PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

32-362 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 362.32

§ 362.32 Decisions

[1] Damages

[a] In General

Injured party able to recover for all detriment caused, whether it could have been anticipated or not. Gruenberg v. Aetna Ins. Co. (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 566, 108 Cal. Rptr. 480, 510 P.2d 1032 ; Crisci v. Security Ins. Co. (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 425, 433, 58 Cal. Rptr. 13, 426 P.2d 173

Definite showing of willingness to vex, harass, annoy, or injure required for award of exemplary damages. Wolfsen v. Hathaway (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 632, 650, 198 P.2d 1 ; McAfee v. Ricker (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 630, 633, 15 Cal. Rptr. 920

Mere spite or ill will or mere negligence, even gross negligence, insufficient to justify award of exemplary damages. Ebaugh v. Rabkin (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 891, 894-895, 99 Cal. Rptr. 706

Award of exemplary damages within discretion of trier of fact. Sheward v. Magit (1951) 106 Cal. App. 2d 163, 167, 234 P.2d 708 ; see also Warfield v. Krueger (1929) 96 Cal. App. 671, 673, 274 P. 764

Civ. Code § 3333 is measure of damages for intentional infliction of emotional distress. Vargas v. Ruggiero (1961) 197 Cal. App. 2d 709, 721, 17 Cal. Rptr. 568

[b] Emotions Included

Damages for mental suffering include fright, nervousness, grief, anxiety, worry, mortification, shock, humiliation, and indignity, as well as physical pain. Deevy v. Tassi (1942) 21 Cal. 2d 109, 130 P.2d 389

Mortification and chagrin at time of injury are recoverable. Sandoval v. Southern Cal. Enters., Inc. (1950) 98 Cal. App. 2d 240, 256-257, 219 P.2d 928

Apprehension of future disability or deformity is element of damages. Boa v. San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Ry. (1920) 182 Cal. 93, 106, 187 P. 2

Past and future humiliation, shame, and mental anguish are elements of damages. Huggans v. Southern Pac. Co. (1949) 92 Cal. App. 2d 599, 615-616, 207 P.2d 864

Worry over inability to pursue vocation is proper element of damages. May v. Farrell (1928) 94 Cal. App. 703, 714, 271 P. 789

Nervousness, if reasonable outcome of physical injuries, is element of damages. Kimic v. San Jose-Los Gatos Interurban Ry. Co. (1909) 156 Cal. 273, 277-278, 104 P. 312 ; Johnson v. Pearson (1929) 100 Cal. App. 503, 506, 280 P. 394

[c] Mental Distress in Other Causes of Action

Emotional distress damages are not recoverable for negligent breach of contract if only injury to plaintiff is economic and policy concerns argue against allowing recovery for emotional distress. Erlich v. Menezes (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 543, 552-557, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 886, 981 P.2d 978

Damages for mental suffering resulting from injury to personal property are allowed. Schroeder v. Auto Driveaway Co. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 908, 921, 114 Cal. Rptr. 622, 523 P.2d 662

Mental suffering award was proper in case in which tortious conduct was interference with property rights. Gruenberg v. Aetna Ins. Co. (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 566, 579, 108 Cal. Rptr. 480, 510 P.2d 1032 ; Crisci v. Security Ins. Co. (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 425, 433, 58 Cal. Rptr. 13, 426 P.2d 173

Damages allowed for mental suffering naturally ensuing from acts complained of if cause of action is otherwise established. Capelouto v. Kaiser Found. Hosp. (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 889, 892, 103 Cal. Rptr. 856, 500 P.2d 880 ; State Rubbish Collectors Ass'n v. Siliznoff (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 330, 338, 240 P.2d 282

Fear for another is part of damages in aggravation of established tort. Dillon v. Legg (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 728, 738, 69 Cal. Rptr. 72, 441 P.2d 912 ; see Acadia, Cal., Ltd. v. Herbert (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 328, 337, 5 Cal. Rptr. 686, 353 P.2d 294

Damages for mental suffering caused by invasion of interest in real property are recoverable. Acadia, Cal., Ltd. v. Herbert (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 328, 337, 5 Cal. Rptr. 686, 353 P.2d 294 ; Kornoff v. Kingsburg Cotton Oil Co. (1955) 45

Cal. 2d 265, 272-273, 288 P.2d 507

Emotional distress damages not recoverable for what was essentially negligent failure to fulfill obligations under commercial lease. Butler-Rupp v. Lourdeaux (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 1220, 1229, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 685

Amended complaint adding emotional distress causes of action to wrongful death causes of action relates back to date of original complaint, and therefore as avoiding bar of statute of limitations, because amended complaint seeks recovery for same accident (electrocution of decedent) and for same injury (loss of plaintiff's son). Rowland v. Superior Court (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 1214, 1218, 217 Cal. Rptr. 786

Expert testimony not prerequisite to recover for pain and suffering. Capelouto v. Kaiser Found. Hosp. (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 889, 895-896, 103 Cal. Rptr. 856, 500 P.2d 880

Per diem computation of damages for pain and suffering is allowed. Beagle v. Vasold (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 166, 173-175, 53 Cal. Rptr. 129, 417 P.2d 673

Award of damages for physical pain and mental suffering reasonably certain to be suffered in future is proper. Oliveira v. Warren (1938) 24 Cal. App. 2d 712, 713-714, 76 P.2d 113

[e] Special Susceptibility

Defendant's knowledge of plaintiff's special susceptibility to emotional distress is immaterial; plaintiff entitled to recovery for full extent of injury. Sloane v. Southern Cal. Ry. Co. (1896) 111 Cal. 668, 683, 44 P. 320

Defendant whose employee had killed plaintiff's dogs on defendant's property is potentially liable, based on defendant's knowledge of plaintiff's susceptibility, for intentional infliction of emotional distress for lying to plaintiff for 10 days about whereabouts of dogs, even though defendant not liable for actual killing of dogs because of statutory immunity. Katsaris v. Cook (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 256, 266-267, 225 Cal. Rptr. 531

Evidence of paraplegic condition and related medical problems is admissible to show plaintiff more susceptible than average person to suffering severe emotional distress when medical insurance coverage was denied. Wayte v. Rollins Int'l, Inc. (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 1, 17, 215 Cal. Rptr. 59

[f] Specific Situations

Damages for mental suffering, absent physical injury, are not recoverable under Article 17 of Warsaw Convention, governing conditions under which international air carrier may be liable for injuries to passengers. Eastern Airlines, Inc. v. Floyd (1991) 499 U.S. 530, 534, 111 S. Ct. 1489, 113 L. Ed. 2d 569

Even if foreseeable that breach of contract to build house would result in emotional distress to homeowners, to promote commercial stability, homeowners are not entitled to recover emotional distress damages for negligent performance of contract if only injury caused is economic injury. Erlich v. Menezes (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 543, 552-557, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 886, 981 P.2d 978

Fair Employment and Housing Commission not authorized to award compensatory damages for emotional distress in administrative proceeding under Fair Employment and Housing Act (Gov. Code § 12900 et seq.) for employment discrimination. Peralta Cmty. Coll. Dist. v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 40, 56, 276 Cal. Rptr. 114, 801 P.2d 357

Compensatory damages for emotional distress recoverable in judicial action under Fair Employment and Housing Act (Gov. Code § 12900 et seq.) for employment discrimination. Commodore Home Sys., Inc. v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 211, 221, 185 Cal. Rptr. 270, 649 P.2d 912 ; see Peralta Cmty. Coll. Dist. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 40, 48, 276 Cal. Rptr. 114, 801 P.2d 357

Damages for mental suffering are result of trespass or nuisance. Herzog v. Grosso (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 219, 225, 259 P.2d 429

Jury's damage award was inadequate a matter of law when it compensated plaintiff for approximately half of his medical expenses, based on finding that plaintiff was himself 50 percent at fault, but awarded no damages for pain and suffering even though plaintiff had undergone back surgery and subsequent physical therapy. Dodson v. J. Pacific, Inc. (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 931, 938, 64 Cal. Rptr. 3d 920

Parents of minor child who was misdiagnosed with terminal cancer are not entitled to recover for negligent infliction of emotional distress, despite foreseeability of distress to parents and their necessary role in making treatment decisions. Klein v. Children's Hosp. Med. Ctr. (1996) 46 Cal. App. 4th 889, 897-899, 54 Cal. Rptr. 2d 34

Plaintiff entitled to recover for future pain and suffering in action for sexual harassment in workplace, based on expert medical opinion that considered plaintiff's particular circumstances, expert's experience with similar cases, and plaintiff's life expectancy. Bihun v. AT&T Info. Sys., Inc. (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 976, 996, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787

Mere negligence that resulted only in economic harm to plaintiff does not support recovery for mental suffering. Smith v. Superior Court (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1033, 1037-1041, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 133

Statutes or ordinances providing for mandatory trebling of damages for mental suffering possibly produce constitutionally excessive penalties. Balmoral Hotel Tenants Assn. v. Lee (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 686, 691-696, 276 Cal. Rptr. 640

Damages for emotional distress not recoverable in fraud action if claim for emotional distress is based on same conduct alleged to show fraud. Kruse v. Bank of Am. (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 38, 67, 248 Cal. Rptr. 217

Damages for emotional distress and mental suffering recoverable in breach of contract action if, from particular subject matter of contract and in contemplation of parties, mental suffering or emotional distress was foreseeable and contemplated result of breach. Rogoff v. Grabowski (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 624, 633, 246 Cal. Rptr. 185 ; Wynn v. Monterey Club (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 789, 799-801, 168 Cal. Rptr. 878

Action for embracery and emotional distress due to defendant's and juror's misconduct resulting in inadequate damages award in former personal injury action was not stated because facts relied on were known to plaintiff before judgment in prior case became final and within time to move for a new trial. Trudell v. Heilman (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 251, 254, 204 Cal. Rptr. 551

Mental suffering compensable for cemetery's alleged negligent breach of contract regarding funeral services. Ross v. Forest Lawn Memorial Park (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 988, 992-997, 203 Cal. Rptr. 468

Personal tort aspect of bad faith cause of action for insurer's failure to settle claim not assignable in California; therefore, damages sought against insurer for emotional distress and punitive damages by injured party, who is not the insured, not predicated on assignment by insureds. Schlauch v. Hartford Accident & Indem. Co. (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 926, 931, 194 Cal. Rptr. 658

Damages for emotional distress allowed in action against insurer for tortious breach of covenant of good faith and fair dealing. Pistorius v. Prudential Ins. Co. (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 541, 552, 176 Cal. Rptr. 660

Damages for mental suffering recoverable for fraud or deceit of automobile seller and dealer who repeatedly falsely represented that car had been repaired. Sprague v. Frank J. Sanders Lincoln Mercury, Inc. (1981) 120 Cal. App. 3d 412, 417, 419, 174 Cal. Rptr. 608

Damages for mental suffering resulting from negligent breach of contract for mortician's services (losing decedent's cremated remains in transit) are recoverable. Allen v. Jones (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 207, 214-215 163 Cal. Rptr. 445

Damages for mental distress recoverable by husband of insured in action against insurer for bad faith refusal of uninsured motorist coverage. Delos v. Farmers Group, Inc. (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 642, 658-659, 155 Cal. Rptr. 843

Plaintiff who had miscarriage about one month after defendant made her dance by firing blanks at her feet was entitled to recover for emotional distress although she erroneously believed her miscarriage resulted from shooting incident. Gutierrez v. Alvarado (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 327, 331, 101 Cal. Rptr. 1

Damages for mental suffering resulting from breach of contract are allowed if failure to do thing contracted for may result in physical suffering or illness on part of other contracting party. Windeler v. Scheers Jewelers (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 844, 851, 88 Cal. Rptr. 39 ; but see Erlich v. Menezes (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 543, 552-557, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 886, 981 P.2d 978 (emotional distress damages not recoverable for negligent breach of contract if only injury to plaintiff is economic and policy concerns argue against allowing recovery for emotional distress)

Damages for mental distress resulting from violation of covenant of good faith and fair dealing implied in every insurance contract are recoverable. Silberg v. California Life Ins. Co. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 452, 460, 113 Cal. Rptr. 711, 521 P.2d 1103

Wrongful refusal of insurer to settle within policy limits constitutes single and indivisible cause of action giving rise to two forms of damages: (1) compensation for pecuniary loss, and (2) general damages for mental distress. Purcell v. Colonial Ins. Co. (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 807, 812, 97 Cal. Rptr. 874

Liability for intentional infliction of fright or emotional shock causing miscarriage. Vargas v. Ruggiero (1961) 197 Cal. App. 2d 709, 718-719, 17 Cal. Rptr. 568

Substantial damages for mental suffering alone permissibly recoverable in action for wrongful invasion of privacy. Fairfield v. American Photocopy Equip. Co. (1955) 138 Cal. App. 2d 82, 89, 291 P.2d 194

Damages for emotional distress in defamation action. Grimes v. Carter (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 694, 702, 50 Cal. Rptr. 808 ; see also Behrendt v. Times-Mirror Co. (1938) 30 Cal. App. 2d 77, 84, 85 P.2d 949

Damages for mental suffering allowed in wrongful eviction cases. Richardson v. Pridmore (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 124, 129, 217 P.2d 113 ; see also Emden v. Vitz (1948) 88 Cal. App. 2d 313, 316-319, 198 P.2d 696

Damages for mental distress not recoverable in action for fraud in scale or exchange of property. Sierra Nat'l Bank v. Brown (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 98, 103, 95 Cal. Rptr. 742

[g] Substantial Damages Test

If claim is actionable and resulted in substantial damages apart from those due to mental distress, damages for mental distress allowed. Crisci v. Security Ins. Co. (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 425, 434, 58 Cal. Rptr. 13, 426 P.2d 173

Substantial damages not required to be compensable; interference with legally protected interest sufficient to satisfy test of substantial damages. Jarchow v. Transamerica Title Ins. Co. (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 917, 937, 122 Cal. Rptr. 470

[2] Intentional Infliction of Mental Distress

[a] In General

If misconduct attributed to employer is normal part of employment relationship, employee suffering emotional distress causing disability is not able to avoid exclusivity provisions of workers' compensation remedies by characterizing actions as outrageous, unfair, or harassment. Cole v. Fair Oaks Fire Prot. Dist. (1987) 43 Cal. 3d 148, 151, 162, 233 Cal. Rptr. 308, 729 P.2d 743

Intentional infliction of emotional distress is actionable tort. State Rubbish Collectors Ass'n v. Siliznoff (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 330, 336-339, 240 P.2d 282 ; Guillory v. Godfrey (1955) 134 Cal. App. 2d 628, 633, 286 P.2d 474

Fact that defendant's act caused plaintiff emotional distress, without evidence of defendant's wrongful intent, is insufficient to state cause of action for intentional infliction of emotional distress. Cummings v. Farmers Ins. Exch. (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1407, 1423, 249 Cal. Rptr. 568

Demurrer to complaint for intentional infliction of emotional distress and fraud improperly overruled in action based on natural father's willful failure todisclose his paternity of children until plaintiffs (former husband and in-laws of mother) became emotionally attached to children; such wrongs not actionable in tort because no physical injuries to plaintiffs occurred, potential of harm to innocent children from maintenance of action was great, and action would frustrate strong public policy of having natural fathers acknowledge and support their children. Richard P. v. Superior Court (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1089, 1093-1094, 249 Cal. Rptr. 246

Complete emotional tranquility as seldom attainable in this world; law intervenes only if distress inflicted is so severe that no reasonable person could be expected to endure it; intensity and duration of distress are factors to be considered in determining its severity. Pitman v. City of Oakland (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 1037, 1047, 243 Cal. Rptr. 306

Intentional infliction of mental distress predicated on showing of extreme and outrageous conduct intended to cause extreme mental suffering. Slaughter v. Legal Process & Courier Serv. (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 1236, 1248, 209 Cal. Rptr. 189

Cause of action for intentional infliction of mental distress not permissible if based on same acts that were held insufficient to support cause of action for defamation. Flynn v. Higham (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 677, 680, 197 Cal. Rptr. 145

If complaint alleges acts on job, by plaintiff's employer and fellow workers, that were intended to cause emotional distress, and also alleges such acts (or resulting emotional distress) made plaintiff "physically sick and ill" and caused "some permanent disability," plaintiff's remedy against employer is exclusively claim for worker's compensation; employer's general demurrer was properly sustained. Ankeny v. Lockheed Missiles & Space Co. (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 531, 534-536, 151 Cal. Rptr. 828

Elements of prima facie case of intentional infliction of mental distress. Pitman v. City of Oakland (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 1037, 1046-1047, 243 Cal. Rptr. 306 ; Wallis v. Superior Court (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 1109, 1119-1120, 207 Cal. Rptr. 123 ; Kelly v. General Tel. Co. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 278, 287, 186 Cal. Rptr. 184 ; Fletcher v. Western Nat'l Life Ins. Co. (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 376, 394, 89 Cal. Rptr. 78

Requirements of outrageous conduct and severe mental distress applicable only to tort of intentional infliction of emotional distress. Gruenberg v. Aetna Ins. Co. (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 566, 579-580, 108 Cal. Rptr. 480, 510 P.2d 1032

[b] Accrual of Cause of Action

Cause of action for intentional infliction of emotional distress accrues only when plaintiff's distress becomes sufficiently severe. Kiseskey v. Carpenters' Trust for S. Cal. (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 222, 232, 192 Cal. Rptr. 492

[c] Causation

Bodily harm that is direct result of disturbing mental condition, without any intervening cause, was proximately caused by act that caused condition. Vargas v. Ruggiero (1961) 197 Cal. App. 2d 709, 717-718, 17 Cal. Rptr. 568

Proximate cause is question of fact if conflicting inferences can be drawn from evidence. Tate v. Canonica (1960) 180 Cal. App. 2d 898, 901, 5 Cal. Rptr. 28

[d] Cause of Action Precluded by Other Remedy

Family Law Act (former Civ. Code §§ 4000-5317 (as of January 1, 1994, see Family Code § 3100 et seq.)), which provides exclusive remedies for visitation disputes, precluded cause of action for intentional infliction of emotional distress for refusal of former spouse to allow other spouse to visit child. In re Marriage of Segel (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 602, 607-609, 224 Cal. Rptr. 591

[e] Federal Preemption

Administrative remedies provided by 42 U.S.C.S. § 5851(a) (federal Energy Reorganization Act of 1974) to employees who are retaliated against for reporting nuclear safety violations do not preempt state cause of action for intentional infliction of emotional distress arising from same employer conduct. English v. General Elec. Co. (1990) 496 U.S. 72, 78-90, 110 S. Ct. 2270, 110 L. Ed. 2d 65

State court tort actions brought by labor unions against employers arising from arguably unfair labor practices are within exclusive jurisdiction of National Labor Relations Board and therefore preempted. Machinists Auto. Trades Dist. Lodge v. Peterbilt Motors Co. (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 1402, 1407, 269 Cal. Rptr. 911

Liability attaches only if actor intended or should have recognized his or her conduct was likely to cause resultant harm. Spackman v. Good (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 518, 529, 54 Cal. Rptr. 78 ; Taylor v. Vallelunga (1959) 171 Cal. App. 2d 107, 109, 339 P.2d 910

[g] Outrageous Conduct

Comments associating plaintiff with Nazi war criminal not rising to level of conduct necessary to state claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress because comments did not exceed bounds of conduct tolerated in civilized community and because comments were also protected opinion, rather than actionable defamation. Koch v. Goldway (9th Cir. 1987) 817 F.2d 507, 510

Conduct of church, which had power to damage others' interests and breached their trust by misrepresenting and concealing its identity to induce them into highly structured environment where they were subjected, without their knowledge or consent, to coercive persuasion, was potentially outrageous for purpose of imposing liability for intentional infliction of emotional distress. Molko v. Holy Spirit Ass'n (1988) 46 Cal. 3d 1092, 1122, 252 Cal. Rptr. 122, 762 P.2d 46

Bank's conduct in misrepresenting to business customer that loans would be made if accounts receivable were assigned to bank, but refusing to loanmoney after such assignment was made and insisting on excessive guarantees for loans, was sufficiently outrageous to support jury award of compensatory and punitive damages for intentional infliction of emotional distress. Sanchez-Corea v. Bank of Am. (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 892, 908-909, 215 Cal. Rptr. 679, 701 P.2d 826

Police officers' plan to stake out area in which plaintiff was attacked to intervene after assailant had committed assault sufficiently to be subject to arrest, but before actually injuring plaintiff, was not extreme and outrageous conduct giving rise to liability for intentional infliction of emotional distress absent intent to injure plaintiff. Davidson v. City of Westminster (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 197, 209-210, 185 Cal. Rptr. 252, 649 P.2d 894

Employee's action for intentional infliction of emotional distress arose from employer's knowing use of outrageous racial epithet. Agarwal v. Johnson (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 932, 947, 160 Cal. Rptr. 141, 603 P.2d 58

Health plan administrator's denial of coverage for investigational treatment, along with failure to advise insured of right to seek independent external review of denial, did not constitute outrageous conduct that would support action for intentional infliction of emotional distress. Mintz v. Blue Cross of California (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 1594, 1609, 92 Cal. Rptr. 3d 422

Termination of distributorship agreement is not type of outrageous conduct necessary to state cause of action for intentional infliction of emotional distress. Unterberger v. Red Bull North America, Inc. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 414, 423, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 368

Insurer's unfair settlement actions, consisting of misleading third-party claimant as to applicable limitations period and directly advising claimant that attorney was not necessary, were not so outrageous as to support cause of action for intentional infliction of emotional distress. Coleman v. Republic Indem. Ins. Co. (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 403, 416-417, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 744

Attorney's violation of rule of professional conduct is insufficient to support finding that attorney's conduct was outrageous, because rules themselves now provide that violation does not create new civil cause of action; threatening criminal action in letter from attorney in effort to collect debt not outrageous conduct sufficient to support intentional infliction of emotional distress claim. Ross v. Creel Printing & Publ'g Co. (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 736, 746-747, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787

Whether alleged workplace harassment based on sexual orientation was outrageous conduct sufficient to support intentional infliction of emotional distress action was triable issue of fact. Kovatch v. California Cas. Mgmt. Co. (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 1256, 1278, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 217

Message left on answering machine that defendant was delivering ticket for airliner that had recently suffered well-publicized crash, made during feud following break-up of intimate relationship, was not actionable death threat. Cochran v. Cochran (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 488, 497-499, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 540

Ages of children at time defendant revealed to them on camera that their mother had just murdered other neighborhood children was relevant to question of outrageous conduct. KOVR-TV, Inc. v. Superior Court (Whittle) (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1023, 1027, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 431

Bank's foreclosure of property pledged to secure corporate loan and on which individual plaintiff (shareholder) lived was privileged; banker's remark questioning whether plaintiff's daughter had guts to act as real estate broker in liquidation sale of her mother's house as heartless, insensitive, and meriting opprobrium, but was not type of outrageous conduct necessary to support action for intentional infliction of emotional distress. Kruse v. Bank of Am. (1988) 202

Cal. App. 3d 38, 67-68, 248 Cal. Rptr. 217

In action by employee against agent of employer's workers' compensation carrier, allegations that agent knew of plaintiff's susceptibility to profound mental distress and of her repeated attempts at suicide resulting from incidents causing her disability, and allegation that agent intentionally delayed payments of approved benefits, stated cause of action for intentional infliction of emotional distress. Hernandez v. General Adjustment Bureau (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 999, 1007, 245 Cal. Rptr. 288

Behavior is outrageous if defendant: (1) abuses relation or position that gives defendant power to damage plaintiff's interest; (2) knows plaintiff is susceptible to injury through mental distress; or (3) acts intentionally or unreasonably with recognition that acts are likely to result in illness through mental distress. Hernandez v. General Adjustment Bureau (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 999, 1007, 245 Cal. Rptr. 288 ; Wallis v. Superior Court (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 1109, 1120, 207 Cal. Rptr. 123

Automobile insurer's denial of wrongful death claim to one of deceased's heirs, after already paying full policy limit amount to another heir, did not amount to outrageous conduct for purposes of action for intentional infliction of emotional distress. Spearman v. State Farm Fire & Cas. Co. (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1105, 1113, 230 Cal. Rptr. 264

Extreme, outrageous, and atrocious conduct in discharge of employee was evidenced by employer's deception, flagrant disregard of company policies, and denial of employee's right of free choice, resulting in humiliation and degradation of employee. Rulon-Miller v. International Bus. Machs. Corp. (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 241, 254-255, 208 Cal. Rptr. 524

Spreading deliberately false statements that former employee in effect committed forgery was extreme and outrageous conduct. Kelly v. General Tel. Co. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 278, 287, 186 Cal. Rptr. 184

Award of damages to both wife and husband was proper in action for intentional infliction of mental distress arising out of battery/rape because defendant misused and manipulated his position as friend to violate and rape wife and after rape informed husband that wife had libeled and slandered defendant and that she needed psychiatric help. Delia S. v. Torres (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 471, 482-484, 184 Cal. Rptr. 787 ; overruled on other grounds, Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181

Rental fee collection conducted in accordance with common business practices was not outrageous conduct or evidence of intent to inflict emotional distress. Girard v. Ball (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 772, 787, 178 Cal. Rptr. 406

Action for intentional infliction of emotional distress based on insurer's delay in paying benefits, change in amounts paid, and disobedience to subpoena duces tecum issued by Workers' Compensation Appeals Board was barred by exclusivity of worker's compensation remedy because acts alleged not so outrageous and extreme as to avoid exclusivity of remedy. Everfield v. State Comp. Ins. Fund (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 15, 18-21, 171 Cal. Rptr. 164 ; see also Fremont Indem. Co. v. Superior Court (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 879, 881, 184 Cal. Rptr. 184

Complaint in action for intentional infliction of emotional distress alleging facts showing abuse of employer-employee relationship with intent to cause emotional distress to plaintiff sufficiently alleged facts from which trier of fact could conclude that defendants' conduct was extreme and outrageous. Lagies v. Copley (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 958, 974,

No liability for intentional infliction of emotional distress unless defendant's conduct is outrageous. Cornblith v. First Maint. Supply Co. (1968) 268 Cal. App. 2d 564, 565, 74 Cal. Rptr. 216

[h] Physical Injury

Right to compensation for emotional distress does not require physical injury. Grimes v. Carter (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 694, 699, 50 Cal. Rptr. 808 ; Leavy v. Cooney (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 496, 502, 29 Cal. Rptr. 580

More in the way of extreme outrage required if no physical harm results from emotional distress. Perati v. Atkinson (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 472, 474, 28 Cal. Rptr. 898

[i] Pleading

Complaint in action for conspiracy to intentionally inflict emotional distress alleging that fellow employees acted outside course and scope of their agency relationship with corporate employer, that they acted in furtherance of conspiracy to their own individual advantages and in derogation of plaintiff's rights, and that they participated because of their feelings of ill will and hatred toward plaintiff alleged facts sufficient to overcome demurrer made on ground that workers' compensation was plaintiff's exclusive remedy. Lagies v. Copley (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 958, 969-970, 168 Cal. Rptr. 368

Facts giving rise to cause of action for injuries resulting from emotional distress as required to be specifically pleaded. Deboe v. Horn (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 221, 224, 94 Cal. Rptr. 77

[j] Privilege

Constitutional privileges arising under U.S. Const. amend. I applicable to actions for intentional infliction of emotional distress. Hustler Magazine, Inc. v. Falwell (1988) 485 U.S. 46, 52-53, 108 S. Ct. 876, 99 L. Ed. 2d 41

Privilege accorded to statements made in judicial proceedings [former Civ. Code § 47(2) (now see Civ. Code § 47(b))], although located in Civil Code chapter on defamation, is also applicable to cause of action for intentional infliction of emotional distress and related tort of outrage. Ribas v. Clark (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 355, 364, 212 Cal. Rptr. 143, 696 P.2d 637

Absolute privilege of former Civ. Code § 47(2) (now see Civ. Code § 47(b)) precluded claim of intentional infliction of emotional distress resulting from filing of complaint. Ribas v. Clark (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 355, 364, 212 Cal. Rptr. 143, 696 P.2d 637 ; Williams v. Coombs (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 626, 645-646, 224 Cal. Rptr. 865 , overruled in part, Sheldon Appel Co. v. Albert & Oliker, 47 Cal. 3d 863, 254 Cal. Rptr. 336, 765 P.2d 498

Constitutional First Amendment privilege does not protect newsperson from action for intentional infliction of emotional distress if conduct complained of was sufficiently outrageous to justify claim. KOVR-TV, Inc. v. Superior Court (Whittle) (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1023, 1027, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 431

In action for abuse of process and emotional distress, publications made in document prepared by expert witness for use in settlement negotiations between plaintiff and plaintiff's former wife and in expert witness's false testimony at dissolution proceedings were covered by absolute privilege of former Civ. Code § 47(2) (now see Civ. Code § 47(b)). Carden v. Getzoff (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 907, 913, 235 Cal. Rptr. 698

Privilege afforded by former Civ. Code § 47(2) (now see Civ. Code § 47(b)) necessarily precluded cause of action for intentional infliction of emotional distress. Wallin v. Vienna Sausage Mfg. Co. (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 1051, 1056, 203 Cal. Rptr. 375

Good faith assertion of economic interest is privileged conduct precluding liability for intentional infliction of emotional distress. Girard v. Ball (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 772, 786-787, 178 Cal. Rptr. 406

Defendant's conduct required to be unprivileged to impose liability for intentional infliction of mental distress. Kachig v. Boothe (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 626, 641, 99 Cal. Rptr. 393

Privilege exists to protect witness in official proceeding from liability for intentional infliction of emotional distress. Agostini v. Strycula (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 804, 808, 42 Cal. Rptr. 314

[k] Special Relationship

Relationship of parties and actor's knowledge of special susceptibility are significant in determination of liability. Alcorn v. Anbro Eng'g, Inc. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 493, 498, 86 Cal. Rptr. 88, 468 P.2d 216

As matter of law, shareholder not entitled to recover damages for emotional distress for injury done to corporation; corporation is distinct legal entity. Tan Jay Int'l, Ltd. v. Canadian Indem. Co. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 695, 706, 243 Cal. Rptr. 907

Significant, stable, and exclusive homosexual relationship between two men, as matter of law, is not sufficiently close to warrant recovery of damages for intentional infliction of emotional distress based on one's witnessing intentional assault on other, because no abuse directed at plaintiff. Coon v. Joseph (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1269, 1272-1273, 237 Cal. Rptr. 873

Defendant's knowledge of plaintiff's special susceptibility was possible ground for recovery for intentional infliction of emotional distress in case in which plaintiff, recovering in defendant's hospital from recent surgery, was aggressively questioned regarding payment of medical bill by defendant's hospital collections department. Bundren v. Superior Court (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 784, 791-792, 193 Cal. Rptr. 671

Recovery of damages for both battery and intentional infliction of emotional distress was not improper double recovery because jury could have found that defendant's abuse and manipulation of position of friendship, trust, and influence to place friend's wife in vulnerable position was so extreme and outrageous as to cause severe emotional distress beyond that resulting from rape of wife itself. Delia S. v. Torres (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 471, 482-484, 184 Cal. Rptr. 787 ; overruled on other grounds, Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P.2d 181

Landlord-tenant relationship significant in determination of liability. Aweeka v. Bonds (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 278, 281-282, 97 Cal. Rptr. 650

[l] Words Alone

Trustee's use of crude sexual language in attempt to extract sexual favors from mother of trust beneficiary, in return for favorable responses to trust disposition requests, was not so outrageous as to justify recovery for intentional infliction of emotional distress. Hughes v. Pair (2009) 46 Cal. 4th 1035, 1051, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 636, 209 P.3d 963

Message left on answering machine that defendant was delivering ticket for airliner that had recently suffered well-publicized crash, made during feud following break-up of intimate relationship, was not actionable death threat. Cochran v. Cochran (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 488, 497-499, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 540

Words alone that result in physical injury are actionable for intentional infliction of emotional distress if act is intentional and unreasonable and actor should recognize likelihood of injury. Golden v. Dungan (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 295, 305, 97 Cal. Rptr. 577 ; Bowden v. Spiegel, Inc. (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 793, 794-795, 216 P.2d 571

Actor's conduct not unreasonable if required by law. Mason v. Western Union Tel. Co. (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 429, 125 Cal. Rptr. 53

[3] Negligent Infliction of Mental Distress

[a] In General

Allegation that plaintiff suffered emotional injuries and psychological trauma was adequate allegation of detriment in pleading negligent infliction of serious emotional distress. Hedlund v. Superior Court (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 695, 706 n.8, 194 Cal. Rptr. 805, 669 P.2d 41

Chief element in determining defendant's duty is foreseeability of risk. Dillon v. Legg (1969) 68 Cal. 2d 728, 740, 69 Cal. Rptr. 72, 441 P.2d 912 ; Goodwin v. Reilley (1985) 176 Cal. App. 3d 86, 93, 221 Cal. Rptr. 374

Cause of action for negligent infliction of serious emotional distress may be stated. Molien v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 916, 930, 167 Cal. Rptr. 831, 616 P.2d 813 (limited on duty issue in Burgess v. Superior Court (1992) 2 Cal. 4th 1064, 1074, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615, 831 P.2d 1197).

Physical impact not required to recover for negligently inflicted mental distress. Amaya v. Home Ice, Fuel & Supply Co. (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 295, 304-306, 29 Cal. Rptr. 33, 379 P.2d 513

Direct-victim liability available only if: (1) preexisting relationship exists; and (2) defendant's conduct can be characterized as "outrageous." Bro v. Glaser (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 1398, 1417-1437, 1440-1441, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894

No cause of action for negligent infliction of emotional distress against physician if physician presents plaintiff with favorable but erroneous diagnosis about spouse's physical condition and plaintiff then learns that misdiagnosed spouse has fatal illness. Kossel v. Superior Court (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 1060, 1063-1068, 231 Cal. Rptr. 183

Unmarried woman who lived with decedent for two years, had attempted to marry decedent, bore decedent's child, witnessed decedent's stabbing, and held decedent while he died, was able to state cause of action for negligent infliction of emotional distress. Ledger v. Tippitt (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 625, 647-648, 210 Cal. Rptr. 814 , overruled on other grounds, Elden v. Sheldon (1988) 46 Cal. 3d 267, 250 Cal. Rptr. 254, 758 P.2d 582

Cause of action for negligent infliction of emotional distress exists against corporation if employee, acting within scope of employment, makes defamatory internal corporate communication concerning third party, without first conducting reasonable investigation as to truth of matter, and communication is motivated by malice. Kelly v. General Tel. Co. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 278, 286, 186 Cal. Rptr. 184

Qualified privilege of Civ. Code § 47(3) (publication without malice between interested parties) as applying to negligent infliction of emotional distress. Kelly v. General Telephone Co. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 278, 286, 186 Cal. Rptr. 184 (former Civil Code section; now see Civ. Code § 47(c))

[b] Duty Owed Directly to Plaintiff

Damages for negligently inflicted emotional distress recoverable by plaintiff other than physically injured party if they result from breach of duty owed to plaintiff that is assumed by defendant or imposed on defendant as matter of law, or that arises out of relationship between two. Marlene F. v. Affiliated Psychiatric Medical Clinic, Inc. (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 583, 590, 257 Cal. Rptr. 98, 770 P.2d 278

Doctor or hospital potentially liable to parents of psychiatric patient for negligent infliction of emotional distress damages caused by breach of duty to parents arising out of physician-patient relationship or assumed by hospital or doctor; assumed duty to parents possibly arises from using parents as active instrumentalities in patient's treatment. Jacoves v. United Merch. Corp. (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 88, 109, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 468 ; but see Huggins v. Longs Drug Stores California, Inc. (1993) 6 Cal. 4th 124, 131-133, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 587, 862 P.2d 148 (fact that pharmacist knew or should have known that parents of infant would administer prescription insufficient to impose duty toward parents)

Six-year-old girl not direct victim of alleged conduct by pastor who molested her 13-year-old brother, who, in turn, molested her; pastor's conduct not directed at girl, and she did not establish independent, preexisting relationship with pastor that would have imposed duty of care toward her. Evan F. v. Hughson United Methodist Church (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 828, 840, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 748

Spouse of terminated employee not direct victim of employer's conduct that allegedly constituted wrongful termination. Anderson v. Northrop Corp. (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 772, 776-780, 250 Cal. Rptr. 189

Duty owed by drunk driver does not extend to parents of injured victim; distress derived solely from child's injury is remediable only through bystander action. Goodwin v. Reilley (1985) 176 Cal. App. 3d 86, 98, 221 Cal. Rptr. 374

[c] Injury to Third Party

Plaintiff who knew sister was missing, but who witnessed neither abduction nor infliction of injury, was precluded from recovering emotional distress damages under bystander theory, due to lack of contemporaneous observance of injury. Martin v. United States (9th Cir. 1992) 984 F.2d 1033, 1037-1038

In context of medical malpractice cases, bystanders cannot sue for negligent infliction of emotional distress based on unperceived medical errors hidden within course of treatment; bystanders must perceive at time of injury that defendant's conduct is causing injury. Bird v. Saenz (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 910, 921, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 465, 51 P.3d 324

Damages for negligently inflicted emotional distress recoverable by percipient witness of injury to another only if plaintiff: (1) is closely related to injury victim; (2) is present at scene of injury-producing event at time when itoccurs and is then aware that it is causing injury to victim; and (3) suffers serious emotional distress as result. Thing v. La Chusa (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 644, 667-668, 257 Cal. Rptr. 865, 771 P.2d 814

Absent exceptional circumstances, recovery for negligently inflicted emotional distress as limited to bystanders who are relatives residing in same household, or parents, siblings, children, and grandparents of victim. Thing v. La Chusa (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 644, 667-668, 668 n.10, 257 Cal. Rptr. 865, 771 P.2d 814

Unmarried cohabitant as unable to state cause of action for negligent infliction of emotional distress based on perception of injury to another; plaintiff as required to be spouse, sibling, parent, grandparent, or child of injured party. Elden v. Sheldon (1988) 46 Cal. 3d 267, 274-277, 250 Cal. Rptr. 254, 758 P.2d 582

Cause of action for negligent infliction of emotional distress does not require that injury or death result from sudden occurrence. Ochoa v. Superior Court (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 159, 167-168, 216 Cal. Rptr. 661, 703 P.2d 1

Cause of action for negligent infliction of emotional distress does not require distinction between voluntary and involuntary presence at scene of traumatic event. Ochoa v. Superior Court (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 159, 171, 216 Cal. Rptr. 661, 703 P.2d 1

"Dangerous condition," as defined in Gov. Code § 830, relating to liability imposed on public entity by Gov. Code § 835 for dangerous condition creating reasonably foreseeable risk of kind of injury incurred as broad enough to include condition that creates danger of injury to intangible interests, so long as injury is of a kind that law would redress if inflicted by private person, and hence includes emotional distress of close relatives who witnessed drownings of children in reservoir. Delta Farms Reclamation Dist. v. Superior Court (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 699, 710-711, 190 Cal. Rptr. 494, 660 P.2d 1168

Guidelines in determining liability for emotional distress caused by injury to third party. Dillon v. Legg (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 728, 740-741, 69 Cal. Rptr. 72, 441 P.2d 912 ; Powers v. Sissoev (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 865, 871, 114 Cal. Rptr. 868

Plaintiffs, with knowledge that mother had suffered complications during surgery, witnessed mother being transferred from operating room to critical care unit and back again, and observed her swollen and purple condition; triable issue of fact existed as to whether negligence extended to events witnessed by plaintiffs that occurred outside operating room such that plaintiffs might recover for emotional distress of witnessing injury to mother. Bird v. Saenz (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 167, 182, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 131

Close relationship not required for recovery by plaintiff, who was herself direct victim of defendant's negligence for damages caused by witnessing injury to third party injured in same event. Long v. PKS, Inc. (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1293, 1300 n.9, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 103 (dicta that foster parent/foster child relationship could be sufficiently close relationship for recovery under bystander theory)

Contemporary sensory awareness requirement not met by six-year old girl's claim of negligent infliction of emotional distress by church and its parent organization alleging that pastor molested her 13-year-old brother who, in turn, molested her; girl not present at scene of brother's injury and not then aware that he was being injured. Evan F. v. Hughson United Methodist Church (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 828, 839, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 748

Significant, stable, and exclusive homosexual relationship between two men, as matter of law, was not close relationship warranting recovery of damages for negligent infliction of emotional distress based on one's witnessing intentional assault on other. Coon v. Joseph (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1269, 1272, 1274-1277, 237 Cal. Rptr. 873

No cause of action for negligent infliction of emotional distress accrues when infant suffers injuries at birth because of physicians' purportedly negligent prenatal treatment and parents fail to allege that physicians' conduct was directed at parents and that such conduct elicited serious emotional response; parents' mere allegations of general disruption of "normal" routine activities of their lives as inadequate basis for emotional distress damages Martinez v. County of Los Angeles (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 884, 893-894, 231 Cal. Rptr. 96

Failure to detect cancer or follow up on X-ray findings is not event that could be witnessed. Budavari v. Barry (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 849, 852-853, 222 Cal. Rptr. 446

Contemporaneous perception of injury to third party not necessary if plaintiffs (mother and father) are not bystanders, but direct victims of infliction of emotional distress, caused by physician's negligent prenatal care of mother resulting in unwanted birth of child with Down Syndrome. Andalon v. Superior Court (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 600, 608, 611, 208 Cal. Rptr. 899

Action for emotional distress derives solely from injuries to third person, which requires contemporaneous sensory observation, as distinguished from action based on tort directed at plaintiff as well as third person, which does not require contemporaneous sensory observation. Wiggins v. Royale Convalescent Hosp. (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 914, 918, 206 Cal. Rptr. 2

Negligent misdiagnosis of child by health professional possibly, as matter of law, caused foreseeable emotional distress to parent; but parent required to plead circumstances of knowledge of seriousness of improperly diagnosed condition. Accounts Adjustment Bureau v. Cooperman (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 844, 848, 204 Cal. Rptr. 881

Plaintiffs who witnessed drowning of first cousin did not have sufficiently close relationship to victim to permit recovery for negligent infliction of emotional distress because defendant could not have known or foreseen quality of relationship or that plaintiffs would witness accident. Trapp v. Schuyler Constr. (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 1140, 1143, 197 Cal. Rptr. 411

Cause of action for emotional distress from witnessing injury to third person requires legally cognizable relationship between plaintiff and injured third party. Kately v. Wilkinson (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 576, 585, 195 Cal. Rptr. 902

Relationship of victim as friend of witness, in relationship "akin to family," is insufficient to state cause of action for negligent infliction of emotional distress. Kately v. Wilkinson (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 576, 585, 195 Cal. Rptr. 902

Because parents of accident victim killed by defendant arrived at scene 15 minutes after accident occurred, and therefore did not see or hear incidentbut only mentally visualized it after the fact, no cause of action for negligent infliction of mental suffering accrued. Madigan v. City of Santa Ana (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 607, 610, 193 Cal. Rptr. 593

Sensory observation requirement not met if plaintiffs only observed their child after injury occurred and did not see, hear, or sensorially perceive injury-causing event. Hathaway v. Superior Court (1980) 112 Cal. App. 3d 728, 732-736, 169 Cal. Rptr. 435

Event required to be subject of sensory perception. Jansen v. Children's Hosp. Med. Ctr. (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 22, 24, 106 Cal. Rptr. 883

Recovery not allowed if damages flow from knowledge of unobserved tort. Hair v. County of Monterey (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 538, 543, 119 Cal. Rptr. 639 , disapproved on other grounds, Baxter v. Superior Court (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 461

Observance factor satisfied if injury results from seeing injured relative immediately after tortious event. Archibald v. Braverman (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 253, 256, 79 Cal. Rptr. 723

Liability for emotional distress not resulting if plaintiff is only advised of accident by others. Vanguard Ins. Co. v. Schabatka (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 887, 898, 120 Cal. Rptr. 614 ; Deboe v. Horn (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 221, 223-224, 94 Cal. Rptr. 77

No breach of duty to plaintiff if there is no breach of duty to third party. Wynne v. Orcutt Union Sch. Dist. (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 1108, 1111, 95 Cal. Rptr. 458

[d] Physical Injury

NOTE:

Physical injury is no longer required in an action for negligent infliction of serious emotional distress [see Molien v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 916, 167 Cal. Rptr. 831, 616 P.2d 813 ; Slaughter v. Legal Process & Courier Serv. (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 1236, 1250, 209 Cal. Rptr. 189] .

Dillon v. Legg requires physical injury. Capelouto v. Kaiser Found. Hosp. (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 889, 892 n. 1, 103 Cal. Rptr. 856, 500 P.2d 880 ; Employers Cas. Ins. Co. v. Foust (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 382, 386, 105 Cal. Rptr. 505

Shock to nervous system is physical injury. Di Mare v. Cresci (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 292, 301, 23 Cal. Rptr. 772, 373 P.2d 860 ; Taylor v. Pole (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 668, 671, 107 P.2d 614 ; Leasman v. (1952) 114 Cal. App. 2d 232, 234, 249 P.2d 843

Emotional distress, standing alone, is not "bodily injury" within meaning of liability insurance policy coverage clause. Aim Ins. Co. v. Culcasi (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 209, 218-227, 280 Cal. Rptr. 766

Negligently caused emotional distress not compensable unless accompanied by physical injury. Leasman v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 376, 381, 121 Cal. Rptr. 768 ; Gautier v. General Tel. Co. (1965) 234 Cal. App. 2d 302, 307, 44 Cal. Rptr. 404

Physical injuries must be alleged with sufficient particularity so as to inform adverse parties of dimensions of injuries. Hair v. County of Monterey (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 538, 542, 119 Cal. Rptr. 639 , disapproved on other grounds, Baxter v. Superior Court (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 461, 138 Cal. Rptr. 31

Allegation that plaintiff suffered severe shock to nerves and nervous system was sufficient to plead physical injury. Vanoni v. Western Airlines (1967) 247 Cal. App. 2d 793, 797, 56 Cal. Rptr. 115

Expert testimony not required to prove injury to nervous system by sudden shock. Windeler v. Scheers Jewelers (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 844, 853, 88 Cal. Rptr. 39

Damages for physical injuries as result of nervous shock are permitted even in absence of impact. Cook v. Maier (1939) 33 Cal. App. 2d 581, 584, 92 P.2d 434 ; see Sloane v. Southern Cal. Ry. Co. (1896) 111 Cal. 668, 680, 44 P. 320

[e] Risk and Foreseeability

Arrest and attendant emotional distress are foreseeable consequences of reporting transaction as illegal, and failure of police to make thorough investigation prior to arrest is not such unforeseeable superseding cause that would cut off liability. Pool v. City of Oakland (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 1051, 1063-1065, 232 Cal. Rptr. 528, 728 P.2d 1163

Whether or not party owes duty of care is dependent on foreseeability of risk and weighing of policy considerations; improper service of process, combined with subsequent falsification of affidavit to obtain default judgment against plaintiff, foreseeably resulted in emotional as well as financial injury; policy of encouraging process servers to perform their function responsibly justified imposition of legal duty of care toward individual served. Slaughter v. Legal Process & Courier Serv. (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 1236, 1249-1250, 209 Cal. Rptr. 189

[4] Seduction

Action for intentional infliction of emotional distress based on physician's initiating sexual relationship with female patient, if physician did not in any way represent that sexual relations were in furtherance of treatment, is barred by Civ. Code § 43.5(c), which abolishes cause of action for seduction of person over age of legal consent. Atienza v. Taub (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 388, 394, 239 Cal. Rptr. 454

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLIST

32-362 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 362.50

§ 362.50 Plaintiff's Checklist

NOTE:
The following checklist is illustrative only of the basic points that counsel for a plaintiff in an action for intentional or negligent infliction of mental distress should cover.

[1] Facts to Be Ascertained

NOTE:
Not all of the following facts will be ascertainable from the client in the initial interview. Subsequent interviews may be required or it may be necessary to ascertain the facts from other persons, including the potential defendant, by use of discovery proceedings.

1. Facts relating to the plaintiff:

a. Name, address, and telephone number of the plaintiff.

b. Capacity of the plaintiff (such as minor, adult, corporation, unincorporated association, partner in partnership, public employee, etc.).

c. Additional facts, as desired, relating to the plaintiff's stability and financial solvency (such as employment status, prior residences, credit, bank, and personal references).

2. Facts relating to the defendant(s):

a. Name and address of each potential defendant.

b. Capacity of each potential defendant (such as corporation, unincorporated association, agent, employee, public entity).

3. Facts relating to intentional infliction of emotional distress:

a. Date and time of incident.

b. Place.

c. Description of what happened, including identification of all persons involved and their relationship to the plaintiff, and a description of what each person did as far as the plaintiff can recollect.

d. The plaintiff's statement as to the defendant's motivation for the outrageous conduct resulting in the infliction of severe emotional distress on the plaintiff.

e. Injuries sustained by the plaintiff [see Paragraph 5, infra].

4. Facts relating to negligent infliction of emotional distress:

a. Date and time of incident.

b. Place.

c. Description of what happened, including identification of all persons involved and their relationship to the plaintiff, and a description of what each person did so far as the plaintiff can recollect.

d. Property involved; if vehicles, the year, make, model, and license number of each vehicle, as well as the name and address of the operator and owner of each [for a procedural checklist for use in an automobile accident case, see Ch. 83, Automobiles: Bringing the Action § 83.14].

e. Injuries sustained by the plaintiff.

5. Injuries sustained by the plaintiff.

a. Personal injuries.

b. Name, address, and telephone number of each physician who treated, or is treating, the plaintiff for his or her injuries. Communication may thereafter be had with such doctors for more detailed information regarding the plaintiff's injuries.

c. Name and address of hospital in which treatment was rendered to the plaintiff as a result of the injuries sustained by the plaintiff.

d. Amount of medical, hospital, and ambulance bills resulting from the mental distress and emotional suffering; amount paid and amount owed.

e. Amount of time lost to the plaintiff as a result of the mental distress and emotional suffering, and the plaintiff's estimation of the reasonable value thereof including lost wages and lost fringe benefits, if any.

f. Name, address, and telephone number of each psychiatrist who treated, or is treating, or may be treating the plaintiff as a result of mental suffering and distress. Communication may thereafter be had with such psychiatrist(s), subject to the plaintiff's consent, for more detailed information regarding these injuries.

g. Amount of money paid for psychiatric services; amount paid and amount owed.

[2] Documents to Be Obtained

NOTE:
Not all of the following documents will be obtainable from the client in the initial interview. Subsequent interviews may be required, or, where circumstances will permit it, they might be mailed to the attorney. It might, however, be necessary to obtain the documents from someone other than the client. Notes following the documents listed indicate sources from which such documents may be obtained. If the contents of any such document must be proved at trial, the document itself must be presented [Evid. Code § 1520], unless secondary evidence is admissible [see Evid. Code § 1521 et seq.].

1. Letters, correspondence, or any other written documents reflecting intent on the part of the defendant to inflict mental and emotional suffering on the plaintiff. These documents may be obtainable from the plaintiff; however, where they are in the possessionof the defendant, they may have to be obtained through discovery [see Ch. 190, Depositions and Discovery].

2. Copy of an accident report, if any.

NOTE:
This may be obtained from the local police department or from the California Highway Patrol.

3. Traffic citations issued, if any.

4. Criminal conviction record ("rap sheet") of each party involved and of each possible witness.

NOTE:
This information may be obtained from local police departments or from retail credit bureaus; it may not be obtained from the Department of Justice [see Penal Code § 11105].

5. Written statements, if any, of parties or witnesses.

6. Medical histories and reports of the plaintiff's present injuries and of the plaintiff's past injuries and illnesses.

7. Receipts of expenses paid in connection with injuries sustained by the plaintiff in the incident [for example, medical and hospital bills, psychiatric bills, and similar items].

8. Relevant insurance policies of parties involved.

9. Copies of any written notices or correspondence to or from insurance carriers with respect to the incident and compensation.

[3] Additional Counts and Other Causes of Action

1. Facts that give rise to a cause of action for the infliction of mental distress, or that suggest mental distress as an element of damages, might give rise to one or more of the following actions that counsel will want to consider:

a. Assault and battery [for procedure and forms, see Ch. 58, Assault and Battery].

b. Breach of contract in which failure to do the thing contracted for may result in physical suffering or illness on the part of the other contracting party [for procedure and forms, see Ch. 140, Contracts].

c. Breach of covenant of good faith in an insurance contract [for procedure and forms, see Ch. 308, Insurance].

d. Strict liability in products liability cases [for procedure and forms, see Ch. 460, Products Liability].

e. False imprisonment [for procedure and forms, see Ch. 257, False Imprisonment].

f. Invasion of privacy [for procedure and forms, see Ch. 429, Privacy].

g. Libel and slander [for procedure and forms, see Ch. 340, Libel and Slander (Defamation)].

h. Malicious prosecution and abuse of process [for procedure and forms, see Ch. 357, Malicious Prosecution and Abuse of Process].

i. Nuisance [for procedure and forms, see Ch. 391, Nuisance].

j. Trespass [for procedure and forms, see Ch. 550, Trespass].

k. Wrongful death [for procedure and forms, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions].

l. Wrongful eviction [for procedure and forms, see Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions].

[4] Essential Allegations of Complaint

1. Intentional infliction of mental distress.

a. Outrageous conduct by the defendant directed at the plaintiff.

b. The defendant's intention of causing or reckless disregard of the probability of causing emotional distress.

c. The plaintiff's suffering severe or extreme emotional distress.

d. Actual and proximate causation of the emotional distress by the defendant's outrageous conduct.

2. Negligent infliction of serious mental distress.

a. The defendant's legal duty to use due care with regard to the plaintiff.

b. Breach of that duty.

c. Breach of the duty as the proximate cause of the resulting injury.

d. If the action involves mental distress caused by witnessing injury to a third party:
(1) The plaintiff's location in relation to the scene of the accident.

(2) The plaintiff's contemporaneous observance of the accident.

(3) Relationship of the plaintiff and the third party.

§ 362.51 Defendant's Checklist

NOTE:
The following checklist is illustrative only of the basic points that counsel for a defendant in an action for intentional or negligent infliction of mental distress should cover.

The following facts should be ascertained by counsel for the defendant.

NOTE:
Not all of the following facts will be ascertainable from the client in the initial interview. Subsequent interviews may be required or it may be necessary to ascertain the facts from others, including the plaintiff, by use of discovery proceedings.

1. Facts relating to the defendant:

a. Name, address, and telephone number of the defendant.

b. Capacity of the defendant (for example, corporation, unincorporated association, agent, employee, public entity, or public employer).

NOTE:
The defendant's capacity generally will be revealed by the complaint. Nevertheless, counsel will wish to confirm the allegation with his or her client. Of course, if the capacity is not disclosed by the complaint, counsel will wish to ascertain it.

c. Additional facts, as desired, relating to the defendant's stability and financial solvency (such as employment status, prior residences, credit, bank, and personal references).

2. Facts required for the answer.

NOTE:
Counsel should advise his or her client not to discuss the case with any third person.

a. Date, manner, and place of service of the complaint and summons.

b. Allegations of complaint. Ascertain which of the facts alleged in the complaint are true, which are false, and which facts the defendant does not know the truth or falsity of.

c. Affirmative defenses.

NOTE:
Affirmative defenses can be raised by demurrer, as well as by answer, if they appear on the face of the complaint or from matters of which the court must or may take judicial notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10, 430.30].

(1) Privilege (assertion of economic interest or defamation privilege).

(2) Statute of limitations [see Code Civ. Proc. § 335.1; former Code Civ. Proc. § 340(3) (statute prior to 2003); Hull v. Central Pathology Serv. Med. Clinic (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 1328, 1333, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 175] .

CAUTION:
This form of allegations may not be used alone but should be attached to the Judicial Council form of complaint or cross complaint for personal injury, property damage, or wrongful death [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.45; Judicial Council Forms PLD-PI-001, PLD-PI-002].

[2] Use of Form

This allegation of intentional infliction of emotional distress is the Judicial Council approved form of cause of action for an intentional tort [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12; Cal. Judicial Council Form PLD-PI-001(3)].

This form must be used as an attachment to the approved Judicial Council form of complaint or cross complaint for personal injury, property damage, or wrongful death [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.45(b)]. When filling in the approved complaint form for use with this form of attachment, the box labeled "OTHER" in the caption to the complaint should be checked, and the cause of action should be specified, as, for example, by inserting "INTENTIONAL TORT--INTENTIONAL INFLICTION OF EMOTIONAL DISTRESS." Additionally, the box labeled "Intentional Tort" in Paragraph 11 of the approved complaint form must be checked.

For a filled-in example of the Judicial Council complaint for personal injury, property damage, and wrongful death, see Ch. 380, Negligence . For general information relating to the use of Judicial Council complaint forms, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints .

These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in

PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Judicial Council Trial Court Forms

Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12 requires that the Judicial Council develop and approve official forms for use in California trial courts for any complaint, cross complaint, or answer in any action based on personal injury, property damage, wrongful death, unlawful detainer, breach of contract, or fraud. Use of the forms is optional [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12].

[4] Filling Out Intentional Tort Attachment

[a] Title of Case and Description of Paper

Insert the short title of the case as taken from the caption of the complaint in the box at the top, left corner of the form.

Insert the number of the cause of action in the space provided below the title. Check the box labeled "Complaint" or "Cross-Complaint" to indicate the document to which the form is attached, and insert the page number. The page number inserted in this form assumes that the three-page Judicial Council approved form of complaint for personal injury was used.

[b] Separate Cause of Action Form

The attachment states "Use a separate cause of action form for each cause of action." If there is more than one plaintiff in the action, each one has a separate cause of action. If this direction is strictly adhered to, a separate intentional tort attachment for each plaintiff would have to be attached to the complaint. It is not clear if this is what is intended by the direction at the top of the attachment, since the complaint form, while referring to "plaintiff" (singular) in the caption, seems intended for use by more than one plaintiff according to the wording of Paragraph 2. of the General Complaint form.

[c] Allegations

In Paragraph IT-1., insert the name of the plaintiff alleged to have suffered emotional distress, and insert the name of the defendant alleged to have inflicted the emotional distress.

If the plaintiff is ignorant of the name of a defendant or defendants, check the box labeled "Does" and insert the number of fictitious defendants alleged to have caused the plaintiff damages [see Code Civ. Proc. § 474].

Insert the date on which the alleged infliction of emotional distress occurred in the space provided.

Insert the place where the alleged infliction of emotional distress occurred. This allegation relates to the proper venue for the action when there is physical injury or incapacity [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a)].

In describing the reasons for the defendant's alleged liability, plaintiff should allege (1) any special relationship between the parties (Paragraph IT-1.a.) [see Alcorn v. Anbro Eng'g, Inc. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 493, 498-499, 86 Cal. Rptr. 88, 468 P.2d 216 ; see also § 362.10[3][b], [c]]; (2) outrageous conduct by the defendant (Paragraph IT-1.b.); and (3) the extreme emotional distress and other injuries suffered by the plaintiff which were proximately caused by the defendant's conduct (Paragraph IT-1.c.) [see Fletcher v. Western Nat'l Life Ins. Co. (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 376, 394, 89 Cal. Rptr. 78 ; see also 362.10[2]].

If fictitious "Doe" defendants are alleged to exist in line 3 of Paragraph IT-1., then, in line 4 of the same paragraph, the word "was" should be changed to "were" and the word "defendant" should be changed to "defendants." Plaintiff should also allege in a general way that the fictitiously named defendants were responsible for plaintiff's damages [see Paragraph IT-1.d. and Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used].

Allegations of injuries and a request for damages are inserted into the Judicial Council approved form of complaint [see, e.g., Judicial Council complaint form in Ch. 380, Negligence].

[d] Facts Specifically Pleaded

Facts giving rise to a cause of action for injuries resulting from emotional distress must be specifically pleaded [Deboe v. Horn (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 221, 224, 94 Cal. Rptr. 77] . If physical injuries are claimed, they must be alleged with sufficient particularity so as to inform the adverse parties and the court of the physical dimensions of those injuries [Hair v. County of Monterey (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 538, 542, 119 Cal. Rptr. 639 , disapproved on other grounds, Baxter v. Superior Court (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 461].

[5] Exemplary Damages Attachment

If exemplary damages are sought under Civ. Code § 3294, the approved Judicial Council form of attachment for exemplary damages should be used [see Cal. Judicial Council Form PLD-PI-001(6); see Judicial Council form in Ch. 177, Damages].

_____ [name(s)],	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
[and DOES 1 through _____,]	)	(Intentional Infliction of Emotional Distress) Defendant(s).	)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant _____ [name] is and at all times herein mentioned was a resident of _____ County, California [or allege other capacity and residence of defendant].

[2. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as DOES 1-_____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of the fictitiously named defendants is responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that plaintiff's damages as herein alleged were proximately caused by their conduct.)]

[3. Defendants _____ (names) at all times herein mentioned were the agents and employees of their codefendants _____ (names) and in doing the things hereinafter alleged were acting within the course and scope of such agency and the permission and consent of their coedefendants.]

4. _____ [If appropriate, allege any special relationship between the parties and/or defendant's knowledge of the plaintiff's particular susceptibility to emotional distress, e.g., On or about _____ [date], plaintiff was an employee of defendant _____ (name)].

5. _____ [Allege defendant's outrageous conduct, e.g., On or about _____ [date], at _____ (city), California, the plaintiff informed defendant _____ (name), plaintiff's foreman, that plaintiff as shop steward for the _____ (name) Union had advised another employee that heshould not _____ (describe activity) since that would be a violation of a union agreement. Plaintiff's remarks were not rude or insubordinate. In response, defendant _____ (name) shouted at plaintiff in a rude, violent, and insolent manner as follows: _____ (defendant's statement, including any references aimed at plaintiff's special susceptibility). Defendant _____ (name) ratified these acts on behalf of defendant _____ (name) when plaintiff asked about them].

6. _____ [Allege intent to cause emotional distress, e.g., Defendant _____ (name)'s conduct was intentional and malicious and done for the purpose of causing plaintiff to suffer humiliation, mental anguish, and emotional and physical distress. Defendant _____ (name)'s conduct in confirming and ratifying that conduct was done with knowledge that plaintiff's emotional and physical distress would thereby increase, and was done with a wanton and reckless disregard of the consequences to plaintiff].

7. As the proximate result of the acts alleged above, plaintiff suffered humiliation, mental anguish, and emotional and physical distress, and has been injured in mind [and body] as follows: _____ [describe], all to plaintiff's damage.

[8. As a further proximate result of the acts alleged above, plaintiff was required to and did employ physicians and surgeons to examine, treat, and care for plaintiff, and incurred additional medical expenses for hospital bills (and other incidental medical expenses). Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that plaintiff will incur some additional medical expenses(, the exact amount of which is unknown).]

[9. By reason of the acts alleged above, plaintiff was prevented from attending to plaintiff's usual _____ (occupation or profession) as a _____ (specify) and thereby lost earnings. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges, that plaintiff will thereby be prevented from attending to plaintiff's usual _____ (occupation or profession) for a period in the future which plaintiff cannot ascertain, and will thereby sustain further loss of earnings.]

10. The acts of defendants alleged above were willful, wanton, malicious, and oppressive, and justify the awarding of exemplary and punitive damages.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For general damages according to proof;

[2. For medical and related expenses according to proof;]

[3. For lost earnings, past and future, according to proof;]

4. For exemplary and punitive damages;

5. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

6. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use to obtain damages for the intentional infliction of mental distress.

[3] Allegations

This form alleges:

- A special relationship between the parties and defendant's knowledge of the plaintiff's particular susceptibility to emotional distress (Paragraph 4) [see Alcorn v. Anbro Eng'g, Inc. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 493, 498-499, 86 Cal. Rptr. 88, 468 P.2d 216] ;

- Outrageous conduct by the defendant (Paragraph 5),

- The defendant's intent to cause emotional distress (Paragraph 6);

- The extreme emotional distress and other injuries suffered by plaintiff which were proximately caused by the defendant's conduct (Paragraphs 7-9) [see Fletcher v. Western Nat'l Life Ins. Co. (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 376, 394, 89 Cal. Rptr. 78] ; and

- That defendant's acts were willful, despicable, malicious, and oppressive (Paragraph 10) [see Civ. Code § 3294]. Venue of the action may be based on the residence of the defendant (Paragraph 1) or the location of the defendant's outrageous conduct (Paragraph 5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a)].

Optional paragraphs which may be appropriate include a fictitious name allegation (Paragraph 2) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 474], an agency allegation (Paragraph 3) [see Civ. Code § 2338], an allegation of medical andincidental expenses (Paragraph 8), and an allegation of loss of earnings (Paragraph 9).

In Paragraph 7, physical injuries are not required in an intentional infliction of mental distress action [Grimes v. Carter (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 694, 699, 50 Cal. Rptr. 808] . However, where physical harm has not resulted, the courts tend to look for more in the way of extreme outrage as an assurance that the mental disturbance claimed is genuine [Golden v. Dungan (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 295, 308, 97 Cal. Rptr. 577] .

[4] Venue

Except as otherwise provided by law, and subject to the power of the court to transfer actions or proceedings as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 392 et seq., the county in which the defendants, or some of them, reside at the commencement of the action is the proper county for the trial of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a); see Cubic Corp. v. Superior Court (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 622, 625, 231 Cal. Rptr. 18 (Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a) "injury to a person" as not including emotional distress)]. A corporation or association may be sued in the county where the contract is made or is to be performed, or where the obligation or liability arises, or the breach occurs; or in the county where the principal place of business of the corporation is situated, subject to the power of the court to change the place of trial as in other cases [Code Civ. Proc. § 395.5]. For forms and further discussion relating to venue, see Ch. 571, Venue .

[5] Specification of Damages

In an action to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages for anything other than personal injury or wrongful death (for example, property damage) must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)] or an equivalent statement must be included, for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

No claim for punitive damages may state an amount sought regardless of the nature of the case [Civ. Code § 3295(e)].

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought when they are not stated in the complaint, see Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.40 et seq., and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115].

[6] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude the defendant from using a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[7] Pleading

Facts giving rise to a cause of action for injuries resulting from emotional distress must be specifically pleaded [Deboe v. Horn (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 221, 224, 94 Cal. Rptr. 77] . If physical injuries are claimed, they must be alleged with sufficient particularity so as to inform the adverse parties and the court of the physical dimensions of those injuries [Hair v. County of Monterey (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 538, 542, 119 Cal. Rptr. 639 , disapproved on other grounds, Baxter v. Superior Court (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 461].

[3. Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 362.71 , Paragraph 3.]

4. At all times herein mentioned, defendant was the owner of the apartment house and premises located at _____ [street address], _____ [city], California.

5. At all times herein mentioned, plaintiff and her husband, _____ [names], were tenants from month to month for apartment _____ [number] in that apartment house and the term of the tenancy was paid in advance to and including _____ [date].

6. On _____ [date], while plaintiff was out of town, defendant entered plaintiff's apartment, removed plaintiff's clothes and all her belongings and stored them in the basement of the apartment house, and on the same date defendant willfully, maliciously, and unlawfully changed the lock on the door of plaintiff's apartment, thereby preventing plaintiff from entering, occupying, and enjoying the premises.

7. On _____ [date], plaintiff returned to the premises and, not being able to enter her apartment, demanded from defendant the key to the new lock, but defendant refused, and ever since has refused, to give the key to plaintiff or to allow her into the apartment.

8. On _____ [date], defendant compelled plaintiff to carry and remove from the basement of the apartment house numerous items of clothing, household effects, and furniture belonging to plaintiff which had previously been removed from plaintiff's apartment by defendant.

9. Plaintiff was without shelter for several hours on that day, and was forced to make arrangements to seek shelter many miles distant.

10. By reason of this unlawful ejection of plaintiff by defendant, and as a proximate result of being ejected from the premises in the manner hereinabove mentioned, plaintiff suffered great mental distress and became nervous and ill, all to her damage.

11. Defendant's ejection of plaintiff from the premises was willful, malicious, deliberate, and without probable cause. Plaintiff, therefore, is entitled to exemplary or punitive damages.

[12. As a result of these acts of defendant, plaintiff was required to, and did, obtain necessary medical care and attention and will continue to require these services for an indefinite period. (Plaintiff does not know at this time the reasonable value of these services rendered and to be rendered, and asks leave to amend this complaint so as to set forth the same when ascertained.)]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. At all times herein mentioned, defendant _____ [name] was and is a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of _____, and engaged in the business of operating retail stores under the name of _____ [specify] at _____ [address] and other places in the State of California.

3. At all times herein mentioned, defendant _____ [name of individual] was the agent, servant, and employee of defendant _____ [name], and in doing the things hereinafter mentioned was acting in the scope of _____ [his or her] authority as such agent and employee, and with the permission and consent of _____ [his or her] employer.

4. On or about _____ [date], defendant _____ [name of individual] telephoned the home of plaintiff's neighbors at _____ [time], got plaintiff's neighbors out of bed, requested that plaintiff be called to the telephone, and told them that it was an emergency call. The neighbors went to plaintiff's home, awakened _____ [him or her] and told _____ [him or her] that _____ [he or she] had an emergency telephone call.

5. Plaintiff had taken treatments for a nervous condition and had been warned by _____ [his or her] physician to get plenty of rest and to keep out of situations where _____ [he or she] might be startled or shocked.

6. On being told of the emergency telephone call, it instantaneously occurred to plaintiff that something had happened to _____ [his or her] children. _____ [He or She] proceeded to the neighbors' home in a state of semishock.

7. On answering the telephone plaintiff was told by defendant _____ [name of individual] that the forthcoming news was going to be a great shock. After causing plaintiff this added worry, _____ [he or she] then proceeded to identify _____ [himself or herself] as the _____ [manager, employee, agent, etc.] of _____ [store] and asked plaintiff why _____ [he or she] had not paid _____ [his or her] bill. Plaintiff then related that _____ [he or she] had paid cash for _____ [his or her] purchases at the store.

8. Defendant _____ [name of individual] threatened court action and to cause trouble for plaintiff if _____ [he or she] did not appear at the store the following morning, whereon the conversation was discontinued.

9. On the following day plaintiff consulted counsel who telephoned and spoke to one _____ [name and position held] at the store. _____ [Name of person consulted], when asked, referred to _____ [his or her] records and told counsel that plaintiff did not owe any money, and that it had all been a mistake.

10. The accusations by _____ [name of individual employee] were false and this employee acted as hereinafter alleged intentionally and maliciously without probable cause, for the purpose of harassing and annoying plaintiff in the presence of _____ [his or her] neighbors, who heard the telephone conversation.

11. As a result of the false and malicious statements of defendant, plaintiff has suffered great mental anguish, mortification, humiliation, and shame, and has become sick and ill and will remain so for an indefinite term, all to _____ [his or her] damage.

[12. Exemplary and punitive damages. See § 362.71 , Paragraph 10.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For general damages according to proof;

2. For exemplary and punitive damages;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

CAUTION:

The extent, if any, to which the Robbins-Rosenthal Fair Debt Collection Practices Act (Civ. Code § 1788 et seq.) modifies the cause of action alleged in this form is uncertain. The term "debt collection," as used in the act, is defined as any act or practice in connection with the collection of consumer debts [Civ. Code § 1788.2(b)]. The term "debt collector" is defined as any person who, in the ordinary course of business, regularly, on behalf of himself or herself or others, engages in debt collection [Civ. Code § 1788.2(c)]. The act prohibits specified threats, harassment, communications with others regarding a debt, and misrepresentations, as well as other improper practices on the part of the debt collector [Civ. Code §§ 1788.10-1788.16]. For violation of any of these provisions, the act authorizes an "individual" action by the debtoragainst the debt collector for actual damages and a penalty in an amount not less than $100 or more than $1,000 [Civ. Code § 1788.30(a), (b), (f)]. The act further provides that the prevailing party is entitled to costs, that the prevailing debtor is entitled to a reasonable attorney fee based on time necessarily spent to enforce the liability, and that the court may award the prevailing creditor attorney's fees on a finding that the debtor's prosecution or defense of the action was not in good faith [Civ. Code § 1788.30(c)].

The act also provides, however, that the debt collector shall have no civil liability if (1) within 15 days either after discovering a violation which can be cured or after the receipt of a written notice of the violation, the debt collector notifies the debtor of the violation and makes whatever adjustments or corrections are necessary to cure the violation with respect to the debtor; or (2) the debt collector shows by a preponderance of evidence that the violation was not intentional and resulted despite the maintenance of procedures reasonably adapted to avoid any such violation [Civ. Code § 1788.30(d), (e)]. The debt collector may also raise, as a defense against the debtor, any intentional violation by the debtor of his or her responsibilities under the act [see Civ. Code §§ 1788.20-1788.22] if the violation is pertinent or relevant to the claim or action brought against the debt collector by or on behalf of the debtor [Civ. Code § 1788.30(d), (e), (g)].

The act provides finally that the remedies it provides are cumulative and in addition to any other procedures, rights, or remedies under "any other provision of law" [Civ. Code § 1788.32]. It is not clear whether the quoted phrase refers only to statutory law or if it includes common law, such as that on which this form is based. If "any other provision of law," as used in Civ. Code § 1788.32, above, is construed to mean statutory or common law, then it would appear that see § 362.74 is still viable. If the quoted phrase is construed to mean statutory law only, then it would appear that the remedy provided by the act is exclusive in those situations to which it would apply and that see § 362.74 should no longer be used unless it is modified to conform with the requirements of the act. It is also unclear whether the penalty authorized by the act [see Civ. Code § 1788.30(b), above] is in lieu of or, by virtue of Civ. Code § 1788.32, cumulative, inasmuch as punitive damages are expressly authorized by statute in cases of malice, oppression, or fraud [Civ. Code § 3294].

[2] Use of Form

This complaint for damages for intentional infliction of emotional distress is for use by a customer against a retailer where the retailer has falsely accused the customer of nonpayment of a debt.

The fact situation illustrated in this form is based on Bowden v. Spiegel, Inc. (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 793, 793-794, 216 P.2d 571 .

[2] Use of Form

This general form of complaint is for use in seeking damages for negligent infliction of severe emotional distress and mental suffering resulting from defendant's breach of a duty owed directly to plaintiff. Damages for severe emotional distress may be recovered in a negligence action when they result from the breach of a duty owed the plaintiff that is assumed by the defendant or imposed on the defendant as a matter of law, or that arises out of a relationship between the two [Marlene F. v. Affiliated Psychiatric Med. Clinic, Inc. (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 583, 590, 257 Cal. Rptr. 98, 770 P.2d 278] .

For an additional form of complaint for damages for severe emotional distress and mental suffering resulting from the breach of a duty owed directly to plaintiff, see § 362.76. For a form of complaint containing a cause of action for use if defendant breached a derivative duty owed to plaintiff (a bystander), see § 362.77.

When damages for emotional distress or mental suffering are sought in conjunction with an action for damages for tortious conduct or for atortious breach of contract, the allegations in this form may be selectively incorporated into the statement of the tort cause of action.

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges the following: (1) the status, capacity, residence or place of business, and business of the defendant (Paragraph 1); (2) the identification of any fictitiously named defendants (Paragraph 2); (3) the status of any of the fictitiously named defendants as agents or employees of the named defendant (Paragraph 3); (4) the facts showing the particular relationship of the parties, or the existence of a contract, or other facts establishing defendant's duty to exercise due care (Paragraph 4); (5) the facts establishing the foreseeability that plaintiff would suffer severe emotional distress and mental suffering if defendant breached its duty to plaintiff (Paragraph 5); (6) defendant's breach of duty (Paragraph 6); (7) the consequences proximately resulting from the breach (Paragraph 7); (8) plaintiff's detriment (severe emotional distress and mental suffering) proximately caused by the breach and consequences of the breach (Paragraph 8); (9) the general damages sustained by plaintiff (Paragraph 8); and (10) the special damages sustained by plaintiff as a proximate result of defendant's breach and plaintiff's detriment (Paragraph 9).

One court of appeal has stated that prior cases have permitted recovery on a direct-victim theory only if (1) a preexisting relationship exists, and (2) the defendant's conduct can be characterized as "outrageous" [Bro v. Glaser (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 1398, 1440-1441, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894] . Counsel can allege that the breach of duty constituted (or was accompanied by) outrageous conduct in Paragraph 6 if the facts justify such an allegation.

Normally, a complaint for money or damages must state the amount demanded. However, in an action to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages for anything other than personal injury or wrongful death (for example, property damage) must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)] or an equivalent statement must be included, for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

No claim for punitive damages may state an amount sought regardless of the nature of the case [Civ. Code § 3295(e)].

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought when they are not stated in the complaint, see Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.40 et seq., and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments [Code Civ. Proc. §§

425.11, 425.115].

_____[name(s)],	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
[and DOES 1 through _____,]	)	(Negligent Infliction of Emotional Distress)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. At all times herein mentioned, defendant _____ [name of hospital] was, and is, a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of _____, authorized to do business, and engaged in the business of maintaining, conducting, and supervising a private hospital in _____ [city], California.

[2. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 362.71 , Paragraph 2.]

3. At all times herein mentioned, defendants _____ [name] were the agents, servants, and employees of defendant _____ [name of hospital] and in doing the things hereinafter mentioned were acting in the scope of their authority as such agents, servants, and employees, and with the permission and consent of defendant _____ [name of hospital].

4. On _____ [date], plaintiff entered defendant hospital as a paying patient for the purpose of giving birth to a child, to receive for herself and her child the necessary care and attention during and following the birth of the child, and to be discharged therefrom with her child. Defendants agreed to provide all such services.

5. On _____ [date], plaintiff gave birth to a child, and from that time through _____ [date], when plaintiff was released and discharged from the hospital, defendants so negligently and carelessly performed their services that plaintiff was given a child which was stated to be her own child, but which was not her own child, and was discharged from the hospital with that child.

6. Thereafter plaintiff took the child home with her and undertook the care and feeding of the child as though it were her own true child. In truth and in fact, the child presented and given to plaintiff was not plaintiff's child.

7. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff discovered that the child given her by defendants was not her own child. Thereafter defendants presented another child to plaintiff, which defendants represented was the true and correct child. Plaintiff is uncertain at this time that the second child so presented is her own true child, the issue of the body of plaintiff.

[EITHER]

8. As a proximate result of this negligence and carelessness of defendants, plaintiff suffered profound shock to her nervous system, resulting in the following physical injuries, to wit: _____ [specify injuries suffered], all to her damage.

[OR]

8. As a proximate result of this negligence and carelessness of defendants, plaintiff suffered serious mental anguish and emotional distress as follows: _____ [describe], all to plaintiff's damage.

9. As a further proximate result of the negligence and carelessness of defendant, plaintiff has incurred, and will continue to incur, medical expense and costs of drugs and supplies. [The amount of these expenses has not yet been ascertained, but plaintiff will ask leave of this court to amend her complaint to insert the correct amount of such medical expenses when the same has been ascertained.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For general damages according to proof;

2. For medical and related expenses;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This complaint for damages for negligent infliction of emotional distress is for use by a patient against a private hospital if the hospital has negligently delivered the wrong baby to his or her mother.

[3] Allegations

The form alleges:

- The agency relationship of the hospital employees (Paragraph 3);
- The defendants' duty to the plaintiff (Paragraph 4);
- Breach of that duty (Paragraphs 5-7);
- Breach as the proximate cause of the plaintiff's injuries (Paragraph 8); and
- The plaintiff's injuries and damages (Paragraphs 8, 9).

[4] Physical Injury

It is no longer necessary to allege physical injury to state a cause of action for negligent infliction of serious mental distress. The purpose of the physical injury requirement was to ensure the genuineness of claims, a function now fulfilled as a matter of proof by medical testimony or the circumstances of the case [Molien v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 916, 930, 931, 167 Cal. Rptr. 831, 616 P.2d 813 (limited on duty issue in *Burgess v. Superior Court (1992) 2 Cal. 4th 1064, 1074, 9 Cal. Plaintiff alleges:

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
(Wrongful Death)

1. Plaintiff is the _____ [relationship to decedent] of _____ [name], deceased, and as such is entitled to bring this action under _____ [specify applicable code section, e.g., if plaintiff is decedent's spouse, domestic partner, or child, Code of Civil Procedure Section 377.60(a)].

2. Defendant _____ [name] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of _____ County, California [or allege other capacity and residence of each defendant].

4. At all times herein mentioned, defendant _____ was the [owner and] operator of a certain _____ [year, make, model] automobile, [California] license No. _____.

5. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that, at all times herein mentioned, _____ [allege agency status, e.g., each of the defendants was the agent and employee of each of the remaining defendants and was at all times acting within the scope of the agency and employment and that defendant _____ (name) was operating the _____ automobile with the consent and permission of each of the remaining defendants].

6. At all times herein mentioned, _____ Street and _____ Street were public streets [and highways] in _____ [city], _____ County, California.

7. On or about _____ [date], at or about the hour of _____ [time], defendant _____ [name] was operating the above-described automobile in a _____ [describe, e.g., southerly] direction on _____ Street at or near the intersection thereof with _____ Street in the above-mentioned city, county, and state. At that time and place, the deceased, _____ [name], was lawfully crossing _____ Street.

8. At that time and place, defendant _____ [name of driver] negligently operated and controlled the above-described automobile so as to cause it to collide with the decedent _____ [name], resulting in injuries to decedent that proximately resulted in decedent's death.

[CONTINUE as necessary with additional paragraphs alleging negligence, vicarious liability, or other theories of recovery against other defendants]

9. As a proximate result of the negligence of defendants and the death of decedent, plaintiff has been deprived of the society, comfort, protection, services, and support of the decedent and has thereby sustained pecuniary loss.

10. As a further proximate result of the negligence of defendants in the death of the decedent, plaintiff has incurred funeral and burial expenses for the decedent.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(Negligent Infliction of Mental Distress)

11. Plaintiff incorporates herein each and every allegation contained in Paragraphs 1 through 8 of the First Cause of Action.

12. At all times herein mentioned, plaintiff was in close proximity to the hereinabove-described collision and personally witnessed the collision.

13. Because of the negligence of the defendants and as a proximate result thereof, plaintiff sustained severe emotional distress and mental suffering, all of which has caused, continues to cause, and will cause him/her great physical and mental pain and suffering, all to his/her damage.

[14. Plaintiff was reasonably required to and did incur medical and incidental expenses for the examination, treatment, and care of these injuries (, the exact amount of which is unknown at this time). Plaintiff is informed and believes, and therefore alleges, that plaintiff will in the future be reasonably required to incur similar obligations.]

[15. Plaintiff has lost wage benefits and has sustained an injury to and an impairment of present and future earning capacity and the ability to engage in gainful occupation and has thereby suffered damages.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendants, and each of them, as follows:

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION:

1. For damages for wrongful death according to proof; and

2. For funeral and burial expenses according to proof.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION:

3. For damages for pain and suffering according to proof;

[4. For medical and incidental expenses according to proof;]

[5. For loss of wage benefits and impairment of earning capacity in an amount (as hereinafter determined);]

6. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use in an action for wrongful death and for recovery of damages for emotional trauma and physical injury from witnessing the death of a relative. The complaint states two causes of action: (1) by the plaintiff in the capacity of a person entitled by statute to bring a wrongful death action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60]; and (2) by the plaintiff for damages sustained by him or her in having witnessed the death. For discussion of the circumstances under which a bystander or percipient witness may recover damages for mental suffering incurred as a result of injuries negligently inflicted on another, see § 362.11[6][c][i].

Chapter 363 MINING
PART I. SCOPE

32-363 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 363.01

§ 363.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses mining and mining operations. The chapter includes the following forms:

- Forms for use in a proceeding to vest title to a mining claim in one coowner who has paid taxes on the claim for five years [see §§ 363.50 -363.52];
- Forms for use in the contest of a mining claim by the federal government [see §§ 363.53, 363.54];
- A complaint to quiet title to a mining claim [see § 363.55];
- A complaint for damages for trespass to a mining leasehold [see § 363.56];
- A complaint for trespass and conversion [see § 363.57];
- A complaint for damages for fraudulent representation of ownership of a mining property [see § 363.58];
- A complaint to recover royalties [see § 363.59]; and
- A complaint for damages for breach of contract [see § 363.60].

This chapter does not include the specific procedures for the location of mining claims, for obtaining patents to claims, or for acquiring leases of mineral lands from the United States or California. It also does not include a discussion of the regulation of mine operations under federal or local police powers or a discussion of oil and gas law. For a listing of Matthew Bender publications that discuss these and additional relevant issues, see § 363.30.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

32-363 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 363.11

§ 363.11 Definitions

[1] "Mine" and "Placer Mine"

The term "mine" includes all mineral bearing properties of whatever kind, whether underground, or in a quarry or pit, well spring, or other source from which any mineral substance is or may be obtained [Pub. Res. Code § 2200].

A "placer mine" is ground that contains mineral in its earth, sand, or gravel in a loose state that may in most cases be collected by washing without milling [United States v. Iron Silver Mining Co. (1888) 128 U.S. 673, 679, 9 S. Ct. 195, 32 L. Ed. 571] .

[2] "Mineral" and "Mineral Estate"

The term "mineral" includes all mineral products, both metallic and nonmetallic, solid, liquid, or gaseous, and mineral waters, of whatever kind or character [Pub. Res. Code § 2200].

A "mineral estate" is the entire bundle of rights a landowner has in the minerals in his or her land [Keville v. Hollister Co. (1972) 43 O.&G.R. 311, 29 Cal. App. 3d 203, 205 n.1, 105 Cal. Rptr. 238] .

[3] "Royalty" and "Rent"

The terms "royalty" and "rent" are used interchangeably in mining leases to mean the compensation paid by the occupier to the owner for occupancy and extraction of minerals as allowed in the lease or contract [Denio v. Huntington Beach (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 580, 596, 140 P.2d 392 , disapproved on other grounds in Fracasse v. Brent (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 784, 789, 100 Cal. Rptr. 385, 494 P.2d 9] .

[4] "Vein," "Load," and "Ledge"

The terms "vein," "load," and "ledge" can be used interchangeably to indicate a zone or belt of mineralized rock lying within boundaries clearly separating it from the neighboring rock. A vein, load, or ledge includes all deposits of mineral matter found through a mineralized zone or belt coming from the same source, impressed from the same forms, and appearing to have been created by the same process. The rock in the vein must be in place in the ground [Inyo Marble Co. v. Loundagin (1932) 120 Cal. App. 298, 301, 307-308, 7 P.2d 1067] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

32-363 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 363.12

§ 363.12 Mining Claims

[1] Definition, Right to Possession, and Basic Requirements

[a] Defined

A "mining claim" is a portion of land and the subjacent minerals to which the claimant has acquired the right to possession by compliance with the laws of the United States and the local rules and customs of miners [Morse v. De Ardo (1895) 107 Cal. 622, 623-624, 40 P. 1018] .

[b] Title and Right to Possession

Although paramount title to a mining claim remains in the United States until it has issued a patent transferring title to the land, as to everyone else, the estate acquired through a mining claim possesses all the attributes of a title in fee, so long as the statutory requirements for annual work and continued development are met [Wetsel v. Superior Court (1953) 119 Cal. App. 2d 703, 708, 260 P.2d 242] . To retain possession of a claim, the claimant or the claimant's agent must perform work or make improvements on the claim worth $100 annually [30 U.S.C. § 28; Pub. Res. Code § 3912].

[c] Land Subject to Mining Claims

Land on which a mining claim is established must meet the following three requirements [Ikola v. Goff (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 872, 876, 107 Cal. Rptr. 663] :

- It must contain valuable mineral deposits;
- It must belong to the United States and be in the public domain at the time of location; and
- It must be unoccupied and unappropriated by others under a claim of right.

In addition, the land must be open to appropriation under the provisions of the federal mining laws [Mandel v. Great Lakes Oil Etc. (1957) 150 Cal. App. 2d 621, 627, 310 P.2d 498 ; see § 363.10 (applicable federal mining laws)]. The federal mining laws permit location of claims on federal lands in which most kinds of valuable minerals are found [30 U.S.C. § 22].Federal lands containing deposits of certain minerals, including coal, oil, and natural gas, are not subject to claim but must be leased [30 U.S.C. §§ 181-541i]. However, in some cases, deposits of minerals other than those subject to the leasing requirements may be claimed although they are found on leased lands [see, e.g., 30 U.S.C. §§ 501-505, 521-531].

The claimant must be a citizen of the United States or declare his intention to become one [30 U.S.C. § 22; Pub. Res. Code § 3900].

[2] Procedures for Establishing Claim ("Location")

The statutory and customary process that creates a mining claim is known as "location," and the claimant is known as a "locator" [see 30 U.S.C. § 28; Pub. Res. Code § 3900]. The local customs of miners in the mining district and the laws of the state in which the claim is situated govern the procedure for location and recording as well as the amount of work necessary to maintain a claim, subject to certain federal requirements [30 U.S.C. § 28].

Generally, the requirements for establishing a valid claim to federal mining lands located in California are the following:

- The posting of a notice of location in or on a substantial monument erected at the point of discovery [Pub. Res. Code § 3900];

- The definition of boundaries and erection of substantial monuments at designated points [Pub. Res. Code §§ 3901, 3902]; and

- The recordation of a copy of the notice of location together with a statement of marking of boundaries and including the section, township, range, and meridian of the United States survey within which the claim is located [Pub. Res. Code § 3911].

[3] Property Rights in Claim

Mining claims may be conveyed like other real property [Del Giorgio v. Powers (1938) 27 Cal. App. 2d 668, 678, 81 P.2d 1006] .

The owner of a mining claim is entitled to use all the remedies normally available for the protection of rights in real property to protect the claim [Merced Mining Co. v. Fremont (1857) 7 Cal. 317, 320] . Possessory actions concerning title to mining claims are not affected by the fact that paramount title is held by the United States [30 U.S.C. § 53].

[b] Discovery of Valuable Minerals as Prerequisite to Enforceable Property Right

[i] As Against Other Bona Fide Claimants

To obtain possessory rights to a claim that are enforceable against other bona fide claimants, a mining claimant must have discovered valuable mineral deposits. The test of whether a sufficient discovery of valuable minerals has been made is whether there are minerals sufficient to justify one of ordinary prudence, not necessarily a miner, in expending further effort on the property with a reasonable prospect of success in developing a valuable mine [Best v. Humboldt Placer Mining Co. (1963) 371 U.S. 334, 336, 83 S. Ct. 379, 9 L. Ed. 2d 350 ; Veale v. Piercy (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d

557, 564, 24 Cal. Rptr. 91] .

[ii] As Against Other Claimants Who Use Forcible, Fraudulent, or Clandestine Entry

The prospector of a mining claim has possessory rights enforceable in the claim against forcible, fraudulent, or clandestine entry by other claimants even before a discovery of valuable minerals has been made as long as he or she is diligently working towards discovery [Duguid v. Best (9th Cir. 1961) 291 F.2d 235, 239 , cert. denied, 372 U.S. 906 (1963)] .

[iii] As Against Federal Government

Mining claims are valid against the United States as long as there has been a discovery of valuable minerals, the land remains valuable for minerals, and the other statutory requirements for the creation of claims have been met [Best v. Humboldt Placer Mining Co. (1963) 371 U.S. 334, 336, 83 S. Ct. 379, 9 L. Ed. 2d 350] .

As long as legal title to a mining claim remains with the federal government, it has the power, after proper notice and on adequate hearing, to determine whether the claim is valid and to declare it null and void if invalid [Cameron v. United States (1919) 252 U.S. 450, 460, 40 S. Ct. 410, 64 L. Ed. 659] .

[4] Contesting Validity of Claim

[a] By Federal Government

The federal Bureau of Land Management has the power, as a subordinate of the Secretary of the Interior, to initiate a proceeding to see that valid claims on public lands are recognized and that invalid ones are eliminated [Duguid v. Best (9th Cir. 1961) 291 F.2d 235, 241 , cert. denied, 372 U.S. 906 (1963)] . This proceeding used by the federal government to test thevalidity of mining claims is known as a contest and is an administrative proceeding conducted in accordance with the provisions of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations [see 43 C.F.R. §§ 4.451-1-4.452-9].

Once the United States initiates a contest of a mining claim's validity and makes a prima facie case of its invalidity, the burden of proof is on the locator to establish the requirements for a valid location [United States v. Springer (9th Cir. 1974) 491 F.2d 239, 242 ; see [2], above, for discussion of "location"].

[b] By Private Party in Federal Administrative Procedure

A federal administrative procedure is also available to private parties to determine the rights of adverse claimants to mining claims. Like the administrative procedure that can be instituted by the federal government to determine the validity of a mining claim, the private procedure also is known as a contest and also is governed by the provisions of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations [see 43 C.F.R. § 4.450 et seq.].

[5] Obtaining a Patent

After compliance with the requirements for the location of a mining claim [see [2], above], the locator of a mining claim may proceed to obtain a patent [30 U.S.C. § 29]. The patent will convey title to the land in fee simple [United States v. Marshall Silver Mining Co. (1888) 129 U.S. 579, 587, 9 S. Ct. 343, 32 L. Ed. 734] .

Although a locator is not required to proceed to patent the claim, by delaying, he or she takes the risk that the claim will no longer support the issuance of a patent at the time of application. At that time, the claim must still be valuable for minerals, and worked-out claims will not qualify [Best v. Humboldt Placer Mining Co. (1963) 371 U.S. 334, 335-336, 83 S. Ct. 379, 9 L. Ed. 2d 350] .

The Department of the Interior has authority over the determination of the validity of unpatented mining claims and has authority to issue regulations concerning public lands [Best v. Humboldt Placer Mining Co. (1963) 371 U.S. 334, 336, 83 S. Ct. 379, 9 L. Ed. 2d 350 ; see 30 U.S.C. § 22; 43 U.S.C. § 1201].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

32-363 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 363.14

§ 363.14 Surface and Subsurface Owners

[1] Distinction Between Owners of Surface and Subsurface Lands

Title to the surface of the land may be in one person and title to the subsurface in another [Ames v. Empire Star Mines Co., Ltd. (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 213, 222, 110 P.2d 13] .

The owner of real property may divide lands horizontally as well as vertically, and if he or she conveys the subsurface mineral deposits separately from the surface rights, or reserves them from a conveyance of the surface rights, two separate fee simple estates in the land are created, each of which has the same status and rank [Nevada Irr. Dist. v. Keystone Copper Corp. (1964) 20 O.&G.R. 163, 224 Cal. App. 2d 523, 527, 36 Cal. Rptr. 775] . The reservation of mineral rights from a grant of land also carries with it the right to remove the minerals by placer mining methods [see § 363.11[1]], even though the surface estate is destroyed as a result [Trklja v. Keys (1942) 49 Cal. App. 2d 211, 213-214, 121 P.2d 54] . However, wrongful use of the surface of the land by the owner of subsurface mineral rights will give rise to an action for trespass [see Wright v. Tate (1956) 138 Cal. App. 2d 360, 361-362, 291 P.2d 984] .

If one person owns the surface of the land and another owns the underlying land or minerals, the owner of the surface is entitled to have it remain in its natural condition, without any subsidence caused by withdrawal of the land or minerals from below by the subjacent tenant [Empire Star Mines Co. v. Butler (1944) 62 Cal. App. 2d 466, 533-534, 145 P.2d 49] . The provisions of Civ. Code § 832, which apply between coterminous surface owners as to their obligation of lateral support and limits liability, do not apply as between a surface owner and a subsurface owner. It therefore does not change the common law duty of subjacent support owed to the surface owner by the subsurface owner [Marin Mun. Water Dist. v. Northwestern Pac. R.R. Co. (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 83, 91-96, 61 Cal. Rptr. 520 ; see Civ. Code § 832].

[2] Excavation of Minerals; Notice Required

If the owner of mineral rights in real property intends to excavate, written notice must be given before the first entry on the property [Civ. Code § 848; see Civ. Code § 883.110]. The notice must [Civ. Code § 848]:

- Be given to the owner or the owner's representative of the real property who is listed as the assessee on the current local assessment roll or lessee, if different from the mineral rights owner, and to any public utility that has a recorded interest in the property.

- Be given by certified mail, or by personal delivery with written acknowledgment of receipt to the owner, the owner's representative, or lessee.

- State the extent and location of the prospecting, mining, or extracting operation, and the approximate times of entry and exit on the property.

If the mineral rights owner has not complied with the notice requirement, the owner of the property who is listed on the current assessment roll, or any public utility that has a recorded interest in the real property, may request a court to enjoin the prospecting, mining, or extracting operation until the mineral rights owner has complied. The absence of a known owner on the assessment roll or of a public utility that has a recorded interest in the property relieves the mineral rights owner of the obligation to give the written notice to the owner or public utility [Civ. Code § 848].

[3] Actions for Trespass

The title owner of the subsurface of land may bring an action for trespass against another subsurface owner who invades his or her possessory interest [see Empire Star Mines Co. v. Butler (1944) 62 Cal. App. 2d 466, 527-530, 145 P.2d 49 ; for forms of complaints for damages for trespass, see §§ 363.56, 363.57].

§ 363.15 Mining Partnerships

Mining partnerships are governed by the general laws of partnership except when those are inconsistent with the provisions of Pub. Res. Code §§ 3940-3950 [Pub. Res. Code § 3940]. An express agreement is unnecessary for the formation of such a partnership [Pub. Res. Code § 3941].

A mining partnership arises if two or more persons own or acquire an interest in a mining claim for the purpose of working the claim and extracting minerals. All parties must actually engage in working the claim [Pub. Res. Code § 3940].

A member of a mining partnership shares in the profits and losses according to the proportion of the mine that he or she owns [Pub. Res. Code § 3942].

Each member of a mining partnership has a lien on the partnership property for the debts due to creditors of the partnership and for money that he or she advances, despite the agreement of the partners that no lien shall exist [Pub. Res. Code § 3943].

§ 363.16 Mining Leases

Mineral leases generally are in the same category as ordinary leases and are governed by the same rules. However, in ordinary leases the lessor is not concerned with the development or operation of the property by the lessee and the lessor's primary concern is the payment of rent as it becomes due. In a mineral lease, on the other hand, the lessor's main concern is in the development of the land into a mineral-producing property, and in the royalties to be received from the sale of the mineral produced. Thus, if the lease does not specify the method of mining the property, the lessee is obligated to mine the property in a reasonable manner compatible with the most expeditious removal of the mineral, taking into consideration the costs involved, the contemplation of the parties, and the nature and character of the property to be mined. Further, if the lease does not expressly obligate the lessee to engage in mining activities, and if the only consideration is the share the lessee will obtain in the mineral produced from payment of the royalty, the law implies an agreement on the lessee's part to proceed with mining operations with reasonable diligence [Russell v. Johns Manville Co. (1971) 40 O.&G.R. 26, 20 Cal. App. 3d 405, 410, 97 Cal. Rptr. 634 ; see Gold Min. & Water Co. v. Swinerton (1943) 23 Cal. 2d 19, 32, 37-38, 142 P.2d 22 ; for a form of complaint to recover royalties under a mining lease, see § 363.59].

Oil shale deposits, located before enactment of 30 U.S.C. § 181 (Mineral Leasing Act) are a valuable mineral deposits which are patentable under Act's saving clause. Andrus v. Shell Oil Co. (1980) 446 U.S. 657, 659-665, 100 S. Ct. 1932, 64 L. Ed. 2d 593, 67 O.&G.R. 185

Water is not a valuable mineral and therefore not locatable within meaning of 30 U.S.C. § 22. Andrus v. Charlestone Stone Prod. Co., Inc. (1978) 436 U.S. 604, 614-617, 98 S. Ct. 2002, 56 L. Ed. 2d 570, 575

Profitability of producing minerals constitutes a further test for discovery. United States v. Coleman (1968) 390 U.S. 599, 603, 88 S. Ct. 1327, 20 L. Ed. 2d 170

Mining claims are valid against the United States if there is discovery of valuable minerals, land remains valuable for minerals, and statutory requirements are met. Best v. Humboldt Placer Mining Co. (1963) 371 U.S. 334, 336, 83 S. Ct. 379, 9 L. Ed. 2d 350

Discovery of minerals is sufficient to justify a person of ordinary prudence in the further expenditure of labor with a reasonable prospect of developing a valuable mine. Best v. Humboldt Placer Mining Co. (1963) 371 U.S. 334, 336, 83 S. Ct. 379, 9 L. Ed. 2d 350

Claim is required to remain valuable for minerals at time of patent. Best v. Humboldt Placer Mining Co. (1963) 371 U.S. 334, 335, 83 S. Ct. 379, 9 L. Ed. 2d 350

Patent conveys title to the land in fee from the United States to the claimant of the mining claim. United States v. Marshall Silver Mining Co. (1888) 129 U.S. 579, 587, 9 S. Ct. 343, 32 L. Ed. 734

Test for discovering valuable minerals is more liberally construed in favor of first locator in a contest between first locator and second locator than in contests between a mineral locator and another party who questions the mineral nature of the land, including where the other party is in the United States. Converse v. Udall (9th Cir. 1968) 399 F.2d 616, 619-620 , cert. denied, 393 U.S. 1025

[5] Measure of Damages

Damages for conversion of minerals are governed by Civ. Code § 3336 relating to conversion of personal property. Lightner Mining Co. v. Lane (1911) 161 Cal. 689, 704-705, 120 P. 771

Measure of damages for inadvertent and intentional taking of minerals from a mine. Whittaker v. Otto (1967) 26 O.&G.R. 1, 248 Cal. App. 2d 666, 675-676, 56 Cal. Rptr. 836

[6] Geothermal Resources

Geothermal resources are equivalent to mineral deposits and mineral water which were reserved to state by its patent reservations. Pariani v. State of California (1980) 66 O.&G.R. 169, 105 Cal. App. 3d 923, 929, 930, 937, 164 Cal. Rptr. 683

Pub. Res. Code § 6922 is not unconstitutional under Cal. Const., art. I, § 7 (equal protection), or Cal. Const., art. XVI, § 6 (gift of public property), in giving preemptive right to surface owner to bid on development contract for geothermal resources owned (under deed reservation) by state. Post v. Prati (1979) 62 O.&G.R. 153, 90 Cal. App. 3d 626, 635-639, 153 Cal. Rptr. 511

[7] Mining Claims

"Mining claim" defined. Morse v. De Ardo (1895) 107 Cal. 622, 623-624, 40 P. 1018

Conveyance of mining claims constitutes transfer of all rights incident to claim in absence of language to the contrary. McShane v. Carter (1889) 80 Cal. 310, 313, 22 P. 178

Owner of mining claim is entitled to use all remedies normally available for the protection of rights in real property to protect owner's claim. Merced Mining Co. v. Fremont (1857) 7 Cal. 317, 320

Owner of unpatented mining claim has no right to exclude general public from use of surface of land for recreational purposes or access to other public lands absent material interference with prospecting, mining or processing operations under terms of Surface Resources and Multiple Use Act of 1955 [30 U.S.C. §§ 911, 912]. United States v. Curtis-Nevada Mines, Inc. (9th Cir. 1980) 611 F.2d 1277, 1286, 65 O.&G.R. 1

Establishment of valid mining claim requires valid mineral deposits, land in the public domain, and land unoccupied by others. Ikola v. Goff (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 872, 876, 107 Cal. Rptr. 663

Locator of mining claim is required to find sufficient valuable minerals to justify a person of ordinary prudence in continuing exploitation and development work. Veale v. Piercy (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 557, 565-566, 24 Cal. Rptr. 91

Land on which mining claim is established is required to be open for appropriation under federal law. Mandel v. Great Lakes Oil Etc. (1957) 150 Cal. App. 2d 621, 627, 310 P.2d 498

Mining claims possess all the attributes of a title in fee so long as annual work is performed. Wetsel v. Superior Court (1953) 119 Cal. App. 2d 703, 708, 260 P.2d 242

Mining claims are conveyed like other real property. Del Giorgio v. Powers (1938) 27 Cal. App. 2d 668, 678, 81 P.2d 1006

[b] Abandonment and Forfeiture

Failure to comply with claim recordation provisions of Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976 [43 U.S.C. § 1744] is deemed conclusively to constitute an abandonment of the mining claim by the owner; this provision is self-executing and may be enforced in a civil action brought by a private party in state court. Crummett v. Miller (1997) 138 O.&G.R. 475, 53 Cal. App. 4th 897, 906-907, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 113

General rule is that annual work on mining claims must be of such a character as directly tends to develop and protect the claim and facilitate the extraction of minerals. Eveleigh v. Darneille (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 638, 640, 81 Cal. Rptr. 301

Annual assessment work performed on any one or more contiguous mining claims benefits all claims in the group. Daly v. Wallace (1965) 234 Cal. App. 2d 689, 691, 44 Cal. Rptr. 642

Forfeiture of a mining claim to a second locator does not occurring when the prior locator resumes annual assessment work before the second location of a claim. Pascoe v. Richards (1962) 201 Cal. App. 2d 680, 685-686, 20 Cal. Rptr. 416

Abandonment of mining claim can be found from intention combined with failure to do annual work or desertion of the property. Del Giorgio v. Powers (1938) 27 Cal. App. 2d 668, 679-681, 81 P.2d 1006

§ 363.50 Action for Vesting of Title [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 850-856] or for Contribution--Owner of Mine or Mining Claim Paying Taxes Against Delinquent Coowner--Notice of Nonpayment of Proportionate Shares of Taxes [Code Civ. Proc. § 850]

[1] FORM Action for Vesting of Title [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 850-856] or for Contribution--Owner of Mine or Mining Claim Paying Taxes Against Delinquent Coowner--Notice of Nonpayment of Proportionate Shares of Taxes [Code Civ. Proc. § 850]

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that _____ [name of mine or mining claim] located at _____ [described location] is owned by the undersigned _____ [name of claimant] and by _____ [name of owner not paying taxes] and that for a period of _____ [five or more] years all taxes assessed on this _____ [mine or mining claim] have been paid by _____ [name of claimant] in the total amount of $_____, and that _____ [name of delinquent coowner] has not paid or contributed his/her proportionate share of these taxes.

Demand is hereby made on _____ [name of delinquent coowner] to contribute to _____ [name of coowner claimant] the sum of $_____, his/her proportionate share of the taxes on this _____ [mine or mining claim], within 90 days of service on him/her of this notice. Dated: _____.

_____ [signature of claimant]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a notice for use by one coowner of a mine or mining claim before commencing a special action against another coowner who has failed to contribute his or her proportionate share of taxes on the mine for a period of five years [Code Civ. Proc. § 850]. For a petition to vest title by one coowner against another coowner and a complaint for contribution of taxes, see § 363.51. For a sample judgment vesting title to a mine, see § 363.52.

[3] Service of Notice

Before commencement of the action, the coowner who has paid the taxes must serve notice on the delinquent coowner of his or her failure to contribute his or her proportionate share. The notice is to be served in the manner provided by law for the service of a summons in a civil action, except that when the service is by publication, the publication must be in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county in which the mine or claim is situated or if there is no such newspaper, in such anewspaper in an adjoining county. The publication must be at least once a week for 90 days [Code Civ. Proc. § 851].

vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name(s)],	)	PETITION TO VEST TITLE: COMPLAINT FOR Defendant(s) and Respondent(s)	)	CONTRIBUTION

Plaintiff-petitioner alleges:

1. Defendant-respondent is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of _____ County, California [or allege other capacity and residence of defendant].

2. [Plaintiff-petitioner is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants-respondents sued herein as DOES I-, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants-respondents by such fictitious names. Plaintiff-petitioner will amend this complaint and petition to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained.]

3. Plaintiff-petitioner _____ [name] and defendant-respondent _____ [name] are coowners of the _____ [name] _____ [mine or mining claim] located at _____, County, California, and more particularly described as follows: _____ [set forth legal description].

4. Plaintiff-petitioner at all times from _____ [date], to _____ [date], has had, and now has a _____ [one-half or other] interest in the mine in question. Defendant-respondent at all times from _____ [date], to _____ [date], has had, and now has, a _____ [one-half or other] interest in the mine.

5. For the period from _____ [date], to _____ [date], taxes have been assessed against the _____ [name] _____ [mine or mining claim] in question by the County of _____, California, in the total sum of $_____.

6. Plaintiff-petitioner has for a period of five years, namely from _____ [date], to _____ [date], paid all taxes assessed against the _____ [mine or mining claim] in question, in the total sum of $_____.

7. Defendant-respondent has paid no part of these taxes within the five-year period in question and has made no contribution to petitioner for such taxes.

8. On _____ [date], defendant-respondent was served with notice of nonpayment of taxes by _____ [state facts of service, e.g., publication in the _____ newspaper, a newspaper of general circulation in _____ County, California, for the period of _____ days prescribed by statute]. Copies of this notice and proof of service of this notice are attached to this petition and complaint as Exhibit A and Exhibit B respectively and made a part of this petition and complaint.

9. More than 90 days have passed since notice of nonpayment was served on defendant-respondent. Defendant-respondent has failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to contribute his/her proportionate share of the taxes in question, or any part of the taxes. Defendant-respondent is thereby indebted to plaintiff-petitioner in the sum of $_____, that sum being defendant-respondent's proportionate share of the taxes in question.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff-petitioner prays judgment against the defendant-respondent as follows:

1. For a judgment vesting the defendant and respondent's interest in the _____ [mine or mining claim] in the plaintiff and petitioner;

2. Or in the alternative, for the sum of $_____ with interest thereon at _____ percent per year from _____ [date];

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a complaint and petition for use in an action by one coowner of a mine or mining claim against another coowner who has failed for five years to pay or contribute his or her share of the taxes on the property [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 850-856].

In this form, the paying coowner seeks title to the nonpaying coowner's interest in the mining claim or, in the alternative, contribution for a proportionate share of the taxes paid.

A petition for vesting of title in the coowner paying taxes to a mine or mining claim must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 852].

For the initial notice by one coowner of a mine or mining claim against another coowner who has failed to contribute his or her proportionate share of taxes as required under Code Civ. Proc. § 850, see § 363.50. For a judgment vesting title, see § 363.52.

[3] Allegations

The complaint and petition in [1], above, combines the allegations necessary for an action for contribution for a proportionate share of taxes with the necessary allegations for a petition to vest title in the paying coowner [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 850-856].

The complaint and petition alleges:

- Ownership and particular description of the mine or mining claim (Paragraph 3) [Code Civ. Proc. § 852];
- The interest of each coowner in the property (Paragraph 4);
- The amount of taxes assessed against the property (Paragraph 5);
- Payment of taxes for five years by the plaintiff and petitioner (Paragraph 6);
- Nonpayment by the defendant and respondent (Paragraph 7);
- Service of notice of nonpayment on the defendant-respondent (Paragraph 8) [Code Civ. Proc. § 851]; and

- The fact that 90 days have passed since service without payment of the taxes (Paragraph 9) [Code Civ. Proc. § 852].

[4] Procedure For Vesting Title

When notice of nonpayment of taxes has been properly served on a coowner of a mine or mining claim and 90 days have elapsed since service without payment by the coowner, the paying coowner may file a verified petition setting forth the facts and particularly describing the mine or claim[Code Civ. Proc. § 852]. The clerk sets a date for hearing the petition and posts notice of the hearing at the county courthouse at least 10 days beforehand. The court may order further notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 854]. The court is authorized to hold a hearing on the petition and to order judgment vesting the interest of the nonpaying coowner in the petitioner [Code Civ. Proc. § 855].

[5] Contribution

A tenant in common who pays taxes assessed against the common property is, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, entitled to a ratable contribution from his or her defaulting cotenant, although the payment may have been made without the latter's consent or even over his or her objection [Marsh v. Edelstein (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 132, 141, 88 Cal. Rptr. 26] .

[6] Statute of Limitations

When the petitioner has waited the necessary five years, during which his or her cotenant has not contributed their share of the taxes due on the mining claim, and has then filed his or her petition for vesting of title [see Code Civ. Proc. § 852], the two-year period of limitation under Code Civ. Proc. § 339(1) will act as a bar to the alternative relief of money contribution for any share of the taxes paid more than two years before the action's commencement. This is true because the right of one cotenant to recover payment from the other for his or her share of the payment which was in excess of his or her proportion of the taxes arises at the date when the expenditure is made [Willmon v. Koyer (1914) 168 Cal. 369, 372-373, 143 P. 694] . The applicable statute of limitations is Code Civ. Proc. § 339(1) which provides a two-year limit [Willmon v. Koyer (1914) 168 Cal. 369, 371, 143 P. 694] . However, when the petitioner has paid all of the taxes for the five-year period in the fifth year and within two years before the commencement of the action, it may be possible to recover the alternative relief of one-half of the total tax payment from the coowner if desired, without being barred by the statute.

[7] Jurisdiction and Venue

The petition for vesting of title in the paying coowner must be filed in the superior court of the county where the mine or mining claim is situated [Code Civ. Proc. § 852]. If the mine or claim is situated in more than one county, the petition may be filed in the superior court of either county [Code Civ. Proc. § 853]. The action is not a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 580(b)(3)].

[8] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446], and will also preclude a general denial [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[2] Use of Form

This form is a judgment for use in an action for vesting of the delinquent coowner's title in the coowner paying taxes on a mine or mining claim. When the statutory procedure set forth in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 850-856 has been followed, the court may order judgment on the petition vesting the interest of the delinquent owner in the petitioner [Code Civ. Proc. § 855]. A certified copy of the decree may be recorded in the officeof the recorder of each county in which any part of the mine or claim is situated [Code Civ. Proc. § 856].

For the initial notice by one coowner of a mine or mining claim against another coowner who has failed to contribute his or her proportionate share of taxes as required under Code Civ. Proc. § 850, see § 363.50. For the petition to vest title by one coowner against another coowner and the complaint for contribution of taxes, see § 363.51.

[3] Copies of Judgment

The following copies of the judgment should be prepared:

- One copy to be filed with the court;
- One copy to be served with the summons on the defendant-respondent;
- One copy to be filed with the county recorder in each county in which any part of the mine or claim is situated;
- One office file copy; and
- Additional copies as desired.

§ 363.53 Action Contesting Validity of Mining Claim--Initiated by the United States Against a Mining Claimant [43 C.F.R. §§ 4.451, 4.452]--Complaint [43 C.F.R. § 4.451-2]--United States Government Form

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is a Bureau of Land Management form used by the federal government to initiate contests of the validity of mining claims [43 C.F.R. § 4.451-1]. It is a reproduction of Form 1850-7 (June 1979) obtained from the Office of the Solicitor, United States Department of the Interior, California State Office, 2135 Butano Dr., Sacramento, CA 95825-0451.

[3] Filing Complaint

A contest is initiated by the filing of a complaint with the proper land office [43 C.F.R. §§ 4.451-2, 4.450-3]. The proper office for the filing of a complaint involving a mining claim in California is the California State Office of the Bureau of Land Management, 2135 Butano Drive, Sacramento, California, 95825 [43 C.F.R. § 1821.2-1(d)].

[4] Service of Complaint

Within 30 days of the complaint's filing, the contestant must serve on the contestee a copy of the complaint [43 C.F.R. § 4.450-3]. Proof of service must be filed within 30 days after service [43 C.F.R. § 4.450-3].

[5] Answering Complaint

Within 30 days after service, the contestee must file an answer [see § 363.54] in the office where the contest is pending specifically meeting the allegations of the complaint, together with proof of service of the answer on the contestant [43 C.F.R. §§ 4.450-6, 4.451-2].

[6] Disposition of Case

If no answer is filed, the Manager of the Bureau of Land Management office will decide the case without a hearing [43 C.F.R. § 4.450-7(a)]. When there is an answer, the manager will refer the case to an administrative law judge for a hearing [43 C.F.R. § 4.450-7(b)]. The judge fixes the time and place of hearing and notifies the parties at least 30 days in advance [43 C.F.R. § 4.452-2]. He or she may order a prehearing conference [43 C.F.R. § 4.452-1]. The administrative law judge makes findings of fact and conclusions of law based on the evidence in the case and the findings requested by the parties [43 C.F.R. § 4.452-8].

[7] Appeal

Any party, including the government, adversely affected by the judge's decision may appeal to the Board of Land Appeals [43 C.F.R. §§ 4.410-4.415, 4.421(d), 4.452-9].

vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name(s), of known defendant(s)], [if unknown defendants are included, add:; and all persons unknown, claiming any legal or equitable right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the property described in the complaint adverse to plaintiff's title, or any cloud on plaintiff's title thereto] [; and DOES I-_____, inclusive],	)	COMPLAINT TO QUIET TITLE TO MINING CLAIM

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff now is, and at all times herein mentioned was, the owner and in possession of the mining claim known as _____ [name of mining claim], located in _____ Mining District, _____ County, California, and more particularly described as follows: _____ [legal description and street address or common designation, if any].

2. At all times herein mentioned defendant _____ [name] was, and now is, _____ [ describe relevant aspects of named defendant's status, e.g., carrying on mining operations on property that is adjacent to the northern boundary of plaintiff's claim].

[3. Defendants DOES I-_____, inclusive, are sued herein under fictitious names. Their true names and capacities are unknown to plaintiff. When their true names and capacities are ascertained, plaintiff will amend this complaint by inserting their true names and capacities herein. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of these fictitiouslynamed defendants claim some right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the above-described claim adverse to plaintiff's title; and that their claims, and each of them, constitute a cloud on plaintiff's title to that property.]

4. The basis of plaintiff's title is _____ [describe plaintiff's possession of claim from particular date and annual work on the claim from that date].

5. Plaintiff is seeking to quiet title against the claim(s) of defendant(s) as follows: defendant _____ [name of the named defendant], who _____ [describe claim of named defendant, e.g., denies that plaintiff has properly located the above-described claim and denies that plaintiff has done the requisite work] [_____ (continue with whichever are applicable:; the claims of the successor defendants described in Paragraph _____; the claims of all unknown defendants described in Paragraph 6, whether or not the claim or cloud is known to plaintiff; and the unknown, uncertain, or contingent claim, if any, of _____ (name) more fully described in Paragraph 7)]. Defendant's/Defendants' claim(s) is/are without any right whatever and that/those defendant(s) has/have no right, title, estate, lien, or interest whatever in the above-described claim, or any part of that claim, except the following: _____ [set forth any claims of which plaintiff admits the validity].

[6. If "all persons unknown" are named as defendants, allege: The defendants herein named as "all persons unknown, claiming any legal or equitable right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the property described in the complaint adverse to plaintiff's title, or any cloud on plaintiff's title thereto" (hereinafter sometimes referred to as "the unknown defendants") are unknown to plaintiff. These unknown defendants, and each of them, claim some right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the previously described property adverse to plaintiff's title; and their claims, and each of them, constitute a cloud on plaintiff's title to that property.]

[7. If the claim of a named defendant is unknown, uncertain, or contingent, allege: The claim of _____ (name of defendant) is _____ (unknown or uncertain or contingent). (If the lack of knowledge, uncertainty, or contingency is caused by a transfer to an unborn or unascertained person or class member, or by a transfer in the form of a contingent remainder, vested remainder subject to defeasance, executory interest, or similar disposition, allege: _____ (Name), age _____, is the person who would be entitled to an adverse claim if _____ (describe contingency) had occurred before the commencement of this action.) (If this person is subject to a legal disability, allege: This person is subject to _____ (specify legal disability).)]

8. Plaintiff seeks to quiet title as of _____ [date]. [If the date is a date other than the date the complaint is filed, allege why a determination as of that date is sought.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. That the court adjudge plaintiff to be the owner and entitled to possession of this mining claim;

2. That defendant be adjudged to have no right, title, estate, lien, or interest in this mining claim;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[Verification. See § 363.51[1].]

The form in [1], above, is a complaint for use in an action to quiet title to a mining claim by a plaintiff who is the owner and in possession against a known defendant who is asserting an adverse claim or interest. A plaintiff who intends to name unknown persons as defendants may wish to obtain a title report before commencing the action, because an examination of the record title and an inspection of the property will be necessary [see Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(b)]. Also, the court may order plaintiff to obtain a title report and keep it available for inspection and copying by the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.040(b)].

The complaint does not contain any allegations regarding defendants who are personal representatives [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(a)] or heirs and intestate or testate successors [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)] of persons known or believed by the plaintiff to be deceased. If those defendants are necessary in your particular situation [for discussion, see Who Must Be Made Defendants, below], use the appropriate allegations from Ch. 482, Quieting Title, Form 1.

[3] Required Allegations

By statute, a quiet title complaint must include the following allegations [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020]:

- A description of the property that is the subject of the action (Paragraph 1). In the case of tangible personal property, the description must include its usual location. In the case of real property, the description must include both its legal description and its street address or common designation, if any [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(a)]. This requirement does not preclude the joinder of several propertiesor of real and personal property, if appropriate [15 Cal. L. Rev. Com. 1198 (1979].

- The title of the plaintiff as to which a determination is sought and the basis of the title (Paragraph 4). If the title is based on adverse possession, the complaint must allege the specific facts constituting the adverse possession [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(b); see Ch. 13, Adverse Possession].

- The adverse claims to the plaintiff's title against which a determination is sought (Paragraphs 5-7). If the plaintiff admits the validity of any adverse claim, the complaint must state this [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(c)]. If the claim or the share or quantity of the claim of a person required to be named as a defendant is unknown, uncertain, or contingent, the plaintiff must also state this in the complaint. Further, if the lack of knowledge, uncertainty, or contingency is caused by a transfer to an unborn or unascertained person or class member, or by a transfer in the form of a contingent remainder, vested remainder subject to defeasance, executory interest, or similar disposition, the plaintiff must state this in the complaint, so far as is known to the plaintiff, in addition to the name, age, and legal disability, if any, of the person in being who would be entitled to the claim had the contingency on which the claim depends occurred before the action's commencement (Paragraph 7) [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.020(b)].

- The date as of which the determination is sought. If the determination is sought as of a date other than the date the complaint is filed, the complaint must include a statement of the reasons why a determination as of that date is sought (Paragraph 8) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(d)].

- A prayer for the determination of the plaintiff's title against the adverse claims [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(e)].

[4] Who Must Be Made Defendants

The plaintiff must name as defendants the persons having adverse claims to the title of the plaintiff against which a determination is sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.010]. If the name of a person required to be named as a defendant is not known to plaintiff, the plaintiff must state this in the complaint and must name as parties all persons unknown in the manner described in [5], below (Unknown Defendants) [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.020(a)]. The court on its own motion may, and on motion of any party must, make such orders as appear appropriate for joinder of the additional parties as are necessary or proper [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.040(a)].

If a person required to be named as a defendant is dead and the plaintiff knows of a personal representative, the plaintiff must join the personal representative [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(a)]. If a person required to be named as a defendant is dead, or is believed by the plaintiff to be dead, and the plaintiff knows of no personal representative, the plaintiff must state these facts in an affidavit filed with the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)(1); see generally Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations]. If it is stated in the affidavit that such person is dead, the plaintiff may join as defendants "the testate and intestate successors of _____ (name of deceased person), deceased, and all persons claiming by, through, or under such decedent" naming them in that manner [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)(2)].

If a person required to be named as a defendant is believed by plaintiff to be deceased, the person believed to be deceased may be named as a defendant as may that person's successors. The successors must be denominated as follows: "the testate and intestate successors of _____ (name of person believed to be deceased), believed to be deceased, and all persons claiming by, through, or under such person" [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.030(b)(3)].

[5] Unknown Defendants

In addition to the persons required to be named as defendants in the action, the plaintiff may name as defendants "all persons unknown, claiming any legal or equitable right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the property described in the complaint adverse to plaintiff's title, or any cloud upon plaintiff's title thereto" naming them in that manner [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(a)]. If unknown defendants are named, the plaintiff must name as defendants the persons having adverse claims that are of record or known to the plaintiff or reasonably apparent from an inspection of the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 762.060(b)]. Naming unknown defendants and serving them by publication [see [8], below] will entitle the plaintiff to an in rem judgment against all persons known and unknown who were parties to the action and all persons not parties to the action and unknown to plaintiff who had a claim that was not recorded when the lis pendens was filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 764.030; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 764.045 (further limitation on judgment)]. However, a person who is in open and actual possession of the property cannot be named as an unknown defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 763.010(c)].

Testate and intestate successors and "all persons unknown" can also be designated as DOES. This is not recommended, however, because it differs from the statutory language of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 762.030(b)(2), (3) and 762.060, by which those defendants are to be designated, and because it may limit the in rem effect of the judgment by limiting the number of adverse claimants in those classes [see Code Civ. Proc. § 763.030(b)]. Fictitious defendants, however, may be named as DOES in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 474 (Paragraph 3) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 760.060 (rules governing civil actions generally are applicable in quiet title actions unless they are inconsistent with quiet title provisions)].

The complaint must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020].

[7] Jurisdiction and Venue

The superior court has jurisdiction over quiet title actions [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.040(a)]. It is not a limited civil case [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 580(b)(3)]. Subject to the court's power to transfer actions, the proper county for the trial of an action to quiet title to real property is the county in which the real property, or some of it, is located [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.050(a)].

[8] Service of Summons

The form, content, and manner of the service of summons in quiet title actions is the same as in civil actions generally [Code Civ. Proc. § 763.010(a)]. If unknown defendants are named [see [5], above], there must also be service by publication and posting [Code Civ. Proc. § 763.010(b)]. The requirements for service by publication and posting are discussed in Ch. 482, Quieting Title . The procedure for service of summons is set forth in Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

[9] Lis Pendens

Immediately on the commencement of a quiet title action by filing the complaint, the plaintiff must file a lis pendens in the office of the county recorder of each county in which any real property described in the complaint is located [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.010(a)]. The lis pendens gives constructive notice of the pendency of the action to subsequent purchasers or encumbrancers [Code Civ. Proc. § 405.24]. For forms of lis pendens, see Ch. 348, Lis Pendens .

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of _____ County, California [or other capacity and residence of defendant].

2. [Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as DOES I-V, inclusive and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of the fictitiously named defendants is responsible as hereinafter shown for the occurrences alleged in this complaint.)]

3. [At all times herein mentioned defendant _____ (name) was the agent and employee of defendant _____ (name) and in doing the acts alleged was acting within the scope of that agency.]

4. At all times mentioned herein, plaintiff was entitled to the possession of the mining property known as the _____ [name] mine under _____ [a written or an oral] lease whereby _____ [name of owner] leased the property to plaintiff for a period commencing on _____ [date], and continuing until _____ [date]. [If a written lease is alleged: A copy of this lease is attached to this complaint as Exhibit A and made a part of this complaint.]

5. The above-mentioned _____ [name] mine is located in _____ County, California, and is more particularly described as follows: _____ [set forth legal description].

6. At all times herein mentioned, plaintiff was, and now is, in possession of the above-described mining property and carrying on mining operations for _____ [specify mineral] thereon.

7. At all times herein mentioned, defendant was, and now is, carrying on mining operations on property which is adjacent to and situated _____ [describe relative position of defendant's mine] plaintiff's leasehold.

8. On _____ [date], defendant wrongfully and without plaintiff's consent placed on plaintiff's above-described leasehold _____ [large quantities of mining wastes and debris, or allege other materials placed or caused to flow onto the property], thereby rendering it impossible for plaintiff to carry on mining operations on that portion of his/her leasehold.

9. By reason of the acts of defendant herein alleged, plaintiff has been damaged in the sum of $_____.

10. In doing the aforementioned acts, defendant acted maliciously and willfully; therefore, punitive damages are justified.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For general damages in the sum of $_____;

2. For punitive damages;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use in a trespass action for damages by the lessee of mining property against the operator of an adjoining mine. The action is one for trespass by causing materials to be deposited on plaintiff's property [see § 363.14[3]].

[3] Statute of Limitations

The statute of limitations for actions for trespass to real property is three years [Code Civ. Proc. § 338(b)]. In cases of trespass to real property caused by an act which later results in trespass and damage, the statute does not run from the time the act or diversion of minerals or waters is committed, but from the date the resulting injury is sustained [Polin v. Chung Cho (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 673, 677, 87 Cal. Rptr. 591] .

[4] Standing

The lessee or possessor of a mining claim has standing to maintain an action for trespass [Whittaker v. Otto (1967) 26 O.&G.R. 1, 248 Cal. App. 2d 666, 672-674, 56 Cal. Rptr. 836] .

[5] Jurisdiction

The superior court has jurisdiction of the action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less, in which case it will be classified as a limited civil case [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(8)].

If the action is a limited civil case, the caption must state whether the demand exceeds or does not exceed $10,000 and must also identify the case as a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Gov. Code § 70613; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9), (10)].

This form is a complaint for use in an action for trespass when defendant has entered plaintiff's mine and removed valuable minerals without plaintiff's permission [for discussion, see § 363.14[3]].

[3] Allegations

This complaint combines causes of action for trespass and for conversion. It alleges:

- Ownership and possession of the real property involved and of the minerals on the property (Paragraph 3);
- Wrongful entry on the property and taking of minerals (Paragraph 4); and
- That the entry and taking were willful and malicious, entitling plaintiff to exemplary damages (Paragraph 5).

Although the causes of action in this complaint are combined, they may be stated in separate counts [see Code Civ. Proc. § 427.10].

[4] Damages

Damages for conversion of minerals are governed by the provisions of Civ. Code § 3336 relating to conversion of personal property [Lightner Mining Co. v. Lane (1911) 161 Cal. 689, 704-705, 120 P. 771] . The detriment caused by wrongful conversion of personal property is presumed two-fold [Civ. Code § 3336]:

- First, the property's value at the time of conversion, with the interest from that time, or an amount sufficient to indemnify the party injured for the loss which is the natural, reasonable, and proximate result of the wrongful act complained of and which a proper degree of prudence on the injured party's part would not have averted; and

- Second, a fair compensation for the time and money properly expended in pursuit of the property.

In the case of unintentional trespass to mining property and taking of minerals, the measure of damages is the value of the ore in place, determined by the value of the ore extracted less the costs of extraction, smelting, and transportation. When the trespass and conversion of minerals is intentional and willful, exemplary damages may be awarded in the amount of the value of the ore without any deduction for the costs of producing it for market [Whittaker v. Otto (1967) 26 O.&G.R. 1, 248 Cal. App. 2d 666, 675-676, 56 Cal. Rptr. 836] .

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 363.56[1], Paragraph 1.]

2. [Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 363.56[1], Paragraph 2.]

3. On or about _____ [date], in _____ [city], _____ County, California, defendant represented to plaintiff that defendant was the owner of certain mining property situated in _____ County, California, and further described as follows: _____ [set forth legal description].

4. This representation by defendant was false. On the date in question, and at all times herein mentioned, this mining property was owned by _____ [name of owner]; and defendant had no right, title, interest, or estate in or to this mining property nor to any portion of the mining property.

5. At the time defendant made this false representation to plaintiff, defendant knew it to be false.

6. By making this false representation, defendant intended to induce plaintiff to enter into a written agreement whereby defendant as landlord purported to lease the mining property in question to plaintiff as tenant. A copy of this lease is attached to this complaint as Exhibit A and made a part of this complaint.

7. At the time defendant made the false representation to plaintiff, plaintiff justifiably believed his/her representation to be true and in reliance thereon, on _____ [date], at _____ [city], _____ County, California, entered into the attached lease agreement.

8. As a proximate result of the false representation made by defendant to plaintiff, and of plaintiff's reliance thereon, plaintiff sustained damages in the sum of $_____.

9. [As a further proximate result of this false representation made by defendant to plaintiff, and plaintiff's justifiable reliance thereon, plaintiff became the defendant in an action for damages for trespass to the mining property filed by _____ (name), the true owner of this mining property, in the _____ Court, _____ County, California, entitled _____ (name of owner), Plaintiff v. _____ (name of plaintiff), Defendant, numbered _____.]

10. [For the defense of this action, plaintiff was compelled to employ an attorney, and to expend attorney's fees in the sum of $_____, which sum is a reasonable sum for the services performed.]

11. Defendant made the false representation herein fraudulently, maliciously, and oppressively. Plaintiff, therefore, is entitled to punitive damages.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For general damages in the sum of $_____;

[2. For special damages incurred in defending an action for trespass in the sum of $_____;]

3. For punitive damages; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use in an action for fraud by the lessee of mining property, when the lessor has fraudulently represented that he or she owns the leased property and is entitled to make a valid lease of it to the lessee.

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges:

- Fraudulent representation of ownership (Paragraph 3);
- False representation and the true situation (Paragraph 4);
- Knowledge of the statement's falsity (Paragraph 5);
- Intention to induce plaintiff to enter a lease (Paragraph 6);
- Justifiable reliance by plaintiff (Paragraph 7);
- General damages (Paragraph 8);
- Special damages (Paragraph 10) [see Harazim v. Lynam (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 127, 130, 72 Cal. Rptr. 670] ; and
- Fraudulent, malicious, and oppressive conduct by defendant (Paragraph 11) [Civ. Code § 3294].

For complaints and related forms for use generally in actions for fraud, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit .

[4] Damages

In an action for fraud in the purchase, sale, or exchange of property, the defrauded party is entitled to recover as damages the difference between the actual value of the property received and the value of the consideration with which he or she parted (not the difference between the consideration and the value as represented) [Civ. Code § 3343(a), (b)(1)]. The defrauded party may also recover additional consequential damages, including amounts expended in reliance on the fraud, compensation for loss of use and enjoyment of the property, and lost profits under certain conditions [Civ. Code § 3343(a)(1)-(4)].

[5] Statute of Limitations

The statute of limitations applicable to actions based on fraud is three years, but the time does not begin to run until the defrauded party has discovered the fraud [Code Civ. Proc. § 338(d)]. When it appears on the face of the complaint that the statute has run, the plaintiff should plead facts showing the time and manner of discovery of the fraud and excusing the failure to discover the fraud sooner [Holder v. Home Sav. & Loan Assn. (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 91, 110-111, 72 Cal. Rptr. 704] . For detailed coverage, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit .

[6] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified also, if the action is in the superior court and is not a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude a general denial except in a limited civil case, and will preclude a general denial even in a limited civil case when the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use in an action to recover unpaid royalties under a mining lease of mining claims, when defendant remains in possession and continues to extract minerals from the property [for discussion, see § 363.16].

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges the following:

- The existence of a written or an oral lease (Paragraph 3);
- Performance of all covenants and conditions by plaintiff (Paragraph 4);
- The lease provision for payment of royalties (Paragraph 5);
- The extraction of a known amount of minerals by defendant (Paragraph 6); and

- Royalties due and owing (Paragraph 7).

Paragraph 3 contains the allegation that the lease was written or oral. The complaint is subject to objection by answer or demurrer if it cannot be ascertained from the complaint whether the contract sued on was written, oral, or implied by conduct [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(g)].

[4] Landlord-Tenant Rights Under Mining Lease

Mining leases are generally subject to the ordinary laws of landlord and tenant, with the exception that the tenant under a minimal lease has an obligation to extract minerals from the land [Gold Min. & Water Co. v. Swinerton (1943) 23 Cal. 2d 19, 32, 142 P.2d 22] . When a landlord of mining property sues for damages for breach of a contract to mine, the contract measure of damages is the amount of royalties the landlord lost by reason of his or her failure to mine [Fisher v. Hampton (1975) 50 O.&G.R. 453, 44 Cal. App. 3d 741, 747-748, 118 Cal. Rptr. 811] .

There is an implied condition that a tenant extract minerals from the land in a mining lease [Russell v. Johns Manville Co. (1971) 40 O.&G.R. 26, 20 Cal. App. 3d 405, 410, 97 Cal. Rptr. 634] . Further, a complaint that alleges all of the following properly states a cause of action [Northern Light Co. v. Blue Goose Co. (1914) 25 Cal. App. 282, 284-286, 143 P. 540] :

- Execution of a lease;
- Entry of the tenant into possession;
- Extraction of minerals under the lease;
- The amount due plaintiff under the lease; and
- Payment of all amounts due except a stated sum.

§ 363.60 Complaint for Damages for Breach of Contract [Civ. Code § 3300] and for an Accounting--By Owner of Mining Property Against Mine Operator--Failure to Pay for Minerals Extracted

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages for Breach of Contract [Civ. Code § 3300] and for an Accounting--By Owner of Mining Property Against Mine Operator--Failure to Pay for Minerals Extracted

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name], Plaintiff, vs _____ [name(s)], Defendant(s).	)	NO. _____ COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES AND ACCOUNTING

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 363.56[1], Paragraph 1.]

2. [Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 363.56[1], Paragraph 2.]

3. On _____ [date], plaintiff was, and now is, the owner of certain real property located at _____, _____ County, California, and further described as follows:

_____ [set forth legal description].

4. On the above date, in _____ [city], _____ County, California, plaintiff and defendant entered into _____ [a written or an oral] agreement whereby defendant was to extract _____ [specify mineral] from the above-described property and was to pay plaintiff _____ percent of the net proceeds realized from the sale of the _____ [specify mineral] extracted. This agreement further provided that defendant was to bear all cost of extracting the _____ [specify mineral] from the land. [If written agreement, allege: A copy of this agreement is attached to this complaint as Exhibit A and made a part of this complaint.]

5. On _____ [date], and at various times thereafter, defendant entered on the plaintiff's real property and extracted _____ [specify mineral] from the property, in an amount which is presently unknown to plaintiff. The amount of the net proceeds received by defendant for the sale of this _____ [specify mineral] is likewise unknown to plaintiff. Therefore the amount of money due from defendant to plaintiff is unknown to plaintiff and cannot be ascertained without an accounting.

6. Plaintiff has demanded an accounting of the above-mentioned extractions and sales of _____ [specify mineral] from defendant and paymentof the amount found due, but defendant has failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to render such an accounting and to pay such sum [or allege facts showing that a demand would be useless].

7. Plaintiff has performed all conditions, covenants, and promises under the contract, on his/her part to be performed [, except _____ (condition not performed), the performance of which was excused on the ground that _____ (specify)].

8. Defendant has breached the agreement described above by his/her above stated failure to pay the sum due to plaintiff for the extraction of _____ [specify mineral] from the plaintiff's land.

9. By reason of defendant's failure and refusal to perform the above-described agreement, plaintiff has sustained damages in an amount unknown to him/her which cannot be ascertained without an accounting but which he/she is informed and believes, and on the basis of such information and belief alleges to be, in excess of $_____.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For an accounting between plaintiff and defendant;

2. For the amount found to be due from defendant to plaintiff as a result of the accounting;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 363.51[1].]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use when plaintiff seeks money due from defendant under a contract to extract minerals from plaintiff's land, and when the sum due cannot be ascertained by plaintiff because it depends on facts that are solely within the defendant's knowledge. The complaint combines an action for breach of contract with one for an accounting.

[3] Allegations

The essential allegations for an action for damages for breach of contract are the following:

- The date and place of making of the contract (Paragraph 4);
- The happening of any event that is a condition precedent to defendant's performance (Paragraph 5);
- Plaintiff's performance of all conditions on plaintiff's part or excuse for nonperformance (Paragraph 7);
- The breach by defendant (Paragraph 8); and
- Damages sustained (Paragraph 9).

A complaint is subject to objection by answer or demurrer if it cannot be ascertained from the complaint whether the contract sued on was written, oral, or implied by conduct [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(g)].

The essential allegations for an action for an accounting are the following:

- The existence of a relationship between plaintiff and defendant appropriate to an accounting (Paragraphs 4 and 5);
- That there is an unknown amount due from defendant to plaintiff that cannot be ascertained without an accounting (Paragraph 9); and
- That a demand for an accounting has been made by plaintiff and refused by defendant (Paragraph 6).

[4] Statute of Limitations

When an action for accounting is incidental or ancillary to the perfection of plaintiff's right under a contract, the accounting aspect of the action should not operate to avoid the effect of a statute prescribing a period of limitation with respect to the right basically in issue [Jefferson v. J. E. French Co. (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 717, 718-719, 7 Cal. Rptr. 899, 355 P.2d 643] . In the complaint in [1], above, the applicable period of limitation would be that applicable to an action on a written contract (four years) or on an oral contract (two years) [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 337, 339(1)].

[5] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified also, if the action is in the superior court and is not a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude a general denial except in a limited civil case, and will preclude a general denial even in a limited civil case when the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. §

431.30(d)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[6] Jurisdiction

Athough an accounting may be taken in a limited civil case where necessary to preserve the property or rights of any party to the case, an action for an accounting is in the jurisdiction of the superior court and is not a limited civil case [see Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(8)].

Chapter 364 MINORS: CLAIMS AND PROPERTY OF MINORS
I. SCOPE

32-364 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 364.01

§ 364.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses and contains forms for use in obtaining court approval of the compromise of disputed claims of minors. The following forms are included:

- A petition to compromise a minor's claim [see § 364.90].
- An illustrative court order approving a compromise [see § 364.91].
- An order to deposit money pursuant to a compromise [see § 364.92].
- A receipt and acknowledgment of an order to deposit money pursuant to a compromise [see § 364.93].
- A petition for withdrawal of a minor's fund [see § 364.94].
- An order for withdrawal of a minor's fund [see § 364.95].

For additional discussion of a guardian's power to compromise a minor's claim and dispose of property received pursuant to a compromise or judgment, see Ch. 290A, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Asset Management and Investment .

This chapter also discusses and contains forms for use in proceedings related to the disposition of property belonging to a minor. It includes the following forms:

- A declaration by a parent to receive a minor's property or money when the minor's total estate is less than $5,000 [see § 364.110].
- A petition to dispose of a minor's money when no guardian of the estate has been appointed [see § 364.111].

- A form of order disposing of a minor's funds [see § 364.112].

For a discussion and forms for use when the minor has a guardian of the estate and the sole asset of the guardianship estate is money, see the discussion of termination of guardianships in Ch. 290H, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Termination of Guardianships and Conservatorships . For a discussion and forms for use when the money or other property belonging to the minor is or will be held as custodial property pursuant to the Uniform Transfers to Minors Act (Prob. Code § 3900 et seq.), see Ch. 278, Gifts .

32-364 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 364.11

§ 364.11 Compromising Disputed Claim When No Action Pending

[1] By Parent

When a minor has a disputed claim for damages, money, or other property and does not have a guardian of the estate, either parent or, if the minor's parents are living separate and apart, the parent having the care, custody, or control of the minor, has the right to compromise or to execute a covenant not to sue on or a covenant not to enforce judgment on the claim, except when the claim is against the parents or parent [Prob. Code § 3500(a)]. The compromise or covenant is valid on the filing of a petition, however, only after it has been approved by the superior court either of (1) the county in which the minor resides when the petition is filed or (2) any county where suit on the claim or matter properly could be brought [Prob. Code § 3500(b)].

For a form of petition for compromise of a disputed claim, see § 364.90. For a form of order approving the compromise, see § 364.91.

For discussion of the power of a guardian of the estate to compromise a minor's claim when no action is pending, see Ch. 290A, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Asset Management and Investment .

[2] Execution of Release

After the money or other property has been paid or delivered pursuant to the compromise or covenant in the manner specified in Prob. Code § 3600 et seq. [Prob. Code § 3500(c)], a parent having the right to compromise the disputed claim may execute a full release and satisfaction, or execute a covenant not to sue on or a covenant not to enforce judgment on the disputed claim. If the court orders that all or any part of the money to be paid under the compromise or covenant be deposited in an insured account in a California financial institution or in a single-premium deferred annuity, however, the release and satisfaction or covenant is not effective for any purpose until the money has been deposited as directed in the court's order [Prob. Code § 3500(d); see Prob. Code § 1446 ("single-premium deferred annuity" defined)].

A. Compromise of Minor's Claim and Disposition of Property Received Pursuant to Compromise or Judgment

32-364 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 364.12

§ 364.12 Compromising Disputed Claim When Action Pending

[1] By Guardian

When a minor is a party to an action or proceeding, he or she must appear either by a guardian of the estate or by a guardian ad litem appointed by the court in which the action or proceeding is pending. The guardian appearing for the minor has the power, with the approval of the court in which the action or proceeding is pending, to compromise the action or proceeding, to agree to the order or judgment to be entered in the action or proceeding, and to satisfy any judgment or order in favor of the ward or to release or discharge any claim of the ward pursuant to the compromise [Code Civ. Proc. § 372].

The compromise of a minor's action pending appeal must be done by petition filed in the appellate court. Once the petition is filed, the appellate court may do one of the following: (1) approve or disapprove the compromise, or (2) refer the matter to the trial court for a report, receive a report back from the trial court, and then approve or disapprove the compromise [Anderson v. Latimer (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 667, 677, 212 Cal. Rptr. 544] .

For discussion of the appointment and powers of guardians ad litem, see Ch. 291, Guardians ad Litem .

[2] Guardian ad Litem for Unascertained, Unborn, or Unknown Persons

If, under the terms of a written instrument or otherwise, a person or persons of a designated class who are not ascertained or who are not in being, or who are unknown, may be or may become legally or equitably interested in any real or personal property, the court in which any action, petition, or proceeding relating to or affecting the property is pending may appoint a suitable person to act as guardian ad litem of the unascertained, unborn, or unknown person or persons. The guardian ad litem in such a case has the power, with the court's approval, to compromise the matter, to agree to the order or judgment to be entered for or against the persons for whom the guardian ad litem was appointed, to satisfy any judgment or order in favor of the persons, or to release or discharge any claim of the persons pursuant to the compromise [Code Civ. Proc. § 373.5].

II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Compromise of Minor's Claim and Disposition of Property Received Pursuant to Compromise or Judgment

32-364 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 364.13

§ 364.13 Disposition of Money or Property Received

[1] Order for Payment of Expenses

The court approving the compromise or covenant, or rendering judgment for the minor, also must make a further order authorizing and directing that the reasonable expenses, costs, and attorney's fees approved by the court be paid from the money or other property to be paid or delivered for the benefit of the minor. Payment of medical or other expenses, including reimbursement to a parent or guardian, is specifically authorized by statute [Prob. Code § 3601(a)]. The required order may be directed to a parent of the minor, the guardian ad litem, the guardian of the minor's estate, or that person who is to pay money pursuant to the compromise, covenant, or judgment [Prob. Code § 3601(b)].

[2] Disposition of Balance of Funds if Guardianship of Estate

If there is a guardianship of the estate of the minor, the remaining balance of the money and other property ordinarily must be paid or delivered to the guardian of the estate. On the guardian's application, the court approving the compromise or rendering the judgment, or the court in which the guardianship proceeding is pending, may order that all or part of any money that has been paid or that is to be paid to the guardian be deposited with an approved financial institution or trust company pursuant to the terms of Prob. Code § 2456 [Prob. Code § 3602(b); see discussion of Prob. Code § 2456 in Ch. 290, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Maintenance of Ward or Conservatee].

On ex parte petition of the guardian or of any person interested in the guardianship estate, however, the court approving the compromise or covenant or rendering the judgment, for good cause shown, may order that all or part of the remaining balance of the money not become a part of the guardianship estate, but instead be deposited in an insured account in a California financial institution or in a single-premium deferred annuity, subject to withdrawal only on the court's authorization [Prob. Code § 3602(c)(1); see Prob. Code § 1446 ("single-premium deferred annuity" defined)]. Alternatively or additionally, the court may order that all or part of the remaining balance of money and other property not become part of the guardianship estate, but instead be transferred to a custodian for the benefit of the minor under the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act (Prob. Code § 3900 et seq.) [Prob. Code § 3602(c)(2)]. On the petition of the guardian or of any person interested in the guardianship estate, the court may also order that all or part of the remaining balance of money not become a part of the guardianship estate, but instead be paid to a special needs trust established under Prob. Code § 3604 for the benefit of the minor [Prob. Code § 3602(d); see Prob. Code § 3602(f) (requirement that notice of hearing and copy of petition filed under Prob. Code § 3604(d) be mailed to State Director of Health Services, Director of Mental Health, and Director of Developmental Services, at least 15 days before hearing on petition)].

[3] Disposition of Balance of Funds if No Guardianship of Estate

[a] Court's Options

When there is no guardianship of the estate of the minor, the court has several options as to the disposition of the money or property remaining after payment of all expenses, costs, and fees [Prob. Code §§ 3602(a), 3610, 3611]:

- The court may order that a guardian of the estate be appointed and that the remaining balance of the money and other property be paid or delivered to the appointee [Prob. Code § 3611(a)]. Alternatively, or in addition, the court may order that the balance of any money paid or to be paid be deposited in an insured account in a California financial institution or invested in a single-premium deferred annuity, subject to withdrawal only on the court's authorization. In this case, the remaining balance of any other property must be held on the conditions determined by the court to be in the best interests of the minor [Prob. Code § 3611(b); see § 364.30 et seq.].

- After a hearing, the court may order that the remaining balance of any money be paid to a special needs trust established under Prob. Code § 3604 for the benefit of the minor. At least 15 days before the hearing, notice of the time and place of the hearing and a copy of the petition for the hearing must be mailed to the State Director of Health Services, the Director of Mental Health, and the Director of Developmental Services at their Sacramento offices [Prob. Code § 3611(c)].

- If the remaining balance of the money and other property does not exceed $20,000 in value, the court may order that all or any part of the money and property be held on any other conditions that it, in its discretion, determines to be in the minor's best interest [Prob. Code § 3611(d)].

- If the remaining balance of the money and other property does not exceed $5,000 in value, the court may order that all or any part of it be paid or delivered to a parent of the minor, without bond, on the terms and under the conditions specified in Prob. Code §§ 3400-3402 [Prob. Code § 3611(e)]. For further discussion, see § 364.13[3][b].

- If the remaining balance of the money or other property to be paid or delivered is to be paid or delivered for the benefit of the minor, the court may order that all or any part of the money and other property be transferred to a custodian for the benefit of the minor under the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act (Prob. Code § 3900 et seq.) [Prob. Code § 3611(f)].

The court may also order that the remaining balance of the money and other property be paid or delivered to the trustee of a trust, which is createdby or approved of in the order approving the compromise of the minor's claim or judgment in the minor's favor. This trust must be revocable by the minor on reaching age 18. It must also contain other terms and conditions, including terms and conditions concerning the trustee's account and bond, as the court determines to be necessary to protect the minor's interests [Prob. Code § 3611(g)]. Unless the court orders otherwise for good cause shown, the trust instrument must (1) not contain no-contest provisions, (2) prohibit modification or revocation without court approval, (3) clearly identify the trustee and any other person with authority to direct the trustee to make disbursements, (4) prohibit investments by the trustee other than those permitted under Prob. Code § 2574, (5) require the trustee and any other person with authority to direct the trustee to make disbursements to post bond in the amount required under Prob. Code § 2320 et seq., (6) require the trustee to file accounts and reports for court approval, (7) require court approval of changes in trustees and a court order appointing any successor trustee, and (8) require compensation of the trustee or the trustee's attorney to be in just and reasonable amounts fixed and allowed by the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.903(c)]. The requirements of items (5)-(8) to not apply to trusts that will have total assets of $20,000 or less, unless the court orders otherwise for good cause shown [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.903(d)]. The order creating or approving the funding of the trust must provide that it is subject to the court's continuing jurisdiction over trust proceedings under Prob. Code § 15000 et seq. [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.903(a)(2), (b)]. The order may also provide that the trust is subject to court supervision under the Probate Code, i.e., the court may require prior court approval or subsequent confirmation of the trustee's actions [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.903(a)(3), (b)].

Alternatively, the court may order that the remaining balance of any money paid or to be paid be deposited with the county treasurer if all of the following conditions are met [Prob. Code § 3611(h)]:

- The county board of supervisors has authorized the county treasurer to handle the deposits.

- The county treasurer must receive and keep safely all money deposited with the county treasurer under this statute, and must pay the money out only on order of the court; it must also credit each estate with the interest earned by the deposited funds less its actual cost authorized to be recovered under Gov. Code § 27013.

- The county treasurer and the sureties on its official bond are responsible for the safekeeping and payment of the money.

- The county treasurer must ensure that the money deposited will earn interest or dividends, or both, at the highest rate the county can reasonably obtain as a prudent investor.

- Deposited funds may only be invested or deposited in compliance with the provisions governing the investment or deposit of state funds set forth in Gov. Code § 16640 et seq., the investment or deposit of county funds set forth in Gov. Code § 53600, or as authorized under Prob. Code § 2400 et seq. (fiduciaries).

For a form of order to deposit money in proceedings to compromise a claim, see § 364.92. For a form of receipt and acknowledgment of an order to deposit money pursuant to a compromise, see § 364.93. For a form of petition for withdrawal of funds, see § 364.94, and for a form of order for withdrawal of funds, see § 364.95.

[b] Delivery of Property to Minor's Parent

In cases in which the minor does not have a guardian of the estate and the court orders the balance of the money and other property, not exceeding $5,000 in value, paid or delivered to a parent of the minor entitled to the minor's custody, it must be held in trust for the minor until he or she reaches majority. In addition, the minor's total estate, including the money and other property to be paid or delivered to the parent, cannot exceed $5,000 in value. The parent to whom the money or other property is to be paid or delivered is required to give the person making the payment or delivery written assurance, verified by oath, that the minor's total estate--including the money or other property to be paid or delivered to the parent--does not exceed $5,000 in value [Prob. Code § 3401; see § 364.30 et seq. and § 364.110]. The effect of the parent's written receipt is to acquit the person making the payment or delivery [Prob. Code § 3402].

Except to the extent that the court orders otherwise, the court making an order under Prob. Code § 3611 when the minor has no guardian of the estate has continuing jurisdiction of the money and other property paid, delivered, deposited, or invested until the minor reaches the age of 18 years [Prob. Code § 3612(a)]. However, the trust of an individual who meets the definition of a person with a disability under 20 C.F.R. § 416.906 [Prob. Code § 3603(b)(3)], and who reaches the age of 18 years, continues and is under continuing court jurisdiction until terminated by the court [Prob. Code § 3612(b)].

The term "total estate of the minor" includes both the money and any other property belonging to the minor, as well as the money and any other property belonging to the minor's guardianship estate [Prob. Code § 3400(a)]. In computing the "total estate of the minor" and "money belonging to the minor," custodial property held pursuant to the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act (Prob. Code § 3900 et seq.) and any money or property subject to a court order pursuant to Prob. Code §§ 3602(c), 3610-3612 (see § 364.10 et seq.) must be deducted [Prob. Code §§ 3400(b), 3410(b)]. In addition, an unemancipated minor's earnings are not considered to be his or her property [see Fam. Code § 7500; In re Marriage of Imperato (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 432, 437, 119 Cal. Rptr. 590 ("earnings" broadly defined)], except a portion of gross earnings withheld from as entertainment, artistic, or sports contract, as required by Fam. Code § 6752 [see Fam Code § 7500(c)]. Therefore, the minor's earnings also generally should be deducted in computing the total estate of the minor or money belonging to the minor.

Money or other property belonging to a minor who does not have a guardian of the estate may be paid or delivered to a parent of the minor entitled to the minor's custody to be held in trust for the minor until the minor reaches majority, provided that both of the following requirements are satisfied [Prob. Code § 3401(a), (c)]:

- The "total estate of the minor" [see § 364.31], including the money and other property to be paid or delivered to the parent, does not exceed $5,000 in value.

- The parent to whom the money or other property is to be paid or delivered gives the person making the payment or delivery written assurance, verified by the parent's oath, that the total estate of the minor, including the money or other property to be paid or delivered to the parent, does not exceed $5,000 in value.

The written receipt of the parent giving the written assurance under Prob. Code § 3401 is an acquittance of the person making the payment of money or delivery of other property [Prob. Code § 3402].

[1] Petition

A parent entitled to the minor's custody, the guardian of the minor's estate, or the person holding the minor's money may file a petition for an order under Prob. Code §§ 3410-3413 [Prob. Code § 3411(a)]. The petition must be filed in the superior court of the county (1) in which the minor resides, if he or she has no guardian of the estate, or (2) having jurisdiction of the guardianship estate, if the minor has a guardian of the estate [Prob. Code § 3411(b)]. Prob. Code §§ 3410-3413], the statutory sections governing property in the form of money, apply (1) if a minor has a guardian of his or her estate and the sole asset of the guardianship estate is money, or (2) if the minor has no guardian and there is money belonging to the minor [Prob. Code § 3410(a)].

[2] Guardian of Estate

If the minor has a guardian of the estate and the sole asset of the guardianship estate is money, the court may order that the guardianship of the estate be terminated. If it does so, the court in its discretion also may order one or more of the dispositions set forth under § 364.33[3] [see Prob. Code § 3412]. For further discussion and a form of petition for use in such a case, see Ch. 290G, Guardianship and Conservatorship Removal or Resignation of Guardians and Conservators , and Ch. 290H, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Termination of Guardianships and Conservatorships .

[3] No Guardian of Estate

If the minor has no guardian of the estate and there is money belonging to the minor, the court may order that a guardian of the estate be appointed and that the money be paid to the guardian [Prob. Code § 3413]. For discussion of appointment of a guardian, see Ch. 280, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Guardians .

Alternatively, the court may order that the money belonging to the minor be disposed of in one or more of the following ways:

- That the money be deposited in an insured account in a California financial institution or in a single-premium deferred annuity, subject to withdrawal only on authorization of the court [Prob. Code § 3413(a)].

- If the money belonging to the minor does not exceed $20,000, that the money be held on whatever other conditions the court in its discretion determines to be in the minor's best interests [Prob. Code § 3413(c)].

- If the money belonging to the minor does not exceed $5,000, that all or any part of the money be paid to a parent of the minor, withoutbond, on the terms and conditions specified in Prob. Code §§ 3400-3402 (discussed under § 364.32) [Prob. Code § 3413(d)].

- That all or part of the money be transferred to a custodian for the benefit of the minor under the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act (Prob. Code § 3900 et seq.) [Prob. Code § 3413(b)].

- That the remaining balance of any money paid or to be paid be deposited with the county treasurer, if all of the following conditions are met [Prob. Code § 3413(e)]:

(1) The county board of supervisors has authorized the county treasurer to handle the deposits.

(2) The county treasurer must receive and keep safely all money deposited with the county treasurer under this statute, and must pay the money out only on order of the court; it must also credit each estate with the interest earned by the deposited funds less its actual cost authorized to be recovered under Gov. Code § 27013.

(3) The county treasurer and the sureties on its official bond are responsible for the safekeeping and payment of the money.

(4) The county treasurer must ensure that the money deposited will earn interest or dividends, or both, at the highest rate the county can reasonably obtain as a prudent investor.

(5) Deposited funds may only be invested or deposited in compliance with the provisions governing the investment or deposit of state funds set forth in Gov. Code § 16640 et seq., the investment or deposit of county funds set forth in Gov. Code § 53600, or as authorized under Prob. Code § 2400 et seq. (fiduciaries).

[2] Use of Forms

These forms are illustrations of Cal. Judicial Council Forms MC-350, MC-350(A-13b(5)) (optional medical service provider attachment), and MC-350EX (mandatory alternative for expedited use) for use in obtaining court approval of a disputed claim involving a minor. They may be used regardless of whether an action is pending by checking the appropriate box in The Caption [see Code Civ. Proc. § 372 (action pending); Prob. Code § 3500 (no action pending)].

Use of these forms is mandatory [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.31]. These forms may be obtained from any superior court clerk.

These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Required Disclosures in Petition

A petition for court approval of a compromise of a minor's claim or covenant not to sue under Prob. Code § 3500 or Code Civ. Proc. § 372 must contain a full disclosure of all information that has any bearing on the reasonableness of the compromise or covenant [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.950]. Further, if the petitioner has been represented or assisted by an attorney in preparing the petition or in any other respect with regard to the claim, the petition must disclose specified information, as illustrated in Paragraph 11 of the foregoing form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.951].

[4] Verification

A petition for compromise of a disputed claim of a minor must be verified [see Prob. Code § 1021; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.950].

[5] Venue and Hearing

The petition must be approved by the superior court either of the county in which the minor resides when the petition is filed, or of any county in which suit on the claim or matter properly could be brought [Prob. Code § 3500(b)].

On filing, the petition will be set for hearing in the probate court [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 10.187(a)(1)].

The person compromising the claim on behalf of the minor and the minor must attend the hearing on the compromise of the claim unless the court for good cause dispenses with their personal appearance [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.952(a)]. At the hearing, the court may require the presence and testimony of witnesses, including the attending or examining physician [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.952(b)].

[2] Use of Form

This form is an illustration of Judicial Council Form MC-351, for use when an order is made approving the compromise of a disputed claim involving a minor.

Use of the Judicial Council Form is mandatory [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.31]. This form may be obtained from any superior court clerk.

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

The form provides for the manner of disbursement of the settlement proceeds, whether paid for attorney's fees (Paragraph 7b(1)(a)), reimbursement for medical and other expenses paid by the petitioner (Paragraph 7b(1)(b)), medical, hospital, ambulance, nursing, and other like expenses (Paragraph 7b(1)(c)), and other authorized expenses (Paragraph 7c(1)(d)). The form also specifies the method of payment of the balance of the settlement proceeds (Paragraph 7c(2)). If the settlement order provides for payment into a blocked account, the court requires the attorney submitting the proposed order to also submit an Order to Deposit Money into Blocked Account [see § 364.92] and a Receipt and Acknowledgment of Order for the Deposit of Money into Blocked Account [see § 364.93]. Three copies of each form are required to be delivered to each depository at the time of deposit, and the petitioner is required to file a copy of the Receipt within 15 days of the deposit (Paragraph 8b).

[3] Required Statements in Order

In any case in which the court orders that funds to be received by a minor must be deposited in a financial institution and not disbursed without further order of the court, the order must include a provision that a certified or filed endorsed copy of the order must be delivered to a manager at the financial institution where the funds are to be deposited, and that a receipt from the financial institution must be promptly filed with the court, acknowledging receipt of both the funds deposited and the order for deposit of funds [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.953(a)]. If, in the order approving the compromise of a minor's claim, there is a finding that the minor will attain the age of majority on a definite date, the order for deposit may require that the depository permit the withdrawal of funds by the former minor after that date, without further order of the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 7.953(b)].

[2] Use of Form

The form above is for use in petitioning the court under Prob. Code § 3413 for an order disposing of money belonging to a minor. For discussion of the types of orders permitted, see § 364.33[3].

[3] Petitioners

A petition requesting a court order under Prob. Code § 3413 may be filed by a parent of a minor entitled to custody of the minor, the guardian of the estate of the minor, or the person holding the money belonging to the minor [Prob. Code § 3411(a)]. Prob. Code § 3413 only applies, however, when the minor has no guardianship of the estate. If such a guardianship exists, the petition must be brought under Prob. Code § 3412, which authorizes basically the same relief as Prob. Code § 3413. For discussion and a form of petition for use in such cases, see Ch. 290G, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Removal or Resignation of Guardians and Conservators , and Ch. 290H, Guardianships and Conservatorships: Termination of Guardianships and Conservatorships .

[4] Jurisdiction and Venue

A petition for an order under Prob. Code § 3413 must be filed in the superior court of the county in which the minor resides [see Prob. Code §§ 3411(b), 3413].

[5] Verification

A petition for an order disposing of money belonging to a minor pursuant to Prob. Code § 3413 must be verified [Prob. Code § 1021].

[1] FORM Order Disposing of Minor's Funds (Ex Parte) [Prob. Code § 3413(a)]--Los Angeles County Superior Court Form

The form is designed for use in Los Angeles County as an order made after an ex parte petition to dispose of a minor's funds pursuant to Prob. Code § 3413(a). The form is a reproduction of Los Angeles County Form No. 338, which is available at the offices of the county clerk. Counsel should ascertain whether equivalent forms are required for use in other counties.

[3] Authorized Dispositions

Prob. Code § 3413(a) provides, in part, that if a minor has no guardian of the estate (and the court does not appoint one) and there is money belonging to the minor, the court may order that the money be deposited in an insured account in a California financial institution, or in a single-premium deferred annuity, subject to withdrawal only on court authorization. The court may make other dispositions under Prob. Code § 3413(b)-(e), however, in addition to or instead of those above, as discussed in § 364.33[3].

If the minor has a guardianship of the estate and the sole asset of the estate is money, the proceeding must be brought under Prob. Code § 3412, which authorizes the court to terminate the guardianship and order the same dispositions as are authorized by Prob. Code § 3413. For discussion of and forms for use in such cases, see Ch. 290G, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Removal or Resignation of Guardians and Conservators , and Ch. 290H, Guardianships and Conservatorships: Termination of Guardianships and Conservatorships .

[4] Blocked Accounts

The form reproduced here contemplates that the petitioner will deposit the balance of funds due to the minor in a blocked account, and that the petitioner could not make withdrawals from the account without prior court authorization. Because this type of disposition is not required in all cases [see, e.g., Prob. Code § 3413(d) (money or property not exceeding $5,000 as subject to disposition under Prob. Code §§ 3400-3402)], use of the form is limited to those situations in which use of a blocked account and court-sanctioned approval for withdrawals from that account are desirable or required by law.

Chapter 365 MINORS: CONTRACT ACTIONS
PART I. SCOPE

32-365 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 365.01

§ 365.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter includes a discussion of the validity of contracts for necessaries and for medical care entered into by minors. It includes a complaint against a minor by a supplier of necessaries [see § 365.140].

This chapter also discusses and presents forms for use in connection with the disaffirmation of a contract by a minor. It includes the following forms:

- A form for notice of disaffirmation [see § 365.160].
- A form for an affirmative defense by a minor who disaffirmed a contract [see § 365.161].
- An affirmative defense by an innocent purchaser who had no notice or knowledge of a minor's disaffirmation [see § 365.162].

For discussion and forms relating to contracts by minors for necessaries, see § 365.10 et seq. for a discussion and forms relating to contracts involving artistic or athletic services by minors, see § 365.50 et seq.

This chapter also discusses and contains forms for use in obtaining court approval of contracts by minors in the arts, entertainment, and sports, and for use in litigation involving contracts of this type. The chapter includes the following forms:

- A petition and order to obtain court approval of contracts for artistic services, for literary, musical, or dramatic properties, and for athletic services by a minor [§§ 365.180, 365.181].
- A petition and order to amend or terminate a trust plan established for a minor by the court [§§ 365.182, 365.183].
- A form for a complaint for an action to enjoin violation of a contract for artistic services involving a minor that had been approved by the superior court [see § 365.184].

§ 365.12 Contracts for Necessaries

An otherwise valid contract entered into during minority may not be disaffirmed on that ground either during the actual minority of the person entering into the contract or at any time thereafter if all of the following requirements are satisfied [Fam. Code § 6712; see, e.g., Burnand v. Irigoyen (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 861, 867, 186 P.2d 417 (lodging)]:

- The contract is to pay the reasonable value of things that are necessary for the support of the minor or the minor's family.

- The things that are necessary for the support of the minor or the minor's family actually have been furnished to the minor or to the minor's family.

- The contract was entered into by the minor when not under the care of a parent or guardian able to provide for the minor or the minor's family.

For a form of complaint for use against a minor by a supplier of necessaries, see § 365.140.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Contracts for Necessaries and Medical Care

32-365 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 365.13

§ 365.13 Medical and Dental Care

[1] Blood Donations

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a minor who has attained the age of 17 may consent to the donation of his or her blood and to the penetration of any tissue that is necessary to accomplish the donation. A minor who has attained the age of 15 may consent to the donation of his or her blood with the written consent of his or her parents or a guardian and the written authorization of a physician and surgeon [Health & Safety Code § 1607.5]. Once given, consent is not subject to disaffirmance because of minority [Fam. Code § 6711 (obligation entered into under express statutory authority not subject to disaffirmance)].

[2] Married Minors

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, lawfully married minors--even if the marriage is subsequently dissolved--may consent to the furnishing to themselves of medical, dental, or psychiatric care without parental consent, knowledge, or liability. Once given, consent may not be disaffirmed because of minority [see Fam. Code §§ 7002(a), 7050(e)(1)].

[3] Prevention or Treatment of Pregnancy

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a minor may consent to medical care related to the prevention or treatment of pregnancy. Once given, the minor's consent is not subject to disaffirmation because of minority. This statutory provision, however, does not authorize a minor to be sterilized without the consent of his or her parent or guardian [Fam. Code §§ 6920, 6921, 6925(a), (b)(1)]. In addition, Fam. Code § 6925(b)(2) provides that a minor may not receive an abortion without the consent of a parent or guardian, other than provided in Health & Safety Code § 123450 (a judicial bypass procedure), but this restriction on abortion has been held unconstitutional as an unreasonable infringement on a pregnant minor's fundamental privacy interests [American Academy of Pediatrics v. Lungren (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 307, 356, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 210, 940 P.2d 797] . For further discussion of the abortion rights of a minor, see Ch. 4, Abortion and Birth Control Methods .

For discussion of consent to treatment for sexually transmitted diseases, see § 365.13[6]. For discussion of treatment for minors who have been raped, see § 365.13[7]. For discussion of medical treatment for minors who have been subjected to sexual assault, see § 365.13[8].

[4] Minors in Military

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, any minor on active duty with the armed services of the United States may consent to the furnishing to himself or herself of medical, dental, or psychiatric care without parental consent, knowledge, or liability. Once given, consent may not be disaffirmed because of minority [Fam. Code §§ 7002(b), 7050(e)(1)].

[5] Certain Minors Living Separate and Apart From Parent or Guardian

When a minor is 15 years of age or older, living separate and apart from a parent or guardian, and managing his or her own financial affairs, the minor may give consent for his or her own medical and dental care [Fam. Code §§ 6920, 6922; see Fam. Code §§ 6901 ("dental care" defined), 6902 ("medical care" defined)]. The actual source of the minor's income is irrelevant for this purpose [Fam. Code § 6922(a)(3)]. To qualify to give consent, the minor need not be living separate and apart from his or her parents or guardian with their consent, nor is any durational requirement imposed on the minor's separate residence [Fam. Code § 6922(a)(2)].

Once entered, such a contract may not be disaffirmed because of minority, nor are the parents or guardian liable for any medical or dental care provided under this statutory provision [Fam. Code §§ 6921, 6922(b)]. The physician or dentist rendering treatment may inform the minor's parent or guardian of the treatment given or needed, however, regardless of whether the minor patient consents to the disclosure, if the physician and surgeon or dentist has reason to know on the basis of the information given by the minor the whereabouts of the parent or guardian [Fam. Code § 6922(c)].

[6] Minors With Infectious Disease

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a minor 12 years of age or older who may have come into contact with any infectious, contagious, or communicable disease may consent to the furnishing of medical care related to the diagnosis and treatment of the disease, if the disease or condition is one required by law or regulation to be reported to the local health officer, or a related sexually transmitted disease, as may be determined by the State Director of Health Services [Fam. Code § 6926(a)]. A contract for the provision of such medical care may not be disaffirmed on the basis of minority, nor are the minor's parents or guardian liable for payment for any medical care provided [Fam. Code § 6926(b)].

For discussion of consent to medical care for the treatment or prevention of pregnancy, see § 365.13[3]. For discussion of treatment for minors who have been raped, see § 365.13[7]. For discussion of medical treatment for minors who have been subjected to sexual assault, see § 365.13[8].

Notwithstanding any other provisions of law, a minor 12 years of age or older who is alleged to have been raped may give consent to the furnishing of medical care related to the diagnosis or treatment of the condition, and to the collection of medical evidence with regard to the alleged rape [Fam. Code § 6927]. Once given, consent is not subject to disaffirmance because of minority [Fam. Code § 6921], nor is the consent of the parent, parents, or legal guardian of the minor necessary to authorize the diagnosis, treatment, or collection of evidence [Fam. Code §§ 6920, 6927].

For discussion of consent to medical care for the treatment or prevention of pregnancy, see § 365.13[3]. For discussion of medical treatment for minors with sexually transmitted diseases, see § 365.13[6]. For discussion of medical treatment for minors who have been subjected to sexual assault, see § 365.13[8].

[8] Minor Victim of Sexual Assault

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a minor who is alleged to have been sexually assaulted [Fam. Code § 6928(a); see Penal Code §§ 261, 286, 288a] may give consent to the furnishing of medical care related to the diagnosis and treatment of the condition, and to the collection of medical evidence with regard to the alleged sexual assault. Once given, consent is not subject to disaffirmance because of minority [Fam. Code §§ 6921, 6928(b)].

Although the consent of the parent, parents, or legal guardian of the minor is not necessary to authorize the diagnosis, treatment, or collection of evidence [Fam. Code § 6920], the professional providing the medical treatment must attempt to contact the minor's parent or guardian unless the professional person rendering the care reasonably believes that the minor's parent or guardian committed the sexual assault on the minor. Furthermore, the professional providing the care must note in the minor's treatment record the date and time when he or she attempted to contact the parent, parents, or legal guardian, and whether the attempt was successful or unsuccessful [Fam. Code § 6928(c)].

For discussion of consent to medical care for the treatment or prevention of pregnancy, see § 365.13[3]. For discussion of medical treatment for minors with sexually transmitted diseases, see § 365.13[6]. For discussion of treatment for minors who have been raped, see § 365.13[7].

[9] Minor Drug Addict or Alcoholic

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a minor 12 years of age or older may give consent to medical care and counseling [see Fam. Code § 6929(a)(1) ("counseling" defined)] relating to the diagnosis and treatment of a drug- or alcohol-related problem [Fam. Code § 6929(b); see Fam. Code § 6929(a)(2) ("drug or alcohol" defined)]. Once given, consent is not subject to disaffirmance because of minority [Fam. Code § 6921].

The consent of the parent or guardian of a minor is not necessary to authorize the medical care or counseling for the drug- or alcohol-related problem [Fam. Code § 6920]. Except as otherwise provided (see below), the parent or guardian of the minor ordinarily is not liable for paymentfor any drug-related or alcohol-related care or counseling rendered to a minor [Fam. Code § 6929(d)].

The authorized treatment plan must include the involvement of the minor's parent or guardian, if appropriate, as determined by the treatment facility or the physician, registered nurse, psychologist, clinical social worker, marriage and family therapist, or marriage and family therapist intern, psychological assistant, or associate clinical social worker under supervision ("professional person" [Fam. Code § 6929(a)(4)]) treating the minor. The "professional person" may also be a marriage and family therapist registered intern, psychological assistant, or associate clinical social worker, if appropriately employed and supervised [Fam. Code § 6929(a)(4)]. The professional person rendering medical treatment or counseling to the minor must state in the minor's treatment record whether and when he or she attempted to contact the parent or guardian of the minor and whether the attempts were successful, or the reason why, in his or her opinion, it was not appropriate to contact the minor's parent or guardian [Fam. Code § 6929(c)]. If the minor's parent or guardian participates in a drug-related or alcohol-related counseling program, however, the parent or guardian is liable for the cost of the services provided to the minor and the parent or guardian [Fam. Code § 6929(d)].

The statutory provisions governing the consent of a minor to a drug-related or alcohol-related treatment program do not authorize a minor to receive replacement narcotic abuse treatment, in a program licensed pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 11875 et seq. without the consent of his or her parent or guardian [Fam. Code § 6929(e)]. In addition, in cases in which a parent or guardian has sought medical care and counseling for a drug-related or alcohol-related problem of a minor, the physician must disclose medical information concerning that care to the minor's parents or legal guardian on their request, even if the minor does not consent to disclosure. The physician is exempt from liability for that disclosure [Fam. Code § 6928(g)].

[10] Mental Health Treatment

A minor who is 12 years of age or older may consent to mental health treatment or counseling on an outpatient basis, or to residential shelter services, if, in the opinion of an attending professional person, the minor is mature enough to participate intelligently in the treatment, counseling, or services, and (1) the minor would present a danger of serious physical or mental harm to himself or herself or to others without the mental health treatment or counseling, or (2) the minor is the alleged victim of incest or child abuse [Fam. Code § 6924(b); see Fam. Code § 6924(a) ("mental health treatment or counseling services," "professional person," "residential shelter services" defined)]. Once entered, a contract to receive these services may not be disaffirmed because of minority [Fam. Code § 6921] and does not need the parent or guardian's consent [Fam. Code § 6920].

A professional person offering residential shelter services to a minor who has personally consented to the services, whether acting as an individual or as a representative of an agency or entity [see Fam. Code § 6924(a)(3)], must make his or her best efforts to notify the minor's parent or guardian of the provision of services [Fam. Code § 6924(c)]. Furthermore, any mental health treatment or counseling of a minor to which the minor has personally consented must include the involvement of the minor's parent or guardian unless, in the opinion of the professional treating or counseling the minor, the involvement would be inappropriate. The professional must state in the client record whether and when he or she attempted to contact the minor's parent or guardian and whether the attempt to contact was successful, or why, in his or her opinion, it would be inappropriate to contact the minor's parent or guardian [Fam. Code § 6924(d)].

The minor's parent or guardian is not liable for payment for mental health treatment or counseling services provided to the minor on the minor's own consent, unless the parent or guardian participates in the treatment or counseling. In this case, the parent or guardian is liable only for the services rendered with his or her participation. The parent or guardian is not liable for payment for any residential shelter services provided to the minor unless the parent or guardian consented to the provision of the services [Fam. Code § 6924(e)].

The statutory provisions that govern consent by a minor to mental health treatment or counseling do not authorize a minor to receive convulsive therapy or psychosurgery [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 5325(f), (g)], or psychotropic drugs, without the consent of the minor's parent or guardian [Fam. Code § 6924(f)].

[11] Inspection of Medical Records

Any minor patient authorized by law to consent to medical treatment is entitled to inspect patient records on presenting to the health care provider a written request for those records and on payment of reasonable clerical costs incurred in locating and making the records available. A patient who is a minor, however, is entitled to inspect patient records pertaining only to health care of a type to which the minor is lawfully authorized to consent [Health & Safety Code § 123110(a)].

[1] Statutory Authority

The following are the specific statutory exceptions to the minor's right of disaffirmance:

- Contracts made under express statutory authority [Fam. Code § 6711, discussed under § 365.32[3]].
- Contracts for necessaries [Fam. Code § 6712, discussed in § 365.10 et seq.].
- Protection of good faith purchasers [Fam. Code § 6713, discussed under § 365.32[2]].
- Contracts in arts, entertainment, or sports approved by the court [Fam. Code § 6751, discussed in § 365.50 et seq.].
- Consent given by a minor to medical or dental care [Fam. Code § 6921, discussed in § 365.10 et seq.].

[2] Innocent Purchasers

If goods originally sold by a minor have been transferred to another purchaser who bought them in good faith for value and without notice of the transferor's defect of title, before the contract of the minor has been disaffirmed, the minor cannot recover the goods from the innocent purchaser [Fam. Code § 6713].

For a form of affirmative defense when the defendant was an innocent purchaser, see § 365.162.

[3] Contracts Expressly Authorized by Statute

A minor may not disaffirm an obligation, otherwise valid, entered into by him or her under the express authority or direction of a statute [Fam. Code § 6711]. Examples of obligations of this type are the giving up of a child by a minor to a licensed adoption agency [Fam. Code § 8700(b)], contracts for disability or life insurance by minors [Ins. Code § 10112], and the purchase of certain property by minor veterans [Mil. & Vet. Code § 986.10].

A contract in which the minor agrees to be employed or to render artistic or creative services, assuming it is otherwise valid and approved by the superior court as discussed below, cannot be disaffirmed by the minor, either during minority or afterwards [Fam. Code § 6751(a); Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. v. Brodel (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 766, 770-771, 192 P.2d 949 , cert. denied, 335 U.S. 844, 93 L. Ed. 394, 69 S. Ct. 67] . For this purpose, the term "artistic or creative services" is defined as including, but is not limited to, services as an actor, dancer, musician, comedian, singer, stunt-person, voice-over artist, or other performer or entertainer, or as a songwriter, musical producer or arranger, writer, director, producer, production executive, choreographer, composer, conductor, or designer [Fam. Code § 6750(a)(1)].

Such a contract, otherwise valid, cannot be disaffirmed on the ground of minority either during the minority of the person entering into the contract or at any time thereafter, if the contract is approved by the superior court in any county in which the minor resides or is employed or in which any party to the contract has its principal office in California for the transaction of business [*Fam. Superior court approval of contracts by minors [Fam. Code § 6751(a)] for artistic services [Fam. Code § 6750(a)(1)], literary, musical, or dramatic properties [Fam. Code § 6750(a)(2)], or athletic services [Fam. Code § 6750(a)(3)] may be given on petition of any party to the contract or agreement after giving whatever reasonable notice to all other parties as may be fixed by the court, with opportunity to the other parties to appear and be heard [Fam. Code § 6751(b)]. A parent or legal guardian who is entitled to the physical custody, care, and control of the minor should be the minor's guardian ad litem for the proceeding, unless the court determines that appointment of a different individual as guardian ad litem is required in the best interests of the minor [*Fam. The court may make its approval conditional on the parties' acceptance of its modifications to the contract [In re Loew's Inc. and Elmes (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 782, 783, 192 P.2d 958] .

C. Contracts in the Arts, Entertainment, and Sports

§ 365.55 Withholding of Portion of Minor's Gross Earnings

For any contract by a minor for artistic or athletic services, or involving literary, musical, or dramatic properties [see Fam. Code §§ 6750, 6751], 15 percent of the minor's gross earnings under the contract must be set aside in trust in an account or other savings plan, and preserved for the benefit of the minor [Fam. Code §§ 6752(b)(1), (d)(1)]. The minor's "gross earnings" means the total compensation payable to the minor under the contract or, if the minor's services are being rendered through a third-party individual or personal services corporation (loan-out company), the total compensation payable to that third party for the minor's services [Fam. Code § 6750(c)(1)]. With respect to contracts under which a minor is employed or agrees to render services as a musician, singer, songwriter, musical producer, or arranger only, the minor's "gross earnings" means the total amount paid to the minor under the contract, including the payment of any advances to the minor under the contract, but excluding deductions to offset those advances or other expenses incurred by the employer under the contract; if the minor's services are being rendered through a third-party individual or personal services corporation (loan-out company), the minor's "gross earnings" is the total amount payable to that third party for the minor's services [Fam. Code § 6750(c)(2)].

A parent or legal guardian entitled to physical care, custody and control of the minor must act as trustee, unless the court determines that the appointment of a different individual or entity is required in the best interests of the minor [Fam. Code §§ 6752(b)(2), (d)(1)]. Within seven business days after execution of the contract, the trustee must establish a trust account, known as a Coogan Trust Account, at a bank, savings and loan institution, credit union, brokerage firm or company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, that is located in California [Fam. Code § 6753(a); see Fam. Code § 6753(d) (account must be insured)].

Within 10 business days after the execution of the contract, the trustee must provide the minor's employer with a written statement under penalty of perjury that includes the name, address, and telephone number of the financial institution, the name and number of the account, the name ofthe minor beneficiary, the trustee's name, and any additional information needed by the employer to deposit the set-aside funds into the account [Fam. Code §§ 6752(b)(3), (d)(2), 6753(c)]. The trustee must attach to the statement a copy of any information received from the financial institution confirming the creation of the account, such as an account agreement, account terms, passbook, or similar writings [Fam. Code § 6753(c)]. The employer must provide the trustee with a written acknowledgment of receipt of the statement [Fam. Code

If the minor is employed or agrees to render services directly for a person or entity, this person or entity is considered to be the minor's employer [Fam. Code § 6750(b)(1)]. If the minor's services are being rendered through a third party individual or personal services corporation (loan-out company), the person to whom or entity to which this third party is providing the minor's services is considered to be the minor's employer [Fam. Code § 6750(b)(2)]. If the minor is rendering services as an extra, background performer, or in a similar capacity through an agency or service that provides one or more of those performers for a fee (casting agency), the agency or service is considered to be the minor's employer [Fam. Code § 6750(b)(3)].

The minor's employer must deposit 15 percent of the minor's gross earnings under the contract within 15 business days after receiving a true and accurate copy of the trustee's statement, a certified copy of the minor's birth certificate, and, in the case of a guardian, a certified copy of the court document appointing the person as the minor's guardian. Pending receipt of these documents, the employer must hold 15 percent of the minor's gross earnings under the contract for the minor's benefit [Fam. Code § 6752(b)(4), (d)(3)]. When making the initial deposit of funds, the employer must provide written notification to the financial institution or company that the funds are subject to Fam. Code § 6753. On receipt of the court order, the employer must provide the financial institution with a copy of the order [Fam. Code § 6752(b)(5), (d)(3)]. Once the employer deposits the set aside funds in trust, in an account or other savings plan, it has no further obligation or duty to monitor or account for the funds. The trustee has the obligation to monitor and account for the funds once they have been deposited by the employer, and must prepare an annual accounting of the funds in accordance with Prob. Code §§ 16062 and 16063 [Fam. Code § 6752(b)(6), (d)(4)].

On petition of the parent or legal guardian, the minor (through a guardian ad litem), or the trustee, on good cause shown, the court may order the amendment or termination of the trust, notwithstanding the provisions of the declaration of trust. Such an order may be made only after reasonable notice to the beneficiary and, if the beneficiary is then a minor, to the parent or guardian, if any, and to the trustee of the funds, with an opportunity for all parties to appear and be heard [Fam. Code § 6752(b)(7), (d)(5)]. Until the minor becomes 18 or a declaration of emancipation of the minor is issued, no withdrawal of any funds on deposit in the trust may be made without written order of the court [Fam. Code § 6753(b)].

The trustee must promptly notify the employer, in writing, of any change in facts affecting the employer's obligation or ability to set aside the funds for the minor's benefit, including, but not limited to, a change of financial institution or account number, or the existence of a new or amended order amending or terminating the employer's obligations. The written notification must be accompanied by a true and accurate photocopy of the trustee's statement and, if applicable, a true and accurate photocopy of the new or amended order [Fam. Code § 6752(b)(8), (d)(6)].

On reaching the age of 18, the beneficiary may withdraw the funds on deposit in trust after providing a certified copy of the beneficiary's birth certificate to the financial institution where the trust is located [Fam. Code § 6753(b)].

32-365 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 365.56

§ 365.56 Fiduciary Relationship

When a parent or guardian enters into a contract of a type described in Fam. Code § 6750 [see § 365.54], the relationship between the parent or guardian and the minor is a fiduciary relationship that is governed by the law of trusts, whether or not a court has issued a formal order to that effect [Fam. Code § 6752(e)]. With the minor's earnings and accumulations under the contract, the parent or guardian, acting in his or her fiduciary relationship, must pay all liabilities the minor incurred under the contract, including, but not limited to, payments for taxes on all earnings, including taxes on the amounts set aside in trust, and payments for personal or professional services rendered to the minor or the business related to the contract [Fam. Code § 6752(e)]. This provision does not alter any other existing responsibilities of a parent or legal guardian to provide for the minor's support [Fam. Code § 6752(e)].

32-365 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 365.57

§ 365.57 Forwarding Earnings to Actors' Fund of America In Event of Noncompliance by Parent, Guardian, or Trustee

If a parent, guardian, or trustee fails to provide the minor's employer with an accurate photocopy of the trustee's statement, as required by Fam. Code § 6753(c) [see § 365.55], within 180 days after the commencement of employment, the employer must forward to the Actors' Fund of America (the Fund) 15 percent of the minor's gross earnings under the contract, together with the minor's name and, if known, the minor's social security number, birth date, last known address, telephone number, e-mail address, dates of employment, and title of the project on which the minor was employed [Fam. Code § 6752(b)(9)(A), (d)(7)(A)]. The employer must also notify the parent, guardian, or trustee of the transfer by certified mail to that individual's last known address. On receipt of the forwarded funds,the Fund becomes the trustee of those funds, and the minor's employer has no further obligation or duty to monitor or account for the funds [Fam. Code § 6752(b)(9)(A), (d)(7)(A)].

The Fund must make its best efforts to notify the parent, guardian, or trustee of that individual's responsibility to provide a true and accurate photocopy of the trustee's statement, and, in the case of a guardian, a certified copy of the court document appointing the person as the minor's legal guardian. Within 15 business days after receiving these documents, the Fund must deposit or disburse the funds as directed by the trustee's statement [Fam. Code § 6752(b)(9)(B), (d)(7)(B)]. When making the deposit or disbursal of the funds, the Fund must provide to the financial institution notice that the funds are subject to Fam. Code § 6753 and a copy of each applicable order. Thereafter, the Fund has no further obligation or duty to monitor or account for the funds [Fam. Code § 6752(b)(9)(B), (d)(7)(B)].

The Fund must notify each beneficiary of his or her entitlement to the funds it holds for the beneficiary within 60 days after the date on which its records indicate that the beneficiary becomes 18 or the date on which it receives notice that the minor has been emancipated. The notice must be sent to the beneficiary's last known address or, if the Fund does not have a specific separate address for the beneficiary, to the beneficiary's parent or guardian [Fam. Code § 6752(c), (d)(7)(C)].

As trustee of unclaimed set-aside funds, the Fund must manage and administer those funds in the same manner as a trustee under the Probate Code [Fam. Code § 6752(f)(1)]. On receiving a certified copy of the beneficiary's birth certificate, or United States passport, and an accurate photocopy of the trustee's statement, the Fund must transfer the beneficiary's balance to the trust account established for the beneficiary [Fam. Code § 6752(f)(3)(A)]. It must disburse the set-aside funds to a beneficiary who becomes 18, after receiving proof of the beneficiary's identity and a certified copy of the beneficiary's birth certificate or United States passport. It must also disburse the set-aside funds to a beneficiary who has been emancipated after receiving proof of the beneficiary's identity and appropriate documentation evidencing his or her emancipation [Fam. Code § 6752(f)(3)(B)]. It must disburse the set-aside funds to the estate of a deceased beneficiary after receiving appropriate documentation evidencing the beneficiary's death and the claimant's authority to collect those funds on the beneficiary's behalf [Fam. Code § 6752(f)(3)(C)].

The beneficiary of an account held by the Fund is entitled to receive imputed interest on the balance in his or her account for the entire period during which the account is held [Fam. Code § 6752(g)(1)]. The Fund may assess and deduct from the balance in a beneficiary's account reasonable management, administrative, and investment expenses, except that no fees may be charged during the first year the account is held by the Fund [Fam. Code § 6752(g)(2)].

[1] Medical Care

Reasonable construction of former Civ. Code § 34.5 (cf. now Fam. Code § 6925) as being that minors may obtain therapeutic abortions without parental consent. Ballard v. Anderson (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 873, 878, 95 Cal. Rptr. 1, 484 P.2d 1345

Former Civ. Code § 34.6 (providing for situations in which minor may consent to medical treatment; now see Fam. Code § 6900 et seq.) as basis for summary judgment in physician's favor in action by parents of 17-year-old girl who had been living away from home and making her own financial decisions, when action was partially based on ground that daughter was incapable of giving consent to medical procedures. Carter v. Cangello (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 348, 350, 164 Cal. Rptr. 361

[2] Necessaries

Legislature's apparent determination in enacting Fam. Code §§ 6920, 6921, 6925 as being that public interest in encouraging pregnant minors to seek medical care outweighs public policy protecting minors from own improvidence. Ballard v. Anderson (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 873, 880, 95 Cal. Rptr. 1, 484 P.2d 1345

Lodging as necessary for which minor is obligated to pay, unless statutory prohibitions apply. Burnand v. Irigoyen (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 861, 867, 186 P.2d 417

Services of attorney as necessary for minor, and attorney as permitted to recover fee from minor. Leonard v. Alexander (1942) 50 Cal. App. 2d 385, 389, 122 P.2d 984

Minor under care of parent unable to provide for him as allowed to authorize use of funds held for his benefit to buy necessaries, and as not permitted to disaffirm contract on reaching majority. Morgan v. Morgan (1963) 220 Cal. App.

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges:

1. On or about _____ [date], _____ [name of transferor], in consideration of _____ [state consideration for transfer, e.g., $500], agreed to transfer to defendant all right, title, and interest in those goods that are the subject of this action.

2. _____ [Name of transferor] represented to defendant that he/she had obtained all right, title, and interest to the subject goods through a valid contract with plaintiff.

3. Defendant had no notice that _____'s [name of transferor] title to the subject goods was defective [or that plaintiff was a minor].

4. On _____ [date of plaintiff's attempted disaffirmation of contract], _____ days after the goods were transferred to defendant, plaintiff demanded that defendant return the goods because plaintiff was disaffirming his/her contract with _____ [name of transferor] on the ground of plaintiff's minority at the time of entering into the contract.

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)] may be used in an answer to an action by a minor to disaffirm a contract to transfer goods when the transferee subsequently agreed to retransfer the goods to defendant, and defendant bought the goods in good faith, for value, and without notice of the defective title [*see Fam. Petitioner alleges:

1. [At all times mentioned] petitioner _____ [name] is and was a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of this state, authorized to do business, and engaging in the business of _____ [specify] in _____ County, California [or allege other status].

2. _____ [Name], hereinafter referred to as "the minor," was born on _____ [date], and is _____ years old. The minor has never been married.

3. The minor _____ [resides or is employed] in this County, at _____ Street, in _____ [city], _____ County, California.

4. On _____ [date], the minor entered into a written _____ [describe agreement, e.g., contract of employment with petitioner under which, for a stated consideration, the minor agreed to render his/her personal services as a _____ (describe nature of employment) or contract with petitioner under which petitioner agreed, for a stated consideration, to secure for the minor an engagement as an actor, performer, or entertainer]. A copy of the contract is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference.

5. Family Code Section 7500(c) exempts the services and earnings of an unemancipated minor child related to a contract of a type involved in this petition from the services and earnings to which a parent or guardian of a minor child is otherwise generally entitled. For the purposes of this petition, a parent or legal guardian entitled to the physical custody, care,and control of the minor at the time of the proceeding must be appointed the minor's guardian ad litem unless this court determines that appointment of a different individual as guardian ad litem is required in the best interests of the minor.

6. The contract of employment, attached to the petition as Exhibit A, is a fair, just, and equitable contract, and was entered into freely and voluntarily by both parties.

7. A court approving a minor's contract of a type involved in this petition is mandated by Family Code Section 6752(b)(1) to order that 15 percent of the minor's gross earnings pursuant to the contract be set aside by the minor's employer in trust and preserved for the benefit of the minor. This court must require that at least one parent or legal guardian who is entitled to the physical custody, care, and control of the minor at the time the order is issued be appointed as trustee of the funds ordered to be set aside in trust for the benefit of the minor, unless the court determines that appointment of a different individual, individuals, entity, or entities as trustee or trustees is required in the best interest of the minor.

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays that this court set a time and place for hearing this petition, that notice of the hearing be given to the minor and his/her _____ [parent(s) or guardian], that a parent or legal guardian entitled to physical custody, care, and control be appointed guardian ad litem for the minor, and that on the hearing of this petition the court approve the contract of employment attached to the petition as Exhibit A, appoint _____ [a trustee or the trustees], and order this petitioning employer to set aside in trust 15 percent of the minor's gross earnings pursuant to the contract.

This form is a petition for court approval of a contract for an unemancipated minor's artistic or athletic services entered into after 1999 [Fam. Code § 6750]. With appropriate modifications, it may be used as a petition to gain approval of a contract with a licensed artists' manager [see Lab. Code § 1700.37] or a contract to purchase or otherwise secure, sell, lease, license, or otherwise dispose of literary, musical, or dramatic properties, or use of a person's likeness, voice recording, performance, or story of or incidents in his or her life, either tangible or intangible, or any rights therein for use in motion pictures, television, the production of sound recordings, the legitimate or living stage, or otherwise in the entertainment field [see Fam. Code § 6750(a)(2)].

The court order fixing a time and place for hearing on a petition for approval of a minor's contract for rendition of professional artistic services customarily is added to the bottom of the petition, although it may be prepared as a separate document. If in doubt, counsel should check local practice.

[3] Venue and Filing

The petition must be filed in the superior court of the county in which the minor resides or is employed or in which any party to the contract has its principal office in California for the transaction of business [Fam. Code §§ 200, 6751(a)], and may be filed by either party [Fam. Code § 6751].

[4] State Statutes

Approval of minor's contract to render artistic or creative services after reasonable notice and opportunity to be heard. Fam. Code § 6750(a)(1), 6751

Approval of minor's contract involving literary, musical, or dramatic properties, or use of likeness, voice recording, performance, or story of or incidents in his or her life. Fam. Code §§ 6750(a)(2), 6751

Approval of service agreement under which minor agrees to participate or play in sport after reasonable notice and opportunity to be heard. Fam. Code §§ 6750(a)(3), 6751

Mandatory set-aside of 15 percent of gross earnings in trust. Fam. Code §§ 6750(c), 6752(b)(1)

Trust or savings plan for withheld earnings of minor. Fam. Code § 6752(b)(7), (d)(5)

The petition of _____ [name] for approval of the employment contract, attached hereto as Exhibit A, between _____ [minor] and the petitioner, pursuant to Family Code Section 6751, came on regularly for hearing on _____ [date], before the above-entitled court. _____ [Name] appeared as attorney for petitioner. _____ [Name] appeared as attorney for the minor. The minor was present at the hearing, together with _____ [his/her parents, _____ (names) or _____ (name), his/her father or _____ (name), his/her mother or _____ (name), his/her guardian].

The court having heard the evidence and arguments, and being fully advised, now finds:

1. The allegations contained in the petition are true.

2. The terms of the employment contract are just, equitable, and in the best interests of the minor.

3. The employment contract was entered into freely and voluntarily both by the minor and petitioner.

4. It is in the best interest of the minor that _____ [the minor's parent or the guardian who is entitled to the physical custody, care, and control of the minor or name and status of person other than parent or guardian] be appointed as trustee of the funds ordered to be set aside in trust for the benefit of the minor.

Good cause appearing therefor,

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that:

1. The employment contract submitted for approval in the petition, attached as Exhibit A to the petition between _____ [name of petitioner] and _____ [name of minor], a minor, is hereby approved.

2. _____ [Name] is appointed trustee of the funds ordered to be set aside in trust for the benefit of the minor. The trustee shall comply with the provisions of Family Code Sections 6752 and 6753 regarding the timely creation of, notification regarding, and administration of the trust.

3. Petitioner is ordered to deduct 15 percent of the gross earnings of _____ [name of minor] under the employment contract and _____ [provide instructions regarding manner of making deposits in trust of amounts deducted from minor's earnings, e.g., deposit those amounts in trust in accordance with written instructions from the trustee as mandated by Family Code Section 6753(c)].
Dated: _____.

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

This order is for use by a petitioner when the court has granted approval of a contract for employment of an unemancipated minor for professional artistic services or to play a sport [Fam. Code § 6751]. The findings and orders related to preserving 15 percent of the minor's gross earnings in trust, including those pertaining to appointing a trustee are mandatory [Fam. Code §§ 6752(b), 6753].

[2] Use of Form

This form may be used to amend or terminate a trust for an unemancipated minor that contains a percentage of gross earnings under a contract of a type described in Fam. Code § 6750 and entered into after 1999. Thus, this form may be used to amend or terminate a trust mandated on court approval of the contract [Fam. Code § 6752(b)] or a trust mandated under such a contract notwithstanding a failure to obtain approval or notwithstanding final disapproval [Fam. Code § 6752(d)]. Petitioners for amendment or termination are limited to the minor acting through a guardian ad litem, his or her parents, a guardian, or a trustee [Fam. Code § 6752(b)(7), (d)(5)].

[3] Termination of Trust for Minor

The superior court has continuing jurisdiction over any trust established pursuant to a court's order approving a minor's contract for employment, and may order revocation or modification of the trust at any time, upon a showing of good cause [Fam. Code § 6752(b)(7)]. The court may also make such an order for a trust established under Fam. Code § 6752(d)(5), which requires withholding of funds for a minor's employment contract which has not received court approval. An order for revocation or modification may only be made after reasonable notice to the beneficiary, trustee, and parent or guardian, with opportunity to appear and be heard [Fam. Code §§ 6752(b)(7), (d)(5)].

7. At all times mentioned in this complaint, defendant _____ [name of competing motion picture corporation] was a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of California, doing business in _____ County, California, and engaged in the business of organizing, producing, and marketing motion pictures.

8. On its execution, the contract was submitted to the superior court for approval in accordance with the provisions of Family Code Sections 6750 and 6751. On _____ [date], the court entered its final order approving the contract, and finding it just, fair, and to the best interests of defendant. A copy of the order is attached as Exhibit B and incorporated by reference.

9. After submission to and approval of the contract by the superior court, defendant proceeded to render the services to plaintiff[, until he/she reached his/her majority on _____ (date)].

10. On _____ [date], defendant _____ [name of actor] attempted to disaffirm the contract, and gave plaintiff written notice of the attempted disaffirmation. A copy of the notice is attached as Exhibit C and incorporated by reference. The notice informed plaintiff that defendant would render plaintiff no further services under their agreement, or at all.

11. Plaintiff has at all times performed all the conditions and terms of the contract on its part to be performed.

12. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that shortly before _____ [date when plaintiff disaffirmed contract], defendant _____ [name of actor] entered into a contract with defendant _____ [name of competing motion picture corporation], a motion picture corporation, under the terms of which defendant _____ [name of actor] agreed to act in a motion picture to be produced by defendant motion picture corporation, in violation of the agreement between defendant _____ [name of actor] and plaintiff.

13. At the time of making the purported contract between defendants, they, and each of them, knew that defendant _____ [name of actor] was not free to enter into the agreement, or any agreement, concerning personal services, and that defendant _____ [name of actor] was under a contract to render his/her services exclusively to plaintiff. Notwithstanding this information, defendants, and each of them, conspired to circumvent plaintiff's contract (Exhibit A attached), and caused publicity to be given and widely circulated that defendant _____ [name of actor] would act in motion pictures for others than plaintiff, all to plaintiff's irreparable injury and damage.

14. Allege further damage, e.g., Defendant _____ (name of actor) has become an accomplished artist in his/her profession through the joint efforts of plaintiff and defendant; defendant's ability to act in motion pictures has been a result of the experience, instruction, and training he/she has received from plaintiff. During the past _____ years, plaintiff has expended large sums of money to advertise and publicize defendant as a motion picture actor and his/her present popularity as an actor has been greatly enhanced by these efforts. Defendant has thereby achieved the status of a "star." These sums were expended by plaintiff as an investment for the future success of defendant, and the return on this investment was expected to be the future popularity and success to be achieved by defendant during the term of the contract after he/she had achieved the reputation of a "star" actor. Plaintiff would not have expended these sums but for the expectation that plaintiff would be entitled to the services of defendant during the full term of their contract.

15. Plaintiff is able, ready, and willing to perform and fully comply with the terms of the contract (Exhibit A attached), during the entire life of the contract. Plaintiff has made elaborate plans for the use of defendant _____'s [name of actor] services in motion pictures throughout the life of the contract. The actions and threats of defendants, and each of them, especially if carried into execution, would disarrange and demoralize the production schedules of plaintiff for the making of future pictures. In casting a star actor in any photoplay production it is necessary to allocate a large number of other actors, directors, and employees far in advance of production. The action of defendants, and each of them, in breaching, conspiring, and contributing to the breach of the contract is causing and will continue to cause further irreparable harm to plaintiff.

16. The services that have been rendered by defendant _____ (name of actor) and the services to be rendered by him/her under the terms of the contract with plaintiff are of a special, unique, and intellectual character, which gives them peculiar value, the loss of which cannot be reasonably and adequately compensated in damages in an action at law. Defendant's breach of contract has caused, and will continue to cause, plaintiff great and irreparable injury for which there is no plain, speedy, or adequate remedy at law. Plaintiff therefore is entitled to an injunction against defendants, and each of them, restraining defendants from breaching, causing, or contributing to the breach of contract.

17. By the judgment and order of this court (Exhibit B attached), defendant _____ [name of actor] is now a party to a valid contract with plaintiff. His/Her attempted repudiation and disaffirmance of the contract, and the conduct of defendant _____ [name of competing motion picture corporation] now abiding and abetting in this attempted repudiation, disaffirmance, and conduct, is in violation and contempt of the order of this court.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays:

1. For a temporary restraining order enjoining and restraining defendant _____ [name of actor] from violating his/her contract and from rendering, offering to render, or agreeing to render services to any person, firm, or corporation other than plaintiff, and further enjoining and restraining defendants, and each of them, from causing or permitting defendant _____ [name of actor] to perform services for any person, firm, or corporation other than plaintiff, or from advertising or announcing publicly that defendant _____ [name of actor] will perform services for any person, firm, or corporation other than plaintiff;

2. For a preliminary injunction enjoining and restraining defendant _____ [name of actor] pendente lite from violating his/her contract and from rendering, offering to render, or agreeing to render services to any person, firm, or corporation other than plaintiff, and further enjoining and restraining defendants, and each of them, from causing or permitting defendant _____ [name of actor] to perform services for any person, firm, or corporation other than plaintiff, or from advertising or announcing publicly that defendant _____ [name of actor] will perform services for any person, firm, or corporation other than plaintiff;

3. For a permanent injunction enjoining and restraining defendant _____ [name of actor] from violating his/her contract and from rendering, offering to render, or agreeing to render services to any person, firm, or corporation other than plaintiff, and further enjoining and restraining defendants, and each of them, from causing or permitting defendant _____ [name of actor] to perform services for any person, firm, or corporation other than plaintiff, or from advertising or announcing publicly that defendant _____ [name of actor] will perform services for any person, firm, or corporation other than plaintiff, during the term of his/her contract with plaintiff;

4. For a declaration of the respective rights and duties of the parties under the contract set forth above;

5. For costs incurred; and

6. For such further relief as may be proper.

[2] Use of Form

This complaint may be used to obtain injunctive relief against a minor (or former minor) actor who attempted to disaffirm a contract for artistic or creative services that was approved by the court [see Fam. Code §§ 6750, 6751]. With appropriate modifications, it also may be used to obtain injunctive relief when the minor had contracted to perform athletic services [see Fam. Code §§ 6750(a)(3), 6751].

[3] Jurisdiction

An action seeking permanent injunctive relief is in the jurisdiction of the superior court and is not a limited civil case [see Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(8), 580(b)(2)].

[4] Verification

Verification [Code Civ. Proc. § 446] is required if plaintiff seeks a preliminary injunction on a complaint instead of on affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If relying on a verified complaint instead of affidavits (or declarations), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff to the relief sought [see E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; Finnie v. Town of Tiburon (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1, 15, 244 Cal. Rptr. 581] . For discussion, a procedural checklist, and additional forms necessary in order to obtain a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

Otherwise, verification is not required, but verification of the complaint requires the defendant to file a verified answer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446] and precludes use of a general denial [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[5] Ex Parte Application

When a party seeks a temporary restraining order ex parte, at least one of the following must appear by affidavit or declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(b)]:

- That he or she informed the opposing party (or that party's attorney) when and where the application would be made no later than 10:00 a.m. the court day before the ex parte appearance, absent a showing of exceptional circumstances that justify a shorter time for notice.

- That the party in good faith attempted to inform the opposing party and the opposing party's attorney but was unable to do so, specifying the efforts made to inform them.

- That for reasons specified the party should not be required to inform the opposing party or the opposing party's attorney.

Absent a showing of exceptional circumstances, a party seeking an ex parte order must notify all parties no later than 10:00 a.m. the court day before the ex parte appearance [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1203]. The notice must state with specificity the nature of the relief to be requested and the date, time, and place for the presentment of the application. The person giving notice must attempt to determine whether the opposing party and/or counsel will appear to oppose the application [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204].

A request for an ex parte order must state the name, address, and telephone number of any attorney known to the applicant to be an attorney for any party or, if no such attorney is known, the name, address, and telephone number of the party if known to the applicant [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1202]. A declaration of notice, including the date, time, manner, and name of the party informed, the relief sought, any response, and whether opposition is expected, or a declaration stating reasons why notice should not be required, must accompany every request for an ex parte order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204].

For further discussion of the substantive and procedural requirements for ex parte applications for injunctive relief, and additional forms, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

§ 367.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses and presents forms for use in the disaffirmation of a judgment entered against a minor who was unrepresented by a guardian or guardian ad litem in the action. It includes the following forms:

- A form for notice of motion to have the judgment set aside [see § 367.50].
- An order vacating and setting aside the judgment [see § 367.51].

For discussion of the general principles involved in setting aside judgments, see Ch. 371, Motions After Trial , and Ch. 489, Relief From Judgments and Orders .

For discussion of the power of guardians of the estate and guardians ad litem appearing for minors in civil actions to compromise actions or proceedings, agree to orders or the entry of judgments, satisfy judgments or orders, or release or discharge claims, see Ch. 364, Minors: Claims and Property of Minors .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

32-367 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 367.10

§ 367.10 Guardian of Estate or Guardian ad Litem Required

A minor who is a party to a civil action must appear either by a guardian of the estate or by a guardian ad litem appointed by the court in which the action is pending or a judge of that court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 372 (with exceptions relating to harassment and threats of violence and situations where the minor is a parent of a child who is the subject of specified proceedings)].

Unless a minor is duly represented as provided by law at the time a judgment is entered against him his right to disaffirm such judgment continues until barred by laches after the minor has attained the age of majority, such a judgment is voidable and may be disaffirmed, the right of disaffirmance by a minor of a judgment rendered voidable by the fact that he was not represented by a guardian in the action is absolute, and such right continues throughout his minority [Berg v. Traylor (148 Cal. App. 4th, 809, 821, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 140)] .

For discussion of appointment of guardians of the estate and guardians ad litem, see Ch. 280, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Guardians , and Ch. 291, Guardians ad Litem , respectively.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

32-367 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 367.11

§ 367.11 Minor's Right to Disaffirm Judgment

A minor may disaffirm an adjudication of his or her rights by a judicial tribunal obtained in a proceeding in which the minor has not been represented as provided by law. The minor's right to disaffirm the adjudication is not specifically dependent on statute, but is a general rule of law enforced as a necessary incident to the status of minority [Gouanillou v. Industrial Acci. Com. (1920) 184 Cal. 418, 420, 193 P. 937] . This right continues until barred by laches after the minor has attained the age of majority [Gouanillou v. Industrial Acci. Com. (1920) 184 Cal. 418, 420, 193 P. 937 ; cf. Fam. Code § 6710 (except as otherwise provided by statute, minor may disaffirm contract before majority or within reasonable time afterwards or, in case of minor's death within that period, by minor's heirs or personal representative)]. See § 367.14, for further discussion of disaffirming judgments after the minor reaches majority.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 367.12 Waiver of Right to Disaffirm

Judgments entered when a minor has not been represented as provided by law have been characterized by the courts as voidable and apparently subject to waiver [Keane v. Penha (1946) 76 Cal. App. 2d 693, 696, 173 P.2d 835 ; Hughes v. Quackenbush (1934) 1 Cal. App. 2d 349, 362, 37 P.2d 99] . They have been further characterized as merely irregular, rather than judgments that are void as jurisdictionally defective [Hughes v. Quackenbush (1934) 1 Cal. App. 2d 349, 362, 37 P.2d 99] .

Some courts have noted that despite the fact that a minor's attempted disaffirmance of a judgment is sometimes denied by a court, the virtue of the general rule is unimpaired because the exceptions have been due to the minor's conduct that was deemed to have been tantamount to a ratification after overcoming any infirmities or waiver of rights [Garbutt v. Campbell (1955) 130 Cal. App. 2d 167, 168-169, 278 P.2d 508 ; Keane v. Penha (1946) 76 Cal. App. 2d 693, 696, 173 P.2d 835] . Thus, for example, in any case in which a minor comes of age during the pendency of proceedings in which he or she was unrepresented by a guardian or guardian ad litem but continues to participate in the proceedings, his or her subsequent disaffirmance will not be given effect [Hughes v. Quackenbush (1934) 1 Cal. App. 2d 349, 362-363, 37 P.2d 99] .

§ 367.13 Procedure to Vacate Judgment

Although no statutory procedure has been spelled out to set aside a judgment after it has been disaffirmed by an unrepresented minor, the procedure generally employed is to file a noticed motion to set aside and vacate the judgment [Garbutt v. Campbell (1955) 130 Cal. App. 2d 167, 168, 278 P.2d 508 ; Keane v. Penha (1946) 76 Cal. App. 2d 693, 696, 173 P.2d 835 ; see Carver v. Donin (1934) 139 Cal. App. 395, 396, 33 P.2d 84 ; for a form of notice of motion, see § 367.50].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

32-367 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 367.14

§ 367.14 Vacating Judgment After Majority

The key criterion in the court's determination of whether to vacate a judgment entered against a defendant while a minor unrepresented by a guardian, in any case in which the defendant disaffirms and makes the motion after majority, is whether laches (i.e., unreasonable delay plus prejudice) has occurred [Gouanillou v. Industrial Acci. Com. (1920) 184 Cal. 418, 420, 193 P. 937] . This approach allows some degree of flexibility. Thus, for example, in Garbutt v. Campbell (1955) 130 Cal. App. 2d 167, 168, 278 P.2d 508 , disaffirmance and vacation of a default was allowed nearly a year after the defendant attained majority, more than four years after entry of default, and more than a year and a half after judgment was made and entered.

Another important inquiry is whether the minor or former minor suffered a loss of substantial rights. If not, the court will not allow disaffirmance [Carver v. Donin (1934) 139 Cal. App. 395, 397, 33 P.2d 841] .

Right of minor to disaffirm judgment when not represented by guardian as absolute and continuing throughout minority. Johnston v. Southern Pacific Co. (1907) 150 Cal. 535, 538, 89 P. 348 ; Keane v. Penha (1946) 76 Cal. App. 2d 693, 696, 173 P.2d 835

Right of minor unrepresented by guardian to disaffirm judgment as not dependent on statute, but on general rule of law enforced as necessary incident to status of minority. Gouanillou v. Industrial Acci. Com. (1920) 184 Cal. 418, 420, 193 P. 937

Unless a minor is duly represented as provided by law at the time a judgment is entered against him his right to disaffirm such judgment continues until barred by laches after the minor has attained the age of majority, such a judgment is voidable and may be disaffirmed, the right of disaffirmance by a minor of a judgment rendered voidable by the fact that he was not represented by a guardian in the action is absolute, and such right continues throughout his minority. *Berg v. Right of minor to disaffirm after reaching majority as dependent on whether minor suffered loss of substantial rights. Carver v. Donin (1934) 139 Cal. App. 395, 397, 33 P.2d 841

Notice of motion as proper vehicle to vacate judgment against defendant on ground that she was minor unrepresented by guardian ad litem at time of entry of judgment. Carver v. Donin (1934) 139 Cal. App. 395, 396, 33 P.2d 841

Failure to appoint guardian as mere irregularity rather than jurisdictional defect rendering judgment void. Hughes v. Quackenbush (1934) 1 Cal. App. 2d 349, 362, 37 P.2d 99

Minor coming of age during pendency of proceeding and continuing to participate in proceeding as not allowed to disaffirm later. Hughes v. Quackenbush (1934) 1 Cal. App. 2d 349, 363, 37 P.2d 99

Court's jurisdiction to set aside default judgment against minor unrepresented by guardian ad litem when minor so moved slightly under a year after attaining majority, even though motion made four years after entry of default and a year and a half after judgment made and entered, as not barred by laches. Garbutt v. Campbell (1955) 130 Cal. App. 2d 167, 168, 278 P.2d 508

Chapter 367A MINORS: TORT ACTIONS
PART I. SCOPE

32-367A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 367A.01

§ 367A.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses tort actions by and against minors. It includes the following forms:

- A form of complaint for damages for prenatal injuries by a minor [see § 367A.90].

- A form of complaint in an action for damages for the wrongful life and wrongful birth of a minor when the defendant negligently failed to inform the minor's parents of the substantial risk that the minor would be born with a substantial genetic deformity [see § 367A.91].

- A form of complaint in an action by a minor against a street vendor and operator of an automobile when the minor is injured by the automobile while responding to the vendor's invitation to do business [see § 367A.92].

For discussion and forms regarding civil actions for damages based on childhood sexual abuse (brought by a minor or adult) under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.1, see Ch. 5, Abuse of Minors and Elderly .

This chapter also discusses and contains forms for use in actions involving injuries to a minor child or inflicted by a minor child. The parent-child relationship is integral to the discussion and forms contained in this chapter.

This chapter includes the following forms:

- A Judicial Council personal injury complaint and general negligence attachment for use by a child against a parent [see § 367A.110].

- Allegations of an intentional tort for use by a child against a parent [see § 367A.111].

- Allegations of negligence for use by an injured party against parents for negligent supervision of their child [see § 367A.112].

- Allegations of property damage based on willful misconduct of a minor for use against parents based on a minor's willful misconduct to recover for property damage [see § 367A.113] or personal injury [see § 367A.114].

- Allegations for the recovery of compensatory damages by a minor's parents for loss of the minor's services and earnings during minority due to personal injury of the minor [see § 367A.115].

For discussion and forms relating to wrongful death actions by adult or minor heirs, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions .

§ 367A.11 Actions by Minors

[1] General Procedures

Generally, a minor may enforce his or her rights by legal action or other legal proceedings in the same manner as a person of full age, except that a guardian must conduct the action [Fam. Code § 6601].

An action to recover damages for wrongful death or personal injury is entitled to preference on the motion of any party who is under the age of 14 years unless the court finds that the party does not have a substantial interest in the case as a whole [Code Civ. Proc. § 36(b); see Peters v. Superior Court (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 218, 222-226, 260 Cal. Rptr. 426 (preference, which is mandatory, does not violate either separation of powers doctrine or equal protection); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 36(g) (trial calendar requirements for action for medical malpractice)]. Procedures for obtaining preference are discussed in Ch. 425, Pretrial Proceedings .

For a form of complaint by a minor for damages resulting from negligence, see § 367A.92.

[2] Against Parents

Minors may sue their parents for willful or malicious torts [Emery v. Emery (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 421, 429, 289 P.2d 218] and negligent torts [Gibson v. Gibson (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 914, 923, 92 Cal. Rptr. 288, 479 P.2d 648 ; Martinez v. Southern Pac. Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 244, 254, 288 P.2d 868] . For further discussion and forms, see §§ 367A.30 et seq. and 367.110 et seq.

No cause of action arises against a parent of a child based on the claim that the child should not have been conceived or, if conceived, should not have been allowed to have been born alive [Civ. Code § 43.6(a)].

[3] Injuries Before Birth

[a] Actions by Minor or Parent

Several tort causes of action arise from conduct that occurs before the birth of the child. A child who is born impaired either because of prenatal or preconception conduct may have a cause of action against the tortfeasor. "Wrongful life" is a title used in California that describes at least some claims brought by infants for negligence occurring prior to their conception [see Turpin v. Sortini (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 220, 225, 182 Cal. Rptr. 337, 643 P.2d 954 ; Hegyes v. Unjian Enters., Inc. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1103, 1112-1113, 286 Cal. Rptr. 85 ; see also § 367A.11[3][c]].

A parent may have a cause of action for wrongful birth if, due to tortious conduct, an unwanted or impaired child is born [see Turpin v. Sortini (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 220, 225 n.4, 182 Cal. Rptr. 337, 643 P.2d 954 ; Hegyes v. Unjian Enters., Inc. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1103, 1112-1113, 286 Cal. Rptr. 85] . For example, a parent has a cause of action against a medical care provider whose negligence deprives the parents of the opportunity to choose not to conceive a hereditarily afflicted child [Turpin v. Sortini (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 220, 223, 225, 182 Cal. Rptr. 337, 643 P.2d 954] .

In addition, an action for wrongful birth lies from a negligently performed sterilization or abortion that fails to prevent the birth of an unwanted child [see Stills v. Gratton (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 698, 127 Cal. Rptr. 652 (abortion); Custodio v. Bauer (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 303, 318, 323-324, 59 Cal. Rptr. 463 (sterilization)]. A normal child who is born as a result of a failed birth-prevention procedure has no independent cause of action, however, as the child is deemed to have sustained no cognizable damage in simply being born [Foy v. Greenblott (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 1, 14-15, 190 Cal. Rptr. 84 ; Stills v. Gratton (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 698, 705-706, 127 Cal. Rptr. 652] .

[b] Prenatal Injuries

A child conceived but not yet born is deemed an existing person to the extent necessary for its interests in the event of subsequent birth [Civ. Code § 43.1; Code Civ. Proc. § 340.4]. Among the interests of a child under Civ. Code § 43.1 and Code Civ. Proc. § 340.4 to be preserved is the right to compensation for personal injuries inflicted by the intentional or negligent conduct of another [Justus v. Atchison (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 564, 578, 139 Cal. Rptr. 97, 565 P.2d 122 , overruled on other grounds, Ochoa v. Superior Court (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 159, 171, 216 Cal. Rptr. 661, 703 P.2d 1] .

Thus, a tortfeasor owes the same duty to a fetus that is owed to a living person, and a child, if born alive, may maintain an action for injuries resulting from prenatal tortious conduct [Hegyes v. Unjian Enters., Inc. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1103, 1122, 286 Cal. Rptr 85] . No duty exists if the fetus is not later born alive [Hegyes v. Unjian Enters., Inc. (1991) 286 Cal. Rptr 85 ; see Justus v. Atchison (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 564, 577-578, 139 Cal. Rptr. 97, 565 P.2d 122 , overruled on another ground in Ochoa v. Superior Court (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 159, 171, 216 Cal. Rptr. 661, 703 P.2d 1 (fetus later stillborn is not person within meaning of wrongful death statute)]. Further, the child must be born with some impairment [see Hegyes v. Unjian Enters., Inc. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1103, 1115, 286 Cal. Rptr 85 ; see also § 367A.11[3]].

For example, a child may maintain a cause of action for a condition caused by negligent treatment of the mother during pregnancy [see Turpin v. Sortini (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 220, 230-231, 182 Cal. Rptr. 337, 643 P.2d 954] . Similarly, the California Supreme Court has held that a child is entitled to bring a cause of action against his or her mother's employer for the prenatal injuries the child suffered as a result of the employer's negligence in exposing its pregnant employee to toxic fumes at her workplace [Snyder v. Michael's Stores, Inc. (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 991, 994, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 476, 945 P.2d 781] . The Court in Snyder rejected the defendant's argument that the exclusive remedy provisions of the workers' compensation law, Lab. Code § 3600 et seq., barred the child's action because, as a matter of law, fetal injuries are derivative of injury to the pregnant mother. It reasoned that the exclusive remedy provisions barred personal injury actions against an employer only for injuries sustained by his or her employees arising out of and in the course of the employment. In the case of an action by a child of an employee based on prenatal injury, the action may be maintained. [Snyder v. Michael's Stores, Inc. (1997) 16 Cal. 44th 991, 994, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 476, 945 P.2d 781] .

For a form of complaint for prenatal injuries and wrongful birth, see § 367A.90.

[c] Wrongful Life

Generally speaking, a "wrongful life" case must be brought by a genetically impaired child against a physician or other health care provider for preconception negligence in rendering medical counseling or testing. In a wrongful life case, the child does not assert that the negligence of the defendant caused the inherited or congenital abnormalities; rather, the essence of the child's claim is that the medical professional's breach of the applicable standard of care resulted in that child being born to experience the pain and suffering attributable to his or her affliction [Hegyes v. Unjian Enters., Inc. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1103, 1112, 286 Cal. Rptr 85 ; see also Alexandria S. v. Pacific Fertility Medical Center, Inc. (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 110, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 23 (tort cause of action by child conceived through artificial insemination, against fertility clinic and doctors for deprivation of legal parent, likened to wrongful life claim by a healthy child)]. It is a claim that due to the conduct of the defendant, a birth occurred that otherwise would not have occurred [Curlender v. Bio-Science Labs. (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 811, 817-830, 165 Cal. Rptr. 477 (action against laboratory for negligently conducted genetic testing)].

"Wrongful life" essentially is a description of the harm for which damages are sought. The claim must be based on a recognized cause of action for which all of the elements are present. If the claim is based on medical malpractice--as is most common--all of the elements must be present, including the element of duty [see Hegyes v. Unjian Enters., Inc. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1103, 1113, 286 Cal. Rptr 85 ; for discussion of physician's malpractice, see generally Ch. 41r, Physicians: Medical Malpractice]. Breach of duty must be established by showing that the defendant's conduct fell outside of the community standard of care [see Munro v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 977, 983-985, 263 Cal. Rptr. 878 (no breach in failing to order genetic testing for parents who gave no information indicating that they met profile characteristics of at-risk group)]. Causation also must be present, meaning that a claim based on professional medical negligence must show a reasonably probable causal connection between the medical defendant's conduct and the harm suffered [Simmons v. West Covina Med. Clinic (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 696, 701-704, 260 Cal. Rptr 772 (failure to order test with only 20 percent chance of disclosing risk of Down syndrome insufficient to establish causation)].

Liability cannot be imposed for wrongful life just because the physician fails to advise the mother of the right to terminate a pregnancy, if the physician provides proper care and testing and, up to the time at which the fetus is considered viable, nothing indicates that the fetus is in danger of being born with a birth defect. A fetus is considered to be viable at 24 weeks or when fetal weight exceeds 500 grams [Barragan v. Lopez (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 997, 1005-1008, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 73].

The failure or refusal of a parent to prevent the live birth of his or her child is not a defense in any action against a third party [Civ. Code § 43.6(b)].

For a form of complaint for wrongful life and wrongful birth, see § 367A.91.

[d] Damages Recoverable for Wrongful Life

Damages recoverable are limited, however, to medical and related expenses not recovered by the parents in their wrongful birth action [Turpin v. Sortini (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 220, 237-239, 182 Cal. Rptr. 337, 643 P.2d 954] . For discussion and forms related to actions brought by parents involving the parent-child relationship, see §§ 367A.30 et seq., 367.110 et seq. General damages for pain and suffering are not allowed [Turpin v. Sortini (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 220, 234-237, 182 Cal. Rptr. 337, 643 P.2d 954] , and recovery of damages for lost earning capacity also has been denied [see Andalon v. Superior Court (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 600, 612-614, 208 Cal. Rptr. 899 ; see also Johnson v. Superior Court (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 869, 889, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 650 (neither general damages nor damages for lost earnings recoverable in wrongful life action against sperm bank and screening physicians)].

The failure or refusal of a parent to prevent the live birth of his or her child cannot be considered in awarding damages in any such action [Civ. Code § 43.6(b)].

[e] Other Injuries Before Birth

Unlike actions based on a claim of wrongful life, in which the choice is between an impaired existence and no existence, other circumstances exist in which the choice is between normal life and impaired life. In such a case, the allegation is that but for the defendant's preconception conduct, the child would have been born to a normal life rather than to an impaired life [see Hegyes v. Unjian Enters., Inc. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1103, 1137, 286 Cal. Rptr. 85 (Johnson, J., dissenting)].

If the cause of action is based on ordinary negligence that injured the mother before conception, policy reasons limit the potential scope of liability by creating limitations on the element of duty [see Hegyes v. Unjian Enters., Inc. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1103, 1130-1133, 286 Cal. Rptr. 85] . Thus, liability to a subsequently born child exists for preconception negligence only in cases of a special relationship between the defendant and the mother that gives rise to a duty to the child. Furthermore, the defendant's conduct must be inextricably related to the inevitable future pregnancy [Hegyes v. Unjian Enters., Inc. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1103, 1113-1114, 286 Cal. Rptr. 85 (only claims arising from medical malpractice or products liability have been allowed by California courts); but see Turpin v. Sortini (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 220, 230-231, 182 Cal. Rptr. 337, 643 P.2d 954 (plurality opinion; if child's condition resulted from tort committed on mother before conception, it is clear that child would be entitled to recover against negligent party)].

[4] Statute of Limitations

[a] In General

An action for injury or death caused by the wrongful act or neglect of another generally must be commenced within two years (one year, prior to January 1, 2003) after the cause of action accrues [Code Civ. Proc. § 335.1; see former Code Civ. Proc. § 340(3); Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions, § 345.14]. In cases in which the person entitled to bring such an action is a person under age of majority, however, the time of the disability is not a part of the time limited for the commencement of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 352(a)].

Tolling based on minority as one of the disabilities recognized in Code Civ. Proc. § 352, however, does not apply to tort actions against public entities or public employees on causes of action for which a claim must be presented in accordance with Gov. Code § 900 et seq. or 950 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 352(b)]. Furthermore, tolling based on minority does not apply in cases in which a special statute of limitations applies to minors. Thus, for example, Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 imposes special limitation periods in actions by minors for professional negligence against a health care provider [see § 367A.11[4][b]]; Civ. Code § 43.1 and Code Civ. Proc. § 340.4 govern actions for prenatal injuries [see § 367A.11[4][d]]; and Code Civ. Proc. § 340.1 governs civil actions based on the sexual abuse of a minor [see Ch. 5, Abuse of Minors and Elderly].

A minor emancipated by court order pursuant to the Emancipation of Minors Law [see Fam. Code § 7000 et seq.] is subject to all legal consequences that are set forth in Fam. Code § 7050, including the right to sue or be sued in the minor's own name [Fam. Code § 7050(e)(4)]. Therefore, a statute of limitations tolled because of minority begins to run when a minor is emancipated [West Shield Investigations & Sec. Consultants v. Superior Court (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 935, 949-950, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 612] . Moreover, because of the mandatory language used in the statute describing the consequences of emancipation, a court granting emancipation has no authority to specify that the emancipation does not extend to the minor's right to sue or be sued [West Shield Investigations & Sec. Consultants v. Superior Court (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 935, 949-951, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 612] .

[b] Medical Malpractice

Actions by a minor against a health care provider for professional negligence must be commenced within three years from the date of the alleged wrongful act, except that actions by a minor under the full age of six years must be commenced within three years or prior to his or her eighth birthday, whichever provides a longer period [Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5; but see Young v. Haines (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 883, 897-901, 226 Cal. Rptr. 547, 718 P.2d 909 (minors may have equal protection challenge to Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 also applies to an action for wrongful death arising from professional medical negligence brought by a minor as heir of the decedent [Ferguson v. Dragul (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 702, 708-709, 232 Cal. Rptr. 79] .

The phrase "actions by a minor" in Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 does not refer to the plaintiff's age at the time the action is filed, but to the plaintiff's age at the time the wrongful act occurred [Steketee v. Lintz, Williams & Rothberg (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 46, 53, 57, 210 Cal. Rptr. 781, 694 P.2d 1153] .

The time limitation also is tolled for minors for any period during which a parent or guardian and the defendant's insurer or health care provider have committed fraud or collusion in the failure to bring an action for professional negligence on behalf of the injured minor [Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5]. In addition, minors may invoke the general tolling provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 under which the three-year period may be tolled by proof of fraud, intentional concealment, or the presence of a foreign body that had no therapeutic or diagnostic purpose [Young v. Haines (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 883, 897-901, 226 Cal. Rptr. 547, 718 P.2d 909] . The service of an intent to sue notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 364(a) during the last 90 days of the three-year limitations period applicable to minors also tolls the statute of limitations for 90 days [Newman v. Burnett (1997) 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 175] .

[c] Sexual Abuse

Civil actions by a plaintiff based on childhood sexual abuse, brought against a family or household member who committed the abuse, or against a person or entity who owed a duty of care to the plaintiff and whose wrongful or negligent act was a legal cause of the abuse, or against any person or entity whose intentional act was a legal cause of the abuse, must be brought within the time period set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 340.1. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 5, Abuse of Minors and Elderly . For further discussion of Civ. Code § 43.1 and Code Civ. Proc. § 340.4, statutory sections setting forth the special statute of limitations for prenatal injuries, see § 367A.11[4][d]. For general discussion and forms related to statutes of limitations, see Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions .

[d] Prenatal Injuries

Any action brought by or on behalf of a minor for personal injuries sustained before or in the course of the minor's birth must be brought within six years from the minor's date of birth [Code Civ. Proc. § 340.4]. The disability on account of minority set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 352 is not excluded in computing the time limitation for commencement of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 340.4]. The time limitation set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 340.4 has been construed to be a procedural statute of limitation subject to extension by any legal ground not specifically excluded in the section itself (for example, extension of the time to bring a malpractice action when the plaintiff remained under the defendant physician's care and was unaware that he or she had been injured by the defendant's carelessness) [Myers v. Stevenson (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d 399, 407 270 P.2d 885] .

This time limitation only applies to injuries sustained before or during the course of birth. In cases in which the injuries are sustained after birth and during minority, the exclusion of the time of minority from the computation of the statute of limitations [see Code Civ. Proc. § 352(a)] still applies [Code Civ. Proc. § 340.4; Fay v. Mundy (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 231, 236, 54 Cal. Rptr. 591] .

Actions brought by minors for prenatal injuries based on medical malpractice are governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 rather than Code Civ. Proc. § 340.4 [Young v. Haines (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 883, 894, 226 Cal. Rptr. 547, 718 P.2d 909 ; see § 367A.11[4][b]]. Nevertheless, because Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 clearly is inapplicable to drug manufacturers [see Dillashaw v. Ayerst Labs., Inc. (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 35, 41-42, 190 Cal. Rptr. 68] , Code Civ. Proc. § 340.4 is the applicable statute of limitations in any action against a drug manufacturer based on a prenatal injury allegedly caused by a defective drug taken by the plaintiff's mother during pregnancy.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Actions By and Against Minors

32-367A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 367A.12

§ 367A.12 Minors' Liability

[1] Imposition by Statute

A minor is civilly liable for a wrong done by him or her. The minor is not liable for exemplary damages, however, unless at the time of the act he or she was capable of knowing it was wrongful [Fam. Code § 6600]. Liability is imposed as a mode of compensation rather than punishment, under the rationale that infancy should be in law a shield rather than a sword [Ellis v. D'Angelo (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 310, 313, 253 P.2d 675] .

A minor generally is liable for his or her torts even though he or she lacks the mental development and capacity to recognize the wrongfulness of the conduct, so long as the minor has the mental capacity to have the state of mind necessary to the commission of the particular tort with which he or she is charged [Ellis v. D'Angelo (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 310, 315, 253 P.2d 675] . Thus, as between a battery, an intentional tort, and some other negligent tort, a minor may have the capacity to intend the violent contact necessary to commit a battery but be incapable of realizing that his or her heedless conduct might foreseeably lead to injury to another; that is, to meet the requisite standards for negligence [Ellis v. D'Angelo (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 310, 315, 253 P.2d 675 ; see Morningred v. Golden State Co. (1961) 196 Cal. App. 2d 130, 137, 16 Cal. Rptr. 219] .

[2] Intentional Torts

A minor who forcibly invades the person of another is liable regardless of any intent to inflict injury--the only intent necessary is that of doing the particular act in question [see Singer v. Marx (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 637, 641, 301 P.2d 440 (minor child throwing rock held liable for battery); Ellis v. D'Angelo (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 310, 317, 253 P.2d 675] . Thus, for example, in an action by a five-year-old girl against a seven-year-old boy who inflicted injuries on her by shooting an arrow at her, the court ruled that the boy could be held liable on a theory of battery, an intentional tort, but not on a theory of negligence [Weisbart v. Flohr (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 281, 290, 67 Cal. Rptr. 114] .

[3] Negligent Torts

The negligence of a minor is determined on the basis of whether he or she used that degree of care ordinarily exercised by children of like age, mental capacity, and experience--usually a question of fact for the jury [Singer v. Marx (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 637, 642-643, 301 P.2d 440] . For example, a four-year-old ordinarily should not be charged with negligence because he or she has not developed, at that age, the mental capacity for foreseeing the possibilities of his or her inadvertent conduct rationally necessary to support a finding of negligence [Ellis v. D'Angelo (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 310, 316, 253 P.2d 675] .

[4] Defenses

[a] Negligence of Minor

Generally, a minor plaintiff's tender years may render him or her incapable of negligence [Morningred v. Golden State Co. (1961) 196 Cal. App. 2d 130, 137, 16 Cal. Rptr. 219] . A child of immature years is held only to the degree of care ordinarily exercised by children of like age, mental capacity, and experience, and the issue of whether a minor plaintiff actually was negligent is a question of fact for the trier of fact [Olsen v. McGillicuddy (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 897, 903, 93 Cal. Rptr. 530] .

Insofar as identifying the exact age that renders a child incapable of being negligent, it seems settled that a child of four or less is incapable of such conduct [Walker v. Fresno Distrib. Co. (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 840, 848, 44 Cal. Rptr. 68] . Various courts have found children incapable of negligence who were five [Gonzales v. Davis (1925) 197 Cal. 256, 260, 240 P. 16], 11 [Olsen v. McGillicuddy (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 897, 903, 93 Cal. Rptr. 530] , and 14years of age [see Beard v. Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Ry. Co. (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 129, 140-141, 84 Cal. Rptr. 449 (question of fact)].

When a minor sues a third party for negligence through a guardian or guardian ad litem, any negligence of a parent in failing to exercise care and control over the minor does not diminish the minor's ability to recover general damages [Zarzana v. Neve Drug Co. (1919) 180 Cal. 32, 37, 179 P. 203 ; Morningred v. Golden State Co. (1961) 196 Cal. App. 2d 130, 138, 16 Cal. Rptr. 219] . Insofar as the minor's action seeks to recover special damages for medical expenses paid by his or her parents for the minor's benefit, however, the action is subject to the defense of comparative negligence on the part of the minor's parents [Mattox v. Isley (1952) 111 Cal. App. 2d 774, 779, 245 P.2d 664 ; see Morningred v. Golden State Co. (1961) 196 Cal. App. 2d 130, 139, 16 Cal. Rptr. 219] .

For related discussion and forms for use in actions involving the parent-child relationship, see §§ 367A.30 et seq. and 367A.110 et seq.

[c] Assumption of Risk

The defense of assumption of risk depends on the actual or assumed mental capacity of the actor [Greene v. Watts (1962) 210 Cal. App. 2d 103, 105, 26 Cal. Rptr. 334] . The reasoning of one court, that a four-year-old is too young to be guilty of negligence [Ellis v. D'Angelo (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 310, 316-317, 253 P.2d 675] , has been held equally applicable to support a conclusion that a child of the same age is incapable of knowing the danger and appreciating the risk of a course of conduct [Greene v. Watts (1962) 210 Cal. App. 2d 103, 106, 26 Cal. Rptr. 334] .

[5] Service of Summons on Minor

A summons may be served on a minor by delivering a copy of the summons and the complaint to the minor's parent, guardian, conservator, or similar fiduciary. In cases in which no such person can be found with reasonable diligence, a summons may be served on any person having the care or control of the minor, or with whom the minor resides or by whom he or she is employed, and on the minor if he or she is at least 12 years of age [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.60].

The leading cases defining the right of minors to sue their parents for damages in tort are Gibson v. Gibson (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 914, 923, 92 Cal. Rptr. 288, 479 P.2d 648 (action for negligence involving unemancipated minor), Emery v. Emery (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 421, 429-430, 289 P.2d 218 (willful or malicious torts), and Martinez v. Southern Pac. Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 244, 253-254, 288 P.2d 868 (action for negligence involving emancipated minor).

Parental immunity from suit by their child based on a claim that the child should not have been conceived or allowed to have been born alive is provided by Civ. Code § 43.6(a).

The liability of a minor child for his or her torts is governed by Fam. Code § 6600. The liability of an adult child for negligence is governed by Civ. Code § 1714(a).

The liability of parents for a minor child's acts of willful misconduct is governed by Civ. Code §§ 1714.1 and 1714.3, Educ. Code §§ 19910, 19911, 48904, and 48905, and Gov. Code § 53069.5. The leading case defining the liability of parents for the torts of their child is Hagerty v. Powers (1885) 66 Cal. 368, 369, 5 P. 622 . The liability of parents for the negligent or wrongful acts or omissions of their minor child arising out of his or her driving a motor vehicle is governed by Veh. Code §§ 17701, 17707-17712, and 17714.

The parents' right to recover for the death of or an injury to their minor child is governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 376, 377.30, and 377.60.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Actions Involving Parent-Child Relationship

32-367A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 367A.31

§ 367A.31 Actions Between Parent and Child

[1] By Child

A minor child may sue his or her parent for a willful or malicious tort [Emery v. Emery (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 421, 429-430, 289 P.2d 218] . Whether emancipated or unemancipated, a minor child also may maintain an action for negligence against his or her parent [compare Gibson v. Gibson (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 914, 923, 92 Cal. Rptr. 288, 479 P.2d 648 (unemancipated); with Martinez v. Southern Pac. Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 244, 253-254, 288 P.2d 868 (emancipated)].

A child has no cause of action against his or her parent based on the claim that the child should not have been conceived or, if conceived, should not have been allowed to have been born alive [Civ. Code § 43.6(a); see Civ. Code § 43.6(c) ("conceived" defined)].

For a discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 340.1, the statute of limitations applicable to an action for sexual abuse of a minor by a household or family member, see Ch. 5, Abuse of Minors and Elderly .

[2] By Parent

A minor generally is liable for a wrong done by him or her to other persons, including his or her parents, but is not liable for exemplary damages unless, at the time of the act, he or she was capable of knowing that it was wrongful [see Civ. Code § 41; Fam. Code § 6600; see also § 367A.12]. Similarly, an adult child is responsible for an injury occasioned to another, including his or her parent, by a want of ordinary care or skill in the management of his or her property or person [see Civ. Code § 1714(a); Ledgerwood v. Ledgerwood (1931) 114 Cal. App. 538, 544, 300 P. 144] .

B. Actions Involving Parent-Child Relationship

32-367A California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 367A.32

§ 367A.32 Parents' Liability for Minor Child's Torts

[1] General Rule of No Vicarious Liability

The general rule is that a parent is not vicariously liable for the torts of a child [see Hagerty v. Powers (1885) 66 Cal. 368, 369, 5 P. 622 ; Robertson v. Wentz (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1281, 1288, 232 Cal. Rptr. 634 ; Ellis v. D'Angelo (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 310, 317, 253 P.2d 675 ; but see Penal Code § 272 (criminal prosecution of parents whose failure to exercise reasonable care, supervision, protection, and control of minor child results in child coming under juvenile court jurisdiction for habitual disobedience or truancy, criminal activity, or other reasons; discussed under § 367A.32[2]); see also Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 300, 601, 602]. The exceptions to the rule, which are discussed in § 367A.33[2] -[6], are based on the parent's duty to control his or her child, on statutory grounds, or on the existence of an agency relationship between a parent and his or her child.

[2] Negligent Control of Minor Child

A parent may become liable for an injury caused by a child when the parent's negligence made it possible for the child to cause an injury and probable that the child would do so [Robertson v. Wentz (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1281, 1288, 232 Cal. Rptr. 634 ; Ellis v. D'Angelo (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 310, 317, 253 P.2d 675] . A parent is under a duty to exercise reasonable care to control his or her minor child so as to prevent the child from so conducting himself or herself as to create an unreasonable risk of bodily harm to others, if the parent knows or has reason to know that he or she has the ability to control his or her child and knows or should know of the necessity and opportunity for exercising this control [Robertson v. Wentz (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1281, 1288-1289, 232 Cal. Rptr. 634 ; Costello v. Hart (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 898, 900, 100 Cal. Rptr. 554 ; see Restatement (Second) of Torts § 316].

A parent's potential liability is based on the rules of negligence rather than on the relation of parent and child [Buelke v. Levenstadt (1923) 190 Cal. 684, 689, 214 P. 42] . It is not necessary that a parent have knowledge of a child's dangerous tendencies for any particular length of time, provided the knowledge was acquired in time to give the parent an opportunity to exercise reasonable measures to restrain the child. Even in cases in which the parent did not observe the child's conduct that led to the injury, the parent is liable when he or she had been aware of the child's dangerous propensity or habit and negligently failed to exercise proper control or negligently failed to give appropriate warnings [

In addition to being liable in tort, a parent may be criminally liable for failure to exercise reasonable care, supervision, protection, and control with regard to a minor child, if the parent's dereliction of duty results in the child coming under the jurisdiction of the juvenile court for habitual disobedience or truancy, involvement in criminal activities, or certain other reasons [see Penal Code § 272; Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 300, 601, 602; see also Williams v. Garcetti (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 561, 572-575, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 341, 853 P.2d 507 (Penal Code § 272 is constitutional)].

[3] Willful Misconduct of Minor Child

[a] Scope of Liability in General

Civ. Code § 1714.1(a) imposes civil liability on a parent or guardian who has custody and control of a minor for any act of willful misconduct of the minor that results in injury or death to another person or in any injury to the property of another. The parent or guardian is jointly and severally liable with the minor for any damages resulting from the willful misconduct. This liability may not exceed $37,100 for each tort of the minor and, in case of injury to a person, is further limited to medical, dental, and hospital expenses incurred by the injured person, not to exceed $37,100 [Civ. Code § 1714.1(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Appen. B]. However, insurer liability for conduct imputed to a parent or guardian is limited to $10,000 [Civ. Code § 1714.1(e)].

The Judicial Council must adjust the liability limits every two years beginning in 1997 to reflect any increases in the cost of living [Civ. Code 1714.1(c); Cal. Rules of Ct., Appen. B (formula for adjustment and current calculation)]. The maximum liability imposed by § 1714.1 is the maximum liability authorized under that provision at the time that the act of willful misconduct by a minor was committed [Civ. Code § 1714.1(d)].

The liability is in addition to any other liability imposed by law [Civ. Code § 1714.1(a)]. Civ. Code § 1714.1 is in derogation of common law and, therefore, must be strictly construed [see Cynthia M. v. Rodney E. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1040, 1046, 279 Cal. Rptr. 94 (consensual sexual intercourse between minors is not willful misconduct within meaning of statute)].

The purpose of Civ. Code § 1714.1(a) is to provide a satisfactory remedy to innocent third parties injured by a minor because, for all practical purposes, none is available under the common law. The underlying public policy is that parents, not innocent third parties, should bear the burden of responsibility for a minor child causing damage through willful misconduct. Thus, Civ. Code § 1714.1(a) protects and compensates injured innocent third persons by expanding the common law scope of parental liability for willful acts of misconduct by children. At the same time, however, the amount of statutory liability is limited [Robertson v. Wentz (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1281, 1293, 232 Cal. Rptr. 634 ; see Cynthia M. v. Rodney E. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1040, 1046-1047, 279 Cal. Rptr. 94 (plaintiff who consents to minor's conduct cannot recover as innocent victim)].

The "custody and control" requirement of Civ. Code § 1714.1(a) does not limit applicability of the statute to parents who have actual physical custody of the child at the time of the willful misconduct resulting in injury, death, or property damage. Thus, the nonresident parents of a minor child who allegedly attempted to break into an apartment while he was in California to attend college could be sued under § 1714.1. The parents' act of sending the unsupervised minor to California to attend college caused a sufficient "effect" in California to provide a basis for personal jurisdiction over the parents [Jamshid-Negad v. Kessler (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 1704, 1709-1710, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 621] .

The statute inures not only to the benefit of an injured person, but also to the benefit of joint tortfeasors. If a plaintiff who is injured by a minor does not join the parents as defendants, other defendants may obtain a reduction of their liability up to the statutory amount by way of equitable indemnity [Curry v. Superior Court (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 180, 183-189, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 495] .

[b] Defacing Property

Any act of willful misconduct of a minor that results in the defacement of property of another with paint or a similar substance also is imputedto the parent or guardian having custody and control of the minor for purposes of awarding civil damages, including court costs and attorney's fees, to the prevailing party. The parent or guardian having custody and control is jointly and severally liable with the minor for any damages resulting from the willful misconduct in an amount not to exceed $37,100 for each of the minor's torts [Civ. Code § 1714.1(b)].

[c] Injury or Damage to Pupil or to School Employee or Property

Notwithstanding Civ. Code § 1714.1, the parent or guardian of any minor whose willful misconduct results in injury or death to any pupil or any person employed by or performing volunteer services for a school district or private school is liable for all the damages, not exceeding $10,000, caused by the minor. Additionally, the parent or guardian of any minor who willfully cuts, defaces, or otherwise injures in any way any property, real or personal, belonging to a school district or private school, or personal property of any school employee, also is liable for all the damages, not exceeding $10,000, caused by the minor. Further, the parent or guardian is liable for all property belonging to the school district or private school loaned to the minor and not returned on demand of an employee of the district or private school authorized to make the demand [Educ. Code § 48904(a)].

Any school district or private school whose real or personal property has been injured by a minor's willful misconduct, after affording the pupil his or her due process rights, and after giving the parent or guardian written notice of the pupil's alleged misconduct, may withhold the pupil's grades, diploma, and transcripts until the pupil or the pupil's parent or guardian has paid for the damages [Educ. Code § 48904(b)]. If the pupil transfers to another school district, that district must also withhold the minor's grades, diploma, or transcripts until it receives notice from the minor's former district that the decision has been rescinded under the terms of Educ. Code § 48904 [Educ. Code § 48904.3(a)].

In cases in which the minor and parent are unable to pay for the damages to the real or personal property, the school district or private school must provide a program of voluntary work for the minor in lieu of the payment of monetary damages. On completion of the voluntary work, the grades, diploma, and transcripts of the pupil must be released [Educ. Code § 48904(b)].

The parent or guardian also is liable for the amount of any reward not exceeding $10,000 paid pursuant to Gov. Code § 53069.5 by a local agency for information leading to the identification or apprehension of any minor guilty of the proscribed misconduct [Educ. Code § 48904(a); Gov. Code § 53069.5; see Gov. Code § 54951 ("local agency" defined)].

An employee of a school district whose person or property is injured or damaged by the willful misconduct of a pupil who attends school in the district may request the school district to pursue legal action against the pupil who caused the injury or damage, or against the pupil's parents or guardian, pursuant to Educ. Code § 48904 [Educ. Code § 48905]. This provision applies if the injury or damage occurs when the employee or his or her property is (1) located on property owned by the district, (2) being transported to or from an activity sponsored by the district or a school within the district, (3) present at an activity sponsored by the district or a school within the district, or (4) otherwise injured or damaged in retaliation for acts lawfully undertaken by the employee in execution of his or her duties [Educ. Code § 48905].

[d] Destruction or Detention of Public Property

The parent or guardian of a minor who willfully and maliciously cuts, tears, defaces, breaks, or injures any book, map, chart, picture, engraving, statue, coin, model, apparatus, or other work of literature, art, mechanics, or object of curiosity, deposited in any public library, gallery, museum, collection, fair, or exhibition, is liable for all damages caused by the minor [see Educ. Code § 19910].

Additionally, the parent or guardian of a minor who willfully and maliciously detains any book, newspaper, magazine, pamphlet, manuscript, or other property belonging to any public or incorporated library, reading room, museum, or other educational institution for 30 days after notice in writing to return the article or property, given after the expiration of the time for which, by the rules of the institution, the article or property may be kept, is liable for all damages so caused by the minor [Educ. Code § 19911].

[e] Petty Theft From Store or Library

When an unemancipated minor's willful conduct would constitute petty theft involving merchandise taken from a merchant's premises or a book or other library materials taken from a library facility, any merchant or library facility injured by the conduct may bring a civil action against the parent or legal guardian having control and custody of the minor [Penal Code § 490.5(b)]. The parent or legal guardian having control or custody of an unemancipated minor whose conduct violates Penal Code § 490.5(b) is jointly and severally liable with the minor to a merchant for the retail value of his or her merchandise, if not recovered in merchantable condition, or to a library facility for the fair market value of its book or other library materials, plus damages of no less than $50 nor more than $500 plus costs. Recovery of the damages may be had in addition to, and is not limited by, any other provision of law that limits the liability of a parent or legal guardian for the tortious conduct of a minor [Penal Code § 490.5(b)].

An action for recovery of damages pursuant to Penal Code § 490.5(b) may be brought in small claims court if the total damages do not exceed the jurisdictional limit of the court, or in any other appropriate court. Total damages, however, including the value of the merchandise or book or other library materials, must not exceed $500 for each action brought under Penal Code § 490.5 [Penal Code § 490.5(b); see Penal Code § 490.5(g) ("merchandise," "merchant," "book or other library materials," and "library facility" defined); see also Ch. 526, Small Claims]. The provisions of Penal Code § 490.5(b) are in addition to other civil remedies and do not limit merchants or other persons electing to pursue other civil remedies, except that the provisions of Civ. Code § 1714.1 do not apply to those of Penal Code § 490.5(b) [Penal Code § 490.5(b); see § 367A.32[3][a] regarding Civ. Code § 1714.1].

If an emancipated minor has unlawfully taken merchandise from a merchant's premises, or a book or other library materials from a library facility, he or she is liable to the merchant or library facility for damages of no less than $50 nor more than $500, in addition to the retail value of the merchandise if not recovered in merchantable condition, or the fair market value of the book or other library materials, if not recovered in undamaged condition, plus costs [Penal Code § 490.5(c)]. An action for recovery of damages pursuant to Penal Code § 490.5(c) may be brought in small claims court if the total damages do not exceed the jurisdictional limit of the court, or in any other appropriate court. The provisions of Penal Code § 490.5(c) are in addition to other civil remedies and do not prevent merchants or other persons from electing to pursue other civil remedies [Penal Code § 490.5(c)].

[f] Damage or Malicious Access to Computer System

In addition to any other civil remedy available, the owner or lessee of a computer, computer system, computer network, computer program, or computer data may bring a civil action against any person convicted pursuant to Penal Code § 502 (malicious access or damage to computer system) for injunctive or other equitable relief, or compensatory damages, including any expenditure reasonably and necessarily incurred by the owner or lessee to verify that the system, network, program, or data was not altered, damaged, or deleted by the access. Malicious access or damage to a computer system by an unemancipated minor is imputed to the parent or legal guardian having control or custody of the minor [Penal Code § 502(e); see Civ. Code § 1714.1 (liability for torts of minor)].

[4] Discharge of Firearm by Minor Child

For purposes of awarding civil damages, civil liability for any injury to the person or property of another proximately caused by the discharge of a firearm by a minor under the age of 18 years is imputed to a parent or guardian having custody and control of the minor. The parent or guardian is jointly and severally liable with the minor for any damages resulting from the discharge if the parent or guardian either permitted the minor to have the firearm or left it in a place accessible to the minor [Civ. Code § 1714.3; see Robertson v. Wentz (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1281, 1295, 232 Cal. Rptr. 634] .

The liability imposed by Civ. Code § 1714.3 is in addition to any other liability imposed by law. The liability of any person or group of persons collectively under Civ. Code § 1714.3, however, cannot exceed $30,000 for injury to or death of one person as a result of any one occurrence or, subject to the limit as to one person, $60,000 for injury to or death of all persons as a result of any one such occurrence [Civ. Code § 1714.3].

[5] Minor Driving Motor Vehicle

The liability of a minor and his or her parent or guardian arising out of the minor driving a motor vehicle is generally governed by Veh. Code § 17700 et seq., as follows:

- A parent, guardian, or person who has custody of a minor may be held jointly and severally liable for any damages proximately resulting from the negligent or wrongful act or omission of the minor in driving a motor vehicle if he or she (1) signed or verified the minor's application for a license [see Veh. Code §§ 17701, 17707] or (2) gave the minor express or implied permission to drive the motor vehicle [see Veh. Code § 17708].

- A parent or guardian may be held liable as the owner of the motor vehicle negligently driven by a minor with the parent's express or implied permission [see Veh. Code § 17150].

- A parent or guardian may be held liable for the negligent operation of a motor vehicle by a minor child if it is determined that the minor was acting as an agent of the parent or guardian at the time the injury occurred [Johnson v. Peterson (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 619, 622-624, 113 Cal. Rptr. 445 ; see § 367A.32[6]].

Liability under Veh. Code §§ 17707 and 17708 cannot exceed $15,000 for any injury to or death of one person as a result of any one accident or, subject to the limit as to one person, $30,000 for injury to or death of all persons as a result of any one accident, or $5,000 for damages to property of others as a result of any one accident [see Veh. Code § 17709(a)]. This statutory limitation on damages does not limit a parent's liability, however, for his or her own negligence in supervising a child with a learner's permit [Kostecky v. Henry (1980) 113 Cal. App. 3d 362, 370-371, 170 Cal. Rptr. 197] .

No liability may be imposed under Veh. Code § 17707 or 17708 on the state or county, or on a probation officer or child protective services worker acting as an officer of the court, for damages caused solely by the negligence or willful misconduct of a minor driver whose application for a driver's license was signed by the child protective services worker or probation officer while the minor was a dependent or ward of the court [Veh. Code § 17707].

For further discussion and forms relating to a parent's vicarious liability for a minor's negligent operation of a motor vehicle, see Ch. 82, Automobiles: Causes of Action, § 82.16[2].

[6] Agency Relationship

A parent may be liable as a principal for the negligence of his or her child if the child acted as his or her agent in transacting the business of the agency [see Civ. Code § 2338]. Thus, a parent may be liable for the negligent operation of a motor vehicle by his or her child if the child was acting as the parent's agent at the time an injury occurred [Johnson v. Peterson (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 619, 622-624, 113 Cal. Rptr. 445] .

For further discussion and forms relating to actions among principals, agents, and third persons affected by the agency relationship, see Ch. 427, Principal and Agent .

§ 367A.33 Child's Liability for Parent's Torts

A child must have actual custodial ability over a parent before a duty arises to control the parent's conduct. The natural relationship between a child and parent alone is insufficient to create an inference that the child has this control. No duty arises if the child does not occupy a position of legal authority over the parent and lacks the opportunity to physically observe and exercise control over the parent's conduct [Megeff v. Doland (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 251, 260-261, 176 Cal. Rptr. 467] .

§ 367A.34 Parent's Actions for Personal Injuries to Minor Child

[1] By One or Both Parents

The parents of an unmarried minor child, acting jointly, may maintain an action for injury to the child caused by the wrongful act or neglect of another. If either parent, on demand, fails to join as plaintiff in the action or is dead or cannot be found, the other parent may maintain the action and the parent who does not join as plaintiff, if living, must be joined as a defendant and served with summons before trial or hearing of any question of fact. The court determines the respective rights of the parents to any award [Code Civ. Proc. § 376(a)].

[2] Child of Unwed Parents

If the parents of an unmarried minor child were not married at the time of his or her birth, either parent may maintain an action for injury to the child caused by the wrongful act or neglect of another if a guardian has not been appointed. If the parent who does not have care, custody, or control of the child brings the action, the parent who has care, custody, or control must be served with the summons [Code Civ. Proc. § 376(b)]. The father of such a child who maintains such an action must have acknowledged in writing prior to the child's injury, in the presence of a competent witness, that he is the father of the child or, prior to the child's injury, must have been judicially determined to be the father of the child [Code Civ. Proc. § 376(c)]. For discussion of the Uniform Parentage Act (Fam. Code § 7600 et seq.), see Ch. 412, Paternity .

A parent who does not maintain the action may be joined as a party [Code Civ. Proc. § 376(d)]. The respective rights of the parents to any award must be determined by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 376(b)].

[3] By Guardian

A guardian may maintain an action for an injury to his or her ward caused by the wrongful act or neglect of another [Code Civ. Proc. § 376(e)].

[4] Service of Summons

If a parent must be joined as a party [see § 367A.34[1], [2]], summons must be served on the parent either in the manner provided by law for the service of a summons in a civil action, or by sending a copy of the summons and complaint by registered mail, with proper postage prepaid, addressed to the parent's last known address, return receipt requested. If service is made by registered mail, the production of a return receipt purporting to be signed by the addressee creates a rebuttable presumption affecting the burden of producing evidence that the summons and complaint have been duly served [Code Civ. Proc. § 376(a), (b); see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

[5] Persons Liable and Survivability of Action

A parental action for injury to an unmarried minor child caused by the wrongful act or neglect of another may be maintained against the person causing the injury. If any other person is responsible for the wrongful act or neglect, the action also may be maintained against that other person. The death of the child or ward does not abate the parents' or guardian's cause of action for the child's injury as to damages accruing before the child's death [Code Civ. Proc. § 376(f)].

[6] Damages Recoverable by Parents

In a parental action under Code Civ. Proc. § 376 for injuries to their unmarried minor child, damages may be awarded that, under all of the circumstances of the case, may be just. If the action is maintained after the death of the child, however, damages are limited to those recoverable in a survival action under Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34 [Code Civ. Proc. § 376(g)(1)]. If the person causing the injury is deceased, the damages recoverable in an action against the decedent's personal representative are as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 377.42 [Code Civ. Proc. § 376(g)(2)]. For further discussion of damages recoverable in a survival action, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions .

Parents generally may recover medical expenses incurred up to trial, as well as for the loss of the child's earning capacity during the child's minority, and for the loss of services and earnings [Bauman v. San Francisco (1940) 42 Cal. App. 2d 144, 161-162, 108 P.2d 989 (medical expenses); Richmond v. Moore (1930) 103 Cal. App. 173, 182, 284 P. 681 (earnings and services)]. It appears that a parent may now recover future medical expenses likely to be incurred on behalf of a child, both before and after the child attains the age of majority [see Laughner v. Bryne (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 904, 909-912, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 671 ; see also Turpin v. Sortini (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 220, 237 n.11, 238 n.12, 182 Cal. Rptr. 337, 643 P.2d 954 ; Fam. Code § 3910 (parental duty to support adult child incapacitated from earning a living and without sufficient means); but see Apodaca v. Haworth (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 209, 217, 23 Cal. Rptr. 461 ; Rockwood v. Lansburgh (1930) 109 Cal. App. 581, 585, 293 P. 792 (right to recover future medical expenses rests solely with child)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 177, Damages .

For a discussion of the manner in which a parent may waive his or her right to recover damages or may be estopped from recovering them, see § 367A.34[7][b].

A parent has no cause of action in negligence to recover damages for loss of filial consortium [Hoyem v. Manhattan Beach City Sch. Dist. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 508, 522, 150 Cal. Rptr. 1, 585 P.2d 851 ; Baxter v. Superior Court (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 461, 464-466, 138 Cal. Rptr. 315, 563 P.2d 871] .

For an allegation for compensatory damages, see § 367A.115.

[7] Defenses to Parent's Recovery of Damages

[a] Comparative Negligence

A parent's action to recover medical expenses paid as a result of injuries to his or her minor child is subject to the defense of comparative negligence on the part of the parent in caring for the child [Randles v. Lowry (1970) 4 Cal.

App. 3d 68, 73, 84 Cal. Rptr. 321 ; see Li v. Yellow Cab Co. (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 804, 828-829, 119 Cal. Rptr. 858, 532 P.2d 1226] . The negligence of one parent also may be imputed to the other parent who is maintaining an action on behalf of the community to recover for injuries to their child [Crane v. Smith (1943) 23 Cal. 2d 288, 301, 144 P.2d 356] .

A child's negligence contributing to his or her injuries is also a defense to the parent's action for loss or expense incurred as a consequence of those injuries [Hasson v. Ford Motor Co. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 530, 551 , 564 P.2d 857 (questioning imputed negligence doctrine, but applying it because doctrine's validity not raised or briefed)].

For a general discussion of comparative negligence, see Ch. 380, Negligence .

[b] Waiver or Estoppel

Parents may waive the right to recover unpaid past medical expenses incurred on behalf of a child by bringing an action as guardian ad litem for the child. The child may recover these items of damages in the action, and the parents are estopped from recovering them on their own behalf [White v. Moreno Valley Unified Sch. Dist. (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 1024, 1030, 226 Cal. Rptr. 742 ; see Girard v. Irvine (1929) 97 Cal. App. 377, 386, 275 P. 840 (similar result regarding minor's claim for loss of earnings)].

A parent's action to recover for medical expenses is barred if the expenses were part of a settlement in a previous action brought by the minor through the other parent as guardian ad litem [Faitz v. Ruegg (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 967, 971-972, 171 Cal. Rptr. 149 ; see Laughner v. Bryne (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 904, 910-912, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 671 (release pursuant to minor's compromise of all child's damages estopped parent from recovering future medical expenses in separate cause of action)].

[c] Emancipation

Apparently, a parent's right to recover for medical expenses and the loss of services and earnings of a minor child is barred by the emancipation of the child [see Faitz v. Ruegg (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 967, 971, 171 Cal. Rptr. 149 ; Finnerty v. Cummings (1933) 132 Cal. App. 48, 50, 22 P.2d 37] . For discussion of emancipation under Fam. Code § 7000 et seq., see Ch. 245, Emancipation of Minors .

[8] Wrongful Death of Child

A parent has a cause of action for the wrongful death of an unmarried child who has no issue [see Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a), (d) (Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 applicable to cause of action arising after 1992), (e) (standing of parties under prior law unaffected by Stats. 1992, Ch. 178); Prob. Code § 6402(b) (rules of intestacy determine right to bring action if decedent has no spouse, domestic partner, or children)]. The parent's affirmative case must show that the decedent has no issue [Coats v. K-Mart Corp. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 961, 969, 264 Cal. Rptr. 12] .

A parent who is dependent on a decedent child may bring a wrongful death action for the death of the child, even if the child has a spouse or issue otherwise entitled to bring the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(b), (d) (Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 applicable to cause of action arising on or after Jan. 1, 1993), (e) (standing of parties under prior law unaffected by Stats. 1992, Ch. 178)]. "Dependency" in this context refers to financial dependency for shelter, clothing, food, and medical treatment [Coats v. K-Mart Corp. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 961, 969, 264 Cal. Rptr. 12 ; Perry v. Medina (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 603, 610, 237 Cal. Rptr. 532] .

For further discussion of and forms for use in wrongful death actions, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions . For discussion relating to whether the parent-child relationship exists, see Ch. 12, Adoptions: Nature and Effect , Ch. 12A, Adoptions: Termination of Parental Rights , and Ch. 412, Paternity .

[9] Consolidation of Injury and Wrongful Death Actions

If an action arising out of the same wrongful act or neglect may be maintained both by the parents under Code Civ. Proc. § 376 and as a wrongful death action under Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60, the actions may be consolidated for trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 376(h); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1048].

For forms for use in consolidating actions, see Ch. 125, Consolidation, Severance, and Coordination of Actions , and Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions .

[10] Workers' Compensation Benefits for Injury to Child

The exclusive remedy of a parent against an employer for the injury or death of a minor child arising out of and in the course of the child's employment is provided under the workers' compensation law, regardless of whether the parent was dependent on the minor or the minor was unlawfully employed [see Lab. Code §§ 3351, 3601; Leong v. Postal Tel.-Cable Co. (1944) 66 Cal. App. 2d 849, 850-851, 153 P.2d 204] .

For forms for use in obtaining workers' compensation benefits, see Ch. 577, Workers' Compensation .

§ 367A.35 Parent's Action for Abduction of Child

A parent, or a guardian entitled to custody of a child, may bring a civil action for damages against a third person for abducting or participating in the abduction of a child [Civ. Code § 49(a); Surina v. Lucey (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 539, 542-543, 214 Cal. Rptr. 509 ; Rosefield v. Rosefield (1963) 221 Cal. App. 2d 431, 433, 34 Cal. Rptr. 479 ; see Baxter v. Superior Court (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 461, 466 n.3, 138 Cal. Rptr. 315, 563 P.2d 871] . An action may be brought against an abducting parent even if that parent was exercising valid custody or visitation rights at the time of abduction. In this situation, both the child and the other custodial parent have a cause of action for damages [see Rosefield v. Rosefield (1963) 221 Cal. App. 2d 431, 433-437, 34 Cal. Rptr. 479] . However, the defendant's conduct is privileged if it is based on a reasonable apprehension that the child could suffer immediate harm if returned to the parents, or if his or her whereabouts is disclosed [Robbins v Hamburger Home for Girls (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 671, 682, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 534] .

§ 367A.36 Child's Actions Based on Parent-Child Relationship

[1] Interference With Parental Consortium

A child may not maintain a cause of action for loss of parental consortium caused by the negligent injury of the parent by a third party [Borer v. American Airlines, Inc. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 441, 444, 451 138 Cal. Rptr. 302, 563 P.2d 858 ; see Nix v. Preformed Line Prods. Co. (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 975, 977-986, 216 Cal. Rptr. 581 (following Borer, but criticizing its mandated result)]. A child abducted from his or her parents, however, may maintain an action for intentional interference with parental consortium [Borer v. American Airlines, Inc. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 441, 451 n.3, 138 Cal. Rptr. 302, 563 P.2d 858 ; Rosefield v. Rosefield (1963) 221 Cal. App. 2d 431, 436-437, 34 Cal. Rptr. 479] .

A child has no cause of action for alienation of his or her parent's affection [see Civ. Code § 43.5(a)]. Additionally, a child may not maintain an action for the enticement of a parent away from the family [Rudley v. Tobias (1948) 84 Cal. App. 2d 454, 457, 190 P.2d 984] .

[2] Wrongful Death of Parent

A child has a cause of action for the death of his or her parent caused by the wrongful act or neglect of another [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a), (d) (Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 applicable to cause of action arising after 1992), (e) (standing of parties under prior law unaffected by Stats. 1992, Ch. 178)]. Under prior law, all intestacy statutes were incorporated into the wrongful death statute for purposes of determining "heirs" entitled to bring a wrongful death action [see former Code Civ. Proc. § 377(b)(1)]. Under current law, despite somewhat ambiguous statutory language, the laws of intestate succession still determine whether a child has standing to bring a wrongful death action [Cheyanna M. v. A.C. Nielsen Co. (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 855, 864-865, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 335] . The purpose of amendments effective on January 1, 1993, was to clarify that a decedent's children and issue of deceased children may maintain a wrongful death action even if the decedent's entire estate passes to a surviving spouse under community property laws [Cheyanna M. v. A.C. Nielsen Co. (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 855, 864-865, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 335] . For discussion of the laws of intestate succession, see Ch. 458, Probate: Determination of Heirship . For additional discussion of the parent-child relationship, see Ch. 12, Adoptions: Nature and Effect , and Ch. 412, Paternity .

Stepchildren of a decedent and children of a decedent's putative spouse are entitled to bring a wrongful death action if they were dependent on the decedent [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(b), (d) (Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 applicable to cause of action arising after 1992), (e) (standing of parties under prior law unaffected by Stats. 1992, Ch. 178)]. "Dependency" in this context refers to financial dependency for shelter, clothing, food, and medical treatment [Coats v. K-Mart Corp. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 961, 969, 264 Cal. Rptr. 12 ; Perry v. Medina (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 603, 610, 237 Cal. Rptr. 532] . Any other minor may bring a wrongful death action if, at the time of the decedent's death, the minor resided for the previous 180 days in the decedent's household and was dependent on the decedent for one half or more of his or her support [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(c), (d) (Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60 applicable to cause of action arising on or after Jan. 1, 1993), (e) (standing of parties under prior law unaffected by Stats. 1992, Ch. 178)].

An action to recover damages for wrongful death is entitled to preference on the motion of any party who is under the age of 14 years unless the court finds that the party does not have a substantial interest in the case as a whole [Code Civ. Proc. § 36(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 36(g) (time requirements for action for medical malpractice)].

For further discussion and forms relating generally to actions for wrongful death, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions .

[3] Workers' Compensation Benefits for Injury to Parent

A child who was wholly dependent on a parent may receive death benefits under the workers' compensation law when the parent's death results from an injury that arose out of the parent's employment [see Lab. Code §§ 3208, 3501-3503, 4700-4709].

For forms for use in proceedings to obtain death benefits for dependent children, see Ch. 577, Workers' Compensation .

§ 367A.52 Decisions

[1] Actions Against Parents

Minor allowed to sue parents for negligent torts. Gibson v. Gibson (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 914, 923, 92 Cal. Rptr. 288, 479 P.2d 648 ; Martinez v. Southern Pac. Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 244, 254, 288 P.2d 868

Minor allowed to sue parents for willful or malicious torts. Emery v. Emery (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 421, 429, 289 P.2d 218

[2] Actions for Negligence

Negligence of parents, although not imputable to child in action by latter for injuries, is nevertheless relevant in determining whether third person is liable for such injuries. Akins v. County of Sonoma (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 185, 198, 60 Cal. Rptr. 499, 430 P.2d 57

Exercise of greater caution required in dealing with young child than in dealing with adult. Schwartz v. Helms Bakery Ltd. (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 232, 240, 60 Cal. Rptr. 510, 430 P.2d 68

Duty of care owed by itinerant vendor selling products from truck in residential neighborhood to child purchasers and liability of vendor for personal injuries sustained by child when struck by an automobile while crossing street to defendant's vending truck. Ellis v. Trowen Frozen Prods., Inc. (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 499, 502-503, 70 Cal. Rptr. 487

[3] Assumption of Risk

Three-and-a-half year-old plaintiff incapable of assuming risk of playing with vicious dog, and therefore not barred from suing dog's owner for negligence. Greene v. Watts (1962) 210 Cal. App. 2d 103, 106, 26 Cal. Rptr. 334

[4] Claims Against Public Entities

Provision of Gov. Code § 911.4, which tolls period for filing tort claim against public entity while person is mentally incapacitated and without guardian or conservator, is inapplicable to mentally incapacitated minor with parents capable of acting on minor's behalf. Hernandez v. County of Los Angeles (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 1020, 1025-1026, 232 Cal. Rptr. 519, 728 P.2d 1154

Public entity (county) required under Gov. Code § 911.6 to accept minor's late-filed tort claim on showing that minor's late-claim application was filed within one year of accrual of cause of action, he was a minor for entire 100-day claim period, and any delay in filing application was not attributable to his lack of diligence. Hernandez v. County of Los Angeles (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 1020, 1030-1031, 232 Cal. Rptr. 519, 728 P.2d 1154

Date of accrual of cause of action for purpose of computing time limit of Government Code claims is same as for statute of limitations that otherwise would be applicable [Gov. Code § 901]. Wozniak v. Peninsula Hosp. (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 716, 722, 82 Cal. Rptr. 84

Demurrer to complaint in action by minor against municipality on ground of statute of limitations is considered by court keeping in mind protection accorded to minor's cause of action until his majority, no matter what statutory limitations apply to litigants other than minors. City of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 766, 773, 70 Cal. Rptr. 826

State was not liable for injuries sustained by minor burned by sitting in hot coals concealed by sand on a public beach, although state, through its agents, had knowledge that people had been burned a number of times by hot coals on the beach, but had neither actual nor constructive notice of the existence of the particular hot coals in which the minor sat. State v. Superior Court of San Mateo County (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 396, 399-401, 69 Cal. Rptr. 683

Eleven-year-old looking down barrel of BB gun was not negligent as matter of law. Olsen v. McGillicuddy (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 897, 903, 93 Cal. Rptr. 530

Child under four is incapable of negligence. Walker v. Fresno Distrib. Co. (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 840, 848, 44 Cal. Rptr. 68

Four-year-old infant does not have sufficient capacity to be guilty of negligence. Morningred v. Golden State Co. (1961) 196 Cal. App. 2d 130, 137, 16 Cal. Rptr. 219 ; Christian v. Goodwin (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 650, 655, 10 Cal. Rptr. 507

[6] Damages

Minor is allowed to recover damages for pain and suffering on same basis as adult; lay testimony, as well as expert testimony, is allowed to support such award; trier of fact, when appropriate, is allowed to infer pain and suffering from nature of injury alone. Capelouto v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 889, 895-896, 103 Cal. Rptr. 856, 500 P.2d 880

[7] Liability for Torts

Question of minor's negligence depends on whether, in jury's opinion, minor acted as reasonably prudent and careful person of his or her age in circumstances proven in record. Weisbart v. Flohr (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 281, 286, 67 Cal. Rptr. 114

Liability of minor for battery in case in which minor shot arrow at another child when evidence showed shooter knew wrongfulness of act and had been warned by father not to point arrow at another person. Weisbart v. Flohr (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 281, 290, 67 Cal. Rptr. 114

General proposition of liability of infants for torts is established by statute. Singer v. Marx (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 637, 641, 301 P.2d 440

Only intent needed to establish infant's liability for battery is that of doing the particular act in question; e.g., throwing a rock at somebody. Singer v. Marx (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 637, 641, 301 P.2d 440

Negligence of minor is determinable on basis of whether minor used that degree of care ordinarily exercised by children of like age, mental capacity, and experience. Singer v. Marx (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 637, 642-643, 301 P.2d 440

Four-year-old does not have mental capacity that would support a finding of negligence. Ellis v. D'Angelo (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 310, 316-317, 253 P.2d 675

Count charging battery against four year old stated a cause of action. Ellis v. D'Angelo (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 310, 317, 253 P.2d 675

[8] Limitations

Minor under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 has at least three years from date of wrongful act to bring action, regardless of when he or she attains majority or discovers injury. Steketee v. Lintz, Williams & Rothberg (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 46, 57, 210 Cal. Rptr. 781, 694 P.2d 1153

Whether plaintiff is minor or adult under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5 is determined by his or her age at time of wrongful act. Steketee v. Lintz, Williams & Rothberg (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 46, 52-53, 210 Cal. Rptr. 781, 694 P.2d 1153

Minor has a minimum of three years within which to bring wrongful death action against health care provider based on professional negligence under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5. Ferguson v. Dragul (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 702, 707, 232

Cal. Rptr. 79

Time of "wrongful act" under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5, for purpose of wrongful death action by minor based on health care provider's professional negligence, commences with death of minor's parent rather than with date of alleged negligence. Ferguson v. Dragul (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 702, 708-709, 232 Cal. Rptr. 79

Malpractice action brought within one year of plaintiff reaching majority was reasonable and not barred by Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5--which only allows tolling of limitations period for minors if fraud or collusion exists against minor in failure to bring suit on minor's behalf--because at time of amendment of statute, although minor's parents did not commit fraud or collusion, they refused to institute suit on his behalf and minor had no choice but to wait until he reached majority. Whiteside v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 854, 856-857, 195 Cal. Rptr. 349

Statute of limitations was tolled in prenatal malpractice suit when, although parents knew baby was born with defect, they did not know it could have been predicted by standard test. Call v. Kezirian (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 189, 198-199, 185 Cal. Rptr. 103

Five-year limitation period for bringing action to trial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 583.310] was not tolled during 200-day hiatus during which minor was unrepresented by guardian ad litem. White v. Renck (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 835, 841, 166 Cal. Rptr. 701

Mandatory dismissal under former Code Civ. Proc. § 583 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 583.310 et seq.) of minor's action did not bar subsequent suit before running of statute of limitations. Billups v. Tiernan (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 372, 375-376, 90 Cal. Rptr. 246

[9] Medical Malpractice

Physician is under duty to test pregnant middle-aged woman for Down syndrome and to tell parents results, but physician properly left to parents any decision of abortion. Call v. Kezirian (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 189, 193, 185 Cal. Rptr. 103

Statute of limitations in medical malpractice actions commenced to run when plaintiff discovers injury and its negligent cause, or through exercise of reasonable diligence should have discovered it. Wozniak v. Peninsula Hosp. (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 716, 722, 82 Cal. Rptr. 84

Question of when there has been belated discovery of cause of action, especially in malpractice cases, is essentially a question of fact. Wozniak v. Peninsula Hosp. (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 716, 725, 82 Cal. Rptr. 84

[10] Prenatal Injuries

Statute of limitations on action for injury to person at or before his or her birth is six years [Code Civ. Proc. § 340.4], but does not commence to run until he or she attains majority when injury was received immediately after birth [Code Civ. Proc. § 352(a); former Code Civ. Proc. § 340(3) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 335.1 (two-year statute of limitations))]. Fay v. Mundy (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 231, 236, 54 Cal. Rptr. 591

Action by minor under Code Civ. Proc. § 340.4 for injuries sustained prior to birth is authorized. Myers v. Stevenson (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d 399, 401, 270 P.2d 885 ; Scott v. McPheeters (1939) 33 Cal. App. 2d 629, 639, 92 P.2d 678

[11] Wrongful Birth

Wrongful life or birth was not proximately caused by failure of medical professional to administer AFP test, which has only 20-percent chance of detecting Down syndrome. Simmons v. West Covina Med. Clinic (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 696, 701-704, 260 Cal. Rptr. 772

Award only of special damages for medical expenses at birth of child is not inadequate as matter of law in wrongful birth case involving healthy child. Morris v. Frudenfeld (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 23, 36-37, 185 Cal. Rptr. 76

[12] Wrongful Life

Minor plaintiff's recovery of general damages is not permitted in wrongful life action; damages is limited to medical or related expenses. Turpin v. Sortini (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 220, 234-235, 238-239, 182 Cal. Rptr. 337, 643 P.2d 954

Wrongful life or birth was not proximately caused by failure of medical professional to administer AFP test, which has only 20-percent chance of detecting Down syndrome. Simmons v. West Covina Med. Clinic (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 696, 701-704, 260 Cal. Rptr. 772

§ 367A.71 Decisions

[1] Actions Between Parent and Child

Unemancipated minor has cause of action to sue parent for willful or malicious tort, such as excessive punishment. Gillett v. Gillett (1959) 168 Cal. App. 2d 102, 105, 335 P.2d 736

[2] Child's Actions Based on Parent-Child Relationship

Father-child relationship exists, if presumed and not rebutted pursuant to Uniform Parentage Act, when facts occur that give rise to presumption, even if presumption is not raised until after deceased parent's death. Gabehart v. Simonsen (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 672, 677, 222 Cal. Rptr. 336

[3] Compromise of Minor's Claim

Compromise of a minor's action pending on appeal pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 372 must be accomplished by petition filed in appellate court; appellate court, not trial court, is required to approve or disapprove compromise. Anderson v. Latimer (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 667, 677, 212 Cal. Rptr. 544

[4] Discipline of Child

Foster parents stated no cause of action under 42 U.S.C.S. § 1983 against state social workers for violation of civil rights when social workers removed foster child from foster parents' home after they refused on religious grounds to cease using corporal punishment. Backlund v. Barnhart (9th Cir. 1985) 778 F.2d 1386, 1388-1390

[5] Parents' Actions for Injuries to Child

[a] Damages Resulting From Child's Personal Injuries

Parents' cause of action to recover indemnity for financial loss sustained on account of injuries to child is separate from child's action for injuries. Edgar v. Citraro (1931) 112 Cal. App. 183, 185-186, 297 P. 653

[b] Emotional Distress to Parent

Foster mother who was herself injured in traffic accident was "direct victim" of driver's negligence and therefore had claim against driver for emotional distress suffered from witnessing fatal injuries to foster daughter. Long v. PKS, Inc. (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1293, 1297-1300, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 103

[c] Loss of Filial Consortium

Trial court properly dismissed parent's claim based on other parent's alleged interference with visitation rights because primary cause of action is loss of filial consortium, which is not recognized in California, but aggrieved parent has remedy for violation of visitation rights. In re Marriage of Segel (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 602, 607-609, 224 Cal. Rptr. 591 ("Segel II")

[d] Substitution of Attorneys

Attorney representing minor through guardian ad litem is not permitted to withdraw as counsel of record without prior court approval. Torres v. Friedman (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 880, 887-888, 215 Cal. Rptr. 604

[e] Wrongful Death of Child

Right to maintain wrongful death action under former Code Civ. Proc. § 377 does not extend to persons who become heirs because of disclaimer in decedent's estate by those otherwise entitled to estate, because action is wholly statutory, cannot be expanded without legislative action, and wrongful death and disclaimer statutes were enacted for different purposes. Lewis v. Regional Ctr. of E. Bay (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 350, 353-355, 220 Cal. Rptr. 89

[6] Parent's Liability for Child's Torts

[a] Agency Relationship

Negligence of child driving car is not imputed to parent passenger if parent lacked right of control sufficient to establish agency relationship. Edwards v. Freeman (1949) 34 Cal. 2d 589, 592-594, 212 P.2d 883

[b] Motor Vehicle

Veh. Code § 17707 created limited agency between parent signing license application and child applicant; parent is vicariously liable both to residents and nonresidents for damages caused by minor's operation of vehicle. Indiana Ins. Co. v. Pettigrew (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 862, 865-866, 171 Cal. Rptr. 770

Legislative intent in enacting Veh. Code §§ 17150, 17707, 17708, imposing vicarious liability on owners, parents, and signers of driver's license applications, was simply to protect innocent third parties from careless use of automobiles; joint tortfeasor is not permitted to obtain contribution from person whose liability is imputed by statutes. Southern Pac. Transp. Co. v. Dolan (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 534, 540-542, 104 Cal. Rptr. 131

[c] Negligent Control of Child

Parent's knowledge of child's dangerous habits and ability to control child are prerequisites to imposition of liability for child's intentional conduct that endangers others; mother, who lacked physical custody and care of minor at critical time and lacked notice of his propensity to commit violent crimes, was not liable to husband of woman shot and killed by minor son in course of robbing bookstore; mother's mere legal custody of minor at time of crime was insufficient basis for common law liability. Robertson v. Wentz (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1281, 1290, 232 Cal. Rptr. 634

Parents aare not liable for child's torts if as reasonable persons they were not previously aware of habits or tendencies forewarning them of child's future misbehavior. Reida v. Lund (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 698, 702, 96 Cal. Rptr. 102

Duty of parent is not only to refrain from leaving dangerous weapon in place accessible to child but also to adequately safeguard weapon. Reida v. Lund (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 698, 704-705, 707, 96 Cal. Rptr. 102

Parents' previous knowledge of child's habits or tendencies to misbehave so that they could have restrained child is necessary for parents to be held liable for damages caused by child. Weisbart v. Flohr (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 281, 291, 67 Cal. Rptr. 114

Allegations required to sufficiently plead negligent control of minor against persons standing in loco parentis. Poncher v. Brackett (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 769, 773, 55 Cal. Rptr. 59

Parents liable for injury caused by child if parents' negligent failure to warn of child's habit of assaulting others made it possible for child to cause injury and made it probable child would do so. Ellis v. D'Angelo (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 310, 317, 253 P.2d 675

Plaintiff _____ [name], a minor, through his/her guardian ad litem, alleges:

1. For purposes of this action, _____ [name] was appointed by the above-entitled court, and now is, guardian ad litem of plaintiff _____ [name], a minor.

2. Defendants _____ [names] are, and at all times herein mentioned were, residents of _____ County, California.

[3. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as Does 1-_____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges, that each of the fictitiously named defendants is negligently responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that plaintiff's injuries as herein alleged were proximately caused by that negligence.]

[4. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that at all times herein mentioned each of the defendants, including all defendants sued under fictitious names, was the agent and employee of each of the remaining defendants, and in doing the things hereinafter alleged, was acting within the course and scope of this agency and employment.]

5. Defendant _____ [name of doctor] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a physician and surgeon duly licensed under the laws of California, practicing his/her profession in _____ [city], _____ County, California.

6. Defendant _____ [hospital] at all times herein mentioned was and is a corporation existing under the laws of California with its principal place of business in _____ [city], _____ County, California.

7. Plaintiff was born on _____ [date], and is at the time of filing this complaint a minor of the age of _____ years.

8. The natural parents of plaintiff are _____ [name], mother, and _____ [name], father.

9. On or about _____ [date], in _____ [city], _____ County, California, plaintiff's mother was pregnant with plaintiff. On that date and place plaintiff's mother employed defendant _____ [name of doctor] to attend her before, during, and after the delivery of plaintiff for a compensation to be paid for such services. For that purpose defendant undertook to, and did, attend and care for plaintiff's mother before, during, and after delivery of plaintiff.

10. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff's mother began labor, and was directed by defendant to go to defendant _____ [name of hospital]. While she was in the hospital for delivery of plaintiff, defendants, and each of them, so carelessly and negligently treated and cared for plaintiff's mother, and so carelessly and negligently delivered plaintiff, that as a proximate result thereof plaintiff was caused to, and did sustain serious personal injuries, among which were _____ [set forth specific injuries], and other personal injuries, the exact nature of which plaintiff does not know at this time, and will ask leave to amend this complaint to so state when they have been fully ascertained. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that the injuries are of a permanent nature, and will result in his/her permanent and total disability, all to plaintiff's general damage.

11. As a further proximate result of the carelessness and negligence of defendants, and each of them, and of the resulting injuries, plaintiff has been obliged to incur expenses for medical care, hospitalization, and treatment, and will be obliged to secure medical care and treatment for the rest of his/her life.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. For general damages according to proof;

2. For damages for past and future medical expenses [according to proof];

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use in an action by or on behalf of a minor to recover damages for injuries sustained before or in the course of the minor's birth [Civ. Code § 43.1; Code Civ. Proc. § 340.4].

[3] Medical Expenses

Parents of a minor are entitled to recover medical expenses incurred when the minor is injured, because it is the parents who are legally obligated to pay for the expenses. When a parent is the guardian ad litem of the minor in the minor's action arising from personal injuries, however, the minor's cause of action may include an allegation to recover whatever medical expenses that have not been paid [Morningred v. Golden State Co. (1961) 196 Cal. App. 2d 130, 138-139, 16 Cal. Rptr. 219 ; Mattox v. Isley (1952) 111 Cal. App. 2d 774, 779-780, 245 P.2d 664] .

In an action to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded for this cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages for anything other than personal injury or wrongful death (for example, property damage) must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(a)] or an equivalent statement must be included, for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

No claim for punitive damages may state an amount sought regardless of the nature of the case or whether it is a limited civil case [Civ. Code § 3295(e)].

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought when they are not stated in the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115], see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments .

[5] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude the defendant from using a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[6] Statute of Limitations

For discussion of the appropriate statute of limitations for injuries sustained before or at birth, see § 367A.11[3][b].

Plaintiff _____ [name], a minor, through his/her guardian ad litem, alleges:

1. Plaintiff _____ [name of mother] is the mother and plaintiff _____ [name of father] is the father of plaintiff _____ [name of minor], a minor born on _____ [date].

2. [Name of guardian ad litem. See § 367A.90[1], Paragraph 1.]

3. [Allegations regarding residence. See § 367A.90[1], Paragraph 2.]

4. [Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 367A.90[1], Paragraph 3.]

5. [Agency delegation, if appropriate. See § 367A.90[1], Paragraph 4.]

6. _____ [Allege occupation(s) of defendant(s). See § 367A.90[1], Paragraphs 5, 6].

7. _____ [Allege additional defendant's occupation and agency, if appropriate; e.g., Defendant _____ (name of doctor), is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a physician duly licensed to practice medicine in the State of California, employed by defendant _____ (name of hospital) to evaluate and treat patients at the hospital and acting within the course and scope of such employment with the permission and consent of his/her codefendant].

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
(Wrongful Life)

8. _____ [Allege basis of defendants' duty to inform parents of potential genetic defects in minor; e.g., On or about _____ (date), _____ (names of parents) retained defendant on the advice of their pediatrician, _____ (name of pediatrician), to evaluate a possible hearing defect of plaintiffs _____'s (name of parents) minor child, _____ (name), the older _____ (brother or sister) of the minor plaintiff in this action].

9. _____ [Allege defendants' negligent performance of duty, e.g., On or about _____ (date), defendant _____ (name of doctor) examined _____ (name of minor plaintiff's older sibling) and administered tests to evaluate his/her condition. Due to the negligence of defendants _____ (names of hospital and doctor) in the examination, administration of the tests, and communication of their results to _____ (names of parents) and to their pediatrician on or about _____ (date), plaintiffs _____ (names of parents) were informed that _____'s (name of sibling) hearing was within normal limits when in fact he/she was completely deaf as the result of a hereditary ailment. The nature of the ailment is such that a reasonable degree of medical probability existed that the hearing defect would be inherited by any offspring of plaintiffs _____ (names of parents)].

[10. In reliance on the diagnosis made by defendant(s), plaintiffs _____ (names of parents) did not avail themselves of any further tests or evaluation of _____'s (name of minor sibling) condition until on or about _____ (date), when they learned of his/her true condition. Also in reliance on defendants' diagnosis, and before learning of _____'s (name of minor sibling) true condition, plaintiffs _____ (names of parents) conceived minor plaintiff, on or about _____ (date).]

11. On or about _____ [date], minor plaintiff was born with _____ [specify defect or disease, e.g., total hereditary deafness]. If plaintiffs _____ [names of parents] had been correctly informed that _____ [specify, e.g., a reasonable degree of medical probability existed that any of their offspring would inherit the defect and be born totally deaf], they would have _____ [specify, e.g., chosen not to conceive minor plaintiff].

12. As a proximate result of _____ [specify defect or disease, e.g., the total hereditary deafness] and the negligence of defendant(s) alleged above, plaintiff _____ [name of minor] is informed and believes and thereon alleges that he/she will be obliged to incur extraordinary expenses for _____ [specify, e.g., medical treatment, specialized teaching, training, and hearing equipment as a result of his/her deafness] for an indefinite period in the future and to pay other expenses in the treatment of his/her condition.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(Wrongful Birth)

Plaintiffs _____ [names of parents] allege:

13. Plaintiffs _____ [names of parents] refer to Paragraphs 1 and 3 through 11 of the First Cause of Action and make them a part of the Second Cause of Action by reference.

14. As a proximate result of the negligence of defendant(s), plaintiffs _____ [names of parents] were compelled to, and did, incur expenses for _____ [specify, e.g., medical treatment, specialized teaching, training, and hearing equipment] for plaintiff _____ [name of minor].

15. As a further proximate result of the negligence of defendant(s), plaintiffs _____ [names of parents] are informed and believe and thereon allege that they will be obliged to incur expenses for medical care, treatment, training, and equipment for plaintiff _____ [name of minor] during the minority of plaintiff _____ [name of minor] through _____ [date].

WHEREFORE, plaintiffs pray judgment against defendants [and each of them], as follows:

On the FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION:

1. For future medical and related expenses according to proof;

On the SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION:

2. For medical and related expenses incurred as a result of plaintiff _____'s [name of minor] condition according to proof;

3. For future medical and related expenses incurred during plaintiff _____'s [name of minor] minority according to proof;

On ALL CAUSES OF ACTION:

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use in an action seeking damages for wrongful life brought on behalf of a minor who was born with a severe defect, consolidated with an action for wrongful birth by the minor's parents to recover medical and related expenses as a result of the minor's defect. The form may be modified for use by only one parent, if appropriate. The basis for the action is a medical care provider's negligence that has proximately caused the birth of a hereditarily afflicted or otherwise defective child.

The facts used to illustrate allegations in the complaint are adapted from those found in Turpin v. Sortini (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 220, 182 Cal. Rptr. 337, 643 P.2d 954 .

[3] Allegations

This complaint contains two causes of action as a basis for recovery of damages caused by the negligence of defendant or defendants. The first cause of action includes allegations of:

- The name of the minor plaintiff's guardian ad litem (Paragraph 2) [see Fam. Code § 6601];

- The occupation of defendant as a medical care provider (Paragraphs 6, 7), and, if appropriate, agency allegations (Paragraph 7);

- The duty of defendant to inform plaintiff parents of the potential defect of minor plaintiff or of any child plaintiff parents might conceive (Paragraph 8);

- The negligence of defendant in performing that duty (Paragraph 9);

- Plaintiff parents' reliance on the negligent diagnosis or representation of defendant (Paragraphs 10, 11);

- Minor plaintiff's being born with a severe defect as a result of that negligence (Paragraph 11); and

- The damages that will accrue to the minor in the future as a result of medical expenses that he or she will have to pay because of his or her defective condition (Paragraph 12) [see Turpin v. Sortini (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 220, 223-224, 239, 182 Cal. Rptr. 337, 643 P.2d 954] .

The second cause of action, brought by the parents for the wrongful birth of the minor plaintiff, incorporates by reference Paragraphs 1 and 3 through 11 of the first cause of action (Paragraph 13). It then alleges:

- The special damages of medical and related expenses already paid by the parents in treatment of the minor plaintiff's condition (Paragraph 14); and

- The special damages of medical and related expenses that the parents will pay in the future for treatment of the minor plaintiff's condition (Paragraph 15) [see Turpin v. Sortini (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 220, 226, 182 Cal. Rptr. 337, 643 P.2d 954] .

[4] Damages

[a] In General

The minor plaintiff in a wrongful life action may not recover general damages for being born impaired. Both the minor and the parents, however, may recover special damages for the extraordinary expenses necessary to treat the minor's condition, although they may not both recover for the same medical expenses [Turpin v. Sortini (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 220, 238, 239, 182 Cal. Rptr. 337, 643 P.2d 954] .

No California decisions have expressly permitted the parents to recover general damages for mental suffering for the "wrongful birth" of a defective child [see Turpin v. Sortini (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 220, 225-228, 182 Cal. Rptr. 337, 643 P.2d 954] . Nevertheless, courts have held that when a medical care provider's negligence in performing sterilization or abortion procedures results in the birth of a healthy child, the parents may recover all the usual damages allowable under general tort principles [Stills v. Gratton (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 698, 709, 127 Cal. Rptr. 652 ; Custodio v. Bauer (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 303, 325, 59 Cal. Rptr. 463] . Under general tort principles, damages are allowed for the mental suffering that naturally ensues from a tortious act when a cause of action is otherwise established [Capelouto v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 889, 892, 103 Cal. Rptr. 856, 500 P.2d 880] . Therefore, the plaintiffs in a wrongful birth action involving a defective child may wish to allege general damages in addition to seeking recovery for medical and related expenses.

[b] Alleging Special Damages

The damages alleged in the complaint are special damages, and therefore must be specifically set forth in the complaint to give evidence of them at trial [Shook v. Pearson (1950) 99 Cal. App. 2d 348, 351-352, 221 P.2d 757 ; Stoltz v. Converse (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 909, 914-915, 172 P.2d 78] .

In an action to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded for this cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages for anything other than personal injury or wrongful death (for example, property damage) must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(a)] or an equivalent statement must be included, for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought when they are not stated in the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115], see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments .

[c] Punitive Damages

The court of appeal has held that punitive damages are recoverable in a wrongful life action [Curlender v. Bio-Science Labs. (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 811, 831-832, 165 Cal. Rptr. 477] . Although the California Supreme Court overruled this court's holding that general damages are recoverable in a wrongful life action, it did not address the question of punitive damages [Turpin v. Sortini (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 220, 223, 234-235, 239, 182 Cal. Rptr. 337, 643 P.2d 954] . Therefore, it would appear that under established tort principles, punitive damages may be alleged in a wrongful life or wrongful birth action when it can be pr oven by clear and convincing evidence that the defendant was guilty of oppression, fraud, or malice [Civ. Code § 3294].

If punitive damages are alleged, the amount sought must not be stated in the complaint [Civ. Code § 3295(e)]. For sample allegations of punitive damages, see Ch. 177, Damages .

[2] Use of Form

This complaint may be used in the specific situation set forth, that is, when a minor is injured by an automobile while responding to an invitation by a street vendor to do business. With appropriate modifications, it may be used when the injury was caused by the actual street vendor, for example, for failure to look while parking or backing the truck.

The form was adapted from the fact situation in Schwartz v. Helms Bakery Ltd. (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 232, 235-236, 60 Cal. Rptr. 510, 430 P.2d 68 .

[3] Duty of Street Vendors to Minors

The following principles control situations involving a mobile vendor's sales of goods to minors [Schwartz v. Helms Bakery Ltd. (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 232, 238, 60 Cal. Rptr. 510, 430 P.2d 68] :

- One who undertakes to direct the actions of another must do so with due care;

- One who invites another to do business must exercise due care for the customer's safety on all premises;

- In dealing with a young child, one must exercise greater caution than in dealing with an adult; and

- Foreseeable intervening acts (for example, passing cars that might strike youngsters darting into the street to buy something from the truck) constitute no excuse from liability for negligence.

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by a child seeking damages from a parent based on the parent's negligence. It consists of the optional Judicial Council complaint form for personal injury, property damage, and wrongful death (official form number PLD-PI-001), along with the cause of action form for general negligence and a verification attachment (official form number PLD-PI-001(2)) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12].

This three-page Judicial Council complaint form must always be filed with one or more cause of action attachments. For example, the Judicial Council has approved cause of action attachments based on general negligence as illustrated above [see Ch. 380, Negligence] and intentional tort [see Ch. 58, Assault and Battery , and Ch. 362, Mental Suffering and Emotional Distress]. When counsel seeks exemplary damages in addition to compensatory damages, the exemplary damages attachment also must be included [see Ch. 177, Damages].

For general information for filling out this complaint in a wrongful death action, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions . For general information relating to use of Judicial Council complaint forms, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints .

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in

PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

If the Judicial Council complaint and attachment forms are not used, the allegations in these forms may be adapted for use in a complaint drafted by counsel. For general forms alleging negligence, see Ch. 380, Negligence .

[3] Filling Out Complaint Form

[a] General Instructions

For general instructions on how to fill out this complaint form, see Ch. 380, Negligence . Those matters affecting the use of the Judicial Council complaint form that are unique to an action based on negligence by a minor against his or her parent are discussed below.

[b] Caption

The name of the minor's guardian ad litem or guardian of the estate who is appearing in the action for the minor should be inserted into the third box from the top of the page [see Code Civ. Proc. § 372].

[c] Plaintiff's Capacity (Paragraph 3.)

The capacity of the plaintiff to institute the action through a guardian of the estate or guardian ad litem is alleged by checking the first box in Paragraph 3.a, and inserting the name of the minor plaintiff, by checking box 3.a(4) "a minor," and by checking box 3.a(4)(a) "for whom a guardian or conservator of the estate or a guardian ad litem has been appointed" [see Code Civ. Proc. § 372; Fam. Code § 6601]. For discussion and forms relating to the appointment of a guardian of the estate or a guardian ad litem for a minor, see Ch. 280, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Guardians , and Ch. 291, Guardians ad Litem , respectively.

[d] List of Causes of Action (Paragraph 10.)

This Judicial Council complaint form, in and of itself, does not state any cause of action. Each complaint form must have one or more causes of action attached. Box 10.b., "General Negligence," should be checked to indicate the illustrative cause of action attached to the complaint. The Judicial Council has approved five separate cause of action attachments, as discussed in the Comments to the Judicial Council complaint form in Ch. 380, Negligence .

A minor may enforce his or her rights by civil action in the same manner as an adult [Fam. Code § 6601]. The measure of damages generally is the amount that will compensate for all the detriment proximately caused by the injury [see Civ. Code § 3333; see generally Ch. 177, Damages]. Box 11.d., "general damage," should be checked if the minor seeks to recover for, among other damages, pain and suffering [see Capelouto v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 889, 895, 103 Cal. Rptr. 856, 500 P.2d 880 ; Niles v. City of San Rafael (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 230, 244, 116 Cal. Rptr. 733] , or physical disabilities resulting from the negligent act.

Other appropriate boxes should be checked to allege special damages recoverable by a minor. For example, box 11.f., "loss of earning capacity," should be checked to allege loss of future earning capacity during majority [see Girard v. Irvine (1929) 97 Cal. App. 377, 386, 275 P. 840] . Box 11.c., "hospital and medical expenses," should be checked to allege future medical expenses that will be incurred after the date of trial [see Niles v. City of San Rafael (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 230, 241-243, 116 Cal. Rptr. 733 ; Apodaca v. Haworth (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 209, 217, 23 Cal. Rptr. 461] . When the minor seeks to recover for these future damages, it is suggested that the words "and/or will suffer" be typed to the right of the words "Plaintiff has suffered."

[f] Specification of Damages (Paragraph 14.)

Paragraph 14. of the form is the prayer for damages, filled out to indicate that compensatory damages are being sought, in whatever amount isjustified by proof. No dollar amount may be alleged in an action to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

[4] Filling Out General Negligence Attachment to Complaint Form

[a] General Instructions

For general instructions on how to fill out the general negligence attachment, see Ch. 380, Negligence . Those matters affecting the use of the general negligence attachment form that are unique to an action based on negligence by a minor against his or her parent are discussed below.

[b] Statute of Limitations

Insert the date on which the alleged injury occurred on line 6 of Paragraph GN-1. An action for injury caused by the neglect of another must be commenced within two years (one year, prior to January 1, 2003) after the cause of action accrues [Code Civ. Proc. § 335.1; see former Code Civ. Proc. § 340(3); Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions, § 345.14]. If the person entitled to bring such an action is under the age of majority at the time the cause of action accrues, however, the time of the disability is not a part of the time limited for the commencement of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 352(a)]. For a discussion of and forms relating to the suspension of the period of limitation due to minority, see Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions .

[c] Fictitiously Named Defendants

If any fictitiously named defendants are alleged to have caused damages, then the fourth line in Paragraph GN-1. should be modified by striking "was" and inserting "were," and by inserting "s" at the end of "defendant." Plaintiff then should allege that a specific number of the fictitious defendants (for example, "Does 1-5") were negligent in performing acts or failing to act in the same manner as the defendant, thereby causing damage to the plaintiff (Paragraph GN-1.a.). Plaintiff also should allege, in a general way, that all of the fictitiously named defendants were responsible for the plaintiff's damage (Paragraph GN-1.b.) [see Breceda v. Gamsby (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 167, 171-172, 72 Cal. Rptr. 832 ; see also Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used].

[5] Preparing Verification Attachment

Verification of the complaint is not required, nor is there any official provision or form for the verification. In negligence actions, many attorneys prefer not to verify their complaints. Nevertheless, because verification of the complaint requires that defendant file a verified answer in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446(a)] and precludes a general denial in an unlimited civil case and will preclude a general denial even in alimited civil case when the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [see Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d); see also Ch. 26, Answers], counsel may wish to prepare a verification as an attachment. If a verification attachment is prepared, the format for size of papers, pagination, etc., required by Cal. Rules of Ct., Title 2, Div. 2, Ch. 1, should be followed [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.45(c)].

If the complaint is verified and some allegations are on information and belief, the box in Paragraph 15. of the complaint should be checked, and the paragraphs alleged on information and belief should be specified.

For additional forms and further discussion relating to verifications, see Ch. 572, Verification .

On or about _____ [date], at _____ [specify place, e.g., plaintiff's and defendant's place of residence] in _____ County, California, defendant _____ [allege intentional acts, e.g., assaulted and battered plaintiff by threatening to strike plaintiff and by violently striking plaintiff in and about the face and on and about the body; by reason of the acts of defendant, plaintiff was placed in great fear for his/her life and physical well being].

[2] Use of Form

This allegation may be used in a complaint by a minor child who is suing his or her parent through a guardian ad litem for damages resulting from an intentional tort.

[3] Judicial Council Pleading Forms

This allegation may be adapted for use in the Judicial Council complaint form for personal injury, property damage, or death, together with the Judicial Council cause of action attachment for an intentional tort [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12; Cal. Judicial Council Forms 982.1(1), (4), (13)]. For a filled--in example of the intentional tort attachment based on an action for assault and battery, see Ch. 58, Assault and Battery . The allegation in this form would be adapted for use in the Judicial Council intentional tort attachment form. For a discussion of allegations concerning plaintiff's capacity, see § 367.110[3][c]. For a discussion of allegations concerning venue and fictitiously named defendants, see Ch. 380, Negligence .

[4] Complaint Drafted by Counsel

If the Judicial Council complaint and intentional tort attachment forms are not used, the allegation in this form may be adapted for use in a complaint drafted by counsel.

For general complaint forms alleging intentional torts, see the chapter discussing the particular intentional tort involved as, for example, Ch. 58, Assault and Battery. For allegations relating to plaintiff's capacity and fictitiously named defendants, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used . For allegations relating to venue, see Ch. 571, Venue . For appropriate captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions . For forms of prayers, see Ch. 420, Prayers .

[5] Intentional Tort Allegations

The complaint must contain a statement in ordinary and concise language of the facts constituting a cause of action for the intentional tort being alleged [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(a)]. For example, this form contains allegations for assault and battery [see Ch. 58, Assault and Battery].

[6] Damages

For a discussion relating to a minor's ability to recover damages for pain and suffering, future loss of earning capacity, and future medical expenses, see § 367A.110[3][e]. A parent is primarily liable to pay medical expenses, and thus usually has the right to recover these expenses [see Fam. Code § 3900; Bauman v. San Francisco (1940) 42 Cal. App. 2d 144, 162, 108 P.2d 989] . In cases in which a minor incurs medical expenses as a result of the parent's conduct, however, it appears the expenses can be recovered by the minor [see Civ. Code § 3333]. For damage allegations that may be adapted for use with this form, see Ch. 177, Damages .

A minor may seek exemplary damages if it is proven by clear and convincing evidence that the parent was guilty of oppression, fraud, or malice [see Civ. Code § 3294(a)]. If the Judicial Council form of complaint for personal injury is used, the Judicial Council exemplary damages attachment should be appended [see Cal. Judicial Council Form 982.1(13)]. For a discussion and forms relating to exemplary damages, including the Judicial Council exemplary damages attachment form, see Ch. 177, Damages .

[2] Use of Form

These allegations may be used in a complaint by a person suing the parents of a child for damages resulting from the parents' negligent supervision of the child.

[3] Judicial Council Pleading Forms

These allegations may be adapted for use in the Judicial Council form of complaint for damages resulting from personal injury, property damage, or wrongful death, together with the Judicial Council cause of action attachment form for general negligence [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12; Cal. Judicial Council Form 982.1(3)]. For filled-in examples of these Judicial Council forms, see § 367A.110, and Ch. 380, Negligence . The allegations would be adapted for use in the Judicial Council general negligence attachment form. These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. Noninteractive versions in PDF format are available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[4] Complaint Drafted by Counsel

If the Judicial Council complaint and general negligence attachment forms are not used, the allegations in this form may be adapted for use in a complaint drafted by counsel. For general complaint forms alleging negligence, see Ch. 380, Negligence .

The allegations in this form also may be combined with any causes of action brought against the child for damages caused by his or her conduct [see Civ. Code § 41; Fam. Code § 6600; see, e.g., Ellis v. D'Angelo (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 310, 317, 253 P.2d 675] .

[5] Parent-Child Relationship

The plaintiff should allege that the defendants had custody and control and supervised the activities of the child as parents or as persons standing in loco parentis to the child (Paragraph 1) [for discussion of in loco parentis, see Ch. 394, Parent and Child, § 394.15].

[6] Statute of Limitations

The date on which the injury to the plaintiff occurred should be alleged (Paragraph 2). The period of limitation for personal injury caused by negligence ordinarily is two years (one year, prior to January 1, 2003) [Code Civ. Proc. § 335.1; see former Code Civ. Proc. § 340(3); Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions, § 345.14].

[7] Parents' Breach of Duty to Supervise

A parent is under a duty to exercise reasonable care to control his or her minor child so as to prevent the child from intentionally harming others or from so conducting himself or herself as to create an unreasonable risk of bodily harm to others, if the parent (1) knows or has reason to know that he or she has the ability to control his or her child, and (2) knows or should know of the necessity and opportunity for exercising this control [Rest. 2d Torts, § 316; e.g., Costello v. Hart (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 898, 900, 100 Cal. Rptr. 554] . Paragraph 2 alleges the dangerous conduct of the child while under the supervision of the parents. The first alternative Paragraph 3 alleges that the parents negligently failed to control the conduct of their child despite having the opportunity to do so after becoming aware of the dangerous habits or tendencies of the child [see, e.g., Singer v. Marx (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 637, 644-646, 301 P.2d 440] . The second alternative Paragraph 3 alleges that the parents observed the dangerous behavior of their child, not necessarily involving a habit or tendency, and had an opportunity to exercise control to prevent the child from injuring the plaintiff but negligently failed to do so [*see, e.g., Costello v. [2] Use of Form

This cause of action attachment is for use in an action by a property owner against the parents of a minor to allege the parents' vicarious liability for damages caused by the minor's willful misconduct resulting in injury to property or in the defacement of property with paint or a similar substance [see Civ. Code § 1714.1].

The form is designed as a cause of action to be attached to Cal. Judicial Council Form 982.1(1), a complaint for damages resulting from property damage [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.45(c)]. For a filled-in example of the Judicial Council complaint form, see § 367A.110. The paragraphs of this form must be numbered consecutively beginning with "1," and must be preceded with one or more identifying letters derived from the title of the cause of action [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.45(c)]. The paragraphs in this form are lettered "VL" as derived from the title "Vicarious Liability." The form is prepared in the format prescribed by Cal. Rules of Ct., Title 2, Div. 2, Ch. 1 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.45(c)].

For additional discussion of format requirements under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.100, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints . These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. Noninteractive versions in PDF format are available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

If the Judicial Council complaint for property damage is not used, the allegations in this form may be adapted for use in a complaint drafted by counsel.

[3] Contents of Form

In an action against parents for property damage caused by the willful misconduct of the parents' minor child, the plaintiff should allege [see Civ. Code § 1714.1(a), (b)]:

- The parents' vicarious liability under Civ. Code § 1714.1(a) and/or 1714.1(b) (Paragraph VL-1.);
- Ownership of the damaged property (Paragraph VL-2.);
- Custody and control of the parents over the minor child (Paragraph VL-3.); and

- The minor's willful misconduct that resulted in injury to the plaintiff's property or in the defacement of property with paint or a similar substance (Paragraph VL-4.).

This liability also may be imputed to a guardian having custody and control of the minor [see Civ. Code § 1714.1(a), (b)]. The parent or guardian having custody and control is jointly and severally liable with the minor for any damages resulting from the willful misconduct [see Civ. Code § 1714.1(a), (b); see also Ch. 300, Indemnity and Contribution].

[4] Damages

A parent's joint and several liability, with a minor, under Civ. Code § 1714.1(a) and*/or 1714.1(b)* cannot exceed $37,100 for each tort of the minor [Civ. Code § 1714.1(a)-(c), Cal. Rules of Ct., Appen. B]. At least for injury to property under Civ. Code § 1714.1(a), however, the liability is in addition to any other liability imposed by law [see Civ. Code § 1714.1(a)]. In an action for defacement of property with paint or a similar substance, damages imputed to the parent include court costs and attorney's fees [Civ. Code § 1714.1(b)]. For allegations of damage to personal property, see Ch.177, Damages .

[2] Use of Form

These allegations are for use in a complaint against the parents of a minor for damages caused by the minor's willful misconduct resulting in personal injuries [see Civ. Code § 1714.1(a)].

[3] Judicial Council Pleading Forms

These allegations may be adapted for use in a cause of action form prepared by counsel for attachment to Cal. Judicial Council Form 982.1(1) or 982.1(14), the Judicial Council forms for a complaint or cross complaint for damages resulting from personal injury [see Code Civ. Proc. § 425.12; *Cal. [4] Complaint Drafted by Counsel

If the Judicial Council complaint for personal injury is not used, these allegations may be adapted for use in a complaint drafted by counsel.

[5] Contents of Allegations

The plaintiff should allege:

- Custody and control of the parents over the minor child (Paragraph 1); and
- The minor's willful misconduct that resulted in personal injury to the plaintiff (Paragraph 2).

The liability also may be imputed to a guardian having custody and control of the minor [see Civ. Code § 1714.1(a)]. The parent or guardian having custody and control is jointly and severally liable with the minor for any damages resulting from the willful misconduct [see Civ. Code § 1714.1(a); see also Ch. 300, Indemnity and Contribution].

[6] Damages

A parent's joint and several liability under Civ. Code § 1714.1(a) cannot exceed $10,000 for each tort of the minor and, in the case of personal injury, is further limited to medical, dental, and hospital expenses incurred by the injured person not in excess of $37,100. This liability is in addition to any other liability imposed by law [Civ. Code § 1714.1(a), (c), Cal. Rules of Ct., Appen. B]. § 367A.115 Allegation of Compensatory Damages for Personal Injury to Minor Child--By Parent--Loss of Minor's Services and Earnings During Minority [Code Civ. Proc. § 376]

[1] FORM Allegation of Compensatory Damages for Personal Injury to Minor Child--By Parent--Loss of Minor's Services and Earnings During Minority [Code Civ. Proc. § 376]

Prior to the injuries alleged, _____ [name of minor] was a strong and able-bodied person able to earn money and perform services for plaintiff(s) _____ [name(s) of parent(s)] according to the minor's age, experience, and capacities. The services and earnings were of great value to plaintiff(s). As a further proximate result of the _____ [describe tortious conduct, e.g., negligence] of defendant[s, and each of them], plaintiff(s) have lost the services and earnings of their minor child and will continue to do so in the future, and thereafter those services and earnings will be greatly diminished and impaired.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation is for use by a parent in an action for personal injury to his or her minor child in alleging the loss of the minor's services and earnings during minority. Parents may maintain an action for injury to a legitimate or illegitimate unmarried minor child caused by the wrongful act or neglect of another [see Code Civ. Proc. § 376]. Parents may recover for the loss of the minor's earnings and services during minority, or the impairment of the minor's earning capacity or ability to provide services during minority [Richmond v. Moore (1930) 103 Cal. App. 173, 182, 284 P. 681 ; Girard v. Irvine (1929) 97 Cal. App. 377, 385-386, 275 P. 840 ; see Fam. Code § 7500 (entitlement of parents to services and earnings of unemancipated minor)]. For further discussion of damages recoverable by parents for injuries to their minor child, see § 367A.34[6].

[3] Judicial Council Pleading Forms

If the Judicial Council complaint form for personal injury is used, the damages sought in the above allegation must be alleged by checking the box labeled "other damage" in Paragraph 8. and by specifying the damages by inserting, for example, "Loss and/or impairment of services and earnings of plaintiff's minor child." For a filled-in example of the Judicial Council personal injury complaint form, see § 367A.110. These forms are available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. Noninteractive versions in PDF format are available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[4] Complaint Drafted by Counsel

If the Judicial Council personal injury complaint form is not used, the allegation in this form may be adapted for use in a complaint drafted by counsel. For complaints for injuries caused by the wrongful act or neglect of another, see the chapters in this set that discuss the particular action involved.

[5] Jurisdiction

The superior court has jurisdiction of the action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less, in which case it will be classified as a limited civil case [Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(1)]. If the parent's claim is below the superior court's jurisdictional amount for unlimited civil cases, but is joined with a minor's claim above that amount, the superior court has jurisdiction over both claims as an unlimited civil case [see Emery v. Pacific Employers Ins. Co. (1937) 8 Cal. 2d 663, 667, 67 P.2d 1046] .

In limited civil cases, the caption must state whether the demand exceeds or does not exceed $10,000 and must also identify the case as a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Gov. Code § 70613(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9), (10)].

In an action to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded for this cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages for anything other than personal injury or wrongful death (for example, property damage) must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(a)] or an equivalent statement must be included, for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought when they are not stated in the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115], see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments .

Chapter 368 MISSING PERSONS
PART I. SCOPE

32-368 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 368.01

§ 368.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses and contains forms relating to missing persons. In the Legal Background, Part A [see § 368.10 et seq.] discusses the administration of estates of persons missing and presumed dead. It discusses when a missing person is presumed dead, the procedure for petitioning for probate or administration of the estate of a missing person, and the remedies of a missing person on reappearance. Part B [see § 368.30 et seq.] discusses the procedure for setting aside personal property of absent federal personnel as well as the management and disposition of personal property of absent federal personnel without court proceeding.

The following forms for the administration of the estates of missing persons who are presumed dead are included:

- A petition for appointment of an administrator and for issuance of letters of administration [see § 368.70].
- An allegation regarding the heirs of a predeceased spouse [see § 368.71].
- An order appointing an administrator and issuing letters of administration [see § 368.72].
- A petition for probate of a will and for issuance of letters testamentary [see § 368.73].
- An order admitting a will to probate and issuing letters testamentary [see § 368.74].
- A petition to determine the identity of a person claiming to be a reappearing missing person [see § 368.75].

In addition, this chapter includes a petition for use in proceedings to set aside personal property of absent federal personnel, referred to as absentees, to a member of the absentee's family [see § 368.90].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Administration of Estates of Missing Persons Presumed Dead

32-368 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 368.12

§ 368.12 When Missing Person Presumed Dead

In proceedings under Prob. Code §§ 12400-12409, a person who has not been seen or heard from for a continuous period of five years by those who are likely to have seen or heard from that person, and whose absence is not satisfactorily explained after diligent search or inquiry, is presumed to be dead. The person's death is presumed to have occurred at the end of the period unless there is sufficient evidence to establish that death occurred earlier [Prob. Code § 12401; see Evid. Code § 1282 (finding of death by federal employee as evidence of death)].

The party asserting the statutory presumption of death has the burden of producing evidence to show that the presumption applies [Starr v. Old Line Life Ins. Co. (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 487, 495, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 282] . The presumption does not apply if there is a satisfactory explanation for the person's absence other than death, for example, if the person may have fled to avoid possible criminal prosecution [Starr v. Old Line Life Ins. Co. (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 487, 496, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 282] . The test for the applicability of the presumption is not whether it is more likely that the person is dead than alive, but whether the missing person's absence is capable of a satisfactory explanation other than by death and not whether death is the most satisfactory explanation for the absence [Starr v. Old Line Life Ins. Co. (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 487, 496, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 282] .

§ 368.13 Administration of Estate Generally

The estate of a missing person may be administered in the manner provided generally for the administration of estates of deceased persons, subject to the provisions of Prob. Code §§ 12400-12409 [Prob. Code § 12402].

The personal representative must administer the estate of the missing person in the same general manner, using the same method of procedure, and with the same force and effect, as provided for the administration of the estates of deceased persons, except as otherwise provided in Prob. Code §§ 12400-12409 [Prob. Code § 12407(b)]. For a discussion and forms relating to the appointment of a personal representative of a decedent's estate generally, see Ch. 442, Probate: Initiating Probate Administration . For a discussion and forms relating to the administration of a decedent's estate by a personal representative, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements , through Ch. 458B, Probate: Suspension, Removal, and Resignation . For a discussion and forms relating to the distribution and settlement of a decedent's estate, see Ch. 458C, Probate: Preliminary Distribution and Partial Allowance of Compensation , through Ch. 458E, Probate: Discharge .

One important consequence of the provisions of Prob. Code §§ 12402, 12407(b) specifying that the estates of missing persons are to be administered in the same general manner, and with the same procedure and force and effect, as the estates of deceased persons is that the forms for petitions and notices used in special proceedings for the administration of decedents' estates can be adapted with minor modifications for use in administering the estates of missing persons. Of course, counsel must take care to modify the caption, allegations, and timing of proposed forms to meet the special requirements of Prob. Code §§ 12400-12409.

If the missing person was a resident of California when last seen or heard from, the superior court of the county of the person's last known place of residence has jurisdiction for the purposes of Prob. Code §§ 12400-12409 [Prob. Code § 12403(a)].

If the missing person was a nonresident of California when last seen or heard from, the superior court of a county where real property of the missing person is located, or of a county where personal property is located if the missing person has no real property in California, has jurisdiction for the purposes of *Prob. § 368.15 Petition for Administration

[1] Where Filed

A petition may be filed in the court having jurisdiction under Prob. Code § 12403 for the administration of the estate of a missing person [Prob. Code § 12404(a); see §§ 368.70, 368.71 (petition for administration and additional allegations), and § 368.73 (petition for probate)].

[2] Who May File

The petition may be filed by any person who may be appointed as a personal representative [Prob. Code § 12404(b); see Prob. Code §§ 8400-8577 (appointment of personal representative)]. However, a petition may not be filed by a person who qualifies for appointment as a personal representative under Prob. Code § 8461(r) ("any other person") [see Prob. Code § 12404(b)]. Prob. Code § 12404(b) does not affect the order of priority of appointment of an administrator, which is controlled by provisions governing administration generally [see Prob. Code § 8461 (rank and priority of entitled persons) (referring to former Prob. Code § 422, now Prob. Code § 8461); see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 12404].

[3] Contents and Verification of Petition

In addition to the matters otherwise required in a petition for administration of the estate, the petition must state all of the following [Prob. Code § 12404(c); see Prob. Code §§ 8000, 8002(a) (contents of petition for appointment of personal representative and for probate of will)]:

- The last known place of residence and the last known address of the missing person.

- The time and circumstances when the missing person was last seen or heard from.

- That the missing person has not been seen or heard from for a continuous period of five years by the persons likely to have seen or heard from the missing person, naming them and their relationship to the missing person, and that the whereabouts of the missing person are unknown to those persons and to the petitioner.

- A description of the search or the inquiry made concerning the whereabouts of the missing person.

If the missing person left a will, the petition must also state whether the person named as executor in the will consents to act or waives the right to appointment [Prob. Code § 8002(b)(3); see Prob. Code § 12404(c) (contents include matters otherwise required in petition for administration)]. In addition, a photographic copy of the will must be attached to the petition. A typed copy of the will must be provided if material provisions of the will are handwritten; a translation must be provided if the will is in a foreign language [Prob. Code § 8002(b)(1), (2)].

The petition must be verified by the petitioner or, if there are two or more petitioners, by any of them [Prob. Code § 1021(b)(1)].

For a discussion and forms relating to petitions for probate of a will or administration of an estate generally, see Ch. 442, Probate: Initiating Probate Administration .

§ 368.16 Hearing on Petition

[1] Clerk Sets Matter for Hearing

When a petition is filed with the clerk of the court, the clerk must set the matter for hearing [Prob. Code § 1041].

[2] Service and Publication of Notice

Notice of hearing must be served and published, and proof made, in the same manner as in proceedings for administration of the estate of a decedent, except that notice of hearing on the petition must also be sent by registered mail to the missing person at his or her last known address [Prob. Code § 12405]. The mailing of the notice by certified mail is the equivalent of mailing by registered mail [Prob. Code § 5].

For discussion and forms relating to notice provisions regarding the administration of a decedent's estate, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

[3] Evidence Considered and Determination

At the hearing, the court must determine whether the alleged missing person is a person who is presumed to be dead under Prob. Code § 12401. The court may receive evidence and consider the affidavits and depositions of persons likely to have seen or heard from or know the whereabouts of the alleged missing person [Prob. Code § 12406(a)].

[4] Orders When No Diligent Search or Inquiry Made

If the court is not satisfied that a diligent search or inquiry has been made for the missing person, the court may order the petitioner to conduct a diligent search or inquiry and to report the results. The court may order the search or inquiry to be made in any manner that the court determines to be advisable, including any or all of the following methods [Prob. Code § 12406(b)]:

- Inserting in one or more suitable newspapers or other periodicals a notice requesting information from any person having knowledge of the whereabouts of the missing person.

- Notifying law enforcement officials and public welfare agencies in appropriate locations of the disappearance of the missing person.

- Engaging the services of an investigator.

The costs of a search ordered by the court pursuant to Prob. Code § 12406(b) must be paid by the estate of the missing person, but if there is no administration, the court in its discretion may order the petitioner to pay the costs [Prob. Code § 12406(c)].

If the court finds that the alleged missing person is a person presumed to be dead under Prob. Code § 12401, the court must do both of the following [Prob. Code § 12407(a)]:

- Appoint a personal representative for the estate of the missing person in the manner provided for the estates of deceased persons [see Prob. Code § 58 (definition of "personal representative" includes executor, administrator)].

32-368 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 368.18

§ 368.18 Reappearance of Missing Person

[1] Remedies Available to Missing Person

If the missing person reappears, he or she may do the following [Prob. Code § 12408(a)]:

- Recover property of his or her estate in the possession of the personal representative, less fees, costs, and expenses thus far incurred.

- Recover from distributees any property of the missing person's estate that is in their possession, or the value of distributions received by them, to the extent that recovery from distributees is equitable in view of all the circumstances. However, that action is forever barred five years after the time the distribution was made.

The remedies available to the missing person under Prob. Code § 12408(a) are exclusive, except for any remedy the missing person may have by reason of fraud or intentional wrongdoing [Prob. Code § 12408(b)].

[2] Effect of Decree of Final Distribution

The order for final distribution, when it becomes final, is conclusive with regard to the rights of the missing person, the rights of the beneficiaries of the missing person, and the rights of all other persons interested in the estate, except as provided in Prob. Code § 12408(a), (b) (remedies available to missing person) [Prob. Code § 12408(c)].

Consequently, a distributee of estate property may convey good title to the property before the time an action by the missing person against the distributee would be barred under Prob. Code § 12408(a)(2), because the order for final distribution, when it becomes final, is conclusive with regard to the rights of the missing person. The exception under Prob. Code § 12408(a) applies only to property or proceeds in the possession of the distributee. If a distributee has encumbered property of the missing person, the lender would also be protected under Prob. Code § 12408(c). However, if the action by the missing person is not barred under Prob. Code § 12408(a)(2), the reappearing missing person might recover the property from the distributee, subject to the encumbrance [see Cal. Law Revision Comm'n Comment to Prob. Code § 12408].

[3] Dispute as to Identity of Person Reappearing

If a dispute arises as to the identity of a person claiming to be a reappearing missing person, the person making the claim or any other interested person may file a petition under Prob. Code § 11700 (determination of persons entitled to distribution of estate) for determination of the identity of the person claiming to be the reappearing person, notwithstanding the time limitations prescribed in Prob. Code § 11700 [Prob. Code § 12408(d); see Prob. Code § 48 (definition of "interested person"); see also § 368.75 for petition to determine identity of person claiming to be missing person]. For a discussion and forms relating to a proceeding for determination of heirship under Prob. Code § 11700, see Ch. 458, Probate: Determination of Heirship .

§ 368.31 Definitions

The term "absentee" means either of the following:

- A member of the uniformed service covered by 37 U.S.C. §§ 551-559, who is determined by the secretary of the service concerned, or by the secretary's authorized delegate, to be in missing status as defined therein [Prob. Code §§ 1403(a), 3700(a); see 37 U.S.C. §§ 101(3) ("uniformed service" defined as Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, Environmental Science Services Administration, or Public Health Service), 101(5) ("Secretary concerned" defined), 551(2) ("missing status" defined)].

- An employee of the United States government or an agency thereof covered by 5 U.S.C. §§ 5561-5568, who is determined by the head of the department or agency concerned, or by his or her authorized delegate, to be in missing status as defined therein [Prob. Code §§ 1403(b), 3700(a); see 5 U.S.C. § 5561(2) ("employee" defined), 5561(5) ("missing status" defined)].

[2] Certificate of Missing Status

The term "certificate of missing status" means the official written report complying with Evid. Code § 1283 and showing the determination of the secretary of the military department or head of the department or agency concerned or the delegate of the secretary or head that the absentee is in missing status [Prob. Code § 3700(b)].

[3] Eligible Spouse

The term "eligible spouse" means the spouse of an absentee who has not commenced an action or proceeding for judicial or legal separation, annulment, adjudication of nullity, or dissolution of the marriage of the spouse and the absentee [Prob. Code § 3700(c)].

[4] Family of Absentee

The term "family of an absentee" means an eligible spouse, if any, or if no eligible spouse, the child or children of an absentee, equally, or if no child or children, the parent or parents of an absentee, equally, provided these persons are dependents of the absentee as defined in 37 U.S.C. § 401, and the guardian of the estate or conservator of the estate of any person bearing such relationship to the absentee [Prob. Code § 3700(d)].

[5] Secretary Concerned

The term "secretary concerned" means the secretary of the particular military department concerned as defined in 37 U.S.C. § 101(5) [see Prob. Code §§ 1440, 3700(e)].

§ 368.32 Proceeding to Set Aside Absentee's Personal Property

[1] When Property May Be Set Aside

On petition as provided in Prob. Code §§ 3700-3720, the court may set aside to an absentee's family personal property of the absentee, for the purpose of managing, controlling, encumbering, selling, or conveying, or otherwise engaging in any transaction with respect to the property. The property may be set aside to the absentee's family if the court determines that to do so will be in the absentee's best interest, including the absentee's interest in providing for shelter, food, health care, education, transportation, or maintenance of a reasonable and adequate standard of living for his or her family. The absentee's interest in the property set aside cannot exceed $20,000 [Prob. Code § 3701; see Prob. Code §§ 3705(b), 3706]. For a petition to set aside an absentee's personal property, see § 368.90.

[2] Who May File Petition

A petition to set aside an absentee's personal property may be filed by any of the following persons [Prob. Code § 3702]:

- Any person in whose favor the absentee's personal property may be set aside.

- A person to whom the absentee issued a general power of attorney while serving in the United States armed forces or while an employee of any agency or department of the United States, provided the power of attorney was valid and effective at the time issued, regardless of whether it has expired or terminated [see § 368.34].

[3] Contents and Verification of and Attachment to Petition

The required contents of the petition are set forth in Prob. Code § 3703(a) [see § 368.90]. A petition to set aside an absentee's personal property must be verified [Prob. Code § 1021(a)(1)].

A certificate of missing status must be attached to the petition. The certificate must be received as evidence of that fact and the court may not determine the status of the absentee inconsistent with the status shown in the certificate [Prob. Code § 3703(b); see § 368.31[2]].

[4] Notice of Hearing on Petition

Notice of the nature of the proceedings and of the time and place of the hearing must be given by the petitioner at least 15 days before the hearing date by all of the following means [Prob. Code § 3704(a)]:

- By mail, together with a copy of the petition, to all persons comprising the absentee's family;

- By delivery by a method that would be sufficient for service of summons in a civil action [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10-415.40], together with a copy of the petition, to the secretary concerned or to the head of the United States department or agency concerned.

- By publication pursuant to Gov. Code § 6061 (publication once) in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the proceedings will be held.

In addition, if the absentee is or has been during the proceeding a patient in or on leave from a state hospital under the jurisdiction of the State Department of Mental Health or of Developmental Services, notice of the hearing and a copy of the petition must be mailed at least 15 days before the hearing to the office of the Director of Mental Health or the Director of Developmental Services in Sacramento [see Prob. Code §§ 1461, 3704(b)]. If the petition states that the absentee is receiving or is entitled to receive benefits from the Veterans Administration, notice and a copy of the petition must also be mailed at least 15 days before the hearing to the office of the Veterans Administration with jurisdiction over the area in which the court is located [see Prob. Code §§ 1822, 3704(b)]. If the absentee is a person with developmental disabilities, the petitioner must, at least 30 days before the day of the hearing on the petition, mail a notice of the hearing and a copy of the petition to a regional center of the state Department of Developmental Services [see Prob. Code §§ 1822(e), 1827.5, 3704(b); see also Welf. & Inst. Code § 4620 et seq. (regional centers for assessment and training of developmentally disabled persons)].

[5] Hearing and Determination of Petition

At the hearing on the petition, any officer or agency of California or the United States, or the authorized delegate of the officer or agency, or any relative or friend of the absentee, may appear and support or oppose the petition [Prob. Code § 3705(a)].

If the court determines that the allegations of the petition are true and correct, the court may order set aside to the family of the absentee personal property of the absentee situated in California, excluding any sums due the absentee from the United States, in which the absentee's interest does not exceed $20,000. The property set aside must be specified in the order [Prob. Code § 3705(b)].

No bond may be required of any person to whom property of the absentee has been set aside by order of the court pursuant to Prob. Code §§ 3700-3720 [Prob. Code § 3705(c)].

[6] Court Not Deprived of Jurisdiction by Size or Character of Estate

A determination by the court that the value of all of the absentee's property, wherever situated, exceeds $20,000 or that the absentee owns or has an interest in real property, wherever situated, does not deprive the court of jurisdiction to set aside to the family of the absentee personal property of the absentee situated in California in which the absentee's interest does not exceed $20,000. The court must order that personal property set aside to the family of the absentee if the court finds that all of the other provisions of Prob. Code § 3700 et seq. have been complied with. The property set aside must be specified in the order [Prob. Code § 3706].

[7] Joint Tenancy Property

For the purposes of Prob. Code §§ 3700-3720, any property or interest therein or lien thereon that the absentee holds as joint tenant must be included in determining the property of the absentee and its value. The joint tenancy interest may be set aside to the family of the absentee as provided in Prob. Code §§ 3700-3720 but may only be set aside to a member of the absentee's family who was a joint tenant with the absentee in the property [Prob. Code § 3707].

[8] Motion for Accounting on Return or Death of Absentee

Within 6 months after the absentee has returned to the controllable jurisdiction of the military department or civilian agency or department concerned, or within 6 months after the determination of death of the absentee by the secretary concerned or the head of the department or agency concerned or the delegate of the secretary or head, the former absentee or the personal representative of the deceased absentee may, by motion in the same proceeding, require the person or persons to whom the property of the absentee was set aside to account for the property and the proceeds, if any. The time of return to the controllable jurisdiction of the military department or the civilian department or agency concerned or the determination of the time of death of the absentee must be determined by the court under 37 U.S.C. § 556 (secretary's determinations), or 5 U.S.C. § 5566 (agency's determinations). An official written report or record of the military department or civilian department or agency that the absentee has returned to controllable jurisdiction or is deceased must be received as evidence of that fact [Prob. Code § 3708(a)]. However, Prob. Code § 3708 does not in any manner derogate the finality and conclusiveness of any order, judgment, or decree previously entered in the proceeding [Prob. Code § 3708(b)].

§ 368.33 Management and Disposition of Absentee's Personal Property Without Court Proceeding

[1] When Allowed

The family of an absentee may collect, receive, dispose of, or engage in any transaction relating to the absentee's personal property situated in California without any judicial proceeding if all of the following conditions are satisfied [Prob. Code § 3710]:

- The absentee owns no real property situated in California.

- The aggregate value of all of the absentee's personal property situated in California is $5,000 or less, excluding any money owed the absentee by the United States.

- The family of the absentee needs to dispose of such personal property to provide for shelter, food, health care, education, transportation, or the maintenance of a reasonable and adequate standard of living for the family of the absentee.

[2] Transfer of Absentee's Property

If the conditions set forth in Prob. Code § 3710 are satisfied, the family of the absentee may have any evidence of interest, indebtedness, or right attributable to the absentee's personal property transferred to the family of the absentee, or transferred to the person whom the property is to be sold or transferred by the family of the absentee, on furnishing the person, including any governmental body, having custody of the property both of the following [Prob. Code § 3711(a)]:

- A certificate of missing status.

- An affidavit stating under oath that the provisions of Prob. Code §§ 3710-3712 are applicable and that the aggregate value of all property received pursuant to this affidavit, together with all otherproperty previously received under Prob. Code §§ 3710-3712, does not exceed $5,000.

The receipt of the certificate of missing status and affidavit under Prob. Code § 3711(a) constitutes sufficient acquittance for any payment of money or delivery of property made pursuant to Prob. Code §§ 3710-3712 and fully discharges the recipient from any further liability concerning the money or property without the necessity of inquiring into the truth of any of the facts stated in the affidavit [Prob. Code § 3711(b)].

[3] Time Limit on Action by Absentee

The time within which an absentee may commence an action against any person who executes an affidavit and receives property pursuant to Prob. Code §§ 3710-3712 commences to run on the earlier of the following dates [Prob. Code § 3712]:

- Ninety days after the absentee returns to the continental United States after the termination of the condition that caused the classification of an absentee.

- Two years after the termination of the condition that caused the classification of an absentee.

32-368 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 368.51

State procedure for administering estates of missing persons under statutes specifically for that purpose is constitutional. Cunnius v. Reading School Dist. (1905) 198 U.S. 458, 474-476, 49 L. Ed. 1125, 25 S. Ct. 721

Attempt to administer estate of missing person under general laws providing for administration of estates of decedents is void if the missing person is found to be alive. Scott v. McNeal (1894) 154 U.S. 34, 50, 38 L. Ed. 896, 14 S. Ct. 1108

Administration of estate of missing person under laws providing for administration of decedents' estates is void should missing person later appear to be alive. Stevenson v. Superior Court (1882) 62 Cal. 60, 61-64

Statutory presumption of death [Prob. Code § 12401] does not apply if there is a satisfactory explanation for missing person's absence other than death, for example, if he or she may have fled to avoid possible criminal prosecution. Starr v. Old Line Life Ins. Co. (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 487, 496, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 282

Abandoned boat with wallet and spatters of human blood, possibly from fishing injury two weeks before, is insufficient showing under Prob. Code § 12401 to declare death of convicted drug trafficker who disappeared day before his sentencing to federal prison. Conservatorship of Geiger (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 127, 136, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 252

Letter meeting requirements of holographic will written by missing person was properly admitted to probate as will. Estate of Wolfe (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 587, 591-594, 67 Cal. Rptr. 297

California's former statutory scheme for administration of the estates of persons missing for seven years or more (former Prob. Code §§ 280-294) is constitutional with regard to both due process and adequate notice. Sevier v. Bank of America (1950) 101 Cal. App. 2d 184, 187-190, 225 P.2d 3

Petitioner, _____[name], respectfully represents:

1. Petitioner is _____ [specify relationship to missing person, e.g., the spouse] of _____[name of missing person], is over the age of 18, a resident of California, and is otherwise qualified to serve as administrator of the estate.

2. On or about _____[date], _____[name of missing person] _____ [describe time and circumstances when missing person was last seen or heard from, e.g., went to the store at approximately 6:00 p.m. to buy cigarettes and failed to return].

3. _____[Name of missing person] has not been seen or heard from for a continuous period of _____[specify five or more] years by any of the persons likely to have seen or heard from him/her. Those persons and their relationships to _____[name of missing person] are as follows:

NAME	RELATIONSHIP
_____	_____
_____	_____

The whereabouts of _____[name of missing person] are unknown to the above-named persons and to petitioner.

4. The last known residence [and address] of _____[name of missing person] is _____[street and number], _____[city], _____[county], _____[state]. [If last known address is different than last known residence, add: The last known address of _____ (name of missing person) is _____ (street and number), _____ (city), _____ (state).] [If missing person was nonresident of California at time of disappearance, add: _____ (Name of missing person) _____ (owns real property located in _____ County, California or does not own real property in California but owns personal property located in _____ County, California).]

5. _____ [Describe any search or inquiry made concerning the whereabouts of missing person, e.g., Between _____ (date), and _____ (date), petitioner made a diligent effort to contact _____ (name of missing person) by placing advertisements in the following local, state, and national newspapers: _____ (specify newspapers and dates during which ads were run); by contacting the following state and local law enforcement officials and public welfare agencies: _____ (specify officials and agencies contacted); and by contacting the following persons with whom _____ (name of missing person) would be likely to initiate contact: _____ (list names)].

6. The names, ages, addresses, and relation to the missing person of the heirs of the missing person _____[name], so far as known to petitioner, are as follows: _____[list in as many subparagraphs as necessary, e.g.:]

a. _____[Name] of _____[address], _____[age], _____ [relationship, e.g., grandchild of the missing person].

b. _____[Name] of _____[address], _____[age], _____ [relationship, e.g., sister of the missing person].

7. The character and estimated value of the property in the estate are as follows:

CHARACTER OF PROPERTY	ESTIMATED VALUE

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

The petition in [1], above, is for use in seeking appointment of an administrator and issuance of letters of administration of an estate of a person who has been missing for a continuous period of five years or more and thus is presumed dead [see Prob. Code §§ 12401, 12404; see § 368.15].

[3] Contents

The petition in [1], above, contains the information required to seek appointment of an administrator and issuance of letters of administration for the estate of an intestate missing person presumed dead [see Prob. Code §§ 8002(a) (contents of petition), 8400(a) (appointment and issuance of letters), 12404(c) (additional requirements for missing person)]. The petition states:

- The relationship of petitioner to the missing person, and qualification to become an administrator (Paragraph 1) [see Prob. Code §§ 8460-8468 (requirements of administrator), 12404(b) (standing to file petition); see also Prob. Code § 8461 (rank and priority)].

- The time and circumstances when the missing person was last seen or heard from (Paragraph 2) [see Prob. Code § 12404(c)(2)].

- That the missing person has not been seen or heard from for a continuous period of at least five years by persons likely to have had contact with the missing person, their names and relationships to the missing person, and a statement that neither those persons nor the petitioner know of his or her whereabouts (Paragraph 3) [see Prob. Code § 12404(c)(3)].

- The last known place of residence and the last known address of the missing person, and if that person was a nonresident of California, the county in which the estate's real property or, if there is no real property, personal property is located (Paragraph 4) [see Prob. Code §§ 12403 (jurisdiction requirements), 12404(c)(1) (petition must state last residence and address)].

- A description of any search or inquiry made to locate the missing person (Paragraph 5) [see Prob. Code § 12404(c)(4)].

- The names, addresses, ages, and relationships to the missing person of the missing person's heirs, so far as known to the petitioner (Paragraph 6) [see Prob. Code § 8002(a)(3), 12404(c); for an allegation to include heirs of predeceased spouse, if appropriate, see § 368.71].

- The character and estimated value of the estate's property, and if a bond is necessary, the probable annual gross income of all the property (Paragraph 7) [see Prob. Code § 8002(a)(4), 12404(c) (character and value of property must be stated in petition); see also Prob. Code § 8482(a) (probable annual gross income, regarding bond)].

- The amount of the bond, or a statement that all the missing person's heirs have waived the bond requirement in writing, and that the waivers are attached (Paragraph 8) [see Prob. Code §§ 8482(a), (b) (amount of bond), 8481(a)(2) (waiver)].

For a petition for use with respect to a missing person who left a will, see § 368.73.

[4] Notice of Hearing

Notice of hearing must be served and published, and proof made, in the same manner as in proceedings for administration of the estate of a decedent, except that notice of hearing on the petition must also be sent by registered mail to the missing person at his or her last address [Prob. Code § 12405]. The mailing of the notice by certified mail is the equivalent of mailing by registered mail [Prob. Code § 5]. For discussion and forms regarding notices of hearing, see Ch. 447, Probate: Statutory Notice Requirements .

[5] Verification

The petition must be verified by the petitioner, or if there are two or more petitioners, by any of them [Prob. Code § 1021(a)(1), (b)(1); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 446 (verification generally), 2015.5 (form for declaration under penalty of perjury)].

[6] Hearing

The court may receive evidence and consider the affidavits and depositions of persons likely to have seen or have heard from or to know the whereabouts of the alleged missing person [Prob. Code § 12406(a)]. If the court is not satisfied that a diligent search or inquiry has been made for the missing person, it may order the petitioner to conduct a diligent search or inquiry and to report the results [Prob. Code § 12406(b)]. For further discussion of the type of search that may be ordered, and imposition of costs for the search, see § 368.16[4].

[1] FORM Appointment of Administrator and Issuance of Letters of Administration [Prob. Code § 8460 et seq.]--Estate of Intestate Missing Person--Allegation Regarding Heirs of Predeceased Spouse [former Prob. Code § 229; Prob. Code § 6402.5]

[EITHER, if the missing person will be presumed to have died on or after January 1, 1985]

There is no surviving spouse or issue of the missing person. The missing person had a predeceased spouse, _____[name of predeceased spouse], who died not more than _____ [15 or 5] years before _____[date of presumed death of missing person]. The names, ages, residences, and relationships of the heirs of the predeceased spouse are as follows: [list in as many subparagraphs as necessary, e.g.:]

a. _____[Name] of _____[address], _____[age], _____ [relationship, e.g., brother of predeceased spouse].

b. _____[Name] of _____[address], _____[age], _____ [relationship, e.g., sister of predeceased spouse].

[OR, if the missing person will be presumed to have died prior to January 1, 1985]

There is no surviving spouse or issue of the missing person. The missing person had a predeceased spouse, _____[name of predeceased spouse]. The names, ages, residences, and relationships of the heirs of the predeceased spouse are as follows: [list in as many subparagraphs as necessary, e.g.:]

a. _____[Name] of _____[address], _____[age], _____ [relationship, e.g., brother of predeceased spouse].

b. _____[Name] of _____[address], _____[age], _____ [relationship, e.g., sister of predeceased spouse].

The allegation in [1], above, is for use in a petition to seek appointment of an administrator and issuance of letters of administration for the estate of an intestate missing person presumed dead [see Form 1] if the heirs of a predeceased spouse are potentially entitled to a share of the estate [see former Prob. Code § 229; Prob. Code §§ 6402.5 (heirs of predeceased spouse may be heirs of deceased), 12404(c) (petition for administration of estate of missing person); see also Prob. Code § 44 (definition of "heirs")]. Heirs of a predeceased spouse may be entitled to a share of the estate only if the missing person was survived by neither a spouse nor an issue [see former Prob. Code § 229; Prob. Code § 6402.5(a)]. If that is the case, entitlement further depends on the presumed date of death of the missing person.

If the missing person is presumed to have died on or after January 1, 1985, Prob. Code § 6402.5 applies and provides for possible entitlement of a predeceased spouse's heirs to a share of the estate property only if (a) the spouse died not more than 15 years prior to the missing person's presumed death for purposes of distributing real property, or (b) the spouse died not more than five years prior to the missing person's presumed death for purposes of distributing personal property [see Prob. Code § 6402.5(a), (b)]. For purposes of such a disposition of personal property, the term "personal property" means personal property for which there is a written record of title or ownership and the aggregate value of which is $10,000 or more [Prob. Code § 6402.5(e)]. The first alternative paragraph of the form in [1], above, is for use if Prob. Code § 6402.5 applies.

If the missing person is presumed to have died prior to January 1, 1985, former Prob. Code § 229 applies, and provides for possible entitlement of a predeceased spouse's heirs to a share of the estate property regardless of when that spouse died, and regardless of the character of the estate property. The second alternative allegation is for use if former Prob. Code § 229 applies.

Either alternative of the allegation in [1], above, may be inserted in the petition in § 368.70 as Paragraph 7, in which case the subsequent paragraphs in that form must be renumbered.

For further discussion of the right of a predeceased spouse's heirs to a decedent's estate, see Ch. 442, Probate: Initiating Probate Administration .

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)	NO. _____
In the Matter of the Estate of _____	)	ORDER APPOINTING ADMINISTRATOR AND
[name], a Missing Person.	)	ISSUING LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION

The verified petition of _____[name] for letters of administration of the estate of the missing person in the above-entitled proceeding came on regularly for hearing this day. Petitioner appeared by counsel, _____[name]. _____ [No person appeared to contest the petition or _____ (name) appeared by counsel, _____ (name), to contest the petition.] On proof made to the satisfaction of the court, the court finds that notice of the time and place of the hearing was given as required by Probate Code Section 12405. [Special notice was _____ (given to _____ (name(s)), as requested or requested and waived by _____ (names(s)).] The court also finds that the facts alleged in the petition are true, and that _____[name] is a person presumed dead under Section 12401 of the Probate Code. The court grants the petition as follows:

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED AND ADJUDGED as follows:

1. _____[Name of missing person] is presumed dead under Section 12401 of the Probate Code, in that he/she has not been seen or heard from for a continuous period of _____[specify five or more] years by those who are likely to have seen or have heard from him/her, and his/her absence has not satisfactorily been explained after diligent search or inquiry.

2. The date of death of the above-named missing person is _____[specify date after five-year period].

3. _____[Name] is appointed administrator of the estate of the above-named missing person, and letters of administration are to issue to the appointee on his/her taking the oath required by law _____ [and giving a bond in the sum of $_____ or without having to file a bond, the requirement of a bond having been waived in writing b the heirs at law of the missing person].
Dated: _____.

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The order in [1], above, is for use in a proceeding for appointment of an administrator of an estate of an intestate missing person presumed dead pursuant to Prob. Code § 12401 [see Prob. Code § 12407(a)]. If the court finds that the missing person is presumed dead under Prob. Code § 12401, the court must appoint a personal representative for the estate of the missing person in the manner provided for the estates of deceased persons, and determine the date of the missing person's death [Prob. Code § 12407(a); see § 368.17]. The date of death of a missing person is presumed to have occurred at the end of the five-year period during which the person has been continuously missing unless there is sufficient evidence to establish that death occurred earlier [see Prob. Code § 12401]. For an order for probate and issuance of letters testamentary for use with respect to a missing person who left a will, see § 368.74.

[2] Use of Form

The petition in [1], above, is for use to seek to admit to probate the last will and testament of a person who has been missing for a continuous period of five years or more, and thus is presumed dead [see Prob. Code §§ 12401, 12404]. The petition is also for use to seek issuance of letters testamentary [see Prob. Code §§ 8002(a) (contents of petition), 8400-8402 (issuance of letters), 12404; see also § 368.15].

[3] Contents

The petition includes the matters required by Prob. Code § 12404(c) to be included in a petition for probate of a will and for issuance of letters testamentary when a missing person is presumed dead. The petition also includes matters otherwise required in a petition for probate [see Prob. Code §§ 8002(a), 12404(c)]. The petition states:

- The relationship of petitioner to the missing person that entitles petitioner to file the petition and the qualifications of the petitioner or other person for appointment as executor (Paragraph 1) [see Prob. Code § 12404(b).

- That the missing person left a last will and testament, and the terms thereof (Paragraph 6) [see Prob. Code § 8002(b)(1)].

- That the person named in the will as executor consents to act, and the name of the person for whom letters testamentary are prayed (Paragraph 7) [see Prob. Code § 8002(a)(5), (b)(3), 12404(c)].

- The names, ages, addresses, and relationships to the missing person of the heirs, devisees, and legatees, so far as known to the petitioner (Paragraph 8) [Prob. Code §§ 8002(a)(3), 12404(c)].

- The amount of the bond, or a statement that all the beneficiaries under the will have waived the bond requirement in writing, and that the waivers are attached (Paragraph 11) [Prob. Code §§ 8481, 8482].

In addition, a photographic copy of the missing person's will, if any, must be attached to the petition [Prob. Code § 8002(b)(1), (2); for further discussion, see § 368.15[3]].

For a discussion of the paragraphs incorporated from § 368.70[1], see § 368.70[2] -[6].

[4] Verification

The petition must be verified [Prob. Code § 1021(a)(1)].

[2] Use of Form

The petition in [1], above, is for use by a member of an absentee's family in seeking to have certain personal property of the absentee set aside to the family of the absentee [see Prob. Code § 3701; § 368.32].

[3] Contents

The petition must contain all of the following [Prob. Code § 3703(a)]:

- In the caption, the absentee's last known military rank or grade and social security account number [Prob. Code § 3703(a)(2)].

- The identity and relationship of petitioner to the absentee and if the property is to be set aside for the benefit of the absentee's spouse, a representation that the spouse is an eligible spouse (Paragraph 1) [see Prob. Code §§ 3700(c), 3702, 3703(a)(5)].

- A statement that the petition is filed under Chapter 5 of Part 8 of Division 4 of the Probate Code, Sections 3700-3720 (Paragraph 2) [Prob. Code § 3703(a)(1)].

- A specific description and estimate of the value of all of the absentee's property, wherever situated, including all sums due the absentee from the United States (Paragraph 4) [Prob. Code § 3703(a)(3)].

- A designation of the property to be set aside (Paragraph 5) [Prob. Code § 3703(a)(4)].

- Facts establishing that setting aside the property is necessary and in the absentee's best interest (Paragraph 6) [Prob. Code § 3703(a)(4)].

- So far as known to petitioner, the names and addresses of all persons comprising the absentee's family (Paragraph 7) [Prob. Code § 3703(a)(6)].

- An allegation whether a guardian or conservator of the estate of any member of the absentee's family has been appointed (Paragraph 8) [Prob. Code § 3703(a)(6)].

In addition, a certificate of missing status must be attached to the petition (see Paragraph 3). The certificate must be received as evidence of that fact, and the court may not determine the status of the absentee inconsistent with the status shown in the certificate [Prob. Code § 3703(b); see Prob. Code § 3700(b)].

[4] Verification

The petition must be verified [Prob. Code § 1021(a)(1)].

Chapter 369 MOBILEHOMES AND MOBILEHOME PARKS
PART I. SCOPE

32-369 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 369.01

§ 369.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses the law in California regarding mobilehomes and mobilehome parks. Applicable federal laws are referred to but not discussed in detail.

The chapter contains the following forms for use in administrative proceedings:

- A letter of complaint to the Department of Housing and Community Development that a mobilehome does not comply with applicable regulations [§ 369.110].

- A petition for hearing on any issue arising in enforcement of the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 (Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.) [§ 369.130].

- A request for a hearing on a proposal to abate a mobilehome as substandard [§ 369.112].

- A letter to an enforcement agency requesting a hearing on a proposal to suspend a mobilehome park operating permit [§ 369.115].

This chapter also contains the following litigation forms:

- A complaint for damages by a mobilehome buyer against the dealer alleging breach of the statutory warranty against substantial defects [§ 369.140].

- A complaint for damages by a mobilehome buyer against a dealer or other seller based on improper escrow practices [§ 369.141].

- A notice of default under a security agreement that provides a security interest in a mobilehome [§ 369.113].

- A notice of belief of abandonment of a mobilehome for use by a secured creditor [§ 369.114].

- A petition for writ of mandate by a mobilehome park developer based on refusal of a local enforcement agency to grant an extension of a construction permit [§ 369.131].

- A petition and supporting declaration for a temporary restraining order and permanent injunction by mobilehome park management against a resident for violating a mobilehome park rule [§ 369.132].

- A notice of intention to commence an action for failure to maintain physical facilities or for reduction in services in a mobilehome park [§ 369.116].

- A complaint for a preliminary and permanent injunction and damages by a mobilehome park resident against the mobilehome park management for failure to maintain the common facilities of the park in good working order [§ 369.142].

- A complaint for restitution and injunction, in a class action, by a mobilehome park tenant against the management alleging unfair competition in violating the Mobilehome Residency Law (Civ. Code § 798 et seq.) [§ 369.143].

This chapter does not cover the law regarding recreational vehicles as such. Standards and requirements for the construction and maintenance of special occupancy parks such as recreational vehicle parks are set forth in the Special Occupancy Park Act [Health & Safety Code § 18860 et seq.; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 2000 et seq. (implementing regulations)]. The Legislature has found that because owners of recreational vehicles are highly mobile and use various facilities throughout the state, there is a need for consistent and uniform statewide regulations for special occupancy parks [Health & Safety Code § 18863]. Accordingly, the Legislature removed provisions addressing special occupancy parks from the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.]. Those amendments to the Mobilehome Parks Act and the adoption of the Special Occupancy Parks Act are operative on January 1, 2004 [see 2002 Stats., ch. 1038, § 6].

The Special Occupancy Park Act imposes substantially similar requirements as the Mobilehome Parks Act. Tenancies in recreational vehicle parks are addressed in the Recreational Vehicle Park Occupancy Law [Civ. Code § 799.20 et seq.].

This chapter also does not cover the law regarding factory-built housing, also called modular housing. Such housing units may sometimes be physically indistinguishable (except for lacking an undercarriage of axles and wheels) from mobilehomes; indeed, some manufacturers produce both products from the same factory, and units that are mounted on running gear become mobilehomes. The essential difference is that factory-built housing is designed for installation on a permanent foundation, not to be moved once installed; and the Legislature's recognition of this difference is manifest in the existence of separate laws [Health & Safety Code §§ 18000 et seq. (Manufactured Housing Act of 1980), 18200 et seq. (Mobilehome Parks Law), 19960 et seq. (California Factory-Built Housing Law)] that are mutually exclusive [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18008, 18211, 19971; see also 42 U.S.C. § 5403(f) (excluding modular housing from coverage of National Mobile Home Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Governing Laws, Definitions, and Actions and Proceedings

32-369 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 369.11

§ 369.11 Definitions

[1] Mobilehome

[a] Common Usage

"Mobilehome" has any of several meanings, depending on what law is being cited [see [b]-[h], below]. In common usage it means a trailer that is used as a permanent dwelling, is usually connected to utilities, and is designed without a permanent foundation [Webster's (8th ed.) New Collegiate Dictionary (1977)].

[b] National Manufactured Home Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974

In the National Manufactured Home Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 [42 U.S.C. § 5401 et seq.] and implementing regulations [24 C.F.R. Parts 3280, 3282], "mobilehome" (spelled "mobile home") means a structure, transportable in one or more sections, which is eight body feet or more in width and is 32 body feet or more in length, and which is built on a permanent chassis and designed to be used as a dwelling unit, with or without a permanent foundation, when connected to the required utilities, and includes the plumbing, heating, air conditioning, and electrical systems contained therein [42 U.S.C. § 5402]. "Dwelling unit" means one or more habitable rooms that are designed to be occupied by one family with facilities for living, sleeping, cooking, and eating [24 C.F.R. § 3280.2].

"Mobilehome" does not include a structure (commonly called a modular house) (1) designed only for erection or installation on a site-built permanent foundation; (2) designed not to be moved once so erected or installed; (3) designed and manufactured to comply with appropriate national, state, or local standards; (4) not intended, to the manufacturer's knowledge, to be used other than on a site-built permanent foundation [see 42 U.S.C. § 5403(h)].

[c] Manufactured Housing Act of 1980; Mobilehome Parks Act; Miscellaneous Laws

The Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] and its implementing regulations [25 Cal. Code. Reg. § 1000 et seq.] apply the definitions of "manufactured housing" and "mobilehomes" set forth in the Manufactured Housing Act [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.]. In 2007, the Legislature amended the Manufactured Housing Act to clarify the distinctions between mobilehomes and manufactured housing [see Health & Safety Code § 18000(b)(4) (changes to Act clarifying meaning of terms "mobilehomes" and "manufactured homes" not intended to effect any substantive change with respect to the treatment of those housing products or to the consumer protections provided for those housing products)]. The Legislature declared that all single-family factory-constructed housing built on or after June 15, 1976, that is in compliance with the standards of the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development promulgated under the Federal National Manufactured Housing Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 [42 U.S.C.§ 5401 et seq.] is manufactured housing or manufactured homes, not "mobilehomes" [Health & Safety Code § 18000(b)]. However, if any codified provision of state law, by its context, requires that the term "mobilehome" applies to mobilehomes or manufactured homes without regard to the date of construction, the codified provision will apply to both mobilehomes, as defined under Health & Safety Code § 18008(a), and manufactured homes, as defined under Health & Safety Code § 18007 [Health & Safety Code § 18008(b)].

Under the Manufactured Housing Act, "mobilehome" means a structure that was constructed prior to June 15, 1976 [Health & Safety Code § 18008] and meets the requirements for a "manufactured home" set forth in Health & Safety Code § 18007. "Mobilehome" does not include a commercial modular [see Health & Safety Code § 18001.8], factory-built housing [see Health & Safety Code § 19971], a manufactured home [see Health & Safety Code § 18007], a multifamily manufactured home [see Health & Safety Code § 18008.7], or a recreational vehicle [see Health & Safety Code § 18010; Health & Safety Code § 18008(a)].

"Manufactured home" means a structure that was constructed on or after June 15, 1976, is transportable in one or more sections, is eight body feet or more in width, or 40 body feet or more in length, in the traveling mode, or, when erected on site, is 320 or more square feet, is built on a permanent chassis and designed to be used as a single-family dwelling with or without a foundation when connected to the required utilities, and includes the plumbing, heating, air conditioning, and electrical systems contained therein [Health & Safety Code § 18007]. "Manufactured home" includes any structure that meets all of the requirements except the size requirements and with respect to which the manufacturer voluntarily files a certification and complies with the standards established under the National Manufactured Housing Construction and Safety Act of 1974 [Health & Safety Code § 18007; see [b], above].

For the most part, provisions of law applicable to manufactured homes also apply equally to multiunit manufactured homes [see Health & Safety Code § 18008.7(c); see also Health & Safety Code § 18008.7(a) ("multiunit manufactured home" defined); Health & Safety Code § 18008.7(d)(3) ("multiunit manufactured housing" has the same meaning as "multifamily manufactured home")].

"Recreational vehicle" means a motorhome, travel trailer, truck camper, or camping trailer, with or without motive power, designed for human habitation for recreational or emergency occupancy, that meets designated criteria for size, chassis, and other characteristics [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18010 (Manufactured Housing Act of 1980), 18285.5 (Mobilehome Parks Act)]. "Recreational vehicle" also means a "park trailer," which is a trailer designed for human habitation for recreational or seasonal use only that meets designated criteria for size, chassis, and other characteristics [Health & Safety Code §§ 18009.3, 18010]. Standards and requirements for the construction and maintenance of special occupancy parks such as recreational vehicle parks are set forth in the Special Occupancy Park Act [Health & Safety Code § 18860 et seq.; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 2000 et seq. (implementing regulations)]. A "commercial coach" or "commercial modular" means a structure transportable in one or more sections, designed and equipped for human occupancy for industrial, professional, or commercial purposes and includes a trailer coach [Health & Safety Code §§ 18001.8, 18012.5, 18218].

This also is the meaning of "mobilehome" in the following laws (and implementing regulations, if any):

- The Contractors' State License Law, Bus. & Prof. Code § 7000 et seq. [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7027];
- Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 5800-5842, concerning local property taxation of mobilehomes;

- Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6012.8(b), 6012.9(b), and 6379, concerning sales and use taxes; and
- Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 10759.5 and 10785, concerning vehicle license fees.

[d] Mobilehome Warranties Law

In the mobilehome warranties law [Civ. Code § 1797 et seq.], "mobilehome" and "manufactured home" are defined in accordance with Health & Safety Code §§ 18007 and 18008, which are discussed in [c], above.

[e] Mobilehome Residency Law

In the Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.], "mobilehome" means a structure designed for human habitation and for being moved on a street or highway under a permit [Civ. Code § 798.3; see § 369.40]. "Mobilehome" includes a manufactured home, as defined in Health & Safety Code § 18007, and a mobilehome as defined in Health & Safety Code § 18008. "Mobilehome" generally does not include a recreational vehicle as defined in Health & Safety Code § 18010 or a commercial coach as defined in Health & Safety Code § 18218 [Civ. Code § 798.3(a)]. "Mobilehome" does include any trailer or other recreational vehicle of any type defined in Health & Safety Code § 18010 (except a motor home, truck camper, or camping trailer) that is used for human habitation, if the trailer or other recreational vehicle occupied a mobilehome site in a mobilehome park either (1) on November 15, 1992, under a rental agreement with a term of one month or longer, and before 1991 [Civ. Code § 798.3(b)(1)], or (2) for nine or more months continuously beginning on or after November 15, 1992 [Civ. Code § 798.3(b)(2)]. However, "mobilehome" does not include a trailer or other recreational vehicle located in a recreational vehicle park subject to the Recreational Vehicle Park Occupancy Law [Civ. Code § 799.20 et seq.].

[f] Real Estate Law

In Bus. & Prof. Code § 10130 et seq. (real estate regulations), "mobilehome" means a structure transportable in one or more sections, designed and equipped to contain not more than two dwelling units to be used with or without a foundation system. Mobilehome in this sense does not include a recreational vehicle as defined in Health & Safety Code § 18010, a commercial modular as defined in Health & Safety Code § 18001.8, or factory-built housing as defined in Health & Safety Code § 19971 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.6(c)].

[g] Vehicle Code

As used in the Vehicle Code, a mobilehome is a structure as defined in Health & Safety Code § 18008 [see § 369.11[1][c]]. For the purposes of enforcing highway safety laws and regulations, a mobilehome is a trailer coach that is in excess of 102 inches in width, or in excess of 40 feet in overall length measured from the foremost point of the trailer hitch to the rear extremity of the trailer [Veh. Code § 396].

"Trailer coach" means a vehicle, other than a motor vehicle, designed for human habitation, or human occupancy for industrial, professional, or commercial purposes, for carrying property on its own structure, and for being drawn by a motor vehicle, and includes a "park trailer" [Veh. Code § 635]; "vehicle" means a device by which any person or property may be propelled, moved, or drawn on a highway, excepting a device moved exclusively by human power or used exclusively on stationary rails or tracks [Veh. Code § 670]; and "motor vehicle" means a vehicle that is self-propelled and that is not a self-propelled wheelchair, motorized tricycle, or motorized quadricycle operated by a person who, by reason of physical disability, is otherwise unable to move about as a pedestrian [Veh. Code § 415].

In the Veterans Farm and Home Purchase Act of 1943 [Mil. & Vet. Code § 985 et seq.], "mobilehome" means a parcel of real estate, or an undivided interest in common in a portion of a parcel of real estate, on which is situated a mobilehome that will, in the opinion of the Department of Veterans Affairs, suit the needs of the purchaser and his or her dependents as a place of abode and meet all requirements of local governmental jurisdictions [Mil. & Vet. Code § 985(k)].

[2] Mobilehome Park

[a] Mobilehome Parks Act

In the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] and implementing regulations [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1000 et seq.], "mobilehome park" means an area or tract of land where two or more mobilehome lots are rented or leased, or were formerly held out for rent or lease and later converted to a subdivision, cooperative, condominium, or other form of resident ownership, to accommodate manufactured homes, mobilehomes, or recreational vehicles used for human habitation [Health & Safety Code § 18214(a)].

[b] Mobilehome Residency Law

In the Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.], "mobilehome park" means an area of land where two or more mobilehome sites are rented, or held out for rent, to accommodate mobilehomes [see [1][e], above] used for human habitation [Civ. Code § 798.4].

[3] Mobilehome Accessory Building or Structure

In the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] and implementing regulations [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1000 et seq.], "mobilehome accessory building or structure" means any awning, cabana, ramada, storage cabinet, storage building, garage, carport, fence, windbreak or porch, or any residential building or structures established for the use of the occupant of a manufactured home, mobilehome, or recreational vehicle on a lot [Health & Safety Code § 18213; see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1002 (definitions of awning, cabana, ramada, storage cabinet, storage building, garage, carport, fence, windbreak, and porch)].

[4] Enforcement Agency

"Enforcement agency" is used in the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] and implementing regulations [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1000 et seq.] to mean the following:

- Regarding mobilehomes [see [1], above] and mobilehome accessory buildings and structures located outside a mobilehome park [see [3], above], either the city or county having jurisdiction over the area where the mobilehome or accessory building or structure is located, or the Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) if the city or county fails to act [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18207, 18300(d), (f)]; and

- Regarding mobilehome parks and the mobilehomes, accessory buildings and structures, and other buildings and structures in mobilehome parks, either (1) the city or county where the mobilehome park is located, if it has assumed enforcement responsibility under Health & Safety Code § 18300, or the DHCD if the city or county fails to act; or (2) the DHCD, if the city or county where the mobilehome park is located has not assumed or has canceled its assumption of enforcement responsibility [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18207, 18300].

The Department may delegate its enforcement authority to a local building department or health department of any city, county, or city and county, if (1) the delegation is necessary to provide prompt and effective recovery assistance or services during or immediately following a disaster declared by the Governor, (2) the local building or health department requests the authority and that request is approved by the governing body having jurisdiction over the local building or health department, and (3) the Department has determined that the local building department or health department possesses the knowledge and expertise necessary to administer the delegated responsibilities [Health & Safety Code § 18307(a)]. The delegation of authority may be limited to specific geographic areas or specific mobilehome parks or recreational vehicle parks at the Department's sole discretion [Health & Safety Code § 18307(b)]. The delegation is limited to a time period to be established by the Department, not to exceed 60 days [Health & Safety Code § 18307(b)].

[5] Legal Owner

The term "legal owner" as used in the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.] means a person holding a security interest in a manufactured home, mobilehome, commercial coach, floating home, or truck camper perfected by filing the appropriate documents with the Department of Housing and Community Development in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 18080.7 if the person is entitled to the designation, as provided in Health & Safety Code §§ 18085-18093.5, relating to applications for original registration and title, or Health & Safety Code §§ 18098-18106, relating to amendments, transfers, and transactions [Health & Safety Code § 18005.8].

A lien created under Health & Safety Code § 18080.9 (lien of mobilehome park owner for unpaid rent) is not a security interest for purposes of the definition of "legal owner" [Health & Safety Code § 18005.8].

[6] Registered Owner

The term "registered owner" as used in the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.] means a person registered by the Department of Housing and Community Development as the owner of a manufactured home, mobilehome, commercial coach, or truck camper [Health & Safety Code § 18009.5].

[7] Mobilehome Owner

The term "mobilehome owner" or "mobilehome owners" as used in the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] means the occupant of the manufactured home or mobilehome, or the registered owner of the manufactured home or mobilehome, if different from the occupant [Health & Safety Code § 18400.4].

Chapter 369 MOBILEHOMES AND MOBILEHOME PARKS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Governing Laws, Definitions, and Actions and Proceedings

32-369 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 369.12

§ 369.12 Actions and Proceedings

[1] Availability of Actions, Generally

Using trailers as permanent residences instead of alternatives to hotels and motels did not begin to gain wide acceptance until the 1950's, when manufacturers started producing mobilehomes. The concept of a mobilehome was introduced in California law in 1961 when statutes governing trailer coaches and auto trailer camps were replaced with statutes governing mobilehomes and mobilehome parks [see 1955 Stats., ch. 91, § 2; 1961 Stats., ch. 2176, § 2]. The things that formerly were called trailers are now called recreational vehicles [see Health & Safety Code § 18010].

Many of the possible kinds of actions and proceedings involving mobilehomes and mobilehome parks are not fully represented in reported California cases. These include the following:

- Actions for damages for personal injury or wrongful death;
- Actions for damages and/or restitution based on breach of warranty;
- Actions for damages based on products liability; and
- Actions for abatement of nuisance, and administrative mandate proceedings for review of regulatory law enforcement by responsible agencies.

This chapter contains a form of complaint for damages based on breach of the warranty prescribed by the mobilehome warranties law [Civ. Code §§ 1797-1797.7; see § 369.140]. As for the other actions and proceedings mentioned, the fact that a mobilehome or mobilehome park is involved would not make the action or proceeding specially different from one involving any other item of personal property or type of real property. Forms for general use illustrated in other chapters in this set [see § 369.02] may be used.

[2] Manufactured Home Recovery Fund

The Manufactured Home Recovery Fund provides for reimbursement of the actual and direct loss of persons who purchased or sold a manufactured home and obtained a final judgment against a manufactured home manufacturer or dealer, or a salesperson or other seller or purchaser, or an administrative determination against a bankrupt person or entity on the grounds of failure to honor a warranty, fraud, willful misrepresentation, conversion, willful violation of any provision of the Manufactured Housing Act [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.], or regulations adopted pursuant to the Act, or the provisions governing mobilehome warranties set forth in Civ. Code § 1797 et seq. [Health & Safety Code § 18070.3(a), (b)]. The total claim may not exceed the unreimbursed actual loss, and the total payment relating to a single transaction may not exceed $75,000 [Health & Safety Code § 18070.3(c)].

Before making a claim, the claimant must have diligently pursued collection efforts against all assets of the judgment debtor, established that he or she is judgment proof, or have provided evidence that the costs of collection are likely to be in excess of the amounts that could be collected. This evidence may include (1) a description of the searches and inquiries conducted by or on behalf of the claimant with regard to the judgment debtor's assets liable to be sold or applied to the judgment's satisfaction, (2) an itemized valuation of the assets discovered, and (3) the results of actions by the claimant to have assets applied to satisfy the judgment [Health & Safety Code § 18070.3(d)(1)]. If the claim is not based on a final judgment, the claimant must present evidence that either (1) the licensee is or has been the subject of bankruptcy proceedings and has assigned to the department any interest in the actual and direct loss in the amount that the claimant recovers from the fund, or (2) the claim is consistent with the Act and the claimant had presented evidence that the debtor is judgment proof or that the costs of collection are likely to be in excess of the amounts that could be collected [Health & Safety Code § 18070.3(d)(2)]. If the claim is based on a violation of a provision within a warranty [see Civ. Code § 1797 et seq.], the claimant must provide evidence that he or she has been denied full compensation or correction under the warranty [Health & Safety Code § 18070.3(d)(3)].

A claim based on a final judgment must be filed with the Department of Housing and Community Development within two years of the date of the judgment [Health & Safety Code § 18070.3(e)(1)]. If the claim is not based on a final judgment, the claim must be filed within two years from the termination of bankruptcy proceedings or two years from the date of sale [see Health & Safety Code § 18070.2(a) (determining sale date)], or within two years of discovery of the violations causing actual and direct losses pursuant to the Act, but no longer than five years after the date of sale, whichever event occurs later [Health & Safety Code § 18070.3(e)(2)].

[3] Negligence Actions

Laws governing mobilehomes and mobilehome parks [see § 369.10] establish numerous standards and permit requirements for manufacturing, selling, renting, installing, using, and occupying mobilehomes, for locating, constructing, and operating mobilehome parks, and for locating, constructing, and using mobilehome accessory buildings and structures, and for moving large mobilehomes on streets and highways.

These standards and permit requirements are significant in any case involving negligence, because the failure of a person to exercise due care is presumed if the following requirements are met [Evid. Code § 669(a)]:

- The person violated a statute, ordinance, or regulation of a public entity;
- The violation proximately caused death or injury to person or property;
- The death or injury resulted from an occurrence the nature of which the statute, ordinance, or regulation was designed to prevent; and
- The person suffering the death or the injury to person or property was one of the class of persons for whose protection the statute, ordinance, or regulation was adopted.

This presumption affects the burden of proof [Evid. Code § 660]. It is a rebuttable presumption [Evid. Code § 601; see Evid. Code § 669(b), discussed below]. The effect of the presumption is to impose on the party against whom it operates--the person who violated the statute, ordinance, or regulation--the burden of proof as to the nonexistence of the presumed fact (that is, the burden of proving no failure to exercise due care) [Evid. Code § 606].

The presumption of failure to exercise due care may be rebutted (that is, the burden of proving no failure to exercise due care insofar as the violation is concerned may be carried) by proof that the person violating the statute, ordinance, or regulation did what might reasonably be expected of a person of ordinary prudence, acting under similar circumstances, who desired to comply with the law [Evid. Code § 669(b)(1)]. (There is also a prescribed method of rebuttal when the violator is a child--that is, a minor--which is not applicable here [see Evid. Code § 669(b)(2)].)

If the plaintiff proves the four facts listed in Evid. Code § 669(a), above, the defendant's negligence is established, as a matter of law, until and unless the defendant makes the proof required by Evid. Code § 669(b)(1), above. If the defendant does make that proof, the effect is not exculpation of the defendant but restoration of the plaintiff's original burden to prove that the defendant was negligent. This must be done, if at all, in the usual way of persuading the trier of fact, on evidence, that the defendant departed from the "reasonable person" standard.

Compliance with a prescribed standard is not a defense in a negligence action. The defendant may have complied with an applicable standard but still may have departed from the conduct of a reasonable person in the circumstances. Therefore, pleading compliance with a standard, in the form of an affirmative defense, would be ineffective and improper. Evidence of compliance is properly admissible in support of a denial of negligence (that is, to rebut the plaintiff's case-in-chief), since the trier of fact may consider to what extent compliance with an applicable standard is the measure of the conduct of a reasonable person in the circumstances.

Accordingly, some statutes prescribing standards expressly state that compliance does not relieve a person from liability at common law or under statute (for negligence) [see, e.g., 42 U.S.C. § 5401 et seq. (National Manufactured Home Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974); 42 U.S.C. § 5409(c); 15 U.S.C. § 2051 et seq. (Consumer Product Safety Act of 1972); 15 U.S.C. § 2074(a)].

For detailed coverage of negligence actions, including numerous complaints setting forth causes of action in negligence, see Ch. 380, Negligence .

[4] Products Liability Actions

The theory of products liability is that the distributor of a thing in the marketplace is liable (without any consideration of negligence or the conduct of a reasonable person in the circumstances) if the thing is dangerously defective--that is, designed and/or made so as to be dangerous to human beings--and the defect proximately causes injury or death.

In a products liability action the principal issue is whether the thing in question was dangerously defective. If the thing is the subject of statutes or regulations prescribing standards of quality and workmanship, such as a mobilehome [see § 369.20], those standards define conditions that are dangerously defective regarding aspects of the thing that are covered by the standard. For example, a mobilehome electrical wiring system that does not meet or exceed applicable standards [see 24 C.F.R. §§ 3280.801-3280.816] will probably be considered "dangerously defective" if the condition of the system proximately causes injury or death [see Frumer & Friedman, Products Liability, § 16A[4][i] (Matthew Bender)].

For detailed coverage of products liability generally, see Ch. 460, Products Liability .

[5] Breach of Warranty Actions

[a] Types of Warranties

Standards of quality and workmanship for mobilehomes prescribed by law [see § 369.20] may define the scope of a warranty by the manufacturer or seller, other than express warranties made at the option of the manufacturer or seller. There are three types of warranties that may cover a mobilehome:

- The implied warranty of mechantability [see [b], below];
- The implied warranty of fitness for purpose [see [c], below]; and
- Certain statutory warranties [see [d], below].

[b] Implied Warranty of Merchantability

Unless excluded or modified pursuant to Com. Code § 2316, a warranty that the mobilehome is "merchantable" is implied in a contract of sale if the seller is a merchant with regard to mobilehomes [Com. Code § 2314(1)]. The minimum tests of merchantability are listed in Com. Code § 2314(2). By inference from some of the tests listed--pass without objection in the trade under the contract description" and "fit for the ordinary purposes for which such goods are used" for instance--as well as by deduction from the fact that nonconforming mobilehomes are legally unsaleable, it is clear that a mobilehome not meeting or exceeding prescribed standards is not "merchantable." A manufacturer sells as a "merchant" [see Com. Code § 2104(1)]; therefore, this warranty may exist in a sale by a manufacturer to a dealer. It also may exist in a sale by a dealer, whether the buyer is another dealer or a consumer. The warranty does not exist when the seller is not a merchant with regard to mobilehomes.

[c] Implied Warranty of Fitness for Purpose

When the seller at the time of contracting has reason to know any particular purpose for which the mobilehome is required and that the buyer is relying on the seller's skill or judgment to select or furnish a suitable mobilehome, there is unless excluded or modified under Com. Code § 2316 an implied warranty that the mobilehome must be fit for such purpose [see Com. Code § 2315]. "Fitness" for the buyer's purpose may be measured by reference to standards of quality and workmanship prescribed by law, in the same way that a "dangerous defect" may be discovered for purposes of products liability. That is, a mobilehome not meeting or exceeding prescribed standards is not lawfully saleable [see generally §§ 369.30 -369.34], and so is not "fit" for the purpose of a buyer who buys for resale (such as, a dealer). Also a mobilehome not meeting or exceeding prescribed standards is not lawfully useable as a place of habitation [see § 369.39], hence it is not "fit" for the purpose of a buyer who intends to live in it (such as, a "consumer").

[d] Statutory Warranty

Manufacturers and dealers of mobilehomes [see § 369.11[1][c]] are required by law to give buyers a one-year warranty that the mobilehome is "free from any substantial defects in materials or workmanship" [Civ. Code § 1797.3(a); see § 369.33[4]]. There is no applicable special definition of "substantial defects." Probably a mobilehome not meeting or exceeding prescribed standards would not conform to this warranty. On the other hand, since only minimum standards are prescribed, a mobilehome conforming to those standards is not necessarily free from substantial defects.

In retail sales of mobilehomes--that is, sales by dealers--to individuals who buy primarily for personal, family, or household purposes, the foregoing warranties of merchantability and fitness for purpose arise under, and the buyer's rights are governed by, the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act [Civ. Code §§ 1790-1795.7]. The warranties under this Act are the same as those that arise under the Commercial Code [see Civ. Code §§ 1791.1, 1792-1792.2], although the method of exclusion or modification is different [see Civ. Code § 1792.4], and the buyer has the same rights and remedies under the Act as under the Commercial Code [see Civ. Code § 1791.1(d); Com. Code §§ 2601-2616 (breach, repudiation, and excuse), 2701-2725 (remedies)]. In addition, a prevailing buyer is entitled to recover reasonable costs and attorney's fees and may recover a civil penalty equal to two times actual damages for willful breach of an express warranty [Civ. Code § 1794(c) (penalty), (d) (costs and attorney's fees); see Troensegaard v. Silvercrest Industries, Inc. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 218, 221, 226-228, 220 Cal. Rptr. 712 (plaintiff may not recover both civil penalty under Civ. Code § 1794(c) and punitive damages under Civ. Code § 3294)]. Moreover, under the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act the implied warranty of merchantability also goes from the manufacturer directly to the retail buyer notwithstanding intermediate sales from manufacturer to dealer and/or from wholesaler to retailer [see Civ. Code § 1792].

For discussions of, and forms for use in, actions based on breach of warranty under the Commercial Code and the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act, see Ch. 500, Sales: Sales Under the Commercial Code . For a form of complaint for damages based on breach of the statutory warranty against substantial defects, see § 369.140.

It should be noted that motorhomes meeting the definition of a "recreational vehicle" are specifically excluded from coverage by the Manufactured Housing Act and the Mobilehome Parks Act [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18008, 18010 (Manufactured Housing Act), 18211, 18285.5 (Mobilehome Parks Act); see also § 369.11[1][c]]. Nevertheless, the so-called "Lemon Law" relating to manufacturers' obligations to conform new motor vehicles to express warranties [see Civ. Code § 1793.22] does apply to the chassis, chassis cab, and that portion of a motorhome devoted to its propulsion, but not to any portion designed, used, or maintained primarily for human habitation [Civ. Code § 1793.22(e)(2); see Civ. Code § 1793.22(e)(3) (defining "motorhome")]. The Lemon Law is discussed in Ch. 91, Automobiles: Actions Involving Defects and Repairs , and in Ch. 502, Sales: Warranties .

[6] Attorney's Fees and Costs

In any action arising out of the provisions of the Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.], the prevailing party is entitled to reasonable attorney's fees and costs. A party is a "prevailing party" in this context if the judgment is rendered in his or her favor or when the litigation is dismissed in his or her favor before or during the trial, unless the parties otherwise agree in the settlement or compromise [Civ. Code § 798.85].

Attorney's fees and costs are recoverable by a prevailing buyer in actions under the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act [Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.; see Civ. Code § 1794(b)], and Health & Safety Code § 18035(m) imposing an escrow requirement for dealer sales of mobilehomes [see § 369.33[2]].

[7] Penalties and Assured Minimum Damages

In the event a homeowner or former homeowner of a mobilehome park [see § 369.11[2][b]] is the prevailing party in a civil action, including a small claims court action, against the owner of a mobilehome park to enforce his or her rights under the Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.], the homeowner, in addition to damages afforded by law, may, in the court's discretion, be awarded an amount not to exceed $2,000 for each willful violation by the management [Civ. Code § 798.86(a)]. The term "willful" refers to intentional conduct undertaken with knowledge or consciousness of its probable results. For purposes of imposing a penalty under § 798.86, "willful" conduct does not require a purpose or specific intent to bring about a result, but does require more than negligence or accidental conduct [Patarak v. Williams (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 826, 830, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 381 (penalty properly imposed on finding that landlord willfully failed to maintain septic system with knowledge or consciousness that it would probably fail with malodorous and unsanitary consequences)].

A prevailing homeowner may be awarded either the statutory penalty under Civ. Code § 798.86 or punitive damages under Civ. Code § 3294 [Civ. Code § 798.86(b)]. Civ. Code § 798.86 was amended by 2003 Stats., ch. 98 (AB 693) to effectively abrogate the holding in De Anza Santa Cruz Mobile Estates Homeowners Assn. v. De Anza Santa Cruz Mobile Estates (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 890, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 708 that punitive damages could not be recovered in addition to damages for willful violations under Civ. Code § 798.86.

A penalty payable to the injured party or assured minimum damages may also be recoverable in actions under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act [Civ. Code § 1750 et seq.; see Civ. Code § 1780(a)(1) (minimum total award of damages in class action as not to be less than $1,000)], the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act [Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.; see Civ. Code § 1794 (civil penalty equal to two times actual damages, plus reasonable costs and attorney's fees, for willful violations)], and Health & Safety Code § 18035(i) imposing an escrow requirement for dealer sales of mobilehomes [see § 369.33[2]].

A civil penalty may be exacted for violation of 42 U.S.C. § 5409 (part of the National Manufactured Home Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 [42 U.S.C. § 5401 et seq.]) [Health & Safety Code § 18021(a)] or for violation of the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.; Health & Safety Code § 18700].

[8] Notice of Intent to Commence Action Against Mobilehome Park

No action based on the alleged failure of the management of a mobilehome park to maintain the physical improvements in the common facilities in good working order or condition, or alleged reduction in service, may be commenced by a homeowner unless the management has been given at least 30 days prior notice of the intention to commence the action [Civ. Code § 798.84(a)].

The notice must be in writing, signed by the homeowner or homeowners making the allegations, and must notify the management of the basis of the claim, the specific allegations, and the remedies requested. A notice by one homeowner is deemed to be sufficient notice of the specific allegation to the management of the park by all of the homeowners in the park [Civ. Code § 798.84(b)]. For a form on notice of intention to commence an action by homeowners, see § 369.116.

Management is deemed to be on notice of an alleged failure to maintain the physical improvements in the common facilities in good working order or condition or of an alleged reduction in services on substantial compliance by the homeowner or homeowners with the above provisions, or when management has been notified of the alleged failure to maintain or the alleged reduction in service by a state or local agency [Civ. Code § 798.84(d)].

If the notice is served within 30 days of the expiration of the applicable statute of limitations, the time for the commencement of the action is extended 30 days from the service of the notice [Civ. Code § 798.84(e)]. The notice provision does not apply to actions for personal injury or wrongful death [Civ. Code § 798.84(f)].

32-369 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 369.20

§ 369.20 Standards for Manufacturing Mobilehomes

[1] Prescribed Standards

The Legislature has directed the Department of Housing and Community Development to prescribe standards for materials and methods used in manufacturing mobilehomes [see § 369.11[1][c]] for sale, rent, or lease in California, for the following purposes:

- To protect the health and safety of the occupants and the public [Health & Safety Code § 18028];

- For the protection of life and property against fire in mobilehomes [Health & Safety Code § 18029.5]; and

- To protect the health and safety of the people of California from dangers inherent in the use of substandard and unsafe plumbing, heat-producing, and electrical equipment and installations in mobilehomes [Health & Safety Code § 18025].

Moreover, the Legislature has mandated that all mobilehomes manufactured on or after September 22, 1976, must comply with the National Manufactured Home Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 [42 U.S.C. § 5401 et seq.; see 1976 Stats., ch. 1194]. Accordingly, the Department has provided as follows [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4050]:

- Federal standards [see 24 C.F.R. Part 3280] relating to construction and fire safety apply to all mobilehomes manufactured on or after June 15, 1976, as well as to those bearing or required to bear a Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) label [see § 369.21[7]].

- Certain standards of the National Fire Protection Association and the American National Standards Institute relating to construction and fire safety apply to all mobilehomes manufactured between September 15, 1971, and June 14, 1976, and sold or offered for sale, rent, or lease in California.

- Federal standards relating to construction and fire safety are applicable to the alteration or conversion of any construction or fire safety equipment or installations in any mobilehome manufactured after September 15, 1971, bearing or required to bear a HUD insignia [see § 369.21] or HUD label.

- Federal standards relating to construction and fire safety are applicable to any addition to a mobilehome manufactured after September 1, 1958, bearing or required to bear a HUD insignia or HUD label.

- Federal standards relating to plumbing, heating, cooling, fuel-burning, and electrical equipment and installations apply to any mobilehome manufactured after September 1, 1958, bearing or required to bear a HUD insignia or HUD label.

- Federal standards relating to plumbing, heating, cooling, fuel-burning, and electrical equipment and installations are applicable to the alteration, conversion, or addition of any such equipment or installations in any mobilehome manufactured after September 1, 1958, bearing or required to bear a HUD insignia or HUD label.

[2] Alternatives to Prescribed Standards

Materials, appliances, installations, devices, arrangements, and methods of construction (manufacture) not specifically prescribed by the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.] and implementing regulations [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4000 et seq.] may be used if the Department of Housing and Community Development determines that they are equivalent in quality, strength, effectiveness, fire resistance, durability, safety, and protection of life and health to those which are prescribed [Health & Safety Code § 18016(a), (b)].

[3] Enforcement Powers

The Department of Housing and Community Development may conduct such inspections and investigations as may be necessary to secure enforcement of the provisions of the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.] and implementing regulations [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4000 et seq.]. For the purposes of enforcement, persons duly designated by the director of the Department, on presenting appropriate credentials to the owner, operator, or agent in charge, may (1) enter, at any reasonable time and without advance notice, any factory, warehouse, sales lot, or establishment in which mobilehomes are manufactured, stored, held for sale, sold, or offered for sale, rent, or lease, and (2) inspect, at any reasonable time and within reasonable limits and in a reasonable manner, any factory, warehouse, sales lot, or establishment, and may inspect such books, papers, records, and documents as are necessary to ensure compliance with the provisions of the mobilehomes law [Health & Safety Code § 18025.5(d)].

Any officer, agent, or employee of the Department (1) is authorized to enter any premises where mobilehomes are manufactured, sold, or offered for sale, rent, or lease, (2) may examine any records, and (3) may inspect any mobilehomes, equipment, or installations to ensure compliance with the provisions of 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 3100 et seq. and 24 C.F.R. Part 3280. When it becomes necessary to determine compliance, he or she may require that a portion or portions of the mobilehome be removed or exposed in order that an inspection or required tests be made [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4005].

[4] Complaint of Violation

Any owner of a mobilehome bearing or required to bear a Department of Housing and Community Development insignia [see § 369.21] or HUD label [see § 369.21[7]] may file a written complaint with the Department setting forth the items that the owner believes do not comply with the (applicable) provisions of 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4000 et seq. [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4013.5]. The investigation of the complaint should be conducted with the aim of correcting the violations [see § 369.110[2], [3]].

The provisions of 24 C.F.R. § 3282.401 et seq. set forth an elaborate procedure to deal with consumer's complaints about those mobilehomes which are subject to the provisions of federal law [see § 369.21[6]].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Manufacture of Mobilehomes

32-369 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 369.21

§ 369.21 Insignia of Approval

[1] General Requirement

The mobilehomes law provides that all mobilehomes [see § 369.11[1][c]] which are sold, offered for sale, rented, or leased within this state must bear an insignia of approval issued by the Department of Housing and Community Development to indicate compliance with the regulations (prescribing standards) of the Commission of Housing and Community Development (prescribing standards), adopted pursuant to the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980, which were in effect on the date of manufacture of the mobilehome [Health & Safety Code § 18026]. This requirement does not, however, apply to mobilehomes manufactured on or after June 15, 1976, which bear HUD labels [see [7], below]. Violation is a misdemeanor [Health & Safety Code § 18020.5(a)].

[2] Manufacture Before September 1, 1958

Mobilehomes manufactured in California before September 1, 1958, were not subject to any standards prescribed by law. Regulations prescribing standards and for an insignia of approval were first required by 1957 Stats., ch. 2093, applicable to mobilehomes manufactured after July 1, 1958. This date was later changed to September 1, 1958 [1958 Stats., 1st Ex Sess, Ch. 89].

[3] Manufacture From September 1, 1958, to June 15, 1976

Any person selling, offering for sale, renting, or leasing any mobilehome manufactured between September 2, 1958, and June 15, 1976, must obtain an insignia of approval for the mobilehome from the Department of Housing and Community Development before selling, offering for sale, renting, or leasing the mobilehome [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4034.5(a); see [5][b], below].

[4] Manufacture After June 15, 1976

Mobilehomes manufactured on and after June 15, 1976, bearing HUD labels [see [7], below] are not required to bear Department insignia of approval [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4033(a)(4)].

[5] Inspection

[a] Requests for Inspection

Any person manufacturing, owning, selling, offering for sale, renting, leasing, altering, or converting any mobilehome may request that the Department of Housing and Community Development make an inspection of the mobilehome for approval pursuant to 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 3100 et seq. [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4011(a); see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4011(b)-(i) (procedure)].

Any person selling, offering for sale, renting, leasing, altering, or converting any mobilehome manufactured after September 1, 1958, must request an inspection by the Department in any of the following circumstances [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4010]:

- If the mobilehome does not bear a Department insignia or HUD label [see [7], below];

- When the mobilehome bearing or required to bear a Department insignia or HUD label is to be altered or converted; or

- When a notice requiring corrections [see [c], below] has been given and a reinspection is necessary to determine compliance.

[b] Issuance of Insignia of Approval

If, after a requested or required inspection under 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4010 or 4011 [see [a], above], the mobilehome inspected meets the requirements of 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4000 et seq. [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 4050-4070 (mobilehomes)] and the applicant submits insignia fees pursuant to 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4044, an insignia of approval must be issued for the mobilehome [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4012].

[c] Notice of Violations

When an inspection reveals that a mobilehome bearing or required to bear a Department insignia is in violation of any of the provisions of 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4000 et seq., the Department must serve on the owner, person responsible for violation, or his or her agents, a notice of violations setting forth in what regard the provisions of 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 3000 et seq. have been violated. The Department may also post the mobilehome with a Prohibited Sales Notice. Violations must be corrected within 20 days or such other period of time as may be allowed by the Department, and an inspection must be requested by the person served with the notice of violations (pursuant to 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4010). Should the violations not be corrected within the allotted time, the Department must institute legal and/or administrative actions as necessary to secure compliance and reappropriate the Department's insignia [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4013].

Any person served with a notice of violations must, within 20 days of receipt, notify the Department in writing of the action taken to correct the violations, and may file a request for a hearing pursuant to 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4045 [see § 369.130]. No person served with a notice of violations may move or cause to be moved the mobilehome which is in violation until the Department has been furnished with written notification of the mobilehome's destination and disposition. No person may remove or cause to be removed a Prohibited Sales Notice until authorized to do so by the Department [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4013].

[d] Removal for Violation

In the event that a mobilehome bearing a Department insignia of approval is found in violation of 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 3000 et seq. and a notice of violations has been served pursuant to 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4013 [see [c], above] or 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4013.5 [see § 369.20[4]], the Department may remove the insignia. The Department may not issue a new insignia until the following requirements have been satisfied [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4036]:

- Corrections have been made;
- An inspection has been requested in accordance with 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4010 [see [a], above];
- Inspection and insignia fees have been paid in accordance with 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4044; and
- The mobilehome has been inspected and found in compliance with applicable regulations.

[6] Federal Standards Applicable After September 22, 1976

Manufacturers of mobilehomes as defined in the National Manufacturer Home Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 [42 U.S.C. § 5401 et seq.; see § 369.11[1][b]] are governed by the Act and implementing regulations [24 C.F.R. Parts 3280, 3282]. California manufacturers of mobilehomes as defined in the Mobilehomes-Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.; see § 369.11[1][c]], excluding mobilehomes within the federal definition, are governed by the state law and implementing regulations [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4000 et seq.]. Basically, state law regulates manufacturers of mobilehomes that are less than eight body feet wide or less than 32 body feet long but otherwise would be within the federal definition.

State regulation is actually negligible, however. In 1976 the Legislature amended certain provisions of former Health & Safety Code §§ 18055-18064 [now see Health & Safety Code §§ 18025-18032] by adding the following sentence: "All mobilehomes"--meaning such mobilehomes as would be subject to state regulation--"manufactured on or after [September 22, 1976,] the effective date of the amendments to this section enacted by the Statutes of 1976 shall comply with the National Manufacturer Home Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. § 5401 et seq.)" [1976 Stats., ch. 1194]. The language "shall comply with [the federal law]" is a vague expression of legislative intent but means, at least, that mobilehomes subject to state regulation must be manufactured to meet or exceed federally prescribed standards [24 C.F.R. Part 3280]. Consequently, the Department of Housing and Community Development has repealed its regulations prescribing standards and now provides simply that federal standards apply [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 4050-4070].

The Department of Housing and Community Development appears to adopt the view that the Legislature's intent, although not clearly stated, is to apply federal procedural and enforcement regulations to the manufacture of state-regulated mobilehomes, since the Department has adopted regulations applicable to manufacturers of "mobilehomes subject to Title VI (24 C.F.R.) requirements" (the phrasing varies slightly in some regulations). These regulations apply to mobilehomes subject to the National Mobile Home Construction and Safety Act of 1974, which was enacted as Title VI of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 [Public Law 93-383], and implementing regulations, which are published in Title 24 of the Code of Federal Regulations. In turn, these implementing regulations of the federal Act generally require compliance with federal procedural and enforcement regulations [24 C.F.R. Part 3282].

Therefore, it appears that California manufacturers of mobilehomes that do not fit the federal definition of mobilehome are nevertheless governed by the provisions of the federal law, made applicable by state statute and regulations of the Department of Housing and Community Development.

[7] HUD Label

Manufacturers are required to affix labels to their mobilehomes certifying compliance with federally prescribed standards [24 C.F.R. §§ 3282.205, 3282.362; 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 4009(b), 4031(e), 4032(f), 4034.3]. The label is referred to in state regulations as a "HUD label" (because the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development is charged with enforcement of the federal law) or a "Title VI (24 C.F.R.) label." A dealer may not lawfully sell a mobilehome that is required to bear, but does not bear, a HUD label [see § 369.33].

HUD labels are supplied by enforcement agencies, including the state Department of Housing and Community Development. Manufacturers get small supplies of labels at intervals of two to four weeks. Labels may be withheld, and labels in the manufacturer's hands may be confiscated, if the enforcement agency finds violations of federally prescribed standards in the manufacturing process [see 24 C.F.R. § 3282.362]. Since obtaining labels for its mobilehomes is a vital part of a manufacturer's business, the manufacturer must take immediate steps to reverse an agency's decision to withhold or confiscate labels as provided in federal procedural and enforcement regulations [see 24 C.F.R. §§ 3282.151-3282.156; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4046.7; see also § 369.22].

[8] State Label

A new mobilehome [see § 369.11[1][c]] manufactured on or after January 1, 1977, which is required to be moved under a permit [see § 369.40] and which is displayed for retail sale in California must bear a manufacturer's label stating all of the following [Health & Safety Code § 18032(a)]:

- The make, model, and serial or identification number of the mobilehome;
- The final assembly plant;
- The name and location of the dealer to whom the mobilehome was delivered; and
- The manufacturer's suggested retail price, showing the base price, the price of extra construction features and materials, and whether the price includes the towbar, wheels, wheel hubs, and axles.

The retail purchaser may remove this label, but removal or alteration of it by a dealer is a misdemeanor [Health & Safety Code § 18032(b)].

§ 369.22 Administrative Proceedings

[1] Application of Procedural Regulations

Administrative proceedings involving manufacturers of mobilehomes and agencies participating in enforcement of standards are governed by 24 C.F.R. §§ 3282.151-3282.156 [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4046.7]. Those procedural regulations apply in numerous specified situations [see 24 C.F.R. § 3282.151], including the following:

- Whenever the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development contemplates injunctive action under 42 U.S.C. § 5410(a);

- Whenever the secretary contemplates making an administrative determination of imminent safety hazard, serious defect, or noncompliance under 42 U.S.C. § 5414(e);

- Whenever there is a question as to who should bear responsibility for correction under 42 U.S.C. § 5414(g);

- When a manufacturer disagrees with a determination of a Design Approval Primary Inspection Agency (DAPIA)--an enforcement agency; the state Department of Housing and Community Development is one of the DAPIAs operating in California--under 24 C.F.R. § 3282.361 that a mobilehome design does not conform to applicable standards or that a quality assurance manual (a manufacturer's plan for quality control, which must be approved) is not adequate; and

- When a manufacturer disagrees with a decision of a Production Inspection Primary Inspection Agency (PIPIA)--another enforcement agency; the state Department of Housing and Community Development is also an PIPIA in California--to red tag a mobilehome, that is, to affix a notice that it contains an imminent safety hazard or otherwise does not conform to standards, or a decision not to provide HUD labels for mobilehomes under 24 C.F.R. § 3282.362 [see § 369.21[7]] when the PIPIA believes the mobilehome does not conform to standards [24 C.F.R. § 3282.151(a), (b)].

[2] DAPIAs and PIPIAs in Addition to Department of Housing and Community Development in California

There may be DAPIAs and PIPIAs in addition to the Department of Housing and Community Development in California. When another California DAPIA determines that a mobilehome design does conform to applicable standards or a quality assurance manual is adequate, or when another California PIPIA decides not to red tag a mobilehome or decides to provide HUD labels because the PIPIA believes the mobilehome(s) in question do conform to applicable standards, the Department of Housing and Community Development in its capacity as the State Administrative Agency (SAA) under the federal law may take the opposite position and obtain resolution of the dispute pursuant to the procedures provided for in 24 C.F.R. §§ 3282.151-3282.156 [24 C.F.R. § 3282.151(b)]. Those procedural regulations also apply to hearings held by the Department of Housing and Community Development in its capacity as the California SAA [24 C.F.R. § 3282.151(e)].

§ 369.30 Mobilehomes Considered "Goods" for Purposes of Sale

Mobilehomes that are not affixed to land so as to become real property [see § 369.42[1]] are goods the sale of which would be governed by Division 2 (Sales) of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 2101 et seq.; see Com. Code § 2105 (definition of "goods")]. In sales that qualify as consumer transactions (purchase by an individual primarily for personal, family, or household purposes), such mobilehomes are also consumer goods subject to the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act [Civ. Code § 1790 et seq.; see Civ. Code § 1791 (definition of "consumer goods"); see also Civ. Code § 1795.5 (applicability of Act to sales of used goods)]. However, the basic regulation of mobilehome sales by dealers [see Health & Safety Code § 18002.6 (definition)] is set forth in Health & Safety Code §§ 18035-18039.5 and is discussed in § 369.33. The disclosure requirements applicable to the sale of residential real property also apply to the resale on or after January 1, 2000, of a manufactured home or a mobilehome, which manufactured home or mobilehome is classified as personal property intended for use as a residence [Civ. Code § 1102(b); see § 369.42].

[1] Signs Displaying Sale

A mobilehome park [see § 369.11[2]] homeowner, heir, joint tenant, or personal representative of the estate who gains ownership of a mobilehome through the death of the owner of the mobilehome who was a homeowner at the time of his or her death may advertise the sale or exchange of his or her mobilehome [see § 369.11[1][e]] by displaying a sign in the window of the mobilehome, posted on the side of the mobilehome facing the street, or by a sign in front of the mobilehome facing the street, stating that the mobilehome is for sale or exchange. The homeowner may also display a sign indicating that the mobilehome is on display for an "open house," unless the park rules prohibit this type of display. The sign must state the name, address, and telephone number of the mobilehome's owner, or his or her agent, and the sign face may not exceed 24 inches in width and 36 inches in height [Civ. Code § 798.70]. Signs posted in front of a mobilehome may be of H-frame or A-frame design with the sign face perpendicular to, but not extending into, the street. Homeowners may attach to the sign or their mobilehome tubes or holders for leaflets that provide information on the mobilehome for sale or exchange [Civ. Code § 798.70].

[2] Management Must Obtain Owner's Authorization to Show Mobilehome

The mobilehome park management must not show or list for sale a mobilehome without first obtaining the owner's written authorization. The authorization must specify the terms and conditions regarding the showing or listing [Civ. Code § 798.71(a)]. Management may also require that the homeowner advise management in writing that his or her mobilehome is for sale. However, failure to comply with this requirement does not invalidate a transfer [Civ. Code § 798.71(a)(2)].

"Management" means the owner of the mobilehome park or an agent or representative authorized to act on the owner's behalf in connection with matters relating to a tenancy in the park [Civ. Code § 798.2].

[3] Management Restricted from Charging Fees

The management may not charge a homeowner, an heir, joint tenant, or personal representative of the estate who gains ownership of a mobilehome through the death of an owner who owned the mobilehome at the time of his or her death, or the agent of any of them, a transfer or selling fee as a condition of a sale of his or her mobilehome in the park unless the management performs a service in the sale. The management may not perform any such service in connection with the sale unless so requested, in writing, by the homeowner or his or her agent [Civ. Code § 798.72(a); see People v. Mel Mack Co. (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 621, 126 Cal. Rptr. 505 (fact situation and construction of prior law leading to enactment of this section)]. Similarly, management may not charge a prospective homeowner or agent a fee as a condition of approval for residency in a park unless management performs a specific service for the sale. Management also may not impose a fee, other than for a credit check, for an interview of a prospective homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.72(b)].

A rent increase imposed on new tenants at the time of the sale or transfer of a mobilehome (excluding any transfer to a transferor's spouse, children, or parents) is not a prohibited fee within the meaning of Civ. Code § 798.72 nor within the restrictive scope of the Mel Mack case cited above [Vance v. Villa Park Mobilehome Estates (1995) 36 Cal. App. 4th 698, 707, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 723] . A local rent control ordinance may, however, prohibit rent increases at the termination of a tenancy [see Carson Harbor Village Ltd. v. City of Carson (9th Cir. 1994) 37 F.3d 468, 472-473] .

[4] Management's Rights in Event of Sale, Including Requiring Removal of Mobilehome

The management may not require the removal of a mobilehome from the park in the event of its sale to a third party during the term of the homeowner's rental agreement or in the 60 days following the notice of termination of tenancy required by Civ. Code § 798.55(b)(1) [Civ. Code § 798.73; for discussion of the notice required by Civ. Code § 798.55(b), see § 369.73[1]]. However, in the event of a sale to a third party, to upgrade the quality of the park, the management may require that the mobilehome be removed from the park in the following circumstances [Civ. Code § 798.73(a)-(d)]:

- When it is not a mobilehome within the meaning of Civ. Code § 798.3;

- When the mobilehome is more than 20 years old, or more than 25 years old if manufactured after September 15, 1971, and is 20 feet wide or more and the mobilehome does not comply with the health and safety standards provided in Health & Safety Code §§ 18550, 18552, and 18605 and the regulations established thereunder;

- When the mobilehome is more than 17 years old, or more than 25 years old if manufactured after September 15, 1971, and is less than 20 feet wide and the mobilehome does not comply with the health and safety standards provided in Health & Safety Code §§ 18550, 18552, and 18605 and the regulations established thereunder; or

- When the mobilehome is in a significantly rundown condition or in disrepair, as determined by its general condition and its acceptability to the health and safety of the occupants and to the public, exclusive of its age.

Management may not require the removal of a mobilehome unless it has provided notice to the homeowner specifying the condition that permits removal [Civ. Code § 798.73(e)].

Management must use reasonable discretion in determining the general condition of the mobilehome and its accessory structures, and it also bears the burden of demonstrating that the mobilehome is in a significantly rundown condition or in disrepair. Management may not require repairs and improvements to the park space or property owned by the management, except for damage caused by the actions or negligence of the homeowner or the homeowner's agent [Civ. Code § 798.73(d)].

In the case of a sale or transfer of a mobilehome that will remain in the park, the park management may not require repairs or improvements to the park space or property owned by the management, except for damage caused by the actions or negligence of the homeowner or the homeowner's agent [Civ. Code § 798.83]. In addition, the park management may require repairs or improvements to the mobilehome, its appurtenances, or an accessory structure that is not owned and installed by the management, if the repair or improvement is based on or is required by a local ordinance or state statute or regulation relating to mobilehomes, or a rule or regulation of the mobilehome park that implements or enforces a local ordinance, state statute, or regulation relating to mobilehomes, and the repair or improvement relates to the exterior of the mobilehome, its appurtenances, or accessory structure not owned and installed by the management [Civ. Code § 798.73.5(a)]. The management must provide a homeowner with a written summary of required repairs and improvements no later than 10 business days following receipt of a request for this information made by the homeowner as part of the 60-day notice of termination of tenancy pursuant to Civ. Code § 798.59 [Civ. Code § 798.73.5(b)]. The summary must include specific references to the park rules and regulations, local ordinances, or state statutes and regulations relating to mobilehomes on which the request for repair or improvement is based [Civ. Code § 798.73.5(b)].

The management may require the right of prior approval of a purchaser of mobilehome that will remain in the park and that the selling homeowner or his or her agent give notice of the sale to the management before the close of the sale. Approval may not be withheld if the purchaser has the financial ability to pay the rent and charges of the park unless the management reasonably determines that, based on the purchaser's prior tenancies, he or she will not comply with the rules and regulations of the park [Civ. Code § 798.74(a)].

In determining whether a purchaser has the financial ability to pay the rent and charges of the park, the management may not require the purchaser to submit copies of personal income tax returns to obtain approval for the residency in the park. Management may require, however, the purchaser to document the amount and source of his or her gross monthly income or means of financial support [Civ. Code § 798.74(a)].

Rental agreements entered into or renewed on and after January 1, 2006, may not include a clause, rule, regulation, or any other provision that grants management the right of first refusal to purchase a homeowner's mobilehome that is in the park and offered for sale to a third party [Civ. Code § 798.19.5]. However, this does not preclude a separate agreement for separate consideration granting the park owner or management a right of first refusal to purchase the homeowner's mobilehome [Civ. Code § 798.19.5].

[5] Management's Obligations in Event of Sale

On request of any prospective homeowner who proposes to purchase a mobilehome that will remain in the park, management must inform that person of the information management will require in order to determine if the person will be acceptable as a homeowner in the park. Within 15 business days of receiving all of the information requested from the prospective homeowner, the management must notify the seller and the prospective homeowner, in writing, of either acceptance or rejection of the application and the reason if rejected. During the 15-day period, the prospective homeowner must comply with any request by the management for a personal interview [Civ. Code § 798.74(a)]. If the approval of a purchaser is withheld for any reason other than those stated above, the management or owner may be held liable for all damages proximately resulting therefrom [Civ. Code § 798.74(a)].

Within two business days of receiving a request from a prospective homeowner for an application for residency for a specific space within a mobilehome park, if the management has been advised that the mobilehome occupying that space is for sale, the management must give the prospective homeowner a separate document in at least 12-point type entitled "INFORMATION FOR PROSPECTIVE HOMEOWNERS" that includes specified statements concerning home ownership in a mobilehome park [Civ. Code § 798.74.5(a)]. On request of the prospective homeowner, management must also provide a copy of park rules and regulations and a copy of the Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798.74.5(b)]. For a form setting forth the statutorily required information for prospective homeowners, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks (Matthew Bender).

If the management collects a fee or charge from a prospective purchaser of a mobilehome to obtain a financial report or credit rating, the full amount of the fee or charge must be credited toward payment of the first month's rent for that mobilehome purchaser. If, for whatever reason, the prospective purchaser is rejected by the management, the management must refund to the prospective purchaser the full amount of that fee or charge within 30 days from the date of rejection. If the prospective purchaser is approved by the management, but, for whatever reason, the prospective purchaser elects not to purchase the mobilehome, the management may retain the fee, or a portion thereof, to defray its administrative costs [Civ. Code § 798.74(b)].

[6] Management May Not Prohibit or Require Certain Acts

The management may not prohibit the listing or the sale of a mobilehome or a manufactured home within the park by the homeowner, an heir, joint tenant, or personal representative of the estate who gains ownership of a mobilehome through the death of the owner who owned the mobilehome at the time of his or her death, or an agent of any of those persons other than the management [Civ. Code § 798.71(b)]. The management also may not require the homeowner, an heir, joint tenant, or personal representative of the estate who gains ownership of a mobilehome through the death of the owner to authorize management or any other specified broker, dealer, or person to act as agent for sale as a condition of management's approval of the buyer or prospective homeowner for residency [Civ. Code §§ 798.71(c), 798.81].

Management may not require a homeowner who is replacing a mobilehome or manufactured home on a space in the park in which he or she resides to use a specific broker, dealer, or other person as an agent in the purchase of or installation of the replacement home [Civ. Code § 798.71(d)].

[7] Purchaser's Rights of Tenancy and Unlawful Occupancies

An escrow, sale, or transfer agreement involving a mobilehome located in a park at the time of the sale must contain a copy of either a fully executed rental agreement or a statement signed by the park's management and the prospective homeowner that the parties have agreed to the terms and conditions of a rental agreement [Civ. Code § 798.75(a)]. If the purchaser fails to execute the rental agreement, the purchaser has no rights of tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.75(b)]. If an occupant of a mobilehome has no rights of tenancy and is not otherwise entitled to occupy the mobilehome, the occupant is considered an unlawful occupant if, after a demand is made for surrender of the mobilehome park site, for a period of five days, the occupant refuses to surrender the site to the mobilehome park management. If the unlawful occupant fails to comply with the demand, the unlawful occupant is subject to unlawful detainer proceedings [Civ. Code § 798.75(c)]. The occupant of the mobilehome is not considered an unlawful occupant and is not subject to unlawful detainer proceedings if all of the following conditions are present [Civ. Code § 798.75(d)]:

- The occupant is the registered owner of the mobilehome;

- The management has determined that the occupant has the financial ability to pay the rent and charges of the park, will comply with the rules and regulations of the park based on the occupant's prior tenancies, and will comply with Civ. Code §§ 798.70-798.83; and

- The management failed or refused to offer the occupant a rental agreement.

[8] Written Disclosure Form

The management must provide a prospective homeowner with a completed written disclosure form concerning the park in the format required by Civ. Code § 798.75.5(b) at least three days before execution of either (1) a rental agreement or (2) a statement signed by the park management and the prospective homeowner that the parties have agreed to the terms and conditions of the rental agreement. The management must update the information on the disclosure form annually, or, in the event of a material change in the condition of the mobilehome park, at the time of the material change in that condition [Civ. Code § 798.75.5(a)].

[9] Age Requirements for Purchase

The management may require that a prospective purchaser comply with any rule or regulation limiting residency based on age requirements for housing for older persons, provided that the rule or regulation complies with the federal Fair Housing Act, as amended by Public Law 104-76, and implementing regulations [Civ. Code § 798.76]. Under the Act, 42 U.S.C. §§ 3602(k) and 3605 prohibit exclusion of families with children under 18 years of age except in housing that qualifies as "housing for older persons" under 42 U.S.C. § 3607(b)(2)(B), (C) [see Schmidt v. Superior Court (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 370, 376, 391, 256 Cal. Rptr. 750, 769 P.2d 932 (flexibility allowed under California law as allowing mobilehome park to impose restrictions that allow it to qualify as senior citizen housing under federal law)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 117, Civil Rights: Housing Discrimination .

[10] Waiver Prohibited

No rental or sale agreement may contain a provision by which the purchaser or tenant waives his or her rights under Civ. Code § 798 et seq. Any such waiver is deemed contrary to public policy and is void and unenforceable [Civ. Code § 798.77].

[11] Sale by Heir, Joint Tenant, or Personal Representative of Estate

An heir, joint tenant, or personal representative who gains ownership of a mobilehome in a mobilehome park through the death of the owner of the mobilehome who is a tenant has the right to sell the mobilehome to a third party in accordance with the provisions of Civ. Code §§ 798.70-798.83, but only if all the homeowner's responsibilities and liabilities to the management regarding rent, utilities, and reasonable maintenance of the mobilehome and its premises that have arisen after the transfer of ownership to the heir or joint tenant have been satisfied up until the date the mobilehome is resold [Civ. Code § 798.78]. If the heir, joint tenant, or personal representative does not satisfy the homeowner's responsibilities, the management may require the removal of the mobilehome [Civ. Code § 798.78(b); see Simandle v. Vista de Santa Barbara Associates, LP (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 1317, 1322, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 129 (management properly removed mobilehome when heirs failed to perform maintenance)].

Before the sale, the heir, joint tenant, or personal representative may replace the mobilehome or repair it [Civ. Code § 798.78(c)]. A replacement mobilehome must meet current standards of the park as contained in the park's most recent written requirements issued to prospective homeowners [Civ. Code § 798.78(c); see Hoffman v. Smithwoods RV Park LLC (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 390, 405, 102 Cal. Rptr. 3d 72 (mobilehome park not required to satisfy procedural requirements in Civ. Code § 798.25 for amending rules and regulations when considering whether replacement mobilehome meets current standards under § 798.78)]. If the heir, joint tenant, or personal representative establishes a tenancy in the park, he or she must comply with the provisions for a prospective purchaser [Civ. Code § 798.78(d)].

[12] Rights After Homeowner's Default

[a] Right to Sell; Conditions

Any legal owner or junior lienholder who forecloses on a security interest in a mobilehome located in mobilehome park has the right to sell the mobilehome within the park to a third party in accordance with the procedures of Civ. Code §§ 798.70-798.83, but only if all of the homeowner's responsibilities and liabilities to the management regarding rent, utilities, and reasonable maintenance of the mobilehome and its premises are satisfied by the foreclosing creditor as they accrue through the date the mobilehome is resold [Civ. Code § 798.79(a)]. For a general discussion of foreclosure of mobilehome security interests, see § 369.44[5].

[b] Notice Requirements

If the legal owner or junior lienholder has received from the management a copy of a notice of termination of tenancy for nonpayment of rent or other charges, prior to selling the mobilehome, within 60 days following receipt or no later that 65 days after the mailing of the notice of termination, the legal owner and each junior lienholder must notify the management in writing of at least one of the following [Civ. Code §§ 798.56a(a), 798.79(b)]:

(1) Its offer to sell the obligation secured by the mobilehome to the management for the amount specified in its written offer, in which event management has 15 days following receipt of the offer to accept or reject it in writing. If the offer is rejected, the person or entity has 10 days in which to exercise options (2) or (3), below;

(2) Its intention to foreclose on its security interest in the mobilehome; or

(3) Its request that the management pursue the termination of tenancy against the homeowner and its offer to reimburse management for the reasonable attorney's fees and court costs incurred by the management in that action.

If the legal owner or junior lienholder exercises options (2) or (3), above, and has the right to sell the mobilehome, that person has the right to keep the mobilehome on the site within the park until it is resold as long as he or she performs all of the following acts [Civ. Code §§ 798.56a(b), 798.79(b)]:

- Satisfies within the time period specified in Civ. Code § 798.56a(a) (discussed above) all of the homeowner's responsibilities and liabilities owing to the management for the 90 days preceding the mailing of notice of termination of tenancy and continues to satisfy them as they accrue from the date of the mailing of that notice until the date the mobilehome is resold;

- Within the time period specified in Civ. Code § 798.56a(a) (discussed above), commences all repairs and necessary corrective actions so that the mobilehome complies with park rules in existence at the time the notice of termination was given as well as applicable statutory health and safety standards, and completes these repairs within 90 calendar days of that notice or before the resale, whichever occurs first;

- Complies with the requirements of Civ. Code § 798.70 et seq. as they relate to the transfer of the mobilehome to a third party; and

- Reimburses the management for the amount of reasonable attorney's fees and court costs, as agreed on by the management and the legal owner or junior lienholder, incurred by the management in an action to terminate the homeowner's tenancy, when there is a request to terminate the tenancy. The reimbursement must be paid to the management on or before the earlier of the 60th calendar day following receipt of written notice from the management of the aggregate amount of the reasonable attorney's fees and costs or the date the mobilehome is resold.

If the legal owner or junior lienholder does not respond to the notice by making a written election or does not satisfy the requirements set forth above, he or she does not have the right to sell the mobilehome within the park [see Civ. Code § 798.56a(b)]. If the homeowner files for bankruptcy, the time periods are tolled until the mobilehome is released from bankruptcy [Civ. Code § 798.56a(d)].

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, if neither the legal owner nor a junior lienholder timely notifies the management pursuant to Civ. Code § 798.56a(a), or performs as agreed within 30 days, or if a registered owner of a mobilehome that is not encumbered by a lien held by a legal owner or a junior lienholder, fails to comply with a notice of termination and is either legally evicted or vacates the premises, the management may either remove the mobilehome from the premises and place it in storage or store it on its site. Management will have a warehouseman's lien against the mobilehome for the costs of dismantling, moving, and storage that is superior to all liens, except the lien provided for in Health & Safety Code § 18116.1 (lien for nonpayment of fees). The lien may be enforced pursuant to Com. Code § 7210 [Civ. Code § 798.56a(e)].

All written notices must be sent to the other party by certified or registered mail with return receipt requested [Civ. Code § 798.56a(f)].

[13] Transfer Disclosure Statement

The transfer or sale of a manufactured home or mobilehome in a mobilehome park is subject to the real estate transfer disclosure requirements and provisions set forth in Civ. Code § 1102 et seq. [Civ. Code § 798.74.4]. Those requirements include, but are not limited to, the use of the Manufactured Home and Mobilehome Transfer Disclosure Statement set forth in Civ. Code § 1102.6d [Civ. Code § 798.74.4]. For discussion of residential vendors' duty of disclosure, see Ch. 569, Vendor and Purchaser . For a real estate transfer disclosure form, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements (Matthew Bender).

32-369 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 369.32

§ 369.32 Sale of Mobilehome in Subdivision, Cooperative, Condominium, or Resident-Owned Park

[1] Sale Depends on Ownership Interest

Different statutory provisions apply to the sale of a mobilehome in a subdivision, cooperative, or condominium for mobilehomes, or in a resident-owned mobilehome park [see Civ. Code § 799(c) (definition)], depending on whether a resident has an ownership interest in one of those facilities in which his or her mobilehome is located or installed or whether the resident rents or leases a space on which his or her mobilehome is located or installed [see Civ. Code § 799.1]. For residents with no ownership interest, general provisions of the Mobilehome Residency Law govern the resident's rights with regard to sale and other matters. For those residents with an ownership interest, the separate provisions in Civ. Code §§ 799-799.10 apply [Civ. Code § 799.1].

[2] Advertising Sale

A homeowner or resident [see Civ. Code § 799(b) ("resident" defined)] of a subdivision, cooperative, condominium for mobilehomes, or resident-owned mobilehome park may advertise the sale or exchange of the mobilehome, or, if not prohibited by the terms of an agreement with management or ownership, the mobilehome's rental, by (1) displaying a sign in the window of the mobilehome, (2) posting a sign on the side of the mobilehome facing the street, or (3) placing a sign in front of the mobilehome facing the street, stating that the mobilehome is for sale or exchange [Civ. Code § 799.1.5]. If not prohibited by park rules, the homeowner or resident may also post a sign indicating that the mobilehome is on display for an "open house" [Civ. Code § 799.1.5].

The sign must state the name, address, and telephone number of the mobilehome's owner or his or her agent. The sign face may not exceed 24 inches in width and 36 inches in height. Signs posted in front of a mobilehome may be of an H-frame or A-frame design with the sign face perpendicular to, but not extending into, the street. Tubes or holders for leaflets that provide information on the mobilehome for sale, exchange, or rent may be attached to the sign or the mobilehome [Civ. Code § 799.1.5].

These provisions also apply to an heir, joint tenant, or personal representative of the estate who gains ownership of a mobilehome through the death of the mobilehome's resident who was a resident at the time of his or her death, or the agent of any of those persons [Civ. Code § 799.1.5].

[3] Owner's Written Authorization Required

The ownership or management of a subdivision, cooperative, or condominium for mobilehomes may not show or list for sale a mobilehome owned by a resident without first obtaining the owner's written authorization. The authorization must specify the terms and conditions regarding the showing or listing [Civ. Code § 799.2].

[4] Management May Not Require Removal

The ownership or management may not require the removal of a mobilehome from the subdivision, cooperative, or condominium for mobilehomes, or resident-owned mobilehome park in the event of its sale to a third party [Civ. Code § 799.3].

[5] Management's Right to Prior Approval of Purchaser

The ownership or management may require the right of prior approval of the purchase of a mobilehome that will remain in the subdivision, cooperative, or condominium for mobilehomes or resident-owned mobilehome park and that the selling resident or his or her agent give notice of the sale to the ownership or management before the close of the sale. Approval cannot be withheld if the purchaser has the financial ability to pay the fees and charges of the facility unless the ownership or management reasonably determines that, based on the purchaser's prior residences, he or she will not comply with the rules and regulations of the subdivision, cooperative, or condominium for mobilehomes, or resident-owned mobilehome park [Civ. Code § 799.4].

[6] Age Requirements

The ownership or management may require that the purchaser of a mobilehome that will remain in the subdivision, cooperative, or condominium for mobilehomes, or resident-owned mobilehome park must comply with any rule or regulation limiting residency based on age requirements for housing for older persons (provided the rule or regulation complies with the federal Fair Housing Act and its implementing regulations) [Civ. Code § 799.5].

[7] Waiver Prohibited

No agreement may contain any provision by which the purchaser waives his or her rights under the provision of Civ. Code §§ 799-799.10. Any such waiver will be deemed contrary to public policy and void and unenforceable [Civ. Code § 799.6].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Sale, Installation, and Use of Mobilehomes

32-369 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 369.33

§ 369.33 Dealer Sales

[1] Prohibition Applies in Certain Circumstances

Dealer sales of mobilehomes subject to the provisions of the National Manufactured Home Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 [42 U.S.C. § 5401 et seq.; see § 369.21[6]] are unlawful unless (1) there is a HUD label affixed to the mobilehome [see § 369.21[7]] and (2) the dealer, acting as a responsible dealer, does not know that the mobilehome does not conform to applicable standards. This prohibition applies to any affected mobilehomes until the completion of the entire sales transaction. A sales transaction with a purchaser is considered completed when all the goods and services that the dealer agreed to provide at the time the contract was entered into have been provided. Completion of a retail sale will be at the time the dealer completes set-up of the mobilehome if the dealer has agreed to provide the set-up, or at the time the dealer delivers the mobilehome to the site if the dealer has not agreed to provide set-up, or at the time the dealer delivers the mobilehome to the transporter if the dealer has not agreed to transport or set up the mobilehome. This prohibition of sale does not apply to mobilehomes that are placed in production before the effective date of the standards, and it does not apply to used mobilehomes that are being sold or offered for sale after the first purchase in good faith for purposes other than resale [24 C.F.R. § 3282.252].

[2] Sales and Escrow Requirements Applicable to Dealers

[a] Application of Health & Safety Code Regulations

Certain aspects of mobilehome sales by dealers [see Health & Safety Code § 18002.6 (definition)] are regulated by the Health and Safety Code. There are provisions for (1) rescission if the buyer cannot obtain financing in 30 days [see Health & Safety Code § 18036], (2) application of the Truth in Lending regulation [12 C.F.R. § 226 (Regulation Z)] to all mobilehome sales [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18036.5, 18037], and (3) notice requirements applicable to foreclosure [see Health & Safety Code § 18037.5].

[b] Receipt for Deposit

As part of the documents executed for the purchase and sale of a new or used mobilehome subject to registration from a dealer, the dealer and the buyer must execute a receipt for the deposit. The contents of the receipt for deposit are prescribed by statute [Health & Safety Code § 18035.1].

[c] Standard of Care

The standard of care owed by a dealer to a mobilehome purchaser is the degree of care that a reasonably prudent dealer would exercise and is measured by the degree of knowledge through education, experience, and examination required to obtain a dealer's license [Health & Safety Code § 18046.1].

[d] Establishment of Escrow Account

Every mobilehome dealer must, on the buyer's signing of a purchase order or conditional sale contract or security agreement for a new or used mobilehome, establish with an escrow agent (in whose business the dealer has no more than a 5 percent ownership interest) an escrow account into which must be deposited any cash or cash equivalent received from the buyer at any time before delivery as whole or partial payment for the mobilehome [Health & Safety Code § 18035(a)]. There are further statutory requirements regarding when money can be released from the escrow and when the money must be returned to the buyer [see Health & Safety Code § 18035(b)-(h)].

[e] Award of Damages, Attorney's Fees, and Costs

In the event of a violation leading to a judgment for damages, the plaintiff is entitled, in addition to damages, to an amount not exceeding $2,000 and to attorney's fees and costs [Health & Safety Code § 18035(n)]. For a form of complaint for damages by a mobilehome buyer against a dealer or other seller for an improper escrow, see § 369.141.

[3] Visual Inspection and Disclosures Required By Dealer

If a dealer or salesperson, licensed under Health & Safety Code § 18045 et seq., has a written contract with the seller of a used manufactured home or mobilehome to find or obtain a buyer or is a dealer or salesperson who acts in cooperation with others to find and obtain a buyer for a used manufactured home or mobilehome, that dealer or salesperson has a duty to the prospective buyer to conduct a reasonably competent and diligent visual inspection of the home offered for sale. The dealer or salesperson must also disclose to the prospective buyer all facts materially affecting the value or desirability of the home that an investigation would reveal. When a transfer disclosure statement is required under Civ. Code § 1102(b), a dealer or salesperson must discharge that duty by completing the agent's portion of the transfer disclosure statement that a seller prepares and delivers to a prospective buyer under Civ. Code §§ 1102(b) and 1102.6d. If no transfer disclosure statement is required, but the transaction is not exempt under Civ. Code § 1102.2, a dealer must discharge that duty by completing and delivering to the prospective buyer an exact reproduction of Sections III, IV, and V of the transfer disclosure statement required under Civ. Code §§ 1102(b) and 1102.6d [Health & Safety Code § 18046(d)].

[4] Mobilehome Warranties Applicable to Dealer Sales

All new mobilehomes [see § 369.11[1][d]] sold to a buyer after March 4, 1972, by a dealer licensed by the Department of Motor Vehicles are covered by the warranty set forth in Civ. Code § 1797.3 [Civ. Code § 1797]. The warranty applies to the manufacturer of the mobilehome as well as to the dealer or contractor who sells the mobilehome to the buyer [Civ. Code § 1797.2(a)]. The warranty is in addition to and not in derogation of all other rights and privileges that the buyer may have under any other law or instrument. The manufacturer or dealer may not require the buyer to waive his or her rights under Civ. Code §§ 1797-1797.7, and any such waiver is deemed contrary to public policy and is unenforceable and void [Civ. Code § 1797.4].

The mobilehome warranty from the contractor, manufacturer, or dealer to the buyer must be set forth in a separate written document delivered to the buyer by the contractor or dealer at the time the contract of sale is signed, and contain, but not be limited to, the following terms [Civ. Code § 1797.3]:

- That the mobilehome is free from any substantial defects in materials or workmanship;

- That the contractor, manufacturer, or dealer must take appropriate corrective action at the site of the mobilehome in instances of substantial defects in materials or workmanship that become evident within one year from the date of delivery of the mobilehome to the buyer, provided the buyer or his or her transferee gives written notice of those defects to the contractor, manufacturer, or dealer at their business address not later than one year and 10 days after the date of delivery;

- That the manufacturer and contractor or dealer will be jointly and severally liable to the buyer for the fulfillment of the terms of the warranty, and that the buyer may notify either one or both of the need for appropriate corrective action in instances of substantial defects in materials or workmanship;

- That the address and the phone number of where to mail or deliver written notice of defects must be set forth in the document;

- That the one-year warranty period applies to the plumbing, heating, electrical, cooling, fire safety, and structural systems and all appliances of the mobilehome or manufactured home;

- That while the manufacturers of any or all appliances may also issue their own warranties, the primary responsibility for appropriate corrective action under the warranty rests with the contractor or dealer and manufacturer, and the buyer is to report all complaints to the contractor or dealer and manufacturer initially; and

- That if corrective action taken by the contractor, manufacturer or dealer fails to eliminate a substantial defect, then the material, system, appliance, or component must be replaced in kind. "Replaced in kind" means replacement with the identical material, system, appliance, or component, and, if not available, replacement with a comparable or better material, system, appliance, or component.

The address and telephone number of the place to which written notices of defects may be mailed or delivered must be set forth in the "Mobilehome Warranty" [Civ. Code § 1797.3(d)].

Each dealer must display a copy of all of the required warranty provisions. The warranty provisions must be posted in each area where purchase orders and conditional sales contracts are written [Civ. Code § 1797.5].

There is no definition in the mobilehome warranties law of "substantial defects in materials or workmanship." In a related context, the Legislature has said that the phrase means defects objectively manifested by broken, ripped, cracked, stained, or missing parts or components and does not include alleged defects concerning color combinations or grade of materials used [Health & Safety Code § 18613(d)].

[5] Dealer Sales Off Premises

Generally, it is unlawful for a licensed dealer to advertise or offer for sale or exchange in any manner any vehicle not actually for sale at the premises of the dealer or available to the dealer through a listing agreement from the seller or from the manufacturer or distributor at the time of the advertisement or offer. This policy does not apply, however, to advertising or offering for sale or exchange any used mobilehome as defined by Health & Safety Code § 18008 [see § 369.11[1][c]] when the advertising or offering for sale is not contrary to any terms of a contract between the seller of the mobilehome and the owner of the mobilehome park, if the mobilehome is in place on a lot rented or leased for human habitation within an established mobilehome park; or if the used mobilehome is located, pursuant to a local zoning ordinance or permit, on a lot where its presence has been authorized or its continued presence would be authorized, for a total and uninterrupted period of at least one year [Health & Safety Code § 18061].

[6] Dealer Cooperative Arrangements

With regard to the sale of any mobilehome that has not been previously installed on a foundation system pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 18551, a licensed dealer may solicit or obtain listings, engage in the multiple listing only with other dealers, or engage in payments only to other dealers or groups of dealers, pursuant to cooperative brokering and referral arrangements or agreements on the sale of only a mobilehome which has been titled by the Department of Housing and Community Development [Health & Safety Code § 18040(a)]. For the resale of mobilehomes that have not been previously installed on a foundation, a dealer may solicit or obtain listings, engage in multiple listings, or engage in payments not only with other dealers or groups of dealers, but also with real estate licensees [Health & Safety Code § 18040(b)].

[1] Registration Requirement

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a person licensed as a real estate broker may sell or offer to sell, buy or offer to buy, solicit prospective purchasers of, solicit or obtain listings of, or negotiate the purchase, sale, or exchange of, any mobilehome [see § 369.11[1][f]] if the mobilehome has been registered under applicable provisions of Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq. [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.6(b)].

[2] Prohibited Acts

No real estate broker who engages in the activities in [1], above, may maintain any place of business where two or more mobilehomes are displayed and offered for sale by such person, unless the broker is also licensed as a mobilehome dealer [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.6(b)].

Among other prohibited actions, a real estate licensee may not do any of the following with regard to a mobilehome [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.7]:

- Advertise or offer for sale in any manner any mobilehome unless (1) the mobilehome is either in place on a lot rented or leased for human habitation within an established mobilehome park [see § 369.11[2][a]] and the advertising or offering for sale is not contrary to any terms of a contract between the seller of the mobilehome and the owner of the mobilehome park; or (2) the mobilehome is otherwise located, pursuant to a local zoning ordinance or permit, on a lot where its presence has been authorized or its continued presence and such use would be authorized for a total and uninterrupted period of at least one year;

- Fail to withdraw any advertisement of a mobilehome for sale, lease, or exchange within 48 hours after his or her receipt of notice that the mobilehome is no longer available for sale, lease, or exchange; and

- Advertise or represent a mobilehome as a new mobilehome.

§ 369.36 Sales and Use Taxes

The Sales and Use Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6001 et seq.] imposes the following two types of taxes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6201]:

- A sales tax on the privilege of selling tangible personal property at retail, measured by the gross receipts of the retailer from sales [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6051]; and

- A use tax on the storage, use, or other consumption in California of tangible personal property purchased from any retailer, measured by the sale price of the property.

These taxes are mutually exclusive, not cumulative. A transaction resulting in liability for the sales tax exempts the purchaser from liability for the use tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6401].

The gross receipts from the sale of and the storage, use, or other consumption in California of used mobilehomes [see § 369.11[1][c]] which were originally sold new on or after July 1, 1980 are exempted from the taxes imposed by the Sales and Use Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6379; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6351 (definition of "exempted from the taxes imposed by this part" (Sales and Use Tax Law) as used in Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6351-6379)].

For purposes of the sales and use tax, "gross receipt" from the sale of a used mobilehome as defined in Health & Safety Code § 18014 and the "sales price" of a used mobilehome are based on the current value of the used mobilehome as determined by a recognized value guide, when a registered or legal owner sells a used mobilehome through a person licensed under the Health and Safety Code as a dealer and not on the dealer's own account or though a licensed real estate broker acting under Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.6. Also, the gross receipts from the sale of a mobilehome, whether new or used, and the sale price of a mobilehome, whether new or used, must exclude the amount of separately stated escrow fees on the sale of such mobilehome [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6012.2; see § 369.33[2]].

For the purposes of the Sales and Use Tax Law, the gross receipts from the sale of a mobilehome [see § 369.11[1][c]] and the sale price of a mobilehome sold or stored, used, or otherwise consumed in California must be a specified percentage of the sale price to the consumer or the retailer, varying according to the following [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6012.8, 6012.9] (applicable to mobilehomes sold on or after July 1, 1980); see also § 369.42[3]:

- Whether the mobilehome is sold before July 1, 1980, or on or after that date;

- Whether it is sold for installation on a foundation system pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 18551 for occupancy as a residence or is sold for installation for occupancy as a residence pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 18613 [see § 369.37]; and

- Whether it is or is not subject to local property taxation.

Any sale of a mobilehome after the initial sale, for which the provisions of Rev. & Tax. Code § 6012.8 or 6012.9 apply, will be exempt from the taxes imposed by the Sales and Use Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6012.8(d), 6012.9(d)].

§ 369.37 Installation

[1] Standards and Permits

A mobilehome may be installed as either a fixture or improvement to real property [see Health & Safety Code § 18551(a)] or as a chattel [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18551(b), 18613].

Standards for locating and installing a mobilehome which is required to be moved under a permit [see § 369.40], on any site for the purpose of human habitation or occupancy as a dwelling, are prescribed by the Department of Housing and Community Development [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1320-1368] pursuant to legislative mandate "for the protection of life and property" [Health & Safety Code § 18613].

The contractor engaged to install such a mobilehome, or the owner, if the owner of the mobilehome proposes to perform the installation, is required to obtain an installation permit from the enforcement agency [Health & Safety Code § 18613; see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1020 (procedure), 1320 (exceptions to permit requirement); see also § 369.11[4]]. Issuance of an installation permit probably is, like issuance of a mobilehome park construction permit [see § 369.62], partly a ministerial function and partly a discretionary function. The procedure, however, does not involve a hearing for presentation of evidence; therefore, refusal to issue a permit is a cause for action for a writ of mandate directing issuance, under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085, and not an administrative decision reviewable in an administrative mandate proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. If the applicant qualifies for the permit and there has been abuse of discretion in refusing to issue it, the writ must be issued, because damages are not recoverable [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086; Gov. Code §§ 818.4, 820.2, 820.4, 821.2 (governmental immunities from liability for damages)].

For discussion of, and forms for use in, a proceeding for writ of mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition .

[2] Tardy Performance by Contractor

A contractor engaged to install a mobilehome pursuant to a permit has a reasonable time in which to complete installation [Health & Safety Code § 18613]. Installation is "complete" when standards prescribed by the Department of Housing and Community Development, and other applicable regulations [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1320-1368], have been complied with [Health & Safety Code § 18613].

If the mobilehome being installed does not comply with the standards for materials, systems, workmanship, or equipment, and for that reason cannot be approved for occupancy, the contractor has a reasonable time to complete installation after the defects have been corrected [Health & Safety Code § 18613].

The contractor is liable for damages for any injury proximately caused by the contractor's failure to complete installation within a reasonable time. For discussion of, and forms for use in, actions for damages based on a contractor's tardy performance, see Ch. 104, Building Contracts . Regarding a requirement that a contractor who undertakes installation of a mobilehome must be licensed, see § 369.45.

[3] Noncompliance With Standards

A mobilehome installed pursuant to a permit must be inspected by the enforcement agency [see § 369.11[4]] to assure compliance with applicable standards. If there is an immediate hazard to the health or safety of the occupant, the mobilehome may not be occupied. If there is noncompliance with applicable standards but no immediate hazard to the health or safety of the occupant, the mobilehome may be occupied notwithstanding the noncompliance [Health & Safety Code § 18613].

[4] Correction of Defects

In the event of substandard installation of a mobilehome pursuant to a permit, the installer must perform any necessary corrective work and request reinspection within 10 days after notice from the enforcement agency specifying in what respects the installation does not comply with applicable standards [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1326(c)].

§ 369.38 Hiring Out (Renting and Leasing)

[1] Mobilehomes Considered to be Motor Vehicles

Although not self-propelled, a mobilehome may be considered a motor vehicle subject to the Vehicle Leasing Act [Civ. Code §§ 2985.7-2990], formerly the Moscone Automobile Leasing Act of 1969, which governs the hiring out (leasing) of any vehicle required to be registered under the Vehicle Code [Civ. Code § 2985.7(a) (definition of "motor vehicle" in context of Act)] for the use of the vehicle by a natural person for a term exceeding four months, primarily for personal, family, or household purposes, whether or not it is agreed that the lessee bear the risk of depreciation [Civ. Code § 2985.7(d) (definition of "lease contract" in context of Act)].

Mobilehomes that are rented or leased in California must comply with the provisions of the mobilehomes law relating to insignia of approval [see § 369.21].

[2] Permit Requirement

Notwithstanding Health & Safety Code § 18500 requiring a permit to operate a mobilehome park [see § 369.63[1]], (1) the owner of one mobilehome [see § 369.11[1][c]] who is also the owner of the land on which the mobilehome is located may rent, lease, sublease, let out, or hire out for occupancy the mobilehome and the land on which it is located without obtaining a permit [Health & Safety Code § 18500.5], and (2) the owner of a mobilehome who is not a mobilehome park operator [see § 369.11[2][a]] and who rents or leases the land on which the mobilehome is located may rent, lease, sublease, let out, or hire out for occupancy the mobilehome and the land on which it is located without obtaining a permit, subject to lawful covenants and conditions of the lease or rental agreement governing the underlying ground [Health & Safety Code § 18500.6].

[3] Mobilehome in Mobilehome Park

A mobilehome park homeowner [see § 369.11[2][b]], if not prohibited by the terms of an agreement with the management of the park, may advertise the rental of his or her mobilehome [see § 369.11[1][e]] by displaying a sign in the window of the mobilehome, or posted on the side of the mobilehome facing the street, stating that the mobilehome is for rent by the owner of the mobilehome or his agent. The sign must state the name, address, and telephone number of the owner of the mobilehome or his or her agent and may be at least 12 inches in width and 12 inches in length [Civ. Code § 798.70].

No mobilehome within a mobilehome park [see § 369.11[1][c], [2][a]] may be rented or leased unless it bears an insignia of approval issued by the Department of Housing and Community Development in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 18026 [Health & Safety Code § 18604].

[4] Mobilehome in Subdivision, Cooperative, Condominium, or Resident-Owned Mobilehome Park

A homeowner or resident [see Civ. Code § 799(b) ("resident" defined)] of a subdivision, cooperative, condominium for mobilehomes, or resident-owned mobilehome park may advertise the sale or exchange of the mobilehome, or, if not prohibited by the terms of an agreement with management or ownership, the mobilehome's rental, by (1) displaying a sign in the window of the mobilehome, (2) posting a sign on the side of the mobilehome facing the street, or (3) placing a sign in front of the mobilehome facing the street, stating that the mobilehome is for sale or exchange [Civ. Code § 799.1.5]. If not prohibited by park rules, the homeowner or resident may also post a sign indicating that the mobilehome is on display for an "open house" [Civ. Code § 799.1.5].

The sign must state the name, address, and telephone number of the mobilehome's owner or his or her agent. The sign face may not exceed 24 inches in width and 36 inches in height. Signs posted in front of a mobilehome may be of an H-frame or A-frame design with the sign face perpendicular to, but not extending into, the street. Tubes or holders for leaflets that provide information on the mobilehome for sale, exchange, or rent may be attached to the sign or the mobilehome [Civ. Code § 799.1.5].

These provisions also apply to an heir, joint tenant, or personal representative of the estate who gains ownership of a mobilehome through the death of the mobilehome's resident who was a resident at the time of his or her death, or the agent of any of those persons [Civ. Code § 799.1.5].

32-369 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 369.39

§ 369.39 Maintenance, Use, and Occupancy

[1] Unlawful Mobilehome Occupancies

It is unlawful for any person to use or cause or permit to be used for occupancy any mobilehome [see § 369.11[1][c]], wherever the mobilehome is located, if any of the following conditions exist [Health & Safety Code § 18550]:

- The mobilehome is supplied with fuel gas, water, electricity, or sewage connections and installations not conforming to standards prescribed by the Department of Housing and Community Development;

- The mobilehome is permanently attached with underpinning or foundation to the ground, unless the mobilehome bears an insignia of approval issued by the Department of Housing and Community Development [see § 369.21] or a HUD label [see § 369.21[7]] and is installed on a foundation system, in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 18551 [see § 369.42[1]];

- The mobilehome does not conform to the registration requirements of the Department of Housing and Community Development;

- The mobilehome is in an unsanitary condition; or

- The mobilehome is structurally unsound and does not protect its occupants against the elements.

The Department of Housing and Community Development, pursuant to legislative mandate, has prescribed standards that "establish minimum requirements to protect the health and safety of the occupants [of mobilehomes] and the public," including provisions "for the repair or abatement of any unsafe or unsanitary condition of the [mobilehome] or of the electrical, mechanical, or plumbing installations therein" [Health & Safety Code § 18605; see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1130-1284, 1600-1619].

[2] Sewage and Wastewater Disposal

It is unlawful to permit any wastewater, sewage, or waste material from any plumbing fixtures in a park, any park sewage or waste disposal system, or any plumbing fixtures in a manufactured home, mobilehome, recreational vehicle, accessory structure, or permanent building in the park, to be discharged onto or deposited upon the surface of the ground [Health & Safety Code § 18554(a)]. The enforcement agency may order the removal, sanitation, or both, of any wastewater, sewage, or waste material discharged onto or deposited upon the surface of the ground, or may require the removal, sanitation, or both, of the wastewater, sewage, or waste material, in a manner consistent with the requirements of, and in consultation with, the local health department or agency [Health & Safety Code § 18554(b)]. The registered owner of a mobilehome, manufactured home, or recreational vehicle is responsible for complying with an order, or the correction of a citation, issued by the enforcement agency, and the costs of that order, whenever wastewater, sewage, or waste material is discharged onto or deposited upon the surface of the ground as a result of leaks from plumbing fixtures in a manufactured home, mobilehome, or recreational vehicle, or accessory structure, or whenever those leaks come from plumbing on the space or lot that connects the home or recreational vehicle or accessory structure to the park's sewer, septic, or drain system on the home or vehicle registered owner's side of the connection, if the discharge or deposit is determined by the enforcement agency to be the fault of the registered owner of the home or recreational vehicle [Health & Safety Code § 18554(c)].

[3] Abatement of Substandard Mobilehome Condition

Any unsafe or unsanitary condition of a mobilehome [see § 369.11[1][c]] or of the electrical, mechanical, or plumbing installations in a mobilehome, which threatens the health or safety of the occupants or the public, may be abated [see Health & Safety Code § 18605].

In addition, any mobilehome in which there exists any of the conditions listed in 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1606(a)-(k) (such as inadequate sanitation, structural hazards, faulty weather protection) to an extent that endangers the life, limb, health, property, safety, or welfare of the public or the occupants of the mobilehome is substandard [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1606]. Any mobilehome that has become substandard is a nuisance and may be abated [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1606; see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1610-1619 (abatement proceedings); see also § 369.112[3]].

The registered owner of a mobilehome that is constructed, altered, converted, used, or maintained in a manner that constitutes a violation of the regulations or other applicable law is required to abate the violation [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1610(a); see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1606 (substandard units)]. The person or entity responsible for correction of the violation must cause it to be corrected within five days or within such longer period of time as may be allowed by the enforcement agency [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1611(a); see §§ 369.11[4], 369.64[2]].

[4] Disabled Access and Accommodations

Ownership or management of a mobilehome park cannot prevent a homeowner or resident from installing disabled accommodations on a mobilehome or on the site, lot, or space on which the mobilehome is located. This includes, but is not limited to, ramps or handrails on the outside of the home as long as the installation complies with code and the facilities are installed pursuant to a permit, if required for the installation. The management may require that the accommodations be removed by the homeowner at the time the mobilehome is removed from the park or pursuant to a written agreement between the homeowner and the management before the completion of the resale of the mobilehome in place in the park [Civ. Code §§ 798.29.6, 799.11].

§ 369.40 Moving

A mobilehome [see § 369.11[1][g]] that exceeds a prescribed size or weight may not be moved on any street or highway without a permit from the Department of Transportation or the city or county having jurisdiction over the street or highway [see Veh. Code § 35780]. A permit is required for moving a mobilehome wider than eight and a half feet, longer than 40 feet, taller than 14 feet [see Veh. Code §§ 35100, 35250, 35400], or heavier than the maximum allowable weight [see Veh. Code § 35550]. A mobilehome wider than eight feet may not be moved without a permit which is issuable only to licensed manufacturers, dealers, and transporters (haulers) [see Veh. Code § 35790], and then only if the mobilehome is not overweight [Veh. Code § 35790(e)(1)]. A permit issued under Veh. Code § 35790 may authorize an exemption from length limitations otherwise applicable to vehicles and combinations of vehicles for the transportation of more than one unit of a manufactured home if conditions specified in Veh. Code § 35790.5 are met. Applications for permits must specifically describe the manufactured home units to be moved and include a written statement of good cause. The permits issued must describe the particular highways over which the permit is valid and may impose additional conditions [Veh. Code § 35790.5].

A "pilot car," which may be required to obtain a permit under Veh. Code § 35790 to aid in the moving of a mobilehome, may operate a vertical-clearance measuring device with a height in excess of 14 feet when escorting a permitted overheight load, and may also operate the device when surveying a route for a permitted overheight load [Veh. Code § 35252(a); see Veh. Code §§ 25270 (warning lamps), 27904.5 (signs), 28100-28103 (flags, equipment, compliance of pilot cars with other Vehicle Code sections)].

No person served with a notice of violations under 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4013 [see § 369.21[5][c]] is permitted to move the mobilehome in question or to cause it to be moved without first giving the Department of Housing and Community Development written notification of the destination and intended disposition of the mobilehome [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4013].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Sale, Installation, and Use of Mobilehomes

32-369 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 369.41

§ 369.41 Local Regulation

[1] State Law Supersedes Local Ordinances

The provisions of the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.] and implementing regulations of the Department of Housing and Community Development [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4000 et seq.] supersede any ordinance adopted by a city or county on the same subject [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18015, 18030.5].

The Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18300 et seq.] occupies the field of mobilehome regulation in California, and therefore preempts local regulation of mobilehome construction and installation [Health & Safety Code § 18300(a); County of Santa Cruz v. Waterhouse (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 1483, 1491, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 543 (preemption of county ordinance regulating permissible height of mobilehomes)]. The Act contains exceptions providing for local regulation of certain matters, including zoning and setback requirements for mobilehome parks [Health & Safety Code § 18300(g)].

[2] Zoning and Land Use

[a] Installation of Manufactured Housing

Cities and counties may not subject the installation of manufactured housing on single-family lots to any regulation or process different than those applied to the construction of conventional housing. Nevertheless, certain architectural controls may be imposed [Gov. Code §§ 65852.3, 65852.4].

[b] Requirement of Filing Impact Report

Before a mobilehome park can be converted to another use except under the Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.], or before it can be closed or the use ceased except if it results from the entry of an order for relief in bankruptcy, the person or entity proposing the change in use must file with the appropriate advisory agency or legislative body a report on the impact of the conversion, closure, or cessation of use on the displaced residents of the park and provide a resident of each mobilehome in the park with a copy. In determining the impact, the report must address the availability of adequate replacement housing in mobilehome parks and relocation costs [Gov. Code § 65863.7(a)-(c), (f)]. The legislative body, or its delegated advisory agency, must review the report before any change of use and may require, as a condition of the change, the person or entity to take steps to mitigate any adverse impact of the conversion, closure, or cessation of use on the ability of the displaced residents to find adequate housing in a mobilehome park. However, the steps required to be taken to mitigate must not exceed the reasonable costs of relocation [Gov. Code § 65863.7(e)]. This provision applies to charter cities [Gov. Code § 65863.7(h)]. The required impact report and the procedure to be followed when conversion is in accordance with the Subdivision Map Act, is covered in Gov. Code § 66427.4. Civ. Code §§ 798.27(b) and 798.56(g) discuss the notice of any change in the zoning or termination resulting from a change of use of the park required to be given to the tenants.

The requirement of filing an impact report is also applicable when the closure, cessation, or change of use is the result of a decision by a local governmental entity or planning agency not to renew a conditional use permit or zoning variance under which the mobilehome park has operated, or is the result of any other zoning or planning decision, action, or inaction. In this case, the local governmental agency is the person proposing the change in use for the purposes of preparing the impact report, and the agency is required to take steps to mitigate the adverse impact [Gov. Code § 65863.7(i)].

In addition, the requirement of filing an impact report is applicable when the closure, cessation, or change of use is the result of a decision by an enforcement agency [see Health & Safety Code § 18207 ("enforcement agency" defined)] to suspend the permit to operate the mobilehome park. In that case, the mobilehome park owner is the person proposing the change in use for purposes of preparing the impact report and is required to take steps to mitigate the adverse impact of the change [Gov. Code § 65863.7(j)].

[c] Option to Purchase, Survey, and Waiver of Tentative and Final Subdivision Map

When a mobilehome park is converted to condominium units for mobilehomes, an existing tenant must be offered the option to purchase his or her unit or to continue residency as a tenant [Gov. Code § 66427.5(a)]. The subdivider must obtain a survey of the support of residents in the mobilehome park for the proposed conversion, conducted pursuant to written ballot, and the results of the survey must be submitted to the local agency on the filing of the tentative or parcel map [Gov. Code § 66427.5(d)]. The purpose of this requirement is to ensure that conversions in accordance with Gov. Code § 66427.5 are bona fide resident conversions [see Stats. 2002, ch. 1143, § 2]. It does not apply to any application for parcel map approval for conversion of a rental mobilehome park to resident ownership approved by the local agency before January 1, 2003 [see Stats. 2002, ch. 1143, § 3].

On petition of two thirds of the tenants of a mobilehome park, the requirement of a tentative and final subdivision map may be waived [Gov. Code § 66428.1].

[d] Density of New Mobilehome Park

A city or county may not require the average density in a new mobilehome park to be less than that permitted by the applicable zoning ordinance, plus any density bonus, as defined in Gov. Code § 65915 for other affordable housing forms [Health & Safety Code § 18300(h)(1)].

[e] Clubhouses and Recreational Facilities

A city or county cannot require a new mobilehome park to include a clubhouse. Recreational facilities, recreational areas, accessory structures, or improvements may be required only to the extent that such facilities or improvements are required in other types of residential developments containing a like number of residential dwelling units [Health & Safety Code § 18300(h)(2)].

[3] Equipment and Facilities

A city or county, within the reasonable exercise of its police power, may regulate the construction and use of equipment and facilities used to supply gas, water, or electricity to a mobilehome (except facilities owned, operated, and maintained by a public utility), or to dispose of sewage or other waste therefrom, when such facilities are located outside a mobilehome park [see § 369.11[2][a]] for which a permit is required by the Mobilehome Parks Act and implementing regulations [Health & Safety Code § 18300(g)(2); 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1000 et seq.].

[4] Use and Occupancy

A city or county, within the reasonable exercise of its police power, may require a permit to use a mobilehome outside a mobilehome park for which a permit is required by the Mobilehome Parks Act and implementing regulations [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1000 et seq.], and may require a fee therefor, by local ordinance, commensurate with the cost of enforcing the Mobilehome Parks Act and the local ordinance with reference to the use of the mobilehome. The use permit may be refused or revoked if the mobilehome's use violates any provisions of the Mobilehome Parks Act and implementing regulations, or the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 and implementing regulations [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4000 et seq.], or any local ordinance applicable to such use [Health & Safety Code § 18300(g)(3)].

A fee commensurate with enforcement cost is one that approximately covers the cost. A newly adopted ordinance is not unlawful merely because it fixes a fee slightly higher than reasonably projected enforcement costs [Watson v. County of Merced (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 263, 265-268, 78 Cal. Rptr. 807] . However, continuing to collect a higher fee after experience shows that costs are and will remain lower probably is unlawful, since as time passes the gap between projected enforcement costs and the fixed fee becomes less and less reasonable [see Watson v. County of Merced (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 263, 268, 78 Cal. Rptr. 807 (approving trial court's memorandum of opinion stating, "[a]fter a period of operation the Board of Supervisors may want to review the fee charged to be certain that work experience and actual costs in fact do justify the fees levied. If experience shows them to be unreasonable and they are not adjusted plaintiffs may feel they should return to Court")].

[5] Accessory Buildings and Structures

A city or county, within the reasonable exercise of its police power, may require a building permit to construct an accessory structure for a mobilehome located outside a mobilehome park, under circumstances in which the Mobilehome Parks Act and implementing regulations [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1000 et seq.] or the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 and implementing regulations [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.; 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4000 et seq.] do not require the issuance of a permit by the Department of Housing and Community Development [Health & Safety Code § 18300(g)(4)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Sale, Installation, and Use of Mobilehomes

32-369 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 369.42

§ 369.42 Property Interests

[1] Real or Personal

A mobilehome that is not affixed to land is personal property [see Civ. Code §§ 658, 663]. A mobilehome may be installed on a foundation system as either a fixture or improvement to real property or as a chattel (personal property) [Health & Safety Code § 18551]. Installation by either method must comply with statutory requirements [see Health & Safety Code §§ 18551(a) (real property), 18551(b), 18613 (personal property)]. The registered owner of a mobilehome in a mobilehome park converted or proposed to be converted to a resident-owned subdivision, cooperative, condominium, or nonprofit corporation [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.8] may, if he or she is also a participant in the resident ownership, apply for voluntary conversion of the mobilehome to a fixture and improvement to the underlying real property without complying with the statutory requirements otherwise applicable to installation on a foundation system [see Health & Safety Code § 18555(a)]. To be considered a fixture or improvement to real property, a mobilehome must either be installed as such in accordance with statutory requirements [see Health & Safety Code § 18551(a)] or be legally converted to that status by compliance with the statutory conversion requirements outlined in Health & Safety Code § 18555 [Health & Safety Code § 18555(i)].

Once installed on a foundation system, a mobilehome is subject to state-enforced health and safety standards for mobilehomes [Health & Safety Code § 18551(c); see Health & Safety Code § 18555(j) (same standards applicable to mobilehome converted to fixture and improvement to real property)]. These standards are enforced in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 18020 (enforcement of mobilehomes law [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.] and implementing regulations [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4000 et seq.] by the Department of Housing and Community Development) [Health & Safety Code §§ 18551(c), 18555(j)].

[2] Provisional Remedy of Claim and Delivery

For purposes of the provisional remedy of claim and delivery [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 511.010-516.050], a mobilehome not so affixed to land as to be real property is inventory in the hands of a person who holds it for sale or lease or to be furnished under a contract of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 511.050]. Consequently, if a claimant applies for a temporary restraining order in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 513.010, the court may not prohibit such a holder from transferring the mobilehome in the ordinary course of business [Code Civ. Proc. § 513.020(a)]. However, the court may prohibit concealing it or otherwise removing it in a manner likely to make it less available to seizure by the levying officer [Code Civ. Proc. § 513.020(b)] and may prohibit impairing the value of it either by acts of destruction or by failure to care for the mobilehome in a reasonable manner [Code Civ. Proc. § 513.020(c)].

In addition, if a mobilehome that is to be levied on under a writ of possession is being used as a dwelling, levy must be made by placing a keeper in charge of the mobilehome for two days, at the claimant's expense, after which period the levying officer may remove the occupants and any contents not specified in the writ and take exclusive possession of the mobilehome [Code Civ. Proc. § 514.010(b)].

For further discussion of the provisional remedy of claim and delivery, and forms for use in related proceedings, see Ch. 119, Claim and Delivery .

[3] Local Property Taxation

A mobilehome that has become real property by being affixed to land on a permanent foundation system, or otherwise, is taxed as all other real property is taxed [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 5801(b); see also 1980 Stats., ch. 285]. Otherwise, the mobilehome is taxed as provided in the Manufactured Home Property Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 5800 et seq.] if it (1) is not taxed as all other real property is taxed, (2) is defined as provided in Health & Safety Code §§ 18008 and 18211 [see § 369.11[1][c]], and (3) was first sold new on or after July 1, 1980 [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 5800, 5801]. A mobilehome is also taxed under the Manufactured Home Property Tax Law if the owner so requests [Rev. & Tax. Code § 5801(a)(2)]. Except as provided in the Manufactured Home Property Tax Law, setting out special rules for determining the base year value of a mobilehome and defining a change in ownership of a mobilehome and the new construction of a mobilehome, mobilehomes are subject to property taxation, as well as subject to the other provisions of the Revenue and Taxation Code governing property taxation, in the same manner and to the same extent as any other personal property on the roll as defined in Rev. & Tax. Code § 109 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 5810].

Transfer of a mobilehome park to a nonprofit corporation or other entity formed by tenants of the park to purchase the park does not trigger reassessment if the transfer is to tenants renting at least 51 percent of the park [Rev. & Tax. Code § 62.1].

§ 369.43 Registration and Titling

Registration and titling of mobilehomes is under the jurisdiction of the Department of Housing and Community Development [Health & Safety Code § 18075 et seq.; see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 5510-5668]. However, mobilehomes subject to local property taxation under Rev. & Tax. Code § 5800 et seq. and not installed on foundations [see § 369.42[3]] are only subject to registration at the time of sale, resale, or transfer of title [Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(a)]. In addition, mobilehomes installed or to be installed on foundations in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 18551(a) [see § 369.37] are exempt from the registration requirement as long as they remain affixed to the foundation system [Health & Safety Code § 18075.5(b)].

§ 369.44 Creditors' Claims

[1] Mechanics' Liens

If a mobilehome is installed as an improvement to real property in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 18551(a), it is considered to be real property [see Civ. Code § 658; Health & Safety Code § 18551; see also § 369.42[1]]. The mechanics' liens law [Civ. Code § 3109 et seq.] gives a lien "upon the property," for the value of their services and goods, to persons who have "bestowed labor or furnished materials or appliances or leased equipment ... contributing to a work of improvement" [Civ. Code § 3110 (phrases juxtaposed)]. "Work of improvement" is not defined in the law, although examples are given [see Civ. Code § 3106]. Installing a mobilehome and doing work on an installed mobilehome are not listed among those examples. However, there can be no doubt that a contractor who installs a mobilehome or works on an installed mobilehome, in the case of an installation pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 18551(a) at least, is contributing to a work of improvement in the context of the mechanics' liens law, since improvement in this sense can only mean improvement of real property. For further discussion, see Ch. 361, Mechanics' Liens .

[2] Other Liens for Services and Materials

If a mobilehome is not so affixed to land as to be real property [see § 369.42[1]], it is a "vehicle" as that term is defined in the Vehicle Code [see § 369.11[1][g]]. Therefore, it could be subject to a lien for services and materials under the liens-on-vehicles law [Civ. Code §§ 3067-3074], which provides, "[e]very person has a lien dependent upon possession for the compensation to which he is legally entitled for making repairs or performing labor upon, and furnishing supplies or materials for, and for the storage, repair or safekeeping of, and for the rental of parking space for, any vehicle of a type subject to registration under the Vehicle Code, subject to the limitations set forth in [Civ. Code §§ 3067-3074]" [Civ. Code § 3068(a); see § 369.43]. For discussion of, and forms for use in enforcing, such liens, see Ch. 342, Liens and Wage Preferences .

Since a mobilehome not affixed to land is a "vehicle" as that term is defined in the Vehicle Code, no lien on a mobilehome could arise under Civ. Code § 3051 [see Civ. Code § 3051 (second paragraph)].

[3] Judgment Creditors

[a] Exemption from Execution

A mobilehome that serves as the principal dwelling for a judgment debtor or the judgment debtor's spouse, together with the outbuildings and land on which they are situated, may be exempt from execution under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 704.710 et seq., 704.965 (homesteads). The amount of the homestead exemption varies depending on whether or not the judgment debtor or the judgment debtor's spouse who resides in the mobilehome is any of the following [see Code Civ. Proc. § 704.730]:

- 65 years of age or older;
- Physically or mentally disabled and as a result of that disability is unable to engage in substantial gainful employment; or
- 55 years old or older with a gross annual income of not more than $15,000, or if married, a gross annual income, including the gross annual income of his or her spouse, of not more than $20,000, and the sale is an involuntary sale.

The mobilehome will be exempt from sale completely if no bid is received at an execution sale that exceeds the amount of homestead exemption plus any additional amount necessary to satisfy all liens and encumbrances on the property, or if no bid is received that is 90 percent or more of the fair market value of the mobilehome unless the court grants permission to accept a lower bid or makes a new order for sale [see Code Civ. Proc. § 704.800]. For forms for claiming homestead exemptions, see Ch. 294, Homesteads .

[b] Levy on a Mobilehome

To levy on a mobilehome that is personal property used as a dwelling, the levying officer must serve a copy of the writ of execution and notice of levy on one occupant of the property in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 700.080. If the judgment creditor so instructs, the levying officer will also place a keeper in charge of the property for the period requested by the judgment creditor [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.080(b)]. If a mobilehome is levied on and a certificate of title has been issued by the Department of Housing and Community Development for that mobilehome and the certificate is still in effect, the levying officer must determine the name and address of the legal owner and serve the copy of the writ of execution and notice of levy on that person [Code Civ. Proc. § 700.090]. For discussion and forms relating to execution of judgments, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments .

[4] Security Interests

Security interests in mobilehomes are perfected by filing with the Department of Housing and Community Development [Health & Safety Code § 18080.7]. Priority is determined by order of filing [Health & Safety Code §§ 18105, 18106].

[5] Foreclosure Under Security Agreement

[a] Required Procedures

In the event of default under the provisions of a security agreement relating to a loan or conditional sale contract that gives the secured party the right to foreclose its security interest in a mobilehome subject to registration under Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq. that is not inventory of a dealer, including the right to repossess the property, the secured party may foreclose its security interest only by satisfying certain requirements, as discussed below, notwithstanding any contrary provisions in the security agreement, conditional sale contract, or any other agreement entered into before default [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)].

In the event of default under the provisions of a security agreement relating to a loan or conditional sale contract in which the collateral is a mobilehome subject to registration that is inventory of a dealer or a commercial coach, the secured party may repossess and dispose of the collateral in accordance with the provisions of the security agreement or conditional sale contract and applicable law, including the provisions of Com. Code § 9101 et seq. On repossession, the secured creditor must prepare and forward to the Department of Housing and Community Development a notice of repossession on the form prescribed by that Department [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(b)].

[b] Notice of Default

Unless the registered owner of the mobilehome has abandoned the property or voluntarily surrendered possession of the property to the foreclosing creditor, the foreclosing creditor must deposit or cause to be deposited in the United States mail an envelope addressed to each registered owner as shown on the current registration of the mobilehome, registered or certified with postage prepaid, containing a notice in at least 10-point type, signed by the foreclosing creditor, in substantially the form set forth in Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(1) [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(1); see § 369.113]. For the definitions of "legal owner" and "registered owner," see §§ 369.11[5], [6].

Within five days after mailing the notice of default, the foreclosing creditor must forward a copy of the notice to (1) the legal owner shown on the current registration card, if different than the foreclosing creditor, (2) each junior lienholder shown on the current registration card, if different than the foreclosing creditor, and (3) the Department of Housing and Community Development. The notice must be forwarded to each party in the same manner as provided for mailing the original notice to the registered owner [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(2)].

[c] Curing Default

Each registered owner and each junior lienholder having a security interest subordinate to the security interest of the foreclosing creditor has the right to cure the default by the methods and in the manner prescribed in the notice of default within 45 days after mailing of the notice to the registered owner [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(3)].

[d] Private or Public Sale

If the default is not cured within the time indicated on the notice of default, or if the property has been abandoned or voluntarily surrendered to the foreclosing creditor by the registered owner, the creditor may proceed to sell the property at a private or public sale in accordance with the provisions of Com. Code § 9504 and Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(c). The notice of sale required by Com. Code § 9504 may not be mailed or delivered before expiration of the period for the right to cure the default, as stated in the notice of default, unless the property has been abandoned or voluntarily surrendered to the foreclosing creditor by the registered owner [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(4); see [e], below]. Additionally, notwithstanding any contrary provisions of Com. Code § 9504, the foreclosing creditor must deposit or cause to be deposited in the United States mail, registered or certified with postage prepaid, an envelope containing the notice of sale addressed to each party to whom the notice of default was mailed. The notice of sale must be given at least 10 days before the date fixed for a public sale or on or after which any private sale is to be made [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(5)].

For purposes of foreclosure, a mobilehome will be deemed abandoned if (1) the foreclosing creditor gives written notice of his or her belief of abandonment to the registered owner, and (2) the owner fails to give the foreclosing creditor written notice, before the appropriate date specified in the foreclosing creditor's notice, stating that he or she has not abandoned and does not intend to abandon the mobilehome, and stating an address at which he or she may be served by certified mail with a summons in connection with any legal action that the foreclosing creditor may appropriately initiate. The foreclosing creditor may give a notice of belief of abandonment only if he or she reasonably believes that the registered owner has abandoned the mobilehome. The notice of belief of abandonment must be personally delivered to the registered owner or sent to him or her at his or her last known address by registered or certified mail, with postage prepaid. If there is reason to believe that the notice sent to the registered owner's last known address will not be received by the owner, the foreclosing creditor must also send the notice to any other address known to the foreclosing creditor where the registered owner may reasonably be expected to receive the notice [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(6)]. The notice of belief of abandonment must be in at least 10-point type, in substantially the form set forth in Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(6) [see § 369.114].

[f] Application of Proceeds

The proceeds of the sale of a mobilehome must be applied, in the following order, to the following items:

- First, to the reasonable and necessary expenses incurred for preparing for and conducting the sale, and, if the foreclosing creditor has obtained possession of the collateral prior to the disposition, the reasonable and necessary expenses for the retaking and holding of the collateral, and to the extent provided for in the agreement and not prohibited by law, reasonable attorney's fees and legal expenses incurred by the foreclosing creditor in retaking the property from any person not a party to the credit contract [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(c)(1)];

- Second, to the satisfaction of the indebtedness secured by the security interest of the foreclosing creditor under which the disposition is made [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(c)(2)];

- Third, to the satisfaction of indebtedness secured by any subordinate liens or encumbrances on the property in the order of their priority as provided in Health & Safety Code § 18105, if with regard to a junior creditor written notification of demand therefor is received before distribution of the proceeds is completed, and to the satisfaction of any subordinate attachment lien or execution lien pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 701.040(b) if notice of the levy of attachment or execution is received before distribution of the proceeds is completed. If requested by the foreclosing creditor, the holder of a subordinate lien or encumbrance must furnish reasonable proof of his or her interest, and unless he or she does so, the foreclosing creditor need not comply with the demand [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(c)(3)];

- Fourth, to the satisfaction of indebtedness secured by all senior liens or encumbrances in the order of their priority as provided in Health & Safety Code § 18105, if with regard to a senior creditor written demand therefor is received by the foreclosing creditor before distribution of the proceeds is completed. If requested by the foreclosing creditor, the holder of a senior lien or encumbrance must furnish reasonable proof of his or her interest, and unless he or she does so, the foreclosing creditor need not comply with the demand [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(c)(4)]; and

- Lastly, to the registered owner within 45 days after the sale is conducted if a surplus remains [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(c)(5)].

If a request for an accounting is made within one year of the sale, and an accounting was not automatically provided to the registered owner within 45 days after the sale of a mobilehome, the foreclosing creditor must provide the registered owner with a written accounting containing the gross sales proceeds and its allocation in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(c). In the event any surplus is paid to the registered owner under Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(c)(5), the foreclosing creditor must furnish such an accounting whether or not requested by the registered owner [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(d)].

[6] Deficiency After Forced Sale

No deficiency judgment lies in any event after the sale of any mobilehome subject to registration under Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq. for failure of the purchaser to complete his or her sale contract given to the seller to secure payment of the balance of the purchase price of the mobilehome. However, this provision does not apply if there is substantial damage to the mobilehome other than wear and tear from normal usage [Health & Safety Code § 18038.7].

There may be a split in authority regarding whether Health & Safety Code § 18038.7 applies to a lender who is not a seller. The predecessor to Health & Safety Code § 18038.7, former Civil Code § 2983.8, which had identical language, was held sufficiently similar to Code Civ. Proc. § 580b, which applies to lenders and sellers of real property, to prohibit a deficiency judgment after the sale of a mobilehome for failure to complete the conditional sales contracts. Its effect was to prohibit the lender from waiving the security and suing for the balance due on the contract. The lender's sole remedy was to repossess the mobilehome [Bank of Sonoma County v. Dorries (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1291, 1293-1294, 230 Cal. Rptr. 459] . In 1988, Health & Safety Code § 18038.7 was held not to apply to lenders because it specifically refers to a sales contract given to the seller and not to lenders, whereas Code Civ. Proc. § 580b refers to both sellers and lenders [Security Pacific Nat. Bank v. Casavant (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 127, 130-132, 252 Cal. Rptr. 175] . This court noted, however, that Bank of Sonoma might be distinguishable because it appeared that the bank enforcing the loan in that case may have been the assignee of a conditional seller [Security Pacific Nat. Bank v. Casavant (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 127, 131 n.3, 252 Cal. Rptr. 175] .

§ 369.45 Payment for Contractor's Work: Defense of No License

[1] General Prohibition

A claim against a mobilehome owner for payment for on-site construction, installation, alteration, repair, or preparation for moving, of a residential mobilehome [see § 369.11[1]] or an accessory building or structure, may be subject to the defense allowed by Bus. & Prof. Code § 7031: that no person engaged in the business or acting in the capacity of a contractor may bring or maintain any action in any California court for the collection of compensation for the performance of any act or contract for which a license is required by the Contractors State License Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7000 et seq.] without alleging that he or she was a duly licensed contractor at all times during the performance of such act or contract. This prohibition does not apply to contractors who are each individually licensed under the Contractors State License Law but who jointly submit a bid or otherwise act in the capacity of a contractor within California without first having secured an additional license for acting in the capacity of such a joint venture or combination [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 7029, 7031].

[2] "Contractor" Defined

In this context "contractor" includes any person engaged in the business of the construction, installation, alteration, repair, or preparation for moving, of a mobilehome or its accessory buildings and structures, as defined in the mobilehomes law [see § 369.11[1], [3]], on a site for the purpose of occupancy as a dwelling [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7027]. "Contractor" also includes the manufacturer when engaged in on-site construction, alteration, or repair, of a mobilehome or mobilehome accessory building or structure, pursuant to specialized plans, specifications, or models, or any work other than in compliance with the manufacturer's warranty [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7027]. "Contractor" does not include the manufacturer or the seller under certain circumstances [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7027(b), (c)].

[3] When License Is Not Required

A license is not required by the Contractors State License Law for the following kinds of work:

- Installation of any finished products, materials, or articles of merchandise, which do not become a fixed part of the mobilehome or mobilehome accessory building or structure [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 7045(a) (also providing that the term "finished products" does not include installed carpets)];

- Any construction, alteration, improvement, or repair of personal property not within the definition of mobilehome or mobilehome accessory building or structure under the mobilehomes law [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 7046]; and

- Any work or operation on one undertaking or project by one or more contracts when (1) the aggregate contract price for labor, materials, and all other items, is less than $500, (2) the work is not merely a part of a larger or major operation undertaken by the same or a different contractor, (3) the work was not divided into contracts for amounts less than $500 for the purpose of qualifying for this exemption, and (4) the person performing the work has not advertised or otherwise indicated to the public that he or she is a contractor or that he or she is qualified to engage in the business of a contractor [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 7048].

The owner of a mobilehome [see § 369.11[1][c]] may remove or cause to be removed the towbar, wheels, wheel hubs, or axles [Health & Safety Code § 18550.5(a)]. A dealer may remove these items only if removal is in accordance with the purchase document and the statutory requirements of Health & Safety Code § 18035.3 pertaining to a purchase document [Health & Safety Code § 18550.5(b)]. A manufacturer may deliver a mobilehome to a dealer without these items if the manufacturer complies with the provisions of Health & Safety Code § 18032 (requiring a label on the mobilehome [see § 369.21[8]]) [Health & Safety Code § 18550.5(c)].

32-369 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 369.47

§ 369.47 Mobilehome Accessory Buildings and Structures and Building Components

[1] Definitions and Standards

A mobilehome accessory building or structure is an awning, cabana, ramada, storage cabinet, storage building, private garage, carport, fence, windbreak or porch, or any residential building or structures established for the use of the occupant of a manufactured home, mobilehome, or recreational vehicle on a lot [Health & Safety Code § 18213; see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1002 (definitions of awning, cabana, ramada, storage cabinet, storage building, garage, carport, fence, windbreak, and porch); see also § 369.11[3]]. A mobilehome "building component" is any subsystem, subassembly, or other system designated for use in, or as part of, a structure, including structural, electrical, mechanical, plumbing, and fire-protection systems and other systems affecting health and safety [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1002].

Pursuant to legislative mandate in the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] to provide for the construction, location, and use of mobilehome accessory buildings or structures to protect the health and safety of the occupants and the public [Health & Safety Code § 18552], the Department of Housing and Community Development has prescribed standards for the construction, use, maintenance, and occupancy of mobilehome accessory buildings or structures and building components located on a lot accommodating a mobilehome. These standards [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1422-1520] purportedly apply to mobilehome accessory buildings and structures and building components whether in or outside a mobilehome park [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1422]. However, the governing statute [Health & Safety Code § 18552] is part of an enactment generally limited to policies regarding mobilehome parks and, unlike other statutes in that Act [see, e.g., Health & Safety Code § 18550], does not show a legislative intent to reach outside mobilehome parks.

[2] In Mobilehome Parks

The operator of a mobilehome park [see § 369.11[2]] may not permit a mobilehome accessory building or structure or building component to be constructed, installed, used, or maintained in the mobilehome park unless it is constructed, installed, used, or maintained in accordance with the requirements of applicable regulations [25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1102(d), 1424(a); see 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1422-1520].

No person may erect, construct, reconstruct, install, relocate, or alter any accessory building or structure or building component within a mobilehome park without first obtaining a written construction permit from the enforcement agency [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1018(d) (excepting certain non-major kinds of work); see § 369.11[4]].

Park operator approval is required on all applications for permits to construct, reconstruct, install, or alter a mobilehome accessory structure (or miscellaneous structure) located or proposed to be located within a mobilehome park [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032(e)]. The park operator has complete discretion to withhold approval but would be liable for damages or subject to a judgment for other appropriate relief if withholding approval unreasonably constitutes breach of an agreement with the tenant [see 52 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 153 (l969) (construing predecessor of 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1032(e))].

[3] Abatement

Any mobilehome accessory structure or building, or building component, or portion thereof, or the premises on which it is located, in which there exists any of the conditions listed in 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1608(a)-(n) (e.g., inadequate sanitation, structural hazards, any nuisance, faulty weather protection) to an extent that endangers the life, limb, health, property, safety, or welfare of the occupants or the public is deemed to be substandard and a nuisance [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1608]. The registered owner of an accessory building or structure or building component that is constructed, altered, converted, used, or maintained in a manner that constitutes a violation of the regulations [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1000 et seq.] or any other applicable provision of law is required to abate the violation [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1610(a)].

§ 369.60 Standards

[1] Standards Should Guarantee Residents Protection of Their Investment and Decent Living Environment

Because of the relatively permanent nature of residence in mobilehome parks [see § 369.11[2][a]] and the substantial investment which a mobilehome represents, residents of mobilehome parks are entitled to live in conditions which assure their health, safety, general welfare, and a decent living environment, and which protect the investment of their mobilehomes [Health & Safety Code § 18250]. Standards and requirements established for construction, maintenance, occupancy, use, and design of mobilehome parks should guarantee mobilehome park residents maximum protection of their investment and a decent living environment [Health & Safety Code § 18251]. It is the purpose of the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] to assure protection of the health, safety, and general welfare of mobilehome park residents [Health & Safety Code § 18254].

[2] Standards for Protection of Life and Property, Generally

Standards prescribed by the Department of Housing and Community Development, pursuant to legislative mandate "for the protection of life and property and to carry out the purposes of this part [Mobilehome Parks Act]" cover construction, installation, alteration, repair, use and maintenance of electrical equipment and electrical wiring systems [Health & Safety Code § 18670; 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1130-1190], fuel gas piping equipment and systems [Health & Safety Code § 18690; 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1200-1236], and plumbing equipment and installations [Health & Safety Code § 18630; 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1240-1284] within mobilehome parks.

[3] Standards for Protection of Health and Safety

Standards prescribed by the Department pursuant to legislative mandate "to protect the health and safety of the occupants and the public" cover construction, use, maintenance, and occupancy of mobilehome accessory buildings and structures in mobilehome parks [Health & Safety Code § 18552; 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1422-1520].

[4] Standards for Protection of Life and Property Against Fire

Standards prescribed "for the protection of life and property against fire in mobilehome parks" [Health & Safety Code § 18691(a)] cover hose connections for lots and a hydrant system for the park [25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1300-1319] but do not apply to mobilehome parks constructed or approved for construction before January 1, 1966 [Health & Safety Code § 18691(a), (c)]. Those standards include regular maintenance and periodic inspection and testing of fire hydrants [Health & Safety Code § 18691(a)]. Other fire-prevention standards cover mobilehome accessory buildings and structures [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1442] in mobilehome parks.

[5] Standards for Installation

Standards are prescribed for the installation of mobilehomes on lots in mobilehome parks [25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1320-1368] "for the protection of life and property" [Health & Safety Code § 18613; see § 369.37].

[6] Other Standards

Other standards prescribed by the Department pursuant to authority given by the Mobilehome Parks Act cover the following:

- Construction and maintenance of swimming pools for public use [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1042 (incorporating standards set forth in California Building Code)];
- Excavation and grading [25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1045, 1116];
- Lot identification [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1104];
- Roadways and access to lots [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1106; see Health & Safety Code § 18612];
- Park lighting [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1108; see Health & Safety Code § 18602]; and
- Providing toilets, lavatories, and showers for public use [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1112; see Health & Safety Code § 18640].

[7] Alternatives to Prescribed Standards

Materials, appliances, installations, devices, arrangements, and methods of construction not specifically prescribed by the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] and implementing regulations [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1000 et seq.] may be used if the Department of Housing and Community Development determines that they are equivalent in quality, strength, effectiveness, fire resistance, durability, safety, and protection of life and health to those which are prescribed [Health & Safety Code § 18305(a), (b)].

[8] Enforcement Powers

The officers or agents of the enforcement agency [see § 369.11[4]] may (1) enter public or private property to determine whether there exists any mobilehome park to which the Mobilehome Parks Act applies, and (2) enter and inspect all mobilehome parks, wherever situated, and inspect all accommodations, equipment, or paraphernalia used in connection therewith, and examine any registers of occupants maintained therein, to secure enforcement of the provisions of the Mobilehome Parks Act, building standards published in the State Building Standards Code relating to mobilehome parks, and other regulations promulgated pursuant to the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18400; see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1000 et seq. (regulations)].

[9] Abatement of Violation

If any mobilehome park is constructed, altered, converted, used, occupied, or maintained in violation of any provision of the Mobilehome Parks Act, or a building standard published in the State Building Standards Code relating to mobilehome parks, or other regulations adopted by the Department of Housing and Community Development pursuant to Mobilehome Parks Act [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1000 et seq.], or any order or notice issued by the enforcement agency [see § 369.11[4]] which allows a reasonable time to correct such violation, the enforcement agency may institute any appropriate action or proceeding to prevent, restrain, correct, or abate the violation [Health & Safety Code § 18404(a)].

The superior court may make any order for which application is made pursuant to the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18404(b)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

32-369 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 369.62

§ 369.62 Construction

[1] Requirement to Obtain Construction Permit

A permit issued by the enforcement agency [see § 369.11[4]] is required for construction of a mobilehome park [see § 369.11[2][a]] or for construction of additional buildings or lots or alteration of buildings, lots, or other installations in an existing mobilehome park [Health & Safety Code § 18500]. However, a permit is not required for certain minor construction work [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1018(d)].

A permit may not be issued without evidence of compliance with the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) [Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.; 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 1030, 1032(b); People v. Department of Housing & Community Dev. (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 185, 194, 119 Cal. Rptr. 266] . For detailed coverage of CEQA, see Ch. 418, Pollution and Environmental Matters , and California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Chs. 20-23 (Matthew Bender).

[2] Refusal to Issue Permit

Issuance of a construction permit for a mobilehome park is discretionary in part and ministerial in part. To the extent that grant or denial for the construction permit is governed by fixed design and construction specifications in statute or regulation, the official decision of conformity or nonconformity is ministerial. Conformity with the more generalized standards of the Mobilehome Parks Act, such as, whether or not the water supply is adequate and potable, the sewage disposal is satisfactory, the site is well-drained and graded, the lighting is sufficient, the suboptimum features call for use and occupancy restrictions are relatively personal decisions addressed to the sound judgment of the administrator. Because such decisions have great environmental significance relative to one physical site, and negligible significance in another, they require a large amount of discretion [People v. Department of Housing & Community Dev. (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 185, 193, 119 Cal. Rptr. 266 (distinguishing ministerial from discretionary permit decisions for purpose of environmental impact report requirements)].

However, the enforcement agency [see § 369.11[4]] is not required by law to hold a hearing for presentation of evidence on which to base discretionary decisions in the permit process. Therefore, refusal of an application for a construction permit would not be reviewable under Code Civ. Proc.§ 1094.5 in an administrative mandate proceeding.

Refusal to issue a permit is a cause of action for a writ of mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085. If the refusal is based solely on alleged noncompliance with prescribed standards not involving agency discretion, the writ may direct issuance of the permit; that is, the court may override the agency's decision that standards have not been met. To the extent that the refusal to issue a permit is based on alleged noncompliance with standards involving agency discretion, the writ may direct issuance of the permit only on a showing of no substantial evidence to support a decision against the applicant (assuming compliance with non-discretionary standards). If the agency has failed or refused to complete the permit process (e.g., has denied an application without considering the evidence), a writ of mandate may direct the agency to act.

If there is a ground for issuing it, the writ must be issued, because damages are not recoverable [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086; Gov. Code §§ 818.4, 820.2, 820.4, 821.2 (governmental immunities from liability for damages)]. For discussion of, and forms for use in, proceedings for writs of mandate, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition .

[3] Refusal to Extend Permit Period

A construction permit is good for six months, excluding any time when the holder is prevented by law from proceeding with the work [see People v. Department of Housing & Community Dev. (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 185, 200, 119 Cal. Rptr. 266] ; but that period may be extended by the enforcement agency [see § 369.11[4]] for a reasonable time [Health & Safety Code § 18509], provided work has actually been started [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(a)]. The Commission of Housing and Community Development has provided that extensions may be for six months at a time and that all construction permits expire two years from the date of issuance [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(a)].

The purpose of a statute providing an expiration date for a construction permit when work has not commenced is to prevent one from reserving land for future purposes when that person does not intend in good faith to presently commence the proposed use [Morgan v. County of San Diego (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 636, 641, 97 Cal. Rptr. 180 ; Upton v. Gray (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 352, 357, 74 Cal. Rptr. 783 (source of quoted words)].

Refusal to grant an extension must be based on this policy. If such a refusal exceeds the bounds of reason (in light of the policy), all circumstances being considered, it is arbitrary and may be reversed by a writ of mandate directing the enforcement agency to grant the requested extension [see Morgan v. County of San Diego (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 636, 640-642, 97 Cal. Rptr. 180 (judgment granting petition for writ, affirmed); see also § 369.131].

If a permit is allowed to expire before construction is completed, permit fees (which may be substantial) are forfeited, and all work on the project must stop until a new permit is obtained [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1038(b), (c)]. In some cases the developer's penalty might go beyond forfeiture of fees. If applicable standards or local zoning laws have been changed since the first permit was issued, the developer might find it very costly, or might be unable to qualify for another permit. (If the developer completes the project without a permit, it is doubtful that an operating permit would be issued [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1010; see also § 369.63].)

§ 369.63 Operation

[1] Requirement to Obtain Operating Permit

A permit issued by the enforcement agency [see § 369.11[4]] is required for operating a mobilehome park [see § 369.11[2][a]] or any portion of a mobilehome park [Health & Safety Code § 18500].

An operating permit is issuable on completion of construction in compliance with applicable standards, and annually thereafter provided the existing permit is not suspended [Health & Safety Code §§ 18505, 18506]. In the event of a change in ownership, an amended operating permit must be issued on proper application [Health & Safety Code § 18507(a)].

[2] Refusal to Issue Permit

Issuance of a mobilehome park operating permit probably is, like issuance of a construction permit, partly a ministerial function and partly a discretionary function [see § 369.62[2]]. The procedure, however, does not involve a hearing for presentation of evidence; therefore, refusal to issue a permit is a cause of action for a writ of mandate directing issuance, under Code Civ. Proc. § 1085, and not an administrative decision reviewable in an administrative mandate proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. If the applicant qualifies for the permit and there has been abuse of discretion in refusing to issue it, the writ must be issued, because damages are not recoverable [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086; Gov. Code §§ 818.4, 820.2, 820.4, 821.2 (governmental immunities from liability for damages)].

[3] Suspension of Permit

[a] Grounds for Suspension

Violation of any provision of the Mobilehome Parks Act or of the permit is a ground for suspending the operating permit [Health & Safety Code § 18510]. Willful violation of any provision of the Mobilehome Parks Act, any implementing regulation, or any building standard published in the State Building Standards Code relating to mobilehome parks is a ground for suspending or revoking the operating permit [Health & Safety Code § 18700].

[b] Notice of Violation

The suspension process begins with a notice of violation from the enforcement agency stating both the violation and that the permit will be subject to suspension unless the violation is corrected within 30 days [Health & Safety Code § 18511]. The notice must be served by posting a copy in a conspicuous place on the premises described in the permit and sending a copy, by registered mail with return receipt requested, to the person named in the permit at the address shown in the permit [Health & Safety Code § 18512]. Usually the notice is a letter.

[c] Hearing

The permit holder is entitled to a hearing on filing a written notice request [see § 369.115] within 10 days after the day of mailing of the notice of violation [Health & Safety Code § 18513]. The hearing must commence within 10 days after the filing of the request for hearing, unless the enforcement agency grants the permit holder's request for a postponement for a good and sufficient reason [Health & Safety Code § 18515]. At the hearing the permit holder is entitled to be heard and to show cause why the notice of violation should be modified or withdrawn [Health & Safety Code § 18514].

[d] Action by Enforcement Agency

After the hearing the enforcement agency must sustain, modify, or withdraw the notice of violation, depending on the agency's finding as to whether or not the provisions of the Mobilehome Parks Act have been complied with [Health & Safety Code § 18516]. If the violation cited in the notice persists more than 30 days after the mailing and posting of the notice, the agency may suspend the operating permit [Health & Safety Code § 18517]. A suspended permit must be reinstated, or a new permit must be issued, on proof that the provisions of the Mobilehome Parks Act and of the suspended permit have been complied with [Health & Safety Code § 18518].

The agency's decision to suspend an operating permit and the proceedings leading to that decision are reviewable in an administrative mandate proceeding pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. For discussion of, and forms for use in, such a proceeding, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , through Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions .

[4] Operation of Mobilehome Park Is Business Activity

[a] Acts of Unfair Competition

Operation of a mobilehome park is a business activity for the purpose of enforcing state laws on unfair competition [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 16600 et seq. (preservation and regulation of competition)]. Violations of the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] and related sections of the Administrative Code [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1000 et seq.] constitute acts of unfair competition [People v. McKale (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 626, 632, 159 Cal. Rptr. 811, 602 P.2d 731] . When an interested person commences an action within four years after the cause of action accrues [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17208], acts of unfair competition may be enjoined, and restitution of money or property acquired through acts of unfair competition may be compelled [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17203], in addition to any other relief that may appropriately be given [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17205]. The defendant in an action by the attorney general, a district attorney, a city attorney, or a city prosecutor in addition to being enjoined, may be held liable for a civil penalty [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17204 (authorization for suit by public attorney), 17206, 17207; see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17204.5, 17206.5 (authorizing San Jose city attorney to bring action, with consent of Santa Clara County District Attorney, until city's population reaches 750,000; then repealed)]. An additional penalty, which may be trebled, applies to actions brought by, on behalf of, or for the benefit of senior citizens or disabled persons to redress acts of unfair competition perpetrated against them [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17206.1; Civ. Code § 3345; see Ch. 565, Unfair Competition, § 565.10 et seq.].

The fact that enforcement of the Mobilehome Parks Act is the responsibility of the Department of Housing and Community Development or an analogous local agency [see § 369.11[4]] does not preclude the attorney general, a district attorney, or a city attorney from alleging violations of the Act as acts of unfair competition in an action for injunction and civil penalty [People v. McKale (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 626, 632-634, 159 Cal. Rptr. 811, 602 P.2d 731] .

Violations of the Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.] also constitute acts of unfair competition [see People v. McKale (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 626, 635, 159 Cal. Rptr. 811, 602 P.2d 731] .

For a form of class action complaint by a mobilehome park tenant against the management, an injunction against future violations, and for restitution of moneys collected in violation of the Mobilehome Residency Law (such as, pet fees in violation of Civ. Code § 798.33 or guest fees in violation of Civ. Code § 798.34), see § 369.143.

A mobilehome park is also a business for purposes of local business license laws, which actually are tax laws (designed to raise revenue) rather than regulatory laws [see Gov. Code § 37101 (authority for local taxation of businesses); 40 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 241 (1962)] .

[b] Discrimination Is Unlawful

A mobilehome park is undoubtedly a business establishment under the Unruh Civil Rights Act and related statutes [Civ. Code §§ 51-53; see People v. McKale (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 626, 637, 159 Cal. Rptr. 811, 602 P.2d 731] . A lot in a mobilehome park is probably a housing accommodation under the former Fair Housing Law [People v. McKale (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 626, 637,159 Cal. Rptr. 811, 602 P.2d 731 ; see former Health & Safety Code § 35700 et seq.; see also former Health & Safety Code § 35710(f); see now Gov. Code § 12900 et seq. (California's Fair Employment and Housing Act)].

Mobilehome parks are specifically excepted from Civ. Code §§ 51.2, 51.3, the age discrimination provisions of the Unruh Civil Rights Act [Schmidt v. Superior Court (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 370, 385-388, 256 Cal. Rptr. 750, 769 P.2d 932 ; see Civ. Code § 51.3(c)(5) ("dwelling" does not include mobilehome)]. Other provisions of the Unruh Civil Rights Act, however, such as those prohibiting discrimination on the basis of religion or ancestry, presumably do apply to mobilehome parks [see People v. McKale (1975) 25 Cal. 3d 626, 637, 159 Cal. Rptr. 811, 602 P.2d 731 (decided before enactment of Civ. Code § 51.3(c)(5))]. In addition, 42 U.S.C. §§ 3602(k), 3605 prohibit exclusion of families with children under 18 years of age except in housing that qualifies as "housing for older persons" under 42 U.S.C. § 3607(b)(2)(B), (C) [see Schmidt v. Superior Court (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 370, 376, 391, 256 Cal. Rptr. 750, 769 P.2d 932] .

Unlawful discrimination by management in the operation of a mobilehome park would constitute unfair competition under Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 [People v. McKale (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 626, 637, 159 Cal. Rptr. 811, 602 P.2d 731 ; see [a], above].

For discussion of, and forms for use in, actions based on violations of civil rights by business establishments and violations of the Fair Employment and Housing Act, see Chs. 116, Civil Rights: Discrimination in Business Establishments , and 117, Civil Rights: Housing Discrimination , respectively.

Chapter 369 MOBILEHOMES AND MOBILEHOME PARKS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Mobilehome Parks

32-369 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 369.64

§ 369.64 Maintenance of Acceptable Conditions

[1] Responsible Persons

A person who is responsible must be available for the operation and maintenance of the mobilehome park [see § 369.11[2][a]]. In every mobilehome park with 50 or more units, this person or his or her designee must reside in the mobilehome park and have knowledge of emergency procedures relative to utility systems and common facilities under the ownership and control of the owner of the park [Health & Safety Code § 18603].

The owner or operator of, or designated agent for, the mobilehome park is responsible for the safe operation and maintenance of all common areas, park-owned electrical, gas, and plumbing equipment and their installations, and all park-owned permanent buildings or structures, within the mobilehome park [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1102(a)].

The legal owner of the property, or the park owner or operator for properties or permanent buildings under their ownership or control, that is maintained in a manner that constitutes a violation of law, must abate the violation [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1610(b)]. The person responsible for the violation must cause it to be corrected within five days or within such longer period of time as may be allowed by the enforcement agency [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1611(a); see § 369.11[4]].

[2] Abatement of Nuisance

The owner or operator of a mobilehome park must abate any nuisance in the mobilehome park within five days, or within such longer period of time as may be allowed by the enforcement agency [see § 369.11[4]], after the owner or operator has been given written notice to remove the nuisance. If the owner or operator fails to do so within that time, the district attorney of the county in which the mobilehome park, or the greater portion of the mobilehome park, is situated must bring a civil action to abate the nuisance in the superior court of the county in the name of the people of the State of California [Health & Safety Code § 18402]. The action may also be brought by the attorney general, the county counsel of the jurisdiction in which the park, or the greater portion of the park, is located, or a city attorney or city prosecutor if the park is located within the city's jurisdiction [Health & Safety Code § 18402].

In any action or proceeding to abate a nuisance in a mobilehome park, proof of either one of the following facts is sufficient for a judgment or order for the abatement of the operation of the mobile home park [Health & Safety Code § 18403]:

- A previous conviction of the owner or operator of a violation of the Mobilehome Parks Act or a building standard published in the State Building Standards Code relating mobilehome parks which constitutes a nuisance or failure on the part of the owner or operator to correct the violation after the conviction; or

- The violation is the basis for the proceeding.

The substantial failure of the management to provide and maintain physical improvements in the common facilities in good working order and condition is a public nuisance. Also, the substantial violation of a mobilehome park rule is a public nuisance. Notwithstanding the provisions of Civ. Code § 3491, such nuisances only may be remedied by a civil action or abatement [Civ. Code § 798.87]. A civil action may be brought by a park resident, the park management, or in the name of the people of California by the district attorney or county counsel of the jurisdiction in which the park, or the greater portion of the park, is located, the city attorney or city prosecutor if the park is located within the city's jurisdiction, or the attorney general [Civ. Code § 798.87(c)].

[3] Abatement of Substandard Building

Any building, structure, or portion thereof, or the premises on which it is located, in which there exists any of the conditions listed in 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1605(a)-(n) (e.g., inadequate sanitation, structural hazards, any nuisance, faulty weather protection) to an extent that endangers the life, limb, health, property, safety, or welfare of the public or the occupants thereof is substandard [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1605].

When a permanent building is maintained in a manner that constitutes a violation of law, the legal owner of the property, or the park owner or operator who has ownership or control over the building, must abate the violation [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1610(b)]. The person responsible for the violation must cause it to be corrected within five days or within such longer period of time as may be allowed by the enforcement agency [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1611(a); see § 369.11[4]].

[4] Animal Control

Dogs and other domestic animals are not permitted to run at large in the mobilehome park [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1608; see Health & Safety Code § 18601].

[5] Artificial Lighting

In every mobilehome park there must be kept burning from sunset to sunrise sufficient artificial light to adequately illuminate every building containing public toilets and public showers, and the area or tract of land containing the mobilehome park [Health & Safety Code § 18602; see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1108].

[6] Debris Removal

The park owner or operator may not permit waste paper, hay, grass, straw, weeds, litter, or combustible flammable waste, or rubbish of any kind, to remain on any roof or in any vacant lot, open space, or common area. Provisions must be made for the collection and safe disposal of such materials [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1120(b), (d)].

[7] Fire Prevention and Suppression

In areas where fire department services are not available, the mobilehome park operator is responsible for instructing the park staff in the use of the park's fire protection equipment and the staff's specific duties in the event of fire [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1305].

A notice must be posted in a conspicuous place in the park showing all of the following:

- Telephone numbers of the fire department, police or sheriff's department, mobilehome park office, the person responsible for operation and maintenance of the park, and the enforcement agency [see § 369.11[4]];

- Locations of the nearest fire alarm box, if any, and the nearest public telephone; and

- The park's street or highway address [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1122].

All fire protection or suppression equipment must be protected against freezing in any areas subject to freezing [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1314].

Tenants must keep the area under and around their mobilehomes free from an accumulation of refuse, rubbish, paper, leaves, brush, or other combustible material [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1120(a)].

[8] Trees and Driveways

Park management is solely responsible for the trimming, pruning, or removal of any tree in the common areas of a mobilehome park [Civ. Code § 798.37.5(b)]. With regard to trees on rental spaces in a mobilehome park, park management is solely responsible for trimming, pruning, or removing a tree on written notice by a homeowner or a determination by park management that the tree poses a specific hazard or health and safety violation [Civ. Code § 798.37.5(a)]. In the case of a dispute over that assertion, the park management or a homeowner may request an inspection by the Department of Housing and Community Development or a local agency responsible for the enforcement of the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] to determine whether there is a violation of that Act [Civ. Code § 798.37.5(a)]. No homeowner may plant a tree within a mobilehome park without first obtaining written permission from the management [Civ. Code § 798.37.5(d)].

Park management is also solely responsible for the maintenance, repair, replacement, paving, sealing, and the expenses related to the maintenance of all driveways installed by park management, including repair of root damage to driveways and foundation systems [Civ. Code § 798.37.5(c)]. However, homeowners are responsible for the maintenance, repair, replacement, paving, sealing, and the expenses related to the maintenance of a homeowner-installed driveway [Civ. Code § 798.37.5(c)]. A homeowner may be charged for the cost of any damage to the driveway caused by an act of the homeowner or a breach of the homeowner's responsibilities under the mobilehome park rules and regulations, so long as those rules and regulations are not inconsistent with the statutory requirements [Civ. Code § 798.37.5(c)].

These provisions applicable to trees and driveways apply only to rental agreements entered into, renewed, or extended on or after January 1, 2001 [Civ. Code § 798.37.5(f)].

[9] Utility Service Equipment and Connections

[a] Operation and Maintenance Responsibilities

The owner of the mobilehome park or the owner's agent is responsible for the safe operation and maintenance of all electrical, gas, and plumbing equipment and installations in the mobilehome park, which are under the owner's or agent's ownership or control [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1604(a)]. Connections and installations used to supply gas, water, or electricity, and sewage connections, for mobilehomes must be maintained in accordance with the requirements for material, size, location, and capacity provided in applicable regulations [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1000 et seq.]. Connections and installations made before the effective date of any such requirement may continue in use if they are in compliance with requirements in effect at the date of being installed and if they are not found to be unsafe or unsanitary. If they are subject to damage by vehicles or other causes, all mobilehome lot utilities must be protected by posts, fences, or other permanent barriers [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1634].

[b] Drains and Sewers

A mobilehome lot drain inlet must be gas-tight when not in use [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1254(b)] and must be provided with a trap if a unit is installed, or proposed to be installed, on the lot and its plumbing fixtures are not protected by approved traps and vents [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1258].

[c] Electricity

Electrical equipment and installations must be maintained in safe operating condition, and calculated connected loads must not exceed the rated ampacity of such equipment and installations [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1188(a)]. In addition, all park or lot service equipment must be accessible by an unobstructed entrance or passageway and must have a working space in front of and centered on the service equipment [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1183]. Electrical installations or equipment disconnected by order of the enforcement agency [see § 369.11[4]] pursuant to regulation [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1190(a)] must not be reenergized until a permit has been obtained to repair the installation or equipment and the work has been inspected and approved by the enforcement agency [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1190(b)].

[d] Natural Gas

The operator of a mobilehome park natural gas piping system is responsible for complying with federal regulations [49 C.F.R. Parts 191, 192] implementing the Pipeline Safety Law of 1994 (49 U.S.C. § 1971) [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1206]. Whenever a mobilehome lot gas riser outlet is not in use, it must be closed with an approved cap or plug to prevent accidental discharge of gas [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1220(d)]. Gas piping or equipment that has been disconnected by order of the enforcement agency [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1236(a)] must not be reconnected to a gas supply until a permit has been obtained to alter, repair, or reconstruct the gas piping and the completed work has been inspected and approved by the enforcement agency [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1236(b)].

[e] Water

Each mobilehome lot must be provided with a potable water lot service outlet [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1274(a)]. A separate water service shutoff valve must be installed in each lot water service outlet at each lot [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1274(c)].

[10] Interruption in Utility Service

The management must provide, by posting notice on the mobilehomes of all affected homeowners and residents, at least 72 hours written advance notice of an interruption in utility service of more than two hours for the maintenance, repair, or replacement of facilities of utility systems over which the management has control within the park, provided the interruption is not due to an emergency. "Emergency" means the interruption of utility service resulting from an accident or act of nature, or cessation of service caused by other than the management's regular or planned maintenance, repair, or replacement of utility facilities [Civ. Code § 798.42]. The management is liable only for actual damages sustained by a homeowner or resident for a violation of the notice requirement [Civ. Code § 798.42].

This notice requirement also applies to the management of a mobilehome subdivision, cooperative, or condominium and of a resident-owned mobilehome park [Civ. Code § 799.7].

[11] Vehicular Traffic Control

Regulations governing the parking of vehicles vary according to when the mobilehome park was constructed. For parks constructed before September 15, 1961, no vehicle parking may be allowed on roadways less than 22 feet in width. If vehicle parking is permitted on one side of the roadway, the roadway must be at least 22 feet wide. If vehicle parking is permitted on both sides of the roadway, the roadway must be no less than 30 feet in width [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1106(a)(2)].

For mobilehome parks constructed on or after September 15, 1961, no vehicle parking may be allowed on one-way, one-lane roadways less than 22 feet in width. If vehicle parking is permitted on one side of a one-lane roadway, that roadway must be a minimum of 22 feet in width. If vehicle parking is permitted on both sides of a one-lane roadway, the roadway must be at least 30 feet in width [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1106(b)(2)]. No vehicle parking may be allowed on two-lane, two-way roadways less than 32 feet in width. If vehicle parking is permitted on one side of a two-way roadway, the roadway must be at least 32 feet in width. If vehicle parking is permitted on both sides of a two-way roadway, the roadway must be at least 40 feet in width [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1106(b)(3)].

[12] Emergency Preparedness Plan

Owners and operators of existing parks must adopt emergency preparedness plans by September 1, 2010 [Health & Safety Code § 18603(b)(1)]. For parks constructed after September 1, 2010, the park owner or operator must adopt an emergency preparedness plan before the issuance of the permit to operate [Health & Safety Code § 18603(b)(2)]. This requirement may be met by either (1) adopting the emergency procedures and plans approved by the Standardized Emergency Management System Advisory Board on November 21, 1997, entitled "Emergency Plans for Mobilehome Parks," and compiled by the former Office of Emergency Services in compliance with the Governor's Executive Order W-156-97, or any subsequent version; or (2) adopting a plan that is developed by the park management and is comparable to the procedures and plans set forth in item (1) [Health & Safety Code § 18603(b)(3)].

For an existing park and for a new park constructed after September 10, 2010, before the issuance of the permit to operate, an owner or operator of a park must post notice of the emergency preparedness plan in the park clubhouse or in another conspicuous area within the mobilehome park, and provide to all existing residents and, on approval of tenancy, for all new residents thereafter, notice of how to access the plan as well as information on individual emergency preparedness from appropriate state or local agencies, including the California Emergency Management Agency [Health & Safety Code § 18603(c)]. This may be accomplished in a manner that includes distribution of materials and posting notice of the plan or information on how to access the plan via the internet [Health & Safety Code § 18603(c)(2)].

The enforcement agency must determine whether park management is in compliance with the emergency preparedness requirements [Health & Safety Code § 18603(d)]. A violation of Health & Safety Code § 18603 constitutes an unreasonable risk to life, health, or safety and must be corrected by park management within 60 days of notice of the violation [Health & Safety Code § 18603(e)].

Every park must have a person who is familiar with the emergency preparedness plans for the park [Health & Safety Code § 18603(a)].

§ 369.65 Entry Into Mobilehomes and Onto Mobilehome Lots

The ownership or management of a mobilehome park [see § 369.11[2]] may enter a mobilehome without the prior written consent of the occupant in case of emergency or when the occupant has abandoned the mobilehome [Civ. Code § 798.26(b); see Civ. Code § 799.2.5 (applicable to resident-owned mobilehome parks)]. Additionally, the ownership or management has a right of entry on the land on which a mobilehome is situated (1) for maintenance of utilities, driveways, and trees; (2) for maintenance of the premises in accordance with the rules and regulations of the park when the homeowner or resident fails to so maintain the premises; and (3) for protection of the park at any reasonable time, but not in a manner or at a time that would interfere with the occupant's quiet enjoyment [Civ. Code § 798.26(a); see Civ. Code § 799.2.5 (applicable to resident-owned mobilehome parks)].

In any other case, the ownership or management of a mobilehome park has no right of entry into a mobilehome without the prior written consent of the occupant. Such consent may be revoked in writing by the occupant at any time [Civ. Code § 798.26(a); see Civ. Code § 799.2.5 (applicable to resident-owned mobilehome parks)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Mobilehome Parks

32-369 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 369.66

§ 369.66 Rent, Fees, and Charges

[1] Limitations

A tenant in a mobilehome park [see § 369.11[2][b]] may not be charged a fee for other than rent, utilities, and incidental reasonable charges for services actually rendered [Civ. Code § 798.31]. However, property taxes imposed on park land may be charged to residents [Cacho v. Boudreau (2007) 40 Cal. 4th 341, 345]. There was a split of authority on the question of whether an assessment or rent "pass-through" for capital improvements is a prohibited fee under Civ. Code § 798.31 or is a permitted form of "rent." Interpretation of local rent control ordinances has been determinative in some of these cases [see Robinson v. City of Yucaipa (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 1506, 1512-1513, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 291 (permitted form of rent); Karrin v. Ocean-Aire Mobile Home Estates (1991) 1 Cal. App. 4th 1066, 1070-1073, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 581 , overruled in part by Cacho v. Boudreau (2007) 40 Cal. 4th 341, 358, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 43 (prohibited fee)]. In other areas with no applicable rent control ordinance, the language of the lease itself has been determinative [see Vance v. Villa Park Mobilehome Estates (1995) 36 Cal. App. 4th 698, 705-706, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 723 (permitted form of rent); Dills v. Redwoods Associates, Ltd. (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 888, 893, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 838 (permitted form of rent)].

A homeowner may not be charged a fee for services actually rendered that are not listed in the rental agreement unless the homeowner has been given written notice thereof by the management at least 60 days before imposition of the charge. Those fees and charges must be separately stated on any monthly or other periodic billing to the homeowner. If the fee or charge has a limited duration or is amortized for a specified period, the expiration date must be stated on the initial notice and each subsequent billing to the homeowner while the fee or charge is billed to the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.32]. A homeowner must not be charged a fee for obtaining a lease on a mobilehome lot for a term of 12 months or less, as the homeowner may request. A fee may be charged for a lease of more than one year if the fee is mutually agreed on by both the homeowner and management [Civ. Code § 798.32]. A homeowner may not be charged a fee based on the number of members in his or her immediate family consisting of the homeowner, the homeowner's spouse, their parents, their children, and their grandchildren under 18 years of age [Civ. Code § 798.35]. A homeowner may not be charged a fee for the enforcement of any of the rules and regulations of the park [Civ. Code § 798.36]. However, a reasonable fee may be charged by management for the maintenance of the land and premises on which the mobilehome is situated in the event the homeowner fails to do so in accordance with the rules and regulations of the park after written notification to the homeowner and the failure of the homeowner to comply within 14 days. The written notice must state the specific condition to be corrected and an estimate of the charges to be imposed by management if the services are performed by management or its agent [Civ. Code § 798.36(a)].

The management may not charge or impose on a homeowner any fee or increase in rent that reflects the cost to the management of any fine, forfeiture, penalty, money damages, or fee assessed by a court of law against the management for violation of the Mobilehome Residency Law, including any related attorney's fees and costs incurred by the management [Civ. Code § 798.39.5(a)]. In determining whether a homeowner has met the burden of proof in demonstrating that a fee or rent increase is in violation of Civ. Code § 798.39.5, a court must consider the remoteness in time of the assessment against the management [Civ. Code § 798.39.5(b)]. Any provision in a rental agreement entered into, renewed, or modified on or after January 1, 1995, that permits a fee or increase in rent that reflects the cost to the management of any money damages awarded against the management for a violation of the Mobilehome Residency Law is void [Civ. Code § 798.39.5(c)].

Management may also charge a reasonable fee if, in good faith, it has removed and stored a homeowner's or resident's personal property in order to bring the premises into compliance with park rules and regulations or with the Mobilehome Parks Act or its implementing regulations [Civ. Code § 798.36(a), (b)]. Management must provide at least 14 days' written notice of its intent to remove the personal property. The notice must (1) include a description of the property to be removed; (2) specify the rule, regulation, or code justifying the removal; and (3) provide an estimate of the charges to be imposed by management. The property to be removed may not include the mobilehome or its appurtenances or accessory structures [Civ. Code § 798.36(b)(1)]. The homeowner or resident is responsible for reimbursing management the actual, reasonable costs of removing and storing the property [Civ. Code § 798.36(b)(2)]. In addition, costs incurred by management in correcting the rules violation associated with the removal and storage of the property are deemed to be reasonable incidental service charges and may be collected pursuant to Civ. Code § 798.56(e) if a notice of nonpayment of the removal and storage fees is personally served on the homeowner [Civ. Code§ 798.36(b)(2), (3)].

If the homeowner or resident does not claim the property within 60 days, the property is deemed abandoned and management may dispose of it in any manner. If the homeowner or resident claims the property but has not reimbursed management for storage costs, management may bill those costs in a monthly statement that constitutes notice of nonpayment, and the costs will become the obligation of the homeowner or resident. If a resident or homeowner communicates in writing his or her intent to abandon the property before 60 days has expired, management may dispose of the property immediately and no further storage charges may accrue [Civ. Code § 798.36(b)(3)]. If management elects to dispose of the property by way of sale or auction and the funds received by management exceed the amount owed, it must refund the difference to the homeowner or resident within 15 days from the date of receipt [Civ. Code § 798.36(b)(4)]. The refund must be delivered to the homeowner or resident by first-class mail postage prepaid to his or her address in the park or by personal delivery, and must include an accounting specifying the costs of removal and storage of the property incurred by management in correcting the rules violation and the amount of proceeds realized from the sale or auction [Civ. Code § 798.36(b)(4)]. If a sale or auction of the property yields less than the costs incurred by management, the homeowner or resident is responsible for the difference. This amount will be deemed a reasonable incidental service charge and may be collected pursuant to Civ. Code § 798.56(e) if a notice of nonpayment of the removal and storage fees is personally served on the homeowner [Civ. Code§ 798.36(b)(4)]. If management elects to proceed under § 798.36, it may not also terminate the tenancy pursuant to Civ. Code § 798.56(d) [see § 369.78[2]] based on the same specific violations. Management has the burden of proof that enforcement was undertaken in a nondiscriminatory, nonselective fashion [Civ. Code§ 798.36(b)(4)].

[2] Rent

The management must give a homeowner written notice of any increase in the tenant's rent at least 90 days before the date of the increase [Civ. Code § 798.30]. Notice of a rent increase to begin in less than 90 days is totally void; it is not effective to raise rent 90 days after the notice [Rich v. Schwab (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 739, 742-743, 209 Cal. Rptr. 417] .

[3] Rent Control

Local mobilehome park rent control ordinances coupled with state statutory restrictions on eviction of mobilehome park residents do not constitute a physical taking of the property of the mobilehome park owner. The effect of the ordinance that tenants have the right to occupy the site at below market rents indefinitely does not constitute a physical taking because the government does not require the landowner to submit to physical occupation of its property. The mobilehome park owner voluntarily rents the property to the tenants and has the right to get out of the mobilehome park business. The rent control laws merely regulate the use of the land by regulating the landlord-tenant relationship. Thus, the rent control ordinances are not invalid on the basis that they are a physical taking of the property. In reaching this holding, the United States Supreme Court expressly did not rule on the issue of whether there is a regulatory taking of the property [Yee v. City of Escondido (1992) 503 U.S. 519, 527-532, 112 S. Ct. 1522, 118 L. Ed. 2d 153] . Physical takings and regulatory takings are further discussed in Ch. 247, Eminent Domain and Inverse Condemnation . Rent control in the landlord-tenant context generally, is covered in Ch. 335, Landlord and Tenant: Rent Control .

[4] Rental Agreements Exempt From Rent Control

Newly constructed spaces initially held out for rent after January 1, 1990, are exempt from any ordinance, rule, regulation, or initiative measure adopted by any city or county, that establishes a maximum amount that a landlord may charge a tenant for rent [Civ. Code § 798.45; see Civ. Code § 798.7 (definition of "new construction"); for discussion of rent control regulations generally, see Ch. 335, Landlord and Tenant: Rent Control]. In addition, rental agreements on existing spaces are exempt from any ordinance, rule, regulation, or initiative measure adopted by any local governmental entity that establishes a maximum amount that a landlord may charge a tenant for rent if the criteria of Civ. Code § 798.17(b) are met. The terms of an exempt rental agreement prevail over conflicting provisions of any ordinance, rule, regulation, or initiative measure limiting or restricting rents in mobilehome parks only during the term of the rental agreement or one or more uninterrupted, continuous extensions of the rental agreement. If the rental agreement is not extended and no new rental agreement in excess of 12 months' duration is entered into, then the last rental rate charged for the space under the previous rental agreement is the base rent for purposes of applicable provisions of law concerning rent regulation [Civ. Code § 798.17(a)(1)].

Provisions of a local rent control ordinance regulating the renewal by existing tenants of rent control-exempt leases have been held to be preempted by Civ. Code § 798.17 of the Mobilehome Residency Law [Mobilepark West Homeowners Assn. v. Escondido Mobilepark West (1995) 35 Cal. App. 4th 32, 46-47, 41 Cal. Rptr. 2d 393] .

The first sentence of the first paragraph of a rental agreement entered into under Civ. Code § 798.17 must contain a provision notifying the homeowner that the agreement will be exempt from any ordinance, rule, regulation, or initiative measure adopted by any local governmental entity that establishes a maximum amount that a landlord may charge a tenant for rent [Civ. Code § 798.17(a)(2)].

Rental agreements subject to Civ. Code § 798.17(a) must meet all of the following criteria [Civ. Code § 798.17(b)]:

- The rental agreement must be in excess of 12 months' duration;

- The rental agreement must be entered into between the management and a homeowner for the latter's personal and actual residence;

- The homeowner must have at least 30 days from the date the rental agreement is first offered to accept or reject it; and

- A homeowner who executes a rental agreement offered pursuant to Civ. Code § 798.17 may void the agreement by notifying management in writing within 72 hours of the homeowner's execution of the agreement.

A rental agreement entered into on or after January 1, 1993, must not have a provision that authorizes automatic extension or renewal of, or automatically extends or renews, the rental agreement for a period beyond the initial stated term at the sole option of either management or the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.17(g)].

At the time the rental agreement is first offered to the homeowner, the management must provide written notice to the homeowner of the homeowner's right (1) to have at least 30 days to inspect the rental agreement, and (2) to void the rental agreement by notifying management in writing within 72 hours of the acceptance of a rental agreement. Management's failure to provide the written notice makes the rental agreement voidable at the homeowner's option on the homeowner's discovery of the failure. The receipt of any written notice provided pursuant to Civ. Code § 798.17(f) must be acknowledged in writing by the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.17(f)].

The homeowner may reject the offered rental agreement and, instead, accept a rental agreement for a term of 12 months or less from the date the offered agreement begins [Civ. Code § 798.17(c); see also Civ. Code § 798.18 (rental agreements for 12 months or less)]. For discussion of rental agreements for 12 months or less, see § 369.70 (Space Rental Agreement). If the homeowner elects to have a rental agreement for 12 months or less, including a month-to-month tenancy, the rental agreement must provide the same rental charges, terms, and conditions as a rental agreement offered under Civ. Code § 798.17(b) (discussed above), during the first 12 months, except for options contained in the offered rental agreement to extend or renew the agreement [Civ. Code § 798.17(c)].

Civ. Code § 798.17(c) does not prohibit the park management from offering gifts of value, other than rental rate reductions, to homeowners who execute a rental agreement subject to Civ. Code § 798.17 [Civ. Code § 798.17(d)].

With regard to any space in a mobilehome park that is exempt from rent control under Civ. Code § 798.17(a), and notwithstanding any ordinance, rule, regulation, or initiative measure, a mobilehome park may not be assessed any fee or other exaction for a park space that is exempt under Civ. Code § 798.17(a) imposed in accordance with any ordinance, rule, regulation, or initiative measure. No other fee or other exaction may be imposed for an exempt park space for the purpose of defraying the cost of administration thereof [Civ. Code § 798.17(e)].

Civ. Code § 798.17 does not apply to or supersede other provisions of Part Two of the Civil Code (Civ. Code § 755 et seq.) or other state law [Civ. Code § 798.17(n)].

Notwithstanding the provisions of Civ. Code § 798.17, and subject to certain statutory exceptions [see Civ. Code § 798.21(f)], if a mobilehome space within a mobilehome park is not the principal residence of the homeowner and the homeowner has not rented the mobilehome to another party, it is exempt from any ordinance, rule, regulation, or initiative measure adopted by any city, county, or city and county, which establishes a maximum amount that the landlord may charge a tenant for rent [Civ. Code § 798.21(a)].

[5] Separate Charge for Rent Control Fees

A city or county that administers an ordinance, rule, regulation, or initiative measure that establishes a maximum amount that management may charge a tenant for rent must permit the management to separately charge a homeowner for any of the following [Civ. Code § 798.49(a)]:

- The amount of any fee, assessment, or other charge first imposed by any local, state, or federal government on or after January 1, l995, on the space rented by the homeowner;

- The amount of any increase on or after January 1, 1995, in an existing fee, assessment, or other charged imposed by any governmental entity on the space rented by the homeowner; and

- The amount of any fee, assessment, or other charge imposed or increased on or after January 1, 1993, pursuant to any state or locally mandated program relating to housing in the Health and Safety Code.

The amount of any of the authorized fees, assessments, or other charges listed above must be separately stated on any billing to the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.49(c)].

If management has charged the homeowner for a fee, assessment, or other charge that was increased or first imposed on or after January 1, 1993, and the fee, assessment, or other charge is decreased or eliminated thereafter, the charge to the homeowner must be decreased or eliminated accordingly [Civ. Code § 798.49(b)]. Any change in the amount of a fee, assessment, or other charge listed above must be considered when determining any rental adjustment under the local ordinance [Civ. Code § 798.49(c)].

The right to charge for rent control fees does not apply to the following [Civ. Code § 798.49(d)]:

- Fees, assessments, or charges imposed under the Mobilehome Parks Act unless specifically authorized by Health & Safety Code § 18502;

- Those costs that are imposed on management by a court in accordance with Civ. Code § 798.39.5;

- Any fee or other exaction imposed on management for the specific purpose of defraying the cost or administration of any ordinance, rule, regulation, or initiative measure that establishes a maximum amount that management may charge for rent; and

- Any tax imposed on the property by a city or county.

Those fees and charges must be separately stated on any monthly or other periodic billing to the homeowner. If the fee or charge has a limited duration or is amortized for a specified period, the expiration date must be stated on the initial notice and each subsequent billing to the homeowner while the fee or charge is billed to the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.49(e)].

The Mobilehome Residency Law does not preempt local rent control ordinances insofar as they allow mobilehome park owners to separately charge park residents for property taxes imposed on mobilehome park land [Cacho v. Boudreau (2007) 40 Cal. 4th 341, 345, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 43, 149 P.3d 473] . Civ. Code § 798.49(a) (rent control ordinance must allow park owners to pass through government fees and assessments) can be harmonized with Civ. Code § 798.31 (mobilehome park owner may not charge park residents for anything other than rent, utilities, or reasonable service charges) by construing the separate charges for governmental assessments and fees under § 798.49(a) as a permissible component of the total rent. This conclusion is not inconsistent with Civ. Code § 798.49(d) (Civ. Code § 798.49 "shall not apply" to property taxes) because § 798.49(d) means only that local rent control agencies are not required to allow park owners to separately charge park residents for property taxes, not that they are prohibited from doing so. The effect of the exclusion is to preserve the authority of local rent control agencies to deal with property taxes as a pass-through item, like the assessments and fees listed in Civ. Code § 798.49(a), as a factor to be considered in periodic discretionary adjustments of base rent, or as both [Cacho v. Boudreau (2007) 40 Cal. 4th 341, 354, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 43, 149 P.3d 473] .

[6] Separate Billing for Utilities

If the park management elects to bill a homeowner separately for utilities [see § 369.66[11]], the separately billed utility fees and charges are not deemed to be included in the rent charged under the rental agreement and are not deemed to be rent or a rent increase for purposes of any ordinance, rule, regulation, or initiative measure that establishes a maximum amount that a landlord may charge a tenant for rent, provided that, at the time of the initial separate billing of the utility fees and charges, the rent chargeable under the rental agreement or the base rent chargeable under the terms of a local rent control provision is simultaneously reduced by an amount equal to the fees and charges separately billed. The amount of this reduction must be equal to the average amount charged to the park management for that utility service for that space during the 12 months immediately preceding notice of the commencement of the separate billing for that utility service [Civ. Code § 798.41(a)]. Civ. Code § 798.41 does not apply to rental agreements entered into before January 1, 1991, until extended or renewed on or after that date [Civ. Code § 798.41(b)].

Those fees and charges must be separately stated on any monthly or other periodic billing to the homeowner. If the fee or charge has a limited duration or is amortized for a specified period, the expiration date must be stated on the initial notice and each subsequent billing to the homeowner while the fee or charge is billed to the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.41(d)].

[7] Security Deposit

A security deposit may be required only on or before the initial occupancy. The deposit may not be in an amount or value in excess of two months' rent that is charged at the inception of the occupancy, in addition to the first month's rent [Civ. Code § 798.39(a)].

Any security deposit collected on or after January 1, 1989, must be refunded to the homeowner if he or she has promptly paid, within five days of the date the amount is due, all rent, utilities, and reasonable service charges for any consecutive 12-month period after the collection of the deposit or resale of the mobilehome, whichever occurs first. The homeowner must make a written request for the refund, and it must be made within 30 days of the end of the 12-month period or the date of the mobilehome's resale [Civ. Code § 798.39(b)]. Management is not required to place any security deposit in an interest-bearing account or to provide a homeowner with any interest on the security deposit [Civ. Code § 798.39(f)].

For security deposits collected before January 1, 1989, the deposit must be refunded to the homeowner on the extension or renewal of the rental agreement or lease between the homeowner and the management, and on receipt of a written request from the homeowner. To be eligible for the refund, the homeowner must have paid, within five days of the due date, all of the rent, utilities, and reasonable service charges for the 12-consecutive-month period preceding the receipt of the written request. The management must refund the security deposit within 60 days [Civ. Code § 798.39(c)]. With regard to any security deposits collected before January 1, 1989, and not otherwise disbursed, in the event the mobilehome park is sold or transferred to any other party or entity, the selling park owner must deposit in escrow an amount equal to all security deposits held by the park owner. Also, the seller's escrow instructions must direct that on the close of escrow the security deposits deposited in escrow that were held by the selling park owner (including the escrow period) for 12 months or more, must be disbursed to the persons who paid the deposits to the selling park owner and promptly paid (within five days of their due date) all rent, utilities, and reasonable service charges for the 12-month period preceding the close of escrow [Civ. Code § 798.39(d)].

Security deposits in escrow that were held by the selling park owner and were not required to be disbursed to the homeowner must be disbursed to the selling park owner's buyer or other successor in interest. The buyer or other successor in interest then has the same legal obligations with regard to the security deposits as did the original, selling park owner. The required disbursement of security deposits may be made in escrow by a debit to the seller and a credit to the buyer or other successor in interest [Civ. Code § 798.39(e)].

[8] Installation and Landscaping Fees

A homeowner may not be charged a fee for entry, installation, hookup, or landscaping as a condition of tenancy, but reasonable landscaping and maintenance requirements may be included in the park rules and regulations [Civ. Code § 798.37]. Additionally, an actual fee or cost imposed by a local governmental ordinance or requirement directly related to the occupancy of the specific site on which the mobilehome is located and not incurred as a portion of the development of the mobilehome park as a whole may be charged [Civ. Code § 798.37]. The management may not require a homeowner or prospective homeowner to purchase, rent, or lease goods or services for landscaping, remodeling, or maintenance from any person, company, or corporation [Civ. Code § 798.37].

[9] Pet Fees

No lease agreement entered into, modified, or renewed on or after January 1, 2001, may prohibit a homeowner from keeping at least one pet within the mobilehome park, subject to reasonable park rules and regulations [Civ. Code § 798.33(a)]. For these purposes, "pet" means any domesticated bird, cat, dog, aquatic animal kept within an aquarium, or other animal as agreed to between the management and the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.33(c)]. A homeowner may not be charged a fee for keeping a pet in the park unless the management actually provides special facilities or services for pets. If special pet facilities are maintained by the management, the fee charged must reasonably relate to the cost of maintaining the facilities or services and the number of pets kept in the park [Civ. Code § 798.33(b)].

[10] Guest Fees

A homeowner may not be charged a fee for a guest who does not stay with the tenant for more than a total of 20 consecutive days or a total of 30 days in a calendar year. Such a guest will not be required to register with the management [Civ. Code § 798.34(a)].

A homeowner who is living alone and who wishes to share his or her mobilehome with one person may do so, and a fee may not be imposed by management for that person. That person must be considered a guest of the homeowner, and any agreement between the homeowner and that person will not change the terms and conditions of the rental agreement between management and the homeowner. The guest must comply with the rules and regulations of the mobilehome park [Civ. Code § 798.34(b)].

A homeowner in a park may share his or her mobilehome with any person over 18 years of age if that person is providing live-in health care, live-in supportive care, or supervision to the homeowner under a written treatment plan prepared by a physician or surgeon. A fee may not be charged by management for that person. That person has no rights of tenancy in the park, but must comply with all park rules and regulations [Civ. Code §§ 798.34(c), 799.9(a)].

A senior homeowner (a homeowner or resident who is 55 years of age or older) who resides in a mobilehome park that has implemented rules or regulations limiting residency based on age requirements for older persons [see Civ. Code §§ 798.76, 799.5] may share his or her mobilehome with any person over 18 years of age if the person is a parent, sibling, child, or grandchild of the senior homeowner and requires live-in health care, live-in-supportive care, or supervision under a written treatment plan prepared by a physician or surgeon. Management may not charge a fee for this person, and the person has no rights of tenancy in the park. However, the person must comply with park rules and regulations. Unless otherwise agreed on, park management is not required to manage, supervise, or provide for the person's care during his or her stay in the mobilehome park [Civ. Code §§ 798.34(d), 799.9(b)].

[11] Utility Charges

When the management provides both master-meter and submeter service of utilities to a tenant, for each billing period, the cost of the charges for the period must be separately stated along with the opening and closing readings for the meter. The management must post in a conspicuous place the prevailing residential utilities rate schedule as published by the serving utility [Civ. Code § 798.40(a)]. If a third-party billing agent or company prepares utility billing for the park, management must disclose the name, address, and telephone number of the billing agent or company on each resident's billing [Civ. Code § 798.40(b)].

The management of a master-meter mobilehome park must give written notice to homeowners and residents in their utility billing statements by February 1 of each year about assistance to low-income persons for utility costs under the California Alternate Rates for Energy (CARE) program [Civ. Code § 798.43.1(a)]. The full amount of the CARE program discount must be passed through to the qualified homeowners and residents in monthly utility billings. The discount must be noticed on the billing statement as either an itemized amount of the discount or as a notation on the statement that the homeowner or resident is receiving the CARE discount on the electric bill, the gas bill, or both the electric and gas bills [Civ. Code § 798.43.1(c)].

When a rental agreement, including a rental agreement specified in Civ. Code § 798.17 [see [4], above], does not specifically provide otherwise, management may elect to bill a homeowner separately for utility service fees and charges assessed by the utility for services provided to or for spaces in the park [Civ. Code § 798.41(a)]. Civ. Code § 798.41 applies to natural or liquid propane gas, electricity, water, cable television, garbage or refuse service, and sewer service [Civ. Code § 798.41(a)]. Rental agreements, are not, however, required to provide for separate billings, and Civ. Code § 798.41 does not apply to rental agreements entered into before January 1, 1991, until extended or renewed on or after that date [Civ. Code § 798.41(b), (c)]. For discussion of the effect of separate utilities billing on rental agreements, particularly rental agreements exempt from rent control, see [6], above.

Whenever a homeowner is responsible for paying gas, water, or electric utility service, management must disclose to the homeowner any condition by which a gas, water, or electric meter on the homeowner's site measures the service for common area facilities or equipment, including lighting, provided that management has knowledge of the condition [Civ. Code § 798.43(a)]. Management must make this disclosure before the inception of the tenancy or on discovery, and must do either of the following [Civ. Code § 798.43(a)]:

- Enter into a mutual written agreement with the homeowner for compensation by management for the cost of the portion of the service measured by the homeowner's meter for the common area facilities to the extent that this cost accrues on or after January 1, 1991; or

- Discontinue using the meter on the homeowner's site for the utility service to the common area facilities and equipment.

If the meter measures electricity for required lighting and the lighting provides lighting for the homeowner's site, management must comply with the above requirement [Civ. Code § 798.43(b); see Health & Safety Code § 18602 (mandated lighting within mobilehome parks)].

The management of a park that does not permit mobilehome owners or park residents to purchase liquified petroleum gas for use in the mobilehome park from someone other than the management may not sell liquified petroleum gas to homeowners and residents at a cost which exceeds 110 percent of the actual price paid by the management for liquified petroleum gas [Civ. Code § 798.44(a)]. If the management sells liquified petroleum gas to homeowners and tenants under these circumstances, it must post in a visible location the actual price paid by the management for the liquified petroleum gas [Civ. Code § 798.44(b)]. These requirements also apply when federal, state, or local laws or regulations, including requirements for setbacks between mobilehomes, prohibit homeowners or residents from installing their own liquefied petroleum gas supply tanks, even though the management of the mobilehome park permits mobilehome owners and park residents to buy their own liquefied petroleum gas [Civ. Code § 798.44(e)]. However, in no way are the management's rights under Civ. Code § 798.31 [see [1], above] abrogated by the requirements set forth in this paragraph [Civ. Code § 798.44(d)].

Owners of parks with mastered meters and submeters are prohibited from recovering utility expenses through rent increases [see Hillsboro Properties v. Public Utilities Commission (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 246, 256--257, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 343 (Public Utilities Commission exercised its ratemaking authority and did not exceed its jurisdiction in ordering-mobilehome park owner to recalculate its net operating income to exclude income and expenses from tenant gas and electricity usage and rent increases to exclude certain utility improvement costs); Rainbow Disposal Co. v. Escondido Mobilehome Rent Review Bd. (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 1159, 1168-1169, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 746] .

[12] Liens Prohibited

Management may not acquire a lien or security interest, other than an interest arising by reason of process issued to enforce a judgment of any court, in a mobilehome located in the park unless it is mutually agreed on by both the homeowner and management. Any billing and payment on the obligation must be kept separate from current rent [Civ. Code § 798.38].

[13] Notice of Zoning

Management of a mobilehome park must give prospective tenants notice before the inception of the tenancy of both of the following [Civ. Code § 798.27(a)]:

- The nature of the zoning permit under which the mobilehome park operates. If the mobilehome park is operating under a permit subject to a renewal or expiration date, the relevant information and dates must be included in the notice; and

- The duration of any lease of the mobilehome park, or any portion of any lease, in which the management is the lessee.

If a change occurs concerning the zoning permit under which the park operates or a lease in which the management is a lessee, all tenants must be given written notice within 30 days of such change. Notification regarding the change of use of the park, or any portion of the park, is governed by Civ. Code § 798.56(g) [Civ. Code § 798.27(b); see § 369.73[2]].

[14] Notice of School Facilities Fee

Under certain circumstances, management of a mobilehome park and management of a subdivision, cooperative, or condominium for mobilehomes must disclose in writing to prospective residents that their manufactured home or mobilehome may be subject to a school facilities fee. The disclosure must be made at the time of the prospective resident's application for residency. The disclosure requirement extends to any person who proposes to purchase or install a manufactured home or mobilehome on a space, on which the construction of the pad or foundation system commenced after September 1, 1986, and no other manufactured home or mobilehome was previously located, installed, or occupied [Civ. Code §§ 798.82, 799.8].

In any new mobilehome park that is developed after January 1, 1982, mobilehome spaces may not be rented for the accommodation of recreational vehicles as defined by Civ. Code § 799.29 unless the mobilehome park has a specifically designated area within the park for such vehicles that is separate and apart from the area designated for mobilehomes. Recreational vehicles may be located only in the specifically designated area [Civ. Code § 798.22(a)]. The restriction does not apply until 75 percent of the spaces in the parks have been rented for the first time [Civ. Code § 798.22(b)].

§ 369.68 Rules and Regulations

[1] Amendments

When management proposes an amendment to the park's rules and regulations, the management must meet and consult with the homeowners in the park, their representatives, or both. Written notice setting forth the proposed amendment to the park rules and the date, time, and location of the meeting must be given to all the homeowners in the park 10 days or more before the meeting [Civ. Code § 798.25(a)]. Following the meeting and consultation with the homeowners, the noticed amendment to the park rules and regulations may be implemented, as to any homeowner, with the consent of that homeowner, or without the homeowner's consent on written notice of not less than six months. However, regulations applicable to recreational facilities may be amended without homeowner consent on written notice of not less than 60 days [Civ. Code § 798.25(b)]. Written notice to a homeowner whose tenancy commences within the required period of notice of a proposed amendment to the park's rules and regulations constitutes compliance when the notice is given before the inception of the tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.25(c)]. Any amendment to the park's rules and regulations that creates a new fee payable by the homeowner and that has not been expressly agreed on by the homeowner and management in the written rental agreement or lease is void and unenforceable [Civ. Code § 798.25(e)].

When management proposes an amendment to the park's rules and regulations that is mandated by a change in the law, including a change in a statute, ordinance, or governmental regulation, it may implement the amendment to the park rules and regulations, as to any homeowner, with the consent of that homeowner or without the homeowner's consent on written notice of not less than 60 days [Civ. Code § 798.25(d)]. The notice must include a citation to the statute, ordinance, or regulation, including the section number, that necessitates the proposed amendment to the park's rules and regulations [Civ. Code § 798.25(d)].

[2] Applicability

The park's owner and any park employee is subject to and must comply with all park rules and regulations to the same extent as residents and guests [Civ. Code § 798.23(a)]. This requirement does not apply to any rule or regulation that governs the age of any resident or guest or to acts of an owner or employee that are undertaken to fulfill a park owner's maintenance, management, and business operation responsibilities [Civ. Code § 798.23(b)].

Any rule or regulation of a mobilehome park that (1) is unilaterally adopted by the management, (2) is implemented without the consent of the homeowners, and (3) by its terms purports to deny homeowners their right to a trial by jury or which would mandate binding arbitration of any dispute between management and homeowners is void and unenforceable [Civ. Code § 798.25.5].

[3] Injunction Against Violation

A continuing violation of a rule or regulation of a mobilehome park may be enjoined by the management [see Civ. Code § 798.88]. For a form of petition for obtaining a temporary restraining order and permanent injunction and discussion of the procedure to obtain it, see § 369.132.

§ 369.69 Hours of Common Area Facilities

Each common area facility must be open or available to residents at all reasonable hours, and the hours of the common area facilities must be posted at the facility [Civ. Code § 798.24]. A homeowner may not be required to pay a cleaning deposit or obtain liability insurance to use common area facilities for the purposes specified in Civ. Code §§ 798.50 (homeowners' right to assemble and meet) and 798.51 (homeowners' right to assemble and meet in park) [Civ. Code § 798.51(b), (d)]. However, a liability insurance binder may be required if alcoholic beverages are to be served at any meeting or private function [Civ. Code § 798.51(c)].

§ 369.70 Space Rental Agreement

[1] Definitions

"Rental agreement" means an agreement between the management of a mobilehome park [see § 369.11[2][b]] and the homeowner that establishes the terms and conditions of a tenancy. A lease is a rental agreement [Civ. Code § 798.8]. "Tenancy" means the right of a homeowner to the use of a site within a mobilehome park on which to locate, maintain, and occupy a mobilehome [see § 369.11[1][e]], site improvements, and accessory structures for human habitation, including the use of the services and facilities of the park [Civ. Code § 798.12].

[2] Required Contents of Rental Agreement

The rental agreement must be in writing and contain, in addition to the provisions otherwise required by law, certain specified provisions [see Civ. Code § 798.15]. The rental agreement may include such other provisions permitted by law [Civ. Code § 798.16].

[3] Requirement to Offer Rental Agreement for Specified Time

A homeowner must be offered a rental agreement for one of the following [Civ. Code § 798.18(a)]:

- A term of 12 months;
- A lesser period as the homeowner may request; or
- A longer period as mutually agreed on by both the homeowner and the management.

The agreement may not contain any terms or conditions with regard to charges for rent, utilities, or incidental reasonable service charges that would be different during the first 12 months of the agreement from the corresponding terms or conditions that would be offered to the prospective homeowner or homeowners on a month-to-month basis [Civ. Code § 798.18(b)]. A rental agreement entered for a term of 12 months or less must not have a provision that authorizes automatic extension or renewal of, or automatically extends or renews, the rental agreement beyond the initial term for a term longer than 12 months at the sole option of either management or the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.18(c)].

[4] Copy of Lease or Rental Agreement

Management must return an executed copy of the lease or rental agreement to the homeowner within 15 business days after management has received the lease or rental agreement signed by the homeowner [Civ. Code § 798.16(b)].

[5] Waiver Prohibited

No rental agreement for a mobilehome may contain a provision by which the homeowner waives his or her rights under Civ. Code §§ 798-798.88. Any such waiver is deemed contrary to public policy and void [Civ. Code § 798.19].

[6] Membership in Restricted Club as Condition for Tenancy Is Prohibited

Membership in any private club or organization that is a condition for tenancy in a park must not be denied on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, national origin, ancestry, familial status, disability, or source of income [Civ. Code § 798.20; see Gov. Code § 12955(a), (d); see also Gov. Code §§ 12926, 12926.1(m), 12955(p)(1), 12955.2 (definitions)]. With regard to familial status, Civ. Code § 798.20(a) may not be construed to apply to housing for older persons, as defined in Gov. Code § 12955. Also with regard to familial status, nothing in § 798.20(a) may be construed to affect Civ. Code §§ 51.2, 51.3, 51.4, 51.10, 51.11, and 799.5, relating to housing for senior citizens. However, Civ. Code §§ 51(d) and 1360 (concerning requirements for building construction and alterations) and Gov. Code § 12955(n), (o), and (p) (concerning financial status) do apply to § 798.20(a) [Civ. Code § 798.20(b)].

32-369 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 369.71

§ 369.71 Tenant Meetings

[1] Rights of Homeowner

No provision in any mobilehome park rental agreement, rule, or regulation may deny or prohibit the right of any homeowner or resident to do any of the following [Civ. Code § 798.51]:

- Peacefully assemble or meet in the park, at reasonable hours and in a reasonable manner, for any lawful purpose. Meetings may be held in the park community or recreation hall or clubhouse when the facility is not otherwise in use, and, with the consent of the homeowner, in any mobilehome in the park;

- Invite public officials, candidates for public office, or representatives of mobilehome owner organizations to meet with homeowners and speak on matters of public interest;

- Canvass and petition homeowners and residents for noncommercial purposes relating to mobilehome living, election to public office, or the initiative, referendum, or recall processes, at reasonable hours and in a reasonable manner, including the distribution or circulation of information; and

- Display a political campaign sign relating to a candidate for election to public office or to the initiative, referendum, or recall process. The sign may not exceed six square feet and may not be displayed for a period longer than 90 days before the election to 15 days following the election, unless a local ordinance within the jurisdiction where the mobilehome park is located imposes a more restrictive time period [Civ. Code §§ 798.51(e), 799.10].

It was the Legislature's intent in enacting the above provision to ensure that homeowners and residents of mobilehome parks have the right to peacefully assemble and freely communicate with one another and with others with regard to mobilehome living or for social or educational purposes [Civ. Code § 798.50].

Any homeowner or resident who is prevented by management from exercising the rights provided above may bring an action in a court of law to enjoin enforcement of any rule, regulation, or other policy that unreasonably deprives a homeowner or resident of those rights [Civ. Code § 798.52].

A park rule that management may close a park recreation hall at any time and exclude any park resident from the hall probably violates Civ. Code § 798.51 [see People v. McKale (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 626, 636-637, 159 Cal. Rptr. 811, 602 P.2d 731 (construing prior statute, former Civ. Code § 789.5(e), which provided tenant meetings "shall not be subject to prohibition by park management")]. Merely having (not to mention enforcing) such a rule is an act of unfair competition enjoinable under Bus. & Prof. Code § 17203 [People v. McKale (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 626, 634-637, 159 Cal. Rptr. 811, 602 P.2d 731] .

[2] When Management Must Meet and Consult with Homeowners

The management must meet and consult with the homeowners, on written request within 30 days of the request, either individually, collectively, or with representatives of a group of homeowners who have signed a request to be so represented on the following matters [Civ. Code § 798.53]:

- Resident concerns regarding existing park rules that are not subject to Civ. Code § 798.25 (notice requirement for amending park rules);
- Standards for maintenance of physical improvements in the park;
- Addition, alteration, or deletion of service, equipment, or physical improvements; and
- Rental agreements exempt from rent control offered in accordance with Civ. Code § 798.17.

Any collective meeting may be conducted only after notice of the meeting has been given to all the requesting homeowners 10 days or more before the meeting [Civ. Code § 798.53].

§ 369.73 Termination of Tenancy by Management

[1] Written Notice

The management of a mobilehome park [see § 369.11[2][b]] may not terminate or refuse to renew a tenancy except as permitted by the Mobilehome Residency Law [see [2], below] and on the giving of written notice to the homeowner in the manner prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1162 (three-day notice in unlawful detainer case and like notices) to remove the mobilehome from the park within a period of not less than 60 days, which period must be specified in the notice [Civ. Code § 798.55(b)]. A copy of the notice must be sent to the legal owner, as defined in Health & Safety Code § 18005.8, each junior lienholder as defined in Health & Safety Code § 18005.3, and the registered owner of the mobilehome if other than the homeowner, by United States mail within 10 days after notice to the homeowner. The copy may be sent by regular mail or by certified or registered mail with return receipt requested. If the homeowner has not paid the rent due within three days after notice to the homeowner and the first notice was not sent by certified or registered mail, a copy of the notice must again be sent to the legal owner, junior lienholder, and registered owner, by certified or registered mail with return receipt requested within 10 days after notice to the homeowner. Copies of the notice must be addressed to the legal owner, each junior lienholder, and the registered owner at their addresses, as set forth in the registration card specified in Health & Safety Code § 18091.5 [Civ. Code § 798.55(b)].

The provisions of the Mobilehome Residency Law relating to termination of tenancy may not affect any rights or proceedings set forth in the forcible entry and detainer law [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1159-1179a] except as otherwise provided in Civ. Code §§ 798.55-798.61 [Civ. Code § 798.60].

For forms of notice, and for additional discussion and forms relating to the termination of tenancies in mobilehome parks, see Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions , and California Legal Forms, Ch. 39, Mobilehome Parks (Matthew Bender).

[2] Permissible Reasons

A mobilehome park tenancy may be terminated by the management only for one or more of the following reasons:

(1) Violation of Law. The homeowner or resident has failed to comply with a local ordinance or state law or regulation relating to mobilehomes within a reasonable time after the homeowner receives a notice of noncompliance from the appropriate governmental agency [Civ. Code § 798.56(a)].

(2) Annoying Conduct. The homeowner or resident has engaged in conduct, on park premises, that constitutes a substantial annoyance to other homeowners or residents [Civ. Code § 798.56(b)]. A mobilehome park was held to owe tenants both an implied and a contractual duty to preserve their quiet enjoyment of the premises, and was required to make a reasonable response to conduct by the plaintiffs' neighbor that constituted a substantial annoyance. The Mobilehome Residency Law expressly preserves park owners' ability to secure the quiet enjoyment of mobilehome park tenants by authorizing owners to pursue eviction or injunctive relief against offending tenants [Civ. Code §§ 798.56(b), (d), 798.88; Andrews v. Mobile Aire Estates (2005) 125 Cal. App. 4th 578, 591-592, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 832] .

(3) Criminal Conduct. The homeowner or resident has been convicted of prostitution, an assault with a firearm on another person or on a peace officer or firefighter engaged in the performance of his or her duties [Pen. Code §§ 243(d), 245(a)(2), (b)], lewd or lascivious acts involving children [Pen. Code § 288], arson [Pen. Code § 451], or a felony controlled substance offense, and the act resulting in the conviction was committed on the premises of the mobilehome park, including but not limited to within the homeowner's mobilehome. The tenancy may not be terminated for such conduct, however, if the person convicted of the offense has permanently vacated, and does not subsequently reoccupy, the mobilehome [Civ. Code § 798.56(c)].

(4) Violation of Park Rules. The homeowner or resident has failed to comply with a reasonable rule or regulation of the park as set forth in the rental agreement or any amendment thereto. No act or omission of the homeowner or resident may constitute such a failure to comply unless and until the management has given the homeowner written notice of the alleged violation and the homeowner or resident has failed to adhere to the rule or regulation within seven days [Civ. Code § 798.56(d)]. If, however, a homeowner has been given a written notice of an alleged violation of the same rule or regulation on three or more occasions within a 12-month period after the homeowner has violated that rule or regulation, no written notice is required for a subsequent violation of the same rule or regulation. The management has the obligation to demonstrate that a rule or regulation has in fact been violated [Civ. Code § 798.56(d)].

Assuming compliance with statutory notice requirements, a guest's violation of park rules and regulations may be attributed to the host homeowner or resident [see People v. McKale (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 626, 636, 159 Cal. Rptr. 811, 602 P.2d 731 (construing former Civ. Code § 789.56(d)(3))].

(5) Default. The homeowner has not paid rent, utility charges, or reasonable incidental service charges, provided that the amount due has been unpaid for at least five days from its due date, and provided that the homeowner must be given a three-day written notice to pay the amount due or to vacate the tenancy. The five-day period does not include the date payment is due. The three-day written notice must be given to the homeowner in the manner prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1162 (as in unlawful detainer cases). A copy of the notice must be sent to the persons or entities described in Civ. Code § 798.55(b) within 10 days after notice is delivered to the homeowner. If the homeowner cures the default, the notice need not be sent. Such notice may be given at the same time as the 60-day notice required for termination of the tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(1)].

Payment by the homeowner before the expiration of the three-day notice period cures the default with regard to such payment. In the event the homeowner does not pay prior to the expiration of the three-day period, the homeowner remains liable for all payments due up to the time the tenancy is vacated [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(2)]. Additionally, payment by the legal owner as defined in Health & Safety Code § 18005.8, by any junior lienholder as defined in Health & Safety Code § 18005.3, or by the registered owner as defined in Health & Safety Code § 18009.5, if other than the homeowner, on behalf of the homeowner before the expiration of 30 calendar days following the mailing of the notice to the legal owner, each junior lienholder, and the registered owner will cure a default with regard to such payment [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(3)]. Cure of a default of rent, utility charges, or reasonable incidental service charges by the legal owner, any junior lienholder, or the registered owner, if other than the homeowner, may not be exercised more than twice during a 12-month period [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(4)]. If the homeowner has been given a three-day notice to pay the amount due or to vacate the tenancy on three or more occasions during the preceding 12-month period, no written three-day notice is required in the case of a subsequent nonpayment of rent, utility charges, or reasonable incidental service charges [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(5)]. Under these circumstances, the homeowner must still be given a 60-day notice to remove his or her mobilehome from the park, with copies sent to the legal owner, any junior lienholder and the registered owner of the mobilehome [Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(5)]. Provided certain conditions are satisfied, any of these parties may have the right to cure the homeowner's default [see Civ. Code § 798.56(e)(6)].

(6) Condemnation. The park is condemned [Civ. Code § 798.56(f)].

(7) Change of Use. There is a change of use of the park or the portion of the park where the tenant's lot is located. "Change of use" means a use of the park for a purpose other than the rental, or the holding out for rent, of two or more mobilehome sites to accommodate mobilehomes used for human habitation. It does not mean the adoption, amendment, or repeal of a park rule or regulation. A change of use may affect an entire park or any portion thereof. Change of use includes, but is not limited to, a change of the park or any portion thereof to a condominium, stock cooperative, planned unit development, or any form of ownership wherein spaces within the park are to be sold [Civ. Code § 798.10].

Change of use is not a permissible reason for terminating a tenancy unless all of the following conditions are met [Civ. Code § 798.56(g)]:

- The management gives the tenants at least 15 days' written notice that the management will be appearing before a local governmental board, commission, or body to request permits for a change of use for the mobilehome park;

- After all required permits requesting a change of use have been approved by the local governmental board, commission, or body, the park's management gives the homeowners six months or more written notice of termination of tenancy;

- If the change of use requires no local governmental permits, then notice must have been given 12 months or more before the management's determination that a change of use will occur. The management in the notice must disclose and describe in detail the nature of the change of use;

- The management has given written notice to each proposed tenant, before the inception of his or her tenancy, that the management is requesting a change of use before local governmental bodies or that a change of use request has been granted; and

- If the proposed change of use actually occurs, notice of termination of tenancy must have been given as in other cases of termination of tenancy.

The required report on the impact of the closure described in § 369.41[2], must be given at the same time that notice is required under Civ. Code § 798.56(g), as described above [Civ. Code § 798.56(h)].

[3] Impermissible Reasons

No tenancy may be terminated for the purpose of making a tenant's site available for a person who purchased or proposes to purchase, or rents or proposes to rent, a mobilehome from the owner of the park or the owner's agent [Civ. Code § 798.58].

§ 369.76 State Employee Housing

The provisions of the Mobilehome Residency Law (Civ. Code § 798 et seq.) do not apply to any area owned, operated, or maintained by the state for the purpose of providing employee housing or space for a mobilehome owned or occupied by an employee of the state [Civ. Code § 798.13(a)]. However, a state employer must provide the occupant of a privately owned mobilehome that is situated in an employee housing area owned, operated, or maintained by the state, and that is occupied by a state employee under an agreement with his or her state employer and subject to the terms and conditions of that state employment, with a minimum of 60-days' notice before terminating the tenancy for any reason [Civ. Code § 798.13(b)].

32-369 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 369.77

§ 369.77 Renting or Subletting Home or Space

Park management must permit a homeowner to rent his or her home, if it is the homeowner's primary residence, or to sublet his or her space, if a medical emergency or medical treatment requires the homeowner to be absent from his or her home and this is confirmed in writing by an attending physician [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(a), (b)]. The minimum term of the rental or sublease must be six months and the maximum term may not exceed 12 months, unless management approves a shorter or longer term [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(1)]. A homeowner may not charge a renter or sublessee more than an amount necessary to cover the cost of space rent, utilities, and scheduled loan payments on the mobilehome, if any [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(c)]. The homeowner remains liable for the mobilehome park rent and other park charges [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(4)].

The management may require approval of a prospective renter or sublessee, subject to the process and restrictions applicable to prospective purchasers of mobilehomes under Civ. Code § 798.74(a) [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(2)]. A prospective sublessee must comply with any rule or regulation limiting residency based on age requirements [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(2); see Civ. Code § 798.76; see also § 369.31[9]]. In addition, the management may charge a prospective sublessee a credit screening fee for the actual cost of any personal reference check or consumer credit report [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(2)].

The renter or sublessee must comply with all park rules and regulations. Failure to comply with the rules and regulations may result in the termination of the homeowner's tenancy in the mobilehome park, in accordance with Civ. Code § 798.56 [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(3); see § 369.73[2]]. A homeowner's tenancy may not be terminated if the homeowner completes an action for unlawful detainer or executes a judgement for possession within 60 days of the homeowner receiving notice of termination of tenancy [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(3); see Ch. 332, Landlord and Tenant: The Tenancy, § 333.12 (unlawful detainer proceedings)].

Park management may require the homeowner to reside in the mobilehome park for a term of one year before management permits the renting or subletting of a mobilehome or mobilehome space [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(5)]. If a security deposit has been refunded to the homeowner in accordance with Civ. Code § 798.39(b) or (c), the management may require the homeowner to resubmit a security deposit in an amount or value not to exceed two months' rent in addition to the first month's rent. Management may retain this security deposit for the duration of the term of the rental or sublease [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(6)]. The homeowner must keep his or her current address and telephone number on file with the management during the term of rental or sublease. If applicable, the homeowner may provide the name, address, and telephone number of his or her legal representative [Civ. Code § 798.23.5(b)(7)].

32-369 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 369.95

§ 369.95 Decisions

[1] Mobilehomes

[a] In General

County ordinance restricting use of mobilehomes outside mobilehome parks, when read in conjunction with ordinance permitting zoning for mobilehome subdivision (where mobilehome owner also owns land on which mobilehome is located) is not unconstitutional. McKie v. Ventura County (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 555, 556-557, 113 Cal. Rptr. 143

County ordinance fixing "mobilehome license" fee (for use of mobilehome outside mobilehome park) pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 18300(g)(3) is not prospectively unlawful merely because fee is slightly higher than reasonably projected cost of enforcing regulatory laws; continued collection of higher fees after costs become known is probably unlawful. Watson v. County of Merced (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 263, 265-268, 78 Cal. Rptr. 807

Conditional sale of mobilehome is governed by Rees-Levering Motor Vehicle Sales and Finance Act [Civ. Code § 2981 et seq.]. Hughes v. Nashua Mfg. Co. (1968) 257 Cal. App. 2d 778, 783, 65 Cal. Rptr. 380

Contract for purchase of mobilehome with down payment and balance to be paid on delivery is not conditional sale contract and hence not subject to Rees-Levering Motor Vehicle Sales and Finance Act. Shapiro v. Ogle (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 261, 265-267, 104 Cal. Rptr. 553

[b] Security Interests

Interest of bona fide purchaser of mobilehome purchased before July 1, 1981, prevailed over technically perfected security interest that was not disclosed on vehicle certificate of ownership. T & O Mobile Homes, Inc. v. United California Bank (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 441, 454, 455, 220 Cal. Rptr. 627, 709 P.2d 430 (decided under Veh. Code § 4451; see now Health & Safety Code § 18091, governing contents of certificate of title of mobilehomes)

[2] Mobilehome Parks

[a] Construction

Mobilehome park construction permit application requires environmental impact report or negative declaration. People v. Department of Housing & Community Dev. (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 185, 192-194, 119 Cal. Rptr. 266

Local enforcement agency's refusal to grant extension of mobilehome park construction permit pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 18509 is abuse of discretion where standard for passing on such requests was unreasonable and such standard was arbitrarily and capriciously applied; agency is estopped to deny request for extension where permit holder's failure to meet agency's standard was based on agency's advice. Morgan v. County of San Diego (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 636, 640-642, 97 Cal. Rptr. 180

Application for use permit to construct mobilehome park in area of city zoned for such use was properly granted. Jones v. City Council (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d724, 727-730, 94 Cal. Rptr. 897

Application for special use permit to construct mobilehome park in area of city not zoned for such use was properly denied. Lagrutta v. City Council (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 890, 893-897, 96 Cal. Rptr. 627

[b] Fees and Charges

Fact that cable television is listed in Civ. Code § 798.41 as utility that may be billed for separately does not mean mobilehome park owner may unilaterally procure and charge its tenants for cable television as "utility" even if tenants did not accept service; Civ. Code § 798.31 (permissible utility charges) does not contemplate charges for nonessential services not requested or used, even if services can be characterized as "utilities" for purposes of separate billing under Civ. Code § 798.41. Greening v. Johnson (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 1223, 1229-1230, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 214

Rent increase imposed on new tenants at time of sale or transfer of mobilehome (excluding transfer to transferor's spouse, children, or parents) is not prohibited fee within meaning of Civ. Code § 798.72. Vance v. Villa Park Mobilehome Estates (1995) 36 Cal. App. 4th 698, 707, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 723

[c] Land Use

City lacked authority under Gov. Code § 66427.4 to impose conditions on conversion of mobilehome park to resident ownership; that section applies only when mobilehome park is converted to other land uses, requiring residents and their mobilehomes to be relocated; Gov. Code § 66427.5, which applies to conversions to resident ownership, does not authorize imposition of additional conditions. El Dorado Palm Springs, Ltd. v. City of Palm Springs (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 1153, 1163-1164, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 15

[d] Operation

Violations of Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] implementing regulations [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1000 et seq.], and Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.] constitute acts of unfair competition and causes of action for injunction and/or restitution under Bus. & Prof. Code § 17203; district attorney has standing to sue for injunction and civil penalty for such acts notwithstanding that other agency is responsible for enforcing Mobilehome Parks Act and regulations. People v. McKale (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 626, 631-638, 159 Cal. Rptr. 811, 602 P.2d 731

Mobilehome park residency rule limiting occupancy to at least one registered owner of home constituted effective prohibition of subleasing by owner of home; retroactive application of rule against homeowner who purchased space in park before rule was made, whose lease did not contain rule, and who had not agreed to rule, was contrary to stated purpose of Mobilehome Residency Law (Civ. Code § 798.55(a)) and unreasonable. Rancho Santa Paula Mobilehome Park, Ltd. v. Evans (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1147, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 464

Park rule prohibiting "any commercial activity ... and leasing, subleasing, sale or exchange of mobilehomes ..." was interpreted by court as not applying to any subleasing of mobilehome space, but rather to carrying on business of subleasing on mobilehome premises. Rancho Santa Paula Mobilehome Park, Ltd. v. Evans (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1149, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 464

Under predecessor to present Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.; see former Civ. Code §§ 789.4-789.15], mobilehome park owner was prohibited from charging "transfer" fee payable by broker when broker effects sale of mobilehome within park, where park owner performs no service in connection with sale [now see Civ. Code § 798.72]. People v. Mel Mack Co. (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 621, 626-630, 126 Cal. Rptr. 505

County ordinance fixing mobilehome park operating permit fees higher than Health & Safety Code § 18502 prescribes is valid, under Health & Safety Code § 510, where county health officer is local enforcement agency under Health & Safety Code § 18300. Western Mobilehome Assn. v. County of San Diego (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 941, 944-951, 94 Cal. Rptr. 504

[e] Rent Control

Local mobilehome park rent control ordinance coupled with state statutory restriction on eviction of mobilehome park residents did not constitute physical taking of property of mobilehome park owner because it did not require owner to submit to government's physical occupation of park property. Yee v. City of Escondido (1992) 503 U.S. 519, 112 S. Ct. 1522, 118 L. Ed. 2d 153

Local rent control ordinance prohibiting rent increases at termination of tenancy does not violate substantive due process. Carson Harbor Village Ltd. v. City of Carson (9th Cir. 1994) 37 F.3d 468, 472-473

District court's dismissal of substantive due process claim challenging city's rent control and vacancy control ordinance as taking without just compensation was proper, but court's failure to explain its reasons for denying leave to amend complaint (where none were apparent on record) constituted abuse of discretion. Levald, Inc. v. City of Palm Desert (9th Cir. 1993) 998 F.2d 680, 690, 692

Property owner's facial taking challenge to local mobilehome park rent control ordinance was ripe for judicial review even though property owner had not sought remedies in state court since at time alleged taking occurred, California did not recognize actions for inverse condemnation based on regulatory takings, rendering it futile to seek state court relief at that time. Levald, Inc. v. City of Palm Desert (9th Cir. 1993) 998 F.2d 680, 686

Sanctions and penalties properly imposed under Unfair Business Practices Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq.] against mobilehome park owners who forced tenants to accept long-term leases to avoid rent control. People v. Beaumont Investment Ltd. (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 102, 124-126, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 429

In determining "just, fair and reasonable" rent increase, substantial evidence supported Rent Board's allocation of wetlands remediation expenses over three years where remediation costs were paid from proceeds of a loan repayable over a 28-month period; although rent control ordinance and implementation guidelines did not specifically provide for allocation of operating expenses over an extended period of time, rent control scheme was sufficiently flexible to allow such an allocation. Carson Harbor Village, Ltd. v. City of Carson Mobilehome Park Rental Review Bd. (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 281, 293, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 569

In calculating permissible rent increase, Rent Board properly disallowed attorneys' fees incurred for investigation, research, and preparation of lawsuit to recover costs of wetlands remediation from other responsible parties, and attorneys' fees incurred in attempting to recover cleanup costs from insurers. Carson Harbor Village, Ltd. v. City of Carson Mobilehome Park Rental Review Bd. (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 281, 294, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 569

Loss of "all beneficial use" of profits during period mobilehome park owners were permitted only inadequate rent increase did not constitute a taking; loss of profits was measure of damages, not property subject to a taking. Yee v. Mobilehome Park Rental Review Bd. (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1409, 1422, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 227

County ordinance and agreement entered into by county and mobilehome park owners imposing 15-year moratorium on enactment of rent control legislation affecting mobilehome parks was unconstitutional limitation on power of future county boards of supervisors to make and enforce ordinances under their police power. County Mobilehome Positive Action Com., Inc. v. County of San Diego (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 727, 740-741, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 409

Method used by rent control board to support determination that rent increase was adequate to provide "fair return on owner's investment" was not supported by substantial evidence. Westwinds Mobile Home Park v. Mobilehome Park Rental Review Bd. (1994) 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 315

City Mobilehome Rental Review Board decision that authorized only limited rent increase in owners' mobilehome parks was reversed and remanded to Board for reconsideration where Board, in determining owners' claim for increased rents, committed serious error by failing to account for interest payments on owners' encumbering loans in determining income (or loss) resulting from operation of parks. *Yee v. Department of Housing and Community Development
Mobilehome Section
P.O. Box 31
Sacramento, California 95801

To Whom It May Concern:

In accordance with 25 California Code of Regulations Section 4013.5, _____ [name of mobilehome owner] requests appropriate action for correction of violations, hereinafter specified, regarding the following mobilehome:

Make and Model: _____

Serial Number: _____

Manufacturer: _____

Manufacturer's Address: _____

_____ [Insignia or HUD Label] Number: _____

Seller: _____

Seller's Address: _____

Date of Sale: _____

[Registration Number: _____]

Owner: _____

Owner's Address: _____

_____ [Name of owner] believes that this mobilehome does not comply with applicable provisions of 25 of California Code of Regulations, Chapter 3, Subchapter 2 (Sections 4000-4800), in that _____ [specify violations].

Sincerely,

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a letter for making a written complaint to the Department of Housing and Community Development in accordance with a regulation providing that any owner of a mobilehome bearing or required to bear a departmental insignia or Housing and Urban Development (HUD) label [see § 369.21] may file a written complaint with the Department setting forth the items that the owner believes do not comply with the (applicable) provisions of 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4000 et seq. [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4013.5]. No particular form is prescribed, and no printed form is supplied by the Department. A letter is sufficient and appropriate.

The regulations applicable to mobilehomes are set forth in 25 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 4000 et seq., and 4050 et seq.

[3] Complaint Investigation

[a] Initial Procedures

On receiving a complaint indicating the possible existence of a violation of applicable regulations, the Department of Housing and Community Development must forward a copy of the complaint and other information to the manufacturer, seller, or person responsible for the violations, or their agents [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4013.5(a)]. Any person served with a complaint or other information must, as soon as possible but not later than 20 days after receiving the complaint or other information, make an investigation, and any necessary inspections, and determine if there are violations of those regulations for which the person is responsible. If the person served with a complaint or other information determines responsibility for correcting the violations, such person must notify the Department in writing of the action proposed to correct the violations. Violations must be corrected within 20 days or such other time specified by the Department. On request, the Department may grant an extension of time for correction of violations [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4013.5(b)].

[b] Inspections and Legal and/or Administrative Proceedings

When the person served with a complaint or other information fails to take action within the specified time, the Department may inspect the mobilehome and institute legal and/or administrative proceedings as necessary to secure compliance with applicable regulations [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4013.5(c)].

If a reinspection is required to determine compliance with any order requiring corrective action, the person responsible for taking corrective action must request inspection in accordance with 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4010 and submit fees for such inspection pursuant to 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4044 [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4013.5(d)].

If the Department determines that an imminent safety hazard or serious defect may exist, the Department must notify the manufacturer, seller, or person responsible for the violations and may require that immediate action be taken by the responsible person to correct such violations. The Department may make necessary inspections to determine if violations exist and to secure compliance [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4013.5(e)].

§ 369.112 Request for Hearing Regarding Abatement of Substandard Mobilehome [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1613]

[1] FORM Mobilehome Owner's Request for Hearing Regarding Abatement of Substandard Mobilehome [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1714]

[Caption. Refer to notice of intention to abate received from enforcement agency.]

In accordance with 25 California Code of Regulations Section 1613, _____ [name of person or entity requesting hearing] hereby requests a hearing on the matter of the proposed abatement of the mobilehome described in the Notice of Intention to Abate heretofore received by him/her/it.

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a request for a hearing by a person or entity who has received a final notice of intention to abate a substandard mobilehome. To be effective, the request for hearing must be received by the enforcement agency within 10 days after personal service or acknowledgment of receipt by mail of the final notice of intention to abate [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1613(a)].

[3] Inspection and Notice of Violation

Whenever any mobilehome has been inspected by the enforcement agency and has been found to be substandard, the enforcement agency must give written notice to the person or entity responsible for correcting the violation [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1611(a)(1)]. If the mobilehome is in such condition that identification numbers are not available to determine ownership, the notice must be given to the owner of the real property or the owner or operator of the park in which the mobilehome is located [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1611(a)(3)]. The notice must state the conditions that constitute the violation, include a reference to the law or regulation being violated, and order abatement of the conditions within five days after the date of the notice or a longer period of time as allowed by the enforcement agency [25 Cal. Code

Reg. § 1611(a)(2)].

[4] Commencement of Proceeding

[a] Final Notice to Abate

If the initial notice of the enforcement agency has not been complied with on or before the date specified in the notice, the enforcement agency may institute proceedings against the cited person or entity [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1612(a)]. The enforcement agency must issue to the cited person, the last registered owner of a cited mobilehome, and the park owner or operator or the legal owner of the property where the cited mobilehome is located, a final notice to abate containing at least the following [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1612(a)(1)]:

- The date the notice was prepared;
- The name or names of the responsible person or entity;
- A list of the uncorrected violations cited;
- The final compliance date;
- Notification of the right to request an informal conference under 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1752;
- Notification of the right to request a hearing pursuant to 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1613; and
- A statement that any willful violation is a misdemeanor under Health & Safety Code § 18700.

The final notice must be sent by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, to the cited person, the legal owner of the property as shown on the last equalized assessment roll, and to the last known address of the last registered or legal owner of record of the cited mobilehome, unless the mobilehome is in such condition that identification numbers are not available to determine ownership. The final notice may also be served by personal service, at the enforcement agency's discretion [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1612(a)(2)].

[b] Proof of Notice

The officer or employee of the enforcement agency must file an affidavit certifying to the time and the manner in which the final notice was given. In addition, the officer or employee must file any receipt card that may have been returned in acknowledgment of the receipt of the notice by registered or certified mail [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1612(a)(3)].

[5] Request for Hearing

[a] Request Must Be Made to Enforcement Agency Within 10 Days of Receiving Notice

The cited person or entity receiving a final notice of intention to abate a violation must be granted a hearing on the matter before an authorized representative of the enforcement agency or official authorized to conduct the hearing, if the cited person or entity makes a request to the enforcement agency within 10 days after personal service or acknowledgment of receipt by mail of the final notice to abate [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1613(a); see [4], above]. If the request for hearing is not received within 10 days from the date of personal service or acknowledgment of receipt by mail of the notice, the enforcement agency has the discretion to continue abatement proceedings [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1613(e)].

[b] Automatic Delay of Abatement Proceedings

Receipt of the request for hearing from the cited person or entity postpones any judicial or administrative action by the enforcement agency until after the hearing [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1613(b)].

[c] Notice and Time of Hearing

The enforcement agency must provide the time and place of the hearing in a written notice to the petitioner within 20 days of receiving the request, and must hold the hearing within 60 days of receiving the request [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1613(b)].

[d] Violation Constituting Imminent Hazard

When a cited violation constitutes an imminent hazard representing an immediate risk to life, health, and safety of persons or property that requires immediate correction, a hearing may not be permitted and a request for a hearing will not extend the time for the correction of the violation [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1613(d)].

[6] Hearing

[a] Testimony and Evidence

At the time and place of the hearing, the hearing officer must hear the testimony of and accept evidence from the property's legal owner or the park owner or operator, the cited person, or their respective representatives and any other person with information or testimony relevant to the final notice to abate. The testimony must be limited to the condition of the cited unit, structure, or property. Before the hearing, the enforcement agency must provide all evidence supporting the abatement action to the hearing officer [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1615(a)].

If the petitioner does not appear at the hearing, the enforcement agency has the authority to proceed immediately with abatement procedures [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1615(b)].

[b] Written Decision

Within 10 days after conclusion of the hearing, the hearing officer must render a written decision sustaining, modifying, or overruling the final notice to abate. The decision must be mailed by first class mail to all parties to the hearing. If the decision sustains or modifies the final notice to abate, the hearing officer may establish new dates and schedules for compliance [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1615(c)]. At the discretion of the hearing officer, the enforcement agency must post a copy of the written decision in a conspicuous place on the property or unit [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1615(d)].

[7] Judicial Review

Any cited person, owner, or other interested person having any objections, or feeling aggrieved at any proceedings taken by the hearing officer conducting the hearing, or the enforcement agency in ordering abatement of any violation, may bring an action in any court of competent jurisdiction within 30 days after receipt of the decision [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1616].

Both the proceedings and the order are reviewable by the superior court in an administrative mandate proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 [see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , through Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions].

[1] FORM Notice of Belief of Abandonment of Mobilehome [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(6)]

NOTICE OF BELIEF OF ABANDONMENT

To: _____ [Names of all registered owners]

This notice is given in accordance with Health & Safety Section 18037.5 concerning your manufactured home, mobilehome, truck camper, or floating home located at _____ [address of manufactured home, mobilehome, truck camper, or floating home as shown on current registration]. _____ [You or if the registered owner is not the person who is in default, substitute name of defaulting person(s)] are in default under the terms of the _____ [identify security agreement or conditional sale contract by title or caption and date] in that _____ [describe default]. This default gives the foreclosing creditor named below the right to sell your manufactured home, mobilehome, truck camper, or floating home which is registered with the Department of Housing and Community Development under number(s) _____ [give registration numbers(s)] unless the default is promptly cured. Unless the foreclosing creditor receives a written notice from you to the contrary by _____ [insert a date not less than 15 days after this notice is served personally or, if mailed, not less than 18 days after this notice is deposited in the mail], your manufactured home, mobilehome, truck camper, or floating home will be deemed abandoned, which means that the foreclosing creditor may sell your manufactured home, mobilehome, truck camper, or floating home sooner than would otherwise be permitted by law. The written notice you must send to the foreclosing creditor must be sent to _____ [address of foreclosing creditor] and must state both of the following:

1. Your intent not to abandon the manufactured home, mobilehome, truck camper, or floating home; and

2. An address at which you may be served by certified mail with a summons in connection with any legal action which the foreclosing creditor may appropriately initiate.

[Name of foreclosing creditor]

[Signature of foreclosing creditor]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a notice of belief of abandonment that a foreclosing creditor may use if he or she reasonably believes that a registered owner has abandoned a mobilehome in which the foreclosing party has a secured interest. A mobilehome will be deemed abandoned if the foreclosing creditor gives written notice of his or her belief of abandonment to the registered owner, and the owner fails to give the foreclosing creditor written notice, before the appropriate date specified in the foreclosing creditor's notice, stating that he or she has not abandoned and does not intend to abandon the mobilehome, and stating an address at which he or she may be served by certified mail with a summons in connection with any legal action that the foreclosing creditor may appropriately initiate [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(6)].

The notice of belief of abandonment must be in at least 10-point type, in substantially the form set forth in [1], above. The notice of belief of abandonment must be personally delivered to the registered owner or sent to him or her at his or her last known address by registered or certified mail, with postage prepaid. If there is reason to believe that the notice sent to the registered owner's last known address will not be received by the owner, the foreclosing creditor must also send the notice to any other address known to the foreclosing creditor where the registered owner may reasonably be expected to receive the notice [Health & Safety Code § 18037.5(a)(6)].

§ 369.115 Letter to Enforcement Agency Requesting Hearing on Suspension of Mobilehome Park Operating Permit [Health & Safety Code § 18513]

[1] FORM Letter to Enforcement Agency Requesting Hearing on Suspension of Mobilehome Park Operating Permit [Health & Safety Code § 18513]

_____ [address of enforcement agency]

To Whom It May concern:

Please take notice that _____ [name of permit holder] requests a hearing, in accordance with Health and Safety Code Section 18513, on the notice of violation dated _____ [date], and the proposed suspension of his/her/its permit, No. _____, to operate the mobilehome park known as _____ [name of mobilehome park] located at _____ [street address] in _____ [name of city or county].

Sincerely,

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a letter that may be used to request a hearing if the holder of a mobilehome park operating permit has received a notice of violation from the enforcement agency [see § 369.11[4]] pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 18511. The notice begins the administrative process that may result in suspension of the operating permit [see § 369.63[3]]. The permit holder is entitled to a hearing on filing a written request within 10 days after the date of mailing of the notice of violation [Health & Safety Code § 18513], which usually is a letter from the enforcement agency.

PRACTICE TIP:

Letter Is Appropriate. No particular form of request for a hearing is prescribed. A letter is sufficient and appropriate, since the enforcement agency uses letters (rather than printed forms) for its communications to permit holders.

§ 369.116 Notice of Intention to Commence Action for Failure to Maintain Physical Facilities or for Reduction in Services in Mobilehome Park [Civ. Code § 798.84]

[1] FORM Notice of Intention to Commence Action for Failure to Maintain Physical Facilities or for Reduction in Services in Mobilehome Park [Civ. Code § 798.84]

To _____ [person or entity managing mobilehome park]:

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that the undersigned _____ [name of homeowner or homeowners] _____ [intends or intend] to commence an action against you and _____ [name of mobilehome park] for failure to maintain the physical improvements in the common facilities of the park in good working order or condition and for reduction in services in the park.

The basis of the claim is _____ [specify].

The specific allegations are _____ [specify].

The remedies sought will be _____ [describe].
Dated: _____.

[signature of homeowner or homeowners]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by a homeowner or homeowners to provide notice of intention to commence an action against a mobilehome park and its management for failure to maintain the physical improvements or for reduction in services. The notice must be given 30 days before the action's commencement. A notice by one homeowner is deemed sufficient notice by all homeowners [see Civ. Code § 798.84(a), (b); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 350 (action commenced when complaint is filed)]. The notice requirement does not apply to actions for personal injury or wrongful death [Civ.

Code § 798.84(f)]. For further discussion, see § 369.12[8].

[3] Contents of Form

The notice must be in writing, signed by the homeowner or homeowners making the allegations, and must notify the management of the basis of the claim, the specific allegations, and the remedies requested [Civ. Code § 798.84(b)].

[4] Service

The notice may be served in the manner of notices in legal proceedings set forth in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020 [Civ. Code § 798.84(c)]. The procedures for such service are discussed in Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

[5] Statute of Limitations

If the notice is served within 30 days of the expiration of the applicable statute of limitations, the time for commencing the action is extended 30 days from the service of the notice [Civ. Code § 798.84(e)].

[1] FORM Petition for Hearing [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4045]--Mobilehome Law Enforcement [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4000 et seq.]

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

In the Matter of _____ [name]	))))	PETITION FOR HEARING

Pursuant to 25 California Code of Regulations Section 4045, _____ [name of petitioner] states as follows:

_____ [Brief statement of grounds for hearing, e.g., Petitioner has been served with a notice of violations regarding certain mobilehomes inspected at petitioner's factory on _____ [date], a copy of which notice is attached to this petition. Petitioner denies that any of the alleged violations cited in the notice exist].

WHEREFORE, petitioner requests a hearing on the issue of _____ [specify, e.g., whether the alleged violations exist] and any other related issues that may arise before or at the hearing [, and an order to withdraw the notice of violations].

Dated: _____

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Petitioner

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a petition to request a hearing under 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4045, providing that any person refused an approval (of anything subject to approval) by the Department of Housing and Community Development, or receiving a notice of violation, or who feels aggrieved by application of the regulations [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4000 et seq.] implementing the Manufactured Housing Act of 1980 [Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq.] may request and must be granted a hearing on the matter before the director of the Department or the director's duly authorized representative.

[3] Petition for Hearing

[a] Contents and Form of Petition

The person must file with the Department a written petition requesting the hearing. The petition must set forth a brief statement of the grounds for the petition [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4045]. The petition may be in any suitable form; the form in [1], above, is an example. An affidavit is not required. (The Department has no printed forms and uses letters in enforcement proceedings.)

[b] Time for Filing

The procedural regulations [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4045 et seq.] do not require the petition to be filed within any specified time. If some other regulation, such as 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4013 (discussed below), expressly or implicitly requires filing the petition within a certain time, the petition should be filed within that time; otherwise, the petition should be filed within a reasonable time.

When the petition requests a hearing regarding a notice of violations and/or a "Prohibited Sales Notice" given under 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4013 [see § 369.21[5] (inspection)], the petition should be filed within 20 days after receipt of the notice [see 25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4013].

[4] Notice of Hearing

On receiving a petition, the Department must set a time and place for the hearing and give the petitioner written notice of the hearing [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4046].

[5] Hearing

The hearing must commence no later than 30 days after the day on which the petition was filed provided that, on application of the petitioner, the Department may postpone the date of the hearing for a reasonable time beyond such 30-day period, if in its judgment the petitioner has submitted a good and sufficient reason for such postponement [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4046]. A request for postponement may be in the form of a letter.

Should petitioner fail to appear at the scheduled time and place of the hearing, the Department may dismiss the petition without further action [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4046].

[6] Decision

On the hearing's conclusion, the director of the Department or the director's duly authorized representative must notify the petitioner in writing of the decision in the matter [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 4046.5].

§ 369.131 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] By Mobilehome Park Developer Against Local Enforcement Agency for Refusal to Grant Extension of Construction Permit [Health & Safety Code § 18509]

[1] FORM Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] By Mobilehome Park Developer Against Local Enforcement Agency for Refusal to Grant Extension of Construction Permit [Health & Safety Code § 18509]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)	NO. _____
Petitioner,	)	PETITION FOR WRIT OF MANDATE
vs.	)	[Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]
_____ [name],	)
Respondent.	)

1. Petitioner is _____ [identify petitioner and describe capacity, if other than an individual, in which the proceeding is being brought, e.g., a partnership with its principal place of business in _____ County, California (if appropriate, add: and it has filed and published the fictitious business name statement as required by Business and Professions Code Sections 17910-17917)].

2. Respondent _____ [name, e.g., Director of Building Inspection for the County of San Diego] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, the "enforcement agency" as that term is used in the Mobilehome Parks Act, Health and Safety Code Sections 18200-18700, and regulations promulgated thereunder (25 California Code of Regulations Sections 1000-1758).

3. Respondent is authorized and empowered to grant extensions of construction permits for mobilehome parks "for a reasonable time" pursuant to Health and Safety Code Section 18509, provided work has actually been commenced within six months under the permit as issued.

4. On _____ [date], petitioner obtained a construction permit for a mobilehome park. On _____ [date], work on the mobilehome park was actually commenced. On _____ [date], petitioner requested that respondent extend the permit for six months, that is, to _____ [date], for the reason that _____ [specify, e.g., unanticipated delays in obtaining approval from the Federal Housing Administration made it impossible to complete construction before the original expiration date of the permit].

5. Respondent refused to grant petitioner's request for an extension. This refusal was an abuse of respondent's discretion in that _____ [specify, e.g., respondent's standard for passing on such requests was unreasonable. Respondent's sole criterion was whether or not, in respondent's judgment based on a field inspection of the project, work was being pursued diligently. This standard, which petitioner was unable to meet for the reason mentioned above, failed to take into account other evidence showing petitioner's good faith intent to complete construction expeditiously, such as the extent of petitioner's preparation for the project, petitioner's expenditure of substantial sums on the project, and petitioner's ability, when the extension was requested, to complete the project within six months].

[6. Allege other abuse of discretion, if any, e.g., Not only was respondent's standard unreasonable, but respondent applied it capriciously and arbitrarily. In at least _____ other cases, respondent granted requests for extension solely on the basis of respondent's personal satisfaction that the permit holders were ready to proceed with the project in question, without making any field inspection and without considering the amount of construction actually done when the extension was requested.]

[7. Allege other basis for relief, if any, e.g., Two months before petitioner's permit would have expired, petitioner informed respondent of the difficulty petitioner was having in getting FHA approval and of petitioner's probable need for an extension. At that time respondent advised petitioner "not to spend any more money on the project until I [respondent] hear from the County Counsel." Relying on respondent's advice, petitioner made no effort to proceed with construction which might otherwise have been undertaken so as to meet respondent's standard of diligent construction work.]

8. On _____ [date], petitioner was ready, willing, and able to proceed with construction and to complete the project within six months.

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays:

1. For an alternative writ of mandate commanding respondent to grant an extension of petitioner's construction permit for six months or to show cause before this court at a time specified by court order why respondent has not done so and why a peremptory writ should not issue;

2. On the hearing, for a peremptory writ of mandate commanding respondent forthwith to grant an extension of petitioner's construction permit for six months;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.
Dated: _____.

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the petitioner in this proceeding. I have read the foregoing petition and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and, as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct and that this declaration was executed on _____ [date], at _____, California.

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a petition for use by the holder of a mobilehome park construction permit, for a writ of mandate directing a local enforcement agency [see § 369.11[4]] to grant an extension request which had previously been refused. The form is based on the facts reported in Morgan v. County of San Diego (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 636, 97 Cal. Rptr. 180 [see [4], below].

Proceedings for writ of mandate are governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085-1097.

[3] Extension of Mobilehome Park Construction Permits

All permits as required under the permits and fees chapter in the Mobilehome Parks Act for construction or reconstruction must automatically expire within six months from the date of the permit's issuance in those cases when the construction or reconstruction has not been completed within this period. However, the enforcement agency may extend the permit's expiration date for a reasonable time [Health & Safety Code § 18509].

[4] When Refusal to Grant Extension Is Improper

A local enforcement agency's refusal to grant an extension for a mobilehome park construction permit was an abuse of discretion when the standard for passing on these requests was unreasonable and this standard was arbitrarily and capriciously applied. The enforcement agency was estopped to deny the request for extension when the permit holder's failure to meet the agency's standard was based on the agency's advice [Morgan v. County of San Diego (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 636, 640-642, 97 Cal. Rptr. 180] .

[5] Permit to Operate on Completion of Construction

On final approval by the enforcement agency of the construction of lots and facilities, the applicant must submit an application for a permit to operate or amended permit to operate on a form designated by the Department of Housing and Community Development, together with appropriate fees, to the enforcement agency [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1010(a)]. The applicant must submit the application to the Department when the Department is the enforcement agency. On approval by the Department, an annual permit to operate will be issued to the applicant [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1010(a)(1)]. When a local enforcement agency has enforcement responsibilities, the application must be submitted to that agency. On approval by the enforcement agency, one copy of the approved application must be provided to the applicant and one copy of the approved application together with the required state fees must immediately be forwarded to the Division of Codes and Standards by the enforcement agency. Within 10 working days of receiving the approved application, the Division of Codes and Standards must issue the initial permit to operate, with copies to the applicant and local enforcement agency. Subsequent years' annual permits must be issued by the enforcement agency [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1010(a)(2)].

Petitioner alleges:

1. Petitioner is, and at all times herein mentioned was, _____ [specify proprietary interest or other capacity, e.g., owner and operator] of a mobilehome park, as defined in Civil Code Section 798.4, commonly referred to as _____ [specify name and street address of mobilehome park], _____ County, California (hereinafter "the mobilehome park").

2. Respondent _____ [name] is, and at all times mentioned herein was, a _____ [homeowner or resident or homeowner and resident] of the mobilehome park.

[3. Respondents Doe I through Doe _____, inclusive, are sued herein under fictitious names. Their true names and capacities are unknown to petitioner. When their true names and capacities are ascertained, petitioner will amend this complaint by inserting their true names and capacities herein. (Petitioner is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of the fictitiously named respondents is responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged.)]

4. Beginning on or about _____ [date], [and continuing to the present time,] respondent [repeatedly,] wrongfully and unlawfully violated the rules of the mobilehome park by _____ [specify violation, e.g., maintaining pets in violation of mobilehome park rule _____ (hereinafter "the mobilehome park rule") prohibiting more than one pet].

[5. On _____ (date), petitioner served written notice on respondent to cease violating the mobilehome park rule. A copy of this notice is attached to this petition as Exhibit A and made a part of this petition. Nevertheless, respondent has continued to violate the mobilehome park rule.]

6. Respondent's violation of the mobilehome park rule, unless and until enjoined and restrained by order of this court, will cause great and irreparable harm to petitioner and other mobilehome park homeowners and residents in that _____ [specify particular facts indicating how respondents' actions will constitute great and irreparable injury, e.g., the pets on defendant's premises and in the mobilehome park cause noise and disruption to all the other residents of the park].

[7. Petitioner has incurred and will incur attorney's fees in prosecuting this action.]

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays judgment against respondent, as follows:

1. For an order requiring respondent to show cause, if any he/she has, why he/she should not be enjoined as hereinafter set forth, during the pendency of this action;

2. For a temporary restraining order, and a permanent injunction, enjoining respondent, and his/her agents, servants, and employees, and all persons acting under, in concert with, or for him/her:

a. From _____ [specify each of the acts, courses of conduct, and conditions respondent is to be prohibited from doing, commencing, continuing, maintaining, failing to do, etc., e.g., violating mobilehome park rule _____ by allowing more than one pet on his/her premises];

b. To _____ [specify each of the acts, courses of conduct, and conditions respondents are to be commanded to do, undertake, etc., e.g., remove permanently all pets in excess of one from his/her premises];

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name]

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am the petitioner in this action and make this declaration in support of my application for a temporary restraining order.

2. I am the _____ [specify proprietary interest or other capacity, e.g., owner and operator] of the _____ [specify name of mobilehome park], mobilehome park (hereinafter "the mobilehome park").

3. Respondent _____ [name] is a _____ [homeowner or resident or homeowner and resident] of the mobilehome park.

4. Rule _____ of the mobilehome park provides _____ [describe violated rule, e.g., that there must be no more than one pet per residence]. A copy of the mobilehome park rules is attached to this Declaration as Exhibit _____. Respondent has repeatedly violated this rule.

[5. On _____ (date), (and a number of times since then,) I demanded in writing that respondents stop their violation of the rules. A copy of the demand is attached to this Declaration as Exhibit _____. Respondents have refused, and still refuse, to refrain from their rule violations.]

6. Unless a temporary restraining order is granted, great and irreparable harm will result to me and other homeowners and residents of the mobilehome park in that _____ [describe injury, e.g., the pets on defendant's premises and in the mobilehome park cause noise and disruption to all the other residents of the park].

7. The above facts are within my personal knowledge and I am competent to testify to their truth if called as a witness.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a petition and supporting declaration for use by mobilehome park management to obtain a temporary restraining order and injunction against violation of mobilehome park rules. It is authorized by Civ. Code § 798.88.

[3] Verification and Notice

Verification [see Code Civ. Proc. § 446] is required if petitioner is seeking a temporary restraining order and/or preliminary injunction based on facts alleged in the petition alone without the use of affidavits (or declarations under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a), (c)(1)]. Otherwise, verification is not required. If the petition is verified, however, the answer must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 446]. Moreover, a verified complaint precludes a general denial in the answer in superior court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)].

A preliminary injunction may not be granted without notice to the opposing party [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)].

[4] Certification re Notice

When a temporary restraining order is sought without formal notice, the applicant or the applicant's attorney is required to certify to the court under oath that (1) within a reasonable time before the application, he or she informed the opposing party, or his or her attorney if any, at what time and where the application would be made, (2) he or she in good faith attempted to inform the opposing party or attorney but was unable to do so, specifying the efforts made to do so, or (3) for reasons specified, he or she should not be required to inform the opposing party or attorney [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(c)(2); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(b)]. The certification is normally appended to the application for the temporary restraining order. For a certification of notice, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

In addition to the certification, a temporary restraining order may not be granted without notice to the opposing party unless it appears from facts shown by affidavit or by verified complaint that great or irreparable injury will result to the applicant before the matter can be heard on notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(c)(1)].

[5] Jurisdiction and Venue

The petition must be filed in the superior court for the county in which the mobilehome park is located [Civ. Code § 798.88(b)].

The granting of either a provisional or final injunction requires personal jurisdiction over the person enjoined [see Comfort v. Comfort (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 736, 741, 112 P.2d 259 (permanent); Rothschild v. Erda (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 750, 753, 66 Cal. Rptr. 209 (preliminary); see generally Ch. 323, Jurisdiction: Personal Jurisdiction, Inconvenient Forum, and Appearances].

[6] Allegations

The form of petition in [1], above, alleges all of the following:

- Petitioner's capacity as management of the mobilehome park (Paragraph 1);
- Respondent's capacity as a homeowner and/or resident of the mobilehome park (Paragraph 2);
- An optional allegation alleging fictitious respondents (Paragraph 3) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 474];
- The nature of respondent's violation of the mobilehome park rules (Paragraph 4);
- Petitioner's written notice of the violation to Respondents (Paragraph 5);
- Facts showing how respondent's conduct will constitute great and irreparable injury (Paragraph 6) [Civ. Code § 798.88(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(c)(1)]; and
- An optional allegation relating to attorney's fees (Paragraph 7) [Civ. Code § 798.85].

[7] Service of Temporary Restraining Order

If a temporary restraining order is granted, it must be personally served on the respondent homeowner or resident with the petition for injunction and notice of hearing. The restraining order remains in effect for a period not to exceed 15 days, except as modified or sooner terminated by the court [Civ. Code § 798.88(c)].

[8] Hearing on Injunction

Within 15 days of filing the petition for an injunction, a hearing must be held. If the court, by clear and convincing evidence, finds the existence of a continuing or recurring violation of a reasonable rule or regulation of the mobilehome park, it will issue an injunction prohibiting the violation [Civ. Code § 798.88(d)].

A party to the action may appear through legal counsel or in propria persona [Civ. Code § 798.88(f)].

[9] Duration of Injunction

The injunction's duration may not exceed three years [Civ. Code § 798.88(d)]. Not more than three months before the expiration of the injunction, however, management may petition for a new injunction if there has been recurring or continuous violation of the injunction or there is a threat of future violation of the mobilehome park's rules on termination of the injunction [Civ. Code § 798.88(e)].

[10] Declaration

A supporting declaration is required for a temporary restraining order under Civ. Code § 798.88 [Civ. Code § 798.88(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(c)(1)].

	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is, and at all times mentioned in this complaint was, a resident of _____ County, California.

2. _____ [Defendant _____ (name) is, and at all times mentioned in this complaint was, a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of California, with its principal office for the transaction of business in _____ County or alleged other capacity of defendant], _____ [authorized or licensed] to engage, and engaging, in business as a seller of mobilehomes.

3. On or about _____ [date], at _____ [street address and city], in _____ County, California, defendant sold to plaintiff a mobilehome _____ [describe, e.g., Model 123-4, called "Sunset," manufactured by the California Mobilehome Manufacturing Company, Inc., bearing the identification number 123-4-567890].

4. The mobilehome was bought by plaintiff primarily for personal, family, or household purposes.

5. At the time of the sale, defendant represented to plaintiff, in a writing entitled "Mobilehome Warranty," that the mobilehome was "free from any substantial defects in materials or workmanship." In fact the mobilehome was substantially defective in that _____ [specify defects in materials and/or workmanship, e.g., none of the windows were sealed in their openings, with the result that water could and did seep to the insides of the walls and the interior of the mobilehome during rainstorms]. This defect became evident on _____ [date].

6. [Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that] [T]he above-mentioned misrepresentation was intended by defendant to result in the above-mentioned sale of the mobilehome to plaintiff, and [plaintiff alleges that] the above-mentioned purchase of the mobilehome was made in reliance on, and as a result of, the representation of defendant that such mobilehome was free from any substantial defects in materials or workmanship.

7. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that the above-mentioned misrepresentation was a willful and intentional violation of the provisions of Civil Code Section 1770(a)(7) and that such violation was not the result of a bona fide error notwithstanding the use of reasonable procedures adopted to avoid any such error.

8. On or about _____ [date not later than one year and 10 days after date of delivery], plaintiff sent to defendant a written Notice and Demand, attached to this complaint as Exhibit B and made a part of this complaint, by _____ [certified or registered] mail, return receipt requested, to defendant's business address set forth in the "Mobilehome Warranty" _____ [if that is not the place where the transaction occurred, or is not defendant's principal place of business within California, add and to _____ (the place where the transaction occurred or defendant's principal place of business within California)], which Notice and Demand notified defendant of the above-mentioned violation of Civil Code Section 1770(a)(7) that resulted in the sale of the mobilehome to plaintiff and demanded that defendant correct, repair, replace, or otherwise rectify the mobilehome purchased by plaintiff and sold in violation of this section.

9. Within 30 days of the receipt of the Notice and Demand, attached to this complaint as Exhibit B, defendant failed to correct, repair, replace, or otherwise rectify, and failed to agree to correct, repair, replace, or otherwise rectify within a reasonable time, the above-mentioned mobilehome.

10. By reason of the above-mentioned violation of Civil Code Section 1770(a)(7), plaintiff has been injured in that _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff was obliged to and did incur expenses totaling $_____ for having the defective condition of the windows rectified and damage to the walls and floor of the mobilehome repaired].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For damages in the sum of $_____;

2. For punitive damages in the sum of $_____;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a complaint for use by a mobilehome buyer, who buys for personal, family, or household purposes from a dealer, to claim damages under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act [Civ. Code §§ 1750-1784] for breach of the statutory warranty against substantial defects in materials and workmanship [see Civ. Code §§ 1797-1797.7 (mobilehome warranties law)].

In some cases, the civil penalty equal to two times actual damages, plus reasonable costs and attorney's fees, available under Civ. Code § 1794(c), (d), discussed in Ch. 500, Sales: Sales Under the Commercial Code . will exceed punitive damages [see, e.g., Troensegaard v. Silvercrest Industries, Inc. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 218, 221, 226-228, 220 Cal. Rptr. 712 (plaintiff may not recover both civil penalty under Civ. Code § 1794(c) and punitive damages under Civ. Code § 3294)].

For discussion of, and additional forms for use in, actions under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act, see Ch. 500, Sales: Sales Under the Commercial Code .'

[3] Cause of Action

[a] Representations of Seller

The seller's representation that "goods" sold to a "consumer" are of a particular standard or quality, where the goods are of another standard or quality, is unlawful [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(7)], and any resulting injury to the consumer is a cause of action for damages, including punitive damages, or other appropriate relief [Civ. Code § 1780(a)]. If the requisite findings of fact are made, any senior or disabled plaintiff in an action under Civ. Code § 1780 may receive an additional award of up to $5,000 [Civ. Code §§ 1780(b), 3345]. The criteria for the additional award and a form of allegations for use in seeking such an award are contained in Ch. 500, Sales: Sales Under the Commercial Code.'

Mobilehomes bought for use primarily for personal, family, or household purposes, including mobilehomes which, at the time of sale or subsequently thereafter are to be so affixed to real property as to become a part of such real property, are "goods" in this context [see Civ. Code § 1761(a)], and any individual who buys such a mobilehome for personal, family, or household purposes is a "consumer" [see Civ. Code § 1761(d)]. A dealer who, in selling a mobilehome to a "consumer," makes the warranty required by Civ. Code § 1797.3, that the mobilehome "is free from any substantial defects in materials or workmanship," thereby "[r]epresent[s] that goods ... are of a particular standard, quality, or grade" [Civ. Code § 1770(a)(7)]. If in fact the mobilehome is not free from substantial defects in materials or workmanship--if the goods are of another standard, quality, or grade--the warranty is breached, and in the breach the dealer is guilty of one of the many acts declared in Civ. Code § 1770 to be unlawful. The buyer is entitled to damages, or other appropriate relief, for resulting injury, if any [see Civ. Code § 1780(a)].

[b] Applicability of "Residence" Exception

The Consumers Legal Remedies Act [Civ. Code §§ 1750-1784] does not apply to any transaction that provides for the construction, sale, or construction and sale of "an entire residence" or all or part of a structure designed for commercial or industrial occupancy, with or without a parcel of real property or an interest therein, or for the sale of a lot or parcel of real property, including any site preparation incidental to the sale [Civ. Code § 1754]. Although a mobilehome may be considered "an entire residence," the intent of Civ. Code § 1754 appears to create an exception to the Consumers Legal Remedies Act only for sales of ordinary houses or units in multi-family buildings.

[4] Breach of Statutory Warranty

The statutory warranty against substantial defects is breached only when substantial defects (not defined in the mobilehome warranties law) become evident within one year from the date of delivery of the mobilehome to the buyer (also not defined), and the buyer gives written notice of the defects to the dealer at the dealer's business address not later than one year and 10 days after the date of delivery, and within a reasonable time thereafter the dealer does not fulfill the terms of the warranty [see Civ. Code § 1797.3(b)].

The manufacturer is jointly and severally liable with the dealer for fulfillment of the terms of the warranty [Civ. Code § 1797.3(c)].

Breach of the statutory warranty may not be cited as a cause of action under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act, Civ. Code § 1770(g) (misrepresentation of quality), unless the buyer demanded correction, repair, replacement, or other rectification of the defective mobilehome, and within 30 days thereafter the dealer did not, and made no agreement with the buyer to, correct, repair, replace, or otherwise rectify it [see Civ. Code § 1782(a), (b)].

[5] Commencement of Action

An action under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act may not be commenced within 30 days after giving notice of the defects and demand for corrective action [Civ. Code § 1782(a)] or more than three years after the date of the misrepresentation [Civ. Code § 1783].

[6] Venue and Affidavit

Venue for an action under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act is prescribed in Civ. Code § 1780(c). The complaint must be accompanied by an affidavit showing the action has been commenced in the proper county [Civ. Code § 1780(c)]. For a form of affidavit, see Ch. 500, Sales: Sales Under the Commercial Code .

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a complaint for use in an action by a buyer of a mobilehome against a dealer or other seller based on improper escrow practice. With appropriate modifications, this form may also be used in an action for improper escrow practice by a dealer or other seller of mobilehomes against a buyer [Health & Safety Code § 18035(n)].

[3] Allegations

The form of complaint in [1], above, alleges all of the following:

- Defendant's status as a dealer or other seller of mobilehomes (Paragraph 1) [Health & Safety Code §

18035(n)];

- The agreement between plaintiff and defendant for the purchase of a new or used mobilehome (Paragraph 2) [Health & Safety Code § 18035(a), (n)];

- Defendant's violation of Health & Safety Code § 18035 (Paragraph 3) [Health & Safety Code § 18035(n); see also Health & Safety Code § 18035(a)];

- Plaintiff's actual damages (Paragraph 4) [Health & Safety Code § 18035(n)];

- That plaintiff is entitled to statutory damages in an amount not in excess of $2,000 as a result of defendant's violation of Health & Safety Code § 18035 (Paragraph 5) [Health & Safety Code § 18035(n)]; and

- An optional allegation relating to attorney's fees (optional Paragraph 6) [Health & Safety Code § 18035(n)].

[4] Damages

A plaintiff who prevails in an action under Health & Safety Code § 18035(n) will be awarded actual damages plus an amount not in excess of $2,000. Additionally, a prevailing plaintiff will be awarded attorney's fees and court costs [Health & Safety Code § 18035(n)].

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant(s) is/are the _____ [specify proprietary interest or other capacity, i.e., owners and operators] of a mobilehome park, as defined in Civil Code Section 798.4, commonly referred to as _____ [specify name and street address of mobilehome park], _____ County, California (hereinafter "the mobilehome park").

2. Plaintiff is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of the mobilehome park.

[3. Plaintiff is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a tenant of the mobilehome park under a rental agreement dated _____, between plaintiff and _____ (specify landlord, e.g., defendant), and is a homeowner within the meaning of Civil Code Section 798.9. (A copy of the rental agreement is attached to this complaint as Exhibit A and made a part of this complaint.)]

[4. Defendants Does I-_____, inclusive, are sued herein under fictitious names. Their true names and capacities are unknown to plaintiff. When their true names and capacities are ascertained, plaintiff will amend this complaint by inserting their true names and capacities herein. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges, that each of the fictitiously named defendants is responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that plaintiff's damages as herein alleged were proximately caused by those defendants.)]

[5. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that at all times herein mentioned each of the defendants was the agent and employee of each of the remaining defendants, and in doing the things hereinafter alleged, was acting within the course and scope of such agency and employment.]

6. At all times herein mentioned, and since _____ [date], defendants, and each of them, have substantially failed to _____ [provide or maintain or provide and maintain] physical improvements to the common areas of the mobilehome park [that are] in good working order and condition in that _____ [describe nature of defendants' failure, e.g., they have failed to provide lighting in the common areas of the mobilehome park and maintain the fence surrounding the mobilehome park, rendering the mobilehome park unprotected from and vulnerable to criminal activity].

7. Defendants' substantial failure to _____ [provide or maintain or provide and maintain] physical improvements to the common areas of the mobilehome park [that are] in good working order and condition constitutes a public nuisance under Civil Code Section 798.87(a). At the same time, it causes special injury to plaintiff in that _____ [specify injury to plaintiff different in kind from that suffered by others, e.g., the fence surrounding the mobilehome park has partially collapsed and has damaged plaintiff's mobilehome].

[EITHER]

8. On _____ [specify date at least 30 days before filing of complaint], in accordance with Civil Code Section 798.84(b)-(d), plaintiff served defendants with written notice of the basis of his/her claim, and the specific allegations set forth and remedies requested herein. A copy of this notice is attached to this complaint as Exhibit B and made a part of this complaint. However, defendants have refused, and continue to refuse to abate the nuisance resulting from their failure to _____ [specify, e.g., maintain the common areas of the mobilehome park].

[OR]

8. On _____ [specify date at least 30 days before filing of complaint], _____ [specify state or local agency] notified defendants [in writing] that defendants had failed to _____ [specify, e.g., maintain in good working order the lighting in the common areas of the mobilehome park and the fence surrounding the mobilehome park]. [A copy of this notice is attached to this complaint as Exhibit B and made a part of this complaint.] However, defendants have refused, and continue to refuse to abate the nuisance resulting from their failure to _____ [specify, e.g., maintain the common areas of the mobilehome park].

[CONTINUE]

9. Defendants, and each of them, have threatened to and will, unless restrained by this court, continue to maintain the nuisance complained of, and each and every act and failure to act has been, and will be, without the consent, against the will, and in violation of the rights of plaintiff.

10. As a proximate result of the nuisance created by defendants, and each of them, plaintiff has been, and will be, damaged in the sum of $_____, which sum is necessary to _____ [specify damage to be corrected, e.g., repair damage to his/her mobilehome caused by the partial collapse of the fence surrounding the mobilehome park].

11. Unless defendants, and each of them, are restrained by order of this court, it will be necessary for plaintiff to commence many successive actions against defendants, and each of them, to secure compensation for damages sustained, thus requiring a multiplicity of suits, and plaintiff will be daily threatened by defendants' failure to _____ [specify, e.g., maintain the common areas of the mobilehome park].

12. Unless defendants, and each of them, are enjoined from continuing their course of conduct, plaintiff will suffer irreparable injury in that _____ [specify irreparable injury, e.g., plaintiff will be deprived of the comfortable enjoyment of his/her mobilehome].

13. Plaintiff has no plain, speedy, or adequate remedy at law, and injunctive relief is expressly authorized by Code of Civil Procedure Sections 526 and 731.

[14. Plaintiff has incurred and will incur attorney's fees in prosecuting this action.]

[15. In maintaining the nuisance, defendants, and each of them, are acting with full knowledge of the consequences and damage being caused to plaintiff, and their conduct is a willful violation of Civil Code Section 798.87(a). Accordingly, plaintiff is entitled to an award under _____ (Civil Code § 798.86 or Civil Code § 3294).]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. For a preliminary and a permanent injunction enjoining defendants, and each of them, and their agents, servants, and employees, and all persons acting under, in concert with, or for them from _____ [specify each act, course of conduct, and condition defendants are to be prohibited from doing, commencing, continuing, maintaining, failing to provide or maintain, etc., e.g., failing to provide lighting in the common areas of the mobilehome park and maintain the fence surrounding the mobilehome park];

2. For damages in the sum of $_____;

[3. For damages under _____ (Civil Code § 798.86 or Civil Code § 3294) for defendant's willful violation of Civil Code Section 798.87];

[4. For attorney's fees in the sum of $_____;]

5. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

6. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a complaint for use in an action by a mobilehome park resident against the mobilehome park management for a preliminary and permanent injunction and damages based on the management's substantial failure to provide or maintain physical improvements to the common areas of the mobilehome park that are in good working order and condition [Civ. Code § 798.87(a)]. With appropriate modifications, this form may also be used in an action against a mobilehome park resident for a preliminary and permanent injunction and damages based on the resident's substantial violation of a mobilehome park rule [see Civ. Code § 798.87(b)].

The substantial failure of mobilehome park management to provide and maintain physical improvements in the common facilities in good working order and condition and the substantial violation of a mobilehome park rule are deemed public nuisances. However, notwithstanding the provisions of Civ. Code § 3491, these nuisances may only be remedied by a civil action or abatement [Civ. Code § 798.87].

[3] Who May Bring Action

A civil action under Civ. Code § 798.87 may be brought by a mobilehome park resident, the park management, or in the name of the people of California by the district attorney or county counsel of the jurisdiction in which the park, or the greater portion of the park, is located, the city attorney or city prosecutor if the park is located within the city's jurisdiction, or the attorney general [Civ. Code § 798.87(c)].

[4] Allegations

The form of complaint in [1], above, alleges all of the following:

- Defendants' proprietary interests and capacities (Paragraph 1) [Civ. Code § 798.87];
- Plaintiff's proprietary interest and capacity (Paragraph 2) [Civ. Code § 798.87];
- An optional allegation for use when plaintiff is a homeowner within the meaning of Civ. Code § 798.9 (optional Paragraph 3) [Civ. Code § 798.86];
- An optional allegation as to fictitiously named defendant(s) (optional Paragraph 4) [Code Civ. Proc. § 474];
- An optional allegation for use when agents are being sued (optional Paragraph 5);
- Defendants' substantial failure to provide or maintain physical improvements to the common areas of the mobilehome park that are in good working order and condition (Paragraph 6) [Civ. Code § 798.87(a)];
- That defendants' substantial failure is a public nuisance under Civ. Code § 798.87 (Paragraph 7) [Civ. Code § 798.87(a)];
- That the public nuisance resulting from defendants' conduct is specially injurious to plaintiff

(Paragraph 7) [Civ. Code § 3493];

- Allegations for use in the alternative depending on whether notice was provided to defendants by plaintiff under Civ. Code § 798.84(b), (d), or defendants were notified of their failure to maintain the property by a state or local agency (alternative Paragraphs 8) [Civ. Code § 798.84(d)];

- Defendants' continued maintenance of the nuisance against plaintiff's will (alternative Paragraphs 8 and Paragraph 9);

- The nature and amount of damages (Paragraph 10);

- The necessity for a multiplicity of suits unless an injunction is granted (Paragraph 11) [Code Civ. Proc. § 526(a)(6)];

- That plaintiff will suffer irreparable injury unless an injunction is granted (Paragraph 12) [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)];

- The lack of a plain, speedy, or adequate remedy at law and the express authority for an injunction (Paragraph 13) [Civ. Code §§ 3491, 3493; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 731];

- An optional allegation relating to attorney's fees (optional Paragraph 14) [Civ. Code § 798.85]; and

- An optional allegation for statutory damages for use when the plaintiff is a homeowner or former homeowner of the mobilehome park, and defendants' violation is willful (optional Paragraph 15) [Civ. Code §§ 798.9, 798.86].

[5] Injunctive Relief in Limited Civil Cases

In a limited civil case, the court may issue temporary restraining orders and preliminary injunctions, but not permanent injunctive relief except as otherwise provided by statute. Thus, if permanent injunctive relief is sought, the action generally may not be brought as a limited civil case and must be brought in superior court [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(8), 580(b)(2)]. For discussion, a procedural checklist, and additional forms necessary to obtain a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, see Ch. 303, Injunctions . Limited civil cases are specifically covered in Ch. 323, Jurisdiction, Inconvenient Forum, and Appearances .

[6] Notice

Generally, a preliminary injunction may not be granted without notice to the opposing party [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. Specifically, an action based on the failure of mobilehome park management to maintain the common facilities may not be commenced by a homeowner unless the management has been given at least 30 days' prior notice of the intention to commence the action [Civ. Code § 798.84(a)]. For further discussion of notice requirements, see §§ 369.12[8] (Notice of Intent to Commence Action Against Mobilehome Park) and 369.116 (sample form of notice of intent to commence actions).

[7] Damages

If a homeowner or former homeowner of a mobilehome park is the prevailing party in a civil action, including a small claims court action, against the management to enforce his or her rights under the Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.], the homeowner, in addition to damages afforded by law, may, in the court's discretion, be awarded an amount not to exceed $2,000 for each willful violation of those provisions by the management [Civ. Code § 798.86].

The term "homeowner" means a person who has a tenancy in a mobilehome park under a rental agreement [Civ. Code § 798.9]. The term "willful" refers to intentional conduct undertaken with knowledge or consciousness of its probable results. For purposes of imposing a penalty under § 798.86, "willful" conduct does not require a purpose or specific intent to bring about a result, but does require more than negligence or accidental conduct [Patarak v. Williams (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 826, 830, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 381 (penalty properly imposed on finding that landlord willfully failed to maintain septic system with knowledge or consciousness that it would probably fail with malodorous and unsanitary consequences)].

A prevailing homeowner may be awarded either the statutory penalty under Civ. Code § 798.86 or punitive damages under Civ. Code § 3294 [Civ. Code § 798.86(b)]. Civ. Code § 798.86 was amended by 2003 Stats., ch. 98 (AB 693) to effectively abrogate the holding in De Anza Santa Cruz Mobile Estates Homeowners Assn. v. De Anza Santa Cruz Mobile Estates (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 890, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 708 that punitive damages could not be recovered in addition to damages for willful violations under Civ. Code § 798.86.

[8] Verification

Verification [Code Civ. Proc. § 446] is required if plaintiff seeks a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction on a complaint instead of on affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If relying on a verified complaint instead of affidavits (or declarations), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff to the relief sought [see E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; Finnie v. Town of Tiburon (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1, 15, 244 Cal. Rptr. 581] . For discussion, a procedural checklist, and additional forms necessary to obtain a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

Otherwise, verification is not required, but verification of the complaint requires the defendant to file a verified answer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446] and precludes use of a general denial [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[9] Statute of Limitations

If notice of an action based on the failure of mobilehome park management to maintain the common facilities of a mobilehome park is served within 30 days of expiration of the applicable statute of limitations, the time for commencing the action will be extended 30 days from the service of the notice [Civ. Code § 798.84(e)].

[10] Attorney's Fees

The prevailing party is entitled to reasonable attorney's fees and costs. A party will be deemed a prevailing party if the judgment is rendered in his or her favor or the litigation is dismissed in his or her favor before or during the trial, unless the parties otherwise agree in the settlement or compromise [Civ. Code § 798.85].

§ 369.143 Complaint for Restitution and Injunction [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17203]--Class Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 382] by Mobilehome Park Tenant Against Management for Unfair Competition by Violating Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.]

[1] FORM Complaint for Restitution and Injunction [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17203]--Class Action [Code Civ. Proc. § 382] by Mobilehome Park Tenant Against Management for Unfair Competition by Violating Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name] individually and on behalf of all others similarly situated,	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff,	)	CLASS ACTION FOR COMPLAINT FOR RESTITUTION AND INJUNCTION vs.	)	(Unfair Competition)
_____ [name],	)
Defendant.	)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is, and at all times mentioned in this complaint was, a resident of _____ County, California [or allege other capacity and residence].

2. Defendant is, and at all times mentioned in this complaint was, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California with its principal place of business in _____ [city], _____ County, California [or allege other capacity of defendant and basis of venue as appropriate].

3. Plaintiff brings this action on his/her own behalf and on behalf of all persons similarly situated. The class which plaintiff represents is composed of all persons who, at any time since the date four years before the filing of this complaint, have been tenants in [any of] the mobilehome park[s] identified in this complaint. The persons in the class are so numerous [, consisting of approximately _____ individuals,] that the joinder of all such persons is impracticable and that the disposition of their claims in a class action is a benefit to the parties and to the court.

4. There is a well-defined community of interest in the questions of law and fact involved affecting the parties to be represented in that each member of the class is or has been in the same legal relation to the defendant (that is, as a tenant) in the same factual circumstances, hereinafter alleged, as plaintiff. Proof of a common or single state of facts will establish the right of each member of the class to recover. The claims of the plaintiff are typical of those of the class and plaintiff will fairly and adequately represent the interests of the class.

[5. There is no plain, speedy, or adequate remedy other than by maintenance of this class action since plaintiff is informed and believes that each class member is entitled to restitution of a relatively small amount of money, amounting at most to $_____ each, making it economically infeasible to pursue remedies other than a class action. Consequently there would be a failure of justice but for the maintenance of the present class action.]

6. Defendant is the owner [and operator] of a mobilehome park, as defined in Civil Code Section 798.4, which is known as _____ [common name, if any, and street address] and is located in _____ County, California. Plaintiff is, and since _____ [date], plaintiff has continuously been, a tenant in the mobilehome park (hereinafter "the mobilehome park").

[7. Defendant is also the owner (and operator) of a mobilehome park, as defined in the above-cited code sections, which is known as _____ and is located in _____ County, California.]

8. [Repeat for each other mobilehome park in California, owned by defendant, where violations alleged below on which action is based have occurred.]

[9. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that the violations hereinafter alleged regarding the mobilehome park in which plaintiff is a tenant have also occurred in and regarding the other mobilehome park(s) herein referred to.]

[10. In this paragraph and subsequent paragraphs if necessary, allege violations of Mobilehome Residency Law (Civ. Code § 798 et seq.), e.g., Since _____ [date], defendant has required that those tenants having pets within the mobilehome park, including plaintiff, must pay a "pet fee" of $_____ per month although defendant has not actually provided special facilities or services for pets (other than _____ (specify), for which a reasonable charge for cost and maintenance would not exceed $_____ per month). Such charges (in excess of $_____ per month) have been collected by defendant in violation of Civil Code Section 798.33.]

[11. Continue, e.g., Since _____ [date], defendant has required that those tenants having overnight guests within the mobilehome park, including plaintiff, must pay a "guest fee" of $_____ per month per guest regardless of the duration of the guest's stay. Such charges for guests staying not more than a total of 20 consecutive days or a total of 30 days in a calendar year have been collected by defendant in violation of Civil Code Section 798.34.]

12. Defendant's acts hereinabove alleged are acts [of unfair competition within the meaning of Business and Professions Code Section 17203.] Plaintiff is informed and believes that defendant will continue to do those acts unless the court orders defendant to cease and desist.

13. Plaintiff has incurred and, during the pendency of this action, will incur expenses for attorney's fees and costs herein. Such attorney's fees and costs are necessary for the prosecution of this action and will result in a benefit to each of the members of the class. The sum of $_____ is a reasonable amount for attorney's fees herein.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays for judgment as follows:

1. For restitution to plaintiff and each other member of the class, as his or her interest may appear, of all sums unlawfully collected by defendant from plaintiff and the other members of the class since _____ [date], amounting in the aggregate to at least $_____;

2. For interest on these sums at the legal rate from the date of each unlawful collection [or other prayer for interest];

3. For a permanent injunction enjoining defendant, and defendant's agents, servants, and employees, and all persons acting under or in concert with them, to cease and desist from the following acts:

a. _____ [Specify according to allegations, e.g., Charging or collecting from any tenant in (any of) the mobilehome park(s) herein referred to, any "pet fee" other than a fee reasonably related to the cost and maintenance of special facilities or services for pets actually provided by defendant];

b. _____ [Continue as appropriate];

4. For the payment of plaintiff's attorney's fees out of the moneys recovered for the joint benefit of the members of the class;

5. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

6. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [signature]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 369.140.]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a complaint for use by a mobilehome park tenant to obtain an injunction against violations of the Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.] constituting acts of unfair competition, plus restitution of sums acquired by the defendant through such unfair competition, on behalf of the plaintiff and all others similarly situated (i.e., by a class action).

For discussions of, and forms for use in, class actions, actions for injunctions, and actions based on unfair competition, see Chs. 120, Class Actions , 303, Injunctions , and 565, Unfair Competition .

[3] Standing

In 2004, the electorate approved Proposition 64, which imposed standing requirements on private plaintiffs seeking injunctive relief in class actions under the unfair competition laws. Proposition 64 stated that its intent was to prohibit private attorneys from filing lawsuits for unfair competition when they do not have clients who have been injured in fact under the standing requirements of the United States Constitution [Proposition 64, § 1(h) (2004)]. As a result, a person may now pursue representative claims or relief on behalf of others only if the claimant has suffered injury in fact and has lost money or property as a result of such unfair competition [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17203, 17204, 17535]. Thus, all allegations in the complaint of violations of the Mobilehome Residency Law must indicate that the plaintiff and other tenants suffered financial loss or injury to property as a result of the violation.

[4] Statutory Violations as Unfair Competition

In People v. McKale (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 626, 159 Cal. Rptr. 811, 602 P.2d 731 , the Supreme Court held that violations of the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] and implementing regulations [25 Cal. Code Reg. § 1000 et seq.], as well as violations of the Mobilehome Residency Law [Civ. Code § 798 et seq.], could be alleged as constituting acts of unfair competition in an action by the district attorney under Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq. to enforce the state laws on preservation and regulation of competition [Bus. & Prof. Code § 16600 et seq.] and advertising [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500 et seq.; People v. McKale (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 626, 632, 635, 159 Cal. Rptr. 811, 602 P.2d 731] .

Although the district attorney was the plaintiff in that case, and one of the issues was whether the district atorney had standing, the fact that the plaintiff was a public officer had no bearing on the court's conclusion that such violations constituted acts of unfair competition. Any "person in interest" may sue for the relief allowed under Bus. & Prof. Code § 17203. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17203 provides, in addition, that the court may make such orders or judgments, including the appointment of a receiver, as may be necessary to prevent the use or employment by any person of any practice that constitutes unfair competition, as defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200, or as may be necessary to restore to any person in interest any money or property, real or personal, that may have been acquired by means of such unfair competition. In this context, "unfair competition" means unlawful, unfair, or fraudulent business practice and unfair, deceptive, untrue, or misleading advertising and any act prohibited by Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500 et seq. (advertising) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200].

In 2004, the electorate approved Proposition 64, which imposed standing requirements for private persons seeking injunctive relief in class actions under the unfair competition laws [see [3], above]. A private plaintiff may now pursue representative claims or relief on behalf of others only if he or she has suffered injury in fact and has lost money or property as a result of such unfair competition [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17203, 17204, 17535]. In light of Proposition 64, certain conduct recognized in People v. McKale as constituting unfair competition, such as violation of maintenance requirements in the Mobilehome Parks Act [Health & Safety Code § 18200 et seq.] or deceptive, untrue, and misleading advertising by the park as being available to "adults only" [People v. McKale (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 626, 634, 637, 159 Cal. Rptr. 811, 602 P.2d 731] will no longer form the basis for an unfair competition class action claim, if the plaintiff cannot allege out-of-pocket loss arising from such violations.

[5] Limitation Period

An action for the relief allowed under Bus. & Prof. Code § 17203 must be commenced within four years after the cause of action accrued [Bus. & Prof. Code § 17208].

[6] Required Notice

If the action is based on the alleged failure of the mobilehome park's management to maintain the physical improvements in the common facilities in good working order or condition or on the alleged reduction of service, it must be preceded by 30 days' written notice of the intent to bring the action [Civ. Code § 798.84]. This requirement is discussed in § 369.12[8]. A form of notice of intent to commence such an action is set forth in § 369.116.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

32-370 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 370.10

§ 370.10 Contractual Relationships

[1] General Contract Principles Apply

The production and distribution of motion pictures generally involves a structure of contractual relationships, with the producer as the keystone. Basically, although the relationships may become exceedingly complex, a producer acquires a story line, which may range from a bare idea to a complete photoplay, from an author, obtains actors to perform under a director, arranges for technicians and equipment to record the performance on film, and contracts with distributors for the exhibition of prints of the film in theaters.

General contract principles are, of course, applicable to these contracts [see Waverly Prod., Inc. v. RKO Gen., Inc. (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 721, 729, 32 Cal. Rptr. 73 (parol evidence exclusionary rule); Skirball v. RKO Radio Pictures, Inc. (1955) 134 Cal. App. 2d 843, 862-864, 286 P.2d 954 (statute of frauds); Aumont v. Nebenzal (1952) 111 Cal. App. 2d 277, 279, 244 P.2d 461 (contract provision to be construed in conjunction with other provisions)]. However, the literary nature of the materials on which motion pictures are usually based, the professional and artistic status of the persons who participate in making them, and the manner in which they are exhibited may all contribute to differences between the law that prevails with regard to the production and distribution of motion pictures and the law generally applicable to the manufacture and sale of other products.

[2] Actors and Actresses

[a] Injunctive Relief to Prevent Breach of Contract

Generally, an injunction cannot be granted to prevent the breach of a contract. However, an injunction can be granted to prevent the breach of a contract in writing for the rendition of personal services when the minimum compensation is not less than $6,000 for contracts entered into on or before December 31, 1993, and at higher rates in successive years for contracts entered into on or after January 1, 1994, per annum and when the promised service is of a special, unique, unusual, extraordinary, or intellectual character, which gives it peculiar value the loss of which cannot be reasonably or adequately compensated in damages, the performance of which would not be specifically enforced [Civ. Code § 3423(e)]. This right to injunctive relief apparently extends to the contract rights of the employers of motion picture artists [see De Haviland v. Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. (1944) 67 Cal. App. 2d 225, 233-234, 153 P.2d 983 ; but see

Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. v. Brodel (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 766, 778, 192 P.2d 949 (court as not ruling on whether plaintiff entitled to injunctive relief)].

[b] Enforceability Limited to Seven Year Term

In any case, such a contract to render service of a special, unique, unusual, extraordinary, or intellectual character may not be enforced for a term exceeding seven years from the commencement of service under it [see Lab. Code § 2855]. Under Lab. Code § 2855, a contract for exceptional services cannot be enforced against an employee for seven years of actual service but only for a period of seven calendar years [De Haviland v. Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. (1944) 67 Cal. App. 2d 225, 230, 234, 153 P.2d 983] . The seven-year limitation is not waivable [De Haviland v. Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. (1944) 67 Cal. App. 2d 225, 237, 153 P.2d 983] .

[3] Talent Agencies

[a] License Requirement

A talent agency (or talent agent) is a person or corporation engaged in the occupation of procuring, offering, promising, or attempting to procure employment or engagements for an artist or artists, except that the activities of procuring, offering, or promising to procure recording contracts for an artist or artists will not of itself subject a person or corporation to regulation and licensing under Lab. Code § 1700 et seq., the Talent Agencies Act [Lab. Code § 1700.4(a)]. In this context, "artists" are actors and actresses rendering services on the legitimate stage and in the production of motion pictures, radio artists, musical artists, musical organizations, directors of legitimate stage, motion picture and radio productions, musical directors, writers, cinematographers, composers, lyricists, arrangers, models, and other artists, and persons rendering professional services in motion picture, theatrical, radio, television and other entertainment enterprises [Lab. Code § 1700.4(b)].

No person may engage in or carry on the occupation of a talent agency without first obtaining a license from the Labor Commissioner [Lab. Code § 1700.5].

The Talent Agencies Act is completely silent on the subject of the proper remedy for illegal procurement [Marathon Entertainment, Inc. v. Blasi (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 974, 990, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 727, 174 P.3d 741]. Courts have concluded that a contract is void insofar as it would otherwise obligate an artist to pay an unlicensed person for procuring, offering, promising, or attempting to procure employment or engagements for the artist [e.g., Park v. Deftones (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 1465, 1472, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 616 ; Waisbren v. Peppercorn Productions, Inc. (1995) 41 Cal. App. 4th 246, 252-253, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 437 ; Buchwald v. Superior Court (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 347, 351, 62 Cal. Rptr. 364 ; see Styne v. Stevens (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 42, 51, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 14, 26 P.3d 343 (dictum that unlicensed person's contract with artist to provide services of talent agency "is illegal and void")].

In practice, artists and the persons they deal with as artists have tended to distinguish talent agents from personal managers. Talent agents act as intermediaries between the buyers and sellers of talent. In contrast, an artist's personal manager primarily advises, counsels, directs, and coordinates the development of the artist's career. The personal manager usually advises in both business and personal matters, frequently lends money to young artists, and serves as a spokesperson for the artist. This difference between talent agents and personal managers is informally recognized by the various guilds that cover most of the talent available in the entertainment industry. However, "[t]he line dividing the functions of agents, who must be licensed, and of managers, who need not be, is often blurred and sometimes crossed. Agents sometimes counsel and advise; managers sometimes procure work. Indeed, the occasional procurement of employment opportunities may be standard operating procedure for many managers and an understood goal when not-yet-established talents, lacking access to the few licensed agents in Hollywood, hire managers to promote their careers" [Marathon Entertainment, Inc. v. Blasi (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 974, 980, 983-984, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 727, 174 P.3d 741]. Talent agencies may, in addition to procuring employment, counsel or direct artists in the development of their professional careers [Lab. Code § 1700.4(a)]. But to the extent that a personal manager procures, offers, promises, or attempts to procure employment or engagements for an artist--whether regularly or only occasionally; just once is enough--the personal manager is subject to the Talent Agencies Act [Marathon Entertainment, Inc. v. Blasi (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 974, 986-989, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 727, 174 P.3d 741 (personal managers "remain exempt from regulation insofar as they do those things that personal managers do, but they are regulated under the Act to the extent they stray into doing the things that make one a talent agency under the Act")].

Unfortunately, the Talent Agencies Act contains no definition of what constitutes "procurement" under the Act, and the Labor Commissioner has struggled over time to better delineate which activities involve mere general assistance to an artist's career and which "stray across the line to illicit procurement" [Marathon Entertainment, Inc. v. Blasi (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 974, 990, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 727, 174 P.3d 741].

If a contract between an artist and a person not licensed under the Talent Agencies Act covers several distinct promises or obligations by the unlicensed person, relating to lawful activities exempt from regulation under the Act as well as to the illicit procurement of employment, then a court may determine whether "the contract is void as to the latter and valid as to the rest" [Civ. Code § 1599]. That is, "the full voiding of the parties' contract is available, but not mandatory; likewise, severance is available, but not mandatory" [Marathon Entertainment, Inc. v. Blasi (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 974, 996, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 727, 174 P.3d 741].

[b] Reference of Disputes to Labor Commissioner

[i] Jurisdiction of Labor Commissioner

If a controversy arises under Lab. Code § 1700 et seq., and there is no applicable contractual arbitration provision [see § 370.10[3][b][ii]], then the parties involved must refer the matters in dispute to the Labor Commissioner, who is required to hear and determine the matters, subject to an appeal within 10 days after determination to the superior court, where the matters shall be heard de novo [Lab. Code § 1700.44(a)]. An omission to refer the matters in dispute to the Labor Commissioner, within the applicable one-year limitation period [see Lab. Code § 1700.44(c)], absolutely bars any action or proceeding in a court (including the assertion of a defense) based on a violation of the Talent Agencies Act [Blanks v. Seyfarth Shaw LLP (2009) 171 Cal. App. 4th 336, 365-367, 89 Cal. Rptr. 3d 710 ; Humes v. MarGil Ventures, Inc. (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 486, 494, 220 Cal. Rptr. 186 (Labor Commissioner has original jurisdiction to exclusion of superior court)]. However, if there is an apparently applicable agreement to arbitrate, then it takes precedence over Lab. Code § 1700.44(a), and the parties must resort to arbitration, bypassing the Labor Commissioner [Preston v. Ferrer (2008) 552 U.S. 346, 128 S. Ct. 978, 169 L. Ed. 2d 917 , ("When parties agree to arbitrate all questions arising under a contract, the ... [Federal Arbitration Act] supersedes state laws lodging primary jurisdiction in another forum, whether judicial or administrative."), reversing Ferrer v. Preston (2006) 145 Cal. App. 4th 440, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 628].

The 10-day time limit for bringing an appeal from a decision of the Commissioner is mandatory and jurisdictional [REO Broadcasting Consultants v. Martin (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 489, 495, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 639] . This period is subject to extension when service is by mail [REO Broadcasting Consultants v. Martin (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 489, 495 n.5, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 639 (applying provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 to calculate time for appeal based on Lab. Code §§ 5, 98.2)]. The superior court cannot consider an appeal taken after the expiration of the statutory time period even in the case of mistake, inadvertence, or other excuse [REO Broadcasting Consultants v. Martin (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 489, 495-498, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 639] .

For a form for a petition to confirm an award of the Labor Commissioner, see § 370.60.

[ii] Arbitration Agreements

The Talent Agencies Act [Lab. Code § 1700 et seq.] imposes specified conditions for the validity of an arbitration agreement between a talent agency and an artist. The contract must provide (1) for reasonable notice to the Labor Commissioner of the time and place of all arbitration hearings, and (2) that the Labor Commissioner's authorized representative has the right to attend all arbitration hearings [Lab. Code § 1700.45]. However, the Federal Arbitration Act provides that "[a] written provision in any ... contract evidencing a transaction involving commerce to settle by arbitration a controversy thereafter arising out of such contract or transaction ... shall be valid, irrevocable, and enforceable, save upon such grounds as exist at law or in equity for the revocation of any contract" [9 U.S.C. § 2]. Therefore, the U.S. Supreme Court has held that the procedural prescriptions of the Talent Agencies act conflict with the Federal Arbitration Act in two basic respects: (1) Lab. Code § 1700.44(a) [see § 370.10[3][b][i]] grants the Labor Commissioner exclusive jurisdiction to decide an issue that the parties agreed to arbitrate; and (2) Lab. Code § 1700.45 imposes prerequisites to enforcement of an arbitration agreement that are not applicable to contracts generally [Preston v. Ferrer (2008) 552 U.S. 346, 128 S. Ct. 978, 985, 169 L. Ed. 2d 917].

Since Lab. Code § 1700.45 is preempted by federal law, the usual rules apply regarding the effect of an arbitration agreement (or an arbitration clause in an employment contract) between a talent agency and an artist. A party may attack the arbitration agreement (or clause) in court on any ground "exist[ing] at law or in equity for the revocation of any contract" [9 U.S.C. § 2]. Otherwise, any issue covered by the arbitration agreement must be submitted to an arbitrator, and only an issue not within the ambit of the arbitration agreement may be determined in a court. For further discussion, see Ch. 32, Contractual Arbitration: Agreements and Compelling Arbitration .

[4] Entertainment Talent Services

[a] Artists, Employment Opportunities, and Auditions

An artist, in this context, is a person who is, or seeks to become, an actor, actress, model, extra, radio artist, musical artist, musical organization, director, musical director, writer, cinematographer, composer, lyricist, arranger, or other person rendering professional services in motion picture, theatrical, radio, television, Internet, print media, or other entertainment enterprises or technologies [Lab. Code § 1701(a)].

Talent services are subject to regulation when undertaking to act in the interest of an artist seeking employment opportunities (among other regulated activities), for a fee to be paid by or on behalf of the artist [see § 370.10[4][c]]. An "employment opportunity" is the opportunity to obtain work as an artist, whether compensated or not [Lab. Code § 1701(c)].

An "audition" is any activity for the purpose of obtaining employment, compensated or not, as an artist whereby an artist meets with, interviews or performs before, or displays his or her talent before, any person, including a producer, a director, or a casting director, or an associate, representative, or designee of a producer, director, or casting director, who has, or is represented to have, input into the decision to select an artist for an employment opportunity. An audition may be in person or through electronic means, live or recorded, and may include a performance or other display of the artist's promotional materials [Lab. Code § 1701(b)].

"Fee" means any money or other valuable consideration paid or promised to be paid by or on behalf of an artist for services rendered or to be rendered by a talent service, with specified exceptions [Lab. Code § 1701(d)].

[b] Unlawful Talent Services

No person may own, operate, or act in the capacity of, an advance fee talent representation service (see below), and no person may advertise, solicit for, or knowingly refer a person to, an advance fee talent representation service [Lab. Code § 1702; see Lab. Code § 1702.3 (remedial provisions in Lab. Code § 1704 et seq., discussed in § 370.10[4][h], apply to violation of this prohibition); see also Lab. Code § 1702.4 (persons exempt from this prohibition, such as educational institutions, regular employment agencies, professional and labor organizations, and general-circulation periodicals)]. Talent services not in the category of advance fee talent representation services may operate but are regulated [see § 370.10[4][c] et seq.].

An "advance-fee talent representation service" provides, or offers to provide, or advertises or represents itself as providing, the services listed below, to an artist, directly or by referral to another person, and charges or receives a fee from or on behalf of the artist for photographs, websites, or other reproductions or other promotional materials, as an artist; for lessons, coaching, seminars, workshops, or similar training for the artist; or for one or more of the following services [Lab. Code § 1702.1(a)]:

- Procuring or attempting to procure an employment opportunity or an engagement as an artist;
- Procuring or attempting to procure an audition for the artist;
- Managing or directing the development of the artist's career; or
- Procuring or attempting to procure a talent agent or talent manager, including an associate, representative, or designee of a talent agent or talent manager.

An advance-fee talent representation service subject to the statutory prohibition could also be one that charges or receives a fee from, or on behalf of, an artist for any product or service required for the artist to obtain, from or through the advance-fee talent representation service, any of the services listed above [Lab. Code § 1702.1(b)].

[c] Talent Services Subject to Regulation

Talent services not in the category of advance-fee talent representation services [see § 370.10[4][b]] are subject to regulation. Such a talent service is one that provides, or offers to provide, or advertises or represents itself as providing, certain services to an artist (see below), directly or by referral to another person, for a fee from, or on behalf of, the artist; and there are three kinds denoted, according to the services being offered, as [see Lab. Code § 1701(I)]:

- "Talent listing service" if the services are [Lab. Code § 1701(g)]:
  - Furnishing lists of, or searching databases to find, auditions or employment opportunities, or talent agents or talent managers and associates, representatives, and designees of agents and managers;
  - Enabling the artist to perform self-directed searches of databases for such purposes; or
  - Storing or maintaining, for distribution or disclosure to any person represented as offering an audition or employment opportunity, or to a talent agent, talent manager, or associate, representative, or designee of a talent agent or talent manager, both or either of the following: (a) the artist's name, photograph, website, filmstrip, videotape, audition tape, demonstration reel, resume, portfolio, or other reproduction or promotional material of the artist; (b) the artist's schedule of availability for an audition or employment opportunity;
- "Talent counseling service" if the services are career counseling, vocational guidance, aptitude testing, or career evaluation as an artist (but not managing or directing the development of an artist's career) [Lab. Code § 1701(f)];

- "Talent training service" if the services are lessons, coaching, seminars, workshops, or similar training as an artist [Lab. Code § 1701(j)].

No talent listing service, or any owner, director, officer, agent, or employee of a talent listing service, may own, operate, or have any direct or indirect financial interest in, a talent counseling service or a talent training service [Lab. Code § 1703.4(c)(1)]. No talent counseling service or talent training service, or any owner, director, officer, agent, or employee of a talent counseling service or a talent training service, may own, operate, or have any direct or indirect financial interest in, a talent listing service [Lab. Code § 1703.4(b)].

A "talent scout" is an individual employed, appointed, or authorized by a talent service, who solicits or attempts to solicit an artist for the purpose of becoming a client of the service. The principals of a service are themselves talent scouts if they solicit on behalf of the service [Lab. Code § 1701(h)]. No talent scout may use the same name as used by any other talent scout soliciting for the same talent service, and no talent service may permit a talent scout to use the same name as used by any other talent scout soliciting for the talent service [Lab. Code § 1703.5].

[d] Contract Requirements

Every contract and agreement between an artist and a talent service must be contained in a single written document, in at least 10-point type, that conforms to the requirements of Lab. Code § 1703 [Lab. Code § 1703(d)]. The contract term must be not more than one year and must not be renewable automatically [Lab. Code § 1703(f)]. The contract must contain all of the following provisions [Lab. Code § 1703(a)]:

- The name, address, telephone number, fax number (if any), e-mail address (if any), and website address (if any), of the talent service, of the artist to whom services are to be provided, and of the representative executing the contract on behalf of the talent service;

- A description of the services to be performed [see § 370.10[4][c]], a statement when those services are to be provided, and the duration of the contract;

- Evidence of compliance with applicable bonding requirements [see § 370.10[4][f]], including the name of the bonding company and the bond number, if any, and a statement that a bond in the amount of $50,000 must be posted with the Labor Commissioner; and

- The amount of any fees to be charged to or collected from, or on behalf of, the artist receiving the services, and the dates when those fees are required to be paid.

The contract also must contain a specified disclosure statement, in boldface type and in close proximity to the artist's signature [see Lab. Code § 1703(a)(5)], and a statement conspicuously disclosing whether the artist may obtain a refund after the 10-day cancellation period described in the disclosure statement has expired [Lab. Code § 1703(a)(5),(6)]. The artist's statutory right to cancel is discussed in § 370.10[4][e].

The contract must be dated and signed by the artist and the representative executing the contract on behalf of the talent service; or, if the contract is executed over the Internet, the talent service must give the artist clear and conspicuous notice of the contract terms and provide to the artist the ability to acknowledge receipt of the terms before acknowledging agreement. In any dispute regarding compliance with this requirement, the talent service has the burden of proving that the artist received the terms and acknowledged agreement [Lab. Code § 1703(b)].

If the talent service offers to list or display information about an artist, including a photograph, on any website that the talent service has authority to design or alter, the contract must contain a notice that the talent service will remove the listing and content within 10 days of a request by the artist or by a minor artist's parent or guardian. The contract must include a valid telephone number, mailing address, and e-mail address for the talent service to which a request for removal may be made [Lab. Code § 1703(c)].

The talent service must maintain the address set forth in the contract for removal of a website or other listing, unless it furnishes the artist with written notice of a change of address. Written notice of a change of address may be given by e-mail if the artist designates an e-mail address in the contract for purposes of receiving written notice [Lab. Code § 1703(g)].

Before the artist signs the contract, and before the artist or any person acting on the artist's behalf becomes obligated to pay or pays any fee, the talent service must provide a copy of the contract to the artist, for the artist to keep. If the contract was executed through the Internet, the talent service may provide a copy of the contract to the artist by making it available to be downloaded and printed through the Internet [Lab. Code § 1703(i)].

[e] Artist's Right to Cancel Contract

A contract not conforming to the requirements of Lab. Code § 1703(a)-(f) [see § 370.10[4][d]] is voidable at the election of the artist and may be canceled by the artist at any time without any penalty or obligation [Lab. Code § 1703(d)]. For a form of affirmative defense based on this right to cancel, see § 370.55.

The artist may cancel a conforming contract within 10 business days from the date the artist begins to use services under the contract. The artist must notify the talent service of the cancellation within 10 business days of the date the artist executed the contract, by mailing, delivering, or sending by fax, to the talent service, a signed and dated copy of the cancellation notice or any other written notice of cancellation, or by sending a notice of cancellation via the Internet if the contract was executed in part or in whole through the Internet. The talent service must refund all fees paid by, or on behalf of, the artist within 10 business days after delivery of the cancellation notice [Lab. Code § 1703(e)(1)].

Unless the talent service conspicuously discloses in the contract that cancellation is prohibited after the 10-day cancellation period described above, the artist may cancel a conforming contract at any time after the 10-day cancellation period, by mailing, delivering, or sending by fax, to the talent service, a signed and dated copy of the cancellation notice or any other written notice of cancellation, or by sending a notice of cancellation via the Internet if the contract was executed in part or in whole through the Internet. Within 10 business days after delivery of the cancellation notice, the talent service must refund to the artist, on a pro rata basis, all fees paid by, or on behalf of, the artist [Lab. Code § 1703(e)(2)].

The talent service must maintain the address set forth in the contract for receipt of cancellation, unless it furnishes the artist with written notice of a change of address. Written notice of a change of address may be given by e-mail if the artist designates an e-mail address in the contract for purposes of receiving written notice [Lab. Code § 1703(g)].

The talent service must advise a person inquiring about canceling a contract to follow the written procedures for cancellation set forth in the contract [Lab. Code § 1703(h)].

[f] Additional Regulation of Talent Services

Every person engaging in the business of a talent service must keep and maintain specified business records [Lab. Code § 1703.1(a)], which are open to inspection by the Labor Commissioner and public attorneys [Lab. Code § 1703.1(b)].

Any written or oral solicitation or advertisement for an artist to perform or demonstrate any talent for a talent service, or to appear for an interview with a talent service, must include the following clear and conspicuous statement: "This is not an audition for employment or for obtaining a talent agent or talent management" [Lab. Code § 1703.1(b)].

Before advertising or engaging in business, a talent service must provide security for its compliance with Lab. Code § 1701 et seq., in the form of either a $50,000 bond filed with the Labor Commissioner or a deposit in lieu of a bond [Lab. Code § 1703.3(a)]. The bond is to be payable to the people of the State of California for the benefit of any person injured by any unlawful act, omission, or failure to provide the services of the talent service [Lab. Code § 1703.3(b)]. Whenever a deposit is made in lieu of the bond, a person asserting a claim against the deposit must establish the claim by furnishing to the Labor Commissioner evidence of injury resulting from an unlawful act, omission, or failure to provide the services of the talent service, or evidence of a money judgment entered by a court [Lab. Code § 1703.3(d)(1)].

[g] Prohibited Acts

A waiver by an artist of the provisions of Lab. Code § 1701 et seq. is deemed contrary to public policy and void and unenforceable. An attempt by any person or talent service to have an artist waive rights under Lab. Code § 1701 et seq. is a violation of Lab. Code § 1701 et seq. [Lab. Code § 1705.2].

Every talent service (including the owners, directors, officers, agents, and employees) must not do any of the following [Lab. Code § 1703.4(a); see Lab. Code § 1703.6 (persons who are exempt from these prohibitions)]:

- Make, or cause to be made, any advertisement or representation explicitly or implicitly offering the opportunity for an artist to meet with or audition before any producer, director, casting director, or any associate of a producer, director, casting director, or any other person who makes, or is represented to make, decisions for the process of hiring artists for employment as an artist, or any talent agent or talent manager, or any associate, representative, or designee of an agent or a manager, unless the talent service maintains, for inspection and copying, written evidence of the supporting facts, including the name, business address, and job title of each person conducting the meeting or audition, and the title of the production and the name of the production company.

- Make, or cause to be made, any advertisement or representation that any artist, whether identified or not, has obtained an audition, employment opportunity, or employment as an artist in whole or in part by use of the talent service, unless the talent service maintains, for inspection, written evidence of the supporting facts on which the claim is based, including the name of the artist and the approximate dates the talent service was used by the artist.

- Charge or attempt to charge an artist for an audition or employment opportunity.

- Require an artist, as a condition for using the talent service or for obtaining an additional benefit or preferential treatment from the talent service, to pay a fee for creating or providing photographs, filmstrips, videotapes, audition tapes, demonstration reels, or other reproductions of the artist, or for creating or providing websites, casting or talent brochures, or other promotional materials for the artist.

- Charge or attempt to charge an artist any fee not disclosed in the contract pursuant to Lab. Code § 1703(a)(4) [see § 370.10[4][d]].

- Refer an artist to a person who charges the artist a fee for any service or any product in which the talent service, or any owner, director, officer, agent, or employee of the talent service, has a direct or indirect financial interest, unless the fee and the financial interest are conspicuously disclosed in a separate writing provided to the artist, to keep, before the artist executes a contract with the talent service.

- Require an artist, as a condition for using the talent service or for obtaining any additional benefit or preferential treatment from the talent service, to pay a fee to any other talent service in which the requiring talent service, or any owner, director, officer, agent, or employee of the requiring talent service, has a direct or indirect financial interest.

- Accept any compensation or other consideration for referring an artist to any person charging the artist a fee.

- Fail to remove information about, or photographs of, the artist displayed on any website that the service has the authority to design or alter, within 10 days of delivery of a request made by telephone, mail, fax, or e-mail, from the artist or from a minor artist's parent or guardian.

In addition, no talent listing service [see § 370.10[4][c]; but see Lab. Code § 1703.6(e) (talent listing services that are exempt from these prohibitions)], or any owner, director, officer, agent, and employee, may do any of the following:

- Make, or cause to be made, an advertisement or representation that includes the trademark, logo, name, word, or phrase of a company or organization, including a studio, production company, network, broadcaster, talent agency licensed pursuant to Lab. Code § 1700.5, labor union, or labor organization defined in Lab. Code § 1117, in any manner that falsely or misleadingly suggests the endorsement, sponsorship, approval, or affiliation of a talent service [Lab. Code § 1703.4(c)(3)].

- Provide a listing of an audition, job, or employment opportunity without written permission for the listing [Lab. Code § 1703.4(c)(2)].

The talent listing service must keep and maintain a copy of every original listing, the name, business address, and business telephone number of the person granting permission to the talent listing service to use the listing, and the date the permission was granted [Lab. Code § 1703.4(c)(2)].

[h] Remedies

A person who is injured by a violation of Lab. Code § 1701 et seq. or by the breach of a contract subject to Lab. Code § 1701 et seq. may bring an action for recovery of damages, or to restrain and enjoin a violation, or both. The amount awarded for damages must be not less than three times the amount paid by the artist, or on behalf of the artist, to the talent service or the advance-fee talent representation service. The court must award reasonable attorney's fees and costs to a prevailing plaintiff [Lab. Code § 1704.2]. For a form of complaint by an artist against a talent service, see § 370.54.

The Labor Commissioner must use the proceeds of a bond or deposit provided pursuant to Lab. Code § 1703.3 [see § 370.10[4][f]] to satisfy a judgment or restitution order resulting from a violation of Lab. Code § 1701 et seq., if the person obligated on the judgment or order fails to pay all amounts required by the judgment or order [Lab. Code § 1704.3].

The remedies provided in Lab. Code § 1704 et seq. are not exclusive but are in addition to any other remedies or procedures provided in any other law, including Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500, the false advertising law [Lab. Code § 1705.1].

A willful violation of Lab. Code § 1701 et seq. is a misdemeanor [Lab. Code § 1704].

[5] Distribution

Precedence in the matter of "runs" and "clearances" in the exhibition of any picture in an area gives it a favored position and thus affords a competitive advantage [Chorak v. RKO Radio Pictures, Inc. (9th Cir. 1952) 196 F.2d 225, 226] . Runs are successive exhibitions of a feature in a given area, and include successive exhibitions in different theaters even though under a common ownership or management [Chorak v. RKO Radio Pictures, Inc. (9th Cir. 1952) 196 F.2d 225, 228]. Clearances are agreements by a distributor not to exhibit a film or to license others to do so within a given area and for a stated period after the last date of the showing of the film by the licensee with whom the agreement is made [Schine Chain Theatres v. United States (1948) 334 U.S. 110, 121, 68 S. Ct. 947, 92 L. Ed. 1245] .

An exhibitor does not have the right to compel a motion picture producer to give him a preferred run, because as a very practical matter the motion picture industry could not operate under a system of simultaneous releases. This obvious fact underlies the doctrine that clearances and runs are not illegal per se [Chorak v. RKO Radio Pictures, Inc. (9th Cir. 1952) 196 F.2d 225, 228] .

However, there have been actions brought under the Sherman and Clayton Anti-Trust Acts [15 U.S.C. §§ 1-7, 12-27, 44; 29 U.S.C. §§ 52, 53] to restrain such distribution agreements [see United States v. Paramount Pictures, Inc. (1948) 334 U.S. 131, 68 S. Ct. 915, 92 L. Ed. 1260 ; Schine Chain Theatres v. United States (1948) 334 U.S. 110, 68 S. Ct. 947, 92 L. Ed. 1245 ; Chorak v. RKO Radio Pictures, Inc. (9th Cir. 1952) 196 F.2d 225] . There have also been actions brought to prohibit exclusive dealing agreements between a distributor and an exhibitor for first-run films [Redwood Theatres, Inc. v. Festival Enterprises, Inc. (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 687, 702-703, 248 Cal. Rptr. 189 (also discussing evolution of marketing practices in the industry since Paramount)]. The right of recovery depends on whether or not clearance restrictions are the result of a concerted course of action and whether or not the clearancerestrictions are unreasonable [Chorak v. RKO Radio Pictures, Inc. (9th Cir. 1952) 196 F.2d 225, 228] .

Restraints on trade are discussed in Ch. 565, Unfair Competition, § 564.70 et seq.

Chapter 370 MOTION PICTURES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

32-370 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 370.11

§ 370.11 Rights in the Picture

The producer is usually the person with the basic rights in the motion picture, from its inception through, and after, completion [see Lille v. Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. (1934) 139 Cal. App. 724, 728, 34 P.2d 835] . Thus, the producer may determine who will appear in, work on, and receive credit for the picture, how it will be edited, and how advertised and distributed. Of course, any person who contracts to participate in making or distributing the film may, by the terms of his contract, gain rights that ordinarily would belong to the producer [see Stevens v. National Broadcasting Co. (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 886, 889-890, 76 Cal. Rptr. 106] .

32-370 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 370.32

§ 370.32 Decisions

[1] Actors and Actresses

Counterfeiting of actor's role gives rise to right of action based on fraud and deception and exists independently of law regulating trademarks. Chaplin v. Amador (1928) 93 Cal. App. 358, 363, 269 P. 544

Contract for services of motion picture actress is enforceable under Lab. Code § 2855 for seven-year period from commencement of service rather than for seven years of actual service; seven-year period is not waivable. De Haviland v. Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. (1944) 67 Cal. App. 2d 225, 230, 234, 237, 153 P.2d 983

Breach of employment contract with actress by employer. Aumont v. Nebenzal (1952) 111 Cal. App. 2d 277, 244 P.2d 461

Liability of assignee of actor's employment contract. Fanning v. Yoland Prod., Inc. (1957) 150 Cal. App. 2d 444, 450-452, 310 P.2d 85

Contracts violative of former Artists' Managers Act [Lab. Code §§ 1700-1700.46] (now see Lab. Code § 1700 et seq.) were void. Buchwald v. Superior Court (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 347, 351, 62 Cal. Rptr. 364 (contract with professional musical group)

Actress' rejection of different and inferior kind of employment in dramatic "western type" motion picture was not to be resorted to in order to mitigate damages arising from defendant's refusal to employ actress under contract to do musical motion picture. Parker v. Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 176, 182-184, 89 Cal. Rptr. 737, 474 P.2d 689

[2] Composers

By virtue of series of licenses to perform musical compositions that were part of motion picture sound track, right to broadcast motion picture with incidental music was vested in television station. Zahler v. Columbia Pictures Corp. (1960) 180 Cal. App. 2d 582, 589, 4 Cal. Rptr. 612

[3] Distribution

Even though hotel's rental of movie videodiscs to lodgers was held not to be public performance and thus, not to infringe studios' copyrights in movies, studios' action to enforce their copyrights was not attempt to monopolize under guise of "sham" litigation. Real Est. Investors v. Columbia (1993) 508 U.S. 49, 113 S. Ct. 1920, 123 L. Ed.2d 611, 619, 625-626

Factors to be considered in determining whether clearance unreasonable. United States v. Paramount Pictures, Inc. (1948) 334 U.S. 131, 145-146, 68 S. Ct. 915, 92 L. Ed. 1260 ; Schine Chain Theatres v. United States (1948) 334 U.S. 110, 121, 68 S. Ct. 947, 92 L. Ed. 1245

General practice of "blind bidding" (bidding for right to exhibit movie without first viewing it) is not prohibited in California; "blind bidding" of movie that was in stage of production unsuitable for screening was not unfair trade practice under Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200. Orion Pictures Distribution v. Syufy Enterprises (9th Cir. 1987) 829 F.2d 946, 949

Movie distributor that placed film in inferior theaters after defendant theater repudiated guaranteed rental fees, based on low opinion of film at trade screening following "blind bidding," was unable to claim antitrust damages in amount of difference between actual rentals and repudiated guarantees; defendant's alleged monopolization did not affect competition to license particular movie at time of bidding. Orion Pictures Distribution v. Syufy Enterprises (9th Cir. 1987) 829 F.2d 946, 949

"Clearances," which preclude movie distributors from licensing other movie theaters from showing movie while exhibited by theater whose bid is accepted, were vertical nonprice restraint of trade. Theee Movies of Tarzana v. Pacific Theatres, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 828 F.2d 1395, 1397-1398 (restraint upheld as reasonable, supporting summary judgment for defendant)

Clearance and run preferences in distribution of motion pictures are not illegal per se; right to recover under anti-trust laws is dependent on whether restriction imposed as result of concerted course of action and whether restriction unreasonable. Chorak v. RKO Radio Pictures, Inc. (9th Cir. 1952) 196 F.2d 225, 228

Subdistributor, having agreed to pay 50 percent of net receipts to distributor without knowledge of distributor's agreement with producer, was not bound by distributor's obligation to require subdistributor to pay 70 percent of gross receipts directly to producer; Civ. Code § 1589 (voluntary acceptance of benefit of transaction is equivalent to consent to all obligations arising from it, insofar as material facts are known, or ought to be known, to person accepting) did not apply because subdistributor, who did not know about producer-distributor agreement and was not assignee of benefits under it, did not accept any benefit of that transaction; neither UCC-1 financing statement recorded with California Secretary of State nor copyright mortgage filed with United States Copyright Office could have put subdistributor on constructive notice of that transaction because neither document described payment terms of producer-distributor agreement. Recorded Picture Company [Productions] LTD v. Nelson Entertainment, Inc. (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 350, 362, 366, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 742

Marketing practices in motion picture industry have changed since decision in United States v. Paramount Pictures (1948) 334 U.S. 131, 68 S. Ct. 915, 92 L. Ed. 1260 , required fundamental restructuring of motion picture industry. Redwood Theatres, Inc. v. Festival Enterprises, Inc. (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 687, 694-699, 248 Cal. Rptr. 189

In determining whether alleged exclusive dealing agreements of competing exhibitor with each of three distributors are boycotts that tended to cut off plaintiff's access to first-run films of those distributors, evidence of predatory intent is necessary for boycott to be illegal per se. Redwood Theatres, Inc. v. Festival Enterprises, Inc. (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 687, 702-703, 248 Cal. Rptr. 189

Although interchangeability of products is usually considered in defining market subject to alleged restraint of trade, some products, such as popular first-run movies, are not substitutable. Redwood Theatres, Inc. v. Festival Enterprises, Inc. (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 687, 705-707, 248 Cal. Rptr. 189

Minimum guaranteed royalty was advance; when contract was silent as to time for payment to producer by distributor of minimum guaranteed royalty, judgment that payment was required within four years of inception of contract, rather that at end of 10-year contract, was supported by evidence. Fineberg v. Niekerk (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 935, 942, 221 Cal. Rptr. 106

Distributor of motion picture was not fiduciary except with respect to accounting for rentals received from sublicensees. Waverly Prod., Inc. v. RKO Gen., Inc. (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 721, 731, 32 Cal. Rptr. 73

Wrongful interference with distribution of motion picture. Warner v. Roadshow Attractions Co. (1942) 56 Cal. App. 2d 1, 132 P.2d 35

[4] Financing Agreements

Producer's financing agreement with investors. Spector v. National Pictures Corp. (1962) 201 Cal. App. 2d 217, 20 Cal. Rptr. 307

[5] General Contract Principles

Writing intended by parties to be mere memorandum of intention to negotiate contract for production of motion picture and not purporting to state essentials of proposed agreement is unenforceable. Carter v. Milestone (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 189, 193, 338 P.2d 569

Parol evidence exclusionary rule is applicable where intention of parties clearly stated and parol evidence of contrary intention offered. Waverly Prod., Inc. v. RKO Gen., Inc. (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 721, 729, 32 Cal. Rptr. 73

Distribution contract contains implied covenant that neither party shall do anything which will have effect of destroying or injuring right of other party to receive fruits of contract. Waverly Prod., Inc. v. RKO Gen., Inc. (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 721, 735, 32 Cal. Rptr. 73

Sufficiency of written memorandum of production contract for satisfying statute of frauds. Skirball v. RKO Radio Pictures, Inc. (1955) 134 Cal. App. 2d 843, 862-864, 286 P.2d 954

Admissibility of evidence of custom and usage in motion picture industry in construing contracts involving motion pictures. Ermolieff v. RKO Radio Pictures, Inc. (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 543, 549, 122 P.2d 3 ; Alperson v. Mirisch Co. (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 84, 91-92, 58 Cal. Rptr. 178

[6] Obscenity

Pandering instructions authorized by California statute [Penal Code § 311.2] after occurrence of part of defendant's conduct were not violation of U.S Const., amends. I or XIV, or of ex post facto clause. Splawn v. California (1977) 431 U.S. 595, 601, 97 S. Ct. 1987, 52 L. Ed.2d 606

Action to recover film from processor; obscenity of film is defense. Eastman Kodak Co. v. Hendricks (9th Cir. 1958) 262 F.2d 392, 397 (decided under former Penal Code § 311; now see Penal Code §§ 311-312.5)

Filmmaker who pays actors in nonobscene film to engage in sexual acts that are not independently unlawful is not committing prostitution or procurement of prostitution, because payment of acting fees is not for purpose of sexual arousal or gratification of either filmmaker or actors; further, filmmaker's First Amendment rights are unconstitutionally impinged by application of prostitution or pandering statute. People v. Freeman (1988) 46 Cal. 3d 419, 425-430, 250 Cal. Rptr. 598, 758 P.2d 1128

Officer's affidavit describing scenes in film with candid and direct frankness was adequate to establish probable cause for search warrant, even where film also available for magistrate's viewing. People v. P. P. G., Inc. (1978) 88 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 12, 151 Cal. Rptr. 531

Power of court to entertain and grant nonstatutory motion for return of seized materials alleged to be obscene is derived from Penal Code § 1536 as well as from its inherent power to control and prevent abuse of its process. People v. Superior Court (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 600, 607, 621, 104 Cal. Rptr. 876 (court ordered return of motion picture film not introduced into evidence in possession of chief of police after acquittal of criminal charge)

[7] Privacy

Use of incidents from life of plaintiff in motion picture was not in itself actionable where incidents part of public record. Melvin v. Reid (1931) 112 Cal. App. 285, 290, 297 P. 91

Publication in motion picture of unsavory incidents in past life of plaintiff after she had reformed, coupled with her true name, were facts sufficient to constitute cause of action. Melvin v. Reid (1931) 112 Cal. App. 285, 292, 297 P. 91

Ownership of picture includes right to use picture publicly in any form except as limited by terms of contract; exhibition of scene as short, if wrong, was breach of contract and not tortious invasion of actress's right of privacy. Lille v. Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. (1934) 139 Cal. App. 724, 728, 34 P.2d 835

[8] Production

No civil RICO (Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act; 18 U.S.C. §§ 1961-1968) action based on mail and wire fraud was stated against intermediary who arranged production financing when allegations were general and gave no specifics of time, place, or nature of alleged communication. Alan Neuman Productions, Inc. v. Albright (9th Cir. 1988) 862 F.2d 1388, 1392-1393

Agreement between initial producer of television series and subsequent producer and production company, which required investment by initial producer who was granted share of profits, was not security under federalsecurities law. Mace Neufeld Productions v. Orion Pictures Corp. (9th Cir. 1988) 860 F.2d 944, 946-947

Construction of employment agreement for exclusive services as producer-director of motion pictures and employee's rights thereunder with respect to editing and cutting of pictures. Stevens v. National Broadcasting Co. (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 886, 888-893, 76 Cal. Rptr. 106

Measure of damages for breach of production contract. Skirball v. RKO Radio Pictures, Inc. (1955) 134 Cal. App. 2d

843, 866-871, 286 P.2d 954

Sufficiency of evidence to show picture rights and screenplay rendered valueless by production company which advertised extensively that it would produce picture, and thereafter did not produce it. Skirball v. RKO Radio Pictures, Inc. (1955) 134 Cal. App. 2d 843, 866, 286 P.2d 954

Associate producer was not damaged by lack of screen credit in picture realizing no profits. Zorich v. Petroff (1957) 152 Cal. App. 2d 806, 811, 313 P.2d 118

Person who can and does convey valuable idea to producer who commercially solicits the service or who voluntarily accepts it knowing that it is tendered for a price is entitled to recover based on contract either express or implied. Blaustein v. Burton (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 161, 178, 88 Cal. Rptr. 319

[9] Responsibility to Movie-Viewing Public

Film producers were not negligent in failing to warn movie theater patrons that allegedly violent movie would attract weapon-carrying persons who were prone to violence. Bill v. Superior Court (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 1002, 1011-1014, 187 Cal. Rptr. 625

[10] Talent Agencies

Since personal manager was not licensed as talent agency under Talent Agencies Act [Lab. Code § 1700 et seq.], management agreements between singing group and manager were properly declared void by Labor Commissioner without payment of commission, even though manager obtained recording contract and over 80 performance engagements for group. Park v. Deftones (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 1465, 1472, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 616

Contracts between artist and unlicensed talent agent were void even if the agent's efforts to procure employment for his or her clients are only incidental to other artist management duties. Waisbren v. Peppercorn Productions, Inc. (1995) 41 Cal. App. 4th 246, 250 ; 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 437 .

Licensing provisions under Talent Agencies Act (Lab. Code §§ 1700-1700.47) was facially constitutional. Wachs v. Curry (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 616, 626-629, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 496 (affirming summary judgment for defendant labor commission)

32-370 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 370.50

§ 370.50 Complaint for Specific Performance [Civ. Code § 3384]--Contract for Delivery of Print of Motion Picture--By Director Against Producer

[1] FORM Complaint for Specific Performance [Civ. Code § 3384]--Contract for Delivery of Print of Motion Picture--By Director Against Producer

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE
_____ [name],	)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of _____ [name of state], engaged in the business of producing, distributing, and exploiting motion pictures in _____ County, California, and elsewhere.

2. Defendant corporation acted through its agents and employees in performing the acts alleged in this complaint.

3. On or about _____ [date], at _____ [city], _____ County, California, plaintiff and defendant entered into a written agreement wherein plaintiff agreed to perform certain personal services as a director of a motion picture entitled _____ [title], and defendant agreed to pay plaintiff certain specified sums. A copy of the contract is attached as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

4. Plaintiff has fully performed all terms and conditions of the written contract by him to be performed, and there remains nothing further for plaintiff to perform under the contract.

5. The written contract further requires that defendant, promptly after the completion of the production of the motion picture, deliver to plaintiff, without cost or expense to plaintiff, at such place as plaintiff might designate in _____ [city], California, _____ [e.g., one first-class positive composite print of the motion picture, fully scored, cut, and edited, mounted on 2,000-foot reels and in a can, including all sound and talkingscenes or sequences]. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that the production of the motion picture has now been completed and that the motion picture has been scored, cut, and edited.

6. On _____ [date], plaintiff sent a letter to defendant, in conformity with the provisions of the written contract, demanding that defendant comply with the provisions of the contract, to wit: Deliver to plaintiff _____[e.g., a composite print of the motion picture _____(title), fully scored, cut, and edited, mounted on 2,000-foot reels and in a can, including all sound and talking scenes or sequences].

7. Defendant has failed and refused, and still fails and refuses, to comply with plaintiff's request to deliver to plaintiff a print of the motion picture as required by the written contract.

8. Defendant has in his possession, or under his control, the negative or negatives and the sound track or sound tracks of the motion picture, and defendant is fully able to comply with the provisions of the written contract.

9. The motion picture _____ [title] is unique and of great artistic value. The motion picture gives plaintiff screen credit as director thereof. Positive prints of the motion picture cannot be obtained except with the consent and aid of defendant. Such positive prints have no determinable market value if they cannot be sold or exhibited commercially, and plaintiff is forbidden to do so by the written contract. The promise of defendant that it would deliver to plaintiff a positive print of the motion picture, as provided in the written contract, was a material consideration and inducement to plaintiff to enter into the written contract. For these reasons, the failure of defendant to comply with the provisions of the contract cannot be adequately compensated for in money, or money's worth, and plaintiff therefore has no adequate remedy at law for the breach by defendant of its promises set forth in the contract.

10. Plaintiff has at all times been ready and willing, and now is ready and willing, to comply with the promises set forth in the written contract that he will not sell the positive prints referred to therein or exhibit the prints commercially.

11. [By the terms and provisions of the written contract, defendant agreed to pay plaintiff a reasonable attorney's fee if he should institute any action or proceeding against defendant. The sum of $_____ is a reasonable attorney's fee for the institution and prosecution of this action.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. That defendant be ordered to specifically perform the agreement and promises as set forth in the written contract between plaintiff and defendant;

[2. For reasonable attorney's fees herein incurred in the amount of $_____;]

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

2. [Agency allegation. See § 370.50[1], Paragraph 2.]

3. On or about _____ [date], at _____ [city], _____ County, California, plaintiff entered into an agreement in writing with defendant, under the terms of which defendant employed plaintiff to render his/her services as a motion picture _____ [actor or actress] in a motion picture entitled _____ [title], to be produced by defendant. Defendant agreed to pay plaintiff for his/her services in the motion picture the sum of $_____ per _____ [pay period] for a period of _____ [specify] as a guaranteed salary, plus a sum equal to _____ percent of the gross proceeds resulting from the distribution of the motion picture [until the gross proceeds equaled the sum of $_____, and _____ percent of the gross proceeds thereafter]. A copy of the agreement is attached as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

4. On or about _____ [date], defendant commenced the principal photography of the motion picture, and plaintiff commenced the rendition of his/her services under the contract. Plaintiff continued to render and perform his/her services, and all the terms and conditions of the contract on his/her part to be performed, until the completion of the motion picture on or about _____ [date].

5. The motion picture was placed in general release on or about _____ [date], under a distributor's contract with _____ [name], and has been exhibited in the United States at all times since.

6. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that defendant has collected and received gross proceeds from the distribution of the motion picture exceeding the sum of $_____. The precise amount of the gross proceeds cannot be determined by plaintiff until defendant accounts for those proceeds.

7. Plaintiff has received no payment of any kind from defendant [except the sum of $_____] on account of the agreed salary or the agreed percentage of gross proceeds for the rendition of his/her services.

8. Defendant has failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to pay plaintiff the sums due under their agreement of _____ [date], or to account for these sums, notwithstanding that plaintiff has demanded payment and accounting.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. That plaintiff has judgment against defendant for the sum of $_____, representing the unpaid guaranteed salary;

2. That defendant account to plaintiff for the unpaid percentages of the gross proceeds resulting from the distribution of the motion picture entitled _____[title] due plaintiff, and for judgment against defendant in the amount of those percentages [after crediting the sum of $_____ already paid plaintiff] when and as the dollar amount shall be ascertained;

3. For interest on the sum of $_____ from and after _____ [date].

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

§ 370.52 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Production Contract--By Owner of Screenplay Against Producer--Failure to Produce

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3300] for Breach of Production Contract--By Owner of Screenplay Against Producer--Failure to Produce

[Caption, introduction. See § 370.51[1].]

1. [At all times herein mentioned, plaintiff is and was an individual engaged in the business of purchasing and selling motion picture rights in and to novels, plays, photoplays, screenplays, and other literary compositions under the fictitious business name of _____[name], and has filed the statement and published the notice as required by Business and Professions Code Sections 17910 through 17918.]

2. [Allegation of capacity of defendant. See § 370.50[1], Paragraph 1.]

3. [Agency allegation. See § 370.50[1], Paragraph 2.]

4. At all times mentioned herein, plaintiff was the owner of the motion picture rights in and to a novel entitled _____ [title], and a screenplay written by _____ [name], based on the novel. The plot of the novel and screenplay made them a suitable property for the production of a successful motion picture based thereon. At all times prior to _____[date], the motion picture rights in and to the novel and screenplay were a valuable property right.

5. At all times mentioned herein, defendant had, and still has, a staff of highly qualified technical experts and the necessary equipment, facilities, and financial means for the production, distribution, and exploitation of successful motion pictures. The use of these technical experts, facilities, and financial means in the production, distribution, and exploitation of a proposed motion picture would greatly enhance the value thereof and the returns therefrom.

6. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff and defendant entered into _____ [an oral or a written] contract for the production and distribution of a motion picture based on the novel and screenplay. In and by the terms of the contract, plaintiff and defendant agreed, among other matters hereinafter more fully set forth, that plaintiff would produce a motion picture based on the novel and screenplay and would deliver the motion picture to defendant for distribution, and that defendant would pay plaintiff the sum of $_____ in cash and _____percent of the net profits derived from the distribution of the motion picture. _____ [A copy of the written contract or A written memorial of the oral contract prepared by _____ (name) and submitted to defendant on _____ [date], is attached as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

7. During the month of _____ [date], defendant, pursuant to the contract between the parties and in part performance thereof, openly and publicly announced, advertised, and declared in writing and through the press that defendant would release the motion picture _____[title], starring _____ [name of actor or actress], during the year _____ [year]. _____ [Title of proposed motion picture] was and is the motion picture referred to in the contract between the parties. As a result of that announcement and advertisement, defendant and _____ [name of actor or actress] became associated with the proposed motion picture in the motion picture industry and with patrons of motion pictures.

8. By these acts and declarations defendant intentionally and deliberately caused and led plaintiff to believe that the parties had an existing, valid, and enforceable contract for the production and distribution of a motion picture based on the novel _____[title]. Plaintiff relied thereon and so believed, and on that reliance and belief, plaintiff _____ [show acts done in reliance, e.g., commenced the revision of the screenplay based on the novel, etc.].

9. In further reliance thereon, plaintiff refrained from investigating, contracting, or approaching other motion picture producers and distributors with reference to a sale of the motion picture rights, and a screenplay based thereon, of the novel, or the production or distribution of a motion picture based on the novel.

10. On or about _____ [date], defendant, without cause, repudiated the contract and failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to proceed or to perform the contract, although plaintiff has frequently demanded performance. On or about that date, defendant advised plaintiff that it would not go forward with the performance of the contract, or the production or distribution of the motion picture provided for in the contract.

11. Plaintiff, at all times, has been ready, willing, and able to perform the contract, and has duly performed all the conditions on its part to be performed, except as performance has been prevented or excused by defendant's repudiation of the contract and refusal to proceed thereunder.

12. By reason of the announcement and advertisement by defendant, and the breach of the contract, defendant destroyed the market for, and the value of, the motion picture rights in and to the novel _____ [title], and the screenplay based thereon, all to plaintiff's damage in the sum of $_____.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For damages in the sum of $_____;

2. For interest on the sum of $_____ from and after _____ [date];

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[Verification. See § 370.50[1].]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a complaint for damages for the breach of a production contract causing the destruction of the market for and value of the motion picture rights in a novel and screenplay.

[3] Measure of Damages

There is a potential double recovery problem when the plaintiff seeks damages for the destruction of the value of motion picture rights in a novel and screenplay. For example, when the owner of a screenplay was awarded the entire reasonable market value of the motion picture rights whose value had been destroyed, the owner was not also permitted to recover the percentage of the amount to be paid under the contract which represented consideration for the motion picture rights and script [see Skirball v. RKO Radio Pictures, Inc. (1955) 134 Cal. App. 2d 843, 869-870, 286 P.2d 954] .

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [At all times herein mentioned, plaintiff is and was an individual engaged in the business of taking and producing motion picture films in a professional capacity under the fictitious business name of _____ [name], and has filed the statement and published the notice as required by Sections 17910 through 17918 of the Business and Professions Code.]

2. Defendant is, and all times herein mentioned was, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of _____ [name of state], engaged in the business of developing and processing motion picture film in _____ County, California, and elsewhere.

3. [Agency allegation. See § 370.50[1], Paragraph 2.]

4. At all times herein mentioned plaintiff was the owner and entitled to possession of a certain _____ [specify] feet of exposed motion picture film.

5. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff delivered to defendant the film for the purpose of having it developed by defendant. Thereafter, defendant delivered to plaintiff _____ [specify] feet of the film, receipt of which has been, and now is, acknowledged by plaintiff.

6. On or about _____ [date], defendant informed and advised plaintiff that it was holding, and would refuse to return and deliver to plaintiff, the remaining _____ [specify] feet of film left with defendant for development purposes.

7. The _____ [specify] feet of unreturned film, deposited with defendant for development purposes, bears identification Nos. _____, and is being held by defendant under its receipt No. _____.

8. No cost for development of the film is required to be paid by plaintiff to defendant, such cost being included in the original price of the film.

9. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff demanded from defendant the return of the film, but defendant failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to deliver it to plaintiff.

10. The value of the _____ [specify] feet of unreturned film is $_____. The value was well known to defendant, or should have been known by defendant, due to the fact that plaintiff was known to be a professional maker and producer of motion pictures.

11. Defendant still wrongfully and unlawfully withholds and detains the film from the possession of plaintiff, and, as a result of defendant's wrongful acts, other film that is useful only in conjunction with the unreturned film has become, and is now, valueless and, as a result, plaintiff has been damaged in the sum of $_____.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For recovery of the possession of the _____[specify] feet of unreturned film;

2. For the sum of $_____, the value of the unreturned film and the value of the film made worthless by its retention, in case delivery of the _____ [specify] feet of unreturned film cannot be had;

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use in an action by an entertainment industry artist against a talent listing service that has failed or refused to refund all fees paid by the artist, after the artist has exercised the statutory right to cancel a contract between the artist and the talent listing service. For discussion of the regulation of talent listing services and other kinds of entertainment talent services [see Lab. Code § 1701 et seq.], see § 370.10[4].

A person who is injured by a violation of Lab. Code § 1701 et seq. or by the breach of a contract subject to Lab. Code § 1701 et seq. may bring an action for recovery of damages, or to restrain and enjoin a violation, or both. The amount awarded for damages must be not less than three times the amount paid by the artist, or on behalf of the artist, to the talent service. The court must award reasonable attorney's fees and costs to a prevailing plaintiff [Lab. Code § 1704.2].

[3] Artist's Statutory Right to Cancel Contract

The artist may cancel a talent services contract within 10 business days from the date the artists began to use services under the contract. The artist must notify the talent service of the cancellation within 10 business days of the date the artist executed the contract, by mailing, delivering, or sending by fax, to the talent service, a signed and dated copy of the cancellation notice or any other written notice of cancellation, or by sending a notice of cancellation via the Internet if the contract was executed in part or in whole through the Internet. The talent service must refund all fees paid by, or on behalf of, the artist within 10 business days after delivery of the cancellation notice [Lab. Code § 1703(e)(1)].

[4] Jurisdiction

The superior court has jurisdiction of the action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less, in which case it will be classified as a limited civil case [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(1)].

In limited civil cases, the caption must identify the case as a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(10)], and the first page of the paper must state whether or not the demand exceeds $10,000 [Gov. Code § 70613(b); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9) (statement regarding amount of demand must appear "below the character of the action or proceeding")].

[5] Allegations in Complaint

This complaint alleges the following:

- The plaintiff's residence and status as an "artist" [see Lab. Code § 1701(a)] (Paragraph 1).
- The defendant's legal status and principal place of business (Paragraph 2).
- The defendant's status as a "talent listing service" [see Lab. Code § 1701(g)] (Paragraph 3).
- The making of a written agreement by the parties, for services to be provided by the defendant as a talent listing service (Paragraph 4).
- The performance of that agreement by the plaintiff (Paragraph 5).
- The plaintiff's exercise of the statutory right to cancel the contract (Paragraph 6).
- The defendant's failure to refund the fee paid by the plaintiff, within 10 days after delivery of the notice of cancellation (Paragraph 7).
- The fact that the plaintiff has incurred costs and attorney's fees in attempting to recover the amounts due to the plaintiff (Paragraph 8).

[6] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude the defendant from using a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 26, Answers .

§ 370.55 Affirmative Defense--Action by Talent Listing Service for Amount Due Under Contract With Artist--Contract Unenforceable for Noncompliance With Statutory Requirements [Lab. Code § 1703(d)]

[1] FORM

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], Defendant alleges that the agreement between Plaintiff and Defendant is voidable at Plaintiff's election because _____ [specify statutory requirements as to which agreement is nonconforming, e.g., the agreement described the services that Defendant would provide in vague terms not conforming to the statutory definition of the services of a talent listing service; the contract failed to state when those services were to be provided; the contract failed to state the duration of the contract; and the contract provided that it would be automatically renewable unless canceled by one of the parties].

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for use by an entertainment industry artist, in an action by a talent listing service against the artist, for amounts allegedly due under a contract between the talent listing service and the artist. The affirmative defense alleges that the contract is voidable at the option of the artist because the contract fails to comply with the statutory requirements applicable to talent service contracts. For discussion of the regulation of talent listing services and other kinds of entertainment talent services [see Lab. Code § 1701 et seq.], see § 370.10[4]. A contract not conforming to the requirements of Lab. Code § 1703(a)-(f) [see § 370.10[4][d]] is voidable at the election of the artist and may be canceled by the artist at any time without any penalty or obligation [Lab. Code § 1703(d)].

If the contract in question is attached to the complaint, and it appears clear from the face of the contract that the contract does not meet the statutory requirements, then it may be appropriate to raise this issue by demurrer instead of as an affirmative defense. For discussion of the use of demurrers and general forms, see Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings .

The petition in [1], above, may be used to obtain an order confirming an award by the Labor Commissioner in a controversy arising under Chapter 4 of Part 6 of Division 2 of the Labor Code [Lab. Code § 1700 et seq., once popularly known as the Artists' Managers Act (see, e.g., Buchwald v. Katz (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 493, 496, 105 Cal. Rptr. 368, 503 P.2d 1376)] and the entry of a judgment in conformity with the award.

[3] Notice of Hearing and Service of Papers

A notice of hearing and any other papers on which the petition is based are to be served with the petition in the manner specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 1290.4.

For discussion of the procedure and a notice of hearing that may be adapted for use with this petition, see Ch. 34, Contractual Arbitration: Judicial Review .

[4] Labor Commissioner's Jurisdiction

The Labor Commissioner has original jurisdiction to hear and determine controversies arising under Lab. Code § 1700 et seq., to the exclusion of the superior court. However, the Labor Commissioner's determination is subject to an "appeal" to the superior court where the controversy is to be heard de novo [Lab. Code § 1700.44(a); Buchwald v. Superior Court (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 347, 359, 62 Cal. Rptr. 364] .

[5] Enforcement of Award

The proper procedure for enforcing a money award by the Labor Commissioner in a controversy submitted under Lab. Code § 1700.44(a) is to apply to the superior court for judicial confirmation of the award in the same manner as in the case of an award by a private arbitrator under Code Civ. Proc. § 1285 et seq. [Buchwald v. Katz (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 493, 499, 105 Cal. Rptr. 368, 503 P.2d 1376 ; see Ch. 34, Contractual Arbitration: Judicial Review].

If an award is confirmed, judgment is to be entered in conformity with the award. The judgment so entered has the same force and effect as, and is subject to all the provisions of law relating to, a judgment in a civil action of the same jurisdictional classification, and it may be enforced like any other judgment of the court in which it is entered, in an action of the same jurisdictional classification [Code Civ. Proc. § 1287.4; Buchwald v. Katz (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 493, 499, 105 Cal. Rptr. 368, 503 P.2d 1376 ; Code Civ. Proc. § 32.5(jurisdictional classification is classification as limited civil case or otherwise)].

[6] Appeal

[a] Time for Notice of Appeal

The Labor Commissioner's decision is subject to an "appeal" to the superior court within 10 days after service of notice of the determination [Lab. Code § 1700.44(a); Sinnamon v. McKay (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 847, 852-853, 191 Cal. Rptr. 295] . The 10-day time limit for taking an appeal is mandatory and jurisdictional, and the superior court cannot consider an appeal taken after expiration of the statutory period even if the appeal is late because of mistake, inadvertence, or other excuse [REO Broadcasting Consultants v. Martin (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 489, 495] .

The notice must be filed within 10 days of service of notice of the determination of the Labor Commissioner, despite the language of Lab. Code § 1700.44(a) measuring the time from the date of the determination itself without any notice requirement [Sinnamon v. McKay (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 847, 852-853, 191 Cal. Rptr. 295] . The Division of Labor Standards Enforcement takes the view that it is improper to file a notice of appeal with the division. Therefore, to avoid the possibility of a fatal delay, the notice should be filed directly with the superior court. The clerk will probably demand a filing fee as for a first paper in an action.

[b] Form of Notice of Appeal

It is not clear whether a "notice of appeal" is the proper form by which to take the appeal authorized by Lab. Code § 1700.44(a). Such a paper was used in the leading case, Buchwald v. Katz (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 493, 502 n.7, 105 Cal. Rptr. 368, 503 P.2d 1376 , and apparently was adequate [see also Sinnamon v. McKay (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 847, 850, 191 Cal. Rptr. 295] .

[c] Stay of Labor Commissioner's Award

To stay any award for money, the aggrieved party must execute a bond approved by the superior court in a sum not exceeding twice the amount of the judgment; in all other cases, the bond must be in a sum of not less than $1,000 and approved by the superior court [Lab. Code § 1700.44(a)].

The word "judgment" means the decision of the Labor Commissioner awarding the money [see Buchwald v. Katz (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 493, 500, 105 Cal. Rptr. 368, 503 P.2d 1376] . Thus, the amount of the bond to stay an award for money is twice the amount awarded.

[d] De Novo Review

On appeal, the controversy is heard de novo by the superior court [Lab. Code § 1700.44(a)]. The appealing party is entitled to a complete new hearing--a complete new trial--that is in no way a review of the prior proceeding before the Labor Commissioner [Buchwald v. Katz (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 493, 502, 105 Cal. Rptr. 368, 503 P.2d 1376] .

PART I. SCOPE

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.01

§ 371.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses the motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict. It includes a written notice of motion [see § 371.280], an order denying the motion [see § 371.281], and a combined order granting and entering judgment notwithstanding the verdict [see § 371.282]. For an order staying execution of judgment pending the hearing on a motion for new trial that may be adapted for use in staying execution of judgment pending determination of a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments .

This chapter also discusses the motion for new trial. It includes a notice of intention to move for new trial [see § 371.300], an allegation for alternative relief [see § 371.301], a declaration in support of the motion [see § 371.302], a stipulation and order extending time to file affidavits or declarations [see § 371.306], an order denying a new trial [see § 371.307], and an order granting a new trial [see § 371.308].

This chapter also discusses the motion to set aside and vacate a judgment and to enter another and different judgment under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 663 and 663a. It includes a form of notice of motion [see § 371.320] and an order granting the motion [see § 371.321].

Volume 33: Motions After Trial thru Negotiable Instruments-Chs. 371-385
Chapter 371 MOTIONS AFTER TRIAL
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. In General

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.11

§ 371.11 Comparison of Motions

The motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict allows the court to enter a judgment that is different from the verdict rendered by the jury if a motion for directed verdict for the aggrieved party should have been granted had a previous motion been made [see Code Civ. Proc. § 629]. The granting of this motion obviates the need for a new trial, but the court cannot weigh the evidence or judge the credibility of witnesses as it can on motion for new trial. The court may only determine whether or not there is any evidence of sufficient substantiality to support the verdict [Hale v. Farmers Ins. Exch. (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 681, 690, 117 Cal. Rptr. 146].

The motion for new trial allows the court to reexamine an issue of fact or law after a trial and decision by a jury, the court, or a referee. When grounds exist, the verdict or decision may be modified or vacated, in whole or in part, and a new or further trial granted on all or part of the issues [Code Civ. Proc. § 657]. In nonjury trials, the court has the power to reopen the case and modify the statement of decision while denying the motion for new trial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 662].

The motion to set aside and vacate a judgment and enter another and different judgment allows the court to correct judicial error if its legal bases for the decision are not consistent with or supported by the facts, or if the judgment or decree is not consistent with the special verdict [see Code Civ. Proc. § 663]. On granting the motion, the court cannot reexamine factual issues as it can on a motion for alternative relief in lieu of granting a new trial under Code Civ. Proc. § 662 [Dolan v. Superior Court of San Francisco (1920) 47 Cal. App. 235, 241]. In a case where judgment is set aside, the court must amend and correct the statement of decision [see Code Civ. Proc. § 663].

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.12

§ 371.12 Court Has Discretion to Determine Relief Requested

When a party brings a timely post-trial motion, the trial court has broad discretion to determine the relief being requested, regardless of formal title of the motion [Shapiro v. Prudential Prop. and Cas. Co. (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 722, 727, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 698].

ILLUSTRATION:

Party Requested Corrected Judgment and Received New Trial on Damages. A jury rendered a special verdict finding a homeowner's insurance carrier liable for negligent misrepresentation of the insured's gun collection and awarded the insured $180,000 in damages. The homeowner had listed $379,000 as the amount lost for his firearms inventory when his home burned in the Oakland-Berkeley fire. Following entry of judgment, the homeowner moved to set aside the judgment and enter a different judgment. The trial court granted a limited new trial on the issue of damages, and the insurance carrier appealed. Did the trial court's order stand? Yes. The court of appeal held that when a party brings a timely post-trial motion, the trial court has broad discretion to determine the relief being requested. In this case, the homeowner did not move for a new trial but did request relief consistent with new trial on damages [Shapiro v. Prudential Prop. and Cas. Co. (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 722, 727, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 698].

§ 371.31 Description

A motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, often referred to as a motion JNOV (i.e., a motion for judgment non obstante veredicto), is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 629. The statute provides that the court, on its own motion or on motion of a party against whom a verdict has been rendered, must render judgment in favor of an aggrieved party notwithstanding the verdict whenever a motion for a directed verdict for the aggrieved party should have been granted had a previous motion been made [see Code Civ. Proc. § 629].

A judgment notwithstanding the verdict is usually sought by the defendant who thereby interposes a demurrer to the evidence. However, Code Civ. Proc. § 629 permits a motion by an unsuccessful plaintiff [Moore v. City & County of San Francisco (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 728, 734, 85 Cal. Rptr. 281].

§ 371.33 Effect of Motion for Directed Verdict

There is no longer a condition that a motion for a directed verdict be made before a judge can consider a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict [see amendment of *Code Civ. Furthermore, a prior denial of a motion for a directed verdict will not prevent a subsequent granting of a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict [*Teich v. General Mills, Inc. § 371.34 No Automatic Stay of Entry of Judgment

The motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict no longer automatically stays entry of judgment until the motion is heard and decided [see amendment of Code Civ. Proc. § 664 by Stats. 1961, ch. 604]. Judgment must be entered within 24 hours after the rendition of the verdict, whether or not a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict is pending, unless the court orders the case to be reserved for argument or further consideration, or grants a stay of proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 664].

Subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 918(b), the trial court may stay the enforcement of any judgment or order whether or not an appeal will be taken from it and whether or not a notice of appeal has been filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 918(a), (c)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 918(b) provides that if the enforcement of the judgment or order would be stayed on appeal only by the giving of an undertaking, a trial court does not have power without the consent of the adverse party to stay the enforcement of the judgment or order pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 918 for a period which exceeds for more than 10 days beyond the last date on which a notice of appeal could be filed. For forms for use in staying the execution of judgment, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments .

§ 371.35 Valid Jury Verdict Required

For the court to grant a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, the jury must have reached a verdict that is valid. A motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict will not be granted if the jury has rendered a verdict that is so contradictory and unintelligible that the jury's intent is not ascertainable [Mish v. Brockus (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 770, 776, 218 P.2d 849].

The JNOV procedure, by definition, applies only to claims as to which a jury reached a verdict. It does not apply to claims decided by the court [Herr v. Nestle U.S.A., Inc. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 779, 788, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 477].

§ 371.36 General or Special Verdicts

Code Civ. Proc. § 629 mentions only a "verdict" and it is not clear whether or not the motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict is appropriate when the jury renders a special verdict and not a general verdict [see Code Civ. Proc. § 629, first paragraph]. A special verdict is one in which the jury finds the conclusions of fact, leaving the conclusions of law to the court, which then enters judgment accordingly [see Code Civ. Proc. § 624]. Therefore, a special verdict may be inherently consistent with the evidence presented, thus obviating the need to correct a verdict that is erroneous as a matter of law by use of the motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict.

However, despite this uncertainty, counsel may consider making the motion with respect to a special verdict when the grounds for a judgment notwithstanding the verdict exist, since it may be the only way to save the client the delay and expense of a new trial [see § 371.39].

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.37

§ 371.37 Power of Trial Judge

The power of a trial judge to grant a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict is identical to his or her power to grant a directed verdict [Sweatman v. Department of Veterans Affairs (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 62, 68, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 602, 18 P.3d 29 ; Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 110, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377 ; Tognazzini v. San Luis Coastal Unified School Dist. (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1053, 1057-1058, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 790 ; Alexander v. State of California (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 890, 896, 205 Cal. Rptr. 758]. In other words, the judge cannot weigh the evidence or judge the credibility of witnesses, as he or she can do on a motion for new trial, but must accept the evidence tending to support the verdict as true, unless on its face it is inherently incredible [Begnal v. Canfield & Associates, Inc. (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 66, 72, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611 ; Hale v. Farmers Ins. Exch. (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 681, 690, 117 Cal. Rptr. 146 , disapproved on other grounds in Egan v. Mutual of Omaha Ins. Co. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 809, 822 n.5, 169 Cal. Rptr. 691, 620 P.2d 141 ; see Stevenson v. Oceanic Bank (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 306, 314, 272 Cal. Rptr. 757]. The court must disregard all conflicting evidence and indulge in every legitimate inference that may be drawn in support of the judgment, and may grant the motion only if there is no substantial evidence to support the verdict [Tognazzini v. San Luis Coastal Unified School Dist.(2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1053, 1057-1058, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 790 ; see § 371.39].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. MOTION FOR JUDGMENT NOTWITHSTANDING VERDICT

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.38

§ 371.38 Partial Judgment Notwithstanding the Verdict

[1] In General

As with a directed verdict, a trial court may grant judgment notwithstanding the verdict as to some but not all issues [Beavers v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 310, 323, 274 Cal. Rptr. 766]. This procedure is derived from the requirement of Code Civ. Proc. § 629 that a court grant judgment notwithstanding the verdict when a motion for directed verdict should have been granted had one been made [Beavers v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 310, 328-329, 274 Cal. Rptr. 766 (both procedural devices are different aspects of same judicial function and, for them to mesh together appropriately, it is necessary that standards be same for each procedure)].

An order granting partial judgment notwithstanding the verdict has the effect of modifying the judgment on the verdict. If the trial court otherwise upholds the verdict, then the judgment, as modified by the partial judgment notwithstanding the verdict, is immediately appealable [Beavers v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 310, 330, 274 Cal. Rptr. 766].

[2] Effect of Order for Partial New Trial

When the trial court grants a new trial as to issues that are not affected by the partial judgment notwithstanding the verdict, then the new trial order has the effect of vacating and holding in abeyance the entire judgment, as modified by the order granting judgment notwithstanding the verdict, until one final judgment can be entered [Beavers v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 310, 330, 274 Cal. Rptr. 766].

An exception to the rule that a partial new trial order vacates and holds in abeyance the entire judgment applies when the judgment retains sufficient vitality to support appellate review if the matter is otherwise properly brought before the appellate court [Beavers v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 310, 330, 274 Cal. Rptr. 766]. For example, if the trial court has granted defendants a partial judgment notwithstanding the verdict on a cause of action for intentional infliction of emotional distress and a new trial based on jury misconduct on the remaining cause of action of negligence, the entire judgment is subject to review, including the portion affected by the judgment notwithstanding the verdict [see Beavers v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 310, 330, 274 Cal. Rptr. 766].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. MOTION FOR JUDGMENT NOTWITHSTANDING VERDICT

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.39

§ 371.39 Lack of Substantial Evidence

The grounds for granting a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict are the same as for granting a motion for directed verdict or nonsuit [see Code Civ. Proc. § 629; Reynolds v. Willson (1958) 51 Cal. 2d 94, 99, 331 P.2d 48].

The primary requirement for judgment notwithstanding the verdict is that there be no substantial conflict in the evidence [Begnal v. Canfield & Associates, Inc. (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 66, 72, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611 ; Alexander v. State of California (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 890, 896, 205 Cal. Rptr. 758 ; Robinson v. North American Life & Cas. Co. (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 111, 118, 30 Cal. Rptr. 57]. Thus, the court will grant a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict only if it appears from the evidence, viewed in the light most favorable to the party securing the verdict, that there is no substantial evidence to support the verdict. If there is any substantial evidence, or reasonable inferences to be drawn therefrom, in support of the verdict, the motion will be denied [Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 110, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377 ; Begnal v. Canfield & Associates, Inc. (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 66, 72, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611 ; California Shoppers, Inc. v. Royal Globe Insurance Co. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 1, 30, 221 Cal. Rptr. 171 ; Sprigg v. Garcin (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 869, 873, 164 Cal. Rptr. 677].

§ 371.40 Standard

[1] Motion by Defendant

The court will grant the verdict when and only when, disregarding conflicting evidence on behalf of defendant and giving plaintiff's evidence all the value to which it is legally entitled, and indulging in every legitimate inference which may be drawn from that evidence, no evidence of sufficient substantiality supports a verdict in plaintiff's favor [Reynolds v. Willson (1958) 51 Cal. 2d 94, 99, 331 P.2d 48 ; Musgrove v. Ambrose Properties (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 44, 51, 150 Cal. Rptr. 722].

[2] Motion by Plaintiff

The court will grant judgment notwithstanding the verdict in favor of the plaintiff if the evidence, as a matter of law, dictates a determination of all the issues in the case in his or her favor [Jach v. Edson (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 96, 99, 62 Cal. Rptr. 925].

B. MOTION FOR JUDGMENT NOTWITHSTANDING VERDICT

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.41

§ 371.41 Procedure on Court's Own Motion

The court may grant judgment notwithstanding the verdict on its own motion after return of the verdict if it decides that the verdict is not supported by substantial evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 629; see also § 371.39]. It must act before the expiration of its power to rule on a motion for new trial and after five days' notice to the parties [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 629, 659].

One court of appeal has held that the requirement of Code Civ. Proc. § 629 that a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict be madewithin the time limits for filing and serving notice of a motion for new trial does not apply to the court acting on its own motion [see Sturgeon v. Leavitt (1979) 94 Cal. App. 3d 957, 963-964, 156 Cal. Rptr. 687]. This time limitation would only apply to motions made by parties. Therefore, there would be no time restrictions on the court as long as it gives 5 days notice to the parties and acts on the motion after the time for serving and filing a motion for new trial has expired and before the time for ruling on a motion for new trial expires [see Sturgeon v. Leavitt (1979) 94 Cal. App. 3d 957, 963-964, 156 Cal. Rptr. 687 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 629, 659, 664].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. MOTION FOR JUDGMENT NOTWITHSTANDING VERDICT

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.42

§ 371.42 Procedure for Motion by Party

[1] Oral or Written Notice of Motion

Code Civ. Proc. § 629, the statute authorizing judgments notwithstanding the verdict, does not state how the party against whom the verdict is rendered is to proceed. However, it appears that the motion may be made either orally, that is, in court immediately after the rendition of the verdict, or at a later hearing pursuant to a written notice of motion [see Abreu v. Svenhard's Swedish Bakery (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 1446, 1452 n.2, 257 Cal. Rptr. 26].

[2] Time for Making Motion

[a] In General

A party must make the motion within the time specified by Code Civ. Proc. § 659 for filing and serving notice of intention to move for a new trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 629].

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 659, a notice of intention to move for a new trial may be filed before the entry of judgment, but after the jury, court, or referee has rendered a decision. It may alternatively be filed after judgment is entered, within the earliest of the following times [Code Civ. Proc. § 659]:

- 15 days after the court clerk mailed notice of entry of judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5.
- 15 days after any party served a written notice of entry of judgment on the moving party.
- 180 days after judgment is entered.

The statutory requirement of giving written notice of entry of judgment is satisfied by serving a copy of the file-stamped judgment in a county that no longer maintains a judgment book. To start the statutory time period for bringing a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, it is not necessary to serve on the opposing party a separate document entitled notice of entry of judgment and to file in the trial court that document, as well as a copy of the judgment and proof of its service [Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1267-1268, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067].

Under the express terms of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 629, 659, the time limits for bringing a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict start to run either on the date of the court clerk's mailing or on the date of service on the moving party of notice of entry of judgment. To be service pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5 as required by section 659, the notice of entry of judgment mailed by the clerk must affirmatively state it is given "upon order by the court" or "under section 664.5" [Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1277, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067 ; Van Beurden Ins. Services, Inc. v. Customized Worldwide Weather Ins. Agency, Inc. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 51, 64, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 166, 931 P.2d 344]. Otherwise, the time limits for motions for a new trial are triggered by service on the moving party of "written notice" of the "entry of judgment" [Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1277, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067 ; Code Civ. Proc. § 659]. When the moving party is served by mail, service is complete at the time the notice of entry of judgment is deposited in the mailbox [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a); Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1277, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067 ; Westrec Marina Management, Inc. v. Jardine Ins. Brokers Orange County, Inc. (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 1042, 1048, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 673].

The written notice of entry of judgment served on the party who moves for judgment notwithstanding the verdict need not be a separate document entitled notice of entry of judgment. No particular form of notice is required, and in counties that do not maintain a judgment book, a file-stamped copy of the judgment suffices as "written notice" [Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1277, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067 ; Van Beurden Ins. Services, Inc. v. Customized Worldwide Weather Ins. Agency, Inc. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 51, 57 n.2, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 166, 931 P.2d 344 ; McCordic v. Crawford (1943) 23 Cal. 2d 1, 5, 142 P.2d 7].

Nothing in sections 629, 659 expressly requires the party serving written notice of entry of judgment to file any document with the trial court. If a prevailing party, consistent with section 664.5, serves written notice of the entry of judgment on the party moving for judgment notwithstanding the verdict and files the original notice of entry and a proof of service, the prevailing party necessarily will have complied with section 659 by "serving written notice." The posttrial motion statutes do not, however, require filing of the original notice of entry (or of a file-stamped copy of the judgment) accompanied by proof of service in order to start the time limits for bringing the posttrial motions [Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1277-1278, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067 (Van Beurden's suggestion that more is required by party to trigger time limits for new trial is dictum because it was unnecessary to its holding)].

This time limit is not lengthened by Code Civ. Proc. § 1013, which generally extends the time for exercising a right or doing an act when service is by mail, Express Mail or other method of overnight delivery, or fax [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 659, 1013]. Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6, whichextends the time for exercising a right or doing an act after electronic service, as authorized by section 1010.6, also provides that it does not operate to extend the time for filing notice of intention to move for new trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6)].

If a party fails to make a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict within the applicable deadline, the court lacks jurisdiction to hear the motion [Younesi v. Lane (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 967, 972-973, 279 Cal. Rptr. 89 , disapproved on other grounds in Van Beurden Ins. Services, Inc. v. Customized Worldwide Weather Ins. Agency, Inc. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 51, 63, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 166, 931 P.2d 344 (disapproving Younesi to the extent it held that appellate courts must "presume" that a notice of entry of judgment mailed by clerk was "ordered" by the court, and thus constituted proper notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5 sufficient to trigger the 15-day deadline under Code Civ. Proc. § 659)].

[b] Effect on Time for New Trial Motion

The making of a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict will not extend the time within which a party may file and serve notice of intention to move for a new trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 629].

§ 371.43 Ruling on Motion

[1] When Court May Rule on Motion

The court will not rule on the motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict until expiration of the time within which a notice of intention to move for a new trial must be served and filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 629; for time period, see § 371.42[2]].

Pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 629, 660, where there is no new trial motion filed, the latest date for ruling on a motion for JNOV is either of the following, whichever is earlier [Pratt v. Vencor (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 905, 907, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 741]:

- Sixty days from and after the mailing of notice of entry of judgment by the clerk of the court pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5.

- Sixty days from and after service on the moving party by any party of written notice of the entry of the judgment.

The power of the court to rule on the motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict does not extend beyond the last date on which the court can rule on a motion for new trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 629; for time period, see § 371.181]. If this time passes without a determination on the motion, the motion is, in effect, denied [Code Civ. Proc. § 629].

[2] With Motion for New Trial

If a notice of intention to move for a new trial is also filed, the court must rule on both motions at the same time [Code Civ. Proc. § 629]. The statutory language is directory and not mandatory; substantial compliance is sufficient provided rulings on both motions are made within the requisite time period [Espinoza v. Rossini (1966) 247 Cal. App. 2d 40, 46, 55 Cal. Rptr. 205].

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.44

§ 371.44 Effect of Judgment N.O.V. on Issue of Damages

If the court sets aside the judgment for defendants, notwithstanding the verdict, and proceeds to assess damages, it deprives defendants of their consitutional right to jury trial on that question [Spillman v. City etc. of San Francisco (1967) 252 Cal. App. 2d 782, 787, 60 Cal. Rptr. 809]. However, there is a split of authority over the propriety of the court's granting of plaintiff's motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict with a concurrent order for a new trial on the sole issue of damages.

One line of authority holds that it is error for the court to declare liability, notwithstanding the verdict, and to grant a new trial as to damages. This would violate the established rule of no multiple final judgments in a single action [see Moore v. City & County of San Francisco (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 728, 734, 85 Cal. Rptr. 281 ; see Jach v. Edson (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 96, 101, 62 Cal. Rptr. 925].

Another line of cases holds that the grant of a new trial on all issues would involve a costly repetition of testimony, and therefore, the granting of the motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict and for a new trial on the issue of damages is within the discretion of the trial court [see Gordon v. Strawther Enterprises, Inc. (1969) 273 Cal. App. 2d 504, 517-518, 78 Cal. Rptr. 417 ; see Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 110, 121, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377 (judgment notwithstanding verdict affirmed and case remanded to trial court to ascertain damages; although not entirely clear from the opinion, the effect of the decision appears to be an affirmance of the holding in Gordon, which would result in a disapproval by implication of contrary holdings in Moore and Jach)].

§ 371.45 Notice of Court's Order

When a motion is granted or denied, unless the court otherwise orders, notice of the court's decision or order must be given by the prevailing party to all other parties or their attorneys, in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020 [see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers], unless notice is waived by all parties in open court and is entered in the minutes [Code Civ. Proc. § 1019.5(a)]. In the case of a signed appealable order entered in a contested action or proceeding, other than a proceeding for voidable marriage or for dissolution of marriage, legal separation, and summary dissolution, or small claims action, notice of entry of the order must be given in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5 [see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders].

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.46

§ 371.46 Review

[1] Reconsideration and Appeal

Generally, an order granting a judgment notwithstanding the verdict is neither a final judgment nor an appealable order [Jordan v. Talbot (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 597, 602, 12 Cal. Rptr. 488, 361 P.2d 20 ; Herman v. Shandor (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 476, 479, 87 Cal. Rptr. 443]. However, the court may reconsider an order granting a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict at any time before judgment is entered on the order [Jach v. Edson (1968) 255 Cal. App. 2d 96, 99, 62 Cal. Rptr. 925].

An appeal will lie from an order denying a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict [Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1(a)(4); Sweatman v. Department of Veterans Affairs (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 62, 68, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 602, 18 P.3d 29 ; Elisalda v. Welch's Sand & Gravel Co. (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 46, 50, 67 Cal. Rptr. 57]. Also, if judgment is entered pursuant to the court's granting of the motion, that judgment is appealable [Sweatman v. Department of Veterans Affairs (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 62, 68, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 602, 18 P.3d 29 ; Quintal v. Laurel Grove Hospital (1964) 62 Cal. 2d 154, 159, 41 Cal. Rptr. 577, 397 P.2d 161]. For discussion of appeals of postjudgment orders, including judgments notwithstanding the verdict, and protective or precautionary cross appeals of the original judgment in the event the postjudgment order is reversed on appeal, see Ch. 42, Appeal: Notice of Appeal, § 42.12[4A].

[2] Standard on Review

The reviewing court follows the trial court's method of consideration of the evidence. When reviewing the validity of a judgment notwithstanding the verdict, the appellate court must resolve any conflict in the evidence and draw all reasonable inferences from the evidence in favor of the jury's verdict [Henrioulle v. Marin Ventures, Inc. (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 512, 515, 143 Cal. Rptr. 247, 573 P.2d 465]. The appellate court will affirm a judgment entered on an order granting judgment notwithstanding the verdict only if, reviewing all the evidence in the light most favorable to the party in whose favor the jury rendered the verdict, resolving all conflicts, and drawing all inferences in favor of that party, and deferring to the implicit credibility determinations of the trier of fact, there is no substantial evidence to support the jury's verdict [Begnal v. Canfield & Associates, Inc. (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 66, 72, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611]. The scope of appellate review of a trial court's denial of a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict is to determine whether there is any substantial evidence, contradicted or uncontradicted, supporting the jury's conclusion, and when so found to uphold the trial court's denial of the motion [Romo v. Ford Motor Co. (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 1115, 1138, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 139 ; Wright v. Beverly Fabrics, Inc. (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 346, 351, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 503 ; Begnal v. Canfield & Associates, Inc. (2000) 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611 ; Pusateri v. E.F. Hutton & Co. (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 247, 250, 225 Cal. Rptr. 526]. However, if the issues deal solely with statutory interpretation and application of a statute to undisputed facts, review takes place de novo [Wright v. Beverly Fabrics, Inc. (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 346, 352, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 503].

However, where the issues deal solely with the application of a statute to the facts supporting the verdict, which is a question of law, the appellate court will review the issues de novo [Gunnell v. Metrocolor Laboratories, Inc. (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 710, 718-719, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 195].

The appellate court's function is to review the discretion exercised by the trial court in light of the evidence but not to replace that discretion unless it was arbitrarily exercised [Gordon v. Strawther Enterprises, Inc. (1969) 273 Cal. App. 2d 504, 511, 78 Cal. Rptr. 417].

[3] Effect of Reversal

Although a reversal usually remands a case for a new trial, the effect of a reversal on a judgment notwithstanding the verdict is to restore the proceeding to the state of the record before the erroneous judgment was entered. In other words, appellant will have a recorded verdict in his or her favor, but will have no judgment entered. Appellant is then entitled under Code Civ. Proc. § 664 to have judgment entered in his or her favor in conformity with the verdict [Ferran v. Mulcrevy (1935) 9 Cal. App. 2d 129, 131, 48 P.2d 984 ; for discussion of procedure for entry of judgments under Code Civ. Proc. § 664, see Ch. 318, Judgments].

When a judgment notwithstanding the verdict is reversed on appeal, the reinstated judgment on the verdict is a new judgment for purposes of appeal, and the time for filing a notice of appeal from the reinstated judgment commences to run on the issuance of remittitur from the appellate court [Lippert v. AVCO Community Developers, Inc. (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 775, 779, 131 Cal. Rptr. 730]. For further discussion of Lippert, see Ch. 42, Appeal: Notice of Appeal, § 42.12[4A].

[4] Alternative Motions

[a] Motion for Judgment Notwithstanding Verdict Denied, Motion for New Trial Denied

The trial judge may decide, for example, that the evidence substantially supports the verdict, and, on examining the weight of the evidence, that the judgment rendered should stand. If the motions for judgment notwithstanding the verdict and for new trial are both denied and it appears on appeal that the motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict should have been granted, the appellate court may order judgment to be so entered [Code Civ. Proc. § 629].

[b] Judgment Notwithstanding Verdict Denied, New Trial Granted

If a new trial is granted, but a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict is denied, the order denying the motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict is reviewable on appeal by the aggrieved party [Code Civ. Proc. § 629].

[c] Both Motions Granted

If the court grants both motions, the order granting a new trial becomes effective only if the judgment notwithstanding the verdict is reversed on appeal and the order granting a new trial is either not appealed or is confirmed on appeal [Code Civ. Proc. § 629]. Thus, the motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict will determine the outcome of the case in favor of the movant and a new trial will not proceed. However, if the opposing party appeals and the judgment notwithstanding the verdict is reversed, the motion for new trial becomes effective [see Dietrich v. Litton Industries, Inc. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 704, 719, 90 Cal. Rptr. 856 (order granting new trial confirmed on appeal); but see Jach v. Edson (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 96, 100, 62 Cal. Rptr. 925 (order granting new trial remanded for reconsideration)].

If the court grants a partial judgment notwithstanding the verdict, the new trial order is contingent on reversal of the judgment notwithstanding the verdict to the extent the orders overlap, and is otherwise effective [Beavers v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 310, 332 n.7, 274 Cal. Rptr. 766].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Motion for New Trial

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.63

§ 371.63 Grounds for Granting New Trial

[1] Summary of Grounds

The following causes, when they materially affect the substantial rights of the moving party, are grounds for an order vacating a verdict, or vacating or modifying any other decision, and granting a new or further trial on some or all of the issues [Code Civ. Proc. § 657]:

- An irregularity in the proceedings of the court, the jury, or the adverse party, or any court order or abuse of discretion that prevented a party from having a fair trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(1); § 371.63[2]].

- Jury misconduct [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(2); § 371.63[3]].

- Accident or surprise, which ordinary prudence could not have guarded against [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(3); § 371.63[4]].

- Newly discovered evidence that is material for the party making the application and that the party, with reasonable diligence, could not have discovered and produced at trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(4); § 371.63[5]].

- Excessive or inadequate damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(5); § 371.63[6]].

- Insufficiency of the evidence to justify the verdict, or the verdict or other decision is against the law [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(6); § 371.63[7], [8]].

- An error in law occurring at the trial and excepted to by the party moving for new trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(7); § 371.63[9]].

Whenever an application to vacate a verdict and for a new trial is made on any of the first four grounds under Code Civ. Proc. § 657, set out above, the application must be made with affidavits, whereas an application based on any of the other grounds stated in that section are to be made on the minutes of the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 658; see further discussion in § 371.64[3], [4]].

A new trial may also be granted on these additional grounds:

- Lack of phonographic report of trial due to death or disability of the reporter or due to loss or destruction of reporter's notes in whole or in substantial part [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 657.1, 914; § 371.63[10]].

- Loss or destruction of bill of exceptions or statement of case due to public calamity [Code Civ. Proc. § 663.1; § 371.63[11]].

[2] Irregularity in Proceedings

[a] General Rule

A motion for new trial may be granted if there is an irregularity in the proceedings of the court, jury, or adverse party, or any order of the court or abuse of discretion by which a party was prevented from having a fair trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(1)]. An irregularity is any overt act of the trial court, jury, or adverse party that violates the right to a fair and impartial trial and amounts to misconduct [Gray v. Robinson (1939) 91 P.2d 194] . The irregularity must materially affect the substantial rights of a party [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(1); Gay v. Torrance (1904) 145 Cal. 144, 148, 78 P. 540] .

Irregularity in the proceedings must be shown by affidavit or declaration [see Code Civ. Proc. § 658]. For further discussion of this requirement, see § 371.64[3].

[b] Attorney Misconduct

When misconduct by the attorney for an adverse party is alleged as grounds for new trial, prejudicial error is committed only when the attorney's conduct consists of a willful or persistent effort to place before a jury clearly incompetent evidence, or the statements or remarks of counsel are of such a character as to manifest a design on his or her part to arouse the jury's resentment, prejudices, or passions against the moving party, or to enlist the jury's sympathy in favor of his or her client and against the moving party, and any jury instructions to disregard such offered evidence or objectionable remarks cannot be deemed to have cured the evil or ill effect [Tingley v. Times Mirror (1907) 151 Cal. 1, 23, 89 P. 1097 ; Dominguez v. Pantalone (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 201, 210-211, 260 Cal. Rptr. 431] . In assessing that prejudice, each case ultimately must rest on the court's view of the overall record, taking into account such factors, among others, as the nature and seriousness of the remarks and misconduct, the general atmosphere, including the judge's control, of the trial, the likelihood of prejudicing the jury, and the efficacy of objection or admonition under all the circumstances [Dominguez v. Pantalone (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 201, 211, 260 Cal. Rptr. 431] .

[3] Jury Misconduct

[a] General Rule

A motion for a new trial may be brought on the ground of jury misconduct [see Code Civ. Proc. § 657(1), (2)]. The right to an unbiased and unprejudiced jury is an inseparable and inalienable part of the right to trial by jury guaranteed in the federal constitution [Weathers v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 98, 110, 95 Cal. Rptr. 516, 485 P.2d 1132] . Thus, this ground is functionally equilavent to the ground of irregularity in the jury proceedings preventing a fair trial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 657(1) and discussion in § 371.63[2]]. For discussion of the principle types of jury misconduct, see § 371.63[3][b].

Jury misconduct must be shown by affidavit or declaration [see Code Civ. Proc. § 658 and §§ 371.303, 371.304; for further discussion of this requirement, see § 371.64[3]]. Once established, jury misconduct gives rise to a rebuttable presumption of prejudice [see § 371.63[3][c]].

If a party or that party's counsel becomes aware of facts constituting jury misconduct at any time during trial, the party must promptly bring the matter to the court's attention; failure to do so in a timely manner results in the point being deemed waived as a basis for a motion for a new trial [Weathers v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 98, 103, 95 Cal. Rptr. 516, 485 P.2d 1132 ; see also People v. Adame (1973) 36 Cal. App. 3d 402, 409-410, 111 Cal. Rptr. 462] . Thus, a party seeking a new trial on the grounds of jury impropriety must usually present, in addition toother affidavits showing jury misconduct, a "no knowledge" affidavit showing that neither the moving party nor that party's counsel knew of that misconduct before the verdict was returned [Weathers v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 98, 103, 95 Cal. Rptr. 516, 485 P.2d 1132 ; see § 371.305 and for further discussion of this requirement, see § 371.63[3][d]].

Note that a single act may show not only jury misconduct, or bias, but may also help show another ground for vacating the jury's verdict and granting a new trial. For example, jury misconduct may be included as a reason for the conclusion that the excessive damages were awarded [Tramell v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 157, 166, 171, 209 Cal. Rptr. 427 (jury in wrongful death action improperly considered income taxes on verdict and attorney's fees and discussed public benefit from taxes levied on verdict)].

[b] Types of Jury Misconduct

[i] Concealment of Bias on Voir Dire

It is jury misconduct for which a new trial may be granted if a juror has concealed during voir dire examination a state of mind that prevents his or her acting impartially. The concealment need not be intentional [City of Pleasant Hill v. First Baptist Church (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 384, 431, 82 Cal. Rptr. 1] . Thus, a juror's statement during recess that the jury could bring in a verdict at that time rather than waiting until conclusion of the trial showed misconduct on voir dire because that juror had stated on voir dire examination that he could keep an open mind until all the evidence and applicable law were presented [Deward v. Clough (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 439, 443-445, 54 Cal. Rptr. 68] .

Juror affidavits may be used to show occurrences during the trial and deliberations that tend to prove the existence of prejudice in the mind of a juror that would prevent that juror from acting impartially and to show that bias or disqualification was concealed by false answers on voir dire. For example, affidavits were accepted to impeach a verdict when a juror had knowledge as to the qualifications of an expert appraisal witness as a result of a real estate course he was taking at the time of trial and failed to state that special knowledge on voir dire [People ex rel. Dept. Pub. Wks. v. Curtis (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 378, 389, 63 Cal. Rptr. 138] .

[ii] Prejudicial Communication by or to Juror

It is misconduct for a juror during trial to discuss the matter under investigation outside the court or receive any information on the subject of the litigation except in open court and in the manner provided by law [People v. Cissna (2010) 182 Cal. App. 4th 475, 486-487, -- Cal. Rptr. 3d -- ; City of Pleasant Hill v. First Baptist Church (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 384, 431, 82 Cal. Rptr. 1].

The following are examples of juror communications held to constitute misconduct under this rule:

- A juror speaks on a daily basis about the merits of the case with a nonjuror friend [People v. Cissna (2010) 182 Cal. App. 4th 475, 485-486, -- Cal. Rptr. 3d --] .

- A juror reads newspaper accounts of the case and the subject matter of the accounts are likely to influence the juror [Province v. Center for Women's Health & Family Birth (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1673, 1679, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 667] .

- A juror communicates to the rest of jury information outside the evidence that is relevant to important issues in the case [People v. Southern Cal. Edison Co. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 593, 598, 128 Cal. Rptr. 697 (juror questioned non-juror acquaintance who was employed by a party to the case, concerning the likelihood of alleged injuries, and communicated the employee's answers during deliberations); People ex rel. Dept. Pub. Wks. v. Curtis (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 378, 390, 63 Cal. Rptr. 138 (juror conveyed during deliberation information the juror had previously learned in a class concerning methods of appraisal and the appraiser qualifications, which bore directly on controlling issues in the case)].

- A juror communicates to the rest of jury a statement of law not contained in the court's instructions [Young v. Brunicardi (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1344, 1349-1350, 232 Cal. Rptr. 588] .

- A juror refers to a dictionary for the definition of the term "preponderance," and discussing the definition during deliberations in relation to a jury instruction concerning "preponderance of the evidence" [Glage v. Hawes Firearms Co. (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 314, 323, 276 Cal. Rptr. 430 (variance between legal meaning and dictionary meaning created clear and substantial risk that jury might misapply burden of proof)].

- A juror communicates to other jurors an opinion on the merits of the case before it has been submitted for consideration [City of Pleasant Hill v. First Baptist Church (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 384, 434, 82 Cal. Rptr. 1 ; § 371.63[3][b][i]].

- A juror solicits a personal physician's opinion concerning an issue in a malpractice case and communicates the response to other jurors [Weathers v. Kaiser Foundation Hosps. (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 98, 106-107, 95 Cal. Rptr. 516, 485 P.2d 1132] .

Instances in which a juror communication has been held not to justify a new trial include the following:

- A mere communication between a witness and a juror on matters unrelated to the case, without any showing that the juror was influenced by the communication to the prejudice of the moving party [City of Pleasant Hill v. First Baptist Church (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 384, 427-428, 82 Cal. Rptr. 1 (social greeting between juror and appraisal witness on courthouse steps recollecting a previous business transaction but not involving discussion of the case)].

- A juror communicates with a witness, seeking information concerning the case, but the witness specifically refuses to answer the questions or converse with the juror [City of Los Angeles v. Lowensohn (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 625, 636-638, 127 Cal. Rptr. 417] .

[iii] Experimentation Producing New Evidence

It is misconduct for a juror to engage in an experiment that produces new evidence [Smoketree-Lake Murray, Ltd. v. Mills Concrete Construction Co. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1724, 1746, 286 Cal. Rptr. 435] . For example, it is improper for a juror to compare turnstiles in markets and communicate the results of this investigation to other jurors in a case involving an injury allegely the result of a market turnstile [Lankster v. Alpha Beta Co. (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 678, 682, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 923 (juror's comparing turnstiles in other markets to one that injured plaintiff and communicating investigation to other jurors)].

The entire jury, however, may carry out experiments that are within the lines of offered evidence [Higgins v. L.A. Gas & Electric Co. (1911) 159 Cal. 651, 657, 115 P. 313] . Nothing requires that the jury's deliberations be entirely verbal. A court would expect a conscientious jury to examine the testimony of the witnesses closely, no less so when that testimony takes the form of a physical act [People v. Cooper (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 844, 853-854, 157 Cal. Rptr. 348] . There is no misconduct if the jurors merely duplicate a demonstration presented at trial [see Smoketree-Lake Murray, Ltd. v. Mills Concrete Construction Co. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1724, 1746-1747, 286 Cal. Rptr. 435 (citing Cooper, above)].

[iv] Chance Verdict

Jury misconduct expressly includes the jury's arriving at a verdict or finding "by a resort to a determination by chance" [see Code Civ. Proc. § 657(2)]. Thus, verdicts reached by tossing a coin, casting a die, drawing lots or other forms of gambling are improper chance verdicts [Dixon v. Pluns (1893) 98 Cal. 384, 387, 33 P. 268 ; Chronakis v. Windsor (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1058, 1064, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 106] .

A "quotient verdict" may also constitute an improper "chance" verdict. An improper quotient verdict is one the jury has reached by simply adding the damages favored by each juror and dividing by the number of jurors, after previously agreeing to be bound by such a verdict without further deliberation [Dixon v. Pluns (1893) 98 Cal. 384, 387, 33 P. 268 ; Chronakis v. Windsor (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1058, 1064, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 106] . A quotient verdict is not an improper chance verdict, however, when it does not result from a prior agreement to be bound without further consideration. If the jurors discuss and ballot on the adoption or rejection of a average sum, it is conclusive evidence they were not bound by a previous agreement to accept it without further consideration [Bardessono v. Michels (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 780, 794-795, 91 Cal. Rptr. 760, 478 P.2d 480 ; Diamond Springs Lime Co. v. American River Constructors (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 581, 605, 94 Cal. Rptr. 200] . Evidence that jurors rounded off an average sum before reaching a final verdict is also proof that they had no agreement to adopt the average [Will v. Southern Pacific Co. (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 468, 477-478, 116 P.2d 44 ; Glass v. Gulf Oil Corp. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 412, 436, 96 Cal. Rptr. 902] .

Jury misconduct consisting of a chance verdict may be proved the affidavit of any one of the jurors [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(2); see also § 371.64[3]]. The only evidence sufficient to rebut juror affidavits showing that jurors reached a chance verdict is credible counteraffidavits showing that the verdict was proper, affirmative statements or evidence of subsequent deliberation by the jury, or evidence of rounding off the average figure that is apparent on the face of the affidavits [see e.g. Bardessono v. Michels (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 780, 794, 91 Cal. Rptr. 760, 478 P.2d 480 (counteraffidavits show average figure served as basis for further deliberation); Will v. Southern Pacific Co. (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 468, 477, 116 P.2d 44 (no counteraffidavits rebut evidence of improper verdict); Glass v. Gulf Oil Corp. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 412, 435, 96 Cal. Rptr. 902 (evidence of rounding off appeared on face of affidavits)]. When there are conflicting jurors' affidavits on the issue of a chance verdict, the trial court may make its determination on the issue, and that decision will not be disturbed on appeal [Diamond Springs Lime Co. v. American River Constructors (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 581, 605, 94 Cal. Rptr. 200 ; see also Chronakis v. Windsor (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1058, 1067, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 106 (appellate court will not draw inferences from jury affidavits to rebut prima facie evidence of quotient verdict)].

[c] Presumption of Prejudice

Jurors ordinarily are presumed to have followed the court's instructions [People v. Sanchez (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 834, 852, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 129, 29 P.3d 209 ; Craddock v. Kmart Corp. (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 1300, 1308, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 881 ; see also People v. Chavez (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 778, 790, 329 P.2d 907 (on appeal, reviewing court must presume jury followed trial court's instructions)]. In the absence of evidence to the contrary, the presumption that the jury adhered to the limiting instructions will control [People v. Beach (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 612, 625, 195 Cal. Rptr. 381 ; People v. Zack (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 409, 416, 229 Cal. Rptr. 317] . However, juror misconduct, such as the receipt of information about a party or the case that was not part of the evidence received at trial, leads to a presumption that a party was prejudiced and may establish juror bias [People v. Cissna (2010) 182 Cal. App. 4th 475, 487, -- Cal. Rptr. 3d -- ; Romo v. Ford Motor Co. (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 1115, 1131, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 139] . This presumption may be rebutted only by an affirmative evidentiary showing that prejudice does not exist [Glage v. Hawes Firearms Co. (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 314, 321, 276 Cal. Rptr. 430 ; Young v. Brunicardi (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1344, 1348, 232 Cal. Rptr. 588 ; see Hasson v. Ford Motor Co. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 388, 417, 185 Cal. Rptr. 654, 650 P.2d 1171 (although presumption applied in criminal cases, no principled distinction may be drawn between civil and criminal cases for purposes of presumption of prejudice arising from juror misconduct)]. The presumption of prejudice in a civil case is rebutted if the reviewing court reaches one of the following three conclusions [Romo v. Ford Motor Co. (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 1115, 1131-1132, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 139] :

> (1) The record establishes the absence of prejudice.
> (2) A review of the entire record shows there is no reasonable probability of actual harm to the complaining party under the constitutional standard of People v. Watson (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 818, 836, 299 P.2d 243 [see Hasson v. Ford Motor Co. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 388, 416-417, 185 Cal. Rptr. 654, 650 P.2d 1171 ; McDonald v. Southern Pacific Transportation Co. (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 256, 265, 83 Cal. Rptr. 2d 734] .
> (3) In the case of possible "actual bias" of a juror whose vote may have been determinative of the verdict, there is no substantial likelihood that at least one juror was impermissibly influenced [see Province v. Center for Women's Health & Family Birth (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1673, 1679-1680, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 667 , disapproved on other grounds in Heller v. Norcal Mutual Ins. Co. (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 30, 41, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 876 P.2d 999 ; see also Weathers v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 98, 110, 95 Cal. Rptr. 516, 485 P.2d 1132] .

Prejudice exists when there is a substantial likelihood that enough jurors were impermissibly influenced by the misconduct such that it affected the verdict to the detriment of the moving party. Because only three fourths of a civil jury is required to render a verdict, the number of tainted jurors necessary to permit a finding of substantial likelihood of impermissible influence will vary depending on the circumstances of the case. For example, conclusive evidence of only one tainted juror would be sufficient to preclude rebuttal of the presumption of prejudice when the jury's verdict is nine to three and the tainted juror voted with the majority. By contrast, the record itself rebuts the presumption when the evidence indicates that only juror is tainted and the jury's verdict was unanimous; the remaining untainted jurors are sufficiently numerous to render a proper and fair verdict [see Glage v. Hawes Firearms Co. (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 314, 321-323 n.5, 276 Cal. Rptr. 430] .

On the other hand, other courts have held that if the record shows a substantial likelihood that even one juror was impermissibly influenced to the defendant's detriment, reversal is required regardless of whether the court is convinced an unbiased jury would have reached the same result [see People v. Cissna (2010) 182 Cal. App. 4th 475, 488, -- Cal. Rptr. 3d --] .

[d] "No Knowledge" Declaration

A party who requests the court to grant a new trial on the ground of jury misconduct must usually file a "no-knowledge" declaration, stating that neither the attorney nor the client was aware of the alleged misconduct of the juror prior to the verdict [Weathers v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 98, 103, 95 Cal. Rptr. 516, 485 P.2d 1132 ; see also Wiley v. Southern Pacific Transportation Co., (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 177, 188, 269 Cal. Rptr. 240 ; for discussion of procedure for filing and service of affidavits for use on a motion for new trial based on misconduct of the jury, see § 371.64[3]].

The policy behind this requirement is to prevent a party from remaining silent after becoming aware of misconduct, in the hope of a successful verdict, while secretly preserving the error in the event of an unfavorable one [Weathers v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 98, 103, 95 Cal. Rptr. 516, 485 P.2d 1132] .

The "no knowledge" affidavit may be submitted by one person, but it must affirmatively establish that neither the attorney nor the client had knowledge before the verdict of jury misconduct [People v. Southern Cal. Edison Co. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 593, 599, 128 Cal. Rptr. 697 (attorney's declaration established lack of knowledge only as to attorney and did not establish client's lack of knowledge)]. The "no knowledge" declaration is not required when the alleged jury misconduct is of such a nature that it could not have been known to a party until after a verdict was rendered [Krouse v. Graham (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 59, 82, 137 Cal. Rptr. 863, 562 P.2d 1022 (comments made by several jurors during deliberations)]. Failure to file a "no-knowledge" declaration is a curable procedural defect; a party who does not object in the trial court to the absence of this declaration waives his or her right to raise the issue for the first time on appeal [Wiley v. Southern Pacific Transportation Co. (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 177, 186-188, 269 Cal. Rptr. 240] .

For a form of "no knowledge" affidavit, see § 371.305.

[4] Accident or Surprise

The motion for new trial may be granted on the ground of accident or surprise, which ordinary prudence could not have guarded against [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(3)]. The terms "accident" and "surprise," although not strictly synonymous, have substantially the same meaning, as each is used to denote some condition or situation in which a party to a cause is unexpectedly placed to that party's injury and without any negligence of his or her own [Kauffman v. De Mutiis (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 429, 432, 189 P.2d 271 ; see In re Marriage of Liu (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 143, 154-155, 242 Cal. Rptr. 649 (negligence of party's counsel is not a grou nd on which a new trial may be granted under Code Civ. Proc. § 657(3))].

Accident or surprise must be shown by affidavit or declaration [see Code Civ. Proc. § 658; for further discussion of this requirement, see § 371.64[3]].

[5] Newly Discovered Evidence

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 657(4), a motion for new trial may be granted on the grounds of newly discovered evidence, material for the party makingthe application, that he or she could not with reasonable diligence have discovered and produced at trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(4)]. All of the followings element must be established [Wood v. Jamison (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 156, 161, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 877 ; Elysium Institute, Inc. v. County of Los Angeles (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 408, 438, 283 Cal. Rptr. 688]:

- The evidence is newly discovered.
- There was reasonable diligence in discovering and producing the evidence.
- The evidence is material to the moving party's case.

Since a litigant should exhaust every reasonable effort to produce all existing evidence at trial, the claim of newly discovered evidence as a basis for a new trial is looked on with suspicion and disfavor by the courts [Hicks v. Ocean Shore Railroad, Inc. (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 773, 789, 117 P.2d 850] .

Newly discovered evidence must be established by affidavit or declaration [see Code Civ. Proc. § 658; see also § 371.64[3]].

[6] Excessive or Inadequate Damages Awarded

A motion for new trial is not granted on the ground of excessive or inadequate damages unless, after weighing the evidence, the court is convinced from the entire record, including reasonable inferences drawn from it, that the court or jury clearly should have reached a different verdict or decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 657]. The judge is not permitted to substitute his or her judgment for that of the jury on the question of damages unless it appears from the record that the jury verdict was improper. For example, a trial judge's personal opinion based on the ranges of awards in other cases is not a lawful basis for granting a new trial for excessive damages [Bigboy v. County of San Diego (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 397, 406-407, 201 Cal. Rptr. 226] .

The court may grant a new trial subject to the condition that the motion is denied if the court obtains consent from the appropriate party for the addition or reduction of damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 662.5; see also § 371.70].

Excessive or inadequate damages must be established by the minutes of the court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 658; for further discussion of this requirement, see § 371.64[4]].

For further discussion, see Ch. 177, Damages .

[7] Insufficient Evidence to Justify Verdict or Other Decision

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 657(6), a motion for new trial may be granted on the ground of insufficiency of the evidence to justify the verdict or other decision. A new trial may not be granted on this ground unless the court is convinced from the entire record, including inferences from it, that the court or jury should have reached a different verdict or decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(6)].

If a trial court rules on a motion for a new trial made on the ground of insufficiency of the evidence, the trial judge is required to weigh the evidence and judge the credibility of witnesses. Whereas it is the exclusive province of the jury to find the facts, it is the duty of the trial court to see that this function is intelligently and justly performed, and, in the exercise of its supervisory power over the verdict, the court, on motion for a new trial, should consider the probative force of the evidence and satisfy itself that the evidence as a whole is sufficient to sustain the verdict. Insufficiency of the evidence in this context means an absence of evidence or that the evidence received, in the individual judgment of the trial judge, is lacking in probative force to establish the proposition of fact to which it is addressed [Dominguez v. Pantalone (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 201, 215, 260 Cal. Rptr. 431] .

The ground that the evidence was insufficient to justify the verdict must be established by the minutes of the court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 658; see also § 371.64[4]].

[8] Verdict or Decision Against Law

Another ground for granting a motion for new trial is that the verdict or decision is against law [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(6)]. This ground is limited to situations that are not covered by the other subdivisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 657, such as error in law occurring at trial [see McCown v. Spencer (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 216, 229 n.3, 87 Cal. Rptr. 213] or insufficiency of evidence [see Brooks v. Harootunian (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 680, 686, 68 Cal. Rptr. 374] .

A verdict is against law when it is contrary to correct jury instructions [Kaiser Cement & Gypsum Corp. v. Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co. (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 948, 958, 111 Cal. Rptr. 210] . A decision or verdict is also against law

(1) when there is a failure to find on a material issue; (2) when the findings are irreconcilable; and (3) when the evidence is insufficient in law and without conflict on any material point. If a general verdict is returned, it is against law only when it is unsupported by any substantial evidence. The court cannot merely weigh conflicting evidence and find a balance against the judgment [Kralyevich v. Magrini (1959) 172 Cal. App. 2d 784, 789, 342 P.2d 903] . Inconsistent general and special verdicts are also against the law and require a new trial [Oxford v. Foster Wheeler LLC (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 700, 721-722, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 418].

1981 legislation amended Code Civ. Proc. § 632, eliminating findings of fact and conclusions of law. Nevertheless, it appears that a decision may be against law when the court has failed to resolve a specified controverted issue in its statement of decision or if the statement of decision is inconsistent, ambiguous, or uncertain [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 632, 634; Renfer v. Skaggs (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 380, 383, 215 P.2d 487] . But these errors must materially affect the substantial rights of the aggrieved party in order for a new trial to be granted [see Code Civ. Proc. § 657].

The ground that the verdict or decision is against the law must be established by the minutes of the court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 658; for further discussion of this requirement, see § 371.64[4]].

[9] Error in Law Occurring at Trial

A motion for a new trial may be granted for an error in law occurring at trial and excepted to by the party making the application [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(7)]. Errors of law occurring at trial may include erroneous rulings on evidence [Richard v. Scott (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 57, 63, 144 Cal. Rptr. 672] ; erroneous or misleading jury instructions [Bruck v. Adams (1968) 259 Cal. App. 2d 585, 587, 66 Cal. Rptr. 395] ; erroneous denial of a jury trial [Johnson v. Superior Court (1932) 121 Cal. App. 288, 292, 8 P.2d 1047] ; erroneous grant of nonsuit [Castillo v. Warren (1941) 44 Cal. App. 2d 903, 907, 113 P.2d 232] ; or the erroneous denial of a motion for directed verdict [Steele v. Werner (1938) 28 Cal. App. 2d 554, 556, 83 P.2d 56] .

This ground differs from Code Civ. Proc. § 657(1), irregularity in proceedings of court, jury, or adverse party, in that this motion must be made on the minutes of the court, as opposed to the affidavits or declarations of Code Civ. Proc. § 657(1), and the moving party must have ex cepted to the error of law occurring at trial [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 657(7), 658]. Many orders and rulings, however, are deemed excepted to without formal objection at trial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 647].

The ground that there was an error in law must be established by the minutes of the court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 658; for further discussion of this requirement, see § 371.64[4]].

[10] Lack of Phonographic Report of Trial

A motion for new trial may be granted if the right to a phonographic report has not been waived and when it is impossible to have a phonographic report of trial due to death or disability of the reporter or loss or destruction of the reporter's notes in substantial part [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 657.1, 914]. The moving party must show that the transcript is necessary to present substantial issues, that it cannot be procured for one of the reasons in the statute, and that proper diligence has been exercised [Rambo v. Rambo (1948) 84 Cal. App. 2d 632, 634, 191 P.2d 480 ; see In re Marriage of Liu (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 143, 151-152, 242 Cal. Rptr. 649] .

When determining whether the reporter's transcript is necessary to present substantial issues, a reasonable test of substantiality is whether questions the moving party desires to raise on appeal could be properly considered without the lost portion of the transcript. If they could, then the loss would not be considered substantial [Santa Cruz County Redevelopment Agency v. Izant (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 141, 147, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 366] .

If a court orders a new trial, it must order a complete, and not a partial, new trial. For example, if reporter's notes for the first day of a three-day trial are lost, a court may not order that a witness who previously testified on that first day testify again, and that a transcript of the new testimony be added to the transcript of the second and third days of trial to "complete" a record for appeal. Other than a complete new trial, the permissible solutions to the problem of the missing reporter's notes are limited to stipulations, agreed statement, or settled statement [Weinstein v. E.F. Hutton & Co. (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 364, 369, 269 Cal. Rptr. 443] . For further discussion of these procedures, see Ch. 44, Appeal: Preparing and Filing the Record , and Ch. 533, Stipulations .

[11] Loss or Destruction of Bill of Exceptions or Statement of Case

The court may grant a new trial of any action or proceeding when all of the following conditions exist [Code Civ. Proc. § 663.1]:

(a) Any proposed bill of exceptions or statement of the case on motion for new trial is lost or destroyed by reason of conflagration or other public calamity;

(b) No other record of the proceedings of the trial can be obtained;

(c) The action or proceeding is subject to review by motion for new trial pending at the time of the destruction;

(d) The court in which the action or proceeding is pending deems it impossible or impracticable to restore those proceedings and to settle a bill of exceptions or statement of the case containing those proceedings, so as to enable the court to review the judgment or order by motion for new trial; and

(e) At the time of the loss or destruction, a motion for new trial was pending.

In order to grant a new trial on these grounds, it is unnecessary to have any bill of exceptions or statement of the case settled, but on the facts required by Code Civ. Proc. § 663.1 being shown to the satisfaction of the court by affidavit (or declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]), or otherwise, the court may grant a new trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 663.1].

Pending the hearing on a motion pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 663.1 to grant a new trial, the time within which a bill of exceptions may be prepared, served, or presented for settlement is extended and does not commence to run until the decision on the motion. The motion must be made within 30 days after the loss or destruction of the records [Code Civ. Proc. § 663.2].

Chapter 371 MOTIONS AFTER TRIAL
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Motion for New Trial

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.64

§ 371.64 Procedure

[1] Motion Must Be Made by Party

The aggrieved party must apply for a new trial since the court has no inherent power to grant a new trial on its own motion [see Code Civ. Proc. § 657; Schroeder v. Auto Driveaway Co. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 908, 919, 114 Cal. Rptr. 622 ; Marriage of Herr (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 1463, 1470-1471, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 464 ; see also Donovan v. Poway Unified School District (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 567, 620-621, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 285 (when only one defendant served notice of intention to move for new trial, court lacked jurisdiction to grant new trial to other defendants)].

[2] Notice of Intention

[a] In General

The party must file with the court clerk and serve on each adverse party a notice of intention to move for a new trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 659]. The notice must be accompanied by a filing fee in an amount prescribed by Gov. Code § 70617(a)(5). The notice must designate the ground or grounds on which the motion will be made and should designate whether the motion will be made on affidavits (or declarations [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) or the court minutes or both [see Code Civ. Proc. § 659; see also § 371.64[3], [4]]. However, since it is implicit in the statement of grounds whether the motion will be made on affidavits or the minutes of the court, it is not necessary, though it is advisable, to specify [Nichols v. Hast (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 598, 601, 43 Cal. Rptr. 641, 400 P.2d 753] .

[b] Time for Filing

A notice of intention to move for a new trial may be filed before the entry of judgment, but after the jury, court, or referee has rendered a decision [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 656, 659]. It may also be filed after judgment is entered and within the earliest of the following times [Code Civ. Proc. § 659]:

(1) 15 days after the court clerk mailed notice of entry of judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5;

(2) 15 days after any party served a written notice of entry of judgment on the moving party; or

(3) 180 days after judgment is entered.

The statutory requirement of giving written notice of entry of judgment is satisfied by serving a copy of the file-stamped judgment in a county that no longer maintains a judgment book. To start the statutory time period for bringing and ruling on a motion for a new trial, it is not necessary to serve on the opposing party a separate document entitled notice of entry of judgment and to file in the trial court that document, as well as a copy of the judgment and proof of its service [Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1267-1268, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067] .

Under the express terms of Code Civ. Proc. § 659, the time limits for filing a motion of intention to move for a new trial start to run either on the date of the court clerk's mailing or on the date of service on the moving party of notice of entry of judgment. To be service pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5 as required by section 659, the notice of entry of judgment mailed by the clerk must affirmatively state it is given "upon order by the court" or "under section 664.5" [Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1277, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067 ; Van Beurden Ins. Services, Inc. v. Customized Worldwide Weather Ins. Agency, Inc. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 51, 64, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 166, 931 P.2d 344] . Otherwise, the time limits for the notice of intention to move for a new trial are triggered by service on the moving party of "written notice" of the "entry of judgment" [Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1277, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067 ; Code Civ. Proc. § 659]. When the moving party is served by mail, service is complete at the time the notice of entry of judgment is deposited in the mailbox [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a); Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1277, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067 ; Westrec Marina Management, Inc. v. Jardine Ins. Brokers Orange County, Inc. (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 1042, 1048, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 673] . The time limits set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 659 are jurisdictional [In re Marriage of Herr (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 1463, 1468-1469, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 464].

The written notice of entry of judgment served on the party who serves notice of intention to move for a new trial need not be a separate document entitled notice of entry of judgment. No particular form of notice is required, and in counties that do not maintain a judgment book a file-stamped copy of the judgment suffices as "written notice" [Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1277, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067 ; Van Beurden Ins. Services, Inc. v. Customized Worldwide Weather Ins. Agency, Inc. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 51, 57 n.2, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 166, 931 P.2d 344 ; McCordic v. Crawford (1943) 23 Cal. 2d 1, 5, 142 P.2d 7] .

Nothing in Code Civ. Proc. § 659 expressly requires the party serving written notice of entry of judgment to file any document with the trial court. If a prevailing party, consistent with Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5, serves written notice of the entry of judgment on the party intending to move for new trial and files the original notice of entry and a proof of service, the prevailing party necessarily will have complied with Code Civ. Proc. § 659 by "serving written notice" on a party that intends to move for a new trial. The posttrial motion statutes do not, however, require filing of the original notice of entry (or of a file-stamped copy of the judgment) accompanied by proof of service in order to start the time limits for bringing posttrial motions [Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1277-1278, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067 (Van Beurden's suggestion that more is required by party to trigger time limits for new trial is dictum because it was unnecessary to its holding)].

In computing time, the first day is excluded and the last day is included unless it is a holiday [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 12, 12a]. A notice of intention to move cannot be filed until all issues in the case are decided, and if filed prematurely, the notice is void [City of Santa Barbara v. Superior Court (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 612, 614, 49 Cal. Rptr. 798] . Once a party files a notice of motion for a new trial, each other party has 15 days after serviceto file a notice of motion for new trial. The time limit for filing and serving the notice cannot be extended by the court or by stipulation of the parties. This time limit is also not lengthened by Code Civ. Proc. § 1013, which extends the time for exercising a right or doing an act when service is by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 659].

[3] Affidavits and Counteraffidavits

[a] When Required

A motion made on the grounds set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 657(1)-(4), that is, irregularity of the proceedings, misconduct of the jury, accident or surprise, or newly discovered evidence must be made on affidavits (or declarations [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) [Code Civ. Proc. § 658]. A motion made on any other ground must be made on the court minutes [Code Civ. Proc. § 658; see § 371.64[4]].

The requirement that affidavits or declarations be used is mandatory. Thus, for example, it is proper for the trial court to refuse to allow oral testimony from subpoenaed jurors. Allowing subpoenaed testimony as distinguished from a voluntary affidavit or declaration would stifle independent thought in the jury room and undermine the integrity of the jury process [Linhart v. Nelson (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 641, 644-645, 134 Cal. Rptr. 813, 557 P.2d 104] .

[b] Service and Filing

Within 10 days of filing the notice of intention to move for a new trial, the moving party is required to serve on all other parties and file any affidavits intended to be used on the motion. The other parties have 10 days after the service within which to serve on the moving party and file counteraffidavits. These times may, for good cause shown by affidavit or by written stipulation of the parties, be extended by any judge for an additional period not to exceed 20 days [Code Civ. Proc. § 659a].

The provision under Code Civ. Proc. § 659a permitting the trial court to extend the period within which to file an affidavit supporting a new trial is mandatory. Therefore, a court may not consider a party's affidavit's filed after the expiration of that period [Erikson v. Weiner (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 1663, 1666, 1672, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 362] .

[c] Juror Affidavits

The affidavit of any juror may be used to show jury misconduct by reason of a chance verdict [see Code Civ. Proc. § 657(2) and discussion in § 371.63[3][b][iv]]. Jurors' affidavits may also be used to show jury misconduct generally [see City of Pleasant Hill v. First Baptist Church (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 384, 428, 82 Cal. Rptr. 1 (juror affidavit to show preducial communication by or to juror); Campbell v. Zokelt (1969) 272 Cal. App.2d 315, 319, 77 Cal. Rptr. 561 (juror affidavit to show juror had concealed bias during voir dire)]. For further discussion, see § 371.63[3]].

Juror affidavits used to impeach a verdict may show statements made, or conduct, conditions, or events, when these are of a character that is likely to have influenced the verdict improperly. They may not be used to show that a juror was actually influenced or to show mental processes of jurors in reaching the verdict [Evid. Code § 1150(a)]. In other words, a juror affidavit must provide overt facts that can be objectively corroborated, rather than subjective thoughts that cannot [People v. Cissna (2010) 182 Cal. App. 4th 475, 486-487, -- Cal. Rptr. 3d -- ; Bell v. Bayerische Motoren Werke Aktiengesellschaft (2010) 181 Cal. App. 4th 1108, 1127-1128, 105 Cal. Rptr. 3d 485 ; Province v. Center for Women's Health & Family Birth (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1673, 1678, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 667 ; Chronakis v. Windsor (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1058, 1068-1069, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 106 ; see also Smoketree-Lake Murray, Ltd. v. Mills Concrete Construction Co. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1724, 1745, 286 Cal. Rptr. 435 (trial judge may not review replay of particular language used by various jurors during deliberations and make subjective determination as to its propriety; this would intrude on traditional inviolate nature of jury proceedings)].

A juror's affidavit may not be used for the purpose of construing or interpreting the verdict [Telles v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1969) 3 Cal. App. 3d 179, 187, 83 Cal. Rptr. 444] .

[4] Use of Reporter's Notes, Pleadings, and Files

At the hearing on the motion, counsel may refer in all cases to pleadings and court orders on file. When the motion is made on the court minutes, counsel may refer to depositions, documentary evidence offered at trial, and to the reporter's report of the trial proceedings or a certified transcript of this report. If there is no report or certified transcript, counsel may refer to proceedings occurring at trial that are within the recollection of the judge. If the proceedings have been phonographically reported, but the reporter's notes have not been transcribed, the court or either party may request that the reporter attend the hearing and read the notes or any portion of the notes that the court or either party require [Code Civ. Proc. § 660].

[5] Supporting Memorandum

Within 10 days after filing notice of intention to move for a new trial, the moving party must serve and file a memorandum in support of the motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1600(a)]. If the moving party fails to serve and file the prescribed memorandum, the court may deny the motion without a hearing on the merits [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1600(b)].

Within 10 days after the moving party files its memorandum, any adverse party may serve and file a memorandum in reply [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1600(a)].

For general discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[6] With Motion for Judgment Notwithstanding Verdict

A motion for new trial is frequently made with a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict [see Schroeder v. Auto Driveaway Co. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 908, 919, 114 Cal. Rptr. 622] . The making of a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict will not extend the time within which a party may file and serve notice of intention to move for a new trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 629]. If both motions are filed, the court must rule on them at the same time [Code Civ. Proc. § 629]. The court, however, cannot grant the motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict with a conditional order granting the motion for new trial if for any reason the judgment notwithstanding the verdict is reversed on appeal [Widener v. Pacific Gas & Electric Co. (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 415, 436, 142 Cal. Rptr. 304] . For a discussion of the granting and denial of alternative motions, see § 371.46.

§ 371.65 Stay of Execution of Judgment Pending Determination of Motion

Subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 918(b), the trial court may stay the enforcement of any judgment or order, whether or not an appeal will be taken from it and whether or not a notice of appeal has been filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 918(a), (c)]. If the enforcement of the judgment or order would be stayed on appeal only by the giving of an undertaking, a trial court does not have power, without the consent of the adverse party, to stay the enforcement pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 918 for a period that extends for more than 10 days beyond the last date on which a notice of appeal could be filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 918(b)]. For forms for use in staying the execution of a judgment pending determination of a motion for new trial, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Motion for New Trial

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.66

§ 371.66 Hearing and Determination of Motion

[1] Proper Judge

The judge who presided at trial will hear the motion unless that judge is unable to do so or is absent from the county at the time [Code Civ. Proc. § 661]. If that is the case, any other judge of the same court may hear the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 661]. If a judge other than the trial judge hears the motion, it must be argued or submitted without oral argument 10 days before expiration of the court's power to act on the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 661]. In a bifurcated trial in superior court, in which different judges heard the issues, each judge must hear and determine the motion with respect to the issues that he or she tried [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1591].

If the parties consent, the motion may be heard by the judge who tried the case at any location in the state [Gov. Code § 69741.1].

The parties may agree to a procedure by which the judge who presided at trial can hear arguments on a motion for new trial telephonically if the judge is out of state at the time. If that judge remains unable to sign the order because he or she remains out of state, that judge may appoint another judge to sign the order regarding the motion for new trial [see Dell'Oca v. The Bank of New York Trust Co., N.A. (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 531, 542-546, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 737].

[2] Time For Hearing

When the time for filing counteraffidavits expires, the clerk must immediately call the motion to the attention of the judge who then designates the time for oral argument [Code Civ. Proc. § 661]. The hearing and disposition of the motion takes precedence over all other matters except criminal cases, probate matters, and cases actually on trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 660]. The clerk then gives the parties five days notice by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 661]. The notice of hearing and the hearing are mandatory unless waived by the parties [Avery v. Associated Seed Growers, Inc. (1963) 211 Cal. App. 2d 613, 627, 27 Cal. Rptr. 625] . Although the court cannot dispense with the hearing, it is not required to hear oral argument [Code Civ. Proc. § 661]. The motion may be heard and determined in the judge's chambers [Code Civ. Proc. § 166(a)(2)].

Chapter 371 MOTIONS AFTER TRIAL
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Motion for New Trial

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.67

§ 371.67 Ruling on Motion

[1] Time Limitation

Except as otherwise provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 12a (extension for holiday), the power of the court to rule on the motion expires 60 days after the court clerk mails notice of the entry of judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5, or 60 days after any party serves a written notice of entry of judgment on the moving party, whichever is earlier [Code Civ. Proc. § 660]. The statutory requirement of giving written notice of entry of judgment is satisfied by serving a copy of the file-stamped judgment in a county that no longer maintains a judgment book [Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1277-1278, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067] .

A motion for a new trial is not determined until an order ruling on the motion is entered in the permanent minutes of the court or is signed by the judge and filed with the clerk. The entry of a new trial order in the permanent minutes of the court constitutes a determination of the motion when a minute order as entered expressly directs that a written order be prepared, signed and filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 660; see Fergus v. Songer (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 552, 564, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 273 (minute order expressly directed defendant to prepare order and submit it to court with approval as to form; minute order was order ruling on motion because it stated motion for new trial was granted as to amount of damages only and denied as to issue of malpractice)].

To start the statutory time period for ruling on a motion for a new trial, it is not necessary to serve on the opposing party a separate document entitled notice of entry of judgment and to file in the trial court that document, as well as a copy of the judgment and proof of its service [Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1277-1278, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067] . Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a), which extends certain deadlines when service is made by mail, does not extend the deadline for the court to act under Code Civ. Proc. § 660 [Westrec Marina Management, Inc. v. Jardine Ins. Brokers Orange County, Inc. (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 1042, 1047-1049, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 673] . If notice of entry of judgment has not been given, then the court's power to rule expires 60 days after the first notice of intention to move for a new trial was filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 660; see Westrec Marina Management, Inc. v. Jardine Ins. Brokers Orange County, Inc. (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 1042, 1048, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d673 (once 60 days ran after plaintiffs served notice of entry of judgment on defendants by mail, motion was denied by operation of law and court lacked jurisdiction to act on it)]. If the motion is not determined within these time limits, the effect is a denial of the motion without further court order [Code Civ. Proc. § 660].

The 60-day time limit of Code Civ. Proc. § 660 is jurisdictional. It cannot be evaded by stipulation or nunc pro tunc order [see Fischer v. First Int'l. Bank(2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1433, 1450-1451, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 162 (where there was no notice of entry of judgment, order granting motion for new trial more than 60 days after filing of notice of intention to move for new trial was void for lack of jurisdiction)].

If there has been no entry of judgment, the trial court is not bound by the 60-day time limitation. For example, when only a "Ruling After Court Trial" has been entered, the court may treat the motion for new trial as a motion to reconsider, reopen, or reargue and enter a judgment different from that first announced, even though the time to rule on new trial motion has expired [In re Marriage of Micalizio (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 662, 672, 245 Cal. Rptr. 673] .

[2] When Motion Determined

A motion for new trial is not determined by the court within the meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 660 until an order ruling on the motion is (1) entered in the permanent minutes of the court, or (2) signed by the judge and filed with the clerk. The entry of the new trial order in the permanent minutes of the court constitutes a determination of the motion even though the minute order expressly directs that a written order is to be prepared, signed, and filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 660]. The minute entry must show the date that it was actually entered in the permanent minutes, but failure to do so will not impair the order's validity or effectiveness [Code Civ. Proc. § 660].

[3] Discretion of Court

The court has wide discretion in ruling on a motion for new trial [City of Los Angeles v. Decker (1977) 18 Cal. 3d 860, 871-872, 135 Cal. Rptr. 647, 558 P.2d 545] . However, the court must exercise discriminating judgment within the bounds of reason [Johns v. City of Los Angeles (1978) 78 Cal. App. 3d 983, 987, 144 Cal. Rptr. 629] .

In considering the motion, the court is entitled to reweigh evidence, consider the credibility of witnesses, and draw reasonable inferences contrary to those accepted by the jury [Mercer v. Perez (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 104, 112, 65 Cal. Rptr. 315, 436 P.2d 315] . If the judge is unsatisfied with the verdict or decision and the statutory grounds for granting a new trial exist, he or she has a duty to grant the motion [Pollitz v. Wickersham (1907) 150 Cal. 238, 244, 88 P. 911] .

On the other hand, the trial court may not misuse a motion for new trial, in which the trial court is allowed to draw inferences contrary to the verdict, as a de facto motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict by granting a new trial under circumstances in which the trial court has determined it will never allow the verdict to stand despite evidence supporting the verdict [Fountain Valley Chateau Blanc Homeowner's Assn. v. Department of Veterans Affairs (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 743, 752-753, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 248] . If the record reveals that an order granting a new trial was a de facto judgment notwithstanding the verdict, the appellate court will apply the independent review standard associated with judgment notwithstanding the verdict rather than the abuse of discretion standard associated with an order granting a new trial [Fountain Valley Chateau Blanc Homeowner's Assn. v. Department of Veterans Affairs (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 743, 753, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 248] .

C. Motion for New Trial

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.68

§ 371.68 Alternative Relief in Lieu of Granting New Trial

[1] In Nonjury Case

In a nonjury case, the court may, on such terms as may be just, change or add to the statement of decision, modify the judgment in whole or in part, or grant a new trial on all or part of the issues. In lieu of granting a new trial, the court may vacate and set aside the statement of decision and judgment and reopen the case for further proceedings and introduction of additional evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 662]. Code Civ. Proc. § 662 does not provide authority to reopen to allow presentation of additional evidence if the motion to reopen is made before judgment. If made before judgment, such a motion invokes the court's fundamental authority under Code Civ. Proc. § 128(a)(3) and Evid. Code § 320 to control the order of proof and the conduct of proceedings before it [Rosenfeld, Meyer & Susman v. Cohen (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1035, 1052 n.7, 237 Cal. Rptr. 14] .

The purpose of allowing the trial court to change or amend its statement of decision is to give the court, on denying the motion for new trial, broad power to change its statement of decision and to modify the judgment, thereby avoiding the necessity of a new trial [see Spier v. Lang (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 711, 714, 53 P.2d 138 (decided when findings existed under Code Civ. Proc. § 632)]. For a form concerning alternative relief to be used in a notice of intention to move for new trial, see § 371.301.

[2] Jurisdictional Requirements Under Code Civ. Proc. § 662

If the trial court does not have jurisdiction to grant a new trial, it has no jurisdiction to act under Code Civ. Proc. § 662. For example, a notice of intention to move for a new trial that is prematurely filed confers no jurisdiction to the court to grant a new trial under Code Civ. Proc. § 657, and it necessarily follows that the trial court has no power to vacate a judgment and to enter a new and different judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 662 [see Fong Chuck v. Chin Po Foon (1947) 29 Cal. 2d 552, 553-554, 176 P.2d 705] . The exercise by the court of powers vested in it by Code Civ. Proc. § 662 is an integral part of the proceedings for a new trial; such powers are to be exercised only in conjunction with a ruling on a motion for new trial [Avery v. Associated Seed Growers, Inc. (1963) 211 Cal. App. 2d 613, 622-623, 27 Cal. Rptr. 625] .

[3] Modified Judgment Supersedes Prior Judgment

The proper procedure in granting relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 662 is for the trial court to deny the motion for new trial and grant the alternative relief. However, even if the court's order does not expressly dispose of the new trial motion, when the court vacates the prior judgment and enters a new judgment within the 60-day period prescribed in Code Civ. Proc. § 660, the new judgment supersedes the prior judgment [Medak v. Cox (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 70, 74, 90 Cal. Rptr. 452] . Once the court enters a modified judgment, the superseded judgment can no longer be appealed [Neff v. Ernst (1957) 48 Cal. 2d 628, 634, 311 P.2d 849] .

However, if the modified judgment is subsequently vacated for lack of jurisdiction, the earlier judgment is reinstated [see In re Marriage of Micalizio (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 662, 670, 245 Cal. Rptr. 673 (trial court vacated its modified judgment, which was not entered within required 60 days, but failed to specify time for reentry of prior judgment)]. The reinstated judgment is a new judgment for purposes of appeal and the time for filing a notice of appeal from that judgment begins to run from the date that the second judgment is declared void by the trial court [In re Marriage of Micalizio (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 662, 671-672, 245 Cal. Rptr. 673.]

§ 371.69 New Trial on Particular Issues

The court may grant a new trial only on certain issues raised in the case if these issues are distinct and separable [see Code Civ. Proc. § 657; Cruz v. HomeBase (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 160, 165, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 435 ; Karallis v. Shenas (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 280, 283, 217 P.2d 436] . However, when a limited new trial might be prejudicial to either party, the court must grant a complete new trial [Liodas v. Sahadi (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 278, 286, 137 Cal. Rptr. 635, 562 P.2d 316 ; *see also Pelletier v. Eisenberg (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 558, 565-566, 223 Cal. § 371.70 Conditional Granting or Denial of Motion

The court's decision may be conditioned on the performance of certain actions by the parties. If the parties perform the condition within the alloted time, the motion for new trial will be either granted or denied [see Engle v. Farrell (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 612, 620, 171 P.2d 588] . For instance, the court might grant the motion for new trial if the parties do not agree to a greater or lesser amount of damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 662.5; Jehl v. Southern Pac. Co. (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 821, 832, 59 Cal. Rptr. 276, 427 P.2d 988 (additur); Hughes v. Hearst Publications, Inc. (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 703, 704, 180 P.2d 419 (remittitur)]. The court might also grant a new trial if the moving party agrees to pay the other party's costs [Chodos v. Superior Court (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 703, 707, 38 Cal. Rptr. 301] .

As long as the trial court issues its order on the new trial motion within the 60-day period prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 660, it may exercise discretion in setting reasonable time limits extending beyond the 60-day period for plaintiffs to perform conditions set by the order [see Schelbauer v. Butler Manufacturing Co. (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 442, 454 n.6, 198 Cal. Rptr. 155, 673 P.2d 743] .

A void condition has no effect on an otherwise valid order. In such a case, the condition is disregarded but the order stands [see Schelbauer v. Butler Manufacturing Co. (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 442, 455, 198 Cal. Rptr. 155, 673 P.2d 743] .

The court can deny the motion for new trial by entering a minute order to that effect [Code Civ. Proc. § 660]. A statement of reasons for the denial is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 657]. No appeal will lie from the trial court's denial of the motion; the ruling may be reviewed only through an appeal of the judgment [Rodriguez v. Barnett (1959) 52 Cal. 2d 154, 156, 338 P.2d 907 ; Hamasaki v. Flotho (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 602, 608, 248 P.2d 910] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Motion for New Trial

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.72

§ 371.72 Order Granting Motion

[1] In General

An order granting a motion for new trial vacates the verdict or decision and returns the case to its exact state before trial [Bloomquist v. Haley (1928) 204 Cal. 258, 261, 268 P. 364] . A general order granting the motion will open the case to all parties, even though some of the parties may not have joined on the motion [Bishop v. Superior Court (1922) 59 Cal. App. 46, 48, 209 P. 1012] . If, however, there are several parties and the rights and interests of these parties are distinct, the resulting order may not affect the judgment as to some of the parties [Fearon v. Fodera (1915) 169 Cal. 370, 376, 148 P. 200] .

[2] Statement of Grounds

If the motion is granted, the order must state the ground or grounds on which the court relied [Code Civ. Proc. § 657]. The statutory language of Code Civ. Proc. § 657 or a reasonable approximation should be used [Mercer v. Perez (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 104, 111, 65 Cal. Rptr. 315, 436 P.2d 315] . A court's statement that there has been a miscarriage of justice is insufficient grounds for the order [Mercer v. Perez (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 104, 110, 65 Cal. Rptr. 315, 436 P.2d 315] .

The statement of the ground or grounds on which the court relies must be made before the expiration of the 60-day period permitted by Code Civ. Proc. § 660 [Sanchez-Corea v. Bank of America (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 892, 903-905, 215 Cal. Rptr. 679, 701 P.2d 826 ; Steinhart v. South Coast Area Transit (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 770, 772-773, 228 Cal. Rptr. 283] . The additional 10-day period permitted by Code Civ. Proc. § 657 for the filing of a statement specifying the reasons for granting the motion does not apply to the statement of the grounds for granting the motion [Sanchez-Corea v. Bank of America (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 892, 905, 215 Cal. Rptr. 679, 701 P.2d 826 ; Steinhart v. South Coast Area Transit (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 770, 773, 228 Cal. Rptr. 283] . See the discussion of the separate requirement for a specification of the reasons for granting the motion in § 371.72[3].

[3] Specification of Reasons

The court must specify the reasons for granting the new trial for each of the grounds stated in the order [Code Civ. Proc. § 657; see Twedt v. Franklin (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 413, 418-420, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 740 (requirement of written statement of reasons for granting new trial satisfied by written order attaching and incorporating hearing transcript in which trial judge stated evidence did not support jury's finding of no negligence because testimony of defendant driver showed her negligence at least partially caused collision with plaintiff's vehicle)]. The statement of reasons should be specific enough to facilitate appellate review and avoid any need for the appellate court to rely on inference or speculation [Oakland Raiders v. National Football League (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 624, 634, 61 Cal. Rptr. 3d 634] . If the order fails to state the court's reasons for granting a new trial on a particular ground, the order is defective and must be reversed [Stewart v. Truck Ins. Exchange (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 468, 484-485, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 338 (order for new trial on punitive damages reversed because judge failed to state reasons; irrelevant that judge also gave reasons for ordering new trial on portion of compensatory damages); Wright v. City of Los Angeles (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 318, 354, 268 Cal. Rptr. 309] .

The court may state the reasons in the order or may prepare a separate document filed 10 days after the filing of the order [Code Civ. Proc. § 657]. The 10-day period runs from the determination of the motion rather than from the filing of the order [Swanson v. Western Greyhound Lines, Inc. (1969) 268 Cal. App. 2d 758, 759-760, 74 Cal. Rptr. 383] . The 10-day period within the court must specify its reasons for granting a new trial under Code Civ. Proc. § 657 is not included in the 60-day period of Code Civ. Proc. § 660, discussed under § 371.67[1] [Resort Video, Ltd. v. Laser Video, Inc. (1995) 35 Cal. App. 4th 1679, 1692] .

The purpose of the specification of reasons is to promote careful deliberation by the trial court and afford the parties the right of meaningful appellate review [Mercer v. Perez (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 104, 113, 115, 436 P.2d 315 ; Resort Video, Ltd. v. Laser Video, Inc. (1995) 35 Cal. App. 4th 1679, 1695] . The reasons must be in writing. An oral recital by the court during the hearing is insufficient [La Manna v. Stewart (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 413, 423, 118 Cal. Rptr. 761, 530 P.2d 1073] . A reference in a written order to a transcription of an oral statement of reasons made at a prior hearing is also insufficient [Steinhart v. South Coast Area Transit (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 770, 773-774, 228 Cal. Rptr. 283] . The specifications will be sufficient if the judge who grants a new trial furnishes a concise but clear statement of the reasons why he or she finds one or more of the grounds of the motion to be applicable to the case before him or her. No hard and fast rule can be laid down as to the content of such a specification, and it will necessarily vary according to the facts and circumstances of each case [Mercer v. Perez (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 104, 113, 115, 436 P.2d 315 ; Resort Video, Ltd. v. Laser Video, Inc. (1995) 35 Cal. App. 4th 1679, 1695] . While the judge need not cite page and line, nor discuss testimony of particular witnesses, nor the weight to be given each item of testimony, he or she must do more than state the reasons in terms of conclusions, issues, or ultimate facts [Scala v. Jerry Witt & Sons, Inc. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 359, 370, 90 Cal. Rptr. 592, 475 P.2d 864] .

When the order is granted on the ground of excessive damages, the judge must specify some aspect of the record which would have misled or prejudiced the jury and which convinces the judge that the jury clearly should have reached a different decision [Bigboy v. County of San Diego (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 397, 406, 201 Cal. Rptr. 226] . On the other hand, Code Civ. Proc. § 657 does not require that the court state the reasons why it considers any portion of the jury's award to be supported by the evidence [Martinides v. Mayer (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 1185, 1197, 256 Cal. Rptr. 679] .

A trial court's specification of reasons may cross refer to findings located in a different part of the order. The trial court need not unnecessarily burden a new trial order by reiterating what it has already said at length with respect to another issue before it, so long as it makes clear to a reviewing court the basis for its decision [Lane v. Hughes Aircraft Co. (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 405, 413, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 60, 993 P.2d 388] .

Similarly, while Code Civ. Proc. § 657 provides that a trial court may not direct counsel to prepare a new trial order or specification of reasons, this does not also bar a trial court from adopting material in a party's trial brief or memorandum. If a trial court could not rely on reasons advanced in such briefs, their utility would be undermined and they would serve little purpose. The critical factor is the reasoning process, not whose language is being employed [Lane v. Hughes Aircraft Co. (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 405, 415, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 60, 993 P.2d 388] .

[4] Counsel Prohibited From Preparation of Grounds and Reasons

The court cannot direct the attorney for a party to prepare an order granting new trial or the specification of reasons [Code Civ. Proc. § 657]. The trial court is alsoprecluded from adopting a specification of reasons voluntarily drafted by counsel for the moving party [Tramell v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 157, 168-170, 209 Cal. Rptr. 427 ; Oberstein v. Bisset (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d184, 189, 127 Cal. Rptr. 413] . Counsel may, however, assist the court by calling any deficiency to its attention within the 10-day period for filing the specification of reasons so that the court may correct the order [Mercer v. Perez (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 104, 123 n.8, 65 Cal. Rptr. 315, 436 P.2d 315] . The Mercer and Oberstein cases do not, however, require the court to eliminate from its order all language that appeared in a brief by counsel; all that is required is that the mental processes employed in the specification of reasons be those of the court rather than those of counsel [Eltolad Music, Inc. v. April Music, Inc. (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 697, 706-708, 188 Cal. Rptr. 858] .

[5] Nunc Pro Tunc Correction of Order

If the court did not state the ground or grounds for granting the motion in the order, as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 657, the court cannot correct its order by filing a statement of the ground or grounds after the expiration of the 60-day period provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 660 [Sanchez-Corea v. Bank of America (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 892, 903-904, 215 Cal. Rptr. 679, 701 P.2d 826] .

The court cannot correct its order or specification of reasons nunc pro tunc after the expiration of the 10-day period for filing a separate specification of reasons. If the court does so, it is acting in excess of its jurisdiction [Mercer v. Perez (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 104, 121, 65 Cal. Rptr. 315, 436 P.2d 315] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Motion for New Trial

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.74

§ 371.74 Review

[1] In General

An appeal will lie from an order granting a new trial; an order denying a new trial is reviewable on appeal from the judgment [Code Civ. Proc.§§ 904.1(a)(4), 904.2(e); see also § 371.71]. If a party moves for a new trial on all issues and is granted one only on certain issues, that party has a right of appeal from the order [Cobb v. University of So. California (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 798, 802, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 543 ; Ferraro v. Pacific Fin. Corp. (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 339, 355, 87 Cal. Rptr. 226] . However, an order under Code Civ. Proc. § 662 vacating a judgment and reopening the case for further proceedings is not appealable [Concerned Citizens Coalition of Stockton v. City of Stockton (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 70, 77-84, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 735] .

When a motion is denied by operation of law, it may be reviewed on appeal as if it were expressly denied by the court [In re Marriage of Liu (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 143, 152-153, 242 Cal. Rptr. 649 (reviewing court may consider merits of motion even when appellant was at fault for failing to ensure that court heard motion within statutory time period or when motion is based on affidavits that trial court did not pass on)].

Cal. Const., art. VI, § 13, requires that before granting a new trial on grounds of misdirection of the jury, improper admission or rejection of evidence, errors as to any matter of pleading, or any error as to procedure, the court must examine the entire cause, including the evidence. On appeal from an order granting a new trial, the reviewing court will presume that the trial court considered the whole record [Maher v. Saad (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 1317, 1324, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 213] .

[2] Scope of Review

The order granting a new trial will be affirmed if it should have been granted on any ground stated in the motion, even if that ground was not specified in the order or specification of reasons [see Tortorella v. Castro (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1, 9-10, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 853 (trial court's rationale for granting new trial motion did not bind appellate court, and, under Code Civ. Proc § 657, order granting new trial would be upheld if it should have been granted on any ground raised in motion)], except that (1) the order will not be affirmed on the ground of insufficiency of the evidence to justify the verdict or other decision, or the ground of excessive or inadequate damages, unless that ground is stated in the order granting the motion; and (2) on appeal from an order granting a new trial on the ground of insufficiency of the evidence or excessive or inadequate damages, it is conclusively presumed that the order was made only for the reasons specified in it or in the specification of reasons, and the order will be reversed if there is no substantial basis in the record for any of these reasons [Code Civ. Proc. § 657; Jordy v. County of Humboldt (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 735, 741, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 553] .

[3] Standard of Review

As a general matter, orders granting a new trial are reviewed for abuse of discretion; however, any determination underlying any order is scrutinized under the test appropriate to that determination [Aguilar v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 826, 859, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 841, 24 P.3d 493 (order granting summary judgment on pure question of law, leading to order granting new trial, is entitled to independent review)]. However, the trial court's failure to set out the required specification of reasons for granting a new trial based on jury misconduct willresult in independent review, under which the reviewing court gives no deference to the trial court's ruling. The reviewing court should not defer to the trial court's resolution of conflicts in the evidence, or draw all inferences favorably to the trial court's decision, because in the absence of a statement of reasons, the record does not show whether the trial court resolved those conflicts or drew those inferences [Oakland Raiders v. National Football League (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 624, 635-640, 61 Cal. Rptr. 3d 634 , 161 P.3d 151] .

The determination of a motion for a new trial rests so completely witin the court's discretion that its action will not be disturbed unless a manifest and unmistakable abuse of discretion clearly appears. This is particularly true when the discretion is exercised in favor of awarding a new trial, for this action does not finally dispose of the matter [Jiminez v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 379, 387, 93 Cal. Rptr. 769, 482 P.2d 681] . This "highly deferential" standard applies because the trial court, in ruling on a motion for new trial, sits as an independent trier of fact, and its factual determinations, as reflected in its order granting a new trial, are entitled to the same deference that an appellate court would ordinarily accord a jury's factual determinations. Because the trial court is in the best position to assess the reliability of a jury's verdict, the Legislature has granted them broad discretion to order new trials, the only relevant limitations on which are the requirement that trial courts state their reasons for granting a new trial, and the requirement that there must be some evidence in the record to support those reasons [Lane v. Hughes Aircraft Co. (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 405, 412, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 60, 993 P.2d 388] .

Thus, an order granting a new trial under Code Civ. Proc. § 657 on the ground of insufficient evidence or excessive damages must be sustained on appeal unless the opposing party demonstrates that no reasonable finder of fact could have found for the movant on the trial court's theory, and an abuse of discretion cannot be found in cases in which the evidence is in conflict and a verdict for the moving party could have been reached. In other words, when reviewing such an order granting a new trial, the presumption of correctness normally accorded on appeal to the jury's verdict is replaced by a presumption in favor of the new trial order [Lane v. Hughes Aircraft Co. (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 405, 412, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 60, 993 P.2d 388 (citing Neal v. Farmers Ins. Exchange (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 910, 932, 148 Cal. Rptr. 389, 582 P.2d 980 and Jones v. Citrus Motors Ontario, Inc. (1973) 8 Cal. 3d 706, 710, 711, 106 Cal. Rptr. 28, 505 P.2d 220); Romo v. Ford Motor Co. (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 1115, 1125, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 139 ; see also Jiminez v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 379, 387, 93 Cal. Rptr. 769, 482 P.2d 681 (as long as a reasonable or even fairly debatable justification under the law is shown for order granting new trial, it may not be set aside); Martin v. U-Haul Co. of Fresno (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 396, 406, 251 Cal. Rptr. 17 (with respect to order granting new trial on ground of excessive damages, whether or not conditioned on a reduction, the presumption of correctness normally accorded to jury verdict is replaced by presumption in favor of order granting new trial)].

However, when the trial court grants a new trial based on a finding of juror misconduct, the reviewing court's deference to the trial court's order is more limited. The reviewing court accepts the trial court's credibility determinations and findings on questions of historical fact if supported by substantial evidence [Donovan v. Poway Unified School District (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 567, 623-624, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 285], but whether prejudice arose from the juror misconduct is a mixed question of law and fact subject to the reviewing court's independent determination [Romo v. Ford Motor Co. (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 1115, 1125, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 139 ; see also In re Hamilton (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 273, 296, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 403, 975 P.2d 600 (in case of juror misconduct occurring outside presence of trial court, reviewing court must independently apply objective standard to determine whether misconduct was prejudicial)].

When the court is reviewing whether or not the granting of a new trial was supported by the ground that the verdict was "against the law," however, the appellate court's task is not to defer to the trial court's balancing of the relative weight of the evidence but to affirm the order only if the verdict was unsupported by any substantial evidence and was such as would justify a directed verdict against the party in whose favor the verdict is returned [Berge v. International Harvester Co. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 152, 160, 190 Cal. Rptr. 815] .

For detailed discussion of appellate standards of review generally, see Ch. 41, Appeal: Review Standards and Appellate Rules of Law .

[4] Effect of Reversal

The original judgment will be reinstated when the order granting a new trial is reversed on appeal [La Manna v. Stewart (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 413, 425, 118 Cal. Rptr. 761, 530 P.2d 1073] . If the party who moved for new trial failed to make a protective cross appeal from the judgment, the judgment automatically becomes final on reinstatement [Miller v. Los Angeles County Flood Control Dist. (1973) 8 Cal. 3d 689, 699, 106 Cal. Rptr. 1, 505 P.2d 193] .

- Incorrect or erroneous legal basis for the decision, not consistent with or not supported by the facts, and in such a case when the judgment is set aside, the statement of decision must be amended and corrected; or

- A judgment or decree not consistent with or not supported by the special verdict [Code Civ. Proc. § 663].

§ 371.92 Statement of Decision Versus Findings of Fact

Before January 1, 1982, Code Civ. Proc. § 663 stated that grounds for granting a motion to vacate the judgment and to enter another and different judgment were incorrect or erroneous conclusions of law, not consistent with or supported by the findings of fact, and that in cases where the judgment is set aside, the conclusions of law must be amended and corrected.

Under Stats. 1981, ch. 900, operative January 1, 1982, the Legislature amended Code Civ. Proc. § 663 to conform to its amendment of Code Civ. Proc. § 632, which blended the former conclusions of law and findings of fact into the newly entitled statement of decision explaining the factual and legal bases for the decision. Thus, Code Civ. Proc. § 663 states that grounds for granting the motion are incorrect or erroneous legal bases for the decision that are not consistent with or supported by the facts, and in cases where the judgment is set aside, the statement of decision must be amended and corrected.

Since the 1981 amendment appears to have been made only to conform Code Civ. Proc. § 663 to Code Civ. Proc. § 632, in which the Legislature more exhaustively altered the former findings of fact and conclusions of law, it appears that the change of terminology in Code Civ. Proc. § 663 only minimally affects the import of the statute. Therefore, case law that deals primarily with the old terms, "findings of fact" and "conclusions of law," can probably be used to interpret the amended version of Code Civ. Proc. § 663 in the absence of cases under the new law. The situations that will arise under the amended statute will probably be reasonably analogous to those situations that occurred under the prior version of the statute.

§ 371.93 When Motion Proper

[1] Nonjury Trials

A motion to set aside and vacate a judgment and enter another and different judgment may be made whenever a court draws an incorrect legal conclusion or renders as erroneous judgment of the facts found by it to exist [see Code Civ. Proc. § 663; see also County of Alameda v. Carleson (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 730, 738, 97 Cal. Rptr. 385, 488 P.2d 953] . Thus, the motion may be granted if the court comes to a legal conclusion that is contrary to an express statutory provision [Gibson v. Hammang (1904) 145 Cal. 454, 456, 78 P. 953] , if the court's legal conclusions are inconsistent with uncontroverted facts showing the intention of the parties [Swanson v. Wheeler (1952) 112 Cal. App. 2d 43, 44-45, 245 P.2d 699] , and if the court wrongly maintains that an element is part of a settled doctrine when, in fact, it is not [Crook v. Leinenweaver (1950) 100 Cal. App. 2d 790, 792-794, 224 P.2d 891 ; see Payne v. Rader (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 1569, 1574-1575, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 174 (motion to vacate judgment does not lie to vacate judgment following erroneous ruling on demurrer)]. However, the motion will only be granted if the substantial rights of a party are materially affected [Code Civ. Proc. § 663].

[2] Jury Trials

The court may correct its judgment when that judgment is not consistent with or supported by the special verdict [see Code Civ. Proc. § 663; see San Francisco v. Superior Court (1928) 94 Cal. App. 318, 322, 271 P. 121] . A special verdict is one in which the jury finds the facts only, leaving the judgment to the court, whereas a general verdict is one in which the jury pronounces generally on all or any of the issues, either in favor of the plaintiff or defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 624]. If the jury's findings on particular questions of fact are inconsistent with its general verdict, a motion to set aside and vacate under Code Civ. Proc. § 663 will not be applicable. This is because Code Civ. Proc. § 625 provides that the jury's inconsistent findings control the general verdict, and the court must give judgment accordingly [see Code Civ. Proc. § 625].

§ 371.94 Alternative Relief in Lieu of New Trial Contrasted

Code Civ. Proc. § 662 now provides that the court may grant certain alternative relief in lieu of granting a new trial. The court may change or add to the statement of decision and grant a partial new trial or vacate and set aside the statement of decision and judgment and reopen the case for further proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 662; see also § 371.60 et seq.]. Formerly, the statute read "findings" in place of the term "statement of decision" [see Stats. 1929, ch. 843].

A closely related statute, Code Civ. Proc. § 663, now provides that the court may set aside, vacate, and enter another and different judgment if incorrect or erronous legal bases for the decision are not consistent with or supported by the facts [Code Civ. Proc. § 663(1)]. Formerly, this statute provided that conclusions of law that were incorrect or erroneous and were not consistent with or supported by the findings of fact could be amended and corrected [see Stats. 1933, ch. 744].

The statutes were designed to apply to different situations. If counsel desired a correction of erroneous legal conclusions, he or she could proceed under Code Civ. Proc. § 663(1) [Gardner v. Rich Mfg. Co. (1945) 68 Cal. App. 2d 725, 739-740, 158 P.2d 23] . If counsel desired a reexamination of both legal and factual matters, he or she could proceed under Code Civ. Proc. § 662.

Even though Code Civ. Proc. §§ 662 and 663(1) have been amended effective January 1, 1982, it appears that the major distinctions between the two statutes still remain. Thus, in granting alternative relief in lieu of a new trial under Code Civ. Proc. § 662, the court may reweigh the evidence and reexamine the legal and factual bases for its decision [see Warren Southwest, Inc. v. Wicks (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 152, 155, 80 Cal. Rptr. 723] . However, under Code Civ. Proc. § 663, the court may only correct erroneous legal bases for its decision; it cannot reexamine the facts [Code Civ. Proc. § 663; see Gardner v. Rich Mfg. Co. (1945) 68 Cal. App. 2d 725, 739-740, 158 P.2d 23] . The motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 663 is to be used when the court has used incorrect legal bases for its decision on the basis of uncontroverted evidence. It appears that it is still not proper to use the motion to challenge the sufficiency of the evidence [see Simac Design, Inc. v. Alciati (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 146, 153, 154 Cal. Rptr. 676] .

§ 371.95 Judicial Error Compared to Clerical Error

The trial court may correct its own inadvertence or clerical error on motion of the injured party, or on its own motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 473 so that the judgmentor order as entered will conform to the judgment or order directed [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(d); In re Candelario (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 702, 705, 91 Cal. Rptr. 497, 477 P.2d 729 ; see Ch. 489, Relief From Judgments and Orders]. However, it may correct judicial error only on a motion for new trial or on a motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 663 to vacate the order or judgment and enter a different one [Greene v. Superior Court (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 403, 405-406, 10 Cal. Rptr. 817, 359 P.2d 249] . The difference between a clerical error and a judicial error is whether the error was made in rendering the judgment or in recording the judgment rendered [People v. Anderson (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 831, 839, 131 Cal. Rptr. 104] .

§ 371.96 Procedure

[1] Contents of Notice

The procedure is initiated by a notice of intention to move for an order setting aside and vacating a judgment or decree. The notice must designate the grounds on which the motion will be made and specify the particulars showing that the legal basis for the decision is not consistent with or supported by the facts or the ways in which the judgment or decree is not consistent with the special verdict [Code Civ. Proc. § 663a].

Although under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100, 3.1103, a memorandum is not specifically required to be submitted in support of the motion, it is better practice to submit a memorandum as is generally required in law and motion proceedings [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a)]. For general discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[2] Time for Serving and Filing

The motion to vacate a judgment and enter another and different judgment is proper only after final judgments and not after interlocutory judgments or orders [Remington v. Davis (1951) 108 Cal. App. 2d 251, 253, 238 P.2d 662] . The party intending to make the motion must file with the clerk and serve on the adverse party a notice of his or her intention either (1) before entry of judgment; or (2) within the earliest of the following times: (a) within 15 days after the clerk mails notice of entry of judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5; (b) within 15 days of service of written notice of entry of judgment by any party; or (c) within 180 days after judgment is entered [Code Civ. Proc. § 663a].

The provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1013, which extends time for exercising a right or doing an act when service is by mail, do not lengthen the time for service under Code Civ. Proc. § 663a [Code Civ. Proc. § 663a]. This time period is also not extended if the moving party's attorney is a legislator [Code Civ. Proc. § 1054.1].

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.97

§ 371.97 Hearing

[1] Time of Hearing

The date of the hearing is generally set forth in the notice. Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) requires that a notice of motion be given at least 16 court days before the time appointed for hearing plus additional time for service by mail, unless the court prescribes a shorter time [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)].

Neither a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict [Code Civ. Proc. § 629] nor a motion for new trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 657] is required to be heard at the same time as a motion to vacate judgment and to enter a different judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 663, 663a]. This is true even though a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict must be heard at the same time as a motion for new trial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 629]. In practice, however, a motion to vacate a judgment and enter a different judgment is often made concurrently with these other motions. Therefore, the motion to vacate a judgment and enter a different judgment is often heard at the same time as a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict and a motion for new trial.

[2] Proper Judge

The judge who presided at trial must hear the motion to vacate a judgment and enter another and different judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 663 unless that judge is dead, unable to hear the motion, or absent from the county on the date set for hearing. In that case, the motion may be heard and determined by another judge of the same court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1602]. Furthermore, if the parties agree, the motion may be heard anywhere in the state by the judge who presided at trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 166(a)(2); Gov. Code § 69741.1].

[3] Discretion of Court

On hearing the motion, the court has no power to consider or determine any matter except what judgment should be entered on the facts as found [Dolan v. Superior Court (1920) 47 Cal. App. 235, 241, 190 P. 469] . The court cannot reopen the case and receive further evidence or reexamine the evidence before it [see Gossman v. Gossman (1942) 52 Cal. App. 2d 184, 196, 126 P.2d 178 ; see also § 371.94].

§ 371.98 Form of Order

Since Code Civ. Proc. § 663 specifically provides for the vacation of the judgment and the entry of another judgment, if the court grants the motion, but fails to enter a new judgment, the order granting the motion will be void [Dolan v. Superior Court (1920) 47 Cal. App. 235, 241, 190 P. 469] . However, it appears that it will be of no consequence if the court fails to correct the legal basis for the decision, and enters only a different judgment. The judgment will supersede the erroneous legal basis embraced in the statement of decision [see Howard A. Deason & Co. v. Costa Tierra Ltd. (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 742, 760, 83 Cal. Rptr. 105] .

§ 371.99 Review

An order granting the motion may be reviewed on appeal in the same manner as a special order made after a final judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 663a; Reeves v. Hutson (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 445, 450, 301 P.2d 264] . In reviewing the grant of the motion, the presumption is in favor of the court's action [Moklofsky v. Moklofsky (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 259, 264, 179 P.2d 628] .

Generally, an order denying a motion to vacate a judgment is nonappealable. The rationale for this rule is that, if the underlying judgment or order is appealable, two appeals from the same judgment should not be permitted. If the underlying judgment or order is nonappealable, allowing an appeal from the denial of a motion to vacatejudgment would in practical effect make the nonappealable judgment or order appealable [Howard v. Lufkin (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 297, 300-301, 253 Cal. Rptr. 422 ; see Payne v. Rader (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 1569, 1574-1575, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 174 (motion to vacate judgment does not lie to vacate judgment following erroneous ruling on demurrer)]. Nevertheless, under a long line of cases, courts have created an exception to this rule on nonappealability for motions to vacate a judgment pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 663, termed a "statutory motion" [see Socol v. King (1949) 34 Cal. 2d 292, 296-297, 209 P.2d 577 ; Howard v. Lufkin (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 297, 301, 253 Cal. Rptr. 422 (citing additional following opinions)].

In 1978, however, without discussion or explanation, the Supreme Court contradicted this long-standing, judicially created rule of civil procedure and stated that orders denying a motion to set aside and vacate a judgment and enter a new and different judgment are nonappealable [Clemmer v. Hartford Ins. Co. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 865, 890, 151 Cal. Rptr. 285]. The court of appeal in Howard characterized the Clemmer pronouncement as dicta, and held that the denial of a statutory motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 663 is an appealable order [Howard v. Lufkin (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 297, 302-303, 253 Cal. Rptr. 422 (citing opinions critical of Clemmer)].

Whatever the rule is concerning the appealability of a denial of a Code Civ. Proc. § 663 motion, the court of appeal has held that when a postjudgment order resolves constitutional issues concerning the judgment involved, it is appealable [County of Los Angeles v. Thompson (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 18, 20, 218 Cal. Rptr. 101 (vacation of stipulated paternity judgment order)].

§ 371.123 Decisions

[1] Appeal

[a] Effect on Trial Court's Power to Grant Motion

Motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict, like motion for new trial, is collateral matter and does not divest trial court of jurisdiction to grant judgment notwithstanding verdict after notice of appeal has been filed. Foggy v. Ralph F. Clark & Associates, Inc. (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1204, 1210-1213, 238 Cal. Rptr. 130 (declining to follow contrary holding in Weisenburg v. Molina (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 478, 486, 129 Cal. Rptr. 813)

[b] Standard of Review

On appeal from judgment for defendant notwithstanding verdict, appellate court will ordinarily use same standard trial court uses to rule on motion, i.e., will determine whether record, viewed most favorably to party securing verdict contains substantial evidence supporting verdict. However, where issues deal solely with application of statute to facts supporting verdict, which is question of law, appellate court will review de novo. Gunnell v. Metrocolor Laboratories, Inc. (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 710, 718-719, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 195

[2] Bifurcated Trials

In bifurcated trial pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 598, if verdict in liability phase is for defendant, plaintiff then properly moves for judgment notwithstanding the verdict; if liability verdict for plaintiff, defendant required to wait until conclusion of damages phase of trial to make motion. Meyser v. American Bldg. Maintenance, Inc. (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 933, 936-937, 149 Cal. Rptr. 808

[3] Court's Own Motion

Trial judge on own motion may grant judgment notwithstanding verdict if verdict, as to liability, is not supported by substantial evidence, but may not grant judgment on own motion on ground that damages were excessive or inadequate. Schroeder v. Auto Driveaway Co. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 908, 919, 114 Cal. Rptr. 622, 523 P.2d 662

Court may grant judgment notwithstanding verdict on own motion if it gives 5 days notice to parties, and acts on motion after time for serving and filing a motion for new trial has expired and before time for ruling on motion for new trial expires. Sturgeon v. Leavitt (1979) 94 Cal. App. 3d 957, 963-964, 156 Cal. Rptr. 687

[4] Damages

Court errs when it declares liability notwithstanding verdict and grants new trial as to damages. Moore v. City & County of San Francisco (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 728, 734, 85 Cal. Rptr. 281 ; Jach v. Edson (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 96, 101, 62 Cal. Rptr. 925 ; but see Gordon v. Strawther Enterprises, Inc. (1969) 273 Cal. App. 2d 504, 517-518, 78 Cal. Rptr. 417 , contra

When court sets aside judgment for defendants notwithstanding verdict and proceeds to assess damages, court deprives defendants of constitutional right to jury trial on that question. Spillman v. City etc. of San Francisco (1967) 252 Cal. App. 2d 782, 787, 60 Cal. Rptr. 809

In action for personal injuries sustained by plaintiff in rear end automobile collision, when considerable conflict regarding amount of damages sustained by plaintiff since her credibility was impeached, trial court abused its discretion in granting judgment notwithstanding verdict for plaintiff and fixing amount of damages at $10,000. Spillman v. City etc. of San Francisco (1967) 252 Cal. App. 2d 782, 786-787, 60 Cal. Rptr. 809

[5] Denial of Motion

Court properly denies motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict when several reasonable inferences supporting verdict are deducible from the evidence. Clemmer v. Hartford Insurance Co. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 865, 877-878, 151 Cal. Rptr. 285, 587 P.2d 1098

Judgment notwithstanding verdict properly denied when evidence is conflicting or several reasonable inferences supporting verdict may be drawn. Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 110, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377

In legal malpractice action based on attorneys' negligently negotiating and drafting agreements for sale of plaintiffs' ownership interest in company they had founded and termination of their employment with company, trial court erred in denying attorneys' motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict, where as to attorney's malpractice regarding scope of nonsolicitation, noncompetition and indemnity clauses and absence of provisions for attorney fees and for retention of their rights to stock dividends, plaintiffs presented no evidence at all, substantial or otherwise, indicating that but for attorney's negligence, it was more likely than not they would have obtained more favorable result in their negotiations. Viner v. Sweet (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 1218, 1226-1233, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 533

In products liability action, trial court properly denied defendant's motion for JNOV regarding compensatory and punitive damages, where evidence was sufficient to prove defendant acted with malice in designing and manufacturing 1978 Bronco that rolled over and killed plaintiffs' decedents and injured plaintiffs or in failing to warn consumers about absence of rollover protection. Romo v. Ford Motor Co. (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 1115, 1137-1147, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 139

Party is entitled to judgment notwithstanding verdict only if there is no substantial evidence to support verdict and evidence compels judgment for moving party as matter of law; trial court must view evidence in light most favorable to verdict, disregard conflicting evidence, and indulge in every legitimate inference to support verdict; appellate court will determine de novo whether there is substantial evidence to support verdict and whether moving party is entitled to judgment in its favor as matter of law. Paykar v. Construction, Inc. v. Spilat Construction Corp. (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 488, 493-494, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 863

Defendant's motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict properly denied when even though most of evidence was circumstantial, substantial evidence existed from which jury could reasonably find corporate malice when defendant's management allegedly proceeded to manufacture automobile with knowledge of test results revealing design defects in Ford Pinto. Grimshaw v. Ford Motor Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 757, 812-813, 174 Cal. Rptr. 348

In action by decedent's widow to determine if decedent had coverage under group life insurance policy at time of death, plaintiff's motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict properly denied when substantial conflict in evidence existed regarding whether decedent had returned to work after effective date of policy. Robinson v. North American Life & Cas. Co. (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 111, 118, 30 Cal. Rptr. 57

[6] Effect of Motion for Directed Verdict

Judge may consider motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict even though motion for directed verdict not previously made. Rollenhagen v. City of Orange (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 414, 417, 172 Cal. Rptr. 49 , disapproved on other grounds in Brown v. Kelly Broadcasting Co. (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 711, 738, 257 Cal. Rptr. 708, 771 P.2d 406

Prior denial of motion for directed verdict does not prevent subsequent granting of motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict. Teich v. General Mills, Inc. (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 791, 794, 339 P.2d 627

[7] Extent of Trial Court's Discretion

When post-trial motions attacking judgment have been made, trial court is not limited to order granting or denying relief requested in moving party's papers. Shapoff v. Scull (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1457, 1473, 272 Cal. Rptr. 480 (dictum; court amended judgment to delete finding on motion for new trial and judgment notwithstanding verdict), disapproved on other grounds in Applied Equip. Corp. v. Litton Saudi Arabia (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 503, 521 n.10, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 475, 869 P.2d 454

Court not required to disregard internally inconsistent testimony of witness or to make finding that testimony insufficient to support verdict, but must consider inconsistencies, resolve them if possible, and determine what weight to give testimony. Clemmer v. Hartford Insurance Co. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 865, 878, 151 Cal. Rptr. 285, 587 P.2d 1098

Trial judge does not weigh evidence or judge credibility of witnesses. Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 110, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377

Trial judge's power to grant judgment notwithstanding verdict is identical to power to grant directed verdict. Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 110, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377

Trial court may grant judgment notwithstanding verdict only if verdict is not supported by substantial evidence; trial court may not weigh evidence, draw inferences contrary to verdict, or assess credibility of witnesses. Begnal v. Canfield & Associates, Inc. (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 66, 72, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611

Trial judge does not weigh evidence or judge credibility of witnesses, but must accept evidence tending to support verdict as true, unless on its face it is inherently incredible. Hale v. Farmers Ins. Exch. (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 681,

690, 117 Cal. Rptr. 146 , disapproved on other grounds in Egan v. Mutual of Omaha Ins. Co. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 809, 822 n.5, 169 Cal. Rptr. 691, 620 P.2d 141

If trial court admitted improper evidence at trial, court may not ignore that evidence and grant motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict on ground that party offering evidence did not prove his or her case by legally competent evidence. Donahue v. Ziv Television Programs, Inc. (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 593, 609-610, 54 Cal. Rptr. 130

In relation to motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict, court considers incompetent evidence, if relevant and not objected to, as it would consider any other relevant testimony. Estate of Lekos (1952) 109 Cal. App. 2d 42, 53 240 P.2d 387

[8] Grant of Motion

Motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict may be granted only if it appears from evidence, viewed in light most favorable to party securing verdict, that there is no substantial evidence in support. Sweatman v. Department ofVeterans Affairs, (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 62, 68, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 602, 18 P.3d 29

Judgment notwithstanding verdict properly granted only if it appears from evidence, viewed in light of party securing verdict, that there is no substantial evidence to support verdict. Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 110, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377 ; Begnal v. Canfield & Associates, Inc. (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 66, 72, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611 ; Castro v. State of California (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 503, 512, 170 Cal. Rptr. 734

Defendant's motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict granted only when, disregarding conflicting evidence on behalf of defendants and giving plaintiff's evidence all the value to which it is legally entitled, and indulging in every legitimate inference which may be drawn from that evidence, no evidence of sufficient substantiality supports verdict in plaintiff's favor. Reynolds v. Willson (1958) 51 Cal. 2d 94, 99, 331 P.2d 48 ; Musgrove v. Ambrose Properties (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 44, 51, 150 Cal. Rptr. 722

Motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict properly granted only if it appears from evidence, viewed in light most favorable to party securing verdict, that there is no substantial evidence to support verdict; if there is any substantial evidence, or reasonable inferences to be drawn therefrom, in support of verdict, motion is to be denied. Foggy v. Ralph F. Clark & Associates, Inc. (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1204, 1213, 238 Cal. Rptr. 130

To be substantial, evidence must be of ponderable legal significance; term "substantial evidence" is not synonymous with "any evidence"; to be substantial, evidence must be reasonable in nature, credible, and of solid value; hence, trial court, in ruling on motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict, may disregard evidence in support of verdict that is inherently incredible. Foggy v. Ralph F. Clark & Associates, Inc. (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1204, 1214-1215, 238 Cal. Rptr. 130

In action in which auto mechanic brought defamation action against broadcasting company and former customer who gave television interview, court affirmed judgment for defendants notwithstanding verdict, stating that absent evidence of malice, the privilege of fair comment governed and defendants were entitled to judgment as matter of law. Rollenhagen v. City of Orange (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 414, 428-429, 172 Cal. Rptr. 49 , disapproved on other grounds in Brown v. Kelly Broadcasting Co. (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 711, 738, 257 Cal. Rptr. 708, 771 P.2d 406

In legal malpractice action, where evidence existed from which defendant's negligence in representing plaintiffs could be inferred but record devoid of evidence that showed defendant's negligence proximately caused injury to plaintiffs, judgment notwithstanding the verdict for plaintiffs proper and trial court's denial of motion reversed. Sprigg v. Garcin (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 869, 873, 164 Cal. Rptr. 677

Motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict properly granted despite prior denial or motion for nonsuit. Walters v. Marler (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 1, 34, 147 Cal. Rptr. 655

Because seller of land indicated to purchaser that Bureau of Reclamation approval for purchase price would be easily obtained, court affirmed judgment for defendant notwithstanding verdict since defendant, as matter of law, made no misrepresentation of fact, only a nonactionable expression of opinion. Borba v. Thomas (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 144, 155, 138 Cal. Rptr. 565

In action in which addressee of telegram sued telegraph company for negligent nondelivery of telegram, defendant's motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict properly granted on issue of punitive damages where record failed to show substantial evidence that company employee acted with malice or oppression in not providing information to correct or show mistake at earlier date. Trammell v. Western Union Tel. Co. (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 538, 556-558, 129 Cal. Rptr. 361

Court grants plaintiff's motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict if evidence, as matter of law, dictates a determination of all issues of case in his or her favor. Jach v. Edson (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 96, 99, 62 Cal. Rptr. 925

Primary requirement for judgment notwithstanding verdict is lack of substantial conflict in evidence. Robinson v. North American Life & Cas. Co. (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 111, 118, 30 Cal. Rptr. 57

In action in which former bank employee sued bank for libel and slander, judgment for defendant bank notwithstanding verdict proper because reasonable minds could draw but one inference and that inference pointed to the truth of the statements made by bank. Washer v. Bank of America (1948) 87 Cal. App. 2d 501, 507, 197 P.2d 202

In action in which plaintiff sought to recover damages from apartment building manager for injuries suffered when she slipped on lobby floor, judgment for defendants notwithstanding verdict proper because plaintiff failed to prove causal connection between alleged negligence and resulting injury. McKellar v. Pendergast (1945) 68 Cal. App. 2d 485, 156 P.2d 950

[9] Improper Grant of Motion

In action for personal injuries, when substantial evidence justified imposition of liability of defendants, court of appeal properly reversed lower court's granting of defendants' motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict. Hergenrether v. East (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 440, 445, 39 Cal. Rptr. 4, 393 P.2d 164

In action for medical malpractice, granting of defendants' motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict improper because trial court not permitted to weigh evidence and evidence was sufficient to go to jury on issue of negligence. Quintal v. Laurel Grove Hospital (1964) 62 Cal. 2d 154, 159-163, 41 Cal. Rptr. 577, 397 P.2d 161

Granting of defendant's motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict improper where inference drawn by jury that defendant was negligent was supported by evidence. Gray v. Southern Pacific Co. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 632, 646, 145 P.2d 561

In age discrimination action under Fair Employment and Housing Act [Gov. Code § 12900 et seq.], trial court erred in granting judgment notwithstanding verdict, where evidence that former employee was replaced by older person within protected class did not preclude any inference that employee was terminated based on age and that evidence, while it weighed against inference that employee was terminated based on age, did not conclusively establish absence of age discrimination or preclude jury from drawing otherinferences; and where employee presented evidence that charges on which termination was alleged based were false and resolution of conflict depended entirely on whether jury chose to credit former employee or current employee, and former employee offered circumstantial evidence that decision was based on age that constituted substantial evidence. Begnal v. Canfield & Associates, Inc. (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 66, 73-78, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611

Motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict was improperly granted in legal malpractice action when evidence of malpractice was insufficient as matter of law. Sukoff v. Lemkin (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 740, 743, 249 Cal. Rptr. 42

Motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict was improperly granted when court's stated reasons for granting motion were legally insufficient; court's motion as requiring reversal when it did not apply test of Gov. Code § 830.2 in reaching its conclusion in action under Tort Claims Act alleging dangerous condition of public property. Alexander v. State of California (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 890, 898-902, 205 Cal. Rptr. 758

Grant of motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict was erroneous when, viewing evidence most favorable to verdict, it could not be reasonably concluded as matter of law that there was no substantial evidence to support verdict. Arthur v. Avon Inflatables Ltd. (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 401, 405-408, 203 Cal. Rptr. 1

If different conclusions can be rationally drawn from evidence presented, then case presents question for jury and judgment notwithstanding verdict is improperly granted. Meyser v. American Bldg. Maintenance, Inc. (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 933, 940, 149 Cal. Rptr. 808

Motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict improperly granted where plaintiff's expert witness, a fire chief, testified on cause of fire, and although testimony was internally inconsistent and inherently weak, credibility of witness presented question for jury to resolve. Meyser v. American Bldg. Maintenance, Inc. (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 933, 938-941, 149 Cal. Rptr. 808

In action by plaintiff for damages for breach of escrow agreement, court's granting of defendant's motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict improper since evidence in conflict on points foundational to court's ruling. McCown v. Spencer (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 216, 226, 87 Cal. Rptr. 213

In action to recover value of merchandise allegedly sold by plaintiffs to defendants on open book account, lower court's granting of plaintiff's motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict improper where it was apparent from evidence that jury could have returned various verdicts, all supported by substantial evidence. Hozz v. Felder (1959) 167 Cal. App. 2d 197, 200, 334 P.2d 159

[10] Improper Denial of Motion

Where owner of automobile polishing company sued insurer on claims connected with theft of two automobiles, denial of insurer's motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict improper where no substantial evidence that failure to reimburse plaintiff was breach of contract. Clark v. Bellefonte Ins. Co. (1980) 113 Cal. App. 3d 326, 335, 169 Cal. Rptr. 832

[11] Jury Verdict

Defendant's contention it was entitled to JNOV on unfair competition claim was groundless, where court, not jury, decided unfair competition claim. Herr v. Nestle U.S.A., Inc. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 779, 788, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 477

Motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict denied where jury has rendered verdict that is so contradictory and unintelligible that intent is not ascertainable. Mish v. Brockus (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 770, 776, 218 P.2d 849

[12] Review

[a] Appealable Judgments

Moving party may appeal from judgment or from order denying motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict, or both. Sweatman v. Department of Veterans Affairs (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 62, 68, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 602, 18 P.3d 29

Judgment entered pursuant to court's granting of motion appealable judgment. Quintal v. Laurel Grove Hospital (1964) 62 Cal. 2d 154, 159, 41 Cal. Rptr. 577, 397 P.2d 161

Order granting judgment notwithstanding verdict not final judgment, therefore not appealable order. Jordan v. Talbot (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 597, 602, 12 Cal. Rptr. 488, 361 P.2d 20 .

Although defendant could not have appealed granting of its new trial motion, it could, however, properly appeal denial of its JNOV motion despite grant of new trial motion. Gober v. Ralphs Grocery Co. (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 204, 211, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 92

Judgment notwithstanding verdict sustained when, as matter of law, no other reasonable conclusion is legally deducible from the evidence and any other holding would be so lacking in evidentiary support that the reviewing court would be compelled to reverse it. Enis v. Specialty Auto Sales (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 928, 941, 148 Cal. Rptr. 255

Because defendants were granted judgment notwithstanding verdict, defendants not allowed to take precautionary direct appeal since judgment notwithstanding verdict vacated earlier judgment on verdict for plaintiffs and no appeal lies from vacated judgment. Lippert v. AVCO Community Developers, Inc. (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 775, 777-778, 131 Cal. Rptr. 730

If a judgment notwithstanding the verdict is reversed on appeal, reinstated judgment on verdict is new judgment for purposes of appeal and time for filing notice of appeal commences to run on issuance of remittitur from appellate court. Lippert v. AVCO Community Developers, Inc. (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 775, 779, 131 Cal. Rptr. 730

Appeal lies from order denying motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict. Elisalda v. Welch's Sand and Gravel Co. (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 46, 50, 67 Cal. Rptr. 57

Reversal on judgment notwithstanding verdict restores proceeding to state of record before erroneous judgment entered with appellant having recorded verdict in his or her favor, but with no judgment entered. Ferran v. Mulcrevy (1935) 9 Cal. App. 2d 129, 131, 48 P.2d 984

[b] Standard on Review

Standard of review of order denying motion for JNOV or judgment is whether any substantial evidence, contradicted or uncontradicted, supports jury's conclusion. Sweatman v. Department of Veterans Affairs (2001) 25 Cal. 4th 62, 68, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 602, 18 P.3d 29

When reviewing validity of judgment notwithstanding verdict, appellate court resolves any conflict in evidence and draws all reasonable inferences from it in favor of jury's verdict. Henrioulle v. Marin Ventures, Inc. (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 512, 515, 143 Cal. Rptr. 247, 573 P.2d 465

Appellate court may uphold order granting judgment notwithstanding verdict and affirm judgment based on it, only if, reviewing all evidence in light most favorable to party for whom verdict was rendered, resolving all conflicts, and drawing all inferences in that party's favor, and deferring to implicit credibility determinations of trier of fact, there is no substantial evidence to support verdict in that party's favor. Begnal v. Canfield & Associates, Inc. (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 66, 72, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 611

Scope of appellate review of motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict requires determination of whether any substantial evidence, contradicted or uncontradicted, supports jury's conclusions. Sukoff v. Lemkin (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 740, 743, 249 Cal. Rptr. 42

Judgment notwithstanding the verdict sustained only when it can be said as a matter of law that no other reasonable conclusion is deducible from evidence. Kaiser Cement & Gypsum Corp. v. Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co. (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 948, 962, 111 Cal. Rptr. 210

Appellate court reviews discretion exercised by trial court in light of evidence but not replacing it unless arbitrarily exercised. Gordon v. Strawther Enterprises, Inc. (1969) 273 Cal. App. 2d 504, 511, 78 Cal. Rptr. 417

[13] Time for Ruling on Motion

In employment action resulting in verdict for plaintiff, in which defendants filed no notice of intention to move for new trial, but only filed motion for JNOV, trial court properly court issued its decision on JNOV motion within 60 days from service of notice of entry of judgment and properly denied plaintiff's motion to strike court's order granting partial JNOV as untimely, where filing of JNOV motion is not statutory event under Code Civ. Proc. § 660 triggering time for court's ruling. Pratt v. Vencor (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 905, 907-911, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 741

Defendant's motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict was timely granted where court's signed memorandum of opinion and minute order granting motion were filed with clerk 17 days after notice of entry of judgment was mailed, even though formal judgment not signed and filed until after expiration of 60-day period for court to rule on motion [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 629, 660]. Catania v. Halcyon Steamship Co. (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 348, 350, 118 Cal. Rptr. 513

Requirement of Code Civ. Proc. § 629 that court rule both on motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict and on motion for new trial at same time when both motions are made, as directory and not mandatory and substantial compliance was sufficient, provided both motions made within requisite time period. Espinoza v. Rossini (1966) 247 Cal. App. 2d 40, 45-46, 55 Cal. Rptr. 205

[14] Time for Serving Motion

Prevailing party's attorney's mailing to opposing counsel of photocopy of file-stamped and dated judgment started time limit for serving motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 629, 659, so that service of motion 26 days later was untimely, where service of written notice of entry of judgment and filing of original notice of entry and proof of service complied with section 659, and posttrial motion statutes do not require filing of original notice of entry or file-stamped copy of judgment accompanied by proof of service to start time limits for bringing posttrial motions. Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1277-1278, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067

B. Motion for New Trial

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.143

§ 371.143 Decisions

[1] Affidavits or Declarations

Questioning of jurors by judge in connection with motion for new trial on grounds of juror misconduct was error because Code Civ. Proc. § 658 specifically provides that application for new trial must be based on affidavits; trial court erred in considering untimely filed affidavits in support of motion. Maple v. Cincinnati, Inc. (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 387, 391-392, 209 Cal. Rptr. 451

Evid. Code § 1150 permits juror misconduct to be established by juror affidavit if declaration consists of proof of overt acts, objectively ascertainable. Tramell v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 157, 171-172, 209 Cal. Rptr. 427

Motion for new trial on grounds enumerated in first four subdivisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 657 is required to be presented solely by affidavit. Linhart v. Nelson (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 641, 645, 134 Cal. Rptr. 813, 557 P.2d 104

Evidence presented by affidavit in connection with motion for new trial is required to be given from personal knowledge and cannot contain hearsay. Weathers v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 98, 105, 95 Cal. Rptr. 516, 485 P.2d 1132

Since it is implicit in statement of grounds whether motion for new trial will be made on affidavits or minutes of court, denial of motion on ground that it did not state if it would be made on affidavits or minutes was abuse of discretion. Nichols v. Hast (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 598, 601, 43 Cal. Rptr. 641, 400 P.2d 753

Although motion for new trial required to be supported by affidavit if motion made on certain grounds, if moving party relies wholly on facts appearing on face of record, lack of affidavit is not fatal to motion. Webber v. Webber (1948) 33 Cal. 2d 153, 164, 199 P.2d 934

Extension of time for filing affidavits. Terry v. Lesem (1928) 89 Cal. App. 682, 685-686, 265 P. 523

[2] Alternative Relief Under Code Civ. Proc. § 662

Order that proceedings be reopened as constitutes a ruling on motion for new trial within meaning of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 660 and 662, and order made pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 662, directing that case be reopened, has effect of vacating findings and judgment. Taormino v. Denny (1970) 1 Cal. 3d 679, 683-684, 83 Cal. Rptr. 359, 463 P.2d 711

Order under Code Civ. Proc. § 662 vacating judgment and reopening case for further proceedings is not appealable. Concerned Citizens Coalition of Stockton v. City of Stockton (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 70, 77-84, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 735

Rule that failure of court to act within 60-day limitation deprives it of jurisdiction to take any further action and that any purported action thereafter taken by trial court is void as applicable to court action under Code Civ. Proc. § 662. Tuck v. Tuck (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 260, 263, 53 Cal. Rptr. 872

[3] Conditional Granting or Denial of Motion

Conditional new trial order under Code Civ. Proc. § 662.5, granting or denying new trial subject to plaintiff's acceptance of remittitur, is subject to specification requirement of Code Civ. Proc. § 657, requiring court to specify reasons for granting of new trial. Hasson v. Ford Motor Co (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 388, 420, 185 Cal. Rptr. 654, 650 P.2d 1171 ; Neal v. Farmers Ins. Exchange (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 910, 931, 148 Cal. Rptr. 389, 582 P.2d 980

Where error of excluding relevant evidence at trial goes only to measure of damages and appropriate amount can be ascertained from evidence, remittitur is proper remedy to cure defect and avoid necessity of new trial. Sabella v. Southern Pac. Co. (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 311, 316, 74 Cal. Rptr. 534, 449 P.2d 750

When trial court grants defendant's motion for new trial unless plaintiff consents to remittitur, plantiff's consent does not preclude plaintiff from raising issue of court's erroneous failure to instruct jury on exemplary damages on later appeal from judgment. Templeton Feed & Grain v. Ralston Purina Co. (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 461, 468-469, 72 Cal. Rptr. 344, 446 P.2d 152

Denial of motion for new trial, conditional on consent to reduction of punitive damages award, is proper when trial court independently reviewed evidence and based its action on complete specification of reasons, which was based on recognized factors for determining proper amount of punitive damages. Sprague v. Equifax (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 1012, 1052-1055, 213 Cal. Rptr. 69

Court grants motion for new trial where parties do not agree on greater or lesser amount of damages. Jehl v. Southern Pac. Co. (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 821, 832, 59 Cal. Rptr. 276, 427 P.2d 988 (additur); Hughes v. Hearst Publications, Inc. (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 703, 705, 180 P.2d 419 (remittitur)

On conditional granting or denial of motion, time for performing condition extends past 60-day period that court has to determine the motion. Alberton v. Superior Court of San Francisco (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 812, 825, 71 Cal. Rptr. 553 ; but see dictum in Jehl v. Southern Pac. Co. (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 821, 832, 59 Cal. Rptr. 276 , contra

Court grants motion for new trial where moving party agrees to pay other party's costs. Chodos v. Superior Court (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 703, 707, 38 Cal. Rptr. 301

[4] Default Judgments

Motion for new trial is proper in case of default judgment to secure reexamination of questions of law or fact or both.

Jacuzzi v. Jacuzzi Bros., Inc. (1966) 243 Cal. App. 2d 1, 22, 52 Cal. Rptr. 147

[5] Discretion of Trial Court

Trial court is not permitted to grant new trial on its own motion. Schroeder v. Auto Driveaway Co. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 908, 919, 114 Cal. Rptr. 622, 523 P.2d 662

In considering motion, court is entitled to reweigh evidence, consider credibility of witnesses, and draw reasonable inferences contrary to those accepted by jury. Mercer v. Perez (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 104, 112, 65 Cal. Rptr. 315, 436 P.2d 315

Trial court, like appellate court, is enjoined by Cal. Const., Art VI, § 13 from granting motion for new trial for errors unless errors are prejudicial. Adkins v. Lear, Inc. (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 882, 920-921, 64 Cal. Rptr. 545, 435 P.2d 321 ; Mosesian v. Pennwalt Corp. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 851, 858, 236 Cal. Rptr. 778

In contrast to grants of reconsideration, courts have no inherent power to grant a new trial. Marriage of Herr (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 1463, 1471, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 464

Orders granting new trial generally are reviewed for abuse of discretion. Broad discretion is accorded trial court when stated grounds are irregularity in proceedings and surprise. When error on another ground is established, discretion in granting new trial is seldom reversed. Appellate court does not independently redetermine question whether error was prejudicial or some other ground was compelling. Review is limited to inquiry whether there was any support for trial judge's ruling and will be reversed only on strong affirmative showing of abuse of discretion. Priebe v. Nelson (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 235, 242-243, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 173

When post-trial motions attacking judgment have been made trial court is not limited to order granting or denying relief requested in moving party's papers. Shapoff v. Scull (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1457, 1473, 272 Cal. Rptr.480 (dicta; court amended judgment to delete finding on motion for new trial and judgment notwithstanding the verdict) (disapproved on other grounds in Applied Equipment Corp. v. Litton Saudi Arabia Ltd. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 503, 521 n.10, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 475, 869 P.2d 454)

Granting of motion for new trial rests so completely within discretion of trial judge that appellate court will not interfere with judge's action unless manifest and unmistakable abuse of discretion clearly appears. Jutzi v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 637, 656, 242 Cal. Rptr. 74

Trial court does not have power to grant new trial unless, after weighing evidence, court is convinced from entire record, including reasonable inferences therefrom, that court or jury clearly should have reached different verdict or decision. Locksley v. Ungureanu (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 457, 463, 223 Cal. Rptr. 737

Cal. Const., art. VI, § 13, requires prejudicial error as basis for new trial; granting of new trial for harmless error as abuse of discretion. Garcia v. County of Los Angeles (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 633, 641, 223 Cal. Rptr. 100

Although court accorded wide discretion in ruling on motion, court must exercise discriminating judgment within the bounds of reason. Johns v. City of Los Angeles (1978) 78 Cal. App. 3d 983, 987, 144 Cal. Rptr. 629

Error of court in granting oral motion for new trial in violation of Code Civ. Proc. § 659, requiring written motion, was corrected by subsequent compliance with the statute. Herman v. Shandor (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 476, 480-481, 87 Cal. Rptr. 443

Trial judge has power to grant new trial even though evidence might justify verdict and duty to set aside jury's verdict whenever judge's conscience is impressed with injustice thereof. Moore v. City & County of San Francisco (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 728, 738, 85 Cal. Rptr. 281

1965 and 1967 amendments to Code Civ. Proc. § 657 do not curb discretion vested in trial judge to grant new trial. Thompson v. John Strona & Sons (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 705, 709, 85 Cal. Rptr. 350

Trial court is not only authorized but also has under duty to grant new trial whenever in its opinion evidence on which former decision rests is insufficient to justify decision, and its action in granting new trial on this ground is discretionary to extent that if any appreciable conflict exists in evidence, court's action may not be disturbed on appeal. Roseboro v. Rawlings Mfg. Co. (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 43, 47, 79 Cal. Rptr. 567

[6] Effect Of Order Granting Motion

Effect of order granting new trial is to leave case at large and to place parties in same position as if case had never been tried. Gordon v. Nissan Motor Co., Ltd. (2009) 170 Cal. App. 4th 1103, 1111, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 778

Otherwise proper order entered in permanent minutes of court granting new trial need not vacated bear signature of judge. Kolar v. County of Los Angeles (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 873, 877, 127 Cal. Rptr. 15

Order granting motion vacates verdict or decision and returns case to exact state before trial. Bloomquist v. Haley (1928) 204 Cal. 258, 261, 268 P. 364

New trial order affords parties right to introduce any additional or new evidence, thus entitling them to designate new expert witnesses. Guzman v. Superior Court (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 705, 707-708, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 585

General order granting motion for new trial as opens case to all parties, even though some of parties may not have joined on motion. Bishop v. Superior Court (1922) 59 Cal. App. 46, 48, 209 P. 1012

Where there are several parties and rights and interests of parties are distinct, resulting order does not effect judgment as to some parties. Fearon v. Fodera (1915) 169 Cal. 370, 376, 148 P. 200

[7] Grounds

[a] Accident or Surprise

Terms "accident" and "surprise," although not strictly synonymous, have substantially same meaning; each is used to denote some condition or situation in which party to cause is unexpectedly placed to that party's injury without any negligence of his or her own. Kauffman v. De Mutiis (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 429, 432, 189 P.2d 271

Right to new trial on ground of surprise is waived if, when surprise discovered, it is not made known to court and no motion is made for mistrial or continuance. Kauffman v. De Mutiis (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 429, 432, 189 P.2d 271 ; Garcia v. County of Los Angeles (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 633, 638-639, 223 Cal. Rptr. 100

Trial court properly granted new trial on grounds of accident or surprise, after trial court in pretrial ruling regarding use of strict liability dog-bite statute [Civ. Code § 3342] set tone and content of evidence to be allowed at trial and then at end of trial court changed its mind and disallowed use of strict liability, on which plaintiff's counsel had reasonably relied and defense counsel in streak of zealousness argued to jury that plaintiff's counsel had misled jury regarding strict liability issue, where plaintiff's counsel was unfairly required to try case on one theory, which was then disallowed by court at close of evidence; where transcripts and minute order both reflected that trial court accepted plaintiff's position on applicability of strict liability statute and trial court itself expressed its own understanding that plaintiff reasonably relied on pretrial ruling. Priebe v. Nelson (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 235, 242-244, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 173

Motion for new trial is properly denied when based on claim that negligence of moving party's own attorney created accident or surprise that she could not have guarded against; trial counsel's negligence as not ground on which new trial may be granted. In re Marriage of Liu (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 143, 154-155, 242 Cal. Rptr. 649

Failure to disclose testimony is required by former Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2037.3 and 2037.5 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2034 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2034.210 et seq. effective July 1, 2005]) is not sufficient to grant motion for new trial on ground of surprise when counsel refuses to accept offer to recess trial in order for counsel to depose witness and possibly obtain rebuttal evidence. Whitehill v. United States Lines, Inc. (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 1201, 1210, 223 Cal. Rptr. 452

Granting of motion for new trial pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 657(3), relating to accident or surprise, was not supported where based on court's conclusion that it instructed jury on issue not raised by pleadings and therefore committed error of law. McCown v. Spencer (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 216, 228, 87 Cal. Rptr. 213

Party must show that he or she was diligent in seeking to protect against event that constituted accident or surprise and if ordinary prudence would have avoided surprise, motion for new trial is denied. Wade v. De Bernardi (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 967, 971, 84 Cal. Rptr. 817

Order granting plaintiff's motion for new trial on ground of accident or surprise which ordinary prudence could not have guarded against was not in excess of jurisdiction where, although court did not specify reasons for ruling, order was timely made, on proper ground, on motion served on adverse parties, and was timely decided. Grant v. Hall (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 624, 628, 79 Cal. Rptr. 219

Party moving for new trial on ground of accident or surprise must show that surprise had material effect on case so that different result might be reached on retrial. Whitfield v. Debrincat (1937) 18 Cal. App. 2d 730, 738, 64 P.2d 960

[b] Error in Law

Extraneous instruction that never came into play in deliberative process is not basis for which a new trial may be granted. Caldwell v. Paramount Unified School Dist. (1995) 41 Cal. App. 4th 189, 206, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 448

Erroneous evidentiary rulings can be error in law for which new trial may be granted under Code Civ. Proc. § 657(7). Richard v. Scott (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 57, 63, 144 Cal. Rptr. 672

Erroneous or misleading jury instruction is error in law for which new trial may be granted under Code Civ. Proc. § 657(7). Bruck v. Adams (1968) 259 Cal. App. 2d 585, 587, 66 Cal. Rptr. 395

Erroneous grant of nonsuit is error in law for which new trial may be granted under Code Civ. Proc. § 657(7). Castillo v. Warren (1941) 44 Cal. App. 2d 903, 907, 113 P.2d 232

Erroneous denial of directed verdict is error in law for which new trial may be granted under Code Civ. Proc. § 657(7). Steele v. Werner (1938) 28 Cal. App. 2d 554, 556, 83 P.2d 56

Erroneous denial of jury trial is error in law for which new trial may be granted under Code Civ. Proc. § 657(7). Johnson v. Superior Court (1932) 121 Cal. App. 288, 292, 8 P.2d 1047

[c] Excessive or Inadequate Damages

Use of remittitur under Code Civ. Proc. § 662.5 is strictly limited to those cases where jury error is confined to the issue of damages. Schelbauer v. Butler Manufacturing Co. (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 442, 453, 198 Cal. Rptr. 155, 673 P.2d 743

Trial court did not abuse discretion in granting motion for new trial on ground of excessive damages, conditioned on plaintiffs' acceptance of reduced damages award, where order was not in nature of directed verdict or JNOV because it did not dispose of litigation but court ruled only that evidence plaintiffs had produced on theory was too speculative to permit recovery, and where court's explanation of its ruling provided adequate notice to parties and to reviewing court that trial court found evidence did not support plaintiffs' theory of damages and reviewing court found support for order in record. Dell'Oca v. The Bank of New York Trust Co., N.A. (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 531, 546-552, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 737

U.S. Const., amend. VIII, protection against imposition of excessive fines, is applicable only to criminal actions, not to purely civil penalties, and therefore is not proper ground to assert excessiveness of civil damages award. Downey Savings & Loan Assn. v. Ohio Casualty Ins. Co. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1072, 1100-1101, 234 Cal. Rptr. 835

Order conditionally granting motion for new trial on ground that damages awarded were excessive is presumed correct and will not be disturbed when material conflict of evidence as to extent of damages exists. Wayte v. Rollins Int'l., Inc. (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 1, 22, 215 Cal. Rptr. 59

Allegation that inadequate damage award resulted from defendant's and juror's misconduct must be raised by motion for new trial if facts were known to plaintiff before judgment became final and within time to move for new trial. Trudell v. Heilman (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 251, 254, 204 Cal. Rptr. 551

Granting of motion for new trial is improper when based on judge's opinion that damages were excessive, based on ranges of awards judge has seen in other cases, or based on fact that paraplegic plaintiff was very likeable or attractive. Bigboy v. County of San Diego (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 397, 406-407, 201 Cal. Rptr. 226

Trial court properly granted motion for new trial on issue of damages when jury improperly apportioned nondivisible damages between codefendants. Marshall v. Brown (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 408, 415, 190 Cal. Rptr. 392

Pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 662.5, on motion for new trial for excessive damages, trial court uses its independent judgment to determine revised award of damages, and such award is undisturbed on appeal, absent showing of manifest abuse of discretion such as lack of substantial basis for award. Grimshaw v. Ford Motor Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 757, 823, 174 Cal. Rptr. 348

Trial court's judgment against defaulting defendant which is less than jury verdict against nondefaulting defendant does not require granting of new trial on grounds of excessive damages. Charles D. Warner & Sons, Inc. v. Seilon, Inc. (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 612, 616, 112 Cal. Rptr. 425

Defendant is entitled to move for new trial after entry of new judgment where appellate court vacates first judgment for plaintiff with directions to enter a new judgment in a greater or lesser amount for plaintiff. Woodcock v. Fontana Scaffolding & Equip. Co. (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 452, 459-460, 72 Cal. Rptr. 217, 445 P.2d 881

Prob. Code § 573 (repealed and replaced by Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34), limiting damages recoverable in actions that survive injured party's death where party dies before judgment, is applicable where order made granting new trial on issue of damages alone and plaintiff dies after order made. Love v. Wolf (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 822, 839-842, 58

Cal. Rptr. 42

[d] Insufficiency of Evidence

Power of court to grant new trial on ground of insufficiency of evidence pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 657(6) is not violation of right to jury trial. Clemmer v. Hartford Insurance Co. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 865, 889, 151 Cal. Rptr. 285, 587 P.2d 1098

Trial court did not abuse its discretion in granting plaintiffs' motion for new trial on ground of insufficiency of evidence where record supported trial court's conclusion that jury should have returned verdict for plaintiffs on theory that automobile collision was caused by defendant's negligent failure to replace locking cotter key when reassembling steering apparatus. Jones v. Citrus Motors Ontario, Inc. (1973) 8 Cal. 3d 706, 708-711, 106 Cal. Rptr. 28, 505 P.2d 220

Juror declarations did not conclusively disprove compromise verdict so as to require reversal of trial court's grant of new trial under Code Civ. Proc. § 657(6) based on insufficiency of evidence to support jury's verdict, where rule according primacy to unopposed affidavits is confined to new trial motions based on irregularity in proceedings, jury misconduct, accident or surprise, and newly discovered evidence, because governing statute, Code Civ. Proc. § 658, directs that motions on these grounds must be made on affidavits, and motion on ground of insufficient evidence must be made on "minutes of the court," so that "minutes of the court" will support new trial order based on § 657(6). Trial court's decision that new trial should not be restricted to damages and should encompass liability was supported by substantial evidence, where record contained abundant evidence of compromise verdict, and where given conflicting evidence of liability, jury's mishandling of damages and presence of signs of placatory verdict, decision to order complete new trial was not manifest abuse of discretion. Lauren H. v. Kannappan (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 834, 838-839, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 484

Court's determination that weight of evidence is against verdict enables it to order new trial even if there is sufficient evidence to sustain verdict on appeal. Candido v. Huitt (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 918, 923, 199 Cal. Rptr. 41

No impropriety in trial court's denial of motion for new trial when trial court found that some evidence lacked credibility but decided that jury's verdict should nevertheless not be reversed. Kolling v. Dow Jones & Co. (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 709, 725, 187 Cal. Rptr. 797

Propriety of order granting new trial entered in current volume of minutes within 60-day period provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 660, though specification of reasons required by Code Civ. Proc. § 657 filed within 10 days thereafter; substantial basis in record to support order where trial court, in stating belief that jury clearly should have reached different verdict, implicitly stated belief that there was insufficient evidence to support verdict where court specified evidence it thought was lacking. Fortenberry v. Weber (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 213, 219-224, 95 Cal. Rptr. 834

Court's reasons for granting motion for new trial under Code Civ. Proc. § 657(6) on grounds of insufficiency of evidence were insufficiently supported where reasons given were erroneous legal conclusions and it was apparent trial court granted motion on this ground because it believed there was a total lack of any material evidence to support verdict rather than because, after weighing evidence, the court believed that it failed to preponderate and jury should have reached a different verdict. McCown v. Spencer (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 216, 226-228, 87 Cal. Rptr. 213

Order granting new trial on specified grounds of insufficiency of evidence and judgment as against law in mandate proceeding to compel State Board of Pharmacy to vacate decision suspending permit and licenses is not binding on judge who presides over new trial and does not preclude subsequent retrial and reexamination of all issues of fact, even though no additional evidence is offered, where motion was granted for sole purpose of according appellants a new trial which consists of reexamination of all issues of fact in same court, and reexamination of all issues contemplated independentdetermination of cause. Arenstein v. California State Bd. of Pharmacy (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 179, 187-188, 71 Cal. Rptr. 357

Order granting motion for new trial on ground of insufficiency of evidence is not an abuse of discretion where evidence would support judgment in favor of moving party. McFarland v. Booker (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 402, 414, 58 Cal. Rptr. 417 ; Martin v. Culver Enterprises, Inc. (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 925, 930, 49 Cal. Rptr. 149

[e] Irregularity in Proceedings in Court, Jury, or Adverse Party

Motion for new trial on grounds of irregularity in conduct of adverse party was improperly denied where counsel improperly argued to jury by urging facts not justified by record or suggesting jury resort to speculation. City of Los Angeles v. Decker (1977) 18 Cal. 3d 860, 870-871, 135 Cal. Rptr. 647, 558 P.2d 545

Declaration on grounds of jury irregularity must show lack of knowledge of jury misconduct by moving party or counsel prior to rendition of verdict and separate declarations are desirable, although failure to do so is not fatal to motion for new trial. Weathers v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 98, 103-104, 95 Cal. Rptr. 516, 485 P.2d 1132

Motion for new trial based on irregularity in proceedings of court was improperly denied where judge made prejudicial comments during conduct of trial. Delzell v. Day (1950) 36 Cal. 2d 349, 351-352, 223 P.2d 625

Where court expresses prejudice against use of particular witness, notwithstanding competency of testimony and prejudice is reflected in actions of court against the aggrieved party, new trial is granted on ground of irregular ity in the proceedings of the court. Pratt v. Pratt (1903) 141 Cal. 247, 251-252, 74 P. 742

Existence of compromise verdict becomes procedural question relevant to proper scope of new trial order, rather than furnishing substantive basis for new trial motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 657(1) for procedural irregularity or Code Civ. Proc. § 657(2) for jury misconduct, when new trial is granted under Code Civ. Proc. § 657(6) for insufficiency of evidence; question is whether new trial may be limited to issue as to which evidentiary problem was found or must encompass all litigated issues. Many factors beyond adequacy of damage award are relevant to decision about whether verdict is product of compromise, and would be immaterial if deficiency furnishing basis for new trial order was alone enough to mandate comprehensive new trial. Lauren H. v. Kannappan (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 834, 839-840, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 484

Motion by plaintiff for new trial on grounds of irregularity was improperly denied when defense counsel interjected issue of his own client's perjury and collusion, resulting in verdict for defendant. Price v. Giles (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1469, 1474, 242 Cal. Rptr. 559

Motion for new trial on ground of misconduct of counsel for adverse party was properly denied when alleged instances of misconduct were cured by admonition, were waived by failure to object, were invited by conduct of complaining party, or had no prejudicial effect in view of evidence supporting verdict. Curcio v. Svanevik (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 955, 961-966, 202 Cal. Rptr. 499

Defendant in civil action for punitive damages is not entitled to new trial on basis that trial counsel was incompetent, ignorant of law and procedure, and lacking in knowledge of facts. Chevalier v. Dubin (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 975, 979, 164 Cal. Rptr. 118

Ineligibility to practice of other party's counsel is not ground for new trial sought by unsuccessful litigant. Gomes v.

Roney (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 274, 275, 151 Cal. Rptr. 756

Bias or prejudice of trial judge is not irregularity of court, but evidence of judge's conduct may be shown as irregularity of court preventing fair trial. Develop-Amatic Engineering v. Republic Mortgage Co. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 143, 150-151, 91 Cal. Rptr. 193

Motion for new trial on ground of irregularity of proceedings, based on alleged misconduct of attorney for adverse party was improperly granted where alleged misconduct consisted of counsel's commenting on and reading jury instructions not decided on by court, court thus correctly admonished jury, and no motion for mistrial was made. Gotcher v. Metcalf (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 96, 100-101, 85 Cal. Rptr. 566

Motion for new trial based on ground of irregularity in proceedings of court is properly granted where judge fails to make finding on material allegation. Halperin v. Guzzardi (1949) 95 Cal. App. 2d 31, 35, 212 P.2d 9

An irregularity is any overt act of the trial court, jury, or adverse party that violates the right to a fair and impartial trial and amounts to misconduct. Gray v. Robinson (1939) 33 Cal. App. 2d 177, 182, 91 P.2d 194

Where juror falsely denied having personal knowledge of accident in question on voir dire and during jury deliberations stated that she had personal knowledge of material facts in case and had formed and expressed an opinion in case, new trial was granted on ground of irregularity in proceedings of jury. Williams v. Bridges (1934) 140 Cal. App. 537, 540, 35 P.2d 407

[f] Lack of Phonographic Report of Trial

When transcript notes are no longer in existence, attempt to reconstruct trial testimony in settled statement is proper procedure; notes taken during trial by attorneys and trial judge and memories of attorneys, witnesses, and jurors as additional sources for satisfactory record; when transcript notes are unavailable, criminal defendant as required to show it is impossible to secure adequate substitute, before new trial will be ordered. People v. Everett (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 932, 937, 274 Cal. Rptr. 429

[g] Misconduct of Jury

[i] Generally

Right to unbiased and unprejudiced jury is constitutionally guaranteed. Weathers v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 98, 110, 95 Cal. Rptr. 516, 485 P.2d 1132

History of rule that juries may not impeach their verdicts and exceptions to rule; jurors are competent witnesses to prove objective facts to impeach verdict under Evid. Code § 1150 on motion for new trial. People v. Hutchinson (1969) 71 Cal. 2d 342, 346-351, 78 Cal. Rptr. 196, 455 P.2d 132

In personal injury action resulting from plaintiff's service in Navy, trial court did not abuse its discretion by finding misconduct due to juror's comments, where juror interjected matters outside scope of trial when he presented evidence to jury about Navy's practice of wholesale replacement of parts whenever any repair was carried out, despite manufacturers' recommendations or guidelines to contrary, and Navy's practice of cleaning so thoroughly such that no asbestos could have been present after plaintiff came aboard ship; and where trial court specifically instructed jurors not to inject their specialized knowledge into deliberations; misconduct was prejudicial, because comments bore directly on hotly contested issue of whether plaintiff was exposed to defendant's asbestos aboard ship and tended to buttress defendant's position, thus relating directly to defendant's fault in causing plaintiff's mesothelioma, and it could be fairly assumed opinions held by juror certainly influenced his vote on crucial jury question of whether plaintiff was exposed to defendant's asbestos, and, according to juror affidavits, improper opinion evidence he presented to jury potentially influenced votes of as many as four other jurors, including decisive ninth vote in favor of defense verdict. Whitlock v. Foster Wheeler, LLC (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 149, 160-163, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 369

Existence of compromise verdict becomes procedural question relevant to proper scope of new trial order, rather than furnishing substantive basis for new trial motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 657(1) for procedural irregularity or Code Civ. Proc. § 657(2) for jury misconduct, when new trial is granted under Code Civ. Proc. § 657(6) for insufficiency of evidence; question is whether new trial may be limited to issue as to which evidentiary problem was found or must encompass all litigated issues. Many factors beyond adequacy of damage award are relevant to decision about whether verdict is product of compromise, and would be immaterial if deficiency furnishing basis for new trial order was alone enough to mandate comprehensive new trial. Lauren H. v. Kannappan (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 834, 839-840, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 484

There was no juror misconduct in jury turning on radio scanner during deliberations to check condition of battery, when by turning on scanner and observing its operation, jury merely used it according to its nature to aid them in weighing evidence and reaching conclusion on controverted matter. People v. Baldine (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 773, 778, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 570

Party's constitutional right to have case decided by jury does not include right to compel jurors to discuss issues which they have chosen to decide without discussion. Vomaska v. City of San Diego (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 905, 911, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 492

While verdict should be result of sound judgment, dispassionate consideration, and conscientious reflection, and jury should, if necessary, deliberate patiently and long on issues which have been submitted to them, yet, when law does not positively prescribe length of time jury must consider their verdict, they may render valid verdict without retiring, or on very brief deliberation after retiring, although trial court may, in its discretion, cause jury to reconsider case if their decision is so hasty as to indicate flippant disregard of their duties. Vomaska v. City of San Diego (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 905, 913, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 492

[ii] Juror Affidavits

When trial court failed to specify reasons for granting new trial on juror misconduct grounds, testimonial evidence submitted by parties in form of juror declarations was sharply conflicting on every material issue, and party supporting grant of new trial submitted no other evidence to support motion, upon independent review of record, court concluded that moving party failed to discharge its burden to persuade court of jury misconduct warranting grant of new trial. Oakland Raiders v. National Football League (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 624, 635-642, 61 Cal. Rptr. 3d 634

Juror declarations are admissible to extent they describe overt acts constituting jury misconduct, but not to extent they describe effect of any event on juror's subjective reasoning process; juror declarations are inadmissible to extent that they purport to describe jurors' understanding of instructions or how they arrived at their verdict. Bell v. Bayerische Motoren Werke Aktiengesellschaft (2010) 181 Cal. App. 4th 1108, 1124-1125, 105 Cal. Rptr. 3d 485

Although jurors may testify to overt acts to impeach jury verdict (that is, statements, conduct, conditions, or events open to sight, hearing, and other senses and thus subject to corroboration), jurors are not permitted to testify to subjective reasoning processes of individual jurors; deliberative error in jury's collective mental process consist of confusion, misunderstanding, and misinterpretation of the law. Mesecher v. County of San Diego (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1677, 1683, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 279

New trial is properly denied if attempted impeachment of verdict rests solely on attack on jury's subjective mental processes in reaching verdict. Ford v. Bennacka (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 330, 336, 276 Cal. Rptr. 513

Affidavits showing that jurors may have relied on BAJI instruction that judge admonished jurors not to apply to particular defendant does not create grounds for new trial because affidavits delved into subjective concerns of jurors during their deliberations and, furthermore, affidavits did not support contention that jury collectively and intentionally disregarded instructionsas given. DiRosario v. Havens (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1224, 1233-1235, 242 Cal. Rptr. 423

Juror's affidavits must state overt facts that can be objectively proved and not subjective mental processes that cannot be corroborated. De Vera v. Long Beach Pub. Transportation Co. (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 782, 792-795, 225 Cal. Rptr. 789 ; People v. Turner (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 174, 183-184, 99 Cal. Rptr. 186 ; Continental Dairy Equip. Co. v. Lawrence (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 378, 383, 94 Cal. Rptr. 887 ; see also Bly-Magee v. Budget Rent-A-Car Corp. (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 318, 325-326, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 330 , citing Ford v. Bennacka (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 330, 336, 276 Cal. Rptr. 513 ; Maxwell v. Powers (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 1596, 1605, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 62 , citing Ford v. Bennacka (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 330, 336 ; 276 Cal. Rptr. 513

Questioning of jurors by judge in connection with motion for new trial on grounds of juror misconduct is error because application for new trial must be on basis of affidavits; Evid. Code § 1150, dealing with inquiry into validity of verdict, does not alter traditional rule against juror impeachment of verdict; trial judge's inquiry into jurors' thought process in connection with motion for new trial on grounds of juror misconduct is reversible error. Maple v. Cincinnati, Inc. (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 387, 392, 396, 209 Cal. Rptr. 451

Affidavit of involved juror denying prejudice is sufficient to support negative finding as to jury misconduct. Tillery v. Richland (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 957, 205 Cal. Rptr. 191

Transient comments made in heat of discussion during deliberations without evidence of context in which comments were made is not proper subject of attack on verdict; affidavits relating to lack of analysis of evidence by jury, individual jurors' true intent as to what verdict should be, and foreperson's restriction of discussion during deliberation involved jury's mental processes and therefore was prohibited under Evid. Code § 1150. Tillery v. Richland (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 957, 205 Cal. Rptr. 191

Conclusionary declaration of one juror, not offered by plaintiff to demonstrate improper influence on verdict under Evid. Code § 1150(a), but to attack validity of jury poll and to show mental processes of jurors, is not sufficient to impeach verdict. Bossi v. State of California (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 313, 318, 174 Cal. Rptr. 93

Use of jurors' declarations to impeach verdict is improper unless used to disclose objectively ascertainable overt acts by jury. Drust v. Drust (1980) 113 Cal. App. 3d 1, 9, 169 Cal. Rptr. 750

Affidavits mandatory and testimony of subpoenaed jurors insufficient. Linhart v. Nelson(1976) 18 Cal. 3d 641, 644-645, 134 Cal. Rptr. 813, 557 P.2d 104

Trial court's determination based on conflicting affidavits will not be disturbed on appeal. Diamond Springs Lime Co. v. American River Constructors (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 581, 605, 94 Cal. Rptr. 200

Jurors' affidavits are admissible to show whether or not jurors agreed to be bound by chance or quotient verdict. Bardessono v. Michels (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 780, 794, 91 Cal. Rptr. 760, 478 P.2d 480 ; Will v. Southern Pac. Co. (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 468, 477, 116 P.2d 44

Affidavits of jurors are permitted in only two situations to impeach verdicts: (1) where jury has resorted to chance [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(2)]; and (2) bias or disqualification of juror that has been concealed by false answers on voir dire; affidavits are not permitted to explain or interpret verdicts. Campbell v. Zokelt (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 315, 319, 77 Cal. Rptr. 561

Affidavits accepted as to occurrences during trial and deliberations showing prejudice in mind of juror which prevent that juror from acting impartially where bias was concealed on voir dire. People ex rel. Dept. of Pub. Wks v. Curtis (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 378, 389, 63 Cal. Rptr. 138

[iii] Concealment of Bias

Failure of jurors to affirmatively respond to generalized voir dire questions asked of assembled group of potential jurors does not amount to concealment of bias when jurors' silence was only evidence of actual bias presented. Hasson v. Ford Motor Co. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 388, 408, 185 Cal. Rptr. 654, 650 P.2d 1171

Trial court did not abuse its discretion in granting motion for new trial based on juror misconduct after finding that juror intentionally concealed knowledge of scandal that was part of action and that her knowledge was substantial, where trial court reasonably concluded that juror's explanation that she had merely heard of scandal before was false and evidence supported reasonable inference she had substantial knowledge of scandal and she intentionally concealed her knowledge; and where record failed to rebut presumption of prejudice, given that scandal was volatile subject that provoked strong feelings of revulsion in some members of public toward tainted police officers and toward police department in general, disappointment with criminal justice system that produced so many false convictions, and sympathy for victims, of which plaintiff was one. Ovando v. County of Los Angeles (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 42, 57-60, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 415

Juror's intentionally lying about bias on voir dire constitutes misconduct, but to find misconduct when concealment of bias is unintentional and result of misunderstanding or forgetfulness is clearly excessive. Jutzi v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 637, 655, 242 Cal. Rptr. 74 (declining to follow rule promulgated in People v. Diaz (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 926, 932, 200 Cal. Rptr. 77 , that even inadvertent failure to reveal strong potential of juror bias constitutes misconduct)

Misconduct for juror to state, in presence of other jurors during field trip, that whole thing was farce, and to discuss matters not in evidence during deliberation, and to refuse to deliberate in same room as other jurors because of altercation with forewoman. Andrews v. County of Orange (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 944, 955-960, 182 Cal. Rptr. 176 (disapproved on other grounds in People v. Nesler 16 Cal. 4th 561, 582 n.5, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 454, 941 P.2d 87)

Bias existing at time of voir dire is inferable from utterances in jury room; negative answer is capable of being indicated by silence, thus concealing bias. Smith v. Covell (1980) 100 Cal. App. 3d 947, 955, 161 Cal. Rptr. 377 (concealed intent to disregard instructions regarding husband's cause of action for loss of consortium as misconduct warranting reversal of verdict and new trial)

Misconduct of jury includes improper remarks or suggestions of jurors in expressing opinion on issue of case before it was submitted to them. City of Pleasant Hill v. First Baptist Church (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 384, 434, 82 Cal. Rptr. 1

Juror's statement at recess showing lack of impartiality is misconduct when juror stated ability to keep open mind during voir dire. Deward v. Clough (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 439, 443-445, 54 Cal. Rptr. 68

[iv] Prejudicial Communication

Misconduct of jury includes improper communication with parties. Wright v. Eastlick (1899) 125 Cal. 517, 520, 58 P. 87

Not improper for juror to think about case outside presence of other jurors or to write down those thoughts and read them to other jurors when they resume deliberations. Bormann v. Chevron USA, Inc. (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 260, 262-263, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 321

Misconduct is nonprejudicial when witness improperly questioned by juror refuses to answer or converse. City of Los Angeles v. Lowensohn (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 625, 636-638, 127 Cal. Rptr. 417

Communication between witness and juror is not grounds for grant of new trial in absence of showing that juror was influenced by the communication to prejudice of moving party. City of Pleasant Hill v. First Baptist Church (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 384, 427-428, 82 Cal. Rptr. 1

Mere communciation, such as social greeting, between witness and juror is not ground for setting aside verdict in absence of showing that juror influenced by communication. City of Pleasant Hill v. First Baptist Church (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 384, 427-428, 82 Cal. Rptr. 1

Prejudging case by juror constitutes misconduct warranting new trial. Deward v. Clough (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 439, 444, 54 Cal. Rptr. 68

[v] New Evidence

Expression by juror of opinion on technical subject, in form of juror's own claim to expertise or specialized knowledge of matter at issue, is misconduct when explicitly based on specialized information obtained from outside sources, although not when opinion is based on evidence received at trial. In re Malone (1996) 12 Cal. 4th 935, 963, 50 Cal. Rptr. 2d 281, 911 P.2d 468 (opinion about polygraph evidence based on juror's own study of subject)

Pursuit of nighttime paralegal studies by juror does not constituting misconduct, even though juror inadvertently attended one class in which subject of arguably related piece of litigation was mentioned. Hasson v. Ford Motor Co. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 388, 409, 185 Cal. Rptr. 654, 650 P.2d 1171

Misconduct of jury in wrongful death action is evidenced by its consideration of improper matters, such as income taxes on verdict, attorney's fees to be taken out of verdict, and the general benefit to government and public, the jurors included, through taxes levied on verdict; such may support motion for new trial not only based on jury misconduct but also on excessive damages. Tramell v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 157, 166, 171, 209 Cal. Rptr. 427

It is not jury misconduct when one juror prepares diagram in jury room based solely onevidence received in court. Wagner v. Doulton (1980) 112 Cal. App. 3d 945, 950, 169 Cal. Rptr. 550

Juror misconduct invalidates verdict when medical testimony was in conflict and juror interjected evidence based on his own experience concerning medical aspects of case. Smith v. Covell (1980) 100 Cal. App. 3d 947, 954, 161 Cal. Rptr. 377

Misconduct of jury includes consideration of matters not in evidence and discussion outside court of matters under investigation. Kritzer v. Citron (1950) 101 Cal. App. 2d 33, 36, 224 P.2d 808

[vi] Chance Verdict

Chance verdict described. Bardessono v. Michels (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 780, 794, 91 Cal. Rptr. 760, 478 P.2d 480

Trial court properly denied plaintiff's motion for new trial on ground plaintiff did not demonstrate that jury reached chance or quotient verdict, where jury agreed on high and low figure and, before calculating average, further agreed to adjust downward high figure and to adjust upward low figure, and there was no evidence average was adopted without further consideration or that jury agreed at any time to adopt average and abide by agreement without further discussion or deliberation. Two jurors who submitted affidavits declared that all 12 jury members agreed on award, but when polled in open court, three jurors said that was not their verdict, suggesting there was no agreement to adopt average and be bound by it. Lara v. Nevitt (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 454, 461-463, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 865

Quotient verdict is chance verdict if jurors agree that the damages will be determined by taking average of each juror's estimate, provided that jurors present quotient as their verdict without further discussion. Fredrics v. Paige (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1642, 1646, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 246

Verdict is not chance verdict if jurors averaged their preliminary damages figures and then either discussed quotient or took a vote on whether it should be their verdict. Fredrics v. Paige (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1642, 1646-1647, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 246 ; Diamond Springs Lime Co. v. American River Constructors (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 581, 605, 94 Cal. Rptr. 200

Quotient verdict distinguished from chance verdict. Diamond Springs Lime Co. v. American River Constructors (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 581, 605, 94 Cal. Rptr. 200

No inference of agreement regarding chance verdict when sum agreed upon is not average of damages favored by each juror. Glass v. Gulf Oil Corp. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 412, 436, 96 Cal. Rptr. 902

[vii] Presumption of Prejudice

Even if jurors committed misconduct by watching television show relating to aircraft safety during recess from deliberations in wrongful death case against aircraft manufacturer, and even if presumption of prejudice thereby arose, presumption is rebutted when evidence of misconduct was not convincing, nature of misconduct was not serious because it did not reveal deliberate act by jurors violating court's instructions to confine consideration of case to evidence heard in court, and probability of actual prejudice to moving party was highly unlikely. Elsworth v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 540, 557-558, 208 Cal. Rptr. 874, 691 P.2d 630

Presumption of prejudice arising from juror misconduct is rebutted by affirmative evidentiary showing that prejudice does not exist or by examination of entire record to determine whether there is reasonable probability of actual harm to complaining party resulting from misconduct. Hasson v. Ford Motor Co. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 388, 416-417, 185 Cal. Rptr. 654, 650 P.2d 1171

In products liability action based on rollover of Ford Bronco, trial court erred in granting new trial on issue of punitive damages, in which one juror commented to others about segment of television news magazine show concerning defendant's conduct with regard to other types of Fords and another juror commented on a dream she had in which Ford Bronco killed her children and children of other jurors, where trial court applied only presumption that jury misconduct is prejudicial and, without any evidentiary basis for doing so, failed to consider and apply presumption jurors have followed instructions they were given, and where in reviewing court's independent review of issues of prejudice and rebuttal of presumption of prejudice, reviewing court concluded record provided no basis to reject normal presumption jury followed instructions. Romo v. Ford Motor Co. (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 1115, 1127-1137, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 139

Presumption of prejudice from juror reading newspaper article about case and discussing it with other jurors as not rebutted because final tally of vote was nine to three and, further, previous trial had resulted in hung jury. Province v.

Center for Women's Health & Family Birth (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1673, 1680, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 667

Presumption of prejudice arising from juror's communication of information from sources outside the evidence is not rebutted when uncontroverted in close case. Lankster v. Alpha Beta Co. (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 678, 683, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 923

Not every minor infraction of rules by juror mandates new trial; if conduct is of such nonprobative nature that it could not in nature of things have prevented party from having fair trial, verdict should not be set aside. Locksley v. Ungureanu (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 457, 461, 223 Cal. Rptr. 737

Occurrence of jury misconduct raises rebuttable presumption of prejudice. Tapia v. Barker (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 761, 765-767, 206 Cal. Rptr. 803

[viii] "No Knowledge" Affidavits

"No knowledge" affidavits showing neither moving party nor counsel aware of jury misbehavior until after verdict returned establishes nonreliance on errors known before jury's verdict. Weathers v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 98, 103, 95 Cal. Rptr. 516, 485 P.2d 1132

"No knowledge" affidavits is not required when alleged jury misconduct of such nature that it could not have been known to party until after verdict rendered. Krouse v. Graham (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 59, 82, 137 Cal. Rptr. 863, 562 P.2d 1022

Although submitted by one person, "no knowledge" affidavits must establish nonreliance on known errors by both moving party and attorney. People v. Southern Cal. Edison Co. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 593, 599, 128 Cal. Rptr. 697

[h] Newly Discovered Evidence

Trial court may grant new trial on basis of newly discovered evidence where moving party shows the evidence is newly discovered, reasonable diligence has been exercised in its discovery, and the evidence is material to the moving party's case. Wood v. Jamison (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 156, 161, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 877

In action against airlines based on alleged sexual assault against passenger, trial court erred in granting new trial to plaintiff after granting summary judgment to defendant, based on declaration by clinical psychologist constituting newly discovered evidence that plaintiff suffered bodily injury, where plaintiff did not display reasonable diligence in tendering new evidence, because evidence was neither newly discovered nor producedwith reasonable diligence; and where declaration was not material to ruling on summary judgment motion. Doe v. United Airlines, Inc. (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 1500, 1504-1513, 73 Cal. Rptr. 3d 541

Trial court did not abuse its discretion in denying plaintiff's motion for new trial based on newly discovered evidence to contend that defendant-employer paid for employee's defense and in so doing ratified employee's conduct because it knew he had pled nolo contendere to misdemeanor sexual battery by time he answered civil complaint, where the proffered evidence was inadmissible hearsay and employer's payment of employee's attorney's fees did not logically constitute its ratification of his wrongful acts. Plancarte v. Guardsmark (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 640, 645-650, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 315

On motion for new trial on ground of newly discovered evidence, moving party is required to show that he or she exercised reasonable diligence to discover and produce evidence at trial; motion is properly denied on moving party's failure to show that purported "newly discovered" evidence could not have been produced at trial with reasonable diligence. In re Marriage of Liu (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 143, 153-154, 242 Cal. Rptr. 649

When party knows of an important witness and materiality of his or her testimony, but is unable to produce witness at time of trial, due diligence normally requires party to move for continuance, and failure to do so justifies denial of subsequent new trial based on discovery of new evidence; but if continuance would not have been granted because of party's inability to show nature or materiality of absent witness's possible testimony, failure to ask for continuance does not constitute lack of due diligence. Andersen v. Howland (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 380, 383, 83 Cal. Rptr. 308

Essential elements for grant of new trial on ground of newly discovered evidence are (1) evidence newly discovered, (2) reasonable diligence exercised in discovery and production, and (3) evidence material to movant's case. National Elevator Services, Inc. v. Department of Industrial Relations (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 131, 137, 186 Cal. Rptr. 165 ; Horowitz v. Noble (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 120, 137, 144 Cal. Rptr. 710

In medical malpractice wrongful death action, discovery of autopsy addendum which significantly contradicted defense experts, after denial of motion for new trial following defense verdict, was ground for writ of error coram nobis remanding case to trial court to reconsider motion for new trial in light of newly discovered evidence. Rollins v. City & County of San Francisco (1947) 37 Cal. App. 3d 145, 149, 112 Cal. Rptr. 168

Party moving for new trial on ground of newly discovered evidence must show by affidavit that he or she did not know of evidence and could not by diligence have obtained it. Bennett v. Pacific Greyhound Lines (1956) 147 Cal. App. 2d 74, 75, 304 P.2d 721

[i] Verdict Against Law

Proper remedy for inconsistent verdicts is new trial. Oxford v. Foster Wheeler LLC (2009) 177 Cal. App. 4th 700, 721-722, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 418

In attorney's action to recover fee from client, trial court erroneously granted motion for new trial on grounds that verdict was against law, when, considering materials in 24 banker's boxes, 123-page summary of attorney's work based on those materials, computer printout of attorney's time records, trial testimony, and nine factors set forth in trial court's instructions, jury could have reasonably concluded attorney was entitled to attorney's fee of $1.2 million. Fergus v. Songer (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 552, 567-569, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 273

Trial court is empowered under Code Civ. Proc. § 657(6) to consider new legal challenges not previously raised before verdict or judgment when court is ruling on motion for new trial. Hoffman-Haag v. Transamerica Ins. Co. (1991) 1 Cal. App. 4th 10, 15-16, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 805

In case of inconsistent verdicts, court of appeal is required to set aside both verdicts on reviewing order granting limited new trial. Manor Investment Co. v. F. W. Woolworth Co. (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 586, 597, 206 Cal. Rptr. 37 (disapproved on other grounds in Applied Equipment Corp. v. Litton Saudi Arabia Ltd. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 503, 521 n.10, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 475, 869 P.2d 454)

Granting new trial on ground that verdict against law is authorized only if there is no substantial evidence to sustain the verdict. Sanchez-Corea v. Bank of America (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 892, 906-907, 215 Cal. Rptr. 679, 701 P.2d 826 ; Musgrove v. Ambrose Properties (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 44, 56, 150 Cal. Rptr. 722

Verdict is against law when it is contrary to correct jury instructions. Kaiser Cement & Gypsum Corp. v. Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co. (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 948, 958, 111 Cal. Rptr. 210

When new trial is granted because of instruction that really was correct, there is no legal ground on which new trial could have been ordered. Fakhoury v. Magner (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 58, 64, 101 Cal. Rptr. 473

Granting of motion for new trial pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 657(6), relating to verdict against law, was not supported by court's erroneous conclusion that special verdict was in conflict with general verdict. McCown v. Spencer (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 216, 228-230, 87 Cal. Rptr. 213

Verdict or decisions are against law when there is a failure to find on a material issue, when the findings are irreconcilable, and when the evidence is insufficient in law and without conflict on any material point. Kralyevich v. Magrini (1959) 172 Cal. App. 2d 784, 789, 342 P.2d 903 (decided when findings existed under Code Civ. Proc. § 632)

[8] Hearing of Motion

Referee is appropriate decisionmaker to determine motion for new trial under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 656, 661 (determination of motion by judge who presided at trial, if available) when trial was heard by referee pursuant to stipulation for general reference. Clark v. Rancho Santa Fe Assn. (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d. 606, 625, 265 Cal. Rptr. 41

Although entitled to a hearing, one does not have right to orally argue motion for new trial. Kimmel v. Keefe (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 402, 408, 88 Cal. Rptr. 47

Notice of hearing and hearing is mandatory unless waived by parties. Avery v. Associated Seed Growers, Inc. (1963) 211 Cal. App. 2d 613, 627, 27 Cal. Rptr. 625

[9] Jurisdiction

Judge other than judge who presided at trial and heard arguments on new trial motion telephonically while out of state pursuant to agreement of parties could appoint another judge to sign order conditionally granting new trial, where superior court had territorial jurisdiction over post-trial motions irrespective of original judge's location and judge's presence in or absence from California had no effect on superior court's subject matter jurisdiction; where, although presiding judge's absence from California rendered her physically unable to sign and file order in superior court, it did not deprive her of power to hear and determine merits of post-trial motions; where superior court had subject matter jurisdiction over motions at time order was signed and entered and legally effective judicial act of filing order took place in California; and where appointing another judge to sign for presiding judge in her absence was proper exercise of presiding judge's authority. Dell'Oca v. The Bank of New York Trust Co., N.A. (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 531, 542-546, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 737

Court is without jurisdiction to hear second motion for new trial after issuing minute order denying original motion for new trial. Wenzoski v. Central Banking System, Inc. (1987) 43 Cal. 3d 539, 542, 237 Cal. Rptr. 167, 736 P.2d 753

[10] Memorandum of Points and Authorities

In marital dissolution action, trial court did not abuse its discretion by denying wife's motion for new trial for being untimely because she did comply with 15-day deadline of Code Civ. Proc. § 659 to submit notice of intention to move for new trial, when wife failed to comply with 10-day requirement to file memorandum of points and authorities in support of motion under former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 236.5 [now see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1600]. In re Marriage of Steiner (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 519, 529, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 671

[11] Mistrial and New Trial Distinguished

Distinction between mistrial and new trial. Estate of Bartholomae (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 839, 842, 68 Cal. Rptr. 332

[12] New Trial on Particular Issues

When trial court has reviewed jury's special verdicts and properly concluded that damage award is incorrect only as it reflects improper apportionment of liability, order is improper if it grants new trial on all issues; order must limit new trial to issue of apportionment of liability. Schelbauer v. Butler Manufacturing Co. (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 442, 457, 198 Cal. Rptr. 155, 673 P.2d 743

If limited new trial might be prejudicial to either party, court must grant complete new trial. Liodas v. Sahadi (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 278, 286, 137 Cal. Rptr. 635, 562 P.2d 316

In action by store patron for battery, false imprisonment and malicious prosecution, trial court properly granted retrial on false imprisonment and malicious prosecution claims, when first jury found for patron on battery claim but was unable to agree on verdict on false imprisonment and malicious prosecution claims, and when false imprisonment and malicious prosecution claims raised issues separate and distinct from battery claim. Cruz v. HomeBase (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 160, 165-166, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 435

Although retrial may be limited to issue of damages when evidence of liability is overwhelming, new trial on all issues is required when evidence on liability is in sharp conflict, and award is manifestly so inadequate as to suggest compromise verdict. Wilson v. R.D. Werner Co. (1980) 108 Cal. App. 3d 878, 883, 166 Cal. Rptr. 797

Rules governing new trials on limited issues. Baxter v. Phillips (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 610, 616-617, 84 Cal. Rptr. 609

Court properly grants new trial on certain issues raised in case when issues are distinct and separable. Karallis v. Shenas (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 280, 283, 217 P.2d 436

[13] Notice of Intention to Move

Prevailing party's attorney's mailing to opposing counsel of photocopy of file-stamped and dated judgment started time limit for serving notice of intention to move for new trial under Code Civ. Proc. § 659, so that service of notice of intention to move for a new trial 26 days later was untimely, when service of written notice of entry of judgment and filing of original notice of entry and proof of service complied with Code Civ. Proc. § 659, and posttrial motion statutes do not require filing of original notice of entry or file-stamped copy of judgment accompanied by proof of service to start time limits for bringing posttrial motions. Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1277-1278, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067

Purpose of notice of intention to move for new trial is to give adverse party reasonable opportunity to oppose motion on its merits. Nichols v. Hast (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 598, 600, 43 Cal. Rptr. 641, 400 P.2d 753

Mailing of entered judgment to adverse party, with accompanying dated cover letter stating that conformed copy of judgment was enclosed, is sufficient to trigger 15-day time limit of Code Civ. Proc. § 659, even though proof of service of copy of judgment was never mailed or filed. Ramirez v. Moran (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 431, 436-437, 247 Cal. Rptr. 117

Notice of intention filed after 15-day period provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 659 is invalid and does not extending time for filing notice of appeal from judgment beyond normal 60 days. In re Marriage of Patscheck (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 800, 802, 225 Cal. Rptr. 787

Mailing conformed copy of judgment showing date it was filed with clerk (or in counties using judgment book rather than file of actions and microfilm copy, date it was entered) starts 15-day period for giving notice of intention to move for new trial; Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5 procedures for prevailing party to give notice of entry of judgment do not govern sufficiency of notice for purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 659. Tri-County Elevator Co. v. Superior Court (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 271, 276-277, 185 Cal. Rptr. 208

Trial court has no power to grant motion for new trial on ground not specified in notice of intention to move, and movant's subsequently filed memorandum of points and authorities in support of motion are ineffective to raise additional ground, because memorandum was not filed within statutory time limit for filing notice, and amendments to defective notice must be filed within statutory period. Wagner v. Singleton (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 69, 72-74, 183 Cal. Rptr. 631

Requirements of motion for new trial. Gaskill v. Pacific Hosp. of Long Beach (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 128, 130, 77 Cal. Rptr. 373

Form of motion for new trial has some relevance in construction of order made in response to it. Butler v. Schefers (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 330, 331, 53 Cal. Rptr. 869

The court, in ruling on motion for new trial, is confined to grounds specified in the notice. Van Ostrum v. State of California (1957) 148 Cal. App. 2d 1, 4, 306 P.2d 44

[14] Premature Motion

Motion for reconsideration of grant of summary judgment to defendants, deemed by trial court to be motion for new trial, was not premature, when, in context of motion for summary judgment, rendition of judgment occurs when written order granting summary judgment is entered, and motion was filed on same day as order granting summary judgment and judgment were entered. Sole Energy Co. v. Petrominerals Corp. (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 187, 195-196, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 790

Litigants are without power to vest court with jurisdiction to hear and determine premature motion for new trial. City of Santa Barbara v. Superior Court (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 612, 614, 49 Cal. Rptr. 798

[15] Review

[a] Appealable Orders

No appeal from trial court's denial of motion for new trial; ruling is reviewable only through appeal of judgment. Hamasaki v. Flotho (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 602, 608, 248 P.2d 910

Although trial court did not grant all relief defendant requested, which was requested maximum of 3 to 1 for punitive damages award rather than awarded 15 to 1 ratio, defendant could not appeal new trial order, whenj defendant was not aggrieved because it received new trial order it requested and appellate court could only set lower remittitur amount, which plaintiffs would have again rejected. Gober v. Ralphs Grocery Co. (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 204, 211, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 92

An order for a new trial is not proper until the action has been prosecuted to a point where all the issues have been determined. Cobb v. University of So. California (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 1140, 1144, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 71

Denial of motion for new trial is nonappealable order. Jutzi v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 637, 643 n.2, 242 Cal. Rptr. 74

Order granting new trial is appealable pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 657, 904.1. Herman v. Shandor (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 476, 480, 87 Cal. Rptr. 443

[b] Discretion of Reviewing Court

Reviewing court is not authorized to modify order granting new trial on all issues to one granting limited new trial unless such an order should have been made as matter of law. Schelbauer v. Butler Manufacturing Co. (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 442, 455, 198 Cal. Rptr. 155, 673 P.2d 743

Determination of motion for new trial is so completely within court's determination that action will not be disturbed unless manifest and unmistakable abuse of discretion clearly appears. Jiminez v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 379, 387, 93 Cal. Rptr. 769, 482 P.2d 681 ; Mosesian v. Pennwalt Corp. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 851, 858, 236 Cal. Rptr. 778 ; Candido v. Huitt (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 918, 923-924, 199 Cal. Rptr. 41

In reviewing denial of motion for new trial based on jury misconduct, appellate court is constitutionally obligated to review entire record, including evidence, and to determine independently whether act of misconduct, if it occurred, prevented complaining party from having fair trial. Smoketree-Lake Murray, Ltd. v. Mills Concrete Construction Co. (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1724, 1745, 286 Cal. Rptr. 435

Conditional order under Code Civ. Proc. § 662.5 for new trial on ground of excessive damages is reversible only if there is no substantial basis in record for any of reasons stated by trial court. Gerard v. Ross (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 968, 979, 251 Cal. Rptr. 604

Reviewing court is able to consider merits of motion for new trial that was denied by operation of law in same manner as motion expressly denied by trial court, even if appellant caused failure to have motion heard within statutory time period or motion is based on affidavits that trial court did not pass on. In re Marriage of Liu (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 143, 152-153, 242 Cal. Rptr. 649

In reviewing ruling on motion for new trial on ground of insufficiency of evidence, appellate court does not reweigh evidence, but confines its review to determination of whether or not there is substantial evidence, contradicted or uncontradicted, that supports jury's conclusion. Kolling v. Dow Jones & Co. (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 709, 725-726, 187 Cal. Rptr. 797

On reviewing trial court's denial of motion for new trial, appellate court's scope of inquiry is limited to whether or not clear abuse of trial court's discretion occurred. Byrne v. City & County of San Francisco (1980) 113 Cal. App. 3d 731, 739, 170 Cal. Rptr. 302

In reviewing trial court's order granting motion for new trial based on failure to give jury instruction, question is not whether failure to give instruction was prejudicial error but whether it was sufficiently misleading so that trial court, having seen and heard witnesses, could find that instructions were improper. Kimball v. Whetzel (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 836, 842, 89 Cal. Rptr. 373

Appellate court is without power to revive trial court's jurisdiction to rule on motion for new trial that has lapsed on expiration of statutory period and when denial of motion for new trial was erroneous reversal of judgment as required. Lippold v. Hart (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 24, 26-27, 78 Cal. Rptr. 833

Trial court's order denying motion for new trial on ground of insufficiency of evidence is not subject to being disturbed on appeal in absence of abuse of discretion. Sherwood v. Rossini (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 926, 932, 71 Cal. Rptr. 1

Appellate court is powerless to order new trial on ground of insufficiency of evidence because written order granting new trial does not specify that ground although record discloses that trial judge would have granted motion on that ground. Espinoza v. Rossini (1966) 247 Cal. App. 2d 40, 51, 55 Cal. Rptr. 205

[c] Motion Granted on Erroneous Ground

Trial court's rationale for granting new trial motion did not bind appellate court, and, under Code Civ. Proc § 657, order granting new trial would be upheld if it should have been granted on any ground raised in motion. Thus, in medical malpractice action, although trial court erred in granting summary judgment to defendant, error was cured by order granting new trial on plaintiff's motion on ground of error in law, when plaintiff's expert's declaration to effect that surgery was premature and unnecessary was sufficient to raise triable issue of material fact not only as to whether performing surgery was deviation from standard of care, but also as to presence of causal connection between negligent conduct and injury to patient. Tortorella v. Castro (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1, 9-13, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 853

Fact that trial court granted motion for new trial on erroneous ground does not preclude appellate court from affirming order if order can be sustained on other grounds set forth in motion. Foggy v. Ralph F. Clark & Associates, Inc. (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1204, 1217-1218, 238 Cal. Rptr. 130

[d] Partial New Trial

When parties appeal from partial grant of new trial, but judgment resulting from denial of new trial on remaining cause of action has become final, appellate court may order new trial as to all causes of action when verdicts are illegal and trial court could have granted new trial as to all causes. Manor Investment Co. v. F. W. Woolworth Co. (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 586, 597, 206 Cal. Rptr. 37 (disapproved on other grounds in Applied Equipment Corp. v. Litton Saudi Arabia Ltd. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 503, 521 n.10, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 475, 869 P.2d 454)

If party moves for new trial on all issues and is granted new trial only on certain issues, that party has a right of appeal from the order. Ferraro v. Pacific Fin. Corp. (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 339, 355, 87 Cal. Rptr. 226

[e] Rehearing of Motion

Remand to trial court for rehearing of motion for new trial is required when pending appeal, former case law, which might have led to different result, is reversed. Clemens v. Regents of the University of California (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 1, 18-19, 87 Cal. Rptr. 108

[f] Reversal on Appeal

If order granting new trial reversed on appeal, original judgment is reinstated. Sanchez-Corea v. Bank of America (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 892, 910, 215 Cal. Rptr. 679, 701 P.2d 826 ; La Manna v. Stewart (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 413, 425, 118 Cal. Rptr. 761, 530 P.2d 1073

When order granting new trial reversed on appeal, if moving party did not make a protective cross appeal from judgment, judgment becomes final on reinstatement. Sanchez-Corea v. Bank of America (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 892, 910, 215 Cal. Rptr. 679, 701 P.2d 826 ; Miller v. Los Angeles County Flood Control Dist. (1973) 8 Cal. 3d 689, 699, 106 Cal. Rptr. 1, 505 P.2d 193

If question presented in motion for new trial is purely one of law and there is any substantial evidence to support judgment, new trial order must be reversed unless some error of law is actually demonstrated; rule that on appeal every intendment is in favor of order granting new trial is inapplicable. Kaiser Cement & Gypsum Corp. v. Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co. (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 948, 951, 111 Cal. Rptr. 210

[g] Review of Entire Cause

On appeal from order granting new trial, reviewing court could not conclude as matter of law that trial court failed to conduct examination of entire cause as required by Cal. Const., art. VI, § 13, because, although trial judge may not have been able to read entire transcript, he presided over entire eight-day trial and ruled on motion less than two months after entry of judgment. Maher v. Saad (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 1317, 1324, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 213

[h] Waiver

Claim of attorney misconduct are entitled to no consideration on appeal unless record shows timely and proper objection and request that jury be admonished; right of review of order denying new trial is not waived even though request for admonition made only after last instance of alleged misconduct, if objection was made to all improper questions and claim is made that cumulative effect of repeated instances of misconduct was prejudicial. Dominguez v. Pantalone (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 201, 211-212, 260 Cal. Rptr. 431

[16] Service and Filing

Notice of intention to move for new trial is served and filed after jury verdict. Estate of Green (1944) 25 Cal. 2d 535, 541, 154 P.2d 692

If order granting new trial issued more than 60 days after filing of notice, court's power to grant new trial lapsed and motion was effectively denied; result is not avoided by entry of nunc pro tunc order purporting to grant new trial after court had lost jurisdiction. Worth v. Asiatic Transpacific, Inc. (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 849, 853-854, 156 Cal. Rptr. 110

General rule of Code Civ. Proc. § 12a, providing that time in which any act provided by law is to be done is computed by including the last day, applies to notices of intention to move for new trial, and notice filed on the 15th day from date that notice of entry of judgment mailed was timely. LaBorne v. Mulvany (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 905, 909-911, 119 Cal. Rptr. 596

Clerk properly refused to file notice of intention to move for new trial until receipt of filing fee. Kientz v. Harris (1953) 117 Cal. App. 2d 787, 790, 257 P.2d 41

[17] Specification of Grounds and Reasons in Order

[a] Assistance of Counsel Forbidden

Although court cannot direct attorney to prepare an order granting new trial or specification of reasons, counsel may assist court by calling any deficiency to its attention within 10-day period for filing specification of reasons so that court may correct order. Mercer v. Perez (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 104, 123-124 n. 8, 65 Cal. Rptr. 315, 436 P.2d 315

Amended order for new trial is not in compliance with Code Civ. Proc. § 657 when one of specifications was adopted verbatim from defense counsel's specification of reasons. Tramell v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 157, 168-170, 209 Cal. Rptr. 427

New trial order is not vitiated by court's use of some language used by counsel in brief supporting new trial motion. Eltolad Music, Inc. v. April Music, Inc. (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 697, 706-708, 188 Cal. Rptr. 858

Order adopting specification of reasons voluntarily drafted by counsel is insufficient, since court is required personally to prepare specification of reasons under Code Civ. Proc. § 657. Oberstein v. Bisset (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 184, 189, 127 Cal. Rptr. 413

Court did not comply with Code Civ. Proc. § 657 when trial court's minute order referred to its oral statement of reasons made during hearing and order was prepared by counsel. Worden v. Gentry (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 600, 605, 123 Cal. Rptr. 496

Judge must personally prepare specification of reasons; order incorporating by reference written argument of counsel for moving party is insufficient. Devine v. Murrieta (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 855, 860, 122 Cal. Rptr. 847

Penalty was imposed when order for new trial and supporting reasons were prepared by attorney for prevailing party rather than by court as expressly required by Code Civ. Proc. § 657. S.F. Bay Area Rapid Transit Dist. v. McKeegan (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 263, 267-271, 71 Cal. Rptr. 204

[b] Correction of Specification of Reasons

Court as in excess of jurisdiction if attempting to correct its order or specification of reasons nunc pro tunc after the expiration of the 10-day period for filing a separate specification of reasons. Mercer v. Perez (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 104, 121, 65 Cal. Rptr. 315, 436 P.2d 315

[c] Excessive or Inadequate Damages

When motion for new trial granted on ground of excessive damages, specification of reasons indicated respect in which evidence dictated less sizable verdict, but different concern applies when primary concern is amount of punitive damages awarded; in that case, specification are adequate when it makes reference to those aspects of trial proceedings that the court viewed as having improperly led jury to inflate its award. Neal v. Farmers Ins. Exchange (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 910, 932, 148 Cal. Rptr. 389, 582 P.2d 980 ; Grimshaw v. Ford Motor Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 757, 822, 174 Cal. Rptr. 348

Same rules that apply to specification of reasons with respect to ground of insufficiency of evidence as apply to ground of excessive damages, and court is required to state reasons and not ultimate facts to support grant of motion. Stevens v. Parke, Davis & Co. (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 51, 63, 107 Cal. Rptr. 45, 507 P.2d 653

Trial court has wider latitude in specifying reasons for granting new trial when issue is punitive damages rather than compensatory damages; order stating that punitive damages award does not bear reasonable relationship to value of total assets of defendant and does not bear reasonable relationship to defendant's annual income is adequate specification of reasons for granting new trial on grounds of excessive punitive damages. Gerard v. Ross (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 968, 978 n.6, 979, 251 Cal. Rptr. 604

New trial limited to damages is proper remedy when jury improperly apportioned nondivisible damages between codefendants. Marshall v. Brown (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 408, 415, 190 Cal. Rptr. 392

Specification of reasons is adequate when punitive damages were court's primary concern, and reasons included ratio of punitive damages to compensatory damages, amount punitive damages exceeded compensatory damages, and defendant's wealth and profit-generating capacity. Grimshaw v. Ford Motor Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 757, 822, 174 Cal. Rptr. 348

Reasons for order granting new trial on ground of inadequate damages were adequately specified when court referred to portions of record containing testimony of extent of plaintiff's medical expense, lost earnings, impairment of earning capacity, and pain and suffering. Sanchez v. Hasencamp (1980) 107 Cal. App. 3d 935, 940-942, 166 Cal. Rptr. 118

In specification of reasons in order granting motion for new trial on ground of insufficiency of evidence where judge disbelieves witness or testimony, judge must state that he or she disbelieved witness because of demeanor or testimony, but is not required to attempt description of extra-record impressions such as bearing or expression of witness. Meiner v. Ford Motor Co. (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 127, 141, 94 Cal. Rptr. 702

[d] Insufficiency of Evidence

When judge carefully and clearly set forth reasons why evidence was insufficient but failed to explicitly state ground of insufficiency of evidence, order granting new trial was affirmed, since ground was implied in stated reasons and court's intention was made clear by order. Jones v. Citrus Motors Ontario, Inc. (1973) 8 Cal. 3d 706, 709-710, 106 Cal. Rptr. 28, 505 P.2d 220

Trial court's specification of reasons for granting motion on ground of insufficiency of evidence did not comply with requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 657 where without identifying deficiencies in terms of evidence, record, or proof, specification simply reiterates statutory ground or is phrased as terms or issues or ultimate fact. Scala v Jerry Witt & Sons, Inc. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 359, 367-370, 90 Cal. Rptr. 592, 475 P.2d 864

When stating reasons for grant of motion on ground of insufficient evidence, trial judge must briefly recite the respects in which he or she finds the evidence to be legally inadequate and must briefly identify the portion of the record that convinces the judge that the court or jury clearly should have reached a different decision. Mercer v. Perez (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 104, 116, 65 Cal. Rptr. 315, 436 P.2d 315

Written order granting motion for new trial but failing to specify insufficiency of evidence as ground for granting motion was not sustainable on that ground, although intent of trial court to grant motion on that ground was clear. Malkasian v. Irwin (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 738, 744, 40 Cal. Rptr. 78, 394 P.2d 822

Provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 657 requiring written statement of reasons for granting new trial were satisfied by written order attaching and incorporating hearing transcript in which trial judge stated that evidence did not support jury's finding of no negligence because testimony of defendant driver showed her negligence at least partially caused collision with plaintiff's vehicle. Twedt v. Franklin (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 413, 418-420, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 740

When ground for relief relied on is insufficiency of evidence, order granting new trial must briefly identify portion of record that convinces judge that court or jury clearly should have reached different verdict or decision. Candido v. Huitt (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 918, 923, 199 Cal. Rptr. 41

Trial court's statement that its ruling and reasons were directed solely to proximate cause is specific enough to meet requirement of Code Civ. Proc. § 657; it need not state why it found evidence insufficent in that area. Candido v. Huitt (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 918, 923-924, 199 Cal. Rptr. 41

Where there are two or more issues on which evidence exists to support jury verdict, order must specify reasons why evidence on each is insufficient. Previte v. Lincolnwood, Inc. (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 976, 987, 122 Cal. Rptr. 194

Order granting new trial on ground of insufficiency of evidence and excessive damages after jury verdict for plaintiffs in action for breach of contract of distribution agreement does not satisfy Code Civ. Proc. § 657 when reasons stated are insufficient. Aronowicz v. Nalley's, Inc. (1972) 30 Cal. App. 3d 27, 39-40, 106 Cal. Rptr. 424

Failure to specify reasons for granting new trial on ground of insufficiency of evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 657] requires reversal of order. McLaughlin v. City etc. of San Francisco (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 310, 314, 70 Cal. Rptr. 782

[e] Mandamus to Compel

If judge fails to specify reasons for granting motion within 10 days after motion granted, party's remedy is writ of mandate ordering judge to specify reasons for granting motion within the 10-day period. LaBorne v. Mulvany (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 905, 916-917, 119 Cal. Rptr. 596

[f] Minute Order

Minute order constituted determination of motion for new trial within meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 660, when minute order expressly directed defendant to prepare order and submit it to court with approval as to form, and minute order was order ruling on motion because it stated motion for new trial was granted as to amount of damages only and denied as to issue of malpractice. Fergus v. Songer (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 552, 564, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 273

Initial minute order entered in permanent minutes was determination of motion for new trial; written order subsequently prepared, signed, and filed was sufficient compliance with statutory requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 657. San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit Dist. v. Fremont Meadows, Inc. (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 797, 801-803, 97 Cal. Rptr. 898

[g] No Ground or Reason Specified

If no ground or reasons are specified in order granting new trial, burden on appeal is on movant to advance any grounds on which order should be affirmed. People ex rel. Dept. Pub. Wks. v. Hunt (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 158, 162, 82 Cal. Rptr. 546

[h] Oral Recital

Oral recital by court of reasons for granting motion for new trial is insufficient specification of reasons; court must state reasons in writing. La Manna v. Stewart (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 413, 422, 118 Cal. Rptr. 761, 530 P.2d 1073

[i] Specification of Reasons

New trial order was not deficient in its statement of reasons, as it adequately referred to evidence both to guide appellate court's review and to supply substantial basis for order. Romero v. Riggs (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 117, 124,

29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 219

Order for new trial on punitive damages was reversed because judge failed to state reasons; irrelevant that judge also gave reasons for ordering new trial on portion of compensatory damages. Stewart v. Truck Ins. Exchange (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 468, 484-485, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 338

Specification of reasons for granting new trial is sufficent if it makes record sufficiently precise to permit meaningful review; specifications are insufficient if they are simply couched in form of conclusions or statements of ultimate facts. Tramell v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 157, 170, 209 Cal. Rptr. 427

When four out of five specified reasons for new trial are not adequately specified or supported by evidence, remaining reason is determinative, and order for new trial will be upheld. Tramell v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 157, 173-174, 209 Cal. Rptr. 427 (jury misconduct alone as sufficient reason)

[j] Statement of Grounds

Failure of trial court to comply with statutory mandate that court must specify ground or grounds on which new trial is granted and court's reason or reasons for granting new trial on each ground stated [Code Civ. Proc. § 657] does not prevent successful move on appeal to show that order should be affirmed on any one of the grounds presented to the trial court other than insufficiency of evidence to justify verdict. People ex rel. Dept. Pub. Wks. v. Hunt (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 158, 161-162, 82 Cal. Rptr. 546

Order granting new trial which does not specify unambiguously ground on which it is based is reversible. Hilts v. County of Solano (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 161, 177-178, 71 Cal. Rptr. 275

[k] Timeliness

Minute order granting defendant's motion for new trial constituted determination of motion within meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 660; order was defective because it did not state grounds for granting motion and specification of reasons for granting motion was nullity because it was filed more than 10 days after entry of order granting new trial in permanent minutes. Fergus v. Songer (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 552, 564-566, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 273

Order granting motion for new trial more than 60 days after filing of notice of intention to move for new trial was void for lack of jurisdiction, when plaintiffs filed and served notice of motion and motion for new trial, court issued tentative ruling granting motion within 60 days but, after hearing oral argument, court issued final written decision confirming tentative ruling more than 74 days after filing. However, because trial court never entered final judgment and retained inherent authority to reconsider, correct, and change its interim orders, appellate court would direct trial court on remand to exercise its inherent constitutional authority to reconsider summary judgment order. Fischer v. First Int'l. Bank (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1433, 1451-1452, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 162

Trial court properly denied motion for new trial on ground of lack of jurisdiction when motion was not heard within 60-day time period specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 660. In re Marriage of Liu (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 143, 151-152, 242 Cal. Rptr. 649

Time to file statement of reasons runs from date of conditional grant of new trial; failure to timely file requires reversal of grant of new trial and reinstatement of judgment. Ballou v. Master Properties No. 6 (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 65, 71-72, 234 Cal. Rptr. 264

If order granting new trial is made on 60th day, and 10 days thereafter specification of reasons filed by court, specification is timely since it must be filed 10 days after order but need not be filed within jurisdictional 60-day period for determination of the motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 660. Fortenberry v. Weber (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 213, 221, 95 Cal. Rptr. 834

Court is required to state reasons for granting motion in order or in separate document filed 10 days after filing of the order; 10-day period runs from determination of motion rather than from filing of order. Swanson v. Western Greyhound Lines, Inc. (1969) 268 Cal. App. 2d 758, 759-760, 74 Cal. Rptr. 383

[18] Time for Determination of Motion

Prevailing party's attorney's mailing to opposing counsel of photocopy of file-stamped and dated judgment started time limit for determining motion for new trial under Code Civ. Proc. § 660, so that determination of motion 66 days later was untimely, when service of written notice of entry of judgment and filing of original notice of entry and proof of service complied with Code Civ. Proc. § 660, and posttrial motion statutes do not require filing of original notice of entry or file-stamped copy of judgment accompanied by proof of service to start time limits for bringing posttrial motions. Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1277-1278, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067

Trial court erroneously granted new trial 61 days after plaintiffs served notice of entry of judgment on defendants by mail; Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a) does not extend deadline for court to act under Code Civ. Proc. § 660, so that once 60 days had run, motion was denied by operation of law and court lacked jurisdiction to act on it. Westrec Marina Management, Inc. v. Jardine Ins. Brokers Orange County, Inc. (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 1042, 1047-1049, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 673

Court's ruling on motion for new trial is invalid under Code Civ. Proc. § 660 when made 63 days after defendant's filing of first notice of intention to move for new trial; fact that ruling was made within 60 days after clerk mailed notice of entry of judgment is not determinative since mailing of notice does not commence new 60-day period. Bunton v. Arizona Pacific Tanklines (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 210, 215-216, 190 Cal. Rptr. 295

Time limits set by Code Civ. Proc. § 660 are mandatory and jurisdictional; limits are not susceptible to change by consent, waiver, agreement, or acquiescence. Meskell v. Culver City Unified School Dist. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 815

Trial court has discretion to delay determination of new trial motion to any date within 60-day period and further discretion to permit motion to be denied by operation of law if 60-day period expires without determination being made. Meskell v. Culver City Unified School Dist. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 815, 823, 96 Cal. Rptr. 773

In determining whether 60-day jurisdictional period under Code Civ. Proc. § 660 within which trial court can rule on motions for new trial had run, permanent minutes, not rough minutes, fixed date on which order granting new trial was entered. Meskell v. Culver City Unified School Dist. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 815, 821, 96 Cal. Rptr. 773

Sixty-day period within which trial court can rule on motions for new trial pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 660 is not extended under Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a) by service of notice of entry of judgment by mail. Meskell v. Culver City Unified School Dist. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 815, 822-824, 96 Cal. Rptr. 773

Sixty-day period within which trial court can rule on motions for new trial pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 660 runs from date notice of entry of judgment was filed and served by adverse party, not from date notice of entry of judgment was given by clerk. Meskell v. Culver City Unified School Dist. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 815, 824, 96 Cal. Rptr. 773

Code Civ. Proc. § 660, imposing time limitation on when judge must pass on motion for new trial, does not prevent judge from making conditional order within time specified and specifying additional time for performance of condition, although additional time must be reasonable. Alberton v. Superior Court of San Francisco (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 812, 814-815, 71 Cal. Rptr. 553

Sixty-day period within which trial court retains jurisdiction under Code Civ. Proc. § 660 to rule on motion for new trial begins from date that notice of entry of judgment is given by clerk; order made after 60-day period purporting to rule on motion for new trial is in excess of court's jurisdiction and void. Brennan v. Spanach (1968) 266 Cal. App. 2d 350, 353, 72 Cal. Rptr. 211

Judicial function of granting new trial must be completed within 60-day period (or period as enlarged by holidays under Code Civ. Proc. § 12a); matter is jurisdictional and attempt by court to act later is futile, motion being denied by operation of law. Alberton v. Superior Court (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 812, 814, 71 Cal. Rptr. 553

Nunc pro tunc additions either of reasons or grounds for ordering new trial--even for clerical error--as prohibited more than 10 days after motion is determined in manner prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 660. Fry v. Young (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 340, 347, 73 Cal. Rptr. 62

[19] With Motion for Judgment Notwithstanding the Verdict

Motion for new trial is frequently made with motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict. Schroeder v. Auto Driveaway Co. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 908, 919, 114 Cal. Rptr. 622

Court is unable to grant motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict with conditional order granting motion for new trial if for any reason judgment notwithstanding verdict is reversed on appeal. Widener v. Pacific Gas & Electric Co. (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 415, 436, 142 Cal. Rptr. 304

Trial judge who erroneously grants motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict is capable of determining sufficiency of evidence on motion for new trial, since two motions decided on different standard and Code Civ. Proc. § 629 clearly contemplates that both motions should be decided by judge who presided at trial. Zambrana v. Standard Oil Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 209, 215, 102 Cal. Rptr. 699

Order from which no appeal taken will not be reversed; motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict granted and motion for new trial granted only in event order granting judgment notwithstanding verdict reversed on appeal; where appeal confined to motion for judgment N.O.V. motion granting new trial will not be reversed. Aguirre v. Reno (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 284, 286, 96 Cal. Rptr. 924

Denial of Code Civ. Proc. § 663 motion is not appealable order. Clemmer v. Hartford Ins. Co. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 865, 871, 873, 890, 151 Cal. Rptr. 285 P.2d 1098; but see Howard v. Lufkin (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 297, 302-303, 253 Cal. Rptr. 422 (characterizing statement in Clemmer as dictum and reaffirming prior rule that order denying motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 663 is appealable); see also Hollister Convalescent Hosp., Inc. v. Rico (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 660, 663-664, 125 Cal. Proc. § 663 motion is appealable)

Motion is proper to set aside judgment and enter different judgment whenever court draws incorrect legal conclusion or renders erroneous judgment upon facts found by it to exist. County of Alameda v. Carleson (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 730, 738, 97 Cal. Rptr. 385, 488 P.2d 953

A person not party to the action as it was originally commenced or tried may intervene even after judgment by moving to vacate under Code Civ. Proc. § 663; person thereby gains right to appeal order denying motion to vacate. *County of Alameda v. Carleson (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 730, 736-737, 97 Cal. Motion to vacate judgment does not lie to vacate judgment following erroneous ruling on demurrer. Payne v. Rader (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 1569, 1574-1575, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 174

"Aggrieved party" under Code Civ. Proc. § 663 is one whose rights or interests are injuriously affected by judgment, and interest must be immediate, pecuniary, and substantial, and not nominal or remote consequence of judgment. Thus, insurer lacked standing and trial court properly denied insurer's motion to vacate judgment obtained against insured, when possibility that insurer would be bound by judgment did not satisfy "aggrieved party" standard; when insurer's incurring litigation costs as result of insured's coverage action was not substantial right or interest affected by judgment and was at most nominal consequence of judgment; when insurer's rights would only be injuriously affected if coverage were found; and when insurer would not be bound by finding that insured was liable if insurer could show fraud or collusion in coverage action. Tomassi v. Scarff (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 1053, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 750

Court has power under Code Civ. Proc. § 663 to set aside judgment granting writ of mandate when indispensable party to mandate proceedings was not made party. Inland Counties Regional Center, Inc. v. Office of Administrative Hearings (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 700, 703-707, 238 Cal. Rptr. 422

Parties' consent to vacate judgment does not enable court to vacate judgment; power to vacate judgment is strictly statutory. Southern Cal. White Trucks v. Teresinski (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 1393, 1407-1408, 236 Cal. Rptr. 159

Motion to vacate order on stipulated paternity judgment was brought with due diligence although filed six years after entry of judgment, because motion filed shortly after Supreme Court declared that type of judgment unconstitutional, and various pertinent Supreme Court cases were decided during six years' time. County of Los Angeles v. Thompson (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 18, 27-28, 218 Cal. Rptr. 101

Code Civ. Proc. § 663a imposes strict time limits, and court lacks power under Code Civ. Proc. § 663a to vacate judgment after time has elapsed within which proceedings by motion could be instituted, even when parties consent that motion be granted. County of Inyo v. City of Los Angeles (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 1178, 1183, 207 Cal. Rptr. 425

Code Civ. Trial court making new findings and ordering counsel to prepare new findings, conclusions, and judgment is deemed to be acting pursuant to *Code Civ. Order granting motion to vacate judgment and enter different judgment under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 663 and 663a is reviewable on appeal in same manner as special order made after final judgment. Reeves v. Hutson (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 445, 450, 301 P.2d 264

Because facts indicated that parties wished to terminate sale and purchase agreement and court concluded that agreement should be completed, thereby ordering the completion, motion to vacate judgment and enter different judgment was properly granted. Swanson v. Wheeler (1952) 112 Cal. App. 2d 43, 44-45, 245 P.2d 699

Motion to vacate judgment and enter different judgment under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 663, 663a are proper only after final judgments and not after interlocutory judgments or orders. Remington v. Davis (1951) 108 Cal. App. 2d 251, 253, 238

If court wrongly concluded that dispute or argument was element of agreed boundary line doctrine and doctrine in fact did not contain that element, motion to vacate judgment and enter different judgment is properly granted. Crook v. Leinenweaver (1950) 100 Cal. App. 2d 790, 792-794, 224 P.2d 891

On motion to vacate judgment and enter different judgment, court is not permitted to reopen case and receive further evidence or reexamine evidence before it. Gossman v. Gossman (1942) 52 Cal. App. 2d 184, 196, 126 P.2d 178

Motion to vacate judgment and enter different judgment is proper when judgment is not consistent with or supported by special verdict. San Francisco v. Superior Court (1928) 94 Cal. App. 318, 271 P. 121

Order that vacates judgment and does not enter different judgment is void and therefore nonappealable. Dolan v. Superior Court (1920) 47 Cal. App. 235, 241, 190 P. 469

A. Motion for Judgment Notwithstanding Verdict
1. Moving Party

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.180

§ 371.180 Preliminary Determinations

1. Ascertain whether or not grounds for a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict exist. The grounds are as follows:

a. No substantial evidence to support verdict; and

b. A motion for directed verdict should have been granted had a previous motion been made [Code Civ. Proc. § 629; see § 371.39].

2. Decide whether you will make oral or written motion.

An oral motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict is available in addition to the written motion and may be made in court immediately after rendition of the verdict. For a discussion of procedures for a written motion, see § 371.181.

3. Determine whether or not stay in execution of judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 918 is desired. For forms for use in staying execution, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments .

4. Assess availability of alternative procedures by which the aggrieved party may obtain a judgment in his or her favor. Alternative procedures are as follows:

a. Motion for new trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 657; see § 371.220 et seq.].

b. Motion for judgment on special finding [Code Civ. Proc. § 625; Ch. 326A, Jury Verdicts].

c. Motion to vacate [Code Civ. Proc. § 663; see § 371.260 et seq.].

d. Motion to correct clerical error or set aside void judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 473(d); see Ch. 489, Relief From Judgments and Orders].

A. Motion for Judgment Notwithstanding Verdict
1. Moving Party

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.181

§ 371.181 Preparation of Papers

1. Prepare the notice of motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict [see § 371.280] in the following number of copies:

a. Original for filing.

b. One copy for the opposing party's attorney of record, or if none, for the opposing party.

c. One copy for client, if desired.

d. One office copy.

e. Additional copies as desired.

2. Date and sign the notice of motion.

3. Prepare the accompanying memorandum of points and authorities in the same number of copies as the notice of motion and attach a copy to each copy of the notice.

For a memorandum of points and authorities in support of a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, see Calfornia Points and Authorities, Ch. 155, Motions After Trial (Matthew Bender).

4. Prepare the proof of service in same number of copies as the notice of motion and attach the original to the original notice of motion and a copy to each copy of the notice.

a. If notice is to be mailed by counsel, prepare certificate of service [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(2)].

b. If notice is to be mailed by someone other than counsel, prepare affidavit of service [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(1)] or declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5].

For forms of proof of service, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

5. Contact court clerk to determine local practice regarding setting of time for hearing.

a. In some jurisdictions, counsel sets own time for hearing, taking care to give opposing parties adequate notice of hearing under Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b). If counsel is to set time, determine time period during which motion can be heard.

NOTE:
Compute time by excluding first day and including last, unless the last day is a holiday, then it is also excluded [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 12, 12a; see Gov. Code §§ 6700, 6701 (list of holidays)].

(1) Calculate last day court can rule on motion.

The last day the court can rule on a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict is the same as the last day it can rule on a motion for new trial, or, whichever of the following is earliest:
(a) If notice of entry of judgment given,
(i) 60 days after clerk or prevailing party mails notice of entry of judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5, or

(ii) 60 days after any party serves written notice of entry of judgment of the moving party [Code Civ. Proc. § 660; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 629].

(b) If notice of entry of judgment not given,

60 days after intention to move for judgment notwithstanding the verdict was filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 660; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 629].

(2) Calculate first day court can rule on motion.

NOTE:
The court cannot rule on the motion until the expiration of the time in which motion for new trial must be served and filed [see § 371.182].

(3) Determine length of notice of hearing to be given to opposing parties--16 court days plus additional time for service by mail, overnight delivery, or fax [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)]. An extension may apply in case of electronic service made pursuant to a local rule adopted under Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6); see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers, § 518.41[8]].

(4) With these relevant dates in mind, counsel is advised to contact the judge who presided at trial and who will now hear the motion to arrange a convenient time between the times set out in Paragraphs (1) and (2), above. Counsel then should fill in the time and place of hearing in the notice of motion.

b. In other jurisdictions, the court will appoint a time for the hearing and the clerk will notify the parties of the appointed time. In this case, counsel should not fill in the time and place of hearing on the notice of motion.

6. Determine local court practice regarding preparation of judgments notwithstanding the verdict and orders denying the motion [see § 371.281].

1. Determine time limits within which motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict must be made.

NOTE:
The motion must be served and filed within the period prescribed for serving and filing notice of intention to move for a new trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 629 , 659]. That period is as follows [Code Civ. Proc. § 659]:

a. Before entry of judgment, but after jury has rendered a decision [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 659, 664],

b. Or the earliest of the following:
(1) 15 days after the court clerk or moving party mails notice of entry of judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5,

(2) 15 days after any party serves written notice of entry of judgment on the moving party, or

(3) 180 days after judgment is entered.

2. Serve notice of motion and accompanying papers on each opposing party's attorney, or if none, on each opposing party [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1011, 1012, 1015; see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

3. Deliver original notice of motion and attached originals of accompanying papers to court clerk for filing.

§ 371.220 Preliminary Determinations

1. Ascertain whether any of the grounds for a motion for new trial exist [see also § 371.63]. The grounds are as follows:

a. Irregularity in proceedings of the court, the jury, or the adverse party [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(1)].

b. Any court order or abuse of discretion that prevented fair trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(1)].

c. Jury misconduct [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(2)].

d. Accident or surprise [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(3)].

e. Newly discovered evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(4)].

f. Excessive or inadequate damages [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(5)].

g. Insufficient evidence to justify verdict [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(6)].

h. Verdict or decision against law [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(5)].

i. Error in law occurring at trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(6)].

j. Lack of phonographic report of trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 657.1].

k. Loss or destruction of bill of exceptions or statement of case due to public calamity [

Code Civ. Proc. § 663.1].

2. In nonjury trials, determine the desirability of requesting alternative relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 662 [see § 371.68].

3. Decide whether or not stay in execution of judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 918a is desired. For a form for use in staying execution see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments .

4. Determine the availability of other alternative procedures by which the aggrieved party may obtain a judgment in his or her favor. Alternative procedures are as follows:

a. Judgment notwithstanding the verdict [Code Civ. Proc. § 629; see § 371.180 et seq.; see also § 371.64[6]].

b. Motion for judgment on special finding [Code Civ. Proc. § 625; see Ch. 326A, Jury Verdicts].

c. Motion to vacate [Code Civ. Proc. § 663; see § 371.260 et seq.].

d. Motion to correct clerical error or set aside void judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 473; see Ch. 318, Judgments ; Ch. 489, Relief From Judgements].

B. Motion for New Trial
1. Moving Party

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.221

§ 371.221 Preparation of Papers

1. Prepare notice of intention to move for new trial [see § 371.300] in the following number of copies:

a. Original for filing.

b. One copy for opposing party's attorney of record, or if none, for opposing party.

c. One copy for client, if desired.

d. One office copy.

e. Additional copies as desired.

2. Date and sign the notice of intention to move for new trial.

3. Prepare memorandum of points and authorities in the same number of copies as the notice of intention to move for new trial and attach a copy to each copy of the notice.

NOTE:
For a memorandum in support of a notice of intention to move for new trial, see California Points and Authorities , Ch. 155, Motions After Trial (Matthew Bender).

4. If required, prepare the affidavit (or declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) in support of the motion for new trial [see § 371.302]. For a form for an affidavit that may be prepared in support of the motion, see Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations . Affidavits or declarations are required when the motion is made on the following grounds [Code Civ. Proc. § 658]:

a. Irregularity in the proceedings of the court, jury, or adverse party [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(1)].

b. Court order or abuse of discretion that prevented either party from having a fair trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(1)].

c. Jury misconduct [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(2)].

d. Accident or surprise, which ordinary prudence could not have guarded against [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(3)]. or

e. Newly discovered evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(4)].

5. If the motion is to be made on the minutes of the court, excerpt pertinent parts of the trial record and attach them as exhibits to the memorandum of points and authorities. The body of the memorandum should also incorporate these pertinent facts to show why, for example, the evidence at trial was insufficient to justify the verdict or other decision [see Code Civ. Proc. § 657(6); see also California Points and Authorities , Ch. 155 Motions After Trial , (Matthew Bender)].

6. Prepare proof of service in same number of copies as notice of intention to move for new trial and attach original to original of the notice and a copy to each copy of the notice.

a. If notice is to be mailed by counsel, prepare certificate of service [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(2)].

b. If notice is to be mailed by someone other than counsel, prepare affidavit of service [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(1)] or declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5].

NOTE:

For forms for proof of service, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

c. If notice is to be served separately from the supporting declarations and memorandum of points and authorities, separate proofs of service are required [see § 371.222].

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.222

§ 371.222 Service and Filing

1. Determine time limits within which motion for new trial must be made. The notice of motion must be filed as follows:

a. Before entry of judgment, but after the jury, court, or referee has rendered a decision [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 656, 659]; or

b. The earliest of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 659]:
(1) 15 days after the court clerk mails notice of entry of judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5,

(2) 15 days after any party serves written notice of entry of judgment on the moving party, or

(3) 180 days after judgment is entered.

2. Serve the notice on each opposing party's attorney, or if none, on each opposing party [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1011, 1012, 1015].

NOTE:
Time for serving and filing notice is not extended by Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 which extends the time when service is by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013].

3. Serve accompanying memorandum at the same time or within 10 days after filing notice of intention to move for new trial [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1600(a)].

NOTE:
On failure of moving party to timely serve and file memorandum, the court may deny the motion without a hearing on the merits [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1600(b)].

4. Serve any affidavits or declarations at the same time or within 10 days of fifing the notice of intention to move for a new trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 659a].

NOTE:
Time can be extended for additional period not to exceed 20 days for good cause shown upon affidavit or written stipulation of the parties [Code Civ. Proc. § 659a ; for stipulation and order extending time, see § 371.306].

5. Deliver original notice of motion and attached originals of accompanying papers, if filing concurrently, to court clerk and pay filing fee.

NOTE:
Amount of filing fee is prescribed by Gov. Code § 70617(a)(5).

1. Moving Party's Checklist

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.260

§ 371.260 Preliminary Determinations

1. Ascertain whether or not either of the grounds for a motion to set aside and vacate a judgment and to enter another and different judgment exist. The grounds are as follows [Code Civ. Proc. § 663]:

a. Nonjury trial--There is an incorrect or erroneous legal basis for the decision not consistent with or supported by the facts.

b. Jury trial--The judgment or decree is not consistent with or not supported by the special verdict.

2. Determine the availability of other alternative procedures by which the aggrieved party may obtain a judgment in his or her favor. Possible alternative procedures are as follows:

a. A motion for new trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 657; see § 371.220 et seq.].

b. A motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict under Code Civ. Proc. § 629 [see § 371.180 et seq.].

c. A motion for judgment on a jury's special finding if that finding is inconsistent with the general verdict [see Code Civ. Proc. § 625; see also Ch. 326A, Jury Verdicts].

NOTE:
A motion for judgment on a special finding must be made before judgment is entered on the general verdict [Napa Valley Packing Co. v. San Francisco Relief & Red Cross Funds (1911) 16 Cal. App. 461, 471, 118 P. 469] .

d. A motion to correct clerical mistakes in judgments and to set aside void judgments [Code Civ. Proc. §

1. Moving Party's Checklist

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.261

§ 371.261 Preparation of Papers

1. Prepare the notice of intention to move to set aside and vacate the judgment and to enter another and different judgment in the following number of copies:

a. Original for filing.

b. One copy for service on the opposing party's attorney of record, or if no attorney, on the opposing party.

c. One copy for client, if desired.

d. One office copy.

e. Additional copies as desired.

2. Date and sign the notice of intention to move under Code Civ. Proc. § 663.

3. Prepare the accompanying memorandum in the same number of copies as the notice of motion. Attach the original memorandum to the original of the notice and a copy to each copy of the notice.

For memoranda in support of and in opposition to a motion and to vacate a judgment and to enter another and different judgment, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 155, Motions After Trial (Matthew Bender).

CAUTION:
Although, under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100, 3.1103(a), a memorandum is not specifically required to be submitted in support of the motion, it is better practice to submit a memorandum as is generally required in law and motion proceedings [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010; Cal.

Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a)*].

4. Contact court clerk to determine local practice regarding setting of time for the hearing.

a. In some jurisdictions, counsel sets time for the hearing, taking care to give the opposing party adequate notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b). Since the judge who presided at trial will hear the motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1602], counsel is advised to contact the judge to arrange a convenient time. Counsel should then fill in the time and place of hearing in the notice of motion.

b. In other jurisdictions, the court will appoint a time for the hearing and the clerk will notify the parties of the appointed time. In this case, counsel should leave blank the time for hearing on the notice of motion.

5. Prepare the proof of service in the same number of copies as the notice of motion and attach the original to the original of the notice and a copy to each copy of the notice.

a. If notice is to be mailed by counsel, prepare a certificate of service [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(2)].

b. If notice is to be mailed by someone other than counsel, prepare affidavit of service [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(1)] or declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5].

For forms of proof of service, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

1. Moving Party's Checklist

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.262

§ 371.262 Service and Filing

1. Determine the time within which the motion must be made. The moving party must file with the clerk and serve on the adverse party a notice of his or her intention to move under Code Civ. Proc. § 663 either [Code Civ. Proc. § 663a]:

a. Before entry of judgment, or

b. Within the earliest of the following times:
(1) Within 15 days after the clerk mails notice of entry of judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5,

(2) Within 15 days after any party serves written notice of entry of judgment, or

(3) Within 180 days after judgment is entered.

2. Serve the notice of intention to set aside and vacate the judgment and to enter another and different judgment on the opposing party's attorney, or if none, on the opposing party [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1011, 1012, 1015].

NOTE:
The provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 extending the time for excercising a right or doing an act where service is by mail, Express Mail or other overnight delivery, or fax do not apply to the time specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 663a for the filing and serving of the notice of intention to set asideand vacate the judgment and to enter another and different judgment [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 663a, 1013]. The extension provided for in Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6 in case of electronic service also does not apply [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6)]. However, the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b), extending the time for notice of hearing when service is by mail, do apply [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(a)(13)].

3. Deliver original notice of motion and attached originals of accompanying papers to court clerk for filing.

To _____ [specify party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] and to _____ [name], his/her attorney of record:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [address], _____ [city], _____ [specify party, e.g., defendant] _____ [name] will, and hereby does, move for an order for judgment in his/her favor, notwithstanding the verdict. The motion will be made on the following grounds:

1. After viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to _____ [specify party securing verdict, e.g., plaintiff], there is no substantial evidence to support the jury's verdict in that party's favor and a directed verdict for _____ [specify moving party, e.g., defendant] should have been granted had a previous motion been made.

[2. On each and all of the grounds on which the motion for a directed verdict was made.]

The motion will be based on this notice of motion and the memorandum served and filed herewith, on the papers and records on file herein, and on such oral and documentary evidence as may be presented at the hearing of the motion.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]

Attorney for _____ [party's status]

CAUTION:

Although under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100, 3.1103(a), a memorandum is not specifically required to be submitted in support of the motion, it is better practice to submit a memorandum as is generally required in law and motion proceedings [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a)]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[2] Use of Form

This notice of motion is for use by a plaintiff or defendant to secure an order for judgment notwithstanding the verdict pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 629.

[3] Time and Place of Hearing

The notice must state the date, hour, address, and department or room number where the motion will be heard. To determine the date and time to be inserted, counsel must know the minimum notice period allowable. Generally, the minimum notice period is 16 court days plus additional time for service by mail, overnight delivery, or fax [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)], unless time is shortened by order of the court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300; Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time]. An extension may also apply in case of electronic service made pursuant to a local rule adopted under Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6); for discussion, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers, § 518.41[8]]. The period is calculated by excluding the first day and including the last, unless the last day is a holiday [Code Civ. Proc. § 12].

In some jurisdictions, counsel chooses the date for hearing of the motion for judgment N.O.V. taking into account the minimum required notice period. Since the motion will be heard and determined by the judge who presided at trial, counsel is advised to first contact the court to arrange a convenient time for the trial judge.

In other jurisdictions, the court appoints a time for the hearing of the motion and the clerk notifies the parties of the appointed time. In this case, the notice of motion does not set forth the time.

Since local practice varies on the determination of date and time of hearing, counsel should first check with the court clerk to determine local rules.

[4] Papers on Which Motion is Based

The notice must state the papers on which the motion is based [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010]. It may not be necessary to file an affidavit or declaration since the court must rely on the record of the case to make a judgment. However, a declaration or affidavit may be necessary in an alternative motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict and new trial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 658].

[5] Combined Motion for Judgment Notwithstanding the Verdict With Notice of Intention to Move for New Trial

The motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict is frequently combined with a notice of intention to move for a new trial. For a form of notice of intention to move for new trial, see § 371.300. Since the court must rule on both motions at the same time [Code Civ. Proc. § 629], it will appoint the time for hearing and the clerk will notify the parties of the designated time [Code Civ. Proc. § 661]. For this reason, the combined notice of motion should not set forth the time for hearing [see Code Civ. Proc. § 661; see also § 371.66[2]].

[6] Trial Court May Grant Relief Not Requested

When posttrial motions attacking the judgment have been made, the trial court is not limited to an order granting or denying the relief requested in the moving party's papers [see Hamasaki v. Flotho (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 602, 609-612, 248 P.2d 910 (court may grant new trial on all issues when motion was limited to fewer issues); Shapoff v. Scull (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1457, 1473 (dicta; court amended judgment on combined motion for new trial and judgment notwithstanding the verdict), disapproved on other grounds in Applied Equip. Corp. v. Litton Saudi Arabia (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 503, 521 n.10, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 475, 869 P.2d 454] . For further discussion, see § 371.300.

[8] Decisions

Mailing to opposing counsel of photocopy of file-stamped and dated judgment starts 15-day time limit for serving motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 629, 659. Service of written notice of entry of judgment and filing of original notice of entry and proof of service complies with section 659, and posttrial motion statutes do not require filing of original notice of entry or file-stamped copy of judgment accompanied by proof of service to start time limits for bringing posttrial motions. Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1277-1278, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067

Cardinal requirement for judgment notwithstanding the verdict is lack of substantial conflict in evidence; trial court is not to weigh evidence or judge credibility ofwitnesses in ruling on motion. Alexander v. State of California (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 890, 896, 205 Cal. Rptr. 758

Primary requirement for judgment notwithstanding verdict as lack of substantial conflict in evidence. Robinson v. North American Life & Cas. Co. (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 111, 118, 30 Cal. Rptr. 57

Judgment notwithstanding verdict is properly granted only if it appears from evidence, viewed in light of party securing verdict, that there is no substantial evidence to support verdict. Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 110, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377 ; Castro v. State of California (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 503, 512, 170 Cal. Rptr. 734

Defendant's motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict was granted only when, disregarding conflicting evidence on behalf of defendants and giving plaintiff's evidence all the value to which it is legally entitled, and indulging in every legitmate inference which may drawn from that evidence, no evidence of sufficient substantiality supports verdict in plaintiff's favor. Reynolds v. Willson (1958) 51 Cal. 2d 94, 99, 331 P.2d 48 ; Musgrove v. Ambrose Properties (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 44, 51, 150 Cal. Rptr. 722

[1] FORM Order Denying Motion for Judgment Notwithstanding the Verdict [Code Civ. Proc. § 629]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

[or other as appropriate]

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	ORDER DENYING JUDGMENT NOTWITH-
_____ [name],	)	STANDING THE VERDICT
Defendant.	)	[Code Civ. Proc. § 629]

The motion of _____ [specify moving party, e.g., defendant] _____ [name] for an order for judgment notwithstanding the verdict came on regularly for hearing by the court this date. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

On proof made to the satisfaction of the court that the motion ought to be denied,

IT IS ORDERED that the motion, be and it hereby is, denied on the following grounds:

[specify grounds such as the following]

1. The evidence is conflicting.

2. Several reasonable inferences are deducible from the evidence.

3. The verdict is sustained by sufficient or substantial evidence.

4. The evidence presents a question for the jury's determination.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the _____ Court

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing order is for use when the court denies a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict.

Orders and judgments are not ordinarily prepared until after the court has ruled on the motion. The court frequently takes the motion under submission after the hearing and notifies the parties at that time or at a later time as to the preparationof the judgments and orders. Counsel should check with the court clerk to determine local practice.

[3] Appealability of Order Denying Motion

An order denying a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict is appealable [Code Civ. Proc. § 904.1(a)(4), 904.2(e); see also § 371.74].

[4] Decisions

Judgment notwithstanding verdict is improper where several reasonable inferences are deducible from evidence. Clemmer v. Hartford (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 865, 877-878, 151 Cal. Rptr. 285, 587 P.2d 1098

Judgment notwithstanding verdict is denied where evidence is conflicting or several reasonable inferences may be drawn. Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal. 3d 104, 110, 120 Cal. Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377

Where different conclusions can be rationally drawn from evidence presented, then case presents question for jury and judgment notwithstanding verdict is improper. Meyser v. American Bldg. Maintenance, Inc. (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 933, 940, 149 Cal. Rptr. 808

Where substantial evidence supports jury's finding, judgment notwithstanding verdict is improper. Estate of Franco (1975) 50 Cal. App. 3d 374, 381, 123 Cal. Rptr. 458

Where evidence in conflict on points foundational to trial court ruling, judgment ordered for defendant notwithstanding verdict for plaintiff, was improper. McCown v. Spencer (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 216, 226, 87 Cal. Rptr. 213

Appeal lies from order denying motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict. Elisalda v. Welch's Sand and Gravel Co. (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 46, 50, 67 Cal. Rptr. 57

1. Irregularity in the proceedings of the court prevented _____ [specify party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] from having a fair trial as shown by the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)].

2. Irregularity in the proceedings of the jury prevented _____ [specify party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] from having a fair trial as shown by the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)].

3. Irregularity in the proceedings of the adverse party prevented _____ [specify party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] from having a fair trial as shown by the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)].

4. An order of the court prevented _____ [specify party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] from having a fair trial as shown by the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)].

5. An abuse of discretion prevented _____ [specify party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] from having a fair trial as shown by the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)].

6. There was misconduct of the jury as shown by the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)].

7. There was _____ [accident or surprise or both] at trial which ordinary prudence could not have guarded against as shown by the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)].

8. There is newly discovered evidence, material for the moving party, _____ [name], which could not with reasonable diligence have been discovered and produced at trial as shown by the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)].

9. _____ [Excessive or Inadequate] damages appear to have been awarded as shown by the minutes of the court.

10. The evidence is insufficient to justify the _____ [verdict or decision] as shown by the minutes of the court.

11. The _____ [verdict or decision] is against law as shown by the minutes of the court.

12. There was an error in law, occurring at trial and excepted to by the moving party, as shown by the minutes of the court.

13. There is a lack of a phonographic report of the trial due to _____ [death of the reporter or disability of the reporter or loss or destruction of the reporter's notes in whole or substantial part] as shown by the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)].

14. There was a _____ [loss or destruction] of the _____ [bill of exceptions or statement of the case] due to public calamity as shown by the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)].

[EITHER]

With respect to the grounds specified in Paragraphs _____ [specify numbers], above, this motion will be made on _____ [affidavits or declarations].

[AND/OR]

With respect to the grounds specified in Paragraphs _____ [specify numbers], above, this motion will be made on the minutes of the court.

[CONTINUE]

This motion is also based on a memorandum to be served and filed _____ [herewith or hereafter].
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]

_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [moving party's status]

CAUTION:
A memorandum is required to be served and filed within 10 days after filing this notice of intention to move for a new trial [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1600(a)]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use in initiating a motion for new trial under Code Civ. Proc. § 659.

[3] Time For Hearing

The court appoints the time for hearing of the motion for new trial and the clerk notifies both parties of the appointed time. For this reason, the notice of intention does not set forth the time for hearing [see Code Civ. Proc. § 661; discussion in § 371.66[2]].

[4] Filing Fee

A filing fee, in an amount prescribed by Gov. Code § 70617(a)(5), is required to be paid when the notice of intention is filed with the clerk.

[5] Trial Court May Grant Relief Not Requested

When posttrial motions attacking the judgment have been made, the trial court is not limited to an order granting or denying the relief requested in the moving party's papers [Shapoff v. Scull (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1457, 1473 (dicta) (disapproved on other grounds in Applied Equipment Corp. v. Litton Saudi Arabia Ltd. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 503, 521 n.10, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 475, 869 P.2d 454); see Hamasaki v. Flotho (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 602, 609-612, 248 P.2d 910 ; Manor Investment Co. v. F. W. Woolworth Co. (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 586, 590-592, 206 Cal. Rptr. 37 (disapproved on other grounds in Applied Equipment Corp. v. Litton Saudi Arabia Ltd. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 503, 521 n.10, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 475, 869 P.2d 454)]. For example, even though a party has moved for new trial on limited issues, the trial court has power to grant new trial on all issues [Hamasaki v. Flotho (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 602, 608-612, 248 P.2d 910] . Similarly, on appeal from an order granting a party's motion for new trial on one issue, the appellate court has power to order new trial on an additional issue or on the all issues [Hamasaki v. Flotho (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 602, 608-612, 248 P.2d 910 ; Manor Investment Co. v. F. W. Woolworth Co. (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 586, 598, 206 Cal. Rptr. 37 (disapproved on other grounds in Applied Equipment Corp. v. Litton Saudi Arabia Ltd. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 503, 521 n.10, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 475, 869 P.2d 454)]. In addition to granting new trial on more issues than requested, the trial court may be able to amend its judgment when the motion was for new trial and judgment N.O.V. [Shapoff v. Scull (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1457, 1473 (dicta approving trial court's amendment of judgment to eliminate a finding) (disapproved on other grounds in Applied Equipment Corp. v. Litton Saudi Arabia Ltd. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 503, 521 n.10, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 475, 869 P.2d 454)].

[7] California Rules of Court

Requirements for memorandum supporting or opposing notice of intention to move for new trial. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1600

[8] Decisions

[a] In General

New trial is proper to reexamine issues of law where there has been no trial on the merits. Carney v. Simmonds (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 84, 90, 315 P.2d 305

[b] Grounds

Court, in ruling on motion for new trial, is confined to grounds specified in notice. Van Ostrum v. State of California (1957) 148 Cal. App. 2d 1, 4, 306 P.2d 44

[c] Purpose of Notice

Purpose of notice of intention to move for new trial is to give adverse party reasonable opportunity to oppose motion on its merits. Nichols v. Hast (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 598, 600, 43 Cal. Rptr. 641, 400 P.2d 753

[d] Service and Filing

Mailing to opposing counsel of photocopy of file-stamped and dated judgment starts 15-day time limit for serving notice of intention to move for new trial under Code Civ. Proc. § 659. Service of written notice of entry of judgment and filing of original notice of entry and proof of service complies with section 659, and posttrial motion statutes do not require filing of original notice of entry or file-stamped copy of judgment accompanied by proof of service to start time limits for bringing posttrial motions. Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1277-1278, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067

Mailing conformed copy of judgment showing date it was filed with clerk (or in counties using judgment book rather than file of actions and microfilm copy, date it was entered) starts the 15-day period for giving notice of intention to move for new trial; Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5 (as amended in 1981) procedures for prevailing party to give notice of entry of judgment do not govern sufficiency of notice for purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 659. Tri-County Elevator Co. v. Superior Court (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 271, 276-277, 185 Cal. Rptr. 208

Notice of intention to move for new trial is served and filed after jury verdict. Estate of Green (1944) 25 Cal. 2d 535, 541, 154 P.2d 692

§ 371.301 Allegation in Notice of Intention to Move for New Trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 659]--Alternative Relief in Nonjury Trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 662]

[1] FORM Allegation in Notice of Intention to Move for New Trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 659]--Alternative Relief in Nonjury Trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 662]

[Insert as directed after first paragraph in § 371.300[1].]

If, in ruling on this motion, the court grants alternative relief under Section 662 of the Code of Civil Procedure, _____ [specify moving party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] requests the court to _____ [change or add to] the statement of decision and _____ [modify or vacate] the judgment in the following respects: _____ [describe changes in statement of decision and judgment] and grant a new trial on _____ [all or the following] issues: _____ [specify issues].

[EITHER]

[OR]

vacate and set aside the statement of decision and judgment and, in lieu of granting a new trial on the grounds of _____ [specify grounds, e.g., insufficiency of the evidence to justify verdict or error in law], to reopen the case for further proceedings and the introduction of additional evidence as described in _____ [specify, e.g., the declaration of _____ (name) in support of the motion for new trial or the memorandum of points and authorities filed in support of this motion] because _____ [specify reason, e.g., the evidence regarding _____ (describe) was held inadmissable into evidence by the court although it constituted an exception to the hearsay rule under Section 1230 of the Evidence Code or state other reason]. These further proceedings would have the same effect as if the case had been reopened after the submission thereof and before a decision had been filed or judgment rendered.

[2] Use of Form

This form is to be used to specify appropriate alternative relief in nonjury causes under Code Civ. Proc. § 662 [see § 371.68]. It is to be inserted after the first paragraph of as indicated in that form.

[3] Relief to Nonmoving Party

The court is authorized under Code Civ. Proc. § 662 to amend its statement of decision and judgment on denying a motion for new trial in favor of a party who did not make the motion for new trial [see Avery v. Associated Seed Growers, Inc. (1963) 211 Cal. App. 2d 613, 625, 27 Cal. Rptr. 625 (decided when findings existed under Code Civ. Proc. § 632)]. For this reason, the party in whose favor judgment was rendered might in his or her memorandum of points and authorities seek alternative relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 662.

[1] FORM Declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5] Supportive of Motion for New Trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 658]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

[or other as appropriate]

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	DECLARATION OF _____
_____ [name],	)	[name]
Defendant.	)	IN SUPPORT OF MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for _____ (specify moving party, e.g., plaintiff) or a party in the above-entitled action or any other person with personal knowledge of the facts].

[In separate, consecutively numbered paragraphs state the grounds for the motion in the statutory language of Code Civ. Proc. § 657, 657.1, or 663.1, specifying facts that support the grounds, e.g., if the ground is irregularity of the court, jury, or adverse party, use Paragraph 2.]

2. There was irregularity in the proceedings of the _____ [court and/or jury and/or adverse party] by which _____ [specify moving party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] was prevented from having a fair trial in that _____ [specify misconduct of court, jury, or adverse party, e.g., the court expressed prejudice against the use by plaintiff of his daughter as a witness to testify against the defendant, his wife, notwithstanding the competency of the testimony or a juror, _____ (name), witnessed the accident in question and had formed an opinion that plaintiff was contributorily negligent but on voir dire examination, he/she falsely denied having any knowledge of the accident or other misconduct]. This occurred on _____ [date], and was a departure from the orderly method of disposition of an action, materially affecting the substantial rights of _____ [specify moving party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] in that _____ [specify moving party, e.g., plaintiff] did not receive a fair trial since _____ [specify reasons, e.g., the court prejudged the testimony of the witness and intimated that unless the witness were withdrawn, the use of the witness would arouse a prejudice in the court's mind against the plaintiff or the juror who had personal knowledge of the accident told the other jurors during deliberations that she knew the fence was poorly maintained and was not surprised that it fell and that this expression of opinion improperly influenced the jury's verdict or specify other reason]. A different result is likely on retrial in that _____ [specify how verdict may differ, e.g., the verdict may be rendered in favor of the moving party if the testimony of the witness is considered without prejudice since it is competent testimony to prove that defendant received the money in question or the amount of damages may be reduced if the jurors are guided solely by evidence produced at trial or specify other difference]. [If ground is irregularity of the jury add: _____ (specify, e.g., Counsel and/or Moving parties) had no knowledge of the facts constituting misconduct or irregularity in the proceedings of the jury prior to the rendition of the verdict.] Because of the nature and the effect of this irregularity, this declaration in support of a motion for new trial was prepared.

[If ground is accident or surprise]

3. There was _____ [accident and/or surprise] occurring at trial which ordinary prudence could not have guarded against in that _____ [specify party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] was _____ [surprised and/or accident occurred] when _____ [specify incident, e.g., a witness for plaintiff gave testimony at trial that was entirely different from testimony that he/she had earlier stated would be given or specify other incident]. This incident materially affected the substantial rights of _____ [moving party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name], prejudicing the outcome of the case in that _____ [state reasons, e.g., plaintiff's case would have been stronger if the witness had testified as expected or if the witness were not called, plaintiff's case would have been stronger than it was after the witness had testified against him/her or state other reasons]. A different result is likely on retrial in that _____ [state how verdict or decision may differ, e.g., damages may be reduced or a verdict may be rendered in favor of plaintiff or specify other difference] since _____ [state reasons, e.g., counsel has procured a witness to testify to the facts as stated to counsel by the first witness or counsel has procured a witness to impeach the testimony of the first witness or state other reasons]. Due to the _____ [accident and/or surprise], counsel was unable to take these measures at trial. _____ [Specify person, e.g., Moving party or Counsel] exercised due diligence and prudence to guard against this _____ [accident and/or surprise] when _____ [state facts to show diligence, e.g., counsel diligently questioned the witness and investigated the facts of the case and it was impossible to foresee that the witness would testify differently from the facts previously stated to counsel and other facts]. This declaration in support of a motion for new trial has been prepared because of the prejudicial nature of the _____ [accident and/or surprise].

[If the ground is newly discovered evidence]

4. There is newly discovered evidence, material for _____ [specify moving party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] which he/she could not,with reasonable diligence, have discovered and produced at trial in that after the trial of the above-entitled action, _____ [specify moving party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] learned for the first time, on or about _____ [date], that _____ [state evidence on which reliance is placed, e.g., a new witness, _____ (name), occupied a house near the scene of the accident and saw the accident in question or state other evidence]. Lack of this evidence at trial, materially affected the substantial rights of _____ [specify moving party, e.g., plaintiff] in that _____ [specify reasons, e.g., there were no eyewitnesses produced at trial or state other reasons]. A different result is likely on retrial since _____ [state how verdict or decision may differ., e.g., the amount of damages may be increased or the decision may be rendered in favor of plaintiff or state other difference]. This evidence is not merely cumulative or impeaching but is material in that _____ [explain probable effect of evidence, e.g., the newly discovered evidence furnishes a plausible and probable explanation of what, in its absence, had seemed to present the impossible situation of two cars parked in the same place or state other effect]. _____ [Specify moving party, e.g., Plaintiff] _____ [name] exercised due diligence to discover and produce this evidence for trial when _____ [specify person who exercised due diligence, e.g., his/her attorney] _____ [state facts to show due diligence, e.g., interviewed all neighbors near the scene of the accident, went twice to the house of the newly discovered witness only to find it closed and unoccupied, was never told that the witness was present at the accident and additional facts]. After trial, this evidence was discovered and this declaration was prepared in support of a motion for new trial.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

[2] Use of Form

This declaration is for use in support of a motion for new trial. It may be used in lieu of an affidavit [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5].

[3] Irregularity in the Proceedings of the Jury

If the motion is based on irregularity in the proceedings of the jury, it is necessary to file declarations by the individual jurors to show, for example, that another juror may have concealed bias on voir dire. Furthermore, it is preferable for all of the moving parties and their attorneys to file individual supporting declarations indicating their lack of knowledge of the misconduct prior to the rendition of the verdict. However, the failure to file separate declarations is not a fatal error [Weathers v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 98, 105, 95 Cal. Rptr. 516, 485 P.2d 1132] . For a form of juror declaration, see § 371.303. For a separate, more detailed form of "no knowledge" declaration, to indicate lack of knowledge of jury misconduct before the verdict, see § 371.305.

[4] Newly Discovered Evidence

If the newly discovered evidence is testimony of a recently located witness, counsel should include a declaration of that witness stating what he or she knows and how he or she will testify if a new trial is granted. An affidavit or declaration that states counsel's or moving party's belief that a witness will testify in a certain manner is hearsay and will not be received by the court unless, for good cause shown, the affidavit or declaration of the witness cannot be received in time [Smith v. Schwartz (1936) 14 Cal. App. 2d 160, 167, 57 P.2d 1386] .

[5] State Statutes

Grounds for new trial requiring application to be made on affidavits. Code Civ. Proc. § 658

Time for filing affidavits and counteraffidavits. Code Civ. Proc. § 659a

[6] Decisions

[a] Accident or Surprise

Where defendant's attorney interviewed witness before trial, had no intimation that witness would testify differently at trial, and witness explained that he testified differently out of confusion, new trial as granted on ground of accident or surprise since different result probable on retrial and ordinary prudence could not have guarded against surprise. Whitfield v. Debrincat (1937) 18 Cal. App. 2d 730, 738-739, 64 P.2d 960

[b] Hearsay Unacceptable

Evidence presented by affidavit in connection with motion for new trial as required to be given from personal knowledge and cannot contain hearsay. Weathers v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 98, 105, 95 Cal. Rptr. 516, 485 P.2d 1132

[c] Irregularity in Proceedings of Court, Jury, or Adverse Party

Where court expresses prejudice against use of particular witness, notwithstanding the competency of the testimony, and this prejudice is reflected in the actions of the court against the aggrieved party, new trial as granted on the ground of irregularity in the proceedings of the court. Pratt v. Pratt (1903) 141 Cal. 247, 251-252, 74 P. 742

Where juror falsely denied having knowledge of accident on voir dire but during jury deliberations stated that she had personal knowledge of material factsin the case and had formed and expressed an opinion on the case, new trial as granted on ground of irregularity in the proceedings of the jury. Williams v. Bridges (1934) 140 Cal. App. 537, 540, 35 P.2d 407

[d] Newly Discovered Evidence

General averment of diligence as insufficient to support motion for new trial on ground of newly discovered evidence and particular circumstances or acts as required to be stated. Pierce v. Nash (1954) 126 Cal. App. 2d 606, 620, 272 P.2d 938

After trial, where newly discovered witness's testimony may affect outcome of case and proponent of evidence has fulfilled requirement of due diligence, new trial as granted on ground of newly discovered evidence. Celli v. French (1951) 107 Cal. App. 2d 599, 602, 237 P.2d 536

[2] Use of Form

This form of declaration is for use by a juror in impeaching a jury verdict by showing jury misconduct or irregularities in the jury's proceedings. The juror's declaration is for use in support of a motion for a new trial under Code Civ. Proc. § 659 [see § 371.300]. For an additional allegation of misconduct that may be included in this form, see § 371.304.

A juror declaration must show misconduct by overts facts that can be objectively corroborated, not subjective mental processes [see Evid. Code § 1150(a); Province v. Center for Women's Health & Family Birth (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1673, 1678, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 667] . For further discussion of this requirement, see § 371.64[3][c]. For discussion of the types of misconduct that may be shown, see § 371.63[3][b].

[1] FORM Allegation in Juror Declaration of Chance Verdict [Code Civ. Proc. § 657(2)]

During deliberations, all jurors agreed to be bound by the average of their individual estimates of the damages owing to _____ [name of moving party]. Thereafter, each juror wrote his/her estimate of _____'s [name of moving party] damages on a slip of paper; the slips were collected and the figures on each slip added; the total figure thus obtained was divided by the number of jurors. There was no discussion of the rationale for the final figure obtained. This figure was presented to the court as the jury's verdict.

[2] Use of Form

This form of allegation is for use in a juror's declaration offered to show jury misconduct. The allegation is in support of a motion for new trial on the ground of a chance verdict [see Code Civ. Proc. § 657(2)]. This allegation may be used in addition to or as a replacement for Paragraphs 2-4 of see § 371.303. For further discussion of chance verdicts, see § 271.63[3][b][iv].

B. Motion for New Trial

33-371 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 371.308

§ 371.308 Order Granting New Trial [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 657, 660]

[1] FORM Order Granting New Trial [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 657, 660]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

[or other as appropriate]

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	ORDER GRANTING NEW TRIAL

The motion of _____ [specify moving party, e.g., plaintiff] _____ [name] for a new trial came on regularly for hearing by the court this date. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

On proof made to the satisfaction of the court that the motion ought to be granted,

IT IS ORDERED that the motion be, and hereby is, granted and that the _____ [verdict or decision] rendered on _____ [date], [and the judgment entered on that _____ (verdict or decision)] be _____ [modified or set aside and vacated] and that a new trial is ordered _____ [on all issues or on the following issues: _____ (specify)].

SPECIFICATION OF REASONS

The court's reasons for granting the new trial on _____ [the or if more than one, each] ground stated are as follows: _____ [state reasons for each ground].
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the _____ Court

[2] Use of Form

The foregoing order and specification of reasons are for use when the court grants a new trial. The order and reasons are prepared by the court which may not request counsel to prepare them [Code Civ. Proc. § 657].

[3] Statement of Grounds and Specification of Reasons

The court is required to state the ground or grounds for granting the motion in the order; moreover, the court does not have jurisdiction to correct the order nunc pro tunc by adding any ground or grounds after the expiration of the 60-day period allowed for making the order under Code Civ. Proc. § 660 because the 10-day extended period for filing the specification of reasons does not apply to the statement of grounds [see Code Civ. Proc. § 657; Sanchez-Corea v. Bank of America (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 892, 901-905, 215 Cal. Rptr. 679, 701 P.2d 826] . The order may contain the court's specification of reasons, or the specification may be separately prepared, but the court must, in that case, prepare, sign, and file the specification with the clerk within 10 days after the order is filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 657].

[4] State Statutes

Court as not permitted to direct attorney to prepare order and specification of reasons. Code Civ. Proc. § 657

Order granting new trial on ground of insufficiency of evidence as required to be specified in writing, otherwise, presumed that motion not granted on that ground. Code Civ. Proc. § 657

Court as having 60 days to determine motion; signed entry in minutes and filing with clerk as requisites to determination. Code Civ. Proc. § 660

[5] Decisions

Mailing to opposing counsel of photocopy of file-stamped and dated judgment starts 60-day time limit for determining motion for new trial under Code Civ. Proc. § 660. Service of written notice of entry of judgment and filing of original notice of entry and proof of service complies with section 660, and posttrial motion statutes do not require filing of original notice of entry or file-stamped copy of judgment accompanied by proof of service to start time limits for bringing posttrial motions. Palmer v. GTE (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1265, 1277-1278, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 654, 70 P.3d 1067

Trial court's specification of reasons for granting motion on ground of insufficiency of evidence as not complying with requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 657 where without identifying deficiencies in terms of evidence, record, or proof, specification simply reiterates statutory ground or is phrased in terms or issues or ultimate fact. Scala v. Jerry Witt &

Sons, Inc. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 359, 367-370, 90 Cal. Rptr. 592, 475 P.2d 864

Although court cannot direct attorney to prepare order granting new trial or specification of reasons, counsel may assist court by calling any deficiency to its attention within 10-day period for filing specification of reasons so that court may correct order. Mercer v. Perez (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 104, 123-124 n. 8, 65 Cal. Rptr. 315, 436 P.2d 315

Order for new trial on punitive damages as reversed because judge failed to state reasons; irrelevant that judge also gave reasons for ordering new trial on portion of compensatory damages. Stewart v. Truck Ins. Exchange (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 468, 484-485, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 338

When four out of five specified reasons for new trial are not adequately specified or supported by evidence, remaining reason as determinative, and order for new trial will be upheld. Tramell v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1984)163 Cal. App. 3d 157, 173-174, 209 Cal. Rptr. 427 (jury misconduct alone as sufficient reason)

Requirement of specification of reasons as mandatory; mandate as remedy to compel judge to specify reasons. LaBorne v. Mulvany (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 905, 916-917, 119 Cal. Rptr. 596

Court as required to state reasons for granting motion in order or as separate document filed 10 days after filing of order; ten-day period as running from determination of motion rather than from filing of order. Swanson v. Western Greyhound Lines, Inc. (1969) 268 Cal. App. 2d 758, 759-760, 74 Cal. Rptr. 383

To _____ [specify party, e.g., defendant] _____ [name] and to _____ [name] his/her attorney of record:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [address], _____ [city], _____ [ specify party, e.g., plaintiff] will move for an order:

1. To set aside and vacate the judgment entered on _____ [date];

[EITHER]

2. To amend and correct the statement of decision filed in this action on _____ [date]; and

[OR]

2. To correct the judgment or decree of the court that is not consistent with the special verdict, rendered by the jury on _____ [date]; and

[CONTINUE]

3. To enter another and different judgment.

[EITHER, for the ground of incorrect or erroneous legal basis for the decision]

The motion will be made on the ground that the legal basis for the decision filed by the court is _____ [incorrect and/or erroneous] inthat it is not _____ [consistent with and/or supported by] the facts. These errors have materially affected the substantial rights of _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff] entitling him/her to a different judgment in that _____ [state facts showing how party was deprived of fair trial].

The following legal bases for the decision, for the reasons specified, are _____ [incorrect and/or erroneous] and not _____ [consistent with and/or supported by] the facts:

1. [Set out erroneous or incorrect legal bases, identifying them by paragraph, page, and line number in statement of decision, and specify reasons why they are erroneous or incorrect.]

The statement of decision should be amended and corrected as follows:

1. [Specify changes desired in statement of decision.]

[OR, if judgment or decree is neither consistent with nor supported by the special verdict]

The motion will be made on the ground that the _____ [judgment or decree] is not _____ [consistent with or supported by] the special verdict of the jury. This error materially affected the substantial rights of _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff] entitling him/her to a different judgment in that _____ [state facts showing how party was deprived of fair trial].

The _____ [judgment or decree] of the court that _____ [specify contents of judgment or decree] is not _____ [consistent with or supported by] the special verdict of the jury that stated the following: "_____" [incorporate verbatim copy of jury's special verdict]. The _____ [judgment or decree] is _____ [inconsistent with or unsupported by the verdict] because:

1. [Set out reasons why judgment or decree is neither consistent with nor supported by the special verdict.]

[CONTINUE]

The following _____ [judgment or decree] should be entered:

1. [Specify desired judgment or decree.]

This motion will be based on this notice and on the memorandum served and filed herewith, and on all the papers and records of this action.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for _____ [moving party's status and name]

CAUTION:

Although under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100, 3.1103(a) a memorandum is not specifically required to be submitted in support of the motion, it is better practice to submit a memorandum as is generally required in law and motion proceedings [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a)]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use as a notice of intention to set aside and vacate a judgment and to enter another and different judgment. Before using the form, however, counsel should determine local court practice regarding whether the notice should set forth the time and place of hearing or whether the time and place of hearing are to be appointed by the court.

[3] State Statutes

Grounds of motion to vacate judgment. Code Civ. Proc. § 663

Notice of intention to move to vacate judgment. Code Civ. Proc. § 663a

[4] California Rules of Court

Extension of time to appeal when notice of intention to move for order vacating judgment is filed. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.108(c)

Judge who will hear and determine motion is judge who presided at trial. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1602

[5] Decisions

Motion is proper to set aside judgment and enter another and different judgment whenever court draws incorrect legal conclusion or renders erroneous judgment upon facts found by it to exist. County of Alameda v. Carleson (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 730, 738, 97 Cal. Rptr. 385, 488 P.2d 953

Motion to vacate and set aside judgment and enter another and different judgment was proper only after final judgments and not after interlocutory judgments or orders. Remington v. Davis (1951) 108 Cal. App. 2d 251, 253, 238 P.2d 662

On hearing motion to vacate and set aside judgment and enter different judgment, court has no power to consider or determine any matter except what judgment should be entered on facts as found. Dolan v. Superior Court (1920) 47 Cal. App. 235, 241, 190 P. 469

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use as an order setting aside and vacating a judgment and directing the entry of another and different judgment. However, before using the form, counsel should check to determine local court practice regarding whether or not the new judgment is to be incorporated as a part of the order setting aside and vacating the judgment and directing the entry of another and different judgment.

[3] Decisions

Where court fails to correct conclusions of law and only enters different judgment, judgment as superseding incorrect conclusion of law and failure to correct as not requiring reversal of judgment. Howard A. Deason & Co. v. Costa Tierra Ltd. (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 742, 760, 83 Cal. Rptr. 105 (decided when conclusions of law existed under Code Civ. Proc. § 632)

Order that vacates judgment, but fails to enter new judgment, as void since Code Civ. Proc. § 663 specifically provides for vacation of judgment and entry of another judgment. Dolan v. Superior Court (1920) 47 Cal. App. 235, 241, 190 P. 469

Chapter 372 MOTIONS AND ORDERS
PART I. SCOPE

33-372 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 372.01

§ 372.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses original motions and orders, as opposed to renewed motions and motions to reconsider, which are discussed in Ch. 374, Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions .

This chapter includes forms of:

- Notice of motion [see § 372.60].
- Supporting declaration [see § 372.61].
- Written statement of oral evidence sought to be introduced at the hearing [see § 372.62].
- Separate notice of intent to appear by telephone at a hearing on a motion [see § 372.63].
- Orders on a motion [see §§ 372.64, 372.65].
- Notice of entry of order [see § 372.66], notice of the court's decision [see § 372.67], and notice of entry of judgment or order [see § 372.67A].
- Ex parte motion [see § 372.68].
- Orders on an ex parte motion [see §§ 372.69, 372.70].

The chapter also includes a skeletal form of order to show cause [see § 372.71], and forms of written motion [see § 372.72] and notice of hearing on written motion [see § 372.73].

Motions are far too numerous to list or classify with respect to the relief sought, and many have their own procedures prescribed by statutes which must be complied with. Consequently, for procedures governing specific motions and for forms for use with respect to those motions, counsel should consult specific titles in this publication. For example, for procedures and forms for use on a motion for summary judgment, a motion to dismiss an action, or a motion for new trial, see Ch. 537, Summary Judgment , Ch. 212, Dismissal , and Ch. 371, Motions After Trial , respectively. § 372.10 Governing Law

Motions and orders are governed generally by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1003-1008, 1064, notices of motion by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005, 1010, and service of notices and papers by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020. The filing fee required to be paid and exceptions to the requirement are covered by Gov. Code § 70617.

A comprehensive set of rules governing civil law and motion proceedings in superior court is set forth as Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110 et seq. "Law and motion" is defined in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1103(a). The rules also apply to discovery proceedings in family law and in probate [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110]. In addition, unless the context or subject matter otherwise requires, the rules apply to demurrers [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(c)].

Appearance at hearings on motions is governed by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670 and by Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 3.1.

In addition to the statutes and California Rules of Court, local court rules often impose specific and precise requirements on motion practice. Some of these rules are referred to in this chapter. However, as of July 1, 2000, Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.20, declares that the Judicial Council preempts local rules relating to pleadings, demurrers, ex parte applications, motions, discovery, provisional remedies, and the form and format of papers, and that no trial court,or any division or branch of a trial court is to enact or enforce any local rule concerning those fields. All local rules concerning these fields are declared to be null and void as of July 1, 2000, unless otherwise permitted or required by statute or a rule in the CA Rules of Ct. [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.20(a)]. There are some exceptions, most significantly for local rules enacted under the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.20(b), (c)].

For discussion of motions in the Supreme Court and courts of appeal, see Ch. 45, Appeal: Motion Procedure . For discussion of motions in the superior court appellate divisions, see Ch. 345A, Limited Civil Cases .

§ 372.11 Applicability of Civil Law and Motion Rules

For the purposes of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110 et seq., "law and motion" is defined as including any of the following proceedings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103(a)]:

(1) On application before trial for an order, except for causes arising under the Welfare and Institutions Code, Probate Code, Family Code, or Code of Civil Procedure § 527.6 (injunctions relating to harassment), Code of Civil Procedure § 527.7 (injunctions relating to gang activity), or Codeof Civil Procedure § 527.8 (injunctions relating to threats of violence against an employee).

(2) On application for an order regarding the enforcement of judgment, attachment of property, appointment of a receiver, obtaining or setting aside a judgment by default, writs of review, mandate, and prohibition, a petition to compel arbitration, and enforcement of an award by arbitration.

Chapter 372 MOTIONS AND ORDERS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-372 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 372.12

§ 372.12 "Order" and "Motion" Defined

An "order" is a direction of a court or judge, made or entered in writing, and not included in a judgment. A "motion" is an application for an order [Code Civ. Proc. § 1003]. These definitions, which by their placement in the code apply to civil actions, are applicable to similar acts in a special proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 1064].

An order must be either entered in the court's permanent minutes or signed by the judge and stamped "filed" [Shpiller v. Harry C.'s Redlands (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 1177, 1179, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 814 ; Michael v. Aetna Life & Cas. Ins. Co. (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 925, 932, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 240 ; see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.104].

A motion is not an independent right or remedy, but, rather, is confined to incidental matters in the progress of a cause. A motion relates to some question that is collateral to the main object of the action and is connected with and dependent on the principal remedy. Hence, it is not proper to raise by motion wholly distinct and independent matters that generally should be the subject of a formal petition or complaint [Killian v. Millard (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1601, 1606, 279 Cal. Rptr. 877] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-372 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 372.13

§ 372.13 Nature of Motion; When Motions May Be Made

The nature of a motion is determined by the nature of the relief sought and not by the label attached to it [City & County of S. F. v. Muller (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 600, 603, 2 Cal. Rptr. 383] .

Motions are not independent rights or remedies, but imply a pendency of suits between the parties and are confined to matters collateral, or incidental, to the main objects of the actions [People v. Burks (1961) 189 Cal. App. 2d 313, 317, 11 Cal. Rptr. 200 , cert. denied, 368 U.S. 898 ; People v. Sparks (1952) 112 Cal. App. 2d 120, 121, 246 P.2d 64 , cert. denied, 345 U.S. 959 (1953)] . As the rule is sometimes expressed, a motion relates to some question collateral to the main object of the action and is connected with, and dependent on, the principal remedy [People v. Sparks (1952) 112 Cal. App. 2d 120, 121, 246 P.2d 64 , cert. denied, 345 U.S. 959 (1953) ; see also Donald J. v. Evna M. (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 929, 934, 147 Cal. Rptr. 15] .

Although incidental to an action or special proceeding, motions may be made throughout the pendency of a cause [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1049, below, defining pendency of action]. Thus, motions may be made:

- Before trial, such as motions for summary judgment pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 437c.
- During trial, such as motions for nonsuit pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 581c.
- After trial, such as nonstatutory motions for directed verdict or motions for judgment notwithstanding the verdict pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 629.
- After judgment, such as motions to set aside or vacate judgment pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 473(b), (d), 473.5, and 663.
- During an appeal, such as a motion to strike a defective brief pursuant to Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.204(e)(2).

Moreover, there are no general rules governing the time for making motions, although a number of statutes relating to specific motions impose time limitations on when the motion can be made [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 435 (motion to strike all or part of pleading)]. Except as limited by statute, a motion may normally be made at any time when the relief sought would be appropriate, provided of course, that the action or proceeding is still pending. An action is deemed to be pending from the time of its commencement until its final determination on appeal, or until the time for appeal has passed, unless the judgment is sooner satisfied [Code Civ. Proc. § 1049].

§ 372.14 Who May Make Motion

Normally, a motion may be made only by a person who is a party to the pending action or proceeding [Difani v. Riverside County Oil Co. (1927) 201 Cal. 210, 214, 256 P. 210 ; Chase v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1962) 210 Cal. App. 2d 872, 876, 27 Cal. Rptr. 383 ; Marshank v. Superior Court (1960) 180 Cal. App. 2d 602, 605, 4 Cal. Rptr. 593 ; see also Roski v. Superior Court (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 841, 845-846, 95 Cal. Rptr. 312 (motion by nonparty to action under Code Civ. Proc. § 473 to vacate plaintiff's voluntary dismissal of action and for leave to intervene held unauthorized and granting of motion improper)]. An exception exists in the case of a void judgment or order. A person who is not a party to the action or proceeding may move to vacate the void judgment or order if he or she has a right or interest which would be affected by its enforcement [People v. Silva (1981) 114 Cal. App. 3d 538, 547, 170 Cal. Rptr. 713] . Also, an attorney to whom an award of fees has properly been ordered paid, although not a party to the action or proceeding, may move the court to enforce the award[Sorell v. Superior Court of San Francisco (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 157, 159, 56 Cal. Rptr. 222] .

§ 372.15 Court in Which Motion Is to Be Made

Code Civ. Proc. § 1004 provides that except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 166 (relating to power of trial court judges to act in chambers and powers of judges as opposed to powers of court), motions must be made in the court in which the action is pending. Notwithstanding this provision, other statutes may authorize the making of a motion in a court other than the one in which the action is pending [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 708.160, relating to examination of third persons with information about a judgment debtor's assets under Code Civ. Proc. § 708.120 et seq., discussed in Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-372 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 372.16

§ 372.16 Kinds of Motions and Terminology

All motions are either oral or written and are made in one of the following manners:

- By making the motion orally in open court during a hearing or trial or in the judge's chambers in the presence of adverse counsel. Examples of oral motions during trial are motions to strike testimony, motions for nonsuit [Code Civ. Proc. § 581c] or judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8], motions for directed verdict, and motions for mistrial;

- By presenting an ex parte motion, or application, and order to a judge or commissioner in chambers, followed, if the judge or commissioner signs the order, by the filing and service of the motion and order [see discussion under § 372.19; for a form, see § 372.68];

- By filing a written motion, application, or petition, followed by the serving and filing of a notice of hearing. Examples of written motions are the application for a right to attach order and writ of attachment [Code Civ. Proc. § 484.010; see also Ch. 62, Attachment] and petitions for orders in probate proceedings [Prob. Code § 1200 et seq.]; or

- By serving and filing a notice of motion with its supporting papers followed by a hearing on the motion and the ruling of the judge granting or denying it [see discussion under § 372.21, for forms, see §§ 372.60-372.67A].

In describing a written motion, counsel should use the terminology ("motion" or "application" or "petition") of the statute governing the particular motion unless a written form employing other terminology is provided by the court in which the cause is pending. Use of the word "petition" in a statute as a substitute for the term "written motion" [see, e.g., Prob. Code § 1201] should not, however, be confused with the word "petition" used to describe the pleading that initiates a special proceeding of a civil or criminal nature. For example, all proceedings for a prerogative writ are initiated by the filing of a petition [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1069 (certiorari), 1086 (mandate), 1103 (prohibition); Penal Code § 1474 (habeas corpus)].

Which of the four procedures listed above is to be followed in a given case will depend on when the motion is made and the particular order sought. For example, motions before trial are ordinarily made on notice to the adverse party or ex parte, or by written motion followed by the service and filing of a notice of hearing. Motions made during trial are usually made orally. Motions after trial are typically made on notice to the adverse party.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-372 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 372.17

§ 372.17 Orders to Show Cause

An order to show cause is made by the court or judge on ex parte application [Kenney v. Kelleher (1883) 63 Cal. 442, 444 ; for a form, see § 372.71]. It is in the nature of a citation to a party to appear at a stated time and place to show cause why the relief sought should not be granted [Green v. Gordon (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 230, 232, 246 P.2d 38] . It substitutes for a notice of motion [Donald J. v. Evna M. (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 929, 933, 147 Cal. Rptr. 15 ; Marshank v. Superior Court (1960) 180 Cal. App. 2d 602, 605, 4 Cal. Rptr. 593] ; that is, it operates both as a notice of motion for an order and as a citation to a party to appear at a stated time and place to show cause why the motion should not be granted [Difani v. Riverside County Oil Co. (1927) 201 Cal. 210, 213-214, 256 P. 210 ; see also Sarracino v. Superior Court (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 1, 8 n.6, 118 Cal. Rptr. 21, 529 P.2d 53 ; Reifler v. Superior Court (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 479, 483, 114 Cal. Rptr. 356] .

Orders to show cause are commonly used in family law proceedings to secure pendente lite or other relief [see Cal. Judicial Council Form 1285; see also Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure], in actions and proceedings to secure issuance of a preliminary injunction when a temporary restraining order is granted without notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a); Fam. Code § 6300 et seq.; see also Cal. Judicial Council Form 1296.10; Ch. 303, Injunctions; , Ch. 293 Harassment and Domestic Violence], and in indirect contempt proceedings to secure the presence in court of alleged contemner [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1212; see also Ch. 135, Contempt ; for form of order to show cause and declaration for contempt in family law proceeding, see Cal. Judicial Council Form 1285.60 and Ch. 258, Family Law Enforcement: General Enforcement Principles and Remedies, § 258.130].

The order to show cause proceeding is also used to secure an order against a party who has not yet appeared in the action or proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010, 1014], although jurisdiction over the party has already been obtained byservice of summons or will be obtained by such service concurrently with the service of the order to show cause.

§ 372.18 Filing Fee

Except for motions for summary judgment or adjudication [see Gov. Code § 70617(d)], the fee for filing any notice of motion or any other paper requiring a hearing subsequent to the first paper is $40 [Gov. Code § 70617(a)]. However, no filing fee may be charged for an amended notice of motion [Gov. Code § 70617(b)(2)].

Other papers for which no filing fee may be charged are the following:

- A motion, application, demurrer, request, notice, or stipulation and order that is the first paper filed in an action and on which a first paper filing fee is paid [Gov. Code § 70617(b)(1)].

- A civil case management statement [Gov. Code § 70617(b)(3)].

- A request for trial de novo after judicial arbitration [Gov. Code § 70617(b)(4)].

- A stipulation that does not require an order [Gov. Code § 70617(b)(5)].

- A request for an order to prevent civil harassment [Gov. Code § 70617(b)(6)].

- A request for an order to prevent domestic violence [Gov. Code § 70617(b)(7)].

- A request for entry of default or default judgment [Gov. Code § 70617(b)(8)].

- A paper requiring a hearing on a petition for emancipation of a minor [Gov. Code § 70617(b)(9)].

- A paper requiring a hearing on a petition for an order to prevent abuse of an elder or dependent adult [Gov. Code § 70617(b)(10)].

- A paper requiring a hearing on a petition for a writ of review, mandate, or prohibition [Gov. Code § 70617(b)(11)].

- A paper requiring a hearing on a petition for a decree of change of name or gender [Gov. Code § 70617(b)(12)].

- A paper requiring a hearing on a petition to approve the compromise of a claim of a minor [Gov. Code § 70617(b)(13)].

Chapter 372 MOTIONS AND ORDERS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-372 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 372.19

§ 372.19 Procedure on Ex Parte Motions

[1] Who May Grant

Ex parte motions may be granted by a judge and may be granted at chambers [Code Civ. Proc. § 166(a)(1); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1003]. They may also be granted by court commissioners [Code Civ. Proc. § 259(a); Gov. Code § 72190].

[2] Form and Contents of Application

Ex parte applications must be in writing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1201]. The application must include all the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1201]:

- An application containing the case caption and stating the relief requested.
- A declaration in support of the application.
- A competent declaration based on personal knowledge regarding notice of the application as required by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(b) [see [4], below].
- Supporting memorandum.
- A proposed order.

An ex parte application must state the name, address, and telephone number of any attorney known to the applicant to be the attorney for any party or, if no such attorney is known, the name, address, and telephone number of such party if known to the applicant [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1202(a)].

If an ex parte application for an order has been made to the court and has been refused in whole or in part, any subsequent application of the same character or for the same relief, although made upon an alleged different state of facts, must include a full disclosure of any previous applications and the court's actions [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule

3.1202(b)].

An ex parte application for an order must be accompanied by a declaration showing either [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(b)]:

- That, within the applicable time period under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1203, the applicant informed the opposing party when and where the application would be made; or

- That the applicant in good faith attempted to inform the opposing party but was unable to do so, specifying the efforts made to inform the opposing party; or

- That for reasons specified, the applicant should not be required to inform the opposing party.

For a form of application that includes the Rule 3.1204(b) declaration, see § 372.68]. For forms of proposed orders, see §§ 372.69 and 372.70. For forms of declarations to support the substantive basis of the application, see specific subject matter titles throughout this publication. For forms of points and authorities, see the chapter in California Points And Authorities that relates to the particular subject matter of the application.

[3] Showing Basis for Proceeding Ex Parte

An applicant for an ex parte order must make an affirmative factual showing in a declaration containing competent testimony based on personal knowledge of irreparable harm, immediate danger, or any other statutory basis for granting relief ex parte [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1202(c)].

[4] Presenting Application

An ex parte motion [for a form, see § 372.68] is made, in the case of a court with a single judge, to the judge of the court, and in the case of a multiple judge court, to the judge or commissioner to whom the case has been assigned [see, e.g., Cal. Rulesof Ct., Rule 2.20(a) (ex parte application for order extending time)] or, if the case has not yet been assigned to a judge or department, to the presiding judge of the court or to the law and motion judge, depending on local court requirements. Precise procedure varies widely among the courts and, if in doubt as to the requirements of the court in which the case is pending, counsel should check the local court rules for that court.

The court will not consider an ex parte application unless the applicant personally appears, except in the case of the following matters, for which an appearance is not required [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1207]:

- Applications to file a memorandum in excess of the applicable page limit.

- Applications for extensions of time to serve pleadings.

- Setting of hearing dates on alternative writs and orders to show cause.

- Stipulations by the parties or other orders of the court.

The clerk cannot reject an ex parte application for filing and must promptly present the application to the appropriate judicial officer for consideration, notwithstanding the failure of the applicant to comply with the notification requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1203 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1205].

[5] Notice to Opposing Party

[a] Notice Requirement

A party seeking an ex parte order must notify all parties no later than 10:00 a.m. the court day before the ex parte appearance, absent a showing of exceptional circumstances that justify a shorter time for notice; and a party seeking an ex parte order in a lawful detainer proceeding may provide shorter notice provided that the notice given is reasonable [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1203(a)]. The person giving notice must state with specificity the nature of the relief to be requested and the date, time, and place for the presentation of the application. The person giving notice must also attempt to determine whether the opposing party and/or counsel will appear to oppose the application [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(a)(1), (2)].

[b] Proof of Giving Notice

Every ex parte application must be accompanied by a declaration regarding notice that states either [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(b)]:

- The notice given, including the date, time, manner, and name of the party informed, the relief sought, any response, and whether opposition is expected; or
- Why notice should not be required.

If notice was provided later than 10:00 a.m. the court day before the ex parte appearance, the declaration regarding notice must explain either [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(c)]:

- The exceptional circumstances that justify the shorter notice; or
- In unlawful detainer proceedings, why the notice given is reasonable.

For a form of application for an ex parte order that includes such a declaration, see § 372.68.

[c] Service of Papers

Parties appearing at the ex parte hearing must serve the ex parte application or any written opposition on all other appearing parties at the first reasonable opportunity. Absent exceptional circumstances, no hearing may be conducted unless service has been made [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1206].

[6] Motion Granted

If the ex parte motion is granted, the judge or commissioner will sign the original of the order granting it. Counsel should then have the copies conformed by the courtroom clerk or by a deputy clerk in the court clerk's office and have the originals of the motion, if written, and the order filed if they have not been taken by the courtroom clerk for filing already.

[7] Notice of Court's Decision or Order

When a motion is granted or denied, unless the court otherwise orders, notice of the court's decision or order must be given by the prevailing party to all other parties or their attorneys in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020 (for further discussion, see § 372.24; Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers), unless notice is waived by all parties in open court and is entered in the minutes [Code Civ. Proc. § 1019.5(a); for a form, see § 372.67].

[8] Service of Motion and Order

Counsel should serve, or cause to be served, a conformed copy of the order, together with a copy of the written ex parte motion, if any, on opposing counsel or on the opposing party if not represented by counsel [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1015]. In the case of an order shortening time for service of a notice of motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b), Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(b); see Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time], the court may require that the notice of motion, supporting papers, and order shortening time be served on opposing counsel personally [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1011, 1015] within a stated period. Otherwise, if time is not a problem, a conformed copy of the order granting the ex parte motion, and a copy of the motion, if written, may be served by mail pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1012, 1013. For further discussion, see § 372.24.

[9] Proof of Service

Regardless of how service is effected, the better practice is to prepare and file a proof of service setting forth the exact titles of the papers served [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a]. Although this practice is not required by statute, it may be required by local court rule.

Chapter 372 MOTIONS AND ORDERS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-372 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 372.20

§ 372.20 Determining Whether Written Notice Is Required

The term "noticed motion," as already indicated, is used to describe a motion made on written notice to the adverse party. The majority of motions made other than during trial are of this kind.

There is no express statutory provision generally requiring that notice of all motions be given. A number of statutes do require that a particular motion by a party be made on notice [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 437c(a) (motion for summary judgment), Code Civ. Proc. § 473(d) (motion to set aside void judgment or order), Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.250(a)(2), 583.360(a) (motion to dismiss action for failure to prosecute)]. In addition, Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(a) lists numerous motions for which notice must be given in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b). However, other statutes are silent on this point [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 464 (motion to file supplemental pleading), Code Civ. Proc. § 473(a) (motion to amend pleading), Code Civ. Proc. § 473(b) (motion for relief based on surprise, etc.)].

If the governing statute fails to indicate whether or not the particular motion is to be made on notice, it has been left to the courts to determine whether or not written notice to the adverse party is required [Arata v. Tellurium G. & S. M. Co. (1884) 65 Cal. 340, 342, 4 P. 195] . Generally, it may be said that when the order granting the motion will affect the rights of the adverse party, the motion must be made on notice to such party [McDonald v. Severy (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 629, 631, 59 P.2d 98 ; Bohn v. Bohn (1913) 164 Cal. 532, 536, 129 P. 981] to satisfy the procedural due process requirements of U.S. Const., amend. XIV, and of Cal. Const., art. I, § 7(a).

Conversely stated, a motion may be made ex parte, that is without notice to the adverse party, if the order granting the motion will not affect the rights of the adverse party and there is no statutory requirement or court rule that the motion be made on notice.

Ex parte motions are permitted primarily in two situations. One is when the adverse party does not have a right to be heard in opposition, for example, when the court can act on its own motion. The other situation is when there is a pressing need for immediate relief and great or irreparable harm [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1200 et seq.] could result from any delay, for example, if it is imperative that a temporary restraining order [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)] be granted or a receiver appointed [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1175].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-372 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 372.21

§ 372.21 Procedure on Noticed Motions

[1] Waiver of Defective Notice

[a] By Appearance Without Objection

Defects and irregularities in a notice of motion, and failure to give notice at all, are normally waived by the adverse party's appearance at the hearing of the motion and opposition to it on its merits [Vlahovich v. Cruz (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 317, 320, 261 Cal. Rptr. 565 ; Tate v. Superior Court (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 925, 930, 119 Cal. Rptr. 835] . However, this rule does not apply where the appearance in opposition to the motion is for the limited purpose of objecting to a consideration of the motion by the court on the ground of insufficiency of the notice. Such an appearance does not constitute a waiver of proper notice [Bohn v. Bohn (1913) 164 Cal. 532, 538-539, 129 P. 981] .

[b] Preserving Objection for Record

An attorney that claims that his or her client was not properly served with motion papers or that inadequate notice of hearing was received or both is faced with a dilemma. According to Carlton v. Quint (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 690, 697-698, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 844 , the appropriate procedure to pursue under these circumstances is as follows:

- If counsel is convinced his or her legal position is correct, counsel may appear at the hearing without filing a response to the motion and request a continuance for the purpose of preparing a proper response. If counsel makes a complete record relating to both the defective service or inadequate notice, or both, and the inability to prepare a proper response, and the court denies the continuance, the record will be well preserved for any future writ proceeding or appeal.

- If counsel is unwilling to take the chance that a continuance will be granted, counsel should file the best opposition possible under the circumstances. The opposition should include counsel's position on the defective service or inadequate notice issue, or both, as well as the merits. The opposition fully discuss counsel's position as to why a more complete opposition was not able to be filed (for example, because defective notice did not give counsel adequate time to prepare a response). Counsel should then appear at the hearing, object to the hearing taking place because the service was defective or inadequate notice of the hearing was received, or both. Again explain to the court the prejudice that has been suffered by reason of the defective service and/or inadequate notice, and request a continuance so that a proper response to the motion may be filed. Counsel should be prepared to argue the motion on the merits if the court denies a continuance. If, however, these steps are taken, the record will be well preserved for any future writ proceeding or appeal.

[2] Written Notice Required; Length of Notice

[a] Notice to Be in Writing

Notices must be in writing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010].

[b] When Notice Must Be Given Pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1005

In the following instances, written notice must be given pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(a)]:

(1) Notice of application and hearing for a writ of attachment under Code Civ. Proc. § 484.040.

(2) Notice of application and hearing for claim and delivery under Code Civ. Proc. § 512.030.

(3) Notice of hearing for claim of exemption under Code Civ. Proc. § 706.105.

(4) Motion to quash summons under Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(b).

(5) Motion for determination of a good faith settlement under Code Civ. Proc.§ 877.6.

(6) Hearing for discovery of a peace or custodial officer's personnel records under Evid. Code § 1043.

(7) Notice of hearing of a third-party claim under Code Civ. Proc. § 720.320.

(8) Motion for an order to attend a deposition more than 150 miles from deponent's residence under Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(c)(3) [Code Civ. Proc.§ 2025.260 operative July 1, 2005].

(9) Notice of hearing of application for relief under Gov. Code § 946.6.

(10) Motion to set aside default or default judgment and for leave to defend actions pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 473.5.

(11) Motion to expunge notice of pendency of action pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 405.30.

(12) Motion to set aside default and for leave to amend [sic, defend] pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 585.5.

(13) Any other proceeding under the Code of Civil Procedure in which notice is required and no other time or method is prescribed by law or by court or judge.

The fact that an opposing party has actual knowledge of a pending court proceeding does not excuse the moving party from the requirement of giving the written notice required by statute [County of Santa Clara v. Perry (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 435, 442, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 738, 956 P.2d 1191] .

However, failure to give notice of a motion usually requiring advance notice may be excused if the motion is made orally in open court in the presence of counsel for the adverse party [see Thieme v. Commercial Lighting etc. Co. (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 575, 576, 2 Cal. Rptr. 382] .

[c] Length of Notice Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1005

[i] Sixteen Court Days

Unless otherwise ordered or specifically provided by law, all moving and supporting papers must be served and filed at least 16 court days before the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(a)]. The papers served must be a copy of the papers filed or to be filed with the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)].

[ii] Extension of Period if Served by Mail, Fax, or Overnight Delivery

The 16-court-day period may be extended depending on the method of service used [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)].

If the notice is served by mail, the 16-day period is increased as follow [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)]:

- By five calendar days if the place of mailing and place of address are in California;

- By 10 calendar days if either the place of mailing or place of address is outside California but within the United States;

- By 20 calendar days if either the place of mailing or place of address is outside the United States.

If the notice is served by express mail, or another method of overnight delivery, the 16-day period is increased by two calendar days [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)].

If the notice is served by facsimile transmission, the 16-day period is increased by two calendar days [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)].

The Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 extensions of time within which a right may be exercised or an act may be done do not apply to a notice of motion, opposition papers, or reply papers governed by section 1005 [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)].

If the notice is served by electronic service, the two court day extension provided for in Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6) may apply, because section 1005 does not exclude extension under that statute. For discussion of electronic service, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers, § 518.40 et seq.

For a discussion of the persons to be served, exceptions, and the manner of service, see § 372.24.

[d] Length of Notice Under Other Provisions

Statutes governing a particular motion in various civil actions or special proceedings may vary the amount of time required. For example, Code Civ. Proc. § 1167.4(a) requires that a notice of motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(a) (motion to quash service of summons or stay or dismiss action for inconvenient forum or dismiss for delay in prosecution) designate as the time for making the motion in a special proceeding in unlawful detainer, forcible entry, or forcible detainer a date not less than three or more than seven days after the filing of the notice.

[e] Maximum Lengths of Notice

Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b), as indicated, imposes a minimum, but not a maximum, limitation on the amount of notice to be given. Nevertheless, statutes governing particular motions may impose a maximum time limitation on the motion. For example, Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10(b), relating to a motion to quash service of summons for lack of jurisdiction or to stay or dismiss an action for inconvenient form or dismiss for delay in prosecution, is required to designate as the time for making the motion a date not more than 30 days after the filing of the notice of motion.

[3] Shortening Time

Notwithstanding the minimum time limitations, the court, on its own motion or on application for an order shortening time supported by a declaration showing good cause, may prescribe shorter times for the filing and services of papers than the times specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 1005 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b); for discussion and form, see Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time].

[4] Proof of Service

Proof of service of the moving papers must be filed no later than five calendar days before the time appointed for the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(c)].

The court may consider a motion, petition, or opposition to the motion or petition that is filed without a proof of service as incomplete, and therefore may reject it for filing or refuse it consideration [see Orange Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 512].

[5] Supporting Papers

[a] Required to Accompany Notice

A copy of any paper on which the motion is based, which has not previously been served on the party to be notified and was not filed by that party, must accompany the notice of motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) and § 372.60[4]]. Such papers will include any supporting affidavits or declarations, requests for judicial notice, a memorandum, and exhibits, appendices, or pleadings [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1112(a), 3.1113].

[b] Affidavits and Declarations

Unless the motion is one that may not be supported by extrinsic evidence other than that of which the court may take judicial notice under Evid. Code § 450 et seq. (see, e.g., a motion to strike under Code Civ. Proc. § 435 et seq.), a notice of motion is normally accompanied by one or more affidavits or declarations under penalty of perjury setting forth the evidentiary facts required to establish the grounds of the motion [see discussion under [17], below; see also § 372.61[2] et seq.].

An affidavit is (1) a written declaration under oath made without notice to the adverse party [Code Civ. Proc. § 2003]; (2) one of the three modes of taking the testimony of a witness [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2002(1)]; and (3) expressly authorized for use "on a motion" [Code of Civ. Proc. § 2009; see Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations].

A declaration under penalty of perjury may be used in lieu of an affidavit [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5; see Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations]. To a large extent, declarations under penalty of perjury have replaced affidavits as the mode of presenting the evidence of a witness on a motion. For a skeletal form of declaration under penalty of perjury, see § 372.61.

Other evidentiary documents on which the motion is based, such as contracts or deeds of trust, may be attached as exhibits to the declarations that authenticate them.

[c] Supporting Memorandum

A party filing a notice of motion, except for a new trial, must generally serve and file with it a supporting memorandum [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1112(a), 3.1113]. The absence of the memorandum may be construed by the court as an admission that the motion is not meritorious and cause for its denial [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); for discussion of the applicability of the law and motion rules, see § 372.11].

Certain motions, applications and petitions do not require a memorandum when the motion, application, or petition is filed on a Judicial Council Form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114(a)]. These are:

- Application for appointment of a guardian ad litem in a civil case [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114(a)(1)].
- Application for an order extending time to serve pleading [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114(a)(2)].
- Motion to be relieved as counsel [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114(a)(3)].
- Motion filed in small claims case [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114(a)(4))].
- Petition for change of name or gender [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114(a)(5)].
- Petition for declaration of emancipation of minor [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114(a)(6)].
- Petition for injunction prohibiting harassment [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114(a)(7)].
- Petition for protective order to prevent elder or dependent adult abuse [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114(a)(8)].
- Petition of employer for injunction prohibiting workplace violence [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114(a)(9)].
- Petition for order prohibiting abuse [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114(a)(10)].
- Petition to approve compromise of claim of a minor or a person with a disability [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114(a)(11)].
- Petition for withdrawal of funds from blocked account [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114(a)(12)].

While not required, a memorandum of points and authorities may be submitted if it would further the interests of justice. The court may also order the submission of a memorandum in support of the foregoing motions, applications or petitions. Any memorandum submitted must comply with Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114(b)].

The filing of a memorandum supporting and opposing a notice of intention to move for a new trial is covered by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1600.

For discussion and a skeletal form of a memorandum, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities . For forms of memoranda in opposition to motions, see specific titles in California Points And Authorities (Matthew Bender).

[d] Other Documents

A party may wish to submit additional documents, such as the following:

- A request to introduce oral evidence at hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(b); see [17][b], below]; or

- Evidentiary objections to evidence submitted in the opponent's papers [see generally California Trial Guide (Matthew Bender)].

[e] Proposed Order and Other Lodged Materials

If a proposed order or judgment is submitted, it must be lodged and served with the moving papers but must not be attached to them [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(m)]. Material lodged with the clerk must be accompanied by an addressed envelope with sufficient postage for mailing the material. After determination of the matter, the clerk may mail the material to the party lodging it [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1302(b)].

Lodged materials include, among others:

- Proposed orders or judgments [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(m)].

- Non-California cases, statutes, constitutional provisions, or state or local rules [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1112(j)].

- Administrative records in mandate cases [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1140].

- Sealed records [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551].

For certain motions, petitions, and applications, a proposed order must be lodged with the court when the other papers are filed, including:

- Motion for good faith settlement [Code Civ. Proc. § 877.6].

- Request for media coverage of court proceedings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.150(e)].

- Motion to unseal records [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.150].

- Request for media coverage of court proceedings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.573].

- Motion to be relieved of counsel [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1362] and to be relieved from limited representation [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.36].

- Petition for coordination of complex actions [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.520].

- Motion to settle class action [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.769].

- Motion to appoint referee [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.901].

- Application for preliminary injunction [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1150].

- Written objection to evidence in summary judgment motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1354].

- Application for preliminary injunction [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1150].

[6] Where Papers Are to Be Filed

All papers relating to a law and motion proceeding, unless otherwise provided by local court rule, must be filed in the clerk's office [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1302(a)].

[7] Timely or Late Filed Papers

A paper submitted before the close of the clerk's office to the public on the day the paper is due is deemed timely filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300]. Nonetheless, no paper shall be rejected for filing on the ground that it was untimely submitted for filing. If the court, in its discretion, refuses to consider a late filed paper, the minutes or order must so indicate [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(d)].

A court may designate one or more departments to remain open on a judicial holiday or at any hours of the day or night [Code Civ. Proc. § 134(c)]; however, these courts are still judicial holidays for purposes of computing the time required for the conduct of any proceeding or for the performance of any act [Code Civ. Proc. § 134(d)], and any paper lodged with the court during that time must be filed by the court on the next non-judicial holiday if the document meets the filing criteria [Code Civ. Proc. § 134(d)].

For additional discussion of judicial holidays, see § 345.17[1].

[8] Motion as Deemed Made on Service and Filing

Historically, motions other than written motions had to be made viva voce, that is, orally, to a judge or court [see Williams v. Hawley (1904) 144 Cal. 97, 99-100, 77 P. 762 ; People v. Ah Sam (1871) 41 Cal. 645, 650] . Consequently, the notice of motion would state that on a specified date and time, at a specified place, the moving party "will move" the court for an order, that the motion "will be made" on specified grounds, and that the motion "will be based" on specified matters. At the hearing, the moving party would then orally make the motion.

Because hearings were frequently postponed, it became not uncommon for the moving party, by the time of the postponed hearing, to have lost the right to the order sought, since the time within which the motion had to be made had expired. To correct this problem, the Legislature, in 1953, enacted Code Civ. Proc. § 1005.5. This section provides that a motion on all the grounds stated in the written notice of motion is deemed to have been made and to be pending before the court, for all purposes, on the due service and filing of the notice of motion [see also Sweat v. Hollister (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 603, 613, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 399 ; Estate of Parks (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 623, 629, 24 Cal. Rptr. 250 ; Gray v. Laufenberger (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 875, 15 Cal. Rptr. 813] . To assure that the result of this provision would not result in depriving the parties of a hearing, the statute further states that a party will not be deprived of a hearing of the motion to which he or she is otherwise entitled [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005.5]. Section 1005.5 excludes motions for new trial, the procedure for which is provided for elsewhere [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 659, 1005.5; for discussion, see Ch. 371, Motions After Trial].

The enactment of Code Civ. Proc. § 1005.5, of course, did not convert an oral motion to a written motion or affect the contents of the notice of motion; it merely stopped the running of any time period on the motion and, incidentally, dispensed with the necessity of making the motion orally at the hearing by providing that the motion is deemed to have been made on the due service and filing of the notice of motion.

[9] Opposition to Motion

Although not expressly authorized by statute or by the California Rules of Court, practice permits counsel for the adverse party to oppose the motion by filing a memorandum in opposition to it [for memoranda in opposition to motions, see specific titles in California Points And Authorities (Matthew Bender)]. More importantly,however, failure to oppose a motion results in a waiver on appeal of any objection to the resulting order [see Bell v. American Title Ins. Co. (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1589, 1602, 277 Cal. Rptr. 583 (party neither filed opposition nor objected at hearing)].

Moreover, unless prohibited with respect to a specific motion, for example, a nonstatutory motion for judgment on the pleadings or a statutory motion to strike [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 435-437], counsel may also file counter affidavits and counter declarations [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2002(1), 2003, 2009, 2015.5] in opposition to the motion.

All papers opposing a noticed motion must be filed with the court and a copy served on each party at least nine court days before the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(a)]. Although Code Civ. Proc. § 1005 (b), (c) expressly provides that Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 does not apply to papers governed by section 1005, it does not exclude application of Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6), which would give the opposing party a two court day extension if the moving papers were served electronically under Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6.

[10] Reply Papers

All reply papers must be filed with the court and a copy served at least five court days before the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005 (b), (c); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(a)]. Although Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) expressly provides that Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 does not apply to papers governed by section 1005, it does not exclude application of Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6), which would give the replying party a two court day extension if the opposition papers were served electronically under Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6.

Reply papers on specific motions may, however, be subject to a different filing period [see, e.g., Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1342(c) (15-day period to file response to opposition to motion for discretionary dismissal under Code Civ. Proc. § 583.410 et seq.); see also Bergman v. Rifkind & Sterling, Inc. (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 1380, 1384, 1386-1387, 278 Cal. Rptr. 583 (distinguishing between reply to opposition and document that merely provided procedural update)].

[11] Decision Without Hearing

The court may determine a motion without permitting oral argument [Sweat v. Hollister (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 603, 613, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 399 (disapproved on another point in Santisas v. Goodin (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 599, 609 n.5, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 830, 951 P.2d 399); but see Mediterranean Construction Co. v. State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 257, 260, 262, 265-266, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 781 (construing "hearing" in summary judgment statute (Code Civ. Proc. 437c) to require opportunity for oral argument where litigants may address judge who will rule on motion; hearing on summary judgment involves contemporaneous presence, whether in person or electronically, of parties and judge; characterizing language in Sweat as dicta and refusing to follow it)]. Thus, a telephonic ruling may be the final ruling if the court so intends [see Sweat v. Hollister (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 603, 614, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 399 (court's telephonic ruling granting summary judgment was intended to be final, so plaintiff could not request oral argument and then voluntarily dismiss prior to the hearing; right to dismiss was cut off by final ruling on the motion even though the court retained power to amend that ruling); but see Mediterranean Construction Co. v. State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 257, 260, 262, 265-266, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 781] .

For discussion of tentative rulings, see [14], below.

[12] Scheduling Hearing

The clerk is required to post a general schedule showing the days and departments for holding each type of law and motion hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1304(a)]. If a matter will not be heard on the date scheduled, the moving party must immediately so notify the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1304(b)].

[13] Notice of Nonappearance

A party may give notice that he or she will not appear at a law and motion hearing and submit the matter without an appearance unless the court orders otherwise [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1304(c)]. The court must rule on the motion as if the party had appeared [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1304(c)].

[14] Tentative Rulings in Law and Motion Matters

A court that offers a tentative ruling procedure must follow one of two procedures [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1308(a)].

The first procedure [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1308(a)(1)], requires the court to make its tentative ruling available by telephone, and, at the court's option, by any other method the court designates, by no later than 3:00 p.m. on the court day before the scheduled hearing. If the court desires oral argument, its tentative ruling must so direct. The ruling also may note any issues on which the court wishes the parties to provide further argument. Under this first procedure, if the court has not directed argument, then oral argument is permitted only if a party notifies all other parties and the court of its intention to appear by 4:00 p.m. on the court day before the hearing. This notice must be given by telephone or in person. The court shall accept telephone notice, and also has discretion to designate alternative methods by which a party intending to appear may give notice to the court. Under this first tentative ruling procedure, the tentative ruling becomes the court's ruling if the court has not directed oral argument and notice of intent to appear has not been given [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1308(a)(1)].

Under the second tentative ruling procedure [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1308(a)(2)], the court makes its tentative ruling available by telephone, and, at the court's option, by any other method the court designates, by a specified time before the hearing. The tentative ruling may note any issues on which the court wishes the parties to provide further argument at the hearing. Unlike the first procedure, this alternative procedure does not require the parties to give notice of intent to appear, and the tentative ruling does not automatically become the court's ruling if no such notice is given. The tentative ruling, or such other ruling as the court may render, will not become the court's final ruling until the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1308(a)(2)]. In addition, this procedure allows the court to establish the time at which a tentative ruling will bemade available rather than requiring the ruling to be made available by 3:00 p.m. the court day before the scheduled hearing.

Other than following one of these two tentative ruling procedures, courts shall not issue tentative rulings except (1) by posting a calendar note containing tentative rulings on the hearing day, or (2) by announcing the tentative ruling at the time of oral argument [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1308(b)].

A court that follows one of the procedures prescribed in Rule 3.1308(a) must so state in its local rules. The local rule must specify the telephone number for obtaining tentative rulings, as well as the time by which rulings will be available [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1308(c)].

If a court, or a branch of a court, adopts a tentative ruling procedure, then that procedure must be used by all judges in the court or branch who issue tentative rulings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1308(d)].

Rule 1308 does not require any judge to issue tentative rulings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1308(e)].

[15] Failure of Counsel to Appear at Hearing

If a party fails to appear at the law and motion hearing without having given a notice of nonappearance as required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1304(c), the court may take the matter off calendar, to be reset only on motion, or the court may rule on the matter [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1304(d)].

[16] Telephone Appearance by Counsel

[a] General Civil Cases

Effective January 1, 2008, the Legislature added section 367.5 to the Code of Civil Procedure in order to promote uniformity in the procedures and practices relating to telephone appearances. In all general civil cases, as defined in California Rules of Court, Rule 1.6(4), a party that has provided notice may appear by telephone at the following conferences, hearings, and proceedings:

(1) A case management conferences, provided the party has made a good faith effort to meet and confer before the conference as required by law and has timely served and filed a case management statement;

(2) A trial setting conference;

(3) A hearing on law and motion, except motions in limine;

(4) A hearing on a discovery motion;

(5) A conference to review the status of an arbitration or mediation;

(6) A hearing to review the dismissal of an action;

(7) Any other hearing, conference, or proceeding if the court determines that a telephone appearance is appropriate

[Code Civ. Proc. § 367.5(b); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(c), which applies to unlawful detainer and probate proceedings as well as general civil cases].

If, at any time during a hearing, conference, or proceeding conducted by telephone, the court determines that a personal appearance is necessary, the court may continue the matter and require a personal appearance [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(f)].

[b] Exceptions at Court's Discretion

The court may require a party to appear in person at a hearing, conference or proceeding listed above if the court determines on a hearing-by-hearing basis that a personal appearance would materially assist in the determination of the proceedings or in the effective management or resolution of the particular case [Code Civ. Proc. § 367.5(c); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(e)(2)].

[c] Required Personal Appearances

A personal appearance is required for hearings, conferences, and proceedings not listed in [a], above, including the following:

(1) Trials and hearings at which witnesses are expected to testify;

(2) Hearings on temporary restraining orders;

(3) Settlement conferences;

(4) Trial management conferences;

(5) Hearings on motions in limine;

(6) Hearings on petitions to confirm the sale of property under the Probate Code

[Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(d)]. The court may permit a party to appear by telephone at a proceeding listed above if the court determines that a telephone appearance is appropriate [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(e)(3)].

A personal appearance is also required for applicants seeking an ex parte order, except when the applicant is seeking an order for permission to file a memorandum in excess of the applicable page limits, for an extension of time to serve pleadings, to set hearing dates on alternative writs and orders to show cause, or by stipulation of the parties [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(d)(7)]. A personal appearance is also required for persons ordered to appear to show cause why sanctions should not be imposed for violation of a court order or rule and persons ordered to appear in an order or citation issued under the Probate Code [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(d)(8), (9)].

[d] Service Provider and Fees for Conference Call

A court may provide teleconferencing for court appearances by entering into a contract with a private vendor. The contract may provide that the vendor may charge the party appearing by telephone a reasonable fee, specified in the contract, for its services [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(d)]. A court may designate by local rule a particular conference call provider that must be used for telephone appearances [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(l)].

[e] Audibility

The court must ensure that the statements of participants are audible to all other participants and the court staff and that the statements made by a participant areidentified as being made by that participant [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(j)].

[f] Recording of Proceedings

All proceedings involving telephone appearances must be reported to the same extent and in the same manner as if the participants had appeared in person [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(k)].

[g] Local Procedure

Each court is required to publish notice providing parties with the particular information necessary for them to appear by telephone at conferences and proceedings in that court under Rule 3.670 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(m)].

[h] Notice of Telephone Appearance

A party choosing to appear by telephone at a hearing, conference, or proceeding must either [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(g)(1)(A), (B)]:

- Place the phrase "Telephone Appearance" below the title of the moving, opposing, or reply papers;

or

- At least three court days before the appearance, notify the court and all other parties of the party's intent to appear by telephone. If the notice is oral, it must be given either in person or by telephone. If the notice is in writing, it must be given by filing a "Notice of Intent to Appear by Telephone" with the court at least three court days before the appearance and by serving the notice at the same time on all other parties by personal delivery, fax transmission, express mail, or other means reasonably calculated to ensure delivery to the parties no later than the close of the next business day.

If after receiving notice from another party as provided above a party that has not given notice also decides to appear by telephone, the party may do so by notifying the court and all other parties that have appeared in the action, no later than noon on the court day before the appearance, of its intent to appear by telephone [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(g)(2)].

The court, on a showing of good cause, may permit a party to appear by telephone at a conference, hearing, or proceeding even if the party has not given the notice required [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(g)(4)].

For a form of separate notice of intent to appear by telephone at a hearing on a motion or other matter, see § 372.63. For a form that includes the alternative method of notice of telephone appearance in the caption of the first filed moving or opposing paper, see § 372.60.

[i] Retraction of Notice of Telephone Appearance

If a party that has given notice that it intends to appear by telephone subsequently chooses to appear in person, the party must so notify the court and all other parties that have appeared in the action, by telephone, at least two court days before the appearance [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(g)(3)]. The court, on a showing of good cause, may permit a party to appear in person even if the party has not given the retraction of notice required [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(g)(4)].

[j] Court Order for Appearance in Person After Notice of Telephone Appearance Has Been Given

After a party has requested a telephone appearance, if the court requires the personal appearance of the party, the court must give reasonable notice to all parties before the hearing and may continue the hearing if necessary to accommodate the personal appearance. The court may direct the court clerk, a court-appointed vendor, a party, or an attorney to provide the notification. In courts using a telephonic tentative ruling system for law and motion matters, court notification that parties must appear in person may be given as part of the court's tentative ruling on a specific law and motion matter if that notification is given one court day before the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(h)].

[k] Standard of Judicial Administration

The Judicial Council has adopted a Standard of Judicial Administration for teleconferencing [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 3.1]. The minimum telephone equipment and optional features that the courts should provide are set out in Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 3.1(a), (b). The Standard recommends that each court specify, by local rule or uniform local written policy, the types of motions and hearings it considers particularly suitable for hearing by telephone appearance, as well as whether the court or the attorney initiates the telephone call for a telephone appearance, whether the court sets a specified time for a telephone appearance or a time range, and how the parties are notified, in advance of the hearing, of the time or time range of the telephone appearance [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Adming Std. 3.1(d)]. In those courts using a tentative ruling recording system, the notice of telephone appearance should be part of the tentative ruling recording [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Adming Std. 3.1(d)].

The standard also recommends that each court's rule or policy encourage appearance by telephone in nonevidentiary civil matters if appearance of counsel in person would not materially assist in a determination of the proceeding or in settlement of the case [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Adming Std. 3.1(c)].

[17] Evidence Considered at Hearing

[a] Generally by Affidavit, Declaration, or Judicial Notice

Evidence received at a law and motion hearing must be by declaration and affidavit and by request for judicial notice without testimony or cross examination, except as allowed in the court's discretion for good cause shown [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(a); see also Smith, Smith & Kring v. Superior Court (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 573, 578, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 507 (only evidence trial court should have considered is that contained in declarations filed in support of and in opposition to motion)].

Thus, the moving party is not required to attend the hearing for the purpose of testifying and allowing himself or herself to be cross examined [McLellan v. McLellan (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 343, 359, 100 Cal. Rptr. 258] . The sufficiency of the affidavit or declaration is tested by the same rules as those applicable to oral testimony. Byanalogy to Evid. Code §§ 700 (providing that except as otherwise provided by statute, every person, irrespective of age, is qualified to be a witness)and 702 (requiring that a witness have personal knowledge of the matter to which he or she is testifying and providing that against the objection of a party, personal knowledge must be shown before the witness may testify concerning the matter), any person is qualified to make an affidavit in support of a motion, and the person's affidavit or declaration is competent evidence unless an objection is interposed on the ground that the affiant or declarant has no personal knowledge of the matters stated [McLellan v. McLellan (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 343, 359-360, 100 Cal. Rptr. 258] .

Hearsay or other incompetent evidence in an affidavit received without a proper objection or motion to strike, is, however, to be regarded as competent evidence in support of the subsequent order [Flood v. Simpson (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 644, 649, 119 Cal. Rptr. 675] .

A court must, however, disregard facts contained in an unverified statement. Matters set forth in unverified Statements of Facts and in memoranda of points and authorities are not evidence and cannot provide the basis for the granting of the motion [Smith, Smith & Kring v. Superior Court (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 573, 578, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 507] .

For further discussion of the form and contents of affidavits and declarations under penalty of perjury, see Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations .

[b] Oral Evidence

A party seeking permission to introduce oral evidence, except for oral evidence in rebuttal to oral evidence presented by the other party, must file no later than three court days before the hearing a written statement setting forth the nature and extent of the evidence proposed to be introduced and a reasonable time estimate for the hearing; and when the statement is filed less than five court days before the hearing, the filing party must serve a copy on the other parties in a manner to assure delivery to the other parties no later than two days before the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(b); see § 372.62].

[c] Restrictions on Evidence on Particular Motions

On the other hand, the trial court, while empowered to exclude oral testimony, is also vested with discretion to receive it, and there are situations in which the trial judge, in the exercise of that discretion, properly should hear testimony or permit cross examination of a declarant. A refusal by the trial court to exercise its discretion in the matter, for example, by relying on an unwritten court "policy" purportedly precluding the use of oral testimony in family law matters estimated to consume more than one day in hearing, is error, and may result in reversal of the order [Reifler v. Superior Court (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 479, 485, 114 Cal. Rptr. 356] . Also, evidence other than affidavits and declarations is admissible when an issue of fact is to be determined at the hearing on the motion [Ascherman v. Superior Court (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 506, 510, 62 Cal. Rptr. 547] .

There are, however, as already indicated, some exceptions to the rule authorizing use of affidavits on a motion. For example, in ruling on a motion to strike a pleading or matter from a pleading [see Code Civ. Proc. § 435 et seq.], the court is normally limited to examining the face of the challenged pleading and other matters appearing from the court's records, for example, the date of filing and rulings made on prior challenges to the pleading [see Ch. 375, Motions to Strike: Pleadings].

Also, oral testimony is not permitted on a motion for summary judgment. That motion is required to be determined on the affidavits, declarations, admissions, answers to interrogatories, depositions, and matters of which judicial notice must or may be taken submitted in support of and in opposition to the motion [see Code Civ. Proc. § 437c(b); see also Ch. 537, Summary Judgment].

[d] Judicial Notice

The court is required to take judicial notice of the matters specified in Evid. Code § 451. It may take judicial notice of the matters specified in Evid. Code § 452 and is required to do so if a party so requests and (1) gives each adverse party sufficient notice of the request, through the pleadings or otherwise, to enable the adverse party to prepare to meet the request; and (2) furnishes the court with sufficient information to enable it to take judicial notice of the matter [Evid. Code § 453].

The California Rules of Court require that a request that the court at a hearing on a motion take judicial notice must be made in a separate document listing the specific items for which notice is requested [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(l); but see Code Civ. Proc. § 430.70 (matter of which court is requested to take judicial notice in ruling on a demurrer to be specified in the demurrer or in the supporting points and authorities except as court may otherwise permit)].

A party requesting judicial notice of material under Evid. Code § 452 or 453 must provide the court and each party with a copy of the material and if it is part of a file in the court in which the matter is being heard, the party must (1) specify in writing the part of the file sought to be judicially noticed, and (2) make arrangements with the clerk to have the file in the courtroom at the time of the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1301(c); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(l) (requiring compliance with Rule 3.1306)].

For discussion and forms relating to judicial notice, see Ch. 321, Judicial Notice .

[18] Ruling on Motion and Preparation of Order

The court will normally rule on the motion at the hearing. If the court grants the motion, a formal order is normally required. Local rules in some courts require that proposed orders be lodged before the hearing [see, e.g., Alameda Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 5.1]. Certain motions, petitions, and applications require a proposed order to be lodged with the court when the motion, petition, or application is filed [for sample list, see § 372.21]. The moving party may have prepared the formal order in advance of the hearing and, if it correctly reflects the court's ruling, both the order and copies may be handed to the courtroom clerk for the judge's signature and for conforming the copies. Otherwise, counsel will prepare the order after the hearing, secure opposing counsel's approval as to form, and submit it to the judge for his or her signature.Counsel will then have the copies conformed and serve a conformed copy on the adverse party's attorney or, if none, on the adverse party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1015; for further discussion, see § 372.24].

Unless the parties waive notice or the court orders otherwise, the party prevailing on any motion must, within five days of the ruling, mail or deliver a proposed order to the other party for approval as conforming to the court's order. Within five days after the mailing or delivery, the other party must notify the prevailing party as to whether or not the proposed order is approved. The opposing party must state any reasons for disapproval. Failure to notify the prevailing party within the time required must be deemed an approval. Code Civ. Proc. § 1013, relating to service of papers by mail, does not apply to these requirements [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1312(a)]. The prevailing party must, upon expiration of the five-day period provided for approval, promptly transmit the proposed order to the court together with a summary of any responses of the other parties or a statement that no responses were received [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1312(b)]. If the prevailing party fails to prepare and submit a proposed order as required above, any other party may do so [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1312(c)]. These requirements do not apply if the motion was unopposed and a proposed order was submitted with the moving papers, unless otherwise ordered by the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1312(d)].

Unless the court is required by statute or case law to make a specific finding as a basis for a particular order, findings of fact are not required. The general rule in this regard is that findings of fact are not required, and, in fact, have no place in the court's ruling on a motion [Waller v. Weston (1899) 125 Cal. 201, 204, 57 P. 892 ; see Allstate Ins. Co. v. Orlando (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 858, 867, 69 Cal. Rptr. 702 ; Skouland v. Skouland (1962) 201 Cal. App. 2d 677, 679, 20 Cal. Rptr. 185] .

If the motion is denied, a formal order is not normally prepared. Whether the motion is granted or denied, however, a minute order is made which is entered in the court's permanent minutes. Rough minutes are not official court records, but if the only minutes kept by the court are the longhand minutes prepared during the course of the day, these constitute the permanent minutes [see Fortenberry v. Weber (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 213, 220, 95 Cal. Rptr. 834 . (California courts as not having adopted any uniform method of keeping minutes and recording entry of minute orders in their records)]

[19] Entry of Order on Motion

Orders are entered by either of two methods: (1) the court may order the clerk to enter a minute order, which when entered in the minutes is a written order of the court, or (2) the court may make a formal order, the entry of which consists of filing the signed order with the clerk [Eldridge v. Superior Court (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 1350, 1354, 256 Cal. Rptr. 724] .

[20] Notification of Court's Ruling in Matter Taken Under Submission

If the court, instead of ruling on the motion at the hearing, takes the matter under submission, the court clerk is required to give the parties notification of the ruling or order. The notification, which must specifically identify the matter ruled on, may be given by mailing the parties a copy of the ruling or order. In a case having multiple parties, the notification, or any notice of a ruling or order served by a party, must name the moving party, the party against whom relief was requested, and must specifically identify the particular motion ruled on [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 1.5(b), 3.1110, 3.1103(b), 3.1109].

[21] Effect of Clerk's Notification

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1109 provides that the clerk's notification constitutes service of notice only if the clerk is required to give notice pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5 [see [22], below] and that failure of the clerk to give the notification does not extend the time provided by law for performing any act, except as provided in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 8.104(a) and 8.751(a), respectively (relating to notice of appeal).

Notwithstanding the foregoing rule, notification given by the court clerk, although not required by Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5, may constitute notice that will commence the running of certain periods. For example, notice given by the clerk of the court's order denying a motion for summary adjudication of issues begins the running of the period within which a party must petition for review by writ under Code Civ. Proc. § 437c(m) [see Eldridge v. Superior Court (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 1350, 1353-1355, 256 Cal. Rptr. 724 (service by mail of file-stamped copy); Schmidt v. Superior Court (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 56, 60, 254 Cal. Rptr. 827 (service by mail of minute order)].

[22] Required Notice of Ruling

In any contested action or special proceeding in which a prevailing party is represented by counsel, the party submitting an order or judgment for entry must prepare and mail a copy of the notice of entry of judgment to all parties who have appeared in the action or proceeding and file with the court the original notice of entry of judgment together with the proof of service by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(a)]. This requirement does not apply to proceedings for voidable marriage, dissolution of marriage, legal separation, or to small claims actions [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(a)].

If a prevailing party is not represented by counsel in a contested action or special proceeding, the clerk of the court, promptly upon entry of judgment, is required to mail notice of entry of judgment to all parties who have appeared in the action or special proceeding and to execute a certificate of mailing and place it in the court's file in the cause [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(b)].

For purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5, "judgment" includes any judgment, decree, or signed order from which an appeal lies [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(c)].

In any action or special proceeding, the court may order the clerk to mail notice of entry of any judgment or ruling, whether or not appealable [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(d)].

Although the word "judgment," as used in Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5, is defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(c), the word "order" as used in Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(a) is not. But because of its juxtaposition with the word "judgment" and the term "entry of judgment," it would appear that the order referred to is one from which an appeal lies, whether or not it is signed. This construction appears to be strengthened by CodeCiv. Proc. § 664.5(d), which uses the word "ruling" instead of "order," and which refers to nonappealability, providing that on order of the court in any action or special proceeding, the clerk shall mail notice of entry of any judgment or ruling, whether or not appealable.

Whether or not the order is one of which the clerk is required to give notice under Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5, and whether or not it is written or appealable, counsel for the prevailing party must give notice of the court's decision or order granting or denying a motion to all other parties or their attorneys, in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1010 et seq. (see discussion under § 372.24 and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers), unless notice is waived by all parties in open court and is entered in the minutes [Code Civ. Proc. § 1019.5(a); for forms of notice, see §§ 372.66 -372.67A].

[23] Notice of Ruling on Court's Own Motion

When motion is granted or denied on the court's own motion, the court must give notice of its order in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1010 et seq. unless notice is waived by all parties in open court and is entered in the minutes [Code Civ. Proc. § 1019.5(b)].

[24] Electronic Judicial Signatures

If a document requires a signature by a court or a judicial officer, the document may be electronically signed in any manner permitted by law [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.257(e)].

Chapter 372 MOTIONS AND ORDERS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-372 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 372.22

§ 372.22 Procedures on Orders to Show Cause

An order to show cause is secured on ex parte application. The procedure to be followed for securing its issuance is the same as for securing an order on ex parte application [see discussion under § 372.19]. The subsequent hearing on the order to show cause is conducted in substantially the same way as a hearing on a noticed motion and the court is vested with power to admit or reject oral testimony in its discretion [Reifler v. Superior Court (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 479, 485, 114 Cal. Rptr. 356 ; see discussion under § 372.21[17] and [18]].

An order to show cause re contempt, however, is of a different character. Code Civ. Proc. § 1217 specifically provides that in matters of indirect contempt, the court may examine witnesses for and against the alleged contemner [Reifler v. Superior Court (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 479, 484-485, 114 Cal. Rptr. 356] . For procedures relating to contempt proceedings, see Ch. 135, Contempt .

33-372 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 372.23

§ 372.23 Inability of Judge to Hear Parties

When a notice of motion is given, or an order to show cause is made returnable before a judge out of court, and at the time fixed for the motion, or the return day of the order, the judge is unable to hear the parties, the matter may be transferred by his or her order to some other judge before whom it might originally have been brought [Code Civ. Proc. § 1006].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-372 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 372.24

§ 372.24 Service of Papers

[1] On Adverse Party or Attorney

Notices and other papers may be served on the party or attorney in the manner prescribed in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020 when not otherwise provided by the Code of Civil Procedure [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010].

If the party to be served resides outside California and has no attorney in the action or proceeding, service may be made on the court clerk for the party. But in all cases where a party has an attorney in the action or proceeding, notices and papers must be served on the attorney instead of on the party. If the party's sole attorney is removed or suspended from practice, the party has no attorney within the meaning of the foregoing provisions. If the party's sole attorney has no known office in this state, notices and papers may be served by leaving a copy of them with the court clerk unless the attorney has filed in the cause an address at which notices and papers may be served on him or her, in which event they may be served at that address [Code Civ. Proc. § 1015].

[2] Exception in Case of Nonappearing or Defaulting Party

A notice of motion need not be served on any party whose default has been duly entered or who has not appeared in the action or proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010]. Common acts constituting an appearance are enumerated in Code Civ. Proc. § 1014, which also provides that where a defendant has not appeared, service of notice or papers need not be made on him or her.

[3] Manners of Service

The manners in which papers may be served are set forth in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1011-1013, 1015, 1017, 1020, and proof of service by mail is covered by Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a. For further discussion of service of papers, time requirements, a procedural guide, and forms for use in making proof of service, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers . For discussion of modifying time requirements for service of papers, see Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time .

§ 372.25 Sanctions Relating to Motions and Orders

[1] Frivolous Motions, Harassment, and Delaying Tactics

In actions commenced after January 1, 1995 sanctions for frivolous motions, harassment, and delaying tactics are governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b), (i), (j)]. Section 128.7 requires the attorney of record, if any, to sign every written notice of motion or other similar paper [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)]. Presenting the paper to the court acts as a certification that the paper is not presented for an improper purpose and that it is not frivolous [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b)]. Violation of this provision may be the basis of sanctions [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(c)]. For detailed discussion of the grounds and procedure for imposing sanctions, and what sanctions may be imposed, see Ch. 510, Sanctions .

In actions commenced prior to 1995, Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 authorizes the court to order a party, his or her attorney, or both, to pay any reasonable expenses, includingattorney's fees, that are incurred by another party as a result of bad faith actions or tactics that are frivolous or solely intended to cause unnecessary delay [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5(a)]. "Actions or tactics" expressly include the making or opposing of motions [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5(b)(1)]. The imposition of expenses under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5 is subject to notice and other procedural requirements [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5(c)], and is in addition to any other liability for the same acts or omissions [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5(e)]. For further discussion of Section 128.5 sanctions, see Ch. 510, Sanctions .

[2] For Violation of Order

A judicial officer has the power to impose reasonable money sanctions, not exceeding $1,500, for a violation of a lawful court order that is without good cause or substantial justification, either by a witness, a party, his or her attorney, or both. This power does not apply to advocacy of counsel before the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5]. For further discussion of Section 177.5 sanctions, see Ch. 510, Sanctions .

[3] In Relation to Discovery

For discussion and forms relating to the imposition of monetary and other sanctions in connection with discovery motions and orders under the Civil Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016 et seq. (Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq.

operative July 1, 2005)] see Ch. 192, Discovery: Sanctions for Discovery Abuse .

33-372 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 372.44

§ 372.44 Decisions

[1] Appearance at Hearing

Code Civ. Proc. § 1005.5, providing that motion on all grounds stated in written notice thereof as deemed to have been made and to be pending before court for all purposes on due service and filing of notice of motion, but that this shall not deprive party of hearing of motion to which he or she is otherwise entitled, as modernizing procedure by abolishing absolute requirement of appearance in court but as protecting right of either party to appear and be heard. Ensher, Alexander & Barsoom v. Ensher (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 318, 324-325, 37 Cal. Rptr. 327

[2] Local Court Rules

Sanctions may be imposed for violation of local rules. Bergman v. Rifkind & Sterling, Inc. (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 1380, 1386, 278 Cal. Rptr. 583 (dicta; case imposed no sanction)

Local court rule that is inconsistent with statute is unenforceable and void. Wells Fargo Bank v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 918, 922-923, 254 Cal. Rptr. 68 (holding local rule void due to conflict with Code Civ. Proc. § 437c, relating to motions for summary judgments, in that it required increased notice periods for certain motions)

Local court rule requiring noticed motion when statute and Judicial Council rule authorized ex parte motion conflicts with statute and Judicial Council rule and is void. Lang v. Superior Court (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 510, 513-516, 200 Cal. Rptr. 526

[3] Notice as Process

Notice as "process" when it is given by authority of law for purpose of acquiring jurisdiction over defendant. Frey & Horgan Corp. v. Superior Court (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 401, 404, 55 P.2d 203

[4] Notice Generally

When statute prescribes certain kind of notice, court is not justified in saying that some other kind of notice would be equally effective. Smith v. Board of Supervisors (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 862, 876, 265 Cal. Rptr. 466

[5] Notice of Motion

General rule as being that notice of motion must be given whenever order sought may affect rights of adverse party. McDonald v. Severy (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 629, 631, 59 P.2d 98 ; Bohn v. Bohn (1913) 164 Cal. 532, 536, 129 P. 981 ; People ex rel. Dept. Public Wks. v. Loop (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 466, 474, 326 P.2d 902 ; Caledonian Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 458, 461, 295 P.2d 49

[6] Orders

[a] Appealability of Order

Appealability of void orders. Ivory v. Superior Court (1938) 12 Cal. 2d 455, 460-461, 85 P.2d 894

Legal effect of order as determinative of appealability. Nevada Constructors, Inc. v. Mariposa Pub. Utility Dist. (1952) 114 Cal. App. 2d 816, 818, 251 P.2d 53

[b] Construction of Order

Resort to notice of motion in construing order. Western Greyhound Lines v. Superior Court (1958) 165 Cal. App. 2d 216, 219, 331 P.2d 793

Effect of order as determinative of its character. Sager v. O'Connell (1951) 107 Cal. App. 2d 391, 394, 237 P.2d 59

[c] Entry and Effective Date of Order

When order becomes effective. Jablon v. Henneberger (1949) 33 Cal. 2d 773, 775-776, 205 P.2d 1 ; Miller v. Stein (1956) 145 Cal. App. 2d 381, 383-384, 302 P.2d 403

Essential elements for, and steps taken in, entry of order in court's permanent minutes. Desherow v. Rhodes (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 733, 741, 82 Cal. Rptr. 138 (disapproved on another point in Hollister Convalescent Hosp., Inc. v. Rico (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 660, 670-671, 125 Cal. Rptr. 757, 542 P.2d 1349)

[d] Form and Content of Order

Form and requisites of orders. Waller v. Weston (1899) 125 Cal. 201, 204, 57 P. 892 ; Cox v. Tyrone Power Enterprises (1942) 49 Cal. App. 2d 383, 389, 121 P.2d 829 ; Application of Gilreath (1959) 167 Cal. App. 2d 655, 656-657, 335 P.2d 203

[e] Nunc Pro Tunc Orders

Function of nunc pro tunc is not to make order now for then, but to enter now for then order previously made. Siegal v. Superior Court (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 97, 101, 65 Cal. Rptr. 311, 436 P.2d 311

Perfection of appeal does not deprive court of its inherent power to remedy clerical error by entering omitted order nunc pro tunc. Bed, Bath & Beyond of La Jolla, Inc. v. La Jolla Village Square Venture Partners (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 867, 883-884, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 830

Office of nunc pro tunc order is to cause record to show something done which was actually done but which by misprision or neglect was not at time entered in record and is not for purpose of declaring that something was done which was not done. City of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 766, 771, 70 Cal. Rptr. 826

Order directing clerk to enter defendant's default was proper, but its nunc pro tunc feature antedating order by eight months was invalid and ineffective to prevent defendant's motion for relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 473, relating to relief for mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect. Jonson v. Weinstein (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 954, 959, 58 Cal. Rptr. 32

[f] Vacating Order

Order as not subject to being vacated except on direct attack unless inadvertently made, incorrectly entered, or void on its face. Thompson v. Thompson (1966) 247 Cal. App. 2d 339, 342, 55 Cal. Rptr. 518

[7] Specifying Grounds on Which Motion Is Based

Failure to specify additional ground in notice of motion was properly disregarded when notice stated motion was based on accompanying papers and record and supplemental memorandum in support of motion addressed additional ground. Carrasco v. Craft (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 796, 808, 210 Cal. Rptr. 599

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS

33-372 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 372.50

§ 372.50 Noticed Motion--Moving Party

NOTE:

The following checklists are illustrative only of procedures commonly utilized and are not exhaustive. For procedures for motions seeking specific orders in particular actions or proceedings, see specific chapters in this set, such as Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees, Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments, Ch. 212, Dismissal, and Ch. 537, Summary Judgment.

[1] Facts to Be Ascertained

1. The facts which will establish the grounds of the motion and the evidence on which the motion will be based.

2. The names of the parties who have appeared in the action or proceeding [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010, 1014] in which the motion is to be made and, if they appeared in propria persona, their addresses or, if represented by counsel, the names and addresses of their attorneys of record [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1015].

3. The practice or rules of the court in which the action or proceeding is pending governing motion procedure generally and specifically the manner of securing a hearing date and time, the dates and times available, and the department or room number in which the motion will be heard.

NOTE:

Procedure varies widely among courts and is usually covered by local court rule or policy. Statewide rule does, however, require that the court clerk post a general schedule showing the days and departments for holding each type of law and motion hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1304(a)].

[2] Preparation of Papers

1. Prepare the notice of motion [for a form, see § 372.60] in the following number of copies:

a. Original for filing.

b. One copy for delivery to court clerk with original where filing in duplicate is required by local court rule.

c. One copy for each other party's attorney or for the party if appearing in propria persona.

NOTE:
Many attorneys, as a matter of courtesy, will send two copies to the adverse party's attorney, one for the attorney, and one for the attorney's client.

d. One office copy.

e. One copy for client, if desired.

f. Other copies as desired.

2. Prepare the affidavit or declaration under penalty of perjury in support of the motion [for a form, see § 372.61] in the same number of copies as the notice [see Paragraph (1), above].

3. If oral evidence is to be introduced, prepare a written statement setting forth the nature and extent of any oral evidence proposed to be introduced and a reasonable time estimate for the hearing [for a form, see § 372.62].

NOTE:
At the hearing, evidence will be received only by declaration, affidavit, and request for judicial notice, without testimony or cross examination, except as allowed in the court's discretion for good cause shown [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(a)].

The statement relating to oral evidence must be filed no later than three court days before the hearing, and if it is filed less than five court days before the hearing, counsel must serve a copy on the moving party in a manner to assure delivery to the moving party no later than two days before the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(b)].

4. Prepare the memorandum in support of the motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1110, 3.1113] in the same number of copies as the notice [see Paragraph (1), above]. For a skeletal form of memorandum and form, content, and style requirements, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities . For memoranda supporting specific motions, see the appropriate title in California Points And Authorities (Matthew Bender).

NOTE:
A memorandum of points and authorities is not always required [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114, see § 327.21[5][c]].

5. Prepare proof of service [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a; for forms of proof of service of papers, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

NOTE:
Proof of service by mail by counsel is made by a certificate signed by counsel [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(2)]. Proof of service by mail by a person other than counsel is made by affidavit, or declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5], of the person making the service [

Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(1)*].

The code fails to specify how proof of service pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1011 is to be made, but compliance with Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a, or with Code Civ. Proc. § 417.10(d) or 417.20(d) (written admission of party as, for example, by acknowledgment of receipt), would appear sufficient.

6. Sign the notice of motion. Although not required by statute or the California Rules of Court, counsel also normally signs the memorandum. Counsel has the person who made the declaration execute it, or, in the case of an affidavit, has the person subscribe and swear to its contents before an officer authorized to administer oaths [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2012, 2093].

7. Attach an unsigned copy of the proof of service to the papers to be served or:

a. If service is to be by mail or overnight service, note the date and place of mailing or deposit with the delivery service on the papers served [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(b), (d)].

b. If service is by facsimile transmission, note the date and place of transmission and the facsimile telephone number to which transmitted on the papers served [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(f)].

8. Serve, or cause to be served, a copy of the notice of motion and supporting papers, if any [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(a) (listing motions for which notice must be provided under Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b))], on counsel for each party who has appeared in the action or proceeding or, if a party has appeared in propria persona, on the party [Code Civ. Proc. § 1015], by one of the following methods [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010]:

a. Delivery in person or as otherwise provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1011.

NOTE:
Serve and file at least 16 court days before hearing date [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)].

b. Mail.

NOTE:
Extends 16-day period by five calendar days if place of mailing and address are both in California; by 10 calendar days if either place of mailing or address is outside California, but in the United States; or by 20 calendar days if either place of mailing or address is outside the United States [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)]. Service by mail is complete on the date of mailing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a)].

c. Facsimile transmission.

NOTE:
Extends 16-day period by two calendar days [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)].

d. Express Mail or other overnight delivery.

NOTE:
Extends 16-day period by two calendar days [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)].

e. Electronic service.

NOTE:
Extension of 16-day period by two court days [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6) (unclear whether notice period or period to respond is extended, or both)].

9. Prepare the certificate, affidavit, or declaration of service setting forth the exact titles of the papers served [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a; for aprocedural guide and forms for proof of service, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers], execute it or have it executed by the person who made service, or, in the case of an affidavit, before a person authorized by law to administer oaths, and attach the original to the original of the papers which were served.

10. Present the original notice and attached affidavit or declaration and memorandum to the clerk of the court for filing [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010] and request the clerk to fill in the date and time if that has not already been done by counsel and to place the motion on calendar.

NOTE:
"Serve and file" means that a document filed in a court must be accompanied by a proof of service, in a manner permitted by law, of one copy of the document on the attorney for each party separately represented and on each self-represented party [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.21(b)]. This procedure, however, may be varied by local court rule, and the rules of the court in which the cause is pending should be checked if counsel is unfamiliar with them. The same time limits apply to filing the moving and supporting papers as apply to serving them [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(a); see Paragraph (8), above]. Proof of service of the moving papers must be filed no later than five calendar days before the time appointed for the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 1.5(b), 3.1100, 3.1300(c); for discussion of apparent conflict between Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1300 and 1.21(b), see § 372.60[6][a]. Unless otherwise provided by local court rule, all papers relating to a law and motion proceeding must be filed in the clerk's office [Cal. Rules Ct., Rules 3.1100, 3.1300(c), 3.1302(a)] by the close of business on the day the paper is due [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(e); for discussion of late papers, see § 372.21[7].

The papers may be presented to the court clerk in person or by mail at the convenience of counsel. If presented personally, counsel's office copy is file-stamped at that time and if the papers are presented by mail, a request is usually included, with a self-addressed stamped envelope, to return a file-stamped copy to counsel.

11. Pay the filing fee when the papers are presented for filing.

NOTE:
The fee is $40 [Gov. Code § 70617; for exceptions, see discussion under § 372.18].

12. If the motion is opposed, examine any affidavits, declarations, or memoranda filed by the opposing party and, if time permits, prepare in the same number of copies as the original and serve and file a reply memorandum of points and authorities, if permitted, with proof of service, in reply to the opposing party's memorandum. Local practice may vary, but usually a reply memorandum should be filed directly with the clerk of the law and motion department or division, rather than in the office of the court clerk, so that the court will have sufficient time to consider the memorandum prior to the hearing on the motion. For a skeletal form of memorandum and form, content, and style requirements, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

NOTE:
Generally, reply papers must be filed and a copy served at least five court days before the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005 (b), (c); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(a); but see Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6) (two court day extension if opposition papers were electronically served)].

13. If counsel does not intend to appear at the hearing, draft the notice of nonappearance in the same number of copies as the notice of motion and serve and file it, if this has not yet been done.

NOTE:

A party may give notice that he or she will not appear at a law and motion hearing and submit the matter without an appearance unless the court orders otherwise [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1304(c)]. The court must rule on the motion as if the party had appeared [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1304(c)].

[3] Hearing and Order

1. Ascertain the court's tentative ruling, if available, prior to the hearing.

NOTE:

In many courts, the court's tentative ruling may be obtained by counsel prior to the time scheduled for the hearing. [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1308; repealed].

2. If the matter is pending in a court that does not advise counsel of tentative rulings before the hearing, and the motion is unopposed, prepare the order granting the motion [see Paragraph (5), below] and present it to the court at the time of hearing for the judge's signature and for filing.

NOTE:

Counsel may also consider preparing the order in advance of the hearing, if the desired order will contain particular or detailed wording, so that counsel can recommend to the court the exact wording of the order if the court grants the motion. This procedure may avoid later disputes with opposing counsel as to the wording of the court order which may require an additional hearing to resolve.

If the order is prepared in advance and if the court grants the motion and adopts the recommended wording, the order may be presented to the court for signing and filing at the hearing.

3. Unless counsel has given notice of nonappearance [see [2], Paragraph (13), above], counsel for the moving party attends the hearing, briefly advises the court of the order requested, and presents oral argument in support of the motion. Counsel for the moving party may also present argument in opposition to any affidavit or declaration or memorandum served and filed by the opposing party.

NOTE:

If a party has requested the court to take judicial notice under Evid. Code § 452 or 453 of material that is a part of a file in the court in which the matter is being heard, the party must specify in writing the part of the file sought to be judicially noticed and make arrangements with the clerk to havethe file in the courtroom at the time of the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(c)].

Statute provides that counsel have the option of appearing by telephone in nonevidentiary law and motion hearings and conferences and requires every court to provide for appearances of counsel in those hearings and conferences by telephone [Code Civ. Proc. § 367.5]. If counsel wishes to make a telephone appearance, he or she should consult the court's local rules or check with the clerk of that court to ascertain the procedure and costs. For further discussion, see § 372.21[16].

4. After argument by opposing counsel, counsel for the moving party may rebut that argument and submit the matter to the court.

5. If the motion is granted and counsel for the moving party has not already done so, he or she prepares the order granting the motion [for forms, see §§ 372.64, 372.65] in the same number of copies as the notice of motion [see [2], Paragraph (1), above].

NOTE:
Some courts may require counsel preparing the order to submit it to opposing counsel for approval as to form before the order is presented to the court for signature. In such case, the notation "Approved as to form" appears at the bottom of the order and under it, the date and a place for counsel's signature appear. The order is then mailed to opposing counsel with a request that he or she sign the original and return it to counsel for the moving party.

6. Present the original and copies of the order to the clerk of the court or a deputy clerk, or to the judge's courtroom clerk, depending on local practice, with the request that he or she obtain the judge's signature, conform the copies, and file the original.

7. Deliver or send a conformed copy of the order to opposing counsel. Counsel for the prevailing party must also send or deliver notice of the court's decision or order to all other parties or their attorneys [Code Civ. Proc. § 1019.5(a); for a form, see § 372.67].

NOTE:
Local court rules or practice should be consulted to determine if additional notice may be required.

8. If order is appealable, the action or proceeding is contested, and the prevailing party is represented by counsel, prepare a notice of entry of order granting motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5; for forms, see §§ 372.66, 372.67A], mail a copy to all parties who have appeared, and present the original with proof of service to the court clerk, or a deputy court clerk, for filing. For procedure for serving and filing, see [2], Paragraphs (7)-(10), above.

NOTE:
If the order is intended to be used subsequently as the basis for the contempt proceedings for noncompliance therewith, personal service of the order on the party may be necessary. For discussion of the requirements relating to the mailing of notice of entry of a signed appealable order under Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5, see § 372.21[22].

Chapter 372 MOTIONS AND ORDERS
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS

33-372 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 372.51

§ 372.51 Noticed Motion--Opposing Party

[1] Preliminary Determinations

1. Examine the notice of motion to determine whether or not it has been timely given and the precise nature of the order sought.

NOTE:
For discussion of the time requirements of notices of motion, see § 372.21[2] and [3]. For discussion of opposition procedure when motion papers are not properly served or inadequate notice of hearing is received, see § 372.21[1].

2. Examine the supporting affidavit or declaration to determine whether or not it sets forth evidentiary facts to which the affiant or declarant is competent to testify and whether or not such facts would support the order sought. Also, compare the statements made in the affidavit or declaration with other statements, if any, made by the affiant or declarant in verified pleadings or in a deposition or other document in which the statements were made on oath or under penalty of perjury, to see if there are any inconsistencies.

3. Examine the supporting memorandum to determine (1) whether or not the points made would support the order sought and (2) whether or not the authorities cited support the point made. If the answer to both is affirmative, counsel will shepardize the cases cited to determine if they are still the law and will check any statutes cited to see if they have been amended or repealed.

NOTE:
Points may be inaccurately stated or not supported by the authorities cited. Moreover, a case cited may superficially support the point in that it makes an identical or similar statement but actually holds that the statement is not applicable to the facts of that case, or that the case presents an exception to the rule. In such situation, the case is not authority for the statement made, but rather, an authority in opposition to it.

4. If counsel determines that the points stated are inaccurate or that the authorities cited do not support them, counsel should so note and include such contentions in the memorandum in opposition to the motion.

5. If the motion is well taken, counsel will determine the advisability of not opposing it or of stipulating that the motion be granted and in such case may so advise counsel for the moving party.

[2] Preparation of Papers

NOTE:
Any opposition to a motion in a case having multiple parties must specifically identify the moving party and the motion being opposed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(6)].

1. Prepare a memorandum in opposition to the motion in the following number of copies:

a. Original for filing.

b. One copy to be filed with original if required by local court rule.

c. One copy for the moving party's attorney of record or for the moving party if appearing in propria persona.

d. One copy for the attorney of record of each other party who has appeared in the action or for the party if appearing in propria persona.

e. One office copy.

f. One copy for client, if desired.

g. Other copies as desired.

NOTE:
For a skeletal form of memorandum and form, content, and style requirements, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities . For memoranda opposing specific motions, see the appropriate title in California Points And Authorities (Matthew Bender).

2. If evidence in opposition to the motion is required, prepare the affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5), setting forth the evidence in opposition to the motion in the same number of copies as the memorandum, above.

3. If counsel for the opposing party wishes to introduce oral evidence, other than in rebuttal to any oral evidence presented by the moving party, prepare a written statement setting forth the nature and extent of the evidence proposed to be introduced and a reasonable time estimate for the hearing [for a form, see § 372.62].

NOTE:
At the hearing, evidence will only be received by declaration, affidavit, and request for judicial notice without testimony or cross examination, except as allowed in the court's discretion for good cause shown [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(a)].

4. Sign the memorandum and have the person making the declaration and who is competent to testify as to its contents sign it, or, in the case of an affidavit, have the person subscribe and swear to its contents before an officer authorized to administer oaths [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2012, 2093].

5. Serve and file the memorandum of points and authorities and, if any, affidavit, declaration, and/or statement relating to oral evidence. On serving and filing the papers, see § 372.50[2], Paragraphs 7-10.

NOTE:

All papers opposing a noticed motion be filed with the court and a copy served on each party at least nine court days before the time appointed for the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005 (b), (c); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(a); but see Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6) (two court day extension if moving papers were electronically served)]. The statement relating to oral evidence must be filed no later than three court days before the hearing, and if it is filed less than five court days before the hearing, counsel must serve a copy on the moving party in a manner to assure delivery to the moving party no later than two days before the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(b)]. The latest that a paper may be filed is at the close of business of the clerk's office on the day the paper is due [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(e)]. On the filing of late papers, see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(d) (discussed under § 372.21[7]).

6. If counsel does not intend to appear at the hearing, draft the notice of nonappearance in the same number of copies as the opposition papers and serve and file it.

NOTE:

A party may give notice that he or she will not appear at a law and motion hearing and submit the matter without an appearance unless the court orders otherwise [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1304(c)]. The court must rule on the motion as if the party had appeared [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1304(c)].

[3] Hearing and Order

1. Unless counsel has given notice of nonappearance [see [2], Paragraph 6, above], counsel for the opposing party attends the hearing and presents oral argument to the court as to why the motion should not be granted or why it should be granted in a limited or conditional manner.

NOTE:

If a party has requested the court to take judicial notice of material under Evid. Code § 452 or 453 that is a part of a file in the court in which the matter is being heard, the party must specify in writing the part of the file sought to be judicially noticed and make arrangements with the clerk to have the file in the courtroom at the time of the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(c)].

Every court must provide counsel the option of appearing by telephone in nonevidentiary law and motion and probate hearings and conferences [Code Civ. Proc. § 367.5]. Counsel should contact the clerk of the superior court in which an action is brought to ascertain whether a rule allowing telephone appearances has been adopted [see, e.g., San Francisco Uniform Local Ct. Rules, Rule 8.2(A)(3)]. For discussion of requirements and standards relating to teleconferencing, see § 372.21[16].

2. If the court denies the motion and a formal written order is required by the court, prepare the order denying the motion [for forms, see §§ 372.64, 372.65] in the same number of copies as the memorandum [see [2], above].

NOTE:

For the procedure for obtaining the judge's signature to the order, filing it, conforming the copies, and notifying opposing counsel of the entry of the order, see § 372.50[3], Paragraphs 6-8, above.

33-372 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 372.52

§ 372.52 Ex Parte Motion--Moving Party

[1] Facts to Be Ascertained

NOTE:
The facts to be ascertained are the same as those required for a noticed motion. See § 372.50[1].

[2] Preparation of Papers

1. Prepare the application, including the declaration relating to notice [for a form, see § 372.68], in the following number of copies:

a. Original for filing

b. One copy for filing with original if required by local court rule.

c. One copy for each other party's attorney of record or for the party if appearing in propria persona.

d. One office copy.

e. One copy for client, if desired.

f. Other copies as desired.

2. Prepare the order granting the motion [for a form, see § 372.69] in the same number of copies for the same distribution as the ex parte motion.

NOTE:
Unless the order is required by local court rule or practice to be set forth in a separate paper, it is normally appended at the end of the ex parte motion [for a form, see § 372.70].

3. Prepare the memorandum in the same number of copies and for the same distribution as the ex parte motion.

4. Sign the ex parte motion. Although not required by statute or the California Rules of Court, counsel also normally will sign the memorandum, if any.

[3] Notice

Notify opposing counsel, or the opposing party if not represented by counsel, not later than 10:00 a.m. the court day before the ex parte appearance, of the time and place the ex parte motion will be presented to the court and of the order sought [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1203; for discussion, see § 372.19[5]].

[4] Presentation of Motion

Practice varies among the courts with respect to the judge or department to which the application must be presented; counsel should consult local court rules or practice, if counsel is unfamiliar with them. For general discussion, see § 372.19[4]. In any case, appear personally unless the application is one of the following Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1207]:

1. Applications to file memoranda in excess of the applicable page limit.

2. Setting of hearing dates on alternative writs and orders to show cause.

3. Stipulations by the parties or other orders of the court.

4. Applications for extensions of time to serve pleadings.

[5] Filing and Service

1. If the court signs the order, the originals of the ex parte motion, any supporting papers, and the order itself will be retained for filing. Counsel should have the court or courtroom clerk, as the case may be, file-stamp the copies of the ex parte motion and conform the copies of the order by stamping the judge's name on them.

2. Counsel will serve, or cause to be served, a file-stamped copy of the ex parte motion and supporting papers, if any, and a conformed copy of the order on counsel for each party who has appeared in the action or proceeding, or on the party if he or she has appeared in propria persona. If representing the prevailing party, counsel must also give notice of the court's decision or order [for a form, see § 372.67] to all other parties or their attorneys [Code Civ. Proc. § 1019.5(a)].

NOTE:

Service may be made by mail [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1012, 1013] unless the local court rules require personal service, or the judge or commissioner in his or her order directs personal service, or the nature of the order is such as to require its prompt personal service, for example, an order shortening time for service of a notice of motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 1005.

[6] Proof of Service

NOTE:

The manner of making proof of service is the same as for making proof of service of a notice of motion. See § 372.50[2], Paragraph 9.

[7] Filing Proof of Service

Deliver the original of the proof of service to the court clerk for filing and have any retained copies file-stamped.

If counsel for the opposing party, or the opposing party appearing in propria persona, has any grounds of objection to the order sought, he or she may appear at the time and place where the ex parte motion is to be presented and present the objections. As is the case with the moving party, opposing counsel should, if unfamiliar with local practice, check the rules and practice of the court in which the motion will be made to ascertain any requirements or limitations imposed on the manner in which the objections are to be made.

§ 372.54 Written Motion Requiring Hearing--Moving Party

NOTE:
The following applies when a written motion, as opposed to a notice of motion, is used [for discussion, see § 372.16]. For procedures for use when a notice of motion is filed pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1010, see § 372.50.

[1] Facts to Be Ascertained

NOTE:
The facts to be ascertained are the same as those required for a noticed motion. See § 372.50[1].

[2] Preparation and Filing of Motion

1. Prepare the motion [for a form, see § 372.72] in the following number of copies:

a. Original for filing.

b. One copy for filing with original if required by local court rule.

c. One copy for each other party's attorney of record or for the party if appearing in propria persona.

d. One office copy.

e. One copy for client, if desired.

f. Other copies as desired.

2. Sign the motion.

3. Present the original, and extra copy if required by local court rule, of the motion to the court clerk or a deputy court clerk for filing and have the clerk file-stamp the copies.

4. Pay the filing fee.

NOTE:

The fee is $40 [Gov. Code § 70617; for exceptions, see § 372.18].

[3] Preparation of Notice of Hearing

Counsel will secure a hearing date from the court clerk, or deputy court clerk, or, depending on local court practice, will be notified of the hearing date by the court clerk, and will then prepare the notice of hearing [for a form, see § 372.73] in the same number of copies as the motion.

NOTE:

Statutes governing the particular motion or order sought may impose specific requirements. For example, Code Civ. Proc. § 484.330, relating to an application for a writ of attachment after a right to attach order has been issuedrequires that at least 15 days prior to the hearing on the application, a "notice of application and hearing" and a copy of the application must be served on the defendant. For the procedure to follow in applying for specified orders in probate proceedings, see Prob. Code § 1200 et seq.

[4] Service and Filing

1. Counsel will serve, or cause to be served, a copy of the notice of hearing, together with a file-stamped copy of the motion, on counsel for each party who has appeared in the action or proceeding, or if a party has appeared in propria persona, on the party [Code Civ. Proc. § 1015] by mail, facsimile transmission, or overnight delivery [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1012, 1013], or by delivery in person, or as otherwise provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1011. Papers served by mail, facsimile transmission, or overnight delivery should either bear a notation of the date and place of mailing or be accompanied by an unsigned copy of the affidavit, declaration [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5], or certificate of mailing, deposit, or transmission [see Paragraph 2, below], but this requirement is directory, not mandatory [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(b), (d), (f), (g)].

2. Prepare the affidavit, or declaration, or certificate of service setting forth the exact titles of the papers served [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a; for a procedural guide and forms of proof of service, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers], and execute it, or have it executed by the person who made service, or, in the case of an affidavit, before a person authorized by law to administer oaths.

3. Present the original of the notice of hearing, and a copy if required by local court rule, together with the original of the proof of service to the court clerk or a deputy court clerk for filing and have the clerk file-stamp the copies.

[5] Hearing and Order

1. Attend, briefly advise the court of the order requested, and present any evidence supporting the granting of the motion in addition to that set forth in the application by affidavit or under penalty of perjury.

2. If the motion is granted, prepare the order granting the motion in the same number of copies as the motion [see [2] Paragraph 1, above].

NOTE:

Some courts may require counsel preparing the order to submit it to opposing counsel for approval as to form before the order is presented to the court for signature. In such case, the notation "Approved as to form" appears at the bottom of the order and, under it, the date and a place for counsel's signature appear. The order is then mailed to opposing counsel with a request that he or she sign the original and return it to counsel for the moving party.

3. Present the original and copies of the order to the clerk, a deputy clerk of the court, or to the judge's courtroom clerk, depending on local practice, with the request that he or she obtain the judge's signature, conform the copies, and file the original.

4. Deliver or send a conformed copy of the order to opposing counsel with the notice set forth in Paragraph 5, below.

NOTE:

Local court rules or practice should be consulted to determine if additional notice may be required. For example, local court rules or practice may require that notice of the court's ruling be given by the prevailing party to all counsel of record and litigants appearing in propria persona unless otherwise ordered or unless notice is waived by all parties in open court.

5. Prepare a notice of entry of order granting the motion and serve a copy of it on opposing counsel and deliver the original with proof of service to the court clerk or a deputy clerk. For procedure for serving and filing, see [4], above.

NOTE:

For the requirements relating to notice of the court's decision or order under Code Civ. Proc. § 1019.5(a) and to mailing of notice of entry of a signed appealable order under Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5 see discussion under § 372.21[22].

§ 372.55 Written Motion Requiring Hearing--Opposing Party

Counsel for the opposing party should check the local court rules and practice of the court in which the motion has been filed to determine if there are any requirements imposed on the manner of presenting opposition. If there are, counsel must, of course, comply with them. If there are none, counsel will present his or her opposition to the motion at the hearing where he or she will also have the opportunity to cross examine any witnesses produced by the moving party [see, e.g., § 372.51[3]].

[2] Use of Form

The form of notice of motion set out in [1], above, is for use in giving notice that a motion for a specified order will be made on the date and at the time set forth in the form. As an illustration, the foregoing form gives notice of a motion to dismiss an action for failure to bring it to trial within five years [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.310, 583.360(a); see also Ch. 212, Dismissal].

However, if the court in which the cause is pending provides a printed form for use in making a specific motion, that form must be used.

[3] Contents

[a] Caption

[i] Information Required Under Case Number

This form contains a caption complying with the requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111. In addition, it meets the requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(b), which applies in all trial courts [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110].

Rule 3.1110(b) requires that the first page specify the following information immediately below the number of the case:

- The date, time, and location, if ascertainable, of any scheduled hearing and the name of the hearing judge, if ascertainable.

- The nature or title of any attached document other than an exhibit.
- The date of filing of the action.
- The trial date, if set.

If the paper is being filed in an action pending before a referee appointed pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 638 or 639, the word "Referee:" followed by the name of the referee must be noted below the case number [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(8)].

For a discussion of the manner of designating, in the caption, the nature of the papers [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(6)], see [4], below.

[ii] Telephone Appearance

A party that has provided notice generally may appear by telephone at a law and motion hearing if no witnesses will be called; or if witnesses will be called, the court determines a telephone appearance is appropriate [Code Civ. Proc. § 367.5(b);Cal.Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(c), (d), (e)(3)]. A party who wishes to appear by telephone must notice that intention by placing the phrase "Telephone Appearance" below the title of the moving, opposing, or reply papers (as illustrated in the caption to the above form), or, at least three court days before the appearance, notify the court and all other parties of the party's intent to appear by telephone. If the notice is oral, it must be given either in person or by telephone. If the notice is in writing, it must be given by filing a "Notice of Intent to Appear by Telephone" with the court at least three court days before the hearing and by serving the notice at the same time on all other parties by personal delivery, facsimile transmission, express mail, or other means reasonably calculated to ensure delivery to the parties no later than the close of the next business day [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(g)(1)(A), (B)]. If a party has given notice that it intends to appear by telephone subsequently chooses to appear in person, the party must so notify the court and all other parties that have appeared in the action, by telephone, at least two court days before the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(g)(3)].

Counsel should check the local rules for the court in which an action is brought to ascertain the court's rules and policies governing telephone appearances. For discussion of teleconferencing procedures, see § 372.21[16].

For an alternative form of notice of intent to appear by telephone at a hearing on a motion or other matter, that is, by a separate notice, see § 372.63.

[iii] Multiple Parties

The California Rules of Court require only that any opposition in a case having multiple parties must specifically identify the moving party and the motion being opposed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(6)].

[iv] Reclassified Cases

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(10) specifies that if a case is reclassified by an amended complaint, cross-complaint, amended cross-complaint, or other pleading under Code Civ. Proc. § 403.020 or 403.030, the caption must indicate that the action or proceeding is reclassified by this pleading. If a case is reclassified by stipulation under Code Civ. Proc. § 403.050, the title of the stipulation must state that the action or proceeding is reclassified by this stipulation. The caption or title must state that the case is a limited civil case reclassified as an unlimited civil case, or an unlimited civil case reclassified as a limited civil case, or other words to that effect [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1110(10)].

[v] Additional Requirements

Local court rules have often contained additional requirements relating to the caption of papers, but the form and format of papers are governed exclusively by the California Rules of Court and to the extent local rules impose any conflicting or additional requirements regarding form or format, they should be considered null and void. Preemption extends generally to local rules relating to ex parte applications and motions as well as the form and format of papers, and is subject to several exceptions including rules adopted under the Trial Court Reduction Act [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.20].

[b] Body

[i] Required Elements

A motion and notice of motion, other than for a new trial, must identify the following:

- When it will be made [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010].
- The grounds on which it will be made [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1110(a), 3.1112(d)(3)].
- The papers, if any, on which it is to be based [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010].
- The party or parties bringing the motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1112(d)(1)].
- The names of the parties to whom it is addressed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1112(d)(2)].
- If a pleading is challenged, the specific portion challenged [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1112(d)(4)].

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(a) requires that a notice of motion state in the opening paragraph the nature of the order being sought and the grounds for issuance of the order. The form complies with this requirement. Any papers on which the motion is based [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1010] are identified in the second paragraph.

Formerly, a motion was made orally at the hearing. Technically this is no longer required, because Code Civ. Proc. § 1005.5 now provides that a motion is deemed to be made when its notice is served and filed. Code Civ. Proc. § 1005.5, however, is designed to stop the running of any applicable time limit on making the motion; it does not convert the oral motion into a written motion or affect the contents of the notice required under Code Civ. Proc. § 1010 [for further discussion, see § 372.21[8]]. Thus, the notice of motion continues to use the future tense in stating when the moving party "will move" for the order, on what grounds it "will be made," and on what papers it "will be based."

Any previously filed paper that might be referred to in the notice of motion or supporting papers must be referred to by date of execution and title [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(d)].

[ii] Hearing Date and Time

The local court rules and policies of the court in which the action is pending should, if counsel is unfamiliar with them, be checked to determine any local requirements with respect to the hearing. Some courts, for example, allow counsel to select the date and time of hearing of the motion from the dates and times the law and motion calendar is held. Other courts require that a hearing date and time be obtained from a court or courtroom clerk, or other designated clerk [see, e.g., Orange Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 520]. In selecting a hearing date, counsel will want to keep in mind that the general statute, unless otherwise ordered or specifically required by law, requiresat least 16 court days notice before the hearing, with extended periods when service is by mail, facsimile transmission, or overnight delivery [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(a); cf. Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6) (extension for electronic service); for discussion of Section 1005 notice, see § 372.21[2], [3]]. For discussion and forms for use in shortening the time to file and serve papers [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005, Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(b)], see Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time .

A maximum time limit in which to bring a motion may be imposed by statute [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 473.5 (motion to vacate and set aside default and default judgment and for leave to answer)] or by local court rule or policy. The effect of such a local court rule or policy, however, is questionable in light of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.20, under which all local court rules concerning pleadings, demurrers, ex parte applications, motions, discovery, provisional remedies, and form and format of papers are null and void unless otherwise permitted or required by statute or Judicial Council rule.

[iii] Department or Division

The clerk is required to post a general schedule showing the days and departments for holding each type of law and motion hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1304(a)]. In multiple judge courts, motions before trial are normally heard in the law and motion department or division, if any, or if the case has been assigned, in the department or division to which it has been assigned. This practice may be varied by local court rule or policy either generally or with respect to motions seeking particular orders or motions in specified actions or proceedings.

[iv] Grounds and Bases Distinguished

The grounds on which the motion is to be made are distinguished from the documentary and evidentiary bases for the motion. The grounds are the legal grounds authorizing the order sought [see also [4][e], below], whereas the bases of the motion are the papers and other evidence which will establish the grounds [see [4], below]. The grounds and bases should always be stated in separate paragraphs, as shown, to avoid confusing the two.

Only the grounds specified in the notice of motion may be considered by the court when hearing a noticed motion [Gonzales v. Superior Court (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1542, 1545, 235 Cal. Rptr. 106 ; see also [4][e], below].

[v] Records and File

With respect to the phrase "records and file herein" as used in the last paragraph of the body of the form, the word "file" refers to the court's file of the case (there is but a single file for each case, regardless of how many manila folders might be required to contain it, in which all papers submitted for filing in the case are placed) and the term "records" refers to the court's various records in which entries relating to the case are made (e.g., the court's register of actions, the minute book, the judgment book).

[c] Signing Notice of Motion

If the action or proceeding was commenced after January, 1995 and the party is represented by an attorney of record, at least one attorney of record must sign the notice of motion in the attorney's individual name [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a),(i), (j); see also § 372.25]. If the party is not represented by an attorney, the party must sign. The notice must state the signer's address and telephone number, if any [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)].

An unsigned paper will be stricken unless the omission is corrected promptly after being called to the attention of the attorney or party [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)].

Presenting the motion to the court, whether by signing, filing, submitting, or later advocating it constitutes a certification that the motion is not filed for an improper purpose or frivolous [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b)]. For discussion of the grounds and procedure for imposing sanctions, and what sanctions may be imposed, see Ch. 510, Sanctions .

Apart from this statutory requirement, case law requires notices of motion to be signed by the attorney of record (or by a person authorized to sign the attorney's name) [Caldwell v. Geldreich (1955) 137 Cal. App. 2d 78, 82, 289 P.2d 832] , and not by the party unless the party is appearing in propria persona [see Cowee v. Marsh (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 240, 244, 324 P.2d 553 ; McMahon v. Thomas (1896) 114 Cal. 588, 591, 46 P. 732 ; Harris v. Minnesota Inv. Co. (1928) 89 Cal. App. 396, 401, 265 P. 306 ; Jansson v. National Steamship Co. (1917) 34 Cal. App. 483, 486, 168 P. 151] .

[4] Papers on Which Motion Is Based

[a] Supporting Memorandum

A party filing a notice of motion, except for a new trial, is generally required to serve and file with it a supporting memorandum to be relied on [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1112(a), 3.1113(a); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1600(a) (timing for memorandum on motions for new trial)]. The absence of the memorandum may be construed by the court as an admission that the motion is not meritorious and cause for its denial [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a)]. Certain motions, applications and petitions do not require a memorandum when filed on a Judicial Council Form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114]. For discussion of when a memorandum of points and authorities is required, see § 327.21[5][c].

For a skeletal form of memorandum, requirements governing the form, content, and style of the memorandum, and local court rules, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities . For memoranda supporting various motions, see specific titles in California Points And Authorities (Matthew Bender).

[b] Affidavits and Declarations

A notice of motion may be supported by affidavits [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2002(1), 2003, 2009] or declarations under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1112(a), 3.1306(a); see § 372.61]. By analogy to Evid. Code § 700 (relating to qualification of witnesses), any person is qualified to make an affidavit or declaration in support of a motion [Flood v. Simpson (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 644, 649, 119 Cal. Rptr. 675 ; McLellan v. McLellan (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 343, 359-360, 100 Cal. Rptr. 258 ; see § 372.21[17]]. For illustrative forms of declarationssupporting specific motions, see the appropriate titles in this publication.

[c] Exhibits and Other Papers

Other papers, in addition to the memorandum and declarations may be submitted in support of a motion, including exhibits, appendices, or other documents or pleadings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1112(a)] and requests for judicial notice [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1113(l)].

Each exhibit must be separated by a hard 81/2-by-11 sheet with hard paper or plastic tabs extending below the bottom of the page, bearing the exhibit designation. An index to exhibits must be provided [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1110(f)].

Pages from a single deposition and associated exhibits must be designated as a single exhibit [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1110(f)].

If an exhibit is written in a foreign language, it must be accompanied by an English translation, certified under oath by a qualified interpreter [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1110(g)].

[d] Combining or Attaching Papers; Pagination; Defective Title

The papers filed in support of a motion, including the notice of motion, the declaration, and the memorandum, may be filed as separate documents or may be combined in one or more documents if they are identified in the caption of the combined pleading [Cal Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1112(c)]. If the papers are combined, the declaration normally follows immediately at the end of the notice of motion, and the memorandum follows the declaration. Documents bound together must be consecutively paginated [Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(c)]. When the three papers are combined, only the notice of motion carries a caption, designating as the nature of the document all of these papers [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(6)]. The purpose of this requirement is, of course, to assure that the filing of each paper is properly entered in the court's register of actions. If each paper carried its own caption, but was physically attached to the notice of motion, it is possible that only the filing of the notice of motion would be entered in the court's register.

If the papers are not combined or attached, each will carry its own caption.

An affidavit, declaration, notice, or other paper without the title of the action or proceeding in which it is made, or with a defective title, is, however, as valid and effectual for any purpose as if duly entitled if it intelligibly refers to the action or proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 1046].

All pages of each document and exhibit must be attached together at the top by a method that permits pages to be easily turned and the entire content of each page to be read [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1110(e)].

[e] Use of Supporting Papers to Amplify Grounds

It has been held that matters stated in the affidavits (declarations) or argument in support of the motion may not expand the nature and grounds of the motion itself; that, unless leave of court is obtained, the motion may not be made on any grounds other than those enumerated in the notice of the motion; that if new matter were permitted in the actual motion, a notice of motion would be reduced to little purpose other than to advise of the time and place of hearing; and that, actually, the notice of motion must also sufficiently define the issues for the information and attention of the adverse party and the court [Josephson v. Superior Court (1963) 219 Cal. App. 2d 354, 362, 33 Cal. Rptr. 196] .

On the other hand, it has been held that a notice is adequate if it fairly advises opposing counsel of the issues to be raised and that documents referred to in, and attached to the notice, may be considered in determining the adequacy of the notice of motion [Tarman v. Sherwin (1961) 189 Cal. App. 2d 49, 52, 10 Cal. Rptr. 787] . The court in Tarman acknowledged the rule stated in several cases that the notice of motion itself must set out the grounds, but pointed out that a long line of authority has held that affidavits accompanying a notice of motion, other documents in the court file, or affidavits and the memorandum filed with the notice, at least when specifically referred to in the notice, may be considered in amplification of the grounds stated in the notice and that it inclined to this rule [Tarman v. Sherwin (1961) 189 Cal. App. 2d 49, 51-52, 10 Cal. Rptr. 787] .

Given the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1010 and Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1110(a) and 3.1112(d), that the grounds of the motion be stated in the motion and notice of motion, clearly counsel should state specifically all the grounds on which the motion is to be based in the notice of motion and should not rely on the court to consider supporting papers to broaden the motion.

[5] When Motion Deemed Made

The motion is deemed to have been made and to be pending before the court on the due service and filing of the notice of motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005.5]. For further discussion, see § 372.21[8].

[6] Service and Proof of Service

[a] Notice of Motion

A notice of motion must be served and filed [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1005.5; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1112(a)

, 3.1300(a)]. "Serve and file" means that a document filed in a court must be accompanied by a proof of service, in a manner permitted by law, of one copy of the document on the attorney for each party separately represented and on each self-represented party [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.21(b)].

On the other hand, although Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(a) requires that all moving and supporting papers be served and filed in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 1005 (i.e., at least 16 court days before the hearing), Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(c) requires that proof of service of the moving papers be filed no later than five calendar days before the time appointed for the hearing. That is, the proof of service need not accompany the papers presented for filing. (It must, however, be kept in mind that under Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b), written notice of the motion must be given, i.e., served, at least 16 court days before the hearing,plus extended periods when service is by mail, facsimile transmission, or overnight delivery.) Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule3.1300(c), therefore, seems to contemplate the following sequence: (1) the papers are filed; (2) the papers are served; and (3) the proof of service is filed. If this is so, there appears to be a conflict between Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300 and Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.21(b).

[b] Supporting Papers

A copy of any paper on which the motion will be based that was not previously served on the party to be notified, and was not filed by that party, must accompany the notice of motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010]. In addition, Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) requires that the notice of motion be accompanied by all supporting papers [see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1113(a), 3.1300(a)].

[7] Duty of Counsel if Hearing Rescheduled

The moving party must promptly notify the court if a matter will not be heard on the scheduled date [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1304(b)].

[8] Nonappearance of Counsel

A party may give notice that he or she will not appear at a law and motion hearing and submit the matter without an appearance unless the court orders otherwise. The court shall rule on the motion as if the party had appeared [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1304(c)]. If a party fails to appear at the law and motion hearing without having given a notice of nonappearance as required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1304(c), the court may take the matter off calendar, to be reset only on motion, or the court may rule on the matter [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1304(d)].

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

The form of declaration set out in [1], above, outlines the format requirements of a declaration in support of a noticed motion [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2003 (affidavit defined), 2009, (use of affidavit in support of motion), 2015.5 (use of declaration in lieu of affidavit)].

[3] Format of Caption

The caption of an affidavit or declaration must state the name of the affiant or declarant and specifically identify the motion or other proceeding which it supports or opposes [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1115(a)].

In addition, the first page of each paper filed must specify immediately below the number of the case (1) the date, time, and location, if ascertainable, of any scheduled hearing and the name of the hearing judge, if ascertainable; (2) the nature or title of any attached document other than an exhibit; (3) the date of filing of the action; and (4) the trial date, if set [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(b); for further discussion, see § 372.60[4]].

[4] Content of Declaration

For discussion of the requirements of an affidavit or declaration, see § 372.60[4]. Any previously filed paper that might be referred to in the affidavit or declaration must be referred to by date of execution and title [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1110(d)].

[5] Evidence

Evidence received at a law and motion hearing must be by declaration or by request for judicial notice without testimony or cross-examination, unless the court orders otherwise for good cause shown [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(a)]. A party seeking permission to introduce oral evidence, except for oral evidence in rebuttal to oral evidence presented by the other party, must file, no later than three court days before the hearing, a written statement setting forth the nature and extent of the evidence proposed to be introduced and a reasonable time estimate for the hearing. When the statement is filed less than five court days before the hearing, the filing party must serve a copy on the other parties in a manner to assure delivery to the other parties no later than two days before the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(b)]. For a form of statement, see § 372.62.

A party requesting judicial notice of material under Evid. Code § 452 or 453 must provide the court and each party with a copy of the material. If the material is part of a file in the court in which the matter is being heard, the party must specify in writing the part of the file sought to be judicially noticed and make arrangements with the clerk to have the file in the courtroom at the time of the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1306(c)]. The request for judicial notice must in a separate document [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(l)]. For discussion and forms relating to judicial notice, see Ch.

321, Judicial Notice .

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, Cal. Judicial Council Form CIV-020, Notice of Intent to Appear by Telephone, is an optional form available for use as of July 1, 2010. A party choosing to appear at a hearing, conference or proceeding must provide notice to the other parties pursuant to Cal. Rules of Court, Rule 3.670(g). For a fillable version of this form in electronic format, see LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexis.com/forms.

The notice must be served and filed at least three court days before the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(g)(1)(B)].

As an alternative to a separate notice, a party may place the phrase "Telephone Appearance" below the title of the moving or opposing papers [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(g)(1)(A); see § 372.60].

If a party who notices a telephone appearance subsequently chooses to appear in person, that party must notify the court and the other parties by telephone at least two court days before the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.670(g)(3)].

For further discussion regarding appearance by telephone, see § 372.21[16].

sought].

[OR]

IT IS ORDERED that the motion be, and hereby is, denied.

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The form of order set out in [1], above, outlines the format requirements of an order granting or denying a motion [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1003, 1064 (order defined)]. Written formal orders are ordinarily required if the motion is granted, but not if the motion is denied [see § 372.21[18], [20] -[22]]. If the court in which the cause is pending provides a printed form for use in granting a particular motion, that form must, of course, be used.

[3] Content

The form contains a caption [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111]. It identifies the moving party, the order sought, the date of the hearing, and the names of counsel for the appearing parties, and sets forth the particular order granted or the court's ruling denying the motion. The order is also dated and contains the judge's signature.

The order does not include findings in accordance with the general rule that, unless required by statute or case law with respect to a specific order, findings have no place in an order granting or denying a motion [see § 372.21[18]]. For a form of order with findings, see § 372.65.

[Caption. See § 372.64[1].]

The motion of _____ [identify party, e.g., defendant] _____ [name] for an order _____ [specify] came on regularly for hearing by the court on _____ [date]. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

The Court, having considered the _____ [affidavit or declaration] and other documents in support of and in opposition to the motion, having heard the arguments of counsel, and being fully advised in the matter, finds as follows: _____ [set out specific finding or findings required].

IT IS, THEREFORE, ORDERED that the motion be, and hereby is, granted and that _____ [set out particular order sought].
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The form of order set out in [1], above, illustrates the manner in which findings are set forth in an order that, by statute or case law, may be granted only on the finding by the court of a specific fact or facts.

For example, Code Civ. Proc. § 473.5 authorizes the court to set aside a default or default judgment on such terms as may be just and to allow the defendant to defend the action only on a finding that the defendant's motion to set aside the default or default judgment was made within the period permitted by Code Civ. Proc. § 473.5(a), and that defendant's lack of actual notice of the action in time to defend was not caused by his or her avoidance of service of summons or inexcusable neglect [Code Civ. Proc. § 473.5(c)].

Another example is Fam. Code § 3020 et seq., relating to child custody. That section provides that before the court makes any order awarding custody to a person other than a parent, without the parents' consent, it must make a finding that an award of custody to a parent would be detrimental to the child and that the award to a nonparent is required to serve the child's best interests [Fam. Code § 3041].

For further discussion of orders, see § 372.64[2] et seq.

[2] Use of Form

The form of notice in [1], above, is for use by the party prevailing on a motion to give notice of the court's ruling or order to all other parties who have appeared in the action or proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1010 (notices in general)]. For discussion of when the notice is required, see § 372.21[22].

[3] Multiple Parties

In a case having multiple parties, any notice of a court's ruling or order on a motion served by a party must name the moving party, the party against whom relief was requested, and specifically identify the particular motion ruled on [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 1.5(b), 3.1103(b), 3.1109].

[4] Who Is Entitled to Notice

No notice or other paper, other than amendments to the pleadings or an amended pleading, need be served on any party whose default has been duly entered or who has not appeared in the action or proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1014 (service of notice and papers need not be made on a defendant who has not appeared)]. But a defendant, after appearance, or his or her attorney [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1015], is entitled to notice of all subsequent proceedings of which notice is required to be given [Code Civ. Proc. § 1014].

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, outlines the format and content of a written ex parte motion or application. Whether it should be referred to as a motion or an application depends on the language used in the statute or rule authorizing the particular motion or the relief sought.

If the court in which the action is pending provides a printed form for use in making the particular ex parte motion, that form must be used.

For a form of ex parte motion for an order revoking a prior order, see Ch. 374, Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions .

For forms of orders granting an ex parte motion, see §§ 372.69 and 372.70. For a form of order to show cause that may be issued in response to an ex parte motion or application, see § 372.71.

[3] Contents of Application

Although the declaration in support of the motion [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2009, 2015.5] may be set forth separately, when the application and declaration are made by the same person, they are sometimes combined into a single paper. The form illustrates both alternatives.

The application must include a full disclosure of any prior applications of the same character or for the same relief that have been refused by the court in whole or in part, even if the current application is made on an alleged different state of facts. Both the prior applications and the courts actions must be disclosed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.120(b)]. The three optional sentences enclosed in brackets in unnumbered paragraph at the beginning of the form should be used if there have been prior applications that must be disclosed.

The application must state the name, address, and telephone number of any attorney known to the applicant to be an attorney for any party or, if no such attorney is known, the name, address, and telephone number of any unrepresented parties, if known to the applicant [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1202(a)]. Paragraph 2 of the declaration includes this information. Paragraph 2 reflects only one party. The form should be modified to list this information with respect to all parties where there is more than one that must be listed.

The application must include a declaration of notice [see [4], below], including the date, time, manner, and name of the party informed, the relief sought, any response, and whether opposition is expected, or a declaration stating reasons why notice should not be required [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(b); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(a) (requiring declaration of notice, attempted notice, or reasons for not being required to give notice)]. The form includes this information in the alternative Paragraphs 3 (Paragraphs 3 and 4, in the case of the first alternative).

The application must make an affirmative factual showing in a declaration containing competent testimony based on personal knowledge of irreparable harm, immediate danger, or any other statutory basis for granting relief ex parte [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1202(c)]. Paragraph 5 of the form provides a place for this information.This paragraph may need to be renumbered depending on which prior alternative paragraphs of the form are used.

Paragraph 6 of the form indicates where to begin the paragraphs setting forth the factual support for the substantive relief sought. This paragraph may need to be renumbered depending on which prior alternative paragraphs of the form are used. The information may be set out in as paragraphs as need, and may be set out in a completely separate declaration, if desired. This would often be done separately, particularly when this part of the declaration is being made by someone other than the attorney for the moving party. For forms of declarations to support the substantive basis of the application, see specific subject matter titles throughout this publication.

[4] Notice Requirement

A party seeking an ex parte order must notify all parties no later than 10:00 a.m. the court day before the ex parte appearance [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1203(a)].

An application for an order shall not be made ex parte unless it appears by affidavit or declaration (1) that, within a reasonable time before the application, the party informed the opposing party or the opposing party's attorney when and where the application would be made; or (2) that the party in good faith attempted to inform the opposing party and the opposing party's attorney but was unable to do so, specifying the efforts made to inform them; or (3) that, for reasons specified, the party should not be required to inform the opposing party or the opposing party's attorney [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(b); see also [3], above].

[5] Accompanying Papers

Ex parte applications must be supported by a memorandum [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1201]. For forms of memoranda, see the chapter in California Points And Authorities that relates to the particular subject matter of the application.

The application must include a proposed order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1201]. For forms of proposed order, see §§ 372.69 and 372.70.

[6] Local Court Rules

Local court rules have often imposed requirements on the manner of presenting ex parte motions and should be checked if counsel is unfamiliar with them. Many local rules relating to ex parte applications and to the form or format of papers, however, are preempted by the California Rules of Court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.20].

To _____ [identify party, e.g., defendant] _____ [name]:

The ex parte application for an order _____ [specify, e.g., appointing a receiver] being before this court, and good cause appearing therefor, [and _____ (specify, e.g., plaintiff) having on _____ [date], filed an undertaking in the amount of $_____ as provided by Section 566 of the Code of Civil Procedure, and this court having appointed _____ (name) of _____ (city), California, a receiver for the following described property: _____ (describe)],

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that _____ [specify, e.g., defendant] _____ [name] appear on _____ [date], at _____ [time] in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [address and room number, if any], _____ [city], then and there to show cause, if any he/she/it has, why the _____ [appointment of the receiver should not be confirmed or order(s) sought by the attached application should not be granted].

[This order shall be served on _____ (specify, e.g., defendant) _____ (name) by delivering a copy of it, together with a copy of the application attached, at least _____ days prior to _____ (date of hearing)].
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, outlines the requirements of an order to show cause and is for use where the order to show cause, in lieu of a notice of motion, is authorized or required, or where the party against whom it is directed has not yet appeared in the action or proceeding [see discussion under §§ 372.17 and 372.22].

[3] Application for Order

An order to show cause is secured on ex parte application [for a form of application, see § 372.68]. The application, like the affidavit or declaration submitted in support of a noticed motion, must set forth evidentiary facts that would justify issuance of the order. Since the order to show cause is a form of notice of motion, the application should, except where the facts are simple and the right to the order clear, be supported by a memorandum of points and authorities [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1110, 3.1113(a)], and this is sometimes expressly required [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 527 (order to show cause in re preliminary injunction); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1176 (order to show cause why ex parte appointment of receiver should not be confirmed)].

Attorney for _____ [moving party]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, illustrates the format of a written motion [for forms of written ex parte motions, see § 372.68]. Unlike a notice of motion [for a form, see § 372.60], but like ex parte motions, a written motion may, as a matter of practice, combine the application for the order with the affidavit [Code Civ. Proc. § 2009] or declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5] establishing the ground or grounds of the motion. For the format to follow when the facts supporting the granting of the motion are set forth in a declaration separate from the motion, see § 372.68.

The titling of the paper as a motion, application, request, or petition follows the language of the statute authorizing either it or the relief sought.

The motion must identify the party or parties bringing the motion, name the parties to whom it is addressed, and if it challenges a pleading, identify the specific portion challenged [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1112(d)].

[3] Accompanying Papers

The motion generally must be accompanied by a notice of hearing on the motion [see § 372.73] and a memorandum. Certain motions, applications and petitions do not require a memorandum of when filed on a Judicial Council Form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1114]. For discussion of when a memorandum of points and authorities is required, see § 327.21[5][c]. It may also be accompanied by other papers, including declarations, exhibits, or appendices [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1112(b)].

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by counsel for the moving party to give notice to the adverse party and his or her attorney that a motion has been filed and that it will be heard on the date and at the time specified [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1010 (requirement that notice be in writing); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1011 et seq. (service of notices)]. The statutes governing the particular motion or the relief sought may, however, require inclusion in the notice of additional statements [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 484.050 (notice of application and hearing in attachment proceeding)] and counsel should, if unfamiliar with them, check them before the notice is drafted.
