of same opposition at hearing on motion was not required to preserve issue. DiPirro v. Bondo Corp. (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 150, 176-178, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 722

Defendant's attorney's oral consent to jury waiver at final status conference, stated in open court and entered in court minutes, provided basis for jury waiver under Code Civ. Proc. § 631(d)(3); fact that waiver was by counsel did not invalidate waiver, because trial counsel could exercise independent judgment with respect to strategic litigation decisions; and defendant neither repudiated decision nor alerted court that he disagreed with decision, did not attend trial or assert objection to stipulation to waive jury, did not file posttrial motion, did not retain new counsel to represent him, and did not make effort to seek relief from attorney's allegedly unauthorized jury waiver until he filed appellate briefs more than one year after trial concluded. Cadle Co. v. World Wide Hospitality Furniture, Inc. (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 504, 510-511, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 480

In forfeiture proceeding, claimant who represented herself waived jury trial by consent under Code Civ. Proc. § 631 when she did not request jury trial or announce one was required and did not post required jury fees. People v. $17,522.08 United States Currency (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 1076, 1081-1084, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 519

Code Civ. Proc. § 631 specifies exclusive methods by which jury trial may be waived, which fall into three categories, which are failure to comply with statutory requirements, express consent, and nonappearance at trial; when cross-complainant (1) agreed to limited bench trial on one issue after having obtained clarification that trial court would not determine a related issue, (2) promptly objected when trial court began to hear evidence on second issue and (3) expressly demanded jury trial when trial court indicated it contemplated ruling on matter, cross-complaint did not waive right to jury trial on second issue, and trial court improperly denied cross-complainant jury trial on that issue. Old Republic Ins. Co. v. FSR Brokerage, Inc. (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 666, 679-680, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 583

Waiver was effective in rescission action based on both counsels' agreement with court that jury advisory only and jury was matter for court's discretion, even though jury trial guaranteed by statute. Radinsky v. T.W. Thomas, Inc. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 75, 79-80, 70 Cal. Rptr. 150

Ten-day written notice by clerk of court to adverse party of jury trial waiver by party originally requesting jury trial is required regardless of any informal notice already received and responded to by that adverse party. Simmons v. Prudential Insurance Co. (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 833, 836-837, 177 Cal. Rptr. 37

[b] Adverse Party's Right to Demand Jury at Trial after Waiver

No waiver occurred when plaintiff relied on defendant's demand and made explicit reservation should defendant withdraw demand. Cohill v. Nationwide Auto Service (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 696, 701, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 924

Party waived jury trial under former Code Civ. Proc. § 631(8) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 631(c)) by failing to demand jury trial promptly after adverse party, who initially demanded jury trial, waived jury trial at time of assignment for trial to specific department of court. McIntosh v. Bowman (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 357, 360-362, 198 Cal. Rptr. 533

Failure of opposing party to make timely request for jury does not preclude right to request retention of jury when originally requesting party waives jury after trial commences. Middlesex Insurance Co. v. Mann (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 558, 566, 177 Cal. Rptr. 495

[c] Court's Discretion After Waiver

Court abused its discretion in refusing to grant relief from inadvertent waiver of jury trial when there had been no prejudice to other party or to court; writ of mandate prior to trial is proper remedy when trial court has abused its discretion in refusing to grant relief from waiver. Winston v. Superior Court (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 600, 602-603, 242 Cal. Rptr. 113

Court did not abuse its discretion in denying relief from defendant's waiver of jury trial, when relief would have required continuance inconvenient to witnesses and prejudicial to plaintiff; reversal for alleged abuse of discretion was also inappropriate because defendant failed to seek proper remedy by petition for writ for mandate before trial and failed to demonstrate prejudice from nonjury trial. McIntosh v. Bowman (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 357, 363-364, 198 Cal. Rptr. 533

Court's refusal to grant jury trial was abuse of discretion when no showing was made of prejudice to parties or of inconvenience to court, and court clerk had failed to send adverse party 10-day notice of waiver of jury trial by party originally requesting it as required by former Code Civ. Proc. § 631(4) (repealed by Stats. 1989, ch. 15). Simmons v. Prudential Insurance Co. (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 833, 838, 177 Cal. Rptr. 37

Court's refusal to grant jury trial was abuse of discretion when (1) plaintiffs made timely request to withdraw their initial waiver, (2) there was no possibility that rescheduling would be necessary, and (3) no prejudice to defendant was shown. Bishop v. Anderson (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 821, 824, 825, 161 Cal. Rptr. 884

Court abused its discretion by denying request for continuance after waiver of jury trial on first day of trial. Leslie v. Roe (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 686, 688, 125 Cal. Rptr. 157

[3] Prospective Jurors

[a] Competence and Qualifications

On appeal of verdict against it, insurer waived its objection to juror who was ex-felon, where fact juror disclosed grounds for disqualification was sufficient to trigger insurer's obligation to challenge juror for cause, and objection to juror's competency first made after trial is not cognizable on appeal. George F. Hillenbrand, Inc. v. Ins. Co. of North America (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 784, 821-822, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 586

States are entitled to prescribe relevant qualifications for jurors. People v. Superior Court (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 672, 681, 91 Cal. Rptr. 651

Requirement of sufficient knowledge of English is satisfied only by understanding of spoken and written English. People v. Jones (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 776, 783, 102 Cal. Rptr. 277

Vocabulary and reading examinations of prospective jurors is proper means ofestablishing competence. People v. Powell (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 107, 134-142, 115 Cal. Rptr. 109

[b] Sources and Exclusions

Systematic exclusion of women from juries by providing automatic exemption from jury service for any woman requesting not to serve that results in jury venires averaging less than 15 percent female violates fair-cross-section requirement of U.S. Const., amends. VI, XIV. Duren v. Missouri (1978) 439 U.S. 357, 367-370, 99 S. Ct. 664, 58 L. Ed. 2d 579

Systematic exclusion of women from jury panels (in Louisiana) is not representative of cross section of community and violative of right to jury trial guaranteed by U.S. Const., amend. VI. Taylor v. Louisiana (1975) 419 U.S. 522, 531, 95 S. Ct. 692, 42 L. Ed. 2d 690

Trial court need not and may not take into account Hispanics ineligible for jury service to determine whether Hispanics are underrepresented on grand jury venires. To determine whether Hispanics are underrepresented to unconstitutional degree in jury venires, court must rely on evidence most accurately reflecting jury pool's actual percentage of jury-eligible Hispanics. United States v. Torres-Hernandez (9th Cir. 2006) 447 F.3d 699, 703-706

In murder prosecution, defendant failed to establish prima facie case by showing systematic exclusion of young or low-income adults from Riverside County juries, where record revealed Riverside County has undertaken reasonable efforts to eliminate duplicate entries from voter registration lists and Department of Motor Vehicle records of registered drivers and holders of identification cards, which are merged into a master list for jury selection purposes, and there was no evidence how (if at all) remaining duplicates would have affected composition of jury draw, and where record also showed jury commissioner's guidelines for excusing prospective jurors from service were neutral as to age and, except as to economic hardship, as to income, and existence of hardship excuses did not deprive defendant of his right to fair cross-section of community. Further, as to African-American prospective jurors, substantial evidence supported trial court's finding of no significant disparity, but Supreme Court expressed grave doubt as to propriety of apparent (albeit infrequent) practice of Riverside County Superior Court in making race-conscious assignments to bolster minority representation in various courtrooms. People v. Burgener (2003) 29 Cal. 4th 833, 855-863, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 747, 62 P.3d 1

In murder prosecution, summary procedure by which trial court screened prospective jurors for economic hardship, while not best practice, substantially expedited jury selection process by culling out prospective jurors who probably would have been unable to serve as jurors in any event. Trial court's estimate of six months was not error, where defense counsel conceded it was entirely possible case could last six months and failed to object when court stated counsel had indicated previously they would like to have up to possible six months. People v. Burgener (2003) 29 Cal. 4th 833, 863, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 747, 62 P.3d 1

Showing of statistical disparity occurring over time is insufficient, standing alone, to make out prima facie case of U.S. Const., amend. VI violation when county's jury selection criteria are neutral with respect to race, ethnicity, sex, and religion; defendant must identify some aspect of manner in which criteria are being applied that is (1) probable cause of disparity and (2) constitutionally impermissible. People v. Sanders (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 471, 492, 273 Cal. Rptr. 537, 797 P.2d 561

County's procedures to obtain pool of citizens for jury duty was race neutral and criminal defendant failed to establish prima facie case of significant underrepresentation or systematic exclusion of Hispanics from county's jury venires, where Hispanics are distinctive group within community, constituting 24 percent of population; where trial court erroneously utilized comparative disparity test to order jury commissioner to develop jury venires representing fair and reasonable cross section, because comparative disparity test should only apply if group is small and, although neither United States Supreme Court nor California Supreme Court has determined whether absolute or comparative disparity provides most accurate measure, in numerous opinions involving fair cross-section challenges, California Supreme Court consistently has used absolute disparity test to determine constitutionality of venire composition; and where although trial court acknowledged county's jury selection process was race neutral, it nevertheless found constitutional violation because county did not resend juror questionnaires to nonresponders unless new address was provided because Hispanics have nonresponse rate substantially higher than non-Hispanic community, but effect of race neutral procedures may not be basis for finding of systematic exclusion. Blair v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 532, 540-545, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 602

Issue of vicinage, county from which jurors are summoned, is logically distinct concept from issue of venue, place of trial, and requires separate objection at trial to preserve issues for appeal. People v. Campbell (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1432, 1446-1447, 281 Cal. Rptr. 870

Jury is impartial one if there was no systematic exclusion of identifiable segments of community from jury panel committed. People v. Langdon (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 384, 388, 126 Cal. Rptr. 575

Absent showing of discrimination, use of voter lists as sole source of jurors is constitutional procedure. People v. Breckenridge (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 913, 921, 125 Cal. Rptr. 425

Automatic exclusion of persons living over 25 miles from court is valid in absence of discrimination against any racial, social, or economic class. People v. McDowell (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 864, 875-876, 104 Cal. Rptr. 181

[c] Excuses and Exemptions From Jury Service

Fact that prospective juror is daily wage earner is not adequate excuse from jury duty. People v. Milan (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 185, 196, 107 Cal. Rptr. 68, 507 P.2d 956

In absence of fixed standard, determination whether undue hardship exists by jury commissioner is based on jurors' personal circumstances. People v. Powell (1975) 40 Cal. App. 3d 107, 133-134, 115 Cal. Rptr. 109

[4] Voir Dire Examination of Prospective Jurors

Counsel waives objections to the trial court's limitation of voir dire by failing to objectto that limitation before the jury is sworn. Bly-Magee v. Budget Rent-A-Car Corp. (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 318, 324, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 330

Counsel may voir dire on any matter that would be grounds for challenge for cause or would assist in intelligent exercise of peremptory challenges. People v. Williams (1981) 29 Cal. 3d 392, 174 Cal. Rptr. 317, 628 P.2d 869 (superseded as to criminal cases by Code Civ. Proc. § 223)

Voir dire examination is not for purpose of instructing jurors in matters of law. People v. De La Plane (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 223, 253, 151 Cal. Rptr. 843

Voir dire examination that presented several hypothetical situations based on issues to be tried was permissible. Kelly v. Trans Globe Travel Bureau, Inc. (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 195, 209, 131 Cal. Rptr. 488

Questions addressed to prospective jurors in personal injury action that dealt with interest of jurors in particular insurance company was proper if impression not necessarily conveyed that defendant insured by that company. Hart v. Wielt (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 224, 230, 84 Cal. Rptr. 220

Objective of voir dire examination is to elicit information from prospective trial jurors that permits exercise of challenges for cause to arrive at impartial jury; reasonable examination by counsel directly or through court on subjects appropriate to exercise of challenges for cause. Rousseau v. West Coast House Movers (1967) 256 Cal. App. 2d 878, 883, 884, 64 Cal. Rptr. 655

Questions addressed to prospective jurors in defamation action that dealt with plaintiff's prior criminal trial for theft were proper when that trial was basis for later civil suit. Russell v. Geis (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 560, 569, 59 Cal. Rptr. 569

[5] Challenges to Prospective Jurors

[a] Challenges for Cause

In capital murder prosecution, trial court erroneously excused five prospective jurors for cause based solely on their written answers to jury questionnaire concerning their views relating to death penalty, and without any opportunity for follow-up questioning during which court and counsel might have been able to clarify responses and determine whether, in fact, prospective jurors were disqualified from service, because trial court erroneously equated nondisqualifying concept of very difficult decision by juror to impose death sentence with disqualifying concept of substantial impairment of juror's performance of his or her legal duty, and failed to recognize that one question in jury questionnaire standing alone, did not elicit sufficient information from which court properly could determine whether particular prospective juror suffered from disqualifying bias. People v. Stewart (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 425, 440-455, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 656, 93 P.3d 271

In capital murder prosecution, trial court did not err in granting prosecution's challenges for cause to two prospective jurors, where they made statements in their juror questionnaires that would disqualify them from serving as jurors in case, and although later statements during voir dire may not have been disqualifying, resolution of conflicts and contradictions was trial court's task and by granting challenges for cause, trial court impliedly found prospective jurors' views would prevent or substantially impair performance of their duties as jurors. People v. McDermott (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 946, 983, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 51 P.3d 874

In capital murder prosecution, although trial court erred in refusing defendant's challenge for cause to pro-death penalty prospective juror whose views would have prevented or substantially impaired performance of his duties as juror in accordance with his instructions and his oath, relief was not warranted on theory that trial court's error forced defendant to use one of his peremptory challenges, thereby reducing number he had on hand later in trial, where error was harmless because none of prospective jurors defendant found objectionable actually sat on his jury and loss of peremptory challenge does not constitute violation of constitutional right to impartial jury. People v. Boyette (2002) 29 Cal. 4th 381, 416-419, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 544, 58 P.3d 391

Selection of jury from full jury panel. Buckley v. Chadwick (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 183, 202, 289 P.2d 242

When trial court discovers during trial that juror misrepresented or concealed material information on voir dire tending to show bias, trial court may discharge juror if, after examination of juror, record discloses reasonable grounds for inferring bias as "demonstrable reality," even though juror continues to deny bias. People v. Price (1991) 1 Cal. 4th 324, 400, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 106, 821 P.2d 610

[b] Peremptory Challenges

[i] In General

Defendant's constitutional rights were not violated when prosecutor exercised peremptory challenges to excuse African-American jurors when each challenge was supported by constitutional reasons. People v. Mills (2010) 48 Cal. 4th 158, 173-185, 106 Cal. Rptr. 3d 153, 226 P.3d 276

Under variant of "jury box" method used in capital murder prosecution there was no violation of Code Civ. Proc. § 226, where Code Civ. Proc. § 226 does not dictate that all challenges for cause must be exercised before any peremptory challenges may be exercised, and procedure like one trial court here used, whereby challenges were exercised in groups, even if within each group challenges for cause were exercised before peremptory challenges, did not violate statutory mandate, and where under Code Civ. Proc. § 231, entitling each party to full panel before exercising any peremptory challenge, "panel" always has been understood by California courts as subset of members of whole venire called to fill jury box during voir dire, so that defendant was entitled to panel of 12 jurors before he exercised any peremptory challenges, but governing statutes were never interpreted to require that entire venire be subjected to for-cause challenges before exercise of any peremptory challenges. People v. Avila (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 491, 537-538, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1, 133 P.3d 1076

Although selection method using variation of "struck jury" requiring criminal defendant to direct peremptory challenges against potential jury of more than 12 persons departs from statutory selection procedures, absent showing of prejudice, defendant is not entitled to relief if defendant was not unduly prevented from exercising allotted challenges or selection or composition of petit jury is not otherwise fundamentally flawed. People v. Wright (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 367, 399, 276 Cal. Rptr. 731, 802 P.2d 221

Absolute right to challenge certain number of jurors peremptorily; right not cut off by previous passing of juror sought to be challenged. Buckley v. Chadwick (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 183, 202, 289 P.2d 242

In jury trial pursuant to the Sexually Violent Predator Act, defendant is entitled to six peremptory challenges as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 231(c), and neither state nor federal due process or equal protection principles require that state law provide defendant in SVPA proceeding same number of peremptory challenges as in most criminal cases. People v. Calhoun (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 519, 523-530, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 166

[ii] Prohibition Against Challenges Based on Group Bias

In murder prosecution, trial court committed clear error in overruling defendant's Batson objection with respect to African-American potential juror, which prosecutor explained as potential juror looking very nervous throughout questioning, and potential juror's being student teacher and prosecutor's concern that for that reason, that he might come back with guilty of lesser verdict to go home quickly so there wouldn't be penalty phase, where record did not show that trial judge actually made determination concerning juror's demeanor, and, rather than making specific finding on record concerning juror's demeanor, trial judge simply allowed challenge without explanation; and where prosecutor anticipated short trial on record during voir dire, so that serving on jury would not have seriously interfered with juror's ability to complete his required student teaching, making prosecutor's second proffered justification for striking juror suspicious, and implausibility of explanation was reinforced by prosecutor's acceptance of white jurors who disclosed conflicting obligations that appeared to have been at least as serious as African-American potential juror's. Snyder v. Louisiana (2008)552U.S.472, 128 S. Ct. 1203, 1209-1212, 170 L. Ed. 2d 175

To establish prima facie case of improper exercise of peremptory challenges under Batson v. Kentucky (1986) 476 U.S. 79, 106 S. Ct. 1712, 90 L. Ed. 2d 69 , objector is not required to show it is more likely than not other party's peremptory challenges, if unexplained, were based on impermissible group bias. Johnson v. California (2005) 545 U.S. 162

Criminal defendant showed prosecutor discriminatorily exercised peremptory challenges against African-American potential jurors, where out of 20 black members of 108-person venire panel, only one served, with nine excused for cause or by agreement, and 10 peremptorily struck by prosecution; where prosecution's reasons for exercising peremptory strikes against some black panel members appeared equally on point as to some white jurors who served; and where prosecution's shuffling of venire panel, inquiry into views on death penalty, and questioning about minimum acceptable sentences all indicated decisions probably based on race. Appearance of discrimination was confirmed by widely known evidence of general policy of district attorney's office to exclude black venire members from juries at time this jury was selected. Miller-El v. Dretke (2005) 542 U.S. 231, 125 S. Ct. 2317, 2323-2340

Criminal defendant may object to race-based exclusions of jurors effected through peremptory challenges whether or not defendant and excluded juror share same race. Powers v. Ohio (1991) 499 U.S. 400, 402, 111 S. Ct. 1364, 113 L. Ed. 2d 411

After prosecutor struck three Native American women and one Asian woman from jury in state murder trial, trial court unreasonably accepted prosecutor's nonracial motives as genuine and erred in denying defendant's Batson/Wheeler motion after evidentiary hearing that resulted from prosecutor's strike of only Native American on regular panel because she worked for tribe and he feared she was inclined to favor Native American culture and institutions over "mainstream system" and because Native Americans were "resistive" and "suspicious" of criminal justice system and both potential alternate Native American jurors and only other minority in venire, when racial animus behind prosecutor's strikes was clear and in explaining peremptory challenge to eliminate one prospective Native American juror, he answered using blatant racial and cultural stereotypes, and when evaluation of voir dire transcript and juror questionnaires clearly and convincingly refuted each of prosecutor's nonracial grounds. Kesser v. Cambra (9th Cir. 2006) 465 F.3d 351, 359-371

In state prosecution for sexual crimes involving child victim, trial court properly denied defendant's Batson/Wheeler motion after finding prima facie case of gender discrimination, based on prosecutor's use of eight of ten peremptory challenges to strike male prospective jurors after prosecutor offered gender-neutral reasons for striking seven of male venire members, but failed to offer explanation for eighth male because she could not remember reason, when it was not objectively unreasonable for California Court of Appeal to conclude that defendant did not meet his ultimate burden of establishing purposeful discrimination by accepting prosecutor's statement that she forgot why she exercised eighth peremptory challenge as credible, and when voir dire testimony suggested gender-neutral reason for challenge. Yee v. Duncan (9th Cir. 2006) 463 F.3d 893, 897-901

In prosecution for second-degree robbery, African-American defendant made prima facie showing of purposeful discrimination under Batson/Wheeler, where defendant established that he was African-American and prosecutor used three of first four peremptory challenges to remove African-Americans from jury and only four of first 49 potential jurors were African-American, thus presenting statistical disparity, and defendant could make prima facie showing based on statistical disparity alone under Johnson v. California (2005) 545 U.S. 162, 125 S. Ct. 2410, 162 L. Ed. 2d 129 , and Miller-El v. Dretke (2005) 545 U.S. 231, 125 S. Ct. 2317, 162 L. Ed. 2d 196 ; and where existing record, informed by Johnson and Miller-El, failed to disclose refutation of inference of bias raised by statistical disparity. Williams v. Runnels (9th Cir. 2005) 432 F.3d 1102, 1105-1110

In criminal prosecution arising out of alleged plot to kill one defendant's wife, state trial court did not err in denying white defendants' Batson challenge based on prosecutor's peremptory strike of four African-American potential jurors, where, although defendants made prima facie showing and trial court then required prosecutor to explain his reasons for exercise of peremptory challenges to African-American jurors, trial court properly determined that defendants did not prove purposeful racial discrimination; after prosecutor articulated his reasons for challenges, trial judge took recess to evaluate prosecutor's reasons and, recognizing it was close question, ruled that prosecutor was credible and that there existed valid basis for excusal, so that trial judge appreciated defense counsel's concerns, but determined prosecutor did not have discriminatory intent in making challenges. Mitleider v. Hall (9th Cir. 2004) 391 F.3d 1039, 1047-1051

In murder and robbery prosecution, process employed by trial court to evaluate defendant's objection to prosecutor's exercise of peremptory challenges as race based clearly contravened procedure outlined in Batson v. Kentucky, when trial court never permitted defense counsel to explain basis for his objection but instead interrupted defense counsel and offered sua sponte its speculation as to why prosecutor may have struck five potential jurors in question, trial court did not pause to require actual explanation from prosecutor, and only after trial court had made absolutely clear that it would overrule objection did it allow defense counsel unimpeded opportunity to make prima facie showing; both defendant and stricken jurors were black and thus members of cognizable racial group, and defendant raised inference of discrimination because over 83 percent of possible black jurors were excluded by prosecutor and state did not point to anything in record altering discriminatory import of prosecutor's use of five out of six peremptory challenges to strike five out of six potential black jurors. Paulino v. Castro (9th Cir. 2004) 371 F.3d 1083, 1089-1092

In murder prosecution based on drive-by gang shooting, prosecutor did not use peremptory challenges in racially discriminatory manner to excuse nine African-American prospective jurors, where record supported finding prosecutor did not purposefully discriminate against any prospective jurors, either individually or collectively, and reflected that jurors and alternate jurors selected and sworn were diverse group, further supporting inference prosecutor acted in good faith and without discriminatory purpose in exercising peremptory challenges. People v. Watson (2008) 43 Cal. 4th 652, 669-682, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 208, 182 P.3d 543

In capital prosecution for murder of sheriff's deputy and forcible escape, although record was less than clear as to whether trial court perceived that prospective juror was not of Hispanic origin when, several days after defendant's Batson/Wheeler motion was taken under submission, court proceeded to reach, address and reject merits of claim with regard to her excusal, which was dispositive of claim on appeal. As to second prospective juror, who was Hispanic, although trial court made good faith determination that prima facie case of improper excusal for group bias had been shown, prosecutor thereafter furnished ample reasons explaining why peremptory excusal of prospective juror was not motivated by discriminatory intent, and comparative juror analysis of jury questionnaire and voir dire responses of other prospective jurors identified by defendant as supportive of his claim that prospective juror was excused with discriminatory intent viewed in light of totality of evidence relevant on claim did not demonstrate purposeful discrimination. People v. Cruz (2008) 44 Cal. 4th 636, 654-661, 187 P.3d 970

Appellate court must perform comparative juror analysis for first time on appeal to evaluate whether advocate's stated reasons for peremptorily challenging prospective jurors are truthful or pretextual, because reviewing courts must consider all evidence bearing on trial court's factual finding regarding discriminatory intent, and comparative juror analysis is evidence that, while subject to inherent limitations, must be considered when reviewing claims of error at Wheeler/Batson's third stage when defendant relies on such evidence and record is adequate to permit comparisons. In murder prosecution, trial court's finding that prosecutor's proffered explanations for exercising peremptory challenge against African-American prospective juror were not pretexts designed to disguise racial prejudice was reasonable and supported by substantial evidence. People v. Lenix (2008) 44 Cal. 4th 602, 612-631, 187 P.3d 946

In capital murder prosecution, prosecutor's use of peremptory challenges to remove Black, Hispanic, and young persons from jury did not violate defendant's rights under Fourteenth Amendment and Cal. Const., art. I, § 16, where trial court denied defendant's motions only after observing relevant voir dire and listening to prosecutor's reasons supporting each strike and to any defense argument supporting motions, and nothing in record suggested trial court either was unaware of its duty to evaluate credibility of the prosecutor's reasons or that it failed to fulfill duty; and where young persons are not cognizable class under Wheeler. People v. Lewis (2008) 43 Cal. 4th 415, 468-482, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 588, 181 P.3d 947

Criminal defendant failed to make prima facie case of group bias sufficient to challenge prosecutor's challenge to one African-American prospective juror, where fact that defendant was himself African-American alone did not establish prima facie case of discrimination; where whether victim was member of group to which majority of remaining jurors belonged was debatable as record showed her biological mother was Blackfoot Indian, but, in any event, race of victim, by itself, did not also establish prima facie case of discrimination; where prosecutor used only one peremptory challenge against African-American, passed alternate jurors once with two African-American jurors remaining, and never challenged other African-American juror; where fact that prosecutor accepted jury panel once with both African-American jurors on it and exercised single challenge only after defense counsel exercised his own challenge strongly suggested race was not motive behind challenge; and where, although not required to do so, prosecutor also stated three race-neutral reasons for peremptory challenge. People v. Kelly, 42 Cal. 4th 763, 778-781, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 531, 171 P.3d 548

In capital murder prosecution, although trial court did not expressly rule that defendant failed to make prima facie case of purposeful discrimination in prosecutor's exercise of peremptory challenges, by reciting races of prospective jurors excused by prosecutor, trial court clearly and properly implied that prima facie case of discrimination had not been made, where voir dire provided prosecutor with ample grounds for reasonably challenging Hispanic male prospective juror, and where no prima facie showing was made as to challenge to African-American man, since he was one of six prospective alternates and four of six were persons of color and he declined to fill out substantial portions of jury questionnaire, marking "confidential" on almost all of his answers. Court would not engage in comparative juror analysis, because this was "first-stage" Wheeler/Batson case, in that the trial court denied defendant's motions after concluding he had failed to make out a prima facie case, and not a "third-stage" case, in which trial court concludes prima facie case has been made, solicits explanation of peremptory challenges from prosecutor, and only then determines whether defendant has carried burden of demonstrating group bias. People v. Howard (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 1000, 1016-1020, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 264, 175 P.3d 13

In penalty phase of capital murder prosecution, defendant made no prima facie showing of purposeful discrimination in prosecution's striking of only two African-Americans in 78-person juror pool, when information elicited in voir dire showed race-neutral reasons for excusing both prospective jurors. Prosecution's striking of all three Hispanic women but none of five Hispanic men in juror pool did not establish prima facie case, when statistical frequency with which prosecution struck Hispanics from juror pool provided no basis to infer discrimination. Prosecution's use of 20 strikes on women, of whom there were 30 in jury pool, and 10 on men did not make out prima facie case of group bias against women, when ultimate composition of jury mirrored that of juror pool, prosecution's pattern of peremptories did not suggest it attempted to or did deprive defendant of jury containing fair cross-section of men and women, and record disclosed gender-neutral reasons for strikes to which defendant objected under Batson/Wheeler. People v. Bonilla (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 313, 343-350, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 209, 160 P.3d 84

In capital murder prosecution, in which there was jury trial only in penalty phase after defendant pleaded guilty and admitted special circumstances of murder in course of rape and of burglary, trial court properly denied defendant's Batson/Wheeler motion on finding of no prima facie case of discrimination; trial court did not err in determining prima facie case had not been made as to two Hispanic jurors because after defendant challenged prosecutor's first exercise of peremptory challenge against Hispanic juror, prosecutor articulated neutral bases for challenge, and defendant failed to request that court revisit prior challenge after second challenge to Hispanic juror; and trial court did not err in finding no prima facie case with respect to African-American juror, because significant number of his stepchildren and blood relatives had been in trouble with law and had been to prison, he had personally been involved in helping some of his relatives through criminal justice system, all of which taken together constituted substantial race-neutral basis for peremptory challenge, and he was only prospective black juror peremptorily challenged, when at time of challenge a black woman had been seated on jury and there was subsequent seating of another black juror. People v. Williams (2006) 40 Cal. 4th 287, 308-313, 52 Cal. Rptr. 3d 268

In capital robbery-murder prosecution, defendant did not carry burden of showing discriminatory challenges exercised by prosecution against potential African-American jurors, even though defendant presented prima facie case in prosecutor's exercise of peremptory challenges to four African-American female and one prospective African-American male jurors because they were only African-Americans in jury box, when defendant did not contest peremptory challenge to male prospective juror and court shared prosecutor's concerns as to one female prospective juror; and when trial court scrutinized sincerity and credibility of prosecutor's stated reason for exercising peremptory challenges against other female prospective jurors, which was "sympathy for defendant," and accepted proffered reason as sincere, and record of hearing on new trial motion lent considerable support to trial court's conclusion that prosecutor was sincere. People v. Stanley (2006) 39 Cal. 4th 913, 935-945, 47 Cal. Rptr. 3d 420, 140 P.3d 736

Trial court properly denied habeas corpus petition brought after capital murder conviction, when record did not support former prosecutor's later claim that he had acted on basis of standard procedure in district attorney's office with motive to discriminate on basis of religion by peremptorily challenging Jewish prospective jurors from death penalty cases, when prosecutor had determined all three jurors were undesirable and rated them unfavorably before he even allegedly considered their religion; when claim that prosecutor exercised peremptory challenges on impermissible basis rested entirely on his credibility, which was impeached at habeas corpus evidentiary hearing; and when prosecutor had motive to claim that he excused Jewish jurors from capital juries in accordance with standard practice in order to embarrass district attorney's office. In re Freeman (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 630, 643-645, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 850, 133 P.3d 1013

In capital murder prosecution, trial court properly denied defendant's and co-defendants' Batson/Wheeler motions challenging prosecutor's use of peremptory challenges against black and Hispanic prospective jurors, when comparative juror analysis was not employed in trial court because prosecutor used numerical scoring system, in which he compared jurors to each other, since prosecutor's system of scoring produced numerical score for each prospective juror based on his or her own answers to certain death-penalty-related questions on questionnaire and scores attributed to particular prospective jurors were not dependent on scores of others, and when side by side comparisons of black prospective juror as to whom prosecutor exercised peremptory challenge and white prospective juror as to whom prosecutor did not failed to demonstrate purposeful discrimination because side-by-side comparison revealed that they were not similarly situated. Further, trial court was not required to ask prosecutor to provide race-neutral explanations for earlier excusing black prospective juror because of suspect excusal of second black prospective juror, when although trial court noted that, in view of small number of African-Americans on panel, two excusals constituted prima facie showing, earlier excusal was merely a part of totality of relevant facts to be considered in determining prima facie case of group bias on Wheeler objection, which was made as to second black prospective juror only. People v. Avila (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 491, 540-552, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1, 133 P.3d 1076

In capital murder prosecution, trial court properly denied defendant's Batson/Wheeler motion after first finding prima facie case of impermissible discrimination based on prosecutor's exclusion of eight African-American prospective jurors in course of exercising 15 peremptory challenges, when trial court found prosecutor's reasons for excusing prospective jurors to be genuine and candid and not pretextual, and trial court explained at length that many of prosecutor's observations of prospective jurors' demeanors and attitudes matched its own and commented that prosecutor's voir dire of black prospective jurors as opposed to other prospective jurors was not perfunctory, unsavory, shallow or desultory, but was thorough and lengthy and virtually same as his voir dire of other prospective jurors; and when given trial court's well-reasoned and sincere effort to evaluate nondiscriminatory justifications prosecutor offered, its conclusions were entitled to deference on appeal. Further, on a comparative prospective juror analysis, substantial evidence supported trial court's ruling with regard to each prospective juror, and prosecutor gave reasons showing he honestly viewed prospective jurors he challenged as not similarly situated, in legitimate respects, to those he accepted. People v. Huggins (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 175, 226-236, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 593, 131 P.3d 995

In capital murder prosecution, prosecutor's peremptory challenges to African-American prospective jurors and alternate jurors did not violate defendant's rights under state and federal constitutions, when even assuming prima facie showing as to all challenged jurors, substantial evidence supported prosecutor's explanation with regard to prospective jurors and their attitudes toward death penalty and other issues. Further, five out of 12 sitting jurors were African-Americans, and four out of those five were women. People v. Ward (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 186, 199-205, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 464

In capital murder prosecution, trial court properly held defendant failed to make out prima facie case of discriminatory exercise of peremptory challenges in prosecutor's challenges to African-American female jurors, when, although African-American women are cognizable group, record suggested grounds on which prosecutor might have reasonably challenged these prospective jurors. People v. Young (2005) 34 Cal. 4th 1149, 1170-1174, 24 Cal. Rptr. 3d 112, 105 P.3d 487

In capital murder prosecution, trial court did not err by denying defendant's Wheeler motion by determining that defendant failed to establish prima facie case of purposeful discrimination by prosecution, when record disclosed grounds on which prosecutor properly might have made his peremptory challenge against African-American juror, including that he apparently had substantial acquaintance with persons engaged in criminal activity, he held negative view of nature of penalty of life imprisonment without possibility of parole and similarly negative view of administration of penalty of death as random, and his comments on various points suggested that he may have been lacking in attention, in conformity with trial court's observation, which was uncontradicted and unobjected to by defense counsel, that he was asleep during most of voir dire. Because defendant failed to satisfy Wheeler, he likewise failed to satisfy Batson. People v. Griffin (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 536, 553-557, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 743, 93 P.3d 344

In capital murder prosecution, trial court did not err in denying defense motions that prosecution improperly exercised peremptory challenges against four African-American prospective jurors based on their race, when valid reasons for the first excusal were apparent. A prospective juror expressed doubt she could handle sentencing someone to death or participating in decision. Other statements that she could follow law and return death verdict warranted court's denial of prosecutor's challenge for cause, but her overall reservations about death penalty provided race-neutral explanation for her challenge. A second prospective juror also expressed reservations about death penalty, a third prospective juror had son who had been in county jail on criminal charges and she had seen psychiatrist for stress following job-related injury, and a fourth prospective juror worked as "seamer" although she had licenses as nurse and psychiatric technician and her husband was starting some kind of group home. As to third and fourth prospective jurors, prosecutor requested court to ask follow-up questions and court denied the request. The prosecutor's attempt to question them further also suggested nonracial motivation for their excusal. Although defendants were themselves African-Americans, so too were their victims; although key prosecution witness was white, trial court reasonably concluded that circumstance did not compel finding of a prima facie case. Moreover, although at first prosecutor exercised peremptory challenges against African-Americans at somewhat higher rate than percentage of their presence on jury panel, overall statistics were not particularly suspicious. People v. Cleveland (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 704, 732-734, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 236, 86 P.3d 302

In prosecution for first degree murder, trial court properly rejected defense motion challenging prosecutor's peremptory excusal of two Hispanic jurors as unconstitutionally based on group bias, when prosecutor's reasons for excusing two jurors, one juror based on her being counselor for at-risk youth and feeling that she would have undue sympathy for defendants because they were young and if not at risk, past risk, and as to second juror because prosecutor felt she did not have enough educational experience and it seemed like she was not paying attention to proceedings, was not involved in process and would not be good juror, and when record did not contradict trial court's determination that no

Wheeler error occurred. People v. Reynoso (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 903, 914-929, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 769, 74 P.3d 852

In prosecution of African-American man for murder of child of his white girlfriend, trial court properly found that defendant failed to establish prima facie case that prosecutor used peremptory challenges improperly to challenge all three prospective African-American jurors, when trial court properly cited "strong likelihood" standard from People v. Wheeler (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 258, 148 Cal. Rptr. 890, 583 P.2d 748 , which merely means that to state prima facie case, objector must show it is more likely than not other party's peremptory challenges, if unexplained, were based on impermissible group bias, in determining whether defendant had established a prima facie case, and "strong likelihood" standard was compatible with and did not violate Batson v. Kentucky (1986) 476 U.S. 79, 106 S. Ct. 1712, 90 L. Ed. 2d 69 . Further, when objecting party presents comparative juror analysis to trial court, reviewing court must consider that evidence, along with everything else of relevance, in reviewing, deferentially, trial court's ruling, but when such analysis was not presented at trial, reviewing court should not attempt its own comparative juror analysis for first time on appeal, especially when record supports trial court's finding of no prima facie case. People v. Johnson (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1302, 1312-1328, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1, 71 P.3d 270

In capital murder prosecution, trial court did not err in finding that defense failed to make out prima facie case that prosecutor challenged two African American prospective jurors on basis of their race, when, on whole record, prosecutor could reasonably have concluded jurors would be unfavorable penalty phase jurors. People v. Jones, 30 Cal. 4th 1084, 1102-1105, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 370, 70 P.3d 359

Prosecutor's excusal of Spanish-surnamed prospective juror was not based on race within meaning of Wheeler challenge, when, although "Spanish surnamed" sufficiently describes cognizable class Hispanic under Wheeler, exercise of peremptory challenge on that basis violates constitutional rights only when no one knows at time of challenge whether Spanish-surnamed prospective juror is Hispanic, and prospective juror had twice indicated on her juror questionnaire she was white, and when trial court asked her for record whether she was Hispanic, she replied " No." People v. Gutierrez (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 1083, 1123, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 373, 52 P.3d 572

In capital murder prosecution, prosecution did not impermissibly use its peremptory challenges to remove prospective jurors on basis of race, when, although defense had established prima facie case, prosecutor challenged each of eight black prospective jurors because prospective juror's views and attitudes regarding death penalty were adverse to prosecution and prospective juror's views about death penalty are permissible race- and group-neutral basis for exercising peremptory challenge in capital case, and when trial court's review of prospective jurors' questionnaires and voir dire of challenged jurors showed each had expressed views prosecutor could reasonably regard as unfavorable on penalty issue and trial court apparently concluded, with defense acquiescence, that there was no need to compare their expressed views with those of remaining prospective jurors in jury pool. People v. McDermott (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 946, 966-981, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 51 P.3d 874

In capital murder prosecution, trial court did not err in denying defendant's Wheeler/Batson motion claiming prospective juror was excluded because of his race, when trial court implicitly found defense made prima facie case of racial discrimination and substantial evidence supported determination; prosecutor then came forward with various reasons for excusing juror that did not reveal any racial intent, including that prosecutor objected to juror because of his possible reluctance to vote for death, his attitude toward court and counsel, his possible inability to get along with other jurors, and his seeming reluctance to serve, which court properly deemed to be race-neutral; and prosecutor's reasons were persuasive and not merely a pretext for discrimination, since prosecutor indicated her concern that juror might harbor anti-death bias based on his early religious training, trial court found concern to be valid position, religion was not only reason prosecutor gave, and trial court made sincere and reasoned effort to evaluate each stated reason for challenge to particular juror, to which reviewing court accords great deference, and trial court rejected defendant's claim of pretext, and prosecutor's reasons for excusing juror are not inherently implausible and find support in record. People v. Cash (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 703, 723-725, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 545, 50 P.3d 332

In capital murder case, given all circumstances before trial court, including number of African-American women left on jury, even assuming proper standard was more lenient reasonable-inference standard, trial court's ruling finding defendant had not established prima facie showing of group bias based on prosecutor's challenges to African-American prospective jurors was supportable. People v. Boyette (2002) 29 Cal. 4th 381, 422-423, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 544, 58 P.3d 391

In capital murder prosecution, substantial evidence supported trial court's determination that defendant failed to make prima facie showing of racial bias in jury selection, when defendant's only stated bases for establishing prima facie case were that four of first five peremptory challenges exercised by prosecution were for black prospective jurors, and very small minority of jurors on panel were black, since record disproved second factual assertion, and even assuming both assertions were factually accurate, they fell short of prima facie showing, when defendant was unable to show prosecutor had struck most or all of black members from venire, and when record disclosed ample grounds on which prosecution might reasonably have challenged excluded black jurors. People v. Farnam (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 107, 131-139, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 106, 47 P.3d 988

When defense counsel exercised discriminatory peremptory challenges due to group bias against white males, trial court did not err in denying defendant's motion to dismiss remaining venire and in continuing voir dire with original venire, when trial court, acting with prosecutor's consent, had discretion to consider and impose remedies or sanctions short of outright dismissal of entire venire. People v. Willis (2002) 27 Cal. 4th 811, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 301, 43 P.3d 130

During penalty phase of capital criminal trial, trial court erroneously and prejudicially denied defendant's motion to dismiss jury panel based on prosecutor's exercise of peremptory challenges against prospective jurors solely because of Hispanic ancestry or surnames, when after finding prima facie case of invidious discrimination, court erroneously permitted prosecutor to give reasons for peremptory challenges in ex parte hearings out of presence of defendant and defense counsel; and when, although record of voir dire failed to support some of prosecutor's reasons, trial court accepted every reason without inquiry and denied defense motion with result that no Hispanic served on jury that returned death verdict. People v. Silva (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 345, 375-386, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 93, 21 P.3d 769

In murder and attempted murder prosecution, record amply supported trial court's determination prosecutor offered race-neutral reasons for exercising his peremptory challenges to excuse prospective African-American jurors; accordingly, even if defendant had shown prima facie inference of discrimination, trial court did not err by concluding prosecutor's proffered reasons for strikes were genuine and not pretext for racial discrimination. People v. Adanandus (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 496, 500-511, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 25

Prosecutor did not violate constitutional rights of criminal defendant by using peremptory challenge to excuse sole African-American prospective juror who was pastor and whose spouse worked in county welfare department, where substantial evidence supported trial court's decision that prosecutor's reasons for excusing pastor were legitimate and race neutral. People v. Semien (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 701, 706-708, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 880

In murder prosecution, prosecutor's exercise of peremptory challenges against African-American potential jurors based on their skeptical attitudes toward criminal justice system expressed in their juror questionnaires was not racially discriminatory, where prosecutor reviewed questionnaires submitted by jurors and questioned jurors closely, and skeptical views for which he challenged them were not result of prosecutorial assumptions but were actually expressed by jurors themselves; and where fact that similar attitudes were held by many other African-Americans did not convert prosecutor's challenge into intentional race-based discrimination, since, assuming for purpose of argument attitudes reflected in jurors' questionnaire responses were common among African-Americans and rejecting jurors on those grounds would disproportionately exclude African-Americans as jurors, skepticism toward criminal justice system could not be seen to be so prevalent among African-Americans that it could be considered proxy for race. People v. Calvin (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 1377, 1383-1389, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 300

In murder prosecution, trial court properly determined that prosecutor did not use two peremptory challenges to excuse African-American women from jury venire for improper purpose, where although trial court determined defense counsel had established prima facie case because there was possible inference of discriminatory purpose, trial court properly performed its function in responding to defendant's Wheeler motion by making proper inquiry, requiring prosecutor to explain her peremptory challenges and allowing defense counsel to respond; where prosecutor's reasons were sufficient to sustain trial court's finding that peremptory challenges were not used in discriminatory manner; and where decision of United States Supreme Court in Snyder v. Louisiana (2008) 552 U.S.472, 128 S. Ct. 1203, 170 L. Ed. 2d 175 , did not require reversal because, although prosecutor used element of demeanor with respect to one prospective juror, demeanor was shown on record from her lateness and inability to follow court's instructions, so no further finding was needed. People v. Davis (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 305, 309-315, 78 Cal. Rptr. 3d 809

In criminal prosecution for variety of crimes, trial court applied incorrect legal standard of clear and convincing evidence to determine whether prosecutor's peremptory challenge of one African-American female potential juror was based on purposeful race discrimination, when opponent of peremptory challenge did not have burden of proving purposeful race discrimination by clear and convincing evidence applicable under Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996, but, rather, by preponderance of evidence as to whether neutral reasons offered to justify peremptory challenge were genuine or pretextual. People v. Hutchins (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 992, 996-999, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 105

In robbery prosecution, it was proper for trial court to require explanations from prosecution for peremptory challenges to only two of three prospective African-American jurors who were subject of African-American defendant's Batson/Wheeler motion, when trial court properly determined facts did not support inference of discrimination against one prospective juror. Further, trial court did not fail to elicit sufficient reasons for peremptory challenges of other two jurors, when prosecuting attorney disclosed she had mistakenly dismissed one prospective juror because she relied on information in questionnaire of another juror with same last name, genuine mistake was race-neutral reason for exercising peremptory challenge, and trial court was not required to make further inquiry as to genuineness of prosecutor's mistake because prosecutor fully explained source of her mistake and because it involved jury questionnaires and prospective jurors with same surnames, error was subject to objective verification. Finally, prosecutor's reason for excusing one prospective juror based on his body language was not too vague to rebut prima facie showing of group bias, when peremptory challenges based on alienating looks and gestures were race-neutral and not improper and fact that prosecutor had passed several times on making peremptory challenges before excusing prospective juror tended to support her explanation it was conduct by juror, not his race, that precipitated challenge. People v. Phillips (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 810, 814-819, 54 Cal. Rptr. 3d 678

In robbery prosecution, trial court properly denied defendant's Batson/Wheeler motion based on prosecutor's use of three of 10 peremptory challenges against prospective jurors who were African-American women, which was 75 percent of African-American jurors in jury box; prosecutor gave reasons demonstrating that she distinguished between jurors she challenged and those she accepted on valid, race-neutral grounds, trial court accepted those reasons, and substantial evidence in record supported trial court's. People v. Jordan (2006) 146 Cal. App. 4th 232, 245-259, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 18

In carjacking prosecution, defendant did not establish prima facie case of Batson violations in prosecution's exercise of peremptory challenges to jurors, even though all three of prosecutor's peremptory challenges were to jurors with Hispanic surnames, when numerous Hispanics remained on panel of prospective jurors, and when statistical circumstances of prosecution's peremptory challenges was not sufficient to raise inference of discriminatory purpose. People v. Buchanan (2006) 143 Cal. App. 4th 139, 145-149, 49 Cal. Rptr. 3d 137

In prosecution for attempted murder and other crimes, after court granted defense's Wheeler/Batson motion as to prosecutor's challenge of black prospective juror, trial court properly exercised its discretion to reseat challenged juror rather than dismiss venire, defense counsel implicitly consented to reseating of challenged juror, and defendant's personal consent was not required. However, it would be preferable and advisable for trial court to ensure that record reflects express consent of prevailing party when employing remedy other than dismissing entire venire. People v. Overby (2004) 124 Cal. App. 4th 1237, 1242-1245, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 233

Prosecutor impermissibly exercised peremptory challenges to remove two African-American women from jury requiring reversal of conviction for theft, receiving stolen property, possession of firearms and resisting arrest, when defendant made prima facie showing of discrimination by showing prosecutor excused only two African-American jurors in jury box, both of whom had experiences or contacts normally considered favorable to prosecution, and when whatever doubts there may have been as to sufficiency of prosecutor's explanation for challenging first juror, reasons for excusing second juror were incomprehensible and there was nothing in record to give them content. Inadequacy of prosecutor's explanation was compounded by manner in which trial court addressed defendant's motion by failing to make additional inquiry in light of vague and unsupported reasons offered by prosecutor. People v. Allen (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 542, 551-553, 9 Cal. Rptr. 3d 374

In murder prosecution, trial court properly ruled that prosecutor exercised peremptory challenges on basis of group bias and had no alternative but to dismiss remaining venire and grant motion for mistrial, when since challenged prospective jurors already had been excused, trial court did not have option of simply seating them notwithstanding challenge, and when trial court's finding of prosecutor's explanation for challenges, that prospective jurors would not understand technicalities of case, was entitled to deference. People v. Muhammad (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 313, 321-323, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 308

In prosecution for evading peace officer with willful disregard of safety of persons or property, possession of firearm by felon, and possession of marijuana, trial court properly denied defendant's Wheeler motion without finding prima facie case of group bias by prosecutor in excusing three black or Hispanic jurors, when record did not identify which of prosecutor's six peremptory challenges were at issue or race of any jurors. Record suggested race-neutral grounds on which prosecutor might have exercised some of her challenges, because brother of one challenged juror was public defender and prosecutor might reasonably believe he would be biased in favor of defendant or against prosecution, nephew of another challenged juror was incarcerated and prosecutor might reasonably be concerned this would make her sympathetic towards defendant, and a third challenged juror stated her close friend was "murdered" by prison guard, suggesting she might be biased against peace officers and all prosecution witnesses were peace officers; defendant failed to make record by which reviewing court could determine which challenged jurors were subject of his motion, waiving any assertion of error regarding denial of motion. People v. Morris (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 402, 407-409, 131 Cal. Rptr. 2d 872

Criminal defendant did not have standing to assert on appeal that, having found that defense counsel exercised peremptory challenges to exclude white males, in discriminatory manner, trial court erred in denying People's Wheeler motion to dismiss entire jury panel and venire and start voir dire with new venire; error was based on defendant's own counsel's improper exercise of peremptory challenges to exclude legally cognizable group. People v. Morris (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 402, 409-414, 131 Cal. Rptr. 2d 872

Trial court erroneously denied criminal defendant's motion to compel prosecution to justify exercise of peremptory challenges excusing only three African-American males in venire, when African-American males are cognizable class under Wheeler, and when defense counsel made prima facie case of discrimination on voir dire by showing there was no apparent legitimate reason to excuse one potential African-American male juror. People v. Gray (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 781, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 848

Trial court's finding of prima facie showing of group bias, subsequently refuted, was not binding as to subsequent motions alleging same group bias. People v. Irvin (1996) 46 Cal. App. 4th 1340, 1351, 54 Cal. Rptr. 2d 450

Selection of impartial jury in criminal proceedings is required under U.S. Const., amend VI as incorporated in U.S. Const., amend XIV and California law [Cal. Const., art. I, § 16] to be drawn from cross section of community; representatives of all economic, social, religious, racial, political, and geographical groups of community are not required to be contained in every jury, but prospective jurors must be selected without systematic and intentional exclusion of any of these groups. People v. Wheeler (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 258, 265-278, 148 Cal. Rptr. 890, 583 P.2d 748 (at p. 282, n.29 pointing out that applicability of decision to civil cases was not reached)

Party believing opponent in criminal cases is using peremptory challenges to strike jurors on ground of group bias alone must raise point in timely fashion and make prima facie case of such discrimination to satisfaction of court; party is required: (1) to make as complete record of circumstances as is feasible; (2) to establish that persons excluded are members of cognizable group within meaning of representative cross-section rule; and (3) from all circumstances of case to show strong likelihood that such persons are being challenged because of their group association rather than because of any specific bias. People v. Wheeler (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 258, 280, 148 Cal. Rptr. 890, 583 P.2d 748

If trial court in criminal case finds that prima facie case of group bias has been made in peremptorily challenging jurors, burden shifts to other party toshow, if party can, that peremptory challenges in question were not predicated on group bias alone. People v. Wheeler (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 258, 281, 148 Cal. Rptr. 890, 583 P.2d 748 ; see also People v. Johnson (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 296, 299, 148 Cal. Rptr. 915, 583 P.2d 774 (burden not sustained)

Prosecutor failed to demonstrate that juror was not excluded because of group bias, i.e., being African-American, when prosecutor placed great emphasis on juror's place of residence and purported to base his distrust of jurors from that place on past experience, when population of that place is substantially African-American, and stating that jurors from that place have different attitude toward drug culture is stereotypical. People v. Turner (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 413, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 138

Trial court erred in denying defendant's Wheeler motion, made after prosecutor excused two prospective jurors who were professed lesbians; gays and lesbians do in fact meet "cognizable group" criteria under rule prohibiting use of peremptory challenges on basis of group bias. People v. Garcia (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 1269, 1272, 1281-1282, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 339 ; see also 2000 Stats. ch. 43, § 1(b) (legislative intent in enacting Code Civ. Proc. § 231.5 is to codify this decision)

Peremptory challenges reflecting group bias and predicated on challenged jurors' inclusion in identifiable group distinguished on racial, religious, ethnic or similar grounds are unconstitutional in civil cases. Holley v. J & S Sweeping Co. (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 588, 591-592, 192 Cal. Rptr. 74

[6] Number of Jurors

After both plaintiff and defendant consented to allow jury to begin deliberations without twelfth juror, who was being examined by doctor, trial court's instruction to jury to begin deliberations, choose foreman, and continue when other juror returned, was not reversible error. Giouzelis v. McDonald (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 436, 444-446, 174 Cal. Rptr. 58

Fewer than 12 jurors are permitted, even without formal stipulation for smaller jury on minutes in open court, if there has been express stipulation in chambers, and if parties ratify smaller jury by participation without objection in trial. Meder v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 497, 504, 159 Cal. Rptr. 609

[7] Alternate Jurors

Defendant could not contend on appeal that alternate's mere presence in jury room during deliberations (although she did not participate in them and was not required to replace a juror) constituted reversible error because counsel for prosecution and defense in criminal case had stipulated that alternate juror could be sequestered with other jurors but was not to participate in jury deliberations so that, in event alternate had to replace regular juror, jury deliberations would not have to start all over again. People v. Valles (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 121, 123, 154 Cal. Rptr. 543, 593 P.2d 240 (distinguishing People v. Britton (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 622, 623, 52 P.2d 217 , on ground that case did not involve a stipulation of counsel, and discussing and rejecting contrary holding in People v. Bruneman (1935) 4 Cal. App. 2d 75, 81, 40 P.2d 891 , which did involve stipulation)

In action for breach of contract and negligent misrepresentation, reversal was not required because alternate juror was present in jury room for 15 minutes at beginning of jury's deliberations before her presence was discovered and she was removed, when trial judge instructed jurors to completely disregard anything they heard alternate juror say and begin deliberations over again without consideration of input from alternate, simple presence of alternate in jury room did not make error reversible per se, and presumption of prejudice was rebutted. Brassfield v. Moreland Sch. Dist. (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 67, 70-73, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 662

Substitution of alternate juror after submission of case to jury does not offend constitutional proscriptions so long as reconstituted jury is instructed to start deliberations anew. People v. Thomas (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1477, 1486, 267 Cal. Rptr. 865

Unless formally substituted, alternate juror is prohibited from entering jury room during deliberations. People v. Adame (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 402, 405, 111 Cal. Rptr. 462

[8] Duty of Jury on Separation During Trial

Juror may be discharged when trial court concludes that juror defied court's prohibition against taking his trial notes home and juror "failed to perform his duty to deliberate before reaching his decision." People v. Thomas (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 1328, 1332-1333, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 177

[9] Jury as Trier of Questions of Fact

Interpretation of contract, even though involving questions of fact, is judicial function, and only in rare cases, as when interpretation turns on credibility of extrinsic evidence, is party entitled to jury trial; even then, jury only determines facts; it does not interpret contract in light of those facts. Oceanside 84, Ltd. v. Fidelity Fed. Bank (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 1441, 1451, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 487

Issue of fact arises when presumption affecting burden of proof becomes operative. Evid. Code §§ 115, 606; Haycock v. Hughes Aircraft Co. (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 1473, 1495, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 248

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use to waive a jury trial if [Code Civ. Proc. § 631(a)(2); see § 322.18[2]]:

- There is no local printed form for that purpose, and
- The noticing party has previously demanded a jury trial.

Counties provide a printed form for the Memorandum That a Civil Case Is At Issue that includes a space reserved for an affirmative (e.g., demand) or negative (e.g., waiver) to the question of whether a party demands a jury. Before using this form, counsel should determine whether a local form is made available. If local forms are available and are applicable to the situation, they should be used instead of this form.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ (number) of] this court, located at _____ [name of building and street address], _____ [city], California, _____ [moving party, e.g., defendant] will, and hereby does, move, under Section 631 of the California Code of Civil Procedure, for a trial by jury in this action. This motion is made on the grounds that _____ [state grounds for motion, e.g., this is an action to recover damages resulting from earth movement underlying plaintiff's lot and home and thus a proper case for jury trial under Section 592 of the California Code of Civil Procedure]. The interest of justice will be served by a jury trial in this matter.

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, on the attached memorandum, the papers and records on file herein, [on such supplemental affidavits or declarations and memoranda of points and authorities as may be filed subsequently herein,] and on such oral and documentary evidence as may be presented at the hearing on this motion.

[b] Use of Form

The form in [a], above, is to notice a motion for jury trial for use by a party who has previously waived a jury trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 631(d); Day v. Rosenthal (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1176, 217 Cal. Rptr. 89 ; McIntosh v. Bowman (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 357, 363, 198 Cal. Rptr. 533 ; see § 322.18[3]]. A memorandum must be served and filed with the notice of motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a)]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities . For a form of declaration to use in support of the motion, see [2], below.

The form is based on the factual situation in Oakes v. McCarthy Co. (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 231, 264-265, 73 Cal. Rptr. 127 . There plaintiffs failed to demand a jury trial in their Memorandum That a Civil Case Is At Issue filed before two of the defendants had been served with summons and complaint. Subsequently, the pretrial conference that had been set pursuant to the memorandum was taken off calendar by stipulation of then plaintiffs' counsel and the appearing defendant's counsel. Therefore, an amended complaint was filed, the additional defendants served, and the case again set for trial [see Oakes v. McCarthy Co. (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 231, 264-265, 73 Cal. Rptr. 127] .

I, _____ [name], declare:

I am _____ [e.g., the attorney for the plaintiff/defendant and moving party herein].

This is an action for _____ [state type of action, e.g., damages resulting from earth movement underlying plaintiff's lot and home].

On or about _____ [date], I first learned that this action had been placed on the nonjury calendar of the Superior Court of _____ [county] and was scheduled to be tried by court and not by jury.

_____ [State facts showing moving party did not actually waive jury trial or that the waiver was through mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect, e.g., Moving party's original counsel failed to demand a jury trial in his/her Memorandum That a Civil Case Is At Issue. The Memorandum was filed before two of the defendants in this action had been served with summons and complaint. Subsequently, the pretrial conference set pursuant to the Memorandum was taken off calendar by stipulation of then plaintiff's counsel and the appearing defendant's counsel. [2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of the Judicial Council's form of juror questionnaire for civil cases [Judicial Council Form No. MC-001]. Use of this form is in the court's discretion to assist in the voir dire process or to ascertain whether a fair cross section of the population is represented as required by law [Code Civ. Proc. § 205(c), (d); cf. Code Civ. Proc. § 205(a), (b) (juror questionnaire for use by jury commissioner to qualify prospective jurors)].

The notes on the use of the form suggest that the court hold a pre-voir dire conference before the jury panel is called. This conference would address the use of the questionnaire, any supplemental questions proposed by counsel, and the extent of oral inquiry by court and by counsel. The notes also state that proposed supplemental questions drafted by counsel should be filed and served at least three court days before the pre-voir dire conference.

[3] Contents of Form

The Judicial Council's form of juror questionnaire for civil cases includes the following:

- Notes for the court regarding its use (Page A).

- An introduction and instructions section (Page B) that may be given to potential jurors to explain to them the use of the form and caution them that their answers are under penalty of perjury.

- General questions (Pages C-1 through C-4).

- A supplement to be used in personal injury cases (Page D).
- A verification (Page E).

[1] FORM Juror's Motion to Set Aside Sanctions and Order--Judicial Council Form [MC-070]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a reproduction of the Judicial Council's form for a motion by a juror to set aside monetary sanctions imposed by the court by default in lieu of imposing sanctions for contempt for failure to attend when summoned [Judicial Council Form MC-070; see Code Civ. Proc. § 209(b), (c)]. Use of this form is optional.

After a potential juror is summoned but fails to appear, the court may impose monetary sanctions on the potential juror [see Code Civ. Proc. § 209, Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1010; for discussion, see § 322.34]. This form can be used to move the court to set aside those sanctions. However, this form is not to be used to set aside a finding of contempt for failure to appear when summoned for jury duty [see Code Civ. Proc. § 209(a)]. For forms to be used in contempt proceedings, see Ch. 135, Contempt .

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

This chapter discusses personal jurisdiction and due process requirements, how personal jurisdiction is obtained, and persons who are immune to service of process or suit [see § 324.10 et seq.], the doctrine of inconvenient forum [see § 324.30 et seq.], motions to quash service or to stay or dismiss an action [see § 324.50 et seq.], and general and special appearances [see § 324.60 et seq.].

This chapter includes a procedural checklist for preparing motions to quash service of summons on ground of lack of personal jurisdiction or to stay or dismiss an action on the ground of inconvenient forum, as well as opposing such motions, hearings on the motions, and post hearing procedures, including appellate review [see § 324.130 et seq.].

This chapter includes the following forms relating to personal jurisdiction:

- Noticed motion, declaration, and order for proceedings to quash service of summons for lack of personal jurisdiction [see §§ 323.150-323.152].

- Noticed motion and declaration for proceedings to stay or dismiss actions for inconvenient forum [see §§ 323.153 and 323.154].

- Petition for writ of mandate and notice of filing petition to compel a trial court to quash service of summons or to stay or dismiss the action for inconvenient forum [see §§ 323.155 and 323.156].

- Combined noticed motion and order for proceedings to vacate and set aside a default and default judgment and to quash service of summons for lack of personal jurisdiction or to stay or dismiss the action for inconvenient forum [see §§ 323.157 and 323.158].

- Notice of appearance by a defendant in propria persona and by an attorney on behalf of a defendant [see §§ 323.170 and 323.171].

- Notice of general appearance waiving rights and consenting that the action or proceeding may be heard as an uncontested matter [see § 323.172].

- Notice of general appearance admitting service of the summons and complaint, waiving further notice, and waiving rights under the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act (formerly Known as the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940) and state statutes for members of the National Guard and military reservists [see § 323.173].

For whether a stipulation to extend time to plead is a general appearance within the meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 583.220 for the purposes of the mandatory dismissal statutes for failure to serve and return summons within a specified period (Code Civ. Proc. § 583.210), see Ch. 212, Dismissal .

§ 323.10 Governing Law

The guarantee of "due process of law" is set forth in U.S. Const., amends. V, XIV, and in Cal. Const., art. I, § 7(a). Immunity to civil process is governed by 22 U.S.C. §§ 254a-254d (foreign diplomatic agents; see also 28 U.S.C. § 1351, relating to jurisdiction), Cal. Const., art. IV, § 14 (California legislators), and Penal Code § 1555 (person brought into California on or after waiver of extradition based on a criminal charge). The immunity to civil and criminal process of nonresidents who are in or passing through California pursuant to a subpoena to attend and testify in a criminal matter or grand jury proceeding pursuant to the Uniform Act to Secure the Attendance of Witnesses From Without the State in Criminal Cases [Penal Code §§ 1334-1334.6] is governed by Penal Code §§ 1334.4 and 1334.5. The venue and jurisdiction of actions against national banks for which the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation has been appointed receiver are governed by 12 U.S.C. § 94.

The basis on which a California court may exercise jurisdiction is set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, the enactment of which was accompanied by the Judicial Council Comment to this section, entitled "Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction" [Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction, pp 69-91 of the 1969 Report of the Judicial Council of California to the Governor and the Legislature; see comments following Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10].

Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10 specifies the persons on whom a summons may be served, and Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10-415.50 govern the manner of service of summons [see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

Code Civ. Proc. §§ 418.10 and 1005(a)(4), (b) govern motions to quash service of summons for lack of personal jurisdiction, and Code Civ. Proc. §§ 410.30, 418.10, and 1005(a)(4), (b) govern motions to stay or dismiss an action for inconvenient forum. Code Civ. Proc. § 1167.4 also applies to such motions when made in a proceeding for unlawful detainer, forcible entry, or forcible detainer.

Code Civ. Proc. §§ 418.10(d) and 418.11 specify acts not constituting a general appearance [for additional discussion of acts not constituting a general appearance, see § 323.63].

Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(e) provides that a defendant or cross-defendant may make a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10 and simultaneously answer, demur, or move to strike the complaint or cross-complaint.

The judicial remedies available in California are set forth in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 20-30, and the forms of judicial relief available in Part One of Division 4 of the Civil Code, commencing with Civ. Code § 3274.

Chapter 323 JURISDICTION: PERSONAL JURISDICTION, INCONVENIENT FORUM, AND APPEARANCES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Personal Jurisdiction

28-323 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 323.11

§ 323.11 Definitions and Terminology

[1] Jurisdiction

Jurisdiction, in its broadest sense, means the power to hear and determine causes. Jurisdiction is generally divided into two components: subject matter jurisdiction and personal jurisdiction. Subject matter jurisdiction is the authority of a court to try actions of the type or class to which a suit belongs. Personal jurisdiction is the authority of a court over parties and properties. Stated another way, subject matter jurisdiction addresses whether a court has the authority to hear a particular type of suit, while personal jurisdiction addresses whether state and federal due process requirements are met based on the person's or property's relationship to the state.

The term "jurisdiction" does not have a single, fixed meaning, but has different meanings in different situations [St. Sava Mission Corp. v. Serbian Eastern Orthodox Diocese (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1354, 1365, 273 Cal. Rptr. 340] . The word "jurisdiction," in its judicial sense, means the power to hear and determine causes [Mueller v. Elba Oil Co. (1942) 21 Cal. 2d 188, 206, 130 P.2d 961 ; Gray v. Hall (1928) 203 Cal. 306, 314-315, 265 P. 246 ; see also In re Hughes (1911) 159 Cal. 360, 363, 113 P. 684 (jurisdiction, as applied to a particular claim or controversy, is the power to hear and determine that controversy); Crew v. Pratt (1897) 119 Cal. 139, 151, 51 P. 38 (jurisdiction to pronounce judgment or order under Code Civ. Proc. § 1908, relating to conclusiveness and effect of judgment, refers to the court's right or power to adjudicate a point); Ex Parte Bennett (1872) 44 Cal. 84, 88 (jurisdiction is the power to hear and determine, but includes the power to do both, to hear without determining, or to determine without hearing); Burns v. Municipal Court (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 596, 599, 16 Cal. Rptr. 64 (jurisdiction is the power of a court to hear and determine, or to act in a certain manner, and is synonymous with the power to render a valid judgment against a person)].

Jurisdiction is, however, a term of large and comprehensive import and embraces every kind of judicial action. Thus, every movement by a court is necessarily the exercise of jurisdiction [Harrington v. Superior Court (1924) 194 Cal. 185, 188, 228 P. 15] . The term embraces a large number of ideas of similar character, some fundamental to the nature of any judicial system, some derived from the requirement of due process, some determined by the constitutional or statutory structure of a particular court, and some based on mere procedural rules originally devised for convenience and efficiency, and by precedent made mandatory and jurisdictional [Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 280, 291 109 P.2d 942] .

For a more extensive discussion of the fundamentals of jurisdiction, including lack of jurisdiction, excess jurisdiction, jurisdiction required for a valid judgment, and jurisdiction to determine jurisdiction, see Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter, § 324.10 et seq.

For discussion of subject matter jurisdiction, including organization and subject matter of California courts, challenges to jurisdiction, and classification and reclassification of a superior court case, see Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter .

[2] Synonymous Terms

As used in this chapter, the terms "in personam jurisdiction" and "personal jurisdiction" are synonymous. The words "limited" and "specific," when referring to jurisdiction, are also synonymous [see, e.g., Sinatra v. National Enquirer, Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 854 F.2d 1191, 1195 ; Hirsch v. Blue Cross, Blue Shield of Kansas City (9th Cir. 1986) 800 F.2d 1474, 1477] .

The more common spelling, "domicile," is used in this part in lieu of the spelling "domicil," except when quoting another source.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Personal Jurisdiction

28-323 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 323.12

§ 323.12 In Personam Jurisdiction

[1] Coextensive With Constitutional Limits

A California court may exercise jurisdiction on any basis not inconsistent with the Constitution of California or of the United States [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10; see, e.g., Cornelison v. Chaney (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 143, 147, 127 Cal. Rptr. 352, 545 P.2d 264 ; In re Marriage of Martin (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1426, 1433, 255 Cal. Rptr. 720 ; Professional Travel, Inc. v. Kalish & Rice, Inc. (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 762, 765, 245 Cal. Rptr. 159] .

Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10 is commonly referred to as California's "long-arm" statute [see, e.g., Asahi Metal Industry Co. v. Superior Court (1987) 480 U.S. 102, 106, 107 S. Ct. 1026, 94 L. Ed. 2d 92 ; Magnecomp Corp. v. Athene Co. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 526, 535, 257 Cal. Rptr. 278] . This is because the statute, with respect to personal jurisdiction, manifests an intent to confer on California courts the broadest possible jurisdiction, limited only by constitutional considerations [Sibley v. Superior Court (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 442, 445, 128 Cal. Rptr. 34, 546 P.2d 322 ; Jamshid-Negad v. Kessler (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 1704, 1707, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 621] . Otherwise stated, Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10 authorizes California courts to exercise jurisdiction on any basis not inconsistent with the United States or California constitutions [Vons Companies, Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 434, 444, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899, 926 P.2d 1085] , and the statute has been construed to provide that the personal jurisdiction of the California state courts is coextensive with the outer limits of due process as defined by the U.S. Supreme Court [Pacific Atlantic Trading Co. v. M/V Main Exp. (9th Cir. 1985) 758 F.2d 1325, 1327 ; Paccar Intern., Inc. v. Commercial Bank of Kuwait (9th Cir. 1985) 757 F.2d 1058, 1062] .

[2] Subject to Due Process Requirements

Due process requires that the defendant be given adequate notice of the suit and be subject to the personal jurisdiction of the court [World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson (1980) 444 U.S. 286, 291, 100 S. Ct. 559] . Thus, a valid judgment imposing a personal obligation or duty in favor of the plaintiff may be entered only by a court having jurisdiction over the person of the defendant [Kulko v. California Superior Court (1978) 436 U.S. 84, 91, 98 S. Ct. 1690, 56 L. Ed. 2d 132 , reh'g denied, 438 U.S. 908 ; see International Shoe Co. v. Washington (1945) 326 U.S. 310, 316, 66 S. Ct. 154, 90 L. Ed. 95 ; Pennoyer v. Neff (1878) 95 U.S. 714, 732-733, 24 L. Ed. 565 ; Kaiser Aetna v. Deal (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 896, 899, 150 Cal. Rptr. 615 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1917 [for discussion of this section, see Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter, § 324.12]].

To establish personal jurisdiction, the plaintiff must show that the law of the forum state confers jurisdiction, and that its exercise would not be inconsistent with federal due process [Hirsch v. Blue Cross, Blue Shield of Kansas City (9th Cir. 1986) 800 F.2d 1474, 1477] .

For discussion regarding the immunity of certain individuals from a court's exercise of personal jurisdiction, see § 323.16.

[3] Classification of Actions for Jurisdictional Purposes

[a] Three Types: In Personam, In Rem, and Quasi in Rem

For jurisdictional purposes, civil actions and proceedings are classified as "in personam," "in rem," or "quasi in rem," depending on the nature of the judgment sought [see Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 199, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683] .

[b] Due Process Required in All Types of Actions

[i] Minimum Contacts

Whether classified as in personam, in rem, or quasi in rem, all actions and proceedings are really against persons. In other words, jurisdiction "over the thing" [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1917; for discussion of this section, see Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter, § 324.12], or the exercise of jurisdiction in rem or quasi in rem, refers to jurisdiction over the interests of persons in a thing. To justify an exercise of jurisdiction in rem or quasi in rem, the basis for jurisdiction must be sufficient to justify exercising jurisdiction over the interests of persons in a thing. The standard for determining whether an exercise of jurisdiction by a state court over the interests of persons is consistent with the due process clause of the U.S. Const., amend. XIV is the minimum contacts standard elucidated in International Shoe Co. v. Washington (1945) 326 U.S. 310, 316, 66 S. Ct. 154, 90 L. Ed. 95 [for discussion of this case, see § 323.14].

Thus, assertions of state court jurisdiction, whether the action is in personam, in rem, or quasi in rem, must comply with due process requirements and must be evaluated according to the minimum contacts standards set forth in decisions regarding in personam actions [Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 199 n.17, 207, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683, 699-700 ; see Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws, §§ 24, 27-52]. This rule applies to federal actions as well, under the due process clause of the Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution [see, e.g., Pacific Atlantic Trading Co. v. M/V Main Exp. (9th Cir. 1985) 758 F.2d 1325, 1327 (action based on federal court's admiralty jurisdiction; due process clause of Fifth Amendment determines whether the court has personal jurisdiction over the defendant, and state's long-arm statute determines defendant's amenability to suit in the forum)].

[ii] Reasonable Notice and Opportunity for Hearing

The exercise of personal jurisdiction over a defendant is limited by the due process clauses of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution. Notice and opportunity to be heard are essential ingredients of due process [see Hanson v. Denckla (1958) 357 U.S. 235, 245, 78 S. Ct. 1228, 2 L. Ed. 2d 1283 ; In re Raner (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 635, 642-643, 30 Cal. Rptr. 814, 381 P.2d 638] . Thus, under the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, a state may not exercise judicial jurisdiction over a person, although the person is subject to its judicial jurisdiction, unless a reasonable method is employed to give the person notice of the action and unless the person is afforded a reasonable opportunity to be heard [see Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws, § 25 (1971)]. For a discussion of the methods of giving notice in civil actions, that is, service of summons, see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 410.10-415.50 and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

The methods of giving notice may vary between actions in personam on the one hand and actions in rem or quasi in rem on the other. In the former type of action, personal service or substituted service (delivery of summons to third person for defendant) or service by mail is generally required, while in the latter types of actions constructive service (service by publication or by posting) may be sufficient. The statutes specifying the type of notice required in a given action, as well as the service statutes, must be consulted and complied with. However, in the case of substituted service, to be constitutionally sound the form of substituted service must be reasonably calculated to give an interested party actual notice of the proceedings and an opportunity to be heard in order that the traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice implicit in due process are satisfied [Zirbes v. Stratton (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1407, 1416, 232 Cal. Rptr. 653 ; see also In re Emily R. (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 1344, 1351-1355, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 285 (sufficiency of notice to satisfy due process in context of dependency proceeding)].

[c] In Personam Actions

If the court's jurisdiction is based on its authority over the defendant's person, the action and judgment are denominated in personam and the court can impose a personal obligation on the defendant in favor of the plaintiff [Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 199, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683] . Or, put another way, an action that seeks to impose a personal liability or obligation on the defendant in favor of another is an action in personam, and a judgment in personam is one that imposes a personal liability or obligation on one person in favor of another [Hanson v. Denckla (1958) 357 U.S. 235, 246 n.12, 78 S. Ct. 1228, 2 L. Ed. 2d 1283] . To impose such liability, the court must have jurisdiction over the person of the defendant [see Pennoyer v. Neff (1878) 95 U.S. 714, 732-733, 24 L. Ed. 565 (leading case, overruled on other grounds in Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 212 n.39, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1917; Kulko v. California Superior Court (1978) 436 U.S. 84, 91, 98 S. Ct. 1690, 56 L. Ed. 2d 132 ; Hartford v. Superior Court (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 447, 454, 304 P.2d 1 ; Titus v. Superior Court (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 792, 799, 100 Cal. Rptr. 477] .

Jurisdiction over the person of a defendant is normally secured by the service on that defendant of a summons [see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50(a); for further discussion of service of summons, and forms of summonses, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

Common examples of in personam judgments, in which personal jurisdiction over the defendant or respondent is necessary, are actions imposing contract or tort liability on the defendant in favor of the plaintiff by awarding the plaintiff a sum of money, and actions to enforce a duty of support or some other personal obligation growing out of the parent-child relationship [Hartford v. Superior Court (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 447, 454, 304 P.2d 1 ; see also Kulko v. California Superior Court (1978) 436 U.S. 84, 91, 98 S. Ct. 1690, 56 L. Ed. 2d 132 ; Titus v. Superior Court (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 792, 798-799, 100 Cal. Rptr. 477] .

[d] In Rem Actions

If a court's jurisdiction is based on the court's power over property within its territory, the action is called "in rem" or "quasi in rem," and the effect of a judgment in such a case is limited to the property that supports jurisdiction and does not impose a personal liability on the property owner, since he or she is not before the court [Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 199, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683] . A judgment in rem is one that affects the interests of all persons in designated property [Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 199 n.17, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683 ; Hanson v. Denckla (1958) 357 U.S. 235, 246 n.12, 78 S. Ct. 1228, 2 L. Ed. 2d 1283 ; Title etc. Restoration Co. v. Kerrigan (1907) 150 Cal. 289, 306-308, 88 P. 356 ; Estate of Davis (1902) 136 Cal. 590, 596, 69 P. 412 ; Estate of Johnson (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 785, 791, 43 Cal. Rptr. 913] .

An action or proceeding that determines the status of the parties, such as their marital status, is also an action or proceeding in rem [see, e.g., In re Hanley (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1109, 1119, 245 Cal. Rptr. 441 , overruled on other grounds in Leadford v. Leadford (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 571, 575 n.5, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 9 ; Mungia v. Superior Court (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 280, 284, 37 Cal. Rptr. 285] .

In in rem actions or proceedings, personal jurisdiction over the defendant or respondent is ordinarily not required [see Titus v. Superior Court (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 792, 798, 100 Cal. Rptr. 477] , but the court must have jurisdiction over the res, that is the thing which is the subject of the action [see People v. $6,500 U.S. Currency (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1542, 1546, 264 Cal. Rptr. 294 ; In re Hanley (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1109, 1119, 245 Cal. Rptr. 441 (overruled on other grounds in Leadford v. Leadford (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 571, 575 n.5, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 9); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1917]. However, if the object of the action or proceeding is to fasten a relationship on the defendant, rather than to sever a relationship, the action is in personam rather than in rem, and personal jurisdiction over the defendant is required [see Hartford v. Superior Court (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 447, 453-457, 304 P.2d 1 (action to declare defendant plaintiff's father)].

An in rem action or proceeding exists only where it is authorized by statute [Lee v. Silva (1925) 197 Cal. 364, 371, 240 P. 1015] . Founded on physical power, the in rem jurisdiction of a state court is limited by the extent of the state court's power and by the coordinate authority of sister states. The basis of in rem jurisdiction is the presence of the subject property or the status involved within the territorial jurisdiction of the forum state [see Hanson v. Denckla (1958) 357 U.S. 235, 246, 78 S. Ct. 1228, 2 L. Ed. 2d 1283 (property); In re Hanley (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1109, 1119, 245 Cal. Rptr. 441 (marriage status; overruled on other grounds in Leadford v. Leadford (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 571, 575 n.5, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 9); Titus v. Superior Court (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 792, 798, 100 Cal. Rptr. 477 (custody of children presently within California)].

A validation action is also a proceeding in rem [Code Civ. Proc. § 860; see Bernardi v. City Council (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 718, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 895 (judgment in validation action held not to be modifiable because it was in rem, operating against property, rather than being injunctive in nature)].

[e] Quasi in Rem Actions

[i] Defined

If a court's jurisdiction is based on the court's power over property within its territory, the action is called "in rem" or "quasi in rem," and the effect of a judgment in such a case is limited to the property that supports jurisdiction and does not impose a personal liability on the property owner, since he or she is not before the court [Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S.186, 199, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683] . A judgment quasi in rem affects the interests of particular persons in designated property [Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 199 n.17, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683 ; Title etc. Restoration Co. v. Kerrigan (1906) 150 Cal. 289, 308, 88 P. 356] . As in the case of an in rem action, the court must have jurisdiction over the res, that is, the thing or property that is the subject of the action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1917].

[ii] Two Types of Quasi in Rem Proceedings Distinguished

There are two types of quasi in rem actions or proceedings. In the first type the plaintiff is seeking to secure a preexisting claim in the subject property and to extinguish or establish the nonexistence of similar interests of particular persons [Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 199 n.17, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683 ; Hanson v. Denckla (1958) 357 U.S. 235, 246 n.12, 78 S. Ct. 1228, 2 L. Ed.2d 1283] . Examples are actions to foreclose a street assessment lien [Lee v. Silva (1925) 197 Cal. 364, 369, 240 P. 1015] and actions to quiet title to land [see Park v. Powers (1935) 2 Cal. 2d 590, 598, 42 P.2d 75] .

In the second type of quasi in rem action, the plaintiff seeks to apply what he or she concedes to be the property of the defendant to the satisfaction of a claim the plaintiff has against the defendant [Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 199 n.17, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683 ; Hanson v. Denckla (1958) 357 U.S. 235, 246 n.12, 78 S. Ct. 1228, 2 L. Ed. 2d 1283] .

Before the second type of quasi in rem jurisdiction may be obtained, it is essential that some property of the defendant be actually subjected to the court's control prior to any judgment by a procedure such as attachment, garnishment, or receivership [Fount Wip, Inc. v. Golstein (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 184, 189, 108 Cal. Rptr. 732 (quoting from Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 1, Jurisdiction, § 150 (2nd ed. 1970); see, e.g., Goodwine v. Superior Court (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 481, 483, 47 Cal. Rptr. 201, 407 P.2d 1 (attachment); Atkinson v. Superior Court (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 338, 342, 316 P.2d 960 , appeal dismissed, 357 U.S. 569 (1958) (receivership); Nichols v. Superior Court (1934) 1 Cal. 2d 589, 599, 36 P.2d 380 (same); Murray v. Murray (1896) 115 Cal. 266, 276-277, 47 P. 37 (same); Root v. Superior Court (1962) 209 Cal. App. 2d 242, 246, 25 Cal. Rptr. 784 (garnishment); Guay v. Superior Court (1957) 147 Cal. App. 2d 764, 768, 305 P.2d 990 (same)]. For discussions and forms for use in attachment proceedings, see Ch. 62, Attachment , For discussions and forms for use in garnishment proceedings, see Ch. 276, Garnishment . For discussions and forms for use in receivership proceedings, see Ch. 486, Receivers .

[iii] Defendant's Interest and Nature of Property

The defendant's interest in the property must be a present interest [Fount Wip, Inc. v. Golstein (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 184, 189, 108 Cal. Rptr.732] , and the property must be of a kind subject to one of the provisional remedies mentioned in [ii], above. For example, contingent obligations may be so ephemeral as not to be subject to attachment, and their purported attachment cannot confer quasi in rem jurisdiction. Thus, an insurer's obligation under a motor vehicle policy to indemnify and defend its insured is so contingent and uncertain that it is not subject to garnishment and attachment and cannot be the basis of quasi in rem jurisdiction in an action arising out of an automobile accident involving the insured vehicle [see Rush v. Savchuk (1980) 444 U.S. 320, 328-330, 100 S. Ct. 571, 62 L. Ed. 2d 516 ; Javorek v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 629, 632-647, 131 Cal. Rptr. 768, 552 P.2d 728 ; see also Neihaus v. Superior Court (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 340, 344-345, 137 Cal. Rptr. 905] .

[iv] Limitations in Quasi in Rem Jurisdiction

A court cannot obtain quasi in rem jurisdiction by attaching, garnishing, or putting a receiver in charge of defendant's property in the forum state if the court would not have personal jurisdiction over the defendant because of the defendant's lack of sufficient minimum contacts with the state to satisfy the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution [see International Shoe Co. v. Washington (1945) 326 U.S. 310, 316, 66 S. Ct. 154, 90 L. Ed. 95 ; for minimum contacts requirement, see § 323.12[3][b][i] and § 323.14[3]]. That is, for a court to obtain quasi in rem jurisdiction over a defendant's property in the state, the defendant must have or have had certain minimum contacts with the state such that maintenance of the underlying action in the state would not offend traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice" [see Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 212-217, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683 (holding unconstitutional Delaware's sequestration statute authorizing the court to compel the appearance of a nonresident defendant by the seizure and court-ordered sale of defendant's property within the state)].

California's long-arm statute (Code. Civ. Proc. § 410.10) allows process to be served on a defendant or respondent anywhere in the world [see Code. Civ. Proc. §§ 413.10, 415.10-415.50]. Thus, it would appear that the use of the second type of quasi in rem jurisdiction, in view of Shaffer, would be limited to cases where a nonresident defendant, having the required minimum contacts with California, has property in California subject to attachment, garnishment, or receivership in the action, but his or her present whereabouts are unknown or he or she is a California domiciliary who has avoided the service of process.

If the plaintiff can, in such a case, subject the defendant's real or personal California property to the court's control by the provisional remedy of attachment, garnishment, or receivership, the action can proceed to judgment and the claim can be satisfied to the extent possible out of the property seized [see Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 199 ; Goodwine v. Superior Court (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 481, 483, 47 Cal. Rptr. 201, 407 P.2d 1] .

[4] Procedure for Obtaining Personal Jurisdiction

Provided there is a proper basis for exercising personal jurisdiction over a defendant or respondent [for specific bases of judicial jurisdiction, see § 323.15], a California court acquires personal jurisdiction over a defendant by the service on him or her of a summons in compliance with the service statutes (discussed in Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers) or by the defendant's general appearance in the action or proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50(a); see also, e.g., Neihaus v. Superior Court (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 340, 345, 137 Cal. Rptr. 905 ; for discussion of appearances, see § 323.60 et seq.].

For example, with regard to nonresident defendants, there must exist a basis for exercising personal jurisdiction arising from the defendant's sufficient minimum contacts with California [for discussion of minimum contacts, see § 323.14[3]]. Given this basis, the court must then acquire personal jurisdiction by service or process in strict compliance with the requirements of the service statutes. On a by a specially appearing nonresident defendant under Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10, a plaintiff must establish that both criteria are met [Ziller Electronics Lab GmbH v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 1222, 1229, 254 Cal. Rptr. 410 ; for establishing a lack of jurisdiction, see § 323.17].

[5] Jurisdiction to Determine Personal Jurisdiction

A trial court's jurisdiction to determine personal jurisdiction is distinct from its general jurisdiction to make a binding determination against a defendant relating to the merits of the action. Special jurisdiction to determine jurisdiction is plenary and may not be terminated or inhibited by other courts until the jurisdictional issues are determined [Ziller Electronics Lab GmbH v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 1222, 1228, 254 Cal. Rptr. 410] . While in personam jurisdiction over a defendant depends on valid service and demonstration of minimum contacts, the trial court's jurisdiction to determine jurisdiction arises from the act of service of the complaint and summons and from the defendant's special appearance in the action to compel a preliminary determination of jurisdictional issues [Ziller Electronics Lab GmbH v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 1222, 1229, 254 Cal. Rptr. 410] .

Since jurisdiction to consider an issue is coextensive with jurisdiction to determine it, it follows that the trial courts have jurisdiction to make a determination as to each jurisdictional criterion that is raised by a motion to quash. This jurisdiction is not threatened by either a negative determination of one criterion or the particular priority in which the criteria are determined [Ziller Electronics Lab GmbH v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 1222, 1229, 254 Cal. Rptr. 410] .

§ 323.13 Continuation of Jurisdiction Once Obtained

Once the court obtains jurisdiction over the parties, jurisdiction of the court over the parties and the subject matter of an action continues throughout subsequent proceedings in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50(b); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 410.60 (jurisdiction over trustees and stockholders or members of corporation which has forfeited its charter or right to do business or has dissolved); *Code Civ. Once acquired, jurisdiction is not defeated by subsequent events which might have prevented jurisdiction had they occurred before personal service of the action was made [Goldman v. Simpson (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 255, 263, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 729 (continuing jurisdiction to enforce money judgment; renewal is not subject to attack on the ground that the debtor has insufficient personal contacts with California to establish personal jurisdiction when the renewal is entered)].

28-323 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 323.14

§ 323.14 Due Process Requirements Protecting Nonresident Defendants

[1] Fourteenth Amendment

The due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution operates as a limitation on the jurisdiction of state courts to enter judgments affecting rights or interests of nonresident defendants [see Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 U.S. 186, 198-200, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683] . In determining whether a particular exercise of a state court's jurisdiction is consistent with due process, the inquiry must focus on the relationship among the defendant, the forum, and the litigation [Keeton v. Hustler Magazine, Inc. (1984) 465 U.S. 770, 775, 104 S. Ct. 1473, 79 L. Ed. 2d 790 ; Rush v. Savchuk (1980) 444 U.S. 320, 327, 100 S. Ct. 571, 62 L. Ed. 2d 516 ; Secrest Machine Corp. v. Superior Court (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 664, 668, 190 Cal. Rptr. 175, 660 P.2d 399 ; Great-West Life Assurance Co. v. Guarantee Co. of North America (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 199, 205, 252 Cal. Rptr. 363] .

[2] Effect of First Amendment Rights

In weighing the contacts with the forum state of a nonresident defendant for the purposes of due process, rights under the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution do not enter into the jurisdictional analysis since the infusion of such considerations would needlessly complicate an already imprecise inquiry. Moreover, the chill on protected First Amendment activity stemming from libel and defamation actions, for example, is already taken into account in the constitutional limitations on the substantive law governing such suits, and to reintroduce those concerns at the jurisdictional stage would be a form of double counting [Calder v. Jones (1984) 465 U.S. 783, 790, 104 S. Ct. 1482, 79 L. Ed. 2d 804 , aff'g Jones v. Calder (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 128, 132, 187 Cal. Rptr. 825] .

[3] Minimum Contacts Requirement

The due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution does not contemplate that a state may make binding a judgment in personam against an individual or a corporate defendant with which the state has no contacts, ties, or relations [World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson (1980) 444 U.S. 286, 294, 100 S. Ct. 559, 62 L. Ed. 2d 490 ; Perkins v. Benguet Consol. Min. Co. (1952) 342 U.S. 437, 447, 72 S. Ct. 413, 96 L. Ed. 485, 63 Ohio

Law Abs. 146 ; Haisten v. Grass Valley Medical Reimbursement (9th Cir. 1986) 784 F. 2d 1392, 1396] .

In a line of cases beginning with International Shoe Co. v. Washington (1945) 326 U.S. 310, 66 S. Ct. 154, 90 L. Ed. 95 , the U.S. Supreme Court has defined the parameters of the powers of the states to compel nonresidents to defend suits brought against them in state courts [Cornelison v. Chaney (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 143, 147, 127 Cal. Rptr. 352, 545 P.2d 264] . The general rule is that for a state court to exercise in personam jurisdiction over a nonresident defendant, the defendant must have certain minimum contacts with the forum state such that maintenance of the suit does not offend traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice [International Shoe Co. v. Washington (1945) 326 U.S. 310, 316, 66 S. Ct. 154, 90 L. Ed. 95 ; see Jewish Defense Organization, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1045, 1054, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611] .

The constitutional touchstone of the determination whether an exercise of personal jurisdiction comports with due process is whether the defendant purposefully established minimum contacts in the forum state [Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 U.S. 462, 474, 105 S. Ct. 2174, 85 L. Ed. 2d 528 ; see also World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson (1980) 444 U.S. 286, 291, 100 S. Ct. 559, 62 L. Ed. 2d 490] . The rule applies to individual defendants as well as to corporate defendants [Arnesen v. Raymond Lee Organization, Inc. (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 991, 996, 107 Cal. Rptr. 744] . It does not, however, apply to plaintiffs. That is, the U.S. Supreme Court has not yet required a plaintiff to have minimum contacts with the forum state before permitting that state to assert personal jurisdiction over a nonresident defendant [Keeton v. Hustler Magazine, Inc. (1984) 465 U.S. 770, 779, 104 S. Ct. 1473, 79 L. Ed. 2d 790] .

The fact that a state court may exercise jurisdiction over an out-of-state corporation does not necessarily mean that the court may also assert jurisdiction over its employees, nor does jurisdiction over a parent corporation automatically establish jurisdiction over a wholly owned subsidiary. Each defendant's contacts with the forum state must be assessed individually [Keeton v. Hustler Magazine, Inc. (1984) 465 U.S. 770, 781 n.13, 104 S. Ct. 1473, 79 L. Ed. 2d 790 ; see also Serafini v. Superior Court (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 70, 78-80, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 159 (contacts of nonresident officer and director of out of state parent corporation not sufficient to give rise to jurisdiction)]. The exercise of general jurisdiction over a parent corporation of another nation will be upheld under the representative services doctrine if a subsidiary in another state, over which personal jurisdiction is established, has performed functions that are compatible with and assist the parent corporation in the pursuit of the parent's own business as a foreign operating company [Dorel Industries, Inc. v. Superior Court (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 1267, 1280, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 742] .

A finding of sufficient minimum contacts as a basis for imposing personal jurisdiction is not necessary when a nonresident is served with summons while in the forum state. The nonresident's presence in California, for example, when service of process is effected satisfies the jurisdictional requirement [see Silverman v. Superior Court (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 145, 150, 249 Cal. Rptr. 724 ; for discussion of presence as a basis for jurisdiction, see § 323.15[2][a]]. The court may, nevertheless, conclude that California is an inconvenient forum and decline to exercise jurisdiction on that ground [for discussion of inconvenient forum, see § 323.30 et seq.].

The concept of minimum contacts performs two related, but distinguishable, functions: (1) it protects the defendant against the burdens of litigating in a distant or inconvenient forum, and (2) it acts to ensure that the states, through their courts, do not reach out beyond the limits imposed on them by their status as coequal sovereigns in a federal system [World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson (1980) 444 U.S. 286, 291-292, 100 S. Ct. 559 62 L. Ed. 2d 490 ; see Vons Companies, Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 434, 445, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899, 926 P.2d 1085 ; see also Cassiar Mining Corp v. Superior Court (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 550, 554, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 167 (requirement prevents defendants from being subjected to California jurisdiction solely as result of random, fortuitous, or attenuated contacts; it affords nonresidents some degree of predictability and certainty about when they will be subjected to jurisdiction of forum state)].

[4] Nonphysical Entry Into Forum State

[a] Commercial Efforts

Jurisdiction over a nonresident defendant may not be avoided merely because the defendant did not physically enter the forum state. Although territorial presence frequently will enhance a potential defendant's affiliation with a state and reinforce the reasonable foreseeability of suit there, it is an inescapable fact of modern commercial life that a substantial amount of business is transacted solely by mail and wire communications across state lines, thus obviating the need for physical presence within a state in which business is conducted. So long as a commercial actor's efforts are purposefully directed toward residents of another state, the absence of physical contacts cannot defeat personal jurisdiction there [Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 U.S. 462, 476, 105 S. Ct. 2174, 85 L. Ed. 2d 528] .

Thus, a forum state does not exceed its powers under the due process clause if it asserts personal jurisdiction over a corporation that delivers its products into the stream of commerce with the expectation that they will be purchased by consumers in the forum state [World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson (1980) 444 U.S. 286, 297-298, 100 S. Ct. 559, 62 L. Ed. 2d 490] . If the sale of a product of a manufacturer or distributor, for example, is not simply an isolated occurrence, but arises from the efforts of the manufacturer or distributor to serve, directly or indirectly, the market for its product in other states, it is not unreasonable to subject it to suit in one of those states if its allegedly defective merchandise has there been the source of injury to its owners or to others [World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson (1980) 444 U.S. 286, 297, 100 S. Ct. 559, 62 L. Ed. 2d 490 ; for discussion of limited jurisdiction over nonresident defendants, see § 323.14[6][d]].

By purposefully and successfully soliciting business of California residents, a foreign corporation can reasonably anticipate being subject to litigation in California in the event their solicitations caused an injury to a California resident. Personal jurisdiction is appropriate for Nevada hotels that conducted no business in California and had no bank accounts or employees in California, but are licensed to do business in California, have an Internet website advertising to California residents, have a wholly owned subsidiary operating offices in California to assist customers who contact those offices and attempt to attract a limited number of high-end gaming patrons to Nevada gaming hotel properties, advertised extensively in California through billboards, newspapers, and radio and television stations located in California, listed a toll-free phone number for making reservations at their hotels in their California advertisements and on their website, and many of their California patrons used this number to make reservations, and regularly sent mailings advertising their hotels to selected California residents [Snowney v. Harrah's Entertainment, Inc. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 1054, 1064-1065, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 33, 112 P.3d 28] .

California may constitutionally assert personal jurisdiction over a nonresident telemarketing corporation when a California resident initiates a phone call to buy a product and reaches a telemarketer who handles the order, and the telemarketer then initiates a sale of a separate product (referred to as an "upsell") and allegedly makes misrepresentations during the sales pitch for the separate product. Telemarketers who upsell a product to residents of a forum state have purposefully availed themselves of the privileges of conducting activities within the forum state [West Corp. v. Superior Court (2004) 116 Cal. App. 4th 1167, 1177-1178, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 145] .

The minimal resales of a product in California by a distributor, standing alone, do not amount to the substantial, continuous, and systematic contacts with the forum state necessary for the exercise of general jurisdiction over a foreign manufacturer doing business in its home country. Random sales in Italy to a distributor who happens to have an office in California but may resell its products anywhere are not tantamount to an effort to serve the market in this state [Carretti v. Italpast (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 1236, 1253-1254, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 126] .

A manufacturer's placement of goods in the stream of commerce with the expectation that they will be purchased or used by consumers in California indicates an intention to serve the California market directly or indirectly and constitutes purposeful availment if the income earned by the manufacturer from sale or use of its product in California is substantial [Bridgestone Corporation v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 767, 775, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 673] .

[b] Electronic Contact

In an appropriate case, the requisite minimum contacts can be electronic [see Hall v. LaRonde (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 1342, 1347, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 399] . In Hall, the court reversed a judgment of dismissal arising from the trial court's granting of defendant's motion to quash service of the summons holding that use of electronic mail and the telephone by a party in another state may establish sufficient minimum contacts with California to support personal jurisdiction [Hall v. LaRonde (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 1342, 1344, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 399] .

An attorney's mere physical presence or absence in California is not determinative of jurisdiction over the attorney and his or her firm where the practice of law in the state occurs by the attorney's advising a California client on California law in connection with a California legal dispute by telephone, fax, computer, or other modern technological means [Birbrower, Montalbano, Condon & Frank v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 119, 128-128, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 304, 949 P.2d 1 ; Simons v. Steverson (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 693, 713, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 193 (sufficient minimum contacts for jurisdiction over out-of-state attorney and firm where attorney, a California licensed lawyer, performed legal services for California residents and therefore, practiced law in state]. Conversely, when an out-of-state resident's only contact with California is a one-time purchase from a California company for out-of-state delivery, minimum contacts are not established [Hunt v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 901, 906, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 215] .

The California Supreme Court has reviewed the federal cases addressing Internet websites and their impact on personal jurisdiction, but has not adopted a particular approach whether a website available in California by itself is "doing business" in the state [Snowney v. Harrah's Entertainment, Inc. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 1054, 1064, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 33, 112 P.3d 28] . However, the Court did find that a Nevada hotel chain website, by any standard, established purposeful availment by touting the proximity of their hotels to California, providing driving directions from California to their hotels, specifically targeting residents of California; many of their patrons come from California and some of these patrons undoubtedly made reservations using their website. As such, the hotel purposefully derived a benefit from their Internet activities in California [Snowney v. Harrah's Entertainment, Inc. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 1054, 1064-1065, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 33, 112 P.3d 28] .

Traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice do not allow the exercise of jurisdiction over a defendant who merely maintains a website advertisement in one state and has no contacts with the forum state other than maintaining an essentially passive home page that is accessible to citizens of the forum state, and everyone else, over the Internet [Cybersell, Inc. v. Cybersell, Inc. (9th Cir. 1997) 130 F.3d 414, 415, 420 (distinguishing cases involving interactive websites and greater levels of actual contact)]. Nor may California properly assert jurisdiction over nonresident defendants based on their contracting with one or more Internet service providers who happen to maintain offices in California, so as to permit defendants to operate passive website from their New York residence when the Internet providers were engaged by a corporate defendant from its computer in New York [see Jewish Defense Organization, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1045, 1057-1062, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611 (defamation action)]. By themselves, the acts of registering a nickname or alias with Yahoo!, a California-based Internet message board, agreeing to Yahoo!'s terms of service, and posting allegedly defamatory messages on Yahoo! do not justify subjecting a nonresident defendant to California jurisdiction for purposes of a lawsuit brought by a third party about whom the allegedly defamatory messages were about [Nam Tai Electronics, Inc. v. Titzer (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 1301, 1311-1313, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 769 (terms of agreement included a promise not to post any content that is unlawful, defamatory, libelous, or otherwise objectionable, that the relationship between the person registering and Yahoo! shall be governed by the laws of the State of California, and that both agree to submit to the personal and exclusive jurisdiction of the California courts)].

The California Supreme Court has addressed the issue of personal jurisdiction involving the Internet and has concluded that where a defendant's sole contact with California is the posting of source code on his Internet website, accessible to any person with Internet access, and where he owned no property, had no telephone listing, and conducted no business in California, personal jurisdiction does not exist for California courts [Pavlovich v. Superior Court (2002) 29 Cal. 4th

262, 268-279, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 329] . In Pavlovich, the California Supreme Court considered for the first time the scope of personal jurisdiction based solely on Internet use, and concluded that a California court improperly exercised personal jurisdiction over a defendant based on a posting on an Internet website. This case involved a defendant whose sole contact with California was the posting of source code on his Internet website, accessible to any person with Internet access; the source code allowed users to decrypt data contained on DVDs and enable the placement of the decrypted data onto computer hard drives or other storage media. The defendant owned no property, had no telephone listing, and conducted no business in California. The website merely posted information and had no interactive features. Because of the defendant's apparent lack of minimum contacts with California, the court reduced the matter to the consideration of one question: whether the defendant's knowledge that his tortious conduct may harm certain industries centered in California (the motion picture, computer, and consumer electronics industries) is sufficient to establish express aiming at California. Although the record lacked any indication that the defendant knew that California residents would be detrimentally affected by his actions, plaintiffs suggested that jurisdiction exists solely because the defendant's tortious conduct had a foreseeable effect in California. The court rejected this argument, finding that mere foreseeability is not enough for jurisdiction: "Because finding jurisdiction in this case would effectively subject all intentional tortfeasors whose conduct may harm industries in California to jurisdiction in California, we decline to do so." [Pavlovich v. Superior Court (2002) 29 Cal. 4th 262, 278]. In a subsequent case, the Court of Appeals found a seller's maintenance of the website alone was insufficient to establish personal jurisdiction where the website did not target California residents, and the Florida seller presented evidence that it had never owned or leased property in California, had never directly advertised in the state, had never intentionally targeted any California resident as a prospective customer, and had sold only 10 vehicles to California residents out of a total of more than 40,000 vehicles sold [Shisler v. Sanfer Sports Cars, Inc. (2006) 146 Cal. App. 4th 1254, 1261, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 335] .

[5] Fair Play and Substantial Justice Requirements

[a] Reasonableness and Fairness

The strictures of the due process clause forbid a state from exercising personal jurisdiction over a defendant under circumstances that would offend "traditional notices of fair play and substantial justice" [Asahi Metal Industry Co. v. Superior Court of California (1987) 480 U.S. 102, 113, 107 S. Ct. 1026, 94 L. Ed. 2d 92 ; Vons Companies, Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 434, 444, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899, 926 P.2d 1085] . Thus, once it has been decided that a defendant purposefully established minimum contacts with the forum state, these contacts may be considered in light of other factors to determine whether the assertion of personal jurisdiction would comport with fair play and substantial justice [Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 U.S. 462, 476, 105 S. Ct. 2174, 85 L. Ed. 2d 528 ; Cornelison v. Chaney (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 143, 147-148, 127 Cal. Rptr. 352, 545 P.2d 264 ; Great-West Life Assurance Co. v. Guarantee Co. of North America (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 199, 209, 252 Cal. Rptr. 363] .

The protection against inconvenient litigation is typically described in terms of "reasonableness" or "fairness" [World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson (1980) 444 U.S. 286, 292, 100 S. Ct. 559, 62 L. Ed. 2d 490 ; see, e.g., Vons Companies, Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 434, 445, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899, 926 P.2d 1085 (state's exercise of personal jurisdiction is limited to ensure fairness to nonresident defendant and by mutual limits on state's sovereign power to exercise jurisdiction in a federal system); Cornelison v. Chaney (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 143, 147, 127 Cal. Rptr. 352, 545 P.2d 264 (the general rule is that the forum state may not exercise jurisdiction over a nonresident unless his or her relationship to the state is such as to make the exercise of such jurisdiction reasonable); Buckeye Boiler Co. v. Superior Court (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 893, 898, 80 Cal. Rptr. 113, 458 P.2d 57 (a defendant not literally present in the forum state may not be required to defend itself in that state's tribunals unless the quality and nature of the defendant's activity in relation to the particular cause of action makes it fair to do so)].

Consequently, while the interests of the forum state and of the plaintiff in proceeding with the cause in the plaintiff's forum of choice are to be considered in determining whether there is a proper basis for the exercise of in personam jurisdiction over the defendant, an essential criterion in all cases is whether the quality and nature of the defendant's activity is such that it is reasonable and fair to require the defendant to conduct a defense in the state [Kulko v. California Superior Court (1978) 436 U.S. 84, 92, 98 S. Ct. 1690, 56 L. Ed. 2d 132] .

Thus, the minimum requirements inherent in the concept of "fair play and substantial justice" may defeat the reasonableness of jurisdiction even if the defendant has purposefully engaged in forum activities [Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 U.S. 462, 477-478, 105 S. Ct. 2174, 85 L. Ed. 2d 528] . However, a defendant who purposefully has directed his or her activities at forum residents and who seeks to defeat jurisdiction, must present a compelling case that the presence of some other considerations would render jurisdiction unreasonable [Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 U.S. 462, 477, 105 S. Ct. 2174, 85 L. Ed. 2d 528 ; Haisten v. Grass Valley Medical Reimbursement (9th Cir. 1986) 784 F. 2d 1392, 1397] .

When California is asked to exercise specific jurisdiction over a particular claim and the court is satisfied the defendant purposefully availed itself of the benefits of conducting business within California, the appropriate inquiry becomes whether the plaintiff's cause of action arises out of or has a substantial connection with a business relationship defendant has purposefully established within California. The courts thus asks:

- What is the business relationship between the defendant and the California-based interests;

- What is the claim asserted by the plaintiff against the defendant; and

- Is there a substantial nexus or relationship between the two because the latter arises out of or it substantially connected to the former?

The first inquiry addresses the purposeful availment issue, and the latter two inquiries focus on whether the particular claim is substantially related to the defendant's forum contacts [VirtualMagic Asia, Inc. v. Fil-Cartoons, Inc. (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 228, 239-240, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1] .

Where a complaint alleges that a defendant, during the course of his employment, acquired trade secrets and other confidential information regarding his California-based employer's products, customers, and employees, which he then used to cause harm to the employer and thus to the employer's customers and to its business revenues in California, a court may find that claims raised are directly related to the defendant's contacts with California in that they arise from the employment relationship, and that the requisite substantial nexus exists between the controversy at issue and the defendant's contacts with California [Integral Development Corp. v. Weissenbach (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 576, 587, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 24] .

[b] Mechanical Tests Are Inappropriate

The minimum contacts test, like any standard that requires a determination of reasonableness, is not susceptible of mechanical application; rather, the facts of each case must be weighed to determine whether the requisite affiliating circumstances are present [Kulko v. California Superior Court (1978) 436 U.S. 84, 92, 98 S. Ct. 1690, 56 L. Ed. 2d 132 ; see also Floyd J. Harkness Co. v Amezcua (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 687, 691, 131 Cal. Rptr. 667] . There are no talismanic jurisdictional formulas, and the facts of each case must always be weighed in determining whether personal jurisdiction would comport with fair play and substantial justice [Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 U.S. 462, 485-486, 105 S. Ct. 2174, 85 L. Ed. 2d 528] . Thus, the California Supreme Court, in the context of litigation involving food poisoning that occurred in Washington and brought against Washington franchisees based on their on-going relationship with their California franchisor, held that personal jurisdiction cannot turn on mechanical tests such as a narrow proximate cause test, a broader "but for" test, or a "substantive relevance" test. The Court questioned the utility of these tests when the court's basic task is determining whether the exercise of jurisdiction would comport with "fair play and substantial justice" [Vons Companies, Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 434, 475, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899, 926 P.2d 1085] .

[c] Factors Considered

In determining whether the exercise of in personam jurisdiction would comport with fair play and substantial justice, the courts, in appropriate cases, may evaluate [Asahi Metal Industry Co. v. Superior Court (1987) 480 U.S. 102, 113, 107 S. Ct. 1026, 94 L. Ed. 2d 92 ; Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 U.S. 462, 476-477, 105 S. Ct. 2174, 85 L. Ed. 2d 528 ; World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson (1980) 444 U.S. 286, 292, 100 S. Ct. 559, 62 L. Ed. 2d 490 ; Jewish Defense Organization, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1045, 1054, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611 ; Great-West Life Assurance Co. v. Guarantee Co. of North America (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 199, 209, 252 Cal. Rptr. 363] :

I. The burden on the defendant.

II. The forum state's interest in adjudicating the dispute.

III. The plaintiff's interest in obtaining convenient and effective relief.

IV. The interstate judicial system's interest in obtaining the most efficient resolution of controversies.

V. The shared interest of the several states in furthering fundamental substantive social policies.

These considerations sometimes serve to establish the reasonableness of jurisdiction on a lesser showing of minimum contacts than would otherwise be required [Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 U.S. 462, 476-477, 105 S. Ct. 2174, 85 L. Ed. 2d 528 ; Haisten v. Grass Valley Medical Reimbursement (9th Cir. 1986) 784 F.2d 1392, 1397 ; Vons Companies, Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 434, 448, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899, 926 P.2d 1085] . For example, when the offending events occur outside California and there are insufficient contacts between the nonresident defendant and California to justify the exercise of general jurisdiction, limited jurisdiction may nevertheless be invoked when there exists a substantial nexus between plaintiff's cause of action and defendant's activities in California [Vons Companies, Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 434, 448, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899, 926 P.2d 1085 ; Cornelison v. Chaney (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 143, 149, 127 Cal. Rptr. 352, 545 P.2d 264 ; see Keeton v. Hustler Magazine, Inc. (1984) 465 U.S. 770, 773-774, 104 S. Ct. 1473 (defendant corporation's regular circulation of magazines in forum state as sufficient to support assertion of jurisdiction in libel action by nonresident plaintiff based on contents of magazine); for discussion of general and limited jurisdiction over nonresidents, see § 323.14[6]]. Put another way, once it is established that the defendant has engaged in activity of the requisite quality and nature in the forum state and that the cause of action is sufficiently connected with this activity, the propriety of an assumption of jurisdiction depends on a balancing of the inconvenience to the defendant in having to defend itself in the forum state against both the interest of the plaintiff in suing locally and the interrelated interest of the state in assuming jurisdiction [Buckeye Boiler Co. v. Superior Court (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 893, 899, 80 Cal. Rptr. 113, 458 P.2d 57 ; Magnecomp Corp. v. Athene Co. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 526, 539, 257 Cal. Rptr. 278] .

In deciding whether jurisdiction may reasonably be assumed, the court must analyze the nature and quality of the defendant's activities in relation to the state, and this requires a consideration of the following criteria [Belmont Industries, Inc. v. Superior Court (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 281, 286, 107 Cal. Rptr. 237] :

(1) The interest of the state in providing a forum for its residents and in regulating the business involved;

(2) The relative availability of evidence and the burden of defense and prosecution in one place rather than another;

(3) The ease of access to an alternative forum;

(4) The avoidance of multiplicity of suits and conflicting adjudications; and

(5) The extent to which the cause of action arose out of the defendant's activities in the forum state.

Consequently, the factors considered in determining whether the court has in personam jurisdiction will overlap to some extent those factors considered in determining whether a court having in personam jurisdiction is nevertheless an inconvenient forum for the trial of the case.

[d] Additional Factors When Defendant Is National of Foreign Country

The unique burdens placed on a foreign national to defend itself in a foreign legal system should have significant weight in assessing the reasonableness of stretching the long arm of personal jurisdiction over national borders, although when minimum contacts have been established, often the interests of the plaintiff and the forum in the exercise of jurisdiction will justify even the serious burdens placed on the alien defendant [Asahi Metal Industry Co. v. Superior Court (1987) 480 U.S. 102, 114, 107 S. Ct. 1026, 94 L. Ed. 2d 92 (holding that jurisdiction was not justified in the case before it, which involved a claim for indemnification by a Taiwanese corporation against a Japanese company)].

Great care and reserve should be exercised by state courts when extending American notions of personal jurisdiction into the international field. Thus, a court, in ruling on a motion to quash, should consider the procedural and substantive policies of other nations whose interests are affected by the assertion of jurisdiction by a state court. These procedural and substantive interests of other nations in a state court's assertion of jurisdiction over an alien defendant will differ from case to case, but in every case those interests, as well as the federal interest in its foreign relations policies, will be best served by a careful inquiry into the reasonableness of the assertion of jurisdiction in the particular case, and an unwillingness to find the serious burdens on an alien defendant outweighed by minimal interests on the part of the plaintiff and or forum state [Asahi Metal Industry Co. v. Superior Court (1987) 480 U.S. 102, 115, 107 S. Ct. 1026, 94 L. Ed. 2d 92] .

[6] Two Types of Personal Jurisdiction Over Nonresident Defendants

[a] General and Limited Jurisdiction

In personam jurisdiction is of two types, general and limited [Cornelison v. Chaney (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 143, 147-148, 127 Cal. Rptr. 352, 545 P.2d 264 ; Great-West Life Assurance Co. v. Guarantee Co. of North America (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 199, 204, 252 Cal. Rptr. 363] . That is, minimum contacts may give rise to the exercise of "general" or "limited" jurisdiction over the person of a nonresident defendant, depending on the nature of the defendant's contacts with California [see Hirsch v. Blue Cross, Blue Shield of Kansas City (9th Cir. 1986) 800 F. 2d 1474, 1477 ; Hunt v. Erie Ins. Group (9th Cir. 1984) 728 F.2d 1244, 1246 ; Thiebaut v. Blue Cross of Indiana (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 1157, 224 Cal. Rptr. 277 ; but see Boaz v. Boyle & Co. (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 700, 717, 46 Cal. Rptr. 2d 888 (while minimum contacts suffice for specific (i.e., limited) personal jurisdiction, standard for general jurisdiction considerably more stringent)].

[b] Limited Jurisdiction Also Referred to as Specific Jurisdiction

Limited jurisdiction is frequently referred to as "specific" jurisdiction [see, e.g., Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 U.S. 462, 472, 105 S. Ct. 2174, 85 L. Ed. 2d 528 ; Sinatra v. National Enquirer, Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 854 F. 2d 1191, 1195 ; Vons Companies, Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 434, 445, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899, 926 P.2d 1085 ; see also Tri-West Ins. Services, Inc. v. Seguros Monterrey Aetna, S.A. (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 672, 677, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 78 ; Stone v. State of Texas (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 1043, 1047, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 657 . This chapter, however, generally uses the term "limited jurisdiction."].

[c] General Jurisdiction Defined

General jurisdiction arises when a nonresident defendant's activities in the forum are so substantial and continuous that due process does not require a connection between the cause of action pleaded and the nature of the defendant's activities in the state [Perkins v. Benguet Consol. Min. Co. (1952) 342 U.S. 437, 446-447, 72 S. Ct. 413, 96 L. Ed. 485, 63 Ohio Law Abs. 146 ; Hunt v. Erie Ins. Group (9th Cir. 1984) 728 F.2d 1244, 1246] . Thus, it has been said that a court has general jurisdiction when the defendant's activities within the state are extensive or wide-ranging, or substantial, continuous, and systematic [Cornelison v. Chaney (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 143, 147, 127 Cal. Rptr. 352, 545 P.2d 264 ; Henderson v. Superior Court (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 583, 590, 142 Cal. Rptr. 478 ; see also Hirsch v. Blue Cross, Blue Shield of Kansas City (9th Cir. 1986) 800 F. 2d 1474, 1477 ; Haisten v. GrassValley Medical Reimbursement (9th Cir. 1986) 784 F.2d 1392, 1396 ; Jewish Defense Organization, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1045, 1054, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611] . In such a situation, there is a constitutionally sufficient relationship with the state to warrant jurisdiction for all causes of action asserted against the defendant and it is not necessary that the specific cause of action alleged be connected with the defendant's business relationship to the forum [Cornelison v. Chaney (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 143, 147, 127 Cal. Rptr. 352, 545 P.2d 264 ; see Perkins v. Benguet Consol. Min. Co. (1952) 342 U.S. 437, 446-448, 72 S. Ct. 413, 96 L. Ed. 485, 63 Ohio Law Abs. 146 (federal due process clause does not prohibit state court from entertaining cause of action against foreign corporation when cause of action arose from activities entirely distinct from corporation's activities within forum state); Koninklijke L.M. v. Superior Court (1951) 107 Cal. App. 2d 495, 500-501, 237 P.2d 297 (California court has jurisdiction over properly served nonresident defendant in transitory action having no relation to any of defendant's business within state when defendant's activities within state were regular, continuous, and substantial, and, hence, sufficient to render it amenable to suit); see also Vons Companies, Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 434, 444-446, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899, 926 P.2d 1085 ; Magnecomp Corp. v. Athene Co. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 526, 534, 257 Cal. Rptr. 278 ; In re Marriage of Martin (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1426, 1434, 255 Cal. Rptr. 720] .

General jurisdiction in the case of a nonresident corporation, for example, is viewed analogously to the presence of a natural person. A nonresident corporation which is doing business of a sufficiently substantial and continuous nature is treated as if it had a physical presence in the forum, placing it within the jurisdiction of the state as to causes of action independent from that business [Serafini v. Superior Court (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 70, 79-80, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 159] . When a corporation purposefully avails itself of the privilege of conducting activities within the forum state, it has clear notice that it is subject to suit there, and can act to alleviate the risk of burdensome litigation by procuring insurance, passing the expected costs on to its customers, or, if the risks are too great, severing its connection with the state [World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson (1980) 444 U.S. 286, 297, 100 S. Ct. 559, 62 L. Ed. 2d 490 ; St. Joe Paper Co. v. Superior Court (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 991, 999, 175 Cal. Rptr. 94 , cert. denied, 455 U.S. 982 (1982)] . When a corporation ceases to do business in the state there is no longer any general jurisdiction, that is, jurisdiction as to causes of action independent of that business [Serafini v. Superior Court (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 70, 80, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 159] .

The unilateral activity of those who claim some relationship with a nonresident defendant cannot satisfy the requirement of contact with the forum state [Jewish Defense Organization, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1045, 1058, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611] .

[d] Limited Jurisdiction Defined

If the defendant's activities within the state are not so pervasive as to justify the court's exercise of general jurisdiction, the court may nevertheless, in certain cases, exercise a limited, sometimes referred to as specific jurisdiction over the defendant with respect to a given cause of action [Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 U.S. 462, 474-475, 105 S. Ct. 2174, 85 L. Ed. 2d 528 ; Vons Companies, Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 434, 446, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899, 926 P.2d 1085 ; see Hall v. LaRonde (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 1342, 1345-1346, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 399] .

A three-part test has been developed for determining whether a defendant is subject to the forum state's specific jurisdiction: (1) The nonresident defendant must do some act or consummate some transaction with the forum or perform some act by which he purposefully avails himself of the privilege of conducting activities in the forum, thereby invoking the benefits and protections of its laws; (2) the claim must be one which arises out of or results from the defendant's forum-related activities; and (3) exercise of jurisdiction must be reasonable [Pedus Building Services, Inc. v. Allen (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 152, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 542 , citing Jewish Defense Organization, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1045, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611] .

Jurisdiction in these cases depends on the quality and nature of the defendant's activities in the forum in relation to the particular cause of action. That is, the cause of action must arise out of an act done or a transaction consummated in the forum, or the defendant must perform some other act by which he or she purposely availed himself or herself of the privilege of conducting activities in the forum, thereby invoking the benefits and protections of its laws [Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 U.S. 462, 474-475, 105 S. Ct. 2174, 85 L. Ed. 2d 528 ; Kulko v. California Superior Court (1978) 436 U.S. 84, 93-94, 98 S. Ct. 1690, 56 L. Ed. 2d 132 , reh'g denied, 438 U.S. 908 ; Hanson v. Denckla (1958) 357 U.S. 235, 253, 78 S. Ct. 1228, 2 L. Ed. 2d 1283 ; Sinatra v. National Enquirer, Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 854 F.2d 1191, 1195 ; Cornelison v. Chaney (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 143, 147-148, 127 Cal. Rptr. 352, 545 P.2d 264 ; Great-West Life Assurance Co. v. Guarantee Co. of North America (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 199, 205, 252 Cal. Rptr. 363 ; see also Hunt v. Erie Ins. Group (9th Cir. 1984) 728 F.2d 1244, 1247] . Thus, for example, a contract with an out-of-state party does not automatically establish purposeful availment in the other party's home forum. Rather, a court must evaluate the contract terms and the surrounding circumstances to determine whether defendant purposefully established minimum contacts within the forum. In these circumstances, "purposeful availment" requires that the defendant have performed some type of affirmative conduct that allows or promotes the transaction of business within the forum state [Goehring v. Superior Court (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 894, 907, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 105 ; accord Stone v. State of Texas (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 1043, 1048, 90 Cal.Rptr. 2d 657 (place of contracting not dispositive; place where contract executed far less important than where consequences of performing contract come to be felt)].

Limited jurisdiction over a nonresident defendant may also be found to exist when the defendant's only contact with the forum state is the purposeful direction of a foreign act having an effect in the forum state and the cause of action arose out of that effect [see Calder v. Jones (1984) 465 U.S. 783, 789, 104 S. Ct. 1482, 79 L. Ed. 2d 804 , aff'g, Jones v. Calder (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 128, 134, 187 Cal. Rptr. 825 ; Haisten v. Grass Valley Medical Reimbursement (9th Cir. 1986) 784 F. 2d 1392, 1397 ; see also discussion under § 323.15[2][i]], that is, when the defendant has purposefully directed his or her activities at residents of the forum, and the litigation results from alleged injuries that arise out of or relate to those activities [Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 U.S. 462, 472, 105 S. Ct. 2174, 85 L. Ed. 2d 528 ; see also Jewish Defense Organization, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1045, 1057, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611 (in tort cases, purposeful availment requirement for specific jurisdiction can be satisfied by effects test)]. The mere causing of an effect, however, is not necessarily sufficient to afford a constitutional basis for jurisdiction. Jurisdiction may be invoked only if the actor committed an out-of-state act intending to cause effects in California or reasonably expecting that effects in California would result [Goehring v. Superior Court (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 894, 908-909, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 105 ; see also Jewish Defense Organization, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1045, 1057-1062, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611 (in defamation action based on statements about plaintiff posted on passive website in New York, defendants' conduct of contracting via computer in New York with Internet service providers so as to permit them to operate passive website from their New York residence was insufficient to subject them to specific jurisdiction of California)].

Thus, the "purposeful availment" requirement is satisfied when a defendant takes deliberate actions within the forum state or creates continuing obligations to forum residents, or has "purposefully directed" his or her efforts or acts toward forum residents [Hirsch v. Blue Cross, Blue Shield of Kansas City (9th Cir. 1986) 800 F. 2d 1474, 1478 ; see also Sinatra v. National Enquirer, Inc. (9th Cir. (1988) 854 F. 2d 1191, 1195 ; Hall v. LaRonde (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 1342, 1345-1347, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 399 (use of electronic mail and telephone by party in another state established minimum contacts with California)]. However, California does not recognize conspiracy as a basis for acquiring personal jurisdiction over a party [Mansour v. Superior Court (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 1750, 1760-1761, 46 Cal. Rptr.

2d 191 (although neither United States nor California Supreme Court have considered issue, both focus on individual defendant's forum-related activity when deciding whether personal jurisdiction exists); but see Taylor-Rush v. Multitech Corp. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 103, 114, 265 Cal.Rptr. 672 (dictum that acts of coconspirator within California may give rise to jurisdiction over coconspirator in another state)].

A claim need not arise directly from the defendant's forum contacts in order to be sufficiently related to the contact to warrant the exercise of limited jurisdiction. Rather as long as the claim bears a substantial connection to the nonresident's forum contacts, the exercise of limited jurisdiction is appropriate. The United States Supreme Court has not provided precise criteria regarding the necessary relationship between the plaintiff's cause of action and the defendant's contacts in the forum. Rather, the court has stated the applicable standard in broader terms requiring only that plaintiff's cause of action be related to or arise out of the defendant's contacts with the forum. Thus, a state may exercise limited jurisdiction if there is a substantial connection or nexus between forum contacts and the litigation [Vons Companies, Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 434, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899, 926 P.2d 1085] . Defendant's forum activities need not be directed to the plaintiff to give rise to limited jurisdiction. Accordingly, a nonresident defendant may be subject to California limited jurisdiction if the defendant purposefully has availed itself of forum benefits through an ongoing franchise agreement and there is a substantial nexus or connection between the defendant's forum activities and the plaintiff's claim even though the plaintiff is not a party to the franchise contract [Vons Companies, Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 434, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899, 926 P.2d 1085 ; see also Cassiar Mining Corp v. Superior Court (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 550, 555, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 167 (even if nonresident defendant had severed any California connection long before suit, it still may be subject to state's limited jurisdiction if it has purposefully derived benefits from California activities, and lawsuit is related to or arises out of California contacts)]. The nexus required to establish limited jurisdiction is between the defendant, the forum, and the litigation, not between the plaintiff and defendant. In deciding whether a defendant has minimum contacts or purposefully has availed itself of forum benefits, the relevant contacts are said to be with the forum, because it is the defendant's choice to take advantage of opportunities that exist in the forum that subjects it to jurisdiction [Vons Companies, Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 434, 458, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899, 926 P.2d 1085 ; accord Cassiar Mining Corp v. Superior Court (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 550, 555, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 167] .

In addition, the exercise of jurisdiction must be reasonable [Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 U.S. 462, 477, 105 S. Ct. 2174, 85 L. Ed. 2d 528 ; Sinatra v. National Enquirer, Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 854 F.2d 1191, 1195 ; Haisten v. Grass Valley Medical Reimbursement (9th Cir. 1986) 784 F. 2d 1392, 1397 ; Hunt v. Erie Ins. Group (9th Cir. 1984) 728 F.2d 1244, 1247 ; Jewish Defense Organization, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1045, 1054, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611 ; see discussion under § 323.14[5]].

Thus, for example, it is reasonable to exercise jurisdiction on the basis of the defendant intentionally causing effects in the state by an omission or act done elsewhere whenever (a) the effects are of a nature that the state treats as exceptional and subjects to special regulation or (b) the defendant has, in connection with causing such effects in the forum state, invoked the benefits and protections of its laws [Mansour v. Superior Court (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 1750, 1761, 46 Cal. Rptr. 2d 191 ; Jamshid-Negad v. Kessler (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 1704, 1708, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 621] . Once minimum contacts are shown, a rebuttable presumption arises that the exercise of jurisdiction is reasonable, and the defendant bears the burden of ultimately proving that the exercise of jurisdiction is unreasonable [Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 U.S. 462, 477-478, 105 S. Ct. 2174, 85 L. Ed. 2d 528 ; Sinatra v. National Enquirer, Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 854 F.2d 1191, 1195 ; Vons Companies, Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 434, 449, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899, 926 P.2d 1085] .

The unilateral activity of those who claim some relationship with a nonresident defendant cannot satisfy the requirement of contact with the forum state [Hanson v. Denckla (1958) 357 U.S. 235, 253, 78 S. Ct. 1228, 2 L. Ed. 2d 1283 ; see Jewish Defense Organization, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1045, 1056, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611 ; see also Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 U.S. 462, 474, 105 S. Ct. 2174, 85 L. Ed. 2d 528 ; Kulko v. California Superior Court (1978) 436 U.S. 84, 93-94, 98 S. Ct. 1690, 56 L. Ed. 2d 132 , reh'g denied, 438 U.S. 908] .

When, however, the contacts that create a substantial connection with the forum state proximately result from the defendant's own actions, jurisdiction is proper [Asahi Metal Industry Co. v. Superior Court (1987) 480 U.S. 102, 109, 107 S. Ct. 1026, 94 L. Ed. 2d 92 ; Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 U.S. 462, 475, 105 S. Ct. 2174, 85 L. Ed. 2d 528] .

The "purposeful availment" requirement ensures that a defendant will not be haled into a jurisdiction solely as a result of random, fortuitous, or attenuated contacts, or of the unilateral activity of another party or a third person [Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 U.S. 462, 475, 105 S. Ct. 2174, 85 L. Ed. 2d 528 ; see, e.g., Yu v. Signet Bank/Virginia (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1377, 1385, 1386-1388, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 304 (unsophisticated California consumers who, pursuant to credit card solicitation by Virginia corporation, signed up for card, used card, and made payments on card, not subject to personal jurisdiction in Virginia)].

Thus, as the relationship of the defendant with the state seeking to exercise personal jurisdiction grows more tenuous, the scope of jurisdiction also retracts, and fairness is assured by limiting the circumstances under which the plaintiff can compel the defendant to appear and defend. The crucial inquiry concerns the character of the defendant's activity in the forum, whether the cause of action arises out of or has a substantial connection with that activity, and on the balancing of the convenience of the parties and the interests of the state in assuming jurisdiction [Cornelison v. Chaney (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 143, 148, 127 Cal. Rptr. 352, 545 P.2d 264 ; Thiebaut v. Blue Cross of Indiana (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 1157, 224 Cal. Rptr. 277 ; but see Boaz v. Boyle & Co. (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 700, 717, 46 Cal. Rptr. 2d 888 ; Magnecomp Corp. v. Athene Co. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 526, 534, 257 Cal. Rptr. 278 ; see also discussion under § 323.14[5]].

A defendant who has purposefully directed his or her activities at forum residents and who seeks to defeat jurisdiction must present a compelling case that the presence of other considerations would render jurisdiction unreasonable, although minimum requirements inherent in the concept of fair play and substantial justice may defeat the reasonableness of jurisdiction even if the defendant has purposefully engaged in forum activities [Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 U.S. 462, 477-478, 105 S. Ct. 2174, 85 L. Ed. 2d 528] .

[7] Judgment Rendered in Violation of Due Process Void

The due process clause of U.S. Const., amend. XIV, limits the power of a state court to render a valid personal judgment against a nonresident defendant. A judgment rendered in violation of due process is void in the rendering state and is not entitled to full faith and credit elsewhere [World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson (1980) 444 U.S. 286, 291, 100 S. Ct. 559, 62 L. Ed. 2d 490] . Consequently, while a valid final judgment of a sister state must be afforded full faith and credit in California, the defendant, in an action to enforce a default judgment rendered by a court of a sister state, has the right to show that the sister state court lacked in personam jurisdiction over the defendant, if that issue was not litigated in the sister state action [Indiana Insurance Co. v. Pettigrew (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 862, 864, 171 Cal. Rptr. 770 ; see Yu v. Signet Bank/Virginia (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1377, 1385, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 304 (before court is bound by judgment rendered in another state, it may inquire into jurisdictional basis of foreign court's decree)]. When another state has fully and fairly litigated its jurisdiction, and has finally decided the question, however, a second state may not reexamine the question [Yu v. Signet Bank/Virginia (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1377, 1393-1394, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 304] .

Chapter 323 JURISDICTION: PERSONAL JURISDICTION, INCONVENIENT FORUM, AND APPEARANCES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Personal Jurisdiction

28-323 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 323.15

§ 323.15 Specific Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction

[1] In General

The Judicial Council Comment to Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10 [see Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction, pp 69-91 of the 1969 Report of the Judicial Council of California to the Governor and the Legislature (hereafter cited as Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment)], sets out the following recognized bases of judicial jurisdiction over an individual [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals; see also Quattrone v. Superior Court (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 296, 302-303, 118 Cal. Rptr. 548 ; Titus v. Superior Court (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 792, 799, 100 Cal. Rptr. 477 ; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 27 (1971)]:

(1) Presence;

(2) Domicile;

(3) Residence;

(4) Nationality or citizenship;

(5) Consent;

(6) Appearance in the action;

(7) Doing business in the state;

(8) Doing an act in the state;

(9) Causing an effect in the state by an act done elsewhere;

(10) Ownership, use, or possession of a thing in the state; and

(11) Other relationships to the state which make the exercise of judicial jurisdiction reasonable.

The recognized bases of judicial jurisdiction over a corporation are, in turn, as follows [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Corporations; see also Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws §§ 41-52 (1971)]:

(1) Incorporation in the state;

(2) Consent;

(3) Appointment of agent for service of process;

(4) Appearance;

(5) Doing business in the state;

(6) Doing an act in the state;

(7) Causing effects in the state by an act done elsewhere;

(8) Ownership, use, or possession of a tangible thing in the state; and

(9) Other relationships to the state which make the exercise of judicial jurisdiction reasonable.

In California, a partnership or other unincorporated association may be sued in the firm or common name [see Code Civ. Proc. § 369.5]. In such a case the court has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over the partnership or association if under the circumstances it could exercise judicial jurisdiction over a corporation on a similar basis of jurisdiction [see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction over Partnerships or Other Unincorporated Associations; see also Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 40 (1971)].

[2] Over Individuals

[a] Presence

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual who is physically present within its territory, whether permanently or temporarily, if at that time he or she is properly served with process [see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals, (1) Presence; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 28 (1971); see also Silverman v. Superior Court (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 145, 150, 249 Cal. Rptr. 724] .

This presence gives the state a basis for the exercise of jurisdiction over the individual in any action that may be there brought against him or her. Physical presence is the most common and least frequently d basis of jurisdiction. But such presence must usually be voluntary. The court may decline to exercise its jurisdiction if force or fraud was used to effect such presence [see Guardianship of Smith (1957) 147 Cal. App. 2d 686, 691, 306 P.2d 86] . Another qualification grants immunity to service of process or suit to various persons [see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals; for further discussion of immunities to service or suit, see § 323.16].

In Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 28 (1971), cmt. a, the American Law Institute points out that physical presence in the state was the traditional basis of judicial jurisdiction at common law, that it is immaterial that the individual is only temporarily in the state, that the individual's presence in the state even for an instant gives the state judicial jurisdiction over him or her, and that if at that time exercise of this jurisdiction is initiated by proper service of process, and if the individual is afforded a reasonable opportunity to be heard, a valid judgment may be entered against the individual even though he or she leaves the state immediately after the service of process [see also Silverman v. Superior Court (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 145, 150, 249 Cal. Rptr. 724] .

Notwithstanding the foregoing discussion, the continued vitality of the rule, that presence in the state temporarily when summons is served is sufficient in and of itself to give the forum state personal jurisdiction over the person of a nonresident defendant for all causes of action, has been put in doubt. In Burnham v. Superior Court of Cal. (1990) 495 U.S. 604, 110 S. Ct. 2105, 109 L. Ed. 2d 631 , although the U.S. Supreme Court unanimously affirmed the exercise of jurisdiction over the nonresident defendant by a California court, only four justices held that presence alone is a sufficient contact with the state to support the exercise of in personam jurisdiction over the defendant in any cause of action, whether related to the defendant's presence or not. Four other justices were of the view that the exercise of in personam jurisdiction would have to comport with traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice, and consequently other factors would have to be considered. After discussing the other factors, they concluded that the exercise of jurisdiction over the defendant met the fairness requirement. The ninth justice believed that under either point of view, the affirmance of jurisdiction of the California court was required.

[b] Domicile

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual who is domiciled in the state but may be absent from the state. A person's domicile is usually the place where the person has his or her home and, at least for the same purpose, no person has more than one domicile at a time [see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals, (2) Domicil; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws, § 29 (1971); see also Milliken v. Meyer (1940) 311 U.S.457, 462-464, 61 S. Ct. 339, 85 L. Ed. 278 ; Allen v. Superior Court (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 306, 310-311, 259 P.2d 905] .

[c] Residence

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual who is a resident of the state unless the individual's relationship to the state is so attenuated as to make the exercise of such jurisdiction unreasonable [see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals, (3) Residence; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws, § 30 (1971); for discussion of fair play and substantial justice requirements, see § 323.14[5]].

Although California has a manifest interest in providing effective means of redress for its residents, such interest coupled with the mere fact of past residency fail to provide sufficient contacts of such nature and quality to entertain personal jurisdiction over a defendant consistent with traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice [Muckle v. Superior Court (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 218, 225-231, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 303] .

[d] Nationality and Citizenship

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual who is a national or citizen of the state unless the nature of the individual's relationship to the state makes the exercise of such jurisdiction unreasonable [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals, (4) Citizenship; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws, § 31 (1971); see U.S. Const., amend. XIV (all persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and the state wherein they reside); for discussion of fair play and substantial justice requirements, see § 323.14[5]].

The factors to be considered in determining whether judicial jurisdiction based on citizenship exists are generally the same as in the case of jurisdiction based on residence [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals, (4) Citizenship; for discussion of residence, see § 323.15[2][c]].

[e] Consent

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over a competent individual who has consented to the exercise of such jurisdiction [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals, (5) Consent; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws, § 32 (1971); see National Equipment Rental v. Szukhent (1964) 375 U.S. 311, 315-316, 84 S. Ct. 411, 11 L. Ed. 2d 354] .

Although the consent of a party is effective to give a state jurisdiction over his or her person, it cannot enlarge the competency of the court to include a type of case which a court has not been authorized to hear by the state or a case involving either a greater or lesser amount in controversy [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals, (5) Consent].

Actual consent to the exercise of jurisdiction is required, but such consent may be expressed by words or by conduct, and must be given by a person who is under no legal disability. Consent may be given with respect to a particular action either before the action is brought or afterwards, or it may be given generally with respect to actions which may thereafter be brought. Consent may be given (1) by a contractual provision that either waives service of process or authorizing extraterritorial service of process; (2) by a power of attorney to confess judgment, unless such confessions are illegal [for discussion of confessions of judgment in California, see Ch. 318, Judgments, § 318.40 et seq.]; (3) by an acknowledgment of "due service"; (4) by a contractual provision for arbitration by a state arbitration board; or (5) by the designation of an agent to receive process [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals, (5) Consent; for discussion of statutes appointing a California state official to receive service of summons on certain nonresidents as a result of some activity by them in California, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

[f] General Appearance

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual who enters an appearance as a defendant in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comments, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals, (6) Appearance; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 33 (1971)].

However, states do not usually choose to exercise judicial jurisdiction on the basis of an appearance that is not general [Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 33, cmt. c (1971)]. This is the rule in California. Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50(a) provides that except as otherwise provided by statute, the court in which an action is pending has jurisdiction over a party from the time summons is served on him or her and that a general appearance by a party is equivalent to personal service of summons on such party [see, e.g., Neihaus v. Superior Court (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 340, 345, 137 Cal. Rptr. 905] . For discussion of the distinction between a general appearance and a special appearance, see § 323.60 et seq.].

[g] Doing Business in the State as Individual

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual (1) who does business in the state with respect to causes of action arising out of that business; (2) who has done business in the state, but has ceased to do business there at the time when the action is brought, with respect to causes of action arising from the business done in the state; and (3) who does business in the state, with respect to causes of action that do not arise from the business done in the state if this business is so continuous and substantial as to make exercise of such jurisdiction reasonable [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals, (7) Doing Business in State; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws, § 35 (1971); for due process factors to be considered and general versus limited jurisdiction, see §§ 323.14[5] and [6]].

[h] Doing Act in the State as Individual

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual who has done, or has caused to be done, an act in the state (1) with respect to any cause of action in tort arising from the act; and (2) with respect to any cause of action not in tort arising from the act unless the nature of the act and of the individual's relationship to the state and to other states make the exercise of such jurisdiction unreasonable [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals, (8) Doing an Act in State; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 36 (1971); see Kaiser Aetna v. Deal (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 896, 900, 150 Cal. Rptr. 615 (tort action); Floyd J. Harkness Co. v. Amezcua (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 687, 691, 131 Cal. Rptr. 667 (contract action); for due process factors to be considered and general versus limited jurisdiction, see §§ 323.14[5] and [6]].

The minimum contacts requirement is satisfied not only by doing business or owning property in the forum state, but also by doing an act, provided that (1) the cause of action alleged arises from the act done in the state, and (2) in light of the circumstances the exercise of the jurisdiction is reasonable [County of Humboldt v. Harris (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 857, 860, 254 Cal. Rptr. 49 (citing Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 36(2) (1971)); for due process factors to be considered and general versus limited jurisdiction, see §§ 323.14[5] and [6]]. In determining reasonableness, a number of factors are to be considered: the nature and quality of the act, the extent of the relationship of the state to the defendant, and the plaintiff, and the degree of inconvenience to the defendant if forced to defend in the state. Moreover, it is also settled that the state's jurisdiction is likely to be upheld when it is based on a particular statute or regulation, when the isolated act has injurious consequences in the state, or both [County of Humboldt v. Harris (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 857, 860, 254 Cal. Rptr. 49] .

Thus, the exercise of judicial jurisdiction over a defendant by a state is reasonable as to causes of action arising from an act done, or caused to be done, by the defendant in the state which the state subjects to special regulation or when the act done by the defendant has substantial consequences there even though the act is an isolated act not constituting the doing of business in the state [see Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 36, cmt. e (1971); see also Fam. Code § 7620 (providing that person who has sexual intercourse or causes conception with the intent to become a legal parent by assisted reproduction in this state thereby submits to jurisdiction of courts of this state as to action brought under Uniform Parentage Act (Fam. Code § 7600 et seq.) with respect to child who may have been conceived by that act of intercourse or assisted reproduction); County of Humboldt v. Harris (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 857, 861, 254 Cal. Rptr. 49 (paternity action by county against nonresident father based on act of sexual intercourse in California resulting in conception and birth of child)].

Conversely, although minimal contacts with this state essential to the exercise of jurisdiction over a nonresident defendant may be grounded in doing an act in this state, this state does not have jurisdiction if the maintenance of the suit offends traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice and the nature of the act done in this state and the nature of the individual's relationship to the state make the exercise of such jurisdiction unreasonable [Floyd J. Harkness Co. v. Amezcua (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 687, 691, 131 Cal. Rptr. 667] .

[i] Causing Effect in the State by Act Done Elsewhere as Individual

[i] In General

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual who causes effects in the state by an act done elsewhere with respect to any cause of action arising from these effects, unless the nature of the effects and of the individual's relationship to the state make the exercise of such jurisdiction unreasonable [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals, (9) Causing Effect in State by Act or Omission Elsewhere; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 37; see Calder v. Jones (1984) 465 U.S. 783, 788-790, 104 S. Ct. 1482, 79 L. Ed. 2d 804 , aff'g, Jones v. Calder (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 128, 134, 187 Cal. Rptr. 825 ; Jewish Defense Organization, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1045, 1057, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611 ; see also discussion under § 323.14[6]].

Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 37 (1971), was intended to reach wrongful activity outside of the state causing injury within the state, and even then, the assertion of jurisdiction over the defendant must not be unreasonable [Kulko v. California Superior Court (1978) 436 U.S. 84, 96, 98 S. Ct. 1690, 56 L. Ed. 2d 132 , reh'g denied, 438 U.S. 908] . That is, although minimal contacts with this state essential to the exercise of jurisdiction over a nonresident defendant may be grounded in causing an effect in this state by an act or omission which occurs elsewhere, this state does not have jurisdiction if the maintenance of the suit offends traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice and the nature of the effect of the act done elsewhere and the nature of the individual's relationship to the state make the exercise of such jurisdiction unreasonable [Floyd J. Harkness Co. v. Amezcua (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 687, 691, 131 Cal. Rptr. 667 ; for due process factors to be considered and general versus limited jurisdiction, see §§ 323.14[5] and [6]].

[ii] Possible Situations

There are three possible situations in which an act done elsewhere may cause an effect in this state [Kaiser Aetna v. Deal (1978) 150 Cal. Rptr. 615 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals, (9) Causing Effect in State by Act or Omission Elsewhere]:

- The act was done with the intention of causing effects in the state;

- The act, although not done with the intention of causing effects in the state, could reasonably have been expected to do so; and

- The act was not done with the intention of causing effects in the state and could not reasonably have been expected to do so.

With regard to the first possibility, the state may exercise the same judicial jurisdiction over the defendant as to any cause of action arising from the effects as it could have exercised had these effects resulted from an act done within its territory [see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals, (9) Causing Effect in State by Act or Omission Elsewhere; Kaiser Aetna v. Deal (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 896, 902, 150 Cal. Rptr. 615 ; see also Serafini v. Superior Court (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 70, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 159 (despite not being present in state, natural person who commits tort while acting on corporation's behalf is subject to state's jurisdiction when delict intended to inflict tortious harm within state; rule inapplicable under facts) and discussion under § 323.14[6]]. With regard to the third possibility, the state may not constitutionally exercise jurisdiction over the defendant unless the defendant is found to have an extensive relationship with the state [Kaiser Aetna v. Deal (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 896, 904, 150 Cal. Rptr. 615 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals, (9) Causing Effect in State by Act or Omission Elsewhere].

Concerning the second possibility, the mere causing of an effect in the forum is not sufficient, without more, to afford a constitutional basis for jurisdiction [Mansour v. Superior Court (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 1750, 1761, 46 Cal. Rptr. 2d 191 ; Kaiser Aetna v. Deal (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 896, 902, 150 Cal. Rptr. 615] . Whether the forum state may exercise personal jurisdiction over the defendant in the second situation depends on a variety of factors, including the extent of the relationship of the state to the defendant and to the plaintiff, the nature and quality of the effects resulting from the act, and the degree of inconvenience which would result to the defendant from being forced to stand suit in the state on the particular cause of action. The greater the defendant's relationship to the state, the greater is the likelihood that the state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over him or her as to causes of action arising from the effects of the act in the state. If, for example, the defendant does business in the state, or solicits business extensively in the state, or if a substantial quantity of goods manufactured by him or her are sold in the state, there is a greater likelihood that the state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over him or her as to causes of action arising from the effects in the state of an act done by him or her outside the state than if the defendant did not have this relationship to the state. This is so even though the defendant's relationship to the state is not related in any way to the act or to such of its effects in the state as are involved in the suit. The plaintiff's relationship to the state is also material. The greater the extent of this relationship is, the greater is the interest of the state in the plaintiff and consequently the more appropriate it will be that the state should be in the position to try the case in its courts. On the other hand, if the plaintiff has little or no relationship to the state, the defendant's relationship to the state must be correspondingly greater to give the state a sufficient interest to justify trial of the case in its courts. Another factor of significance is the nature and quality of the effects which occur in the state. The state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over the defendant if the effects which could have been anticipated and which actually occurred are of a sort highly dangerous to persons or things [Kaiser Aetna v. Deal (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 896, 902-903, 150 Cal. Rptr. 615 , quoting Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial JurisdictionOverIndividuals, (9) Causing Effect in State by Act or Omission Elsewhere; see also Serafini v. Superior Court (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 70, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 159 (natural person may be subject to jurisdiction if delict could reasonably be expected to inflict tortious harm within state; rule inapplicable under facts)].

[j] Individual Ownership, Use, or Possession of Thing in the State

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual who has owned, used, or possessed (1) an immovable thing in the state with respect to any cause of action arising from the thing while it was owned, used, or possessed by the individual, or (2) a chattel in the state with respect to any cause of action arising from the chattel while it was in the state and was so owned, used, or possessed unless the nature of the chattel and of the individual's relationship to the state make the exercise of such jurisdiction unreasonable [Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws, § 38 (1971); see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals, (10) Ownership, Use or Possession of Thing in State; Indiana Insurance Co. v. Pettigrew (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 862, 864-868, 171 Cal. Rptr. 770 ; for due process factors to be considered and general versus limited jurisdiction, see §§ 323.14[5] and [6]].

[k] Other Individual Relationships

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual in other situations, not specifically enumerated, when the individual has such a relationship to the state that it is reasonable for the state to exercise such jurisdiction [Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws, § 39 (1971); see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals, (11) Other Relationships; for due process factors to be considered, see § 323.14[5]].

[3] Over General Partnership and Partners

Jurisdiction over a partnership does not necessarily permit a court to assume jurisdiction over the individual partners. Liability and jurisdiction are independent. Liability depends on the relationship between the plaintiff and the defendants and between the individual defendants. Jurisdiction depends only on each defendant's relationship with the forum. Thus, for example, although individual partners are jointly and severally liable for torts of the partnership, jurisdiction over each defendant must be established individually. Accordingly, a California court has jurisdiction over only those individual partners who personally established the requisite minimum contacts with California [Goehring v. Superior Court (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 894, 904-905, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 105] .

[4] Over Domestic Corporations

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over a domestic corporation [Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws, § 41 (1971)]. That is, a state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over a corporation incorporated in the state even though it does no business there. Incorporation in the state gives the state a basis for exercising juridical jurisdiction over the corporation in any action that may there be brought against it [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Corporations, (1) Incorporation in State-Domestic Corporations].

[5] Over Foreign Corporations

[a] Consent

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over a foreign corporation which has consented to the exercise of such jurisdiction [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Corporations, (2) Consent-Foreign Corporations; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 43].

For a statutory example providing for jurisdiction over a foreign corporation or nonresident person based on consent to jurisdiction as expressed in specified contracts, see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.40.

[b] Appointment of Agent for Service of Process

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over a foreign corporation which has authorized an agent or a public official to accept service of process in actions brought against the corporation in the state as to all causes of action to which the authority of the agent or official to accept service extends [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Corporations, (3) Appointment of Agent-Foreign Corporation; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 44].

[c] Appearance

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over a foreign corporation which enters an appearance as defendant in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Corporations, (4) Appearance-Foreign Corporations; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws, § 45]. The foregoing rule is the same as that which applies to individuals under Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 33 [Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws of § 45 comment a; for discussion of appearance by an individual, see § 323.15[2][f]].

[d] Doing Business in the State as Corporation

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over a foreign corporation which does business in the state with respect to causes of action arising from the business done in the state, and with respect to causes of action that do not arise from the business done in the state if this business is so continuous and substantial as to make it reasonable for the state to exercise such jurisdiction [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Corporations, (5) Doing Business in State-Foreign Corporations; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 47; for discussion of general versus limited jurisdiction, see § 323.14[6]].

By purposefully and successfully soliciting business of California residents, a foreign corporation can reasonably anticipate being subject to litigation in California in the event their solicitations caused an injury to a California resident [Snowney v. Harrah's Entertainment, Inc. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 1054, 1062-1070, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 33, 112 P.3d 28 (Nevada hotels purposefully and successfully soliciting the business of California residents; insufficient notice to guests of room surcharges)].

A state also has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over a foreign corporation which has done business in the state, but has ceased to do business there at the time when the action is brought, with respect to causes of action arising from the business done in the state [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Corporations, (5) Doing Business in State-Foreign Corporations; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 48; for discussion of general versus limited jurisdiction, see § 323.14[6]].

[e] Doing an Act in the State as Corporation

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over a foreign corporation which has done, or has caused to be done, an act in the state with respect to any cause of action in tort arising from the act, and any cause of action not in tort arising from the act unless the nature of the act and of the corporation's relationship to the state makes the exercise of such jurisdiction unreasonable [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Corporations, (6) Doing Act in State-Foreign Corporations; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 49; for due process factors to be considered and general versus limited jurisdiction, see §§ 323.14[5] and [6]]. The foregoing rule is the same as that applicable to individuals under Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws, § 36 [Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 49 comment a; for discussion of individual doing act in the state, see § 323.15[2][h]].

[f] Causing Effect in the State by Act Done Elsewhere as Corporation

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over a foreign corporation which causes effects in the state by an act done elsewhere with respect to any cause of action arising from these effects unless the nature of these effects and of the corporation's relationship to the state makes the exercise of such jurisdiction unreasonable [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Corporations, (7) Causing Effects in State by Act Done Elsewhere-Foreign Corporations; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 50; see Secrest Machine Corp. v. Superior Court (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 664, 669, 190 Cal. Rptr. 175, 660 P.2d 399 ; for due process factors to be considered and general versus limited jurisdiction, see §§ 323.14[5] and [6]].

[g] Corporate Ownership, Use, or Possession of Tangible Thing in the State

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over a foreign corporation that has owned, used, or possessed an immovable thing or a chattel in the state, with respect to any cause of action arising from the immovable thing while it was owned, used, or possessed by the corporation or arising from the chattel while it was in the state and was so owned, used, or possessed, unless the nature of the chattel and of the corporation's relationship to the state make the exercise of such jurisdiction unreasonable [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Corporations, (8) Ownership, Use or Possession of Thing in State-Foreign Corporations; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 5; for due process factors to be considered and general versus limited jurisdiction, see §§ 323.14[5] and [6]].

[h] Other Corporate Relationships

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over a foreign corporation in other situations, not specifically enumerated, if the foreign corporation has such a relationship to the state that it is reasonable for the state to exercise such jurisdiction [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Corporations, (9) Other Relationships-Foreign Corporations; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 52].

[6] Jurisdiction Over Plaintiff

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual who brings an action in the state in that action and in any other action that the defendant may bring against him or her by way of counterclaim or independent cross action to the extent that the local law of the state so provides at the time of the bringing of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comments, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Individuals, (6) Appearance; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 34].

A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over a foreign corporation that brings an action in the state in that action and in any other action that the defendant may bring against it by way of counterclaim or independent cross action to the extent that the local law of the state so provides at the time of the bringing of the action [Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 46; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10, Judicial Council Comment, Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction Over Corporations, (4) Appearance-Foreign Corporations].

Note that counterclaims have been abolished in California and that claims formerly asserted as counterclaims are now asserted in cross complaints [see Code Civ. Proc. § 428.80].

[7] Contractual

Parties may agree contractually, in advance, on the forum for resolving disputes between them, assuming that jurisdiction in that forum would, in any case, be proper. Such a forum selection clause is generally given effect unless it is unfair or unreasonable [M/S Bremen v. Zapata Off-Shore Co. (1972) 407 U.S. 1, 15, 92 S. Ct. 1907, 32 L. Ed. 2d 513 ; Smith, Valentino & Smith, Inc. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 491, 495-496, 131 Cal. Rptr. 374, 551 P.2d 1206 ; Hunt v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 901, 908, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 215 ; for discussion of forum selection clauses, see § 323.22].

Chapter 323 JURISDICTION: PERSONAL JURISDICTION, INCONVENIENT FORUM, AND APPEARANCES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Personal Jurisdiction

28-323 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 323.16

§ 323.16 Immunities to Service or Suit

[1] Diplomats, Legislators, and Members of Congress

Heads of foreign diplomatic missions and members of their staffs having diplomatic rank are immune to civil actions and proceedings, but this immunity does not extend to consular officers who are mainly concerned with the commercial interests of their nationals [see 22 U.S.C. § 254d; Restatement (Second) of Foreign Relations Law of the United States §§ 73, 74, 81; § 323.83]. Members of the California Legislature are immune to civil process during, and for five days before and after, a legislative session [Cal. Const., art. IV, § 14; see Harmer v. Superior Court (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 345, 348, 79 Cal. Rptr. 855 ; § 323.83]. Members of the United States Congress, on the other hand, although exempt from arrest under U.S. Const., art. I, § 6, cl. 1, while going to, attending, and returning from Congressional sessions, in all cases except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, are subject to civil process [see Long v. Ansell (1934) 293 U.S. 76, 81-83, 55 S. Ct. 21, 79 L. Ed. 208] .

[2] Witnesses in Criminal Proceedings and Extradited Defendants

A person who comes into California in obedience to a subpoena directing him or her to attend and testify in this state is not, while in California pursuant to the subpoena or order, subject to arrest or the service of process, civil or criminal, in connection with matters that arose before his or her entrance into this state under the subpoena [Penal Code § 1334.4]. A similar exemption exists in favor of a person passing through California while going to or returning from another state in obedience to a subpoena or order to attend and testify in that state [Penal Code § 1334.5; see § 323.83]. Moreover, a person brought into California on or after waiver of extradition based on a criminal charge is not subject to service of process in civil actions arising out of the same facts as the criminal proceedings for which he or she is returned until he or she has been convicted in the criminal proceeding, or, if acquitted, until he or she has had reasonable opportunity to return to the state from which he or she was extradited [Penal Code § 1555; for a form of noticed motion to quash service of summons on grounds of immunity, see § 323.153].

[3] Other Parties and Witnesses

Under California common law, a nonresident witness who voluntarily came into California for the purpose of testifying as a witness in a civil or criminal proceeding was, while attending the trial and for a reasonable time before and after, immune to service of process in any other nonrelated civil action or proceeding in California [see, e.g., Velkov v. Superior Court (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 289, 291, 253 P.2d 25] . The same rule applied to a nonresident who came into California to attend and testify in a civil action in which he or she was the defendant [Minthorne v. Superior Court (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 748, 750, 29 Cal. Rptr. 265] .

This immunity rule with respect to witnesses was abrogated by the court of appeal in Severn v. Adidas Sportschuhfabriken (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 754, 756-762, 109 Cal. Rptr. 328 . Severn held that, in light of California's long-arm statutes (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 410.10, 413.10, 415.10), a person subject to the in personam jurisdiction of the California courts could properly be served with process while under a subpoena, because he or she could have been properly served at his or her place of domicile [Severn v. Adidas Sportschuhfabriken (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 754, 757-762, 109 Cal. Rptr. 328 (foreign individual served with California summons while attending trial in Florida)].

The court pointed out that if the abrogation of the rule in any given case would result in the unfairness of an inconvenient forum to the defendant, Code Civ. Proc. § 410.30 (relating to inconvenient forum and discussed under § 323.23[7]) provides an appropriate procedure for seeking relief [Severn v. Adidas Sportschuhfabriken (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 754, 763-764, 109 Cal. Rptr. 328] .

In Silverman v. Superior Court (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 145, 149, 249 Cal. Rptr. 724 , the court of appeal, following the reasoning in Severn, held that the immunity from service rule with respect to nonresident parties, likewise, is no longer the law in California.

[4] National Banks

Any action or proceeding against a national banking association for which the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation has been appointed receiver, or against the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation as receiver of such association, must be brought in the district or territorial court of the United States held within the district in which the association's principal place of business is located, or, in the event any state, county, or municipal court has jurisdiction over such an action or proceeding, in such court in the county or city in which that association's principal place of business is located [12 U.S.C. § 94]. Under 12 U.S.C. § 94, a national bank coming within its provisions and having no branch in California is not subject to suit in California [see Citizens & Southern Nat. Bank v. Bougas (1977) 434 U.S. 35, 38, 98 S. Ct. 88, 54 L. Ed. 2d 218 ; Kaiser Aetna v. Deal (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 896, 899, 150 Cal. Rptr. 615 (both involving statute prior to its 1982 amendment)].

A national bank may be subject to suit in California when it intentionally does an act elsewhere knowing that the effect of that act will be experienced in California. For example, it has been held that the exercise of jurisdiction by a California court over a bank incorporated in another state, in a declaratory relief action based on the foreign bank's intentionally causing an effect within this state, was proper when (1) the foreign bank issued a certificate of deposit with knowledge that the depositor, who was heavily indebted to it, intended to use the certificate in California to secure a loan and that the security would be worthless because it would be subject to the foreign bank's right of offset against the depositor's indebtedness to it; (2) the certificate was used as security for a substantial loan made to the depositor by a California bank; (3) the foreign bank subsequently exercised its right of offset by canceling the certificate of deposit; and (4) the depositor defaulted on its California loan and subsequently filed for bankruptcy [United California Bank v. First Bank of Oak Park (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 439, 442-444, 159 Cal. Rptr. 607 , cert. denied, 447 U.S. 907 (1980) ; for discussion of causing effect in the state by an act done elsewhere as a corporation, see § 323.15[5][f]].

Chapter 323 JURISDICTION: PERSONAL JURISDICTION, INCONVENIENT FORUM, AND APPEARANCES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Personal Jurisdiction

28-323 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 323.17

§ 323.17 Establishing Lack of Personal Jurisdiction on Motion to Quash Service

[1] Facts Showing Lack of Personal Jurisdiction

The court's lack of personal jurisdiction over a defendant may be established by facts showing the following:

(1) Plaintiff failed to serve the summons on a defendant who has not made a general appearance in the action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50(a)].

(2) The service of the summons was defective [see, e.g., Eagle Elec. Mfg. Co. v. Keener (1966) 247 Cal. App. 2d 246, 250, 55 Cal. Rptr. 444 ; Kaplan v. Superior Court (1961) 191 Cal. App. 2d 492, 494-496, 12 Cal. Rptr. 781 ; Bank of America v. Carr (1956) 138 Cal. App. 2d 727, 736-738, 292 P.2d 587] .

(3) The summons was defective [see, e.g., Tresway Aero, Inc. v. Superior Court (1972) 5 Cal. 3d 431, 435, 96 Cal. Rptr. 571, 487 P.2d 1211 ; Schering Corp. v. Superior Court (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 737, 741, 125 Cal. Rptr. 337 ; Greene v. Municipal Court (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 446, 451, 124 Cal. Rptr. 139 ; National Union Fire Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1966) 247 Cal. App. 2d 326, 328-329, 55 Cal. Rptr. 574 ; for discussion of the required contents of the summons, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

(4) The assertion of jurisdiction violates due process requirements (that is, a nonresident defendant served outside California lacks sufficient contacts with the state) [see, e.g., Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 U.S. 462, 474, 105 S. Ct. 2174, 85 L. Ed. 2d 528 ; World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson (1980) 444 U.S. 286, 291, 100 S. Ct. 559 ; for further discussion of due process requirements, see § 323.14].

(5) Plaintiff did not serve defendant with a copy of the summons and the substituted service was not reasonably calculated to give the defendant actual notice of the proceedings and an opportunity to be heard [see Zirbes v. Stratton (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1407, 1416, 232 Cal. Rptr. 653] .

(6) The summons served on the defendant was not the one authorized for civil actions and provided a shorter period for response than that required by statute for civil actions [see Delta Imports, Inc. v. Municipal Court (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 1033, 1035-1036, 194 Cal. Rptr. 685 (use of five-day unlawful detainer summons held improper because complaint did not state a cause of action for forcible entry or forcible or unlawful detainer); see also Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions].

(7) Defendant is immune to service of process or to suit [see, e.g., 22 U.S.C. § 254d; Cal. Const., art. IV, § 14; for further discussion of immunity, see § 323.16].

A defendant may raise the issue of the court's lack of personal jurisdiction by means of a motion to quash service of summons under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 418.10. For further discussion of the procedure for making such motions, see § 323.50 et seq. For forms of a motion to quash service of summons, see §§ 323.150, 323.153 and 323.157.

A determination that personal jurisdiction is lacking only precludes the trial court from rendering any binding ruling against the defendant concerning the merits of the action; it does not retroactively divest the court of its jurisdiction to hear and determine all the jurisdiction issues raised by defendant's motion to quash [Ziller Electronics Lab GmbH v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 1222, 1229, 254 Cal. Rptr. 410] . However, any judgment of a court lacking personal jurisdiction is void [County of Ventura v. Tillett (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 105, 110, 183 Cal. Rptr. 741 , cert. denied, 460 U.S. 1051 (1983) (disapproved on another point in County of Los Angeles v. Soto (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 483, 492 n.4, 198 Cal. Rptr. 779, 674 P.2d 750); for discussion and forms relating to attacking a void judgment, see Ch. 489, Relief From Judgments and Orders].

[2] Burden of Proof on Motion to Quash

The plaintiff bears the burden of proving the existence of jurisdiction, including the element of reasonableness, although there is a presumption of reasonableness on a showing that the defendant purposefully directed his or her activities at forum residents [Haisten v. Grass Valley Medical Reimbursement (9th Cir. 1986) 784 F.2d 1392, 1397] .

Thus, when a defendant properly moves to quash out of state service of process for lack of jurisdiction, the burden of proof is on the plaintiff to establish the facts of jurisdiction by a preponderance of the evidence [Vons Companies, Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 434, 449, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899, 926 P.2d 1085 ; Serafini v. Superior Court (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 70, 77, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 159 ; Magnecomp Corp. v. Athene Co. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 526, 533, 257 Cal. Rptr. 278 ; Felix v. Bomoro Kommanditgesellschaft (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 106, 110, 241 Cal. Rptr. 670] .That is, the plaintiff bears the burden of proof on the issue of validity of service of process [Floveyor Internat., Ltd. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 789, 793, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 457 (plaintiff must prove facts requisite to an effective service)]. Similarly, the burden of proof is on the plaintiff to demonstrate that minimum contacts exist between the defendant and the forum state to justify imposition of personal jurisdiction and the plaintiff has the right to conduct discovery with regard to the issue of jurisdiction to develop the facts necessary to sustain that burden [Magnecomp Corp. v. Athene Co. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 526, 533, 257 Cal. Rptr. 278 ; see also Taylor-Rush v. Multitech Corp. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 103, 110, 265 Cal. Rptr. 672 (plaintiff has burden of demonstrating by preponderance of evidence that all jurisdictional criteria are met)].

The plaintiff does not have to prove the truth of the allegations constituting the cause of action to justify the exercise of jurisdiction over the nonresident party, but plaintiff must present facts demonstrating that the defendant's conduct related to the pleaded causes of action is such as to constitute constitutionally cognizable minimum contacts [Magnecomp Corp. v. Athene Co. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 526, 533, 257 Cal. Rptr. 278] . Plaintiff must demonstrate by a preponderance of the evidence that all necessary jurisdictional criteria are met. This burden must be met by competent evidence in affidavits and authenticated documentary evidence [Jewish Defense Organization, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1045, 1054-1055, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611 ; see Magnecomp Corp. v. Athene Co. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 526, 533, 257 Cal. Rptr. 278 ; (evidence of those facts or their absence may be in form of declarations) see also discussion in § 323.25]. Allegations in an unverified complaint cannot be used to establish jurisdiction [Jewish Defense Organization, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1045, 1055, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611 ; Goehring v. Superior Court (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 894, 908-909, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 105] .

Once the plaintiff has established facts showing minimum contacts, for example, that the defendant has purposely directed his or her activity at forum residents, the burden then shifts to the defendant to supply facts demonstrating that the assumption of jurisdiction would be unreasonable [Vons Companies, Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 434, 449, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899, 926 P.2d 1085 ; Hall v. LaRonde (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 1342, 1347, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 399 ; Dialysis at Sea, Inc. v. Superior Court (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 788, 793, 265 Cal. Rptr. 71 ; see Serafini v. Superior Court (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 70, 77, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 159 ; see also discussion under § 323.14[6][d]]. Until the plaintiff makes at least a prima facie showing of the validity of service and sufficient contacts with the State of California, the defendant may stand mute [Floveyor Internat., Ltd. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 789, 794, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 457] .

28-323 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 323.32

§ 323.32 Doctrine of Inconvenient Forum

Forum non conveniens, or inconvenient forum [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 410.30, 418.10(a)(2)], is an equitable doctrine invoking the discretionary power of a court to decline to exercise the jurisdiction it has over a transitory cause of action when it believes that the action may be more appropriately and justly tried elsewhere [Stangvik v. Shiley Inc. (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 744, 751, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 556, 819 P.2d 14 ; see also Price v. Atchison, T. & S.F. Ry. Co. (1954) 268 P.2d 457 , cert. denied, 348 U.S. 839 ; Credit Lyonnais Bank Nederland, N.V. v. Manatt, Phelps, Rothenberg & Tunney (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1424, 1431, 249 Cal. Rptr. 559] . In the case of dismissal, it is predicated on a determination that dismissal is just and will promote convenience to the parties and to the system [Delfosse v. C.A.C.I., Inc.-Federal (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 683, 687, 267 Cal. Rptr. 224] . The doctrine of inconvenient forum in effect tempers the exercise of personal jurisdiction conferred by long-arm statutes (see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 410.10, 413.10, 415.40), by authorizing the dismissal or stay of an action filed in California when the action possesses no substantial connection with defendant's activities in California, when California cannot provide an adequate forum, and when California has no interest in fostering the litigation [Henderson v. Superior Court (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 583, 588, 142 Cal. Rptr. 478] . The doctrine is codified in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 410.30 and 413.10 [see Archibald v. Cinerama Hotels (1976) 15 Cal. 3d 853, 857, 126 Cal. Rptr. 811, 544 P.2d 947 ; Delfosse v. C.A.C.I., Inc.-Federal (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 683, 687, 267 Cal. Rptr. 224 ; Credit Lyonnais Bank Nederland, N.V. v. Manatt, Phelps, Rothenberg & Tunney (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1424, 1431, 249 Cal. Rptr. 559] . It is regarded as a drastic remedy to be exercised with caution and restraint [Credit Lyonnais Bank Nederland, N.V. v. Manatt, Phelps, Rothenberg & Tunney (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1424, 1436, 249 Cal. Rptr. 559] .

The doctrine of inconvenient forum is distinct from questions of jurisdiction and venue in that it permits a court to stay or dismiss an action even when jurisdiction and venue are technically proper [see Outboard Marine Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 434, 437, 130 Cal. Rptr. 642 ; Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Superior Court (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 105, 108-109, 90 Cal. Rptr. 461 , cert. denied sub nom. Curtin v. Superior Court of California (1971) 401 U.S. 1013] .

Code of Civ. Proc. § 418.10 provides requirements for bringing a forum non conveniens motion when a defendant has not yet appeared in an action, and Code of Civ. Proc. § 410.30 applies to a defendant bringing a forum non conveniens motion after having generally appeared in the action. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 410.30(b), a defendant who has generally appeared may make a forum non conveniens motion at any time, not only on or before the last day to plead [Britton v. Dallas Airmotive, Inc. (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 127, 133, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 487] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Inconvenient Forum

28-323 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 323.33

§ 323.33 Application of Doctrine Implies Proper Jurisdiction

The doctrine of forum non conveniens is not jurisdictional. An argument that a court is an inconvenient forum concedes that court's jurisdiction, for it asks the court to decline to exercise the jurisdiction it constitutionally already has [Credit Lyonnais Bank Nederland, N.V. v. Manatt, Phelps, Rothenberg & Tunney (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1424, 1430-1431 n.8, 249 Cal. Rptr. 559 ; see also Corrigan v. Bjork Shiley Corp. (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 166, 173, 227 Cal. Rptr. 247 (disapproved on other grounds in Stangvik v. Shiley Inc. (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 744, 764, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 556, 819 P.2d 14)]. Thus, in ruling that California is an inconvenient forum, a trial court necessarily implies that California does in fact have jurisdiction over the defendant. A motion to dismiss on the ground of forum non conveniens is inconsistent with and necessarily phrased in the alternative to a motion to quash service for lack of jurisdiction. This is because a court, in dismissing a suit on the grounds of forum non conveniens, relinquishes jurisdiction it already has over the action, whereas a court, in quashing service, determines that it never had jurisdiction over the parties and the cause. Once jurisdiction is established, the court, in its discretion, can stay or dismiss an action if it finds that in the interest of substantial justice the case should be heard in another forum [Credit Lyonnais Bank Nederland, N.V. v. Manatt, Phelps, Rothenberg & Tunney (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1424, 1430-1431 n.8, 249 Cal. Rptr. 559] .

However, in Sinochem Int'l Co. v. Malay. Int'l Shipping (2007)--U.S.--, 127 S. Ct. 1184, 167 L. Ed. 2d 15 , the U.S. Supreme Court considered whether a district court can dismiss a case under the forum non conveniens doctrine before it determines definitively that it has both subject matter and personal jurisdiction. The Court held that a district court has discretion to respond at once to a defendant's forum non conveniens plea, and need not take up first any other threshold objection. In particular, a court need not resolve whether it has authority to adjudicate the cause (subject matter jurisdiction) or personal jurisdiction over the defendant if it determines that, in any event, a foreign tribunal is the more suitable arbiter of the merits of the case.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Inconvenient Forum

28-323 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 323.34

§ 323.34 Forum Selection Clauses

[1] Enforced Unless Unreasonable

Parties may agree contractually in advance on the forum for resolving disputes between them. A forum selection clause is generally given effect unless it is unfair or unreasonable [M/S Bremen v. Zapata Off-Shore Co. (1972) 407 U.S. 1, 15, 92 S. Ct. 1907, 32 L. Ed. 2d 513 (enforcing reasonable clause in international commercial transaction stipulating forum in England unless invalid for fraud or overreaching); Smith, Valentino & Smith, Inc. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 491, 495-496, 131 Cal. Rptr. 374, 551 P.2d 1206 (enforcing clause does not contravene policy favoring access to courts by resident plaintiffs if plaintiff has freely and voluntarily negotiated away that right); Intershop Communications v. Superior Court (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 191, 196, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 847 (fact that an adhesion contract existed did not invalidate the clause); Nam Tai Electronics, Inc. v. Titzer (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 1301, 1311-1313, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 769 (forum clause in Internet agreement for registering a nickname or alias with Yahoo!, a California-based Internet message board, was not negotiable and therefor a contract of adhesion and unenforceable)]. For further discussion of challenges to forum selection clauses and void clauses, see [6] and [7], below.

In regard to potentially unconscionable choice-of-law clauses, the California Supreme Court has summarized the state's choice-of-law provisions as follows: "If the trial court finds that the ... claims [at issue] fall within the scope of a choice-of-law clause, it must next evaluate the clause's enforceability pursuant to the analytical approach reflected in section 187, subdivision (2) of the Restatement Second of Conflict of Laws (Restatement). Under that approach, the court must first determine: '(1) whether the chosen state has a substantial relationship to the parties or their transaction, or (2) whether there is any other reasonable basis for the parties' choice of law. If neither of these tests is met, that is the end of the inquiry, and the court need not enforce the parties' choice of law. If, however, either test is met, the court must next determine whether the chosen state's law is contrary to a fundamental policy of California. If there is no such conflict, the court shall enforce the parties' choice of law. If, however, there is a fundamental conflict with California law, the court must then determine whether California has a 'materially greater interest than the chosen state in the determination of the particular issue ... .' (Rest., § 187, subd. (2).) If California has a materially greater interest than the chosen state, the choice of law shall not be enforced, for the obvious reason that in such circumstance we will decline to enforce a law contrary to this state's fundamental policy' " [Discover Bank v. Superior Court (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 148; 173-174, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 76].

A distinction exists between mandatory and permissive forum selection clauses. The modern trend is to enforce mandatory forum selection clauses unless they are unfair or unreasonable, and the clause is usually given effect without extensive analysis of factors relating to convenience [Berg v. MTC Electronics Technologies Co. (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 349, 358-359, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 523 ; see Intershop Communications v. Superior Court (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 191, 196-198, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 847 (review of clauses found mandatory and permissive)].

The normal forum non conveniens analysis applies to permissive forum selection clauses. These are clauses that grant jurisdiction to a particular forum without expressly making that forum the mandatory situs for resolution of disputes; e.g. clauses that call for a party to submit to the jurisdiction of "any court of competent jurisdiction," known as "Lloyd's-type" clauses, or more narrowly focused clauses that state, e.g., that a party submits to jurisdiction in Los Angeles [Berg v. MTC Electronics Technologies Co. (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 349, 358-359, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 523] .

[2] Application to Contract and Tort Actions

A forum selection clause can be equally applicable to contractual and tort causes of action [Bancomer, S.A. v. Superior Court (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 1450, 1461, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 435] .

[3] Reciprocal Clauses

A forum selection clause may be reciprocal. For example, the court enforced the clause in Smith, Valentino & Smith, Inc. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 491, 494, 131 Cal. Rptr. 374, 551 P.2d 1206 , by which Smith agreed to bring all actions arising out of the subject agency agreement only in Pennsylvania, home state of defendant corporation, and defendant agreed to bring all such actions only in Los Angeles, plaintiff's place of business.

[4] Enforcement by Motion to Stay or Dismiss and Timing

A defendant who seeks to challenge plaintiff's choice of forum on the basis of a forum selection clause may move to dismiss or stay the action on the grounds of inconvenient forum [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 410.30(a), 418.10(a)(2)]. A court must stay or dismiss an action under any conditions that may be just if it finds that in the interest of substantial justice the action should be heard in a forum outside California [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.30(a)].

If a defendant has not yet made a general appearance, on or before the last day of his or her time to plead, he or she may move to stay or dismiss on the ground of inconvenient forum pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(a)(2) [for discussion on establishing inconvenient forum, see § 32.35; for motion procedure, see § 323.50]. The time limits of Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10 do not apply to a defendant who has made a general appearance, and the defendant may make a forum non conveniens motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 410.30 at any time, not only on or before the last day to plead [Code Civ. Proc. 410.30(b); Britton v. Dallas Airmotive, Inc. (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 127, 133, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 487] . However, unreasonable delay in bringing a forum non conveniens motions may be grounds to deny the motion, and any delay would be relevant to whether the motion should be granted [Van Keulen v. Cathay Pacific Airways, Ltd. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 122, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 471 Britton v. Dallas Airmotive, Inc. (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 127, 135, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 487] .

The failure to make a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10 at the time of filing a demurrer or motion to strike constitutes a waiver of the issue of, among others, inconvenient forum [CCP § 418.10(e)(3); Britton v. Dallas Airmotive, Inc. (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 127, 133, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 487] . If the issue has been waived in this manner, then the defendant may not raise it at any point in the litigation, even after general appearance under Code Civ. Proc. § 410.30(b) [Britton v. Dallas Airmotive, Inc. (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 127, 134, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 487] .

A forum selection clause may also be enforced against a plaintiff who is not a party to the contract in question if the plaintiff is closely related to the contractual relationship. The plaintiff challenging the forum selection clause has the burden of showing, in response to a defendant's motion to stay or dismiss, that enforcement of the clause would be unreasonable under the circumstances. Where an entity that is not itself a party to a contract sues in a representative capacity challenging certain contractual terms, it purports to assert the rights of those who are parties to the contract, and is thus "closely related" to the contractual relationship [Net2Phone, Inc. v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 583, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 149] .

Although the procedure for enforcing a forum selection clause is a motion to stay or dismiss under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 410.30, 418.10, a motion based on a forum selection clause is a special type of forum non conveniens motion. The factors that apply generally to a forum non conveniens motion do not control in a case involving a mandatory forum selection clause [Berg v. MTC Electronics Technologies Co. (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 349, 358-359, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 523 ; for discussion of challenging clause, see [6], below].

[5] Standing

A defendant who is a not a party to an agreement containing a forum selection clause lacks standing to assert the clause unless the defendant can establish that he or she either is a third party beneficiary to the agreement or was closely related to the contractual relationship between the parties to the agreement [Bancomer, S.A. v. Superior Court (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 1450, 1458-1461, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 435 ; see Berclain America Latina v. Baan Co. (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 401, 403, 405-408, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 745 (defendant who was neither intended third party beneficiary nor so closely involved in agreement or associated with party to transaction as to be functionally equivalent to that party lacked standing to assert clause)].

For a defendant to demonstrate that it was so closely related to the contractual relationship that it is entitled to en force the forum selection clause, it must show one of the following by specific conduct or express agreement [Bancomer, S.A. v. Superior Court (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 1450, 1461, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 435 ; accord Bugna v. Fike (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 229, 233, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 161] :

- It agreed to be bound by the terms of the agreement.
- The contracting parties intended defendant to benefit from the agreement.
- There was sufficient evidence of a defined and intertwining business relationship with a contracting party.

The key to the "closely related" test is whether the nonsignatories were close to the contractual relationship, not whether they were close to the third party signator [Bugna v. Fike (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 229, 235, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 161 (agents who negotiated contract could enforce clause)].

[6] Challenge to Forum Selection Clause

In the case of a mandatory forum selection clause, the test is simply whether application of the clause is unfair or unreasonable and the clause is usually given effect. A court will usually honor a mandatory forum selection clause without extensive analysis of factors relating to convenience [Berg v. MTC Electronics Technologies Co. (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 349, 358-359, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 523] .

A court must enforce a forum selection clause unless it would be unreasonable to do so on the facts of the case [Smith, Valentino & Smith, Inc. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 491, 495-496, 131 Cal. Rptr. 374, 551 P.2d 1206 ;

Cal-State Business Products & Services, Inc. v. Ricoh (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1666, 1679, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 417 ; Furda v. Superior Court (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 418, 426-427, 207 Cal. Rptr. 646 ; see also Lifeco Services Corp. v. Superior Court (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 331, 334, 271 Cal. Rptr. 385 ("[e]ven where there is jurisdiction over an out-of-state defendant based on a wrongful act with significant effects in California, nevertheless it may be improper to exercise that jurisdiction in the face of a contrary broad forum selection clause")].

The party opposing the enforcement of a forum selection clause (generally the plaintiff) bears the burden of proof. Thus, a plaintiff opposing enforcement of such a clause must demonstrate that enforcement of the clause would be unreasonable under the circumstances of the case, that is, that the selected forum would be unavailable or unable to accomplish substantial justice. Moreover, in determining reasonability the choice of law requirement must have some rational basis in light of the facts underlying the transaction. Neither inconvenience nor additional expense in litigating in the forum, however, is part of the test of unreasonability. Furthermore, a forum selection clause will not be enforced if enforcing it will bring about a result that is contrary to the forum's public policy [CQL Original Products, Inc. v. National Hockey League Players' Assn. (1995) 39 Cal. App. 4th 1347, 1353-1354, 46 Cal. Rptr. 2d 412 (forum selection clause enforced; difference in law of two competing forums pertaining to forfeitures in license agreements did not amount to conflict involving fundamental policy in California); Cal-State Business Products & Services, Inc. v. Ricoh (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1666, 1680, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 417 (party opposing enforcement generally plaintiff)].

Enforcement of a nonnegotiated forum selection clause in a form contract is reasonable when [Carnival Cruise Lines, Inc. v. Shute (1991) 499 U.S. 585, 593-595, 111 S. Ct. 1522, 113 L. Ed. 2d 622 (clause in cruise ticket selecting Florida enforced against plaintiffs from State of Washington)]:

- There was no indication that defendant had chosen the forum as a means of discouraging legitimate claims,

- There was no evidence that the plaintiffs' accession to the clause was obtained through fraud or overreaching, and

- Plaintiffs concede they had received notice of the clause and therefore presumably had the option of rejecting the contract with impunity.
